Just seeing how the administrative offices were settled—they are a non-profit facility, which to an extent would go hand in hand with part of my good friend's motion. They rely on a lot of contributions from within the community and from the national community as well. The government, that is, the Labour Government now in power, also gives a grant or contribution to the facility.

They have in operation five places of safety, which I was not able to see because of the element of confidentiality, but was able to discuss the administrative ambit of these centres. They basically work by these women actually being referred to the centre or because the centre is located in the midst of a very rough section of London, there are a lot of different races and a lot of stresses from a cultural perspective, so, they see all sorts of problems arising from the crime of domestic violence.

One thing that I found quite interesting was that the administrative office was modern enough in their thinking to include a play area for the children. It was quite interesting. When I asked as to the reasoning behind such social and modern forward thinking it was explained that often times when the parents or the mother come in it is better for the children to be in a supervised area to play so that she can actually concentrate on herself and the possible remedies and solutions that she can get from the experts or professionals there, rather than having to quiet a child who is already stressed out and shift the real concentration of the problem.

So, I would hope that whether it is myself or whoever comes along to take up the responsibility would also include a play area within the actual administrative framework so that when parents or the mother comes in, the children could also be well catered to. It would actually go from a psychological standpoint to show that the whole family unit is being considered and indeed that the children are of paramount consideration as should be the case.

I was also able to look at the literature and pamphlets that they had there. In fact, I brought back quite a few with me. I have had communication and will be making arrangements for at least one of the staff members to come down and speak at the Women's Resource Centre so that we can get further insight as to how a facility is actually managed in the UK and perhaps streamline it to suit our situation here within the Cayman Islands.

Mr. Speaker, being a woman myself and having been quite close to the issue, I can fully concur with the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town as well as the seconder of the motion in that this is an issue that is not just a woman's issue and something that women come to Parliament and make a lot of noise about. I believe that the woman and the children are basic fundamental units within the community and that any successful community must take care of them.

Yes, I do believe that men play a vital part in the community and we are not here on a man-bashing exercise. It is an issue of domestic violence where we find that there are more women being abused than men.

So, I am happy that I can fully support the issue being raised to show the concern of the lady members within this honourable parliament. I am sure the silent support (or silent thus far) of our honourable male colleagues is for properly financing this request when it comes before this honourable house.

Before concluding, I would ask that if there are any members who have suggestions and/or recommendations as to how the safe house should be established or funded, or how we can go about marrying the union of the private sector and government in the realisation of such needed facility, the Ministry of Community Affairs and Women, et cetera, would be most open and indeed would welcome any comments and suggestions in this regard. We do not claim to have a monopoly of knowledge in this respect or indeed any other respect.

Again, I would like to thank the mover and the seconder for this most important motion and I look forward to the day that we can actually see the shelter providing the needed service that it should. I wish I could say that I look forward to the day when there is no need for such a shelter, but being a realist I realise that would be asking for a Utopian state and I have not reached such an optimistic level as yet.

With those comments I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The floor is open for debate. Does any other member wish to speak? The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: One would probably say that there is nothing more that can be said on this motion having listened to the mover, the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, and the Honourable Minister responsible for Women Affairs.

Mr. Speaker, I really thought that one of my male colleagues would have stood up and supported this motion seeing that November is just around the corner. My honourable colleague from George Town, the Fourth Elected Member, has now promised me that he will stand up and defend this motion as the ladies have. That is one way of bringing them out—isn't it?

The problem of domestic abuse is not only a Cayman Islands problem, it is a global problem and as we have heard from the mover and the Minister responsible for Women Affairs, countries around the world are trying to fight this problem in more ways than one.

The Second Elected Member from Bodden Town quoted statistics (which I will not repeat), but those statistics have been quoted in this Parliament by myself on numerous occasions trying to seek a place of safety for battered women.

I am indeed happy this evening that the Honourable Minister has accepted this motion. I say on behalf of the government but I say on behalf of the battered women in the Cayman Islands and the abused children.

When the former Third Elected Member for George Town [Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy] and I brought Private Member's Motion No. 1/95 to set up a Women's Affairs Office, the domestic abuse in this country at that time was one of the main reasons for us bringing that motion. That motion coming into effect has made women realise that there were some people out there who were concerned and this is why we are able to quote statistics in this parliament today.

I remember clearly, that motion was passed in March 1995, and by April 1995 over 200 cases of domestic violence had been reported to the police. So, this is no new subject for me as a lady member in this Parliament because I have been fighting for this for a long time. I am not advocating the separation of family, sir, but this place of safety would give one an opportunity to remove the abused to a place of safety with the children whom in my opinion suffer more than anyone else, and, to take the abuser where they can get counselling. Normally, whoever abuses, whether it is the woman or man, is in a fit of anger. This is where the abuse starts in my opinion. So, we must provide counselling for anger management, counselling for the trauma for the person who has gone through it.

You know, Mr. Speaker, as I just said, the children suffer more in these situations than anyone else. When I was given statistics on child abuse in these islands from 1991 to 2000, I was shocked that we had 139 cases of child abuse. In my opinion, the majority of these cases probably stemmed from domestic abuse within the family.

Where do the police take the person abused when they are called to intervene in a domestic violence situation? This is why we need a place of safety that the Police can take these people to a safe house where they can provide temporary lodging for the abused women, children, men, rape victims and the list goes on.

It has been proven that children who witness violence may experience depression, anxiety, eating problems, heightened aggression, difficulties with concentration and stress-related illnesses—these could be short-term or long-term. We have heard in this parliament on numerous occasions, we have read in the newspaper of the problems we are having with our children in schools today. Has anyone looked into this situation to see that these children who are causing these problems may not have come from homes where domestic violence was in abundance?

It is a chain, and we must break that chain. We must educate our children in schools that abuse is not a way of life. We can no longer sit back and leave these things until children have become adults. It must be taken into the school system that we can teach these children how to treat one another.

A place of safety that can provide a non-threatening or less threatening environment to conduct interviews with abused persons whether they be women, men, children, or rape victims, rather than the bustling police station in my opinion is a much better place to carry out these.

The Honourable Minister made mention of the family unit to be set up within the police department. Having brought that motion to set up a family unit within the police department and outside the police station, and the officers to be in charge should be women, I think, will help us when we have to counsel these women, interview and they may be more prepared to come forward.

In closing, I say violence against women will not be prevented without women being empowered to control their own lives. And until we can empower the women of these islands where they can go out there and get jobs and not have to depend on that pay cheque to help feed the children, we will always have that problem of women not coming forward or wanting to be removed from the situation.

Once again, I would like to thank the Honourable Minister and the government for accepting this motion to at last provide a safe house for battered women.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I just wanted to actually make sure that there is a male voice to this concern.

What happens in society and society's preoccupation with its problems is that although we have the capability to define social problems we often lack the resolve to doctor, to cure these problems. One reason being is that every problem will demand a solution, and the solution will have to also demand that resources be made available.

Once we talk about resources, we are talking pocket books; we are talking about somebody having to pay. We have very ably got up here today and we have done very good social legislation. But at the end it seems that we have a parliament that is acting like it is Christmas but we don't know who Santa Claus is as yet and who is going to pay for it all. It is great that we can get up here and talk about the safe house for battered women, the retirement pay for senior employees and all the other things. But are we also willing to get up at one particular point and take responsibility—not for saying that we have done these things—but that we have caused the need for the treasury of this country to collect more money to pay for these?

I believe that there are certain things that are important enough for me to get the blame for having persuaded government to increase fees in order to cover expenses. Obviously, I think that when government is accepting legislation, government is planning more social programmes and getting involved in more recurrent expenditure, they should be looking at how it is going to pay for these things. It sounds good to always say that we are somehow empowered to do things for the community. But it is the community that really does the things for itself. They have to pay for it—not us, the legislators not the government.

So, when we come to the question of establishing a safe house for battered women, one of the first things we see is the Minister of Community Affairs saying that she would like to see one for Cayman Brac. Probably the member from North Side might want to see one in the eastern districts. The Minister of Community Affairs says that she would prefer not one safe house but safe houses (plural). I am not saying that this is not a priority but when—

POINT OF ORDER

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, please.

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I did not say that I expect a safe house in the eastern districts. If we look at the statistics the district of North Side has the least number of abused persons.

The Speaker: I think he was just referring to the Honourable Minister as wanting one for Cayman Brac and you may want. I don't think he said that you did. I don't think he quoted you so that is not a point of order.

Please continue.

Dr. Frank McField: Mr. Speaker, if the member had really been listening to me after she challenged men to speak, she would have known exactly what I said and would not—

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Mr. Speaker, I am not going to have an argument. I was listening, that's why I came back in here. I was in the Common Room.

The Speaker: We can call for the Hansard if you would like, but that is what the man said. Please continue.

Dr. Frank McField: If we are looking for a solution with regard to domestic violence and battered women we have to be asking to what degree do we have to do something in order for it to really count. In other words, how large will the first home for battered women have to be? How many children will one battered woman, for instance, have? How long will that person be allowed to stay there?

The Minister for Community Affairs also mentioned the fact that affordable housing was also a complementary solution. So, the house for battered women itself will not act as a solution without the complementary aspects of creating viable alternatives for women. That's the point I am trying to make here.

Now, if we look at the way we are moving away from community solutions, where the community is involved in finding the solutions for social problems, to the areas where the state is being asked to be responsible for providing solutions, what we are talking about is actually the institutionalisation of problem-solving with regard to social problems in our community.

If dealing with domestic violence and battered women becomes part of the institutionalisation of the whole concept of problem solving, we have to ask ourselves . . . for instance, if we were to set up a home in terms of the first one or two homes, what type of women would we be looking at? Because the social class and the education status of the woman can be very important in terms of the woman's dependence on the abuser.

So, if we have a woman, for instance, who is trapped in a relationship where she gets pregnant when she is 18 or 20 years old, and she has two or three children and has to go into this safe house for battered women and children, how many children will she be able to carry? What would be the dynamics of having families of single mothers, for instance, in this particular environment? What would be the way in which we begin to use that centre as a place to discover about the personalities and the sociology of the individuals that have come to seek safety?

Once we have given those persons this original safety, where do we go on from there to provide them with additional safety? Obviously, if the problem stems from the woman being dependent upon a male abuser, the fact that she comes to this safe house means that there must be someplace else that she has to go after the safe house, because this is only a transitory stage. What is the next stage? What is the plan there?

It looks good to create a safe house for battered women and children, but what is the next step? Do they come from being battered to going back to the home? They have to go someplace after they have found safety, after we have given them the possibility to get away from the violence, the immediacy of the violent action on the part of the men. Then we have to be able to prepare them and to assist them with finding accommodations, with finding jobs, if necessary with finding access to adult education, with finding money for school lunches.

Now, the interesting thing about a society that has no taxes, a society that still looks towards welfare, somehow because of the communal basis of our society and because of the caring nature of our society . . . the care is only going to be possible if we are willing to spend the resources to be able to establish not just insular solutions but to give the solutions an inter-disciplinary approach. There must be an interdisciplinary approach to the question of domestic violence and battered women since they are not going to live in isolation.

We have to understand that the reintegration of these individuals is important but what are we going to reintegrate them back into? The same environment that they just came into? If we are not going to do that what different environment will we have been empowered, by way of our resources and by way of our strategies, to integrate them into?

I have written about domestic violence. I wrote about it in Time Longer dan Rope, I wrote about it in Down Side-up—these plays. I understand about domestic violence. Because I am a man does not mean that I was not a child. And if what we are saying is that children are the person affected by domestic violence, we are not saying female children only, we are saying children. I think that is important because anyone who has experience in domestic violence knows it is not something that affects females alone. As children many of us in our community were affected by what we today call domestic violence—by brawls and fights in the late hours of the night.

So, if we are going to talk about the fact that children really are affected, then some of us who are men today were affected by domestic violence when we were younger. Therefore, we do have the capacity as males to talk about domestic violence in an authoritarian manner because the women are the ones that get the abuse but the children are the ones who are psychologically damaged by the abuse.

I wrote extensively about domestic violence, about the break-up of the Caymanian family because of the men going to sea and coming back with their drunken habits, coming back thinking that they could boss the women around when the women were seeking jobs in the hotel and were gaining some kind of economic independence. The men wanted to say that this was their house, their child, their property—they owned the woman and they owned the child, this whole concept of ownership. Some of the men lacked the type of self-esteem to want to own something other than the pickney.

So, there are poor persons who discussed domestic violence in England, and in America, but I believe the Caribbean has its own unique dynamics with regard to violence against women. The Caribbean male is to a certain extent tempted and tortured in a way that perhaps the Caucasian male in Europe might not be. I know where the ideology comes [from] with regard to gender politics because there is a concern for women. But there is a politics involved in it too because some women believe somehow that they should exploit politics, to bring political attention to themselves rather than to seriously deal with the sociological and psychological issues involved in violence and violence against the family.

So, in taking up these issues with regard to domestic violence and to see that even when we were doing the play Time Longer dan Rope and the Granny came and she hit the husband, Beatman, over the head, the audience laughed. A lot of people [asked] why they were laughing. Could they not see this was violent behaviour? People were just cracking up and being real comical in those types of situations—how our attitudes were towards the fight.

Do you know why they were laughing? Because everyone was familiar with the scene. Those persons were familiar with the fight scene!

Now, today when the police go to the grass root communities to investigate domestic violence, we get the feeling somehow that one side is being taken. In other words, the attitude is that because man is the abuser, he is the guilty person. From a legal point of view, the man is the guilty person. But he was the person who was abused as a child.

In being abused as a child, his actions should not be excused as an adult. But what has been done in our environment to rehabilitate his sense of duty and responsibility to his family, to allow him not to abuse it but to treat it as a flower, as a plant that needs to be nurtured in order to grow and to reach maturity?

So, we don't want to say that we should stop with the whole idea of establishing a safe house for battered women, which I have heard being talked about for a long time. We need to establish a safe community for all those people by providing them with the kind of help that is necessary, by bringing the activities of the community development, social services and education together in such a way as to enlighten and empower the community to the point where women have solidarity between one another; to the point where a woman who is being battered in one house can run to the other house for safety; to the point where the police can intervene and know how to deal with the crisis because they have been trained to deal with it because resources have been spent in allowing them to be able to deal with it; to be able to get our community back to the point where it does not try to institutionalise every problem it has, where money has to come out of our pocket every time we have a problem.

We, as a community, cannot become actively involved in finding the solutions—we find solutions by way of legislation and by way of institutionalisation of the problem. We find it with the boys' home, we find it with the girls' home, we find it with all those things. What does institutionalisation of problems mean at the end of the day? It removes it further from the community's consciousness and the community's involvement.

I am not against the establishment of a safe house for women and battered children, but there is a degree of weakness when we do not understand that it has to be integrated very well into other concepts for solutions to the question of low self-esteem and violence that exists in our community. We have to, therefore, make sure that this is not something that is being done simply because we are close to election and this is not something that is being accepted by government simply because it might not look right to let it wait for some time. Someone at some particular point have to be saying what will be done to integrate this concept into the wider social development and social rehabilitation programmes which we have in our community.

It is too easy to talk about 'them, their problems, what we are doing for them, the others'. Truthfully, who is going to use it? Who is going to have the stigma put on them to say they were in the battered house for women? Who really wants their child to go to the Marine Institute at the end of the day? although we understand what it is for. Who wants their children to go to the boys' or girls' home? At the end of day, are we going to be there with the poor people and the poor labels?

I am saying that this motion is an honourable motion. But as someone who has studied the development of certain types of social institutions, I am saying that we have to be careful we might be developing just another place to say we have a place to send them. And we know who they are—they are the poor, they are the uneducated, they are those that are not able to help themselves. We have to give them more than a place of safety—we have to give them an education, we have to give them better pay.

The mere fact that women today in this country are paid so low is an issue. The mere fact that men are paid so low is an issue. The mere fact that a lot of them live in such crowded condition that they become irritated and disagreeable with one another is an issue. These social conditions that exist in our society as a result of low wages and the unavailability of proper housing for our people needs to be looked into.

The Minister for Community Affairs was correct in noticing that there has to be a multiplicity of solutions that this in itself will not be good enough. So, I have talked about all of these things not to take away from the motion, not to say the motion is not important; but to make sure that when it becomes a reality in terms of the planning stage, they do not forget that they should not be creating another ghetto but opening a wider world for people to travel through. The place of safety must be a place that will lead to empowerment and improvement and not a place that is just there because we want some place to put these people.

The Speaker: We have three minutes before the agreed time of interruption. Does any other member wish to speak. The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I won't be long but I would like to lend my support to this motion.

There are no two ways about it, the stresses and strains on our people are causing much frustration and people cannot handle their problems in a reasonable manner. As I said, earlier today that it seems sometimes that all reason is beginning to go out the door.

I would like to congratulate the two lady members from this side and the Minister for accepting the motion. I think it is worthwhile. When we look at what obtains as far as statistics in actual cases, we realise that these are many assaults—actual body harm, grievous bodily harm, wounding, damage to property.

Mr. Speaker, in the district of George Town, 33 cases; in the district of West Bay, 18 cases. In just those two districts alone, the two larger districts, sufficient to look at a place where battered people can go and not just be there for the night but to get counselling and have a place where they can get proper attendance, they or their children.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town made some very valid points. But while I believe in community and socialisation—that's why I came up with the idea of CODAC so that the community could start to help themselves—I always believe that where the community fails government must take up the slack. The member is right, no one wants his or her children to be in the Marine Institute.

The Speaker: Could I interrupt you just one moment. Honourable member I don't think you are going to finish within a reasonable period of time.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I am going to finish immediately, sir.

The Speaker: The arrangements with security, the staff and with the press was for 7.00 p.m.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I will be finished in a minute.

The Speaker: Please continue but we will have to adjourn after that.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: No one wants their child to be institutionalised and no one wants to be institutionalised. But the fact of the matter is where the community breaks or where the homes break down, or where children cannot be handled otherwise, there must be a place where they can get training—like the Marine Institute, where they can get assistance, like the Girls' Home where they can get proper care and attention, at least to the point when they are battered, for that time the person needs a place to go.

For those reasons, I think this is a worthwhile attempt and even if it comes on the eve of an election whenever we can get something that I support, I am going to support it once it is good for the country. Where the community fails the government must take up the slack.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town I presume you would want a period of time to wind-up, so at this time I would entertain a motion for the suspension of this Honourable House.

The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until Wednesday, 19 July at 10.00 a.m.

The Speaker: The question is that this Honourable House do now adjourn until 10.00 a.m. on Wednesday. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House stands adjourned until 10.00 a.m. on Wednesday.

AT 7.03 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM WEDNESDAY, 19 JULY 2000.

EDITED WEDNESDAY

10.22 AM

[Prayers read by the Honourable Third Official Member]

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Item number two on today's Order Paper, Reading by the Speaker of Messages and Announcements.

READING BY THE SPEAKER OF MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have apologies from the Honourable Second Official Member who will be arriving later this morning. The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works is off the island on official business until 23 July 2000. The Third Elected Member for George Town is off the island. The Fourth Elected for West Bay is sick.

Moving on to item 3 on today's Order Paper, Presentation of Papers and Reports. Her Majesty's Northward Prison, Strategic Plan Documents, to be laid on the Table by the Honourable Acting First Official Member.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

HMP NORTHWARD STRATEGIC PLANS DOCUMENTS AND THE HMP NORTHWARD INMATE DEVELOPMENT AND REHABILITATION PROGRAMMES

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I beg to lay on the table of this Honourable House the HMP Northward Strategic Plans Documents and the HMP Northward Inmate Development and Rehabilitation Programmes.

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to them?

The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Just briefly to say that honourable members will recall that the Legislative Assembly passed Private Member's Motion No. 5/2000 after amendment on 6 April of this year. Honourable members will also recall that the motion called on government to lay on the Table of this Honourable House within 90 days its plans for both the physical and rehabilitative reforms of Northward Prison.

The government has approved the tabling of these documents, and I pleased to do so on behalf of the Honourable First Official Member.

The documents have been prepared primarily under the direction of the former Temporary Director, Mr. Nicholas Brooke, in consultation with the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs. They provide a concise but comprehensive picture of the on-going and planned physical developments and programmes related to Northward Prison. Some information on indicative cost has also been provided.

Mr. Speaker, the Honourable First Official Member would welcome the critique and comments of honourable members, and I would in turn urge honourable members to convey these to him in writing or verbally. I thank you.

The Speaker: Moving on to item number 4 on today's Order Paper, Questions to Honourable Members and Ministers.

Question number 42 stands in the name of the Third Elected Member for West Bay . . . who is out of the Chamber. We will move on to question number 43 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION 43

No. 43: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs for the Government's policy regarding foreign nationals convicted of serious crimes in the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The Immigration Law (2000 Revision) provides the statutory framework for consideration of all matters related to the authorisation of entry to, and presence in, the Cayman Islands of foreign nationals. The Law includes specific provisions in respect of persons who have committed serious crimes. The provisions are referenced to any conviction in any jurisdiction that has resulted in sentences of imprisonment of twelve months or more.

The Law is absolutely clear (section 59 (h)) that a foreign national who has been sentenced to such a term is not permitted to enter the Cayman Islands. This position forms the basis of the current policy in respect of foreign nationals who are convicted of serious crimes whilst in the Cayman Islands.

As such, the policy is that:

- the permission of the individual to remain in the Islands is reconsidered by the relevant authority (Immigration Board in respect of persons who have been granted Caymanian status, permanent residence or a work permit, and Chief Immigration Officer in respect of visitors);
- the individual is provided with an opportunity to give reasons why their permission (i.e., work permit, permanent residence, et cetera) should not be withdrawn; and
- after due consideration, the permission is normally withdrawn.

If the permission is withdrawn, the foreign national is given a date by which he or she is expected to depart the Cayman Islands. Failure to depart by the specified date constitutes an offence under the Immigration Law and, in turn, liability to prosecution and deportation.

On departure, the individual is now electronically profiled and is designated in the Immigration database as a prohibited immigrant.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the honourable member say if there are any circumstances where these conditions may not apply? For example, in cases where there are persons who have been resident here from childhood and whose parents may have Caymanian status and naturalisation, are these conditions equally applicable to those persons?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: As I understand the question, the member is asking whether the criterion set out here would also apply to a foreign national whose parents are Caymanian—it certainly would, sir.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the substantive answer, the first paragraph, the provisions are referenced to any conviction in any jurisdiction that has resulted in sentences of imprisonment of twelve months or more including our own jurisdiction as we find out later on in the answer.

Can the member say if this also means if sentences of twelve months also allow for a suspended period so that the actual prison term is less than twelve months? Does that make any difference, or is it actually the sentence even if a period is suspended?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The provision simply relates to the sentence and not to whether any of it is suspended or a portion of it may be actually served in prison. The law says, if convicted of an offence and sentenced to a term of imprisonment of twelve months or more. Once the sentence is a term of imprisonment of twelve months or more, whether you end up serving four months of that is immaterial.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member of George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Later on in the substantive answer, the member has stated that the permission of the individual to remain in the islands is reconsidered by the relevant authority, that is, the Immigration Board in respect of persons who have been granted Caymanian status, permanent residence or a work permit, and Chief Immigration Officer in respect of visitors. The individual is provided with an opportunity to give reasons why his permission, that is, work permit, permanent residence et cetera, should not be withdrawn. I don't know if the "et cetera" included Caymanian status.

Does the answer then mean that if a person has acquired Caymanian status and has been sentenced to a period of twelve months or more that Caymanian status can and will be withdrawn?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Yes, the provision extends to persons who have been granted status and, in fact, it is contained in section 21 of the law: "Where any grantee of Caymanian status under section 17 of the repealed or the previously repealed law, is convicted by any court of an offence (a) for which he is sentenced to an immediate term of imprisonment of twelve months or more, other than for non-payment of a fine; or (b) which, is in the opinion of the Board was made possible by, facilitated by or connected with the Caymanian status of the offender, the Board may revoke his status on its motion."

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The answer that the member just gave said that the Board "may." Now, in the substantive answer it says, "after due consideration, the permission is normally withdrawn" and the other thing says that the Board may.

Are there any exceptions simply because of the wording? I think that alone connotes the possibility of exceptions. Are there any and if so what might they be?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The law gives the Board the authority to revoke but does not make it mandatory that the Board shall revoke. Obviously, the use of the word 'may' explains that. In the substantive answer, the word 'normally' was chosen simply because my experience in the five years that I have been associated with the issue has been that the Board has consistently in such cases opted to withdraw or revoke the grant. That has been the normal practice, as I know it. I cannot say that I have done any research to say there has ever been a case where the Board having considered representation opted not to revoke the privilege.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: For purposes of clarity and to make sure that the member understands that I am not asking questions taking any specific position, it is just a matter that these things crop up from time to time with us representatives being asked those questions. Is it to say then that it is very likely even if there is an individual who has been granted Caymanian status, by marriage, for instance, or if the person is a permanent resident and is married to a Caymanian and there is a family of three children (I am just giving a scenario here) . . . is that the type of situation that might allow for an exception? Or is it basically that while the law states what it states that the position has been in the past that regardless of the prevailing circumstances or the situation that obtains that the law is basically followed almost to the point of 'shall' and not necessarily 'may'?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I think the member in the final part of this question when he said that the law is almost followed as a 'shall' . . . my experience has been that even in those scenarios where persons obtain status by marriage and may have children who are Caymanian, that having been so convicted the Board has always been inclined to withdraw the grant.

The Speaker: Any further supplementaries? The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Can the honourable member tell the House how this policy is carried out? That is, which department in government initiates this procedure once it is applicable, and that is assuming persons are imprisoned.

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: In most instances, I would expect that the considerations are initiated by the Secretariat of the Immigration Board or by the Immigration Department itself, both of whom would receive records of conviction of persons and who would cross-reference to the persons in their database who are either holders of Caymanian status by grant or holders of other privileges under the Immigration Law.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If not, we will move on to Question 44 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 44

No. 44: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs if the Cayman Islands' Government has established any protocols or agreements with the Governments of the United States of America, Canada, Jamaica, the United Kingdom and other regional countries regarding information exchange on deportees from these jurisdictions.

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: No formal protocols or agreements have been entered into by the Cayman Islands with the United States of America, Canada, Jamaica, the United Kingdom or other regional countries regarding information exchange on deportees from these jurisdictions. Information is, however, shared on an informal basis with some jurisdictions and it is hoped that in the near future the sharing of information will be formalised.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Acting First Official Member state what might be the reasons why the sharing of information with these territories or jurisdictions has not been formalised today?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Mr. Speaker, I guess the primary reason has been that there has been the informal sharing or provision of information in respect of the deportees from at least one jurisdiction that generates a substantive number and is considered to create the greatest potential risk. As that information was being made available, the actual formalisation had not yet been pursued. It is something, however, that taken along with the advent of the capability here to also review other electronic or other personal data stored electronically in the form of fingerprints that we would hope to be able to formalise and to include that type of information as compared to the normal identification and document type referencing that is currently available.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: As it is my understanding that one of the basic differences between this sharing of information being formalised and being shared on an informal basis is that if it is formalised the information is flowing without any request, whereas on an informal basis on most occasions the request is made before the information is passed on. I would hope that if that is the case then this would be considered to be a matter of urgency for the security of the nation and formalisation would be sought almost immediately rather than the way that the situation is at present.

Can the member state whether that is the case and if that is the priority in which it is going to be dealt with?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The information is currently (to use the member's term) "flowing" without request. It is provided on a regular basis. Obviously from this jurisdiction we have no way of knowing whether the source jurisdiction may actually have deported someone to another jurisdiction and not notified us. I mean there is no watchdog agency that can provide us with that information. But the current arrangement is that as deportation takes place we are informally part of the notification loop. So, the information stays flowing and it isn't that we have to request it at monthly or quarterly intervals.

I take the member's point in relation to the importance of formalisation. Sometimes, sir, these types of arrangements are best started in an informal way when you have certain contacts that will provide it, and having not abused it, it enhances our opportunity to formalise it. We hope we are at that point now where we can do so.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If not, we will move on to Question 45 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 45

No. 45: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development to give an update on the on-going financial reforms.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: In 1998, the government launched what has become known as the Financial Management Initiative (FMI). The objective of FMI is to modernise the financial management system operated by the Cayman Islands' Government so that it has greater strategic orientation, focuses on the services (or outputs) delivered by the government, the management of performance and provides better financial information for both decision-making and accountability purposes.

Over the last two years, a great deal of work has been done to progress reform. This has included:

- a diagnosis of the issues surrounding the current financial management system;
- the development of a broad design for the reform;
- the development of a detailed design for the reform;
- the development of a carefully programmed implementation plan;
- an initial specification and costing of the outputs produced by Ministries and Portfolios;
- the production of a sample output budget for the year 2000 (Annual Plan and Estimates);
- the initial development of the information and reporting systems that will be required under the new arrangement;
- the development of a draft Bill to give effect to the reform, together with mock-ups of the new budget and reporting documents.

This work has been undertaken by a wide group of senior civil servants involving ministries, departments, the Finance Portfolio and the Audit Office. It has involved a number of consultation and training seminars, including briefings for Members of the Legislative Assembly last year on the detailed design and implementation strategy.

Oversight of the reform is the responsibility of the Financial Reform Team (FRT) which is chaired by the Financial Secretary. However, since the escalation of the external initiatives, the Deputy Financial Secretary, Mr. Joel Walton, has been chairing the Committee on my behalf and I would like to thank him for the progress that has been achieved up to this time.

Implementation of the reform is being managed by a full-time project team which is being assisted by external advisers who are expert in this type of reform. Implementation is occurring across seven sub-projects. These are:

- communication
- budget process
- output specification, costing and reporting
- accrual budgeting, reporting and accounting
- cash management
- agency management systems
- accrual and output auditing.

Current work includes assisting Ministries to improve their output specifications and costing and prepare quarterly reports of output delivery.

The development of a draft Public Management and Finance Bill to replace the existing Public Finance and Audit Law is the next significant step in the reform process. The draft Bill is designed to provide the legislative framework for the new financial management system. It is based on the agreed detailed design that was widely discussed in May last year. A committee of civil servants, including the Auditor General, the Permanent Secretary – Personnel, Senior Legislative Counsel and senior staff of the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development have been engaged in drafting the Bill.

Because of its significance, it is important that the Bill is as right and complete as possible before it is formally introduced to the Legislative Assembly. For this reason, the draft Bill will be the subject of an extensive consultation process which will occur in September of this year. Consultation will include Members of the Legislative Assembly, the civil service and other interested parties. The results of this consultation will be carefully considered before the Bill is finalised.

It is anticipated that the Bill will be introduced to the Legislative Assembly at its First Meeting of the 2001 Session and will become effective as of April of that year. This will allow the progressive implementation of the reform to continue with the 2002 budget being prepared on the new output and accruals basis.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the first paragraph of the substantive answer, the Honourable Third Official Member explains that the objective of the FMI is to modernise the financial management system operated by the Cayman Islands Government so that it has a greater strategic orientation, focuses on the services and outputs that is delivered by the government, the management of performance and also provides better financial information for both decision-making and accountability purposes.

Can the Honourable Third Official Member relate where does all of that equate to any greater efficiencies that might be expected once this FMI is realised?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Efficiencies will be achieved by focus being placed on outputs rather than inputs, and with greater transparency it will be very evident to the government of the day and also the civil service as a whole what is being done within the government.

In addition, it is anticipated that the budget process will be linked very much with Vision 2008. Objectives and targets will be pre-determined. At the end of the day, it is always noticed that whenever better quality information becomes available to assist in any process it will help for the processes to be given greater clarity. It will also help to determine the resources that are required to achieve the given objectives that are being sought. It will also allow for a greater or better perspective to be developed as to alternatives to the processes or probably those objectives that are under review.

Over all, when ministers and members of government, civil servants, and members of Legislative Assembly, are better informed as to what targets are being sought, it will allow for better judgments to be made and also decisions to be taken.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I would like to thank the Honourable Third Official Member for his candid approach to this answer.

In the second paragraph where he says, “Over the last two years, a great deal of work has been done to progress reform. This has included: the production of a sample output budget for the year 2000 (Annual Plan and Estimates).” Can the member state if during any of this initiative if there has been any thought or will it be part and parcel of the initiative to be looking at revenue—not just output based budgeting but the accompanying revenue that is going to be needed in order to create the balance that we continually desire whenever estimates are done on an annual basis?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: This process will give rise to heightened dimensions in terms of looking at two sides, revenue and expenditure. When focus is placed on outputs this will bring into sync the cost recovery aspect as well. So, this will provide an opportunity for departments, for example the hospital services, to make a determination as to whether the cost of service being provided by the government is being subsidised and to what extent. It will allow for Members of the Legislative Assembly to become aware of that and for a conscious decision to be taken as to whether such subsidy should continue or whether full recovery should be made.

In addition to that, when focusing on output we are talking about the global package of services that will be required in order to achieve certain objectives of the government. Again, this will require having to look on the revenue matching cost and also from a point of being reasonable in terms of what should be the expected revenue flows from the given sector. So, we are talking about an all-encompassing, enhanced financial management programme being put in place.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: As Honourable Third Official Member went on in his substantive answer, he also said that the development of a draft Public Management and Finance Bill to replace the existing Finance Bill is the next significant step in the reform process. Now, the terminology there is the Public Management and Finance Bill. I would like to know, seeing as the committee dealing with this includes the permanent secretary of personnel, in some detail, if possible, exactly what are going to be the considerations with regard to the requirement of human capital training initiatives which would involve that same global outlook that he is talking about with the initiatives with regard to bringing personnel within the civil service to the point where they are able to perform the duties that are going to be required as the initiative moves along.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Unfortunately, I would not be able to respond in detail as the First Elected Member for George Town has requested. Because of my involvement with the external initiatives, the Deputy Financial Secretary has been chairing the committee. I will make an admission: I am aware of the initial draft of the Bill, but in terms of where it has reached now, it is very advanced. I have a copy of it on my desk but I have not gone through it in detail.

What is being proposed is for a meeting of the Financial Reform Team to be held within the next fortnight or month. At this time, the members of the team will focus on the Bill itself, its contents and we will try to establish the linkage that the honourable member has spoken of. I don't want to mislead the honourable member. This is an area where I will have to turn my attention because what you have just mentioned is of interest to me to ensure that all sectors are tying together in the process.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I again appreciate the Honourable Third Official Member being so candid. What I would just like a little comfort with is, understanding him not being able to give any detail at this point in time, can the member state where it says, 'Public Management and Finance Bill' if public management alludes to human capital development?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, public management must recognise that very important aspect. If there are deficiencies in the Bill at this point in time . . . because we are talking about an integral part of the entire human resource base and the initiative as such. This is something we have to look at because that is the most important aspect in the process.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If not, we will move on to Question 46 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, although you have not said so, I think that it is necessary for us to move for the suspension of the relevant Standing Order.

The Speaker: I would appreciate a motion for this.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I so move, sir.

The Speaker: Do I have a seconder?

The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I second that, sir.

The Speaker: In accordance with Standing Order 86, we suspend Standing Order 23 (7) and (8) in order that Question Time can continue beyond 11.00 a.m. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Question Time continues.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW QUESTION TIME TO CONTINUE BEYOND 11.00 AM.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 46

No. 46: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Member responsible for the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development to explain what system is in place to determine the actual cost of any government project.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The new Integrated Resource Information System (IRIS), which was introduced in 1999, has the ability to record the expenditures incurred against a financial allocation shown within the capital development programme. Generally, and where appropriate, financial allocations are assigned to individual capital projects or programme of projects. These allocations are assigned a unique 'project number' that remains with the project or programme for the life of that project/programme. The system now enables expenditure reports to be prepared on a project basis. Previously, Treasury could not electronically produce such project-specific reports.

Independent of the Treasury system, the Public Works Department (PWD) has a cost recording system call the Public Works Support System (PWSS). This system can only record expenditures incurred by PWD, whereas Treasury's system records project expenditures incurred by all departments. Until the IRIS system went live, PWSS was the only means of recording expenditure on a project number basis.

The cost of a capital project comprises expenditures incurred by departments in the site preparation, construction, professional fees and furnishing and equipping of a facility. Such costs include group employee labour, material purchases, equipment rental and contracts for construction works and consultant services.

The project cost does not, by past convention, include the cost of land purchased for the project. That cost is recorded under a separate cost centre called Purchase of Lands.

When a design, costing and project management work is executed by in-house staff or a department, such expenditure is considered part of the department's recurrent budget expenditure and is not charged to the project. One exception to this convention is when staff are specifically engaged for a designated project or capital building programme (such as the Hospital project and the Education Building programme), the costs of these project management teams are charged to the relevant capital project.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Third Official Member state, seeing as the substantive answer said that this system was introduced in 1999, whether projects that were ongoing prior to this were included in the new system as it went on or whether since the new system was introduced in 1999 it would only involve projects that were beginning after the IRIS system was introduced?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, the system in the Treasury Department captures information specific to each project that commenced in 1999. In order to obtain the full cost of the project, the information from the Treasury would have to link with the data that would have existed within the Public Works Department in order to establish the cost of ongoing projects.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: So, if a major project commenced (this is before 1999) and the Public Works Department was bypassed in the process and not involved in the project, is it fair comment to say that it might be physically impossible to determine exactly the cost of such a project?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: What the First Elected Member for George Town has alluded to is a possibility. But one would trust that the situation would have been remedied in that the agency in question, if it is an agency other than the Public Works Department, should have on hand comprehensive details in order to create linkage with the information in the Treasury in order to establish the project cost. But the First Elected Member will recall that the capital budget for 1999 and 2000, the formatting of the information has been done on a project specific basis to show the initial cost of the project in question, which would mean that from the commencement of the project what will be required in a given year and also what will be the cost to completion.

So, we do trust that wherever the information would be prior to 1999, whether it is with the Public Works Department or other agencies, that linkages can be made in order to achieve completeness of the financial information if called upon for such information to be reported.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can he state if prior to this IRIS system being introduced there were any concerns raised about generic or specific projects because it was obvious within the system that it was almost impossible to track the correct project cost of such project?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Concerns have always been raised in regard to the system and the methodology used in terms of the tracking of information. The Public Works Department has been the agency of capital projects or has been acting as the agent of most departments and sections within government.

If we were to think in terms of the evolution within the financial system of the government, we came from the days of colonial regulations which we had until 1985. Subsequent to that the Public Finance and Audit Law, and the Financial and Stores Regulations were introduced. It was felt that piece of legislation and accompanying regulations were seen as a significant improvement. It reached to the stage where we found that certain deficiencies were identified and when operate a cash accounting system we know it allows for certain deficiencies.

We saw where activities could have been done differently or with a given level of improved efficiency but because of the fact that the system of accounting has certain weaknesses, as a result of that, fingers were pointed at those weaknesses as to excuse why certain deficiencies came about.

So, the level that we are going on to now should remedy these deficiencies and should obviate the need for excuses to be made because what we will have now is a very precise system. Controlling officers or persons participating in the process will receive the relevant training and it is of such that given the level of enthusiasm that we do have at this point in time it would suggest that this is a welcome change and that various departments in Government is looking at this as a significant improvement over what currently exists.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I want to bring to the Honourable Third Official Member's mind all of the goings on surrounding the Pedro St. James Project. Without putting that member to task with specific questions in a myriad of areas but hoping that member might appreciate in general terms concerns that I may have, can the honourable member state if, given the improvements that are now at hand and the continuing improvements that are anticipated within the system going from cash based to accrual, et cetera, and the accountability process which will most certainly be enhanced especially by the financial reform initiatives, if he thinks that it would be possible for any major government project in the future to be handled in the manner in which that one was handled?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: As the Honourable First Elected Member for George Town can appreciate there are certain aspects of his question that are very delicate. I should say that given the level of transparency, given the system that will be put in place, given the procedures that will have to be observed it is very much unlikely that problems that are inherent in the existing system will be carried over into the new system. At the end of the day one must bear in mind that regardless of what system is put in place unless there is a willingness on the part of everyone to observe the rules and to make the system work as it should deficiencies will occur.

But we do trust, given the heightened level of awareness, transparency and participation of everyone, and the budget process and accountability, that we will see significant improvements.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I wonder if the Honourable Third Official Member would say how he proposes to ensure that the proposed estimate project cost as it appears in the budget document is the true figure for the cost? We can use the East End/Gun Bay Community Centre as an example of one figure appearing and at the end of the day it costed much more.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: First of all, a given project will commence with the award of a contract. The contract will be for a specified sum of money. The information is now being aggregated in a given centre, which is the Treasury Department. The information in that database will be accessible to the Public Works Department, to the Treasury Department and other persons that are authorised to have access to this. As a result of that each payment will be debited to this project. It will allow for the up-to-date information to be provided. So, the information that is made available to Honourable members of this House will be taken from Treasury's database and it will be based on expenditures and commitments that would be recorded up to that point in time.

So, as a result of that, at any point in time the true cost should be recorded. The only way that this will not be is if there are discrepancies in the posting and other areas and these should be picked up because these differences will be highlighted.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If not, in accordance with Standing Order 23(3), we shall return to question number 42 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION 42

No. 42: Mr. W. McKeeva Bush asked the Honourable Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs to say: (a) what criterion was used to award Caymanian Status to athletes recently; (b) how many were granted status; (c) upon whose recommendation was the status granted; and (d) from which sports' clubs did the recipients come.

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The answer as per the breakdown of the question:

- (a) the criteria used were:
- the athletes had been representing the Cayman Islands for more than two years;
  - the governing bodies of the respective sports considered them suited and needed to continue in this role; and
  - the governing bodies considered their participation to be essential to the ability of the national team to compete at levels which would benefit the Caymanian members of the team and benefit the respective sports locally in general;
- (b) six person were granted status;
- (c) the recommendation for Caymanian status came from Honourable Ministers and Members of Executive Council and His Excellency the Governor, as President of the Executive Council, accepted the advice;
- (d) in considering the recipients, no mention was made of the sports' clubs from which they were associated and I am unaware of the sports' clubs of which they came.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Would the Honourable Acting First Official Member tell the House how long these persons were living in the Cayman Islands and what are their connections to the islands other than sports?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Each of the individuals has been living in the islands for some period of years and has some other connections. I would happy to provide that information in writing.

The Speaker: Do you have a follow-up?
The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I wish to thank my colleague for yielding. Can the Honourable member tell the House why when the government announced that a moratorium is in place on the granting of Caymanian status, why at the time this grant was made to these athletes a statement was not forthcoming from the government explaining why such a grant had been made and trying to convey an understanding and some semblance of a policy to the many hundreds of applicants who have their applications in at this time for Caymanian status?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: All I can say is that hindsight is always 20/20 and may be that would have been the best thing to have been done at the time. I can appreciate why others in the community would find the issue a sensitive one but unfortunately that was not done at the time and I really cannot say precisely why. I don't think there was any conscious decision taken that it should not be done. It is probably just a case of not communicating to the best of our abilities at the time.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Member tell the House how the government is going to deal with such applications in the future now that this precedent has been set in granting Caymanian status to these athletes?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I expect that the government will have to be mindful of the precedent and at the same time I don't think that it will necessarily feel itself bound to in all cases. I think it will consider any future requests on their merit and along similar guidelines and will obviously be mindful of what it has done in the past.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: In regard to what the Honourable Member just said, maybe he should search out why teachers who have been here for 27 years has not been able to get Caymanian status. But arising from the substantive answer, can the member say why didn't these persons play in the games in Cuba for which they were granted status? And is it not so that the team was disallowed in Cuba?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I have no basis of answering any of those questions unfortunately.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: I well understand the role of the Honourable Member answering. But he did say that the governing bodies considered their participation to be central to the ability of the National Team to compete at levels which would benefit the Cayman members of the team and would benefit the respective sports locally in general. That's why I asked the question why didn't they play in the games in Cuba for which they were granted status?

Mr. Speaker, I will ask a further supplementary, sir. In answering (d) it says that no mention was made of the sports club from which they were associated. Can I ask then why when honourable members made the request? Didn't they provide information on what club these persons from come or played with? I would suspect that would have been the relevant information to guide members of council. Is it not so?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: My understanding is that the information was provided by the respective governing bodies and I am not aware of any information having been provided in respect of the parent sports club.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: Someone used the term that it seems like we have to 'extract teeth' this morning.

Is the member saying that Executive Council sits down and grants such a thing as Caymanian status that is so hard for hundreds of people to get without having . . . well persons who have been here for up to thirty years without getting information pertaining to where these persons came from. I should ask, also, what were the nationalities of these players?

Where they came from?

How did they get into the national team?

Which club they belong to?

Executive Council members did not seek to ask those questions they just up and granted it so! I don't believe that and I would like information. I think this House deserves information because for far too long we have been talking about Caymanian status and we cannot get any answers.

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I have no information as to which clubs any of the grantees came from. Now, if the member wishes for me to research the matter further and go back to the governing association and try to ascertain that information and provide it to him in writing, I will be happy to. But I don't have the information that I can give him in this House this morning.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I don't want to pressure my good friend, the Acting Chief Secretary, because I see that the question was very evasively crafted. I would ask him to undertake to provide that information because it is serious enough for us to know. This is a serious precedent.

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I have no hesitation in giving the member the undertaking that I will provide that information.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I wish to impose another request upon the Honourable member, and I have the greatest respect and realise that this morning he is in an untenable position because he is just in an acting capacity. What I would like to impose upon him is that he request of the relevant authorities that in further when these steps are taken that they can be fully published, that is, they include names of the grantees and the basis on which the decision was taken. Because even us as members of the Legislative Assembly have no knowledge of this except that we took a little stroll on the Marl Road and picked it up during that stroll. In an age when the government is giving itself plaudits for being transparent this was a most opaque action.

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I acknowledge the views expressed by that Honourable Member and also his suggestion as to how any future matters perhaps should be better publicised. I will take that on board and will convey it to others who are normally part of this process.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: This will be a two-part supplementary. Could the Honourable Acting First Official Member tell the House what are the nationalities of these sport persons that have been granted status? And, could he tell us under what section of the Immigration Law were they granted status?

The Speaker: I think he answered the first part of that. The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Mr. Speaker, it sounds like I am going to get an answer from some of my colleagues.

I think the two things which I did not answer were how long they had been here individually and what were their respective connections with the Cayman Islands. I was not asked what were their nationalities.

The nationalities I can say are: three Jamaicans, two Hondurans, and one Costa Rican.

The other part of the question related to under what section of the law . . . I think it would be under section 15(d) of the Immigration Law 2000 (Revision) which reads: "A person shall, for purposes of this Law, possess Caymanian status if- (d) the Governor, in his opinion finding special reason for so doing, grants such status to him."

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I wonder if the Honourable Acting First Official Member is in a position to say if persons who are of Caymanian descent, two grandfathers were Caymanians and have been in this country 30 plus years, given a British passport on arrival, then married for 37 years with seven children, is entitled to make an application under that same section to the Governor in Council?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I know of no reason why that individual or anyone else could not make an application to the Governor under that section.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries. If not, that concludes Question Time for this morning.

Moving on to Item number 5 on today's Order Paper, Government Business, Bills, First Reading. Suspension of Standing Order 46. The Honourable Acting First Official Member.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I beg to move the suspension of Standing Order 46 to allow a Bill entitled The Immigration (Amendment) Bill 2000 and a Bill entitled The Trade and Business Licensing (Amendment) Bill 2000 to be read a first time.

The Speaker: I shall put the question that Standing Order 46 be suspended. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 46 SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The Second Reading on the Electronics Bill, 2000.

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Mr. Speaker, I move the second reading of a Bill entitled The Electronics Transactions Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: The Bill has been duly moved. Do you wish to speak to it?

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Mr. Speaker, what I present in my opening here today has to be attributed to the Honourable Minister for Tourism, who is on official business abroad together with the Honourable Third Elected Member from George Town, both of whom made up the Chairman and the Legislative Assembly representation on advisory board committee which I will give the names at a later stage.

I present this Bill on behalf of the Ministry of Tourism. Members will recall that late last year, the government accepted a private member's motion, brought by the Third Elected Member for George Town and seconded by the First Elected Member for George Town, that called on government to actively encourage the development of e-commerce within the Cayman Islands, to ensure that the supporting technical infrastructure was put in place and to enact an electronics transactions law suitable to the needs of these islands which embodies an appropriate set of internationally accepted regulatory standards.

As a consequence, Executive Council appointed an E-Business Advisory Board made up of representatives of both the private and public sector with my honourable colleague, the Minister of Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works as chairman. The members of that board—whom I would very much like to thank on behalf of the ministry—are the Honourable Chief Secretary, Mr. James Ryan; the Honourable Financial Secretary, Mr. George McCarthy; Mr. Michael Kiron, who was designated by the Minister of Communications and Agriculture; Mr. Charles Clifford, whom I would especially like to thank, he is the Senior Assistant Secretary in the Ministry of Tourism and who really bore the brunt of moving this Bill forward; the Honourable Attorney General, Mr. David Ballantyne; Mr. Dave Archbold, Director of the Information Technology Strategy Unit; Mr. Wil Pineau from the Chamber of Commerce; Mr. Tim Adam from Cable & Wireless, Mr. Olivaire Watler of Maples and Calder; Sir James Knapp; Mr. Stuart Diamond; Mr. Moses Kirkconnell; Mr. Jeremy Hurst; Mr. Casey Gill, Miss Celia Yates; Mr. Gilbert McLaughlin, the Director of Computer Services; Mr. Chris Ross; our first Legislative Draftsman, Mr. Clive Grenyer, and me.

The Board quickly determined that in the short term, two new pieces of legislation were required: an Electronic Transaction Bill, to remove uncertainty and promote confidence in electronic transaction; and the Misuse of Computers Law, to criminalise certain acts such as the theft or destruction of information held electronically.

The Director of Information was appointed the instructing officer for these pieces of legislation. I would very much like to thank Mr. Archbold for his hard work in this area. Together with a seven-man subcommittee of the advisory board charged with preparing a draft for consideration by Executive Council, he has completed the work and the draft Bills have been accepted by Executive Council.

As stated in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, the objects of this Bill are:

- To enhance the reputation of the islands as an international business centre

- To facilitate electronic transaction and a technology neutral basis by means of reliable electronic records to remove uncertainties in relation to conducting transactions electronically with respect to the requirements for documents and for signatures to be in writing
- For more public confidence in the validity, integrity and reliability of conducting transactions electronically and to promote the development of the legal and business infrastructure necessary to implement electronic transactions securely.

In preparing this Bill, the drafting subcommittee adopted three basic principles from the outset. First, technical neutrality: The draft Bill avoids referencing any specific technique or technology of the creation or validation of electronic records and electronic signatures. Technologies are developing so rapidly that currently accepted techniques and standards are likely to be augmented or suspended within months. Were they incorporated within the Bill, it therefore would very quickly become out of date.

Instead, such technical references as required will be included in the relevant regulations—these can be amended more quickly. This is the approach currently being adopted by the United Nations Commission on international trade law (UNITRAL) and in the majority of national jurisdictions. The disadvantage of the technical neutrality approach is that the wording of the legislation can sometimes be slightly cumbersome and can appear less specific than might otherwise be the case.

The second principle, sir, was functional equivalence. The aim of the draft Bill is to provide a level playing field for the use of either paper-based or electronic documents. It does this by identifying electronic equivalence of the functions performed by paper documents and giving them the same standing in law. It should however be noted the electronic records can provide the same level of security as paper, in many cases and in some instances a much higher degree of reliability and speed especially with respect to the identification of the source and the content of the information provided that a number of technical and legal requirements are met.

However, the adoption of the functional equivalent approach should not result in imposing on users of electronic commerce more stringent standards of security and related cost than in paper based environment. The electronic record should enjoy the same level of legal recognition as corresponding paper documents performing the same function, no more or no less. Again, this is the approach adopted by UNITRAL and most other jurisdictions.

So, Mr. Speaker, it is meant really to ensure that there is a level playing field and that the two different types of transaction, paper and electronic, are really not put into a competitive position.

The third was business and regulatory equivalence. In many respects, this concept is merely a logical extension of the functional equivalence. It is the view of the drafting subcommittee I am instructing, that electronic commerce should be regarded merely as an additional business tool in the same way as fax machines or television advertising once were new tools.

In a majority of instances, existing administrative and regulatory bodies can and should continue with their existing responsibilities modifying their regulations and procedures where appropriate. We should avoid imposing additional layers of bureaucracy merely because a company begins to conduct business over the Internet. For example, we would expect the Monetary Authority to continue to regulate all financial institutions whether or not they were conducting e-business.

Exceptions to this general principle that has been put forward by the committee include:

- New types of business with no traditional equivalents, which the government wishes to regulate to instil business confidence, prevent criminal activity or protect Cayman's reputation. For example, with information, security, service providers.
- New functions with no traditional equivalent such as data protection or internet domain management; and
- Lastly, the establishment of regulations or codes of conduct covering what is and what is not acceptable use of the Internet by Cayman intermediaries and e-commerce service providers. For example, there should be no pornography and no gambling. Such regulators may be restricted to a certain class or classes of e-commerce service provider.

Mr. Speaker, the subcommittee carried out extensive research into existing and proposed legislation in other jurisdictions. There most important sources were the United Nations Commission on International Trade Law (UNITRAL) Model Law on Electronic Commerce 1996; UNIRAL Draft Uniform Rules on Electronic Signatures, February 2000; The European Union Directive on a Community Framework for Electronic Signatures, December 1999; European Union Draft Directives on Certain Legal Aspects of Electronic Commerce in the Internal Market, 1999; the Bermuda Electronic Transaction Act, 1999; United Kingdom Electronic Communication Act, 2000; the United States Uniformed Electronic Transaction Act, 1999; the Canadian Uniformed Electronics Commerce Act 1999 and Digital Signature Guidelines by the American Bar Association.

Members also might like to know that in addition to reviews of the draft by many local attorneys, comments and suggestions were obtained from specialist e-commerce law practices in both London and Washington.

Mr. Speaker, I would now like to give an overview of the provisions of the Bill:

- Clause 1 provides the short title.
- Clause 2 has a list of definitions. Mainly these are modelled on international accepted terms and the committee feels that many of these are better crafted than in other jurisdictions.
- Clause 3 are exclusions and the Bill has been drafted to enable as wider a range of electronic transactions as possible and the only exclusion of wills and other testamentary instruments. However, the bill does give the Governor-in-Council authority to exempt by regulation any matter that they see fit from all or some of the provisions of the Bill.

- Clause 4 enables certain parts of the law to be varied or excluded from a transaction through mutual agreement.
- Clause 5 applies the law to the private and the public sector. Government departments are however not required to accept or process electronic records until a notice to that effect has been published by the appropriate member of Executive Council or minister. This is necessary to allow the government departments time to put in place the necessary systems and procedures. But I have been assured that they will be keeping up with the times and moving as quickly as possible ahead with putting these systems and procedures in place.

Part II of the legal requirements respecting electronic records with the aim to put the electronic records on the same legal footing as paper records. It is based on the UNITRAL 1996 Model Law and most of this has been adopted from that.

- Clause 6 states the fundamental concept that no information should be denied legal effect solely on the grounds that it is in the form of an electronic record. The evidential test will remain the same as for the paper transactions.
- Clause 7 provides that wherever there is a legal requirement for something to be in writing other than a will or any testamentary document such as a codicil that requirement can be met by information in the form of an electronic record.
- Clause 8: Enables electronic records to meet the legal requirements of delivery of a paper transaction provided that the format and means of delivery have been agreed by the parties involved and that when the originator has requested that delivery be acknowledged he address he has knowingly done so.
- Clause 9: Deals with circumstances where a document that is required to be presented or retained in its original form, where evidence of the original form of a document is required it can be satisfied by an electronic version of the document.
- Clause 10: Sets out the conditions to be complied with if the requirement to retain a document is to be established by the retention of an electronic version.
- Clause 11: Provides that a requirement to make documents available for inspection shall be satisfied if a perceived electronic version is produced.
- Clause 12: Deals with the admissibility of electronic evidence.

Part III is the formation validity of contracts.

- Clause 13: This states basically that an acceptance of an offer in contract or both may be expressed by electronic record and that payment may also be made electronically. The electronic statement should not be denied legal effects solely because it is an electronic record.

The communication of the electronics record are at four, covers the attribution, acknowledgement, time and date of sending and receipt of electronic records together with the effect of changes or errors in the transmission of such records.

The clauses are from Articles 13 through 15 of the United Nations Model and one part has been taken from the United States Uniform Electronic Transactions Law.

- Clause 14: Deals with the attribution of electronic messages. An electronic message is attributable to a person if it is sent by him or by his agent, whether electronic or otherwise. It sets out the conditions to be complied with if an addressee of an electronic message is to be able to attribute the message to the originator of the message.
- Clause 15 provides for circumstances where changes or error in the transmission of an electronic message.
- Clause 16 makes provision to govern the validity of acknowledgements of electronic messages and the circumstances where an electronic message may be presumed to have been receive.
- Clause 17 sets out the presumptions to be made about the time and place of sending and receipt of electronic messages.

Now, turning to Part V, which is electronic signatures. Part V does basically for electronic signatures what Part I does for electronic records and it puts them on a legal footing, the same as you would get a pen signature on paper. Based again on the UNITRAL Draft Uniform Rules for electronic signatures of February 2000—this is very up-to-date—and the European Union directives on electronic signatures of December 1999.

Mr. Speaker, no other jurisdiction that we know about has yet enacted legislation based upon the concepts contained in these references and we believe that this gives Cayman a significant, although perhaps a temporary competitive advantage.

- Clause 18 ensures that no electronic signature is denied legal effect solely on the grounds of the methods used to create it.
- Clause 19 provides that where a document has to be signed, if the document is in electronic form the signature may be electronic. It provides a number of conditions that have to be complied with if the signature is to be reliable for the purposes of this law.
- Clause 20 enables regulations to be made.
- Clause 21 provides for the consequences of a person who fails to verify in accordance with the procedures set out in the law, an electronic signature.
- Clause 22 makes provision for the conditions that have to be complied with before a foreign electronic signature, or the certificate attached thereto, will be recognise. Subclause (1) states that neither the place of issue of a digital certificate or an electronic signature nor the jurisdiction in which the issuer has his place of business should be taken into account in considering whether or not the signature certificate is legally effective. So, the thrust there is towards a global view of this very global matter.

[Inaudible comment]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Information technology is one that has really made the world a much smaller place from a commerce point of view. Someone really can sit in an office anywhere in the world, and access anyone anywhere else in the world these days.

- Clause 23 provides for electronic notarisation of documents and signatures.

Part VI is information security service providers. An important element of electronic commerce is the involvement of so-called trusted third parties who vouch for the authenticity and reliability of the parties to an electronic agreement. This is necessary, sir, because the parties may be completely unknown to one another. The trusted third parties indicate their endorsement, for example by issuing digital certificates and associated electronic signatures to their customers. These trusted third parties can provide other information, security services in addition to certificates and signatures are known as information security service providers in this Bill.

They may be specialist providers of such services or banks in similar organisations may wish to provide such services to their customers.

Clauses 24 - 27 of the part of the draft Bill are based on Part I of the United Kingdom Electronic Communication Act 2000, which has just recently received royal assent. The two most significant changes to the UK context are the replacement of the term cryptographic service with information security service provider for the reasons given previously and the transfer of some sections from the substantive law to the regulations in order to increase flexibility.

It should be noted, sir, that the registration scheme is a voluntary one. Proposed arrangements to also implement the principles laid down in the European Union Directive on electronic signatures.

Clauses 28 - 32 are modelled on the United Nations Draft Uniform Rules on Electronic Signatures.

Mr. Speaker, I getting near to end of what I have to say but I would just like to mention what these remaining clauses deal with in a general way.

- Clause 24 enables the provision and maintenance of publicly accessible register approved information security services and for the making of regulations in that connection.
- Clause 25 makes further provision for the making of regulations governing the granting of approvals to providers of information security services.
- Clause 26 makes provision for the confidentiality of information obtained for the purposes of the grant of approvals to information security service providers or obtained by information security providers in the course of providing their services.

I understand from the drafting committee that the wording of the United Kingdom act has been amended to take into account our confidential relationships preservation law.

- Clause 27 defines further the concept of information security service providers following the United Kingdom act. The aim is to exclude from the provisions of the bill, vendors of quotes, standard off the shelf closed quotes, hardware or software that happen to include encryption facilities as a part of their functionality. As the public knows, encryption deals with the security aspect of the message.
- Clause 28 regulates the responsibilities of an information security service provider, once again based on the UN Model.
- Clause 29 enables regulations to be made to govern technical and other matters to be taken into account when assessing the performance of the information security service providers.
- Clause 30 enables the matters to be specified in a digital certificate (as defined in the Bill) to be prescribed by regulation.
- Clause 31 sets out the duties and responsibilities of a signature device holder.

Part VII limits certain provisos to criminal and civil liability of any intermediaries and e-commerce service providers for certain actions of a customer with respect to electronic records stored on or processed by or pass through their systems. These principles are laid down for all EU countries in Articles 12 - 14 of the EU directive.

On certain legal aspects of electronic commerce in the internal market and the actual wording is apparently from the Isle of Man Electronic Transaction Bill 2000. There are similar provisions with somewhat different wording in section 27 of the Bermuda Electronics Act 1999.

- Clause 32 sets out, as seen in the law, what I have just mentioned under this part.

Part VIII is data protection and this part is to allow companies to voluntarily comply with EU regulations governing the export of personal information to non-EU countries. Failure to comply could result in that flow of information being stopped. These provisions are consistent with the safe harbour principles that have been negotiated between United States and the EU Commission. However, this agreement was reached only very recently and as yet to be ratified by member states. By leaving the details of this provision to the regulations we should be able to incorporate any last minute changes. Provisions are similar to section 26 of the Bermuda law.

- Clause 33 authorises the Governor to make regulations.
- Clause 34 is based upon section 26 of the Bermuda Electronic Transaction Act and it deals with information security service providers issuing digital certificates and matters relating to the transfer of personal details to law enforcement agencies for investigation or when otherwise required by law.

Part IX which is miscellaneous sets out regulation making hours.

- Clause 36 defines the situation which arises when an offence is committed by a body corporate, that is, by a company.
- Clause 37 is the general power to make regulations on any matter necessary for carrying out the purposes and provisions of the law.
- Clause 38 makes clear that nothing under the law confers the power to impose the requirement on any person to deposit a key for electronic records with another person referred to as a key escrow. This is consistent with the policy of the EU and more recently by the United States.

Mr. Speaker, the view of the Minister and the Third Elected Member for George Town who are the lead persons on the political side who have propelled these Bills along, and indeed the view of the e-commerce committee itself, and I believe of the drafting committee which is substantially made up of members of the committee, is that, these laws will bring the Cayman Islands fully into the 21st century of e-commerce, of information technology. It will put us in some instances ahead of competing jurisdiction and it will provide a basis which coupled with what we would hope and expect Cable & Wireless to do with the lowering of rates in these areas will provide a new and alternative and a thriving business for the future of the Cayman Islands.

I have no doubts, sir, that amendments will have to be made to these laws perhaps far more often than most other laws because we are in a world of rapidly changing technology and the computer of last month, many times, is outdated this month. Definitely, the computer and the technology of last year is well out-of-date by this year. But I believe that the team that has put this together with the leading members, the Minister of Tourism, and the Honourable Third Elected Member for George Town have done an extremely good job. A lot of hard work has been put in especially by the drafting committee and the legal draftsman, the Attorney General.

Once again, I would like to thank all members of the committee and members of this House for their support on that motion and I believe their support of this Bill. I am very happy that this will provide an alternative yet a modern and very developing and advancing new business for the Cayman Islands. As we have moved into a new century only recently, sir, it is really fitting that the Electronic Transactions Bill is in the year 2000. It is a good year to begin this new century. Thank you.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Electronic Transactions Bill, 2000 be given a second reading.

It is my understanding that before we go into the debate on this Bill that it is the wish of the House that we adjourn in order that select committees and other meetings can be held. I would entertain a motion for the adjournment.

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

ADJOURNMENT

MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have apologies from the Honourable Second Official Member who will absent today and tomorrow.

Moving on to item number 4 on today's Order Paper, Questions to Honourable Members and Ministers, Question 47 is standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION 47

No. 47: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for the portfolio of Finance and Economic Development if Government is giving any consideration to making the Monetary Authority the regulatory body for commercial interest rates in the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Up until this time the Government has not considered making the Monetary Authority the regulatory body for commercial interest rates in the Cayman Islands. However, as mentioned in Private Member's Motion No. 11/2000, recommendation will be made for the Monetary Authority to become involved with the clearing banks in the setting of interest rates.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: If the Monetary Authority would not be acting as a regulatory body, can the Honourable Third Official Member then state how they can be involved in any meaningful manner with the clearing banks in deciding the commercial interest rates?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, that is a very good question and it is one that will have to be explored. But I am sure the honourable Member recognises that normally in countries where we have the local regulatory agency involved in the fixing of interest rates, there is normally in place a central banking structure. This central banking structure normally has a given level of independence in order to regulate the financial industry on behalf of the government.

In this instance, it would be a bit unusual for the Monetary Authority to become involved working with the clearing banks in the setting of interest rates. I do believe that it is a viable option, and one that should be explored because in the absence of the Monetary Authority becoming involved, the other arm that would have to take up this responsibility would be Executive Council. I think it is much better to have the Monetary Authority.

I don't think it would pose a conflict of interests because we know in countries where there are central banks, they have the responsibility of the setting of interest rates in terms of working with the local financial institutions and also the regulation of those institutions within their respective financial communities.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Perhaps, it is also fair comment to say that there are territories that do not have central banks but have agencies parallel to our Monetary Authority that actually operate as the regulatory body.

While the Honourable Third Official Member has said that the autonomy of such a body would be important for the role it plays, why then would it really pose a problem in the future if the Monetary Authority acquires this independence and this operation? Why would it be a problem to operate as a regulatory body rather than just joining the mix?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Before we get to the Monetary Authority and its independence, we have to look in terms of the mechanisms that governments normally use in order to regulate economies, that is, to expand and contract.

We normally find that it is carried out by two functions. Normally, there is the fiscal approach, and this is used in the area where taxes are levied and also benefits are extended to corporations to create inducements. The second approach will be the monetary policy. Again, this is an area that is used quite effectively by quite a number of countries where normally a central banking function is put in place, or a parallel.

For example, in the United States, they have the Federal Reserve system and this is very much similar to a central banking function. What we have in the Cayman Islands at this point in time is the Monetary Authority. We need to have an organisation with the research capacity to understand what is happening within the economy that can explore and do research as necessary to support decisions that are taken in a rational way within our financial industry. On this basis, if we commence at this point (and this will be the recommendation that we begin to explore ways and means whereby we can have an agency of the Government to meet with the clearing banks and to sit in dialogue with the clearing banks to determine how interest rates should be adjusted) this should not create a conflict of interest in terms of the regulation of those financial institutions. The regulation deals with good management and prudence.

On the fixing of interest rates, we are looking at a mechanism that will seek to maintain a balance within the community or within the Cayman Islands society—a balance whereby benefits will accrue not only to a given sector but the entire sector. When I say that, it means in looking at what is supposed to be the equilibrium or the benefit; the fixing of interest rates in terms of the impact that will have on the local community, while at the same time bringing about the benefits that are being sought by way of profits to the banking community.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: With the greatest of respect, I think the member is hedging his answer. That is my opinion.

I don't accept what the member has said as being in line in what makes sense. In the interest of transparency how can the member suggest that the Monetary Authority should simply talk with these people and not be in a position to have any checks and balances? That is my understanding of what he is answering me—that you are simply going to talk to them to decide on these rates.

The Monetary Authority in my view should either have a regulatory position or not be involved at all, as it is now. The position that obtains in the country is that the clearing banks between themselves and themselves alone make that decision. No one suggests that their decisions are wrong, but there are no checks and balances in place. In my view, the Monetary Authority would be the only body that could be used. Surely, the government would wish to pursue a position where transparency exists in the procedure. Also, they would wish to know that there is a check and balance in place that the public is satisfied with the procedure.

Could the Honourable Third Official Member state if it is not the best position for the government to get to where the agency acts as a regulatory body rather than simply joining forces to make a decision?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The First Elected Member for George Town is very much correct in saying that I am hedging my answer. When the government commences discussions with the financial institutions, it will have to be by means of exploring the various options and the role that the Monetary Authority could play in this exercise. We do not know at this point in time, for example, whether there are sufficient Cayman Islands dollars within the local banking community in order to support the mortgages that are being granted.

We do not know how many deposits are being laid off overseas. We do not know in terms of the variations in interest rates that are there. It is necessary for a thorough research to be done in order to fix the position or the role that the Monetary Authority will play in this exercise—it could be by way of legislation.

The banks could agree that there are different methods to use in terms of fixing interest rates rather than adjusting rates, for example, every time there is movement in the PRIME rate within the United States. We know, for example, when the Federal Reserve Board decided that it was going to increase interest rates in May of this year by one-half of one percent, it was also done here in the Cayman Islands. We know what PRIME rate means—this is the rate that is extended to preferred customers. This was increased again by a further 3% to bring it to 9.5%.

The First Elected Member for West Bay said that in the United States he had information whereby mortgage rates were not adjusted over and above the PRIME rate (that is, 9.5%), some of them were kept under the 9.5%. We know here that in addition to PRIME that there is a further 300 basis points, or 3%, added to bring it to 12.5%.

So, it is necessary to look at all of these variables and come to a decision. This will be a conscious and significant move by the government in terms of moving into this area. So, it is one of such that will have to be explored and researched. I agree that it would be good to have an institution with the capacity to regulate the fixing of interest rates. But let us take that decision, or say that this is the most viable option when we have done the research and we have arrived at a point in time where the research and the findings from that research support that conclusion.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If not, we will move on to Question 48 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION N 48
Withdrawn

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker in light of the fact that the government gave an undertaking in Private Member's Motion NO. 11/2000, I would crave the leave of the House to withdraw this question in the interest of the foregoing and also in the interest of time.

The Speaker: Do we have a seconder for that?
The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I beg to second that.

The Speaker: A motion has been made that this question be withdrawn. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Question 48 has been withdrawn.

AGREED: QUESTION 48 WITHDRAWN.

The Speaker: Item number 5 on today's Order Paper, Other Business, Private Members' Motions, Continuation of debate on Private Member's Motion No. 10/2000, the Establishment of a "Safe House" for Battered Women and Children. Does any member wish to speak?
The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

OTHER BUSINESS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 10/00

ESTABLISHMENT OF A "SAFE HOUSE" FOR BATTERED WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Mr. Roy Bodden: I wish to make a brief contribution to this debate. I am going to offer what I hope will be accepted as constructive criticism and some direction in which I think we should go with this motion.

I believe that the time has come for the establishment of such a facility in these islands. However, the establishment of this facility is not without some challenges, and I would suspect that we would need to have some idea of what we are talking about in terms of accommodation, how many persons we would be thinking of catering to and over what time. Now, to the best of my knowledge no survey has been done.

One of the concerns I have with this kind of project, Mr. Speaker, is that it is just like Gresham's Law. That says that work expands to fill the time. We have to be careful that when we construct this facility that we are not caught into a bind where we have to keep enlarging the facility or keep constructing more. What we have to establish from the outset is some kind of policy and plan that is definitive and does not end up in these people staying in this facility for the balance of their lives. Have some kind of system in place where this can just be like a transition point.

In that regard, I would suggest, as I have suggested before in tackling some of our education problems where we experience dysfunction amongst students, these kinds of solutions are best done through an integrated approach. In this case, I am suggesting that the integrated approach include the ministries and their departments, Social Services, Community Affairs and to a lesser extent, education. Presumably, many of these women who come are going to have to come with their children and the kind of situation we could have is where is this facility going to be. If it is in George Town, what is going to happen to someone who has to come from East End with two or three school aged children and has to be resident in a facility in George Town and those children were going to the primary school in East End? It is not without some challenges.

And if they have to be resident in the facility for three months, we have to ensure that there is a smooth transition. If the children are coming from East End and the mother is in residence in a home in George Town, I would assume that the children would have to be placed in a school in George Town temporarily.

So, let us not delude ourselves into thinking that once we have constructed the facility that is the end of the problem—that may just be the beginning of the challenge.

I notice that this is an election year, well into election time, and the government seems to have taken on an air of generosity and has accepted many things. I wish that I had brought my wish list seeing that the government has recently been in such a charitable mood.

This facility is not without some considerable expense and I am going to suggest that rather than the government undertake to do it solely as a government project that they try to interest the various service clubs into a joint effort because these things are best done through joint efforts. It seems to me that the service clubs are eminently poised to offer assistance to the government in these regards and I can think of the Lion's Club of Tropical Gardens, which seem to be an energetic bunch of predominantly ladies who seems to have a knack for getting things done. Then we have the Kiwanis and the Rotary and the Lion's themselves.

So, I would posit that the government rather than rely solely on resources of the Treasury do a joint effort with the service clubs into the development of this facility.

Mr. Speaker, you know, I don't want to seem petty, but years ago we had a good opportunity to address these kinds of problems were we more candid and forthright with ourselves. I remember bringing a motion that called upon the government to investigate into the kinds of conditions that lead to these kinds of problems. However, it was in the heyday of the National Team and their arrogance and the motion was voted down. Now, the National Team would prefer not to be identified as the National Team since many members have gone their separate ways. But as a historian, I cannot let the culprits get away with the fact that again we have lost precious time through political arrogance and posturing, and many people—including innocent children—have suffered as a consequence.

In this august House, we have to get away from this idea that motions well meaning are swatted down because they have come from the wrong side of the House.

The final point I wish to make is that a family study has been done. I would have thought that such a study would have been the basis for us arriving at some kind of policy as to how we are going to address these kinds of dysfunction in our society.

Again, in closing I would like to emphasise that I think the ideal address to this kind of problem would be through an integrated approach involving Community Affairs, Social Services and Education, and that we should involve some of the ideas which came out of the family study. This is a growing phenomenon, unfortunately, we have to be prepared to combat it if our society is to continue to progress. I give my wholehearted support to the motion and I am looking forward to see it come to its fruition. Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you. I would also like to offer my contribution on this very timely and important motion.

First of all, I must pay tribute to the mover and the seconder of this motion. I would like to say the three lady representatives in this Legislative Assembly, the level of debate that they have produced and the interest and the calibre of people that they are speaks well for these three people.

I think that the public can be proud of the contribution and the interest that they have shown to try to alleviate the problems in this area. I would say that it is never too late to do good, whatever that this has not been dealt with before, the commitment has been given by the Minister of Community Affairs. I am sure I can speak on behalf of the Minister for Education and also Social Services which falls under my ministry that we can work together to put together a programme that can assist in giving assistance to those people that might find themselves in this most unfortunate situation.

I think the mover of this motion, the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, went into great detail as was laid out in her opening to set out the environments in which this was brought, the research that she did, working not only with the Vision 2008 Office but also with Social Services and other people who have to deal with this problem.

My feeling is it most important that we have now committed and have accepted that there is this problem. I think it continues to show the maturity of the Cayman Islands and specifically the members of this Legislative Assembly that we are prepared to deal with this. Anyone can say that it is a bit late but let us now go forward and work together. There is no doubt in my mind that the entities named, the Lion's Club of Tropical Gardens, the Business and Professional Women's Club and other areas, will certainly assist. I think they are some of the people who have been preaching about this. The main thing it is now brought to a position where the responsibility and the commitment of government, working with other private sector agencies, that we can deal with this.

The Fourth Elected Member from George Town mad some interesting sociological aspects of this motion. I think we also have to look at this. There is no doubt in my mind that the motion that we have in Cayman today did not happen overnight and as we deal with these and put in place programmes like what is advocated in this motion we can certainly improve the plight of these unfortunate people.

In closing I would like to once again say that the calibre of the three lady representatives that we have in this Legislative Assembly continues to show the interest they have. I honestly don't think it is for political mileage that any of this has been done, it is for the interest of the people. I think we can take our hats off to them and we are proud to have them in here with us.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak?

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I certainly will make a contribution that is very short because I believe that this is one of those motions that we certainly should lend our support to but I also believe that it is time for some action and not talk.

Many of us who have wide-ranging experiences within the wider communities in the Cayman Islands have witnessed instances of this nature, that is, the type of situation which arise when it comes to domestic violence and women and children are facing the brunt of it. I also believe that there is the odd occasion when the situation is reversed. I don't want to cloud the issue here and make any long comment on the other situation with men, simply because I think the statistics will prove that women face the larger portion of such incidents.

Mr. Speaker, I wonder when we look at a motion of this nature and we go back to some five years ago, I remember the Elected Member for North Side brought a motion to set up a Woman's Affairs Office. The motion was passed unanimously in this House but I am wondering what has transpired since then if there is anything forthcoming on a firm policy on the part of government with regards to women. Perhaps, this may be in the works—I don't know. But I am thinking if we are on the one hand accepting a motion of this nature seemingly in unanimous fashion that incorporated in all this we should have some type of fixed policy identifying goals and objectives in this area at a national level.

I believe also that some time ago there was some mention of an offer made by a Caymanian lady and her husband, if memory serves me correctly, were prepared to build or purchase a suitable location to be used as a safe house for women. I have not heard anything more of this. I don't know whether this was just something in passing or whether it was something that could well be utilised in creating such a safe house for women because the motion calls for establishment of a safe house for battered women and children. So, I cannot give any more details, I just remember hearing about this and I am wondering if the government might be able to reply in some form or fashion. I believe that we need to work along with the Social Services Department and perhaps the Police, as has been mentioned in the motion, seemingly that is where the statistics are coming from. So, perhaps all agencies that are relevant to the cause need to be incorporated. I believe that this should form part and parcel of a policy that is why I asked the question.

I certainly commend the motion and I hope that in accepting the motion some tangible results will come forth with regards to making this a reality. It is a fact that the social problems in this area are certainly on the rise. There are many other reasons which probably don't need to be discussed in this motion which would cause these things to occur but certainly while looking at preventative policy we also have to accept the fact that it is a Utopian situation to think that it will stop occurring. As a result, while we look on the one hand to prevent such occurrences, we also have to look for the means to deal with these things when they do happen because it is not going to go away.

Again, I commend the motion and I do trust that we will see some reasonable expeditious action being taken so that this can become a reality. Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak? If no other member wishes to speak, does the mover wish to exercise here right of reply?

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: First, let me take this opportunity to sincerely thank the Elected Member from North Side for agreeing to second this motion. Like me, she also becomes very emotional and she can also relate to receiving the desperate calls for help. Also, my sincere thanks and gratitude to government for accepting the motion and many thanks and more gratitude to my other colleagues for supporting it.

I just would like to say that I do accept the constructive criticism put forward by some of my colleagues here and I do take the points put forward but let me just say in seeking the help of some of the social clubs is indeed our intention. I would also like to thank those who have called me since Monday night not only to thank me for bringing the motion but also to offer possible solutions with regards to a safe house.

Also, my humble thanks and appreciation to the Caymanian Compass for the national attention in yesterday's newspaper.

This has certainly been an important day, not only for me, but also for those to whom this motion is aimed—to the women and children of Cayman Islands. I am extremely pleased with the overwhelming support I have found on both sides. There is nothing more terrible than receiving a call from an abused woman in the middle of the night to say her husband or boyfriend arrived intoxicated or whatever the reasons might be and that she has become the target or the punching bag. I always hear the same thing, 'if only I had somewhere to go to for the night'. But because that place of safety is not yet provided, she and her children must remain in the home and put up with the abuse. Today with the acceptance of this motion, I sincerely trust this will change and soon.

Also, from the platform on which I stand and the seat that I occupy, whatever it takes to make the lives of women and their children more comfortable and pleasant count on me, I am here to do the job.

Mr. Speaker, many hours of research went into this motion and you know truthfully there were times when I had to stop and ask myself, 'is this really happening in the daily lives of women and children here in our little island'. We are all aware of it but when one goes to the depth that I have gone to gather the information that is needed, it means more than listening to the late night calls. It meant gathering the statistics, watching films on domestic violence, listening to the counsellors, hearing it first hand from the victims, searching the internet, looking at pictures of beaten and abused women and much more.

Mr. Speaker, the 1997 Newsletter published in conjunction with the 16 days of activism against gender violence, the then president of the Business and Professional Club, said it all when she wrote the following, and I quote: “Much patience is required in seeking long-term solutions. It is in the area of practical support that the earliest benefits may become apparent with a telephone first contact, specifically, for abused victims and further efforts to find suitable premises for a refuge or safe house.

“World wide experience in this field has shown that victims need to escape from the violent environment to a place of safety albeit temporarily before satisfactory solutions can be attained. It is my per- sonal view that provision of such a facility should be high on the agenda if victims are to receive the kind of support which is needed."

Also, the Minister of Community Affairs has just passed me a note saying that the ministry is presently working on a draft gender policy and a consultant has been hired to assist with this gender policy. The offer that the First Elected Member for George Town was referring to with regards to building a safe house has been withdrawn for personal reasons. The ministry has already started working on a conceptual plan for a safe house. So, I guess that will answer what the First Elected for George Town brought up in his debate.

Mr. Speaker, the message that the then President of the Business and Professional Women's Club wrote back in 1997, I think, we are in a position today to say that we have heard that message very loud and clear.

Once again, many thanks and before I take my seat I would like to thank each and every one who have contributed to this motion and to also thank Almighty God for giving me the wisdom and compassion to deal with such a difficult and emotional issue. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 10/00 entitled Establishment of a "Safe House" for Battered Women and Children. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The motion is passed.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 10/2000 PASSED.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Member's Motion No. 8/2000 entitled Watersports Concessions at Major Hotels to be moved by the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 8/00

WATERSPORTS CONCESSIONS AT MAJOR HOTELS

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 8/2000 entitled Watersports Concessions at Major Hotels which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS there are a number of Caymanians who depend upon the local watersports industry for the daily financial survival of themselves and their families;

"AND WHEREAS it is becoming increasingly difficult for these Caymanians to earn a decent, honest living in this industry because of the unfair competition from the larger (basically foreign owned) companies which have been awarded the concessions at the major hotels and which are attempting to monopolise this industry;

"AND WHEREAS it is important to ensure that Caymanians continue to earn an honest living from this and other chosen areas of business to ensure the continuance of the social harmony that we enjoy in these Islands which is one of the key reasons for our financial success;

"BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT Government consider taking appropriate steps in meeting the major hotels to negotiate a possible end to the watersports concessions, to enable all interested parties to solicit business from these properties."

The Speaker: Do we have a seconder?
The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I second the motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 8/2000 has been duly moved and seconded. Do you wish to speak to it? The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I also want to thank the First Elected Member from West Bay for seconding the motion for me.

Mr. Speaker, this issue is a very important one to a number of Caymanians that depend on the watersports industry for their livelihood. We have well known Caymanian pioneers in the watersports business, namely in the persons of Captain Crosby Ebanks, Captain Frank Ebanks, Captain Marvin Ebanks, and other well known operators in this area. It was men like these who established the worldwide well-known tourist attraction Stingray City.

My understanding of how this happened was that when they went out on trips, and they did a lot of snorkel trips in the North South area, that they would stop in a certain area and basically claim their conch or fish or whatever it is. Over a period of time, the rays started to congregate in this area recognising that this was an area that they could come to be fed. Over the years, Stingray City became a well-known tourist attraction.

Mr. Speaker, I had a young lady come to my office just recently who is attempting to earn a living from this particular business. She is stationed at the port and she tries to book groups for a trip to the North Sound. She said, "Normally I am out there early in the morning until sometimes 2.00 - 3.00 in the afternoon, and might earn $20 - $40—or nothing—for the day. I have my rent to pay. I have a little son, and I am a single parent. What is so frustrating is that I stand there and see people coming off of those cruise ships by the thousands pre-booked for the North Sound watersports trip."

Having depended on earning a living in that area for a year and a half, I knew exactly what she was talking about. There is no need for that kind of situation to exist in this country. And even with this specific motion dealing with the concessions in the hotels, I think it is important for me to paint an overall picture of the difficulties that our people are experiencing in this particular area.

Like I said, there is no need for that type of situation to exist in this country, and I blame the Minister of Tourism and the Department of Tourism for not doing more with regard to negotiating with the cruise ships. All that it would take is a call from the ministry saying 'I want to meet with the cruise directors of these specific cruise ships.'

I am told that the Cayman Islands is a very important destination for those cruises. I don't think that contacting the cruise directors about the possibility of sharing a business is going to turn them away. I cannot see that, Mr. Speaker! There is many cents and dollars involved. Bring them to office and say, 'you know, we have a problem—we have to learn to share the business a little better than it is being shared right now.' As a matter of fact, with the Minister's assistance, just after the 1996 elections, we were able to get some concessions for some of the other tour operators for business from the cruise ships. That is going fairly well. There is no reason why the same approach cannot be taken with regard to the independent watersport operators or those who are members of the Cayman Islands Watersports Association or the other association that is registered here in the Cayman Islands. There is enough business for everyone to earn a decent living, and no one has to go hungry.

We have major operators who have the contacts, and they control the business from the cruise trips. Those cruise directors are, in my mind, mercenaries, in that they do business with the person or the group that is going to offer them the most in return. I will give an example of what I am talking about: A snorkel trip on the cruise ship is being sold at about $40 per person or higher. Now, that same trip to the North Sound if that was solicited from an independent person onshore who is selling that business would be about $20 - $25.

The other thing to keep in mind is that out of that $40 for that particular ticket, they probably take $20 - $25 and they give the operator here in the Cayman Islands $15 per person. Because of that they are not just going to voluntarily give up that particular business.

Now, a similar situation also exists at the major hotels—I am talking about the Hyatt, the Marriott, and the Westin Hotels. The major watersports here basically have the contacts and the influence, and what has happened as a result of that is that they were able to go into hotels and say, 'you give me the exclusive right to solicit business from your property, and in return you get a percentage.'

I don't know what the compensation package is, but as a result of that, very little business is solicited by independent operators in the watersports industry.

Now, I think it was between the 1992 and 1996 term that the present Minister of Tourism (and this was an issue during the 1992 election campaign) went to the hotel. Hotels agreed to would allow a rack to be placed in the hotels where the independent operators could stack their brochures and hopefully by doing that be in a position to solicit some business from the hotels.

Now, first of all, this particular rack for the brochures is not located in an ideal and visible area. The other thing, I still hear of incidents where representatives from the major parties that own the concessions at the hotels actually go by the brochure rack, take the brochures out, and throw them in the garbage. At the hotels, if an employee is caught recommending anybody other than the party that owns the concession at the hotels, they are threatened with termination of their employment. Because of that, they don't always promote business for independent watersports operators.

In an effort to assist, the Department of Tourism sponsored an advertisement in one of the major magazines for the Cayman Islands Watersports Association, which was a good gesture, and I am quite sure as a result of that they did get some business. Today, with Caymanians having to struggle in order to make a living—with the high cost of living, with the competitive environment that we live in—it is becoming increasingly difficult in the watersports area for our honest, decent, hardworking, Caymanians to continue to earn a living. Because of the difficulty, many have chosen to give up the watersports business and have sought employment elsewhere.

What is also annoying (and I have had this happen to me) is that in the majority of our watersports operators that take out visitors for diving or to Stingray City are basically all foreign nationals. That causes two problems: First of all, we get someone here on a work permit. They are here for two days working with one of the major concessions, and he is put in charge of a boat and told he is responsible for taking people to Stingray City.

Mr. Speaker, you are an old captain, so maybe you have experience in this area. I've done a lot of fishing but . . . let me tell you, if you are operating in that North Sound and you don't know the waters, you can run into a lot of difficulty. We've heard stories of boats running aground on the reef or the shallow bars in that area because the operators were not aware of what they were doing.

I believe it is time for government to have some type of negotiation with all parties involved in order to come up with a fairer system that will ensure that all parties that depend on this industry can earn a living. What I am suggesting is that a committee or council be set up by the Ministry of Tourism. It could consist of representatives of the major concessions operating at the hotels, representatives from the two watersports associations, representatives from the major hotels, maybe the Minister of Tourism and any other assistants he may wish to add from his Department of Ministry. They could sit down with a view to coming up with a compromise that would make it much more equitable for all parties involved, especially our independent watersports operators.

I am a representative who believes we should be proactive rather than reactive. I believe that it is important for us to do whatever necessary to ensure that we continue to enjoy social harmony in this country. That is one of the main assets of the Cayman Islands. We have always lived together in harmony as a community—Caymanians, non-Caymanian residents, and visitors.

There are no barriers, no classes, and that is what has made our society very ideal indeed.

But there are pressures. There is a growing resentment between the have's and the have-nots. In most cases the have's are big businesses or foreign nationals and the have-nots are small Caymanians trying to earn an honest living in their own country.

I believe that whatever government can do to assist in resolving the situation would be welcomed by those persons depending upon this very important industry for a living. I am not advocating any hard line. I am asking government to put together this committee and sit down in an atmosphere of compromise in order to arrive at concessions that will be beneficial to all parties. I am not recommending that government just make ultimatums. I don't feel that is the way forward in this particular instance. When you take a heavy-handed approach (and sometimes you have to do that), it should be as a last resort. It's better if we can arrive at a negotiated position.

I commend the motion to this honourable House and trust we will get the government's support as well as that of honourable members.

The Speaker: The floor is open for debate. The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The honourable Minister of Tourism is on official government business overseas. He has asked me to reply on this matter.

The motion itself calls for meetings with the major hotels to negotiate a possible gain to the watersports concessions. The minister has said that the government does support this motion. This has been an area, like many areas of local business, where there have been persons wishing to see extensions into the watersports area to increase the competition. I know that the honourable minister will definitely enter into these talks with a view to furthering the interests of the local watersports industry.

Back on 9 February this year, the House passed a motion that was partly related to the present motion. It was Private Member's Motion 29/99 which related to the feasibility of extending the North Sound jetty in West Bay, and also related to the building of boat slips. Another resolve clause asked to take whatever action necessary to ensure that taxis, watersports operators and tour buses from the Port get a fair share of the business emanating from cruise ships. It was brought by the First Elected Member for West Bay and the Elected Member for North Side.

I also know that in relation to the Immigration side and the select committee that published sometime back . . . there's also a concern over dealing with matters such as this from the Immigration point of view.

At present the honourable Minister of Tourism has managed to negotiate and, by regulation 6(1) of the Tourism Regulations 1999, a rack which has the brochures and rates and other matters relating to watersports must now be put in the lobby of all hotels. So there has been some good movement on this, and I know that the watersports industry welcomed that move.

The first step has already been taken. I think what the honourable mover is really requesting is perhaps a second step in the same direction. I am sure the minister will have to hear both from the major hotels and the watersports industry. I believe he will find a good solution that is fair and in the interests of both parties.

This motion is supported by the government. I commend the mover and the seconder.

Two points were raised: One was in relation to consultation with the cruise ship industry. I know that goes on quite regularly. The minister has been able to get many areas that have benefited local people over and above what happens in some of the other Caribbean islands. The cruise ship companies are very large and very powerful. I know that the minister, with his experience as a former chairman of the Caribbean Hotel Association, was able to deal with them on a collective basis, built up a reputation for hard negotiating which I know he does on the international teams. I am sure that he will do the same in these talks.

The second point was that the hotels, the watersports associations, and other related associations should get together on these matters. The minister has been able to achieve this. He has been able to get together all or substantially all of the associations. I think that would have gone a long way.

Those two matters raised by the Third Elected Member for West Bay, the mover, have been done by the honourable minister. Government supports the motion and the minister undertakes to carry out the wish of this honourable House.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I am very supportive of this motion. I am happy to have had the opportunity to second this motion. This motion is, sad to say, one of several that government has supported over a period of years. I am glad that they supported them, nevertheless, motions receiving the unanimous support of the House get nothing much accomplished.

I would like to pick up where the Minister of Education (standing in for the Minister of Tourism) left off. The minister said there have been many areas that have benefited many local people. I have been trying to take an in-depth look at what has been accomplished that has benefited many local people in that sector, and I cannot find but three local people, which might be stretched to another three.

To say that many local people have benefited from some accomplishment the minister did . . . I just can't see that. Also, I do not know of any benefit here in the islands seeing that only three people have benefited directly. I don't know of any benefit here that does not exist in other Caribbean territories.

If you want to see how this sector benefits the people, you have to go to The Bahamas to see how they operate their cruise port operation. A delegation from the Cayman Watersports Operation went to The Bahamas to see how The Bahamas operates, and exactly what they get out of it. They are well organised, first of all, and they have a ministry that actually pushes for them and helps negotiate for them—for the industry, not just for a few people.

I can't see what benefit the Minister of Education is talking about. I think he's just playing politics for his colleague.

I am glad, however, that there have been three people who have benefited. They are Caymanians—and from West Bay at that—and I am glad because they have been in the business long enough to know it. I am glad they can deal with it.

The racks that have been placed in the hotels are not effective. Those racks are the subject of much abuse because the hotels have the concessions and have put those racks in areas—even when you go down there and move them, they put them back in areas where the people can't find the racks. They take the brochures out of the racks. I don't know who is doing that, but they just take out the brochures.

I remember in Executive Council acting for the Minister of Tourism (just like the Minister is doing now) I had to go out on several occasions to look at the racks in the hotels. They are actually protected by a regulation of the House, but not effective. The concessions in the hotels don't give any support to the racks. Everything is done to stop the local people from getting the business simply because of the concessions.

A good example of what I call a "don't care" attitude about the rest of the people in the industry—except those three that have derived some benefits—is that as much as we have complained about concessions, as much as we have talked to the Ministry of Tourism, as many motions as this House has passed when the new Holiday Inn was given permission by the minister, he still allowed them to do a concession.

I think the House deserves more! The people deserve better! We cannot stand in the House saying, as the Minister of Tourism, that they are doing all that they can when they are handing out concessions left, right and centre. What the Minister of Tourism should have done was say to the hotel, if he was going to give them a license, 'We will give you a license but you cannot give out any concession.' That should have been part and parcel of their agreement for the construction of that hotel.

The fact remains that the local people in the watersports industry, the local small one-man operation, or husband and wife operations, are the ones that are suffering. They might get more business during the season, but, particularly in the off season, they find it hard to pay their bills. Even with an off season, we have hundreds of thousands of cruise visitors coming to these islands during the year.

The Land and Sea Cooperative took a delegation to Miami to consult with Carnival Cruise Lines. One of the problems the watersports operators have is that some of them don't have insurance and the cruise lines are demanding large amounts of public liability insurance. That's a hindrance right now.

But I contend that if the Minister of Tourism was interested in doing something for that group they would have either done something on their own, or when they saw the people trying to organise themselves, they would have supported that cooperative. But nothing has been done.

It is not all the fault of the cruise ships. The Cayman Islands have laws, they have a Port; the people come to the Port. They must be able to tell those people this is what we want done. Do you know what I found out by heading up that delegation to Miami? I found out that those people will listen and assist. Of course, they have to protect their passengers, but they are willing, once an organised step has been taken from the Cayman Islands. I contend that the Ministry of Tourism is seriously lacking in this.

The motion asks government to take appropriate steps in meeting the major hotels in negotiating a possible end to watersports concessions to enable all interested parties to solicit business from these properties.

This is the season where it seems you can get a lot of things done. It's an election year. Perhaps the Minister of Tourism will jump now to do something since it is so close to an election. If he can accomplish something, it has my support. But as long as he is not doing anything, I am going to be hounding him.

I thank the mover of this motion. He has moved motions before. I have moved motions before, because the majority of the people are small operators from West Bay. Our people are being driven out of business. They cannot get the business to stay alive. Some of them have to sell their boats. That is their business.

When we have hundreds, close to a million tourists coming via cruise ship in this country, it's a downright shame and disgrace to the Ministry of Tourism for allowing this to happen. I can say no more except that I hope something is done between now and the election. Like I said, it's a good time to get things done. I hope the minister will move now!

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak? (Pause) Does any other member wish to speak? (Pause) If not, does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply? The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I want to thank the Minister of Education, who spoke on behalf of the Minister of Tourism, and government for accepting the motion. I want to thank my colleague from West Bay, the First Elected Member for West Bay, for his contribution and support as well.

We have been dealing with this issue for a very, very long time. I believe that all it really takes is a genuine will to accomplish something in this area. I don't see the hotels refusing to sit down to negotiate. I don't see the companies that own the concessions taking that kind of attitude. It's better for us to sit down and negotiate rather than for government to demand or give ultimatums. I prefer the path of negotiation.

It is time for our people to enjoy the business that comes to this country.

When I was graduating from Morgan State University, I had no desire to work and live in the US. And I could have easily done that. I came back home because as a Caymanian I believed I should have the right and the opportunity to earn an honest, decent living in my own country.

We have worked so hard over the years to create an economic climate, a friendly atmosphere, a place people can come to and feel safe. That attracts people and business to this country. Those who have done so much in order to create this environment do not benefit at the end of the day to any large extent. It doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that if this attitude continues . . . Caymanians are under a lot of pressure, especially financially. You can easily find that attitude changing to one of 'If I can't benefit, no one can.' We will all suffer as a result of such militant action.

I believe there is room for negotiation. I believe there is room for compromise. And I believe there is sufficient business coming into this country that all parties depending on this area for their livelihood can make an honest, decent living.

Thank you for your patience. I thank the House for its support. God bless.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 8/2000, entitled Water Sports Concessions at Major Hotels. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

BILLS

SECOND READINGS

THE ELECTRONIC TRANSACTIONS BILL, 2000

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: I would just like to thank all the members for their support of this Bill. I knew that it would get that unanimous support, and I would like to thank them very much.

The Speaker: I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE ELECTRONIC TRANSACTIONS BILL, 2000 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Bills, Second Reading.

THE COMPUTER MISUSE BILL, 2000

The Clerk Assistant: The Computer [Misuse] Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: I beg to move the second reading of the Computer Misuse Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: Do you wish to speak to it?

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: This is a Bill for a Law to provide for securing computer material against unauthorised access and for related matters. It is modelled on legislation that has already been enacted in the UK, Australia, Bermuda, Singapore, New Zealand, and most other technically advanced countries.

In summary, it creates the offences of unauthorised access to computer based information ("hacking") with intent to commit further offences, aggravated hacking, unauthorised modification of computer based information (and that is hacking), introduction of a virus and similar matters, unauthorised use or interception of a computer service, and causing a computer to cease to function temporarily or permanently without authority, for example viruses or denial of service attacks.

For each of these two levels of offence are proposed. The first, where no damage to computer systems had been caused, and the second, where damage has been done.

It should be emphasised that for any of these offences to be committed, a person must be unauthorised and generally must have the necessary criminal intent or the mens rea in relation to the offence. That would normally not make in an offence where that mens rea was not present, in incidents such as accidents and mistakes.

I don't intend to go into further reading of the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons because these are clearly set out in the law, but only to provide that general summary. It is a short Bill and there are a few amendments that are more clerical than anything else. I will be moving them at the committee stage. I would ask members to please support this. It is one that is a companion to the Electronic Transaction Bill that we just passed.

The Speaker: The question is the Second Reading of the Computer Misuse Bill, 2000. Does any member wish to speak? (Pause) If no other member wishes to speak, does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Just to thank members for their kind support of this Bill. It is an important Bill and I appreciate their support.

The Speaker: The question is the Second Reading of the Computer Misuse Bill, 2000. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE COMPUTER MISUSE BILL, 2000 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Bills, second reading.

THE IMMIGRATION (AMENDMENT) BILL 2000

The Clerk Assistant: The Immigration (Amendment) Bill 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I beg to move the second reading of the Immigration (Amendment) Bill 2000.

The Speaker: Do you wish to speak to it?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: This Bill provides a series of relatively minor changes which are intended to essentially promote the efficiency of the processes related to the granting of work permits and also consideration of appeals related to either Immigration Board matters or matters of the Trade and Business Licensing Board.

The proposals have their genesis in some work done in the early part of last year by the Immigration Department under an initiative relating to the reinvention exercise. I would just like to speak to the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons.

Item (a) relates to the appeals and the introduction of the provision for a non-refundable fee of $100. Previously there had been no charge for such appeals. They obviously consume considerable time and resources both at the secretariat and at Executive Council level, which forms the appellate body.

At the moment, there is absolutely no reason why people should think twice, as it were, about lodging an appeal. In some particular areas, the numbers of appeals has been astounding. In turn, it obviously impacts the whole processing time of appeals in general. So, the introduction of this nominal fee of $100 will go to off set in some way those costs of dealing with appeals, but will hopefully also provide for the first time a real basis for people to think whether or not they want to simply lodge an appeal.

The second area the Bill deals with has to do with allowing the Chief Immigration Officer on his own to issue temporary work permits. Currently the law requires that there is a consideration both by the Chief Immigration Officer and by the Chairman of the Immigration Board. It is felt that that duplication is really no longer essential and that furthermore, it substantially impedes the turnaround time on temporary applications, due in part that obviously the Chairman of the Immigration Board does not have a full-time presence dealing with immigration matters. Instead, it is now proposed to allow the Chief Immigration Officer on his own to issue temporary work permits, and also in the interest of further enhancing the processing, to allow the Chairman or Deputy Chairman in the absence of the Chairman of the Immigration Board to do likewise.

It is expected that on any matters of special concern, those will consult as they shared the responsibility in the past. And in any case, all such temporary grants are reported to the full board shortly after being granted. So this change will hopefully improve the turnaround time on temporaries in particular.

Under (c) of the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, to provide the following clause 5 of the Bill, is a provision to allow companies who regularly need work permits for persons for short periods to make bulk applications rather than making individual applications each time the person is to visit. There are businesses with unique equipment that is not serviceable locally, or other systems requiring regular service from abroad for short periods. While the person is genuinely working here, it is obviously time consuming to process individual applications each time. So this provision allows the company to do that in bulk.

There is also a provision being introduced to allow businesses to for the first time submit a three year plan of their projected human resource needs, and in turn their projected work permit needs, and to provide information on their training initiatives and other related subjects, and in turn enable the board to take a longer term view as to a particular business and its efforts to expand and fill positions with Caymanians.

Everything we have been doing up until now through the Immigration Board with work permits has been on a retail basis, on an individual application basis. It is certainly high time that we moved on to a more bulk type consideration.

This provision will not exempt companies from having to make reasonable efforts to find and to train Caymanians, but it will simply allow their situations and their plans to be looked at comprehensively and be dealt with. And in turn for the board to not have to be dealing with individual applications, as long as they are in compliance with that plan for some period of time, the company will have the liberty of knowing what they can expect to get work permits for and obviously can operate within that permission, but not go beyond it.

Another area referred to under (d) in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons has to do with the introduction of a straight repatriation fee of $200 (I think). In the past, employers have had to assume responsibility for repatriation in the event an individual was being allowed to enter who was not able by his own means to leave. As far as meeting that obligation we've called on employers to make deposits that varied in terms of the geographic area from which the employee came.

There were two major characteristics of that system that have started to have a negative impact. One is that the system provided a greater incentive for people to recruit from the nearest available country. That has no doubt contributed to the higher proportions of work permit holders from certain jurisdictions. This flat fee arrangement will nullify any disincentive for individuals to recruit from further afield and will hopefully contribute to a balancing of the nationalities making up the non-Caymanian workforce.

Secondly, the system of making a deposit in effect created an arrangement where the Immigration Board and subsequently the government operated in effect a bank. We kept these deposits for years and years and we expect in many cases that they were not claimed when people left. Nevertheless, there was a liability to repay them if they ever did claim them. In this day and age that is not the best arrangement. We essentially hold a considerable amount of money that we are not able to use aside from any interest the account may earn. The cost of keeping it and being able to repay it exceeds what we make on it.

So, a more practical and workable arrangement seems to be to ensure against that risk of having to repatriate someone by charging a flat fee that will be prescribed under regulations.

There is also provision to exempt some categories of persons also to be prescribed by regulations, but basically people we know who come here regularly for a day or two for a meeting—shareholders or owners. They don't necessarily receive any remuneration from within the islands for the time they are here. Currently under the law there is no provision for those persons to be exempted from having to obtain a work permit.

Unlike those of us who travel to the US and are able to enter and do business for a couple of days by virtue of having a B1 visa there is simply no counterpart mechanism in our legislation. So, the intent is to introduce a provision for those short-term visitors. It will be limited to not exceeding 14 days.

Hopefully, these changes will contribute to the overall efficiency with which work permits, in particular, are dealt with and eliminate some of the rather mundane work that now goes on in dealing with these routine and repetitive matters, particularly short term visitors that often times have a negative effect in terms of the PR. In today's world people don't expect to have to get a work permit to come in for a day or two.

I recommend the Bill to members. It is not the meatier stuff the select committee has been deliberating on, but it's simply stuff that needs to be addressed to improve the administrative processes relating to work permits.

The Speaker: The question is the second reading of the Immigration (Amendment) Bill 2000. The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak? (Pause)

If not, does the mover wish to reply?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I simply wish to thank members for their support.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Immigration (Amendment) Bill 2000 be given a second reading. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE IMMIGRATION (AMENDMENT) BILL 2000 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Bills, second reading.

THE TRADE AND BUSINESS LICENSING (AMENDMENT) BILL 2000

The Clerk Assistant: The Trade and Business Licensing (Amendment) Bill 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I beg to move the second reading of a bill entitled The Trade and Business Licensing (Amendment) Bill 2000.

The Speaker: Do you wish to speak to it?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: This Bill addresses two minor areas: one corresponding to the introduction of a fee for appeals; there is also the proposed introduction of a similar fee for appeals related to decisions of the Trade and Business Licensing Board.

The second element of the Bill deals with empowering Immigration Officers to carry out instructions and act on behalf of the Trade and Business Licensing Board. At the time the Trade and Business Licensing Board was established, we had obviously had a situation where Trade and Business Licensing matters and Local Company Control Licensing matters had been dealt with by the Immigration Board who had at its disposal the staff of the Immigration Department. And there are provisions in the Immigration Law that state that that staff is required to carry out directions given by the Board.

While there may come a time in the not-too-distant future after the current expansion is completed, when we may look to provide some specialist staff to the Trade and Business Licensing Board, staff skilled in companies registration licensing practice and those matters, rather than immigration matters.

It is felt that in the interim it is essential to make the provision in the law that the Trade and Business Licensing Board can also, as in the case of the Immigration Board, direct staff of the Immigration Department to carry out activities on its behalf.

So the two changes are relatively simple, but necessary. I trust members will give their support.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled The Trade and Business Licensing (Amendment) Bill 2000 be given a second reading. The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak? (Pause)

If not, does the mover wish to reply?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Only to thank members for their support.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Mr. Chairman, can I just get some clarification?

The Chairman: Mrs. Moyle.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Amended enactment . . . are we amending other legislation through the schedule to this? Or will we be bringing amendments to this law so that when someone asks to purchase the Arbitration Law we will have the full legislation available, or do they have to refer the people purchasing these laws to this E-Commerce Law?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Normally these will be picked up in the revision. While I know this is somewhat unusual, the Law Revision Commissioner will probably revise those within a short period.

The Speaker: Mrs. Moyle.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Are you saying then, like the Stamp Duty Law will be revised almost immediately to take account of the amendments in this law? I know this has happened before and it's been months and months that people were buying laws that did not have all the amendments to them.

The Chairman: Mr. Bodden.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I can't say when, I just know that these are picked up in the revisions. I would hope that, for example, revising the Companies Law is a very big law . . . but . . . I can't say it will be done immediately.

The Chairman: Mrs. Moyle.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I guess the staff listening to this will be prepared to sell the E-Commerce Law if someone comes to buy the Stamp Duty Law, which will make it more expensive for people purchasing legislation.

The Chairman: Mr. Bodden.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The most we can do is to ask the Law Revision Commissioner to try to deal with them. I am sure the honourable Attorney General will also make the same request.

The Chairman: Is there any further debate? If not, the question is that clauses 32 through 40 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AGREED: CLAUSE 13 AMENDED.

The Chairman: I shall put the question that Clause 13 as amended do stand part of the Bill.

Mrs. Moyle.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I have some concerns when we put into legislation "police officer may arrest without warrant a person who has committed, is committing, or whom the police officer with reasonable cause suspects to have committed . . ." Are we going to employ police officers who are well trained in computers? Can someone explain this clause to me? To me it is quite a bit of power.

The Chairman: Mr. Bodden.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I have been instructed that the police are now training several officers in this area and that they will ensure that this training is put in place so that when they do exercise the powers under this law, or otherwise deal with investigating this type of crime, that they would have the training and the expertise to capably do so. But it is a wide power.

The Chairman: Mrs. Moyle.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I thank the honourable minister for that reply, but I wonder if this is going to cause us to now have to employ more police officers. Are the present police officers being trained or do we have to bring in additional officers to be trained?

The Chairman: Mr. Bodden.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I understand that present police officers will be trained.

The Chairman: Any further debate? If not, I shall put the question that Clause 13, as amended, do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 through 8 do stand part of the Bill.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Unfortunately, there are a couple of minor amendments that need to be made that have not been circulated.

The Chairman: Are they consequential? Could they be done as typographical errors?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Sir, it's an "it" to a "he" and a (2) to a (3), so . . .

The Chairman: I think the honourable Second Official Member could be authorised to make those changes. Do you have a copy of the amendments?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: No, sir I don't. It hasn't been circulated.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Just tell us what they are.

The Chairman: Can you just read out the clauses where the amendments are?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: In Clause 5 (5), the third line, middle of the line 32(1), "as it considers" . . . that should obviously be "as he considers" because it's referring to the Chief Immigration Officer.

And in the final line of that same section, item—

The Chairman: Excuse me a minute. I think we better re-commit these clauses and go through it properly.

The Clerk Assistant: Clause 1. Short title.

- Clause 2. Amendment of section 2 of the principal Law.
- Clause 3. Amendment of section 13 of the principal Law.
- Clause 4. Repeal and replacement of section 34 of the principal Law

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 through 4 do stand part of the Bill. If there's no debate I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 1 THROUGH 4 PASSED.

The Clerk Assistant: Clause 5. Addition of new section to the principal Law.

The Chairman: There is an amendment to Clause 5.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: In Clause 5 (5), the third line, middle of the line in section 32(1) [to delete the words] "as it considers" [and replace with] "as he considers."

The Chairman: I shall put the question on the amendment. I still think they are consequential . . . maybe someone with a legal brain—

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: At least in my view they are consequential amendments, changing "it" to "he." I am wondering if the honourable Attorney General agrees.

The Chairman: Honourable Second Official Member?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: He does.

The Chairman: Well, as I said at the beginning of the committee, consequential amendments would be accepted as made by the Attorney General.

I shall then revert to what we originally did and put the question that Clauses 5 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSE 5 PASSED.

The Clerk Assistant: Clause 6. Amendment of section 36 of the principal Law.

Clause 7. Amendment of section 48 of the principal Law.

Clause 8. Amendment of section 74 of the principal Law.

The Chairman: the question is that Clauses 6 through 8 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 6 THROUGH 8 PASSED.

The Clerk Assistant: A Bill for a Law to amend the Immigration Law.

The Chairman: The question is that the Title do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 2/00

AMENDMENTS TO THE DEVELOPMENT PLAN 1977

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I move Government Motion No. 2/2000, Amendments to the Development Plan 1977.

“WHEREAS:

“1. In September 1998, April 1999 and October 1999, respectively, the Central Planning Authority received applications for rezoning of: registration section West Bay Beach South, Block 19A Parcel 5-10, 12-15 and 4 Rem 1, from Heavy Industrial and Mangrove Buffer to Marine Commercial, General Commercial, Hotel/Tourism, Heavy Industrial, Light Industrial and Mangrove Buffer; registration section Prospect, Block 22E Parcel 180 Rem 6, from Low Density Residential to Institutional; registration section West Bay Beach North, Block 11D Parcel 37, from Neighbourhood Commercial to Hotel/Tourism;

“2. At meetings of the Central Planning Authority in October 1999, May 1999 and December 1999, respectively, the Authority resolved to proceed with amendments to the Plan, to wit: to change the zoning of Block 19A Parcel 5-10, 12-15 and 4 Rem 1, from Heavy Industrial and Mangrove Buffer to Marine Commercial, General Commercial, Hotel/Tourism, Heavy Industrial, Light Industrial and Mangrove Buffer; to change the zoning of Block 22E Parcel 180 Rem 6, from Low Density Residential to Institutional; to change the zoning of Block 11D Parcel 37, from Neighbourhood Commercial to Hotel/Tourism;

“3. In accordance with section 14(2) of the Development and Planning Law, Public Notices of the Authority’s intention to amend the Plan, for the first application, were published on the 1st, 3rd, 8th and

9th December 1999; for the second application the Public Notices were published on the 9th, 11th, 16th and 18th June 1999; the Notices for the last application appeared in the Caymanian Compass on the 15th, 17th, 20th and 22nd December 1999;

“4. No objections were received within the statutory period of two months;

“NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED THAT in accordance with section 13 of the Development and Planning Law (1999 Revision), the Central Planning Authority hereby recommends and submits to the Legislative Assembly the following proposals for alterations to the Development Plan 1997, a summary and map for each is attached hereto and the Legislative Assembly hereby makes the following alterations, additions and amendments to the Development Plan 1997, in accordance with the said summary and maps, which shall come into force seven days after the passing of this Resolution: that registration section West Bay Beach South: Block 19A Parcel 4 Rem 1 (part) from Heavy Industrial and Mangrove Buffer to Heavy Industrial, Mangrove Buffer, Marine Commercial, Hotel/Tourism and General Commercial; Block 19A Parcels 10, 13, 14, 15 from Heavy Industrial to Light Industrial; that registration section Prospect, Block 22E Parcel 180 Rem 6, from Low Density Residential to Institutional; that registration section West Bay Beach North, Block 11D Parcel 37, from Neighbourhood Commercial to Hotel/Tourism.”

Under the Development and Planning Law the process is that persons can apply to the Central Planning Authority to have property re-zoned. It then goes to a public hearing and the matter is fully aired. The tribunal reports back to the Central Planning Authority at which time it then takes a decision whether or not to send the re-zoning application to this honourable House.

There’s a process that comes from the legal point of view directly from the Central Planning Authority to the Legislative Assembly and I merely take it in through Executive Council for permission to bring it here, but not to amend, approve or disapprove it.

I have brought several of these in the past. As I said, it is my duty to bring here that which the CPA wishes to send to this honourable House. I therefore ask members to please support this motion.

The Speaker: Government Motion No. 2/2000 has been duly moved. Does any member wish to speak to it? (Pause) Does any member wish to speak to this motion? If not, does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Just to thank honourable members for their support.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Government Motion 2/2000. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 2/2000 PASSED.

The Speaker: I have a request from the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning to make a statement. I have granted such request.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning.

STATEMENT BY MINISTER OF GOVERNMENT

ACADEMIC PROBATION POLICY AT TRIPLE C SCHOOL

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you for granting that permission. This is a statement on the academic probation policy at Triple C School.

As a private school, the Board of Governors of the Triple C School have the right to make the academic probation policy, or any other policy, as long as it does not contravene the Education Law. It is my understanding that neither the Ministry nor the Department of Education had any knowledge of this new policy until they were contacted by a member of the press and by parents of the affected student.

There is no requirement under the Education Law for a private school to file their internal policies with either the Education Council or the Ministry of Education. A committee is now working on a new Education Law.

Private schools provide an alternative to the government schools and receive an annual support grant, but they are not required by law to either admit or retain a student. Government, on the other hand, is required under the Education Law 1983 to provide education for all students in government schools up to the age of 16. Every effort will be made to place those students affected by the academic probation policy who wish it in government schools. Government schools do not have an academic probation policy.

The Speaker: That concludes business before this honourable House for this meeting.

At this time I would like to take the opportunity to thank Members for their courtesies and tolerance to the Chair. I would like to thank the Deputy Speaker for the able way in which she handled the Chair during my absence, the Clerk, the Deputy Clerk, members of the office staff, the Hansard officers, the Serjeant-at-Arms and Anita for the efficient service rendered to us all during this meeting.

I would like to wish all members a pleasant vacation, if anyone can find the time!

I will now entertain a motion for the adjournment of this honourable House. The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I am extremely happy to move the adjournment of this honourable House until Wednesday, 6 September at 10.00 AM.

The Speaker: The question is that this honourable House do now adjourn until 6 September 2000, at 10.00 AM. Those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

Item number 4 on today's Order Paper, Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. Question number 49 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION 49

No. 49: Mr. W. McKeeva Bush asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources to list the total staff complement of the Water Authority by nationality and job description.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The total staff complement of the Water Authority by nationality and job description is as follows (See Appendix I attached).

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I might have missed it but can the minister say who is the director now?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The director remains the same—Mr. McTaggart.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I appreciate that answer. I can see that gentleman is in the House, I suppose he is still in charge but we know that he has tendered his resignation. Not seeing the post . . . would the minister say, if this is so, then, who will be the director?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The replacement will be Dr. Gelia Frederick van Genderen, who is the deputy. My understanding is that once the new director is in place (who is now the deputy) there will be a recommendation for an appointment of deputy.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Is the minister saying as of yet there is no agreement whether that person will be from within or from without the office or from overseas?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Not to the best of my knowledge.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state what the procedure will be in selecting a new deputy?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: As I mentioned earlier, the assessment will have to be carried out by the new director who in turn would make recommendations to the Board but thus far there has been no recommendations.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: So, am I to understand that it is the Board who makes the final selection for such a post?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The recommendations as I pointed out will come before the Board for a decision.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Can the honourable minister say if there are any Caymanians presently on staff who are qualified to fill this deputy director position?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: It is my understanding that there are Caymanians capable of filling that.

The Speaker: No further supplementaries? We will move on to question number 50 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 50

NO. 50: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources to state whether the sewage treatment facility is functioning at its optimum efficiency.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources

Hon. John B. McLean: The Water Authority's sewage treatment facility off Seymour Road in George Town is not currently operating at its optimum efficiency.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the minister inform the House since when this situation has existed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The sewage treatment facility was commissioned in 1987 and was designed to cater for a total inflow of $1.2 million gallons per day. This peak design flow was not anticipated to occur until 2006. The actual population growth within the West Bay beach service area has been considerably greater than the predicted growth rate at the time the plant was designed.

Additionally, some sewage collection pipes have developed various leaks, which are regularly repaired; therefore, the actual inflow to the plant has been in excess of 1.4 million gallons per day since 1998.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the minister say why efforts were not made to address this seemingly increasing problem prior to it reaching this level?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: In April 1998, the Water Authority Board accepted a recommendation from management to replace the existing plant with a sequencing batch reactor plant on the same site. The new plant will be modular and has been designed to cater for a total inflow of 2.5 million gallons per day. The new plant can be expanded to a total treatment capacity of 10 million gallons per day and three additional upgrades. The design inflow of 10 million gallons per day is not expected to occur until the year 2020.

Design work for the first phase of the new plant is 95% complete but the project is on hold until financing has been approved by the Government.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: The sewage treatment facility was recognised as operating at its maximum level of efficiency some time ago. The Authority put in place, in 1995 or 1996, a ten-year development plan that recognised this. Also, plans were made to rectify the situation in a timely and efficient manner. Can the minister say what is now holding up the rectification of this matter?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The Board of Directors for the Water Authority has secured the financing for the project. The matter has been sent to government for approval and that is where the matter stands at this time.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Can the honourable minister say what is the hold-up with Executive Council in not giving their assent to the financing and how long has Executive Council had this matter in hand?

Mr. Speaker, I should say that we went to visit—I think you were part of the delegation that went to visit the garbage dump and saw what was happening there. So, we all know what the situation is. Government is aware. When I say ‘government,’ I think a lot of people are getting that mixed up between this side of the House and that side of the House. Executive Council is well aware of what the situation is. Can the minister say what is the hold-up?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: As I pointed out, the Board of Directors secured financing through a local bank. The matter was referred to Executive Council through my ministry. It was actually put before Executive Council, I think, in October last year. I cannot go into detail as to what took place in Executive Council, as members are aware, but that is where the matter stands at this time.

The Speaker: Do you have a follow-up? The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town has been waiting.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: It is a follow-up, sir. I don't know whether you are going to allow or whether—

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, we are well aware that the minister cannot bring executive matters into public unless otherwise agreed by his colleagues. However, the minister can say what is the reason. Is there a reason—other than a financial reason—why Executive Council has not yet agreed for this borrowing?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources, I think, that is asking you for an opinion. I cannot allow it.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: The minister has admitted that the sewage treatment facility has not for some time been working at optimum efficiency. The minister from his answer also stated that it is inadequate. The minister also gave in supplementary answer that there is leakage among some of the sewage lines. Can the minister say why extrapolating from both operating below optimum efficiency and the leaking of the sewage lines—why this seemingly health hazard is still waiting to be addressed?

Mr. Speaker, it has to be considered a health hazard. Why is it still waiting to be addressed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: I think I am correct in saying there is nothing hazardous in public health with the two matters raised.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: May I ask the minister on whose authority he is giving that answer? Does he have documentation to that effect? If sewage lines are leaking and the treatment facility is not operating at optimum facility, it has to be a health hazard. It is my information that sometimes along the Seven Mile Beach road there is an offensive odour emanating from the malfunctioning of those treatment plants and not the garbage dump.

So, if water is leaking also from the lines, who is to say that the water lenses are not being contaminated? I would like to know if he has scientific evidence upon which to base his answer and if he can table it in the House, sir.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: I have been told by the director that it is not sewage leaking into the water table; it is water leaking into the sewage lines which is pumped to the sewage ponds and treated—the pressure of the outside water leaking into the pipes. So, that is why I answered the question the way I did.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: It is my understanding that the major problem the Water Authority is experiencing is the problem with the pipes along Seven Mile Beach. I wonder if the honourable minister can say what are the reasons for this occurring, seeing that the scheme is probably eight to ten years of age.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The leaks can occur for various reasons including power installation of the pipes, heavy road traffic and damage by construction activity. The Authority has been extremely successful over the past eight years to repair these leaks using in-house resources and overseas contractors.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I wonder if the honourable minister would confirm that one of the major reasons for the present problem is that the recommended pipes for that particular scheme were not accepted?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: It is my understanding that the pipes that were put in place were spec for the project so it was not really a fault of that. Apparently, it was as I pointed out—some of connection and others because of damage to them.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay. There will be two additional supplementaries after this.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: The last time that a guarantee was asked for the Water Authority was when we did a local amalgamation of Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) loans. I would suspect that this loan, if it is to be a loan, would need a government guarantee.

[Inaudible comment]

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Well, maybe it will not. Maybe the minister ought to say whether it will need government guarantee from this honourable House. But I am wondering if the Financial Secretary—seeing that this is such an important matter—when he comes to Finance Committee soon, would he be disposed to discussing that matter at that time?

The Speaker: I think this question is directed to the minister responsible for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources not the Third Official Member.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The member is correct. There is no guarantee needed from the government for the loan. However, section 12 of the Water Authority Law states that it must be approved by the government and for that reason although the loan could be secured by the Water Authority, it must have the blessing of the government.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: From the various supplementaries that the minister has answered, it is clearly a fact that the Water Authority by its own independent means and resources has been able to acquire the financing necessary for the long-term development of the new sewage treatment plant.

By admission, the minister has also stated that the government does not have any requirement with regards giving any guarantees for the financing to be secured. Understanding what section 12 of the law says regarding the blessings of the government to be received before borrowings can be engaged in, the minister must be able to answer and I will ask him. If it is clearly understood, the situation that prevails with the present sewage treatment plant and the importance of fixing it, how can the government be deliberating for eleven months without giving a reply to the Water Authority? And where is the priority?

Does this, in fact, have anything to do with the level of contingent liability which the government might be looking at, and if so, would the minister say so?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The Financial Secretary whose portfolio would have to be dealing with this also, has said that he would be willing to say more on this.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you very much.

The request to support the borrowing of the Water Authority has been put to Executive Council for consideration and is presently under review. At this point in time, there is a team that is headed by the Assistant Financial Secretary within the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development. There is a paper that is presently being put together, a submission to Executive Council at this time. This is being co-ordinated by the Deputy Financial Secretary. That paper will deal with the portfolio's comments on the proposed borrowing by the Water Authority and it will also be dealing with the expected rate of contribution that this honourable House has said should be addressed in terms of statutory authorities contribution to central government.

So, all of this information is being rolled up in that paper which will be ready for consideration at next week's meeting of Executive Council.

The Speaker: This is the final supplementary. Do you have a follow-up?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Certainly, sir.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Understanding what the Honourable Third Official Member has just said—and I trust that he will not suggest there is no relevance—I want to find out based on what he has outlined with this paper being prepared with regard to contribution coming from the Water Authority in the future, how then was the situation dealt with the borrowings being engaged in by the Port Authority for their expansion programme?

Was it a similar process or not?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Each set of circumstances will have to be taken on its own merit. The circumstances prevailing at the time when the loan for the Port Authority was negotiated would have been different, but this is not a one-sided activity. It is one that involves discussion with the director of the Water Authority, and discussions have been taking place between the Assistant Financial Secretary and [the director] in terms of the methodology. But there is no question that there will be any reluctance on the part of the portfolio in addressing the request that has been put forward by the Water Authority for borrowings.

As I said, the portfolio cannot give a commitment against this; this is a matter that will have to be addressed by Executive Council. The financial implications have been examined. The viability of the project had to be looked at very carefully because it is not a question of the borrowings by statutory authorities. It is not a question of, let's say, a decision to support or not to support, because if there is the potential for a contingent liability to arise that could become a burden on the revenues of this country. Mr. Speaker, that will also have to be gone into and brought to the attention of the government and this honourable House. These are matters that will have to be looked at very carefully in order to make a proper assessment as to the project viability and this is a significant expansion. It is not one that can be regarded as just a simple add on.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, may I address the Chair, sir?

The Speaker: I have ruled that there would be no additional supplementaries.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I did not ask you about any supplementary, Mr. Speaker, I asked if I might address the Chair.

The Speaker: Certainly!

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. I would just like to point out to you, Mr. Speaker, and humbly make a request—not questioning your judgment at any time—that when questions and supplementaries are asked and they have to be left hanging in the air, I would humbly ask you, sir, if you would try to allow some closure in certain areas. Many times we find that we had just as well not asked anything because we are cut off before understanding anything. I am saying that with the greatest of respect, sir, and I am asking you.

The Speaker: I thank you for that but we will move on to question number 51 standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 51

NO. 51: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works if any consideration is being given to the construction of a sub-fire station in the district of Bodden Town.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Yes, consideration is being given to the construction of a sub-fire station in a central location in the district of Bodden Town. Some possible sites have been identified and relevant information submitted to the Lands and Survey Department for assessment and acquisition. Provision for the purchase of the site will be included in the 2001 Budget.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: I noticed that the honourable minister said in his answer that some possible sites have been identified. Would the honourable minister give an undertaking that he will meet with the three representatives of Bodden Town just to give us an understanding and a clear view of where this property might be located?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Mr. Speaker, it shall be my pleasure to meet with the three members.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries, we will move on to question number 52, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 52

NO. 52: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works to provide a list of road works carried out in Bodden Town since the beginning of this year to date.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The following projects have been carried out in Bodden Town to date this year:

- Bronte Way – Selina subdivision
- Brooke Street – Selina subdivision
- Yeats Street – Belford Estates
- Bodden Town Relief Road – cleared and filled a section
- Woods Close
- Kipling Street

Projects scheduled for the remainder of 2000 are as follows:

District Road Programme

- Sea Spray Road (off Beach Bay Road)
- Will T Road
- Macaw Road (off Will T Road)
- Homestead Road (Eden Crescent)
- Daffodil Street (off Cumber Avenue)
- Kitty Lane

Road Resurfacing Programme

- Will T Road to Bronte Way (Lower Valley to Pease Bay)
- Spotts Landing to Savannah Meadows
- Northward Road
- Hirst Road

In addition to routine maintenance such as patching, grass-cutting, and drainage, works are being carried out throughout the district on an ongoing basis.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Could the honourable minister just give the House and the listening public an update as to what is taking place in the Lower Valley area between Will T Drive and, I think it's Star Apple Road on the main road?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I would prefer to do a little letter to the members to make sure that the information which I am trying to convey is accurate and I would undertake to do that tomorrow.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: There have been various requests for some maintenance and upgrading to be done on the original road which now passes behind the Dominos building located in Savannah, linking up with the Pedro Castle Road. Can the minister say if he will be able to address these requests when work is being done in the district in the future?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I do not have the road programme for Bodden Town with me this morning in that detail. I will be happy to look at it and see whatever can be done and I will certainly speak to the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town and the other members, accordingly.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Would the honourable minister say if all these roads are gazetted public roads? If some of them are not, could he say if any consideration is being given to roads in the Savannah Acres area?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Without the full details I am hesitant to say that they are all gazetted roads but if they are not, they are in the process of being gazetted and I will undertake to provide that information to the Elected Member for North Side and in turn also supply information on the roads in the Savannah Acres area.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries, we will move on to question number 53 standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 53

NO. 53: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works to provide an update as to the progress of implementations or amendments of the Laws in regards to Private Member's Motion Number 18/99 "Assistance for the Physically Challenged".

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Instructions have been given to the Legal Department for the drafting of the legislation which will be brought to the House during the current meeting.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I wonder if the honourable minister would say if this legislation will cover all aspects of Private Member's Motion 18/99 including airlines? We were supposed to provide proper ramps for handicapped passengers to be able to board aircraft and disembark.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I do not believe at this stage that the legislation is likely to cover ramps for airlines but it does cover parking and it does identify cars that are being driven by disabled persons. It also creates some offence if you park in a disabled parking spot. Those sorts of things will be covered in the law. Obviously, there are other things that need to be covered but on the grounds of urgency. Trying to get the important ones first, we decided to go this route. If this offends anyone, I apologise. But I think we need to get the parking sorted out for disabled persons.

The Speaker: No further supplementaries? We will now move on to question number 54 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 54

NO. 54: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation and Planning to give an update on the proposed resurfacing of the Gerrard Smith Airport.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister before asking you to answer the question could you move a motion for the suspension of Standing Order 23(7) and (8).

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I move the suspension of Standing Order 23(7) and (8) for questions to continue beyond 11.00 AM.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23(7) and (8) be suspended in order that Question Time can continue beyond the hour of 11.00 AM.

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Question Time continues.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The closing date for tenders for the resurfacing of Gerrard Smith Airport was 25 May 2000. Tenders were received from Island Paving/Lagan Holdings Joint Venture, Associated Holdings and Scott Development Co/Ajax Paving Industries Joint Venture. Following an evaluation and technical appraisal, a recommendation for award of contract was submitted to the Central Tenders Committee on 31 May.

The award of the contract is delayed pending the approval of a Government guarantee for the financing of the project by Finance Committee.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state if it is the intention of the government to bring forward the request for this guarantee at the next sitting of Finance Committee?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Mr. Speaker, it has cleared Executive Council and it will be on the next agenda for Finance Committee, at least, I hope it will.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state giving some technical details, if possible, exactly what is considered to be the condition of the surface at the Gerrard Smith Airport at present and how urgent is the matter in the area of safety of aircraft?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: That is a good question. It is one that the Honourable Minister from Cayman Brac has raised several times with me and she continues to monitor this aspect of it.

The position is that we had Boeing, who makes the aircraft, come and check it and while it is rough, it is safe and was cleared from a safety point of view. However, it is urgent, I think, that we try to move on very quickly. I believe it has the support of all Members of the House here, I would think. I see one or two members shaking their heads, hopefully, that is a yes. It is something, sir, that I will try to put in place within the next few weeks, because we are off again this weekend. But this needs to begin this year if possible, or in the very near future.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state once the project commences, if there is any idea about the length of time the project will take to complete?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Approximately three months.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state just for purposes of clarity, whether it is the usual method employed whereby any contracts that are to be awarded—once the Government guarantee is required—that the contract is not awarded until the guarantee has been approved by the necessary agency, in this instance, the Finance Committee?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Once the financing has a requirement for guarantee, then nothing can be done until that guarantee is put in place for it because obviously the money cannot be released so the Central Tenders Committee won't release it.

As has happened more recently with, I think, one of the other statutory authorities, if the requirement for a guarantee is not there . . . well, sometimes—

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Guarantee, not money.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: No, I understand. I am saying the reason for the guarantee is that the guarantee would go to the bank. If the bank says, 'I need a guarantee' then Central Tenders Committee says, 'get a guarantee before'. If that can be done without a guarantee then obviously we would not have to come here for a guarantee. I regard it as urgent and I would like to see this thing started within the next month or two.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state how long ago this approval was given by Executive Council?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, it was about three to four weeks ago. After these came in a study had to be done on it and I would say three to four weeks.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: My final supplementary, sir.

Based on what he has answered with the supplementaries thus far, that once the approval has been given by Finance Committee . . . my understanding is there should be a meeting of Finance Committee during this meeting. Then there is no other hold-up. And once due process takes place everything will go on. Bearing in mind, sir, that I am not quite sure at this point in time because of the length of time that has gone on, can the minister state then whether these people with their joint ventures now have to re-negotiate to get things in place with their partners from overseas who would be actually doing the work?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Unless there is anything unforeseen, things would go ahead as normal. I should, however, mention one of the things that (and I was just discussing this with the Honourable Third Official Member) we will be trying to explore with the negotiating team which is the Third Elected Member for George Town, the Honourable Minister for Tourism, the Honourable Third Official Member, the Honourable Second Official Member and myself going off. We are getting close to a time where the bids were given as an outer limit to do this.

What we may be able to do if we are not able to get a Finance Committee before then, is to find out whether this is something we could take to Executive Council or whether the Central Tenders Committee would look at it. That may not be legally possible. I am just mentioning this because it was risen. If not, whether a guarantee is absolutely necessary for the financing. If it is not necessary then obviously it would not require the Finance Committee.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, I did say my final supplementary, but surely, sir, with that answer you will allow me to ask a question. For purposes of clarity, I just want the minister to explain, and I see where the Honourable Third Official Member seems to be able to clear the air and I will give way if he is prepared to say something. Is that the case?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, thank you very much for allowing me to comment on this very important subject.

The Honourable Minister having responsibility for this subject, and the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture, having responsibility for the Sister Islands administration both recognise the urgency and importance of getting this project on the way. It is quite obvious that the lives of our citizenry will have to be of paramount importance following procedures to the exact degree of the law.

What the honourable Minister of Education and I discussed this morning was that since the approval of Executive Council has already been granted for Finance Committee's approval to be sought for allowing the guarantee, I suggested to the honourable minister, as he just outlined, that what should be done today is that another submission should be put to Executive Council which would be dealt by what is called round-robin approval. This is obtaining an undertaking from the government to support the guarantee in Finance Committee.

It is not a question of the numbers but this is one where given the several questions posed by the First Elected Member for George Town, it is quite obvious that this subject is of significant importance to all Members of this Legislative Assembly.

So, this is just an assurance that the guarantee will be supported in Finance Committee. On this basis I spoke to the Chairman of the Central Tenders Committee a short while ago, suggesting that be used as a holding facility until the final guarantee is issued in that the Central Tenders Committee would go ahead and take its decision on the basis. I know that there is a risk factor involved but given the importance of this—it is one that is almost easy to read the minds of Members in the Legislative Assembly on a matter of this magnitude and/or significance that there would not be anyone objecting to this guarantee being given.

The Speaker: No further supplementaries? That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Honourable members in view of the free mobility of members in and out of the Chamber, I am going to waive taking the breaks during this meeting in order to save time.

We will now go to Item number 5, Other Business, Private Members' Motions. Private Member's Motion No. 25/00. Capt. E. L. Solomon's Subdivision off Eastern Avenue, to be moved by the First Elected Member for George Town.

OTHER BUSINESS

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

CAPT. E. L. SOLOMON'S SUBDIVISION OFF EASTERN AVENUE

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I wish to move Private Member's Motion No. 25/00 entitled Capt. E.L. Solomon's Subdivision off Eastern Avenue. The Motion reads as follows:

"WHEREAS Capt. E. L. Solomon's subdivision off Eastern Avenue commonly known as 'The Swamp' has been in existence for over twenty years;

"AND WHEREAS at present there are at least fourteen land owners who have built homes on their properties, but have not been able to obtain title for their land and homes;

"BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Government, through all its necessary agencies find the ways and means to resolve the situations that these lands-owners be allowed to take title of their properties;

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT the consideration for stamp duty involved in these transactions be what the properties were valued at the time of final payment of each piece of property."

The Speaker: Do we have a seconder?

The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I beg to second the motion, sir.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 25/00 has been duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak to it?

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: This is perhaps one of those motions which is not going to take very long and I trust that the government will see it fit to support once the intention is outlined clearly. I will go through the motion as it is outlined in sequence and hopefully I will have explained the situation which obtains with clarity.

This subdivision has been a 'bone of contention' with the Central Planning Authority and the developer for many years but the motion does not seek to address any circumstances involving the developer and the Central Planning Authority. What the motion seeks to achieve is understanding what has occurred and where the situation is now to bring about a resolution to the problems that exist.

As I understand it, when many of the original purchasers of property for this subdivision were engaged in making their payments they were given the understandings that the developer of the subdivision, once payments had been completed, would be able and willing to transfer titles to the purchasers. Some of them went ahead during the course of purchase to begin construction of their homes. If I am not mistaken—and while I am not with 100 percent understanding of it—at that time, I don't think any assessment would have been made when it came to the stamp duty on these properties. I don't think any assessment would have been made on any development on the property because it was the proposed owners of the properties who were developing it.

As it transpired, on completion of payment for several of these plots of land, the Central Planning Authority deemed that the subdivision had not met the requirements so they were not prepared to give the Lands and Survey Department the green light to issue numbers to the various lot owners.

During the back and forth and times of frustration, these people with their own ambitions and drive, assuming that the matter would have been sorted out in a fairly timely fashion, went ahead and built their homes. Now, without having to go into all the details, we have ended up here with some fourteen landowners living in their homes for many years and in actual fact they cannot get titles for their properties.

Mr. Speaker, this is not something brand new to us. Several of us in the Legislative Assembly now, either by being in the Legislative Assembly or as your goodly self, sir, served on the Planning Board during the time when this was going on. I think many of us understand certain of the difficulties which exist.

The government, recognising that regardless of the legalities of the situation there are people who live in this subdivision who have gone in on more than one occasion including up to recent times and actually did a fair amount of work on the roads in this subdivision to bring the roads up to standard. I am certain the people who live in that area are quite appreciative of this.

So, basically what we wish to achieve with this is simply to have government look at the situation and whatever agencies need to be involved—whether it be the Planning Department, the Lands and Survey Department and certainly the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development—they must also play a role in it with regards to deciding on how the transfers are done.

We simply wish to achieve the point where the landowners can, once an assessment has been made as to what the value of the property was when each of them completed payment of the property . . . In other words, if everything was in order when they finished paying for the property, they would then have been able to transfer at that time. Unfortunately this could not occur. I take the view that it is unfair to expect to penalise them to what the value of the property should be now especially the fact that they have homes on these plots of land.

So, if you were to follow the law as it exists, they would have to be charged 7.5% of both the value of the land and the home that is on the land. Certainly, this would put them at a serious disadvantage and basically, I don't think they are at fault to the point where they should be penalised; hence the purpose of the motion.

Mr. Speaker, there is another matter which complicates the issue and I will explain that because perhaps some people might not be aware of this. It is my understanding from the Planning Department that there are five of these homeowners who have physically built—because of not knowing exactly where their properties were located and not having lot numbers—beyond their boundary line into someone else's property or built within the setbacks required. As a result, while the houses are there, the fact is the buildings to a certain degree are illegal.

But that is still not the end of the world and it is better for us to know the situation rather than get the hiccup in the middle of it. The fact is those people who have built outside of their boundaries and/or within the setbacks required by law, have built not on to other lot owners' land. I think if that is the case it would only be one and I am not even sure that isn't sorted out by now. But what they have done inadvertently is that they have actually built on to the property that is directly butting and binding the subdivision and that is all one huge piece of property. I have spoken to the owners of that property who understand what has occurred and they are quite willing, once the various agencies trip-in to have what is necessary done by way of whatever measurements have to be done. I think it can be done on a straight line so that the property does not get an irregular shape.

Now, what has not been addressed in the motion, Mr. Speaker, is basically who is going to pay for this regarding the additional property. I did not know at the time of the motion that some of these landowners had actually built on to someone else's property. It is best for the issue to be addressed now than to hear about it later and everything comes to a standstill, assuming the government is of a mind and prepared to accept the motion.

Perhaps, a reasonable assessment can be made by way of the purchase of this little strip of land. It probably does not need to be any more than 10 or 15 feet wide in order to allow the landowners to be on their own property. Again, what will have to be purchased is the strip of land that is purchased from the adjoining land owners which will then have to also be subdivided to be added on to each individual lot that it butts and binds. I think perhaps a reasonable assessment can be made.

The problem with the effort is, if we leave it to the individuals right now, five years from now, God willing, all of us are alive and we talk about it, the matter is going to remain the same. The time has gone on to where you have a second generation of these people coming up and you don't want them to face that type of situation with children involved and not knowing with regards the ownership of property and that type of thing, we want to get the matter sorted out.

So, I believe that it is in the best interest of all concerned for government to simply take the bull by the horns, use the necessary agencies and just get what has to be done, done. Make a fair assessment so that the landowners know exactly what they are going to get; what they will have to pay; and create a reasonable time frame for this to be done so that they may acquire their individual lots and have titles transferred into their own names.

I think that is a fairly detailed explanation of exactly what the situation is and what the motion seeks to achieve. Perhaps, without going any further I would invite the government to make its comments or anyone else who wishes to speak to the motion so that we can see exactly where to go from here.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate, does any other member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Mr. Speaker, although the contents of this motion will spread over two ministries and two portfolios, I have been asked to reply on behalf of government.

Government is pleased to accept the motion and is prepared to bring together the various parties concerned being the ones that I have just mentioned, and to do whatever is possible to try to assist this matter which has been outstanding for a long time. I will agree with the First Elected Member for George Town that matters such as this one need to be put to rest. It is no use allowing it to continue. I believe that the Planning Department, the Finance Department, Lands and Survey Department and I think the Legal Department, will have to be involved working together and taking the necessary steps to try to make it right.

The second "Whereas" in the motion, with regard to titles, it is my understanding that part will have to be worked out somewhat with the assistance of the government, the proprietors and the party actually mentioned in here. It would be a matter of them obtaining their title outright, but of course the guidance that is necessary from Lands and Survey will be given.

So, without saying more on it, the government will definitely work along with them on this and try to have it rectified.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: My office is located some 10-15 minutes within walking distance of this subdivision off Eastern Avenue. I remember making a district road tour with some members from George Town and the government shortly before the Christmas holidays. I remember specifically speaking about this matter with the First Elected Member for George Town. I am, as I was then, in support of that basic idea of bringing this matter to some kind of resolution that would not penalise the persons that bought land in that area in good faith.

I, however, have but one question (and perhaps when the First Elected Member for George Town gets up to wind-up perhaps he can give an explanation) as to why it was necessary to seek a seconder from a different district since I do assume that all elected Members of the district of George Town would have been anxious to have participated in this particular effort from the very beginning. Since that has not been the case, I would like to lend my support to this motion.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak? The floor is open to debate.

The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: As in the case of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town my contribution will be short, since for many years I, too, have felt that this matter should be rectified. I don't think that any particular government administration can be blamed for this matter not receiving attention since, as the motion states, the problem has been in existence for over some twenty-five years.

Even though the matter is being brought before this honourable House three weeks before its dissolution and within weeks of a general election when very little can be done to rectify this issue, I nonetheless congratulate the mover and seconder for bringing this matter up which hopefully will be given top priority by the next government sworn into this House.

I too would wish to see that the 14 or so landowners will not in any way be penalised with the stamp duty and other costs involved and any transfers necessary but that government will give consideration to these individuals.

Mr. Speaker, when I heard of this motion it was also my feeling that perhaps an ancillary motion, or maybe as a part of this one, some suggestion or resolution should have been made in regards to some of the other poor people in that area and the necessity for some of them to obtain the necessary properties for their homes. Many are destitute—don't have any where to live. I had suggested to the First Elected Member for George Town that perhaps he and I should have brought a motion to the effect that government should consider purchasing some additional property in and about the Watler's Road area and in this general vicinity to assist these individuals.

It will indeed be my intention, if I am given the opportunity at a later date, to ensure that those individuals obtain their own homes. Government should get directly involved in the purchase of the necessary land if indeed; this is necessary to assist those individuals.

Mr. Speaker, I give my full support to this motion and I trust that as soon as possible, whichever government is in power will give urgent attention to rectifying this issue. Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I too have spoken, over many years in fact, to persons who have had problems on the earlier property that Mr. Solomon dealt with in this subdivision. Believe me, they do have my full sympathy in this matter and I am going to try as best as I can to set out what appears to be the position.

What has happened is that over the years Mr. Solomon has been selling land that sometimes has not had planning approval, or alternatively has had planning approval subject to conditions that were never fulfilled. People in good faith, and quite rightly from their point of view, have paid good money to Mr. Solomon and they have built their houses on this property.

Now, as far as it is within the law, the government will support and do everything that it can to assist these people, as indeed it has done in the past. The problems that they have are not problems that have been created by government or planning or anyone else; the problems arise from the owner of the land who has sold property to these people over the years. They are people who have worked hard for their money and obviously they are upset that they do not have titles to their properties.

Now, what I understand to be the position . . . And by the way these problems stem back—not on this specific area but the original problem—to December 10, 1981. I have a history here that I have looked at that really spans nearly twenty years.

There are two specific problems involved: The properties that are to the westerly side, nearer the Eastern Avenue area, which are Block 13D, Parcels 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15, some of these have persons who have built homes that actually go across the border onto adjoining land, which is Parcel 215REM7. As I understand it, that does not belong to Mr. Solomon but belongs to other people. Planning [Department] has said to Mr. Solomon on those, that the question of building within the lots and not on other people's land is something that needs to be cleared up. So, that is one problem area.

There are, however, other sets of lots—newer lots I guess—Parcels 16, 17, 18 and 19 with Planning approval granted subject to a road going in, but that road has not been done. From the map that I have here these are quite large lots. In fact, compared to these other ones, some of these are extremely small lots that some of the houses are on. Out of those, one of the lots, Parcel 16 is actually public open space but 17, 18 and 19 seem to be lots for sale or have been sold. On those three lots the planning approval was subject to the road. So Mr. Solomon would need to build a road to those.

But that is not the problem with the other lots that people have built on. As I said earlier, where it appears that whoever marked out those lots or if they were marked out, which would not have been government, they seem to have gone over on other people's land with five of the buildings.

Now, the first part of this states that “the Government through all the necessary agencies find the ways and means to resolve the situations that these lands-owners be allowed to take title to their properties.” The legislature knows, that while government can assist, land is transferred by the owner. In this case, Mr. Solomon would have to have parcel numbers . . . at least, I see numbers on this map. He would have to transfer the property to them and that is more a civil matter.

However, this problem of trespassing needs to be gotten over so I believe that with government's assistance and the acceptance of this motion we are acting within the law because there are some things we cannot do and this is really a civil matter.

In relation to the stamp duty, this is once again a matter that government has sympathy on. I believe we would have to get some details of who remains and how they should be done. I would like to also say in following the sympathy that the Third Elected Member for George Town stated in relation to persons in the adjoining areas,

As was said earlier it is near to the end of the life of life of this legislature and this matter is undoubtedly complex but it seems to me like what has to be done is that the private civil side of this has to be cleared away somehow and assistance given to these home owners to get their property.

So, I commend the mover and the seconder on the motion. Government accepts the motion within the law. Government will assist in every way that we can. I personally know of the problems there—this goes back to December 10, 1981. It has just been a real long struggle with this, but some did prevail and some of the people, Mr. Ralph Singh, for example, were able to get transfer of title to his property as recent as June 1998.

So, I guess I really cannot say anymore on that but government will help and government is sympathetic, and I personally will assist in anyway I can, sir.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak?

No other Member wishes to speak. Does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I think that the reply will be best done by dealing with it in two areas.

First of all, just to reply to the government's position. I fully appreciate what has been said with regards to, by law what can happen and who has to be involved to trigger these things happening and the transfer of the ownership will have to be dealt with by the individuals and the developer. I quite appreciate that situation.

All I was saying earlier was that perhaps if it is left alone for the owners and the other parties involved to deal with it on their own it might continue to drag on. I was simply asking the government to use the resources it has available in the various ministries and departments that will have to get involved to simply spearhead and co-ordinate the efforts to allow the situation to be rectified.

When the Minister of Agriculture replied in dealing with the Lands and Survey about willing to assist—I appreciate all of that. What I am asking the government to do in the motion is simply to co-ordinate the efforts understanding that other parties have to be involved to bring the situation to an end result. So, I am quite appreciative of the position the government has to take with regards to the legal ramifications. I just wish for them to utilise their resources to co-ordinate the efforts. I think that is a reasonable request.

I also appreciate the support for the motion from those who have spoken. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town questioned why the seconder for the motion is not one of the members from the district of George Town. Certainly, on a personal level there was no slight meant to the Fourth Elected Member for George Town. I had discussed the matter previously, as the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town has said, with him and we talked about bringing the motion. He extended the thoughts, as he said, with regard to looking at other properties and perhaps for government being able to acquire other properties somewhere in that area, if possible, with a view to other individuals being able to purchase land at a reasonable price.

The physical thing that happened was that the deadline was on Tuesday and I had seen the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town on that Tuesday afternoon, and he asked me about the motion. I had not had a chance to word it as yet because everyone was doing a million things in the fray. When the time came to get the motion typed out, the only two staff members who could have typed it for me were in the parking lot on their way to the Hyatt Regency Hotel to prepare for a select committee that would be meeting there on the following morning to discuss immigration matters. Having no one to type it at that time, and it being the last evening for the motion, as a result I had to submit it handwritten. The seconder, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, was easily available and I asked him to do it just to make sure the motion got in.

Now, any other thought that might extend as to why it happened how it happened . . . people will have to think what they want to think. Impressions can be given inadvertently or they can be given purposely. Regardless of what it is, I think, the intent of the motion is crystal clear. Now, any other issues that may wish to be clouded by what the motion intends to be, I am, at this point in time not going to bother to get into. Perhaps, they will come up at a later date and maybe we will have to deal with it. I don't know.

I want to thank the government for accepting the motion. I would like to thank the seconder. I would also like to thank the other members who aired their support for the motion and I hope that we can simply see the situation resolved.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 25/00. The resolved section reads as follows: "BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Government, through all its necessary agencies find the ways and means to resolve the situations that these lands-owners be allowed to take title of their properties;

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT the consideration for stamp duty involved in these transactions be what the properties were valued at the time of final payment of each piece of property."

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Motion is passed.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 25/00 PASSED.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Member's Motion No. 23/00 entitled Gross Domestic Product, to be moved by the First Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 23/00

GROSS DOMESTIC PRODUCT

Deferred

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I have spoken to the Honourable Financial Secretary and we have agreed that we both need to do more research on this matter and therefore we ask that you move this down to a further date.

The Speaker: Are you moving a motion that it be deferred to a later date?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, sir, another day.

The Speaker: A motion has been moved by the First Elected Member for West Bay. Do I have a seconder?
The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I beg to second the motion, sir.

The Speaker: A motion has been made and seconded that this Private Member's Motion No. 23/00 be deferred to a later date on the Order Paper.

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Private Member's Motion No. 23/00 is deferred to a later sitting.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 23/00 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Member's Motion No. 21/00, Establishment of a Student Summer Employment Agency, to be moved by the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

The First Elected Member for George Town.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 21/00

ESTABLISHMENT OF A STUDENT SUMMER EMPLOYMENT AGENCY

Deferred

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town had to go out for a short while. I am certain he did not anticipate the second motion being deferred. I am at your mercy—I am the seconder of the motion and I am quite willing to second it, but I am at your mercy at this point in time.

The Speaker: You have the right to move a motion to defer for a later sitting.

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: If the House will accommodate, I would therefore move that this motion be deferred to a later sitting because of the absence of the mover.

The Speaker: Do we have a seconder?
The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I beg to second the motion.

The Speaker: The motion has been duly made and seconded that we defer this Private Member's Motion No. 21/00 to a later sitting. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Private Member's Motion No. 21/00 has accordingly been deferred to a later date.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 21/00 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Member's Motion No. 19/00, Purchase of Property to be moved by the First Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 19/00

PURCHASE OF PROPERTY

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, this motion should be very brief. I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 19/00 standing in my name, which reads as follows:

“BE IT RESOLVED THAT Government consider purchasing the old Tony Bonifide property in the North Sound, West Bay, for public use.

“AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT negotiations be done directly with the requisite property owners so that commissions can be eliminated.”

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side, a seconder.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I second the motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 19/00 has been duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak to it?

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: This is a piece of property that is being used by the public. Government really does not have a lot of property in the North Sound, West Bay. The use could enhance the community of boat launching ramp, a boat jetty. It could be utilised for small cabanas.

It is a sizeable piece of property. Least anyone should ask, it is south of what is really Morgan's Harbour. I have been approached by various persons in the community to seek government's consideration in the purchase of this land.

I think it will be good for the community. Thank you.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: As this is a purchase of property matter, I have been assigned by government to consider the matter and to say that we are happy to accept the motion on that basis. Whatever possible, after investigating this, the necessary things will be done to negotiate as has been said here and the matter will be taken from there.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other Member wish to speak?

If no other Member wishes to speak would the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you very much. I certainly would like to thank the Minister responsible for Lands.

The Minister of Tourism said that I should say the government because he is going to see that this property is bought. So, on that basis, Mr. Speaker, I am glad to include all of the government.

This property is known as the old 'Tony Bonifide' property. It used to house the old houseboat restaurant called Tony's Hideaway. It is adjacent to Cable & Wireless property (if they have not sold that property as yet). They had a compound there.

It is a vacant lot that is being used by people just for pastime, leisure. As I said, I think it would be good for the community to have this piece of the property. In the North Sound, on the waterfront there any vacant lot is quickly bought up and I think that since government already has an interest and need there, I think, in this coming Finance Committee meeting it would be good to have that consideration.

So, I thank the Minister of Agriculture.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 19/00, whose resolve reads as follows: “BE IT RESOLVED THAT Government consider purchasing the old Tony Bonifide property in the North Sound, West Bay, for public use.

“AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT negotiations be done directly with the requisite property owners so that commissions can be eliminated.”

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Private Member's Motion No. 19/00 has been passed.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 19/00 PASSED.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Member's Motion No. 18/00, Debate on issues in the Draft 1992 Constitution, to be moved by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Mr. Speaker, I realise it is not the normal time that we take a break, but things have moved so rapidly this morning that I am wondering if we could take the lunch hour earlier, if members are happy with that.

The Speaker: Could we then come back at 1.15 PM?
At this time we shall suspend proceedings until 1.15 PM for lunch.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.05 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 1.49 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Private Member's Motion No. 18/00, Debate on Issues in the Draft 1992 Constitution.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 18/00

DEBATE ON ISSUES IN THE DRAFT 1992 CONSTITUTION

Dr. Frank McField: "WHEREAS a White Paper presented to the United Kingdom Parliament by the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs in March of 1999 states that the principles which should underline modern constitutions are clear;

"AND WHEREAS there must be a balance of obligations and expectations and both should be clearly and explicitly set out;

"AND WHEREAS in this White Paper democracy, human rights and the rule of law are relevant concerns of the United Kingdom;

"AND WHEREAS the July 1992 draft Constitution for the Cayman Islands clearly and explicitly sets out the rights and fundamental freedom of individuals, as well as the obligations to the State;

"BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED that this Honourable Legislative Assembly debates issues in the draft 1992 Constitution for the Cayman Islands, with the view of its coming into effect in 2001 or thereafter, be made an election issue."

The Speaker: Secunder.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I beg to second the motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 18/00 has been duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak on it?

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Let me begin by first acknowledging that I am aware of the way in which constitutional issues have been regarded inside and outside of this Legislative Assembly. Let me also state that the way in which we have discussed constitutional issues tended sometimes to resemble the debate about heresy. In other words, one side seemed to be implying that it was more loyal than another side and that those that were most loyal were those that were willing to have the status quo continue.

Since the Caymanian public has recently learned of the British White Paper and of the significance in which issues of the human rights play in the present policies of the United Kingdom government, Caymanian people have had to rethink the question of their constitution and the question of their sovereignty.

So, it is not purely for intellectual stimulation that I have brought this motion since many of my constituents are asking whether or not I feel at this time that our constitution gives elected members the type of sovereignty to make decisions on their behalf—what they feel they are entitled to as human beings and as individuals. A part of the question, therefore, is whether or not the 1972 constitutional instrument which governs the political conduct in the Cayman Islands is now a document which allows for a full expression of Caymanian diversity of opinions and interests.

So, if we approach the issue of a constitution (which means if we are going to start to work) we need to have a blue-print. Let us say that the Constitution is our blue-print and that we are carpenters whose exercise at the end of the day is to really build a building. It is to build democratic and human relations—that is what we are building.

So, we use the Constitution basically as a guide to what we as legislators, as administrators, as people, have to do collectively to achieve the desired outcome which is an enrichment of our human relationships.

Mr. Speaker, the mere fact that the United Kingdom considers that there are certain obligations and expectations that should be explicit in any modern constitutions, suggests that they would be encouraging us to somehow rethink the question of the absence of a Bill of Rights in a constitutional instrument or a constitution.

So, part of the question that I intend to pose to this Legislative Assembly and the people is not so much whether or not we have a Chief Minister. It is not so much whether or not we have a Leader of the Opposition. It is not so much whether or not we actually need a party system in order to begin with those structural reforms within the political arena. It is more for us to try to develop a new social contract, a new covenant, a new way of understanding what the obligations of the citizens will be and what the responsibilities of the state will be to those citizens with regard to the exercise by the state of the power which the people invest in the state at election time.

I believe as we approach November 8, 2000 that this is as convenient a time as ever to ask the question, What will be the responsibilities of those persons elected, to those persons that elect them? The responsibility cannot just exist in a vacuum, it has to be fostered, protected and nourished within the constitutional contexts, within the legal framework that we call government.

So, for this reason, as we see all the candidates coming out in West Bay . . . And we make remarks about, Why are so many people running in the elections anyway? And we do not try to find any kind of sophisticated sociological and political explanation for this phenomena.

We try to conclude that somehow it has to be basically personal motivation for personal gratification, when in fact it might be a signal that the old political linkages in that particular community as well as other communities are beginning to fall away—thereby removing the entire fabric of solidarity and unity which existed in the society at the period in which people were still fishermen, turtlers and then later on as seamen, and perhaps later on as they embarked upon their participation in a much more modern Cayman Islands.

If the State does not send out its roots to the point where it holds the community together through a political process that runs from the top to the bottom and from the bottom to the top, everything will fall apart. So, there has been stagnation with regards the maturity of the political process in the Cayman Islands as a result of certain people not wanting to see any kind of sophistication with regards constitutional matters. We have begun most of all to see that defusion, the confusion on the bottom but those of us who vote in this Legislative Assembly, those of us who work in this Legislative Assembly know that the confusion and the defusion is on this level as well.

As we embark towards a general election it is very difficult for the people in here to tell the country whether or not there will be teams, parties, common manifestos or positions—why? Because the political process from the top to the bottom lacks cohesiveness, lacks the mechanism to achieve collective agreements. The constitutional problem, therefore, is not just a problem of legalities. The constitutional problem is also a problem which has to do with community unity. The lack of unity in the community is partly the result of the absence of any kind of concrete political directions provided by the leaders to the people.

So, if we have 22 - 23 candidates in West Bay and we have some of them forming teams in West Bay, and we don't see those teams in West Bay align themselves with teams in George Town or Bodden Town, we know that is still part of the defusion and confusion.

What we have is the parochial politics—the level now where everybody is working to get elected in their district and not really working to get elected nationally. When they come out, however, they are going to have to do things on a national level because no four members of any one district could come into the parliament where we have fifteen members and three official members and make the types of decisions that would be legally binding on the country.

All the decisions made in the parliament are legally binding on all the individuals whether or not they come from West Bay or Cayman Brac. We are not run by local parliaments but by a national parliament. Therefore, the defusion and the confusion when we see no national teams existing, no teaming among the different districts is also the same kind of confusion we see when [for example] we see so many people running in the district of West Bay. So, those kids that are running in West Bay have not really started the confusion. The confusion has been started by those persons who have lacked the courage and the political conviction to assist this country and mature politically by seeing, in fact, that we have the political group structure in this country that people could be promised at election time. And that we will have a group in here with the majority to carry out that promise. And we will have a minority in here to challenge that group that was in the majority when it felt that it was going out of hand and not keeping the promises which were necessary.

So, the question of a constitution is also a question of the way in which we do politics, because if the constitution were not connected somehow to political behaviour and political practice it would have no meaning. So, when the 1992 [Draft] Constitution starts, it starts with the question of what the rights of the individual citizen should be.

Now, I would like to read one of the rights listed in the 1992 Draft Constitution as rights that the individual should be entitled to. It says here in section 11(1), “Protection of freedom of assembly and association.

“Except with his consent, no person shall be hindered in the enjoyment of his freedom of peaceful assembly and association, that is to say, his right to assemble freely and associate with other persons and in particular to form or belong to political parties or to form or belong to trade unions or other associations for the protection of his interests.”

It is important for people to understand that they have the fundamental right to form organisations and to be associated with persons for the protection of their rights, their interests. This is a basic premise that we have about society: people come together in order to protect and to enhance their interests. Somehow we then deduce that organisations can enhance and protect people's interests more so than the individuals themselves. That is one reason why we live together in a state, or in a community, rather than by ourselves. That is one reason why we have teams—football teams, basketball teams and baseball teams—to teach us the importance of team-work. That is why on the job in the work place we work as a team. We hear the word, team, team, team—people working together. Yet, the basic philosophy in this country has been that there should really be no political teams or political parties as such.

I know that there are certain people who believe that a constitution like the 1992 Draft Constitution could only work in this country because of the fact that you would have a chief minister if, in fact, we had political parties. But how long would it take to form a political party? You can just go and register a political party and there you have it in structure.

Now, from the point of view of whether or not that is a 'mass' party or a 'leap' party of a few chosen individuals is a question that will have to be answered by those political activists that are involved in that exercise themselves because some might, like myself, like to get the grassroots involved as much as possible. And though we might have the grassroots involved, we might not have a formal organisation, but we do have some kind of informal way of working together because of the interest we have identified as having in common. Because we have identified having an interest in common we decide to pursue a common political objective. It is as easy as that.

A political party system is not something that is very far-fetched because we find that people are grouping. We find, for instance, that the Chamber of Commerce which is basically a union of employers in this country work together in order to best achieve their interests and to preserve their interests in the society. Therefore, the example is already set by employers for working people: an example to organise based around their political interests.

I am saying this to say that a political party system is not something that we will have to import from someplace. It is not something that is totally foreign. It is something that will spontaneously evolve out of the political dynamics of our relationships.

Now, if we had done something about this Constitution in 1992, if we had accepted it then when we had a National Team Government that really campaigned basically at the end of the day with a national agenda—an agenda to run the country for a period of four years—you cannot get something that is more of a political party than that. The difference was that they were not connected structurally with the grassroots, with the masses. The difference was that they did not have any kind of structured formal organisation set up, but they were organised well enough to get together on several occasions in order to formulate policies and strategies in common. So, if you have 14 - 15 people working together for common, political objectives, they are organised already.

Denying the fact that we have had political organisations in this country as far back as 1976, is to ignore the fact that we can have relationships that are not sanctioned from that point. Just like how we have cases of common-law marriages—men and women living together as husbands and wives without being legally married, developing an affinity with one another and doing things together. All that is not there is the stamp of approval. I would say it is the same thing we have observed with the National Team over the last eight years.

I am giving that as an example, because for people to argue the fact that you could not have this kind of constitution coming into effect because we don't have a political party system, and that to develop a political party system would destroy the country, is incorrect.

Mr. Speaker, I see the destruction coming not at the level of organisation but at the level of disorganisation. Not at the level where information can be disseminated to the people, but at the level where the information is not being disseminated to the people. A political party system—some kind of structural relationship, continuous relationship with the grassroots informing them of why we are doing things and how we are doing things and in whose interest we are doing things, would help to preserve the relationship of trust and loyalty between the elected and the electors. So, we see why we are now being regarded as these politicians that no one can see.

Now, when you get elected as a minister of government . . . and I am not going to make any excuse for the present government, but once they go into that Glass House, what contact do they have again with their people? These are supposed to be the ministers! So you see why people come to distrust governments: simply because they are alienated further from government as there is nothing that holds them to that government structurally. There is no process to do that.

Who is it to come to explain to the people with regards to the White Paper? Whose responsibility is it? Is it the responsibility of the entire Legislative Assembly, the government or which member of government, the Governor? Who? All of these things become clear not as a result of a constitution but as a result of a political process that is enhanced by a modern constitution which means we would have a leader of the government who would be the Chief Minister not the Leader of Government Business with a kind of here, here, nowhere title. I still don't know, Mr. Speaker, what is meant by Leader of Government Business. I don't know what business he leads. Sometimes I hear he is going to lead the business abroad; sometimes I hear that he can only lead the business in the House; sometimes I hear he really leads business at the Executive Council level. I don't know how they have refined and defined that particular concept for their practical use but looking at it only in print, when I see the words, Leader of Government Business, I see Leader and it is Leader that is most important here—Leader of Government. If he is the Leader of the Government then he is to me a person who is acting in the capacity of a Chief Minister.

So, even in cases where people do not want to accept maturity, it comes upon them. Once we are born into this world we cannot prevent getting old. It is the same with the political process. It is the same with the development process: once we start developing we will mature whether or not we want to.

The question is, if we accept those natural laws that we will mature regardless of whether or not we want to, Why is it that we pretend wearing these schoolboy's clothes when we are bursting from the seams? We have already grown beyond that particular school. We look odd in the uniforms that we wear. We look odd because we are politically more mature than we are telling the people.

So, when it comes to the point of saying that there is a difficulty in bringing this constitution into effect, the question is: Members need to specifically identify what they would consider to be problems that they would not be in a position to resolve. They have to say what kind of difficulties would be created in the society. A lot of people are still trying to say that political parties and other kinds of associations are foreign and coming from other ways.

Sometimes people have come to me saying, 'How much power do you all have as Members of the Legislative Assembly anyway?' I explain to them that I was elected by the George Town voters and when I came here I had to vote for a government which is responsible for the day-to-day running of the country. I am not responsible for the day-to-day running of the country. I am not responsible for policy. I am solely responsible for legislation. I get to talk on motions, comment on bills, I have the privilege of voting yes or no to them but I do not have the power as a legislator to do anything with regards to what it is that I might have voted for. That has to be implemented by the ministers and administrators of government.

So, people need to understand that there is a basic difference between the Legislative structure and the executive structure; the Governor as another structure of some type of balance there again, and the court system.

Now, if we had politically conscious and active politicians they would be teaching the people to understand the political process thereby making sure that the people do not become so frustrated with the process as a result of lack of understanding that they would want to distrust the process and distrust those persons involved in that process. My approach has always been to try to give the people as much information and as much understanding as possible. People will be clearer regarding the issues of who is responsible for what; I will know what obligations I have to my constituents and what obligations the government has to me and to those constituents. I think we need to look at this process of allowing people to somehow mature with us with regards to our understanding and therefore allow them to participate more.

If you look at the American race for president that has been going on for as far as I can remember, maybe a year and a half already. It seems like [Al] Gore and [George] Bush have been contesting one another and exposing, discussing and debating issues that these issues get so debated and exposed long before the President of the United States is elected. Everyone at the end of the process has to be conscious, if they want to, of the issues. They have had a chance to totally examine the issues. They spend a lot of money in doing so. It is not their personal money. It is money that is raised from supporters because they have a political party system that allows them the possibility to transmit that information to the general public; to process the reaction of the general public to that information and to refine that information so that by the time they come into office they have it down as good as it can probably be.

We don't have that process here. We have the process because people do not have to make political stances, public stance with one another where they make deals with each person, where they say one thing to this house and they say another thing to that house. All it is doing at the end of the day is breeding more and more confusion. Then at the end of the day to say we don't need some kind of constitutional maturity?

Now, a lot of times people thought that constitutional advancement was the same as breaking the constitutional link with Great Britain. It is important again that when we bring this question of the Constitution up, that we understand that the constitutional link with Britain, and internal self-government in the exercise of autonomy within the Cayman Islands, are not two things that are inconsistent. As a matter of fact, constitutional advancement and maturity are consistent with the constitutional links with Britain because Britain is saying, in fact, that she wants us to exercise internal self-government to the fullest extent where we have full autonomy and we have the right to self-determination and so forth and so on, as they have decided to tell us in the White Paper.

Now, Mr. Speaker, a lot of us have looked and complained about the White Paper. I am not going into the topic of the White Paper but as it is talking about the constitutional issue and the human rights issue I need to just reflect on it. We are more concerned about who should not have a right rather than who should have rights. I mean, the right of freedom of association and the right of freedom to form trade unions and political parties. I did not see anything in the White Paper about the freedom to form political parties and trade unions. They obviously did not think that was important; neither did those people who were briefing them think so. But I know some of the Labour MPs that came here thought it was important enough to remark to us that they were then seeing that there was some kind of absence about those kinds of considerations.

Now, the important thing about trade unions is that trade unions are really organisations of workers. It means that the grassroots are being organised. So, if we are going to talk about political organisations we cannot on one hand think that somehow we are going to be able to speak against trade unionism, or speak and not support trade unionism, and at the same time talk about supporting political parties. There are a lot of people who prefer politics as it is, simply because it means that they have no structural responsibilities to the grassroots people and that they can do what they want at the time in which they want and they are not accountable to anyone.

So, I think that an advanced constitution would make politicians more accountable to the people and this is what the people want. The people want politicians to talk to them about what they are doing. After all, Mr. Speaker, that is our job. Our job is to inform the people; to discuss with the people; and to help the people to form a consensus, to form an opinion with regard to matters.

Why is it to wait until the gossip and the innuendoes have taken over before we go out to make statements?

I have had my Public Eye programme for over three years. I printed the New Vision newsletter in order to inform and assist people in making up their minds about certain issues. That in itself is political organisation. I call it the New Vision Movement because it is not a political party, but it could be a political party because it is a movement to include people in influencing me, and I influencing them, and coming out with a common collective political agenda.

What is the point of my coming out with a political agenda and the other guys in George Town coming out with other political agendas all promising the people different things and a lot of times they even contradict? Why should the people believe that anymore when they know that every time there are votes in here, they hear, "the Ayes have it" or "the Noes have it." The people are wise to that. They are going to vote against that type of political behaviour. We need political behaviour that is collective behaviour and therefore, some kind of formal organisation at some point in the near future to give us that kind of political cohesiveness.

If we have the political cohesiveness there is no reason why a Chief Minister in this country would be threatening to anyone, because at least people would have the possibility to remove that person if he does not carry out what he has promised. The person could not say, 'Well boy, it was not me that promised it to you. It was the other one that promised it to you or the other one went against it and that is why I could not do it'. There would be no excuse. He has to say once he is given the power to do something, if he has not done it, he has not done it because he doesn't want to do it—there must be responsibility and accountability.

We cannot continue in a country that is as complicated as this when we have international obligations to look after; when we have international conferences and negotiations to go to. Who do we send on international negotiations? Who do we send? Who is the leader? How do we go and present ourselves internationally to an international community that could not accept this kind of political immaturity where everyone is the leader or no one is the leader or 'it's not me, it's him?' There must be a formal way. There must be a protocol. There must be a person to approach.

At least, in the Draft Constitution of 1992 we are given the fundamentals there. I am not a supporter of this Draft Constitution in the sense because I don't think that this is advanced enough in certain areas. I really do believe there should be no one that can exercise power on behalf of the people in this Legislative Assembly if they are not elected. This is not all out there, this is a very conservative document that we are talking about here. There is nothing incredible about this. The basic power configuration remains the same with this Constitution. This Constitution does not change the basic structural arrangement of power. So, what's the problem? Is it because you are going to have a Chief Minister and a Leader of the Opposition? So, the people could say,

'Hey, look! when the time comes for the programmes the Leader of the Opposition has been fighting for to become the majority programmes we'll give him the majority of people and we'll demote the Chief Minister at that time and give him the minority programmes. We'll try something. We'll change one programme for the other programme. If this does not work we'll change it for something else'.

So, it gives you a possibility to clearly, at least, define one or two ways of doing things and if one does not work, you change it for the other way—not have fifteen different directions trying to work with at the same time. It is confusing to the people. It is confusing to the politicians. It is confusing.

Now as I said, I came in here and I worked with the Constitution that we have, and I feel that to be truthful to people I can now talk about my experience with this Constitution. I can say what frustrates me about the 1972 constitutional instrument. What frustrates me is that when I ask questions in here that I believe I should get answers for, it goes around in circles. If you are not kind enough, Mr. Speaker, to give us enough time to try to be like good skilful lawyers and pin the defendants down, then it's a waste. I feel that ministerial government means ministerial responsibility and that means it is on the part of the ministers to do whatever research and whatever is necessary to give correct and accurate answers that people can understand. And not to try to play semantics and not to try to play lawyers in delivering those types of things. That is one of the things that have frustrated me.

The other thing that I find with the way this works is this whole concept of the collective responsibility. I don't know what happens when the ministers come in here and they say they are voting collectively. I know that many times they have not even discussed the issue in Executive Council. So where is the level of collective responsibility? Is it the level of discussion in adopting a formal position in Executive Council? Or does it mean just their individual, political relationships in here in the Legislative Assembly causing them to have this collective responsibility?

I like to sometimes make a difference between collective responsibility and political relationship, or relationship of one of them politically to the other one because they are saying National Team. There is a difference there. They might be supporting their National Team policies and objectives rather than really acting from the point of view of collective responsibility or vice versa. If you have an independent person in Executive Council that really was not a National Team person, to what extent is that person responsible collectively to them with regards to issues that were not discussed in the presence of the Governor in Executive Council. These are all issues that we need to talk about.

Now, the most important thing, Mr. Speaker: We elect five members out there to be our government and then there are three other members of the Executive Council who sit here with them. So, in total we have eight members of Executive Council who actually sit in the legislative branch. So, the legislature has very little influence on the day-to-day running of the Executive. But the Executive can come back and control the legislative branch because they have nine people already out of 18 persons, so all they need is one person on their side. You see, that allows the government to push through bills and motions that are not necessarily the consensus of the democratic House, the elected House, therefore it is not a true representation of the people and we call that democracy. And, we are quite satisfied to go out and justify to the people that that is democracy and anyone who says it is not, is a heretic. And anyone who says that the Constitution should change in order to make decision-making more democratic is against the people's interests. This has happened.

So, I just want to make people aware of the fact that there are some persons who are willing to work under any conditions simply because they are working for their own personal benefits. But when you are working for the people's benefits the conditions that you work for have to be the conditions that allow you to be able to accomplish the task which you believe the people have elected you to accomplish.

If you don't have the instruments to do your work, Mr. Speaker, you will not do your work properly. The carpenter expects good tools—sharp tools. The politician needs good tools if he is going to become a good statesman. The kind of environment that we have is not one that will produce anything more than marriages of convenience. We need some promises. Why is it that we don't allow people to get married in private and say their own vows to one another? That has to be public. Why? Why does it have to be witnessed? So, that when the man or woman goes away from his or her promise people say—'ha, ha, they have gone away from their promise'. Marriage is a public thing. It is a covenant that you have, not just with the man or the woman but it is a covenant that you have made with your community. Why should politics be any different? Why is it that we can make the promises in the boiler rooms and we don't have to put our promises on paper and put our names to them? And say, 'This is what I stand for with this person and the other person'. Collectively we should be able to achieve these particular aims.

So, I am going to open the debate. I am going to sit down and listen attentively to see if this level that I have brought this particular question to can be advanced. In summary, I am saying it is relevant to look at the issue of the Constitution again as we are presented with a White Paper that gives certain of our constituents the feeling that we do not exercise sufficient power internally in the Cayman Islands and because of the exercise of power by the home office people feel that maybe this would be a good time for us to begin to advance in such a way that, at least, we maximise the use of our internal autonomy.

It is also important because of the question of human rights and for a lot of us to realise that at times many of our human rights have been violated. The right to freely associate with individuals with common interests as in the case of the trade unions, as in the case of government employees being able to actually agitate and express their dissatisfaction with their working conditions, and organise and move themselves in such ways as to improve the negotiation possibilities.

All of these rights have been over at least the past twenty-odd years, adversely affected by the fact that even when we made a Labour law we made a law that did not adapt all of the conditions of common law. In other words, the Labour Law even sells us short with regards to our rights as workers. We can improve all of these things by making people more conscious, not just of the State's responsibilities, but also of their responsibilities to the State.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other Honourable Member wish to speak?

The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The sociologist, Selwyn Douglas Ryan has most recently published a book entitled Winner Take All—the paradox of the Westminster system in the British Caribbean. In that text, Selwyn Douglas Ryan proceeds to outline the weaknesses in what he deems as a wholesale adaptation of the Westminster system in the British Caribbean, which gives no regard and takes no account of the extenuating circumstances and the peculiarities of the region. Indeed the author laments the fact of this whole business of first past the post system of representation and suggests several models which may be more applicable to these kinds of regions.

I say that to say, Mr. Speaker, that for many years now ever since I became a political animal I have always chose not to run with the herd and to espouse the fact that I am a party man—I have always been. I recall the sixties when the late Mr. Ormond Panton formed the National Democratic Party and as a youngster I was enamoured by that whole organisation and all of the surrounding and concomitant excitement. And then having gone to school in Jamaica, two years out of their independence, I was further caught up in this business of organised party politics. I have caught my 'share of stick' in this parliament for espousing that position. Indeed, the Leader of Government Business and the Minister of Education is guilty—the Hansards will show—of using that against me, saying that I was for a Chief Minister.

Mr. Speaker, I am happy that a person even as eminent as the Fourth Elected Member for George Town has seen the necessity to take this route, because four years ago that member did not share the position that he shares now. I will go on to show why he did not share it. I vividly recall the day—and I am going to refresh the memories of honourable members—when I got up and made a certain declaration. There was only one gentleman in the Chamber who nobly rose to my defence, that is the present Third Elected Member for George Town.

I am happy to have my position now complimented by men of minds as eminent as the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, and welcome him to the ranks of those of us who espouse the party system, and who realise that it is the only sensible way forward. It is unfortunate—and I have to lament this again—that my colleagues who worked so hard to build up the organisation which we call Team Cayman lacked the will to see it through to its maturity, because it would have reached some kind of maturity at this stage and it would have at this time enabled the people to make a clear-cut decision. So, if this is indicative of a change of mind and a change of heart it is welcomed because that is the way forward; that is the way that we should go.

Mr. Speaker, you also have to understand that because you have a party system that does not by any means indicate that anyone is espousing independence—far from that. History has shown that this system that we have been operating under is no longer good enough. I believe Britain has sent us clear and equivocal messages and it is up to us, certainly, they have indicated that they will set the parameters within which we choose to operate and I believe we should seize the opportunity.

What has happened in the past? Many of our people believed that we were safe because the ultimate responsibility lay with the Governor and he would ensure that things did not go awry. While it is true that it is applicable to some extent, the fact is that the Governor has nothing to do with the day-to-day operations of the state of affairs of the country. The day-to-day operations are handled by the Executive Council. I have said as recently as last night at a meeting I held in one section of my constituency that it is an anachronism to have five ministers of equal stature with none bearing more rank than the others.

Mr. Speaker, when the system was first evolved in Britain it was a system of primus inter pares, as they say in Latin, there was a first among the ministers. There was one minister who was responsible and had the authority to discipline, chastise, and dismiss any other minister. It is in this day and age unheard of to expect that a system can work under any other circumstance but that. It is true that it is the responsibility of the people's representatives. It has been for some time, and no less a person than Edmund Burke laid this dictate down many years ago. It is the responsibility of the people's representatives to lead them in the direction that they think they should go. Democracy does not work that way. We cannot expect 10,000 people to lead. Those 10,000 people choose fifteen leaders, and of those fifteen at least eight should form the majority and by inference evolve the direction in which the country should go. And that is the stage we are at now.

Many Caymanians realise that this is the critical stage in our development, perhaps, the most critical stage since the decision was taken by our legislators to break with Jamaica in 1959 when the Federation broke up.

Britain, in the White Paper, has given us, among the other dependent territories, an opportunity to evolve and craft for ourselves a system, with their blessing of course, that will help us to more clearly embark on a direction that we should go. But in so doing, we have to come to certain realities. One of those realities is—and I have said this before—on the occasion, twice, that I move the Bill of Rights in this Honourable Legislative Assembly. There is no—and I emphasise—there is no modern constitution that has not been prefaced with a Bill of Rights offering the citizens certain guarantees.

I hope that honourable Members understand that when we are talking about evolving a modern instrument of government that by inference and concomitant with that modern instrument of government we also have to afford the people a Bill of Rights. A Bill of Rights protects the citizens from their government. A Bill of Rights is the ultimate guarantor of the citizen's rights. The Constitution outlines the parameters in which the country and its government functions. The Bill of Rights protects and offers guarantees to the citizens against the government.

So, it must be understood that one cannot and it is unacceptable that one would be accepted or acceded to without the other. Britain wants us to understand that too. Mr. Speaker, sometimes when I get tongue in cheek I say that it does not surprise me that we have this kind of politics in Cayman, a country which in the 21st century celebrates piracy. The politics do not surprise me because, Mr. Speaker, how in the world can someone be expected to make sense out of what is happening politically? Much of the blame, and I am not excluding myself, must lie with those honourable Members who are currently here because we have been so busy conducting business in the Legislative Assembly that we are forgetting that we have another role. That role and responsibility is to educate and elevate the minds of our constituents politically. Perhaps, it has been taken for granted for so long that generations of politicians have neglected to do so. We must teach them the directions in which we think they should embark, and that is a failure. In that, I am giving myself as much blame and perhaps more than I give all other members, since I am a political animal. But sometimes I try.

Mr. Speaker, it has come to this: There is such a lack of understanding that the role between the Backbenchers and the government clearly defined . . . And people tell me I have not delivered anything. But as a backbencher in the Westminster system that we practise in the Cayman Islands, what can I deliver? I try to educate my critics and my constituents and tell them my role in this system. You have to judge me on my voting record—how did I vote? How do I vote? What kind of Motions do I bring? Do I ask questions? That is the only thing backbenchers can deliver, Mr. Speaker. The only thing backbenchers can deliver is their position when it comes to government bills or private members' motions or the budget. We cannot deliver roads, major projects, schools and hospitals. That is the government, the ministers' preserve and prerogative because they are responsible for policy. We do not make the policy.

So, we need to impart those kinds of understandings and draw the various levels out so that our constituents and the wider public can be educated as to what to realistically expect from us. And, in the absence of party politics, the role of the backbencher in our system in the Cayman Islands is even more complicated because, at least, if we were in a system where there were clearly defined party politics, certainly, the backbenchers could get something were they government backbenchers. But in our system where there is a free for all, it is difficult if not impossible to come away with anything. Heaven knows what would happen to some of us were we not good debaters.

So, I agree that there is a need to evolve a more sophisticated system. I don't know if it will come in this election because the danger in bringing this motion at this time is that this is election time. It would have been ideal—perhaps, it would have been too ideal if this had happened a year or better ago so that we would have had time were we serious to craft some kind of system so that by this time we would be ready to take off.

I also hold the view, and it is based on historical precedence, that you will never see party systems take off in the Cayman Islands until one is formed and fully functional. And then the other persons who are so inclined to survive will have of necessity to start a similar organisation of their own. But the challenge and the most difficult thing is getting the first one off the ground.

Mr. Speaker, our disposition now evolves out of the old colonial psychology of divide and rule. I go back to the experience that we had on Team Cayman—we had a wonderful opportunity to craft a dynamic organisation and before it got off the ground there was a rivalry, we had a split and we were dismembered. The very faction that we should have been united with to give it strength we jettisoned. So, perhaps I realise now in retrospect that it was doomed from the beginning because we could not iron out certain differences. So, we are plagued when we try to organise with petty rivalries and petty jealousies.

But, Mr. Speaker, that is not unique to the Cayman Islands because that happens everywhere in British colonial history. That is what happened in India with Gandhi and Mohammed Jinnah. That is what happened in Kenya and a lot of these other places—Ghana with Kwame Nkrumah and these other factions.

We have a glorious opportunity in the Cayman Islands to get things right if we apply ourselves. And now, even although it is the eleven and three-quarter hour, it is still not too late. But, first of all, the players have to agree among themselves to play by certain rules and to stop crying 'foul' when they think the other persons have the advantage. I don't believe that it necessarily follows that to go into a more sophisticated instrument of government and a party system will mean the demise of the country and the break-up of the country. Those countries that went that route went because of other factors—because they wanted to go that route. But the history books are full of countries that went this way and are doing well and continue to do well.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that this is an opportunity for us to strike a balance. The country is facing a myriad of intractable problems, many of which depend on a strong and united executive. We cannot continue trying to unite disparate factions in the hope that we are going to craft the perfect union—it will not happen. History has proven that it will . . . there is no clear unified direction.

Vision 2008, a document which people say is the national policy document for the country, the strategic vision, if it is to followed and carried out successfully will need the united effort of a strong government. We cannot continue to operate on marriages of convenience because now we have five different governments. If we are going to get things like our expenditure and our liabilities under control it is of critical importance that we get a system which has a clearly defined head who is prepared to assume responsibility and to be accountable. And also, in being accountable to offer some transparency. Right now there is an absence of that kind. Even the people in the streets are frustrated and wanting to know, Who can I turn to when I need something done? Where is that entity based? Who is that entity that I go to?

Mr. Speaker, in most cases it is really not the Governor—the Governor does not come down to the Legislative Assembly to make policy. The Governor is not the person that the people elect to represent them so it is clearly not the Governor. Yet, sometimes they come to those persons they know as their representatives; the representatives cannot do anything because they may just be backbenchers.

So, the voices are crying out loudly for a change, for some sophistication, some semblance of order and progress in the system. I believe that the players here and many on the outside are of the level of maturity where they understand and appreciate, and in all respect I must say that I have not heard anyone crying for independence. I have not heard anyone saying that they are going independent but I have almost to a man heard many people say, 'We need some kind of system where we can identify who is responsible for leading the leaders and who is responsible for this'.

Mr. Speaker, in that regard I believe that it is appropriate to debate such a motion. I believe that it is reasonable to look forward with pregnant anticipation that something will be done in this regard because the lack of this kind of system is one of the things that has filled me with cynicism for the politics that we practise. Mr. Speaker, it started first with scepticism and over the years that scepticism grew to the point now where it is difficult not to be cynical about some things. And, there is no time for one-upmanship and for political posturing. This is the time to be sincere, forthright, candid and truthful because it is not only our future that we are debating and talking about; it is the future of the country which is greater than each of us, individually, and equally as great as all of us, collectively.

So, I hope that I don't hear from detractors any nonsense about who wants independence and who wanted this and who is power-hungry and who is not power-hungry as has been the spurious and stupid arguments of years past. And all the one-upmanship about they have been the one person or the two persons stopping people from getting into power and into position.

Mr. Speaker, certainly years will have shown that all honourable members want the same thing for the country: prosperity, peace, good order and a brotherhood. In spite of the fact that I might not necessarily like everyone who is campaigning and particularly those who are campaigning against me, I have to concede that I have yet to find anyone who is promising to tear the country apart and to tear the country down. I don't believe, Mr. Speaker, if they exist, they certainly have not made any political declarations up to now.

There is something to be commended about this, in that, I am happy that at least two persons were bold enough to bring this motion forward. Years ago to have done this would have been to quote political suicide. But I think that the country, the parliament and the people are right for such a discussion. And if my understanding and my interpretation of what the Baroness Scotland and the MPs who recently visited have said—and what I learnt most recently from speaking to at least one MP (whom those of us who went to the conference in the Bahamas met) is that Britain is certainly willing and encouraging us to think along these lines.

That being the case, I close with the appeal, 'Let us seize the opportunity and the time to demonstrate that we are mature and to realise that as representatives according to that famous Irish historian and parliamentarian, Edmund Burke, it is one of the roles and responsibilities of the people's representatives to lead and to educate them in the direction in which we the representatives think they should be led and to explain to them why we think they should be led there.

That, Mr. Speaker, is our challenge and I hope we can rise to that. As far as I am concerned, I have always, with no apologies, been a party man. From day one, I have always been an organisation man and I will die one. Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak?

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, I think it is in order for government to indicate whether or not it is accepting or rejecting the motion and give its reason why?

The Speaker: Do you not wish to speak further?

This is my final call. Does any member, government or backbench, wish to speak? No member wishes to speak? Does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Mr. Speaker, I assume that the reason why the government does not want to speak to this motion is because the government does not think that it is an important proposition. The reason why the government would feel it is not an important proposition is because the government is quite contented with things the way they are. The more things fall apart the more they feel that they will remain entrenched in their positions. The fact that the people have elected them, not saying that they are government members just, but they are representatives of people. There is a representative from Cayman Brac, West Bay, Bodden Town, George Town and East End. Are they saying that the people of these districts that they represent do not hold any views on this matter? Mr. Speaker, it is a very serious issue.

Now, the government is probably going to vote against this motion. I don't see how they can vote for the motion if they have nothing to say on it. But if they are going to vote against the motion, it would be important for them to take this opportunity to explain the reasons for their vote to their constituents—even if they do not have enough respect for this House to explain it to the House, the mover and the seconder of this motion.

I have had this situation with the government before where they have basically tried to ignore motions that I brought here. They did it with [the removal of import duty [from imported foods] motion (Private Member's Motion 31/99) and they have done it with other motions—the Education Motion, the Crime and Recidivism Motion (Private Member's Motion 20/99) where they refused to get up and give their opinions. They are paid to have opinions. So what is the problem? They did not understand the level of the discussion?

Now, I tried to make the discussion on a level where I was not really getting into the politics, accusations or whatever—and then this reaction. What am I supposed to say? When it was the White Paper issue it went to select committee. When it was the Immigration issue it went to select committee—everything goes.

So, the question is, Why is it then that if I have raised the issue of the Constitution as a result of statements that were made by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) in the White Paper, why is it that the government has no position on this? It is strange. It really shocks me! I have basically nothing more to say than that I am totally shocked by this reaction. Maybe the government will find an opportune time to explain to the public why they have no comments on this motion. Perhaps, they will do it on their campaign trail why they have no comments on this motion. But the House deserves a reaction from the government. This is part of what I was talking about when I spoke about the undemocratic nature of certain types of behaviour in this place.

When the government gets up to vote against this motion they are going to use the three official members to vote against my motion that was brought here because of my concern with the people's questioning about 'What are we going to do with regards to Britain telling us what to do?' 'Is it possible (they say) to have a constitution, to have a political structure that allows us to take more control over the decision-making process in our country?'

When they ask me about crime I say to them that the Police are in control; the Police relate to the Chief Secretary and to the Governor. The Prison is not under our control; the prison is under the control of the Chief Secretary and the Governor. The Immigration is not under our control, it is under the control of the Chief Secretary and the Governor. Three areas which are of primary importance to these islands at the moment. And people want to know what I am doing as a representative in these areas when my hands are tied constitutionally.

We hear the Leader of Government Business, the Minister of Education saying that he cannot do this because of the Constitution. I have to agree with that because there are certain things that I cannot do because of the Constitution. That is why I am debating the Constitution because the people would like to see their elected members do more in certain areas. Yet, when the debate comes before this honourable House, no one from the government bench comments—and then they are going to use these three official members to vote down this motion. This is incredible! People must have opinions in the Legislative Assembly. This is what we are here for—to debate! It cannot be a one-sided debate. We have to exchange our opinions on these matters and not hide them to use as ‘knives’ that they sneak out in the election time. This is ridiculous!

Mr. Speaker, I believe that I can come back to the question—move away from the shock that has been dealt me by the government and say that it is necessary for us in this country to have decisions made, as was said by the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, that reflect the feelings, aspirations and the wishes of the people. We have to publicly debate and exchange information otherwise our democracy does not work. Our democracy cannot work with that kind of ill-founded approach to the legislative process.

I thank the members who have listened and I hope that, at least, the people understand what their government is made of and that they do all they can to make sure that on November 8, 2000 they dump them!

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 18/00, the resolve section which reads as follows: “BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED that this Honourable Legislative Assembly debate issues in the Draft 1992 Constitution for the Cayman Islands, with the view of its coming into effect in 2001 or thereafter, be made an election issue.”

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: Apparently the noes have it. The Motion has failed.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: May we have a division, please?

The Speaker: Certainly. Madam Clerk would you call a division, please?

The Clerk:

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 18/00 NEGATIVED BY MAJORITY.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Members Motion No. 22/00, Revised Guidelines for the Award of Government Scholarships to be moved by the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 22/00

REVISED GUIDELINES FOR THE AWARD OF GOVERNMENT SCHOLARSHIPS

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 22/00 entitled Revised Guidelines for the Award of Government Scholarships. It reads as follows:

“WHEREAS the cost of a university education has become extremely expensive;

“AND WHEREAS as a result most students find it necessary to apply for an award of a Government Scholarship to fulfil their desire of obtaining a university or college degree overseas;

“AND WHEREAS, especially over the past eight years, Government has been extremely generous in making Government Scholarships available for students who have the desire and ability to further their education;

“AND WHEREAS the Education Council has recently changed the guidelines for qualifying for a Government Scholarship;

“AND WHEREAS it is felt that the guidelines are unreasonable, too restrictive and would only cater to the academic elite of our society and would deprive most applicants from qualifying for a Government Scholarship to pursue a university or college education overseas;

“AND WHEREAS there is a great demand for trained and qualified Caymanians in the work-place and, for this reason, it is felt there is an urgent need for the guidelines, to qualify for a Government Scholarship, to be revised;

“BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT this honourable House now requests the Education Council to revise and establish scholarship guidelines that are fair, realistic and of benefit to the greatest number of our Caymanian students to provide for:

- 1. The award of a local Government Scholarship for students wanting to attend either the International College of the Cayman Islands, the Community College or the Cayman Islands' Law School, taking into consideration the added expense incurred by students from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman attending these local institutions; and
- 2. the award of an overseas Government Scholarship for those students desiring to attend a college or university overseas, eliminating the recent requirement that students attend a local institution for the first two years having achieved a minimum SAT score of 950; and that consideration also be given for financial assistance for persons wanting to attend either of the local institutions on a part-time basis; and
- 3. the award of Scholarships for those persons who have no parental or other financial support.”

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I beg to second the motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 22/00 has been duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak to it?

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, like the motion mentions, between 1992 and 1999, government's policy with regard to the awards of scholarships was very generous, consistent, conscientious, and as far as I am concerned, awarded on an even keel regardless of one's financial position, family name or other political connections.

I want to say as a representative that I have been extremely pleased to see over that period of time so many of our young Caymanians—when I say Caymanians it also includes those students from your constituency of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman—have had the opportunity of pursuing an education or advancing their education, in most cases, by deciding to go overseas. That is, to Canada, the United States the UK or even to the Caribbean where we have some fine academic institutions.

Mr. Speaker, I believe, personally, that the guidelines that were used in considering the granting of scholarships during that period of time were reasonable. For example, for a government scholarship overseas or otherwise, government insisted that the applicant had an SAT score of at least 950—which is reasonable—and a score that most students who applied for a government scholarship previously had no problem achieving. Some found it necessary to engage a tutor or some extra classes in order to ensure that they achieved that type of score on their SAT exam but most students have been able to qualify by achieving that required score.

Students attending the government school system where they are exposed to overseas examinations, the requirement basically was that he/she had to pass at least five examinations, having good scores (maybe with a 1 or 2 or even a 3 as a passing grade). For most students who applied for consideration for a government scholarship this also posed no great difficulty.

Mr. Speaker, the other thing that was appreciated was that the members of the Education Council understood that there would be an adjustment period for the students who were granted overseas scholarships. The requirement for the first year, I think, was that students were to maintain at least a 2.5 GPA—basically a C average. Most serious students really had very little difficulty complying with that particular requirement. Thereafter students were required to maintain at least a B average in their classes in order to ensure that the government scholarship continued.

Most students applying for government scholarships were admitted to academic institutions overseas where they wanted to attend and were accommodated by grants of government scholarships.

I must say as a representative, that I can think of no better investment in this country than investing in the education of our young people. We boast of probably 15,000 - 16,000 persons who are legally in this country on work permits—taking into consideration those who are presently on temporary work permits.

The other thing that we must keep in mind is that as far as Caymanians are concerned we have a very small population. So it is very important and not only very important but very possible, for us to ensure that our young people who have the desire and the ability to obtain admission to universities or colleges overseas have the opportunity to pursue higher education.

Mr. Speaker, you and I are both aware that that opportunity did not always exist in this country. I recall—and I have mentioned it many times—that when I was at Cayman Islands High School I found every excuse in the book not to get my hopes too high about pursuing a higher education because the opportunities were not available. Unless you had the right connections in government and the right surname, you did not have a chance.

I am very thankful to God for his providence in that even though those kinds of conditions existed, I had an opportunity to improve my education. Mr. Speaker, because of the experience that I had as a student, it makes me extremely angry when I see attempts being made to discourage our young people from pursuing their goal of a higher education.

Mr. Speaker, you are aware as I am that the last batch of applicants that we had for government scholarships were subjected to some unreasonable conditions with regards to the awarding of those scholarships. Sir, with your permission, I would like to use a part of an answer given by the Minister of Education in response to a question that was asked by the First Elected Member from George Town, which reads: “To outline the entire policy adopted by the Education Council in regard to the issuing of scholarships”. [Question No. 18/00] In that answer the Minister of Education mentioned the following and with your permission I would just like to read this particular portion.

The Speaker: Go ahead.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: He says, “The Council adopted the following modification to regulations for overseas scholarships.

“Effective September 1999, only two-year scholarships will be offered for overseas study with the following exceptions:-

- 1. Students with seven (7) University of Cambridge (GCE/GCSE/IGCSE) passes at Grade B or above, or
- 2. Students with seven (7) CXC passes Grade 2 and above at the general/technical level, or
- 3. Students with a combined score of 1300 on the SAT examination, or
- 4. Students accepted into architecture, engineering or medicine and who have the required mathematics and science background (‘A’ Level equivalent).”

Mr. Speaker, those conditions as far as I am concerned are not only unreasonable, they are ludicrous.

I have a little nephew who is scheduled to graduate from the Wesleyan Christian Academy in June next year, God willing—15 years old. He could have graduated this year if he really wanted to and by the time he graduates he would have done every course and every pace that is offered under that system. He took the SAT exam for the first time earlier this year and he had a 1250 on his exam. Mr. Speaker, you and I are both aware that not many students achieve this type of pass on the SAT exam.

The other thing to keep in mind, Mr. Speaker, is that as far as admission requirements are concerned, most of our students go the U.S. to school and most universities require an SAT of 950 - 1000 but with an SAT of 1250 you could probably get into Harvard University. So, for me, as a representative, to accept this as being reasonable for consideration for the award of a government scholarship for our Caymanian students, I would be totally irresponsible.

Mr. Speaker, you know, during the debate on the private member's motion dealing with the review of the educational system, I had quite a bit to say with regard to this particular issue. What I saw it as, was the attempt by the President of the Community College to use the government scholarship system to promote his little empire at the Community College. What is also strange is that both he and his wife—who is the Permanent Secretary of Education—sit on Education Council.

I was so upset with what was being done with regard to our students . . . And let me say that this year's graduates, not only from Wesleyan Christian Academy but also from Triple C and the Cayman Islands High School—those students who applied this year for a government scholarship were probably some of the brightest students that we ever had graduating and applying for government scholarships. For those conditions to be imposed on our students for the award of a government scholarship was very disheartening indeed.

The sad thing about this, as I mentioned in the first Whereas in my motion, is that a college or university education today is extremely expensive. So, most parents had not the option of saying, ‘if I don't get a government scholarship I will go out and take money out of my savings account or off my fixed deposit and make sure that my child is able to pursue the dream of higher education’. Not many parents were in that financial position and that is what frustrated me.

Mr. Speaker, as you recall, I got your permission and I also made a personal statement in the House on this same issue. Basically, what my request was all about was that I was asking the honourable minister to take the matter back to the Education Council with a request that their decision be reconsidered. I must say that I was very pleased to learn . . . And you sit on the Education Council, you have been there for many years. I know the sensitivity and concern that you have with regard to the education of our young people. I was very pleased that the Education Council was able and willing to reconsider their previous position.

Let me say that I fully support the Community College of the Cayman Islands, the International College of the Cayman Islands (ICCI) and the Cayman Islands Law School. I think they have their roles and they have made their contributions to society. Under no circumstances, however, would I accept as a condition of a grant about government scholarships—for any of our young people who have the desire and ability to go overseas—that as a condition they must attend the Community College, ICCI or even the Law School here in the Cayman Islands for the first two years.

Now, I think it was in July of this year I attended a graduation at the Cayman Islands Law School and I must commend the Minister for Education who spearheaded the establishment of that institution here in the Cayman Islands. Do you know what happened, Mr. Speaker? Because of the high reputation and the [outstanding] results that institution has achieved over the years, very few persons who decide to study law choose to go overseas.

If I were the President of the Community College do you know what I would do? He has a huge budget—every year is a surplus. Let him go out and let him employ the people that are necessary. Let him employ a professional marketing person to go out and market and promote the services of the Community College.

Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, the initial role of the Community College was basically to enable our students who were not inclined to pursue an academic higher education, the opportunity to pick up a vocational skill, that is, plumbing, carpeting, et cetera. Also, short term courses, computer literacy and the bit.

What has happened over the past three or four years, I would say, is that the objective of that particular institution has totally changed. I don't have the statistics with me today but if I had, I am quite sure they would bear me out. The majority of the work permits that we have in this country are for people who provide a technical skill. Yet, we talk about not being in a position to attract Caymanians into these particular vocations. I am not sure how genuine the effort has been to encourage our young people from going into those particular fields.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that one of the difficulties that the school has, is that, if you and I are both attending an academic institution and you are pursuing a degree and I am pursuing a vocation for a skill as a carpenter, there is still a stigma attached in our society to those particular vocations. So, all of a sudden because you are academic and I am vocational you might feel you are better than I am. Those particular students, I believe, have a complex, (that is, those who are pursuing a vocational skill at the same institution). I believe that is also one reason why we have not been able to attract more students in that particular area.

I am asking in this motion for the Education Council to establish specific guidelines with regard to two types of scholarships. One, a local scholarship, the other an overseas scholarship.

Mr. Speaker, just yesterday I was at my MLA Office in West Bay and a young lady came to see me. I was aware that she was previously on a government scholarship. I said to her, "Did you finish your degree?" She said, "No, Mr. Jefferson, circumstances changed and I was called upon by my parents to come in and help run their business. I have a child and I find it very difficult to leave at this stage to go overseas to complete my education because of those circumstances". I encouraged that young lady by telling her that I appreciate the position she is in, but that there is nothing wrong with pursuing and continuing her education locally at ICCI or Community College because that is possible. So, there is a role for a local scholarship and there is a role for an overseas scholarship.

I am aware that persons from the Education Council responsible for interviewing applicants for government scholarships, have on occasions felt that some students were not mature enough to go overseas at that stage, or were weak in one or two subjects. The recommendation made was that 'you go and attend the Community College for maybe a semester or two, bring your grades up and then reapply for a government scholarship'. Once that was pursued, there was no problem. I think that is a sensible approach.

The other thing that this motion calls for—and I did not even think of this until I discussed with a member—is that you also have students from the other islands (Cayman Brac and Little Cayman) who are applying for government scholarships. Let's say they apply to attend a local institution; they leave Cayman Brac or Little Cayman and come over here; they are away from home. Unless they have a relative who can accommodate them, they have additional expenses that someone living here in Grand Cayman would not incur because they would be living at home. Mr. Speaker, some consideration should be given to those students to say, 'Okay, the award is $5,000 per annum, you throw in another $2,000 - $3,000 for accommodation in order to assist those students with pursuing the goal of a further education'.

Mr. Speaker, I cannot tell you how pleased I was to walk into a room at George Hicks School where an orientation session was taking place for all students who were granted government scholarships. I walked in and there were parents and students who had previously applied for government scholarships and were, should I say, not denied, but the ridiculous requirement had been imposed on them about having to attend the first two years at the Community College. After the decision was reversed by the Education Council, there they were being briefed on what to expect when they went overseas to attend school. It made me feel good as a representative; it made me feel good as a Caymanian. As I said, it was probably one of the brightest classes of graduates that we have had in a long time and to see them regardless of who they were, having an opportunity to pursue higher education, made me feel good.

One thing I must say about the Minister of Education is that even though he and I have had a few clashes we are good friends. At least, he was bold enough to take the request back to the Education Council, and Education Council was bold enough to reverse their decision.

Now, I have learned over the years that you don't know everything and if you believe you are right all the time you are fooling yourself. What I have learned is that if you keep your mouth shut and listen, it is amazing what you can learn. So, I want to say to the minister, 'Thanks, for being man enough to take the request back to the Education Council'. I believe that the establishment of clear, specific guidelines with regard to government scholarships would help all interested parties.

This Motion also deals with consideration by Education Council for awarding financial assistance for adults who may want to pursue a course of study even on a part-time basis at one of the local academic institutions. They should have the opportunity to do that. As far as I am concerned, regardless of your age you can be a student.

Mr. Speaker, I am aware of a number of parents (in most cases single parents) who have a desire to further their education but they find it necessary to have to work on a full time basis in order to support themselves and their families. It is amazing how quickly time flies and even though they will be doing it on a part-time basis over a period of time, they will achieve basically the same objective. I believe that we need to do everything that is possible to make the opportunity of a higher education in this country available to every Caymanian— young, middle-aged or old—who has the ability and the desire to do so.

Mr. Speaker, I want to thank you for your time and thank the honourable members for their attention. I will now sit and listen to what government is prepared to do on this issue.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any honourable Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Mr. Speaker, I was wondering if it may be possible to take a ten-minute break. This has come on so quickly. Oh, I am sorry, the seconder will speak. That will be good, sir. That will give me the time I need sir.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: Mr. Speaker, we would not want the government to not be able to address this matter in short order.

I am glad to second this resolution as I had a similar one and when this one was tabled, we decided that I would second this one by adding some of the things in it now. The mover did a pretty good job of outlining our complaints so I would not want to traverse that ground.

Before I begin on this, I would just like to say that I have confidence in the permanent secretary and in the president of the Community College. I think that their work has been exemplary. I believe, sir, that the Community College is a great investment for this country and that more of our young people should take the opportunity of getting classes there. As I have said in this House before, I believe that a lot more could be done by the Government to advertise, promote the Community College and I still believe there is a lot more that can be done at the school.

So, I would not want people to believe that I share any remarks in regards to their efforts because I recognise when people do hard work and I do know, as much as anyone wants to talk about the president of that college, he works hard there.

Mr. Speaker, you will find that when the ordinary classroom is out for the summer, you can find the president of the Community College working. All I believe needs to happen is for the policies to be set and he can carry them out. He is a very capable person.

Mr. Speaker, I did not have an opportunity to get a university education. To say the truth, sometimes within myself I ask, 'Why did that happen? Why were there no opportunities in my time for that?' Nevertheless because I feel and well understand today what is required for people looking jobs, students looking jobs, young people wanting good positions. If they do not have that proverbial piece of paper they don't stand much chance in this world we live in, where we are so competitive. Well, let's say, we have to be competitive in the global environment.

While I did not have that opportunity, I am proud and glad for those who did. I have always sought to encourage and to do my own little part in helping others get a university education. My advice to those who lose an opportunity is to 'think again'. This is not an easy world we live in. Cayman has entered the world stage so much so that sometimes we like to think we are set in our own little corner.

When a [young person] studies hard and gets good grades, no matter where he comes from he must be given every assistance. I am glad that I was part of a government that took the decision that [students] must be assisted no matter where they come from. What we sometimes have today, is that a student does not want to attend a government recommended university or college for his own reason—let's say, because of religious beliefs (that is, they may only [wish] to go to a school or college associated with their church). Sometimes these persons are kept back. I have found that in my walk as a representative. I do not see any reason why that should happen.

We are finding young people who are honour students wanting to study courses in behavioural science, and no one can tell me that we don't need that today. Someone with that training is very much needed within our governmental system. Yet, we have people who are told, 'You cannot go to that school because it is connected to your church' for whatever reason they say that.

Mr. Speaker, I have some experience because people have come to me and I have had to check out the matter. I would say, all of those who have not been able to get scholarships this year are those who can least afford to pay for a university education. This is no longer an inexpensive matter. I have two children. I know what it means not to be assisted. I know what it means to have to do it more or less on your own. This is not good: not in a country that boasts what we boast. When you stop and think of the kind of expenditure that is taking place right, left, and centre, on roads but yet some of these people are brushed aside.

I don't think that a student should be told 'You cannot go here, you cannot go there'. It has to be pretty bad if he cannot learn something. Surely he can get assistance under the student loan scheme—but he would have to do that even if he did get a scholarship because as we know a scholarship does not pay for the full four years anyway. I trust that it would be understood that telling a student he cannot get a scholarship after he has qualified for one—that is, after a student has been written to by the Education Council stating 'You are granted a scholarship'—and then (as I know has taken place) a few days before that student is about to depart he is told in writing, 'No, no, no, Social Services say you cannot go because they don't want this or they don't have the need for this qualification . . .' Telling a student that is only destroying his hope.

The House was given the assurance that our students would not continue to have the kind of problems outlined in the motion but changes need to be made. The problems are still evident. If we say that, we must mean it. Every student must be given an opportunity when he has done well and qualifies and especially when there is an honour student in our system. He must be given that chance! I trust that changes will be made.

The motion, in what is outlined as item 3, says that the guidelines are to provide for the award of scholarships for those persons who have no parental or other financial support. Sometimes that is so; some students are unfortunate, but thank God there is not a tremendous amount of them but we do have that situation. Some children don't have any parents who can go and sign a loan for them. They don't have anyone else that they can depend on and as I said, thank God there are not a lot of people but I do know of some cases like that. We should provide for that kind of student.

Mr. Speaker, getting a university education I believe should be paramount with parents for their children and children for themselves. I would hope that our young people would continue to take up the opportunities lying before them. There are some stumbling blocks but I would say by and large there are many opportunities, many more than I had and I would hope that they would continue to do well in school. My advice to parents is to encourage their children to go to school and to see to it that they go. See to it from primary school right up that they don't watch too much television and they study hard because Cayman needs every young person we have. We cannot afford to lose one.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The business has gone so quickly that I am slightly short of time on this reply. However, I will do my best because as you know this is the fourth motion for the day.

Mr. Speaker, the motion begins by saying the cost of university education has become extremely expensive. That is correct, sir.

It says, "AND WHEREAS as a result most students find it necessary to apply for an award of a Government Scholarship to fulfil their desire of obtaining a university or college degree overseas." This is correct.

"AND WHEREAS, especially over the past eight years, Government has been extremely generous in making Government Scholarships available for students who have the desire and ability to further their education."

The Government of this country in the last eight years has basically taken a policy whereby anyone who qualifies for a scholarship will get it. If I may personally state my position on this, I believe that money cannot be spent on anything better than educating our youth. As long as I am in a position to do so, I will ensure that every Caymanian in this country who qualifies under the law for a scholarship will get it because the best investment that can be made is the investment in our youth.

So, I thank the mover and the seconder for putting that in and I can assure them that the Education Council, the Government and I, will ensure that continues to happen.

It goes to say whereas the guidelines have been changed and the feeling is that the changes are unreasonable and too restrictive. I would like to just go in a bit of depth on that.

We have in the island three institutions—the Community College, the International College of the Cayman Islands and the Law School. Both of these colleges are large and have a general type of qualifying exams and degrees within them. The Law School is obviously restricted to Law. I would like to just point out the reasoning behind the policy that was done.

The policy was basically this: It was that any person who could go into one of the colleges here who applied for a scholarship would do the first two years—the associate degree—and then would go on for the last two years overseas. The rationale on that was clearly that, firstly, in most instances it is better for young persons to begin the trauma and the problems of college in their own countries where they are supported by their families. So, it is always uppermost in the minds of the Education Council to do what is best for the student and by and large that is the position. They do better and they settle in quicker at that age. Remember, some of them are fairly young these days when they come out of school. And to do two years here, provided the associate degree or the qualification they get is relevant, the credits could be transferred or the exams in the case of a British institution accepted for doing the last two years abroad.

There were some exceptions. The following are students who would normally go abroad for the four-year scholarship if they wish: Students with seven GCE/CXC with passes in Grade B or above, or with the CXC at Grade 2 and above at the general and technical level, or students with a combined SAT score of 1250 or more.

Also, students accepted into architecture, engineering or medicine who have the required mathematics and science background and any other subject area on the priority list of the Education Council of which the core requirements of the first two years are not offered in the Cayman Islands.

So, if there is something that was not offered here that could be transferred abroad or within these speciality areas, as I mentioned, they would have to go abroad anyhow. So, no one would be asked to go to one of the two colleges here if they were not going to be able to use those exams to go abroad. The students who were expected in this area had to be admitted to higher institutions.

The other purpose was, obviously, that the guidelines as they stood not only assisted the children, I think, but also it was a matter of $2,500 versus $17,000 or really $5,000 - $6,000 instead of maybe $34,000 for the two years abroad.

Also, it would assist the two colleges here in that they would now be able to better develop their own programmes locally. But the main thrust as is known, the Education Council, has on rare occasions during its interviews with students, said that a student is not sufficiently mature to go abroad. This does happen because some students coming out of school, while they may be very bright, they may finish school early. Not every student is sufficiently mature to attend a large university abroad. So, the overriding fact in this was the betterment of the young person.

Now, we had possibly in the end about twelve who wanted to go abroad instead of staying here. Some of those, when they were spoken to and interviewed saw the benefit of remaining here and did so. Some didn't and these exceptions were taken back and as the mover mentioned several of those were allowed to go abroad, the reasons were there. In fact, some of them came within the guidelines.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to point out clearly that my permanent secretary, Mrs. Joy Basdeo, is undoubtedly one of the most outstanding persons in this country who has basically given her full life to education and so has the president of the Community College, Mr. Basdeo. They do a superb job and I believe this country owes them gratitude for the many young people in this country who have been schooled and who have taken their rightful place in this society. So, I take exception and very much so to the remarks made by the mover of this Motion. I was happy that the seconder in that respect did not follow the mover [chuckles] and he knows when to follow and when to lead.

The Speaker: May I interrupt you for a moment, please.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I am sorry, sir.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION—4.30 PM

The Speaker: We have reached the hour of 4.30, the hour of interruption. If it is the wish that we continue be-

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: I did give this answer yesterday to another question but I will give it again.

The Water Authority has confirmed that the engineering design for the Grand Cayman Wastewater Treatment Works Project is approximately 95 percent complete. The project is currently on hold while awaiting Government approval for the Authority to borrow approximately US$12.8 million from a local bank to finance the construction of the project.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In discussions yesterday he outlined that Executive Council had received the proposal from the Water Authority Board from November of last year and that there is some paper being prepared to be brought back to Council to discuss the matter. Can he state if the reason why the matter has not been resolved thus far, and the Water Authority given the latitude to engage in the borrowing, is because the negotiations with the bank have resulted in the bank agreeing to the financing conditional to the government not receiving any money from the Water Authority during the length of the loan?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: I am informed that one of the conditions is that the bank did say that the government would not take any funds that would cause any problems for the Authority to repay the loan in question.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The minister is doing his usual thing and I can understand his position, but I asked the minister if that was the reason why the matter has not been resolved in Executive Council thus far. The minister has said that that was one of the conditions of the loan agreement.

I am asking the minister if that condition has anything to do with the delay in government giving authorisation to the Authority to borrow the money.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Yesterday when a similar question was posed, the Third Official Member elaborated a bit on it and mentioned another matter which was also one of the causes why this had been delayed for further study. So, I guess it is correct to say that the question has been posed and is one that will be under some study.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yesterday when the discussion took place, it was fair comment to say the situation was one causing great concern. I appreciate the fact that there has to be a balance between any borrowings engaged in, and the Authority having the viability to be able to satisfy the government with some income from its investment—the government being the owner of the Authority. If possible, however, I would like the minister to tell us whether the government fully appreciates the seriousness of the situation and whether it is the government's intention to resolve the matter very speedily.

The fact of the matter is that while we have talked about the garbage dump for years, the sewage treatment plant is more of a problem at this point in time than the garbage dump. At what level of priority is the government looking at this project with regards to getting on with what has to be done to correct the situation that prevails?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: As far as being the minister responsible for this, it would be number one on my list and for that reason both the Authority and I (I am the Chairman) have placed this matter before Executive Council with the hope that it will be dealt with speedily. However, I refer, again, to what was pointed out yesterday. In Executive Council, there were certain things that needed further study. Therefore, while it remains a priority with the Authority and me, we have to abide by the wishes of Executive Council: they make the final ruling.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Can the honourable minister say whether he has gone to the Chairman of Council—that is, His Excellency the Governor, to ask his assistance in moving this matter forward? The matter is a serious one and should not be taken lightly. I think the House understands that. I should say to the minister that I believe that is what he should do if has not done it. But maybe he can say whether he has gone to the Governor to ask his assistance in moving this thing forward since this has been before Executive Council for the last year.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: In all the discussions on the matter in question the chairman of Council has been present and of course understands the seriousness of it as put forward by myself and the managing director of the Authority who has also been before Council and made a presentation.

So, the seriousness of it, and our efforts to get it through have been in action. I can say no more at this time.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: It is my understanding that the Authority went out and basically secured financing on its own, which is not the normal procedure as I understand for authorities obtaining financing.

Normally, there is a government guarantee in relationship to whatever the request for financing. Since the Government is so concerned, I wonder if it has looked at the possibility of an alternative with regard to the Authority contributing financially. Has Government considered going out there and providing a guarantee, which is normally usual in connection with this kind of financing?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: What has taken place here is normal. This is the procedure that needs to be (and has been) followed. As was pointed out yesterday, the Authority has the right to secure financing as it has done, but thereafter under the law it has to have the blessing of Council.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I want to thank the minister for that particular answer but in light of the urgency of the situation because I heard him mentioning yesterday (and I am not sure who advised him) that there is no potential health hazard as a result of not dealing with this issue.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Mr. Speaker, that is not correct. I did not say it that way. The question was about the water passing through the pipes and going into the ground. I stated that the information passed on to me was that water was coming from the ground because the pipes are on the ground and therefore the water was going into the pipes and pumped to the sewage ponds and it was no threat.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I thank the minister for elaborating on that. But in light of that then it is my concern with regards to the potential health hazard that this could pose. Could the minister give us any indication as to how soon this financing will be secured so that this problem can be dealt with?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: As I have said before, the financing is secure. The project is awaiting government's blessing.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Which agency, department, or ministry in government holds the ultimate responsibility to determine whether this is a health hazard now, or whether it has the potential to deteriorate into a health hazard? Has the department of environment ever carried out investigations into this potential danger? And what is their disposition and findings?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The department would be environmental health. As was pointed out there is no threat at this time, therefore, I don't think that any investigations were carried out by the department. However, if the Authority felt that there was some threat, definitely they would be consulted and the necessary action or report would be made.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: The minister has said on one hand that there is no threat, but on the other hand the treatment facility has been overloaded for at least the last three years.

It seems like another hotel is coming on line soon. They are even going to pave the road to help facilitate the opening. It has to be that this has some bearing on our already fragile tourism industry and it seems that the government has taken a nonchalant attitude about the whole thing. We cannot understand where they are at with it because the minister says one thing and the Financial Secretary says something a little bit different. I am getting to the question, sir.

Has the government, taken into consideration the fact that it is overloaded and of the potential damage it could cause to our tourism industry?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: I think that everyone in government is well aware of the seriousness of this problem. At least from the Authority's point of view, and my ministry's, it has been put forward. It is impossible for me to say when Executive Council will take a decision. I wish I could say. If I could, it would put my mind at ease—being responsible for the project. I would have appreciated this being attended to months ago.

As I said earlier, I am concerned about it, being the person responsible, but at this point in time I wish I could do something more to activate it and get it over with. I would like to add that the member did mention that the Third Official Member and I differ. I don't think we differ, maybe he used different words, but I think we are on the same track.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I think it is timely here: yesterday, when we were talking about this matter under another area the honourable Third Official Member was quite willing to get up and make a short statement of explanation, which we were very grateful for.

I wonder if it is possible, because of relevance, for us to be allowed to ask the honourable Third Official Member a question regarding this matter which obviously would put things into a better perspective. Is that possible, sir?

The Speaker: The question would have to go through the Minister of Agriculture.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: That is fine, sir.

We are at this point in time discussing the proposed sewage treatment project because of the problems that exist with the one that has been there for several years. The honourable Third Official Member yesterday (and I am directing the question to the Minister of Agriculture), explained that a Paper was being done to determine several factors. I remember hearing the Minister of Tourism at one point in time giving a commitment that the government was going to sit and work out the policy along with the Authorities regarding any monies to be had from them on an annual basis. This has been over a period of years now.

The backbench has questioned the government. The government has answered: the Minister of Tourism has given a commitment. The honourable Third Official Member has talked about it with us and says that the matter will be discussed.

Here we are having a situation with the Water Authority, which has the ability to borrow funds. This means that they must have produced a balance sheet to the private institution that was going to lend them the money. They are borrowing the money without the necessity of a guarantee from the government. It seems like the hiccup is because one of the conditions of the loan agreement is—and this is my understanding in broad terms—that the government should not expect any funds from the Authority that might put them in a position not to be able to make the repayments on the loan.

What I am questioning now (through the minister to the honourable Third Official Member) is, Has the government at any point in time sat down and tried to come up with this policy that it said it was going to do years ago? If it has not done so, how can it use the position with the Water Authority at present and single them out when there are other Authorities who are engaging in similar borrowings for similar long-term projects and they are not treating all of the situations in the same manner? In the interim, the matter is serious but the Water Authority is at a stalemate and cannot move forward with what is considered by one and all as something that is totally necessary. How can the government seem so impotent with regards to not acting on the matter?

Could the government not consider doing what they have to do to allow the Water Authority to get on the project and then sit down and work out whatever policy they have to work out?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As I pointed out yesterday to the First Elected Member for George Town, the Portfolio for Finance and Economic Development recognises that the project to be undertaken by the Water Authority is one that is very much needed.

Initially, when the Portfolio was invited to make its input, it was not a question of the borrowings alone that had to be looked at. We have a case at this point in time where—and I raised this with the director and others. Even up to yesterday morning, the question was put and certain assurances given. When the Water Authority carries out major works, it has a corresponding impact upon the infrastructure works of government.

Let us say, for example, if one would envision the type of capital works would flow from an investment of over $12 million. It would involve the cutting up of roads or could involve other aspects as well that government in turn would have to turn around and find money in order to re-establish the integrity of the road works that would have been damaged and other things. We had to sit down and go through that by way of discussion.

Secondly, the Water Authority pointed out that for a period of about 3 to 4 years it would not be in a position to make any contributions to government. We had to sit down and look at that, not only from the contribution point of view but also from the potential liability that would be carried over.

We have satisfied ourselves that the portfolio is now in a position to support the request that has been made of the Water Authority. I pointed out yesterday that there is a paper being developed at this time under the direction of the deputy Financial Secretary, and this will be going to Executive Council next week. That paper will set out the views of the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development but it cannot be said, because obviously the portfolio cannot commit the government but our views will be set out. We recognise the importance of this.

Again, this question has been raised by the honourable First Elected Member for George Town and other members in terms of the policy aspect and in terms of the contribution. Obviously, the government does not want to put any of the statutory authorities in an untenable position. This definitely is not the case because when everything is put together it is one government with different branches. We are a very small but dynamic country. We have the Water Authority doing one part and the Port Authority another. It is just a question of developing the goods and services for the benefit of the community at large.

There is a need to make a prudent examination of the financial implications, and what has been happening we have even gone as far . . . and this is why under the financial reform to be undertaken that the capital works of central government set out in the budget will definitely have to be expanded to include what will be done by statutory authority so that there can be synergy.

So, for example, when the statutory authority is going to be carrying out works to the value of $12.4 million there needs to be an assessment as to what impact this will have upon central government. Where will the funds be coming from—and not only one but all the agencies of government? This is where we want to get to so we can have a comprehensive framework in which to work.

We do recognise that we have been operating in a fragmented framework up to this point in time. We are trying to correct that. It is not that we are insensitive or don't want to give support where it is needed. It is not a question of $12.4 million—because if an epidemic breaks out, it does not take a rocket scientist to establish what the cost will be and obviously, our infrastructure is the support for our continuing development. It is the support for our tourism industry or the community at large.

Mr. Speaker, it is very important that this analysis that has been carried out by the portfolio be done and as I said there will be a paper going forward and we do trust that this will enable the decision to be taken.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Through you, sir, just so that the honourable Third Official Member will understand. I am appreciative of the situation and I understand from where he sits the efforts that are forthcoming. It is just a bit frustrating from November last year that we are now talking about this effort.

But through the honourable Minister for Agriculture, the honourable Third Official Member this question: He just talked about the working in synergy. He just talked about when you look at what has to be done with this new project about the ramifications of damage to roads and road works. How can the government be thinking along those lines—not dealing with the Water Authority, but spending a whole pile of money doing the West Bay Road with two feet of asphalt and that will have to be dug up? Can he answer me that?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources, will you give way to the Honourable Third Official Member?

[Inaudible comment]

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, I do not think it would be advisable for me to add any comments to this statement or attempt to respond to the statement that has been raised by the First Elected Member for George Town. I have the highest regard for him and his opinion, but this is one that is bordering in an area that I think it is best to exercise some restraint.

The Speaker: I am going to limit it to three additional supplementaries.

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker, you have been very kind in this last meeting.

The honourable Financial Secretary made mention of the port expansion as against the expansion or the development of the sewage treatment works. I think it begs the question—What priority has government given to this? We have a port that can be rehabilitated.

The treatment work is full to capacity and overflowing for the last three years. People are already paying for it. It is $14 million—so they say—for the port expansion. It's US$12 million for the treatment works. Can the Financial Secretary say how come they are moving on one and not moving—

The Speaker: Please direct your question to the Honourable Minister for Agriculture.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Sorry?

The Speaker: I say you must direct your question to the Honourable Minister of Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you very much, sir. Can the minister say why has Executive Council approved to facilitate one and not the other?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources do you wish to answer it or do you require the assistance of the Third Official Member?

Hon. John B. McLean: The decision has been taken on the Port, and the one for the Authority is pending. I cannot elaborate more than that for the member who is questioning it. I don't know if the Third Official Member has anything further to say.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I am not in a position to offer detailed comments as to why a decision has been taken to move ahead. But it is quite evident to anyone driving through George Town . . . And I have heard the honourable Minister for Tourism under whose ministry the port falls, point out the urgency for works to be carried out on the port.

Driving to work many mornings, I have looked and seen where a part of the dock itself has fallen into the sea. I have seen that, Mr. Speaker. I have not gone through the engineering works but if that has occurred, it would suggest to me that the whole structural integrity of the port could be in question. Again, like the sewage treatment work, no one can doubt the importance of having a functioning port to the country.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Since it appears that the sticking point with regard to the approval for the project from Executive Council is the contribution from the Water Authority to government, I wonder if the honourable minister can confirm when was the last time the government received a financial contribution from the Water Authority.

The Speaker: I think that is out of the ambit of this substantive question. You are actually working on the sewage treatment plant. If the honourable minister wishes to answer he may.

Final supplementary, the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Mr. Speaker, this was exactly what I was speaking about yesterday when I was discussing the Constitution. How is it possible for us to have any kind of checks and balances if ministers are not in a position to answer accurately with regards to questions posed about the management of their portfolios?

I would like to ask: If 95% of the water treatment plant is complete, which is what I understand [inaudible comment from the floor] . . . It is the engineering design that is completed. So, why is it that we only have 95% of the engineering design completed? How much money would it cost to have the other 5% of the engineering design completed, or whether or not that 5% of that design depends upon something else being put in place?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Mr. Speaker, this design is done in House and it is more or less just awaiting the approval of the funding to finalise the specs on the design.

The Speaker: Moving on to question number 57 standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 57

NO. 57: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works to provide an update on the undertaking that was given by the former Minister for Works with regards to assessing the traffic problem in the vicinity of Newlands Road and Tall Tree.

The Speaker: Before asking for the answer to this question I would appreciate a motion for the suspension of Standing Order 23 (7) and (8) that Question Time can go beyond 11.00 AM.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Mr. Speaker, I have pleasure in moving this suspension of the relevant Standing Order to allow the questions and answers to be given.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23(7) and (8) be suspended in order that question time can continue beyond 11.00 AM. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: Question time continues. The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Some time ago the Public Works Department analysed the traffic congestion in the vicinity of Newlands Road and Tall Tree. This was done by taking counts at the intersection, especially during the morning peak hours. A short report was prepared recommending alternatives for improvements.

The Public Works Department is in the process of reviewing and updating the existing report in order to prepare recommended alternatives to alleviate the congestion for which financial provisions will be made in the 2001 Budget.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: I cannot stress enough the importance of this matter. As the honourable minister and everyone else in this honourable House is well aware of the situation within this community, it has become the fastest growing area over the past four years. On a daily basis traffic is backed up on the Newlands/Hirst Road. Could the honourable minister say if consideration might be given to perhaps purchasing the house right on the corner that is up for sale so that the property could be used for widening the road?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: My understanding is that all of the design work in terms of what alternative will be used has not been carried out as yet. I believe it is proper to say that additional land and other things will be necessary to be purchased in order for the junction to be improved to such an extent that safety and traffic flow is priority.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: I have had representation with regards to perhaps installing a four-way stop or a traffic light. Could the honourable minister give his views on this?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I do not want to say something that commits Public Works. I prefer to leave the matter open and let us wait to see what recommendation they will make. When that is available, I believe the government, whoever is responsible at the time, should undertake to discuss this in detail with the members who represent Bodden Town, East End and North Side.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I wonder if the honourable minister could say what were the findings of the Public Works Department some time ago when they did this study of the traffic congestion, and what were their recommendations as to alternatives in their short report that was prepared and presented.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The work that was carried out by Public Works was several years ago, some time before I became responsible for the subject of Works.

It so happens that the gentleman who is responsible was not available in the last day or so, so I would have to undertake to obtain the report and let members have a copy of it or an explanation of it.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I wonder if the honourable minister, even though he said the gentleman who prepared the report was not available, can say if any recommendation was made as to using a roundabout in that area rather than a four-way stop sign on a highway out of the district of North Side, East End and Bodden Town?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I think on a major road there would likely . . . I have not seen the report. I don't have the report in my office but I think on a major road it is more likely that a roundabout will be the solution thought of, not to say that it is. But I think that would be the normal course that Public Works would take.

But let's leave it open for their recommendation and when the recommendation is available, if I am still here, I will pass it on.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries, we are moving on to question number 58 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 58

NO. 58: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to provide details of complaints received from Caymanians against services received from Baptist Hospital since January 1998.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Since January 1998, a total of nine complaints were received by the Ministry and Health Services Department about services provided them by Baptist Hospital. Four complaints were received in writing and five were verbal.

Six of the total nine complaints were about Nursing/Physician care. The remaining three were related to finance matters.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the honourable minister tell the House whether these matters were resolved to the satisfaction of the complainer.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Some of them were resolved, some were not, and some are still pending.

Just for the information of the House in regards to what happens to these complaints when they do come in: The Health Services Department assists with the processing of the complaints which are then passed to Baptist Hospital for them to respond directly to the patient and/or the relative.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the honourable minister tell the House whether there is a pool of persons or whether there is just one person in the Health Services here responsible for receiving, filing and pursuing these complaints or, if not, how are these matters normally handled?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: There is a Patient Relations Supervisor and a Patient Relations Officer on the front line, also the assistance of the Chief Medical Officer and where needed, the assistance of the Ministry.

To also broaden the scope, just last year in August, Baptist Hospital [representatives] were here and they actually invited the public to come in if there were persons who had any concerns or problems they wanted to share and discuss.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I feel that the Baptist Hospital has provided a very valuable service to the Cayman Islands. I wonder if the honourable minister can say how often the agreement with Baptist Hospital is revised? Or have we recently put the service out to tender to see whether or not we can get a better deal with some other facility?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: I would like to thank the Third Elected Member for West Bay for his kind remarks. As within any huge organisation there are complaints but there has also been a substantial amount of kudos for the relationship with Baptist Hospital.

The other part of the question is in a primary question coming up shortly to which I will respond at that time.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: In one of the supplementaries I think the honourable minister mentioned that there is a Patient Relations Supervisor. I wonder if that Patient Relations Supervisor is responsible for nursing and physician care in addition to financial matters.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The Patient Relations Supervisor would make the assessment on the original complaint. If it is a medical one it would be dealt with through the Chief Medical Officer. If it is a nursing one, the Chief Nursing Officer would be brought in, and if it is a financial one, the Chief Financial Officer of the Health Services Department would be brought in.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries we will move on to question number 59 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 59

NO. 59: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what plans does the Ministry have in regard to replacing the Community Development Officer for the Bodden Town District.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: On 7 July 2000, the Department of Social Services submitted a vacancy form for this position to the Personnel Department. The post was advertised in the Friday, 21 July, issue of the Caymanian Compass and the issue of the Cayman Net News of the week of 26 July 2000. Applications received have been carefully scrutinised by the Department of Social Services. Candidates have been short-listed and interviews are due to take place today—7 September 2000.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, a supplementary.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Is the minister in a position to say whether any of these applicants are from the district of Bodden Town?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: My understanding is that one of them was from Bodden Town.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries we will move on to question number 60 standing in the name of the Elected Member for North Side.

QUESTION 60

NO. 60: Mrs. Edna Moyle asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to give an update on the North Side Senior Citizens' Centre.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: I have to give a lot of credit to the Elected Member for North Side who has been pressing for this facility for many years. I am pleased to say that some progress has been made.

In this year's (2000) Budget, under Capital Development, the sum of $15,000 was allocated for project development. The necessary research has been carried out by the Public Works Department and the project definition document has been produced, including the costing now. This will be submitted in the budget for the year 2001. The proposed total floor area is 4,800 square feet. The building will consist of three bedrooms – two to accommodate three persons each; two to accommodate two persons each; and one to accommodate one person, for a total of 11 persons in residence.

The one-bedroom is so designed to accommodate a challenging and disruptive client or someone who might have an infectious disease and who requires separation. The day-care room, which will be a general activity room for day-care clients and residents, will cover 600 to 750 square feet.

The facility will also comprise a dining room for residents only, a residents' lounge, staff quarters, office, a commercial kitchen, laundry storage and a veranda. A generous size garden area is also planned with shade trees, flowering plants and seating areas. A car park for 10 to 15 vehicles will be included.

The facility will be built to hurricane standards so as to enable the residents to remain there in the event of a storm or hurricane. The estimated cost, including furnishings, is $1,347,848.00.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I would like to thank the honourable minister for getting one step closer eventually for this project. But when I see this $1,347,848, if my memory serves me correctly, this was the figure that Public Works gave us back in 1998 or 1999 when it was removed from the Budget because it did not have the total project cost. I am a little bit surprised that we are coming back with the exact figure that Public Works gave us at that time.

Anyway, be that as it may, I only look forward to the completion of this project for the elderly for North Side. But my question to the minister is, Do we have property at this time? If not, is he in a position to say where in North Side we are looking to put this facility?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The department is looking at different areas. There was one possibly identified by Public Works but we will have to enlist the services of the land registry and also the ministry that is responsible for that to make sure that we get the right location. I think it is important that we have a decent size piece of land to set this building on that is not cramped up. I am certainly looking forward to involving the member whenever possible in this final decision.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: I note from the substantive answer that the facility will be built to hurricane standards. Notwithstanding that, I noticed that the proposed floor area is 4,800 square feet and that the estimated cost including furnishing is some $1.3 million that works out to approximately $281 per square feet furnished.

I wonder if the honourable minister can say when any comparative cost has been done on this?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Not to my knowledge, but I would follow up on this and find out.

Just for the information of this House, I am made to understand that construction cost seems to be drifting a bit downward and we are hoping that when this actually goes out it will be at a better price than what we actually have listed here.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries we will move on to the final question, number 61, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 61

NO. 61: Mr. Linford A. Pierson asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to state when the medical referral agreement with the Baptist Hospital will be up for reconsideration.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The contract with Baptist Health Systems of South Florida will expire on 16 March 2001.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: I wonder if the honourable minister is in a position to say that in view of the short period to the expiration date whether any consideration has been given to opening up discussions with other hospitals such as Jackson Medical Centre, the Cleveland Clinic, or any of these other renown hospitals in the Miami area?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: In accordance with the terms of the contract the provider, Baptist, will give notice of its intent to apply to renew the contract sixty days prior to the expiry date. However, a formal government tendering process will be carried out to determine who will be contracted to provide tertiary level medical services for government which I think was done initially by my good friend, the First Elected Member from West Bay. There is a medical team that goes up to visit all of these centres and then that decision is made through central tenders.

The Speaker: Supplementary. The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: I understand from the answer to the supplementary that the Baptist Health systems would indicate within sixty days of the expiry date whether they wish to have the contract renewed. But I wonder if the minister is able to say whether independently given the short period of six months any attempts have been made to look elsewhere, considering the answers that were given to a previous question regarding the number of complaints made by patients about the Baptist Hospital?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: In regards to the number of complaints, they will certainly be looked at. I think we should balance them against the significantly higher numbers of appreciation, as I said earlier, in a massive facility like this. But as we lead up towards the end of the contract, it will go through the tenders committee and there will be a re-assessment. This will go back to the complete tender and other facilities will have the opportunity to submit their requests. And as the team did originally they will have the assessments done on all the others—whoever submits the tenders.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: In view of the high cost of overseas referrals, I think the recent government accounts showed like $14 million to $15 million outstanding in costs still owing to government, and in view of the advanced facilities now available at the Chrissie Tomlinson Memorial Hospital, can the honourable minister say whether any attempts have been made for co-operation between the George Town Hospital and that facility in relation to referrals that may not be properly handled—where the facilities are not available at the George Town Hospital but where such facilities may be available at the Chrissie Tomlinson Hospital?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: That is a good point and I am pleased to say that there is an ongoing dialogue in regards to this. As a matter of fact, just about two weeks ago I spoke with Dr. Tomlinson and he was very pleased with the progress that was being made in the co-operation toward excellent provision of health care for Caymanians here.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: As the minister said, the contract for the Baptist [Hospital] was given on the basis of competitive tendering process, and that they have had six complaints about nursing and physician care and three related to finance.

I would hope that the tendering process would take all the hospitals that were tendered in South Florida the first time contracts were given out, and to ask the minister, if they are working on that now to pay close attention to the fact that institutions like Cleveland Clinic give quite a bit of problems with elderly people moving to and from Miami Airport up to North Fort Lauderdale.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, Mr. Speaker, just to give an idea of some of the things that are looked at when the Tenders Committee uses the matrix which evaluates the hospitals which are tendering on such things as physical facilities, diagnostic services capacity, quality of staffing, willingness to assist with continuing education, accommodation for relatives—and this is the pertinent point—the distance from the airport and also the ground transportation. It is really a detail perspective that they look at in making their selection.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries, that concludes Question Time for this morning.

Moving on to Item number 4 on today's Order Paper, Other Business, Private Members' Motions. Private Member's Motion No. 22/00, Revised Guidelines for the Award of Government Scholarships. Debate continuing.

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 22/00

REVISED GUIDELINES FOR THE AWARD OF GOVERNMENT SCHOLARSHIPS

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The revised guidelines for the award of government scholarships that I dealt with yesterday were done by the Education Council of which I am chairman. I would like to make it clear that I obviously support the guidelines that have been produced by the Council.

I think it was in May or June of this year that the Education [Council] appointed a sub-committee to study the present guidelines in more depth and come up with recommendations. This sub-committee is chaired by Mrs. Marjorie Ebanks, who is an outstanding educator and who is the longest serving member of the Education Council having served some twenty-odd years. Plans are that the committee will go into the scholarship guidelines generally—not just this area—and will come up with recommendations to the Council. So, having said that, I support the revised guidelines. I think I should mention that they are being reviewed. I am sure that the views of this honourable House will play a prominent part in the final amendments to the guidelines.

The present guidelines have served us well, but many things have changed since they were first developed some twenty years ago. There have been amendments but there are areas that have to be revised, for example, the application form that relates to the scholarship itself. It is hoped that the findings of this committee will then be incorporated into a revised Education Law which is now being worked on and in fact drafting instructions are ready for comment by the Education Council and others on this very important law.

Mr. Speaker, I have to disassociate myself from any comments that the present guidelines were unreasonable, restrictive, or cater to the academic elite. The present Education Council as many councils before them, is an exceptional group of individuals who work unbelievably long hours to make sure that the best interests of our students are served.

The Education Council has set and maintained standards and these standards are applied across the Board. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the current Education Council, each and every member, for their commitment and hard work, and to say that it has been a privilege working with them.

Mr. Speaker, most of the resolve sections of the motion are already in place. For example, in the first resolve, students from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman are awarded $12,000 per annum to attend local institutions in Grand Cayman. Students on Grand Cayman have been awarded $7,500 per annum to cover not only tuition and books but to help with a small living allowance. Many of our fulltime students work part-time and the Council felt that giving a personal allowance of $500 per month could relieve some of the pressure on students to be studying and working at the same time.

The reason I can accept this motion is that it requests Education Council to consider certain things. As honourable members know, the Education Law 1983 gives the Council the right and responsibility to make guidelines. So, these resolve clauses can really only legally be made by the Education Council and therefore are suggestions from the House.

Resolve two is not totally clear. Yesterday, sir, I read out those categories of students who are awarded four-year scholarships from the beginning and I set out that a student who has outstanding academic results or a high SAT score, if admitted to a highly competitive or above, university, then they are eligible to go overseas immediately if they so wish.

For those students with lesser academic credentials—and I am telling this as it is—every effort is being made by the local Community College and the ICCI to encourage students to study for their associate degree.

I would like to mention that whether or not we have a marketing manager, this year there are 313 students enrolled locally for the associate degree at the Community College. That is a very significant number. And, even more important, is that half of these 313 students are adult students who have been given a chance. These are students who may not have the normal requirements or qualifications for entry to the college, but as mature students they are basically given a second chance at education.

This is what education in this country is all about. It is not just restricted to the College for students who are out of school with a good academic background, but adult students who may have missed or did not have that opportunity when they were growing up now have a second chance at the Community College, at the International College of the Cayman Islands (ICCI), and the Law School, if they wish to go on. In fact, several of the students at the Law School are students who are married with children and who really could not leave, anyhow, to go abroad to become lawyers—that noble profession!

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, teaching is a noble profession, sir, not the law!

The Speaker: He said that—

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I agree with that too. I am in an agreeing mood today, sir.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Lawyers make the money!

[Members' laughter]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I figured that I would get a bit of humour in the more serious side.

So, what does this sum up to? The Community College has, in fact, sold its services and its programme and in a few minutes I will read their enrolment statistics for this academic year. In other words, students do not have to have a 950 on their SAT to study for the associate degree at the Community College. It is open to mature students. I want to keep stressing this because this is something that is important to this honourable House: 313 students are there and half of them are mature students, many of whom would not get a chance to try. As the honourable mover said that is the purpose of college.

I am saying that with half of its student—313 are a lot—half of those are mature students. We are reaching the public generally and giving them a second chance at education. Everyone should have that right, and the College gives everyone that right.

Mr. Speaker, this whole House should be very happy because the number of scholarships that have been given out during the eight-year period that these members here have been involved, far exceed anything prior to that. Every student who wants to continue studying, and who comes up with the necessary qualifications, gets a scholarship. And as I said yesterday, the money of this country cannot be better spent than educating not just our youth but our adults. Education is lifelong, as the noble Third Elected Member from Bodden Town would say. It is a lifelong learning process.

[Inaudible interjection & laughter]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: In fact, Mr. Speaker, probably the only place we are really coming to with no direct up-grading training is the Legislative Assembly. When you think about it, we are not really practising what we preach in here. In fact, there is no qualification to come in here—period! And once you are in here there is no compulsion to do anything in that area.

Now, the other aspect was that the motion called for two categories of scholarships and already these exist: the local and overseas scholarships. They existed prior to the honourable member's statement in June.

What has come out of the reconsideration (which the mover of this motion, the Third Elected Member from West Bay, has raised) is that the funds for local scholarships were increased from $2,500 per annum to $7,500.

You should shake your head on this, Mr. Member, because as a result of your saying what you did, we increased from $2,500 to $7,500 per annum. I believe this suggestion also came from the Fourth Elected Member for George Town during his debate.

Mr. Speaker, yesterday I mentioned that I would not allow the Third Elected Member from West Bay to persist in his remarks about the president of the Community College. On two occasions, he has referred to Mr. Basdeo as 'empire building' implying that this is being done to the disadvantage of Caymanian students.

Mr. Basdeo's record of service in education in this country, sir, goes back to 1973, and it speaks for itself. I do not need to defend him because he has earned the respect and esteem in which he is held by the people of this country, particularly the young people whose lives he has positively influenced. However, I do not believe that the member should be unchallenged when making these wild accusations of empire building.

With regard to the College which Mr. Basdeo heads, it is one of the best [operated institutions] in government. No one has to wonder if we are getting value for money there. The audited accounts which I am about to lay in this session of the legislature together with the annual report, shows undisputedly the value to this country of government's Community College.

I would like now to turn to the statistics on college enrolment, but before doing so I would like to say that this country and I owe a great depth of gratitude to Mr. Basdeo, as president, and to the chairman and members of the Community College Council as well as to Mrs. Basdeo, my permanent secretary.

Mr. Speaker, yesterday the mover of the motion appeared to be saying that, yes, the college's mission had changed and he appeared not to agree with this change—from vocational to professional and liberal arts education. Well, the mover was right. The direction of the college has changed and I don't think that the member has been listening to me for well over the past four years because the college is giving the people of this country what they want. Here, sir, are the statistics from September 2000 to prove that.

On the vocational programmes, we have the accounting certificate which has a total of 14. The computing certificate has a total of 20; Construction technology—a total of 9; Hospitality certificate – 10; Electricity technology – 15, making a total of 68. Out of those—I need the member to listen carefully to this—52 are Caymanians and 14 are other nationalities.

Is the College helping Caymanians? Of course, it is. That is its main duty. It is fulfilling that duty and the mover of this motion should be proud that over the years he has been a part of this honourable House and, in fact, the early days of the group who brought this about over the years.

On the professional programmes, applied management practice has 21; foundation banking certificate 31; legal secretaries certificate 32; the banking diploma 25. A total of 109. Once again, 84 are Caymanians and 25 are other nationalities.

Are Caymanians benefiting? Of course, they are and they appreciate it. I mentioned earlier, 313 students with a course registration of 948. Many Caymanians have taken advantage of the evening classes. There are 19 courses offered with an average of 16 students per class.

So, are adults being allowed a second chance? Of course, they are—half of the 313 are adult students. Are Caymanians benefiting from the college? The vast majority of Caymanians are. And with 980 courses there can be no doubt that the college is performing well.

Mr. Speaker, the third resolve deals with the award of scholarship for students with no parental or other financial support. As you well know, this is always given very heavy weight in decisions and scholarships—those students are looked at and assisted throughout and I give the mover of this motion my undertaking as chairman that that will always be the case.

With regard to part-time scholarships, by all means, the Council may wish to look at this and reconsider it, but I would just like to mention the cost of the associate degree course works out to about $150 per month. That is a significant savings.

Mr. Speaker, a lot of good comes out of everything. I would really like to thank the honourable mover and the seconder for giving me the opportunity to say so many good and positive things about the college, and also, sir, to undertake as it is developing, to have a look at the areas that members here have concern. I will ensure that is done and as with the mover—and I know definitely the seconder—I have great pride in the education system of this country, in the system that relates to scholarships.

And I should say that I support this privately, because several lawyers have been articulated and passed through my law firm at a considerable expense and I do that very happily. As long as I am here I will ensure that the youth as well as the adults of this country get every chance and every opportunity to develop their education and skills to the highest level that they wish it to be developed. I will continue to support this House, granting scholarships to everyone, whether they are students out of school or adults, to continue their education.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I rise to offer my contribution to this debate because it deals with a matter which is close to my heart. I have remarked in here before that 'politics is my mistress, but teaching is my wife' and so this is close to what I would consider my 'wife.'

I am also happy to hear that the government has conveyed its intention of accepting this motion. That makes it much easier to debate and in this season of politics it removes much of what would have been adversarial and perhaps personal from the debate. I believe that we are on the right track. I want to say that much more needs to be done but certainly there is reason to be encouraged by the direction that education is taking in the country. While it is not responsibility nor obligation to single out anyone for credit, there are many persons some of whom are paid to do what they are doing and numerous persons who are not paid but are still contributing by virtue of the fact that they deem it a societal obligation to contribute to the development of education in this country. I offer them my congratulations and my encouragement for their continued efforts.

The business of education and training is the basis on which the Cayman Islands will advance and succeed. Certainly, there can be no better pillars on which to build our society. I would encourage all of those, not necessarily the young, but also those people who are older—or as we term them in the world of academics mature students, mature persons—to take advantage of any education and training from which they can benefit because education is the great equaliser. It is the one tool that affords many people to overcome shortcomings of birth, of status in life, of deprivation and even physical handicaps.

I believe that the Community College has a place in the Caymanian society, as much as I believe that the International College of the Cayman Islands has a place in the Caymanian society. I still live with the somewhat forlorn hope that one day someone can realise that these institutions need not be mutually exclusive but should be complementary to each other, and thereby narrow the gap and exploit and explore the common grounds which exists between the two institutions.

Mr. Speaker, it gives me a thrill when I see Caymanians taking advantage of the educational opportunities within the country and for a small country we are doing well. As I said before, there are areas in which we can make substantial improvements and I hope when the next government comes to power after November 8th that we can begin to do this. But in the meantime, we have to give credit.

Now, when we were debating some time ago about the merits of referring students to the Community College instead of allowing them to go to foreign colleges and universities, the minister gave as one of his reasons the fact that some of these students are very young. It was thought that they would best benefit by a learning environment close to home. There were, of course, counter arguments, one of which was the fact that education in its broadest sense has to take into account the fact that those being educated must be exposed to a variety of experiences including the ability to meet and socialise in environments other than those from which they were born and grew up in.

Mr. Speaker, there were merits to both arguments and all of the points raised had some advantages to them. I want to say, however, that one of the difficulties I find particularly as it seems that it is on the increase now, is the fact that many people are coming to view education as a strictly personal priority and a strictly personal acquisition. In the sense that they view it purely as a means of enabling them to improve their station in life and improve their personal wealth with no concomitant obligation or responsibility to put something back into the society from which they come and to help those who are less fortunate than they are.

Mr. Speaker, to my mind this is a significant point not only from the point of view of an educator speaking about education but from the point of view of a person who came from a society which was small, which had limited financial resources on which to expend on their sons and daughters. I think that scholarship holders have an overriding responsibility when they have completed their education and training to give something back to the community, and not necessarily see it as an achievement for which they take all the credit and which they succumb to the temptation of viewing it purely in selfish terms. That is why I am interested in institutions, which build character.

There is an organisation in the United States called the John Templeton Foundation which gets its name from a financial investor who set up this foundation to promote not only character-building but a sense of filial piety and a sense of societal and community responsibility in people who access college and university education.

This foundation puts out a book entitled Colleges that build Character, and in the United States, there is a list of these colleges that develop the characters of students. Some of them are small colleges. Some of them are perhaps a little larger than our Community College and ICCI. But what is important, distinct and different about these colleges, is that they take students' personalities and mould them through a series of experiences: spiritual, societal, communal—learning experiences that mould them into productive utilitarian generous persons.

I believe that the two institutions that we have, the Community College and ICCI can use those kinds of models to develop their learning, their curriculum, their campus to inculcate this kind of responsibility in our students. Because in a small society it is of critical importance that those who have access to the advantages also have some kind of obligation and overriding responsibility not only to uplift themselves but also to share their experiences with those and encourage those who are less fortunate and less able.

Mr. Speaker, it is time that we review the guidelines and I am happy that the minister has undertaken that responsibility. I spoke about some areas that I think the Education Law needs to change prior to this. This is a glorious opportunity to inculcate these changes and to make a modern instrument which will guide the award of scholarships and bursaries in the future. I notice that every time the minister spoke of the Community College, in the same breath he also spoke of ICCI. There is still one serious obstacle in the way of the growth and development of ICCI and that is the failure of the government to give it the recognition I think it deserves.

Mr. Speaker, scholarship holders and bursary awardees particularly those who go abroad should be free from the bondage of having to return to work for the government in every instance and should be allowed the choice to work wherever they can find employment in the Cayman Islands even if that means working for themselves. I think this is one area in which the guidelines should reflect the modern trend.

I commend the mover and the seconder and I associate myself with the minister and all those others who hold the view that education is critical in the development and progress of the Cayman Islands as a viable, democratic and progressive society. I am pleased to give my support to this motion and to associate myself with all constructive efforts to provide training, education and exposure to Caymanians of all ages in our society. It is only by so doing that we are going to prosper and be viable, to respect each other and also to live in harmony.

In conclusion, I want to say that the need for education and training, and educational exposure has been realised by Caymanians for many generations dating back to persons like you who were of a maritime nature. I vividly recall those of our men whose only qualifications and educational exposure led them to the sea. I remember listening to many of them predicting that a time would come in the Cayman Islands when it would not only be necessary for men to acquire the knowledge to be capable master mariners and maritime engineers but also to be managers and technicians and leaders who worked on the land.

So, in supporting this motion I want to give credit to those people who are so often overlooked and who were the front line of those who made the sacrifice and gave of their time, even though many of us now think that their abilities and capabilities were limited. It is on this foundation that we have to build as we try to link the past with the present in order to propel us into a significant and successful future.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other honourable member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to offer my contribution to Private Member's Motion No. 22/00, Revised Guidelines for the award of Government Scholarships.

We all know we live in a world today where nothing comes without a cost and that includes obtaining a university or a college degree. Today, the opportunity to receive that degree is pretty much offered on a golden platter, as the mover of the motion, the Third Elected Member for West Bay, elaborated yesterday. Government has been extremely generous in making these scholarships available to those students wishing to further their education and I say rightly so.

In fact, government has spent millions of dollars on scholarships. Any student who has the drive and ambition to take that step in seeking a higher education should be afforded the opportunity. I know first hand from some people who try to undertake this financial burden on their own. They do find it extremely rough financially therefore any help received from Government is always appreciated. Mr. Speaker, in today's day and age if one does not have that piece of paper in hand it is much more difficult for one to be hired and given a fair chance in the work place.

In my role as the Miss Cayman's chairman I find it so rewarding to have young ladies enter the pageant with not only beauty but also intelligence. That is due to many of them having the opportunity of spending time at colleges and universities. Having that opportunity now affords them the chance of entering knowing full well they can represent their islands to their fullest.

Also, as a person who has our youth at heart, I am constantly encouraging school leavers to further their education. Cayman can only be the richer for it.

Mr. Speaker, I give this motion my full support. Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak? The floor is open to debate.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Mr. Speaker, the importance of an education in this day and age—a college education—cannot be stressed too often. I am happy to see that there is a community college on this island.

One reason why I am pleased that we do have a community college that is doing so well is because I started off my college education at the Borough of Manhattan Community College in New York, USA. There seems to be—and there was at that time when I started my college education in the United States—the kind of feeling that somehow a community college is an inferior higher education institution. The only way that we are going to get away from that stigma is after we have proven that in the step up the ladder—the step up towards achieving a bachelor's degree or a master's degree or a PhD. The two years one would spend acquiring an associate degree are very important indeed—especially for persons who were not as academically successful during the high school years.

I feel that Caymanian parents and students alike need to be encouraged to use the very wonderful facilities that we have at our Community College here. I, along with someone in the private sector, provide money for a student to attend the Community College.

I was called one day by that young lady's mother. She was concerned that her daughter could not find employment because most places she went they decided that not only was she too young but she had no experience and no qualifications to do anything. We know the simple job of filing and being a messenger is being removed more and more from the corporation sector. So, as a result the young lady decided there was no hope for her finding a job, no hope for her attending college or university. I spoke to the mother and said, 'What about the Community College? Has she tried?' The young lady said that she had not really thought about it. I picked her up and drove her to the Community College, found out what was going on there, found out that she was more than qualified to enter the Community College. We decided that we would pay her book fees, her tuition and we would give her $100 per week.

Mr. Speaker, this is the same thing that happened in my life. All I was doing was repeating something that had happened to me. I graduated from high school with an average of 69 point something—very low indeed. And I really struggled very hard to achieve. I was a part of what they called a college discovery programme, realising that there was such a thing as late starters. The Community College provided that perfect bridge for persons that were late starters.

So, I believe in the Community College so much that I was able to point this young person in the right direction and thank God that the Community College was there in order that this miracle could take place. She has regarded this as a miracle.

Now, the young lady did not pass all her courses she had some problems with one, but when she repeated it, she got an 'A' grade. So she was able to complete the first year; she is beginning the second year and I know that she will be successful.

We also had a case where a Linda McField graduated from the Community College with very high grades and I think she is now in England pursuing her studies. So, we grassroots people—I mean, people from lower income backgrounds where parental education might not be as good as it is in the upper income families that the Community College is a great place to begin higher education.

So, I see what is meant by the motion. I see what the Minister of Education has tried to stress, in particular, by showing us the good results the Cayman Islands Community College has been able to achieve. Whatever scholarship money can go towards assisting persons who attend the Community College, whether or not they are young adults I am willing to support it.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak? If no other member wishes to speak, does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Let me start by saying thanks to all those members who participated in the debate and the positive contributions that they offered.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Education had lots to say and continued to defend his position and the position of the Education Council and the Community College and the works.

Let me make it abundantly clear from the beginning that this is not personal: Sam Basdeo, Joy Basdeo, it does not matter. I still continue on a social basis to speak to those persons. I have a relationship with them. It is nothing personal but let me also mention that I am not here involved in any popularity contest. By that, I mean, I don't bring issues or deal with issues on the basis of whether or not I am going to be liked or supported. I bring issues that I know affect our people and whether or not those things are positive or negative I deal with them as objective as possible and without any apologies.

Now, the minister did a lot as far as supporting and defending his staff and that is his right. You know, Mr. Speaker, I also have a staff, but our management styles are little different, in that my staff understand that I will go to the end to defend them if they are doing what is right. But they also understand that if they don't take care of the business I am prepared to deal with them.

Now, the Minister of Education did mention that he totally supported the revised proposed guidelines that were put forward on behalf of the Education Council. Just for the record, let me refer to what he is talking about. The revised guidelines basically said effective September 1999, only two-year scholarships will be offered for overseas study with the following exceptions:

1. Students with seven (7) University of Cambridge or the equivalent passes.
2. Students with seven (7) CXC passes.
3. Students with a combined score of 1300 on the SAT exam.

Mr. Speaker, with regard to the first two, Seven subjects at GCE, GCSE or IGCSE passes or, the CXC seven passes, my question is: How many students on average take seven or more subjects in the overseas examinations? The Council is saying they now require seven; the old guidelines said five. I believe the five are very reasonable.

The other point that I want to make—and I am not sure if the Education Council or the minister thought of this: Number 3, 'Students with a combined score of 1300 on the SAT exam' basically discriminates against, and eliminates any student graduating from a private school to qualify for a government scholarship. How many?

First of all, those schools do not offer the GCE/CXC exams so they cannot qualify through that avenue. How many students do you and I know applying for government scholarships graduating from private schools achieving SAT scores of 1300? So, as I interpret it (and I think I am entitled to my interpretation like everyone else) that particular revised guideline seriously discriminates against any graduate from a private school in this country.

The minister says he totally supports the revised guidelines. He also mentioned that there is a sub-committee now looking at the revised guidelines with the objective of perhaps bringing them back to Executive Council and the new requirements put forward in the revised Education Law. I have been here twelve years and for the last eight I have heard about a revision to the Education Law—when is it coming? How far on has it gotten?

The other question I have is—and you are a member of the Education Council—Has the Education Council been privy to the proposed revisions to the Education Law?

The Speaker: It is under review.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Good! When can we as Members expect it to be presented to this House for our consideration?

The minister went on to say that he did not agree with the Whereas in my private member's motion which reads—let me read that for you and offer my comments: "AND WHEREAS it is felt that the guidelines are unreasonable, too restrictive and would only cater to the academic elite of our society and would deprive most applicants from qualifying from qualifying for a government scholarship to pursue a university or college education overseas . . ."

I still contend that to be the situation with regard to the revised proposed guidelines presented to us some time ago in this honourable House.

He went on to boast of the enrolment of 313 students in the associate degree programme. That is commendable. I am glad to hear that. I do not know if he is trying to insinuate that I do not support the Community College; nothing is further from the truth. He went on to say that of the 313 persons who enrolled in the associate degree programme, half of them are adult students. I said yesterday that is one of the advantages of having a community college where people, in particular responsible adults who work fulltime, still have an opportunity to attend evening classes in order to further their education. I applaud them and I am glad to hear that so many people are taking advantage of those classes that are offered by the Community College.

The question I have in relation to that is, How many are attending those classes with government financial assistance? One of the recommendations put forward in my motion is that government consider even assisting those persons who are attending the Community College or any academic facility in this country on a part-time basis. He went on to say that it cost him like $125 or $150 per semester in order to do it. Mr. Speaker, even $150 is hard for some persons in this country to find to contribute towards the expense of their education. I believe that if we had a policy in place where persons who desire to study but do not have the financial ability to do so could apply to government for assistance it would encourage more adult persons to take advantage of what is being offered locally, academically.

He says that, yes, the objectives of the college have changed and I could not have been listening over the past eight years to what he had to say because he had mentioned that change. The question I have to come back with is this, It has changed, yes, to meet some of the needs of the community, but what is being done to now address the gap—the demand in our society for Caymanians with vocational skills training?

Mr. Speaker, he also went on to say that the Community College is doing a lot to meet the needs of the local community. I hope so. That is the objective for which it was established and if it were not doing that it would not continue to have my support. So, I can appreciate the position that the minister is in and his loyalty to his staff and the president of the Community College. I don't have a problem with that. But do not give the impression that I am attempting to do anything that is not right for the people of this country and that I don't support the local academic institutions that we have here.

I think yesterday the minister in his comments mentioned that one of the substantial consideration for the revised policy of requiring students to attend a local academic institution for two years as part of their conditions for government scholarship was the cost. The Education Council was so concerned about the financial cost of education to government. You cannot talk out of both sides of your mouth!

On the one hand, you are talking about that and it was not long before that when I saw headlines on the front page "New Agreement reached with the University of Miami."

Mr. Speaker, you and I are both aware that the University of Miami is one of the most expensive academic institutions in the United States. We could have gotten much better value for money if we had shopped around, and taken advice from other people who have some experience in the academic field as far as choosing an institution that would have been in a position to offer that service—that is, training locally for persons who want to pursue a qualification in education.

So, that was thrown up as a 'red herring.' We are so concerned about what we are spending on education that in order to save money we are going to require all students to attend the Community College or ICCI for the first two years.

Do you know what is a reality? I remember one of the applicants who applied just recently for a government scholarship (she eventually got her scholarship), enquiring at the Community College as to the number of courses that were available to her in her specific chosen field of study. I think she was required to do something like ten courses in the first year—the Community College only offered one.

So, it would have been a total waste of time and money to have required that student to attend the Community College here in the Cayman Islands for the first two years—a total waste of time for that to have been a requirement. Contrary to what the minister or even members of the Education Council may consider or believe, a lot of students start their major courses of study in the first semester at university—not two years after they have been there, like what is being assumed.

Mr. Speaker, we are so focused on the idea in this motion and other motions that have been brought recently on this issue of education overseas. But, you know, I was a little alarmed and concerned—I think, it was just this week or last week there was a headline in the paper that said "CEO explains why 25% of students don't graduate from the Cayman Islands High School" [The now John Gray High School] Mr. Speaker, 25%, and then it is said that the education system in this country is a very good one? Many of those students come out and they don't even have a high school leaving certificate! Do you know what those who are in charge comfort themselves with? 'Well, even though that person is coming out with nothing out of High School he can get a job locally.' Get a job doing what?

A percentage of our students take a while to mature academically. Right now, I am aware of one or two former students who had problems when they were in High School.

POINT OF ORDER

Relevancy

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, relevancy.

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order, please.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The member has gone into an area dealing with school leavers. That is a totally different area that I really had no opportunity to speak on. It is a totally new area and I don't see how it is relevant—the depth he is going into—to the present motion, sir.

The Speaker: I have to agree. I have been listening very carefully and I have to agree that is a valid point of order.

Please confine your reply to the motion in front of you.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, with all due respect, the relevance that has is that the Education Council took the decision to revise the guidelines for qualifications for government scholarships. They raised the bar without taking into consideration the results; that is the relevance.

The requirements—if you are going to require me to have more you must give me more. But when you talk about 25% of your graduates from High School don't even have a high school diploma, one does not make sense in relationship to the other. However, I will move on.

The Speaker: I suggest that you may place a substantive motion to that effect if you desire, but please do not continue with that vein of thought.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, I would be glad to do that.

Mr. Speaker, the minister said in very kind words that the motion was basically unnecessary because we have guidelines now for local scholarships and we have guidelines for overseas scholarships. This request is for the Education Council to establish and look at revising the guidelines to make them, should I say, as fair and equitable as possible so that a majority of the students in our country who have a desire and ability to go overseas or otherwise be considered for a government scholarship.

There is no reason why, once the guidelines have been revised and agreed upon, a little professional brochure could not be put together outlining what those requirements are for a government scholarship, outlining what the requirements are for an overseas scholarship, in black and white, so students and parents alike know what the rules are up front.

Much has been said about even revising the application for government scholarship . . . because I have gone through a number of them—I am quite sure you have done the same—and because of the irrelevance I have seen on the application, it is time it is revised. Let us get on with doing what is necessary, what would encourage and what would make it easier for our students to get education in this country.

I am pleased to hear the minister say that as a result of my request the amount for a local scholarship was raised from $2,500 to $7,500. That is positive. He, the minister, listened and the Education Council listened, and I applaud them for doing such a good job in that area.

Mr. Speaker, believe you me, my genuine concern is only one thing. Do you know what it is? Making it as easy as possible for as many as possible of our students and Caymanian people who have the ambition to do so, to be in a position where they can further their education. I don't get hung up on personalities. I don't get hung up on trivial things like calling people names—that is not my style. I deal with the facts. I deal with those issues that I feel that I am obligated to deal with. Unfortunately, for some people my style is a little different from others and in the process I might have to step on a few toes but if that happens, so be it. There are no evil intentions or ill feelings on my part towards anyone and I want to make that abundantly clear.

I trust now that since this issue has been debated again that Education Council and the minister will make note of those things that have been offered and get on with trying to put together reasonable and fair guidelines for the award of government scholarships—locally, as well as overseas. One point I want to make is that in considering local scholarships I don't believe that term should be limited to two years.

The Minister boasts of the number of adults who are attending evening classes in order to further education. I am not only talking about the Community College. I am also talking about the Law School and the International College of the Cayman Islands, four-year institutions in most cases. Why should government say, 'Okay, we will fund it the first two years and after that you are on your own?' Extension of the local scholarship should be considered for at least four years.

Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Education and I are still good friends—he did what he had to do and I did what I had to do, but at the end of the day we will still go in the Common Room and have lunch.

Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 22/00. The Resolve section is quite long so I will not read it. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The motion is passed.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 22/00 PASSED.

The Speaker: I think this would be an appropriate time for lunch. We shall suspend proceedings until 2.15 PM.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.49 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.36 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Honourable members in accordance with Standing Order 12(3) I have authorised the Elected Member for North Side, with the will of the House, to make a statement concerning scholarships.

The Elected Member for North Side, before doing so would you just move a motion and then we get the leave of the House?

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 12(3)

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Mr. Speaker, I move a motion for the suspension of the relevant Standing Order 12(3) to allow me to make a brief statement on the scholarship.

The Speaker: Secunder—The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: The motion has been made and seconded that in accordance with Standing Order 12(3) the Elected Member from North Side be allowed to make a statement concerning the Ironwood Scholarship Fund.

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 12(3) SUSPENDED IN ORDER TO ALLOW THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR NORTH SIDE TO MAKE A STATEMENT.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side, please continue.

IRONWOOD SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Mrs. Edna Moyle: On behalf of the First Elected Member for West Bay, Mr. W. McKeever Bush, MLA, JP; The First Elected Member for George Town, Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts, MLA, JP; The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, Mr. Roy Bodden, MLA; and myself, the Elected Member for the district of North Side, I wish to make the following statement:

In 1999 at the time when the salary increases of Members of the Legislative Assembly were announced we said that we believed that the large increase was not justified. We pointed out the need at that time for members of the Caymanian community to be educated and trained in technical and vocational skills particularly in light of anticipated changes in our national economy brought about by international development such as the OECD initiatives.

We pledged to establish a scholarship fund to receive donations out of our salary increase for these purposes. Since that time we have worked closely with CIBC Bank and Trust Company (Cayman) Ltd. and their attorneys, Maples and Calder, to establish such a fund. I am pleased now to announce that the Ironwood Scholarship Fund has been established. It takes the form of a Cayman Islands Trust with CIBC as Trustee. It has been funded by the four of us. To date, no other persons have contributed to it although we would like to thank Maples and Calder, and CIBC for their assistance throughout which they have rendered at no charge.

The fund has a scholarship board that will decide on scholarship awards. It will consist of five individuals, at least, three of whom must be Caymanians. There will also be a selection panel whose function will be to elect replacement members of the scholarship board as each member retires. The majority of the selection panel will consist of representatives from the following local associations and institutions chosen to represent a cross-section of community interests and technical assistance.

1. The Cayman Islands Ministers' Association
2. The George Hicks and John Gray High Schools
3. The Society of Trust and the State Practitioners
4. The Caymanian Bar Association
5. The Cayman Islands Bankers Association

It was always our intention that the fund would solicit contributions from the public, both from businesses and individuals. In that regard the trustee CIBC has written to the Financial Secretary through their legal counsel, Maples and Calder seeking formal consent from the Executive Council for them to be able to make such solicitations, or in the alternative specific confirmation that no such formal consent is needed. At the present time, I understand they have not heard back from the government. Once they have, the fund will be launched to the public.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Member's Motion No. 21/00, the Establishment of a Student Summer Employment Agency.

The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 21/00

ESTABLISHMENT OF A STUDENT SUMMER EMPLOYMENT AGENCY

Deferred

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, on a matter of urgency I would request, sir, because the seconder has to be away as a result of an urgent matter that this motion be deferred and that we deal with some other business until the seconder can return.

The Speaker: Would you put that in a formal motion, please?

Mr. Roy Bodden: I respectfully beg to move that the relevant Standing Order be waived so that this motion which was scheduled to be taken at this time be deferred and in its place another motion as a result of the seconder having to leave rather urgently.

The Speaker: Do you have a seconder? The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I would like to second that motion, sir.

The Speaker: The motion is made and seconded that Private Member's Motion No. 21/00 be deferred to a later sitting. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The motion has been deferred.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 21/00 DEFERRED TO A LATER SITTING.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Member's Motion No. 17/00, Government Financial Assistance and Low Cost Housing to be moved by the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 17/00

GOVERNMENT FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE FOR LOW COST HOUSING

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I am pleased to move Private Member's Motion No. 17/00 entitled Government Financial Assistance for Low Cost Housing. It reads as follows:

"WHEREAS the Cayman Islands boast of unprecedented economic growth and prosperity and a standard of living unparalleled in the region;

"AND WHEREAS with this prosperity has also come a high cost of living which has caused extreme hardship for a large number of our people for affordable housing who fail to qualify for mortgage financing from the commercial banks due to insufficient income and the high interest charged;

"AND WHEREAS it is felt that affordable housing must be addressed as a priority in this country;

"AND WHEREAS it is felt that Government should take the lead in this area;

"BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT Government considers assisting with affordable Low Cost Housing by making an annual contribution of $1,000,000.00 in its Budget and, because of its experience, have the mortgage programme administered by the CICSA Credit Union with preferred interest rates."

Mr. Speaker, with your permission, sir, I have circulated an amendment to that particular motion and I think it would probably be good for us to move that amendment at this stage so that we can deal with the motion at one time and finish.

The Speaker: You may. I waive the two days' notice required.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: The amendment says, "In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 25(1) and (2), I, the Third Elected Member for West Bay, seek to move the following amendment to Private Member's Motion No. 17/00, entitled "Government Financial Assistance for Low Cost—

The Speaker: Can I stop you for just one moment? I need a seconder for your original motion.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Mr. Speaker, I beg to second that motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 17/00 has been duly moved and seconded. You may continue with your amendment.

AMENDMENT THERETO

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Yes, thank you, Mr. Speaker. ". . .entitled "Government Financial Assistance for Low Cost Housing", as follows:- By amending the Resolve clause of the motion by deleting 'CICSA Credit Union' and substituting therefore 'Agricultural Industrial Development Board (AIDB)."

The Speaker: Do you have a seconder to the amendment? The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Mr. Speaker, I second that amendment.

The Speaker: Does the House wish to debate that amendment? I shall now put the question on the amendment. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Private Member's Motion No. 17/00 is duly amended.

AGREED: AMENDMENT TO PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 17/00 PASSED.

The Speaker: You will now speak to Private Member's Motion No. 17/00 as amended? The mover, the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The motion, as amended, calls for government to look at making an annual contribution of a C$1million in its budget for the purpose of making funds available for affordable low cost housing.

Mr. Speaker, the reason for the amendment . . . I did consult with the minister responsible and he indicated that government would be happy with AIDB handling it rather than the Credit Union because the Credit Union has some distinct restrictions, in that unless you are a civil servant or related to a civil servant then you are not qualified for consideration. AIDB has the experience as well and deals with a lot of financing and for that purpose I had no problem with agreeing to that particular amendment.

I must say that over the last eight years this country has experienced a boom in development that has been in my opinion unprecedented. As a result of that there is much activity going on in all sectors of the economy. We still basically boast of full employment in that people can still find a job, those who are willing and able to work, to support themselves.

We also boast of enjoying one of the highest standards of living of any territory in the region and that is well and good. I believe sometimes that we are not in a position where we can really appreciate what we have here until we have had an opportunity to visit some other places that do not share the same level of economic and financial success. But that growth, that boom, that economic activity has come at a cost and one of the costs that has really been felt by our people is the ridiculous increase in the cost of construction in this country.

I will give you an idea of what I am talking about, Mr. Speaker. I was fortunate enough to obtain my mortgage financing in 1975 and I built a 2,600 square feet three-bedroom home for C$30,000. My oldest son, Dwight, is in the process of constructing his home, the same size. We sat down with the architect the other day, who is a personal friend of ours, and I have no doubt that he would do an exceptional job and would look out for us but he said, 'Gentlemen, you are looking at a minimum of C$250,000.'

Mr. Speaker, a house that cost $30,000 in 1975 (25 years ago) now basically costs $250,000. Unfortunately, what has happened to us is that we as private citizens have to compete with the condominium developers and the others who demand labour for construction. As a result of that we are paying top dollar today for housing in this country.

Mr. Speaker, as you are aware, I am at my MLA Office in West Bay twice a week, Tuesdays and Wednesdays. It is amazing how large a percentage of issues my constituents who come to see me are faced with. The fact is they are not making enough money to qualify for consideration for mortgage financing from the commercial banks and some of them are paying $800—$1,200 for an apartment to rent.

Now, the majority of these people that I am talking about are hard-working Caymanians. The majority of them are single parents who have one to three children working hard. Some of them are working two jobs in order to try and make ends meet but find it impossible to realise their dream of owning a little home of their own.

Now, my colleague from West Bay, the First Elected Member, when he was in Executive Council and in charge of housing, I thought that he had come up with a very creative scheme to provide our Caymanians with an opportunity of owning their own homes.

That scheme consisted of the government guaranteed scheme where if a Caymanian applied to those banks that were part of the programme for mortgage financing and qualified, then rather than having to come up with $10,000 to $30,000 out of his own pockets in order to meet the requirements, government would step in and say, 'If you are happy with this person as a client then we will guarantee that portion that you are saying is required of them.' This means that the person then qualifies for 100% mortgage financing.

In addition to that, the Legislative Assembly on a number of occasions has amended the Stamp Duty Law for Caymanians who are buying a piece of property with a value of up to, I think, $50,000 for the purpose of building their first home. The government and this Legislative Assembly has done much to make the possibility of owning a home in this country, as far as our Caymanians are concerned, more of a reality. But there is a gap in our society with regard to housing. That gap consists of that group of persons who even under the present government guaranteed housing scheme do not qualify for consideration. I am talking about those persons who, for example, are making $1,500—$2,500 a month. Because of the high interest rate that is being charged right now—and I know for a fact that it is 12.5%, and in some cases, 13%—it eliminates a lot of people from qualifying for consideration.

I brought a motion recently calling for government to set up some committee to sit down with the commercial banks to see what could be done as far as reducing the interest rate that is charged to Caymanians for mortgage financing. I have not heard anything back on that. Maybe when the minister gets up he can say what is being done in that area. An example of what I am talking about is: if you are an employee of one of the commercial banks in town and you have been there for a while, you qualify for consideration for mortgage financing in those cases, I think, the interest rate is in the region of about 5% to 6%.

Now, if the commercial banks are in the position where they can offer their own staff mortgage financing at 5% or 6% but they are charging you and me 12.5% or 13% for our mortgages, to me that indicates room for improvement in the interest rates being charged.

I believe that if approached, the banks will do whatever they can do in order to make that interest rate more attractive. The thing that has to be understood by all parties who are part of this community is that we need to make a contribution back to society. That includes not only individuals, but also banks, the financial institutions in this country that do very well profit wise. It is going to take all of us working together to keep this country on the right footing. The financial institutions cannot take the position of being mercenaries, coming in here and just reaping the profits, and hoping that the society continues the way it is but makes no legitimate or responsible contribution to ensure that the way of life we enjoy in this country continues.

So, I believe that much can be done in that area if there is a genuine interest and I look forward to hearing what has been done in order to address this particular possibility. I am talking about the average working poor person in this country. Do you know what has happened? My colleague, the Fourth Elected Member from George Town has gotten a lot of flack about his position he has taken recently with regards to trying to defend the working class persons in this country—improving wages, the gratuity situation and the whole bit.

We have enjoyed prosperity in this country, but what is happening is that costs have gone up while incomes—our salaries—have basically stayed the same or have gotten worse. So, the purchasing power of our people cannot remain static because with the cost of living going up every year and wages or income remaining the same it means they get less punch for their dollar. My focus in this motion is on that group of persons realistically saying, 'Mr. Jefferson and other members, I am not looking for any 3-bedroom home with two baths and a double garage. I am looking for even a one-bedroom so that my three children and I can call our own.'

Mr. Speaker, I had a young lady come to see me just recently at my office in West Bay and I was impressed with her approach to life. She is in the process of purchasing a piece of property which I think is going to cost her $30,000. She is able to pay for it on a monthly basis after making a down payment. The developer whom she is buying it from is reasonable enough to say, 'Okay, once you make your down payment and start your instalment payments, you are then free to go and construct a little home on this piece of property for you and your family.' Her attitude was 'I am not at this stage interested in hanging my hat any higher than I can afford and if it means that I might have to start with a little one-bedroom home made out of texture one-eleven with a concrete floor I am prepared to do that and as my financial position improves in life I will continue to add on or whatever.'

Mr. Speaker, I said to her, 'You know, I appreciate your focus and your approach to life.' One of the problems we have in this country is, because you can afford to own a 3-bedroom home [based] on your income, I might not be able to afford the same type of home based on my income. I must be realistic enough to realise that difference and, should I say, pursue the possibilities within my particular income. I believe as a result of some of our people trying to keep up with the Jones' we hear of situations where banks are taking away their homes because in the long run they are unable to afford the mortgage payments.

What I am asking for, is for government to consider . . . and I believe in most things government should set the lead. I think, this is an area where we could make a positive difference by providing on an annual basis in our budget a provision of, at least, $1 million a year to assist those persons who have the desire and would be in the position to qualify for a mortgage of a lesser amount and a more attractive interest rate over a reasonable period of time.

Now, the motion as amended, calls for government to annually write a cheque, pass it over to the AIDB and say, 'Okay, here is our annual contribution towards low cost affordable housing. We want you to administer the fund and you charge an attractive or reasonable interest rate in order to be paid for your services.' I am suggesting that this annual contribution be an interest-free loan, on government's part, to assist with low cost housing.

On an annual basis . . . because we are all politicians, Mr. Speaker . . . government's capital budget is probably in the region of $30 million to $40 million, and sometimes the ridiculous figure is as high as $45 million a year. For what? For services, roads, playing fields, parks and other things. Nothing is wrong with that but I think we can reduce that annual capital allocation by $1 million and say, 'You know, we are going to set aside $1 million out of this for low cost affordable housing.'

Now, Mr. Speaker, I have been talking to a number of my constituents about my upcoming plan, and just last night one said, 'I welcome any suggestions because I don't know the answers, I am just trying to find a solution to the problems that we have.' The reality is that we have to start some where and I don't know where the cut-off is. I don't know if we should say, 'Okay, let's limit it to $60,000.' I am not sure. I think we need to kind of weigh and maybe work from experience and say, 'Let's start from somewhere and work from there.' This is an issue that has to be addressed in this country.

Mr. Speaker, about a year or so ago a young lady came to see me. She was married to a Caymanian and had two or three children for him. That young lady and her children were in a position where they found themselves sleeping in her car. They got up the next morning and drove to the nearest public restroom facility to wash up and head for school and work. We boast in this country of prosperity and wealth and have that kind of situation existing? We have to address those kinds of situations.

Another reality: I understand that between 12.00 AM and 6.00 AM if you go along South Church Street, the south terminal of the Port Authority, you will see many people making their homes there for the night.

In the last motion I mentioned that I am not here on any popularity contest—I leave that to the Second Member from Bodden Town who is Chairman of the beauty pageants and stuff like that. She takes care of that area. I have no interest in that area, none whatsoever. I am here to address needs and issues that are brought to my attention—issues that affect our Caymanians and residents in this country.

One pressing issue right now in this country is affordable housing—normally for female single parents. Recently, I accompanied one of those persons to Social Services to ask for assistance in the area of housing. I will give you an example of what I am talking about. Here is a young lady (who has a young daughter) working at one of the hotels probably making $1,100—$1,200 per month. Her rent is $700 a month and because she has the little daughter and is a responsible parent she refuses to leave home in the evening to take a second job. She struggles. In the off season especially when hours are down and business is slow, she finds it impossible to make ends meet.

You know, there is an attitude that I don't share in this country. Do you know what that attitude is? As long as I have, to hell with you and yours! That is not my attitude. I feel good when I see a Caymanian doing well. I feel good when I see a Caymanian coming back from college with a degree. I feel good when I see a Caymanian in a position where he is able to own his own home. It makes me feel good, Mr. Speaker.

I was telling one of my constituents the other day, 'You know something? The things I do I don't do strictly for politics. If I were not in politics and I was in a position to help you the way I am going to help you now (even though I am a politician) I would have done it anyway.' My motivation and the reward that I am looking for are not here. Do you know what happens? If you do good it follows you.

Mr. Speaker, I am hoping that government accepts this motion in the genuine vein and spirit with which it is presented. I look forward for the support of all honourable Members of this House for such a worthy consideration.

Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: Honourable members, before opening the floor to debate, I would like to say to all honourable members that in approving this motion to be placed on the Business Paper I took full cognisance of Standing Order 24(2) which reads as follows: "Except on the recommendation of the Governor signified by a Member of Government, the House shall not proceed upon any motion the effect of which, in the opinion of the Presiding Officer, makes provision for imposing or increasing any charge on the revenues or other funds of the Islands . . ."

I wish to state that I do not feel that the wording of this motion imposes any on the funds. It is simply asking for consideration to be placed in future budgets. That is the rationale of my allowing this motion to go forward.

The floor is now open to debate. Does any honourable member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: On the basis of what you have just mentioned with regard to the motion and the amount of $1million being placed in future budgets, the government is happy to accept the motion.

It is reasonable to say that this is a very important issue today and for sometime. I would say that the motion brought by the Third Elected Member from West Bay and seconded by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town is quite timely. It is true that a past Minister tried his best and had something put in place that actually assisted a certain category of our people. But this category which is mentioned here in the lower income bracket is the area that needs urgent attention. It is not isolated to any one part of the island; it is something that is spread throughout the Cayman Islands.

I am pleased to be able to accept this motion on behalf of Government and we will do whatever is possible to try to assist our people who fall within this category.

As was pointed out by the last speaker, we do have some people who have their priorities mixed up. However, it is the duty of the Government to do whatever is possible to assist this category of persons and to see that, especially where children are concerned, we do not have a situation that could place our country in the category that we see in other islands around us.

So, we are pleased to accept this motion and the member who presented this did mention about his suggestion in the previous motion of government trying to meet with the banks and securing finances. Well, there has been some action in that area and I was hoping that I would have some up-to-date information on it, however, the motion was brought on sort of sudden. But with what I have said, we on this side support this motion.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I am happy to have the privilege of being the seconder of this very important motion. The motion is important because it is calling for government to consider specific steps that would put funds in place that would then be available to persons I consider to be the 'working poor.'

There are a lot of people in this country that refer to themselves as poor people. They are poor not because they don't work or because they are disabled. They are poor because of sub-standard wages in this country and there is no clear leadership or direction on that level whereby people can co-op their different interests and talents in such a way as to have meaningful resolutions with regards to difficulties they are experiencing.

We find that lawyers are organised in Bar Associations and the day they want their fees to go up, or the day they want no more lawyers to come into this country is the day those things happen because they have the collective organisation to produce results. The working people we are considering here are in need, because as the mover of this motion said, the cost of living has continuously risen in this country without any kind of increase in the wages that working people are given in order to support their families by providing shelter and food and clothing.

The question of what a society does with regards to housing is an important question not just about the resources of the society but about the humanity of the society. The fact that we can be contented that there are persons among us who work the same nine hours, that are given the same 24 hours a day, by God, seven days a week, and yet they cannot earn enough to put a shelter over their heads. I find that to be a condition that is unacceptable.

Some of us are more shocked or upset by the existence of real poverty, severe poverty and disability. We are much more willing to say, 'Let's help those persons who are disabled; those persons who are not working; those persons who are unemployed and in some cases, people who refuse to compromise and adapt themselves to the demands of the workplace and the society.' Some of us would help them before we would help a struggling mother who continues to work in order to put bread on the table because she is not considered in need as she seems to be able to provide for herself and children what is needed for day to day existence—food and water.

This country does not have the financial resources to be able to solve all of the questions with regards to poverty that I would like to see addressed. I have to be realistic therefore in saying that if we are not going to pay for solutions, we cannot have solutions. Obviously, a country that has traditionally collected revenue by indirect taxation causes a burden on the 'working poor.' We cannot expect that we can solve the problems by increasing donations thereby increasing the taxes so there is a conflict from the very beginning that could come about if we were not clever in the way in which we dealt with the situation.

So, I am saying that I am not expecting that government attempts to solve all the housing needs, but it targets a specific category at this time to deal with. That category of persons would be different than the category of persons that were dealt with, I believe, by the government guaranteed mortgage scheme and also by the waiver of stamp duty on first homes and properties that were under a specific amount.

So, we don't want to give the government, or the society, the impression that government is in the position to provide homes for all those persons that want homes because everybody wants a house. But in terms of the allocation of these resources I believe that government is not in a position to give away $1 million a year. In other words, government would be lending this $1 million that would then be lent to persons who qualify under the specific criteria set up by the institution that was responsible for managing this special affordable housing mortgage scheme.

So, it would mean that if there is $1 million there today, that $1 million is not thrown away, because when it is lent to persons, they come back to repay so the fund is always building. The equity is increasing; it's not decreasing. So, it is not that you are giving away $1 million. We don't have any more money to lend. We are not getting back any money because we have given it to people who cannot afford to pay.

I am suggesting that we still deal with persons who are able to pay because we need to understand in terms of motivation that if we reward persons who are not actively working and do not pay attention to what I consider to be the working poor, the working poor will drop out and will no longer actively participate in the work process. So, first of all, we have to use this housing initiative as a way of strengthening the morale of working people in the country so that they can reach their goals which is to afford a shelter over their heads. So, they have to obviously be the first in the queue to get assistance. It cannot be someone who does not have anything.

I know there are members here who would like to consider that particular situation as well but I don't think that $1 million a year contribution by government, like I said, is going to spread out in order to be able to deal with all of those situations. There are charitable cases in this country with regards to people who have nothing. This is where I also believe that the churches should begin to play a larger role, not just government. The Bible talks specifically about charity and the importance of charity and you can have prophecy and you can have this and that, but if you don't have charity you have nothing.

So, we need to see efforts in that direction to deal with the deserving poor while we continue to try to, at this particular point, deal with the working poor. So let us make a distinction here between the deserving poor and the working poor. The working poor have to be supported by Government's initiatives because government needs to reinforce the work ethics by helping them to achieve what they would have been able to achieve had the wages been better.

So, my attempts to help the working poor in this country have also taken the form of trying to assist them with organising themselves in such a way that they can fight for better wages; that they can fight for improved working conditions; that they can fight for fair distribution of gratuities and that they can learn how to manage their resources in such a way as to be able to purchase those material things that they need for their existence, for instance, shelter.

Mr. Speaker, we have discussed housing a lot here in this Legislative Assembly. We know it is a hot political issue. We know come every election every politician likes to deal with it. We know that as yet no one has solved the riddle of how to deal with affordable houses in this country. We know that people are no longer mystified by politicians coming to them and saying, 'when we get elected we are going to do something to create affordable housing.' That mystification, that way of talking to people is all gone. People know we have no magic solutions.

But this very simple solution brought by the Third Elected Member from West Bay is a key to a very important beginning, and because the government has accepted it. And although the government might not even have a budget this year—there might not be a budget until there is another government—I think it is still important that this government does whatever it can do within the next two months to get this thing going because there is already $1 million that we voted for in the last Finance Committee meeting to go towards affordable housing.

I remember, Mr. Speaker, I brought that move in here at the last Finance Committee meeting. There is $1 million some place in the Treasury that Finance Committee authorised to be used for affordable housing. What is amazing is that with all that time since we have voted this $1 million we have not heard how one penny of $1 million has been used to begin to create affordable homes for people in this country and it is such an important issue. Well, if it is such an important issue and you have $1 million, you have a start. Why has there been no start? I would like to know that at some particular point and I have registered a question with regards to this.

Now, we want to make sure that at the end of the day that Government researches the different housing projects in different areas. But it does not have to take forever. It does not have to take forever to come out with some kind of plan. There are areas in George Town, for instance, where I have spoken to people who own land, because they own communal land and there are a lot of families that still live together. The government could go into one of those areas, for instance, off the Myles Road in George Town, Shedden Road. The government could say to the people, 'Look, as a family you put up the land and we will put up the buildings and then we can have a co-operation somehow together where you all have contributed something. We have contributed something and we see at the end of the day what your monthly payments should be until you can afford to say that you own and have the title back.' There are things like this that could be done because if $1 million was to be spent in that area we would have seen some fantastic results.

But if you spend $1 million in West Bay one year, $1 million in George Town one year, maybe $500,000 in Bodden Town one year and $500,000 in North Side one year, Mr. Speaker it goes around. So, in four or five years you can touch everybody's life. We cannot solve the problems entirely, but that does not mean that we should not begin at some particular point.

So, there are innovative ideas and we have asked to be a part of the development of this particular strategy. And because we are on the backbench and they are the ministers and they have their civil servants, it does not mean that they should not take advantage of our experiences in dealing with housing issues. I studied housing problems in Nottinghill Gate, in London, when they really had bad conditions back in 1972 and 1973. My thesis was about that area and housing was a very important aspect of the entire decay in the social control mechanisms in the society.

So, without housing, without something being done to make people feel that ownership of property is achievable, we have a weakening in the social control mechanism of a community. In order to hook that fabric up, to reinforce that fabric, government money would be well spent. We are not just talking about assisting the working poor simply in order to be nice to them; we are doing it also because it is a very important part of the social control strategy of a society.

I want then to just conclude by saying that I believe this motion is timely. I believe that in terms of the Member from West Bay thinking it out it is almost a blessing because a lot of us put our heads there but we did not come to something as concrete and as specific as he did and I congratulate him for that.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak?

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: I am glad to support the motion. I think it is worthwhile although it is not a novel idea.

Mr. Speaker, I am glad to hear government say that it has accepted this resolution. I would certainly want those persons in need (and there are many in this country today) to get a shelter. I would hope that the terms and conditions be brought to the Legislature concerning this fund. It is a pity that on the eve of this election we have to come back to do this again. It is a real pity. It is sad.

Mr. Speaker, we have moved motion after motion in this House. Since 1993, I have moved several motions dealing with the matter of housing. If I had had responsibility for the matter of housing since 1997 until the present time, these matters would have been dealt with.

The first phase of the housing plans programme we put in place helped over 170 families up to 1997. As I said I have been successful in having motions passed in the House and others have been successful since 1997 but nothing has been done. Motions in which I gave various ideas of how to address the lack of housing in the lower income bracket, those ideas were part and parcel of the second phase of the housing programme which we put in place. For instance, reading directly from the Hansard on the last motion: "One idea was that government would put aside sufficient funds annually to provide soft loans up to a maximum of $100,000 for a period of 30 years then government would give a 5% interest for that loan."

Mr. Speaker, that was specific. It said up to $100,000; for a period of 30 years; and it said for a 5% interest. That was specific.

Further, I said that costs being what it is in legal fees and so on, government could approach an attorney, or perhaps their own legal department, for a reasonable flat rate for all legal work, which would include pre-qualification for the stamp duty waiver and everything pertaining to the sale.

Mr. Speaker, as I said then, one prohibiting factor is the high interest rate for people . . . and the vast majority of people are working, but they cannot qualify because of that qualifying factor. Another prohibiting factor is the closing cost, and as I said, the qualifying ratio of the applicant's monthly loan payment to their monthly salary.

Another idea, as I said then, was to introduce a system where if we could not get the interest rates on the mortgage to lower in the country especially for the lower income groups from the banks, government could be the 100% guarantor to the bank. The agreement would be structured so that government could pay the interest of the mortgage through a fund set up for such purposes and take back that payment from the borrower interest-free, but over a 30-year period so that the borrower's payment to government on that side of his commitment would be very minimal.

These are ideas that we had for the second phase—because as I said, and I maintain that position—no one scheme or programme is going to solve the housing problems in this country. It is going to be necessary to deal with this from several different avenues as I have outlined, and these can work if the government does something about it. So, it is a motion that I can support because it is needed. It is very much needed.

Mr. Speaker, in June 1997, the Financial Secretary and members of his staff, along with my permanent secretary at the time, Mr. Carson Ebanks, and I, attended the Caribbean Development Bank board meeting in Canada. I had to deal with the matter of small business loans and housing and that was the purpose of going to Canada to that board meeting. One of the things we accomplished was getting Caribbean Development Bank to agree to a different outlook of the Cayman Islands in terms of how we borrow funds from them. I can't understand why, because when we came back the report was made to Executive Council. Why wasn't something done with them? I am not just here criticising for the sake of criticism but we are down to the general elections and we are still having motions passed which really cannot be effected this year unless government takes some extraordinary measure.

Mr. Speaker, I too would proffer that I have the same people who go into my colleague's office in West Bay, when they leave him they come to me, or when they come to me they go to him afterwards. It is a pitiful situation. The same woman that slept in the car, I had to pay hotel bills for her and her children. It is a sad, sad situation.

It is good to talk. It is good to debate and it is even good to put oil on troubled waters by accepting motions as has been done so we don't get all heated up, but that does not cut the cake. It does not help the people who need housing now, in particular, the lower income group.

To make matters worse, Mr. Speaker, the economy is going downhill. People might not want to admit it, but it is a fact if you [check] the businesses and people on salaries. We find in the hotel industry, in the off season when we hear all kinds of noise about the amount of tourists we have, yet we find our people only making $75 and $79 for the week. How can they pay a rent on that? How can they pay a loan on that?

Mr. Speaker, I have found that couples, single persons and single parents are willing now to build texture one-eleven homes in order to avoid the high rent and try to save something. That is some kind of blessing too, because then they will save and will recognise they are not going to get this big home anymore in these islands on the kind of salary they make. I am glad that some people are recognising that. They want a shelter and a decent place for themselves and their children.

So, the need is there. And as I said, unless government brings forward some special mechanism now, this motion will not assist anyone right away.

I have another motion following this, asking the House to do certain things that will help those people who are having trouble with their mortgages and are being threatened by the institutions. But that, too, will only help those persons who already have. That is not going to help people who need now.

So, I hope that the government can commit some funds somewhere for this programme and I would like to see some terms and conditions in order for the right people to get. Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak?

Does the honourable mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Let me say thanks to government for accepting the motion and thanks to my colleagues on the backbench for their positive contribution to the debate on this motion.

I do endorse what the First Elected Member from West Bay said in that the terms and conditions of the low cost or affordable mortgage scheme should be worked out and brought back here for us to at least have a look at. We want to ensure that we feel it is fair and will achieve what we want to achieve by way of assisting the greatest number of persons.

The other thing that crossed my mind as they were debating—and I made a couple of notes—I recall probably in 1969 when I was in my first job as a customs officer at the dock that there was a little demonstration from the local contractors concerning someone's attempt to bring in a couple of mobile homes. The argument was that if we allow mobile homes in the country it is going to affect our local contractors the possibility of employment. As a result of that, the government of the day put in place a policy banning the importation of all mobile homes or pre-fabricated homes.

Now, Mr. Speaker, you and I are both aware of what we are talking about as far as mobile homes. I had a gentleman who recently came to me and said, 'John, I just purchased a brand new three-bedroom (I think he said) mobile home in the Florida area and it cost me $18,000 (I think he said), fully furnished.' In order to accommodate the problem that we are talking about, we have to look objectively at all possibilities and ways of assisting.

If someone wants to bring in a mobile home in this country, once it is anchored properly, why should we who are fortunate enough to obtain a mortgage say, 'No, no, you cannot own a home, nor is there any possibility of owning a mobile home for you and your family.' Mr. Speaker, I think that [the mobile home] is a possible solution. I remember mentioning it in here before and the reaction was 'Oh-oh, if we have a hurricane what would happen if we have these homes all over the place?' How often have we had a hurricane in this country? The other reality is, if we have a hurricane in this country we are all in trouble even those of us who live in concrete homes with shingle roofs, we are in trouble. So we cannot base policies or decisions on those types of possibilities.

Mr. Speaker, we have to face reality in this country. All of us cannot afford the same things, but as I said, I believe that we need to look at all possibilities in this area with regard to affordable housing. I am quite sure if we made a decision . . . and I might bring that motion, if I am not a minister, God willing, after elections. I will bring that motion asking for government to waive or allow the importation of mobile homes and pre-fabricated constructed homes in this country in order to assist persons with affordable housing.

Do you know what I would do? Those contractors out there who are saying, 'I will build your home for you but it is going to cost you $280 per square foot' if I have an option of basically getting the same type of accommodation, that is, 2 or 3 bedroom accommodation for $20,000 to $30,000 as opposed to $150,000 maybe they might think about coming down on their costs that they charge me for their services.

Mr. Speaker, I know the First Elected Member from West Bay when he was there he really tried in this area as far as meeting this particular need for affordable housing. I recall there was one area in West Bay that was basically designated for an affordable housing scheme. One of the candidates now, opposing the First Elected Member for West Bay and me, was one of the objectors to that particular scheme. Now, he is visiting and promising people he is going to help them with housing and other things. People are not easily fooled. Boy, one thing I understand is that Caymanians have memories as long as elephants: they don't forget a whole lot of things.

We are trying. I had one constituent of ours, who supports both of us, say, 'John, I tell you something, if you and McKeever are not re-elected, I am moving.' Why Mr. Speaker? Because of the years we have attempted to address the needs of the ordinary working person in this country.

Mr. Speaker, I think I have said enough. We have $1 million in the budget. I thank God for the vision that he gave me on this issue. I was thinking about it and the mechanics of it and He said, 'John, get government to do it and have it administered through the Credit Union,' which I thought was an excellent vehicle but I have no problem with AIDB, they have done a good job. I believe that is the way to handle it because then I think it will be administered on a professional level.

And, Mr. Speaker, I am not talking here about handouts. What I found is that most people that I talk to about housing are not looking for a handout; they are looking for a monthly payment that they can afford.

I did a few calculations and it was like at 5%. I am proposing that we offer this particular financing at may be 3% but even at 5%, $80,000 for 20 to 25 years works out to about $600 to $700 a month. That is the way it should be, Mr. Speaker. Most people pay more than that for rent. As I said, we have $1 million in the budget, let's start with that. Let's commit not only this government, but also the next one, to the idea that this is going to be an annual contribution.

Mr. Speaker, like I said about education this morning there is no greater investment you can make, not only in the education of our people, but in housing for our people. Thank you very much and God bless.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 17/00. The Resolve section reads, "BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED that government consider assisting with affordable low cost housing by making an annual contribution of C$1 million in its budget and because of its experience have the mortgage programme administered by the Agricultural and Development Board (AIDB) with preferred interest rates." I put the question. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The motion has passed.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 17/00 AS AMENDED PASSED.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Member's Motion No. 24/00 entitled Mortgage Assistance to be moved by the First Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 24/00

MORTGAGE ASSISTANCE

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 24/00 standing in my name which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS many persons have found themselves in financial difficulties;

"AND WHEREAS many persons are under threat of losing their houses through failure of payment of their mortgage for a few months;

"AND WHEREAS several Resolutions have been accepted by this Honourable Legislative Assembly to address the housing problem since 1997 without success so far;

"AND WHEREAS this Honourable House agreed to expend $1,000,000.00 on Housing, with nothing done so far;

"BE IT RESOLVED THAT this Honourable Legislative Assembly consider making the said $1,000,000.00 available to the Finance Department to be expended in the most urgent and efficient manner for mortgage assistance to those persons who cannot pay their mortgages and are now under threat of losing their homes;

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT at the next meeting of Finance committee to be held soon the said $1,000,000.00 be agreed upon;

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT Government determines what type of repayment is to be made by recipients of the programme.

"OR ALTERNATIVELY, BE IT RESOLVED THAT if this Honourable Legislative Assembly is unable to agree on the $1,000,000.00 for the said purposes, that at the coming Finance Committee Meeting funds be put aside for the mortgage assistance programme as outlined."

The Speaker: Seconder, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I beg to second the motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 24/00 has been duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak to it?

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I thank you and I thank the seconder for assisting with this motion.

For what seems to be various reasons for far too many families they are losing their houses. All the cases I have found out about are those where a mortgage is not paid in full or at all for 3 to 6 months or to a year in a few cases. Sometimes I have seen the amounts range from $3,000 to $13,000 but they lose their house and this is after having been paying on their house and struggling with it for couple of years.

The reasons I have found why some mortgages fall behind is that some people work in the hotel industry and during the off season they don't make enough to pay that commitment. Others are for varying reasons: loss of job, sickness, and other personal problems that shatter the life of a family or an individual and disrupt what would be a normal family life.

However, the cold fact is that people are sometimes losing their only possession in life, a piece of land and a house that they have been paying on for years and sometimes not great amount of money. It is the only shelter that children have. The only home they know.

r. Speaker, I believe that the government has a responsibility here. It is not their fault. It is not the fault of any civil servant. It is not the fault of any administration sometimes, most times. But I believe that government has a moral obligation to assist their people when we find our people in such trouble as I have found and I know other members have found.

As I said earlier, people want a house and more and more I find that single parents and couples in the lower income bracket are now prepared to get smaller one and two-bedroom houses. I find that there are those in need who are prepared to build small texture one-11 houses in order to get out of the high rent and give themselves some working room to try to save for a more comfortable house for themselves and their children.

It is a sorry state, Mr. Speaker, and I am sure that as a representative you have come across it. Maybe not so much in your constituency because you don't have as many people. But I know you have come across it, where the family comes to you and as a representative without executive authority you cannot do anything but to counsel, call up the bank and beg for the person, sometimes make suggestions for them and keep calling. I have said at times to banks, 'Listen, I know that you have your rules and regulations, and your money has to be paid back, but can you really put a family of four out of a house that they have had for the last ten years for the want of $8,000 or $9,000?' Simple: husband got sick, wife did not have enough money to pay the mortgage—simple fact of life in these islands we face sometimes.

I know you have found that, Mr. Speaker. I have found it and I know other representatives have found it also. I am asking government to determine what type of repayment is to be made. As I said in the other debate, perhaps in that determination of what type of repayment they want or would consider so as not to burden that family any further and make matters worse, government can charge that person 3% or whatever for a 10 to 30 year period depending on the amount they would need to put themselves in good standing and clear their arrears.

I believe that this is a very significant matter. As you watch the newspapers you see houses—I have seen more than a dozen up for sale in the newspaper. I have constituents who come to me up to last week Friday. What can we do, as I said, but to call the bank because we are not rich that we can up and pay $4,000 or $5,000. I do try to assist and I know that there are other people in this House who take money out of their pockets and try to assist. But we cannot cure the problem. This is a problem that we are facing. I would hope that government would accept the motion and set up the right conditions giving people an opportunity—even though they have fallen behind with the commercial institutions—to keep what is so important to a nation and that is, a shelter for family.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any honourable member wish to speak?

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Mr. Speaker, its election time and collection time. I don't understand how this $1 million which we in Finance Committee voted for affordable housing is now going to be deployed for something else regardless of how sympathetic I might feel to persons who are experiencing difficulties in meeting mortgage payments. Somehow those persons qualified to have mortgages and have homes. Before, I was basically talking about people who didn't have it. If the money is going to be used for affordable housing it is impossible for that same money to be used for this specific mortgage assistance.

We are talking specifically about the $1 million that was agreed on in Finance Committee. I don't really have objections to helping anyone, but certainly you cannot help everybody at the same time with the same $1 million. The money has been earmarked to go towards affordable housing and I think that is where it should go.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Mr. Speaker, the government has now had an opportunity to peruse the motion being Private Member's Motion 24/00 dealing with mortgage assistance. If I may just briefly refer to the preamble where it says that there are certain persons who are now in threat of losing their homes and the government is sympathetic in that regard. However, the government had given an open commitment to the expenditure of $1 million for housing.

There is a committee that has been set up by Executive Council who is actively looking at this and we hope that within the next few weeks we can actually see houses in each of the six electoral districts being started for persons who are indigent or in the poverty level. We are of the opinion on the government bench that although this is a worthy cause that appropriate motion should be put when Finance Committee is called and either it is increased or through the blocking of another fund for this to be done. But at this particular stage we could not go back on our word and use that $1 million which is set for something—

POINT OF ORDER
(Point of Explanation)

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: The motion asks that if they cannot find it within themselves to agree to that $1 million then alternatively it be addressed by Finance Committee and they agree. The motion is in two parts so I would ask that they look at that section of it, at least, that is what she just said.

The Speaker: I think that is a point of explanation. Would the Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture please continue?

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I too concur that it was not a point of order.

The first Resolve, I have explained that the government is not at this stage going to go back and use money which we have already voted for to assist the poor persons being in the sum of $1 million. What I was saying was that the second resolution which is asking for it to go to Finance Committee, if it is taken as a separate vote under two separate resolutions, then the government at that stage could make a decision or either the First Elected Member from the district of West Bay could move it in a second substantive motion, wherever is his discretion.

I thank you.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak? The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, we have to realise that there is a crisis in the country as far as people failing to meet mortgage commitments are concerned—many of them hard-working people. I don't know what the root cause of the problem is because of the complaints and requests that I have received. I have not had the time to analyse them collectively to see if there is a common cause. However, what I can say categorically is that there is a problem.

A lady called me two afternoons ago and subsequently came to see me. She shared with me a heart-rending story of how she lost her house. I believe in that case it was a responsible lady who through circumstances beyond her control, some job adjustments and downsizing, she was unable to realise the payment. And like in baseball, three strikes and you are out. How does someone who was paying regularly and consistently for seven years on a property deal with a situation like that? How do you rationally explain to them the rules of the game? How can you let them understand that this is business? Too bad!

Mr. Speaker, I was reading some articles about these kinds of experiences and how social psychologists and social scientists deal and counsel with people who suffer these losses. I was struck by what one author said: he said that some people never completely recover from these kinds of devastating experiences and if you are not grounded you will take to the bottle, to the streets, or to something else, because there has been an interruption, a jolt, a shatter—a shattering experience in your life much like the unexpected loss of a loved one. If you are not counselled and if you don't have support some people never recover. I mean, how can you deal with being put on the street. This is not a place where there are choices and grades in a plethora of apartments with a wide range of prices and affordability. This is usually the kind of society where everyone has his little niche and there is not much space or room for any other person. We don't have any mechanisms to deal with these kinds of displaced persons.

It is a fact of life and I don't know how we are going to address it, there is perhaps no easy way if we were to be frank and candid. It is unfortunate that we have to come to the position where persons have to look to the government for some relief. I am by no means advocating any welfare statism because I know that government has its limitations. But as one of the representatives of the people, I am hearing about these cases far too frequently so it seems to me that in the interim we need to find some kind of mechanism whereby we can offer financial assistance and relief.

I want to say something else, Mr. Speaker. The articles I read instructed me that quite often people don't run into problems during the first or second year of the mortgage—they said up to the first five years, it is after that. So, what I am saying also is that this request is for a stop gap measure. What seems to also be needed, is some kind of counselling and perhaps what we need to have in this country is some kind of credit counselling that these persons can have access to before the situation reaches the critical stage and becomes terminal where they lose their house. Unfortunately, many of the lending institutions don't operate like that.

There should be some kind of mechanism where as you read the first symptom you begin to seek remedy and seek help. Living in an age of the revolution of rising expectations many of these persons may be getting into trouble by living in a consumer society, ostentatious life style, not being able to prioritise. Mr. Speaker, that is one of the dangers of television advertisement—you are bombarded by consumer goods. Persons who don't have good control over their credit, they have a credit card and one of the easiest thing to do is to run it up to its limit—max it out—and then you get people calling you on the telephone 'dunning you' as the expression goes and then it is sometimes easy to delay and defer the intangible, the mortgage payment at the end of the month not realising that the interest accumulates sometimes by common proportions.

So, I want to say that in spite of what some people might say about election, there is a human aspect to this because if forty families are foreclosed upon and lose their houses, I would lay my neck on a chopping block that they are going to be wards of the state. They are going to be wards of Social Services or Community Affairs or some place else. So, I mean, it is unfortunate that the government finds itself in this position but we have to face the facts. There is no other way. What are we going to do? Because it does not affect us, we are going to be cold-hearted and turn them out and say, 'Well, I am sorry I cannot help you. Too bad'?

Mr. Speaker, one would have to be ghoulish to take that approach because these are the same people that many of us are relying on to vote for us in the next couple of months. We have to have heart.

The ultimate solution lies in what I say, but it goes also beyond that. We have to arrive at the point in this country where there is some institution whose sole purpose is to provide affordable housing based on one's earning power. To complement that, there must also be available the necessary support services including credit counselling and those services which help families arrive at budgets and prioritise.

By the way, I was just reading a book entitled Mighty like a River—the Black Church. I was reading about a church in Houston, Texas. This church has about 40,000 members. There are three physical sites and one of the things that this church is big on is what they call personal financial empowerment. This church inculcates in its members what they call spiritual economics and helps them to manage their money according to biblical principles, that is, living according to one's means. I read where it is a most successful organisation in that all of the members of that church, all of the families in that church own their homes. They have a large percentage of their income in savings and they do well. But a great part of the success lies in the fact that a certain knowledge and disposition is encouraged. They learn to budget, they learn to prioritise and they learn to deprive themselves of what is not necessary. These kinds of things that we are calling for by themselves are not enough.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION—4.30 PM

The Speaker: May I interrupt you for a moment, please?

We have reached the hour of 4.30 p.m. It was the intention that we continue until 8.00 p.m. I would appreciate a motion that we suspend Standing Order 10(2).

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I move the suspension of the Standing Orders relative to this to ensure that we can go until 8.00 PM.

The Speaker: I shall put the question that in accordance with Standing Order 10(2) this House continues until 8.00 PM. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House continuing.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, I apologise for the interruption.

Mr. Roy Bodden: So, I was saying that the grants of money by themselves will only be a palliative; what we want is a lasting solution. So when we get over the crisis we have to examine this problem and we have to find a way of developing the mechanisms which will help these families understand that it is of critical importance to live within their means: to budget and to prioritise. It is necessary in the long-term interest to deprive ourselves sometimes. We have to come to the stark reality of what is a necessity as against what is a luxury.

This is especially of critical importance in that many of these persons who are so affected are single parents. Young people come to me and lament the fact that they will never be able to afford a place of their own because they are in a perpetual struggle just to keep up. They are trading water—just doing enough to pay the rent and buy the food.

Mr. Speaker, it is unfortunate that these kinds of requests come in the height of the political season but then there is politics in everything and if we are going to use that as an excuse not to help someone then we will be denying people everyday. I think in the long term the ideal situation is one where we can have different means of providing mortgage money from those we are now accustomed to. And any conscientious government can find these means and find this money.

The United States, that great bastion of economic prosperity and democracy, has an arm of the Federal Government called Housing and Urban Development. Mr. Speaker, I am sure that to you this will be familiar. Under the auspices of a number of foundations—and I can think of one called the Fanny Mae Foundation existing solely and exclusively to provide affordable housing to people. Not only do they provide affordable housing; they help the people once the housing is acquired to stay current with their payments.

A time is coming in this country when politicians and people who profess, are going to have to put their actions where their talk is—when they talk the talk, they are going to be called upon more and more, to walk the walk. Mr. Speaker, one has only to check the paper on Friday to see the foreclosures and threats of foreclosure. It is easy to be smug and apathetic, and if anyone is so naïve, so hard-hearted or so ill-informed as to believe that this is not a problem, then they need only to stick around and tarry a while.

I believe that the government, if it is minded, no one is asking for a handout. Certainly it is only fair to expect that any money used to bail persons out, should be paid back, even if it has to be paid back without interest. But, Mr. Speaker, that is a small inconvenience to suffer to save a family from being displaced; to save a youngster from going on the streets.

We say that we are concerned about crime and we want to fight crime. Have we ever stopped to realise that the contributing factor to crime and delinquency are numerous? One of the primary ones being a displacement of persons, no permanent abode, living on the street, living from neighbour to neighbour, or family member to family member. Have we ever thought how psychologically upsetting, how spiritually debilitating and how economically worthless that can make an individual feel and realise?

Mr. Speaker, the lady who called me broke down in tears because it was not that that lady was helpless. She had land other than the house, but the process being what it is, she could not sell the other piece of land which was unencumbered in time enough to save the bank from foreclosing on her house. So, now the house is gone. She still has the piece of land, but she is worse than she was because while she has the land it is no good to her now as she will never realise enough money to put another house back on that land, save a stroke of luck or she wins the New York lottery.

So, I want to say that in many of these cases it is not that people are worthless or that they are irresponsible, it is just a force of economic circumstances. Heaven forbid that there would be something, a shutter and a jolt, that we would have a major failure in any sector of our economy (like the tourism sector) because this problem would then become endemic. So I don't want anyone to get away with laying the impression that it is because these people are worthless and because they choose not to help themselves. There are many cases of legitimate need.

Mr. Speaker, I am sure that the government, being as conscientious as it is, is aware of this problem. I am also sure that the government being as informed and conscientious as they claim to be realise that it is crucial that we find some means of accessing affordable financing in the long term. What the government chooses to do in the interim—to address the more immediate concerns—is the preserve and prerogative of the government. I am merely making a request that there are legitimate cases: that there are persons out there who even as I speak are on the verge of being displaced. I full well understand that financial institutions have rules and regulations and parameters in which they operate. And that the money is not theirs in the first place, but that the money is invested by clients who expect a reasonable return on their money. I am not asking for the institutions to write off anything either. But, Mr. Speaker, the problem is one that begs a solution. Together the legislators, the government, the institutions and the persons who are under threat—there must be a way for all of us as parties to work this out so that we can realise and address this problem.

It may well be that the solution lies in some form of divergent thinking. It may well be that the way to the successful addressing of the housing problem and to alleviate and eliminate the need for government to offer mortgage assistance in the future would be to look at alternative means and material used in the construction of the houses.

I am saying that it is time that we look seriously at this because the common cry is that labour and material are expensive. So, it may be time for us to look at alternate material and methods to those being currently used in an effort to reduce the cost of building and mortgage payments so that more people can afford houses and apartments. That, to my mind, would be the ideal long-term solution.

In the interim, I believe, it is reasonable to ask the government to consider making whatever it can make available to persons so that they may try to restructure themselves in order not to lose their houses and be displaced.

Mr. Speaker, that is certainly well within the realm of a conscientious representative to request. It is certainly well within the realm of the government to address if it so cares. Let none of us as the peoples' representatives in this season of professing empathy, sympathy and concern, be so smug and apathetic as to think it does not affect us therefore we don't care.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak? If no other member wishes to speak, does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: This motion was brought out of desperation and that's all. Care and concern for the plight of people whom I have not been able to help, who have come to my office and to the office of the seconder, the Third Member from Bodden Town.

Mr. Speaker, it is a hard thing when you see a family losing their home for $5,000 or $6,000 and you cannot help them. We are not talking about people who are drunkards who don't care what happens to their families. I am talking about solid Caymanians who have found themselves in problems. I am not saying that we have hundreds, but when you look at the number of homes advertised for sale by the banks it has to give us cause for concern. And when people approach and tell you their plight, being a conscientious person you would try to do something.

Mr. Speaker, I looked and I debated Private Member's Motion 17/00 moved by my colleague from West Bay, the Third Elected Member and seconded by the Fourth Elected Member from George Town. But when you look at this motion and you examine it, there is nothing about the $1 million that was voted in Finance Committee. It says that government should consider assisting low-cost housing by making an annual contribution. It says nothing and that is why I said in my debate at that point that I don't know what could be done this year because we won't have a budget again until next year.

Now, when I could not do anything about some of the cases that have been plaguing us as representatives, this motion was one of last resort, that is what I call it. We looked at it. I did not see, as far as the $1 million is concerned, nor did I hear, even though we made enquiries, as to what was happening with that $1 million since last year when it was mentioned in Finance Committee. I don't recall whether it was voted upon, I know it was mentioned. That is why I made the recommendation for the $1 million to be used in that sense. I am glad to hear that government has a committee and that committee is looking at ways and means to distribute it but we have not been told that. There were questions asked here earlier this year about it and no answer could be given.

So, when the Fourth Elected Member from George Town says he does not understand how the funds could be used for assistance when we had just agreed to use it for their motion, this House has not agreed in that motion to use that $1 million. That resolution is quite clear.

Mr. Speaker, I don't think that I can say much more about it because I heard what the government said—they intend to use it. That is why I was cautious. The matter we are addressing is one of grave importance to the life of people and we were cautious (the Third Elected Member from Bodden Town and I) in asking for an alternative in Finance Committee Meeting for Government to consider the matter.

Now in regards to what the Fourth Elected Member from George Town had to say about politics and elections. It seems as if that member is worried, consumed, confused and frightened about a general election. I have faced five, this one being my sixth, and if God is for you, who can be against you—but the Devil? No one is going to vote for the Devil.

Where they thought I would be weak, I am strong. And the people whom I have served honestly and selflessly this past sixteen years will have the last say—not the Fourth Elected Member from George Town. Nobody is scared of him. You had your turn. Just keep quiet and listen! No one is scared of you. You have to understand that in this House!

Mr. Speaker, I have a good record when it comes to my time in Executive Council. Some things work better than others and no one can say that McKeeva Bush did not try. I tried and I will try as long as I am here. I will say this, if I had executive power these last three years we would not have some of these problems with housing because there were other parts to that scheme.

So, I do not wait until election time to deal with any issue or visit anyone. I have consistently and fairly dealt with the issues that affect our people. And while I believe that Constitutions can set up systems, if you don't care about human conditions which people face, of what use then is a Constitution?

So, I can say to that Member and to this House: No one can honestly say that McKeeva Bush has ever waited until an election to help people in whatever need. This representative is conscious of the various needs and concerns of people from the grassroots level to business. That is why I am not scared to face a general election.

I think that when people get up to discuss matters of importance they should forget about elections. Stop mentioning it because it is coming. You have to face it, and if you do something you get cursed and if you don't do anything you are still going to get cursed by some people, so I am not worried about it.

Mr. Speaker, as I said, this motion is one that I believe the government can help. There are several resolutions—two, I believe that would assist the government since it has said that it has intentions to use those funds—even though that is not what was voted on the last motion because in no way is that motion contained about $1 million presently. It says, 'in their annual budget.' That is what the House agreed on but nevertheless I would hope if they can use it, they certainly need to use it because it is needed.

The two last resolutions, Mr. Speaker, can assist government if they are willing to support or assist people in this manner. It says, “AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT government determines what type of repayment is to be made by recipients of the programme;

“OR ALTERNATIVELY, BE IT RESOLVED THAT if this Honourable Legislative Assembly is unable to agree on the $1,000,000 for the said purposes, that at the coming Finance Committee Meeting funds be put aside for the mortgage assistance programme as outlined.”

Mr. Speaker, it might not be $1,000,000 it might be $100,000 or $200,000 but I would hope that they put aside something they can agree on. So, as the Honourable Minister for Community Affairs said, perhaps you would take these two resolutions separately.

The Speaker: Before putting the question on Private Member's Motion 24/00, Standing Order 24(13) reads as follows, “If a motion embodies two or more separate propositions, the propositions may be proposed by the Presiding Officer as separate questions.”

In my judgment I think if the first three are taken as one and the alternative as two, it would probably be the proper way to do it. If the House has no objections I shall call it that way.

The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Suffice to say, it would be the government's preference, subject to your ruling, that the last two be taken together, in that it would set out from the very start that the government would have to set in place some type of repayment programme for the recipients and that the public would not understand it as a straightforward ex gratia grant.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 24/00. Two separate propositions.

Proposition number one reads: "BE IT RESOLVED THAT this Honourable Legislative Assembly consider making the said C1$1,000,000 available to the Finance Department to be expended in the most urgent and efficient manner for mortgage assistance to those persons who cannot pay their mortgages and are now under threat of losing their homes;

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT at the next meeting of Finance Committee to be held soon the said C1$1,000,000 be agreed upon."

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES & NOES.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Member's Motion No. 20/00 entitled Public Utilities Commission to be moved by the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 20/00

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION

Mr. Roy Bodden: I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 20/00 standing in my name and entitled Public Utilities Commission which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS there is much concern among Caymanians regarding rising public utilities rates;

"AND WHEREAS attempts have been made previously to introduce a Public Utilities Commission through motions in the Legislative Assembly;

"BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Government consider establishing a Public Utilities Commission to administer and regulate the rates of water, telephones and electricity in the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: Secunder. The Elected Member for North Side second the motion.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I beg to second the motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 20/00 has been duly moved and seconded.

Do you wish to speak to it? The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: This attempt to introduce a public utilities commission into the Cayman Islands through legislation from the Legislative Assembly marks the fourth time that I can recall such attempts to have been made. I am happy to report that I have played an important role in all four attempts. The very first time in 1989, the now First Elected Member from West Bay moved the motion and I know the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town seconded the motion.

Mr. Speaker, I am reminded of the story of a young Chinese man. During the Ming Dynasty, in order to enter the civil service, you had to pass the civil service exam. This young man, Yung Chang, went through myriad attempts each year at the administering of the examination trying to successfully pass it. He expended so many years of his life that when he finally passed it he decided that instead of going into the civil service he would spend his remaining few years building and flying kites. It is not so much the story as an adage that he coined which is relevant and appropriate at this time. That adage is, 'As the earth seems small to a soaring swallow so shall seemingly insuperable objects be overcome by the heart worn smooth with a fixed purpose.'

Mr. Speaker, I believe that this time, the fourth time, this motion will be accepted if for no other reason . . . I heard a news item this morning and it was also carried on the front page of the paper where the Chamber of Commerce, no less an august body, has taken Cable & Wireless to task for daring to cut off and deprive honest, deserving and law abiding citizens of the opportunity to access cheaper internet rates. Cable & Wireless has cut off ten lines that were open to Caymanian people. And, the Chamber of Commerce has debunked this whole notion and indeed implicitly called for the establishment of some kind of regulatory body that will ensure that citizens have inexpensive choices and that competition be fostered.

We have public utilities—electricity, water and telephones. In the wind up I am going to say something else about what I also consider monopolies which are not, strictly speaking, utilities.

Now, at a time when Caymanians from all walks of life are complaining about prices and the high cost of living, is it too foolhardy to stand up for the fourth time and ask the Government to consider establishing a public utilities commission? A committee which will, among other things, ensure that the utilities' companies receive a fair return on their investments, but also striking the balance that the consumers of these services have the ability to access the services at affordable costs?

Mr. Speaker, electricity, telephones and water are services that we can ill-afford. It would be a terrible adjustment in the 21st century Cayman to think that we could live without these. It is as if we are hooked on them now. But is that any reason for the companies offering these services to hold us to ransom by cutting off our choices; by raising rates when we have no recourse to examination—no recourse to complain to a body which will examine the merits of the requests that are made and we are placed in a position of take it or leave it, pay or get cut-off!

I want to say from the outset that this is not about confrontation; it is not about a face-off; it is not about nationalisation; it is not about appropriation. It is about fair returns on the investment, fair prices and fair treatment of the consumer and the customer.

Mr. Speaker, in the Caribbean it is accurate to remark that every country in which Cable & Wireless at the present time operates, is concerned and has begun to agitate for better agreements. In the past the excuse has been that they have a franchise and it cannot be broken or re-negotiated until the term is up. I do not believe that document is so sacred that it cannot stand; that it cannot entertain discussion. Even if the discussions emanate around revising it when it has reached its maturity.

Ordinary housewives are complaining; people in the middle class are complaining; people in the highest echelons of the economic strata are complaining about seemingly, exorbitant rates, and the inability to access cheaper services because of the way Cable & Wireless wields its monopoly.

Similarly, too, the electricity-generating company. Although the complaints are less than those of Cable and Wireless', there are nevertheless concerns by people about electricity rates—particularly the fact that many people have to pay higher rates because of what is factored in as the fuel factor.

Mr. Speaker, a utilities commission as I see it, would be . . . and I want to say this before I even get into how I see the commission being set up and functioning. I want to say that this recommendation for a utility commission is not new—not even if we think of the first time it was brought to the Legislative Assembly in 1989. Between 1977 and 1978, the United Nations Technical Assistance Programme sent a man here by the name of Mr. J.J.J. Bradbury to investigate the Cable & Wireless operations and its franchise. And this gentleman Mr. J.J.J. Bradbury, recommended at that time that a Public Utilities Commission be set up because he thought, and indeed argued, that it would be in the best interest of the Government, the franchise and the people.

One of the things that has plagued us is that all of the expertise seems to be on the side of the utilities' companies and not enough on the side of the government, so the government is at a disadvantage when it comes to negotiations, discussions and wranglings. We are often too prone to take for granted what the utilities' companies are saying and are not sufficiently equipped to challenge them when they make certain claims and certain requests. Perhaps the government would be well-advised to equip itself by training or procuring people who are experts in this field, so that when it comes to certain kinds of discussions and negotiations we can speak from the point of view of experts, and the government can have its independent opinions, irrespective of the length of term of the franchise.

Now, Mr. Speaker, having established that concern, let me say that I would see a public utilities commission as being made up of persons who are trained and qualified in the fields of electrical engineering, telecommunications, computer services. Certainly, it would need people who are knowledgeable in finance and accounting, but as well may be an attorney for good measure. But as well, you would have to have one or two citizens and these one or two citizens need not have any area of expertise other than good practical common sense and an understanding of fair play and what is reasonable.

Of course it is taken for granted that the utilities' companies would have a representative on the commission. The commission would be empowered by the government, namely, the ministry under which the particular utilities fall but it would be independent of that ministry. Mr. Speaker, is that the most unreasonable request to make? It should not have had to come to this.

And at this time in the life of the parliament people are asking about legislators and what they have done and what they have delivered. Sometimes effectiveness can best be measured not in roads and in lights and these kinds of things, but in efforts people have been made to improve the wellbeing and the lives of the general public.

So that while it is difficult to measure intangible efforts such as this, I want to underscore that these kinds of motions and this kind of effort by legislators is just as important as the ability to get a road fixed, or a pothole patched, or a street light erected. Indeed, one could argue, more importantly, because this is going to affect everyone and not just people living in a little area or on a particular road or at a particular corner or junction. It is high time that the government pays heed to this request and move towards establishing such a commission.

Certainly, according to the news report this morning and according to the newspaper article, Cable & Wireless is preparing itself for competition. I am glad, Mr. Speaker, I am happy. Believe you me, if this were not the Legislative Assembly and you would not rule me out of order, I would dance on the desk that the Chamber of Commerce came out the way it came out, because now the detractors cannot shoot down the Chamber of Commerce and say, 'there goes the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town again, he has been calling on this.' The Chamber of Commerce has said that it is wrong. It is not a fact. It is not proven that competition will cause the Government to lose revenue. So, the government cannot dodge under that excuse anymore. The Chamber of Commerce has said that it is wrong; it is not a proven fact to say that Caymanians will be displaced if a new company comes in.

So, this is one time I am hand-in-hand with the Chamber and join them in challenging the government to do what I have been calling on four different occasions, since 1989, for it to do and establish a public utilities commission. History will not be kind to the government if they let this opportunity again pass them by and come up with some flimsy excuses and renege on a glaring commitment.

The Speaker: May I interrupt you for just a moment? We have to change the tapes so may be this would be a convenient time to take a fifteen-minute break. We shall suspend proceedings for fifteen minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 5.20 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 5.53 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Debate continues on Private Member's Motion No. 20/00, Public Utilities Commission.

The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town continuing.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Please allow me to make a correction. I may have been somewhat ahead of myself. I think I said that the utilities' commission would be entitled to have a member on the commission. No, that was an error on my part and I wish to retract that.

I want to go on now to describe how I see the Commission being set up and what its functions would be.

I see such a commission being established by the minister under whose ministry the utilities would fall, by his recommendation. The actual numbers could vary and indeed are a moot point. But let us say that in our case if we are talking about one commission for the three utilities, it would have to be sufficiently large as to have on it, at least, one person with expertise in each of the areas of the various utilities.

So, for example, in the case of electricity there would have to be at least one person who is an electrical engineer and some one who is knowledgeable in the area of telecommunications in the case of Cable & Wireless and perhaps as is to be expected, computer communications. In the case of the Water Authority: water purification and production. Excluded, of course, Mr. Speaker, would be anyone who was a shareholder in any of these utilities' companies for obvious reasons. Of course, it would be within the power of the minister to revoke any appointments for whatever reason the minister might choose and people would have the right to resign from the commission. Importantly, too, the commission would have a chairman. So, from all of the various appointees the commission members would get together and elect a chairman.

Now, the terms of reference of the commission would be such that they would have to ensure that the services rendered by a utility operator are rendered satisfactorily and that the charges imposed for these services are reasonable. For this purpose, the commission would have the power to enquire into the nature and extent of the utility services and to determine in accordance with the provisions of the Public Utilities Commission Act, the standards at which these companies must perform or render these services.

The commission could also be empowered and have as a term of reference the ability to prescribe the standards of the utility services, to provide the units of measurement and the type of measuring device used, and to prescribe standards for the measurement of quantity, quality, pressure, voltage and other measurements and standards of that nature and related to the services provided.

They would also be able to prescribe the system of accounts to be kept by the controlled utility. And, also importantly, make provisions for the commission to ensure that the public safety is firstly and foremost. Of course, Mr. Speaker, importantly in our case, the commission would be empowered to hear complaints, to arbitrate, to mediate and prescribe their findings in the event of complaints against the utilities' company. And, they would be in a position to make recommendations and to make their findings public and make recommendations as to compensation or rectification of various complaints and problems. The minister would determine the life of the commission. The commission may have a life span of 2—4 years. That would be left to the discretion of the minister.

What I would like to caution the government against continuing is the practice of the utilities' company encouraging the government to appoint members of it, the government's choosing, to sit on the board of the utilities company. Mr. Speaker, that practice is contrary to the interest of both the government and the people whom the government is supposed to serve and protect. It serves no tangible reason and provides no guarantee that these representatives are anything other than observers with little or no power to do anything to enhance the government or to protect the citizens from the utilities' company. Indeed it is like lulling the government into a false sense of importance.

I think it should be clear-cut and understood and the government should shy away from that. It is what the sociologist calls co-opting and it does not serve the government any good. It makes the utilities' companies look good, of course, because they can say, 'Well, we have a government representative on the board so we are not doing anything which is contrary to the interest of the government and the people that the government is supposed to serve.'

The utilities' company is the most effective means, the greatest and the best watchdog as far as the government is concerned. I stress this. Although it is appointed by the minister, it is independent of the minister. Of course, it is natural that the minister, and by inference the government, reserves the right and the power to dissolve, dismiss, fire, suspend any member of the commission if the government sees it acting inimical to its, (the government's) interest. But by and large, where the commission is functioning properly and the terms of reference are laid out and the parameters are clear cut, the commission operates pretty much independently, giving its reports to the minister who when necessary will bring them to cabinet and if legislation or amendments are needed they will then come to the Legislative Assembly or the Parliament depending on which jurisdiction we are in.

Mr. Speaker, many people in the society now realise the significance of this and I am curious to learn what is the disposition of the government regarding this, the fourth request, all four of which (as I stated before) I have been involved in. I believe now, more than I believed at the beginning in 1989, that the time has come for the establishment of a public utilities commission to protect the interest of the public.

So, I will now take my seat because I consider that I have said enough at the introduction of this Motion and I await with eager anticipation to hear what the government's disposition may be.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environmental and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Mr. Speaker, the government is in support of this Motion which considers the establishment of a public utilities commission. There has been no doubt a growing concern among the general public in recent times with regard to high rates of the utility companies: especially we hear of the electrical company and the telephone company.

And while under the 1986 licence that is in place by government there are some checks and balances, it may be that the time is right for such a commission to be established. It is a fact that under the licence the government may at any time cause an audit of the electrical company. As a matter of fact, this portion of the licence has been exercised as recently as the end of August.

I have to agree with the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town that if such a commission is put in place, the government would have to ensure that the individuals on the commission would be independent of the utility companies that are in question. I think this is only fair to say and of course there would be no conflict of interest.

So, we on this side of the House, the government, like other members of the Legislative Assembly, have constantly been bombarded by the public with regard to the problem of high rates and as I said, with electrical rates and the telephone. So, we are going to do whatever is possible to try to have this commission established and to see what can be worked out in the interest of the general public.

So, without further ado, the government supports the motion before the House.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak?

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you. I have had my say today on a number of motions, but I could not fail to rise and give support to my colleague, the Third Elected Member from Bodden Town, with respect to this very important issue of a utilities' public commission.

I believe, personally, the time has come for us to deal with the issue of the monopolies that we have in this country—the monopoly on telecommunications, electricity and water. No one can tell me . . . and do you know what happened, Mr. Speaker? Recently other jurisdictions challenged these particular monopolies and they have won. Despite the fact a monopoly might provide a good service with the absence of competition, there is no guarantee that you are getting that service at the best possible cost.

Mr. Speaker, you and I watch international television and the rates that I see being advertised in those countries where you are talking about 2 cents a minute and all kind of nonsense, that is state wide including Canada. If they are in a position to offer their services at those kinds of rates why is it that we are still—and I heard yesterday there was a fantastic advertisement from Cable & Wireless, 48 cents a minute on weekends.

Mr. Speaker, it may be a big deal as far as they are concerned, but they are still at the ballpark cost wise. If they really want to provide a service that people will use and use frequently they need to make their rates much more attractive and make it probably on volume, in other words, the frequency with which that service is used by the consumer.

When it comes to CUC, despite efforts on a personal basis—and I am talking about everybody being concerned about the cost of electricity—during the summer you cannot keep your bill under $400—$500.

I was talking to one of my colleagues the other day in the House and he had just gone overseas to visit some family member who is well established. He said that their utilities [bill]—and they have central air throughout their home—on a monthly basis is in the region of $80—$85 a month (US$ ours is C$). Water is the same thing.

I have said this from my political platform as well as in this House that we as a community need to get together with one objective and that is to reduce the cost of living in this country. That means that CUC, Cable & Wireless and the Water Authority all have to get involved and any other parties who are in the position where they operate and make a living in this community.

I have always believed in first giving people and companies the opportunity to do things on a volunteer basis, but I believe for too long we have been gentlemen. The Cayman Islands are so well-known internationally for its compliance with agreements and that type of thing that we are going to allow our people to starve to death because we want to live up to our obligations.

Mr. Speaker, I am not talking about breaking any obligations that we have. I believe that the utility [companies] are in a position where they should volunteer a concession. What other country in the world—I have not heard of any—guarantees a public utility a guaranteed rate of return of what, 15%! Mr. Speaker, it is time for us to stop talking and start acting with regard to this issue that affects so many of our constituents.

In my previous motion that I just presented, we were talking about reducing costs, limited wages and income. Here is another example: utilities' costs go up every year. Salaries and wages do not keep pace. Do you know what happens? We are so intimidated by the merchants and others out there about raising the issue of salary and wages we don't do it and as a result our people continue to suffer in this country.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that the idea put forward by the mover of this motion is a very good one. I recall presenting a motion, I think, along the same line, years ago. I believe there has to be certain controls; certain people in place who have the expertise to objectively look at the operation of these utilities in this country.

One of the other difficulties we have, for example, Cable & Wireless—and the Third Official Member, the Financial Secretary is looking at me—is that anything that happens to that company as far as reducing fees is going to affect government's revenue. We budget $8 million—$10 million a year as a contribution from Cable & Wireless and all of a sudden the Financial Secretary has to scramble around to fill that gap if rates fall. We cannot look at things along those lines. We cannot! Those companies can continue to make an honest return on their investments in this country but at the same time offer their services at a much more reasonable cost.

I fully support this call and I trust that honourable members will do the same. Thank you.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak?

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: As the seconder of the motion, I certainly rise to lend my support to the motion. I want to spend a few minutes to go into a bit of detail with regards the principles employed with the creation of a public utilities commission.

Before I go into that part, I just have to make slight reference to the reply by the government. I noticed that the minister made it a point to emphasise the word, consider, in accepting the motion. The motion did say consider. I was not suggesting otherwise, but the minister made it a point about considering.

Now, I want to make it very clear. While that is the way we have to word motions, I don't want any considering with this motion. It is high time that it is done and the government knows that it should have been done a long time ago. All I am trying to say with greatest of respect to the government, I don't want it to be considered; I don't want it to be done because it should be done and there is every reason why it should be done. No disrespect. It is just that the minister's answer kind of hinged on this considering business and the considering business should have long been passed. It is time to act.

Mr. Speaker, a public utilities commission basically as I see it with a little bit of background that I have read where such commissions operate in other jurisdictions, it is simply a regulatory body. It is a body that works and operates on the premise of protection to the users and the consumers of the various utilities.

This body called a public utilities commission, once in existence, exists to ensure that the providers provide these utilities safely, reliably and at reasonable rates. Also, one of the premises under which a public utilities commission must exist is that it will protect the consumers from any possible fraud. A public utilities commission determines how much utilities is charged for their services and whether the products and services that they provide are safe. But it is not one-sided, because it must also ensure that the investors in these utility companies, who are the providers, have a reasonable opportunity to get a fair return on their investment.

So, while we champion the cause, because the idea is to protect the consumer, no one is suggesting that there must be any beat-up and holler-up or anything like that against these companies but it is simply that it must be a two-way street. The consumer must be satisfied. The consumer must pay for the services but the consumer must be made to pay a reasonable rate. Basically, it is as simple as that.

Now, when the Third Elected Member from West Bay was talking a few minutes ago he aired a couple of concerns which I want to pick upon, because some people might limit the thought-process with regards to public utilities commission to simply making sure that the customer is satisfied. That is certainly one of the basic premises, but this whole thought-process extends itself beyond that.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay alluded to the fact that at present there is a reasonable amount projected in our annual budget with regards to a franchise fee from Cable & Wireless. And perhaps it is possible if rates were lowered noticeably. This amount which government has been able to depend on annually might well become less. He said that is not the way we should consider it—and I agree with him—but I want to talk about it a little bit more.

Mr. Speaker, here is how it works and here is the fallacy in the whole thought-process. And I am certain the Honourable Third Official Member who is the financial adviser to the government and who is the Financial Secretary, while he is not going to comment at this point in time, I am certain he will understand. The man I know him to be, he will not only understand but he will agree. Now, I might not see him agree but I know he will.

Here is what is happening at present—let us look at Caribbean Utilities: Because of our so-called indirect taxation the Government gets probably, if memory serves me right, close to $10 million (let's use round figures) a year on the duty that is levied on the importation of diesel fuel which is the fuel that the utility companies use. Other entities in the countries use diesel, but I am safe in saying that at least 90% of the total diesel that is consumed on an annual basis in the Cayman Islands is consumed by Caribbean Utilities Company so much so that they have a direct pipeline to their plant; that shows how much they use.

Now, when you get your bill, you notice there is a fuel factor and that goes up and down depending on what is calculated as your fuel factor every month. Mr. Speaker, you go to Cable & Wireless and as I understand the method chosen right now, Cable & Wireless is paying the government 20 percent of its net profit annually as the franchise fee. (I think there is a choice of one or two methods and I think that is the method being used now). That is some \$11 million this year that has been said before. That means that Cable & Wireless nets \$55 million in the year 2000, if the projections are correct— $5 \times 11 = 55$ .

So, basically the government is in a position where to balance its budget we are looking in excess of $20 million just from those two entities. Now, let no one fool anyone else—the government will collect that money, but [these companies all pass the buck on to the consumer]. They are, otherwise we would not have a fuel factor. But you see, the disadvantage that the consumer finds is that by the time CUC employs that fuel factor in calculating its bill to everyone, everyone else in the chain who is charged by CUC charges back to someone else until it comes right down to the very last person who is the consumer, who has no alternative but to buy the goods and services in order to live the life. There is no one else that they charge, they just pay, they don't charge.

Mr. Speaker, I know that is not how the government wants it to be and from time to time I have heard some of them say, 'Well, what do you want us to do?' The fact of the matter is that at present the system lends itself to a continuation of the widening of the gap of the distribution of wealth in the country, Mr. Speaker, not by design but certainly as a direct result of the government being responsible. I don't mean totally responsible but the government shares a huge responsibility in that entire process because that is what has evolved in the way the country does business.

No one is going to tell me that if you, not meaning you, sir, but if anyone is providing goods and services and there are charges which are levied on them to be able to provide those goods and services that they are not going to pass those extra costs on. They are going to do it! Everyone does it! It is only sensible business practice. That basically, sir, is at least one-third of the formula of what is known as capitalism.

So, now we talk about a public utilities commission. The government talks about supporting the motion and is going to consider a public utilities commission. Let me speak hypothetically for a moment and use my imagination which is not very vivid but I have a little one here. I can imagine them talking about it now and hearing them saying to each other, 'Well, what are we going to do about the franchise for CUC? What are we going to do about the one for Cable and Wireless? You fellows must really, really remember how much money we make a year off them.' Yes, it is going to come in when they are talking. It has to! It must! The man who is looking at me now is the same man I know is going to be talking like that, but that is all right.

Mr. Speaker, I bring these points up not to castigate, but certainly this is the situation that obtains. The message is, we must learn to do business differently. Now, I don't care what the franchise is or I don't care how much longer the franchise has to go. I maintain this: It is ludicrous for anyone inside of this Chamber or outside of the chamber to say that you cannot call these people and negotiate. They must be willing because if they are not willing, then all that is going to happen to them is that you are going to spend as long as you need to find the ways and means to break these franchises and you cannot have a good relationship after that. No one, but no one can sensibly say in this day and age, under these circumstances which prevail that you cannot sit down and negotiate with these people. I am absolutely 110% certain that you can. So, I don't want to hear that business anymore. I have heard it out of the mouths of several members of the government for a long time.

The other thing we must bear in mind is: We talk about a guaranteed 15% return on an investment for the utility company. You see, Mr. Speaker, the minister for Agriculture mentioned a while ago about this audit that was done as recently as August. That is what I just heard, sir. Let us assume that is a fact. Do you know what I would like the government to tell me about the audit?

What were the terms of reference of the audit?

What was the real purpose of the audit?

Was it simply to prove, authenticate, and verify that at the end of the day CUC did make no more than 15% return on their investment?

Mr. Speaker, I wonder—and I know a lot of them fairly well and I am not jumping at anyone but let me say this to you because I am not with any CPA or anything, but I have what those 'old' people call good understanding. I know I do.

If I were a utility company with the kind of investments that I know I have to engage in—capital, vehicles, light poles, other types of equipment and all this kind of stuff—and I have the ability to literally decide the length of life of any equipment or anything like that, I could sit down if I so desired, Mr. Speaker, depending on which way I decided to use such a formula and I could create 100 different scenarios that any auditor could examine and they could come out with 100 different results and everyone of them would be correct. I wonder if anyone knows that! I want the government to tell me that is wrong! I know it is not wrong because it all depends on exactly what the life span of the equipment or anything else you are talking about is, when you talk about your return. If you are putting the life span of your investment at ten years, you know basically at ten years the value comes to zero and [then] you calculate how much your return should be. If you put it at twenty [years] it is going to be different. If you put it a five [years] it is going to be different.

I want someone to tell me what body verifies that everything that is done is done by internationally accepted standards. Now, bear in mind I am not suggesting any impropriety because I don't know so I cannot suggest that. While I am taking a little bit long to get to the point, the point I wish to make, sir, is that if you had a public utilities commission all of that could be verified. Everything could be said, yes, this is exactly how it should be. Everyone is satisfied. No one can ask any questions. That is the purpose of a public utilities commission.

The government should jump at the opportunity. They should have done so aeons ago because the fact of the matter is outside of the income into the coffers they are totally impotent to do anything else.

Tell me, look at this . . . Help me now. What is that thing Cable & Wireless wanted to do a few months ago?

The Speaker: Rebalance.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Re-balancing!

This re-balancing exercise I read about in the paper just a few days ago. Months later the government has not replied to them and I will bet you they have not sat down and tried to work it out. They haven't!

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: [Inaudible comment]

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: It is a bit difficult. No, no, we cannot touch that now. If we are back after the people vote, we will look at that then.

Sure! But you see that is not to jump all over the government. The truth of the matter is, no matter who is smart and who is not smart they are not equipped to deal with that hence a public utilities commission.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Exactly! That is exactly what I am saying.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Qualified people with the right skills and tools. No connections to anyone. And when you have a result that is put forward, it is tried, it is tested and it is over. Finish with the engine—no arguments.

Mr. Speaker, do you know what else? The government owns the Water Authority. I am going to bring you an argument now. Let me show you why this whole thing has to change. It must change. There is no accountability process whatsoever. It is a farce. Look at what we argued about yesterday and today [regarding] the Water Authority, with the sewage treatment plant and the need for a new one, how important it was. The fact that—I don't want to scare anyone—but someone mentioned an epidemic. Someone from the government bench mentioned that they would not want anything like that to happen so the important . . . I think it was simply used to say they realise the importance of it.

Mr. Speaker, government or no government that entity is supposed to be subject to a public utilities commission. The government is also responsible through checks and balances to ensure that they are providing the customers of this country safe, reliable and reasonable costs. Who is checking on that? No one is. Not because it is the government, whoever it is!

Mr. Speaker, I want someone to tell me who decides the rates the Water Authority charges. It is not all the time we must look at the total bill because you could be paying $25 a month for something that is only worth $5.

Mr. Speaker, someone just mentioned something and I want to show you something. Because of a monopoly—including a government monopoly—I don't want to single anyone out. It is fantastic when you understand how to do business. They take a piece of equipment that costs—and I am being hypothetical because I don't know exactly. I will just use round figures. Let's say the piece of equipment cost $100. What they do is: if the Leader of Government Business wants to be hooked up to water when he moves into his new house there is a meter that you have to use.

This is all hypothetical but I want to show you how it is done. They don't say to you that they are selling this meter for $100, it costs $85 but they have to make a couple dollars on it so there is a one-time charge of $100. Not like that. They could easily do that and if they have to replace it they charge you again. No, here is what they say, 'No, no, we cannot charge you for the meter, if something goes wrong we have to replace it. But here is what we have to do to satisfy ourselves in order for us to let you use it every month that we can come and read it and charge you for what you use, we are just going to charge you a small rent.'

I hear you. That is why people build houses and rent them and after a certain amount of time they pay for the houses and then they make their money. That is fine. But you see, Mr. Speaker, I just used the Water Authority in that instance—and possibly over a two-year period the meter is paid for and if you don't have any trouble then you make more money off it. That is business. But I just used that for an example.

For instance, Cable & Wireless, if you look at your telephone bill and if you have a telephone, a fax [and other] telecommunication equipment you would be shocked when you add up the rental fees. That is where the money is, guys, it is not in the telephone call. I am telling you! That is the way they do business but a public utilities commission would be able to go over that procedure and say, 'Okay, gentleman, hold a little bit. That is a bit too much now. We have to restructure how you are charging this thing.' That is the point I wish to make.

You know, if we look at any one individual situation like that, we say, 'That is not much. Why are we worried about it? A big Law Firm! Look at how much money they make! So why are we worried about Cable & Wireless making a few dollars off them?' That is not the point because there are thousands of individuals who don't make that kind of money and who are paying what they cannot afford to pay.

You see, Mr. Speaker, that is another principle. This re-balancing business, I am not suggesting to the government to say, yes, that how it should be because I don't believe in that system. It must be fair and equitable the return wherever you go because it is the same usage. If you buy a pair of pants and wear it and I buy the same kind of pants and wear it, wherever you wear it—you might wear it a different place than me but it is the same pants. It doesn't mean that because you are going to wear it to a cocktail party that you must pay more because I am going to wear it to go to the Rainbow [restaurant/bar]. That has nothing to do with it. That is maybe a little twisted example but I am sure you take the point.

Mr. Speaker, I could go on and on using examples but I want to say that the government has said that it is going to accept this Motion, and it is going to consider it. The minister who replied said maybe it is time. I want to tell him and the government that there is no maybe about this.

I want to say something else: This again, sir, is but one link in the chain of all the things that you have seen along these lines coming from this backbench; because there is a plan and there is sense to the plan; because we see what tomorrow is going to require and we are trying to look at it from that perspective, sir.

We talk about freedom of information. We talk about transparency. We talk about accountability. This is part of the process because the country is growing up right now but it is choosing too few to allow to grow up with it. It is going to cause us more problems than we even want to imagine. I don't want to go there this afternoon with this motion so I would hope that the government would not be talking about waiting for election or whatever. Neither one of them who sits there is going physically to do the legwork or anything like that. They must accept as a policy that they want a public utilities commission created and the technocrats are going to deal with the rest of the stuff, then they will get information gathered and look at a proposal. Let us get it going now, sir.

Mr. Speaker, it is amazing nowadays how just twenty minutes or half an hour on the internet can pull off just about all of the information anybody would need to put something like this together. It is not a difficult exercise. It is not critical. And, Mr. Speaker, neither is the legislation that this would require, a difficult exercise. The reason why we want this to happen now is because it is the only way you are going to be sure in the future whether you allow monopolies to exist or not—when you are dealing with franchises, agreements or whatever because such a commission of qualified individuals will exist that you are going to make the right decisions. What seemed right nine years ago when the government made its agreements—what looked like a wonderful situation then, why are we now rowing about it if it is so wonderful?

Simple, I am glad to hear that the government has accepted the motion and I chose the time that I was speaking to draw examples to show the importance of doing this. It is time for us to do it and I look forward to seeing some tangible results and I hope that this one is not just glossed over with words and falls by the way-side, Mr. Speaker.

I commend the motion again. I commend the mover and I am certainly proud to have been the seconder of the motion and I trust that all other honourable members will support the motion. Thank you.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The motion to establish the public utilities commission is one that, as the minister responsible for this mentioned earlier, is accepted by the government.

We have to put this in the right context as to what a utilities commission is all about and also to look at where the real problem of the high rates are. It is a fact that we do have rates that are high and on the other hand very reliable and good service, which is also important to us as a country that electricity is not going off all the time or telephone lines going down. On the other hand, what should be happening is that the public should be getting reasonable and equitable rates while allowing the utility companies to make reasonable returns on their investment.

Mr. Speaker, the utilities' commission deals with administering and regulating, but it must do so within the confines of the law, and it must do so within the confines of the franchises.

So, in my view, what the public utilities commission is going to achieve will have to be achieved lawfully and legally within the law and within the franchises. The question of the amounts paid under the franchises and also the contents and the conditions of those franchises we have inherited them and they have been in place obviously for quite a while.

The position seems to me that while this public utilities commission may help, it is not the final and ultimate solution because it will have to work within the law and within the franchise. Therefore, it is not right in my view to lead this House or the public to believe that merely by putting in a commission there will be an immediate reduction in rates. That is not how it works.

Mr. Speaker, the only way, I see it, that you can have a reduction—

POINT OF CLARIFICATION

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, on a point of clarification, sir.

The Speaker: Is it a point of order or clarification?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Clarification, I said, sir.

The Speaker: Would the minister give way?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I would rather just finish if I may, sir.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, then on a point of order.

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The point of order is whether directly or by innuendo from what I just understood the minister is inferring that someone here said today that if a public utilities commission is established that definitely rates would go down. I have not heard anyone say that, sir, and that is my understanding. You will have to make the judgment. But I want to make it very clear that I heard no one say that and neither did I, by inference or anything else. That is what he just said, sir.

The Speaker: I think I listened as attentively as I possibly could throughout this whole deliberation, all private member's motions, and I did not get the impression that you all said that, and neither did I get the impression that is what the present member speaking is saying.

He was simply making a statement, the way I understood it, that it is not going to bring the rates down immediately. But I did not hear him say that others had said that.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: But we all know how the minister says what he says. I am not asking for any sympathy or pity but if you get the Hansard and read what the minister said, I am confident that was what was being inferred, sir. I have to leave the judgment to you but I just want to make it very clear if nothing else goes further with this point of order that no one said that and no one was suggesting that. That was my understanding of what the minister was trying to get across, sir.

The Speaker: I do not have the ability to read minds. So it is no good of me pretending that I do, but what I have said is my ruling.

Please continue Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: What has happened in other countries is that there comes a time when the franchise itself is probably getting close to the end of its term. Or in some countries, I believe, there may well have been intentional moves to break the franchise. That is obviously a serious matter but the government while accepting the public utilities commission, I think, needs to point out that the rates fall within the franchises that already exist. It is not a matter that government can just take and say 'reduce this or cut this or do this or that.' Therefore, I do not see the commission, which is going to have to work within the law and the franchise will have or can have the power to just basically reduce the rates. I am trying to be very frank and very analytical on this because it is not simply a matter of saying . . . when two parties are involved you cannot reduce rates from one side. However, we can and we continue to press in whatever areas we can to get an agreed reduction in relation to all of the utilities' rates.

There was talk and it seemed like, speaking generally, blame about the re-balancing with Cable & Wireless and inferences as to whether the government had dealt with this. That re-balancing, believe me, if the government had agreed to that then we would not just be sitting here today talking about a public utilities commission because some rates would go down and some would go up. And believe me this House could not, nor would the government tolerate the local rates that were going up.

I have seen no solution put forward to what seems to me to be the real problem. The 15% referred to is worked on a formula that is in the franchise. If that should be reduced then it has to be done one way or the other. Either there is going to be an agreement between CUC and government to reduce it, or, if it comes to that—and that is always a very serious course to take—then it is up to this House to legislate and break it, and obviously then to pay for it.

So, it is not an easy one and I understand the frustration of members of the House, and Government has done everything we can. In fact, this House can do as much as government can in relation to the franchise. In fact, it can do a lot more—this is the legislative body in here. If someone is really minded to do something then legislate, but is that the answer? Sir, what I am saying is that we have done as much as we can, as much as other governments have done. We are not the first government faced with this and we have franchises that we have inherited, as other governments, because some of these go a long way back.

The answer has to be that we continue negotiating as best we can unless things become difficult and intolerable and then perhaps a different approach will have to be taken. But to try to put the blame solely on government at this stage is in my view not justified. It is not right. Come up with a solution! If someone wants to blame someone then what is the better solution! I have seen no solution put forward in this House, Mr. Speaker, none at all. Talk is cheap. We are sitting in here burning lights at night, talking and talking and talking, and that is not a solution. Talk never is; action is needed.

However I believe it would be good to do a public utilities commission. Government fully supports this. The Minister said he supports this so it is good and I commend the mover and the seconder in bringing the motion. We support the motion and we can assure them that when Government supports a motion it will do everything it can to carry out and to put in place the public utilities commission.

So, once again, this is good but I think a lot of what has been debated in here and what the public is feeling with high rates—good quality but high cost—I believe that has to be dealt with in another way. I am sure we will continue to do everything within our power to assist with having the lowest rates possible for the public.

Once again we are happy to accept this motion.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak?

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: The mover of the motion said that he had brought motions to establish a public utilities commission on more than one occasion and the motion is back before this House again.

The government is asking what would a public utilities commission do to regulate rates of water, telephone and electricity in the Cayman Islands. Now my understanding in fact is that there is a contractual agreement with regards the rates which are determined as a result of the expenditure and the desire on the part of the investor to make a certain percentage of profit each year on that investment.

I think that the question of rates could—(and I think it is the general frustration of consumers who are concerned with the result of these high prices) it could probably best be resolved by introducing competition. At some point, we are going to have to recognise that although contracts are legally binding that when we made these agreements or when these particular utility companies started their operation in the Cayman Islands we were at a different stage of development and consumer consciousness was at a different stage.

So, for the utility companies to think that there can be peace and harmony among themselves, the government and the consumers, with this type of uneven and unfair relationship is ludicrous. Now, it is okay that the utility companies can tolerate the blame simply because they are not running for office anyway. They are making their profits and they are quite satisfied and will insist upon making their increases when they feel it is suitable for them to do so and argue that it is in line with the agreement which they have with the government. What about the agreement that they should have with the consumer? Is there any thought to that?

It is one thing to come into a country and allow the government of a country to give you a licence as a foreign entity to operate in that country, but it is another thing when the government of that country actually uses its power over the people to force them to comply with what could be termed, as time goes on, as abuses by those utility companies.

So as a civilian out there using their product, I have some type of contractual relationship with that entity or should have some say in what takes place. It should not be just a result of government regulations. So, I don't think that a public utilities commission is needed at this time but a consumer organisation that would have the ability to mobilise consumers in such a way as to use consumer unity and collective interest to cause utility companies to become more conscious of the needs of the consumers from the point of view of prices.

I am saying that because although the government might find it difficult to break a contract with the utility companies, we, the consumers can break the contract with the utility companies and thereby cause them to lose profits until such time as they decide to sit down with the consumers and negotiate different terms.

You see, what the Chamber of Commerce has done—what Mr. William Peguero has initiated—2000 signatures that they presented to the government which is the beginning of a movement by the consumers to exert consumer pressure on Cable & Wireless to cause them to allow competition to be introduced in order to allow the consumer to have a relief.

The Speaker: Could I interrupt you for just a moment?

I am not at all disagreeing with your principle, but I do not think it has a part in the public utilities commission motion. That is something that you would need to bring as a substantive motion.

You are saying that a public utility commission is not what we need and you are then proposing an alternative. That is not the purpose of this private member's motion so I would ask you to desist.

You are talking about a consumer advocate association and they are talking about a public utility commission—two completely different things. Please continue, but desist from using that argument.

The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak? (PAUSE) No other Member wishes to speak does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I was just searching the scriptures because the only thing that the Minister of Education and the Leader of Government Business' lame address reminded me of was the trial of that great apostle St. Paul when before King Agrippa. When Paul laid out his defence, King Agrippa said, "Almost thou persuadest me."

Mr. Speaker, the Leader of Government Business, I don't expect any better from people who are employed and paid well to represent big moneyed interest to take positions other than I have heard outlined here. Do you know what? We are entering a good time when the people whom many of us purport to represent will have the last say. I know one thing—no one but no one, can accuse this member of being in any situation of a conflict of interest now or at any time in my career here as a representative of the people. I am a purist! I was born one; I have lived one; and I will die one! That is why I don't have any law firm!

Some people have a record of consistency in standing in the way of getting relief when relief is needed. Nobody suggested that a public utility function was solely to decrease the rates. Certainly, I have vivid recall. I do not remember dwelling upon that. I read out the functions of the utilities commission and they were numerous. And I did not read out anything about the utilities commission achieving any reduction in the rates. I certainly did not advocate any breaking of any contract but I am tired because I recall every time this motion has come here, and I was just reading that back from 1989, this spurious argument and excuse about not being able to do anything because of some franchise agreement and somebody blames this government and the last government and said that they inherited the situation.

Well, Mr. Speaker, I pose the question, if you are born with an impediment that can be cured, are you going to live with it and say, 'Well, I was born with it so I will have to tolerate it' or are you going to seek relief? It is a spurious argument that does not hold water to say that nothing can be done because you inherited the situation. If you are born into poverty, are you a Calvinist that you are not going to improve your lot in life? And, are you going to say, 'Well, this is my destiny, I have to remain poor?' That is how we can transpose that argument, Mr. Speaker; it does not hold water. I am not asking the Government to do anything impossible but what can you expect from people whose business is representing 'big moneyed' interest?

I find it enlightening to go back to the 1993 debate, reading from the 1993 Official Hansard Report, Volume II. This is something that the present Minister of Health remarked as a result of his research when we debated this in 1993. I am going to read it because it bears repetition and it is instructive.

The Speaker: Could you give me the page?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, sir, page 697.

That honourable member (now Minister of Health) said that in his research he had found out, I am quoting: "Madam Speaker, I did a little bit of background research on this in regards to the Public Utilities Commission. Most of my research dealt with that of the power companies. It is said that in the United States—and this is where most of my background information came from—the electric power which is the combined function of generating, transmitting and distributing electric energy, this is the largest industry in the United States and they have found ways in which to regulate some of these companies.”

And he went on, “Though the services of public utilities are considered essential or necessary, the public does not regard them as so necessary that they should be provided irrespective of cost or the consumers’ ability to pay for them. In the United States the desire to enforce competition among the utilities industries and the establishment of these commissions came about to make sure that there was competition, and that the public was protected. This led to the enactment of the Sherman Anti Trust Act in 1890, and further to that in 1914, the Federal Trade Commission.

“The tendency for many business to practice price discrimination caused passage of a law limiting such discrimination as early as 1914 . . .” He talked about the Clayton Act and some other acts.

Mr. Speaker, what I want to say is, I want to remind the minister, the Leader of Government Business, that they had and have reason to do something because they accepted a motion called the Fair Competition Act and the Fair Trading Competition, and if they had done something about that the Fair Trading Competition itself would have been able to regulate and do something in this regard now.

So, let’s not give the lame duck excuse about ‘they inherited this and they inherited that.’ Do you know what they inherited? The will not to do anything that they figure would be inimical to the interest that some of them serve.

Hypocrites and hypocrisy have no place in a democratic forum. I want to remind the minister that if he and the others associated with him had the will, something could be done without his insinuation about trespassing and making it look like it is the intention of people to commit an illegal act by breaking the franchise. He can crane his neck, Mr. Speaker. He can crane his neck because I am full of righteous indignation now!

[Inaudible comment]

Mr. Roy Bodden: No! You are the government! You represent them. You tell them how to get out of it. You do that!

Mr. Speaker, that member had better not trifle with me now. People can accuse Roy Bodden of being many things, but they cannot accuse him of being in a conflict of interest situation and being a hypocrite. I am tired of this dodging charade!

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I would hope that the honourable member is not implying the hypocrite and the conflict of interest to me. I would just like that clarified.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, that was not any worse than what he said before.

The Speaker: He was skirting around it but I cannot say that he did and I cannot read minds. Please continue. I would ask the honourable member to let us wind this up without too much more—

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I only want to say that if the cap fits him he can wear it!

Mr. Speaker, I believe that the time has come [when] public outcry, overwhelming evidence, the Chamber of Commerce and the sentiments of a majority of honourable members in here lead me to the conclusion that there has now to be some sensible examination; some sensible discussion, discourse and pow-wow as to the way forward.

I am of the opinion that even the utilities companies are not averse to this because they would like to maintain their favoured position, and they are sensible enough to know that it is better to yield a little ground than to be intransigent and lose everything when the terms of the franchises are up. It is only the government, Mr. Speaker—and I take note that ‘they may.’ They are not going to do anything about it for two reasons: one, they are lame duck and impotent. The second thing is that even if they were not, they are not so minded because I have already heard the bag full of excuses.

Mr. Speaker, we on this side find it important and incumbent now to let the persons straining under this realise that there are those members inside here who agree with them that something has to be done and something should be done. Because we are sensible and understand the fundamental principles of business and we certainly understand the capitalist system, we are not advocating that any illegal practice be entered into. I contend that a utilities commission can still be set up even within the parameters of the current franchise. If the government is so minded, they can create a public utilities commission. So, let the Leader of Government Business and the Minister of Education not cloud the issue by letting anyone believe that what we are asking for is a legal impossibility.

Mr. Speaker, if this is done, the consumers would come away with a sense of fairness and the consumers are reasonable. They will understand that there are certain things that cannot be done. I don’t think any consumer group, or any individual or any collective would advocate any breaking of the franchise or any other illegal act by the government. But I want to say that there are entities who have resorted to that because I have here the Turks and Caicos Weekly News, Volume 14, No. 29 of August 16—23. That is what the government in the Turks and Caicos Islands did; they broke the agreement with Cable & Wireless.

I am not even suggesting that we do it here, but they did it in the Turks and Caicos. And as a result of that now a benefiting for one whole year through services offered by a Canadian-based company free of cost for the next year. According to the newspaper, that could result in a substantial revenue loss for Cable & Wireless in the Turks and Caicos Islands.

Mr. Speaker, it is high time we decide whether we are fish or fowls—whether we want to help the people or we do not wish to help the people.

The public utilities commission would also divulge to the public in a way that is understandable. Many things which are happening now that they cannot understand: the billing systems, for example. You mean to tell me that these utilities companies are getting away with renting items to people when the persons could be placed in a position where they could purchase them outright? All these kinds of things that I am talking about—those are the kinds of things that a fair trading commission and a fair competition act would take care of. So, the minister does not need to think that he can just fool people with the spurious argument and hide behind the fact that we cannot establish a public utilities commission forgetting that the government accepted to do something about the establishment of a fair trading competition and has not done anything about it yet. Why? That is why I cannot believe in their intentions now.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, please.

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The point of order is relevancy. The honourable member has moved on to talking in-depth about a fair trade competition and what is before the House now is in relation to a utilities commission, sir.

The Speaker: I noted that. I had to call that to the attention of a previous speaker. Please desist from going too much further into that because we are discussing public utilities commission.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, the Minister of Education suffers from the Napoleonic syndrome—small man, small mind.

Let me show you the relevance of a fair trading commission in this debate. A fair trading commission is a commission which is responsible to see that certain business practices are carried out with efficacy and to the advantage of the consumer as much as to the advantage of the provider. And, Mr. Speaker, since the United Kingdom has privatised their utilities, they don't have a public utilities commission. They have a fair trading commission for the same reason that they protect the consumers; the utilities companies in Britain are not allowed to rent the meters. The consumers buy their meters and so they are not charged every month for the metre. That is what a fair trade commission does. So, that is the relevance of that to this debate.

The Speaker: I thank you very much for that. I will assure you that I am very familiar with the public utilities commission and also a fair trade commission. I have done considerable research on both.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, it was for the edification of the Leader of Government Business.

The Speaker: But I am still saying that I ask that you desist from going further into that. Let us deal with the public utilities commission. I am fully conversed on how they both work, and the benefits and disadvantages.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I am sure you will understand when I say, I done with that!

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker—

[Interjection & Members' laughter]

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, you know that the Minister for Education when he cannot have his way, he tries to upset and detract people, and you know that you are scoring points on him when he gets up on points of order. But I am on a mission and I won't be diverted from it. As I have said, this is the fourth time now and I hope when I leave it in the government's lap this time, if they don't do something about it, that it could burn a hole in their laps.

Mr. Speaker, I will say this: I expect that when the new government is sworn in the public utilities commission will be one of the things that they have as part of the journey. Indeed, I am assured by the Third Member for West Bay, that it will feature prominently on the agenda.

[Members' interjections & laughter]

Mr. Roy Bodden: So, even being a little tongue-in-cheek, Mr. Speaker, I have every confidence that the time has come for us to consider this. But I really don't have too high an expectation based on the track record of the current government that they are going to do anything about it—for obvious reasons.

Mr. Speaker, I thank you for your tolerance and I apologise if I tried your patience, but it is difficult not to take that position when you have the Minister of Education jumping up like a jack-in-the-box on points of order.

Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 20/00. The resolve section reads as follows: “BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Government consider establishing a Public Utilities Commission to administer and regulate the rates of water, telephones and electricity in the Cayman Islands.”

Item number 2 on today's Order Paper, Reading by the Speaker of Messages and Announcements.

READING BY THE SPEAKER OF MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have apologies from the Honourable Minister of Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture, who is today in Cayman Brac and the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay is sick.

Item number 3 on today's Order Paper, Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. Question number 62 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION 62

NO. 62: Mr. Linford A. Pierson asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Natural Resources to state the policy of the Water Authority in respect to the extension of water pipes to applicants wishing to be connected to the potable water supply system.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The Water Authority's policy with respect to the extension of pipelines to applicants who wish to be connected to the public water supply system is as follows:

The Authority determines whether the extension is required within public roads or within private property. If the extension is within public roads, the Authority makes a determination of whether the extension is financially feasible, based upon the cost of the extension to the Authority and the projected income from the service connection. If the extension is determined to be financially feasible, then work is scheduled and is carried out as early as practically possible. Financial feasibility assessment includes whether the cost of the extension can be afforded within the Authority's annual capital expenditure budget.

If the extension is through private properties, then the applicant is asked to contribute part of the cost of the pipeline extension by paying standard rates for labour, equipment and road reinstatement. Once the applicant has agreed to meet these costs, then the work is scheduled and is carried out as early as practically possible.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries. The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, just to preface what I have to say: It is with the understanding that the Authority is an autonomous body and that the honourable minister has responsibility when it comes to questions, but that the Authority makes its own decisions as an autonomous body.

With that in mind, I wonder if the honourable minister can tell me what the mission statement is of the Water Authority.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The statement is to provide water to the general public and sanitation is also one of the mission statements.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: It seems that the main mission statement of the Water Authority is to provide water to the general public. With that in mind, I wonder if the honourable minister can state whether there are any cases now where a refusal has been made for extension of pipes along public roads leading to private properties.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: We have at least one case where the public area adjoining a private property has been supplied with water and the private part is pending. I am not aware of which one the member is referring to.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, I was seeking to obtain the general policy position from the Authority. While I am on my feet, Mr. Speaker, perhaps the honourable minister could give some thought about the general policy position but at the same time he could state whether the financial feasibility position is something that is a discretion of the Authority or whether there is a policy on how that is applied.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The Authority tries to make sure that the best benefit goes to the greater number of customers and at the same time provides a return on the investment which it applies to the project. This is based on the same overall percentage that the Authority operates on.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: I am basing my supplementaries on what the minister gave me as the mission statement, which is to provide water to the general public. If that is indeed the case, can the honourable minister provide the House with any information in regards to any pending applications now that have been refused on the basis of the applicants not being able to provide the necessary financial support for the laying of these pipes?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: We have at least two individual pending for some time and I would point out that especially one of those is a distance away where the public road ends. It was estimated to cost the Authority a large sum of money if it undertook to do the work all the way and it would take some twenty-one years—based on the rate of return of the Authority—to actually recoup what would have been put into that one.

The Speaker: Do you have a follow-up? The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town has been waiting.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: It is a follow-up.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: It is interesting to hear the figures of twenty-one years based on the expected rate of return. I am sure the honourable member knew that I would follow this up. Perhaps he could tell me whether that is based on the usage of the water by one individual, or whether in arriving at that rate of return over twenty-one years consideration was also given to the fact that there are a number of other households in that same area that could make this rate of return much more feasible for the Water Authority?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Mr. Speaker, I trust that the member and I are speaking about the same road because the one that we came up with the number of years on was based on a normal rate growth on that road to come out with these figures.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town, follow-up.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, please indulge me because you know I don't take advantage of the situation but I need to get this.

Mr. Speaker, it is interesting to know then what data the rate of return is based on. I would think that it would have to be based on the return of revenue to the Authority and that would then be taken over the capital expenditure of laying the pipe, thus arriving at the rate of return. And if there are a number of other individuals who would be providing revenue, perhaps the minister could then say whether laying the pipe in this particular area could improve that position for the Water Authority. That is the point I am trying to get across.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Mr. Speaker, the figures which the Authority came up with in this case are based on the number of individuals—two I think—presently on the track of road that would need to be connected. Based on what the Authority has experienced and the time frame for hook-ups in the area is what we came up with for this. However, if the Authority was to undertake this, we could not do it this year because we do not have anything in the Budget for it.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23 (7) AND (8)

The Speaker: Before asking the next supplementary would you move a motion for the suspension of Standing Order 23(7) and (8) in order that we can continue Question Time?

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Yes, Mr. Speaker, I so move.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question that Standing Order 23 (7) and (8) in order that Question Time can continue beyond 11.00 AM . . . can I have a seconder, please?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Seconded, sir.

The Speaker: I will now put the question. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Question Time continues.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) & (8) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you for your indulgence, Mr. Speaker.

Based on the answer I received from the honourable minister it seems that consideration could be given if sufficient funds were in the budget. I wonder if the Honourable Minister can say—because this matter has been pending for so long—whether this matter could be included in the request of supplementary expenditures coming up in the next meeting of Finance Committee even if it has to be a loan made to the Water Authority to complete these projects.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: I would not have a problem with trying to expedite this. It has been pending for a while and I think it is left to us to try to do what we can to make it as speedily as possible so I will take whatever action necessary to try to have it expedited.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Having received representation from constituents who reside on the Frenchman's Drive in Breakers and also Belford Estates where a new subdivision is now under construction, could the honourable minister say what is the position with city water being piped to these areas?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Mr. Speaker, we are faced with the same problem. Apparently, the person who developed that subdivision in question died before the roads were turned over to government so the roads remain private. The Authority has looked at it and based on what has been done in the past it has been hesitant to proceed. However, the matter has been before the Authority and we will have a look at it again and whatever can be done, we will try to do, as we are aware of that situation.

The Speaker: Do you have a follow-up?
The Second Elected Member for Bodden.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: I am going to ask the honourable minister to please give the same consideration to this area as the Third Elected Member from George Town did with his area. Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: I have taken note.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the minister tell the House if the position he outlined is the same position with regards to servicing some of the Midland Acres? Just yesterday I received requests from some residents in that area for piped water and complaints of their inability to access piped water.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: It is the same situation with some private roads. To refer back, I think, it was in the early 90s that the Authority tried going into private property and took a lot of criticism for it. For this reason, the policy was put in place.

Well, it seems as if the Authority will have to once again examine that policy and endeavour to supply the needs as much as possible where needed.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, I thank the honourable minister for that undertaking. I would also ask the honourable minister if he could give us the undertaking that the policy in being reviewed will extend to private property as well as public roads on the basis mainly of the mission statement, which is to provide water to the general public, whether they are on a public or private road.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Mr. Speaker, I have taken note of what the member has said. The Authority will no doubt try its best to work within what is laid down in the law, and of course what is needed, because the member is aware that in the law it states that the Authority will actually supply where it's feasible.

I will give the undertaking to have this policy reviewed.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, I was hoping that we would have gotten something a little more that we could hold on to. I will turn this into a question, Mr. Speaker. The position being taken by the Water Authority is now based on their justification that this is being done under law. This is why I am wondering whether the honourable minister could give the undertaking that, yes, the Water Authority would review this policy with a view to providing water to the general public in the same way that water was provided into areas where it was not financially feasible such as East End, Cayman Brac and other places that needed water but where this was not financially feasible at the time but very necessary. I wonder if the honourable minister could give that undertaking.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Mr. Speaker, that is what I said at the end of my answer last. I will give the undertaking to have the policy reviewed and we will do whatever possible to try to assist in these areas.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

If not, we will move on to question number 63. I know that an apology for absence has been received from the Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture, but I don't know if anyone has been asked to move the questions for her, or request a postponement.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

DEFERRAL OF QUESTIONS 63, 64 & 65

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Mr. Speaker, I would ask that the questions set down for the Minister for Community Affairs be deferred until a later sitting.

The Speaker: The motion is that questions 63, 64 and 65 directed to the Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture be postponed to a later sitting. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Questions 63, 64 and 65 have been deferred to a later sitting.

AGREED: QUESTIONS 63, 64 AND 65 DEFERRED TO A LATER SITTING.

The Speaker: Moving on to Question number 66 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 66

NO. 66: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation and Planning how many Caymanian teachers have left the public service since January 1999?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Eight Caymanian teachers have left the Public Service since January 1999. This figure of eight includes two retirees who completed their service in 1999 and 2000, respectively.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state of the six remaining, what were the reasons for their departure from the service?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: If I may be permitted not to give the names but I would just say: One from George Hicks High School requested a one-year leave of absence effective 1st September this year in order to pursue a course of study leading to a diploma in Theology.

One from George Town Primary had previously requested a leave of absence to deal with family matters effective 14 February - 1 July 2000 and that person resigned on 19 July 2000.

Another one from George Town Primary requested a one-year leave of absence effective 1st July 2000 as she got married and relocated to the country of her spouse.

Another from George Town Primary resigned on the 1st September 2000.

A teacher from Lighthouse School requested a leave of absence effective 1st September 2000 to go to the U.S.A. to deal with domestic and personal issues.

One teacher from Red Bay Primary School requested a leave of absence for the period, 7th January until 30th June 2000 then requested a further extension until January 2001 in order to deal with personal family concerns.

So, it appears from the six that were there, the reasons, with the exception of one, have been mainly family matters, leave of absence, this sort of thing.

The Speaker: Supplementary, the First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: So, of the explanations that were given regarding the six departures, can the minister (because he has the information in front of him) say if any of them have indicated that they will return to the service after a period of time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: So far, two have indicated that they would return. One of them is conditional that the spouse could find work. I should mention, the one where I gave no reason, she has left to become a missionary and I guess will probably not be returning.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Anticipating that, resource staff will have figured that this might be coming, I will risk asking the question: can the minister state how many Caymanian staff are in the service at present out of the total complement?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I don't have a specific figure and my instructions are that it would be better not to give an estimate on that so I would undertake, sir, to get an accurate figure for it.

I would just like to mention though that I hope the member appreciates that I have given as much as I can on the reasons for this. I just don't have that at present and I will get it to him.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, the honourable minister does not have to worry that I misinterpret him not being able to give certain information this time. Could the minister, while he is giving that answer in writing, also get the information about the total complement and if there are any posts that are not filled at present? Also, could an amount be given of how many Caymanians are now being trained to come into the service as trained teachers?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I can get that information. I would just like to repeat again that any Caymanian wanting to be a teacher is given the highest priority. Teachers and nurses are on the top of the list with the Education Council, as you, Mr. Speaker, know.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, just a final supplementary. Could the minister undertake to have that information available before this meeting is over as this is the final one?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, sir.

The Speaker: Any further supplementaries?

If not, we will move on to question number 67 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 67

NO. 67: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation and Planning to give an update on the proposed new airstrip in Little Cayman.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: A tribunal hearing held on Cayman Brac on 23 May 2000, dismissed the objection filed by Mrs. Janet Walker to the Development Control Board's planning permission for the proposed airport development project. Preparations are now being made to have the site cleared. Prior to commencing any physical clearing of the site, extensive survey works must be carried out to establish the boundaries of the Crown and other adjacent properties. Instructions have been given to the Lands and Survey Department to organise and co-ordinate the survey works. It is estimated that the survey works will take approximately six to eight weeks. Upon its completion, works to clear the site will commence.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries. The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: There are a series of short supplementaries so I crave your indulgence, sir, as some of us are not quite up to speed with all of the information regarding this, so if I may continue.

First of all, understanding that this project is one that will be under the umbrella of the Civil Aviation Authority and not directly handled by the government, can the minister state—bearing in mind what has been given by the answer, where certain works are anticipated to begin—whether the Civil Aviation Authority has final costings of the project? And, what body is it that authorises such a project to move on? Is it Executive Council or who is it? And if they have costings on the project what type of financing has been arranged thus far?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: This follows the course of the civil service type of contract. It has to go to the Central Tenders Committee and they will award the contract. They will also require to ensure that once they do an award that the finance is in place, or the guarantee from here, or where the guarantee is not needed then basically once the Central Tenders Committee awards it, the Civil Aviation Authority would then move on without the guarantee if the financing can be put in that way.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, as I suspected I will not try to ask more than one because it is going to get muddled. So, if you don't mind, sir, I will simply ask one at a time. Can the minister state who authorises as a matter of policy for the Civil Aviation Authority whether the project should go ahead or not—not the procedures that follow—the policy decision as to whether the project is a go or not?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The question of the contract going ahead would have to come from the Central Tenders Committee on the award, the Civil Aviation Authority—

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, if I may interrupt the minister—because he is certainly not understanding what I am asking. Perhaps I have not been very clear—if I may?

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town, please explain.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, sir. I am not asking the process through the tenders committee as the minister has explained. If I am going to build my house, the house is mine and I am the one who decides what I am going to do when I check out all the feasibility, whether I can get financing, or whether I have enough money or whether I can afford all of that. That's the only way I can explain it, sir.

I want to know who decides on whether the airstrip should be built in Little Cayman or not.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, this project would be approved by the Civil Aviation Authority. What I was just trying to find out because of the stage it is in, is, whether it did in fact come to Executive Council some time back or not. But it is obviously something that the government should know about. I will have to find out about that aspect of it, but possibly until we have a clearer idea of costs. At present we don't know cost. I think what happens then is once Civil Aviation Authority approves it then it would go to Executive Council. But it has not reached that stage.

[Inaudible comment]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: We only have preliminary estimates. We don't really have final costs on this.

The Speaker: Do you have a follow-up?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: As I said, Mr. Speaker, because I knew this was going to be like this that is why I crave your indulgence from the beginning. I don't have a problem if anyone else wants to ask anything, but I have to do it this way to get what I want to understand. I know of no other way, sir.

The minister has said that he guesses that Executive Council should know about the project. And, I am taking the position right now that he is doing that because he is hedging. I am going to ask him directly, sir, because he is a member of Executive Council and he would be the member bringing the paper to Executive Council as the minister responsible.

I am asking the minister on whose authority is the project going ahead? The answer to the question states the various steps that are going to take place—it has gone to planning, there has been an appeal. I am not deciding on the rights and wrongs. I want to understand and I am asking the minister now, who authorised that the project should go ahead. Someone must have, for it to be at this stage.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I am not really hedging but this project has been up and down for so long that I could not remember exactly. I am going to give you the answer now because it took a while for the director to find it.

The site went to Executive Council sometime in September of 1997. That is how far back this has been going and we approved that site. When we applied for planning permission there were objections and only recently have they been cleared up. I apologise for not remembering back to 1997, but I am afraid that as I get older my memory is not as good as it used to be when I was younger.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Okay, the minister has just said that the site went to Council in September of 1997 and was approved. Is it fair to assume that if Executive Council approved the site that they also gave the project their blessings? You cannot separate one from the other; you cannot approve a site and expect the site to just stay there empty.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, subject to actually looking at that minute I would say, yes, Executive Council has approved the project and the site. The paper sets out some estimates and that sort of thing, but obviously we don't have any final costing.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank God we are over that hump now. We understand that the project has been approved.

Now, in the answer it explains the objection process and tribunal hearings and so on. The answer goes on to say that approval has now been granted because the objection and the appeal have been discarded.

It goes on to say, "Preparations are now being made to have the site cleared. Prior to commencing any physical clearing of the site, extensive survey works must be carried out to establish the boundaries of the Crown and other adjacent properties. Instructions have been given to the Lands and Survey Department to organise and co-ordinate the survey works. It is estimated that the survey works will take approximately six to eight weeks. Upon its completion, works to clear the site will commence."

We now understand to the point where the site will be cleared. Can the minister explain to us what happens after that?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, after that, engineers will have to come in and do the specifications and whatever the technical side is for the project.

After that a project document would be prepared and that would then go for tender through the Central Tenders Committee. We have chosen throughout to follow the civil service process on it. So, it is not going directly to the Civil Aviation Authority to award the contract. The Central Tenders Committee will do that, sir.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I think we are nearing the end now. Understanding all of that and that government has basically given the project its blessing, is it fair to assume then that once the process that the minister has just explained takes place, that the financing and all of the other arrangements are simply a matter of time to get organised because it will happen?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I cannot say that it will happen. In the normal course of things once the tender is out and they have a specific amount, the Director of the Civil Aviation Authority would then have to make arrangements on the financing, either from within the Civil Aviation Authority or through external sources through a bank. Is that the line—I am not certain what the member is getting at, but once he (the director) knows the amount he will then make arrangements to have it financed. The Tenders Committee will have to be satisfied that the guarantee is in place, or the financing of whatever is needed, otherwise they will not award the contract.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Let me rephrase to make it specific. Assuming that the Civil Aviation Authority has the ability—which obviously it believes it has otherwise it would not go on with it this far. Assuming the Civil Aviation Authority has the ability and the wherewithal to meet all the requirements to go through the due process and have everything arranged, can the minister say if there is anything then that would prevent the project from happening?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: No sir, I don't see anything that would prevent the project from happening. I mean we have the planning approval now. Once the contract is in place and the finance is in place it should move ahead, I would think.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Before I tempt you too much I think I am right there now.

So, is it safe comment to say then that the government has given this project its blessing and that the Civil Aviation Authority is in the process of going through the various stages that are absolutely necessary to bring the project to the point of being tendered and a contract being awarded? Once the tenders are received and financing is secured, a contract will be awarded and there will be a new airstrip in Little Cayman.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Why must you always think that I have [inaudible completion of comment]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: [Laughingly, in response to comment] That is an opinion but if the member would like my opinion on it, yes, that seems to be a fair assumption. I don't foresee anything unless the member knows something I don't know. But yes sir, I would think it will be done there.

Let me say, sir, that the thing that had to be looked at by the director of the Civil Aviation and the Civil Aviation Authority and the government has really been that this airport has to be upgraded to bring it in line with certain international air transport association and other international standards, and also the safety requirements for international airports.

Also to say, sir, that the airport will be about the same length as the present one and will take light aircraft. Cayman Airways jet and that sort of thing cannot go in there, it will be a 3000-foot strip. It will have planes of substantially the same size, but it is impossible for the big jets to go in there.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town, last supplementary.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state once this new airstrip is completed whether the government would seek to continue to use the existing one for any purpose whatsoever, or whether Civil Aviation Authority and all of the other agencies will simply relocate and there will be no need for the use of that existing airstrip.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, that present airstrip is privately owned now, and once the other airstrip is completed then I would think there should be no need for it. I guess, if they wish, they may; I don't really know. It is better for me not to give an opinion, but it is their land, their airstrip and I guess it is up to them what they wish to do with it.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: [Inaudible comment]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: No, no, that's right. Well, I mean Government will be using its own airstrip for whatever it needs to do.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning. Moving on to Item number 4 on today's Order Paper, Other Business, Private Members' Motions, Private Member's Motion No. 21/00, Establishment of a Student Summer Employment Agency to be moved by the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

OTHER BUSINESS

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 21/00

ESTABLISHMENT OF A STUDENT SUMMER EMPLOYMENT AGENCY

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I respectfully beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 21/00 entitled Establishment of a Student Summer Employment Agency standing in my name, which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS the number of students resident in the Cayman Islands who continue to seek Tertiary education is increasing;

"AND WHEREAS these students look forward to being gainfully employed during their holidays;

"AND WHEREAS there is now no co-ordinated or organised system whereby students seeking such employment can be systematically placed;

"AND WHEREAS many students find it difficult to obtain meaningful holiday employment at present;

"BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Government establish a Student Employment Agency which will organise, co-ordinate, structure and place students in meaningful jobs during their holidays;

"AND BE IT NOW FURTHER RESOLVED THAT the Government explores the feasibility of establishing such an agency as a joint venture with the private sector, taking advantage of the resources available from the Chamber of Commerce and the Overseas Students Association."

The Speaker: Do we have a seconder?

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, Mr. Speaker, I rise to second that motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 21/00, Establishment of a Student Summer Employment Agency has been duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak to it?

The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I feel kind of argumentative but I am not going to be obnoxious so I want to begin by asking honourable members to take note of this: The Minister for Education in an attempt to preserve his position and consolidate himself at times like these where he may be under threat of survival is quick to get up and say that all we like to do is level criticism and not offer solutions.

And, I am going to quote him, "talk is cheap," he says. Mr. Speaker that is true and that is relevant and appropriate even in his case, talk is cheap. I want to note that this is a constructive attempt to improve a situation which can take improvement and also to send a graphic and cryptic message that the Minister of Education does not have any monopoly on creating solutions to this and any other problems in this country.

Now, if that member wishes to retort, I will give way, otherwise I am going on.

The Speaker: Please continue.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I believe that this is a constructive effort to provide a service which I think will be appreciated and prior to formulating this, the seconder and I . . .

Mr. Speaker, I wonder what kind of business this is, I am not talking to an empty parliament, sir. Mr. Speaker, it is a mark of disrespect to the honourable member speaking that he has to speak to an empty Chamber. I draw to the Chair's attention the fact that the House does not have a quorum.

The Speaker: I thank you. Sergeant-at-Arms, please summons a quorum.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I would just like you to note that I am here.

The Speaker: I must remind honourable members I can only wait five minutes and then I must adjourn the House. Please continue Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. At least, I stopped the Minister of Education from leaving.

[Inaudible comments and laughter]

Mr. Roy Bodden: Pardon? I am only answering for myself. See my colleague here?

Mr. Speaker, thank you, sir. I believe that this attempt to set up a summer employment agency for students is necessary. It is based on the fact, as I was saying, that the seconder and I thought that it could improve the system—which now we have to be grateful that our students find employment but operate on a rather informal and ad hoc basis.

In researching this motion we found out that it is not, and will not be unique in the Cayman Islands to have such an agency established. Indeed, in other jurisdictions, in Canada, for example, they have what is called the Federal Student Work Experience programme, which I won't go into because I would not want to steal thunder from the seconder. And in other countries as well, New Zealand and some of the other developed countries they have these organisations.

Let me say that the core of this programme I would see as being some form of computerised inventory or data bank which has as its base the biographical information regarding those students who would seek to take advantage of such an agency. The advantage this would have over what currently happens is that students would be able to be placed not just in any job, but a job in direct relation to their course of study and discipline if they so desire. For example, students studying finance, business administration and accounting would be able to be placed in firms where they would gain experience relative to those disciplines.

So what would happen would be this: Most students who attend colleges and universities now have access to computers. There would be a central inventory or data bank in the Cayman Islands and we requested—the Resolve says that the venture be set up as a joint venture between the private sector and the government.

Mr. Speaker, I called the Chamber of Commerce and the Manager, Mr. Will Pineau, told me that they would be happy to lend assistance bearing in mind that they have contacts. Many businesses in the private sector are members of the Chamber of Commerce.

My colleague, the seconder, also reminded me that another important facet in this would have to be the Overseas Students' Association which will have a data bank and have contact with students studying overseas.

So, as I see it, the ideal situation would be to set up this central inventory or data bank somewhere within the Department of Education—the department rather than the ministry—because I think it is more eminently equipped to deal with this kind of thing rather than the ministry. Perhaps, it could emanate out of the office of the Secretary to the Education Council, or out of the Education Council's office. It would probably not need any additional complement, but if it does, it would probably not need any more than one person. We are not talking about any kind of heavy expenditure with a whole pool of people: only one person.

So, what would happen as we envisage it, would be that these students would send in the relevant biographical information to this inventory or data bank: name, age, college at which they are studying, area in which they are majoring and specialising, and of course times that they would be expecting to be in the Cayman Islands. They could include, although it would not be absolutely necessary, some ideas about what kind of work experience they see as complementing their course of study. And for ease of placement, some references such as a professor under whom they studied closely, or some other person who could attest to their characters and abilities.

So, this information would be fed into the inventory or data bank and there would have to be some ground rules. One obvious ground rule may be that first come, first served. That means that if your application is in early you stand a better chance of being placed early. And then we would have the system where those people who are doing courses and degrees relative to the public service, for example: human resources, public management, public policy, and public administration could probably be placed within the government service, the Glass House.

People who are doing teaching would be similarly placed either in the Education Department (if they are doing administration or something), or depending on what time they come, if schools are out, then they could probably be doing some kind of ancillary or affiliated work within the Education Department.

So that there would be this information, there would be a website. Students could access the website themselves, e-mail address, and they could keep almost in daily contact, if necessary, with this department. I would like to see it operated as a section of the Education Department rather than this particular thing being handled by the private sector.

Here is how the private sector would fit into it: The various entities in the private sector could make known to the Education Department and this inventory and data bank how many positions they would have available for the summer. For example, Deloitte and Touche may say, 'Well, for the next summer we would see that we could take on ten students in these categories'. KPMG might say 'We can take five'. Maples and Calder, for example, 'Yes, we could take eight'. That information would then be fed into the central inventory or data bank. These private sector entities would not have to deal with the students directly because they may say, 'Well, we probably don't have the time'. The central inventory or data bank operated by the Education Department would place the students—'Yes, Mr. Roy Bodden, we are sending you to Maples and Calder. You are supposed to start on June 15th, you will be working in this department and you should get in contact with Mr. Kurt Tibbetts. This is his telephone number. Please confirm with us if you are able to take up this appointment as we have proposed.'

It would be set out that way so that it would be a minimum of inconvenience to the student who may be busy doing exams or preparing for his return home. And also a minimum of inconvenience to the firm in the private sector possibly saying that they are too busy to keep tracking students and they have no time to be dialoguing with people, pampering people and catering to their tastes.

Users would have to understand that it is a pretty much take it or leave it. In other words, 'Well, I don't like that person. I want to go somewhere else.' Once you are placed there it would have to be the most convincing or extenuating of circumstances which would afford you the opportunity of choosing. Mr. Speaker, I envisage that this, if it is organised properly, is going to be very popular indeed.

So, people would have to understand that, first of all, it is not a question of choice because this is not now settling in for a career thing. This is just temporary holiday. So, the primary objective would be to provide experience and at the same time afford students the opportunity to earn some income that could help them when they return to their campuses.

I don't want to convey any impression that they would have a choice of ten different places. That would be good if that could be the ideal but it may not work that way. It may be so tight that you may not have a choice easily. Certainly, considerations would be given to preferences, but we may not be able to entertain three and four choices.

Now, in Canada and in other jurisdictions there is even a base rate and wage scale. I don't know how sophisticated we choose to get, Mr. Speaker. That is for the people who set the programme up. I am merely giving some ideas. But certainly one would expect that since one of the objectives is for the student to earn some money in order to take back to help tide them over expenses when they return to college, that they would be paid an attractive wage or salary.

That could be based a) upon the level of studies they have reached. For example: it could be logically expected that someone in his final year would be earning a little bit more than someone in the freshman year. And, someone who is a graduate student working on a masters degree or a doctorate degree would certainly be expected to earn more than someone who is just on the verge of completing a bachelor's. Then when you get into areas of professionalism, for example: engineering, law or accounting, then it could be structured accordingly. There would certainly be a base rate which in and of itself would provide some attraction.

Now, it is of critical importance because the second order also brought to my attention that in this pool we would also like to include students who attend, for example, the Community College of the Cayman Islands and the International College of the Cayman Islands—the local institutions. We would not wish to discriminate. So, I want to make that clear from the outset that we would hope that we could include that.

That is how we see it being set up. The students as I have said would be able to deal directly and have an established website with this inventory and data bank. Once registered, the onus would then be upon the student if there were any changes. For example, one may have changed the discipline, the area of study—or one may have changed his major, as they say on the college campus. The student would be responsible for informing the inventory or the data bank of this significant change and the necessary alterations and adjustments could be made.

We envisaged that the placements could be made so that the students knew before departing the various campuses, or before school closed for the various holidays, exactly where they would be going and for how long. They could calculate what their earning power would be for that period and this would enable them to make the budgetary adjustments and calculations that are of critical necessity to students.

Now, Mr. Speaker, in the long term an obvious and added advantage would be to those persons who do so well that they impress their employers; they would be in direct line for permanent placing when they have finished their courses of study. So, that this is not only beneficial in the short term, but is adequate and affords glorious opportunities for persons who are conscientious to earn the respect and impress the persons with whom they work of their abilities and maturity to acquire permanent employment once they are finished. So, there are both short-term and long-term positive factors in this system.

I underscore that point because I want to come back to something, which I hold that we should be thinking about and moving towards. That is, we should now be getting away from this system of requiring every student who goes away on a government scholarship to be bonded to come back to work with the government.

So, I want to say to the honourable house that this system that we have proposed here serves a multiplicity of purposes. If it works well, it will enable us to gain some kind of empirical evidence to have some kind of measurable and quantitative elements of whether it is a step in the right direction to remove the requirement of students accessing government scholarships, coming back bloating the civil service even when they would desire to work in the private sector, or for themselves, for that matter. So, as simple as it is, this employment agency would be serving a multiplicity of purposes.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I want to say something else that I think is of importance. The inventory or the data bank would not have any deadline for applying for applicants, for receiving applications other than students would have to understand from the beginning that it is a first come, first serve; there would be no deadlines. I think that deadlines in this case would not work well. We don't want anything that is going to create, a backlog, or any kind of crisis. The only caveat is that you have to realise, Look, if you want a job for the summer it would be advisable not to wait until that particular summer you want the job, to apply for the job. The quicker you get your information in the data bank and register, the better it would be.

Mr. Speaker, programmes are available so that the computer can be set up to automatically let you know for example: after four years Roy Bodden's name would fall away. So that if there were any extenuating circumstances that my name would have to stay on beyond that, then I would have to re-register.

That in itself is good because it may be that someone has completed a certain degree and gone on to graduate studies and so in that case you would have to re-register, or that someone has fallen away because he has graduated and moved into permanent employment. That is how you would create space and be able to know how many students you could easily service; that is how you would gauge the success of the programme and assess your ability to manage at a level which was efficient.

I see this, Mr. Speaker, as also helping us in Cayman; it could be used as a source of reference for the Public Service Commission when they receive applications from persons wanting to work in the public service. If someone finishes and applies to the Public Service, he has an immediate reference in this inventory or data bank. Similarly too, it could be a good source of reference for those persons who want to work in the private sector—Yes, this person was registered here for three years. He demonstrated stable and mature qualities. That alone to come up through this employment agency would be a plus.

Mr. Speaker, the Chamber of Commerce could play a role. I would envisage them organising the private side of it. The Chamber of Commerce could say, Yes, we have fifteen members who are willing. We will contact them. These are the names of the firms. These are the places they would make available and these are the scales in which they would pay.

The Chamber of Commerce would be responsible for getting the information from the private sector from those of their members, and would give that information in block to the data bank or the inventory so that all the Education Department data bank would have to be worried about is that of the government sector. They would then contact the various ministries and departments in government and collect from the government side. The Chamber of Commerce would collect from the private sector side and send that over to the inventory or data-bank.

The Overseas Students' Association would contact their members and ensure that they know that this service is available; ensure that they have the address of the website; ensure that they update the website and even help to co-ordinate the affairs. Perhaps, they can send at peak times some volunteers to the inventory or the data bank. For example, around the end of May or the beginning of June when students are returning from college, the Overseas Students' Association with their contacts can send someone to help the inventory or the data bank place the students and follow up on them.

I want to say also that the work of the inventory or the data bank is not finished once the student is placed in employment. What they would then have to do is to ensure, Yes, we have Roy Bodden working over in Firm X. We are going to ensure that everything is alright. Has he settled in? Is he doing well? And at the end of the summer we request a report from them, Well, was Roy Bodden late? Was he efficient? Was he able to perform the task given? It is necessary to keep those kinds of records so that you will say, Boy, Roy, next summer you have some things to work on. You have to shape up. You were slow. You did not fit into the organisation. You came late. These are things that you need to work on so that the data bank itself has these records. So it is a comprehensive kind of system.

Mr. Speaker, what got me really thinking about this is that listening to debates inside here and being cognisant of the strides and improvements we are making in education . . . because, Mr. Speaker, in spite of my differences with the minister, we are making some improvements. I realise that it is incumbent and it behoves all of us to add whatever we can add to help the system work efficiently. Because that is our responsibility and obligation, and there are those of us who look forward to doing that. We can take all the one-upmanship and brinkmanship that the minister sometimes indulges in and plays, and even the sympathy that he keeps looking. But all of us have an obligation to help him to do his job better. I want him to realise and to respect that. Mr. Speaker, you know, I cannot resist this one—Even though talk is cheap, as he says, we do bring about solutions.

I was at a meeting one evening and a gentleman came up to me and lamented the fact that he had two children at college and they were not able over the past summer to get summer employment. Probably through no fault of their own: It is just done on an ad hoc basis and all those participating in the exercise at present have nothing but the noblest of intentions and sincerity. But I think now with the numbers being increased and being significant, it is time we evolve a system that we can know. Here are the steps to follow. You want employment? Register! It inculcates in the students, the users and the potential users of the system a sense of responsibility too because then they cannot say if they did not register they cannot complain that they were unable to get employment. So, I had the greatest of sympathy for this gentleman and I went home that evening and said, 'There must be something which can be done'. I called my colleague and running mate and said, 'We have to find out something'. After cursory discussion with him, I came and I discussed it with the seconder and this is what we arrived at.

Mr. Speaker, I would hope that the government sees fit to accept this motion and I am assured because I spoke with about five or six young people prior to formulating the motion, asking them what were their experiences and would they think an agency like this would be practicable and beneficial. The response was an overwhelming enthusiasm and approval. They said that it is the answer that is needed. They said, 'Well, you know, persons come back and they get jobs but the jobs have no meaning because they work in areas they have no interest in'. Even when it comes on the wages or the money that they make, it is irrelevant, insignificant. It is just a matter of being employed.

I want to underscore something else that I think is positive about this. Not every student might see fit to take advantage of this because sometimes students come in the summer and they have assignments or projects that they work on and they have to do field work and field research as well as some students opt for summer school.

I am reminded of something that the seconder brought to my attention. Not only is it good for the summer but it could be workable and applicable to any holiday in which the students have the time and there is space available because some institutions' holidays vary significantly from others; around Christmas time some institutions get longer holidays than others. And, particularly, it would be suitable for students who study in institutions on a semester basis where students might find it convenient to sit out a semester, for whatever reason, then they could have continued employment. So that this, in addition to other things, could be a real flexible system.

I believe that it would complement the efforts currently undertaken by the Education Department. It would be a step in tandem with the direction in which the ministry is moving. It would serve to galvanise the efforts of our students, than those entities in the private sector which seek to employ the students gainfully so that they may have relevant experience, so that they may be able to marry theory with practical and on-hand experience. At the same time, it would give them a sense of feel for what the working world is like.

Mr. Speaker, I am not going to get into this now, but this is a step in the direction to which I eventually want to move. That is, I would like to see in this country a national mentoring programme set up. So, if I am returned as I expect to be, God willing, after November 8th that is the next move I am going to make to bring a motion here, or a bill—depending on where I am—calling for the establishment for a national mentoring programme so that we can identify and offer on-hand experience to those persons who demonstrate leadership abilities and capabilities.

I want to say that in spite of what some people on the government side think, there are those of us on this side who have a national vision of where the country should be moving in terms of its youth; in terms of its education and in terms of its preparation for the next generation of leaders.

Mr. Speaker, I would not sit down without self-indulging a little, although I don't usually do that. I pride myself on the fact that I have been steeped, the family from which I come. My grandfather told me that one day I would have to carry the torch. I would be the name bearer just like even now I am preparing my son because I might die. At seven years old, I tell him the realities of life that he will have to take over from me. The quicker and better I prepare him, the easier it will be when the point of transition comes. I would hope that it would play out naturally and that I might live a normal life span but it might not play out like that, so I have to prepare him.

So, Mr. Speaker, we would be ill advised if we believe that we are going to be here all the time: if there are not new people. Dynasties are established by those who realise that they should set in motion ways and means for their successors to come up easily. So this is a way of preparing the next generation of leaders.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Mr. Speaker, I am wondering whether we may be able to take lunch now, sir, and then I could begin right after.

The Speaker: It is a bit early but if that is the wish of the House (pause) I shall suspend proceedings for lunch until 2.00 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.23 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.21 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Private Member's Motion No. 21/00, The Establishment of a Student Summer Employment Agency. Does any honourable member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I would like to begin by saying that we support this motion and commend the mover, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town and the seconder, the First Elected Member for George Town with bringing this.

Mr. Speaker, I agree and support the majority of the recitals which are the whereas clauses. However, I must say that the clause that says, and I quote, “there is now no co-ordinated or organised system whereby students seeking such employment can be systematically placed” is not fully so. The fact is there has been a summer internship programme in place at the Education Department since 1992—a very important year for the mover and me. That was the year that we all came into this House with a fresh government. During the period 1992 to the summer of 2000, a total of 511 students were placed—511 students in the past eight years.

What I would like to do now is to just deal with this programme which is very ably run by Mrs. Lillian Archer and who has really done a superb job with the placing of those 511 students.

Through the summer internship programme all university students were invited initially back in 1992 and 1993 to register for placements in various establishments in Government and in the private sector. Every effort was made to ensure that students were placed in appropriate positions to enable them to gain experience in their various areas of career choice as well as interest.

[Since] the programme began it has moved from placing between about 45 in 1993 to 90 in the year 2000. In other words, it has doubled in its placements in the past few years. Registration for the programme commences each year in March and concludes in August when students return to their universities or colleges, having worked from May to August, or June to August and in special cases from May to June.

The programme is designed and operated, sir, to meet the needs of all Caymanian university students applying, and to place college students wherever possible. Non-Caymanians are placed in special situations where their parents have shown much interest and commitment to our children in their contracted duties as teachers or social workers. This category in placement has not exceeded eight in relation to non-Caymanians in any given year.

The main goal of the programme is to enhance the overall quality of the supply of indigenous tertiary level persons for the local labour market.

The purpose is also to provide a meaningful structured programme for summer work experience for Caymanian university students on government scholarships or otherwise—so it is not restricted to persons on government scholarships—to enable them to gain practical knowledge of, firstly, better preparing and equipping themselves for the labour market; [secondly], feedback into their academic studies; thirdly, help them to define or redefine their career goals.

Mr. Speaker, the objectives of the summer programme are fourfold. They are to place as many eligible students who apply for summer jobs which are relevant to their respective fields or study and under adequate supervision in the public and private sector as appropriate.

Secondly, to offer targeted career counselling on request for students in the programme.

Thirdly, to develop links where possible with participating students' institutions to enable summer experience gained to be recognised by those institutions. So, where this can assist the student in the college, the work experience is also used.

Fourthly, to gain insight into the quality of output from the tertiary level institutions attended by Caymanian students.

Mr. Speaker, the time has come, I believe, to take the summer internship programme out of the Education Department and to place it in a career development and advisory centre. This has to be in my view the way that this will develop.

Honourable members will recall that such an entity is called for in the education strategy of the ten-year National Strategic Plan, Vision 2008. And, it was mentioned, sir, as one of my ministry's goals for 2000 in the Throne Speech early this year and this is actively being pursued. In fact, the only thing that is holding it back now is the proper accommodation. So, I believe that this movement to put it in a career development and advisory centre is the right way to go with it. And it is definitely, sir, in line with the education strategy of Vision 2008.

We are planning to have a room with Internet access. The honourable mover of this motion stressed this as well, sir—and I fully agree with him—where students and potential students can consult universities and colleges' prospectuses and with them, in fact, they may well be able to register on line which now happens.

We intend to increase the services to students such as the orientation session which I understand the Third Elected Member for West Bay mentioned yesterday morning.

Mr. Speaker, the reference to the outlining of the data bank by the honourable member is in my view a good idea and the department is moving towards being, if I may put it this way, a model of users technology: this has to be the way to go. The plan calls for strengthening of the careers advice at the high schools and to extend this to the junior high. This I believe, sir, is important because the counselling that is done at those levels is very important to the student as he or she moves on with his or her respective career.

Above all, university and college students will be able to get increased counselling and support on an individual basis, very important. In a programme such as this there must however be communication and links with other agencies such as the Labour Department. Exactly how this can be done is now under consideration. Mr. Speaker, I support fully what I believe is the intention of this motion under the first Whereas clause.

The second Whereas clause calls for the establishment of such an agency and also in another part it refers to a joint venture, and the Member mentioned this, with the private sector and especially with the Chamber of Commerce and with the help of the Overseas Students' Association which is now the Cayman Islands Students' Association.

I support this wholeheartedly. I agree with the mover and seconder that this is the way to go with it. However, education cannot be the sole responsibility of the government and I believe that we do have a private sector which has shown and demonstrated to us on a daily basis that it has commitments to students in the Cayman Islands. We have merely to look at the Caymanian Compass, for example, or the new [Cayman] Net News and we can see that there are a number of scholarships. You get equipment and other matters that the private sector are giving or supporting. I agree, sir, that goodwill with the private sector is very important to this programme and to the islands generally that it should be co-ordinated to maximise its effect and to ensure that every young person in these islands has the opportunity to reach his or her maximum potential in this society.

I believe members here will recall a presentation that was made to them last month on an implementation initiative called Public/Private Partnership in Education and Training or P3ET. This is a new project and one of its objectives when established will be the oversight of just this type of partnership that we are talking about to include such programmes as student monitoring, work experience and work shadowing.

So, I agree that the student summer employment programme needs to be expanded. It needs to be strengthened and in keeping with its present objectives of the internship programme, the students need feedback into their academic and other studies and support to either define or redefine their career goals as they regard and feel appropriate towards them. I believe this can be accomplished through a careers development and advisory centre established under the ministry and as an offshoot, I suggest of the Education Council. I am looking forward to this sort of redefinition of the role of the Council and I also believe that this strengthening will serve the university and college students tremendously.

So, once again the government supports this motion. This is another piece of the plan, sir, to further develop our education system which began with the five-year Education plan and was followed by site-based planning, followed by the establishment of the independent schools inspectorate and the $50 million capital programme which will see four new schools built over the years.

Also, the alignment with the Vision 2008 education strategy and the introduction of a national training initiative which will encompass the careers advisory centre, the P3ET programme and investors in people which is the training standard that will be established for the training and development of our people in the work place. It is another important segment of the overall education of our people towards seeing that they reach their fullest potential within the community and the work place.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to thank all honourable members in this House for the interest and support that they have given to my ministry in the area of education and otherwise. While I know we have not always agreed on things and we very rarely agreed on timing, I believe it is fair to say that in this House we have always had a common goal and that was to maximise the potential of our people.

I would also, sir, like to thank very heartily the private sector for the support which they have voluntarily given to keep education and training a top priority in the Cayman Islands. I look forward to this continued support as we continue to build a strong education system as a foundation on which continued peace and prosperity for all the residents of these three Islands will rest.

I would like to also, sir, lastly thank the mover and the seconder for bringing this motion and to once again state that we support this motion. Thank you.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: Mr. Speaker, I don't intend to be long but this is a worthwhile motion: one that I think can have good effect on our children. I just want to make the point that I have long called for a proper Careers Counselling Unit. I believe then and I believe now that the same way that we have an Education Council and a secretary of that Education Council, we should have a similar set-up for a careers advisory centre. I heard the minister mentioning this, but up until now it is not done.

It can be to disseminate information on scholarships which are available—public and private—but its main objective, of course, would be to give advice on careers, to start from middle school level with heavy emphasis in Grade 10 or thereabout before the students select subjects to be studied in Grades 11 and 12. I keep saying its so important that students be able to select subjects that are relevant to their chosen careers because we don't want students starting off wanting to be a doctor then end up mid-way with something else because they did not make the right choice in the first instance.

I raise that point to say that what is being asked for here, this student employment agency, is where a careers advice service would come in, because if the government sets up this agency, students could then be placed in jobs that are in the stream of what they intend to go to university for. Of course it would be the children coming out of high school who could benefit from this; the ones already in university would hopefully have had the proper counselling as to what degrees they should study for.

So, Mr. Speaker, I just wanted to raise the point that a careers advisory centre is urgently needed and it would be a big boost to the programme that the two members, the Third Elected Member from Bodden Town and the First Elected Member from George Town, have talked about. I don't know whether the government can do this before Election but I would hope, as I said some weeks ago, that they would make a start on it. It is urgently needed.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak?

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Perhaps, I might not have had to say anything about the motion because certainly the mover in his usual eloquent style put forward the case extremely well.

We have had a reply from the government, which I am sure that in some areas the mover will address when he is winding up. Suffice it to say, at this moment I am pleased to know that the government chooses to accept the motion.

Mr. Speaker, I was not fully aware of exactly what the programme was in the Education Department with regards to placement of students who are studying abroad. I want to make a couple of points before I go into some of the details and before it is time for me to sit down. I want to say that notwithstanding the fact that there may be a situation which exists where students are placed—and I think the minister made mention of some statistics coming from 45 students in 1992 to 90 students in the year 2000 being placed through this programme that exists—the motion we brought was not in any way meant to slight whatever exists. I am certain I speak for the mover in that regard. There was no thought in that matter and I think it is easy to say and fair comment, that the motion certainly can only complement what might exist at present.

The few things that the minister mentioned regarding this programme, which it seems from what he has said they are quite willing to encompass as they move forward, is the fact that it is only a summer programme at present. This motion does not limit itself just to the summer. While that period is the longest that these students will have holidays, as the mover already mentioned in his opening delivery, I think this programme should extend itself to whenever there is meaningful time that these students are available and are not occupied otherwise with their academic research, or whatever, and may wish to continue employment during that interim. So that is the point that we have to ensure that is looked at when the move forward continues.

The other thing that the Minister for Education mentioned is . . . sometimes I wonder if I take risks politically about certain things that I say, but I have to say it the way I see it and the way I feel it . . . that this programme was aimed for (I think he said) the indigenous students, which I can appreciate. Certainly, one might choose if one wanted to be politically correct to leave it at that.

But I want to take a minute regardless of the risk to mention something and I am certain the mover when he is winding up can deal with it as he sees fit. I don't want to risk saying that I speak for him here because I have not discussed the matter with him. Let me say this: When the mover and I talked about the motion we recognised that there are many people at present of university age who have either lived their entire lives in the Cayman Islands or just about all of their lives, and because of the situation that prevails with our immigration laws they are not considered to be Caymanians. But these people that I talk about do not know anywhere else to go.

I would like to make reference to a letter to the Editor that was in the Caymanian Compass this morning. It is unfortunate that we get to a situation where we don't try to let logic prevail, and with everything in mind about protecting the Caymanian, have the ability to look at it with a little wider perspective with regards to what we have available here in this country.

If we look in our own public sector in the civil service—I do not want to call names today—there are many individuals who are young professionals in the civil service who are, at present, and who will have for many years to come a lot to offer to this country. They rub shoulders, sit along side and work along with the same age people who have the same drive, who are their peers who are called Caymanians. They went to school with them. They grew up with them. They went to the movies with them. They ate at Burger King with them.

Mr. Speaker, I simply make mention of this because I am not one who wants to limit our thought process to ostracise or exclude the kinds of people I am talking about. I respect our situation, Mr. Speaker, and the reason why I said I may run a risk talking about this is because I have been on occasion on the receiving end of comments speaking about me having this special love affair with the foreigners—sometimes levelled specifically at the Jamaican population.

It is not that, because I recognise what we need to do in this country. But I have serious concerns about the many individuals who have been living here for very extended periods of time. The kind of people I am talking about really know nowhere else to go and here we are talking about a situation that we want to move the country forward with; to have an organised situation where there can be employment for these students. I mean, are we going to limit it and not include these kinds of people? I am saying that we have to think seriously about this.

I don't know if the policy that prevails at present is going to limit itself to that in the future. I make mention of this topic because I want the government to consider not leaving it just to that. The society cannot survive if we think like that. And, Mr. Speaker, my position is simple: If the country does not want to integrate, then don't allow the people to stay here. If we are going to allow them to stay here for the length of time that we are talking about, 20 years and 30 years, we cannot have them in a society that long being of a different jib from their peers. It can only create dissension. It can only create separation.

So, all I am saying, Mr. Speaker, is that if that is not the way the country wants to move forward and unite and understand that people are going to fall in love and marry, and not everyone is going to be from Cayman originally, then let us prevent it from happening by saying we don't want them here. No one wants to do that it seems.

The Speaker: I would like to interject. I think you are perfectly right but that is an immigration matter not this particular motion.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, I am not going to speak very long about it and I take your point. I am not going to challenge it but I brought the point up because the minister spoke about the existing programme dealing with the indigenous population. But I will move on.

I bring the point simply to ask the minister in accepting the motion that as they move forward—if I remember correctly the minister has said that it is going to be coming out of the Education Department and under the wings of perhaps the Education Council? All I am saying is that if there is a new set of accommodations, and perhaps the database that the mover mentioned to be established, let us seriously consider those students who have been born here, or who have lived here and gone through our public system, and who we know has no intention of leaving here. We should not separate them; that's all I am saying.

From the point of view of how the minister responded to the motion whether the minister would prefer any amendments to the motion—and I am serious about this because I think this motion is very serious. I don't want us to leave it as it is worded and then cause some difficulty down the line. I recognise that if we accept the Motion then every word that is in it is to be accepted.

I would like the minister to consider whether we should take out a whereas section; do we want to say something different—simply because while it may be nice and easy not to do that, just to get on with the business, when the motion is passed that is what is going to go on the record.

The minister, and perhaps quite rightly so, disputes the third whereas clause which says, “AND WHEREAS there is now no co-ordinated or organised system whereby students seeking such employment can be systematically placed”. Just to say to the minister while he is thinking, this whereas clause was simply because we were extending our thoughts throughout—private and public sector. Not suggesting that what happens now does not include the private sector. But you see, when we mentioned the Chamber of Commerce, the Overseas Students' Association—and, that too, might need to be corrected because it is now called the Caymanian Students' Association I think.

I believe that association would lend itself to include members who attend the Community College and ICCI. That is probably part of the reason why they changed their names. We might want to make that pretty clear in the motion. When we thought of the effort to say that it was not actually co-ordinated or organised, all we were basically saying is that all of the relevant agencies who would have input to make it really work were not included in the process at present.

I just want to make sure we are absolutely clear with that so that we will understand. And I believe firmly, Mr. Speaker, that in mentioning those other two organisations it is fair to do so because they will have much to offer. I believe that whoever operates the system within the Education Department at present, does not have access to be able to say, well, they know all of what is available in the private sector during these times when the students are returning home. Perhaps, the Chamber of Commerce could well be utilised to disseminate information and to gather information to help to create that database on an on-going basis where the companies in the private sector . . .

Let me just interject for a second so that they will understand what we were thinking about, Mr. Speaker. For instance, when we know that students are returning at certain times, whether it be summer or during the Christmas holidays, or whatever, it is a good possibility that if there was a synchronised and organised effort, local companies could well suggest to their employees that during these times, if it is possible for them, that is when they should be looking to take their vacations which would create more openings again on a temporary basis for these students.

I am not so sure if everybody grabs on to what I am saying but I mean with a matter of timing if there was an organised effort, without anyone being displaced, you could still create a lot more space to make sure that all of these students, whether they be returning from overseas, or they are at the Community College or at ICCI, or any other institution for that matter could well be placed more readily. So, that is the type of thing that we had in mind when we talked about the Chamber of Commerce and the Overseas Students' Association.

The Cayman Students' Association could serve the purpose simply by having their existing database and they would likely have that themselves at present and they could keep in contact and, again, disseminate information. The efforts could be co-ordinated so that it is not such a burden on any one office to have all of that and simply the office could do the collating of the information, co-ordinate the efforts and create the database.

The minister mentioned in his delivery that the government should not be solely held responsible for the education of our youth. I respect that fact and I would like to believe that because it is being widely recognised within the society, that the wealth of any country from here on in is going to be determined by the human capital that it has and how well that human capital is educated. It is not going to be so much about the GDP (which is the next motion), but more so what the individuals in that society have to offer by way of productivity. Certainly, with that in mind it is conducive for all sectors to be looking to participating in enhancing the human capital for the Cayman Islands.

Mr. Speaker, I did have some areas to talk about, but let me make one more thing that just came to my mind, very clear. While we have situations where the optimum result could be achieved if we find students who are pursuing certain careers being able to be placed in areas specific and close to the careers they are pursuing, I would not like for us to have to limit our thoughts to where students who are on holidays have to necessarily be placed in an area that complements what they are pursuing. In my view there is nothing wrong with students home for summer holidays—once the task is not something that requires great expertise—being exposed to certain other things. It makes for well-rounded individuals at the end of the day, even though they have their special areas that they are pursuing.

So I would hope that in the whole thought-process that the pool of placement is, while quite agreeably so, directed towards that, generally speaking (as the Minister of Education would say), it should not be limited to that; because on many occasions it does assist the student being able to be exposed in other areas, to broaden his perspective and knowledge base.

Mr. Speaker, I am going to stop now because perhaps even though there may be other things that can be said I think everyone is on the same train with this motion. The government obviously has indicated a willingness to move forward, accepting the ideas that have been put forward. And accompanying them with what they have had in mind, perhaps we will get even a better result. I trust that as time goes on we will see this in operation. We will see it actually happening and certainly I believe there will be great benefit to the society at large, over time as this is able to gel properly.

I commend the motion and certainly I commend the mover for his insightful thoughts into the matter. Not even grudgingly I would like to thank the Minister of Education who has spoken on behalf of the Government for accepting the motion. But needless to say, he knows that my parting words for this will be, 'I hope something is done and it is not just lip service'.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak?

If no member wishes to speak, does the mover wish to exercise his right or reply?

Mr. Roy Boddén: Certainly, Mr. Speaker, I would not let this chapter close without a footnote.

I appreciate the fact that the government has accepted the motion and I acknowledge that efforts were, and are being made to provide employment for students during the summer. The fact that this motion was brought here now should in no way be interpreted as casting any aspersions on the efforts of those people currently responsible for that, Mr. Speaker. For more reasons than one, not the least of which being that the person in charge of that programme now holds a special place in my heart by virtue of the fact that that person was a colleague of mine, and, also, because we are kinfolk.

Mr. Speaker, I brought the motion in tandem with the seconder because we realise that the Cayman Islands are poised on the verge of new and exciting developments. We have to place ourselves in a position where we can take the fullest advantage of what is termed the 'knowledge' economy. We believe that this is also one step in moving the Cayman Islands forward from the point of view of that generation of persons we are training and preparing to take over the leadership and to fill their roles in progressive and productive sectors of our economy. There can be no better way of doing that than by introducing them during the formative stages of their career preparation for the world that they are going to be matriculating into.

So, we thought that here is a chance to get in from the very beginning on an organised system where we use the tools of the new economy to get ourselves jobs, to get these people jobs to ground them and teach them how to use this network and this organisation to bolster and enhance their experience.

Mr. Speaker, as I debate this motion I am reminded that I was just reading about Singapore and how Lee Kuan Yew prepared Singaporeans for this time, for this century, for these exciting developments. The second volume of his memoirs is about to be published and it is entitled, From Third World to First World. In that, he talks about his vision and his efforts over the years to prepare his people, because Singapore has one of the best education systems in the world. It is a system, which incorporates many facets of training and experience to prepare the people for the world of work. These are some of the concepts and ideas, which Lee Kuan Yew used to prepare his people.

So, what we are talking about in this motion is by no means, if I have to be gracious, any invention of the mover and the seconder because as we have heard, the Education Department was already doing something. What makes this significant is that we have moved it from the step at which it is now and we are proposing to set up a more sophisticated system. In so doing I have to give credit to Mrs. Archer and all the other people in the Education Department. I agree with the minister that we should now make this a centre of career development and advancement moving it even one step further from what I have proposed, and had conceived, and that it should fall under the auspices of the Education Council.

Mr. Speaker, there is a significant similarity because in Canada, the system that they have set up is an adjunct of the public service commission. It is the Public Service Commission in Canada who is responsible for the Federal Student Work Experience programme. So between the ideas proposed by the mover and the seconder and those proposed by the minister, I think we have a good launching point for the development of an effective programme which should serve to help all of our students.

I want to mention something that was highlighted by my colleague, the seconder. We hesitated to make any distinction or differentiation as to those persons whom we saw as the primary beneficiaries of this. We realise that the Cayman Islands is a society made up of persons from several different backgrounds and nationalities and we have at some point come to grips with that and we believe . . . the honourable First Elected Member for George Town was right, we did not discuss it but he is right in assuming that my position was similar to his. We could see making such a distinction between indigenous and non-indigenous persons, for want of a better expression, serving no constructive purpose.

While we admit that Caymanians must be first among the equals, we believe that in this case it could serve no constructive purpose to draw any distinction. That is a drawback and a hindrance to too many efforts now and I don't think that it is necessary to highlight those kinds of differences and distinctions particularly in cases where there is really no need to so. But it is true.

It is true, Mr. Speaker. In other jurisdictions for example, you have to be a citizen to benefit from these kinds of programmes under normal circumstances. Of course there are exceptions to the rule because if I go to Canada as a student and I want to enrol in one of these programmes, as long as I demonstrate the need and there is space, I could benefit too. But I also want to make the point that the people we are talking about in the Cayman Islands, if they had been living in Canada that long they would have been citizens because they would only have to be there five years in order to apply. So, we want to get away from that and move on to the greater efficacy and effectiveness and the utilitarian aspect of this.

Mr. Speaker, I want to make an important distinction. In Canada there is a special programme with tourism careers for youth, and a special youth internship programme that assists young people between the ages of 18 and 29 with the transition from school to work. Preparing them through a mix of classroom and on-the-job training with the skills, knowledge, attitudes and experience required for long-term employment in tourism, the world's fastest growing industry.

I say that to make the point that we should bear this in mind because this can serve to give us an added dimension to the programme that we are talking about putting in place. Especially as we so often hear the complaint that not enough Caymanians are employed in visible positions in the hospitality industry in these Islands.

I hope that this serves as a challenge to the government particularly to the Minister of Tourism and the Minister of Education to use this as a launching point to develop, encourage and train young Caymanians to enter the hospitality industry through such a programme.

Mr. Speaker, I was also very happy to hear about the new expectation of the streamlined Education Council. I have to say that certainly this has for sometime been my expectation and I have been encouraging the minister to go this route because it is in keeping with the direction I see education and the country to be moving. Any effort that we make to improve education and the opportunities of our young people are positive efforts.

I recall back in—I think it was 1999 when the First Elected Member from George Town and I attended an Education conference put on by Arthur Andersen and their school of the future in Chicago. It was a highlight and a major focus of that conference school to work programmes. And, they were developing and talking about programmes such as this, which made the transition from formal education to the world of work understandable through this kind of orientation.

Mr. Speaker, with regards to the private sector—the private sector has a very prominent and important role to play in this. And I would also see the Chamber of Commerce, as was mentioned by the seconder, being of pivotal importance. I encourage the government to cultivate the association and develop the relationship between its arm and the private sector in getting this programme off the ground, because I believe it is only by so doing that we are going to achieve the optimum results seeing that many of our young people who go abroad to train eventually find places in the private sector.

I believe that this association should serve as a model partnership because we have to get away from the expectation and from the idea that the government must bear the brunt of everything and realise that the burden should be equally shared between the government and other elements of the society.

In conclusion, I look forward with eager anticipation to this motion not only being accepted, but being almost immediately acted upon. I commend the government and as I listened to the Minister for Education reply I could not help wondering to myself, What is the big deal because it seems that our positions are often times so similar? Our ideas are more frequently similar than they are different. So I have to wonder what is the big deal.

Mr. Speaker, you know, I don't want to be the fly in any ointment and I don't want to be a party-pooper, but I have to ask myself, How is it that some people can find it possible to be so gracious now when on other occasions they had reason to be so disinterested, apathetic and hostile—and yet basically the ideas are the same? Certainly the people who bring the ideas, the messenger is the same messenger and that is why I have to say that for all of my enthusiasm I cannot find it possible to clear all of the scepticism and cynicism out of my heart: I wonder if it is the players, or is it the season?

Anyway, Mr. Speaker, I would not want to spoil a good thing. I just want to say that I hope that we can get moving on this because it is to the benefit of the majority of persons in the society. There can perhaps be no better way to prepare the next generation of leaders than through organisations such as this.

I thank my friend and colleague, the seconder, for his ideas both at the time we were discussing the motion and his recent articulation. Also, my colleagues on the backbench, whom when we mentioned it to them agreed that they would support it. Significantly too, I thank the government, and especially the minister who accepted it on the government's behalf. I look forward to continued association in the future for what is best for the Cayman Islands. Thank you.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 21/00. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The motion is passed.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 21/00 PASSED.

The Speaker: Moving on to Private Member's Motion No. 23/00 entitled Gross Domestic Product to be moved by the First Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 23/00

GROSS DOMESTIC PRODUCT

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 23/00 standing in my name, which reads as follows:

“WHEREAS the Cayman Islands Government have problems attracting concessionary financing;

“AND WHEREAS we need to have a better understanding of income distribution among residents;

“BE IT RESOLVED THAT Government requires its annual statistical Abstract to publish Gross Domestic Product figures broken down according to Caymanian and non-Caymanian, district to district, and category by category.”

The Speaker: Do we have a seconder?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I am very happy to second the motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 23/00 has been duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak to it?

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I don't think this is a motion that will draw any opposition or cause long debate. It is certainly not asking for any great expenditure but in the workings of a country such as we have, I believe what we are asking is most important.

If government agrees to this resolution, the one thing it would do is to say where we need to promote economic development. For example, if the income figures are lower in West Bay than in George Town it would help to better inform the government of the types of activities required to address imbalances in those districts.

On the international scene it would help us and strengthen Cayman's argument for concessionary financing or soft loans from international and regional development institutions like Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) and the European Union (EU).

Mr. Speaker, I well recall when I first entered Executive Council I had the occasion to visit the EU and had a discussion with them in Brussels. We were told that we could not get loans. At that time one of the things that I was trying to do was to get funding for housing and that was in 1993. I was told in Brussels that our per capita income is just too high and, therefore, we could not qualify for soft loans or assistance from them. Mr. Speaker, that is on the international scene.

On the local scene, we do need to have a better understanding of income distribution in the islands. As I said, everywhere we go and whenever there is talk or debate on the needs of this country—and we saw this recently when the five Members of Parliament came from United Kingdom—they always point to the high per capita income in the Cayman Islands, which they are saying is between $18,000 - $21,000, the fifth highest in the world.

We all know that income is relative. You will not find everyone making a large income as $21,000. What you will find a lawyer, an accountant or a banker making as an income, you won't find our people working in the hotel and tourism industry making those kinds of salaries. Even those at the lower end in the banks do not make that kind of money.

So, if we can break down (I guess that is simple language for it) the gross domestic product (GDP) district by district, and locals and those who are not, and category by category, I believe then we all—and those international and regional institutions—will not be able to say that Cayman is the richest country and does not qualify for soft loans.

Mr. Speaker, when we examine some of the incomes, and that is the bare information I would say, you will find that there needs to be a better understanding of income distribution. Some figures I gave earlier this year according to the Economic and Statistics Office, show the average working Caymanian earning $2,600 per month. However, according to the same statistics, approximately 6,900 or 60% of all working Caymanians make less than $2,500 per month. That is a range of $833 per month, at the low end, to those on the $2,500 per month level.

Now when you compare this with the fact that somewhere around $2,300 or 20% of all working Caymanians make more than $3,300 per month, it is clear that there needs to be a better understanding. As Members of the Legislature you have to pick apart—and it does not do anything putting everything together. It does no good for the country putting everything together and then people can come and tell us, ‘Well, you are a rich country’.

So, while some people might not feel that this is an important resolution, I feel that it is very important to the workings of good government in the Cayman Islands. While it does not ask for a road, a school or any programme at all, it is good in this new millennium for us to understand better the position of this country and what the true figures are in income distribution.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, I rise to advise the Government's support for Private Member's Motion No. 23/00 dealing with the subject of the Gross Domestic Product.

Mr. Speaker, the mover of this motion, the First Elected Member for West Bay, mentioned that some persons may be of the view that this is not an important motion but I would not place myself or any member of the government in that category.

This is a very important motion and that honourable Member will recall from the time that he and I attended the meeting of the Caribbean Development Bank's Board of Governors' meeting that was held in Canada, this matter was brought up. Since that time several discussions have been held with CDB to see if it would be possible to break down the GDP of the Cayman Islands to reflect the income earned, or the overall output of the indigenous sector, rather than bringing everything together which will include the output of the transient population.

We know that we have a small population base and when this is taken as an average of the overall output of goods and services provided in the Cayman Islands it is throwing up such startling figures in excess of US$27,000 being our per capita income. This is the highest in the region and it is one of the highest in the world.

The honourable member has just mentioned that this is not a very accurate position. It is accurate in terms of overall average. But where you have one, or let's say, a certain percentage earning over half a million dollars per annum and increasing, and you have persons earning $14,000; when you put everything together and divide, and you take the overall goods and services as the numerator (this is the figure at the top) and take the population base, the denominator (the number that you are dividing by), it is not surprising that you come up with a figure of US$28,000.

What this does is that, for quite some time now—and all honourable members of this House are very much aware that we have ceased to qualify for concessionary funding, as the honourable member has pointed out, from such multilateral institutions as CDB—When they are looking in terms of their borrowing or lending procedures and where the Cayman Islands is being placed in a category of having the highest GDP in the region, it becomes very difficult for countries who are members within the region to subsidise loans to the Cayman Islands.

But when we look in terms of the many countries that are qualifying for loans because they have two sources of funds from which lendings are made. (1) The special development fund: this is where the source of concessionary financing, where borrowings from that fund are normally below market rate, 2% - 4%. (2) The ordinary capital resources: the normal funds of the bank: Often times this money is raised through financing on the capital market.

Mr. Speaker, we have reached to a point where we do recognise that we are a very prosperous country, but this is relatively new. When we compare ourselves to other countries in the region that have had, for example, educational infrastructure and other institutions in place for years exceeding the level of growth and development that we are seeing here in the Cayman Islands, we do not only have difficulty with borrowing at concessionary rates from CDB, we also have difficulty in terms of accessing concessionary funds or financing anywhere within the world community as such.

When we look at our overall debt structure, often we are of the view that it can be very high or could be somewhat high. But prudence has always been the hallmark of this government and past governments and likely to be future governments of this country. A ceiling has been set—this has not been entrenched in law—that no more than 10% of local revenue should go towards debt financing or debt servicing. We have always made every attempt to keep the amount of funds that will be available from general revenue for debt financing below that level.

When we look in terms of the loan portfolio of government we will see that that is comprised of short-term borrowings. Earlier information was provided in this House that by the year 2012 if no more borrowings were made, then the government would not be owing more than probably $1 million or $2 million based on the current rate of repayment. When you look at the life of the assets that those monies are being used to finance, we are putting in place infrastructure such as roads, schools, facilities that will have a long life expectancy. It would be much better if we could access funds on a long-term basis and also get mixed into that a bit of concessionary financing. When we consider those persons that are earning, let's say, $850 per month up to $2,500 and you take the annual average of that, it is quite evident that not everyone is enjoying the level of affluence whereby this should be reflective right across in terms of an overall or average standard within the island, and as a result of that we should be penalised by multilateral institutions for the success we have had.

It is very good to know that in the Cayman Islands everyone goes to bed probably having had something to eat. Some will have lobsters and caviar, others will probably have dishes that are not as—the honourable First Elected Member is saying pork and beans, but probably not as grand as what I mentioned earlier.

Overall, Mr. Speaker, the Cayman Islands should not be penalised for our success and this is what has been happening. For us to really benefit from concessionary financing it means that our overall average income will have to drop to a level where it would suggest that we are at a subsistence level. This definitely should not be the case; success should be applauded.

Mr. Speaker, the question where the honourable member also mentioned that it would be good to see what would be the average income flow per district within the Cayman Islands, that is also useful and vital information. It is necessary that we should not have all of the economic activities concentrated in a given area. We know that George Town has been the hub. It is quite likely that we will continue to see this being the case for several reasons, in that, we have the financial industry—the banks, the law firms clustered around the main governmental services such as the Registrar General's Office and all of these things. But there are other aspects that can be placed within other districts in Grand Cayman and also placed in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, yes, decentralise. These are matters that we have to look at very carefully.

When we spoke to the Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) some time ago they mentioned that there is a formula that is normally used in arriving at the GDP and it would be difficult somewhat to create some form of a variation or hybrid of that. It is a matter that will have to be looked at because I do believe that given our unusual circumstances that the strict economic model that is normally followed cannot be used with any degree of equity to reflect what is the average income earned in the Cayman Islands. One of the things is that it is mixing the indigenous with the transient population and it is very good to know that we have persons here earning very high salaries.

Another aspect, which we all know, Mr. Speaker, is that not all of the income earned remains within the country. Again when we look in terms of determining how much of the GDP can be regarded as indigenous, then at least we know when we are applying the multiplier effect to say what will be the overall benefit to the Cayman Islands, and that we have fair grounds on which to stand in terms of making an assessment of the economic realities of the Cayman Islands.

Again, in terms of focusing on what takes place at the district level, this will be very important because we do see at this point in time where excess funds will have to be spent on infrastructure such as roads. Whereby if some of these activities were decentralised within the districts both in Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac, it would cut down on the traffic congestion that many of us are experiencing on a day-to-day basis as we travel into George Town, the place of employment.

Again, this information will be very useful. The methodologies to achieve the results we are seeking may turn out to be somewhat novel. We may probably have to look very carefully at the economic models that are being used to arrive at standard GDP and to see how we can vary that in order to arrive at the indigenous earnings. Until we get to that point we will not be in a position to approach multilateral organisations or lending institutions such as CDB. While it will not appear that the concessionary financing will amount to much in terms of the savings, it makes a big difference having to pay LIBOR on a loan of $10 million or against getting, let's say, a reasonable portion of that which is subsidised from the special development fund of CDB at the rate of 2% - 4%, whatever the interest rate factor is.

This will mean rather than paying out extra money by having to borrow at market rates, having to meet the extra costs incurred, these are funds that could be used for the continuing development and benefit of the country. As I mentioned, the government is quite willing to accept this motion. I, myself, will be talking to the Statistics Office and to the Economic Development Section to see how best their resources can be combined in order to try and work through the objectives that are being sought for by this motion. It is a very good and worthy one, and one that the Government is willing to support.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak?

If no member wishes to speak, does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: Just to thank the honourable Third Official Member for his information and agreement that the motion is something that needs to be done for the country. Also, to thank the seconder who himself, I know, has some concern about the per capita income figures.

The motion is an effort to stop these islands being penalised by international and regional institutions, by us not being able to get soft loans. Caribbean Development Bank loans to us are sometimes in what they call the basket of currencies—all sorts of currencies—yen and all those other currencies put together which causes us to pay tremendous interest rates.

I recall we had to amalgamate the Water Authority loan because the basket of currency interest rates that we were paying were so high that we were not getting the loan to any appreciable level after so many years. So, we had to amalgamate that loan and free us from that situation.

Mr. Speaker, as I said, this is not asking for a road nor a light, but it is something that makes for good government and I thank the Honourable Financial Secretary for his input.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion 23/00 entitled Gross Domestic Product. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Motion is passed.

READING BY THE SPEAKER OF
MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have received apologies from the Honourable Second and Third Official Members who will be arriving later this morning and also from the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay who is ill and not able to attend.

Item number 3 on today's Order Paper, Presentation of Papers and Reports. The 1999 Annual Report of the Central Planning Authority and Development Control Board Cayman Islands Government.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

1999 ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CENTRAL PLANNING AUTHORITY AND DEVELOPMENT CONTROL BOARD CAYMAN ISLANDS GOVERNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I beg to lay on the Table of this honourable House the 1999 Annual Report of the Central Planning Authority and Development Control Board Cayman Islands Government.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Do you wish to speak to it, honourable minister?

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: The Central Planning Authority (CPA) approved 1,214 applications with a total construction value of $393.4 million, representing increases over the year on applications of 11% by volume, and 89% by dollar value. In other words, the construction value of $393.4 million is nearly twice the amount of what was approved last year—a very significant amount.

By sector, the largest proportion of development approvals consisted of apartments at $5 million, and commercial at $52 million. Over all the CPA set a record with the number and value of applications approved in 1999, despite the fact that many approvals are now administered by the director of planning, such as houses, minor matters and certificates of occupancy.

The CPA remained diligent in its efforts to control illegal developments and the number of enforcement notices were somewhat increased by approximately 21 extra notices over 1998.

The Development Control Board for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman approved 156 applications with a total construction value of $14.3 million. Significant increases in the value of developments approved occurred in the following sectors: government (an increase of 1,645% over 1998); and industrial (an increase of 905% over 1998).

On behalf of the Ministry of Planning, I would like to sincerely thank both the chairman of the CPA and the chairperson of the Development Control Board, and all of the members of the CPA and the DCB for their very capable and untiring work on these boards.

In particular, I would like to thank and congratulate Mr. Heber Arch, chairman. He has served in various planning related capacities since 1974, as follows: 1974-1984, chairman of CPA; 1984-1993, member of planning appeals tribunal; 1992-2000, chairman of the CPA; 1980-1984, member of the building code committee and also from 1991 to 2000—a very long, dedicated and outstanding contribution to the Cayman Islands by Mr. Arch.

I would like to thank the director and the staff of the Planning Department who have also worked very hard and who now have introduced a system at the Planning Department which has reduced by well over half the time that is spent dealing with planning applications, and especially the small applications, such as houses and related matters which are now done administratively and are normally done in a matter of a few days.

I would like to thank everyone involved and to say that it has been undoubtedly a busy year with the total approved construction value standing at $393 million, 89% over what was passed in 1998—undoubtedly a boom period. The results of that will come on line later this year and early next year as these applications begin to be built and come into effect.

The Speaker: The Annual Report of the National Drug Council for the year ending 30th June, 1999; and The National Drug Council Financial Statement for year ended 30th June, 1999.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Social Welfare, Drugs abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE NATIONAL DRUG
COUNCIL FOR THE YEAR ENDING 30 JUNE 1999;

THE NATIONAL DRUG COUNCIL FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR YEAR ENDED 30 JUNE 1999

Hon. Anthony Eden: I beg to lay on the Table of this honourable House the Annual Report of the National Drug Council for the year ending 30 June 1999; and The National Drug Council Financial Statement for year ended 30 June 1999.

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to it?

Moving on to the Traffic Ticket Regulations 2000, to be moved by the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

THE TRAFFIC TICKET REGULATIONS, 2000

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Mr. Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this honourable House The Traffic Ticket Regulations, 2000.

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to it?

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The title of the regulations is the Traffic Ticket Regulations, 2000. Members of the community as well as some Members of this honourable House and government members responsible for some of these areas have highlighted the need to ensure better policing of persons who throw things from vehicles, persons who litter while driving down the road. In that regard, throwing any object at a vehicle or a person in a vehicle the ticket offence fine is $100. Throwing any object at a vehicle while in motion on the road is also $100.

Holding on to a vehicle on the road for the purpose of being towed thereby, which is a real safety issue on any road in Grand Cayman, is a ticket for $100.

While these sums may sound large, Mr. Speaker, the whole objective of the ticket offence and fine is to discourage activities that are either unsafe or environmentally detrimental, such as throwing litter out the window. In addition, we are trying to ensure that seatbelts are worn. Some time ago we read in the Caymanian Compass that the fine was $500; this regulation seeks a specific sum for the wearing of seatbelts.

It also speaks to leaving a motor vehicle unattended with the engine running. That is also $100. And we recently heard of vehicles that do not give right-of-way to emergency vehicles such as fire and ambulance; these regulations speak to that as well. The fine for failing to give way to an emergency vehicle is $100.

Failure to give way to a school vehicle, or overtaking such vehicle while passengers are lighting or disembarking is also $100. The reason for the $100 is to discourage persons from breaching the regulations.

Parking at night without rear lights illuminated, $100. Causing and permitting vehicle to be left in a dangerous position, parked on the side of the road with part of the vehicle out in the street, no lights on (might even be a flatbed truck), if an approaching driver is not paying attention he could easily smash into it.

Failing to display a current vehicle licence, $100. And being in breach of any construction and use regulation, or being in breach of any duty of a driver under section 60, $100 each.

Parking a vehicle other than a vehicle or omnibus in a taxi rank, $100. It seems a bit stiff, but it is seeking to cause people to not do so.

Failing to give way to a pedestrian making use of a pedestrian crossing—another dangerous situation that I see from time—$100. Parking or unloading a vehicle where there is a yellow line $100, and parking within 45 feet of a pedestrian crossing, which sometimes obscures the view of the vehicle approaching the pedestrian crossing, $100.

Carrying an unauthorised pillion passenger (meaning a person on the back of a motorbike), $100. Towing a vehicle in a manner likely to cause danger to other users of the road, $100.

And I spoke about the failure to wear a seatbelt contrary to Section 63; the court sometime ago fined a person $500. This Traffic Ticket Regulation stipulates a fine of $100.

Riding a motorcycle without crash helmet, $100. And speeding on a motorbike up to 10 mph in excess of the speed limit $100 and every additional 10 mph in excess of the speed limit another $100 with a maximum penalty of $500.

Trying deliberately, Mr. Speaker, to define in the law what the maximum penalty is in every specific case mentioned here. And I believe it is in the best interest of the community that we put forward such a regulation. I did mention that in some cases the fine seems a bit stiff, but if you obey the law you don't pay anything. That's the rationale behind it.

Thank you.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, before—

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you. Is the minister laying this on the Table with a date fixed for the coming into force? What is the procedure for these regulations as they stand?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: As required under the law, we have to lay any regulation dealing with the Traffic Law on the Table in order for members to be aware of what Executive Council will eventually do. That is the purpose of laying this on the Table this morning.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I quite well know the purpose of laying the regulations on the Table. What I want to determine is if the minister has a time frame for the coming into force of the regulation.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Laying it on the Table is really to receive feedback from members of the Legislative Assembly before bringing these regulations into effect—feedback, as to whether we are in agreement, in writing or otherwise.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay . . . but let me call to honourable members' attention to the fact that our Standing Orders have provisions to deal with this.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, I am aware of that, thank you. I am also aware that the House is going to be prorogued shortly and that means that the business dies. Mr. Speaker, I am trying to ascertain: Does the minister have a time frame as to when the regulation would come into force? I understand that he is asking us to give feedback, and the public I would imagine. But he is not saying what the time frame is.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Mr. Speaker, if I may sir.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I can only assume that these regulations are being laid under section 113 of the Traffic Law, which reads: "Notwithstanding the generality of any other provisions of this Law, the Governor may make regulations prescribing anything by this Law required to be prescribed and all regulations made under this Law shall be subject to negative resolution, except that the forms prescribed by the Traffic Law Miscellaneous Forms Regulations shall not be subject to negative resolution."

I think under the Interpretation Law it is some 21 days for a member to file a motion for the regulations to be negatived, which would then allow the regulations to be debated—if I am correct.

The Speaker: That is in accordance with the Law and Regulations.

Are there any further questions? The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I am still trying to ascertain from the minister what is the time-frame and what does he want us to do about it?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works, can you elucidate on that subject?

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Mr. Speaker, I don't really have a time frame. I am basically following the Law with a view of laying it on the Table and making it an item so that we can receive input on it before any further action is taken on it.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay, we can't go further than this question.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you Mr. Speaker.

Can the honourable minister say if the regulations have been accepted by Executive Council?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I don't believe I have specifically made any remarks along the line of the question being raised by the First Elected Member for West Bay. But these regulations have not been put into effect or passed by Executive Council at all. The process laid down in the Law is what I am following.

We have to lay the regulations upon the Table to be negatived or whatever, but in this particular case, I am aware that the House dissolves on the 26th. But it's better to table this information and make the public aware of what the thinking is on these particular traffic offences and then deal with it when the House next meets.

The Speaker: The next item is the Financial Statements of the Cayman Islands Government for the Year ended 31st December, 1998 to be laid on the Table by the Hon Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works in the absence of Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 DECEMBER 1998

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Mr. Speaker, as requested by the honourable Third Official Member, I beg to lay on the Table of this honourable House the Financial Statements of the Cayman Islands Government for the Year ended 31st December, 1998.

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to it?

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: No sir. I will leave that for the Honourable Third Official Member to deal with.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Can the honourable minister say why we are just getting the December 1998 accounts in the year 2000? And when does government expect the Public Accounts Committee to deal with this, seeing the House is being prorogued?

Oh!

The Speaker: Are you withdrawing your question?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Well, let's see what happens next, Mr. Speaker.

[Members' laughter]

The Speaker: Next, Report of the Auditor General on the Financial Statements of the Government of the Cayman Islands for the Year ended 31st December, 1998 to be laid on the Table by the Hon. Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works in the absence of Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

REPORT OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 DECEMBER 1998

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: As requested by the honourable Third Official Member, I beg to lay on the Table of this honourable House the report of the Auditor General on the Financial Statements of the Government of the Cayman Islands for the Year ended 31st December, 1998.

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to that report?

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Mr. Speaker, I would leave the speaking to the honourable Third Official Member.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Next on today's Order Paper: Report of the Public Accounts Committee on the report of the Auditor General on the Audited Accounts of the Government for the year ended 31st December, 1998. To be laid on the Table by the Third Elected Member for West Bay, [Chairman of the Committee.]

REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE ON THE REPORT OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL ON THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1998

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, in accordance with Standing Order 77(5), as Chairman of the—

The Speaker: Please table them first.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: That's what I was coming to, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Sorry.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: In accordance with Standing Order 77(5), I, the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee hereby request permission to lay on the Table of this honourable House a copy of the Public Accounts Committee Report for the year 1998.

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to it?

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Yes sir.

The Speaker: Please continue.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Before I actually start reading the Report, let me just mention in response to the question asked by the First Elected Member for West Bay regarding the delay, in defence of the Auditor General's office, the reason why we are just getting to the Public Accounts Committee Report for 1998 is that the Auditor General on a number of occasions has been requested for special assignments. Because of that, his responsibilities in relation to the Public Accounts Committee had to be delayed.

Report of the Standing Public Accounts Committee on the report of the Auditor General on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for the year ended 31 December 1998:

[The Third Elected Member for West Bay quoted from the Report of the Standing Public Accounts Committee on the report of the Auditor General on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for the year ended 31 December 1998. (See attached Appendix).]

The Speaker: Would this be a convenient time to take a break? Or, would you wish to you continue?

Mr. John D. Jefferson: I can take a break, sir.

The Speaker: We shall suspend proceedings for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.45 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.30 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Debate continuing on the report of the Public Accounts Committee. The Third Elected Member for West Bay continuing.

The Speaker: May I interrupt at this moment? We shall suspend proceedings until 2.30 PM.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.11 PM*PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.08 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Report of the Public Accounts Committee. The Third Elected Member for West Bay, continuing.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The next area covered in the Public Accounts Committee Report for 1998 is Pedro St. James. And under the heading of Financial and Technical Audits of Key Contracts it reads—[Member continued quoting—see appendix.]

Let me thank the members of the Public Accounts Committee who have served under my chairmanship for the past eight years. I really appreciate those who were responsible in attending and the contributions they offered in putting together our annual reports.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I rise to seek your guidance. I think some of us are possibly unsure as to procedure here. This is the last meeting before this House is dissolved. We now have the Auditor General's Report for year end 1998 tabled, and the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for year end 1998 being tabled, and we have the Public Accounts Committee Report being read and tabled by the chairman for the Auditor General's Report of 1998.

In 1996, the government was quick to make sure that the Government Minute for 1995 was done and tabled so that all was in order and these reports could have been debated. I think we have a couple of options. Perhaps the government can reply and let us know what is happening.

We don't know what is going to happen about the Government Minute. Because the House is going to be dissolved, we wonder whether this will fall away, or do we have to seek leave by way of resolution to debate this report without the benefit of the Government Minute. I hope my questions are clear and with the assistance of the government perhaps we can get an answer, sir.

The Speaker: In dealing with this matter under Standing Order 77(6) [& (7)] “(6) Subject to these Standing Orders, the practice and procedure of the Public Accounts Committee shall be determined by the Committee.”

“(7) The Government Minute shall be laid on the Table of the House within three months of the laying of the report of the Committee and of the report of the Auditor General to which it relates.”

It is my understanding that within that period of time the Government Minute will be laid on the Table and it has been customary for the two reports (the report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Government Minute) to be debated at that time. I am fully aware of what you have said about the dissolution of this House on the 26th of this month, and I am in the hands of . . . maybe the honourable Third Official Member can give us something. But I would also like to say at this time, under Standing Order 77 (9) “(9) Notwithstanding Standing Order 74, the report of the Public Accounts Committee shall be deemed to have been agreed to.”

The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, as you have pointed out, Standing Order 77(7) states that the Government has a period of three months in which to table the Government Minute following the tabling of the Public Accounts Committee Report. Notwithstanding the fact that the House will be dissolved on 25th of September, that does not remove the obligation, it would seem under the Standing Order, for the Minute to be tabled on the accounts for 1998.

I realise, as the First Elected Member for George Town said, that this would mean the conclusion of business for this House. As we know, we are going into a general election. But I just looked at the Public Accounts Committee Report and also the Auditor General's Report. It would seem to me that this will require having to consult or time will have to be taken by controlling officers in order to properly respond to the queries raised.

So it seems that the Minute will have to be Tabled within the 90-day period, but as to exactly when that will be done . . . or let's say a given time frame . . . it is difficult to predict that at this point in time.

Having to write and invite controlling officers to carefully consider the observations that have been made and also to respond, this will take a period of time.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I think what also needs to be said is that unless things change from the way they have been over the years, when the House is dissolved on 25th of this month, the new Legislative Assembly does not resume until some time in March. The 90 days will have crossed by many days before the report can be laid on the Table of the House. Surely, one cannot assume that the government would wait until the Public Accounts Committee Report is tabled before it sets itself in gear to be responding by way of a Government Minute.

I am certain that this is not the first time they are seeing that Public Accounts Committee Report. With the greatest of respect, for the honourable Third Official Member to talk about the length of time (and I respect that length of time), I am taken aback to believe that it is only after the report has been read by the chairman here that anyone is thinking that the response should be en-train.

I don't know what anybody is going to say about this, but I think it is an injustice to the system to expect this House to be dissolved almost in an anticlimax with this matter. Certainly, if they were well versed in 1996 to ensure that the Government Minute was laid so that it could be debated . . . perhaps this is just an opinion, but perhaps the report was a bit rosier at that time and conducive for them to talk a lot about it. But I believe that this legislature should have the right to conclude this business before its dissolution. I find it difficult to accept that it is only now that the Government would be thinking to put matters in gear so that the Government Minute could be prepared.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development, do you wish to comment further?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, I understand the views shared by the First Elected Member for George Town on the Government Minute. He made reference to the short time period in which the Government Minute for 1996 was prepared. But, while that has been a precedent, I am looking at the report we have in front of us at this time. This report raised quite a number of substantive issues. It seems as if these issues will have to be gone into thoroughly by the government and controlling officers in order for a proper response to be provided.

We know that the Public Accounts Committee Report was not available to government until this morning. Neither was it . . . for a minute I thought that other members of government may have seen the report of the Public Accounts Committee but I have not. The first I am seeing the report is today.

As honourable members know, the procedure in developing a response to the Public Accounts Committee Report does not involve the report itself. It means having to peruse the Auditor General's Report; having to make the linkage between that report and the observations made by the Public Accounts Committee on the Auditor General's Report. When it has been finalised and laid on the Table, these two documents will have to be looked at and when the Deputy Financial Secretary is inviting controlling officers to respond, he has to send the comments by the Auditor General and the observations of the Public Accounts Committee to controlling officers. They have to respond. Their responses have to be looked at by their permanent secretaries, ministries and portfolios concerned, and all of this is brought together into a final document that has to be examined by the government and then brought here to be tabled.

Notwithstanding that the next session of Parliament under the new government will be in March, there is a time period stipulated—90 days. It means the report must arrive at this honourable House within a period of 90 days. We know that there have been occasions in the past where this time period has been exceeded. But every attempt has always been made to comply with this time frame.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I have been listening intently to members and to you on comments made on this matter. I don't believe we should prorogue the House without having our views on this Auditor General's Report. So, I am going to move that under Standing Order 83, we suspend Standing Order 7 so that the debate of the Auditor General's Report—

The Speaker: I think you are referring to Standing Order 86.

MOTION TO SUSPEND STANDING ORDER 74(7)

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: Yes, suspend Standing Order 74(7) so that we can debate the Auditor General's Report on Friday, or Monday, until debate is completed on the matter.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I respectfully second that motion sir.

The Speaker: Once again I would like to call honourable members' attention to the provisions of Standing Order 74(9), which says "(9) Notwithstanding Standing Order 74, the report of the Public Accounts Committee shall be deemed to have been agreed to." If it's the wish of the House that we debate it, it's fine with me, but we would also have 77(9).

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to speak to the motion that has been moved by the First Elected Member for West Bay.

The Public Accounts Committee, as the public and this House have heard, has really spent all morning and part of the afternoon on a very long, detailed and fairly heavy-going report which has been put together after many months of consideration and meetings by the Public Accounts Committee.

There are three documents that make up this trio, which are necessary to ensure that any debate on this is transparent, is fair—

[Members' laughter]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: —and one which is balanced.

What is being requested now is like being called into a court, put at the bar of the court and having a charge read against you, and you are expected to reply to it then, never having heard of it before. That can't be right. That is why the Standing Orders provide that if allegations are made against someone, they surely, under transparency, must have a right to consider those and be given a right to be heard and to reply.

What has happened now is a situation of accusers and the government having no right to reply.

The position has always been that the audited accounts, together with the Public Accounts Committee, together with the Government Minute in reply, is what is debated. Obviously, in the interest of transparency and in the interest of natural justice . . . it's like not giving a person the right to be heard. In fact, how in the world, when you look at the length of this Public Accounts Committee Report—it's probably one of the longest ones we've ever seen.

Some Members: Oh no!

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Well, Mr. Speaker, it is a very long report because it took all morning plus part of the afternoon to read it. For us to now have to produce a minute that the government is given 90 days for, then it totally cuts across fairness, equity, and transparency. There is no—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear your point of order?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Maybe the minister will allow me to clarify something.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, if he has a point of order, and he stood up on it, make the point of order. I don't want to get into clarity again.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Well, I understand the minister doesn't want anything clarified, so I will leave him with that sir.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning, please continue.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you.

This procedure that is laid down in here, which gives government 90 days to reply, and there have been times when that has been exceeded. But the procedure in this is one that is laid down in the interest of fairness and transparency. There is no way that 90 days have been given for the reply on this, that anyone can expect a reply basically a debate to go on within the next few days. There is no way we can produce a minute to something this long.

And I point out again no one sent me, and I understand none of my colleagues here, any copy of that. So when that was laid on the Table today the Public Accounts Committee jealously held this secret from us up until this stage.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear your point of order?

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: If I read the Standing Orders correctly, the Public Accounts Committee is not made public until it is laid on the Table of this House. So it was not jealously withheld from any government member!

I would like that statement withdrawn as well as calling me an accuser—being a member of the Public Accounts Committee.

The Speaker: I listened to what you said, but there are two different things about sharing with a member and making it public, which when laid on the Table it was officially made public when I said "so ordered" and it was placed on the Table.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: But certainly, Mr. Speaker, the Public Accounts Committee's Report is not given to the government or any other member until it comes here. So we did not "jealously" withhold it.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, that point has been made so much better than I could make it. I will withdraw anything that seems to upset the member.

The point I am making, and I couldn't put my finger right on it, is exactly what the deputy Speaker has said—it is not made public. It is not given to us until it is laid on the Table here. So how in the world, in the interest of natural justice, in the interest of transparency, can we be expected to reply to it now, or tomorrow or early next week?

The point therefore is very clear. This document is not made public. It was not given to the government until we got it this morning. Therefore, there is no way that government can accede to any request at this stage to try to debate something we have not been given the proper time on to properly deal with.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: As a past chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, I rise to express my deep regret at a minister of government—no less than the Leader of Government Business—accusing honourable members of the Public Accounts Committee of being accusers and of jealously guarding the Public Accounts Committee Report. The Hansards must reflect that members of the Public Accounts Committee are not accusers; nor have they jealously guarded the Public Accounts Committee Report. The report was laid.

The government is inconsistent. As the First Elected Member for George Town said, when the report was much rosier in 1996, they debated and produced their Minute. Now, because they believe they are at a disadvantage and cast in a deservedly bad light, the Leader of Government Business is coming up with all kinds of lame excuses.

POINT OF ORDER

He's not fooling anyone because they are lame ducks. And the inefficiencies will be brought to light whether we debate the report now, or whether it becomes a matter of campaign politics. We are bound to expose them. What they are running from is exposure!

I can't help but chuckle when the Leader of Government Business talks about transparency and the right . . . if I were tongue in cheek I would say he has no right—because there is no Bill of Rights—so he has no right to talk about any rights or natural justice.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak to the motion? The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I think it is appropriate to say that it is correct that this morning was the first time we had seen the Public Accounts Committee Report. Actually I didn't see it until I was asked to lay on the Table the Auditor General's Report and the Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government.

Members will recall that some years ago the government got a copy of the report before it actually came to the House. But that has not happened in recent times. Why that decision was made . . . perhaps there were justified reasons. I don't know. But certainly, on this report we did not see it until this morning. I think members on the other side of the floor are knowledgeable enough to know that it is not appropriate to try to debate this report without accumulating all of the facts necessary to put forward the government's case.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Granted what the ministers have said, and with every effort to be reasonable, I too did not see the report until it was tabled this morning. But I still maintain, given the circumstances . . . and why government did not see the report prior to today I have no idea. In fact, I would like to know the answer. I don't know whether it's a policy of the committee or what. I don't know because I have not asked anybody. I still don't believe it is justice to this Legislative Assembly to have the dissolution of the Legislative Assembly without debate.

If the government claims, as the Minister of Education claims, that this is one of the longest reports they have ever seen, and it took all morning and nearly all afternoon for the chairman of the committee to read the report and that they cannot have a Government Minute ready by the time dissolution has to take place, I feel debate must take place even if the Minute cannot be prepared.

If we have to give each member of the government time to prepare what they want to deal with in debate, I don't have a problem with that. Perhaps it could be debated as far as possible giving even one day for debate and staying here however long to make sure the other government business gets done before dissolution. I don't have a problem with that. But I don't believe this House should be dissolved without debate taking place.

The First Elected Member for West Bay has moved a motion. It has been seconded. Again, I seek your guidance. The report was submitted under Standing Order 74(5) which says, "(5) The report or special report together with a copy of the minutes of proceedings of a select committee shall be presented to the House by the chairman or other Member of the committee acting on his behalf, and shall be recorded in the minutes of proceedings of the House as having been so presented and the chairman or any Member may, forthwith and without notice, move that the recommendations contained therein be adopted, modified or rejected, and if the motion be seconded and unopposed the Presiding Officer may forthwith and without debate put the question thereon."

My question to you, sir, is—just seeking your guidance—what happens if it is opposed? Does that in itself force a debate? It would seem so to me, but I ask for your ruling on that, sir, because if it in fact forces a debate, then I have no more argument with the government. I am simply going to oppose the resolution, if that is how it works.

I am not 100 percent sure, that's why I am seeking your guidance.

The Speaker: My ruling on that is in accordance with Standing Order 77(9), "Notwithstanding Standing Order 74, the report of the Public Accounts Committee shall be deemed to have been agreed to."

It has been agreed to.

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: In common language, yes.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, if I may just crave your indulgence, I am wondering if you might not allow yourself to revisit 77(9) because as a matter of interpretation, I am thinking that 77(9) "Notwithstanding Standing Order 74, the report of the Public Accounts Committee shall be deemed to have been agreed to." My interpretation of that, sir, says to me that is within the membership of the Public Accounts Committee before it is brought to the Legislative Assembly.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: While you are being asked to give guidance, I wonder if I could perhaps also ask for some guidance.

The Speaker: Certainly.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: When we look at Standing Order 74(5) which was alluded to by the First Elected Member for George Town, as I understand it that, by virtue of Standing Order 74(1) refers to select committees.

I am cognisant of the Standing Order subsequent to that, which is Standing Order 81(2) which says “(2) The Standing Orders relating to select committees shall apply to standing select committees unless otherwise specified.” I would respectfully submit that Standing Order 77(7) otherwise specifies that in that it set out there a specific time period of three months in which the government has a discretion to bring the report and would therefore ask for due consideration that the Standing Order which was submitted under 4(5) is inappropriate taking those considerations into full light.

The Speaker: I stick with my original ruling. It says “notwithstanding 74” and that encompasses every subsection of 74. It didn’t say subsection 74 (2), (3), (4) it said Standing Order 74—period.

The report of the Public Accounts Committee shall be deemed to have been agreed to.

Mr. Roy Bodden: By whom, sir?

The Speaker: By the members of this honourable House.

Mr. Roy Bodden: No, Mr. Speaker. Please, sir. I wish to distance myself from that position. I am not agreeing with it, sir.

The Speaker: Well, you are not agreeing with the Standing Orders of the House.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The member seems to be disagreeing with your ruling. Is that what he is saying, sir?

[Inaudible interjections]

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I thank you, sir. Just so that it is clearly understood, it is not a question, as the Minister of Education was inferring, of people questioning your ruling. No one is supposed to do that. No one is questioning either your ruling or your authority. Because you have been kind enough to make sure we are all very clear on this is the reason you have opinions being passed. While no one is questioning your ruling, we were wondering if perhaps a little bit of time may not be needed to ensure the interpretation of that 77(9) and also the government has brought some considerations as the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture talked about within the timing.

I certainly don’t wish to spend all evening engaged in acrimony debate, but perhaps clarity could be brought if a little bit of time were taken to ensure that everything was straight and that the decisions being made are in accordance with correct procedure.

The Speaker: Madam Clerk, do you have recorded the motion that was moved by the First Elected Member for West Bay?

[pause]

The Speaker: First Elected Member for West Bay, can you repeat your motion?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Mr. Speaker. I asked for the suspension of Standing Orders to debate the matter, the Auditor General’s Report and the Public Accounts Committee Report on either Friday 15 September or Monday 18 September until debate is completed.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O’Connor-Connolly: Just to be absolutely sure, do we now have two motions on the floor? There seems to be an addition to the original motion?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: No, no, no, no, no. Mr. Speaker, if I may.

When I moved the original motion I said, Friday or Monday. I didn’t say Monday the 18th, but I said Monday to debate it until completed.

The Speaker: Madam Clerk, will you read out your notes on the motion? [pause]

I think it would be more accurate if I got the transcript. But if members are willing . . . I want to conclude this motion. A motion is on the floor I must deal with it.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, if we can’t conclude or begin on Monday, later on in the week is fine. All I am saying is give us a chance to debate the matter.

The dates can be changed, we haven’t taken any vote on them.

The Speaker: We shall suspend for five minutes, but please don’t get up until we get the tape.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 4.20 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.38 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed.

Before going into this motion, I would like to call attention to the Third Elected Member for West Bay, that the last paragraph in his report reads, “Under Standing Order 77(5)” . . . it should be 77(9), and he goes on “and the Standing Public Accounts Committee shall be deemed to have been agreed to.” That correction should not have been made.

Reading from the Hansard of proceedings here this afternoon, the First Elected Member for West Bay said “Yes, suspend Standing Orders so that we can debate the Auditor General’s Report on Friday or on Monday until debate is completed on the matter.”

Does any other member wish to speak on it?

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak on it?

[Inaudible interjection]

The Speaker: That’s what we’ve been debating. That’s what’s been on the floor.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: I think it’s appropriate that we put the question if no other member wishes to speak. The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: As the mover of the motion, are you calling upon me to wind it up?

The Speaker: Right. You have that right.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Okay. That’s why I said to you earlier maybe other members want to speak.

The Speaker: We have one choice; we have passed the hour of interruption. We can adjourn now and come back tomorrow or something else. So . . .

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I am not trying to vary with whatever you think, but I think in fairness we were back and forth with several different issues although the motion was on the floor of the House. I just want for the Chair to recognise that I did not know, with all of the questions back and forth—because clarification was being sought about several matters—that we were actually dealing with the motion at hand. As far as I am concerned, I never spoke to the motion.

Understanding what you have said, it’s not a matter of prolonging it, but I think in all fairness, if that’s what we are dealing with now, if anyone wishes to speak to the motion, perhaps they should be allowed to. The questions I raised, the questions the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture raised were separate issues we were trying to clarify.

I think in fairness, if that’s what we are down to at this point in time, if members simply wish to speak to the motion and perhaps even if we are allowed only five minutes to do so, we should be allowed to do so.

The Speaker: I have no objection, but I think all honourable members are fully aware that only one motion can be on the floor at one time. I just gave you wide latitude because it was asked for.

[Inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: If that’s the wish of the House, I will allow you to make your contribution. But in any case, we have passed the hour of interruption, I either need to suspend Standing Order 10(2) to continue beyond 4.30, or we need to adjourn.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING 10(2)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, it seems that the wish of the House is that we finish this and come back in the morning.

The Speaker: So you move the suspension of Standing Order 10(2)?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, sir I will move the suspension to finish this motion.

The Speaker: The question is the suspension of Standing Order 10(2) to conclude this matter. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW THE HOUSE TO SIT BEYOND 4.30 TO CONCLUDE THE BUSINESS BEFORE THE HOUSE.

The Speaker: If honourable members wish to debate the motion before the House so that we can debate the Auditor General’s Report and I presume the Public Accounts Committee Report at the same time on Friday or on Monday until debate is completed on the matter. The floor is open for debate.

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I certainly will not be long, but I want to bring to everyone’s attention that the reason I brought the matter up is that the Minister of Education has flaunted the word “transparency” when he was getting his legal exercise a little while ago. Perhaps he may have some courtroom business to attend to shortly.

The government must appreciate the fact that regardless of what system we have there is a process of accountability. If the government takes the position given the time frame (whether by design or coincidence) that it will not have time to prepare to debate this motion, when all of us have seen it at the same time, what is going to happen is that the government is going to vacate its position as government regardless of who is re-elected. Whatever form the next government takes, this government will be left with an opportunity to vacate its position as Ministers and collectively as government without being held accountable or without accounting for their actions.

And let us not forget that we have not see the Auditor General's Report on the activities of the government up until 31 December 1999. But understanding the position that it is physically impossible to deal with that one, I will not put that forth to add strength to the argument. But we have what we have before us. It doesn't take the preparation of a Government Minute to be able to debate. Certainly ministers must know what has transpired, and certainly ministers have access to the public service—regardless of what it takes out of them—to be able to prepare whatever information they need to prepare in order to debate this matter.

If I were the government, I would pay credence to the fact that government needs to account for what is contained in this Public Accounts Committee Report. Forget about the Government Minute at this point in time, Standing Orders allow for this to be debated. It is not a question of what the Minister of Education said regarding “transparency.” I would not take him on at this point in time about transparency. But the way he used the word in his debate earlier, suffice it to say that in my view it is convoluted. The fact of the matter is that we are trying to exercise that same transparency by being willing to debate the Public Accounts Committee Report on the Auditor General's Report for December 31 1997.

I would personally look on it—it probably will not matter to them—but I would personally look at it as an out for them if they are not prepared to debate it. We have tonight, we have tomorrow, and we have the weekend to prepare such debate and other matters can continue on in this Legislative Assembly until that time. I believe that sensible debate could take place and the public could be well informed of their activities for 1997 to year-end. They should take this opportunity to debate it.

Mr. Speaker, if we look at sheer numbers, the government certainly has us outnumbered. Perhaps that gives them comfort. But I say again, if they use the fact that they have the ability to nullify the motion on the floor of the House, they are not only shirking their duties but they are ducking their responsibility to be accountable for their actions, sir.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation, and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: If I may speak on what I call the ‘clarified’ motion—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: No, no, no, Mr. Speaker. I don't see . . . On a point of serious order here, and procedure, I cannot see how the Minister of Education expects to speak now on anything when he already gave his debate on this matter.

[Members' laughter]

The Speaker: If you wish to clarify what you said, please continue.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I think as the First Elected Member for George Town mentioned, if there was confusion earlier, several members spoke into different areas—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: No, no, no—

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I now have a motion clarified before me. If I may . . . I really just wanted to state what the law is, as it appears to me under the Public Finance and Audit Law (1997 Revision). Remember, these are the 1998 accounts. It says [in section 42] “The Accountant General shall, within the period of four months, or such longer period as the Governor may determine, after the close of each financial year, transmit to the Auditor-General- (a) statement of assets [in other words, the accounts]. And section 43 (1) “On receipt . . . the Auditor General- (a) shall examine [them within] . . . seven months after the close of the financial year, or such longer period as the Governor may determine, prepare and submit to the person presiding at a sitting of the Legislative Assembly a report in respect of his examination . . .” then a copy of the accounts that goes into the Public Accounts Committee.

“43 (2) Within the period of three months, or such longer period as the Governor may determine, after the receipt of the report and certified statements from the Auditor- General under subsection (1), a copy of the report and certified statements, together with a copy of the report of the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislative Assembly shall be- (a) laid before the Legislative Assembly; and (b) submitted to the Secretary of State.”

That has just happened.

My point is simply this: These are the 1998 accounts regardless of whose fault . . . I am not trying to put the fault on anybody. Let me say that. These things should have come here quite a while ago, in fact. Probably nearly six to nine months back. Now what has happened, they have just come (for whatever reason). I am not pointing a finger at anyone. They have just come before here and the government has 90 days to reply—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker—

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: —and everyone else has—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: On a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: May I hear your point of order?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: What the Minister of Education is doing, I don't know right now because. Those same remarks he just made there, he said earlier. Mr. Speaker, please. I just don't see what's happening with this House because really . . . and please give me a chance here . . . he said he wanted an opportunity to clarify. But the minister has gone on and on now, sir. Really!

The Speaker: I agree with you wholeheartedly. I made a ruling and I think we should have put the question at that time. But, members pleaded that they be allowed—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, if I may address you.

The Speaker: Let me hear you.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: How could we have moved the motion at that time when I had no chance to debate what I had put forward? Or even rebut anything that was said?

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: Mr. Speaker, I will only be another minute. The point I am making is that the law itself is clear. Obviously, the accounts are way overdue, for whatever reason, so is the Public Accounts Committee Report. And now that we've come six to nine months later, where everyone has taken his time over months and months, and possibly years by now, then in a few days the government is expected to prepare a minute when it is given 90 days and then debate it. There is no way you can debate this without a minute. There has to be a Government Minute for this to be debated. It is unfair and it seriously lacks transparency.

[Members' laughter and inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak?
The Third Elected Member for Boddén Town.

Mr. Roy Boddén: Mr. Speaker, I want to say that I am left confused and bemused because I cannot understand how honourable members are going to be expected to accommodate the government by taking the position that the Leader of Government Business is advocating we take.

This matter, sir, is of sufficient importance that honourable members should be allowed to debate it. And if the Leader of Government Business is talking about the 1998 report being late, then may I ask where are the 1999 reports? We should be dealing with those.

Was it not a fact that the statements had to be returned to the government three times in order for them to be placed in a satisfactory and acceptable position?

I have to give the minister credit. He's doing his best, but his defence is lame and it holds no water. What he is proposing is contrary to the Standing Orders, contrary to democracy and contrary to the Westminster system. And we are not tolerating it!

I am surprised that they are not happy to account for their actions seeing that four years ago they were the proponents of the debate. They have the numbers. Their position may allow them to be arrogant, but coming November, they will certainly not be safe. That is all I have to say, sir.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak? Does the mover wish to reply? The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I listened in the beginning to the First Elected Member for George Town when he raised the matter. And I listened to the honourable Financial Secretary's reply when he said they will not lay the report, the Government Minute, before prorogation. I realise that we will not have a chance to express our views on the matter. Even if we take what was being said, we were agreeing to it.

I know that in 1996, while I was part of Executive Council, the Government Minute was laid in six days. I remember because we said we didn't want the House to be prorogued without Members having an opportunity to air . . . and the government having a chance to air its feelings on the matters raised in the Auditor General's Report the Public Accounts Committee Report and the Government's accounts.

Now, we have 12 days (according to my arithmetic) before dissolution. Why in the world can't Executive Council have the Minute before that time I don't know. Why?

This is not a motion asking government to bring the Minute now—which is their response to these matters. This is not asking them to rush their Minute. This motion is about debate so that exactly what the Minister of Tourism, and the Minister of Education said can take place so that transparency can exist and that they can be held accountable. As it stands, if we do not have that opportunity they will say anything without anybody having a chance to tell the world how they feel.

I do not agree with them that the Auditor General's Report is not seen by ministers before it is laid. Some of them said they did not see the report before it was laid. In this matter the Executive Council will have the same opportunity as I, or those other members of this House who are not part of the Public Accounts Committee to peruse and search, so that they can give sensible debate.

They have better opportunity than us on the opposition because they have a whole civil service at their disposal, to sit down with them on the weekend and look at the report. If we debate on Monday, or Friday next week, they would have the same time as we have on this side. So don't tell me that they are going to be at a disadvantage. That does not hold water.

If they are talking about fairness, it can't be fair for this House to close down with nobody having a say on this matter. This is what fairness is, and this is what would be transparent. And depending on what members say, it could even be balanced.

I know one thing: I understand that the Auditor General gives the government the matters that are controversial or serious before he lays his report and before he puts it in book form. They have a chance to reply to his office before it is put in book form. That is the procedure. So they know every blinking thing that he is going to lay on the Table of this House. The only ones who are disadvantaged are those of us in the opposition who are not on the Public Accounts Committee. We don't know.

So, they know exactly what he is saying on any controversial issue or project, such as Pedro Castle, or on whatever fees they think Government is due. They already know. For them to come here and say they don't . . . I don't believe they are telling the truth.

I am prepared to give them more time. I am prepared to give them until the 24th. So I ask that we agree to an amendment that the government debates this on the 24th.

[Inaudible interjections]

AMENDMENT TO MOTION

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: Well, Mr. Speaker, if that is a Sunday, then Friday or Thursday. Friday the 22nd. I move that amendment.

The Speaker: Is there a seconder?

Mr. Roy Bodden: I beg to second that, sir.

The Speaker: I hope members don't want to debate the amendment!

[laughter]

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on the motion before the House as amended "so that debate on the Auditor-General's Report up until 18 September, up until debate is completed on the Matter." Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES and Noes.

The Speaker: The Noes have it.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: May we have a division please?

The Speaker: Madam Clerk, please call the division.

8. COMMITTEE'S FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Audit Opinion (Auditor General's Report paragraphs 1.4 –1.6)

Overseas Medical Advances (Auditor General's Report paragraphs 1.36 - 1.48)

The Committee is pleased to note that the Health Services Department has made significant improvements to both the organisational and financial issues raised in the 1995 Auditor General's Report. However, the overseas medical advances account has increased from $12,579,989 in 1997 to $14,631,669 as at 31 December 1998. Once again, and similar to the last three years, the Auditor General has qualified his audit opinion on the 1998 Government accounts due to the inappropriate accounting treatment for overseas medical advances.

Overseas medical advances made up 36% of Government's total assets at 31 December 1998 and exceeded the accumulated surplus of $9.1 million reported on the General Revenue Fund. If all the overseas medical advance accounts were brought to account in 1998 the General Revenue Fund would have shown an accumulated deficit of $5.5 million. The Committee is well aware that accumulated advances will eventually have to be brought to account. In that particular year, the expenditure reported will be inflated with expenses which should have been brought to account in prior years. In the event that the General Revenue Fund records a small surplus in that particular year the impact of this one time charge will result in a huge deficit for that year. The Committee was informed that Government had set aside $2.5 million in 1999 to provide for write off of overseas medical expenses against the General Revenue Fund. This is a good first step but it will only cover new overseas advances made during 1999. Outstanding overseas medical advances remain at $15 million (un-audited) as at the end of 1999.

With the introduction of compulsory health insurance, there should be only a few instances where Government has to provide coverage for indigent and uninsurable persons. This would seem to be an ideal time for the Health Services Department to make a realistic assessment of advances that are irrecoverable. The Committee notes that both the Internal Audit Unit and the Auditor General's Office has carried out work in this area. Health Services Department has also tried to collect outstanding advances over the years. The conclusions of the Audit Departments and Health Services Department own experience with their collection efforts should place them in a solid position to determine the recoverability or otherwise of these balances.

At 31 December 1998, $1,271,000 of overseas medical advances relates to amounts owed by civil servants and their dependents and retired civil servants. These liabilities arise because the above mentioned individuals referred for overseas medical treatment have to pay a contribution towards the room rates in the overseas hospital. This is a requirement of General Orders. The Committee considers that General Orders should have been amended many years ago and the full cost of overseas medical for civil servants met by their employer, the Government. This would seem to be a good time for Government to consider an amnesty on all amounts owing by civil servants and their dependents and retired civil servants relating to room charges for overseas medical treatment. The Committee hopes that the new health insurance scheme will take care of the problem of excess room charges in the future.

The Committee makes the following recommendations:

- (a) Expenditure accumulated in advance accounts should be expensed to the General Revenue Fund without any further delay so that the Government's true financial position is disclosed in the 1999 accounts. Loan accounts should be established in cases where beneficiaries have some capacity to pay;
- (a) All necessary steps should be taken by the Health Services Department to recover overseas medical advances from those able to pay; and
- (b) Government should consider granting an amnesty on all balances owing by civil servants and their dependents and retired civil servants relating to room charges for overseas medical expenses.

Financial Highlights 1998 [Auditor General's Report paragraph 1.13, Figure 1.1]

The Committee is pleased to acknowledge that Government's financial performance improved in 1998. Excluding the General Reserve Fund, cash balances were $12.9 million as at 31 December 1998, the strongest cash position since 1989. However it should be noted that this represents only 17 days operating expenses. Overall, the deficit before loan finance and transfer to Reserves amounted to $6.7 million compared to $26.4 million in 1997.

The net cash inflow for the year was $13.7 million. However the Committee has concluded that the strong cash position was partly attributable to an under-expenditure of $4.1 million on the Capital Development Fund, compared to the original approved Estimate. Despite the reduced capital expenditure, the full proceeds of a $19.5 million local loan were drawn down, resulting in a year end cash balance of $4.1 million held within the Capital Development Fund. This will result in additional public debt repayment costs in the years to come.

The Committee also noted that only $4.3 million of the accumulated cash balances were held within the General Revenue Fund. In the opinion of the Committee, this is a more realistic assessment of funds available to cover general operating costs, as other cash balances are restricted to special purposes.

Environmental Protection Fund [Auditor General's Report paragraphs 1.24 – 1.32]

This Fund was established in late 1997 for the purpose of defraying expenditure incurred in protecting and preserving the environment. However, the Motion creating the establishment of the Environmental Protection Fund (EPF) did not define the criteria for determining the scope and extent of activities that would be deemed to constitute "protection and preservation of the environment". During 1998 an amount of $2,028,400 was transferred from the EPF to the Capital Development Fund to fund 18 capital development projects. The Auditor General has reported that only three of these projects costing $489,997 appear to relate to the protection and preservation of the environment." In the opinion of the Auditor General, the remaining projects, notably playing fields, sports facilities, channels and launching ramps and drainage, do not. He concludes that in total $1,194,603 has been allocated to purposes not approved by the Legislative Assembly plus a further $343,800 of funds which were unspent.

The Committee also takes note of the Auditor General's recommendation that appropriations from the Fund should be formalised by means of a resolution of Finance Committee. The Committee recalls that projects to be funded from the EPF were not identified in the original 1998 Budget documentation. Members understood that the Minister responsible for capital development was to provide Finance Committee with a list of projects to be funded by the EPF. Subsequently, in May 1998, a document entitled “Re-prioritised Capital Development Budget 1998” was presented to, and approved by, Finance Committee. The only information concerning use of EPF funds was a black box shown against certain projects, which apparently was to intimate that the project in question was to be funded from the EPF. The Committee agrees that the correct procedure of seeking the Legislative Assembly’s approval for use of EPF monies should have been via a formal resolution and not indirectly via a note to the Reprioritised Capital Budget.

The Committee has established that the list of environmental projects was compiled by the Director of the Budget and Management Unit without any input from the Department of Environment. Furthermore, no rules or criteria had been established by the Government to regulate the use of these funds. The Committee concluded that the Director, BMU should not have been placed in the position to choose which projects were to be funded from the EPF. That function is the responsibility of the Financial Secretary, acting on the advice of elected Ministers.

The Committee was also provided with information by the Director of the Environment. The Committee was informed that the Department of the Environment submitted interim guidelines to Executive Council in April 1999 regarding the use of EPF funds. The DoE identified five broad criteria of how funds could be used, comprising:

- (a) Conservation of Cayman Islands marine and terrestrial resources allowing for sustainable use where appropriate and feasible;
- (b) Strengthening the identification, assessment and monitoring of Cayman Islands biodiversity;
- (c) Increasing insitu protection and conservation of biodiversity, including land purchase for conservation;
- (c) Improving research and conservation of the Cayman Islands natural environment;
- (d) Improving public education and awareness of all facets of natural environment and biodiversity conservation in the Cayman Islands.

The Committee was also informed that international practice is to treat special environmental funds as a complement to central government funding for the environment, and not as a replacement for it.

The Committee makes the following recommendations:

- (a) Government should develop clear guidelines on the use of EPF monies and table these in the Legislative Assembly. Although the Committee does not wish to stray into policy areas, it would seem to be appropriate to seek advice and guidance from the Department of Environment on recognised international practices regarding the use of these funds.
- (b) If necessary, Motion 14/97 should be amended to provide clear rules and guidance on the authorised uses of EPF funds;
- (c) In future, any expenditure from the EPF should be authorised by means of a proper Motion so that legislators are fully aware of how funds are to be utilised.

Infrastructure Development Fund [Auditor General's Report paragraphs 1.33 – 1.34]

Government introduced a range of revenue enhancement measures during fiscal 1997. One such measure was the establishment of an Infrastructure Fund.

The Fund's revenue comes from two sources: infrastructure fees payable under the Development and Planning Law (Amendment) Law, 1997 and 1.5% Stamp Duty on land transfers in certain defined areas. Revenue collected in the Fund during 1998 amounted to $3.2 million. There was no expenditure from the Fund during 1998 and at 31 December 1998 it had accumulated $3.9 million in a separate bank account. The Committee believes that Government's borrowing of funds from commercial banks during 1998 to finance its capital programme could have been lessened by the use of monies from the Fund. Future interest costs on the repayment of loans could therefore have been reduced.

The Committee dealt with the matters relating to the Fund quite extensively in its 1997 Report. The Committee is disappointed that the Government Minute did not even address these matters. None of the Committee's 1997 recommendations have been adopted.

The Committee recommends that:

- (a) the recommendations made in its 1997 Report be considered by Government during fiscal 2000;
- (b) Government should establish clear terms of reference as to how monies in the Fund can be spent. Those terms should be presented to the Legislative Assembly.

Legislative Oversight of Capital Projects

As a general comment, the Committee considers that insufficient financial information about major capital projects is being provided to Finance Committee. The information flow has been deficient in two main areas, disclosure of total estimated costs and reporting of actual costs.

For several years very little information on total estimated project costs was provided in the annual Estimates. Finance Committee was simply invited to approve an annual appropriation. The Committee acknowledges that the Government has partially addressed this weakness and has provided estimates of total project cost in both the 1999 and 2000 Estimates. However the Committee questions the accuracy of certain total project costs disclosed in the capital Estimates and has concluded that better disclosure is needed. The Committee suggests that this is an area of financial management which warrants further examination by the Auditor General's office. The Committee believes that the quality of information could be improved and legislators better informed if the capital Estimates were supported with a project description and preliminary costing for all new projects costing over (say) $500,000. This could be tabled at the same time as the annual Estimates. Finance Committee would be advised and approval sought if the total estimated project cost was likely to be exceeded.

The other area where information flows are deficient is financial reporting of project costs. Whereas the capital Estimate is scrutinised and discussed project by project, appropriation is sought only by a single Head "Capital Development Head 54". Traditionally the annual accounts follow the format of the capital Estimates but expenditure is reported only at sectoral level - e.g. Public Buildings, Roads, Health Care Facilities, etc. Individual project costs are not reported with the result that Members are never informed of the final costs of projects. The Public Accounts Committee feels this hampers effective oversight and monitoring by the Legislative Assembly. To some extent this problem can be attributed to the structure of the old general ledger accounting system which did not facilitate flexible reporting. Indeed, for project management purposes, Public Works Department created a separate project accounting system. The new accounting system (IRIS) is structured with a separate accounting code for each project and is able to support financial reporting at both sectoral and project level.

The Committee has also been advised that the proposed change to accrual based accounting will require capital development expenditures to be reported by project and not by sector. This serves to emphasise the need for change in the reporting format.

The Committee's general concerns were vividly illustrated in the case of the Pedro St James project, which is discussed later in this Report.

The Committee recommends the following:

- (a) A project description and preliminary costing should be presented to the Legislative Assembly in respect of every new capital development project costing over $500,000 and any amendments thereto.
- (b) Legislators should be invited to vote for a total project cost that could not be exceeded without prior legislative approval.
- (c) Annual financial reporting of the capital development programme should be by individual project within a sector.
- (d) Finance Committee should be provided with a project completion report in respect of every completed project costing in excess of $500,000. This report would provide an analysis of actual cost components (elements) compared to the original approved total estimated cost, with explanations being provided for significant variances.
- (e) These changes should be introduced with effect from financial year 2001.

Advance Accounts:

Overseas Training Travel* [Auditor General's report paragraph 1.50]

In previous years the cost of Civil Servants' overseas training was met from one central vote that was administered by the Personnel Training Unit. Funds issued to officers are classified as overseas training advances until expense claim returns are submitted to account for the monies spent and these returns have been accepted by Treasury as accurate. Once this occurs, the funds are classified as expenditure. The administrative arrangement to account for the cost of training Civil Servants has been decentralised. Most Government agencies have now been assigned their own individual training vote.

At 31 December 1998, balances on Overseas Training Advance accounts totaled $154,865. During 1999, Treasury and the Personnel Training Unit carried out an extensive review of individual advance accounts. As a result of the review, balances on accounts that existed at 31 December 1998 were reduced to $69,654. New advances arose during 1999 and these caused the cumulative balance on all advance accounts to increase to $92,645 at 31 December 1999.

Official Travel - [Auditor General's report paragraph 1.51]

In its 1997 Report, the Committee requested a further report from the Auditor General regarding the outstanding balances on overseas travel advance accounts for the financial year 1998. We also urged the Financial Secretary and Accounting Officers to resolve this matter by ensuring that all advances are properly accounted for before the 1998 accounts were submitted. The Committee notes that problems with uncleared official travel advances have persisted in 1998, though the magnitude of the problem seems to have reduced.

The Committee believes that the present system is unnecessarily bureaucratic and is in dire need of reform. The Treasury spends too much time and effort accounting for advances issued to Civil Servants for official travel and training. The Committee substantiates their position by the fact that the Auditor General has found little evidence that travel advances are being abused by the Civil Servants.

The Committee again recommends the establishment of a non-accountable daily rate to cover accommodation, meals and subsistence expenses for each country or area Civil Servants visit. The Committee believes that this recommendation will not cost government any additional money. It should result in official travel advances being brought to account more speedily than the present mechanism and should also result in a significant human resource saving in the Treasury Department – resources which are needed for the development of the Financial Management Initiative. The Committee also recommends that the Governor, Members of Executive Council and Permanent Secretary level appointments be provided with corporate credit cards for use on official travel only.

The Committee further recommends that a proposal be made to the Financial Secretary to write-off balances on advance accounts, as unvouched expenditure, if efforts to secure adequate documentation or explanations for the disposition of funds issued to officers fail, because of the passage of time.

Loans to Civil Servants and Non-Civil Servants - $164,816 [Auditor General's Report paragraphs 1.56 – 1.57]

The outstanding balances on loans to Civil Servants and Non-Civil Servants were, respectively, $43,736 and $121,080 at 31 December 1998. Some of these loans are over six years old.

The Committee is aware that approximately $70,000 was allegedly misappropriated at Northward Prison, between January 1990 and July 1992. This item accounts for most of the $121,080 of outstanding balances at 31 December 1998 that have been classified as loans to Non-Civil Servants. As legal action was not proceeded with, Finance Committee approved write-off of this amount to expenditure in December 1999.

The Committee recommends that all attempts should be made to recover the amounts that currently remain outstanding in respect of loans to Civil Servants and Non Civil Servants. Although it may not be possible to legally pursue some loans in the Courts because of their age, the Committee believes that Government should make one last attempt to persuade debtors to repay their obligations. If this fails, the Committee recommends that the Financial Secretary present a proposal to Finance Committee for their write-off to expenditure.

Customs Deposits - $1,670,333 [Auditor General's Report paragraphs 1.62 – 1.64]

Customs and Treasury Departments keep separate records of deposits placed by businesses in the Islands with Government. The Committee was informed that the deposits are held to ensure that Government can recover duty when traders request the immediate release of perishable goods or those of an emergency nature. When duty is assessed after the goods have been released to traders, the balance on the deposit account is reduced by the amount of assessed duty. This amount is transferred to General Revenue. Traders will periodically inject additional funds to their deposit account so that the balance is sufficient to cover the likely duty assessment on imported goods. The Committee was told that this procedure exists with approximately 30 traders. When goods of a non-perishable or non-emergency nature are imported, duty has to be paid outright before the items are released.

There have significant variances between Treasury and Customs records of deposits and bonds. In its 1997 Report the Committee urged that these deposits be reconciled as a matter of urgency. The Committee is pleased to report that the reconciliations were completed in time for the closure of the 1988 accounts and acknowledges the assistance of the Accountant General in this regard. For 1998, the Audit Office carried out further independent confirmation with 18 of the largest traders. This exercise revealed significant variances between Customs/Treasury records and those reported by individual traders. The Audit Office was able to agree only 2 of the 18 balances. Further investigations revealed two cases where the Customs deposit account was overstated by $230,000. The results of this exercise were shared with Customs.

The Audit Office recommended that Customs conduct its own trader confirmation in respect of deposit balances at 31 December 1999 and the Collector of Customs has accepted this recommendation. However, as of April 2000, Customs had not started the reconciliation process in respect of these balances. Customs officials stated that they planned to start the reconciliation process firstly with the records kept by Treasury and once this was completed, to commence the exercise with traders. The Committee is rather disheartened and perturbed that the exercise had not commenced especially since the Department had previously recognised the importance of this work. The Committee was told that the reconciliation process could not commence before May 2000 because new staff was being trained and the Accounts Section of Customs was being reorganised. The Committee considers that this matter is not receiving the priority it deserves and requested the Deputy Financial Secretary to carry out a review of trader deposit reconciliation. The Deputy Financial Secretary has agreed to prepare a report and to submit it to the Committee within 90 days – that is by 4 July 2000. The report has now been submitted to the Committee.

The Committee makes the following recommendations:

- (a) Reconciliation of traders' deposit balances at 31 December 1999 between Customs / Treasury records and traders must be completed by the end of June 2000 at the very latest. The Committee request a further report on progress from the Auditor General.
- (b) If it is not possible to determine which set of records (Customs or traders) is correct, Customs should adopt the deposit balance per traders' records;
- (c) Once the 31 December 1999 reconciliation have been completed, Customs should maintain the process on a monthly basis;
- (d) Customs should adopt any recommendations arising from the Deputy Financial Secretary's review.

The Health Insurance Law, 1997 [Auditor General's Report 2.1 – 2.10]

The Health Insurance Fund

The Health Insurance Law was introduced during 1997 and took effect in July 1998. The Health Insurance Fund was established for the purpose of defraying the cost to Government of providing medical treatment to indigent uninsurable and partially uninsurable persons. The Fund collects $5 per month in respect of individuals or $10 per month in respect of family coverage from each premium paid to every approved insurance provider. Funds collected are paid into a segregated Fund administered by an Administrator, who is the Superintendent of Insurance of the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority. The funds may only be used to pay for medical treatment provided at a Government medical institution. Reimbursable costs are limited to benefits prescribed in a standard health insurance contract, including referral to an overseas health care facility by the Chief Medical Officer.

The Committee notes that no claims were made by Government against the Fund as of 31 December 1998 because it was felt that the Health Insurance Law and Regulations did not provide explicit authority for the Administrator to make disbursements to Health Services Department. This was subsequently rectified by the Health Insurance (Amendment) (Indigent Persons) Regulations 1999, which was approved by the Legislative Assembly in April 1999. The Committee notes that there have been delays in submitting claims for reimbursement. As at 31 December 1999, only $24,000 in claims had been reimbursed from the Fund to the Health Services Department. The Committee was informed that a further $868,000 of claims for 1999 are pending, with approximately $300,000 settled as of May 2000. The Committee trusts that Health Services will be able to submit claims for the year 2000 and beyond on a timely basis and that these will be settled promptly by the Administrator.

The Committee takes particular note that Health Services Department will be reimbursed from the Health Insurance Fund, for indigent uninsurable and partially uninsurable persons, only to the level of coverage prescribed under the standard health insurance contract. This means that the Government will still have to bear some costs relating to medical treatment of indigent uninsurable and partially uninsurable persons. The Ministry of Health may wish to consider this matter further to ensure that as large a portion of the cost as possible is covered by the Fund.

Other issues arising from the Committee's examination include the problems faced by individuals who are uninsurable or partly uninsurable by virtue of a pre-existing medical condition but who are not classified as indigent. Those persons are willing to pay for health insurance but cannot get cover and can be faced with substantial medical bills which they have great difficulty in settling. The Committee has been assured that government health services will always treat patients first and then seek settlement of hospital bills. The Committee was very pleased to learn that the Ministry is continuing to work towards finding a solution to this problem. As this is a policy matter, the Committee makes no specific recommendation but assures the Ministry of its support.

In addition, it is estimated that the cost of providing health insurance for civil servants and their dependants will be about $8.5 million per annum. This is a new incremental cost to the Government budget and the Committee earnestly hopes that much of this will be offset by medical fees recovered by the Health Services Department from insurers. Likewise, the new Health Insurance Fund mentioned earlier also provides an opportunity to recover fees for services, which hitherto have been provided free of charge to indigent uninsurable persons.

Revenue Systems

The Health Services Department uses the existing computerised revenue system to capture revenue transactions, issue billings to insurance companies and control accounts receivables from insurance companies and patients. The Committee notes that the present system is inadequate and this has led to slow processing of receipts from insurance companies and a buildup of accounts receivable balances. These problems were identified before civil servants and their dependents were covered by health insurance on 1 March 2000. The Committee is concerned that the problem may deepen with the increased volume of claims. The introduction of compulsory health insurance gives the Department an opportunity to improve their revenue position. However the Department needs to be adequately resourced both in terms of personnel and revenue systems.

The Committee is pleased to note that some progress has been made with late payment of insurance claims from insurance companies. The HSD, the Ministry of Health and the Superintendent of Health Insurance should coordinate their efforts in ensuring that insurance claims are settled on a timely basis. The Committee suggests 14 days for local companies and 28 days for overseas companies in settling insurance claims. In those cases where charges have to be paid by the patients, these should be billed out promptly to patients within a five-day period. All patient balances should be vigorously followed up. The Committee notes that the Health Services has received three reports recently relating to the operations of the Insurance section. The Committee urges the Department to implement those recommendations which will enhance its ability to adequately record and capture insurance billings in the most efficient and effective manner.

General Issues

The Committee is concerned about late payment of claims from some insurance companies and the cancellation of insurance policies relating to persons with certain medical conditions. This affects both government finances and individuals. The Committee has heard instances from members of the public that certain health care professionals charge one rate for medical services if cash is being tendered and a higher rate if insurance cards are being used. It has also been noted that many private health care professionals do not accept certain insurance cards. The Committee is not very sure as to the real cause of these problems but is concerned that the public is placed in a disadvantaged position, having to pay their premiums as well as their medical fees in advance. The Committee recognises that there are problems with some insurance companies not making timely payments which is contributing to this problem. It may be time for the Health Insurance Legislation to be amended to ensure that insurance companies settle claims in a timely manner. The Ministry should also investigate the issue of higher charges for medical services when an insurance card is used.

The Committee recommends the following:

- (a) Health Service Department needs to develop an effective monitoring system to manage accounts receivable from insurance companies. The Committee suggests that top priority should be given to settlement of all claims outstanding for 60 days or more to Government. If settlement delays continue the matter should be referred to the Legal Department for advice and assistance.
- (b) Government should also consider introducing legislation to define maximum periods in which insurance companies are permitted to settle claims.
- (c) Government should try to establish the extent of cancelled insurance policies relating to certain medical conditions by some insurance companies. A compromise must be worked out since it appears many persons are without insurance cover. Since Government may have to provide medical services to these individuals as a last resort, consideration could be given to insuring such persons under the Health Insurance Fund.
- (d) It seems unfair that private health care practitioners do not accept certain insurance cards as this places a financial strain on many patients. The Committee acknowledges that this may be due to a poor payment history by certain insurance companies. The Ministry of Health should try to resolve this problem so those patients can obtain some financial relief.

- (e) The HSD should ensure that they are properly resourced so that all revenues are properly recorded and collected on a timely basis.
- (f) Claims against the Health Insurance Fund should be made brought up to date as soon as possible and thereafter submitted in a timelier manner. The Committee does not know whether the $5 or $10 contributions per month are sufficient to fund the cost of medical services to indigent uninsurable persons. This ought to be carefully monitored by the Ministry.
- (g) Health Services Department should prepare a medium term financial plan to show clearly how increasing operating costs and capital expenditures will be financed. This will hopefully direct Government's attention to the important fact that revenues must be increased if the level and quality of medical care is to be maintained at the present high standards.

Arrears of Garbage Fees [Auditor General's report paragraphs 2.11 – 2.18]

Solid waste collection is an essential public service and garbage fees make an important contribution to Government revenue. Approximately $2.3 million was collected in 1998. Effective revenue collection has been an ongoing problem for at least a decade, resulting in an increase in arrears from $0.1 million in 1988 to approximately $1.6 million at the end of 1998. The accuracy and completeness of the customer database used to produce this information is also highly questionable and there is no doubt that a substantial amount of revenue has been lost over the years due to incomplete records. There have been major problems in collecting garbage fees which have never been fully resolved.

In response to a query about the recommendations from its 1995 Report relating to Garbage Fees, the Committee was informed that:

- (a) The legislation to introduce fines for non-payment of garbage fees did not proceed.
- (b) Automatic deduction of annual and accumulated arrears of garbage fees was never implemented primarily because the Department of Environmental Health does not have information on which of its customers are civil servants. There may also be legal impediments to this course of action.
- (c) The customer database has been cleaned up resulting in a substantial reduction in customer complaints. The Department is confident that the current billing system is accurate. However there are major problems regarding the reporting capabilities of the current EVCC computer package which results in inaccurate arrears reports being produced.
- (d) The solid waste accounting and routing computer package selected by the Department was rejected by Computer Services because it was not compatible with the Oracle system. However the current EVCC computer package is also not compatible and a link would have to be created.

The Department would like to have a system that was intended for solid waste information processing. This would mesh operations and accounting, so that all information including billing is automatically updated when a change is made.

The Committee was pleased to learn that the Department has reconciled its revenue figures with Treasury and that it is currently drafting recommendations to government for ways to improve the fee structure to make it more equitable and collectible. The Department has also, for the first time, referred its delinquent accounts to the Treasury Debt Collector.

The Committee makes the following recommendations:

- (a) The Department should purchase the necessary software, which links operations and accounting to improve efficiency and the reliability of accounting information and to ensure good control over this area.
- (b) The Department should seek professional advice as to the best means of tackling the problem of collection of garbage fee revenue.
- (c) Government should write-off garbage fees which, as prescribed in The Limitation Law (Law 12 of 1991), are in arrears for more than six years.

Elderly Care in the Cayman Islands [Auditor General's Report paragraphs 2.19 – 2.37]

The provision of care for the elderly within the Cayman Islands has been placing increasing demands on government's annual budget. This is especially so since in recent times where there has been a growing emphasis on the provision of quality care for the elderly.

The Social Services Department manages three government residential care homes for the elderly in the Cayman Islands. In summary, the department offers full and partial care to approximately 100 clients, including services to approximately 40 clients within their own homes and day care services to approximately 20 clients in West Bay. These services required an annual budget of $2.4 million in 1999. There has been an increasing trend for elderly care services especially as family life and the roles and responsibilities of family relations have changed. Cayman Brac has been impacted by the migration of the younger folks, leaving the elderly to care for themselves or by others. In other instances, families are busy with long working hours and are not able to provide adequate supervision and care to their elderly relatives. This recent trend has created the provision of a number of care programmes managed by the Social Services department.

The Social Services Department has placed significant emphasis on providing quality care for the elderly. This is reflected in the programmes' policies and procedures, the various services offered and level of personal care that is given to the clients. The department's aim is to provide quality care for the elderly within their current programmes namely the residential facilities, in-home and day care centre.

An analysis of the various programmes shows that the residential facilities are more cost effective than the in-home programme. Diseconomies of scale arise when clients are cared for in their own homes as compared to being in a residential facility with other clients. This is due to the overall cost of managing one or two residential homes compared to covering the cost of clients within their own homes.

The cost of having one residential facility is comparably less than two residential facilities. This was seen in cost per client in Grand Cayman, which has two homes and a capacity of 12 residents, as compared to the cost per client seen in Cayman Brac, which has one residential facility housing with a capacity of 14 residents. There are a number of factors other than cost that governs the direction of the entire programme namely, prevailing culture and the needs of the clients.

The present capacity of the government residential homes will not permit a significant increase in client accommodation. Presently the client capacity at government homes is 12 in Grand Cayman and 14 in Cayman Brac. Sixty-nine percent (69%) of the clients are being cared for in either the in-home programme or the Pines Retirement home. The Day Care service, which housed 22 clients at the Golden Age home in 1998, suffers from inadequate facilities. During inclement weather the Golden Age home is very uncomfortable for the clients due to overcrowding.

The Elderly care programme needs a long-term strategy. This is necessary for the clear identification of future goals of the programme. These plans should provide key objectives, targets and methods of evaluating care provided and highlight likely capital expenditure, potential for savings and required investment in the programme and the staff.

Currently the government is the sole financier of the elderly care programme. There is very little financial help from families as most of them have neglected their financial responsibilities. This factor should be addressed alongside the other issues affecting a long-term strategy for elderly care. More involvement by family members, financial and social, is crucial to the survival of this programme.

The Committee commends the Social Services Department on their hard work and dedication in this area that is considered a high priority. Government should investigate ways of decreasing the overall costs per client, but should take into consideration the wishes of the clients. In those cases where family members can afford it, they should contribute to the cost of looking after their elderly.

The Committee makes the following specific recommendations:

- (a) Government should undertake a small study to determine the potential number of clients and their particular needs, which may have to be provided in future. This will assist in planning for the needs of these clients.
- (b) At present Government is the main provider of elderly care which it funds almost 100%. Other options of financing this programme should be considered, particularly private sector contributions and the assistance of family members.
- (c) Government should develop a long-term strategy for the clear identification of future goals for the elderly care programme. These plans should provide key objectives, targets and methods of evaluating care services and highlight likely capital expenditures, potential for savings and required investment in the programme and the staff.
- (d) The present capacity of the Golden Age Home in West Bay cannot facilitate clients for both the residential and good quality day care. An extension to the present facilities is urgently required and Government should deal with this as a matter of priority.

Statutory Authorities – Contributions to Government [Auditor General's Report paragraphs 4.1 - 4.3]

The Committee wishes to record again its concern over the prolonged delays in tabling in the Legislative Assembly the financial statements of certain Statutory Authorities. The Committee is particularly concerned about the absence of agreements between Government and three of the statutory authorities, namely the Civil Aviation, Port and Water Authorities regarding the level of the authorities' contribution to government for 1998.

There seems to be a common clause in each of the Authority's Laws, which specifies that, any excess revenue over a certain amount is to be paid into the general revenue of the Islands. The Port Authority and the Civil Aviation Authority specify that any amount over $100,000 should be transferred, but the Water Authority is not explicitly clear on this matter. The Committee's opinion is that this type of provision is obsolete and requires amendment.

The Committee enquired into the circumstances surrounding the budgeted revenue from three statutory authorities for 1998. The position for each authority is as follows.

Port Authority

The Committee was informed that some years ago, the Port Director and the Honourable Minister responsible for the Authority met with the Financial Secretary to work out a formula for the annual contribution the Port Authority would make to government. The agreement was that the Port would contribute 25% of net profit of the previous year. This formula has been in operation since 1996. However the agreement was never recorded in writing and does not seem to have been referred to Executive Council for ratification.

In 1997 the Authority paid $1,500,250 to Government. This was 89% of its prior year profits before extraordinary item. The Authority's profit for 1997 was $1,670,034 and 25% of this would be $417,508. Government included a contribution of $1,000,000 from the Authority in 1998. This level of contribution was never discussed officially with the Authority's Board. Based on the 25% of profit agreement and the Authority's profit record, this level of contribution seems wholly unreasonable and unrealistic. The amount actually paid over to Government for 1998 was $321,011.

Water Authority

The Committee heard from the Director of the Water Authority that their policy was to pay to government what it could afford to pay without interfering with the Authority's ability to fulfil its statutory obligations. Initially the board did not approve any contribution to the government for 1998. The Committee further understands that in early 1999 discussions were held with the Financial Secretary and it was agreed that the Minister responsible for the Authority, the Financial Secretary and the Director would meet to agree a suitable contribution. For various reasons this meeting did not take place. However later in 1999 the board decided to make a contribution of $200,000 for 1998, which is what it felt it could afford. The contribution budgeted for 1998 was $1 million.

The Director has confirmed to the Committee that no contribution has been included in the Authority's budget for 2000 and that he does not expect to be able to make the contribution of $500,000 included in the 2000 budget.

Civil Aviation Authority (CAA)

The Committee heard from the Director of CAA that, over the years, there have been many meetings between the Authority and Minister responsible at the time, with the Financial Secretary to formulate a method for this contribution. However to date there is no real method or formula, and the levels of contribution requested by the government still appear to be arbitrary. For the financial year 1998, government budgeted $3 million as contribution but CAA was able to pay over only $1.5 million. For 1999 and 2000 the contribution levels were set at $1 million. The Authority was able to meet its 1999 contribution. The Committee further learned that the authority would be able to meet its year 2000 contribution but would have to borrow externally to finance a major runway rehabilitation project at Cayman Brac .

The Committee recognises that CAA's difficulties have been exacerbated by problems in collecting landing and parking fees. This has had a major impact on CAA's cash flow for the past three years and has impacted its ability to make the contribution levels required by government.

Position Regarding 2000 Contributions

This Committee learnt that in the past none of the three Directors have been contacted or consulted during the government's budget process about the level of contribution that government is expecting in each financial year. The Committee is surprised that contribution levels have been fixed in such a haphazard manner. The Committee learned that there have been some recent improvements in communication between government and the Authorities regarding the expected level of contributions. For the year 2000 budget Ministers of government, who normally chair these Boards, have informed the Boards as to what the desired contribution levels would be in advance of finalising budgets. This is an improvement. The Directors of the Port and Civil Aviation Authorities confirmed that their Boards would most probably be able to meet the contributions requested for 2000 ($350,000 and $1,000,000 respectively). However the Director of the Water Authority informed the Committee that he did not think the Authority would be able to meet the amount requested ($500,000) as the Authority was in the process of negotiating a very large loan for development of the sewage treatment plant.

The Committee has therefore confirmed that the Directors and Boards of the respective Authorities have never been involved, or consulted, in Government's budget process, during which the contributions expected from the Authorities are agreed. Each Authority is chaired by the Minister responsible, and the Financial Secretary is also represented on each Board. The Committee can only conclude that the Authorities' own budget plans should be known to the Government. If the Government does not agree with these plans, or with the proposed dividend distribution, that fact ought to be communicated to the Authority's Board. The Committee is left with the unhappy conclusion that, in the past, the contributions requested from the Authorities each year have been inflated, presumably in order to assist balance Government's budget.

This unrealistic arrangement has continued for far too long and the Government must now place their relationship with the Authorities on a sensible and business – like footing. Contributions for both 1998 and 1999 have still not been finalised with the result that six sets of financial statements are still outstanding and must be concluded as matter of urgency.

The Committee recognises that this unstructured way on this matter cannot continue and recommends:

- (a) That government and the Authorities jointly establish a basis for the determination of contributions so that both parties know their obligations. The Committee suggests that contribution could be based on profit, with perhaps 25% to 30% being distributed to government. That would leave retained profits for debt servicing and future developments and would reduce eternal borrowing by the Authorities. Another option could be a royalty based on turnover, or a hybrid arrangement of profit and royalty. These types of financial arrangement are in place for each of three major private utility companies serving the Cayman Islands.
- (b) The Committee suggests that Government and the Authorities should consider establishing performance criteria for each of the "commercial" authorities. Such criteria could include profitability and long-run rate of return on capital employed. The Committee also considers that performance criteria should include a provision that would fix any future price increases below the published CPI. Government's dividend or contribution would be linked to profitability. The target rate of return on capital employed combined with a cap on price increases would act as a stimulus to economy and efficiency.

Pedro St James [Auditor General's Report Part III]

Financial and Technical Audits of Key Contracts

Certain aspects of the contractual arrangements for development of Pedro St James have been extensively discussed in the Legislative Assembly by Members. Discussions have mainly centred on the issues raised by the Auditor General regarding the multi-media contract, the direct labour agreement and the landscaping arrangements. Although Pedro St James was a unique and challenging project in many ways, the Committee concludes that many important lessons can be learned from the obvious problems which were noted.

The Committee's main conclusions and recommendations are as follows:

- (i) Financial regulations require contracts costing over $100,000 to be tendered and approved by the Central Tenders Committee. This mechanism ensures that Government obtains goods and services at the most economical prices consistent with quality and efficiency so as to obtain the maximum value for public funds spent. Moreover, open and competitive procurement of goods and services demonstrates fair and equitable treatment to both potential suppliers and the wider community and establishes the "market" price for goods or services. The Auditor General has a statutory duty to satisfy himself that these rules and procedures have been complied with and that public moneys have been expended with due regard for obtaining value for money.
- (ii) The main consultant, CHRM, was initially selected via a competitive tender to conduct research and to formulate a feasibility study for the project. The cost of this initial contract, which was awarded in 1993, was $73,020 plus out of pocket expenses. A further contract valued in excess of $1 million was subsequently awarded to the company in late 1994 to provide design and project management consulting services for the development of the Pedro St James and the Botanical Park. Competitive bids were not sought for this work and CHRM was simply invited to submit a technical and financial proposal. This course of action was ratified by Executive Council. According to evidence provided to the Committee, it was considered best to have a "seamless operation". Whilst this may have been administratively convenient, it defeated the objective of competitive procurement.
- (iii) Much of the procurement of specialist services was left to the main consultant to arrange and the consulting contract made it clear that competitive tendering was to be followed. This did not happen in all cases and little in the way of documentation was available to the auditors.
- (iv) The procurement of the multi-media system does not seem to have been handled particularly well. Apparently two quotes were sought, but only the winning proposals was made available to both the Ministry and the Auditor General. With Government's approval a contract for CI$430,800 was entered into between the main consultant and a sub contractor. The Government agreed that this would be treated as an addition to the main consulting contract. Subsequently in March 1999 during the negotiations to settle the consultant's outstanding claims for professional services rendered, the consultant apparently told Ministry representatives that the sub-contractor's price for the multi-media system had been expressed in Canadian dollars and not Cayman currency as was assumed by all concerned. The main consultant claimed this had been done to allow for a "consultant's fee" but subsequently declined to provide information requested by the Auditor General. The Committee can therefore only speculate what the real cost of the contract was and the potential for savings, had services been procured through a proper tender arrangement. This seems to be evidence of lack of transparency and a very obvious conflict of interest on the part of the consultant, who has used his position as an adviser for personal financial gain. If the consultant deserved to be paid an additional consulting fee for the multi-media, this should have been disclosed to, and approved by, the client and paid against the consulting contract.

(v) In July 1996, the consultant was subsequently awarded a contract to carry out phase I landscaping at Pedro St James. This contract was for $357,702 and was signed by a representative of the Ministry. Whilst it may have been administratively convenient and may have saved some time, the consultant should never have been engaged to carry out landscaping works. This was described as extremely ill-advised by the Auditor General's advisor. The consultant's expertise should have been used in design and procurement.

(vi) The landscaping contract imposes a clear obligation on the contractor to carry out hard landscaping works, including walls, paths and preparation and planting of lawns and gardens for the stated price. A most unusual situation seems to have developed whereby the contractor was subsequently permitted to enter into a series of separate agreements with sub-contractors and others to perform the landscaping works. In some cases the contracts were between the Ministry and a sub-contractor, in others the consultant acted as agent of the Ministry. In one case, involving payments of $194,974, the consultant contracted directly with a sub-contractor. In addition there was also direct procurement for the supply of materials and equipment rental by the consultant. The invoices for these services were certified by the consultant / contractor and were passed to the Ministry for payment. This led to a situation where government was paying some sub-contractors direct and others through the consultant. It is therefore hardly surprising that the Ministry found it difficult to exercise any meaningful control over contract claims.

(vii) The final cost of the landscaping contracts cannot be determined with any degree of accuracy. The Committee has been provided with three sets of figures. These range from $519,586 (advised by the consultant to the Auditor General) to $550,000 (advised by the Permanent Secretary to the Committee) to $607,585 (calculated by the Auditor General). It is not acceptable that the Committee is unable to get an accurate picture of costs and is an indicator of the wider problems faced by both the Ministry and the Audit Office in determining the final cost of the entire project.

(viii) To continue with the landscaping contract, the Committee has not obtained any valid explanation why the cost of the landscaping works increased from $357,702 to the figures reported above. The Committee acknowledges that there were additional costs – for example, the irrigation system (CAN$59,599 – approximately CI$35,610), but the scope of the contract also seems to have been reduced at some stage. Additions, variations and deletions to the contract were not administered properly and a revised contract sum was never advised to, and approved by, the client so far as can be determined. Project elements reduced include the stone walls (335 linear feet less than original specification), and planting areas (reduced by 3955 sq ft). The Committee was also very surprised to note that plant material cost almost $200,000 excluding trees. This seems excessive. Although no justification for the cost increase has been provided, the Committee concluded that the abnormal and very loose contractual arrangements, combined with the absence of effective internal controls over invoice certification, facilitated an environment of rampant and unjustified cost escalation.

(ix) It is also questionable whether the consultant should have been permitted to provide direct labour services and to add a price uplift to cover insurance and administration. The Committee is left to wonder whether there was a profit element in this agreement and, if so, how much it was. There also appear to have been a number of inconsistencies in the amounts billed which were never resolved by the Audit Office. Part of the information supporting the price uplift was not provided to the Auditor General and the scope of the audit work was therefore incomplete.

(x) Perhaps the least satisfactory aspect of this project is the lack of proper financial records to establish the total cost against each element of the restoration and development. The Committee is aware that, 18 months after the formal opening of the attraction, the final project cost has still not been agreed between the Ministry, the Tourism Attraction Board and the Audit Office. A huge amount of staff time has been allocated unravelling project expenditures, with the result that the financial statements for the Tourism Attractions Board have been seriously delayed. At this time, the Committee is not able to place any reliance on the total cost figure of $8,170.511 provided by the Permanent Secretary, Ministry of Tourism at the Committee's meeting on 4 April 2000. According to subsequent evidence provide to the Committee, it now seems that the final cost of construction and fees is about $516,000 higher than the figures reported at the Committee's April meeting. The increase in construction costs was partly offset by a reduction in interest and loan fees, as shown below:

|                                           | TAB        | Audit      |
|-------------------------------------------|-------------------|-------------------|
|                                           | April 2000 | June 2000  |
|                                           | $000      | $000      |
| Construction and professional fees | 6,937      | 7,454      |
| Land                               | 853        | 853        |
| Interest and commitment fees       | 381 | 125 |
| Total project Cost                 | 8,171      | 8,432      |

(xi) It is also clear to the Committee that some costs for Pedro St James and the Botanical Park projects were invoiced together. This is in direct contravention of the requirements of the consulting contract and has greatly complicated the audit.

(xii) It is apparent to the Committee that there has been a significant cost increase from the initial estimate provided in 1994 by the consultant to the Ministry (CI$5.110 million) to the cost estimates prepared in January 1996 by the Caribbean Development Bank (CI$8.676 million) This is shown in the Table annexed to this report. However the above mentioned estimates were not prepared on a consistent manner. Further analysis indicates that the construction cost, excluding the original site purchase, increased from $5.110 million (CHRM 1994) to $6.770 million (CDB January 1996). Most of the increase is attributable to an additional $1.120 million higher physical and price contingency elements included by CDB. Total contingencies included by CDB were $1.412 million, approximately 26% of estimated construction, equipment and fees. This is considerably higher than would normally be the case. However it does appear that CDB's caution was well justified. It may also be that the consultant, CHRM, was not sufficiently experienced in local construction and perhaps underestimated costs as well as the overall complexity of the project. The final cost of construction is now reported to be $7.454 million compared to the CDB's estimate of $6.770 million.

(xiii) The Committee also notes that the independent technical advisor to the Auditor General has described the financial information provided by the consultant as .."incomplete, confusing and unprofessional." This is most unsatisfactory and the Committee concludes that responsibility for the abysmal project records must rest with the project consultant. Although the consultant / contractor told the Auditor General that the Ministry was responsible for maintaining project records, the Committee prefers to accept the evidence of the Ministry of Tourism. The Committee is satisfied that the consultant was responsible for maintaining financial records and was fully compensated for this task. It is most unfortunate that the Ministry did not realise that proper project records were not being maintained until it was too late.

(xiv) In hindsight the Ministry should have engaged an experienced project manager. Initially this function was the responsibility of the consultant. However even that arrangement was not fully satisfactory and did not provide the level of internal check and control that would be expected in a project of this magnitude and complexity. For example, the consultant certified for payment his own invoices for consulting services. Later, when the consulting firm began to provide contracting services on its own account, the Ministry ought to have realised that they needed independent expertise to manage the increasingly complex and confusing contractual arrangements. The Ministry has admitted that they found it difficult to exercise meaningful control over contract claims. Essentially, Ministry personnel relied completely on the contractor / consultant's self certification of all invoices, an arrangement which the Committee was informed had been agreed with the Treasury. As a result, the Committee is forced to conclude that public funds were not adequately safeguarded and properly disbursed.

The Committee makes the following recommendations:

- (a) All Ministries and departments should comply with Financial and Stores Regulations which require tenders for procurement of goods and services costing over $100,000. Any future departures from these rules should be formally reported to the legislature at each quarterly meeting of Finance Committee.
- (b) In future, Ministries and departments must ensure that there are adequate arrangements in place for proper and effective management of all large projects. Clear lines of responsibility between Ministers, civil servants, the project manager and the various consultants should be established before projects commence, including where responsibility for financial management lies.
- (c) Particular care must be taken to ensure that there are effective internal controls over certification of contractor's and consultant's invoices. Generally Public Works performs these functions on most major capital projects and there is no suggestion that their procedures are deficient.
- (d) To repeat the obvious, consultants who provide technical expertise in design or project management should never be allowed to become contractors. The Committee believes that this was the major factor which led to the unsatisfactory and inappropriate contracts concluded by or on behalf of the Ministry.
- (e) Standard forms of contract should be used for the engagement of all consultants.
- (f) The Committee does not wish to apportion blame to any particular member of staff in the Ministry of Tourism. This became an impossible project to manage and the Ministry's task was complicated by the consultant's dual role as contractor for certain elements of the project.
- (g) The Committee has included specific recommendations regarding capital development Estimates and financial reporting in the section of this Report entitled "Legislative Oversight of Capital Projects".
- (h) In future, management and control of large capital projects should not be the responsibility of Ministries or departments unless they have proven project management experience.

Project Viability

Pedro St James was officially opened in December 1998 and 1999 was the first full year of operations. The Committee recalls the legislature was advised that the Pedro St James project would be self supporting from an early stage. The Committee was therefore concerned to note that the Board's 1999 budget showed a deficit of $620,000 compared to an operating profit of $310,000 forecast by the Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) in its project appraisal report. The Committee was subsequently informed that the actual 1999 deficit (unaudited) was approximately $586,000. These figures exclude interest expense on the CDB loan and depreciation. There appear to be two main reasons why financial performance is below expectations. Firstly, forecasts of visitor arrivals appear overly optimistic. Second, there has been insufficient marketing and promotion of the attraction.

Regarding visitor numbers, the Committee notes the CDB's forecasts were prepared on the basis of 141,000 visitors in year one rising to 235,000 by year four. Another forecast prepared for the Board shows a build up to over 300,000 visitors per annum by year five. These forecasts may exceed the present carrying capacity of the site, which is limited by the capacity of the multi-media show. At present, this can accommodate about 50 visitors per hour. The Committee was informed that the presentation could be shortened to half an hour which would increase capacity. There is also only limited time available for cruise ship passengers to visit the attraction, taking into account cruise ship arrival and departure times.

The Committee was rather disappointed to note that only limited marketing and promotion of the attraction has been carried out to date. The Committee notes the Board agreed in 1997 that a marketing committee would be formed and a marketing company hired. This was never done, although the Ministry and the Department of Tourism carried out limited marketing and promotion of the attraction. It seems that management was concentrating on completion of the site during 1998. Management changes during 1999 seem to have exacerbated the situation further. The Committee has been assured that a revised business plan will be prepared in the current year and will include marketing and promotion of the attraction.

Evidence presented to the Committee indicates only a modest rise in visitor arrivals which have increased by 14% so far this year (2000). Numbers remain well below the earlier CDB forecasts. Witnesses told the Committee that Pedro St James will have to rely on sources of income other than admission fees. The Committee is concerned that substantial financial assistance will be required from government for 2001 and probably beyond.

Committee members recall being told that Pedro St James would assume responsibility for servicing the CDB loan. To date this has not been done.

The Committee recommends:

- (i) The Board should ensure that a realistic medium term business plan is prepared as a matter of urgency. The plan should address cost effective marketing and promotion of the attraction, including appropriate personnel.
- (ii) Efforts should be made during year 2000 to vigorously promote the attraction with visitors to the Islands
- (iii) The CDB loan liability should be vested with the Board and arrangements made for debt service cost to be funded by the Board, if necessary by subsidy from the Ministry of Tourism.

Financial Statements of the Tourism Attraction Board (paragraphs 3.28 – 3.320)

Since the Committee's meeting of 4 April, the Ministry, the Tourism Attraction Board and the Audit Office have carried out further work and now appear to be agreed on the final project cost, discussed in preceding paragraphs. The sole remaining issue is whether the Caribbean Development Bank loan of US$5,790,000 should be vested with the Tourism Attraction Board. The Committee considers this is appropriate, especially as the CDB loan has been classified as self-financing in government's 1997 and 1998 annual accounts. It is standard practice for self-financing loans to be funded by the receiving agency. Witnesses told the Committee that the policy directives would be needed from the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development before this course of action could be pursued. The Committee recommends the Government to address this issue as a matter of urgency so that the 1998 financial statements of the Tourism Attraction Board can be laid on the table of the Legislative Assembly before it is prorogued in September 2000.

Special Audit of Pedro St James (Paragraphs 3.33 – 3.35)

The Committee noted the Auditor General's comments and has been assured that the accounting and internal control weaknesses are being addressed by the Board.

[Prayers read by the Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member]

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Proceedings are resumed. Item number 2 on today's Order Paper, Reading by the Speaker of Messages and Announcements.

READING BY THE SPEAKER OF
MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have received apologies from the Honourable Second Official Member and the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works who will arrive later. The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay is sick.

Moving on to item number 3 on today's Order Paper, Presentation of Papers and Reports: Report on the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service Annual Report 1999 to be laid on the Table by the Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

ROYAL CAYMAN ISLANDS POLICE SERVICE AN-NUAL REPORT 1999

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I beg to lay on the Table of this honourable House the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service Annual Report 1999.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Do you wish to speak to it? The Honourable Acting Temporary First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Just very briefly to say that I think members will find the report extremely informative. I think it is fair to say that RCIP has made substantial strides in changing its working relationship with the public in recent years. Perhaps emanating from a commitment a few years ago to wish to be seen more as a police service rather than a police force. It has manifested itself in a number of developments, among them: the establishment of a community relations department, the introduction of programmes such as community beat programmes, foot and bicycle patrols and school liaison programmes et cetera.

I think it is in order to acknowledge that RCIP has made these efforts. I think it is perhaps reasonable to also suggest that in turn we have seen in recent times considerable improvement in RCIP's ability to attract Caymanians during its recruitment initiatives. Certainly, the last recruitment class brought in a record number of Caymanians. We trust that this will continue.

I would like to take the opportunity to personally thank the Commissioner and his staff, who, in particular, made some really valiant efforts almost a year ago, in relation to Northward. I think it is really to his credit that at the time, while obviously running a prison was not what we brought him out here to do, he felt it appropriate to personally take on the responsibility rather than delegate it to one of his senior officers or even his deputy. Because certainly at that time the situation was extremely volatile and he took the view that should we lose it, he would much prefer to lose it than see one of his own people, much earlier in their careers, suffer that misfortune.

So, I thank him and all his officers who performed valiantly and I think in turn on his behalf he would wish for me to certainly convey to all members of this legislature his appreciation for the support which you have given RCIP over the recent years.

So with those few years I recommend the report. I don't expect members to have a lot of time to indulge in reading it now, but I would suggest that perhaps you keep it in a safe place and come next February or March when Throne Speech and Budget Debate comes around it might be a useful reference document at that time.

Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: Item number 2, Presentation of Report on the Cayman Islands National Youth Policy to be laid on the Table by the honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

CAYMAN ISLANDS NATIONAL YOUTH POLICY

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: I beg to lay on the Table of this honourable House the Cayman Islands National Youth Policy.

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to it?

The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

It is with a great sense of pride and achievement that we are now able to provide honourable members in this House with a copy of the National Youth Policy. I am indeed very privileged to be able to thank the members of the National Youth Policy Task Force and, in particular, its chairman, my permanent secretary and its co-ordinator, Miss Tara Rivers, and indeed all of the people of the Cayman Islands who assisted with this development. I move on to thank the past minister for initiating this process back in Trinidad a number of years ago.

The taskforce began its work in earnest in September 1998 and the culmination of the stage of the process, which involves much hard work and dedication and is crucial to the development of this document. Throughout the process, the participatory model of policymaking as posed by the Commonwealth Youth Programme was utilised. Public meetings, various workshops, conferences, questionnaires and focus groups were all used to ensure that the participation of school children, business owners, church and community leaders, senior civil servants, parents, educators, employers and legislators were garnered.

This policy therefore represents the fears and concerns, the needs and aspirations, the achievements and visions of and for the young people of the entire Cayman Islands.

In addition, we would note for the record that during the last five years of the 20th century, the Cayman Islands like the other 53 countries of the Commonwealth took stock of its provisions for young people and the measures being taken to equip them to deal with the challenges of the new millennium. It was surprising to find that these provisions were somewhat inadequate and that the Cayman Islands and the vast majority of the Commonwealth for that matter did not have a clearly defined documented national youth policy.

It was therefore for that reason that a collective decision was made at the Commonwealth Youth Ministers' Meeting in Port-of-Spain in May 1995 when the past minister, the First Elected Member from West Bay, was at the helm of the ministry to make every effort to complete the process in all countries by the year 2000.

The National Youth Policy is a timely document. It offers us all an insight into the thoughts and behaviour of our youth who no doubt will be the future decision-makers of the Cayman Islands. The National Youth Policy (NYP) therefore celebrates the importance of our young people to the future of these islands. Even though it may be relatively silent on the enormous achievements of the well-adjusted, productive and decent young men and women who live in these islands it must not be forgotten that the vast majority make a smooth transition from the dependence of childhood to independent and interdependent adulthood.

It does, however, rightly lament the failure of an increasing number of young women and men who for one reason or another do not apparently realise their full potential here in the Cayman Islands. Since these marginalised and alienated young people are a barometer of the health of any society, particular attention has been paid to their views and needs.

Using a consultative method, this document chronicles the conditions, needs, aspirations, concerns and fears of the wide cross-section, as I said, and it takes on board their recommendations on the structures, facilities and programmes necessary for youth empowerment in our jurisdiction. The document wrestles with the challenge of change and makes strong recommendations for ensuring that institutions are created or strengthened to perform the functions of nurturing, socialising, educating and developing our young children and young people.

It also provides a vision for young people of the Cayman Islands further broken down into goals and specific objectives. This document, that is, the NYP offers leadership based on fundamental principles. It provides the framework for action and shows how all those who have a stake in the wholesome development of young people in the Cayman Islands can work together to make a division in their lives.

At the dawn of the new millennium, those who will inherit this land have asked us to show them the way. It is therefore my humble view that this collaborative document will assist our youth tremendously. It is now the duty of each of us, the stakeholders, to support them all the way and to pray daily for their protection, health, guidance, success and their general well being.

I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am wondering whether I could ask a short question on this.

The Speaker: Yes, please go ahead.

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I am wondering if the minister could say what is the way forward now, as far as the Ministry and Executive Council are concerned. What are their plans?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Mr. Speaker, I thank the member for the opportunity to get out that additional information as I am sure he is as concerned about the youth as all honourable members.

Executive Council, suffice it to say, has approved the creation of the union of the sports office and the new youth facility where there will be one top Administrative Officer, two deputies—one for sports and one for youth. We are hoping to get that on the way in a very short course, once the administrative procedure within government is put in place.

Now that this is laid on the Table of the honourable House, the taskforce will once again regroup and assess the document with a view of moving towards the implementation stage with equation of the necessary, current and practical action plans so that the youth of this country can, in this new millennium, rise with an optimism that there is hope and indeed we are all listening to their concerns.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I am glad to hear that has been done. It was a long-term plan. I am glad that the minister has finally gotten support for it.

Can she say, since they have approved the amalgamation of the Youth and Sports department, what working space has been made available for that particular department to get underway?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Presently, there is sufficient space at the sports office because it will take some time to get the additional staff. We also have plans for an extension at the Truman Bodden Sports Complex so that they could be right there on site seeing that a lot of the activities would be encapsulated in that particular site.

The Speaker: Moving on the Financial Statement of the Community College of the Cayman Islands 31st December 1999 and 1998.

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF THE COMMUNITY COLLEGE OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS 31 DECEMBER 1999 AND 1998

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I beg to lay on the Table of this honourable House financial statements of the Community College of the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Do you wish to speak to it? The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: As provided in section 11(6) of the Community College of the Cayman Islands Law 1987, I am pleased to lay on the Table (as I have just done) the audited financial statement and the annual report for 1998 and 1999.

Mr. Speaker, I have repeatedly stated that investment in the development of the human resources of the Cayman Islands, and especially our youth, is the best investment that can be undertaken by any government. Our government is very proud of its investment in the Community College and its accomplishments of this institution.

Financially the College continues to meet all its annual loan and interest payment to the government, to Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and the European Development Fund. Despite the very low tuition fees which in some cases is less than 5% of the economic cost of the programme, the college is able to contribute about 20% annually to its total expenditure.

In addition, sir, the college has contributed more than $3 million to the Phase II development of the campus. The construction of the general studies building, the library and the recently completed multi-purpose hall and hurricane shelter.

I congratulate and commend the board of directors for their effectiveness and efficiency in dealing with the resources of the college. The greatest strength of the Community College is its comprehensive curriculum. During the 1999/2000 academic year, the college offered the following:

- Vocational programmes in construction technology, electrical technology, hospitality studies, computing and accounting.
- Professional programmes in banking, legal secretaries' studies and computing.
- The A-plus and MCSC, the Microsoft Certified Systems Engineer and associate degrees in thirteen specialisations.

Mr. Speaker, as I have mentioned before and quite recently, the associate in Arts and Science, graduates are accepted by a wide variety of universities and colleges in the United States, Canada, Britain and the University of the West Indies.

The offerings of the college for adults in its continuing education offerings is equally extensive and includes a wide variety of academic, vocational, professional, leisure and contract courses. Contract courses are mounted by the college in responds to specific request from the public and private sectors.

I am extremely proud that 50% of the students at the Community College are over 21 years of age—very significant because it shows clearly that we have now for the first in a long time made a very good development in the College for adults in their continuing education. Education, sir, is life long and it is very important that the continuing education of our adults is clearly and properly developed.

Mr. Speaker, also very important, 80% of the students are Caymanians, another achievement that has had very good results for these islands.

I had previously said that the strength of the Community College is its comprehensive curriculum. I should have included its flexibility, collaboration and quick response to requests from the public and private sectors. All the programmes that were recently added to the curriculum, the banking certificate, the banking diploma, the A-Plus and MCSC in computing are because of the College's collaboration and responsiveness to requests from the private sector.

During the debate on the motion to revisit Education Council's guidelines for government scholarships, I took the opportunity to mention the healthy registration at the college for September 2000. I should like to point out that the numbers have since increased and it appears that during the present year registration will exceed almost 2000 individuals who enrolled at the college in the last academic year. So it will exceed the 2000 persons at the college.

That has to be taken in the light of the fact that 50% in most areas are adults with continuing education and 80% are Caymanians. So, there is no doubt that the Community College is having a very good and healthy impact on the education of adults and young persons.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the 66 private sector companies and 30 government departments for their scholarships and other forms of assistance to students attending the Community College.

Finally, I would like to thank the President, Mr. Sam Basdeo and the staff of the college, together with the Chairman, Mrs. Berna Murphy, and the Board of Governors for their dedication and commitment to the success of the College.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Moving on to item number 4 on today's Order Paper, Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. Before going into this I would like to call to honourable members' attention that we have 20 questions on today's Order Paper, therefore I shall have to limit the number of supplementaries.

Question number 63 is standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Mr. Speaker, if I may just move that Question Time extends beyond 11.00 AM.

The Speaker: Certainly. I was coming to that. Please do. The question is that Standing Order 23(7) and (8) be suspended in order that Question Time can be taken after 11.00 AM. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Question Time continues.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23 (7) AND (8) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION 63

NO 63: Dr. Frank McField asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture if the Labour Department has received any complaints from employees of the Cayman Resort Hotels about working conditions, and if so, what is the nature of these complaints.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: The Department of Labour receives complaints and other information on many establishments on a daily basis. We do not consider that it would be appropriate in this forum to name establishments or to cite specifics. With very limited resources, the Department of Labour must of necessity prioritise its work. I would reassure this honourable House, however, that where violations of the Labour Law can be proven, the Department of Labour with the co-operation of the Royal Cayman Islands Police and the Legal Department will take firm action as can be attested to by our continuing court cases.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Mr. Speaker, I would really like to ask the minister if the Department of Labour has received any complaints from the employees at the Cayman Resort Hotels, and I do believe this is a question that can be answered.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Mr. Speaker, due to the fact that there would be a possibility of sub judice arising I would again reiterate that we would not want to jeopardise either the rights of the employer or the employee at this particular stage. I would, however, undertake that if the honourable member wishes to speak to the department or myself, that with permission from that particular right that he is wishing to represent—because he has been quite helpful in representing the rights of the employees in particular—that we should be happy to do that in a more appropriate forum.

The Speaker: Supplementary, the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Can the minister say if there is presently a case in court against the Cayman Resort hotels?

The Speaker: I think she has explained that position. She said that if sub judice arises; it would have to be in court.

The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture, if you wish to answer you may, if not.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I will respond in an effort to be as co-operative as possible.

I said it is our humble view that the matter would be sub judice. If the member wishes for that point to be made and a ruling on that case then I would have to reserve my position. In the interest of both parties, as kindly and as bluntly as I can say it, I think it is in the best interest at this particular stage to not make any public comment.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I know this is a country of silence and no one is supposed to talk about anything, really, and everything is a big secret, nevertheless the public has a right to know what the Department of Labour—which is a public institution—is doing with regard to what they are charged to do.

The Speaker: Please turn it into a question.

Dr. Frank McField: So, I would like to find out from the minister, if she saying that it is sub judice here, why can't this question be answered? What is the nature of the question that makes it sub judice?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: It is my respectful view that if I had conceded to the request of the honourable member and explained why it was, that that would in effect take it into the public ambit and the damage would already have been done. To put it down simpler, if I took the time to explain what an orange will do, there would be no reason to present the orange.

The Speaker: Moving on to Question number 64 standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town. These are deferred questions from 8 September 2000.

QUESTION 64

(Deferred from 8 September 2000)

NO. 64: Dr. Frank McField asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture to say what government's position is on the establishment and existence of the National Alliance of Cayman Islands Employees (NACE).

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: NACE is duly constituted as an employee entity under the Trades Union Law and my ministry appreciates its efforts to improve employment conditions in this country. The Department of Labour, in particular, has been fully co-operative with NACE as it has with the various employer associations. We believe that workers, employers, and government, working in a cordial spirit of a tripartite co-operation can only lead to the betterment of everyone concerned.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I would like to ask the minister, if this is the true position of government, why hasn't government done anything over the last twelve months to see that the Labour Law is amended in such a way to admit that labour unions, in fact, are legitimate lawful organisations in this country?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: As I understand it, and I stand to be corrected, there is now in existence a Trade Union Law (1998 Revised). It is a new uncharted area, and, as in all things, it will take time. But based on my instructions we have given full co-operation with the honourable member and the association. And, as the member would have seen in the answer supplied in writing, government has taken a position on this particular union.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I would appreciate if the minister would clarify the supplementary. Posing the supplementary a different way: Has the ministry recognised that there exists a dichotomy between the Trade Union Law 1964 as it is revised in 1998 and the fact that the Labour Law does not recognise that labour unions are part of the labour relations' institutions?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: It is the ministry's position, and indeed that of the Labour Department, one step above the position just put from bilateral partnership or union. In fact, in my answer I sought to clarify and to state as a matter of fact that we are fully supportive of the tripartite relationship which involves not only the union position that has been ably put by my good friend, the Fourth Elected Member from George Town, but also the position of the employers and that of government.

Government policy, as alluded to in my written answer to the honourable member, does not see its role as becoming directly involved in the bargaining within the private sector: We believe that there is able and ample professionalism and the power to want to do this in a unified fashion. We view it no different from the Chamber of Commerce in that it is a registered, duly legal entity and we acknowledge it in that respect and appreciate its efforts in the one-third tripartite relationship.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Could the minister therefore give an undertaking to look into this dichotomy which exists between the existence of a law that makes it legal for trade unions to be formed and for persons to be members of trade unions, but the Labour Law, that she is responsible for, does not recognise the existence of trade unions or the practice of collective bargaining? Could the minister give an undertaking to begin looking into this, what I would really call, legal conflict?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: If the honourable member is asking for this to be entrenched within the Labour Law where there is an express acceptance of the union as a legal entity, I can give him that undertaking for the time that I am in the ministry that I will issue instructions for that to be done.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?
The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: One question in regard to the last answer given by the minister when she said she will issue instructions, is she assuring the House that Executive Council is going to agree before the instructions are issued?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: The instructions take two parts. Firstly, the relevant minister prepares a paper to Executive Council because it would be a policy decision and from there it moves on. But having had the opportunity to be in the ministry, I am fully comfortable that the honourable ministers have no problem, although I cannot give an undertaking for that second part with this, at the end of the day this government is about making the situation for both employer and employee the best possible—this government meaning all honourable members.

The Speaker: Moving on to deferred Question number 65 standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 65

(Deferred from 8 September 2000)

NO. 65: Dr. Frank McField asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture to give an explanation as to why government workers are not protected by the Labour Law.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Section 3, subsection (a), of the Labour Law (2000 Revision) exempts the Public Service from coverage by the Labour Law "provided that the regulations and General Orders from time to time applying to the Public Service shall not prescribe or permit conditions of service which are less favourable to the employee than those required by this Law. . ." So, to that extent public servants are protected by the Labour Law and the Department of Labour has acted to assist a number of former civil servants and currently serving public servants to resolve disputes with government.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I would like to ask the minister under the definition of conditions of service which are less favourable to the employee than those required by the Labour Law—are you speaking of written conditions or are you speaking of conditions that are practised informally?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: I am duly instructed by the Director of Labour that we are talking about both conditions.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I would like to ask the minister what happens in the case where government is the employer and one of its agents has violated the conditions? What institution does the employee take his or her complaints to?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: As I understand it, there are two options: They can either go through the civil service procedure or they can come to the Labour Department who will on their behalf bring it to the attention of the Chief Secretary or his delegate.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I would like to thank the minister for actually clarifying that point because that has been a point of contention. I will put it into a question. But it is important that we know whether or not the minister is saying that civil servants who feel that the conditions of service which they are serving under, written or informal, are less favourable than those stipulated by the Labour Law that they can make a complaint to the Labour Department. And that the Labour Department is, in fact, charged with responsibility of reporting that complaint back to the civil service agent.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Mr. Speaker, that is in fact the case, providing they fall within the proviso as set out in section 3 whereby the conditions have to be less favourable. If it is a position where they are as favourable or more favourable, then the Labour Department has no jurisdiction. So that is actually the standard or burden of proof.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: In the experience of the Labour Department, would that department consider the docking of pay of a civil servant for being sick and not showing up for work as a less favourable condition than those stipulated under the Labour Law?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

If you are asking for a government opinion, it is okay but she is not entitled to give her opinion. You may answer if you please.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Mr. Speaker, because each case is determined on the specific circumstances as arising thereto, I would be entering into the arena of speculation and with your leave I would prefer not to.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: We are not really here because we are playing a game. I am just trying to get some information so we know where we have to go—okay?

The Speaker: I assure you I am very aware of the purpose here.

Dr. Frank McField: I just want to find out if civil servants when they feel that they are having less favourable conditions than guaranteed under the Labour Law have the rights under the government's interpretation of that law to complain to the Labour Department.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: As set out in my substantive answer, and as is fully endorsed under section 3(a) of the Labour Law (2000 Revision), that right is enshrined within the Labour Law provided, again, they meet the initial burden of proof or standard that it is less favourable.

The Speaker: Two final supplementaries—the First Elected Member for West Bay—unless there is a follow-up from you.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town

Dr. Frank McField: Could the minister say whether or not her ministry or the Department of Labour is aware of the fact that the Labour Law does deprive the employees of several benefits they would be entitled to under common law?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: That position would not be an unreasonable or an uncommon position because as we all (I am sure) will fully appreciate the common law is an evolving entity based on judicial precedent and no one piece of legislation can anticipate as it evolves.

The Speaker: Final supplementary, the First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Can the honourable minister say whether or not the General Orders prohibit civil servants from making complaints to the Labour Office?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: I am not in a position to say that, in that I, myself, as minister, do not become involved in the administrative responsibility of government. But I should be happy if the member wishes to pass that request on to the honourable Chief Secretary or the Temporary Acting First Official Member to get an answer for him.

The Speaker: Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member would you care to answer?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I don't think General Orders by any means restricts civil servants from making representation to any statutory office or entity. They do set out procedures that the representation should follow and the general terms of procedure requires that it be routed through the head of the respective agency or department.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I know you earlier said that that was the last one, but it is very important—

The Speaker: I will allow you a follow-up.
The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you kindly, sir. What the Deputy Chief Secretary has said in my view is very important. Has there ever been anyone to his knowledge who was stopped from going that route?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Mr. Speaker, no, certainly not to my knowledge. I have never known of any situation where anyone has been intercepted or prevented from making the approach. I would venture to say that I would expect that any such approach would normally trigger some double-checking on the part of the relevant head of department with perhaps Personnel to substantiate whether, in fact, there is such a deficiency (I would call it) on the part of General Orders.

The Speaker: Moving on to Question number 68 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 68

NO. 68: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation if it is a fact that there are registered nurses at Faith Hospital who have to work double 8-hour shifts.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Mr. Speaker, although there are no mandatory requirement for registered nurses to work double shifts, it is sometimes necessary for this to happen. In such situations, temporary and relief personnel who are not scheduled are asked first to provide the cover. If they are not available, officers who have indicated their willingness to work overtime are scheduled.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: First of all, could the minister state if it is recognised by the relevant authorities that whenever this might occur that simply because of the nature of the work performed, and having an individual working 16 hours straight dealing with the health and care of a patient, is there any risk recognised in having to allow for this to happen?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, there would be some risk but it is recognised that the paramount importance is for the safety and health care of the patient and it would be monitored.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state whether the reason for this happening is because of a shortage of staff?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Normally, this situation happens when someone takes sick or otherwise. But in the next question that the honourable member has I will express that we have recruited three more nurses for Faith Hospital.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state if this is a situation that has been occurring only in the very recent past or if it is something that has been occurring over extended periods of time.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: I am made to understand that this has just been in recent times. But it is something that happens in most hospitals where our people have to provide for emergency cover, if someone takes sick and so on, but we are addressing this as I will share in the next question.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Just before I ask the next supplementary, I want the honourable minister to be aware of the fact that if I leave all of these supplementaries for the next question I might not get to ask them so while I have the opportunity I am going to do so.

Could the minister state if the staff complement at the Faith Hospital is fully satisfied? I understand what he was answering coming to the next question but I want to separate the two issues and deal with it as of now and the past, not as of now and the future, that will come in the next question.

Can the minister state if the full staff complement at the Faith Hospital has been satisfied, and if at this point in time it is not the case? Have there been any requests for additional staff because of a need that is identified? And, how long ago was this done, if it was done?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: As of earlier this year, the staff complement was a total of nineteen. Because of the increase in volume of patients and services now provided, the recognition has been made and a request has been submitted for three new additional staff.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

No further supplementaries, we are moving on to Question number 69 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 69

NO. 69: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation if it is a fact that there are nurses working full time at Faith Hospital for over two years whose employment is still considered temporary, and are paid bi-weekly on an hourly basis.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The answer is, yes, there are two registered nurses and one practical nurse who fall into this category. These nurses are hired on temporary relief terms by the Health Service Department to fill in for sickness, vacation leave, and maternity leave or if there is high bed occupancy. Faith Hospital, over the last two years, has experienced long periods of staff illness necessitating the use of relief staff to cover the substantive posts.

The patient load at Faith Hospital has increased over the past year. In light of this fact, approval has been given for three new posts; two for Registered Nurses and one for a Practical Nurse.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town, supplementary.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state if over this extended period of time when the two registered nurses and the one practical nurse were employed as temporaries if, in fact, they worked full-time shifts during this period of time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, this is part of their contract where at times they would work full-time. Other times, their contract would call where they would be acting as relief. If it got to the stage where there were too many hours going in then we would bring in locum or temporary staff to help in those instances.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Since it is an admitted fact that these people have worked in excess of two years under the umbrella of being employed temporarily, can the minister state how the ministry views the fact of this extended period of employment and there not being any provisions at this point in time for either health insurance or pensions?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: I am informed that these people would be entitled as of January this year to pension and also prior to this, to health insurance cover.

The Ministry's feeling about this, is whenever there is a problem—and I have indicated that once we found out that we needed help, three posts have been put in place and we are as usual trying to deal with this and make sure that the proper staff coverage is there when needed.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I quite appreciate the minister's position and the ministry's position and perhaps the Health Services Department's position given the circumstance. But I seek this opportunity as I may have no other one in the very near future to make sure that this is aired so that there is a clear understanding as to the direction that needs to go.

So, my next question is, understanding what the minister said about them being eligible for pensions as of 1st January. Is this going to be a retroactive situation? Because if they were hired as temporary staff how could pensions be involved?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Mr. Speaker, I am informed that whatever the benefits as set out in General Orders prior to this time for temporary relief staff, which they can earn leave or granted sick leave or paid for any injuries they received on the job. They are also provided with health insurance cover. They receive whatever they were entitled to under General Orders.

I am made to understand that the pensions took effect on 1st January this year.

The Speaker: Group employment?

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Everybody.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Final supplementary, sir. Understanding that, I was not aware of that and I appreciate that fact. Obviously, if this was effective 1st January, I am not disputing it, but someone did not know it. So perhaps through the chain of command everybody will be made aware of that. But can the minister state whether these three new posts that have been created will then be filled by these existing temporary staff members?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, Mr. Speaker, that is in the affirmative.

The Speaker: Moving on to question number 70 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 70

NO. 70: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs what is the government's policy regarding the reimbursement of expenses incurred on books and tuition costs to civil servants studying at the Community College of the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The policy is laid down in General Orders. It provides that when any Caymanian officer takes courses which lead to general certificates of education or other certificates appropriate to the Public Service with the approval of his Head of Department and he is successful at the examination, the officer may on presentation to government of the receipt for the fees for the course and the examination, receive reimbursement from government up to the full amount of the receipts.

In respect of book allowances, General Orders provides this for long-term overseas courses and the principles are applied to local courses. The facility is that book allowances and other expenses directly related to the course will be paid by government. The officer must submit itemised expense accounts. The government retains the right to disregard items not considered essential for the course.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the honourable member say what is the procedure one would take in recouping these expenses?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The procedure one would take would be to present the expense accounts to the Head of Department along with proof of success at the relevant examination.

The Speaker: No further supplementaries? We will move on to question number 71 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 71

NO. 71: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member to provide an update on the trade and business licence applications of the two oil companies Local Companies Control Licences.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Mr. Speaker, the Trade and Business Licence applications for both oil companies have been dealt with by the Trade and Business Licensing Board in recent times.

In relation to the expansion of the question by the honourable member I can say that the applications from the two Local Companies Control Licences have also been dealt with by the Trade and Business Licences Board. Those, however, have subsequently been the subject of appeals to Executive Council.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementary, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Emanating out of Private Member's Motion number 15/99 there was some resolutions brought by this honourable House with respect to the oil companies. I wonder if the honourable member is in a position to say whether the government has been able to do anything to address the request in the resolution or whether this is an on-going matter for the Executive Council to decide.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I am aware of the private member's motion to which the honourable member has referred. It certainly is not a matter that has been forgotten. In fact, there has been some enquires by the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs in relation to it. The matter however was impacted by a case that came before the Grand Court and subsequently is appealed to the Court of Appeal in relation to which a judgment has only recently been handed down.

I expect that the matter will be concluded. Unfortunately, it is unlikely that any report can be made to this legislature in the term that it has left to run but I expect that the portfolio will certainly report early next year on the matter.

The Speaker: No further supplementaries? Question number 72 standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 72

NO. 72: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Natural Resources to provide an update on the acquisition of additional property for the extension of the Bodden Town Cemetery.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: Additional cemetery capacity is planned for the Bodden Town Cemetery in the year 2001 Estimates, pending approval of land acquisition. Currently, there is existing capacity at the cemetery and an additional 16 vaults will be constructed this year.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Could the honourable minister say what is the total maximum capacity currently available at the Bodden Town Cemetery?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: As of March 1999, the estimated remaining public capacity of the Bodden Town cemetery was 83 vaults, with an estimated average deaths per year of 23 for Bodden Town. The remaining life span was calculated at 3.5 years.

The department therefore plans to search for and acquire a new cemetery site in Bodden Town in the year 2001. At the end of the second quarter, May 2000, 24 vaults of maximum of 83-vault capacity had been constructed leaving a balance of 59-vault capacity. Currently, seven adult vaults and 3 infant vaults are constructed and available for purchase.

The year 2000 capital construction plans for 16 vaults to be constructed in the cemetery. These will be constructed by a private contractor under the supervision of the Public Works Department.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the honourable minister say whether or not his ministry has on file any communication from persons in the constituency of Bodden Town indicating that they would have been willing to discuss with the government some property which in their estimation may have been suitable for a new cemetery site?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: We have received from various parts of the island such input from individuals with regard to their concern of cemeteries. I am certain the member is correct, there probably was included one from Bodden Town.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: In the case of Bodden Town, is the minister in the position to tell the House what is the disposition of his ministry regarding investigating this situation with a view to procuring additional property seeing that the current cemetery has a life span of only 3½ years that is given that the death rate is normal?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: This is a serious concern for all of the island and we have put a group together which consists of someone from planning department, the ministry and the department that is responsible for cemeteries to look at this overall and come up with areas in each district that will be suitable for additional cemetery space.

Certain areas have been identified and this is why I referred to it the way I did in the answer that we are hoping some action will be taken in the budget this year for year 2001.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, a supplementary.

Mr. Roy Bodden: May I ask the honourable minister to consider broadening the groups. The reason why I am asking this is that there are many persons in Bodden Town that I know, at least, who would have had experience over the years in building vaults and would have an idea of where the most accessible property would be. There are citizens in the community, I am sure, who would make themselves available to advice. I am certain, without calling a name, there is one present in these precincts right now whose expertise I am sure the government would be able to use.

So, would the minister consider broadening his panel when it comes to the various districts to include some of these persons because this is an important matter and it needs to be addressed the sooner, rather than the later.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: I agree with what the member is saying and that is exactly what the group will be doing. We will have to lean on the expertise in the various areas to assist us with securing the property which we feel will be the best property for cemeteries.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, in connection with the minister's group looking at property, can he say in connection with the resolution passed by this House, may be last year, to look at properties in West Bay what has been done about that?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: I think I am correct in saying that the West Bay area was one of the few districts that we did find some expansion space. I think it was by Boat-swain Bay Cemetery.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I would not doubt that there could be some space but I think they might be in problem with that also. I don't think that it is government property, they might have encroached. Maybe you can still tell me what you are doing—if there is any intention on purchasing those properties that the House agreed on.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: As I pointed out, there is a need for expansion of cemeteries throughout the islands, and this one will be no different. We will definitely have to look at purchasing the properties adjacent to this cemetery, like we will have to look in all other districts because it is a known fact that the quality of land we have been using has been exhausted throughout the island. We are either going to have to purchase adjacent lands or look at other means of other properties to be used.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Can the honourable minister say if a shed for housing cemeteries' supplies have been considered? I know this was put forward in a previous meeting by my colleague, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, with a question he had brought earlier. I would appreciate if he can give some undertaking for the shed, not only for the district of Bodden Town, but perhaps, other districts. I know this is something that the people who work on these graves are in dire need of.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: The member is correct. I think this is necessary throughout because we see from time to time the problems that exist at burials. We will be looking at it throughout especially when we find new property for new cemeteries.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I thank the minister for his undertaking but I support my colleague in reiterating that I had brought the request before the minister gave his undertaking. I think in the case of the cemeteries in Bodden Town and Savannah it is still necessary, and I am told North Side, to put the sheds. I would ask of the minister to please consider it because even when the cemeteries are filled to capacity there is still the necessity to maintain them so that some tools and equipment will still have to be kept on the premises so the sheds will come in handy even at the old sites.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications, Environment and Natural Resources.

Hon. John B. McLean: I will give that undertaking.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

No further supplementaries. Moving on to question number 73 standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 73

NO. 73: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation and Planning to provide an update on work carried out over the summer holidays to the Bodden Town and Savannah Primary Schools.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The following is an update of minor works carried out over the summer holidays at the Bodden Town and Savannah Primary schools:

Bodden Town Primary:

- Windows were replaced in rooms 10, 11, 13 and the hall.
- The walkway running from the staff room to the students' restrooms was roofed.
- Floors in rooms 10 and 11 were re-tiled
- Various maintenance works (repairs to cupboards etc) were carried out as needed
- The interior and exterior of all rooms were repainted.

Savannah Primary

- Windows were replaced in rooms 3 to 9, the Principal's office and staff workroom area
- Floors in rooms 3 to 9 and the staff-room were re-tiled
- Installed partition to convert rooms 7 and 8 to a classroom and a Special Education area to make provisions for the support services
- Various maintenance works (repairs to cupboards, upgrade of drainage, etc) were carried out as needed.

The following works are scheduled to be completed within the next six weeks:

- The installation of acoustical material in the halls at Bodden Town and Savannah Primary schools
- The installation of a roll-up door (which is on order) in canteen window at Bodden Town Primary
- Construction of a storage building at Savannah Primary
- Installation of a bat house at Savannah Primary school.

The re-painting of Savannah Primary was deferred to next year as the scope of the works being undertaken at that time affected a timely start to that project.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, a supplementary.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: I would like to thank the honourable minister for providing this list and I would also like to thank the Public Works Department for spending so many hours over the weekends during the summer holidays in order to get the schools to where they are at to-date.

My question is to the honourable minister. Would he say where we are at to date with the plans for the additional classrooms at the Bodden Town Primary School?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I would first like to thank the Second Elected Member from Bodden Town for all of her effort and time, and her concern for these schools.

At present, the master plan for the school is being prepared. Once that is done then the classrooms will be within that and we would hopefully move quickly on those.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Can the minister say what is the total cost for those classrooms?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I cannot give an answer to that as yet as we don't have the plans and the costing. But I did visit the Savannah Primary School as well as Bodden Town Primary School a few days ago and the schools are in very good conditions—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I am talking about the new classrooms at the Savannah Primary.

The Speaker: I think that is somewhat outside the ambit of this substantive question. If the minister has the information he may give.

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I don't have that costing here. I think, but don't hold me to it, it was about $800,000 for the four classrooms maybe $850,000.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: More than that.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Well, if the member knows more than me . . . maybe it was a bit more, sir. I just don't know.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I see that works that are scheduled to be completed within the next six weeks for the Savannah Primary School is the installation of a bat house.

I wonder if the honourable minister could say if the blinds that are needed for the windows at the Savannah Primary School have now been installed or will they be installed shortly?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Well, when I visited there three days ago I had a look at these windows and what we were told is that Public Works had been in, they had measured them, they would get them shortly. I impressed on Mrs. Gardener who was there with us to please ensure that things were expedited because I could see, you know, where this needed to be done quickly.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, just a final supplementary following up on what the Elected Member for North Side asked. Is it safe then to assume, based on what the minister has said, that the installation of these blinds can be added to this list of works scheduled to be completed within the next six weeks?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, sir.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I would like to ask the honourable minister because I am aware that there was a problem with the air conditioning water leaking in one particular area in one of the classrooms at the Savannah School. If this has been rectified—the air conditioner water leaking into the fan?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: When I visited a few days back it was not leaking and I was told that it had been rectified, but that occasionally still there had been some dripping of water from the duct, I think that was what I was told. Once again, I asked the Education Department to please ensure that a total solution to that watery problem was found.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can I ask through you, sir, that the honourable minister follow up on this because this water leaking in an electrical installation poses a hazard. So, can the minister give an undertaking to the House that he will diligently pursue this matter to see that the final solution is satisfactory?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, where the water was dripping from was about 9 feet up in the air and was really out of the reach of children. Obviously their slipping in the water would have been a problem but by all means—

[Members' interjections]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, but the electricity was in the ceiling. Anyhow, I don't want to get into that. What I am saying is, I have asked Public Works to give its immediate attention and to get it solved. I would assume by now with the efficiency of Public Works they may have solved it. I will check on it and let the member know whether there is a watery problem or not.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? No further supplementaries. Moving on to question number 74 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 74

NO. 74: Mr. Linford A. Pierson asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation and Planning to state when the National (Education) Curriculum will be completed and published.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The National Curriculum is in its draft stage. The following curriculum drafts have been completed and are presently used by teachers. These are working documents which will eventually become bound in one volume and tabled in the Legislative Assembly.

- Key stages 1-3 - mathematics, science and language arts
- Key stages 1 and 2 – social studies
- Key stage 4 – mathematics and science completed, but still to be presented to the National Curriculum Advisory Committee.

The core curriculum of mathematics, science and language arts will be completed for all key stages by December 2000.

All other subjects will be completed [thereafter].

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: I wonder if the honourable minister is in a position to say whether any provision is being made in the national curriculum to assist the non academically inclined students, that is, the technically inclined students coming through the system.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The decision was taken by the committee to do the core subjects first, which by nature are academic but the honourable member's question is a very good one. Yes, the technical and vocational subjects will be dealt with in this.

I can also mention that drafts are being developed for physical education, drama, arts, speech and the literary aspect of the arts, and they will be completed by next year, I have been told. History and geography will commence early in 2001.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the honourable minister say whether there have been any attempts to check the validity and the reliability of the standards which the curriculum is going to require the students to attain?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Next month a Test Development Officer will be here and it will be his duty to ensure the standards. However, I should say that in one of the best examples of transparency, which is the independent Inspectorate, all schools which includes looking at the subject areas of the schools are subject to the audit. The standards are published to the public so that all can see but it is a good question. Yes, the testing has to go on and it is important that the respective stages of those that have been completed are up to the necessary standards through independent valuation.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The honourable minister has latched on to that word, transparency, but perhaps he could really show up the transparency by tabling that Millet Report.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the minister with regards the curriculum, when he mentions in his final sentence of the substantive answer, where he says, “All other subjects will be completed thereafter” is it possible for the minister to give us a brief outline of which subjects he refers to when he says all other subjects?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Those are history, geography, information technology, religious education and foreign language.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: So, following up what the Third Elected Member for George Town asked regarding the technical areas and the minister was keen to be positive about that. How is this going to be incorporated then? Because obviously these subjects he mentions here are not in line with any technical areas. What has to be accomplished within the realm of the curriculum to achieve this?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The technical curriculum at the high school, the revision of that will begin next year. There is IT in this as the honourable member, I am sure, heard. I think what will be looked at . . . and remember we have a National Curriculum Advisory Committee—highly specialised people on this—who will be looking and ensuring that that technical curriculum also moves down the education system as far as it should go.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Also, in the answer where the honourable minister states that the National Curriculum is in its draft stage and then he outlines key stages 1–3 et cetera. For purposes of clarity, could he explain how these stages relate to the age groups because I am assuming that we are speaking about primary and secondary levels? So, if he could use either one of them as an example so that we can understand what stage equates to what age group.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, Key stage 1 relates to school years 1 -3, which is 4 years and 9 months to 7 years and 9 months of the pupil's age.

Key stage 2, years 4 - 6 of the school year and pupils age 7 years 9 months to 11 years 9 months.

Key stage 3, years 7 - 9, the ages are 11 years 9 months to 14 years 9 months.

Key stage 4, years 10 - 12, which is 14 years 9 months to 17 years 9 months.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

No further supplementaries. Moving on to question number 75 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 75

NO. 75: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation and Planning if Cayman Airways Limited has a business plan.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: (See Appendix I attached).

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: The Minister has made mention of a strategy priority being to recruit a Human Resource Manager to address the various human resource issues including performance, training, compensation and benefits. Could the minister say what is the position of the airline with regards to keeping employees on the job so that they can reach a point to receive benefits?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: If the member could be a bit more specific it may help me, sir, in replying.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Has it been brought to the attention of the honourable minister that perhaps the policy of the human resource department in the airline is to get rid of Caymanian staff in order to avoid having to pay benefits later on?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: That is not correct. It is neither a policy nor a practice of Cayman Airways Limited.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Could the minister say if he is aware of any changes with regards to the benefits that employees would be entitled to after serving say, a minimum of 15 or 20 years with Cayman Airways? If there has been any change over the years with regard to those benefits?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, there have been no changes in this area. I would like to point out, as I said before, that 85% of our staff are Caymanian and of the other 15% many of them are either married or have long-term commitments here, family connections or whatever.

There are very few companies, I think, that have achieved such a high Caymanianisation as Cayman Airways has. We value all of our staff, but especially our Caymanian staff, sir.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Could the minister say whether or not it has been brought to his attention that there is presently a number of Caymanian employees at Cayman Airways who are not just dissatisfied with their positions but dissatisfied with regard to the benefits which they are being offered to leave their jobs?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Cayman Airways is always careful to comply with the law in relation to staff benefits. We encourage especially the long-term staff to remain at Cayman Airways. Obviously, we have a lot of staff and differences of opinion do arise at times between human resources and staff, but I think, it is quite obvious that with 85% of the staff Caymanian and a lot of the 15% connected family-wise to Caymanians that Cayman Airways has done a very good job of holding a Caymanian staff.

Mr. Speaker, the airline business is a hard business and there are no two ways about it. It is hard. It's predatory. It's highly competitive and performance in Cayman Airways is something that has to be stressed for it to survive the way it has, sir.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: If the minister could say whether or not part of the human resource strategy of Cayman Airways is to terminate the contract of employees who have a significant amount of years with the airline and then to suggest that they be re-hired in order that those employees cannot claim certain benefits as being long serving employees.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Perhaps the honourable member could be somewhat more specific in what he is referring to here.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Could the minister say if just recently, within the last few days, a flight attendant with Cayman Airways—who had been with the airline for over fourteen years—had her contract terminated simply because of medical reasons (she was no longer able to serve as a flight attendant), in order to solve the problem of having to give her the benefits she was entitled to because of seniority and pay? Her contract was terminated with the view that perhaps she could be hired in another capacity but not get the benefit of those years she had served with the airline. And, the doctors have given evidence that the medical condition has been a direct result of her flying.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: This is now dealing with a specific staff. If the member wishes this to be aired here rather than perhaps this information being given to him privately then I guess I can do so even though that is not a good thing to do. I will now be making statements publicly in relation to staff and I would rather have her consent before I do it. It is something that might not be very helpful in some areas.

The Speaker: I would say this is an internal matter within Cayman Airways, and I do not feel it should be aired on the floor so I will not allow that.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I will give a full disclosure to the member because I have it here, but I think your decision is right. I don't think it is in the interest of Cayman Airways or the staff.

The Speaker: Answer to the member in writing.
The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: On page 3 of the honourable minister's reply to the question he speaks about the re-pitched seats in two aircraft to allow more legroom for passengers. "The third aircraft will have new coach seats installed by the end of this year. New seats will also be installed on all three aircraft during their next heavy check . . ." I don't understand. The third aircraft is going to have them installed by the end of the year but then when the three aircraft have their next heavy check, they are all going to get new seats again.

What I would like the honourable minister to do, once the necessary documentation and engineering has been completed and approved, is to just elaborate a little bit for us on what this documentation and engineering is supposed to be.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, before seats can be moved—and this did strike me as really a lot of extreme caution and safety, if I may put it this way—what I understand has to happen is that plans have to be drawn on the positioning of the seats. I thought it was simple too because I put the same question and I will just tell you the answer I got.

They also have to have plans on the electrical overhead and the vents, which have to move with it. Those plans have to be approved by external engineers unless there is an approved configuration of that sort which there would normally be that has been approved. I think I am right in saying that Boeing (the manufacturer) has to approve it and the positioning then has to be calculated into—they have to re-weigh (rebalance, I think) the plane because the movement of the seats and the movement of the people obviously can affect the balance or stability of the plane.

All of this has to be gone through and signed off just to move the seats. That may seem an extreme, but as you know, every rivet in a jet has a number and has to be accounted for. The safety side is extreme towards ensuring absolute safety in the jets. It is these plans and the approvals that they need to get.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: If we go back through the Hansards, I asked a similar supplementary question here some months ago, and the minister said that the plans were almost completed.

My next question to the honourable minister is: It is common parlance that we have five mini-warehouses of seats for Cayman Airways' aircraft. I wonder if the honourable minister could give this House the cost of those seats, when we purchased them, and what the airline will have to sell a business class or a coach seat at to recoup the actual cost of the seats?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The member is correct. We have new seats. A lot of them will now be installed into the aircraft. Once again, it seems that when they normally schedule these seats to go in . . . And I don't mind telling you because I too have been frustrated about asking when are these new seats going in. But they seem to be going to do this when there is down time on the plane, as it says here, during the next heavy check. From what I can understand, they should have all the documentation on this at that time, but, yes, the seats have come and they are stored and they will be installed.

I asked the question on the cost, I don't have that but I will get it for the Elected Member for North Side and I will have it sent to you in writing. I undertake to do that.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Sir, you will bear in mind that this answer took 11 minutes for the minister to finish reading it out. So, I trust that you will—

The Speaker: It is almost lunchtime.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, sir, I trust that you will appreciate that because of the length of the answer it is only fair that we be allowed a few more supplementaries. So, I was only going to suggest that since it is that time perhaps we could take the luncheon break and resume with this question right after the luncheon break.

The Speaker: We will take your supplementary first.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Okay sir that's fine. It is really not a problem to me but I just hope that it does not cause a problem in not being allowed to ask supplementaries that we wish to.

In the substantive answer the minister mentions as one of the objectives, "To develop an integrated marketing and business plan for the year 1999 which would lay the groundwork and be used for the development of a second five-year plan for the period 2001 - 2006". In the very beginning his answer talks about the five-year strategic business plan generally referred to as CAL21, saying it was updated and some priorities re-stated in 1998.

Could the minister state if the marketing and business plan for the year 1999 has been developed and is it, in fact, going to be or already is to the stage where it will be used in the development of a second five-year plan for period 2001—2006? And at what stage is the 2001—2006 plan?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: A working document does exist that will be refined. It will then go to the board for acceptance, whether or not that would be used for the second five-year plan. And a decision, because a lot of it will be policy integration of the marketing and business aspect to it. That will go on to the board for final decision, as did the earlier five-year plan. It probably will be early in the coming year.

The Speaker: Supplementary, do you have a follow-up or do you want to take lunch at this time?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: It seems like the Cayman Airways staff who are here to assist the minister in answering perhaps it would be inconvenient to take the luncheon break and then they have to come back. I am easy but if it is more convenient for them I will continue.

The Speaker: That's exactly what I was saying. Please go ahead.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: That is fine.

The First Elected Member for West Bay is not in the Chamber so I am sure he is satisfied by now so we don't have much to worry about at this point in time, sir.

The minister also states that the first jet Cayman Airways purchased in 1994, registered VPCAL, will be fully paid off by the end of October this year. The original loan was approximately US$5.4 million. It is my understanding that the original arrangement was that the government owned leasing companies that engaged in borrowings for the aircraft and in turn leased the aircraft to Cayman Airways. The leasing companies were able to acquire the loans via a government guarantee and Cayman Airways made lease payments to the leasing companies which were to the tune of whatever the loan payments were. That is my understanding as to how it went at the beginning.

At present it is also my understanding that the assets owned by those leasing companies have now been transferred into Cayman Airways, that is, namely the aircraft. I would like to understand clearly . . . the government guarantee that was given to the leasing company, obviously if the assets of the leasing company were transferred into Cayman Airways, first of all, it should mean some situation of equity by the government into Cayman Airways. I want that explained just for clarity.

Secondly, the guarantees that were given by Finance Committee for the aircraft to the leasing companies, what mechanism has been used to transfer that guarantee? Obviously it will have to be Cayman Airways. Or, do those leasing companies still exist? If so, or if not so, how are the loans being dealt with at present? Are the loans still in the name(s) of these leasing companies? Are the loans now in the name of Cayman Airways? Or, are the loans directly in the name of the government of the Cayman Islands?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: Mr. Speaker, the honourable member has fairly set out the arrangement and where this says "Cayman Airways purchased," it should say, "leased" back in 1994.

The assets and the debts were transferred to Cayman Airways and now sit in the name of Cayman Airways. We came here and did a variation quite a while back in Finance Committee allowing the guarantees to be transferred to Cayman Airways. So, the liability has moved from the leasing companies to Cayman Airways and then Cayman Airways directly services those loans.

The leasing companies still exist, but in due course they will become defunct (I hate to use those words in here) under the law and perhaps will just be struck from the register. They now hold no assets, all the assets have been transferred to Cayman Airways.

The leasing companies—I will have to wait until I get the audited accounts to see how that was—basically assigned all assets and liabilities into Cayman Airways. What really had happened, sir, in effect even though the jets were owned by the leasing companies—which leased to Cayman Airways—Cayman Airways paid rental at the rate which allowed the leasing companies to pay the loans.

So, in effect, Cayman Airways had built up through lease payments—

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: [inaudible comment]

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: I know what the member is referring to, maybe, whether shares had been issued for it. The answer is no.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Perhaps then the minister could explain for purposes of clarity if all assets and liabilities were transferred from the leasing companies to Cayman Airways? And, once you have an asset which has a value and you are making payments, as those payments are made, you then continually increase with the differential between your assets and liabilities. So, assuming that the assets were worth more than the liabilities, and the leasing company transferred the assets and liabilities which were owned by the government of the Cayman Islands, how does the equation balance?

If I have to be very clear: the planes were worth more than was owed on them which in effect the beneficial ownership by the government of the Cayman Islands indicated that the government had an asset. Did it simply dump the asset into Cayman Airways? What balanced the equation?

The minister is well familiar with the term, single entry bookkeeping. I am trying to understand what transpired.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The method of doing this was one that the external auditors (and I would say the management) took the decision on. Let me just explain what they did—there were different ways that this could be done. At the end of the day, the auditors have to be relied on for the guidance in these areas.

Government owned all of the shares in the leasing companies. Government owns all of the shares in Cayman Airways Limited therefore they were both common subsidiaries carrying on a similar business. I understand what the member has said. But the only way to get this explained, and I will have the audited accounts sometime within the near future and I will make sure they are published before the elections. I can assure members of the House that in the interest of transparency—this transparency thing keeps getting to me.

What they in effect did was to do a merger of the assets and they merged the two companies. I know this is complex, there is no two ways about that. What I understand they have come down to, they have merged—because government owned both therefore government owned the assets, liability and equity in each one. They have taken the assets and merged them. That is the best explanation I can give but I will give the honourable member the audited accounts as soon as I can get them.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town we can only go two more supplementaries.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, I knew it would come down to this. But life is like that sometimes I guess. I am by no means satisfied with the minister's answer and certainly you will not treat this as one of those two supplementaries, sir. I would simply ask the minister for an undertaking—in writing is fine—to clearly explain what transpired, how it transpired and why it transpired. Just a matter of understanding as I was never able to grab on to that. Obviously, the minister has shaken his head so I don't have to give way for him to answer that.

In the very last paragraph of his answer, the minister says, "In conclusion, I hope the 1999 audited financials will show the airline is getting close to break-even after subsidy, representing the second year in a row that the airline has held near break-even".

He goes on to say, "For the first time in many years CAL has seen some strides forward financially." I would like to know from the minister if his reference here has anything to do with those same assets that we just talked about or whether it is actually the operating performance of the airline.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The operational side has seen a good increase in sales and for that thanks has to go to the manager in the sales department and also to our managing director.

Firstly, the airline has stabilised considerably. It has had time to consolidate and I think that the cautious and conservative approaches to the airline have given the opportunity for improvements in these areas. There are obvious improvements and assets as well.

The Speaker: Final supplementary. The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Where the honourable minister just mentioned about the increase in sales, I appreciate what he is saying and this $1.4 million increase in gross sales which I equate to gross income for 1999 compared to 1998. Could the minister state what are the comparisons with regards to the expenditure for 1999 compared to 1998? It would seem like while he would be quite willing to latch on to one he should have tried to grab the other so when he knew one he should know the other.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I will have the audited accounts in the near future and it will set out the increase in sales, expenditure and everything else. What I will say, Mr. Speaker, the conservative policy of buying the jets rather than leasing them has saved this country millions of dollars. That type of conservative policy has to be good for any business not just Cayman Airways—why lease when you can buy?

The Speaker: At this time we shall suspend proceedings until 2.30 PM for lunch.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.16 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.02 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Question time continuing. Question number 76 is standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

Before putting that I would ask for a motion to suspend Standing Order 23(6). It reads as follows, "Not more than three questions requiring an oral answer shall appear on the Order Paper in the name of the same Member for the same day . . ." Therefore, this is the fourth one for the First Elected Member for George Town.

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(6)

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, the honourable minister is busy so I would beg to move that we suspend Standing Order 23(6) in order that more than three questions standing in my name can be asked in the same day.

The Speaker: Seconder, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I second that, sir.

The Speaker: The motion has been moved and seconded that we suspend Standing Order 23(6). Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Question Time continues.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(6) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: Question number 76 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 76

NO. 76: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation and Planning to give an update on what consideration is being given to pension benefits for long-serving Caymanian employees of Cayman Airways.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Cayman Airways Limited (CAL) is fully in compliance with the National Pensions Law for all employees, including long-service employees. It is recognised that certain older and long-serving employees would have had a shorter time to contribute to the pension and wherever possible CAL makes every effort to deal with such cases on an individual basis.

There are approximately 20 employees who have 20 years or more service with the airline, however, most of them are relatively young, still in the 40s and early 50s.

CAL is committed to assisting such employees wherever possible, both financially and practically. When presented with such case, CAL's first option is to try and arrange mutual agreeable terms of continued employment, in other words, continued employment which the employee is capable of performing and which would be beneficial to the airline. In a case where the employee cannot continue to perform the job held, then the airline will also consider the option of severance pay under the terms as outlined in the current Labour Law.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementary, the First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Recognising the fact that in singling out these employees when asking the question it would apparently seem to put them in a different category from other employees who have not been with the airline that long. Understanding what the minister has answered, could he state if any consideration is being given to the fact that while these employees may be in their 40s or 50s it still puts them at a disadvantage—given what is considered the length of tenure that they would have normally before retirement age—insofar as those who are with less service in the airline are going to have the advantage of having a longer period of time to build up such a pension.

The disadvantage that I speak about, so that it is very clear, is the fact that the Pension Law calls for contributions both from the employer and the employee. So, there is going to be an advantage—the longer the tenure since the Pension Law came into effect. I am asking because of this, is there any special consideration being given?

The way the answer has been given to me, it really does not help the question that was asked.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I understand the point the member is making and I think it is a position that every company in Cayman probably finds itself in because compulsory pensions have just recently come in. By all means, as is stated in the latter paragraph of the answer—Cayman Airways is committed to assisting such employees wherever possible. The answer to that is, yes, we are committed to assisting however it is a problem generally in all companies, I guess, where there was no pension previous to this (the Pension Law) but wherever we can mitigate the hardship obviously we would.

So, that is why if they continue employment it will give them an opportunity of building up because at their level the contribution is significant compared to a younger person. That is the best I can really say, sir.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I hear what the minister is saying, but the view that some people take is the fact that Cayman Airways is owned by the government and while it is a business and has to be run as a business, other statutory authorities owned by the government and other agencies that the employees are not directly termed as permanent pensionable establishment—the employees in those areas still receive benefits that are equated to the way the government operates. I grant that it is stretching it a little bit to consider Cayman Airways in the same light but it is not unfair for those employees to look at themselves almost as government employees.

With that in mind, that is why the question was asked and I will ask it again. Because what the minister is stating, while if that is the position then that's the position, I am asking if it cannot be looked at differently. I respect the fact that if you look at the entire airline and its employees it is difficult to be singling anyone out because others might complain. But as the minister would say, the facts are the facts. I am asking if no consideration can be given in that light bearing in mind that even with the government we now have a defined contribution plan which has been recently instituted compared to the defined benefit plan, that was the case previous to this. These people who have been there for that length of time have been walking and working side by side with no benefits at all compared to the other benefits that have been received by government employees.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I follow what the member is saying and it obviously has my sympathy and I am sure the sympathy of the management of Cayman Airways. I do know and he is quite right, the statutory authorities created by a law do have a lot of benefits similar to government including that one. I guess what would have to happen . . . because Cayman Airways does not have the finances obviously to do this. Like I said, I am very sympathetic with this and I can well understand why some of the long-term staff may have that feeling. I think what we may need to do is to get a study done on the cost and then ask Finance Committee to look at it because it would have to be funded from here because we don't have the money to fund it. I am just stating, as the member said earlier, facts are the facts. Maybe this is something that needs to be done.

I know that with the statutory authorities—well, they are all a little bit different in some ways—but many of the benefits to government are similar. I guess looking at it from another point of view is, well salaries sometimes at least some companies are not tied to government nor some statutory authorities to government salaries. It has my sympathy and whatever I can do and if the feeling here is that it should be looked at, I will ask for a study to be done to check on how many would be in those brackets, about how much would be involved.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: For instance, during the time that government employees were under the defined benefit scheme you had to serve ten years consecutively before you were eligible for pensions. I am suggesting to the minister that it is not in my view an impossible situation. If the equation were worked in a manner similar to that whereby you would simply be looking at, after that period of time, whatever gap has been before these people joined any pension plan, to try and fill that gap for them. I am just using an example to show the possibilities.

Understanding that this is something that may have to be dealt with in this arena and the only way to determine that which I thought was being done was by finding out exactly how much money we were looking at. I thought that was being done but nevertheless whatever.

The fact is, I am asking the minister to give an undertaking simply to determine those facts—that it can be looked at to know exactly what dollar value we are up against to see how the situation can work that makes them feel a bit more satisfied with tenure they have at Cayman Airways. I don't think that anyone expects to go right back from day one and put it all together in that fashion. So, if the minister would simply give an undertaking and not just let it fall away, please.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, I will just say, I do.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

If not, question number 77 is standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town, which also requires the suspension of Standing Order 23(6).

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(6)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I move the suspension of the Standing Order.

The Speaker: The question is that we suspend Standing Order 23(6). Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Order 23(6) has been suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(6) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: Moving on to Question number 77 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 77

NO. 77: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to explain the parole system for prisoners being implemented at present.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The revised arrangements for the consideration of inmates for parole or remission of sentence, were issued by the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs under authority of His Excellency the Acting Governor on 15 August 2000. A copy is provided for honourable members, but for the benefit of the listening public, I beg your permission to read these:

Parole (Caymanian Inmates)

Parole: Parole is the privilege to continue the pursuit of rehabilitation aims without remaining in prison. It is not a right.

Eligibility for Parole: Only Caymanian inmates will continue to be eligible for parole. Eligibility for consideration for parole will continue to be upon serving one year in prison or one-third of sentence, whichever is greater.

Remission and Deportation (Non-Caymanian Inmates): Remission is the setting aside of the remainder of a sentence by His Excellency the Governor. It is not a right. Deportation is the physical removal of that individual from the Cayman Islands with the legal and administrative revocation of the individual's right to re-enter the Islands.

Eligibility for Remission and Deportation: Only non-Caymanian inmates will continue to be eligible for remission and deportation. Eligibility for consideration for remission and deportation will continue to be upon serving one year in prison or one-third of sentence, whichever is greater.

Parole Board

Role: The Parole Board is advisory to His Excellency the Governor in respect of matters related to the granting of: Parole; and Remission.

Membership: The Parole Board will consist of five members including at least one younger person (under 35) and at least one female.

Members of the Parole Board will be appointed to serve at the pleasure of His Excellency the Governor. His Excellency the Governor will also appoint the Chairman.

The Director of Prisons and the Deputy Commissioner of Police and the Chief Probation Officer will be ex-officio members of the Parole Board.

Deliberations: As soon as suitable facilities are available, the Parole Board will sit at the Prison.

Each prisoner eligible for parole or remission is entitled to make a short submission in support of his/her case to the Board or such of its members as it designates for hearing such representations. The prisoner will not be represented at such an appearance.

Decisions will be reached by consensus.

Parole Goals and Conditions: Based upon the Parole Board's recommendations and relevant to the individual and the offence for which he was convicted, each grant of parole will specify: Goals which the inmate agrees to seek to achieve; and Conditions with which the inmate agrees to comply in pursuing these goals.

Length of Parole Board: A grant or parole will be for the remainder of the period of sentence that has not been served.

Reconsideration of Unsuccessful Inmates: An inmate who is refused parole or remission after serving the relevant eligibility period for consideration will be advised by the Board of: the outstanding areas which the inmate needs to achieve; and the approximate date when he will be reconsidered.

The date for reconsideration will reflect these outstanding areas and provide a realistic timeframe for their achievement.

Subject to an inmate's performance, the Director may recommend to the Board that he be reconsidered earlier.

Effective Date: These revised arrangements will come into effect on 15 September 2000.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Perhaps it was good timing on behalf of the Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member to answer the question today. I know that there was a press release on the matter but I think it probably requires a bit of clarification outside of the press release.

So that we may have a more rounded picture, could the member, if he is in the position to answer, give us a brief outline with regards to how the agency which operates during the time of a person's parole makes sure that that person adheres to the conditions of his parole?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The primary monitoring and supervisory responsibility in relation to persons on parole is provided by what is called the Probation Aftercare Unit of the Social Services Department headed up by Chief Probation Officer and staff with two or three other probation officers.

Those individuals are primarily responsible. They establish a schedule with inmates as to what intervals they wish for them to report to them and there is also a schedule where relevant, at least in appropriate terms of when they would intend to visit the inmates. They are subject to the offence, which may have been committed.

There are various other rehabilitative activities that they may be required to take part in. And on his reporting appointments provide substantiation that he has fulfilled it.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the member state if there is any provision through any agency, not exclusive of the one he just explained whereby prisoners are assisted in entrenching themselves back into the society via jobs et cetera?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: There is certainly a very active programme which the Ministry of Community Development primarily through its Labour Office operates. I am at a loss with the actual name of it. I think it may be called Project Prepare which is the leading programme in terms of trying to line inmates with job opportunities upon release from incarceration.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, can the honourable member tell the House what provisions exist for the adequate supervision of the parolees? Adequate in terms of their placement and supervision in terms of monitoring employment, leisure time, et cetera.

The Speaker: The Acting Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Mr. Speaker, as I have already mentioned, the Probation Aftercare Unit would be involved from the time the inmate is being considered for parole because the Chief Probation Officer is an ex-officio member of the Parole Board and is also a source of professional advice to the Board as to the individual's potential for consideration for parole.

That unit would liaise with Project Prepare, or in some cases, making enquiries on behalf of the inmate in respect of opportunities that the inmate himself, or through family, may have identified and established outside. In that case it's simply for the Probation Aftercare Unit to confirm that a prospective employer is, yes, willing to offer employment to that individual.

So, the lead role in terms of government agencies and assisting with arranging employment is Project Prepare. The Probation Aftercare Unit would obviously monitor that persons are working where they say they are working, that they are attending any other programmes that they are required to attend, and if there are restrictions in terms of social life will make random checks to see that the persons are not abusing those conditions as well.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: It is a recognised fact among criminologists and persons who are experts in incarceration that certain long-term prisoners find it extremely difficult to move directly from prison to an unstructured life in civil society. Can the honourable member say whether the government in its on-going development and advancement of the parole system has any plans for the construction of a halfway house so that those prisoners who are released from prison, both in finality and also on parole may move into a semi-structured environment in preparation for unsupervised life in the civil society?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I certainly concur with the views that the member has expressed in terms of the potential benefit of making the transition from incarceration to freedom, Phase I, in the case of particularly the longer term prisoners. It is a component that we would very much like to be able to introduce. Its key element is the accommodation aspect. And having said that, some consideration, in fact, is being given to perhaps using some existing accommodation immediately outside the prison but obviously that is very limited. The ideal thing would be to provide suitable accommodation perhaps of a different regime and obviously with different amenities but partly within the prison perimeter itself.

But it is certainly an area that we are conscious of and we are looking to see how we can introduce.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I would like to go back to the area of the substantive answer which speaks to eligibility for remission and deportation. On page 2 of the answer where the member says, "Only non-Caymanian inmates will continue to be eligible for remission . . ." understanding what remission means as it is explained in the answer, can the member state the reasoning why remission is only allowed for non-Caymanians rather than for all prisoners? I am not attaching it to deportation. I am just talking about remission itself.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The primary reason for holding on to the remission approach to non-Caymanians simply is that it is not practical either economically or even legally, one could argue, because of other legislation. Perhaps it is not acceptable socially to say that you are going to attempt to offer parole to non-Caymanians. In turn, if you are going to release someone from prison you either must release them on a parole arrangement or in the case of non-Caymanians remit the remaining of their sentence which means that there is no reason for them to continue to remain in prison.

Because you are talking about people who invariably will have served one year or one-third of their sentence, whichever is greater, you are inherently talking about people who are also under the Immigration legislation deemed prohibited immigrants who would not be permitted to remain in the island and who would otherwise be required to leave and so that whole process is generally calculated into a deportation order. It simply is not practical to let the person out of prison with a portion of sentence remaining and hence the reason why you remit the remaining portion of sentence. Obviously, the person may have served 18 months or 23 months or whatever; what happens is that you remit the remainder of the sentence and by virtue of it being remitted the prison no longer has a reason to keep the person.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: So, safe comment then is that in the case of non-Caymanians remittance is equated to parole for Caymanians?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Obviously, what we have tried to get is as much parity and equity in these arrangements as is practical because, when you come out of the gate at Northward your options are substantially different. I will hear the line from time to time that one still has an advantage over the other. We certainly think that this is as equitable as we can be. If two prisoners, the same sentence, the same offence and who both behaved impeccably if at a common point in time, they can walk out of the facility. Albeit one will probably leave the island and the other one will be here on parole because he is a Caymanian, if the incarceration can end at the same time we think that is as fair as we can currently be.

The Speaker: Two additional supplementaries on this question.

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, I only need one at this time. Perhaps someone else might need to ask a question.

Again, just for purposes of clarity and understanding what the member has said perhaps then is it also safe comment to say that while parity is attempted here the difference in the whole situation is that the Caymanian is going to be residing within the Cayman Islands and, therefore, there has to be some system in place to do as much as possible to ensure that person returns into the society within the Cayman Islands as a productive citizen hence the parole to help the person along during that process, while in the other instance the person is going to be out of sight and out of mind and therefore basically just falling away.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Yes, I certainly think that there is a definite advantage in making parole as lengthy as it can be. If you use the analogy of teaching someone to ride a bicycle—I think if you have an hour to spend with someone and you hold on to them for 20 minutes out of it but you walk with them for the other 40 minutes just in case they fall down. But if they are able to ride for 40 minutes without falling down, their chances of not falling down are a lot better than if you held on to them for 45 or 50 minutes.

I think to some extent the practice had been to see parole as, perhaps, giving people a break rather than seeing it as an opportunity to allow them to come back into the society under that supervision for as long as possible. If you can have someone on parole for 18 months or 2 years and they can comply with the parole then the chances are, we think, substantially greater that when the parole is up they will continue to comply with society's norms. And that is partly the reason, as well as in some cases, inmates were kind of passing on the parole and saying, 'We would rather stay because we are only going to get three months on parole. We would rather serve those three months here and not have to deal with 18 months.' In the long run that does not benefit inmates and perhaps only contributes to recidivism in any case. But I thank the member for his questions which have allowed me to elaborate a bit more on the matter. Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: No further supplementaries? We will move on to question number 78 standing in the name of the Elected Member for North Side.

QUESTION 78

NO. 78: Mrs. Edna Moyle asked the Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to give the nationality, professional qualification and length of stay in the Cayman Islands of persons granted Caymanian status by the Governor in council since January 1997.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: A total of 14 persons were granted Caymanian status by the Governor-in-council since January 1997. The following is the list of their names, professional qualification, nationalities and length of stay in the Cayman Islands and the date of grant.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay, supplementary.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, can the honourable member say on what basis Executive Council granted these persons status?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Basically, Executive Council is empowered to grant such status where it is considered to be a special reason for doing so. I certainly don't have the fourteen reasons for these grants but I would be happy to provide them . . . or if there is any particular one that the member is interested in, I would be happy—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, sir. Mr. Speaker, I understand that there have been special circumstances as he said and I won't pressure the honourable member because he is only acting, but I would say, sir, I would have thought that government would have prepared some information along the lines we have asked. These are just a few people to be granted status when there are so many who have been left; some have been here for 40 years. I see a roof technician, a Honduran . . . I don't know for what reasons and I am simply not saying anything against that at this time, other than to say it was for three years. I don't know what special circumstances existed, in other words.

For instance, I know of a Honduran family who has been here 40 years, still paying school fees for their child, have Caymanian passports and there is no assistance as such given by Executive Council. So, I am wondering whether the member could also write because it seems like he doesn't have the information with him presently.

I see other nationalities here for 5 years. Let us not look at nationalities . . . just look at the time periods—3 years, 4 years. So, I would not want anyone to believe I am talking about nationalities, I am talking about time periods and we don't know what the special circumstances are.

So, I am wondering since the honourable member doesn't seem to have information with him whether he would give an undertaking to write to us and give us the reasons why.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Mr. Speaker, I certainly don't have a problem with that. I will certainly do that. I think it is correct to say that on the second page of this list that I gave, the grants in April of 2000 are in relation to football players which that same member previously asked me about.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I suppose you think that makes it right.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: No, no, all I am saying I am reminding that those are the April grants. The July grants related to cricket and the National Cricket Team of which I certainly made some public statement in the press or here. But the ones prior to that—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: On a point of order and for clarity—

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order, please.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I think the member was willing to, Mr. Speaker, when he says I asked him about. Please clear that up. Are you talking about this question? I asked you about this question, am I right?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: [Inaudible comment]

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: You are referring then to the question asked earlier this year about clubs, that is what I would like you to clarify. You just said, those that I asked you about.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member can you clarify that?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Mr. Speaker, I am referring here to a parliamentary question and it may not have been by that member but I thought it was from him in relation to grant of status. He did ask for some information on a supplementary question about which clubs the individuals were affiliated with, which I still owe him. I will acknowledge here that I still owe him. [Laughter]

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: [Inaudible comment]

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: No, no, no I will acknowledge that I still owe you that and I hope to get it for you next week. Those in April related to the National Football Team. The four in July related to the National Cricket Team. The others prior to that I can gladly seek to provide the basis of grants in writing.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, my heart goes out to those individuals who find themselves in the midst of perhaps a possibly nasty situation between some of us and the government. My heart also goes out, sir, to those few Members of Executive Council who I know might be a bit more fair-minded than others but who have to go along with the majority as they are dragged along into their own little whims and fancies.

Nevertheless, could the member state if perchance he has any idea how many of these grants were made between the government taking office in late 1992 up until the time that he has given the answer? Does he perhaps at this point in time have any idea how many others were granted prior to that by this government which took office in November 1992?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: No, Mr. Speaker, I have no numbers in relation to the period, November 1992 to December 1996. But, again, I can certainly seek to provide those for the member if he wishes.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Could the Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member say if there are any connections with any of these persons to Caymanians—are any of them married to Caymanians? If so, which ones?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member. I think we are getting a little bit more detailed and if you don't have it you will have to give it in writing.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Unfortunately some of these I don't have the information because I know the information was given publicly. The information appeared in the paper and I really didn't expect that it would be information that I would necessarily be asked down here. I am sorry I don't have it, but in the July batch there was certainly one law enforcement officer, either the Police or Prison, who is married to a Caymanian.

[Inaudible comment]

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Again, I would be happy to provide that information. As I said, it had been stated previously and I did not bring it along.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The honourable member stated earlier in an answer to a supplementary question that Executive Council seems to reserve the right under the law to grant Caymanian status to individuals under special circumstances. I am familiar with that law but I am not quite sure of the exact wording. Could the member state what is basically the premise under which Executive Council operates and what basically do they look at as special circumstances? I know that in a previous supplementary question the member undertook to give the reasons for the individuals that were involved. I am not really asking a question dealing with individual circumstances I am trying to get a generality if it is at all possible to be answered.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Perhaps to make it a little bit clear—

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: What kind of circumstances, along with what I asked the member, would Executive Council consider to be special circumstances?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: My recollection of such grants is that they have normally been to persons who held high office or provided exemplary service and hence the category of jurists, governor, et cetera. Bureaucracy has been bureaucracy. Precedents often times become stronger than circumstances and I would think that the consideration of governors and jurists has become perhaps a bit of a norm at the conclusion of tenure or in some cases during.

I think the two categories this year of athletics, namely, football and cricket were reflective of what Council felt were genuine and justified reasons to try to facilitate the development of those respective sports by assisting local or Caymanian athletes in those fields to have the opportunity to participate competitively at a level without the inclusion of these persons who had been involved in the sports but who were not Caymanians. The participation could have taken place but the competitiveness and benefit would not have been the same. So those two groups fell into a category aimed at basically assisting the development of sports.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Given the answer I just heard, is it fair comment to say that Executive Council (I knew would get someone's attention now) recognises their right under these special circumstances and on occasion have exercised that right because they thought they were right? But having no consideration for the ordinary procedures which would allow the long-term residents of this country the ability to be considered for Caymanian status.

Seeing that the same Executive Council is that body which continues to implement a moratorium based purely on the grounds of length of stay that at this point in time no one can be considered for such a grant but the Council certainly takes up the right which they have legally to find these special circumstances which have no bearing on length of stay.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The government is obviously very cognisant of the category of persons that the member's question refers to—those persons who have been here for what can only be termed long periods of time whether 20, 30, and in some cases 40 years.

All Members of this House have been looking at that particular issue in the Select Committee, which was appointed and has worked extremely hard over the last few years, and which made substantial progress even if perhaps at the final take did not finish as strongly as most members would have hoped. I expect that this House and the public will be informed before the conclusion of this sitting as to the status of deliberation of that select committee.

It obviously is not fair to say that government is not aware of those people and committed to addressing their situation. The fact that these other grants have taken place occasioned by developments in the respective sports in no way changes the fact that the government is committed to continuing to pursue solutions in respect of those long term residents.

The hope certainly can be that whenever this legislature reconvenes after elections that the efforts that were on the way can be resumed as quickly as possible so that we can all move towards dealing with those issues, and dealing with it in a way in which hopefully the majority of members, if not all, can have agreement on.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

If not, we will move on to question number 79 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town, which also requires the suspension of Standing Order 23(6).

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(6)

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: I am happy to suspend Standing Order 23(6) to allow the First Elected Member for George Town to ask another question.

The Speaker: I shall put the question to the motion that we suspend Standing Order 23(6). Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(6) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: Question number 79 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 79

NO. 79: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture what is the status of the new hurricane shelter in Little Cayman?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: The new Public Works Department's building in Little Cayman is ready for use as a hurricane shelter. It is also designed as an emergency medical centre.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: At the risk of it being considered a joke—but just making sure that we have it very clear, can the honourable minister state if any keys to that building are located in Little Cayman and who at present has control of such a key?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: The procedure is as with all projects that once the contractor is finished with the job, the keys are handed over to the project manager who then takes it if it is a project in Little Cayman across to Cayman Brac, where keys are cut and returned to the District Officer.

I am happy to say that this has been done and he has adequate keys.

The Speaker: Supplementary, the First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the answer the minister states that the new public works building in Little Cayman is ready for use as a hurricane shelter and it is also designated to serve as an emergency medical centre. Is there any other purpose that this building is going to serve besides these two designated uses?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: In the substantive answer it referred to the public works building in Little Cayman and it was presumed that all members would know. But to make it absolutely clear it will also be serving as the public works workmen accommodation. It is a total of 2,944 square feet consisting of eight bedrooms, four bathrooms, open living, dining and kitchen area and a laundry room. It also has workshops that is an ancillary facility to the main building.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Assuming that when the minister mentioned 2,900 square feet that was the entire floor area of the building and hearing her speak of eight rooms, four bathrooms and other areas, can the minister state what actual square footage is available for public use?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: The only time it would become necessary under the functions as proposed in this building for public utilisation would be in the event of a national emergency or hurricane. Otherwise the main or substantive use for this property is for accommodation for the public works men. Of course, in the event of a hurricane situation the majority of them being transient workers from the Cayman Brac would be back across in Cayman Brac. It is built to accommodate 105 persons and circumstances of an emergency nature.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state if it is this building or a separate building where a police station is supposed to be?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: We have constructed a separate building in very close proximity of this accommodation which is due to be open and confirmed by the honourable Chief Secretary within a very short time.

The public works building itself is planned for opening on the 28th of this month.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the minister state what is the location of these two buildings that she referred to and is it on the same piece of property where the separate building is or is it a separate piece of property?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: If memory serves me right it is on the same Crown property on the road commonly known as the Spot Bay Road, which is across Island Road in Little Cayman. It is adjacent to the original hurricane shelter that was built some years ago which is now being used for the Little Cayman primary school and medical clinic, it is to the north of that building.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: If I may continue, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Understanding where the location is and bearing in mind the condition of that road, and also thinking that public works vehicles are going to be housed in that compound, and perhaps the fact that it is designated as the only building that is designated to be used in any national emergency, is any serious considerations being made to doing anything about the physical condition of that road that those buildings are located on?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: The road, the adjacent parcels are in private ownership. The Public Works Department have already drawn the road as we would like to see it done and the works manager from the Brac has been instructed to begin the section 3 gazettal process whereby persons would be given 21 days' notice. If it goes through the normal process, if it is deemed to improve the property then they will not get financial compensation otherwise they would.

As soon as that process is finished and subject to the next upcoming budget it is our intention to straighten that road and also to raise it and do the necessary up-grading of the Spot Bay Road.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

Moving on to question number 80 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION 80

NO. 80: Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr. asked the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Administration how many of the Cayman Islands Law School graduates, Class of 2000, are Caymanian, and what is being done to place the Graduates in positions in keeping with this new qualification.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: The total number of Caymanian graduates at the 2000 graduation ceremony was 15, broken down as follows:

|                                     |          |
|-------------------------------------|----------|
| Professional Practice Course | 1 |
| Full-time LLB (Hons.) Degree | 9 |
| Part-time LLB (Hons.) Degree | 3 |
| Diploma in Higher Education  | 1 |
| Diploma in Legal Studies     | 1 |

Graduates of the part-time degree and diploma are already employed, usually in law-related positions, in the public or private sector. Graduates of the full-time degree programme who wish to pursue a legal career must first complete a professional practice course locally or overseas. Thereafter, training is generally completed by registering articles of clerkship with a local law firm. Most Caymanian graduates are successful in obtaining vacation employment and/or sponsorship from local firms during the course of their law school studies. Consequently, the Law School is unaware of there being any Caymanian graduates, desirous of pursuing a legal career, who have not obtained offers of employment locally from either the Legal Department, the Judicial Department or the private sector.

The Legal Department of the Attorney General's Chambers actively recruits Caymanian Law graduates. One graduate of the University of the West Indies has commenced this year, and a Cayman Law school graduate will join next year after qualifying in the United Kingdom.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries? The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: As a supplementary, my first one is, how many of the graduates were non-Caymanians?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: In the current year, 2000, the total number of graduates was as followings (I will give you the *Caymanian figure along side that so you can make the comparison).

| Course                       | Total Graduated | Caymanian Graduate |
|------------------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| Professional Practice Course | 3               | 1                  |
| Full-time LLB Honours Degree | 15              | 9 (60%)            |
| Part-time LLB Honours Degree | 3               | 3                  |
| Diploma in Higher Education  | 1               | 1                  |
| Diploma in legal studies     | 1               | 1                  |

**So, the majority of those involved continues to be Caymanian. Thank you.*

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay, a supplementary.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Before I ask my supplementary let me add my congratulations to those graduates. I did attend that graduation and I was very impressed with the graduating class and also the level of passes that those young people were able to achieve.

Of the graduating class of Caymanians, how many are in the civil service and in what department, and what has been done since graduation, to place those civil servants in positions in keeping with their new qualification as a law school graduate?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr. Speaker, I don't know the precise answer to that, but I can find it out. I do know that one of the part-time degree graduates is employed in the finance portfolio and I would leave my colleague, the Third Official Member, to answer that question in relation to that person.

We are not a clearing agency for graduates, let me just explain. While I have stated my firm view that Caymanian graduates should be given preference and accommodated within the government legal service, there are certain constraints that operate against that and you have given me the opportunity of saying something about that so I am going to take it, Mr. Speaker.

It is my understanding (and this is based on the views of staff it is not my own invention) that the general level of remuneration for lawyers in the legal portfolio falls short of what is required to attract, and even if they are attracted, retain Caymanian lawyers. It is no secret that there is a minority of Caymanian lawyers within the government legal department. That situation in my view is not ideal.

It is my intention with the support of colleagues in government and in the House to review the salary scales for lawyers within government legal service with a view to revising them to levels commensurate to the status of professional lawyers, and to promote and maintain the continued recognition of the independent professional function fulfilled by the government legal service.

That includes, in my opinion, continuing to have the legal service answerable to the Governor not under the Public Service Commission's (PSC) supervision and not least because the government legal service gives legal advice to the PAC, but more because the function of the Attorney General as head of the government legal service is recognised as professionally independent under the Constitution. The best legal advice is given when it is given objectively and independently.

However, the government legal service, I hasten to add, is an important part of the public service and of public life. In my view, it deserves to be recognised for its professionalism, its objectivity, and its calibre. Those in the government legal service deserve to be rewarded accordingly. In that kind of climate, in my opinion, Caymanians and other lawyers will flourish.

Just because we cannot expect to compete, Mr. Speaker, with the highest levels offered by the private sector, it is not in my opinion an adequate reason for failing to reward at corresponding professional levels at a lower level. As I indicated I am not happy with the present imbalance in numbers of Caymanians within the government legal service but in order to do the job one has to have the appropriate tools, as I am sure members would recognise. Therefore, I believe it is also important that adequate accommodation be provided for those in the government legal service as well as other members of the public service. We all know that people work better in good conditions and when they are fairly rewarded for their contribution.

So, I take the opportunity from this question of seeking the assistance of members, my colleagues in government and also colleagues in the House in order to try to create an improved climate for opportunities, for Caymanians primarily in the government legal service. I welcome the question and the supplementaries for the opportunity to state my position. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I also want to thank the Honourable Second Official Member for his comments and I am aware that he is only responsible for legal affairs or the legal department. I wonder if the Honourable Second Official Member can say how many of the recent graduates from the Cayman Islands Law School, that is, the year 2000 are attached or employed by the legal department? What improvements have they benefited from since their recent law degree?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: The top award winner in the graduation ceremony, the First Class Degree graduate has committed to joining the government legal service. A place has been kept next year for that graduate so I am very pleased about that.

The second top graduate was on a part-time degree, an upper second class degree, and that person is already working as the Assistant Financial Secretary in the financial portfolio. Now that, sir, signals achievement in my view and therefore the top two graduates either are in or will be in government employment and I think we can be proud of that.

What I would say is it is my view that the entry level positions within the government legal service, that is, traditionally Crown Counsel II should really be reserved for Caymanians and if there is a queue of them . . . I don't have unlimited control over my budget but within my ability, I would like to say, and within the constraints of the budget that there should be a place for any Caymanian who wants to work within the government legal service on the numbers that I have seen. I think that across the portfolios there is room to engage the numbers that are presently emerging. I don't think that is unduly ambitious. I think it is already happening in the Ministry of Tourism, for example, there is a graduate. I see that as helpful.

I may say that we as a portfolio are quite prepared to offer articles to any graduate who wishes to take advantage of the government legal service.

Excuse me for mentioning, again, that it is limited by space and therefore we all have constraints within which we must operate, but I am hopeful that can be resolved. While I cannot give you a finite figure in relation to the remainder of the graduates I will put that answer in writing once I have it for you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I guess for my information and the information of the rest of the House and the general public, I wonder if the honourable member can say what other steps have to be achieved by these graduates before they are fully recognised as qualified lawyers?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: The first part of the answer indicated, once you have graduated, you have the qualifications but you are not necessarily qualified to practice. Those who want to pursue a legal career are required to either do the Professional Practice Course which we offer here or to go overseas and qualify there. It is quite up to the individual concerned as to how they do this.

If they go, for example, to the United Kingdom and qualify as a barrister, you can come back here and practice straight away. Alternatively, if you do the Professional Practice Course, you have to do a period of articles to get the practical experience. There is some slight imbalance between those two that could do with being ironed out to create a level playing field. But it is a substantial commitment. The degree is only part of it as I am sure members will understand. That's largely the theoretical side of it; there is the practical side of it as well. We have a fused profession here so a person can train either as a solicitor or as a barrister, you have that choice—particularly if they go overseas.

I think that the main challenge is to counter the obvious attractions and I am talking about from the public service standpoint although I appreciate your questions not just related to that. But I think there should be a good climate for young Caymanian graduates and a clear set of opportunities for them to develop their skills and to enter into life within professional practice, if that indeed is their choice.

Having said that, a law degree is a good qualification for many things even if you don't practise law. I have no difficulty in supporting law graduates in doing other things than practising law.

I am particularly concerned about the government legal service because I think it deserves to be strengthened. It deserves to be re-enforced with a higher component of Caymanians and I believe that one way although not the only way to do that is to try to ensure that the initial salaries are competitive and remain competitive to a reasonable degree. The public service will never compete on absolute terms with the private sector but there is no reason for it to lag seriously behind.

If I may say so, I don't want to be elitist about it, but I think it is important to offer young Caymanians a professional career in company with other professionals. That is no different from any other profession, be it teaching or the medical profession or professions in banking and so on. My own views are that we should create a centre of excellence here in the Cayman Islands. There are a great number of laws, we who are lawmakers know and I believe that there is a potential to do that with the resources that are available.

I don't wish to expand on this unless you wish me to but I do think with the size of Bar (Caymanian Bar Association) that presently exists in the Cayman Islands there is a pool of talent which should be developed for the general benefit of the islands. Mr. Speaker, thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay, two additional supplementaries.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I appreciate your patience with me. This is the first and only question I have had all day. It is very important I get the information I am looking for.

To the Second Official Member, I am aware that two or three of the recent graduates are employed at the courts office. I wonder if you know . . . I guess I will have to direct my question to the Temporary Acting First Official Member. What is being done with regards to those two young ladies now? I think one was the Clerk of the Courts and the other one was, I think, an assistant.

What is being done with regards to ensuring that these young ladies are in a position where they complete their training and qualification, first of all? What positions are available for them within the courts office in keeping with their recent qualification?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Although the question is directed to the First Official Member, I have some information I can offer. One of the graduates to which reference has been made I believe is in a training arrangement within the judiciary which will be the subject of certification, the equivalent of articles. I cannot answer for the other but I can find out and let the honourable member know.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member, do you care to delegate him to answer the balance of the question?

The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: If the First Official Member has information that would be helpful. I don't believe he has from what has been indicated.

What I do know as a matter of fact is on the basis of the information I have given is that there are no Caymanian graduates who are not able to find positions. Whether they are the most suitable positions for them and whether everything is being done that could be done, I could not say.

On the other hand, I can answer for what happens within my own portfolio and that is full training will be given to those joining that portfolio by allocating persons to work with experienced legal practitioners across the whole range of work that we engage in so that by the end of that time the person should be suitably qualified in those areas.

It may be that we have to accept that some people will stay for a time and move on. I don't regard that as a loss, it is a net gain to the country and I believe that it is a valuable experience. I don't think that we should allow that to deflect us from the aim of offering long term careers within the government legal service to those who have the ability and the desire to pursue such careers. Not everyone wants to work in the public service and that is fair enough however there are some who do. And, the two graduates to whom I have made reference are examples of that and I think they should be applauded as I said at the graduation ceremony. Thank you.

HOUR OF INTERRUPTION—4.30 PM

The Speaker: Before taking a further supplementary we have reached the hour of interruption. I would appreciate either a motion for adjournment or a continuation.

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I move the adjournment until Monday at 10.00 AM.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, I am not finished with my questions!

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, I thought he had finished.

The Speaker: Well, either an adjournment or a suspension.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Let's finish the question and then move the adjournment. I move the relevant standing order to give the member the opportunity to finish his question and I further move for the adjournment after that.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I will second that, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: A motion has been moved by the First Elected Member for West Bay and seconded by the Third Elected Member for West Bay that the House adjourns after one additional supplementary.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, we will finish the questions and then adjourn, that is the motion.

Mr. Roy Boddén [Interjection] — No, we have too much legislation. We're not rushing this thing. Besides we're getting paid until the 26th. We are working until the 26th.

The Speaker: Tell me exactly what your motion says.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, when you called for the motion I said that we would finish the question now and take the other question . . . I did not realise there was another one. Finish questions and then adjourn.

The Speaker: Excluding the rest of the business on the Order Paper> Am I understanding correctly?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes sir.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I second that, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The motion has been moved and seconded that the House will continue beyond 4.30 PM. until all questions on the Order Paper have been completed.

I shall now put the question. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

[Members' inaudible interjections]

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. We will continue with supplementary questions.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, taking into consideration my interest in qualifying Caymanians—this question is probably directed at the Acting First Official Member, the Deputy Chief Secretary. I must add those graduates that I saw—

The Speaker: Let me remind you, your question is directed to the Honourable Second Official Member if he cares to delegate someone to help him with the answer it is okay but you must direct it to the Second Official Member.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Okay, sir, I don't have a problem with that.

The question is then to the Second Official Member—whether or not there is any long term plan with regards to accommodating these young lawyers within the civil service—not necessarily in the Legal Department, or the Courts Office, but there are other positions within the service that these officers could serve. I wonder if the Second Official Member could say what long-term plans exist in the civil service with regard to accommodating these young lawyers? I must add that those persons that I saw graduating in July of this year are basically all long-term serving civil servants. I don't think there is any real ambition on their part with regard to skipping town and going in to the private sector if they can be accommodated within the service at a level that is in keeping with their qualification as a recently qualified lawyer.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr. Speaker, as you might expect, since I am a lawyer I am slightly biased. What I would say is that whether or not the government can accommodate the graduates depends just as much on whether the graduates want to be accommodated. I am not aware that they are queuing up to join the government legal service.

[Inaudible Members' interjections]

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: While I think you hit it right on the head when you say that's because of the pay, I have heard different views about this.

I have heard, for example, that the entry-level salary is reasonably competitive but I know for a fact that once you get a little bit further on, it is uncompetitive. If you were a young person emerging from Law school—and I am still at an age where I can remember when I did that (chuckles)—you look around and you try to gage what your opportunities are. While young people are probably a little bit more adventurous, they are not stupid and they are not going to embark on a career that peters out, as far as the money is concerned in comparison with the benefits to be offered in the private sector.

So, in answer to your question, I believe, and this is my personal view, I am not stating government policy. I don't think that there should be a manpower plan for the public service that in relation to legal services should identify the potential for use of legally qualified persons within the government legal service. That is not just employing them as lawyers although there is a lot of legal work around. Most of that is concentrated in my own portfolio, but there are areas where the Financial Secretary's portfolio and mine overlap, for example, money laundering. There are growing areas in the regulatory field where lawyers have significant potential. But I think it requires a degree of forward planning and it requires a proper assessment of what suitable levels of reward are before you can interest people and persuade them that you have got something worthwhile on offer.

From that perspective I would have to say that on the evidence that is presently there, the attractions, once you get over the initial phase, do not appear to be sufficient either in terms of salary, or adequacy of accommodation or the other factors to compete effectively with the private sector. The vast majority of graduates naturally will go into the private sector.

However, I don't think that that is a reason for being complacent and doing nothing. I think it is every reason for examining what we do have to offer and I do intend to do that because I don't intend to allow good people to go somewhere else if they can be brought into the government legal service. The whole point is to establish a professional team of competent, qualified lawyers that are second to none and that can compete effectively, at least, professionally with the private sector.

That is what this is about as far as I am concerned, and with that in mind it, hopefully with all the necessary infrastructure will become more attractive for Caymanians. It is not just a case of offering places. Those places have got to be places where Caymanians want to be and places where they are going to strive and grow professionally. I don't see the evidence of significant career opportunities at the present time although I believe that the potential for them is there.

So, I would support moves to make these professional opportunities more attractive to Caymanians and the evidence will be that once the conditions are right that Caymanians will be more attracted. The majority of Cayman graduates will still probably end up in the private sector. That is what you would expect. The majority of people are not in government service in employment in the islands. On the other hand I think there is plenty opportunity and there is scope for greater opportunity across the board of the government as well as the legal service. I do, however, mean to attract the best lawyers into the government legal service so I am putting everyone on notice that our terms will be as good as I can make them.

The Speaker: This is the final supplementary.
The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Since this is the last one, I am going to be very specific—the courts office. We have two or three recent graduates—the Clerk, the Deputy Clerk, and there is a young lady there from West Bay who is a long-term civil servant. The position she is in now she occupied prior to receiving her qualifications. If you don't know the information to be able to give it to me orally, I would like it in writing.

I would like to know what is planned within the Courts Office with regard to those three young ladies, recognising their recent qualifications as lawyers.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I can only give a general answer in that I am aware that one of those persons, if three there be, is in receipt of appropriate training. My view is that training within the courts office is a grounding. My own personal view is that if those young person(s) wish to become qualified to undertake professional practice they should do so within a practitioner's office and they should have the opportunity, at least.

I don't wish to appear to be poaching them from the courts office but they should have the opportunity of spending time within the government legal office as well as within the courts office. It is very much dependent on what the persons in these positions want to do.

The main way of developing, at present, within this jurisdiction is to work along side experienced practitioners, to go to court with them to follow the way in which they carry out their work and to learn by following what they do. We will come to continuing legal education. I have spoken about this before. We do have people who are capable of developing continuing legal education, but the practical experience within a practitioner's office, in my opinion, is an essential part of the grounding of the training of a lawyer.

So, in answer to the question, I would not wish to see the sites of young people confined to any particular office, be it the courts office or any other. I think they should get the best all round training that the government legal service can offer and if that means rotating them through legal departments or other areas of my portfolio, I am quite happy to undertake that.

If the member wishes detailed information in relation to the three individuals, if there are three, I will undertake to obtain that from the Chief Justice and forward it to him.

The Speaker: Moving on now to question number 81—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I had one supplementary if you would allow, sir.

The Speaker: We could go on until midnight, you know.

I will allow one supplementary. The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, sir. I know you know I am not going to carry on until midnight.

I would just like to find out from the Honourable Attorney General and the Second Official Member whether his department would be prepared to accommodate a request for those in the courts who recently graduated to be attached to that office?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr. Speaker, I thought that was what I just said, but if it was not clear let me make it abundantly clear. I am saying that to be properly qualified you are required to work with practitioners, and within the courts office you are seeing practitioners, but you are not necessarily working with them.

To work as a Clerk of the Court is a good grounding, and if I may say a grounding. There are other aspects. You need to know what is involved in prosecution. You need to know what is involved in the defence if you want to get an understanding of how practice goes. We can offer prosecution work which is unusual—most private firms around cannot do that.

Yes, I would be prepared to, subject to the constraints that I mentioned . . . if you will do something about my constraints I will do something about the accommodation of more graduates.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I understand the member to be saying that I should do something about his constraints. Maybe he can tell the House what his constraints are. I don't sit on Executive Council so I don't know.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr. Speaker, I was being a bit humorous, but it may not always come across like that. I did mention financial constraints in terms of salary and accommodation constraints. I am well aware of where I have to take these issues up.

I do trust that those persons who are on Finance Committee—which I am not—will look favourably on these issues when they come in front of them. To be serious it is an important matter. I am willing that the legal portfolio should play its part subject probably to some kind of rota because I don't think we could accommodate everybody at once. But I am sure that we can make a contribution. Thank you.

The Speaker: Moving on to question number 81 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION 81

NO. 81: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to provide the names of the most recent recipients of the grant of Caymanian Status as given by Executive Council.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: A total of four persons were granted Caymanian status by the Governor-in-Council on 18 July 2000.

| Name              | Occupation      | Nationality | Residence |
|-------------------|-----------------|-------------|-----------|
| Ryan Bovell       | Police Officer  | Barbadian   | 5 years   |
| Steve C. Gordon   | Prison Officer  | Jamaican    | 6 years   |
| Carley B. James   | Prison Officer  | Jamaican    | 9 years   |
| Kenute G. Tulloch | Autobody Repair | Jamaican    | 8 years   |

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementary, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the honourable member tell the House what is the criterion use for the award of status to these persons and also why when these awards were made was it not made public?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Mr. Speaker, the awards were made as a result of the government's view that they would contribute to the development of sports in this case cricket by virtue of allowing local or Caymanian cricketers to compete competitively at a level that they would not have been otherwise able to so compete.

With regards to the second part of the question it is my recollection that while no announcement was made at the time of the grant there was certainly information provided to the local media shortly thereafter, which while it did not provide the names of the individuals, it provided information in terms of their profession, length of time on the island and nationality and Caymanian connection where relevant. So, that information to my recollection was provided a couple of weeks after the actual grant.

The Speaker: Supplementary. The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the honourable member say if the House is now to understand and to come to the conclusion that athletes and those possessing certain athletic prowess are likely to be favoured among the applicants for a grant of Caymanian status to the exclusion of all others including those capable of providing and contributing to the economic and social well-being of the society?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: No, Mr. Speaker, I would hope that the House does not come to that conclusion because I think the government felt that the granting of status to those four individuals would not mean the exclusion of consideration of anyone else or any other group of individuals.

The government is fully cognisant of the issues related in particular to persons who have been here for a long time and who would seek to have some stability to their terms of residence. That is an issue that the government is committed to continuing to pursue.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? No further supplementaries. We will move on to question number 82 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 82

NO. 82: Mr. Linford A. Pierson asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Aviation and Planning to state when the new Civic Centre/Hurricane Shelter located next to the Community College will be officially opened and available for use as a hurricane shelter.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The Certificate of Occupancy for the new Civic Centre/Hurricane Shelter was issued 5 September 2000 and the facility was toured last week by members of the Social Services and Public Works Departments. The supplies which are needed to operate the hurricane shelter will be in place by the end of this month. The Civic Centre/Hurricane Shelter will be officially opened on 11 October 2000.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: I wonder if the honourable minister is in a position to give an indication of the hurricane standards to which the centre is built, whether it is force 4 or 5, whatever?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: It would be up to the hurricane standards under the southern building code of the U.S., which I believe are between 135–150 miles per hour winds.

The Speaker: No further supplementaries. Moving on to question number 83 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 83

NO. 83: Mr. Linford A. Pierson asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development to state- (a) The most recent figures on the Gross Domestic Product (GDP) of the Cayman Islands and how it is calculated; (b) The per capita income of the Cayman Islands and how it is calculated; and (c) What percentage of Gross Domestic Product is regarded as transient and the reasons why.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: (a) The most recent figure on the Gross Domestic Product (GDP) is for 1997. This figure was CI$1,072.7 million.

Honourable members should note that a GDP survey has not been conducted since 1998 as the staff of the Statistics Office have concentrated their efforts on the conduct of the 1999 Census of Population and Housing.

Now, the second part of the question dealing with the method of calculation: Following international practice, the GDP is calculated using the value-added approach. "Value-added" is calculated for each industry as the difference between the value of gross output at market prices and intermediate consumption.

For members' information, gross output is the total revenue from the sale of goods or services, while intermediate consumption is the expenditure on wages, goods and services. Further technical explanations on the measurement of the GDP for each industry may be provided in writing to any honourable member, if required.

(b) The per capita income of the Cayman Islands is calculated by dividing the current price estimate of GDP by the mid-year population. For 1997, this figure was: $1,072.2 million ÷ 35,900 = CI$29,880.

(c) The information collected on the National Income Survey does not, at present, allow the Statistics Office to make a calculation on how much of the GDP is considered "transient."

In order to do this, the term "transient" would first of all need to be defined. Once this has been decided upon, then the Statistics Office would have to tailor its survey so that the necessary information can be collected.

In terms of defining transient this would mean whether a person would be considered to be transient one to five years or one to ten years. So, this is a matter that needs to be dealt with.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries. The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, this is my first supplementary on the question of transient. I wonder if the honourable member could say that in the interest of clarifying the same question of transient whether he would be willing to ask his statistician to look into this matter further so that it could be understood more clearly what the GDP means to Cayman. And, that the figure of $29,880 given for 1997 might apply only to a very small proportion of the population which is usually referred to as that transient proportion.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The Honourable Third Elected Member for George Town is quite correct in that the average that we have here is not reflective of the average income by the society as a whole. This follows a private member's motion that was dealt with here quite recently or ties in very much with it. This is an area that will have to be looked into.

Mr. Speaker, I would be quite willing to invite the statistician to have a look at this area. This is a matter that will also be followed up by the economic division as well because we will have to work out the per capita income for the indigenous sector in order to get a true sense in terms of what the average income to a Caymanian or a resident really is. This is a matter that I will be quite willing to follow up

I should mention for the benefit of the Third Elected Member for George Town that the statistician is presently on vacation at this time. So, between the Deputy Financial Secretary and myself, we will try our best to respond to your supplementaries.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Just to enquire whether or not the honourable member is aware of when the figures on the most recent per capita income will be available. I noticed that the latest figures we have here is for 1997, if he can give an indication of when we can expect a next update on this.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I have been made to understand that an update will be done early next year on the GDP. Did I understand the honourable member to also ask the question on the population census?

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: [Inaudible comment]

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Oh, I see. That will be completed in October but I have preliminary figures that I would be quite willing to share with the honourable member.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: I thank the Honourable Third Official Member for offering to provide that information.

I wonder also if he would be kind enough to provide the technical explanation that he referred to in the answer on the measurement of the GDP for each industry in writing.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Mr. Speaker, I am quite willing to give that undertaking.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

No further supplementaries? We will move to our last question, question number 84 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town but I will require suspension of Standing Order 23(6).

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(6)

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: I move the suspension of Standing Order 23(6) for this question to be taken.

The Speaker: I put the question that Standing Order 23(6) be suspended. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Order 23(6) has been suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(6) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town, question number 84.

QUESTION 84

NO. 84: Mr. Linford A. Pierson asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economie Development to state what progress has been made in regards to the appointment of a government "Think Tank" Committee.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The appointment of this Committee is under active consideration by the government at this time.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries, the Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: I wonder if the honourable member is in a position to say when he expects that this matter will be approved, the matter that is now before Executive Council and if he can also give an indication of the terms of reference of the Committee.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The government is reviewing this matter very carefully and it is quite likely that a decision will be taken quite soon.

I cannot give a specific date because as the honourable member is aware there are quite a number of issues that Executive Council is dealing with at this time and this is very high on the agenda.

The terms of reference, as was initially set out, was for the committee to review methods of raising and enhancing revenue flows to government particularly with an emphasis on flows generated from activities within our financial industry.

This was not set out as the specific terms of reference. This was to give an indication in terms of the direction in which the committee would be going because it was intended that as soon as the approval is granted for the setting up of the committee, one of its first tasks would be the development of a comprehensive terms of reference. It is generally felt that where participation is allowed in any given activity it will be much better in terms of having those persons buying into the process and coming up with a terms of reference that will be more meaningful and acceptable to everyone.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

If not, That concludes Question Time.

In accordance with the motion that was made a few minutes ago, the House shall now adjourn, but I need a time for the next meeting.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Mr. Speaker, I think it is 10.00 AM. Monday morning.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker: The question is that this honourable House do now adjourn until 10.00 AM. Monday, 18 September, 2000. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The honourable House stands adjourned until 10.00 AM Monday.

AT 5.13 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM MONDAY, 18 SEPTEMBER 2000.

EDITED MONDAY
18 SEPTEMBER 2000
10.28 AM

[Prayers read by the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town]

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Item number 2 on today's Order Paper, Reading by the Speaker of Messages and Announcements.

READING BY THE SPEAKER OF MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have received apologies from the Honourable Second Official Member who will be arriving later this morning. The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay is sick.

Moving on to item 3 on today's Order Paper, Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. Question number 85 is standing in the name of the First Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION 85

No. 85: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development how many new employees are expected to be hired by the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority within the next year.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, it is not possible at this stage to be precise as to how many staff may be employed by the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority within the next year.

However, detailed manpower plans are currently being formalised by the Authority's management for consideration by the Authority's board. The board meets on Saturday, 23 September 2000, to consider this matter.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Supplementaries. The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Understanding that it might not be possible to be precise, is the honourable member in a position to give some kind of indication with rounded figures as to what this amount may be?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I will explain why it is not possible to be precise at this time nor to give an indication by way of rounded figures. At the last meeting of the Board of Directors of the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority, there were several suggestions that a minimum staff complement of 100 would be required for it to carry out its duties with the degree of effectiveness that is being sought.

The board felt it was useful to invite the managing director of the Monetary Authority to get his heads of department together and to develop a manpower plan, looking at the various sections to be comprised under the Monetary Authority: looking at the present staff complement; looking at the additional work load that would be imposed in terms of new requirements and making a presentation of that at the next board meeting. Preliminary figures have been given, but those figures are not backed up by a narrative. There is nothing to suggest why there is a movement from X to Y, therefore, on Saturday this presentation will be made to the board, which will at that time carefully consider the numbers that are being presented.

The present staff complement of the Monetary Authority is 65. The established complement is 75. We have to be very careful in terms of a vast influx into the Monetary Authority. Yet, at the same time we have to make sure that there are sufficient persons in place to carry out the duties and responsibilities as will be expected of the Monetary Authority to be regarded as an effective organisation.

At the same time, it does not mean that it has to be packed with people from one end to the next because in places where other regulatory institutions exist, in addition to the operating staff complement, we know that they have been observing practices such as reporting accountant, where they contract out certain aspects of the work to be done. It is a matter that will have to be looked at. It is not one where the Monetary Authority should be short-changed, but at the same time it requires a proper manpower survey to be done demonstrating to the board the need for all personnel that should be brought on board. And a time frame developed as to when these individuals should be brought in.

More importantly, because of the fact that the Monetary Authority is now paying salary equivalent to what the private sector is now paying, every effort will be made in the first instance to try and recruit qualified Caymanians and to train them to do the job rather than bringing in 30 to 50 [persons] from overseas at this time.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, it is very heartening to hear the position taken by the Honourable Third Official Member with regard to identifying and training locals to fill whatever post might be deemed necessary to be filled.

Can the honourable member now state if it is a fact that advertisements were put forward in foreign periodicals saying that there were 100 posts to be filled for the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority? To be correct, seeking applications for that many posts.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I am not sure if the number of 100 was given but I am aware that this was brought up by the managing director at the last meeting that we had. The decision was taken that those advertisements should be pulled back until this manpower survey had been completed. That is the route in which the board is going.

It is likely that at the end of the day there will have to be a mixture between Caymanians and people brought in on short term contracts but the route that will be taken I explained much earlier whereby we will be advertising in the first instance in our local papers. We will allow sufficient time to enable qualified Caymanians to apply and to be interviewed; for us to see how we can go about training, and then we take a decision in terms of how we are going to supplement the number. If it is a question that it exceeds the capacity or the number of persons that are available locally then we will make a determination in terms of how we are going to recruit from outside, in what numbers and over what period of time.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the honourable member state, understanding that he does not at this point in time know an exact figure of what new employees need to be hired at the Monetary Authority? It may seem to be an opinion, but nevertheless I will ask. Can he state whether or not any idea has been thrown about with regards to what impact this may have on the cost of operating the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority? Is there any idea how this plan is to be recouped?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: That is a very good question. At this time if the Monetary Authority decides that it is going to increase its staff complement, let's say from the present level of 65—or there is an established complement of 75 with 65 positions being filled—or for example that the staff complement should be increased up to 90 or probably above, preliminary figures suggest that the staff complement could exceed the number of 100. But as I said, this will have to be [looked] at thoroughly for the decision to be made as to what the exact staff complement of Monetary Authority should be. If it is, going to 110 or thereabouts this would have a significant impact on the operating cost of the Monetary Authority.

Mr. Speaker, if you will allow me a minute. [Pause] The actual expenditure for 1999 was $4.2 million, for the year 2000 what has been budgeted is approximately $4.7 million. I have been made to understand recently from the general manager of the Monetary Authority that some additional funds will be needed in order to cover its expenditure needs through the end of the year.

So, it is safe to say that costs for the year 2000 will be $5 million or thereabouts. If we are going to increase staff members by an additional 50%, it does not necessarily mean that there will have to be a 50% additional cost, but at least we are looking at a significant sum quite likely in the region of $1.5 million to $2 million. In addition to that, we have to be looking at capital cost because we will have to outfit offices. We are looking at medical, pensions and all of these costs. It will be very, very significant. This does not mean that we will adjust fees to attempt to recoup that. This does not necessarily mean this is going to be the route.

For the year 2000, the fees from the Monetary Authority are expected to be in the region of approximately $16.1 million. In terms of contribution from investments of currency assets it is expected that another $1.8 million will be contributed so therefore we are looking at approximately $18 million from the Monetary Authority. At the same time, we have to look very carefully at the cost; we cannot use that as a basis of not providing an able regulatory regime because we know that is required. We have to subscribe to international standards. The competence must in place but at the same time the manpower requirements will have to be looked at very carefully so that we are brought up to capacity, and that we know we are at capacity and we don't exceed capacity.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The Honourable Third Official Member just mentioned about international standards and requirements and having to meet these—which obviously is where the call is coming from for additional staff. Could the honourable member state if this situation is one that was known by the powers that be, prior to being told by some international bodies—obviously where these standards are set? Or whether the situation is one that the government only became aware of it when someone else advised them that the Monetary Authority was not operating to the standards that are expected?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The First Elected Member for George Town will be aware that in 1997 the Cayman Islands were reviewed by the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force (CFATF). We were found to be in compliance with the standards that were set at that time—the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) 40 recommendations and the 19 recommendations of the CFATF. The only area in which a specific recommendation was made and not acted upon, was where there was a need to legislate a time period for which financial records should be kept. It was always understood (this was a given) that financial institutions in order to meet their fiduciary obligations would be required to maintain financial records.

Now, the member is also aware that the 25 criteria that have been developed by the FATF against which the Cayman Islands and other countries have been assessed—these have been extensions or extrapolations out of the 40 recommendations to tighten certain aspects of those. So, these were add-ons as such.

When the Cayman Islands were reviewed we were told that there were certain areas that needed to be remedied. At the same time we were complimented as being the leader in the region in terms of our anti-money laundering framework and the initiative by the government to integrate various departments. At one time we had a Banks and Trust section, Companies Management Section, Insurance section and we brought all of those together under the framework of the Financial Services Supervision Department and moving from there to the Monetary Authority. All of this took place within a relatively short period and all of this was recognised in terms of major accomplishments by the government.

So, when we look in terms of the deficiencies that have been identified by the FATF although we are now addressing those, it is quite unfortunate that the Cayman Islands found itself in a position where it had to be listed unfavourably by the FATF. There are certain aspects of it, in my opinion, could have been dealt with quite differently in that if these 25 criteria have been developed as extrapolation of existing standards, countries should be given time in order to remedy whatever deficiencies that would be emerging under these standards.

What is quite interesting is that the Cayman Islands and other countries are now being asked to put in place certain requirements that will put us beyond what exists in on-shore countries. This is a matter that will have to be looked at very carefully in terms of what we are doing with the Monetary Authority.

Our financial industry is one of the significant pillars of our economy. Our government, neither present nor past, has ever taken any action in order to remove legitimate business from the Cayman Islands. What we don't want to do at this point in time is to develop an excessive onerous framework that will put us in a position where businesses find that it is not economical to operate within the Cayman Islands.

So, this will have to be looked at very carefully. It is not a question that the powers that be knew that deficiencies existed. We are aware that there was always the issue in terms of the independence of the Monetary Authority. It has been explained to this honourable House that there is a need to look carefully at the framework that will achieve the level of accountability because the Monetary Authority like any statutory organisation cannot be off on its own operating without any form of accountability to central government. There has to be policy framework to achieve this and this needs to be developed and we are well on the way to achieving this.

So, it is not a question that we are coming from, what I would call, a point of deficiency where we have to remedy a lot of things that should be in place. All of this, in terms of the announcement that has been made by the FATF, this explains quite clearly the position of the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I am asking the honourable member if the meeting which he mentions in the substantive answer which is to take place this Saturday, the 23rd of September, if this represents the first time Monetary Authority Board has given any consideration to an increase in the staff complement? Also, if this meeting will be limited to dealing with staff matters or if at this time there will be any articulation of the strategic assessment of the way forward of the Monetary Authority when it achieves the staff complement?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: It is not the first time, but I should say for the benefit of the Third Elected Member from Bodden Town, in looking at staffing issues various segments of the Monetary Authority have been looked at from time to time. For example, a recent decision occurred simultaneously with the emergence of the FATF review of the Cayman Islands—but this was in train prior to that. A recommendation was made by the Board to establish what is called a Fiduciary Services Division. This meant rather than having Trust and Banking Division, working together as presently obtains, that there was a need to bring the Trust Section and the Companies Management Section together under the umbrella of the Fiduciary Services Division of the Monetary Authority.

Emerging out of the recent legislation that was introduced, a decision was also taken to establish what is called an enforcement section within the Monetary Authority. It should be borne in mind that this is to strengthen areas of the Monetary Authority dealing with on-site inspection and also to look very carefully at entities presently being supervised by the Monetary Authority that could pose certain problems in the future, and to stay on top of this.

So, in terms of the strategic direction of the Monetary Authority, this is one that will have to be kept under constant review. It is not new in terms of what has been done, because looking at what the staff complement was in 1999 and seeing what it has moved to in 2000, it is quite evident that the staffing element of the Monetary Authority and what is necessary in order to strengthen the regulatory framework will always be under review. But this Saturday especially, given the likely increase that will be occurring in the future in terms of whether it is going to be an additional 15 - 30 staff members, the greater portion of the meeting of the Monetary Authority will be dedicated to looking at the operational plan; looking at the various sections that are being proposed to be under the umbrella of the operating structure of the Monetary Authority; to hear what the recommendations are of the managing director together with the heads of sections.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Given the urgency of extending the staff complement, can the honourable member say what consideration will be given to (a) ensuring that those Caymanians currently at the Monetary Authority will have every chance and upward mobility into senior positions of administration and enforcement, and (b) how does the Monetary Authority plan to encourage, and from where do they see the next set of young Caymanians coming from?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I will have to thank the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town for those questions.

It must be borne in mind at all times that in addition to qualifications, experience is very important. The member may have been aware that quite recently there have been promotions of quite a number of Caymanians into very senior positions—the head of banking, the head of investment services. There is one section where a person with very close Caymanian connection has been identified and will be taking over that role and also there have been quite a number of promotions.

In addition to that, as the member will appreciate, it will be somewhat difficult to have all of these persons sent overseas for their training to be supplemented in terms of getting the necessary regulatory expertise. What needs to take place—this has been done in the past and will continue to be done—is to bring in the necessary expertise from overseas, if needs be, to provide training for the staff that we have on board at this time. And, also under the manpower development plan that will be considered at the board meeting on Saturday, persons that are coming into the Monetary Authority will have to be acquainted with the career path and opportunities that exist.

Obviously, if we want to bring them up to speed to be able to go into financial institutions, to look at records carefully, to be satisfied that anti-money laundering requirements are being observed, these individuals will have to be brought up to the same standard as their counterparts in the financial industry and probably to a higher standard.

Every effort will be made to achieve that and that is one of the areas that will have to be looked at to make sure that we have very competent and able staff in place, and we do at this time. I am proud to say that we have some very competent and able Caymanians on staff within the Monetary Authority.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Given the necessity for such a high level of acquiring expertise in this kind of training, can the honourable member tell the House whether any arrangements are made with any of the relevant international authorities from which such training can be acquired for some form of secondment and assistance in this training of Caymanians? Or whether the training is exclusively being undertaken by the Monetary Authority and by inference the Cayman Islands government at their own expense?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: At this time we have training taking place at various levels. First of all, we have the regional level—the Caribbean Bankers' Association.

We also have training that is provided by the Federal Reserve Board in the United States.

In the past we have had attachments to the Bank of England. We know that the regulatory activities have been taken over by the Financial Services Authority in the United Kingdom. We will continue to draw on the expertise and the training opportunities that are available. But in order to develop the technical skills that are required, it will be necessary to bring in expertise from overseas in order to conduct on-the-job training probably making arrangements with the Community College for the conference room to be made available over a fortnight or probably a longer period of time.

These are recommendations that will be made at the board meeting and hopefully quite a number of useful recommendations will be coming from management because the staffing element is only one component of it. Bringing those persons up to speed will have to be a very important aspect of the recommendations to be considered.

So, there will have to be a marriage in terms of continuing to have persons attached to overseas institutions where training opportunities are offered and bringing individuals from overseas in order to provide training in mass on the ground. Also, wherever the opportunity exists, let's say, even among existing staff members themselves—because we have good expertise within the Monetary Authority that can provide training for new staff members that are coming on board.

On the aspect of training, it is quite evident from what has been done so far the arrangements that we have benefited from. And obviously in terms of the large number that will be coming on board, there has to be a programme developed in order to ensure that these individuals are trained to the required level of expertise in order for them to be effective in discharging their duties.

The Speaker: Before asking the next supplementary I would appreciate a motion for the suspension of Standing Order 23(7) and (8) in order that Question Time can continue beyond 11.00 AM.

The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23 (7) AND (8)

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Mr. Speaker, I so move, sir.

The Speaker: The question is a motion has been made to suspend Standing Order 23(7) and (8) in order to allow Question Time to continue beyond the hour of 11.00 AM. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Question Time continuing.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW QUESTION TIME TO CONTINUE BEYOND THE HOUR OF 11.00 AM.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, supplementary.

Mr. Roy Boddan: Can the honourable member say when this training and expansion have been accomplished, how will this enhance the functions of the Monetary Authority and what then are the plans to inform the relevant agencies which have to deal and be regulated by the Monetary Authority? What programme or public relations exercise will be carried out to inform them as to this enhanced and probably changing role and function of the Monetary Authority?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I will deal with the last question posed by the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, first.

The managing director and heads of sections within the Monetary Authority are continually making presentations to the local financial industry and also making presentations overseas as well. At this time, the managing director and the head of banking are at the Basel committee meeting in Switzerland.

It is quite obvious that discussions will be taking place in terms of what has been done by way of new legislation in the Cayman Islands, what are the existing requirements, and also sharing in terms of arrangements that are presently on the way in order to upgrade the operational aspects of the Monetary Authority.

The public relation side, as the honourable member has pointed out, is very important. What we will have to do especially at this time is to make sure that we have a strategy that communicates very clearly what is taking place and also the rule of the Monetary Authority.

The Monetary Authority should not be viewed as a bloodhound out there trying to make life difficult or to become so intrusive that it becomes difficult to do business in the Cayman Islands. The Monetary Authority is a facilitator; it is an organisation that will have to be integrated with our financial industry to ensure that necessary regulatory standards are observed—international standards that the Cayman Islands have been subscribing to.

We know that the previous head of the Financial Services Supervision Department, Mrs. Jennifer Dilbert, was a part of the working party that developed the new Basel guidelines to which the Cayman Islands and other countries are being asked to observe those standards. We have the International Association of Insurance Supervisors, the Financial Action Task Force (FATF), the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force (CFATF) and all of these standards. The Cayman Islands will have to ensure that we are not deficient in these areas—we are able to operate to these standards. We should be able to put out, what I would call, our 'stall' to show the international community what we have in place and that we have the capacity.

We also have to work very closely with our financial industry because as was said earlier it does not necessarily mean bringing persons on board or permanent staff members. There could be ways of achieving the same results in terms of ensuring that financial institutions are properly supervised. This could be done by a blending of arrangements yet to be explored, probably by way of permanent staff. Also, by following the practices of certain overseas regulatory organisations we know have been using reporting accountants where there is a need for certain work activities to be carried out and where they will engage the auditors, let's say, banks, insurance companies, mutual funds organisations to expand their review into certain areas and to submit such reports to the Monetary Authority.

The public relations part of it will have to be ongoing so that it is very clear exactly what we will be doing. We will have to look in terms of the cost effectiveness of doing business in the Cayman Islands.

At the same time, every citizen of the Cayman Islands, every resident of this country, wants to ensure that the high standards are being observed. But at the same time while these standards are being heightened (regarded as prudent), we have to make sure that they are necessary and not becoming so onerous, or taken to a point, or have misinformation given in terms of what the Monetary Authority's regulatory regime represents. Going in to financial institutions and having access to financial records is not to pick up information to be passed overseas. This is to ensure that due diligence is carried out on every entity that is registered in the Cayman Islands. And it can be said that management is observing the anti-money laundering requirements are there, in that, they know their customers and at the end of the day walking away to say, 'Yes, we have looked at the ques*tionnaires that have been filled out by this organisation. A sampling has been done, whether 20% of the business that will be carried out in the year 2000 or 2001 and we are satisfied that the organisations have in place necessary, due diligence procedures'.*

This is a primary reason why the structure of the Monetary Authority is being enhanced so that we can effectively supervise business that is being conducted within the Cayman Islands and to have the confidence that. Mr. Speaker, we will not get rid of dubious business. No place in the world will ever get rid of that! In fact, a major onshore country at this point in time is now battling with money laundering proceeds to the tune of about $862 million. That is being kept very quiet at this point in time.

At the same time, anyone who comes to the Cayman Islands and wants to abuse our financial regime should know that there is a risk factor. We know there are individuals out there who will be questionable, but they will come forward with good references. At the end of the day we want to be satisfied that business that is being conducted in the Cayman Islands is legitimate and we continue to give protection to the legitimate business that is being done here.

We have a right to pursue this as a policy because this is an important aspect of our economy and obviously it is something that the government and the people of this country have invested significant resources in. Significant, by way of the amount that is appropriated in the annual budget every year to the tune of approximately $5 million that will be required for the year 2000, the amount of time that is spent by honourable members such as our Leader of Government Business, our Attorney General, the Third Elected Member from George Town, and we have other Members of this House who take time to scrutinise legislation and raise questions as the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town has been doing.

This is why we want to ensure that we have a prudent and acceptable regulatory framework in the Cayman Islands. We hope to achieve this through the Monetary Authority. But primarily, the Monetary Authority will operate as an institution to give protection and to ensure that business being conducted in the Cayman Islands is up to a standard that is expected and accepted by the community at large.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, this is my final supplementary. Can the honourable member say if included in this expansion and staff complement any provisions will be made for the post of a person(s) whose sole responsibility will be that of public relations: promoting the role and responsibility of the Monetary Authority, and being responsible for liaising with agencies both local and international to ensure that there is a complete and comprehensive understanding of the role of the Monetary Authority in the regulation of the financial affairs of the country?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: There is a certain level of anticipation in terms of what the recommendations will be when we meet on Saturday as a board and we are looking forward to that. The question of the public relations aspect of it, I cannot say at this time that it will be included amongst the recommendations but I am hoping that it will.

That honourable member has written to me. I have passed that to the secretariat and this has been circulated to members of Executive Council setting out the recommendations of that member. He has made a recommendation for us to look at the public relations aspect of this and also to get on board a firm that should be able to assist the Monetary Authority or the secretariat in developing a defined strategy.

We know that public relations is very important and I must admit that this is an area where we have been very deficient so far. About four or five years ago there was a team of MPs who came out from the United Kingdom. I remember that the leader of the group said to me, "Mr. McCarthy, I like what I have seen here in the Cayman Islands. What has been done with the financial industry is very good and continue to do it, but you all need to turn your attention to the public relations side of it."

He used an adjective to describe the level of public relations. I will not repeat it, Mr. Speaker, but we really need to turn our attention to that side of it. This is very, very important.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Changing the tune a little bit, I want to go back to this training just for a minute. Understanding that the post of managing director of the Monetary Authority is one which requires not only a certain amount of qualifications but a certain amount of experience, and perhaps one may view the position to be where it is almost physically impossible to gain the necessary experience on island. Is any thought given to identifying anyone locally with regards to any specific training or secondment that may be necessary in order for us to be justly proud of having our own local managing director at some point in time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I am sure that the First Elected Member for George Town is aware that the Cayman Islands is a leading financial centre. We have persons within the Monetary Authority at this time Caymanians who are ably qualified and who have developed relevant experience. That experience base, as the member has pointed out, will have to be expanded upon.

We have arrangements for attachments from time to time with established regulatory organisations. It is quite obvious that in the not too distant future we should have a Caymanian heading the Monetary Authority. This is understood by the managing director who is now in place. We know that we will have to draw on expertise from outside for quite some time. But the same way we had Mrs Dilbert . . . when she assumed the reigns of Head of the Financial Services Supervision Department there was no question in anyone's mind that we had a very able and competent regulator who could hold her own within the Cayman community and overseas. We have quite a number of persons within the Monetary Authority at this time who are moving on track in that direction and every encouragement will be given to them.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Having heard exactly what the Honourable Third Official Member has stated, can he say if it has been made very clear, or if it is part and parcel of any contractual arrangements with either the existing managing director? Or will it be part and parcel of contractual arrangements of any future managing director who is not Caymanian that a part of the whole job description entails passing on knowledge and experience to local staff?

Mr. Speaker, I ask the question so the member will understand I have no fear in saying it. In the past we have had experienced people from abroad who treated knowledge and experience as a prize that they had captured and who were not willing to pass it on.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: In the first instance, every person who is brought in on a contract recognises that the contract is for a determined period of employment.

It is always understood that anyone being brought in, let's say, to head the Monetary Authority, is being brought in for his or her expertise. A part of this manpower development plan or survey must take that into account. Plus the fact that we have very intelligent persons within the Monetary Authority, it will be quite evident to them if there is any form of approach being taken to deny them of the ability to hone their expertise or have access to the level of knowledge that would prevent them from safely taking up the position of managing director, or moving into positions at a more senior level.

These are matters that will have to be looked at, but at the end of the day the Monetary Authority is being operated by a board that meets regularly. Staffing issues will be on the agenda for quite some time and probably on every agenda because this is always an important subject. It will be quite evident to the board if training opportunities or [other] opportunities for members of staff to hone their skills are non-existent and remedial actions can always be taken if such is determined to be the case.

I must say that the present managing director is very much committed to a plan of action in terms of training and also amenable to listening to the board as to expectations, because at the end of the day the Monetary Authority must be seen as an indigenous organisation. We know in terms of the mix of our financial industry and also the regulatory regime we have to continue to draw on expertise from outside, but in the first instance, it makes a difference at the end of the day when we have a Caymanian heading any organisation.

After drawing on expertise from outside for quite some time, and finally getting a Caymanian in place as the Head of the Financial Services Supervision Department, and then having to revert to a position where we have to look again to the outside, is to be regarded as a retrograde step. We have to put a plan that is meaningful in action to ensure that we have our Monetary Authority properly staffed with competent personnel and also have our Monetary Authority headed by a Caymanian.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

No further supplementaries. We will move on to Question No. 86 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION 86

NO. 86: Mr. Linford A. Pierson asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development in view of the common usage of the word "bank" in the name of certain "foreign information technology entities", and in view of the legal restriction placed on the usage of this word, in the name of non-banking entities, would the honourable member state what policy is being adopted by government in regard to the registration of foreign and locally incorporated "information technology entities/e-businesses", wishing to use the word "bank" as a part of its name, e.g. "Infobank"; "Databank"; "Softbank", etcetera.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: This matter is currently under review and a policy will be adopted in the very near future.

This new policy is expected to take into account the degree to which a particular party may be misled into thinking that the entity using the word "bank" may be a financial institution with a banking license or a bank holding company that is permitted to provide regulated financial services.

Mr. Speaker, I mentioned in the answer that it is currently under review; this item will be brought up on the agenda of the Monetary Authority at the board meeting on Saturday. The Monetary Authority will be invited to make a recommendation to the government on this very important subject.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: I am pleased to hear that there is an intention to review this matter and that a policy will be adopted in the near future.

In relation to the second part of the answer where the honourable member said “this new policy is expected to take into account the degree to which a particular party may be misled into thinking that the entity using the word “bank” may be a financial institution with a banking licence . . .”

I wonder if the honourable member can say whether consideration will also be given to preparing a sort of information sheet to be published so that the general public will be made aware of the difference between banking commercial information as we know it and the use of the word, “bank” in information technology companies because there is a total difference in the meaning of the word?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I am not going to stand here at this point in time and say in terms of the ideas that have been emerging in my mind that thought has been given to development of an information sheet. But I would like to thank the Third Elected Member for George Town for that suggestion. That is going to be one of the recommendations I will be mentioning at the board meeting on Saturday that should be taken into account.

We do recognise that the government in its attempt to diversify the economy has recently introduced e-commerce legislation. The Third Elected Member for George Town has played a very significant part in that area.

We do recognise that it is very important that whatever is necessary to facilitate the growth and development of this industry be pursued—for example, infobank or databank. There should be no problems once it is properly explained. This would not have to be done within the local community but within the international community. There has to be some form of mechanism so that it is very clear that these are not fiduciary institutions.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?

No further supplementaries. That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: Mr. Speaker—

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: I just want to register a complaint that all the questions we have on the Order Paper that are not answered—we only had two this morning. It is likely that the House could be prorogued today and we have so many important questions, sir. It is not your fault, sir.

The Speaker: [The House] will actually be dissolved on the 26th September and I can say no more about it. This is what is on the Order Paper.

Moving on to item number 4 on today’s Order Paper, Government Business, Bills, First Reading. But prior to calling for the First Reading, I would appreciate a motion for the suspension of Standing Order 46.

The Honourable Third Official Member.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, I so move the suspension of Standing Order 46 to enable these Bills to be taken outside of the normal time.

The Speaker: I shall put the question that Standing Order 46 be suspended in order that we can proceed with the Bills on the Order Paper. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Order 46 has been suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 46 SUSPENDED IN ORDER TO PROCEED WITH BILLS ON THE ORDER PAPER.

The Speaker: Moving on to Bills, First Readings.

THE TRAFFIC (AMENDMENT) (DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED ETC.) BILL, 2000

The Clerk: The Traffic (Amendment) (Driving while Intoxicated etc.) Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I beg to move that a Bill entitled, A Bill for a Law to Amend the Traffic Law (1999 Revision), to Amend the Law Relating to Omnibus and Taxi Drivers' Permits; to Amend the Law Relating to Driving While Intoxicated; to Provide for Specified Parking Places for Disabled Drivers; to Amend the Law Relating to Ticketing Offences; and to Provide for the Designation of School Zones; and for Incidental and Connected Purposes.

Mr. Speaker, the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons of the Bill really provides an explanation of each section.

"Clause [3] amends Section 43(3) of the law to give the Public Transport Board a discretion in the granting of permits to drive an omnibus or a taxi. Also, instead of the commission of any offence against the person being a bar, in future only offences against the person which are triable on indictment or either way i.e. more serious offences, may operate as a bar to the granting of a permit.

"Clauses 4, 5 and 6 provide revised wording for the offences of driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs and causing death whilst driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs. They also provide for the testing of breath for alcohol by a portable alcohol-in-breath measuring device. A constable may arrest a person without a warrant if, as a result of a breath test taken by such a device, he has reasonable cause to suspect that the proportion of alcohol in that person's breath or blood exceeds the prescribed limit. Refusal to comply with a constable's request for a breath test will be an arrestable offence.

"Where a person is arrested after taking a roadside breath test and is taken to a police station or hospital he shall be required to:

- (a) provide a specimen of breath for testing by another type of alcohol-in-breath measuring device; or
- (b) to provide a specimen of blood or urine for analysis.

"Only a registered medical practitioner may take a sample of blood from an arrested person.

"Clause 7 provides restrictions on the testing process to be applied to patients in hospitals for their protection.

"Clause 8 makes a consequential numbering amendment.

"Clause 9 is an interpretation section.

"Clause 10 amends section 78 of the principal Law (ticket offences) by increasing the number of offences for which a ticket may be issued.

"Clause 11 makes a consequential numbering amendment.

"Clauses 12 and 13 [are the results actually springing from the private Member's Motion which was moved by the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town seeking to] further amend the law to provide for the designation of parking places for disabled persons and the provision of disabled person badges. Any vehicle parked in an area designated by the Director as parking for disabled persons must have a badge attached thereto.

"Clause 13 also provides for the designation of school zones in which special traffic restrictions may be imposed."

We have heard on many occasions members of the community talking about traffic along Walkers Road near the schools, as well as traffic near primary schools in our respective districts, and the need to make sure that these flashing lights carry some kind of authority under the Law for it.

In Clause 3 the amendment really seeks to separate the crimes under the Traffic Law that are triable by a Summary Court and crimes under this Law that are more serious, relate more to section 71(a).

In Clause 3 it is repealing section 43(3) and substituting the following: It says:

“(3) Notwithstanding subsection (2)-

- (a) the Board shall refuse to consider an application for a permit by or on behalf of a person who does not fulfil the prescribed conditions as to age, driving experience or local knowledge; and
- (b) the Board may, in its discretion, refuse to consider an application for a permit by or on behalf of any person who, during the last three years, has been convicted in any court for-
  - i. an offence under section 71 or 71A;
  - ii. any offence connected with dangerous drugs;
  - iii. any offence involving fraud or dishonesty;
  - iv. any offence against the person triable on indictment or either way; or
  - v. dangerous driving, whether or not causing death.”

The amendment to this section is seeking to give the Public Transport Board more discretion in dealing with persons who earn their living by means of being a taxi-driver or an omnibus driver.

At the moment the Law says that the Public Transport Board cannot entertain an application from a taxi-driver convicted while driving under the influence, during the past five years in any court. We are seeking to amend that to three years and we are also seeking to give the Board more discretion in dealing with it as we know in some cases the taxi-driver may not be transporting any persons at all, but may be using that vehicle for his personal use and may be found driving while under the influence. The Board will have some discretion then as to whether to entertain his application for renewal of a taxi licence within that period of time, three years, or wait until after the three years depending on how serious the offence.

At the moment the Law reads: “(3) Notwithstanding subsection (2)-

- (a) The Board is not required to consider any application for a permit by or on behalf of any person who has during the past five years been convicted in any court, for . . . (and it is the same list as I mentioned earlier)-
  - i. an offence under section 71 or 71A;
  - ii. any offence connected with dangerous drugs;
  - iii. any offence involving fraud or dishonesty;

- iv. any offence against the person triable on indictment or either way; or
- v. dangerous driving, whether or not causing death.”

So, these amendments basically seek to separate the two types of crime, one, being triable by summary court and the other being triable in a much more serious way, I believe meaning the Grand Court. That coincides with the amendment to section 71. Section 71(A) deals with more serious type of crime as found in Clause 5, which is already in the Law. We are just separating the two in terms of which is triable by summary court and which is a more serious crime.

Section 71(B) deals with the ability of the police to take or cause a person to take a breathalyser test, a portable test. At the moment the Law allows the police to take the test but not necessarily by a portable means. The offences under the law as we have amended it is in line with what is currently the offences under the law, meaning on first offence, to a fine of $1,000 or to a term of six months. On the second offence to a fine of $2,000 or twelve months, and in addition to those on the first of any subsequent offence, disqualification from driving for a period of twelve months or such longer period as the court may order.

Section 72 deals with the provisions of specimen for analysis and it points out that only a medical practitioner is allowed under the law to take a blood sample from any member of the public and those persons who are hospital patients. Section 72(A) says, “While a person is a patient at the hospital he shall not be required to provide a specimen of a breath test for a breath test or to provide a specimen for laboratory test unless the medical practitioner in the immediate charge of his case has been notified of the proposal to make the requirement,

- (a) if the requirement is then made, it shall be for the provision of a specimen at the hospital, but
- (b) if the medical practitioner objects on the ground specified in subsection (2) the requirement shall not be made.”

Subsection (2) says, “The ground on which the medical practitioner may object is that the requirement or the provision of a specimen, or in the case of a specimen of blood or urine, the warning required under Section 71B would be prejudicial to the proper care and treatment of the patient.”

Clause 13 deals with an amendment to section 103A and that reads, “There shall be a badge of a prescribed form to be issued by the Director for motor vehicles driven by, or used for the carriage of, disabled persons; and subject to the provisions of this section, the badge so issued for any motor vehicle or motor vehicles may be displayed on it or on any of them.”

Dealing with the school zones there is an amendment to the law, section 103B, “The Commissioner may by notice published in the Gazette, designate any part of a road as a school zone; and regulations may prescribe the traffic signs or lights which shall be required to demarcate the school zone at each of its entrances and exits, and the speed limit and other conditions which shall apply in a school zone.”

Mr. Speaker, those are the principal amendments in the law and I recommend the amendment to members of this honourable House.

The Speaker: A Bill entitled the Traffic (Amendment) (Driving while Intoxicated, etc.) Bill, 2000 has been duly moved. Does any member wish to speak to it?

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: This Bill is pretty comprehensive even though it is on the eve when the House will be dissolved. Nevertheless there are areas needing to be addressed for a long time and therefore up until now I don't have any great problem with the Bill. One thing I know is missing—and I did not observe it in the Bill, maybe it is, but I did not find it—for many years in various areas persons have asked that speed bumps be put on various roads especially private subdivisions that have grown and have a lot of people. People have found this difficult to get done. I think there was nothing authorising the police, nor Public Works, to agree to it and I would suspect that this is the place that it could be authorised.

I think in areas where we have children and old people, especially those areas that have very good roads, some people tend to speed in excess of the authorised limits. In fact, I think proper notification and signage of speed limits are also lacking in larger subdivisions. If it is not contained in this Bill, I hope that the minister would agree. I don't know whether the members would be against it. I think members have had as many complaints as I have had. I would certainly move that amendment with your permission in Committee stage.

Outside of that I don't have any problems with the Bill. In one particular area too many people are in the section dealing with offences where a person loses his/her licence. Not many persons have spoken to me, however, there are persons in my constituency—and I would suspect that someone has also talked to the minister. People depending upon their driving licences, who have no offences of killing anyone, I see no reason why . . . Mind you, if they are known to drink a lot I would hope that would be some sort of caution to the minister and the board. However, I believe that people who have minor offences should be able to make a living and feed their children.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak?

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: I am not going to be too long. I just want to add my support to the amendments being proposed to the Traffic Law—specifically the proposed amendment giving the Transport Board more authority or discretion with regard to renewing licences for persons who maybe on occasion have been convicted of driving while under the influence. Mr. Speaker, I am aware of a number of those persons with taxi licences who were driving their vehicles [under the influence] but not while engaged as taxi operators. As a result they went to court, were convicted, fined and lost their taxi licences. I think under the present law consideration cannot be given until after five years.

Mr. Speaker, it is also an area that we have to be very sensitive about because we have a lot of our young people at Northward Prison (I visited there just three weeks ago), who once they serve their time would like to be in a position where they can come out and make a legitimate honest living. One of the areas available for these persons, and I am not talking about persons convicted for murder and that type of thing, but people who basically have, may be, a drug conviction against them for consumption. This area of a taxi or bus permit operator is an area that a lot of people are looking to as far as getting a second chance in life. So, I do support these amendments, sir, and I thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak?

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I would just like to support a suggestion that was made by the First Elected Member from West Bay with regards to what I call the 'sleeping policeman' in the more urban residential areas. I am looking at, George Town in particular, where we are not dealing through roads; the roads that just take people into those particular areas.

There is a lot of speeding going on especially in the area call the Swamp in George Town. There is a substantial amount of that going on in the Windsor Park area where I live. People are also experiencing this in George Town and I am sure it is happening in West Bay. It is a cheap way of policing the speeding problem. So, although the police cannot be expected to come out every time a neighbour makes a report it would be good to have these sleeping policemen there. We find that when we have community police relations meetings one of the main complaints that residents have in all the areas that I have listened to really have to do with persons speeding in the area.

If we are going to make attempts to make sure that persons drive and observe certain conditions in areas where the schools are located, we are doing that because of the children. In the community we also have the movement of the children going to school in the mornings and coming back home in the evenings. So, I would appreciate if the minister would give some concern to this and see if we could address it in the Committee stage.

With regards to the amount of time that a person is disqualified from being able to operate a public, or a for hire vehicle, I feel that there are a lot of persons who can be treated when they make mistakes, or when they do things that would endanger the lives of citizens or themselves. Disqualification of someone is one punishment, but it does not in itself suggest a solution especially if persons are going to earn their money by operating an omnibus or taxi. I feel that three years would be fairer than a five-year period. The board also needs to make sure that it has a pretty good view of those persons' drinking habits in that it is not going to adversely affect a person who innocently decides to contract that individual to provide them with a particular service.

So, the board can also require persons who they believe have a problem to attend counselling service which is perhaps more effective than saying that the person is going to be off the job for five years. This will obviously just create the condition for drinking, because if you are not working what the heck do you do but go to the bar and just kill some time and drink more? You have no responsibilities; you are not driving anymore. So talking from a little bit of personal experience here, I think that it would be perhaps more beneficial to the individual in the society as a whole to recommend, for instance, that persons attend some type of counselling.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I too rise to make a brief contribution to this Bill and I would preface my contribution by saying that it is appropriate at a time when the roads of the Cayman Islands are becoming, it seems, more popular and more crowded for us to try to promote some sense of respect and responsibility among road users. I am happy to associate myself with the efforts made by the government and other responsible authorities in advocating zero tolerance towards persons who insist upon drinking and driving.

I have always contended that the automobile is one of the worst weapons that we can use. It has the potential and history has shown us that it has destroyed many persons not only innocent victims but there is a certain risk that the drivers take themselves when they insist on drinking and driving. There is an old adage that rum and gasoline do not mix.

With regards to the matter of the sleeping policeman in subdivisions and residential areas, this has been a request that has been coming forward for many areas for many years. Previously, the request did not meet positive responses because when you went to the Police they say it was out of the ambit of their control and when you went to the Planning Authority, they considered it against the best interest of everybody to do these kinds of things. But clearly I don't know if the idea of putting these things in the road will serve to deter those who abuse the roads but something needs to be done particularly in certain residential areas which have grown up as family communities. I have had requests from a number of persons from my constituency who live in these kinds of subdivisions and believe you me I have every sympathy with them. I identify with the requests and I have tried numerous times so I too would join those who ask the Minister to take this into consideration.

Having had the experience of living in Canada, I have always wondered why we could not adopt instead of a purely punitive system one that would offer some kind of beneficial remedy to persons who abuse the road through: (a) drunk driving and (b) continuous speeding.

I heard the Fourth Elected Member for George Town speak about counselling. I think this is something that should be considered in instances of those persons who have their licences suspended as a result of drunk driving. And not only to be extended to them, but also to those who have their licences suspended because of habitual speeding. It has been proven that counselling has some effect in these areas also.

I would like to say that we should reach a stage now where not only should counselling be made mandatory in these kinds of occasions, but also driver re-education. So, that before somebody comes back on the road they would have to satisfy the authorities that they have taken a course in driver re-education and have satisfactorily satisfied the examiners, whoever that examiner may be, whether it be the Department of Transport or someone privately commissioned and authorised by the Department of Transport to conduct such an examination.

Such an examination would not be limited to the person's physical ability to control an automobile, but it would also test his mental acuity and disposition toward other road users and themselves, for example. In some jurisdictions these other kinds of methods that are adopted because as we progress in the Cayman Islands it seems to me that the automobile is becoming more commonplace and we don't only have one-car families now we have two and three-car families. So, it is absolutely necessary for the government and for the road users to maintain some kind of semblance of courtesy and order. Many people can benefit from this kind of consciousness and driver education and a sense of responsibility and consideration for other road users.

To that extent I think that I would also ask the honourable minister from time to time to put out bulletins reminding pedestrians that it is their responsibility to ensure that they access the street in safety. And to remind them of the proper way to use, for example, pedestrian crossings. It is not only good enough to just step on the crossing, but it is their responsibility and obligation to ensure that before they step on the crossing that passing vehicles can take note of them. Because if you just come abruptly to a crossing and step out and a driver is coming down, you are not giving that driver any reaction time. So, the proper way to use the crossing is to stop and ensure that vehicles travelling in both directions know that you, the pedestrian, are about to use the crossing.

Also, to put out bulletins and pointers reminding people that when they walk at night they should ensure that they are properly attired—meaning that they are in light coloured clothing. And, Mr. Speaker, this one always gets me: for the life of me I cannot understand how my fellow Caymanians and other people who use the roads insist on walking with their backs to the traffic. It is a cardinal sin to do that, particularly at nights. People should always be taught to walk facing the traffic.

Mr. Speaker, I am going to implore the honourable minister to ensure that these kinds of programmes begin with the school: that the school children at the primary school age are taught. They are taken out and shown the proper way to negotiate a pedestrian crossing and the proper way also to walk the streets at night.

There is another thing that needs to be taken into consideration by road users: most people try to cross the road on a corner. That is dangerous and should only be done where no other way is necessary. I was always taught that you cross the road at a point from which you can have command of the traffic coming from both directions. So, I am saying all this to say to the honourable minister that it does not only relate to the drivers because this is an obligation and responsibility shared by both drivers and pedestrians, and also pedal cyclists (as they are called) because we are getting more of these on the road now.

I am pleased to see the section dealing with the disabled, especially taking in regard the number of times the Elected Member from North Side has made this request.

Also, I notice that there is a significant change in the schedule of fees with the new proposed schedule—the old one gave a maximum, while the new one, if I am interpreting correctly, does not give any maximum, but just one fee). So, I am asking the minister if in his winding-up he would state whether this is the absolute and that will be the maximum, or whether this is just a minimum with the discretion being given to the authorities of the legal people as to what the maximum might be.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Before I give my comments on the Bill that is before us, I also just wish to associate myself with the call for what some people term as sleeping policemen and others call speed bumps in certain specified subdivision areas. I want to make a comment on it because—you see, I just heard somebody ‘all private roads.’ But the fact of the matter is, that the requirement should not limit itself to all private roads because there are public roads where they are also necessary.

I want to make a comment because I think one of the big problems that people have had in the past with thinking about this, is that for those (hopefully in the majority) who do not exceed speed limits in these areas, they find it of great inconvenience to have to be slowing down almost to a stop. It is very uncomfortable to go over these speed bumps at any normal speed whatsoever. One side of the coin looks at it as a great inconvenience because they do not exceed the speed limit, and then there is the other side of the coin that seeks to use it to inhibit people with the thought of speeding. But as time has evolved, just as there have been improvements in everything else, people get a little bit more experienced and they think about something more and they do something better.

For a speed bump to be effective it does not have to be built how we were used to seeing them, where people just pile up a whole pile of cement or asphalt just almost as a barrier. The fact of the matter is there is a more gradual style which can be effected which does not necessarily affect traffic up to a certain speed, but serves the exact same purpose as a deterrent for anyone who is speeding.

So, I just want to extend the thought that when people hear this being aired they don't have to grimace and really say to themselves, ‘Lord, this is going to be such a serious inconvenience if they actually do this’. The fact of the matter is it can be done to where normal speeds are not greatly affected. Of course, you will have to slow down a little bit but it does not mean you have to come to a complete stop otherwise you feel your teeth jarring in your head. So, I just want to offer that thought with regards to this so if there is support for it, it can be done in a way that is acceptable.

Mr. Speaker, I also wish to bring a point which one might think is not a point, but I thought about it while I was looking at this, this morning. In the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons it says, “Only a registered medical practitioner may take a sample of blood from an arrested person.” Now, I have discovered that here in Grand Cayman that is certainly not a problem because there is a medical practitioner on duty at the hospital 24 hours a day. While Cayman Brac and Little Cayman are much less populated and the law of averages may well state that the need for such a test may be a lot less than in Grand Cayman, the fact is it is possible that the test is required.

I am not one hundred percent sure about the availability of a medical practitioner in those instances over there. And I am not suggesting that to say it should be a medical practitioner is inherently a wrong thing or to make that a part of the rules of the game. But in practical terms—and we extend it over to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman—is it really feasible? I am asking the question because I don't know the answer. But I think it should be considered. It may be a situation where you might have to have another body who might be qualified and be able to do such a test if necessary.

I respect the requirement for a medical practitioner, I understand that, but reality being what it is, put in practice, there might be a problem. So, I would ask the minister to address that in some form or fashion with regards to looking at Cayman Brac and Little Cayman with that requirement.

Also, I think as we look through this amending Bill we will see where section 71 is being repealed and a new section is being put in its place. I see where with regards to the convictions it says: (1)“A person who-

- (a) drives or attempts to drive a motor vehicle on a road;
- (b) is in charge of a motor vehicle on a road; or
- (c) is supervising a learner driver of a motor vehicle on a road, while that person-

- (i) is under the influence of drugs or alcohol to such an extent that his efficiency as a driver is or would be impaired; or
  - (ii) has consumed alcohol in such a quantity that the proportion of alcohol in his breath, blood or urine exceeds the prescribed limit, commits an offence.
- (2) A person who commits an offence under this section is liable on summary conviction—
- (a) on a first offence, to a fine of $1000 or to a term of imprisonment of 6 months or both;
  - (b) on a second or subsequent offence, to a fine of $2000 or to a term of imprisonment of 12 months or both; and
  - (c) in addition to the above, on a first or any subsequent offence, to disqualification from driving for a period of 12 months or such longer period as the court may order.”

Mr. Speaker, I understand that our judicial system is based on English Common Law which transcends to precedence. I also understand that there is a certain amount of latitude which this new section—I think it is similar to what the other section was, but it leaves latitude for judges and magistrates to deal based on precedence. Now, perhaps my thoughts are in the minority and perhaps the precedence that the magistrates and/or the judges will be dealing with, allow for what is considered to be appropriate sentencing in these matters.

I raise the thought because for me, personally, I think it should be more specific—especially when it relates to subsequent offences. We specify the fine when it comes to first and second offence, but the disqualification period is basically left on a graduating scale to the precedents that are there before those magistrates when they make such sentencing.

Now, perhaps my thoughts may seem to be intrusive to the system but that is not the intention. I simply wish to make the case that I feel in matters such as this that there should be specific deterring disqualification periods for repeat offenders in these areas. I believe it is a serious offence and it is obvious that repeat offenders either have a problem that needs to be addressed—that they don't seem to be able to handle on their own—or they simply don't think in a responsible enough fashion to recognise not only the consequences to themselves by way of, in many instances, losing their ability to earn an income because they cannot drive but also the dangers to the safety of the public.

I don't want to proffer at this point in time any specific times with regards to disqualification periods. I just feel that if there is a graduating scale for such offences by way of fines that there should be specific graduating scales both with fines and with disqualification periods.

This has no bearing on my support for the Bill but I simply offer that suggestion because I believe that it is important. It is not a question that it was not as serious as many years ago, but I know for a fact that it is different nowadays because a lot more vehicles are on the road and the law of averages states that the danger multiplies itself because there are more people on the road and more cars on the road nowadays than it used to be. So, people need to pay more serious attention to such a situation.

I also noticed in that same section that is to be replaced, it says: “The particulars of a conviction under this section shall be endorsed on the driving record of the convicted person.” I would like to know if this endorsement—and I am not so sure I am using the correct terminology here, but I will risk it because I think I will be understood. I am not so sure if this endorsement is the way I knew it to be before, where I think there was some type of statute of limitations with regards to a period of time that any conviction of a traffic offence was kept on the record. I would like to have a very clear understanding of that if it is possible before we vote on the Bill.

Mr. Speaker, there is also a school of thought which I think may be worth mentioning in this day and age. Without using specific examples, I am thinking perhaps that there are some areas that have certain speed limits which are attached to more or less the fact that certain institutionalised activity goes on in that area, for instance, schools. I am wondering if there can be any look-see at areas such as this. The fact is, school activities occur within certain specified period of time during the course of the day and days of the week. Also, there are several times during the course of the year where schools are on holidays.

I am not limiting the thought to schools—I am just using schools as an example. I am wondering if there is a possibility of observing certain speed limits and deciding whether traffic may be able to move up to 40 miles per hour when school is not actually in session. Maybe there are other activities that are possible. You know, if you are travelling nowadays you will see certain signs at certain areas saying, ‘no turning right between 7.00 and 9.00 in the morning’—for the specific reason of traffic getting bottlenecked and trying to keep the flow going. So, I am wondering if there can be any consideration like that.

Now, the question to that is it is simply because on many occasions you will find that traffic has slowed down unnecessarily. I raise the issue but not with any firm view. I guess I would have to leave it up to those who may be better qualified as to whether the mechanics of doing such a thing is feasible, or whether there is a problem with it when people actually visualise, if for instance, the authorities are comfortable that they will be able to monitor it properly. If it were done for instance not just in the school areas—I am thinking of that area specifically but I do not want to limit it to there only, because there may be other areas that I have not thought about. I am saying to myself perhaps one of the problems might be, if you allow it at certain times and the rules are broken at the wrong times, then people are going to say, ‘Well, I didn't know when I could and couldn't’. So, I respect that we have to balance the situation, but I thought I would bring it up because it might be something worth looking into and I thought I would air it on this occasion.

Mr. Speaker, I think that the Bill addresses many areas long overdue if I may say. And there is also this mention that has been made about the Transportation Board being allowed a certain amount of latitude with regards to people having lost their licences for certain offences and the time period involved. If I have to say so myself when one looks at it from a purely objective point of view, without knowing any individual circumstances one might be easily tempted to say, 'you know, we should not give that type of latitude, we should be more firm in those situations'. The fact of the matter is when you examine certain individual situations, as people are prone to make mistakes, it is not necessarily a fact that each individual circumstance warrants the hardships that are experienced. So, as mentioned before, I think it is a reasonable compromise at that point in time to give the authority who deals with this the latitude to be able to examine the individual situation and make judgments relating to that individual circumstance. So I don't have a problem with that as it is proposed.

I basically support the Bill that has been brought before us and I have aired the other comments to see if there is any enhancement that may be made given the fact that there may be a chance for possible amendments or additions. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: I too rise to offer my support to this Bill. It is a very timely Bill seeing the significant strides that the Minister for Transport has received in recent times with the provisions of such a tremendous amount of work on the roads. As we move forward later on in the year to significantly accomplish much of the work in progress, this Bill is very timely.

In regards to the flashing lights by the schools this is very important and as pointed out by other speakers this needs to be looked at for proper utilisation for certain times. As we know, travelling in the United States there are designated times when the lights are flashing that the speed limit is restricted to 15 miles per hour. I am not sure how it will be dealt with here. Many of our schools, specifically the Savannah, Bodden Town, Red Bay and also East End Primary Schools—most of the primary schools are relatively close to the roads so it is very important for the protection of our young people that this is enforced diligently. Maybe in the first few months of introduction the presence of police officers in these areas [will be necessary] to make sure that the public understands what is going on.

One of the areas touched on also, was drivers' education by, I think, the Third Elected Member from Bodden Town. I think this is a good aspect to be looking at in improving the education of our drivers. I do know that the National Drug Council has provided incentives in forming a school for drivers while intoxicated I am sure this will be developed in a more comprehensive form down the line.

In regard to speed bumps, the consensus I hear is that we must now look at these. I think all three of the representatives from Bodden Town—and I assume all representatives in this House—have been asked to look at these situations to slow down the speeders. I think the First Elected Member from George Town talked about [speed bumps] not being too high. This makes good sense because one of my main concerns is that emergency service vehicles—the fire trucks, the ambulances—are not in any significant manner slowed down. But I still think we can get around this especially if the subdivisions do not lead mainly through a direct road. This will be looked at.

I certainly welcome the results of the motion moved by the Second Elected Member from Bodden Town in regards to handicapped parking. It is a pity that we have to come to where the legislation has to be put in place. The feeling for human beings: There is nothing that makes me more angry than when I go to offices and other parking areas and see young people parking in these blue areas. Thank God, this is now going to be something that is legislated and people will be penalised when they abuse these parking services. I see very young people driving in there, having their radios full blast, jumping out and leaving their cars running, for whatever reason, in the areas that our handicapped people need to use.

I must say that this is very timely. I must once again thank my colleague, the Second Elected Member from Bodden Town, for bringing this. And thanks also to the minister that we are now going to legislate that these people are protected. Thank you very much.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak?

If no other member wishes to speak, does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply? The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I thank you, sir, and it is appropriate to say how grateful I am for the support of all members who have spoken and obviously all members who decided not to speak also support this Bill.

I thank members for the points they have made and questions they have asked in their contributions to the debate. I certainly take note of the point made by the Third Elected Member from Bodden Town; the possibility of putting in place bulletins and he pointed to pedestrians in particular, but also talked about beginning the programme at a school level which I am in absolute agreement. Programmes such as these are not time consuming nor complex to put in place and I will use whatever influence I have to ensure that it does begin.

We also heard some other comments about the speed bumps and comments about time for enforcement. In some cases the school designated areas, where in most parts of the world, your speed is reduced by as much as 10 miles per hour. I know in some areas it might normally be 25 miles per hour, but when you get within the flashing lights near a school the speed is normally reduced to about 15 miles per hour. I believe that is what should happen here in the Cayman Islands.

It is then a matter of monitoring and ensuring that the motoring public is educated to that fact with designated timings of the day. When the school is on holiday there should also be some bulletin from the transportation section of my ministry to say that this no longer applies during this holiday season but remember September so and so it comes back into place. And then shortly before the day we give some more notice to the public so that when they set out that morning they are aware of it.

The member also made some comment about the medical practitioner taking the test and he struck a chord on an area that we may not always be in possession of medical practitioners to take the test. But the law does allow both; it allows the blood test or the breath test. So, if you are totally unable to do the blood test, and the law requires that you do the blood test by utilising a medical practitioner, then there is always a possibility that you can use the breath test in that case.

In regards to the Brac, I understand that there are five doctors—three government doctors and two representing the private sector side of the private hospital—and the doctor is on call at all times when he is not present at the Faith Hospital.

There is also a government doctor who provides service to Little Cayman and one from the private hospital who provides services as well. We know there can be times when neither is in place because they have just left and in which case the person would have to be flown back in or we use what the law says and take the breath test rather than the blood test. I thank the member for highlighting that point because I think it needs to be highlighted.

In terms of the speed bumps I do know that it has been the subject of discussion for sometime between my ministry and Public Works, and I am sure between the ministry previously responsible for Works as well, the present Minister for Agriculture, Communications, National Resources and Environment. I think it is a matter of what design shall those speed bumps take. I know that Public Works has been looking at this with a view of saying that some of the speed bumps that are presently on the non-main roads are not the ones they would want to see happen on a global basis, meaning all over Grand Cayman in the subdivisions or off the main roads kind of situation. The matter is being looked at by Public Works and I think the government would have no real difficulty and I would ask the Second Official Member to assist us with this. In discussions with him we possibly could move some amendment during the committee stage that would give the government the power under the law either to make regulations to require it or something along those lines. These are not just the words that I have come up with: I have gained them by discussions with the Second Official Member.

So, I believe there are sufficient concerns about persons who speed in the roads in subdivisions. They speed at such a rate that in some cases it appears they have no concern for children playing in the area and I believe the government has to take that on board—all of us—to make sure that we do institute some kind of a system that causes a respect for young people playing in community streets. I thank members for their support.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question. The question is that a Bill entitled the Traffic (Amendment) (Driving while Intoxicated etc.) Bill, 2000, be given a second reading. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

THE MONETARY AUTHORITY (AMENDMENT) (REGULATION OF NON-BANK FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS) BILL, 2000.

The Clerk: The Monetary Authority (Amendment) (Regulation of Non-Bank Financial Institutions) Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I beg to move the reading of a Bill entitled The Monetary Authority (Amendment) (Regulation of Non-Bank Financial Institutions) Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: Do you wish to speak to it?
Please continue.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, as this Bill and the other three which are: The Money Services Bill, 2000; Co-operative Societies (Amendment) (Credit Unions) Bill, 2000; Building Societies (Amendment) (Regulation by Monetary Authority) Bill, 2000, are connected, it may be useful for the benefit of honourable members for me to state briefly why these Bills are being brought simultaneously and then I will focus on the Monetary Authority (Amendment) Bill.

Briefly, a number of non-bank financial institutions namely building societies, credit unions and institutions providing money transfer services are currently not regulated by the Monetary Authority. This sector of the domestic financial system is now relatively small but growing and it is therefore important that it is included in the regulatory framework. These four pieces of legislation if given safe passage will allow the Monetary Authority to provide the necessary supervisory oversight in order to minimise risk and to better safeguard the interest of customers.

Failure to tighten regulations in this area could affect the stability and confidence of our financial market as a significant amount of business is being conducted with residents. Furthermore, lack of supervisory oversight of the non-bank financial institutions could undermine our ability to combat financial fraud and money laundering.

In the Cayman Islands at this time there is one building society incorporated under the Building Societies Law and two credit unions incorporated under the Cooperative Societies Law. There are four money services' businesses currently operating in the absence of any form of legislation.

Under the existing Building Societies Law and the Cooperative Societies Law, the Registrar of Companies is responsible for the supervision of building societies and credit unions. However, unlike banks and other financial institutions, neither the building society nor the two credit unions are subject to on-going on-site or off-site supervisory monitoring.

Supervision under existing legislation entails providing the Registrar of Companies with annual audit statements. In case of money services business, as I mentioned earlier, there is currently no legislation in place to regulate and to supervise these entities. I should point out that based on studies conducted on money services providers within the international community, these entities have begun to emerge as a new conduit for facilitating money-laundering activities. We have to be thankful that it is unlikely that such is the case in the Cayman Islands, but we have to ensure that we have adequate oversight in place to ensure that this does not happen.

Therefore, these four Bills are being introduced to bring the non-bank financial institutions within the Monetary Authority's regulatory framework.

Turning now specifically to the Monetary Authority (Amendment) (Regulation of Non-Bank Financial Institutions) Bill, 2000. In the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons it can be seen that the Bill amends the Monetary Authority Law (1998 Revision) to confer on the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority the responsibility for supervising and regulating money services businesses, credit unions and building societies.

As a consequence, supervisory responsibilities would no longer be required of the Registrar of Cooperative Societies in respect of credit unions or the Registrar of Companies in respect of building societies.

"Clause 1 provides the short title, and Clause 2 is an interpretation clause.

"Clause 3 inserts into the Monetary Authority Law (1998 Revision) definitions of the terms "money services business", "credit union" and "building society", and amends the definition of the term "the regulatory laws."

"Clauses 4 and 6 enable the Monetary Authority to supervise money services businesses, credit unions and building societies to the same extent as it supervises banks, trust companies, company man- agers, insurance companies and mutual funds. The Authority may respond to requests from overseas regulatory authorities for information relating to the non-bank financial institutions but would have the ability to decide whether the information should be provided and, if so, under what conditions.

"Clause 5 makes provision for the confidential handling of information obtained by the Monetary Authority in relation to the affairs of money services businesses, credit unions and building societies; however, the Authority may exercise its power of disclosure, after taking a number of factors into account and requiring undertakings as to reciprocity and costs."

Mr. Speaker, I commend this Bill to honourable members.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Monetary Authority (Amendment) (Regulation of Non-Bank Financial Institutions) Bill 2000 be given a Second Reading is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak? The floor is open to debate.

No Member wishes to speak? Does the honourable mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, just to thank honourable members for their support. Thank you.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question. The question is that a Bill entitled the Monetary Authority (Amendment) (Regulation of Non-Bank Financial Institutions) Bill 2000 be given a Second Reading. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED: THE MONETARY AUTHORITY (AMENDMENT) (REGULATION OF NON-BANK FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS) BILL 2000 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Honourable Members, in the absence of the Hansard . . . there is a question as to whether the question was put on the Traffic (Amendment) (Driving while intoxicated etc.) Bill, 2000. So, as a matter of caution I would like to move—

[Inaudible comment]

The Speaker: It was put. Bills, Second Reading.

THE MONEY SERVICES BILL, 2000

The Clerk: The Money Services Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled the Money Services Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: Please continue.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, this Bill, as honourable members will note in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, gives the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority responsibility for the supervision and regulation, and regulating certain types of financial services providers.

“Clause 1 provides the short title.

“Clause 2 is an interpretation clause. The term “money services business”, for example, is defined as the business of providing (as a principal business) any or all of the following services –

- (a) money transmission;
- (b) check cashing;
- (c) currency exchange;
- (d) the issuance, sale or redemption of money orders or travellers’ checks;
- (e) such other services as the Monetary Authority may specify.

“By virtue of clause 3, building societies, credit unions, and entities licensed under the Banks and Trust Companies Law are exempted from the requirements of the legislation unless they are acting as the local agents of a money services business.”

Specifically as to why this exemption is allowed can be found on page 9 of the Bill.

“Clause 4 makes it an offence to carry on money services business as a principal business, without a licence granted under the legislation.

“Clause 5 sets out various provisions relating to the application for, and grant of, a licence by the Monetary Authority. The application must be accompanied by a non-refundable fee. A licence cannot be granted in respect of a money services business which does not have, in the Islands, a place of business approved by the Authority but, once granted, the licence authorises the carrying on of money services business within the Islands.

“Clause 6 prohibits the grant of a licence to a person whose net worth is less than $30,000.

“Clause 7 makes it an offence for a person other than a licensee to receive money for the purpose of carrying on money services business within the Islands.

“By virtue of clause 8, licensees are required to maintain appropriate accounting records and systems of business control.

“Clause 9 requires a licensee to submit returns to the Monetary Authority.

“Clause 10 requires the accounts of a money services business to be audited annually, by a professional accountant, and forwarded to the Monetary Authority.

“Clause 11 requires a licensee to produce to the Monetary Authority an auditor’s certificate evidencing compliance with any Code of Practice issued under the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Law, 1996.

“Clause 12 empowers the Monetary Authority to summon the auditor of a money services business for the purpose of enquiring into its financial position.

“Clause 13 requires the auditor of a money services business to notify the Monetary Authority if he proposes to resign.

“Clause 14 requires a licensee to notify the Monetary Authority before terminating the appointment of the auditor of the relevant money services business.

“Clause 15 enables the auditor of a money services business to disclose information to the Monetary Authority without breaching his duty.

“Clause 16 prohibits a licensee incorporated under the Companies Law from opening branch offices without approval from the Monetary Authority.

“Clause 17 requires a licensee to have a minimum of two directors approved by the Monetary Authority. The approval lapses if a director becomes bankrupt or is convicted of an offence involving dishonesty.

“Clause 18 sets out the powers and duties of the Monetary Authority under the Law, and these include -

- (a) maintaining a general review of money services business practice in the Islands; and
- (b) examining the affairs of any money services business in order to ensure that the law is being complied with and that the money services business is in a sound financial state.

“Where a money services business is unable to meet its obligations, the Monetary Authority has power, by virtue of clause 19, to revoke the relevant licence or appoint someone to assume control of the affairs of the business.

“Clause 20 specifies the criteria of prudent management which are to be observed by money services businesses.

“Where a money services business is being wound up voluntarily, the Monetary Authority has power, by virtue of clause 21, to apply to the Grand Court if the winding up is not being conducted in the best interests of customers.

“Clause 22 empowers the Chief Justice to make rules governing the procedure to be followed in respect of applications made to the Grand Court.

“Clause 23 enables a search of any premises, vehicle, vessel or aircraft for evidence of the commission of an offence against the Law.

“Clause 24 makes it an offence to supply false information to the Monetary Authority.

“Clause 25 prescribes a general penalty for the commission of offences where no other penalty is prescribed in the Law.

“Clause 26 enables the conviction of an officer of a body corporate in any case where an offence under the legislation has been committed by the body corporate with the consent of the officer.

“Clause 27 deals with appeals to the Grand Court from decisions of the Authority.

“Clause 28 provides that the Monetary Authority shall not be liable in damages for anything done under the Law, unless bad faith can be shown.

“Clause 29 empowers the Governor in Council to make regulations for the purposes of the Law.

“Clause 30 empowers the Monetary Authority to give policy directions for the guidance of money services businesses.

“Clause 31 contains transitional provisions and would enable a money services business existing before the date of commencement of the legislation to continue operating, without a licence, for 3 months after that date. Thereafter, a licence would be required for further operation of the business.”

I commend this Bill to honourable members.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Money Services Bill, 2000, be given a second reading.

The Bill is open for debate. Does any member wish to speak? The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I have a brief enquiry. I don't think the Bill has said anything about what the licensing fees are going to be. Maybe the Honourable Financial Secretary will state that in his winding up.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any other member wish to speak?

If no member wishes to speak, does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply? The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, the fees will have to be addressed by way of regulations. And it is a matter that the Honourable Attorney General will be taking a look at that aspect of it.

I would like to say thanks to honourable members for their support.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question that a Bill entitled the Money Services Bill, 2000 be given a second reading. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED: THE MONEY SERVICES BILL 2000 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

THE COOPERATIVE SOCIETIES (AMENDMENT) (CREDIT UNIONS) BILL, 2000

The Clerk: The Cooperative Societies (Amendment) (Credit Unions) Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled the Cooperative Societies (Amendment) (Credit Unions) Bill, 2000.

As set out in the Memorandum of Objects and reasons, this Bill confers upon the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority responsibility for the supervision and regulation of credit unions. These supervisory and regulatory responsibilities were formally vested in the Registrar of Cooperative Societies as I mentioned earlier.

“Clause 1 provides the short title, and Clause 2 is the interpretation clause.

“Clause 3 inserts into the Cooperative Societies Law (1997 Revision) definitions of the term “credit union” and various other terms.

“Clause 6 inserts a new Part IVA into the Cooperative Societies Law, and clauses 4, 5 and 7 to 14 amend the principal Law as a consequence of that insertion.

“The new Part IVA is comprised of sections 37A to 37G and is entitled “Additional Provisions Relating to Credit Unions.” [The details of this can be found on pages 6 through 7 of the Bill.] “By virtue of section 37A, the provisions of Part IVA apply to credit unions only.

“By virtue of section 37B, credit unions are required to forward audited accounts to the Monetary Authority.

“Section 37C sets out the powers and duties of the Monetary Authority under the Law, and these include –

- (a) maintaining a general review of credit union business practice in the Islands; and
- (b) examining the affairs of any credit union in order to ensure that the Law is being complied with and that the credit union is in a sound financial state.

“Where a credit union is unable to meet its obligations, the Monetary Authority has power, by virtue of section 37D, to appoint someone to assume control of the union's affairs.

“Section 37E enables a search of any premises, vehicle, vessel or aircraft for evidence of the commission of an offence against Part IVA.

“Section 37F deals with appeals to the Grand Court from decisions of the Monetary Authority.

“Section 37G provides that the Monetary Authority shall not be liable in damages for anything done by it under Part IVA, unless bad faith can be shown.”

Mr. Speaker, I commend this Bill to honourable members.

THE BUILDING SOCIETIES (AMENDMENT) (REGULATION BY MONETARY AUTHORITY) BILL, 2000

The Clerk: The Building Societies (Amendment) (Regulation by Monetary Authority) Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled the Building Societies (Amendment) (Regulations by Monetary Authority) Bill, 2000.

As set out in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons this Bill amends the Building Societies Law (1997 Revision) for the purposes of conferring upon the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority responsibility for supervising and regulating building societies. These supervisory and regulatory responsibilities were formally vested in the Registrar of Companies.

“Clause 1 provides the short title, and clause 2 is an interpretation clause.

“Clause 3 defines the term “Monetary Authority” for the purposes of the Law.

“Clause 4 requires a building society to forward its annual audits to the Monetary Authority (instead of to the Registrar).

“Clause 5 enables the Monetary Authority (instead of the Registrar) to determine the form and contents of a society’s annual statements.

“Clause 6 inserts new sections 32A to 32E into the principal Law. Section 32A sets out the powers and duties of the Monetary Authority under the principal Law, and these include examining the affairs of a building society to ensure that the Law is being complied with and that the society is in a sound financial state.

“Where a building society is unable to meet its obligations, the Monetary Authority has power, by virtue of section 32B, at the society’s expense, to appoint someone to assume control of the society’s affairs.

“Section 32C enables a search of any premises, vehicle, vessel or aircraft for evidence of the commission of an offence against the principal Law.

“Section 32D deals with appeals to the Grand Court from decisions of the Monetary Authority.

“Section 32E provides that the Monetary Authority shall not be liable in damages for anything done by it under the principal Law, unless bad faith can be shown.

“Clauses 7 to 9 provide various offences as a consequence of the amendments effected by the Bill (for example, failure by a society to furnish information required by the Monetary).”

Mr. Speaker, accordingly I commend this Bill to honourable members.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Building Societies (Amendment) (Regulation by Monetary Authority) Bill, 2000 be given a Second Reading.

AGREED: THE BUILDING SOCIETIES (AMENDMENT) (REGULATION BY MONETARY AUTHORITY) BILL, 2000 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Bills. Second Reading.

THE PENAL CODE (AMENDMENT) (ABOLITION OF THE DEATH PENALTY) BILL, 2000

The Clerk: The Penal Code (Amendment) (Abolition of the Death Penalty) Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr. Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of the Bill entitled the Penal Code (Amendment) (Abolition of the Death Penalty) Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: Please go ahead.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: This Bill would amend the Penal Code (1995 Revision) to abolish the last remnants of the death penalty in the islands. The only two offences for which the death penalty is still available are treason and instigation of treason which are contained respectively in sections 46 and 47 of the Penal Code. This Bill would amend that Penal Code to provide that the maximum punishment for both these offences is imprisonment for life as opposed to the death penalty.

Consequential amendments are contained in the Bill to other sections of the Penal Code which contain references to the death penalty.

For members of the House who are interested to know what treason covers, I thought it would be helpful just to give a brief explanation. The essence of treason is violation of the duty of allegiance which is owed to the sovereign. It is said to be due by all British subjects who are citizens of the UK and colonies or overseas territories wherever they are, and by aliens under the protection of the crown. It arose originally, you may be interested to know, by legislation in the UK in the year 1351 and more recently the Treason Act 1945 (I think) is one of the more recent pieces of legislation. The death penalty was still available for treason in the UK until recently. The death penalty was abolished in the UK in 1965 for murder and I understand has subsequently been abolished for treason. This measure would simply bring our law in line with that of the United Kingdom.

The only other offence for which the death penalty was available was piracy and since that the death penalty has been abolished in England for piracy, it correspondingly has been abolished here. This may seem somewhat academic to members of the House but it is considered important in fulfilment of the commitments contained in the White Paper. On that basis I would therefore commend this Bill to the House.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Penal Code (Amendment) (Abolition of the Death Penalty) Bill, 2000 be given a Second Reading.

The Bill is open for debate. Does any member wish to speak? No member wishes to speak? Does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply? The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Mr. Speaker I take it that in view of the attitude of members of the House that this measure is acceptable. Therefore, I have little to add except to say that it removes the last remnants of capital punishment and that would appear to have been accepted by the society in Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Penal Code (Amendment) (Abolition of Death Penalty) Bill, 2000 be given a Second Reading. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

THE CRIMINAL PROCEDURE (AMENDMENT) (ABOLITION OF THE DEATH PENALTY) CODE, 2000

The Clerk: The Criminal Procedure (Amendment) (Abolition of the Death Penalty) Code, 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I rise to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled the Criminal Procedure (Amendment) (Abolition of the Death Penalty) Code, 2000.

This Bill would amend the Criminal Procedure Code (1995 Revision) to bring it in line with the proposed abolition of the death penalty under the penal code to which the House has recently addressed itself. This is a consequential amendment simply because the first schedule of the Criminal Procedure Code which contains details of the mode of trial of various offences also refers to the maximum penalty for those offences. Therefore, the reference to death in the Schedule requires to be removed and that would be the effect of this Bill.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Criminal Procedure (Amendment) (Abolition of the Death Penalty) Code, 2000 be given a second reading.

The Bill is opened for debate. Does any member wish to speak? No member wishes to speak? Does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply? The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I again acknowledge the co-operation of the House in dealing with this matter.

The Speaker: The House will now go into Committee to consider seven Bills—The Traffic (Amendment) (Driving while Intoxicated etc.) Bill, 2000 and six other Bills.

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE AT 3.30 PM

COMMITTEE ON BILLS

The Chairman: The House is now in Committee. With the leave of the House may I assume that as usual we should authorise the Second Official Member to correct minor errors and such the like in these Bills?

Would the Clerk please state the Bill and read the clauses?

THE TRAFFIC (AMENDMENT) (DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED ETC.) BILL, 2000

The Clerk: The Traffic (Amendment) (Driving while Intoxicated etc.) Bill, 2000.

Clause 1. Short title

Clause 2. Amendment of section 2 definitions.

Clause 3. Amendment of section 43—Permits for omnibus and taxi-drivers.

Clause 4. Repeal of sections 71 and substitution driving under the influence of alcohol and drugs.

Clause 5. Insertion of new sections 71(A) and (B) driving or being in charge of a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol or drugs and causing death, breath tests.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 through 5 do stand part of the Bill. Open to debate.

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I wish to put you on notice that I will be talking about the amendment I mentioned this morning in the debate but I intend to do that at the end of Clause 13.

The Chairman: Is there any further debate?

The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Before we move off Clause 4, perhaps I should say that there was some mention, in the debate I believe, about a question of a minimum period of disqualification on a second or subsequent offence. I should point out for the benefit of the House that it would be possible to specify a minimum period in my opinion for disqualification on a second offence. I believe if my memory serves me correctly that is the case in the United Kingdom—that if you are convicted of a second offence of driving while under the influence of alcohol, you are liable to a minimum longer period than you would be for a first offence.

I don't wish to intervene unnecessarily. That is all I want to say. You could, for example, say that on a second offence disqualification from driving should be for a period of three years or such longer period. You could say on a third offence that disqualification be for life. But I am merely raising this, not to interfere with the minister's Bill. I hope he understands that this is offered in a spirit of endeavouring to give the legislation whatever the appropriate force as decided by the House.

The Chairman: Do you care to repeat the wording so the Clerk can take it down?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I can if the minister wishes me to.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I have always felt that we should leave the interpretation of the Law to what the judge decides, rather than putting minimums or maximums within the Law. In principle that is where I am.

The Chairman: It is your Bill. So that's—
The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I have no desire to circumscribe the discretion of the judiciary either, on the other hand, I am duty bound, I think, to bring what experience I have got to the issue. I was about to say that on the third offence, you can, if you wish, consider disqualifying for life from driving. These may seem rather strong and it may be that in due course the jurisdiction will come to that or it may not. I don't have any difficulty leaving the matter with a judge, however it does get the message across to second or subsequent offenders if there is a higher tariff of disqualification.

The one word that I would suggest as a positive amendment to the legislation is that the disqualification be stated to be mandatory. That on a conviction for effectively drunk driving there should be no discretion. I think that is the intention, but I would suggest the addition of the word 'mandatory' before the word 'disqualification' in what will be section 71(2)(c). I think that is the intention. If I am wrong about that, then the minister will no doubt—

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I think it is the general understanding that persons who are found to be driving while intoxicated do have at least a mandatory judgment of losing their licence for twelve months. In some cases, the Law goes on to say twelve months or more. That is the discretion I was talking about.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Certainly though, Mr. Chairman, regardless of whether it is an understanding or not, by way of legislation it must be better to make sure that it is crystal clear. So, I am saying, adding the word ‘mandatory’ certainly cannot harm the intention or the action of the legislation. I don’t see why that should not be added.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I was not suggesting that the word ‘mandatory’ should not be added. I was basically speaking to . . . I have no problem with the addition of the word ‘mandatory.’

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member, would you care to move an amendment?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr. Chairman, I would move that the word “mandatory” be added before the word “disqualification” where it appears in Clause 4 of the Bill as it will be in section 71(2)(c). And I would suggest to make sense of that it should be “mandatory disqualification from driving for a minimum period of 12 months or such longer period as the court may order.” That would make more sense to put it that way so that it is clear that the mandatory part is the 12 months or such longer period as the Court may order. That would preserve the Court’s discretion to award such longer period as it considers appropriate.

Thank you.

The Chairman: Let us backtrack a minute. Let me put Clauses 1 through 3, do stand part of the Bill. It is open for debate. Is there no debate on Clauses 1 through 3? I will put the question. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clauses 1 through 3 do stand part of the Bill.

AGREED: CLAUSES 1 THROUGH 3 PASSED.

The Chairman: We have an amendment to Clause 4. Would you want to read it again Honourable Second Official Member?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you. The amendment would be to subclause (c) of subsection (2) of section 71, which is on page 7 of the Bill at the top. I will read the entire clause with the amendment if that assists.

“In addition to the above, on a first or any subsequent offence, to mandatory disqualification from driving for a minimum period of 12 months [so the word ‘mandatory’ would be added before the word ‘disqualification’, and the word ‘minimum’ would be added before the word ‘period’] or such longer period as the court may order.”

That should have the effect of requiring a minimum 12 months disqualification for driving while intoxicated on a first or any subsequent offence.

The Chairman: The motion to amend Clause 4 is open for debate. Does any member wish to speak?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Where are you putting this word, ‘mandatory’?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Before the word ‘disqualification’ Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: Look on page 7, paragraph (c). Is there any debate?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: This word ‘mandatory’ I am worried a little bit about it. Looking at the Law here: Is this in connection with serious offences? Is this an accident with causing death or anything like that?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: This is the offence of driving or being in charge of a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol or drugs. I am sorry I am looking at the wrong page.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: [Inaudible comment]

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: It is not imprisonment; it is disqualification from driving. That is my understanding. It is nothing new; it is just a case of making it absolutely clear.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: So AG what you are trying to do is to seek conformity with the rest of the Bill, is that what you are saying?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I believe so.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Chairman, I cannot support that. I just said no but I will take my vote at this time. When you get to that point I am not going to vote for the mandatory.

The Chairman: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Just following up on what the First Elected Member for West Bay said. I wonder if the Second Official Member may be in a position to say precisely how the word ‘mandatory’ improves what is already there and why this seems to be necessary?

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: In my opinion it makes it clear that there is no discretion as regards the disqualification for 12 months. But if members think that is clear enough already then I have nothing further to add.

The point is that on fair reading of the provision it is possibly open to interpretation that the disqualification even for the period of 12 months is discretionary and not mandatory. But if the House is of the view—and this Bill belongs to the House and not to me—that the section implies that the 12 months is mandatory and that that is the way it will be dealt with, then I don't have a difficulty. I was simply trying to clarify the issue. It may be that I have muddied the waters by seeking to do that and if so I really don't want to do that.

My whole purpose is to make it plain. I think the legislation should say on the face of it what it means to say. And in my opinion if you say that it is mandatory to disqualify for a minimum of twelve months, but the court has a discretion to disqualify for longer, you are making it clearer. But that is a judgment I would not want to make for you, a judgment that you should make for yourself.

Thank you.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Chairman, I would rather see the maximum of 12 months and then give the Court the discretion whether it would be six months but giving the court some discretion. So, that is really my argument.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: The only reason I raised that is that reading it, it seems that it is quite clear that it is not discretionary. If it is based on the question of discretion that you want to clarify, then one could even extend into (a) and (b) and say, (a) should it not be that on the first offence a mandatory fine of $1,000? Or, subsection (b) to a mandatory fine of $2,000. I mean we could extend this to a ridiculous extent and I am sure that is not the intention. That is why I was wondering whether it was not already sufficiently clear that it was not a discretion that it was, in fact, already understood that the disqualification was mandatory.

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I can see the point being made. I will withdraw what I have said about mandatory. But my own position would be met if the word 'minimum' was inserted in front of the word 'period'—'for a minimum period of twelve months.' That would not meet the objection of the First Elected Member for West Bay who would want to have the court have a discretion on this. That illustrates the point that if the legislation as drafted appears to give a discretion to some and not to others then it would be desirable to have some clarity.

All I will say (and I don't really want to dwell on this further than it is necessary) is that many places have acknowledged the desirability of having a minimum period of disqualification for 12 months for driving while under the influence of alcohol. I believe, if I may say so, with due deference to the minister, that is the intention of this legislation. But I stand to be corrected if necessary on that point. If that is the intention of the legislation then I think the word 'minimum' before the word 'period' would satisfy my concerns.

The Chairman: Do you wish to amend your amendment then?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Yes, Mr. Chairman, I will delete the part of the amendment relating to the insertion of the word 'mandatory' before the word 'disqualification' and move the insertion of the word 'minimum' before the word 'period' where it occurs in that subsection.

The Chairman: The amendment to the amendment is open for debate. Does any member wish to debate it?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Chairman, I would rather see some discretion in the hands of the court on the maximum side not the minimum. I think what the Attorney General is saying, and I hope I am correct in understanding, is that they can charge $1000 or $2000 but nothing less. They can charge more. Am I right?

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: On my reading of (a) and (b) the liability is to a fine of $1000 or a term of imprisonment of six months or both. On a second or subsequent offence a fine of $2000. So those are the maxima to my mind under (a) or (b). I am trying to suggest that it would be appropriate to have a minimum period of disqualification of 12 months for driving while intoxicated. But I haven't to add it is only a suggestion and it is a matter really for members of the House. If the House reads this subsection (c) as meaning that, then I will leave the matter alone.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: Just to say that on subsection (c) I totally agree with the Second Official Member that the mandatory part can be deleted. I would also feel that because the second two lines read, "driving for a period of 12 months or such longer period as the court may order" they suggest already that the 12 months is a minimum period.

The Chairman: Is there any further debate? The Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I would not disagree with the interpretation placed by the Third Elected Member for George Town. My motivation was to have clarity and if members think it is sufficiently clear then I am content.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: My suggestion, Mr. Chairman, is to leave the Bill the way it is. Let's move on.

The Chairman: If that is the case, will the Honourable Second Official Member withdraw your amendment?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr. Chairman, I said at the outset I was only trying to assist and I will withdraw the amendment.

The Chairman: The amendment to Clause 4 has been withdrawn. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: AMENDMENT TO CLAUSE 4 WITHDRAWN

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Just let me get an understanding of where government is going. Government is saying that you are going to do a mandatory here. I heard the words the AG said. He was making it clear that it would be conforming to the Law. Government in this Bill has said that the board can have discretion in giving a man an opportunity to go out and make a living if his business depends on his driving. But you are saying here that if he is caught under the influence of alcohol the court must take away that licence.

It is a little bit confusing to me and it is because we have not had a chance to study this Bill properly. In fact all the Bills because they are all on white paper and have not been printed otherwise. Maybe somebody can explain this rationale, but I am only one I cannot hold up the business. Outside of that I will do what I have to do on that particular clause.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I think it is proper to say that the discretion that we are trying to give to the Public Transport Board is going to be found in section 43, subsection (3), which at the present time the Law basically says that the Public Transport Board will not entertain any application for renewal from any taxi driver who has been found by the court driving while intoxicated. The discretion that we have here is that the Public Transport Board will look at the specific case. It may be that the vehicle was being used for his own private use, but in any case all we are trying to do is to reduce the five years to three years and then to give some discretion to the board.

The Chairman: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: As I said, it is confusing to me because on the one hand you are giving the board discretion, but you are saying you cannot give the court discretion. I don't know.

[Inaudible comment]

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Well, you explain to me how it is.

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Maybe the Attorney General can explain it.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Well, I was only going to give you what is contained in the present section 71 of the Traffic Law, which is in the same section dealing with driving vehicle when intoxicated. It says, "A person who drives or attempts to drive [I am just reading it short] when he is under the influence of drugs or alcohol to such an extent that his efficiency as a driver is impaired, is guilty of an offence and liable on summary conviction on a first offence, to a fine of $1000 or to a term of imprisonment of 6 months, or on a second or subsequent offence, to a fine of $2000 or to a term of imprisonment of 12 months. In any event whoever is convicted of an offence under this subsection is disqualified from holding or obtaining a driver's licence for 12 months or such longer period as the court in its discretion may order and the particulars of the offence shall be endorsed on his driver's record."

So, if the new section is read—and I accept that it can be read in that way—as implying that the disqualification is for twelve months or such longer period then it is the same as the existing provision in the Law. It might have taken us a little while to come to a circle but I believe that is where we are.

To the extent I have led the circle I crave the indulgence of the House to simply say that the Law should be as clear as possible and we should try to ensure that is the case. If it is clear, and I accept the view of the House, then that is fine. I have nothing more to say.

The Chairman: Is there further debate? The amendment to the amendment has been withdrawn. I shall now put the question that Clause 4 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clause 4 do stand part of the Bill.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: May I have a division, Mr. Chairman? I do that simply because I have not had the chance to get a full understanding of the whole thing.

The Chairman: Certainly. Madam Clerk would you call a division, please?

Clause 12. Amendment of section 94 – Parking at yellow lines.

Clause 13. New sections 103(A) and (B) – Disabled Person's badge, school zones.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 6 through 13 do stand part of the Bill. It is open for debate.

The First Elected Member for West Bay—you are on Clause 13, right?

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes. In the debate I made mention of speed bumps in subdivisions. I am wondering whether this is the right place for it, but nevertheless it is something that we have been talking about for many years and we cannot get an agreement on it. I certainly believe it is needed and I don't think I need to go through what I said in the debate.

I believe that we should agree to put in these speed bumps. I did mention it to the Attorney General but he had some concerns. Maybe the government, can at this time say what those concerns are.

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: At first sight it might be a fairly straight forward matter—just to make provision for designation of zones or parts of a road on which speed reducing measures could be introduced. It would require a regulation-making power, however, to describe the design and method of installation of these speed-reducing measures. Consideration would also have to be given to the provision of traffic signs to draw attention to the fact that this was a zone or area in which speed reducing measures had been employed.

There is the further aspect of potential liability. There has been case law apparently in the United Kingdom whereby drivers have fractured skulls by going over speed bumps at an excessive speed. There is an issue of liability. Speed bumps have to be constructed accurately and properly, and the attention of the public has to be properly drawn to them.

So, the advice that I received from the Legislative Council is that this is not something that should be done on the basis of a few notes made in addition to a Bill. It is something that should be carefully drafted and should follow the experience of others who have introduced these kinds of measures.

It is my suggestion—running out of the desire to make too many suggestions—that the government might undertake to ask that the draftsman prepare an amendment to this with a view to early enactment in a properly and fully considered way as I am sure the First Elected Member for West Bay would wish.

Thank you.

The Chairman: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The Second Official Member mentioned about signs and this question is addressed to the minister responsible for transportation. We have had a number of requests—and I am quite sure he has probably been approached along the same lines for signs in connection with speeding in areas where children play and live. I recall speaking to Public Works just the other day asking if they had signs saying, ‘Children at Play. Drive Carefully’ or whatever. I was told that they don’t exist. All they could do was to put in a speed sign to remind people what the speed limit is in that particular area: that, to me is not good enough. I wonder if this is not something that could be addressed in connection with some of these amendments.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I would undertake and commit to seeing whether these signs can be not only made, but also erected in these specific areas.

The Chairman: Any further debate?
The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I heard what the Attorney General said. Is that the position then of the Minister responsible for the Bill?

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Commerce, Transport and Works.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The position of the minister is that I think it should be done. It is important that it be done properly—that we evaluate all the ramifications of it including public liability. But I believe we at this stage should say to Public Works, ‘Move on with the entire exercise of trying to finalise some kind of design’ and simultaneously say to the First Legislative Council, if that is the correct person, ‘to let us get on with drafting some amendment to the Law to allow this to happen’.

The Chairman: Is there any further debate? The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: I hope that they will proceed with it because this is something we have been talking about for a long time. I know there was reluctance on the part of that side—I think Public Works got their instructions from police and police got their instructions from someone in the Glass House.

Now, I just heard the Attorney General say that the Legislative Council has given us some advice. So, hopefully we will hear about a Bill for the new session, when some of us come back.

 Clause 5. Amendment of section 36—security for coming up for judgment.
 Clause 6. Amendment of section 39—sentence accumulative unless otherwise ordered.

The Chairman: The question is that Clause 1 through 6 do stand part of the Bill. It is open to debate.
 The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I would just ask the Honourable Second Official Member: we are deleting section 22. Sub-section (2) of section 22 refers to someone under the age of 18 years who would be serving at the pleasure of the Governor. If we are going to delete this entire section how would we deal with this type of offence or is there another section in the Law that deals with it?

The Chairman: The Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: This section only applies when any person is sentenced to death and therefore, to my recollection, are other provisions dealing with other offences or other punishments applying to persons under the age of 18.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: But what I am speaking about here, Mr. Chairman, is if a child under the age of 18 years old commits murder.

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr. Chairman, this section deals with where a sentence of death would be pronounced but for the fact that the person is under the age of 18 it will not apply in future because there will be no sentence of death. Although I have not had the opportunity of verifying the other elements of the Penal Code, it can only apply in my opinion to where the sentence of death would have pronounced. It won't affect the other disposition of the Law in relation to persons under 18.

Should that prove to be the case, it would be necessary to amend the Law in that regard. But my reading of it, and with the notice that I have had of the matter, that is my view.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Mr. Chairman, my other question and I spoke to the Second Official Member about this before, is where we are amending section 39. Do we still have judicial corporal punishment on our books—because it refers to corporal punishment in section 39?

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: It is my understanding that the House abolished judicial corporal punishment sometime ago and therefore the reference to corporal punishment there is otiose. It is in addition to what is necessary.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I have not gone to Law school as yet.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Well, I would like to say that I would hope that should you wish to do so that you could be accommodated. But I think the answer to the question would be to, where we are amending section 39, to address your concern would be to remove the words 'or corporal punishment' as well as the reference to sentence of death.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: So, you need to move the amendment to delete it.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Well I can, or you may, but I agree—I think it is simply a drafting oversight.

The Chairman: Could you do that as a typographical error?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: If the House agreed that it could be done that way, but I don't think it really is.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Mr. Chairman, I really do not see how the deletion of words that are now contained in a law can be considered a typographical error. It is into the Law not into the amendments that are coming before us.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I think the simpler answer would be to incorporate it in the amendment of section 39 that is contained in this Bill.

The Chairman: If we are going to amend Clause 6 I will go back and put the question that Clauses 1 through 5 do stand part of the Bill.

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clauses 1 through 5 do stand part of the Bill.

The Chairman: The amendment to Clause 6 is now open for debate.

The Clerk: The amendment to Clause 6 is by the insertion of the words "or corporal punishment" at the end of Clause 6.

SECOND READING

THE LABOUR (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2000

The Clerk: The Labour (Amendment) Bill, 2000.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Mr. Speaker, I beg to move the second reading of a Bill for a law to amend the Labour Law (2000 Revision) to provide for the payment of retirement/resignation allowances to certain employees and for incidental and connected purposes.

The Speaker: Please continue. You may speak to it.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: First of all, let me give my sincere thanks and expression of gratitude for all honourable members who saw it fit to stay this afternoon taking that against the background that there are many other priorities—important meetings and commitments. But it also signifies the importance on which each member places the labour legislation of this amendment albeit at this stage of the proceedings.

Suffice to say, Mr. Speaker, honourable members would recall that way back in July, by the way of Private Member's Motion 9/00 passed on the 17th July 2000. It was brought by the Third Elected Member from West Bay and the Fourth Elected Member from George Town.

This motion basically asked for Part V of the Labour Law (2000 Revision) to be amended in order to accommodate:

1. The voluntarily retirement and resignation of employees who have worked a minimum of one year and do not qualify for a pension entitlement under the Pension Law (1999 Revision), with a retirement and/or resignation entitlement of one week's wages at the employee's latest basic wage for each twelve-month period of his employment with his employer.
2. In the case of part-time employees their retirement shall be calculated on the basis of the ratio that their hours of employment bear to the standard work week.

Therefore, I am extremely pleased to be able to present these amendments here to this Labour Law (2000 Revision) as we believe that there are several claims for severance pay and compensation for unfair dismissal which the current law addresses but fails to address what we now seek to amend.

All other benefits and entitlements can be resolved only by the Director and the Labour Inspector's ability and/or persuasions when that fails by resolution in the summary court. It is government's view that in many instances these matters are nearly never ever resolved because as all honourable members will fully appreciate our courts will soon be bogged down if the myriad of complaints arising under the Labour Laws were resolved by prosecution and also the inherent cost of getting proper legal representation in bringing such claims to our courts. So, we felt that in all fairness and in the pursuit of equity, parity and natural justice that the best route forward would be by the route of this said amendments now before this honourable House.

All of us are duly aware that there are many cases where our older citizens have been compelled to voluntarily leave the work force usually by virtue of ill health. Most of these folks because of their age are not entitled to any pension and because the Labour Law presently restricts entitlements to severance pay to only those cases where the employment relationship is terminated by the employer, they are not entitled to severance pay. These workers are mainly in the hospitality industry, on all three islands, that is.

This amendment, I respectfully submit is based, as I said, on the motion moved by the two honourable members and it seeks to ensure that these workers who resign and/or retire for whatever reason will not be compelled to leave empty handed.

We will also see as we look at the substantive part of the motion the main area which will bring about the intent of the motion is set out in Part VA with the subtitle, retirement/resignation allowance.

Mr. Speaker, this basically says that an employee who (a) has worked for his employer for a period of one year or more, or (b) voluntarily resigns or retires from such employment, and (c) is not entitled to a pension under the National Pensions Law (2000 Revision), shall be paid (it is mandatory, sir) by the employer in addition to any other allowance or monies to which he is otherwise entitled a retirement/resignation allowance equal to one week's wages, at the employee's latest basic wage, for each completed twelve-month period of his employment with his employer, subject to a maximum of twelve weeks' pay.

So you see, Mr. Speaker, the Law also encapsulates the intent of the motion whereby there is a ceiling at the twelve weeks.

In the case of the part-time employees of which we have many in this jurisdiction, their entitlement, sir, to a retirement/resignation allowance shall be calculated on the basis of the ratio that his actual hours of employment bear to the standard work week which is already set out in the definition of the Labour Law (2000 Revision).

Also, should any question arise as to the date of retiring, as to whether or in what amounts the retirement/resignation allowance is due to any such employee, then the employee or the employer or their respective representatives, may seek a resolution with the Director of Labour by filing a complaint as to the retirement/resignation allowance in writing to the Director of Labour. Should any question arise involving a group of employees, under similar circumstances, they may choose at their discretion to file a joint complaint.

It also goes on to make provision for the circumstances whereby there may be more than one complaint similar in nature, but filed around the same time, the director is given a discretion to consolidate it into single proceedings.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, by way of a consequential amendment emanating out of the substantive one that I just went through, section 74(1) of the principal law being the Labour Law (Revision 2000), is amended by inserting after the words, 'severance pay' the words 'section 46(A) retirement/resignation allowance.' I trust that all honourable members, albeit at this late hour of the day, would see it necessary to give their full support to this very important piece of labour legislation, which I believe will go down in the annals of history in these Cayman Islands.

I thank you, sir.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Labour (Amendment) Bill, 2000 be given a Second Reading. The motion is open for debate.

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, although just receiving copies of the Bill, I have been able to read it while the honourable minister was presenting it. I have just one question and I am not sure exactly about interpretation, but I need to understand this because I think it is important not only for the intent of the Bill once the legislation is passed but also for clarity.

Where it says that Part VA under the heading of retirement/resignation allowance is inserted as an amendment after Part V, section 46(a)(1) will say, "An employee who- (a) has worked with his employer for a period of one year or more, and (b) voluntarily retires or resigns from such employment, and (c) is not entitled to a pension under the National Pensions Law (2000 Revision)" . . . I want to understand what type of employee would not be entitled to any pension whatsoever, under the Pension Law (2000 Revision) because that is what this is saying to me—unless I am interpreting the Queen's English incorrectly.

It says, and I repeat, "an employee who is not entitled to a pension." That means to me that there is no entitlement whatsoever under the Pension Law. If I understand this correctly, if anyone whether that person only has a short period of time or not, of eligibility under the Pension Law has any amounts whatsoever stored up via a pension from their earnings and the employer's contribution, then that makes that person ineligible for this section of the Law. That is my understanding and if that is not the intention, we need to get it cleared up now.

I will repeat one more time, it says, "an employee who is not entitled to a pension" and my understanding of a pension is that it can come in varying amounts depending on how long the tenure is of service, how much the earnings are, or what percentage of the earnings are being put aside and matched by the employer.

What this statement says is someone who has no entitlement whatsoever. So, I think it needs to be cleared up.

If that is the undertaking, then this in my view would only apply to someone who is not a Caymanian. I am not suggesting that that is the intention and perhaps it can be cleared up. I am only saying how I read it and I think we just need to get it clarified.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: What I am going to suggest is that we allow the minister to explain. That might be unorthodox, but this whole evening has been that. So, I think we should let her explain at this point where we are at—without her using her time for wind-up so that all who might want to say something would have that opportunity. I think what was raised needs to be clarified.

The Speaker: It is not in accordance with parliamentary procedure but in order to get an explanation I will allow the Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture to explain.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, provided it is not setting a precedent, wherever there is a point I have to get up because it would be a waste of time for this honourable House to do that rather than doing it all as is customary in the winding-up. But if this is the main substantive point of objection, which members should know by this stage, then I will go ahead and say what the intention is as it relates to the relevant section of the—

The Speaker: This will be a one-time explanation I can assure you of that.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, if it is necessary so that we don't break protocol perhaps I could simply under a point of clarification ask for it to be done.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Perhaps, if that is the situation we can deal with it at the committee stage if members are so minded.

The Speaker: That is a good suggestion.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Let me say thanks to the Minister for Labour for her prompt response in dealing with the issue that was raised in private member's motion asking for government to amend the Labour Law to make some provision for those persons, in particular, who are employed in the hospitality industry who are beyond the age where they would qualify for consideration of a pension. Under the recent National Pension Law that was passed that particular legislation only affects persons between the ages of 18 and 60 years of age.

Mr. Speaker, you and I are both aware that many of our people working out there are beyond the age of 60. It was felt that it would only be fair for them to be in a position where they receive something for their years of commitment and contribution after they have reached the age where they feel like they want to take it a little easier. The problem we had under the Labour Law was that there was no provision for an employee unless his services were terminated by the employer. If this amendment was not brought to the Labour Law, what you would have is that employers would have allowed persons just to continue working well beyond the age of 60 when under the National Pensions Law they would be entitled to a pension.

Mr. Speaker, they would try to avoid terminating the employment because they would have been obligated to pay the severance pay. Here, with this amendment the employee has the option of saying, 'You know, I have put in my 10 - 15 years, I have now reached the age of 65' and there are some persons still in the industry employed who have reached even the age of 70 years of age. It gives those persons an opportunity to be able to say, 'I want to be able to enjoy my golden years, those few years that I have left, and I would like to have the option of retiring or resigning and be entitled to the same provisions under the Labour Law as someone whose services were terminated by the employer.'

I would like to say thanks to the minister for her prompt and efficient manner in dealing with this issue. This is a very happy day for me as a representative, and I am quite sure it is a very happy day as well for those senior citizens out there who are waiting for this particular piece of legislation to come into effect. At least they have an option with regards to continuing their employment or exercising their option of resigning or retiring and walking away with something under the Labour Law.

At the present time, the amendment would allow the person who exercise the option of retiring or resigning to one week's severance for each year that they work up to a maximum of twelve weeks, which is in line with the provisions under the Labour Law for persons whose employment have been terminated by the employer. At least, it is a start. We can work at may be extending this particular provision because I would like to see it where the employee has the option of resigning or retiring and being entitled to, at least, one week for every year that he/she has worked. I think that is only fair because of their contributions over the years.

As I mentioned when I moved the motion in July, these senior citizens were the pillars of our society. They, the females, were the ones manning the community and the men went to sea in order to support their families. They established the foundation that we have built on in this country and the standard of living that we enjoy in these beautiful Cayman Islands.

So, once again I want to say thanks to the minister for the professional way in which she dealt with this matter. She was prompt, efficient and has a sensitive manner in which she has dealt with this amendment.

I also want to say thanks to my two colleagues, the Fourth Member from George Town and the First Elected Member from West Bay who seconded my motion and amended the motion by the time it was presented.

So, thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I rise just to briefly say that I too would like to congratulate the honourable Minister of Community Affairs for her prompt attention to this matter and several other labour matters.

I feel that at a time when we are talking about the core principle of our society—being that of caring and sharing, and when the government has embarked upon action to give pension to retired seaman, we see also that large number of women, in particular, in the hotel industry would be without anything or any consideration for the long years that they have worked.

There are situations that suggest that some women have worked beyond 16-20 years. And because of the time in which they started their employment, and the time in which they will be ending their work life, they would not be benefiting in anyway from the very delayed pension legislation which came into effect in 1997.

Mr. Speaker, I think that this is a small gesture but nevertheless, I think, it goes to show where the heart of the Third Elected Member from West Bay really is with regard to working people—since he was the one who originally brought the motion to my attention and who was the mover of the motion, both in filing it and bringing it to the floor of the House. I hope that he is recognised when the people go to the polls for what he has done for working people and I certainly must give him credit for the in-depth thought which he gives to the motions which he brings to this House. I had the feeling at one point that he had a little angel working miracles for him to make sure that he gets back in here.

Thank you very much.

The Chairman: Does any other member wish to speak?

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I am glad for the attempt here for this piece of legislation and I would like to say it is not a new idea because this is the same matter that I was hammered for in 1995 when only the Elected Member for North Side agreed with me to have this type of amendment put into the Labour Law. The country will remember the Chamber of Commerce came down like a hammer, called a meeting at the Grand Pavilion, summoned me without a summons, carried me there, tried me, found me guilty and the National Team sentenced me. So, we did not get it for a whole five years.

All those people who worked in the tourism sector, that worked in the various supermarkets and various other places of business became of age and all they got was a wristwatch, a tap on the shoulder and if they got to that age and grumbled they were let go without anything.

So, it is not new and I am glad that natural justice is taking place—this is what a country should do. This comes late and rushed. If the legislation is left the way it is, from where I am thinking, no one would qualify. That is what happens when you rush legislation. I feel strongly that we should be able to come back on Wednesday morning and deal with this from an in-depth point of view.

The minister, herself, is like a trained legal mind, so she would be able to clarify quite easily the different queries that were made by the First Member from George Town. She said already that she would do that at committee stage.

For too long people in this country work and are taken advantage of. I am one of those who believes that legislation should be put in place to assist, rather than have bickering in the workplace. That is my position today and it has always been my position.

It is a happy day for me too, and I thank the mover of the motion and the mover of the Bill now, but how much happier I would have been if all those people who suffered for the five years would have been assisted.

So, I thank the minister for bringing the legislation although, as I said, we have this serious query here and hopefully hear from her at the end to clarify the matter.

The Speaker: The floor is open to debate. Does any member wish to speak? If no other member wishes to speak, does the honourable mover wish to exercise her right of reply?

The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: I would like to thank all honourable members who supported in part or in full the amendment now before this honourable House. I should also like to take a brief moment to perhaps clarify the inquiry that was made by the First Elected Member from George Town and the First Elected Member from West Bay.

Mr. Speaker, when one takes an analytical look at section 46(1)(3) which reads “an employee who is not entitled to a pension under the National Pensions Law (2000 Revision)” and cross references it with section 25(4) which deals with membership and eligibility for membership under the National Pensions Law (2000 Revision) we would see, sir, that it says, [section 25]:

(1)“Subject to subsection (2) of section 25, all employees between the age of eighteen years and sixty years shall be members of a pension plan.

“(2) Employers who are not required to provide pension plans, or to contribute to pension plans for the benefit of employees who do not have Caymanian status, or who are not permanent residents within the meaning of the Immigration Law (1997 Revision) and who in either case-

- (a) have been working in the Islands for a continuous period of nine months or less; or
- (b) are employed to do housework in private residences.

“(3) Every self-employed person shall either be a member of an approved pension plan or shall contribute to an individual retirement account with an approved provider.”

So, this would catch the persons that we intended to, as I understand it, being those persons over the age of 60 and therefore ineligible to fall within the pension plan. I thank you.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question that a Bill entitled the Labour (Amendment) Bill 2000 be given a Second Reading. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE LABOUR (AMENDMENT) BILL 2000 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: The House will now go into Committee to consider a bill entitled the Labour (Amendment) Bill 2000.

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE AT 6.58 PM

COMMITTEE ON BILL

The Chairman: The House is now in Committee. With the leave of the House may I assume that as usual we should authorise the Second Official Member to correct minor printing errors and such like in this Bill.

Would the Clerk please read the Bill?

THE LABOUR (AMENDMENT) BILL 2000

The Clerk: The Labour (Amendment) Bill 2000.

Clause 1: Short title.

Clause 2: Amendment to the Labour Law (2000 Revision)—Insertion of Part 5(A).

Clause 3: Amendment of section 74—Enforcement of award of director.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 through 3 do stand part of the Bill. It is open to debate.

The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Mr. Chairman, if I could ask one quick question of the minister . . . I think she just read out the people that were not entitled to a pension under the National Pensions Law and that included domestic helpers. Are the domestic helpers now entitled once they reach this age, since they are not entitled to a pension?

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Thank you. As I understand it, the intent is that providing they are over the age of 60 they would. And it was felt by the government that if a domestic helper had contributed or worked for that period of time then we would not seek to not have them have this benefit.

The Chairman: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Again, just to clarify: Mr. Chairman, the way it is worded, it says, “. . . is not entitled to a pension” . . . A domestic does not have to be over 60 not to be entitled . . . It says, “An employee who has worked with his [and I am assuming when it says his, it means her as well] employer for a period of one year or more and voluntarily retires or resigns from such employment and is not entitled to a pension.”

The way that reads then, if domestics are entitled, what it means is that once a domestic works for one year or more, the domestic is entitled to this benefit. Again—unless I am not understanding it correctly.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: That in fact is the correct position. But if honourable members feel that they would like to amend that particular one dealing with the domestics—because there has been a lot of debate under the Pensions Law—then we can do that at the Committee stage. But as it reads now, domestics would get one week for every twelve-month period that they work.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Was that the intent when it was done?

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: The intent was after 60 years.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Well, if that was the intent what are we going to do about it?

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: I was trying to convey that just then that if other honourable members are happy with that then I would so move that—

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: If I may, Mr. Chairman, please.

The Chairman: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I would crave for the honourable minister to understand what I am trying to say. I would not like to deal with this, committee stage or not, unless I have clearly before me what the intention of the Bill was that the government wants. I am not trying to be funny. All I am trying to say is that I think, with the greatest of respect for the honourable minister to be asking the members about it, she should say what the government intends with the Bill and do whatever has to be done about that to see if that is what is acceptable. I don't mean to be funny.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Perhaps the House would be so kind as to give the government just about two minutes to have discussions and come back. We could actually stay in the Chamber if we wish.

The Chairman: Would it be imposing on members if I ask you to remain seated while the government does its deliberations?

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: As long as they don't take another hour!

The Chairman: That is what I am trying to avoid.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Mr. Chairman.

The Chairman: The Elected Member for North Side, please go ahead.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Could I just ask the honourable minister before she goes into discussion with government, if the motion refers to an employee who is 60 years and over, who has worked with his/her employer for a period of one year and voluntarily retires and is not entitled to a pension . . . did the motion say 60 years and over?

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: It says: “Be it therefore resolved that Government consider amending Part V of the Labour Law to accommodate:

- (i) The voluntary retirement of employees who have worked a minimum of one year and do not qualify for a pension entitlement under the Pensions Law (1999 Revision) with a retirement and/or resignation entitlement of one week's wages at the employee's latest basic wage, for each twelve month period of his employment with his employer; and
- (ii) In case of part-time employees, their retirement entitlement shall be calculated on the basis of the ratio that their actual hours of employment bear to the standard work week.”

[Pause for Government's two-minute discussion]

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. After further deliberation on the government side I wish to move the following amendment to section 46A(1) which would be inserted immediately after the words "An employee."

It would then read, "An employee other than a person specified in section 25(2)(b) of the National Pension Law (Revision) 2000; and."

Would you like me to repeat that?

After the word "employee" that appears in the first line of section 46A(1) the words "other than a person specified in Section 25(2)(b) of the National Pension Law (Revision) 2000 and who" and it continues as the original Bill.

[Members' discussions ]

The Chairman: The question is that Clause 2 be amended.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: Mr. Chairman, if I could interrupt, sir, would you allow us to get a copy of the Pension Law so we can see exactly what we are talking about in section 25(2)(b), please?

The Chairman: Certainly, you can do that real quick.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: The Serjeant has gone to get that.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Mr. Speaker, perhaps I can facilitate that section. Section 25(2)(b) reads: "are employed to do housework in private residences."

The Chairman: In the interest of time I shall put the question that clause 1 do stand part of the Bill.

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSE 1 PASSED.

The Chairman: Clause 2 as amended.

The Clerk: By the insertion in the new part 5(A), 46(A)(1) of the words, "other than a person specified in Section 25(2)(B) of the National Pensions Law 2000 (Revision)" and that is between the words, "employee" and "who."

The Chairman: The question is that Clause 2 as per the amendment read out is open to debate.

Is there any debate?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, sir.

The Chairman: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Chairman, as the honourable minister has just said, section 25(2) reads, "Employers are not required to provide pension plans, or to contribute to pension plans, for the benefit of employees who do not have Caymanian status or who are not permanent residence within the meaning of the Immigration Law (1997 Revision) and who, in either case- (b) are employed to do housework in private residences."

So, the amendment that is being put forward by the government which will cause section 46(A)(1) to read, if I am hearing it correctly now: "An employee other than a person specified in Section 25(2)(B) of the National Pensions Law 2000 (Revision) and who is not entitled to a pension under the National Pensions Law."

Does this mean then that it totally negates any benefits in this section for domestics?

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Mr. Chairman, what this amendment means is that it is now being kept on par as what was approved in the National Pensions Law 2000 (Revision).

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Which is?

Mr. Chairman, I want to be very clear about this and let me try to rephrase it.

Section 25(2)(B) relates to persons who are employed to do housework in private residences who are what we call domestics. I don't think there is any mistake about that identity.

This new amendment that is being put forward exclude such persons. Is that the case?

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: This new amendment as put forward by the government excludes such persons as was done in the National Pensions Law.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: So, Mr. Chairman, it is clearly that the original intention was not to include domestics?

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: The government after taking due and reasonable consideration came to the conclusion that this amendment was in the best interest of the country at the time. Suffice to say if that is not an acceptable view then any other contrary expression or view could be moved at this stage and then the government would still maintain that position, sir.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Chairman, I just wanted to make it very clear because I got the impression from what was said at the very beginning that the position of the government was to include domestics who had worked for a certain period of time who fell into the category of these older folks over 60 years. This amendment excludes all. That is all I want to make clear because I heard the position one way and now I am hearing it in another way. I just want to make it very clear.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: The First Elected Member from George Town is correct in his deductive reasoning.

The Chairman: Are there any further debates?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I just want to ask a question again because this is all brand new to us this afternoon. Understanding the amendment, I am not going back to the amendment now.

What happens—and I am using two scenarios—if there is a person who is not entitled to a pension under the National Pensions Law because that person is over 60 years old (which is how the Law reads), and while that person is not eligible because of that, the employer, understanding the person's position, has offered to still pay into the pension plan during this portion of time that the person continues working. It could be a scenario that it is just the employer doing it, or it could be the usual way where the employer pays in and the employee matches that.

Even though this may be the case, what we are saying is that if that is the case this situation would still obtain. I am only asking because I am wondering whether there are people who may be in that category . . . and it depends on how long the person works. I am not suggesting that this is the rule; this may well be the exception. I am only asking if that is the intention of the government because perhaps there are only a few persons. I just wanted to know.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: If I followed correctly what the honourable member was saying, it's that this benefit or this entitlement would only kick in if the person chooses to resign or retire. And if it was the situation as he outlined—and I think I understand it—if one was getting voluntarily, either a contributory or fully paid by the employer, then there would be absolutely no reason to want to resign for this benefit when you are getting a much better prolonged benefit. This only kicks in if you resign or if you retire.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, but at some point in time they are going to retire. So all I am saying is that if the benefits are accruing during that period of time, I just want to make sure that it means that the person is entitled not only to what is happening outside of the requirements of the law but also this. That is all I wanted to find out—just wanted to make sure.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: If the person is getting a pension he would not be entitled to this benefit which is a supplementary or augmented benefit. And there is nothing preventing the employer at the stage of a dispute arising—if that were the case (which would be the normal set of circumstances) from using that for a mitigating factor. We can find circumstances all along, but that in fact would be, if not an overriding factor, a very strong mitigating factor.

The Chairman: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: This section continues to read, and maybe I am not understanding this because I am not a legal mind. It says, "it shall be paid by the employer in addition to any other allowance or monies to which he is otherwise entitled."

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: It seems like I am repeating myself but it has to be claimed. The right can be there but you have to claim it and that is why we have the consequential amendments giving you the rights to go to the Labour Director and onto the Tribunal. It is not just an automatic, mandatory disbursement at the end of the period. It has to be something that is claimed at the Labour Department for this right to come. It is similar to the new partnership and the British citizenship that's been ordered. You have to claim it.

The Chairman: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: I hope that the honourable minister does not allow herself to make it anymore complicated than it is.

When we brought this, we already understood—the Third Elected Member from West Bay and I—that there were persons—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: [Inaudible comment]

Dr. Frank McField: The point is that we realised there were persons that were tired on the job and were old enough to want to say, "this is it" especially people working in the hospitality industry, working in the bedrooms. So, this would just assist them in being able to, as I said in my contribution, leave the job with some benefit that would not occur if they had just walked off the job. Persons who were fired, for instance, would be able to get some benefit.

Now, what this did was to create a problem on the job for conflicts. So, at a particular age we noticed that there was a strain and stress between the management and the employee, because at particular times the employee realised that if he were dismissed he would get certain benefits. Management felt at the same time they would prefer to wait to let the employee walk off the job so each one was challenging the other. So, it was really bought as an additional benefit that would work in the place of those persons who would not receive pensions.

So, in cases where people are receiving pensions, it would be superior to this particular benefit because . . . how incredible is this benefit? It is only a maximum of eight weeks that the person would be actually paid so it is nothing fantastic here.

Now if there are persons who believe that this benefit should extend to cover other categories of workers, I mean, it is possible to make the amendment and argue that particular case. But as we saw it at that particular time we were dealing with the more immediate situation that we had been confronted with, which was in the hospitality industry dealing with the Caymanian workers. I think it is simple now to understand that that was the motive—that was the intention and that is what we are trying to resolve here.

The Chairman: Is there further debate? I shall now put the question that Clause 2 be amended.

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Clause 2 has been amended.

AGREED: CLAUSE 2 AMENDED.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: I move the adjournment of this Honourable House sine die.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Before that motion is dealt with I feel I have to report to the House on the Select Committee on Immigration and I would wish to make a statement.

The Speaker: You may, please continue, the Honourable Second Official Member.

STATEMENT BY HONOURABLE MEMBER

ON THE SELECT COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE ON THE IMMIGRATION LAW 1992; THE LOCAL COMPANIES (CONTROL) LAW (1995 REVISION); AND THE TRADE AND BUSINESS LICENSING LAW (1996 REVISION)

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I do so, Mr. Speaker, in connection with Standing Order 74(1) which requires me to report to the House if the work of the Select Committee has not concluded and I so report.

For the information of the public, the Committee has continued its work after obtaining the feedback of the public to its third interim report. The work of the Committee, however, has not concluded and therefore in accordance with Standing Order 74(1) I am required to report that fact to the House.

It is my recommendation as Chairman of the Select Committee that the new government, if it is so minded, and it is entirely a matter for that government, re-establish the committee to carry on the work referred to it. In that event, the draft fourth report of the select committee may provide a suitable point at which to recommence. That is all that I wish to say.

I would however like to thank the members of the select committee and all those who assisted it, in particular, the Chief Immigration Officer and Mr. Bradley among others, the sub-committee, all who contributed to its work. I trust that that work will not have been in vain—that it will be picked up again in the future. In that event, I would wish the Committee well.

The Speaker: Under Standing Order 11(5) and (6), I have agreed that the First Elected Member for West Bay could make a short statement.

The First Elected Member for West Bay.

RAISING OF PUBLIC MATTER FOR WHICH GOVERNMENT HAS RESPONSIBILITY

Standing Order 11(5) & (6)

PROPERTY IN GOAT YARD, BOATSWAIN BAY

Mr. W. McKeever Bush: Mr. Speaker, I rise to speak—and I have notified the minister responsible—about a contentious situation which has arisen in the district of West Bay. It is in regard to property in Goat Yard, an area in Boatswain Bay. It is of such that someone obtained a court order in 1997 to demolish some homes deemed, as they called it, an encroachment over boundary marks.

Again on 3rd August, the same people received another threatening letter saying that more homes are going to be bulldozed because of an encroachment.

Mr. Speaker, I am raising this matter here because I have attempted to get Lands and Survey Department and the Environment Department to investigate the matter and try to assist the families in that area with what is a disputed boundary mark and nothing has been done. Homes have been torn down and by the looks of it, there is going to be another attempt.

Mr. Speaker, from the boundary marks I see on the property and on this aerial photograph, it is quite obvious that there are conflicting stories. In other words, there is a shifting of boundaries somehow. I believe that those persons in that area are being taken advantage of because they cannot fight—they do not have the money to fight that person. I believe that the person in question who obtained the court order is attempting to remove them from that area because he feels it will enhance his property value that he has now for sale.

It is time that government steps in here. I, as a representative, have done everything I can. I spoke to the minister and he says that social services, who has just agreed to put in a toilet in that area, has requested some investigation of the boundary marks. I was going to ask him to agree, but he is not here, to have the Department of Planning, the Environment Department and the Lands and Survey Department to get together with us on the matter as quickly as possible as it is an urgent situation. I raise it in this Parliament because I think it is something that they need to move on quickly to see what can be done to rectify this situation.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay and I have put portable toilets there, but now there are none. We had asked the Environment Department before, to put portable toilets in that area, but they did not do it. Social Services is moving as quickly as possible they say, to get Public Works to install those toilets, but there is a court order, the threatening letter for demolition of their homes.

Mr. Speaker, whether it is a shack or whatever, that is their home. They have been on that property for generations, over a hundred years. How did they get into that situation, I don't know, as I only learned of it in recent years. How could someone buy the property around them when in years gone by they had had so much property. They don't seem to know what happened. It is too long for me to tell this parliament. However, I am urging the government not to sit down on this. The same way they can come here and change laws in a matter of minutes and hours, the same way they can sit down and get those departments to work on that situation.

As I have said, I have spoken to the minister and he agrees that something will be done.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to say anything?

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, I am not going to address what the First Elected Member from West Bay was talking about so perhaps if one of the ministers is going to reply to him, I give way before I speak, sir.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, if you would allow me to say a few words on this particular issue. I agree with the First Elected Member for West Bay. This is a very urgent matter. These persons have been bulldozed and kicked around in that area because they are poor.

I believe that it is only fair that the government pools its resources as far as the department is responsible, to see to it that we come up with some solution that is fair and equitable as far as these persons are concerned.

Mr. Speaker, we did make an effort to put in portable toilets in that area until we could arrange through Social Services, or on our own, to have some toilet facilities built in that area. The proprietor in that area, Mr. Jeff Turner, was advised; he was told what our plans were. After two months, he ordered Environmental Health to pull the toilets, so there is nothing there. It is a very urgent and desperate situation, I think, one that has to be given immediate attention so I do support what the First Elected Member from West Bay had to say with regard to this issue.

The Speaker: I cannot allow further debate on that particular subject. If a member of government wishes to reply they may do so. No member wishes to speak.

The First Elected Member for George Town you said you had something to say.

STATEMENT ON MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT-UNFINISHED BUSINESS OF HOUSE

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, Mr. Speaker, I wish to speak on the motion for adjournment given by the Minister for Education.

The business of this House is not completed. There are several select committees that will fall away on dissolution of this House and the business is not completed to even the point of making the final report. We have the elections committee and the committee to take input from the public on the review of the dependent territories for which we got notice today that they were seeking to hold committee meetings and I presume we would have to all agree when these committee meetings would take place, sir.

There is a committee on minimum wage and, of course, there is a Standing Order committee. As I mentioned before, there is the committee on amendments to the Elections Law.

Mr. Speaker, what the Honourable Second Official Member just had to do to try to discharge his duty as chairman of the committee, on amendments to the Immigration Law and the Trade and Business Licensing Law (I think that is the name of the committee) is unfortunate. A report was passed out to us to be signed and the normal procedure I would think should have been for us to have gotten together to see whether members could agree on signing off on the report based on the recommendations in the report.

I have no idea. I don't even wish to try to calculate and figure out why the government is taking this position to try to adjourn the House sine die—I think, that is the terminology the minister used—and not allow these committees to report back to the House.

The Honourable Third Official Member also advised us that there would be a meeting of Finance Committee. Unless I am not understanding, the way this thing has to work is that when Finance Committee meets and concludes its business, Finance Committee has to report back to this House. If there is no House I wonder to whom Finance Committee is going to report back to.

Mr. Speaker, I know sir, you wish for the business of this House to be conducted in a manner as expeditiously as possible—but correctly and fairly. If there are things I know not about and methods by which due process can be circumvented, then perhaps I can be guided. But as of now with what I know of the business of the House that is not completed, I cannot for the love of me understand why, if we adjourn today, we don't try to complete the business of the House in whatever manner is reasonable and can be done. If we do what is being put forward, as is my understanding—that is being put forward this evening—what we are doing is leaving much of the business of the House unfinished.

I can only say, because I had discussions with the minister about this, that this is purposely being done for a reason. I know not the reason.

I would crave your guidance, sir, as to the rights of procedure in the manners that I raised. I don't know if any other member wishes to air his dissent, disgust, or disappointment. But for my tenure here, I feel as part and parcel of something that is . . . lame duck is not the right word, but as far as I am concerned it is not doing justice to this parliament. I don't know if you wish to comment on what I have said. I am trying to do this in a manner that is reasonable. I don't know what else will be said, sir, but I certainly am totally dissatisfied with what I see going on at present.

The Speaker: As the presiding officer and the Speaker of the House, there is a motion before the House and I have to deal with that before I can deal with another motion. I have no alternative but to deal with motions as they are presented.

The motion before the House is that this Honourable House do now adjourn sine die.

The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: If I may, sir, I would like to join my colleague, the First Elected Member for George Town in voicing my disgust at the way that this parliament is coming to a close without completing its business.

Standing Order 74(1) plainly states, “Every select committee shall, before the end of the session in which it was appointed, make a report to the House upon matters referred to it and, where a committee finds itself unable to conclude its investigation before the end of the session, it shall so report to the House.”

Mr. Speaker, we have the Immigration Select Committee. We have the Election Law Committee. We have the House Committee. We have the Business Committee. We have the Standing Orders Committee. We have the Privilege Committee. We have the Register of Interest Committee and we have the White Paper Committee, which under the standing orders it is mandatory that they report before the end of the session that they were appointed.

Under the standing orders, the government is supposed to bring supplementary appropriation bills to this parliament for every Finance Committee meeting that it has to approve financial supplementary. We have not had one since 1993 and I think it would be an injustice to this country to close this parliament down without dealing with the matters that should be dealt with before the parliament is closed.

So, I very clearly do not support the adjournment of this House sine die until at least the reports of these committees are laid on the Table of this parliament.

TRIBUTES

The Speaker: I have stated the position. I have a motion before the floor which I must deal with and as this is the last meeting in the sitting of this parliament prior to a general election, I want to thank all honourable members for their courtesies and tolerance to the Chair.

I would like to thank the Clerk, the Deputy Clerk, the office staff, the Hansard Officers, the Sergeant-at-Arms and Miss Anita for their efficient services they have rendered to us.

I would like further to say that I speak with mixed emotions this afternoon as I bring to an end my career of 20 years as a Member of this Honourable House. I want to thank all honourable members for the courtesies they have shown to me in electing me Speaker in 1996 and the honour of having been able to preside over this honourable House.

May God richly bless each and every one of you.

The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, Sports, Women, Youth and Culture.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly: Thank you. On behalf of the government and the constituents from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, I too would like to publicly thank you for your years of service and to wish you the very best in whichever way you may choose to go and also to use this as an opportunity for thanking my constituents for entrusting me the privilege of servicing them for these past four years.

I thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, in the midst of all this emotion and bidding of farewells, I would, first of all, like to wish you all the best in whatever endeavour you choose to take upon your leaving the office of Speaker. And, to say on behalf of my colleagues on the Backbench how much we learned and how much we respected your positions. While we did not always agree and see eye to eye with the decisions taken, we always held your rulings and the Chair in a certain parliamentary reverence and dignity. It is indeed an emotional time for you. Your record of twenty years here, is a record to which all of us, perhaps, who have not reached those years would aspire to but realistically realise that the challenges and the possibility of us achieving that and growing greater with every election.

So, Mr. Speaker, that makes your achievement all the more significant and makes you all the more deserving of our respect and good wishes and Godspeed for a long, happy and successful retirement, whatever endeavour you choose.

Mr. Speaker, I need not tell you that a man of your stature will always be welcome in the precincts of this parliament as you have not only earned your welcome but certainly you have earned the respect of those of us who are here and I am sure you will have earned the respect of even those who will be coming in new.

I wanted to, in keeping with an old practice I learned at Mico [Teachers College], say the good things first because it is necessary for me also to register my concern with what I see transpiring.

I listened with keen interest to the Honourable Second Official Member, a gentleman for whom I hold the highest regard, when he was making a statement explaining his inability to bring the matter of which he was entrusted as Chairman, to a conclusion, which to him would have been satisfactory. I have to wonder why did his colleagues—the elected government—cast him in such an untenable position.

I too have to say that it is indeed strange and a departure from the Westminster style parliamentary democracy that we practise to adjourn the House sine die with so many matters not coming to their natural conclusion. Yet, there is still time for the honourable House to meet and put these matters to rest. I recall vividly four years ago when the government was perhaps in a much better position that these matters which were no less controversial then, than they are now, were wound to their natural conclusion.

Mr. Speaker, as a proponent of parliamentary democracy I have to express my concern about this subversion of the system. I have to say that I take the dimmest view of this and I am chagrined to have to stand here and witness a departure that I thought would never happen in this parliament. I don't know what the reason is; it certainly is not a good one. It sets a bad precedent and it is not in the interest of continuing parliamentary democracy. I am surprised that people who have been entrusted with such a responsibility have been so nonchalant and so arrogant that they would attempt to come to this kind of premature conclusion.

Before I take my seat I want to say that I owe a deep debt of gratitude to my constituents and I have to give my thanks to the Almighty God for sparing my life to see this term come to an end. I shall, God willing, be setting myself up again for election come November as I have announced and I wish for all my honourable colleagues, in spite of all the differences I have held over the four years, God's blessing and good success.

The Cayman Islands are on the verge of perhaps the greatest challenge it has had since the break-up of the Federation and the decision to enter into crown colony government. There are many persons out there who have set themselves up as candidates. The people of this country have always been wise in their political choices and I have no reason to believe that they will be different at this time. While it is true that there is necessity for improvement, I have never been one to believe in change just for the sake of change.

We have to study the way forward. There are many critical choices to be made and while I believe that in a democracy all deserve to be heard. Certainly I will leave the choice and the decisions up to the electorate.

I am happy that I have come from a constituency, which has always demonstrated wise choice and good selection in elections. And, I have no reason to feel that the good people of Bodden Town will be any different this time.

Mr. Speaker, I wish God's richest blessing on the Cayman Islands and his guidance for all those who set themselves up as candidates in this election.

To my colleagues on both sides of the House, I ask for understanding and tolerance, and if I have erred and wronged any man I shall use this time now to ask for forgiveness and to say that I bear no malice in my heart towards anyone. I look forward when the results are declared, to seeing many old faces back here and continuing the camaraderie. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Honourable Julianna O'Connor-Connolly, I believe, spoke on behalf of the government but I think she will forgive if I attempt to speak on behalf of the three official members, in particular.

I did not want to lose this opportunity of saying to you, sir, how much we have appreciated your work here and, in particular, your work as the Honourable Speaker of this House. I want to, on behalf of the Honourable Second and Third Official Members and I, wish you God's richest blessing as you retire from this and we trust that God will bless you with health and strength for many more years in whatever endeavours you pursue.

I would like to say this evening that you brought a quiet dignity to the office of Speaker and you leave a challenge to your successor to continue that work.

I want to take this opportunity to say thanks to the staff of the Legislative Department, the Clerk, the Deputy Clerk, all of the staff that have worked behind the scenes who have got us the many things that we demanded and needed at short notice and they were there and rose to the occasion. I must single out the Serjeant-at-Arms who faithfully carried out his duties very ably and always greeted us with a smile. I want this evening to publicly say thanks to him.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to say to all our colleagues who will be seeking to be re-elected, we trust that the election will go well for you. We want you to know that as official members we are non-partisan and we stand ready to work with whomever the country decides to elect. So, we wish you all the best of luck and we trust that the elections will come off fair and safe. We trust there will be no incidents and I believe that all members here will do their best to bring that to a successful conclusion.

Again, I thank you very much.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I also want to wish for you all the best. I trust that your health will continue to improve and that you will enjoy with your family this next period of your life.

Sixteen of your twenty years I have been here. We did not agree on everything but twenty years is a long service and that we must respect. Serving the public is not easy. Sometimes you do good you get kicked for it but the vast majority of times, and that is what is most pleasurable for us, is that the vast majority of people are thankful for the accomplishments.

The Sister Islands have seen tremendous growth and changes in these last twenty years. Your help has been paramount in that and I believe they appreciate the strides made.

Mr. Speaker, I hope the good Lord will continue to bless you and your family.

I think, sir, that parliament should be operated better. I believe there is need for reform and how we operate business here. I have long said that we need to operate it different—start at 2.00 pm, for instance. We need to cut back on time of speaking even by 50% and I believe that the public would agree with this and would be desirous of this.

Questions need to be answered and I find this the most distressing because as a backbench member or opposition member the only means of information that you have is when you can get it from the floor of this House. It is sad to think that this meeting is being closed and there are still some important questions I have asked which are not answered:

- From the Water Authority, its liquidity position and its accounts;
- The Auditor General's Report;
- The Miami Office of the Cayman Islands Department of Tourism;
- What is happening with the resolve of the House;
- The Pedro Castle criminal investigation.

Mr. Speaker, these are but some. There are questions unanswered for over a year. This is only for this meeting. Parliament in a country cannot be run like that. I cannot blame you. No one can blame you. You are the Speaker you do not set business. Ministers of government must be more diligent in answering questions.

The country faces serious problems from within and internationally, and certainly we have to do our best to see that these islands move forward in a manner that while we might like it, or some people might not like who's in power, that the country moves forward where it satisfies the needs of the people: this means vision.

So, I consider that I have served the people of West Bay and these islands honestly and faithfully these past sixteen years. And, I thank the people of West Bay for their confidence in me and for being not only constituents but friends. I could not possibly see everyone who may have wanted to see me when they wanted to see me but I have done what I could for them with the available resources to me.

The past four years have been the greatest test of all. With God's help and the support and sincere prayers of my constituents and friends throughout these islands I have lived through it. I have found in life that if you do good, good will follow. So it is in politics, if you are honest you serve diligently, you attend to the issues and needs of your people with no other agenda, no matter what some people might say or what innuendo is made on you the people in majority will stand by you.

While it has been the test, it has been a let down also because there are many things all my life that I have wanted to see accomplished: some I have started and I know that there are some needed such as housing, training, and some youth work. The same things I fought so hard to get started with some success but since 1997 have not progressed to the point which is needed and some for which I left plans to do.

So, I would hope that the people will deal accordingly with those who have not accomplished these needs. To say that the Cayman Islands is dead, I don't think that we should allow anyone to say that. We are still vibrant and we still have a long way to go. When I look at some of the accomplishments for West Bay in the past sixteen years I think we have done well. When I look at national accomplishments and the many things I have done in my ministry when I was there and some of the things that the minister who took over after me accomplished, we have done well. It is not fair for anyone to say that all is bad.

Changes, of course, need to be made and I am going to do all I can to see that those changes come about in the representation of the country.

Mr. Speaker, these are exciting times in the Cayman Islands even though we have our share of concerns, as I said, and other problems, we continue to live in a blest country where peace and harmony still reign. The election of 2000 is a decisive one and we could very well look back on it in the years to come to see that it represents a real change in Cayman Islands' history. If the people of West Bay want me, then they have the good sense to send me back.

I won't be hypocritical and wish to see everyone. I certainly cannot do that but I would hope that God will see fit to help those who are best suited to be sent back here. As I said, I cannot be hypocritical and wish everyone a safe passage back here because I am going to do my best to see that some don't get back here.

I want to thank all those members we have worked with, the friendships formed and the new bonds made. I certainly want to say thanks to the staff, the [Hansard Officers], the Clerks, [Miss Anita for the meals she helped to prepare], the Serjeant-at-Arms and certainly to thank the reporters and also the security guards for their services given to this parliament. They have all done a tremendous job and I would hope, sir, that the new parliament would see fit to make reform because I believe we need it.

So, Mr. Speaker, to wish you all the best again and to wish for those that I want to see come back, good campaigning. For the rest of them, goodbye and good riddance!

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Let me add my vote of thanks to your. Having served with you, sir, since 1988 and having served here twelve years myself, I want to say that I personally have enjoyed working with you as a member and also as Speaker of this Honourable House.

I thank you personally, sir, for your tolerance. I thank you for your guidance to me as a young member. I wish for you and your family God's continued blessing. I trust that you will enjoy your retirement. I look forward to that day myself one of these days when I can hang up my shingles and enjoy life at a little slower pace.

I also want to say thanks to the people of West Bay for allowing me to serve them for the past twelve years. Let me say, twelve good years. I have thoroughly enjoyed being a representative of my people in West Bay. I think most people will recognise that I have tried during these twelve years to address the issues that have concerned my people. A lot of times I had to deal with those issues even if I had to stand alone.

To my colleagues in the House I want to say that especially in the last eight years, it has been a real privilege being able to serve with each and every one of you. Mr. Speaker, I served between 1988 and 1992 and it really was not the same. There is no period that I can think of that could compare with that particular period. I have really enjoyed working with the colleagues here in the House. It is going to be very difficult over the next six weeks for each and every one of us. I think everybody other than yourself, sir, has declared, or is in the process of declaring his candidacy for re-election. But I want to say God's blessing. I want to say good luck to each and every member and I look forward being returned by the people of West Bay with the continued good blessing of God himself. I look forward to continuing to serve the people not only of West Bay but of this country for a few more years, at least.

I also want to add my thanks to the staff of the Legislative Assembly—I mean everyone—for their courtesies and their assistance in every way that has been extended to us as members.

I think despite what some people may think, one of the highest callings in this country is to be elected and serve as a representative of the people. I have thoroughly enjoyed it and I look forward with God's blessing and the support of my people in West Bay to continue to serve them for some time to come. Thank you, sir.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak?
The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna Moyle: I too join other members to wish you a long and healthy retirement and the best of luck should you be retiring, or should you be going into a new venture.

You always referred to me as my Deputy and I would like to say that I enjoyed being your Deputy over the past four years. Maybe we differed on rulings at times, but it made us learn from each other in the end.

To my colleagues I would like to say—When we start the election campaign, let us keep those campaign meetings to the highest level. To my colleagues in this parliament I say, good luck to every one of you because I will be joining you on the election campaign fighting for a seat to represent the district of North Side for the next four years, God willing.

I would like to say thank you to the staff of the Legislative Assembly who have treated every one of us with the highest respect and have done for us things that their job description, should the First Official Member show that to us, were not included but they always did it with a smile.

Mr. Cline Glidden, Snr. I would like to say thank you because he has always been there and willing to assist each and every one of us.

To Miss Anita, who fed us whether Legislative Assembly was in a meeting or not but if we were here or doing some research of just sitting and chatting, Miss Anita was there to prepare a lunch for us.

To the people of North Side, I would like to say thank you for allowing me for the past four years to serve you as your representative in this parliament to which I try to serve to the best of my ability. I would ask that if you see that I have served you and done for you and have not forgotten your district, as you were prior to 1992, to allow me to return to represent you for the next four years.

To my colleagues again, I say, let us keep the election campaign to a high level and let us all come back and represent our constituents.

The Speaker: Any other member wishes to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Health, Social Welfare, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I wish to take this opportunity as most of my other colleagues have done to also offer my best wishes to you on your retirement and to thank you for the way in which you have operated this mixed bunch of personalities of the last four years—the patience and the tolerance that you showed. I am a patient man but I don't know if at times I would have had what I have seen you display over the last four years.

I would like to also thank the staff of this House and my very good friend, Mr. Glidden. As I jokingly said to him yesterday, when so many questions were on the Order Paper that he must have built up some good mileage for travelling between here and Miami or somewhere else. He is really an outstanding individual and it has been a wonderful feeling to know a person as outstanding and dignified and as humble as Mr. Glidden.

I would like to thank God for the opportunity He has given me to serve this Honourable House, my constituents of Bodden Town, my family for putting up with the long hours that I have to, at times, especially during the construction of the Hospital. I would like to thank the staff in my ministry, my very able and capable Permanent Secretary, Miss Bryan; my Senior Assistant Secretary, Mr. Colin Ross; my Assistant Secretary, Miss Betty Ebanks and all the other support staff not only in the Ministry but the departments that I have had the opportunity to work with. They were all wonderful people, very supportive.

I would like to thank all members of this honourable House for the positive support they have given me as a freshman minister coming in, thrown into the deep. But I was always level with them. I thank God for the trust they placed in me and for having my own Caymanians working along with me. I feel that the credit, where these islands have come in certain areas specifically in health care and other areas, I could not have done it without the wonderful support from all the members of this House.

I would like to thank the Caymanian Compass and other media—I see my good friend, Mr. Redman; it is a late night for him. But they have always given, I would say, fair representation to the population on these islands on transactions that have taken place in this honourable House.

As we all know, just a few short weeks remain before the election and I would like to join in wishing all of my colleagues the best. I agree with the member from North Side: Let us, conduct our campaigns with dignity. It's beyond that stage here in Cayman where we have to get into the gutter, character assassination, and other areas. Let us put forward issues to the public. Let us show the public what we have been able to do for them and let us demonstrate by what we have done that we are capable leaders. It has really been a special experience for me in the last four years working with the colleagues here and I wish God's blessings on all.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I would first like to deal with the matter that several members spoke on earlier and that is relating to the motion to adjourn.

Several members have read Standing Order 74(1) and that makes it very clear. I will just refer to that section, it says, “. . . where a committee finds itself unable to conclude its investigation before the end of the session, it shall so report to the House.” That is what the duty of the committee is.

There is no standing order that says every committee shall conclude its business. Indeed, Mr. Speaker, as you well know, every legislature dissolves leaving business that is carried on to the next session. The way that is done, sir, is that a motion in the following new assembly will adopt the proceedings of the select committee here.

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: You have to make a report. Truman, you have to make a report!

Hon. Truman Bodden: Indeed, some of these select committees have had over twenty meetings during this time. So, the process as I understand it, sir, under the Standing Orders then is simply that if a committee does not finish its business, or is unable to conclude its business, then it makes a report and then the following new meeting will deal with those matters.

POINT OF CLARIFICATION

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: On a matter of clarity—

The Speaker: Hold on a minute!

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I have not sat down, Mr. Speaker!

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for West Bay wait one minute.

[Addressing the hon. Minister] Will you give way?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: No, sir, I would like to just finish—

Mr. W. McKeeva Bush: No! I knew he was not going to give way. I just wanted to say that it says, “. . . a committee shall meet and report to the House on its activities at least once a year.”

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Aviation and Planning, please continue.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: That is a very good example of the way the standing orders of this House are not followed at times. So, what I am saying is on that point, I don't want to get into any arguments on it because this is the end of the session, in my view, and as I see it in these standing orders it has made provision for where committees do not finish its business and they are carried over to the next period.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank you very much for your time as Speaker of this House. For you, sir, I have the utmost respect and I have found you to be a gentleman. You have conducted the business of this House with dignity and extreme ably, and you leave very big shoes to fill if you decide not to fill those yourself, which presumably may still be a possibility. That is your decision. It's never easy in keeping order in the Legislative Assembly and you have done that very ably.

I would also like to thank the Clerk, the Deputy Clerk for their untiring work and also all of the staff including those who have also provided meals over the period. I would especially like to thank the Serjeant-at-Arms who once again is a real gentleman and it has been a very good privilege knowing him throughout the time that I have been here.

I came in the time that you did, sir, many years ago, and we both moved through the early days of the legislature here where things were in some ways somewhat different but once again fulfilling. I too share with you twenty years in this House and sixteen of those an elected minister/member.

Mr. Speaker, the campaign ahead, I would like to join in saying that members should please stick to issues. The public will look back on what is done in this House and draw their conclusions from that as to what are issues and how members have dealt with them. I would urge members to keep their campaigns clean which I pledge to do.

I would like to especially thank all members of this House and I wish them, their families, and also the staff here, God's richest blessings. And to the members who are running ahead, Good luck, with the campaign!

I would like to especially thank the electorate of George Town who have had faith in me over the past twenty-odd years and whom I have represented to the best of my ability. As other members have said, this has not been easy at times but I feel it is our duty to our country.

Lastly, I would like to thank God for bringing us all to this stage where we are still here, still alive and still going on and doing the work of the country. Also, to thank God for the Cayman Islands and its people and may be continue to bless everyone in these lovely islands.

The Speaker: Does any other member wish to speak.
The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Linford A. Pierson: I would not allow this opportunity to pass without also joining my colleagues in extending to you the very best on your retirement.

I was fortunate to spend twelve of those twenty years that you have had in the House. I can say that I have found you to be a gentleman. Mr. Speaker, you brought a quiet, but efficient approach and dignity to your job as a representative of your people in the Brac, and also as Speaker of this Honourable House.

My four years from 1996 to 2000 were most eventful. Not only did we have a very busy House but I had the opportunity to represent these islands internationally. I would like to thank the members of that negotiating team, namely (forgive if I mention the names)—the Honourable Mr. George A. McCarthy, who many times led the delegation; the Honourable Attorney General, Mr. David F. Ballantyne, who I found to be a most efficient and knowledgeable man; the Honourable Truman M. Bodden, Leader of Government Business, who also did a fantastic job in representing these Islands; the Honourable Thomas C. Jefferson, who worked very closely in helping us to cement many of the negotiations that we entered into and indeed the Honourable Chief Justice, Mr. Anthony Smellie, for being with us on some of our journeys; also members of the financial industry and members of Executive Council for the support they gave during these very trying times.

Mr. Speaker, had it not been for the very careful negotiations carried out by the Cayman Islands delegations, the Cayman Islands would have now been scrambling to try to get off the OECD list and our position would not have been as well thought of as it is today by the international forum.

I have no regrets for any unfortunate incidents that may have occurred during recent times in my political life. I chalk that all up to experience and I want to wish every member of this honourable House all the very best. I hold no ill will for anyone. I don't know of one person that I could say I hate. It is a word and an emotion that I try to exclude from my life.

I believe that our time in this honourable House could have been much more productive. I take the points that have been raised about much of the work not being completed, but I feel that we as members of this House must share some of the blame for the inefficiencies that have cropped up many times in this House. The unnecessary long speeches, I, too, agree that the time should be cut by half. What a member cannot say in two hours perhaps is not necessary to be said.

I also feel that we need to tighten up on Question Time in this House. Question Time should be used to elicit information in a very precise and efficient manner and not to make speeches. This is one area I would like to see tightened up in the future if I am fortunate to be returned.

Mr. Speaker, we are now under the throes of another election campaign and I too would join other honourable members in asking that we try to conduct this campaign with dignity and decorum and not by personal attacks. It is not my intention to attack any member, however, I reserve the right to defend myself at all times.

I will not be dealing with personal issues, I repeat. I intend to deal with the issues because there are many, many, many issues facing this country that can employ our time. We do not need to go on the political platform and tear each other apart.

I want to take this opportunity also to thank my people for the opportunity of representing them for twelve years in this honourable House. During that time together with the time I have spent in the civil service I have been able to gain a considerable amount of experience. Together with my experience and my professional knowledge, I hope that I will be given the opportunity for another four years in this House. I see much that needs to be done and I believe that I can assist in getting those matters accomplished.

Mr. Speaker, I have declared as an independent candidate for this election. This means that as in the past I will not get to the stage where I feel I cannot work with any candidate or any member of this House, rather. I feel that when a representative is returned in a general election it is our duty as representatives in this House to work as closely as possible with each other so that we can get the best for our people.

I want to take this opportunity to thank each member of this House, the staff and others for making life so pleasant for us here: from the Clerk down, everyone has endeavoured to make us comfortable and happy in these quarters.

Mr. Speaker, I trust that whoever is returned to this House in November will endeavour to work together in the best interest of the people of these islands. It is important that the five elected members of Council—especially considering the period we have reached in the Cayman Islands, internationally, and in view of the various initiatives facing this country—that we have experienced and knowledgeable people to guide this country over the next four years.

I trust that the people will elect the best talents and most knowledgeable and experienced people possible. I will not be out there telling my constituents who not to vote for. I will be asking them to vote for me and I will leave it to their judgement and their intelligence to decide in my constituency of George Town who else is best able and most capable of representing them.

Again, may I take this opportunity to thank you for guiding this House so ably over the past four years as Speaker. I wish for you and each member of this House God's richest blessings. I trust that I may see many of you back here during the next session of this House. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank McField: Mr. Speaker, I am sorry to keep you from your desired retirement. I know it is time for all of us to retire at this hour but since I have only spent four years here, and since I cannot tell the people that my experience is great in anything, I would say that I have listened so that I could learn so that at this particular point might say something that does not really offend anyone. I am at the same time a person who believes that if I do pay compliments that somehow the compliments should mean something, not just to the person I am saying it to but to me.

Mr. Speaker, I would say to you that I believe that you an honest man. How do I know that you are an honest man? I think I have made it also your duty to prove to me that you are an honest man. You have done that without any reservation whatsoever and maybe only a freshman would have been so fresh to have wanted you to do such. But because of the particular type of challenges that I gave you and you gave me, we were able to come to a level of understanding of one another which I think, makes it possible for us to part at this time—I, being the better for it, now that I have come to know more about you, your dreams and ideas, as a Caymanian. And, you know more about my dreams and my ideas as a Caymanian. And as these two types of Cayman converged or had the possibility to act themselves out here in this Legislative Assembly, I think, that my impression of the whole situation is that they can co-exist and they can be supportive of one another.

Mr. Speaker, I know that you are going to find nice and exciting things to do because I am sure that you know that politics is not the most exciting thing any man or woman can do. I have cut out a little niche in here for myself and I have done so not because I believe that all the people should not be represented. I try my best to represent all, but I will not be so pretentious as to say that I have the capacity to have this great understanding of the personal needs and the subjective needs of all the people. What I consider to be the needs of the people has also to do with my limited experiences as a person and as a Caymanian. I have based whatever I have done upon that, Mr. Speaker, and I have tried as honestly and as fairly as possible to speak what I believe to be the truth about the people I represent.

Now, I have taken a particular interest and I have been able to express that interest in this Legislative Assembly. The Minister of Labour, for instance, has expressed great tolerance towards that particular interest which I have, which is the interest in the working people in the country. People who I feel have not normally been represented to the same extent: it is not that persons have not represented them as people, but they have not represented their specific interests as working people, in that we have not talked about them as a specific social and economic group in the society.

I have done this not to divide the society but to bring attention to problems in the society and to ask government to direct resources towards those specific types of people in order that we might get substantial changes in order to preserve the peace and prosperity of our society.

At the end we do agree in those principles that I have worked for and it is just that my approach has been slightly different from perhaps other members. At the end I am also happy to say that there is not one person in here that I could truly say that I hate. There is not one person in here that if he or she is returned that I would have any great difficulties to begin to work with again. There seems to be something strange about politics—we seem to have this seventh sense that tells us: guys, girls, don't treat this as a life and death matter.

So, politics is a little bit like theatre. We know that we are often on the stage but when we come off that stage we realise exactly how human our opponents are, how human we are. When we realise that, we tend to become different, we tend to become sorry, we tend to be come saddened. There were many nights that I slept but felt very disturbed in my sleep; very saddened in my sleep, because I felt I had offended people and I should not have done so. So, to all persons whom I have offended inside the House and outside, let me take this opportunity (for I might not have it again), to apologise to you.

And, Mr. Speaker, to you I say God bless you and may He bless you richly with many happy years. Thank you.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I recognise that it is that time, sir. I just had to smile to myself when I realise that you had not seen me and wondered if I had lost some weight. But I think it would not do justice to the occasion if I did not rise to, first of all, wish you well, sir. I think you tell the tale sometimes of picking me up as a little baby. I kind of think to myself sometimes when I am giving you a hard time that I am glad that I don't remember it because it might prevent me from doing so.

On a serious note I would just like to say to you that the experiences that I have had not only with you as the Speaker but with you as a representative, even when we didn't always agree, have always been experiences that I consider to be learning ones because somehow you had a knack for causing me to stop and think, and for that I am grateful. I know that as you said earlier on—you spoke then with mixed emotions—and perhaps it is easy to understand after twenty years this thing being a great part of your life. I think you will go home and probably at some points in time say that you want to miss it but I know that you will be happier for it, sir. I think your time has been well spent.

I think the people of Cayman Brac can be justly proud that they afforded you the opportunity to represent them continuously for such a long period of time and I believe that they will understand your not desiring to continue to do so because in every man's life there comes a time to quit. I think you are doing so at a time when no one can say that you were not serving the purpose that was intended for you. So it is always good, and I am sure that it will be for you, when you reminisce in the years to come that you will be able to say that I did not overspend my welcome.

I am sure that all of us here, those of us who might be returned in November, will miss your presence but I do trust that you will visit us and I am certain that none of us who are returned will mind if we hear that little knock on the door in the Common Room because we know that is, Mr. Speaker saying 'May I come in? And if you are talking about me, please, stop now so that I can come in and don't feel uncomfortable'—that is just a joke, sir.

I would like to say a special thank you to the staff of the Legislative Assembly. Everyone has done so thus far perhaps might even become a bit monotonous but I have to remember the first day I came in here when I was sworn in. I was over-awed by the fact that I had been allowed this great privilege to be a representative of the people.

There has never been a day since then that staff, from the Clerk and the Deputy Clerk who is here now; the girls out front; the good Serjeant-at-Arms, Mr. Cline Glidden, Snr.; Miss Mary and now her replacement . . . I say Miss Mary because even though she is not here, I still remember her quite well and she taught Miss Anita very well. I have to say a special thank you to all of those because I can truthfully say that my life thus far in here would have been a lot more uncomfortable had they not been so accommodating.

The Minister of Education always boasts of the fact that he taught, first of all, how to find the food when none was able to be seen. Perhaps, that was fitting too because I always believed that he thought that I consumed more than him but he knows better now—no one can do so better than he can.

Mr. Speaker, it has been a great privilege for me to have served the people of the district of George Town and indeed the Cayman Islands, since November of 1992. I, too, have had my times. I, too, have had my variances with others and their opinions. Perhaps each has his/her own style. I think this is probably the best I have ever been when it comes to saying thank you and those nice words because I never really considered that a part of my job, but I think I can do so now without feeling that I am not serving the purpose that I was here for.

You see, Mr. Speaker, I consider the parliament exactly what I think it should be and each member here should serve the purpose that he or she is here for. I have found myself from the day I have been here as a member of the backbench, considering it to be my job to keep the government on its toes.

That can be uncomfortable for both of us sometimes that is, the government and myself but that is the way the system works and that is what it is called for. I believe that I can safely say that even though, just before I was allowed the opportunity to speak again, I took the government to task for what I consider not to be the right way to handle certain matters, I don't think anyone of them by now take what I say to be on a personal level because it is not. As many arguments as the Leader of Government Business and I have had, he still boasts to his friends how he has me where he wants me because I still cook for him but nevertheless there is no shame there.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to say a special and sincere thank you to the people of the district of George Town for having given me the great privilege to be one of their representatives for the past year. I, too, like others, will probably realise that perfection is not a part of my artillery but I can say—and I can look anyone in the eye—that whatever I have done as a representative in this parliament has been to the best of my ability and with the total interest of the people not only of the district of George Town but the people of these islands at heart.

I, like others, will be contesting a seat in the general elections. I can echo statements made by others also that it is my intention, as is usual, to deal with the campaign at a level that is easily tolerable. I can promise no one that I won't take government's policies, or lack of, or their actions to task; but it certainly won't be anything personal. I make that distinction because while we may wish for everything to be nice and easy and complementary to each other, that is just simply not the way it works. The truth is while we wish to be co-operative—and I think that is good in its general sense—the fact of the matter is, the system under which we operate calls for the government to be held accountable. As long as I am allowed the privilege to represent the people, once I am sitting where I sit now, that is going to be the way that I operate.

I would like to sincerely say to all members that it has been a privilege to work with each and every one, even when we disagree. I have found this to be the most rewarding learning experience of my life at all times, barring done. Simple conversations with people have given me better perspective of many things that I would not have been afforded the privilege to grasp, if I had not had the opportunity of being here.

I can also say that regardless of what the results are in the upcoming elections, I too, would like to consider each and everyone here today as my friend. I mean that sincerely, because to me friendships will be separated from politics and I think it should be like that.

Again, I want to say a special thank you for your guidance over the years. I wish you God speed. I wish your family and yourself a safe retirement and a happy one. I am certain we will have future encounters, sir. Again, I think, the people of the Brac can be justly proud for the twenty years you have been their representative.

The Speaker: Honourable members I think everyone has spoken and I crave your indulgence to say just a few more words.

I want to thank every honourable member who spoke, for the very kind words said on my behalf. And I could not leave this seat without saying to the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman how much I appreciate the honour they have bestowed upon me in allowing me to serve for five terms in this honourable House. I not only consider and thank you for having voted for me, but for being my friends.

So, honourable members may God richly bless you; I wish for you a good campaign. May God bestow His richest blessings on all the people of the Cayman Islands. God bless the Cayman Islands.

At this time I shall put the question that this honourable House do adjourn sine die. The question is that this House do adjourn sine die. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. This honourable House do now stand adjourned sine die.

AT 9.14 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED SINE DIE.
