Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Just short comments because I spoke on the enacting legislation this morning. This amendment to the regulation is really a consequence of that amendment to the substantive piece of legislation.

The Health Insurance Regulation (2000R) is amended by repealing Regulation 5, and substituting the following. It has to do with healthcare for indigent persons, under 5(1) "The authority shall on behalf of the government and by an administrator appointed by the authority collect each month from each approved provider (a) five dollars of each premium charged by the approved provider under each standard health insurance contract effected by such provider in respect of all insured with no dependants; and (b) Ten dollars of each premium charged by the approved provider under each standard health insurance contract effected by such provider in respect of an insured with dependants."

That has not changed from the old regulation, the change is as follows: "In order to cover medical costs for indigents."

In the old regulation it stated, "The government shall, in order to cover medical costs for indigent uninsurable persons and indigent partially uninsurable persons." So, this amendment was to correct the earlier amendment. This is a consequential amendment as a result of the amendment made earlier to correct the situation in regard to indigent individuals.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak? (Pause) Does any other Member wish to speak? (Pause)

Does the Mover wish to exercise his right of reply? The Honourable Minister for Health Information and Technology?

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, only to thank all Honourable Members for their tacit support to this amending regulation.

The Speaker: I shall put the question. The question is Government Motion No. 9/01, "Be it now therefore resolved that the Health Insurance (Amendment) Regulations 2001, having been laid on the Table of this Honourable House, be affirmed by the Legislative Assembly pursuant to the provisions of section 19(2) of the Health Insurance Law 1997.”

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 9/01 PASSED.

The Speaker: I note that the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Human Resources and Culture is not available to move Government Motion No. 7/01 does anyone know if he will be present tomorrow?

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: It is my information that the Honourable Minister will be here tomorrow. Perhaps we can take an early adjournment.

The Speaker: I will entertain a motion for the adjournment of this Honourable House. I had given the Third Elected Member for George Town permission to raise a matter on the adjournment.

Move the adjournment, and then he will make his statement.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 am tomorrow.

The Speaker: The question is that this Honourable House do now adjourn until 10 am tomorrow.

Under Standing Order 11(6), I have agreed to allow the Third Elected Member for George Town to make a statement on an issue of importance to government.

RAISING OF PUBLIC MATTER FOR WHICH GOVERNMENT HAS RESPONSIBILITY

Dr. Frank S. McField: Just to say, Mr. Speaker, that I did as you suggested. I made the Honourable Minister responsible for the issue aware that I would be bringing this issue.

Under Standing Order 11(6) I wish to raise a matter in order to elicit a reply from the Minister responsible for Human Resources.

It has been brought to my attention by employees of the Hyatt Regency Grand Cayman that the Management of this hotel continue to pay gratuities to persons who are not entitled to receive gratuities under the Gratuities Entitlement Regulation 1994. Since this is a breach of the Law, and the Labour Director is charged under Section 72 of the Labour Law with securing the proper observation of this law, I would like to request that the Minister state what appropriate steps have been taken to rectify this situation.

Secondly, what are the concrete strategies being formulated by the Human Resources Department and other Government agencies to assist Caymanian workers who are losing their jobs, particularly in the service industry?

Thirdly, what discussions are taking place with the management of the hotels to see that expatriate workers who are losing their jobs as a result of the slowdown are assisted with repatriation money?

I hope that the Minister responsible, if not at this time at least before the House adjourns for this Meeting, gives some type of response to these very important concerns.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: As I mentioned earlier, the Member is off to a very important meeting, however, it is my understanding that he will be back here in the morning. I would ask the Third Elected Member for George Town to table that statement so that I can get a copy to pass on to the Minister of Education.

Dr. Frank S. McField: I so table this document.

The Speaker: So ordered.

A motion for the adjournment has been moved. Those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AT 4.10 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED
UNTIL 10 AM THURSDAY, 27 SEPTEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
THURSDAY
27 SEPTEMBER 2001
10.38 AM
Eleventh Sitting

The Speaker: Good morning.

I will invite the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Legal Administration to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Let us pray:

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.40 am

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER OF MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have received apologies for absence from the Honourable First Official Member and the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Women's Affairs, Youth and Sports, and from the Honourable Minister for Health and Information Technology.

QUORUM

The Speaker: I call to the attention of Honourable Members that it is your responsibility to provide a quorum for the House. If Members have to be absent they should ensure that there are eight Members sitting in the Chamber.

Questions to Honourable Ministers and Members. Question 123 stands in the name of the Elected Member for East End.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MINISTERS AND MEMBERS

QUESTION NO. 123

No. 123: Mr. V. Arden McLean asked the Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs if the post of Head of the Financial Reporting Unit (FRU) has been civilianised, that is, removed from under the command of the Commissioner of Police.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: The post was civilianised and removed from the command of the Commissioner of Police on 3 September 2001.

The Head of the Financial Reporting Unit is accountable to the Honourable Attorney General.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Can the Member indicate if there has been a change in the individual who fills that post? Has that person been removed from under the police, or is there a new civilian individual filling the post as head of FRU?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: The same individual who held the post that previously existed under the Commissioner of Police has now been appointed to the civilian post of head of the FRU.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Can the Member tell us the process for a civilian to be in command of members of the police force?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: While this Financial Reporting Unit is now headed by a civilian and while there are members of the unit who are police officers, those police officers will not fall under the command of the head of the unit for the purposes of the Police Law. Those officers have been seconded to the unit to carry out duties within the unit.

As long as those duties requested by the head of the unit are consistent with what the officers would normally do under the auspices of the Police Law, it is not expected to create a problem. However, as a result of this civilianisation, the Commissioner of Police for the purposes of command, discipline and administration has designated an inspector. This person is his senior officer among that cadre of police officers, as the officer in charge for purposes of command and discipline.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Can the Member explain the reasoning behind this decision? In my opinion that is quite confusing. We now have a department with a civilian responsible for police members and if their duties are police duties, they are not responsible to him; but if their duties are civilian duties, they report to him. It seems rather confusing. The public will not know whether or not they are police as it will depend on what they are doing. Can we get some explanation behind the reasoning on this? Are we to expect to see more of this in the future?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: That question goes to the core of the unit and would perhaps have been better addressed as a question to my colleague at the unit. However, as I understand it, as I have understood it since listening to the discussions that took place in May in Finance Committee, is that the unit is not simply a unit of police officers. While it had its ancestry in the police department the RCIP, the evolution of the unit in the context of all else that has been happening in the realm of fiscal reforms (in terms of compliance with international requests and obligations) has necessitated that the range of skills within the unit be broadened.

As such against that background it is not only here but perhaps in some other jurisdictions. I have heard that the Bahamas has also gone this route of heading up what is a multi-disciplinary, multi-skilled unit (including the skill of a police officer), with some other other than a serving police officer.

All I can say is that as I understand it, the rationale for heading it up with someone other than a police officer is linked to the fact that it is not simply a police unit but a unit of assorted skills.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Now that it falls under the ambit of the Attorney General, does the reasoning go along the same lines? We have a police officer's position civilianised and instead of getting someone from the legal profession who would have been capable to take that position, we have now turned that police officer into a civilian. Where have the individual's credentials changed in order to now be under the Attorney General?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: I have no real knowledge of what the practice in other jurisdictions is with staffing as they evolve. All I can say is that it is my understanding the Bahamas has reached this point. I do not know who heads their unit.

I can understand Members questioning in terms of making this transition. However, all I can say is that from the information that has been provided to me, it was seemingly the view of His Excellency that this individual was the best suited to continue to head up the unit for this period of time. The fact that the post was being civilianised did not preclude that preference on his part.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: This fractured command structure outlined by the Member has, I believe, been a source of concern both of Members of this House and the Commissioner of Police himself. In an answer to a previous question a few meetings ago, the Commissioner expressed that concern. Indeed, His Excellency the Governor wrote to this House to explain that a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) was being developed that would outline the responsibilities and the way in which this unit would function.

I wonder if the Member could advise us if this Memorandum of Understanding has been developed and implemented and if so, would he outline this Memorandum of Understanding?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: It is my understanding that the MOU is in draft form and will need to be amended to reflect this change in the head of the unit. I expect that that will be done fairly shortly. I have not seen the MOU and am really unable to . . . I think the last part of the question was asking for an outline of the MOU. I have not seen it so I cannot provide that information.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Can the Member say whether or not the delay of the development in implementation of this FRU is related to continued concerns of the Commissioner of Police about this structure? I say this because we did see the draft MOU three or four months ago and it would appear that it has not progressed much since then. Can the Member respond to that?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: I am not aware of any ongoing representation by the Commissioner of Police in respect of this MOU, which would have been the cause of it not being finalised. Having said that, I am obviously not aware of everything the Commissioner does or writes. In my dealings with him, I have not been made aware of any ongoing representation on his part.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: I wonder then if the Member can say when this MOU will be completed and implemented.

The Speaker: Before calling on the Member to reply, I would appreciate a motion for the suspension of Standing Order 23(7) and (8) so that Question Time can continue.

The Honourable Minister for Planning, Communications and Works.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

[Moved by the Honourable Minister for Planning, Communications and Works]

QUESTION PUT. AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23 (7) AND (8) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW QUESTION TIME TO CONTINUE BEYOND 11 AM.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: I mentioned earlier that the draft requires an amendment to reflect this change in the nature of the head. I would expect that that change can be effected within the next couple of weeks. How soon thereafter concurrence will be reached between the parties to it or to be enforced I really cannot say at this time.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly: Can the Member say, since the post has been filled by an expatriate, whether the policy of advertising it locally before recruitment and filling of the said post will be followed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: That policy remains in place. I am advised by the Personnel department that in the case of this post, the appointment to the post was made on the instruction of the Governor under whose authority the policy is obviously issued. No, the post was not advertised.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly: Am I then to understand that the policy to advertise locally to give our Caymanians and residents an opportunity to fill these very significant positions is only a policy insofar as the Governor seeks to override it?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs, I think that can be termed an opinion. However, if you wish to answer it you may.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: Only to say that I think the Member is entitled to that view.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly: First, to thank the Member for being so candid and providing another reason why it is ever so important to have Caymanians in such high posts in the civil service.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Are there any Caymanians in place for succession planning?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: It is my understanding that in the current establishment there is not currently a deputy to this individual. However, the organisational issues of understudy and succession will be addressed in due course.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: I think during this meeting the Temporary First Official Member, in replying to a supplementary asked by me, stated that police officers are required to retire around 55. If they were hired on for a further tour of duty, it was predicated on their being physically fit. I wonder how old the individual in that position is now and was he required to pass a physical examination prior to his contract being extended?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: I thought the information I had with me indicated the officer's actual age. However, I am not able to say. My recollection is that he is perhaps in the vicinity of 60 years of age.

In respect to the medical requirement, anyone on contractual terms is required to furnish a medical report assessing him or her to be in good health. My understanding is that his appointment, which was recently affected, is subject to him furnishing such a report and that is due shortly.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Can the Member say if this contract is one that attracts COS and inducement allowance?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: The contract does include COS. In response to the substantive question I answered the other day, obviously it is not one of the posts that attract an inducement allowance.

The Speaker: I will allow two additional supplementaries.

The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Having heard that answer, we are being told that contracts with COS continue to be awarded—contrary to the Motion assented to by this House in May.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: I do not recall and am most certain that I did not give this House any indication that the practice of awarding COS had ceased.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End, final supplementary.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: I thank the Member for that answer and I do appreciate that he did not tell this Honourable House that COS had ceased. My question is: Contrary to a motion brought in this House and assented to by the full House in Finance Committee to cease it, is it continuing even though that Motion was assented to?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Acting First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan W. F. Ebanks: Obviously we have two facts: (1) the practice is continuing; and (2) as the Member has stated, a motion was passed and assented to by the House. How we link those together, whether it is even though or in spite of, those are facts.

The Speaker: Moving on to question 124, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 124

No. 124: Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development to give (a) the total amount of revenue collected by Government since 1 January 2001; (b) the total Government expenditure since 1 January 2001; and (c) the current total amount of debt owing by Government.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Total recurrent revenue and loan receipts collected from 1 January to 31 August 2001 was $233.7 million consisting of recurrent revenue of $204.4 million; local loan receipts of $17.8 million and loan receipts for Capital Development Fund of $11.5 million.

Total expenditure from 1 January to 31 August 2001 was $218.1 million consisting of recurrent expenditure of $175.5 million, statutory expenditure of $27.3 million; capital acquisitions of $1.5 million and capital development expenditure of $13.8 million.

The current total amount of debt owing by government as at 31 August 2001 was $128.2 million consisting of public debt of $113.5 million and self-financing loans of $14.7 million.

Before the Member raises her supplementary, I would like to draw Members' attention to the schedule attached to the answer. I would like to point out some of the relevant figures.

If Members would look at the very first section of the schedule, the top section, under the title "Revenue" and cast their eyes across to the very last column, column 4, towards the indented reference at the bottom "Recurrent Revenue" it can be seen (as shown in the budget for 2001) that the budgeted revenue for the year was $311,256,000. Based on that, the profile budget (the expected amount to be collected up through the end of August), the very first column, it shows that $206,435,000 should have been collected. It can be seen, looking at column 2, that the actual collection through the end of August was $204,416,000 which shows a slight under-performance of $2,021,000 (column 3).

I will just point out some of the significant figures: In this 'Revenue' column, forming part of the $311,256,000 is the item of "duty," which covers customs import duty and stamp duty. That amount budgeted for the year is $138,241,000 (the first item in column 4).

It can be seen, based on what is expected to be collected as at the end of August, it was $87,861,000. The actual collection up through the end of August, however, was $80,711,000 which shows an under performance of approximately $7.1 million.

The second item that is labelled as "tax," shows that the budget is $24,548,000 (second item). The amount to be collected up through August, based on the budgetary profile. That is not just a question of taking this $24,548,000 and dividing it by 12, and taking two-thirds of that. It is a question of taking into account seasonal factors in terms of different factors affecting the various revenues that are paid at given points in the year. The amount profiled or targeted was $18,181,000. The actual collected through the end of August was $16,935,000.

Members can pick up on the trend going down that column. However, it can be seen that in the area of fees, the amount targeted to be collected is $92,098,000. Based on the profile budget or expected collection through end of August, the amount targeted was $61,281,000. The amount collected up through the end of August was $68,015,000. This gave a favourable over and amount that budgeted by $6.7 million.

When these figures are netted out, that is how the $2,021,000 is arrived at.

The main reason for this is in the area of company fees. We have had a very favourable performance in that area in terms of the number of companies that have been registered.

We are watching this very closely through the end of the year. As Members can appreciate, the bulk of the registration takes place towards the beginning of the year, or within the first four months when annual renewals are taking place. The rest of the revenue generated is normally based on new companies that come onto the register plus new services provided by the Registrar General's Office.

The item falling immediately below "Recurrent Revenue" can be seen as "Loan Receipts and Capital Acquisitions." Members will note in the fourth column the portion of the $55.5 million that was programmed to go into operating revenue was $30.9 million. Of that amount, it can be seen from the second column, (which means actual spent through the end of August), was $17.8 million out of that. So, between August and the end of the year, there would be approximately $13.1 million remaining to be drawn down against that loan.

Turning to the expenditure item itself. I will ask Members to look towards the bottom section of the page (two-thirds of the way down) and I am just taking the recurrent expenditure item. At the end of column 4, under "Expenditure" you will see that the budgeted recurrent expenditure is $276.3 million. Based on this and following the trend which is normally based on the analysis taking into account activities over the past three years that is normally rolled up and taking into account the immediate past year, we would be looking at 1998, 1999 and 2000. Based on that, the profile or projected Treasury expenditure through the end of August was $179.1 million. Actual expenditure through the end of August was $175.5 million, which shows expenditure is running $3.6 million below the profile.

We next come to the column which follows and that deals with "Statutory Expenditure." The profile shows that the amount of $50.9 million has been budgeted for the year to be spent. Up through the end of August, $27.3 million has been spent against a profile budget of $32.7 million.

I should point out that statutory expenditure is normally programmed on known expenditure that will be taking place throughout the year, so it is unlikely that Government will save on that item by the end of the year. However, there is a matter that is under consideration by Government dealing with the refinancing of the debt through a bond issue and the Leader of Government Business has spoken to this on TV recently. This may affect the final year end pay-out if that item materialises before the end of the year. It would be premature now to go into detail concerning that because that is a matter being dealt with at this time.

We look at "Capital Acquisition." Members will note that the budget for this year is $4.7 million. Based on the profile, $2,334,000 should have been spent. The actual expenditure through the end of August is approximately $1.5 million. The Government is looking at this item very carefully and if savings can be realised against this item by curtailing expenditure through the end of the year, this will be done in an attempt to affect a savings.

When we take recurrent expenditure up through the end of August of $175.5 million, statutory expenditure of $27.3 million; capital acquisitions of $1.4 million, total expenditure amounts to $204.3 million. This gives a surplus of $17.9 million. However, I should point out that included in the funds available (up top) of $222.2 million, that is a combination of loan receipts plus recurrent revenue. The surplus of $17.9 million takes into account the drawdown through 31 August. So in effect, this surplus is not one that arises from local revenue or a surplus of revenue over expenditure, it takes into account the loan receipts.

Therefore, when we take into account the deficit of $10.2 million brought forward, it can be seen that the surplus shown at the end of August of $7.8 million, but this takes into account the receipt arising from loan.

As Members will recognise, the question also asks for projects though the end of the year. Members would realise that while this would have been possible under normal circumstances, this has been impacted by the events of 11 September. At this time the Government is consulting widely with various organisations in the private sector, several meetings have been held since Monday up through last night, and further meetings will be continuing to get a feel in terms of what the immediate short-term future is for the Cayman Islands and the impact that will have upon the economy. We are looking in terms of all the variables that are affecting government revenue, what is affecting the economy as a whole and all of these will be taken into account in developing the 2002 Budget and the forecasts through the end of the year.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly: I thank the Member for such a detailed and informed response.

If I could draw his attention to the surplus deficit which was carried forward. Is that $7 million still available funds?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: This is showing the surplus, but it would not necessarily reconcile with the cash at bank. We have a situation of deposits and advances and the differential between those two figures. However, this is what is showing in terms of the surplus as at the end of August.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly: Regardless of the composition of this aggregate sum, there should be no real justification for the delay in the civil service salary next month.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: As the Member will appreciate, the decision of the Government to delay the payment of salaries to civil servants was taking into account the revenue flows through the end of October. As Members are aware, the Government must observe the overdraft limit at the bank. This is a matter that will have to be brought back to Finance Committee, but Members will appreciate that it drops from the $15 million, or I think the last time it was considered it was said that it would be taken under review.

Based on the trend, the forecast by Treasury (and they usually take a very conservative position, and that is the correct position to take), extrapolating receipts forward through the end of October, it was seen that based on the amount that will have to be expended for payroll that it would be advisable to wait until the last working day in October, feeling at that time that sufficient funds will be on hand to satisfy the payroll and other obligations. However, this matter was discussed by Executive Council last Tuesday. I will be talking to the Accountant General who is presently off ill. When she gets back to office we will look very carefully and take into account developments and what seems to lie ahead with an attempt to revert, if possible, to the original pay date of 24 October, as agreed at the beginning of the year.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Anthony S. Eden: On Monday I spoke regarding the estimate of four working days from the original pay date to the 31. Can the Member say if he feels this would be sufficient time to accumulate enough revenue to pay civil servants?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development, I think he may be asking for an opinion, but if you wish to answer, go ahead.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I cannot give an answer immediately because the analysis on that was done by the Deputy Financial Secretary, who was the acting Financial Secretary while I was on vacation. The matter was looked at based on the position that he reported to Executive Council on the 29. I should mention that, like me he also takes a very conservative position. I will have to wait until he gets back in office (because he is presently overseas with the team meeting with the FCO on matters of which Members are aware); to find out what his views were on this. I will take those into account. I will also take into account the views of the Accountant General. I will take into account further projections through the end of October and this will be discussed further with Members of Executive Council and if need be, Members of the Legislative Assembly in order to come up to an informed position. However, at this point in time I would vouch that if . . . this also was done in terms of when that consideration was given to ensure that the overdraft limit was not exceeded.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr.: I just want to thank the Member for his detailed response. Members of this Parliament, as well as members of the public are concerned over the financial position of government. The statement concerning the possible delay of civil servants' salaries added to that concern.

Looking at the figures provided up through August, it appears to me that there has been good and prudent financial management and spending, and prioritising by government. Any business person would know that it is hard to control revenue, but when you see that revenue is down, you can control expenditure. As we see, it has been done. It appears to be—

The Speaker: You will turn this into a question please.

Mr. Cline Glidden Jr.: Yes Sir.

It appears to be a better position than we were in last year, better than what we expected it to be. Can the Member say why there appears to be an increase in grants and contributions and subsidies? I notice a bit of reduction in the expenses in other areas, except in personal emoluments.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The main item that forms a part of this expenditure over and above the profile budget of $27.9 million, the actual expenditure in that area shows approximately $30 million, and therefore, an over-expenditure of $2,066,000.

The main item has to do with the grant to Cayman Airways of approximately $4.6 million on an annual basis and the payment for the last quarter had to be made much earlier to Cayman Airways. However, what I would invite the Member to note is that although we have a profile budget and the actual expenditure seems to be running above that, the control in place is the budget limit of $43.5 million. I should point out that a circular will soon be going out to civil servants based on recent developments, or controlling officers, to try to keep all expenditure to a minimum and only what is necessary in order . . . taking into account that it is likely that we will see a reduction in revenue flows through the end of the year, based on current developments.

However, it is not a question of attempting to make an unfavourable prediction, but trying to get as close to reality as possible.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Can the Member indicate under what head of revenue is the increase in departure tax reflected?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The bulk of that increase would go to the Civil Aviation Authority. As the Member is aware, the statutory authorities normally make a payover to Government at the end of the year, based on budgeted contributions. A small portion of that comes to Government and that would be included under item 40 - 100, which is a tax. I cannot give the specifics in terms of how much out of the increase has already been factored into the revenue collected up through 31 August.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: I think someone mentioned the civil service pay. In the Member's reply he said his concern was keeping the overdraft in check. Can the Member say, in the interest of paying civil servants on time, if it is necessary for Finance Committee to reconvene and extend the overdraft facility back to $15 million?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: That is a good question. That is a possibility, but I cannot say this morning that it is necessary to do that. We have to take into account the developments over the next two weeks. This will inform the Government as to likely trends through the end of the year and this will be looked at.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank S. McField: The question I wanted to ask from the beginning was, had the Government been able to consult with the civil service in regard to the pay schedule and what was the result of their consultation?

The Speaker: That is somewhat outside the ambit of this question, but if you wish to you may answer, Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: No decision has been taken by the Government up to this time to vary the salaries of civil servants. As Members can appreciate, the bulk of the recurrent expenditure is in the area of personal emoluments. This is one that will have to be looked at in time. However, no decision has been taken to vary that expenditure.

When we look at the year 2001 over the year 2000, the increase for the year 2001 just on the direct payout of personal emoluments will be $17.8 million over the year 2000. This takes into account the increase that was brought forward into 2001. However, when we look in terms of these incremental increases and the significant, all areas of recurrent expenditure, which includes personal emoluments and other charges will have to be examined in time against the likely revenue flows.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Anthony S. Eden: I was looking for expenditure on capital development. Which areas are included in that where funds have been spent on capital development or transfers?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Capital development details have not been included as a part of the schedule handed out to Members. As the Member will note, the budget for capital expenditure for the year 2001 is $28.2 million. Against that, the profile, which shows the expenditure through the end of August, is $13.8 million. The actual expenditure through the end of August is $13.7 million. That is the expenditure up through the end of August.

As I mentioned earlier, a portion of the loan relating to that expenditure has been drawn down. This information has been given in the answer.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Can the Member say why only 54 percent of the budgeted amount for 2001 on line 58-000, "other statutory expenditure," has actually been spent through August as opposed to 66 2/3 which you would normally expect. I wondered if there were any items coming up for payment in the last quarter of the year that would now bring us up to the tune of $23 million to come up to the budgeted amount.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: As the Member pointed out, payments are made on based on scheduled arrangements. The bulk of the payments against loans will be coming up towards the end of this month. This normally brings the expenditure in line with the profile budget.

As I mentioned earlier, it is likely that the actual expenditure through the end of the year will be what has been budgeted.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly: I think I am correct in saying that there are 11 line items for the revenue items. I wonder if my conclusion is correct that in ten of the 11 areas where we see under-performance of collection in revenue represents some 90 percent failure rate.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: It is not a question of failure rate, Mr. Speaker. I can appreciate the views of the Member on this, but when we look . . . I pointed out the major items of variance when I gave the information before. We have movement up and down. I think we have to look at the overall position, which shows that revenue is down $2,021,000 under budget.

However, concerns must be expressed in regard to the large items such as import duty and package tax. When we look at the area of stamp duty, this is a matter where earlier discussions with the Lands & Survey Department indicated that could be down in the region of $2 million. We are looking at that very closely.

What we have in front of us will have to be taken as a given. It is not a question of failure rate because we have movements up and down. If that is the case, we could say that we have a major success item in the area of fees. I would not want to translate this into failure rate by the Government.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: The Member spoke earlier to his concern about the cost of personal emoluments. I wish to invite the Third Official Member's attention to three of the strategies that underpinned the draft budget in relation to personal emoluments and to ask him whether he can confirm that these strategies have been implemented and are being abided by.

- Curtailing all new services except for new staff at the Bodden Town, Savannah, George Town, John A. Cumber, and Red Bay Primary and Lighthouse schools and staff for the Family Protection Unit and the Financial Reporting Unit.
- Removing the amounts for vacant posts from the 2001 Budget except where recruitment is already actively underway.
- Implementing a moratorium on recruitment for the remainder of 2001 except for absolutely 'essential services' staff for new capital projects and new leased sites which come on stream in 2001 and where there are direct revenue or expenditure blocking offsets.

Can the Member confirm that these are being complied with?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I am not in a position to confirm that the strategies are being fully complied with because in separate answers given by the Acting First Official Member, I think last week, it was pointed out where several new posts had been created and other developments have occurred in the area of human resources. In an attempt to address this, it is known that His Excellency the Governor has invited two consultants here from the Civil Service College in the UK to carry out a review of the civil service and to do a report. I understand a more detailed review will follow. This is in an attempt to link the necessary actions in order to try to move in the direction of achieving the outcomes being sought under the strategies.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: I appreciate the difficulty the Member has in responding. Perhaps I can make it somewhat easier for him if I ask him to give this House an indication as to how many new staff has been recruited by the civil service since the passing of the budget.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I do not have that information immediately at hand. However, I think this information was given by the Acting First Official Member last week.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Can the Member provide the House with the accounts payable as at 31 August, as we know one of the weaknesses of a cash accounting system (as recently articulated during debate on the Public Management and Finance Bill) is that a lot of the activities of a current period could be hidden under "accounts payable" and paid during a later period. To get a true reflection of the activity between January and August 31 2001, it would be helpful if we could get a rough estimate as to what is left outstanding to be paid for that particular period.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: To respond, as at the end of August it shows that transactions processed through the system but not yet paid amounted to $5.4 million.

The Member mentioned the deficiency of the cash system and I do recognise this. However, there is another side to accounts payable and that is called accounts receivable. While focus is made on accounts payable, recognition will also have to be given to accounts receivable. Under the new accrual accounting system, it is a question of the revenue that is earned. This is what will be reflected in the financials and not necessarily what is actually collected. The statement of cash flow will show the cash position at the end of a given period, but it will take into account payables and receivables. That balance will have to be arrived at in order to make a fair assessment of the Government's financial position.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: I appreciate the answer provided by the Member and appreciate that accounts payable has to be balanced against accounts receivable, I was just following the trend of what was said earlier, where we continuously look at last year's position and only look at the accounts payable component inherited and not the accounts receivable.

My question now is on statutory expenditure, a shortfall of some $5.4 million in payments out under that expenditure head. The statutory expenditure, by its nature is easily forecast because of its pre-arranged commitments. I am a bit confused as to how the profile budgeting for items such as pension and loan commitments that would be covered under statutory expenditure would be out by such a magnificent amount of $5.425 million and I would ask him to provide this House with an explanation.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: As that Member can appreciate, most of the payments made by the Government take place on a quarterly basis. The information we have in front of us is what is generated by the system. This does not mean the Government is delinquent in terms of satisfying obligations. All of the amounts due in terms of statutory obligations in respect of pensions would already have been paid because that is a part of the monthly payroll.

The next bulk of payment to be made would be against loans due and payable. The bulk of those will be coming up at the end of September. Normally toward the end of September the Government will be billed by Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) and also based on payment schedules in respect of local banks that payments will be sent out.

This is why I drew attention earlier to say this was a matter of the scheduling of payments because there is no point pre-paying those amounts because the schedule of payments has to be observed. The Government holds to this schedule.

If the Government ever finds itself in a position where it is not able to satisfy statutory obligations, it would mean having to come to Finance Committee immediately because statutory obligations take precedence over recurrent ... over all other expenditure because these are payments due and payable under Law.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: I thank the Member for his comprehensive answer on that statutory expenditure item. I am still a bit confused on that particular item because by the nature of profile budgeting, the figure stated as at 31 August 2001 for the budgeted amount of $32,705,000 would have reflected the fact that that was what the Government would have envisaged paying up until 31 August, given the schedule of its payments, and would not have included payments they would have envisaged paying at the end of September 2001. That is the reason we use profile rather than, as the Member indicated earlier, profiling it by dividing it by the number of months and multiplying it by eight months.

If we look at the budgeted amount for the year of $50.144 million we can see there is a degree of profiling that resulted at the end of August 2001, having $32.75 million. I am still puzzled as to why the profile budget would be $5.4 million short as compared to the actual.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I do not think the Member should have a difficulty in terms of understanding the concept of profiling.

Let me use an example. Let us say an entity has $3 million to pay at the end of March. The profile would suggest that provision would have to be made for that payment. If you look at the financials of the entity at the end of January, naturally under the profile you would expect to see $1 million being provided.

Now, if you look at the profile at the end of February, you would expect to see $2 million being provided. If you look at the profile at the end of March, you should see $3 million being provided. Let us say the payment is to be made at 5 March and you take the financials, or you strike a balance as at 31 March, you would see a profile of $3 million, but you would not see any direct payment being made. You would see profiled $3 million, actual payment zero. At the end of April, you would see when the disbursement is made during the course of March and this is what you will have to do leading up to when the disbursement is made. To actually recognise that there is an obligation accruing and the system has been programmed in this manner, that obligation would not be recognised ... would be to be operating a system that would not be necessarily transparent and reflect the obligations that are due and payable by the entity.

The Speaker: I am going to allow four additional supplementaries.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: I better get my questions in while the getting is good!

I asked a question in this similar vein, and then I got bumped out of the line. On this same item of statutory expenditure, can the Member say whether or not the loan drawdown of the CI Government (which I take it happened sometime in the July/August area), is what is causing this amount to look out? In other words, because it was drawn down later in the year, even though you have done your profiles, those payments will then be scheduled to start in the latter part of the year, the interest would be accruing and paid in the latter half of the year. Is that what is causing the actual expenditure to be so much under what is in the profile budget?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: It is not a question of the drawdowns made against the loans for the year because the principal repayments will not start until the year 2002 and the interest as and when payable during the course of the year will be met from the existing provisions.

However, more precisely, as I mentioned to Members, the profiling takes into account trends over the last three years. The profile we have against the budget for statutory expenditure takes into account the trends for 1998, 1999 and 2000. The percentage disbursement up through the end of August is taken as a percentage of the actual budgeted amount of $50.1 million. This gives the profile budget of $32.7 million. This is why we have this figure.

When I gave the initial response to the question, I pointed out to Members that the focus should actually be on the actual expenditure up through the end of August. It is not a question that the Government is deficient in its payment, but this takes into account the percentage disbursements based on the actual expenditure in respect of statutory expenditure for the years 1998, 1999 and 2000.

It is not a material situation where we have an under-performance of $5.4 million or that it means anything is wrong. I will assure Members that all loan payments, obligations, against existing loans up through the end of August and all payments in respect of pensions and other statutory obligations have been satisfied.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: I asked earlier about the requirement of the overdraft and maybe the need to increase it. I think the Member said that may be a possibility. In the interest of the ripple effect this memo of postponing the civil servants' pay has caused throughout this country, I wonder if the Member can say if he is receptive to moving ahead with Finance Committee. That is, to increase this overdraft facility so that we can get out of this business of talking about the country being broke and creating ripples and waves within the community.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The Member has raised a very useful and relevant question. I am quite receptive and the Government is quite receptive. It takes a bit of time to make an assessment of what is likely to happen in the foreseeable future. For example, on Monday, the Government met with the Council of Associations and got their views as to what the impact of the event on 11 September is likely to have on the Cayman Islands, and to take recommendations from that body.

On Tuesday afternoon, after Executive Council, the Government met with representatives of the Cayman Islands Tourism Association. The first meeting of a Fiscal Advisory Group was held to take into account recommendations made by the group, formed under the Chair of Mr. Bobby Bodden . . . It is a question of taking on board everyone's views in order to get a determination as to what is likely to lay ahead of us.

Yesterday, the Government met with the heads of the clearing banks and the Executive Committee of the Bankers' Association. I am saying this to tell the Member that, yes, the Government is receptive. However, the Government in coming to Finance Committee would not only be seeking to keep the overdraft limit in the region of $15 million, but to give a sense based on the information gleaned from these discussions as to what the likely end of year position, or the next nine months for the Cayman Islands, is likely to be and what remedial action is being taken at this time.

For example, in one of the meetings held on Monday, one merchant said that he had noted that imports were down by about 20 percent. If this is the case, that will have an effect on revenue. On the other hand, we see where excellent performance is taking place in company registration.

We will have to see what areas of the economy are performing to expectation, what areas are performing over expectation and wherever declines are occurring in those areas, to balance one against the other to get a sense in terms of what the end of year position will be, such as at the end of October, so that Members of the Legislative Assembly can be apprised on an ongoing basis as to developments as they are occurring. At this point, it is not a question of just holding Finance Committee every three months; the Government will have to be apprised on a weekly basis. This is why meetings are being held on a regular basis, for Members of the Legislative Assembly to be consulted on a regular basis so that corrective action can be taken until we get ourselves out of the immediate situation that the economy is in.

I must say that all of the meetings held with the Council of Associations, the representatives of the Tourism Association, the Fiscal Advisory Group and heads of the Clearing Banks, have been very positive, saying that they welcome the initiatives, this approach by the government to work together with the various sectors of the community as a whole in order to try to best manage the Cayman Islands economy.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly: With reference to part (b) of your substantive answer, I can find by way of cross reference to the schedule, the recurrent expenditure of $175.5 million, the statutory expenditure of $27.3 million and the capital acquisition of $1.5 million. However, I was unable to find the entry for capital development expenditure of $13.8 million. Can you direct my attention to it? If it is not included, what impact will it have on the surplus deficit amount now reflected as $7.71 million?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: As the Member is aware, as I mentioned earlier this item is not included as a part of the schedule. The capital expenditure for the year, which has been budgeted as $28.2 million, has been funded by a balance brought forward of $3,650,000. The Member is aware of the loan of $55.5 million. There was a portion of $24.5 million allocated to the capital development fund.

The total expenditure budgeted for the year is $28.2 million, but that has been revised downward by the PWD to $25.5 million.

Taking into account what is being projected at the end of the year is that this account will have a positive balance of $2.7 million. I can give this information to the Member after we are through with Question Time. However, as the Member is aware, this is not a part of the surplus and deficit account.

Some time ago a decision was taken by the Government to establish a separate account for the capital development fund. Therefore, whatever surplus or unexpended balance remains against this account is normally carried forward into the succeeding year. So, it will not have a negative or adverse effect on the surplus and deficit account and neither will that balance be used in order to reflect a further increase in respect of the surplus and deficit account because it is not transferable.

The Speaker: Final supplementary.

The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: My question goes back to the main 2001 Budget policy decision that has been discussed quite a bit during the past week. Since it is almost time for another budget, and we will probably be getting another policy, I wondered who defines, sets out or agrees to this policy. Is it just the Government, meaning Executive Council, or is it the Governor in Council which would include the Governor because as to what weight this policy holds will depend on whether or not the person is totally responsible for the civil service, namely, His Excellency the Governor, is in agreement with this policy decision.

If we have a policy that states clearly the decisions made curtailing and removing posts and implementing a moratorium, but then the person responsible for doing all the hiring and firing in the civil service is not on board with that agreement, then we will know the policy decision is not worth too much.

Can the Member say who decides and agrees on that policy just so I will know how much credence to give the next policy when it comes forward?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The policies set out in the 2001 Budget were agreed by the Governor in Council. Although His Excellency is the head of the civil service, he cannot implement this policy single-handedly. It means the entire civil service working together to achieve the outcomes being sought.

I will invite the Fourth Elected Member from West Bay and all Members to look very carefully at the policies set out as a part of any budget address and to hold the Government accountable to the implementation of the policy initiatives. I know the Government is very concerned, because up until recently this has driven by the Leader of Government Business. It is one that will have to be looked at very carefully and a concerted effort made on the part of everyone in order to follow through to achieve the outcomes because the increase in personal emoluments over the year 2000 is $17.8 million. With the new revenue measures put in place for the year 2001, they have been budgeted to yield $19.8 million, just $2 million over and above just the increase in personal emoluments alone. We know that increases have occurred in areas of other charges.

The country cannot continue to sustain the level of personal emoluments because when we look at how much money is used up, when more than the required portion goes into personal emoluments; it creates a shortage in terms of funds available in other areas and what should also be going into the capital development fund. This is why the Government has to resort to borrowing to make ends meet.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning. I would recommend that we continue until 12.45, rather than taking a break.

Moving on to Statements. A statement by the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Human Resources and Culture arising out of the Raising of a Public Matter, in accordance with Standing Order 11(6), by the Third Elected Member for George Town at the adjournment of the Sitting held Wednesday 26 September 2001.

STATEMENTS BY MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

GRATUITIES AT THE HYATT REGENCY GRAND CAYMAN AND LAYOFFS IN THE TOURISM INDUSTRY

(Reply to Public Matter raised under SO 11(6))

Hon. Roy Bodden: Yesterday, Wednesday, 26 September 2001, the Third Elected Member for George Town raised some questions regarding gratuities at the Hyatt and strategies effected as a result of the current economic downturn and layoffs in the hospitality industry. In so doing, he requested the Minister's response.

This is the response of the Minister responsible for Education, Human Resources and Culture and, by inference, the government.

First, let me attempt to deal with the gratuity situation at the Hyatt. It is true that this matter has been brought to my attention and after consultation I have taken the decision to write to the Hyatt's general manager, inviting him to discuss this matter with myself and the director of labour. The letter, which will be hand delivered, is designed to engage the concerned parties in a spirit of dialogue that is devoid of rhetoric, arrogance and insensitivity.

Given the history surrounding this issue, and in keeping with the objectives of arbitration, conciliation and mediation in employment matters, as Minister I wish to avoid making the mistake of responding to the immediacy of the problem by sacrificing our long term objectives and ambitions for the short term glamour of a false success.

There are important lessons to be learned from the recent unsuccessful prosecution of the Hyatt in what has now become the infamous "Gratuity Case." No constructive purpose can be served by resorting to litigation under the same or similar circumstances. Additionally, considerable efforts by the Permanent Secretary and me, as Minister, were expended in preventing acrimony and recrimination between some of the parties concerned.

It certainly serves the best interest of the Hyatt authorities to accept my invitation to settle this matter amicably and I look forward to an early positive reply from that establishment.

I turn now to the challenges facing the community as a result of the unfortunate events in the United States on 11 September 2001. These are challenges for which appropriate response must be crafted by us all—by government, because it is the Government's responsibility to ensure a level playing field; by the private sector, because this is a partnership and as such both private and public sector will have to make sacrifices in this case.

Over the past week the Government has embarked upon a series of discussions with various private sector entities—the Bankers' Association, the Council of Associations, and a high level delegation including representatives from the hospitality industry as well as representatives from other areas of the private sector.

While these discussions are for the most part still ongoing, I can say that the objective is to arrive at a national strategy. The essence of this strategy will be to present an economic package designed to stimulate the local economy while at the same time cushioning the fallout as a result of layoffs.

As of this time, it is apparent that the layoffs are primarily in the hospitality industry. Figures available to me as Minister indicate that as of Monday 24 September 2001, there were some 300 persons laid off.

The breakdown of these are as follows:

Layoffs

| Establishments                      | Caymanian/ Status | Work Permit              | Total |

The Government is concerned about this obviously grave situation and the Ministry of Education, Human Resources and Culture is exercising its authority to ensure that Caymanians are not disadvantaged under these circumstances.

With reference to the repatriation of workers from foreign jurisdictions, the Ministry is not aware of any problems in this area. Most organisations at this point seem to be adopting strategies of extended vacations (unpaid in many instances), reduced working time and other flexible exercises, resorting to layoffs in only the most extreme circumstances.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, as Minister, it is my responsibility to remain proactive, sober and responsible in these times. Cognisance has to be given to the long term objectives of the Government. There is in my opinion, no room to be insensitive, insulting and reactionary.

Considerable effort has been expended to build confidence, respect and a mutuality of interests and it would be most unwise and impolitic of the Government (and by inference, me, as Minister) if I let political expediency, the exigencies of the moment or any other detraction, deter me from the long term vision of an amicable relationship between employer and employee, between private and public sector, in which the Caymanian is guaranteed a fair share.

The Speaker: As this was raised under Standing Order 11(6), there shall be no questions.

Moving on to Government Business, Government Motion No. 7/01 Adoption of the Report of the Committee to Examine the Conditions Relating to the Recruitment of Caymanians into the Teaching Profession.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Human Resources and Culture

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 7/01

ADOPTION OF THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE TO EXAMINE THE CONDITIONS RELATING TO THE RECRUITMENT OF CAYMANIANS INTO THE TEACHING PROFESSION

Hon. Roy Bodden: I beg to move Government Motion No. 7/01, which reads: “BE IT RESOLVED THAT this Honourable House adopts the Report of the Committee to Examine the Conditions Relating to the Recruitment of Caymanians into the Teaching Profession.

The Speaker: Government Motion has been moved; do you wish to speak to it?

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Human Resources and Culture.

Hon. Roy Bodden: Thank you.

This report is the work of a committee established by me, as Minister, on January 25, 2001. I would like to read the terms of the committee’s reference:

“1. To determine how far the present supply of Caymanian Teachers meet the overall demands for teachers within the Education System in Cayman;

“2. To investigate the reason why Caymanian teachers leave the teaching profession, giving attention to the average length of stay and the alternative employment they choose;

“3. To determine ways and means of attracting Caymanians into the teaching profession giving particular attention to male Caymanians; and

“4. In arriving at its conclusions the committee should so structure its schedule as to present an interim report in April with the final report to be presented in to the Ministry of Education, Human Resources and Culture on or before June 30, 2001.”

That Committee was chaired by the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, Mr. Gilbert McLean; Ms. Debra McLaughlin, Principal of John Gray High School was deputy Chairman; Mr. Jonathan Tibbetts, teacher at East End Primary; Miss Vicky Frederick, teacher at East End Primary; Miss Joan West; Mr. Leonard Bodden; Mrs. Lenora Mendoza-Hydes, with Mrs. Edith Pagliacci from the school Inspectorate as advisor.

The Committee, I proudly relate, completed all its work on time. In recognition of this, I crave the Chair’s indulgence to read into the records of this House a letter that I wrote to one local media on May 3. I deem this important for two reasons: the first is that to the best of my knowledge this was the first time an undertaking of this kind had been taken. Secondly, these persons whose names I just called gave of their time for gratis. It must have been taxing on all of them, as they all have full time occupations.

It is therefore important to know that this effort was concluded at no expense to the Government. I wish to record my gratitude to those persons involved, and I place this letter on record in the Hansards of this House as a token of my appreciation, not only of their completion in meeting the terms of reference, but also the excellent way in which the report has been tabled.

“I write to publicly commend the members of the committee to examine the conditions relating to the recruitment of Caymanians into the teaching profession. The preliminary report is notable in many areas, not the least of which is the fact it was presented on schedule. Its most remarkable achievement, however, is that it is an excellent justification for what I chose to term the politics of inclusion. This new political directorate has come to the conclusion that it must no longer be business as usual.

“To this extent, as Minister of Education, I wish to set the example of building partnerships with private sector entities and also to include Members of the Legislative Assembly in any projects or undertakings in which they are capable and willing to participate. The fact that the committee members engaged themselves in this work after the normal working day is of special significance since it means that their approach was entirely unselfish.

“The Chairman of the committee, himself a trained teacher, is not only my colleague and best friend, but a man whose civil service career spanned many years. He is a man known for his meticulous bureaucratic good sense and the wide knowledge of civic and governmental affairs.

“Similar compliments could be paid to every other member of the committee were I not limited by time and space constraints. Suffice it to say in their regard that excellence must not only be pursued but acknowledged. So, I record my acknowledgement of their efforts. Having established the excellence of the panel, let me now turn to the report and its significance.

“An important part of the Government’s mandate is to foster educational development and training opportunities of Caymanians so that our people can take their rightful places in all areas of our society. No area is more critical to the development of Caymanian society than that of teaching. It is teachers who play an important role in the transmission of cultural values, social values, religious values and other values. It stands to reason therefore, that the successful transmission of Caymanian values can only be guaranteed by a predominance of Caymanian teachers. To strive to achieve this objective is not only logical and sen- sible, but also a guarantee that that entity known as 'Caymanian' will be guaranteed survival.

"The Cayman Islands have always had a representation of outside teachers, and will continue to rely on such persons. However, no country can expect to successfully transmit its value system if it cannot guarantee that the vast majority of its teachers are its own citizens.

"Finally, I turn to the challenges for which appropriate responses must be created by us all. It is the Ministry of Education and by inference the government's responsibility to chart the way forward. I look to this with eager anticipation and await the committee's final report in June. Thereafter, the public can expect to receive the report after the various protocols have been met, following which the Government should be in a position to announce how it plans to address this glaring need. [Signed] Honourable Roy Bodden, Minister of Education."

With that historical underpinning, we have come now to debate this report and ask this House to adopt its findings.

I am concerned and have been for many years, and during my tenure in this House I went on record many times stating that as far as our education system was concerned, we were recording our results on a faulty report card. I contend that one of the criteria as far as I am concerned as an educator, for the success of any system has to be the ability of that system to resuscitate, regenerate, and repopulate itself. That means that if we have an education system in the Cayman Islands that people claim is an excellent system, and yet that system fails to produce even the slightest majority of Caymanian teachers out of the total complement, I would have to question the efficacy and results of that system, particularly if I were in a position to have multiple tenure at the helm of such a system.

It stands to reason that any organisation or entity that fails to maintain or regenerate itself is an organisation fraught with risk. Here we are at a time when we are becoming Caymanian conscious, lamenting the loss of that entity known as the Caymanian, lamenting the lack of transmission of Caymanian values as important as they are. We find ourselves in a position where we lack a majority of our own people. Anthropologists will tell you that culturally that is a system designed to make some cultural entity extinct. If the situation is not remedied within the next little while, meaning the next decade, then those entities that claim they are Caymanian now will be by far a minority element in their own country.

This report was designed to bring some sobriety, some sense of direction to help us arrive at a sense of perspective and urgency to be able to secure the society by providing our own teachers. There could be no more eminent persons given the responsibility to do that than teachers themselves. So, the committee was predominately made up of teachers, chaired by a teacher, and indeed all of those making up the committee had some direct interest in education and the transmission of values and culture in this society.

This report has been well received, well respected by the ministry over which I hold constitutional responsibility. From the feedback I have gained many people have found it informative, if not downright enlightening.

Mr. Speaker, being the realist you are, I am sure that you yourself are struck by some of the stark statistics of this report. There is absolutely no ground for anyone to object or raise any queries on the professionalism, the accuracy or format of this report because the report, for the most part, is factual. I have to say again, in complimenting the Chairman, I see him in every section of this report echoing down through the years I have been associated with him that underlying tenant that he always tells me, "the facts speak for themselves." If you give the facts, there is no room for any interpretation other than a factual one.

I am happy to stand here today and say that this report is devoid of any prejudice that any Member of the committee may have held. It is based on facts. The conclusions and recommendations are extrapolated from the facts. I say again, it is an excellent report.

I wish now to return to the stark figures. In all of the primary schools of the Cayman Islands there is but one male Caymanian teacher. That gentleman hails from your Island, Mr. Speaker!

One does not have to be a genius to understand that if this is the position we find ourselves in at a time when we have all kinds of dysfunction and breakdowns among male Caymanian students of a certain age, there is bound to be identity problems. I contend that I am a living example because that in the old days (and I am not romanticising) we were better off as far as producing teachers was concerned. We were better off in the system. We had Mr. C. A. Hunter, that famous Bodden Town educator/politician/attorney and other things. God rest his memory.

Our system was better off because he, as the Chief Education Officer, actively recruited those of us who showed some educational promise into the teaching profession. Ask the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

The Chief Secretary was relating to us, one evening when we went to dinner, how he recruited him. It is no exaggeration to say that every week whenever that gentleman met me he would implore me to consider teaching. He was a teacher of great and high standards and a Mico man I might add, no less.

In these days, there is no one with such an interest at a time when we have to compete with the more attractive and sophisticated fields of work, like banking, Law, or being a CPA. No disrespect to those professions, but only teaching is described as the noble profession. I have not heard anyone describe banking as a noble profession, or even that of an attorney.

Its importance is underlined by the fact that if there were no teachers there would be no bankers, because teachers teach the bankers.

The thing that strikes me most about Caymanian society, my society, is that we are cockeyed. Our sense of importance and development is cockeyed because we before we developed a teachers' college, we made a Law school. That speaks volumes. I am not putting it down, I am just saying as a developmentalist that I have to query the direction we are going. That Law school is almost sacrosanct. We pumped financial and human resources into that before we pumped them into developing a teacher's college or school for training and developing teachers. I just want to bring the sense of importance of crafting and training our own teachers to the level we should be in this 21st Century.

I see it is approaching the time you wanted to adjourn.

The Speaker: You may continue until you have finished.

Hon. Roy Bodden: I have to caution the Chair that this is an emotional subject for me and I am not likely to finish any time soon.

The Speaker: We shall suspend until 2.15 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.48 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.20 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Debate continues on Government Motion No. 7/01. The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Human Resources and Culture, continuing.

Hon. Roy Bodden: Thank you.

When we took the luncheon suspension I was making the point of the importance of having sufficient numbers of our own people so that, among other things, we can transmit the culture of the Cayman Islands.

I am further reminded of the precarious position in which we find ourselves in the Cayman Islands in regard to the recruitment of teachers, when we realise that over the past summer several jurisdictions in the Caribbean, the traditional recruiting grounds of the Cayman Islands, has been visited by large jurisdictions like the City of New York and the UK. I am speaking of efforts made over last summer in Barbados, Trinidad and Jamaica to recruit teachers for the city of New York and later the UK.

Some commentators have pointed to the danger in this that these jurisdictions themselves will experience a shortage of teachers themselves if their graduates continue to be lured away to jurisdictions like the City of New York and the UK.

Our position is even more precarious when we consider that in the first instance we do not have sufficient numbers going into the profession and those who do go have to be so dedicated that they can withstand the attraction of what seem to be the more lucrative professions of banking, accounting, legal studies, et cetera. However, the position in the Cayman Islands is even more difficult by the fact that we have a sterile and prolix bureaucracy that instead of giving teachers leeway and flexibility bridle them with a lot of demands for paperwork, some of which is entirely unnecessary, irrelevant and unimportant to their duties of teaching and classroom management. The study highlights this shortcoming and sets this down as one of the things that deter people from going into teaching.

There is a need to reform the bureaucracy. I wish I could stand here today and say that my own ministry and department does not bear some responsibility for what happens. I am trying as best I can under the circumstances to make things more attractive for new people coming in, and for those to remain. However, when teachers are governed by General Orders ... and I want to draw attention to an article in the Caymanian Compass of Monday, 10 September 2001, in which a teacher wrote a letter to the editor outlining what she called the challenges of teaching.

It was a letter that I, as the Minister, read with interest. I found nothing objectionable in the letter. Indeed, I welcome these kinds of public expressions of frustration. I was dismayed by the fact that this young teacher (teaching at John Gray High School) lamented an act of vandalism upon her car, presumably by some student. She was venting this as a frustration. Well, as far as I am concerned, that was well within her democratic rights. The language was acceptable and she was totally impersonal: only to receive a letter from the Chief Education Officer reminding her of General Orders and that she had breached protocol.

In this era of human rights do you want to tell me that someone, who I thought was justified in venting her frustration, having her mode of transport vandalised by someone she was trying to help, does that person not deserve to vent her frustration in an innocuous letter to the paper? If we are going to stifle and bridle teachers in these ways, it is no wonder that we cannot get Caymanians into the profession. This is a simple exercise of a person's democratic right.

Among all the other contending elements, attractive salaries, more lucrative vocations, prestige, now we have this business of teachers being unnecessarily bridled. I am at odds with the establishment. I see nothing wrong with that. I welcome the teachers' expression, even if it is dissent against the policies of the Ministry. That is what democracy is about. We cannot have a robust democracy if we stifle that kind of expression.

I want my teachers to be able to express these things publicly; after all, it affects them. How can they be effective teachers if their public expressions are stifled? I am sure they realise and understand that they should not resort to libel, slander or defamation. Other than that, I say it is time to throw the General Orders out now and have a modern code of practice in keeping with trends in the 21st century that allow people to exercise their democratic and human rights.

Then we have to improve the lines of communication. We have to shy away from this 'Big Stick Old Hat', kind of leadership style and open the lines of communication so that teachers and administrators can feel that their opinions are not only heard, but valued. I would love to see a teachers' association formed, where teachers as a professional body can come together, discuss and formulate ideas and directions that are common to the vocation where they can have a collective voice.

I understand that some persons are discouraging this. I have expressed it to the teachers on more than one occasion. I would welcome this. It happens in every other modern jurisdiction, it should happen here also. There are the challenges that face us if we are to attract and recruit more Caymanian teachers.

It is interesting that among the things listed as deterrents for Caymanians coming into the profession, salaries did not rank first. Teachers gave other reasons, particularly those who left. While it is true that salaries have to be important, it was not the most important thing. Any dedicated teacher knows he can never be paid what he is worth. Other things need to be done, among which is recognition by officialdom, recognition and appreciation.

I am afraid that we are on the verge of losing our good teachers if there is not a dramatic improvement in conditions and if their expressions of what they see needs to be done in the vocation if someone does not take it seriously. Need I say that we can ill afford to lose these persons who are dedicated and who have a record of solid performance?

We need immediately to improve the lines of communication and the seriousness with which we receive some of these concerns. I have chalked it up to a matter of personality. I get complaints about certain persons in the Education Department, the lack of professionalism. I was glad when I was able to table the Millett Report. I told the Chief Education Officer that I wanted an improvement in the Education Department.

It is my understanding that they have re-written the job descriptions. I am going to stand upon them and insist that not only is there improvement but obvious and remarkable improvement. I want to lessen the complaints. Ministers have no administrative responsibility so I am not able to terminate anyone's employment, but I am telling you that there is much to be desired in the professionalism of some members of the Education Department.

There are solid and stalwart workers there and I will not identify any person or position, but I have brought it to the attention of the Chief Education Officer that certain staff members need improvement. I have even suggested that some be recommended to take courses the Chamber of Commerce holds in dealing with front office personnel. It is unthinkable that professionals in this day and age can treat people in such unprofessional ways and get away with it in a vocation as important as teaching.

I look forward to the implementation of the recommendations of the Millett Report and to see the improvements in the Education Department. I am encouraging them but I am not Job.

I believe that it is not necessary for me to say any more in the introduction. I commend the Motion to Members. I am certain from my discussions with Members that all know the importance of us finding, training, attracting and maintaining Caymanian teachers if we are to develop along the lines of a successful community. I commend the Motion to Members.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak? (Pause) Does any other Member wish to speak? (Pause)

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I have the opportunity to speak on the report which has been laid on the Table, the adoption of which has been moved by the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Human Resources and Culture. I was part of the committee appointed by the Minister on 25 January, along with the other Members who he mentioned.

This exercise was extremely hard work. It was something done within certain time constraints and it was done by all of us after we had put in a day's work. I wish to personally thank the deputy chairman, Miss Debra McLaughlin, Mr. Jonathan Tibbetts, Miss Vicky Frederick, Miss Joan West; Mr. Leonard Bodden; Mrs Lenora Mendoza-Hydes for their service, their time and efforts.

I think it is also fitting that I make special comment about Mrs. Grace Wright who was not originally appointed to the Committee by the Minister, but who had such ongoing interest in education that she called me about it and in consultation with the Minister was co-opted as a member of the Committee. Her contribution was significant in every way including the fact that she has worked both in the Government system and in the private sector. Her effort was quite outstanding.

I personally wish to say that these teachers informed me about the state of education in a way that I doubt very seriously I could have otherwise learned. Having direct contact with Caymanian teachers in this way was one of the most enlightening experiences I have ever had.

I would also like to make a special mention of two of the teachers who did a lot of legwork, delivering questionnaires, Vicki Frederick and Jonathan Tibbetts. Jonathan Tibbetts in particular, who was somewhat longsuffering like Job, because he acted as our daily secretariat and worked many times into the night. As we changed a sentence a dozen or so times trying to say what we wanted to say, he never rebelled. However, I think at one stage we all became a bit concerned if his marriage would hold together! (I say that in jest.)

This whole report was produced by him using his laptop computer. This report would not have been finished in time without him because there was not available to us a secretary or even a permanent place. I want to thank all of those persons immensely.

I also thank the Minister for his kind remarks. I appreciate them. I trust this will be the first of other such follow-up studies that will be done to examine and look into the conditions affecting education so that they may be corrected as time goes by.

Members have questioned why this report includes two signatures on the first page, on the letter presented to the Minister. Well, it is very simple. We had one report, which was the interim report, where all the signatures were on one disk. When we did the second part, we did not use that same disk, and when it was printed, some of the Members of the Committee were off the Island. So, that is the reason. However, the Minister has one with all of the signatures that were actually signed on the evening it was presented to make sure he had the signatures of all Members. I promise Members that I will get that page for them.

We agreed that this report should be as brief as we could make it and that it should contain hard, cold facts as best as we could discover, analyse them and place them in understandable form.

While the teachers were aware of the immense disparity between Caymanian and expatriate teachers, I never could comprehend until this occasion the difference in numbers. I do not make that comment to say there is something socially or economically wrong with that, but I make the point that it is a major challenge for us to find persons to enter the teaching profession.

I agree with the Minister of Education that this has to be one of the most glaring priorities in this country. At the end of February 2001 there were 561 teaching posts in the country, taking into account that there were 32 vacancies. Of this there were 119 Caymanian, and 410 expatriate teachers.

In this mix of teachers, we had teachers with only teaching diplomas up to masters' degrees and teachers' aides and support assistants who were not formally qualified in teaching, but were within the system.

Another thing that was more outstanding was that there were so few men in the teaching profession. One of the terms of references was to find ways and means of attracting Caymanian men into the profession, and to find out why there was not enough interest in it.

Out of the total number, 372 teachers were female, with 96 being Caymanian, and only 157 were male, 23 who were Caymanian. As noted by the Minister, there is only one male Caymanian classroom teacher in the primary schools.

We had the opportunity to interview one male Caymanian who was most impressive. He served for 13 years in the primary schools and left. It was my understanding that he would consider going back into teaching (and I trust he will, as he stated his love for it). He told us that he would not return until his wife, who was then pregnant, had their child and the child began school. That has since happened, and he will consider going back into teaching. I passed that on to the Minister and I am sure he is following up on the matter to see that this male Caymanian returns to the service.

At the time of this study, 134 teachers were in administrative positions. There were 53 positions in the primary schools—15 male and 38 female. A breakdown shows that the majority of male administrators were expatriates with only three being Caymanian. In the case of females, 19 were expatriate and 19 Caymanian.

Conditions vary between primary, middle and high school. These are contained in tables in this report which show the primary school specialist, the middle and high schools specialist areas. The data and statistics were not available within the Education Department at the time of this report. In fact, it came as a result of a questionnaire that we sent to all of the schools on the Island. I thank all the schools all the principals both in the public and private sector for the way they responded. They were passed out and collected by hand.

We discovered that of the total number of teachers in Cayman's public schools, there are 343. Out of that number 91 are Caymanian. This means that in all of our public schools 72 percent of the teachers are expatriate, and only 28 percent are Caymanian.

In the private schools it is even smaller—out of a total of 142 teachers 131 are expatriate (92 percent), and 11 Caymanian (8 percent).

The overall percentage of teachers on the Island as a whole, 73 percent are in public schools, and 27 percent are in private schools.

As we collected and analysed more data we saw the average length of stay for teachers in teaching was 8.7 years. The terms of reference asked us to determine why Caymanians leave the teaching profession and what alternative employment did they chose. We did a questionnaire on this and we posed a number of questions developed as a result of a panel of eight teachers meeting who determined what were their reasons or potential reason for them leaving the teaching profession. Each wrote a list and we saw which reasons were repeated. From that we developed a questionnaire.

What came out of that was that the thing which led the way was not the lack of salary, although that was part of it. What stood out was a lack of incentives (loan facilities, travel, negotiable salaries) teachers saw as necessary to keep them teaching, which were all absent at this time.

The number two position was tied by lack of staff development opportunities and training, the lack of promotion and monetary recognition based on professional qualifications, lack of support—departmental, parental, administrative—and from the business sector as well. In these areas this is a real feeling of those we interviewed directly and those who filled out the questionnaire.

In third place was salary. It seems that while salary is important to us all, for the teachers there are other things they feel they need to execute their jobs properly. These areas are now known and I trust they will be addressed.

We also did a breakdown by age, from 22 to 27 years, from 28 to 33, from 34 to 39, from 40 to 45, from 46 to 51 and 52-plus. It was interesting to see how the emphasis changed in the different age ranges. When we get to age 52, the chief concern was salary. After all they have spent their time and are now reaching the age of retirement.

Teachers leave the teaching profession to go into various fields, significantly business. Teachers leave the profession to go into business for themselves. There are some (not a high percentage) in the finance and banking area and others in a variety of employment.

The terms of reference number 3, asked “To determine ways and means of attracting Caymanians into the teaching profession giving particular attention to male Caymanians.” This was a very interesting area. Through discussions, interviews, and data collection we saw what was most repeated by teachers as being means of attracting Caymanians into the teaching profession.

I would just like to refer to some of these now. The very first is the creation of incentives. They saw among the things that would be an incentive to them “the establishment of a mortgage loan facility for teachers.”

One thing that came up over and over is that they want to own their homes. Some of them said that they had difficulty qualifying for a loan, and if they did, it took such a high percentage of their earnings. They felt that if a scheme could be put in place for them as teachers, that that would be a way of attracting them.

They also thought that rather than fitting into a scale, if they had the opportunity to negotiate their salaries by experience and qualification they would be happier. Their suggestion was that they should be assessed on their performance and that they should earn increases in salary on performance rather than just the usual one increment, even when there were times when some worked and performed very well.

Another thing the teachers were interested in was an opportunity for continued education in their field of interest. An archaic concept that exists in the civil service is that the Government only pays for a first degree. I left the service in 1983 and it was in place before then. To imagine that it still goes on now rather boggles my mind.

Hon. Roy Bodden: True!

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: What would be the sense of someone with a Bachelor's going on to study for another two years in a particular field, becoming more informed, more capable, then coming back to be told his salary will remain the same? That is absurd! This was one matter that was repeated over and over again.

There was also interest in training opportunities in fields of specialisation both locally and overseas. One thing that came out of this study was the fact that most of the specialist teachers in the Cayman Islands are from overseas. The Caymanian teachers said that they would like the opportunity to specialise, by getting funding, or being able to have their salaries continue (as has been done in the past) while they go off to study and specialise in a particular field. That would provide an incentive.

Another thing pointed out to us was that there should be a provision through the Community College for a teaching degree or certification. The Minister spoke about the Law School. That has been flourishing for many years.

However, there is no similar opportunity for teachers. They felt there would be persons interested in becoming teachers if they could start their education locally, reach a certain degree and then go on. This course could be run in the evenings too to include working people who are not able to attend during the days. There are housewives with some time available during the day and some cannot simply leave for training due to financial commitments. However, if something could be done locally, it would be a start in the right direction.

The question of higher salaries certainly came up. It was made clear by some that salary was important to them. One of the things teachers asked for was that the point of entry for teachers be increased and have a separate salary scale allowing progression through additional qualifications, specialisation training and seniority. That made sense to me. They clearly saw this as something that could attract teachers.

They also suggested increasing salaries to compete more effectively with careers outside of teaching and to allow bonuses for veteran teachers mentoring beginning teachers. That seemed fair. I understand this is done in the US. It is recognition that a veteran experienced teacher is helping a new teacher to learn teaching techniques that cannot be taught in university.

Bonuses were also suggested for teachers who regularly commit to various committees. It seems that teachers are asked to serve on various committees that fall outside of their work day. A recognition of being paid an extra $100 or $200 (and not necessarily an increase of 10 percent), especially to those who work regularly on committees, would make them feel that they do count for going that extra mile.

Another area was support for teachers, largely from the Education Department. We heard over and over that communication needed to be improved between the Education Department and teachers. It is interesting how that very thing is identified as a top priority in the Millett Report. The Millett Report dealt with a wider spectrum of teachers, we had a more defined group to deal with but this was repeated over and over again. Teachers feel that they do not know what is going on, or what is expected of them, there is no kind of pre-warning that they have to do something until it happens. When they in turn feel they must get in touch with the Education Department, the hoped for response is not forthcoming.

I want to make a point here that I do not really know who works in the Education Department, other than three or four who have been there for a long time. I am not directing my comments to any particular person in the department, but I am speaking of the Education Department as a point within the system and that the system needs to be corrected. The Millett Report seemed very specific in this area.

Teachers feel that parents need to become more involved in their children's educational development. One could easily glean that teachers have the feeling that parents largely bring their children to school to become the property of the teachers and the parents can largely extract themselves from it. There seems to be a real problem in this area, even when parents are contacted about misbehaviour.

They also suggested that the community should be educated in ways of becoming more involved in the teaching process. Here they were talking about the involvement of businesses in assisting the teaching profession through assistance to PTA's, allowing the children to visit on field trips, through give-aways or whatever. They mentioned numerous ways. Of course, seek to encourage businesses to supplement the process for all students, practical work experience and the like.

It was felt that a forum, where teachers could meet policy-makers and education managers to exchange views and opinions would improve the teaching profession. We gathered that one of the problems is that there is not ready access and it is something that could only do good if allowed. I heartily recommend that to the policy makers.

The development of workshops to provide opportunities to improve interpersonal skills and better working relationships, was also seen as something that would bring about an incentive toward attracting teachers into the profession.

We heard of various instances where teachers are in a school and the relationship is no more than those teachers coming to the school, attending to their classrooms and within their staff room, one little group gets off by themselves and another group is off to themselves. There is anything but good interaction.

The Minister spoke of the paperwork requirements. That too was a subject that was often repeated. The teachers believe that there is too much paperwork and that administrative assistance should be provided in the school. The paperwork seems not to really deal with teaching or the methodology of teaching or lesson plans that this is taking up too much of the teachers' time and this is really not their job. Their job is to teach our children. Not to say that they were saying there was no need to provide certain paperwork but it should be within the confines of teaching.

The creation of opportunity for promotion and monetary recognition based on qualification was seen as a major need within the teaching profession. The teachers said that there should be succession planning in the schools. There are those who have taught for so many years and there is no succession plan to bring about some monetary incentive. They felt there should be some managerial and supervisory training provided. That makes sense. They have to offer certain supervisory assistance in the classrooms and the whole process.

Teachers also said that travel benefits should be offered as a means of attracting teachers into the profession, passage or leave passage where they could travel and see how education is handled in other locations. This would be an incentive.

One thing that came out over and over is that there has to be parity of benefits between Caymanian and expatriate teachers, equal pension benefits, which in effect comes down to contracted officers' supplement (COS). There was not a single teacher that did not comment on this particular situation, or did not understand that the Cayman Islands does not have sufficient teachers and has to look to other jurisdictions. Their argument was that there should be fairness and equity.

I certainly believe this is so. I know that many years ago in the civil service, we had a lot of mosquitoes, not a lot of qualified people for the various jobs in the public service and otherwise. The country at that time had to pay additional money to persons who came from overseas to attract them here. That is no longer the case. The salaries paid now are in keeping with those you will find in just about any jurisdiction in the world, including teaching, although in the US they are increasing salaries to attract teachers. However, this was pointed out over and over again.

How do you have a Caymanian teacher, who has a MSc in math and an expatriate teacher with a MSc in math, and you are paying the Caymanian, let us say, $4,000 per month and you are paying the expatriate $4,000 per month, and on top of that 15 percent more each and every month. How can we expect our most educated and intelligent people to believe they are being treated fairly? I can assure Members that the teachers do not believe they are being treated fairly and they believe that should be changed. The question of COS should be addressed.

The Speaker: If I may interrupt you, would you care to take the break?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: That will be fine.

The Speaker: We shall suspend for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.35 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.53 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Debate continues on Government Motion No. 7/01. The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, continuing.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you.

When we took the break, I was speaking to the idea of the creation of parity and benefits between Caymanian and expatriate teachers, speaking on the COS, which is a major bone of contention.

Teachers feel a sense of being treated unfairly, but it is remarkable how well they do their work each day, not upsetting the system. However, they have the right to make this representation and we as the people who are elected to represent the people, do have the right to do something about the situation. I feel most strongly about this. It is not something that happens today.

My first employment was as a teacher. I have been through the civil service and I know that this disparity in pay, purely because someone comes from another destination, has always been a point that has brought a sense of unfairness and resentment.

That is why I can afford to stand firm, along with my colleagues, that there has to be a change in this policy.

Another area brought to the forefront is the concern for safety and security in the educational environment. I visited the high school compound. The principal was a member of the committee. We got firsthand the problems and difficulties she has running that school. One thing I would recommend to the Minister of Education, if ever the money can be found, to bulldoze down those buildings and get a multi-storey building where teachers can control the students.

What is there now is specially designed for any kind of mischief that children can conceive of. There are buildings all over that acreage. I am sure one-tenth of it could be used to house 3,000 children in a multi-storey building. Right now it is one of the most awful situations I have ever seen and also at the middle school. I mention this now because I think the only way teachers can be called upon to really control the behaviour of students is to take down the buildings at the high school and middle school and build multi-storey buildings. Once a child is inside the building he can be found, and if he is outside he can easily be seen in the yard.

This also relates to the lack of security, the need for security and safety within that compound. Children misbehave, teachers try to correct it, can get into fist-cuffs with a child and before the other teachers know of it ... who knows what could happen.

Teachers have a fear that a parent may walk onto the compound and decide to beat up a teacher. The response to it is, as I understand, is to not say anything about it because it would look bad on the education department.

Things happen in this world; people die, people get diseases and accidents do happen. We have to get to a point of understanding in our education system that things happen—kids will use drugs on the compound, a kid will harm another, and saying it is not there and does not happen, does not mean it is not there. We have to face with and deal with those situations. What perpetuates the bad is when nothing is done about it. One would think that teachers and the education department would want the public to know about these types of problems because it is one way of harnessing the support and concern of the public at large for the teachers.

The teachers made it very clear both on the questionnaire and in our interviews that there is a growing concern for their safety. This is a matter I think has to be addressed in order to keep the teachers we have now, and to attract others. People thinking of becoming teachers are concerned about what happens in the schools, and understandably, they do not want to have to deal with it.

In this regard, teachers also spoke about receiving some authority of dealing with misbehaviour in the classroom, where they can apply certain sanctions. We often hear people say that from the day they took the strap out of the schools the education system has been going down. Well, I do not necessarily believe that, but one of the problems we saw is that teachers are left helpless when there is misbehaviour in the classroom.

Picture 20 students in a class. One misbehaves. The teacher has to take that one child, walk a quarter of a mile to find the principal, if you can find him, and leave the other 19 there to take charge of the classroom. It is absurd! It is a problem that has been identified. There has to be the ability to bring about certain sanctions.

I understand that it has become so ridiculous that if children are fighting and teachers move in and physically remove them from one another or restrain them; that can be looked upon now as an assault. The children say, in some instances, "You take your hands off me, I'll sue you for assault."

Those are the types of things this study has uncovered which obviously need to be addressed. These can be addressed by having clear discipline and authority policies and on what sanctions can be enforced by teachers in the classroom. Children cannot go to school believing that their parents can curse a teacher or the education system they can do what they want to with impunity.

That comes to another point that was made by the teachers: there needs to be clear and unambiguous policies in education. This is the identical recommendation made in the Millett Report on the very same thing. Certainly, it is something teachers seem to want very badly—clear statements of what is expected of teachers, that it does not change from day to day, week to week; and that they know the national goals, the schools' goals and that the public at large be aware of that; and to develop some means of collaborating between educators, the policy-makers and parents in creating realistic policies.

I would just like to refer to the Millett Report. One of the weaknesses it identified was the absence of “clear lines of accountability which cut across the service as a whole from minister via the department to schools.”

I would like to comment on another one the report identified, “poor professional standards, poor relationships, and an absence of trust within the department has created a culture in which staff fail to work cooperatively and seek to avoid the acceptance of individual and collective responsibility.”

I think the teachers are aware of these things and they are affected in ways they say will drive them from teaching and will not attract persons into teaching if they do not change. Therefore, these are within the recommendations to assist the means of attracting teachers into the profession.

One other quote from the report, “Weak consultation and communication with schools parents and the wider community over major plans and policies for education.” I can assure you this was not quoted in the report ordered by the Minister, but in reading the Millett Report it was amazing how our findings were similar.

The committee made certain recommendations to the Minister. The report shows the meat of these recommendations, but for the record I would like to read the captions:

- "1) Initiate preliminary teacher training studies in the Community College up to Associate Degree level with a long term plan to complete teacher training if found realistic.
- "2) Improve overall Communication from Ministerial level down to schools to ensure that all entities in the process understand and are working toward the same goals.
- "3) Create written educational policies to cover all areas ensuring circulation to schools and every employee within the education system.
- "4) Provide staff development opportunities for teachers to create incentives for improvement, promotional opportunities and financial consideration.
- "5) Create a plan whereby teachers are eligible for sabbatical leave after 5 years and can leave teaching for a year to continue studies or work in some other field.

"6) Create equality in pay between Caymanian and Expatriate teachers including allowances for travel.

"7) Establish a special fund to assist Caymanian teachers with first-time homeownership.

"8) Create a unit of specially designated persons in the Education Department who would function as public relation officers to answer queries, take suggestions, listen to complaints, and take appropriate action to reach satisfactory resolution.

"9) Start a major national advertisement campaign to promote teaching as a viable, respected and satisfying profession.

"10) Initiate action to attract ex-teachers and professionals in the Private sector to teach.

"11) Include and emphasize more vocational training in schools such as craft-work, hairdressing, electrical, plumbing, auto mechanics, air-conditioning, and floral design etc. utilising volunteer professionals in the field.

"12) Allow Principals of schools to have more flexibility in the daily operation of their schools including timetabling and time to deal with administrative matters.

"13) Provide appropriate management training at all levels throughout the education system particularly within the Education Department and for Principals, Deputy Principals and other administrative personnel.”

I could talk much more on this, but the report is in the hands of all Members. They can read the depth and length of it. I firmly believe there are major challenges to be met in the field of education and in finding our own teachers, which is what this report is all about and why it was commissioned. What is bothering teachers and what can be done to attract teachers? How do we get men interested in becoming teachers? The challenges are major and many require finances. Government's finances have to be split in so many ways, but if we are looking at areas of expenditure to give extra dollars, I think education has to be one of those. I give my support to the Minister in his efforts. I wish to assure him that this report has the facts and the data. I believe he will rise to the challenges and bring about the changes that must be made; the majority of the teachers in this country will support that and will also rise to his assistance through their support in the field.

I wish to emphasize that we are in a situation where we are highly dependent on other jurisdictions for teachers. The major need in the teaching profession today is fairness and equity. I think that in itself, if corrected, will have a major impact on the teaching profession in the Cayman Islands. I support the Minister in his endeavour and look forward to an improved Cayman Islands through an improved education system.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you.

Since it was so late in the evening, I thought we would take the adjournment and start again tomorrow.

The Speaker: We still have ten minutes of exercise.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you.

Here we are debating a report by a committee relating to the recruitment of Caymanians into the teaching profession. I applaud the Minister for having initiated this review and the appointment of so many qualified people to review this profession.

When we really think of it, we need to look at the reason we have reached thus far. When we look back at the history of this country, when citizens such as the late Mr. Hunter from Bodden Town, encouraged young people to go into the teaching profession, in those days the teaching profession was revered and respected. That is no longer the case.

In those days Caymanians tried to ensure that they had teachers to teach their children. One of my siblings was a teacher. In more recent times she too left for greener pastures. Maybe it was because we did not have the financial industry, tourism and all the industries that provide greener pastures for our young people.

However, in those days teaching was honourable. I recall when the Minister of Education and the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town were headmasters in East End. I saw those two individuals put elbow grease into the teaching profession by taking a personal interest in each child in the district of East End. I have witnessed the present Minister of Education take off his shoes and socks and roll up his pants to take kids out of the water and drag them—literally—into the classroom. That was the time when parents in this country (East End, in particular) respected teachers – when whatever Roy Bodden and Gilbert McLean said or did in East End was well done. Those were the days when the teachers were supported by government, parents, and they were respected by the children. They demanded respect.

This report prepared by the chairman and teachers, such as Mr. Jonathan Tibbetts, Miss Vicky Frederick, Miss Joanne West, Mr. Leonard Bodden, Mrs. Grace Wright, and Mrs. Lenora Mendosa-Hydes, while well received and highlights many of the problems experienced by teachers, it speaks of how the community and this country view the teaching profession. It is obviously in need of some serious injection by the Government and the country as a whole. It shows the lack of respect and support of Caymanians going into that profession.

I wonder if we turn our minds back to where we came from as individuals if we would understand what a teacher is all about. The majority of a child's life during the day is spent with a teacher. A child is influenced by that teacher. Value systems are instilled in that child. If we do not respect the teacher, then the children will not respect the teacher.

I personally have made it clear to the teachers of my children that I will not ask them to discipline my child at school for what he does at home. Therefore, I do not think it is fair for a teacher to ask me to be the first line of discipline for what my child does at school. I will be the second line, but the teacher has to discipline the child there and then so that the respect will be in place. How can I instil in my child that he must respect the teacher, when I discipline him at home for what he did at school?

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town spoke on the discipline at school and the behaviour of students as one reason for people not getting into the teaching profession. What can we expect when students are vandalising teachers' vehicles and are prepared to fight teachers?

When I went to school under teachers such as Teacher McField and Mr. McNamee, I stood on the straight and narrow, or they would bring me back to the straight and narrow. Beside that, they called my parents who brought that straight and narrow down even smaller!

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION—4.30 PM

The Speaker: You will not be finished in another five minutes or so?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: No, Mr. Speaker. You made me start it. I will not be finishing now.

The Speaker: I would appreciate the Motion for the adjournment.

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Before moving the adjournment, I just need you to guide me right.

I think this is the last bit of business we have for this meeting. I know we will be here tomorrow. However, I just wanted to make Members aware that the vast majority of questions remaining to be placed upon the Order Paper are to be answered by Honourable Ministers who were off the Island and will not be back until next week. If the House adjourns and all questions are not answered, I believe that Members would prefer to ask the questions at the next meeting as opposed to having them answered in writing. Perhaps you could use your judgment and relate to that tomorrow.

The other thing I wanted to say is that the Minister of Education, who brought Government Motion No. 7/01, is going to be off the Island on official business starting Monday. We can deal with that tomorrow. I just wanted Members to have a clear indication.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 am tomorrow.

The Speaker: The question is that this Honourable House do now adjourn until 10 am tomorrow. Those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AT 4.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED
UNTIL 10 AM FRIDAY 28 SEPTEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
FRIDAY
28 SEPTEMBER 2001
11.14 AM
Twelfth Sitting

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Third Official Member to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Let us pray.

Eternal Heavenly Father, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: we beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy name and for the safety honour and welfare of the people of these islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and humility may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Government of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father which art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 11.16 am

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER OF MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have received apologies for absence from the Honourable First Official Member and the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Women's Affairs, Youth and Sports who is off the Island, and from the Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Human Resources and Culture who will be arriving later this morning.

Moving on to item No. 3: Presentation of Papers and Reports.

The Honourable Minister for Planning, Communications and Works.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House four Reports which have been prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Governor Vesting of Lands Law (1998 Revision).

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to them? Please continue.

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The Reports detail four matters that have been in the works for a while. As is required by the Law, the details of the lease and three transfers have been published in the Cayman Islands Gazette of 30 July 2001 and a local newspaper, namely Cayman Net News, issue 94, dated 20-23 July 2001.

Also, as required by Law, three valuations were carried out on each property. Each valuation report forms part of the overall report and each provides an indication of the value of land that the Government now proposes to lease and transfer.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION OF THE
MINISTER RESPONSIBLE FOR LANDS ON THE
GEORGE HICKS HIGH SCHOOL HOME SCHOOL
ASSOCIATION'S REQUEST FOR THE LEASE OF A PORTION OF CROWN LAND BLOCK 15B,

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: One report deals with a small portion of Crown land, Block 15B, Parcel 249 part, the property on which the George Hicks High School and the Truman Bodden Sports Complex are located.

The site in question is where the schools' Home School Association has built a small uniform shop from where it sells miscellaneous student supplies and uniforms. The area to be leased to the Home School Association measures about 416 sq. ft. (or .0095 acres) and the Government proposes a lease term of 25 years at peppercorn. The valuations on Block 15B, Parcel 249 part, estimate the lease value to be in the region of CI $150-$250.

Mr. Speaker, in the other three reports the Government proposes to transfer the title of land as a result of requests for Crown grants unclaimed. Such requests are for land that was unclaimed at the time of Cadastral and was later registered in the name of Crown as described by the Law. In accordance with legal procedure for claiming such property, the requests were investigated by the Director of Lands and Survey. His report on the results of the investigation, along with the evidence supplied by the claimant were then reviewed by the Legal department and found to be in good order in each case. The requests were then submitted to Executive Council for consideration and were ultimately approved.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION OF THE
MINISTER RESPONSIBLE FOR LANDS ON THE
REQUEST FOR CROWN GRANT (UNCLAIMED)
FOR BLOCK 44B, PARCEL 204

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: One request for Crown grant unclaimed is to Louis Berry for Block 44B, Parcel 204. Valuations on this property estimate the value range to be from CI$4,000-$5,000.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION OF THE
MINISTER RESPONSIBLE FOR LANDS ON THE
REQUEST FOR CROWN GRANT (UNCLAIMED)
FOR BLOCK 4D, PARCEL 6

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The other request for Crown grant unclaimed is to Rose Adelaide Barnett for Block 4D, Parcel 6. The valuations on this property estimate its open market value from a minimum of $6,500-$9,000.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION OF THE
MINISTER RESPONSIBLE FOR LANDS ON THE
REQUEST FOR CROWN GRANT (UNCLAIMED)
FOR BLOCK 44B, PARCEL 205

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The final report for Crown grant unclaimed is to the estate of Thomas William Berry for Block 44B, Parcel 205. The valuations on this site estimate the open market value to be between $10,000 and $15,000.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Item number 4 on today's Order Paper, Government Business: Motions. Government Motion No. 7/01, Adoption of the Report of the Committee to Examine the Conditions Relating to the Recruitment of Caymanians into the Teaching Profession.

The Elected Member for East End.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 7/01

ADOPTION OF THE REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE TO EXAMINE THE CONDITIONS RELATING TO THE RECRUITMENT OF CAYMANIANS INTO THE TEACHING PROFESSION

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Mr. Speaker, when we took the adjournment yesterday, I had just begun to debate the Report of the Committee to Examine the Conditions Relating to the Recruitment of Caymanians into the Teaching Profession. It has been indicated, Mr. Speaker, that the Honourable Minister will not be here next week and in so doing it is in the best interest to close this debate out today. In so doing I will try to keep my debate short even though I have many tabs, as you can see, outlining areas that I would like to address. However, I will do my best to condense it, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: We shall be grateful.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Mr. Speaker, first of all let me say that this Report is certainly an indictment of the lack of respect that this country has paid to a time-honoured profession. As I went through it, I was amazed. We have heard so many times of teachers not being treated well and leaving the profession. Mr. Speaker, when one reads this report done by those teachers, it leaves one to wonder what has happened over the past years.

Mr. Speaker, when we look at the 17 general reasons given, the ones that really stand out are:

- 1) The lack of staff development opportunities and training;
- 2) Lack of promotion and monetary recognition based on professional qualification;
- 3) Lack of incentives, monetary loan facilities, travel, negotiable salaries, et cetera;
- 4) Lack of support: departmental, parental, administrative, businesses, et cetera;
- 5) Last, but not least, salary.

Mr. Speaker, first of all let me address number 4—'Lack of support.' When we look at the Millet report and study both of these together, they are two separate and distinct reports but they are both saying the same thing. The Millet report is by a consultant, and the report on conditions relating to the recruitment of Caymanians was conducted by current teachers. Both reports say the same thing: teachers are not getting the support from the top. The Millet report in essence talks about the disarray within the Education department. Mr. Speaker, I understand why this was not tabled until more recently.

Then we look at teachers' cries for support from the businesses. My appeal again is to the Chamber of Commerce. In this country the Chamber of Commerce has a membership of the majority, if not all, of the businesses. That is where our students will eventually go. It is in their best interests that they support the education system in this country, Mr. Speaker; it will relate into profitable bottom lines for the businesses. We must stop thinking about making the quick dollar. We must also think of how to make that and one of the ways is to support the Education system. I am not saying that they do not, Mr. Speaker, but obviously the teachers think that they are not doing enough.

This Report speaks about the lack of support from parents and the lack of appreciation for teachers from parents and children—students. Mr. Speaker, it is unfortunate that our teachers have to plead to be treated properly. However, Mr. Speaker, if parents are going and cursing off the teachers in front of their children, then the children are not going to respect the teachers. Parents in this country have to 'step up to the plate' and show support for our teachers.

Mr. Speaker, males do not seem to be interested in the teaching profession. The Report highlights that there is only one male Caymanian teacher in the Primary school and I believe that male teacher is in the East End school. I put the Minister of Education on warning that we will not part with that teacher, even though he hails from your district, Mr. Speaker!

The teachers at East End school have brought a whole new prospective to teaching in that district and in particular, the Principal, Mr. Tibbetts and Miss Frederick. These are very good teachers and it is going to be a very long time before we decide to let them go. I challenge the Minister to use Mr. Tibbetts as an advertising model for other young Caymanian males to enter the Education system. Certainly, Mr. Speaker, we know that Mr. Tibbetts may very well be moving on because of his abilities; we cannot stifle them.

Mr. Speaker, when we look at the number of males versus females, it is mind-boggling to think that some of the reasons given for leaving (or not coming into the profession), that men are in that category also. I would just like to highlight some of the recommendations made by this Committee, in particular: (1) To initiate preliminary teacher-training studies in the Community College up to associate degree level with a long term plan to complete teacher training if found realistic. This is the perfect way to get the Community College back to what was intended instead of trying to turn it into individuals own personal education system.

Another recommendation (2) To improve overall communications from Ministry level down to schools to ensure that all entities in the education process understand and are working toward the same goals. Mr. Speaker, the Millet report spoke of the lack of communications. I know that the new Minister has a challenge on his hands but he has given this country an undertaking that he will rise to that challenge and Mr. Speaker, I give him my full support in whatever areas I possibly can.

One recommendation I took special interest in was (6) "To create equality in pay between Caymanian teachers and Expatriate teachers including allowances for travel." Well, Mr. Speaker, the last part of that 'including allowances for travel' would certainly in most instances fall away if the pay was proper. But the 'equality in pay between Caymanian teachers and expatriate teachers' [when we look at (c) under that recommendation, it says] "Contracted Officers' Supplements (COS) should be replaced with pension as received by Caymanian teachers."

Mr. Speaker, ever since being elected in this Honourable House many of us have been preaching from that same page. In particular, the Report speaks of ... and I quote, "This is unfair and is a cause of resentment in the Teaching profession. It creates the feeling that expatriates are treated better than Caymanians."

Mr. Speaker, it would be interesting for the higher echelons of Government to read this report and then they would understand where we have been coming from during the last few months. We get representations from the same civil servants who played a part in this report. If the teachers are saying it—that is approximately 500 teachers and only just over 100 Caymanian teachers—the voice is much louder in the remainder of the civil service. For some reason it is believed that we just pluck contracted officers' supplement (COS) out of the sky and want to make it our own personal goal. Mr. Speaker, that is not true. As far as I am concerned my responsibility is to represent the people in this country, and in particular the people of East End. When the people have an issue I believe it is my responsibility to present the views of the people to this Honourable House and to Government.

Mr. Speaker, we have said to the Governor that it is causing resentment in the Civil Service. I want to make it abundantly clear right here that I am not advocating not paying the teachers, or any of the expatriate civil servants. I do not support taking anything away from anyone. I stand for equality. It is impossible for me to comprehend how we can put two teachers in the same environment, the same classroom teaching the same subject; teaching the same children, expecting the same results; one is Caymanian, the other is expatriate and we give one more money than we give the other.

All I am saying, Mr. Speaker, is to bring the Caymanians up so that they can feel equal, and respect the other individual. Mr. Speaker, they have said it. The feeling of expatriates being treated better than Caymanians is wrong. That should not be a part of this community in the 21st Century. Then we hear the argument that it is because we need to attract good teachers. Mr. Speaker, my question is: What are the Caymanian teachers? Are they not teaching from the same syllabus? If they are delivering it in the same manner as the expatriates they deserve to be paid the same amount of money.

Mr. Speaker, others have done what they have had to do, therefore it is incumbent upon us here in this Honourable House to also do what we have to do to create the equality that our people are calling for. We just had a whole week of human rights symposium and we continue to segregate and (maybe) discriminate, in my opinion, Mr. Speaker.

I want to see our teachers walk into the classrooms where there is mutual respect. One is no more or less than the other: they have jobs to do and they must be paid accordingly.

Mr. Speaker, the Caymanian teachers have talked about [the need for] some kind of scheme to be developed to assist them in qualifying for a mortgage. Most of the teachers coming back to this country are single and cannot get into their own home on the salary they receive, but nevertheless we expect them to go into the classrooms and teach our children values. These include the value of getting a home; the value of this, the value of this and that. At the same time, we are not paying them in accordance with the responsibility that they hold—the responsibility of teaching our children, the responsibility of the future of this country.

Mr. Speaker, the same children who are being taught now by the Caymanian teachers are one day going to be in this Honourable House. Anyone who thinks that he is going to be in here forever has missed the boat. We must ensure that our children get good education, but at the same time our teachers must be compensated in such a way that they can live comfortably in their own country. Our teachers are running from the teaching profession. They are running, trying to get enough money to be able to build a little home. They are running into other professions to get some respect and we sit down here and pay lip service to the teachers. It is not only this Government, the Minister for Education has just started. History will tell us what he will do to change it, because no one else has. I applaud anyone who goes into the teaching profession.

Mr. Speaker, look at the First Elected Member from Cayman Brac: this lady spent many years in the teaching profession, became frustrated, went into Law and eventually into politics because she too realised that she was 'spinning her wheels in mud'. Now we are leaving other teachers 'spinning their wheels in mud' and nobody is doing anything about it. I sympathise with the new Minister of Education, because he has a serious challenge on his hands. I trust that he will not get his heart so full because of sympathy for the profession that he had to leave also and that then his hands will be empty. The Second Elected Member from Bodden Town, was another teacher who had to leave the profession.

The Millet Report talks about the Education Department, Mr. Speaker—not paying cognisance to the profession. No respect! Taking these people for granted! Mr. Speaker, it is so easy for us to do that. If we reflect on where we came from, there were teachers in our lives. That is what has brought us thus far and I am sure we too now take them for granted. However, Mr. Speaker, we must not. We talk about the financial industry; we talk about the tourism industry; we talk about us being the fifth financial centre in the world. How do we think we got there? It is through the teachers who taught us!

Mr. Speaker, we are all teachers. We all have to play our part in teaching our children. Some years ago I was on a panel discussing whether it was the teacher or the parent who had more responsibility for teaching our children. Mr. Speaker, my argument is that parents have more [responsibility] than the teachers; they must complement each other. The Governments (the political directorate of this country) have sat idly by over the years and have done nothing to integrate those two entities and include the Education department into that relationship—nothing!

Mr. Speaker, in this report, teachers talk about the lack of support such as teachers' aides so that they can be given a break. Teachers, especially in the primary schools, seldom get the opportunity to eat. Since coming to this Honourable House I asked a question about teachers' aides for East End school. They are needed throughout the schools to support the teachers. When Savannah can have nine and East End one, that is not the way it should be!

Mr. Speaker, when the graduating students were surveyed they listed three reasons why they would not choose teaching as a profession: The salary is too low; teachers are treated badly; it is not an appealing job. Now, if one believes that that does not say a lot. They are saying that the same people who just brought them to graduation level are being treated badly. They did not qualify that, so it may be—I do not know whether they are talking about administratively, or the students treat the teachers badly. Mr. Speaker, either one of those is bad and uncalled-for and needs to be corrected immediately.

How can a student say that the teaching profession is not an appealing job? Why? Because the whole country has changed its value system, Mr. Speaker, to be recognised in our country.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: That is where our children are getting it from.

Now we as a country need to change it. We need to show our teachers more respect so that the children who they teach will see them as role models and we will get more Caymanian teachers. When they see their teacher drive up to school in a piece of jalopy, what kind of respect are they going to show that profession? Then they see that they can become a lawyer or accountant and drive around in top-of-the-line Mercedes Benz.

Mr. Speaker, they talk about the lack of an unambiguous policy for Education. That is a challenge again for the Minister. I have every confidence that because he was a teacher that he will straighten this out. I have had the privilege of visiting the East End school with him on two occasions. I have had the privilege of discussing education and the school system in East End on many occasions with the Minister and I know that he is committed. However, Mr. Speaker, this country has been waiting for a Roy Bodden for a very long time too. Now the torch has been passed to him albeit barely lit. We are looking to the Minister to brighten that torch for teachers and I am sure he will. In his reply I know he will tell us of his plans.

Mr. Speaker, another area of recommendation is to provide staff development opportunities for teachers. Many of them are so busy that they can never develop by going on to continue their education. The Minister again has a challenge to ensure that our teachers develop—get personal development. Interpersonal skills: They talk about that.

They talk about equal opportunities based on qualifications for the administrative posts in Education in this country and not by favouritism. They have said it, Mr. Speaker, not me. They have said that it is their opinion that a number of these placements are done based on who you know and not who knows you—not on qualifications. Mr. Speaker, that has to stop. I am sure the Minister will deal with that one too.

Next, they talk about those who go on to further their education after being in the profession for a while and come back and they are not compensated for it. Mr. Tibbetts, the young man I spoke about earlier at the East End school, has a Master's degree in Education. Mr. Speaker, he is probably getting paid like anybody else with a certificate in Education or little above. That is not fair. These people have committed their lives to teaching and going and spending that extra time. They must be compensated for it; they have made the sacrifices.

Mr. Speaker, there is so much more to be said on this Report and the lack of respect for teachers. In the interest of time, even though it is difficult for me, I am going to close. The teachers have spoken: they have spoken in a loud and clear voice. It is now up to this country to hear them and respond. We hear that the teachers have spoken. More importantly than speaking, is that it be heard and that something is done about it. I would venture to say that the majority, if not all, of the candidates in the last general election gave this country a commitment that they were going to support education. That was the one thing that rang throughout the three Islands, education, education, education! Now it is time for those of us who were elected to step up to the plate.

I think that I can say with some degree of certainty (from talking to them) that all of these Members in this Honourable House, are committed to supporting the Minister. As the Minister said, he is quite passionate about this subject and I support him because I am also passionate about it.

I would like to thank the Committee for a well-rounded report that is not only about the Caymanian teachers because they also talked about the expatriate teachers. It also reflects the bad treatment that expatriate teachers are receiving. In some instances it is a little different, but nevertheless it is the same bad treatment which must stop.

I would again like to thank the Committee. I would like to thank the Minister for initiating this review and I call on him to do what he can to bring the teaching profession out of the doldrums that it is in. I call on him to take that report on the recruitment of Caymanian teachers, the Millet Report, and ensure that recommendations where possible, are implemented. This country needs it. I also ask the Minister to pass this report on to His Excellency the Governor and all those so that they may touch on the relevant spots of it that affect the decision-making process, particularly that with COS. Thank you.

The Speaker: Honourable Members, in view of the late start this morning, can we waive the morning break and continue until 12:45 pm? Agreed?

The Floor is open to debate; does any other Member wish to speak? The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank S. McField: Mr. Speaker, I will try to make my contribution brief and try to give what I might consider an overview of the issues contained in the Committee's Report on the Conditions Relating to the Recruitment of Caymanians into the teaching profession.

We need to understand that the teaching profession, like any other profession in our society, is one that is rewarded financially and we live in a society where money is considered to be one of the most important means used to acquire other goods and services. The fact is that we receive our importance from the possession of or access to goods and services and we live in a totally materialistic society. It has failed to recognise the importance of being a part of the system that can somehow provide us with the opportunity to be creative and inventive. Therefore, in terms of human value we could be seen to be playing a very important role.

When we look at the types of activities that we must perform in society; the lack of autonomy or ability for any kind of decision-making responsibilities over the way in which we work and produce the quality or usefulness of our products; intelligent people should be involved in the teaching profession. That is, rather than be in a profession where at the end of the day you have financial purchasing power but no control over your creative power and abilities.

So, we are at a point where it seems to me that we are not just dealing with a question of money, but rather a question of a moral, philosophical or ethical choice. At the end of the day those of us who choose to become accountants rather than teachers have to also ask the question, Do we have more control over our lives, our creativity and productivity as accountants, lawyers, bankers or as teachers and principals of schools?

Now, we can obviously wait until children are grown before we present them with this predicament or question. It must be presented at a very early stage in the socialisation of our children and adolescence. So the making of a teacher is a process that begins in the home that is reinforced in the primary schools and the secondary schools. The education institutions, families and the entire society must be involved in the process. It is important that this process be co-ordinated by the Department of Education and the Education Ministry.

However, let us not simplify the dynamics that are involved in getting people to change their professional orientations. It is not simply a question of monetary reward and I refuse to accept that. Especially in times when we see people in other parts of the world willing to give up their lives very readily and Americans at this particular point; firemen and policemen in New York, some who are not-too-well paid, dying to save persons in industries that are making thousands and thousands more dollars per year.

It our understanding of their function and usefulness in society that is important because then the respect shown to those persons will depend on how we act towards them. It is a mistake to blame or to believe that any future or present political administration can solve the problem without getting to the root causes and without a holistic approach, to get more Caymanians involved in the teaching profession. Mr. Speaker, I do think that we have to learn to make the necessary changes that will assist the profession.

Now, if we compare the percentage of expatriate teachers with the Caymanian teachers and if we understand the growth of the Caymanian economy; in order for human resources to fill the position, then the serious question will be, Will we ever be able to have enough teachers? Will we not always be dependent on expatriate teachers even if we were to do a good job in changing some of the conditions?

So, Mr. Speaker, we are not just therefore to speak about how there is an unequal treatment between Caymanians and expatriate teachers and that expatriate teachers receive more money. I believe that the Caymanian teachers should receive the same amount basically as the expatriate teachers. There should be equality in what they receive, but, at the same time, I believe that the expatriate teacher should also be encouraged or rewarded in different ways. There are teachers that come here to teach for a very long time because at the end of the day we are interested not just in Caymanian teachers, we are interested in good teachers to teach our children.

There has to be a point when we come to say that the child will probably better off when he has graduated from school and he is walking down the road and he sees someone who he knows as a teacher. Those teachers are not just teaching in school, they are also important social control agents. In other words, when the child has left school at 17 years and might not go further, there might be another 20 years or more of interaction between that child and the teacher, if the teacher remains a part of the established respectable society. We seem to have lost the idea that teachers are a part of the social control agency in our society and as such they work outside school. When we treat them as expatriate teachers and in doing so criticise or castigate them politically, we see them as an unwanted group of people, as a group of people that have caused certain types of complexities in our social system, the children also begin to identify them as being such. As a result, their ability to discipline, educate and to gain the necessary trust of our children in order to get them to learn and respect them, becomes more difficult.

We have to understand that giving expatriate teachers a respected position in our society is not just with increased pay but by perhaps by allowing them to become Caymanians. They will be seen by us a very important part of the social control mechanisms in our society rather than as a threat to the society. So, some people will not say, well this old 'this' and 'that' they do not know what they are talking about anyway, they are not really interested in our children." Otherwise, the children may believe after a while that the large percentage of teachers that are teaching them, (some 72 percent in public schools and some 92 percent in private schools) might not necessarily be here for their best interest. We have to try to deal with that realistically and talking about conditions, conditions and recruiting the Caymanian teachers as well.

If the treatment of the expatriate teacher will somehow depress the conditions under which teachers struggle, then Caymanian teachers will be less attracted. Caymanians will see it as a less respectable tradition if the respect towards a teacher is less as the result of saying that they are just expatriate teachers anyway.

When I went to Germany on the 1970s, it was very difficult for people to get a job as a teacher because they had been over producing teachers. They had very stringent conditions to get accepted to obtain a teaching scholarship and to even get a position as a trained teacher. Once you got a position as a teacher, you were considered to be a 'baampta', a civil servant. A baampta is not like a civil servant here because their whole bureaucratic traditions, place a lot of power and prestige and status with those persons that are baamptas or civil servants. In being a part of a privileged group that plays a very important role in socialising the population, teachers are supported in terms of job security based on the time they need to spend in the profession in order to qualify.

At one time when I was in New York I realised that a lot of women were attracted to the teaching profession because it meant that they could have families where the man and woman could go out to work.

However, rather than the woman going out to work as an accountant or a lawyer and neglecting the family completely, the woman could now use the teaching profession to also subsidise the family without being absent. This was a good way for the women to become involved in the teaching profession as well. In different societies people over a period of time have become involved in the teaching profession for different reasons.

It is a hard job to be a teacher and even more difficult when many parents are not supportive and not involved. I know that in this particular study there is the recognition of that issue. We see that even the question of changing the conditions for the Caymanian teachers or for teachers in this country is not going to be something that is going to be accomplished without the co-operation of parents as well. We can see how everything is inter-related and why at the end of the day there must be an holistic approach in solving this particular issue.

I think enough has been said by the Minister of Education, by the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town who have done the study and by the Member from East End that I do not have to belabour the specific points. In concluding I want to say that we must have a holistic approach to this particulate issue. We must not isolate it, we must understand what it is that we want to achieve at the end and we must understand that we have to look at the expatriate teacher population in looking at the Caymanian teacher population because they interact and affect each other. Perhaps it is also time that we see the expatriate teachers here as human capital; that we need somehow to give some kind of permanency in our society.

I think it would be sort of important if I made a comment about the Minister of Education as he did a very eloquent delivery of a message to the Community College during the recent graduation ceremony. Mr. Speaker, he did not speak about becoming a teacher, he spoke to the people about information technology and the importance of information technology. I thought to myself, here is the Minister of Education talking about the importance of information technology at a very important graduation of students from our community college. Now would that not have been a great opportunity to speak to people about becoming teachers; to persuade as many of those that had the Associate degrees to now apply to the Government for a scholarship to become teachers?

What we will find is that we will all have to be advertising, promoting and encouraging people to become involved with the teacher's profession. Parents, politicians, teachers, people in business must do it, because at the end, as others have said, without the teachers you do not have the accountants and the lawyers. The industry knows that at the end of the day that it will suffer if we do not have our teachers. I do believe that one of the reasons why we do not have more teachers is because people have not at an early enough age realised that it is not what you make but the quality of how you make it. Children should realise that there is a big difference between just working in a job taking other person's instructions, not being able to be creative and being inventive, or doing a job where you have no choice and doing a job where you have some choice. Doing a job when you are actually going to help to build a life, to create a future and doing a job where you are not even somehow knowledgeable or related to those persons for whom you are producing.

I think again the question that we are dealing with is still nevertheless a moral and philosophical rather than a purely economic one. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Floor is open to debate, does any other Member wish to speak? The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, for this opportunity to offer a few words and views on this very important report by the Committee to examine the conditions relating to the recruitment of Caymanians into the teaching profession.

Those who have gone before me have eloquently and extensively addressed many of the technical issues which are outlined in the report and given my dislike for repetition, and my penchant for economy of words, I do not propose to examine the report in detail, as is my usual way. I propose to deal with this matter, albeit somewhat briefly on a more philosophical plain.

I come from a long line of teachers. My paternal grandfather and grandmother were teachers; one of my uncles is a trained teacher having attended that august institution of Mico College, the Alma Mater; his colleague, the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, my uncle Haig Bodden of blessed memory, was also a teacher, and one of my sisters is a teacher and currently the principal at the John Gray High School. My father as well, was a pupil teacher, having taught at West Bay and Cayman Brac for a number of years in the late forties and early fifties. So, I may be considered as something of an aberration, something of a misfit, not quite having made the mark and not having joined what the Minister of Education described as the only truly noble profession.

Having been exposed at so many levels for all of my life to teachers, I have only the highest of regard for their patience, concern, care, diligence and their long suffering. It takes all of those characteristics and more to be able to carry out properly the function and duty and profession of teaching. I believe to have some understanding of how we have arrived at a situation where the question of recruiting and retaining Caymanians within the teaching profession is such a crucial issue that a report was commissioned and a committee set up to examine this situation. I believe we have to take a long look at our recent history and our social development over that period.

In the early days of my grandfather and father, teaching in these Islands was really the only avenue available to intelligent ambitious Caymanians who wished to pursue a course of higher education. There was very little else besides the sea that was available to anyone. So, those who were ambitious proceeded to become pupil teachers and in latter years many of them went to Mico College and in my grandfather's time a select few had the opportunity to attend places like Cornwall College also in Jamaica.

Mr. Speaker, in those times teachers were highly valued, highly respected. They were leaders in the community, leaders in the society, individuals to whom everyone would turn for all sorts of advice. They performed many functions in addition to teaching children in the classrooms. Indeed, they in many ways taught and assisted much of society. They were paid, certainly in grandfather's day, something of a novelty to have a monthly income paid by the Government. However, far more I believe than the simple issue of obtaining a decent regular salary was the question of respect and value which being a teacher brought to the individual.

What has happened, I believe over the course of the last 20 or 30 years, is that Cayman has become far more prosperous as more and more opportunities have become available. As we have seen the development of business, commerce and the financial industry, there has been significant value shifts because those industries pay far more. They entitle the individuals employed in them, the lawyers, the bankers, the businessmen, to exert far more influence on what transpires in the society. It is these individuals who are the movers, shakers and moulders of legislation, of the social framework of this country while the influence of teachers on the wider community is seen as less.

As a result, the teachers themselves are accorded less and less obvious respect within the community. Their salaries reflect the lack of support that they receive from parents, from government, that tend to convey the impression and feeling to all and particularly the young people, that this really is not a terribly good profession to be employed in. They get little or no respect, little or no support, they are not paid a great deal and they have to put up with all sorts of difficulties. In these days they have to worry about personal safety. They are subjected to tremendous stress and the young person is bound to ask: Why should I aspire to be a teacher?

We have always had expatriate teachers in this community from the very, very early days. That is not a new factor. Just about everyone that I know in this community has come under the influence, direction and instruction of a teacher who came to the Cayman Islands from somewhere else. We cannot place, I believe, a value on the tremendous contribution that expatriate teachers have made and continue to make to this society. The reality is that teachers are responsible for the education of everyone. Those that become doctors, lawyers, bankers, ministers of Executive Council and teachers, affect all Mr. Speaker. It is difficult to know where their influences on individual lives extend.

I believe in looking at this whole situation and the conditions relating to the recruitment of Caymanians into the teaching profession, we have to look at the situation and the conditions relating to the recruitment of teachers generally. It is the conditions that are present within the education system and the various schools at which these teachers work that are the source of the concern. The reality is that all teachers are affected by these conditions but the result in numbers is that the number of Caymanian teachers continues to decline each year until we are now at a point where of a teaching force of some 529, only 119 are Caymanians and 410 come from somewhere else.

The Honourable Minister for Education has spoken at some length about the difficulties and the problems that are present in the education system and the Department as he has come to find it. My good friends, the Elected Member from East End and the Second Elected Member from Bodden Town, have also referred extensively to the Millett Report, which must be considered as condemnation of much of the way the Education Department is structured and functions.

The Minister has on more than one occasion, including speaking to this particular Motion, outlined what he thinks should be done to address the problems raised in the Millett Report and the problems, many of them, which overlap that have been raised in the Report of the Committee to examine the conditions relating to the recruitment of Caymanians into the teaching profession.

Not a great deal of it comes as any surprise to any of us who have paid any attention to what has transpired with education in this country over course of the last 16 years or so. I have spoken on more than one occasion about the problems as I see them and I am not proposing during the course of my debate to articulate those problems. I have also heard, like other Honourable Members, the Honourable Minister for Education express some of his frustration over the current constitutional constraints which prevent him from exercising the sort of administrative authority that is absolutely critical in my view, to ensure that the problems discovered by and explained in the Millett Report and indeed this report on the recruitment of Caymanians into the teaching profession.

I hear what the Honourable Minister says, I understand his frustrations but, Mr. Speaker, it will be a travesty if those constitutional constraints allow the current situation to remain unaddressed. That is, if the problems identified and reported on do not get the attention that they require and that the education system, and particularly the structure and functioning of the Education Department remain unattended.

Mr. Speaker, I believe for the first time in the history of this country we have at the helm of the Ministry of Education an individual whose entire life, prior to politics, is devoted to education. An individual who holds the requisite qualifications and experience to make the kind of fundamental changes to the system that are absolutely critical, if our young people are going to have presented to them the types of opportunities, instructions and directions that are necessary. So, that they graduate from the education system armed with the educational tools and qualifications which will enable them to move into tertiary education or into the work force with the abilities to carry out sophisticated technical challenging roles; which are required of those who have to work in this 21st century.

I am happy to offer my support to this Motion seeking to adopt this Report. I believe it will have the support of all Honourable Members of this House. I urge the Honourable Minister to do whatever it takes to ensure that this report and the Millet Report which had been hidden for some time, do not collect dust on some shelf hidden deep in the labyrinth of the Department of Education. These matters are too critical for them to be permitted to be ignored.

I wish to address the importance of the Caymanian teacher in the education system and in the school's system. I mentioned a little earlier how valuable the contribution of expatriate teacher has been and how valuable it still is. Indeed if I may say so, I believe that expatriates are without a doubt, the most altruistic group of immigrants who have come here and I have had the benefit of them during my educational career.

Again, I can speak from experience. It is so important to the development of one's self worth and overall development that during the course of one's educational career one is able to have the benefit of another who speaks like you do; who comes from the sort of background that you do; who understands the cultural nuances and idiosyncrasies of one. Again, if throughout your educational career your opportunity to be exposed to and meet with teachers who are Caymanian is severely limited because the number of Caymanian teachers is so limited. It is bound to have a profound effect on your overall view and value of the teaching profession. If this profession is so good and so valuable, why are there not more of my people involved in it?

I remember when I was at the High School in the early 70s there were not very many Caymanian teachers there even then. I remember when two came, Mrs. Joy Basdeo and Mrs. Deanna Look Loy and how joyful most of us were. In fact we thought it was something just short of a miracle that there were individuals who had gone away to University, qualified and were able to teach who came back and spoke with a Caymanian accent. Certainly for me, Mr. Speaker, that had a profound impact and impression upon my psyche and my sense of identity and 'Caymanism'. We must do whatever we can to improve the conditions that keep Caymanians away from the profession and cause them to leave. I believe the Committee has done an exemplary job in identifying many of these. We need to reach a point where the issue is not one of salaries.

Teachers, I believe understand that they can never expect to earn the huge salaries of some extraordinary successful lawyer and I do not believe that many of them aspire to that. However, they must have an all around sense of worth, sense of support, sense of community respect and value added to the package that makes being a teacher worthwhile in every sense.

I remember quite a few years ago, when I was still in Law school and an articled clerk. At that time my sister (now the principal at John Gray High School) was a teacher at that school. Mr. Speaker, as an articled clerk, I was earning significantly more than she was as a qualified teacher with two degrees. Something fundamentally is wrong with that Mr. Speaker. I also remember the level of frustration that she encountered in trying to deal with the red tape, the bureaucracy and the unwillingness to move with the times, and the constraints placed upon imaginative, ambitious and able teachers to do things the way they had been taught in university and not the way that their superiors had been taught a generation before.

I also remember that this combination of frustrations caused my sister to make an application for admission to the Cayman Islands Law School and caused her to almost quit the teaching profession and move on to something else. That I believe would have been something of a tragedy in more than one sense because she would have been extremely unhappy doing anything but teaching.

Again, Mr. Speaker, I commend this effort; I commend the report. I pray and hope it will find fertile ground where it really needs to grow and that it will be accepted that it will be implemented. That in due course, we will see a teaching profession which takes on the new vibrancy which retains Caymanian and expatriate teachers and is an attractive vocation to young people who are coming up through the system.

I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: At this time, we will suspend proceedings until 2.30 p.m. for lunch.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.57 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.53 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Debate continuing on Government Motion No. 7/01. Does any other Member wish to speak? The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, this Motion which seeks the adoption of the report of the Committee to examine the conditions relating to the recruitment into the teaching profession here in the Cayman Islands, is one that I see of paramount importance to us as a small island jurisdiction.

Mr. Speaker, this Committee was charged with four things, primarily:

- 1) To determine how far the present supply of Caymanian Teachers meet the overall demand for teachers within the Education system in the Cayman Islands.
- 2) To investigate the reasons why Caymanian teachers leave the profession giving attention to the average length of stay and alternative employment they choose.
- 3) To determine the ways and means of attracting Caymanians into the teaching profession giving particular attention to male Caymanians.
- 4) Finally in arriving at its conclusions the Committee was asked to structure its schedule so as to present an interim report in April with the final report presented to the Ministry of Education, Human Resources and Culture, on or before June 30 2001.

First of all I would just like to say a worthy note of congratulations to the Chairman of the Committee, the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, and indeed all the Committee members, and all those involved in putting together this most thorough and enlightening report.

Now, Mr. Speaker, to say that some of the findings are shocking, would probably not be the most accurate statement in the world. I think a lot of us have had hunches developed over the years as to why it is difficult to recruit Caymanians. What appears to be even more disturbing is why does it seem so difficult to retain the Caymanians we do get to go into the teaching profession?

Mr. Speaker, I think I attend one of the smallest congregations on our Island. In that congregation alone, there are three Caymanians who are all qualified teachers who have all left the profession. The first thing that I would like to say is, that I believe this report is an admission of the new Minister for Education of what is a national crisis and a cause for national concern. I have said time and time again any society that cannot police itself, judge itself, doctor itself and finally teach itself, there are fundamental questions all of us should be worried about.

In fact, Mr. Speaker, in my former profession we had to determine whether or not our clients were a going concern. That is, looking at the industry and looking at their strength and weakness and looking at their market, whether or not it can be reasonably expected that they would survive financially. If we as a community of Caymanians had to try to go it alone in this world, those four criteria that I just listed would indicate to any reasonable person that we are not a going concern. Indeed, Mr. Speaker, of most fundamental importance we cannot teach ourselves. After all it is the teachers who teach the doctors, the police and the judges.

I would first like to say that having gone through this exercise, the community should be hopeful because this is the first step in getting us to where we belong; in getting us to where we need to be; identifying the problem; analysing the problem and coming up with some potential solutions to the problem. However, if any of us expect that over the course of this administration—or indeed I would beg to say probably over the next three to four administrations—that we are going to solve this issue we will be sadly mistaken. In fact we are setting ourselves up for failure and disappointment.

Mr. Speaker, the teaching profession is a calling; it is a noble calling. It is like missionaries. Right now the world does not have enough missionaries. Teaching is for very special people. Intellect, Mr. Speaker, is important, but it is the caring, nurturing, patient type of individual who is needed in order to be successful. Mr. Speaker, I believe a lot of us in here who have received tertiary education would quickly admit that we probably do not have those sets of special traits that would be required to be very good teachers.

Mr. Speaker, certainly in the past teaching was the primary avenue for persons who were academically inclined to channel those talents. We now have to recognise that in today's world the teaching profession has a lot of competition when it comes to those who are academically inclined. Mr. Speaker, I can remember when we went through our Career days and Career lessons so many people telling the teachers at the High School, 'Why would we want to become teachers?' I can honestly and safely say that the two Career teachers that I had (both Caymanians), encouraged students to consider teaching as a career—to consider it their lifelong ambition. However, Mr. Speaker, while economics do play an important role in life, I believe that because of the sheer size of our population when we carve out the number of people who truly have that calling, we are reduced to such a small number. Therefore, for us to make a sizeable, meaningful dent in this problem it is going to take many years and it will take a lot of work.

Mr. Speaker, as I said earlier, what is most distressing is the number of Caymanian teachers who leave the profession. I think each of us here can identify five to ten Caymanians without really thinking long or hard who have left teaching. So, Mr. Speaker, by this committee being charged with that as a mandate to investigate the reasons that Caymanians leave the profession, I believe they were right on target. Obviously there always has to be a concerted effort to bring Caymanians into the profession. However, I believe that when we have that small number of people who answer this special calling, it is of utmost importance to keep them, to maintain them in the profession.

Mr. Speaker, because we see right here that when the persons who have this calling and for whatever reason, feel like they are being treated fairly, we see them stay on forever. Just recently we had the privilege of having a retirement ceremony for a lady who taught for some thirty years at the West Bay Primary School. Thirty years, Mr. Speaker. If memory serves me correct, she did not even change the grade or year that she taught. For as long as I can remember she taught Primary 2. Mr. Speaker, last year when all of us campaigned I think the Member from East End is quite right that a lot of us campaigned on education as being the bedrock of any society.

Therefore, if we accept that education is the bedrock, then by default we admit that teachers lay the most critical of foundations for a society. I took the opportunity at that time to speak to six young Caymanians (5 females, 1 male) who had left the profession. When asked the reason they left, the one that I remember the most, is that they felt that when they first came home they were being taken out to the drop-off, thrown off the boat and told to sink or swim. So, Mr. Speaker, it was no surprise, then, when I looked at figure 2.2 in the Report at the reasons quoted by the teachers who were surveyed as to those who left the profession, and saw that one of the highest response rates came to the issue of feeling—a feeling of isolation.

The other thing I was told was about the lack of tangible goals and targets. Again, not surprising, we see in this report a lack of motivating factors on the job as being one of the primary reasons. Mr. Speaker, I believe that this problem is going to be one where, as the report has indicated, the approach to solving it is going to have to be by default, multi-faceted and creative. We can talk about the economics of it all we want.

I can remember persons who went to school with me who said to our Careers teacher that they could not be paid enough to teach. Some of them have gone on to be accountants, lawyers, engineers, computer technicians—I remember them quite well, Mr. Speaker. They could not be paid enough to teach. Mr. Speaker, I think that is the proof; it is a special calling. We have to recognise that yes, we have to deal with the economic side of it and deal with that effectively. However, this is not a problem where you can put some monetary incentives in place and all of a sudden you are going to make tangible inroads in regards to solving the problem.

Now, Mr. Speaker, having said that, when we look at the responses that were forthcoming in the Report, two of the highest reasons for people leaving are item 14, Lack of incentives, monetary loan facilities, travel, negotiable salaries and item 16 salaries. So, obviously, the monetary situation cannot be left out. In fact one of the teachers ... I think it was the Elected Member from East End who alluded to this point.

I almost get the feeling that we must have spoken to the same person, because she shared quite eloquently with me the problems that she had in procuring a loan to build a house, and she was a teacher. What was most disheartening about her story was that after leaving the profession and going into the private sector there was then a subsequent increase in salaries across the Civil Service. At that point in time she felt that she could go back into the profession. The story she relayed to me in terms of the obstacles that were put in her place—and she still has not gone back in regards to re-entering the profession—I found very disheartening—extremely disheartening, Mr. Speaker.

I would think that any Caymanian who wants to get into teaching would be welcomed with open arms. Indeed, anyone who was in the profession and did a good job and left on good terms and wanted to go back, I think that should have been a non-issue, but apparently that was not the case. I think that in itself speaks volumes to the task that the Minister for Education and each of us has on our hands in regards to trying to solve this issue. Mr. Speaker, it is not going to take just any Minister for Education to solve this. This is going to take years and years of hard work. It is going to take all of us in the community, honouring and respecting teachers and elevating that profession back to the status that it should hold in this community, and not dampening spirits of those who might have the calling Mr. Speaker. Because I believe with the current mood that exists in this Island that even those who inside might have that calling would not gravitate toward teaching as a profession. I say that for a number of reasons.

I had the displeasure during my years at the West Bay Primary School, of seeing parents come there and curse teachers and try to fight teachers. When I think back on those parents and on the children and I went to school with the children so I knew what the children were like in school. You see where some of them have now wound up, what their lives have become and then you think about the impact that had on all of us as young children to witness this.

Some would say you have to be half crazy to have seen something like that from your very own people and then want to get into this profession. I, certainly as a CPA (Certified Public Accountant), have not had any fears of any client coming to my office and beating me up, nor have I ever heard of such madness. Yet it happens.

I believe that this report and this exercise is the first step from a long journey for us as a community. I believe it is incumbent upon all of us in the community to hold each other accountable in this issue; to hold our families accountable; those who will go to schools and try to curse teachers and try to fight teachers. We do not know how many potentially great Caymanian teachers are being turned off by these senseless and immature acts. I believe that with a lot of work and a lot of prayer that we can continue to build a community and a society that is sustainable, but there has to be focus.

I am glad that the Minister of Education has recognised this as a problem of national concern. In other countries where the governments and political directorate see matters that they believe are of national concern, they do all sorts of what is considered, in economic theory, crazy things. In fact in the United States they see farming as a matter of national security, so what do they do? Their farmers are not as efficient or as cost effective as farmers in other countries and if you follow economic theory then they should import those particular foods, because they can import them cheaper than they can produce them. However, Mr. Speaker, they recognise it as important and they subsidise it.

I have heard speakers mention this issue of equality in terms of pay and I am not so sure that I subscribe to that theory. I believe that when we find Caymanians with a calling we have to ensure, within reasonable means that they are adequately compensated so that compensation will not be the driving factor in them leaving the profession. Obviously most of us would recognise that you cannot pay a teacher what well paid accountants, doctors and lawyers in the community receive.

However, I believe that if we are going to truly be serious; have a holistic approach; admit that a lot of this will require us to bring up our children differently; recognise that unless we tell people in tangible ways that we need them here and in the classroom; we may not succeed.

So, I personally would have no problem if the Government were to ask me to vote for measures whereby Caymanian teachers get increased salaries. If that is what it takes— and certainly from the responses that we see in this report, two of the top three responses are either salaries or one that mentions monetary reward— then I believe we have to address that with our Caymanian teachers. A society that cannot teach its accountants, potential doctors, potential engineers, potential lawyers in my mind calls into question what you can truly consider yourself.

Again I would like to congratulate all those who had any part to do with this report. I would like to publicly congratulate the Minister of Education for recognising a national issue. Certainly I would like to encourage him to stay the course on this issue. I can pledge my support to do whatever it takes, to shake whatever empires have to be shaken to ensure that we are able to start to address this national crisis.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The Floor is open to debate. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr Lyndon L. Martin: Mr Speaker, I have a very short contribution to make to Motion No. 7/01 calling for the adoption of the report of a committee to examine the conditions relating to the recruitment of Caymanians into the teaching profession.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to join with my colleagues in congratulating the Minister with constitutional responsibility for education and the entire committee who was granted the task of conducting this review and preparing what has turned out to be a very informative, comprehensive, detailed review and recommendation as it relates to Caymanians in the teaching profession.

I would like to particularly thank the Minister for including in the committee two Cayman Brackers, namely: Mr. Jonathan Tibbetts, Mr. Leonard Bodden and third, an adopted Cayman Bracker, the Chairman of the committee—the Second Elected Member from Bodden Town—to ensure that this review covered representation from all three of the Cayman Islands.

I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge all of the praise that has been given here today to a young, ambitious, educated and qualified Cayman Bracker, a teacher of East End Primary School, Mr. Jonathan Tibbetts. I receive these congratulations with pride because I know the young man quite well and his family and I know the importance that he placed on this very issue of assisting in the promotion of Caymanians in the teaching profession. I do place the Member from East End on alert. We are very much interested in having young Tibbetts return to his homeland of Cayman Brac to join the teaching ranks in that particular district.

Mr. Speaker as you will certainly be aware, teaching and Caymanians in teaching is of special importance to our district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. However, there are very few professions in which we can offer opportunities within our particular unique district. When we educate accountants we educate them to leave and to come over to Grand Cayman or other locations to work. However, when we educate a teacher in the Cayman Brac and Little Cayman we are giving them an opportunity that they can return to their own district to be with their families, watch their young ones come up and play a part in the growth and the development of their own district.

Teaching in Cayman Brac would be representative of the statistics provided here where it is predominantly dominated by expatriates which offers and avails itself to an opportunity to young Cayman Brac students to pursue this opportunity. For (like myself) many of them would like to find an occupation that allows them to grow to their full academic and intellectual capacity, but at the same time offers them an opportunity to be in their homeland. After many years of exploring with many occupations, I have had to turn to politics to ensure that I can be with my people and my family in Cayman Brac. I encourage the young people of that district to give serious consideration to the teaching profession.

I would like to make a special note that as a result of recent efforts this year, the Ministry of education through the Education Council granted three scholarships for young people in Cayman Brac to pursue teaching. Mr. Speaker, that is a significant number when you look at our population. I would also like to give special recognition to young Vicki Myrie who has recently returned to Creek Primary School as a qualified, licensed, teacher and is now participating in the process of educating those who come after her.

When we talk of creating incentives and the right conditions to attract Caymanians into the teaching profession we must also examine our culture. This culture has always placed some degree of superiority on the foreign national who spoke with the foreign accent. Recently, I was told a story about a qualified Caymanian who presented a report to his supervisor, who then took it and thought it appropriate to hire a consultant from overseas to conduct a similar review. However, in the wisdom of the foreign consultant, when he arrived he spoke to the Caymanian who had recently carried out the exact exercise and found his report to be comprehensive. He simply took the same report and presented it, with the only difference that it was presented with his national accent and the supervisor accepted the report. We must look at this culture in which we do not place a significant amount of confidence in our own people. It is a weakness that we have and we must strive to make these changes.

The Cayman Islands Government has for many years been criticised for continually hiring consultants. I have argued that we have a lot of local expertise and this particular report has convinced me that the use of our local experts can provide the same type of quality review and reports that we would normally spend an exorbitant amount of funds to commission from an overseas consultant.

When I reviewed this particular report and also the Millett report—two reports which I consider of equal value and equal quality—one is provided by a group of local individuals who are involved in the Cayman community and who understand the Cayman setting and more importantly understand the profession in which they are reviewing as compared to soliciting a foreign national or foreign consultant to come in and provide a glossy report with in many instances not a whole lot of substance; and that is an opinion.

Mr. Speaker, as I committed to, I intend to be very short. I would just like to conclude by offering my support to the Minister for the Motion in which he has brought to this House. I will support this Motion and all efforts necessary for the implementation of the recommendations contained in the referred report.

Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The Motion is open for debate. Does any other Member wish to speak? The Motion is open for debate. Does any other Member wish to speak? Final call. The Motion is open. Does any other Member wish to speak? No other Member wishes to speak?

Does the Honourable Minister wish to exercise his right of reply?

The Honourable Minister for Education, Human Resources and Culture.

Hon. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, thank you.

I have listened to what Honourable Members had to say about the Report and I have registered their comments and observations. Mr. Speaker, I would caution against any notion that this is going to be an easy exercise or that its results will be immediately obvious: far from that, Mr. Speaker. It is going to involve painstaking, time consuming efforts at arriving at strategies and solutions, which will have to be crafted in such a way that the temptation to make short term gains is overridden by the more long term, more permanent and far reaching objectives.

An important part of the mandate of this political directorate is the provision of opportunities for Caymanians to educate and equip themselves to take their places in the Caymanian community. Mr. Speaker, I re-emphasise the point that this is not about the importance of any one element over the other. It is not that we do not register or appreciate the efforts of those who come from outside the community. It is, Mr. Speaker, an acknowledgement that we would prefer to see more of our own people in the teaching profession for obvious reasons.

I have said on many occasions before, that the Cayman Islands have always depended on expatriate teachers and will continue to do so for a long time. Indeed, Mr. Speaker, I think it should be encouraged that we have a certain percentage of teachers from outside the Cayman Islands. This allows us to expose our children to another perspective and different view points. It reminds us that we should not be ethnocentric or insular in our own thinking or that we should think that the Cayman Islands are a world unto themselves.

It is also true that you can take from the smallest jurisdiction to the largest, the objective of all these countries. That objective is to have a majority of their people in positions where it comes to imparting and transmitting the values of the society, the community and the nation. It stands to reason that the best transmitters of the Caymanian way of life are Caymanians themselves and those who become Caymanians.

I make the point about those who become Caymanian because I have said too (and I concur with those Honourable Members who made this point), that we should be far more flexible in allowing persons like teachers who come here, to get what the anthropologist call acculturated in our system. We should have a far easier mechanism for them to be able to transform themselves into citizens of our country. It is the one thing in which we are lacking sophistication and a broad-minded world view.

Some years ago there was a move here by some persons, which I criticised, to give teachers long-serving awards. I said then as I say now, that it is better to offer them the opportunity to become Caymanian citizens, if they so wish, instead of giving them some award which has absolutely no meaning to them: just something to put on a shelf and gather dust. That is what I stand for and would like to see. That is what I tried to do, but bureaucratic snags, insularity among some elements, prevented this from being done.

Until we come to certain realisations and understand that these are the long term objectives and steps that we need to take, our country and our society is not going to be any better off. So, I want to go down on record as saying that as the Minister of Education I would love to be able to offer every teacher in this system, who is not now a Caymanian, the opportunity to become one if they so wish. Not only to them, because if they have demonstrated intention to be domiciled here I would extend it to their immediate family. This is one way of immediately closing the gap. Certainly, Mr. Speaker, it is done in other jurisdictions.

Several years ago I immigrated to Canada and the rules were clear cut. As a matter of fact, the Department of Immigration and Manpower has listed in your immigrant visa that you will be expedited if you fall into certain categories. At that time there were tool and dye makers, technical people; people in the computer world. Several years before it had been teachers because there was a shortage of teachers.

I contend these are the kinds of approaches that we in the Cayman Islands should take, but we will not be able to take them until we remove the blinkers that have been colouring so many people's vision for so many years. So, I want to make it emphatically clear that I have no prejudice against any expatriate teacher.

I have always said that the best way to protect Caymanians is to educate them and train them to compete. Any other way is a political fallacy. We cannot talk about Caymanian protection and expect that we are going to make some law to exclude outsiders in a world that is borderless and in a system that is crying out about international human rights. It is a political fallacy and any politician who believes that is a fool and does not deserve to be elected. Politicians must be responsible and preach that the people must get themselves educated, trained and equipped to compete. That is the best guarantee of protection of Caymanians.

Mr. Speaker, it is unfortunate that the Government finds itself in the predicament in which it finds itself now, because to embark on a campaign to attract teachers into the teaching profession is going to necessitate considerable financial resources. It has to be a broad and comprehensive campaign, and one should note as was evident in the Report, that while salaries and financial incentives are mentioned, those are not at the top of the list as preventing and discouraging teachers.

There is a general lack of professional and managerial leadership in schools; working in a threatening environment; a feeling of isolation; lack of motivating factors on the job; overwhelming paper work requirements; extreme moralistic requirements for teachers, for example dress code and impractical rules regarding single parents; the sense of disparity between Caymanians and non-Caymanians; the lack of feeling physically secured in the school environment—these are all things that the Education Department and by inference the Ministry should be working to solve, because these are not things that are going to take millions and millions of dollars to craft.

However, we are lagging behind. We are lagging behind because there is a breakdown in communication, because the Education Department is just beginning to organise itself because of the Millett Report. We are lagging behind because it seems to me—and I say this without fear of successful contradiction – that too often too much energy is expended in the Education Department on petty rivalries and prejudices and people drifting off into their own little cocoons with no attempt to see the bigger picture. It is no exaggeration to say that, I am approached daily by people who tell me that they are interested in teaching, but are discouraged by the attitudes of some people.

Mr. Speaker, I have spoken about this to the Chief Education Officer and I have told my Permanent Secretary of the need to correct these kinds of attitudes. Heaven knows it is good that I do not have administrative responsibility, because I would have to red card several people! I would red card them, similar to when you are playing soccer and the referee gives you a red card that means you are off the field. I would have to send them out, Mr. Speaker, if I had administrative responsibility, because we have no time for these kinds of attitudes. We have no time for this kind of discouragement.

It is not how I feel about somebody. It is not me—I am a public servant. I have a job to perform and I cannot take my prejudices, I cannot take my personal business, I cannot take my feelings and vent on other people who do not deserve that treatment. The broader view has got to be taken and I am insisting. Heaven knows I am insisting that this be done because we have to find more people of our own making to bring into this profession!

It stands to reason, Mr. Speaker, we will not be able to make it unless we do. We have to make it attractive for them and so it brings me to this point. I am working on a package to bring to the Government, to the Executive Council including costing. So, that it would be up to the Government to say whether they accept the Minister's recommendations and his plan to embark on a campaign to attract Caymanian teachers. In this package I am going to include such things as training. I would like to see, Mr. Speaker.

There is no reason the first two years of teacher training cannot be done at the Community College here, which will give people the option of studying at home, because I do not necessarily believe, Mr. Speaker, that it should be exclusive to school leavers. I believe the programmes should be so flexible that if we have people who want to change careers they should be able to do so. I did a comparative exercise in preparation for debating this Report and I notice that some years ago the Government had an arrangement with the University of Miami for teacher training.

I was not surprised to find that the cost to train a teacher at the University of Miami, was twice as much as it would have cost sending them to a Canadian University. At the Canadian University, they could have gotten two degrees! The only inconvenience of course, is the greater distance and perhaps the climate, but the University which I attended has a concurrent degree programme for teachers. It runs for four years and the teachers get a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Science Degree in a discipline or they can single major or double major. In addition to that they would get a Bachelor of Education Degree and teacher certification.

The Bermuda Government had an agreement with Queens University some years ago, where if they had twelve students enrolled in this programme, Queens University sent down the professors during the summer and during the first two years. For the final two years of study, the students had to go to Canada to the campus of Queens University. I believe that such an arrangement would be attractive to many Caymanian people. I believe that we should explore these kinds of programmes.

Certainly now with all of the universities going online we should explore distance learning. I have been in contact with the University of the West Indies school of continuing studies, with a view of that school taking a higher profile in the Cayman Islands in the distance learning unit the UWIDITE (University of the West Indies Distance Teaching Experiment system they call it). I shall explore the possibility of helping to develop a teacher education programme, which will allow Caymanian candidates to stay at home for a period, possibly going on to a university campus for the final year or two years. I am awaiting the report from Professor Lawrence Carrington so that I can include this in the package which I hope to be taking to the Government.

Then too, the Government has to change its policy of not paying past the first degree. I think that is an antiquated policy. Many teachers now have a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Science as well as a Master of Education Degree. I think the Government needs to change its policy where it recognises and compensates people with second degrees. In many instances now a first degree is only recognised as the entry level requirement. In many fields you go into now you need at least a Masters. So, there are all these contingencies which we have to remove, vault, or hurdle over if this exercise is to be successful.

Then, Mr. Speaker there is a third, I believe (and I have said as much to the technical people in education that the time has now come in Cayman), where we get away from choosing school principals purely on the fact that such and such a person has spent x number of years in a school. In the United Kingdom and Canada you have to take exams to qualify as a school principal. That should be the case here. I have been speaking with the school's inspectorate about developing such a programme because school principals are special people. They have to be trained in administration, to be trained in personnel management, to develop the appropriate interpersonal skills and not the least important they have to be a master teacher.

If you are responsible for others under you it stands to reason that you have to have acquired the mastery of the skills to such a level that you can look at somebody and say, you know this could be better imparted by doing it this way or this is the new method now, or this is what we are currently doing. Mr. Speaker, for me they must be introduced to information technology (IT) skills. It is of critical importance—and it is the sine quo non to qualify for principalship in any school in any modern jurisdiction—that you be IT literate. You have to be IT literate because the world is “on line” at this time. Mr. Speaker, these are things that we have to do.

Mr. Speaker, the fifth is “mentoring”. I would love to see a system—and one Honourable member raised it. I think it was my colleague the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, where senior teachers are responsible for shepherding the younger teachers. There is a weakness in our system and, Mr. Speaker, I have lamented it. Young teachers coming from College and University are thrown cold turkey into the classroom, sometimes with little or no assigned supervision and left to flounder. Fortunately for us, Mr. Speaker, the majority make it but some do not: it is not because they are weak, unqualified, or were designed not to be teachers, but because they were left with no assistance – to walk in the dark blindfolded as it were.

I would love to see us develop a system where, when these teachers return are entrusted under the care and tutelage of a senior teacher who would shepherd them along. Who will mentor them as it were until they can cut their wings and then they will be left pretty much on their own. It is true, Mr. Speaker, the system in the Cayman Islands has significantly changed from the time I left the profession many, many years ago. However, I would go further than that. I would really like to see the Government put together a package of financial incentives.

I was talking with some young teachers, two couples. They were telling me of the difficulties they were having trying to acquire a house. Mr. Speaker, if we are really serious about this, we should look about setting aside a pool of money where these young persons, especially young couples can be accessed at reasonable rates. So that they can content themselves and do not have to worry about what they are going to do when siblings come along. Mr. Speaker, we should desist from being so exact and holding them down for every penny like we were some “Shy-lock”, not taking into consideration that often they go over and beyond what is required of them. So, I would like to see the Government consider that and make it easier for them to acquire scholarships for them to pursue post graduate studies.

I am working, Mr. Speaker, on a teacher exchange and sabbaticals whereby Caymanian teachers will be given six months and one year sabbaticals so that they can teach in other jurisdictions, vary their experiences, break up the routine and strike up relationships with other school systems and other schools.

I come now to what has to be regarded as the most sensitive. I have witnessed this first hand. We need most urgently to design a code whereby teachers understand their relationship with the students. It is of critical importance. I have requested it of the Chief Education Officer. In this era of human rights, in this era where there is no corporal punishment it is impossible to think that there is not going to be any contact between the teacher and the student.

Teaching is what I would call a human and an affectionate profession. Mr. Speaker, I have seen cases and I have witnessed cases where teachers get into trouble because they are forced to restrain students, they may be sometimes forced to take action to defend themselves or to save somebody from harm or even save somebody's life. I believe that it is entirely unreasonable for anyone to expect that a teacher should be charged with assault if that teacher intervenes to restrain one student from harming another student. I would frown upon anyone who expects me to pursue a case against that teacher under those circumstances. Just as I would frown upon anyone if a teacher is defending him or herself from assault by a student.

We have to get these things straight and parents have to understand that they have no licence, absolutely no licence to come on school compounds, to trespass on school compounds to assault teachers either verbally or physically. As a Minister I do not condone that and any parent who does that must feel the full force of the Law.

These are some of the things that teachers record as affecting whether they stay and come into the profession. Parents need to learn that teachers must be respected, that there is a procedure if they wish to come on the school's compound. The mechanisms and the process are in place. Teachers have recourse to complain, parents have recourse to complain against teachers but no parent has a licence to trespass on any school compound to curse or physically assault a teacher and I want to send that message this afternoon, loud and clear. It will not be tolerated by this Minister.

Mr. Speaker, the students themselves have to understand that the teacher is to be respected, but these things have their genesis in the breakdown of our societal values. The dress code: I see how some of these students go to school with their uniforms, their trousers down by the bent of the leg and shirts so big that Cimboco could use it as the main sail. I have spoken and I have told my people in the education establishment that we have to establish some sensible code of dress and I have made suggestions, Mr. Speaker, which I need not go in here.

However, I am sure when they become known they will be flexible enough because I believe that senior students should be given responsibility, should be encouraged to dress in a certain way that their individual identity can be recognised but I cannot, for the life of me, I cannot tolerate any general breakdown and a uniform is exactly that: uniforms must all be the same or similar.

Mr. Speaker, these are not insurmountable challenges but these are challenges which have the base in a change of attitudes—a paradigm shift—a change of cultural attitudes and norms. Mr. Speaker, it might not even be completely realised within the next three years. However, we have to begin and this must be the beginning point.

I said when I received the Report that it would be taken to Executive Council, which it has been; and that it would be tabled in the Legislative Assembly, which it has been. I also said that I would be prepared to tell the country what I saw as the way forward. When we leave here this afternoon, Mr. Speaker, if the Legislative Assembly votes to adopt the Report, as Minister it is my responsibility to put together a package to bring it to the Government and ask the Government to adopt that package or elements there from as the strategy to encourage, retain and embark upon some programme to have more Caymanians into the teaching profession.

I would expect, Mr. Speaker, to come back to this Honourable House within the next six months with such a package after it has met the approval of the Government. I hope that the Government, after accepting it, can make arrangements to have the money so that we can embark on this programme.

Mr. Speaker, I thank all Honourable Members who have spoken for their support. However, I caution them that, while I am cognisant about what needs to be done, I am really not a miracle worker. This is a formidable challenge and I appreciate their confidence in my ability. I appreciate their offers of help. I believe that together we can accomplish this objective and I look forward in now returning to my office and getting on with the work of crafting this programme so that I can present it to Government. Mr. Speaker, I believe that is challenge enough and I shall not take up any more time of Honourable Members in this course.

Before I conclude, Mr. Speaker, I would like to offer an apology to Mrs. Grace Wright whose name I omitted when I was calling those persons who had served on the committee. I am most impressed by this lady who I vividly recall was one of my brother's teachers when he was at high school. I know of her ability and her commitment from that time. I was most impressed when she called me volunteering her services. I put her in touch with the Chairman of the committee and I am happy that he and his committee saw fit to utilise her services. For, Mr. Speaker, it is teachers like these who have over the years laboured sometimes with no acknowledgement, no public acknowledgement, to make the Cayman Islands what they are.

Mr. Speaker, I am committed to bring the teaching profession up to the level of respectability and acceptance that it deserves and I am committed not to differentiate between any expatriate or any Caymanian teacher in this society but to respect all and sundry.

Thank you.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Government Motion No. 7/01 with its Resolve sections reading as follows: “Be it resolved that this Honourable House adapt the report of the Committee to examine the conditions relating to the recruitment of Caymanians into the teaching profession.”

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 7/01 PASSED

The Speaker: Moving on to Government Business, Bills. First Readings. Suspension of Standing Orders 45, 46(1)(2) and (4) and (47). The Honourable Second Official Member.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS 45, 46(1) (2) (4) AND (47)

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr Speaker, I rise to move the suspension of Standing Order 45, 46(1), (2) (4) and (47) in relation to the Bill entitled The Evidence (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill 2001.

The Speaker: We shall put the question that we suspend Standing Orders 45, 46 (1) (2) (4) and (47) in order to proceed with these Bills through the three readings. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDERS 45, 46(1) (2) (4) AND 47 SUSPENDED.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

FIRST READING

THE EVIDENCE (AMENDMENT) (NO. 2) BILL, 2001

The Clerk: The Evidence (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and set down for Second Reading.
Second Reading.

SECOND READING

THE EVIDENCE (AMENDMENT) (NO. 2) BILL 2001

The Clerk: The Evidence (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill 2001.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled The Evidence (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, 2001 be read a second time.

The Speaker: If you wish to speak to it, please continue.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This is the residue of the sitting and it is also the residue of this particular Bill. It seeks to insert an amendment, which was inadvertently omitted during the Committee stage process of the Evidence (Amendment) (Spouses, Experts, Foreign Convictions, Alibis, Etc.) Law, 2001, which was passed on 26 July. When the Bill came forward for assent, I noticed that a committee stage amendment, which had been tabled was not included and on inquiry it became apparent that although it had been circulated in the Committee stage amendment, it was not in fact directly spoken to at the Committee stage and accordingly was not included.

It is an object lesson that despite care, things can occasionally be overlooked and I have taken the point on board that in future any committee stage amendments will be read out verbatim so that they can be incorporated in the record rather than relying on the notice as partially occurred in this case. I apologise to the House for this omission. We lawyers have an expression “errors and omissions excepted” and I trust that you will accept my explanation.

The Amendment contained in the Bill provides that a person other than the accused may give evidence through a live television link in proceedings in a youth court. That was the omission and you will see that the provision for video recording allows video recordings to be used in four settings:

1. a trial on indictment;
2. in court of appeals setting;
3. in a summary trial for a category B offence, that is an either way offence;
4. and in a youth court.

The provision regarding television link was meant to tie up the two sections so that a young person giving evidence by video recording could then be cross examined, if necessary, by television link on that video recording. The provision would also allow anyone to give evidence by television link in a youth court. These measures are designed to both be sympathetic to young persons who have to give evidence and who may need special consideration and also the economy of the country in terms of the administration of justice.

So, with those remarks, Mr. Speaker, I would ask that the Bill be received by the House. I would like to take the opportunity of saying that I appreciate the co-operation in dealing with this matter in this way, which avoids it being mixed up with other issues later on which deserve the greater attention of the House.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The question is that a bill entitled The Evidence (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, 2001 be given a second reading. The Bill is open for debate. Does any Member wish to speak? Does any Member wish to speak? If no other Member wishes to speak would the Honourable Mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I wish to thank the House for its co-operation in this regard and to move that the Bill proceeds to a third reading.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question, on a bill entitled The Evidence (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, 2001. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a second reading.

AGREED: THE EVIDENCE (AMENDMENT) (NO. 2) BILL, 2001 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: The House will now go into Committee to consider a Bill entitled The Evidence (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, 2001.

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE AT 4.12 PM

COMMITTEE ON BILL

The Chairman: Please be seated. The House is now in Committee. With the leave of the House, may I assume that as usual we should authorise the Second Official Member to correct minor printing errors and such like in these Bills?

Would the Clerk please state each Bill and read its clauses?

THE EVIDENCE (AMENDMENT) (NO. 2) BILL 2001

The Clerk: The Evidence (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill 2001.

- Clause 1. Short title and commencement
- Clause 2. Amendment of section 27(C ) of the Evidence Law 1995 (Revision) Evidence through Television Links.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 and 2 do stand part of the Bill. No debate? I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 1 AND 2 PASSED.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

Just to clarify that in fact the title of the Bill is The Evidence (Amendment) Bill, 2001, which is how I introduced it. It was expected that it would be entitled, The Evidence (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, but that in fact is not necessary because the previous bill had a much longer title. So, if the House is satisfied that the proper title of the Bill is The Evidence (Amendment) Bill, 2001 then matters may proceed.

The Clerk: A Bill for a Law to Amend the Evidence Law 1995 (Revision).

The Chairman: The question is that the Title do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye; those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: TITLE PASSED.

The Chairman: The question is that the Bill be reported to the House. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. The House will resume.

AGREED: COMMITTEE TO REPORT TO THE HOUSE.

HOUSE RESUMED 4.17 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings of the House are resumed.

Bills, Reports. The Honourable Second Official Member.

REPORT ON BILL

THE EVIDENCE (AMENDMENT) BILL 2001

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr. Speaker, I beg to report that a Bill entitled The Evidence (Amendment) Bill, 2001, has been considered by a committee of the whole House and has passed without amendment.

The Speaker: The Bill is accordingly set down for Third Reading.

Bills, Third Reading.

THIRD READING

THE EVIDENCE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001

The Clerk: The Evidence (Amendment) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I rise to move that a Bill entitled The Evidence (Amendment) Bill, 2001 be given a third reading and passed.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled The Evidence (Amendment) Bill, 2001 be given a third reading and passed. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE EVIDENCE (AMENDMENT) (NO. 2) BILL, 2001 GIVEN A THIRD READING AND PASSED.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23 (8)

The Speaker: I now recognise the Honourable Member responsible for planning, communication and works to suspend Standing Order 23 (8).

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

As I mentioned yesterday afternoon before the adjournment, I would wish to seek your indulgence so that we could suspend Standing Order 23(8) in order to allow Members to resubmit those questions that were on the Business Paper, but not able to get to the Order Paper so that those Members can resubmit them for our next meeting, Sir.

The Speaker: For clarity in accordance with Standing Order No. 23(8) the proviso reads:

“If all other business for the meeting has been disposed of, such postponed questions and all other questions listed upon the Business Paper but not placed on the Order Paper shall be answered in writing, by the Member of the Government to whom the question was addressed, and copies of the answers shall be sent immediately thereafter to the Clerk, who shall send a copy to the Member in whose name the question stood.”

We are asking that we suspend that proviso to allow the Members to resubmit all unanswered questions appearing on the Business Paper but have not reached the Order Paper. The answers will be given orally.

Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER NO. 23(8) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW MEMBERS TO RESUBMIT QUESTIONS LISTED ON THE BUSINESS PAPER, BUT WHICH WERE TO BE PLACED UPON THE ORDER PAPER, AT THE NEXT MEETING OF THE HOUSE.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House, until 10 am Wednesday, 14 November 2001.

The Speaker: That concludes the business on the Order Paper.

As this is the last day of this Sitting, I would like to take this opportunity to thank Honourable Members for their courtesy and tolerance to the Chair. Thanks also to the Clerk, the Deputy Clerk, Hansard officers, the office staff and the Serjeant-at-Arms for their very efficient and capable service performed. I cannot close without thanking Miss Anita for her kind assistance to us.

I shall now entertain a motion for the adjournment of this Honourable House. The question is that this Honourable House do now adjourn until 10 am Wednesday, 14 November 2001.

Those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AT 4.21 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED
UNTIL 10 AM WEDNESDAY, 14 NOVEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
SPECIAL MEETING
8 NOVEMBER, 2001
10.18 AM

The Speaker: I will now ask the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town to say Prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. Anthony S. Eden: Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: we beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy name and for the safety honour and welfare of the people of these islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Government of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great name's sake.

Let us pray the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.22 am

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Speaker: Please be seated. The Legislative Assembly is in session. Item No. 2 on today's Order Paper, Reading by the Honourable Speaker of Messages and Announcements.

Honourable Members, I rise this morning to ask for co-operation. This is a serious moment in the history of the Cayman Islands. This is a meeting of our Parliament, the Legislative Assembly. I want to call to the attention of strangers in particular, that, under the provisions of section 18(1)(f) of the Legislative Assembly (Immunities, Powers and Privileges) Law (1999 Revision)—“18(1) Whoever—(f) creates or joins in any disturbance which interrupts or is likely to interrupt the proceedings of the Assembly while the Assembly is in sitting.”

This is a Sitting of the Legislature and again I ask for your co-operation. Thank you.

Item No. 3 on today's Order Paper, Other Business, Private Members' Motions, Private Member's Motion No. 24/01 to be moved by the Second Elected Member for West Bay.

OTHER BUSINESS

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 24/01

SHORTLY ENTITLED REVOCATION OF MINISTERS OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Mr. Speaker, I beg to move Private Member's Motion 24/01. It reads:

“BE IT RESOLVED THAT as provided for under Section 6 (2) F. of the Cayman Islands Constitution Order 1972. The election to the Executive Council of the Honourable D. Kurt Tibbetts, JP, and the Hon. Edna Moyle, JP, be revoked and that the two vacated positions be filled.”

The Speaker: Do we have a seconder? The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Mr Speaker, I beg to second this Motion, thank you.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 24/01 has been duly moved and seconded. Does the Mover wish to speak to it? The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Mr. Speaker, as the Motion clearly states, it is a Motion of revocation and certainly this matter has drawn considerable national interest and national debate and at this time I have nothing further to contribute.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 24/01 is open for debate. Does any Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The absence of any explanation speaks far more volume than any amount of debate that the Second Elected Member for West Bay could have contributed. Mr. Speaker, as we fight one another for the power and the glory, the kingdom goes to waste.

This is a day which shall live in infamy in the annals of Caymanian history. Mr. Speaker, this is the kind of day that causes people everywhere to hold such a jaundice view of politics and politicians. This is a day that exposes to full view the darkest and ugliest side of the Democratic process. This is a day that demonstrates what happens when we allow personal ambition to override responsibility and the national interest. This is the day that we face now.

Mr. Speaker, today one year ago, this country went through a general election and the significance of this date should not be lost upon everyone, because if anyone believes for a moment that this was not a carefully planned and carefully executed coup, then they need to think again.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order.

Mr. Speaker: Let me hear your point of order, Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Mr. Speaker, the Member just referred to what is happening in this Honourable House as a coup, Mr. Speaker, it is inconceivable! I draw your attention to that, Sir.

Mr. Speaker: That is a point of order and I ask you to withdraw that particular phrase.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, I withdraw the remark that this is a coup I simply say that a rose by any name smells just as sweet. Mr. Speaker, the Government that was formed following the General Elections and which assumed office on 15 November 2000, came together under very difficult and very controversial circumstances. For the part I played in that, I accept full responsibility. I was persuaded, Mr. Speaker, that given the choices we had chosen the lesser evil. I was wrong, Mr. Speaker, and I apologize.

Dr. Frank S. McField: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order.

Mr. Speaker: Third Elected Member for George Town. Let me hear your point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

Dr. Frank S. McField: Mr. Speaker, there is no evil in here. I think that we need to understand as a point of order, that if we are going to have order in the debate the Member must stop persuading his audience that what is happening here is dark, negative and evil.

Mr. Speaker: I think the Second Elected Member of George Town is expressing his personal feelings. Am I not correct, Mr. Second Elected Member of George Town?

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I am very grateful that you are preserving the freedom of speech which is so integral to the Democratic process.

Mr. Speaker: It is my responsibility to do that and I would ask that you phrase it in such a way that it is your opinion. Thank you.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. That is my very carefully, considered and deeply held opinion, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, that Government which came together assumed office facing very difficult situations. On the international front the world was facing the recession, which we all know has now come about. In addition, Mr. Speaker, there were the many supra national initiatives which had grave ramifications for the future of the financial industry of these Islands.

On the domestic front, Mr. Speaker, the Government assumed office to find that the country was in grave financial danger as a result of the reckless spending of the previous government. As a result of all of that, Mr. Speaker, we faced a budget session.

The Speaker: May I interrupt you for a moment? Again I ask that you phrase this as being your personal opinion in reference to the part of the Government spending.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: I am so sorry, Mr. Speaker. That is my opinion, Sir. Mr. Speaker, as a result of all of that, the new Government found it necessary to produce a budget that required the borrowing of some $28 million to fund the deficit in recurrent revenue. Since then the global economic position has worsened, particularly after the horrific events of September 11.

Then, Mr. Speaker, to compound those already dire circumstances, we were visited this last weekend with two terribly destructive hurricanes. And if we think that Michelle has caused devastation and reeked havoc and disaster, I submit, Sir, that disaster pales in comparison with the storm that we are now riding out. Mr. Speaker, the drastic and unprecedented actions employed by the members of the newly announced United Democratic Party are in my opinion, without doubt, the worst conceivable example of irresponsibility and the pursuit of personal ambition. Mr. Speaker, how can any—

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: Second Elected Member of West Bay, let me hear your point of order.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Mr. Speaker, our Standing Orders which all of us responsible Members are supposed to follow says that, "No Member shall impute improper motives to another Member." The Second Elected Member of George Town, although you have ruled, it is his opinion that the formation of the United Democratic Party is the pursuit of ambition and power. That is an improper motive, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: I hear your point of order and that is a point of order. I would ask you to be very cautious in phrasing your words as we are here to personify a correct position. Please withdraw that and rephrase what you are saying with your own personal opinion. Thank you.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, I did indicate when I began that sentence, Sir, 'that in my opinion'—and I was not suggesting that the formation of the party was the worst conceivable example of irresponsibility and the pursuit of personal ambition. I was saying, Mr. speaker, that the actions that they have employed, in my opinion amounted—

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Mr. Speaker, you have made a ruling, Sir. We are not supposed to debate your ruling.

The Speaker: Second Elected Member of West Bay, I understand, but please let us take our time. We are here to deliberate this to the very best and highest standard of parliamentary procedure. I would ask the Second Elected Member for George Town not to go further on that but be careful in phrasing your words that you clearly not contravene any of our Standing Orders. I think you are as familiar with them as any other Member here and I beg that we try to make this procedure as proper as possible. Second Elected Member for George Town, please continue.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, I shall endeavour to do my best to obey the Standing Orders of this Honourable House and any ruling of you, Sir, for whom I have the greatest respect.

Mr. Speaker, I ask (and I have asked myself over the course of these last few days), 'How can anyone, whatever the motive—good, bad or indifferent—how can anyone possibly believe that this action that we are going through, can be in the best interest of this country at this particular time?' I have searched myself and I have reflected upon the relationships that I have developed with all Members of this Honourable House over the course of this last year. And, Mr. Speaker, I can say I hold no Member of this Honourable House any ill will whatsoever. In fact I have grown very fond of many of the Members over the course of this past year, in particular, the Second Elected Member of West Bay. But I have a duty to do, Mr. Speaker, and I will do my duty and be blessed, or do my duty and be damned, but I will do my duty. When it is all over and the votes are cast, and the results have been executed, I will resume my place in the Common Room as friendly as I have ever been.

As far as I am concerned, the same camaraderie which we shared over the course of the last year will still abound certainly from my perspective. This is nothing personal. This is the national interest. I was elected to do what I thought was in the best interest of this country and I shall endeavour to do it until the day that the Lord calls me home or the people of George Town send me home.

Mr. Speaker, there is a Motion for a Resolution before this Honourable House. It was read and moved by the Second Elected Member of West Bay and seeks to revoke the election to the Executive Council of the Honourable D. Kurt Tibbetts and the Honourable Edna Moyle and that the two positions which they vacate be filled.

Mr. Speaker, I must say I was not at all surprised. In fact I anticipated that the Second Elected Member for West Bay would say nothing to this Motion when he spoke. And that is not his style, Mr. Speaker. He is a very able spokesman who speaks loudly and long to most motions. But when I heard, Mr. Speaker, the reasons put forth by him in the infamous meeting and subsequently in the address he made on national television, I said to myself, 'not even the most biased jury in the world having heard those charges laid against the Ministers could possibly convict on the evidence'. As I said at the start of this contribution, Mr. Speaker, the fact that nothing has been said speaks volumes.

But what was put forward in the meeting and subsequently, has been that I have not heard anything put forward in relation to the Honourable Minister for Community Affairs. It has been said, Mr. Speaker, in relation to the Honourable Minister for Communications and Works and the Leader of Government Business that he failed to communicate with the Members of the Government-supporting Backbench; he failed to demonstrate any real leadership and that the country needs leadership at this critical time.

Mr. Speaker, I will make this absolutely public, I do not believe that anyone has been more critical of the Honourable Minister for Communications and Works in relation to certain issues of leadership than I have. He is one of my dearest friends, Mr. Speaker, but the principal criticism which I have made of him and which the public have made of him is that he appeared to be allowing the Honourable Minister of Tourism to assume his role. The evidence that this was going to happen has been staring us in the face for months. I first heard rumours about this, four or five months ago. Cayman Net News carried this possibility in their "Heard on the Marl Road" column, months ago. In some of the scenarios it was the Honourable Minister of Health, who was trying to assume the Leader of Government Business role in some of the scenarios that were put to me and some of the scenarios that appeared in Cayman Net News. This rumour has been rife for a long time. I have expressed my concern to the Honourable Minister of Communication and Works and Leader of Government Business many times about what I was hearing, about the so-called power struggle in Executive Council.

However, Mr. Speaker, if there is one quality about him which can be very frustrating (I am speaking, Mr. Speaker, about the Honourable Minister of Communication and Works and Leader of Government Business), is that he does not like trouble. He does not like confrontation. He is a peacemaker and he would say to me it is alright, it is alright, it is alright, disclosing absolutely no details about what was transpiring in Executive Council and that is quite proper, Mr. Speaker. But it is very difficult to deal with, when you believe that those that he believes are supportive of him and closest to him are trying to undermine him and to assume the role, which he has.

If further evidence is necessary, Mr. Speaker, that this was a carefully planned and executed operation, let us all ask ourselves: The bombshell is dropped on Friday evening; I left the meeting just after six; by Monday morning we have a new party; we have a new Government which has reassigned the Ministries; the new Government has announced that it is preparing its manifesto and details of it will be forth coming shortly. All of this in forty-eight hours? I do not believe so, Mr. Speaker! There are some very, very smart people for whom I have the greatest respect of their intellect, involved in this United Democratic Party. They can put it together, Mr. Speaker, but they could not do it in forty-eight hours, no matter how smart they are!

Now, Mr. Speaker, let us assume for the moment that the Leader of Government Business position did carry with it the authority to actually lead and make decisions independent of Executive Council, which is not the case. Mr. Speaker, no matter what his nature, no matter how charismatic and loving and endearing he may be, how could any individual—even the current leader of Government Business the Honourable Minister for Communications and works—lead an Executive Council which, all along has been planning to get rid of him?

Yes, Mr. Speaker, there have been problems in leadership; there have been decisions taken and not taken, with which I disagree. I too have had concerns about some of the things that the Government was, or was not, doing. That is my job, Mr. Speaker, I am a representative of the people. But it is amazing for all of us who understand collective responsibility that no Member of Executive Council can carry out any action without the support of the other Members of Executive Council. It is a collective decision-making process, but all of a sudden to justify the switch of the roles from the Honourable Minister of Communication and Works to the Honourable Minister of Tourism the entire responsibility for whatever has gone wrong, for whatever has not been done in whichever Ministry, has become the fault of the Honourable Minister of Communication and Works and Leader of Government Business. A tremendous leap of logic, Mr. Speaker!

Now, Mr. Speaker, it has been suggested that there has been no measurable achievements of the Government during the time that the Honourable Minister of Communication and Works and Leader of Government Business has held that position. Let us look at where the country was when this new Government assumed responsibility and let us have a closer look at some of the achievements.

Mr. Speaker, when the Honourable Minister of Communication and Works became Leader of Government Business, this country was blacklisted by the Financial Action Task Force, a matter that caused grave concern and uncertainty about the future of the financial industry in these Islands. Mr. Speaker, the Honourable Minister for Communication and Works, headed up the delegation known as the negotiating team of which the Honourable Minister for Health, myself, the Honourable Financial Secretary and the Honourable Attorney General were members. Mr. Speaker, six months after assuming office these Islands were de-listed, but I suppose that is not an achievement; it does not count.

Mr. Speaker, fiscal reform: every one of us in this House and many people outside this House have been advocating the need for major fiscal reform; a need for a radical change in the way Government conducts its financial business. Mr. Speaker, while the Honourable Minister of Communication and Works was on the Backbench, he advocated the need for a major shift in the way the finances of this country were operated. Again, Mr. Speaker, within ten months of having assumed office, this Government passed the Public Management and Finance Law, which when it is completely implemented, will bring sweeping changes to the way Government conducts its financial affairs. Mr. Speaker, I know that if he had not led the charge on that, it would still be sitting on the shelf where it has been for quite a long time.

Let us talk about the Budget, Mr. Speaker. I can talk openly about this, because I, like other Members of the supporting Backbench, was involved in the Budget process that took place earlier this year. The Government discussed with us the difficult circumstances that they were facing in trying to produce a budget. Mr. Speaker, when the first draft of the Budget was produced there was a $100 million shortfall of revenue over expenditure. After much pushing and shoving and working long, long hours, we wound up with the position that we did for the 2001 Budget $28 million shortfall.

This time around, Mr. Speaker, when the first draft was produced for the Budget Session that is supposed to take place next week, there was a $12 million shortfall even though the budget produced was five percent below the current budget. Does any Member of this Honourable House believe that that has just happened? It has happened because of the tremendous efforts that the Honourable Leader of Government Business has made over the course of this year, Mr. Speaker, to convince all involved at the Civil Service level that we have to radically, drastically, reduce the expenditure and the cost of the Civil Service. The Message has gone through, Mr. Speaker, and I do not believe that any Member of this Honourable House could stand up and say that the issue of Government expenditure is not one of the most critical matters that this country is facing. And so, Mr. Speaker, they say they have lost confidence in the leadership of the Honourable Minister for Communication and Works and they have proposed that the Honourable Minister for Tourism replace him—we have more confidence in him.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the only Member of this Honourable House currently sitting, against whom any allegations of misconduct have been made, is the Honourable Minister of Tourism. Mr. Speaker, do the people of this country really want to be led by a Minister who would write the kind of letter on Government letterhead that the Honourable Minister of Tourism wrote to Mr. Mario Ebanks? The language employed in that letter is so bad that I cannot use it in this Honourable House, and I will not attempt to, but all Honourable Members and all members listening in the public know what that letter said. Before you can govern others, Mr. Speaker, you must learn to govern yourself.

All sorts of other allegations have been made. In fact, to the best of my recollection that Honourable Minister resigned his seat in the Executive Council the last time around because of allegations, Mr. Speaker, of impropriety. I wonder, Mr. Speaker, if he would have run the gauntlet as the Honourable Minister of Communication and Works and the Honourable Minister of Community Affairs have done. Why did he not let it come to this?

I believe they have lost confidence, Mr. Speaker, in the leadership of the Honourable Minister of Communication and Works. I believe that. We can no longer say with any confidence that they can deliver to the persons who have supported them, the kind of packages which they could have otherwise done if he were not sitting in that seat in Executive Council. That is the confidence they have lost, Mr. Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member of West Bay let me hear your point of order.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Mr. Speaker I am sure you are aware that again the Member is imputing improper motives of a Member of this House.

The Speaker: I have been listening very carefully to that. I think he has been very crafty in phrasing his words and I shall watch it and ask [him] to be very cautious.

Please continue Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Mr. Speaker, I need say no more about that; everybody fully understands.

The Third Elected Member for George Town is reminding me that I voted for him the last time round when we formed a government. I said that at the beginning. The whole world knows that. I would ask the Honourable Third Elected Member for George Town, who is [asking] me sotto voce, that if his character was so bad why did I vote for him? I ask him to remind—

The Speaker: I am going to ask that we do not bring the debate down to this level. We are debating and please do not entertain cross-conversations. You are debating to this Honourable Legislature, please continue your debate. But let us not inject what other people are trying to put forth.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I would ask the Honourable Third elected Member for George Town to play again the tape, which I know he has, of the meeting which he held on the Court House steps on November 14th and remind himself of what he said about the Honourable Minister of Tourism. Mr. Speaker, I believe I have said enough about the reasons why they no longer have confidence in the Honourable Minister of Planning, Communication and Works.

But Mr. Speaker, I am even more nonplussed at why they have lost confidence in the Honourable Minister of Community Affairs. What has she done? There has been not even a shadow of an allegation about her. The only thing that is wrong with her is that she is loyal to, and believes in, the current Leader of Government Business. That is what is wrong with her: found guilty by association.

Mr. Speaker, I have said to my people through all of this, that what is being done is constitutionally well within the parameters of our constitutional framework. But, Mr. Speaker, can anyone stand up? Obviously the Mover could not, but I am sure other Members will say something. Can anyone tell me what is so bad, what is so wrong with the character, with the ability of the Honourable Minister of Communication and Works that disqualifies him from the leadership role? Then tell me what it is that is so good, so pure, so true about the Honourable Minister of Tourism that qualifies him to assume that role? I ask all Honourable Members of this House to look deep within themselves and compare the characters of those two individuals and tell me which one is better qualified to lead this country.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister of Tourism.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, the Second Elected Member for George Town has been debating all his time on the Minister of Tourism.

The Speaker: What is your point of order please?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I think I have to tell you and then you will understand.

The Speaker: Please continue.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, this Motion before you which you have, which you agreed on, which we are debating, is not about the Minister of Tourism. I would ask you, Sir, to stop the Member if you are going to keep control of the House. Stop the Member from debating anybody's character. This is not about character. I can answer when that time comes. I have already answered.

Thank You, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: I listened very carefully to what you have said Honourable Minister. I want to be as fair and impartial as is humanly possible to anyone presiding over a meeting such as this, but I must have parameters set. I would ask the Second Elected Member for George Town to let us not . . . And I am not saying at this time that there is any character assassination—that is not the purpose here. Every Member following should be cautious that he really sticks to what is before this Honourable House, and that is the revocation of the seats in Executive Council of two Members. Please continue, Second Elected Member of George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I abide by your ruling, Sir. I would not for one moment wish to challenge that. I simply wish to explain, Mr. Speaker, that this Motion seeks to revoke the election of two Ministers. Allegations have been made as to why that is. He has been asked to step down as Leader of Government Business and to allow the appointment of the Honourable Minister of Tourism.

That is why, Mr. Speaker, I found it necessary to make reference to the qualifications of the two individuals. How else can anyone compare? How else can anyone conclude that one is better suited to the job than the other? That was the whole purpose for my reference to the Honourable Minister of Tourism.

Mr. Speaker, I can only say how very, very deeply saddened I am that this would come to this, particularly at this very crucial point in this country's existence. I shudder to think what the ramifications are going to be. A country which changes a government every year—that ought to inspire investor confidence. Do we not think about these things, Mr. Speaker, when we take such drastic actions? What is more important, Mr. Speaker, where we get, or where the country gets? Mr. Speaker, it is the eleventh and a half hour but I ask all Honourable Members of this House to look deep within themselves, search their hearts, listen to what the people who elected them are saying and decide not to carry this through, Mr. Speaker.

You know, Mr. Speaker, I have done a lot of reflecting over the weekend. I remember the situation with Cayman Airways when it was felt very strongly by the Members from West Bay, that before they could take a decision on a position on whether the country wanted to shut the Airline down or allow it to continue, that they must hold a public meeting to ascertain what public opinion said. They even went through the process, Mr. Speaker, of passing out ballots and counting the votes.

Now, Mr. Speaker, Cayman Airways was an important issue and still is an important issue. But it does not come close to this—a brand new Government and a brand new Leader of Government Business? We did not need to hold a public meeting. If they have not heard what public opinion is saying now, then they are deaf or sleeping. But you see, Mr. Speaker, we set the rules and we play by them when it suits us and when it does not suit us the rules no longer apply.

Mr. Speaker, I could go on. I could filibuster the four hours, I am quite capable of speaking for that length of time, but it would serve absolutely no purpose. I have said what I have said, it has offended some, it has encouraged some, but nothing I have said is anything but the cold hard truth.

Now, Mr. Speaker, the challenge is, you had nothing to say when you moved the Motion, you had no basis to give why those two Honourable Ministers should be removed, not one reason was put forward. I, Mr. Speaker, have made the case for the reasons why they should not be removed and why the Minister of Tourism should not be allowed to assume the role of Leader of Government Business. Now, Mr. Speaker, I wait to see whether they will meet my response, my defence, with silence.

One year ago to the day, the people of this country spoke and all of us who are here were very happy with what they had to say. Today, the people have spoken again and the majority of us here are unhappy with what they say. Let us remind ourselves that we are instruments of the people. We are here to do what is in the best interest of the people, to do what the people wish us to do, we are not here to elevate ourselves we are here to pursue and further the national interest.

I know, Mr. Speaker, the die has been cast, but there are many, many more times for other die to be cast and I do not believe, Mr. Speaker, that the people of this country will ever forget this. I ask all Honourable Members, before they vote, to hold tight to the seats in which they currently sit, for unless they perform the economic miracle, I wager I will have new friends next time around.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: The Floor is open to debate, does any other Honourable Member wish to speak? (Pause) The Motion is open to debate; does any other Honourable Member wish to speak? (Pause)

I want to say to Honourable Members that I am not going to prolong this. If anyone wishes to speak please indicate it. If not we will—the Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, first of all let me take this opportunity to wish all Honourable Elected Members of this House, Happy Anniversary! Mr. Speaker, today is the anniversary of our election. Maybe the West Bayers and the George Towners cannot say that because they were one day later, but I can.

Mr. Speaker before I begin to get into my contribution to the Private Member's Motion that is laid before this Honourable House, I would ask that you allow me to read parts of my maiden speech in this Honourable House, which was delivered on 15 November 2000.

Mr. Speaker, in my maiden speech after thanking my family, my supporters and my committee, I said, and I quote, Mr. Speaker:

“Whilst my acceptance speech may be short, one should not interpret this as an inability to deliver as much as will be needed in the coming years. Today marks the beginning of my political career, which has as its genesis, my personal commitment to honesty, integrity, and justice. A commitment that I maintained throughout my campaign and now bring to this Honourable House.

“Over the years I have observed the erosion of dignity and respect in the conduct of Members within this Chamber. I intend to conduct myself in the manner that befits and is expected of any citizen of these Islands who is afforded the honour of serving in the capacity of Members of the Legislative Assembly.

“The political, social, and economic fabric of these Islands has been painstakingly woven by the hard work of our ancestors and astute political forefathers. By progressively establishing and nurturing the core values of our heritage, the groundwork for our existing success was laid. As the beneficiaries of these achievements, it is imperative that we instil these fundamentals in successive generations.

“I, therefore, find it incumbent for me to challenge my colleagues to strive to uphold the high standards of decency and integrity expected of this august body. Now that the campaign is over, the country has spoken and the Government has been formed, we must put the bickering behind us and get down to the serious business of addressing the many complex issues that face this country. We, as Legislators, must tackle these issues together in the interest of the people who elected us.

“In anticipation of a challenging term I expect to work tirelessly with all Members of the Legislative Assembly in the best interest of these Islands. In the same vein I will be equally vigilant and unrelenting in my scrutiny of good governance at all levels. It is not my intention to oppose merely for opposition sake, nor will I support frivolous and untenable positions. My mission here is specifically to represent the people of the district of East End and generally to safeguard the wellbeing and success of the Cayman Islands.

“As I reflect on my success at the polls, I wish to pay tribute to the impressive showing and support of the younger generation of Caymanians. My hope is that they will continue to actively participate in the political process at all levels, and one day they will reap the success from such involvement.

“In conclusion may the strength of God pilot us, may the wisdom of God instruct us, may the way of God direct us, may eternal power be our support and may eternal wisdom scatter the darkness of ignorance.”

Mr. Speaker, that was my maiden speech. Now it would not be good of me to not be reminded of it. I read it merely to remind my people of this country, of the commitment I gave to them on November 15, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker I am not here to ‘assassinate’ anybody because I certainly do not want to be assassinated. I have two sons and the rest of my extended family that I have to take care of too.

Mr. Speaker, after the General Election last year I joined with seven other Honourable Members of this Legislature as MLAs elect. I was not a Member of the Legislative Assembly until I took the Oath of Allegiance, and that was done on November 15. Mr. Speaker, among that group were the two Honourable Members from Cayman Brac, the Leader of Government Business, the Second Elected Member from George Town, the Third Elected Member from George Town, The Second Elected Member from Bodden Town, and the First Elected Member from Bodden Town.

Mr. Speaker, between 10th November and 15th November it was much negotiation among that group and all other groups to form a government to lead this country. It was decided by two members of that group, namely, the First and Second Elected Members from George Town to go and join a different grouping which was made up primarily of the four elected Members for West Bay. Mr. Speaker, I made a decision then not to go. I listened to the people of East End who as far as I remember elected me. Those Members on Tuesday by that time had gotten the First Elected Member from Bodden Town to join them. I stood on the steps of the Court House in this country and I told the people that this is the perfect opportunity to see and examine what was wrong with our Constitution. I did not 'assassinate' anybody then and I have no intention of doing it today. Mr. Speaker, the Government was formed and in my maiden speech that I just read, I said 'my job here is to work in the interest of the country'.

On 15 November 2000, we entered this Honourable Chamber to be sworn in. When the vote was taken to form Executive Council, Mr. Speaker, five members of the nine at that time, walked the aisle and took their respective seats as the new political Government. The votes, as I remember, were: the Honourable Kurt Tibbetts 9, the Honourable Roy Bodden 9, the Honourable McKeeva Bush 9, the Honourable Edna Moyle 9 and the Hon. Linford Pierson 14. Mr. Speaker, I am here today to tell my country that I was the person who did not vote for the Honourable Linford Pierson. The Honourable Member is related to me, Mr. Speaker, and upon leaving this Honourable Chamber that day I thought it was incumbent upon me to let him know that, and I did.

Mr. Speaker, I have nothing against either Member of the Government—not one of them; but if I cannot vote for all, I certainly will not be voting for one. Those are the principles that I was brought up on, and those, Mr. Speaker, I will live with.

Mr. Speaker, in the last year since I was sworn into this Honourable House, I have demonstrated that I have come here to do a job. There were times that I supported that same Government that I had no part in electing; there were times that I opposed them. That is the commitment I gave to this country.

Mr. Speaker, I am not the majority, I am but one Member of this Honourable House and whichever government is elected in this Honourable House as a result of the majority, I will support that government when it needs it, when it warrants the support. When it does not, Mr. Speaker, I will stand here and I will oppose it. But I have no intention of opposing for frivolous reasons.

Mr. Speaker, we have come full circle. I, Mr. Speaker, campaigned in the district of East End to my people—and my slogan for the Election campaign was Honesty, Integrity, and Justice. Mr. Speaker, after the Election a Member asked me to give my interpretation of honesty, integrity and justice. Mr. Speaker, I replied that I could give my interpretation of honesty, integrity and justice and that I could debate it all night, but that would not satisfy anybody, Mr. Speaker. The only interpretation of honesty, integrity and justice is time. If it does not have time, Mr. Speaker, you cannot interpret honesty, integrity and justice. When I stand before my country today and I say to my country judge me on my honesty, my integrity and my belief in justice, that is how it must be judged.

Mr. Speaker, last week Friday I was called by the Honourable Kurt Tibbetts, the Leader of Government Business, and was told that there was a meeting of the Backbench supporters—and there were many times I had been invited. My understanding of it was to do with some update and I suspected it was about the upcoming Budget session. I told the Honourable Member that I could not attend because I had other business in East End and I later sent my apologies by one of my colleagues.

Later on that evening, Mr. Speaker, the Second Elected Member from George Town called and wanted to see me. I saw him later on in the night and he explained what had transpired. Mr. Speaker, at the time I did not take it seriously because we all have differences. I have had differences with all the Ministers, but we have continued to live; we have continued to operate. I thought that by Monday it would have been resolved. Because I was not part of the meeting, I did not know the intricacies of what transpired. I received a number of telephone calls and made some to other Members as well, because I wanted to understand what was going on. By Monday, Mr. Speaker, this thing came into being.

Mr. Speaker, I am not here to defend anyone because everyone has his personal reason for doing what he does; I am here on principle as I see it. Mr. Speaker, the Motion is to revoke the appointment of two Ministers of Executive Council and I have some problems with it on principle.

Mr. Speaker, I went to the radio and the papers on Monday and I said that I am very concerned that I am now faced with having to come to the people of these Islands and in particular the constituents of East End electoral district as obtained with a similar situation following the general elections less than one year ago—to be exact 362 days! I have not been party to any of the discussions or activities leading up to the current political crisis and I am sure the Members in this Honourable House will attest to that. I wish to offer a word of caution to all involved that they be mindful of the greater interests of these Islands.

Finally, I simply warn that the personal political agendas must not have precedence over the national interests—particularly at the time of serious economic downturn locally, and extremely unfavourable and sensitive conditions internationally. Mr. Speaker, that is my concern.

If we are going to run our country, we have to do it responsibly. Ten Members of this Honourable House have now decided that they have no confidence in the Leader of Government Business and the Honourable Minister responsible for Social Services and Women's Affairs and they have decided that these two Honourable Members must leave the position of Executive Council. Mr. Speaker, I cannot support that; I cannot on principle.

Mr. Speaker, regardless of who was responsible, regardless of who was right or wrong, there are very few countries in the Caribbean or in the world that would not allow the political tenure to run its course. Mr. Speaker, no matter what happens in a government it is usual—even in Jamaica as badly as we talk about the politics of Jamaica.

Yes, Mr. Speaker, I know Members will get up here and talk about Cabinet reshuffling. I understand that, Mr. Speaker, but Cabinet reshuffling is different from what we are doing today. So then, whoever is responsible for it not being a cabinet reshuffle it lies squarely on their shoulders: it does not lie on my shoulders.

Mr. Speaker, in recent political history, it has only been Haiti and Grenada in the Caribbean that did not allow at least one term to run its course. I am not comparing the Cayman Islands to Grenada and Haiti, but we all know what happened there.

Mr. Speaker, my concern is that the Motion brought by my colleague from West Bay does not have reason in it—there is no reason! I thought that the Second Elected Member from West Bay would have spoken to it because I know that he is not afraid to speak. Mr. Speaker, I really believe that these Honourable Members should tell the country why they have lost confidence in the ability of the current leader of Government Business. There has to be a reason! Mr. Speaker, the electorate in this country—do they consider that reason enough to shake a whole government up?

Over the last year I have developed very good relationships with all Honourable Members of this House and in particular, the Second Elected Member from West Bay. During the development of that relationship I found that gentleman to be reasonable in his approach, to have reasons for his approach. So I do not understand his very short Private Member's Motion 24/01.

Mr. Speaker, if there is a lack of communication with the Leader of Government Business, I would think that you should see a pile of letters asking to pay more attention to communication between Government and the Backbench supporters. At the very least, Mr. Speaker, letters and discussions should prevail. I also find it amazing that of the five Members of Executive Council who were properly constitutionally instituted, only two have the blame for the downturn.

Mr. Speaker, I heard the Honourable McKeeva Bush on BBC last night and I think the interviewer asked him, since he was deputy leader, should he not take some responsibility also? While I respect the Honourable Member, I think I need to ask him the same question. Mr. Speaker, I think that is fair.

[Response from audience in Gallery]

The Speaker: Silence, please!

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Mr. Speaker, if two people or more are going to share responsibilities, then they have to take all the blame too. Mr. Speaker, I have not had any problems with the five Ministers when it comes to communication. They have responded to all I have asked of them. There were times when it was difficult to get in contact with them, but if you tried hard enough you could at least find them. That is my interpretation because I was not a part of the Government.

Now the interpretation of communication with the Government that the Backbenchers, I have no knowledge of that. What their interpretation of that communication should be they have to speak to that, Mr. Speaker, I cannot speak to that.

Mr. Speaker, I said earlier that the Second Elected Member from Bodden Town and the Third Elected Member from George Town were Members that I supported during the leading up to the swearing in to the Honourable House. Mr. Speaker, those are the two Members of this Honourable House that they propose—a new party proposed to replace the Leader of Government Business and the Honourable Edna Moyle, Mr. Speaker. I have not had any problem communicating with them either, until this weekend. And they did not call me. Mr. Speaker, I found that a little strange and I am sure my colleague from Bodden Town will explain that to me, be it today or later on, and my colleague from George Town will, also.

Mr. Speaker, I have developed relationships with all of these Members and if those two Members . . . Let us assume that the United Democratic Party wins this Motion today and they move across there. I would expect no less from them than I expect from any government in this country. I am the representative from the district of East End and the basic needs of East End must be met, or they will not be fulfilling their responsibility as leaders of this country.

And there shall be no threats against Arden McLean. Let me reword that, Mr Speaker, threats may come, but I am not afraid because I believe that this country knows by now—and in particular the other fourteen Honourable Members of this House—that when I stand, I stand. And they also know that when I say, I have said.

Mr. Speaker, I am not particularly worried about the public getting to me in whether or not I do something right or wrong. Mr. Speaker, I have bigger fears about my family because the public is only going to get manavilins. If I do something wrong in this country my siblings are going to strip the skin off me.

So I know, Mr. Speaker, my father, God bless his soul, is on his dying bed. He is not leaving his children very much materially, Mr. Speaker, but he is going to leave us a legacy of honesty and I have to carry that on. And, Mr. Speaker, principle! No man can point his finger in my father's face! And I pray to God that no one—and I know that no one is going to do that to me . . . I may be wrong, Mr. Speaker, but this is not principle-oriented; there is no principle in this, Mr. Speaker.

We do not have any power. Do you really think the fifteen Members of this Legislature have any power? The power is behind the throne and for those who did not recognise that, I trust that they will now. We were elected by the people of this country. We did not elect ourselves. And, Mr. Speaker, we must act accordingly: we must listen to the views and the position the people of this country take. Mr. Speaker, I really cannot be party to something that has the potential of destabilising forty-odd thousand people because I want to be able to go home tonight and every night thereafter and sleep well, and I think I will.

Mr. Speaker, again, please let me make it abundantly clear that I have no ill will against any Member of this Honourable House, but I stand on principle.

Mr. Speaker, this country right now is in an economic downturn. I was up very late last night, and I was surfing the net. In the Financial Times of the United Kingdom of yesterday, the first line of an article captioned, "The Americas and International Economy, Caymans shaken as political party is created", the first line in that, Mr. Speaker, says that "rebellion has come to the Cayman Islands but this has little to do with the Islands 600 banks and trusts." Mr. Speaker, regardless of what this says, that is the international press. We should learn by now, and, if we have not, we should look around because the country is now in an economic downturn. This country has placed itself in a position where it requires and it needs foreign investment. If this is the kind of bad publicity that gets out on the street—gets out into the international market—Mr. Speaker, we suffer. But, Mr. Speaker, not only fifteen people are suffering; there are forty thousand people suffering!

Let us forget about us. Politicians come and go, but the country remains. If this is my time to go, so be it! Maybe I am a little different from most, Mr. Speaker, because I view this as a job on behalf of the people of this country and in particular East End. And when they are ready to tell me that they do not want me anymore, I will go and do something else. But I will assure the public and all my opposition out there that it will not be through a by-election unless I die. I have no intentions, Mr. Speaker, of stepping down. I am going to be here awhile—at least until 2004!

Mr. Speaker, I will never forget when Motion 3/90 came to this House. At the time the Honourable Benson Ebanks said that the Backbench must always have its say, but Government must have its way. Well, Mr. Speaker, I recognise that in any parliamentary structure Government is going to have its way, but Mr. Speaker, Arden McLean is going to have his say too! This is my country and I am not putting any letters in the papers signed by 'a concerned Caymanian'. I am going to speak and with the help of God I am going to conduct myself with decorum, with respect for every Member of this Honourable House and for the people of this country. And they, Mr. Speaker, the people of this country, will measure me. They will decide like they did on November 8 one year ago.

Mr. Speaker, we have to respect the democratic process. I know that other Members may say that this is the democratic process too, and that is true, but there is a bigger one every four years. Now if you think that one will not catch you sleeping, then you have made the biggest mistake of your life. And if any politician, or potential politician, wants longevity he has to respect the people's wishes.

Mr. Speaker, the Third Elected Member from George Town, who is my good friend, knows that I am right. I want to make it abundantly clear that the Third Elected Member from George Town (another relative) has my utmost respect for him and for his abilities: the Second Elected Member from Bodden Town, also. But what we are attempting to do will have some adverse effects on this country. And I am also saying to my good friend the Honourable McKeeva Bush. I am saying, Mr. Speaker —

The Speaker: I would ask that you refer to him by the Honourable Minister for Tourism.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, I do apologise, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, I have also worked very closely with the Minister for Tourism, particularly with trying to get affordable housing in this country. And I trust that that will not . . . assuming, that they get the amount of votes to carry this Motion because, Mr. Speaker, I am appealing to each Member to look into his conscience and think about this before the vote is taken.

I wonder if we recall years ago when the hospital—the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital . . . I say no more on that one, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Remember, I was a little piece of that too because I ran in 1992. I got a proper thrashing and it was as a result of that same thing. So I am not saying anything that has not affected me also. Mr. Speaker, we should have learnt our lessons.

This morning as I walked to this Honourable House there were hundreds of people in the street opposing what is being done. Mr. Speaker, I wonder what time the Honourable Minister for Tourism got here this morning, because he does not seem to believe that. Maybe he was in the Chamber before they gathered. Mr. Speaker, this move proves to this country that our Constitution needs to be changed. The current Constitution is lacking; it is lacking structure, Mr. Speaker. For many years former politicians have been afraid to operate under a structured system because they are afraid of the discipline it brings.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that the current Honourable Members of this House have the resolve to change our Constitution—I knew that before this weekend. I have not spoken to them all weekend, but I am sure that they have the resolve. Mr. Speaker, I beg the pardon of the Third Elected Member from George Town, because he did speak to me. He spoke to me on Monday night—that is not the weekend Mr. Speaker.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: He did not call me at the eleventh hour; he called me daylight the next morning! But, Mr. Speaker, I must give him credit for that. And the Honourable Minister for Tourism also called. That was at twelve o'clock on Sunday night and he left a message.

Mr. Speaker, the people standing in the street this morning with placards, shouting, have a say; let us not disrespect that say. Prior to this, I had heard grumblings. I have heard people saying that the leadership was not what they expected, Mr. Speaker. Those same people who said that weeks and months ago were among those out there this morning. I, too, had my concerns and I made those concerns known to the Leader of Government Business and to the Deputy also. And he did nothing about it; neither one of them did anything about it; not one of them did anything about it, Mr. Speaker!

Mr. V. Arden McLean: But it is obvious that this country wants that combination to remain in place and if it stays in place I am sure the Leader and Deputy Leader will have learnt their lessons, Mr. Speaker, unless their heads are very hard.

Mr. Speaker, when I walked here this morning I felt hurt to know that the democratic process will prevail and there is nothing the people of this country can do about—it is the fifteen Members in this Honourable Chamber. That is what bothers me, Mr. Speaker. I believe in the democratic process, but I believe that the people of this country, their appeal to the better conscience of their elected representatives should prevail. It should, Mr. Speaker, if they respect the democratic process at the polls.

You know, Mr. Speaker, I talked about having my say and I talked about the respect that I have gained from all Honourable Members of this House. And I just thought, Mr. Speaker, how come nobody is stopping me? I wonder. It has to be the respect.

Mr. Speaker, no matter what transpires here today or tomorrow—I suspect it will be tomorrow because there is so much to be said. I know, Mr. Speaker, the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac is not going to allow this opportunity to pass. And that is his democratic right the same as it is mine.

Mr. Speaker, looking at Caypolitics: if anyone believes that Caypolitics is not sending some news over the Internet to Japan, or wherever you are . . . Mr. Speaker, that news should be good news for us. All fifteen of us Members in this Honourable House should be conducting ourselves in such a way that there is good, good news. We have talked about wanting our country to succeed. Now as you know, headlines such as, "Rebellion Has Come to the Cayman Islands", is not good for our country. Mr. Speaker, certainly nobody in this country can tell the writers what to say, but I have always believed that if you conduct yourself in a good manner they can write nothing but good. And if you conduct yourself in the manner that our political process is going through today, it will be bad. I cannot blame the people at Caypolitics for this because, Mr. Speaker, they are disseminating the facts of the matter and I believe that is what the press should do.

Mr. Speaker, I stand before my country that I so dearly love, and I am saddened. I am saddened because these things should not happen in my country. This is a dark day when we are debating and making decisions that the public does not support.

Mr. Speaker, I understand the people of this country placed their X on November 8 last year and said go and lead the country on our behalf on our behalf! It did not say that you have absolute power. Mr. Speaker, fifteen people should not—and I trust everybody is noticing that I am including myself and excluding the Official Members. Fifteen people in this country should not dictate what this country wants without first consulting them. The only reason I did not have a meeting in East End was because Wednesday night (last night) the Pirates Week/Heritage Day festivities were being held in East End.

Mr. Speaker, I am sad. This morning when I read my maiden speech, it hurt me to know that I read that here one year ago and I am back in this Honourable Chamber with a situation that is similar to that which obtained one year prior. Mr. Speaker, I cannot say that the Government was 'the best thing since sliced bread'; there is no such thing! In anything there is going to be conflict. There will be conflicts and I cannot say that Kurt Tibbetts did not have his faults.

The Speaker: May I interrupt you just a moment? I am asking you to please refer to him as the Honourable Minister for Planning, Communications and Works.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I do apologise. Sometimes my emotions get the better of me. Mr. Speaker, as I was saying, I cannot say that the Honourable Member for Communications is anyone who should be worshipped. We are all human beings, Mr. Speaker. That Honourable Member knows, like any other Honourable Member in these Chambers, that when I have something to say, I will say it to his face.

Mr. Speaker, I cannot, in fairness to my country and in fairness to my principles, support without reason the removal of a government. And yes, Mr. Speaker, when we say it is going to cause dissension in the country, it is going to cause dissension in this Honourable House also—a dissension that is not needed. We promised our people to work together.

Dr. Frank S. McField: Mr. Speaker, I would like to rise on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order, Third Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Frank S. McField: The point of order is that the Member is really beginning to be tedious and repetitious.

The Speaker: I am following the debate very closely and I thank you for calling that to my attention. I assure you that I am aware. Please continue, Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, I will turn to another subject that I would also like to address.

When I arrived at this Honourable House this morning, I received a letter from you informing the Legislature and its Members of your resignation which will be effective Wednesday, 14 November. Mr. Speaker, this is another thing that has plagued this country over the last year and should have been resolved a long time ago. Whether it is leadership or the lack thereof, it should have been resolved a long time ago. Mr. Speaker —

The Speaker: May I call to your attention, I am thinking of relevance. I do not see where this fits into this debate. We would address that at a later time.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: I bow to your ruling, Mr. Speaker, I was just trying to show the leadership that we are talking of. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, turning back to the Constitution: I believe that it is time for our Constitution to be amended to ensure that it requires party systems. In a structured system this would have been handled differently. It would not have been handled in the public; it would have been handled within a party. Mr. Speaker, I know that we speak of a previous government that affected this same change where the leadership was changed. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that that was done through agreement prior to taking office. I urge Caymanians to go out and ensure our Constitution is modernised to prevent this kind of political crisis in our country.

Mr. Speaker, the Constitution does not and is not keeping with modern democracies. It is time to stop this kind of political manoeuvring. What is to stop this happening in another year? There cannot be any confidence in this country when the Government is changed—at least two Members of the Government changed within one year. The fault is the Constitution and the people who operate the Constitution: that's us—and we have to address it.

Mr. Speaker, I trust that this thing stays together, assuming the Motion is passed. I am sure there are Members in this Honourable House who have thought about this and have seen the public outcry. Mr. Speaker, who can assure me that this is going to stay together now? The fact that a party has been formed does not give us any assurance. Mr. Speaker, politics should not be based on personalities; it is politics.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I trust that the UDP (United Democratic Party) has different policies than the current Government has, because if not we are going down the same road that they are complaining about right now. And, Mr. Speaker, you cannot come to the people, as I heard one of the Members saying, at quarter of your tenure and change the policies of the country. Therefore, there has to be a continuation of the policies.

A party is formed for one four-year term and I have not (and I do not think the country has) seen a constitution of that party by laws. That is not how this works, Mr. Speaker. I suspect as a result of the modernisation of the Constitution that we will see party systems by the next election and I support party systems. But when you do it for the convenience of keeping ten scattered opinions and policies together, that is not the way to do it. That is not the way to form a party. Ten people, only four of which ran on the same platform.

Now I can understand that if those four had formed a party. I would have understood that. Yes, Mr. Speaker, they formed a government because that is the situation that obtains in this country. Because there is no party system that is why I can stand on my feet and deliver. Until that time the leader of the party will do that. But it will be carrying across a position of that party. Mr. Speaker, regardless of what anyone says it is impossible to form a party between Friday and Monday. If the people are going to be ruled by a party they should know what policies of that party obtain, they should know the disciplines—

The Speaker: If I may interrupt you for just a moment, I think I have to call to your attention Standing Order 41 (1) which says “the Presiding Officer after having called the attention of the House, or of a Committee, to the conduct of a Member who persists in irrelevance or tedious repetition . . .” You have repeated this a couple of times well and I ask you to please move your debate on. Elected Member for East End please continue.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, as we take this vote on this Private Member's Motion, I appeal to the better conscience of my colleagues to think about what they are doing. Think about the consequences that could result from this: think about what is going to happen to our country. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to be the prophet of doom. If it works it is good. My opinion is like what the Second Elected Member from George Town said, "economic miracles are going to have to happen."

Mr. Speaker, the Motion was brought on the basis that the Backbench supporters have lost their [confidence] in the leadership of the Minister for Planning; it is based on the economic downturn. That is the basis that I have heard explained all weekend and all week since the weekend. Therefore, the people of this country must see an economic upturn; the new UDP must prove to the people of this country that the economy of this country is going to be turned around in a very short time.

Mr. Speaker, the whole world is in an economic downturn. America, again trying to revive the economy, has just lowered the interest rates once more. Mr. Speaker, I trust if the UDP takes control today of the Government that they have much plans forthcoming and I trust that those plans will work in the interest of our country. Mr. Speaker, again I look forward to working with every Honourable Member of this Legislature in the interest of our country. Remember this is our country; let us not push it to the brink of destruction.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Honourable Members it is customary that we take the luncheon break at 12.45. It means that we would be segmenting before the next speaker. Is it the wish of the House that we take the break at this time and return at 2.p.m?

Dr. Frank S. McField: Mr. Speaker, I think that we would just like to continue briefly for a few more—

The Speaker: If that is the wish of the House, certainly, Third Elected Member of George Town, please continue.

Dr. Frank S. McField: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I do not suspect that anyone here today would believe that any person privately or politically should be guilty of anything until proven to be so. Mr. Speaker, I do not suspect that those persons who are included in the Motion here today are entitled to any less than I, or any other Member supporting this motion. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that our side has not been heard and if there are those who will disagree in spite of the reasonableness of our actions, Mr. Speaker, then there is nothing in this world that I can do about that.

Mr. Speaker, unless we can accept the principles of the rule of law, we cannot maintain a civilised, civic society which is the basis of all prosperity. Mr. Speaker, we must make sure that our instincts do not take over and that we do not go back to the situation where Pontius Pilot called to ask if Jesus should be crucified and Barabbas saved—taking the reaction of the crowds to mean that the voices and the will of the people were speaking.

Mr. Speaker, in all of my experiences I have only found one reasonable way for the people to express their will and that is through the democratic process that takes place in this country each four years. I know that we are to take the considerations of the people into consideration, Mr. Speaker. But when we began on our actions, I think that people need to know how it developed. They must not just attribute the failings of the coalition Government that was established in November of 2000 to the actions of certain individuals.

Mr. Speaker, I do believe that we need to look at the way in which that coalition government was put together on 15 November 2000. Mr. Speaker, it was a hastily done situation because there had been no prior preparation to put a government in place. Part of the reason why there had been no prior preparation to put a government in place, although many of us existed here on the Backbench prior to that, determined to move the previous government—

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, on a point of order, Sir.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: Honourable Member for Health.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, there is no way that this Honourable House can continue with the amount of noise in here, Sir. I wonder if you could ask the Serjeant to check on the noise outside.

The Speaker: We have had a mass exodus in the last few minutes and I am asking you to try to be as quiet as possible.

Third Elected Member for George Town, please continue.

Dr. Frank S. McField: Mr. Speaker, I do believe somehow that the Honourable Members who are insisting upon the due process to go completely through, are in fact perhaps a little bit more responsible for the instability than the actions which we took in terms of deciding to bring this Motion. It must be made clear to people that if they insist upon politicising these events that the consequences are not just the results of the actions of one particular group of individuals; it is the result of all the individuals involved.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I said that the way in which the Government was put together in November 2000 was hastily. It was referred to as horse-trading to be exact and it was a difficult process. It actually signified that the people needed to become a little bit more involved in their political process before going out to vote at general elections. And that candidates and politicians needed to be a little bit more involved in assisting the people to understand better the way in which democracy truly works. For if democracy is to work, you must have the participation of the people. You must not have the participation of crowds and mobs. You must have the participation of people's opinions that will then create consensus.

It is a difference, Mr. Speaker. Politicians in this country have historically been responsible for entertaining a situation that does not allow for the education and participation, simply because by doing so, by not educating them, they can use fear and superstition to move them in directions to stagnate the changes which are necessary to come to this country.

We had it happen before, when the now Leader of Government Business was here on the Backbench as a Member of the Opposition with myself and other colleagues who now sit in the Government and the attacks were against the then Leader of Government Business, Mr. Truman Boddin. And, Mr. Speaker, debates in here took place in such a way and people seemed to take sides according to who they thought was beating up on whom, or who they thought was arguing best, rather than who was making some sense. And, Mr. Speaker, although we understood that the past Government would be removed—

The Speaker: I will interrupt you for just a moment. You are expressing your own opinion, right?

Dr. Frank S. McField: Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Third Elected Member for George Town, please continue.

Dr. Frank S. McField: Thank you.

Although we realised that the past Government would be removed long before the November Elections, nobody did anything to organise so that we could make sure that there would be a cohesive group of individuals that could form the Executive and be supported by their Backbenchers. The now present Leader of Government Business ran with one additional Member in the district of George Town; they together collected two of the four seats. The Deputy Leader of Government Business ran in West Bay with four people and collected four of the seats there.

The Speaker: Three people.

Dr. Frank S. McField: Three, three people including himself. Now -

The Speaker: Four including himself.

Dr. Frank S. McField: Yes Sir.

[laughter]

Dr. Frank S. McField: Mr. Speaker, I am not going to question your mathematics, because I have seen that your strength is much more improved than mine. You have sat in that Chair so many hours already and listened so intensely and I do not believe that I could do that at all. So I believe that your mathematics must be as well as your strength at this time.

But I would like to say in terms of explaining to the country that if you have West Bay coming with four; George Town coming with two—because that is what George Town came with as a group; I ran as an independent; the Minister responsible for Health ran as an independent . . .

I, Mr. Speaker, entered into the negotiations which took place with the turtle stew and the breadfruit and the pen and we formed the Government with the pen—this pen! I have tried to recall, Mr. Speaker, exactly how that fell apart. But it did fall apart and I was upset that it fell apart and I felt somehow betrayed, and all of that, but at the end of the day I had to come and accept what others told me was the democratic process. Now what is good for the goose must be good for the gander.

Now, without any kind of attempt here to say anything negative about the Leader of Government Business—I do not have anything negative to say about him—even after all of that we came in here as gentlemen (and ladies) and I was made Deputy Speaker.

So, Mr. Speaker, what I am saying is that the public has to understand that politicians might get up here and they might say certain things to one another, but when they go into that Common Room (and elsewhere) they have a different attitude.

Now, the Second Elected Member from George Town and I probably started on one note this morning and by the time we get half way through the Sitting, Mr. Speaker, as you know which normally happens, we go to another note. But the poor people outside do not know the kind of music we play here, so they tend to take this thing seriously and that is what we must be careful about.

So, I am saying to those persons who are getting up and understanding the significance of this political moment, where they can make political careers for themselves because they can convince people that what is happening is to the disadvantage of this nation and to the disadvantage of the persons involved . . . But that is not necessarily the case, Mr. Speaker, because just like our coalition fell apart before 15 November, 2000 even after signatures, our coalition fell apart and the new coalition was built with the West Bay, Better Balance Team who pulled some of our Members out and eventually were able to form the Government with Backbench support. The Backbench support at that time being the three Members from West Bay and the Second Elected Member from George Town.

So, persons like me, who declared more or less an independent position—an opposition position—a position just like what was being explained somehow by the Member from East End, wanted from the very beginning to form Government. And we existed as a kind of opposition to what they had put together. That is part of the political process.

So when their coalition fell apart, which we had nothing to do with, Mr. Speaker, because they had their meeting up at the Glass House at 4 o'clock on Friday and I was not there; I can attest to that. I was not called, I was not consulted, and I had never been for one year. As the Third Elected Member from George Town, I have sat here and the most I have been involved has been with the Commission of Inquiries into social breakdown and youth violence. I have had no say whatsoever in the appointment of people to boards or committees or any of those things; I have been isolated from the power which comes from the Executive and so if you are not a Backbench supporter for the Government, you are isolated from that. The West Bay Members, Mr. Speaker, have enjoyed the association with the power which the Executive has. And the Government (the Executive), could only enjoy their power with the approval of their Backbench. That is the way the system works.

So we have to become politically mature enough to know that those over there cannot exist, without those here supporting their policy. But when they went to West Bay before the 15th November, 2000 to decide on how they would share up the leadership, share up the portfolio, I had nothing to do with that.

Mr. Speaker, all I am saying is that when the system breaks down I understand that there is a need for Government to continue and that we have sufficient authority to continue Government by rearranging the coalitions. So the coalition partners are who we are talking about here.

The Motion to revoke, Mr. Speaker, is not one to cast doubt on the character of the Leader of Government Business, nor of the Member responsible for Community Affairs. If it were so, Mr. Speaker, I would not be a part of it. But the Motion to revoke is a Motion to change the coalition relationships.

Now as much as people might say that this is not appropriate; this is dangerous; this is like Haiti; this is like Jamaica; this is the most terrible thing . . . I just heard the United States Senate not too long ago, when one Republican Senator became an independent Senator and the leadership in their Senate in the United States changed—

The Speaker: May I interrupt you for just a moment?

I do not anticipate that you will be finishing within fifteen minutes or so. When you reach a convenient point in your speech we will take the break for lunch. Is this convenient? We shall suspend proceedings until 2 o'clock.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.47 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.15 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed.

Debate continuing on Private Member's Motion No. 24/01. The Third Elected Member for George Town continuing his debate.

Dr. Frank S. McField: Mr. Speaker, before we took the break for lunch I tried to give this Honourable House reasons why the Motion which is before it came about. Not as the result of any defects in characters or personalities, but because of a shift in the alignments of persons and policies in this Honourable House.

Mr. Speaker, it is the most civilised way of understanding the present situation and I beg that this Honourable House take heed of our ability to master our vents and to calm the situation by understanding in fact that the Constitution being our main Law, provides for the due process to take place.

Mr. Speaker, this particular section in the Constitution, Section 6(2)(f) says that a Minister would cease to be a Member of Executive Council “if his election to the Executive Council is revoked by a resolution of the Assembly in favour of which there are cast the votes of not less than nine of the Elected Members of the Assembly:

“Provided that a motion for the revocation of the election of an elected member under this paragraph on the ground that he has contravened the provisions of section 9(2) of this Constitution shall not be introduced except by a member of the Executive Council.” We are not dealing with Section 9 (2) we are dealing with Section 6(2)(f) which is the rights entitled to ordinary Members and not Executive Council Members. And we understand why Section 9 (2) of the Constitution applies to the Executive Members because of the concept of collective responsibility. I think, Mr. Speaker, it is important that we make those issues clear.

This particular section in the Constitution was brought in during the last revision of the Constitution and my understanding is that it was there in order to allow for a possible reshuffling within the Legislative Assembly. It could be said that if we have five elected members of Council, and we have three official members, that would give the Executive eight members and it would put them in a position to obviously pass legislation with very little support from the Backbench. That has occasionally caused the Executive branch of Government to not be as vigilant with regards to communication and support for the Backbench as it sometimes needs to be.

So, Mr. Speaker, it is because this Motion is founded on that particular clause of the Constitution that I have not tried to give any other justifications for my actions, in that I have sought to see the policies of Government changed. I believe that I can effectively accomplish this by changing the alignment of individuals and policies within this Honourable House.

When I was elected in November, I made it quite clear that I was running for a ministerial position and I encouraged people to vote for persons that would vote for me as Minister. Some persons thought that this was a strange attitude towards politics.

Now as we came in here and we decided who would be Government, I would ask myself how many Members went and consulted their constituents as to who they should vote for, for the Executive Council that we presently have? How many Members in this Honourable House consulted their constituents in making the choice of creating Ministers out of Members?

I happen to have a different position in this society, in that I have never been supported on my platform by persons who consider themselves to be well-to-do established persons. I know that there are other Members here who have had a wide cross-section of persons on their committees and on their platforms and in making political decisions they might find it necessary or even useful to consult them. But, Mr. Speaker, in my dealings with politics I have had to do most of this type of work myself. I have had very few telephone calls even with regards to this particular situation. So I have had to make decisions on my own.

In November when I came here, my decision was not to vote for the present coalition. In terms of my action now, it is just a continuation of what it was in November, previously; it is the same attempt to do the same thing. So I do not feel that I have to base my action upon any other reasons than that I feel that leadership at this particular time does not mean one individual's abilities. It means a vision. It means the ability to have cohesive policies for the country. It means the ability for people to agree on policies and not on personalities. Mr. Speaker, it means that we have to get away from this 'friend, friend' thing and I like this thing because we have the very serious job of running a country.

Now the fact that some people have said in this Honourable House that this is a dark day in this country, we have seen more people interested than we have before. Perhaps some of these people will even get involved now with the constitutional review process and take the opportunity to really not wait until a problem occurs and react, but be proactive.

Mr. Speaker, there are others who want to speak and I do not want to take up the whole time making the case. I came here not necessarily to persuade the House to act, as the majority of persons have already been persuaded by the reasons discussed previously. I have only attempted, Mr. Speaker, to give perhaps you and the general public an explanation as to my actions.

And, Mr. Speaker, for those who think that because I was elected in the district of George Town, I owe allegiance to any individual, then I think that they should have made that clear to me before. I owe allegiance, Mr. Speaker, to the platform on which I ran as a person who was talking about a new vision for this country. I believe that what I am seeking in terms of policies for this country will become even more possible as a result of what is to take place here today. And of course time will tell whether or not that is going to be the case, Mr. Speaker.

But from the point of there being a new political party and persons saying that that is somehow not how you organise, I think what has to be understood here right away is that the United Democratic Party that was formed was basically people getting together and saying, 'Look we are willing to at least begin to set the foundations for a policy direction for this country that is more consistent and more transparent and more visible to the general public'. Something where we understand, Mr. Speaker, that politics will involve consensus and consensus will involve communication and for this to happen we have to have a structure of politics in this country that extends beyond Executive Council, beyond the Legislative Assembly and into the hearts of the communities themselves.

This has been long coming. I hope, Mr. Speaker, that in the end, regardless of which side we are on today with regards to this question, we realise that the political faith of all of us in here is similar with regards to party politics in this country. We all know, Mr. Speaker, that those of us who are honest have realised and have accepted and have suggested that the Constitution of this country be amended so as to give us more internal authority. We know that the United Kingdom is pushing and encouraging this. Those of us who consider ourselves to be advanced and enlightened are accepting this. So although they might not be the first to use the word 'party', or to introduce it, they will not certainly, Mr. Speaker, be the last.

I think if we are going to have politics we have to have a more dependable way of being able to rely upon the consensus of other members in the Legislative Assembly and it cannot simply be based upon whether or not you like me today and hate me tomorrow. It has to become more consistent. The problem the present coalition faced, Mr. Speaker, is that policy was not their primary priority when they put their coalition together. If it had been, I believe at the end of the day it might have lasted for much longer.

So let us not just bring this issue down to one for power between individuals, because I am not into whether or not this one is the Leader of Government Business or the other one is the Leader of Government Business. That is not what I am here to discuss and defend today: I am here to discuss and defend the need for this country to understand that we are looking terrible. We are looking like grown people in school boys' uniforms.

Mr. Speaker, that means that we have to have a Constitution; we have to have a way or an attitude towards politics; we have to have collective behaviour politically in this country that will express our maturity as a financial country and the social maturity and difficulties also which we have outside in our community.

Today, I am saddened, Mr. Speaker. I have met many sorrowful situations in my life but it is always said that when one door closes another opens. I believe it is how men use events, rather than how events use men and women. I think it is up to us to determine what good can become of today. It is up to us to make that decision. It is up to us as the political leaders who know very well the affections which certain people have in this country for certain individuals, to let those persons know that a country cannot be run by pure affection. Rationality must come into play and the people must now be exposed to the full scope of the complexity of the political institutions governing their country. For ultimately, Mr. Speaker, we are the law-makers and not the lawbreakers here. We want to encourage all persons in positions in the Legislative Assembly to go out there and explain clearly to the people as they need to understand what has happened.

I would like, Mr. Speaker, to just finish up by commending you in the way in which you have so far dealt with these proceedings. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Motion is open to debate. Does any Honourable Member wish to speak? The Motion is open to debate. Does any Member wish to speak?

As I said this morning, we are not going to prolong. If it is the intention of Members to speak, please indicate it. The Motion is open to debate. Does any other Member wish to speak?

This is my last call. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Women's Affairs, Sports and Youth.

Hon. Edna M. Moyle: Mr. Speaker, my comments on this Motion will be very brief, extremely brief, seeing that I am an innocent lamb being brought to the slaughter without an explanation in the Motion as to why.

I have heard the argument that the Motion being brought under Section 6(2)(f)—and, Mr. Speaker, I am not here judging your decision to accept this Motion but I must speak my opinion and my feeling on it.

Under Section 6(2)(f) where it says “if his election to the Executive Council is revoked by a resolution of the Assembly in favour of which there are cast the votes of not less than nine of the elected members of the Assembly:” With a proviso (and I need an interpretation from a constitutional lawyer on this as I am not a lawyer): “Provided that a motion for the revocation of the election of an elected member under this paragraph,” 6(2)(f) “on the ground that he has contravened the provisions of section 9 (2) of this Constitution shall not be introduced except by a member of the Executive Council.”

That says clearly to me that I am entitled to a ground for the bringing of this Motion under Section 6(2)(f). Section 6 (2) reads “the seat of an elected member of the Executive Council shall become vacant—

“(a) if he resigns his seat in the Council by writing under his hand addressed to and received by the Governor; [That is a ground.]

“(b) when the Assembly first meets after a dissolution thereof; [That is a ground.]

“(c) if he ceases to be a member of the Assembly for any reason other than a dissolution thereof [That is a ground.]

“(d) if he is absent from the Islands without written permission of the Governor; [That is a ground.]

“(e) if, without the written permission of the Governor, he is absent from three consecutive meetings of the Executive Council.” That is a ground.

Mr. Speaker, my question to my fellow colleagues who are bringing this Motion against me—I need to know and this country needs to know—what is the ground? I could understand if there was a ground for embezzlement of Government funds. I could understand if there was a ground of abuse of power. I am not guilty of any of these. Am I guilty under this, and a ground for my election to Executive Council to be revoked because I support Mr. Kurt Tibbetts and I do not feel that Mr. Tibbetts has not been a good leader? Is that a ground to remove me from Executive Council? If it is, the mover of the Motion should have told me what the grounds were, Sir, and if there were legitimate grounds to remove me I would have walked across the floor, but I do not intend to go down without fighting. If I am guilty of something, I will not wait for my colleagues to remove me.

Mr. Speaker, I do not believe that the reason for this Motion is lack of leadership on behalf of Mr. Kurt Tibbetts. If all five Ministers on Executive Council had worked as hard as Mr. Tibbetts did with certain issues, maybe we would not have been in this position today because we would have been more united and more together.

There is no reason for any Minister to not have arranged a meeting with the Backbench—which is the concern, or I was told was the concern—and tell the Leader of Government Business we have a meeting set with our colleagues from the Backbench on such and such a date at such and such a time. It does not have to be the Leader that sets the meeting.

Mr. Speaker, for clarity I must tell this country the exact happenings with this Motion. And I tell you,

Mr. Speaker, I am concerned because I thought all of the people in this Chamber were my friends. If there was a problem, why not come to me and talk to me? Why not go to Mr. Kurt and talk to Mr. Kurt? Why not all five of us get together and discuss the problems? We were put here together as a group; discuss the problems to see if there is a solution. If there is not a solution then let us go from there. Not to call a meeting and to drop on the Honourable Minister for Communications and Works and myself at that time, that unless he resigns as the Leader of Government Business, they cannot support the Government in the Legislative Assembly.

Maybe that is the reason for this Motion, Mr. Speaker, but it is my humble opinion that the Leader of Government Business is not a Constitutional appointment. And in my opinion and my opinion only, Sir, the Governor has that right if three Members of Executive Council have lost faith in Mr. Kurt, to have him removed and make him step back and then he could have taken his decision, whether he wanted to stay on board or whether he wanted to leave.

Mr. Speaker, it is not my personality to spring surprises on anyone that I consider my colleague in this Legislative Assembly—and not only my colleagues on Executive Council, but also my colleagues on the other side. And I think it was totally unfair to him, to bring him to this point today when it could have been solved otherwise: not with a meeting that was just sprung on all of us.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to say to the Members of this Legislative Assembly—and I thank Mr. Frank very much for his words a while ago, that there should be no character bashing, because sitting in this Gallery today with me are five of the most precious children in this world. I know everybody loves their children, which is right, but I will not lower my principles in this country to bring them in disrepute for my children to suffer at the end of the day.

My principle is, Mr. Kurt did an excellent job. He spent more time in that Glass House than any of us. The budget for last year, until one and two o'clock in the morning I must say—the Honourable Minister for Health was away ill—Mr. Kurt and I were at the Glass House trying to get the budget for 2001.

So, Mr. Speaker, I do not have a clue why I am being brought to the slaughter. I need someone to give me an explanation of this Constitution. If it is necessary I will take my recourse to the Courts of the Cayman Islands. I will not take my principles that I have lived with all my life and destroy them today.

Why am I here? Is it because I do not support seven storey buildings? Is it because I did not agree with another licence for aggregate importation? Is it because I did not agree with the cruise ships opening up their gambling casinos? Is it because I did not agree with shops being opened on Good Friday and Christmas Day? If those are the reasons, tell me, Sir, and if I am guilty of an offence I will take my punishment. This is all I am asking: tell me why I am in this Motion to be moved as an Elected Member of Executive Council. That is all I want.

Mr. Speaker, I have conducted myself in a professional manner. I have been with my colleagues as strong as I could be, defending them on the outside, defending them on the inside. I have worked to make my Ministry work and, Mr. Speaker, I have been in the Ministry not even one year yet and I would just like to say there are several things that have been achieved. I heard questions at the meeting like, there was no Sports Policy of what the Government was doing. I went into the Ministry, I did not find a Sports Policy, Mr. Speaker. There is a committee set up at the very present time bringing about a National Sports Policy. There is a committee to be set up with funds in this year's budget to bring about a National Social Policy. There are funds in this budget, to do a country poverty assessment. The Gender Policy that the lady Member from Cayman Brac started before the General Election is continuing and will be completed in June. The implementation of the National Youth Policy will continue, we have now set up a National Youth Commission and funds are in the budget to set it up as an autonomous body. What more could I have done, Mr. Speaker, in less than one year?

So, this has to be based on my not accepting things I felt I would not lower my principles to do. And I can only say this, Mr. Speaker: I throw no aspersions at anyone. If that is the case, Sir, you could call the vote right now because I could no longer associate myself with persons who do not want to be associated with me. Having had the opportunity of going to this meeting when Mr. Kurt was going to be removed and my three colleagues knew all about it, I knew nothing. So it meant I was not trusted and that is what I told the Honourable Minister for Tourism when he called me on Saturday—I could not work with persons that did not trust me.

So, Mr. Speaker, if I am guilty of anything I plead my case, but I could not continue even if the Governor asked me to.

Dark days for the country, be that as it may, my responsibility in this Chamber . . . I was put here by the people of North Side and no one will allow me to leave the seat as the representative for the District of North Side until they decide to remove me. I will work for the betterment of this country because I have children, I have grandchildren, and I am a responsible person. Mr. Speaker, I am certain there are others that will speak after I have spoken and I will listen with good care as to what they are going to say. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Motion is open to debate, does any Member wish to speak? The Motion is open to debate does any Member wish to speak?

Once again I would ask Honourable Members if they intend to speak to please let us move the debate along. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Planning Communications and Works.

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank You, Mr. Speaker. We have had a bit of 'venting' today. An occasion such as this would naturally cause some of that. While we have to debate the Motion on its merits, I think perhaps given all that I have listened to, maybe a few other things need to be said.

First of all let me give you a little joke, Sir. I saw someone not too long ago as . . . I see the former Leader of Government Business sitting in the Gallery—and this is with good intentions have no fear. When this thing started to unfold on the weekend, someone said to me that he had seen Mr. Truman somewhere recently and he was telling him that he felt such a great relief in recent times, because he could get to go fishing very often now. And that every time he would be pulling in a fish he would be saying, thank you Kurt, thank you Kurt, thank you Kurt.

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: So perhaps when this is all over I will have to find somebody, when I get to go fishing a little bit more, who I can say 'thank you' to—whichever that is.

Mr. Speaker, I want to feel bad because it has been shocking those who are very close to me. I have even tried to force it on so that they would stop worrying but I don't and I can't. Perhaps the way I would speak to this today, would be to only ask that people never lose sight of the fact that I take this very seriously. But the way I think I have to view it at this point in time is that for whatever reasons, regardless of whether in mind they are justified or not, the facts that are before us are that whenever the vote is taken on this Motion that has been brought, once nine or more Members have been duly elected in this Honourable Legislative Assembly vote in support of the Motion, then the Honourable Lady Minister to my left, and myself, will simply have to pack our little belongings and go right back over to the Backbench and at that point and time we become the Lady Member from North Side and the First Elected Member from George Town.

And, by the way, I have to say now to the Second Elected Member from George Town that I am pretty confident from the indications that have been given, that the vote will be 'yes' and I will have to vacate where I am standing now. So please get your stuff ready to shift because I would want back my seat, please, if you do not mind. You have done a sterling job holding it there for me.

Mr. Speaker, I have had to come to the view that regardless of the likes, the dislikes, the beliefs, the don't beliefs, if at this point in time that is the desire of nine or more Members of this Legislature Assembly then if they proceed with a vote in that fashion the Constitutional framework that we have allows for it. And because I am duty-bound as a citizen of this country to respect that Constitutional framework that exists at present, I have no choice but to accept that. Those are the plain facts.

I want to try to get the situation in a light where maybe what is expected that I will do, might not happen. You see, Mr. Speaker, over the years in this Honourable Legislative Assembly, I have been able to get to understand clearly that even when my feelings and emotions instinctively wish for me to either react or say things in a certain manner, I try my best to refrain from that. I believe that my responsibility as a representative in this Legislative Assembly transcends that.

Some may ask, Well, how can you deal with it like that? Well, the truth is, as time goes on you do get older and hopefully a little bit wiser and perhaps a little bit more understanding. But there are times you have to go by yourself, bite your lip and say those few things that you do not want everybody to hear you saying all the time, get it off your chest and move on.

Mr. Speaker, I have spent the last year on a, perhaps, roller-coaster ride which was a great learning experience for me. I have to stand here today to say that not all the time did I have up front a full grasp of everything that I was participating in as a Member of Executive Council, because with the best of intentions and even good understanding that is physically impossible. I am certain that lots of times others who are on Council, or who have been on Council—lots of times they too realise that some of the things that came at you, you had no idea that they were coming, or what they were all about, and you would have to try to gain a clear understanding of what was happening.

What happened in the past few days has perhaps taught all of us that we are very, very insecure politically in this country. There is merit to what the Third Elected Member from George Town said, when I speak to certain things that he did say, in my view. And I think what perhaps frightens the nation more than anything else right now is, Is this going to happen again next week? Is it going to happen again next year? I think that is where a big part of the problem is with the understanding and that is a very understandable fear.

So in essence it really does not matter who the players are in the game. Those players can change but the structure still allows for this to happen. I do not know if we would ever get a system which would totally prevent this being able to happen. But, obviously, we need to get a system which allows for a bit more structure so that this does not happen on a 'whim and fancy'.

When I walked in this morning, Mr. Speaker, I saw a good size crowd of people out there cheering and it made me feel good. It makes you feel that what you have been is appreciated, but it does not end there, Mr. Speaker, because regardless of the disagreements which we may have politically as elected representatives, the country has to run.

I am going to take this opportunity today to speak to some of the deficiencies that exist, Mr. Speaker. It is time that every single person in this country has a clear understanding of them. We must not fear anymore about talking about certain things. It has been said before, but the fear still exists: I know that. And all of us who choose to seek to represent the people of the country, by and large over the years, have either endorsed some of those fears, or found fear in realising those fears and not been able to find it in ourselves, for fear of not being accepted politically to talk about these things. We have a system, Mr. Speaker, that is built for disasters like this to happen.

Let me just use some little instances to talk about. When the West Bay contingent delivered their verdict on Friday afternoon and I tried to gather myself—because for a few seconds I could not believe what I was hearing but then I was trying to understand why I was hearing it. When we started to speak to the reasons for it, we heard about certain things like the Civil Service and that the public is crying for us to find ways to curb Government's expenditure. Valid, very valid! I am not questioning the validity or the veracity of the statement. But, Mr. Speaker, the elected Government . . . And let us take it a bit further and say, Me. For that to be mentioned as a part of a build up of reasons why they could not support the upcoming budget for the Government, meant that rightly or wrongly so, they must have felt that their elected Government could do something about that directly.

Mr. Speaker, I am here to tell you that the Honourable Chief Secretary is right here and the other ministers are right here. We have been battling that from the day we walked inside that Glass House. Everybody might have different views as to how to do it. But the battle is not one that you can simply say you did not do anything about; the battle is because of how the system operates. And of course you would not know if you had made any measurable success until you saw a budget and you were able to go through whether expenditure was able to be contained; whether new services included a long list of new posts to be created; whether posts were made redundant; whether they were not filled, whether they were not funded or whatever. Because the majority of Government's recurrent expenditure is personal emoluments, basic salaries and other statutory obligations.

So Mr. Speaker, it is one of those situations where you find yourself actually agreeing with the sentiments that are expressed. But only having to part company because you live close to it and where the sentiments are coming from might not have exactly the feel for it.

Then we speak to communication and the lack thereof. Mr. Speaker, if we are objective in our thoughts, which I am certain we can be, those of us who are part and parcel of that group (my colleagues on Council included), will remember that on several occasions we wished to have a meeting. Somebody was either leaving the Island, or would not be here on the day, or there was some meeting. And I am sorry the Honourable Financial Secretary is not here—not meaning to be funny, but at least once and perhaps twice a day, especially from him, they were sprung on you. That does not mean there is anything wrong—that is just the nature of the beast and how it works. They just keep coming at you. I am not making any excuses, I must be honest; it really was not that much fun, but one hell of a learning experience! I can tell you that! I did not mean to be unparliamentary, Sir.

Mr. Speaker, Sir, perhaps others have mentioned that it is a sad day. After the first few days of trying to grapple and grasp and understand why something like this would have happened, and searching my soul to find out why is it that I, personally, thought that I gave it more than I thought I had - and it could not be seen that way - I realise that there is a bit more to it than that.

I almost want to believe that perhaps today might not have been intended to be exactly like this. I guess we all find out in this business that things have a way of taking on their own lives and just breeding fast, fast, fast. But even if that is the case, Mr. Speaker, and one wants to continue to participate in the process and one wants to remain as intact as possible in the process, the very serious consideration that someone like myself has to make at this point in time is, where do I really think we should go from here?

I do not know if what I am going to be talking about now will be agreed upon, but I have to say it the way I see it. The public of the country, in my view from everything that I have heard, do not agree with what is being proposed at present. I think a part of all of that is the process that we have, and how it allows for it to happen. And the mere fact that they are not prepared for something like this to happen it is only natural, Mr. Speaker—and those of us who have been around for long enough will have a good feel for that. It is only natural, Mr. Speaker, that one can almost certainly anticipate certain reactions once one thinks the process through—when a decision is being made as to what the public is going to say or do when they hear what that decision is.

The question is: If the majority of the Legislative Assembly, in their minds are satisfied (the majority being at least nine), are satisfied that it is the right thing to do at this point in time and you have a public opinion which seems to think it is not the right thing to do, then what do you do? The public elected them and in the process they become the trustees of the representation that is made up in this Legislative Assembly for the public and they believe it is the right thing to do. Perhaps this is one of those occasions, Mr. Speaker, when only time will tell.

I think the Member for East End spoke about not being able to give definitions of certain characteristics of an individual and the point he was making is that you have to live through it to be able to prove it; honesty, integrity and such the like. This, too, is a situation where those who believe it is not the right thing to do have their reasons. Those who believe it is the right thing to do have their reasons and the way the Constitutional framework is, only time will tell whether it was the right thing to do or not.

Mr. Speaker, I want to talk a bit, about the way Government (not the bodies) works. Regardless of any policies that the Executive Branch of Government creates as a framework to move forward with, the way the system operates now, it will not materialise to anyone's satisfaction either from within or without. It just cannot happen. There are policy-makers which is the Executive Branch and with the best intentions of the world, the official arm and the various Ministry staff and the Departments that implement those policies under the various Ministries and Portfolios are simply not attached well enough to the process to allow for it to happen. Theoretically, it sounds textbook style and it should work fine. I am telling the whole world that it is not worth you know what; it does not work! Not because of individuals, Sir, but all of the attachments simply are not there. So anyone, or any group, who wants to move forward—as is obvious there is a group now—needs to understand clearly that there are certain things that must be done.

You know I shall never forget six months ago—when I have finished the statement, people will understand where I am coming from. And I am not taking tales out of school. Six months ago, I prepared a paper to Executive Council which made a very serious attempt to address the deficiency that I am speaking to between the policy-makers and having the ability for not only advice to come to policy-makers, but for implementation to become a reality. The paper was pulled and it never went to Council. It was not pulled by me and I do not have to say anymore and I am not accusing anyone. I only make the statement because I want my colleagues to understand that I hear where they are coming from, from their side of the fence, with perhaps some things they cannot see. But I want them to understand and I want everybody to understand that I understand. I do. Now when you pull a paper and it does not get on an agenda, you are supposed to talk about it. I guess obviously with what is going to happen here today, I will never get the opportunity to talk about it six months later. Maybe someone else might.

Mr. Speaker, the country has some basic problems. We have a problem with our expenditure and our revenue on the recurrent side. We have a problem with, continually at this point, having to borrow for our capital expenditure. If we trace it, at one time the balance was fine. But when I used to stand up on the Backbench and preach and say that this is not going to last forever, the answer given to me was that 'it will stay like this for the foreseeable future'. Well we cannot say that anymore; 'foreseeable' has gone. That is not a problem we are going to cure in a day.

I do believe that the most important players in that game, which are the employees that make up the Civil Service, now have a clear understanding of the new culture that has to be developed and I am praying to God that that momentum is not lost, because if we do not get that momentum to continue, and even to refine itself, then believe me all is lost.

But you see, here am I, Mr. Speaker, standing up and talking about that—and I want everybody to clearly understand that even in the last few minutes or hours that I may be the Leader of Government Business in this country, it was not my responsibility but I am held responsible for it.

I am not complaining, Mr. Speaker: I say all of the things that I am saying now, to be truthful, even in what others might see as these dark moments. I say this for the benefit of my colleagues and I mean that sincerely. So what we ended up with is a situation where some people tried to practise before the real thing. That is exactly what we ended up with. The difficulty with that is that if everybody is not practising at the same time, then it is very difficult to get it synchronised.

There are some people who obviously for some time have had a desire for it to be like that because they see the merits of the system moving in that direction. But nevertheless, I speak to these difficulties not to seek admonition, Mr. Speaker, I speak to them because I want the people of this country to understand very clearly today what has transpired and what is transpiring.

Some of us in the Legislature might have other views about other matters; I might have views about other matters; but the bottom line is, those other matters really do not matter right now because those other matters are a totally separate issue. If we try to marry the two of them, emotions take over, logic goes through the window and we do not have an understanding of what we have to do to correct the situation.

If I react because of what I feel, then I speak to the personal issues that a lot of people would like. And maybe some people might get disappointed if I do not do that. However, we need to understand that this is very serious because we cannot have a continuation of the way things are going. We were able thus far, after everybody fired off his shots, to end up saying 'now it is nothing personal'. But then the next one says, 'do not think now that I am not going to answer you'. And when I finish with it I am going to tell you the same thing. So we try to say that it is nothing personal but the truth is, Mr. Speaker, it is very difficult for it not to get to that.

All of us in here, regardless of what has happened, have enough understanding among us to try to make sure that we are still within a reasonable acquaintance of each other. Sometimes you have to leave it for a few days to make it cool off; the Third Elected Member for George Town and the rest of us know that. Eventually we will kind of get back to normal.

But, Mr. Speaker, the way this system is working for us now, and when we find the things that do not happen that we think should happen and it reflects on one's ability, sometimes that is correct but not all the time and that is why a lot of the times you get the 'personal' business. I mean I could look you straight in the eye, Sir, and say to you, I simply know you are a bad person, I could do that. . Just so that you will feel at ease, I do not believe that, so I would not say that.

But, Mr. Speaker, here is my colleague sitting next to me in his usual style, the way he listens. And not by his volition, not by my volition, by coincidence we have not said hello today. See? And we are all battling in our minds about what we are doing: Are we doing it right? What is in it for me? How do we put the combinations together?

Mr. Speaker, many have been here longer than I have, some have had more than one stint, some have arrived the same time and some have come later. However, I have been here long enough to understand that as long as we keep it the way it is, it will be no better for us. Trust me. You know what is happening here today? It is just my turn; that is what is happening here today. Regardless of how safe any of us in this political arena feel now, if we think for two seconds we will understand that we do not know when it is going to be us.

And you see perspectives are gained for different reasons, but the end results do not change. We have a problem. We could look at the scenario and say it differently. Perhaps it might not have emanated from a certain angle for which another angle was created, for which the bodies had to fit, because that is what you know. Nobody has to tell me anything; it does not take me long to figure out; I understand what happened and it will happen again. You know, Mr. Speaker, the first time you cook something a certain way and it tastes good you are going to cook it again because it tasted good. Somebody just said to me, 'Please don't make it turtle'.

[Laughter]

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: This much I know, Mr. Speaker, with all of that if I cook a good pot of turtle, those same people will eat it again, I know that, they do not have to admit that. I know that.

Mr. Speaker, I am going to ask this country to do something: it is a bit risky and perhaps—no, that is not the case, no—no, that is not the case—I was going to say, perhaps I grow weary—no it is not that. But, Mr. Speaker, the truth is I am a part of the system. I understood before last Friday how it works. I just never thought that it could happen like that and that I would be involved in it.

You see, the logic behind all of that is, you do everything you can; you try to anticipate things; you try to see forward; you try to have what the Third Elected Member for George Town refers to as the vision, and you try to move forward with it. And every day of your life you have to ask God, 'Please give me some more strength because the day does not have enough hours in it'. When all of that is finished it is still not good enough. However, that does not just befall me; it befalls everyone at different points and times.

So, as I was saying, Mr. Speaker, I am going to ask this country to do something. This process under the Constitutional arrangement is a legal process. My colleague argues with logic about the 'grounds' but, Mr. Speaker, if we wish to get technical it might take us a year-and-a-day and a bunch of lawyers who may give different opinions or who may find out that what she is saying, the way it reads is right, or the way some other person interprets it is right and she is not right.

As you well know, Sir, in this arena many things are left to interpretation and one could argue for a whole day about something that is agreed upon. The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town knows very well that you can do that and bring logic to that argument. But somebody else can say the opposite about the same kind of argument and you can listen to both sides of the coin.

So the bottom line is this, Mr. Speaker: my view is, whether I like it or whether I do not, here is what I am faced with and here is what the Lady Minister is faced with. We are satisfied that we have been the best representatives that we could be. Also, we are firmly of the belief that wherever we sit we will continue to do that job to the best of our abilities. But the Constitutional framework allows this to happen. We have the side of the people; we have the side of the Legislators. The fact is, as many words of encouragement can be given, as many tears can be shed. I walked out awhile ago and a lady hugged me and started to cry, I mean really, literally. But, Mr. Speaker, let us step back for a minute and I am going to ask this country—because we have no other recourse at this point in time—that if nine or more Elected Members of this Legislature want to move forward with this Motion, the way they have expressed through the Motion, then we should accept it. Might not agree with it, but the reason I should accept it is because I will never be a part of testing the integrity of our Constitution. If we see by experiences what is wrong with what we see happening, then let us use the process to change the Constitution. The wrong that I speak to means that if people believe it should not be like this and there should be some other way that they might have participation in a process such as this, then let us use due process to change it so that we will not have this problem to deal with again.

We cannot stop this process now, Mr. Speaker, and say 'wait until we get that changed and then we can make it happen'. It does not work like that, it does not work like that. If my water bill is $100 this month but is only going to be $50 next month, I still have to pay the $100 this month, I cannot pay $50 this month I have to wait until next month. I know that is a bit risky but, Mr. Speaker, let us think about the country. Some people might say 'if we do this'—and they have their personal preferences for their own reasons—'if we do this, this is what is going to happen that is not good'.

Mr. Speaker, we have a process still, and I do not believe that the process is that fragmented or cracked up that we cannot survive until we get this thing fixed. I believe we can. If I do not believe we can, I go home—I got forty-odd new trees to plant. But, Mr. Speaker, regardless of how we feel (about myself or anyone else), we have to take the system that exists: the Constitutional framework. If we want to change that, we cannot change it for individuals. The individuals have to fit into that. That does not fit into the individuals.

I am doing pretty good. I feel all right. I thought I was not going to make it, but I am okay now, Mr. Speaker, I will be okay. I have said what I have said in the manner that I have said it, because I recognise, Mr. Speaker, that there are many, many people in this country who for whatever reason today, felt the right thing for them to do was to show an expression of dissatisfaction for what is happening now and voicing their opinions. They have the right to do that. They most certainly do.

But, Mr. Speaker, it would be wrong of me, no one else, just 'I'. It would be wrong of me, Sir, understanding full well where this country is at today, to egg the people of this country on to try to stop this if the process allows for it. The reason why that would be wrong, Mr. Speaker, is because if we think about it for a minute—stop and think about it for a minute.

I did a good grandstand job here today and I had fifteen or twenty pages of notes prepared and real good points like how I used to deal with my good friend sometimes when he was here and I was there. I know I had him beat sometimes; sometimes he could not answer me, I know that. Sometimes he had me kind of funny too, but that is alright.

And, Mr. Speaker, if I did all of that, let us just stop and think for one minute; let us stop and think about what is still precious in this land. Mr. Speaker, if I did that, no one but God knows what might happen. And no one in the Gallery, no one who is outside and no one who will hear this broadcast tonight can truly be sure that the risk will have been worth it. Because that is something else that takes on its own life and two seconds before it starts, everyone still says it is fine. And something goes wrong just in one little corner then you do not know what you have on your hands. And it could be good people involved in that, with good intentions. Mr. Speaker, at every risk that I personally may face for saying it like that, if it is a risk, I love this place too much to attempt that, or rather to risk it. I am not going to do that. I am not going to do that, Mr. Speaker.

The vote will carry today, it seems. If that is what happens, I am going to close. I did not bring much today, so I will not have much to walk with. Another time: when we get to Budget we will deal with that. But I will do that and I perhaps will wait until the next time around before I ask my colleague back for the same seat, because it really was comfortable and, Mr. Speaker, I will still be the best representative that I can be. I will be a little bit wiser, a year older, but with no shame or no disgrace—in fact a little bit better off because there are certain things which I will be able to manage a lot better sitting from the chair over there. Because, regardless of what may be said now, there is a knowledge base that is a little bit deeper than it was before. So let the process go on, let our system continue to work. The ill feelings will pass after a while as they usually do. In the meantime we shall just have to nurse them along.

Mr. Speaker, my recommendation at this point in time is, let the Elected Members decide and let us get on with it; let the country get on with its business; let us get on with our lives. And that is not a 'give-upper'—that is accepting a process. Some might have said, Mr. Speaker, if that is the position then why resign? Mr. Speaker, I was not elected to resign and I know that and the people know that and I could not do that. For me to do that, I would go home permanently and plant dem trees and I am not ready to do that yet. I am not ready to do that yet!

I believe that I can still make the people of the district and the country proud with the representation from the Backbench if that is how it has to be. I think that in saying that, I can speak for my colleague the Lady Minister in the same vein because she has her own strengths too. I think you know that, I think you probably have some vivid memories of her in action. Yeah. I wish, Mr. Speaker, that things like this we perhaps may not have to go through at times.

I want to especially say to the civil servants in this country, you have taken some licks recently and some of them came from me kind of pressing hard with certain things, but I know that they understand why certain things had to be done differently. I believe they have a full grasp of it. I am going to plead with them not to let their morale go down again, I could sense it beginning to come up. Let it continue to rise. We shall all be the better off with that. Do not let this get you down; this will pass.

That is ultimately important in the process, Mr. Speaker, regardless of the political agendas and policy-making decisions from within this forum or in Executive Council and its activities. It is absolutely important to get the Civil Service finely tuned and working like clockwork and the people in the Service are not only with the ability to, but they have the will to do so if it is set up properly to do so. That has not happened before and it must happen now. It must!

Mr. Speaker, I do not know how anyone else wishes to deal with this matter. I have said it the way that I believe is the best way possible to say it. I could have taken a different role with it, but I do not believe it was in the best interest of the whole situation and the country to have taken it, or dealt with it, in a different manner.

Let time prove itself one way or the other. Let us move forward even if it is with reluctance let us accept what we have in front of us; however way we do it, whether we like it or we do not, let us accept it. Let us understand that we must do everything possible to shore up the arrangements that we have to ensure that things like this do not happen lightly in the future. Let the country not have to worry whether this is just the beginning of worse to come; we do not want people to be thinking that.

I want to say to the Government—and I am working on some assumptions here. I am not trying to goad anyone on to try to tell them to do what they do not want to do, but as I said, that is the way it goes. I want to tell the Government this—and I am not going to even try to point fingers because we will all understand. There needs to be (if it has not started yet, I actually hope it has) a very serious PR campaign to not allow this to be read internationally, differently from what it actually is. I understand that things have already happened, but we cannot leave that alone, Mr. Speaker, because that is bad news for us. So I just hope that note is being taken and it is being dealt with in the right way. Let us forget about the politics for now. If the political process makes for this to happen, let it happen and then let us move on. Let us not keep talking about this; there is too much to do now.

Mr. Speaker, I read your letter this morning and I just want to let you know that I have had a most enjoyable journey with you. I remember once looking at you and forgetting who you were and saying, “Don’t look at me like that.” Do you remember that time? I felt so ashamed. I had just forgotten where I was, but I apologised and then you said to me afterwards, “before you said it I had already forgiven you.” I thank you for your kind spirits.

I trust that you will really retire now. You need to do that now. I do not mean it like that; you need some rest and relaxation. You deserve it. You have spent your time well, Sir, and I think that I speak for everyone here with the highest regard for you.

I do not know whether there is any reconsideration on the timing that I saw in the letter, but whenever it is, Sir, I did this just in case that letter holds true. We have had so many different situations with that. I am not one hundred percent sure—just going by the latest one I have heard.

Mr. Speaker, in closing let me say that I think we should simply look at whatever has happened as a lesson in the learning. What we need to do as quickly as we can is to mend the fences internally and externally. I am not one to live with grudges, but I do learn my lessons. Sometimes they take me very long, but I learn them well. Let us get on with this process, wherever it needs to go and let the country move forward, Mr. Speaker.

I thank you.

The Speaker: On a matter of procedure, we normally take an afternoon break. Is it the desire of Members that we continue and waive the break? Continue?

The floor is open to debate. Does any other Member wish to speak? The Motion is open for debate. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. After listening to the last speaker (which was very touching), I must say that up until now, Mr. Speaker, the debate on this very serious Motion has been as we have experienced, at a very high level. I trust that toward the end it will continue to be like that. Mr. Speaker, I will not be long, as my job here this afternoon is more as a messenger—that message I will reveal shortly. As the saying goes, I hope they do not ‘shoot the messenger’.

Josh Billings has said, “the less we know, the more we suspect.” This can be applied to some of the areas which have transpired over the past few days. Earlier, my good friend ‘the preacher’ alluded to the Motion—most unlike him—but I do know as a parliamentarian that he has the right on winding up to expound and expand on that Motion. However, it would have been nice for the public to have a better understanding on what basis the two Ministers of Government are being removed.

I need to tell the public, Mr. Speaker, that in the last selection of Executive Council I did not vote for the Minister of Planning, I did not vote for the Minister of Community Development, nor did I vote for the Minister of Tourism. Just so that they will understand that my position of objection at this time is not partial to one side or the other.

What has transpired here today (as has been said by a number of speakers) is legal because it is within the provisions of the Constitution. But the question that I have is: Is it the right thing to do at this time? I will gradually ease into my brief part of the message. The question I wish to ask is, Have we gone back to the people who elected us, to get their feelings and feedback? As to my knowledge, none of us campaigned on forming an organised party system between elections where there will be a new Leader of Government Business—come Chief Minister. I think it is most unfair to the electorate to take this step without their consideration and input.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the members of the public that is sitting in the Gallery and the hundreds who took time off from work this morning to express their democratic right and feeling to come and let us Legislators know that they are here, they are aware of what is going on and they have a deep and keen interest in it.

I, personally feel, Mr. Speaker, that it would have been more prudent to have delayed these actions for at least one week and talk to the people who put us here in the first place because we are, and should only be, their mouthpiece in major changes as these: especially considering, Mr. Speaker, the human suffering and distress caused by hurricane Michelle on the South and Western part of Grand Cayman. Owners of condominiums and businesses indicated they had heard literally nothing from the Government about their serious plight.

Mr. Speaker, after receiving numerous phone calls and visits from people who were very concerned about the power-play taking place in the Government, I felt it was my duty to go to the people of Bodden Town, who elected me to this Parliament to seek their feedback—which I did last night. There were well over two hundred people from all walks of life present at that meeting—from every district literally in these Cayman Islands. They voiced overwhelmingly their objection to what was taking place. The message I was asked to bring here today was that they are most upset because their elected representatives did not come back to them on this most important issue. I was also asked to caution all MLAs that this might last for the next three years but they will never forget in November 2004 what has transpired.

Mr. Speaker, as we have observed while gathered here this afternoon, the die has been cast and listening to the not yet former Leader of Government Business, he has accepted this graciously.

There was an illustration drawn in regards to the last administration where there was a change in Leader of Government Business. I do recall that, Mr. Speaker, but to the best of my knowledge that change in the Leader of Government Business was pre-arranged before we actually went into Parliament where the Honourable Thomas Jefferson would act as Leader for two years and after that Honourable Truman Bodden would take over. There was no animosity that I detected at that time and I think many of us here know what transpired.

But, Mr. Speaker, Democracy speaks. What is being done is allowed under the Constitution and I would ask that we as Legislators be open, go back to the people, explain to them what is going on; let this be a time for healing to bring these Islands back together. There are some very difficult times out there and I do not have to tell anyone that. Mr. Speaker, I feel that what has happened in the great United States has yet to trickle down here.

We have to remember our Heavenly Father who has put us here and the kindness and mercies He has shown us, especially in most recent times. Without Him there is not a lot we can do. I would urge our new Government that they would seek His guidance and precepts as they go forward, because Caymanians, we are in some very difficult times, economically, morally and spiritually. This is the time, Mr. Speaker, for all of us to stick together and put the past behind us.

I do not know who will become the new Speaker. At certain times I was approached, but that is history. I have no hard feelings against anyone. My job as a representative of the people is to support whomever the majority say here. I am just passing through. My colleagues and the public, my focus now is on getting ready for a better place.

I wish you all, the new Government, the best of everything and that we can work together in harmony.

Mr. Speaker, you have done an admirable and commendable job here today under difficult times; you were outstanding. I am very proud of you as a Caymanian. May God bless us all!

The Speaker: The Motion is open to debate; does any other Member wish to speak? The Motion is open to debate; does any other Member wish to speak? Again I ask. Please let us not delay. If you intend to speak, let me recognise you. The Motion is open to debate; does any other Member wish to speak? This is my last call. The Motion is open to debate; does any other Member wish to speak?

If no other Member wishes to speak, does the Honourable Minister wish to exercise his right of reply? The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, let me begin by thanking everyone here today. Whether or not you believe that this, at this point in time, is the best move for us as a people or not, we are all Caymanians and I am proud to be a Caymanian. I am certainly at this point in time reflecting, as is my duty as the mover of the Motion, but all that has been said.

Mr. Speaker, certainly for all of us who sit in these Chambers as Elected Representatives there comes the time when we have to make what would be difficult decisions, what will be sometimes unpopular decisions. That is what the people of these Islands elect us to do. I am not here to villainise anyone. I am not here to castigate anyone. We have a political process that is conducted every four years, when we as Caymanians elect fifteen people who are constitutionally bound to act.

I have heard much said about consultation of the public. The one thing, as the youngest Member in this House that is so sad as a twenty-nine year old young man, with a five-month old daughter, to have people say that we should have consulted the public now. What about last year when we formed the Government? Does anyone think that I did not get pressured for supporting some of the people I voted for? I did not hold any public meeting then, but I was not criticised, because for the most part the people here today liked the choice I made. What about the thousands who are not here? They were probably the ones who did not like the choice and like what I am doing now; therefore they did not feel moved to show up today.

So I did not hold a public meeting last year: nothing was said. And that was a very important decision last year when I was forming a government. That was a very, very important time in all of our lives, just as today is a very important day. However, I fail to see how it can be said that this is a dark day in Caymanian politics. To me, those who would suggest that this is a dark day may very well be blind to political maturity and political reality. We formed a coalition government. Mr. Speaker, I would like to read into the record the definition of "coalition": "an alliance, especially a temporary one."

Mr. Speaker, this certainly speaks volumes to where we are socially and politically. We are in the year 2001 and we brag about a lot of things that God has given us. "He hath founded it upon the seas." "He [and that "He" is the Almighty God] hath Founded it upon the seas." It is He who allows us the life, the material things, yet we expect to govern ourselves with loose relationships where loyalties can shift with the tide, winds and fancy of the public popularity. So if somebody is popular in West Bay now, you align with that person, but then when they are not popular, you then jump on with who comes behind them. If somebody is popular in Bodden Town now you band with them and then when they cease to be popular we jump on with them.

The Speaker: Let me interrupt you for a moment.

May I ask the strangers in the Gallery to please respect that the debaters are here to be heard? Please try to be as silent as possible. I know the temptation is to talk but that is not what we are here for. Please observe the rules.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay, please continue and I apologise for the interruption.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

As I was saying, over the last few years we have never had, and have never seen a reason to have, clear-cut philosophies and to have people run together on clear-cut philosophies so that there is transparency in the political process. So that when the person in East End goes to vote for a candidate he knows who that candidate is going to support for Executive Council or Cabinet; when the person goes in North Side, he knows who his candidate is going to support; when you go in Bodden Town you know who your candidate is going to support; George Town; West Bay; Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Speaker, I, like all of us, know no other home. This is our home and I would ensure that I think very carefully about every action that I take in life especially as an elected representative of the people. I would not take an action unless I believe in my heart of hearts it is for the good of this country and it is for moving this country forward.

You see . . . not to brag, Mr. Speaker, but God blessed me as a young man. He blessed me with a good family. He blessed me with people who prayed for me and I managed to get a secondary education. I also managed to get myself a professional qualification. So nobody is going to tell me what to do as an MLA. I do what I believe is in the best interest of these people and the people of these Islands, my people.

Because, Mr. Speaker, you see I have the advantage that if there were to have been a distinct majority in this Legislature that wanted to do something that was not in the best interest of this country, I could easily step aside irrespective of what the political ramifications would be, because I know where I would go afterwards if God spared my life: I would go back to Accounting.

Mr. Speaker, I realise that when you seek election the responsibility that goes with that is tremendous. The people select fifteen people to come here to carry out business. I ran on a manifesto. I ran on a basis of what we as a group coming out of West Bay were going to try to achieve for the people. Mr. Speaker, this business of destabilising—you know I find it so sad that our Constitution would have clauses in it that are destabilising and yet we could not point those things out before now? It would take us to evoke that to then realise it is destabilising.

Mr. Speaker, I find it very difficult to believe and very difficult to imagine that with all the talent we have in this country Caymanians and expatriates—but especially Caymanians, especially Caymanian lawyers. I find it very difficult to believe that we would have provisions in our Constitution that would destabilise the country and it not be pointed out before.

Mr. Speaker, just a short time ago there was an attempt to impeach President Clinton. There were people on one side who really liked that and they wanted that to happen, and there were people on the other side who did not like that; they did not want it to happen. The country moved forward.

Mr. Speaker, Margaret Thatcher was the leader in the United Kingdom and her party came to her as a group and said to her, 'You do not attract the support of the majority of the people that put you in power, therefore you will no longer be the Prime Minister. You will no longer be the chief among equals.'

But, Mr. Speaker, much has been said about last Friday and certainly a lot of the country would have seen and heard the statement that the Backbench Members from the district of West Bay issued, which I read.

Mr. Speaker, as I recall it, I clearly said in the meeting that within the group that formed the Government last year November, of which I was a part, I did not feel as though there was any direction. I did not feel as though the people in this country saw something that they could grab on to and latch on to and be active participants in the process in the progress forward. Mr. Speaker, if you are not progressing by default you are regressing. We must continue to progress with all the competition that we have in this world.

Do any of us think that our neighbours will not gladly take and accommodate the tourists that we might otherwise not have? Do any of us believe that our neighbours would not gladly take up the international business that we currently have, or future business that might come our way? Do any of our people believe that when we get back to the domestic level that we are not in trouble?

When we look at drug use, teenage pregnancy, all the social ills that are crippling this country; we must have a clear purpose and direction; we must progress as a people; we must march forward in faith; we must be prayerful; we must ensure that we are active participants in the good for all of us. But the most important thing, Mr. Speaker, is for our children and grandchildren. As I said, Mr. Speaker, I only have a five-month old daughter so obviously I do not have any grandchildren. Mr. Speaker, I am young but I realise that everything that happens today must be a part of the foundation of what, God willing, any unborn grandchildren that I have will come to inherit and build upon. I am not so blind, or so pompous, or so self-centred as to think that I must be looking out for me.

Mr. Speaker, life is but a vapour. Life is but a vapour. Mr. Speaker, if I happen to derive some benefit in this life and whatever benefit you might want to imagine, then that is good. But Mr. Speaker, the most important thing for me is to provide spiritually for my family and second to that to ensure that as an elected MLA we build a foundation that is not on sand; that we build a foundation that is on solid rock.

And, Mr. Speaker, I say it again: I do not remember any of us who formed the current Government going back to our people and asking them what they thought. One thing that we have sought to do as a team from West Bay was to go and ensure that the electorate there are kept informed on public policy. But you see, Mr. Speaker, we are so politically immature in Cayman that we can get MLAs who themselves may or may not know any better, but will tell the people that public policy is the same thing as Legislative democracy.

Mr. Speaker, the Legislative democracy is governed by the Constitution and it is governed by the Standing Orders that we have to obey in this Legislature. Mr. Speaker, no one from my constituency cried out to me and said I should have a meeting last year when I formed the Government. So why in the world would I have said to myself that I would have to have a meeting now? This is an internal matter in the precincts. The people entrusted us to be responsible and, Mr. Speaker, in my humble opinion a part of that responsibility is not to have let 2004 come and come up with all sorts of excuses and come up with all sorts of stories then. This is the here and now. Mr. Speaker, a power issue.

Mr. Speaker, two years ago almost to a day, I made a conscious decision to leave the tranquil waters of Price Waterhouse Coopers, the largest accounting firm in the world to get involved with politics, because, Mr. Speaker, I thought I had something to offer my country. I knew I could do a lot of good there because I was the most senior Caymanian there at the time. I was within eight weeks of my promotion to manager, when I left and in fact I was still made that offer in the event that I was not elected, but thank God I was elected.

When I weighed up my personal options I said, "Okay should I stay where I can make more money and have a really quiet, personal life with my wife and any future children and the rest of my family, or do I get into politics?"

And one of the things that my father said to me was in my considerations—If I was willing to have a bad name for the rest of my life then go into politics. And then he also added one thing "In fact if you were to ever get into Executive Council you are going to be bound by collective responsibility." Mr. Speaker, I slowed him down and I said, "Daddy, remember I am just a 28 year-old young man. I am not going to be on Executive Council so let us not talk about that." But it is a very real thing, Mr. Speaker. We get out into the public domain and it is amazing. Once people do not like you or whom you are associated with, boy you are an awful person!

The Speaker: Please talk a little more into the microphone because you are not sounding loud enough.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: I was trying not to come through too loudly, Mr. Speaker, but I will speak a bit more into the microphone.

As I was saying, Mr. Speaker, once you are not aligned with a particular person, based on that individual's preference at the time, you are just one awful person. Mr. Speaker, just as a reminder: we all in this Chamber put on our garments one leg at a time, we are all human beings, we all have families, we all have friends. I look into the galleries and I see some people who are disappointed in the stance that I have taken. I look and I see smiles and nods and I see people who have called me and agreed with the stance that I have taken.

One of the things that we have not managed to develop—and this has to serve as the launch pad for that—is that ability for husband and wife, father and son, mother and daughter, sister and brother to recognise that politics is but a subset of life. Politics is but a subset of life. Mr. Speaker, you run for election; you want to do good for your country; persons who used to speak to you do not speak to you anymore because of who you are running with.

Mr. Speaker, we are in a position in this country, where the majority of the duly elected representatives in our Parliament have come to agreement on a specific position. The position is: Who will make up that side of the Parliament? Who will comprise the elected membership on the Government Bench?

Well, Mr. Speaker, let me speak to Party philosophy versus Government policy for a minute, because I think that issue was somewhat confused a bit earlier. Mr. Speaker, the broad philosophy of a party is what the group stands for. Democrats are liberal; Republicans are conservative. Within that the parties set down specific policies and, Mr. Speaker, those policies change with the times. The United States' policies changed drastically on September 11th when they bailed out the airline industry and came up with emergency funding where they have gone to war.

Mr. Speaker, we agreed as a group that we were not willing to sit back any longer and let this nomadic nature that politics in Cayman play—one day you are with politician A, tomorrow you are with politician B irrespective of what they believe in. It is just that they are popular; they have the masses behind them; that is a good person. Nothing could be further from the truth, Mr. Speaker.

So we decided that we were going to try to institute some lacking disciplines into these Halls, so that when the people of this country look at an individual they know clearly what that individual stands for and with whom he is associated.

Mr. Speaker, for us to sit back and think that horse-trading and bartering went on after the last General Election! Man, as a candidate you had to see the horse-trading that went on before the Election! People 'washing up' into districts and talking about I support you. And then you are the first cousin who's a good friend of yours of your opponent, saying no, no they support him and he's your opponent and we're going—well if you win we're good and if you win we're going to be together. . . . At the same time going to Mr. Kenross Conolly and saying 'well if you win we're going to be good too'.

Mr. Speaker that is not honesty! That is not honesty to the people of this country. If that is what we want to continue, if that is the kind of political model that we want to continue in Cayman, woe be to us!

Mr. Speaker, I make no bones about where my political strength lies. My mother just retired from cleaning condominiums on the Seven Mile Beach in May. My father butchers turtles at the Turtle Farm—thank God they have a few left for him to butcher—so, Mr. Speaker, I know where I have come from. I have come from the grassroots. My father had to drop out of school at age twelve and go to sea. My mother could not even go that long; she had to go to work in homes of the more well to do people. You know that 'thing' that Caymanians do not want to do now that we go to get Jamaicans to do? Helpers? That is what my mama was. My mama was a helper. So the day that anybody wants to talk about Rolston Anglin, oh Rolston Anglin does not support X person anymore so now he is an awful person, I cannot speak to him anymore because he is bad.

Mr. Speaker, last year when I voted to put people on Executive Council I was good, but to some people how sad it is that I am now bad. What makes this situation destabilising is the political immaturity within these ranks when we get up and tell the people that it is destabilising.

Mr. Speaker —

The Speaker: May I interrupt you for a moment?
Take your seat for a moment please.

In accordance with Standing Order 10(2), we have reached the hour of 4.30 which is an hour of interruption. It is my understanding that it is the desire of Members to finish the business on the Order Paper today. So I would appreciate a motion for the suspension of Standing Order 10(2) in order that the proceedings can continue. The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Transport.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I move the suspension of the relevant Standing Order in order to continue the business on the Order Paper until we complete it.

The Speaker: The question is, that we, in accordance with Standing Order 86, suspend Standing Order 10 (2) in order that the proceedings can continue beyond the hour of 4.30. Those in favour please say Aye, those against, No.

AYES.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Proceedings continue.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay please continue, and I apologise for the interruption.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, I raised a point on my background because it is significant. It is significant to note that in the last few days either on my home phone, or my cellular phone, I have received a number of calls about today. Mr. Speaker, the majority of the calls said to me, "Rolston we trust you and we believe that you are doing what you believe is right and that is all we can ask of you as an MLA."

Now, Mr. Speaker, as I was saying, this issue of throwing fear out there I find it amazing that we are still at that level of politics. Mr. Speaker, this Financial Times article says, "Rebellion has come to the Cayman Islands, but it has little to do with the Islands' six hundred banks" and I go on a little further and I get a quote from a local banker, who said, "the political developments should have no adverse impact on the territories business sector, local bankers said."

Mr. Speaker, what happens is this whole situation has really caught a lot of Caymanians off guard because they expect that the MLAs, are going to come together and we are going to get this little loose association with no real commitment to each other. We could not even agree to sign the covenant that the Minister of Education came up with at the very outset of this coalition. So that tells you how tight a group we really are. A basic covenant that basically said how we would govern could not be signed—could not get agreement on it.

Mr. Speaker, I certainly did not bring it with me, but I can remember another article in the Financial Times a few years ago and it was called "Trouble in Paradise, Rough Waters in the Cayman Islands." It was in their special international reports section. It was about four or five pages. It said a lot more awful things about the Cayman Islands than this does and that did not destabilise us: we forged ahead, Mr. Speaker, because democracy does rule in Cayman. Democracy is the people electing representatives and those elected representatives carrying out actions that are legal; actions that are founded within the Standing Orders and the laws of this land; actions that are founded in the Constitution of this Island. Mr. Speaker, I am politically mature enough to realise that this whole thing should not have come to this.

The Third Elected Member from George Town clearly outlined what it is that we have. We have fifteen Members a majority of those Members form a Government. Mr. Speaker, last Friday I did not ask for any change in Government. That is very important, that is extremely important. Mr. Speaker, I asked for a change in direction; I asked for a change in leadership. The response I got was that the current leader could not function and Mr. Speaker, I certainly cannot judge what that meant. It just meant that he could not function on Executive Council unless he was Leader of Government Business and that is not for me to judge. If that is the position, I appreciate him saying it. It is nothing worse than someone not saying what the position really is.

So, Mr. Speaker, I thought that I made it quite clear at the meeting last Friday that there would be no change in Executive Council, that the five Members would remain the same, we would simply have a change in leadership.

Mr. Speaker, I also think it is very important to note that I personally did not specify who would be the new leader. As I said in my release, the Second Elected Member from George Town asked me if I was suggesting that the Minister of Tourism be the leader and I said that would be a consideration that I would support. I certainly expected the meeting to go on until we came to a resolution that the whole group would live with as to whether it would have been one of the other three Ministers . . .

Mr. Speaker, I certainly hope that this whole issue will have gained more clarity over the last couple of days. I certainly hope that we would have gained clarity from what transpired in here today. And I certainly hope that the people, all of us, would now recognise how important it is to have Government civics as an integral part of our education system so that our young people, as they come through school, will know what they have as a country. What is surprising to me is how there is just a vacuum; there is a distinct lack of understanding of what it is that we actually have here in the Cayman Islands.

Mr. Speaker, I have heard remarks made to a party system. I have also heard remarks made to the fact that what is being done here today is allowed for in the Constitution and follow on comments of "we need to change the Constitution." Now certainly, Mr. Speaker, I do not believe that any of those Members were insinuating that when we get constitutional modernisation that they would seek somehow to not allow for this process because, Mr. Speaker, this is the process by which the persons on this side can hold the persons on that side accountable.

What happens—and this can happen in any country, not just Cayman—what happens when ten, fifteen years from now we have a government in place that goes against their philosophies and their wishes of their Backbench supporters. Right now if the ten of us so desired, we could come together and bring all five of them here and put five of us there. That is an integral part of democracy; that is a safeguard that must be enshrined in our Constitution.

Mr. Speaker, in regards to the disciplines and virtues that go along with having Caymanians organised politically, I could speak all day and night about that. Mr. Speaker, every Caymanian here in these Chambers and in the precincts would agree that one of the biggest problems that we have is that we cannot work together. How many Caymanians are going to deny that? How many Caymanians have not said that to me? The biggest problem is, we cannot work together.

Mr. Speaker, this is a start of people working together; this is a start of people putting philosophical strategies together and coming up with a very distinct, transparent, philosophical mission statement and organisation that everyone in this Chamber, everyone in the Gallery, every voting person in this country can look at, and can identify with, and can make an informed decision. It must happen.

I would hate, Mr. Speaker, eighteen short years from now for my daughter to have to vote in the real mess of a system that we currently have. I would hate for her to have to go to the polls and support someone not knowing who is going to be on that side—that is the policy-making side, Mr. Speaker. That is where the policy direction stems from, that is where it emanates. The people must know.

As I said earlier, Mr. Speaker, I recognise one thing as they say down South, "I come from the bottoms, and I am proud to come from the bottoms." That is where my family is—nothing to be ashamed about. Hard working and honesty: that is what life should be about.

And so, Mr. Speaker, I recognise that for persons in that situation to get the best possible representation, what I am advocating, is the only way—it is the best way. Otherwise, you get certain other segments of society who can put influence and put pressures on these Chambers that can go against the wishes of the majority of the people and that is not fair for people that I identify with.

The masses, the great majority, the clear majority, Mr. Speaker, must have a voice and the easiest

The masses, the great majority, the clear majority, Mr. Speaker, must have a voice and the easiest way for them to have a voice is to clearly be able to see for all and sundry who they are putting their hopes and their aspirations in the hands of. Who will be the Executive Council, who will serve as the Backbench, people must know that before they go to the polls. Certainly that is how I am forced to think because that is the way I have been socialised.

Mr. Speaker, in the district of West Bay no independent has won a seat in these Chambers in well over twenty years. Then we have split teams but no independent has won, why? Because we recognise that you put people together who will work together. When you put people together who can work together, that is when you can achieve things that are positive—that are tangible for your country. That is how you progress and not stagnate. And as I said earlier, by definition if you are stagnating you are regressing because you can believe your competition out there will be moving forward.

So, Mr. Speaker, from November 99 when my colleagues and I from West Bay, launched our political campaign, no funny business; every person in West Bay knew who we were running with. I did not sit down in North West Point and say 'Well I am going to run by myself' and 'Fellow colleague what I'll do is I'll campaign for you and you campaign for me'. No, no, we came out to the public and we said, 'Here is the ticket, here are the members, this is what you are voting for'. We even went through the pains of developing a forty-page manifesto in conjunction with extremely hard-working committee members and I thank all of them because they put so much work into that.

We recognise in West Bay that you do not send one person to the Legislative Assembly. One person cannot move and second a motion. You need a second for a motion so how is it that we expect that to then transform into results?

Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that much has been said about my colleague the Minister of Tourism. As far as I am concerned, a majority formed the Government in November 2000 and it is within that majority that I will wash my dirty laundry. I am not getting on this floor and lowering this House to that level. I have too much respect for the institution; I have too much respect for my fellow Members; I have too much respect for the public; I have too much respect for those who have preceded me in being here; I have too much respect for our ancestors who saw that this was needed and who laboured and built this institution. And I am here to continue building this institution. Any future meeting that any member may wish to have with me is where I will discuss my particular gripes. Because a lot of them are personal matters that I am not going to entertain sensationalising here. This is not about personalities, Mr. Speaker; this is about the majority members in the Legislative Assembly performing their democratic right.

But getting back to much being said about the Honourable Minister of Tourism, unless I have not been awake for the last 4+ years, to the best of my knowledge, the Honourable Minister of Tourism has never been accused of anything. Just like this process, he was asked by a majority to step down and that is what he did. What gauntlet did he have to run? He was asked to step down and he did. That is what political maturity is all about.

If you do not command the respect among the majority, then you do not have power; you do not have basis for the power. We must recognise as I say that this is the policy-making arm of all of us. And it is only with support here that there is strength there. As soon as the support here ceases to exist, Mr. Speaker, then the power there also ceases to exist.

Mr. Speaker, I can recall being in New York at the time when my mother called me and told me about the rally that was organised for the Honourable Minister of Tourism, in West Bay. And she also told me how the Honourable Minister told his people, told his supporters; a crowd of some 700+ people 'no marches, no disturbances—this is politics, this is a political process, you may not like it, I may not like it but I do not command the majority anymore so I have to now step aside.' Same thing Margaret Thatcher had to do, she did not command the respect of the majority any longer so she had to step aside. That is what political unity will bring to this country. It will bring stability and it will bring certainty.

Mr. Speaker, certainly he as a Member at that time, with the popularity that he had, and with the outrage that was expressed in the district of West Bay, could easily have created a circus-like atmosphere here. He could easily have had this place enthralled with supporters, but he was a long-standing Member of this House; he knew what the political process is all about; he stepped aside. He knew the desires of the Government's Backbench at the time. I think at the time he simply said that time would vindicate him and time has vindicated him.

Mr. Speaker, a lot of us during the campaign last year, because every district operated almost in cocoon fashion—that is there was no group party come forward on a national level. You did not have as much intermixing of Caymanians as you would normally have—as was normally the case in the prior two elections of people from West Bay going to George Town to support the meetings that their candidates in West Bay would support. And so a lot of people, you see, did not realise the level of dirt that went on in the district of West Bay.

Many times as a team we were tempted to reply in kind, but Mr. Speaker, we maintained the high road and I certainly believe in my heart that that contributed greatly to our success as a team. When the public saw that we were sticking to issues, we were sticking to our manifestos, we were sticking to what it was we were hoping to achieve and not getting down into the personal attacks, they appreciated it greatly. But Mr.

the first meeting for every team or candidate in West Bay things were clean, but boy as soon as they saw the crowds at our meetings things turned nasty in a hurry—things turned real nasty.

Mr. Speaker, this whole issue of the letter to Mario Ebanks is an unfortunate incident. But, Mr. Speaker, this man got up on platforms and attacked the Minister of Tourism's family—talked about his daughter and all sorts of things and certainly it did not stop after the Election. All of us handle these situations differently, Mr. Speaker, and all of us can react in different ways when we reach that point—that boiling point. But, Mr. Speaker, certainly when I am in my MLA office and when I travel the roads in my constituency, I have not heard any great fall out over it.

However, Mr. Speaker, there is going to be a new discipline called a party system. And going forward, there are going to be checks and balances that will seek to prevent frustrations of any particular Member reaching that level. Mr. Speaker, a party system is only as strong as its code of conduct. It is only as strong as the whips in the party and literally the whips whip the Members in line and keep the Members in line. And, Mr. Speaker, I can tell any person who is a member of this party or who may be a future member of this party that I carry a big belt. And, Mr. Speaker, if you are on that side I am going to hold you accountable because it is not only my Island it is all our Island—it is the Island for our children and grandchildren.

Mr. Speaker, as I said earlier, my dirty laundry is not going to be laundered. I am not going to stain the Legislative Assembly of the Cayman Islands with that because, Mr. Speaker, I hold this Legislative Assembly in too high regard. This should be the place where irrespective of who sits in here—irrespective of whether you like them personally or not, or you think this one should be on that side or on this side—this should be the place Caymanians can drive past and feel proud of. It is yet another thing that we lack, because of the unchecked growth materially that we have had for small things, that our significant things do not matter anymore. This should be the place that all of us look at. It should give us goose bumps to drive pass our Legislative Assembly. This is the place that we can carry out the autonomy that has been given to us in our Constitution by the United Kingdom. This is the place that all of us should always seek to uphold in the highest regard and let no one but no one throw aspersions or disrespect at the office.

Mr. Speaker, if as a people we cannot do that then I would like someone to explain to me how it is that we expect to survive in the long term. I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question on Private Member's Motion Number 24/01. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES and NOES.

Hon. Edna M. Moyle: Could we have a division please, Sir?

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Do not test it yourself, Sir. Let us have a division please.

The Speaker: Certainly.

Madam Clerk would you call a division please?

The Clerk:

DIVISION NO. 17/01

AYES: 9

Hon. W. McKeever Bush
Hon. Linford A. Pierson
Hon. Roy Bodden
Mr. Rolston M. Anglin
Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks
Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.
Dr. Frank S. McField
Mr. Lyndon L. Martin
Mr. Gilbert A. McLean

NOES: 5

Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts
Hon. Edna M. Moyle
Mr. Alden M McLaughlin, Jr.
Mr. Anthony S. Eden
Mr. V. Arden McLean

ABSTENTION: 1

Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly

The Speaker: While we are tabulating the division, I would like to say to all Honourable Members, this is the Legislative Assembly and when I do announce the vote I ask that you do remain silent. At the end of the election or nomination, if that is called for, there will be time for your applause. But at this particular time I ask that you remain silent.

The result of the division: Ayes 9, Noes 5, Abstentions 1. The Motion has passed.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION 24/01 PASSED.

[Hon. D. Kurt Tibbetts and Hon. Edna M. Moyle took their seats on the Backbench]

The Speaker: Moving on to item No. 4 on today's Order Paper.

NOMINATIONS AND ELECTION OF HONOURABLE MINISTERS TO EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

The Speaker: Item No. 4 on today's Order Paper calls for the nomination and the election of two Members to Executive Council. The procedure for this item is laid down under Section 5 of the Constitution Order 1972 and 1993 and under Standing Order 5 of the Orders of this Honourable House, which govern the proceedings.

Executive Council. The procedure for this item is laid down under Section 5 of the Constitution Order 1972 and 1993 and under Standing Order 5 of the Orders of this Honourable House, which govern the proceedings.

SCRUTINEERS

The Speaker: The Chair now proposes, subject to there being no objections from Members, to appoint the Honourable First and Third Official Members to act as scrutineers. If there are no objections, will the Honourable First and Third Official Members take their places at the Clerk's table please? Maybe as a matter of caution I had better put a motion.

The motion is that the Honourable First and Honourable Third Official Members be appointed scrutineers. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Honourable First and Third Official Members have been appointed scrutineers.

Before I call for nominations to the executive Council, I crave the indulgence of members of the Public Gallery. I am aware that there has been much concern in the community within recent days and the results of the election are eagerly awaited. But I must ask that all persons refrain from making any comments, sounds, or other expressions of jubilation or disappointment at this time. This is a very serious matter and the process can be more fluid if members of the general public desist from any manner of audible expressions. I can assure you that at the appropriate time an opportunity will be given to you to manifest your agreement or dissent.

I shall now call for nominations to the Executive Council by voice. Each nomination will require a mover and a seconder. At this time we are electing two members. Nominations will be open and the number that you wish to nominate is your decision.

I should also say that the names of Honourable Members be used in this election. It is normal practice within the Legislative Assembly to refer to Members by the districts they represent, or as Honourable Ministers and their Ministeries, but in order that the general public would better understand this procedure we shall use the names of the nominees.

NOMINATIONS

The Speaker: Nominations are now open for two seats on Executive Council. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It gives me pleasure to rise to nominate Mr. Gilbert McLean for Executive Council seat.

The Speaker: Do we have a seconder? The Second Elected Member from West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Mr. Speaker, I second the nomination.

The Speaker: Mr. Gilbert McLean has been nominated and seconded as a Member for Executive Council. Nominations are open. Are there any other nominations? The Honourable Minister for Health and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure to nominate Dr. Frank McField as a Member of Executive Council.

The Speaker: Do we have a seconder? Third Elected Member.

Hon. Linford a. Pierson: Mr Speaker, as a Member of Executive Council, you really do not need a seconder for that.

The Speaker: Under Standing Order 5 we do, so for precautions, Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Mr. Speaker, I beg to second the nomination.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town, Dr. Frank McField, has been nominated and seconded. The Floor is open to nominations. The Floor is open to nominations. Are there any further nominations? Do I hear a motion to close the nominations? The Honourable Minister for Tourism.

MOTION TO CLOSE NOMINATIONS

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Mr. Speaker, I move that nominations be closed.

The Speaker: The question is that nominations be closed. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Nominations are closed. The Motion for the close of nominations was made by the Honourable Minister for Tourism and seconded by the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

AGREED: THAT NOMINATIONS BE CLOSED.

The Speaker: Under the present Constitution there are five Members in Executive Council but today we are only replacing two Members. So you have two nominees and we will be voting for two. There are two vacant seats on Executive Council. There shall be no

Mr. Anthony S. Eden: Mr. Speaker, I wonder since there are only two posts and two people nominated if there is a need to continue. I would be bound by the House but—

The Speaker: Under our Standing Order a secret ballot is required, so I would prefer doing it that way.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, I believe that out of an abundance of caution, it might be proper for us to take the secret ballot.

The Speaker: I am suggesting that perhaps you fold your ballot small enough that it can go into the beautiful silver box which we have for this purpose. I think it may be appropriate that we suspend at this time in order that the ballot papers can be prepared. But to the persons in the Gallery, the time would be rather short and I would suggest that we remain in our seats in order not to prolong the procedure.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 5.10 PM

SECRET BALLOT

The Speaker: On a procedural matter I would like to ask the people in the Gallery to please sit back in your seats in order to preserve the secrecy of the ballot. Again I ask strangers in the Gallery to keep their silence during this very solemn election.

I would like to say to all Honourable Members that this is a secret ballot. Please fold your ballot small enough that it can go into the ballot box without any problem.

I now ask the Serjeant-at-Arms to pass around this beautiful sterling silver box we have for the election, so that each Member can see that it is totally empty. Will the Serjeant-at-Arms pass the ballot box to each Elected Member of the Legislature? (Pause)

Here are a few words about the procedure. I think I am right in saying that there are two persons who have been duly nominated. The procedure for this election is—and this I am saying for the benefit of the public and the radio audience—that the Standing Order decides and declares that we shall have a secret ballot. Members will vote by secret ballot. The Clerk is now having the Serjeant-at-Arms hand out the names of those persons who have been nominated and seconded.

Under the present Constitution there are five Members to be of the elected Executive Council. Today we are replacing two Members so you have two candidates. You should not sign your paper. There should be no mark or any other X on your paper. Your paper should not, and I emphasise not be identifiable. I am suggesting that perhaps you may fold the ballot very small. Serjeant-at-Arms, will you now pass the silver box around and collect the ballots.

Will the Honourable First and Third Official Members reposition themselves at the Clerk's table? I again remind all Honourable Members that there are two Members that can be elected to the Executive Council this afternoon. After the box has been passed around and the ballots have been collected, the Serjeant-at-Arms will return the box to the Clerk in front of the two scrutineers.

The Speaker: The Clerk and the two scrutineers will count the number of votes and they will then pass the list to the Chair for the reading out of the results of the election. This is the way I hope to carry out the proceedings and I ask that persons in the Gallery remain as quiet as possible. Your time of applause will be provided.

Hon. James M Ryan: Mr. Speaker, I will now read the results of the ballot.

RESULT OF THE BALLOT

| Member                | No. of Votes |
|-----------------------|--------------|
| Mr. Gilbert A. McLean | 11           |
| Dr. Frank S. McField  | 11           |

1 Blank ballot pronounced spoiled.

DECLARATION OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL MINISTERS

The Speaker: I wish to express, on behalf of all Honourable Members our extreme great thanks to the Honourable First Official Member and the Second Official Member, who acted as scrutineers. You may take your seats. Thank you very much.

The vote has been duly completed and therefore I declare the following Members elected: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean, and Dr. Frank S. McField.

Will you take your seats on the Government Bench please?

[Applause]

The Speaker: I, therefore, declare Mr. Gilbert A. McLean and Dr. Frank S. McField duly elected to the Executive Council. The official results are 11 votes for Mr. Gilbert A. McLean and 11 votes for Dr. Frank S. McField.

I would like to say to all Honourable Members assembled here this afternoon that I have called these names as receiving the total number of votes, but that in no way indicates the position they will take in Executive Council. It is the prerogative of Honourable Members of Executive Council to decide how they will be positioned.

ecutive Council. It is the prerogative of Honourable Members of Executive Council to decide how they will be positioned.

I would like to congratulate the Hon. Gilbert A. McLean and the Hon. Dr. Frank S. McField as Members of the Executive Council.

That concludes business on the Order Paper for today.

RESIGNATION OF THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER

The Speaker: Before entertaining the motion for adjournment, I rise, Honourable Members, in accordance with Section 31 A(2)(b) of the Cayman Islands Constitution Order 1993. I wish to inform the Legislative Assembly and those present, of my intention to relinquish the office as Speaker following the commencement of the Budget Meeting of the 2001 Session, on Wednesday the 14th November 2001. I believe that there is a clear advantage of a new Speaker being elected during the course of our Parliament.

My retirement will give me an opportunity to be better able to visit with friends and pursue another adventure. The date of my retirement, November 14, 2001, has been mutually agreed by Members of Government and the Honourable Members of this Legislative Assembly after very cordial discussions. I am thankful for the smooth way we believe this transition will be. The formal procedures will be on November 14 immediately after Prayers. May God continue to bless the Members of the Legislative Assembly and the people of the Cayman Islands!

I thank you.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker: I now entertain a motion for the adjournment.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Transport.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Mr. Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until Wednesday, 14 November at 10 am. Mr. Speaker, the United Democratic Party (UDP) is proud to do so.

The Speaker: I shall now put the question that this Honourable House do now adjourn until 14 November, 10 am. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. This Honourable House stands adjourned until 10 am Wednesday 14 November 2001.

AT 5.34 PM THE HOUSE ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM WEDNESDAY, 14 NOVEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
SPECIAL MEETING
WEDNESDAY
14 NOVEMBER 2001

The Speaker: I will now ask the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development to say Prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: we beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy name and for the safety honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's prayer together:

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth, as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. In the name of Christ Jesus who reigns with God the Father, in the presence of God the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 11.20 am

The Speaker: Please be seated. The Legislative Assembly is in Session.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES FOR LATE START OF SITTING

The Speaker: I wish at this time to offer apologies for the late start as there were procedural matters which had to be taken care of.

RETIREMENT STATEMENT BY THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER

The Speaker: Honourable Members of the Legislative Assembly, Officers of the Legislative Department, my fellow Caymanians, I rise this morning to make my final statement as the Presiding Officer, the Speaker.

Five years ago I mounted these steps and took the Oath of Allegiance to Her Majesty the Queen as your newly Elected Speaker. I stated then that I was fully aware of my own limitations and had no intention of competing with any of my predecessors in Office—Presidents and Speakers. I expressed complete confidence that my term as Speaker 1996-2000, then commencing and now ending after being extended in November 2000 as your interim Speaker, would fully measure up to those high standards.

I based that confidence upon the assistance I was certain would come from former Presiding Officers, the Clerk and her entire officers, and from Commonwealth Presiding Officers and Clerks and from all Honourable Members. My confidence has been fully justified. For this I thank you all.

Now today, 14 November 2001, I come to the end of my term. The friendly cooperation and the warm comradeship of all of you have dispelled the difficulties. The path proved pleasant and the five years have been memorable and most of the time happy I may add. They have heartened me with their enriched experiences. They have brought me new and wonderful friendships through our Commonwealth Parliamentary Association of which I have had the privilege of being President of our local Branch. My heartfelt thanks to all who have assisted me.

I could not stand here today at the end of my public life and not express my deepest appreciation to those who have made it possible. Firstly, my heavenly Father, my earthly family, my committees over the years and the beloved registered voters of the electoral district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman for the confidence they placed in me.

The Elections of 1980, 1984, 1988, 1992 and 1996 covered a consecutive period of twenty years. The last four years of that period 1996-2000, thanks to the fifteen Elected Members serving at that time who elected me, in the elevated position of Speaker of this Honourable House.

My decision to accept this high Office has brought much criticism from Members and other walks of life. It has been a sacrifice of my ability to hold political meetings and to express my political opinions. If my successor is an Elected Member, the same can be expected.

I contend today that I made the right decision and have continued to show my concern for all districts of the Cayman Islands. My action was rewarded when Members forming the Government after the 2000 General Election asked me to return and be elected as your interim Speaker. Again I thank you all.

I have stated many times, both publicly and privately, my high regard for the members and officers of the department. I have learned to admire them for their personal qualities and have appreciated the splendid fashion in which they co-operated with me in the performance of my responsibilities. My decisions from the Chair have not always been with your agreement, but I thank you for accepting my rulings at almost all times.

In closing, may I again thank you all and leave you with words which in many languages, in many forms, in many religions have brought comfort and strength "may the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, be with us and remain with us always."

Finally, may I offer congratulations in advance to my successor. May Almighty God give you strength and wisdom to fulfil your responsibilities during your term as Speaker.

God bless the Cayman Islands and all its people. I thank you.

TRIBUTES TO THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Health.

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, I count it an honour and a privilege this morning on the day of your departure from the high office of Speaker of the Legislative Assembly to offer a few words.

Mr. Speaker, over the years I think you have done a commendable job in the office as Speaker. As you have noted, there have been occasions when the going has been tough; but with your gentle disposition and your tough stance on issues, the business of the House has been conducted to the satisfaction of all and within the Standing Orders and the Constitutional requirements.

Mr. Speaker, you have had a long and outstanding career, much longer than most Members of this Legislative Assembly, in representing your district, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I personally have had the honour and the privilege of serving with you two terms representing those two Islands, and I wish to thank you for the respect shown me in my capacity as your fellow legislator. I must say I tried in every way that I knew possible to show you the respect which you showed me. If there were ever any times it was otherwise, I assure you it was done unconsciously and I certainly ask your understanding and forgiveness if such is necessary.

Mr. Speaker, time moves on and certainly persons do, but I think that your career will be one that is outstanding both as a Legislator and as a Speaker of this House. I wish you the very best in health and prosperity and may God, whom I know you greatly acknowledge and work to serve, protect you in the years ahead. It is a pleasure Mr. Speaker to have worked with you and the very best in the future. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The Honourable Minister for Education, Human Resources and Culture.

Hon. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, this is a time when men should not be parsimonious with their words because such a distinguished career deserves all of the accolades that we may offer. And so, Mr. Speaker, I rise to add my words to that of my colleague who has gone before and to those others who will follow.

We shall miss you, Mr. Speaker: I shall miss you. And perhaps it was fortuitous that you came to us from a maritime background because, Mr. Speaker, you had to take command of the ship through many storms and turbulence and you proved a good master. I shall miss your knock (because it was a kind of peculiar and inimitable knock) as you invited yourself into the Common Room to socialise with us, however briefly. The Leader of Government Business has for years, Mr. Speaker, called you 'uncle' and while I did not call you uncle I felt at ease in your presence and you sometimes behaved like an avuncular uncle, although you could be stern and reprimanding when the necessity arose.

Mr. Speaker, I wish you all the best as you embark on a new venture and a new career. And I suppose you well know that old master mariners never retire they just move on to another ship.

The Spanish, Mr. Speaker, have an expression, "Via con Dios" which, when translated into English, means "God go with you." Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and may you have a long, happy and prosperous sojourn; and whatever you embark upon, may it be successful and to God's glory.

The Speaker: Thank you and I call upon the Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, I rise this morning to join other speakers in extending thanks and appreciation and good wishes to you on the eve of your departure from the office of Speaker of the Legislative Assembly.

As a fellow Cayman Bracker, I have probably known you and have been a bit more closely associated with you than some of the other Members of this Honourable House. I often reflect on what Cayman Brackers have said many times since you went into politics and were elected – that is, that long before you became an elected representative you were indeed an unofficial representative and an ambassador to the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

I think back on the time in the history of the Sister Islands when the people decided to build a hospital and Government was not in the position to fund it and you took the reins of the Committee to carry out that almost impossible task. You did so in a masterful way and we all know the end of the story: the Faith Hospital was built. That is in fact but one of the many accomplishments that you succeeded in even before becoming an elected representative.

So, it was only natural when you were elected in 1980 that you just simply continued, perhaps in a little higher gear, as the representative and in that capacity as an official representative (that is an MLA) for the Sister Islands. I believe the people of the Sister Islands in particular and the people of the Cayman Islands in general were pleased when this Honourable House saw fit to elect you to the high office of Speaker. And I have to say, in my short time here in the Legislative Assembly, that it has been a pleasure serving with you as Speaker. You will certainly go down in history as one of the great Speakers of this Honourable House. As my good friend the Honourable Minister for Education commented earlier, you are a Master Mariner by profession and you took command here leading the Legislative Assembly through many difficult times—treacherous waters—but you always saw us to safe harbour.

Today as you leave office I want to say personally and on behalf of my family and of course on behalf of the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, a great big thank-you for all that you have done and our deep appreciation for the very hard work that you have carried out here in the House.

In paying tribute to you I must not forget to recognise your good wife, Mrs. Marilyn, who is here with us today. I know that behind your successes she has been there to give you the support that you have needed over the years.

I wish you God's richest blessings as you leave. And as someone said earlier, you are not likely to retire—Cayman Brackers have the habit of working very late in life and I do not believe you will be any exception to that. We wish for you and Marilyn all that is good and again our heartfelt thanks for all that you have done as the Speaker of this House. I thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. It is certainly a momentous day in these Islands with you leaving the Chair. I remember nine short years ago, when I was elected for the first time to sit in this Parliament. Coming here and finding you, having been here eleven years prior, it was certainly a very great learning experience for me to talk to you. There were sometimes in the past when I had certain reservations about certain things. But in talking with you, Mr. Speaker, you laid my concerns to rest and I have through that, gained much more respect for you.

Sunday morning a week ago, I spoke to you and I certainly would like to say to this House and to the Caymanian people that the dignity I have found in you, Mr. Speaker—the way of life that when you had a certain belief you carried that through to the end. There were times of frustration in this House for whatever reason and that happens—as people call it, a house of politics. But you were able to carry through your job with dignity and honour. For that, we as Caymanians will always remember you. I know there is much that you will contribute to our society and may God bless you in your retirement.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The Second Elected Member from George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, this certainly is a poignant moment as you demit the high office to which you were elected for the second time in November of last year. Mr. Speaker, as a freshman, exuberant, keen, filled with conviction, I know that I have been something of a challenge to you, Sir. I also know, Sir, because I have grown to know and to love you, that you forgive those youthful indiscretions of mine.

I know that there was one occasion in particular in which I did incur your displeasure and again Mr. Speaker, I ask, as you leave office, that you do forgive that indiscretion as well. Because, Mr. Speaker, I know that you understand fully that with my background and experience, in what I now call 'my other life', when it comes to the issue of the interpretation of a Regulation or a Standing Order, it is somewhat difficult for me not to hold a strong view about what that 'Order' might mean. I have grown, Sir, to understand that one does not argue with the Speaker—even though I have been very fond of arguing with judges!

Mr. Speaker, I have become very fond of you, Sir: I have great respect for your impartiality, for your sense of decorum, for your sense of propriety and your love for all Members of this Honourable House. I remember your acknowledgement, Mr. Speaker, some short time ago of how lonely an existence was the life of a Speaker, and on those occasions when that loneliness 'whipped' you most, as the Honourable Minister for Education alluded to, we would hear the knock on the Common Room door as you sought the company of the Honourable Members. We are grateful to you, Sir, for that.

Mr. Speaker, I have been troubled for some time with the uncertainty that has surrounded this term of duty. I believe that we should learn something from that. The office of Speaker commands and demands more respect than it has been accorded over the course of this past year. This issue of rumours everywhere—at least three individuals being proposed to succeed you; announcements here, announcements there; it is simply not in keeping with the dignity of your high office. It is something that I deprecate.

Even now, Sir, as you are about to rise from your chair for the last time, Members of this Honourable House and the country at large are still waiting to know who your successor might be. That, Mr. Speaker, in my view is just not the way that we do these things. But Mr. Speaker, these are your last moments here and I will not dwell on that.

I wish, Sir, to commend you for the way you have conducted the business of this Honourable House. I wish to commend you for the stalwart service you have given to the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman over two decades. Mr. Speaker, having served in this Honourable House for only one year, I must say that I am over-awed at the realisation that you, Sir, have now spent twenty-one years in the service of your people.

Mr. Speaker, as you now retire, I hope to an easier, less taxing, existence, I wish you the very best of health and strength and a long, enjoyable and greatly deserved retirement with your dear wife. I thank you, Sir.

The Speaker: The Elected Member from East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I too rise to thank you for a long and distinguished service in the public life. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank you on behalf of the people of the District of East End and this country at large. I would also like to thank you on behalf of my eight-year-old son who enjoyed sitting in your Chambers with you. He called you 'The Mr. Speaker'.

Mr. Speaker, my early recollection of you, Sir, was during the 1989 fiasco. The Cayman Airways fiasco when the caption across the front page of the Caymanian Compass was a quote from yourself saying, "Country before Self" I will never forget that. You have conducted yourself and your public life exactly the same way throughout.

Mr. Speaker, I think Caymanians can take a page out of your book showing how we should conduct ourselves in public life. And as you take your retirement I think that having been elevated to the high office of Speaker was a most fitting way to have served at the end of your public life.

Mr. Speaker, over the last year, having served here with you, I know there were times that I, too, as a young 'Turk' (I believe we were referred to) tested your resolve. Mr. Speaker, for that I apologise. I have always respected your ruling, even though I may have had questions in my mind. But I learned much from you, Mr. Speaker, and I am thankful for that. Your Chambers were always open to come in to ask you questions on procedures. I, too, will miss that, Mr. Speaker.

It has been a real pleasure and an honour to serve in the same institution as you. And as you get early retirement, well that may be wishful thinking, I nevertheless wish to personally thank you and trust that you will enjoy yourself and spend some time with your family because I understand what it means to be in public life and not spend as much time as you would like with your family. You have held that torch for the last twenty one years and you are now passing it on. I trust that I can carry some of that on into the future.

Mr. Speaker, the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and this country generally can be proud of your political life. I trust that the rest of us and all others who are elected to this Honourable House will be able to say that at the end of our tenure also.

May God go with you, may His blessings be bestowed upon you for a long retirement. History no doubt, Mr. Speaker, will treat you well and again I thank you for your tenure in the political life of this country. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this as an opportunity to join with other Honourable Members in saying thanks to you for your dedicated service to the people of the Cayman Islands for the twenty-one years that you have spent as a parliamentarian and the five years that you have spent as the Speaker of this Honourable House.

Mr. Speaker, I would venture to say – I may be wrong, but not totally wrong – that each Member of this Honourable House has taxed your patience: I know I am no exception. But I have always admired your calm disposition when dealing with such matters when you were presented with them.

Mr. Speaker, I believe today will be another transition in your life. What you are going on to I do not know; you, yourself may not know. But we know that the great God that we all serve, and I know you serve, has got a plan in store for each and every one of us.

As the Honourable Member from East End has said, you are a person who has always put country above self. Others have also alluded to your statesmanship and this you have ably demonstrated. I have taken note of your patience and your humility and I think you have been an excellent exemplar for Honourable Members of this House and people of the Cayman Islands community. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I wish you a very happy retirement and happy transition and trust that this will be a very fruitful time for you and your very dear wife.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Thank you. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, this is a very emotional moment for me for, like the First Official Member (a fellow Cayman Bracker), I have known you and I have been close to you all of my life. You have been my representative from the time I can remember.

Mr. Speaker, I entered the political arena in 1988 as a young 18-year old, who you allowed to stand on your platform at the Creek dock in Cayman Brac Port Authority and deliver my first contribution to my district. And I came full circle and found myself as an elected representative for our district in November of last year with you in the Chair. It gave me great pride to address you as Mr. Speaker.

Throughout the year I used your wisdom and your knowledge and drew on you as a counsellor, asked your advice, asked your input in issues that faced the nation as well as those that faced our district. I assure you that your absence from these Chambers will not mean that I will not be coming to you because I certainly know where your office is located in Cayman Brac.

Mr. Speaker, the people of Cayman Brac have benefited from having you as their electoral representative for two decades and I certainly realise and acknowledge the great footprints in the sand that you have left behind for those who come behind to represent the sixth electoral district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Speaker, even during your period where you served as a representative of the people of Cayman Brac and as a Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, the people of Cayman Brac were assured that you were there representing them. Even during this period, this past year where you were the Speaker of the House and not a representative, it was like having a third representative in the Legislative Assembly. For those days in the Common Room you made sure that you represented the people of Cayman Brac as we held dialogue with other elected representatives. You have always been an ambassador for the sixth electoral district and I am sure that will continue beyond today.

Your logo of "Country before Self" I encourage you during the remaining years – as we hope will be long years – that you now take the opportunity to place self and family at the forefront. It is time you enjoy and reap the benefits of your hard work; reap the benefits of the Island of Cayman Brac that you have contributed to and helped to build up.

I thank you wholeheartedly on behalf of my family, my father, in particular, who has campaigned strongly with you from 1980 and has been close to your side throughout your political career. I also thank you on behalf of the entire district – the Islands of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman – and I look forward to your continued contribution to the development of the Sister Islands. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The Honourable Minister for Community Development. Do you wish to speak?

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Mr. Speaker, much has already been said to you and I would concur that you deserve all the praise that has been given to you. But I would like to remind you, Mr. Speaker, that between 1996 and 2000 when you were appointed as Speaker and served also as the Member for Cayman Brac, that you accomplished tremendous things for those Islands and perhaps you should be kinder to yourself in remembering those four years.

I think, Mr. Speaker, that we are at a point, and you have assisted, where there is a need for us in this country to understand the usefulness of that Honourable Chair. That the country does not sacrifice, but the country gains in having someone in the Chair to bring the kind of calm, dignity and respect that you brought it. And I believe, Mr. Speaker, that although you were an Elected Member of the Legislative Assembly, that the people of Cayman Brac and the people of the Cayman Islands benefited tremendously by having you and not someone else in the Chair.

I believe, Mr. Speaker, that perhaps I am best in the position to make those statements since I did have some issues with you and you handled those issues; you resolved those issues. You convinced me that experience was a good teacher and that you were not just talking about the precedence from books; you were not just talking about some legalistic interpretation of Standing Orders; you were talking also about experience.

Mr. Speaker, I have admitted to you privately and publicly that I learned much from you, and that I was able to confess (in fact privately, now publicly) that your knowledge of Standing Orders and your knowledge of precedents and procedures in other parliaments across the world is wider than most of us have really stopped to give you credit for.

Mr. Speaker, when history is written, I hope that I at least have the opportunity to participate a bit in the writing of this history. I hope that your day in maintaining stability, in maintaining the dignity, in maintaining the seriousness of this Parliament and its position with regard to the rule of Law will be singled out as exceptional.

That day, Mr. Speaker, that you sat in this Chair to witness and to preside over a transition in this country that persons had never witnessed before will go down in history. Mr. Speaker, I think, believe it or not, when future generations look at that moment and the way you conducted yourself and the way you preserved order and tranquillity in these beautiful Cayman Islands, that people would remember that you were born and that you were trained and that you were preserved for that day. For that was one of the days when we really needed a Speaker, and Mr. Speaker, you were there.

Mr. Speaker, I thank you sincerely from the bottom of my heart for all that you have allowed me to learn without retributions and I hope that God will continue to bless you and your wife and that He will allow you to forgive us as you have done in the past; and that you will find it possible to answer the telephone from the next Speaker seeking assistance with difficult decisions that person must make in this House.

Mr. Speaker, God bless you and these Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: Thank you. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I would first like to give thanks to Almighty God for blessing these Islands with a distinguished gentleman like you, who has presided over the highest office that we Caymanians have: our Legislative Assembly. Mr. Speaker, much thanks must go to our Heavenly Father for bringing all of us here, but Mr. Speaker, in particular for bringing you here for an additional year, when as an outsider looking in at times, not too long ago, we were not sure how much longer you would have been around to be the Speaker. I remember the first time shaking your hand, Sir, at the George Town Hospital. I remember that day quite clearly and never forget it.

Mr. Speaker, I thank you for being such a calming influence and such a good teacher. We have been blessed, Sir, to have had someone like you who took great honour in insuring that you imparted good advice, sound decision-making to all of us. In my brief time here it has certainly been a pleasure to have you call me and show me different issues, how to eliminate them and make them clear. I thank you for all the guidance that you have offered to me as the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee for you have certainly been a calming influence to youthful exuberance.

Mr. Speaker, much has already been said, but I would like to remind you that even though you are officially retiring, you still owe me one explanation which you promised me yesterday and I will hold you to that. Mr. Speaker, we have had so many conversations in your office and you have taught me so much about the Standing Orders and so much more than that: you have taught me how I should go about achieving what I want to do. You have taught me that coming and getting advice is very often so much more valuable than simply reading a book and discussing it with others because, Mr. Speaker, you have a wealth of knowledge that you are taking with you.

I would like to say to whoever your successor is, Mr. Speaker, that he/she too would recognise that this is an integral part of that office of Speaker which is to show, to direct, to teach and indeed to learn as we all go along: for, Mr. Speaker, time continues to tick.

Mr. Speaker, again on behalf of my family and myself, the district of West Bay, and indeed all citizens of these Islands that we know and love, I wish to thank you. It certainly is going to be a valuable addition to the private citizenry to have persons like you.

I certainly hope that God will continue to bless you and your family and that you will have the opportunity to enjoy the fruits of your labour. I will certainly miss your humble and meek demeanour and how calm you were whenever you had to show me the correct way. I thank God for you, Mr. Speaker. You have been a great man for these Islands, and for the people and for the Legislative Assembly.

The Speaker: I thank you.

The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Mr. Speaker, for the last time here you have recognised me and I would like to return the compliment. I would like to offer you a non-legalistic interpretation of your performance as Speaker under the Standing Orders. I am probably one of the least qualified here to speak to this, but I do not care.

It is almost three years since I have known you as Speaker and colleague in the Legislative Assembly and although you leave today from that position, it is my firm impression that you will have left your mark on the office of Speaker. To act impartially, to be tolerant of occasional tedious repetition and retain one's composure, in my opinion, requires both strength of character and an ability to moderate. These qualities which you brought to your position will hopefully be found in your successor.

We know that there have been trying times. Yet the standing of this House, in my opinion, has been maintained even when you may have felt that it was under siege.

[Members' laughter]

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: May I express to you, Mr. Speaker, that on handing over the helm of this House you take with you the satisfaction of a job well done, an institution upheld, and the encouragement of an atmosphere of mutual respect, which we hope will long continue.

I am pleased to be able to offer to you my appreciation for your contribution and to you and your wife may I extend my own best wishes for your future together. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you very much. Any other Member wishes to speak? The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Thank you. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that it has been an honour and a pleasure to serve with you in this Honourable House for the past year. I have not had the pleasure of knowing you as long as some other Honourable Members of this house, Mr. Speaker. You have done a commendable job. I want to thank you for your guidance to us newcomers on many occasions in the House through difficult questions and times. You have been an inspiration to all of us. Mr. Speaker, I could not help but notice how you have treated all Honourable Members of this House with equal respect and you were firm in making decisions: there was no getting away from that. We appreciate that very much.

Mr. Speaker, I would take this opportunity to thank you again for a job well done. I wish for you a healthy, happy and long retirement. We will miss you, Mr. Speaker, I will miss you. God bless and thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr: Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, I, too, would like to take this opportunity on behalf of my family and myself, the people of West Bay and actually all the people of the Cayman Islands, to say thank you for your many years of distinguished and dedicated service to these our wonderful Islands.

Mr. Speaker, being a newcomer here and actually having just gone through a very turbulent one year in political life, I find it totally amazing as to how well you have kept up, having been exposed to this for some twenty-one years. I think that in itself is a testament of the good Lord's blessing on your life and I can only hope that after my term I can look as physically strong as you do.

Mr. Speaker, I guess it was a testament as well as an indication of your commitment to the people of these Islands when the request was made of you one year ago, even in what might have been considered to be failing health at the time. But, it became necessary for you to offer your services and you very willingly came forward and supported the country by coming here and presiding again until another Speaker could be appointed. Mr. Speaker, I guess that is a culmination of the life that you have lived where you have 'placed country before self'.

I would also like to say that during the short term I have been here – during a time that was very overwhelming to say the least – coming into totally new, untried and untested waters, it was good to have someone as capable as yourself to be able to lean on for leadership and direction.

When we needed to have some clarification as to protocol we knew that you were only a few walks away and that your door was always open for whatever advice you could give and I would like to say publicly, thanks for that guidance. And as other Members have said, since we have built up quite a good relationship, I look forward to having that same type of understanding and ability to come forward and get advice because I imagine that the next three years that will become very, very necessary.

Mr. Speaker, as other Members have said before, your service has been a very dignified service to country and you have set quite an example for us, especially us younger Members to follow. I have every hope that whoever your successor might be he will follow along in those same footsteps that you have left.

Mr. Speaker, it would be remiss of me to not also mention on behalf of my family sincere thanks. There is a member of your staff who has been there for some five years who is a bit more closely associated to me than the other Members and on his behalf I would also like to say thank you for a job well done.

Mr. Speaker, if there is anything that I can ever do to help to make your retirement and the rest of your life any more enjoyable I would hope that you would not hesitate to do the same as I have often done to you and that is, come and disturb whenever necessary.

Thanks again, Mr. Speaker, and good luck and best wishes.

The Speaker: Thank you. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I had hoped that perhaps I would have had the privilege of being the last person to speak this morning, merely to have the opportunity of thanking all preceding Members on behalf of my dearly beloved Cayman Brac and Little Cayman for your some twenty-one years of commendable service. Perhaps that will happen, I do not know because there are still a few remaining speakers but if you do not call the rule of anticipation on me I should wish to take that liberty at this time to thank you on behalf of those who have so gone and those perhaps who will follow thereafter.

Mr. Speaker, I was afforded the wonderful blessing and indeed the opportunity to have served with you for four consecutive years in Parliament. I shall miss the weekly Cayman Airways trips that meant so much to us and the many times of worrying that perhaps it would not have been there to take us back and forth to our high calling.

I would also like to say that from personal experience, and being a woman myself, that I should like to also greatly commend your beloved wife, Mrs. Marilyn. Only those of us who walk in these steps know the great sacrifice one makes when one makes the commitment from the initial stages of public life that 'country will be placed before self.'

There are oft times when that decision is put to the test. But when you, like many other Honourable

Members within these Honourable Precincts have Almighty God as the centre of your focus, tranquillity comes much easier. I thank you, Sir, for your representation of the Holy Spirit within your life and your ability not only to maintain and continue a humbled attitude, but also your willingness to forgive in many instances here and without these precincts.

I thank you also not only as a previous voter from Cayman Brac for yourself, but also for my family who have supported you for a very long time. We are quite fortunate that you are a Bracker and that you will return to the local community on the Brac. I know that you and your family already have significant plans for the further economical and indeed financial incentives to jump-start the economy on the Brac and I would wish at this particular juncture to wish you the very best in those endeavours. I also wish to publicly say that I will do whatever I can in my capacity as a Member of Parliament, as well as a member of the local community, to assist you therein.

Mr. Speaker, I do not know what it takes to be a Member for such a long time—although it would be remiss of me not to have those aspirations to serve my country for some twenty years. But I wish that you would keep your door open to me—and I am sure that a similar request would come from my colleague, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. The wealth of knowledge you possess not only as a Cayman Bracker, but as a Member of Parliament and indeed a Speaker, we would like to tap into, subject to your convenience of course. And the invitation is reciprocal, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I wish for one other thing: that as you go across that you afford me the opportunity to perhaps go back to the Brac with you as your final visit in this capacity. I think it is at that time we could perhaps cement even more the need and the desire for the continuation of Cayman Airways for the future development of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I am sure that if your wisdom and knowledge in that regard were sought, that you too, because of your love for those two Islands would be willing to continue publicly your support for that institution that we all have come to love: Cayman Airways.

Mr. Speaker, I am sure that we on the Brac will have another opportunity to properly thank you for your support and indeed your contribution over the past twenty- one years. I wish that you would take some time to get away with Mrs. Marilyn and perhaps your lovely daughter and have a Caribbean cruise and reflect on the contributions you have given. Perhaps that would give us time to do the necessary preparation to give you a proper Brac thank-you. May it please you and I thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you very much, and if I may inject with your permission, my doors will always be open to all. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Planning, Communication, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to join the many Members in this Honourable House, my colleagues, who have expressed their very best wishes to you as you now leave the position of Speaker of this Honourable House.

Mr. Speaker, it was interesting to note that a number of the previous speakers referred to you as a dignified gentleman, one who has offered dignified service to these Islands. I was somewhat touched to hear other Members expressing the same sentiments that I had written on my notepad, an Honourable and dignified gentleman. That, Mr. Speaker, would be my description of you encapsulated in so few words.

Unlike a number of my younger colleagues (because I am one of the older Members of this House), I have had the privilege, the honour and the pleasure of knowing you on a personal, as well as an official level for many years. Mr. Speaker, I vividly remember your assistance to government during the period of 1988 to 1992. Many people have said that you are an embodiment of service to 'country above your own self and your own needs'. Mr. Speaker, that is not mere rhetoric, it is a fact.

During 1989 to 1992 you were on the top of the prayer list of the four Elected Members to Executive Council because had it not been for you, Mr. Speaker, we would not have been able to continue a government. But in your usual manner ensuring that these Islands did not at any time face a crisis, you were always there. Mr. Speaker, I will always remember that sort of dedication. You often brought about a balance between success and defeat. Many of us remember the era of the 3/90 Motion, Mr. Speaker. That is one time I will never forget the sterling service you paid to these Islands.

Also, Mr. Speaker, it was my pleasure as the then Minister/Member for Communication and Works to work with you as a representative for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I believe that during that period of 1988 to 1992 we were able together to accomplish much for the Sister Islands.

Mr. Speaker, shortly put, you have done an excellent job! So much so, Mr. Speaker, that you were pulled out of retirement to come back as Speaker of this Honourable House. You have set a standard that will be difficult for your successor to continue. Mr. Speaker, what strikes me as being most important in the service that you provided in your high position as Speaker of this Honourable House (which, in accordance to protocol is perhaps third in line to His Excellency the Governor) is the dignity and the humility with which you handled your position. Mr. Speaker, I trust that your example may serve as a guide to all of us in this Honourable House—that with high positions we should exert dignity and humility.

Mr. Speaker, as you go on your retirement, I trust that you will take time, which you deserve Mr. Speaker, to spend some time with your good family; spend some time on yourself; enjoy your life. I know you will always be there for counselling, we know that. I enjoyed the times coming into your office, Mr. Speaker, and talking with you. Many times when you asked my advice on an issue you did not have to do that because as Speaker of the House your position rules. But there again is the clear example of your humility and your dignity. Respect and dignity will carry you where money cannot take you, Mr. Speaker, and you are a sterling example. You have set a stellar example for Members of this House.

Mr. Speaker, I know that there are a few other Members who may wish to speak and so I close wishing you God's richest blessing. May He be the centre of all your undertakings and as a former and qualified sea captain, may I end by saying, may the Supreme Commander of the Universe be your guide. I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Does any other Member wish to speak? I will make three calls. Does any Member wish to speak? We are not going to prolong this. Does any other Member wish to speak? Final call.

Honourable Members, as I rise for the last time from this Chair, words fail to express the appreciation for what you all have said here this morning, and more importantly for what you all have performed in the past. I wish God's richest blessings on all of you. And now, as I take my departure, I wish for my successor everything that is good.

Thank you very much.

DEPARTURE OF THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER

(The Mace was placed upon the lower brackets and the Honourable Speaker left the Chamber preceded by the Serjeant-at-Arms)

NOMINATIONS FOR THE ELECTION OF THE SPEAKER

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Honourable Members, proceedings of this Honourable Legislature are now resumed. We come now to that point where we will call nominations for the Speaker of this Honourable House. That post has just been relinquished as the former Speaker was an interim Speaker.

This is my fifth term in this Honourable Assembly and for these many years the previous Speaker and I have worked together for the good of these Islands. Sometimes disagreeing, most times not, but I can say much was accomplished. It is easy fellow Members for some to complain about what has been done and what has not but when I look back on the past seventeen years, much has been gained for our islands.

Our Sister Islands Cayman Brac and Little Cayman have come a long way. The gains made cannot be sneered at and at all times the previous Speaker was supportive and was there for his district.

Today the Sister Islands can boast of a good infrastructure ready to do its part in nation building. I am committed today, as I have always been to the good people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. The United Democratic Party count it as part of the Cayman Islands as it is and will always be considered as an integral part of these Islands. I wish for him and his family all the very best and I do wish that Almighty God will grant him good health as he retires. May he always have fair winds and smooth waters with him.

I now call for nominations for Speaker of this Honourable Legislative Assembly.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: It is my pleasure to nominate the First Elected Member from Cayman Brac, Mrs. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly as Speaker of the Legislative Assembly.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The Honourable Dr. Frank McField.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Mr. Chairman, I would like to second that nomination.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Are there any other nominations? Are there any other nominations? Are there any other nominations? If not, can someone move that nominations be closed?

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Mr. Chairman, I beg to move that nominations be closed.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Mr. Chairman, I second that motion.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The motion that nominations be closed is now before you Honourable Members. What say ye?

AYES

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Noes? The Ayes have it.

AGREED: NOMINATIONS CLOSED.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Will the First Member for the Sister Islands indicate whether she accepts the nomination?

Mrs. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly: Mr. Chairman, on behalf of my constituents of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman I shall be honoured to so do.

DECLARATION OF SPEAKER

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you. Honourable Members, there being no other nominations, and the First Elected Member from the Sister Islands having accepted the nomination, I have the privilege to declare her the Speaker.

[applause]

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: We will suspend this Honourable House for fifteen minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.49 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 1.03 PM

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce suspended proceedings until 2.30 pm to await the arrival of His Excellency the Governor to administer the Oath Of Allegiance to the Lady Member (in the office of Speaker)

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.04 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.51 PM

[Hon. Julianna Y. O'Connor-Connolly, JP
Speaker, in the Chair]

READING BY THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER OF MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Speaker: Honourable Members, before moving on to the next item of business, I wish to take this opportunity to say a few words of gratitude to each Honourable Member and indeed to the listening public.

Fellow Caymanians and residents, Honourable Members, I wish to commence today by adopting St. Patrick's Benediction entitled, 'Christ with me' which reads:

*I arise today through God's strength to pilot me,
God's might to uphold me,
God's wisdom to guide me;
God's eye to look before me,
God's ear to hear me,
God's word to speak for me;
God's hand to guard me,
God's shield to protect me.*

*Christ be with me,
Christ before me;
Christ behind me
Christ in me;
Christ beneath me.
Christ on my right,
Christ on my left;
Christ when I lie down,
Christ when I sit down.
Christ when I arise,*

*Christ in the heart of everyone who thinks of me;
Christ in the mouth of everyone who speaks of me,
Christ in the eye of everyone who sees me;*

*Christ in the ear of everyone who hears me.
Under His wings what a refuge.*

Honourable Members, in the midst of change. Often the earth has no balm for our healing but there we can find peace and comfort, there we are truly blessed.

Honourable Members I am indeed honoured and equally humbled by the degree of support and confidence you have shown in electing me to be your Honourable Speaker. Once again I am reminded by the turn of events that my timetable is not always God's timetable, because not even in my wildest dreams would I have ever imagined that I would be Speaker of this Honourable House at age forty, or at all, during my lifetime. This indeed is a colossal honour and on behalf of the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman in particular, as well as Grand Cayman, I most sincerely thank each of you Honourable Members for such confidence.

It is my wish therefore that we now embark on a process of reconciliation where we rise above the varied personality conflicts within and without these Honourable precincts. May we all bond together with the fervent commitment of doing what is best for our beloved Cayman Islands; may we all work diligently to instil confidence in the hope of democracy; may we all stand tall in the continuous belief of honesty and integrity; may we ensure that justice is not only done, but that it also appears to have been done; may we constantly strive to unite our Caymanian people and residents alike; may the improved well-being of our people be of paramount considerations; may we all live an infinite legacy of goodwill and godliness.

Honourable Members and the listening public, I am a strong advocate on the principle that performance rides on commitment and I therefore pledge to you that I will at all material times retain my honesty, morality and integrity and that I will be (to the best of my God-given ability) fair, actable, firm, yet friendly.

It is therefore my goal to be a conduit for God's will to be done; for His peace to permeate our minds and hearts; for each of us Honourable Members to unite in order to build day by day these little Islands we call home to become the next best thing to heaven.

I look forward to the continued support and kind assistance of all Honourable Members. Let us each remember that we are all created equally, that we are all God's creation, that we are all Caymanians and residents and in so doing may we abide by the neighbourly principle and let each of us see what good we can do each day to help someone else live a little better, laugh a little louder and smile a little wider and let us always remember to give thanks.

May the God of peace equip each of you Honourable Members to do everything that is good. May we each work to do what pleases Him. I thank you Honourable Members for your indulgence and patience and may this day—today—mark the beginning of a better Cayman Islands. May God continue to bless these Cayman Islands.

I thank you Honourable Members.

NOMINATIONS FOR THE ELECTION OF THE DEPUTY SPEAKER

The Speaker: We will now turn to the next order of business on today's Order Paper, that being the nominations for the election of the Deputy Speaker of the Legislative Assembly. The floor is now open for nominations.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, it gives me great pleasure to be the first Honourable Member in this Honourable House to rise after your sitting and to nominate the Fourth Elected Member from West Bay as the new Deputy Speaker.

The Speaker: Is there a seconder?

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, I humbly wish to second the motion.

The Speaker: Are there any further nominations? Are there any further nominations? If there are no further nominations I would now ask the Fourth Elected Member from West Bay, whether or not he wishes to accept the nomination which was duly moved?

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, it is with great honour and humility that I accept the nomination.

The Speaker: Would you come to the Clerk's desk, so that the appropriate affirmation could be so done? Honourable Members, please stand.

[The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay took the Oath of Allegiance at the Clerk's dais.]

DECLARATION OF DEPUTY SPEAKER

The Speaker: I now declare the Fourth Elected Member from the district of West Bay to be our newly elected Deputy Speaker. You may now return to your seat. Please be seated.

We will now turn to the next item on the Order Paper, number 6, Statements by Honourable Ministers and Official Members of Government. The Honourable Third Official Member.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, thank you very much.

Before I deal with the specifics of the item, I would like to take this opportunity (if you will indulge me) to congratulate you on your appointment to being the Speaker of this Honourable House. I know you will do justice to the position.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

THE DRAFT ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR 2002

(Deferred)

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, Honourable Members will note that Item 7 on today's Order Paper calls for the presentation of the Draft Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the Cayman Islands' Government for the Year 2002.

As noted in today's issue of the Compass, the presentation of the Draft Estimates will, of necessity, be delayed until the end of the month. This, Madam Speaker, quite likely has taken no one by surprise due to the recent changes in Executive Council again which of necessity would require the realignment of departments in accordance with the new Ministries.

In addition, Madam Speaker, while we have been looking at the revenue and expenditure figures and departments were able to achieve targets that were set for them on the expenditure side (as the First Elected Member from George Town pointed out during the course of last week), that target was achieved to the difference of about $11 million.

We also have to look on the revenue side. Having had the full run of the month of October, we have found that the projected revenue from especially Customs import duty, is projected or revised downward to about $2 million by year-end.

So, Madam Speaker, we are looking at all items very carefully to bring the revenue in line with expenditure in subscribing to the principle of a balanced budget to ensure that there is alignment between revenue and expenditure when the Budget is being brought to this Honourable House.

Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Question is, that the Draft Estimates now be deferred. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: TABLING OF THE DRAFT ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR 2002 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Moving on to the next item on the Order Paper: The Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Regulation 2001. I call upon the Honourable Minister responsible for Planning.

THE DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) REGULATION 2001

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House The Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Regulation, 2001.

The Speaker: So ordered. Would the Honourable Minister wish to speak thereto?

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, this Regulations amendment is consequential upon the Amendment to the Development and Planning Law 1999 Revision, and as I intend to speak shortly on that, I will reserve my comments until then.

The Speaker: Item number 8, Government Business, Bills. Does any Member wish to move the suspension of the relevant Standing Orders?

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

FIRST READINGS

THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL 2001
(Deferred)

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, before I move the suspension, I would like to move under the relevant Standing Orders that the first reading on the Appropriation (2002) Bill, 2001, be deferred.

The Speaker: The question is that under the relevant [Standing Orders the first reading of the Appropriation (2002) Bill, 2001, be deferred]. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL 2001 DEFERRED.

SUSPENSION OF
STANDING ORDERS 45, 46 (1), (2) AND (4)

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move Standing Orders 45 and 46 (1), (2) and (4) to allow for The Stamp Duty (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill, 2001; The Land Holding Companies Share Transfer Tax (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill, 2001; and The Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill, 2001, be taken.

The Speaker: Bills, First Readings.

THE STAMP DUTY (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) BILL 2001

The Clerk: The Stamp Duty (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill 2001.

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for a Second Reading.

THE LAND HOLDING COMPANIES SHARE

THE DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) BILL 2001

The Clerk: The Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill 2001

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for Second Reading.
Second Readings.

SECOND READINGS

THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL 2001
Motion to Defer

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, before you allow the second readings of these Bills, I would like to move again that under the relevant Standing Orders that the Second Reading of The Appropriation (2002) Bill, 2001 be deferred.

The Speaker: The question is that under the relevant Standing Orders the Second Reading of the Appropriation (2002) Bill, 2001, be deferred.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: SECOND READING OF THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL 2001 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: At this time we will ask for the House to go into a short suspension for ten minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.06 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.03 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Bills, Second Readings.

THE STAMP DUTY (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) BILL 2001

[Correction to statement made in connection with the deferral of the Draft Estimates]

The Clerk: The Stamp Duty (Amendment) Temporary Provisions) Bill 2001.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, thank you.

Before I commence the second reading of the Stamp Duty (Amendment) amending Bill, I would be grateful for your indulgence if you would permit me to correct an error I made in my statement under item 6.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, during this statement (which I made against item 6 as to the reasons why the estimates were being delayed) I erroneously stated that other import duties would be down to $2 million by year-end. I should have said, "would be down by $2 million by year-end."

The reason I said that was, when the meeting of Finance Committee was held in October, at that time we had the figures up through the end of September and the aggregate figures (based on what had been collected up through the end of September), the Customs Department had projected that collections through year-end would be $59.1 million. Having had the run of the full month of October the Customs Department has since revised its figures down to $56.4 million, which is a difference of $2.7 or closer to $3 million. So I thought it would be useful, Madam Speaker, to offer that explanation.

The Speaker: Thank you, please continue.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I beg to move the second reading of a Bill entitled, The Stamp Duty (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill 2001.

Madam Speaker, the worldwide economic growth in 2001 was already sluggish before the terrorist attacks on 11 September in the United States of America. That tragic event caused economies throughout the world to experience even greater difficulties and the Cayman Islands has been impacted accordingly. Madam Speaker, Government therefore had the difficult task of determining stimulative measures that could be implemented to help revive the local economy.

It is well known from experiences in past years that a buoyant real estate sector has been associated with a healthy and thriving local economy. With this in mind, the Government decided that one measure it could adopt would involve the reduction of stamp duty rates that apply to property transfers. This view was also supported and encouraged by the private sector—and I should mention, Madam Speaker (as you will note from the Order Paper today), this is one of four measures.

It is also true that brisk activity in the real estate sector is often accompanied by brisk activity in the construction industry. Thus, Madam Speaker, this Honourable House will also be asked to consider measures that are designed to have an impact upon our local construction industry. The preceding, Madam Speaker, are some of the thought processes that resulted in the Government taking a decision to reduce the stamp duty rate.

The Bill for a law entitled The Stamp Duty (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Law 2001 is now before Honourable Members. Its Memorandum of Objects and Reasons states that the purpose of the Bill is to temporarily reduce stamp duty on documents relating to conveyance or transfer of immovable property. It is proposed that the existing stamp duty rates of 7.5 percent and 9 percent both be reduced to 5 percent across the board. The proposed reduction will last one year and will expire one year from the date of the passing of this Bill by this Honourable House.

Clause 1 of the Bill provides a title of the intended Law. Clause 1(2) of the Bill provides that the Law shall come into operation immediately as it is passed by the Legislative Assembly and it should cease to have effect one year later.

Madam Speaker, it is usual for a Law to come into effect upon the date it is gazetted, rather than on the date it is passed by this Honourable House. The question or thought may therefore arise as to whether the approach outlined in Clause 1(2) would result in any erosion of adequate public notification. This measure, Madam Speaker, was announced in a press conference on 22 October. The Members of the Legislative Assembly and the public have already received notice that this Bill will be appearing this Honourable House through the press conference, Madam Speaker. It is for this reason that the Law can be brought into effect immediately as it is passed by this Honourable House.

Clause 1(3) effectively states that upon the expiry of this Law (which will occur one year from the date on which it is passed) the current rates of stamp duty will come back into effect—that is, 7.5 percent and 9 percent.

Clause 2 of the Bill, Madam Speaker, is very lengthy but its effect is quite simple in broad terms to replace the existing stamp duty rates of 9 percent and 7.5 percent with 5 percent.

Apart from this substitution or replacement, the Bill does not alter the present Stamp Duty Law (2001 Revision) to any significant extent. This Bill and the existing Stamp Duty Law (2001 Revision) are also exactly the same apart from 9 percent and 7.5 percent rates versus 5 percent rate contained in the Bill. Madam Speaker, it is for this reason that this Bill is being submitted for consideration by Honourable Members.

I should briefly mention, Madam Speaker, what the projected impact is likely to be on the revenue for 2002. Based on the revised collection through the end of this year which is, $17,250 million, the provisions that have been made in the budget by the Land Registry Department as revenue to be collected in the year 2002 against this item has been set at $15.3 million, a reduction of approximately $2 million.

Madam Speaker, as you and Honourable Members will appreciate, this is the best estimate, although we are estimating what the collection is going to be. But we are hoping that when we take the reduction, as a result of this and the other measures that will be moved by the Honourable Minister for Works—when everything is combined, we are looking at a value of $4.6 million approximately as a result of these concessions. This is what will be sustained in terms of revenue being given up against these specific items. The Honourable Minister will go into details on that item that he will be speaking to.

But, Madam Speaker, I should mention, that it is anticipated (as pointed out in the notes) that this stimulus will cause activities to increase in the construction sector and as a consequence we should see an offsetting of the amounts being lost being gained through customs import duty.

Madam Speaker, thank you very much.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak? The Elected Member from East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, please allow me to congratulate you on your appointment as Speaker of this Honourable House before I make my short contribution—which will probably be in the form of a question to the Third Official Member.

Madam Speaker, from the time this initiative was publicly aired (I believe the Third Official Member said on the 26 or 22 October) I supported Government moving in that direction to try stimulating the economy as it has been in the doldrums for quite some time. But Madam Speaker, one of my questions to the Honourable Third Official Member would have been, What impact would it have on the services that Government currently provides? I believe that he mentioned in his presentation of the Bill that it is hoped that the construction industry would be stimulated as a result of this and that we will see some worthwhile appreciation in the import duties. Madam Speaker, I trust that that is realised.

However, Madam Speaker, my immediate concern with regard to this Bill is that while I recognise Government has a responsibility to try to stimulate our economy, I also believe that the private sector has the same kind of responsibility in sharing in the stimulating of the economy. I trust that the Third Official Member will let this Honourable House know in his reply what provisions or what initiatives have been proposed by the private sector to assist with the stamp duties.

As I see it, this is on immovable property, the transfer of immovable property. And there certainly is a schedule of costs in the private sector for that also. That is the percentage to be paid to the realtor or to the legal fraternity and the like. It would be interesting to hear how the private sector is going to assist by reducing their commission. I think it ranges somewhere between 3 and 10 percent depending on the amounts, or maybe 5 and 10 percent, something to that effect.

So my question to the Third Official Member, and one to which I would like an answer, Madam Speaker, is: What is the private sector doing? I know I recall seeing a package from the Chamber of Commerce to the Government with suggestions on how Government can stimulate the economy in the short, medium, and long term. Now it would be in keeping with informing the general public, the people of these Islands on how the private sector is going to assist with stimulating the economy also.

Having said that Madam Speaker, I do not have a problem with supporting Government bringing this Bill to stimulate the economy providing the private sector has 'signed on the dotted line' as we so like saying, Madam Speaker.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other Honourable Member wish to speak to this Bill? Does any other Member wish to speak to this Bill? Last call, does any other Member wish to speak to this Bill? If not does the Honourable Third Official Member wish to exercise his right to reply?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, thank you very much.

The Elected Member from East End raised the question in terms of what services would be affected. We know, Madam Speaker, the services that will be affected will have to be looked at in terms of the value of the revenue that will be given up. But there are other intangibles that are associated with that. As I mentioned, from the concessions when everything is accumulated, we are looking at a total of approximately $4.6 million.

I should mention, Madam Speaker, that from my observation I have seen a spirit of co-operation from the private sector. For example, representatives of the Real Estate Association, the Tourism sector and all groups coming together with a willingness to work with the Government. Madam Speaker, we have seen the Cayman Islands Real Estate Brokers Association (CIREBA), make the decision to take a reduction in the normal commission rate that they receive. They do recognise that there is a significant inventory that has been built up. I have been made to understand that it is close to about $2 billion in real property and what we have before us, Madam Speaker, is an attempt to effect some good activity in that area by way of stimulating sales. And we know the knock-on effect will be in the construction sector as well.

So, Madam Speaker, the real estate industry together with the tourism sector and all areas, recognise that it is very important for all persons to work in unison with the Government to do their part in order to keep the economy going.

Madam Speaker, they have mentioned that they are alternating with employees within certain sectors, for example within Tourism, within the hotel industry, and rather than persons working the normal shift I have been made to understand that a practice has been implemented whereby individuals are working reduced hours in order to keep the employment level to the optimum. This, Madam Speaker, is very much welcomed.

What we have in front of us today is not a one-sided arrangement by the Government, as such, because we do recognise that everyone has some equity in these Islands and this country—it is where we are obtaining our meals at this time—it is more than that. In fact, it is home to us, Madam Speaker. We are seeing a willingness to co-operate. So while it is somewhat difficult to quantify, let us see what the impact will be on CIREBA on the hotel industry. And I should point out that the Honourable Minister for Tourism has been having meetings with the tourism sector. They are looking in terms of hotel rates and charges in that sector that are having an unfavourable adverse impact upon the tourism Industry with a view to introducing remedial actions in that area in order to stimulate the tourism sector.

Madam Speaker, we have before us all hands on deck with everyone showing a willingness to work together. This includes the measures that are being introduced by the Government and these, Madam Speaker, we trust will be equally matched. From all indications I have reason to believe that they will be matched by the various sectors within our community.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The question is that The Stamp Duty (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill, 2001, be read a second time. All those in favour please say Aye, those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE STAMP DUTY (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) BILL, 2001, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Bills, Second Reading.

THE LAND HOLDING COMPANIES SHARE TRANSFER TAX (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) BILL, 2001

The Speaker: The Land Holding Companies Share Transfer Tax (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill, 2001.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled The Land Holding Companies Share Transfer Tax (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill 2001. I would like to explain why it is necessary to bring proposed changes in the form of this Bill to The existing Land Holding Companies Share Transfer Tax Law 1995 (Revision).

Madam Speaker, when there is a change in ownership of immovable property from one individual to another, such a change attracts a stamp duty charge which is normally borne by the purchaser of the property. Land holding companies are entities as opposed to individuals that are allowed to own property in the Cayman Islands. A change in the share capital of a land holding company means that the ownership of that entity has changed and, as a result, a change in the ownership of the property held by the company also occurs. When one individual transfers the ownership of a property to another, a stamp duty charge arises. A similar charge arises for the benefit of the Islands revenue when the ownership of the changes, as a result of a change in the share capital of land holding entity.

Madam Speaker, the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons state that the purpose of the Bill is to temporarily reduce the amount payable to the Islands' revenue in respect of any transfers of equity capital of a land-holding corporation. It is therefore proposed (similar to the early Amending Bill that I did the second reading on) that the existing rates of 9 percent and 7.5 percent be reduced across the board to a rate of 5 percent. The proposed reduction will last for one year and expire thereafter on terms similar to the provisions in the Stamp Duty Amending Bill.

Madam Speaker, I commend this Bill to Honourable Members.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak to this Bill? Does any other Member wish to speak to this Bill? Last call, does any other Member wish to speak to this Bill? If not I will ask the Honourable Third Official Member to exercise his right of reply, if he so wishes.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I would like to say thanks to Honourable Members once again for their tacit support.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled, The Land Holding Companies Share Transfer Tax (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill 2001, be given a second reading. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE LAND HOLDING COMPANIES SHARE TRANSFER TAX (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) BILL 2001, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Bills, Second Reading.

Before I call on the Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, we have reached the hour of interruption.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Government proposes to continue until we finish business, therefore, I ask for suspension of the relevant Standing Orders in order for us to complete the business on the agenda today.

The Speaker: I shall put the question that the relevant Standing Orders be hereby suspended in order for the Honourable House to complete the business as set out on the Order Paper today. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED.

THE DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) BILL 2001

The Clerk: The Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill 2001.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled, The Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill 2001.

The Speaker: The question is that the Bill be read the second time. Does the Honourable Minister wish to speak thereto?

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, this Bill results from a stimulus package that was announced on 22 October which followed the tragic events on 11 September in the United States of America. And, Madam Speaker, Government has been tasked with trying to develop appropriate measures that have a stimulative effect on our local economy. It is, Madam Speaker, considered by many informed sources that a boost to the construction industry is one possible means of providing that stimulative effect. And one way of encouraging a greater level of construction is to reduce the cost associated with building.

Madam Speaker, I would just like to refer to the current legislation so that Honourable Members and the listening public can have a better appreciation of what this amendment bill proposes to accomplish. It applies to part 6 of the Development and Planning Law (1999 Revision) and has to do with the infrastructure fund. This is under section 41 of the Law, which states that there is established an infrastructure fund for the purpose of providing funds for the developments of roads and other infrastructure in the Islands.

Madam Speaker, it continues in subsection (2) to say, "The funds shall be administered in accordance with directions issued by the Financial Secretary from time to time and shall consist of monies received under subsection (4)."

Madam Speaker, subsection (4) states the areas of developments and persons to whom planning permission for development may be granted. It starts with an industrial building, a commercial building, a hotel, an apartment, strata lot, a house over 4,000 sq ft (or an extension to a house which would make that house over 4,000 sq ft), where this is granted after the 15 September 1997, shall at the date such person applying for building permits contribute to the infrastructure fund as follows.

Madam Speaker, before this amendment the fund was priced in area A at $2.50 per square foot, area B $1.50, area C 50 cents. This is now effectively reduced Madam Speaker, by 50 percent which has the practical effect of reducing it to $1.25 per square foot in area A; 75 cents in area B; 25 cents per square foot in area C.

Area A, Madam Speaker, just to elaborate on this sum, means the following registration sections, blocks and parcel: Registration section West Bay, 5C, parcels with water frontage only, but including any parcel subsequently derived from other parcels with water frontage and it lists a number of those sections. These are also listed for the district of George Town. I would invite all members of the listening public who might require more detail, to obtain a copy of the Development and Planning Law (1999 Revision) where it is quite clearly set out under the appropriate sections.

In area B, Madam Speaker, this means the following registration sections, blocks and parcels, apply to North Side and East End. Specific reference is made between the sea and the Queen's Highway and the East End section. But here again, Madam Speaker, there are several blocks and parcels and I would invite Members to refer to the appropriate section of the Law.

Under area C this means that the registration sections, blocks and parcels in Grand Cayman and Little Cayman (not Cayman Brac) are not included in areas A or B.

Madam Speaker, the construction cost, in respect of a development, includes the cost of preparing land for development, mobilisation cost, professional fees relating to the construction (including the fees for architects, quantity surveyors, surveyors and attorneys-at-law), the cost of labour and materials to be used in the construction of a building with its fixtures, the cost of installing plumbing and electricity facilities and such other construction costs as shall be determined by the authority who may require an applicant for planning permission, to provide such evidence or information as the authority considers necessary to make that determination.

Madam Speaker, a definition is also given of infrastructure which basically means public services and utilities used in common by the residence of the Cayman Islands.

Madam Speaker, the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons of the Bill, states that the purpose of the Bill is to temporarily reduce the contributions payable under the Development and Planning Law (1999 Revision) by 50 percent as I stated earlier. But, Madam Speaker, I would like to make one very important note here and I would like this to be carefully noted: it is important to note that the 50 percent reduction in the contribution rates will only apply to those developments that received planning permission on a date that is on or after the date on which this Bill is passed by the Legislative Assembly. The developments that already have planning permission, that is, those that have received planning permission on a date prior to this Bill being passed, will not benefit from these proposed reductions.

There are two clauses to the Bill, Madam Speaker, it is a very short Bill, two clauses. Clause 1(2) provides that it shall come into operation immediately as it is passed by the Legislative Assembly and it shall cease to have effect one year after the passing of the Bill. Clause 1(3) effectively states that, upon the expiry of this Law - that is after one year from the date on which it is passed, the rates of contribution to the infrastructure fund will revert to the existing rate. Madam Speaker, under Clause 2 of the Bill, it gives effects to points that I have mentioned previously.

Madam Speaker, I believe that this is necessary under the current situation in order to give a boost to the economy. It is not at all unprecedented, the similar, though not exact position is being followed in other, even more advanced countries such as the United States of America where stimulus packages are being introduced to boost their economy. Madam Speaker, I believe that this is timely. I believe that it is indeed needed and I certainly, Madam Speaker, commend this Bill to all Honourable Members of this House.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak to this Bill? The Elected Member from East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, just for a clarification from the Minister when he replies, he mentioned that these fees would come into effect, if or whenever this Bill gets passage, and I wonder if he could clarify that because under section 1(2) it reads, "These regulations come into operation on the date of publication of the regulation in the Gazette, and shall cease to have effect upon the expiration of a period of 12 months from that date." Just to get a clarification on that.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak to this Bill? If not, I shall call upon the Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, if he wishes to exercise his right of reply.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I believe that the Honourable Member for East End might have been referring to the regulations that come with the Motion that is coming after the Bill. But Madam Speaker, there is in fact one correction that I am going to be circulating for committee stage and it is to do with the Bill. It is under paragraph 2 on page 4 and it is in the line that starts "is granted after the date on which the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Law 2001 is passed." The amendment that I will seek to have passed in the Committee stage is an insertion of after - is granted, we should have on or after the date on which the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Law 2001 is passed.

Madam Speaker, I wish to thank the Honourable Member for East End for his input and all other Members for their tacit support.

The Speaker: The Question is that the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions)

Bill 2001, be read a second time. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a second reading.

AGREED: THE DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) BILL 2001, READ A SECOND TIME.

The Speaker: The House will now go into Committee.

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE AT 4.45 PM

COMMITTEE ON BILLS

The Chairman: Please be seated. The House is now in Committee. With the leave of the House may I assume that as usual we should authorise the Honourable Second Official Member to correct minor printing errors and suchlike in these Bills? Will the Clerk read each Bill and read its clauses?

THE STAMP DUTY (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) BILL, 2001

The Deputy Clerk: The Stamp Duty (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill, 2001.

- Clause 1. Short title. Commencement and expiry.
- Clause 2. Amendment to the Schedule of the Stamp Duty Law, 2001 (Revision) Rates of Duty.

The Chairman: The Question is that Clauses 1 and 2 do stand part of the Bill. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clauses 1 and 2 do stand part of the Bill.

CLAUSES 1 AND 2 PASSED.

The Deputy Clerk: A Bill for a Law to amend the Stamp Duty Law (2001 Revision) to temporarily reduce the Stamp Duty on documents relating to the conveyance of transfer of immovable property and for incidental and connected purposes.

The Chairman: The question is that the Title do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

TITLE PASSED.

THE LAND HOLDING COMPANIES SHARE TRANSFER TAX (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) BILL 2001

The Deputy Clerk: The Land Holding Companies Share Transfer Tax (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill 2001.

- Clause 1. Short title. Commencement and Expiry.
- Clause 2. Amendment of Section 3 of the Land Holding Companies Share Transfer Tax Law 1995 (Revision) Returns et cetera of Transfers to be Delivered and Taxed Payable.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 and 2 do stand part of the Bill. All those in favour—

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: The Member from North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you.

I wonder if the Honourable Minister could explain Clause 2 to me. “This Law comes into operation on the date that it is passed by the Legislative Assembly”, that part of it—in relation to section 16 of the Interpretation Law.

The Chairman: The Honourable Third Official Member. Would the Member from North Side please repeat for the sake of clarity?

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Chairman, (I apologise for saying the Honourable Minister.) The Honourable Third Official Member, in section 2: “This law comes into operation on the date that it is passed by the Legislative Assembly and shall cease to have effect upon the expiration of a period of 12 months from that date. My question relates to “this law comes into operation on the date that it is passed” as to how that relates to section 16 of the Interpretation Law.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Chairman, I am getting the help of the very able legal drafts lady, Legislative Counsel. If you will allow me a minute, Madam Chairman, I will have the answer for the Honourable Member from North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairman, if it would help I would read section 16 of the Interpretation Law. It says, “Where any Law, part of a Law or any regulations made thereunder came or comes into operation on a particular day, it shall be deemed to have come or shall come into operation imme- dially on the expiration of the day next preceding such day.” So am I to assume that this would come into operation on the next day or will it be today when the Law is passed?

The Chairman: Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Chairman, the Interpretation Law provides that a Law comes into force on the day that it is gazetted unless otherwise provided. What we have done is to provide otherwise.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: That is section 15, Sir. The clarification I would like is on 16.

The Chairman: Honourable Minister for Social Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam [Chairman], section 17 says that the Law can determine the date on which the Law comes into effect, unless of course the Law does not determine when it comes into being, then it would come into being according to the way in which it has been established for Laws to come into being.

The Chairman: Does the Honourable Third Official Member wish to respond?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I am being helped Madam Chairman.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairman, it is not my intention to stop this Law from coming into effect; I would just like some clarity so that at the end of the day it is not done incorrectly. It is not my intention to stop the Law.

The Chairman: Thank you, Elected Member from North Side.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Chairman, section 16 merely explains the time of the commencement. Our Law will come into force at the beginning of today's date.

The Chairman: Thank you Honourable Third Official Member. If that satisfies the Elected Member from North Side I shall now put the Question.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairman, I dare not question the expertise of the Legislative Counsel and if that is her ruling, I stand by that.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Chairman, just for—

The Chairman: Honourable Minister.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Just for further clarity the Elected Member from North Side was referring to section 16 of the Interpretation Law, or the section dealing with the commencement, or the moment when a regulation comes into operation. Section 17 says that, “Every law (which expression in this section does not include regulations), shall be a public Law and shall be judicially noticed as such, unless the contrary is expressly provided by the Law.” Which in this case the law is providing when it comes into effect.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairman, I thank the Honourable Minister for that, but that is totally out of my question. The marginal note for that says, “Laws to be Public Laws and judicially noticed.” I am not arguing against the Legislative Counsel's ruling on it.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 and 2 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say, Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

CLAUSES 1 AND 2 PASSED.

The Deputy Clerk: A Bill for a Law to amend the Land Holding Companies Share Transfer Tax Law (1995 Revision) to temporarily reduce the tax payable under Section 3 of the Law and for incidental and connected purposes.

The Chairman: The question is that the Title do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

TITLE PASSED.

The Chairman: At this stage we will move to the amendment (for the Committee stage). I will consider to grant leave if the Mover could move.

I, at this time, now waive the two days notice for the proposed amendment at committee stage for the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill 2001. And I would ask for the Amendment to be duly circulated.

The Deputy Clerk: Clause 2: Amendment of Section 41 of the Development and Planning Law 1999 (Revision) Infrastructure Fund.

The Chairman: The question is that, Clause 2 do stand part of the Bill. I believe that there was an amendment proposed?

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, in accordance with the Standing Order 52 (1) and (2) I, the Honourable Minister for Planning, Communication, Works and Information Technology, give notice to move the following amendment to the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Bill, 2001. That Clause 2 be amended in the new subsection (4) proposed for insertion in section 41 of the Principal Law by deleting the words "is granted after" and substituting the words "is granted on or after."

The Chairman: The question is that Clause 2 be amended in the new subsection (4) proposed for insertion in section 41 of the principal Law, by deleting the words "is granted after" and substituting the words "is granted on or after."

Does any Member wish to speak to the proposed amendment? If not, the question is that the amendment do stand part of Clause 2. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 10/01

THE DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING LAW (1999 REVISION), THE DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING (AMENDMENT) (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) REGULATIONS 2001

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I beg to move Government Motion No. 10/01 on The Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Regulations 2001.

The Speaker: Does the Honourable Minister wish to speak to it?

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, the Motion reads:

“WHEREAS Section 45 (1) of the Development and Planning Law (1999 Revision) provides to the Governor in Council, may make regulations and

“WHEREAS Section 45 (3) of the said Law provides that no regulations shall be made pursuant to the said Law unless a draft thereof has been laid before the Legislative Assembly and a resolution approving the draft has been passed by the Legislative Assembly and

“WHEREAS the attached draft Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Regulation 2001 were laid on the table during a Sitting of this House.

“BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the attached draft Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Regulations 2001 be approved by the Legislative Assembly in accordance with the provision of Section 45 (3) of the Development and Planning Law (1999 Revision).”

Madam Speaker, the Regulations as mentioned earlier are consequential on the amendment to the Bill to the Development and Planning Law (1999 Revision).

Madam Speaker, the first Whereas section of the Motion states that regulations may be made by the Governor in Council under the Development and Planning Law and Madam Speaker, these regulations had to be laid on the Table of the House prior to the Motion being brought and that was done earlier.

The second Whereas section of the Motion outlines that proposed regulations be laid in the Legislative Assembly as mentioned and a resolution approving those regulations be passed by the Legislative Assembly.

The third Whereas section of the Motion pertains to the tabling of the proposed regulation in the Legislative Assembly. And Madam Speaker, the Resolve section of the Motion asks the Legislative Assembly to approve the Draft Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Regulations 2001. Madam Speaker, I commend these regulations to this Honourable House.

The Speaker: Thank you. Does any Member wish to speak to this Motion? Does any Member wish to speak to the Motion? If not would the Mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, only to thank all Honourable Members for their tacit support of the Regulations.

The Speaker: The question is that the Draft Development and Planning (Amendment) (Temporary Provisions) Regulations 2001 be approved by the Legislative Assembly in accordance with provisions of Section 45 (3) of the Development and Planning Law (1999 Revision). All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 13/01

REVOCAION OF APPOINTMENT OF MEMBERSHIP TO THE STANDING PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE

Hon. Roy Boddan: Madam Speaker, I would like to move Government Motion No. 13/01. Revocation of Appointment of Membership to the Standing Public Accounts Committee. Which reads as follows,

“BE IT RESOLVED THAT in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 8(2). This Honourable House revokes the appointment of Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr., MLA, from the Standing Public Accounts Committee and appoints Mr. Lyndon L. Martin, MLA.”

The Speaker: The Motion has been duly moved. Does the Honourable Mover wish to speak to it?

Hon. Roy Boddan: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak to the Motion? If not, the question is that in accordance to the provision of, sorry - the Second Elected Member from George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Before I offer my brief contribution to this significant Motion I wish to offer my warmest, personal congratulations on your elevation to the dais.

Madam Speaker, it appears that I now fall to suffer the same fate as my colleagues, the First Elected Member for George Town and the Elected Member for North Side. There is a Motion on the Floor of this Honourable House seeking the revocation of my appointment as a member of the Public Accounts Committee of this Honourable House. No reason has been proffered for such a Motion and I am therefore left to presume as was the Elected Member for North Side, that I, too, have been found guilty of association with the First Elected Member for George Town and former Leader of Government Business.

Madam Speaker, I do understand how the system works. I just wish to say this, Madam Speaker, (and I have said this to my friends the Honourable Minister for Community Development and the new Honourable Minister for Health), that I was elected to represent the people of these Islands and in particular the people of the District of George Town. I do believe that I do have much to offer. It matters not from that perspective, Madam Speaker, which Government is in power, as they say, or which individuals occupy those seats across the floor. My duty remains the same. I have been, I believe, an effective Member of the Public Accounts Committee. I remain until now on a number of other committees: the negotiating team, the Immigration Review team – both matters which are dear to my heart – both matters which formed important planks in my election campaign platform, both matters in which I believe I have considerable expertise and knowledge.

As I said, Madam Speaker, it matters not who is in government. Important matters need to be resolved for the sake of all of us and for the sake of the future of this country. I stand ready, willing and able to continue to do my part to ensure that the right things happen over the course of the next three years.

I respect I am bound by the democratic process and if those who occupy the seats across the floor of this Honourable House deem it necessary to revoke my appointment to any of those committees, so be it. I just wish all Honourable Members and the country to understand that as long as I have the opportunity to do so, I intend to continue to do my very best to ensure that I provide the best possible representation that I can.

I hold that out, Madam Speaker, as something of an olive branch to those Members on the Government Bench who may bear some degree of ill-will in relation to what has transpired over the course of the past few weeks. But I believe that we all must be bigger men and bigger women than the personal circumstances. We must understand the tremendous commitment that we have made and the tremendous obligation we have. And, not withstanding all that has transpired, to do our very best to ensure that these important initiatives do not lose momentum and are carried through.

Again, Madam Speaker, I speak specifically to what is transpiring in relation to the international initiatives and to what has transpired thus far in relation to the work of the Immigration Review team. At this point we are in a position where we are almost ready to provide to the Government the first interim report of that committee. I would like to be able to contribute to that very important work.

Madam Speaker, I am simply saying to all Honourable Members on the Government Bench that my commitment is still there. Whatever the differences may be I do not believe on these two important matters that we share any philosophical differences. And I know I can say this with confidence, in relation to the Honourable Minister for Health and the Honourable Minister for Community Development. We have talked often particularly about the Immigration matters and I know we share a common philosophy.

I say those words, Madam Speaker, accepting the inevitable that I will be removed as a member of the Public Accounts Committee. I derived some degree of confidence in the committee because my good friend, the Elected Member from East End is still there as scrutineer. I am grateful that his appointment has not been revoked and I believe, Madam Speaker, that under the able leadership of the Chairman, the Second Elected Member for West Bay, this committee will continue to do good work. And so, Madam Speaker, with those few words I offer my contribution to this Motion. Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak to this Motion? The Second Elected Member from West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, as Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee. I would feel it remiss, if I did not offer a few comments. Firstly, Madam Speaker, as has been stated in this House, many times since I have been here, the Public Accounts Committee has been comprised in a manner that offers what would be considered a balance. Certainly the committee is comprised of three persons that were considered Back Bench Members of the former government and that balance is thought to be maintained.

I am glad that the Member from East End will be on the committee as a scrutineer. I consider our working relationship as one that has always been productive because the Member from East End shares a lot of enthusiasm in regard to the work of that committee. I can honestly say that the Member from East End has never missed a meeting, other than once, without letting me know that he would be late, or off the Island. He has certainly been a very—in fact he just told me that he has never missed a meeting! And I would concur that he has been an extremely loyal and extremely fair Member of the Committee; indeed the whole committee has worked well together. However, Madam Speaker, over the last several weeks we have had times when the committee has been challenged to meet a quorum.

Madam Speaker, also on the Committee is the Third Elected Member from Bodden Town who was a member of the 1996 – 2000 government. Currently the Committee has before it a document that covered his term as a Member of Executive Council at that time. He and the other Members present (the Member from East End, the Fourth Elected Member from West Bay and I), concurred that he should withdraw from participating in the deliberations over that report because it was seen as a conflict. I think that is a very fair way to go about things.

I have certainly found that in the dealings on the Public Accounts Committee, the Third Elected Member from Bodden Town has been fair in his deliberations and in his contributions to the Committee. However, over the past few meetings only three members present have made up the quorum of the Committee. The Elected Member for East End, the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay, and I.

POINT OF CLARIFICATION

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: What is your point of order?

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Not a point of order, Madam Speaker, it is a point of clarification.

The Speaker: Would the Member give way then?

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: No, Madam Speaker, I was about to clarify the point. If the Member is not satisfied with my clarification then he can deal with it however he sees fit.

The Speaker: Please continue.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, as the Second Elected Member from George Town has alluded to, he is passionate about the Immigration issue and the Immigration Review Team was meeting at the same time that the Public Accounts Committee had been meeting. I cannot prioritise for any Member in this House. However, I always prioritise the committees that are whole committees or standing committees and anything else that the Government would see fit to put me on, as secondary. For example, Madam Speaker, on occasions I have informed the Fourth Elected Member from West Bay that I could not make it to Telecom Advisory Committee meetings because I saw that spending time going over the Public Accounts Committee report had priority over that particular committee.

Madam Speaker, again I am simply trying to clarify the entire situation and I certainly hope that this lends the clarity that the Second Elected Member from George Town would have sought. I also sit on the Immigration Review team so I would have had obligations to that committee as well. However, as I said, I am the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee and I saw where that was business that needed to be moved forward. So, as Chairman, I called those meetings and I believe that the Committee will maintain an adequate balance as it stands and as is now being proposed.

I believe that the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman does offer a peculiar insight that is going to be valuable on the committee as well. He is a person who has a background in economics and finance and naturally understanding Public Accounts Committee he will be able to assist greatly in matters of finance and matters of economics because certainly the majority of the work that we do on the Public Accounts Committee is in those two areas.

Again, Madam Speaker, I thought I would offer a few comments that would seek to address the entire situation. I hope that my comments have been as fair to all as they should be, that is certainly what I have tried to achieve and I thank you Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak to this Motion? If not, does the Honourable Mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, I had hoped that what was intended to be a mere cosmetic exercise could have been carried out without any misunderstanding. I, therefore, Madam Speaker, find it unfortunate and regrettable that one in the position of the Second Elected Member from George Town lacks the understanding to grasp the distinction between this as, Madam Speaker, an exercise imbalance and mistakenly or otherwise interprets it as some form of vendetta. Madam Speaker, I can assure that Honourable Member and any other Honourable Members labouring under such a delusion that there is no ill will on this side but it seems there are some ill winds blowing from the south east corner of these Hallowed Halls.

Madam Speaker, this is a common practice in the Westminster system when the kinds of changes that have been effected in recent days have been effected. Madam Speaker, it is merely an exercise to provide balance and ensure that the business of the Parliament, or in our case the Legislative Assembly, is in a position to continue without being handcuffed. Madam Speaker, I hope that the exercise which has been undertaken is now understood by all and I give thanks to those who support and will support this move.

The Speaker: The Question is that in accordance with the provision of Standing Order 8(2) the Honourable House revokes the appointment of Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr, MLA to the Standing Public Accounts Committee and appoints Mr. Lyndon L. Martin MLA. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
WEDNESDAY
5 DECEMBER 2001
10.04 AM
Second Sitting

The Speaker: I call upon the Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology to grace us with Prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: we beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy name and for the safety honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.07 am

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Speaker: There have been no apologies tendered.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

THE DRAFT ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR 2002

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Draft Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure of the Cayman Islands' Government for the Year 2002.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Would the Honourable Member wish to speak thereto?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I will be commenting through the Budget Address, Madam Speaker.

FIRST READINGS

THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL, 2001

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and is now set down for second reading.
Bills, first reading.

SUSPENSION OF
STANDING ORDERS 45, 46(1) AND (2)

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Third Official Member move the suspension of Standing Order 45, 46(1) and (2)?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the suspension of Standing Order 45, 46(1) and (2) to allow a Bill entitled the Cayman Islands Development Bank Bill 2001 to be read a first time.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Orders 45, 46(1) and (2) be suspended. Does any Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member for the District of George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is with considerable surprise and much concern that I rise to speak to this Motion, to suspend Standing Orders 45, 46(1) and (2). The effect of which will permit this Bill to be dealt with other than in conformity with Standing Orders in relation to the reading of Bills.

Madam Speaker, the Standing Orders require that Bills be gazetted and circulated to reach each Member not less than 21 days before it is proposed to be read a first time. As I stand here this morning, no Member of this Honourable House (at least not on this side of the Floor) has received the Bill.

I received a white copy of the proposed Bill on Friday afternoon. The relevant Business Paper to which it was attached is dated 28 November. Madam Speaker, how are we to perform the function for which we have been elected, to scrutinise Bills, to offer constructive and enlightened debate upon them and in due course, Madam Speaker, to vote aye or nay? Madam Speaker, this proposed suspension of these Standing Orders makes a complete mockery of the exercise and the function which all Members of this Honourable House have been elected to carry out.

What is the rationale, Madam Speaker? What is the rush? Why are we throwing the Standing Orders of this Honourable House out of the window on this occasion? None of us on this side of this Honourable House have had the opportunity to hear why this Bill is being proposed. Why must it happen now? Why did we not have the opportunity to consult with the Government? Or indeed, with our constituents, as to whether or not the provisions of this Bill are in accordance with what we believe to be the right thing.

Madam Speaker, I have had the opportunity to look at the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons and I certainly have no difficulty with the Objects and Reasons as set out in the Memorandum. That is not the same thing as saying that I agree with all the provisions of the Bill. Madam Speaker, this White Paper runs to 34 pages. How can it be considered fair? How can it be considered right that Members come here this morning not knowing, not expecting that this matter would be railroaded through the House in this manner? Madam Speaker, my notice that this was likely to happen was what I heard on Radio Cayman yesterday. Madam Speaker, I really must protest the way things are proceeding.

Madam Speaker, I am a member of the standing Business Committee of this Honourable House. I received a phone call on Friday around 10 am, advising me of a meeting of the Business Committee to be held at 2.30 pm. I was unable to attend, but in any event I came to understand that the meeting never happened and a meeting was fixed for 3 pm on Monday. I arrived, Madam Speaker, and after waiting here for some twenty minutes, I was advised that the Government had decided that the meeting was not going to be held then for one reason or another, and it would be held sometime between 4.15 and 4.30. What is going on? Why is it that since the transition there has been such a tremendous change in attitude to the way the business of this Honourable House is conducted? I accept my role as a Member of the Opposition, but I do not equate opposition with being oppressed. I am not a member of the Oppressed, Madam Speaker. I am a Member of the Opposition.

As a Member of this Honourable House I am entitled to a reasonable notice of committee meetings. I am entitled to reasonable notice in relation to any Bills that are coming to this Honourable House. If I do not receive those things, Madam Speaker, if all Honourable Members of this House do not receive those things, we cannot carry out the very, very important function for which we have been elected.

Madam Speaker, what debate am I to offer on this very, very important Bill? What opportunity have I had to review it? I still do not have the Bill, Madam Speaker—no one does! Madam Speaker, since I am something of a freshman, perhaps in due course someone will advise me as to how we are going to pass a Bill which we do not have. What I have is a White Paper.

Madam Speaker, we are creating a Cayman Development Bank. Is that not of sufficient import that the Members on this side of the floor should have a reasonable opportunity to debate it? Have we reached the point where the only voices that are to be heard are those who form part of the Government and its Backbench supporters? Democracy at its best!

Madam Speaker, I am not going to belabour the point. I think I have made it plain that, whether or not I can support this Bill, I can say that I am going to vote "No" to the suspension of Standing Orders 45, 46(1) and (2) which will allow this Bill to be railroaded through this Honourable House in what must be unprecedented and record time.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The suspension of Standing Orders is being sought so as to expedite matters pertaining to the work of the Housing Development Corporation and the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board.

Everyone knows—including the Member who just sat down—that we have applied and got agreement for a line of credit for housing from the Caribbean Development Bank. Our line of credit for housing depends upon this Legislature moving expeditiously with this Bill in order to get it dealt with at the next Caribbean Development Bank Board Meeting, which is being held next week.

Madam Speaker, the Bill was sent out on the 28th and it will be no different when this Honourable House passes it. The Caribbean Development Bank requires the amalgamation of the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board and the Housing Development Corporation in order to deal with the line of credit for housing and other matters from here on in. As for the Business Committee, Madam Speaker, we did meet on Monday and members of the Committee were notified. We were just not able to have the meeting any sooner because of the Budget process. Madam Speaker, this Government is not setting any precedent in this regard, however, we are trying our endeavour best to expedite the business of this Honourable Legislature and of the country in a serious manner and one that befits democracy.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak to the suspension of the relevant Standing Orders?

If not, I shall put the question that Standing Orders 45, 46(1) and (2) be suspended. Those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, say No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Please ask for the Noes again, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Are there any Noes? The Ayes have it.

The Clerk: The Appropriation (2002) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled The Appropriation (2002) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: Does the Honourable Member wish to speak to it?

THE BUDGET ADDRESS

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, in moving the Second Reading of the Appropriation Bill, I would like to offer the following comments by way of this Budget Address.

Madam Speaker, the Cayman Islands thought much of the 1970s and 1980s were marked by significant economic growth fuelled mainly by strong performance in the Tourism and International Financial and Business Services Sector and by significant inflows of foreign direct investment into real estate development.

The 1990s, however, ushered in a decade of significant change for the world economy. The fall of Communism and the increasingly successful economic liberalisation policies of the G7 countries, combined with rapid technological and transportation advance, led to major strides in the globalisation of world production, trade and investment.

[pause]

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I have been asked to try to get closer to the microphone. It is a bit short but I will try my best to manoeuvre as best as possible. So I will start over again if you will allow that.

Madam Speaker, as I said earlier, for the Cayman Islands, much of the 1970s and 1980s were marked by significant economic growth fuelled mainly by strong performances in the Tourism and International Financial and Business Services Sector and by significant inflows of foreign direct investment into real estate development.

The 1990s, however, ushered in a decade of significant change for the world economy. The fall of Communism and the increasingly successful economic liberalisation policies of the G7 countries, combined with rapid technological and transportation advances, led to major strides in the globalisation of world production, trade and investment.

This, in turn, had positive effects on the Cayman Islands Financial and Business Services and Tourism sectors and real estate market, and all enjoyed robust growth for much of that decade.

The Asian crisis of the late 1990s, however, brought a check to these gains and vividly demonstrated the growing interdependence of global markets and the accompanying increasing volatility of the global economy. Developing economies were now having a sizeable impact on the world economy. Subsequent to this occurrence the old adage, "When America sneezes Europe catches a cold and the rest of the world comes down with pneumonia," was possibly challenged for the first time since the OPEC (Organization of the Petroleum Exporting Countries) world crisis of the 1970s.

Following on the heels of the Asian crisis, the world economy began experiencing slow growth; a trend that prevailed since, and now more so after the tragic events of September 11. As a result, this slowing is forecasted to continue over the next 9 to 12 months or so and this too is expected to be the economic situation here in the Cayman Islands.

Over these three decades (the 1970s, the 1980s and 1990s), the Cayman Islands reinvented itself from the Islands that time forgot, to become a global leader in international financial and business services and a world-renowned tourist destination, particularly known for its diving.

The terms 'tax haven' and 'banks secrecy', which were the buzz words for earlier years, were replaced by 'offshore financial centre' and 'confidentiality' by the 1980s. More recently, terms such as 'privacy' and 'information gateways' have taken centre stage along with International Financial Centre concept. If asked, Madam Speaker, to summarise the Cayman Islands economic development experience over these past three decades, I would suggest that five major features could be used. These five features are as follows:

1. A reliance on substantial inflows of foreign indirect investment with relatively little indigenously sourced capital formation and investment. This has helped to create a domestic economy that is therefore more dependent on foreign investment inflows and thus, more prone to external economic shocks.

2. A higher emphasis on economic infrastructure development with less emphasis on environmental and social development issues. This makes the achievement of sustainable economic development over the longer term much more challenging for these Islands.

3. Substantial levels of public and private sector collaboration. This has been very effective in promoting economic development, but what of collaboration with the social and environmental sectors?

4. Public and private sector operations are focused more on growth than on efficiency. Therefore, these two sectors are not now easily able to adapt to periods of slower economic growth like that expected over the medium term.

5. An increasing reliance on two economic sectors, namely: the tourism sector and the financial and business services sectors.

Madam Speaker, there is now an urgent need to rethink our approach to the longer term development of these Islands. The tragic events of 11 September 2001 and the continuing conflict and uncertainty arising from these events, present not only another opportunity to assess our historical approach but also signals the emergence of new trends that will impact the conduct of global business for some time to come. Notwithstanding the immediate world situation, Madam Speaker, the main longer term challenge for these Islands remain maintaining its global leadership position in its two main industries while creating more balance in its development and meaningful growth opportunities for its people. This challenge would need to be met against a backdrop of increasing globalization of world economics, finance, labour and culture.

In response, Madam Speaker, the current Government has embarked on a course to collectively strive for a more inclusive and broad-based approach to the overall development of these Islands. This new approach will at the very least include some, if not all, of the following five main principles.

Firstly, a tripartite approach to national development which involves the active participation of public and private sectors. This approach will promote sustainable development and greater inclusion and balance in development and business opportunities for local residents.

In pursuit of a tripartite approach to national development, the Government:

- a) Has already adopted a tripartite approach to labour relations, created an employment services department and established an employment centre and plans to retrain frontline tourism and government staff. These initiatives are all being spearheaded by the Ministries of Human Resources and Tourism and will also involve the establishment of a tourism training centre.

- b) Establish a Cayman Islands investment unit within the Ministry of Development as a one-stop facility for foreign and local investors in order to promote and facilitate investment in the local economy.

- c) Establish a growth management bureau within the Ministry for Development. This bureau will promote balance including full consideration of economic, environmental and social issues in the development of the Cayman Islands; coordinate the implementation of Vision 2008; and regularly update the plan and oversee the formulation of a growth management strategy for the Islands.

- d) Resolve the key immigration and security of tenure issues for long term residents. This, Madam Speaker, is already underway.

- e) Pursue economic diversification through the expansion of information technology to promote e-commerce and e-business services spearheaded by the Ministry of Information Technology. This again is under way;

f) Establish a Cayman Islands Development Bank under the Ministry of Development and Commerce that will merge the existing AIDB and HDC into one organization. This, Madam Speaker, is already underway.

g) Actively promote and encourage small business development in all three of the Cayman Islands.

h) Create the necessary legislative framework conducive to the listing and trading of local companies on the Cayman Islands Stock Exchange. This will promote domestic capital formation and investment.

Secondly, a focus on the renewal of existing systems, those that work on reform and those that do not. Most importantly, on the introduction of new systems that are needed to move the provision of public services forward in a positive way. Actions to be taken under this heading include:

a) The phased implementation of the ongoing Financial Management Initiative (FMI) over the next five years. The reform was given legislated effect by the recently enacted Public Management and Finance Law 2001, and will fundamentally change the way in which the Government manages its affairs. Over time this will improve both the effectiveness and efficiency of government actions.

b) Phased implementation of the accepted recommendations of the review of the Cayman Islands Civil Service Commission by H. E. the Governor and carried out by the Civil Service College of the United Kingdom.

Thirdly, Madam Speaker, a focus on the attainment of greater efficiencies in the Government and business operations and not just on growth. Actions to be taken under this heading will include:

a) The pursuit of public and/or private partnerships in the provision of public services and the full privatization of other public services. This might include areas such as Radio Cayman, the Department of Vehicle and Equipment Services, Garbage collection, Debt collection and the like.

b) Nationalization and restructuring of Cayman Airways;

c) liberalization of telecommunications and a review of other utility sectors;

d) promotion of efficiencies in core government activities flowing from the Financial Management Initiative.

Fourthly, the strategic reorientation of the government machinery and of private businesses in order to meet new domestic and global challenges and opportunities. Actions to be taken under this heading include:

a) The encouragement of new businesses and the expansion of existing businesses based on e-commerce and e-business principles and practices;

b) education and training of the local labour force to promote efficiency in the provision of public services, facilitate the necessary strategic reorientation of public and private sector operations and enhance the competitiveness of local business;

c) introduction of legislation such as the Electronic Transaction Law, which has already been passed, the Proposed Information and Communications Technology Bill and the development of new consumer protection legislation in order to facilitate further e-commerce and e-business development;

d) re-examination and streamlining of our domestic import duty regime for items such as computer software, music, et cetera;

e) adoption of a much more strategic approach to government's own decision making and budget formulation as required by the recently enacted Public Management and Finance Law, 2001.

Fifthly, the implementation of a more selective and focused approach to marketing our international financial business and tourism services. Actions to be taken under this heading include:

a) The establishment of a Grand Cayman working group to develop a programme to integrate and refocus the marketing and promotional efforts of the public sector under a destination marketing concept. This will still allow for the customisation of individual sector messages and strategies.

b) Implementation of the related marketing and promotion recommendations of the tourism economic committee and of the first annual economic forum of the Chamber of Commerce.

Madam Speaker, in order to further the re-examination of our historical approach to the overall development of these Islands and provide advice on the way forward, the Government plans to establish a National Advisory Council. The Council will operate within a comprehensive framework and will comprise individuals from the public sector, the private sector and the social sector. As such, the underlying principles of the Council are consistent with the United Nations sustainable development; an Agenda 21 framework, which supports multi-stakeholder participation in and benefit from development.

The National Advisory Council will have three main sub-committees namely: the sub-committee for economic, social and environmental issues; the sub-committee for fiscal committees; and a sub-committee for legislative issues. The Council will not replace existing mechanisms for public and/or private sector collaboration such as the private sector consultative committee but will instead supplement them. The appointments to this Council and detailed terms of reference will shortly be announced.

The United Democratic Party Government has proposed a charter with Cayman which outlines the direction in which it will steer the Cayman Islands over the next three years. This Charter has as its genesis the Vision 2008 document and its importance to this Budget cannot be underestimated. That is, the Budget reflects the social, economic, cultural and capital development as articulated by the Government in the Charter.

Madam Speaker, before I move on to look at the world economy, I would like to speak to a milestone in the development of our vital financial services sector, being the signing of a tax information agreement with the United States.

I referred earlier to the need for Cayman to pay attention to global trends, to re-examine its historical approach to development and to reposition its businesses to take advantage of new opportunities in the global market. This new agreement, Madam Speaker, represents progressive thinking and will position the Cayman Islands' financial and business services sector to pursue new markets and new opportunities formally close to us. In particular, it ushers in a stronger relationship with our major trading partner (the United States), from which positive benefits are expected to flow. It will be the aim of the Government to seek to ensure broad participation within the financial and business services sector in the new markets and new opportunities that will emerge.

The information exchange agreement has several important features, which I will describe as follows: it is non-retrospective; it applies to criminal tax evasion for taxable periods commencing 1 January 2004, and to Civil and administrative tax matters for taxable periods commencing 1 January 2006. It covers federal income tax only, although there is provision to include other federal taxes by agreement of the parties. Information is to be provided on a request basis and not spontaneously and automatically. The definition of criminal tax evasion and the requirements to be met for a valid request for information are designed with the intent of both parties to eliminate fishing expeditions.

Any information provided under this agreement cannot be passed to any third party; this prohibition is in fact also a matter of United States law. This agreement, Madam Speaker, is not self-executing; that is, domestic legislation will be required to give effect to it.

Under the timelines in the agreement we have approximately two years to develop and implement the necessary legislation. The legislation and the agreement itself include safeguards and checks and balances so that the right to financial privacy and due process are not compromised. A dedicated separate channel for dealing with any request for information received will be established and a valid reason will have to be demonstrated prior to any information being provided.

The Cayman Islands, Madam Speaker, cannot secure its future by burying itself in the past. However, we must plan our future carefully and be true to fundamental principles. The ability to respond positively to change in this context will determine our future success. As always the economic interest and wellbeing of the Cayman Islands will continue to be paramount.

THE WORLD ECONOMY

The global outlook for 2001 has weakened significantly since the 11 September terrorist attacks, with declines expected in all major regions of the world. The world economy is expected to grow by 1.4 percent in 2001 compared to 4.7 percent in the year 2000. Much of the slowdown is due to events occurring in the United States. The first nine months of 2001 were marked by a deceleration of GDP growth in the United States economy. Third quarter GDP contracted by 0.4 percent and the forecast for the entire year is 1.1 percent, the lowest in a decade.

This week's growth reflects a number of factors. The most important are a slowdown in investment spending, a buildup in inventories, and a decline in consumer confidence. Consumer confidence remained resilient until the second quarter and then fell dramatically following the terrorist attacks.

In October, the Conference Board Consumer Confidence Index declined sharply to 85.5 percent, which is the lowest reading since 1994. Unemployment levels have been rising in the United States since the beginning of the year with massive job losses experienced in the various sectors. The unemployment rate is expected to rise from 4 percent in 2000 to 5.4 percent in 2001. This increase mainly reflects decline in manufacturing activity, the technology sector, primarily the dot-coms and more recently the airline and travel related industries.

Fortunately, Madam Speaker, consumer prices have remained low in 2001 and there have been no significant inflationary pressures. The threat of rising oil prices did not materialise given weak global demand. The slowdown in the United States economy has impacted on the growth of other regions of the world. The European Union is expected to grow by 1.8 percent in 2001, compared to 3.4 percent in 2000. Similarly, growth in developing countries is expected to be 2.5 percent in 2001 compared to 5.8 percent in the year 2000 and a Japanese recovery now appears remote.

Looking ahead, world growth is expected to be somewhat lower than the 2 percent projected by the United Nations for 2002. This is primarily because the United States' growth forecast for 2002 has recently been downgraded to just 0.8 percent. The United States economic stimulus package is not expected to have its full effects before June 2002. In general, the recent easing of macro-economic policy in the United States should support economic activity in the year ahead.

On the monetary side, the Federal Reserve Board has cut the federal funds rate ten times during 2001, reducing it by a total 450 basis points or 4.5 percent. This rate now stands at a historical low of 2 percent. In terms of fiscal stimulus, the Bush Administration recently announced a $99.5 billion package of business tax breaks, rebates for low income households, capital gain tax relief and extended unemployment benefits. This package together with the tax reduction in June, an emergency spending made just after the attacks should amount to an estimated $160 billion in 2002. It should be noted that although the pace and timing of a United States recovery are uncertain at this point in time; the strong economic fundamentals of the United States economy and its resilient structure indicate that it will recover.

THE DOMESTIC ECONOMY

Growth of the Cayman Islands economy slowed considerably in 2001. A rate of around 1.5 percent is expected at year-end compared to the earlier projection of 3 percent. The main factor influencing this downward trend is slow growth of the United States economy. The terrorist attacks of 11 September also exerted a negative impact on growth primarily through effects on the tourism industry. The annualised rate of inflation to September was 1.2 percent or 2 percentage points down from the previous year. This low rate of inflation was influenced by reduced fuel prices, declining interest rates and a softening of the rental segment of the housing market.

The results of the unemployment survey, which are expected by mid December, will provide an overall picture of unemployment. The unemployment rate is expected to increase in 2001, mainly as a result of job losses in the construction and tourism industries. However, this increase is likely to be only marginally higher than the estimated 4 percent for the year 2000. Businesses have opted to reduce working hours and make wage adjustments rather than re-trench workers.

In terms of sectoral developments, several sub-sectors in the financial and business services sector have shown positive growth but real estate and construction continue to decline. In the tourism industry performance has been mixed.

FINANCIAL AND BUSINESS SERVICES

In the first three quarters of 2001, the financial services industry recorded buoyant growth of mutual funds and captive insurance registration and positive but slow growth in stock market activities and CI dollar bank assets. New company registrations were down relative to the 2000 figure but not significantly changed compared to the previous five-year trend to 1999. Mutual funds continued strong growth of 19.8 percent in 2001, with registrations increasing from 2,900 in September 2000, to 3,476 in September 2001. This rate of growth was significantly lower than the 22 percent recorded in the previous year. The number of insurance licences increased from 545 to 564 mainly on account of an increase from captive insurance companies. The rate of increase in captive formation was higher in 2001 compared with 2000, and 2001 looks set to be best year ever for captives.

In the banking sector category 'A' bank and trust CI dollar assets were $837.2 million at the end of June 2001, compared to $825 billion at the end of June 2000. The number of banks and trust licences dropped by 4 percent, from 569 in September 2000, to 548 in September 2001.

The reduction in licences is as a result of bank mergers and retrenchments. The policy introduced in April 2001, on the residual private banks had an effect as well. The policy required that private banks without a physical presence establish a presence to the degree appropriate to their activities within a nine-month period and surrender their licences. To date, 24 of these banks have opted to surrender their licences, six have restructured to become subsidiaries and retain their licences and 12 licences have decisions pending.

The Stock Exchange had an unusually good year in 2000, doubling its market capitalization and listings. Performance in 2001, continue to be positive but the rate of growth is much reduced taking into account the natural attrition of listings due to maturities of which there were 44 in the first three quarters of 2001. Market capitalisation rose from $32.1 billion as at September 2000, to $34.8 billion as at September 2001, an increase of 7.7 percent. Listings grew from 387 to 405 over the same period, net of maturities. As a further comparison, growth listings for the first three quarters of 2001 were 418 compared with 495 for the first three quarters of 2001.

STOCK EXCHANGE

In 2001, the Stock Exchange was admitted to membership of the European Securitization Forum and the International Surveillance Group; two organizations valuable to the development of the Exchange. The Exchange also established a link with Euroclear Funds Settle System, which will be of benefit to the Exchange's, listed funds.

Company registration also had an unusually good year in 2000 when Hong Kong recognised the Cayman Islands as a jurisdiction for the registration of Chinese companies. The influx of new companies raised registration from 6,763 at September 1999 to 9,963 at September 2000. However, new registration of 6,680 for September 2001 represents a decline of 33 percent over the corresponding figure for September 2000.

TOURISM

Madam Speaker, official tourist arrival figures are available for January to June only. They reflect an increase in air arrivals of 2.4 percent, from 192,409 for the period January to June 2000 and 197,094 for the corresponding period in 2001. The terrorist attacks impacted negatively on the industry causing numerous cancellations and hotel bookings in September. The Cayman Islands Tourism Association estimated that hotel occupancy rates might have plummeted to as low as 10 percent in September. This suggests that third quarter figures for air arrivals will be much lower than previously expected.

Overall the hotel occupancy rate for the first three quarters of 2001 was 58.7 percent compared to 64.6 percent in the year 2000. The condos and apartments occupancy rate rose marginally from 47.2 percent to 48.3 percent. Cruise ship arrivals were more buoyant than air arrivals for the year increasing from 582,182 at the end of September 2000 to 627,251 at the end of September of 2001, an increase of 7.7 percent.

REAL ESTATE

The real estate market has experienced some volatility in recent years and pricing power was eroded in 2001 in response to slower sales. The value of real estate transfers fell from $141.9 million in September 1999 to $205.2 million in September 2000. However, in September 2001 this figure dropped to $144.6 million. The uncertainties in the United States economy have had an adverse impact on investor confidence.

CONSTRUCTION

The construction industry has experienced continuous declines since 1999. At the end of 2001 the value of approved developments was $130.1 million. This is a much lower figure than the $287.2 million registered at September 2000 and the $303.5 million at September 1999. The largest decline has been in the apartments category where approvals fell from $166.4 million at September 1999 to $34 million at September 2001. The value of building permits also showed a marked decline. In the first three quarters of 2001, this amounted to $67.2 million compared to $128.4 million over the same period last year. It is expected that the economic stimulus measures introduced on the 14 November will soon begin to reverse the preceding negative trends.

THE OUTLOOK FOR THE YEAR 2002

Given the unfavourable external environment, economic growth in the Cayman Islands is projected to slow further in 2002 to an estimated 1.1 percent, down from the estimated 1.5 percent in 2001. As mentioned earlier, several government initiatives are being undertaken to help cushion the adverse effects of a slowing United States economy and stimulate local economic growth. The Government recently announced concessions for a period of one year in the real estate market and construction industries as follows: a reduction in stamp duty on land transfers from 9 percent and 7.5 percent to 5 percent on or after the 14 November 2001.

A 50 percent reduction in building permit fees in all categories for all projects that have received planning approvals on or after the 23 November 2001. A 50 percent reduction on infrastructure fund fees for all projects that have received planning approval on or after the 14 November 2001. The concessions, together with the reductions in real estate agent fees and low interest rates, are expected to give a boost to the local economy. Attractive prices will stimulate demand in both the real estate market and the construction industry.

Overall tax concessions are expected to boost employment, spur growth in incomes and raise spending throughout the economy. In the Tourism industry the Ministry of Tourism and the Department of Tourism have adopted several initiatives of which the major ones include: a million dollar television advertising campaign in eight cities of the United States and Canada focusing on cities with direct non-stop air services; an additional 72 Cruise ship calls slated to bring in approximately 365,000 visitors to the Islands. Some of the ships will call on weekends thereby increasing the economic benefits to local businesses.

FORMATION OF THE LAND AND SEA COOPERATIVE

This will help to better promote on Island tours allowing smaller, local operators to benefit from tourism opportunities and a vibrant training programme to help train, retrain and improve service levels in front line staff that will include customs and immigration departments. This will be done in conjunction with the Caribbean Tourism Organization and the Community College.

The world of E-commerce and E-business is rapidly expanding and the Government has moved to take advantage of emerging opportunities. It intends to use E-business as a catalyst for diversifying the economy.

The Government's programme is geared towards promoting E-business both locally and internationally. It will put in place a comprehensive framework to facilitate the development and innovation in both E-business and E-government. This will include the legislative, regulatory, technical, physical and human resource aspects.

The new Information and Communication Technology (ICT) Bill will soon be presented to the Legislative Assembly and an ICT authority will be set up in early 2002. The new ICT Bill will subsume the existing broadcasting radio and telephone Laws. Pricing and marketing are two key areas that the Government is currently addressing as a matter of priority. Moves have already been made to liberalize the telecommunications sector with a time frame for the liberalization process to commence in 2002. New entrance into the market will help to drive down the price of information and communications technology services. This will undoubtedly assist in boosting the competitiveness of E-business. In terms of marketing, a two-prong approach is envisaged.

In the local market the intention is to launch a campaign to raise public awareness of the importance of e-business and to encourage local business to adopt e-business principles and technology. Secondly, an international marketing plan is to be developed to promote the Cayman Islands as an international E-business centre. For the financial services sector, Madam Speaker, in addition to the achievement of the tax information agreement with the United States Treasury Department, legislation will be brought forward during this Meeting to extend the access of the segregated portfolio company form and to provide a regulatory framework for the securities investment business. Both of these are expected by the industry to be beneficial to the financial industry sector.

Madam Speaker, in 2002 legislation for the independence of the Monetary Authority will be presented. The Monetary Authority is a highly strategic agency that is one of the guardians of our financial services sector. It has the responsibility to ensure that the regulation applied in the Cayman Islands recognises international standards and is appropriate to the business conducted in the Cayman Islands. It must also ensure that its policies, processes and procedures support, not undermine the financial services environment that the Cayman Islands wishes to maintain, in both the institutional and private client areas and it must engender confidence. This will require focused leadership and a concerted effort to eliminate inefficiencies or delays in key processes such as licensing. The performance standard that is to be met in this particular area is a turnaround time of two to four weeks on licences for financial services providers. The Monetary Authority will continue to have the Government's complete support towards these ends.

In terms of the international initiatives, Madam Speaker, such as that of the OECD on harmful tax practices, the European Union on the taxation of savings and the FATF (Financial Action Task Force) on anti money-laundering, these can be expected to continue. The intent of the Government is to position the Cayman Islands successfully in relation to these initiatives as they develop, following on from the OECD cooperative country status achieved in May 2000, the positive out turn for the KPMG review of October 2000, and the FATF cooperative country status achieved in June 2001.

Our anti money-laundering credentials are of critical importance; therefore two bodies have been set up in the wake of the FATF review. These are the Monetary Authority's Committee on the anti money-laundering guidance notes on which there is significant private sector representation and a Money Laundering Oversight Committee, chaired by the Attorney General and comprising the key government officials with responsibilities under our anti-money laundering framework. These bodies will ensure that our anti-money laundering framework remains current, as well as appropriately responsive to the relevant local and international developments.

The Government also recognises that public relations activity needs to be sustained in order to ensure that the correct information and messages about the Cayman Islands are conveyed at a governmental and political level. This is a long-term ongoing strategy and will require the Government to maintain a regular programme of direct contact with, for example, key persons on Capitol Hill. We have had some notable successes in this regard this year. The Government intends to maintain such a programme and to support the financial services sector in any supplementary public relations programmes it may wish to deploy in coordination with the Government.

PUBLIC SECTOR REFORM

Since the early 1990s, the portfolio of Finance and Economics has worked tirelessly to develop and implement financial management reforms to support more open and accountable governance. The primary focus of the earlier years was to build and implement financial management; an integrated resource information systems to support the fundamental change that was to follow. The new Public Management and Finance Law passed in September 2001, is therefore a significant and long awaited milestone for reform in the public service and signal the beginning of a new implementation programme for the broader Financial Management Initiative (FMI). The primary focus of FMI is to implement a results-based management system appropriate to the Cayman Islands.

Once fully implemented the FMI will require the Government to, firstly, plan and manage strategically and to debate and agree that strategy with the Legislative Assembly on an annual basis. This will provide a way to bring Vision 2008 into the mainstream of Government activity.

Secondly, link strategy to specific actions. This will be achieved through the introduction of output budgeting. Outputs are goods and services produced by the public sector.

Thirdly, budget and account for its finances on a much more complete and accurate basis. This will be achieved through the introduction of accrual accounting to replace the current cash accounting system.

Fourthly, bring in a new regime of open disclosure for budgeting and reporting. Members of the Legislative Assembly and the public at large will have access to detail performance oriented budget documents, not just for the Government as a whole but also for each ministry, portfolio, statutory authority and government owned companies. Executive Council and MLAs will also receive quarterly reports on the performance of each agency and on the government as a whole. These reports will include non-financial, as well as financial information and will be publicly available as soon as they are tabled.

Fifthly, delegate financial input controls to Ministries and Portfolios. This is necessary as we move from a centralised input control environment to a decentralised output and performance focus management system.

The FMI will be progressively implemented over the next five years. However, the first improvements are already evident. This year's budget process has been partly run along the lines required by the Law and this has resulted in better expenditure control. This year's Budget document has been prepared on an output basis. The Government's overall fiscal decisions have been made with the principles of responsible financial management in mind.

During 2002, Ministries and Portfolios will begin preparing output based quarterly reports as well as continue to prepare for the move to accrual accounting. Further improvements to the Budget document will be made for the 2003 Budget. That Budget will only be for a six-month transitional year as the Government moves to a 30 June Financial year from 1 July 2003.

Madam Speaker, fiscal transparency makes a major contribution to the cause of good governance. It leads to better inform public debate about the design and results of fiscal policy makes government more accountable for the implementation of fiscal policy; thereby strengthening credibility and public understanding of macro economic policies and choices.

The newly updated IMF (International Monetary Fund) Code of Good Practices on Fiscal Transparency was published in March 2001. If one were to evaluate the new Public Management and Finance Law 2001 and the ongoing financial management initiative against this code, both would be found to be congruent with the key principles of this code. It should be noted that compliance with this code is not mandatory for the Cayman Islands but as responsible global citizens we should strive to meet appropriate international standards wherever possible or feasible to do so. The updated code is based around the following four principles:

- There should be clarity of roles and responsibilities. In this regard the Government sector should be distinguished from the rest of the public sector and from the rest of the economy, and policy and management rules within the public sector should be clear and publicly disclosed. There should be a clear, legal and administrative framework for fiscal management.
- There should be public availability of information. In this regard, the public should be provided with full information on the past, current and projected fiscal activity of the Government and a commitment should be made to the timely publication of fiscal information.

- There should be open budget preparation, execution and reporting. In this regard, the budget documentation should specify fiscal policy objectives, the macro economic framework, and the policy basis for the budget, an identifiable major fiscal risk. Budget information should be presented in a way that facilitates policy analysis and promotes accountability. Procedures for the execution and monitoring of approved expenditure and for collection of revenue should be clearly specified. There should be regular fiscal reporting to the legislature and the public.
- There should be assurances of integrity. In this regard, fiscal data should meet accepted data quality standards and fiscal information should be subjected to independent audit and scrutiny. The code facilitates surveillance and better understanding of economic policies by country authorities, financial markets and international institutions. This is especially important to the Government as it attempts to restructure its debt portfolio and diversify its existing sources of development financing. By exploring new sources such as private placement of long term bonds. In this regard, Madam Speaker, it is instructive to note that the Cayman Islands received an AA3 rating in October 2001, from the International Rating Agency Modes Investiture Service. This rating puts these Islands on par with other more developed and much larger countries such as Italy, which also ranks as a high quality sovereign debt.

RECURRENT REVENUE FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 2001

Madam Speaker, I turn now to the expected out turn for fiscal year 2001 on recurrent revenue. Recurrent revenue is forecasted at $283.2 million down $28.1 million against the 2001 Budget of $311.3 million.

Although forecasted to be down, recurrent revenue is expected to exceed the 2001 Budget in the following main areas: gasoline and diesel $1.6 million; Cable and Wireless licence $1 million, work permit fees $1.1 million, and miscellaneous receipts $1.8 million.

Recurrent revenue is forecasted to be less than the 2001 Budget in the following main areas: motor vehicle $1.6 million, other import duty $13 million, stamp duty on land transfers $2.8 million, other stamp duty $3.6 million, tourist accommodation tax $1.4 million, mail terminal credits $800,000, company fees $2.7 million, debit transaction fee $1.1 million and warehouse fees $1 million.

Recurrent and statutory expenditure is forecasted at $314.3 million, $13 million less than the modified 2001 Budget of $327.3 million. Recurrent and statutory expenditure is forecasted to be less than the modified 2001 Budget in the following main areas: personal emoluments $6.4 million, other operating and maintenance services $4.3 million, grants, contribution and subsidies $1.1 million.

OTHER OUTFLOWS

Capital acquisition is forecasted at $4 million against the modified 2001 Budget to $4.8 million. Capital Development Fund expenditure is forecasted at $23.5 million against the modified 2001 Budget of $28.2 million. Transfers into the Housing Reserve Fund, Student Loan Reserve Fund and National Disaster Reserve Fund are forecasted as budgeted at $230,000, $100,000 and $400,000 respectively. Environmental Protection Fund receipts are forecasted at $3.4 million against a 2001 Budget of $3.6 million.

Infrastructure development receipts are forecasted at $1.4 million against the 2001 Budget of $2.9 million. Road development fund receipts are forecasted to equal the 2001 Budget provision of $400,000. The forecasted net deficit on the year 2001 is $4.9 million down $15 million against the modified 2001 net surplus of $10.1 million. Taken together with the net deficit of $10.2 million brought forward from 2000, this produces a forecasted accumulated net deficit of $15.1 million which is up $14.5 million against the modified 2001 budgeted accumulated net deficit $600,000. In order to help offset this amount, the Government plans to transfer $7 million from the General Reserve Fund, which would reduce the forecasted net deficit to $8.1 million, which will be financed entirely from 2002 recurrent revenue.

The General Reserve Fund balance is forecasted at $4 million as at 31 December after the planned transfer of $7 million to the accumulated surplus deficit fund to help finance the 2001 forecasted brought forward deficit of $15.1 million. The forecasted balances on the various other funds are as follows: Capital Development Fund $700,000, Environmental Protection Fund $4.6 million, Infrastructure Development Fund $1.6 million, Housing Reserve Fund $1.3 million, Student Loan Reserve Fund $300,000, National Disaster Reserve Fund $1.3 million, and Road Development Fund $400,000. These in all, total $10.2 million. It should be noted that based on information received from the Public Works Department, a sum of $4 million on the Capital Development Fund facility will remain un-drawn at year end and this amount will therefore be available to fund some capital expenditure in the year 2002.

Madam Speaker, the projected debt service ratio as at 31 December 2001 is 8.2 percent which is below the ceiling of 10 percent allowed by the new Public Management and Finance Law 2001.

I now turn to the brief explanation of each of the main strategies that underpin the draft 2002 Budget. The key fiscal strategies underlying this Budget are:

1. Ensuring a balanced budget.
2. Ensuring that all expenditure, recurrent statutory and capital acquisitions are funded from recurrent revenue and ensuring a contribution to capital development expenditure from recurrent revenue as well. The result of this strategy is that only $8 million in new borrowings is necessary in 2002 and this will be used exclusively to finance capital development expenditure.

3. Ensuring that a contribution to the General Reserve Fund of $1.5 million as a step towards creating the cash reserves required by the principles of responsible financial management in the new Public Management and Finance Law 2001.

The balanced budget strategy reflects the financial principle set out in Section 14(3) (a) of the new Law. That principle requires a true balanced budget where total operating revenue is more than operating expenses. This Budget has a proposed operating surplus of $15.4 million. The minimal borrowing strategy reflects the financial principle set out in Section 14(3)(c) of the new Law. The principle requires that borrowings be kept within the fine limits – that is, no more than 10 percent of recurrent revenue. The proposed new borrowings in 2002 of $8 million will bring the debt service ratio in 2002 to 8.6 percent which is well under the limit of 10 percent set out in the new Law. The proposed new borrowing of $8 million is significantly below the $55.5 million approved in 2001 yet the debt service ratio in 2002 is expected to increase to 8.6 percent. This increase in the projected debt service ratio from 8.2 percent at the end of 2001 to 8.6 percent at the end of 2002 may appear odd when borrowings in 2002 will be significantly less than in 2001.

The explanation for this oddity is that the principle repayments on the 2001 loans will not start until 2002. Hence, it is years 2002 and beyond that will bear the full effects of the loans drawn down in 2001. This accounts for the upward movement in the debt service ratio from 8.2 percent in 2001 to 8.6 percent in 2002, even though total new borrowings are significantly less in 2002.

The increase contribution to general reserve strategy reflects the financial principle set out in Section 14(3)(d) of the new Law. The principle requires that cash reserve to be built up to 90 days of operating expenses. This Budget has proposed a contribution of $1.5 million to the general reserves, another positive step towards achieving this principle.

The Government, having appointed the Minister for Planning, Communication, Works and Technology, with effect after 8 November, to work closely with the portfolio of Finance and Economics, has worked hard to ensure that the 2002 Budget achieves these strategies. The balanced budget strategy reflects the financial principle set out in Section 14(3)(a) of the new Public Management and Finance Law 2001. That principle requires a true balanced budget where total operating revenue, defined as recurrent revenue is more than total operating expenses, defined as recurrent and statutory expenditure excluding contributions to their reserve funds other than the pension fund. Measured on this basis this Budget therefore has a proposed operating surplus of $15.4 million. This proposed surplus has resulted from the following measures:

1. In line with the new Public Management and Finance Law 2001, the agreement of a strategic policy statement prior to the start of the budget process which led to the establishment of targets for the Ministries and Portfolios recurrent capital acquisitions and capital development expenditure. This approach is expected to realize $6.4 million savings in recurrent expenditure, which represents approximately 2.3 per cent savings over the 2001 Budget. Capital development expenditure is $16 million which is $12.2 million less than the 2001, a reduction of 43 per cent. Capital expenditure targets for 2003 and 2004 have been set at $30 million respectively.

2. An increase in government revenue by introducing new revenue measure in the financial services and business sector including increases in banking, insurance, mutual funds and corporate and company managers' licence fees, improving the collection of existing revenue and increasing government fees and charges so that they reflect the cost of the services provided for example, health services fees.

3. The removal of all funded vacancies from the 2002 Budget except where the recruitment process is already underway.

4. The introduction in the year 2002 of moratoriums on civil service cost of living adjustments and on civil service increments or merit increases.

5. The imposition of moratoriums on the creation of new civil posts and on the filling of existing vacant post except for absolutely essential services or where there are direct revenue or expenditure blocking off sets. As soon as possible a manpower control system will be implemented as an interim measure in conjunction with the budget and management unit and the personnel department.

6. The streamlining of multiple grants, waivers and reimbursements now given by the Government, for example announcements have already been made on the grant of seamen and financial assistance. Other areas that will be affected include waivers and reimbursements to the various non-profit associations for import duty, stamp duty, land transfers and mortgages and various other government fees such as planning, garbage and the like.

7. Curtailing all new services that require additional budgeted expenditure.

8. Holding the 2002 capital acquisition budget at $5.3 million.

9. Holding the 2002 capital development budget to $16 million. This has been achieved by re-programming the commencement date of certain projects and reprioritising others to commence in 2003. The minimum borrowing strategy, Madam Speaker, has been achieved by ensuring that the total recurrent statutory and capital acquisitions expenditure is lower than the operating recurrent revenue and the existing fund balances.

The draft 2002 Budget that I am about to propose is a truly balanced budget and has been shaped in the main by these policies. In addition, other fiscal strategies will be employed during 2002 that will directly impact expenditure levels but which have not been accounted for in the 2002 Budget. These include restructuring of the Government's debt portfolio with a view to reducing the annual debt servicing cost. This is planned for the completion in the first quarter of 2002. The creation of alliances with private sector partners to deliver selected public services; to ensure the correct usage of all future contingency warrants consistent with section 22 of the Public Finance and Audit Law.

THE 2002 BUDGET

Madam Speaker, the total 2002 Budget is $342.9 million and it is broken down as follows: Recurrent Expenditure $269.9 million, Statutory Expenditure $52 million, Capital Acquisition Expenditure $5 million and Capital Development Expenditure $16 million.

In addition, there is an estimated accumulated deficit to be carried forward from 2001 of $8.1 million as mentioned earlier. The total 2002 Budget of $342.9 million and the estimated 2001 accumulated brought forward deficit of $8.1 million will be financed as follows: Recurrent Revenue $335.1 million, brought forward balance on the Capital Development Fund $700,000, transfer from the Infrastructure Development Fund $2.3 million, transfer from the Road Development Fund $1.7 million, Capital Development Fund loan receipts of $ 12 million, which is broken down into $4 million un-drawn from the 2001 loans Law and proposed new borrowings in 2002 of $8 million. The estimated accumulated surplus as at 31 December 2002 is therefore $0.02 million. The projected balance on the General Reserve Fund at 31 December 2002 is $5.7 million. As mentioned previously, the projected debt service ratio at 31 December 2002 is 8.6 per cent, which would put it well below the estimated ceiling of 10 per cent.

REVENUE MEASUREMENTS

Madam Speaker, these are indeed challenging days for public finances at a time when the demand for public services continues to increase steadily. Against this backdrop the Government is very much aware of the potential impact that the national budget can have on the domestic economy.

In proposing any measure, the Government has to take into full consideration the availability of public revenues, past and expected public expenditure growth and other fiscal measures that are required to promote sustainable economic growth, while providing revenue to fund much needed public services. The Government has identified revenue measures for the year 2002 totaling $54.9 million. These revenue measures are absolutely necessary to help address deficiencies on the revenue side that have contributed to the divergence between what the country collects and what it spends on public services.

I will say much more on these revenue measures at the time of speaking on the various pieces of legislation that are required to affect the measures. For now, the proposed revenue measures and the incremental amounts expected from each category for the year 2002 are as follows: time share fee $1 million, gasoline and diesel duty $1.3 million (and this sum is to be set aside into the Road Fund for capital works on roads), banks and trusts licences $18,930,255, local vessel licences $0.5 million, postage stamps, bill of lading and courier charge $244,000, court fees and notary public $51,275, garbage fees $3,778,140, work permit fees $5,600,000, mutual fund administrators $7,401,100, insurance licences $1,298,850, traders licences $2,500,000, local company and corporate management fees $1,763,500, parking fees $1 million, health service fees, $9,485,534, the sum of $54,852,654.

Madam Speaker, a schedule is now being prepared that will show a breakdown of these fees, where they will be moving from and to the new levels. This will be provided to Honourable Members during the course of today's proceedings. All revenue measures will come into force on 1 January 2002 assuming, the legislation is passed prior to 31 December 2001 except the new health services fees slated to be phased in during the period January to April 2002.

Madam Speaker, in closing, I am honoured to recommend to this Honourable House a truly balanced Budget and The Appropriation Bill (2002), 2001 in the amount of $293.1 million which includes plan transfers into reserve funds of $2.2 million. As is customary The Appropriation's Bill, 2002 does not include statutory expenditure amounting to $49.8 million, which is covered by other legislation and which include debt service payments, pension payments and contributions to the Public Service Pensions Fund.

Madam Speaker, the presentation of this Budget address and the 2002 Budget, marks the tenth with which I have had the honour to be directly associated. I say this to also record my sincere gratitude to the staff of the Portfolio of Finance and Economics. In particular, I would like to single out the Deputy Financial Secretary, Mr. Joel Walton, the two assistant financial secretaries, Miss Deborah Drummond, and Mr. Kenneth Jefferson. I would like to also mention Mr. Peter Gough who has worked assiduously in the preparation of this Budget together with the staff in this Department.

Also, I would like to mention the Accountant General and the civil service in general without whose support this would not have been possible. I would also offer my deep thanks to Members of this Honourable House past and present with whom I have had the distinct pleasure of working over the past 10 years.

Thanks to you, Madam Speaker, for allowing this Budget address and the tabling of the relevant documents and may God continue to bless these beloved Cayman Islands.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

MOTION TO DEFER DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS

The Speaker: Honourable Member do you wish to move your Motion at this particular juncture?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I beg to move that the Second Reading debate on the Appropriation (2002) Bill, 2001 and the Budget Address be deferred until Monday, 10 December 2001.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question is that the debate on the Budget Address be deferred until Monday, 10 December 2001. Does any Member wish to speak? If not, then I shall put the question that the Budget Address be deferred until Monday 10 December 2001. Those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

Ayes.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Budget Address shall be deferred until Monday, 10 December 2001. At this time I shall suspend proceedings for 15 minutes.

AGREED: THE SECOND READING DEBATE ON THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL, 2001 (THE BUDGET ADDRESS), DEFERRED UNTIL MONDAY,
10 DECEMBER 2001.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.52 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.19 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Please be seated.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46(4)

The Clerk: Suspension of Standing Order 46(4).

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, in order to take the Bill through its different stages today we propose the suspension of Standing Order 46(4) and I so move.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 46 (4) be suspended.

Does any Member wish to speak? If no Member wishes to speak then all those in favour, please say Aye. All those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46(4) SUSPENDED.

THE CAYMAN ISLANDS DEVELOPMENT BANK BILL, 2001

The Clerk: The Second Reading, The Cayman Islands Development Bank Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Commerce.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you.

Madam Speaker, the Cayman Islands Development Bank Bill, 2001 establishes a bank to consolidate and assume the function of both the Agricultural and Industrial Board and the Housing Development Cooperation. In that regard all rights, powers, privileges, liabilities and functions, of those entities will be transferred to the new bank. Both the AIDB and the Housing Development Cooperation (HDC) will then be dissolved. A long-standing and widely recognised problem within the community has been the challenge of raising capital and providing consolidated professional services to promote Caymanian enterprise and home ownership.

While the existing entities have served the Cayman Islands well over the years, they have proven too restricted to keep pace with the local demand for affordable housing and development assistance. This Bill, Madam Speaker, responds to a great need in our society to provide a local consolidated mechanism, which is equipped to address these challenges in various sub-sectors including human resources, businesses and housing. In this regard the Bank will provide financing and technical expertise.

By proceeding with the natural progression, from boards to a full service development bank, the country will have greater ability to have access to international funds, as these lending institutions tend to give little regard to mere boards. Then, Madam Speaker, once established, the new Bank will be better aligned to cater to the needs of our society by shifting the consideration process from issues purely of collateral, security and profit to include wider considerations of social good by strengthening local professional capacity and expertise.

These challenges, Madam Speaker, are great. These are challenging times for everyone, but the low-income earners and micro entrepreneurs have been particularly hard hit by recent economic trends. In this regard the Bank we hope will respond by developing specialised programmes which will actively seek to cater to these disadvantaged groups. Madam Speaker, because of the condition of world economics and its effects on these Islands, a major need was raised for us to develop self-sufficiency by facilitating indigenous business enterprises where we have depended heavily upon imports for instance. The strategic planning exercise of this new Bank has identified the need for micro enterprises in three main areas:

1. Information technology
2. Agro-business
3. Industrial

Some examples include cottage type industries, agro-processing industries, Internet and web-base enterprises and small manufacturing concerns.

The Cayman Islands Development Bank will provide the fundamental tools needed to promote nation building and indigenous ownership within these Cayman Islands. The Bank will have at its core a mission to enhance opportunities for Caymanians who have entrepreneurial ambitions but require access to basic resources and technical expertise. Indeed in some circumstances the Bank may be of benefit to some veteran small businesses which require financial assistance to expand capital or technical counselling to promote efficiency.

Madam Speaker, recognising that the market demands keen technological management and financial skills, the goal is to provide the tools for new and existing small businesses to be better able to compete and thrive among larger more modern competition. By providing a source of funding and expertise the Bank will be geared to assist Caymanians and residents in implementing sound business practices in order to facilitate their achieving a greater share in the activity and profits of the Caymanian economy.

Given the pressing need for such an entity, the Bill does make allowances for future growth if the growth of the Bank if, and when, Madam Speaker, this should prove necessary. The Bill provides for the Bank to establish branch offices if the need arises, but in particular in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. This Bill establishes three main bank duties and functions:

1. Business development
2. Student credit
3. Housing

Madam Speaker, Members will note that the responsibility for housing has shifted from my Ministry to the Ministry of my Honourable colleague, the new Minister of Community Services. He will carry out programmes and policies for housing, while my Ministry, through the Development Bank, will provide the funding.

Within the Bill, Madam Speaker, the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons state that “the CIDB will provide finance for the development of approved enterprises in the following six areas of the economy: agriculture, industry, e-commerce, tourism, housing and human resources.” The Board of the CIDB will comprise seven directors. Madam Speaker, the directors may only hold office for a term not exceeding two years, but shall be eligible for reappointment only for an additional term of two years. The Board is expected to meet at least once every three months. Madam Speaker, no Member of the Legislative Assembly will be eligible for appointment as a director of the Cayman Islands Development Bank. As Chairman of the present Agricultural and Development Board, Madam Speaker, I will now relinquish that appointment. The main functions of the Bank are detailed in the Law but can be summarised in four distinct areas:

1. Making loans and advances to any person or enterprise, government, public or statutory authority, or cooperative within the Islands.
2. Promoting the development of the Islands particularly in the area of agriculture industry, e-commerce, tourism, housing and human resources.
3. Providing advice, financial counseling, management consulting and technical assistance in relation to any of the above functions and Madam Speaker, formulating any studies which it considers as necessary.

The Cayman Islands Development Bank also has several new features which were not in effect previously. These include the ability to issue bonds and debentures for raising funds, the ability to appoint a receiver in the event that any project appears to be in serious jeopardy and the Bank's establishment and maintenance of a reserve fund of not less than 20 percent of the net income of any financial year.

It is important, Madam Speaker, to point out that the Monetary Authority has the responsibility for oversight and financial regulation of the Bank. Madam Speaker, this is a milestone in the life of the country; this is gigantic step for mankind in the Cayman Islands in the life of the United Democratic Party government. This Bank will serve the people we represent, well.

Madam Speaker, there are at least three main problems that we experience as a country in assisting our people: Firstly, there is a savings problem; the need for capital accumulation. Secondly, there is a pioneering problem, the need to make use of opportunities for investment. Thirdly, and lastly, is a governmental problem: the need to demonstrate that this is a sensitive and dynamic Government attuned to the needs of our people. These we consider to be fundamental issues in economic development. How then do we help our people? That is the question. Madam Speaker, there is much debate, as to whether government or the private sector is more important for economic development.

Our present condition dictates, Madam Speaker, that we cannot merely rely on the private sector to address these challenges. Government must come into the picture playing a more positive role. We consider this initiative, the creation of a development bank, to be the catalyst for more involvement in the economic development of our Islands by our people, by increasing the level of funding available for them to make the maximum use of investment opportunities.

Madam Speaker, people must save and as a government we can only encourage that. We must also have an economy in which people can save. Government must also provide ways of encouraging its people to be pioneers in their own country. It is within this context that the Government is channeling its efforts to provide the necessary leadership to promote the growth of local enterprise by our people. This, Madam Speaker, is an objective, which I hope both sides of the political divide can appreciate and support.

Finally, Madam Speaker, on behalf of this Honourable House, I wish to publicly commend the work of the two former agencies—that is, the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board and the Housing Development Cooperation and its various board directors. They have given quality service over the years and they have laid the foundation on which the new Cayman Islands Development Bank could have been structured.

I also pay credence to those minds, Madam Speaker, who over the years have given thought, and spoken many times in this honourable legislature and in the public and various forums on the need for the creation of a development bank and proper funding for such a bank—Members of the United Democratic Party being foremost amongst them, Madam Speaker.

I trust that Caymanians will take pride in the formation of this historic institution as it seeks to become a pillar in the economy of these Cayman Islands. Madam Speaker, I am sorry that more time was not available for this Bill, although it has been in the making for a long time. However, that is the pressure of Government's day-to-day operation. I trust that all Members in this Honourable House will understand that and not try to make or get political mileage by stating otherwise.

In closing Madam Speaker, I recommend to this Honourable House the Cayman Islands Development Bank Bill, 2001 for Members support.

Thank you, very much.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you.

Madam Speaker, I rise to make a short contribution to the debate on this important Bill. As I indicated earlier this morning, Madam Speaker, I regret deeply having been handicapped in preparing my contribution because of the very serious shortness of time which has been afforded all Honourable Members of this House in relation to this matter

Madam Speaker, I also deeply regret and resent the indecent haste with which this matter is proceeding to this Honourable House. It is again, Madam Speaker, further evidence of the imperious nature of the new Government. In the relatively short time since they have attained office, we have seen, Madam Speaker, more than one demonstration that they are prepared to sacrifice due process and proper procedure—

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker on a point of order.

The Speaker: What is your point of order?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Member is misleading the House and thus he will be misleading the country. There is no taking away of due process. The Standing Orders of this legislature gives any Member the right to ask for a suspension of Standing Orders. Any other measure or action that he talks about was done constitutionally. This is being done constitutionally, perhaps some people do not understand constitutional.

The Speaker: I have listened carefully and I would concur with your point of order and would ask the Honourable Second Elected Member from the district of George Town if he would refrain from using such imputations and if he would also take it a step further and withdraw that remark which was unnecessary.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I withdraw the remark that due process has been sacrificed on the altar of expediency in the moving of this Motion and the suspension of the relevant Standing Orders.

The Speaker: I thank you. Please continue.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, the Honourable Minister of Tourism referred to this Motion or to this Bill as a gigantic step for mankind in the Cayman Islands. Madam Speaker, I believe you will forgive me if I am disappointed and resentful that I have been prevented from participating in the way in which I would do. The way in which those who elected me to this office expect me to do regarding taking that gigantic step. Madam Speaker, the Bill seeks to establish Cayman Islands Development Bank. I ask again, in a matter of this significance whatever Standing Orders may provide, is it right that those of us who do not live with the Government should be deprived of the opportunity to properly peruse and debate this Bill? Is that fair to us, Madam Speaker? Is it fair to the people of this country? Does what we have to say count for naught Madam Speaker?

Madam Speaker, Standing Orders are established so that all concerned in the business of this Honourable House know what to expect. The suspension of Standing Order is a matter that should—

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Member—

The Speaker: What is your point?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: On a point of order. The Member is repeating himself, he knows that . . . well it is becoming very tedious because it is continuing.

The Speaker: Thank you, I have listened and I think there is still some scope for him to continue in his debate. I would ask if he would exercise due diligence and care in his debate to ensure that he stays within the rules of debate and not enter into the sphere of tedious repetition.

Please continue.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am grateful to you for acknowledging that I had not repeated myself. I was about to say that the suspension of Standing Orders is permitted by the Standing Orders itself. However, it is a matter that should be done only when there is a real good reason to do so: when it does not affect the ability of the minority Members of this Honourable House from having the ability to contribute to the debate. That is my complaint, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, given the shortness of time afforded, I have not been able to peruse the Bill in any detail, but I do have one serious policy concern—Madam Speaker, I should pause here to say that this is one of the complaints that was leveled at the First Elected Member for George Town by the West Bay Members of the Back Bench, namely the lack of communication.

I hear the Honourable Minister of Tourism say that this Bill has been in the works for some time and he is asking if I attended meetings. I want him, Madam Speaker, in his reply to tell the Honourable Members of this House which meetings I did not attend.

The Speaker: Honourable Members I should be most grateful if we would refrain from crosstalk and endeavor to conduct the debate at the highest level of decorum as possible.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am on my feet and at the microphone.

Madam Speaker, I have never had any discussion; I have never had the benefit of any explanation as to the policy that drives this piece of legislation. Even in the short time that I have had to consider the matter, I have real concerns about whether or not the Cayman Islands Government should enter the banking business.

Madam Speaker, I agree with them that much of the policy existed since I have been in this Honourable House and supports the former Government because I see much of that in the Budget presented today. I do agree about the need for government to privatise certain aspects of its operations and at a time like this, when that is supposed to be one of the policies that underlie the current Budget, I seriously question whether it is advisable for this Government to establish a bank. It appears to me, Madam Speaker, that we are talking about a retail operation.

Madam Speaker, who in Government is qualified to establish and operate a bank? Are we going now, Madam Speaker, to have to employ new personnel again and set up new and more expensive machinery? Would it not have made more sense to create a policy to encourage other lending institutions to establish themselves in these Islands, those who were prepared to operate outside the current cartel? I have expressed concerns in this Honourable House and elsewhere about the apparent reluctance of financial institutions in the Cayman Islands to lower their interest rates, to afford more opportunity to the people of this country, to be able to establish business and to have access to cheap money. I share that concern. However, I do not believe that at this stage in Cayman's development what we should now be doing is creating a new banking institution.

I remember the old Government savings bank, which operated for a long time in what I shall call the genesis of Cayman's development; a very necessary institution. Are we now going back to the Government establishing a lending institution and a savings institution to compete with private banks? A gigantic step backwards! Madam Speaker, I really, really wish that I had had the opportunity to give careful consideration to this matter and to be able to contribute more fully to this debate. I am sure that there are other concerns which would have come to me had I been given that opportunity, but Madam Speaker, on the big policy question which I have identified, I certainly cannot support this Bill.

Thank you.

The Speaker: At this time the House will be suspended for lunch until 2.30 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.53 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.35 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Please be seated. The continuation of the debate on the Cayman Islands Development Bank Bill, 2001. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs.

Dr. the Hon Frank S. McField: Thank you Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I would like to, first of all, congratulate you again for being in that very high and honoured position. I would like to go on to say that I shall hopefully not attempt to delay the passage of this Bill to create a Cayman Islands Development Bank simply because I have had the opportunity to be familiar with some elements of this concept that go as far back as the 1980s. That was when the now deceased and National Hero Mr. Jim Bodden had plans to somehow be able to do more in the area for small businesses, for low income dwellings, agricultural development, and in fact, to assist with the diversification of the Caymanian economy. So it was perceived from the very beginning that the participation of the financial community in this country was not sufficient. They did not regard the solutions to these economic issues as urgent and in fact, also assisted greatly in the creation of social problems in the Cayman Islands.

Madam Speaker, I think that it is important that we realise what is happening here today. This Bill is asking that the two named corporations, the Industrial Development Bank and the Housing Development Corporation, be amalgamated to form one entity. This entity will now be able to receive deposits which in my opinion, gives it even more possibilities to be successful in achieving its objectives and the missions which we all believe correct. That is, that there needs to be a financial entity in the Cayman Islands that regards as urgent the need to assist with small business development and with the development of low income or affordable development in the Cayman Islands.

So, Madam Speaker, I am fortunate to be on this side of this Honourable House as the Minister presently responsible for Housing. As strange as it might appear to some of my colleagues, that I might be supporting the Government rather than supporting the Opposition at this time, it is just a reversal in roles. Perhaps I understand a little bit more about the psychology that is involved here. My colleague, the Second Elected Member from the district of George Town gets up to protest that he had not been given sufficient time to go through the paper. As a non-lawyer I realise it is basically a charter. So from a legal perspective it would probably not be too significant except to ensure it is legally correct.

I think we can trust that to a certain extent the Attorney General and the legal draft persons have traditionally made sure that Bills brought to this Honourable House have at least that type of professional attention. Therefore, we do not necessarily, Madam Speaker, at this particular point need a lawyer other than those that are capably rewarded, tested and placed in position by the Government.

I do believe that because my honourable colleague the Second Elected Member from George Town is a lawyer, sometimes we tend to let old habits die slowly. Perhaps that is exactly the pain that he is experiencing as the old habits of scrutinising and having to pay attention to these details begin to dwindle as he begins to assume the role of a legislator. That role demands more of an overview and a more precise position with regards to whatever Bill is here. Since I have been here one of those Members stated that a Bill is not just a legal document. It expresses the wishes of those persons that have been involved in bringing it to the legislature. This Bill, Madam Speaker, which seeks to bring to reality a dream which many of us have shared in this country for a very long time, speaks to the issue of low income dwellings for persons that we know badly need some type of assistance.

Now the Member, my colleague from George Town, the Second Elected Member, knows very well that we have very incredible housing problems in the district of George Town. In the Cayman Islands as a whole, but in the district of George Town in particular, as far as I am concerned, we know that the cost of property, the cost of materials, the cost of building is making it prohibitive for many of our people to continue to have some kind of positive relationship with land and with homes or some kind of dwelling. So the urgency I think, Madam Speaker, of bringing this Bill today was expressed by the Minister responsible this Bill. When the Leader of Government Business says conditions are being established at this moment by the Caribbean Development Bank with regards to lending us a certain amount of money, we need this piece of legislation to be in place within a particular time. Otherwise it would not be possible for us to get this money at this point and we would therefore be delayed.

Madam Speaker, I must say that I would not like for my strategies on affordable housing to be the main part of our strategy to deal with social decay and disintegration. We would not like that to be handicapped simply because one Member or two Members felt that they had not been able to acquaint themselves with the legal document; which I have said before is simply being used to create this Bank or to create this legal entity. So we are basically dealing with legal issues here.

Therefore, what I need to therefore stress to the Honourable Member, who I know is passionate about the people, is that the urgency of paying attention to this particular situation has been more than signaled by many persons who have campaigned in this country and have said every four years they are going to be dealing with these particular issues. However, they have never, Madam Speaker, put the instruments in place to make sure that the urgency which they communicated to the general public would be taken seriously. They would have had the vehicle to bring this urgency and concern into being and now the Cayman Islands Development Bank, will give us such an instrument.

It is time that we proceed. It is interesting that the Second Elected Member for George Town would start by being critical of the way in which we went about bringing this Bill to the Legislative Assembly. However, he switched and when that argument was not making the point that he felt it should make, he then says well maybe then, Madam Speaker, we do not need to be getting into the banking business after all.

Madam Speaker, we do not need to get into the banking business, but we need to make sure that the interests of our people are protected regardless of how we need to do that. If we do it by the partnership between government and the private sector or a partnership with government and its social partners, the people . . . whichever way we do it, it is important that we do something in order to relieve the poor working people in this country of the kinds of inconveniences which have always been attached to the lack of suitable dwellings.

I have no sympathy for the man who sleeps all day, has no ambition and has no house. If he can be helped then there should be some charity out there that helps him. However, from the point of view of the Government, I have much sympathy and much concern and I would like to help greatly those people working for very low wages and who at the same time need funds to rent accommodations that are in many cases substandard. Madam Speaker, they have been in this situation for so long with the same promises from the same politicians, that say wait, wait until tomorrow, wait until the minds and the conscience of the banking community changes to the point where they understand the urgency of solving this problem at the same level that we do!

Madam Speaker, I have been involved in a study that deals with social breakdown and with youth violence in the Cayman Islands. I can tell you that by the time the children get to Northward, they are already prepared to live in close quarters, in substandard conditions. We socialise them in what we call the homes in which they live, so that by the time they get there, they are very well accustomed to those types of dwellings and conditions. So, how long must we wait before we create the instruments to bring them the types of solutions that they have been crying for, at least since the 1980s when the Honourable Jim Boden was a Member of this House?

I can remember, Madam Speaker, in 1980 the important role in that prisons, or low income or affordable housing played in my first political manifesto. Even back in 1980—21 years ago, Madam Speaker—it was important for each politician in this country to begin to talk about the need for housing. The banks in this country have had at least 21 years since they have been on notice that something must be done, at least to create the kind of interest rates for mortgages to allow the poorer working people to afford dwellings for themselves. How long must we wait?

I can only say, Madam Speaker, I made it quite clear on 8 September 2000 that I was attempting to gain a position in this Honourable House as Minister to hopefully be responsible for housing. I had meant to read, with your permission, a little piece from a bulletin that I published at that time. However, I am having a little bit of a problem locating it and perhaps for a good reason.

Madam Speaker, in concluding I just wanted to say that I really feel we must urgently come to the point to allow people to understand that it is not just 'politricks'. That is, some of us do sincerely feel what they feel, think what they think, and know what they know, when it comes to the importance of having some little place that is decent and clean. Some little place, Madam Speaker, that you can call your own. Some piece of land where you can allow that breadfruit tree to grow. Many of us have accomplished that at some point in the early parts of their lives. I accomplished it only in 1996 and I am still paying a mortgage. At least I know that I am closer to that feeling of ownership, by paying a mortgage instead of renting. So to be able to get into the mortgage system is an important stage in ownership.

Madam Speaker, one thing that I have learned is that when you go the bank, the bank always asks you for equity. If you do not have a house or piece of property paying mortgage on you have nothing. So, if you bought the house for $90,000 and you had the good fortune that prices went up and the house is not worth $150,000, you have a little equity in there that you can go and borrow money from the bank and do a little business or something like that. So, let us not fool ourselves about the importance of people being assisted to get on the road of earning. When I am talking about the Bank, it is from the perspective of what it will do in its mission statement in dealing with housing.

That is in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, Madam Speaker, where it says that, "The bank will also undertake the provisions of finance for the acquisition and the improvement of dwellings and for the attendance of persons at approved courses of education." So, Madam Speaker, the mission of the Bank is important because the commercial mission of a bank is not the same. I bet the commercial mission of Cayman National Bank is to make profits, whereas this mission is for social good. There is a difference between social good and profits because social good puts people above profits.

It is important for the Second Elected Member for George Town to realise that even as a lawyer it is important for him to realise the difference in the institutions and their priorities. Madam Speaker, it is important for us to understand that people out there have said, 'you have all said, that you were going to help us with housing.' I want to make it clear that I would like to help people that would like to help themselves. I would definitely not be used to help people who believe that the State should be solely responsible. Maybe the Second Member for George Town meant to suggest somehow that maybe there should remain a division between the private sector and the public sector in terms of where government ventured into the commercial aspects.

That is, he is more or less saying that the Government cannot manage because Government does not put profits above people. That the Government is always seeing the social good and it is only when you see the profit above people that you can be a success in business. There are a lot of people out there that are attacking governments and saying that governments worldwide are failures when without governments, the whole world would collapse. There would be no social order! We saw that on 11 September. We saw the important roles that government play in maintaining solidarity in the society, in maintaining law and order and in maintaining what is good.

So, let us not give what should be done by us to other people who have different purposes and missions in this life. Our mission is to make sure that the social good is established and maintained; not that the profits are established and maintained. So, as a result of that, sometimes we need different types of vehicles that resemble the commercial institutions but have different formats, because they are going to seek to really alleviate the difficulties and sufferings of another class or kind of people. That is important for us to maintain.

It is not an issue about the West Bay contingent versus the George Town Members, as again has been brought back into the debate, Madam Speaker. I think it is absolutely essential that people understand that I am in this position because I campaigned on this position. That once I had the opportunity to be in this seat I seized the time because I do believe, Madam Speaker, in the social good, I do believe that I can contribute.

That Member from George Town might not necessarily agree with my assessment of my ambitions and he might think that I am being too kind towards myself, but it is not ambition that I am afraid of, Madam Speaker; it is the fact that there are certain people that continue to underestimate the abilities of people who have trained and sacrificed in order to be in the position to make decisions. When you are in the position to make decisions, you do not have to dream about it, you do not have to think about it, you make the decision because your entire life has been spent waiting for that day. One would be a real fool if one had spent all those years as idle as people thought you were. If you had not prepared yourself psychologically to seize the time, and opportunity to make a difference to the lives of those people that you have been with, slept with, ate with, that you are a part of, Madam Speaker. I do not necessarily mean that you are part of at convenient times but you are part of because biologically, sociologically, culturally and other ways you are a part of those folks.

So, Madam Speaker, I have come to the defense of this Bill and I have come to the defense of the Minister who has brought this Bill. I have come to say, that we all know what should be done. The problem is we disagree in how to do it. However, I believe that the way this is being done today will make this Island better and at the end of the day it will have the support of the majority Members in this House and I believe that is the democratic way. However, if those who feel that this machinery is not necessary, I believe, they are also saying at this particular point that the urgency to solve some of the problems that it purports to be able to deal with, are not urgent as well. So I caution them, Madam Speaker, and I will take my seat.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Members. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Elected Member for the district of East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, as I rise to make a short contribution to the Bill before us, a bill to establish the Cayman Islands Development Bank I have to first of all say that I am not a lawyer. Unlike the Second Elected Member for George Town who understands the intricacies or finer details of Law, I do not. However, I believe that I am intelligent and qualified enough to understand when I read something and certainly I am deserving of sufficient time to be able to digest it and understand it.

In so saying, I was a little bit disappointed when I arrived in this Honourable House this morning and found that a White Paper that I received yesterday was on the Order Paper this morning. Madam Speaker, over many years this has been the type of conduct by previous governments. The country has spoken about Members of this Honourable House who on occasion were not afforded the opportunity to read and digest and contribute to the debate in a meaningful way—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Point of order.

The Speaker: Please state your point of order.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: The Standing Order 35(2). The Member is seeking to revive debate and consideration on a motion that has already been passed, which is the timing of bringing this Motion to this Honourable House.

The Speaker: Honourable Elected Member for East End, I should be grateful if in debating that you make every attempt not to infringe the stated Standing Order and at this time if you would please continue.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker on a point of clarification for me so that I can understand where I was infringing, because I have no knowledge of that.

The Speaker: If you could now continue on your debate please.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: All right Madam Speaker, I bow to your ruling.

Madam Speaker, I was saying that I was not given the opportunity to digest this Bill, but I was going on to say—for the benefit of Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac—that, like the Minister responsible for Housing, I have always had a dream to see Caymanians other than myself and they may very well be in my economic bracket, have something to call their own; in particular a home. So, Madam Speaker, it would be quite foolish of me to oppose a vehicle for that end, but certainly there are Honourable Members who like to jump the gun.

My opposition (if we may call it that) to this Bill, is merely that I did not get sufficient time to review it. I am sure the Minister for Housing and the Minister for Tourism will understand my desire to see something done for the country in that area. That is, in the last year I worked very closely with the Minister for Tourism to try and get something rolling. Two weekends ago the Minister for Housing was on site while I, along with another organisation this country, were trying to do the same thing—the identical thing, which was to help one individual build a little kitchen.

So, Madam Speaker, with respect to the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac, he must clear his holster before he starts shooting or he will get shot in the foot. The head will be next!

Madam Speaker, I continue to be committed to whatever I can do in this country to ensure every Caymanian who qualifies is capable of moving in to their little home. I trust that this Bill, (which the United Democratic Party, I know, will get the passage necessary), will make the whole country inclusive, by providing loans for housing. Madam Speaker, as I said earlier I only received this Bill late yesterday evening. Nevertheless, between then and this morning I had an opportunity to look at a few things in it and a couple of those things that came right out at me I would like to touch on, keeping in mind I have not had the opportunity to read it all and digest it. I would like the Minister responsible for Commerce to respond to this in his response.

Madam Speaker, in the Memorandum of Objects and Reason item 6 it said that, “The Bank shall have the capacity to obtain funds from international agencies banks and other financial institutions or from the public for the purpose of re-lending such funds within the Cayman Islands.”

All well and good, Madam Speaker, I just wonder and if possible the Minister, could tell this Honourable House, for instance what ‘from the public’ means. There is another section, that I would beg some explanation on, that is section 12(1) of the Bill. Where it says, “In the exercise of its powers and discharge of its function the Bank shall conform with any general directions on matters of policy given to it by the Minister in the public interest.” That is subsection (1) of section 12 and subsection (2) says, “The bank shall give to the Minister such information or advice as he may require as to the performance of its function under this Law.”

Madam Speaker, I wonder if it is not in the best interest of such an institution to be governed by the Financial Secretary of country; the Third Official Member. I have concerns regarding a Minister being responsible for a bank regardless of which Minister it is, Madam Speaker. There are certain fiduciary responsibilities that need to be recognised.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: [inaudible comment]

The Speaker: Please state your point of order.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, Standing Orders clearly govern the rules of debate and I have listened carefully to the Member for East End, and I have watched carefully how he selected 1 and 2 without subsection (3) of section 12 of the proposed Bill. Madam Speaker, Standing Order 35(4), “No Members should impute improper motives to another Member.”

Now Madam Speaker, for the Member to say that it is improper for a Minister to be in charge of a bank without clarifying the point, to show that subsection (3) of section 12 clearly says that the bank does not need to comply with the Minister's decision, is misleading.

The Speaker: Honourable Elected Member for West Bay, I have listened with great care to your explanation I do not find it to be a point of order at this particular juncture. I will continue to listen carefully and should you realise a similar circumstance that falls within the ambit, do feel free to call it to my attention again.

At this time I would ask for the Honourable Elected Member for the district of East End to please continue with his debate.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, again, I was going on to say there are certain fiduciary responsibilities that anybody in charge of a bank has, even though subsection (3) says that, “When the Bank determines that compliance with such a direction would be commercially or otherwise unsound the Bank shall not be under any duty to comply with it until the Governor in Council has given the Bank a written undertaking that the Government will reimburse the bank for any losses incurred in relation to that compliance.”

Now, Madam Speaker, I respect the Second Elected Member for West Bay for rising on that point.

He obviously did not give me the chance I deserve to go on to complete what I was about to say.

Madam Speaker, while I understand that the Governor in Council would have final authority on it, I do believe that it is absolutely necessary that the checks and balances other than that . . . Madam Speaker, while I understand that further on in the Bill, the Monetary Authority has certain controls over the Bank, I believe that the most suitable persons in government to run the Bank, a lending institution, would be the Financial Secretary's office.

Madam Speaker, I cannot with any clarity or any authority say what caused the old government bank to close down. Whether it was any lack of equity or what-have-you but something caused that to shut down. Government made the decision to close that down because of the lack of business or whatever the case may be. I trust that the same will not be case with this one.

Madam Speaker, another area that I notice in here was under 15(1), “The funds available for the purpose of enabling the Bank to perform its function under this Law shall consist of a) equity capital and importantly, b) such sums as may be provided for those purposes in the estimates of revenue and expenditure of the Islands.”

Madam Speaker, as a result of that and keep it in mind that I have not had the opportunity to see the full Bill; I wonder if provisions are made for the Auditor General to audit the Bank. As it is public funds and that is the responsibility of the Auditor General and Public Accounts Committee.

Another brief area, Madam Speaker, that I saw is section 21(6), “The first financial year of the Bank shall be the period beginning with the coming into force of this section and ending with the 31 December 2002 and any subsequent period of 12 months ending with 31 December shall be a financial year of the Bank.” Madam Speaker, my question to the Minister here is that since government is moving to a 30 June financial year would not it be reasonable then to make the Bank, all of government entities be the 30 June the end of the financial year. I think we would streamline government instead of having to wait for the end of December to get the financial statements from one entity of government we get them all on the 30 June or whenever provisions are made for them.

Madam Speaker, I encourage the new Government to make this institution all inclusive, for all the people of these Islands, that is, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman as well. The Minister for Housing said that in particular George Town is an area that needs housing; I can say that in the area of East End there is a need for Housing and people to feel like it is worthwhile. Maybe the Minister for Commerce and the Minister for Housing can ensure that whatever government does in the future it is considered affordable housing. So as not to make people who are getting these homes or being able to afford it, think that they are any less than any other one of us as Caymanians or residents in this country.

Madam Speaker, as I said earlier I had some concerns with the manner in which the Bill was brought. It is unfortunate and I understand the Minister for Tourism when he says that there is an urgency to get this done. I suspect that is to get the Governor's assent because the monies needed from Caribbean Development Bank is on a time line. However, Madam Speaker, I would also ask the UDP whether this is not the beginning of things to come. Because, Madam Speaker—

The Speaker: Honourable Members—

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, while the Government will always have its way, the Opposition should be afforded its say. The same Caymanians who voted for the UDP Members are no different from the Caymanians who voted for me in East End. They have sent me to this Honourable House so that their voices can be heard. For their voices to be heard Madam Speaker, I have to be afforded the privilege to review the business of this House in sufficient time in order that I understand it and make meaningful contribution to it. I said during my maiden speech and then during the revocation speech that I am not in here for frivolous matters—these are the matters of this country.

I understand the awesome responsibility that has been placed upon my shoulders by the people of East End and they expect results. The same way the constituencies of the UDP Members expect results, the people of East End also expect results. Madam Speaker, I implore the Government to ensure that whether they want to call it the other side of the aisle or the Opposition that they afford the respect that is due to the Honourable Members of this side of this Honourable House.

Madam Speaker, I know that there are many who respect that. Unfortunately, they may be caught up in a system that does not have the same philosophy they do. However, that is the nature of the beast and I also understand the disciplined and structured environment, as well as anybody else. Nevertheless, Madam Speaker, this is the time to come together in this country! We appeal to the rest of the country to come together for specific purposes. This is the time that we as legislators must come together in order to put our heads together in the interest of this country. To do that, we need to be informed.

There needs to be some kind of communication and not one day prior to the enactment of Laws. You know, Madam Speaker, it is so strange; I have always said that there is a thin line that separates opposition and decision-making. Once we cross the aisle it is different ball game. We no longer have to stand up here and talk about our philosophical ways of life, our training, and about the poor people. Madam Speaker, having said that, I just want the new Government to know that I am willing, able, and very capable to assist in anything that is in the better interest of this country. The Minister for Housing knows that because he saw me with hammers and saws and planes in my hand recently. So, Madam Speaker, (again to the UDP) please do ensure that it is all inclusive.

Thank you Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Member.
The Honourable Minister for Education.

Hon. Roy Boddin: Madam Speaker, this Bill which brings to life the Cayman Islands Development Bank is important for two reasons. The first is that it recognises that there is the need to improve and streamline old mechanisms which in the past were responsible for delivering the kinds of services that the Cayman Islands Development Bank purports to deliver by coming into existence.

However, the second reason is of greater significance and it is the reason that was well expounded by the Minister responsibility for Housing, among many things. Namely that it is fulfillment and realisation that there is an element in this country now that has the political will to deliver on promises that have been futile for so long to the ears and expectations of so many people.

Madam Speaker, it is obvious that the country cannot continue in the way in which we have been. That is, disenfranchising certain elements, making them promises that for whatever reason have never been kept, without renting the social fabric greater than it is renting at this moment. There are those who have been calling for years for such an institution and no amount of diatribe (I do not care which direction it is coming from) will detract from the seriousness of the situation and will negate the importance of the establishment of this Bank at this time.

The Bill adequately speaks to provision, safeguards and parameters, which are set and defined. So, that those on the other side can have no good reason to question and query whether the proper safeguards are in place. Madam Speaker, what should be questioned is their intentions and their political will to keep on talking the talk or to join us in walking the walk. I am happy to be associated with this effort. I am pleased that it was brought by this group, this entity, which prides itself on being the United Democratic Party, because we are about addressing the practical and glaring needs of this country.

Madam Speaker, if those on the other side wish to do something, they can join us in this effort so that we can move the country forward. However, Madam Speaker, you cannot be fish and fowl! You cannot expect to get up and pound the Government and create obstacles in the way of progress and then expect that you are going to reap the returns when the returns are being disbursed and apportioned. Madam

Speaker, it would serve us well if we stop pontificating and get down to more action. I give this Bill my full support!

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Minister. Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member from the district of West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, this Bill creates the Cayman Islands Development Bank. As I see, it was indeed put on Business Paper No. 4 on the 28 November 2001. What may be currently exposed is the fact that all Honourable Members of this House need to check their mailboxes in a timely manner and get Bills on a timely manner, so that you can review them, because the 28 November was last week Wednesday.

As I look through this Bill, I see in it a platform for executing much needed delivery of critical services to the Cayman Islands Community. Madam Speaker, this Bill and the Bank that this Bill seeks to create, is not only going to deal with the critical issue of housing. It is also going to deal with the critical issue of capital for entrepreneurship; small entrepreneurs. It is also going to deal with the critical issue of student loans because, Madam Speaker, I can relate to going to university and not being in a position to necessarily have parents that can assist in financing the way some in our community would have been afforded.

Madam Speaker, even now there are still some scholarships that will not necessarily cover one hundred percent of the costs of going to school. Madam Speaker, when we look at those three areas: affordable housing, startup capital for small entrepreneurs and student loans, we could not be looking at areas that are any more important to building a good society; to building a good community.

However, I would like to take a quick step back before I speak to certain aspects of the Bill and to remind all Honourable Members and indeed the wider public that this concept of a Cayman Islands Development Bank has been in the works for many months. In fact, on the 2 April 2001, the Honourable Minister for Tourism clearly outlined to this Honourable House and to the wider public his desire to have such institution. So for any of us to say that we were not aware that this was in the works, for any us to speak about lacking communication, I suppose we all have to understand that communication is not only one person speaking but being humble enough to listen.

Madam Speaker, I would like to quote from the Hansard of 2 April for a brief moment if you would permit.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, on 2 April [2001], the Honourable Minister for Tourism and Commerce said:

“Mr. Speaker, the Agricultural & Industrial Development Bank (AIDB) and the Housing Development Corporation individually have tremendous responsibilities in our changing economic scenario. The Agricultural, Industrial and Development Board, in particular, celebrate several years as a development financial institution.

“During its years of coming of age the long discussed merger with the Housing Development Cooperation (HDC) will take place this year, I hope. I have instructed the management of these institutions to finalize the merger within the next few months. More importantly, I have asked them to create a totally new, dynamic development financial institution that will meet the challenges that it has begun to face in this millennium.

“The new development institution will become a true development facility of the Cayman Islands and it is to be called the Cayman Islands Development Bank (CIDB). The CIDB will continue to build on the foundations of the past and seek to achieve even greater impact within the Cayman Islands, in facilitating greater development in Agriculture, small business, tourism and housing, as well as in the promotion of human resource development through its loan portfolio for students. Over the coming months, the mechanics of this new entity will be worked out and it is expected that the draft legislation for the establishment will be tabled in the Legislative Assembly some time in the third quarter of this year.” [Page 312, 2001 Official Hansard Report]

It is important that the listening public always receives a balanced view as to what actually transpires in these Halls. It is easy for us to get up and to speak in ways that seek to castigate others; that seek to make others look in a bad light when in fact, we know the truth and we know the difference. The Second Elected Member for George Town in his contribution insinuated that this had come out of the blue; this was not effectively communicated. Well, Madam Speaker, what could be more effective communication than in the Honourable Chambers of this Legislative Assembly. Madam Speaker, I turn now to the Bill. In going through it, the Bill itself seems to provide a very balanced platform on which to build such an entity.

Madam Speaker, whilst there are no bankers on the Government Bench, I do not believe that we should wait until a banker is elected and reaches the Government Bench before we get a development bank. The last time I checked, the Government of the Cayman Islands owns or have direct involvement on numerous entities that have never had specialisation on the Government Bench. I do not see any engineers, yet we have a Water Authority. I do not see any airline executives, yet we have a Cayman Airways. I do not see any hospital administrator, yet we have a hospital.

Madam Speaker, the issue revolves around the Government selecting a very good board and a good general manager with the necessary experience to effect what it is that this Bill seeks to effect within the wider community. Madam Speaker, to insinuate that because there is no one on the Government Bench with banking experience we should not have a development bank seems ludicrous to persons like me. When we look at the Bill we see specific provisions covering many important items. Items like who will be on the board of directors, their duties, what the functions of the general manager will be and the functions of the power of the Bank. We also see items covering the finances of the Bank, covering the authorized share capital, the funding of the Bank, the power of the Bank to borrow. Madam Speaker, I will stop there at point sixteen.

The Bill calls for the Bank to take care when it borrows and raises capital. Madam Speaker, this Bill also speaks to areas such as audits, the accounts of the Bank and the reserve levels of the Bank. One of the most important things that it also does is speak to the application for loans and what the powers of the Bank are in regards to default. Madam Speaker, earlier the point was made to the necessity to have the Auditor General audit the Bank. In Section 21 the Bill clearly calls for some very important fundamental financial reporting criteria.

If you permit, Madam Speaker, I wish to share with the wider community some of these points. Section 21(1), “The Bank shall a) keep proper accounting records in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles; and (b) prepare a statement of accounts in respect of each financial year.

“(2) The statement of accounts shall give a true and fair view of the state of the Bank’s affairs at the end of the financial year and of its income and expenditure for the year.

“(3) The statement of accounts shall be audited annually by an auditor who shall be a chartered accountant, a certified public accountant, a firm of professionally qualified accountants or other professionally qualified accountants appointed by the Board, after consultation with the Monetary Authority.”

Madam Speaker, just speaking to point 21(3) for a minute, I certainly would encourage the Government and the Monetary Authority to guide the Bank in this area to try and ensure that they do go to one of the bigger accounting firms for the audit. Madam Speaker, I say this because the bigger accounting firms on this Island have not only audited large commercial enterprises here, therefore have the accumulative audit knowledge and experience. However, they would also then be able to afford the Cayman Islands Development Bank, the type of insight in terms of internal controls and business advice that this institution will desperately need.

Madam Speaker, when we went out and audited places like CIBC, the Bank of Butterfield and Scotia Bank, every year one of things that our clients always looked forward to was our management letter. In those letters we provided them with sound, practical business advice. Since they knew the experience that big firms brought to the table was not only limited to the audit of the particular client, but also other clients, so we obviously do not practice secrets between clients. However, we share critical information and advice that all clients appreciate because I have always been of the firm view that when you compare the big five accounting firms they all can audit.

What will separate the best from the better are those who can provide the best management letters; the best advice to their clients; the best recommendation and bring to the table experience that is tangible for the client; that can bring to the table partners who have been involved and are experts in the banking field for years. This is critical, and so I would encourage the Government in this instance to look in that direction. Madam Speaker, obviously there are medium size firms in these Islands and there is a place for them, because they can provide certain benefits.

However, where we are talking about banks and banking (a sensitive industry; a very technical industry), I would support the Government moving in that direction. So, Madam Speaker, for the record yes, this Bill does provide for audits to be carried out. In regards to the Auditor-General, it is known that the Auditor-General does not audit every Government-owned entity. There are certain Government-owned entities for which the Auditor-General relies upon those statements to provide his certification. So, I do not necessarily need the Auditor-General to audit this institution. In fact, Madam Speaker, in my humble opinion it would be advantageous to have one of the big five accounting firms audit this institution because they are going to bring to the table the commercial expertise that may not necessarily be housed in the Auditor-General’s office, with all due respect to him and his staff.

Section 23 speaks in great detail as to how this Bank is going to be regulated and that will be done by the Monetary Authority. So, it is very important that the listening public understands that this was not just some piece of rushed legislation. Madam Speaker, the public has to understand that the circumstances that the Government finds itself in rushing the legislation is in terms of passage—not its development. This seems to be a very comprehensive piece of legislation; one that is going to serve as a good platform for the Cayman Islands Development Bank. As with all things in life, everything can be improved upon and I would anticipate like all Laws and Bills that make their way to Law, there will be amendments down the road. No one can say that any Bill is perfect but, when we look at section 23 and we look at the power that is vested in the Monetary Authority in regards to this Bank, we clearly see that the regulatory regime in this country will have to ensure proper operation on a big picture level of this institution.

Madam Speaker, not only will the Government select a board of directors and have a management team—but from what I understand the personnel that already exists in the AIDB and HDC will provide expertise that this new entity will need. So, I do not agree that this necessarily is going to cause a great influx of new civil servants. Madam Speaker, to the best of my knowledge the AIDB already has a manager. From my understanding, that manager already has expertise in how to run a credit lending facility.

Madam Speaker, section 29 deals with loans and I think what is very important is the platform that the Minister of Housing set, the platform that I can say the United Democratic Party wholeheartedly accepts. That is, this is going to be a commercially run enterprise but it is going to have terms that make capital available to certain sectors of our community that have found it difficult to acquire the necessary capital to build a house, to start up a business, to get a student loan at rates that are palatable and affordable. Madam Speaker, it has been the rates that have excluded them from participating in the past. It is very important to note that the Minister made it very clear, that anyone who is not out there working hard, wanting to improve themselves are not going to be available to get the funding that this Bank is going to afford.

If we look at subsection 29(4) application of loans, Madam Speaker, I would like to read into the record so that the public can understand. It says, “If any such loan has been secured by mortgage or otherwise, and the borrower defaults in complying with the order made in accordance with subsection 3, the Bank may by notice in writing addressed to the borrower demand payment of the loan or any part of the loan on such date as is specified in the notice together with the repayment of all interests, fees, and charges due on some demanded at the date of the notice; and in default of payment on the specified date the Bank may sell all or part of the land or other assets mortgaged for the purpose of the loan and take steps to enforce any other security provided by the borrower for the purpose of the loan.”

The public must understand the ease of acquiring the capital is what the Cayman Islands Development Bank is seeking to address. The costs that is, the interest rates attached to capital, is what we seek to address. Not whether or not you are going to repay, because with everything comes a responsibility. The responsibility to which this Bank will hold the public will be no different than that of any other bank. People will have to pay their loans, mortgages, business loans and student loans. However, Madam Speaker, once again we are doing it at rates that those who have otherwise been excluded in the past can now afford.

Madam Speaker, it is safe to say when we look at the operation of the commercial banks within the Cayman Islands, for all the years that they have been here, if there was a genuine interest to lend to a certain segment of our community who has found it difficult to acquire such lending, they would have come up with programmes to do so. No one is going to convince me that the retail banks in this country do not have the management expertise to have been able to do this. It has not happened and so at this point in time the Government feels duty bound to have to provide such a facility to the people of this country.

I think it has become very obvious who came to this Legislative Assembly with a plan for the people and those who have not. On page 15 of the Manifesto that I ran on, we spoke of small business support, we spoke of the issue of AIDB, reorganising AIDB's lending practices, to have a new mission statement and all the things that are going to be incorporated in this new Law. We also spoke of not just having people come in and say they want to start a new business, but we spoke to the issue of providing market research packs that allow them to go into the community and do real research, to really find out whether there is a demand for their proposed business. Madam Speaker, there would be nothing worse than to have the development bank lend to people on frivolous ideas.

That will not be the case, Madam Speaker. We will ensure that people have proper business plans; that they have realistic goals; that they have done the proper marketing research—all of those facilities must be provided in house by the Bank before lending monies for small business entrepreneurship. In fact, Madam Speaker, on page 16 of our Manifesto we spoke of a development bank and we spoke of a Cayman Islands Development Bank. So, Madam Speaker, we all have to remember that each of us ran on very different types of platforms and the platform that we were elected on in the district of West Bay was one that in my humble view was comprehensive. One that showed the public what it is that we wanted to do, one that showed a broad cross-section of issues and items. In fact, Madam Speaker, we had some 16 different areas in our Manifesto that we covered and yes, small business loans and housing was one of them. Establishing a Cayman Islands Development Bank was one of them. So this is not new to the public in West Bay.

However, Madam Speaker, when we look on the national scene we also see that within the United Democratic Party there are persons who have supported this concept for many years. In fact, the Honourable Minister for Education has been speaking about the Grameen Bank, probably from the time I was a teenager I have heard him on the radio speaking of that Bank. In fact, he spoke about that Bank again in the Throne and Budget Address this year. I think it is fair to say that as a group, as a party, this Bill is certainly in conformity with the vision we have for the Cayman Islands; in terms of being able to provide the public access to funds that they would not normally have access to. Madam Speaker, I think it is a critical part of the development of the Cayman Islands.

Madam Speaker, I would like to end off my contribution by simply quoting Standing Order 35(2), “It is out of order to attempt to revive in any debate a matter or reconsider any specific question upon which the House has come to a conclusion during the current session, except upon a substantive motion of rescission.” Madam Speaker, it is sad that we still have persons getting up in this Honourable House and talking about the West Bay Backbench Members and that they did not remember hearing anything about this, insinuating that the Minister responsible for Tourism had brought to this House a Bill that has not been shared.

Madam Speaker, it would seem that certain Members of this House either have selective or a lack of memory because they also run around quoting at their public meetings and having quotes in the Caymanian Compass that as an Honourable Member it was me that made it when in fact it was from the Third Elected Member for West Bay. So, you see I really do not rely on the memories of certain Members of this House. I would like to say that before we just jump up and oppose something that we actually search all the carvings of our memory to ensure we do recollect exactly has transpired.

On 2 April 2001 the Minister of Tourism clearly outlined the need for a Cayman Islands Development Bank, his vision as to when it would come and I would like to congratulate the Minister. He said the third quarter of 2001. Well, this is December and as we know in this business, that is only a couple of months off which is pretty good in my books. This Bill I recommend to all Honourable Members. I believe it provides a tool that will be very useful to the Cayman Islands Community. It will be very useful to persons who are in agriculture, to students who may need access to low interest financing, to persons who want small business loans, but, of course, also housing—an area that I think most of us would agree is of critical importance to the critical development and the social fabric of the Cayman Islands.

The persons that I was elected to represent told me loud and clear that these were areas that they wanted addressed and that this was an area in which they needed something comprehensively done. I keep getting phone calls from people asking about housing. Is the Government going to be able to do anything about housing? Hardworking people, some of whom called and asked, ‘I own my own piece of land, I have saved for the last 8 years and I have now managed to pay off for my piece of land’—clearly demonstrating the responsibility that the Cayman Islands Development Bank will be looking for in customers. Some of them are single parents with two, three and four children. Madam speaker, I believe that we need to act now. The Caribbean Development Bank has approved certain funding, they have provided certain criteria that have to be met and the Minister has clearly outlined the need to have this legislation passed.

Madam Speaker, I believe that this is a proper Bill to be the first Bill of the United Democratic Party. What a way to get started, to be able to finally provide funding for critical areas like affordable housing, small business loans, student loans, agriculture loans.

Madam Speaker, I would just like to finally remind us all that we had suspensions of Standing Orders 46 and 47 in the year 2001. In fact, I went and did a quick research in the break and found that we had suspended Standing Order 46 five times, and 47, once. I believe the providing of access to funding for affordable housing requires us to be cooperative; requires us to recognise that the Government in this instance needs to act swiftly.

I voted yes for the Standing Orders suspension because I recognise that within my constituency there is a great need. I think it is fair to say that within every constituency in this district there is a great need for access to relatively cheap funds for proper housing. I could not think of a Bill that would be more fitting for the suspension of the Standing Order and certainly, Madam Speaker, I have had the opportunity to go through the Bill so I cannot understand how others have not.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak? If no other Member wishes to speak, would the Mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, thank you very much.

Madam Speaker, I certainly want to thank all Members who rose in support of the Bill before the House and I certainly want to thank my colleague, the Second Elected Member for West Bay for so ably dealing with some of the points that had been raised by the Opposition. One of the things that he pointed out was that this is not the first time in the year 2001 we had to suspend the same Standing Orders that allowed us to take this Bill through all its stages today. So, Madam Speaker, that demolishes the argument of the Second Elected Member for George Town concerning the leadership of Government business before 8 November 2001.

Madam Speaker, I would have been very pleased, and perhaps the country as well, if this Bill would have been given every respect by the Opposition. It should have been given easy passage and I believe that we should have been out of this House by now without the unnecessary ranker and bitterness and politicking that simply has taken place with the Opposition. While they cry for peace, they rage a war. Hypocrisy at its best!

One of the things I would like to reiterate is that the Bill does provide for a Memorandum of Objects and Reasons on its very first pages and it is easy to read. It is done this way so that those that might not have a legal understanding in reading clauses could easily understand what is contained in the Bill. This is not the first Bill. This is how Bills are done in a Legislative Assembly, in this Parliament. Madam Speaker, that Bill was sent to this House from last week and every Member that has any responsibility about them should have taken the time to read that over the weekend. Madam Speaker, the Opposition is grumbling again but they had sufficient time to read the Bill.

The Second Elected Member, who rose this morning to deride the Government, could have taken his time this morning when he was studying the Hansard reading speeches and instead read just the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons. In his supposed training he should have easily grasped the purpose, intent and contents of this Bill. However, I know his modus operandi and I want him to understand that I know it and that I can defend myself at all stages. I have allowed him to go great distances in the last several weeks but it will not continue. I put him on notice.

Madam Speaker, not all persons who read the Bible are angels. In response to his debate, I wish to point out the amazement from that side of the House to the statement that the Cayman Islands Development Bank is news to that Member. When personally in this Honourable House, I have made various statements regarding the amalgamation of both the Agricultural and Industrial Board and the Housing Development Cooperation into the merge Cayman Islands Development Bank—the one on discussion today. Also, Madam Speaker, had they been as effective as he has been hollering about since 8 November, he would be well aware of the contents of this Bill.

The Hansard, Madam Speaker, in my speech which the Second Elected Member for West Bay referred to, carries two pages which dealt with the intent and some of the contents of this Bill. I have made statements since that and the Government that was formed last year also talked about it. Madam Speaker, the process is simple. Does the Honourable Member have a problem with the existence of the Housing Development cooperation? Does the Honourable Member have a problem with the existence of the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board?

Madam Speaker, for all intents and purposes, all this Honourable House is seeking to do is to merge these two entities into one and to effect a name change. While at the same time to streamline and improve their existing functions to bring them in line with modern 21st Century development banking protocol, which can only assist our people in a manner we are talking about.

In respect of the matter in retail banking which the Member raised, I would like to go on record once and for all, that the proposed Cayman Islands Development Bank is not being restructured to compete with any of the retail banking outlets existing in the country. So, the Honourable Member can be assured that this restructured institution has a pure development thrust and not a commercial motive at improving various weaknesses in our economy which are not readily addressed by other agencies or institutions. However, at the appropriate time we would need to mobilise domestic savings by taking deposits under the supervision of the Monetary Authority.

Madam Speaker, one of the areas that needs to be addressed is the development of our micro enterprise sub-sector. The United Democratic Party wants to ensure amongst other things, that this country has a strong, indigenous business platform wherein new entrepreneurial opportunities can be created for Caymanians and residents alike, for all our entrepreneurs.

If the Second Elected Member for George Town has the good will of the Caymanian population at heart (but sometimes he is talking out of both corners of his mouth), he would applaud this new development banking Bill. That is, it seeks to assist Caymanians in areas where others fear to tread. Just to give one example, Madam Speaker, the area of the provision of low-income housing—which Members have dealt with and I do not need to go into—but the Member said that he has real concern about whether Government should enter the banking business. He also says he shares the concern of assisting our people. Well, is that really so? Because, 1) if you look at this argument he does not want Government to do it, we should not be in the business; 2) he says that the banking institutions in the country are cartels; and 3) he says we must help our people.

What does the Member really want and how are we going to help our people if we do not put the institutions in place?

I believe that they are so bitter that he fails to see reason. Presumably he speaks for his group and when he says that Government should not be in the banking business, is that one of the things, Madam Speaker, that he claims so many times recently, I could not get done before we changed the leader, is that one of the things? Maybe it is one of the many things that we could not get done for our people.

Regarding professional staff, I do believe that we have competent staff in the manager and the present project officer, as good as you will get anywhere else. We will need a financial controller and that post will be asked for in coming weeks. However, I do not buy his argument that we do not have the competent staff. Where does he get his information?

Madam Speaker, my friend, the Elected Member for East End, as usual is trying to straddle. He wants to be the benefactor of everything but he is not prepared to support what is necessary to get those things. Well, the Member is young in the House and I know how a young Member is in the House. However, he must understand that he cannot at all times beat the Government over the head and then expect for them to just bow and kowtow. We will do what is necessary for all districts in this country and when he peruses the Budget, Madam Speaker, he will see that. We have not forgotten East End and we never will. Nor will we forget North Side, nor Cayman Brac, nor George Town, nor West Bay. We are all inclusive, if that is what you want to find out, but if you peruse the Budget you will find that everybody is accounted for.

Madam Speaker, I can say today to the Member for East End, I have been the Chairman of the AIDB since last November. I was the Chairman for a period of over five years before that. In that time, students received millions in funding for educational purposes and small business initiatives grew under my leadership. I guess they will have to wait and see what happens next. However, I have confidence, Madam Speaker, in the proposed makeup of the board, if Members would look at the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, item 3 and I quote, "The Bank will be managed by a Board of seven directors. Directors of the new Board will be appointed by the Governor in Council." Madam Speaker, not by the Minister.

"The chairman and deputy chairman of the Board will be persons who the Governor in Council considers are qualified for their appointments as having had experience and shown capacity in financial management and administration or law or in any other area relating to the functions of the Bank. Five other directors will be appointed with the following ranges of experience: one member will be appointed who has had experience of agriculture, one member with experience of industry, one member with experience of education, one member with experience of housing and one member with housing of tourism."

Madam Speaker, I believe this will serve our country well. I think that the Government has done what it could. As I already explained, and I will put it on record again, the reason for urgency is that our line of credit for housing depends upon moving expeditiously with this Bill in order to get it dealt with at the next Caribbean Development Bank Board meeting next week.

The Bill was sent out on the 28th and it will be no different when we pass it, unless Members feel that we should make some changes in Committee stage. We are going through a Committee stage, Madam Speaker, and Members will have a chance to point out any shortcomings as they feel fit.

The Caribbean Development Bank requires the amalgamation of the AIDB and the Housing Development Cooperation in order to deal with the line of credit for housing. Madam Speaker, if that is not a good enough reason then you tell me. If Members knew or had this Bill from the 28th, because it was in this legislature, then, Madam Speaker, why in heaven's name were they not able to understand it if they had other problems with it? However, I do not leave any excuse for the Second Member for George Town because he is supposed to have legal training and understands quite well and where he does not want to create mischief, he can create good and he had that opportunity.

Finally, Madam Speaker, the Cayman Islands Development Bank is in response to our Government's strategic plan as documented in Vision 2008. Programmes that will be established for Caymanians to become self-sufficient in more areas than they do and so be in total control of their destiny. I think, Madam Speaker, that that is a good note to end on at this point.

I thank Honourable Members for their indulgence; I thank the Attorney General's Department for having the Bill put together. I would certainly like to thank the two officers, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Miller [pause] and Mr. Allen (sorry, I am not remembering names presently) for all their effort in pushing this thing through. Mrs. Miller and the Financial Secretary for going with me to St. Lucia to defend our position and get the funding for housing and all the work that they do in the AIDB to bring us thus far. Madam Speaker, we must give credit where credit is due. There are people who work hard and long hours to sustain the development of the country and benefit Caymanians, and all Members of this House should readily say so when they have an opportunity instead of tearing down.

I thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

We have reached the hour of interruption. Would you wish at this stage to move a suspension of Standing Order 10(2) and 10(4) if you wish to carry on the business of the House?

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2) AND (4)

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I would like to seek suspension of Standing Orders to take the Bill through its final stages today.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 10(2) and 10(4) be suspended. Does any Member wish to speak? If not I shall put the question that Standing Order 10(2) and 10(4) be duly suspended. Those in favour say Aye.

AYES.

The Speaker: Those against, No. The Ayes have it. The Standing Orders 10(2) and 10(4) are duly suspended.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 am Monday, 10 December.

Further, Madam Speaker, as discussed with you and with the First Elected Member for George Town, we intend to settle it some days, in order to expedite business on the Agenda and other Members will be made aware as usual.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 am Monday, 10 December 2001. Those in favour, please say Aye.

AYES.

The Speaker: Those against, No. The Ayes have it.

AT 5.17 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM MONDAY, 10 DECEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
MONDAY
10 DECEMBER 2001
10.15 AM
Third Sitting

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member from West Bay will grace us with Prayers this morning.

PRAYERS

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: we beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy name and for the safety honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.18 am

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

READINGS BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have received apologies for the absence of the Honourable Leader of Government Business, the Third and Fourth Elected Members from the District of West Bay and the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman whom I understand are off the Island on official business.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MINISTERS AND MEMBERS

QUESTION NO. 125

(Deferred)

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member from West Bay, to ask the Honourable Minister responsible for Planning Communication and Works.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay is off on official business and I would so request that this question be deferred and put down to a later time.

The Speaker: The question is that Question No.125 be set down for a later date. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against say No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The question shall be put down for a later date. Would an Honourable Member wish to second the Second Elected Member for West Bay out of an abundance of caution?

Mr. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, I wish to second the Motion.

The Speaker: I am grateful, Third Elected Member for Bodden Town. Shall I put the question again? All those in favour of having the said question No. 125 put down for a later sitting please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes, have it. The question shall be put down for a later sitting.

AGREED: QUESTION NO. 125 DEFERRED UNTIL A LATER SITTING.

QUESTION NO.126

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

No. 126: Mr. V. Arden McLean asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development if all monies due on leased Government properties have been fully paid up to date.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: All monies due on Government rental lease of sites and buildings have been paid in full to date.

The Speaker: Are there any supplementaries?
The Elected Member for East End.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the Honourable Third Official Member could give us a list of properties that Government is leasing to individuals or corporations.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Economic Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I have got a list available that can be circulated to Honourable Members.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End, is the due circulation of the said list satisfactory?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, if the Honourable Third Official Member would just read it that would be fine.

The Speaker: Honourable Third Official Member, is it a substantial list?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: No, Madam Speaker, I can go through the details.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The first property on the list is that of the Craft Market and there are six units. Units one through six are for a total value of $48,816 per annum. That has been fully paid up to date.

The White Hall Bay Café is for a peppercorn lease and there are no arrears on that.

The former First Baptist Church is for $24,000 per annum. That is leased to Cayman Prep and High School and has been paid in full.

The Cable and Wireless usage of property at the Truman Bodden Sports Complex is for a value of $10,500 per annum. That has been paid in full.

The former Post Office at East End which is being used as the East End Community Centre is for a peppercorn lease and there are no arrears on that. Again, it seems as if there are two occupants of the former Post Office of East End. There is a person by the name of Rudy Solomon but again, that is for a peppercorn lease and is fully paid up to date.

The Hospital Gift Shop is for $3,300. That is fully paid up to date.

The Hospital Hyperbaric Chamber is leased to the Cayman Hyperbaric Services Ltd. for $22,000 which is fully paid up to date.

The doctor's residence on Cayman Brac is for $7,200 and it is fully paid up to date.

The Teachers cottage on Cayman Brac is for $8,400 and is fully paid up to date.

There is a piece of land off Courts Road, George Town, leased to the National Trust for a peppercorn lease and is paid up to date.

There are various houses at Portuguese Point. Unit No. 1 for $22,800; Unit No. 2 for $25,200; Unit No. 3 for $27,600; Unit No. 4 for $27,600 and Unit No. 5 for $28,800. All are paid up to date.

There is another house in South Sound, parcel 15 C/79. This is leased to the Auditor General for $28,800 per annum and is fully paid up to date.

Foster Village No. 10 is for $10,200 and is paid up to date.

Hell shops: Unit No. 1 is for $4,320; Unit No. 2 for $6,060 And Unit No. 3 for $6,300. All are paid up to date.

That, Madam Speaker, is the extent of the list and I will, with your indulgence hand the list to the Serjeant-at-Arms to be circulated to Honourable Members.

The Speaker: So ordered. Thank you. Are there any further supplementaries? The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I really did not hear anything about land properties but that may not be the case. However, if that is the case, I wonder if the Honourable Third Official Member could say if we do have any. Secondly, could the Honourable Third Official Member say who pays for the properties at Portuguese Point, which I think are five in number?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, these properties are paid for by the occupants of those properties and in terms of the earlier question as to lands, could the Honourable Member from East End be a bit more specific? Then, I could probably give him the information that he is seeking.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, I do not have a specific block and parcel, but I am just wondering if Government leases any property or land in the Cayman Islands that is owned by the Government. That is, raw land, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, this list only contained properties for which annual lease payments are made to the Government. Properties that have been rented include the Safe Haven and Ritz Carlton. Where one-off payments have been made but no payments are being made on an annual basis, these have not been included on the list that has been circulated. This list prepared by the Lands and Survey Department represents the list of all properties for which the Government receives lease payments on an annual basis.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If there are no other supplementaries we will move on to the next question.

QUESTION NO. 127

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

No. 127: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology to describe what drainage works have been carried out by the Cayman Islands' Government in the George Town district over the course of the past year.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: In addition to routine maintenance activities carried out Island-wide to drain-wells and other drainage infrastructure, the following drain-wells were installed or re-drilled as part of George Town district road programme in 2001:

- ◆ One new well at Outpost Street.
- ◆ Re-drill and extend depth of one well on Keturah Street.
- ◆ One new well on Grace Street.
- ◆ One new well on Middle Road.
- ◆ Two new wells in Randyke Gardens.
- ◆ One new well off Eastern Avenue.
- ◆ One new well off East Boulevard.
- ◆ One new well on Palm Road (off Smith Road)
- ◆ Re-drill and extend depth of one well off Windsor Park (near Barnes Laundromat)
- ◆ Re-drill and extend depth of one well on Crewe Road by Mr. Ira Thompson.

- ◆ Re-drill and extend depth of one well on Dorcy Drive by Island Interiors
- ◆ One new well on Barnes Drive off Seymour Drive.

Sixteen new wells were installed as part of two major projects—Shedden Road/North Sound Way intersection and roundabout near to the Lions Centre.

The Speaker: Are there any supplementaries?

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I did not note on this list any drilling activity in the area known as the East in George Town. That is the area behind Zodiac Club in the vicinity of the late Mr. Bobby Seymour's Residence. I wonder if the Honourable Minister could indicate whether or not Public Works is satisfied that the drainage in that area is satisfactory.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am informed that last year several wells were drilled in that area, were cleaned out and re-drilled and that a new one will be drilled in that area later on during this month.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker, could the Honourable Minister state if the re-drilling and extended depth of the well on Dorcy Drive by Island Interiors is considered a satisfactory solution of that ongoing problem or is there a longer term solution being looked at by the relevant agency involved?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am further informed that the well that is there now is really not a final solution; that further drainage will be done along the airstrip to take some of the water that is now running off of that into that particular area.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Understanding that this is an ongoing situation, which at some point in time will involve the Civil Aviation Authority, can the Minister state if any discussions have taken place between the Public Works Department and the Civil Aviation Authority. Is there is a course of action that is set out and any time line that has been defined for this to be done?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, as the Honourable Member is no doubt aware, there have been several discussions held with Civil Aviation. There is no timeline as to when this work will be done due to financial constraints.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Minister state whether the financial constraints that he speaks to is regarding the position of central Government. Is there a question as to whose responsibility or to whom, what portion of the responsibility with regards to the financial aspect of this remedial action is responsible to financing the situation and does that involve any dispute between the Civil Aviation Authority and the Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I am informed that there is no dispute with the Civil Aviation Authority. The problem that we are experiencing is not on the airstrip as such; it is really on the public road and it is a problem for the Public Works Department. We will as in the past be consulting with them if work would be necessary on the airstrip but there is really no dispute with them and we hope to get their full co-operation.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If there are no further supplementaries, that concludes Question Time.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

INFORMATION AND COMMUNICATIONS BILL, WHITE PAPER

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. During the last meeting of this Honourable House, I laid on the Table a White Paper; entitled the Information and Communications Technology (ICT) Bill. The purpose of doing so was to solicit input from all stakeholders in this important sector of our economy. At that time, I indicated that Government hoped to present the final version of the Bill for consideration by Honourable Members and Ministers during this meeting of the House. I am pleased to inform you, Madam Speaker, that the White Paper has stimulated much constructive comments. Furthermore, in October last, Executive Council decided that the Telecommunications sector in the Cayman Islands should be liberalised as soon as possible. A target date of August 2002 was set for the commencement of this process. The ICT Bill currently enables but does not mandate the introduction of liberalisation. Now that the decision to liberalise has been taken, it may be necessary to amend some of the draft provisions as appropriate.

The rapid liberalisation of telecommunications is critically important for the social and economic development of this country. The introduction of this proposed new legislation is an important step in that process; nevertheless, it is equally important to ensure that the Bill is the best that we can produce. I therefore, have decided to delay the First Reading of the ICT Bill until the next meeting of the House. This will give sufficient time to further review the draft in the light of the decision to liberalise, to give detailed consideration to the submissions of stakeholders and to obtain the input of the telecommunications consultants that we have recently engaged. It is important to note, however, that this short delay in the introduction of the new legislation should not significantly alter the time-table for the start of liberalisation.

Negotiations with Cable and Wireless will proceed as planned and we are of the view that the August 2002 target date is still achievable.

Thank you Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

THE DRAFT HEALTH PRACTITIONERS BILL 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Health Services, District Administration and Agriculture.

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. A revised version of The Draft Health Practitioners Bill, 2001 will be made available for further input by health care professionals and other interested persons, before the proposed legislation is presented to the Legislative Assembly for approval in March 2002. It will not be brought to the Legislative Assembly at this Meeting for approval as previously announced. I also intend to further discuss the Draft Bill with health care professionals and hopefully reach a consensus before attempting to have it approved by Members of this Honourable House. I consider the health practitioners to be partners with the Ministry in providing quality care to our residents and visitors and as such, their input into any Law governing the health practitioners in these Islands is absolutely essential.

Madam Speaker, a committee convened by the Ministry of Health, continues to work with an overseas consultant and Government's Legislative Drafting Department to review the Draft Bill and its proposed legislation.

Input received today from the present Health Practitioners Board, individuals and health associations such as the Cayman Islands Medical and Dental Society (CIMDS) has been given every consideration. I believe that the Ministry and health care practitioners agree that standards similar to those in the UK, USA and Canada should be included in the new Law. In a similar vein, although current Laws of the Cayman Islands do not specifically provide for licensing and inspection of health care facilities, it is a well known fact that Government and private health care facilities need to have a physical plant, equipment and personnel standards. Therefore any new Law governing health practitioners in the Cayman Islands must take this into account. The new Law is also intended to provide a transparent appeals process and as Minister it is my responsibility to ensure that these avenues are fair and just.

I welcome the opportunity to work with health care professionals in developing a health care practitioners Law that further enhances the standards of care in the Cayman Islands.

Therefore, Madam Speaker, I will not seek to rush into the passing of any such Law until I am satisfied that it is workable. It must take into account the interest of the providers of health care as well as their patients. Nevertheless, revision to the Draft Bill and accompanying regulations is well advanced and I am confident that the concerns currently expressed by members of the professions can be satisfactorily resolved in order to be passed into Law in March 2002.

I thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Minister.

THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL 2001

COMMENCEMENT OF DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank You, Madam Speaker. I rise to offer my contribution to the debate on the Budget Address delivered last Wednesday, 5 Deember 2001 by the Honourable Third Official Member.

This would be my second contribution to a Budget Address; indeed this would be a moment for which most if not all the citizens of this country would be waiting: that is the Budget for the year 2002. Much has been said about the state of public finances in this country. Much has been said about the decade of the 1990s. If the Cayman Islands is to continue as a viable entity, it is well recognised by all and sundry, that there has to be a fundamental change in the way in which we manage our financial affairs. Madam Speaker, that is a point I think that all of us in this Legislative Assembly would agree; how we achieve it is another story. We may not agree on that. However, I think, as we go through this exercise of debating the Budget Address and looking at the proposed revenue measures, most of us would agree that this indeed marks a fundamental shift from the way in which Governments have addressed this issue of raising adequate revenue to fund their activities.

Madam Speaker, for many years we have heard the cry that we needed to broaden our tax base and come up with new, creative ways to raise revenue. We have heard the cry that certain sectors of our economy were not contributing their fair share to the running of the country. However, all that this country has traditionally seen and heard are increased taxes on the small man and in the Tourism sector. Indeed, they would hear the echo as that cry was made in central government that we need to broaden the tax base and come up with other ways of raising revenue. All that usually came back, Madam Speaker, was an equally, if not louder, echo from those who have shouted.

My comments today will look at ten major points:

1. The state of the domestic economy;
2. What I term the Cayman economic triangle;
3. A brief look back at last years' Budget Address;
4. The impact of last year's Budget;
5. The creation of the current Budget;
6. In a bit more depth, looking at exactly what it was a lot of us would have said earlier this year when we looked at the budget and we went through this same exercise of debating that budget address;
7. The financial services industry, paying particular attention to what this industry faces in other comparable jurisdictions;
8. The revenue measures that are being proposed;
9. A way forward for the budget process, looking at certain systemic weaknesses and information vacuums and coming up with some viable alternatives and solutions: and
10. The issue of courage. Courage, Madam Speaker, to look all stakeholders in this Cayman economy squarely in the eye and let them know that this Cayman is a Cayman that all of us have a vested interest in seeing move forward in a positive manner, but most importantly allowing the Government to be able to function.

It is quite easy for all of us to claim that Government is too big and inefficient. While most of those claims are indeed true, that does not get us away from the fact that we are in the here and now. We therefore have to ensure that the country has a budget and that the country is operational.

Yes, Madam Speaker, it is the stated and clear intention of the United Democratic Party to encourage, pleading if we have to, with His Excellency the Governor to ensure the following points.

To keep on track, the announced review of the Civil Service and allow all those who participate in the exercise to freely come up with viable alternatives;

To have those alternatives implemented into action plans and those action plans materialised into time lines. Within those time lines, to go through the exercise of firstly looking at those recommendations and saying, 'Well, here is the plan, here is the agenda, here is how we are going to get there, and here is the target date.'

This process must not be derailed. This process drives to the heart of the whole exercise of budgeting. However, that is an ongoing process that has not even begun in earnest and so we are left here to deal with the situation as it stands.

In the Honourable Third Official Member's Budget Address, there was what I believed to be a concise and accurate description as to what has transpired within the Cayman Islands over the past three decades. Briefly, he spoke to the reliance and substantial inflows of foreign direct investment. Secondly, he spoke to the issue of a higher emphasis on economic infrastructure development and less on environmental and social development issues.

Madam Speaker, to all of us who have watched the Cayman Islands develop, that paints an accurate picture of exactly what has happened within these Islands. You hear people talk about the good old days. You hear talk about Cayman not being the same. You hear people talk about so much destruction in young lives in this country. I beg to endorse what the Honourable Third Official Member has said. Yes, indeed we have placed less emphasis on environmental and social development issues.

Thirdly, he spoke to the issues of substantial levels of public and private sector collaboration. He went on to say or posed the question that this has been very effective in promoting economic development but what of collaboration on social and the environmental sectors? Again, driving back to the second point that he raised, it is easy to create the legal infrastructure to attract the persons here to have the economic development. However, it is very difficult then to raise the revenue, to have the education system and the social building mechanisms in place that will allow the people to move forward with the development. No one should be surprised about the current social and moral chaotic state in Cayman.

What we have achieved economically has taken most other countries hundreds of years to achieve. Overnight, Madam Speaker! We have persons in this country who are over a hundred years old—we do not even need to speak of people that old—we have persons in this country who are in their seventies. What profound changes they have seen in their lives, what profound changes they have seen! However, as the Honourable Third Official Member has quite rightly said, we have done a good job, a relatively good job at the economic infrastructural development and at collaborating on developing economically. However, Madam Speaker, what of our people? What of Caymanians? What of things Caymanian?

The Honourable Third Official Member went on to say that there were public and private sector operations alike that were more focused on growth and less on efficiency. Certainly in the private sector, I cannot say that there was necessarily a conscious effort on growth. However, it seems that the cure to issues and matters was always to create a new bureaucracy to deal with it. As those of us who came from the private sector would say, they always seem to throw bodies and dollars at a problem. It should be looked at realistically and do a better job of ensuring whether or not the current services being offered could be tailored to deal with the problems that arose. More importantly, to see whether or not there was anything that we could do on the public and private sector collaboration initiative to address those issues.

We live in a country that has all the images of North America constantly beamed into our living rooms. We see advertisements for the Boys Club, the United Way and advertisements that show how corporate citizens in those countries allow their employees time off from work to be a Big Brother or a Big Sister and in a lot of instances pay them. We see the collaboration reaching that level because the Government and the private sector recognise that there are ills that must be cured. However, just to create a new bureaucracy is not necessarily the way forward.

The last point raised by the Honourable Third Official Member dealt with the two economic sectors within the Cayman Islands, namely Tourism and the Financial and Business Services sectors. So much has happened in the last 30 years in this country that indeed I cannot profess to be able to speak to all of them as I am restricted by age. However, having grown up and gone off to university in the 1990s and to have been in high school in the late 1980s, I believe that I do offer an insight that is critical to the way forward.

I would like to turn firstly to the state of the local or domestic economy and I pick up on two key points that were raised by the Honourable Third Official Member. In regards to real estate, the Honourable Third Official Member has clearly demonstrated to the country by way of certain statistics that there had to be a fall-off in Government revenue. The value of real estate transfers rose from $141.9 million in September 1999 to $205.2 million in September 2000. However, by September 2001, that figure had dropped to $144.6 million.

He also pointed out that in the construction industry as at September 2001, the value of approved developments was some $130.1 million which was significantly lower than the same figure as at September 2000 which was $287.2 million and $303.5 million in September 1999.

As we all watched the boom in the Cayman Islands in the 1990s, we saw that there was no real need to look at the fundamentals that drove the economy. There is little or no need to truly look at the way in which Government raised revenue to fund its operations because those were truly boom years. Madam Speaker, to have a decrease in construction on the value of approved developments from $303.5 million in September 1999 to $287.2 million by September 2000 to $130.1 million September in 2001, clearly tells all of us that things like development, impact and, planning approval fees would therefore have to drop off.

A decrease in real estate transfers from $205.2 million in September 2000 to $144.6 million by September 2001, clearly demonstrates that another area that the Government has always used as a revenue measure and always relied upon to fund its operations—that is stamp duty—would naturally have to suffer.

Madam Speaker, it is quite interesting that because the boom was so large and lasted so long, we could become dependent upon selling off our land, or developing our land to such a large extent that once those activities fell off, the Government did not know where to turn from 2000 through 2001.

Tourism has been on the decline, as I understand it from those who are in the industry, for the better part of two years now. The events of September of this year only sought to heighten and expose the situation. It only deepened a crisis that was already there and once again, yet another area that the Government has relied upon for revenues was seen to be contracting, that is, tourism accommodation taxes. The taxes on alcohol that are brought about and increased periodically are due to the relatively large transient tourist population coming to our shores and buying those products and therefore creating the demand. The wholesalers import them and the Government would charge the taxes on them increasing the taxes on them.

Yes, we have been rather rudimentary in our approach of raising revenue. Yes, from the political side of things we have been cowards to say the least. We would not sit down and look at the stakeholders within the domestic economy and ensure that the tax burden required to run the country was distributed in an equitable fashion. Yes, we can now turn to the economic triangle that has operated within the Cayman Islands. We have the domestic economy, tourism and finance.

Looking at the domestic economy, it is my humble view that those of us who reside here, those of us who are in a lot of instances less able to pay were incrementally burdened in an inequitable fashion when it came to taxes. When we looked at the tax burden of the country, when it came to things like import duties, we clearly saw that in relation to earnings capabilities, the small man, the common man, the persons less able to pay have always been called upon to pay an inequitable portion of the tax burden in this country.

Traditionally, the tourism sector has had significantly stronger ties with the domestic economy than did finance. Madam Speaker, more Caymanians were employed within the tourism sector. More Caymanians used to be employed in those ancillary industries that sprang up mainly out of tourism, things such as construction—industries that employed people such as electricians and plumbers. Over the years what continued to happen within the Cayman Islands was that those two sectors were continually hit with the tax burden.

Yes, we have raised significant revenues from the financial industry through company fees, also through the fees that would have been paid on the buildings that house our financial services partners. However, what no one on the outside could ever understand was how it was that the Cayman Islands could brag of having the fifth largest financial centre in the world and yet struggle to balance a budget. Yet up until last year a mere $300 million budget! I say mere, because it is mere in relation to the fact that we are the fifth largest financial centre in the world. Those on the outside would always look in and say: 'Well, the Cayman Islands should be well off; they should be an extremely rich country; they are the fifth largest financial industry in the world; there are only 30,000 people there.' However, Madam Speaker, over the years, the political directorate of this country have refused to ensure that all economic sectors within the Cayman Islands bore their relative share of the tax burden.

This is not a radical concept. This is a concept that prevails in all or a great majority of free, truly democratic countries. Bill Gates, the richest man in America, pays a lot more taxes than the plumber who earns $30,000 a year within the United States. He not only pays a lot more in tax dollars but also in tax rates. They have a progressive tax structure in the United States. So, to say that there should be a relative sharing of the tax burden in a country is something that all other countries have recognised a long time ago.

However, I get back to what I said earlier. We developed so fast, so quickly, there was a lag between that economic prosperity and getting those who had the knowledge and courage to sit in these Chambers to do something about it. It is easy to sit back and say, 'This year, we are going to raise garbage and drivers' licence fees, the duty on food and on building materials. That is quite easy because we recognise that when you do that, again you are shifting that tax burden in an inequitable fashion and you are sharing it inequitably with the poor man, the common man. After all, Madam Speaker, who better, who easier to do that to? They do not have economic clout, they do not have high social standing, they are here to stay, and they are Caymanians.

So it is, and has been, very easy over the years to tax in that fashion. To look at things simplistically and say, 'Ok, let us bump this or that up', without looking at the entire Cayman Islands as does just about every other country and saying: 'Ok, who is benefiting most from the climate that is created mainly by the Government?' Who provides police? Who provides prisons? Who provides the courts? It is the Government. The Government in every country is the social checking agent that ensures social order prevails and by extension ensures that there is a harmonious society which gives the platform that is so critical to economic prosperity. It is the Government that does it.

Madam Speaker, one year ago—not even a year ago, it was earlier this year—I stood up in these Chambers and I debated my first Budget Address. At that time, I made it quite clear that I was not willing to support any budget that resembled the one that we had last year. I went on to say, however, that given the state in which the country was found at the time, I was willing to support the Budget. In fact Madam Speaker, I would like your indulgence just to quote briefly from what I said if you would—

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, I said:

"Our Government has to function. It has to go on. The country has to go on and again I accept the budget as a good faith and the revenue enhancement package as a good faith attempt to ensure that we carry on the business at hand. However, this is the short term. This is one year. I can accept this position for one year. What I cannot accept and continue to be a part of is a continuation of this trend. I campaigned to the contrary, my conscience leads me to the contrary and I will not do it." [2001 Official Hansard Report, page 260]

I went on to say that we must come up with medium- and long-term financial strategies. I went on to also say that I had to accept what was presented in the Budget because I was not in Executive Council and did not have the opportunity to actively participate in the creation of the Budget. Those were my words on 29 March 2001.

Madam Speaker, what we got in terms of the 2001 Budget was deficit financing to the tune that has never been seen in our country's history and general borrowing levels that were indeed high, to say the least.

In the draft 2002 Budget document that was disseminated to all Honourable Members last Wednesday by the Honourable Third Official Member, if we turn to page 2(b) we see in a snapshot exactly what has happened for the 2001 year. We see a recurrent deficit of some $30.26 million. We see borrowings to fund the recurring deficit. Simply put, that is the equivalent of the common man on the street owing his electricity bill, his phone bill, needing some money for food and going down to the local bank and borrowing that money to pay for this month's electricity bill, to pay for this month's phone bill, to buy some food for himself and his family. That is deficit financing.

At the time, certainly I looked at the 2001 Budget and as I said on 29 March, I saw what was contrary to what I debated and to what I campaigned on. I campaigned on fiscal prudence and responsibility, on broadening the tax base, on finding new ways, new areas and new sources of government revenue.

However, what we got for 2001 was a feeble attempt to say the least. We wound up giving this country a Budget that caused us to have to borrow for our electricity and our phone bills so that we can have lunch money for tomorrow. This was certainly seen as a short-term situation that needed to be overcome so that we could move on.

However, what was still left out was that there was an existing area in the Cayman Islands economy that derives all the benefits that you and I derive, Madam Speaker. They derive the relatively safe and clean environment and good roads. Yet, in terms of carrying their proportionate share of the tax burden in this country—that is relative to what they got out of the economy—they derived the benefits and the profits from being here in the Cayman Islands. However, they were not carrying their share and once again a relative blind eye was turned.

It would be like the United States, all of a sudden waking up tomorrow morning and saying "Ok, all those who make over US$100,000, you are not going to be taxed anymore, you are going to be taxed a nominal rate. We are going to then try and balance the Budget and we are going to then try to create a Budget that will move that country forward.

Madam Speaker, it is accepted in the home countries of most of the banks, trust companies, mutual fund administrators, captive insurance managers, lawyers, accountants, architects and actuaries that the only way that the Government can function, truly maintain a balance and to maintain the social order that all of us need as the haven for prosperity and economic development, is for those who are more able to pay, to pay more.

You go to the United Kingdom or to Canada, you see the same thing. This is not new. We see before us in Table 2 (b) a situation where there is a proposal to transfer some $7 million from the General Reserve fund to help fund the deficit and the short fall in cash that this country is projected to experience in a few short days; that is by the 31 December 2001. Madam Speaker, the General Reserve fund in this instance is therefore almost being depleted.

It is known that the Cayman Islands Government has a general reserve situation that is untenable, to say the least. It is accepted internationally that governments, should always strive to have 90 days cash requirements within their cash reserve fund. I think the balance that currently stands and based on the 2001 and 2002 estimates for recurrent expenditure, the general reserves of this country would last a mere two weeks. Fourteen days is a long way from 90 days.

I think in my first Budget address, I clearly outlined some of the contributing factors that got us to the situation whereby we had the explosion in recurrent expenditure. We had growth on the recurrent revenue side but we had tremendous growth in public debt. We also were not able, because of policy decisions taken by the political directorate at the time, to build up our General Reserve to acceptable levels. Indeed the new Public Finance and Management Bill calls for some 90 days of operating expenditures to be in the General Reserve fund.

We see last year (that is the 2001 Budget) we did have a token contribution of $100,000. However, at the same time the country was put in a position that we had to come here and convene Finance Committee and increase the overdraft facility to some $15 million. Now, Madam Speaker, there would be those of us who would say 'Well, why would we not take $7 million of the $10 million that we have in the General Reserve to fund a part of the shortfall that we are going to experience in 2001?' There would be those of us who would say 'Well, we should keep that. That is money put aside.'

The analogy would be the common man on the street having an overdraft facility of $100 in his chequeing account, projecting through December and recognising that his overdraft is actually going to be, let us say, $120. He has two options. He can either go and take the $20 out of the $25 he has in his savings account to fund that shortfall or he can go back to the bank and request another overdraft increase. He can go back to the bank and say, 'Well, based on my projections, I am now going to require an additional $20. So can you increase my temporary overdraft position?' Either way, Madam Speaker, the $20 must be paid.

However, if we look a little deeper into the situation, we can see two points that support taking the money from the savings account and putting it into the cheque account to ensure that you do not go above your approved overdraft limit. Firstly, other things being equal, you are not going to be able to earn in terms of interest and capital appreciation, a greater amount than you would be charged, if you were to increase your overdraft facility. In other words, the common man on the street is not going to get in interest the amount on that $20 that he needs from the bank that would be greater than or equal to the amount that he would have to pay in interest to the bank for going and getting yet another overdraft increase. So, in the short term if you would go the route of increasing your temporary overdraft, it will cost you more money.

There is also a greater argument to be made in this debate. Currently, the Cayman Islands Government has an overdraft facility of some $15 million that was passed by the Finance Committee of this House. If the Government was to increase that overdraft facility to, let us say, $22 million which is the $7 million that is projected to be required by the end of the year, there is another critical factor that has to be taken into account. That is, the amount of money that is in circulation within the domestic economy or money supply, Madam Speaker. Yes indeed, money supply does impact greatly on what the Government seeks to do.

It is my information that there is some $45 million of CI currency currently in circulation and so the Government itself currently has an overdraft facility of some $15 million dollars which accounts for 33.3 percent of the money supply of the country. That is a relatively high ratio. It gets dangerously high if we were to go about increasing the overdraft facility yet again to $22 million.

Madam Speaker, this business of money and money supply is one that most of us and most people in any country do not understand the fundamentals of because no Government can just go out and print money willy-nilly. If it were that simple, there would not be any poor and hungry in the world. Why would there be if your Government could just print money? We have the mint. The Honourable Third Official Member could easily, along with support, call for an increase in money supply. Unfortunately, there must be value behind your supply of money.

Many years ago it was gold bullion. Governments had stored away in their reserve or central banks actual gold bullion that served as the value that backed up their currency. The world has certainly got away for the most part from such rudimentary practices in terms of money supply and there is much more sophistication now in this global economic village.

Madam Speaker, governments will often now have certain financial securities to utilise to back up their currency. Governments certainly will now utilise their Federal Reserve and Central banks to back up and give value to their money supply. So, the Cayman Islands Government cannot just go out and print money; we must have value. Therefore, if we were to increase the temporary overdraft facility to $22 million, I believe that we would be putting the financial stability of the country on a footing that is not sound.

To have the Government have at its disposal an overdraft facility and a drawn overdraft facility that equates to some 50 percent of its money supply is not something that I believe is healthy at this point in time. So, that leaves the position that is before us which is to utilise the General Reserve to be able to fund the projected overdraft through the end of the year.

At the end of the day, for the year 2001 in large part, we have continued a trend and exacerbated a financial crisis situation. That is, not to go out and ensure the stake-holders in this country recognise the value of the Government, the need for the Government and that they must pay their proportionate share to help finance the operations of the Government.

Madam Speaker, the financial services industry has gotten away with murder over the years in this country. We have struggled to balance our Budgets. We have run up unprecedented debt levels and left the financial services industry pretty much untouched, untapped. Even when we look at what it is that government gets from the presence of the financial services industry, we see that a lot of that revenue comes from the underlying clients directly. We do not raise revenue to any large extent from those who are here, those who have a physical presence here, and those who reap the benefits of being in these Cayman Islands.

Indeed, if we look at prior Budgets, we see significant revenues coming from areas like company fees but who pays the company fees? Certainly not the entities that are here with us, certainly not the banks and the trust companies that are here with us. These are paid by the owners of those companies and that is something that any company expects in any area, any jurisdiction and any country in this world.

However, as we continue to look through the fees, the revenue that is raised by the Cayman Islands Government, we see that on the domestic side, in terms of those who have a physical presence in these Islands and actually do make a contribution to the Government, we clearly see there is a vacuum. We clearly see that the financial services industry has not been carrying its weight in the Cayman Islands. Yet the infrastructure and the environment here is so conducive to businesses because it allows them to make these profit levels, to come here and work with us, to live with us and to earn those relatively high salaries. Yet for all these years, we have turned a blind eye and said, 'Ok, let us attack tourism and let us attack our poor people. That is where we are going to get the revenue.'

The Speaker: Honourable Member, is this an appropriate time for you to take a break?

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, if I could have five more minutes I will be at an ideal place to stop.

The Speaker: Certainly, please continue.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. When we look at Table 2 (b), we see a horrific, horrific financial picture. We see a country with a deficit of some $30.26 million that was financed by borrowing. I can certainly (as I did one year ago) tell the world, that in terms of creating the revenue side of the budget to come up with a revenue package that was sustainable in the long term, I certainly was not afforded that opportunity. I think it is clear to all of us that the budget process, the budget that comes here is a budget that the people's representatives must vote on. Those on the political side of things have to vote on the budget. Therefore, for many years now, it has also been the political side that has engineered the budget process because after all, we are the ones that have to go back and look our constituents in the eyes and say, 'This is the Budget that we voted on, on your behalf.'

Certainly, the 2001 Budget was one that had much input, obviously from the Government side at the time. However, having been a member of the Government Back Bench at that time, it is fair to say that the Budget was steered on the political front from the First Elected Member from George Town. Certainly, the Financial Management initiative (FMI) was also being steered by the First Elected Member from George Town.

This new political directorate has within Executive Council put the Honourable Minister for Planning as the key person when it comes to budget fiscal matters. The decision for that is very simple. On the Government Bench, he is indeed the Member who has expertise and indeed qualifications to do such a task. He is a qualified accountant. Madam Speaker, this new political directorate is utilising all the expertise that the entire Government has at its disposal. Indeed I myself am a qualified accountant. The Second Elected Member from Little Cayman and Cayman Brac has a first and second degree in Finance and Economics and indeed we do bring a certain skill, a certain eye that serves the Government well in this area. We have been able to be involved on the creative side of the Government that is the revenue side.

We have all heard how the expenditure side works. We have all heard and seen where you say last year plus five percent. We have all seen and heard how the Civil Servants come with their wish list and then the political directorate sends them back and say, 'No, here is your target.' That, Madam Speaker, is a practice that has to cease. Later on in my contribution I will give some insight as to how that practice is going to be addressed.

However, Madam Speaker, all through the years I have listened eagerly to this time of year and I have heard Members get up in this Honourable House and speak a lot about the expenditure side. 'Why are you spending this on education? Why are you spending this on health? What about this line? What about that line?'

Whilst that is very important, what is also very important is the fiscal policy of the Government. A key component of the fiscal policy is how you raise the revenue for the Government to operate. How do you raise enough revenue for your recurrent expenditure? You raise enough revenue to pay down your debt, not just to service your debt but pay it down on an accelerated basis. That is why in my contribution I will be concentrating greatly on the revenue side of the Budget and showing the country where we are heading.

It behoves all to remember that no man is an island and a man has to know his limitations. We have a Government that recognises that and is willing to accept all the assistance they can get when it comes to this matter of creating a budget because what the Budget looks like is of national importance. It impacts the lives of all our citizens.

Madam Speaker, I think this is a convenient time.

The Speaker: I will now suspend for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.55 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.18 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Please be seated.

The Second Elected for West Bay continuing his debate.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Before we took the morning break, I had just completed point four of my ten points, but so far we have looked at the state of the domestic economy of the Cayman economic triangle. We have looked at some of my contributions to last year's Budget Address debate and we have looked at what impact the 2001 Budget has had on the financial position of the country. Now, as I said before the break, my debate is going to look primarily on the revenue side of the Budget because to get bogged down in the minutia that is involved on the expenditure side is not the methodology. I feel that would offer the public some clarity as to where we are and where we are heading.

Madam Speaker, just about all of us agree with the impending review of the Civil Service. We all agree that there will be decisions to be made and services to be looked at. It will be determined whether or not the Government should be providing the service, whether the service should be provided at all, or is there some other agency that would be better equipped to deliver the service. If it is the determination that Government should be involved with, then the efficiencies and the structure will be looked at. If it is not, then the decision will have to be made as to whether something along the lines of a business unit will have to be created or whether or not the Government is going to seek to have full privatisation. A third possibility obviously would be for the Government to have some form of joint venture with the private sector.

So we all agree on the big picture which covers the recurrent expenditure side of the Budget as the way forward. I am not going to get bogged down in the details of specific ministries, about how much is going here or there and how much money is being allocated to certain line items.

Madam Speaker, I think the country needs to know where we are heading. How are we going to address some of the weaknesses that I addressed earlier? Let us first look to the Honourable Third Official Member's address. He has brought to us five main principles that are going to be adopted by the new political directorate. Just by way of clarity for those who are out there in the public who will be listening and who may not necessarily have a copy of the Honourable Third Official Member's address, or may have listened but probably would have forgotten a lot of the points raised, I just want to reiterate these five principles.

First of all, there is going to be a tripartite approach to national development which will involve the active participation of the public, private and social sectors. It is envisioned that this approach will promote sustainable development and a greater inclusion and balance in development and business opportunities for local residents.

There are a number of new matters on the Government's agenda to further this tripartite approach. Firstly, there is going to be the establishment of a tourism services training centre. There is going to be the establishment of a Cayman Islands Investment Unit. This unit is going to be seen as a one-stop facility for foreign and local investors who seek to do a development and again it says foreign and local. Anyone—Caymanian and non-Caymanian—who wants to do a specific development is going to have at his fingertips, one place to go to get their questions answered. They are not going to have to go from Planning over to Environmental Health over to the Financial Secretary's Office, over to Immigration.

Madam Speaker, the aim of this Investment Unit will be to promote and foster consistent messages, timely messages being provided to those who seek to invest in the Cayman Islands. This of course is not a new concept. The Bahamas has the Bahamas Investment Authority, I think it is called. Similarly, in Bermuda there is such an organisation and that type of organisation will allow us to be able to better manage what is coming down the line in terms of development.

Also it is envisioned that there will be a growth management bureau established. Again, this bureau is going to be charged with formulating an overall growth strategy for these Islands. All this will have to tie in to our national policy statement of Vision 2008. Madam Speaker, this is another area that we have talked about for years and years. How do we manage development? How do we manage the affairs of the country? I think now we are taking a step that is going to be in the right direction to actually get us there in a tangible way. Yes, we have had boards appointed before but with all due respect, this requires the type of private and public sector collaboration that no board can offer the country. We must have these types of units and bureau that is being envisioned here; otherwise we will be blindly charting ahead not knowing when we are going to run aground.

Madam Speaker, there are many who think that we have run aground now. However, when we just look around this region, this Caribbean region that we all live in, we can see that even with the state of the local economy as it is, we still have much to be thankful for.

So it is also envisioned that we are going to resolve the key immigration and, security of tenure issues of long term residents. This is a matter that is already on the way. There will be a promotion and focus on E-commerce, E-business and utilising information technology to not only to develop a new industry in Cayman, but also be able to be utilised by the Government in the provision of its services, yet another area that we are going to greatly invest in so as to try and reduce the recurrent expenditure side of Government.

However, this process has to be managed. It will involve training and retraining of people. It will involve inevitably a reduction in jobs in the Civil Service but again, this is a process that must be managed. Those people must be trained and retrained. We have some 14,000 work permits in this Island and so if we are going to have true public and private sector participation and partnership, when this retraining exercise happens we must have the co-operation of the private sector.

The private sector continually criticises the Government for being too large, too inefficient; saying that the recurrent expenditures are too high. Well, personal emoluments are certainly the greatest part of Government recurrent expenditure and so they in the private sector must not expect that any Government is going to lay people off without a plan. If they are going to be active participants in the way forward, training is a key area in which they can be involved. A critical area is training and retraining those Caymanians who would be affected so that they can transition into new jobs, into new areas and be productive.

There are other initiatives that drive towards this tripartite approach, namely developing a Cayman Islands Development Bank and promoting small business development. We can see the stock exchange continually mature to the point where there would be the possibility of it serving its purpose as a true stock exchange for the Cayman Islands. An institution where local entrepreneurs can raise capital, where local people with good ideas can get out there and have a broad based approach to investment and not have to go out and take out exorbitant loans on their own or need wealthy business partners. It would be able to afford all the people in these Islands who are able to and who so desire to participate in investment in Cayman. So there is that focus also.

Secondly, there is going to be a focus on renewal of existing systems that work and reform those that do not. Certainly, I have spoken to this issue but also a key component will be the continuation of the financial management initiative. That initiative is critical to the country reaping the benefits of The Public Finance and Management Bill which we recently passed in this Legislature. I think all of us at the time saw the need, saw the potential benefits that such legislation was going to bring. However, implementation of all these things is key because it is easy to do plans and to write reports and have studies done but, Madam Speaker, it is work. It is getting down and having the will, having the political know how, having the partnerships with the private sector that is so key to move the country and these initiatives forward. There would be a phased implementation of the accepted recommendations of the review of the Cayman Islands Civil service again, Madam Speaker, a key component to the way forward.

Thirdly, there has to be a focus on the attainment of greater efficiencies in government. Yes, Madam Speaker, there must be the public and private sector participation of which I spoke. We must rationalise the existence of the national flag carrier, Cayman Airways. We must move forward on the liberalisation of the telecommunications industry, because if nothing has stopped E-business from developing more, it is been the cost of telecoms. We can talk about E-business all we want but with the current rate structures that the sole provider of telecom charges in this country, it will continue to stifle the development of such an industry. Therefore, we are committed to the liberalisation of the telecommunications sector.

Madam Speaker, we are also committed to looking at all other such utility sectors and ensuring that the structures and agreements that they operate under with the Cayman Islands Government, is one that serves the benefit of the citizens and businesses of this country. This is a pro-business Government. Business creates jobs; jobs create spending power. That is the basis of capitalism but when we address all these issues we do have a balanced approach and we do recognise that there have been some serious weaknesses in the way in which the public and private sectors have co-existed over the years.

Fourthly, Madam Speaker, there is going to be a strategic orientation of Government machinery and of private businesses in order to meet new domestic and global challenges. The key component to all of that is our people; developing our people, education, training, retraining; this is a key component to the way forward. We must have the education reform that the Honourable Minister of Education has spoken about for many years. We must ensure that the very system that seeks to educate and train the citizens of this country will equip them with tools that are usable in the private sector and that allow them to forge their way in this life.

We have heard over the last year, some of the nightmare stories with regard to import duties in regards to just how rudimentary that system is. In fact, I would go on to say that for the purposes of running the country it is archaic. How is it that a Government cannot look at a specific line and be able to do a reasonably, sensitivity analysis as to what will happen to that particular line of products or line of goods and services, if they moved the import duty rate either upward or downward? There is often a common fallacy that if you want to raise revenue, you simply reduce the rates on whatever it is you are talking about. However, that does not always happen. What happens sometimes to Governments who do not give good information is that they reduce prices but the actual amount of the goods or services that they sell does not increase and so they wind up losing revenue.

That would be like us saying we are going to make the Rolls Royces duty free. Sure, we can say that we are going to make Rolls Royces duty free. Does that mean that people are going to rush out and get Rolls Royces? Well, not duty free but let us say lower the duty to ten percent, does that mean people are going to rush out and get Rolls Royce and then we are going to all of a sudden see this growth in revenue because we reduced the revenue on that particular line? No, Madam Speaker, and so this re-examination and streamlining of the import duty regime that the Honourable Third Official Member has spoken to is also a key spoke in the wheel that we are trying to create that will allow us to offer the type of governance that the citizens of the country deserve. Information is king, Madam Speaker.

Fifthly, there is going to be an implementation of a more selective and focused approach to marketing our international finance and business sectors and tourism services. There is an aim to have a Grand Cayman working group to develop a programme to integrate and refocus the marketing and promotional efforts of the public sector. Given the state of tourism this certainly is going to be something that is a welcome change.

However, it is going to be up to all of us in this Chamber to hold those who are going to be the key implementers of these strategies accountable. It is going to take all of us; not just those who say that they are a part of the Government Bench. Every single Elected Member must hold the persons accountable, to the best of their ability, because this is our Cayman Islands. This is one Cayman Islands. There is not a Government or Opposition Cayman Islands. There is one Cayman Islands. We must have one common agenda and that is the furtherance of our people, the development of a sustainable economy, reform and education that will allow our people to maximise their potential.

Certainly, these five initiatives are going to require a lot of work and much private public sector collaboration. So once again, the Government is calling upon the private sector to hold up its end of the bargain in this regard. Certainly, the National Advisory Council as envisioned is going to provide the platform for that collaboration. It is envisioned that there will be a sub committee for economic, social and environmental issues, for fiscal issues and legislative issues.

Again, this Government recognises that there must be that collaboration with those that are in the private sector to move this country forward in a balanced manner, in a manner that is going to provide a worthwhile legacy to pass on to our children and grandchildren.

Madam Speaker, we must have these fundamental changes. What is so invigorating is that the Honourable Third Official Member is eager to get these initiatives on the way. He recognises the need for these initiatives. He recognises the need to have political support to move this country forward in a balanced manner.

I turn now to the main strategies that went into creating the 2002 Budget. As the Honourable Third Official Member has said, there were a number of fiscal strategies that underlie this Budget. One meant taking the tough decision to ensure that we had a balanced budget and not continually delaying that decision.

We could easily have taken the easy street this year and said, 'Well things still do not look good. Real estate is still down, construction is still down, tourism is down, so the country is going to under-stand, we need to have another 40 million of deficit financing.' No, Madam Speaker, it would have been most unfortunate and most irresponsible taking the easy street. One thing that is certain in life is that in this political arena, every decision you make is going to be met with those in favour and those who are opposed. We cannot get away from that. The day that we think that we are going to please everybody is the day that we please no one. So, Madam Speaker, this is a decision that pleases no one and one that we felt had to be made at this point in this country's history.

Certainly, on the budgeting front we have taken a step backwards, in my humble opinion. Her Majesty's Government has sent an economist to work with the Honourable Third Official Member. If that is not a clear indication that Her Majesty's Government is not going to sit back and watch us run up amounts like $55 million a year in borrowing, nothing is!

The British Government recognises that there is a contingent liability within the Cayman Islands

Government and any of us who wants to deny that is denying some basic facts. It is a basic fact of life. We are a contingent liability of Her Majesty's Government and so Her Majesty's Government has given us much autonomy over the years. However, we have taken that autonomy and we have broken the sacred trust and Her Majesty's Government now has taken the decision that an economist must be placed with us here in the Cayman Islands. This is a grave step backwards for us in Cayman! A grave step backwards because this process that we are going through here is sacred—the ability to create our own budget. When people speak of creating destinies, how else can you create your destiny if you cannot create the budget, the framework under which you are going to develop yourselves? Certainly, this has been in the works for a number of years, but none of us can deny the fact that last year sent out a very negative message for the Cayman Islands—$55 million in debt in one fiscal year; somewhere in the order of $30 million of deficit financing.

Certainly, ensuring that all expenditure recurrent statutory and capital acquisitions are funded from recurrent revenue was another key component of our fiscal strategies and the Budget that we have before us achieves that strategy. That strategy is one that can be found again in the new Public Finance and Management Bill.

We find ourselves yet again at the crossroads in Cayman and we have been at the crossroads for a number of years now. This is at least the third straight year that we are at the crossroads where we have had the slow down. The boom years that artificially kept the Government coffers buoyant, that artificially kept the country going are no longer here. When we look at construction and we look at the value of approved projects and land transfers, what persists now in 2001 and going into 2002 may very well be the economic reality of the country.

Yes, the Government can try to reinvigorate those sectors. Yes, the Government can come up with initiatives to try and find growth in those two sectors. However, that might very well be the reality. Spiralling growth cannot continue unchecked. At the end of the day in every economic scenario, there comes a time where the dreaded flat line kicks in; that is where growth is normal. It is not in the order of 15 and 20 percent but it is more in the order of two to five percent. So, in these Cayman islands, we should not sit back and say 'Oh, the boom years are going to come back, oh well let us ride out the storm, let us weather the storm for a few years and then We will pick back up again and We will see a return of land transfers to the levels that existed, We will see a return of approved projects in construction to the levels that that existed.'

We have within the Cayman Islands, a Financial Services Sector that has not contributed what it should to the coffers of the general revenue of the Government of the Cayman Islands to will allow us to run this country so as to provide them with the environment to do business.

We have also had a third fiscal strategy, which was to have a contribution to the General Reserves and that is this year in the order of some $1.5 million. Now I recognise that contribution is not going to get us to the point within the timeline that we need to get to in terms of having the operating reserves; the reserves that can fund recurrent operations up to 90 days that is called for by the Public Finance and Management Bill.

However, if we take a quick look at Table 2, we will see where this Budget provides the framework that will allow for much greater contributions to the General Reserve fund in the future. However, that point I will get back to later in my debate, Madam Speaker.

A point that needs to be stressed is the debt service ratio. The Honourable Third Official Member made it quite clear that one of the main contributing factors to the debt service ratio going from 8.2 percent in 2001 to a proposed 8.6 percent in 2002 was mainly due to the timing of the drawdown of the loans from 2001. In other words, consider when the Government has a loan bill that does not automatically trigger the increase in the debt service ratio. It will depend on when the moneys are actually borrowed by the Government, when the Government receives the funds and, tied into that, what the loan agreement says in regard to repayment of those funds, such as when will those repayments start. It is those repayments that actually seek to increase the debt service ratio. The year 2002 is going to be the first year that will bear the full load of the new borrowings from 2001. Thereby causing the increase of the debt service ratio despite the fact that this Budget only proposes $8 million in new borrowing and an additional $4 million of undrawn funds from last year—so $12 million in total in borrowing.

The Speaker: Is this a convenient time for the lunch-eon break, Honourable Member?

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Yes, Madam Speaker, I was just about to go on to a new point.

The Speaker: The House will be suspended until 2.30 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.54 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.40 PM

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for West Bay continuing his debate on the Budget Address.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you Madam Speaker. When we took the lunch break, I had just outlined a number of new initiatives for which the Government is seeking support and to implement as a way forward in regard to the good governance and fiscal management of the country. As I have said earlier most persons in the country I believe have expressed the view that the Financial Services Industry is poised to contribute more significantly to the revenues of the country. Now I believe that this is a view that certainly those of us in this Chamber would share. This is an idea that I have heard people toss about for years; yet, seemingly nothing tangible came of it.

I would now like to take a look back at the debate on Budget Addresses earlier this year and demonstrate that this idea certainly has support across the floor of this House because, Madam Speaker, it is important that, as I said earlier, although the methodology and the exact details may differ sometimes, the fundamental concept of the Financial Services Industry contributing more seems to be one that is shared by many persons who have been elected to this Legislative Assembly.

Firstly, with the Chair's indulgence, I would like to take a brief portion of one of my honourable colleague's contribution to the Budget Address in this Legislative Assembly earlier this year, to show and demonstrate that this ideology is something that is shared. With your indulgence, Madam Speaker, I would like to read a portion.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: I quote:

"I now turn to the financial industry. Having worked in the financial community for some 17 years, I say that the financial industry in this country is not bearing its fair share of the tax burden. The stakeholders in the financial industry generate significant profits and carrying on business in Cayman provides profit opportunities that would be difficult to realise elsewhere. It is my view that this industry needs to contribute significantly more to the coffers of Government to ensure that this favourable environment that they currently operate in continues.

"Now, there is more justification for asking the financial industry to contribute more. The financial industry is actually costing the Government significant sums of money as Government continues to negotiate with OECD, FATF and other international agencies seeking to set up and administer the kind of regulatory framework now necessary to comply with the far reaching international initiatives. For example the Monetary Authority has had to increase its staff from 48 to 73. By the year 2003, the staff complement is expected to increase to 129.

"The recurrent cost of operating the Monetary Authority has risen from $5.2 million last year to $8.5 million this year. By the end of next year that cost is expected to rise to $10.6 million and by the end of 2004 is expected to be $13.5 million.

"Plainly we cannot expect to pay for these increased costs by taxing food or any of the other items that affect the ordinary man in the street. These costs need to be borne fairly and squarely by the industry on whose behalf they are being incurred. These are some of the difficult decisions that need to be made. The Government needs to sit down with the financial community just as it did when trying to put together the 2001 Budget."

Madam Speaker, this is a quote from 18 April 2001 by the Second Elected Member for George Town in his contribution to the Budget Address. Certainly that clearly demonstrates that there is support on both sides in this Honourable House to the notion that the financial industry must contribute more to the coffers of the Government of the Cayman Islands.

Just for clarity I would quote the first sentence again; "I now turn to the financial industry. Having worked in the financial community for some 17 years I say the financial industry in this country is not bearing its fair share of the tax burden. The stakeholders in the industry generate significant profits and carrying on business in Cayman provides profit opportunities that would be difficult to realise elsewhere."

Madam Speaker, the Government wholly endorses that view. That is precisely why the revenue package that the country and this Legislative Assembly has before it is indeed looking to derive much of the revenue to be generated from the financial industry. I believe that we have a lot of common ground when it comes to this revenue package on all sides of the aisle within this Legislative Assembly. I believe that once we put all the political and personal differences aside that there is a common ground that we can stand on. I think that is clearly demonstrated by the budget that we have in front of us. I use a specific example of a view that was taken by the Second Elected Member from George Town on 18 April 2001, and we on the Government side certainly agree whole heartedly with that view.

Now, Madam Speaker, this business of raising revenue is one in which you find that the stakeholders in Cayman typically talk a good game but seem very unwilling when the time is at hand, to actually sit down with the Government in a meaningful way, agree that that is the way forward and come up with solutions to the issue of raising revenue that there is satisfaction on both sides.

I would like to share with this Honourable House and indeed with the country, a quick comparison to some of the jurisdictions that we have compared ourselves to, quite rightly, in the past namely Bermuda and the Bahamas.

When we look at the 2001 Budget for the territory of Bermuda, we see that their recurrent expenditures were somewhere in the order of United States $528.7 million dollars and utilising the 84 cents exchange rate that comes out to some CI$448,108,000. When we compare that to the Cayman Islands Government's recurrent budget for the similar period, we see that the Government had a recurrent budget of some $299.4 million, equating to a difference of some $144,708,000. That is some 48 percent more than the Cayman Islands.

I do not believe that it is a coincidence that Bermuda has a similar percentage difference in population to the Cayman Islands. They are some 50 percent bigger than we are. We are some 40,000, they are some 60,000. So the difference on the recovery side is some 48 percent; right in line, Madam Speaker.

It is also not surprising that the Government of Bermuda has just themselves completed their review of the Civil Service exercise whereby they had staff and expertise come in from the United Kingdom Civil Service College to perform a detailed review that took some six months on the size, structure and efficiency of their Civil Service. Indeed, the private sector in Bermuda has had several claims that the private sector in the Cayman Islands has, and that is that the Government is too big, the Government is too inefficient. So we see even on that level there is some commonality between the two territories, namely Bermuda and ourselves.

What is significantly different is the ability to raise revenue in Bermuda and the level of debt that the Central Government of Bermuda has compared to the Cayman Islands. Whilst our recurrent expenditure seems to be fairly similar, their recurrent revenue substantially outstrips the Cayman Islands. Also, their national debt is on a similar level as the Cayman Islands; in fact it is only a couple of million dollars different; yet they merely have 50 percent more persons. On a similar period, the Bermudan Government was able to raise somewhere in the order of CI$470 million, thereby producing recurrent surpluses.

Let us now compare how it is that the overseas territory of Bermuda taxes its citizens versus the Cayman Islands.

Firstly there is one significant difference. The territory of Bermuda has a payroll tax. They have a payroll tax of some 12.75 percent and on personal income they have a payroll tax of some 4.75 percent. The remainder is made up, as I understand it, by the actual companies themselves. However, they have a direct form of taxation; yet they have a buoyant international financial services sector. They do cap the salary that is taxable at some $225,000. So, on $225,000, persons in the territory of Bermuda pay indirect taxation 4.75 percent. The remaining 8 percent is taxable, as I understand it, to the actual companies themselves.

Madam Speaker, our Budget does not seek any form of direct taxation. There are many in our jurisdiction who feel as though that would make us uncompetitive and would send out the wrong signals. However, I wanted it to be clearly stated on the record that this territory that we compare ourselves with so often, namely Bermuda, has a very different approach to raising revenue for Government. Not only do they have a direct payroll tax, but also persons who go there, like people from the Cayman Islands, will pay health insurance and pensions.

There is another interesting tax that the territory of Bermuda levies called a social insurance tax, which is payable by individuals at a rate of some US $21.50 per week. Whereas Bermuda does have the indirect taxation system that is similar to the Cayman Islands whereby you levy duties on imports and they are similar to Cayman in that they have to import the great majority of their consumer goods, be it food, household items et cetera.

However, they have found it necessary to have a payroll tax that the Minister of Finance has clearly illustrated and clearly stated that is geared toward raising the revenues that the country needs to survive. To raise the revenues that allow them to maintain the atmosphere that is necessary for the smooth workings of the Financial Services Industry, Tourism and their society as a whole.

So, Madam Speaker, certainly there will be those who will criticise this Government in taking the bold stance that it has in regard to raising additional revenues from the Financial Services Industry. However, certainly none of them can point toward territories like Bermuda and look at the entire picture as to what is taxed in that territory and then tell the story that Cayman will be uncompetitive because what we are proposing is actually a flat fee. It is not tied to the revenue earnings capability of the individual companies.

Certainly, this Government is one that wants to ensure that the Financial Services Industry remains buoyant because there is much to be gained from having a buoyant Financial Services Industry, much to be gained by way of jobs, opportunities, scholarship opportunities that a lot of us in this country would never have been afforded if that industry was not here. I was privileged to be able to be sent to university for four years by the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse. I am very thankful, extremely gracious that that was afforded to me because if that had not been the case and if we did not have that industry, certainly Government would not be able to afford to give the scholarships that it gives. So I may not have had the opportunity to go overseas to further my education, knowledge and experience base.

When we compare ourselves to Bermuda, I believe the Cayman Islands Government is still extremely competitive. I believe given the revenue measures that are being proposed here, we in this Honourable House, and those in the community and in the Financial Services Industry itself sit down, and really look at the bottom line, they too will recognise that this has been necessary for many years.

I cannot speak to the waste that happened before I got here. I cannot speak to the Budgets before I got here. There might be those of us who might actually say there was not necessarily a lot of waste in the '90s. There was more of a runaway Civil Service factor and combined with not raising the necessary revenues to be able to build up the General Reserves to the necessary level.

Madam Speaker, if we had had such a revenue enhancement package directed at the Financial Services Industry many years ago, I am confident that despite the fact that many of us may believe that there is and has been a lot of waste within Government. I am confident though, that that additional revenue would have provided a basis to have built up our General Reserves to have not had this country in a situation where we only have some 12 days operating recurrent expenditure in the General Reserves of the country.

When one looks at the taxation structure in the overseas territory of Bermuda, there are still many other differences. They charge a property tax. There are many other differences. However, I believe that we only need to look at the few that I looked at to see the fundamental difference between the Bermudan Government and the Cayman Islands Government. We can see clearly how Bermuda had been able to manage its fiscal affairs in somewhat of a more responsible manner than we have been here in the Cayman Islands.

I said earlier that I believe we have taken a gigantic step backward with Her Majesty's Government now sending an economist to work with us. However, at the same time we have to embrace all changes because all changes create opportunity. So this may have been what we needed to happen for us to pull up our boot straps, pull up our socks and be able to move forward and manage our fiscal affairs but more importantly, be able to look at our entire economy, look at what it is that the Government is providing at present and come up with a way in which we can raise the revenue to run the country.

When the partner sits in his office in the law firm or at the accounting firm, when the bank manager sits in his office, when they go to the nice homes that they have, that is something that helps all of us in the Cayman Islands. It creates jobs and it provides something to which all Caymanians can aspire. All Caymanians can educate themselves and aspire one day to take up those posts. However, at the same time it would be wholly irresponsible of us to continue the trend that has been set all these years.

We have to ensure that the country has the necessary resources. We cannot continue to borrow at the levels that we have been borrowing; we cannot continue down that road. That is delaying the inevitable, it is passing on a burden to our children and grandchildren and I refuse to be a part of that sort of legacy. We have to be big men and women that we can look our private sector partners in the financial services industry and say, 'Listen here is where the country has to get to. This is all to provide the basis on which your businesses and your lifestyles are built.' No one says that they do not want any one to enjoy that lifestyle. That is what we want to encourage because we want Caymanians to have that incentive. For all Caymanian accountants who wind up with an accounting firm trying to make it to the top; to make it to the partnership level, if they so desire. This includes providing the incentive to those that are in the Law firms and architecture firms to do the same.

As I said earlier, we are at a crossroads. We are either going down the beaten path that we have tried over and over and it has not worked; it will not work. We cannot continue to tax the poor man. We cannot continue to have that uneven distribution of the tax burden in the Cayman Islands. I think it is clear, when we look at the territory of Bermuda that we can recognise that the measures that we took certainly will not make us uncompetitive.

Madam Speaker, certainly there are some differences in our financial services industries but the bottom line is they are all financial services professionals. All captive insurance companies need auditors and need lawyers. Just because their product mix is slightly different than the Cayman Islands does not get us away from the fact. The fact is when you are a financial services industry domicile, we have the opportunity to bring to our shores job potential that is incredible. At the same time, we must ensure that the society that we have is one that fosters and caters to our industries.

We are so close to being back in the good old days that I hear so many older folks talk about. I have said over and over since being in this Legislative Assembly, tourists do not have to come to the Cayman Islands. The financial services industry does not have to stay here.

However, I believe that the single biggest threat is disorder in our society. That is crime, crime mainly driven by drug use; that is persons who cannot make ends meet; and who wind up having their homes repossessed. When those sorts of circumstances exist, there is always that increasing possibility for social disorder and we have to get to the point where we are not shifting the tax burden in an unequitable fashion to the poorer persons in our community. When we look at how every other country manages its affairs, raises its revenue, you see that those who are better able to pay, do pay more of the tax burden.

That is accepted. It is accepted by every country that these same professionals have come from, whether they come from the United Kingdom, the United States or Canada. Every one of those accountants, lawyers, bank managers, trust company managers, mutual fund administration managers, mutual fund accountants has come from a country where they are, relatively speaking, higher wage earners and therefore they have to contribute a higher portion of the tax revenue.

What all and sundry have to understand is that you cannot expect to have the same lifestyle in the Cayman Islands and tax ourselves the way that we have in the past. The persons in the financial services industry have to recognise that the way in which their Governments promote and maintain a good society, a good education system that helps maintain their lifestyle was because they had to pay their fair share of the tax burden. This is not anything new.

I do recognise, however, that certainly when persons do come to the Cayman Islands they quickly forget what existed where they came from. They see this marvellous system that we have built here. You come, you work, there are relatively little taxes and even after these measures there are still relatively little taxes and fees. They have come to expect in the Cayman Islands that they work, enjoy their profits and the fruits of their labour, do not have to contribute anything more than they have contributed to the Government. The Government does not want it, does not ask for it; so why should they go out and volunteer? Certainly it seems as though that old adage "When in Rome, do as the Romans do" has been adopted by many persons who come on these shores.

So I would expect there would be some in the financial services industry who will look at the revenue enhancement package and complain. However, at the end of the day, I believe this revenue enhancement package is one that will allow the Cayman Islands Government to move forward in a positive way, having raised a substantial portion of the funding required to efficiently run the Government.

One of the revenue measures proposed is an increase in the fee on gasoline and diesel duty. However, the receipts from this fee will be placed in the Roads Development fund. So one of the things we are going to do is to let the country see the direct results of the revenue measure. All those who utilise gasoline and diesel for use in their automobile use the roads. How else do you get around? So that is why the revenue is going to go in the Roads Development Fund.

This is how we are going to ensure that we have good roads and good infrastructure. Good infrastructure is critical to any country's economic development. Whether it is tourism or whether it be the financial services industry we must have good infrastructure.

It is important to note that the diesel used by CUC will not be subjected to this increased fee. So in other words, we are not going to have it said, at least with any accuracy, that this Government has increased the taxes on CUC which has had that trickle down effect—an increase in costs at Foster's Food Fair, Kirk's Supermarket, Hurley's Supermarket—all of which will be passed on to the consumer. We all know CUC has its own dedicated source of diesel to operate and that will not be, I repeat, will not be a part of the revenue measures.

Let us turn to the banking and trust industry. I think it is fair comment that the banking sector has enjoyed tremendous profits in the Cayman Islands over the years. Tremendous profits and that is something that this Government encourages, because the more profitable they are the more they should be investing in our people, giving scholarships, more training; all a critical part of building a good society, on building a good nation. However, it was the view that their licence fees were inadequate and the Government had set up a fiscal advisory group. That fiscal advisory group made certain recommendations and one of the recommendations was for an increase in annual licence fees of the banks and trust companies in this Island.

The Government is fully cognisant that Bahamas is our major competitor in this area and certainly after these measures there will be a significant difference in our licence fee structure than that which currently holds in the Bahamas. However, there are a number of key items that must be fully appreciated when we are going to compare us to the Bahamas.

Firstly, Madam Speaker, there are other costs by way of fees and charges; significant fee and charges that are raised in the Bahamas that currently do not exist in the Cayman Islands. So, when we look at the cost of doing business to these individual entities in relation to the amount they have to pay to the Government, we will quickly see that although on the fee side there may be a significant difference, overall that difference is much less.

Also, after consulting with the technocrats in this area—those who work at the Monetary Authority who deal with this business on a day to day basis and who have dealt in this industry over the years—the Government felt fully comfortable that these increases in fees would not cause any large decrease in the business base of the Cayman Islands. These fees we believe will allow or assist the Government in managing the country in a rational manner, in a way that will foster the good civil society that we need to maintain our two pillars: our Financial Industry and Tourism.

It should be noted that the first list of bank fees are those payable on the initial grant of the licence and that is followed by the renewal fee. There is a difference between the initial fee and the renewal and there is logic to that. Certainly, if the Monetary Authority were to receive an application for a banking licence of whatever category, during that first year when they have to do all their due diligence, their research, their Interpol checks on the directors et cetera of those entities, the cost incurred is significantly different than that on an ongoing basis. So once the bank, the entity is registered in the Cayman Islands, at that point the Monetary Authority has already done its base work. At that point, all it has to do is the continual monitoring. So when the licence comes up for renewal in year two, they do not have to go again and do searches on every single person associated with the company.

Certainly they would have to be made aware of all changes and do the due diligence again. However, those changes under normal circumstances equate to wholesale management changes. That is, to bring the bank or the trust company back in the position where the Monetary Authority would have to do their due diligence checks on all the management within the entity. I think it is quite logical that the initial grant of licence is different from the renewal. I think when we go to many other countries and see the way in which they have such fees set up that this is consistent.

Item four deals with local vessel licences. As we can see from the schedule for boats less than 18 feet, jet skis, and jet skis used for commercial purposes, there is no proposed change. The proposed changes are for local boats over 18 feet, in terms of a minimal annual licence fee similar to that which is paid on automobiles. Indeed, this is one of the areas that there will be a concerted effort to ensure that the Government actually does collect the revenue that is due.

Any of us who have read past year Auditor-General reports know one of the criticisms he and his office have had of the Cayman Islands Government is the ability to collect the revenues that are due. This is something that the Government will seek to tighten up.

Madam Speaker, the Government is of the view that for the boats where there will be an increase in fees, 18 to 30 feet, it will increase from $150 to $165; 31 to 50 feet, $150 to $500; over 50 feet $1,000 to $1,400 and the new boat licence fee will be $35 a year. I think it is fair comment that this will not impact the common man on the street. For the size vessels that we are talking about and the boat licence fee that is being proposed is a mere $35 for the year, I think it is fair comment that this is not going to cause any hardship on the common man or the small man.

There is a proposed increase in the postage stamp required on Bills of Lading and courier airway bills from 50 cents to $2. This fee was last updated in 1973. Again, this is an area that the Government is going to be more focused and more diligent in ensuring that the revenues due it are indeed collected. The technocrats in this area tell us that they have complained for years that this is an area that they have not been able to collect the revenues as efficiently as they need to and so there is in the works increased enforcement in that area to ensure that the Government does collect the fees due.

The Notary Public fees are being increased. Certainly in most countries, it is a privilege to be a Notary of the Public. It is a privilege to be able to practice and notarise documents for the general public. One of the things noted is that over the last few years there has been a move by some of the larger players in the financial industry to have multiple notaries within their offices. Certainly they have started the practice whereby there are many secretaries within offices who are notaries and who notarise documents and that is good and fine. The Government simply is of the view that for that privilege, the fee is not in line with what it should be and so the initial registration fee is proposed to go from $150 to $500 and the annual fee is going from $75 to a proposed $250. Again, this is not a fee that is going to hit the ordinary man who has been hit so hard over the years with the tax burden in this country.

Madam Speaker, garbage fees. What can I say? One big mess! I have had the Department of Environmental Health send me a garbage bill and I do not even own a house yet. This is laughable. I have met so many people in this community who tell me they have never received a garbage fee bill in their lives. Caribbean Utilities Company, the provider of electricity in the Islands, has said that there are some 16,000 residential addresses in their database. Yet, there is significantly less in the Department of Environmental Health. Again, under the recommendation from the fiscal advisory group, the Government is seeking a partnership with Caribbean Utilities Company whereby garbage fees will be attached to people's light bills.

There are a few advantages to this approach. Firstly, we would not have to take Government resources to try and build the database necessary to adequately capture all those who have a dwelling that should be charged a garbage fee. It saves us the resources and man hours of building that database. The other thing this does is, it ties your garbage fees to your consumption of electricity. This is not admittedly a perfect scenario. Personally, I believe that the more prudent approach would have been to have it tied to your water bill and I will say why in a minute. However, even as we speak, there are many households on this Island that do not have piped water and so for that reason alone that approach would not have worked.

The reason I believe that would have been a more appropriate base is because admittedly you could have for example a 1,000 square foot house with two persons living in it and another 1,000 square foot house with four persons living in it. I think it is agreeable that the law of averages would dictate that the house with four people would generate more garbage and so should be the house that would be charged a bit more in terms of a fee. However, let us take another step and add an example to that analysis. The house with two people may have central air; the house with the four people may not have central air.

So the household with the two people may wind up paying a bit more in terms of the garbage fee than the household with the four people. In this Island there has been a saying that Cleanliness is next to Godliness. So if it was tied to water, you would find that the household with the four would have paid more because they would have taken more showers, have done more laundry et cetera. Be that as it may, Madam Speaker, I still believe that this is a sound method to collect garbage fees. I believe it is a good decision that the Government is taking in terms of being able to collect the fees that are due it.

The other advantage is that people will now be able to pay their fee on a monthly basis. Instead of having to come up with $150 or $200 or $300, one lump sum at the end of the year, now you can pay or spread it over the year. I think that is a good development for the citizens of this country. Also, I might add, that in this age where we need to be increasingly energy conscious, I do believe that this does provide an incentive for all of us to tighten up our belts in that regard.

I think all of us will look ourselves in the mirror and say, 'Yes, we have not done all that we need to do in that area.' How many of us walk out of the room and leave the television and the lights on? How many of us actually practice all that CUC lays out in its energy efficiency guide? I picked one of those up several months ago, Madam Speaker, and the number of simple things that most of us do unconsciously that cause us to have higher electricity bills is incredible. So, I think this is an ideal opportunity for the Government to be able to collect its revenue on the one hand while persons will be able to pay their bill over 12 months versus having to come up with it at the end of the year and also, it does provide some incentive for all of us to be more energy efficient. After all, we are continually using the resources of this earth. Fossil fuel will probably not last forever and so we must be all conscious in that regard.

There is a proposal to increase certain work permit fees, and again this idea was put forward by the fiscal advisory group. It calls for persons of certain managerial ranks—Chief Executive Officers, General Managers, Managing Directors—to have to pay an increased fee from some $6,600 to $10,000. In my travels in the financial services industry and in speaking to persons in that industry over the last three or four months or so, I got unequivocal support for increase in fees such as these—increasing and introducing Trade and Business Licence fees versus going the route of Bermuda with its payroll tax and other forms of direct taxation. So I believe that this is a prudent approach for the Cayman Islands to take.

There is an additional fee for work permits for partners and directors in professional firms. Those fees are based on the number of non-Caymanian partners and directors. Again, the ideology that supports this came from the fiscal advisory group. This was seen as yet another incentive for companies to Caymanianise, and to get as many Caymanians in the door and up the ranks as possible. When we look at the financial services industry, we see an industry that most of us have always believed has not shared in the tax burden within the Cayman Islands on an equal basis.

There is a number of other permit fees proposed, all of which came in consultation with the technocrats in that area who know or have a reasonable idea as to the cost of providing the services that they provide and who believed that the current free structure was not in line with the actual cost of the service that they provided. That is, the application fees for temporary work permits, for work permits other than temporary, for permanent residence and for Caymanian status. In this regard, the Government was fully cognisant, especially in regards to Caymanian status, that any proposed fee should not have been seen as discriminatory; that is to have such a high application fee that it would preclude certain persons who have been here for a large number of years from applying. That is why the fee has been maintained at a low level.

On the issue of dependants within the Cayman Islands, certainly there has been a policy in the past that only certain categories of workers are allowed to have their dependants here. Those in the unskilled categories cannot. In fact, they may make a special application but they are going to have to prove that they make a substantial earning to be able to have their dependants here. Dependants mainly accompany persons of relatively high financial means. So, it is proposed that there be a fee charged per year just as the work permit holder has to pay an annual fee for each dependent. Now that fee is relatively low. However, it does demonstrate that the Government recognises that even the dependants that are here do cause a strain on government services which have to be provided and by extension, on government resources such as the hospital and schools. Even though there is a policy that they attend private schools, the Government still gives a subsidy to those private schools. In this regard the Government is proposing a $500 annual fee.

Madam Speaker, there are also occasions where certain visas for certain low risk categories of individuals. That is, entry visas to the Cayman Islands are granted here in Cayman versus in the home jurisdiction. In fact, some of these occurrences happen because of inaccurate information given to travellers by the travel agents. For example, a couple coming to Cayman on a honeymoon may have been told they did not need a visa coming from their country when in fact they needed the visa. They were coming here to have a good time to celebrate their marriage and so when they get here, certainly the Immigration Department does not have a policy of turning them away, but in fact have a policy of ensuring that they do get the visa processed. Often times in that regard, the airlines that they are about to board will contact authorities in the Cayman Islands and make them aware that the person do not have their visa and so the Cayman Islands authorities are expecting this. That fee is being proposed to be increased for a multiple entry visa from $70 to $150 and for a single entry visa from $30 to $75.

There are multiple categories of work permit fees where the temporary work permit fee does not correlate to the actual fee. In other words, for certain categories the temporary fee was $150 per month; yet the annual fee was $6,600 per month. That provided an incentive for persons to bring their employees in for as many months as possible on a temporary without getting their full work permit. After consultation with the technocrats in this area, it was felt that all those temporary fees should be brought in line with the actual annual fee. In other words, if there was a work permit fee for $6,000 a year in a specific category which would be some $500 a month, then the temporary should be similar in terms of the charge per month and I think that is extremely logical. I think that is an area the technical persons within Immigration who practise and carry out the Law on a daily basis, were uniquely positioned to be able to advise the Government and ensure that revenue was not forgone.

There is a proposal to increase fees in the mutual funds area. Currently, a mutual fund administrator licence, a full licence, is some $12,300 a year. For those that hold that particular licence, that fee is relatively low. Again, the country must have the resources to run itself efficiently. There are numerous proposed fee increases within the mutual funds area and again after speaking to those of technical experience within this area, those who work at the Monetary Authority and those who are actually in the industry itself, there was a feeling that there was scope for increasing those fees.

What is not contained here was a general feeling that there should be discrimination within the fees in this sector. Those who practice in this sector feel that any mutual fund person who holds a mutual fund administration licence but does not operate within the Cayman Islands should have to pay a higher fee. I think that is quite logical because those who are here are creating jobs and opportunities and those who are not here will obviously not do that. On top of that, the Monetary Authority's job of regulation is made a whole lot more difficult when they have to register a service provider who is not domiciled within the Cayman Islands versus one that is.

Certainly, Madam Speaker, there are agreements in place whereby we can rely on the regulators in home countries for certain categories of countries but at the end of the day, if those entities are going to utilise the Cayman Islands mutual fund product and not be here physically and not contribute to the domestic economy, there is a feeling within the industry that they should have to pay an increased fee. However, as I said earlier, that is not included here within this and certainly after further consultation with those practitioners within the mutual funds area that is something that the Government will be looking at in the future.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, is this a convenient time for the afternoon break? We will now suspend for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.50 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.10 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Please be seated.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay continuing his debate.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Before we took the afternoon break, I had just provided some comment not only on the new proposed fees in the mutual funds area but also some insight as to what the Government would be doing going forward, in terms of dialogue with the participants in that important sector of the financial services industry.

The last point that I would like to make on that is for the actual licences of mutual funds registered in the Cayman Islands, it is being proposed that the fee be increased from $1,025 to $2,000. Now that particular fee was also increased in the year 2001 from approximately $750 to $1,025 and this year to $2000.

The Cayman Islands has for many years been the jurisdiction of choice for new hedge funds being started up offshore. In fact, according to hedgefundnews.com one of the respected news sources for the hedge fund business, they have reported that in the year 2000, 60 percent of all new offshore hedge funds had chosen the Cayman Islands as their domicile. That, Madam Speaker, is a strong commanding share of that business. We have managed to create a legal framework that is efficient, thorough and it allows us to be a leader in this industry. That 60 percent increase in 2,000 equates to some 500 plus new funds being registered in the Cayman Islands. However, there is much work to be done in this area because the great majority of the new funds that are being registered in the Cayman Islands are being administered in other jurisdictions such as Dublin, Bermuda and Jersey.

Basically, what has happened in the mutual funds area is whilst registration has been on a steep incline, most mutual funds have most of their administrative functions performed in other jurisdictions. That is, all their books and records, their registrar and transfer agent work on share capital and shareholder correspondence. What has caused this? A number of factors have contributed to this. One would be the change in the rules in regards to the ability of service providers in Dublin to be able to provide administrative services for non-Dublin registered hedge funds. Coupled with this is the fact that Ireland, in particular Dublin, itself had suffered a great flight of accountants and auditors to jurisdictions such as the Cayman Islands, Bermuda and New York because the supply was outstripping the demand.

Those persons were coming to these jurisdictions and working for big five accounting firms and providing auditing services for these funds, working for mutual fund administrators as mutual fund accountants. The Irish Government has made a concerted effort to bring their accountants home to create job opportunities in their own home countries.

Whereas in the eighties and nineties there was an exodus of qualified accountants from Ireland. Many are now going back to that jurisdiction and taking up jobs as mutual fund accountants and auditors with auditing firms who provide auditing services for those mutual funds.

Madam Speaker, because of the ready available human expertise, that jurisdiction (Dublin) in particular, has been successful at attracting big hedge fund administrators such as Hemisphere to set up in Dublin and to provide the services of many funds that are actually domiciled in the Cayman Islands. All that the Cayman Islands Government itself is getting out of those mutual funds would be the annual registration fee and those other benefits. Therefore job creation in terms of mutual funds accountants, auditors and audit firms, are escaping and going elsewhere.

That is a trend that those in the industry in conjunction with the Monetary Authority and the Government would have to address. The business opportunities are not only going to other jurisdictions but we are having 60 percent of hedge funds being domiciled in Cayman without having other services provided here and our ability to demonstrate to the international community that we can effectively regulate those products is being challenged.

Certainly in recent times, the Monetary Authority has issued a policy whereby there will be a local audit sign-off requirement for funds registered in the Cayman Islands and I think that will assist the Monetary Authority being able to point to someone in the Cayman Islands that is actually providing a service for those mutual funds. Those of us who might not know what a local audit sign-off might require: let me explain just briefly. If a mutual fund for example is domiciled in Cayman, being administered in Dublin and being audited by Deloitte & Touche for example in Dublin, what will now happen is that once this requirement comes into effect, the Deloitte & Touche arm office here in Cayman will have to actually sign the audit opinion.

As an auditor, you are not going to just rely on your other office to have done a complete and thorough audit. What you will do is request them to provide you with the high-risk areas of the audit file, for example investments. You will also require them to send you their client acceptance section of the file. You will also require them to send you the entire planning file so that you could see that the audit was planned correctly. You will also require them to send you the audit summary file which will assure you that the audit was carried out effectively and indeed that all significant matters have been resolved and that the financial statements do provide a true and fair view of the mutual fund.

In this regard, it is not simply checking items on a list and then their firm in Cayman will sign. The firm in Cayman now has serious reputational risk regarding those mutual funds. They are the ones that are now signing off the audit opinion and so this does provide some additional comfort to the Monetary Authority, to know that the auditors here in Cayman are now having to go through the "know your customer" section of the file for example and ensure that the office in the jurisdiction in which the fund is administered has indeed audited the clients' "know your customer" regulations. This will add a level of regulation from the standpoint of the Monetary Authority.

I did neglect to state the new proposed fees in regards to the banking industry and so the last thing that I would like to say this afternoon is about the new fees. Madam Speaker, it is proposed that a Class 'A' licence with a retail operation here in the Cayman Islands will incur a fee of some $400,000 a year, an increase from $123,000.

Class 'A' licensees who provide principal office services are also having a new fee structure proposed at $250,000 a year. All the other class 'A' licensees will see their fee increased from $102,000 to $130,000.

The 'B' class licences which carry out certain other functions or are structured in a certain way will also see their fees increased. For example, the 'B' licence alone where the licence holder is a branch of a bank licence in a country or territory outside the Cayman Islands will see their fee increased from some $21,525 to $57,000. The 'B' licensee alone, who is a subsidiary of a bank licensed outside the Cayman Islands will also see their fee increased from $22,500 to $57,000.

This is on renewals, Madam Speaker. The renewal fee for the 'B' licence where the holder is not a subsidiary of a branch in a country outside the Cayman Islands will see their fee increased to some $60,000. That is mainly due to the increased risks of those particular types of entities.

We see as we go down the line that the 'B' licence that has a trust licence attached to it will see their fee increased from $21,525 to $57,000.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, we have now reached the hour of interruption. Is this a convenient time or would you be finished within the next few seconds?

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, I would be finished within the next two minutes with this section.

The Speaker: Please continue.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: The trust licence alone where the licence holder is a subsidiary of a bank in a country outside the Cayman Islands would see their fee increased from $22,550 to $57,000.

A restricted 'B' licence alone where the licence holder is a branch of a bank licensed outside the Cayman Islands would see their fee increased from some $13,325 to $37,000.

Restricted 'B' licence alone in the case where the licence holder is a subsidiary of a bank licensed in a country or territory outside the Cayman Islands would go from $14,350 to $37,000. The 'B' licence where the holder is not a subsidiary would go from $16,400 to $40,000.

Similarly those restricted 'B' licence holders who have attached restricted trust licences would go up in similar or identical rates as the restricted 'B' licences without a trust licence. Madam Speaker, it has been a practice of issuing licences with a trust licence at no incremental cost. That has been a practice for many years in the Cayman Islands. A restricted trust licence alone would go from $2,460 to $6,000 and a nominee trust licence would go from $2,050 to $6,000.

I close off by saying that those fees were derived after consultation with the banking industry and those technocrats at the Monetary Authority who do regulate and oversee the banks. This is a budget that seeks to ensure that the financial services sector does contribute a fair share to the government coffers. This country is seeing for the first time in many years, as the Honourable Third Official Member has said in his address, "a truly balanced budget", a budget that seeks to broaden the tax base and to ensure that all stakeholders within the Cayman Islands do contribute their relative share to the funding of the Government.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I beg to move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 am on Wednesday, 12 December.

The Speaker: The question is that this House do now adjourn until 10 am, Wednesday 12 December. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Honourable House stands adjourned until 10 am Wednesday 12 December.

AT 4.29 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM WEDNESDAY, 12 DECEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
WEDNESDAY
12 DECEMBER 2001
11.00 AM
Fourth Sitting

The Speaker: Good morning. I will call on the First Elected Member for George Town to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: we beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy name and for the safety honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father who art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 11.03 am

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

ADMINISTRATION OF OATHS OR AFFIRMATIONS

(Administered by the Clerk)

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE

By Mr. A. Joel Walton JP

The Speaker: Mr. Walton, will you please come to the Clerk's desk to take the oath, and will all Honourable Members please stand?

Mr. A. Joel Walton: I, A. Joel Walton, do swear that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, her heirs and successors according to law, so help me God.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I welcome you to this sitting of the House. Please take your seat and I look forward to the day when this should only be done once per year. Please be seated.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: Honourable Members, I wish to apologise for the delay in commencement of proceedings this morning but it was in order to facilitate the transfer of the relevant documentation for the Honourable Third Official Member to be enacted here this morning.

I have received apologies from the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Economic Development who is not well today. The Honourable Second Official Member will be arriving later this morning.

I should also wish to state for the benefit of Honourable Members that at 4 o'clock today I should move to suspend the proceedings so that the Deputy Speaker will have an opportunity to conclude the remaining of the proceedings to allow me to attend with His Excellency the Governor an official function in my constituency.

The Speaker: We have reached the hour of 11 am. Is there a motion to suspend Standing Orders 23(7) and (8)?

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I move the suspension of the relevant Standing Order in order to take questions this morning.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23(7) and (8) be suspended to allow question time to continue beyond 11 am. All those in favour say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Question time is duly extended.

AGREED. STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED IN ORDER FOR QUESTION TIME TO CONTINUE BEYOND 11 AM.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MINISTERS AND MEMBERS

QUESTION NO. 125

(Deferred Monday 10 December)

No. 125: Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr. asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology, that in light of the current economic situation in the Cayman Islands if there are any planned or ongoing negotiations with Caribbean Utilities Company, with a view to decreasing their capital costs, thereby reducing their rates.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Caribbean Utilities Company Ltd. has recently announced to Government and the public that it (CUC) has agreed to forego the rate increase of 2 percent in respect of the fiscal year ending 30 April 2001. According to CUC, this decision was taken in the light of the economic slowdown following the 11 September disasters in the United States of America.

CUC has also advised that it is committed to conducting a full and proper allocated cost of service study with a view of having this completed no later than May 2003. Government has indicated to CUC that there should be no further rate increases until this study has been completed and reviewed by Government.

Since recently being made responsible for the subject of CUC, my Ministry has already begun preliminary groundwork for an in-depth examination of the CUC franchise including matters relating but not limited to its rate of return, capital and asset structure and fuel factor calculations. While it is too early for me to be in a position to provide Members of this Honourable House with a full update or specific details, I want to take this opportunity to give my personal assurance that this matter is a top priority for my Ministry.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Minister. Are there any supplementaries?

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Through you, I would ask for a commitment from the Minister for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology to also include Cayman Brac's Power and Light Company under his review, with the hope of also benefiting the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman in any future reductions that may come about.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am pleased to give the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and indeed you, Madam Speaker, the commitment to include the Cayman Brac Power and Light Company in this exercise.

The Speaker: Any further supplementaries?
The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I just wonder if the Minister could say if, in this review, Government will be using consultants who are experienced in the related field?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, it has been my position not only during this administration, but whilst I was Minister 1988 to 1992 that in any of these technical matters, I use consultants who are experienced in the particular subject.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries shall we move on to the next?

The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Minister could tell us how Government intends to hire those consultants, that is, the process that would be conducted to hire those consultants.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, there is a well established procedure within Government on the appointment of consultants. I am not in a position to give all the details of that here but I am sure that the Honourable Member can get that information in writing if he so requires or otherwise he could check with the Personnel Department, but there is indeed a proper procedure in place and that procedure will be followed by my Ministry.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries at this time? If not, we will move on to the next question.

QUESTION NO. 128
(Deferred)

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

No. 128: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin Jr. asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce what is the current employment status of the Director of the Port Authority?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, thank you very much. I would like to move under Standing Order 23(5) to defer Question 128 on today's Order Paper and give the assurance to the Member asking the Question that an answer will be forthcoming shortly.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23 (5) be moved at this time. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Standing Order is duly approved with the consent of the House and the question shall be forthcoming in due course.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 128 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I would move, out of an abundance of caution, to suspend Standing Orders in order to have the statement read.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS TO ALLOW A STATEMENT TO BE READ WITHOUT THE ITEM HAVING BEEN PLACED UPON THE ORDER PAPER

The Speaker: The question is that the relevant Standing Orders be duly suspended so that a necessary statement by the Leader of Government Business can be read into the record at this time. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Please proceed.

AGREED. STANDING ORDERS SUSPENDED TO ALLOW A STATEMENT TO BE READ.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

GRANTS OF CAYMANIAN STATUS

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you very much Madam Speaker. In recent days the Immigration Board has published the names of those persons who have been granted Caymanian status. On behalf of the United Democratic Party Government, I wish to congratulate and welcome all of our new Caymanians into our Caymanian society.

The United Democratic Party Government stands committed to resolving the issues of security of tenure for those families and individuals who have been long term residents in the Cayman Islands. Much deliberation and consideration has gone into seeking a solution to this challenge. As a first step, the Government is pleased to announce that the Immigration Board will be directed to give favourable consideration for the grant of permanent residence to those most recent unsuccessful applicants for Caymanian Status who wish to make such application. It is our understanding that most of the documentation, that is financial statements, land registry records, et cetera have already been submitted with the application for Caymanian Status.

All that may be necessary would be a formal application and the necessary application fee. This is the format that we will be proposing to Immigration Board in order to simplify the process.

Altogether, the United Democratic Party Government intends to recommend the granting of permanent residence for up to 1,000 applicants. The Immigration Board will, of course, deal with each application on its merits giving consideration to the length of the applicants' residence as well as their contribution to our society.

The United Democratic Party Government is convinced the grant of permanent residence should include with it the right to work and as a result, the Government intends to introduce legislation to make this possible. This would relieve the need for a permanent resident to obtain a separate work permit as the situation now exists.

The United Democratic Party Government considers that this decision will impact positively on the lives of those individuals and families who have long lived in, contributed to and consider the Cayman Islands their home.

Thank you very much, Madam Speaker, and I thank Members for their indulgence.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town, is it your intention to ask a short question?

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Yes, with your permission, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Please proceed under Standing Order No. 32.

SHORT QUESTIONS – STANDING ORDER 30(2)

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I wonder if the Honourable Minister for Tourism could say whether this decision in relation to the question of permanent residence will render unnecessary the preparation of the second interim report on immigration reform, which was required by a motion of this Honourable House and was to be carried out by the Immigration Review Team, who has just submitted its first interim report?

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I have listened to that and in my view it is seeking an opinion from an individual, but if the Honourable Minister wishes to reply, he can so do.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the answer is no.

The Speaker: Are there any other short questions?

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: With your permission, I would be most grateful as a member of that team if the Honourable Minister could expand upon his answer a bit more.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment and Transport.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Member asked a question about rendering unnecessary the report and I said no. I did not hear anything about a second phase if that is what he is asking. I would hope that it certainly stands. As far as the Government is concerned, once the report continues, we would not stop it. We would hope that it would delve further into the needs of Immigration.

The Speaker: Last short question.

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I was not seeking to pick a fight with the Honourable Minister. Three reports were required. The second report dealt with the issue or was to deal with the issue of permanent residence and Caymanian status, hence my question. As the decision has been taken in relation to the question of permanent residence, I was seeking an explanation from the Honourable Minister as to whether the remit of the review team has now been altered or changed in respect to that.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister of Tourism, Environment and Transport.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I think what I have said is very clear and unambiguous. I have said no. I think the Member ought to understand that.

The Speaker: Madam Clerk, the next item of business.

The Second Elected Member from the District of West Bay continuing the debate. I should wish to indicate that you have 50 minutes remaining.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL, 2001

DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, when we adjourned proceedings on Monday of this week, I had dealt with the critical policy matters that had been raised in the Budget Address of the Honourable Third Official Member. There are five major features that he had utilised to describe the past three decades of economic development in the Cayman Islands. I also looked at the five main principles under which the new Government would proceed.

In regard to economic development within the Cayman Islands, I also looked at the need for public sector reform and finally at the budget strategies, which is where I had left off on Monday. I made it clear that I would be dwelling much more on the overall policy statement the Budget seeks to make as well as at the revenue measures being proposed. I think I had made it abundantly clear that there is often a temptation to take the proposed Budget and to look at the minute details that are contained within specific Ministries and Portfolios, versus looking at the overall strategy and the direction that the Budget seeks to take the country.

I made it clear that I would not have employed that strategy. I also, by way of background, looked at the financial industry. I also compared how it is that persons who conduct business in the financial industry in the Cayman Islands compare with other jurisdictions such as Bermuda. I looked at how the government in the overseas territory of Bermuda sought to raise revenue which had as key components a payroll tax and a social insurance programme, which were in addition to items such as health insurance and pension contributions. The latter two also exist within the Cayman Islands but the former, that is, payroll taxes and social insurance, do not.

With that backdrop, I wish to proceed with my review of the actual revenue measures package which would have been point eight on the ten point list that I had outlined on Monday. That was namely the state of the domestic economy; the Cayman Islands economic triangle; and taking a look back at last year's Budget Address; the impact of the prior year Budget; and the financial services industry. I also looked at what other Honourable Members and I had said in relation to the financial services industry during the last Budget Address and I am on point eight which was looking at the revenue measures. After that I will look briefly at the way forward in terms of the budget process and last but not least an item of great significance and that is where we hope to be once that review of the Budget process has taken place.

Madam Speaker, I looked at the revenue measures up to point nine on the spreadsheet which has been presented to all Honourable Members. It has dealt with the mutual funds industry and I now move on to item 10 which deals with the issue of insurance licences. The recommendation in the Budget that has come forward in terms of the proposed revenue measures are to seek to increase the licence fees paid by certain classes of insurance companies and to also increase the fees of insurance managers, insurance brokers and insurance agents.

In regard to class 'A' insurance licence holders, it is proposed that their fee will increase from $20,000 to $30,000 a year. In regard to both types of class 'B'—that is unrestricted and restricted licence holders—it is proposed that the fee be increased from $5,500 to $7,000 dollars. In regard to insurance managers, it is recommended that the fee be stratified on the basis of the number of clients that the particular insurance manager undertakes to provide managerial services to. It is proposed in the Budget that for those who manage one to ten clients, the fee would be $15,000 from $10,000; those who are managing 11 to 50 clients the fee would go from $12,000 to $20,000; those who are managing 51 through 100 clients, the fee would go from $16,000 to $25,000 and for those who manage over 100 clients it would go from $20,000 to $30,000. In regard to insurance brokers, the fee would be $4,500, an increase from $2,400; and for agents, the fee would go from $250 to $400 dollars per annum.

Madam Speaker, as I outlined in my contribution on Monday, one of the things that we sought to do was to involve those in the governmental side of the industry, namely the Monetary Authority and other agencies that deal directly with the relevant industries within the financial services sector.

The next item is point 11 which deals with a new proposal which is to have certain professional service firms pay an annual licence fee in order to operate within the Cayman Islands.

Firstly, accounting and auditing firms. It is proposed that all these fees also be dealt with on a stratified basis. However, in this specific industry where there are varying sizes of firms, it was felt that the more appropriate basis to utilise the exercise would have been the number of professionals who are employed by the firm. To clarify that point, it would be the number of relevant professionals within the firm. I say that to mean, for example, within a law firm it would not be expected that they would include their financial controller for instance in their count of relevant professionals. That would not necessarily include information technology persons who have a professional qualification. The basis on this will be whether or not that particular professional is providing professional service firms with services to the firm's clients and not to the firm themselves.

Further clarification, Madam Speaker—in my earlier examples, indeed the financial controller would be the controller for the firm itself and so would not be providing services to the firms' clients and would not be an income earning professional for the firm itself. I think that point is a very relevant and a very specific one because, certainly, some of the firms would employ, in fact all the firms would employ, other professionals who are not within their specific discipline.

However, if an accounting and audit firm, for example, had set up a trust company which was directly a part of the entire group, then those professionals would have to be included in the firm's count of professionals, in regard to their annual trade licence. If, for example, the firm provided liquidation services and had set up a separate and distinct company to provide those services, then, indeed, that specific company's professionals would form part of the count in regard to the actual trader licence fee. This specific stratification based on the number of professionals deals with the group of companies. In other words, if you have an individual firm that has a number of companies that form part of the overall group and they provide services, then all the professionals would be included. However, those professionals who provide services directly to the firm's internal purposes such as their accountant, if it is a law firm or an architecture firm, they would not be included in the count because they would not be a professional who directly impacts the revenue capability of the professional services firm.

It is proposed in regard to accounting or audit firms that if the firm has one to five accountants and other professionals qualified in other disciplines that impact directly on the revenue capability of the firm, that specific firm would be exempt from any trader licence requirement. The reason for the exemption is primarily due to the fact that the Government believes it necessary to encourage those Caymanians who wish to start their own practices to do so. This exemption seeks to give them that capability in the early years in which they seek to grow.

In other words, Madam Speaker, if a single lawyer were to desire to go out and practise, he would not have to pay any trader licence fee. What would happen is, as his firm continues to grow, up to five lawyers would be exempt. The same would be for accounting firms. For six to 10 accountants and for other professionals directly related to the group, the fee would be $15,000; 11 to 15 persons it would be $30,000; 16 to 20 would be $45,000; 21 to 25 would be $160,000; and 26 and over would be $300,000. In regard to law firms, the bands would be one to five lawyers would be exempt; six to 10 lawyers would be $50,000; 11 to 25 lawyers would be $150,000; and 26 and above would be $300,000.

In regard to other professional firms, which include any professional association of firms who work together and are required to have some specific professional designation in order to carry out their duties such as architects, engineers, actuarial or any such professionals, again one to five professionals would be exempt from the annual trader licence fee requirement. Six to 10 would be required to pay an annual fee of $15,000; 11 to 15 would be $25,000; 16 to 20 would be $40,000; 21 to 25, $50,000; 26 and above would be $100,000.

Madam Speaker, I think it is fair to say at this point, that certainly within the Caymanian economy, over the years professional service firms—in particular accounting, law, architecture and engineering firms—have enjoyed the ability to practise within this country without having to contribute to the running of the country in what we would believe to be a real and tangible way. There would be those who get up and argue that they pay work permit fees. However, every person in this country who employs a foreign national has to pay a work permit fee. Certainly, the persons in those industries have provided indirect contributions to the Caymanian economy, but indeed so has everyone else.

I want to make it abundantly clear that this Government seeks to encourage profitable firms, firms that have positive growth potential. We seek to work with those firms to ensure that we would be open to any necessary legislation and policies that need to be made, because we recognise that they are the ones that are out there practising and oftentimes can provide invaluable insight as to how, by natural extension, their specific firms can grow.

When we look at the Overseas Territory of Bermuda, with whom we often compare ourselves, we see they have a system of direct taxation. That allows their Government to balance their budgets, to operate as a country and to maintain the infrastructure so vital for good tourism and financial services products. It allows them, Madam Speaker, to invest the necessary money in the people in terms of education, to provide local persons with the opportunities and the abilities and the skill sets to make their way into these specific industries, to be employed and to contribute to those companies.

I think it is fair to say that over the years here in the Cayman Islands there has been what I would term a virtual free ride for many firms within the professional industries, within the financial sector. It is so funny how we will have individuals who come to these Islands from countries that impose a direct form of income taxation, see the situation and some of whom would seek to say that this or any Government would be unreasonable to expect them to contribute their respective share to the running of the country. That is somewhat laughable. I believe that when the great majority of persons within these industries look at the current situation in the country and at the good of the country, they would recognise that as a government we could not continue to go down the road of spiralling debt which in itself will give great concern for long-term sustainability.

When you have a country that is debt-laden and seeks to tax itself in this indirect fashion, we have to be extremely cautious. Countries that have direct forms of taxation can in some tangible way predict their revenue streams and see how they are going to pay off or service their debt. This country is currently paying substantial amounts in regard to the repayment of debt. We know—those of us who have taken the time to look at the White Paper, the Partnership for Progress and Prosperity—it is rightly stated in black and white that the United Kingdom views all Overseas Territories as contingent liabilities. Therefore, Her Majesty's Government is not going to sit idly by and watch her Overseas Territories not manage their fiscal affairs in a prudent manner. I said on Monday that having the United Kingdom Government send an economist to work with the Financial Secretary in his office was a step backwards for us here in the Cayman Islands.

However, if we look at our recent financial performance as a Government, one can rightly understand why Her Majesty's Government would take this decision at this point in time. It would be blind and ignorant of us to sit here and try to tell the people of this country that that move was simply done to help us. It was also done, with all due respect, to ensure that Her Majesty's Government's contingent liabilities within this territory do not continue to escalate. It was done to ensure that we practice fiscal prudence, that we prioritise our spending and to ensure that we come up with sustainable economic plans. We boast about being the fifth largest financial centre in the world; yet we cannot manage to balance up until now in a real tangible way a $300 million dollar budget.

We have just come out of a general election in which there was no person, party or group who came forward with a tangible economic plan for the country. How is it that we expect to enjoy all the benefits that come along with the development we have had so far, yet also expect to not have ourselves organised? We expect to have proper planning and to focus on that long-term planning. We want to ensure the electorate recognise that it is fine to make good and sound promises and to say what it is that you are going to do, but recognise at the end of the day that it is Government's budget, fiscal capability and capability to raise the adequate revenue that is the premise and base upon which all those promises have to be delivered.

I now turn to the issue of parking fees. The fiscal advisory group made a recommendation to the Government that the Government should seek to derive some revenue out of and from the properties that it owns here in central George Town. For many years the parking behind the Public Library and the parking along the sides of many streets here in George Town have been provided for free. This current Government proposes that there would be a fee charged for the usage of those parking facilities. It is also the intention of the Government to utilise existing machinery in order to make this specific item a reality.

There is a proposal before the Government to have a system that is tested and tried in another territory to actually administer the parking system. There would be parking tickets which would be sold to the public from the Department of Licensing that would allow the public to display within its windshield its ticket for any specific day. The tickets themselves, will be really easy to use, will be extremely user friendly and will allow the public to be able to utilise its pre-purchased parking tickets without having to go through the process of having to carry around things like small change that would be required if a decision to have a parking meters had been approved. Further details on the specifics of this plan will be rolled out in due course.

What is of interest is the projected revenue regarding this system. A study was undertaken by a professional within the public service who actually specialises within the area of roads and traffic engineering. An account was taken of all the available parking spaces within the Cayman Islands and the actual rate was applied to those parking spaces on the basis of a seven and a half hour day. So, in other words, once we get outside business hours as is the case in many other countries and many other territories, parking becomes free of charge.

Moving on to Health Services fees, it has been known for many years that there has been a dire need for an increase and an introduction of specific charges within the Health Services Department. In fact, there are some 600 procedures not currently specified on the fee schedule of the Health Services Department, for the vast majority of these revenues were not, as I understand it, actually being collected.

There has also been a review of the specific fees to ensure that the fees are being charged at the cost that it actually costs the Health Service Department to provide those services to the public. This item goes quite well with the current review taking place regarding the Health Insurance Law. It is envisioned that in the future, the fees charged will become standardised somewhat across health services providers. It is also envisioned that the Health Insurance Law will seek to ensure that insurance companies do not just give our citizens, in some instances, an inexcusable run-around regarding paying out on claims. This is a critical and necessary element to this proposal because, it would be unacceptable to not only the public but to the professionals in this department, who over the years have been criticised when in fact they themselves cannot come down here and vote for fees. So, we must ensure that the cost it takes the Government to provide services is indeed recouped regarding the fees that the Government charges.

There is one item that I did omit and I will just go back quickly to item 12. I apologise for that. There is a proposed annual licence fee for company management firms, which will also be similar to the insurance company managers and stratified according to the number of companies they actually manage. For one to five companies under management, there will be an exemption; six to 10 companies there will be an annual fee of $1,500; 11 to 15 companies under management, a fee of $2,500; 16 to 20 companies under management would attract a fee of $3,500; 21 to 25 companies under management, a fee of $5,000; and 26 plus companies under management—a fee of $7,500.

Madam Speaker, it is also envisioned that the actual companies which are under management would see a fee increase per annum in regard to their payment to the Government of $20 to $50. A fee in respect of each company that has a registered office in the Cayman Islands would be introduced and that fee would be $25 per year.

I think that there is wide support within the Chamber for ensuring that the financial services sector does pay its fair share in regard to the running of this country. As is with all policies, more than likely, there will be disagreement on how we go about doing it. I believe that this is a step in the right direction. Obviously with these things, there is never a perfect solution and indeed they are nothing more than a work in process. I think it is fair to say also that the proposed fees, especially in the area of the banking industry, would be seen to be fairly stationary for the years to come. We do believe that this is a realignment necessary for the good governance of the Cayman Islands. At this junction in our history, we believe it is critical that the country is able to raise the revenues that will allow us to run it in a manner so vital and necessary, for us to continue to enjoy the lifestyle and to sustain the infrastructure that is also vital for our economic prosperity.

Lastly I would like to turn to table 2 in the actual Budget document and say that the format of this table has been changed. It has been changed to allow clarity; to allow the ordinary man to be able to see in the table what the proposed financial position is after the Budget. For many years, this table has been used and in fact I think it was about three or four years ago that this table was actually changed. That change made the interpretation of surplus and deficits much more confusing. This table now is a key to open and transparent government. The table clearly outlines the country's recurrent revenue, the recurrent and statutory expenditure and therefore the surplus or deficit.

In the case of this Budget, it is proposed that the revenue would be some $335 million. The recurrent expenditure would be $269.85 million. The statutory expenditure would be some $49.79 million creating, an operating surplus of some $15.43 million, a capital acquisition expenditure proposal of $5.03 million, leaving a net operating surplus of $10.4 million. Madam Speaker, that is the surplus or deficit statement of the Budget; clearly, there is nothing commingled in there that should not be such as borrowings. Now, I believe the country can clearly see where the Budget is seeking to take it financially.

It then continues on to show the uses of that net operating surplus and naturally once you include in this, as has been done, the brought-forward General Revenue Fund position, we are then able to show what the accumulated balance in the General Revenue Fund will be at the end of the year. So, it transitions in a very clear fashion from the impact what the Budget will have on the current year and then transcends into what is projected to be in the General Revenue Fund of the country at the end of that year. Under this Budget, it is envisioned that there would be, as I said earlier, a net operating surplus of some $10.4 million.

There would be the financing of a forecasted General Revenue Fund deficit as at 31 December 2001 of some $8.05 million; a transfer to the General Reserve Fund of some $1.5 million; a transfer to other reserve funds of some $0.73 million – that would be $0.23 million to the Housing Reserve Fund; $0.1 million to the Student Loan Reserve Fund; $0.4 million to the National Disaster Fund, amounting to the total of the $0.73 million. Additionally, there is a transfer to the Capital Development Fund of $0.1 million which comes down to $0.02 million positive existing in the General Revenue Fund of the country as at 31 December 2002.

It should be noted at this point how it is that table 2 relates to table 2B which I spent some time dealing with on Monday. Table 2B has shown that for the year 2001, there is going to be an accumulated carry-forward deficit of $8.05 million. What is of interest is the fact that some $7 million from the General Reserve Fund will be utilised to fund the projected deficit. So, if that $7 million was not utilised, the carry-forward deficit would have been some $15.05 million. Included in this was a brought-forward deficit of some $10.18 million from the year ended 31 December 2000. This year, the $8.05 million is funded by the projected net operating surplus.

Madam Speaker, there are indeed some systemic problems in the way we carry out this Budget exercise. There needs to be a greater emphasis on timing, ensuring that this process starts much earlier in the year in a real tangible way. Broad based involvement in the development of the Budget must happen. There is a great need for additional information to be a part of the development of the Budget.

It is envisioned that a comprehensive database will be constructed commencing in January 2002 with relevant statistical information regarding the various sectors of the Caymanian economy. There has been a difficulty for years in obtaining information from various firms within the private sector. I say to them that if there is going to be a partnership between themselves and government, and if the Government is going to be able to prepare a budget that is indeed the best possible budget, we must have greater access to information.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I should wish to indicate that you have five minutes remaining.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you Madam Speaker.

Over the years this has been an inhibiting factor to past governments. We must ensure that when we develop a budget, we do proper sensitivity analysis and that we have the information to do this.

I must admit that there are numerous persons in the public service in particular in the Monetary Authority, who can give great guidance in this area because they live in these industries day to day and from year to year, so they know how specific sectors will react. However, we must build on that positive and we must ensure that, in the future, this process is one of priority and the Government is committed to ensuring that this happens.

I would lastly just like to say that the Budget before us is one that takes political will. It is one that we believe is in the best interests of all citizens of these Cayman Islands. We must ensure what the Cayman Islands have toiled and worked so hard to build does not fall apart simply because the Government does not have the courage or knowledge to raise the revenue required to run the country and would seek to continue the upward debt spiral. It is clear from this Budget, the first Budget of the United Democratic Party, that would not be the route taken.

Lastly, I would like to thank a lot of people who were so involved in this Budget. They include: the Honourable Third Official Member; Mr. Peter Gough who is the Manager of the Budget and Management

Unit; Mr. Ken Jefferson, the Assistant Financial Secretary; the Honourable Linford Pierson for his leadership for developing this Budget; my other Honourable colleagues on the Backbench Budget and indeed all the Members of the United Democratic Party. Lastly I would like to wish all the persons and residents of the Cayman Islands a happy and prosperous New Year, and a safe and blessed Christmas. I believe that the majority of the citizens in this country can go into the holiday season knowing that the Government is proposing a responsible budget.

I thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. At this time, I shall suspend proceedings for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.08 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.33 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

Does any Member wish to speak? Does any Member wish to speak? Does any Member wish to speak? Last call, does any Member wish to speak?

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In addressing this issue of the Budget, I think perhaps, for me, the first step, the first situation that needs to occur and maybe for the information of the public, is the process, as I know it, in a nutshell needs to be explained. When it is time for the preparation of the Budget to begin, the first thing that is done is the strategic policy statement, having been agreed by Council, is sent out to the Ministries and Portfolios for the chief officers to disseminate to the Heads of Departments. That document, as I know it, is called the Budget all circular and the strategic policy statement. That becomes the guideline for which the preparation of the estimates of expenditure and whatever revenue is to be collected from the various departments is collated together.

When all of that is done in line with the guidelines which are set out in the statement, then each of the various Ministries and Portfolios start to gather all of this information in line with the reality checks necessary. The Budget and Management Unit comes on board meeting with the various Heads of Departments and goes through the various items to fine-tune it as best as possible.

When all of this is then collated, and you look at what are the various targets, what your expenditure and revenue levels are at that point in time, and you see where the differences are; you then do whatever is necessary at that point in time to bring about a balanced situation. Perhaps my perspective would be a little bit different from what may have been or what will be said but I think it is important from my position, to be very clear about where we were and how we got to where we are.

Before receiving the draft estimates and before hearing the Honourable Third Official Member deliver the Budget Address, the knowledge I have regarding where we were was the Budget Management Unit had just about completed meeting with the Permanent Secretaries and Heads of Departments and collating all of that information together. On Thursday, 1 November, while speaking with the Honourable Third Official Member about another matter concerning a meeting we were going to have the very next day, he mentioned to me that the first draft had been completed and the targets were set. When all the expenditure was totalled out, it was approximately $12 million over the target. Those targets had been set at 5 percent below the 2001 revised estimates.

I had not actually seen the completed document. I did find out on the Monday morning that it had been circulated because he did say to me that he would have been discussing the matter in Council the following Tuesday. So, I did not really know what the revenue was like and from a conversation with him, I only got to understand where the expenditure level was.

Now after all of that is done the Budget review committee, which by standard is usually comprised of the Members of Executive Council, would then have perused the first draft and made the various decisions with regard to what could and could not be done. Following that, Council would have to take a look at the capital expenditure, decide on what the priorities were and what level of expenditure could be dealt with. Of course, there would have been discussions at that point in time with the Backbench Members of the Legislative Assembly because then they would have seen the complete picture and everyone else would have known the whole situation. Fortunately or unfortunately, depending on how and through whose spectacles it is being looked at, that is exactly where we were at by Friday 2 November.

Having experienced the process to that point, I just wish to make it very clear that since then I know of nothing other than the documentation I have received. I therefore, had to begin my contribution to the debate by explaining it all so that the perspective I may bring, will be clearly understood.

Madam Speaker, to go back again to set the stage correctly, the Budget was prepared in March this year because it was an election year in 2000. It is customary that the Budget for the following year is not dealt with until the March Sitting. When that was being done, those directly involved were finding out information as we went along. Given the situation with revenue it was obvious at that point in time, that there was going to be almost an impossible task, well not almost, but literally an impossible task, to create a balanced budget.

Now there were long and arduous attempts to try to cut the recurrent expenditure down to the best acceptable level possible without interfering to any huge degree with the level of services that were deemed necessary to be provided by the Public Sector. Those attempts were completed and we looked at what we thought were possible revenue measures at the time.

One of the discoveries made during that time, which helped to make the shortfall as great as it was, was the fact that some duties were taken off a list of items and this was done on the same day that the previous Budget—that is the Budget for 2002—was being delivered. While there are no statistical sets of data to specify exactly what that amount equated to, the closest estimate that the Customs Department could come to was somewhere between $10 and $14 million.

What had transpired then was that the revenue estimates had been prepared based on the duty remaining on those items. The fact that they were taken off on the day of the delivery of that 2000 Budget meant that revenues had not been adjusted downwards accordingly. Therefore, we had the revenues left as they were but the duty taken off and basically without any real knowledge, there was an immediate setback of somewhere between $10 and $14 million with regard to the revenue that was projected for the year 2000.

Having made that discovery and understanding the serious financial position the country was in, it was decided that for some of those items the duty would have had to be put back on, which was done. That was not something that I think anyone of us wish to have to deal with but it was something that given the circumstance, it was impossible to deal with otherwise.

The majority of the other revenue measures which were dealt with came close to $9 million. That was not all of the additional revenue measures but close to some $9 million of increase in fees were also dealt with within the financial industry. However, this was with the full knowledge for year 2001, I think it is safe comment to say just about nearly, if not all of that revenue, would not have been realised because the Budget was done in March and the majority of these fees are paid by the service providers at the very beginning of the year.

Therefore, we knew we would not realise that additional revenue during this year 2001, but we still went ahead and did that with the expectations for 2002 and also to inform the financial industry. I am using the term financial industry in the broad sense, the service providers, not just the financial institutions but the corporate bodies and the accountants, lawyers and those other institutions that fall into that category. We let the financial industry know that we would have had to look at a phased approach over the next three years to bring the revenue stream in line and certainly they would have had to be contributing more than they had been.

To retain the indirect taxation status we had, fair contribution to central government would have been expected in order to provide the services, the necessities to run the country and to maintain the social harmony and stability. It was going to be totally necessary to be able to do so without entering into a continuing deficit spiral. So, we were aware of what the situation was from the very beginning. Of course, coupled with that, it was very obvious to us at the time that the revenues from the ongoing fees and duties which Government depended on were going to fall. This was due to the state of the world economy, (of which the Cayman Islands was no exception), leaning towards a trend that was downward and certainly there were no expectations of any increased revenue in those areas.

There is a point right here that I think needs to be clearly understood. There was no situation that could have rectified the total borrowing of some $55 million including the borrowing for capital expenditure even with the same mind that the present Government has claimed as “a Government with courage to do what is necessary”. The point has been put forward, regarding the revenue measures that are here now, to say that they will rectify the situation and either by inuendo or otherwise it seems like that should have been done then. As I have explained, the fact is those fees which make up the majority of the revenue measures being put forward now, most of them are always paid within the first 30 days and probably all of them, within the first 60 days of the year. So, that would have not made any difference with the financial position at that time.

When we compare the year 2001 estimates and the end results with what is being proposed now for 2002, it would have not have made any difference whatsoever. I just want to make that point very, very clear. You see again, it just depends on whose eyes are looking at the situation and how their perception is. So when it is said that table 2B presents a horrific picture, if the statement is left on its own I have to agree with it. The points of debate lean towards there being plenty of different options, so that is why I draw the comparison and try to make the point very clear.

Therefore, having realised where the country was at, there was a position that had to be dealt with and it was basically a simple position. To accept that successive administrations did not perceive it as necessary at the time and had not paid great attention to the fact that while revenues naturally increased due to Cayman's boom years, an increase in consumption; additional companies being registered and so on; it was paralleled by the Public Service with an increase in expenditure which was outstripping the revenue.

If you look at any one individual year over the past ten years, it probably does not show anything significantly alarming. However, if you look at each corresponding year and look at the recurrent revenue compared to the recurrent expenditure, it is quite easy to understand that recurrent expenditure was on the rise at a level that was much higher than recurrent revenue. So, that is how we found ourselves in the position that the country was in.

Those of us who were here before the 2000 elections will remember clearly that from just about every corner on the Backbench, there was the cry to look at that because it was a problem. Some people on the Government Bench took the view at the time that it was nothing to worry about because everything was still going smoothly and finely. Nevertheless, there were several of us who could see the trend and to continue to point that out.

We had to accept that was the position we found ourselves in and to look very carefully at expenditure from the point of view of Central Government, as to how we could marry the creation of certain efficiencies along with curbing expenditure to bring that down or to (as has been termed prior to this), stop the runaway train. I think there is no argument from anyone that that was something which had to be addressed. At the same point in time, in the same breath, we had to look at increasing the level of revenue. This was more important because of the fact that natural circumstances were causing existing projected revenue streams to lessen. That was what I think in a nutshell the country faced then, and probably will face for a while to come, because it certainly is not over yet.

If we accept those premises that I have basically outlined and we move forward during the course of the year, then perhaps we have to be looking at the specifics of these areas. I see your signal, Madam Speaker, perhaps that is what I will begin with after the luncheon break.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Member. At this time, we will now suspend until 2.30 pm for the luncheon break.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.03 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.40 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Please be seated.

The First Elected Member for George Town continuing the debate.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we took the luncheon break I had just taken a few minutes to outline a little bit of what had gone on up to the point of 2 November and perhaps now I may spend a few minutes on the actual Budget Address.

When the Honourable Third Official Member delivered his address, some specific areas were pointed out, which perhaps require a little bit of comment and the previous speaker made mention during his contribution. The Honourable Financial Secretary spoke to summarising the economic development experience of the Cayman Islands over the last three decades. He spoke to five major features that could be used to give summary. The third of these features was when he spoke to substantial levels of public and private sector collaboration. He mentioned that this has been very effective in promoting economic development but he asked the question about collaboration of the social and environmental sectors. I want to point out that as early as December of 2000, there was some discussion regarding environmental and sustainable development.

Madam Speaker, I trust you will bear with me because some bright soul may think what I am going to say is irrelevant. However, I am confident in what I am saying and the relevance will be borne out.

In all that we speak to regarding budget matters, implementation of policies, we need to perhaps appreciate the difference and similarity; independence and the interdependence of the Civil Service and the Executive Branch of Government. Unfortunately for us, with all of the good things that have happened in the country, I think a fair comment is that we have arrived at a point now where it is fairly obvious that the interdependence (although there is a clear independence of each from the other) is very important if we are going to be able to deal with the issues facing us in a meaningful manner, without having to engage in shock treatment perpetually.

We have to be looking at revenue and we will probably have to do so for as long as any one of us is here, even the ones who have just arrived here and if they stay for a long time, it is just the nature of government. You may face a situation where, if all concerned are not with the same mindset, you run into the problem of the implementation being (perhaps for lack of a better way of saying it), the sole concentration of a certain arm. There will not be enough regard for the blend that has to be made between being able to implement the policies and execute the provision of services. Bearing in mind that there are always tenuous limitations to the resources, you still have to be able to provide the services.

I think through no individual's fault, but simply because over the years the system just evolved into that, that too has been a problem we had to face in the country. I believe that one of the very important ingredients to bring about any meaningful strides forward is going to be continuation of getting a common mindset to all concerned. I also believe that it is fair comment to say that this is something that is happening now. I cannot say that has been happening for a very long time but it has been happening and it is certainly going to make a difference if we can continue to accomplish that.

However, in doing so we also have to ensure that we provide the individuals with the right framework from within which they can achieve their goals and we also have to ensure that they have the right tools to work with. Those tools are not necessarily pens and computers but also extend to training, training and more training. Every time you look at what you need to make it happen right, there is a cost; there are limitations to your recourses, so it is always a juggling act to make it happen. While these items that I refer to may not seem to be ones that are exciting to talk about and make a real big difference in a presentation, the fact of the matter is that these are the basic ingredients we have to be looking at if this is going to happen.

The Financial Secretary in his delivery made mention of the recent Bill that was passed in the House, the Public Management and Finance Bill. While that does not address all of the personnel issues that are involved, it certainly takes into account the majority of issues that are relevant to achieving this goal of efficiency, fiscal responsibility and fiscal planning for the country. However, the human resource issue is very, very important and I simply make mention of it because it is not something that can be taken for granted.

I spoke a few minutes ago about some of the problems that have evolved when it comes to providing the services that are being demanded by the citizens of the country and the continuing juggling act regarding the cost. The purpose of that was to speak to the fact that we definitely have to have an in-depth look at the structure of the Civil Service and certainly the tools that they would have to work with down line based on the looming changes in the way Central Government will do business.

[Pause]

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, I am sorry about that. The Honourable Third Official Member goes on in his address to speak to the urgent need of rethinking our approach to the longer term development of these Islands and it has been said that this Budget bears that in mind. I want to take a minute to look at this without being very specific, because I know that a Bill will be coming regarding the revenue measures and we will have ample chance to give our opinions during that time. In an effort not to be repetitious, I would not be making any attempt to go through them one by one. However, in looking at rethinking our approach to the longer term development of these Islands, again the money factor is always in play. Speaking to the revenue measures that are there, it is I believe, true to say, as has been said before, that the majority, if not all the Members of this Legislative Assembly, hold fast to their particular view. That view being that part of the broadening of the revenue base of Central Government would have to involve the financial sector and service providers contributing more via the fees that they are charged to be able to do business.

In considering that, Madam Speaker, I want to put forward a view which tells us why, even given the circumstances that the country faces, we still have to be careful of the manner in which we go about increasing the fees. I want to make it absolutely clear to the Members of this Honourable Legislative Assembly and the listening public, that my position on this matter has no bearing to any association with any one individual or any group of people whatsoever. I think by now everybody knows me like that. Regardless of the amount the fees are raised, when ever it is done, those who it directly impacts are not going to be pleased. That is the nature of the beast. Regardless of which sector it is, people are going to grumble. I take this position having no regard for any grumbling. I am just trying to look at the situation with simple clarity as to the logic that needs to be employed.

Speaking to these specific revenue measures that are here now, there was between $8 million and $9 million of revenue measures that were in the miscellaneous fees 2001 which would not have been able to be collected because the payments would have been made before the Law came into effect, but anticipated to be collected for 2002. Of the $54.9 or close to $55 million worth of revenue measures that are here, I think that it is pretty close to between $36 million and $38 million that directly relates to the financial sector. When we add to that the fees that were increased in 2001 (but which will only be able to be collected in 2002), then we are looking at between $45 million and $47 million at one time.

If you were purely working out the cost to run the country, one might proportion out the benefits of the country's existence to these service providers because of the money they earn by being able to operate in the jurisdiction and also say that of your recurrent expenditure, that is fair. I do not think any one of us has the actual exact formula that you could come up with a precise answer for that. However, I do not think that it is a question of what the total amount is or as to how it is done, whether there is collaboration or whether it is simply imposed without knowledge, on everybody who hears it just like the rest of us do.

Regardless of what may be said about the buoyancy of that industry the fact of the matter is, we are in a very competitive world. Mention has been made earlier of Bermuda, a jurisdiction that might be termed similar to us. It has been made known that they have a payroll tax; they have some type of social insurance which individuals pay who live and work in the country and that their recurrent revenue is almost proportionate to ours if you look at the per capita comparison. I am not so sure that we were very clear on the differences between the two financial sectors when we make comparisons.

When we speak to some 500 and more banking licences for the Cayman Islands, I am not 100 percent sure as to how many there are in Bermuda. I do not want to stick my neck out too far but it is not impossible that we might be able to count them on two hands. I am not sure, but I know that is not the concentration of their financial industry. They are insurance based. I am not quite sure how the fees are levied but the dynamics of the two vary to the point where you might speak to some direct fees on the citizens which are not duties but basic taxes on the citizens or the businesses that operate there and there is a difference in the make-up of the industries. So, it is not that easy to simply look and speak to the fact that what has been done regarding the revenue measures should not have been with a bit more consultation or perhaps more intense thought, as to whether or not this puts these service providers in the Cayman Islands at a disadvantage compared to other jurisdictions.

One of the things that we have to remember also, Madam Speaker, is many of these service providers have linkages to a lot of other jurisdictions and they interact with business with their associates in those other jurisdictions. The simple reason for that is another jurisdiction may be geared towards a certain type of activity and is more conducive to do that type of business through those channels. While the Cayman Islands may be geared towards a certain other type of activity and the laws and regulations may be more conducive to certain types of businesses here. So, people have learnt that secret quite a while back and have strategic locations and they interact on a daily basis.

Whether or not the indirect result of these measures causes certain types of businesses to be done in other jurisdictions is a question that I cannot truthfully stand here and answer today, but I think it needs to be answered; not just by saying, 'No big thing, no problem'; the facts have to be known about that. If the facts are known I would love to hear them because I do not know the facts. However, I think that is one of the questions that has to be asked because it makes absolutely no sense to speak to a balanced position today if the volume is not going to be there tomorrow, and regardless of what the measures are that you put in place, the revenue still drops because the volume is not there. I raise the question simply because it is only natural for that thought to occur.

There are other considerations and it is almost at a level where some people may take it for a joke. However, some of us have already been called by local employees of these institutions about not receiving a bonus this year-end. One might quickly retort and say, "Oh that is just how they figure out to react to stop you from doing it." I do not know. However, those considerations are there and they simply cannot be shoved aside.

I noticed in the front page of the Compass today, where one of our local attorneys spoke to the fact that budgets have already been prepared and the new fees as of 1 January were going to throw many things out of whack. You see, Madam Speaker, it is a fine line to balancing, you know, because you can quite rightly make a broad statement and say that many of these institutions are making tons of money so they should contribute their fair share for being able to operate within the jurisdiction and earn that type of money. As a general comment—it is not an unfair one. However, even making that comment and believing it to be true at certain levels still calls to question certain points regardless of how you structure those fees, such as being tiered in certain instances. That is, you have to be very careful that what you do is sound and able to play out as you anticipate and that your projected revenue for the end of 2002 in this instance is really what you have on paper. I do not make these comments to suggest for a minute that any Government should allow the simple and obvious scare tactics to prevail so that you do not address the issue. I am not suggesting that. I know better.

However, Madam Speaker, up to the point where I had knowledge of interaction with private sector along these lines, I am not afraid to tell you or any one else where the position was. I had one opportunity with some of my other colleagues to speak to them. What was said to them was basically: "We are looking for $15 million from your sector. We are asking you to go back and sit down and talk with the players and come back to us and tell us and how best to distribute the restructuring of the fees in order for us to accomplish that." Of course, we knew that what they would have come back with was not going to be what they were told. Still, that is the starting point. You go from there and you say, "I hear what you say but this cannot work." Perhaps that view is considered by some, the wrong way to go about it. Of course, I do not know what transpired in the middle of all of that because I am here now and I do not know exactly what has transpired since then. I do not know how these figures were arrived at and what level of consultation took place. However, I hear the Government encouraging the private sector to work in partnership and suffice it to say that sometimes a partnership is exactly that if it is going to work. A partnership indicates more than one. It cannot be one-sided.

I believe that there could perhaps be some fall-out and the fall-out may not be necessarily where one might think is obvious. The truth of the matter is that the fall-out may at the end of the day affect the same people who we say we are trying to protect and do not want to increase any duties or fees for them to have to pay. Now I sincerely hope that is not the case. Nonetheless, I find it very difficult for a board of directors to find unplanned costs and those costs not passed on somewhere along the line. Now if we speak to some of these fees as have been mentioned before, that will be passed on to clients who, in many instances are not even based here.

So again, Madam Speaker, one might say 'No big thing.' However, given this global village that we all speak to and we are saying it is a very small world nowadays, are we sure that those discerning clients might not make comparisons with the cost to do business in other jurisdictions and find it more conducive to do it elsewhere? I do not know and I trust that all of this has been taken into very serious consideration.

The point I just mentioned is one of the usual obvious points that has been made to me from the other side and I am not talking about in this Legislative Assembly. I mean when it comes to fees that Government wish to collect and the service providers having to sit and talk about it. That point that I just made, one of the first points that is thrown at you is that you have to remain with this competitive advantage. So, when I make the point, I am not just jumping on it to strengthen a point that I wish to make. All I bring to bear is; are we sure that that is not the case? We will have to create if we do not have it, and I think the Monetary Authority has the ability in that area. We have to create a situation where at all times we know where we are at with what the other comparative jurisdictions are doing; not only about the fees, but about the type of services provided; the legislation in place, and all the other issues. That is really nothing new.

However, that is not something that you can leave today and figure that you are up to date. It is something that you have to work on all the time because this is an ever changing industry and tomorrow what was there today does not exist. The day afterwards, what existed tomorrow would not exist; that is just the nature of the beast.

Regardless of what the needs are it remains to be seen how well thought out the situation has been and only at the end of the day will there be the proof of the pudding, as to whether the revenues that are anticipated and projected in these estimates from these sources will materialise. I just want to throw a little word of caution and again, perhaps, the Government has known this risk and is willing to play it out for a time to see what re-adjustments have to be made. I think we have to be extremely careful with all of these measures as to the level that we go within very short periods of time and exactly who and how there will be any negative impacts.

I daresay, Madam Speaker, others may come behind to speak of the assessment (that I do not know about) and conclusions with regard to the logic behind doing this. However, the only true answer as to exactly what will materialise is going to be at the end of the day. So with that one, I think that we simply have to wait and see.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, is this a convenient time for the afternoon break? We shall suspend for fifteen minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.21 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.06 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed. Please be seated.

The Honourable First Elected Member for George Town continuing his debate.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, I cannot quote verbatim and I have not had an opportunity to get a copy of what was said, but I feel fairly confident about the gist of what was said. It was said earlier on in the debate by the previous speaker that the country finally has a government with the courage to do what should have been done with regard to these revenue measures and fees. Madam Speaker, by inference or innuendo, if I am to interpret that at any point in time, it suggests that I was part of a government that did not have the courage to deal with it, then perhaps the definition of the word courage is a very relative one. I hear it stated across the Floor that I got it right.

Madam Speaker, let me make this very, very clear. When it comes to what is called courage, I believe that it has to be mixed with logic and looking at the specific circumstances which obtain at any given time. If it is thought any dealings I had with that same financial sector was not the way that it should have been dealt with, then perhaps it is quite easy for them to follow the course that they have taken because they now have ample opportunity to do so. Although I did not get the opportunity to prove them right or wrong, one way or the other, this time around I have had a bit of tenure and a better understanding of the situation.

However, not just to defend myself, but I do believe that regardless of where it comes from or where it is going, nothing should be dealt with at that level of Government without proper consultation. I know there are things that individuals would not agree with via how things are handled and that is the way life is. I live with a level of acceptance for that because it is the nature of the beast. Everybody differs in their approach and sometimes in their thoughts and how they expect to achieve the objective. However, again I say, regardless of what they might think and what that objective is, I believe then, and I believe now that consultation is required. This is because while you want no one or no entity to hold you over the barrel, at the same time you have to ensure that decisions made are coming from the most informed position that is possible. I am getting a much clearer picture as time goes on as to how this thing really is and I certainly would not be foolhardy to not want to do it in the way that I just explained.

Madam Speaker, life has a funny way of manifesting itself. Again, when I look at those revenue measures and get a better understanding of certain things, perhaps it is not wise at this point in time to go too much further. But, suffice it to say, time will tell as to what was, is, and will be the best way. There is one thing that I can be absolutely sure of and that is I would never participate in a decision-making process which puts such a pivotal stance on any circumstance without making sure that I knew all of the answers.

Perhaps there are those who may think that in taking that way forward, nothing would be achieved and perhaps that is what is becoming clearer as time goes by—such a real pity after the fact that maybe I did not know all of that and some of that I would not know unless I was told, but life is like that.

Madam Speaker, I understand that you have to leave and it is approaching 4.15 pm. I would go on to new things and I certainly would not like to have to break in the middle of it. So, perhaps if it is convenient for you, you would deal with the suspension.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, would you be able to conclude the new topic in five minutes?

If that is the wish of the House, can the Leader of Government Business then move the appropriate Motion for the adjournment, or the Deputy Leader?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 am Thursday.

The Speaker: The question is that the Honourable House be adjourned until 10 am tomorrow, Thursday, 13 December. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is duly adjourned until 10 am tomorrow morning.

AT 4.16 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM THURSDAY, 13 DECEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
THURSDAY
13 DECEMBER 2001
10.26 AM
Fifth Sitting

The Speaker: Good morning.

I shall call on the Honourable Minister for Community Services, Youth and Women's Affairs to grace us with Prayers.

PRAYERS

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say The Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.29 am

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

Item number 2 on today's Order Paper, Administration of Oaths or Affirmations.

I would ask Mr. Samuel Bulgin, to please come to the Clerk's desk to take the oath.

Would all Honourable Members please stand?

ADMINISTRATION OF OATHS OR AFFIRMATIONS

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE
(Administered by the Clerk)

By Mr. Samuel Bulgin

Mr. Samuel Bulgin: I, Samuel Bulgin, do swear that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, Her Heirs and successors according to Law, so help me God.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I welcome you to this House; please take your seat. Please be seated.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have received apologies for the late attendance from the Second Elected Member for West Bay. The Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Administration will also be absent for the period 12 December until 9 January 2002.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MINISTERS AND MEMBERS

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO.129

No. 129: Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs if there is a policy for the destruction of drugs being held by the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Yes, authorisation for the destruction of drugs is given by the Commissioner of Police on the advice of the Detective Chief Superintendent in the Criminal Investigation Department. The policy guidelines are as follows —

- All drugs pending destruction are to be kept in a specially designated storage area.

- The process must be witnessed by a Justice of the Peace and documented. The Justice of the Peace shall verify the document to be a true account of the destruction of the drugs.
- An original copy of the documentation must be forwarded to the Commissioner of Police for preservation.
- Found drugs in excess of fifty pounds for ganja and one pound for any other drug must be destroyed within seven days unless otherwise directed by the Commissioner of Police on advice of the Detective Chief Superintendent Drugs Task Force.

The method of destruction shall be incineration or by other means approved by the Commissioner of Police.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Are there any supplementaries?

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would like to thank the First Official Member for outlining the policy. I would ask, is this policy complied with, especially the particular section that reads "found drugs in the excess of fifty pounds for ganja and one pound for any other drug must be destroyed within seven days unless otherwise directed by the Commissioner of Police on advice of the Detective Chief Superintendent Drugs Task Force".

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. My understanding is yes, this policy is complied with.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the First Official Member could say why the cocaine that was found in the Brac was not destroyed after, as I understand it, two months or so, if it was not being held as evidence.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I made a statement in the House following the loss of that cocaine and I explained that the policy at the time was that certain quantity of drugs was accumulated before it was incinerated. It was a matter of the very high cost of incineration. However, what I have just outlined in answer to the Parliamentary Question is a new policy that is in place and this is adhered to.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Recently we saw publicised the destruction of certain drugs. I wonder if the First Official Member can tell us when the previous destruction of drugs was prior to that.

The Speaker: The First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, it is my understanding that the previous destruction of drugs had taken place about three months before that. However, I should add that in the statement I made in the House, which had been prepared for me by the Commissioner of Police, it indicated that at times when there were small amounts of drugs, the interval between destruction of drugs would have been a bit longer than that. With the new policy in place we hope to not let that happen again.

The Speaker: Do you have a follow up question, Elected Member for East End? Please continue.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the First Official Member can tell us when this policy was instituted.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. There was an investigation carried out into the disappearance or the theft of the drugs and this policy was instituted shortly after that.

The Speaker: Please continue with your follow up, Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The policy seems to say that they must be destroyed within seven days. Can the First Official Member say if any drugs found have been destroyed under this new policy?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, there was a quantity of drugs found recently but it was the subject of an investigation and the drugs of course have been held. I am told that the investigation has not led to any arrest and it is expected that those drugs will be destroyed possibly as soon as tomorrow.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In a substantive answer that we received, we got a little part of the policy, the new policy that has been implemented since the incident that is so vivid in all of our memories. It says that all drugs pending destruction are to be kept in a specially built designated storage area. I am just wondering if the Member could say whether that storage area now has adequate security facilities to protect the controlled drugs that may be confiscated.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member, it is my understanding that there is a similar question coming. If you wish to deal with it at that time you may so express that at this stage.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I will respond to that later.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for West Bay, did you wish to rephrase or ask another supplementary? If not, I will allow one other supplementary.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member could say why it was necessary to move the cocaine in question from where it was previously being held to the obviously less secure area and who authorised the movement?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Ironically, the drugs were removed from one area to another in preparation for destruction the following day. There was a lack of space in the main area hence the reason for its removal and it was authorised at the correct level. It was authorised by the Chief Superintendent.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 130

No. 130: Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr. asked the Honourable Minister responsible for the Ministry of Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology are there any Laws or Regulations that regulate the quality of commercial or residential properties?

Madam Speaker, the question was sent, and as far as we know, it was supposed to say commercial or residential rental properties. However, I am not sure what exactly was sent to the Ministry, so I will understand, depending on his answer.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, the answer will be against the question that is on the Order Paper which was; are there any Laws or Regulations that regulate the quality of commercial or residential properties? If I am able, Madam Speaker, on a supplementary to provide other information I will do so.

The answer to the substantive question: The Development and Planning Law, Regulations and Building Code are various pieces of existing legislation that provide for the Central Planning Authority to administer the compliance of minimum standards to which new (including commercial and residential) properties can be developed. The Development and Planning Law also provides that nothing in that Law shall derogate from other related legislation such as the Public Health Law and the Mosquito (Research and Control) Law, which might also provide for certain quality measures. The Central Planning Authority is also authorised to act where there is existing property with old and dilapidated buildings and can require the owner or occupier to make remedy of the situation.

Government is also currently in the process of evaluating two draft pieces of legislation which could potentially help improve on the quality of design and construction of commercial and residential development as well as help protect consumers, i.e., homeowners. One proposal seeks to license contractors and the other provides for the registration of architects and engineers. This draft legislation has been put forward to Government by the private sector and they are currently being reviewed by a committee comprised of representatives from the Planning and Public Works Departments.

The Department of Planning has also produced a Land Development Guide that is available to the public and is particularly useful for developers, architects and designers. The document includes illustrations and design guidelines and discusses aesthetic quality and traditional architectural features. This document could be developed further with input from the public and possibly become Design Regulations as used in other jurisdictions such as Bermuda.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. First of all I would like to thank the Honourable Minister for his detailed answer to that question and I am wondering if he could provide any information on any Laws or Regulations that could regulate the quality of commercial or residential rental properties?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I would be happy to give the undertaking to the Honourable Member that this matter will be looked into.

The Speaker: Are there any other supplementaries?
The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In the substantive answer the Minister said that Government is in the process of evaluating two draft pieces of Legislation. One of those is to seek to license contractors and implement the registration of architects and engineers. I have seen this before but I just wonder if there will be licensing of draftsmen because we have a lot of small, young draftsmen in the country who are young Caymanians and I wonder if they will be included in there also?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am reliably informed that they will also be included in the draft regulations.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
Madam Speaker, I wonder if the Minister could tell us what section of the private sector has put forward these proposals?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The answer: the Contractors Association for the contractors and the Cayman Association of Architects and Engineers for the architects and engineers.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you. Madam Speaker, I wonder if the Minister could say if those same draftsmen that I spoke of earlier have had an opportunity for input in these proposals?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, we are not in possession of that information but the matter will certainly be looked into and if this has not been done it will certainly be done.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If not we will move on to the next question.

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 131

No. 131: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin Jr. asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs what efforts are being made to remove the alleged Afghan refugees from these Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Ever since the three alleged Afghans arrived in the Cayman Islands, the Immigration Department has been attempting to have them returned to their country of origin. These efforts included obtaining travel documents from an Afghan Embassy in New York and attempting to arrange for travel to Afghanistan or bordering countries via a third country.

The three Afghans have since applied for political asylum but their requests have been denied by the Chief Immigration Officer. These refusals are now the subject of an appeal and, until this is resolved, efforts to remove them from the Cayman Islands are on hold.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member can say what is likely to transpire in the event that the appeal is unsuccessful. Are they then to continue to be the responsibility of the Cayman Islands Government or is Her Majesty's Government prepared to assume responsibility for them at that stage?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In the event that the appeals are unsuccessful it is anticipated that the Cayman Islands Government will repatriate the Afghans to their own country. His Excellency the Governor has discussed the matter at very high level in London when he was there couple of months ago. I also discussed the matter with the Head of the Overseas Territories Department, Mr. Allan Huckle, when he was in Cayman recently. It is the responsibility of the Cayman Islands Government to repatriate them but we hope that this will happen very soon.

I should say to the Member that I guess we all watch what is happening in Afghanistan and we hope that there will be a government in place and we will be able to repatriate these individuals to that country.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if I am correct in understanding the Honourable Member as saying that the issues of identity and nationality in respect of these three individuals have now been satisfactorily resolved. Is the Cayman Islands Government now as certain as it can be that indeed they are Afghans?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In regard to the identity, knowing the events that have unfolded in recent weeks in Afghanistan, it has been impossible to verify the identity of these individuals through that country. However, we arranged for an Immigration Officer from the United Kingdom who spoke the Pharisee language, the language of the people in Afghanistan, at least in the Southern part of Afghanistan, and that individual came down and interviewed these three persons and has stated that she is satisfied that they are from the southern section of Afghanistan and she was able for a number of reasons to verify this. So I believe as far forth as we can, their nationality has been established. You will understand the actual identity or the verification of their identity has been virtually impossible.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, thank you. I would like to thank the Honourable Member for his comprehensive response to the Supplementary Questions thus far. I would just close Madam Speaker, by asking him if he can give some indication as to when the appeal will be heard and determined.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am at this stage unable to comment on when the appeal will be heard. I know it has been filed but at this stage I am unable to say when that will happen.

The Speaker: Do you have a follow up Honourable Second Elected Member for George Town?

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Yes, Madam Speaker, with your permission.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member can say to whom the appeal has been made and what is the nature of the tribunal?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member. Perhaps the Second Elected Member from George Town could repeat that question.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The question was: to whom has the appeal been made and what is the nature of the tribunal that is to hear and determine this issue?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The appeal has been filed with His Excellency the Governor but there is currently no legislation in place for him to hear the appeal. Assistance has been sought from the United Kingdom and perhaps I would be speculating to say more than that because at this stage I do not know what the nature of the tribunal will actually be, although I suspect that it will be a tribunal set up. However, I prefer not to speculate on that, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Are there further supplementaries?
The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, thank you. I wonder if the First Official Member can tell us who is paying for the keep of these Afghans and where are they housed?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is my understanding that first of all, by order of the Grand Court, they were released and their upkeep was to be paid for by the Social Services Department. I believe an arrangement has been worked with a guest house for a fairly reasonable rate for their upkeep.

The Speaker: I will allow one more supplementary.
The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker, I wonder if the First Official Member can tell us what they are doing. What are their activities? Are they working or are they just lounging around at the expense of the Cayman Islands people?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member. It is my view that part of that is asking for an opinion. Should you wish to answer it in part? If not, please indicate.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, I believe that, that is very far from the substantive question and I can only say one thing they do, that is to report daily to the Immigration Department. That is daily Monday to Friday and on Saturdays and Sundays they report to the Central Police Station.

The Speaker: That will conclude Question Time.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

UPDATE ON CAYMAN AIRWAYS LIMITED

The Speaker: Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Having recently been assigned the responsibility of the National carrier Cayman Airways, I have undertaken to review the status of the airline in terms of its leadership, business plan and funding. I deem this as a logical and necessary step as little was known about what, if any, progress had been made since the July 2001 report produced by NCB Consulting or subsequent to the events of 11 September. It was therefore necessary to re-examine the airline to ensure that there is a proper assessment of the challenges and adequate and appropriate plans of action developed and implemented.

Going forward, every aspect of the airline will be examined to realistically gauge what is necessary for the airline to succeed and to communicate and reinforce the message that the status quo cannot and will not be maintained. To this end a new Board of Directors was appointed under a new governance model developed by the Ministry of Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce.

The new model for the Board establishes specific areas of responsibility for each Director and thereby broadens the overall functioning of the Board. Each member's contribution is directly linked to key management functions for which he or she is directly responsible for providing oversight and direction. The governance model establishes a direct relationship between the board's leadership responsibilities and the airline's core management requirements. This is significant, Madam Speaker, as the Ministry understands that the leadership provided by the Board is every bit as vital to achieving a turnaround as other components such as efficient staff and reliable equipment.

Madam Speaker, the following individuals have been appointed to the Cayman Airways Board.

- Mr. Roy McTaggart - as Chairman
- Mr. Don Seymour - Director for Financial Matters
- Mr. Wilbur Bing Thompson - Director for Operations
- Mr. Moses Kirkconnell - Director for Sales and Marketing

- Mr. Ian Wight - Director for Strategic Resources
- Mr. Harris McCoy - Director for Staffing and Human Resources
- Mr. Olivaire Watler - Director for Legal Affairs
- Mr. Alan Potash - Director for International Corporate Relations
- Ms. Pilar Bush - Director for International Aviation
- Mr. Charles Clifford - Director for the Ministry of Tourism
- Mr. Michael Adam – Ex-officio Director
- Mrs. Sonia McLaughlin – Ex-officio Director.

Madam Speaker, I am pleased, very pleased with the high calibre of persons we were able to attract to the Board. Many complex and difficult decisions lie ahead and I have full confidence in the Board's ability to lead, make informed decisions and provide crucial direction and support.

I would also like to take this opportunity to very sincerely thank all others, all those other Directors, who have in the past served on the Board of Directors and have made contributions towards the development of Cayman Airways.

Under the new governance model for the current Board of Directors, responsibility for managing the members of the Board falls with the Chairman who according to the model would preferably have had prior experience in running both corporate and governmental boards. As Chairman this member is the official spokesman on behalf of the Board.

The Director of Sales and Marketing is to be the second official Board spokesman and will represent the airline at all revenue and sales enhancement functions. A significant aspect of this position also will be management of revenue, sales and marketing strategy and product review definition.

The Director for Financial Matters will be the principal financial advisor to the Board. This individual will also oversee financial relationships with banks, guarantors and venture capitalists and the sourcing and management of capitalisation.

Assistance in the area of flight operation, maintenance, aircraft acquisition, if any, management and airworthiness, will fall to the Director of Operations as well as in-flight services and airport relations.

The Strategic Resource Director will act as a key support to management in areas of strategic business development. This Director will be instrumental in building relationships with key strategic alliance partners.

Board representative for staff relations management will be the Director of Staffing and Human Resources who will also provide advice on good practice in that area. Compensation and staff retention will fall under this Director along with any necessary organisational restructure and design. Both Cayman Airways staff and others have expressed concern that this human element is often overlooked when senior members are making strategic decisions about the airlines. Therefore recognising the importance of preserving a motivated and capable workforce, the responsibility for human resources was also seen as a priority under the governance model.

Cayman Airways Director for Legal Affairs will serve as the Board's principal legal advisor.

The Director for International Corporate Relations is responsible for advising the Board on international corporate partnerships. Identifying channels and areas of opportunity will be an important aspect of the position.

The primary responsibilities of the Director for International Aviation will be to provide advice on strategic aviation policy and guidance on international developments in the industry.

The Director for the Ministry of Tourism is the official liaison between Government and the Board and will provide guidance to the Board on related Government policies impacting the national flag carrier.

The newly formed Board, Madam Speaker, took up its duties on the 4 December 2001 when it convened for the first time. I would like to take this opportunity to thank those who have risen to the challenge and agreed to serve on the current Board of Directors. I also wish to recognise the staff and management of Cayman Airways who have made and are committed to making the necessary sacrifices for the airline to succeed. However, I must emphasise the time for commenting on the potential of Cayman Airways has passed and it is time that together the Ministry on behalf of the Government, Board of Directors, Management and Staff must realise this ample opportunity by enhancing operations and revenue while controlling and reducing cost.

In terms of the Business Plan, Madam Speaker, when I took over responsibility of Cayman Airways, there was no Business Plan and yet a course of action had been set. There was a consensus by the Board that the course of action needed to be re-examined to ensure it considered and addressed our current realities and our anticipated future challenges.

The services of a local consulting firm, NCB, had been acquired by the previous Minister with responsibility for the airline. It is important to note that while this relationship has existed for almost a year, it is based upon a verbal understanding and no formal written commitment exists on either side.

The informal nature of this arrangement has presented serious challenges in terms of accountability and organisational structure. For example, while NCB reported directly to the previous Minister and payments for these services were authorised by his Ministry, it was Cayman Airways which was responsible for the payment. In the past year, a sum of just over $100,000 was paid by Cayman Airways on instructions from the Ministry even though Cayman Airways management and Board had no direct links or authority for the consultant. This placed all parties in a difficult situation. For the avoidance of doubt, Madam Speaker, let me make it clear, there was an absolute absence of role clarity.

As efforts are being made to resolve those issues, another pressing problem which requires immediate attention is the questionable applicability of the earlier NCB proposals; the post 11 September realities for Cayman Airways. In response to a request from my Ministry, NCB has prepared a business plan with assistance from Cayman Airways. The Board is currently considering the document which it received at the beginning of December. The Ministry is awaiting the Board's recommendation on this matter before proceeding. As it relates to consultancy, Madam Speaker, my Ministry and the Government need to establish whether there is a need for consultant service and if there is a need, who is the most qualified with experience in the airline industry to provide this service.

While the discussion on equipment has tended to dominate the deliberations on Cayman Airways thus far, in the future, Madam Speaker, focus will instead be given to business fundamentals such as agreement on the airline's mission, goals, target clients and funding levels. Let me be absolutely clear on this, the equipment must facilitate the Business Plan and not the other way around. I will venture to say, that even the cursory review of the fundamentals demonstrates that the small regional jets, which have previously been discussed, are not consistent with the demands of our main clientele, Caymanian travellers. Nor is this type of plane likely to allow us to better compete with southbound tourist traffic, which is dominated by the United States carriers to this destination. Therefore, Madam Speaker, it is not my intention to pursue this model of plane, if and when a decision should be made to purchase any equipment.

Finally, as it pertains to the funding of Cayman Airways, Madam Speaker, the situation remains dire. Cayman Airways is still projecting an estimated loss before subsidy of approximately $14 million at this year's end. This does not take into consideration the Government subsidy of approximately $5.5 million.

In addition, Madam Speaker, the airline will have to account for the equipment's depreciation – the loss in the value of the equipment. In the year 2000, the equipment experienced depreciation of approximately $3.1 million and also lost its value to the tune of approximately $6.8 million due to the fall in market value. This accounts for a total loss in the equipment value exceeding $9 million. It has yet to be determined following 11 September, what the loss in value will be for Cayman Airways equipment at this year's end.

Looking to 2002, the airline already anticipates it will require hundreds of thousands of dollars above what has been budgeted to cover both increased insurance costs and security fees.

Madam Speaker, and Honourable Members, I met with the staff of Cayman Airways earlier this week. I told them exactly as I will tell Members of this Honourable House, this will be the recommendation to the Government and that is, if the status quo continues, Cayman Airways will not. The Ministry, Board of Directors, Management and Staff of Cayman Airways have determined to give our very best efforts to turning the airline around. However, Madam Speaker, the airline must turn around.

We have a tremendous amount of good staff willing and very able to assist us and I found that out at the staff meeting. We will keep the staff informed because I believe this needs to be done at all levels. Thank you and I thank Honourable Members, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Can we have a motion to suspend Standing Order 46(1) to enable the following Bills to be read a first time?

The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46(1)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I wish to move the suspension of Standing Order 46(1) in order to take the First Readings of the Traffic (Amendment) Bill, 2001, and the Notaries Public (Amendment) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 46(1) be duly suspended. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Order 46(1) has been suspended.

AGREED. STANDING ORDER 46(1) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE THE TRAFFIC (AMENDMENT) BILL 2001 AND THE NOTARIES PUBLIC (AMENDMENT) BILL 2001 TO BE READ A FIRST TIME.

THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL, 2001

DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS

(Continuation of debate thereon)

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town continuing his debate.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, as I continue dealing with the Budget Address I will perhaps add a little more perspective to the increased fees in the various sectors before I move on into the address itself. It sort of puts everyone in a slight quandary because if one is to be pragmatic and basically get to the bottom line of things, it is an obvious fact that the revenue stream for Central Government has to be enhanced. So, the premise is already accepted. However, there is always this nagging question of how you do it; how best do you achieve it; and how do you minimise any negative impacts.

What I pointed out yesterday, Madam Speaker, were certain questions that were not absolutely sure to be answered. Not wanting to be part and parcel of any additive to any problems the country might face, I have made some discoveries that already there are some institutions who are doing some shifting arrangements. Simply because they have said that they love to do business here but the cost of doing business here is simply getting too high.

I thought I heard the Second Elected Member for West Bay in his contribution say that there was support from the industry for these measures. I do not know how widespread that support is. While obviously a difficult one, I believe that it is something the Government needs to be very careful about. I also see the trend: If there are any views which may differ from the position that the Government has taken with regard to the revenue measures, the slant is already there. That is, if these views vary or differ from the Government's then to let it appear that those representatives who may have different views may not be taking into consideration the ordinary man on the street.

I have been here long enough to understand how it is and what a slant is when it comes. However, I think we have to be totally honest with ourselves and understand that in so far as we play the game in that fashion, regardless of where we levy any taxes, once there is any affiliation with that burden to the residents of this country, then the cost of those additional fees is going to be passed on to the people of the country. We will find that there are going to be new and innovative ways and means for these institutions to recoup that extra cost and for them to do so, someone has to pay. As couched as it may seem, if you really go into it, it will be found that we all pay no matter how we set it up.

We, therefore have two risk factors involved. If the costs are not passed on to the local residents then the costs where it applies are going to be passed on to the overseas clients. The risk there, as I have stated before, is do they have other choices which when they make comparisons are more conducive to them continuing to do business, or to be attracted to do business, in this jurisdiction? Those are questions which have to be taken seriously into consideration. One has to be very sure before he moves ahead.

I have chosen not to jump at it to say how wrong it is, Madam Speaker, because I think we have to find a method to really find that out. I know that we really cannot simply depend on what we hear from certain quarters because as we all know, not excluding ourselves, we say what we say to build our own arguments once we take any position.

Madam Speaker, perhaps it is irony coming from me because obviously I am not one of the individuals that the Government might wish to listen to at this point in time. So, regarding the revenue measures — I would caution them to be careful in dealing with this matter. I do not know if their position is fixed; I guess it would have been fixed because the Budget has been presented and for the Budget to have remained as it is with the projections, then these projected revenues must remain. However, I think that is a decision they will have to make, Madam Speaker.

Moving on, I notice in the Budget Address with regard to national development, the Honourable Third Official Member states that the Government will establish a growth management bureau within the Ministry for Development. This bureau will promote balance including full consideration of economic, environmental and social issues in the development of the Cayman Islands, co-ordinate the implementation of vision 2008 and regularly update the plan as well as oversee the formulation of a growth management strategy for the Islands.

Reading through this, I just have a little bit of difficulty. I tried to find out a little bit more this morning but no one could explain exactly what the situation is; so I guess I will have to raise it on the Floor and perhaps it can be explained afterwards. The question that comes to mind when I read this structure being proposed, is the very close connection with Growth Management to Planning.

As memory serves me thus far, what was approved and in the works thus far, is that in January it was decided that the current DAB — the Development Advisory Board — would be disbanded and that the Development Planned Review Committee would be considered as a trial run for a new Growth Management Board. Once the Development Planned Review Committee had completed its work, which was projected for mid next year, then this trial run would have been assessed and that would then determine the future of the Growth Management Board.

Now, Madam Speaker, if this Growth Management Bureau is a separate unit, there can easily be some logistical problems. I am not one hundred percent sure how the situation could gel, but it seems to me that the Planning Department and the Central planning Authority certainly play the role of the guardian. I certainly believe at this point in time they are best equipped to deal with any growth management that may be planned for the country. If memory serves me right, in the long range planning section of the Planning Department there is an individual who already, by way of the established post, holds responsibility for growth management. So I think that they will have to think this one through to see exactly how it is going to work.

I can see where the attempt here is being made to align growth management with the area of development and where it says at the end to oversee the formulation of a growth management strategy. Again, Madam Speaker, I ask the question because I am not quite sure how the mix will be and how the fit will be. I think it has to be looked at very carefully to ensure that the efforts made so far in this area are not just thrown aside and also that the whole situation can gel properly. Perhaps they will be able to have a look and see exactly how best that can work. I thought I would raise it because of what I know is already ongoing, Madam Speaker. So I guess we will see exactly how the plan is to deal with that.

I have not had the benefit of seeing the written version of the statement made by the Honourable Minister responsible for Cayman Airways this morning so I am perhaps not in a very good position to respond as that will have been part of the Budget Address. As is fairly obvious, Madam Speaker, I have been around long enough to know how the game is played so perhaps if I am not in a position to answer immediately I will have to do so at another time.

Madam Speaker, I would be moving on to another topic now, perhaps if you are prepared to take the morning break?

The Speaker: Certainly, we will now suspend for the morning break for 20 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.41 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.19 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

Continuing the debate, the First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Perhaps now is as good a time as any, to refer briefly to the Budget Address where the Honourable Third Official Member refers to a focus on the attainment of greater efficiencies in Government and business operations and not just on growth and under that sub-heading he speaks to the rationalisation and the restructuring of Cayman Airways. By coincidence, Madam Speaker, or by design either one, I am not quite sure, there was a statement made this morning by the Minister for Tourism who is also now the Minister responsible for Cayman Airways.

In his statement the Minister—and you will pardon me if I am fumbling a little bit, Madam Speaker, because I have not had full opportunity to carefully read the statement—refers to the fact or what he considers to be a fact and I will quote him that “. . . in terms of the Business Plan, when I took over responsibility for Cayman Airways there was no Business Plan”.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, perhaps if you could so direct as to—

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Page 7 of his statement, Madam Speaker. I am sorry.

The Speaker: I am grateful. Please continue.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I will again quote from the statement on page 7, the Minister says: “In terms of the Business Plan, Madam Speaker, when I took over the responsibility of Cayman Airways, there was no Business Plan and yet a course of action had been set. There was a consensus on the Board that the course of action needed to be re-examined to ensure it considered and addressed our current realities and our anticipated future challenges.

“The services of a local consulting firm, NCB, had been acquired by the previous Minister with responsibility for the Airline. It is important to note that while this relationship had existed for almost a year, it is based upon a verbal understanding and no form of written commitment exists on either side.

“The informal nature of this arrangement has presented serious challenges in terms of accountability and organisational structure. For example, while NCB reported directly to the previous Minister and payments for these services were organised by his Ministry, it was Cayman Airways which was responsible for the payment. In the past year a sum of just over $100,000 was paid by Cayman Airways on instructions from the Ministry even though Cayman Airways management and board had no direct links or authority for the consultant.”

Madam Speaker, we need to just catch up on a little bit of history here. We will go back first of all to the Cayman Airways issue. I will, with your permission, read from certain documentation which is relevant.

The Speaker: Honourable Member could you identify, the documentation?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I will go along if that is all right, Madam Speaker. This is a letter dated 24 November 2000, from NCB consulting. It was addressed to me, re: Cayman Airways’ proposal to act as Chairman of the Board. That was how the situation started originally. I will quote from the letter if you are in agreement with it.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker—

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order, Honourable Minister.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I am wondering, Madam Speaker, whether the Member would table the document he has in his hands.

The Speaker: Honourable First Elected Member for George Town, is it your intention to so table the documents that you wish to refer to?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, I can easily do that but I am with absolute certainty that the files which the Minister took over will have these documents in them and I can table them. I do not have a problem.

The Speaker: I should be grateful if they were tabled so that I too could be privy to what you are saying.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: That is not a problem.

The Speaker: Thank you, I am grateful.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: On 24 November 2000, Madam Speaker, regarding Cayman Airways’ letter addressed to me. When I am through with everything I will table the documents. The letter is addressed to me re: Cayman Airways’ proposal to act as Chairman of the Board.

Madam Speaker, before I start the letter, I just remembered something. The way the statement reads, it states, “The services of a local consulting firm NCB had been acquired by the previous Minister with responsibility for the airline.” Now I think most of us understand the Queen’s English. The way I understand that, Madam Speaker, is that I single-handedly went out and hired this consultant. That is the way I read it. If it is not intended to be understood like that, I will give way for it to be clarified.

The letter, Madam Speaker, says, “Further to our recent discussions regarding the above, I have set out below what I believe is the most appropriate approach to the proposal for me to consider acting as Chairman of the Board of Cayman Airways.

"Whilst I am honoured that you would place this level of trust and confidence in me, I believe it would be more prudent for me and Cayman Airways to a lesser extent, to engage me to do an independent review of the state of affairs and operations of the company and report back to you as the Minister responsible of my findings and recommendations for the future of the company.

"Please understand that my recommendations will be based on the analysis and the reviews that I will conduct under the name of NCB Consulting Ltd of which I am the sole shareholder and director. My findings and recommendations will form the basis for you to put the financial status and operational affairs of Cayman Airways to Government and to the people of the Cayman Islands if deemed to be appropriate.

"I believe this approach (which allows me to be independent and unbiased in conducting my review) will better serve Cayman Airways than Chairman of the Board at this time. Once I have completed my review and made my recommendations, I will then meet with you and the Government to discuss my recommendations, any further involvement with the company, and the position of Chairman of the Board.

"Although I do appreciate the urgency of the matter, my present consulting engagements will disallow me from commencing any work before the first week in December. Unless there are delays in information being provided by the company to me, I would expect that I may be able to report my findings and recommendations to you on or before January 31, 2001. However, this is largely dependent on the cooperation and assistance that I receive from the present Chairman, Directors and staff of Cayman Airways.

"As discussed, I am prepared to waive my hourly charge of US $500.00 per hour to Government except for out-of-pocket expenses including the use of up to two professional accountants seconded by me to produce detailed analysis and documentation for my review and report. These costs will be billed to Government on a monthly basis by NCB Consulting Ltd.

"I trust you will find this approach acceptable and we can meet in the very near future to formalize this engagement."

Madam Speaker, when I received this letter from Mr. Naul Bodden and signed by him as the sole owner and director of NCB Consulting, a paper went to Executive Council on 8 December 2000. This is a copy of a letter from the Ministry of Planning, Communications and Works addressed to Mr. Naul Bodden and it says:

"Dear Mr. Bodden,

"Re: Cayman Airways – Independent Review

"Your letter dated 24th November 2000 refers.

"I am directed by the Governor-in-Council to advise that approval has been granted for you to carry out an independent review of Cayman Airways.

"The Chairman, Acting Chief Executive Officer, and the Executive Management Team have been briefed and you can expect their full support and corporation in conducting this important exercise.

"Thank you for your assistance.

"Sincerely,

"K. S. Gomez, MBE, JP,
"Permanent Secretary."

So you see, due process did take place.

You know the other thing which is kind of baffling, and I can see where it is headed . . . I can see what the intention is and I will have to decide my own life. However, hear this, Madam Speaker, the name Naul Bodden was suggested by the now Deputy Leader before I or anyone else thought of anyone.

Madam Speaker, I hear the Leader of Government Business saying that has nothing to do with this.

Listen! This statement has intentions behind it and I can read and I can understand and anyone can say what they wish to say, however they wish to say it, but I have been around long enough to understand. They know that I understand correctly.

When other people were speaking, I sat, listened and I did not say a word. The new Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology has just said if I mislead the people he is going to stop me. Madam Speaker, he need not fear that because, that is not something—

The Speaker: Honourable First Elected Member may I ask you to please take your seat for one second?

Honourable Members, to this extent in the debate I have been extremely grateful for the very high calibre and the way in which we carried out our debate. I believe that there are tremendous, important matters at hand. It would serve us, as well as the country, for Members to carry out their debates without making any imputations or any infringements with the relevant Standing Orders on the side of the debater.

Likewise, if persons on the receiving end could do so by way of what is provided in the relevant Standing Orders on points of order for elucidation, we can conclude the country's business at hand and move into Finance Committee so that the new Government as well as the Honourable Members of the Backbench could see this country move forward which I am sure is the desire of all Members.

Please continue, First Elected Member.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. My whole intent here is simply to clarify the matter; nothing more. Now, the statement speaks to a verbal understanding and no formal written commitment exists on either side. I just read the letter which explains the original engagement. The Minister also speaks to nothing being made known since July of this year. On page 1 of his report he says, "I deemed this as a logical and necessary step as little was known about what, if any, progress has been made since the July 2001 report produced by NCB." On 15 August Finance Committee was held. The resolution that was approved unanimously was to allow the Cayman Islands to provide a guarantee in respect of the monthly lease payments in connection with the intended lease of two new aircraft over a five-year term, the total guarantee not exceeding $33 million.

Also at that meeting, it was resolved that the existing guarantees that were in place—and I am going to explain this in my own language, I am not quoting a resolution here—at Royal Bank which totalled, I think, $32.8 million that Government varied the terms of those guarantees to allow for the refinancing, restructuring of Cayman Airways. I also think it included the deposits on the proposed two new leases of aircraft at that time.

Madam Speaker, that was on 15 August. Then came 11 September at which point in time we had not signed any agreements. It is being said that nothing at all was known but that fact was known. It was also known when this happened that we put everything on hold because the whole world was upside down. So while there is that resolution that has been approved by Cayman Airways with regard to leases of aircraft, let it be clearly understood that nothing has been acted upon thus far.

I just want to make sure that is clearly understood because in some other forum I heard it said about this $60-odd million which if one takes it literally, based on the resolutions that were passed, those two amounts do total that. The $32.8 million is the existing guarantees at Royal Bank which were allowed to be varied. The other amount which is not to exceed $33 million—nothing has been done about that. So the Government has not been made responsible for any of that action up until when I had responsibility for the airline.

It says in the statement that "...in terms of the business plan, Madam Speaker, when I took over the responsibility for Cayman Airways there was no Business Plan and yet a course of action had been set." I have in front of me, a document which on the cover reads "Cayman Airways Business Plan 2001-2002, October 12 2001 Strictly confidential."

Now, the truth is that after the approval at Finance Committee there was supposed to be a contract drawn up between the relevant parties. This would have gone beyond the original engagement by the Government of the Cayman Islands of NCB Consultants. Every single Member of this Legislative Assembly was privy to that process. When we went to the Legal Department to have one done, unfortunately but not unusual, it became a long drawn-out affair and certain terms and conditions in that agreement were unacceptable to the consultants. With regard to certain types of liabilities, the consultant himself was not part of a huge consulting firm or accounting firm and the type of insurance that would have been required of him to accept certain liabilities was just not reasonable. The cost of that insurance made it totally not viable to be able to engage in what he was doing.

Remember, Madam Speaker, at this point in time, until an arrangement is made, the purpose of that contract was to speak to remuneration. As of now there were no charges to NCB Consultants themselves. The only fees to be paid would have been paid for any use or outsourcing to gather information and that was what was done.

Madam Speaker, the statement reads, "The informal nature of this arrangement, has presented serious challenges in terms of accountability and organisational structure. For example, while NCB reported directly to the previous Minister and payments for these services were authorised by the Ministry, it was Cayman Airways which was responsible for the payment. In the past year ..." and this is where it is important Madam Speaker, "... a sum of just over C.I. $100,000 was paid by Cayman Airways on instruction from the Ministry, even though Cayman Airways Management and Board had no direct links or authority for the consultant."

It is not what you say sometimes, Madam Speaker, it is how you say it. I do not have copies of the invoices with me but I am certain if the Minister in charge so chooses to check, he can have it checked. Regarding every single cent that is spoken to in his statement, it can be shown where not one penny was paid to the individual involved or certainly not to me.

Madam Speaker, I can only say, and I say this truthfully that I do not mind when certain things happen. Most things once I understand them, even when they do not go in my favour, I can accept. However, I am going to tell you something, when I feel what I feel from a statement of this nature, it is the wrong road. Perhaps, there are some of us who thrive on certain types of engagements because that is the only way that they can see what they think as progress. Unfortunately for me, and it is unfortunate for me, because I have had to live with that for a little while now, I really am not built like that. Everybody is different and even that I accept.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, perhaps if you could return to paragraph 3 where you were dealing with the greater efficiencies in Government, as it related to Cayman Airways that would be good.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, Madam Speaker, I will. Surely, Madam Speaker, even in doing that you will not deny me the privilege of speaking how I feel about the issue at hand and that is what I was coming to. I will not test you; have no fear; have no fear.

This business report was approved by the Board of Directors with all of the events that have transpired, including and post 11 September, there had to be a new look. I would have thought that is almost totally expected because the whole world changed, not excluding but certainly more so in the airline industry than in anything else. Perhaps that is not quite fair but certainly the airline industry had a whole new life to look at, if there was a life to it. So, the way that it is spoken to about no information being received, was simply the fact that when this thing happened, then the whole new look had to take place. By the time everybody regrouped and decided on a course of action, that was only perhaps 30 days at most before the other event happened.

I just want to make it absolutely clear that while I accept the difficulties with Cayman Airways, I never tried to hide them from the very beginning. However, certainly no attempt should be made now to let it appear as if it almost did not matter to me. That is what I was coming to with what I was saying. I am not trying to bend it up or anything like that, Madam Speaker, but I think it should be made very clear exactly what the situation was. The situation was not as this statement (that was read this morning) alluded to.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order, Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Member is questioning the veracity of what I said in this House this morning and what he is imputing is improper motive. At least, he is attributing something to me that did not take place. The statement I made is the facts and nothing but the facts and nothing that the Member has said has cleared up anything. If anything is being read into it, the Member is reading into it because it is certainly not what I said. Nevertheless, I will have an opportunity, Madam Speaker, but I do think it is a point of order.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, under Standing Order 35 subsection (4) it says that, "No Members shall impute improper motives to another Member." I would ask you Honourable First Elected Member to be extremely careful in the way you so structure your statements. I have given you the liberty and I will continue to give you the liberty to defend yourself as I will all Members, but let us take the debate on, please.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, I am not hard to get along with and I want to make it very clear this is not to make your life difficult; this is to make it very clear. I want to make it very clear that I did not have any intention to impute improper motives. What I simply said is that there were areas in the statement that were not factual and I have the documentation to prove it. I just proved it, Madam Speaker, I am not trying to impute an improper motive.

POINT OF ELUCIDATION

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, if the Member would allow me to elucidate.

The Speaker: Will you Honourable Member?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Sure.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the point I am getting at is his statement; he just varied it a little bit which suits his position now, but when I called for the point of order he specifically said the statement was not factual. He has, as I said, varied it a little bit just now. However, Madam Speaker, for instance, where the Member is talking about whether a Business Plan was there. What this statement is saying is that NCB did not produce any. The statement that the Member holds in his hand was the one that Cayman Airways had to produce to be able to get the funding. It was Cayman Airways that produced it. As far as I am concerned, that is not a Business Plan.

The Speaker: Honourable Members it is now seven minutes to one, I think it is the most appropriate time for us to take our luncheon break. We will suspend until 2.30 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.56 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.44 PM

The Speaker: The First Elected Member from the District of George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we took the luncheon break, I was almost finished with Cayman Airways and I think it is probably just one or two more minor points in that area; so I will not be very long with it.

In the back of the Business Plan dated 12 October that I speak to (which is to be correctly termed an interim Business Plan), there is also a letter dated 24 September. Bearing in mind the events of September 11th, which is addressed to the General Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada "Re: Cayman Airways Ltd. restructured finance". It reads, "Further to our previous discussions, we have set out below the funding requirements for Cayman Airways in accordance with a loan restructuring plan presented to Finance Committee and approved by them on August 15th of this year;" and it outlines the total funding required and speaks to the guarantee and the repayment terms. In the very last paragraph the letter states, "In view of recent events, an interim plan for the next six to twelve month period is being completed and will be forwarded to you in due course. In the meantime should you require any further information, please let me know. Thank you for your attention to this matter. Sincerely, Naul C. Bodden."

So, Madam Speaker, the letter of 24 September, simply indicates to the Manager of Royal Bank the intention to produce this interim plan and that is the plan that I speak to and have a copy of in front of me.

Now it is said that that plan was prepared by Cayman Airways. However, like all of the other interim reports that were done during the course of the year, it was something that was done in conjunction with the Chief Financial Officer of Cayman Airways who obviously would have had to be an integral part of preparing that. He would have been the person with all the necessary information about the facts and figures of the operational side of the airline. So, Madam Speaker, suffice it to say that the report we are talking to is an interim report not solely completed by Cayman Airways, but one that was done in conjunction with—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: On a point of order.

The Speaker: Please state your point of order.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Under Standing Order 36(1) relevance the Member is debating the statement that was read this morning and not the Budget Address.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: He is doing it in conjunction with the Budget Address on Cayman Airways. He said that already.

The Speaker: Honourable Members, I have listened to it and I have kept the Budget Address duly open based on the premise that the Honourable Member did say he was dealing with paragraph 3 subparagraph (b) which reads as follows. "Thirdly focus on the attainment of greater efficiencies in Government and business operations and not just growth..." and the particular section, "The rationalisation and restructuring of Cayman Airways." I am listening very carefully to ensure that he keeps it within that ambit and I have taken note of your concern.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Good, Madam Speaker!

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, perhaps it would be best for me to go on to something else. I think that I have explained the position with Cayman Airways, the restructuring and the rationalisation as I referred to from the very beginning. The fact that I used the statement this morning to deal with certain aspects certainly, Madam Speaker, as you have ruled it was not out of context.

Generally, with the Budget Address and the Budget that has been prepared, when we go into Finance Committee we will have an opportunity to bring some clearer light on certain issues in the estimates themselves and we will be able to deal with that. I perhaps will not find it necessary to deal with any other specific areas of the Budget Address itself and I will probably just wind up my debate now.

I can see the way the situation is being played out and if that is the way of the new Government and the United Democratic Party Government, then so be it. I have no real desire for continuing acrimonious debate but let me just make it very clear from here on in. I am very much alive and however they wish to deal with it, it is entirely up to them. However, they must understand that depending on how they deal with it, it is going to be tit for tat, whether it is one or all.

I also think that you will allow me to just clearly state that I believe that it is not the desire of this country to have a one party state. So, perhaps they will understand while they have been able to draw on resources and put together a party, those of us on the Backbench and are also good representatives of the people of this country. We will not just fall away but will be doing what we have to do in order to ensure that the business of this Honourable House is conducted in a manner that affords real good governance.

Finally, Madam Speaker, I noticed yesterday that when the party had their announcement they spoke to some commandments. I think you will be able to bear me out that one of God's Ten Commandments is, "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour." Outside of the Floor of this House, there have been many things going on and a lot of things have happened that people perhaps are bitter about. Perhaps on each side of the fence, people may think that the actions of this person were not the right ones and then go back and forth. I think that when it is all said and done, we need to somehow find it in us to be a little bit more conscious of the existence of others around us.

I am not trying to put myself in a position where I am different from anybody else because as was obvious in November of 2000, certain things happened that did not please other people and all kinds of things went on and at the end of the day there was displeasure. I would like us to be able to put all of that behind us and get on with the business of the country.

Madam Speaker, I quoted that commandment to you because it is a different matter when one disagrees with certain positions but no one should lose sight of the fact about another person's existence and speak to situations that they say occurred when in fact they did not occur. I have been told by several people that I was supposed to have made a certain phone call on Saturday, 3 November speaking to—

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Please state your point of order, Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I think that all Members of this House need to take cognisance of the time of the year we are in and the work we have to do. The matter that is before us is the Budget and has nothing in it concerning 8 November or what happened at that point. I do not think the Member should be getting into that and the point of matter that I am bringing to the Chair is relevance.

The Speaker: Honourable First Elected Member, are you in your summing-up phase now? There is still quite a number of hours remaining, I am not trying to stop you. I am just inquiring as to where you are.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: No, Madam Speaker, there are other things that I would have spoken about within the Budget but as I said I saw the trend and I did not want to engage in all of that. Perhaps, on the Minister for Tourism's point of order regarding relevance, maybe you should simply make your ruling and move on.

The Speaker: Certainly. My ruling in this instance Honourable Members is that it has strayed somewhat outside the ambit of the Budget Address within the last few seconds. I was allowing an element of discretion because you did indicate you were summing up. If that is not in fact the case, then please indicate whether or not you are summing up and stick as much as you can to the subject before you.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, if I am to be truthful to you what I was going to speak to really had no bearing on the Budget itself. To keep my word, I will not bother to test the situation right to the minute. However, let me just make it very clear that as I said before, I have no desire for continuous acrimonious debate but it is entirely up to how they wish to deal. I know there is security in numbers but it is not going to faze me.

The good order and the well being of the Cayman Islands has always been and remains my utmost and what I term, passionate concern. Nothing that has happened that will change anything in that regard in any shape or form. In fact, the truth is it will only serve to fuel desire to continue to contribute in a positive and meaningful way to the future of our Cayman Islands.

Now having said all of that, Madam Speaker, let me just finish off by saying that for all the lessons that all of us may have learned, one thing I can assure the public of this country, is that the lessons that I have learned will be put to good use on their behalf. While there may be those who would say, 'Well, I should deal with certain things a little different at this point in time', something way down tells me to do it the way I am doing it now. We will see how life goes from here, we will see what transpires in the days and weeks and months ahead.

The Members of the Backbench here, the five of us, will be playing the watchdog role as I stated before about myself and we will continue to do what we should be doing as representatives of the people of this country. The manner in which it is obvious it is going to move on from here is going to be different from how it was and we will see whether that is bad or good and we will see how the new Government moves the country forward.

I trust that as we move on we are somehow able to find the ways and means to do what we think we have to do and still maintain what we should be doing as representatives of the people. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Before I call on any other Member, First Elected Member for George Town, I should wish to draw your attention to Standing Order 31 which gives any Member a right to do a personal explanation. Does any other Member wish to speak at this time? Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services, Youth and Women's Affairs.

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: Madam Speaker, in rising to speak to this Budget 2002 and following the contribution made by the First Elected Member for George Town, I would just like to be allowed to briefly read from an election bulletin which I printed on 18 September 2000. It says that Caymanians must come—

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: Please state your point of order.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: What does the reading of that have to do with the debate on the Budget Address?

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, is that really a point of order?

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I think it is your right to rule on my question not the Deputy Leader of Government Business. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Honourable Members, I would wish to draw everyone's attention to Standing Order 39(d) which states that "Members present in the Chamber during a debate shall . . . (d) in all other respects conduct themselves in a seemly manner", and I would expect no less. Suffice to say I will rule provided ample time is given. Otherwise I shall have no choice but to suspend and allow Members time to cool down, perhaps have a drink of water, because we shall proceed these proceedings in a very expeditious and timely manner.

Having said that, I would have to be given an opportunity to hear what the Honourable Minister has to say. I would ask him to ensure that he keeps within the ambit of Standing Order 36, scope of debate, which deems it prudent for relevancy to be a part of all debate.

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: Madam Speaker, thank you very much.

I think there is such a thing as an introduction to a debate. I just wanted to read what I printed at that particular time and it reads, "The significant challenges which face the Cayman Islands today cannot be solved at the same level of thinking we were at when they were created. We must now more than ever before choose leadership which will create the conditions whereby we can live out our imagination instead of our memory. Our leaders must tie us to our limitless potential instead of our limiting past. They must begin with core values firmly in their minds. Only then will these Islands be able to face with integrity the challenges posed by immigration, crime and unbalanced development. Only then will leadership become proactive rather than reactive. Only then will leadership be able to fight the presence sense of meaninglessness and emptiness which prevails in our society. Leadership must begin to provide you, the people, with a political culture that is driven by values that are clear."

Madam Speaker, the reason I read that is because when you get ... I am quite willing to table this because I think it is something perhaps that might be best kept in the archives of the Legislative Assembly.

The Speaker: Is that a request Honourable Member for so tabling?

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: The reason I thought it was very appropriate to read that is because in debating the Budget Address, the First Elected Member for George Town mentioned the fact that there were certain companies that seem to be no longer willing to remain in the Cayman Islands. The Islands have become too expensive as a result of the revenue measures which this Government is now bringing in this Budget. I feel that we need to be clear about the positions that we hold politically so that people understand the message that we are communicating to them. Like people talk is like people think; like people think is like people is.

I think it is necessary to be proactive rather than reactive in terms of the kinds of problems which now face this country. For too long, Madam Speaker, we have been reacting to one crisis after another. I think that the Second Elected Member for West Bay clearly stated in his Budget debate the reason the Budget for 2001 had all the borrowings of that particular period, despite all the attempts to blame it on the previous Government. At the end of the day regardless of who we blame we are still caught in the situation. What is important is not the conditions but the response to the conditions that we face. We do not have the control over the conditions but we certainly have control over how we respond to those conditions.

Leadership must be proactive. It must come up with solutions because it is not very easy for any country in this day and age to find a balance; between what we might consider to be selfishness on the part of some of its citizens, with the need to make sure that there is infrastructure for proper education, medical facilities, and social policies.

Madam Speaker, it is not very easy in a world that is divided, one opinion here and one opinion there, to take up a position and say, "This is what we should do, this is what will be best". We must have at least the foresight and the vision to make decisions. The response to whatever problem we have in this country lies with us the representatives. The persons who say they are or were elected to lead the country.

I am speaking as the Minister responsible for Community Services, Women's affairs, Youth and Sports but I am recently elevated to that position. While this Budget that we now have before us was being composed, I had nothing to do with how it was being formulated. As a matter of fact, from the point of view of the pluses and minuses, I have nothing at all to do with those in my Ministry's Budget. From the point of view of the expenses that we will incur, I had nothing to do with that. The Members who are now on the Backbench, trying to call themselves watch dogs or Opposition Members or whatever it is that they will finally have the time to decide to call themselves, were part and parcel of the formulation of the same Budget that I am here to defend today, the expense part of that Budget.

I think it is important to remember that they created the pluses and minuses of my Ministry and the majority in my Ministry is one that does not have very much to do with raising revenue. We spend money on programmes that we believe will assist the country in remaining stable, because we believe that social stability is essential to economic stability and economic progress. We know that the Cayman Islands have been economically prosperous due to the social fabric of the Cayman Islands. It was one which allowed the integration of foreign elements, values, businesses, people, and institutions.

The Cayman Islands also had in its native original fabric that possibility for integration, so that economic and social progress was able to happen here at a pace that did not happen in other countries. However, there was a price at the end of the day for this. The social fabric began to suffer from traumatic types of difficulties, such as problems of alcohol and drug abuse, domestic violence, the lack of ambition and the lack of care and attention to the elderly. All the kinds of social problems that we see manifested in other countries became apparent to us here in the Cayman Islands as far back as some 20 years.

It is important that we understand that in dealing with these social issues, there is also a need for the cure, prevention policies and strategies to be financed and that can only be financed with revenue.

We cannot use the minuses in these instances to run those particular services. The Minister responsible for the portfolio before I assumed it questioned whether or not I should read into this particular debate. The fact is that leadership must be clear, play a different role, and we cannot solve the problems that we have today with the thinking that we had yesterday. I believe that those people who are on the other side of the aisle in the majority, represent the thinking of yesterday. It is not clear thinking. It is not an analytical thinking. It is not a precise thinking. It is not a committed thinking, Madam Speaker. What this country needs most of all at this particular point, is clear, dedicated, disciplined, analytical thinking; that is the relevance of my reference.

I think it is very appropriate that we understand that I was not put into this position by the Members of the Backbench with whom I sat, simply because I am good looking. It was because the way I speak, is the way I think, is the way I am. The clarity of my thoughts, the fluidity of my expression indicates how I think, the pace at which I think and the depth to which I go in analysing and dissecting and looking at the issues.

I believe that although I did not put the Budget together with regards to the minuses, what we will spend on our social rehabilitation, youth and sporting programmes, I have brought clarity already to that portfolio. That will give a multifaceted, multidisciplinary approach to the whole issue of social development and social stability. No longer do we have to believe; no longer do we say that we are doing social good simply because we as a state are altruistic. We are doing it because it entails the very strategy of survival for the State which has the core responsibility to provide its citizens with security. One of the primary principles of why we gather together as human beings is to provide each other with security. If the State fails to do that, then the whole social covenant, the whole social contract becomes absurd. It is not worthwhile.

Therefore, social development, social services must have a new meaning in this country. It is not that we are interested in handing out cheques to people without them understanding their obligation to also uphold the values and moral order of the society. So when we have the minuses there, in doing these programmes like providing a shelter for women who are being abused at home and who need some place to stay, it costs the country. When we have our good conscience, we need the revenue in order to be able to create the materials and human conditions to ease those problems which we already know are related to other problems of violence which exists among our youth and among our society.

Therefore, when we adopt a multifaceted, multidisciplinary approach to solving social problems, we cannot solve the problems of the women in crisis without solving the problem of the prisons in crisis. We cannot solve the prisons in crisis if we are spending all the money on negative behaviour and no money on pro-social behaviour. Madam Speaker, we have to learn how to balance between those who are pro-social and giving those who are anti-social the type of corrective help and assistance which is needed to bring them back into pro-social behaviour.

There cannot be a country with all the abundance that we have, all the abundance that we see ... Just today, I was recording a Public Eye show and I was talking about how we went to South Sound during Christmas time to get pine trees to make our Christmas tree and how we took the paint can that was abandoned and how we put the silver paper around it and we put sand in the paint can and we put up our Christmas tree. Perhaps I could not go there and cut a Christmas tree today. I could not go there and I, probably could not even catch any fish for Christmas. I would probably have to go and buy.

Conditions have changed. Those persons who could freely fish, use the earth and environment they live in, to gather what they need and to fulfil their human needs of shelter and food, now have to earn by working for wages. That in itself creates an imbalance in the society. Government needs to create a balance in the Budget to try to balance the kind of envy, animosity, jealousy, social and political turmoil that will lead people to not trust one another and to hate one another.

So, the fact that Government must raise revenue coercively sometimes is not a surprise. It is not new and the whole issue can be traced back to Roman times when people first said you had to pay something. Madam Speaker, can you imagine what some of those tribes back in those days would have been like if there was not somebody who could say: "Look, I am going to be the King, I am going to be the Government, I am going to raise the army, I am going to defend the people, I am going to tax, I am going to raise revenue, I am going to harness the resources in order to make the army strong, and do so in order to make the State strong, to give the people the kind of protection they need?" If they did not have that there would have been no centralisation.

There would have been no society because without centralisation it is hard for me to accept that there would have been a civic society. So the logic of some kind of centralised approach to these issues is important. I know that my style of talking is different from a lot of others but like I said, I am here in spite of the fact that people have laughed at me and that people will continue to laugh at me. I do believe there are those who do appreciate the way I approach certain issues because they understand me.

The Cayman Islands have gone from a fishing village to become the so-called fifth largest financial centre in the world. What it could charge yesterday to manage the issue of security and what it has to charge today is totally different. It does not necessarily mean that the people who could get away 20 years ago by charging peanuts are any better than those of us who feel that we have to charge a little bit more today. We who have to make the difficult decisions of saying, "I believe that this group or that institution should contribute a little bit more to the general revenue in order to preserve that which makes all of us benefit". In order to preserve the general good, we have to make changes in terms of how we make demands on different individuals and different institutions.

What is new about that? Who has ever liked paying dues or tithes or taxes? It has always been seen as a burden on man but man, with all his burdens, has come forward to this point with great progress, prosperity, ambitions and great dreams. Man has not been broken. Man stands at a time when he can really look backwards and say, "We have come this far to realise that it is only when we know how to share and to utilise properly all of our resources; not just our physical environment but our human environment as well."

There are those who believe that a mangrove is more important than the little boy down in George Town who we know is going astray because he started smoking ganja at nine years old. As long as we do not do something with him, as long as we do not get involved, not just as a society but also as a State, it will cost us later on. That child's mind that is lost will become more expensive to contain, to incarcerate and to dedicate prisons to for the rest of his life.

I believe sincerely when I started to campaign in 1996 that the financial community in this country had prospered. However, there was not enough consideration as to the social consequences of this particular type of growth. It is not enough to just be able to help a few seamen who are in need; to help a few ex-service persons who need medical attention; to pay to design a prison that looks like a chicken coop but we cannot physically do the kind of work that needs to be done.

It is all right, Madam Speaker, to put the prison at the bottom of the priorities but we have to spend millions of dollars that we have not yet started to spend. We are getting behind in our sporting, youth, women's programme and our entire social programme. We drag our feet and say we do not have the funds to be able to put an effective social policy in place. We have still not dealt with the issue of housing in this country and yet we believe that what we ask for today in terms of revenue is unfair and unjust.

I have spoken to the persons who must now participate more fairly in giving us the opportunity to solve some of these issues. We have had these issues piling up behind us for all these years, that should they want to run the country, let them run the country. However, let them go into the areas that I go into and see the poverty, the anger and the frustration. Let them! Then tell me what the solution is to these problems. However, as long as I am the one who must do this, I must say the revenue the country has been able to collect so far has not been enough.

My friends tell me all the time that government is a waste of time. It is too big and is spending too much. I can see the inefficiencies in government myself but because I recognise the weaknesses in myself, it does not mean necessarily that I can make the transformation from the weaknesses to the strength all of a sudden. Neither can we do it in government. Nor can they do it in the private sector. How can there really be a thriving, prosperous private sector when governments are wasteful and no good?

Some of the same people who are complaining about the Government should go to Nigeria. They should go to some of the real Third World countries and see how people live. We live as persons that represent this Government, this country. We, all 15 of us live as some of the most fearful, frightened people because we have no protection and no respect. There is no gratitude; there are only threats such as; 'Wait until the next election, we will get you. You did not give me what I want; you did not break the rules for me.' Yet, they do not understand how much we actually put out.

We are very conscious of the fact that there need to be changes. There need to be changes in the Government bureaucracy to make it more efficient and how many of us have not told our cousins and our friends, when they come to look jobs, that we cannot really help them. Probably all 15 of us have told the old lady that we cannot help her; have said to the seaman that he is working and although he is only making $800 a month, he still cannot get the $400. The Social Service budget has gone down in terms of what it will spend this year over what it spent last year. However, there is need for more money overall because we need to shift from rewarding people simply because we feel they deserve it, to rewarding people because they need to have.

Revenue is the issue here because each government department, each portfolio has cut or postponed and said they will not hire. Nevertheless, what happens when you need somebody or something? It might be a definite position that we need more prison or police officers but we cannot hire. Your prison is falling apart and you cannot hire because there is no money.

The Speaker: Is this a convenient time, Honourable Minister, for an afternoon break?

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: I will suspend for 15 minutes and Members, please let us try to get back within the 15 minutes. I thank you.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.32 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.56 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services, Youth and Women's Affairs continuing his debate on the Budget Address.

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: Madam Speaker, thank you.

While considering the need to raise revenue, there are not many individuals or institutions that go out to assess the needs, cost and how those needs will be dealt with. Government is the only institution, in fact, that has done this consistently over a period of years. It is sometimes difficult for persons who have their own individual private sector enterprise to accept that. Although, I am one who believes that we should take advice, it is nevertheless important for us to realise that the decisions to be made must be made by the Elected Members for only they will ultimately be held responsible for those decisions.

With all due respect to those persons who advocate the consultative process, one has to also realise self-interest is always involved here. There will be very few people who are going to give up something freely because we have to understand the nature of our financial industry.

Our financial industry was founded upon discontent by persons who owned a lot of money. They came here in order to escape certain types of responsibilities in their own countries. They also came because they felt in some other Caribbean countries, there were things going on there that would eventually cost them to pay a little bit more than they would have to pay here. Their partnership with us was based upon the concept that they, as partners were in control of the partnership. The day they decided they no longer wanted a partnership because of the way we were operating, they could extract themselves from it and leave.

Therefore, our attempts to raise revenue in this country have always been coerced by that understanding, not always implicit but mostly explicit. They would tell you that first of all they did not want the Cayman Islands to mature politically because that would create certain types of problems. Our political maturity was looked at as important with regard to what we would be bold enough to do in relationship to the partnership. Also those persons were some of the most active in terms of collecting information about individuals, political leanings, thinking and relationships. Those persons would report to their clients on the political climate in the Cayman Islands. A docile, political climate in the Cayman Islands was seen as something that was positive because that way there would be no group of people strong, firm or cohesive enough to actually be able to demand from them a rethinking of the partnership.

So, we can see why some people are upset with the emergence of the United Democratic Party. I must say that the Budget that I am defending at this particular point is the United Democratic Party's first budget. I have not had the same kind of experience as the Honourable Minister responsible for Planning, Communication, Works and Information Technology, the Deputy Leader of Government Business, in terms of looking at the mathematical parts of the Budget. However, from a conceptual point, I can say that we as a group were very conscious that the country had exhausted its ability to find new revenue. So much so, the 15 Members of this Legislative Assembly – and I do believe that I can include you, Madam Speaker, in that – felt that some type of exercise was necessary to be done to see where we might get additional revenue without taxing any more the little man or the poor man or the working man. As the Second Elected Member from West Bay had argued in his contribution, that particular part of our community had suffered.

Now, Madam Speaker, you remember that I brought a motion to remove the duties from foodstuff and although the Government in which you were a part of at that time did not go along with all the schemes that I had, you at least removed the duties from certain food items. As soon as the past Government, the Government between your Government and this Government got in, they put those duties back on the foodstuffs. In addition to that, they went out and borrowed. However, they would not confront the same persons that this new Government, the United Democratic Party Government, is willing to approach.

We are unified to say the truth of the matter is that we have the opportunity to look at some of the ideas that have been looked at by the past Government that was in place between 2000 and November 2001. There were some ideas in there with regard to revenue enhancement measures that I have to admit have been used. So it is no wonder that the Members on that side are partly here with regard to the revenue measures because the revenue measures grew out of a process that the Government between 2000 and 2001 put in place. I think that is very important to remember. Now, I am not saying that all of that is the case but the exercise of trying to raise the additional revenue desperately needed started, not in November of this year, but after the Budget in November 1999.

I think that everybody in this Legislative Assembly is concerned with how to raise revenue and how to make it possible for Government to actually be able to deal with all of those infrastructural needs that it needs to deal with. Now, the issue is that we were so much united on the idea that we had to work together to find new revenue measures to which 15 people concurred. If the same Government that was in power between 2000 and 2001 was here today, they either would have had to borrow more money and put the country in a worse state from the point of view of stability or they would have had to use certain revenue measures that were available to them. I am quite sure that in all of their sensitivity and wisdom they would not have gone back to tax the little man any more than he had been taxed over the years.

So what are we talking about, then? We are talking about the fact that certain people do not like the fact that we are raising revenues from them. They are on that side and therefore, they find it possible to say, . Yeah, we will take the side of the persons who are against these revenue measures that you have brought because we cannot benefit from being on your side and agree with what you do. So we will say yes, we agree that what you are doing is unfair.

However, the question is if there is no revenue, how can there be implementation of policies? How can these gentlemen and lady expect that the needs for their communities can be fulfilled without revenue?

Can it happen after they get up and criticise the revenue measures without any alternative suggestions as how we would raise revenue at this particular time without borrowing money? How do they expect the programmes which they believe should be provided to be funded? With what? It would be good, I mean it would be such an ideal position to say, 'On the one hand, I disagree with you but you know what? Let me get some of that too so I can do something and look good.' That is not the way it should be because what is being done is being done collectively for the good of everybody. Everybody is supposed to participate.

I think that when people actually pass judgement on this Budget, they should pass judgement fairly, objectively and not because certain persons are not pleased with the fact that we are asking them to contribute to the General Revenue more than they have contributed in the past. The Honourable Financial Secretary mentioned where we are going to have a tripartite approach to national development involving the active participation of the public, private and social sectors. If this approach would promote sustainable development, greater inclusion, balance in development and business opportunities for local residents, then all the social partners have to become responsible, play their part and not continue to threaten us about what they are going to do if we pass these revenue measures.

The difference today is that there are some of us who are stern, confident, have vision and understand domestic and international economics sufficiently to be able to say to them, 'Look, where are you are going? Why would you even want to go?' We have been playing to protect the financial community here.

With the OECD (Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development), we have done what we have had to do. We have spent money, where we had to spend it; hired expertise where we had to in order to understand better what is going on internationally and to protect the fifth largest financial community in the world.

People say to us, 'Oh, you are the fifth largest financial community in the world; yet you have no money to spend on affordable housing for your people, on your youth or sporting programmes? What is happening there? Is that a reality? Is that an illusion that you are the fifth largest financial community in the world?'

What do we mean by being the fifth largest financial community in the world? Does that mean there are just buildings on our soil? Buildings that have a separate sovereignty from our sovereignty? Do they have sovereign jurisdiction over all the moneys here simply because they will not integrate their economic system into our domestic economic system? We can also derive the benefits from that instead of having our people work for cheap wages and cannot afford to buy into the very same soil that they owned? Madam Speaker, when we say the 'fifth largest financial community in the world', does that mean that all that has happened here is a system to deprive other countries of taxes and to deprive us of revenue?

I think that it is important at this particular juncture in our development for us to think seriously about what we can maintain and sustain. When we talk about sustainable development, we must talk about sustaining the social and educational systems as well as the environmental issues. We are not just talking about sustaining the physical development. We have to talk about the human aspects as well. To sustain that will only become possible when that 'fifth largest financial community in the world' begins to give some real concrete benefits to the Cayman Islands' people. That would mean passing on, as freely as possible, revenue to the Government which is not greedy, extravagant, corrupt, or spending money on Mercedes Benz cars, big palaces, servants and all of those things but to a very humble Government of the people. We come from the people who are saying, 'We believe that we provide you with a very important business environment where you can make profits and as a result of that we need to . . .'

Madam Speaker, I know that the Elected Member from North Side is not a clown. I know she is not a comedian and I know that the First Elected Member from George Town is definitely not one. However, I do not understand why that Lady continues to behave the way she is behaving in relationship to me in terms of the signs she is making to me when she knows that I am trying my best to concentrate to make a speech here.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, could he explain what sign I was trying to make to him because I was quite interested in his debate?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, can you please clarify?

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: Madam Speaker, the Lady Member knows and maybe all I am saying is that she knows what I am saying and I will just go on.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: There exists here a situation whereby our development has had to go forward from the point that once you have businesses located in your country, there will be needs because no longer can the people be employed by using a pick-axe and an axe and a shovel. People have to have the tools to be able to survive in industry. People can no longer go and pick their whelks, conchs and fish; if there is anything left, it must now be maintained for tourism. So, people are allowed only to exist from the salaries and wages they earn.

It is important that we have money to build schools and to keep our education programmes up-to-date. It is important that we have money to be able to assist those persons suffering so that they can be re-integrated into the work systems, where discipline and achievement are best accomplished. It cannot be done without money and as a result of that, the more people that we have, the more the need for the Government to increase its revenues in order to keep up with those demands.

So, I do not believe that we are going to hear good messages from certain persons in the financial community but the good thing about it is that I have never taken advice from certain people. I have never gone on to be their colleague or their friend. Their approval of me is not even important to me.

I am not going to be swayed by anything other than my conviction. My conviction in fact, is the benefits the financial community receives in this country are great and the benefits which the Cayman Islands' people receive are small. The smaller person you are, the more you understand that.

There are some of us, of course, who have made it good, who have always made it good; who have been the tokens and who have been rewarded but the majority have not. That we need to address some issues with regard to how wealth is distributed in our country is nothing strange. However, when we attempt to do this, for someone to say that somehow we are driving them away, is unfair. For somebody to give the people the mixed message and to bring that fear back to them is almost like going back to one particular Member we had on this side at one particular time. I do not believe that we need to go that way.

I believe that the Budget from the point of view of the revenue has tried to accomplish something that was difficult. It is a balanced budget without a tremendous amount of borrowing and I know that part of the issues that caused the United Democratic Party to come into existence had to do with budget issues. Although, I was not in the circle, I know that because I know to certain people: how money is spent, what money is spent and where you get that money to spend, is important. There is a younger group of people in here who are very professional and they do insist upon certain types of standards.

How a budget is composed is a very important part of the sovereignty and the right of a government. If we are going to say that simply because people having private wealth exist in our society and there is not a point at which we all share certain things, then we are no longer living in human society. We are living in something definitely different.

The same police that protects you is the police that protects me. We have a 200-plus police force. If you are living on this Island, you cannot say that you are not responsible for it. If you have a business here, you cannot say your business is not being protected and, therefore, your business is not benefiting from all of that.

Someone who has a business here cannot say they have no responsibility towards the prison where we send people because otherwise they would become harmful to society. Even if all one is paying is for the business licence, they are still able to enjoy certain benefits. Although their business is not here, they are still deriving the collective benefits that we all receive in the Cayman Islands. We know as Caymanians that we do pay taxes. The cost of living is the result of taxation in a particular direction. Who would want to see the cost of living get any higher by continuing to flog the poor man, the little man, the working man? The rich and wealthy, God bless them, are not contributing to the level that some of us believe they should.

I believe, Madam Speaker, that the greatest asset this country has is its social order. I continue to insist that in order to balance it out and make it work; it must move from a spontaneous mechanical type of blessed social order to one that is planned and regulated by social thinking, by social analysis and by the application of funds to be able to solve the problem. To interdict, to intervene and to prevent, all cost money.

However, when somebody comes to this country and they see a person who has a mental problem on the road or they see somebody with no house sleeping in a public place, or they see people going around and robbing or doing things like that, that all affects the value of the social order which in turn affects businesses. Therefore, they cannot make the kind of profits that they should be able to make and cannot live in the same kind of peace that they should like to live in.

Raising revenue is one of the most important rights of any government. If a government cannot raise revenue, then it is impotent, powerless, and is supporting and advocating anarchy. The citizens of a country cannot take the Government seriously if it does not even have sufficient access to revenues in order to do what it should – which is to secure the lives and the property of the individual citizens.

Madam Speaker, raising revenue is an important thing in every other jurisdiction. Without the sovereign rights of governments to raise revenue occasionally for the upkeep of the country, the countries would collapse. Nobody would have any respect for them. So governments here might say, 'Yes, we do have social partners and yes we will consult them and yes we will try, as long as possible, to turn over backwards to please them so that they do not have to pay anything more this year than they paid last year.' However, what is the point of telling them that we need less simply because we are hiding our needs; because we are not honest about our problems or about social disorder in our society?

The problem of social disorder is the greatest problem which the Cayman Islands faces today. If a lot is not done to deal with these issues, there will not be very much left for many of us. The prison is a good example again. In terms of dealing with the security issue, we know the needs of the prison from an economic point of view, has not been dealt with sufficiently because there has not necessarily been a political Minister to represent the needs of the prison and show, as a whole, why imprisonment and incarceration are part of the social system and the social fabric of our society.

Madam Speaker, crime is natural, it happens in every modern society. It happened in each ancient society. It is something that does not necessarily have to make us weaker as a society. It can make us stronger as a society. Just like good and bad, the devil and God, Heaven and hell, it shows us the two levels of reality we have or the two points we have in the reality scale. We can go either way. When we go one way, we hit the fire and when we go the other way, we hit the glory.

Prison should not be a comfortable place but should be responsive to what persons need to rehabilitate themselves. However, there can be no true coercive methods in the prisons without the facilities to be able to carry out those coercions. We cannot control prisoners as long as they outnumber policemen and guards. We cannot expect to have an order in prison that we do not have on the outside. We cannot just tell people to do something and expect that they will do it.

All these things take money and for too long the Government has not had access to the types of money necessary to keep social development on par with economic growth. Nobody really paid attention to it. Nobody was interested in showing persons benefiting and who are not necessarily social thinkers or not acquainted with our culture as we are that we need the monies to put the facilities together to deal with all of these problems.

However, at the end of the day I am not talking about prisons only. What is the point of having a prison if you do not have a society with the mechanism to re-integrate the people back into the society that come from the prison? What happens when you do not have the willingness? What happens when you do not have the probationary system to be able to parole people, be able to monitor them, get them to understand that they have not just broken the Law but the trust and the relationship with other people? The probationary system can get them back to the point that they become creative and productive human beings again, who are willing to obey the social order because they understand it.

Those persons that are breaking the Law are doing so because they think they can benefit from it. Therefore, it is important that we establish a prison system that shows that although the time might be short, it is intense. It must show the society is not only interested in rehabilitating you but also in convincing you that should you continue not to want to mend your ways, the society will punish you. There is no point in us believing that hell is so terrible and that is where sinners are going to go but if you send a person to prison, that it should be nice. We are talking about human rights. We are talking about being human. Well, then, those of us who believe in hell, how human is that? If you are given a chance, that is where the humanity is. Humanity is in giving the possibility to redeem oneself, to be born again and to change.

Humanity is not placating people who continue to do the same thing over and over again. That is not humanity. Humanity is not in providing them with the facilities to continue to offend. That is not humanity. Humanity is giving them a chance. However, when they refuse to take advantage of that chance, the state can only spend so much money because we only have so much money.

We live in a society where we need to offer these types of things, these types of security, but how can the state do so without funds? Tomorrow, if there was a real riot at the prison, what would happen? We have to think about all these things. The state cannot just be a crisis manager. The state must become proactive and put the mechanisms in place to prevent anybody from being in breach continuously of the social order.

Therefore, we believe, on the one hand, we must do something about the prison. On the other hand, what is the point of us sitting down and watching a five-year-old child become a delinquent, knowing he or she will be going to prison without doing something to aid that child? We know that the best medicine is prevention. Our preventative measures, Madam Speaker, will cost a lot but we need to continue to invest in those things.

Anyway, Madam Speaker, I notice that you are saying that I can sit down now. Thank you.

The Speaker: Not quite, Honourable Minister, I was quite intrigued actually.

Nonetheless, we have reached the hour of interruption. Will there be a motion, Honourable Deputy Leader, to suspend Standing Order 10(2) for continuation or, if not, a motion to adjourn?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 am tomorrow, Friday, 14 December 2001.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister. The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 am tomorrow Friday, 14 December 2001. Those in favour please Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House do stand adjourned until tomorrow Friday, 14 December 2001.

AT 4.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM FRIDAY, 14 DECEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
FRIDAY
14 DECEMBER 2001
10.18 AM
Sixth Sitting

The Speaker: Can we have prayers by the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town?

PRAYERS

Mr. Anthony S. Eden: Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: we beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say The Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace, now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.20 am

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER OF MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have received apologies for the absence of the Honourable Minister responsible for Planning Communications, Works and Information Technology. I have also received apologies for the Honourable Third Official Member who will be arriving late this morning.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MINISTERS AND MEMBERS

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 132

No. 132: Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr. asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs what the succession plan was for the positions in the Lands and Survey Department, and if all members of staff in that Department had been advised of these plans, including what is required of them to advance with the plan.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: On 6 April 2000 an organisation chart and succession plan was circulated to all staff in the Lands and Survey Department. It identified both existing and proposed future posts, together with the minimum educational and experience requirements. Its purpose was to make it clear to all staff what was required before they could be considered for advancement. It was also possible for them see the minimum requirements of every post in the Department so that those wishing to do so could understand the requirements for succeeding to the top posts. At the same time the opportunity was taken to revise job titles so as to better describe the core functions of a number of posts.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would like to thank the First Official Member for that answer. I am just wondering if the Member could state whether there is some kind of understudy programme or succession planning in place that would allow qualified Caymanian members that are there to advance as the plan has been laid out.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Staff are encouraged to be proactive in identifying possible courses of academic study to further their careers. This is particularly so with those aspiring for the post with a professional qualification attached. At the present time, one is pursuing a degree via the internet and another is presently studying in the UK.

The Speaker: Any further supplementaries?
The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Some time during the last year, this Honourable House was told that a Caymanian would be identified shortly for the position of Director of Lands and Survey. I wonder if the First Official Member can tell us if that Caymanian has been identified.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I know last year the information was given that a Caymanian had been identified for the post of Chief Surveyor. I am not sure who gave information on the identification of a Caymanian for the post of Director of Lands and Survey but if that information is given, it is obviously not correct. However, the Caymanian who is identified for the Chief Surveyor's post has since been employed in that capacity.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?
The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In the answer that was given, it said that certain members were undergoing training to reach their professional qualifications. Can the Member state whether we have any Caymanians in the department who have the necessary professional qualifications for the advancement as per the specified succession plan but who have not been able to be moved into those positions as yet?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is my understanding that there is no one in the department that has the requisite qualifications that is, as it were, waiting in the wings for promotion, although there are members of staff who are slowly working their way up by obtaining the qualifications. Once a Caymanian can be found that will certainly happen. I hope the day will come when we find a Caymanian to succeed to the post of Director. For a long time the post of Chief Surveyor was held by a non-Caymanian and we have seen that changed. I think there is a definite move to see more Caymanians succeed in the top posts once they achieve the professional qualifications.

The Speaker: I will allow one more supplementary if there are any further supplementaries. If not, we will move on to the next question.

The Elected Member for East End.

QUESTION NO. 133

No. 133: Mr. V. Arden McLean asked the Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce what progress had been made on having the use of pressurised vessels and dive operations ceased on the Seven Mile Road Public Beach.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker. This matter has been debated for a number of years but no formal action has been taken to remove the dive operations from the public beach area. Honourable Members will recall I told this Honourable House in June of this year that no formal agreement exists between the Government and dive operators to permit this activity from the public beach. As I have said publicly before, it is a matter that my Ministry is addressing and which we intend to rectify in the near future.

Government realises that the service these dive operators provide is essential to our tourism industry, however, Government is not obliged to provide a venue from which to operate from, especially when this is to the detriment of the general public. Therefore, we must be satisfied that the dive operations have had a reasonable opportunity to establish themselves on alternative sites, before they are removed from the public beach. For the avoidance of doubt, I will say that it is my Ministry's intention to cause the dive operators who currently use the public beach to cease operations on that site.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

For the avoidance of doubt, I just want everybody to know that I have nothing against small businesses. I totally support them. However, my biggest concern with the operation on the West Bay beach, on any beach for that matter, is the filling of pressurised vessels in the vicinity of the general public, that is, the transportation of the main vessels which are then parked at the beach and from which the dive tanks are filled.

I know that is quite easy to stop. They just transport their tanks in as opposed to bringing the pressurised vessel in, so I wonder if the Minister could tell us what time that will cease.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I have said that the intention of my Ministry is to cease the dive operations currently existing on the public beach. With regard to transporting those tanks, we are still taking additional advice from the Fire Department on regulations. Regulations will be put in place.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If not, we will move on to the next question. The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

QUESTION NO. 134

No. 134: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin asked the Honourable Minister responsible for the Ministry of Education, Human Resources and Culture, what the current status is of the writing of another History of the Cayman Islands that was initiated by the previous Government.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Human Resources and Culture.

Hon. Roy Bodden: The manuscript of the new history prepared by Dr. Michael Craton is now being edited. The editing process should be completed in the next two months. The text will then be reviewed by the author and decisions made about the maps and photographs, et cetera, that will be used to illustrate the work. At the same time, a suitable publisher will be sought following the normal tendering procedures in Government.

The process of producing the new history is being overseen by a monitoring committee comprised of recognised persons from our community, most of whom are Caymanian, including trained historians, educators and representatives from the National Archive and the National Museum. The committee has sought to ensure that the new history will be readable and accurate so that the widest possible audience—Caymanians, residents and visitors can benefit from it.

Readers will find that the book breaks new ground on many subjects, including the settlement of all three Islands, slave society in Cayman; emancipation; the creation of the first schools and churches; how isolation, necessity and the local environment shaped the Caymanian character; and the political, economic and social changes of the last 100 years. Publication is anticipated for December 2002. The book will be approximately 450 pages long, with about 50 pages of historical photographs, maps and other illustrations.

The Speaker: Supplementaries?

If there are no supplementaries, we will move on to the next item.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

The Speaker: Under the provision of Standing Order 30, I have received no statements for today's Sitting.

Before we move on to the next item of business, I should wish to suspend for 15 minutes as the next speaker is the Honourable Minister for Community Services, Youth and Women's Affairs, and I have received word that he is having an audience with His Excellency the Governor.

I understand that it is his intention to still continue debating and I would beg Members' indulgence to offer this for the next 15 minutes. Do I need to put it to a question? Okay. We shall suspend for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 10.35 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 10.47 AM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL, 2001

DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS

(Continuation of debate thereon)

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services, Youth and Women's Affairs.

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I had the opportunity to listen to most of my debate last night on the radio. After listening to the debate I was of the opinion that what I was really attempting to do was give good reasons I thought essential for a government to be in the position to raise revenue for the general good of the nation, and why I believe that is a paramount sovereign right. I also outlined why I believed that governments of the past exercised this right very conservatively and I do believe that presently the United Democratic Party Government is doing this as well.

When we look at my Ministry—Community Services, Women Affairs, Youth and Sports which includes Prisons for instance—we see that the prison has cut its expenditure 5.4 percent from last year, which I regard as a more than tremendous accomplishment on the part of the Director of Prison and his staff. Nevertheless, prison is an area where we should be spending more money. The reason we are not is because there is a shortage in revenue.

Now, there are those who continue to stress the point that our prisons are not harsh enough and are not acting as deterrents. However, for our prison system to act as a deterrent against those who commit crime, we will need the security in the prison well taken care of. If someone decides one day that they have nothing to lose and they challenge someone who does have something to lose, such as a loving wife, children, grandparents and parents, then what is the person who has everything to lose to do in relation to that person who has nothing to lose?

We have to give the persons who work in the prison system support, the kind of equipment and physical conditions to allow them to be able to implement the deterrent type of prison system that our population so desires.

When the new Director of Prisons came here to take over all kinds of promises were made about what would be done. When all those possibilities were thought of . . . I do not know what we were thinking about at that time because we are far away from ever achieving all of the additions promised to be made to the prison. Even if we continue to tax to the max for the next three or four years, we would not have sufficient money to make the types of alterations in the physical structure and infrastructure of the prison to allow it to act as a deterrent against crime.

One of the most important concerns I have is with regard to importation of illegal drugs into the Cayman Islands, especially from Jamaica. That has been a concern for many of us. We have seen the way in which drug abuse has affected our population. We are now at the point of feeling sympathy for drug users seeing their problem as a social illness. To deal with it, we have built the rehabilitation residential facility called Caribbean Haven and spent a lot of money on that.

However, what are we doing to ensure that our prison acts as a deterrent against importing drugs into the Cayman Islands to make places like Caribbean Haven always necessary and to make the job of its staff and those of other rehabilitative institutions even more difficult? As there are supplies easily available to people, they will turn to them.

The idea that a reduction solution is needed for the demand of drugs is ridiculous. The demand will always be there as long as the supply is there because the suppliers will make sure that the demand is there. Somehow, we have to deal effectively and efficiently with the suppliers. That is why I thought that we should have had, by now, at least a separate wing at Northward Prison that would be able to deal with importers of illegal substances into our country. They would get a message then because they are not getting the message from long prison sentences, which are not intense, taxing or uncomfortable enough.

So, although the prison budget is being presented to us down 5.4 percent from last year, it is not a great accomplishment to come here and say that without telling you why it is down. Quite simply it is because we are not prepared or financed to do the task that the nation requires us to do, so that people can sleep peacefully at night and continue to prosper by having the necessary stability and social order.

How can we take the core function of the state to provide its citizens with security and push it to the back burner? Prisons are important because they exist in all societies. Just as hospitals are important for our physical health, prisons are important for the social health in our society. They ensure that our citizens remain compliant with the norms and values of society and uphold the Law, which is necessary for the social contract to function. Laws are important as instruments in continuing to protect, enhance and maintain the useful relationships among human beings.

We need to not only devise new strategies, but also to finance them to attack importers of illegal substances into the Cayman Islands. We need also to get the Police more active. We need to see the National Drug Council under my Ministry act as an essential instrument to co-ordinate with the different agencies concerned with preventing drugs from entering or being used in the Islands and rehabilitation of drug abusers. I believe that the National Drug Council can play an effective role in bringing the Police, the Customs and all the other agencies together to devise a strategy that will help to deter, interdict and avert the spread of this particular problem.

My great concern is that a lot of the canoes coming in from Jamaica are bringing ganja. We developed a culture here that somehow says it is all right to smoke ganja and that it is only crack cocaine that is affecting our people. However, we have to have a different position to this when we see nine-year-old kids developing behavioural problems simply because they have already become addicted to ganja smoking. The time that they should be playing football, basketball, baseball or some other kind of recreational activity, they are spending it chasing after trying to find the next smoke.

Madam Speaker, in our inquiry into social breakdown and violence among youth we have found that an astonishing number of persons committing offences have also been involved in using these prohibited substances. However, we learn how to use those substances simply as a result of thinking that they are all right. This is because people do not do things unless the values and the norms within their subculture, families, peer groups and community tell them that it is all right and introduce them to it.

We can see how individuals in our societies become victims, simply because it is so easy to create that demand. This is so when persons start at age nine and believe that when the police come into the neighbourhood to interdict and to prevent the sale of drugs, they are coming in there to do something bad to Caymanians.

I am appealing to young Caymanian men with young children, who smoke and believe that it is all right to smoke, to think about their children. Perhaps, they started smoking at age 15 or 16 after they were out of school, but what about the children who are smoking at nine and 10 years? Since they have a drug problem, they are unable to learn at school and as a result, my Ministry has to find money for a remand facility.

My Ministry has to find over $1.545 million to support Cayman Islands Marine Institute (CIMI) to carry on a contract with Associated Marine Institute (AMI) to provide a rehabilitative model which we had hoped would assist us in modifying the deviant behaviour of many of our young children. However, it will be demonstrated later on that a catalyst for the bad behaviour in a small minority of problem-causing young people is their involvement with drugs. For this reason Caribbean Haven has to become more active. They need a bigger budget because the problem really is a multifaceted one. All of these factors are inter-related; you cannot isolate them or treat one facet alone.

So, while we are trying to improve the prison, we also need a remand facility for young people, even if it is only nine children. The recommendation was for Orchid House to be built at Fairbanks at the old Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital [site] to remand a maximum of nine juveniles at a renovation cost of at least $415,000. The cost to run the programme would be a minimum of $600,000 per year. That would be $60,000 per year for each child. When you look at that kind of arithmetic, when you look at that kind of economics, you wonder where we are in this world. How can people tell us the country can survive on the revenue that it has been collecting, when it has to pay out a minimum of $600,000 per year just to lock up nine kids? That does not take into account that they probably will need additional counselling for substance abuse and other things. This is just a basic beginning to deal with a problem on a juvenile level.

We want and need to keep them in the school system because we have an obligation under the Education Law to make sure juveniles below a particular age get an education. Even when we lock them up, we have a legal responsibility to them. Where do we get the money for all the responsibilities we have as a civilised people? As soon as we tell people that we are going to increase punishment and are going to be more severe, they start reminding us about human rights and about the international standards of this and that.

However, how can my standard be higher than my means? I am stressing that we begin to bring our standards and our means a little closer together. We have to move each goalpost, not only the goalpost of standards, but the goalpost of means. Therefore, the new revenue measures are absolutely essential at the moment if we are going to begin to play catch-up. The new measures are needed not only in balancing the budget but in supplying those departments and sections with exactly what they need to give us the results we so badly desire.

Madam Speaker, I have had people tell me that housing is not important. However, I have argued that when you live in a small house in today's world, your measurement of size is different than it was in my days, from the time I was born. When I was a young boy and I would swim out to the little cay at Hog Sty Bay I used to think that I had gone to Cuba. That is how far that was. The house that I lived in was small, but to me it was not that small. When I came back later on in my life and looked at this little one room hut, it was very small. Everything is relative. Although we can say that Caymanians used to live like that 20 to 30 years ago, everything is relative. So, the Caymanian who was living in the same size house that I lived in as a child will not necessarily feel the same way about himself and his environment.

Somehow we have to be able to assist those persons who are working for wages but still cannot succeed in owning a house within the so-called free enterprise housing market. Government has to see housing as a part of its social control strategy. That is where we get to the point of the deserving poor when we are spending our budget on the non-deserving and the deserving simply because they are struggling and they have not drowned yet.

We find that we will spend $600,000 a year minimum on the nine children we would put at Orchid House. But what are we going to spend on the few hundred good children who want to play some football, basketball, tennis and swimming? What are we going to do to help to assist them? How are we going to balance this?

One of the ways my Ministry looked at this is by saying we need pro-social behaviour. We are willing to use some money as that carrot that will cause the enhancement of the status of those young people who are involved in pro-social behaviour. All we see happening is that the status of those kids is enhanced through their involvement in anti-social behaviour. They get 'big up.' There is so much attention to 'them poor little things.' However, we sometimes forget about those kids out there who are striving to show us that they want to be good.

For that particular reason, my Ministry has decided to stop the construction of Orchid House. Most importantly, we will save ourselves the $415,000 and the $600,000 for recurrent expenditure. We seek to live within our means by using what was the female prison at Northward Prison as a remand facility. It has some 20 cells and can hold 40 people. We plan to use at least eight of those cells to hold 16 juveniles. We will, of course, make sure that there is a wall and that there is a separation that is maintained physically and socially at all times.

Here we are trying to cut corners and live within our means. What assistance do we get from some of the private sector personnel who continue to say that we are acting like highway robbers and are so cruel? I would like, Madam Speaker, for every member of the Opposition who has alternatives as how to raise funds to get some of these things done to tell me exactly where we are suppose to get the revenue from.

This is not a government that is not trying to cut corners, that does not understand the holistic approach to all of the problems we have; how they are interrelated and how we must go against those problems all at once from all directions.

We also feel that Government's contract with AMI (Associated Marine Institute), where we pay them over $200,000 for a model, has to be cancelled. We will not be renewing that contract when it is up in December. That is to save the country money—money I believe should go to support national football players in this country. We will be recommending that the money which was to be paid to AMI for performing a contract should go to support a football academy.

The beginning of the concept of the academy is for the Sports Department and Youth Department to contract individual members of the football academy to be pro-social role models. We cannot continue to reward negative behaviour with positive reinforcements. We must understand that unless we can reward those kids who are out there trying to be good so that they can see the benefits at this particular point, if not rewarded, we will get into problems.

In my few weeks in Government, I have taken a holistic approach and, because I came in too late, I have not tried to get any more money for my Ministry. I can only compliment the past Minister for being able to reduce the budget by scrutinising as many of the issues as possible. I have not gone in there to say that I want to do this and that, therefore, my budget must be bigger. My budget is the same as it was when the past Minister was there. All I have tried to do is to see how I can cut corners here and there in order to make certain things happen.

The United Democratic Party Government believes that sports is important and has been somehow left to make its own way. We have to take up a position because we realise we have a lot of competing sports. However, it is my position as the Minister responsible for sports that football is our national sport. It should, at this particular time, be given the possibility to reach a new height, not just in terms of the proficiency of players, but also from the point of view of those players being our pro-social role models.

We know it is not as simple as it sounds or as we can put it on paper. However, it is worth a try. The Football Association (directly through our office) will be getting an additional $182,000, or so, for the football academy. I believe it is a small beginning but the United Democratic Party Government was anxious to show that they have a deep concern for sports. Although they have recognised that all sports are important, we believe football is the national sport and at this time with all the budget restraints, we will be willing to do this with football without, of course, increasing our budget in any way.

We need to seriously be together on the issue of revenue enhancement. We know that there might be some variations to this particular way of doing things. I have had people call me and ask why are you charging law firms with the kind of methodology that you have; why not just raise the permit fees so that it would stop some firms from growing? It would not be something that would be a disadvantage to the smaller firms and the two bigger firms are able to get through. Well, there are all kinds of variations and I am quite sure that this is still a discussion. We are presenting a view that does not necessarily have to be without possibilities for contributions from other persons that will cause us to see the same or see differently.

I am committed to whatever the majority is going to do. I believe that if we can find, according to some persons, a more just way of doing this, fine and good. However, there are a lot of people that jump out here with all kinds of solutions today but they did not have them yesterday. I ask people, did you not realise that the country had financial problems in 2000?

In November of 2000, there was a financial crisis in this country and I never heard anybody from the private sector or their messengers come to say to me, 'This is a way that you could do it.' A sum of $55 million was borrowed and we would have probably gone to borrow that or more again if we did not say we are not asking for anything more than for the private sector, that has the benefits, to now pay attention to all the social issues that Government must deal with in order to maintain the balance, harmony and in order to preserve the security of property and person.

I am very committed to working as many hours as I can to be a hands-on Minister because I do not believe that you should be anything else. That is, to roll up my sleeves and get out there and do what I have to do to make things work and to work for my salary. More importantly, it is not money that I am talking about.

I decided to make the choice of studying Sociology and writing a thesis on social control and racism in a British urban community, the community of Nottinghill, in London. I wanted to understand the way in which West Indian children were being socialised by the school, playground and youth club systems. It was also to understand how the housing systems were affecting the way in which Caribbean people—especially the young in those communities—viewed mainstream society and how that impacted upon their criminalisation, their ghettoization and their alienation from the mainstream.

When I completed my thesis in 1977, I did it because I felt that my country would need my expertise and I have never moved away from that position. I have never gone to try to study law or some other subject according to people's recommendation because I believe that, ultimately, I would have an opportunity to play my role. Money is not the question here. It is an opportunity to get in there and do what needs to be done. That is the reason that we have put these different subjects under the Ministry because we realise that from an inter-disciplinary approach, all these things are interrelated.

With regard to housing, we have an area called Scranton. A lot of nice people live in that area. From the days of Jim Bodden in 1980, when I ran for the first time in this country, I had housing on my manifesto. I would like to see that area redeveloped as an urban renewal project where those people are not pushed someplace else but are given the possibility to fill their land.

I would like them to have a land bank situation where they come together as a community as an extended family again and put their land in a bank and form themselves into a corps or whatever you want to call it and challenge Government to come in, help them to rebuild and make George Town look like it should. I would like to give those people an incentive, a stake in their George Town community, the possibility to have the room and the space to work with children that we would not have to pay $600,000 a year to incarcerate. How could I propose to incarcerate one child for $60,000 while their parents are not even making $15,000 a year?

I am blessed to have had this opportunity to come at a time when the Budget could be balanced. Although I must work within my means, at least if we are able to get through this year, perhaps next year we will have some surplus and we might be able to actively begin to confront some of the housing issues. Too many people have been promising housing but there can be no housing without finance. If they are not willing to look for finance, they are not really telling people the truth about housing. We need to get the proper rates so that people can afford to buy into our system.

Madam Speaker, I thank you so much for allowing me the possibility to ramble in my special way on this Budget. Although I had great regards for the previous Speaker, he never always understood that my interdisciplinary approach to issues causes me to see six from column A, six from column B, then six from column C and column D and perhaps a few more columns.

However, I think I started in 1969 as a student to study the interdisciplinary approach when it was not even popular in most universities. I am quite happy that something I started back then with my professors has become something that is very popular today. People now say we must have a holistic approach. They say we must have all the sciences, all the different disciplines involved and I thank God that I have been able to benefit from that type of education.

I sit down now with the hope that when my colleagues from the Opposition continue their contribution, they will surprise me by showing me exactly how we can do right what we have done wrong. I hope they will show me exactly where the treasures are hidden so we can get some of that special Caymanian gold to mend some of our people's souls.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The previous speaker, the Minister responsible for Community Services, said that he trusts those debating the Budget Address would surprise him and show the Government where the Cayman gold can be found so that we can get it and get on with helping our people. I have a couple for the new UDP, but I will get into that a little later on.

The Budget Address delivered by the Third Official Member was extremely lengthy, as usual. Therefore, it is necessary that I take a while to reply to the points raised. That is not to say that I will be lengthy but sometimes that happens.

From the word go, the Third Official Member articulated that when America sneezes, Europe catches a cold and the rest of the world comes down with pneumonia. However, when we go further on into the Budget Address we hear about how we are expecting good things to come, when we have tied in our economic situation with America to some extent (which is on the downward trend), but then we expect ours to come up. That, I would think, is wishful thinking.

In the last few days since the new revenue measures schedule was delivered I have heard so much from so many different people about our Budget. The comments have come from all quarters in the Cayman Islands. I have heard them from the little man on the street, from the financial industry; I have heard them from all over. Some of the comments include that the financial industry will fail as a result of these new measures to balance our budget.

In my reply to the Budget Address and Throne Speech for this year, I made it quite clear that no Government should come back here this year for 2002 and tax the small man again, or at least not to the extent that we did the last time with some $19 million. Some of that certainly was not on the little man. I believe we equated taxes which went on to milk, bread and other food products to the little man. I noticed that some of my colleagues requested my debate on that and certainly I think the reason it has not been mentioned is because they did not get the right part of my debate. My debate went on over two days and they did not get the second part of it; maybe they need to double check that. However, I can remember what I said. There is no need for me to get mine.

Madam Speaker, I said the financial industry needs to step up to the plate too and I continue to maintain that. The financial industry must step up to the plate to assist this country as much as we expect the little man to do. I understand the new UDP has taken that and maybe we have taken it a little too far.

I believe taxes on the little man must be staged and gradual. All my life I have said that government needs to have a medium and long term plan so that the country knows exactly what to expect next year and all the years thereafter. The plan will certainly lay out the major things to expect. Certainly, we do not expect any plan to remain the way it was originally crafted, but I believe that if we inform the people of this country in advance as to what is to come, then preparations can be made. I am not going to get up here and say that anyone is getting away with murder. I am not prepared to do that.

I believe that the financial industry is ready and is willing to step up to the plate but we also have to be reasonable in our approach. We should ensure that we understand it is not only the owners of these institutions who are being affected; it also affects the little man who works for those institutions. Madam Speaker, rightly or wrongly, we hear of Christmas parties being cancelled. As a matter of fact, I received a letter this morning, a petition to the Governor, which says that Christmas parties are cancelled, bonuses reduced, and pay raises for next year have been postponed. I cannot say that that is accurate because I am not a part of the institutions. But, certainly, we can appreciate that if an institution wants to stay in business, they have to plan. I guess the lack of planning means someone else suffers and it is not going to be the institution. Therefore, the trickle-down effect is that the employees and their extra benefits suffer.

I note in the Budget Address that the Third Official Member at point 6 says: “The streamlining of multiple grants, waivers and reimbursements now given by government. For example, announcements have already been made on the Grant to Seamen and Financial Assistance. Other areas that will be affected include waivers and reimbursements to the various not-for-profit associations for import duty, stamp duty on land transfers and mortgages, and various other government fees such as planning, garbage and the like.” These are some of the proposals by Government to streamline and receive new revenues.

Now, if the UDP wants a proposal on where to make money, sometime ago I was given, as a Member of this Honourable House, a list of individuals and businesses who receive concessions on duties. Some of those companies have been in existence for some 30 years and they too have made much money at the expense of this country. Some of those companies are the biggest companies in this country. If we had the list of the top 500 in this country related to Cayman, they would be in that too.

I appreciate that the not-for-profit associations will get waivers of import duties or stamp duties, et cetera. Now these not-for-profit associations obviously contribute back to the society by having such privileges. I would like to know what those companies receiving duty concessions contribute back to this country. Is it in lower costs of their product? I doubt that, Madam Speaker, I doubt that. I severely doubt that. I seriously doubt that. That is a way to raise funds. Certainly, a lot of those concessions came into being because these were new businesses, had never been in the country before and so under the pioneer licence they were given these concessions. However, 30 years later . . . and they still do not pay duties? Something is wrong with that.

I respect that we can continue to do that to start up the business to give the Caymanians an incentive. However, there comes a time when we have to shut it off. If we are looking revenue, let us look straight across the board and grab some revenue from those people also. I do not remember the exact number of companies but they were in the dozens. I trust that the UDP Government will look at those.

Nobody will claim that I have not tried to do my part. On 7 September 2001, I asked a question in this honourable House about sale of confiscated assets by the Drugs Task Force because I wanted to see if they were getting any money from these assets. That became quite controversial in this country. I believe, as a result of that, certain things transpired. I fear that my integrity then came into question, for questioning and doing the job the people of this country sent me here to do. Shortly thereafter, sometime in October, I received in the mail a document that has (in my opinion) some serious content. Madam Speaker, with your permission I would like to read that document and lay it on the Table, if you so choose.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I did not save the envelope so I do not know where it came from. It is from the Cayman Islands Drugs Task Force and it is to all DTF officers and staff from DCS Derek Haines, dated 11 October 2001, and its subject is Internal Audit. It says:

“Dear Colleagues, Thank you for all the loyal support over the years and, in particular, the last week—”

The Speaker: Honourable Member, may I enquire whether the document has “Confidential” or “Without prejudice” marked thereon?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, perhaps I can now table that.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. V Arden McLean: [continuing with reading] “As you are aware, the DTF is at present going through an internal audit. I welcome these, and have suggested an annual inspection. (Up until now, we have supplied the COMPOL – which is the Commissioner of Police – and the Auditor General with an annual spreadsheet of accounts.) This would allow for external elements to ensure that the best practice is being conducted. In the dynamic business we are in, good ideas can sometimes come from the outside and help us to keep improving. However, the continual attack upon the reputation of the DTF and certain of its members, by certain parties is most unsavoury and unjustified. The attacks came from those who are small-minded or jealous, or both, and from those who possibly have reason to fear our success for whatever reason.

“We are the most successful anti-drug unit in the Caribbean! Annually, we are in the top three drug seizers in the same region! Compare our size to that of others! We also have self-funded ourselves, by our efforts, to an average of $23,000 per year. We use assets valued at around $200,000 that again we have won from the opposition. Our international efforts have attracted some $500,000 worth of drug fighting equipment, not counting The Protector. A recent operation saved CAL a penalty in excess of $2,000,000 and may reduce an earlier imposed penalty. We have also shown that we are willing and able to weed out corruption within our own ranks at whatever rank.

“We receive accolades from many quarters both locally and overseas so we should not allow the persons mentioned above to adversely affect us. On the contrary, make it POSITIVE. We must be hurting someone for him or her to be cursing us rather than praising. Let’s keep up the attack and hurt them even more.

“Again, thank you for your support and trust, thank you for your professionalism and thank you for your continued efforts. Now get out and catch some more.

“Yours aye,
“Derek Haines”

In my efforts to try and do my job, I am a little bit concerned that this may very well . . . Madam Speaker, I now wish to lay this document on the Table of this Honourable House.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: As you can see, and as I have read, this can very well be questioning Members of this honourable House. I have questioned myself many times since receiving this document and wondered when anything would come to bear upon me. Since receiving this document I have had my fears just for trying to do the job that the people have put me here to do. The people of East End sent me here to do a job and in my trying to do that, this is the result.

However, Madam Speaker, there are other Members in this honourable House, including your good self, who questioned the proceeds of assets. Madam Speaker, you and all other honourable Members were merely doing the job that they were sent to do. I have fears for my own well being and that of my family. However, we shall move forward.

The Speaker: Before moving forward, honourable Member, do you have in your possession the original copy of the said documentation?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, I can give you the one that I received, which I believe is also a copy of the original document.

The Speaker: If we could just pause briefly, I should wish to peruse that said document.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you.

[Pause]

The Speaker: With your consent, I should like for the document you received to be turned over to the chamber of the Attorney General, and I would ask them to diligently follow this matter up.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker, that is entirely fine with me.

The Speaker: I am grateful. Please continue with your debate.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you Madam Speaker.

If anyone feels in this country that I have anything to hide because I am doing my job, let them investigate. That is fine by me but I think it is grossly unfair to any Member of this honourable House now, past or future when they question and go about the business of this country, to have such questions asked of them.

That is another way that the Government needs to look at, to ensure that all of those funds are made available for the social programmes that the Minister spoke of earlier because that should be the intent of the proceeds from confiscated and found assets. Nevertheless, we are doing an internal audit on it now. I am sure we will all find out where all the money went to and there will be more money in our coffers from here on in.

I will leave that one with the country and let them, my people, be the judge. Evidently I am doing something good too. It is not only the DTF that is doing a good job—all of us are doing a good job too. Therefore, if that is what it means to do a good job I will always be questioning in this honourable House. If anyone knows me, they know I will question.

The Government has also said that they are going to curtail all new services requiring additional budget expenditure. That was tried before. I trust that they have a much greater resolve now to control and to work with those in control of hiring.

I would like to briefly go back and look at the revenue measures again which are necessary for us to balance the budget. I think that I should and it is expected of me to comment on the realignment of garbage fees by calculating the fees based on bands of kilowatt hour usage. That is the proposal. It is expected that $3.7 million will come as a result of that. I am sure the UDP Government is going to find that will be a logistic nightmare.

I strongly believe that we need to collect the taxes and also the garbage taxes that are due to the country; that is no exception. However, when we tie garbage to electricity consumption, it makes no sense. Let us consider someone or a family in a 3,000-5,000 square foot house, running air-conditioning 24 hours a day, watering the lawn twice a day, have a pool, security lights et cetera. How can we expect that family to be generating more garbage than a family of six or seven in a relatively small home and the electricity bill is $100 or thereabouts and the previous one is some $800 to $900? That is impossible for those people to generate more garbage. We cannot tie garbage into electricity consumption.

I heard the Second Elected Member from West Bay talk about energy conservation and it will teach us to be more conservative and so on. No two buildings are identical and you cannot expect that you will get the same electricity usage cost to run those buildings. It is impossible. Construction details are different, the manner in which the construction was done is all different. We all have different habits. We do not and we cannot guarantee that a 1,500 square foot apartment right next to the other one—two adjacent 1,500 square foot apartments—are going to use the same amount of electricity. Impossible! You can put the same equipment in there, the same amount of people and you will not get the same bill. That has nothing to do with efficiency. It is the habits of the individuals.

When you have a person or a family in a house that is 3,000 square feet you can have one family not using electricity and the other one abusing the privilege of electricity because it is a privilege. We should not abuse it because it costs to abuse the privilege. However, we cannot tie garbage into electricity consumption.

Then it goes a little further. How are this country and this Government going to ask CUC to do that? I always thought that the relationship between a company and its clients and the information is confidential. Are we going to legislate a law which says that CUC must provide to the Government the information it has on every customer so it can collect its tax and at the same time, CUC will collect it? CUC is in the business of generating and selling electricity. That is what they should be doing. However, I do not have a problem with Government collecting garbage fees. I recognise that the need is there. Why is it that Government cannot put the mechanism in place to ensure that all garbage fees are collected annually?

Madam Speaker, Government should not have to use an independent agency or company in this country to collect what it is due. I wonder how all the new taxes will be collected for law firms, accounting firms and other companies. Are we asking one accounting firm to collect all of that too? What will happen the day that a man goes to CUC and pays his electricity bill and refuses to pay his garbage bill because there is some controversy? Are we going to send CUC out to cut off the electricity of a family with young children? I trust not. That long arm of the law is reserved for CUC.

I think on the front page of today's or yesterday's Caymanian Compass, Madam Speaker, it says: "CUC: no agreement to collect Government tax." However, we hear that CUC is supposed to be doing it. Do we think CUC is going to do that for free? That is a private company.

I understand that much of the garbage fee collection is never done. However, I understand that Government has just created recently, I believe, or at least over the last year and a half or thereabouts, a debt collection agency at Treasury. Why are we going to look for CUC? Why are we going to look for CUC to collect our monies when we have set up the debt collection agency in Treasury and as far as I can understand it is very effective? What is causing all this is that government over the years has not invested in developing proper databases across government. All of a sudden we need the money. Now, let us go look for somebody who has already invested in it and use them. Do we really think CUC did not pay for that database or what? Somebody thought they did not pay for it. Have we negotiated with these people how much they are going to charge us to do this?

What I am saying is that I wish the Government well. I know the logistics nightmare it is going to cause for CUC. I was there and if anybody in here can talk about energy efficiency or electricity it is me, because I was a director of Power Smart Inc., which has been an international energy efficiency company, for many years. I can assure the Government this is going to be a nightmare and I do not believe that they are going to realise that if CUC agrees to do it $3.7 million will have to be changed by the time it is in place; that is software et cetera. It will be easier to turn all this over to the debt collection agency in Treasury.

I agree that political Governments over the years have been penny wise and pound foolish. We have squandered the revenues of this country over many years on building our own castles in the skies and did not build up the infrastructure of government to support these things. Even today I do not believe the Government Computer Services would be geared for this. The Environmental Health does not have the data base. It should be provided from the Computer Services. I just wonder if Computer Services Department is mechanically capable of providing these things.

Similar to the neglect of prisons that the Minister talked about, the Computer Services Department has also been neglected over the years; that was not important. Roads, buildings and financial assistance are more important and have always been more important. Now, when we need the money to support the roads, the financial assistance and so on, we cannot find it. We have no information available to us to be able to go in and to decide, from an informed position, where we can increase tax.

The UDP is no different from the other Governments that preceded them. They are reacting to a situation. We have services that we need to provide. You heard the Minister for Community Services say so. They are reacting to a situation. Now we need to be reasonable with that reaction; that is all I am saying. We need to become more efficient also as a government. Saying we are going to curtail all the new services that require additional budgeted expenditure is not doing the job.

Then the other side of this coin we hear people talking about privatising garbage collection. It is going to cost the country twice as much. You think anyone is going into any business and not make money on it? Of course, they have to make money on it. If you invest, you have to make money. It is easier for the Government to do it. Government needs to look at the cost to this country to collect garbage because as we subsidise that, we need to find the money elsewhere. Find out what it costs and put a reasonable cost per household, per building or whatever the case may be.

We are forever taking one step forward, two steps backwards. This country did not start today like that. I know the UDP will probably get up and say that is their objective—moving forwards instead of backwards. Perhaps, I need to drop in here also that the party system has finally emerged in our country, something that I expected a long time ago. I am a party man and always have been. I believe in parties. As a matter of fact, I hold a membership of a party called Team Cayman. I am a card carrying member of that too.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, is it your intention to lay that on the floor as well?

[Laughter]

Mr. V. Arden McLean: No, Madam Speaker, I am not going to lay it on the floor of this honourable House. I just want to say that in any country for a party system to work you need a minimum of two parties. One has already been formed, which holds many of my former colleagues. In other words, they have crossed the floor.

I read recently in the Caymanian Compass editorial about the realignment of seats in the Legislature. Perhaps a lot of people do not understand that but I do. That is what parties are all about. I have said before that I recognise the Government is going to have its way. Unfortunately we did not get as fortunate as Trinidad recently, when it split right down the middle. Government is going to have its way, whether it is this one or another one.

However, I must tell this country that there will be at least two dominant parties—Cayman will not be run as a one-party state. As one UDP Member said to me, it is either that you are with me or you against me. It is one side or the other. That is how it works.

I notice that the Third Official Member in his address spoke much of the new UDP party. The new UDP party which is in control now is coming riding high, at least high in new taxes.

I can assure this country that from here on, there will be a choice that the people can make and certainly there will be independence and there will be other parties also, but we have to have at least two dominant parties. I just wanted to stick that one in there for the benefit of those in this country who felt that maybe there will not be two parties. It may also be noted that I have moved from my position of being out in the cold and it was not because I did not have a coat to put on. It was not because I have not experienced that in my relatively short life on this earth, but I needed to feel some warmth too. We all huddle under something.

If I may just turn back now to the Budget Address. The UDP Government is also proposing a—

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: On a point of order, Madam Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: Please state your point of order Honourable Member.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: The Member is misleading the House and the public. There is no such party as the UDP the party is called United Democratic Party.

The Speaker: I have listened to that and it is my ruling that it is a matter of semantics or scrivener's error and I would ask the Member to please continue.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I was just trying to decide whether I should reply to the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac, Madam Speaker, but I will not dignify him with such a reply. What I have forgotten about party politics, he has not learnt yet.

I was going on to talk about the cost of fuel. It appears that we in this country believe that the only way the little man will hurt is if we put increased duties on food—direct consumable goods. That is not necessarily true. The fact that we raise duties on fuel affects everybody; we are also affecting the little man who we speak so much of and try to protect. When we raise duty on fuel, the transportation costs increase. The same little man or little woman who has to travel from East End by bus because they do not have a vehicle is going to pay that 10 cent per gallon increase in increased costs to get on to that bus.

So, it all comes down to the same thing. I do not think it would be fair to the people of this country to just say we are charging the operators of the bus. The inherent cost of operating that business immediately goes up. Do we think that it is going to come out of the profits of that individual? Of course not; it comes from his customers. His customer is the little man who cannot afford a car, in most instances and rides the bus from East End or from West Bay.

Now, you may say that the man who can afford the car can afford an additional 10 percent per gallon. That is not necessarily so either. Then we say that Caribbean Utilities Company (CUC) is not subject to this increase. That is because CUC touches every living soul in this country and we may very well be trying to justify it on that basis. However, and I have said this before now, if we are serious about helping the little man, then we would reduce the cost of fuel to CUC by reducing the duties thereon. That is where we need to go.

There are cases where the cost of duty plus the cost of fuel make up 20 percent of the electricity bill. There are times when that is so when the fuel cost is high. However, for the benefit of the country, 50 cents on every gallon of fuel burnt by CUC goes back into government coffers and CUC burns anywhere between 20 and 24 million gallons of fuel per year. This is public knowledge; it is in their Annual Report.

It is my understanding that the cost of fuel to CUC right now is somewhere around $1.12 per gallon. The base cost to CUC, as agreed with Government many years ago, is 0.79 cents per gallon. The base cost is what it costs to generate electricity per gallon, per kilowatt hour. That is just about 80 cents. If the cost is just about $1.12 and then if we take 50 cents off that, we have already gone into the base cost to generate electricity. The provision is if the cost of fuel goes above 79 cents per gallon CUC can recoup it in the fuel factor. If it goes below, they have to return that to the consumer. Therefore, it will be a rebate on each bill. However, because the cost of duties of 50 cents is added on there, if you take the 50 cents away from the $1.12, we have gone into the base cost that the people of this country should be getting in rebate right now. If we are serious in trying to assist our little small man then that is where we have to begin. Instead of talking about exempting them from this additional increase, which certainly helps, we need to go further and take it off.

When the Government is receiving some $10 million to $12 million a year from taxes collected or paid by CUC for all that fuel burnt, receiving 50 cents per gallon plus the rebate, part of that would be the rebate that the consumer should be getting now. It is not this Government's fault; they inherited it. This thing went on a long time ago; every government talked about taking it off. I remember the National Team—when it came into being it spoke of taking something off diesel fuel to help the poor man. It has not been done as of date. However, when Government is receiving some $10 million to $12 million per year in duties from one customer, it is difficult for any government to take that stand because then it is going to be worse for them. They really will not be able to budget. Nevertheless, that is how we make our money.

We talk about getting our reserves up to 90 days of recurrent expenditure. I do not profess to be an accountant, but my understanding of that is that it is somewhere in the region of $60 million. That is how I calculated it. It is time we stop talking about that now in this country too. It is really time for us to stop talking about it. As far back as I can remember, that has been talked about and every government blames the previous government for not putting anything there.

I trust we understand as recurrent expenditure increases, so does the amount for 90 days. If we had started this many, many years ago and left it alone and balanced the Budget elsewhere, we would not be talking about it now and about the hard times. The UDP has now come on the scene talking about their resolve. That is all well and good. That is new; no dust has gone on that resolve as yet. How are we going to do it? We have the formula but we do not have the resolve to put it in and leave it alone. That is the same thing like social security. We put it in and we use it to build roads—anywhere in the world that happens.

We need to decide what we want. We keep talking about this 90-day recurrent expenditure. The Government of 2000 took monies from the reserve that was there. Now, the UDP took almost twice as much—one and a half times as much. The next Government is going to take until it is nought. I am fearful that we spend and we spend to our own demise.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, is this a convenient time for us to take the luncheon break? I shall now suspend until 2.15 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.42 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.24 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed.

The Member for East End continuing his debate.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you Madam Speaker.

As I move on, I would like to briefly touch on a section of the Budget Address which made reference to the recent tax agreement. It is unfortunate that as a representative in this country I had to learn of this agreement through the media. To get the agreement, I had to go on to the internet. Now, I know the Third Official Member called it a milestone in the development of our vital financial sector. If it was such milestone, I wonder why Government could not have informed all Members of this honourable House what was happening in the country. I was very concerned and I mentioned that situation to the head of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, Mr. Alan Huckle, and his response was that in the interest of transparency, the Members of this Backbench should have been informed.

The fact that the Government is nine strong does not mean that the rest of us are not representatives also. The Caymanian Compass spoke of the divide that seems to be created in here. I understand that divide and I also understand the new Government is trying to portray the party system. There is nothing wrong with that. However, there are five other Members of this honourable House. They should not be left uninformed because those five Members do not think or have similar ways of doing things or are not a part of the Government. The Backbench Members are ready, willing and able to do the work of this country.

In the last Government we saw the formation of the team—the Dream Team, the FATF and OECD Initiative Team, the Negotiation Team—made up of Members across the aisle. While this is a House of politics, we must remember that we were all sent here to do a job and particularly, in the better interests of this country. On the issues relating to the overall interests of this country, both sides should be informed.

In the last Government, as I said, a Member of the Backbench was a part of that negotiating team, and rightly so. The Member is now the Minister responsible for Information Technology. I believe as a result of his contribution to such international initiatives and negotiation, he was even awarded the OBE (Officer of the Order of the British Empire). He worked in the interests of our country. That is what it is all about and I congratulate him.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, can you please state that is your opinion?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I thought I said that, but I will since I did not—it is my opinion that was part and parcel of the reason why he was awarded for his contribution to this country. It showed the respect that the Government had for the current Minister's ability to go and discuss these things and negotiate in the interests of this country. I believe that as Opposition, Backbench or whatever we are labelled, there is much capability on this side also and it should be used in the interests of this country. We must not allow the editorial of the Caymanian

Compass of Monday, 10 December 2001, to become reality.

When a Member of this honourable House finds out about an issue relating to this country, an issue that can be considered a milestone in the development of our financial sector through no other means than the media then something is terribly wrong. That is wrong!

One may say what they may about the former Leader of Government Business, but no one can say that he did not inform the full House on issues relating to the international market, the international scene and how they related to the Cayman Islands. There were many issues relating to the Cayman Islands and the previous Government brought all Members of this honourable House together and informed them on these. I am sure all Members here can attest to that.

The new UDP has declared that they are a party of inclusion. They did not start off very well with that because I did not know anything about this new tax agreement, and I am sure other Members on this side did not know anything about it either.

[Inaudible comment]

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, the Leader of Government Business is saying I had better get my information right. Well, I was told that other Members were unaware of it; therefore, that is the basis under which I am saying that.

When I look at the agreement—well what is called an agreement—I do not see any benefits derived by the Cayman Islands' people. I see the country on a whole giving information to the United States Government. However, there are no provisions when, for example, we have duty evasion we can demand invoices and records from any company in America. I thought we should have at the very least received that much from it. Again I am disappointed that at the very least we should have received the agreement—

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order.

POINT OF ELUCIDATION

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of elucidation, I wonder if the Member would accept that.

The Speaker: Honourable Member for East End, will you give way to the Leader of Government Business?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: No, Madam Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Well, Madam Speaker, since the Member will not give way on the point of elucidation, I would like to raise the point that the Member is misleading the House and I would ask to state the reason for saying that.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Tourism, I was just about to ask if you could expound upon the reason.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Elected Member for East End just raised the matter of an agreement that was signed between the United States and the Cayman Islands by the United Kingdom, the Cayman Islands and the United States. He was complaining that nobody on that side knew about this agreement. I intervened to say (but not on the microphone) "I think you are being misled or you should try to find information," and he repeated it. That is what he was told.

Madam Speaker, the Leader of Government Business at the time, who was part of the negotiating team, and the Second Elected Member for George Town, who was part of the negotiating team, spent at least one day with the lawyers in Washington on that agreement. When the agreement came, it was completed so they had to know. The Member said, "The five Members on this side". He did not only say 'Members.' When I intervened he said, "At least that is what I was told." So, do not tell me that he was not saying that he was not told, because he said: "That is what I was told."

The Speaker: That is a point of order. I would ask the honourable Member from East End to withdraw that aspect, and if you wish to proceed and say that you were not told as a matter of fact, then you can proceed in that way.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, I shall bow to your ruling. But I would like to make it abundantly clear that I did not say "all Members" because I was very careful to say, "There are Members on this side of the House who were unaware of it."

The Speaker: Let us move on, honourable Members.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: What is the point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I cannot allow the Member to continue to confuse and allow the whole situation to be muddled, and I really ask that this point be brought out. It is my understanding the Member said: "five Members on this side." Nevertheless, if that is not what he said, when I corrected him he said, "At least, that is what I am told." Who would he be referring to if he was told that? Furthermore, Madam Speaker, the Attorney General and the Financial Secretary of this country took all Members into the Committee Room and informed us of that agreement.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Let me just deal with this one on the floor. I did ask the honourable Member from East End to withdraw that statement referring to all of the Members. I would like that to happen at this time. We will move on to the next point of order.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, I said that I would bow to your ruling.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: I thank you.

Can I hear your point of order Honourable Member?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, the Leader of Government Business has just said that the Honourable Attorney General had all Members in this Honourable House in the Common Room to explain the tax agreement. That is not the fact, Madam Speaker, and he is misleading this House and this country because I was not invited to any such meeting.

The Speaker: I think the point has been made. Let us move on from this and continue with your debate honourable Member.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: What is the point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Let me say, my understanding is that all Members were in attendance. As I recall all Members were in attendance, but if all Members were not in attendance at that meeting, then I withdraw it. Nevertheless, the previous Leader of Government Business and the Second Elected Member for George Town were two members on that negotiating team who met with the people who put the agreement together. In fact, I would think that as members of the negotiating team they assisted with the drawing up of that agreement. So if he did not know, when they usually refer to the five of them, they ought to understand.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Let me hear your point of order, the Second Elected Member for George Town.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, the Honourable Minister is again misleading this House. The Honourable Minister knows full well that the then Leader of Government Business, the First Elected Member for George Town, and I left the meeting with the representatives from the United States to come to the fateful meeting that Friday afternoon which resulted ultimately in the ouster of the First Elected Member for George Town and the Member for North Side from Executive Council. He knows full well that no agreement was put together on that occasion and he is deliberately misleading this House. I certainly have seen or heard nothing, except what I have read in the press about this matter since that Friday afternoon.

The Speaker: The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I think this is very important to get clear, because I do not want to mislead the House. I do know from what I understand . . .

[Brief pause]

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, my understanding is that they were there the whole day during the discussions that led to the drawing up of those agreements. So they had their input into the substance of the agreement and that is what I want to get clear to this honourable House.

The Speaker: Honourable Members, I feel fairly confident that this matter has been sufficiently aired. There has obviously been a breakdown in communication, and I am not going to police as to who received it from who did not. I would ask the Elected Member for East End to continue his debate seeing now that there is cognisance and, if he wishes, he can refer to the agreement in concurrence with the Budget Address that is now before us.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, thank you and I would ask if I could request that the Hansard be provided so that I can have my own clarification on this matter.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, the procedure is fairly straightforward. Any Member may make a request to the Clerk's office for an unedited copy of the Hansard. I have made my ruling and that option is still available to all honourable Members.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Again, I say that I, Vincent Arden McLean, Elected Member for East End, had no knowledge of any tax agreement.

I wonder what the objectives of the UDP are. I do not know what they are afraid of. Are they afraid that the country will know that they are not all inclusive? I sat here and I listened to at least two Members from the UDP debate, or should I say the United Democratic Party, debate the Budget.

Madam Speaker, I would like to draw to your attention that there is no quorum.

LACK OF QUORUM

The Speaker: I have directed that Members' attention be drawn to the fact that a quorum is necessary and we will wait a few moments for an additional person to come in to make up the quorum.

Please continue. A quorum is now present.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

This is another way of showing that the UDP is not all inclusive. I sat here and listened as the UDP Members expounded on this Budget Address and I said nothing because I believe everybody has his say. However, I guess when you are in the minority you are not supposed to have any say. Well, as long as I am here I guess there will be interruptions because I am going to say what I have to say—UDP, IMP, United Democratic Party, PNP, JLP—it makes no difference to me, Madam Speaker! If they so wish that I call it the United Democratic Party, that is how I shall refer to it.

I now move on to the domestic economy. I note that the growth of the Cayman Islands economy slowed considerably in 2001 and the Third Official Member said that a rate of around 1.5 percent is expected at year end compared to the earlier projection of 3 percent. The main factor influencing this down trend is slower growth of the United States' economy. Now this was delivered on 5 December. Since then, the United States Government has again slashed the interest rates to try to stimulate the economy. I saw, yesterday I believe, the United States President's brother, the Governor in Florida, doing another tax cut for Florida to try and stimulate the economy.

It is obvious that the Third Official Member is very cognisant of the need to stimulate the economy because further on he mentions that it is expected that the reduction in construction fees and development fees that was put in place earlier this year, will expectedly show results some time in mid 2002. Now, it is believed that when you reduce certain taxes, it is expected that you will get an increase in activity. However, I trust we know that if you increase taxes, it can also result in reduction of activities. Thus, what guarantee are we going to have when we hear that it is a balanced Budget? It is fine bringing a balanced budget to this honourable House but that is on paper and those are all projected.

There is much rumour out there that we will see mergers as a result of these increases in taxes. It is my understanding also that a number of the banks have multiple licences and they do not need all of those to be able to operate. So, we will see them cancelling some of these licences. I trust that that will not be the case, but it is a high possibility. Then if we see mergers in the financial sector . . . Madam Speaker, I think the Minister for Community Services is trying to catch my attention.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister.

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: Madam Speaker, I am certainly not trying to catch that Member's attention. That Member knows very well that I do not need his attention at this particular time—he needs mine!

The Speaker: Honourable Elected Member for East End, please continue your debate.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. If he was not trying to catch my attention, he was trying to distract me.

You know, we complain in here all the time about other Members talking across the floor. Madam Speaker, I would bring to your attention the deliberate attempt by the Minister trying to talk across the floor.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, before you proceed I should draw your attention to Standing Order 39. If at any time you are aware that that is transpiring you have the absolute right to bring to my attention a point of order.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. That is exactly what I will do.

I was saying because of the fact that we increased taxes does not necessarily mean that we are going to realise them. It appears that may very well be the case with this revenue measure. I see a proposal for annual licence fees for company management firms. We have firms in this country ranging from having a few companies to having hundreds of companies registered with them. However, the firm that manages 26 companies is going to be paying the same as that which is paid by any firm that manages thousands of companies. If we are going to do this, I believe it should be staggered in bands of hundreds as opposed to bands of tens or fives. It certainly is not separating the big boys from the small boys when the difference between it is $7,500 and $1,500; that is no difference. I also see where the accounting firms with six to 10 accountants . . .

POINT OF ELUCIDATION

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Madam Speaker, on a point of elucidation, under Standing Order 34(b).

The Speaker: Honourable Member, will you give way to the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Please continue.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Accountants six to 10 is $15,000. Then we jump to law firms: six to 10 lawyers: $50 thousand. I do not know the distinction for such a difference in these, and I certainly have (without any intention of defending anybody) friends on both sides of those professions. I just wonder why that is. I am sure the Third Official Member in his reply will give us that.

Regarding, work permit fees: if we are giving a thousand residents residency with work permit exemptions as proposed recently, I trust the Government understands the outcome is that we are going to receive much less money from work permits. I see that as a simple calculation. If you exempt the work permits, then your projections for revenue off work permits will not be realised. I wonder where that will be made up. I did not say that I was against it. I just need to know so that I can be better informed as to where the next tax item will come from.

I also see where the bill of lading and courier airway bills will increase. Certainly it can be argued that comes from the companies and maybe it is justified. I wonder how many jet skis are licensed in this country now. I notice the revenue expected in 2002 is zero because there has been no incremental increase. Maybe an area we need to ensure is that all jet skis in the country are licensed.

It is my understanding that a number of the banks in this country can operate under a B class licence but they have an A class just to have it and they will be turning them in. That is going to be bad for us. I hope that something can be done to assist the country and the Government in getting their fees. I wonder why the Government did not, as I said before, stagger these fees over the next two or so years. However, since it is done in this manner and there is so much opposition to it, maybe the Government can consider staggering the payments of these fees over the next year because banks, law firms, accounting firms and management firms were not aware of it.

Perhaps, it would be a good idea for Government to give them the opportunity to pay in instalments because we certainly do not need the money at the end of January. We, however, have the remainder of the year and we certainly will be needing money during that time. I am talking about the increased fees on these services.

I notice that construction has slowed down. Yes, it has always been considered the measuring stick in this country and yes, I believe there are firms in the construction industry that are trying to help. However, there are rumours of many more companies who are doing nothing to help. Maybe Government can assist the country by having discussions with these companies to reduce staff on work permits and keep the Caymanians on board. However, it is my understanding that the work permit requests have not slowed down either.

When earlier this year, this honourable House approved the reduction in development fees, it was said that the real estate agents were also making a proposed reduction in their fees. I notice that the Third Official Member has mentioned that in his address. It would be interesting to see by how much. It would really be interesting to see how much that has been reduced by.

When we move on to the Tourism Industry, I noticed that the Third Official Member has said that a million dollar television advertising campaign in eight cities in the United States and Canada focusing on cities with direct non-stop air services to the Cayman Islands is in the making. While I support us advertising what we have, I believe it is necessary to ensure that the attractions in the country are much more attractive than they are. We constantly spend this money to attract tourists to our shores but very little is being done to enhance the attractions that we have here.

I think of sites such as the Blow Holes and the Wreck of the Ten Sails Park in East End, which have much to offer to tourists. I recently acquired a propeller and a lead keel—a propeller from a ship that went ashore in 1962 or 1963 in East End and a lead keel from a yacht that went ashore around the same time which are now prominently displayed at the Wreck of the Ten Sails Park. It has caused quite a stir amongst tourists. However, that was not Government doing that. That was based on my own initiative to try to attract more people to the district of East End. We also have businesses there. With or without the help of Government, the Wreck of the Ten Sails is going to be a very attractive attraction in this country.

I believe what Government has to do on the local scene is to identify people within the districts who understand these historical sites and work along with the Museum or the National Archives and they develop them. Although, I do think the National Museum would be a better bet. Government should earmark monies for these sites. For instance, there is a district council in East End which can deal with this. I know there is a council in Cayman Brac as well which should be able to deal with this.

Give them the monies and let them get out there and volunteer some of their time and use the monies to develop the attractions in the individual districts. It needs to happen! How many times have we not heard tourists come to this country, and residents, say, “There is nothing for the tourist to see or very little.” It is not only the Seven Mile Beach we have to offer. We have much to offer on the eastern side of this Island also. These are the things we need to promote. Instead of spending all of the money overseas, we need to spend a little of it here to get the visitor to come back the second time.

The other thing which I have always supported is a Town Manager with a full complement of staff for George Town. Madam Speaker, for the last year, the town clock has not worked. Is that not a symbol of this country? The landscaping around the Court House is a disgrace. We need a Town Manager who has responsibility to ensuring the town is kept presentable. The tourists walk through here and there is very little for them to enjoy. However, we want them here—well, we need them here, but more importantly we need them to come back the second time. Why would they come back when all that they see is a few trees planted around the Court House? We need to have some manicured gardens in the middle of George Town,

We need a Town Manager to oversee it with a full complement of staff; we need the town clock painted; we need the Government buildings painted and we need a Town Manager to co-ordinate with other proprietors in George Town to beautify the sidewalks. If we are trying to create and ask people to come here and promote ourselves out as the premier tourist destination, we need to do something about George Town. We really need to do something about the capital of our country.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, is this a convenient time for the afternoon break? I shall suspend for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.23 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.47 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated, proceedings are resumed.

The Elected Member for East End continuing his debate.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would like to move on to another area of new revenue measures and that is the Health Services fees. On 5 December when this Budget Address was delivered, I wrote one word next to the $9,485,434 that is expected from the new fees. That word as I look at it is ‘ambitious’. Outstanding at the Health Services is some $40 million and we expect to get $9.5 million more. That has to be ambitious because much work has to be done to collect what is now outstanding as it is and if we could, we certainly would not need the $54 million that we currently are looking for.

I know there is a substantial portion of the money outstanding that is not recoverable because again the lack of proper systems in place and the lack of a good data base have prevented us from collecting the fees owed to the Health Services. It appears like nothing is being done to try and correct it. Again we have the Debt Collection unit at Treasury and I believe the Government has now set up a Debt Collection Unit at the Health Services. How successful that will be is yet to be determined. At the same time, I understand the fees for services provided do not match the cost of providing those services.

Madam Speaker, to say the very least—I must be a magician because I just got the Health Services fees and Charges Regulation 2001. Certainly, the new Minister in whose ability I have every confidence has a real big task ahead. I am sure the Second Elected Member for West Bay will agree with that, because of our association on the Public Accounts Committee and our knowledge of the Health Services problems.

I really trust and hope that this $9 million can be realised because when I look at the insurance licence, the new increase for that is $1.3 million and some of the outstanding amount at the Health Services comes from insurances not paying up. I hope that because the Second Elected Member for West Bay has some experience in what has transpired, he will ensure that the UDP make sure a lot of these monies are collected now. Ambitious is the word for that.

On the parking fee it escapes me how we are going to charge the proposed $2.50 per hour for a parking spot in George Town when we can sell that same parking spot to quite a number of people. Certainly, if someone buys a parking spot, we can only sell that for one day and we should only be selling it to one person. I do not know how many parking spots there are along Albert Panton Street and Shedden Road, et cetera, that government can charge, and how many there are behind the George Town Library. However, I understand tickets are going to be issued to the individual who purchases this parking spot.

Now, Madam Speaker, I see a little bit of road rage as a result of that or maybe we should call it parking rage! If you are not allowed to park on the side of the road, if you have not bought the parking space, you then have to drive around until you can find one in somebody's private parking. You should not be allowed to park in the private parking unless you are using the building. Are we absolutely sure that the number of government parking places in town will be subscribed to? If they are, what are we going to do with the remainder of the cars?

If I go and pay $2.50 per hour, I want a designated parking on the street in George Town. No one should be able to slip into that when I leave because when I go around the block and come back, I expect to find one spot someplace, if not that one. If that has been sold to someone else, then we will eventually have a problem.

The Minister for Community Services wanted to know where we can get revenue. Well here is one way: I believe that the land up around the cricket field in George Town is all owned by government. I understand that it is in the flight path but, certainly, the planes fly over cars driving along there. I have always contended that government could turn that into 2,000 or 3,000 parking spaces, purchase half a dozen buses that move every five minutes to and from town to transport the people to central George Town. I believe it is called satellite parking and we would have resolved the problem of parking in downtown George Town.

Prohibit parking on the street in George Town; you drive through to the satellite parking and you pay $1 a day or $5 a day or whatever the case may be to park. That is a lot of money because I am sure we can accommodate at least 2,000 cars on that piece of property. Let us say it is 2,000 cars and we charge $5 a day, that is $10,000 a day and for five days a week, that is $50,000 a week. Now six buses and perhaps 10 persons to manage that operation, six to drive and the other four to manage the parking lot, cannot cost us much. That is big profit for Government. They wanted proposals and I am putting them forward. It would be much more than $1 million per year.

I have always believed, like I said earlier about the Town Manager, we need to spruce up the middle of George Town and make it more attractive. That is one way that we could resolve some of the congestion in the middle of George Town. I am sure people would prefer to go up there, as opposed to driving into George Town and getting into traffic jams, particularly in the evenings. Besides, how many places have we not visited in the world where airport parking is right in the flight path of the airplanes? It is six of one and half a dozen of the other. Whether you are parked or driving by at 5 o'clock in the evening, when a plane is coming in it makes no difference.

If we are talking about risks, then we risk the chance with them driving. It is not going to cost the Government that much, I believe, to prepare that piece of property. A lot of it is already prepared. I think the now Minister for Communications (when he was a former Minister) prepared part of it for the taxi and bus dispatch in that area and it is simple. Reconfigure it, fill in and prepare the rest of the property and use it as parking. This way you prevent parking in the middle of George Town which will certainly be more aesthetically pleasing.

Regarding time shares, I note that the time share tax is $10 per room per day in respect of each occupied room. When this particular proposal (I think it was a little different) came to this honourable House earlier this year, I think the proposal was $10 per person per day. I opposed it then on the grounds that if there were no provisions put in place to ensure that the money was collected it was futile to propose it. Until Government could assure me that they had put the mechanism in place to be able to collect this money, I could not support it. I trust that Government can now produce the vehicle to collect it. It is futile to just put a proposal out there based on the numbers that present themselves statistically and expect it to happen.

We have had too many situations where these establishments do not pay government. We need to ensure that the mechanism is in place to ensure that government collects it. We hear so many of the condos doing it through people sending their friends down or saying they are friends when they really are not. They are renting to them from overseas. Government needs to be extremely cautious and cognisant of the ways and means in which these people will try to circumvent the system. I know the Second and Fourth Elected Members for West Bay, the Second Elected Member for George Town, the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town and I have all discussed this at one time or the other and about ways to ensure that we can collect from these people.

I do not intend pushing too much further. I am sure we will get the opportunity in Finance Committee to deal with the Budget. I think it was the Second Elected Member for West Bay who spoke about the economist that Her Majesty's Government has sent to watch over our financial affairs. I know Her Majesty's Government mentioned that in the White Paper. I did not expect it so soon, but I really did not expect it at all.

The rule of thumb, as they say, is the service of your debt should be no more than 10 percent of your recurrent expenditure. It is my understanding that Cayman's will be 8.6 percent, well within the 10 percent. If this country uses the same rule of thumb as Her Majesty's Government, I question why a financial advisor is coming to our country at this time because we have not reached the 10 percent. Is it really to protect Her Majesty's Government? Or is it that Her Majesty's Government has fears of things to come? Is it really about the contingent liability as it exists? I think this country needs to know that.

If I was aware that there was an economist on this Island advising this country on its financial affairs, when I met with the head of the FCO (Foreign Commonwealth Office), I would have made it a point to ask him why they sent him or her here and what the intent was. However, exclusion from that prevented me from knowing and thus prevented me from being able to ask him about it. I would love the opportunity to ask the head of the FCO, or ask Her Majesty's representative in this country—and I will. Perhaps, it is better to go to the head as the head controls the tail.

[Laughter and talking]

Mr. V. Arden McLean: I think the country needs a better explanation and I think that explanation needs to come down from Her Majesty's Representative to the country. For 150 years we have been managing our own financial affairs and, all of a sudden, we need an advisor?

It looks like the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay is saying because we borrowed $55 million last year, he thinks that is the reason. Well, I hope the economist is advising the UDP Government on taxing for $55 million.

The Speaker: Honourable Members, please do not engage in cross talk.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I voted for the last Budget and I said do not come back here with anything that is going to hurt the poor man. I appealed to this country then for patience and assistance but I also heard the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay voting for it too. Now we are saying that because we borrowed that money, Her Majesty's Government has sent an advisor. Madam Speaker, with your permission may read from the Hansard, a part of the Fourth Elected Member's contribution, which was done on 9 April 2001?

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: It says, "When we look at the present Budget, I would have preferred to see a budget presented which had no borrowings and no new revenue measures but because of what has gone on in the past, it was not possible. The Government could have done what the previous Government did for the past four years, in my opinion, budget or fudget the revenue to make it equal to what they needed for expenditure. At the end of the year they could have said that they did not overspend but the revenue under-performed. No, Mr. Speaker, I am happy to see that even though the picture is not a pretty one Government has presented a true picture of our financial position." [2001 Official Hansard Report, page 403]

That is so true!

We supported it then. There are Members in this honourable House who did not and I respected that. There were Members who did not support the revenue measures and I respected that. So, any Member who cannot support it now should not be brought down.

Since 8 November 2001 much has transpired. Tensions are high and it will take a while for those to subside. It is unfortunate that these things happen but we have to move on in our lives. We can quote each other as much as we want. However, I stand here on this side of this honourable House and I have never tried to discredit or malign anybody or question anybody's integrity. Integrity is very sacred to me. With all due respect to all Members in this honourable House and to your good self, I will not do that. I will not go in that arena. However, I warn everybody else, do not go there with me either because I shall reply. I have seen it and I can see we are leading to it. It is not going to be a good thing in this country.

Out of respect, we must all try to contain ourselves, maintain respect for each other. Whether you are with me or you are against me, respect is due. This is the House of politics and we expect that we will have opposition. Certainly, I will have opposition to what I say because it is my opinion, it is my position but then others will get the same thing from me and from others.

It is with much regret that I see this thing materialising and it is not going to serve this country any good. We watched for eight years prior to 2000 when this country went into this political bickering and what else it got into. At the end of the day, all those same players are still here living amongst one another. We all have our families and we all expect respect. However, as I said before, I will have my say. I certainly cannot claim to have my way because I have never had that. However, I am respectfully asking all Members of this honourable House to show respect to one another and avoid encroaching on people's integrity. Some things are a little more sacred to others than they are to some. Untruth is one such thing. That one will bring out some response.

Madam Speaker, I thank you and I congratulate you on the manner in which you have conducted your House. I look forward to much more debates in your House and while I am a rookie out here and it may be said that you are a rookie there, you are a quick-learning rookie. Remember my little saying: 'I am slow to learn but long to forget.' However, you have turned that around on me now, Madam Speaker. You are quick to learn and long to forget that which you have learnt.

Madam Speaker, thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to speak?

We still have approximately nine minutes if we intend to adjourn at 4.30 this afternoon. Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak?

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health Services, District Administration and Agriculture.

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, if you do not mind, I think Members would just waive the nine minutes left before the time of interruption and we could adjourn a bit early. I would move the Motion if you so wished.

The Speaker: If it is the wish of the majority of the Members of the House that we now adjourn, I would be directed as I am entirely in your hands. If I could have an indication either by a nod of the head or hands or I should put the question.

Honourable Minister, can you move the Motion for the adjournment? Then we will put the question.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Motion that this honourable House now be adjourned until 10 am Monday.

The Speaker: The question is that this honourable House do adjourn until 10 am on Monday. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. This House now stands adjourned until 10 am Monday.

AT 4.25 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM MONDAY, 17 DECEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
MONDAY
17 DECEMBER 2001
10.43 AM
Seventh Sitting

PRAYERS

Hon. James M. Ryan: Let us pray:

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: we beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our father who art in heaven, Hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord, bless us and keep us. The Lord, make His face to shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord, lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Speaker: I have received no apologies from any Honourable Member, neither have I received any statements.

At this time I will call upon the Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, Government apologises for the late start due to some meetings this morning and as you know the phones here in the Assembly are out. We were unable to reach anyone. What we propose to do is to suspend at this point to come back at 1 o'clock.

The Speaker: The Question is that the House be duly suspended until 1 pm today, Monday. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House stands suspended until 1pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 10.47 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 1.28 PM

THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL, 2001

DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS

(Continuation of debate thereon)

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education, Human Resources and Culture.

Hon. Roy Borden: Madam Speaker, I rise to make a contribution to the Budget Speech as delivered by the Honourable Financial Secretary on Wednesday, 5 December 2001.

Madam Speaker, it is not surprising that the Cayman Islands are caught up with financial challenges as is the rest of the world at this time. It is also not surprising that we have any number of armchair economists and politicians who believe that they have the formula. If comments arising out of the presentation of the Budget Speech are an indication, then the Cayman Islands should not suffer from the want of having rescuers. However, Madam Speaker, such is the essence of democracy.

The Government, to the best of my knowledge, is the only entity crafted with the legal and constitutional responsibility to make the way forward. Which is not to say that we should not listen and take cognisance of what other entities have to say. However, it could be presumed, and quite rightly so, that the Government will know of the extenuating circumstances they face better than any other entity; certainly much better than those outside entities which are now claiming expertise in droves.

Madam Speaker, it has been a fallacy of many countries to enter into deficit financing. The records are full of countries which started out on good tracks, then went into deficit financing and have never recovered. Certainly, that has been the downfall of the developing world or the Third World, and it will be foolhardy for the Cayman Islands at this time to believe that history is going to be any kinder to us than it has been to those myriad of countries which went down that track. We need to rise to certain challenges at this point in time and one idea is the new social contract. The Government cannot service its obligations as it has been without the cooperation of the private sector. It is not good enough to continue to say that we are being supportive, that the private sector pays when called upon. We need to take the analysis a step further.

The Government is doing its part. The Government realises that it needs to change its modus operandi. There are ministers and ministries which are taking a closer look, as can be evidenced by the Honourable Financial Secretary in his speech. Many things need to change. But, first of all, we need to change our underlying philosophy of the way we do business and we need to move towards a true partnership in this society; a partnership, between the public sector (which is the Government) and the private sector. We need to have a fundamental understanding and we need to clearly appreciate each other's role.

I was disturbed as I listened to the news this morning. There was a comment attributed to CIREBA (Cayman Islands Real Estate Brokers Association). The essence of that comment was that government is not necessary. Madam Speaker, I could not believe that we would have responsible entities who would state there are many things necessary in the country but government is not considered one of them! Absence of government is anarchy or worse! Is that what these people want to see? Is there any one out there who wants to see anarchy? Or is making money more important than the social order? Is it more important than public good or public order? I would hate to believe that is the philosophy of the entities outside.

Therefore, we need to embark upon a new social contract, whereby the Government recognises its responsibilities and its obligations. A contract in which the private sector is enabled the necessity, the mechanics and the ability to carry out its obligations. Thus the sector can realise a reasonable investment and return on its money so that private businesses can thrive. It is not impossible. The Honourable Financial Secretary, in his summary of the Cayman Islands Economy on page 3, laid out clearly our development experiences over the past three decades. On page four he continued by suggesting what we need to do in order to foster the kind of development that we should expect. The first step would be a tri partite approach to national development.

I get the impression, Madam Speaker, that if we were to take seriously some of the arguments that are being laid, we would let the country develop to a state where certain people have to be reduced to a parasitic existence. No one, in the Cayman Islands wants to see the development of any social parasite phenomena. We must, in this country enable all in sundry to live in dignity, however humble their lifestyles may be. We should not seek to develop that kind of society where there are clear cut rifts and a wide divide between the haves and the have-nots with no middle class bridging the gulf. To embark on that kind of development path is to embark on disaster and the Caribbean and the developing world is full of those kinds of societies. The Cayman Islands need not be another statistic.

So we must follow our conscience and build in this country a system where the Government, private sector and the social sector can co-exist with mutual respect. This is found in the tripartite system if we want to go that way. This is based on the ability, not only to earn money, but to be able to dispense the earned monies on relevant necessary and appropriate projects.

I agree, Madam Speaker, with those persons who hold the view that the time has now come for us to reward good social behaviour and stop focusing and emphasising on rewarding negative behaviour by positive means and methods. In other words, Madam Speaker, the time has come for us to begin to staunch the flow of delinquency. We should staunch the expansion of Northward Prison and pay more attention to those projects which are pro active in the sense that they are going to try to curtail this growth. To do so, the Government needs to be introspective. The Government has begun to look at itself. It has begun to face itself in the mirror. We are talking, Madam Speaker, about more effective management. We are talking about personnel deployment which is modern, efficient, and more effective. I caution anyone who would expect to trim, chop and cut willy-nilly, especially a body like the Civil Service, without a plan, without an alternative. I will not be a party to that and this Government is responsible and we are not going to do that. Madam Speaker, we are going to approach it from a scientific and rational position. That is what is needed, that is what has been lacking.

The Civil Service Review is on the way. Ministries have made obvious strides. They are obvious for all who would like and who are willing to see. We will not be pushed into irrationality. We will not be goaded by fear tactics and scare tactics. We know the path that we are embarking upon. It is, Madam Speaker, a modern path.

The first thing that is necessary will be to formulate a political directorate which is cohesive and worked from objectives. After that is done, we have to gain the confidence of those persons who serve us. We can no longer operate as an adhococracy. Finances must be prioritised, projects must be prioritised. The Government must cease to exist as five separate entities and operate as one entity with a common philosophy and a common direction so that our budget can be spread in a way that is most effective. The majority of the population can then benefit from it, rather than having this infighting among five different Ministries which results in five different Governments, five different sets of priorities and five different Budgets!

As the Financial Secretary remarked in his Budget Speech, we have to focus on the renewal of the existing systems. We have to be sure that the resources we have are working to the best of our ability. I want to say this at the beginning because this is important. There are Ministries which have embarked on cost cutting ventures while at the same time still offering effective services. I have heard much preaching that the private sector is doing their share. What is the public sector doing?

I will tell you some of the things that we are doing in my ministry. Students on local scholarships at the Community College used to receive a stipend of $500 per month. Regrettably, that had to be discontinued. It had to be discontinued because this is a time of fiscal constraints. While the scholarships are still free, we are unable to continue offering the stipend of $500 a month. We are doing things like this but we are being responsible about it. I refuse to be controlled by fear and scare. I examine what can be removed with the least detriment and I have to explain to the students and explain to some parents we had to reluctantly discontinue the payment because the country is in the position now where we have to do some financial cutbacks. Scholarships, Madam Speaker, were not cut back, neither those overseas nor those locally. I hope that, sooner rather than later, we can resume payment of the local stipend.

We did something else a year ago, at the Ministry of Education, Human Resources and Culture. We discussed the employment services centre and embarking on a new direction in labour and human resource development in this country. We have developed the centre with absolutely no new posts. We did not burgeon the bureaucracy by any new appointments. I mention that, in spite of what is sometimes read and written, because we in the Government, are cognisant of the challenges which are ahead of us and we are working.

We have to be very careful, because you cannot operate a first world country on a third world budget. That is what the private sector needs to understand that is what the detractors need to realise, Madam Speaker. So if you are calling for example, for the Monetary Authority to be expanded into a modern regulatory authority, you cannot do that on a third world budget. You cannot get the kind of expertise that you need operating with a third world purse and third world fiscal policies. We have to decide which route we are going to take. I am afraid that the development path the Cayman Islands have taken is an irreversible path. We cannot go back and certainly, if a poll could be taken, we would find out that we do not wish to go back. We must go forward and this is a Government and this is a budget, Madam Speaker, which is taking us forward.

There are no frills in this Budget. Everything is absolutely necessary and I believe that we are as responsible as we can be. I say that the year 2002 is a year of convalescence, financially speaking. It is a year of stock taking. It is a year where we are writing ourselves to get back on track. The Cayman Islands, at this juncture, has the kind of Government which is able to put us in a financially stable position and I am happy because I dreaded the possibility of having to stand here and associate myself with another deficit Budget. I think it was in 1993 when there was a great hullabaloo because the financial position in which we now find ourselves was not new. It did not just come upon us. Successive political directorates faced the same or similar challenges. I am convinced that the economic miracle which the Cayman Islands have experienced particularly in the last ten years may be due, in part, to the frugality and the policies of the previous political directorates. Also a large part of it was beyond our control and due to a combination of fortuitous circumstances, over which we in the Cayman Islands if we had influence did not have total control. Where we made our mistake was that we believed that the seven years of plenty were going to last forever. We did not take advantage of savings and modern efficiencies as we should have done. There are those of us who realise that we now have to do things differently and we have the vision. We just need the support of all honourable Members in this House for effect.

One of the things I have argued, Madam Speaker, for many years—which I hope to be able to put into effect now—is that the students on Government scholarships can no longer be bonded to come back to work in the Government bureaucracy because it can no longer be afforded. The situation is simply ballooning to a point where if we do not discontinue that practice it is going to burst. Let me tell you what we are doing and why. In the Budget we talk about this kind of development and why a Bill was brought here for the establishment of the Cayman Islands Development Bank.

The Government scholarship-holders need to be encouraged to return to the Cayman Islands, but they need to be given certain options because this Budget or any budget could not accommodate every one of them. We now need to change our tactics and alter our way of operating. Some of the students need to be encouraged to go into the private sector. Some of them need to be encouraged to become entrepreneurs and work for themselves. I have always said that Government should have to compete for its staff and its officers just like the private sector—advertise, interview and short list.

The economy simply cannot continue the way we have been going and so this is necessitating a change of philosophy down to the very bowels of the Government. It will affect the way the Personnel Department operates, it will affect the way the Public Service operates and it will affect the way the bureaucracy functions. This impending change has its basis in the economy and in the Government Budget, so it is necessary to have a different focus. That should be easy for all to understand if we are to continue. Otherwise, our Budget will be forever expanding and more and more monies will be spent on recurrent expenditure and we will be always playing catch up.

Madam Speaker, the disagreement emanating out of the Budget is not to do with what philosophical direction the country should embark upon. Rather, I think, it is a disagreement which arises out of a misunderstanding. I believe we are on the way to getting the private sector to realise the priorities of this Government and what we are trying to do in this Budget. At the same time getting them to understand that no one in this Government wishes to take the private sector for granted.

We, however, have certain obligations which we would like to meet. I say this because if this Budget had been presented as a deficit Budget, the private sector would have been lambasting us. They would have more reason to be concerned and alarmed than they are now. There are those in the private sector who realise this but I resent (democracy notwithstanding), the attitude of those persons who write about a cassava republic. Those persons have their options. They can repatriate or move themselves or they can choose to become involved constructively.

The Cayman Islands is not a cassava or any other kind of republic! The Cayman Islands is a respected Westminster style democracy and if that were not so, the Mother Country would not allow us to exist as we have been. I want to set the record straight. I recognise that in a democracy everyone is entitled to their opinion. However, with that entitlement is a certain responsibility and with what I know about those kinds of republics, if the Cayman Islands were not a true democracy do you believe anyone could write that it was a cassava republic and get away with it? Get published and get it read?

No, Madam Speaker, I mean those kinds of attitudes are just not appreciated in this country. I can only speak for myself, but I take the dimmest view of those kinds of attitudes. I respect anyone's right to dissent but I cannot agree and respect that comment. The Government has made itself available to meet, to listen, to counsel. I think the problem many people have is that they expected it to be business as usual. Many were taken by surprise when the United Democratic Party came of age. The moment came when politics and economics in the Cayman Islands spawned the development of a formal political directorate which is intent on giving accountable leadership by the book. What people are doing are two things. They are saying, well the Budget is not really genuine and legitimate. The reason for saying that is an attempt to hit at the entity that assumes responsibility for the Budget.

There should be no fear, because the Cayman Islands are moving forward in a very responsible way. We are facing many challenges for which we need money to build up our infrastructure. We have demands from international organisations. We have an image that the United Kingdom would like us to maintain. Madam Speaker, we have been paying our way for all these years. I want to speak very seriously. For the first time in the history of this country, we have an economist here who was seconded from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office. Intelligent people would take that as a sign that they are looking over our shoulders. We never had that before. If I were a wagering man I would bet that had we presented another deficit Budget, not only would the economist be sitting here amongst us, he would be telling us what to do.

Those of us who are intelligent, see and understand what is necessary to be done. To lose our financial independence and to lose the ability now to take decisions as to how our money will be spent is a retrograde step. We would never get that independence back again easily. Can we not see that, Madam Speaker? Is there not a sign in all of this for intelligent people to read? Or have we got to be from the court of Nebuchadnezzar to understand what that is?

It is true that the Cayman Islands are inextricably weaved into the world economy. It is also true that we can take responsibility and have always, as a society, made our own way irrespective of what the outside world was going through. because the fact that there are recessions in the industrialised countries does not mean that the Cayman Islands have to keel over and give up and say that we cannot do better. That is the reason we have five intelligent and elected ministers to craft the way out so that our people are not burdened financially to the point where they cannot cope.

This Budget, suggests that the Cayman Islands Government has reached the point where it expects the wider society to match the gestures that the Government is taking. If there is retraction, reneging and finger-pointing on the part of any entity, it is not going to work. Unfortunately, too, the system is that the Government cannot take a referendum on measures it needs to impose to raise the necessary money. The Westminster system does not allow for that. Such kinds of indecisions, Madam Speaker, cannot work in a time when decisions of exigency have to be taken. So, while I am apologetic to those entities that say that they were not consulted; nowhere in the civilised world are they consulted.

When Gordon Brown, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, brings his Budget, Madam Speaker, he does not take a poll and ask the Bank of England or all the other banks how it is going to affect them. He says that my Government has a budget of $5 hundred million and he just comes to Parliament and reads it and it is voted upon. In the Cayman Islands in the 21st Century we can do no less. I do not wish as a Minister and as a Member of the Government to create the kind of situation that, before a budget can be presented, we have to go and take a poll to find out, whether or not the Budget will be favourably received. The only concern would be that, morally and politically, the Budget is wisely crafted, with no foolish expenditure and that the public's money is spent effectively. Following that there has to be accountability and transparency. I have searched the Constitution and Standing Orders and I can see nowhere where I am obligated to take a poll.

The Government is responsible and we should listen to the concerns of these people. It is our obligation, and, therefore, our intention, to be responsible with monies collected. That has been the past history and tradition of political directorates and it shall be no less now. I say to that extent, this Budget is a sound Budget. It is the best that could be done because rather than face another deficit Budget we know we have to make changes. We know that we have to cut back. We know that this is a time of recession. There is another point which needs to be made.

If you expect reductions in the budgets you must also expect reduction in services because the two go hand in hand. The private sector cannot therefore expect that we are going to have a reduced budget while services continue at the same level. Many people are missing a fundamental point because of the situation and the circumstances in the society in which we live.

Checking the statistics we will see that a significant proportion of our young people go to Northward Prison. Some of them are not able to function in the society when released, after prolonged imprisonment. What are we going to do about those cases? What are we going to do about those who drop through the educational cracks? Are we going to build up a welfare society that we have every year to increase the amounts of money we plough into social services? Are we going to implement programs to empower these people, to save them before they get to Northward and to train them before they drop through the cracks and become wards of the state? Those people who have to pay duties and fees and taxes are going to complain and quite legitimately so, that more and more of their money is being spent on maintaining these people in unproductive lifestyles.

What this country needs is an awareness of the necessity to empower persons. Much attention was given in this Budget to empowerment, Madam

Speaker. There was an examination of the Cayman Islands Marine Institute and of the necessity to build a remand home as against offering positive rewards and attractions before people get to that stage. There was consideration of training vis-à-vis an employment services centre to train and counsel people and help them to access jobs. These are things for which one does not see immediate results and I suppose that is why the element and levels of criticism are as intense as they are.

These kinds of gestures will reap the rewards in the years to come. It will enable us to embark upon positive systems and it will help us to stop expanding the social control agencies and containment services and to put more money into positive things. We need to take into consideration training programs, sports programs and educational programs.

We have heard from the Minister of Health stating that health fees are incredibly and unrealistically low in this country. So low that we have people coming from overseas to access them. We propose to gradually move these fees more inline with the cost and with what is being charged for similar services elsewhere including the private sector. Nobody gives us credit for that. They only see the other side. The coin has two sides. The Government which is the political directorate is being responsible. There is a clear demonstration of this partnership where both sides show a willingness to do what needs to be done. Unfortunately, we cannot make up all the ground in one year.

I would hope that all the talk, all the bluster and all the criticism which is being levelled is tempered by the realisation that attempts are being made. I heard no one speak of the role that a development bank can play. I heard nobody speak of this tripartite approach. I heard no one mention the streamlining of the public sector or the Civil Service reform. I heard no one speak of the micro finance initiative. I heard nobody speak of empowering Caymanians. All the talk was beating up on the Government because the Government chose to raise some fees in areas that could absorb fee-rises. Nobody over there, on the other side, knows it better than me. I spent twelve years over there.

I know that it is popular to say certain things. I also know that what may be popular may not necessarily be practical or realistic because the reality is certainly different when you get on this side. It is nice to say the things that are popular and get the applause. However, when you sit in the seat of the Government and have to make certain decisions about programmes which need to be implemented and maintained, it is a far different cry from when you are a Backbencher with no responsibility but to criticise and sometimes, not constructively either.

We welcome the private sector into this partnership for a new social contract for the Cayman Islands allowing the Government to effectively service the needs of those who need help in finding affordable housing. A social partnership which allows the Government to be proactive in the programs it offers to prevent our youngsters from going down the road to destruction and delinquency allowing the Government to embark on programmes curtailing the use of drugs amongst our young people. A contract providing education and training so our young people can be effectively employed. It is not easy when we consider that 60 percent of our work force is on work permits.

This Budget must make provision amongst all the other things to ensure that Caymanians can be educated and trained so that we can make inroads into those statistics, Madam Speaker, and so that we can become less reliant on imported labour and more reliant on our own indigenous people to fill those roles. It is a Budget about empowering Caymanians as much as it is about maintaining certain services. Am I to understand that those who object, do not understand the fundamental reasons why this money is necessary, why we went this route and why we cannot, go into deficit financing? If we were not going to come here with a balanced Budget, made up with no major borrowings, where are we going to get the money from? A fundamental question is, when we borrow, who is going to repay and at what rate? The prime rate is not always going to be, as I read the other day, down to 4.75 percent. We do not want to get into a debt spiral. If there are any better managers where are they? If they are not on this side, where are they?

I was reading the other day the editorial in the senior newspaper in the country berating the fact that they cannot get tourism statistics. What idleness! Of all the things they can editorialise, they are making a whirlwind out of the fact that they cannot get tourism statistics. Of what great significance is that now? Is that stopping the Cayman Islands from functioning? Is that stopping the world from spinning? No Madam Speaker, while it may be an inconvenience, it is not a disaster. I am surprised that there is such a negative approach by such influential and important entities in this country. I believe that it is necessary and vital for planning purposes to get statistics, not only tourism but other statistics as well. If there is an absence of them, that is not the end of the world!

I did not see any editorial about the effort to empower those persons who were laid off by the one week training that was given by the Ministries of Education and Tourism. I did not see any editorial about that. I did not see any editorial about the efforts the Government is making to steer the country in one unified direction. I did not see any editorial about the efforts being made by the Information Technology Ministry to modernise us so that we can be a destination which is modern and competitive in terms of information and communications technology. If we take the microscope and look for the cracks and look for the faults we can find them by the millions, but these are not the things we should be highlighting.

We should be highlighting the positive. Nobody is doing that!

Since the announcement of the birth of the United Democratic Party the disparate elements are even more meticulous in a certain kind of negative criticism. I call again for a spirit of partnership and cooperation to build a society which one and all can understand and within it realise his or her role. It is not impossible. The Cayman Islands is a premier society known for its fiscal responsibility, its constructiveness and its ability for all and sundry to operate together in peace and harmony.

Madam Speaker, I want to say that this Budget was put together, comparatively speaking, with relatively little pain but, nevertheless, was constructed with the greatest conscientiousness and respect for the entities which make up this society. This Budget meets the needs of a dynamic and growing Caymanian society. It affords us to use the resources we have available most effectively. It should be one which the great majority of this country can associate with. I want to say, I expect at the end of the financial year the reports which come in about the financial Budget, such as the way the monies were spent and about the achievement of the objectives which were set out, are convincing, sincere and positive. Throughout the history of the development of this country, political directorates may have had their faults but no directorate set about the wilful destruction of this society and this is no different. This Budget is as constructive as any budget ever presented. It is as caring and painstaking as any other and when all is said and done. I proudly associate myself with it and I say in confidence that the country is moving forward.

The good ship Cayman, while it has its challenges, is eminently equipped by this political directorate to deal with those challenges. I look forward to debate in Finance Committee to the justification, not only for the expenditure of those Portfolios and Departments which make up the Ministry for which I hold Constitutional responsibility, but for the Budget as a whole.

I say to the private sector, we must work together irrespective of the differences we have. There is room for partnership. We must build this partnership. We must embark on a new social contract for the Cayman Islands so that we do not create a society of haves versus have-nots. We do not want to degenerate into an 'us versus them'. We can then have the kind of harmonious society that all and sundry can feel a part of and have a place within.

Madam Speaker, I hope that this Budget and those persons associated with it can be given the chance they deserve and perhaps when you have seen as many storms as I have seen, you will realise that there is no need to pontificate or no need to put down. Just the need to open your eyes, stand by your or and move forward.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin Jr.: Madam Speaker, breathe deep the gathering gloom. On this the occasion of my second debate on the Budget Address of the Honourable Financial Secretary, I come to the debate under decidedly different circumstances than I did in April of this year when I debated the Budget for 2001.

Madam Speaker, in my preparation for this debate I turned up a document, a press release issued by the Council of Associations on 16 May this year, from which I would like to read certain excerpts, with your permission Madam.

The Speaker: Permission granted.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, what struck me about that document was the contrast between the Budget process address and debate. Those few short months ago and the circumstances under which the country now finds itself, debating again the Budget address and draft Budget this time for the year 2002.

Madam Speaker, it is entitled, Council of Associations, 16 May 2001, for immediate release. "A new approach to budget planning. Presented in the Legislative Assembly in March, the draft Budget for 2001 includes more than forty revenue measures, including many fees imposed on our Offshore Financial Services Industry to raise an additional money and to fund new and existing Government Services and projects, including essential plans to significantly increase the size and regulatory scope of the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority.

"This news does not surprise the private sector. The financial state of the country's budget is the result of a decade of unrestrained tax-and-spend policies by previous Governments to fund politically popular projects and poorly monitored social programmes that the country, in most instances, could not afford because appropriate sources of funding had not been properly identified.

"This widening imbalance between Government spending and the growth in the country's revenue base has been quite apparent for many years, particularly when the national budget was presented. In fact, during the 1990's the private sector came to expect a package of revenue measures as a standard budget item to underwrite the Government's plans to fund its new projects and programmes.

"These 'trigger' announcements disturbed many businesses because they were unveiled without notice or even consultation. The private sector had to object publicly before its views were heard or even considered as evidenced during the public protests in 1997.

"We congratulate the new Government, led by the Honourable D. Kurt Tibbetts, on its new approach of involving the private sector on its budget deliberations and seeking advice and assistance before the draft Budget and revenue measures were announced. This new approach of openness, honesty and transparency supports the new Government's campaign pledge.

"The openness of the new Government was clearly apparent when for the first time ALL Ministers as well as the Financial Secretary addressed the Chamber of Commerce during its monthly general meeting in January to discuss its plans and to discuss some of the major budgetary issues affecting the country. While the private sector may not always agree with Government's approach to resolve the issues, we admire the willingness of the new Government to ask for advice and, most importantly, consider our opinions BEFORE reaching decisions that may adversely impact our economy.

"Open dialogue and public/private sector co-operation is essential particularly when external pressures are mounting, specifically the OECD [Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development] and FATF [Financial Action Task Force] requirements on commitments and what appears to be a slowing of the United States' economy, the main source of visitors for our hospitality industry.

"We consider the appointment of a private sector-led committee, chaired by Mr. Robert Bodden who has been asked to investigate additional revenue measures, to be a positive move, but strongly recommend that the first priority is to review Government's spending and revenue collection before taking the traditional approach of raising additional revenue without identifying spending cuts."

Madam Speaker, because I wish to be completely fair, I will read the following which is also part of that press release.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, is it your intention to also lay it on the Table?

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: If you so wish Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Please do.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.:

"To clear last year's deficit and to keep the Civil Service functioning at 2000 levels, the new Government has decided to borrow for the first time, $26.2 million for the General Revenue Fund to pay off outstanding revenue bills and commit- ments from 2000, at a time when the servicing of the national debt alone is nearing 10 percent of recurrent revenue. We see this as a very dangerous precedent and wish to state that future borrowing to pay recurrent expenditure will be strongly resisted. We would have preferred a different approach but we understand that the Government was not left with many options this year.

“We have been informed that this will not be repeated next year because Government intends to find ways to balance its books and change the way it conducts business. We welcome this new approach and continue to encourage Government to continue to utilize the expertise available in the private sector to effect the necessary changes.”

I thank you, Madam Speaker, and if I could now lay this on the Table of this honourable House.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I read somewhat extensively from that document to highlight the change in approach to these things which have been augured in by the UDP Government.

Madam Speaker, I believe all Members of this honourable House, and virtually everybody in this community, understands the financial circumstances in which those of us who were elected in November of 2000 found this country. I also believe that no one, and certainly I would not attempt to suggest that trying to cope with the recurrent expenditure issue was an easy one in January through April of last year, or indeed an easy one this time around. There are no quick fixes and no simple answers. I have been involved in the process long enough to understand that.

The Second Elected Member from West Bay read extensively from my contribution to the debate on the last Throne Speech and Budget Address. Listening to it, seemed to me was the best part of his debate. I, like the Second Elected Member from West Bay, shared and continue to share concerns about the growing cost of Government.

Madam Speaker, I said (if I may refer to the excerpt from the Hansards of my debate in April of this year).

The Speaker: You may, provided you state the precise date for reference purposes. Thank you.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker, on 18 April 2000 (sic), page [457]. I said, Madam Speaker, “To put it bluntly, government is too big and too expensive! The reason why it is so big and expensive is because of the voracious appetite this country has developed for services. Government is simply expected to do too much.”

The Speaker: Honourable Member, just for clarity sake, did you intend to say 2001?

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Yes, Madam Speaker, thank you for the correction.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I do not believe that there are any fundamental philosophical differences in the way I, and most Members of this honourable House, view this question about how we are going to resolve the growing difference between what Government costs to operate and what we can derive by way of revenue. I said, in my debate the last time that if we do not find a way to slow the growth of the Civil Service and indeed to roll it back, the cost of that service is going to strangle the country to death. I believe that now more than ever.

When I came to the debate in April of last year I had concluded that civil servants amounted to some thirty nine hundred persons. I talked about many of the inefficiencies which had become apparent to me even in that relatively short time that existed in Government's system and particularly in the system of collection. I raised the question of garbage fees and pointed out, back then, that while it is costing some three hundred dollars a year to collect garbage fees from residential places, Government was charging one hundred and I said, Madam Speaker, this simply could not be permitted to continue. I spoke then about the need for Government to utilise some of its premises as revenue earners. I spoke about the need or the possibility of turning the premises behind the public library into a multi-storey parking lot.

I am citing these examples Madam Speaker, so that the Honourable House will understand, that I see what the problems are and that philosophically I do not have a real issue with the matters they seek to address. I believe that there are many areas of Government activity that should be privatised, I share that view as well Madam Speaker. Where I think I part company somewhat, is my view on what seriously needs to be done to reduce Government's overall expenditure, particularly in terms of the number of civil servants on Government's pay roll. I will speak about that more extensively as I carry on in my debate indeed, lest I be misunderstood.

I said, in April of this year (18 April, in fact), on page [458] of the Hansard, “The Civil Service is not large simply because of the powers that want it to be, it is principally because of the country's continued demand for more and more services.”

“While I accept and believe that there is room for improved efficiency I do not believe we can significantly reduce the size of the Civil Service without a corresponding reduction in the number of services the country demands that Government provide.”

“Over the long term, if this country is to prosper, we are going to have to reduce our reliance on Government provided services, we are going to have to stop expecting Government to subsidise basic services such as garbage collection and health care.

“In turn Government has to adopt a philosophy that involves a systematic and structured reduction in the size of the Civil Service. This cannot and should not be expected to occur overnight but it must happen.

“I am not talking about a hurried and arbitrary cutting of Civil Service jobs, what I am talking about is a critical evaluation of the Civil Service, the services it provides and the adoption of a long term programme of retrenchment. If we do not do this and if the Civil Service continues to grow the way it has over the past six years, the cost of operating central government is going to strangle this country to death.”

Madam Speaker, with those prefatory remarks, I come to my principal issue with the way the UDP Government has gone about this particular budget process and how we arrived at the Budget Address which was delivered by the Honourable George McCarthy on Wednesday, 5 December.

Madam Speaker, in his address, the Honourable Third Official Member spoke of the slowing of the economy and why we need to rethink our approach to the long term development of these Islands, while at the same time maintaining our global leadership position, particularly in relation to the financial industry and to tourism. Now, with the greatest of respect to the Honourable Third Official Member, for I have some idea of the difficult role he plays and the difficult job he has to do regardless of which government is there. I seriously question whether any real regard was in fact had to the need for Cayman to maintain its global leadership position in relation to the financial industry when this Budget was proposed.

You see, Madam Speaker, I look at the Budget proposals and I recollect how often over the course of the past few years (over many years and I am not talking specifically about this year) that the Honourable Third Official Member and many other individuals speaking on the behalf of the industry and on behalf of government have referred to the financial industry as resilient, as buoyant. How we have managed to forge ahead notwithstanding the threats of the OECD and the FATF and the European Union's savings directives and many other initiatives that keep looming. The financial industry has survived. It has done better than survive, it has continued to thrive notwithstanding all of these things even though growth may have slowed, at least some aspects of it. It has continued to do quite well. I fear that, because it has survived those many assaults over a great many years, now a view has been taken that the financial industry is invulnerable. Nothing we do to it is ever going to cause it to wane.

Until recently, we have made that very same mistake in relation to the tourism industry. We thought, Madam Speaker, because for years and years and years there was an increasing number of visitors to these shores, we have boasted about it as a country—tourist arrivals were up 10 percent over the last two years. So, we developed a mindset in relation to that that industry was also invulnerable. Over the course of the past couple of years we have come to the harsh reality that that is not the case and it did not take the September 11 to cause that to happen. The tourism industry in this country has been on the decline for a number of years, Madam Speaker; 11 September just brought it to crisis level. Do you know what in my view, has caused the tourism industry to be in decline? An overpriced product, a product which provides much less in value now than it did five or ten years ago.

Madam Speaker, since 1998—and it is not because there are not more rooms, and it is not because there are not more flights to bring people here—we simply have lost our competitive edge. We have made this place unattractive to many, many people and out of the price range of far more. Since 1998 we have added more than twelve hundred and fifty new rooms, such as Sunshine Suites, Comfort Suites, Cobalt Coast, Morritts Tortuga, Holiday Inn to name a few.

By my calculations and information, Madam Speaker, there are four new airlines serving us over the course of that period. Some are on a charter basis, some as regularly scheduled flights. If you talk to those in the industry, business now is about 40 percent what it was in 1998 and that is not talking about 11 September and subsequently. We have lost our competitive edge. We thought that industry was not price sensitive, we thought product really did not matter sea, sand and sun. Sell them a mudslide at $11, they will buy it, they will keep coming to Cayman, we are safe, we are clean. At a time when visitors to places like the Dominican Republic, the Bahamas, Aruba are on the increase we are on the slippery slide. That is an important lesson and one that we should pay attention to because, we are on the road to creating a situation where the other limb or leg of this economy is at risk.

I know that at some point there are likely to be charges of self-interest on my part because of my connection to the financial industry of these islands. Madam Speaker, I know there are some Members of this honourable House on the Government side who have some experience in the financial industry of these Islands. However, I believe that I can say without fear of contradiction that the almost eighteen years I have spent there is more than the sum total of all of them put together. I believe I was in the financial industry before the Second Elected Member for West Bay started high school. I say that, Madam Speaker, so that all concerned will realise that I understand that industry. I know their foibles. I know, when they resist, because what is being proposed seriously means that they are going to encounter great difficulty in continuing to sell the service and product which they market which makes the wheels of this economy go round.

The Second Elected Member from West Bay read quite extensively from my debate on the Throne Speech and Budget Address presented to this honourable House in March of this year. The point that he read, so extensively were my remarks stating, categorically, that the financial industry of these Islands, in my view, was not bearing its fair share of the tax burden. I also went on to say, which he did read, that I suggested that the way forward was for Government to sit down with the players in the financial industry as it had done prior to the preparation of the 2001 Budget Address and seek a way forward.

I believe, because I have had numerous meetings and discussions with members from that industry over the course of these past few days, that virtually all but the most intransigent in the financial industry, understand that they need to contribute more and are willing to do so. What they have the greatest of difficulty with, what they find wholly preposterous is the manner in which almost fifty million dollars of new fees are being added to the cost of doing business in the financial industry of these Islands, in one fell swoop.

That is what has got everybody up in arms because those of us who run businesses or have run businesses understand that we cannot operate without a proper budget, without advance notice of fees which we will have to pay. Even more importantly is how do you explain this to clients? How do you explain to sophisticated international clients that overnight, and on three weeks notice a product or a service which they need, which they utilised, is going to be increased in some cases, by hundreds of percent. People who live in a civilised sophisticated country cannot understand how it is that, a responsible Government would, without due consultation and notice, increase the cost to them to carry out business in that jurisdiction. It is almost impossible to explain that to clients, Madam Speaker.

I have come to the view, that more than any single issue, more than these particular exorbitant increases, what is really going to cause the demise of this economy is the constant disruptive manner in which we are going about the administration of this country. The ensuing uncertainty and instability is what scares investors. It is what frightens business people and what worries those who work here, more than any other single thing that Government does or does not do.

Madam Speaker, there is always a period of uncertainty following a general election but, usually, by the end of the first year the country has settled down. Well, this year we had the tragic events of 11 September which has reordered the world. Then we had, in domestic terms, the equally tragic events of November 8. An air of uncertainty has reigned ever since and November 8 was followed far too swiftly by 5 December which was The Budget Address. Perhaps more accurately I should say on the Monday following that, the date of which I cannot bring to mind, when the schedule of increased fees was unveiled.

The question on every lip, Madam Speaker, is what is happening in Cayman? Has the place gone mad? One of the things that we marketed so heavily, one of the things that brought people here, one of the things that caused people to be prepared to invest significant sums and establish banks and businesses was that whether the Government was good or whether the Government was bad, whether you liked them or you did not like them, they were predictable. You knew what it was that you had to face. Now, the only thing that is certain is that there will be more uncertainty. The country, Madam Speaker, the economy cannot continue to be assailed by surprise after surprise, by disruption after disruption without there being serious if not fatal consequences. This is a plea on my behalf.

I sit where I sit and, to tell you the truth, I am growing very comfortable sitting where I sit. I am quite happy to stay here for the duration, which is the democratic process. It works its way and the chips fall where they may. I am prepared to let them stay there; but I implore those who now drive the policy decisions of this Government and forge the way forward for this country, not to continue to operate in this style. It is completely unnecessary. It is completely uncalled for. If they continue this modus operandi every time this House convenes and there is any Bill of any import brought here, without consultation, which has ramifications throughout the industry or indeed throughout the country, there are going to be, not just the lonely voices of us on this side pleading for due process to be followed, pleading for proper notice, they are going to be met, each time, by the armies of those who are affected by what they are proposing.

There are many who deplored the style of the First Elected Member for George Town. I heard the Honourable Minister for Education asserting a short while ago, quite correctly Madam Speaker, that he saw nothing in the Constitution or the Standing Orders of this House which required him to consult with anybody. Absolutely right, spot on; there is no constitutional requirement and there is no Standing Order to that effect. However, good sense dictates, Madam Speaker, that when you are going to take steps which are going to radically effect the way an industry is able to operate, even if you do not have the courtesy, you should have the common sense to understand the importance of consultation. More than anything else that is what the industry is really against. I know. I talk to its members every day.

While on the subject of the financial industry, I will take the opportunity to examine some of these proposed increases. The scale of some of them is, quite frankly, staggering. For example, the increase of an 'A' bank licence fee from CI$123,000 to CI$400,000—and that is the renewal, as I understand it. The new bank license would be half a million [dollars].

In my view, the notion that significant fee increases for license holders will result in increased revenue is entirely misconceived.

I have already been reliably informed, Madam Speaker, of two class 'A' licence holders who have indicated that as a result of these increases they will surrender their class 'A' licences. I predict that many of those who retain their licences will proceed with the redundancies that hitherto they were trying very hard to avoid. These new increases have to be looked at in the context of the already substantial increases which were proposed in the Budget in March of this year. No one has paid those yet because licences are payable at the beginning of every year.

Madam Speaker, because of the various initiatives of the Financial Action Task Force and others, the financial industry has had to develop significant and expensive compliance departments to deal with the issues of ensuring that there is no money laundering. All of those add substantially to the operating costs of these various businesses. Additionally, there is an increasingly significant gap developing between licence fees here in Cayman and those in the Bahamas and the British Virgin Islands.

Madam Speaker, this may not be that well understood, but in the view of offshore investors, financial institutions, fund promoters and others, Cayman and the other offshore jurisdictions are fungible. It is becoming an increasingly difficult battle to persuade them that Cayman is a better place to be than somewhere else. Cayman really holds no great advantage over those other jurisdictions except the excellence of the professional service providers we have and the relative ease and inexpensiveness of conducting operations. At a single stroke, these fee increases have seriously undermined that competitive advantage.

There is another point—and the more I subjected these proposed fee increases to analysis, the more I was driven to the inescapable conclusion that much of these proposals are hurried and not properly thought through. I am positive about this because the cry that I have heard from the financial industry about the lack of consultation means that this is so. Those who have developed them have done so with an imperfect understanding of how business really operates within the Financial Industry. The effect of the introduction of tax planning into the business planning of financial sector businesses I do not believe has been taken into account by the architects of this work.

I do not believe that they have realised the fact that firms will, for the first time I believe in the history of this country, have a real incentive to structure the affairs so as to avoid incurring the increased fees. It is quite possible, for example, that the increase in the cost of a class 'A' bank licence would be more than offset by a reduction in the actual number of licences, and businesses would stop offering services that entailed a higher licence fee. Unless the fees from that area of business justify it and they would also then presumably lay off the staff that previously ran those particular divisions.

In the Budget Address, the Honourable Third Official Member stated that class 'A' bank licences were down. If I recollect, Madam Speaker, he said some 4 percent (on page 20 of his address): "In the banking sector, Category 'A' bank and trust C.I. dollar assets were $837.2 million at the end of June 2001 compared to $825 million at the end of June 2000; and the number of bank and trust licences dropped by 4 percent, from 569 in September 2000 to 548 in September 2001. The reduction in licences is a result of bank mergers and retrenchments. The policy introduced in April 2001 on the residual private banks had an effect as well. The policy required that private banks without a physical presence establish a presence to the degree appropriate to their activities within a nine month period or surrender their licences." He goes on to say, "To date 24 of these banks have opted to surrender their licences, 6 have restructured to become subsidiaries and retain their licences and 12 licensees have decisions pending."

Madam Speaker, if I were a wagering man, I would bet that we are likely to see, if this proposal goes through without amendment, a good many more surrender their class 'A' licence. What I do not think is fully understood, is that quite a number of class 'A' licence holders do not actually operate a retail banking business. They hold their class 'A' licences because it lends to them a certain prestige and flexibility. If the cost of holding that licence is outstripped by the perceived advantage of doing so they will surrender their licence. Economics. I am sure the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac would agree with me on that one.

Madam Speaker, there is another point. There is a considerable risk that as disastrous as these proposals are, they will not even achieve their desired objective of solving the Government's financial problem. With the little economics that I know, my little A level economics, I understand this much. Where severe increases are introduced, they inevitably lead to market distortions. Somewhat paradoxically in this case, increases may well result in an overall reduction in Government revenue as has often occurred in countries where taxes have been significantly increased.

In Ireland, government revenue went up dramatically when the government reduced tax rates and in France tax hikes led to a decline in revenue. Take the situation of the class 'A' banks. Suppose we arrive at a situation where six of those banks decide not to renew their licence, what does that do to Government's projections? That is $2.4 million just like that!

Perhaps that is why we have a Cayman Islands Development Bank which is going to have a retail operation. Now I am starting to see, Madam Speaker, the urgency with which that matter was proposed, brought to this honourable House and rail-roaded through without any opportunity for debate.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: Please state your point of order.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I suspect the Member is getting tired so that is why he has decided to raise such an issue because he knew it would be a point of order.

Madam Speaker, this matter was not rail-roaded through the House. That is bringing improper motives to the honourable House. The matter was dealt with according to Standing Orders. Madam Speaker, the Bank does not deal with retail. How many times does that have to be said? Why did the Member not look through the Law? He has had specific time. Madam Speaker, I think that the Member is misleading the House.

The Speaker: Honourable Member as far as it relates to the motives under Standing Order 35 (4), I would ask you to refrain from imputing improper motives on any honourable Member in the House and at this time I would ask you to please continue.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker, but I would be grateful if you could point me to where I imputed improper motive to any Member of this honourable House because I would wish to refrain from doing so again.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, although no Member can question the ruling of the House, I will oblige by indicating the specific aspect that I made my ruling. That was regarding it being 'railroaded through the House' as I could not, based on the evidence so far, consider that to be the position as it was done within all of the considerations of this honourable House and it brings you very close to Standing Order 5(3) as well. So, if you would continue without staying in that specific arena I should be most grateful.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Honourable Members let us refrain from our crosstalk so that the debate could continue please.

The Second Elected Member from George Town, continuing his debate.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I wish to refer now to the details of revenue measures, item 11 which is somewhat curiously entitled, 'Traders Licences', but then which proceeds to speak of accounting auditing firms and law firms and other professional firms. I am a bit bemused by the title, Madam Speaker, but, nonetheless, this section proposes a band system for work permits and trader's licence fees. The traders are accounting firms, law firms and other professional firms. My reference to it including work permits is misplaced and I apologise for that. I will go through it in some detail.

I say at the start that it is discriminatory in ways that appear to me to be entirely unjustifiable. It seems to also be ill-planned and haphazard indicating that no real consideration has been given to its likely consequences. When I say that, Madam Speaker, the proposed band system is entirely confused. Why should a law firm with fifteen lawyers be charged more than five times the fee payable by an accountancy firm of the same size? Equally, why should a law firm with 11 lawyers pay three times the fee payable by a firm with 10 lawyers, while a firm of 50 lawyers will pay the same amount as a firm with 26 lawyers? I have struggled to see the logic in that. I understand the objective to raise revenue for Government but I have struggled with the logic employed in establishing these bands.

If a 10-person law firm wishes to hire another lawyer, whether he is Caymanian or not, the cost of hiring would include an additional hundred thousand dollars trader's licence fee. This is a huge disincentive for firms to expand from one band into the next and a significant incentive to shrink from one band to the next. I ask what Government purpose is achieved by that? What underlying policy drives this proposal?

Madam Speaker, we are all fond, in this honourable House of talking about how important it is that when we are developing policy, we ensure that the best interest of Caymanians are served. In my view, these proposals will adversely affect the prospect of Caymanians, or at least limit their employment options. That is because a smaller firm which wishes to expand by sponsoring Caymanian students and employing them when they qualify so that they can benefit from the experience of senior lawyers, will be penalised for doing so. A four or five member firm which does so, would move from the exempt bracket to the fifty thousand dollar bracket. The effect of which is that those two newly qualified lawyers would cost the firm twenty five thousand dollars a year each in addition to their salaries and sponsorship costs. For a 10-member firm in that position, the cost per newly qualified lawyer would be fifty thousand per year in addition to salaries and sponsorship costs.

I suspect, as is usually the case, the die has been cast; but if there are still some Members on the Government side who are prepared to listen to reason I will suggest this: We have to understand that the introduction of these fees on such short notice penalises the operations of all firms but more so the smaller businesses which tend to be Cayman owned who will have to find comparatively large sums for which they have not budgeted on what is effectively three weeks' notice.

Madam Speaker, I sat down with certain members of the profession of the smaller firms and the additional costs to their bottom lines—talking about the smaller size firms—ranges between $100 and $200,000 which they will have to find on the second of January.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member, please state your point of order.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I would just like to point out for the benefit of this honourable House that following meetings with the representatives of the Council of Associations and meetings that took place on Friday afternoon and today, the Government took a position to review the fees as they apply to law firms and to bring those fees in line with the bands that have developed for accountants.

Madam Speaker, I should point out that the Honourable Second Elected Member from George Town would not have had knowledge of this as yet as it was intended that this revised schedule would be distributed to honourable Members. With your approval, I would like to take the opportunity at this time to lay on the Table of this honourable House the new schedule so that the honourable Member will be guided by the correct fee structure.

The Speaker: So ordered and subsequent to that I should also like to suspend for twenty minutes.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, before you suspend, if you do not mind.

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Certainly that could not have been a point of order, Madam Speaker. Certainly it could not have been a point of order. I would appreciate you ruling before you suspend if you are so minded.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, you are correct in that it was not a technical point of order. I took it although it was not that. I allowed it to go under the elucidation seeing that the Member quickly sat down.

If the Member, or any other Member, wishes to deal with that technical aspect, I have no problem with that. I just felt that in the interest of time and information sharing that I would allow the Honourable Third Official Member to perhaps deviate slightly from that. Hence the reason I also moved expeditiously to suspend for twenty minutes was to allow all Members to peruse it and have an opportunity of equity.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.37pm

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.11 pm

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed.

Continuing his debate, the Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you.

Madam Speaker, when we took the suspension the Honourable Third Official Member had risen on what he termed a point of order to advise the honourable House that there was a revised schedule of the revenue measures. I am most grateful to the Honourable Third Official Member for that. I do wish that all points raised were so helpful.

The revised schedule which I now have in my possession has revised the bands system for trader's licence fees as the schedule refers to them so that the distinction between the fees to be charged for accounting, auditing firms and law firms is now the same. That is preferable to the first proposal. I do believe that it would be fairer and in the end that Government would derive more income if they were to abandon this proposal in its entirety. Instead of creating a system of bands, simply utilise the current procedure of practising licences, certainly for the legal profession which I believe is currently at $1500 per year.

Simply do their arithmetic to arrive at the required figure and simply increase the costs of the practising certificate by that amount. This would be far simpler, no need to do anything new and creative. Government still gets their money. It is far fairer because under the current proposal, once a firm gets to twenty six attorneys or twenty six accountants, the fee paid is a constant $300,000. There are firms in this Island whose number approaches fifty. Why should they be paying $300,000, as a firm with twenty six attorneys does? Again, Madam Speaker, I am unable to follow the reasoning there, but no doubt when an honourable Member from the Government's side rises all will become clear.

There is another suggestion which I have in relation to this, Madam Speaker, again consistent with the oft stated intention of all Members of this honourable House to improve the prospects of Caymanians and afford them the best possible employment opportunities. As I pointed out a bit earlier, creating arbitrary bands is a somewhat arbitrary exercise because when one moves from the upper end of one band into the lower end of the next band the costs of doing that are significant. If you have five lawyers you are exempted under the bands or you have five accountants you are exempted from any trader's licence fee. As soon as you have six, the fee is fifteen and when you have seven it is fifteen and when you have eight it is fifteen and when you have nine it is fifteen and when you have ten it is still fifteen, but as soon as you take on one more you double the cost of your licence.

This plainly is going to operate as a disincentive to hiring young Caymanian inexperienced individuals, whether they are lawyers or accountants. That is, if hiring one Caymanian newly qualified is going to move you from paying $15,000 a year to $30,000 a year and your choice is between that one Caymanian and somebody with seven or eight years experience who is more experienced, longer tenure and is far more productive, the far more productive lawyer is going to get the nod every time.

That is simply the reality of business and therefore I am suggesting to honourable Members on the Government Bench—who are awake—that a possible way to deal with this is to exempt from the trader's licence fee young Caymanians lawyers who perhaps have one to five years' experience, so that when a firm takes those sorts of individuals on board it does not adversely impact them in terms of numbers. If we are determined to keep the interest of Caymanians at the forefront, Madam Speaker, I offer this as one means of doing that.

Before I leave the revenue measures, I want to deal with the introduction of a new fee, that is, the annual licence fee for company management firms. To be accurate, Madam Speaker, it is a new component of the annual licence fee. The proposal is that a firm which manages 1 to 5 companies would be exempt. A firm which manages 6 to 10 companies would be $1,500. A firm which manages 11 to 15, $2,500. A firm which manages 16 to 20 $3,500. A firm which manages 21 to 25 companies would be $5,000. A firm which manages 26 plus, companies would be $7,500.

I have struggled to understand the rationale employed here and again, Madam Speaker. I simply put it down to a lack of complete understanding of how company management firms operate. The market reality is that, particularly since the introduction of the anti money-laundering measures and the tremendous compliance requirements which have accompanied that, I am prepared to venture that there is no firm in Cayman that manages 1 to 5 companies, unless it is a closely held operation. They are managing companies for themselves or for related entities and that probably holds true all the way across the range of new measures. I sincerely doubt there is any firm which carries on the business of managing 26 companies, again, unless it is a closely held operation.

The reality is, that based on the cost of operating company management business with the compliance requirements which have to be met, unless you are managing in the range of three hundred companies, it hardly makes sense. We have management firms that manage 9,000 plus companies. So if you manage 26 companies you get charged $7,500 and if you manage 9,000 companies, still $7,500. It makes no sense to me. It would seem to me far more sensible to charge a fee per company, whatever the figure is, even if it was only $100 per company. So those who manage 9,000 companies would pay $900,000.

We would not need to go that high. However, it would be far more equitable. Those who manage the most companies would pay the most. Coming from where I do and understanding how this business works, I offer that as a suggestion to the Government. In that way, whatever figure we arrive at as being the equitable sum per company would be across the board.

Madam Speaker, perusing the schedule I also noted that absent from it was any new or increased fee in relation to Local Companies Control Law Licences, which I believe is currently $200 a year. This seems to me to be quite a significant oversight because Local Companies Control Law Licences are by and large granted to operations carrying out an activity which is of significant value. This is so much so that they have been unable to attract the necessary local investment.

The Ritz Carlton Development is a current example. It seems to me, Madam Speaker, that $200 per annum for a licence to develop a project of that size is very cheap. This is particularly so in light of some of the tremendous increases which are being proposed in relation to the players in the financial industry. I offer that to those on the Government side.

Another feature, Madam Speaker, which appears to have been omitted, is any fee on special purpose vehicles. I do not believe any fee at all is currently charged on these. These are used to facilitate huge financial transactions in the financial industry. Again, I offer that to the Government side.

It is very worrying, when such huge increases are proposed upon what is now the only solid pillar of our economy without due consultation and the tremors that caused throughout that industry. The use of in-temperate language such as, 'the industry has got away with murder over the years', creates an impression of that the financial industry is a culprit. If we talk seriously, if we mean what we say about the public/private sector partnership, however passionate we are about the things in which we believe, we need to try, Madam Speaker, to refrain from the use of that sort of language because it really does the country no good at all.

It certainly does not encourage or even embarrass the financial industry into becoming more free with their contributions to Government coffers. They need to be encouraged to pay more, Madam Speaker, I have said that for a long time, I have been in the industry for a long time but that is certainly not the way to go about it. It is far more likely that that sort of language is going to be interpreted as an intention on our part to commit suicide. Madam Speaker, I think I have said enough about that aspect of the Budget Address.

The Speaker: Honourable Member are you intending to move on to a next point because, we have reached the hour of interruption?

The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, under 10 (2), I would like to suspend that Standing Order in order to continue the debate.

The Speaker: The Question is that Standing Order 10 (2) be duly suspended so that the House can continue until 6 pm this afternoon. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town, please continue your debate.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I am quite prepared to continue. I just wish to say this, Madam Speaker. The House did not commence this morning until, I think it was nearly 11 o'clock and then we adjourned until 1. I do not have any difficulty because I understand that the Government was in meeting.

I would be grateful, Madam Speaker, to be shown some courtesy in these things. To know that the House is not going to begin on time because of one reason or the other and, indeed, that if we are going to run late, to be advised very early so that we can plan our own lives. I understand that two Members on this side may have to leave before 6 o'clock because they have other engagements. I am prepared to continue, I just wish to make those points, Madam Speaker.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, may I?

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, when we began the Meetings of this honourable House, I informed Members that we would be sitting late most evenings and we would endeavour to let them know at what particular points we would. Today we did pass around a note after talking to you. The same note, Madam Speaker, was passed around to those Members, with I think two of them saying that they would not be able to stay. So I would presume that most of them knew about it. If Members will recall, when we began we said because of the lateness of the Budget we would continue late in the evenings. I thought that was putting Members on notice so that Members could organise their business in time.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Elected Member for George Town, please continue.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I will not engage the Honourable Minister of Tourism. I just ask him if we are to presume that that is going to be the case every evening.

I will move on to talk briefly about the issue of immigration and the security of tenure issues which are raised in the Budget Address of the Honourable Third Official Member.

Madam Speaker, I believe all honourable Members of this House and indeed much of the country is aware of my views about immigration and how critical I regard that issue. Indeed, the Budget Address and Throne Speech in April are dealt extensively with the question of immigration and the need to resolve it swiftly. I believe that I am one of a very small number of Members of this honourable House, who have actually articulated a position in this honourable House in relation to the key issues of term limits on work permits, permanent residence and Caymanian status.

I have been honoured, Madam Speaker, to have had the privilege as a member of the Immigration Review Team appointed some months before the change of Government on 8 November, and as member of that team, to have worked with other honourable Members of this House, the now Honourable Minister for Health and the Second Elected Member from West Bay, as well as Mr. Patrick Schmidt and Ms. Sheena Frederick-Westerburg and the Chairman of the Committee, Mrs. Sherrie Cowan, on preparing a report to Executive Council on this issue.

Madam Speaker, the first interim report was delayed as one might have expected as a result of the changes in Government, but was submitted some two weeks ago I believe to Executive Council. That report dealt with an overall immigration philosophy and framework and the key issue of work permits.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I would ask you that in so referring, to exercise some caution so as not to divulge any confidential nature, seeing that it has not been laid.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker, I am very cognisant of that. I am simply providing an overview which has been made public. The second report is to deal with the issues of permanent residence and Caymanian status and the third, to deal with administrative issues.

It may well be that some of the work of the Committee may have been overtaken by events in light of the announcement of the Government about its policy in relation to the grant of the permanent residence. I await word from the Chairman as to the way forward on that. Whatever the way forward, Madam Speaker, in relation to the Immigration Review Team, I still hold steadfastly to the view that we must resolve the issue of immigration and security of tenure and do so swiftly.

I do not believe that is the same thing as simply handing out either permanent residence or Caymanian status without due and careful consideration and the development of clear articulated criteria. So that those who are affected by the decision-making process understand why it is that they were granted or were not granted and that the populous as a whole have a clear understanding of the immigration policy of the country and of the Government. It is this issue of uncertainty which has clouded immigration for so long creating much of the unhappiness that currently abounds.

Madam Speaker, in relation to the Government statement earlier in this Meeting saying it intended to recommend the grant of permanent residence up to one thousand people. While that, Madam Speaker, may resolve some of the problems in the interim and while that may appease a few, I do hope that that does not signal a policy that Caymanian status will not be open to certain of those candidates.

There are many of those in that category who were unsuccessful this time around that I believe ought to be considered for a grant of Caymanian status. I hope, as I said, that whether it is by virtue of the Immigration Review Team or some other way, we are going to continue to work towards resolving question of immigration and security of tenure and indeed, that we are going to stay on track for what I know was the intention of the Government that existed up to 8 November. That is, to bring amending legislation to this Honourable House during the First Meeting of 2002.

In his address the Honourable Third Official Member spent a considerable amount of time setting out various aspects of the Financial Management Initiative. I must say, Madam Speaker, that I was delighted that the new Government has taken this on board and that this has not fallen away given the departure from Executive Council of the First Elected Member from George Town and the lady Member from North Side, who I know have championed fiscal reform and particularly the Financial Management Initiative for many, many years.

The Budget Address also sets out as part of the Government's policy the phased implementation of the accepted recommendations of the review of the Cayman Islands Civil Service Commission by His Excellency the Governor and carried out by the Civil Service College of the United Kingdom. I do not know what those recommendations are and I do not believe that any honourable Member on this side of this House has had sight of them either. I hope we will and I hope there will be an opportunity for us to provide some input before decisions are taken.

Madam Speaker, the Honourable Third Official Member also announced the intention to establish a National Advisory Council which would provide, within a comprehensive framework, individuals from the public sector, the private sector and the social sector. I am fully in favour of such a council. I believe that the experience over the past few days should urge the Government to be even more intent upon the development of such a council, which can give it advice and the opportunity to know what the private sector is saying about Government proposals.

In the past the private sector consultative committee has been used by successive Governments, as the vehicle and the medium by which Government seeks and obtains advice. It allows the private sector effective consultation and collaboration. I am not sure, Madam Speaker, what happened this time around but apparently that did not transpire.

Now I come to the signing of the tax information agreement with the United States. There was, Madam Speaker, some animated debate, if I may call it that, between the Honourable Minister for Tourism and the Elected Member from East End on Friday in relation to what information Members on this side of this honourable House had received in relation to this. At some point a question arose as to what I knew and did not know and what my role was in all of this. Let me seek to clarify this as best I can, hopefully, without provoking the Minister of Tourism.

Madam Speaker, I was appointed as a member of the negotiating team following the election to Executive Council of the Government, I think it was 15 November 2000. My position prior to consideration of standing for election, my position following my election and becoming a member of that team, and subsequent position, has always been that when we are entering into agreements, international agreements which affect the members of the financial industry or any industry, we should not do so without the most careful consideration and without wide consultation. No matter how well placed we believe we are. There is nobody on the Government side, there was not then and I do not think there is now, who can claim any expertise in tax matters.

I campaigned against the last Government, which was defeated on 8 November 2000, on the basis of their lack of consultation, on the basis of their taking decisions without giving the private sector an opportunity to say this is how this will affect us. I accept, Madam Speaker, it is for the Government to make the decision. Concerning this particular tax information agreement with the United States, I was invited as a member of the negotiating team to a meeting with the United States Treasury representatives at the Westin Hotel, the Friday before 8 November 2001. As the discussions developed and it became apparent to me that there were those on the negotiating team who felt that it would be a good thing if we came to an agreement that evening, I expressed my concern about the pace at which we were proceeding and about the fact that we were doing so without consultation.

The Honourable Third Official Member is here and he was there. Madam Speaker, the Honourable Minister for Planning (who is not here this evening) and I, got into quite a heated argument about my view—to which I have held fast—that these decisions should not be taken without consultation. I do not disavow, Madam Speaker, my membership of the team at the time this was agreed that we would sign a tax information agreement with the United States. However, I can say this (and I would not have said so if it had not been raised): I steadfastly opposed us doing it without consultation.

It may well be because I am not one of those intransigent souls who believes that we have to hold fast to secrecy because that is what made us what we are. Those days have gone. I have long since accepted that. I have spent too many years, Madam Speaker, involved in the financial industry not to understand it is dynamic, it is evolving and we have to move forward and we cannot simply say, no, no, no and expect business to flourish. I am not for a moment saying that the agreement is not good or that it is disastrous or any such thing. Time will tell because time is the only judge of these things.

I have heard people clamouring for years and years about the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty and it has worked fine. My point is, I believe in consultation with those who are affected by the decisions. That is a view not shared with all members of the negotiating team. There were suggestions, by the Minister of Tourism and, earlier, by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac in another forum, that there had been a meeting and members had been apprised of what the terms of the agreement were. I can say for myself, the only meeting that I am aware happened was with the private sector consultative committee on Friday, 9 November this year, because I was advised by the Honourable Third Official Member's office that such a meeting was happening. I have never been formally advised, Madam Speaker, that I am not a member of the negotiating team. I saw it in the press.

[Pause]

In his Budget Address, the Honourable Third Official Member has referred to the world economy and the fact that consumer confidence fell dramatically following the terrorist attacks in September. He also stated that unemployment levels have been rising in the United States since the beginning of the year with massive job losses experienced in various sectors and that the unemployment rate is expected to rise from 4 percent last year to 5.4 this year. He has said, Madam Speaker, that the world economy is expected to grow by 1.4 percent in 2001 compared to 4.7 percent in 2000. He refers at some length to the United States economic stimulus package. He says, "In general, the recent easing of macro economic policy in the United States should support economic activity in the year ahead."

On the monetary side the Federal Reserve Board has cut the federal funds rate ten times during 2001, reducing it by a total of 450 basis points or 4.5 percent. This rate now stands at a historical low of 2 percent. In terms of fiscal stimulus the Bush administration recently announced a $99.5 billion package of business tax breaks, rebates for low income households, capital gains tax relief and extended unemployment benefits.

This package, together with the tax reduction in June and emergency spending made just after the attacks, should amount to an estimated $160 billion in 2002." A little later on, in his address, the Honourable Third Official Member also outlined the economic stimulus measures which the Government, which held office until 8 November proposed and it appears the new Government has endorsed. A reduction in land transfers from 9 percent and 7.5 percent to 5 percent, 50 percent reduction in building permits fees and 50 percent on infrastructure fund fees. In terms of outlook he predicts that these will have a positive effect on the real estate and construction industries in particular.

Now, Madam Speaker, against the background of the world economy, against the background of the local economy in circumstances when the mighty United States of America are offering economic stimulus measures and tax breaks in the billions of dollars, we proposed certain economic stimulus measures which are hoped to infuse new life into the construction and real estate industries as economic stimulus measures. Then, a short month later, we propose the counter measure of a $55 million tax package—the biggest single tax package that this country has ever seen. What is it, Madam Speaker, we are trying to do?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: What is your point of order, Honourable Minister?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Repetition, Madam Speaker, the Member traversed this ground early in his speech and he is going back to talk about the same tax measures. He practically went through that the whole first part of his speech. So I think it is being repetitious.

The Speaker: Honourable Second Elected Member for George Town, would you indicate as to what vein you were taking in that discussion about the tax package.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I propose to move suspension of this honourable House so that we can see what the Hansard says. I have not at any point in my address referred once to the overall tax package. I spoke at length. I went into a detailed analysis of the schedule of revenue measures. I am now looking at it from a macro standpoint.

If the honourable Member would stay awake when I am speaking he might not miss what I am saying!

The Speaker: Is that a request, honourable Member, for a copy of the Hansard?

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, that is what the Minister is insisting on, because I have not traversed any new ground and I am prepared to sit and be quiet until we can resolve this. Madam Speaker, I am reaching a point where everything I say, the Honourable Minister seeks to interrupt me. It is not, in my respectful submission, a point of order. It is a deliberate attempt by him to stifle the voice of the Opposition.

The Speaker: The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, far be it for me to stifle any one of their voices over there and I am awake, that is why I can call the point of order. It is my impression that he has traversed that ground this morning. It is not new ground even if he expands on it. Nevertheless, let him go ahead killing himself.

The Speaker: Honourable Second Elected Member for George Town, please continue in the direction that you started and I will continue to listen attentively. I did not thus far, hear you refer to it in a repetitive manner but I will continue to listen as I have always done with all honourable Members.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: I am grateful to you, Madam Speaker.

I recall quite well during the Budget Meeting and Throne Speech of this honourable House in March/April of this year that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac, who is an economist, spoke at length about the negative effect on the economy of imposing new tax measures. In fact, in one particularly good example he made reference to how the reduction in import duties on certain building materials and the like in relation to Cayman Brac had actually resulted in an increase to Government's coffers because of the additional spending and importation of goods.

Now Madam Speaker, again I have been around long enough to understand the chameleon nature of the politician and so I am going to await listening very keenly to what the honourable Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac is going to say about the effect on the economy of a $55 million tax package. It was his view that the almost $20 million tax package which was brought in March or April would be counterproductive. That has not taken its full effect yet because the fees to be derived from the fi-ancial industry will only come about the on January 1.

I am going to deal now with Tourism, if I am permitted. Madam Speaker, the Budget address indicates that the Ministry of Tourism and the Department of Tourism have adopted several initiatives. The major ones include a million dollar television advertising campaign in eight cities in the United States and Canada. Focusing on cities with direct non-stop air services and additional 72 cruise ship calls slated to bring in approximately 365,000 visitors to these Islands. Some of the ships will call on weekends thereby increasing the economic benefits to local businesses. The formation of the Land and Sea Co-operative will help to better promote on-island tours allowing smaller local operators to benefit from tourism opportunities and a vibrant training program to help train, retrain and improve service levels in front line staff. That will include Customs and Immigration.

Now, Madam Speaker, during the earlier part of my debate (from which I believe the Minister of Tourism was absent), I compared what had happened in the tourism industry with what I perceived may happen in relation to the financial industry. One of the biggest problems in the tourist industry over the course of the past year has been that, by and large, the Department of Tourism has remained leaderless for almost six months. This situation has created considerable consternation within the industry. I have spoken to a number of players in the industry who felt that the lack of a capable individual in that role until quite recently has had an extremely negative effect on developing any properly co-ordinated and effective program.

One of the initiatives proposed is this million dollar television advertising campaign. Madam Speaker, I do not believe that marketing or the lack of it is our biggest problem. I believe that we need to take serious steps to fix what is wrong with the product that we have. I also believe that the role of the Department of Tourism needs to be re-evaluated. I do not believe that the Department of Tourism should be the marketing vehicle of the Cayman Islands Government tourism package. Those who have a vested interest in the industry are far better placed to carry out the marketing exercise. They are far more motivated to ensure that they get value for money spent.

I believe that the role of the Department of Tourism should be as flag bearer and regulator. It is a useful public relations tool but I believe that in seeking to carry out the advertising campaign it loses its way. It gets bogged down in matters for which it is ill qualified. It has grown, and grows, and grows, and it costs more and more. If I am not mistaken, Madam Speaker, the budget for the Ministry of Tourism was something in the range of $22 million. This year I believe it is somewhere in the range of $18 million.

An example of how this marketing strategy works or does not work as the case may be is as follows: There was a marketing program called "Re-energise" which I think was promoted starting sometime in March of this year. All reports that I have received from a fairly broad cross section of the industry have indicated that the program was a massive failure. Now, we are moving on into a new marketing program called in the Budget Address 'a million dollar television advertising campaign,' in eight cities of the United States and Canada. My question is: Have we had any evaluation of the reenergised marketing program, which I believe is still running? Do we know what it costs? Do we know what results we have got from it? Are we simply going to put that one down to experience, no post mortem done and just roll happily on into another million dollar marketing program again?

Madam Speaker, we are struggling to bring stay-over visitors to these Islands and the reason we are struggling is because we have a faulty product. I believe money could be better spent, particularly at this time when the world is afraid to fly, on trying to fix some of the things that the tourists complain about in these Islands. This is to help make the product better. Despite the lack of stay-over visitors it seems, Madam Speaker, that we have an over abundance of cruise ship arrivals, some 627,251 thousand by the end of September 2001. By and large though, as a country, we treat them as traffic obstacles.

We do not know what to do with them when they get here. They wander aimlessly about the streets in George Town which are, on cruise ship days, overly congested. I do not believe that the numbers are an indication of how well the businesses do when they visit. You get to a point when there are so many people around—when the traffic is so great—that people just quit trying to get anywhere, quit trying to get into the stores. Then, to compound that, those who do wish to take a tour are fought over down at the dock while the visitors watch! These are the sorts of problems which we need to fix, when I talk about our tourist product. Madam Speaker, the Budget Address also refers to the formation of the land and sea co-operative and it is stated that this would help to better promote on-island tours, allowing smaller local operators to benefit from tourism opportunities.

I believe the Land and Sea Co-operative has existed for some time now. I do not think it is a relatively recent advent. Indeed, I think I recall a sum of some $50,000 or so being provided for its assistance in the Budget in March this year. I think the formation of the Co-operative is a good idea. I think it should be the vehicle by which the smaller operators can band together to provide the sort of collective bargaining power to achieve contracts, to effect the proper insurance to be able to set up the proper administrative machinery and to be able to compete for business. I do not believe, Madam Speaker, that it should be a vehicle which members who believe that they can paddle their own canoe, pardon the pun, feel that, unless they belong to it, they will be excluded from benefits or that they will be derided and made to feel that somehow they are culprits because they have been successful.

In the recent past and on two recent occasions, I had a number of tour operators attend my MLA office to voice concerns about what was transpiring down at the port. The recent events which I hope have now been satisfactorily resolved, have really, I believe, done considerable harm to the industry as a whole. It may have coloured the views of the cruise ship operators and indeed the tourists who witnessed some of the incidents down at the port. I hold no brief for any operator. I believe that all those who are legitimately engaged in business in this country are entitled to expect from the Government courtesy, due notice, and reasonable notice of any changes in policy which are going to affect their operations.

Whether the individual who owns the business is a saint or a villain, if he is legitimately engaged in business here it cannot be right for him to receive a letter one afternoon advising him that his terms of business are going to be significantly changed the following morning. Instead of being allowed to pick up as many visitors as are willing to come to him, his numbers will be reduced to 200 or 300. Businesses, Madam Speaker, must be able to predict what it is that they are expected to do and what it is that they are entitled to do. I believe, unless you have been engaged in business you do not understand what arbitrary decisions do to the continued viability of a business. A Government cannot operate in arbitrary ways. Even if the decision is absolutely right, the decision must be taken. Businesses and people are entitled to know from day to day, what it is they can rightfully do. They cannot operate in an environment where the rules can change on the whim of a Minister.

Madam Speaker, I come to the main 2002 Budget strategy decisions. I am again pleased to see the continuation of the policy which began with the passage of the Public Management and Finance Law 2001 and the agreement of a strategy policy statement prior to the start of the budget process. The second strategy speaks to an increase in Government revenue by introducing new Government measures in the financial services and business sector which we talked about them at some length. Improving the collection of existing revenue, increasing Government's fees and charges so that they reflect the cost of the service provided for example health service fees. Improving the collection of existing revenue is a matter that has been dear to my heart since I entered this hallowed Chamber. I have spoken about it on more than one occasion and I have pursued the situation, through parliamentary questions, over the course of this year. Increasing Government fees so that they reflect the cost of the service provided for example, Health Service fees, I say Hallelujah!, Madam Speaker. We have got to get to a point where services which Government provides are being paid for, at least at cost.

Now, proposal strategy number 3: "The removal of all funded vacancies from the 2002 Budget except where the recruiting process is underway." That has been simply lifted from the 2001 Budget. The same strategy is in there.

"The introduction, in year 2002, of moratoriums on civil service cost-of-living adjustments and on civil service increments or merit increases." Well, Madam Speaker, in the 2001 Budget the cost of living adjustment was deferred to 2002, so it has now been taken a step further by proposing a moratorium. I have no difficulty with that, Madam Speaker.

"The imposition of moratoriums and the creation of new civil service posts and on the filling of existing vacant posts, except for absolutely 'essential services'." Again, that has been lifted from the 2001 Budget. "The streamlining of multiple grants, waivers and reimbursements now given by Government." For example, announcements have already been made on the grant to seamen and financial assistance. That was completed I believe, during the course of this year before the Lady Member from North Side demitted office. "Curtailling all new services that require additional budgeted expenditure." That is, by and large, what was outlined in the 2001 Budget.

"Holding the 2002 Capital Acquisitions budget at $5.3 million." and "Holding the 2002 capital development budget to $16 million." Both of these, Madam Speaker, are similar strategies to those employed in the 2001 Budget.

"Restructuring of the Government's debt portfolio with a view to reducing the annual debt servicing costs." Again, this was proposed in the 2001 Budget.

"Ensuring the correct usage of all future contingency warrants consistent with section 22 of the Public Finance and Audit Law". This was again lifted from the 2001 Budget.

Madam Speaker, notwithstanding all that has been said, there is little that is novel in terms of restraining Government expenditure and increasing Government revenue, other than the imposition of the revenue measures in the financial services and business sector. I heard much said about the qualifications of the new fiscal team, if I may be bold enough to call them such. Their qualifications are certainly on the revenue side, but do not show much concerning the new tax measures. There is little that has not already been said or done.

There is provision in the schedule for increase of health services fees or the creation of fees in relation to a significant number of procedures that at the moment apparently go unpaid. "Health Services Fees. An increase in existing fee schedule rates and inclusion of approximately 600 procedures not previously specified in the fee schedule $9,485,534." Madam Speaker, we have also had the benefit of having been given the White Paper. I believe it is in relation to the proposed regulations which will effect these changes and impose these new fees and the $9,485,534 has been touted as incremental revenue expected in 2002.

I am all in favour in principle, in favour of Government charging for services they provide at the economic rates—although I have not looked at the White Paper to see the detail—no difficulty there. If by virtue of the arithmetical calculation that transpires to $9,485, 534 then so be it. I believe it is an optimistic stretch to think that by imposing those fees, we are going to increase Government's revenue by almost $9.5 million. You ask how do I figure that. Madam Speaker, if we learn nothing from history we shall be compelled to repeat it.

In June of this year, or thereabouts, I asked a parliamentary question to the Honourable Minister then responsible for the Ministry of Health, "What is the current amount owing to the Cayman Islands' Government in respect of overseas medical loans, overseas medical advances, and local receivable balances?" Madam Speaker, he responded to that part of the question thus, "Mr, Speaker the total amount owing to the Cayman Islands Government in respect of overseas medical loans, overseas medical advances and local receivables is CI $46,828,528 14c." The Cayman Islands Government has 'on the road' as we say, almost $47 million outstanding in respect of Health Services fees, including the overseas ones.

By what stretch of the imagination do we believe that we can safely add the projected fees to be generated from procedures at the Hospital, which will incur these new fees amounting to $9.5 million, or thereabouts, to the Budget as part of the projected incremental revenue expected in 2002 and expect that to be realised? Madam Speaker, I am reminded of the definition of an optimist. The latter is an individual who falls off the top floor of the forty-storey building and as he crosses the fifteenth floor, he is heard to say, "So far so good".

I come now to the question of parking, one of those items that I proposed in my debate on the Budget and Throne Speech in April. I am delighted that it has been taken up but, as the editorial in today's Caymanian Compass infers, the proposal like a number in the schedule it comes across as half-baked and not fully thought through. Madam Speaker, if I might be permitted to read a few excerpts from the editorial.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin: It is entitled, "Pay to park".

"Next year the Government is planning to charge car owners, a million dollars for the privilege of parking in George Town. There is nothing intrinsically wrong with the idea of charging for the privilege of using public property in a highly congested area. However, while the public has been supplied with rudimentary details of this plan, it is still abundantly unclear how it is going to work.”

It goes into what the Honourable Second Elected Member for West Bay had said. The narrative continues—

“Pay parking will affect two categories of drivers. Those who work in central George Town, who park on the street or behind the Library for a full day every day and those short stay parkers who occasionally need to park in central George Town to stop or attend to other business. On the face of it, the system outlined by Mr. Anglin appears in theory, workable for full day parkers. They will presumably be able to buy, say a month’s worth of tickets at a time. In practice however, it is hard to believe that drivers who are used to paying nothing to park in George Town will be happy to ‘fork out’ $93.75 a week, or about $4,500 per year for the privilege. It seems much more likely the majority will organise to park elsewhere probably at considerable inconvenience. Frankly, it looks like the only real thought that has gone into this proposal is from a cash collection perspective. Some bright spark decided there are about 210 parking spaces in George Town, multiplied that by $93.75 by 52 weeks a year and came up with a figure of $1,000,000.” So, Madam Speaker, when I describe the proposal as half-baked I am in good company.

The Budget Address and the proposals for increased tax measures are unimpressive. There is very little new in any of it, Madam Speaker, except that it has the distinction of being the largest single tax package ever imposed on the people of this country. It has not sought to deal with the fundamentals of the problem. Government simply spends too much on recurrent expenditure and the principal reason is the services Government provides and the number of civil servants it employs.

I know it is far easier to stand up and say that as I have said and as he has said than to get something done about it. I will not be unfair in my debate, I understand the difficulties under which they labour, but until we get the official arm of Government which is responsible for the civil service, to pay more than lip service to this issue and to agree to do something about it, we are forever going to be in this dilemma, regardless of who sits on the Government side or who sits on the Backbench side. It provides much fodder for debate and if I were less fair than I am, I would simply use it without acknowledging the difficulties under which the Government labour.

Madam Speaker, unless attitudes in places like the office of the Governor and the office of the Chief Secretary change, the most that any Government is going to be able to do is to restrain expenditure by not developing new programs or projects which require additional hiring. They are not going to be able to affect the kind of retrenchment that is critical to the long-term survival of this country. I say this with the greatest of concern about civil servants and their jobs I have always taken the position that almost half of the civil service comes from somewhere else. We can, if all concerned co-operate, effect these changes, effect this retrenchment without displacing Caymanians from their jobs and without making arbitrary cuts.

Contracts come to an end at some point but we have got to have in place the program which everyone understands. Listen, the policy of Government, official and elected, is retrenchment! The policy is shrinkage and unless we marry those two arms of Government, I do not care who is over there, they are not going to be able to make the necessary changes—they are forever. In boom times we will be all right. However, in times such as these, whichever Government is there, they are going to face these sorts of challenges. I may disagree with the way things are done and in many respects with the magnitude of some of the things that have been done. However, philosophically I agree with most Members on that side because many of them sat here with me for the course of the last year, I do share their view about Government expenditure.

Madam Speaker, much has been said in this honourable House and much more has been said and will continue to be said in the wider community about the impact of this year’s Budget. The concern is what it will do or what people believe it is going to do to the viability of these Islands as a jurisdiction in which the financial industry can flourish. The fact that the Government has taken some small step to reduce the impact on some companies is I believe a good sign. There have been a number of meetings held by many of the professional associations and banks and I believe that there will be more. I understand there is to be a big meeting of the Council of the Associations tomorrow.

I know not much cognisance will be paid to what I say but nevertheless, it is my duty and responsibility to make the points I have made. I hope the voice of reason which is shouting loudly in the Community, will get some attention. I hope the Government will understand how very critical it is that we do not now seriously injure the only healthy limb of our economy.

Events before and following 11 September have demonstrated plainly how swiftly an industry can be brought to its knees. If we have not learned that, Madam Speaker, from what has happened to the tourist industry, then we are doomed. It is now approaching 6 pm. I do not believe that I can add anymore to what I have said. Even though they may not like the messenger, I do hope that they will not entirely discount the message.

Thank you.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker: Thank you honourable Member.

Leader of Government Business is it the intention to adjourn now at 6 pm?

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, at this point in the evening we appreciate any messenger who lets us go. Therefore, we wish to adjourn at this point until 10 am on Wednesday, 19 December.

The Speaker: The Question is that the House be duly adjourned until 19 Wednesday at 10 am. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AT 6 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM WEDNESDAY, 19 DECEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
WEDNESDAY
19 DECEMBER 2001
10.20 AM
Eighth Sitting

The Speaker: I call upon the Honourable Member from North Side to grace us with prayers.

PRAYERS

Ms. Edna M. Moyle: Let us pray:

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face to shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace, now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.22 am.

The Speaker: Please be seated. I have received apologies for the absence of the Third Elected Member from Bodden Town who will be absent from the House for the remainder of this week.

I have also received information that the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs wishes to make a statement this morning by virtue of Standing Order 14. This will be the point of the proceedings that it would be done. The statement is on its way down and with the permission of the House, I should wish to set it down for a later time this morning. If I could have at this time an indication whether you wish for the question to be put that Standing Order 14 which deals with the formal setting out of the order of the business of the day be put and voted on or is it the general concurrence that this can occur?

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I would suggest to meet the formalities of the House that you so do and Members can indicate their acceptance or otherwise.

The Speaker: Can I then call on the Honourable Leader of Government Business to call for the suspension of Standing Order 14.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 14

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I move the suspension of Standing Order 14.

The Speaker: The Question is that Standing Order 14 be duly suspended to allow the Honourable Minister for Community Affairs to make his statement later on during the course of today. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The statement shall be shared during the later course of today's proceeding.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 14 SUSPENDED TO ALLOW THE STATEMENT TO BE MADE AT A LATER TIME DURING THE SITTING.

The Clerk: Government Business Bills. Second Reading. The Appropriation (2002) Bill 2001.

The continuation of debate on the Budget Address.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL, 2001

DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS

(Continuation of debate thereon)

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak? The Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Firstly, Madam Speaker, I wish to thank you for the fair and good job that you are doing in the Chair. I know that is a tough task you have accepted but you have thus far acquitted yourself well. I am pleased with the demeanour of the Chair.

Madam Speaker, this is the first Budget of the United Democratic Party and as the Honourable Financial Secretary has said, this is a truly balanced Budget.

In the very challenging times all of us are facing in these Islands, there is much more than just hardship and suffering; much more than difficulties to manage and hurdles to overcome. I say to everyone there is the opportunity to come together to examine the frame work and foundations of our society. We have the opportunity to recognise and give thanks for the benefits we have. We have the chance to make a change, to make things better, to build up for a better tomorrow and to do all these things together as one family, one community, one people; the people of the Cayman Islands.

Madam Speaker, we face challenges but we have a great deal to thank Almighty God for. We are still a safe country and a short distance from the United States of America. We are in the same time zone and have excellent telecommunications, world class professional firms and a professional work force. We have heard many people bemoaning the hard times. We have heard them cry out that they are suffering, from the housewife to the small retail business owner and other business people. We have heard them asking for help over this past year.

Our job as the Government is to lead the way forward to show people how they can help themselves and each other. We are there to provide a framework for every man, woman and child to help them to contribute the best they have to offer and to build, improve and protect the lifestyle we have enjoyed in these Cayman Islands. When it is raining everyone feels they are the ones getting wet and they are the only ones bailing out the boat. I say, when the ship of state is in stormy seas, everyone must do their part to see it safely to shore.

Madam Speaker, what we are proposing in this Budget is to address, for the first time in many years honestly and openly, the challenges we must face. No more can we afford to hide our head in the sand or throw borrowed money at our problems hoping they will go away. The time has come to stand up and face our responsibilities in a mature and a more thoughtful way; to recognise what faces us and believe in what we can achieve.

When the United Democratic Party was formed it was a major step forward in the maturing of the political life of the Cayman Islands. We took a great step forward in our journey to become a mature democracy in the Westminster style and as a United Kingdom Overseas Territory. One of the main spurs to this step is the crying need for change, action and leadership. That is what I believe the Budget delivers. It may not be what we want, but it is a step in the right direction.

An economy that has as one of its main pillars a thriving financial services industry is duty bound to run its own affairs in a businesslike way. It means delivering a balanced budget and living within our means—not just when times are good (which, unfortunately, previous administrations had but did not handle it well), but especially now when times are tough regionally and globally. Now is not the time for the Government to continue in wasteful ways, to squander the future of our children because we do not have courage to face hardship today. Now is the time to turn our ship around and put her back on the course to even greater prosperity and opportunity for all.

The tacking can be hard, especially when we have become used to letting the wind push us where it will. However, it is necessary and will bring forth the spirit that I believe has made the Cayman Islands great. Madam Speaker, we can either bemoan our fate or seize this opportunity to bring ourselves together as a people. All the people of the Cayman Islands, whether they be born here or have chosen to make the Cayman Islands their home, can go forward to reach the true potential.

They say many hands make light work and even though the burden is heavy it is easier to bear if everyone pitches in and this is what we are proposing here. These Islands need all hands on deck to make it work. The private sector and Government must work together in order to create strategies to ensure the continued success of these Islands. Government is re-evaluating our expenditures and will focus our resources in the areas that are crucial to us, the areas that will help us grow and prosper.

One of the things we are proposing is a fundamental review of Government agencies to root out unnecessary bureaucracy and to undo unnecessary regulation and red tape. At this time we are asking the business community, to carry a much greater burden but we are also promising to provide them with a better service in return. Madam Speaker, it is our goal to turn around this economy, to welcome investors, get money into the treasury and have a healthy surplus with a view to reducing the fees companies pay as well as the duties paid by the general population. That would be a good thing to do. Many have talked about this for years. To achieve this we must understand that the old way of doing business must change. We must welcome investment for everyone, from which income can flow down and continue to the man on the street, so he can have the standard of living that we have been used to in the past 30 or 40 years.

We recognise that we do need to stay competitive. Part of being a competitive market is to be a stable, well run and debt free market; a place where people have the safety and services that make them want to come here and want to stay here.

Madam Speaker, I will commit to the country on behalf of the United Democratic Party to make a proposal to the Honourable Financial Secretary that, perhaps two months prior to the Budget being delivered, he would convene a forum. That would allow Government and private sector to present the economic state of the country to key stakeholders in the private sector in an effort to be more transparent and cooperative. I believe this will augur well for our Islands.

The United Democratic Party is about more than just cleaning up the mess; it is about creating a better future to build on our strengths that we know we have, while weeding out those things we know will hold us back and weaken our future. We have had 40 days as the new Government. We have started on major initiatives to help move the Island forward. The Government has to create an atmosphere to stimulate the economy and the private sector has to help drive that economy. Government must do its part and it has to have the agreement of the people and they must be able to go along with it.

This is in order for Government to sustain the kind of expenditures we have in order to sustain them for the people we serve. This includes the little man on the street to the multi-national cooperation in the many initiatives that abound today. The Government, I believe, can help stimulate the economy. We have to have ideas, Madam Speaker, and we have to be willing to take criticism for our ideas. If you do not have ideas you cannot govern. I believe the one good thing we have shown in the past was to be friendly; we have to remain so in all areas. We have to be friendly to foreign investment because that is where we get our funds from, be it a company or just the nameplate, or be it a person that comes in who is legally accepted and has run the legal parameters and set up a business of whatever kind.

We have talked about efficiencies in Government—I believe that we have to look at the whole spectrum of development and entice investors again to this country. Much talk has gone on about the Port development. The Government has reached a decision to support the development of a new port facility in the eastern districts to handle the offloading of cargo and supplies. I still have to meet with some people in the private sector and I would hope to do that before the New Year. This decision is based on the premise that the George Town dock has limited space for expansion to accommodate cruise passengers while supporting the long range cargo handling needs of the country. It has become abundantly clear that the country is not properly accommodating our visiting cruise ship passengers due to the lack of proper facilities at the dock.

Government has been approached by a private investment group which has offered to develop a new harbour facility complex in partnership with the Government. The United Democratic Party believes that this is the best long term strategy for the country, as it allows a new first class facility without having to borrow to fund the project. This public/private sector project will be operated by the Port Authority and is expected to commence the approval process early next year. Madam Speaker, the advantages of moving the cargo facilities from the George Town dock are many. There will be very little environmental impact and very little, if any, dredging is required at the new site. Deep water is relatively close to shore.

The scheme is self-financing at no direct cost to Government. It relocates trucking of cargo and aggregate from the centre of George Town and allows for continued expansion in the future. It contributes to the Bodden Town by-pass completion. It will diversify the economy redistributing an important industry sector to the eastern districts. This will allow the George Town dock to develop into a first class cruise ship facility. It enables the relocation however near, whether it is medium or long term, of the gasoline and diesel storage tanks from their existing environmentally sensitive residential areas in George Town.

It is a major private sector investment in the economy, particularly during these slow times. In conjunction with that, an oil transfer operation can be developed at this new port facility. This will open up a new industry in these Islands and we will encourage such an operation. We believe this is the way to go; it is public and private sector partnership without Government having to come up with the money. We have agreed on this and now we will go to the public. I hope to meet with one group here in George Town before the New Year. We had to talk with the representatives for the eastern districts but I believe that this can work and what we need is to plan for the long term. Certainly, in the short to medium term, it will help drive the economy to a better position than it is today. People now unemployed will get work again.

As we said in the Budget Address, we are setting up the Cayman Islands Investment and Development Authority (CIDA) to create a focused and specific group which has a mandate to identify specific sectors where we have or can create a competitive advantage. The Authority will seek out leading companies in those fields to attract them to come to the Cayman Islands. Madam Speaker, the main objectives for the Cayman Islands Investment and Development Authority are:

To encourage inward and foreign investment and local investment opportunities.

To serve as a one-stop agency for developers and investors to coordinate and streamline the processing of Government applications for inward foreign investment and development.

To distribute the collateral material and information prepared by a marketing and promotions team.

To review and submit applications for consideration by Executive Council.

The CIDA structure would operate on two primary levels; policy and administrative. A board would help the Government to develop policy and would comprise Government and private sector representatives. The administration would be responsible for the day-to-day operations of the Authority and would serve as the public face of CIDA. The administration would also ensure the expeditious internal processing and review of applications.

Madam Speaker, I know that you would want to hear about Cayman Brac. I would say to you that in all of this Cayman Brac will be well represented. We are not going to forget any district. As you know, I have always had a close affinity with the people in Cayman Brac and I will do all in my power . . . and I know the Government never slouches on any matter for Cayman Brac. That is where we stand as a party.

We must expand the service we provide to the country. This Authority is to assist with facilitating foreign investment and helping local investment, overseas and locally of course, for the benefit of these Islands. We have talked to the Honourable Financial Secretary about absorbing the current resources of the financial services marketing and promotion unit into the new Investment and Development Authority.

Madam Speaker, one of the problems we have in this country is the absence of consistency in the marketing done by various government and private sector entities. This leads to a dilution of the Cayman Islands' brand. The establishment of this Authority will advance Grand Cayman and provide efficient one-stop shopping for potential local or foreign investors.

We talk about the New Millennium; well, let us come into it. We need to create opportunity for wealth to come here. Madam Speaker, this country, our people, these legislators, have to welcome the people who, for example, can bring their large yacht to Cayman or who can come on their private plane. We want to welcome them to come and buy a home in the Cayman Islands and to make it their home. These are the kinds of clients that the Cayman Islands want and need. These are the people who will go to the supermarket, drug stores, gas stations, and good restaurants. These are the people who will form a company and invest in new training for their staff. These are people who will build new homes and other buildings or renovate their older ones. These clients will buy our goods and services and hire our people and put our people to work.

Madam Speaker, this is creating wealth. This is the kind of environment that will stop any future administration or government from having to increase fees as we have been forced to do. This will prevent them from having to put in place income tax and property tax. Creating wealth will provide us with balanced budgets and healthy surpluses. This is what we need to do. The question is how do we get these people here? How do we encourage them when people are going to write nasty letters in the media and accuse every politician of wanting something for themselves?

Madam Speaker, when are we going to change? I can also direct that to politicians who are making these kinds of accusations. When are we going to learn that we have to grow up and look beyond what somebody else might get out of a business? If that business can be good for one and all, why not allow it to thrive and blossom and bear fruit? Attitudes need to change.

Madam Speaker, for larger yachts to come we need to clear the channel in the North Sound and give those craft the opportunity to come into a safe harbour. In order to develop those areas we also need to clear the bureaucratic channels so that registration for yachts here in the Cayman Islands is simple and straightforward. We are committed to doing this in all areas where it will help our economy to grow. We have to do this and this House should agree without complaining, accusing, and finding fault.

We will always have to protect our environment and the North Sound is one that we will always protect. That is why we are developing strategies within my Ministry for proper growth management and this will work in conjunction with the Department of Environment—it will work, Madam Speaker, through Vision 2008. It will work with the human resources arm in the country, the legal arm, and it will work with the financial sector. That is how growth management is determined.

Due to the lack of industries which provide Government with revenues . . . instead of sitting on the Opposition bench and criticizing and finding fault, we in the Cayman Islands should encourage our people to make more sacrifices in order to create wealth and maintain the lifestyle that we all enjoy. This includes all Members of the House who enjoy their salaries, including the Opposition Members. Madam Speaker, how are we going to pay for the kinds of schools, roads and the health services we enjoy, and the security that ensures we can sleep at night without worrying? The above suggestions are how we pay for the police and fire service.

Madam Speaker, we have to have money in the Treasury for all of these services. Where does this money come from? On taking over the Government we could have introduced income tax and property tax but the United Democratic Party decided to adopt a different route because we are against those kinds of taxes. We decided that if we adopted those kinds of taxes, it would create an environment that would destroy the economy of these beautiful Islands. I know that the budget team has come under fire. While the Second Elected Member from George Town said on 17 December that he is the only one (or words to that effect) who really understands the financial industry, he has a long way to go to get the kind of experience which is on this side of the House

To stimulate the economy as I have been talking about we need to address issues that relate to air traffic. We need to lengthen our runway to welcome the larger jets, increase our availability to the marketplace and establish other markets for our product.

We also need to address our attitudes; whether people arrive on a jumbo jet or on private planes, we must welcome them. Customs must be a welcoming home not an interrogation process. We must treat our arrivals as honoured guests, not refugees. The first and last impression that we provide to our clients has to be a good one and it will continue to be a good one under this administration. Attitudes have to change for the better.

I hear the Member from East End grumbling, but he has had his say and if he has an intelligent question [he can] pass me a piece of paper and he will get an intelligent answer. The creation of this Budget has not been an easy task for the United Democratic Party. We must realise that we are currently experiencing a worldwide economic downturn; a reduction in tourism arrivals and the general uneasiness of consumers.

As a Government, this is potentially one of our most difficult times. How do we continue to provide the public goods and social programmes when the traditional revenue-generating strategies of previous governments have not worked as planned? We all know, Madam Speaker, regardless of what side of the political spectrum we come from, which government we have been in, who we like or do not like, we all know, as Elected Members, that the path we have trodden over the past several years since the late '80s has been one that would bring us to this day because there has been no real generation of income into this country. Instead of being a welcoming people who can bring income, we deride others, we accuse them, we accuse politicians, we accuse everybody and nobody is the better off for it.

Madam Speaker, I wish some of the decisions taken to create the recent Budget were not necessary but, unfortunately, that is not the case. We had to make some difficult decisions. However, it is during these difficult times when, as the Leader, an Executive Council, and Ministers in Government, we must make hard, unpopular decisions to ensure that this country remains successful. That is what good leaders do! We all enjoy the benefits of living in such a wonderful country. We have a quality of life that is unsurpassed by [but a] very few countries. In order to maintain this way of life we all enjoy, we all have to do our part to maintain it—from the fishermen in East End and West Bay, to the managers of the financial and legal firms. We have all benefited from the environment that has made these Islands so successful and, therefore, we must contribute to ensure that it continues.

I do not want anyone to look at this Budget as a strategy by the Government to target any particular group. This Budget should not be labeled as a battle between them and us. We must not take this issue and make it into a political statement to raise people's emotions. Let emotions be raised in love and hard work. We have to instill confidence instead of despair and rhetoric. It will not benefit the country if we continue to use scare tactics to create loyalty. We are stakeholders. I challenge everyone to work together to allow us, as the Government, to get through this very difficult time. While I am mentioning this, I must say that the Opposition must allow us to get our business done in the House. They do not have to raise every frivolous point of order when something has to be suspended, Madam Speaker.

After meetings with the private sector over the weekend to discuss the Budget and hearing their concerns, some amendments were made to the Budget. I certainly felt that the meetings were productive and clearly demonstrated the benefit of having these open and frank discussions. Some of the individuals representing the private sector also said that they clearly understand the difficult position the Government is facing and that we must work together to ensure that we remain successful as a country.

Madam Speaker, it cannot be overstated that it is evident the Government must continue to implement strategies to improve the efficiency and the provision of services and, therefore, costs. In this Budget we have made some significant steps to reduce our recurrent expenditure. As a result of new cost-cutting measures we have reduced recurrent expenditure by over 2 percent from the 2001 Budget. This is a significant achievement if we consider that between 1999 and 2001 Government's recurrent expenditure grew by 18 percent.

This reduction was achieved by implementing the following measures: no funding of civil service vacancies was allowed in this Budget (except when the recruitment process was underway); no civil service cost of living adjustments were allowed; no civil service increments or merit increases were allowed; no creation of new civil service posts was allowed; no filling of civil service vacant posts (a system will be implemented to ensure compliance); a reduction of grants, waivers, and reimbursements provided by Government to the various not-for-profit associations; no new public services that require additional expenditure were allowed. So, we can say that there were efficiencies and attempts made to streamline.

[Inaudible comment]

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, some of the measures taken will affect civil servants. As I said no civil service increments or merit increases were allowed. Who does anyone believe this is hurting if it is not civil servants? No civil service cost of living adjustments were allowed—who is this hurting, if not our people? I recall the Second Elected Member from George Town saying that these measures were started prior to 8 November. I have not heard what the Opposition was going to offer to balance their Budget. Were they going to introduce property or income tax? I have not heard anything about the Opposition's strategy for balancing the Budget. Were they going to get more loans to balance the Budget?

The Council of Associations this year told us they were not going to support any more large borrowing from Government. I can say this, that one of the discussions that I held with Baroness Amos also said that they were not going to support anymore $55 million or $60 million loans. So where was the money going to come from? Why did not the Opposition raise that point?

I believe they are saying they still have somebody to come. Well, I hope I hear how they were going to balance the Budget, because we also have other people that will come.

The fact is that the Opposition must have their say in a democracy, but they must offer solutions and alternatives if they are going to be the credible Opposition they claim to be. Where are the solutions? Where is the difference between them and us as a Government in this Budget? Where? They have offered none!

Madam Speaker, the Second Elected Member for George Town must understand that deriding people and criticizing people, while it might make him feel good, does not offer solutions to our problems and the Opposition has not offered any single solution to the problems we face—not one!

The above measures have reduced personal emoluments spending by 5 percent. Considering between 1999 and 2001 personal emoluments expenditure increased by over 65 percent to $152 million dollars in 2001, this is a major development.

The United Democratic Party will continue to develop and enact cost-cutting measures and will be attempting to make the civil service more efficient without affecting the quality of service that it is providing. The Government's objective is also to privatise as many services that are considered appropriate and safe.

Madam Speaker, we did take some action after the discussions with the Chamber and the Council of Associations. The fee levels and bands for law firms for the new licence charged under the Trade and Business License Law have been brought in line with the accounting firms. To minimise the impact of the fee increases to those most affected, the Government is prepared to offer a payment plan for the increase portion of the fees to be paid quarterly in advance. This was one of the suggestions coming out of the Council of Association's meeting with us. They made these—

[Inaudible comment]

The Speaker: Honourable Member for East End do you have a point of order?

[Inaudible response]

The Speaker: Then I would ask that you and all other Honourable Members please adhere to Standing Order 39(c) and (d).

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, thank you.

These revisions will affect the Government's cash flow somewhat and also reduce the total amount collected. However, the Government is prepared to make the necessary cuts in expenditure to compensate if that is what it takes. This will then preserve the balanced Budget.

There is a popular belief that if Government's recurrent expenditures were reduced even further there would be no need to propose the current level of measures in the 2002 Budget. Government believes that much of the objection to the proposed revenue measures arises from a belief that not enough has been done to reduce recurrent expenditures. This is not the case. I would like to enlighten the House that much has been done to reduce the level of recurrent expenditure shown in the draft 2002 Budget.

There are also plans in 2002 to keep a tighter control of expenditure. The Government is not just content with the above major achievements but other initiatives will be put in place in 2002. A manpower procedure will be established to ensure that all posts are properly justified.

The implementation of the United Kingdom Civil Service College Review by the Cayman Islands civil service will involve, among other things, the setting up of an internal consultancy unit to assist managers to become more effective and efficient. Also, in conjunction with private sector efficiency scrutiny will be conducted on certain agencies of Government. Also the implementation of a bond issue in the first quarter of 2002 will significantly reduce the cost of our debt servicing and, therefore, we will gain some efficiencies there.

Madam Speaker, while there has only been a small reduction in the budgeted figures for other operating and maintenance expenses over 2001, this involved a combination of reductions and additions. There is a reduction of two in the advertising costs; there are additions of $0.9 million to cover money laundering prosecutions and $0.64 million for the running of the juvenile services. Similarly, there has been a small reduction of $100,000 in budgeted figures for grants, contribution and subsidies. Again this is a combination of reductions and additions. However, overseas medical increased by $2.4 million, scholarships have increased by over a half million dollars and a grant of $0.9 million has been included to set up the ICT (Information, Communications and Technology) Authority. The 2002 budgeted figure for insurance costs show a reduction of $2.3 million when compared to the 2001 approved Budget. This results from the Government's decision to embark on self-funded health insurance scheme.

In summary, the Government has reduced its recurrent expenditures in 2002 as compared to 2001 and will continue to do whatever is possible to keep expenditure at a very reasonable level. The 2002 revenue measures of approximately $55 million arises because of two factors, namely, that the public (and including the private sector) has come to expect a certain quality of life in these Islands which necessitates a certain level of expenditure by the Government on essential services; the Government is committed to its obligation under the Public Management and Finance Law 2001, which requires it to act in a fiscally responsible manner. Therefore, it is not prepared to increase the debt burden to cover recurrent expenditure as was done before.

Madam Speaker, in this Budget exercise thus far, our Opposition has not offered any contribution that could make this position better. Three persons have thus far spoken from the Opposition, including the former leader of Government Business, and (I guess his second in command) the Member from East End. They have not offered one single improvement on the Budget—not one! And this House and the country should take note. There has been no credible solution offered [by] them and if they were still the government nobody would know what they would have done.

Madam Speaker, I am turning now to the Department of Tourism.

The Speaker: Honourable Leader would you wish to take the morning break or continue with you debate?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: We shall suspend for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.24 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 11.56 AM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are now resumed.

I call on the Honourable Minister for Community Affairs to make his statement.

STATEMENT BY MEMBERS/MINISTERS OF GOVERNMENT

CAYMAN ISLANDS MARINE INSTITUTUE

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker and Honourable Members of the Legislative Assembly, I would like to make a statement on the recent developments on the Cayman Islands Marine Institute (CIMI). As Honourable Ministers and Members are aware the Associated Marine Institute (AMI) which is based in Tampa, Florida, manages Cayman Islands Marine Institute. It is a basic behavioural modification programme. The average annual cost of CIMI is $1,336,416 of which 15 percent of this total $2,000,462 goes to AMI. The programme was set to cater to 30 clients. At no time did the Government intend to leave the youth at Cayman Islands Marine Institute without a facility and programme, nor the staff of CIMI without jobs or job security.

The Government's position was and still is that there was dissatisfaction with the manner in which the contract between Government and AMI was carried out. It did not provide these Islands with the acceptable results in youth rehabilitation or appropriate programmes for youth behavioral reform.

There was no evidence supporting the fulfillment of aspects of the contract which were: increasing each student's academic level by 2 grade levels, counselling students 50 hours per week and 70 percent successful termination by favourable graduation. For the 68 students attending CIMI over a four-year period only 14 graduated from the programme. Following discussions with representatives from Associated Marine Institute (AMI) the Ministry of Community Services, Women's Affairs, Youth & Sports is currently negotiating the extension of the contract. In this regard the Ministry invited AMI to submit a proposal for both a number of short-term initiatives and a long-term strategy for CIMI's future.

The short-term proposals should include revised codes of conduct for both staff and students, the introduction of additional vocational subjects into the school's curriculum and a clear and straightforward system of disciplined specifying rewards and consequences.

The long term strategy should embrace multi-agency coordination and cooperation in addressing the problems of youth anti-social behaviour within departments such as Social Services, Alternative Education, CIMI, Youth and Sports Department, Justices of the Peace Association, Her Majesty's prisons and Royal Cayman Islands Police. These agencies will be combined to create an integrated, locally formulated system of youth behavioural modification and reform. We are concerned with the sustainability of our youth programmes and in obtaining value for money

To achieve this we must exercise flexibility and apply social science concepts along with common sense and a sense of rational self-interest. Additionally, we are also prepared to work with AMI but not under the previous terms and conditions, nor with a view to attaining the same results. Our children are our future and we must spare no effort in doing our best for them. If this means that we engage in hard negotiations with our service providers then so be it.

With reference to recent media reports on how these initiatives impact the pro-social proposals for the national football team, let me state unequivocally that we are not giving CIFA (Cayman Islands Football Association) any money directly. This will be done through performance contracts between team members and the Department of Youth and Sports that will ensure that the contracts are being complied with. I want to clarify that this proposal is designed to compliment future initiatives. I also want to make it abundantly clear that these initiatives are not a mutually exclusive proposition wherein we either reorganise CIMI or provide our youth with pro-social opportunities. In keeping with our multi-faceted approach to problem-solving we must do this and more. For anyone to suggest otherwise is a false dichotomy, an argument with no substance.

The Ministry for which I hold responsibility has received a programme improvement plan from AMI yesterday, 18 December and is now in the process of reviewing this proposal. The major components of their proposed plans are as follows:

1. Enrolment – this entails working more closely with the Department of Social Services and Courts on increasing enrolment and screening potential clients for appropriate referrals to CIMI.
2. Drug/alcohol treatment – CIMI is proposing to identify and assist with treatment those students who are involved with drugs.
3. Family inclusion initiatives – CIMI will implement a parent involvement plan that provides parents with support and helps them become a part of the programme. Additionally, CIMI will also facilitate training programmes for parents through in-house and outside resources; organized quarterly family nights, as well as implementing family dynamics' training for staff.
4. Safety and supervision – this aspect of CIMI's proposal will put in place more rigid safety and supervision procedures for students.
5. Facility upkeep – this part of CIMI's proposals entails developing the facility maintenance programme that will involve the students in order to instill a sense of ownership in them. It will also be aimed at making the facility more secure and conducive to their mission with the assistance of the Director of Prisons.
6. Staff training and development – CIMI will implement an annual training plan for all staff. Part of this training will entail drug awareness, prevention and attempt to make the staff connect more with the youth and families they are trying to assist.
7. Faith initiatives – CIMI will work closer with Ministers and representatives of local churches to determine ways how churches can be more involved with the youth at CIMI.
8. Inter-agency collaboration – CIMI staff will participate in a strategic planning meeting in order to contribute to the proposed programme improvement plan and the goals of the institute for 2002. Additionally with the assistance of the Ministry for which I hold responsibility and the Department of Social Services, a committee of a cross section of youth agencies will be formed for the purpose of collaboration and information sharing.

While the recent reorganisation undertaken by AMI is welcome and has taken positive steps to address the inadequacies of the operations, government asserts and AMI acknowledges that more is needed to provide value for money expended on these operations. Following this new proposal by AMI the Ministry intends to submit a paper to Executive Council to renew the contract with AMI for an initial six months period and, if the performance is satisfactory, it is proposed to extend the programme for another six months. The main purpose of the revised contract is to address the drug problem of the students. Replace behaviour and reaction with self-awareness and self discipline, coping skills and sound academic performance. I hope that this clarifies my position and commitment to the programme offered to our young people at CIMI and gives a better understanding on the reasoning behind the Government's decision on the contract renewal with CIMI.

Madam Speaker, I thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister. Continuation of debate by the Leader of Government Business.

THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL, 2001

DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, the creation of the Cayman Islands Development Bank has afforded the sum of over $5 million from Caribbean Development Bank, which has now approved the loan for housing and a sum for small business development. This would not have been done if we did not create the Bank. The Bank is not involved with in retail business and the next time that the Second Elected Member for George Town raises that I am going to let the manager talk to him.

While I talk at some length about creating wealth and allowing good, legal, foreign investors and investments to come here, we are including in the new initiative support for our small local business.

Madam Speaker, before I move on I want to alert the House and yourself that we intend to work until 6 o'clock this afternoon. So, all Members should take note. I am turning now to the Department of Tourism.

In terms of the role of the Department of Tourism, Madam Speaker, it is the National Tourism Organisation that seeks to optimise the benefits of sustainable tourism for the people of the Cayman Islands, through effective management of the industry and its public sector resources. The strategic objectives are all placed in the Budget and Members and the public can easily find them there. I think there are eight such objectives.

Since I took over responsibility for Tourism I have challenged the Department of Tourism to critically assess the organisation of its systems and its performance. Madam Speaker, a study was done some time ago (as far back as 1998), but adherence to that report was not taken. When Members question the various happenings, and after they have seen the strides and efficiencies made by the department, they should really think before they question why certain people are not there. The Financial Secretary and the country will be pleased to note that over the past year the Department of Tourism has been revisiting and renewing the existing systems that work, reforming those that do not work and, where necessary introducing new systems and procedures.

No doubt the past year was a difficult one for the Department of Tourism and for the wider tourism industry. We have had many challenges, setbacks and tense moments. In light of the global travel industry, the current financial position of the Cayman Islands Government and the expectations of the Department of Tourism to in some cases lead and manage and in other cases to support the local tourism industry, the urgent need for real change in the tourism public sector was obvious. We had to change to meet the challenges—change or die a natural death.

There were many challenges and, consequently, many changes, many of which were straightforward and only made common sense. Yet for years, the people before me refused to fix the problems and allowed the country to waste thousands of dollars while our tourism industry suffered. This goes from the previous Minister to the previous Director. When we look at the returns from the Argentina market, we realise that despite the best efforts of the representation company, S&S Representations, the economic and airlift issues prevented a real breakthrough in the Argentina market. In November 2001 the decision was made to discontinue the department's formal contractual agreement with the representation company in order to achieve the budget targets and redirect the funds to markets with greater returns for our destination. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the people of S&S Representation who worked very hard to support the destination.

The European market, Madam Speaker, is a market which I believe has good potential for the Cayman Islands and one which will be given a fair chance to produce for the Cayman Islands. However, this was yet another area of the department's operation that needed reform in light of systems that were not working and the introduction of systems necessary to move the provision of the Cayman Islands tourism promotion to the European markets. The restructuring of the European operation of the Department of Tourism resulted from an assessment by the regional manager for the United Kingdom and Europe.

Madam Speaker and Members, historically the DoT's European region of representation has been expanded to include on-the-ground marketing representatives in each of four countries, namely Germany, France, Italy and Spain, costing the Government close to US $1 million per annum for the representation and marketing activities. Yet, over the years, there were insignificant visitor arrivals coming from continental Europe to warrant such coverage and neither was there sufficient airlift in place to grow the business. Several of these representatives, had responsibilities for areas that did not conform to their preference. For instance, the representative office in Paris was responsible for Scandinavian countries when it is generally accepted that these countries prefer dealing directly with the United Kingdom in English language. There were four continental European offices and, based on revised 2000 arrival numbers, these offices covered markets producing 5,221 visitors. Cost of operations in these four representative offices was well near up to $700,000 for the year 2000.

Madam Speaker, the restructuring plan for continental Europe saw the department discontinue the paid representation services in three countries: Spain, Italy and France and a significantly reduced expenditure in Germany. Revised structure includes recruitment of one additional department staff member who will be a specialist in tourism sales and marketing and fluent with several foreign languages. This person will be accommodated within the existing London office infrastructure. The initial savings resulting from the European restructuring and consolidation is approximately well over $275,000 in 2002.

In terms of the effectiveness of new structure, there is no doubt that by having local representatives in place we could offer a higher degree of service. However, the real test is whether there was sufficient demand for such a high level of service and the visitor arrival figures clearly show that there was not. We were over servicing a limited market. Added to that, the changing market conditions and travel industry trends, the revised structure, where there was only an office to manage instead of five, clearly makes more fiscal sense.

In the United Kingdom, like other DoT operations, there were long-standing contractual relationship with agencies which had not been reviewed in many years. Therefore, in keeping with good business practice started in the United States, there will be a formal review of all agencies currently engaged in advertising and public relations communications by the department in London. The review process for the United Kingdom advertising agency has already commenced and the public relations agency will be reviewed towards the end of 2002.

Currently, Madam Speaker, the department and Ministry are evaluating the second phase of European restructuring to pursue further opportunities for increased efficiencies and increased integration in the market of the Cayman Islands from the London based DoT operations. I expect that, over the next few weeks, the final recommendations will be submitted and I look forward to updating the Members of the Legislative Assembly and the general public early in the New Year.

Turning now, Madam Speaker, to the United States restructuring for which I and the United States Director of Sales and Marketing have got much criticism. This office of the Department of Tourism in the United States is responsible for coordinating and implementing the marketing and public relations strategy of the Cayman Islands in the largest and most important market to the local tourism industry. Over the past three to five years the Cayman Islands has lost its premier position in the competitive set for warm weather vacation destinations.

Although not a marketing expert, I believe that was largely the result of ineffective marketing. The most obvious evidence of this was the declining consumer and trade awareness and declining visitor arrivals from the United States. There was no United States marketing strategy, only a series of ad hoc and tactical initiatives. The recommendations submitted by the United States Director and approved by the Ministry and the Executive Council would develop on the premise to carry out the primary business of the Government. That is, the marketing and public relations, the United States Department of Tourism must at a minimum, be restructured, resourced and managed in strategic alignment with its business purpose.

The restructuring plan addresses four main areas in its first phase: 1) size or work force; 2) lease arrangement and lease expense in Miami; 3) strategic location of the head office; and 4) contracted agencies. Madam Speaker, the changes will generate annual savings in recurrent expenditure starting at about US$900,000 to a million dollars which can then be redirected to the marketing efforts of the department. In January 2001, as the newly appointed Minister for Tourism, I recognised the need for change. A new director for United States marketing and sales was recruited in February 2001 to lead the business operations turn around and steer the development of a strategic marketing plan to reposition the Cayman Islands as the premier market leader in its category.

After a preliminary assessment of the organisation it became very clear indeed that the development and implementation of the new marketing strategy was predicated on addressing three fundamental areas: 1) organisation structure and human resources; 2) cost structure; and 3) quality and competence of external marketing agencies. The organisation as we found it was not structured, staffed or equipped with the operational systems to achieve the necessary results for the Cayman Islands.

The inadequacies of the United States' operations, particularly in its staffing structure and its financial systems, were obstacles for the success of the business operations. It operated in a divergent manner from the country's needs and expectations of the United States Department of Tourism. The declining visitor arrivals, severe budget cuts and the new Ministry's expectation for the United States operation, a new business plan and marketing strategy are being developed. Many systems were outdated by operating in manual labour-intensive ways and failing to produce the efficiencies that the current business environment demands and the current Government Budget dictates, particularly after 11 September.

In an already declining market, the events of 11 September caused most organisations to review business plans and, in many cases, change the business focus. As a result of this, organisational structures had to be reviewed to ensure that the human resources were closely aligned with the business objectives. The Cayman Islands Department of Tourism in the United States was no different than similar tourism related organisations within the United States. That is, organisations operating for foreign governments, carriers or groups are going through similar processes and reviews and some for instance have already downsized or closed United States operations. I believe Curaçao has made that step.

Some alternatives, Madam Speaker, that were considered included instituting a hiring freeze. However, this would only worsen the situation as the only positions being recruited for were those involving core skills that were already lacking or missing entirely within the organisation. Downsizing by attrition was impractical due to the relatively low turnover rate.

As a result, it was determined that the only practical alternative would be to downsize the United States organisation and restructure it in such a way that it would better meet the needs and expected service outputs on behalf of the Government and industry in these Islands. The aim was to restructure the US Department of Tourism in such a way that downsizing is affected and yet the organisation would become better equipped with the skills and necessary experience to better accomplish its goals. The initial proposal was to move from a work force of 48 to 35 persons.

The majority of the downsizing is to be accomplished through the closure of the Cayman Islands reservation office and the Los Angeles office. The national office formerly called the Miami administration will be established in New York. Many issues addressed by the restructuring were raised time and time again in various internal and external audits of the department. Yet corrective action and the fundamental issues of value for money, strategy organisational structure and managerial accountability for results were really not addressed. Yet Members say, why change? Do not get me wrong, the responses written on minor procedures were changed but the department continued to spend money in markets or units that did not make an adequate return for the Government's investments.

The restructuring of the United States Department of Tourism is now underway. Some of the organisational and marketing agency issues have been addressed and the United States Director is in the final stages of putting together the best possible team of the Department of Tourism staff and contracted agencies to reestablish the Cayman Islands in the United States

Madam Speaker, it was a mess, a complete mess from the Ministry to the Department . . . and Members ask, why change? Change is obvious. On a matter of the lease expenses, the Department of Tourism and Cayman Airways Limited share of 15,376 square feet of corporate space at 6100 Blue Lagoon Drive in the Waterford Business Complex of Miami, Florida. Cayman Airways use of the space includes a telephone reservation centre for up to 24 agents, a ticket office for three agents, currently unoccupied space previously used for Cayman Airways holidays cooperate head offices in the United States and the offices of the airline's United States marketing and sales unit.

The Department of Tourism's use of the space is twofold: the national office including the Cayman Islands reservation service and the Miami based regional sales office for the ten states of the south eastern United States. The combined space costs approximately $37,650 per month of which the United States Department of Tourism portion amounts to $15,060.

The goal, Madam Speaker, was to reduce the United States Department of Tourism's total expenditure on real estate leases by reducing square footage and/or relocating the less costly addresses while maintaining the image of the Cayman Islands. The United States based firm of Ernst & Young was retained by the United States Department of Tourism to conduct a real estate analysis and make recommendations to the Government regarding its options. Essentially, the findings of the Ernst & Young assessment were that:

- 1) Current lease rates at Blue Lagoon were significantly above current market rates for similar places in the same complex.
- 2) There is a cancellation option in the existing agreement which allows the Cayman Islands Government to get out of the current lease prior to the end of the lease in 2004.
- 3) The penalty for getting out of the Blue Lagoon lease was approximately $180,000 compared to the United States $1 million NPV of the cash flows if Cayman Islands Government was to remain for the duration of the lease; and

- 4) The relocation of the United States department's national office to New York. The Government could realise $18,785 per month in recurrent savings with 2001 as the base year including the one time cancellation cost of the Blue Lagoon space and the one time setting up cost of establishing a new office.

The rationale for moving the head office to New York is twofold: one is as purely a department of tourism and the other is the longer term plans for the wider Cayman Islands Government.

The northeast, Madam Speaker, particularly the tri-state area, remains the largest and most important source market for our destination. The business strategy of the Department of Tourism and Ministry has determined that the corporate head office and the head of marketing sales should be situated in the most important market rather than that be delegated to a middle manager; while the United States Director of Marketing and Sales is removed and based in Florida purely for proximity to the Cayman Islands.

Most of the national and strategic level marketing partnerships for the Cayman Islands US marketing strategy are also centered in New York. These are media, airlines, external marketing agencies, trade partners, and wholesalers and tour operators. Madam Speaker, if the United States Department of Tourism could only have one location in the United States, the most important geographical location in which to have a physical presence would be the northeast.

Secondly, over the past year there has been discussion on plans towards integrating Cayman Islands marketing overseas under the working committee made up of Ms. Jennifer Dilbert, Debra Drummond, Christopher Rose and Pilar Bush and facilitated by Harris McCoy. The integration and consolidation the Cayman Islands Government's Overseas Offices was presented to and approved in principle by a special meeting of Executive Council and the private sector consultative committee.

It is the long-term view of the Government to, as far as possible, coordinate its marketing public relations promotions and representation services in one location in each country it has offices, that is, in the United Kingdom and the United States.

In the United Kingdom everything has historically been situated in London, that is, the office of the Government, shipping, registry, financial services and DoT. The move now is to consolidate these in one location with a similar long-term view of the Cayman Islands Government's United States operation. The strategic location must be in New York to reflect the financial services. These offices would have become the Cayman Islands tourism and investment offices.

We have agreed that it will no longer be called just the Cayman Islands Tourism Offices, but the Cayman Islands Tourism and Investment Offices, and would provide a one-stop for information on tourism, commerce and investment in the Cayman Islands. I believe, Madam Speaker, that that should be done in the United Kingdom and the United States and even one person in the United Kingdom. The person would look after the Cayman Islands Government and do all that there. I believe we do have the right person, who is the Government's current representative. I am going to make that proposal to government.

The success of the DoT's US marketing strategy will be measured primarily by: 1) the increase in the number of visitor arrivals from identified target markets and the associated positive economic impact of the visitor arrivals; 2) the average spend of visitors while in the Cayman Islands from the diversity of accommodations activities and attractions that visitors choose to avail themselves of while on our shores and 3) the perception of the Cayman Islands with key trade media and consumer groups as measured by objective research.

Madam Speaker, it is no secret that the success of many local businesses in the tourism industry is contingent, in large part, upon the effectiveness of the DoT in the United States market. Through the multiplier effect a large part of the Cayman Islands economy is dependent upon the effectiveness of the US Department of Tourism.

In 2002, the US will begin phase two of its restructuring which involves: 1) brand repositioning development and implementation of the marketing strategy; 2) rebuilding internal marketing teams in New York; 3) implementation of new financial systems; 4) consolidation of United States Department of Tourism operation from New York head and 5) further reduction in the work force.

Some are going to holler about this again, but I do not care how often they get up on the talk show and lambaste me or lambaste the Director for US operations. I believe that what we are doing is safe and sound for the Cayman Islands. If one or two people had to find another job, well, that is unfortunate. However, that is the position and we did our endeavour best to help those persons and prepare them for the wider marketplace.

Madam Speaker, the department has just completed an extensive search and selection process for a new creative agency. The department gave the old agency, O' Leary, Clark and Partners, notice earlier this year and sent out a request for a proposal, which outlined what the Cayman Islands Government was looking for. What we were looking for, unfortunately, was not forthcoming from the previous agency. The Government received 67 responses and systematically evaluated these and short-listed ten agencies. The department, using a system of interviews, capabilities presentations and objective assessments narrowed this down further to five agencies. These five agencies were then given an assignment and a combined private and public sector panel made the final selection.

On Friday, the 14 December the central tenders committee approved the department's recommendation and today the agency named the Lord Group ( Lord as in Lord) was on the Island to make a presentation to the private sector on the 2002 summer programme called 'Cayman Islands H2go'.

Madam Speaker, I would also like to take this opportunity to address some remarks made by the Second Elected Member for George Town regarding the 2001 summer programme called 'Get Re-energized'. I would like to point out that this programme was initiated very early in 2001 under the leadership of the then director of Tourism and the then deputy director of Tourism. I relied on their advice and that also of the private sector in supporting the programme.

To call the programme a colossal failure is firstly not true. The Member does not have any figures to substantiate that but just a big word. It is rather insulting to the previous director of Tourism who only left office in August 2001 towards the end of the 'Get Re-energized' summer programme. The same Second Elected Member also suggested that a post-mortem should be conducted before embarking on any new programmes.

Madam Speaker, I think I have one of the best track records for open dialogue and performance review than any tourism Minister in recent history. I would like the House to know there was a post-mortem, as he called it, done on 'Get Re-energized'. It was done at Showcase 2001, a meeting of the wholesale travel trade held in Grand Cayman in August of this year put on by DoT and the Cayman Islands Tourism Association.

During Showcase 2001, the DoT and the Tourism Association organised a panel discussion with three of the leading wholesalers, that is, Go-Go Tours, Cayman Connection and Caradonna Tours. They gave us an assessment of the 'Get Re-energized' programme and our marketing in general. This assessment, led by the panel with involvement from the floor, was captured in a document and made available through the Department of Tourism and the Tourism Association to anyone who wanted it— including that Member if he was so interested. Moreover, the discussion on 'Get Re-energized' made front page news in the Caymanian Compass. I would have imagined that a supposedly highly educated, qualified lawyer would have been sure to do his research and establish the facts before he opened his case on this matter. Obviously, he cannot trust the source of his information.

For the record, the main shortcomings of 'Get Re-energized' (this year's summer programme) were: 1) The programme started too late; and 2), On Island suppliers, That is, hoteliers and restaurants made their offers too complicated, which made them not easy to sell nor easy for consumers to use. More importantly, Madam Speaker, I must stress the context in which 'Get Re-energized' was developed and, since they made such erroneous statements, they should listen to the information.

When I took office at the end of 2000 there was no marketing programmes in place to drive business in the summer and no plans to develop any. Early in the New Year (this year) it was obvious that something had to be done and 'Get Re-energized' was put together to make up for the complete absence of programmes. DoT and the private sector knew, from the time of the 'Get Re-energized' launch, that they were batting on a weak wicket because there was no preparation the year before and so the programme was coming to the market late. The Second Elected Member for George Town would have known this, Madam Speaker, because I spoke about it in the House at the time the programme was announced. Furthermore, the same Member said he understood where I was coming from but now that he is in Opposition he has a selective memory and is trying to create blame and lay it at our feet. I do not mind if he wants to lay blame but what he must do is get his information right.

Returning to the DoT and marketing of these Islands: I am not here for rhetoric Madam Speaker, I am here for results and I am pleased to say that just yesterday afternoon, the Department of Tourism and its United States agencies outlined the 2002 summer programme to the industry. This was not only months ahead of this year's timing, it was also well received and we are slated for a March launch of the summer programme which is in three month's time.

I can only say that these types of productivity gains and improvements and effectiveness are because I am proactive. The United States Director is proactive and now the department is becoming more so. This programme can only work if the private sector comes on board and they are right now evaluating what their offers will be for the summer programme.

One thing the DoT and the private sector both agree on is that the DoT must use the H2go programme to generate awareness of the Cayman Islands in the North American markets and build consumer demand. The reason, Madam Speaker, it is so important is because of the complete absence of effective marketing over the years and so the Cayman Islands has been off the consumer radar, so to speak.

Madam Speaker, the same Second Elected Member for George Town joined a few critics who had much to say about the Port Authority Board's decision regarding a quota put on two operators at the Port. From the Budget debate in March of this year (and this House will recall this because there are at least three pages in the Hansard where I dealt with it) I made it clear that I would do what I had to do to ensure a more even distribution of business and make certain that the small operators in this country have a chance to get business. Some of the same operators paid no attention to my various suggestions over the past year and they even laughed in my face. Warnings were issued to them and they were put on notice that some action would be taken (just as I did) to the FCCA (Florida Caribbean Cruise Association) over the past year on the matter. This just did not happen overnight as he tried to impute.

We are all for encouraging people to build up their business and make a profit and we will give them every opportunity to do that. If they thought I was a weak leader they would still be doing today what they have been doing for so many years, if I had not dared to put on that quota. While the situation was not a perfect one, it was not intended to be. It was intended to make a statement to them that they do not own the dock, the Government of the Cayman Islands owns the dock and I am directing the policy for the Port. I am the Chairman of the Port Authority.

While the situation is not perfect, Madam Speaker, they have now come to realise that what I have been saying made some sense and agreed on set rates on certain tours. This again shows leadership and a willingness to take smart risks. While the Second Elected Member for George Town gets up and expounds on how he is for the people, he obviously did not care enough about the small operators to even mention it in any of his debates. I know his modus operandi and I understand where he is coming from, but he is not going to mislead and get away with it.

Madam Speaker, I should say that the Second Elected Member from George Town somehow equated the 11 September tragedy with the reshuffle on 8 November by putting them in the same basket. I figured he would do something like that but I considered this to be the most insensitive comparison. One was a constitutional reshuffle; the other, callous murder of thousands of innocent humans. It shows the arrogance and the belief that power in the Government must reside where there is no support in the House. Madam Speaker, many people have brought that statement to my attention and I apologise to the country and say that United Democratic Party and the Executive Council disassociate themselves from those kinds of insensitive, irresponsible statements.

I apologise, but I do not know if anybody over there would do so, Madam Speaker. I just have about 5 minutes left in my debate. Now I do not know if you want to take the break or come back

The Speaker: Are you at a convenient point where you are about to commence with a new item?

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Yes.

The Speaker: If that is the case, I will suspend for the luncheon break and we shall return at 2.30 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.49 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.03 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Continuing the debate, the Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker. When we took the lunch break we were dealing with the cruise industry and the complaints that were made by the Second Elected Member from George Town. He also complained about the amount of tourist cruise visitors. Some time ago, they were complaining about no cruise visitors here; now they are complaining about too many. I doubt that I would be able to please them because it is very easy to complain and to criticize but hard when you have to actually manage a situation.

Madam Speaker, looking forward to the 2002 Budget, Members will note that the Department of Tourism's budget has been submitted at $18.6 million. The marketing and promotion aspects of the department have to be flexible as the dynamics of the industry can change quickly and force the department to reassess its plans. The tragic events of 11 September 2001 brought the global industry to a standstill in the days immediately afterwards and, since then, most pre-existing marketing plans were rendered invalid sending executives back to the planning table with no certainty in what the future trends will be.

While the 2002 Budget has been submitted for the head office and overseas offices, we may have to redirect funds within the marketing promotions and advertising components of the Budget as we get into the new year and the world travel trends start to stabilize after the volatile fourth quarter of 2001.

I note that the Second Elected Member for George Town—who criticized that this aspect of the Budget—mentioned about the $900,000 or $1 million, and he said that we were now embarking to spend a million dollars. It is obvious that he has just taken the attitude that he must criticize everything. It has not been well thought out because what we were saying in the Budget about the expenditure of money he was referring to was $900,000 or thereabouts; which we were spending after the 11 September tragedy to help boost things in the various cities and connections that offered direct traffic to these Islands. Again, the Second Elected Member from George Town was completely lost as to what we were doing and really did not take time to understand what was being said in the Budget but just offered constant criticism. He is a good taskmaster at criticizing.

Madam Speaker, I would also like to highlight that, starting with the 2002 Budget, I have asked the department to prepare the Budget to be more transparent than in previous years. While we have been able to bring some items out in the open, further transparency will ensue in future years when we can work with the Budget and Financial Management Unit on the actual names and descriptions of the accounts.

One example of my attempt to bring greater transparency to the department's budget is in the area of official travel. For the year 2001 the official travel budget was shown as $85,000. This is because it only reflected travel for administrative staff, that is, Director, Assistant Director of Finance and Administration and Information Technology Manager. There was a significantly greater travel budget but it was budgeted for under the marketing and public relations subheads and therefore not evident as official travel.

In 2002, it was decided that all official travel whether for administrative, marketing or public relations would be kept separate from the recurrent budget of core business activities in order to bring greater transparency.

Therefore, Madam Speaker, while 2002 official travel appears much greater than the $85,000 depicted in this year's 2001 Budget, in reality the 2002 official Budget is actually lower overall for official travel than 2001. In the 2002 Budget the department has been challenged to reduce waste, and reduce expenditure on overhead, administration and non-core business activities wherever possible. In some cases, these cuts were easy to identify. For example, for years in the Miami office the department rented the office plants and then paid someone to water them.

Another example is that the department used to pay someone to replace the stock in the first-aid kits. I mean that! With 23 people in office the department of Tourism in Miami literally paid someone to bring in the Band-Aids and aspirin to replenish the kit. It was several hundred dollars a year and, while not a huge sum of money, it shows the waste and poor judgment that existed in the department for years. Where was the accountability?

The Tourism industry has taken a beating over this year, and in several years past (as I should say), but I am confident because of the measures we have put in place that it will rebound and arrival figures will inch up. I note that the Second Elected Member [for George Town], who criticized us and this aspect of the Budget, said that tourism was up in the Bahamas, the Dominican Republic and in Aruba. These are three places that he named. Let me just say that Cayman does not cater to mass tourism; that is what is in the Dominican Republic and also in the Bahamas. While the Bahamas is well diversified, if I should say so, they have gambling, they have all sorts of other things we do not cater to. Therefore, I do not think it is suitable to compare Cayman and those two destinations.

What we do need is diversification in our product. I have said that, and I was prepared to take the criticism for trying to offer diversification when we said that the restaurants and entertainment should have longer hours. I have taken some beating on that but that is what we have to do. We are a tourist destination and for us to be competitive in what we offer even in, let us say, in places like Barbados, Bermuda and somewhat in the Bahamas, we need to diversify. And we are doing that.

The Throne Speech, Madam Speaker. I intend to lay further plans on the Table. In fact, we intend to look at how Pirates Week is made up and what the effect is and I have a taskforce now working on that. We will come in February, God willing, to lay the groundwork for putting in place festivals at two separate times, that is, one early in the year, such as April, and one later down in the year to draw visitors but also to have high energy festivals.

This will take some time, and there are other things that we will bring to enhance our product. It takes time and, as I said, we have taken a beating. But I believe that this year when we are down is the time that we need to take to do all these things; to review, to train, to make the necessary changes and to have the efficiencies. Therefore, when times get better Government and the country can actually be, hopefully, making more from tourism.

It has been a difficult year; one of many changes. Since the United States director was brought into the organisation there has been a lot of focus on restructuring the organisation, its systems and procedure, to better align the department with its business purpose. These changes have been put in place. We have changed to meet the challenges and the department is becoming more efficient, more effective and better able to deliver the results the Government and the industry requires of it.

One thing that I am proud of is that when I took over this, there were strange relations between the department and the industry and really there was hardly any contact. You cannot be a tourism destination if the arm doing the marketing does not talk to the people who provide the product, the room, the tours, the private sector. I received a letter recently from the CITA saying how good the relationship has been and how much improved it has been and the contact they now have. Questions can be answered through the kind of management style of the United States director.

Madam Speaker, Cayman Brac's tourism product is doing excellently and I commend all those over there who are managing—Mr. Moses Kirkconnell and that organization, the Cayman Brac and Little Cayman tourism group. They have done an excellent job providing their marketing and we have offered some assistance, but it is not something that is giving us a lot of problems. We find that tourists like to go to Little Cayman and Cayman Brac and there is much to offer. I believe that the management from our end is much easier when we have the two representatives, at least, talking to us, corresponding with us and showing an interest in what is taking place.

I will continue to offer my support to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman because there is a lot to be done with the product. This includes day tours, even from Grand Cayman to Cayman Brac and Little Cay-man. Recently, we went to the Florida Caribbean Cruise Association and the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac was there. I am sure, Madam Speaker, that you (the First Elected Member) heard about this and there is a better working relationship now and this is what we need. This is what Cayman Brac needs and this is what the product needs.

Madam Speaker, the Budget is difficult, we still have many problems to face. We have Cayman Airways. I made a well-rounded statement on the matter but it seems that some people are still talking nonsense about us selling out Cayman Airways. It is a real pity some people have to go on the radio and spread nonsense around like the gospel. Madam Speaker, who would we sell it to? Who would buy it? I wish that I could get somebody to come in and say, 'Here's $30 million or $60 million, $10 million or $15 million; we want to join partnership with you.' I would recommend that right away to Government. But I can tell you, as I told the staff at the staff meeting, there is nobody willing to put money into Cayman Airways except the Cayman Islands Government. That is why changes must take place at the national airline but nobody can say that we are doing an injustice. The injustice is being done by those persons calling on the radio and talking nonsense.

I believe this Budget is one which we can all live with, even with some difficulties in some areas. Madam Speaker, I know that it was said that on 8 November the two Members leaving at the time had left some $12 million which was the difference between recurrent expenditure and revenue but the truth is there was $96 million. The Member from North Side is saying that she did not see the Budget. Well, that is true. I did not see it either on 8 November when it was going to be produced. At that time I think it was set down for 14 November. That is one reason why some changes had to be made . . . and there was no $12 million difference, there was a gap of $93 million. So, when they get up and tell the world that they left such a glowing position they need to explain what they mean because the efficiency did not result at that time.

The Opposition, apart from one or two matters which they claim could help, has not offered any real alternative to the Budget. Madam Speaker, we must now all genuinely work together, not to complain about small matters in this House, such as when the House is going to adjourn, and when it is going to meet, but rather to understand and appreciate the complexity of the problem facing the country. As an alternative government, the Opposition needs to go out and help the people understand why we need the revenue. They understand the complexity of the problem. It is their duty to tell the people why we need it, why we got this far and where they would go forward from here.

Madam Speaker, in closing I would like to offer my sincere gratitude to the US Director, Ms. Pillar Bush, other DoT staff, the Senior Assistant . . . I have a new staff member, Ms. McField, a well-qualified and intelligent young lady, and my Permanent Secretary and other Ministry staff. It has been a difficult year and they have done their jobs as best they could considering the circumstances. I would like to offer sincere thanks to Members, Ministers of the United Democratic Party and to say that a good working relationship exists with our official colleagues of Executive Council. There is no derision from the United Democratic Party in their case.

Madam Speaker, I would like to thank, again, the Budget team for the excellent job they have done in such trying circumstances. As for me, I re-dedicate myself to the service of this land, of this colony, our people and our community.

Before I close, I want to put on record my sincere appreciation to the staff of the Turtle Farm for the valiant job when we experienced the damage during the passing of Hurricane Michelle. There was a tremendous outpouring of assistance by the general public, not just from West Bay, from foreign people who were just staying here as visitors at that time and other residents who came and assisted us that day. It is going to be a long haul for the Cayman Turtle Farm but we are up and running again, tours are beginning to move and there is now a redevelopment plan being prepared. We are going to move across the street and enhance our product down there. I want to thank everyone, Madam Speaker, who worked so hard to help to save whatever was possible that day at the Turtle Farm.

It is important that I say at this time we intend to propose that the House will close on Friday of this week. We will work until 6 o'clock tomorrow and on Friday of this week. Monday of next week is Christmas Eve. Tuesday is Christmas Day. We propose to resume on the 27th and the 28th.

Madam Speaker, thank you very much. I thank Members for their indulgence. I would just like to wish you and your family a very blessed Christmas. This is the season to be happy and it is an important time of the year when we forgive and we look at our lives. We ask ourselves what can we do better next time, we reassess and move forward. I certainly want to extend sincere holiday greetings to every Member in this House and to wish for everybody a very joyous Christmas and a very healthy and prosperous 2002. We look forward to working together for the betterment of these Islands. I certainly would like to wish all of my constituents and friends throughout these Islands a very blessed, prosperous Christmas and very happy New Year.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member from the district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, it is with great pleasure that I stand in this Honourable Legislative Assembly to debate my second Budget and to find myself debating it with you in the high position of Speaker of the Legislative Assembly. I join with the Leader of Government Business in congratulating you on adjusting and making a smooth transition from that of a vibrant Member of the Government (then a vibrant member of an Opposition), now to the dignified position of Speaker of the Legislative Assembly. You have made not only the Members of the Legislative Assembly proud, but you have certainly made the people of our districts of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman exceedingly proud to have another Cayman Bracker in this high position.

I would like to commence by assuring the good people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman that, as a result of the recent changes in the Legislative Assembly, including your position to Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman are now equally or better represented. You have certainly demonstrated to me over the past month and a half that even in your capacity of Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, your first priority is the people that you have been elected to represent.

You have demonstrated through the Budget process that you can objectively sit and rule in the Legislative Assembly. However, you made sure that throughout the Budget process your district was represented; you made sure that your input was represented and that your people received their fair share of the Cayman Islands' National Budget.

I commend you on carrying out that role as the First Elected Member of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I also add that the unique and close kinship that we have compounded over the past year goes beyond the premise of this Legislative Assembly. It is one that I hope and trust, and will give my commitment, will continue and grow and strengthen as we jointly work for the betterment of our people. With such a relationship the people of Cayman Brac can be assured that they will be getting optimum representation from what I termed during the campaign of 2000, from the 'dynamic duo' that represents Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Madam Speaker, I have quite a bit to cover in my contribution, but, in adhering to the United Democratic Party's policy of improving efficiency, I will ensure that we are not treading over the same grounds as my colleagues who ably detailed the Budget document. I give great recognition to the Second Elected Member from the district of West Bay, who was part of what has been now termed as the 'fiscal team' that worked in preparing this Budget.

I commend him on his deliberation on the first day of the debate. I think he did an excellent job in representing the United Democratic Party's view on the Budget.

[Applause]

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: I also commend the Leader of Government Business and the Leader of the United Democratic Party for his excellent, high quality presentation to this nation that will surely give hope and spirit to our people.

Madam Speaker, I have been here for just over one year which can be characterised as dynamic. In the space of one year I was part of the Government between November 8 of 2000 and November 10. I became a Member of the Opposition in November 15 of 2000. Now I find myself on the Backbench of the Government again. This is carrying out three different roles in the space of one year and that has matured me, politically. I can understand the role of an Opposition. I was over on that side forty days ago. While I [sat] in the chair of the Opposition, I attempted to give my best to the role of an Opposition. I tried to heighten and emphasise the importance of an Opposition and I do recognise the important role that the Members now play.

Madam Speaker, I read in an editorial in the Cayman Net News that the First Elected Member from George Town, and those with whom he is aligned, will be assuming the role as the 'watch dog.' Madam Speaker, it is important, and recent occurrences in this Parliament have shown that it is not only the Opposition that acts as the 'watch dog' but the Government Backbench itself is sometimes the greatest 'watch dog' of the Government. In this particular case, in this particular Government, the four Members who sit on the Floor of this Legislative Assembly, who represent the Government Backbench . . . I can assure the general public and everyone in this Legislative Assembly, including the Ministers that make up Executive Council, [they] are hungry and aggressive 'watch dogs.' They will be monitoring their activities on behalf of the people of these beloved Cayman Islands.

I say to the Opposition Members who have stated themselves as the 'watch dogs,' that we, 'malinois', on this side certainly welcome you 'poodles' to join us! Madam Speaker, that is just humour to lighten up the atmosphere around here and not intended to be insulting in any manner. I do, however, note that after the Government presented its case and its arguments the 'watch dogs' from the Opposition hesitated to bark and almost caused the Parliament to close down early. I am here on this side of the Government Backbench with no alliance to any of the Members of Executive Council. I am here because I truly wholeheartedly believe that the Members making up the United Democratic Party and the current Executive Council of the Cayman Islands, are those who are best fit to govern this country during this trying period.

Madam Speaker, I state that to clear my objectivity in this analysis of the Budget. I also wish to say that, following my analysis of the past Budget, many people, not only in our district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman but throughout the Cayman Islands, have come to me and told me they appreciated my analysis of the past Budget and will be looking for equal analysis of the Budget of 2002. So I take my responsibility seriously.

I thank the Second Elected Member from George Town when, in his contribution, he recognised the merit of my economic assessment made during my past contribution. I must say that was by far the only interesting part of his debate. Madam Speaker, I find it ironic that he now finds it extremely pertinent to even mention and restate some of the economic theories I submitted to this House during my last debate.

I will tell you what he said. As he rose in the Legislative Assembly immediately following my debate in April of this year, he said . . . and I am reading from the Hansard of 18 April of 2001, at page 457. "I do not believe that his [referring to me] tortured exposition of economics warrant a substantive response, but I will say this for his contribution: so loud the thunder but so little it rains!"

Madam Speaker, the rain is here today and it is pouring down upon us! I would like to let you know why I think it is important that this country should listen to my assessment of the Budget rather than some of those who would like to paint a different picture. It is because those who were painting the picture that this Budget is not realistic, that the revenue objectives are easy to achieve on paper but hard to realise are those same Members who were standing up in the Legislative Assembly earlier this year saying the 2001 Budget, "is a good Budget, it is a Budget that we should give a chance to."

In my debate about the 2001 Budget, I outlined quite clearly my concern about the Budget projections. I do not believe that we were learning from the past. I believe that rather than the Budget of $31,000,000 as projected . . . I stated in my Budget contribution on April 9 [2001], at page 399; "Mr. Speaker, if we use my assumption of 4.7 percent decline this would mean that the revenue of this country is over estimated by $33.5 million." A year later we are here assessing the performance of this very same Budget and it is $28.723 million short, my projection was $33 million instead it is $28.3 million; that is 1.38 percent difference from my projection. Just to emphasise for the sake of the importance and accuracy of this projection, if this was a sniper aiming between the eyes of a human it would at least take out an eye.

It was such an accurate forecast and projection not only for critical purposes, but I also outlined my reasons this Budget was not going to be on target. I assure the Members of the Opposition and all the citizens of this country I would not risk my professional reputation by associating with a Budget that did not have realistic and achievable forecasts because that is my area of specialty. When you are sick you go to a doctor; when you need legal advice you go to a lawyer; when you need an economic forecast you come to an economist.

I need now to do some house cleaning exercises as I clear up some of the matters put out by the Second Elected Member for George Town in what can only be described as an eloquent and articulate dispensation of the most venomous, political rhetoric that I have heard in this Legislative Assembly, in my short time here. The Member from George Town spoke about bank licences moving from $123,000 to $400,000 and how outrageous it was. He commented about how this proposal was hurried, not properly thought through. He said those who were making the proposal, those who developed the Budget did not have a proper understanding of the financial industry.

He boasted, and gave credence to what he was saying by boasting of his experience—some 18 years of experience—and, insultingly, even referred to how that amount of years was greater than the sum of all of the Members' experience on this side of the House. I learned during his contribution [that], unlike what he said in the year 2001 Budget Address (where the math problem laid on the teacher from the district of Bodden Town and the economist from Cayman Brac) [that it] actually lay straight on the Second Elected Member from George Town—18 years he said!

Is he insulting the vast amount of experience and the number of years that the Minister for Communication and Works has had within this industry, qualified as an Accountant from 1978, managing partner in his accounting firm, Deputy Financial Secretary sitting in this Legislative Assembly on the official side on occasions, and on two occasions now as an Elected Member of Executive Council? Is he overlooking the fact that the Second Elected Member from the district of West Bay is a Certified Public Accountant with 19 months experience in the heartbeat of finance?

Madam Speaker, the Second Elected Member for West Bay is a past member of one of the most prominent accounting firms in Cayman; conducting audits [all] over the world; conducting audits on multi-million dollar mutual funds and auditing institutions that I can assure the general public, the Second Elected Member for George Town would not have had experience. Madam Speaker, he demonstrates his lack of understanding of the financial industry and how this lack of understanding can instill panic, and he must be more responsible for what he is saying.

When he referred to class 'A' banks going from $123,000 to $400,000, did he overlook that [we] are talking about six banks which fall into that category? Your six clearing banks in this country are the only banks that fall into that category that go from $123,000 to $400,000. He went on to say at least two banks of these banks have informed him that they will be dropping their 'A' license, which is just prestige; that they will be dropping this 'A' retail license to go to a 'B'.

Madam Speaker, that is a blatant attempt, in my opinion, to mislead the public and instill panic.

I can assure you the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce (CIBC), the Cayman National Bank (CNB), Barclays, Royal Bank, and Scotia Bank are not going to downgrade to a B-class. The public should not be alarmed; they are being misled. We do not need sensationalism in the responsible positions we hold. The Second Elected Member for George Town seems to know it all but when the facts are put forward he is not even present in the Chamber to be corrected.

I would also like to refer to a comment that I read in the Caymanian Compass as they covered the contribution made by the Member from East End. Madam Speaker, I assume the Caymanian Compass article is right when [it] said it was not made clear that Caribbean Utilities Company (CUC) was being exempted from the increase in diesel fuel duty. I take time to draw to the attention of the honourable Member that on the first page, the second category that covers gasoline and diesel duty simply states and notes that "diesels used by CUC will not be subjected to this increase." It could not be clearer than to print it right on the front page of the revenue measures. For his benefit and the sake of the public, I want it to be understood that it was made clear from day one, as the statement says, the diesel used by CUC will not be subjected to this increase.

Madam Speaker, it is important to note that the United Democratic Party took cognisance of the fact that whatever diesel fuel cost increases CUC got would have been passed on to the common man and that was not the objective of this Budget. We exempted CUC from the increase. It is with great interest that I note that that Member, and his good friend from George Town, spent a substantial portion of their debates talking about CUC and talking about the law firms in Cayman. Out of respect and my appreciation for the roles those two Members play, I urge them to remember they are no longer working at CUC; they are no longer working in the law firm. They are representing the people of these Islands; the people who elected them, Madam Speaker.

Let us stop talking about reducing CUC's duty and about reducing the bands for lawyers. Let us talk about what we can do for the common man, the little man; the people who elected us. I have fulfilled my obligation in introducing my debate and where I am coming from and why my debate should be listened to—I have done my house cleaning. I would like to say now that the Cayman Islands have gone through what can only be classified as a typical development path. We have transformed from a fishing village, from a turtling village, to that of a sophisticated, dynamic community; the fifth largest financial centre in the world; a key destination that tourists consider whenever spending their tourist dollars. Throughout that transition we have had many challenges, one has been our revenue base.

Madam Speaker, I think it is important that every Member in this House and the general public as a whole, understands that when we were a fishing and turtling village, a village of seamen, and we had to institute a government, we had to come up with a method of deriving revenue from that body. In those days and now there are only three methods of collecting revenue. One is income tax, one is a wealth tax, and the other is the current system that we use, a consumption tax.

In those early days, there was no income in this community, no income generated here in Cayman that could have been taxed. The income was generated overseas. There was no wealth accumulated here; no one had big parcels of land. The Land Registry was not in place. The cadastral survey had not been conducted so there was no value; there was no wealth that could have been taxed. The only system of revenue collection that was available to our forefathers was a consumption tax.

When the money was remitted home, the people then went to the grocery stores and it was the items on sale you could tax. The import duty, the excise is on consumption—that is where our tax system has come from. However, it has worked in our favour. Now we find that our industries, one of our main pillars, revolve around it. More importantly, our people have been cultured to that system and there is no possibility of favourably introducing any other form of tax system.

Madam Speaker, this is nothing unique to Cayman. We must remember that the great United States of America started as an agricultural society where the tax on cattle was the main income at one time. Prior to 1913, the passage of the 16th Amendment, there was no income taxation in the United States of America, it was only consumption tax.

As a country grows and develops, the greater will be the necessity for income and for government, irrespective of the Cayman Islands Real Estate Brokers' Association (CIREBA) position. Government is a necessary entity and it is vital to the development process. As a country grows so does the need for government services and therefore, government grows.

The United States were able to sustain themselves during the 19th Century and the first part of the 20th Century by having a consumption tax. They then introduced income tax. Even if we start to chart their income tax and their total tax package as a percentage of their gross domestic product, we will see, Madam Speaker, that in 1902, it only represented 6.2 percent and I am quoting this from the "Development of the United States Tax Structure Statistics" as published in what is an authoritative document on public finance, "The Public Finance in Theory and Practice", written by Musgrave.

Madam Speaker, from 1902 the percentage of Gross Domestic Product (GDP) represented in tax from the United States was 6.2. In 1922 it went to 10.2 percent; then it grew to 14.5 percent by 1940, and in 1960 to 26.5 percent. It has now leveled off somewhere around 30-33 percent. We see as a country grows so does the demand for government services. What is important to note is that we saw a substantial jump as we entered the decade of the 1960s. This year saw the birth of social consciousness. It followed World War II when man discovered that he was more powerful than nature itself as General [Paul] Tibbets dropped the atomic bomb on Hiroshima.

Madam Speaker, the 1960s created a new burden on government finances as we had to take on environmental concerns regarding the physical environment as well as social environment. We have also experienced the same situation in the demand for government services right here in these beloved Cayman Islands.

It all depends on the Government's philosophy. In weighing the burden government has on an economy with the amount of taxes it is able to extract it has to then transform and spend either through a redistributive method, or through a method that would not have been provided by the private sector. The philosophy of government is very important because certain countries that are more socialistic spend a greater portion, such as Sweden which spends 49.6 percent. This is coming from "The International Comparison of Tax Structures in 1989", updated in 1998.

When we look at our structure here and our philosophy we see we have subsidised garbage, we have subsidised medical and we have almost free education. We have a partial system we are trying to slant towards being more socialist. We are trying to achieve too much as a country. However, we have been able to achieve all of this and maintain where the Government Budget represents 25 percent of our Gross Domestic Product; relative to other countries, that is extremely good. The United States of America is at 33 percent; the United Kingdom is 37.4 percent; Japan is 26 percent and Norway 47 percent.

Madam Speaker, out of interest I logged on to the internet and found one report I will share with all Members who would like to see how we compare to the rest of the world. The site lists all available GDP figures and each government's budget in relation to its GDP figure. Looking through this list I can assure Members we are relatively in good shape. Our Budget is representing an acceptable level of our Gross Domestic Product. I do not accept the argument that this country's problem is because Government is too big. The civil service might be too large but Government is not too big, two very different subjects.

Madam Speaker, the pressures that are placed on the finances of this country are nothing new. It has slowly built up; it is nothing that we should be surprised about. It is normal, every country has faced it. These are the growing pains of development. We cannot look at our Budget in isolation. We must look at how it compares to other countries. We have chosen a development model in this country where we have developed on two single pillars; tourism and offshore finances. Both aspects are extremely dependent on foreign capital. Thus, profits from these operations are remitted overseas.

The economic benefit of these two pillars comes to us in wage benefits in the economy. However, we have attempted to fulfill a model that requires the benefits to come through labour without having proper labour and immigration policies in place. Thus, the economic benefit of our development to this point has not been as great as it could have been. During our formative ages; during the time when we were building condos on West Bay Road building our hotels, and setting up the Islands for tourism and when we were constructing the office complexes in George Town to house the financial industry; our consumption-based tax worked well.

We are now at a different phase in our development where the structure is there so our growth is now occurring without having the foreign investment coming in. Madam Speaker, the next phase of our development would be expected as a reconstruction phase, which we have heard the Leader of Government Business talk about. We have talked about redoing West Bay beach—removing the height limitations for structures, to instill and offer motivation to developers, to remodel and refurbish. We have heard the Leader of Government Business and the Third Official Member outline the formation of the Cayman Islands Investment Authority. Madam Speaker, this authority will aim at promoting and making us user friendly towards foreign capital. It is necessary as we move to the next phase of our development. We have also failed in our development by not getting the benefits into the community. We have failed because our people have not had the accumulation of capital to invest in business ventures or to secure a business out of the tourism industry.

We have failed because our education system and the investment by the private sector into education have not been adequate. It is time we rewarded those companies that invested in Caymanians which got them to high positions. Those companies which did not do so should now be given a monetary and economic incentive to curtail their current practice and look at investing in Caymanians. That is why I support the increase in immigration fees, Madam Speaker.

For us to move forward, our goal must be sustainable economic development. There are three main goals in order to achieve sustainable economic development in the Cayman Islands. Firstly, we have to maintain our existing revenue system, to maintain a consumption based tax system. It is my position that if we derive 25 percent of the Gross Domestic Product in the Cayman Islands through this system, it is adequate. We must now learn how to live within that particular system. Fiscal prudence is necessary to achieve the number one goal of maintaining our existing tax system.

The Budget before this Legislative Assembly is necessary to achieve the number one objective that will lead to sustainable economic development. The second goal is to maintain our current fixed exchange with the United States. In order to do this we must maintain a good balance of payments. We must keep both a vital tourism industry and a financial industry to keep good flows of the United States currency coming to these shores.

The final goal, Madam Speaker, is to maintain financial and economic autonomy in these Islands, in these Chambers and in the planning of government finances. To do that, we must operate on no deficit financing. We must increase efficiencies among the Government's operations. This Budget is also necessary to achieve this goal. I would now like to touch on the necessity of having vibrant tourism and financial service industries.

I was recently at a conference in which the speaker said the goose that laid the golden egg is now sick. Madam Speaker, it is so true for the Cayman Islands. Tourism is sick. Tourism needs help; tourism needs every one of us together to make tourism recover. We must understand the problems that are faced in the tourism industry are not as a result of 11 September.

The problem that we face in the Caribbean is those previous jurisdictions that were seen as a source of tourists are now promoting themselves as a destination for tourists. We have had a complete change. We can no longer look at the United States as just a blanket market of possible tourists who come to the Cayman Islands because in the domestic United States of America you have numerous tourist destinations. We must carefully look at our product; we must look at what is here. We have to look at the attitudes of our people, and the traditional Cayman smile that welcomed everyone and why that smile is disappearing.

We must look at educating and training our people within the tourism industry. It is very important that we understand the connection between promoting the benefit of tourism down into the community and maintaining a competitive position. If our people can see for themselves the benefit of their neighbour now having a tour operation or their neighbour demonstrating that rope and that their own family member is gaining a benefit, their motivation and interest to promote tourism will improve. We cannot hope to remain competitive in the tourism industry if our people are not benefiting, because our people have traditionally been our greatest asset. Madam Speaker, I bring to your attention that we lack a quorum.

LACK OF QUORUM

The Speaker: We shall suspend for five minutes and enable the Serjeant to allow the House to have a quorum of eight.

[Pause]

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 4:10 P.M.

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4:27 P.M.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Continuing his debate, the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Madam Speaker, and the Serjeant-at-Arms for summoning an audience in the Chamber. I thank the Members of the Opposition for rejoining us.

Madam Speaker when we were—

POINT OF ELUCIDATION

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, a point of elucidation.

The Speaker: Will the Member give way?

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: No, Madam Speaker.
Madam Speaker—

Mr. V. Arden McLean: On a point of order, Madam Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: Please state your Point of Order Member from East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Misleading the House, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Could you please state in what regard Honourable Member?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, the Member is saying that he thanks the Opposition for rejoining him in the House. There were Members here inside this Honourable House, because I was. Not every person from this side was outside this Chamber.

The Speaker: Honourable Member [for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman], the Member for East End is correct in saying that not all the Opposition was [not] there, so if you would withdraw that section. You have the liberty to specify if it is your desire to so do.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: I certainly will withdraw that section, Madam Speaker. I was simply referring to those Members who were currently present at the time of my deliberation and when calling for a quorum, were not. That included all who are present now, including the Member who just spoke.

At the time of the break I was talking of our two pillars and why they are important in maintaining one of the three goals that I listed for sustainable economic development. That was, maintaining a good balance of payment, the importance of tourism and where we needed to put greater emphasis on tourism in this country.

Madam Speaker, I am very confident and have great assurance that the current Minister responsible for Tourism is at the head of this effort. I have had the privilege of accompanying the Minister on several rounds of negotiations, meetings and conferences on Tourism. I am pleased to report to this country that the Minister has a good grasp on the need for product improvement; a good grasp on the importance of ensuring that our indigenous Caymanians are benefiting from Tourism, because then their attitudes will be positive towards tourism.

The Ministry, in conjunction with the Minister of Education, has launched a campaign on training and educating people within the Tourism industry and educating the general public, and our young people that tourism, that working within tourism is a dignified and noble profession. Madam Speaker, this country can be assured that the United Democratic Party, through the Minister of Tourism, is well-gearred and equipped for bringing back tourism and taking it to an even greater level within the Cayman Islands.

Madam Speaker, the current Minister for Tourism has great interest as expressed during his speech. He has contributed to this debate to assist you and me in achieving our responsibilities to the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman by diversifying and enhancing tourism in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I now move quickly to financial services because the current revenue measures impact financial services and I will outline my views on this particular industry.

I want to mention that previously I spoke of the benefits derived from these two pillars, and I talked of the model that relied on wages and labour coming from these two industries. There are other trickle-down effects such as local consumption and I credit the industries for that. I believe we can do greater in that particular area to ensure a greater trickle down in our local economy. I know the Minister for Tourism is pushing to have the visiting cruise ships purchase certain products locally.

Madam Speaker, development is something that we get one chance at. We do not have the ability to erase and start over. We are operating with a limited amount of physical resources and that is especially important for island economies. With the limitation of our physical resources we must ensure that throughout our development path the people for which we are developing, the indigenous Caymanians and those who have made Cayman their home, are deriving benefits from them.

I truly appreciate and respect the added sophistication brought to this development process by the introduction of the Financial Services' Centre, which now employs in excess of 21.2 percent of our labour force according to recently produced statistics. Madam Speaker, this particular industry is a very competitive market which is always intensifying. When competing we must learn what our product is about and how it is positioned.

We have never competed on the basis of being the most affordable financial centre. We have always been the 'blue-chip' financial centre, the premium financial centre, for the following reasons: the quality of our professional service; the quality of our infrastructure; our ability to process and approve a mutual fund in a shorter time span than the competition. It is these attributes of our product which have differentiated us. We have never competed on price and we have never competed on cost. I agree that in the product mix price is one variable, but it has never been the variable that differentiates us.

Madam Speaker, I am cognisant of the need for us to ensure that there is value. When an individual pays that higher price there is good value to be derived. That is a challenge I throw down to all sections of the industry; to Government who is interacting with the financial services; to the Company Registry, to the Monetary Authority. Let us ensure that there is value. I am asking our international partners, those entities or individuals who utilise the Cayman Islands as a financial centre, to understand that this is not a Budget in isolation; this is a Budget that seeks to achieve a longer term goal

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I will call to the attention of the Leader of Government Business that we have reached the hour of interruption.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I will move the suspension in order to complete business this afternoon and we could go on until around 6.30. We originally said 6 o'clock but we are trying to speed the debate along and hopefully by 6.30 we would complete those wishing to speak today.

The Speaker: The Question is that the Honourable House continues beyond 4.30 pm to allow Members wishing to contribute to the debate to continue and conclude this afternoon.

All those in favour please say Aye. All those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Proceedings will continue.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW PROCEEDINGS TO CONTINUE.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of Cayman Brac.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, this Budget seeks to achieve sustainable economic development. It seeks to balance the gap between recurrent revenue and recurrent expenditure. It then outlines that we intend to cut costs so we can envision 2003 as a surplus year and 2004 as a surplus year to assist us in meeting the goal that is now part of legislation passed in this Chamber requiring us to make a contribution to general reserve to bring it to a level equal to three months of Government recurrent expenditure. Once we have achieved that fiscal balancing and acquired a general reserve of $90 million (which is an estimate based on projected revenue and expenditure) then we are in a better position to ensure that this country remains competitive. This includes all the variables that go towards a person deciding to utilise this safe, clean, well connected jurisdiction with great telecommunications, and this jurisdiction which has a high level of professionalism in its intermediaries as well as trained Caymanians. We will have a Government that can invest to the level necessary in preparing Caymanians, so that these very same financial service providers will not have to pay high work permit fees, they will have Caymanians.

Madam Speaker, we will subsequently find ourselves in a country with a Government that has fiscal flexibility, whereas we are now guided strictly because of fiscal limitations. Our actions are governed by the things we cannot do—we cannot borrow to fund recurrent expenditure. I ask the financial industry, the intermediaries here in Cayman and those who utilise our services, to understand the process we need to establish. We have been good to the intermediaries here, as well as to our overseas clients and we are asking for them to bear the ride with us until we see better times.

The financial industry has been good to Cayman, but Cayman has also been good to the financial industry. One of the limitations of an indirect tax structure is that Government is unable to pinpoint with a degree of accuracy where the tax incidence lies; who actually bears the cost of a revenue measure. In an income tax we can specifically design exactly who we want to hit. In our current system we do not have that flexibility. When we impose a specific fee upon the intermediaries, the banks, the insurance managers, the accountants, the lawyers, it is based on our belief after consultation and review that those intermediaries earn a greater return on investment in Cayman than they would in other jurisdictions.

In the interest of being fair, I can say that observation was made by the Second Elected Member, who, in his contribution last year stated that the financial industry was making a return greater than they would have in other jurisdictions. I commend him and give him credit for that. Madam Speaker, we are hoping that by design these intermediaries will not pass the cost down, they will absorb it in their accounting. When they say they have already billed their clients, to me it is a positive thing. They cannot pass it on to their clients, they can absorb it. They have the ability within their return on investment to absorb it.

Madam Speaker, there is no reason those specific charges should affect the services or the cost of services which those intermediaries are providing. The specific fees that were attached to the actual product, such as the increase on the licence for a mutual fund (as the Elected Member from East End rightly pointed out) . . . it is possible to add a fee that amount may not be realised and yet there may be a fall off in quantity. It is important to understand we did not make a guess at these, we assumed there would be a possibility of a fall off.

We have done what is known as sensitivity analysis. This current year where mutual funds are formed, 60 percent of these were registered in Cayman. We assumed that because of this fee, realistically, we might not get the 60 percent of the next group to be registered. However, to say that the revenue figures will fall down because of an increase in fee we must remember . . .

[pause]

Madam Speaker, I have been reliably informed that when we talk about 60 percent of mutual funds we are talking about 600 mutual funds. It is possible that that number may not grow at the previous growth rate. It is possible that some of those who were there might choose not to renew a licence. What you hope and what we analyse is that we must remember those who remain, and remain at a higher cost. We have had historical studies. We can look at the hotel accommodation tax, and when it was increased. I am not suggesting that that increase caused a slow down in tourism arrivals, tourism arrivals decreased and the revenue generated from that particular head increased. It is a simple relationship between quantity and price. Madam Speaker, in my discipline we call it elasticity. We have looked and we have undertaken to start in January. The United Democratic Party will collate a greater amount of statistical information to assist us in analysing such variables and what the changes would be as a result of a fee, because we will have a historical trend.

It is not fair for anyone to suggest this Budget was hurried and not well thought through and prepared by individuals who did not truly know the industry. This Budget was prepared within the first thirty days of this new Government taking office. In that thirty days we performed what can only be characterised as a miracle. We prepared a great Budget whereas the past Government came with a budget four months after taking office. All they could say was that we are going to borrow $55 million and tax milk, bread and eggs. This Budget has depth, it has thought put into it. It has a degree of understanding of our economy. There has been no Budget which has previously come before in this country which equals it.

Madam Speaker, having contacted the intermediaries upon whom we have increased fees and given them a fair analysis of our situation, we have asked them for alternatives. The only alternative they can always come forward with is to cut civil service as if that is something that we can do overnight. We are committed to improving efficiency with the models of development we have gone through. This House must realise the industries in the private sector have not recruited as many Caymanians as they should have. So we do have a civil service that is a little bit packed. We do have the need to improve efficiency. But I will not be a part of a process that will constantly look at the civil service and call them inefficient. Some of our most capable Caymanians, some of our brightest Caymanians, some of the hardest working Caymanians are part of the civil service. The United Democratic Party truly supports and appreciates the civil service of this country.

We do not accept it as an option that we should not increase the licences of these institutions [and that] rather we should simply cut the civil service. Are they prepared to observe our civil service that has reached a high level in our hierarchy to an equal point in their hierarchy? We have people in managerial levels. When we cut their posts, as they suggest, are they suggesting that they will also see this and provide them with managerial positions and managerial pay? Madam Speaker, the United Democratic Party will not be a party to such an act. We will make the necessary cuts when the private sector partners with us agree to observe directly these individuals as outlined without any question by the leader of the private sector.

Madam Speaker, the issue of Government finances and how Government raises revenue is not a new challenge and it is not one in which we must try and reinvent the wheel. As far back as 1776, the greatest bank of economic knowledge was accumulated by Adam Smith in his Wealth of Nations, which is still being quoted by all of us when we talk about demand and supply. These same notions, when he developed the four Canons of Taxation, are still being used. They have still been proven to be the premise under which governments should design tax structures.

Adam Smith's notions have been ratified up until 1998 by Steil Guzzer, who is an outstanding Economist. In Wealth of Nations, from the four Canons of Taxation, Canon one states: "The subjects of every state ought to contribute toward the support of the government, as nearly as possible, in proportion to their respective abilities; that is, in proportion to the revenue which they respectively enjoy under the protection of the state." Madam Speaker, that particular Canon bears directly on the year 2002 Budget. The financial industry that we so enjoy, respect, and appreciate has been provided an environment under the protection of the State that allows them to reap great rewards. This Canon simply states that the contribution to maintaining government should be proportional to their ability to earn.

Madam Speaker, the second Canon says: “The tax which each individual is bound to pay ought to be certain, and not arbitrary. The time of payment, the manner of payment, the quantity to be paid, ought all to be clear and plain.” This Budget has attempted that. We have clearly laid out, even compromised and stated they can pay us quarterly but the industry understands the terms and conditions of the revenue package.

Third Canon states; “Every tax ought to be levied at the time, or in the manner in which it is most likely to be convenient for the contributor to pay it.” Under that Canon we have stretched the obligation over the year

Fourth Canon states; “Every tax ought to be so contrived as both to take out and to keep out of the pockets of the people as little as possible, over and above what it brings into the public treasury.” That Canon is simply saying that the cost of administering the collection of a tax must be maintained as low as possible. We must understand that, when we extract money from an economy, government is then hoping to reinvest it, to redistribute it; but we are hoping not to pay too much in the middle for that redistribution and for that reallocation. These are the four Canons under which tax structures are to be designed and revenue measures are to be enforced. Two hundred and twenty years after they invented an introduction of these Canons Adam Smith received an award for those Canons.

Madam Speaker, in recent literature we see requirements for a good tax structure. Revenue yield should be adequate. We should not be imposing a revenue measure that is not generating an adequate amount. If it is not generating a few hundred dollars it is best to leave it alone. When we touch a revenue measure we should touch it adequately so that we do not have to revisit it next year.

The distribution of the tax burden should be equitable. What matters in this context is not only the impact point at which the tax is imposed but also the final resting place. I only read this to say, this Budget we are debating is one that is well thought through and one that adheres to time-proven and time-tested principles of revenue collection. We are simply asking for the financial industry in this country to pay a percentage to the government's revenue coffers proportional to their income. Madam Speaker, I want to highlight this point by adding that the financial industry of the Cayman Islands contributes 30 percent to the Gross Domestic Product. That is representative of the portion of earnings that they have under the protection of the state. The contribution to maintaining the state under this Budget is now equal to 25.6 percent. We are simply attempting to realign in accordance with the Canons of taxation the contribution to government 'coffers' with that of the benefits as reflected in the financial sector's earning potential under the protection of the State.

Madam Speaker, I would like to simply reread Canon number 1; “The subjects of every state ought to contribute towards the support of the government, as nearly as possible, in proportion to their respective abilities; that is, in proportion to the revenue which they respectively enjoy under the protection of the state.” We are simply adhering to this particular principle. Now the financial industry will be paying proportionately.

Madam Speaker, I have outlined in a very short time frame the basis under which I am able to give my support for this Budget, under which I find myself for the first time as a representative of the people. Hopefully, I can be a part of delivering a Budget to this country that is balanced.

In my last contribution I attempted to find a label for the Budget that best represented what I considered the spirit of the Budget and I labeled it 'impotent budget.' I also searched this Budget but the one thing that always kept coming out is the reality; it is simply a balanced Budget. This Budget is not only balanced quantitatively but also balanced socially; a Budget that is balanced in the form that we are not borrowing for recurrent expenditure and making a positive contribution (close to 5 percent) of revenue towards our capital. It is balanced in that those who are receiving benefits under the protection of the state are now paying a balanced contribution to the state.

Madam Speaker, there are so many areas that I would like to go into. However, I do know that following me we have very able members of the United Democratic Party who will certainly fill in any blanks that have been left. The United Democratic Party is committed to the three Cayman Islands. They are committed to ensuring the right direction for this country. It would be remiss of me not to highlight what I consider to be one of the strong attributes of the Constitution of the United Democratic Party, that is that the decision body, the General Council, will be composed of equal representation from the six districts. Each of the districts will have seven Members to form the Council.

Madam Speaker, that is especially important for you and me and the other smaller districts with single representation. You and I know that when you come to these Chambers and you have districts with a greater number of representatives, those who have the small numbers have a lesser degree of weight. However, under the United Democratic Party structure each and every district is met at the table on an equal footing. Each and every district, the six Electoral districts of the Cayman Islands, is equally weighted when we are sitting down to make decisions.

I encourage this country to draw forces behind the United Democratic Party. We welcome input; we are an inclusive Government; an inclusive party; one in which not only the Elected Members, but all our members contributed to this process.

Madam Speaker, if I have said too little or too much, may it please you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Fourth Elected Member from the district of West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As I stand here in this Honourable Chamber to deliver my second Budget Address, I too would like to take this opportunity to extend my congratulations to you on the attainment of that high office of Speaker. I would like to say how in your short time there you have impressed not only the Members of this Honourable House and your constituents of Cayman Brac, but also the general populace of Cayman.

Also, I would add I have been pleased with the very positive responses given to you on your performances so far. I can say that in my duties as Deputy Speaker I can only hope that you will be there to assist me on those occasions when I will be deputizing for you. When those occasions do arise, I hope that I am able to conduct myself in a manner similar to the example you have so far set.

Madam Speaker, times have surely changed since my last contribution. Even though it is less than a year ago it has been nine months of change. In my humble opinion (and I know this is not shared by all Members of this Honourable House but, thankfully, by the majority of Members) those changes have been for the positive benefit of the Cayman Islands.

When I stood here during the last Budget it was to support it because I was a part of the last Government; the Government that made up the 2001 Budget. I did offer my support but I also made it quite clear at that time, I was not comfortable in supporting that particular Budget due to the fact that to achieve the Budget for 2001 it was required to not only increase fees of some $19 million but also to engage in the unprecedented borrowing of some $55 million. We know that those fees, where they were levied last, had an effect on what we all referred to as the 'common man.' That was a bit of an unpopular decision to make during those times.

Madam Speaker, looking back at that Budget and seeing that even with those fees and even with the borrowing at the end of this year we still had $15 million short fall, it makes me realise that I should have been more worried than I was. Looking at the hard decisions that had to be taken at that time, and taxing the little man that we speak about, as hard as that was, in hindsight I can only say that I wish that I was part of a Government a year ago that was more willing to take the necessary hard decisions.

Now I sit in the House this year and listen to the contributions. So far, I hear Opposition Members, as well as the ex-Leader of Government Business, questioning all that could go wrong in the country because of our current Budget. We stand and we name the areas of concern and, in doing so, we hope to spread some alarm both locally and internationally. Those Members would hope that alarm would then transcend into an outcry from the masses because, as Opposition Members, I guess that is what they feel their job is—to try to alarm the masses. Well, Madam Speaker, I too would love to be able to see what the future holds. But in all our wisdom and greatness, the good Lord has not given us that ability. We have to then make the decisions based on the best judgment that we have.

The truth of the matter is that when we offer ourselves for these high offices as leaders, the people who elect us do not elect us to stand in here and question what could happen if we make decisions. That is what they are doing on the outside, Madam Speaker. They elect us to come in here and to use the information that we have available to us to make decisions regardless of how hard those decisions may be.

They expect that the responsibility given to us is to make the hard decisions necessary to carry our country forward. If all they wanted was for us to stand in here and question what may happen if we raise taxes, and who may leave, who may be upset . . . they can do the same thing from the outside of these hallowed Chambers. What they expect us to do is to come in here and make a decision and be willing to stand by it. We cannot be so afraid of making a decision or making a mistake that we do not make a decision and then we find ourselves in the same position one year later. Ironically, we do find ourselves almost in the exact position as where we were a year ago.

We had to borrow $55 million last year and here we are presenting a revenue package for some $54 million. It is not a coincidence that the shortfall we had last year—some $55 million—is the same shortfall that we are looking to get this year. I assume the decision to borrow was easier than the decision to tax the financial industry one year ago. What that easy decision has forced on us is that, one year later, we are faced with the same decision again. If we were able to go out and borrow $55 million again that would get us through this year and next year we would be back in the same position again trying to make up the shortfall of the $55 million.

Thankfully, Madam Speaker, one of those changes that I talked about at the very start was the change in the leadership. This new leadership is now moving the country forward. The United Democratic Party is bold enough to make the hard decisions that are necessary to move us forward as a country.

Madam Speaker, in the contribution of the Second Elected Member for George Town [he stated] that decisions needed to be taken. "[The] Government needs to sit down with the financial community just as it did when crafting the 2001 Budget. There is no point in shunning away from what many in the past have considered the 'sacred cow.' The surest way to destroy this country is to increase the tax burden on the little man on the street who has a very limited share in the tremendous profits generated by the financial industry and big businesses.”

The Speaker: Honourable Member, could you please refer to the date and page number for purposes of the record.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: It is 18 April 2001, and page 460 [of the Official Hansard Report].

Madam Speaker, how things have changed! One year ago, the Second Elected Member for George Town expressed his concern that the surest way to destroy this country was to increase the tax burden on the little man in the street. Now, one year later in his contribution, that does not seem to be that same concern. The concern has switched in one year to being a concern for the destruction, not of the little man or the Cayman Islands, but for the financial industry. The same industry he felt that having worked there for some 17 years, was not bearing its fair share of the tax burden.

I think it is very important to note he makes mention of the fact that the Government needs to sit down with the financial community just as it did when trying to put together the 2001 Budget. I want to say for the record that this Government and the team of which I was a part did sit down with the financial industry. The outcome is quite a bit different from what was achieved in 2001, but the initial start, the consultation, was the same.

The different outcome came about because when we sat to talk with the financial industry to explain to them there was a shortfall, to explain to them that the country was faced with a spiraling debt that was heading us in the wrong direction, once again that association made the same offer as in 2001. They said, “Well, we appreciate you guys sitting down with us and we want to play our part. We want to be good partners, but we feel we cannot pay any more fees. However, we will be willing to lend you the $55 million again.”

The consultation process was the same but when we recognised that was the solution they were willing to offer we quickly realised that under the United Democratic Party leadership borrowing $55 million to balance the Budget was not a realistic alternative—although under the past leadership that may have been acceptable as a solution.

When we met with them again we told them borrowing $55 million to balance the Budget was not an option. The days of that type of partnership are over. We said we needed some new ideas. We needed them to step up to the plate and contribute. They replied, “Well, if you cannot charge us anymore, there are other entities in the financial industry namely the lawyers and the accountants. For some reason you have not been charging them lately, so our fees are too high but we feel you can charge them.” With them we tried to come up with what we saw as a feasible plan to the dire financial situation the country faced.

When we spoke to them we mentioned that the fees were going to be increased not only for the lawyers and the accountants but for the banks as well. However, they got into scare tactics that have been used in the past. The fact was that, if we started charging the financial industry, they would leave and the country would be in a worse position. Indeed, a lot of the things we heard were very similar to what we have been hearing from the Opposition. Some of it was verbatim. In particular, when the Second Elected Member was quoting from the Cayman Bar Association. Those things were—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Please state your point of order.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I am sure it was not deliberate, but the last remark [by the] Fourth Elected Member for West Bay was misleading. I never read a quote from the Cayman Bar Association in anything I said.

The Speaker: Honourable Fourth Elected Member from West Bay, would you care to expound as to why you said what you said before I make a ruling?

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Yes, Madam Speaker. The reason is that I was presented with a copy of the submission from the Cayman Bar Association about an hour before the Member started to speak on that topic. The presentation that he subsequently made was verbatim to the document that was given to all Members.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, perhaps we can check the Hansard. I did not read from any submission of the Cayman Bar Association. I did not have it.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I do not have before me the copy of the Hansard. If the House wishes I can take a short suspension to look on that. Otherwise, it is going to be impossible to rule that he was stating verbatim. I remember the discussion and there was a lot of similarity. It does not mean from where I sit ... unless I can see the document that he was stating, because he did not ask for leave to state. I take it that moving within the integrity of the honourable Member that he was not actually stating verbatim.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you Madam Speaker. My apologies. I can say that it was very similar. So Madam Speaker, I will move on from there.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member, please proceed.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you too, Madam Speaker and again my apologies. It was very similar.

Our position with the financial institutions was that we did understand their concerns about having to leave the Cayman Islands based on the fee structure that we were proposing. We also recognised that faced with the dire position we were in and that money being the coward that it is, if we were not in a position to provide the suitable environment for those companies to do business here, they would be leaving anyway. If they were leaving because of the fees, or if they were leaving because of the social degradation and the fact that we could no longer continue to have the suitable and necessary authority to maintain the infrastructure allowing them to do business here, their departure would be imminent anyway.

We looked at our choices and realised there were none. The old methods of collecting revenue have been used over and over and we felt it was time to maybe get some fees from (as the Second Elected Member from George Town mentioned) the 'sacred cow' so many previous governments had been reluctant for whatever reason to go after.

So, Madam Speaker, when the reference is made to the need for consultation, let all know that there was much consultation. It is interesting that there is great cry for consultation now with the financial industry. None of those Members in opposition seemed to have been concerned or expressed the need one year ago for consultation with the little man when we found it necessary to put back duty on milk and eggs and whatever else.

Why is it that as representatives we seem to very quickly forget we are not only put here to represent the interests of the financial institutions and the big business on the Island, we are also here to represent the little man; the little person who is living on their $400 allowance that Government provides; the little man that has to go to the store and pay the same thing for milk and bread that you, I, and the partners in those law firms have to pay. All of a sudden we are concerned about consultation.

You know it is funny. On 8 November I heard the same thing. I heard the Members that were against the Cabinet reshuffling and they were talking about the need for consultation. However, a lot of those same Members were involved in a process of making up a government less than a year before that. There had been much demonstration on the steps in front of the Court House. Actually, those Members were even a part of those demonstrations and so there was no call for consultation. It seems like the Members only know about consultation or the need for consultation when it is convenient for them.

Madam Speaker, these are difficult times. It is sad when Members think the responsibilities given to them as representatives are only supposed to cater to certain aspects of the community. I am glad to say that the Government of which I am a part, the United Democratic Party Government, is an inclusive government. They are a Government that looks after and weighs up the balance and not just including the financial industry. When they are preparing a Budget they do not only look at what affects the financial industry and whether they are going to be upset, or whether the people have a council of associations that can represent their case. The United Democratic Party Government also looks out for the little man.

Again, Madam Speaker, one of the complaints we have heard about this Budget is that the timing was bad; there was not enough notice given; it was done in an ad hoc fashion. Maybe it is different for me, but in my short life I have received a lot of notices from those big institutions as well. On many occasions, I have received a notice from those banks to tell me my interest rates are going up. There is no consultation and there is no notice. I get a letter saying on such-and-such a date the rates are going up.

I saw an advertisement in the newspaper saying that all the banks have decided the prime rate is going to go up. It does not seem to work for me when I go to those banks and tell them it is the middle of the year and I already prepared my budget and I do not have the funds to pay the additional increases. I would like them to wait until next year when I do my budget again and then I will be able to pay the increase. That does not work. Given all the foreclosures I see, I know it is not only me that it does not work for.

There are a lot of people with whom the banks just do not seem to be that understanding and they cannot accept, such as those people who are living on a fixed income; those people who cannot pass on the cost to their clients. Those people that cannot get the additional raise or bonus now have to find additional money to pay for their mortgage to keep additional shelter over their head. It is not only the banks. I know the same thing happens to the law firms. If they are raising their rates there is no consultation.

I get notices from the health insurance as well. In the middle of the year they will come out and say they have decided that our premiums need to be increased. In the little man's case, maybe his Christmas bonus got cut because the partners decided they needed a bigger increase this year. Those little men do not have the choice of saying they cannot pay the increases and the creditors have to wait because their budget was already done for the year.

So, Madam Speaker, the argument put forward as to timing is just one of those things we also appreciate. No one wants to pay more. The good thing about this Budget is that we see it as strictly remedial. We have seen this increase as necessary for a while now. Successive governments in the past, whether because of their makeup or because of their lack of political will, did not have the foresight in making the increases that were necessary. We found a situation where we were trying to play catch up to our budgets in the past.

In preparation for this speech I did a bit of research and I found it interesting to note that in 1999, the budgeted amount was actually $283 million and we received $279 million. In 2000, the budgeted amount for recurrent revenue was actually $305 million and we received $273.2 million. That is significant, Madam Speaker, because in the past what we have done is always come up with these balanced budgets because it is easy to project your revenue to match your expenditure. The reality of the situation is that for many years now we recognised that our revenue base was not sufficient to receive the revenue necessary to carry the country forward. Even though these increases seem to be very significant and of concern we are very optimistic that having made a change in our revenue base for this year this sort of increase will not be necessary for quite a while to come. We feel that this would have put us in the catch up position we needed to be in.

Once we have caught up and closed the gap between recurrent revenue and recurrent expenditure, the good ship Cayman will be on a good course for its future. Hopefully that will delay some of the concerns of those institutions out there who are talking about what will happen next year, wondering if we will be coming back for the same increase next year. We recognised, Madam Speaker, that the base which had been abused for so long, the import duties and the other licensing fee, we could not touch that again this year because it had reached saturation point. We also feel that the contributions from these sectors that have been increased this year have reached the point where the financial contribution is equivalent to the services they expect to receive from the country.

I think it is important to note that when we talk about the service in the financial industry and brag about Cayman being the fifth largest financial centre in the world, and the fact that we have some $800 billion on deposit; we also have to take into account that the international powers that be see that bragging right of ours as a huge liability. They look at the fact that we have $800 billion on deposit and ask how can a little Island of some 33,000 to 40,000 people with a Monetary Authority that is 1/8 the size of the Authority in New York (which is managing some $250 or $300 billion) regulate correctly an $800 billion industry? We all know the international pressures that have come to bear because of those bragging rights associated with those deposits we have. That has caused us to look more closely and beef up our regulatory authorities in order to satisfy the international community that we are doing our part in regulating this money for which we have responsibility.

When we talk about the size of the civil service and we look at the big increases that have occurred, we will very quickly see the biggest growth has been in the Monetary Authority. There is good reason for that, Madam Speaker. We are trying to catch up as well. Someone has to bear that cost and we feel the balance has been spread around. We now have a balance between what the normal citizens and our financial industry are contributing. We see good things for our future.

We know that the Opposition has a responsibility as far as they are concerned, to spread the gloom and doom. From a realistic standpoint, we see a bright future.

Madam Speaker, one of the things we see is a new efficiency in terms of the contributions of the Members. Before the formation of the Party, it was necessary for each Member to express their independent views; we now have the capability of having the views expressed for the Party. The other Members of the Party will only have to make the necessary contributions to maybe clarify some of the questions asked. I am happy to see that my colleague, the Second Elected Member for West Bay, did such a good job with his clarifications when he first did his presentation so that there very few questions that were asked afterward.

Believe it or not, I actually have a question about this process. I will only be able to get my question answered by the Third Official Member during his wind up. My clarification is strictly on the point that I have heard raised during this current Budget process and also during the 8 November Cabinet reshuffle. My clarification is concerned with a statement made by the First Elected Member for George Town, saying that on 1 November 2001 he had been told by the Honourable Financial Secretary that there was only a $12 million short fall with the established targets.

Madam Speaker, the reason this is confusing for me is that I got involved long after 1 November when that Member would have been given the information. When I spoke to the Financial Secretary after we sat down to start going over the budget process, he informed me that there was some $93 million difference. We all know there is quite a significant difference between $93 million and $12 million that has been stated. Therefore, I only can ask for a clarification as to those numbers because I know people have actually equated the 11 September tragedy to the Cabinet reshuffle on 8 November.

The Leader of Government Business has already done his part in saying how insensitive that was. If between the 1 November and, I guess around the 12 or 14 November when we would have been involved, there is some $80 million difference, I agreed at the time that there seemed to be some sort of tragedy in the making. I am sure because I have every confidence in the Third Official Member, the Honourable Financial Secretary, that he will be able to clarify this misunderstanding.

Madam Speaker, it is interesting to note that it appears that the financial industry has decided that some of their employees will bear the brunt of the fees. I can only hope that was a bit of political manoeuvring and that they recognise the value of their employees. When the Member from East End was making his contribution, he spoke about the world economy being down and things being tough all around. He then went on to list his concerns about the local employees of some firms whose bonuses or Christmas parties are reduced. Well, Madam Speaker, I too was given that letter from a private law firm whose employees are saying that their partners have decided that instead of them taking their cuts they are going to pass those along; or instead of the fees coming out of the shareholders equity at the end of the year they are going to take that money from the bonuses. As the Member from East End said, times are tough and as a Government we instituted a policy with the civil service in September when they placed a moratorium on pay increases and bonuses. This is what happens during hard times, Madam Speaker. Those are the things that accompany the financial downturns in the economy.

What really disappointed me is that having stated the case with the civil service that was in the Budget it did not bother the Member from East End. I did not hear him arguing or debating that the civil service was not getting a bonus. He was not coming here telling us, "Well, why did you guys put a moratorium on them you are hurting those hard working civil servants?" There seems to be a concern for the private sector. He had received a letter as well stating that some of them would have to do without bonuses or Christmas parties. My question would have to be whether that Honourable Member feels that the private sector employees are more important than our hard working civil servants? I would hope that that is not the case, Madam Speaker, but the question begs to be answered.

There are a few points of clarification needed on the issues of the Budget. I will try as quickly as possible to go through them, although I feel that those Members who were seeking clarification do know quite well as to what was being proposed. For the benefit of the listening audience and for the whole Cayman Islands I will try as much as possible to clarify the questions that have been asked.

The first one was on garbage fees. The Member from East End, being an ex employee actually a very high-level employee, of Caribbean Utilities Company, spoke about his knowledge of the industry and the fact that he did not see that system working. Well, Madam Speaker, I am happy to inform him that a system of tying garbage fees to utilities is a tried and tested system. It is used in many areas of the world, and the concept being not that you tie the garbage fees or the garbage collection to specific energy usage but that you create bands that would allow households that fall into those bands to be charged a fee. So if we have two households . . . I remember in his contribution he stated that you may have two households that are exactly alike but they do not use exactly the same amount.

With my limited knowledge of the way the power is distributed, I know that the variation between those two households will be slight if the households are exact. Of course, we will not have the exact usage but they will be within a reasonable and calculable range and so the proposal is that four bands will be established. I do not remember exactly but let us say the range from 100 to 200 kW hours and will fall within one band and then from 200 to 400 will fall within another band and the fees will be charged based on which band the user is in, not in a specific charge. So the fee will not have to be calculated. There was a concern about information being private from CUC. The fees will not have to be calculated on every day or every week or month that the individual uses because the individual will fall into an average band and that will be the fee that they are charged.

The Member also made a point of saying that Government should have its own database and Government should be doing its own billing, and I agree with him. I think that information systems are something that is very important to the country and I think that databases and information is very critical. The situation that exists is that the only current database that is correct, as far as households are concerned, would be CUC's database. I am happy to say that CUC has agreed to allow us to use that database.

It really surprised me to know that the Member from East End with his many years of experience in customer service and the whole billing aspect of utility services, would state that government should not get into allowing someone else to do what he felt was government's job of collecting their revenue or billing. The reason that amazes me is because on many occasions I have heard the need for government to use their partnerships.

It amazes me that if we looked at doing a billing cycle on a monthly basis and had some bands of bills, that an average person will be paying some $5 a month or $10 a month for garbage. One would have thought that that Member would think with all the experience that he has it would be feasible to do billing on a monthly basis for a $5 charge. We know, Madam Speaker, that billing is one of the most expensive aspects. When you print the bills, you then have to mail those bills out and then you have to follow up. For a $5 monthly charge it would be an inefficient Government that would be sending out some 16,000 or 20,000 bills at $5 each when they could use electricity company that already have the database that already sends bills out on a monthly basis anyway who just has to simply add a line item and add garbage fees to that bill.

Once again, Madam Speaker, I am not sure whether I should attribute that to the Member not understanding, or I should take that with pride to say that the Budget having been presented so well, the Member really could not find anything of value to criticise. I guess I could take it as a compliment. Since I know the Member quite well, that is the way I will take it.

The other reason I know that the Member knew quite well how the system was proposed to work is because, when we go back to the consultation, this system was one of the proposals presented by the financial group of which Mr. Bobby Bodden was the chairperson. He has informed me that, during the development of the system he consulted with that same Member and the latter actually gave advice on how the system would work. Again, Madam Speaker, I am happy to say that it is a positive indication to me that the Budget was so good that doing what he saw as his job (being a worthy Member of the Opposition) he had to try to find something to oppose.

This is just for the general public, because I know that Member has this information. The reason it was important to go to CUC—and when we talk about the fact that the fees are not recognisable, they do not really think we will get the fees—was that our database for garbage collection is some 8,000 residential consumers. The CUC database for metered households is some 16,000 residences. That goes to show that we have somewhere around 50 percent of the people actually being charged for garbage who are using electricity. Even the Council of Associations had difficulty understanding why we would put those together.

It is pretty clear to me, Madam Speaker, that if someone is generating garbage in Cayman a good indication would be that they are using electricity. We cannot say that all houses that are generating garbage have pipe water. We cannot say that all houses that are generating garbage have cable TV. We cannot say that all houses that are generating garbage have telephone. But it is a pretty safe assumption that if you are generating garbage you have power from CUC. It is also a pretty safe assumption that for those vacation homes only generating garbage for one month or two months of the year their averages will be a lot less than the other people. This ties in very closely with the system that has been implemented of getting revenue comparative to the services you are providing.

Hopefully, Madam Speaker, the garbage situation is a bit clearer to those people who may not have understood. I think it is also necessary to state that it was very clearly stated that there is not a problem with the collection of commercial or apartment units. The system with a database in place currently working is pretty much spot on as far as information goes. The problem was with the residential collections and that is where we looked at tying it to the electricity usage.

While I am speaking of CUC, I need to also mention the Member's suggestion of reducing the duty on diesel for CUC. Now, Madam Speaker, I would hope that that recommendation is done to reduce the overall cost of living for our citizens. We have seen many instances when duties are reduced but those costs are not passed to the consumer. Regarding those savings, the Government would pass on by reducing duty. Sadly enough, Government has no way of ensuring that those duties would be passed on to the consumer. Even though that might work out well for CUC or its shareholders, until there is a system in place that you can ensure that the duties are passed on the benefits that would be derived for the little man cannot be measured at this stage.

Madam Speaker, I think it is important to note that when the Member would talk about reducing that duty, I think the contribution is somewhere between 4 and 5 million dollars. It is unbelievable that a responsible Member could get up in the House and make recommendations about reducing duty on the one hand, then criticise the Government for raising fees to balance the Budget on the other. Is he proposing that if we expect to take that 4 or 5 million dollars from CUC that we have should charge the banks or the financial industry a bit more? It baffles me as to the method of accounting that is used.

We get up and we talk about reducing the fees (the revenue to Government) on the one hand, but then criticise it for raising fees on the other hand. Madam Speaker, I do not know if he was hoping we could get that change in revenue from the Drug Task Force or their confiscation of assets . . . or I heard him speaking of some other items, I am not sure where it was. All I can say is that type of accounting is baffling to me. Even though I do not have the accounting degrees of some of my colleagues, I would suggest that maybe that Member should either buy a new calculator or maybe hire one of our accountants on this side.

I think it is also necessary to say that the increase of fuel we are speaking about will go to the roads fund. He spoke at length on the fact that that would be an increase for the common man. He even mentioned how it would increase the cost of transportation for the little person using the bus. Madam Speaker, once again, I take his remarks as praise for a good Budget because 10 cents increase is insignificant on a gallon of gas. I could almost guarantee that if I was to ask that Member what the current cost of gas is now he could not tell me the cost of gas per gallon within 10 cents. The point is that a 10 cents increase is insignificant. We do not have the bus drivers adjusting their prices based on gas fluctuating by 10 cents. He knows that just as well as I know.

The problem is when you do not have anything good to say and you want to say something and you cannot even find something bad to say then all you can say is nonsense. That is the situation that we are at, even though that figure (10 cents per gallon) will not significantly increase the cost of transportation. I heard him make reference, hopefully mistakenly, to some 10 percent increase. It is an increase of 10 cents per gallon.

I know, Madam Speaker, when you go the gas station, as I do, you tell them to put $10 worth in or you tell them to fill the car up; you do not ask what the price of gas is today. The cost fluctuates and you accept that a 10 cent fluctuation is within reason. As to how that will affect the small man, it will be a very insignificant increase in the cost.

Now we go on to speak about the parking. There were some questions as to how the parking system would work. This included the fact that $2.50 an hour for parking would be a great increase for the person who was paying for parking working and making $1,500 a month. He would not be able to afford to pay. Madam Speaker, the parking proposal . . . and I hasten to add that this is another proposal that came through much consultation. This is another recommendation that came through from the financial advisory group.

For parking in George Town, the concept was that we would have specific zones. Depending on the type of parking you were attracting, there would be different fees. If you had a zone, the maximum one would be at a cost of $2.50 per hour. That could be broken down into 15-minute increments or however it is decided to be done. However, if you were parking in front of the bank, and you are going to be parking for a 15-minute time frame you would pay a dollar for 15 minutes. If you decided you wanted to stay there for an hour, because it is a premium spot, you would be charged $2.50. Most people, according to our feedback, who need to park in front of the bank and need to run in for a maximum of an hour maybe once a day or once a week, would be more than willing, if they had the opportunity, to pay $2.50 for an hour parking in those highly needed areas of parking, but only on a temporary basis.

Right now what happens, Madam Speaker, is that whoever gets there at 7 o'clock in the morning parks there and they stay there for the day. So when the next person arrives and needs to use the banks they will not have anywhere to park so the parking system would be set up on a zone system—the more temporary the zone the higher the price. For those zones, like at the back of the Public Library where people park for long periods of time, then for time zones they would have maybe a dollar for every two hours; maybe a dollar for every hour and a half; maybe a dollar a day.

Recommendations have been made and the Second Elected Member from George Town said this is one of the ideas that he mentioned almost a year ago. The good thing, Madam Speaker, is that for some reason that Government of which he was a part made those good recommendations, however, for whatever reason, whether it was a lack of political will or maybe a lack of communication, or maybe it was any one of those things that caused the change in leadership . . . . The difference now we have a Government that has the leadership and has the ability to implement those good ideas that are being made by himself as well. That is why I can honestly say that I look forward to the future of the great Cayman Islands.

When I heard the contribution by the Second Elected Member for George Town, he also made some very good suggestions as to what could be done with company registration and how those fees could be increased. He made reference to the fact that he got that information of knowing how the systems work from his experience of some 17 years in the industry.

Again, I do not understand why that Member who has those great ideas, who was an integral part of the Government of 2001, could not come forward with those ideas so that we did not have to go down the unpredictable and unprecedented route of borrowing some $55 million to balance the Budget. Where were those ideas at the time when the Leader for whom he campaigned and got elected in George Town, was leading the Government? Why could those ideas not be implemented at that time? I am sure that it cannot just be that he wanted or he felt it was not in the best interest of the country to go down the route. I heard him say before in his contribution yesterday (on Monday) something about the Cayman Islands always being predictable. The financial industry had some idea so the fees would be predictable or the cost would be predictable.

What the last Government did was not predictable—when we go out and borrow $55 million in one year it is not something that we can say . . . maybe it was predictable for the banks because their fees did not increase. However, I can guarantee Her Majesty's Government that, as one of her contingent liabilities, one of her Overseas Territories, it was not something that was predictable as far as she was concerned. If it was predictable it was in an area that she did not like predicting, so much so that she decided that in case that does become the predictable style of government and the predictable style of balancing the budget, she was going to make sure she would have a little bit to do with that prediction. She sent down one of her economists to ensure that that type of predictability was short-lived. Madam Speaker, I guess the news might have reached her late, but we recognised that was not the kind of predictability we wanted either. As a result, before she even sent her economist we made the necessary changes.

It took us a year to do it but we recognised that was the route we wanted to go. We made those changes and I am happy to say that, one year later, we are on a whole different footing. We have some of the private sector out there that are concerned. However, I am also happy to say that a huge majority of the private sector, even the private sector that came to meet with the Government on Friday and Saturday evening, gave its support.

The membership of that group, after having the open dialogue with the Government (again, on Friday and Saturday), on Monday expressed to us that they now recognised the position the country is in. The fact is that because of the reality of the situation, the choices they have are very limited. Actually some lawyers in the group said even though they do not want to necessarily pay more, they recognised the country is facing a dire financial situation. They recognised they will have to pay more and all they requested is that they could have a bit of time to stagger their payments.

The good Government, recognising the value of the financial industry and wanting to ensure the vibrant economy we have grown accustomed to, very readily agreed to stagger those payments. To make it as easy as possible for our corporate partners to make their contribution, without finding themselves in such a difficult position that they could no longer continue to enjoy doing business in the Cayman Islands.

Madam Speaker, I think it is important to note as well, that when we get those individuals out there talking about how uncompetitive we are becoming as a jurisdiction, a lot of that is also the scare-mongering and the tactics that have been used in the past. If you have a company and you are doing business in the Cayman Islands and you are making a healthy profit, (and we know that they are not here because they are not making a profit), but your fees are such that you are now going to have an increase in fees. You are complaining that the reason Cayman is becoming uncompetitive is because you are going to have to pass those fees along.

As a responsible business person, if you think your fees are making you uncompetitive, the sensible thing to do is to reduce your profit instead of passing those fees along that would now make you uncompetitive and drive you out of business. When we talk about the fact we are going to be uncompetitive with other jurisdictions the only reason why those fees will go up is if those Members insist on retaining the same profit levels.

When economic times are tough everyone has to make reductions. If those Members really are worried about us becoming uncompetitive, I would humbly suggest that they take (and instead of passing them on to those clients which may now go to other jurisdictions to operate) a reduction in profits for this year and maybe next year, until our economy is back where we want it to be. I do not think that the businesses we have are that silly or greedy to pass the fees along which would mean they would now have to shut down the business so that this year they can maintain their usual levels of profitability. If that was the argument coming from maybe the Opposition just trying to find something to say, I could understand it.

Madam Speaker, the other thing I need to clarify before leaving is that when we talk about what the actual tax package is to the financial industry. I have heard Members of the Opposition get up and talk about the $55 million or the fact that it is close to around $50 million. Maybe they are using the same calculator but from the $54 million I take out $9 million in health fees, $3 million in parking fees, $1 million in gasoline tax and $1 million in parking, and I get to somewhere around a tax package of $36 million that is being presented to the financial industry. The Opposition spoke about how high the package is if we take into account that our tax package this year we also have to consider that last year we borrowed $55 million, we raised taxes of $19 million and at the end of this year we still have $15 million shortfall. So, even though the Opposition would try to express the bad state that the Cayman Islands are in, I am already happy with where we are going for 2002.

Other Members have spoken about how the Government has already instituted cost-saving measures. I want to say that a lot of those measures have been very difficult political decisions. When we talk about cutting the civil service or grants, that some people may feel are not deserved, the people who are used to getting those are the civil servants who are now employed. They are going to be very negatively affected. Like the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac rightly said, we are not going to arbitrarily do anything to negatively affect our Caymanian people. We want and we support a very scientific approach to making the reductions that are possible to increase the efficiencies of Government.

I also need to speak about the bands that were established. There was much discussion about the bands that were established for the firms and how it appeared that those bands were intended to be a disincentive for the law firms or the accounting firms to increase in size. This is one of those points that I see as complementary, but just to make sure that everyone understands the reason for bands; there was some discussion or recommendations made that it should be on an individual basis. The problem with doing it on an individual basis is, if you have a company and you have five members and you have to move to six members there is going to be an increase in your trade and business licence of some $5,000 or $10,000, so you are going to think about that increase. Then when you want to move from six to seven you are going to have another $5,000 or $10,000 so you are also going to be thinking about that increase and for every increase there will be further consideration of the costs.

What the band system will accomplish is that when the company grows from the size of five and they move to six and they pay that additional fee, very quickly they will realise that they have the leeway now from going from five to ten without worrying about any other increases. From a business perspective it makes sense for them to then go out and invest in more Caymanians and train more people to move from being at the start of that band to now being at the end of it, because they are paying the same amount anyway. What company would want to stay at six members knowing they could also be at ten and not pay any more? If I had to pay additional for moving from six or seven, and from seven to eight, and from eight to nine I can see that as being a disincentive.

Madam Speaker, when we have the Opposition Members who are getting up talking about the half-baked ideas, I want to say to them that these measures were well thought out and well-baked. We see these plans working not only to raise revenue but also to encourage our corporate citizens out there to increase the size of the companies and in doing so to train Caymanians. We have also tied the work permit fees, the dependents' fees, whatever we could tie, to encourage people to see the value in training Caymanians and making the investment in Caymanians. That is what the United Democratic Party Government is about—moving the country forward and building Cayman for us Caymanians.

Madam Speaker, the time is late and even though there is much more that could be said about such a good balanced Budget...

[Pause with laughter and chattering]

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Madam Speaker, those Members who are saying they have not heard anything good about this Budget may be listening with the same ears they have been listening with in the financial industry for 18 years, which have not allowed them to be able to make a significant contribution to a budget.

[Background outburst of laughter]

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Maybe it would be good that when we are moving Cayman forward, when we are training our Caymanians, we also offer training for those Members who, even though they have been in the industry for a long time, are still only able to make a very limited contribution.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, will you be near completion within the next few minutes?

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Yes, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, my only duty left is a very pleasant one, that is to take this opportunity to wish you and all the great staff who have allowed us to continue the country's business for the last year and to wish all the people of the Cayman Islands a very happy, safe Christmas, and a blessed New Year. Also to say, knowing you will be doing quite a bit of travelling between here and Cayman Brac and Little Cayman during this season, I wish you and your family safe travel and look forward to the continued working relationship with you.

I also want to say, Madam Speaker, that, as the Leader of Government Business and the United Democratic Party have said, we recognise the value of the position which you have offered yourself to hold and we will do whatever is possible to ensure that your job as a representative of the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is as good if not better than in the past.

With that I finish, Madam Speaker, and to say thank you to all Members for their indulgence and for staying to this extended late hour to conduct the country's business.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Before calling on the Leader of Government Business I should wish, by way of information, to inform all honourable Members that tomorrow the Deputy Speaker will indeed take the Chair to allow me to attend official duties in my constituency and I wish in advance to thank him for his courtesy. I call now upon the Leader of Government Business for the adjournment.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I move the adjournment of this honourable House until tomorrow, that is, 10 am Thursday, 20 December.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Leader.

The question is that the House be now adjourned until 10 am tomorrow, 20 December. All those in favour please say Aye. All those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The House now stands adjourned until 10 am tomorrow.

AT 6.24 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM THURSDAY, 20 DECEMBER 2001.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
THURSDAY
20 DECEMBER 2001
10.20 AM
Ninth Sitting

*[Hon. Cline A. Glidden, Jr., Deputy Speaker,
In the Chair]*

The Speaker: I would like to invite the Second Elected Member for George Town to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Let us pray:

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles Prince of Wales, and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace, now and always. Amen.

Proceedings Resumed at 10.22 am

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Speaker: I have received no apologies.

The Clerk: Item 3 - Statements by Members of the Government.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Mr. Speaker, just before you allow statements by the Government, there were two documents that I was supposed to table from two days ago. I crave your indulgence to be able to table the documents.

The Speaker: So ordered.

The Honourable Minister for Education, Human Resources and Culture.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

PARTIAL COLLAPSE OF SOME CEILINGS AT THE GEORGE HICKS HIGH SCHOOL

Hon. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker. Thank you for your kind permission to make a preliminary statement on the partial collapse of some ceilings of the George Hicks High School and the implications related thereto.

On Monday when staff arrived at school and prior to school starting, it was discovered that the ceiling in a Social Studies classroom building, phase 3 of the George Hicks High School had collapsed. I visited the school this morning having received reports from my senior staff on Monday and Tuesday, as well as preliminary reports from the Public Works Department and the firm of engineers.

I regret to inform you that the damage is substantial and that further investigation has put 15 classrooms out of commission. Students and teachers from the Social Studies block were relocated following the discovery and upon the recommendation of the engineers; the use of the aforementioned classrooms has been discontinued until a more detailed examination of the structures can be done.

Mr. Speaker, I am disturbed to find out from the principals that the Public Works Department's verbal report indicates that 6 two-storey blocks are showing structural weaknesses. The Department is expected to give their written report as well as an indication of what action they recommend by the end of the week.

In the meantime, end of term activities at the school as usual and school will close as scheduled at 12 noon today. Arrangements have been negotiated with Pastor French of the adjoining Church of God Chapel Family Life building for temporary use of some classrooms when school reopens on the 7 January. In the meantime, I shall give a full report on the cost and other implications for this unfortunate situation as soon as this information becomes available. Thank you, Sir.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Mr. Speaker, can I be recognised?

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

POINT OF CLARIFICATION

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. For the last three days I have noticed that there are no questions on the Order Paper and maybe we could get an explanation from the Government as to why there are no questions being placed on the Order Paper.

The Speaker: I will ask the Deputy Chairman of the Business Committee if he would like to respond.
The Honourable Minister.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, it was taken that we would give every opportunity to Members of the Honourable House to debate the Budget once started, without interruption. I understand the query raised by the Honourable Member from East End and I will certainly convey his sentiments to the Business Committee.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister for Health.

DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I assure you that I too am somewhat confused at getting it right because only 42 days ago I was the Second Elected Member from Bodden Town and I now find myself as Minister of Health.

Mr. Speaker, I think I am privileged to see politics and parliamentary practice and procedure grow and evolve while I am a Member of this House. For you, today, are in the Chair filling in for the Speaker, you being the Deputy Speaker. In most territories, the Deputy never reaches the Speaker's Chair. As I recall, certainly your predecessor did not have such an occasion to do so. So, I would like to compliment you and I am sure you must be feeling a bit strange but up until now you have done a good job. I have every confidence you will continue during the course of the day. I think it is also quite historical and I do not know if it has happened in any Parliament that you are in the chair as Speaker, and your father is the Serjeant-at-Arms. It is indeed something that I think is very unique and perhaps it is the first, and I would like to compliment you both.

Mr. Speaker, as I have noted, changes in political conditions in the Cayman Islands took place over the past 42 days to where I find myself as a Minister of Government and the Minister for Health, District Administration and Agriculture. I am not altogether lost in the business of Government since most of my early career was spent as a Civil Servant and indeed I left Government as the Permanent Secretary for Tourism. So now, instead of just preparing submissions for Executive Council, I have the opportunity of actually presenting the papers in the Executive Council and I do claim to know something about something. I do claim to have some knowledge about government and its workings.

I am also proud to be a Member of the United Democratic Party. It is not the first time there have been political parties in the Cayman Islands. There were large political parties in the 60s and for various reasons, these parties fell away. I heard an explanation given by Mr. Burns Ruddy, a few weeks ago when we made the formal announcement that he believes that one of the reasons was that the Cayman Islands Constitution was not that advanced at that time in the 60s. Indeed at that point there was not a Cayman Islands Constitution—we were being ruled directly from Jamaica and those among others were the reasons the parties fell away.

I have been an advocate that the only way to properly carry out the business of parliamentary democracy under the Westminster system is through political parties. Unfortunately, over the years there have been persons, among whom have been Elected Members of this House, who have used the very thought of having a political party to create fear and anxiety in the population. It continues even up until now. For I have heard all sorts of remarks made regarding the formation of a political party. I have heard people unknowing go so far to say that it is illegal to have one because it is not in the Cayman Islands Constitution.

I suppose the only constitution that one could find any mention made of political parties might be that of the former Czechoslovakia, the USSR or Cuba and those types of countries. A political party is no more than a social club brought together or started by people who subscribe to certain political aims and objectives. They declare, hold their first meeting and they carry on the business as it is set down in their constitution and you have a political party and the workings of a political party. Now, anyone else may choose to challenge that but I would ask them to bring clear proof otherwise. Including the Labour Party in England, the Conservative Party in the United States and the Democrats, I do not know that anyone can go to the Constitution of the United States and find where that constitution talks about the Democratic Party or the Conservative Party.

So, to say the least, it is nonsense, but then nonsense is spread around our society in immense portions. Having said that, I know I am not part of an illegal organisation in the country. Also, if it was illegal, no doubt we would have the police, the Legal Department and all other such entities taking steps to stop or to hinder it. So those of us who are members, our great task is to do what parties do; live under the discipline of the views of the majority in the party. That is, not the Elected Members or the Parliamentary Members of the party but indeed the citizens who direct and instruct the Parliamentary people as to what and where they want to see priorities placed and the way forward to achieve them.

In the weeks, months and years ahead, of course the task will be of living under the discipline. As a people we tend to break up into factions and discipline tends to be the last thing we want to deal with. I believe that this is one case that that will not be so. The strength of the Members that I see in the United Democratic Party, particularly the new Members of this House gives me every belief that the discipline will have to be maintained and particularly, I think the Ministers will be well advised to stay within what is the majority position.

Mr. Speaker, the fact that I am only 42 days old as a Minister of Government, needless to say I have no past to defend but I do believe I have a future not to offend. It is my intention as far as is possible and to the best of my knowledge to live within the Laws, regulations, practices and procedures of this House and also that of the Executive Council.

Today, Mr. Speaker, we are here to debate the Budget Address for the year 2002. I would like to make some general remarks on that before I go on the specifics, which have been assigned to the Ministry for which I am responsible. Before proceeding there, I would like to thank the staff that I found in the Ministry of Health who has been extremely supportive since I have been there. I find them well informed on the subjects for which they have been assigned and must attend to.

I have also had the opportunity of meeting with staff from some of the other departments and they have also pledged their support to me in the way forward. I wish for it to be known that it is my desire to work with all staff in all departments. As I have noted, I am not a stranger to the Civil Service therefore, I do have some advantage in working in my present capacity.

I wish all staff in the departments to know that I do not see my role as one of punishment or of upsetting persons or systems or whatever. My role is to offer management and administration of these departments to set the broad policy outlines and to work towards seeing them being carried out. The Governor who is in charge of the Civil Service has given me his commitment that he will support my efforts regarding staffing and matters relating to staffing and I take him at his word that he will do. So, I think the stage is set where I can proceed and hopefully, we can proceed together. All of the staff in the departments with whom I have to work; I ask them for their professionalism, which as far as I am concerned from a practical stand point, is no more than doing the job which is required of them in the best and most efficient manner.

Mr. Speaker, this Budget is indeed a balanced Budget. I also think of it as a reality Budget for we have reached a point in the Cayman Islands where all of the years of plenty has come to the years of not so much. There is a scarcity of money in this country at this time, particularly, what is available to Government for Government to carry on its business. This was found by the Government prior to this one and various statements were made with regards to this fact. Certain steps were taken to alter that situation but on the brink of reaching the year 2002, the present Government was faced with some serious realities. These realities were that one of two things that could be done; either the Government could borrow more money which the banks indicated they would lend at favourable, reduced interest rates or there was opened to the Government to bring some revenue measures.

Mr. Speaker, I now know because of where I am at this time, that the British Government does not want the Cayman Islands borrowing any more money. I have seen documentary proof of it. In fact, I have also heard this said in many words. Our country has reached the point where this little country of 40,000 people is dealing with Budgets of $300 million. That in itself is an unrealistic condition but for us it is reality.

The costs to the Government have risen to a point where we as a developing country — I will not term as a Third World because I think we have moved beyond that — are attempting to live a First World life. We have to have paved roads, the very best in technology, the very best in education, the best in health services; we have to have the very best in everything. I am not saying that that is a bad concept; what I am saying, Mr. Speaker, is that it costs money.

There is always the criticism of how effectively and efficiently the Government handles money. In every country of the world that is a criticism directed at governments but that is where we are. The normal and usual way is to tax the poor people. I opposed the taxes earlier this year brought by the previous Government because it came in areas that hit directly at the average poor citizen—milk, eggs, bread—that type of thing. There are certain staples which are normally affordable because an egg is one of the best sources of protein there is and we know that bread from biblical times was referred to as the staff of life, so if they can be available, at least we know there is some reasonable survival.

The last Government saw coming into effect this year, certain fees on banks; on some businesses at a certain level and amounts. However, the reality now is of necessity that those fees be increased because that is the only way forward, for it is not possible anymore to tax the consumer items. We cannot tax spirits or cigarettes anymore, what is referred to generally as the sin tax, we cannot do it. It has reached the point where we cannot do it anymore, we cannot go beyond that. So, Mr. Speaker, this Government was faced with the reality as is shown in the revenue measures which have been placed before this Honourable House.

Mr. Speaker, much has been said via the newspaper, the television, the radio, people calling in and all the rest of it. They have been going on and on about the evils that have been brought on by the tax measures which have been proposed. I think this Honourable House and the country need to know that the voices of the private sector were heard. I have been in meetings with representatives of the Bankers' Association and I was very glad I was there for more reasons than one; I got an education. I learned, for example, that our claims about having 600 banks are not true; that is not a reality. I understand that in reality, we have about 125 banks. The others referred to, actually do business as banks would do but for one thing do not reach that real criteria where there are people doing business on a daily basis, in fact, banks are managing banks!

So, that is not a reality for us. I also learnt that the business about us having $800 billion of assets being managed in the Cayman Islands; is also not true. We may have about $250 billion I am informed and these people have to know. I make that point to say that it seems to me that unreal boasting has placed us in a position where we have to pay for that boasting. The OECD (Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development), the FATF (Financial Action Task Force) and all of those other organisations are making us pay for this unreal boasting. They are making us pay for that by the $13 million expense for the Monetary Authority, which supposedly must be set up to manage assets of $800 billion, when it is not true. There are demands right now on this country and on this Government to increase staff in certain areas in the Monetary Authority, which is an additional expense. So, we are paying for boasting for what cannot be established in reality.

My position, Mr Speaker, it is very simple. We are to get to reality and stop the foolish boasting and talking about things that are not so; working with what is real and not dealing with the unreal. The costs include the Monetary Authority, the demands by the OECD and external forces to the Cayman Islands that are forcing the Government to add more costs to its revenue. Now who do we seek revenue from to meet the cost for government? Do we go again to the little man with the eggs, milk and the bread or do we ask our partners in the financial sector to come to the assistance? That is, if they do not exist perhaps the Monetary Authority exists because it is a vehicle needed to monitor, supervise and report on the financial sector. Those costs can be directly related to the financial services in this country so in turn it is only logical that we look to them to contribute some more to the revenue so that we can meet the mounting costs.

The Monetary Authority is expected to regulate and supervise this $800 billion on deposit but if I ever had an education, it was listening to those learned bankers talking about how these are little blips on the computer screen in and out overnight supposedly deposited here but they never . . . there is no such reality. If managed locally, the monies would be in much, much lower amounts. So, Mr. Speaker, I think the House should know and the public should know that we met with representatives of the financial sector.

Last Friday evening we met at 4.30 until almost 9.30 in the night with persons from the financial sector. It was about 17 people. We met with some of those people on Saturday morning, just past 9 o'clock until 6 o'clock in the evening. On Monday, the House started late, while we were meeting with persons from that sector and I think that the meetings were good from this perspective. Those persons were given the hard cold facts of the Government's financial condition and they heard the Government's position.

Those persons were asked to tell us if there was an alternative and we would make the changes, but please realise that this is the amount we need to have to run Government for 2002. There were no alternatives; so those persons said, 'Well, it should be spread out over a longer period of years.' However, how are we going to spread it out from 2002 to 2004 when you need it in 2002? That was the reality of the situation and time was not cut. Everybody took as long as it was possible and necessary for everybody to have their say.

I hear and see what is said on the outside and what they are saying through the media. However, when we were meeting with them they were not saying the same thing. They understand well and they were not telling us that it was going to cause any law firms or any banks to shut down or any such thing, but of course, everyone must play to the media and there is no entity in the world that is better for criticism than government; any government including this one.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, this House needs to understand that what we heard when we were in closed sessions with these persons that it was possible for the revenue measures to be brought into place but as they put it and I repeat, 'It will have considerable impact.' It has to; nobody is trying to deny that. It has to, but what is the alternative? No one came up with any alternative. I do not know that there is any alternative.

Mr. Speaker, they said that the Government has to do more to reduce expenditure. I think every day that Government operates it should be looking at ways to save to be more efficient. There are ongoing measures; in fact, the last Government put out an edict that says; 'Look, salaries are frozen where they are. No more increments will be given. We are not going to fill posts which exist in the Budget because we cannot maintain or reduce the cost to Government'.

There have been cutbacks in the Seamen's and Veteran grants to make it possible for Government to realise the savings. Mr. Speaker, it is not fair or responsible what the media is doing at this time. Generally speaking, it does not take sufficient time to really find out what the situation is and they are more than happy to publish anything to sensationalise. Let me give you an example of how serious it was from my perspective. The day before we finalised the Budget, persons from the Budget office came to the Ministry and said we need to cut back Health Services by another million dollars. I did not try to argue with them. The Permanent Secretary and I discussed the matter. I said well, call the management in and see if it is possible.

Over the weekend they came up with ways of cutting another million dollars out of the Budget for the Health Services, but it included cutting something like 27 staff which included Caymanian nurses and otherwise and when that came to me I said how can this be real. Well, they said that is the only way that we can do it. I said well, how will it affect the delivery of Health Services, well it could not. If we had made those cuts there would be problems at Accidents and Emergency, and in different parts of the Hospital to deliver the service that is there. That is the kind of reality that we are dealing with. Now when I think of those types of conditions, Mr. Speaker, I see the people who live in the multi-storey buildings here and do business and manage the millions and the billions and collect the large fees for it.

However, I know there are only two stops when people become sick. That is, the Chrissie Tomlinson Memorial Hospital and that one up there off Smith Road, that gets a lot of bad mouthing. However, no matter how much they have or how many planes they can bring to Cayman to fly them out, they have to find some place to perch if they become seriously ill in a moment, then that is one of those places. Do they want that? Do they want us to reduce the capability of the hospital so that in emergencies we cannot meet them, because supposedly Government needs to cut back more? I do not think any of them would advocate that, yet they keep saying Government has to cut back more.

There is, Mr. Speaker, right now in place a process of cutting back. There is in place an ongoing exercise to review the whole civil service by members of the Civil Service College in England and they will be going department by department to see if it is possible or where it is necessary to cut back posts. However, we cannot allow efficiencies to be cut back because if we cut back those efficiencies it will be the financial services sector and the private sector the first to claim they are not getting service, they cannot get replies and the Civil Service is not performing. It is a vicious cycle.

Mr. Speaker, I think it is right that a petition (it is titled) was hand delivered to the Legislative Assembly from persons who state that they are Caymanian administrative staff and trainee attorneys at Hunter & Hunter and HuntLaw Corporate Services Limited. It was hand delivered here to all Members of this House. They supposedly were petitioning us to not bring any revenue measures, which would mean that the Budget would be short of $54 million which would be deficit budgeting or we would have to cut back $54 million worth of service. Some arguments were put forward on this which I think is very sad, for I do not believe that this emanated from the lower administrative staff on their own. In fact, I know it did not if I am to believe what the petition says.

I would like to read a part of it and I quote, "In our opinion the increases which have been declared are altogether so exorbitant that they should be labelled as irrational. Our firm has had to immediately eliminate all staff Christmas bonuses and all anticipated 2002 salary increases which were due in January in an attempt to meet the new Government demands that will become payable shortly if passed into law."

The civil servants lost their bonuses from August of this year, no more increments for them and that was well before Christmas. Christmas bonuses (if I remember correctly) were due the 14th of this month when the Budget was delivered. Further on in the letter they asked what they must do and so forth. I quote, "With the loss of our yearend bonuses the Merry in our Christmas has been completely removed." Mr. Speaker, I say to those persons (and I do not know who they are) I believe that their management took a hideous position as a means of terrorising them to try to terrorise us into attempting to do something which was inescapable. If five or six days before Christmas day they are going to stop their bonuses, I say that they did not want to pay them their bonuses in the first instance. If there was a Christmas party that was being held it could not have cost that much that they should not have a little merriment in their offices. That is my position.

I would invite the Minister for Labour to instruct his Labour Department (he has a better name for it now; Employment Services Centre) to take a careful look at the situation in Hunter & Hunter Corporation to make sure that there is not afoot what is called constructive dismissal.

The Speaker: Could I ask the Honourable Minister if he would lay the document that he is reading from, on the Table?

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: With pleasure, Mr. Speaker. I will have a copy made and laid on the Table.

Mr. Speaker, this is the kind of situation which exists in our society—one of reaction and one of unreality. Do I believe that by this firm or other large law firms having to pay an increased fee to the levels that the bands provide, they are going to go out of business? No, I do not. And they will increase their fees and pass it on to people like you and me when we use their services or those whom they serve in the financial sector. Is it going to have that shocking situation that everybody is going to withdraw their business from the Cayman Islands? No, I do not believe that.

Where do they take it? Do they take it to Turks and Caicos, like we hear they are doing, or do they take it the British Virgin Islands? Well, the fact is (and I have been reliably told since I have been in Government) that those other territories who are doing more business in quantity than us right now are in for some belt tightening too because they are going to have to dance to the same music the Cayman Islands is dancing to with regards to the external forces; FATF, OECD and the like. So, again we want to keep this in real perspective instead of unreal perspective, Mr. Speaker.

However, do I think it was good to meet with the private sector? I do, Mr. Speaker. In fact, it is something I recommend to the Government and all of my colleagues that we make it a regular practice to meet with those stakeholders, if not partners. So that they know what is happening, what is ongoing and that they know the reality of what is happening in Government. There is one thing that I think that we have to be grateful for and that is the passage of the Management and Finance Law.

I think we have to be very grateful for the simple reason when the members from the private sector said it was sudden and they did not know about it, that is the truth. But why? We have a foolish way of developing a budget that it virtually remains secret until it is tabled in this House. I think that is the height of foolishness. At least the new Law makes it possible that Government finances will be reported on quarterly and that budgets, henceforth and forward, must be circularised to everybody affected; all of the associations, all of the private sector, civil servants and Government alike, and feedback is taken. That is the kind of budget that I am proud to be associated with.

Of course, another major thing that is coming into effect with that is that the fiscal year in the Cayman Islands will be from the 1 July to the end of June, which means that fees and taxes will not come crashing down on everybody in Christmas time when everybody is spending what they do not have anyway. So, that is a most positive thing to look forward to.

Mr. Speaker, the Cayman Islands have created an environment over the years that has made it possible for banks, law firms, accounting firms, company management firms and all and sundry to come here and set up business in the Cayman Islands and make large profits. However, they have never been called upon to contribute to what they could do and to the extent that would be representative of the amount of business and profits that they make. Mr. Speaker, when there is a crunch smart business will try to absorb some of the expenses by lowering their profit margin and also find ways and means forward.

Does anyone want to see mutual funds leave the country or banks shut down or accounting firms shut down? That would be madness to believe that such would be the case. Nobody wants that to happen, that is the last thing we want to happen, but it is the reality that this coming year the Government finds itself in a position where that money is needed. It is shown in the Budget; it was shown to the furthest extent to those persons with whom the Government met over the past days.

One of the areas that Government might be able to save money is through being able to reduce the requirements in the Monetary Authority. When we find out that we are really not as big and great as we say we are, that might have been a feel good situation but in reality it is not. I believe that the Government, and particularly the Financial Secretary, will all have to sit down and factor in reality to deal with the forces external to us and then we can all come to some kind of reality.

Mr. Speaker, I can assure you that as recent as yesterday my colleague, the Minister for Community Services . . . we are the new boys on the block and only yesterday we had our hands on a document which showed us an analysis of Cayman's financial standing which was quite sobering and belt tightening. It has been all over and is in progress even now. I think it is appropriate to say that one of the most difficult conditions in dealing with this Budget has been the way it has been treated by the media.

I would like at this time to draw attention, Mr. Speaker, to something which has occurred in very recent times in relation to what I called irresponsibility on the part of the daily newspaper, the Caymanian Compass. Cayman is such a strange country. We are a society that would instantly like to believe something bad about one another rather than something good. If it is something good we instantly want to treat it in a derogatory fashion or to be critical of it. It seems to me the Caymanian Compass has fallen directly into that culture or perhaps is enhancing it. I want to point out where it could have been a wonderful opportunity to have informed an unknowing public . . . and I would like now to refer to a few quotes, Mr. Speaker, from the Caymanian Compass dated Thursday, 6 December 2001, on the front page under the Caption "New House Seating Order." I quote:

"Members of the Legislative Assembly appear to have engaged in a game of musical chairs. When the House resumed yesterday morning, few of the Members were sitting in their usual chairs. The United Democratic Party was moved enbloc to the seating on the right hand side of the Speaker.

In the past these seats have been occupied only by the Elected Official Members of Executive Council. Also, the Official Members have been moved down the Chamber.

“The seats where the Official Members sat to the immediate right of the Speaker are now occupied by the Elected Members of Executive Council. The front bench contains the Leader of Government Business, Mr. McKeeva Bush, the Deputy Leader, Mr. Linford Pierson and Education Minister, Mr. Roy Bodden. Behind them are Ministers Mr. Gilbert McLean and Dr. Frank McField with a lone Backbencher, Mr. Lyndon Martin. In the next block of six seats, in front of the three Official Members in their normal order; Chief Secretary, Attorney General and Financial Secretary.

“Behind them are Backbenchers Mr. Cline Glidden, Captain Eugene Ebanks and Mr. Rolston Anglin. On what must now be considered ‘Opposition side’ Mr. Kurt Tibbetts occupies the front seat to the immediate left of the Speaker; Mrs. Edna Moyle sits behind him; Mr. Alden McLaughlin is in seat three at the front and Mr. Anthony Eden behind him. East End MLA, Mr. Arden McLean cuts a rather lonely figure as he sits on his own at the far end and back of the second block of seats.”

Now, Mr. Speaker, I believe that this was written in a way and with a tone to continue to stir the upset in some quarters in this country since the reshuffling of Government. I believe it was deliberate because had anyone associated with this newspaper who has editorial authority or whatever inquired of the Speaker or Clerk they could have been told why the changes were made. Mr. Speaker, since it relates to the proceedings of this House, I would like to say why.

[Inaudible comment]

Mr. Speaker, as I noted earlier a political party has been formed in this country—namely, the United Democratic Party. It carries with it certain responsibilities and certain things that must be done in a certain way. In Executive Council we the Members spoke with His Excellency, the Governor on the issue of seating in the House, to bring the seating in line with convention and practice and procedure under the Westminster system of Government.

His Excellency contacted his superiors in the United Kingdom at our request to inquire if anything would be wrong with it, they said no. It has nothing to do with changing the precedence, that is, the hierarchy of the Official Members in the House. The seating in the House is purely a matter for the House. Of course, they would not have been so contemptuous of Parliament to talk about playing musical chairs. I am coming to that comment in a moment too.

We, the Elected Ministers, naturally conferred with our colleagues (the Official Members) who understood clearly what was being done, who received the communication from the Clerk that the House

Committee’s recommendation from the early part of this year, that is, the seating should be done by function rather than district and they knew what was happening. Copies were left as well and circulated to all the other Members and everything was set down on that except the seating of the Government side.

It was left to the decision of the Honourable Members on what is the Opposition side. Whether they want to call themselves Opposition or not that is strictly their business but that brass object on the dais, Mr Speaker, is representative of the Crown on one end and the foot of it on the other. Opposite that mace is six: the Government to the right of the Speaker and the person who is the Leader of Government Business (or if he had an advance constitution would be chief minister, prime minister or premier) who would sit directly opposite the head of it.

The senior Ministers sits on what is called the Front Bench and the other Ministers would sit on what would be the Backbench and their Backbench Members would sit with them. That is where the word ‘Backbench’ comes from, and that too is set down in text. The Opposition side or the side for any independents or whatever, sit on the left of the Speaker. Now I have an authority for that Mr. Speaker, it is called Erskine May Parliamentary Practice and Procedure, and I have also a ton of other books that I have been consulting over the past days that pose this point. But I would like to quote Erskine May, page 178, 22nd Edition, where seating of Members is concerned, the ‘Places of Members’; it is stated here and I read first on the Lords:

“The arrangements for the seating of Members of the House of Lords are, in theory, governed by the House of Lords Precedence Act 1539. In practice, these arrangements have been modified for the sake of convenience in debate on modern party lines, with the Government and its supporters sitting to the right of the Speaker and the Opposition parties sitting on his left. Members of the House who do not wish to attach themselves to any particular party usually sit on the Cross Benches.”

Under Commons: “In the Commons no place is allotted to any Member.”

I stop there and tell the reason why. There are 650 Members of Parliament in the House of Commons and there are about 400 seats so there are not enough seats for all of them. I learned that in 1989 when I went as an attachment and was there three weeks with the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association. If you want a seat in the Commons get there early or you will not get a seat. And if you do not, you stay outside.

Therefore, “... no place is allotted to any Member: but by custom the front bench on the right hand of the chair, called the Treasury Bench or Government front bench, is appropriated for the members of the administration.” The Front Bench on the opposite side (although other Members occasionally sit there) is reserved by convention for the leading Members of the Opposition.

Now I wonder whether the Caymanian Compass will go and publish that for the benefit of the general public instead of letting it appear that people like me and others can chase the Attorney General and the Chief Secretary out of their seats.

Mr. Speaker, for some reason the media in this country have never chosen me as one of their friends, although I do not know anything that I have done except (like now) get up and have the courage to tell the truth and they do not like it. They have a role to play in this country and if they are playing the role that they should, they should understand that informing the public factually about what is happening in the country is part of their duty. However, like so many things it is not done the right way.

There is another matter that we need to get right here when carrying out the business of this House and of this country. There is in Government the Executive arm, the Judicial and the Legislative arm. Never in a democracy should the three meet. The Caymanian Compass does not (nor does the other media) go writing stories in a similar manner, fashion and tone, about the courts across the street. They would fear contempt of court. They can give the court 'respect' (since I do not know if that is a reality) but they do not do that. However, the people that sit in this Parliament regularly get disrespected by name or by things that they do.

Mr. Speaker, the media should also be aware of one thing: Parliament is the court of last resort. Parliament can sit as a court and they may want to read up a little on parliamentary history to understand that and what it means. They may want to understand that it is contempt for them to have anything to say or spread on the streets through the media even about the behaviour of Members in this House. That is also the case here. This is a very special place, this Legislative Assembly, and misbehaviour is handled by the House. If Members do something that is in contempt of the Chair or otherwise it is handled by the House just like the judges handle misbehaviour among the lawyers. Somebody has to get that right and understand that.

It is a shame what is going on, particularly since 8 November, where the Caymanian Compass seems to have taken a dislike to what has occurred or with whom it has occurred. It is not their business! It is the business of the people! Their reporting must be accurate and to the point without any dressing or flair or whatever else—that is the way it should be. I believe it is important, Mr. Speaker, because it also relates to the Budget and the way things are said about the Budget.

[Inaudible comments]

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I just wanted to ask whether the House would want to take its morning break or whether we wanted to continue.

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Mr. Speaker, if you would, I would not mind having the break. That is all right with me anyway.

The Speaker: I will suspend proceedings for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.51 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.22 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed.
The Minister of Health, continuing.

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. When we took a suspension I was speaking on matters of proceedings in the House. This debate is a proceeding and I took the opportunity to comment on the fact that there three arms of Government—the Executive, the Judiciary and Parliament—and that the three have separate functions and in a civilised society the three do not meet because then it would be a perversion of democracy.

Mr. Speaker, I would just like to make a few other comments in regards to the freedom of speech in Parliament. I think that is very necessary because again what has been happening, particularly here in recent times, is that anything that is said by the political directorate of the day or indeed here in the House is latched onto as being criminal. For example, the most common remark that I have heard from the time I can remember is 'you getting away with murder' and so on as an expression that became something here in recent times. That remark supposedly made in here was creating even a greater fear and anxiety in the world about the things that are supposedly happening on the world scene.

The Cayman Islands Government was distressed and bleeding and needed us to attempt to bring a budget which has some revenue measures which will impact on a sector of the society, but that has become something far beyond that.

Mr. Speaker, I think we should also, at this point in time, know the concept of freedom of speech in Parliament. I would like to quote again Mr. Speaker, from Erskine May, Parliamentary Practice, 22nd Edition, page 83, which says, "... final legal recognition of the privilege of freedom of speech in both Houses of Parliament is to be found in article IX of the Bill of Rights 1689, which states that the 'freedom of speech and debate on proceedings in Parliament ought not to be impeached or questioned in any court or place out of Parliament.'"

It goes on to say that, "This chapter considers in turn the practical effect of article IX on freedom of speech within Parliament itself, its application to the publication of parliamentary proceedings beyond the precincts, Parliament's exclusive cognisance of its own proceedings, and the significance of expressions in article IX, 'proceedings in Parliament', 'impeaching' and 'questioning'."

Mr. Speaker, to further make the point I would like to quote from a book called Parliament Functions Practice and Procedures by J.A.G. Griffiths and Michael Riley. On page 94, under "Application of Privilege Today", it is very enlightening. I am still speaking to our proceedings in the House as it relates to this Budget debate, the media, and the way the media is treating the matter. It reads, and I quote: "Parliamentary privilege has been developed over a very long period. Some matters are firmly established especially the freedom of speech and debate and other proceedings."

"The central point has not been challenged since 1887 when in Dillon v. Balfour the court declared that it had no jurisdiction in a matter involving words spoken in the House. This freedom is essential for the effective working of the House. Under it everyday Members are able to make statements or allegations about outside bodies of persons and sometimes inoffensive language which they would hesitate to make without the protection of privilege."

"This is often criticised and undoubtedly the privilege may occasionally be abused. However, the freedom to make allegations—which the Member genuinely believes at the time to be true or at least worthy of investigation—is fundamental. Such allegations for example, might relate to possible corruption by a police man or abuse of power by some powerful person or public body or sale of dangerous toys or fraud by financial businesses or breaches of health and safety regulations in a factory. The Member might not be able to present detail evidence in support of his statements which would stand up in a court of law. However, without this freedom, parliamentary scrutiny of the executive would be muzzled and individual Members' defence of the interest of their constituents and others would be severely constrained."

Mr. Speaker, as I have said, the media and the country on a whole believe that they respect their Executive and show the courts great respect. However, it seems in some instances that the court may be misled or not well enough informed about the freedom of speech in Parliament to be able to support what I am saying and what happens to one in their personal life, is what one knows best.

I wish to refer to two pieces of correspondence I have. I personally am growing tired of the disrespect paid to the institution of Parliament and the Members of Parliament. I do not necessarily speak here of myself, I speak to all of us, for as I said, for whatever reasons I do not seem to be the golden boy of the media and there have been many of them now.

However, Mr. Speaker, on 7 June the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly got a Memorandum from the Commissioner of Police, which was rightly copied to me since it affected matters relating to this House and its proceedings and I would like to read it—

"Request for Transcript. As a result of inquiries being conducted by the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service it has become necessary to obtain a transcript of MLA, Mr. Gilbert McLean's contribution to the debate on the Throne Speech which took place on the 29 March 2001. In the event a transcript is not yet available a tape recording of Mr. McLean's speech will also suffice. Thank you in advance for your assistance to this matter. Please do not hesitate to contact me should you require any further information."

"Yours sincerely,

"D. Thursfield, Commissioner of Police."

Now Mr. Speaker, I know the Police can arrest me on lots of things—if I break the Law. However, I guarantee the world that he or no one else can arrest me for what I say in this House! There has also been a more recent correspondence from the Attorney-General who wishes to review my speech in the House and this was sent to the Attorney-General on 23 October by the Clerk of the Assembly and it reads:

"Dear Mr. Ballentyne,

"Further to your request I enclose a copy of Hansard, unedited extract of the proceedings held the 26 March 2001."

"Yours sincerely,

"The Clerk."

That relates to March when I spoke about the court that was held on Sunday and at the time was buzzing around the place in all the media. However, now it seems that somebody, definitely under false impression or without knowledge or not understanding, believes that they can investigate me for what I said in here related to that. I understand that this comes via entities associated with the Judiciary. I will ask them to stop. And, Mr. Speaker, I would like to table these two documents.

The Speaker: So ordered

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: I respect the courts, Mr. Speaker. I respect the Executive Council. In fact, I try to show respect to everybody. That is the way I was raised and that is the way I want to live and the way I want to die. I think it is time that we as Members show each other the required respect in all instances. That is not to say that we will not have disagreements and arguments or we will not criticise one another. However, when it comes to Parliament and the things which can be said in here, they cannot be challenged or in anyway questioned before the court or anyone else.

I think that has to be made clear and it cannot be in contempt of the court because all of us reserve ourselves so that we do not make remarks which are contemptuous of the court. Certainly, I did not. I have read the extract, and nobody suggested that to me but I do not want anybody investigating me for what I said in this House. What I read awhile ago from the book called Parliament shows what was in order when the Member from East End raised the issue and tabled the document, he did show someone being out of order in questioning or making contemptuous remarks about Parliament and what Members say here. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I think it was necessary that I should make those comments and I thank you for allowing me the opportunity to do so.

Mr. Speaker, going back more specifically to the Budget, I think that we have reached a point in time that all of the prior years have caught up with us. I do not wish to attempt to be critical of the last Executive, the prior governments or whatever. It has come along like a stream or like a river until the point it has reached now and there has to be corrective measures.

One of the things that the members of the private sector asked us when we met was whether the 2003 Budget would also contain revenue measures. The answer to that is no, because just as we have run out of anymore ability to tax the items which have always been taxed (the consumer items, customs and so on), certainly the enhancement measure now proposed in this Budget takes the private sector and the financial sector up to a level for 2003. I think it would be somewhat insane to believe that one would go to tax that again. However, it is an adjustment which for as far as is possible has brought the levels and the items all to this point. Therefore, after this, I think we have to find the means to perhaps create efficiencies, to privatise certain operations but we have to find other ways and means forward other than taxation. Certainly, we have to stop borrowing!

Mr. Speaker, the Government as you know is in the process of continuing the question of being able to benefit from a bond issue. It is expected that once that can be completed, in effect we would be paying one bill. That should reduce the amount the Government is paying and therefore should also show a savings.

I would like at this time to turn to the subjects that have been assigned to me as Minister for Health Services, District Administration and Agriculture and comment on them. In so doing, I hope also to prove and show the fact that no one is trying to make up any stories about the need for enhancement to Government revenue because it is a real serious thing indeed.

Before I turn to that let me say for the benefit of all that I will be the last one in the Cayman Islands that ever says the media should be muzzled. I will be the first to say that the media has a responsibility to publish the facts as they are without any perversion of the truth.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to comment first on Health Services and in so doing I wish to comment on the scope of the business of the Ministry as it relates to Health Services. That is, to realise the state of wellness among the citizens and residents of the Cayman Islands based on the World Health Organisational definition of health, which is not merely the absence of disease or infirmity but a state of complete physical, mental and social wellbeing.

It also must work to ensure that the population is able to gain access to affordable and appropriate medical treatment. Perhaps not all of us are familiar, and certainly I was not, with just what the Cayman Islands offers as health care facilities. But we are fortunate to have government health care facilities that are among the best in this region.

In the Cayman Islands 2000 Annual Report it said, and I quote, "The Cayman Islands Hospital is a modern 139,066 square feet two-storey facility with a total of 124 beds." The hospital offers services through a critical care unit, a neonatal intensive care unit, a seven bed extended care unit, an ambulatory care unit and an observation room.

"At least one doctor is available [on the hospital compound] around the clock. There are three operating theatres; a dialysis unit; physiotherapy, X-ray and laboratory facilities, a pharmacy; a morgue; and forensic and drug testing laboratory. Other facilities also include outpatient specialist clinics, administration offices a professional library and medical records section."

There are Health Centres in East End, North Side, Bodden Town and West Bay and there are also clinics for dental and eye care. Faith Hospital has eighteen beds, and provides a high level of primary and secondary care to our Sister Islands Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. In addition, a 24-hour emergency service is provided. In Little Cayman we have expanded service there by increasing the visits by medical officers from Faith Hospital on the Brac to twice per week and stationing a registered Nurse there permanently.

For capital development in the 2002 Budget, it is projected for Health Services, development projects of $3,624,575. A large proportion of this funding will go towards completing the new inpatient units, which will offer services for mental health, care of the elderly and hospice care on Grand Cayman. These are growing areas of need including one which was not that way before, that is of mental health and a lot of it stems from drug abuse in our society.

A master plan for the development of Faith Hospital on Cayman Brac is being prepared and presented to the public on the Brac. The expansion is planned over a five-year period in five phases and is expected to cost approximately $5,000,200. A recent review of the plan indicates that the hospital emergency room and clinic facilities are inadequate. Plans are being prepared to upgrade the facility with equipment in 2003.

A new location for the Health Centre on Little Cayman is at the design stage. It is proposed that the hurricane shelter which houses a school in one section will be fitted out to accommodate medical and dental services. This will allow for increased space to accommodate staff to improve health care services for the residents on the Island. This is also planned for 2003.

The 2002 projected recurrent expenditure to operate the Health Services, Mr. Speaker, is $44,150,865. Over 60 percent of this amount covers personal emoluments. The total staff of the Cayman Islands Health Services, which includes public health, dental, ambulance service, and services in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, stands at approximately 722 employees; 504 established posts, 218 group employees. There are a few officers employed on temporary relief contracts. Only 45 percent of these employees are Caymanians. There is an extremely heavy dependence on expatriate staff in the Health Services particularly in the technical auxiliary field.

Faced with the rising tide of expectations from the people and a reduction in financial and other resources, we are looking for solutions to reduce the high cost of providing health care in these Islands. Our decisions need to be focused on not only what is in the best interest of patient care but consideration must also be given to the cost of the service.

In light of the severe economic constraints faced by Government, I think we all need to recognise the importance of the need to change the perception of the role of health from one that is welfare and consumption-oriented, to one that can make an important contribution to the economy. Mr. Speaker, for too long we have developed a perception that health services delivered by the Government Health Services facilities are to be delivered free. It has spilled over into the health insurance sector and seems to be growing daily. What is certain is that we cannot continue to fund public health services entirely from general revenue. I can, Mr. Speaker, assure you that the Government of the United Democratic Party is working to ensure that a certain measure of health to all members of the community continues and to make provisions for those who cannot afford the cost of medical care.

Mr. Speaker, there is the perception that care received on Island is not as good or as sophisticated as care received overseas. It is a growing problem and we have found in many instances that we will find individuals who really have no means whatsoever of meeting any costs of health services demanding to be sent overseas and there are growing instances where they seem to have been sent.

The debt to the Health Services Department currently stands at approximately $50 million and about 53 percent of this is related to the cost for overseas treatment. I can acknowledge that this debt has accumulated over many years, nevertheless; it is money owed to Government. Steps are being taken to collect (albeit in small amounts) from individuals and it will have to reach a point where some of these funds will have to be collected via legal action.

There is also money which is going to have to be written off because it will be uncollectable. It is my intention as Minister responsible for this subject now to get as quickly as possible, a true analysis of this amount. Where it is considered that the money cannot be collected, I will be bringing to this honourable House a request to have it written off. It does not help anyone to keep it appearing in the accounts when we know full well that it is money that will never turn up again.

The Government has a contractual agreement with Baptist Health Systems of South Florida for tertiary care services, which is currently under review. We must find more effective ways to contain the spiralling costs of providing tertiary health care to those for whom Government is responsible for providing free medical care and at the same time to ensure that the quality of overseas care to our patients is not compromised.

The Ministry has obtained the services of William M. Mercer Incorporated to advise the Government on the setting up of self-funded health scheme. This consultancy firm will also be advising the Government on the terms of an extension to the present agreement with Baptist Health Systems of South Florida which expires in March of next year. This extension is an interim measure to enable us to put in place a system where the Government will have a greater choice of hospitals overseas. Mr. Speaker, to expand on that, I wish to inform the House that I have had the opportunity of meeting with persons associated with Mercer Incorporated and I have said to them that nothing is sacred in this regard.

They have been asked to examine thoroughly the agreement we have with Baptist Hospital. I have also told them that it would be the policy of this Government to be able to avail itself of the services of any top quality health facility in Florida and not necessarily be tied unbendingly to one.

It is my understanding, Mr. Speaker, that there are various hospitals that excel in certain areas of specialisation and we can as easily refer patients for specific treatment to these as referring it to one particular facility. I have asked the consultants to examine all options and give an analysis of each one with details as to how it could be achieved.

Mr. Speaker, regarding capital acquisition, it is projected to spend over $1.4 million with a significant portion of this going towards purchasing a new hospital information system. My predecessor in the Ministry had set up a committee to examine this and it is simply staggering to know the amount of money that is being lost because the system is not functioning the way that it should be. It is presently ten years old and it no longer suits the need of the organisation. Business has changed and we have to keep up with the times.

There is a need for data collection that can be used to manage the service and inform the decision-making process. The new system will allow for data on illnesses to be linked to data on the cost of providing the service. Other benefits include improved health care, increased revenue, reduced expenses and reduced patient waiting time. Mr. Speaker, as I said that has been an ongoing process that I have been able to encourage. There has been a marked improvement in the collections. There is a consultant in place who has been doing training and particularly at the point of registration where so much has been missed in the past. It has improved considerably and with the new system it is expected to provide a comprehensive electronic system within the Health Services. That will link the Eye Clinic and Dental Clinic and all the various sections and departments of the Health Services.

Mr. Speaker, the amount collected this year is significantly higher than in previous years. It is expected that approximately $8.9 million will be collected by year-end. Progress has been made in strengthening the procedures and systems needed to enhance the Health Services revenue position. In addition, on 4 December, the Executive Council approved the Report and Recommendations of the Health Insurance and Health Fees Advisory Committee regarding health services fees and collection. This is the recommendation of the committee (which I referred to earlier as having been set up by the previous Minister).

An implementation committee chaired by Ms. Andrea Bryan, Permanent Secretary, will ensure the recommendations are carried out within the required time frame. In 2002 an anticipated increase of $9,485,000 is expected due to the new improved system. The Ministry proposes to increase health fees and charges for service at Government health care facilities as provided for by the Health Services Fee Law 1999. The increase will be in two phases: effective 1 January 2002 and 1 April 2002. In the first phase there will be an overall increase of 30 percent of the present fees and charges and the introduction of fees and charges for services being provided free of charge because they are not currently listed in the schedule to the Law. In the second phase it is intended that the new fees will approximate the cost of providing these services.

Mr. Speaker, as hard as it is to believe, there have been dozens of services delivered by the Health Services department which could not be charged simply because they did not appear in the schedule attached to the Health Services Fees Regulations. I have found through this report which has recently been completed that 85 percent of the health service delivered by the George Town Health Services Department are being given free. So the fees have to be increased and they have increased to the level that they are at least meeting the cost. In fact, to do otherwise, is against the Finance and Audit Law.

The Government is not supposed to give services which are less than the cost. A Bill has been circulated regarding these fees, Mr. Speaker, and they [have been] figured and factored into the 2002 Budget. The fees have not been increased since 1993 which is about eight years, during which time the cost of providing health services has risen dramatically and it is being heavily impacted by costs of goods and services obtained overseas.

It is my understanding that the Members would wish to break at this time, if it pleases you, Mr. Speaker. It is fine with me.

The Speaker: We will suspend proceedings now for the lunch break and will resume at 2.30.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.04 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.47 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Minister for Health continuing.

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

When we took the luncheon break, I was speaking on the Health Services fees. An increase is required which is expected will provide a meaningful part of the revenue coming into Government in the year 2002. The rising cost of providing health services without rising fees has resulted in a growing revenue short fall. Some examples of this are: in 2000 only five out of 34 sections of the Health Services department generated enough revenue to cover their expenses. In 2000, potential revenue of only $20 million was generated while expenses were $39 million. In 2000 an overall increase in revenue of 85 percent was needed to match the expenses of that year which I mentioned earlier that in truth, put another way, meant that 85 percent of services generated or delivered are unpaid.

Mr. Speaker, I think the House should also know because that it is a matter that has to be dealt with. Right now the number of persons covered by Government Health Services who receive free medical is approximately 11,000 people. These include civil servants and their dependants, veterans, seamen and indigents.

An exact breakdown of this is not available at this time although it has been an ongoing effort to get this information. All the Members of this House, including you, in the Select Committee on health insurance, were of the opinion that it would be well for Government to have a data bank. That would provide information to the Social Services, Health Services and to Education, on people who could not meet the costs in these three areas, including Education where requests often come including waiving school fees and book fees.

To date, this information is still not available in totality. However, since I have been in the Ministry there has been an effort to get some information via the Pensions Office and out of Social Services and of course, what the Hospital itself can do. It is most important to have a data bank so that the Health Services can at least reach towards its maximum potential; by being able to clearly separate the persons who can pay and who should pay versus those for whom Government must pay. In 1995 during a strategic planning exercise a national health plan was developed which established a policy direction for the Health Services Department. A review of the National Health Plan is scheduled for January 2002.

The Health Services Department is well aware that we have reached the stage where there is a greater need to continue to provide quality care in an environment where funding is limited. My predecessor is in office again as a result of the support and encouragement of all members. During times dealing with the health insurance they started the process of drafting certain legislation to establish a health services authority. This, I intend to follow up most vigorously. The Health Services Department cannot continue any longer as a department of Government where it is slowed down by the normal bureaucratic process, where management has to wait for the laborious process and they need to respond quickly with staff and otherwise.

Certainly, when it comes to the collection of fees and charging for fees, it cannot continue in the present vain it is going. It requires a system which can be realised through a health authority to really make the situation work. The department right now is undergoing significant changes and the major thrust is to assimilate the new staff into a team of excellence where the motto is 'Caring people, Quality Service'. The Ministry has released to the Health Services department the clinical services and reconfiguration of clinical services reports and a strategic financial plan for the Health Services Department.

Commissioned by the Ministry from District Audit in the United Kingdom: The report from District Audit identified a number of management issues that need to be addressed if the achievement of the financial plan is to be realised. The National Health Plan calls for collaboration between Government and the private sector. I have already made an effort since becoming Minister of Health Services, to meet with health care professionals in both the public and private sector. I have also sought input on the draft Health Practitioners Bill. This Bill has been looked at by the Legal Department and it has taken into account various representations that have been made by health practitioners and allied workers in the health services field. I hope to have this ready to bring forward to his House in the first Meeting of next year.

Where representations have not been included in the Bill, there are good reasons for not doing so. The Bill provides for the establishment of a health practice board and councils for doctors, dentists, nurses and midwives, pharmacists and professions allied with medicine. This will represent a comprehensive piece of legislation. It will also, as best I understand it, bring us forward into more modern and realistic legislation for health services. The Ministry's key objectives for 2002 are to:

- i. Secure the enactment of legislation to provide for fee increases for medical services as well as to oversee the strengthening of revenue collection systems in the Health Services department.

- ii. To monitor the implementation of the master health facilities plan for the Islands, and

- iii. To bring to the Legislative Assembly the following legislation: revised regulations to accompany the health services fees, a revised Mental Health Law, a revised Health Practitioners Law, a revised Pharmacy Law and accompanying Regulations and the Health Services Authority Law.

Mr. Speaker, the matter of health insurance must be dealt with and must be dealt with speedily. It cannot continue to function as it has been doing. We cannot continue to force the people of the Cayman Islands via the law to pay for health insurance coverage and when they faithfully pay, then go to seek health coverage; medical professionals are unwilling in some instances to accept it. They are expecting these persons to pay them while they the insured must go and collect from the insurance. It was never intended that way and it has to change.

I would also at this time offer a friendly bit of advice to the health insurance companies: I do not expect the fact that there is an increase of fees at the hospital (which is very little more than was there before) to be a reason to try to raise the costs of premiums to a level which makes it even harder for persons to pay. I would suggest they think of all the years that they have been paying far below what would normally have been required of them.

In any event, this is something which must be addressed speedily and I have indicated to the Government that as a means of assisting the Ministry we will be looking to hire an actuary or a firm which offers actuarial services, to really tell us what is the present status in terms of costs in the Cayman Islands; what is being earned or lost by insurance companies and what would be fair costing overall in the field of health insurance.

District Administration has been assigned to me and I welcome the opportunity once again to be associated with the Islands of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman in this regard. I thank His Excellency the Governor for so deciding. It has always been a place near and dear to me and where I have had the privilege before of serving for two terms as a representative of those two Islands. I also wish to thank the Chief Secretary who has seen to the administration of the Islands until the change was made. I intend to visit the Islands officially sometime in the first of the New Year and look forward to meeting with staff and discussing with them their various priorities, problems and aims for the New Year.

Government continues, and certainly the United Democratic Party, to give its full support to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and to continue working with its two representatives in achieving what is best for the community.

Agriculture is also a subject for which I hold responsibility. The scope of business for the ministry as it relates to the department is to develop sustainable agricultural production; in order to promote measures of self sufficiency and food security compatible with economic reality for the Cayman Islands; to preserve and protect the state of health and well-being of plants and animals and so indirectly, to promote the wellness of residents through dynamic planned development.

The Farmers Market reorganisation is progressing slowly. The Agricultural Development Committee is conducting a review of the Farmers Market. A new co-operative framework has been proposed and has joint venture ownership. The management and board have indicated that the following two items are necessary before the restructuring can take place:

1. The Government loan guarantee that was approved in Executive Council on the 12 June 2001 and for subsequent ratification by Finance Committee. The Budget and management unit has confirmed for several months now that the item is included on the Finance Committee Agenda.
2. The request for a formal lease arrangement for the Farmers Market site from the Civil Aviation Authority. This application has been slated to go before the Civil Aviation Authority board for a decision for several months.

A new drafted Aqua-culture Development Policy document is almost complete and ready for submission to the Ministry. A recently revised proposal from the Harbour Branch, Oceanographic Institute in regards to aqua-culture is also pending. Mr. Speaker, I had occasion about a week or two ago to attend a meeting of the executive of the Agricultural Society. I saw a report which was done from a visit to Florida, by the previous Minister, which related to aqua-culture development. I must say I was immensely impressed with what can be done in the growing of conch, shrimp, fish and of various sea foods. In my opinion, it obviously is an area that we could move to develop and I will certainly be following through on this in every way that I can and encourage the department to move forward in this regard.

Furtherland Farms submitted a proposal several months ago with regards to a banana ripening venture they plan to initiate. They are seeking Government's support for a change in duty on imported ripe bananas, but indicated that they plan to move ahead with the project regardless of whether Government changes the tariff or not. Input was sought from the Department of Agriculture, however, no decisions had yet been taken at the Ministry level in this regard.

Proposed capital works include an abattoir, a dog pound and pesticide facility to be built at the Lower Valley compound. These projects are in various stages of design and development.

A draft pesticide regulatory framework has progressed and should be ready for Government's consideration in the near future. May I say, the matter of regulating the use of pesticides is something quite critical and will also be something which I will follow up with in the months ahead. There has been progress made in this direction and I shall endeavour to have such legislation done and brought to this Honourable House as soon as possible.

The key objective is to continue to strengthen measures to ensure the protection of plant, animal and human resources in the Cayman Islands via the provision of a draft Pesticides Control Law with regulations and the completion of a revised plant law for submission to Executive Council. Also to pursue the development and design plans for the construction of an abattoir in Grand Cayman and the physical facilities for the Department of Agriculture station in Spot Bay in Cayman Brac.

a) From the perspective of Civil Aviation Authority as we know it is a statutory authority incorporated under the Civil Aviation Authority Law 1987. The current statutory instrument is the Civil Aviation Authority of the Cayman Islands Law 1997. It is comprised of a chairman, deputy chairman, and seven other members, three of whom shall be public officers. The Government appoints members for three years or at the Governor's pleasure. The functions of the Authority are carried out through the director of Civil Aviation. It is a unique organisation, in that; its functions include responsibility for four distinct disciplines. These being:

1. The regulatory authority responsible for the safety oversight of airport and flight operations;
2. The provision of air traffic control and air navigational services;
3. The responsibility of an airport authority for two international airports; and
4. The provision of meteorological services equivalent to a national weather service.

The regulatory functions of the Authority are in accordance with the Air Navigation Overseas Territory Order 2001. The powers therein, being delegated to the Governor by the Secretary of State of the United Kingdom, who has designated the said powers to the Director of Civil Aviation.

The Authority employs 115 persons between Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac operations. Staff members are primarily Civil Servants seconded to the air Authority with the exception being group employees and two contract employees. Staff are governed under the provisions of the Cayman Islands Public Service General Orders. The Authority's original 2001 Budget reflected $15.3 million in revenues and $13.5 million in expenditures, including $2.8 million in capital expenditures. However, following the events of 11 September 2001, the Budget was revised to reflect a reduction of $1 million in revenues and expenditure, respectively. Although not originally budgeted for, $250,000 contribution was paid to Government in June 2001 and an additional $500,000 will be paid to central Government in December of this year.

The main sources of revenue of the Authority are travel and security tax, aircraft landing and parking fees and commercial rental and services. Of the revenues recorded for aircraft operation, Cayman Airways is the largest single customer. Personnel cost is the largest single recurrent expenditure.

Mr. Speaker, the Authority faces certain challenges which includes, one, the compliance with International Civil Aviation Authority requirements. Negotiations are currently ongoing with the United Kingdom to determine an appropriate means of compliance for regulatory oversight of airport and aircraft operations by the United Kingdom Overseas Territories. International Civil Aviation Organisation (ICAO) highlighted these issues following an audit of the United Kingdom and its territories by that organisation by July 2000. It is anticipated that full compliance with ICAO standards and recommended practices will require regulatory changes by Overseas Territories. In light of this, the United Kingdom Commission of Overseas Territories Institutional Development Studies (OTIDS) to be carried out by W.S. Atkins, an independent United Kingdom consulting firm.

The objectives of this study are to recommend to Her Majesty's Government the most appropriate system to ensure that the United Kingdom's International obligation for the United Kingdom's territory under the Chicago Convention can be met and maintained on a continuing basis. The study commenced in June 2001 and phase 1 was completed in September 2001. The phase 1 report included recommendations that called for the regulatory functions of aviation in the Overseas Territories to be transferred to an Overseas Territory Director of Civil Aviation (OTDCA) based in London. The OTDCA would have an organisational structure consisting of a deputy OTDCA located in the Caribbean region and supported by 'experts' in various aviation disciplines. The proposed organisation is estimated to function at a cost of £2.72 million which the Overseas Territories would be expected to fund.

A meeting was held in the British Virgin Islands from 12 to 16 November 2001 attended by the United Kingdom Government officials, Governors' representatives and DCAs of Overseas Territories to discuss the report. All of the Overseas Territories rejected the recommendation of phase 1 report outright and an alternative proposal that had been collectively agreed upon was presented by the Overseas Territories. The meeting ended with the United Kingdom officials agreeing to reconsider the matter and respond to the Overseas Territories by 30 November 2001. To date, no further correspondence has been received from the United Kingdom on the matter.

Mr. Speaker, this is a major condition which is outstanding and one which would seem to detract or take from the various territories, certain authority and management which had been developed over the years and it has not met with favourable consideration. Of course, this is something which is ongoing and the outcome is yet to be determined.

The Civil Aviation Authority came into being when the Law was enacted in 1987 and revised in 1997. It is recognised that it needs to be amended, particularly with respect to the management of the finances of the Authority. An amendment will be required in any even event to accommodate the proposed separation of the regulatory functions of the Authority from the service provision of airport operations in keeping with the requirements of the International Civil Aviation Authority.

Since 1992 responsibility for Cayman Airways' debt to the Authority has been assumed by Government and written off against the Authority's debt to Government for property vested in the Authority 1987. The last such transaction settled their debt in November 1999 in the sum of $5.4 million. As of November of this year, the current debt stands at $3.5 million.

Island Air also owes the Civil Aviation Authority. This matter has been ongoing for many years and reflects payment owed for landing and parking fees for the scheduled flight operations since 1993. Current debt stands at $916,386 as of the 30 November 2001. A writ has been served against Island Air for payment of outstanding fees. However, the Legal Department has not pursued a date as they are awaiting information regarding negotiations between another branch of Government and Island Air on the matter.

Among the major problems with the Airport is that of airport liability insurance, war and terrorism cover, and since the attack on the 11 September the costs have skyrocketed. Underwriters decided that they would not give the previous coverage, and as it was no longer available, various governments intervened to provide emergency coverage for their respective airlines and airports to avert the total collapse of their aviation industries. Insurance underwriters responded shortly thereafter to the outcry from the industry and agreed to provide cover to airlines only, limited to US$50 million.

Last, but not least, I wish to comment on the fact that for the first time Radio Cayman has been assigned to an elected representative, in this case, to me. This has also been one of the areas that has drawn the usual criticism highlighted by various media. I know the Second Elected Member from George Town has indeed expressed his fear of politicisation of the Radio Cayman. He should have no fear of that because Radio Cayman is something which it is fair to say, has grown up with us. It is an entity for which I have the highest regard and respect. For almost a decade I have been saying it deserves to be an authority where it can go out into the big wide, wonderful world and compete. That is my view on this.

I know reference was made and that was given as an example of something that could be privatised. I tried to apply a very simple bit of logic to it. We hear the constant call to privatise entities now run by Government. It is a fundamental fact that the private sector will not take on anything that does not or cannot make a profit for them. Now, if Radio Cayman is seen to be something that can make a profit for the private sector, my position is that we should give it a chance to make a profit for itself. So anyone that might be expecting me to recommend that Radio Cayman should be sold off to the private sector is expecting something that will not happen. If that happens it will be done by some else besides me.

Indeed, Radio Cayman has become very much an entity that the majority of residents look to as a source of news and information and what is happening in the community. In recent times a forum to allow them to express their own views on whatever is going on or should be going on. We know the very popular call in show that everybody likes to listen to, many people call in and so on.

Mr. Speaker, while I have not had the opportunity to look into all of the information related to the station's operation as I would like to do and intend to do, it is my understanding that over the past four years or so, the station has shown a consistent improvement in its earnings relative to its cost of operation. This is pleasing to know, particularly when one considers the considerable amount of air-time that the station utilises for public service purposes such as broadcast of the proceedings of the Legislative Assembly.

Mr. Speaker, it will have been noted by all, that we seem to be going through a period where there is a definite proliferation of broadcasting stations. The Government, and, indeed, the Ministry, sees this as healthy and beneficial to the community. It affords those essential lubricants of a free and healthy society—choice and competition. There is no intention on my part to seek to restrict the private sector in this regard because of the existence of Radio Cayman or to protect that existence.

What I will say is that while the Ministry welcomes the competition and the choice that these new stations bring to the market place, I will strive to ensure and encourage that common regulatory and social obligations are imposed on all entities. For example, the local entertainers are naturally keen to see their products afforded a reasonable amount of exposure and if the development of such skills is to be encouraged then the idea must have an ear. However, the responsibility to afford local entertainers reasonable air time must not be borne by Radio Cayman alone simply because it is Government owned. All similar entities must take their fair share of this responsibility.

Mr. Speaker, again let me make it clear that what may justifiably be seen as a laissez-faire disposition towards expansion of the broadcasting sector should not be interpreted by anyone to mean that the Ministry for which I hold responsibility is simply setting the stage to dispose of Radio Cayman. While I realise that in many jurisdictions Governments would seek to turn such assets into cash, it would simply not do to sell Radio Cayman to some wealthy individual or individuals who might be able to offer what is considered a reasonable price for it.

Radio Cayman serves this country in various ways, including the broadcast of this Legislative Assembly and various public announcements. It is the means by which Government can guarantee dissemination of information to the public in times of disaster such as hurricanes and otherwise. These things are not done by private radio stations and if they were there would be charges which are now included and absorbed within what the radio is doing now.

Let me hasten to add that what I have just said does not mean that we are irrevocably committed to maintaining the status quo as far as ownership and corporate status of Radio Cayman, where it indeed is shown to either be causing serious drain on the Budget or there are other ways of dealing with it. That is via an authority or through public corporation, at which shares could be sold to the public with Government retaining the majority of shares and still be in a position to guarantee that the public and the country have a means of receiving information through radio broadcast.

The Minister for Education has given an undertaking that he is putting on the agenda of schools, citizens' education. It can certainly offer such information to the wider public and indeed, we need a lot of that. That way people might understand about seating in the Legislative Assembly and that the people in this House have the right to criticise whatever they want without going to court for it or being arrested by the police, and all of those things. It is the perfect medium for doing that.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that we have reached a great distance in developing the local radio station, Radio Cayman. It deserves to be given a chance just as I have heard it said on the floor of this House all year about giving the Government a chance, we should then be in a position to give the radio station a chance. I do not say that Government should not dispose of some of its assets. I think it is necessary. But haste in this one could prove waste for us in the long run.

I have come to the end of my contribution to the debate. I must say that I stand supportive of the Budget, which has been brought to this Honourable House. There was no alternative that the Government saw except to borrow more money or to increase revenue and the latter was taken into account. It was seen as best to attempt to gain revenue from the financial services sector which was done. It is an ongoing effort in Government right now to reduce its cost in various areas.

I do not think that much more could be done at this time. Bearing in mind that we could reduce the numbers in the service to the point that we seriously affect efficiencies and I do not think anyone wants to do that. I find myself responsible for Health Services which is the single largest item requiring Government finances and up until now, it has some of the smallest amounts that go to the revenue. Steps are being taken to improve this and I shall continue to do all that I can in this direction, including bringing about some changes in the health insurance in this country.

I am very happy to be a part of a Government—the United Democratic Party Government—which has courageously brought to the forefront the serious financial standing of the country and has taken steps to correct this without bringing further revenue measures on the poorest among us. I recommend the Budget for 2002 to this Honourable House.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Third Elected Member for the district of West Bay.

Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Without tedious repetition I would like to make a short contribution to the 2002 Budget.

First of all, I would like to say that the United Democratic Party Government has embarked on a tripartite approach to Government which to the national development it involves active participation from the public, private and social sectors. This approach will promote sustainable development, greater inclusion and balance and development and business opportunities for local residents. The minimal borrowing strategy has been achieved by ensuring that the total recurrent statutory and capital acquisitions expenditure is lower than the operating revenue and the existing fund balances. I am proud to have been a part of the team producing this Budget.

This Budget is the first truly balanced Budget presented to this honourable House in many years; where Government did not have to borrow to pay recurrent expenditure and only very little borrowing for capital expenditure. This balance was achieved with an absolute minimum of tax to the little man on the street. This is quite an accomplishment, considering the very limited time the United Democratic Party had to produce such a Budget. It seems like the general public is led to believe that the United Democratic Party Government is trying to raise the entire $55 million needed to balance the budget from the private sector. However, when the revenues realised from time-share, which is one million dollars, the gasoline and diesel duty, which will be used for Roads Funds $1.3 million; local vessel licenses of $500,000, stamp duty $244,000, court fees $51,275, garbage fees $3,778,140, parking fees $1 million, health services $9,485,534. The true amount that we need to raise from the private sector; is approximately $37.5 million.

So, it should be understood that the United Democratic Party is not trying to raise the entire $55 million from the private sector. We are only trying to balance the Budget, to keep the country going without getting any deeper in debt. We had looked at many alternatives but this seems to be the only reasonable way to go about it. Just a correction: it is not the private sector; it is the financial industry we are trying to raise these funds from. This Island has been borrowing for the last few administrations to pay recurrent expenditure and to do all the funding for the capital expenditure.

I would just like to say that in recent meetings with the Council of Associations and the Chamber of Commerce they have recognised that it is absolutely essential for Government to raise these funds in order to continue to operate. These organisations have expressed the concerns about Government's recurrent expenditure and this Government has given the private sector the undertaking to continue to reduce recurrent expenditure wherever possible. This year alone the United Democratic Party Government has cut recurrent expenditure by $6.4 million. That is a very significant start in reducing recurrent expenditure and in an attempt to show the willingness to work with the private sector; this Government has agreed to let the additional fees be paid on a staggered basis. This should make the additional fees more manageable.

This Government intends to continue to monitor and manage the fiscal affairs of this country in a responsible and accountable manner and ensure the country is getting value for money spent. Without repeating what all the other honourable Members have already said I would like to say that I support this Budget and in closing I wish for all honourable Members of this House and joyous, safe, blessed and happy Christmas and healthy, safe and prosperous New Year.

I thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you. Does any other Member wish to speak?

[Inaudible comments]

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Minister of Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you,

Mr. Speaker. It is really a pleasure to see you in the Chair as the Deputy Speaker and to see that you fit in so well in what I would term a very seamless transition, as if you had been doing this for several years. I imagine you must have been practising at home, but congratulations, you are doing a fine job.

I would also want to take this opportunity to congratulate Madam Speaker on the excellent job that she has done since ascending to the Chair of Speaker. I am very pleased to have been involved in the selection of both the Speaker and Deputy Speaker. I think again the United Democratic Party has made a very wise selection.

I am proud to be a founding member of the United Democratic Party. I see through the United Democratic Party a much better and more efficient use of time in this honourable House than we have experienced in recent years. Hopefully, the party system will become fully established in this honourable House. If the marl road rumour is correct, I understand that two other parties are already in the making.

The efficient use of the time of this House can be equated to financial benefits. Too much time is wasted in tedious and useless repetition. I believe that the United Democratic Party will also seek to reduce the time allowed for speaking from four hours to a shorter period. What a Member cannot say in a few hours perhaps does not need to be said. The efficiency that can be caused through a proper party system is that when it is fully established the Government Bench would normally have the Chief Minister or Leader of Government Business, whatever we care to call him, speak on behalf of the Government except in areas that are specifically focused on individual ministries. The Leader of the Opposition would normally speak, thus cutting the time used in the House very significantly.

Before moving on, in view of the changes made recently, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the staff of my former ministry (with whom I worked approximately one year) for their unstinting support. However, I am comforted in the fact that they have obtained an excellent replacement in the person of the Honourable Gilbert McLean, who is now the Honourable Minister for Health, District Administration and Agriculture. The Honourable Minister for Health comes to the position with a vast amount of knowledge and experience. I also wish to thank the staff of my present Ministry, that is, the Ministry for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology, for the manner in which I was received and the show of professionalism by each one of them during what could be termed difficult times; especially after the changeover on 8 November.

In the process of my debate, my contribution to the Budget debate, I will attempt to show why the 2002 Budget is the best Budget that these Islands have seen in many years. I believe I can say that without any fear of contradiction, because thus far I have heard no Member debating this Budget come forward with any credible contradiction to that position. I am also honoured and pleased to have been asked by my colleagues of the United Democratic Party to assist with the preparation of the Budget and also to continue to assist with the negotiations of the international initiatives, namely, the OECD, FATF, Financial Stability Forum, KPMG, IMF, Taxation and Savings, EU Code of Conduct, and so on.

In addition to my ministerial responsibility, it is quite a bit for me to have undertaken. However, I am happy for the confidence that my colleagues have reposed on me. I will try my best to not let them down. However, unlike a previous speaker in this House, this honour has been bestowed upon me by my colleagues. I am happy that I did not have to get up in this House and beat my chest and tell the world that I am one of the leading financial brains in this country, and that my eighteen years of experience is more than the sum total of the others.

That is the height of arrogance and the person saying that should be totally ashamed—especially in his short period in the House; in his very youthful position of less than a year—that he would not have more respect for people that he knows have been in the financial industry and in other areas of the development of Government for many years. Respect should be shown where it is warranted. It does not matter whether you like or hate somebody . . . and where I am concerned, it does not matter much to me that Members of the Opposition do not like me; that is their problem. I do not mind.

Mr. Speaker, it is my intention to deal with issues related to my Ministry, but before doing so I will be answering some of the statements made in particular by the First and Second Elected Members from George Town. I was surprised to hear the First Elected Member from George Town not explain the true position of the Government when he demitted office on 8 November. If Members of Executive Council can recall, before that day we were given the impression that the Budget was in fairly good position; some $12 million out. I noticed in the papers that they have quoted correctly that it was a difference between the actual budgeted and the target position but when we were told that we got a totally different impression. The truth is that when the United Democratic Party took over the Budget it was short an amount over $93 million. I will deal with that in a minute.

Mr. Speaker, the honourable First Elected Member from George Town and the honourable Second Elected Member from George Town, both criticised the Budget, but neither one of them came forward with any constructive suggestions as to how the Budget could have been improved. Further, I could not see the relevance of it but I noticed that the honourable First Elected Member from George Town was quick to tell the House that I suggested Mr. Naul Bodden's name when he was chosen to carry out the financial evaluation of Cayman Airways. I am not going to deny that—I have the greatest regard for Mr. Naul Bodden. I think he is a very smart man and I still think that way. But I cannot figure out the relevance at that point in time in saying it to the House. Politics! That is the name of the game. It is all politics.

I just want to take a moment to look at what he had to say about the borrowing of $55 million. It is in the Caymanian Compass today, page 7, where he says "The fact remains that in 2001 there had been no other way than to deal the $55 million in borrowing." I beg to differ. That might have been the way known to the Honourable Minister at the time but in the same way that we have found other ways to deal with the deficit we could have avoided using $27 million. Although I was a part of that Government, I was not the leader. We could have avoided having to use $27 million to pay for recurrent expenditure.

The difference then and now is that when we were preparing the 2002 Budget every Legislative Member of the United Democratic Party had a part in the preparation of the Budget. That Honourable Member has done a very good job, I have just taken over his Ministry and I must give him credit for some of the things he did. At least he did not get up in the House and profess to be all things to all men like his colleague has done.

It seems like the Second Elected Member from George Town knows everything about everything. However, I have always said that anyone more pathetic than an accountant trying to be a lawyer, has to be lawyer trying to be an accountant. I know my capabilities and I stick within them. I have never pretended to be what I am not and I do not need to stand here and thump my chest and tell the world of what I have done and who I am. I prefer when other people do that as has already been done in this House during the debate.

I trust that as was alluded to by the Honourable Minister for Health, the Caymanian Compass will give the same sort of latitude and space in their pages to reproduce what we have said as was given the First and Second Elected Members from George Town. Most people are shy to speak when it involves the news media for fear they will get no prominence in the news media. But, Mr. Speaker, I do not have to fear that because I get very little as it is. I cannot get much less.

The Second Elected Member from George Town referred to certain statements made by the Council of Associations on 16 May 2001. Of course, he placed emphasis on those sections which suites his attack on Government. He, however, failed to stress the warning given by the same body (the Council of Associations) regarding the policy of borrowing to finance recurrent expenditure. Which was done—I stress—for the first time in the history of these Islands in the year 2001. That was the last Budget that we did and the 2001 Budget was the first time that we used borrowings for recurrent expenditure.

Perhaps more stress should have been placed on the following paragraph that was written in that same report so eloquently quoted by the Second Elected Member from George Town, and it stated, "To clear last year's deficit and to keep the civil service functioning at 2000 level the new government had decided to borrow for their first time, $26.2 million for the general revenue fund to pay off outstanding bills and commitment from 2000 at a time when the servicing of the national debt alone is nearing 10 percent of recurring revenue."

Mr. Speaker, that was part of what that article said, but that was not mentioned—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: On a point of order, Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: May I hear your point of order.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: I have listened very patiently, but the last remark by the Honourable Minister is misleading. I read that particular paragraph and both this honourable House and the Hansard of this honourable House will reflect that. I was careful to be fair and if you would check the Hansard you would find, Sir, that that statement is misleading and incorrect.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, since I do not have the Hansard . . . unless the House would want me to suspend to get it . . .

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: I will deal with them, Mr. Speaker. That Honourable Member is not only arrogant, as I said, but he seems to be deaf. I said that he stressed the other areas—he did not stress this part! That is what I said. I did not say he did not read it. I wish to say he did not stress this issue and if he mistook me for saying that he did not read it, then he has my apologies. But I wish to say that he did not stress it, that was the point I was making, and I apologise to the honourable Member if he said he read it and I said he did not!

The Speaker: Carry on.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, he avoided stressing the point but he made a big deal about issues that suited him. He said that he has listened patiently. He has more to listen to, and if he is not happy with that he can leave the House. However, I sat down and listened to all the arrogance he had to say.

You have to grow up!

Going into my sixteen years in this House, the beginning of my fourth term, at least, I have never heard a more pompous and negative debate than I heard from the Second Elected Member from George Town! That is my opinion. If he is as influential as he claims to be, and as he thinks he is, does he not realise if he is that influential (has more experience than all of us over here) that such negative and damaging remarks or rhetoric could do irreparable damage to these Islands? What does he hope to get out of all of this? In view of his self-professed influence in the financial industry, I can only say that such inflammatory rhetoric can only serve to damage our financial industry. At least he will still pass the time of day with some of us over here, he will still say hello unlike some of his other colleagues.

[Inaudible comment]

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, I have nothing personal against him, he has to realise that when he gets up and shoots his rhetoric it will get a reply. We have capable people over here to do it; we are not intimidated by anybody on the Backbench or on the Opposition.

I just want now to comment on a letter I received from the Caymanian staff of Hunter & Hunter and HuntLaw Corporate Services Limited, which I found rather strange. It seems somewhat strange that Hunter & Hunter and HuntLaw Corporate Services Limited would at this late stage, 13 December, not have previously made a policy decision on bonuses and salary increases. Anybody that has been in business knows that something is wrong with that.

This policy is usually put in your budget—you make provision for it in your budget. How then could they say they are told that they are not going to be paid their bonuses and salary increases because of the revenue enhancement measures of Government? Perhaps this is something that Mr. Boulton, who seems to represent them, should explain to the public. He seems to have all the answers as to what Government should and should not do. The first time I saw him was when he came out criticising the Government.

I personally do not believe that the 2002 Budget had anything to do with that decision. It would be interesting to find out whether or not the partners have made similar adjustments to their share of the profits at the end of the year. Mr. Speaker, another area that I found most interesting was the comments made by the honourable Second Elected Member from George Town on the tax information exchange agreement. I am not going to go along with this because I do not want him to think I am taking a piece out of him or anything—it is just that I am replying to some of the things he said.

I know that there have been adverse comments made about the signing of the OECD agreement even the FATF and of the tax exchange agreement, but I know that that honourable Member knows quite a bit about these initiatives. I know that and I know that he knows that the OECD agreement was the foundation; the catalyst for the Cayman Islands being removed from the FATF blacklist. If that advanced commitment had not been made with OECD the Cayman Islands would have had a much more difficult time getting off the FATF black list.

If we had been listed by the OECD on a black list we would probably still be on the FATF black list.

Unlike some of the public statements made no one individual in Government at that point in time had any major influence on the Cayman Islands getting off the FATF blacklist. The foundation was laid when the Cayman Islands was placed as an advance commitment jurisdiction by OECD.

Without going into the details of the tax information exchange agreement, I would just say that the tax information exchange agreement was precisely inline with the commitment made under the OECD agreement, nothing more, and nothing less. The most important part of it is that it is done on a request basis and not on an automatic and spontaneous basis. Such an arrangement would destroy these Islands but what we have entered into has been what we have been practising under the Mutual Legal Assistant Treaty since it came into effect in 1990. Although the Law came into effect into the Cayman Islands in 1986, the United States Senate did not pass it until 1990. I believe (as I am sure so do many other people in the Cayman Islands) that this tax information agreement was necessary, it was timely and good for these Islands. I certainly would prefer to take the part and side of the Bankers Association and then some other 'nay sayers'.

Mr. Speaker, I have just been reminded by one of my good colleagues that the tax information exchange agreement is non-retrospective. It means that it comes into effect with regards to criminal tax evasion on 1 January 2004 and any matter transacted before that will not be taken into account against an investor in these Islands. So individuals have a lot of time and this is one of the things for which Mr. Robert Morgenthal, the District Attorney of New York, so heavily criticised Paul O'Neil, the United States Treasury Secretary. The civil and administrative taxes will also come into effect on 1 January 2006. So there is a lot of time, Mr. Speaker. And nothing was rushed. It was done in accordance with plans and with the commitment that was made to OECD in May 2000. You have heard a lot about the fees and how it is going to destroy the country; of course, this was said by some of the leading financial experts in the House.

However, what they fail to have mentioned is that the Government had in fact agreed with the representatives of the financial industry that those that needed the assistance; Treasury would consider an instalment payment from those individuals. So, when you hear that Government was inflexible and did not want to assist, nothing could be further from the truth. However, before moving into my debate for this afternoon, I want to ask the question and any speaker that comes after me I would like them to answer it in the editorial: What other areas could Government have received the money from to enhance revenue? The British Government through the Foreign Commonwealth Office made it quite clear that they did not want the country to incur any further public debt through borrowing or otherwise. We could not have even given the remotest consideration to a form of direct taxation such as income tax because we know what that would have done to the country.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I want all of the financial gurus to tell me what other areas they would have sought for the revenue enhancement measures. We have talked to the Banking Association. They were very happy to boast of the $800 billion on deposits in the country until we pinned them down and said to them give us a small transaction fee; give us 1/50 of 1 percent which would be $200 out of every million dollars. They charge 1/8 of 1 percent which is $1250, then we heard, well it is not quite $800 billion, it is much smaller. The figure kept getting smaller and smaller until it got to the point where they thought that it would not be feasible to even consider that type of revenue.

The United Democratic Party looked at every possible scenario and every option that was available and the decision had to be made because as was quite rightly mentioned by previous speakers from this side; the Government has to continue to run. We provide essential services and I will show that it is not correct for the media or anyone else to suggest that the Government did not look into cutting expenditure. I will show where the expenditure was cut not only recurrent expenditure but capital acquisitions and also capital development expenditure – they were all cut!

The vision of the United Democratic Party was and is to bring a truly balanced Budget to this Honourable House and this has been achieved in a fiscally responsible manner. The Budget was carried out with a spirit of teamwork and unity focused on the vision of a balanced Budget.

Mr. Speaker, there has been tremendous synergy between the Government, the United Democratic Party and the civil service in achieving the balanced Budget. Respecting and recognising each person's contributions and perspectives has achieved a unity of purpose. Psalms 133 says, "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." I can honestly say that it has been a good and pleasant budget-making experience.

I would like to personally thank all of those people that contributed. Honourable Members will recall that in September of this year this House passed unanimously the Public and Finance and Management Law. Although many provisions of this Law do not come into effect until 2005, the Government decided to operate the budget process in line with this Law particularly in the area of fiscal responsibility. Let me reiterate the three key strategies that this Budget was based on:

1) The balanced budget strategy reflects the financial principle set out in Section 14(3)(a) of the new Law. This principle, Mr. Speaker, requires a true balanced Budget where total operation revenue is more than operating expenses. This Budget, Mr. Speaker, has a proposed operating surplus of $15.4 million.

2) The creating of reserves strategy reflects the financial principle set in Section 14(d) of the new Law.

The increase contribution to the general reserves fund of $1.5 million is a step towards the creating the cash reserves required by the Law.

3) The minimal borrowing strategy reflects the financial principle set out in Section 14(3)(c) of the new Law. This principle requires that borrowings be kept within defined limits, that is, no more than 10 percent of recurrent revenue. The proposed new borrowings in 2002 of $8 million will bring the debt service ratio in 2002 to 8.6 percent, which is well under the limit of 10 percent set in the new Law.

As a Government we will continue to operate in a fiscally prudent way to ensure that revenues are sufficient to cover expenditure and not attempt to borrow our way out of trouble. This means that wherever possible the fees and charges for Government services will cover the costs of producing them. Also, the Government is committed to improving the productivity of the civil service ensuring that services are delivered in an efficient and cost effective manner.

The view of the private sector and agencies that represent them is that if Government's recurrent expenditures were reduced there would be no need to propose the current level of revenue measures in the 2002 Budget. However, this is an over simplification of the task the Government is facing. The public including the private sector has come to expect a certain quality of life in these Islands, which necessitates a certain level of expenditures by the Government on essential services. Government has achieved substantial reductions in expenditures to date and have plans for the future in this area. Let me now turn to recurrent expenditure.

Moment of Interruption—4.30

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, we have now reached the hour of 4.30. Is there a motion to suspend Standing Order 10(2)? The Honourable Leader of Government Business had indicated prior to yesterday's adjournment that the House may possibly sit late on some evenings.

SUSPENSION OF STANDNIG ORDER 10(2)

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I beg to suspend the Standing Order 10 . . . Mr. Speaker, I think we need a quorum. I want to thank the honourable Member for bringing that to my attention.

I beg to suspend Standing Order 10(2) so that we may go on until 6.30.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 10(2) be suspended to allow the House to continue its business until 6.30. All those in favour please say Aye. All those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW THE HOUSE TO CONTINUE ITS BUSINESS UNTIL 6.30.

The Speaker: Please continue Honourable Minister.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Mr. Speaker, as I was saying when we briefly had that little stop in the proceedings, I was about to turn my attention to the recurrent expenditure side of the Budget. Reduction and expenditure that is sustainable does not come about over night; it has to do and be carried out in a strategic and planned manner.

A lot of work has already been done to reduce the level of recurrent expenditure shown in the draft 2002 Budget. I would like to commend the permanent secretaries and heads of departments for their contribution in reducing expenditures in 2002. This will be an ongoing task. There are also plans in 2002 to keep a tighter control of expenditure. In the past it was the practice to ask controlling officers to submit their budgets within guidelines and then later in the budget making process to cut them in line with available resources.

For the first time, as part of the strategic policy phase of the Budget required under the new Law, financial limits or targets were given to controlling officers and this resulted in lower budget bids being submitted. This was very successful. For example, in the first draft of the 2001 Budget controlling officers requested $324 million. This year, as a result of establishing limits, only $273 million was submitted and we are still able to reduce that figure by a further $3 million.

The same principle was also applied to capital acquisition and capital development expenditure, as alluded to earlier, and I would say with equal success. The first draft of the 2001 Budget $82 million was submitted to capital expenditure this year using the targeting methodology the first draft came in at $40 million and we were still able to reduce that figure by a further $19 million.

The Honourable Financial Secretary has already provided detailed budget figures. However, I would like to highlight some significant figures. Overall recurrent expenditure in the 2002 Budget is 2.3 per cent less than that in the 2001 Budget, a reduction of $6.5 million. This has resulted from increases in some areas in reduction in others. The single most important is a reduction in the 2002 personal emoluments as compared to that in the 2001 Budget by 4.4 per cent. This is made up of reductions in basic salary, temporary relief payments and reduction of contracted officer supplement. This reduction is the result of policies agreed by this Government. No funding of vacancies, no increments or merit increases, no cost of living adjustments, no creation of new posts, no filling of vacant posts unless there is a revenue implication or off setting of expenditure.

So, when we get a letter from Hunter & Hunter and the HuntLaw Corporate Services saying that they are not looking forward to any more increments next year, or salary increases, you let them know that Government is leading by example—neither will the civil servants be receiving any! Although I believe that had those companies tried hard enough they would have found the funds to pay the Caymanian staff. Within this reduction we have still been able to absorb some additional costs which were unavoidable. These include $900,000 to cover money laundering prosecutions, $640,000 for the running of a secure juvenile facility, scholarships have been increased by $600,000 and a grant of $900,000 that has been included to set up the information communication technology authority. Overseas medical has been increased by $2.4 million.

The Government will pursue other initiatives during 2002 to control expenditure and the three key initiatives are as follows:

1) The introduction of a manpower control procedure so that the filling of vacant posts is properly justified.

2) The implementation of the United Kingdom's Civil Service College review of the Caymanian Civil Service. This will involve among other things, the setting up of an internal efficiency unit. Also, in partnership with private sector efficiency scrutiny will be conducted on certain agencies of Government.

3) The implementation of a bond issue in the first quarter of 2002 will significantly reduce the cost of debt servicing.

I should say that already the Government has been looking at presentations from a number of individuals on the pros and cons of promoting a bond issue in the Cayman Islands, which will hopefully be able to structure or restructure our public debt position and also provide additional funding for some needed capital projects.

In summary on this, all expenditure—recurrent, statutory and capital acquisitions—is to be funded from recurrent revenue. I think that it is important to note that all expenditure, that is, recurrent, statutory and capital acquisitions, is to be funded from recurrent revenue. In addition, we have made a contribution to capital development expenditure from recurrent revenue. Let me speak briefly about revenue.

Mr. Speaker, the revenue policy was based around three strategies: 1) Introducing new revenue measures in the financial services and business sector. The international tax initiatives, the regulations by the Monetary Authority, the cost to the judiciary and the administration of creating the right environment to do business in these Islands have increased Government's costs tremendously. As an example, the cost to Government and the judiciary of a money laundering case can be in excess of $2 million. 2) Improving the collection of existing revenue and pursuing bad debts more vigorously. The initiative to use Caribbean Utilities Company as an agent to collect our garbage fee will greatly improve our collections. Even though I would be quick to say that the suggested procedures will have to be refined some. 3) Increasing Government fees and charges so that they reflect the costs of the service provided, for example, the Health Service fees. It is important to understand that most public services are provided at subsidised rates.

Mr. Speaker, let us now look at the revenue measures of approximately $55 million and see how this relates and how it is comprised. The $55 million arises because of two major factors: 1) the public, including the private sector, have come to expect a certain quality of life in these Islands which necessitates a certain level of expenditure by Government on essential services; and 2) the Government is committed to its obligations under the Public Management and Finance Law 2001 which requires the Government to act in a fiscally responsible manner. Therefore, it is not prepared to increase the debt burden to cover recurrent expenditures.

The capital development programme was set at $16 million initially—this figure was doubled as you know. The advantages and disadvantages of using capital expenditure to stimulate the economy as opposed to not substantially increasing our loan debt were considered. However, the Government took the view that keeping our loan debt to a reasonable level was more important at this stage and I am happy that this was the position supported by all of our Legislative Members of the United Democratic Party. The reduction in the capital programme was achieved by starting certain projects later in the year 2002 and re-prioritising other projects to commence in 2003.

It is my intention to outline certain specific plans of my Ministry during 2002 as I have just dealt with the Budget generally. However, before doing so I wish to deal with a few issues raised by previous speakers in connection with the exact position just prior to the United Democratic Party taking over the reigns of Government. When we took over the Budget, the recurrent revenue of government showed a total of approximately $280 million. We increased it by $54.66 million to $335.1 million. The total funds available including the Road Fund of $337.1 million in the final draft done by the United Democratic Party as compared with $281.64 million which was an increase of $55.46 million. However, it is important to note that while increasing our recurrent revenue or our total funds available, we, in fact, decreased recurrent expenditure by $3 million from $272.86 million to $269.85 million.

Similarly, statutory expenditure was decreased by $920,000 due to some changes, in connection with pension benefits, et cetera. The total recurrent and statutory expenditure was decreased by $3.93 million. So, in addition to increasing revenue we also reduced expenditure where possible, and I stress 'where possible' because it was not possible for us to go and start cutting right and left without giving serious consideration to what was being cut and that we were not cutting essential services.

Instead of having a deficit of some $44.6 million (which we found when we took over the Budget), the position that we have presented to the country is a Budget that has an operating surplus of $15.23 million. We also reduced capital acquisition by $3.71 million from $8.74 million; reducing it to $5.03 million. Capital development expenditure was reduced from $31.41 million to $16 million, a reduction of $15.41 million. So, instead of the total capital expenditure being the $40.15 million that was estimated, it was reduced by $19.12 million to $21.03 million. That is good budgeting Mr. Speaker.

In 2002 the deficit position that we found in the estimates was $84.31 million, but we were able to reduce it to $5.80 million. However, when the surplus (which was really not a surplus but a deficit) brought forward from 2001 was reflected in the figures, we found at $14.3 million it was reduced to 8.05 million by a transfer from general reserves. Rather than having a total deficit position of $98.61 million as was estimated when we took over the budget, it was reduced to $13.85 million. When we applied the borrowings undrawn from the loans in 2001 of some $4 million, our new borrowings of $8 million and utilisation of the Road Funds and other funds, we were able to bring our position at the end of the year to $920,000 in this surplus, rather than the $91.84 million deficit that we found when we took over the Budget.

I repeat that the $11 million or $12 million as I mentioned was clarified in the papers as the difference between the targeted amount and the recurrent expenditure figure in the first draft. This Budget was carefully done, it was not rushed. And, Mr. Speaker, you had people involved in the process of the Budget that understood what it is to do a budget. When I was asked to assist with the Budget it was not because my colleagues liked the way I looked, it was because they knew that I am one of the few Members of this House that has sat on both sides of Executive Council. I have sat there as Acting Financial Secretary and as a Minister for the second time so I know how to do a budget and that is why I was asked to assist.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I just wondered depending on the wishes of the House whether we wanted to take a short afternoon break.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: I would welcome that Mr. Speaker.

The Speaker: I will suspend proceedings for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 4.53 P.M.

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 5.26 P.M.

Hon. Julianna O'Connor-Connolly, Speaker
In the Chair

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

Before I call on the Honourable Minister, I should wish to express my appreciation to the Deputy Speaker for so ably conducting proceedings for today.

The Honourable Minister for Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, it is so nice to see you back and even though I have been accused of wearing out one Speaker and having to get another one. I am sure you know that is not true. Your Deputy did a very good job in your absence so it is good to have you back.

I had moved from general comments on the Budget to a comparative figure of the Budget at 8 November and at the final Budget figure and I was about to move to my Ministry and the departments under the Ministry.

I would first like to review the situation with regard to the petroleum terminals and the liquid petroleum gas plant known as the LPG Plants and our plans for the future. This review will be undertaken in light of the petroleum terminals and LPG Plant and in light of the proximity to the schools, residences and businesses. It will take the form of a quantitative risk assessment and the results of the analyses will provide critical information for decision-making and addressing the potential catastrophic situation at the bulk facilities. This information will include quantitatively the magnitude of potential incidence in terms of the numbers of persons that could be killed or injured in the current situation. The study will also quantitatively address the likelihood of each potential scenario or incident. This will provide key information to address the current national issue regarding the potential but truly catastrophic events and to address the issues relating to site surrounding these activities.

A chief petroleum inspector will be recruited to provide additional oversight of the bulk petroleum storage installations and his role will be primarily to ensure that sound industrial practices are adopted at the facilities and to ensure human safety and environmental management systems are effectively developed and implemented. The chief petroleum inspector will also play a key role in ensuring proper emergency planning and coordination. My Ministry is also responsible for aggregate importation and it is my intention that a level playing field be established and maintained in this highly competitive area. We will be working closely with and supporting the Ministry for Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce, who has responsibility for ports, to review options with regards to an alternative off loading site. It is Government's intention to eventually move the bulk cargo operations away from the George Town facility (as was mentioned in the House by the Honourable Minister for Tourism).

I also intend to review Caribbean Utilities Company Limited. My Ministry will be making arrangements for the carrying out of an in-depth audit of the Caribbean Utilities Company's licence including matters relating to their rate of return, capital and asset structure, as well as fuel factor calculations. Much of this work will be conducted by the audit office. However, it is expected that some technical expertise will be required from an outside jurisdiction.

Now, I turn to the 911 Emergency Communications, but first to the Land Information System (LIS) listing or mapping. This is an important aid to help operators pinpoint addresses for the purposes of directing emergency responders such as police and ambulance personnel. Access to this mapping system by 911 reduces response times to emergencies. The results for 2001 have showed a marked improvement in the 911 centres quality control and assurance. This improvement in quality control and assurance is a measurement of the timeliness of the operators' response to incoming calls, dispatch or emergency personnel to answer calls for assistance and the accuracy of instructions given to callers with an emergency.

The 911 data base contains all telephone number and street addresses—encouraging progress has been made during the year to liaise with Cable and Wireless to input their system data in the format required by 911. This would greatly increase the 911 Centre's ability to automatically receive this data from Cable and Wireless when a call comes into the system. It is expected that this project upgrade will come to fruition in 2002.

In the meantime, on a regular basis the 911 Centre receives an update of the existing Cable and Wireless database that this has been down loaded to each 911 operator's position. This means that in the event of an emergency, call comes in with no address, 911 may still look up the relevant information. As a result of public education programmes by 911, the number of non-emergency calls was reduced during the year. However, a further reduction in the number of such calls, as well as abandoned or hang-up calls and call backs to cellular numbers, is desirous during 2002.

Telecommunications operations on Cayman Brac were affected by two separate lightening strikes this year. As a result of one strike, the trunking system controller was completely destroyed. But it has been replaced with a new digital capable controller. The telecommunications office was able to make progress on the alarm messenger system at the hospital. Simply by using one number, the staff that is in a specific group are now contactable and can have the location of the person placing the call displayed on their pagers. Such a system eliminates the need for individual pagers and reduces response time in a situation where very often every second counts. The system should be completely operational by the end of the 2001 calendar year, that is, this year.

The operational consoles at the 911 centre are also to be replaced by the end of this year. The goals for 2002—it is intended to complete the upgrading of the truncheon system in Grand Cayman to digital capable. This will require reprogramming all radios to operate on the new system, as well as establishing the digital channels for the emergency services. The digital channels will provide clearer, more secure communications, which is essential for the emergency services.

Madam Speaker, I wish to turn to Information Technology. You will recall the importance of information technology for the future social and economic development of these Islands was recognised in a National Strategic Plan—Vision 2008. I am pleased to report that substantial progress has been made in the implementation of these plans since November 2000. Even more will be achieved during 2002.

I assumed responsibility for a consolidated Ministry of information Technology in November last year. Drafting of the new Information and Communications Technology (ICT) Bill commenced in January this year. The resulting White Paper was laid on the Table of this honourable House in October last. Following the detail consideration of the input provided by stakeholders, I plan to bring the Bill for consideration by this honourable House during the next meeting in early 2002.

The new ICT Bill proposes the establishment of an independent authority and subject to the approval of this honourable House we plan for it to be operational by the middle of next year. Its role will be to regulate telecommunications, radio and broadcasting, together with certain aspects of E-business such as certification authorities, codes of conduct for E-business service providers and a voluntary data protection scheme established by their Electronic Transactions Law. Their brief will include the stimulation of competition within the sector and the handling of complaints. I am also confident that discussions leading to the transfer of responsibility for the 'ky' internet domain to Government will be successfully concluded within the next few weeks and this issue will be handled by the Authority on Government's behalf. The Authority will be funded from the license fee it charges but an initial set up loan will be required. Provision for this has been made in my Ministry's budget.

Madam Speaker, as you are aware, in October of this year I notified Cable and Wireless of Government's intention to liberalise the telecommunication sector in the Cayman Islands and of our wish to enter into negotiations to replace their existing exclusive license with a non-exclusive one. Cable and Wireless has honoured their public commitment to assist with the liberalisation process and negotiations have commenced; both parties have agreed that the August 2002 target date is achievable.

Improving the computer skills of the general population and increasing the availability of highly skilled information technology professionals are key components of our plans for next year. A sub-committee of the E-business advisory board has examined the human resources development issues and my Ministry has just received their report. Their recommendations are reviewed and where possible, will be implemented during 2002.

In addition, my colleague, the Honourable Minister of Education, has already made clear the importance he places on the integration of information technology into the school curriculum. I will continue to support his efforts to make this a reality. My Ministry will also work with the Immigration Board to address the various issues surrounding the use of expatriate labour in the Information Technology Industry.

I am sure honourable Members appreciate no matter how well we set up our stall as an off shore E-business centre, no will come unless we advertise our wares. We will shortly award a contract to a local marketing company to assist us with these efforts. The objectives are two-fold: Firstly, in conjunction with the private sector, we must help local businesses to appreciate the benefits and opportunities that information technology and E-business bring.

Secondly, we must attract new business to Cayman. We also are establishing a joint venture company in association with the Chamber of Commerce to manage and run a web site dedicated to the promotion of the Cayman Islands as an E-business centre. The legal documents are currently being drafted and local tenders for the development and hosting of the web site have been issued. The contracts will be awarded as soon as the joint venture has been formally established.

The public service should become a model user of information technology and E-business. Not only will this bring significant benefits to our citizens by increasing efficiency, improving customer service and encouraging transparency, but it also encourages local business to adopt similar technique and demonstrates to potential investors Government's commitment to E-business. You will recall that Government's new web site www.gov.ky was launched earlier this year. It is already making available vast amounts of Government information and this will continue to be enhanced during 2002 as funds and human resources permit. Our ultimate goal is to enable our customers to carry out all their transactions with Government online, if they so wish. I have established a committee of senior civil servants to spearhead this and other public sector information technology initiatives. I shall also be consulting with the private sector to ensure we deliver the services that our customers want.

Madam Speaker, Vision 2008 emphasised the vital importance of the development of information technology and E-business and provided an excellent template for the achievement of that goal. We have already made excellent progress in implementing these plans. Given the continued support of this Honourable House there will be further significant developments during 2002; for example, the liberalisation of the ICT sector, the establishment of the ICT authority and the launching of our local and international marketing campaigns will potentially impact the lives of everyone in the Cayman Islands.

I also look forward to the continued support of the private sector. Government can help to establish a technology friendly environment but it is up to the private sector to bring in the business.

I now wish to turn my attention to MRCU (Mosquito Research and Control Unit). The Department's most important objective is to expand its laversiding capability using solid pellets applied by air. This is the most efficient method of control, but with the least impact on the natural environment and no known effects on public health. It enables preventative control rather than reactive.

The whole subject of mosquito transmitted disease is becoming increasingly important for MRCU and for the Cayman Islands. The recent occurrence of West Nile virus on Cayman Brac is certainly cause for concern as is the continued rise in dengue fever, malaria and malarial disease in our region. The Cayman Islands have mosquito vectors for each of these diseases. While there is no need for alarm or scare mongering neither is there room for complacency. Immediately following the positive identification of West Nile virus MRCU initiated a research project to study this disease and others.

During 2002, the department proposes to use the most advanced scientific methods available in this regard. We will conduct DNA analysis of mosquito populations to identify the presence of West Nile virus and monitor its occurrence. This methodology will be extended to include dengue virus and possibly others. MRCU will work closely with colleagues from the centres for disease control in the United States who intend to visit and assist with expertise and set up laboratory equipment. In addition, the Department proposes to study the bird population for presence of West-Nile virus. Scientists from the Smithsonian Institute in Washington DC have expressed a keen interest in this. They intend to visit in March 2002 and take blood samples from birds in the process passing on this technique to MRCU scientists. The blood samples will then be examined in the laboratory.

Next, on to the subject of public health matters. Following Private Members Motion 12/00 and general public disquiet about possible effects of mosquito spraying on public health and the environment; MRCU will address these concerns during 2002 and beyond. The Director and Deputy Director of MRCU are currently members of a committee chaired by the Chief Medical Officer investigating the separate issue of cancer in the Cayman Islands and environmental effects of pesticides. One study that MRCU has already embarked upon is the testing of rain water collected from roof tops for the presence of pesticides. In collaboration with a major supplier from the United States the Department has collected water samples from a number of locations which are to be tested by an independent laboratory overseas. This is in initial stages but is proposed to continue such monitoring during 2002 and beyond.

Development or plans for a new MRCU facility including offices, laboratories, aircraft hanger and operation section to be located on a single site is progressing very well. A project description document and site plan have been produced and details concerning laboratories, aircraft housing and pesticides mixed plant are being pinned down. The Public Works Department architect assigned to the project recently accompanied MRCU's deputy director on visit to several mosquito control operations in Florida. This proved extremely useful as there are a number of specialised features involved particularly with respect to pesticide storage, pesticide mixed plants and hanger construction. Plans for this proposed facility will be finalised and drawings completed during 2002.

In 2002 the Lands and Survey Department will continue to provide its variety of land related services to both public and private sector clients at the high standard for which the Department has become known. Much of this work is invisible to many but it is valuable work nonetheless. A good example is the beach monitoring survey of part of the West Bay peninsula which is a collaborative effort with the Department of Environment. The monitoring is accomplished by using the department's global positioning system (GPS) equipment, along with Department of Environment vessel, an echo sounder which records observations and depths using specialist hydro-graphic equipment and software imported temporarily from the United States for this very purpose.

The survey is undertaken at six monthly intervals and pre- and post-severe weather conditions whenever possible. The department has a well deserved reputation for technological innovation particularly in the areas of data capture management and presentation. In 2002 we will see the long awaited publication of the first street atlas of the Cayman Islands and I can say that that has already been produced and will be tabled in this honourable House at the next meeting. This fore caller reference source is clear evidence of the technological capabilities housed in the department and reflects fully the ongoing development of the Islands as a whole.

It has been the case in recent years the Postal Department expects to continue with its drive to upgrade district postal facilities. In North Side 96 additional post boxes were installed in that district's post office this year. Construction of the new purpose-design West End post office is scheduled for completion early in the second quarter of next year. In addition, more post boxes are to be installed at the Savannah and West Bay post offices.

To facilitate timelier pickup and delivery of express mail a computerised country mapping system was installed this year. A postal assessment advisory team has also been established to help the Department achieve greater standardisation of all postal services. Next year special attention is expected to be paid to enhancing services and meeting the needs of customers.

The postal department released a new five-year definitive stamp issue in September of this year. The issue was titled Transportation to the Millennium and depicted pioneers and stages of travel through past and present years. Next year the postal department will be pursuing the establishment of a philatelic web site to enhance that service to stamp collectors locally and world wide.

During 2001 the Computer Services Department truly lived up to its motto; More than just IT, We care about your Business. In addition to the delivery of traditional services and support, the Department rocketed the Government squarely into the electronic age. Staff in the department developed and launched the Government hosted Internet portal www.gov.ky in September in partnership with Government Information System (GIS) and other Government departments, ministries and agencies. The system now serves as an electronic news release media, an educational tool for research and information and as the most efficient website for those wanting to view Government web sites.

The site also provides electronically many Government forms and applications. The robust in-house Internet hosting infrastructure demonstrated that it could handle high volumes when it successfully delivered some 20,331 queries on Friday, 7 December, when the site provided the list of new Caymanians Status holders. An excellent working relationship with the Immigration Department resulted in advancement of the first on-line service for mainstream government.

Immigration Department work permits and trade and business license tracking system. This system helps to improve the responsiveness and raise the level of customer service the Immigration Department delivers to its patrons. This system has resulted in approximately sixty less inquiry calls each day to the Department. Computer Services continued to improve the E-government infrastructure adding network, resilience and Internet and web security.

Computer Services now offers cost-effective, safe and secure Internet access to customers under Government network. This helps to protect the integrity of information stored on Government computers while providing Internet access to make Government more efficient. Computer Services senior managers served in advisory capacities on several national E-business committees. They are a key part of the newly established Government Business and Technology Advisory Committee (BTAC). A committee of senior Government officials charged with the advancement and exploitation of internal information technology in Government. Computer Services staff answered and resolved more than 15,000 support telephone calls.

The department's expert staff also completed 5,452 high-level service requests, which resulted in some 8360 hours of work for customers. Yet there are those that say the Computer Department does not provide a useful service. Computer Services personnel provided technical expertise and a relocation and renovation of IT equipment in some 15 Government offices; many times involving after hours work to minimise the disruptions of departments and the public.

The application services staff was busy this year modifying systems as a result of changes in Laws and worked in partnership with departments to enhance many systems so as to improve productivity and efficiency. Enhancements to the Police Department's incident login system included a case file management system. Madam Speaker, this now allows the police to record, monitor and report cases more effectively when completed. The Customs support system was also upgraded and deployed using web technology that in the future will facilitate the move to electronic E-government.

In an effort to maximise productivity and to keep pace with changing trends a new passport issuing system was implemented in June. The Passport Office can now print and issue machine readable passports. The Immigration Department system was integrated with a new border control system in November. This means that passengers with machine readable passports can be processed more quickly and the information can be recorded more accurately.

In July, the Immigration Department system was enhanced to allow the recording of information on the business plans and future work permit requirements of organisations. Productivity aids, also included the implementation of a mail registry system for 17 departments in July. This system allows the logging of incoming and outgoing mail, email, faxes and a tracking of documents. The Government's financial and human resources system was also upgraded in July to provide additional functionality. Central services staff worked tirelessly during the year to provide high volume copying, printing and binding services for Government departments. The staff also utilised volume discounts to get the best possible prices on paper, envelopes, toner and other consumable supplies. These savings were then passed on to government departments, central services then copied more than 3.5 million pages of documents for internal agencies.

In the area of food hygiene and safety the Department of Environmental Health (DEH) will continue to provide weekly basic food hygiene and safety training courses for food handlers. It will continue to perform inspections of all food establishments applying its risks base criteria adopted last year for determining the frequency of inspections. In the first quarter of 2002 new food hygiene and safety regulations for the Cayman Islands will be presented to the Ministry.

The Department of Environmental Health also offers a programme which provides basic health and environmental sanitation, training for cosmetologists, including body-piercers, tattoo parlours, barbers and beauty saloon operators. In fiscal year 2002 the Department will continue to offer these training courses in addition to maintaining its regular surveillance of the industry.

Cemetery capacity has been reached in East End, and a private cemetery there has been closed. The Bodden Town cemetery is anticipated to reach capacity and close by the end of 2002. The Department of Environmental Health will therefore undertake the construction of two new replacement cemeteries in order to ensure the availability of public burial space in those districts.

In preparation for the day incapacity will be reached at the George Town landfill and in Cayman Brac, in the near future the Department of Environmental Health will prepare a closure plan for both. The plan will specify the method of closure and identify possible future lands uses for the two sites. I am pleased to say that I have been in discussion with various individuals with regards to a possible solution to the landfill problem in Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac.

In March 2001, a study was laid before the Legislative Assembly. A study was prepared by the Department of Environmental Health in consultation with DPS&J. They are a leading Florida based consultancy firm who carried out an environmental assessment for the Government in 1992 and has had an ongoing relationship and in-depth knowledge of Grand Cayman's waste disposal methods. The recent study and subsequent investigations indicated that the current George Town landfill will reach maximum capacity by the end of 2002. The study suggested four alternative solutions, each with an indication of cost as follows:

1. Another land-fill and the closing of the existing land-fill.
2. The windrow composting.
3. In-vessel composting and
4. Energy from waste system.

Important considerations for each of the systems not considered applicable to Grand Cayman are as follows:

Landfill—there are a few alternative landfill sites that would be acceptable and those which could provide capacity for the next 25 years or so, or worked out quarries which are situated directly over large fresh water lenses where the risk of leached contamination is unacceptable. The existing land fill will be capped off and would remain as it is. A properly constructed sanitary landfill would need to be lined and equipped with a leached management system and a landfill gas collection system and the old landfill would have to be managed for another 50 years. Presupposing a suitable landfill site was found, the cost associated with its construction was estimated to be some $18.1 million with no by-products for resale.

Windrow composting—this requires a large amount of land and would only be able to deal with food scraps, yard waste and other cellulose, which represents 22 percent of the waste generated. It does not offer a solution for ferrous and non-ferrous materials, plastics or glass. This system, Madam Speaker, would require a landfill to dispose of the non-compostable material, represents some 78 percent of the total waste. According to the report the estimate of the cost of such a facility is some $18.5 million. Since this facility would require a landfill, then the true cost would have to include the $18.1 million for a landfill aggregating to a total of $36.6 million.

In-vessel composting—the next choice requires fossil fuels to be used to heat the vessel and compost and is produced in about one week. It can handle 27 percent of the waste being generated. The other 73 percent non-compostable waste will need to be landfilled. In the report the estimable capital cost is $24.1 million and in addition this facility would require a landfill. The two costs would have to include $18.1 million for a landfill aggregating to $42.2 million.

Thermal energy from waste system—this will dispose of all garbage being generated. The cost for this system is $24 million. The plant will operate in a building situated at the George Town landfill. The cost of the building is estimated at $6.4 million. The over all total cost of the plant, operations building and the Department of Environmental Health (DEH) office space is estimated at $30.4 million. The building will include up to 20,000 square feet of office space that can be shared with DEH. The plant will require 5,000 sq ft of office leaving 15,000 of square feet available for DEH and other Government offices.

I am pleased to say that this matter has been well advanced. Prior to my taking over the subject there has been much discussion by the former Minister responsible for this subject. The thermal energy from waste system will entail the introduction of a thermal energy from waste system to dispose of existing landfills and new waste being generated. On the 22 October this year, Madam Speaker, representatives of the Government inspected a working plant and associated engineering and manufacturing facilities in the United Kingdom.

The inspection team included the Honourable McKeever Bush, Minister for Tourism (at the time), the Honourable Edna Moyle (now MLA for North Side), Mr. Joel Walton, Deputy Financial Secretary, Mr. Robert McCollough, the Deputy Director of the Department of Environmental Health responsible for the existing landfill, and Mr. Robert C. Bodden, Chairman of the Fiscal Advisory group.

Following that visit the team presented a very favourable report. The plant visited was not only disposing a municipal solid waste but was also a disposal facility, for the contraband, for the United Kingdom's Government, Her Majesty's Custom and Excise.

After the visit the Department of Environmental Health followed up with technical questions that led to subsequent meetings. All questions that were raised have been dealt with and the system was determined to be satisfactory for use here in the Cayman Islands. The expected life of the equipment is some 30 to 40 years. This means of disposing of wastes is now being looked into very thoroughly and various by-products are being examined such as the electricity by-product, water by-product, aluminium fill, et cetera. On the question of fill, it is believed that the existing land fill will be extracted, sterilised and made available for sale. It is estimated that around a hundred and fifty thousand tons will be processed annually at a sale price of some $7 per cubic yard. This source of income is estimated at $1 million per year, just from the garbage at the land fill.

There are Members here that have an interest in the electrical side and the water side, so just to give an indication of what the by-products would be on that . . . . Considering the existing municipal waste volume at 60,000 tons, the plants will conservatively produce 6 mW per hour during a 16-hour work-day. If the sale price is to say CUC was 7.50 cents per kW the income would be some $7,200 per day or around $2.6 million annually. If the plant could achieve a price, say from CUC of 12.50 cents the income could be up to $3.4 million. However, these are various scenarios and options that we are examining. Nothing in this is final—these are just options at this point in time that we are examining.

Similarly, the plant must convert and purify water for the conversion to steam for the thermal process. Contaminated water cannot be used as this will degrade the steam boilers. The storage capacity of the plant is proposed at 10 million US gallons, which is 12,500 cubic metres with daily production of potable water at 3,000 cubic metres. This capacity is modular and can be adjusted. If part or all of this water was sold at say $1 per cubic metre, the potential income stream would be some $10,000 per day—over $3.3 million annually.

Also, such a facility with regards to contaminated and burnt oil disposal; for example, CUC is currently paying to have the burnt oil from their engine shipped off the Island. The plant is able to use this and other contaminated oil as fuel. Talks with CUC will of course be held but already talks have commenced with CUC and I do not want to go into those details at this point in time. Similarly, sewage disposal, recycling and sorting of waste, the plant will be able to deal with all of these matters. If this process is seriously considered by Government it is planned that there would be a restructuring of the Department of Environmental Health.

It is interesting to note that under the present operations of the Department of Environmental Health the annual cost for operating a land fill or the DEH is some $6.8 million. However, the associated income against the $6.8 million costs is only $3 million so the Department loses $3.8 million every year. The cost of the land fill operation is estimated at $1.2 million which is an addition to the $3.8 million lost.

In addition to that, the cost of operating and maintaining the vehicles is estimated at approximately $1.8 million. The fleet of 20 garbage collection trucks are ageing and most are due for replacement now. This expenditure is estimated at an average of $165,000 per truck or $3.3 million for the fleet. The replacement cost for the truck does not form part of the operating cost nor is any money budgeted to repay the cost of the initial purchase of the existing fleet. To avoid going into any further details on the discussion we are now having, suffice it to say we are seriously looking at this proposal and of course I will be advising the House as we progress.

The Planning Department expects to begin recruitment of a person who is capable of performing application reviews, planning, plumbing and building and building inspection, structural and plumbing in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. It is anticipated that this person will be selected and trained by the end of the first quarter of next year. As a direct result of this recruitment, businesses and residents in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman can expect a significant reduction in the time taken to have applications approved and inspected.

The review of the Development Plan 1997 will be completed by November 2002. As a result of wide public participation the proposed amendments will reflect the wishes and aspirations of the populace and act as a companion document to government's growth management; smart growth, quality growth strategies.

I am now coming to the close of my contribution on the Budget. But, before taking my seat, I would like to once more thank the Budget team. The team was headed by the Honourable Financial Secretary, so thanks for all of the hard work that was done by the Budget Management Unit and the Budget team consisting of the Legislative Members of the United Democratic Party.

Much has already been said about the pay card system and the proposed parking system. I had some notes to say on that, but I believe that that has been pretty well clarified by previous speakers. However, I would just want to say that if any member of the public would require further information, my Ministry would be more than happy to provide such information as this information is available at the ministerial level.

Again, I want to thank Honourable Members for their attention. I would like to thank my colleagues for the assistance that we have all given each other in the preparation of what I would again term as the most productive. The most innovative and one of the best Budgets that I have seen come to this House in many years.

Before taking my seat, may I take this opportunity to wish for you and your family a very peaceful and blessed Christmas. To all my colleagues in this Honourable House, I wish you and your family a very peaceful and happy Christmas.

Thank you, Madam Speaker

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

It is my understanding that no other Member wishes to speak. Does the Honourable Third Official Member wish to exercise your right of reply?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As I rise to give the closing remarks in the 2002 Budget debate, I wish to record my sincere appreciation to all honourable Members of this House for their respective contributions and support. In particular, I would like to mention the Honourable Minister for Planning, Communication, Works and Information Technology, who worked very closely with the Portfolio of Finance on the development of the Budget for 2002. I would also like to recognise the Second Elected Member for West Bay, the Third Elected Member for West Bay, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and other Members of the United Democratic Party who worked very closely on the formalisation and finalisation of the Budget.

This Budget sets out a number of significant measures that several speakers have commented on. To round off I would like to highlight a number of these measures.

The 2002 Budget strategies as outlined, address all of the key aspects of public finance, that is, expenditure, public debt, reserves and revenue. More specifically, the Government achieved the following key objectives: Firstly, a balanced budget; secondly, contributions totalling $2.2 million to general reserves and to the Housing Student Loan and National Disaster Reserve Funds; and, thirdly, ensuring that all recurrent statutory and capital acquisitions expenditure were funded from recurrent revenue. That revenue also provided a contribution to capital development expenditure.

The result of this is that only $8 million in new borrowings is necessary in the year 2002. It is also significant to note that this $8 million will be used exclusively to finance capital development projects and not operational expenditures. The full effect of the $55.5 million loan repayments will commence in 2002. Accordingly, the Government made a decision to minimise borrowings in 2002 to avoid breaching the 10 percent debt service ceiling established in the Public Management and Finance Law that was passed in September of 2001. The ratio therefore remains well below the ceiling at 8.6 percent in that year.

Furthermore, the Government intends to review its existing debt portfolio with a view to reduce its annual debt servicing cost through restructuring. In this regard, the Government has received presentations on how a bond issue would assist the restructuring initiative. This initiative is planned for completion during either the first or second quarter of 2002, but it is likely that it will be concluded in the first quarter.

In the case of recurrent expenditure the Government established expenditure limits prior to the commencement of the 2002 Budget process. This action in itself resulted in savings of 2.3 percent over the 2001 Budget. This is a particular significant achievement when one considers that the average annual growth in recurrent and statutory expenditure was 13.4 percent over the period 1996 through the year 2000. In order to achieve this reduction the following key measures have been implemented in the 2002 Budget which is currently before this honourable House.

- No funding of civil service vacancies was allowed except where the recruitment process was underway.
- No civil service cost of living adjustments were allowed.
- No civil service increments or merit increases were allowed.
- No creation of new civil service posts was allowed.
- No filling of civil service vacant post. In this regard a manpower control system will implemented to ensure compliance.
- A reduction of grants, waivers and reimbursements provided by Government to various not-for-profit associations.
- No new public services that require additional expenditure were allowed.

These key measures, taken in conjunction with the planned implementation of the civil service review commissioned by His Excellency the Governor, and the ongoing financial management initiative will go a long way towards addressing the divergence between what the country collects and what it spends. This negative trend has to be checked without any further delay, thus the main reason for the 2002 Budget approach.

I would like to move to the revenue side of the Budget to cover some of the more significant of the proposed revenue measures. In this respect, the Government wishes to emphasise that it considers the proposed revenue measures to be of a corrective one-off nature only. Increases at these levels are therefore not expected to occur in future years. The Government recognises that in a period of economic downturn that the preferred approach taken by most governments to ameliorate such declines is to implement expansionary fiscal measures. In the case of the Cayman Islands, however, our ability to follow this approach is severely restricted due to our present revenue base and cash reserves. We are earnestly working to build up these reserves.

Notwithstanding these facts, in November 2001 the Government did introduce an economic stimulus package to help reverse the declines being experienced, particularly in the very important construction and real estate sectors. I am pleased to note that we have already begun to see gains in these two sectors which are as a direct result of this package. This positive trend is expected to continue. It is also important to note that the majority of public services in these Islands are already being provided at subsidised rates. Examples include health care, education and garbage collection. Accordingly, the Government considered and implemented several different strategies to improve its revenue position.

These include, firstly, improving the collection of existing revenue. For example the proposed new garbage fee collection method. I should mention that progress has been made in the discussions with Caribbean Utility Company Limited following the piece that appeared on the front page of the Caymanian Compass.

Secondly, increasing fees so that they are more in line with the cost of services provided. For example, the proposed increase in Health Service fees. This has been spoken to by the Honourable Minister for Health.

Thirdly, to ensure that all sectors contribute more effectively to the cost of providing much needed public services to facilitate their own development. For example, the cost relating to the overall development, administration, supervision and regulation of the financial and business services sector have been raised greatly in recent times due to the various initiatives and revenue had to be adjusted in order to reflect these enhanced costs. These costs cover areas such as legislative development, administration of justice and the supervision and regulation activities of the Monetary Authority and the Financial Reporting Unit. As a result of these main factors it was necessary to increase fees in this area.

The Fourth Elected Member from West Bay gave a breakdown of the fees that are applicable to the financial services industry. Where it was mentioned that of the $54 million revenue package that is applicable to the financial industry, this is not the case. Without going into details as to what would comprise the other items because these were spoken to by the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay, the amount applicable to the financial services sector, that is the net amount of the incremental fees to the financial services industry, amounts to $37.49 million. That means that fees totalling $17.36 million are being raised in other areas.

The proposed increase in Health Service fees will be done in two phases effective 1 January 2002 and 1 April 2002. In the first phase there will be an overall increase of 30 percent of the present rates and the introduction of new fees for services being provided free of charge because they are not currently listed in the schedule to the Law. In the second phase it is intended that the new fees to be introduced will approximate the cost of providing affected services. These fees have not been increased since 1993. Since then the cost of providing health services has risen dramatically, being heavily impacted by cost of goods and services obtained from overseas.

The rising cost of providing health services without raising fees has resulted in a growing revenue short fall. Some examples of these short falls are, firstly, in 2000 only five out of 34 sections of the Health Services Department generated enough revenue to cover their expenses. Secondly, in 2000 potential revenue of $20 million was generated, although less than 50 percent of that sum was collected. Madam Speaker, I would like to point out that operating expenses for the year 2000 were in the region of $39 million.

In the case of garbage fees, the cost of collecting and disposing of wastes exceeds the revenue generated by about 2:1. This is further exacerbated by poor payment compliance especially in the case of residential households. The goal of Government in this area is to ensure that this service breaks even. The proposed new method of calculating and collecting the fees is a step in this direction. In the case of gasoline and diesel import duty, it is important to note that this proposal does not affect the diesel used to generate electricity. The additional revenue generated will be put directly to the Roads Development Fund and be used exclusively for the provision and maintenance of roads on all three Islands.

The timeshare fee has been proposed in order to plug a loophole which currently allows visitors to stay in timeshare dwellings without paying any tourism accommodation tax. The proposed work permit fees are intended to, firstly, provide an incentive to promote Caymanians; secondly, to bring temporary work permit fees more in line with annual fees in each category; thirdly, introduce a charge for accompanying dependants, and, fourthly, update some fee categories that have not been increased for some time.

In closing, the achievement of fiscal stability is important to the overall development of all countries and in the case of these Islands, very important to our image as a stable and attractive place to conduct global business. In order to secure longer term social and economic stability the new development approach that was outlined in the Budget speech and adopted by this Government, seeks to achieve a more balanced and equitable approach. This is absolutely necessary, if we are to maintain harmony in our community.

The short-term challenges, such as those presented by the proposed revenue measures, will arise as the Government strives to achieve fiscal stability and to lay the groundwork for further development of need adequate funding. These services include policing, fire protection, health, education, environmental health and the like.

A further complicating factor is that quite often the Cayman Islands is compared against other jurisdictions that have far more developed direct taxation regimes and is expected to provide services at the comparable level enjoyed in these jurisdictions from these Islands' very limited revenue bases. In addition to funding these services from its limited revenue base the question often arises as to the adequacy of cash reserves that also needs to be simultaneously built up. I therefore, encourage all honourable Members and, most importantly, the wider public, to consider the necessary measures outlined in the 2002 Budget Address within this broader context.

Finally, I would like to wish you and your family, Members of this honourable House and their families, the staff of the legislature, the civil service and the people of the Cayman Islands community God's richest blessings for the upcoming Christmas holidays and the best for the New Year and future years to come.

Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Third Official Member.

The question is that The Appropriation (2002) Bill, 2001 be given a second reading. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES and one audible NO (Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.)

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

Hon W. McKeever Bush: Can we have a division Madam Speaker?

The Speaker: Certainly.

Madam Clerk, please call a division.

The Speaker: The result of the division is: 10 Ayes, 2 Noes and 5 Absent. The Ayes have it.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: THE APPROPRIATION (2002) BILL, 2001, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 63(3) the Appropriation Bill now stands committed to Standing Finance Committee.

Does the Honourable Third Official Member wish to indicate the time for the said Finance Committee?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, 10 am tomorrow.

The Speaker: Thank you.

I also wish to extend to all honourable Members a very hearty and blessed Christmas and a prosperous New Year to you and your families. I wish to express my gratitude and thanks to all the staff of the Legislative Assembly who have so graciously accepted me and extended a very warm hand and have been quite open with the knowledge that they have acquired over the years. I also wish to extend a warm Christmas to my constituents, to the country on a whole, and wish that we would all have a very peaceful, tranquil and blessed holiday season.

May I have a motion for the adjournment Honourable Leader?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, we propose to adjourn the House to convene Finance Committee at 10 am tomorrow.

The Speaker: The question is that this honourable House now stands adjourned until the conclusion of the proceedings of Finance Committee. All those in favour please say Aye. All those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

The House is duly adjourned until the conclusion of the proceedings of Finance Committee.

AT 6.52 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL THE CONCLUSION OF PROCEEDINGS IN FINANCE COMMITTEE.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
MONDAY
31 DECEMBER 2001
10.44 AM
Tenth Sitting

The Speaker: Good morning.

I will invite the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Let us pray:

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace, now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.46 am

The Speaker: Before we are seated, we have to affirm the Acting First Official Member.

At this time I would call him to the Clerk's desk.

ADMINISTRATION OF OATHS AND AFFIRMATIONS

OATH OF ALLEGIANCE
(Mr. Donovan W. F. Ebanks)

Hon. Donovan W. R. Ebanks: I, Donovan Ebanks, do swear that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, II, her heirs and successors according to Law so help me God.

The Speaker: Honourable Acting First Official Member, I welcome you to this Sitting. Please take your seat.

Honourable Members please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

Obituaries:

Anton Bodden

Angelia Connolly

Evelyn Teresa Powery

Sister-in-law of the Member from North Side

The Speaker: I have received no apologies, but at this time I wish to address the House.

On behalf of the Legislative Assembly and all honourable Members, I wish to extend our deepest sympathy to a past Member of Parliament, being the late Anton Bodden from Bodden Town.

I wish to do likewise for Ms. Angelia Connolly of Bodden Town who, I understand, was some 101 years of age and has passed the great aspired 100 years' mark.

Also, from the district of West Bay (this past Saturday) we had the passing of Evelyn Teresa Powery, a lady who was able to achieve 102 years of age (the aunt of the Leader of Government Business).

On behalf of honourable Members, I wish to express our sympathy and to all other persons who may have passed from us during the Christmas season including the sister-in-law of the Member from North Side.

While I am standing on my feet I should also wish to extend (as I am sure all Members would want me to) congratulations to the Second Elected Member from the district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and his family who saw the birth of their daughter yesterday.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

THE INSURANCE (FURTHER VARIATION OF FEES) REGULATIONS, 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Insurance (Further Variation of Fees) Regulations, 2001.

The Speaker: So ordered.
Does the Member wish to speak thereto?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I will comment on the proposed changes in fees when dealing with Government Motion No. 15.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.
Under provisions of Standing Order 30 I have received no statements from any Honourable Members today. We will move on to the next item of Business.

BILL, 2001

[The Clerk: The Notaries Public (Amendment) Bill, 2001.]

The Speaker: The Notary Public (Amendment) Bill, 2001, has been set down the first time and is ready for the Second Reading.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46(4)

The Speaker: Honourable Leader of Government Business for the suspension of Standing Order 46(4).

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, we move the suspension of Standing Order 46(4).

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 46(4) be duly suspended. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 46(4) SUSPENDED.

SECOND READINGS

THE CUSTOMS TARIFF (AMENDMENT)
(FURTHER VARIATION OF DUTIES) BILL, 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled, The Customs Tariff (Amendment) (Further Variation of Duties) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: Do you wish to speak to the Bill Honourable Member?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The 2002 Budget Address contains details of various revenue measures that the Government intends to implement during the course of that year. One of the measures involves increasing the duty charged on each gallon of gasoline and diesel imported into the Cayman Islands. The purpose of this Bill is to give statutory effect to that intention. There are a number of important points that I should make in connection with this Bill.

Firstly, the existing duty rates of 40 cents on each gallon of gasoline and 50 cents on each gallon of diesel have remained unchanged since 1990.

Secondly, there will be no increase on duty in respective of duty used by CUC and Brac Power and Light to generate electricity. Thus, the price of electricity will not increase as a result of this measure.

Thirdly, the proposed 10 cents duty increase per gallon of gasoline and diesel excluding diesel used by CUC and Brac Power and Light will be placed in the Roads fund where it will be used exclusively to help maintain existing roads and assist in building new ones. The revenue will not be used to finance recurrent expenditure.

Fourthly, and lastly, it is expected that $1.3 million will result from this measure in 2002.

The Memorandum and Objects of the Bill are consistent with the points I have just outlined and I commend this Bill to honourable Members.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Member for the district of East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, I shall not keep the House very long. There are a few points that I need to clear up at this time. When I spoke recently on the increase of duties on fuel, I went into some detail as to the effects that the increase on fuel would cause to the country. At that time I also spoke of CUC being exempt

Unfortunately, it appeared that I was misquoted by the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac when he read an article from the papers (I think it was the Caymanian Compass) which I certainly was not responsible for writing. I think it may have been a typographical error on the part of the reporters. They said something to the effect that maybe I had not mentioned it. Well, Madam Speaker, I did.

I also spoke about whether we really want to help the poor man, as we all say we want to do, it would be beneficial to remove or part of the duty from CUC as opposed to an exemption of increase. Madam Speaker, the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman said that I must remember that I no longer work for CUC. The record will show that this is the third job in my life and the two previous jobs that I had I left on my own volition. I set the record when I work for someone, my employer to whom I have loyalties, and no one in CUC or otherwise will ever say that I was not loyal to whoever employed me when I worked for them. This country, who is my employer, will never say that either. I will always be loyal to my employer.

Madam Speaker, I just wanted that to be straight because the public may have got the wrong impression from what the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac said. I stand by the loyalties I have shown to my employers and I will stand by the loyalties that I show to my country and to the people of my country. Just prior to leaving to campaign in the 2000 election I was responsible for ensuring that no politician works in CUC.

The Speaker: Honourable Member could you begin to move back towards the debate of the Bill before you?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Again the Third Official Member said that CUC was exempt and I think the whole country appreciates that, but when we talk about increasing gasoline taxes it also affects everybody. That too affects CUC. I do not know if the duties on gasoline were exempt for CUC because of the amount of vehicles they have. However, I know it has been said since the Budget Address, time and time again by the Third Official Member, by the public at large and by this honourable House (particularly the Members of this side) that it will affect our people.

We cannot expect that the bus owners who provide the little public transport that we have will take the monies out of their pockets. It will come from the people who use that means of transportation. So, when we talk about not taxing the little man, indirectly it is taxation on the little man. I find it extremely difficult to support an increase in fuel which will, without a doubt, affect anyone that has to move in this country and that means everyone. It is also going to affect the cost of all materials because the cost of diesel is also going to be further taxed.

The majority of the vehicles that move this country commercially operate on diesel. We would be fool hearted to think that they are going to take that money out of their pockets. Cartage is going to increase, labour is going to increase; and the cost of building of roads for government will increase. The majority of government vehicles that construct our roads are diesel so when we try to say it is assisting the poor man we may have to look at that again, because it is not on CUC. There is always a trickle down effect. If someone wants a few loads of sand, stone or the like he will have to pay an additional cost. No one gets away from it but nevertheless, we sing that it is not taxing the little man.

Madam Speaker, I recognise that there is very little the Opposition can do at this stage because the numbers are on the other side. Therefore, I shall leave it up to the United Democratic Party (UDP). It is their Budget, it is their initiatives and in so doing they will have to be responsible.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you honourable Member.

The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Bill before the House is a proposal to amend The Customs Tariff Law to give effect to variations in duties in respect to motor gasoline and diesel oil imported for use by persons other than companies generating electricity and supplying it to the public for reward. This is one of a series of Bills and Regulations which are brought by the Government to give effect to the revenue raising measures proposed in the Budget Address and in the appended schedule. I have spoken at considerable length during my contribution to the debate on the Budget Address about the fundamental difficulties I have with the approach adopted by the UDP Government in producing this Budget.

Madam Speaker, I have indicated that the Budget and these revenue enhancement measures demonstrate all the signs of a hastily thrown together document, which has been produced by its architects without sufficient regard for the ramifications of the measures. I have lamented my concern, that this whole process and manner in which this exercise has been carried through is likely to have considerable adverse follow.

Therefore, because I have a fundamental disagreement with the rationale adopted in this exercise, I am unable in principle to vote in favour of the specific measures which will give effect to the proposals contained the Budget document. The whole process since the inception of the new Government on 8 November has been characterised by the suspension of Standing Orders and by the truncation of debate. This exercise this morning is no different.

As we stand on the advent of a new year and look back at a year that has been on the political field, certainly one filled with acrimony and antipathies, I appeal again to all Members of this honourable House, particularly to those who—to paraphrase the language of the Honourable Minister of Community Development who holds the reigns of power—let us adopt civilised rules of engagement. I do expect to be regularly outvoted in this honourable House but I do not expect to have my right to debate a matter repeatedly and consistently impinged upon the majority.

So, as we come to the end of the period of good will and love, I ask all Members of this honourable House and in particular those who hold the reigns of power, to let us choose our fights where there is a question of principle. Where the matter is one of issue then by all means let us disagree and disagree as vigorously as we deem fit. However, let us seek to avoid unnecessary disagreements on matters of procedure and matters of due notice—reasonable notice being given to all Members of this honourable House in relation to important matters which the House has to deal. Let us avoid as far as possible the impingement upon each Member's right to debate freely the many important issues which come before this honourable House. Therefore, I do not intend to speak again in relation to any of the other matters on the Order Paper.

My disagreement is one of principle that goes to the core of the whole Budget exercise. I simply wish to close at this time by wishing all Members of this honourable House a blessed and peaceful New Year and I look forward, with hope to the promise of a new attitude and a new atmosphere in this honourable House as we begin 2002.

I thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I would not rise other than to make comment on what was said by the last speaker. To briefly say that the Government has tried to be as fair as possible given the circumstances of timing in dealing with the Budget being late in November, getting into Christmas or getting very late with the Budget, taking due cognisance of the staff of the legislature and Members' business.

However, from Budget day I stood here and asked Members to arrange their affairs because at various times we would have to be working late ever since that day of giving notices on the adjournment and to ask for cooperation to be able to get through the business. The records bear me out. It is not a matter of those who hold the power—this thing is from both sides and when it comes to acrimony and insults that are shouted, it is an insult as much as the one that is whispered.

I would ask the Member, who so timely addressed these matters, to bear that in mind in all he says whenever he rises to deal with any business in this House. Let it not be one of personal attacks on Members of Government because then that would only cause reciprocation. If you genuinely want to cooperate then let us be genuine. Let us not tempt others. This year . . . yes, was one of changes. And we had to do what we did as a Government to get through the business of this House.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Leader of Government Business. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member for the district of West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, with regard to the matter before us which will give effect to some 10 cents increase per gallon on gasoline and diesel not used by energy providers, and the effect that it will have on the economy and on the little man in this country, I wish to remind us all and the listening public that although this is New Year's Eve, this is a House of politics. Therefore, all Members will seek to put their political view forward.

Sometimes political view is reality and sometimes it is not. The Elected Member from East End specifically said that if we on the Government side (the United Democratic Party Government) truly wanted to help the poor man then we would remove duty altogether from CUC. Madam Speaker, we have to recognise that in removing duties there is no guarantee that prices will be passed on. We also have to make up the revenue that will be lost. At the end of the day when we have to have things like housing for all persons in all districts (including the district of East End) for all the critical items that the Government has to provide to all Members and all citizens of this country (including the citizens of the district of East End), we have to recognise that there are monies needed to provide these services.

Madam Speaker, mention was made of the cost. I use approximately 30 gallons of gasoline to run my automobile per month. That means an increase of $3 per month, which is $36 yearly. Just to remind us all, and indeed to remind the listening public, the price of gasoline does change, it changes through market forces and through Government action and this year has seen significant changes in the prices of gasoline. Giving the impression to the listening public that it is the United Democratic Party's political statement, of not impacting the poor man but now this 10 cents is going to cause so much harm, is probably not the fairest or the most accurate assessment.

The prices of gasoline and diesel have risen in excess of three times already in the year 2001. Some of those increases were more than 10 cents per gallon. For example, the bus drivers in this country certainly did not increase their fares each time the price of gasoline went up. That is not the way in which the economy works; bus drivers do not go out and change their prices 'willy nilly', "oh! the price at the pump went up 9 cents so let's increase our fares". That is something that happens gradually over a period of time and so I ensured ... This point was raised before in the Budget Address and I made sure to go back to a number of bus drivers to get the fees they charge on their routes and none of them raised their fees when the price of gasoline went up this year.

There was also talk of a trickle down effect to the little poor man. Again, the prices of gasoline in this year have risen. In fact, the prices of gasoline over the last 18 months have risen significantly. Yes, all of these things are indeed tied into the price makeup of all goods and services. Goods and services must be delivered from the Port to the various businesses on the Island because we do import the great majority of our economic products. However, it is not fair to say that—looking at the last year—prices in the hardware stores or grocery stores are one for one increases, or greater than one for one increase of specific items simply because the prices of gasoline have increased over the last 18 months dramatically.

We have to ensure that in this business of engaging in debate that when we espouse a position that position it not going to be challenged but that we do portray the complete picture. That is what the Legislative Assembly is all about. I can honestly say that I do not agree with what the Member implied is going to happen to the little man. As I said [I am] an average driver or probably above average driver in terms of miles per month, it will cost me about $3 per month.

Madam Speaker, there will also be the necessary ring-fencing of these funds to go into a roads fund. This is a critical matter in fiscal management that is, allowing all citizens including the little man to be able to see where their taxes are going. That is often very difficult. However, in this instance these monies are being ring-fenced into the Roads Fund. Let us also remember that good roads are critical to our economic survival and our continued economic prosperity. Indeed, Madam Speaker, you need good roads so the people's cars do not unnecessarily get damaged by potholes and the like.

Indeed you need good roads so that when tourists come to this country they do have an experience that is pleasant. The same little man is going to be driving on the roads built and serviced out of the monies that are going into this Roads Fund.

The implication that was given that this is going to dramatically impact on the little man and that yes, the United Democratic Party Government was bringing it. So, a vote of 'No' meant that you were voting for the little man on this particular matter and that what was being proposed was going to cause this dramatic increase in the Consumer Price Index and the cost of living. I do not believe most persons who think this issue through thoroughly would not believe that to be the case.

Lastly, I would like to remind the listening public that there were similar measures that had impacts on the little man that came to this honourable House in March 2001 that put the duties back on various items. I am a man and I will stand here and say that I voted for that. However, to now have the Elected Member from East End get up and talk about the little man and talk about the 10 cents per gallon and paint a picture that this is going to cause such a dramatic increase in the cost of living is not fair. I also remind the honourable Member that he also voted for that revenue package.

Madam Speaker, I thank you, and I do commend this to all honourable Members.

The Speaker: Thank you honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to speak? If not I will call upon the Honourable Third Official Member to exercise his right of reply.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I have noted the remarks that have been made by honourable Members. As I have pointed out, this money will not be placed into the General Revenue Fund but it will be ring fenced into Roads fund in order to alleviate the cost of providing funds necessary for road building. Madam Speaker, the alternative often times results in monies having to be borrowed. This results in cost with regards to interest having to be incurred. This money will definitely be useful, in that, it will be set aside for a specific purpose and it will be known for what purpose these funds will be used.

Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: THE CUSTOMS TARIFF (AMENDMENT) (FURTHER VARIATION OF DUTIES) BILL, 2001, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

THE STAMP DUTY (AMENDMENT) (NO.3) BILL, 2001

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled, The Stamp Duty (Amendment) (No. 3) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: Do you wish to speak to it Honourable Member?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As noted with the first Bill, the 2002 Budget Address contains details of various revenue measures that the Government intends to implement during 2002. One of the measures again, involves increasing the stamp duty charge in respect of bills of lading and the introduction of stamp duty on airway bills including those sent by couriers. The purpose of this Bill is to give statutory effect to that intention. There are a number of important points that should be made in connection with this Bill.

Firstly, the existing stamp duty rate of 50 cents on each bill of lading has remained unchanged since 1973 and its collection has never been enforced. This Bill proposes that this be increased from 50 cents to $2.

Secondly, Madam Speaker, bills of lading have traditionally been associated with ships. Now-a-days items can be sent from the Cayman Islands by air as well as by sea. The Bill now before this honourable House therefore, proposes that a similar $2 be applicable to the items sent from the Islands that have an accompanying airway bill including those sent by couriers. The proposed stamp duty levy of $2 is applicable to items leaving the Islands as opposed to items entering the Islands. It is expected that approximately $250,000 will result from this measure in 2002.

Madam Speaker, I commend this Bill to honourable Members.

The Speaker: Thank you, honourable Member.

Does any Member wish to speak? Does any Member wish to speak? If not I will call on the same Honourable Third Official Member to exercise his right of reply.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, just to say thanks to honourable Members for their tacit support.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

I shall put the question that a Bill entitled, The Stamp Duty (Amendment) (No. 3) Bill, 2001, be given a Second Reading. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No. The Ayes have it.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE STAMP DUTY (AMENDMENT) (NO. 3) BILL, 2001, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

THE NOTARIES PUBLIC (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled, The Notaries Public (Amendment) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The question is that The Notaries Public (Amendment) Bill, 2001 be given a Second Reading.

Does the Mover of the Bill, the Honourable Third Official Member, wish to speak thereto?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The purpose of this Bill is to introduce revised fees that are intended to bring revenue more in line with Government's administrative cost incurred in respect of Notary Public matters. The existing initial registration and annual fees were established in 1995 some six years ago. A better appreciation of the administrative cost that I just mentioned could be obtained by spelling out the steps that have to be followed in order to become a Notary Public. The steps that have to be taken in order to become a Notary Public are as follows:

1. The applicant completes a form and this is submitted to the Attorney General for his review and approval through Executive Council.

2. A letter is sent to the applicant and copied to the Courts advising as to whether the application has been successful.

3. If the application is approved by the Attorney General the applicant is given an appointment for the purpose of being sworn in as a Notary Public by the Courts.

4. The successful applicant's name is entered in a register maintained by the Courts.

5. The Notary's specimen signature is obtained and sent to the Chief Secretary.

6. A certificate is prepared by the Courts and issued to the Notary.

The above steps are obviously time-consuming and the fees charged should be sufficient to cover the cost incurred. This is the purpose of the Bill now before this honourable House. Clause 2 of the Bill provides for an increase in the initial registration fee payable by Notaries from its existing level of $150 to $500. Clause 3 of the Bill provides for an increase in the annual fee payable by Notaries from its existing level of $75 to $250.

Madam Speaker, I commend this Bill to honourable Members.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Does any Member wish to speak? Does any Member wish to speak? If no Member wishes to speak I will call on the Honourable Third Official Member if he wishes to exercise his right of reply.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO.15/01

INSURANCE (FURTHER VARIATION OF FEES) REGULATIONS 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move Government Motion No.15/01 which reads as follows:

“WHEREAS section 15)(f) of the Insurance Law (2001 Revision) provides that the Governor in Council may make regulations amending the Schedule to the principal Law save that any amendment increasing the scale of fees prescribed in the Schedule shall require the confirmation of the Legislative Assembly;

“AND WHEREAS the Insurance (Further Variation of Fees) Regulations 2001 have been laid on the Table of this Honourable House;

“BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Insurance (Further Variation of Fees) Regulations 2001 be hereby confirmed by the Legislative Assembly pursuant to the provisions of section 15(f) of the Insurance Law (2001 Revision).”

Section 15(f) of the Insurance Law 2001 Revision states that (and as I read earlier in the Resolution), “the Governor in Council may make regulations amending the Schedule to the principal Law [of fees] save that any amendment increasing the scale of fees prescribed in the Schedule shall require the confirmation of the Legislative Assembly.” It is in accordance with this provision section 15(f), that this Motion is being brought to this honourable House.

This Motion proposes the following increases in the various categories of licenses as set out in item 10 of the Budget 2002 data of revenue measures earlier circulated to honourable Members during the Budget address and once more for ease of reference are as follows:

Insurance Licenses

|         |                                     |
|---------|-------------------------------------|
| Class A | From $20,000 to $30,000.          |
| Class B | Unrestricted from $5,500 to $7000 |
| Class B | Restricted from $5,500 to $7000   |

Insurance Managers

- Insurance Managers that have 1 to 10 clients from $10,000 to $15,000.
- Insurance Managers having 11 to 50 clients from $12,000 to $20,000.
- Insurance Managers that have 51 to 100 clients from $16,000 to $25,000 per annum.
- Insurance Managers that have 100 clients and more from $20,000 to $30,000 per annum.
- Insurance Brokers from $2,400 per annum to $4,500.
- Insurance Agents from $250 per annum to $400 per annum.

All other fees remain unchanged under this fee schedule. These fees are effective as at 1 January 2002. Madam Speaker, I commend this Motion to Honourable Members.

The Speaker: Does any Member wish to speak? If not would the Honourable Third Official Member wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, just to say thanks to honourable Members for their tacit support.

The Speaker: The question is that the Insurance (Further Variation of Fees) Regulations 2001 be hereby confirmed by the Legislative Assembly pursuant to the provisions of section 15(f) of the Insurance Law (2001 Revision). All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES and one audible No

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Motion 15/01 has accordingly been passed.

AGREED: GOVERNMENT MOTION 15/01 PASSED.

The Speaker: There being no further business set down on the Order Paper, I call upon the Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, before I move the adjournment I wish to extend our thanks on behalf of all Members and our gratitude to you as the new Speaker for having conducted the affairs of the Chair and the House in such an outstanding manner.

We also wish to extend our thanks to the Clerk and staff members for their cooperation in running the affairs of this honourable House and helping us to get through our business.

On behalf of all Members we wish to extend New Years greetings to all of us here and to all of our people. We pray fervently for better times for everyone in 2002. As one writer said, “There has never been an age that did not applaud the past and lament the present.”

We ask the blessing of Almighty God for good health, peaceful times and safety. As Charles Dickens wrote, “Let us reflect upon our present blessings, of which every man has many; not on your past misfortune of which all men have some.”

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Having said that, I move the adjournment of this honourable House until Monday, 7 January, as Members have requested. I would remind Members that there is still quite a bit of business to complete. I ask Members to also recognise that the Speech from the Throne is in early February.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Leader.
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Madam Speaker, just before you put the question: On behalf of the Backbench Opposition, certainly, I would just like to extend heartfelt thanks you to your good self as the new Speaker and the job that you have done thus far.

Also, to say a special thanks to the Clerk and the rest of her staff and also Ms. Anita who even in dreary times always fills the spot.

Madam Speaker, I think we also have to say thank you to the members of the media who sometimes at odd hours willingly stay on to be able to report the goings on of the House.

On behalf of the Backbench Opposition I would like to extend to all of our constituents throughout the Cayman Islands a very happy New Year and peaceful and prosperous times for the future.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, First Elected Member from George Town.

On behalf of the Speaker's Office and indeed the Legislative Assembly, I wish to accept those kind words and to convey them through Madam Clerk to the relevant staff. I also wish to take this opportunity to wish a very happy and blessed New Year to my constituents and to all honourable Members.

I trust that we will come back reinvigorated on Monday, 7 January, 2002, with a new commitment and a new fervency to do what is best for our country at all times, which I sincerely believe is the main motive of each honourable Member in the House. May God's richest blessings be upon each one.

At this time I will put the question that the honourable House be duly adjourned until 10 am Monday, 7 January 2002. All those in favour, please say Aye. All those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AT 12.02 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM MONDAY, 7 JANUARY 2002.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
MONDAY
7 JANUARY 2002
10.32 AM
Eleventh Sitting

The Speaker: Good morning. We will have prayers by the Honourable Temporary Second Official Member.

PRAYERS

Hon. Samuel Bulgin: Let us pray:

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace, now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.35 am

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

I have received no apologies for this Sitting of the House.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MINISTERS AND OFFICIAL MEMBERS

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for the district of West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 135

No.135: Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks asked the Honourable Minister responsible for the Ministry of Community Services, Youth and Women's Affairs what are the criteria to become a prison officer.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services, Youth and Women's Affairs.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, the answer is: Applicants must be at least 25 years of age, be Caymanian, a status holder or a legal resident; be able to pass the entrance test of basic Math, English and Communication skills, pass the medical examination; have a police record clear of criminal offences; pass a selection interview, successfully complete a nine-week training course, complete a year's probationary period.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to ask a question?

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Minister say who is responsible to follow up on a background check for the applicants?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, the background checks and the follow ups on these references are all made by the Director of Prison, through the Police Department and checking the persons who have given the references.

The Speaker: Are there any other supplementaries?
The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Would the Honourable Minister say if there are any character references required and how many?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, the normal procedure is not to rely on character references, but in the process of hiring a prospective prison officer, character references are taken.

The Speaker: Are there any other supplementaries?
The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Would the Minister indicate if there is any programme in place to try to get more Caymanians in the prison service?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, I would first of all like to answer that question by saying that there appears to be three main reasons why Caymanians do not join the prison service and those are: it is a job that lacks status; it is a job with unattractive working conditions; and the recruitment at 25 means that high quality candidates have already been employed since leaving school at 18 and are unlikely to change employment because of the first two factors.

However, Madam Speaker, the prison service has just started the recruitment procedures for an operational support assistant grade. The intention is to recruit some 19- to 20-year-olds who will move on to the prison officer's rank with additional training after two years in the job. This is one way that the Prison has proposed to try to increase the numbers of Caymanian officers, in view of the fact that the job seems to be very unattractive to Caymanians.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In the answer, point 2 says that the applicant must be Caymanian, a status holder or legal resident. First, I wonder if the Minister can define "legal resident" and then would he tell us if all prison officers meet at least one of these criteria.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Affairs.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, I would suspect if I am allowed to do that in my answer, that "legal resident" is defined by the Immigration Law as someone who is legally allowed to be in the Cayman Islands. That, I understand, could be someone who is on work permit, but they are legally allowed to be in the Cayman Islands. This differs from what we would consider to be a permanent resident. A legal resident is, therefore, someone who has legally taken up abode in the Cayman Islands; they have passed the immigration qualifications. Madam Speaker, I would therefore presume that all the staff at the Prison presently meet those requirements.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Minister say how many prison officers are Caymanian and/or status holders, and how many are legal residents?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, of the 121 discipline officers we have 37 or 30.6 percent that are Caymanians. That gives a slight increase from July 2000 when we had 28.6 percent that were Caymanians.

In addition, we have now embarked upon hiring the operational support assistant staff and of those we have: 6 Caymanian status holders; 6 married to Caymanians; and 2 Jamaicans who are currently agricultural assistants (one is a former employee of the Prison).

The Speaker: Are there any other supplementaries?
The First Elected Member for the district of George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Could the Minister state when prison officers are hired, what are the normal contractual arrangements and for what period of time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, when an officer is hired as a contracted officer the period of employment is for the period of the contract, which is 2 years. If the person is hired as a permanent pensionable employee then that person, of course, will be hired for the duration of that person's working period with the establishment.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Just to follow up on a supplementary that was already asked and for purposes of clarity.

It says that applicants had to be either Caymanian, status holder, or legal resident. Could the Minister state if in the past no local person applied whenever vacancies were available, whether there had to be advertisement placed overseas and individuals hired from overseas? If that is the case, how did they get through the hurdle of the individuals being legal residents of the country?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, since the new director has been with us approximately 18 months, I believe, this procedure of hiring or advertising abroad has not been done. It appears that it was done previously, but I am not in a position at this point to say exactly how that was accomplished. I do not believe that the Director of Prison (who is supporting me with regard to these questions) is in a position to answer that question. Perhaps the Honourable First Official Member might lend his assistance at this stage.

The Speaker: Perhaps if the First Elected Member from George Town would be so mindful as to repeat it so that the First Official Member can respond if he wishes to exercise that discretion.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. I was simply trying to determine if individuals had to be hired through advertising overseas. In the answer one of the criteria states the fact that the individual has to be a legal resident. I am wondering how this hurdle was overcome if officers were hired from abroad which would not have put them in the status of a legal resident of the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Earlier on, the Honourable Minister in giving a definition pointed out that a category of being a resident in Cayman was having a contract, and I think he has already therefore answered the question. Once a person from overseas is given a contract he is deemed legal in the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. I understand exactly what the Honourable First Official Member has said. Perhaps it is just a technicality here, but if I understand it correctly what the Honourable First Official Member is saying, is that the person receives a contract before he becomes a legal resident. That has to be the case, but the criteria to become a prison officer is that he has to be a legal resident. So which comes first?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, if the policy in the future is to recruit based upon the criteria of a person having to have Caymanian status or being legally resident in the Cayman Islands, that is the criteria to be a prison officer and not to be recruited as one. Therefore, when the person is recruited, the person is in the process of becoming a prison officer. To actually be a prison officer, one must be a legal resident; in other words that process occurs simultaneously.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member do you wish to augment that response?

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Just to supplement that. Most of the contracted officers are from the United Kingdom and the contracts are usually dealt with by the London office. So, once a person or officer arrives in the Cayman Islands with a contract in hand, I think they are deemed to be a legal resident of the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If not we will move on to the next question. The Third Elected Member for the district of West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 136

No. 136: Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services, Youth and Women's Affairs, if there are set guidelines for disciplinary action when a prison guard is found with drugs in or out of Northward Prison.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services, Youth and Women's Affairs.

Dr. the Hon. Frank s. McField: The Prison Officers (Discipline) Regulations (1999 Revision) and the Public Service Commission Regulations 1985 sets out guidelines for disciplinary actions when a prison officer is found with drugs in or out of Northward Prison.

The Prison Officer (Disciplinary Regulations 2 (I) (ii) states that an officer to whom these regulations apply, commits an offence against discipline if he is guilty of: "Trafficking, which is, if he knowingly and without proper authority—

“(ii) brings into or carries out of the prison or attempts to bring in or carry out, to or for any prisoner, any article whatsoever;”

Paragraph 3(4) of these regulations permit the Director: to "refer an alleged disciplinary offence to the police for their action if, in his opinion, it is sufficiently serious nature."

Invariably, however, a prison officer will be charged under the Drug Law and interdicted on half-day pay until the courts have pronounced a verdict. If the officer is found guilty, since the severity of the offence is such as to warrant dismissal, his pay is stopped immediately (Public Service Commission Regulations (PSC) 43) and dismissal proceedings are commenced under either PSC Regulation 30 if a Contracted Officer or under 49 if he is a Pensionable officer.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister. Are there any supplementaries?

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Whenever a prison guard is convicted of trafficking or having drugs in or out of Northward Prison and he is dismissed from that position, is he able to take up another position with the government services?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, I am not sure that comes under my portfolio. I can only say what would happen in the case when the prison officer has committed the offence within the prison services and then that person would obviously be removed from service in that department.

Whether or not that person can then turn around and have a job with another government department, I guess depends on what the Personnel Department's policy would be with regards to hiring. However, I am not aware that the Government has made it clear that they have been willing to hire persons with previous convictions.

Madam Speaker, I think that question might be best answered by the Honourable First Official Member.

The Speaker: On reflection, Elected Member for West Bay, I think you are soliciting an opinion and at this time I would ask if you would move on to another supplementary if you did in fact have one.

Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Minister say in the case of an accused non-Caymanian who has been convicted and served time, if he is then deported?

The Speaker: Again, honourable Member, that is a question that perhaps should have been directed to the Second Official Member. If you wish, you may ask him on a private arrangement or you may submit it according to Standing Orders at a later meeting.

Are there any further supplementaries?

The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: I wonder if the Minister could tell us if there is a drug testing policy for prison officers.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, while General Order 18.113 appears to give authority for this advice from the Solicitor General, in that this is superseded by the Drugs Law which requires reasonable grounds to take a urine sample from staff, the drug dogs will provide those grounds.

The Speaker: I will allow one more supplementary then we move on to the next question.

The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In his reply, he said the drug dogs would provide the reasonable grounds to do a drug test on a prison officer. I wonder if the Minister can explain to this honourable House how the dogs are going to provide those grounds?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. S. Frank McField: Madam Speaker, if the honourable Member for East End is familiar with what happens at airports, for instance, when the dogs go around and sniff, they give you an indication that there are reasonable grounds to believe that that officer has drugs or has been using drugs because of the odour.

The Speaker: Honourable Member for East End I did say that that would be the last supplementary. So, we will move on to the next question.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

The Clerk: The Motion to suspend Standing Order 23(7) and (8).

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I rise to move the suspension of Standing Order 23(7) and (8) so that question time can continue.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23(7) and (8) be duly suspended. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED IN ORDER TO ALLOW QUESTION TIME TO CONTINUE.

QUESTION NO. 137

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

No. 137: Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks asked the Minister responsible for the Ministry of Community Services, Youth and Women's Affairs, when will the sniffer dogs be phased in to the security system at Northward Prison.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, I am happy to answer by saying that the sniffer dogs will be phased into the security system at Northward Prison in April 2002. The two drug detection dogs (Labrador, Spaniel type) will be attached to the prison service. A Cayman Islands Canine unit, staffed by members of the RCIP, HM Customs and HM Prison Service is to be set up by a scheme financed by the UK Foreign Office Good Governance Fund at a cost of CI$225,000.

The Unit will consist of 12 dogs, 8 of these will be trained to detect heroin, cocaine and marijuana. They will be of the Labrador, Spaniel type and able to operate in either passive or proactive mode. Or, they will be German Shepherd patrol dogs with the added capacity to detect drugs, firearms and ammunition in the proactive mode.

The dogs will be trained in the UK and then flown out to Cayman where a team of 3 experienced dog handlers will train the local handlers on a 12-week course which is scheduled for completion by 31 March 2002.

To reduce the cost to the Cayman Islands Government, the residential training centre recently opened at Northward will be used. The conversion of the redundant farm building behind the prison will provide kennelling facilities.

Madam Speaker, I am also pleased to say that the first set of dogs will arrive this Friday.

The Speaker: Thank you. Are there any supplementaries?

The Elected Member for East End.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Minister can tell us if these dogs will be capable of determining when one has consumed drugs.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, they will be able to tell whether someone has been in contact with drugs.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If not we will move on to the next question.

QUESTION NO. 138

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

No. 138: Mr. V. Arden McLean asked the First Official Member if all repairs have been effected to the Cayman Protector and is it now in service.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the answer is No. There has been a considerable amount of work to be completed on the hull of the Cayman Protector. There was corrosion and pitting to areas of the hull. Extensive welding of the hull has been carried out, however, some of the welding joints were unsatisfactory and the contractor is arranging for a specialist welding company to send a representative to inspect and re-weld joints where necessary. Once the hull repair is complete, the engines will be installed. It is not possible at this time to give a firm date for the vessel's return to service.

The Speaker: Are there any supplementaries?
The Elected Member for East End.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the First Official Member could tell us who will pay for the cost to re-weld the joints?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The cost will be borne by the contractors.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the First Official Member could tell us the total cost thus far, or what will be the costs of repairs of the Protector, when completed.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I do not have the exact figure of the repairs because the information that I have includes the purchase, transportation and the handling of the engines, et cetera. However, I would be prepared to provide this information to the Member. I could provide this in writing if he so wishes.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would appreciate if the Honourable First Official Member could provide that information. My question is, How long has the Protector been out of service?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It has been out of service now for 19 months and it has been on dry dock for 15 months.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I recall in December 2000 the Finance Committee of this honourable House voted monies for these engines. Then in a question later on which I asked, we were supposed to have the Protector back in service by the end of October of 2001. That is over one year as far as I can calculate. I wonder if the First Official Member could tell us when it is expected that the Protector will really be back.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the last paragraph of my answer indicated that it is not possible to say at this time when the Protector will be back in service. Suffice it to say that every effort is being made to have the welding problems corrected. Someone is due in Cayman later this month and as soon as the welding problems are sorted out the engines will be fitted and put back in service.

There were a number of problems with getting the Protector back in service on time. While I am not going to lay the blame on this particular problem, the contractors were being paid as work was being done and there was a hold up for some months while bills to Government were not paid and the contractors stopped work until they received their money. This was sometime ago so that contributed among other things with the delay in getting the work done.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. There is provision in the 2002 Budget for one police boat at the cost of $110,000. I wonder if the First Official Member could say whether or not it is intended to replace the Cayman Protector.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. No, the provision made in the 2002 estimates is to replace one of the smaller vessels used by the Drug Task Force.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the First Official Member could then say how many vessels the police have access to for the purposes of drug interdiction?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

There are currently three small vessels being used by the Drugs Task Force. Neither of these vessels has sleeping accommodation so they are really only for fairly short distances. One of these vessels is very old and is going to be taken out of service and will be replaced with the one to be purchased with the provision in this year's estimates.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you.

Going back to the substantive answer where the Honourable First Official Member stated that there was corrosion and pitting to areas of the hull of the Protector. Is there a definitive reason which can be explained as to what caused this? Is this something that is natural or was there lack of maintenance? Exactly what may have caused this?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am not an expert in the field but I can give you the layman's definition of it. When aluminium is used and there is another type of metal that is in contact with it, there is a reaction set up referred to as 'electrolysis'. What happens is that the harder metal eats up (if I may use that term) the aluminium. There were areas in the hull where other metals were touching the aluminium and this caused an electrolysis action which caused pitting and other damage to it.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you.

That being the case and having recognised it, could the Honourable First Official Member state whether or not this is now taken into consideration with the repairs to ensure that there is not a repeat of the same situation?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Absolutely, yes. Having said that, fitting engines into an aluminium hull will not be easy but every effort will be made to avoid other metals coming in direct contact with the aluminium hull.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the First Official Member could tell us if there are any thoughts on possibly replacing the Protector in the near future. It appears as though we are throwing good money at a bad boat.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I think I will try to answer the question this way. For the benefit of the listening public and perhaps for newer Members in the Legislative Assembly, the Cayman Protector was purchased with funds from the United Kingdom at a cost of some $500,000 several years ago. That is a sizeable amount of money, and I dare say we will have to look somewhere in the foreseeable future to replacing it but it is quite costly to replace a vessel that has the same capability as the Cayman Protector.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? If not, we will move on to the next question.

QUESTION NO. 139

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

No. 139: Mr. V. Arden McLean asked the Honourable First Official Member, if drugs that have been confiscated or recovered, stored in any area other than the exhibit room at the Central Police Station.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the answer is yes, but for security reasons details cannot be given publicly. If the Member has concerns, the Commissioner of Police is willing to discuss the matter confidentially with him, or, indeed, with any Member.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I will welcome that. My question was only to find out whether or not the other areas are as secure as the exhibit room.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Yes, the other areas are similarly secure alarm areas. The Member for East End can contact the Commissioner, he will be very happy to give him details.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries, we will move on to next question.

QUESTION NO. 140

The Speaker: The Elected Member for the District of East End.

No. 140: Mr. V. Arden McLean asked the Honourable First Official Member what is the status of the internal audit of the Drugs Task Force that was announced in the media during the early part of October 2001.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the Deputy Commissioner of Police has submitted to the Commissioner of Police an interim report in keeping with the initial terms of reference he was given. However, the Commissioner of Police has found it necessary to expand those terms of reference to the Deputy Commissioner of Police who is presently conducting further inquiries into the matter. It is anticipated that a full report of the Deputy's findings will be forwarded to the Commissioner by 11 January 2002.

The Speaker: Are there any Supplementaries? The Elected Member for East End.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the First Official Member could tell us if this was a financial audit?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. No, the internal audit of the Drugs Task Force was not a financial audit. It is a review of the policies and procedures of the Drugs Task Force.

The Speaker: Are there any further Supplementaries? The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Notwithstanding the fact that it is not a financial audit, could the Honourable First Official Member state whether the audit would entail any situations which have financial ramifications?

The Speaker: Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Yes, while the Deputy Commissioner is not an accountant, there will be a finance portion or a finance section to the report.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The House may recall that what evoked this audit was a series of parliamentary questions and supplementaries relating to the proceeds of the sale of confiscated items, therefore, the ultimate use of proceeds of those confiscated items. The concern of this Honourable House at that time was about how these monies were being dealt with. Against that background, I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member could say who has been assigned to conduct this aspect of the audit, and if he could give us some indication of the qualifications to carry out what is in fact a financial audit.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The audit referred to in my answer was in fact ordered by the Commissioner of Police and was not the result of a Parliamentary question or supplementary question to the House. I believe that question was directed to the Honourable Third Official Member and I am not able to comment on that.

The Speaker: Are there any further Supplementaries?
The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

If I may, with your permission read from the unedited—

The Speaker: Will you then formulate it into a question? Please proceed.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Yes, I will.

Madam Speaker, on 7 September 2001, quoting from the unedited Hansard of this Honourable House, the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac (Mr. Lyndon L. Martin) asked the Honourable George McCarthy the question, “[Would] the Honourable Member be willing to solicit a report by the Auditor General on this account for the past six years and provide this House showing the receipts and expenditures on any transfers to Treasury?”

The Honourable George McCarthy replied by saying, “The extent of the commitment I can give is that I can check with the Auditor General and see what verification procedures have been carried out on this account. To the extent that he has records of the accounts and movements of funds into and out of the account, to ask for a copy of that to be provided. That will then be provided to Members of the Legislative Assembly.”

Madam Speaker, to that extent I then ask the First Official Member: Are we speaking about two separate investigations or audits into the Drugs Task Force?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

We are obviously talking about two separate reports here. The answer that I gave is that an audit that the Commissioner of Police requested to be carried out on the Drugs Task Force. I understand from the Honourable Third Official Member that he will be answering the parliamentary question later on in this meeting, which will make reference or will deal with certain aspects of the financial audit.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In a prior supplementary the First Official Member replied that the audit or investigation that is being carried out on the Drugs Task Force was not prompted by any parliamentary question. I wonder if the First Official Member could tell us what prompted an investigation into the Drugs Task Force, and is it a criminal investigation?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The audit that I had spoken to a bit earlier was the result of an anonymous letter that was in circulation last year regarding the sale of boats et cetera and the Commissioner ordered an investigation into the procedures surrounding confiscated assets.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries? I will allow two more.

The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The First Official Member just spoke to the letter that was circulated in this whole country of which I have a copy myself. If such is the case—because there were some serious accusations made in this, could the First Official Member then say if this is a criminal investigation?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The investigation is one that is pure and simple. The outcome of the investigation will determine whether it is criminal or not, but at this stage there is nothing to suggest that criminal activity is involved.

The Speaker: The Elected Member from East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the First Official Member could tell us when accusations such as these are made, anonymously or otherwise, against a high-ranking officer in the Police Force and an investigation is being carried out, what are the procedures with regards to the individual and his job? Are they suspended during the investigation in order that evidence may not be tampered with intentionally or unintentionally?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the case of gazetted officers, that is, Chief Inspectors and above, the decision to suspend an officer lies with His Excellency the Governor. In this case His Excellency did not take action to suspend.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time. We shall suspend for fifteen minutes.

HOUSE SUSPENDED AT 11.35 AM

HOUSE RESUMED AT 12.07 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

READING BY THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER OF MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: There has been an apology received for late attendance by the Leader of Government Business, who I understand will be attending Parliament later during this sitting.

OBITUARY: George E. T. Brancker, LLB, CBE

The Speaker: It is also with much sadness that we have heard of the passing of the late Mr. E. T. Brancker, LL.B, CBE, former Clerk of the Parliament of Barbados. Mr. Brancker, as all Honourable Members would recall, was renown, not only in the region but throughout the Commonwealth Parliaments of the world. He was indeed an invaluable source of parliamentary practice and procedure. Not only will his expertise be of great loss to Parliamentarians in the region, but to all who knew him and called him for his advice and especially for his eloquent wit. Just his mere demeanour and the wealth of knowledge that he displayed for the time that he was here at the very recent regional CPA, this Parliament, I am sure, will be eternally grateful for the sharing of his knowledge.

I am sure that all Honourable Members would wish for me to ask the Clerk to convey our sincere deepest condolences to his family from the Cayman Islands Parliament.

The Speaker: I have received no statements, so we shall move on to the next item of business.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 45, 46(1) AND (2)

The Speaker: Suspension of Standing Order 45, 46(1) and (2). I ask for the Deputy Leader of Government Business to move the relevant motion.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I move the suspension of Standing Orders 45, 46(1) and (2) so that The Loan (No.2) Bill 2001 can have its first reading.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Deputy Leader. The question is that Standing Orders 45, 46(1) and (2) be suspended. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

SECOND READING

THE LOAN (NO. 2) BILL, 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, in moving the Second Reading of The Loan (No.2) Bill, 2001, honourable Members will recall that on 31 December, the Legislative Assembly passed The Appropriation (2002) Law, 2001. The last item within that Law related to approximately $16 million of capital development expenditure that is planned for this year. Madam Speaker, a recap of the breakdown of this the capital expenditure programme might be useful to honourable Members. Under the capital expenditure programme this is a summary by heads:

|                                        |             |
|----------------------------------------|-------------|
| Public buildings                       | $5,120,020 |
| Roads                                  | $4,380,000 |
| Recreational and cultural facilities   | $1,522,150 |
| Cemeteries                             | $75,000    |
| Harbours and docks                     | $95,000    |
| Purchase of lands                      | $760,000   |
| Land fill development                  | $262,000   |
| Health care facilities                 | $3,257,125 |
| Agricultural and development           | $179,250   |
| Project development design and costing | $347,000   |

Bringing the total capital programme to a value of $15,997,545.

Table 2(a) in the Budget estimates outline how this plan capital expenditure would be financed during the course of 2002. Table 2(a) shows that the financing provision for the capital expenditure programme can be broken down as follows:

|                                                                                       |               |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------|
| Accumulated balance brought forward from the year 2001                                | $740,000,    |
| Transfer from general revenue fund                                                    | $100,000,    |
| Local loan receipts (this is the undrawn portion from the 2001 borrowings)            | $4 million,  |
| Transfer from the infrastructure development fund                                     | $2,330,000,  |
| Transfer from the roads development fund,                                             | $1.7 million |
| Proposed new borrowings for which this Bill is presently before this honourable House | $8 million   |

Madam Speaker, the purpose of this Bill now before this honourable House is to seek honourable Members' approval for the Government to borrow $8 million during the year 2002 to finance in part, the capital development expenditure.

In summary, Madam Speaker, the Appropriation Law 2002 which contain the capital development expenditure of $16 million and honourable Members are being asked as I said earlier to give approval to this Loan Bill.

During the Budget address, Madam Speaker, it was stated that the effect of the borrowing of $8 million in 2002 result in the debt service ratio being 8.6 percent, that is, the interest and principal payments expected in 2002 will be 8.6 percent of recurrent revenue for this year. This is well under the limit of 10 percent stated in the new Public Management and Finance Law 2001. The public debt position as at 31 December 2001 is estimated a $129,370,068. When the further draw-down of the $4 million from the 2001 borrowings plus the $8 million from this Loan Bill occur, less $21,257,000 of principal repayments that will be taking place during the course of this year, the projected public debt position at the end of this year is expected to be $120,113,068.

It was also mentioned during the Budget address that efforts are currently underway to refinance the existing public debt through a bond issue. Madam Speaker, representatives of the Government and Members of the Legislative Assembly have sat in on three presentations that have made so far. It is anticipated that the arrangement for the bond issue should be finalised by the end of March of this year. This, Madam Speaker, will have a favourable impact upon the debt service ratio and it was mentioned during the Budget address that savings realised from this refinancing package will be paid into the general reserves.

Madam Speaker, much debate or discussion has already taken place on the capital development programme for the year 2002. I have given what the impact will be in terms of the draw-down of the $4 million remaining from the 2001 borrowings plus the $8 million to be borrowed in 2002 with the net effect that the projected public debt position at the end of this year is expected to be $120.1 million.

I commend this Bill to honourable Members.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Third Official Member.

The Chairman: Please be seated. The House is now in Committee. With the leave of the House may I assume that as usual we would authorise the Honourable Second Official Member to correct minor printing errors and such the like in this particular Bill?

Will the Clerk please state the Bill and read the relevant clauses?

THE LOAN (NO. 2) BILL 2001

The Clerk: The Loan (No. 2) Bill 2001

Clause 1 Short title
Clause 2 Power to borrow
Clause 3 Appropriation of loan to specified purposes
Clause 4 Principal and interest of loan

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 through 4 do stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate, I will now put the question that Clauses 1 through 4 do stand part of the Bill.

Ms. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, may I ask a question just for clarity?

The Chairman: Please proceed, Elected Member for North Side.

Ms. Edna M. Moyle: Short title, it says 'This law may be cited as The Loan (No. 2) Law 2001'. Does this remain or is it 2002 Law? Would it be the No.1 Loan of 2002?

The Chairman: The Honourable Third Official Member

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, it could be referred to as the No.1 Loan of 2002 but at the time when the Bill was presented, it was presented during the course of the year 2001. This is the year in which it was circulated to honourable Members.

Ms. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairman, it also says at the back 'passed by the Legislative Assembly the ___ day of 2001'. So where are we going? It is just for clarity.

The Chairman: The 2001, in my opinion, would be considered a scrivener's error which could be amended by the Honourable Second Official Member in that I think we all would understand that we are now in 2002 and we have to reflect that date.

Honourable Members, as I was indicating off microphone, because there is not a new Parliament commencing yet, it would not in my opinion or ruling be No.1. We would ask the Honourable Second Official Member to take note of the keen eye of the Member for North Side and to amend that accordingly.

The question is therefore that Clauses 1 through 4 do stand part of the Bill. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES and one audible NO.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.
Clauses 1 through 4 do stand part of the Bill.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 14/01

HEALTH SERVICES (FEES AND CHARGES) REGULATION 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Health Services, District Administration and Agriculture.

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wish to move Government Motion No. 14/01 titled, Health Services Fees and Charges Regulation 2001 which reads:

“BE IT RESOLVED that the attached Health Services (Fees and Charges) Regulation 2001 be affirmed by the Legislative Assembly pursuant to the provisions of section 13(3) of the Health Services (Fees) Law (2001 Revision)."

The Speaker: Do you wish to speak to the Motion Honourable Minister?

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Ministry responsible proposes to increase health fees and charges for services at Government health care facilities as provided for under Section 13 of the Health Services (Fee) Law, which was passed by the Legislative Assembly on the 24 September 1999. At the time the fees from the Health Services Law 1993 were saved and remained in effect pending the making of regulations regarding fees under section 13 of the Law. Those fees, Madam Speaker, were based on a costing exercise done in 1991. In 2001, the Health Services (Fees) Law which was passed in 1999 was consolidated with the fees schedule to the 1991 Law to produce the Health Services (Fees) Law 2001 Revision which is the Law currently in effect and brings those fees into present context.

The proposed fee increase will be in two phases effective January 2002 and on 1 April 2002. In the first place, there will be an overall increase of 30 percent of the present fees and charges and the introduction of new fees and charges for services being provided, free of charge because they are not currently listed in the schedule to the Law. Having done a quick count of them, Madam Speaker, it seems like there are a hundred and forty four services which are offered by the Hospital for which there is no charge. In the second phase, it is intended that the new fees will approximate the cost of providing these services. The fees have not been increased since 1993, during which time the cost of providing health services has risen dramatically, which is also heavily impacted by cost of goods and services obtained overseas.

The rising cost of providing health services without raising fees has resulted in a growing revenue short fall. Some examples are as follows:-

- In 2000, only 5 out of 34 sections of the Health Services Department generated enough revenue to cover their expenses.
- In 2000 if we had collected all the revenue for services provided, the maximum would have been $20 million while expenses for the same period was $39 million.
- In 2000, an overall increase in revenue of 85 percent was needed to cover expenses in that year. Some examples of the losses are the medical ward at the Cayman Islands Hospital experienced a loss of 56 percent. The total cost of providing that service in the year 2000 was $2,514,405 million while the revenue generated was $1,598,919—a loss of $902,486.
- North Side Heath Centre experienced a loss of 2,609 percent. Of the cost of $174,804 for providing services $6,454 was recovered.

- Dental services experienced a loss of 61 percent; and
- Faith Hospital a loss of 2,503 percent.

Madam Speaker, I wish to draw your attention, and that of honourable Members, to the fact that of a population of just over 40,000 in these Cayman Islands, approximately 11,000 lives are entitled to free medical care at Government's expense. All funded out of recurrent expenditure in the annual budget of the Health Services department. The breakdown of these 11,000 lives who receive free medical treatment locally and overseas is as follows:-

- civil servants and their dependants;
- public office pensioners and their spouses;
- prisoners
- indigents,
- persons infected with AIDS and HIV, tuberculosis and malaria.

Free medical treatment at Government health care facilities is provided for veterans and seamen. Admittedly, there are some restrictions placed on such benefits which are clearly spelled out in the Health Services (Fees) Law 2001 Revision. This is the Law to which the proposed Health Services (Fees) and Charges Regulation 2001 apply. The affirmative resolution of this House is required to bring these charges into effect.

Along with all those 11,000 persons, Madam Speaker, there is an additional group of Caymanian individuals not entitled to free medical care by this Government who find themselves unable to meet a portion of all of the cost of their medical bills locally and overseas. Having accumulated over many years, this figure is in excess of $50 million and is due to be paid to the Government. As one would expect there will be among this group many who are unable to pay Government within their lifetime and in other cases, there are some bills that are simply not collectable and will have to be brought to Finance Committee with a recommendation to be written off. As I mentioned previously in this honourable House, this aspect is being diligently worked on.

This situation, Madam Speaker, is one that cannot be allowed to continue. The truth is the finances of the country cannot afford this to continue. It directly translates into further taxes on the residents of these Islands in order to sustain this level of expenditure on health services. These problems have many contributing factors such as individuals being unable to obtain health insurance coverage or having their claims denied for various reasons. In some instances, employers allow health insurance for their employees to lapse as soon as they obtain a work permit for the employee.

The Ministry of Health must therefore confront the issue of public debt due to medical expenses from a number of angles. Among these are revisions of benefits to those who receive free medical, revisions to the present Health Insurance Law 1997 and the regulations, increasing the health fees and charges to meet the cost of providing the services, strengthening the billing and collection systems and process at the Health Services department in all locations in Grand Cayman, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. All of these actions, Madam Speaker, are well underway.

To begin with, the Ministry and Health Services department with the approval of the Governor in Council are introducing significant changes in the collection process with immediate effect. Due to the review of the present accounts receivable system at the Health Services Department by a consultant has identified the patient registration process to be greatest weakness for collecting fees due. This system will be significantly revised as of January 2002. There is now a new registration process. The new registration process takes effect on the 14 January and the objectives of the process are to:

- Increase revenue collection
- Improve efficiency in patient registration
- Deliver quality customer service
- Change the expectation to pay

The changes to policies and procedures will be as follows:

- For paying patients, all services costing less than $25 must be paid in cash at the point of registration.
- Self-paying patients must pay all charges for doctor's consultations upon registration.
- Patients who present for registration but who do not have an insurance card or some other form of payment will have their appointment rescheduled if it is not an emergency.
- A financial counsellor will be available for consultation on payment for services.
- Advice on payment plans and available indigent programmes.
- Cashiers will also be located at the Pharmacy and Eye Clinic at the Health Services complex in Grand Cayman which is commonly referred to as the George Town Hospital.

A public information campaign is being launched, Madam Speaker, to fully inform all users of the Government's Health Services of these changes. At that time more detailed information will be provided.

I do, however, wish to mention at this time some of the services which are not presently charged for but which will be charged for in the future. For example:-

- private room per day $425 (this was previously limited to $200 per day for all rooms, private or semi-private);
- Intensive neo-natal care per day $1370;
- psychologist clinic $35;
- admission of adult chemotherapy per hour $25;
- single restoration of porcelain crowns with semi-precious metals $450;

- removal of impacted tooth soft tissue $200;
- mouth guards $50;
- psychology administered test $40;
- AV graft for dialysis $650;
- laparoscopic tubal ligation $1300.

Madam Speaker, while I am on the subject of fee increases, I must mention that the providers of health insurance in these Islands may see this as an ideal opportunity to jack up health insurance premiums. Being aware of the likelihood of this occurring the Ministry is obtaining the services of actuaries experienced in the field to advise on the likely impact of these fee increases on the health insurance industry and to determine precisely what present situation exists. I would wish to have the facts and simply not go on excuses when it comes to increases, if any, in health insurance premiums.

Madam Speaker, I invite all the honourable Members in this House to consider the matter before us and the Motion which has been moved. Members of this honourable House are invited to take particular note of the following points. Regulations 3(3) has the effect of increasing with a few exceptions the cost of fees for non-residents who normally have health insurance and are accustomed, in any case, to much higher fees. The visitor rate will be 70 percent more than the rate for residents.

Regulation 4 deals with the issue of waiver of fees. During the debate on the Health Services (Fees) Law 1999, concern was raised at the discretionary powers of the Director of Health Services to waive patients' fees. The Ministry was advised it should provide an appropriate mechanism in the regulations to ensure that fairness and consistency in the assessment process should prevail. Regulation 4 seeks to address this by:

1. Requiring the assessment to be carried out by a person competent to assess the financial standing of patients Regulation 4(1).
2. By defining what is to be assessed.
3. By describing the conditions to be met before the Director of Health Services may exercise his power of waiver under section 8 of the Law.
4. By ensuring that supporting documents produced by the patients are valid.
5. By providing for a charge to be made on real or personal property.
6. Defining disposable income.

Although the process would seem at first sight to be somewhat cumbersome, the Ministry and Health Services Department feels that it is necessary to have clear legislative support. Since the assessment process has to distinguish genuinely needy cases from those who simply do not wish to pay.

Regulation 5(1) tends to discourage people from failing to keep an appointment by providing that in such circumstances they must pay an administrative charge of $35. Regulation 5(2) enables the Chief Medical Officer to waive this charge if he satisfied that the patient was unable to give the period of notice specified in Section 5(1).

Madam Speaker, I recommend the proposed fee increases to Members of this honourable House and request that the Health Services (Fee) and Charges Regulation 2001 be affirmed by the Legislative Assembly, pursuant to the provisions of Section 13(3) of the Health Services Fees and Charges Law 1999.

I thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister. Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak? Last call.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Madam Speaker, I rise in my chair here today to lend my support to the Minister of Health, in this very much needed alignment of health service fees in the Cayman Islands. I thought it important just to rise to point out that with the increased fees, the expected revenue still only puts us to where we are just about to cover the personal emoluments of health services.

Madam Speaker, it is necessary for us in the Cayman Islands to take a careful look at health services and ways in which we can cut down on the cost of administering health services in the Cayman Islands. The expected total cost for health services for the year 2002 is an excess of $43 million. We must examine item by item, line by line to find ways of reducing the cost of this very important service to this country. I would also make the suggestion to the Minister that once the fee alignment programme has been established, that it would be appropriate for this item to be pegged to inflation and indexed so that there is not a need five years down the line to make another alignment exercise.

The indexing of Government fees such as health services that are subject to competitive forces, as we do have a vibrant private sector provision of health services, is something that can ably be indexed to the Consumer Price Index. Madam Speaker, I also feel obligated to reiterate what the Minister pointed out in this Bill as one item of great concern and great loss being that of the hospital within our district (Faith Hospital) of some 2000 percent loss.

Madam Speaker, it is expected that there will be a loss in the attempt to provide total health services as needed in a small community. However, a 2000 percent loss seems way outside the realm of acceptability. I give my undertaking to the Minister, as I am sure that you will, to work with him in looking at health services in Cayman Brac. That is with the objective as always of improving the quality of health services, but simultaneously looking at making it in a manner that is acceptable from the degree of loss.

Two thousand percent was the loss figure mentioned by the Honourable Minister.

Madam Speaker, the design of the facility from which health services are offered plays an important role in the cost. I recently had a pleasant experience as I enjoyed the birth of my daughter at the Faith Hospital and observed how the facility there was designed so that from the nursing station, one nurse could observe all rooms. Madam Speaker, that is not the case at the George Town Hospital and I urge for future developments in health services that we carefully examine the recurrent costs that are associated with the design features.

During my two nights at the Faith Hospital (and I am sure the experience would have been the same at the George Town Hospital here), I can comment that we have quality practitioners within our health service industry. Our quest to provide total health service at such high quality must be met equally with the reality of paying for health services. We cannot assume in this country any longer that we can experience this level of service at $25 consultation fee, at fees that cannot nearly cover the administrative cost of providing these services.

Madam Speaker, like all honourable Members who sit in this Chamber, it does not give me pleasure to bring about and to work with any fee that puts greater hardship on the populace. However, it should not be seen as putting greater hardship because the Budget is designed—and this country's finances are designed in a manner that differentiates between a fee and a coercive tax, a fee is simply to cover the cost of that particular service.

Health services fall under the fee category and it is prudent and necessary for all governments to take the necessary action to ensure that the fees are in line with the cost of the service. This, by no means, should be termed, in or outside of this Chamber, by those who would like to practise political rhetoric, such as taxation. It is an increase in a fee, not a tax.

It is cried for so often in this country, for Government to be run more like business and to exercise prudent financial management. This particular Bill simply tries to bring closer in line the cost of provision of service to the fee charged for that service.

Madam Speaker, with those words said, I give my support to this Bill.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak? Last call, does any other Member wish to speak? If not I will call upon the Mover to exercise his right of reply if that is his desire.

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would just like to thank all honourable Members, the one who spoke and those who did not, for their tacit approval. I can assure all of my colleagues in this honourable Chamber that it is really not a pleasure bringing these increased fees forward.

However, I think we are all aware that it has come to the point where it is absolutely necessary to try to correct the situation and so the reason for the increased fees.

Also, just to say that for persons who go to the Hospital for health care, every effort will be made to handle the situation as best as possible and there will be somewhat different arrangements. There is one thing that we can immediately say that is better about it. There will be registration in various sections of the Hospital so that a person will not have to go to the Eye Clinic or the Dental Clinic and then have to go back to the main hospital to register. It will be done right there and with someone assigned to assist where there may be any difficulties.

I think the Member who spoke, is right indeed and I share that view and I think most honest persons would also share that view. Although there are difficulties at the Government Hospital, overall it delivers an outstanding quality service. The majority of persons who work there give outstanding health care service to patients. I have taken note of what the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac has said about perhaps pegging the fees to the Consumer Price Index. I think there is much merit in that and certainly this is something which I will pass along to the finance people at the Hospital.

Whenever there is an opportunity, I will also raise with the architects the matter of design. Whereby having a particular design might actually be used to determine that there is a need for less staff to carry out a particular operation.

Madam Speaker, again I thank all Members for their support to this Motion and I thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister. The question is that the Health Services (Fees) and Charges Regulations 2001 be affirmed by the Legislative Assembly pursuant to the provisions of section 13(3) of the Health Services (Fees) Law, 2001 Revision. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Government Motion No.14/01 is accordingly passed.

AGREED: GOVERNMENT MOTION NO.14/01 PASSED.

The Speaker: I will now call on the Deputy Leader of Government Business to move for the adjournment, as there is no further business on today's Order Paper.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, before moving the adjournment I would like to ask Members of the Business Committee if they would remain for a few minutes so that we can look at the business for Wednesday.

I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 am, Wednesday, 9 January 2002.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 am, Wednesday, 9 January 2002. All those in favour please say Aye; those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until Wednesday at 10 am.

AT 1.03 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM WEDNESDAY, 9 JANUARY 2002.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
WEDNESDAY
9 JANUARY 2002
10.39 AM
Twelfth Sitting

The Speaker: I call upon the First Official Member to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. James M. Ryan: Let us pray:

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace, now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.41 am

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: Please be seated. I have received apologies for late attendance from the Honourable Minister for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology and also from the Third Elected Member from the district of West Bay.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MINISTERS AND OFFICIAL MEMBERS

QUESTION NO. 141

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

No. 141: Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs, what is the succession plan for the positions in the Public Works Department and have all members of staff in that department been advised of, these plans and what is required of them to advance with the plan

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the Succession Plan for the positions in the Public Works Department is that Caymanian staff are promoted to replace expatriate staff as soon as they have gained the requisite qualifications and experience.

Staff are aware of the professional or technical qualifications and experience required to advance within the department and are encouraged and assisted to attain the requisite levels for appointment. They are given experience in the areas where this is required.

The Speaker: Are there any supplementaries?

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the First Official Member indicate if the department has liaised with the Education Council to ensure that the list of approved subjects for government sponsorship coincide with the needs of the Public Works Department to ensure that the Succession Plan can be effectively carried out.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am not sure that the department has liaised with the Education Council to look at subjects where there are needs. However, what is done (and I think more appropriately) for Caymanians in the Public Works Department is that once they have gained some experience then they are sent off for training in the area. I think this is much more important because individuals have an opportunity to determine a course of training in a chosen area in the Public Works Department and then they are assisted.

This is one department that does ensure that young Caymanians get the opportunity to go off for the necessary training. Of course, once trained they are promoted to the post.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Madam Speaker, could the First Official Member provide the House with information on apprenticeship programmes that the department may have?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is my understanding that the department does not use an apprenticeship system which is really something a bit more designed for tradesmen as opposed to a professional training, but I think more importantly, what the department does is to assign Caymanians to firms where they can get the professional training. This is done by way of attachment and in this way Caymanians are able to get experience and have the necessary training to fill the professional slots in the department.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Madam Speaker, I think there is an architect at the Public Works Department of Cayman Brac. Could the First Official Member indicate if there is any Caymanian identified to understudy that individual or to take up appropriate studies that could possibly replace that foreign national one day in the near future?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The particular post that the Member has asked about is in relation to another department. The Public Works Department, as you will know, is under District Administration and there was no request for information on that so I am not in a position to answer that.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Ms. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member could say if there are any Caymanian understudies at present for those key posts held by contracted officers in the Public Works Department.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the architecture section of Public Works there are three Caymanians at various stages in the process of understudying the non-Caymanians in that section. In Quantity Surveying there is one Caymanian who is an understudy. In Engineering there are also three understudies and I think further down the line there are others as well. So, there are quite a number of young Caymanians understudying expats in this department.

The Speaker: The Honourable Member from North Side.

Ms. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the First Official Member could say if there is a timeframe or time limit as to when these young Caymanians will replace these persons. Or, do they have to understudy for a certain amount of time and how close are they to replacing these contracted officers?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the substantive question I pointed out that once they receive the requisite qualifications and experience they then take over from the expat. It will depend on whether the young Caymanian has the professional qualification. In some instances they are attached but they are determining whether it is a field that they really want to pursue professionally before they go off for training.

However, as soon as the Caymanian is qualified and has gained some experience they then succeed to the post—I would imagine as soon as the next contract is up for the non-Caymanian.

The Speaker: The Honourable Member for North Side.

Ms. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member could tell the House (I think he said there were three understudying in the architectural) what the qualifications are at present.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

One officer is due to complete post-graduate work experience and professional qualifications in architecture in February or March of this year. He will then be recommended to fill the post of Executive Architect which is being vacated by a foreigner.

One officer is a graduate in Architect and is pursuing an MSC in Architectural Studies concentrating on project management and environmental planning. The completion date for that individual is May 2002, and he will then pursue his career in project management. Another architect is developing skills in project management and has taken on the role of deputy project manager for Government's proposed office building.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In successive answers, the Honourable First Official Member mentioned that there is a succession plan in place for the replacement of the expatriate workers by our Caymanians. My concern is whether or not both the employee and the employer know the details of that plan. If we want to motivate those young Caymanians to aspire to higher goals there should be some aim for a timeframe.

Regarding a previous question raised on the timeframe, it was stated that when they have gained the necessary training an assessment is done. What kind of measurement is used to determine whether or not they have reached that stage? How will the employees know what they are working towards and when they can expect that promotion? Could the Member state those goals and if they are available to them what kind of timeframe is being applied? That is, whether or not after two or three years of understudying you will be assessed on these criteria to see whether you are ready to advance.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

That is not an easy thing to do because getting qualifications is one thing but having the requisite experience to take over a section and sometimes be responsible for an area that is crucial to Government, is another issue. The head of the department has to ensure that the person is able to take over and run his section efficiently. No two individuals will mature or gain experience in the same way. One with six months experience may be a high flier and be able to simply take over whereas another individual with the same qualifications may need a year.

So, it is difficult but I think we have to rely particularly, on the head of department who is a professional and who will be able to, with assistance from other professionals, assess individuals and promote them into job positions. I think the important thing is that there is a plan in place and people are put into positions as soon as they are trained and ready.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I do agree that it is important to have a Succession Plan in place. We say that people will advance and it is going to depend on the heads of department. However, we have all been spoken to quite a bit concerning the moving goal post that seems to happen in various professional fields and in Cayman on a whole, when it comes to the advancement of Caymanians. The frustration that a lot of those Caymanians go through where there are no defined criterion for them to know when they are moving, just when they feel that they have reached the stage, then where they can take over—

The Speaker: Honourable Member could you please move to put it into a question?

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder, since we do have a succession plan in place, whether there are established criteria as to when those individuals will actually advance to those positions. Or, does it strictly depend on the head of that department, who sometimes is the person that is being replaced?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am informed that there are no qualified Caymanians in stagnated positions with the Public Works Department. There is one Caymanian who is acting as Executive Architect. As I mentioned in an earlier answer there is at least one other person off for training in this area.

I hear what the Member is asking in terms of trying to nail down a time. However, I think it is important (not only for the success of the department but also for the success of the individual) not to place them in charge of an area or put them into a job that they are unable to handle or for which they are inexperienced. If that happens we are likely to see the individual leave out of frustration.

So, it is important that we make sure that the person is not only trained but also has the requisite experience to take over and manage the area. I would say to the Member asking the question if he has a specific case he can either, if he wishes, talk with the head of department or I will be quite prepared to talk with him on it.

The Speaker: The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I heard the First Official Member explain to us about training and experience. I wonder if he could tell us if there is a defined job-training programme to go hand-in-hand with the succession planning over a period of time.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I do not know if I would use the term 'defined plan' but I believe I can say a tailored plan on the training and experience. Each case is looked at and efforts are made to tailor it to that post to which the individual would succeed. I think that the programme that Public Works has put in place for succession planning is very suited to that Department.

Succession planning will vary from department to department, but I think when we are dealing with a number of people that have to have a professional qualification (and there are one or two departments that fall into that category), it is important that the needs of the individual be looked at and the requisite training and experience be given. There may be two sections in Public Works that may not have identical arrangements in terms of the length of time for training, but it is tailored to the individual needs of that Department. I do not know if I have answered the question but I will stop at that.

The Speaker: The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Maybe he did not understand totally what I meant or what I was trying to ask. In the instances where engineers come home with a first degree in engineering, is there a defined plan which says that to become the head engineer of a department you should have a masters degree or have spent one year in that position in training and experience in that particular area? The other year in that section is completed and then eventually it is six years. At some stage we know one or two people will try to achieve that position. They will not all get there but we can pick out one of those individuals who will eventually reach that position.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The job description for each post sets out the qualifications and the experience. When a Caymanian shows an interest or a definite leaning to a particular area, assistance would be given and of course the officer will know the required qualifications and experience for the job.

As the questioner asked, the individual will aspire to the requisite qualification and then gain the experience, generally in a deputy position or even in some instances in an acting position. Until he or she gains the requisite experience he can then be promoted into the post. There are no additional qualifications in the department other than what the job description calls for.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

The Speaker: We have reached the hour of 11 am. Is there a motion to suspend Standing Order 23(7) and (8)?

The Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I move to suspend Standing Order 23(7) and (8) in order to take questions after 11 o'clock.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23(7) and (8) be suspended to allow question time to continue beyond 11 am. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED IN ORDER FOR QUESTION TIME TO CONTINUE BEYOND 11 AM.

The Speaker: Are there any further supplementaries with this question?

The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, I just have two further questions. One, could the First Official Member then confirm whether or not there is cross training within the department to acquire that prerequisite experience?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

There is some cross-training done in the department. For instance, an architect will be given the opportunity to do project management field work but there would not be cross-training in the sense that an architect would be given the opportunity to do engineering work. As the Member will appreciate, it is a different discipline altogether. So, there is limited cross-training where possible, in the department.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries, we will move to the next question.

QUESTION NO. 142

The Speaker: The Elected Member from the district of East End.

No. 142: Mr. V. Arden McLean asked the Third Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development, further to the commitment that the Honourable Third Official Member gave to the Legislative Assembly on 7 September 2001, would the Honourable Member verify if there has been any movement of funds into and out of the Police Commissioner's account relating to monies collected by the Drugs Task Force over the past six years.

The Speaker: Honourable Third Official Member, I believe it is our intention to move a motion.

DEFERRAL OF QUESTION NO. 142

Standing Order 23(5)

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, in accordance with Standing Order 23(5) I beg leave of this Honourable House to defer answering this question until tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23(5) be duly suspended. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: QUESTION NO. 142 DEFERRED UNTIL THURSDAY 10 JANUARY 2002.

QUESTION NO. 143

The Speaker: The Elected Member from East End.

No. 143: Mr. V. Arden McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for the Ministry of Community Services, how many homes for persons in need have been built over the past nine years by the Social Services or the Public Works Department and in which districts were they built?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, I seek the leave of this Honourable House under Standing Order 23(5) to have this question deferred to a later date.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23(5) be suspended so that question can be deferred until a later date. All those in favour, please say Aye.

AYES.

The Speaker: Those against, No—
The Member for East End?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, if I could ask the Minister to inform us as to the date that he intends to defer it to.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister you may wish to do it. I would draw your attention that Standing Order 23(5) in fact says, "A Member of Government may, with the leave of the House, defer answering a question." So, it is entirely in your decision if you wish to so indicate.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, I would prefer if the question be deferred until a later date and we will then be able to say specifically when and how this question will be answered at that time.

DEFERRAL OF QUESTION 143

Standing Order 23(5)

The Speaker: If we would revert for the abundance of caution I should put the question. The question is that Standing Order 23(5) be duly suspended. Those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(5) IS DULY SUSPENDED AND QUESTION NO. 143 DEFERRED.

QUESTION NO. 144

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

No. 144: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs, since the announcement in the 2001 Budget in March of this year that all new services will be curtailed except for new staff at the Bodden Town, Savannah, George Town, John A. Cumber, Red Bay Primary and Light House schools, and staff for the Family Protection Unit and the Financial Reporting Unit, and a moratorium would be placed on recruitment for the remainder of 2001 except for absolutely essential services or where there are direct revenue or expenditure offsets;

- (a) how many new civil servants and group employees in total have been hired? and
- (b) of the total in (a) above, how many new civil servants and group employees have been hired to fill the position outlined above?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Four new civil servants have been hired since March 2001, excluding those who were hired to fill the positions outlined in part 1 of the question. Group employees are hired by heads of department as needs arise. They are not processed through the Public Service Commission and the Personnel Department. Therefore, it is not possible to say how many have been hired since the moratorium in March. The number of new civil servants hired to fill the positions outlined in part 1 of the question is 31.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In his response the Honourable First Official Member indicated that it is not possible to say how many group employees have been hired since the moratorium in March. I believe that there must be some error in that response.

There must be some means by which the Cayman Islands Government can ascertain how many persons it has employed and how many have been hired over a course of a particular period. I wonder if the First Official Member could confirm that that aspect of his answer is in error.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

That aspect of my question is perfect and very accurate. I think the Member asking the question fails to realise that heads of departments can take on group employees; they can employ them for a day, up to a year, and at any given time there will be group employees coming and going. They are not handled through the Personnel Department or through the Public Service Commission.

There is no way of accurately knowing on any given day, how many group employees have been or are being hired, unless I set up a special section to call around every department on a daily basis to determine that. I certainly think that that would be a waste of public funds to do.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for the district of East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the substantive answer, the First Official Member said, 'The number of new civil servants hired to fill the position outlined...' in part (i) was 31 and then there were four others. I take that to mean 35, I believe in a recent parliamentary question asked (I believe it was in September) there was an answer given that the amount of COS renewals and newly hired was 48 and 40. I cannot recall exactly which was 48 and which was 40.

I wonder if the First Official Member could tell us under which amount they fell. Were they new services or were they all renewal of contract? There was one saying 48 and one saying 40. So, there seem to be a discrepancy in the numbers—35 here as opposed to the 40 that was an answer in September to a parliamentary question on COS.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I do not have the information on the number of contracted officers that were hired. That information perhaps could be made available but it was obviously given in September but I am not able to give the correlation between the number of contracted officers that were employed and the number of new posts as mentioned in this question.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In his answer to my supplementary question, the Honourable First Official Member confirmed that the aspect of his question which I perceived was an error, was in fact correct and that it is not possible for him to determine the exact number of group employees that have been hired since March. However, I wonder if the First Official Member can give a general indication, whether the number has been significant or insignificant in the context of the overall compliment of the group employees.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

To try to answer that question, I would simply have to guess. I am not able to give any accurate answer so I would prefer not to try to make a guess on it.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable First Official Member say how group employees are paid their wages? That is, are they paid directly by those heads of departments or through the central Treasury for the Cayman Islands Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Once a head of department employs a group employee the department will then post that on the system and they are paid through the Treasury Department.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable First Official Member then say that through the Treasury's records we should be able to be provided not necessarily with the total number of newly hired, because as he indicated, people do come and go for other than long-term periods of time, but at least a net increase or decrease to the compliment of group employees?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wish it were as simple as calling the Treasury and asking for the numbers. What happens is that department heads often employ individuals as group employees and a group employee may work for a day or week and then they leave. Payment is stopped but their names remain on the system, and, believe me, I have tried (and I do not want to seem difficult about this) . . . it is a matter of accuracy in the system. That is, short of contacting each department to get the information, there is no way of being able to give an accurate figure on group employees.

The Speaker: I will allow for one more supplementary. The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I take note that in the 2001 Budget each department head has a section called wages which is to pay group employees. I am just wondering if that is for the group employees that were currently employed and if that is so, who would have authorised the department heads to hire more group employees to change that Budget of 2001 or for any year.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Often a block figure is put into the estimates but it does not necessarily equate to a specific number of group employees but, that again (and I appreciate the helpfulness of the Member in bringing that forward), also does not accurately reflect the total number of group employees.

QUESTION NO. 145

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

No. 145: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs, what is the total number of persons employed in the Cayman Islands Government, including civil servants and group employees.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The total number of persons employed by Government including civil servants and group employees as of 28 December 2001 was 3,977. The figure is made up as follow:

|                 |       |
|-----------------|-------|
| Civil Servants  | 2,719 |
| Group Employees | 1,258 |
| Total           | 3,977 |

I must stress that this in an estimate.

The Speaker: Are there any supplementaries?

The Second Elected Member for the district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Would the First Official Member be able to provide the House with the breakdown of this total Civil Service figure of 3,977 as to Caymanian versus foreign nationals?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I can give the information on civil servants. Again, I am not able to help on the group employees but of the 2,719 persons in established posts as of 28 December 2001 are as follows:

|               |       |
|---------------|-------|
| Caymanian     | 1,564 |
| Non-Caymanian | 1,155 |

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member can clear up some confusion in my mind.

If on the 28 December 2001, a census was taken of the number of group employees based on pay checks issued by the Treasury Department, would it not be possible to ascertain with certainty the number of persons paid by the Cayman Islands Government who were not civil servants in the strict sense, that is, salary, therefore group employees?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The figure that I gave regarding group employees was arrived at by the Personnel Department checking with each department in Government on the number of group employees paid. That seemed to be the most accurate way of doing it, albeit laborious. I have to say that the Personnel Department has been frustrated for some time with this problem, but it is one of the issues that the department is attempting to address this year, to try to be able to get a more accurate handle on group employees employed at any given time.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I can understand the frustration that Personnel and indeed the Honourable First Official Member, as Head of the Civil Service, must have with these sorts of situations. However, I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member could say whether or not this inability in the current system—to ascertain precisely how many individuals and the identity of those individuals who are employed by the Cayman Islands Government—does not provide scope for abuse. Particularly, in relation to hiring or the potential for hiring people who are really not necessary.

Given the current budgetary constraints and the significant percentage of Government's revenue that goes to fund the wages and salaries of civil servants, I wonder whether or not this is a concern which he and Personnel have about the current system.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I think the comment by the Member is a very good observation. There is concern about the hiring of group employees but a circular did go out some time ago to heads of departments on this and it appears that they are being conscientious.

From what I have been able to gather, in instances where they have employed individuals as group employees, since the budgetary constraints have been put in place, heads of departments are being conscientious about it. Of course, where possible we are keeping an eye out for it and I can only appeal to all heads of departments to be very conscientious and not take on individuals who are not necessary and only hire individuals where it is absolutely necessary. However, I thank the Member for his observation.

The Speaker: I will allow for one more supplementary. The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In light of that line of questioning and the responses provided if the Honourable First Official Member could say, if there are any plans to seek to address the situation so that Government is able to say with some degree of certainty, who and how many persons are receiving a pay check from the Cayman Islands Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I believe I attempted to answer that in an earlier supplementary. That is one of the goals of Personnel this year, to try to determine as accurately as possible the number of group employees in the system.

QUESTION NO. 146

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member from George Town.

No. 146: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Acting Second Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Legal Administration, when will a Bill be brought to the Legislative Assembly to amend the Judicature Law to make proper provisions for the compensation of the jurors in accordance with the undertaking given to the Legislative Assembly by the Honourable Second Official Member during the Second Meeting of the 2001 Session.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Samuel Bulgin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Answer: During the debate in a recent sitting of the Legislative Assembly on a Bill to amend the Judicature Law it was agreed on behalf of the Government that the present allowance of ten dollars ($10.00) per day paid to Jurors would be looked at with a view to increasing same and making it more reasonable.

Any increase in the allowances paid to Jurors will of necessity translate into an increase of government expenditure the issue has to be discussed by Executive Council. It is therefore proposed that a paper will shortly be presented to Executive Council dealing with the matter and depending on the outcome of Executive Council's deliberation the appropriate action will be taken.

It is hoped that a decision will be made in time for the next Session of the Legislative Assembly.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The response indicates that it is hoped that a decision will be made in time for the next Session of the Legislative Assembly. I wonder if the Honourable Acting Second Official Member can confirm that in fact what he means is the next Meeting of the Legislative Assembly.

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting Second Official Member.

Hon. Samuel Bulgin: I can so confirm, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I am not sure whether the Honourable Acting Second Official Member was present when the debate to which he refers in his response took place and the context in which that debate took place, so that he understands where my line of questioning is going.

The debate ensued as a result of proposed amendments to the Judicature Law to increase the array of jurors in relation to money laundering prosecutions. The reason given by the Honourable Second Official Member (who had carriage of the Bill) for the need to increase the array was because of the likely length of money laundering trials and the length the real possibility of attrition. I believe he indicated that trials could last three months or more and it was in that context which Members on this side of this Honourable House felt that given the extended periods which individuals would be kept away from their regular jobs and the ensuing hardship, as a result reasonable provision needed to be made to ensure that they received some reasonable income during this period.

I say all of that to ask this: Is the Honourable Acting Second Official Member able to say whether the decision regarding an increase in allowance to jurors will be taken in good time so that the matter is resolved before the start of the Euro-Bank Money Laundering trial, which I believe is slated for March or April?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Second Official Member.

Hon. Samuel Bulgin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Euro-Bank Money Laundering trial is scheduled to commence in May of this year and it is hoped that any proposed amendment to the Judicature Law would be in place to address the issue of allowances to jurors who will be serving in that matter. If I might just point out, as a matter of perspective, the allowance to jurors is exactly what it is—an allowance. It was not meant to be compensation for income that would be probably lost during the period of service as a juror. However, in recent times there has been an increase in the fines levied on jurors for non-attendance to $500.

In addition, there is a recognition that with the inflation over the years the $10 per day that is paid and the 20 cents per mile travelling allowance is really falling behind. So, there is a need to increase these allowances to make it commensurate with present day reality. Those are some of the decisions that will inform the magnitude of the increase of the allowance that is being contemplated. However, as I said before, clearly it has budgetary implications to Government so care has to be taken to ensure that it can be accommodated. However, it is hoped that it will be done in time to meet the commencement of the Euro-Bank trial in May of this year.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am grateful to the Acting Second Official Member for that response. I note that he made the point that what is being paid to jurors is an allowance and is not intended as compensation. However, I wonder if he would agree with me that the allowance of $10 and the 20 cents per mile (which is currently paid) were arrived at in the context of a very different state of affairs in which jurors were called to sit on trials that lasted at the outset of a couple of weeks?

Clearly it was not intended to deal with situations where individuals will be required to sit for a quarter of a year. I wonder if he could confirm or agree that we are talking about two very different situations as what obtained 15 years ago and what obtains now, particularly in the context of the money laundering prosecutions.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Second Official Member.

Hon. Samuel Bulgin: I do not think we are talking about two different situations. I think we both recognise the fact that over the passage of time there is a need to increase the allowance paid to jurors. I made the comment that it is not intended to be compensation for loss of income. One of the things that we are hoping to look at in this proposed amendment is to address the complaints from jurors about the problems of having their employers paying them. In some jurisdictions the legislation expressly provides that persons who serve as jurors shall be paid their normal wages by employers for the days that they are required to serve their civic duty as jurors.

We are hoping to address those concerns in the proposed amendment and—clearly that would exclude civil servants—hopefully that amendment would go a long way in addressing some of the hardships experienced by jurors when they are serving. If there is ever a time to do so it would be for the Euro-Bank Money Laundering trial, which is estimated to last between five to six months.

The Speaker: I will allow for one more supplementary.

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I learned a long time ago that if one persists long enough, one gets the right answer. What I was seeking to do was to ensure that hardship was not suffered by the jurors. I do not mind where the compensation comes from.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: We move on then to the next item of Business.

The Honourable Minister of Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I do have a lengthy statement on the matter of tourism statistics and the history of it and I am wondering whether or not you would take the morning break. Or, if you want me to start I could do that but in order not to have a break in the statement, perhaps it is a good time to take the morning break.

The Speaker: Is it the wish of the House that we take a morning break? We shall suspend for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.49 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.15 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed.

Statement by the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism.

STATEMENT BY MEMBER OF GOVERNMENT

TOURISM STATISTICS

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the matter of producing and releasing accurate tourism statistics have been a priority of mine since I took office just over a year ago. As Members of this House will recall I commissioned an investigation in the process. As I suspected it was revealed that there has been a history of unreported compromises being made to the statistics. I first reported these errors to the country in April 2001 and released revised 2000 air arrivals in a statement made in this House.

Subsequently, further errors were found in the data capture coding and counting process and so, in June 2001 a second set of revised statistics were presented to me by the Department of Tourism (DoT). There has been much confusion surrounding the Cayman Islands tourist arrival statistics. During the four-month period April to July 2001, there were several sets of conflicting air arrival reports released to the public. One set of which was released by the Department in April without my knowledge and a second set released in August without explanation of the revisions. This has seriously impacted the credibility and professionalism of the Government and more specifically the Cayman Islands Department of Tourism which has been responsible to release the statistics to the public.

Madam Speaker, there have been four separate sets of Cayman Islands air arrival figures generated for the year 2000. Three of these reports were released to the public and one was released only to Internal DoT management. After a lengthy investigation initiated in June, and carried out through the end of November 2001, I can confirm that the Ministry and Department now have full details on the exact nature of the series of problems and unresolved issues which led to the four sets of air arrival figures.

The complete report as submitted to the Ministry is available for members of the public who are interested in the actual statistical system and human errors involved in the first three incorrect and the final more accurate figures for 2001 and 2000. The actual number of air arrivals for 2000 was 354,089. Other totals reported for this period have ranged from a low of 306,133 to a high of 406,620. This 100,487 variance is equivalent to actual error factors in the data capture and coding process of 13.54 percent and 14.84 percent respectively.

I must stress, Madam Speaker, that the current situation is not based on a new problem. Its origin dates back to 1994 and has been internally recognised by the DoT as a problem since 1997 although nothing was done about it.

Since I took office the Department has made several attempts to correct the problem. Some of the more recent attempts have added to and compounded the situation because the people who were charged with resolving the issue lacked the experience, familiarity and technical proficiency to really understand the depth and complexity of the problem.

Although I wish there was someone I could hold fully accountable for this mess as I have been made to understand, it appears that there is no clear individual or department completely responsible for this current situation. A series of errors made over time by Departments of Computer Services, Immigration, Statistics and Tourism have each had a cumulative effect on the problem. This problem has been compounded by a lack of communication and cooperation between Government departments and by political issues, before I took office in November of 2000.

The DoT will publicly take the brunt of the responsibility for the errors, as it was the Department that was responsible for the release of the numbers to the general public. This situation should not be taken lightly. Many members of the private sector relied upon these statistics in order to make business and investment decisions over the past five to seven years. It would also be beneficial to calculate a complete set of true arrival numbers for the period of 1994 to 2001, so that the Government has solid knowledge of the scope of the error allowed to continue over the period of 1994 to 2000. However, it seems that this may not be possible because the Government itself did not keep original sets of each year's data and so as modifications were made to the Immigration's data, the data was saved over the previous data.

There is still a small margin of error in the tourism air arrival statistics currently being published but this is common in the reporting of large numbers. The good news is that for the first time, starting today with the release of these revised 2000 arrivals and the 2001 data, I have instructed the DoT to acknowledge and stipulate the error of margin estimates, the assumptions, or any other qualifiers to the arrival figures, so that persons interpreting the figures can have a better understanding of how they were arrived at; more importantly that Government is being honest about the estimated margin of error.

In fact, it amazes me that the department (at the time of the former Minister) would release numbers and suggest that they were absolute numbers. The average person on the street knows that surveys or most types of data analysis is reported with an estimated margin of error but somehow the previous decision makers must have thought they were in a position to release those numbers as the absolute 100 percent accurate numbers. Well, we can all see now that was hardly the case.

Madam Speaker, a second bit of good news is that the Immigration Department, in consultation with various other Government departments, is in the process of developing a new embarkation and disembarkation form which will help with the capture and accuracy of tourist arrivals data. Actual hard copies of the arrival figures will be distributed to Members of the House and will be available for the media and public later today at the Department of Tourism.

Turning now to the air arrival numbers themselves as reported through 31 October 2001.

The Year-to-Date Comparison Through 31 October 2001 Versus 2000

It is no surprise that the 2001 air arrival figures through 31 October was somewhat below the air arrivals for the same period in 2000.

The United States' National Bureau of Economic Research, widely accepted as the abettor of US business cycles, confirmed in November that the US economy entered recession in March 2001.

The economist said that the US economy peaked in March after an expansion that lasted almost 10 years and the contraction that began in March was exacerbated by the economic impact of 11 September. This temporarily paralyzed consumer confidence and the resulting collapse in demand for travel related services, accompanied by tens of thousands of layoffs, left no room for doubt that this was indeed the first recession in a decade.

Through 31 October 2001, the Cayman Islands total international arrivals air and cruise from all tourism markets totaled 1,248,658 people, increasing 11.6 percent from the previous year. Air arrivals in 2001, through 31 October 2001, from tourism markets were 282,952 representing a decrease of 2.12 percent compared to the same period in 2000. Although a decrease, I find it remarkable that the figure was not worse when we consider that this marginal decrease is despite some significant negative factors such as:

1. The US economy began entering a recession in the spring of last year and worse.

2. It includes the days and six weeks immediately post 11 September, which were the most devastating in the recent history of travel and tourism.

Cruise arrivals total 965,706 through the 31 October 2001 increasing 16.34 percent over the same period in 2000, for a net increase of 136,265 additional cruise visitors on ships calling into the Cayman Islands.

Aggressive Caribbean campaigns, particularly from the Bahamas, Jamaica, Puerto Rico, and the Dominican Republic have competed directly with Cayman's marketing efforts in our main US markets—the Northeast and upper Midwest corridors.

While we may not be offering the same market or gambling type of vacation experiences as some of these Islands, the fact that their budgets are four, five and, in some cases ten times that of the Cayman Islands, makes it more difficult to get our message of differentiation out to our target audience and keeps the cost of buying travel media very high indeed.

Madam Speaker, looking specifically at the US region, total air arrivals for the 10 months ending 31 October 2001 were 231,314 remaining relatively unchanged at a decrease of .07 percent or 159 fewer air arrivals compared to the same 10 months in 2000. Not great, but a fair showing of the spring and summer months in context. In November 2000 when I took office I found no summer programme in place. It was exactly at this time last year that I had to ask the Department of Tourism and the local industry to put together a summer programme to help promote the Islands and try to get some business here during the months with lesser demand than the winter months.

Public and private sector produced the Get Re-energized programme and although this was extremely late getting to the market, the fact is that through the increased advertising the fresh new images and the special incentives Get Re-energized at least helped to put the Cayman Islands name and images back in the competitive arena, thus helping to get US consumers thinking about the Cayman Islands again.

The fact that the year up to that point did not fare any worse than it did is a testament to the concerted work that was done by the Department of Tourism both in Grand Cayman and in the United States in the spring and summer of 2001. The Department of Tourism worked more closely with its wholesale and airline partners, re-directed some of the efforts of its US sales teams, employed more effective direct marketing, and initiated a web marketing programme with Travelocity which generated a lot of exposure for the Cayman Islands in our target markets.

The Department of Tourism even began a more concerted effort of selecting joint programmes for affinity marketing with partners such as Crab Tree and Evelyn in the United States and the United Kingdom and American Express in the United States. Dive and other joint publicly and privately partnered co-op print advertising projects continue to be successful and of extreme good value in the combined use of public and private sector funds.

Finally, to bring home the point, I would ask the community to not lose sight of the fact that the marginal overall decrease of approximately 2 percent was despite a series of deep budget cuts—no television advertising in the first three-quarters of 2001 and the worse body blow to travel and tourism ever experienced in recent history.

Honourable Members the fact is, the Cayman Islands have equity. There is much for us to be hopeful and positive about. The Cayman Islands are still a preferred choice for the United States visitors but we must never take this for granted. Our mission must be to continuously work to develop a better product service, excellence and strategic marketing programmes that break through the clutter and reach our target markets in a way that effectively communicate why we are the ideal choice for our repeat guests and potential first time visitors. We still, if I should say so, have safety, security and serenity.

However, arrivals through 13 October 2001 from the New York area (representing 33.1 percent of total US air arrivals) increased by 8.47 percent over the same period in 2000, while arrivals from the Chicago area (representing 24.5 percent of total US arrivals) increased by a moderate 1.47 percent over the same period of the previous year. Together these two regions represented a net gain of 6,793 people over previous year.

Arrivals from the Miami region representing 19.04 percent of total US arrivals posted a decrease of 7.83 percent equivalent to 3,744 fewer people over 2000. The Houston and Los Angeles regions together representing 23.4 percent of total US arrivals or 15.2 percent and 8.2 percent respectively showed decreases of 5.97 percent and 4.86 percent respectively for the period through 31 October 2001 compared to the previous year. Combined, these regions had a net decrease of 3,207 people. Overall air arrivals from Canada decreased 7.02 percent to 10,590 compared to the same period in the previous year.

One of the reasons for this may have been the reduction of Canadian charter service by one particular company from twice weekly in January to mid April 2000 to a once a week charter for the same period in 2001. We expect to see a shift in this trend as the data starts to come in for November and December of 2001. In response to the added convenience on the scheduled non-stop service from Toronto operated by Air Canada which commenced on 28 October 2001.

Air arrivals from the UK and continental Europe declined by 1,271 visitors, a decrease of 7 percent (to 16,877 people) to the end of October 2001. Compared to the same period last year (2000) 83 percent or 1,021 of the total drop of 1,271 visitors came from the markets in continental Europe. Air service is a critical success factor for the UK and continental European markets. Unfortunately, we have found the situation continues to be less than what is needed to make a break through in those markets. British Airways Boeing Triple Seven service was discontinued in March 2000 resulting in a 30 percent reduction in seating capacity to the Cayman Islands.

Subsequently, the schedule was reduced to three times weekly, although British Airways has just announced it will add a weekly flight starting in April for a total of four weekly direct flights from the United Kingdom, London, Heathrow Airport.

The Future Outlook And Forecast

Cayman Islands tourism in 2001 was undeniably impacted by the competitive strategies of competing destinations both in the region and in as far remote areas as the Indian Ocean or as nearby as the State of Florida. We were impacted by the slowing down of the US economy in the second and third quarters of 2001. Also, by changes of points of origin frequency and capacity of air services to our Islands. Ultimately, the devastation on the travel and tourism industry resulting from the terrorist attacks and the tragic loss of life on the 11 September became the body blow to global tourism and the Cayman Islands are suffering like the rest of the world although perhaps holding our own in the region. Things are not rosy!

The demand for travel has not yet returned to pre-September 11 levels and they are not likely to pick up before the second or third quarter of 2002. That is the global reality. The headline in last Friday's Caymanian Compass, 'Tourism In Decline, No Relief In Sight' (which really does not surprise me), is yet another example of sensationalist, negative journalism which ironically was a gross exaggeration if not almost contrary to the contents and comments in the article, if anyone read the article.

Our expectations are that we will see a weak winter season. The US economy has not yet rebounded. It was a dismal holiday season for the retail technology and services industries and the continued attempts at further terrorist attacks will prolong the fear of flying that has permeated the American society. Thus, the travel industry has also suffered. I believe the Cayman Islands will rebound in the summer of 2002. Since taking office in November 2000, I have dedicated the past 13 months to a continuous assessment of our local industry identifying and systematically addressing challenges and opportunities to advance our position in regional tourism.

I have set out to re-tool and rebuild the Department of Tourism and while this is an ongoing process, I am pleased to be able to report that the restructuring changes made to date have made the department, at least in some areas, leaner, more focused and more efficient. As we continue to bring aboard the necessary leadership and technical skills, the department will continuously improve its ability to lead and manage on behalf of my Ministry and the Government core components of the local tourism industry.

Madam Speaker, US economic history shows us recessions in that country normally last 12 months. Economists today believe the same is true for the current recession that it will be typical of the last nine US recessions in duration. Analysts believe that the combination of monetary stimulus, tax cuts and other fiscal incentives will spur increased business and consumer demand by next spring, thus, kicking off a cycle of rising demand and production.

Feedback from some of the US carriers serving the Cayman Islands indicated that in terms of advance bookings, the Cayman routes are holding strong. While I am not at liberty to release the confidential and proprietary data of the airlines advance bookings, I can say that Continental indicated that advanced bookings for the winter period is up slightly over last year, as is to be expected with the withdrawal of Delta from the Northeast. US Air indicated its Charlotte route has strong advanced bookings for the winter and Philadelphia routes advanced bookings are reasonable. In fact, US Air commented that its two Cayman Islands routes, as measured by advanced bookings for the destination, is fairing better than some other routes to Caribbean destinations.

It was difficult to get an accurate indication from Cayman Airways advanced bookings because the schedule for this winter is significantly reduced from the schedule last winter. So, the reduced advanced bookings are not really comparing apples to apples. The Cayman Islands Tourism Association is forecasting a weak winter with advanced bookings below last year's levels. This is not surprising since we are looking at advanced bookings for two, three and four months out—and we are all aware of the strong trend for later or even last minute bookings or the making of travel plans within a much shorter time frame than used to be the case before the 11 September.

Additionally, US travel analysts forecast a pen-up demand for travel which is likely to be released in the second quarter of 2002. These factors should contribute to a slightly better first and second quarter than the fourth quarter of 2001. The Cayman Islands will be ready to receive international visitors particularly our US neighbours who suffered the most as a result of the senseless terrorist attacks. The Department of Tourism and the local private sector are finalising H2go. That is, the Cayman Islands summer programme to be announced at the Caribbean Hotel Association's market place meeting in Cancun for the US market in a few days time.

By March the full programme will be reaching consumers, travel trade and the media through an integrated marketing programme involving print and broadcast advertising, public relation, web marketing and sales promotions. The local community has my full commitment to keep them informed of the progress of the summer promotion and is customary on my watch, we will naturally do a full evaluation of the programme to assess its results.

Madam Speaker, I would like to issue a reminder and a suggestion to all of us in the Cayman Islands and especially those in the front line welcoming our guests: We must make our visitors feel welcome when they reach our shores at the Airport. Immigration and Customs Officers I urge you to make it feel like a welcoming home for them, not like they are refugees begging hospitality. Apart from the economic importance of Tourism to the local economy it is part of our Caymanian heritage to be warm, friendly and welcoming.

Let us be true to ourselves. Repeat visitors are like extended family living abroad. Let us make them feel appreciated and let them know we are pleased that they choose to come back to the Cayman Islands. Service levels must improve and it can start with a genuine smile and open helpfulness. Do not be cold or 'stand-offish'. We are in the service business and people are paying for their vacation. They are entitled to good service just as we expect when we are spending our money.

To conclude, the approximate 2 percent decrease through the end of the 31 October 2001 compared to the same period in 2000 comes as no surprise to us in the Cayman Islands. We hope that with the concerted efforts of the restructured Department of Tourism and the expected turn-a-round in the United States economy predicted for the second and third quarter of 2002, the Cayman Islands can position itself to hold and grow its market share for the benefit of the local industry and people of the Cayman Islands. However, it requires hard work, the stock-taking of smart risks and the delivery of good value for the prices charged to our guests. It will take higher levels of service and it will require genuine co-operation and mutual respect between public and private sector but I am confident it can be done. I look forward to providing international visitors arrival up date again in the next few months.

Madam Speaker, at this time I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the following documents:

- A copy of the report prepared by the Department of Tourism and the history of the tourism arrivals statistic system.
- Copies of the tourism arrival statistics for the period 1 January through the 31 October 2001, which is accompanied by the explanatory notes.
- The complete revised tourism arrival statistics for the year 2000 accompanied by the explanatory notes.

Copies of these same documents have been available for the press and general public to collect here at the Legislative Assembly.

Madam Speaker, I thank you, the Members for their indulgence, and the interim Director and the Permanent Secretary for assisting me in bringing this matter to the forefront and laying out the full facts for the public. We are not hiding any matter when it comes to public business.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Leader.

We will move on to complete the First Readings before suspending for the luncheon break.

Honourable Leader of Government Business could you move the suspension of Standing Order 45 and 56(1) and (2)?

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS 45
AND 46(1) AND (2)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I move the relevant Standing Orders in order for the Bills to be read.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Orders 45 and 46(1) and (2) be suspended. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDERS 45 AND 46(1) AND (2) SUSPENDED.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

FIRST READING

THE MERCHANT SHIPPING (AMENDMENT) (SURVEYS AND CERTIFICATION AND MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS) BILL, 2001

[The Clerk: The Merchant Shipping (Amendment) (Surveys And Certification And Miscellaneous Provisions) Bill, 2001.]

The Speaker: The Bill has been deemed to have been read the First Time and is now set down for the Second Reading.

THE MERCHANT SHIPPING
(MARINE POLLUTION) BILL, 2001

[The Clerk: The Merchant Shipping (Marine Pollution) Bill, 2001.]

The Speaker: The Bill has been deemed to have been read the First Time and is set down for the Second Reading.

THE INSURANCE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001

[The Clerk: The Insurance (Amendment) Bill, 2001.]

The Speaker: The Bill has been deemed to be read a first time and is also been set down the Second Reading.

THE SECURITIES INVESTMENT BUSINESS BILL, 2001

[The Clerk: The Securities Investment Business Bill, 2001.]

The Speaker: The Bill has been deemed to have been set down a first time and is set down for a second reading.

We will now suspend for the luncheon break. We are suspended until 2.15 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.50 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.30 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

I call upon the Deputy Leader to move the suspension of Standing Order 46(4).

STANDING ORDER 46(4)

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the suspension of Standing Order 46(4)

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 46(4) be suspended. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

Ayes.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 46(4) SUSPENDED.

SECOND READING

THE TRAFFIC (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, I move the second reading of a Bill entitled, The Traffic (Amendment) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The Bill has been duly moved. Does the Mover wish to speak thereto?

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

This short amending Bill seeks to amend The Traffic Law (2001 Revision) in order to provide the alcohol-in-breath measuring devices and radar speedometers used by the Police in the Islands for the purpose of the Traffic Law, should be approved by the Commissioner of Police and not prescribed by regulations. This would assist the Police in obtaining and using the most up-to-date alcohol and breath measuring devices and radar speedometers without delay.

From time to time equipment used as measuring devices for alcohol and breath (commonly referred to as breathalyzers) and speed radars will get changed. There have been instances in the past when an updated model has been purchased and it requires regulation to change to the new piece of equipment. The amendment being proposed this afternoon will simply allow the Commissioner of Police to gazette the new piece of equipment and it will then be prescribed and will be useable under the Law. Accordingly, I am seeking the support of Honourable Members for this amendment to The Traffic Law (2001 Revision).

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

Does any other Member wish to speak?

If not, does the Mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Only to thank Honourable Members for their tacit support and for so quickly allowing this to move through. It will certainly expedite the introduction of radar equipment as well as breathalyzer equipment. Thank you.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill shortly entitled, The Traffic (Amendment) Bill 2001, be given a second reading. All those in favour please say Aye.

AYES.

The Speaker: Those against, No. The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE TRAFFIC (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

THE MERCHANT SHIPPING (AMENDMENT)
(SURVEYS AND CERTIFICATION AND MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS) BILL, 2001

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled, The Merchant Shipping (Amendment) (Surveys and Certification and Miscellaneous Provisions) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The Bill has been duly moved. Does the Mover wish to speak thereto?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The current version of The Merchant Shipping Law, which consists of The Merchant Shipping Law of 1997 and the amendments of 1999, represents a comprehensive and modern shipping regime in the Cayman Islands. Internationally Maritime Law is highly regulatory in scope and is largely based on conventions and related instruments. As shipping technology develops and the needs of commercial shipping increase the international convention law continues to undergo changes for the better.

It is then incumbent upon flag states, such as the Cayman Islands, to readily incorporate those changes to maintain a commercially viable and high quality fleet. To this end, further amendments to the Shipping Law have now become necessary primarily as a result of the entry into force of protocols to two major maritime conventions. In addition, some further adjustment is necessary to repeal the now redundant transitory provisions relating to the Civil Liability and Fund Conventions (CLC). The opportunity has also been taken to address other minor needs and a normal list discovered following a period of application of the Law. The various amendments are summarised as follows:

Clause 4 of the Bill: provisions have been added in sub-section 8(3) (a) to enable a mortgagee's interest to be de-registered where it is proven that the mortgagee was privy to the possibility of the ship being used for criminal purposes.

Clause 5 amends section 11 to create the defined term 'Pleasure Yacht' to accommodate the changing use of such craft from private use to commercial use and vice versa.

Clause 6 (amends section 12) has been expanded to clarify that this section refers to entries into the register in relation to the property in a ship and not for any other entries.

Clause 7 section 30 is amended in subsection 2 (1) to remove an anomalous cross-reference to section 54. This amendment will require vessels under the demise charter registration regime to carry third party insurance cover.

Clause 8 amends section 36 to tidy up certain terminology regarding particulars of a ship to be registered and erroneous cross-reference is also removed.

Clause 9 amends section 54 to remove redundant references to previously repealed schedules relating to the transitory provisions of the 1992 civil liability and fund conventions.

Clause 10 amends section 22 to recast subsection 7 in such a way as to delete the substance of paragraph (b).

Clauses 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20 amend sections 171, 180 to 184, 186, 188 and 191.

The need for these detailed amendments arises from the entry into force of the protocol of 1998 of the Safety of Life at Sea Convention (SOLAS). This protocol introduces a harmonized system of surveys and certifications for merchant ships. The acronym for the harmonized system of surveys and certification (which I will be referring to subsequently) is referred to as HSSC. The Shipping Industry welcomes the introduction of the HSSC regime because the systems allow the times of surveys under the major conventions to be synchronized thus, facilitating operational flexibility. The Cayman Islands must ensure that necessary provisions are in place in The Merchant Shipping Law to enable the protocol to be given effect.

Clause 21 amends section 202 to provide for revised qualifications for arbitrators in the event of a dispute regarding surveys of ships under the Law. It takes into account the situation in the Islands with respect to the Attorneys-at-Law.

Clause 22 amends section 204 to strengthen the existing provisions regarding port state control. The authorities of the next port-of-call are to be notified of the situation where a ship under detention has for any reason been allowed to proceed to the next port and where it has not been possible to notify the vessels flag state representative through the usual channel.

Clauses 23 to 30 amend sections 222, 224, 228, 234, 241, 242, 244 and 251. The amendments are also part of the HSSC except that these are reference to the application of the system to the Load Lying Convention of 1966. Appropriate terminology is introduced, defined where necessary and the relevant additional provisions are incorporated.

Clause 31 sub-section (1) of 269 has been reworded to make it clear that the Governor in Council may appoint the Director of Ports as the receiver of wreck. Subsection 2 has been amended to extend the provisions for the receiver of wreck to invoke his powers with respect to a vessel which poses a risk to the environment.

Clause 32 sub-section (1) of 287 has been similarly amended to include a vessel posing a risk to the environment in the cases where the Port Authority has the right of intervention with respect to sunken, stranded or abandoned vessels.

Clause 33 amends section 319 to correct erroneous cross-references in this section.

Clauses 34 and 35 amend section 355 (1) and (5) and 356 to delete redundant references to part 1 of Schedule 3 of the Law which were previously repealed.

Clause 36 amends section 414 to clarify the procedure for the appointment of the Director of Shipping and for inspectors and surveys. The amendment also corrects an erroneous cross-reference in the original Law.

Clause 31 amends section 422 to revise the qualifications for arbitrators but with respect to improvement and prohibition notices taking into account the situation in the Islands with respect to Attorneys-at-Law.

Clause 38 amends section 449 to clarify appointment procedures generally and ensure that it complies with the requirements of the Convention.

Clause 39 amends section 458 subsection (1)(a) to remove some ambiguity with respect to the payments of expenses to the Treasury. Shipping is somewhat unique in that the owner or operator of a ship to be surveyed, et cetera, will pay the travel accommodation and related expenses of attending surveyor but this is not revenue.

Clause 40 amends section 459 to close a possible loophole. The Shipping Law needs to make specific reference to the imposition of fines in excess of the standard scale introduced in various regulations since omission to do could result in the level of fines being capped under the Interpretation Law. This is because section 27 of the Interpretation Law provides that unless otherwise provided in the principal Law, regulations made under a Law may make breach of the provisions a criminal offence subject only to a fine not exceeding $1,000. It is in some cases necessary to impose a significantly higher penalty for the more serious offences than is allowed for under the standard scale.

Madam Speaker, I commend this Bill to honourable Members.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak?

If no other Member wishes to speak will the Mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Just to say thanks to honourable Members for their support.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill shortly entitled, The Merchant Shipping (Amendment) (Surveys and Certification and Miscellaneous Provisions) Bill, 2001, be given a second reading. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE MERCHANT SHIPPING (AMENDMENT) (SURVEYS AND CERTIFICATION AND MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS) BILL, 2001 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

MERCHANT SHIPPING MARINE POLLUTION BILL, 2001

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled, The Merchant Shipping (Amendment) Surveys and Certification and Miscellaneous Provisions) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The Bill has been duly moved. Does the Mover wish to speak thereto?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The legal regime of marine pollution is not only unessential but also an indispensable part of International Maritime Law. The importance of Marine Pollution is exemplified by the mission statement or motto of the International Marine Organization: Safer Ships and Cleaner Seas. The Law of Marine Pollution is also germane to the progress and development of merchant shipping fleets.

An up-to-date regime is essential for attracting and retaining quality ships in the Cayman Islands Registry. Thus, the commercial success of our shipping registry is significantly dependent on a sound marine pollution regime. Furthermore, we as an Island state are one of the world's most important cruise shipping areas where garbage pollution is a major concern. The fragile marine ecology of the Islands is vulnerable to harmful effects of marine pollution.

Our current marine pollution legislation is grossly inadequate and outdated. In the Merchant Shipping Law of 1997 we brought our legislation in line with the latest international developments by incorporating the Civil Liability Convention and the Fund Convention of 1992. These Conventions address the private law aspects of liability and compensation for oil pollution damage. However, there are other aspects that are essentially the public law and regulatory elements relating to inter alia rights and responsibilities of the Cayman Islands vis-à-vis the international community regulation of ship generated operational pollution, deliberate dumping of waste of sea, preparedness and response in relation to accidental oil spills.

Madam Speaker, this Bill now presented to honourable Members is intended to fill the existing lacuna in the Law. The Bill gives effect to the following Convention as appropriate:

- The United Nations Convention of the Law of the Sea 1982 (UNCLOS),
- The International Convention relating to Intervention on the High Seas in cases of oil pollution, that is, the 1969 Intervention including the 1973 Protocol,
- The International Convention for the Prevention of Pollution from ships 1973 as amended including the Protocol of 1978, that is, the Marpol 73/78,
- The Convention and the Prevention of Marine Pollution by dumping of waste and other matters 1972 as amended previously known as The London Dumping Convention including the Protocol of 1996.

The international convention on liability and compensation for damage in connection with the carriage of hazardous and obnoxious substances by sea, that is, the 1996 and International Convention on Oil Pollution, Preparedness and Response 1990. All these Conventions have been extended to and are applicable to the Cayman Islands. The Memorandum of Objects and Reasons which proceeds the Bill sets out a clause by clause explanation.

Part 2 of the Bill deals with administrative matters such as the functions of the Member of Government, with responsibility for the merchant shipping and seamen. The ability for the Member of Government to delegate his or her powers. There is provision for power to make regulations. The Government and public officers acting under the Law enjoy immunity from civil suits. Other housekeeping matters are addressed such as the retention of copies of conventions, as well as there are requirements regarding communication and consultation with interested parties in the implementation of this Law. Certain powers are provided to authorize officers to board ships and port facilities and to take testimonies of witnesses under oath.

Part 3 of the Bill deals with powers and jurisdiction under the UNCLOS relating to the protection and preservations of the marine environment. There are requirements for the Government and Director to take measures to control or reduce pollution. There are reporting requirements to the International Maritime organization and powers to detain vessels.

Part 4 addresses the issue of Intervention on the High Seas in the face of an imminent threat of pollution of the coastline of the Islands and its related interest, thus giving effects to the 1969 Intervention Convention. This is of vital importance to the Islands not only for the protection of the marine environment itself but also our tourism as well as the watersports and recreation industries are dependent on clean marine environment. These provisions enable the Cayman Islands as a coastal State to intervene even on high seas to prevent or mitigate pollution damage.

Part 5 incorporates the Marpol 73/78 Convention. This part is divided into six chapters: The first chapter deals with the general provisions of the Convention. It is significant that the wider Caribbean region has been declared a special area where no discharge of garbage is allowed. There are requirements for the reporting of incidences involving polluting substances and powers to detain ships in certain cases. The remaining five chapters give effect of the five annexes of Marpol. Each annex provides for the prevention of pollution by five different types of pollutant.

- Chapter 2 addresses oil,
- Chapter 3 addresses noxious liquid substance in bulk,
- Chapter 4 addresses harmful substances carried by sea in package form,
- Chapter 5 addresses sewage, and
- Chapter 6 regulates and discharge garbage.

Part 6 addresses the important use of Oil Pollution, Preparedness and Response (OPRC) and gives effect to the OPRC Convention 1990. Provisions are made for a national system for responding to oil pollution incidents affecting the Islands under the purview of the national coordinator. Provision is also made for cooperation with appropriate bodies in the Islands and overseas with respect to serious oil pollution incidents including bi-lateral or multi-lateral arrangements.

Part 7 deals with the control of the deliberate dumping of waste at sea and gives effect to the London Convention (LC) 1972 and its Protocol of 1996.

Part 8 addresses the regime of liability and compensation for pollution damage resulting from the carriage of hazardous, noxious substances and gives effect to the HNS 1996 Convention.

Part 9 deals with enforcement inquiries, legal proceedings and jurisdiction matters in relation to the implementation of the Bill. Such matters as the application of certain parts of The Merchant Shipping Law, the service of documents and taking of proceedings in other jurisdictions are addressed.

SCHEDULES 1 THROUGH 21

Finally, there are 21 Schedules which supplement the provisions of the Bill.

Schedules 1 and 2 deal with matters pertaining to intervention on the high seas in relation to oil pollution incidents in accordance with the 1969 Intervention Convention and its Protocol of 1973.

Schedules 3 to 5 address various matters relating to Marine Pollution by oil which is subject to Annex 1 of Marpol 73/78.

Schedules 6 to 10 are concerned with Prevention of Pollution by noxious liquid substance, which is dealt with in Annex 2 of Marpol 73/78.

Schedule 11 contains guidelines for the identification of harmful substances in package form which is the sub-set matter of Annex 3 of Marpol 73/78.

Schedules 12 to 13 address supplementary matters regarding the prevention of pollution by sewage from ships in accordance with Annex 4 of Marpol 73/78.

Schedule 14 gives the form of garbage record books required under Annex 5 of Marpol 73/78.

Schedule 15 contains the Annex to the 1990 oil pollution preparedness.

Schedules 16 to 17 are concerned with the dumping of waste under the London Convention 1972 and its Protocol of 1996.

Schedules 18 to 20 contain additional material regarding the provision relating to the carriage of hazardous and noxious substances.

Schedule 21 contains the list of repeals to be effected consequent upon the Bill coming into force.

Madam Speaker, I commend this Bill to honourable Members.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member for the district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would like to commence my short contribution to this Bill by first congratulating the Third Official Member and his staff, the legal experts and members of the staff of the Cayman Islands Shipping Registry, for bringing about this magnificent piece of legislation. I am aware of the extent of work that has gone into preparing this piece of legislation to ensure its compliance with the numerous international conventions that have been ably outlined by the Third Official Member.

Madam Speaker, I recall even from my days in the Ministry, work commencing on this Bill and I am pleased that the Cayman Islands will have legislation that will govern ships under our flag as well as ships in our waters in regards to pollution, assuming safe passage of this Bill. The Cayman Islands development has always had a great reliance on the marine environment. This addition to the Merchant Shipping legislation is indeed welcomed.

The Bill For A Law To Prevent The Deliberate Negligent Or Accidental Release of Oil and Other Harmful Substances From Ships for the Protection and Preservation of the Marine Environment and the Conservation of the Natural Resources Therein and to that end To Regulate Maritime Activities and for Incidental and Connected Purposes is a Bill that I can certainly give my support and encourage all Members of this Honourable House to support. The United Democratic Party would like to thank all who have contributed to the preparation of this instrumental piece of legislation. The health and cleanliness of our marine environment and our coastal line is a matter that all responsible legislators should comfortably support.

On behalf of the United Democratic Party I would urge the general public to accept this Bill and play its role because the requirements of this Bill go beyond simply the administration of the Cayman Islands Shipping Registry. It affects not only garbage that comes from the ships but it affects how we as a country handle garbage, oil and waste.

The United Democratic Party welcomes the ability that is given by this Law for a Government to prevent, mitigate or eliminate danger to our marine environment and coastal line from maritime casualty, be it deliberate or accidental discharge of oil, garbage, noxious or harmful substances or waste. As a world class shipping registry, a category one British Red-Ensign shipping registry with Cayman Islands ships sailing the world's waterways, our responsibility to the protection of the marine environment is heightened. Three conventions that fall under the responsibility of the International Maritime Organization (IMO) referred in our Law as the organization, govern the global effort in this regard. This Bill seeks to implement the essence of the International Convention for the prevention of pollution from ships 1973 as modified by the Protocol of 1978 relating thereto as Marpol 73/78. It covers accidental and operational oil pollution as well as pollution by chemicals and goods in package form, sewage, garbage and air pollution.

The second convention is the International Convention on Oil Pollution Preparedness Response and Cooperation (OPRC), 1990 which provides a global framework for the international cooperation in combating major incidents or threats of marine pollution. A protocol to this convention (H&S protocol) covers pollution by hazardous and noxious substance.

Thirdly, is the convention on the Prevention of Marine Pollution by Dumping of Waste and Other Matters, 1972. As noted by the Third Official Member, it is commonly referred to as the London Convention.

Madam Speaker, it is important to note that these international maritime conventions and all other conventions to which the UK is party are extended to the Cayman Islands. As the world moves to adopting these conventions to provide global standards to the legislation and uniformity in the enforcement of Marine matter, the Cayman Islands will benefit from not only mitigating these problems within the Cayman Islands and the Cayman Islands Shipping Registry but will also benefit from the reciprocity of these global efforts.

This Bill governs the ships that are under our flag, as well as ships that are in our Ports and offshore terminals, or those ships within nation waters. Globalisation has resulted in a resurgence of shipping as world trade barriers continue to fall. This compounded with an increase in cruise tourism with some 40 new ships coming on line shortly with the increase in maritime traffic and the increased consciousness of the importance and vulnerability of the marine environment, the provisions in this Bill can only be deemed as timely. The Bill also makes provisions to protect shipping industry. It protects unwarranted and unduly delays or detaining of a ship by the Director of the Cayman Islands Shipping Registry forcing the Government to compensate the ship for such delays. This instills efficiency and forces discipline within the Directors department for himself and his agents.

The Bill calls for the Director to inspect and report to the IMO any deficiency in regards to sewage, oil and garbage reception facilities in the Cayman Islands. This is an important area and one that I urge the Government to address because we do have certain inadequacies in the reception facilities at our Ports that will need to be brought up to scratch if this Law is to be properly enforced.

Madam Speaker, I am aware of one particular instance where cruise ship docks in Cayman requested and was granted approval to offload its garbage. It tendered its garbage to the Cayman Islands. But the reception facility at the Port was inadequate to accommodate. I commend the Port Authority and its staff in that particular instance in making extra provisions. However, this Bill calls for the Director to inspect and report to the IMO any deficiency and I urge the Government to take a serious look at ensuring that the reception facility for garbage is improved.

However, the Bill goes beyond garbage receptive facility to include oil and sewage. I have been informed that in instances where ships request the discharge of sewage in our port we accommodate them by bringing in trucks to haul the sewage away. In one particular instance that I observe, industrial services were used to pump away the sewage from the ships. We must look carefully to ensure that this complies with the requirement of the IMO.

We have no tank facility at our Ports to accommodate for oil or oil contaminated water. To emphasize this point I simply illustrate that an average cruise ship voyage generates 8 tons of garbage 1 million gallons of grey water which is defined as water from laundry from showers that is no longer in its pure form. Twenty five thousand gallons of oil contaminated water is generated, 200,000 gallons of sewage and lots of other hazardous waste.

Madam Speaker, recent coverage in the local media and statements in this honourable House, as detailed plans, not only for cruise ships docking facilities tendering facilities that have a long term goal of birthing facility and also the relocation of the cargo port. I urge the general public that as a member of the United Democratic Party, I will ensure that the decisions are made with the requirements of this piece of legislation in place for proper facilities to accommodate oil sewage or garbage that ships choose to dispose at our ports. We must remember that these conventions are international and as all ports bring up their facilities to the standards set in these international conventions, we will see a reduced likelihood of discharge of garbage, oil and sewage in open waters and when done, will have to be in accordance with the mechanism outlined in these conventions and detailed within this particular Bill.

Madam Speaker, I have stated how impressed I am with the piece of legislation, but I have also pointed out that there are a few deficiencies. One other area that I would encourage the Third Official Member to look at is in regard to air pollution. The Marpol Convention on air pollution from ships as adopted by IMO in 1997 in the form of a protocol containing a new annex number 6 of the Marpol Convention, outlined the emission caps to be established for air pollution which contributes to some one-third of the carbon released. The Environment Protection Agency (EPA) of the United States of America has declared its intention to introduce regulations applicable to the US and foreign flag ships in the absence of internationally applied requirements by mid-2002 in regards to the control of air pollution.

As recently outlined in this honourable Chamber by the Deputy Financial Secretary, the Cayman Islands Shipping Registry strives to be ahead of the regulatory requirements. We must seek to ratify the Marpol Convention on air pollution. It is not healthy to have a confusing array of different standards for different areas. I have spoken to the Third Official Member in private on this matter and he has assured me that this concern will be noted and contemplation will be given to how best accommodate my concern. The issue of pollution on our coastlines and in the marine environment is extremely important to the Cayman Islands as a tourism destination as outlined by the Third Official Member.

So much of the pollution that we have in our waters and our coastline is generated from land based activity. Once garbage becomes airborne—be it garbage from our land fill, seepage from our land fill into our water, from illegal dumping—it has a tendency of finding its way to the coastline and the marine environment. We must address the issue of illegal dumping.

I took the opportunity this weekend to drive into Barkers beach area and I was amazed at how in this country illegal dumping continues so close to our shore line, so close to our marine environment. As a Government we must take strong action to prevent illegal dumping and we must consider carefully when relocating our land fill and look carefully at the process and procedure of handling our land fill debris generated by land based activity. Out of a matter of interest I will read what is internationally referred to as the 'dirty dozen' which are the twelve most found items on coastal lines. Representing 61.68 percent of all debris collected during garbage cleanups along coastal lines:

1. cigarette butts (this is the number one item that everyone forgets is truly garbage)
2. plastic pieces
3. foamed plastic pieces
4. glass pieces
5. plastic food bags and wraps
6. paper pieces
7. plastic caps
8. glass beverage bottles
9. plastic straws
10. metal beverage cans
11. metal bottle caps
12. plastic beverage bottles

Madam Speaker, I can only add to what I have said that I commend this piece of legislation to all honourable Members and I hope that all honourable Members will lend their support to this very timely piece of legislation. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I take note that there is no quorum.

LACK OF QUORUM

The Speaker: Will the Serjeant ensure that we have a quorum of eight before we proceed?

[pause]

The Speaker: Member from East End, was that merely to bring that to my attention or is it your intention to debate?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Yes, it is my intention to debate.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to make a short contribution to the Bill which is A Bill to Prevent the Deliberate Negligent or Accidental Release of Oil and Other Harmful Substances from Ship and for the Protection and Preservation of the Marine Environment and the Conservation of Natural Resources therein.

I too welcome this legislation and probably more than many in this honourable Chambers. I am pleased to see legislation coming into effect and I do not have problems supporting it either. As a former engineer, I have been the recipient of investigations, when on my watch discharges were accidentally made, or deliberate in some cases, when staff discharges sewage, oil waste and so on.

Madam Speaker, when I came to this honourable House one year ago, I spoke of the discharge from ships into the waters around the Cayman Islands. I then urged the Government for legislation to prevent it. Therefore, I have no alternative but to support this Bill. There are a few things, like the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac pointed out that is lacking, as I see it in the legislation. Provisions are made for a number of things and in particular, I would like to touch onshore facilities for reception of waste from ships. I understand that the country needs shore facilities to receive such wastes and I trust that the Government will make those provisions.

However, when ships are built, provisions are made to accommodate waste in the form of what is called holding tanks and the purpose of those tanks is not to be used while the ship is underway. The purpose of those tanks is to be used while in port and I certainly will not bore the House with all the calculations that is required, but I will say that it is based on the occupants of the ship and a simple rule of thumb of how much wastes is expected to be generated by those individuals, that is, per body. Holding tanks are calculated on that basis. It is further calculated on the basis of how many days that ship is going to be in port.

Therefore, the only reason any ship coming into port would have to discharge to shore facilities, is if the ship is overly delayed. For instance, all the passenger liners that currently come into the port of George Town would have sufficient holding facility for a particular number of days, that is, for every passenger on that ship. There is certainly a need for the holding facilities on shore to process that waste but only in those instances where the ship is delayed.

What is extremely important in this country is that provisions are made to ensure that those holding facilities are engaged while in port. There is no guarantee that engineers on those ships are going to seal off the overboard discharge. Therein lays the crux of the matter. I would have to hear from the Government that as the pilot (which is customary in other ports all over the world) boards one of the passenger liners or the ships that come to this port that an inspector also boards one of those ships and ensures that the ship's seal is on the overboard discharge and that the Cayman Islands seal is on the overboard discharge also.

I have heard the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac say that there have been instances where ships discharge in our waters. Or, the ships have had to request a discharge to shore and trucks have had to take it away. If we get discharge into the waters surrounding the Cayman Islands from ships it is our fault. In saying so, I would encourage the Government to seriously look into ensuring that there is an inspector boarding these vessels as they arrive or shortly after anchorage (docking or whatever the case may be) to ensure that the discharge cocks on these vessels are secured. I lived that for 10 years as an engineer whenever a ship arrives in port (some countries it is whenever the pilot comes aboard, other countries it is when one pulls along side the dock) an inspector is sure to come to see if the overboard is closed and the discharge into the holding tanks are opened.

If we are serious about protecting the marine environment we have to ensure that that provision is in place. There is no maybe or perhaps. In the middle of the night ships going to countries that do not have such provisions will of course pump their bilge over the side. Neither the captain nor the chief engineer can make provisions for an oiler or a pump man on that ship. The only provision they can make is the country ensures that the overboard discharge is properly sealed. Then in the event—and I am speaking from experience—there is one drop of oil in that harbour every ship in the harbour is inspected and if one seal is broken that is where the oil came from and that ship is impounded. I have been the recipient of that. I certainly did not go to jail but the fines are applied without even going to court and not only directly me but also the ships that I have been on.

The other area that the Second Elected Member spoke on was emissions from boilers, engines, et cetera. While we enjoy a clean atmosphere it is fragile because of the increase in passenger liners, the increase in cargo ships and the increase in vehicles and the likes, we must also protect our environment.

While the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac says that there are provisions made to implement new guidelines for emissions into the environment, there are many provisions that have been there forever. As part of becoming an engineer I had to attend a particular school for emissions into the atmosphere.

As the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac said, there are certain guidelines in place whereby for instance, in a five minute period or in one hour you can only discharge a certain amount of emissions into the atmosphere. There is no provision in this country for that. We need those also.

For many years I have witnessed the discharge of emissions into the atmosphere of this country from passenger liners and also from cargo vessels. One only needs to travel along the water front and particularly those ships that are steam; they run on steam which is made through evaporation system. When you are burning fuel to generate steam you are going to get emissions into the atmosphere and it is impossible to tell the ship that there will be no discharge. However, provisions must be made that we do not see a ship in harbour for 20 minutes bellowing black smoke. I have seen that.

I urge the Government to look at the possibility of us including provisions to prevent emissions from ships into the atmosphere. The ships have the opportunity to discharge a lot of their wastes prior to coming into the territorial waters of any country. Therefore, there is no reason why they should come into this port or any port with a full holding tank. Provisions are made in here to give them the right to discharge outside of the territorial limits (25 miles) such as oil from bilges, cleaning of tanks, scrubbing of tanks, demucking of tanks.

These are all provisions and guidelines that are all in place and when we talk about the amount of garbage that is washed up any shore, a lot of that comes as a result of many ships passing our country and discharging these kinds of materials. However, they have a right to do it and it depends on where the winds, tides and currents are, as to whether it will be disposed on our shores. We cannot expect to do more, except to pick it up but once they get into port there should be an inspection of these ships at all times.

Patrols should be the norm. Just a few days ago I saw four passenger liners in port. I cannot say that there was not a patrol around these ships but I certainly did not see one. There may have been one but there should always be a patrol boat between to check on the passenger liners as well as the cargo vessels. The cargo vessels are the deadliest of them all and they dock right long side our docks and some of those ships are much older and their holding capacity may not necessarily be up to scratch with modern requirements. As long as they come into this port, the Government in this country should maintain the provisions and the control to say that that ship cannot come into our port unless it has holding provisions. I have seen it.

However, beyond that point, I have seen the yachts come to this country and people live on them. I spoke about this in my Throne Speech and Budget Address 2001. This is another area that needs to be addressed and I respect the provisions here for yachts but we have to make provisions in this country. Yachts do not have holding facilities unless it is put in on a special order. These are not 'live aboard' vessels. They were not built for that, they were built for travelling pleasure. Therefore, it is expected that they would be on the high seas. However, many come to this country and purchase or rent a piece of property on a canal and stick their boats right on it and live aboard. Then they discharge everything right into our waters and then we see our kids fishing in the canals. While we have to make provisions for The Merchant Shipping Marine Pollution, we also have to make the provisions for the pleasure craft pollution. Again I urge the Government to start thinking along the lines of making preventative provisions.

Notwithstanding the impression given by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac, who noted the drafting of the Bill had been in progress for some considerable time before the UDP assumed office, I think that it is quite interesting to note that the UDP has agreed and is admitting that it is not necessarily their Bill. Certainly, I trust that they do not then say that they did complete and bring it, but regardless of who brought it or when it started, I welcome it and I would like to congratulate the Third Official Member for piloting it. I think it was the civil service arm of Government that piloted this Bill thus far.

Therefore, I shall congratulate the civil service arm of Government. I certainly look forward to the Government making provisions for shore installations to pump these things out. In most countries the sewage is pumped into a barge and taken to the treatment plant and then garbage is processed in a similar fashion as done for the onshore processing where it is collected and taken to the garbage dumps.

So, I would like again to urge the Government to start making some provisions because I noted that recently we had a passenger liner overnight. I think that could have been some two days that there were pumping, I trust, into the holding tanks at Spotts. It was not being pumped overboard in the dark of night. Nevertheless, provisions have to be made for when ships have problems and they have to overnight. The ships cannot be expected to hold two or three days of waste but we do not want it pumped into our waters either. Yes, our marine life is an integral part of our tourism product and certainly I do not need anyone to encourage me to support such a Bill because I have 10 years experience as an engineer and I too would like to commend this Bill to all honourable Members.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, honourable Member. At this time we will suspend for 15 minutes for the afternoon break.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.48 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.18 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The First Elected Member for the district of George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you.

Madam Speaker, the Bill that is before us has been explained to some degree by the Honourable Third Official Member who has presented it and there have been some points raised by some other Members who have made their contributions. I think the whole purpose of the Bill can be summarised by saying that the Bill basically puts into law the various components of the International Maritime Conventions to which the Cayman Islands find themselves party. That is basically extended through being an overseas territory of the United Kingdom. I think also as has been said before, certainly the intent of the Bill is welcome to all of us. I just thought that I should make a few comments when looking through the Bill and the various sections.

Before I go into the Bill itself, it is worthy to note that when we speak to any laws regarding marine and/or air pollution before this Bill, the only areas in our own domestic legislation that I could find, which refer to any such thing was, firstly, in our Marine Conservation Law, section 18. I will read three quotes that form the other legislation and in case there is any question of relevance they are simply going to be used to tie in with what is being proposed with this legislation.

Section 22 of the Marine Conservation Law speaks to the control of effluence and it reads: "Any person who directly or indirectly causes or permits to flow or to be put into Cayman waters any harmful effluents or raw sewage, unless specifically permitted in that behalf under the Public Health Law 1981 or any other law, is guilty of an offence."

It is real curious to note that in the reference to raw sewage under this Law, I found out with a little bit of research that if sewage is put into a holding tank and not discharged directly into the water it is not raw sewage anymore. So, insofar as the Law itself exists under the Marine Conservation Law, once there is any elapsed period of time the sewage being in a holding tank, if it is then let loose from that holding tank you cannot be charged for off-loading raw sewage. So, there you go as to what obtains at present. If memory serves me right, for instance, Caribbean Utilities have a pipe leading into the North Sound and I think it has to do with their wastewater. I think it is cooling water for their turbines. I believe under the Water Authority Law there is a certain section that states they have to get a permit from the Water Authority to be able to off-load into the North Sound.

Also, under the Port Authority Law, section 26 speaks to the pollution of air and water. It says, "Whoever deposits, places or discharges into territorial waters any ballast, tonnage, sewage, butcher's, offal, garbage, dead animals, gaseous liquid or solid matter, oil, gasoline, residuum of gas, calcium, carbide, trade waste, tar or refuse or any other matter which is capable or producing floated matter or scum on the surface of the water, sediment or obstruction on the ocean bed or odors or gases of putrefaction is guilty of an offence."

There may be some other areas where there are references but that is all that I could find. Of course if I refer to a portion of the contribution given by the Elected Member from East End, he spoke to the pleasure boats and the sailing craft and the people buying a canal lot and they end up living aboard the yachts and the sewage gets dumped into the water at that point in time. This has always been questioned. It has been raised before in the Legislative Assembly and only to find out how the Law reads. So, at present we find that the situation that obtains it is unsatisfactory.

Now this Bill that is being presented speaks to a situation that if I may use the term is more 'international' and I just chose to cite the situations that obtain locally to really try to ensure that if we are going to be looking at it in any form or fashion we cannot leave that out. I think that was one of the points that the Elected Member from East End wanted to bring about.

Madam Speaker, if we go through the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons with the Bill, one of his cries was to ensure that these other areas that he mentioned (some of which I just mentioned) were looked at. I note under part 2, perhaps the biggest reason the Honourable Third [Official] Member did not really go through each clause because this one is much lengthier than the previous one. I understand why he would not do that and clause 6 enables the Governor to make regulations. It says, 'The Governor may make regulations generally for the administration of this Law and in particular for . . .' and it has some eight subsections. In sub-section (b) it reads, 'The enforcement of any international convention or instrument relating to this Law or to which this Law relates.' It also says in (e) 'To the prevention and control of ship generated air pollution.' Although I am not marrying my contribution to the one given by the Elected Member from East End, I draw reference to that because in going through some areas of the Bill I will have to ask questions the point that he raised regarding air pollution. They will have to be explained because I do not know how of it is going relate to the entities to which we speak.

We speak to these international conventions and it might be to vessels or ships but when we speak to air pollution are we going to be dealing with a separate law for air pollution that may be created by other entities, namely industrial pollution? So, I do not think at present there is any legislation which specifically covers that but clause 6 of the Bill speaks to the Governor having the ability to make regulations regarding the prevention and control of ship generated air pollution. The way the Bill reads speaks to only ship generated air pollution and I raise the point of other types of air pollution also.

Madam Speaker, as we continue we see where clause 88 requires residues of certain substances to be discharged to special reception facilities. It also contains an interpretation subclause. Clause 95 requires the provision, in Cayman Islands ports, of reception facilities for noxious liquid substances. Clause 96 requires the persons in charge of ports and terminals in the Islands to ensure compliance with all of the regulations.

As we look into the specifics of the Bill, again under part 2 which refers to administration, section (iii) refers to the 'Minister'. Perhaps it is the adoption of other legislation from overseas or perhaps that is something that is envisaged for the future, I do not know but I am making an assumption here that the 'Minister' that this refers to the present Honourable Third Official Member. Unless I am misinterpreting it. However, in speaking to that it reads the Minister—

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Point of elucidation.

POINT OF ELUCIDATION

The Speaker: Will the Member give way?

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Madam Speaker, just to clarify that under The Merchant Shipping Law the 'Minister' means 'the member of Executive Council for the time being responsible for merchant shipping and seamen'.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Just as I was saying—

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION—4.30 PM

The Speaker: Before you proceed Honourable Member, we have the hour of 4.30. Is it your intention to conclude this afternoon?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: No, Madam Speaker, I will probably be awhile.

The Speaker: Can I call on either the Honourable Minister of Education or Community Affairs to move the Motion for the adjournment?

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, I beg to have Standing Order 10(2) suspended in order to continue the proceedings until this business is finished this evening.

The Speaker: I should wish to take a suspension for five minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 4.35 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.41 PM

The Speaker: Proceedings are resumed.

The Honourable Minister for Community Affairs, I believe that at the adjournment you proceeded to make a motion to suspend the business. Perhaps you may wish to clarify that position.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, at the adjournment I moved that Standing Order 10(2) be suspended so that we might be able to conclude the debate on this Bill which is before the House or until 6.30, whichever is sooner.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 10(2) be suspended in order to allow the House to continue the conclusion of the debate on the Bill, now before the House or until 6.30 pm, whichever is the sooner. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW DEBATE ON THE BILL TO BE CONCLUDED OR TO ALLOW THE HOUSE TO SIT UNTIL 6.30 PM WHICHEVER WAS SOONER.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town, would you please continue your debate.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. At the short suspension I was going into part 2 of the Bill and speaking to its administration. The situation about the Minister and understanding that for all purposes and intentions it would be the Honourable Third Official Member, has been cleared up, temporarily at least. Madam Speaker, with your permission I would just be making short quotes from the Bill itself.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you.

It speaks to the Minister delegating any of his powers and duties under this Law to any person appointed or authorized to perform any functions under this Law. It also speaks in sub-section 4(2) and I quote, 'Any power or duty lawfully exercised or performed by the officer to whom it is delegated under this section, shall be deemed to have been exercised as fully and effectively as if has been exercised by the Minister.' We go on to section 6 (which I have already mentioned before) where the Governor may make regulations generally for the administration for this Law and in particular for the various specified areas under that section. It also refers to the Director in the Bill who I assume is the Director of Shipping. That is the way that I read it.

As we move into it and look further on in Section 167(1) reads, 'The Minister shall establish a national system for responding promptly and effec- tively to oil pollution incidents and the Governor acting in his discretion shall appoint a national coordinator to perform the functions allocated to him under this Law.' It then goes on to speak to the national coordinator and the prerequisites. In sub-section (4) the national coordinator shall within his capabilities either individually or through bi-lateral or multi-lateral cooperation and as appropriate in cooperation with the oil and shipping industries, port authorities and other relevant entities established and it has (a) (b) (c) (d) regarding oil spills and being prepared for such catastrophes. As we go on into the Bill and look at Section 175 which is under part 7 (the dumping of waste at sea), Section 175 reads, 'The objects of this Part are to prevent, produce and where practicable eliminate pollution caused by dumping or incineration at sea of wastes.'

Section 176 reads, 'In administering this part the Director of Environmental affairs ...' — whom I shall safely assume we would refer to as the head of that department. It reads, 'The Director of Environmental Affairs shall apply a precautionary approach to environmental protection from dumping of wastes whereby appropriate preventative measures are taken when there is reason to believe that wastes introduced into the marine environment are likely to cause harm even where there is no conclusive evidence to prove a causal relation between inputs and their effects.'

I make mention of those areas, Madam Speaker, and we can clearly see a path in this Bill where there are going to be certain agencies and certain individuals who will have specific outlined duties once this Bill sees safe passage. I believe that some of the duties that are referred to in the Bill—and I have only picked at random some of the areas—are duties that can be encompassed with existing personnel. However, I do believe that in order to be effective in monitoring and actually enforcing the law, there will be need for having a very close look as to what various agencies are going to inter-relate to the Law and under the Shipping Registry itself whether there has to be additional personnel to fulfill certain specific tasks.

So, the purpose of drawing to the attention of the Honourable Third Official Member the various points I have raised, is simply to try to extract what type of plan is afoot once the legislation is approved. I think it is important since it seems all of us accept the need to have the legislation in place because of the many concerns that have been raised, those which may not have been raised but are obvious and some which are not obvious. It seems to me, Madam Speaker, that if we accept the importance of the Bill becoming Law, I would not even say next step but I would say that certainly in conjunction with the passage of the Law, we should have our plan afoot as to how we are going to be able to deal with it.

The Member for East End raised a specific point which he was able to expand on because of his own personal experiences. I thought it was a relevant point about them off-loading effluent and whether we have the ability to ensure if that is not done and being able to monitor it very carefully when vessels either come into the port at the actual facility or when they are anchored offshore. It will not matter whether it is the cruise lines or passenger vessels or cargo vessels. I am assuming that there are fines involved for non adherence to the Law once it becomes Law so we have to have bodies in place to ensure that we are able to produce evidence in order to be able to convict through the courts or whatever means necessary to enforce the Law.

I think, Madam Speaker, that it is incumbent on the Honourable Third Official Member to comment on it. Regarding the regulations, which I see as being vitally important, once the Law is passed it is obvious that the regulations which are referred to, I believe, in section 6 and the eight different areas that have to be addressed.

Madam Speaker, the point is simply that we can speak to the Bill and say all the nice things that we want to say and welcome its safe passage in the Legislative Assembly but it is not going to serve anywhere near the purpose that we would envisage, if it simply stays as it is. Too many times we have seen that the paperwork is all completed to a certain extent, then after that you ask about it a year later and nothing else has happened. I simply raise the point in the hope that this will not be the case with this Bill.

I do not know, Madam Speaker, whether or not we have to be looking from different angles to speak to the other areas that have been brought out which may not necessarily be able to be dealt with in this piece of legislation. The area of air pollution through other avenues except from ships will obviously have to be dealt with differently. However, I would wish to flag that up to say that it is time if we are going this far to meet these international conventions it is time for us to have a close look at our own domestic legislation in those areas to ensure that we are up to speed. If we want to say that we are doing what we should be doing to protect the environment then we should not be just talking about these things but we should be doing what is necessary.

Madam Speaker, I certainly will support the Bill and I think all of us will. However, I believe that it is incumbent for us to see clear indications that once the Bill becomes Law whatever is necessary to enforcement of and adherence to the law, done in a manner that is effective. Therefore, it will not just be one of these pieces of legislation that gets safe passage and is passed simply to appease those international conventions but nothing else is done about it. I think the international conventions in this instance are secondary, although they are probably the primary reason why the legislation is being brought and not for own wellbeing. I think the conventions should be treated as secondary rather than primary and we should take this opportunity to ensure that we can enforce it.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak? Last call. Does any other Member wish to speak? If not would the Mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I have made note of the comments that have been raised by the Second Elected Member from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, the Elected Member from East End and the First Elected Member from George Town.

This particular piece of legislation that we are dealing with entitled, 'A Bill for a Law to Prevent the deliberate negligent or accidental release of oil and other harmful substances from ships for the protection and preservation of the marine environment and the conservation of the natural resources therein, and to that end to regulate maritime activities and for incidental and connected purposes' . . . there are two very important observations to be made.

Firstly, the Cayman Islands has in place a Shipping Registry and we see ourselves, rightly so, as a jurisdiction in which we are a significant player as far as the registry of ships is concerned. Secondly, we are a major tourism destination or cruise ship destination and we have a number of ships calling at our port at any given time. What is important is for ships that are flying Cayman flags to be required to observe the international conventions that are in place and this means that the Law will have to be specific and also the accompanying regulations in order to ensure that the appropriate international standards are observed.

Thirdly, as far as the provisions will apply to our domestic situation, we know that many times legislation is brought into force and provisions will be have to be made for the implementations in order to cater for those expectations envisioned under the legislation.

Madam Speaker, while we are concerned about the discharge of effluent, the dumping of waste of oil pollution, we are aware of the fact that we do not have fixed facilities in place at our port at this point in time. However, Madam Speaker, surely this is envisioned. We will have to look at this very carefully. As I mentioned earlier we are a major cruise ship destination and we have to cater to the services that are expected by the cruise lines. We also have to examine this very carefully because while we can deal with the needs arising within our port we have to make sure that we do not become a port of discharge for the accumulation of these wastes brought to the Cayman Islands from other destinations.

Therefore, Madam Speaker, what I am going to do—as one can appreciate this is a very technical piece of legislation—is to get the transcript of the comments that have been raised by these honourable Members. I will pass the transcripts to the Shipping Registry so that any observations that have been made, that have not been contemplated as yet will be examined and looked into. However, surely it is envisioned that for us to observe the international conventions we must have in place the necessary facilities in order to do so. To this extent, the appropriate regulations as envisioned under the Law to set the specific standards or to provide details of the services to be provided will be introduced and brought into force at a time when the appropriate facilities are put in place; in order to meet the expectations of the legislation.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. The question is that a Bill shortly entitled The Merchant Shipping Marine Pollution Bill, 2001 be given a second reading. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Merchant Shipping Marine Pollution Bill, 2001 has been given a second reading.

AGREED: MERCHANT SHIPPING (MARINE POLLUTION) BILL, 2001 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: I now call on the Leader of Government Business to move the adjournment.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock tomorrow.

The Speaker: The question is that this House do stand adjourned until 10 am Thursday, 10 January 2002. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The honourable House now stands adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

AT 5.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10 AM THURSDAY, 10 JANUARY 2002.

OFFICIAL HANSARD REPORT
THURSDAY
10 JANUARY 2002
10.40 AM
Thirteenth Sitting

The Speaker: Good morning.

We will have prayers by the First Elected Member for George Town.

PRAYERS

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Let us pray:

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth I; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together:

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace, now and always. Amen.

Proceedings resumed at 10.42 am

READING BY THE HONOURABLE
SPEAKER OF MESSAGES
AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

I have received no apologies for this Sitting of the House.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

WORKING IN PARTNERSHIP:

Report to the Government by Peter Syson
(9 July 2001)

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Human Resources and Culture.

Hon. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, I request your permission to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House, the Working in Partnership Report to the Government of the Cayman Islands, by the consultant Mr. Peter Syson.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Does the Honourable Minister wish to speak thereto?

Hon. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Hon. Roy Bodden: The Employment Relations Report was commissioned by the Ministry of Education, Human Resources and Culture following a meeting with Mr. Peter Syson, whom we met on a visit to Jersey in the Channel Islands last year. At that time Mr. Syson was advising the states of Jersey on employment relations policies specifically the establishment of an independent advice and conciliation service. Given Government's intention to improve employment relations within the Cayman Islands, we requested Mr. Syson's assistance.

Mr. Peter Syson, formally of the strategy of the United Kingdom's Advisory Conciliation and Arbitration Service, visited the Cayman Islands in June of last year to consider ways in which advice, conciliation and arbitration functions might be part of the reforms being made within the area of labor. In his Report Mr. Syson spoke of a number of significant factors affecting employment relations in the Cayman Islands. As you may be aware, the 1999 Census concluded that the total labour force was 25,506, of which 42 percent 10,630 are Caymanians and 58 percent 14,862 are non-Caymanian.

These statistics illustrate the importance of expatriate labor in our economy, yet there is significant tension between Caymanians and non-Caymanians in our society. Also of critical importance is the discovery that 80 percent of local businesses are small, employing ten or fewer employees. Accordingly these companies lack the time and resources to focus on good employment practices in the local workplace.

The need to reform our employment relations is driven by both international and local factors including the global nature of world trade and financing, the requirements of overseas territories with respect to Britain's membership in the European Community and the White Paper. Locally there are numerous catalysts driving the need of employment relations reforms, including the tension between expatriate and Caymanian employees. The unfair treatment of work permit holders by their employers, the lack of awareness of good employment relations practices and the need to address the public's concern about the dispute resolution process within labor relations.

Additionally, in the report Mr. Syson observed, and I quote, "An absence of a lively employee voice" in the Cayman Islands, which has been attributed to our tendency to deal with matters in a family environment rather than to act collectively. Accordingly, the National Alliance of the Cayman Islands (NACE) Cayman's only private trade union has not experienced burgeoning membership. In an effort to address these and other concerns, the Cayman Islands are building a tri-partite system within employment relations. The transformation to a tri-partied system involves three distinct areas: The New Employment Relations Department; The New Employment Services Center and The Labor Tribunals Secretariat.

The New Employment Relations Department is located at the Tower Building and will concentrate heavily on preventative measures specifically on issues which are irritants or potential irritants or which have already caused a breakdown in orderly relations. We are already working closely with the Chairman and the Immigration Board in defining respective roles and responsibilities.

Alternatively, the Employment Services Centre located at Paddington Place will be geared towards helping employees and employers resolve problems in the work place, through an advice conciliation and arbitration service. Furthermore programs such as the Career Advisory Service, the Government Scholarship Program, the Student Summer Internship and the Partnership and Mentoring Programs under discussion with the Chamber of Commerce; will be housed in the centre.

While focusing on the workforce and particularly the young workforce, there will be special emphasis on the entrepreneur and the small business owner. Additionally, new programs such as, the Small Business Enterprise Program will work with Cayman Islands Development Bank to provide funding and support for start up businesses. Moreover, the 'Project Prepare' that concentrates on the rehabilitation of prisoners will also be housed at the center.

Finally the Labor Tribunal Secretariat will be located at Paddington Place separate from the department, to illustrate its impartiality in labour disputes. Furthermore the Government is establishing an advice conciliation and arbitration system in the hope of institution standards that will keep litigation to a minimum. The success of the United Kingdom's ACAS (Advisory, Conciliation and Arbitration Service) Program has been attributed to its independence and the impartiality of all its work. Its terms of reference are set out in legislation and prevent any political party from intervening in its operations. The role of the ACAS's staff is to help employers and employees, resolve employment and individual rights disputes. Additionally, they promote the utilization of good practices and provide information and advice to individuals, employers and trade unions. The important guiding points for ACAS staff are independence, impartiality, confidentiality, trust, voluntary and professional.

Additionally, the report suggested the establishment of an employment forum, comprising representatives from both sides of the employment relationship as well as independent delegates. The Cayman Islands Employment Forum consists of the Director of Employment Relations as well as representatives from the Cayman Merchants Association, the Chamber of Commerce, the Cayman Bar Association, the Cayman Islands Society of Human Resource Professionals, the Public Service Commission, the Cayman Tourism Association, the National Alliance of Cayman Islands Employees (NACE), the Cayman Islands Bankers Association, the Cayman Architects, Surveyors, and Engineers, the Cayman Islands Medical and Dental Society. Every effort was made to have equal representation from employees, employers and Government in the forum.

The forum is charged with the following objectives:

a) To provide guidance and suggestions on the development of good practice standards within the work place. Keeping these standards consistent with international good practice whilst addressing issues unique to the local workplace.

b) To give feedback on issues facing employees and employers in the work place.

c) To conduct an analysis of accurate manpower trends and occurrences in the demand and supply of local labor. This will in turn provide Government with suggested areas of skills deficits.

d) To provide assurance that Government policies on Caymanianisation are effected through good practice adherence in the workplace.

Given the magnitude of the new reforms, the current Human Resources Department staff will be retrained to align them with the new vision. The Ministry has accepted Mr. Syson's Report and envisages it will be serving as a guiding document in the restructuring of the Labor Department including the establishment of a new Employment Services Centre and Advisory Conciliation and Arbitration Service.

Madam Speaker, I end with the footnote that we are already advanced in carrying out many, if not all, of Mr. Syson's suggestions for improving employment relations in the Cayman Islands. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Minister.
The Honourable First Official Member.

THE ROYAL CAYMAN ISLANDS POLICE SERVICE ANNUAL REPORT 2000

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House, the 2000 Annual Report for the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service.

The Speaker: So ordered.
Does the Honourable Member wish to speak thereto?

Hon. James M. Ryan: No, Madam Speaker, I think I will let the report speak for itself. Thank you.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MINISTERS AND OFFICIAL MEMBERS

QUESTION NO. 142

(Deferred Wednesday 9 January 2002)

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

No. 142: Mr. V. Arden McLean asked the Third Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development, further to the commitment that the Honourable Third Official Member gave to the Legislative Assembly on 7 September 2001, would the Honourable Member verify if there has been any movement of funds into and out of the Police Commissioner's account relating to monies collected by the Drugs Task Force over the past six years.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: Six years ago the receipts and expenditures arising from operations of the Drugs Task Force (DTF) were not recorded in the Commissioner's Account. Instead the DTF kept its records of receipts and expenditures.

The Auditor General carried out a detailed review of the DTF's records, covering the period May 1995 to October 1997. One of the recommendations made by the Auditor General was that transactions in respect of the Drugs Task Force should be recorded in the Police Commissioner's Account. The first entry made in the Police Commissioner's account, in respect of Drugs Task Force's transactions, occurred in January 1998.

Madam Speaker, amounts paid into the Police Commissioner's account, in respect of DTF operations, are as follows:

|                   |             |                                                                     |
|-------------------|-------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 6 January 1998    | $2,046     | Being a donation made by the Chamber of Commerce.                   |
| 2 January 1998    | $1,025     | Being the proceeds obtained from the salvage of a catamaran boat.   |
| 17 March 1998     | $5,400     | Funds obtained from the salvage of a boat.                          |
| 22 April 1998     | $5,000     | Being the proceeds obtained from the sale of a boat.                |
| 20 May 1998       | $18,801.84 | Being the receipt of US$22,929.07 from US Customs.                 |
| 21 July 1999      | $2,950     | Being the proceeds obtained from the sale of a boat                 |
| 17 September 2001 | $10,425    | Being funds obtained from sale of miscellaneous items by the DTF.   |
| 17 September 2001 | $1,699.80  | Being the receipt of US$2,072.93 from US Customs.                  |
| 14 November 2001  | $6,150     | Being the receipt of US$7,500 from DTF law enforcement operations. |

The total of receipts for the period of 6 January 1998 to 14 November 2001 $53,497.64

On the disbursement side the following payments have been made. Amounts paid out of the Police Commissioner's Account in respect of DTF operations are as follows:

|                   |             |                                                                                                             |
|-------------------|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 6 January 1998    | $500       | Being a 'float' paid to the DTF                                                                             |
| 2 February 1998   | $1,025     | Being the pay-over of funds received from the salvage of a catamaran boat to the Cayman Islands Government. |
| 4 March 1998      | $1,638.51  | Being expenses incurred in the collection of firearms.                                                      |
| 1 September 2000  | $18,801.84 | Being the pay-over of funds received from US Customs, to the Cayman Islands Government.                     |
| 14 September 2001 | $3,000     | Being an amount paid over to the DTF in respect of its miscellaneous expenses and purchases of equipment.   |
| 16 November 2001  | $6,184.92  | Being the pay over of US$7,542.59 in respect of DTF law enforcement operations.                            |
| 19 November 2001  | $164       | Being the cost of purchasing a cellular phone for the DTF.                                                  |
| 22 November 2001  | $3,000     | Being an amount paid over to the DTF in respect of its miscellaneous expenses.                              |

Madam Speaker, the payments that I have just enumerated amount to $34,314.27 and the total of the receipts that I gave earlier were $53,497.64.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End for Supplementaries.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you Madam Speaker. I wonder if the Third Official Member can tell us if the figures that he just gave, that is deposits and withdrawals from this account, were audited by the Auditor General?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: No, Madam Speaker, I am not aware of these figures being audited but I am aware that there is an independent verification of these figures by the Commissioner of Police.

Madam Speaker, the Commissioner of Police has assured that his accounts are audited every year by the Auditor General and it would encompass these figures as well.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The question asked for the past six years, this answer that the Third Official Member has given goes back only to 1998. I wonder if the Third Official Member could tell us what happened with the transactions of the previous years.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, if you would permit me to quote from the very first paragraph of the answer I gave earlier, I pointed out that, "Six years ago the receipts and expenditures arising from operations of the Drugs Task Force were not recorded in the Commissioner's Account. Instead the Drugs Task Force kept its own records of receipts and expenditures."

Madam Speaker, there is an audit report that was done by the Auditor General in 1997 and it looked at receipts and expenditures with transactions occurring within the Drugs Task Force during that period. I should point out if you will permit me to quote from a section of the Auditor General's Report itself.

The Speaker: Honourable Third Official Member, was it an internal audit report and if so was it so marked confidential? Also, Honourable Third Official Member, in your response perhaps you could address the point as to who required, whether it was yourself, because if that was the case, then I would accept your consent for divulgence if you in fact requested the audit.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: No, Madam Speaker, this audit was independently conducted by the Auditor

General himself, but the point I was going to make (and, again, if I can just make reference to a memorandum that was issued by the Financial Secretary on the 12 December 1990) . . . . In an earlier question relating to this matter I quoted from that memorandum and a copy of this can be made available to honourable Members through being tabled.

The Speaker: Are you in the position to now so table?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Once I have quoted, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Please proceed then Honourable Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, there was a float that was issued to the Drugs Task Force and this occurred, it seems, around 1995 or there about. The head of the Drugs Task Force properly developed a cash record by what he referred to as a cash book to record the movements of funds in and out of this cash record. I am not quoting from the memorandum as yet,

In 1995 it showed total receipts of $15,950.00 payments made out of that account $9,248.00.

In 1996, receipts of $31,355.00 and payments in that year, of $27,775.00.

In 1997, up to October 1997, $31,370.00 and payments out of that account $35,835.00.

The payments over the three year period from 1995 through October 1997 were $72,858.00 and receipts $78,675.00. We have seen from the information I gave in the Parliamentary Question that commencing in 1998 then the movements of funds occurred out of the Commissioner's account. This is when instead of the independent cash book being maintained by the Drugs Task Force, that receipts and disbursements were then accounted for through the record maintained by the Commissioner of Police.

However, it was envisioned that there was a need for an account that would allow for a certain discretion to be exercised in regards to receipts and payments given the nature of the work that is done by the Drugs Task Force and also through the Commissioner's office and on the 12 December 1990, the Financial Secretary then gave approval for an account to be established. Madam Speaker, if you would just permit me to quote this memorandum, then I will table it as I said earlier.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

The Speaker: Yes Honourable Member, but before so doing, we have now reached the point of 11 am. So if I could first call on the Deputy Leader to move the relevant Standing Order 23(7) and (8)

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I so move the suspension of the relevant Standing Order so that business can continue.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23(7) and (8) be suspended to allow Question time to continue beyond the time of 11 am. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Standing Order has been duly suspended. Please proceed, Honourable Third Official Member.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE QUESTION TIME TO CONTINUE BEYOND 11 AM.

The Speaker: Please proceed, Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, it reads, "Authority for the account," this is Police Commissioner's account and it gives the account number. "Under Financial and Stores Regulations (6.11), the Financial Secretary hereby sanctions the appointment of Barclays Bank PLC as bankers to the Government. The account shall be entitled, Cayman Islands Government Police Commissioner's Account" and it gives the account number.

"Purpose of the account"

- "1) To receive monies seized from convicted drug dealers which, are forfeited to the Commissioner by the courts.
- "2) To receive interest on bank balances.
- "3) Expenditure from the account is at the discretion of the Commissioner but must be related to beneficial use in support of the Police efforts in combating drug abuse and the detection of drug related crimes."

Then under "Accountability of the Commissioner:

- "1) The commissioner shall maintain a simple and confidential record of receipts and payments related to the account, with appropriate supporting records and documentation sufficient to allow verification and regular reconciliation of transactions bearing in mind the need for secrecy in some instances.
- "2) As soon as possible each year, the Commissioner shall furnish the Accountant General with a copy of the bank statement showing the balance on the account at the proceeding December 31.
- "3) The Accountant General will, on receipt of this statement, include this balance under Treasury Bank Balances in the accounts of the Government

- "4) The Accountant General will also include an equivalent amount under Miscellaneous Deposits in the accounts of the Government.

"Audit of the Account"

- "1) The Accountant General will examine the account records at least once each year and provide a certificate to the Commissioner together with a report on the account.
- "2) The account will be subject to normal external audit procedures by the Auditor General as prescribed by the Public Finance and Audit Law.

"Limitation on the account"

- "1) The maximum balance to be held on the account shall be determined by the Financial Secretary and is now set at CI$20,000 [and that is the limit that is still in place].
- "2) The Commissioner shall notify the Financial Secretary in writing of any amount held in excess of the prescribed limit and shall pay this amount to The Accountant General as Miscellaneous revenue of the Government as soon as possible thereafter."

In the answer that I gave in the listing of disbursements, we have seen where at various times monies have been paid out of this account to the Cayman Islands Government and presumably this is to comply with the limit of $20,000.00 that has been set.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.
The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The Third Official Member just read, again, a memo that was sent to out in 1990 concerning this account. I wonder if the Third Official Member can tell us if these figures that he has given from 1998 to 2001, if they have been audited by the Auditor General.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The figures are connected with the account of the Commissioner. As I read from the memorandum that was issued by the Financial Secretary in 1990, it was recognised that a certain level of discretion will have to be exercised. The accounts are audited on an annual basis by the Auditor General but he will not go behind the account into the details of the transactions because judgement can be used to determine that there is a need for certain level of confidentiality given the nature of the work that is done by the Drugs Task Force and also the reason this account was set up. However, the figures are verified on an annual basis. I cannot say for the year 2001 that the figures have been audited because this year has just been completed but we would imagine that it was done for the year 2000.

The Commissioner confirms that Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the Third Official Member can make available to this honourable House—keeping in mind the kind of confidentiality that we are talking about with regards to the sensitivities of the DTF and the likes—a copy of the findings of the Auditor General, and if the Auditor General makes those available to the Public Accounts Committee?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I cannot give that undertaking as I said I am aware of the fact that an audit report has been done. However, I am also aware of the fact that this is a matter that is connected with a separate Parliamentary Question that is being dealt with by the Honourable Chief Secretary. However, in terms of the findings of the Auditor General I cannot immediately commit to say that this is information that can be made available.

As pointed out, there is a certain level and need for discretion to be exercised in the examination of the accounts and the maintenance of the records. I would believe that the exercise that has been carried out or the audit exercise by the Auditor General is for verification purposes. I would have to go beyond that to determine whether it is reasonable to expect that that information should go beyond the pertinent receivers of that information.

The Speaker: Do you have a follow up? Please proceed.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I hear the Third Official Member and I respect the confidentiality and so on. However, the Third Official Member has just given us figures relating to this account and there is nothing confidential in these. I am just wondering, what is the difference between the figures that are given here and what the Auditor General is auditing on a yearly basis? I am wondering why this House cannot be provided with the figures from the Auditor General, keeping in mind the confidentiality or statements from the Auditor General, to say that he had duly examined the accounts and they are in proper order.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I have been made to understand from the Commissioner that on an annual basis, once the audit exercise has been carried out, the Auditor General will then write to the Commissioner setting out his findings. However, if the honourable Member for East End is seeking is to get confirmation as to the balance at the end of the year and confirmation that the audit exercise has been done by the Auditor General, absent the details that would support the build up of the figures, I would not have a difficulty in terms of making a request of the Auditor General for that confirmation to be provided.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay and then after the Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I just wondered if there is some explanation why, when we look at the amounts paid into the police Commissioner's account in respect to DTF operations, in January we had pretty regular looking transactions. Every month there were inflows (January, February, March, April and May of 1998) and then we do not have any input until July 1999. Then after that one, we do not have anything again until 17 September 2001. Does that mean that during those periods there was nothing being sold or any revenue being derived by the DTF?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, that would have to be the assumption made because the records that are on the review at this time are the records that are maintained by the Commissioner of police. These records are reflecting amounts paid into the account, amounts received and disbursements. So I cannot make any assumption for periods where there are gaps in the figures.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I understand about not being able to make assumptions, but we have access to the Commissioner. Can the Third Official Member confirm that there were no sales of any assets that would recognise an income by the DTF during those periods, or joint operations that took place by the DTF along with our other international partners?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the Commissioner of Police is not able to confirm that there was sale of assets that took place during this period. However, what he said was that there is a there was sale of assets that took place during this period. However, what he said was that there is a review being carried out whereby a report will be prepared and submitted by His Excellency the Governor.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In his response to a Parliamentary Question on 7 September last year, notwithstanding the memorandum of 1990, the Honourable Third Official Member indicated there continued to be the payment of funds realised by the Drugs Task Force into an account which was operated by the Chief Superintendent in charge of the Drugs Task Force, Derrick Haynes.

I am presuming that the reason there are some considerable gaps—two years in some instances—in the inflows into the Police Commissioner's account is because the monies were being paid into this account which was operated by the Chief Superintendent. I use the term "account" rather loosely because I believe it was established that there in fact was no established account at a bank. The funds were kept in the custody of the Chief Superintendent.

My question is the Honourable Third Official Member has said that the Police Commissioner's account has been reviewed by the Auditor-General. I wonder if he could say whether or not those reviews included a review of this account which was, I believe until September of last year, operated by the Chief Superintendent in charge of the Drugs Task Force.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, if I stated earlier that there was an independent account operated by the head of the Drugs Task Force, subsequent to the audit that was conducted by the Auditor General, I would be in error. I will apologise to this honourable House for so doing.

The report that I have seen suggests to me that there was a float that was initially issued to the Head of the Drugs Task Force and from 1995 onwards through 1997 there was a cash book that was established or a cash record. This cash book reflected movement of funds, receipts and payments. It was then brought to the attention of the head of the Drugs Task Force that this method of accounting for monies and making disbursements should cease. In future all receipts and disbursements should be made through the special account that has been set up by the Commissioner of Police.

Now we have seen the question that I have responded to today, would have demonstrated monies paid into that account or paid over to the Commissioner of Police by the Drugs Task Force and also disbursements made from that account to the Drugs Task Force. I would believe, and it is reasonable to do so, that while disbursements are being made to the Drugs Task Force, let us say, for example, on 6 January 1998 there was a float of $500 paid to the Drugs Task Force, it would be expected that an independent record would have been maintained to account for all of those payments that would have been made against the monies received from the account maintained by the Commissioner.

I stated that to clarify the point it is expected that internal records must exist within the Drugs Task Force Section. That would allow for the head of that Section to account to the Commissioner of Police and if needs be the Auditor-General, for monies that he would have received from the Commissioner's account. That cannot be taken to mean that, that record would have evidence that monies would continue to be received by the head of the Drugs Task Force and go into a separate account that is maintained by the Drugs Task Force, without passing through the Commissioners account.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I shall ask the question again. Did the detailed review by the Auditor General of the Police Commissioner's account include a review of the special account which was operated by the Chief Superintendent in charge of the Drugs Task Force?

Yes or No?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, according to the Commissioner of Police, the detailed records of transactions by the Drugs Task Force are supplied to the Auditor-General on an annual basis.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Through you, I would like to ask the Honourable Third Official Member if he could give the House an undertaking of this account. That undertaking would be that a meeting be arranged between the Commissioner of Police, the Chief Superintendent in charge of the Drugs Task Force and the Auditor General with a view to coming up with a reasonable set of internal controls surrounding the Police Commissioner's account in regards to contributions made to it by operations of the Drugs Task Force and funds removed in regards to the Drugs Task Force.

Madam Speaker, I would just like to also add that obviously in this area there would be a lot of sensitive information. Information in regards to operations that the Drugs Task Force would be involved with and erations. Obviously, it would not be appropriate for the Drugs Task Force to agree for the Auditor-General to see the intricate details of the operations. I do not think anyone in the Chamber is asking that, but we want to try and get some semblance of accountability, because even though we see these transactions listed here, there is no way the Auditor General can ensure completeness.

The Speaker: Honourable Member can you perhaps move your comments or sentiments into the format of a question?

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Yes, Madam Speaker, I did that in the beginning. I asked for an undertaking but I wanted to explain to the Honourable Third Official Member that the undertaking would not involve divulging sensitive information on the like but that it would simply involve a proper system being established, whereby the Commissioner of Police would serve as the person who could in some way ensure completeness.

That is, when we look at these transactions, who is to say that there should not have been ten other transactions? Who is to say that there should not have been ten other receipts of cash? No one knows that and that is one of the major problems surrounding this whole account. That is, that no one knows whether or not the DTF went on an operation, let us say, on the 1 January 1999 and should have received ten thousand dollars and should have put it in this account.

Therefore, when the Auditor General does his audit, he cannot ensure completeness, this is not a business and this is not a standard audit. So if they could provide that undertaking, I think that would go a long way to making Members in this honourable House feel a bit better that we are moving toward the right way in terms of getting accountability and some level of transparency within this account.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I can give the undertaking that is being sought by the honourable Second Elected Member from West Bay. However, I would say that what he is seeking for is very much in place now in terms of the detailed accountability of the activities relating to the items of expenditure that are here; a detailed break down to the Commissioner of Police.

I have got in my hand what has been presented to me by the Commissioner of Police. However, looking at the nature of the details that are here I would recognize and agree with the Second Elected Member from West Bay that there is a need for this information to be handled with sensitivity and I would not recommend that this information be made public.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In his response to my last supplementary, the Honourable Third Official Member said that he had been advised that details relating to this special account operated by the Chief Superintendent in charge of the Drugs Task Force, had been provided to the Auditor General. I wonder if he can say whether the Auditor General has provided a report or reports in relation to this special account. If so did he find that the account had been operated satisfactorily and that sufficient records were kept so that he could determine the satisfactory operation of this account?

Could the Honourable Third Official Member also say to whom this report (if it exists) of the Auditor General has been provided on a yearly basis?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the only response I can give is this. I have been advised by the Commissioner of Police that details in regards to the activities of the Drugs Task Force's account are provided to the Auditor-General on an annual basis. What type of review is done by the Auditor-General of those details I cannot confirm that to the Second Elected Member from George Town.

The Commissioner of Police has advised that there is a review of his accounts by the Auditor-General on an annual basis. That review would reflect disbursements that have been made to the Drugs Task Force and also receipts from the Drugs Task Force into that account. Now if the Auditor-General reviews the account of the Commissioner of Police to satisfy himself in regards to receipts and disbursements, by extrapolation, it would have to take into account receipts from the Drugs Task Force and disbursements to the Drugs Task Force. However, in terms of specific reports on the Drugs Task Force, I am not aware of any special report being done. However, I am aware, based on what the Commissioner of Police has said to me, that the Auditor General provides him with feedback through a report on the annual activities relating to his account.

The Speaker: I will allow three more supplementaries.

The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you.

In all of the answers to the supplementary questions that have been given I think what seems to be obvious is that assets confiscated by DTF do not seem to be recorded in any fashion that is able to be verified.

My question is, if we look at the substantive answer that has been given with regard to amounts paid into the Police Commissioner's account (and it has been already spoken to by the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay), we see where there is a gap from May 1998 to July 1999 and there is a gap from July 1999 to September 2001, which would span nearly three years in total.

Can the Honourable Third official Member state if there is any method employed, or any records that may be kept which would allow for the Auditor General or any body else to check on any assets seized and perhaps if any of them were disposed of and funds received?

What method is employed to be able to check on that? I also believe that when the Second Elected Member for West Bay spoke to that undertaking, he was referring to these gaps because there is seemingly no way to be able to cross check and prove that. Is there any record that is kept of those assets that may be confiscated and disposed of and the transactions that may take place coming in and going out?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I have been informed by the Commissioner of Police that there are records of assets that are confiscated. However, the Commissioner of Police has also pointed out that the head of the Drugs Task Force has already appeared in front of the Public Accounts Committee and he has apologised to the Members of the Committee for the approach that has been adapted.

In that assets have been sold and there has been a netting approach where expenses relating to the sale of those assets have been deducted, without the gross receipt coming into the Commissioner's account and disbursement being made from that account. The netting would be receipts less disbursements that would be what would have been paid over.

The Speaker: The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker, and just to clarify first a little point. I am a member of the Public Accounts Committee, and I have not seen the Chief Superintendent in Public Accounts Committee. So if that can be verified somehow, he did not apologise to me. My question is—

The Speaker: Before you proceed, you may wish to have a response from the Honourable Third Official Member.

The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I cannot say the exact date but I have been made to understand that he has appeared in front of the Public Accounts Committee.

The Speaker: The Member for the district for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, maybe the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee can verify whether or not the Superintendent did arrive there and not to this Public Accounts Committee.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I would much prefer if the Honourable Third Official Member would do a consultation across the board and have the Honourable Third Official Member do the response.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. My question to the Third Official Member is: Can he verify that the Auditor General's responsibility in this country is to audit public funds and to write a report to this honourable House? When has the Auditor General ever reported in his annual report anything on the Commissioners account or the "special account" that the Drugs Task Force operates?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I have a report here by the Auditor General on the Drugs Task Force's activity. I have been made to understand that it has not been tabled in this honourable House, but I cannot say whether the substance of this report has been carried over into the main report or by the Auditor General of the activities of the Drugs Task Force. However, it is quite likely that given the nature of the operation of the Drugs Task Force and the reason disbursements would have been made and monies received, may have been within the best interest of the country in order to keep it in a separate independent report. Such as what has been done.

I think we are all aware of the responsibilities of the Auditor General because they are presently set out in the Public Finance and Audit Law and carried over into the new Public Management and Finance Law, that was passed in September of last year. We know in terms of the boundaries that have been set, I do not have the specifics in front of me but we know that the duties and responsibilities of the Auditor General are wide ranging in order to encompass a review of Government's assets.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, for the edification of the Chair, is it your responsibility to lay the report?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, reports of the Auditor General are tabled by the Financial Secretary after they have been presented to this honourable House. However, as you are aware, Madam Speaker, the Auditor General sends his report to this honourable House.

The Auditor General normally submits his reports to this honourable House through the Clerk and at his discretion a request can be made for the report to be tabled by an Official Member, such as myself, or it can be referred to the Public Accounts Committee.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for the district of West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the answers given, a lot of references were made to the fact that under the last method of accounting used we were not getting the gross inflows because they were netted as the expenditures involved the sale of some of those assets.

There is another area of concern and that is the receipts from US Customs from partnership investigations in which we would have been involved. I wonder if there is any record kept of those receipts. What we have on the answer that was given was a record of receipt of some US $22,000 coming in May 1998 and then we have a record of some $2,000 coming in September 2001. Is there any record kept of receipts of funds that are received from our international partners like the US Customs. If that is the case, can we say whether there were any receipts made during that period of time between May 1998 and September 17, 2001?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker, records are maintained. Over the past five years, according to the Commissioner, the receipts have amounted to approximately $3.7 million dollars. In evidence of this, again I have in my possession a copy of a Memorandum that was sent to the Treasury Department by the Commissioner of Police, asking for verification that these amounts were received in respect of various cases have been lodged with the Government, through the Government's Account. The account that has maintained and reconciliation has been carried out by the Accountant General against these amounts. They have been confirmed as having been received.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I really apologise for having to do this but it is getting more confusing. Here we have a record of accounts being paid into the Police Commissioner's account, and I think we have some US $24,000 in total during the period from January 1998 to November 2001. Now we hear there was some $3.7 million dollars that have been collected.

We were under the assumption, as far as we could tell, that this was an accurate account of the inflows into this account but obviously there is a missing some $3.7 million dollars somewhere. Could we get some explanation of where that money has been accounted for because obviously it is not accounted for on this answer that was given?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, all honourable Members are aware that the Chief Justice's Office serves as a competent authority under the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty. Monies are shared with the Cayman Islands Government and the $3.7 million dollars this is not money that has flowed through the Commissioner's Account only. It is only $22,000 out of that which would have come directly to him as a result of Police intervention.

Some would have come through the other agencies that have been established to receive these funds. So I am talking about receipt of money, monies in the aggregate. For example, out of the money that has been received a significant amount has been set out in this year's Budget in order to allow for the prosecution of a major money laundering case that will be taking place. So there is accountability in terms of those funds and how they are accounted for.

The Speaker: Last Supplementary.

The Second Elected Member for the district of West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, I would like to clarify a point that was made earlier. As Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, I can say that the Superintendent in charge of the Drugs Task Force has not appeared before the Committee since November 2000. My understanding, though, is that this apology was made during Finance Committee, during questions in Finance Committee. Again, I do not recall that but another Member has brought that to my attention as to when that actually occurred.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Member. If there are no further Supplementaries . . . Honourable Third Official Member, is it still your intention to lay the paper to which you referred to on the Table?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker, I am looking for it at this time in order to hand it to the Serjeant.

The Speaker: We will just pause for a few seconds but we will not take a formal suspension.

So ordered.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

QUESTION NO. 147

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

No. 147: Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr. asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for the portfolio of Internal and External Affairs if he could state what arrangements are currently in place for marine search and rescue operations and whether any request for assistance has been denied due to financial constraints.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the answer: The Royal Cayman Islands Police Marine Unit is the primary response to any marine search and rescue requests. The 911 Emergency call-handling centre is the access point. The Marine Unit does not operate 24 hours a day, due to financial constraints. There is however a call-out system in place. Support vessels are available courtesy of the Marine Enforcement Section of the Department of Environment and private boat owners and to a limited extent the US Coast Guard.

Air cover is by way of charter from Cayman Islands private companies or the Cayman Islands flying club where a pilot is available and appropriate. I am not aware that any requests for assistance have been denied because of financial constraints.

However, the RCIP have no search and rescue budget allocation, so the salaries of staff from the Department of Environment and the Marine Unit as well as fuel and incidentals are paid from the department's budgets.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for the district of West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Member could state what arrangements have been made since we have heard so many times in this honourable House the delays in the refurbishment of the main search and rescue boat; which would have been the Cayman Protector.

We know that has been out of commission for quite a while and we have had some instances during this time where some of our local fishermen were lost at sea for extended periods and I just wonder what arrangements has been made. Especially since we still do not have (as given in an answer I think yesterday) a date as to when that boat will be back in operation and as to what arrangements are made for the search and rescue—in the absence of the Protector.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay mentioned the Cayman Protector, but in the absence of the Protector we currently use a 32-foot vessel referred to as Intrepid, it is a Colombian class canoe. It has a range of 100 miles, it is very fast but it is an open vessel. In addition to that we have a 24-foot in-flatable vessel named Typhoon commonly referred to as 'Rib', it has a 60 mile range, again, very fast.

However, it is an open vessel and the third smaller boat was referred to in an answer to a Parliamentary Question a few days ago, that one is currently out of service and is due to be replaced this year. In addition to that the DoE (Department of Environment) has three vessels. A 43-footer, 24-footer and a 19-footer assist, and, of course, the US Coast Guard will assist with air cover where possible.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Living here on the Island I am really reassured that we have all of those assets available to us.

My question is based on all the assets that have been listed that are available for search and rescue, is there any reason or justification why on a recent rescue mission for fishermen that were lost, the family had first to hire private individuals. They had to take care of the air search and after having located the fishermen who had been lost for quite a few days, why did a private individual have to use their private fishing boat to go out to actually rescue the individual and then bring them back to shore?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Simply because there are no funds specifically allocated for chartering aircraft. We rely on the private aircraft that are available here in Cayman and I think the honourable House—I need to explain that in that particular case there was no delineated area, there was a very large area of search in the Caribbean because there was no specific information on where they were lost and the Caribbean sea is a big area if somebody is lost.

Sending a boat out to search or even an aircraft to search without having some information on approximate coordinates is an almost impossible task. That was the situation in that case. In the matter of the rescue when the persons were located they were outside of the range of the boats that we had available. If we had the Protector available she could have gone out to rescue them. However, we did not have a vessel available hence, the need for the family to use other means.

The Speaker: Do you have a follow up, Fourth Elected Member? Please proceed.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I appreciate the answer but I think we are mistaken on the two cases in question. I know that the last case there were multiple individuals that were missing, I understand the explanation that was given.

There was a case where a West Bay fisherman was missing just prior to that, and where he had gone missing from a fishing trip here in Cayman. We were notified and what struck me as strange was that, we had access to the Coast Guard, other air aspects, private individuals and a lot of the family members involved with the search. However, even after he was located and we had to use (I think it was some 64 or 84 miles off Cayman, taking into account the drift patterns that were used from where he was known to have gone fishing) a private boat that went out with members of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force on it.

However, it was actually a private vessel that went out to bring him back to safety. My concern is why did we have to depend on that. I mean it is great to know that we have the private individuals who share that concern and interest. However, why do we have to depend on that with all the assets that are available to us?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am not sure that there was a question out of that but perhaps more of an observation. However, it is good to know that we live in a country where private individuals will come forward and assist. As I said earlier, had the Cayman Protector been in service we could have easily used that vessel to do the rescue operation. However, it is no good crying over spilled milk. What we are doing is to make every effort to get that vessel back into operation as soon as possible so that on a future occasion we are not caught in that position.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay and then we will move on to the Member from East End and the Member for George Town.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The question may have been missed. Yes, it is great that we are living in that kind of island society. However, what would have happened if those individuals from the private sector did not come forward, what do we have in place to take into account those situations?

The Speaker: The First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. What I am informed by the Commissioner of Police is that the boat I referred to earlier as the Colombian canoe, would in fact have been capable of going out to do the rescue. However, the offer was made by a private individual with a very good boat and the police officers simply joined that vessel and went out. If that had not been available, the Colombian canoe would have done the rescue operation.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town, unless he wishes to give way. Please proceed.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I believe we are all equally dismayed at what I term the absence of any suitable search and rescue vessels and equipment. I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member could say whether there are any plans afoot, to establish a proper search and rescue division which would also include, for example, a helicopter. I appreciate that we are in a time of budgetary constraints and austerity but what we are speaking about are matters of life or death situations. Each one of these situations where people are lost at sea, if they are not rescued they will die.

I wonder, given the gravity of the situation, whether there are any plans afoot to seek to establish a proper search and rescue division and that we do not have to continue to be embarrassed by these sorts of situations?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. A paper was prepared a couple of years ago on the very subject and it included the facility of a helicopter. The paper did not gain a great deal of favour with the Government of the day mainly because of the very high cost of operating a helicopter. I would say and I recognise as the Second Elected Member from George Town has said we are in a time of budgetary constraints.

However, if this honourable House in its finance committee is prepared to vote the funds, then more power to this country. I would dearly love to see a first rate, search and rescue operation for this country so we do not have to be as he has said 'embarrassed', but it is not going to come cheap.

What I would add is that I am told by the Commissioner there is a proposal for a helicopter, privately owned by a company, to be stationed here. He is being asked to comment on that and possibly to work out some kind of arrangement for its use for search and rescue. I am afraid I do not have the details of that but that is perhaps a possibility.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Suffice it to say, I am embarrassed myself to hear all the list of boats that are available yet they are practically useless. I hear the First Official Member say that there was a proposal sometime ago, many years ago I believe. Well, I do not know how anyone else feels but the only way the finance committee can entertain it is if we see it. Is there a policy decision to now develop one and present it to finance committee and can the First Official Member give us an undertaking to do so?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I believe that the Member knows the procedure probably as well as I do, of how something gets here and if a policy decision is taken by the Government that we will have such a facility, then it will be costed and submitted to Finance Committee.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Through you, Madam Speaker. Given the situation that obtains at present, can the Honourable First Official Member state if there is a set policy with regards to any search and rescue operations performed by the Government, or any agency of the Government, where individuals or groups of individuals may have such a need and distress calls are made? The policy that I am asking him for (if there is one) is with regards to any remuneration that is sought by the Government for such a search and rescue operation.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. There is no charge made by the Government for search and rescue operations unless it involves the salvage of a vessel in which case charges would be made for that but not for the rescue of lives.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. For purposes of clarity, is the Honourable First Official Member saying that if a search and rescue operation goes on and the lives that are sought to be saved are in a vessel that there is no charge to save the lives but if they want them to save the vessel there is a charge?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Occasionally a call will come in from a distressed vessel, maybe 60 miles offshore asking or pointing out that they know exactly where they are but the engines have shut down, and asking to be towed in. If assistance is sent out by Government to tow in that vessel then a charge is made for the towing service.

Therefore, I suppose you could say that lives are saved at the same time but essentially there are two different things, a towing service as opposed to a search and rescue. For search and rescue there is not really a charge, it is really a towing service and this can happen maybe ten miles offshore. They are towed in and there is a charge for it.

The Speaker: Last supplementary. The First Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the Honourable First Official Member then say whenever a charge is levied (and I think we understand now the difference between the two operations) since there is no set policy, how is the charge determined? Who does that determination and how is it collected?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Perhaps I did not make it very clear about the policy. There is, in fact, a policy in place in terms of a charge for a towing service and in fact the charge is $400 per hour and the money that is collected goes straight to Government's revenue.

The Speaker: Did you wish to follow up Honourable Member?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, Madam Speaker, with your indulgence just one final one if that is ok with you.

One of the last questions I asked was who determines that charge. However, so that the Honourable First Official Member knows where I am coming from; I know for a fact that on at least two occasions, fees have been charged that have not been based on the number of hours that it took and it was just a rounded figure put to the cost. I am trying to find out who determines, who sets what the amount that individuals are charged in such instances.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am told that the towing fee is based on the per hour rate. What I am prepared to do, if that honourable Member has specifics on it would he let me have them, I would have the thing checked out for him but the Commissioner assures me it is based on $400 per hour or a part thereof. However, there may have been some other variable that affected the cost in the two instances that that honourable Member has spoken about. Therefore, if he would permit me to do so, I am prepared to look into those two cases.

QUESTION NO. 148

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

No. 148: Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr. asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs if any Reports have been undertaken by the Auditor General on the Drugs Task Force in the past four years and, if the answer is in the affirmative, then can the Report be made available to the Legislative Assembly.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member (sic).

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would have been very pleased if the Honourable Second Official Member had wished to answer it.

The Speaker: It was a Freudian slip Honourable Member!

[chuckling]

Hon. James M. Ryan: That is all right.

Madam Speaker, the answer is yes. The Auditor General's Department was commissioned to conduct an audit in the Drugs Task Force within the last four years. The audit covered the period May 1995 to October 1997. The Auditor General's report was submitted to the former Governor in December 1997. The report was never tabled and thus remains a confidential document.

Policies were changed in the accordance with the recommendations of the report. However, now that an investigation has been called for and is being carried out, no doubt this House will get a current report on the Drugs Task Force.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am just wondering if we had any reason why the report was never tabled or if there was, I understand that since it was not tabled it remains a confidential document. However, is there any chance of getting it tabled?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. This report was a special report that was called for. It was not the annual report that the Auditor General would carry out and the report was fairly extensive and does include sensitive information which would compromise efforts if it were made public. The Governor of the day took the decision not to have the report tabled but instead, took the recommendations of the report and asked that the recommendations be brought into effect.

We heard from an earlier answer to a Parliamentary Question, on the account of the Commissioners account that the system is in place where funds are now handled through the Commissioners account as opposed to funds being kept—for instance, in a safe under the control of the Chief Superintendent of the Drugs Task Force.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker, and I fully appreciate that this report was requested by the previous Governor and that it was for the period May 1995 to October 1997. After having heard an earlier answer by the Third Official Member regarding the fact that reports could be requested by any of the Official Members, I am wondering whether the First Official Member could give an undertaking to have another report commissioned for the period. I do know that an investigation has been called for, but could we get an undertaken for a request of an Auditor-General's report for the period after October 1997, which could then be tabled to this honourable House?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I hear what the Member has asked but the Auditor-General has been doing an annual report now for some years and as the Honourable Third Official Member has pointed out, I think quite clearly, this is done on an annual basis. It sounds to me like we are 'just treading water' trying to do another report, but the fact is there is a current investigation and I expect that when that is completed, it will be tabled in this House and should bring honourable Members up to date with the information that they ask.

The Speaker: Do you have a follow-up? Please proceed.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr: Yes, Madam Speaker, just to say that what I was asking for is that I heard reference made to the completed Auditor General's Report, after having been a Member of the Public Accounts Committee. I do not remember having seen that Report and I am not sure exactly where that Report goes. However, my concern was to get a report for the period that would have been excluded from the current report that was given in the answer up until the current time.

If there is a report being done—I know there is an investigation being done—but we were made to understand that that investigation was being done by another member of the Police Force. What I was actually requesting was an Audit Report done by the Auditor General. If that is being done I just hope that it will be tabled sometime soon so that we can see it.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, perhaps I could bring to your attention that you may wish to direct that request to the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee who may be in a better position than the First Official Member to make the request of the Auditor General.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker, I will be sure to do that.

The Speaker: If there are no further. . . The Member for—

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, as Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee I undertake to speak to the Auditor General in this regard and ensure that any procedure that he would need to follow, would be followed if necessary and possible, in regards to the report being referred to us.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

[CERTAIN WORDS WERE ORDERED BY THE HONOURABLE SPEAKER TO BE EXPUNGED FROM THE RECORD.]

The Speaker: Honourable Member, would you care to withdraw that until there is a conclusive report? I find that imputing improper motives before there is evidence so adduced to prove this said factual statement which you just purported.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Well let me withdraw that and say whether there were misappropriations or anything that was done. The audit will deal with that.

My question to the First Official Member is based on what he said in his answer that an investigation is being carried out. I wonder if that investigation is the one that we heard of under procedures, or is that the one he is talking about under audit? Whichever it is, will it be laid in this Honourable House?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I was not in the House in September when the issue came up and perhaps I was mistaken in my understanding but I thought a report had been called for to be done by the Auditor General at the time. If I am mistaken in that, I do apologise to the House and I think now that the Chairman of the PAC has undertaken to speak with the Auditor General, it is likely that there will be an audit prepared that should be available. However, yes, what I have spoken to here is in error because the report that is being done independently is a report on procedures. It is a procedural report, not an audit report. Therefore, I think, if in September an audit was not called for to be done by the Auditor General then I was mistaken in that regard.

QUESTION NO. 149

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district from George Town.

No. 149: Mr. Aiden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Second Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Legal Administration, when would a Bill be brought to the Legislative Assembly to amend the Succession Law in accordance with Private Member's Motion No. 7/01, passed by the Legislature on 15 March 2001.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Madam Speaker. May I just say on my first appearance in 2002 that I would like to extend my best wishes to you and all Members of the House. . .

The Speaker: Received and we would wish to welcome you back likewise.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you very much. Madam Speaker. Turning to the business in hand in relation to the amendment to the Succession Law, instructions have been given to the Legislative Drafting Department and they are currently working on the proposed amendment—

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, please.

The Speaker: Do you have a point of order Honourable Member?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, I do not want to stop but we do not have copies of the answer and if we just listen to it word of mouth we are not going to be able to do justice to supplementaries. So I think we need copies for Members.

The Speaker: Madam Clerk, perhaps if we could check with the Honourable Second Official Member to see if there are copies available.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Madam Speaker, I had understood that arrangements were in hand for copies of the answer to be provided. I have an informal copy which is not in the ordinary form but it could be copied because the answer will be exactly the same, if that would assist the operation of the House. However, I do not want to circumvent the procedures.

The Speaker: Perhaps Honourable Second Official Member we could move on to question 151 to enable that to be copied.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Yes, Madam Speaker, I have a motion to make in relation to that question and also the following question which I can deal with, if it pleases the House.

The Speaker: All right, please proceed with your motion for 150.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In relation to Question No. 150 and Question No. 151—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I believe that the procedure called for is for the Question to be asked before the Member can move a Motion to defer it.

The Speaker: Certainly. Please ask Question 150. The Second Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 150

(Deferred—Standing Order 23(5))

No. 150: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Legal Administration, what is the status of the Euro Bank prosecution?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I do not wish to 'jump the gun' on the Motion. However, in accordance with Standing Order 23(5), may I move and with, I understand, the concurrence of the question and depending on the concurrence of the House, that Question 150 be deferred as the answers are not yet complete.

The Speaker: The question is that Question No. 150 be deferred until it is brought back to this Honourable House. Those who are in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: QUESTION NO. 150 DEFERRED.

QUESTION NO. 151

(Deferred—Standing Order 23(5))

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

No. 151: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Legal Administration, what are the terms of the agreement to retain the services of Andrew Mitchell, QC, in connection with the prosecution of the Euro Bank matter, and specifically -

- a) when was he retained;
- b) what is his brief;
- c) on what basis is he being paid, that is, hourly rate, brief fee or otherwise;
- d) how much has he been paid to date;
- e) from what source of funds is he being paid.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Madam Speaker. As with Question 150 I would move in accordance with Standing Order 23(5) that this Question also be deferred for the same reason.

The Speaker: The question is that Question 151 be deferred until brought back to this Honourable House. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: QUESTION NO. 151 DEFERRED.

QUESTION NO. 149

(re-called)

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

No. 149: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Legal Administration when would a Bill be brought to the Legislative Assembly to amend the Succession Law in accordance with Private Member's Motion No. 7/01, passed by the Legislature on 15 March 2001.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Instructions have been given to the Legislative Drafting Department and they are currently working on the proposed amendment. It is intended that the amendment to the Succession Law will be brought to the House to coincide with proposed amendments to the Children's Law and the Youth Justice Law.

It was hoped that the Bill for the proposed amendments to the Succession Law would have already been introduced to the honourable House. However, the Legislative Drafting Department has been inundated with a raft of other legislation that has occasioned the delay with the Succession Bill. However, it is anticipated that this Bill will be introduced at the next meeting of the Legislative Assembly.

The Speaker: Are there any Supplementaries?
The First Elected Member for George Town.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Just for purposes of clarity: In the substantive answer the Honourable Second Official Member has stated that, 'It is intended that the amendments to the Succession Law will be brought to the House to coincide with proposed amendments to the Children's Law and the Youth Justice Law'. Is that leaving us to understand that the proposed amendments to the Children's Law and the Youth Justice Law will also come at the next meeting?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I am not in a position to confirm that that will be the case, but what I am able to confirm is that although the amendment to the Succession Law will take into account proposed amendments to the Children's Law and the Youth Justice Law, its introduction to the House will not be dependent on the other two Bills coming forward. It can proceed, as I understand it, on its own account. Thank you.

The Speaker: If there are no other Supplementaries we move to the next Question.

QUESTION NO. 152

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

No. 152: Mr. Rolston M. Anglin asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs what are the criteria for Civil Servant's Annual Performance Award; how many civil servants qualified for this pay award in 2000 and how many civil servants did not qualify for the 2000 pay award?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the answer. Any civil servant whose salary is below the maximum point of their pay scale is entitled to receive an annual performance award, called an increment, providing they have performed to the level of expectation as jointly set between the individual civil servant and their senior officer and have completed one year's service and, received a satisfactory rating from their senior officer for their performance as measured against agreed objectives.

When an eligible civil servant receives a satisfactory rating in their performance appraisal, a certificate recommending that an increment be paid is submitted to the Personnel Department which then instructs the Treasury Department to process the award of the increment.

In the year 2000 there were two thousand and fifty-six (2,056) civil servants who received an increment. There were about twelve civil servants who were not recommended by their senior officer for the award of an increment.

The remainder of civil servants were either in post for less than 12 months, promoted during the year, at the top of their scale, or, for some reason did not have their performance appraisal completed until the following year.

As was previously announced Government has suspended the payment of increments for 2002 for financial reasons.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In the substantive answer the Honourable First Official Member has said that there would be some persons who did not receive their increment because their performance appraisal had not been completed until the following year. I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member could say whether or not he could provide the House with an undertaking to make such recommendations for any civil servant who does not provide their subordinates with their performance, and thereby inhibit them from receiving their pay increment, that those civil servants would then not be eligible for their increment.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I think the observation by the Second Elected Member for West Bay is a very good one. One that I myself have been concerned about for some time and efforts have been made by the Personnel Department to ensure as far forth as possible that performance appraisals and recommendations are made on a timely matter.

What I am prepared to do, is to discuss the matter with His Excellency the Governor with a view of possibly having something put in the General Orders that would accomplish what the Member is asking.

The Speaker: If there are no further Supplementaries, the next item of business.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

UPDATE ON GEORGE HICKS HIGH SCHOOL

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister of Education, Human Resources, Culture.

Hon. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to make a statement which is a follow-up to a previous statement made by myself, earlier this Sitting and has to do with an update on the George Hicks High School.

Following the collapse of the ceiling in the Social Studies classroom in building phase three of the George Hicks High school on 17 December, APEC Consulting Engineers Limited, visited the site on 18 December to perform a visual inspection of the building. This inspection revealed, and I quote, “Wide-spread and severe corrosion of the composite steel deck” resulting in the recommendation that the use of this block be discontinued as the upper floor structure was beyond the point of repair.

Giving the condition of the buildings, it was decided that all class rooms constructed in the same time period would also be examined. These inspections resulted in the identification of varying degrees of corrosion in the following classroom blocks:

- ◆ Social Studies 1 and 2
- ◆ Spanish
- ◆ Religious Education
- ◆ Math
- ◆ Science
- ◆ English 1 and 2

Of these: Social Studies 1, Spanish and Science blocks are the most severely damaged. The latter two blocks were temporarily shored over this past week end, to safely support the weakened upper floor slab and enable continued use of the upper floors until the floor structures can be demolished and reconstructed. With regards to the other blocks, the Social Studies 2, Religious Education and Math blocks have advanced erosion and moderate erosion was found in the English 1 and 2 blocks.

APEC Consulting Engineer Limited has prepared outline specifications and drawings for the demolition and reconstruction of the floor structure of the Social Studies 1 block. The works contract was sent out to tender and the bid was awarded to McAlpine. It is expected that the project will take four weeks and will commence this week. The balance of the work will be tendered in the next three to four weeks and will be grouped into several contracts.

Following the completion of the Social Studies 1 block, work will start on each block in order of severity as previously outlined. It is expected that the reconstruction will be completed by September 2002 at a cost of approximately $80 to $90 thousand per building; or a total cost between $640,000 to $720,000. Originally the costs were estimated at $50,000. However, with the arrival of the structural engineering report we now have more detailed information on the required construction.

In the meantime, Government has secured the temporary use of 8 classrooms and one office at the Chapel Church of God Family Life Centre, located across the street from the school. To facilitate the movement of three hundred to three hundred and twenty five persons to the center every forty five to fifty minutes, a pedestrian crosswalk has been installed and is manned by a security officer.

Additionally, a boundary fence was put in at the Family Life Centre with an exit at the crossing to prevent students from wandering all over the road. The structures, Madam Speaker, are approximately twenty to twenty five years old and normally one should expect a longer service life from a reinforced concrete floor structure that is not directly exposed to the seafront. Accordingly, while investigating the condition of the buildings the Engineers also worked to determine the cause of the problem. Possible causes include -

- ◆ The quality of the concrete mix;
- ◆ The amount of time the buildings were exposed to high humidity and
- ◆ The amount of concrete cover protecting the reinforced steel.

Concrete dust samples were extracted and analyzed at a laboratory in Florida to determine the percentage of chlorides in the concrete. I quote, “A concentration in excess of 1 percent, suggests that chloride attack will occur at an advanced rate in the presence of moisture and oxygen. The average chloride concentration measured for the four samples tested, is approximately 1 percent. Therefore, it would be expected that the reinforcing steel corrosion would continue at an accelerating rate.” Furthermore, since the buildings were only air conditioned a few years ago a concrete floor structures have been exposed to high humidity levels for the majority of their lives.

To recap, the structural engineering report has made the following conclusions and recommendations:

1. The condition of the upper floor reinforced concrete and steel deck structures is very poor. Typically for the classroom block surveyed.
2. Visible evidence of steel deck corrosion was observed in all of the classroom blocks examined to varying degrees.
3. The Social Studies 1 block, Spanish block and Science block are severely affected by corrosion and the load carrying capacities of these floor structures have been compromised.

It is unlikely that the load carrying capacities of these floor structures meet the live load carrying requirements of the Cayman Islands building code for classroom occupancy. It is recommended that the use of these classroom blocks be discontinued. The upper floor classrooms for the Spanish block and Science block can be reopened for occupancy once temporary shoring has been properly installed under the floor structure. As recommended the shoring was installed this past weekend.

In APEC's opinion the other five class room blocks in question are likely to experience similar corrosion in the near future if no remedial action is undertaken. The next step is to receive the Public Works Department's recommendations which are expected in two to three weeks. When this information is available the Education Capital Works Committee will reconsider all the documentation so future plans can be drafted. As I did on this occasion, I will undertake to keep the House apprised when we have received this report from the Public Works Department. I thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Minister. At this time we will take the luncheon break reconvene at 2.15 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.55 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.25 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

Before proceedings, I should wish to deviate somewhat. Earlier this morning I asked the honourable Member from the district of East End to withdraw remarks which he had made and he gracefully accepted that and did in fact, withdraw it.

On the basis of what the Elected Member for East End said, and, although partially withdrawn, there is in my view a real risk that the persons within the Drug Task Force (DTF) might be viewed as unfavourable in the minds of the members of the public, to the extent that the comments fueled suspicion of criminal misappropriation. To have honourable Members avoid this risk it would be preferable that these comments were not made public in any way in the interest of the avoidance of prejudice to any party who is entitled to the presumption of innocence.

I propose that, with the leave of the House, we strike the concluding statements made by the Elected Member from East End at the conclusion of supplementary questions, being that of No. 148.

May I take it that I have the leave of the House to proceed accordingly?

[One audible Yes]

The Speaker: The question is that the concluding remarks of Question 148 made by the Elected Member from East End be accordingly struck to expunge them from the record and there will be no public expression thereof. All those in favour please say Aye.

AYES.

The Speaker: Those against, No. The Ayes have it. I am grateful.

Madam Clerk, please proceed.

[Pause]

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS 45 AND 46 (1) AND (2)

The Speaker: The Honourable Deputy Leader.

Hon Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I move the suspension of Standing Orders 45 and 46(1) and (2) so that the First Reading of the Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001 can be taken.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Orders 45 and 46(1) and (2) be suspended. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDERS 45 AND 46(1) AND (2) SUSPENDED.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

FIRST READINGS

MARINE CONSERVATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001

(Deferred—Standing Order 14(4))

The Clerk: The Marine Conservation Bill 2001.

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for Second Reading.

The Clerk: Second Reading.
Suspension of Standing Order 46(4).

The Speaker: The Honourable Leader.

Hon W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, let me ask for a few minutes to briefly talk with Members on a few areas in the Bill.

The Speaker: Would you wish to move Standing Order 14(4) to defer it until a later time today or would you just want to pause for a discussion now?

Hon W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, perhaps I had better move the relevant Standing Order in order to take it at a later moment on the Agenda.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 14(4) the Bill for Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001, be deferred until a later time during this Sitting. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE MARINE CONSERVATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001 DEFERRED UNTIL A LATER TIME DURING THIS SITTING.

The Clerk: The Insurance Amendment Bill, 2001. The Second Reading.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, if I may.
I think the suspension of the Standing Order 46(4) to allow the Second Reading . . . the question was not put.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46(4)

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 46(4) be suspended in order for the Second Reading of the remaining Bills to occur here in this Sitting. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Order 46(4) is accordingly suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 46(4) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

SECOND READINGS

THE INSURANCE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled, The Insurance (Amendment) Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The Bill has been duly moved, does the Mover wish to speak thereto?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

For some time now it has become quite evident to the Monetary Authority that the legislation governing the Insurance Industry needed to be enhanced in order to ensure more effective regulation and supervision of the insurance industry. The insurance division of the Monetary Authority does not have the same range of regulatory powers as found under other regulatory Laws, such as the Banks and Trust Companies Law or the Mutual Funds.

For example, while under the Banks and Trust Companies Law there exists a wide range of enforcement powers including the power to appoint an advisor or a controller, the power to require substitution of directors and officers, the power to require a licensee to take necessary actions as well as the power to suspend and revoke a licence. In contrast the Insurance Law had only two main options of enforcement actions and these are suspension or revocation of the licence.

In the KPMG Review of Financial Regulations in the Cayman Islands, released in September of 2000, it was stated, and I quote, "We consider that the regulation of the insurance is generally in line with international standards." The Report, however, also noted the need to expand enforcement powers in this area to mirror those found in other pieces of Legislation. The Amendment under the Bill being presented today seeks to address the deficiencies identified in the Insurance Law. These amendments will also bring the Legislation more in line with current international standards as recognised by the International Association of Insurance Supervisors.

The Memorandum of Objects and Reasons for the Bill states that the principal purpose of the Bill is to repeal and replace section 11 of the Insurance Law.

Clause 2 of the Bill provides an amendment to the definition of the long term business to bring the definition in line with international practice by removing credit life and term life business as long-term business.

Clause 3 of the Bill corrects an incorrect reference appearing in section 4 of the Law.

Clause 4 of the Bill allows the Monetary Authority to appoint any person including an actuary at the expense of the licensee to examine the affairs of any licensee carrying on insurance business.

Clauses 5 through 7 of the Bill require the approval of the Monetary Authority of any independent auditor who audits licensees and carries out other functions for the licensee.

Clause 6 of the Bill prohibits shares totalling more than that 5 percent of the issued share capital of a licensee from being issued or transferred without the approval of the Monetary Authority. This amendment is in line with similar provisions under the other regulatory Laws.

Clause 8 of the Bill inserts in the Insurance Law, a new provision enabling the Monetary Authority to issue, cease and desist orders where in the opinion of the Authority the licensee is committing an act that is unsafe or unsound practice in conducting its business.

Clause 9 of the Bill repeals and replaces section 11 of the Insurance Law for the purpose of extending the enforcement powers of the Governor in relation to licences, bringing it in line with similar powers in other regulatory laws.

Clause 10 of the Bill inserts into the Insurance Law, a section enabling a licensee to surrender its insurance licence for voluntary cancellation.

Madam Speaker, this is a summary of what the amending legislation represents and I commend this Bill to honourable Members.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to speak to this Bill? Does any other Member wish to speak to this Bill? Last call. Does any other Member wish to speak to this Bill? If not, would the Mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Just to thank honourable Members for their support, Madam Speaker.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker?

The Speaker: Yes, Honourable Member.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: I do not believe the Question was put.

The Speaker: You are correct, thank you. The question is that the Bill shortly entitled, The Insurance (Amendment) Bill, 2001 be given a second reading.

All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: A BILL SHORTLY ENTITLED, THE INSURANCE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

THE SECURITIES INVESTMENT BUSINESS BILL, 2001

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled, The Securities Investment Business Bill, 2001.

The Speaker: The Bill has been duly moved. Does the Mover wish to speak thereto?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The Securities Investment Business Bill, 2001 is a response to:

1. an internal recognition that there is a regulatory gap with regards to security business;
2. Commitments given with respect to the KPMG and FATF Reviews;

3. The need to progress from observer status to a membership within IOSC, that is, the International Organization of Securities Commissions.

The Bill seeks to regulate persons who deal in, manage or advise on securities and since the publication of the KPMG Review in October 2000 the intention to introduce such legislation has been publicly confirmed. I think it is also fair to say that the financial services sector recognizes the need for the Legislation.

It should be noted that the conduct of investment business was added to schedule two of the Money Laundering Regulations 2000 in anticipation of this Bill. The Bill has been informed by the input from the KPMG and the Monetary Authority and by extensive consultation with the private sector financial services industry, ably coordinated by the Law Society. Legislative precedents from local regulatory Laws from Bermuda, from the United Kingdom and from Jersey were extensively referenced in the development of the Bill. These precedents are particularly reflected in the four schedules of the Bill; and

4. Deals with false or misleading market and insider dealings which is derived from the United Kingdom's Criminal Justice Act 1993.

Madam Speaker, part one of the Bill, Clauses 1 through 3 and Schedule 1, contains introductory matters and definitions. It should be noted that in Clause 1, subsection (2), provides that the Law will come into force on or such a date appointed by order made by the Governor in Council. This is to allow time for the Monetary Authority to put forward the necessary regulations to Executive Council and to put in place, the necessary staff policies and procedures within the established Legislative framework. It is expected that this will be achieved by the end of the first quarter of this year.

Part 2 of the Bill, Clause 4 and Schedules 2 and 3 define the scope of securities investment business for the purposes of the Law. Any Cayman Islands entity or entity that has an established place of business in the Cayman Islands that is engaging in any of the activities specified in Schedule 2 is covered. This is subject to Schedule 3 which identifies activities that are not considered securities investment business for the purposes of the Law and the schedule which defines persons who are permitted to carry out security investment business without a licence.

There is an amendment to section 4(3) and that has been circulated to honourable Members.

Certain persons are subject to a simple registration requirement under Part three, the exclusive purpose of which is to assist the Monetary Authority in carrying out its compliance monitoring functions with respect to the money laundering regulations.

Part Three Clauses 5 through 22 deals with licensing and regulation of persons under the law and spells out the powers and duties of the Monetary Authority.

Licensing and enforcement authority lies directly with the Monetary Authority with an appeal to the Grand Court on certain matters and to the Governor-in-Council on others. The latter appeals route is an intra-measure until a dedicated appeal tribunal is established as part of the independence framework of the Monetary Authority. Part three also deals with duties and protection for auditors and specifies that the Securities Investment Business Law is a regulatory Law for the purposes of the Monetary Authorities Law (2001 Revision).

Part 4 covering Clauses 24 through 35, establishes the offences of creating false or misleading markets in securities and insider dealing and attendant defenses. Proceedings with respect to these offences may only be instituted by the Attorney-General.

Part 5 Clause 36 deals with the duties of the Stock Exchange and the Monetary Authority in relation to broker members of the Exchange. I should like to confirm that with the passage of this Law, the Stock Exchange will retain regulatory responsibility for its broker members in respect of training over the Exchange only. The Law gives the Monetary Authority a desecration to require its licensees to become members of a recognized securities exchange which includes the Cayman Islands Stock Exchange or a recognized securities organization.

Part 6 covering Clauses 37 through 41 contain general provisions concerning offences by co-operations, indemnities, general offences and transitional provisions. The latter allows a period of six months from the commencement date of the Law for a person required to be licensed to apply for one. Following the existing policy of functional licensing, current licensees under other Laws who conduct securities investment business, will be required to be licensed for that activity under this Law. The Monetary Authority will be working to ensure that the associated procedures are published to those affected and implemented smoothly.

Minor consequential amendments to section 2 of the Mutual Funds Law and section 3 of the Companies Management Law, will be brought during the course of this year to make it clear that the management of assets that are securities fall under the Securities Investment Law.

Madam Speaker, as I said earlier, a simple committee stage amendment to the Bill, to remove section 4(3) is required and this has been circulated to honourable Members. The Government accepts the industry's comment that in its current form it is too broad and creates uncertainty. Prior to the Law coming into force and after consultation, the Government will seek to add appropriate provisions to deal with the practice of cold calling and related activity. These are persons just coming off a plane in the Cayman Islands, holding a seminar and inviting people to trade or deal in securities activities, and as I said, this will be dealt with.

Madam Speaker, this Law will be of commercial and regulatory benefit to the Cayman Islands as it will create a proper environment either to lacking or to retain and attract, quality securities investment business. It is a very important part of our financial services infrastructure development and I therefore commend the Securities Investment Bill to this honourable House for passage.

I should mention that the removal of section 4(3) from the Bill itself will not affect the rest of the Bill. Madam Speaker, once again I commend this Bill to honourable Members.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to speak? If not would the Honourable Third Official Member exercise his right of reply?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Once again, Madam Speaker, to say thanks to honourable Members for their support.

The Speaker: The question is, that a Bill shortly entitled, The Securities Investment Business Bill, 2001, be given a second reading.

All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE SECURITIES INVESTMENT BUSINESS BILL, 2001 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Could I get an indication from the Government Bench as to whether they are in a position to proceed now, or is it the will of the House to take a short adjournment for further discussions?

The Honourable Minister responsible for District Administration.

Hon. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, the Government would appreciate if we could take a short suspension at this time.

The Speaker: I shall suspend for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.48 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.34 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. The House will now go into Committee to consider the Bills.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I think out of an abundance of caution, I had better suspend Standing Orders in order to continue after 4.30 pm.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Leader.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I so move.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 10(2) be duly suspended so that we can proceed beyond the hour of 4.30 pm. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW THE CONTINUATION OF THE HOUSE BEYOND THE HOUR OF 4.30 PM.

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE AT 4.35 PM

COMMITTEE ON BILLS

The Chairman: Please be seated. The House is now in Committee.

With the leave of the House may I assume that as usual we should authorise the Honourable Second Official Member to correct minor printing errors and such like in these Bills?

Would the Clerk please state the Bill and read its Clauses?

The Chairman: If there is no debate, I shall put the question that Clauses 25 through 37 do stand part of the Bill. All those in favour please say, Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

CLAUSES 25 THROUGH 37 PASSED.

The Chairman: Honourable Third Official Member, if I could direct your attention to page 26 and the side margins where it refers to amendment of section 458 next to Section 38, that actually goes on to read section 459. It seems like there is a reversal of the marginal lines and I think that it is something that can be corrected by the Honourable Second Official Member, but I would wish to draw it to your attention.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The Clerk drew that to my attention yesterday and I take it that is the type of consequential amendment that would be picked upon by the Honourable Second Official Member.

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official member. Do you wish to speak?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Madam Chairwoman. I am not clear whether I am looking at the correct version of the Bill but on the version of the Bill that I have, I do not see a Clause 37.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Chairwoman, there are two Clauses numbered 35.

The Chairman: Yes, thank you.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Madam Chairwoman, may I suggest that we could just deal with it by renumbering the Clauses from 38 onwards as 36?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: No, 36 is there.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I beg your pardon, 36 is there followed by 35. The numbering has just gone haywire. So 35 should be 37 and that will correct the matter.

CLAUSES 38 – 41

The Clerk:

|           |                                                              |

| Clause 39 | Amendment of section 449. Registrar of shipping and shipping master. |
| Clause 40 | Amendment of section 459. Regulations et cetera.                     |
| Clause 41 | General amendment of Principal Law.                                  |

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 38 through 41 do stand part of the Bill.

The Honourable Second Official Member?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Excuse me for intervening again, Madam Chairwoman, but I was slightly baffled by the side note reference to what I think is Clause 39. If I have it correctly, it is that payments should be made into Treasury. Amendment of Section 449; am I understanding it correctly that it is supposed to relate to Clause 39, because it is 38?

The Chairman: It is 38.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: That is fine.

The Chairman: I think that is what she read, did she not?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: No. Probably I may have misunderstood it. Thank you.

The Chairman: Sorry, Honourable Second Official Member. Before your interruption did I get an opportunity to take the question, Deputy Leader? I was interrupted correctly so by the Honourable Second Official Member for an inquiry. However, I cannot remember if I had had the opportunity to put the question.

The question is, that Clauses 38 through 41 do stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate, I put the question that Clauses 38 through 41 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

CLAUSES 38 THROUGH 41 PASSED.

The Clerk: A Bill to amend the Merchant Shipping Law 2001 (Revision) to update the provisions relating to the safety of life at sea, particularly regarding the survey and certification requirements to clarify various other aspects of the existing Law and for incidental and connected purposes.

The Chairman: The question is that the Title do stand part of the Bill. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 through 24 do stand part of the Bill. Is there any debate?

The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Chairman. In Clause 2, the definition of Cayman Islands ship and director, we refer to section 2(1) of the Merchant Shipping Law. In the definition of natural waters, we refer to section 2(2) (b) of the Merchant Shipping Law. However, I have looked through the Merchant Shipping Law and I do not see a 2(1) or a 2(2) (b) in the Definition section.

The Chairman: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I will have to seek the assistance of the Second Official Member on this Madam.

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Madam Chairwoman, I would need to have a look at the 2001 Revision of the Merchant Shipping Law.

The Chairman: Honourable Member for North Side, would you happen to have in your possession a copy that you could perhaps share with the Honourable Member?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Madam Chairwoman, I can confirm that there is no section 2(1) in the Merchant Shipping Law (2001 Revision) . . . well, there is a definition of Cayman Islands ship in section 2. If you take out the reference to subsection (1), what I suspect is the case, maybe in the original Merchant Shipping Law there was a reference that has not been picked up on. Could I be reminded of the other query?

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: The definition of 'national waters' refers to section 2(2)(b) of the Merchant Shipping Law (2001 Revision).

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: The same comment applies, there is no section 2(2)(b). I can confirm it should just be section 2 and I think that will cure it.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairwoman, the same thing applies to the definition of 'Minister', which says section 2(1).

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Agreed.

The Chairman: Honourable Second Official Member is that the same case in this scenario as well?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: It appears that that is the same and the definition of 'Minister' in the revision is in section 2 of the revision. That is how the reference should read in this Bill. Thank you.

The Chairman: Yes, honourable Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: The definition of Governor other than in section 167(1) means Governor-in-Council. Does the definition of the word 'Governor' in section 167 mean, as in Interpretation Law, the person that is here from White Hall?

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Madam Chairwoman. The expression in section 167(1) runs as follows. The Minister shall establish a national system for responding promptly and effectively to oil pollution incidents and the Governor acting in his desecration shall appoint a national coordinator. In my view, it would not be necessary even to say that Governor means Governor-in-Council with that exception. That is, acting in his discretion gives the game away because it means that he does not have to act on the advice of council. If there is no such expression or the context does not otherwise require it, then it can be assumed, provided that it is not one of the reserve responsibilities under the Constitution, that it is the Governor-in-Council.

Governor-in-Council is just shorthand; it is not really a term that is known to the Constitution. However, it is a convenient shorthand as everybody knows, I think, for Governor acting on the advice of Executive Council. I hope that helps.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairwoman, I thank the Second Official Member for his explanation but as the Interpretation Law gives us two definitions, 'Governor-in-Council' and 'Governor', that is why I asked the question. However, that is fine I appreciate your answer.

The Speaker: The Honourable Deputy Leader.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Chairwoman, I believe that if we look under section 2, where it gives the definition of Governor, it states specifically that other than in section 167(1) it means Governor-in-Council. So I think that may throw some light on that problem.

The Chairman: Thank you.

The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I appreciate the point made by the Member for North Side. I think as it stands it seems all right to me other than that reference to section 167. Any reference to Governor is taken to be a reference to Governor-in-Council.

Just for the record, it was the 1997 version that had a section 2(1) and a section 2(2) with 2(2)(b), so those references were simply not corrected on the revision. I will draw this to the attention of the appropriate party.

The Chairman: Thank you.

The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairman, my last question. The definition of Minister has the meaning given in section 2 of the Merchant Shipping Law (2001 Revision). If we would look at the last page of the Merchant Shipping Law, note 3, where it refers to Minister in the Law, it must be read with this note 3. It says, "In relation to this Provision, reference should be made to section 16(a) of the Constitution of the Cayman Islands set out in Schedule 2 to the Cayman Islands Constitution Orders 1972 to 1993."

I find that I am unable to accept that the Honourable Financial Secretary, who is responsible for the Merchant Shipping Bill and shipping as a whole, can be referred to as a Minister. The Constitution in the amendment in 1993 made it very clear that “Executive Council in and for the Islands which subject to Section 10 of the Constitution shall consist of the Chief Secretary, the Attorney General and the Financial Secretary ex-officio who are herein after referred to as the Official Members of the Council and five Elected Members who shall be elected by the Elected Members of the Assembly from among the Elected Members of the Assembly, who shall be entitled Ministers.”

The Chairman: Honourable Second Official Member do you wish to respond to that?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I agree Madam Chairwoman, that the reference to Minister in relation to the Financial Secretary, even though it may be legally correct by virtue of the definition here, does not sit very easily with the provisions of the Constitution. The definition says Minister in Clause 2 of the Bill. Minister means the Member of the Executive Council for the time being responsible for Merchant Shipping and Seamen. Well, as we know, the responsible Member of Executive Council is the Financial Secretary who is not a Minister.

I think what has happened is that this is a bit of hybrid drafting with an external shipping consultant, a shipping advisor and then a review made by our own draftsman. It does allow for the possibility that responsibility for Merchant Shipping could be in the province of a Minister, but it is a little confusing as it is presently worded.

The alternative would be to adopt an expression, such as, ‘Member of Executive Council’, which could be either an Official Member or a Minister. It is a little bit cumbersome but it is more accurate and it would allow for the possibility that if responsibility for Merchant Shipping and Seamen were to be transferred to a Minister, it would not be necessary to change the Law.

I think what has happened in the United Kingdom, from which much of this Merchant Shipping Legislation is drawn, is that it is a Minister who is responsible. Therefore, the reference to section 16(a) is, as I recall, because at some point in the development of this Legislation there was a suggestion that the Minister have exclusive or some responsibility for prosecution, which did not sit with section 16(a) of the Constitution. So that is why I think that reference is there but it still leaves this question of ‘Minister’ which does not in fact do justice to my learned colleague, the Financial Secretary as an Official Member. It might be that if appropriate, it is a little difficult to do at Committee Stage. However, we could adopt a Committee Stage Amendment that said for any reference to Minister it should be amended to read Member of the Executive Council, which would be a bit more accurate. The reasons have already been given if that solution recommended itself to the House.

The Chairman: Thank you Honourable Member. Am I then to understand that you wish to move a Committee Stage Amendment, or is it a position where it was a typographical error and we could leave it for you to amend?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I am not too comfortable with it being viewed just as a typographical error because it really is a difference of substance. However, I would think it appropriate, if the House agreed, that as Second Official Member I would be permitted to move a Committee Stage Amendment, provided that could be done verbally without holding up the work of the House. I think we all understand what is required.

The Chairman: Perhaps, then, I should just put the question on Clause 1 first, since we have come upon this in respect to Clause 2. The question is that Clause 1 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

CLAUSE 1 PASSED.

CLAUSE 2

The Clerk: Clause 2. General interpretation and definitions.

The Chairman: Would you wish to move your amendment at this stage Honourable Member?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Madam Chairwoman, I wish to move an amendment to Clause 2 of the ... sorry, Madam Chairwoman. I just need a moment to check on a section that has been drawn to my attention.

[Pause]

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I had understood, and I remain to be proved wrong, that that reference to Minister (to which my attention has just been drawn) in the 2001 Revision, had in fact been corrected in this Bill. However, if that is not right, then it should be corrected because that is exactly the provision to which I made reference that no proceedings for any offence. This is page 82 of the 2001 revision. Section 122(7)(b) states “No proceedings for any offence under this section shall be instituted against any such person, without the consent of the Minister.” We did point out to our esteemed colleagues in the Merchant Shipping Fraternity that this did not sit with the Cayman Islands Constitution. Ultimately, I believe that point was accepted and therefore the Bill that is before the House ought to correct that clause. In my opinion, if it does not, we should seek to do it of our own volition.

In fact I may have misled myself and the House unintentionally but the Merchant Shipping Amendment Surveys and Certification and Miscellaneous Provisions Bill, 2001, which I believe we have already dealt with, did amend section 122 of the principal Law. It will repeal subsection (7) and substitute the following subsection which does not contain the second part. In other words, it does not contain the reference to needing the consent of the Minister. I will just confirm that.

In the application of this section to a person falling within subsection (1)(b), subsection (2) and (4) shall have effect as if subsection (2)(a)(1) and (b)(1) were omitted and it stops there. So that offending provision has been taken out and my esteemed Merchant Shipping Colleagues have obviously acted on the advice that was given. So there is not an issue in relation to that part. I do not know whether or not any amendment was made to the definition of Minister by the other Bill, but if it was not (excuse me) we should do that now. If I am on my feet in that regard metaphorically, Madam Chairwoman, perhaps I might move that the Bill before us—

The Chairman: Before you so move, I should indicate that leave is granted.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I beg your pardon, thank you very much.

The Chairman: Please proceed.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you. In that case, Madam Chairwoman, I would move that a Committee Stage Amendment be made to this Bill to substitute for the word 'Minister' wherever it appears, with the expression, 'Member of Executive Council'.

The Chairman: The amendment has been duly moved, do you wish to speak any further to it or have you already exhausted your comments there on?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I have probably exhausted my competence. No, Madam Chairwoman, I think we know the reason why we are doing this. Thank you.

The Chairman: There is no further debate. I put the question that the amendment do stand part of the Clause. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

CLAUSE 2 AMENDED.

The Speaker: I will now put the question that Clause 2 as amended do stand part of the Bill. All those in . . . did you wish to speak, Sir?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: If I may, just to say that we are not only amending Clause 2 but any reference in the Bill to the word 'Minister'. Any subsequent reference to 'Minister' will automatically be amended to read 'Member of Executive Council', if that is acceptable.

The Chairman: I will put the question that the amendment as stated do stand part of the Clause, which includes all consequential amendments. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

THE AMENDMENT STANDS PART OF THE CLAUSE.

The Chairman: I will put the question that the Clause as amended stand part of the Bill. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

CLAUSE 2 AS AMENDED PASSED.

The Chairman: Clauses 3 to 24 have already been read, so I shall put the question that Clauses 3 through 24 do stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate, I put the question that clauses 3 through 24 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

| Clause 39 | Application of Chapter 2.                     |
| Clause 40 | Equivalence.                                  |

The Chairman: If there is no debate, I shall put the question that Clauses 38 through 40 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

CLAUSES 38 THROUGH 40 PASSED.

The Chairman: Honourable Second Official Member, perhaps if you could assist by looking at Clause 41 and the notation thereof, the arrangement. It seems to me that 42 says annual and additional surveys, whereas in the index, 41 says surveys and 42 says annual and additional surveys and perhaps clarify that for us.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Madam Chairman, 41 appears to refer to an initial survey and a renewal survey an intermediate survey whereas 42 refers to annual surveys and additional surveys and if we want to differentiate between them, we should probably re-annotate 41 as initial, renewal and intermediate surveys.

The Chairman: Could you please repeat that for the Clerk to record.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I am suggesting that the present annotation on Clause 41 which reads, 'annual and additional surveys' be replaced by 'initial, renewal and intermediate surveys'. That would leave Clause 42 with annual and additional surveys, which I think appears to be accurate.

The Chairman: Thank you. Is it your intention to take that as a consequential amendment?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I think as long as we have a record of this discussion for subsequent reference that would be perfectly fine. Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you.

The Clerk:

| Clause 58 | Voyage partly through a special area.                                           |

The Chairman: If there is no debate, I shall put the question that Clauses 41 through 58 do stand part of the Bill. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

CLAUSES 41 THROUGH 58 PASSED.

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Madam Chairwoman, I do not wish to take us back, but I have to go back to the amendment that we made to Clause 2 of this Bill. It is not going to be enough just to change the reference to 'Minister', to 'Member of Executive Council' in this Bill. The Committee Stage Amendment will also have to say in addition to what we have already said and the reference to Minister in the Merchant Shipping Law (2001 Revision) shall be amended to read, 'Member of Executive Council'.

The Chairman: Would you care then to move a motion to recommit Clause 2?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Yes I would move that we recommit Clause 2.

The Chairman: The question is that Clause 2 be re-committed. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Madam Chairwoman, before we take the vote, it might be simpler for the House if I wrote this out in the form of the Committee Stage Amendment. Then we can let the rest of the Bill proceed and then come back and recommit Clause 2, when we are ready to do that. Then everybody can see what we are doing and we would not have any confusion. Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you,

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

SCHEDULES 1 THROUGH 20 PASSED.

The Chairman: We are awaiting the amendment for Clause 2, before we actually put the Title. Perhaps if the Government Whip could check with the Second Official Member to see at what stage he has proceeded. Perhaps it may be prudent to take a 5-minute break at this time.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 5.36 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 5.49 PM

The Chairman: Please be seated. Proceedings on Committee are resumed. It is my understanding that the amendment has been circulated and agreed. Perhaps the Second Official Member would wish to read it into the record?

AMENDMENT TO:*THE MERCHANT SHIPPING MARINE POLLUTION BILL, 2001 (CLAUSE 2)

And

THE MERCHANT SHIPPING LAW (2001 REVISION)

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Thank you, Madam Chairwoman.

Notice of Committee Stage Amendment Merchant Shipping Marine Pollution Bill, 2001. I would beg to move suspension of the relevant Standing Order to allow the Committee Stage Amendment.

I, the Second Official Member give notice that I intend to move the following Committee Stage Amendment to the Merchant Shipping Marine Pollution Bill 2001, that Clause 2 of the Bill be amended by deleting the definition of 'Minister' and substituting therefore the following definition, "Member of Executive Council", means the Member of Executive Council for the time being responsible for Merchant Shipping and Seamen and all references to 'Minister' in this Bill and in the Merchant Shipping Law (2001 Revision) are amended to read, 'Member of Executive Council'. May I so move? Thank you.

The Chairman: Thank you. Just on a point of clarification, are you also seeking to amend the Merchant Shipping Law, 2001?

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: Yes, Madam Chairwoman. The reason being that if we do not do that, we will continue to have a reference to 'Minister' in the Merchant Shipping Law. Whereas, we will have a reference to 'Member of Executive Council' in the Merchant Shipping Marine Pollution Law. There is no reason why one Bill cannot amend two Laws, if the House finds that acceptable.

The reason is, that the original definition in this Bill said that 'Minister' has the meaning given in section 2(1) of the Merchant Shipping Law (2001 Revision) what I have done is to take the definition from the 2001 revision and put it in to the definition in this Law and if we change the reference to 'Minister' in the Merchant Shipping Law as well, then instead of saying 'Minister' in the Merchant Shipping Law it will say 'Member of Executive Council'. It will then read 'Member of Executive Council' means the Member of Executive Council for the time being responsible for Merchant Shipping and Seamen. It will at least bring the two Laws into consistency with each other. It is a little untidy for us, but it will be neater, I think, at the end of the day.

The Chairman: The amendment has been duly moved. Does any Member wish to speak to it? Do you wish to speak any further in reply, Honourable Second Official Member?

Sorry the Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am not sure what bearing this will have on the attitude adopted by the Honourable Second Official Member in relation to this amendment but, just to note, that 'Minister' is defined in the Constitution.

The Chairman: Is that the extent of your thing or is there a conjunction after that?

[Inaudible comment from Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin]

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I agree with that and that probably reinforces the need to move away from the definition of 'Minister' because I think Member of Executive Council can be either Minister or Official Member. If we leave it at 'Minister' I think we are stuck with an anachronism which would be better removed.

The Chairman: I will put the question that the amendment do stand part of the Clause.

The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Chairwoman, under the Merchant Law 'Minister' means the Member of Executive Council for the time being responsible for Merchant Shipping and seamen. So, I am just wondering if there is a need to refer to the Merchant Shipping Law.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I agree on the face of it, there is no need to do so, because it is exactly that. However, it uses the word 'Minister' and the effect of this amendment would be to change that word to read 'Member of Executive Council' right throughout the Merchant Shipping Law. So, we are going to have to do a revision of the Merchant Shipping Law but I think that is preferable because it provides a basis for the accurate reference to the Honourable Financial Secretary.

The Chairman: I follow you, Honourable Second Honourable Minister. I was just thinking that when you said about reprint—but that is not a matter for my concern.

Hon. David F. Ballantyne: I can reassure you that if I can find the Merchant Shipping Law, we have just amended it anyway so it is going to have to be reprinted or a revision of it prepared in any event to reflect the amendments that we have made in the Merchant Shipping Amendment Surveys and Certification and Miscellaneous Provisions Bill 2001. So, I do not think it will be an unnecessary reprint. Thank you.

The Chairman: I put the question then that the Amendment stand part of the Clause [2 of the Merchant Shipping Marine Pollution Bill, 2001.]

All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

CLAUSE 2 AMENDED.

The Chairman: I will now put the question that the Clause as amended do stand part of the Bill. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

Fourteenth Sitting

The Speaker: I will invite the Honourable Minister responsible for Education to grace with prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. Roy Bodden: Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady, Queen Elizabeth II; the Queen Mother; Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Charles, Prince of Wales; and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together: Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace, now and always. Amen.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

REPORT OF THE STANDING PUBLIC ACCOUNTS
COMMITTEE ON THE REPORT OF THE AUDITOR
GENERAL ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF
THE GOVERNMENT OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS
FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 DECEMBER 1999 TO-GETHER WITH THE REPORT OF THE AUDITOR
GENERAL ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF
FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 DECEMBER 1999

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Madam Speaker, I wish to lay the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Standing Public Accounts Committee (PAC) on the Report of the Auditor General on the Financial Statements of the Government of the Cayman Islands for the year ended 31 December 1999, together with the report of The Auditor General on the Financial Statements of the Government of the Cayman Islands for the year ended 31 December 1999.

The Speaker: So ordered. Will the Member wish to speak thereto?

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would first like to give an acknowledgement of thanks to all the Members of the Public Accounts Committee who took part in deliberating and formulating the Report that we now have before us. I would like to also thank the former Clerk, Ms. Georgette Myrie, who was Secretary to the Committee. I would like to thank the current Clerk and the staff of the Legislative Assembly for putting together the final Report that we have before us. I would also like to thank the Auditor General and his staff, the Deputy Financial Secretary and the Accountant General who were present at all the calling of witnesses. I also thank the witnesses who appeared before the Committee and so ably gave responses that allowed us to formulate a report.

Madam Speaker, it is my understanding that in the past there was a practice of reading the entire report. However, this Report is a lengthy one and I believe that it would be more appropriate to give some brief highlights of the Report and, especially now that it has been tabled, it is obviously a public document. I would commend this to be read by the wider public.

I would like to first say that one of the goals of the Committee working in tandem with the Auditor General and his office and the other relevant agencies within the Cayman Islands Government, is that we would be able to bring to this honourable House (and therefore to the public of the Cayman Islands) more timely reports. We are now in the year 2002 and here we are laying on the Table a report of the audited accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for the year ended 31 December 1999.

Madam Speaker, as you and others are aware, first of all a different Government would have provided the Minutes in response to these two reports. Most of us who are on the Committee were not even in this Legislative Assembly in the year in question. So, that is something we hope will be improved over the next few years so that we can bring more timely reports back to the House. Obviously, the Public Accounts Committee does indeed represent and work on behalf of this entire Legislative Assembly.

In conformity with the National Strategic plan for the Cayman Islands—Vision 2008, the Public Accounts Committee is committed to Strategy (a), Open and Accountable Government; in particular, Action Plan 2, to ensure that public finances are managed prudently and that the disclosure and reporting standards provide timely, relevant, reliable and understandable information to legislators and the community. It is, as I said earlier, with great sadness that our first task is to report on the financial statements from 1999.

The Auditor General in his report outlined a number of areas on which he has had to qualify his opinion. Those areas include: an excess and unauthorised expenditure amounting to some $6,310,209 on the department heads for Health Services; the Department of Vehicles and Equipment Services; the Ministry of Education, Aviation and Planning. On that report there was a disagreement with the accounting treatment for overseas medical advances which currently amounted to $15,940,367; that is at 31 December 1999. Pre-payments totalling some $1,926,311 were made from the Capital Development fund contrary to the Public Finance and Audit Law and the regulations thereto. Another area reported was the lack of legal authority to make pension payments amounting to some $3,710,263 between the months of April and December 1999.

Madam Speaker, in regard to the excess and unauthorised expenditure of some $6,310,209, the largest amount related to the Ministry of Education, Aviation and Planning, which was $5,860,333. The biggest concern in this area is the debts owed by Cayman Airways Limited to the Civil Aviation Authority (CAA) and the Customs Department. No supplementary appropriation was sought in respect of settling Cayman Airways Limited debts to the Civil Aviation Authority and the Customs Department. In December 1999 the Finance Committee authorised the settlement of the amounts due to the CAA as follows:

The CAA was relieved of certain debt obligations it owed to Cayman Airways Limited's (CAL) sole shareholder (Cayman Islands Government). The Cayman Airways Limited sole shareholder (Cayman Islands Government) was to receive an equivalent nominal value of shares in Cayman Airways Limited. That is, the nominal value would be equivalent to the amount owed by CAL to the CAA. It is noteworthy knowing that to the date of preparing this Report those shares were still not issued.

For many years the opinion of the Auditor General on the Government's accounts has been qualified in regard to the accounting treatment for overseas medical advances. To be exact, the opinion has been qualified for the last five years due to this issue. The current accounting treatment understates the recurrent expenditures and materially overstates both the total assets reported in the statement of assets and liabilities and the accumulated surplus reported in the statement of surplus and deficit. In regard to the amounts that have been paid on behalf of persons in need of medical care, many of these accounts have not had any repayment back to the Cayman Islands Government.

Madam Speaker, the crux of the matter relates to the fact that for these amounts to be treated as an advance there should be a reasonable prospect of recoupment of those funds in a relatively short period of time by the Cayman Islands Government. However, most of these accounts are indeed long term debts owed to the Cayman Islands Government and many of them are such that if the Cayman Islands Government were to request payment today, it would be highly unlikely that that repayment would be in full. More than likely most of these would have to be put on some sort of terms of repayment. Therefore, just on that note alone it could not be accurately reflected to say that they are an advance.

The issue of pre-payments, totalling some $1,926,311 made from the Capital Development Fund, is (in the opinion of the Auditor General and indeed endorsed by the PAC) contrary to The Public Finance and Audit Law (1997 Revision) and The Financial and Stores Regulations.

Any payment by the Cayman Islands Government, unless duly authorised by the Financial Secretary's office, should not be made in advance of receipt of the goods or the services. So, due to such pre-payments taking place in the year 1999, without the prior approval of the Financial Secretary's office, the Auditor General has qualified the financial statements on that issue.

The last point upon which there is a qualification is in regards to illegal pension payments. That is, pension payments that were made without the necessary legal basis. This whole issue came about due to the fact that there was a change in the Pensions Law and the new Law which is termed in our Report "The Public Service Pensions Law" did not have provision to make those payments at the time and in the manner that they were made. In section 16 of the new Law it states that all pension benefits shall be paid from the Public Service Pension Fund.

The repeal of the Pensions Law (1999 Revision) ended the legal authority to make pension payments to retired civil servant, their widows and orphans from the General Revenue of the Cayman Islands Governments. For the period April to December 1999 the Government continued to make pension payments in the amount of some $3,710,263 from the General Revenue. Payments from September through December 1999 were made by payment to the Public Service Pensions fund from the General Revenue Fund and then a further payment onto the recipients. Adequate authority did not support these payments. The PAC was informed that the decision was made to continue to make payments until the fund could be certified as self-sustaining and that these payments would be made with a view that the technical or legal issues would be corrected at a later date.

Those are the issues surrounding the qualification of the Auditor General's opinion. Just for clarity's sake, I would like it to be in the records and clearly explained that whenever an auditor seeks to audit financial statements, an unqualified opinion is what we call a clean opinion, that is, it is deemed that the financial statements do represent a true and fair view of the financial position of the entity in question at that particular date. It does qualify an opinion, once you look at the items upon which the qualification is made, which basically says that the items in the financial statements (other than the statements) are being qualified because they would then present that true and fair view. In other words, the Auditor General is basically saying that other than those five items listed he would have issued an unqualified opinion.

I am now turning to the main highlights of our general comments and recommendations.

AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT

The current process causes delays as to when any report from the Auditor General becomes a public document and therefore it can lose its impact, as is the case currently before us. As I said earlier, these are the 1999 financial statements and we are currently in the year 2002.

Due consideration should be given to changing the Standing Orders and other relevant legislation to allow the Auditor General's reports to be made public upon submission to the presiding officer of the Legislative Assembly so that the PAC can deliberate and call witnesses. The result would be that the general populace would have access to more timely information. It is also noteworthy that in the new Public, Finance and Management Bill there is a call for such a process to occur.

So there is a need, Madam Speaker, for us here in the Legislative Assembly to modernise our Standing Orders—indeed, there has been a Motion that called for that which was accepted and passed. I understand a committee will be called shortly to look at the Standing Orders with a view to modernising them so as to allow the business to be carried out here in a more efficient and modern manner. This is a matter that will be raised once that that process starts, that is, to modernise the Standing Orders.

INTERNAL CONTROLS OVER CASH RECEIPTS

The Financial Secretary has overall responsibility to ensure that funds of Government are collected. Internal control surrounding cash receipts and deposits need to be more clearly communicated to every department by the Financial Secretary. Controlling officers need to follow the instructions of the Financial Secretary and be held accountable for the collection of cash.

Madam Speaker, with your permission I would just like to add that I understand this matter was followed up by the Honourable Third Official Member in the years 2000 and 2001 and that there are now in place much more acceptable practices in regard to this matter. However, this is a matter that does require continual follow up and it is my understanding that that has been happening over the last two years.

GRANTS TO ENTITIES AND INSTITUTIONS

Funding provided to organisations such as the Cayman Islands Stock Exchange, the Tourism Attraction Board and the Community College of the Cayman Islands need to be reviewed annually to ensure that the level of funding is appropriate. These annual reviews should ensure that any excess funding is not allowed to build up in such organisations. In that regard there has been a correction of certain issues in regards to one particular entity, which is the Cayman Islands Stock Exchange. Just to expand on this a bit.

The Committee recognises that when the Cayman Islands Government does seek to start up such organisations, that there will be seed capital provided by the Government and more than likely there would be a need to have some form of annual subsidy provided to those organisations. However, the Committee is cognisant of the fact that there has been issues in the past as to exactly when these organisations do become self-sustaining and it would be reasonable to expect that they would provide back to the Cayman Islands Government some sort of contribution.

We believe that it is important that any funding provided by the Government to any such agencies is monitored and that we do ensure that we do not see a build-up of excess cash in those entities, yet the Government continue to provide a substantial subsidy.

LACK OF COMMUNICATION

There appears to be a lack of communication between government departments, statutory authorities and other agencies, in regards to sharing of information that may be beneficial to other entities. This lack of communication and sharing of information is causing inefficiencies within the government as a whole. For example, problems are being identified between the Treasury, Immigration, Computer Services and other various departments. For Government to progress efficiently there is a need for timely sharing of information.

Holding of information and 'empire building' by individuals or departments must no longer be tolerated. Relevant information must flow between departments in order for the Government to plan and develop strategic direction and vision.

UNRESOLVED MATTERS

The Committee is aware that many issues raised in previous Public Accounts Committees have never been satisfactorily addressed or resolved. This Committee will continue to draw attention to all matters affecting the financial health of the Government. We hope that the present Government—and I can say they do—will accept our observations and recommendations in the spirit that they are intended. That is, to improve financial management throughout Government and to seek the best possible value for the taxpayers dollars.

One long outstanding matter that has been brought to the Committee's attention concerns the failures since 1992 to regularise expenditure by means of a Supplementary Appropriation Bill. This is required under section 10 of the Public Finance and Audit Law (1997 Revision). This Bill should be brought to the Legislative Assembly as soon as possible after the close of the financial year to which the expenditures relate. The Committee respectfully calls upon the Government to regularise these long outstanding matters without any further delay.

OVERALL ACCOUNTABILITY

Recommendations of prior Public Accounts Committees and the Auditor General have not been addressed in a timely manner. Just as major private sector firms have an auditor committee there is a dire need for the Government to implement similar concept. This would allow for more timely and effective resolution of matters raised by the Auditor General in his reports and management letters. The Committee recommends such a committee be comprised of the Auditor General and the Permanent Secretaries. Provisions for such a committee should be enshrined in the necessary legislation which would at this time be the new Public, Finance and Management Bill. However, at the date of this Report it would have been the Public Finance and Audit Law (1997 Revision).

The Committee would call for upper management to agree upon target dates for resolutions for any matter with their subordinates. Each department head would be held responsible for resolving the matters by the agreed upon dates. This would create greater transparency and accountability. It would also enhance/create teamwork and instil oneness that is needed within the upper management of the Government. Just to touch briefly on the matter of unresolved matters and the reference made to the need for a Supplementary Appropriation Bill (having been outstanding since 1992), it is just for clarity when such monies are spent within a particular year even though the monies are spent there is a need for them to be legalised. There is a need for it to be brought back to the Finance Committee just so there is a technical legalisation of those matters.

Madam Speaker, within the Report there are numerous issues raised. There is indeed a description of the matters, the views put forward by witnesses, and then the recommendations of the Committee. I recommend the reading of this Report along with the Honourable Auditor General's report to all Members and indeed the wider public.

Under Standing Orders of this House and to be more precise Standing Order 77 section 7, "The Government Minute shall be laid on the Table of the House within three months of the laying of the report of the PAC and the report of the Auditor General to which it relates." Therefore, the Government now has three months from today to provide the Minute in response to the matters raised. I would then so move that debate on the PAC report of the Auditor General on the financial statements of the Government of the Cayman Islands for the year ended 31 December 1999 and the relevant Government Minute be debated together.

I thank you, Madam Speaker.

MOTION TO DEFER DEBATE

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member.

The question is that the debate on the reports as mentioned, emanating from the Standing Public Accounts Committee be deferred until the Government Minute is laid upon the Table of this honourable House. All those in favour please say Aye.

AYES.

The Speaker: Those against, No. The Ayes have it. Debate is accordingly deferred.

AGREED: DEBATE UPON THE REPORT OF THE STANDING PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE ON THE REPORT OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 DECEMBER 1999, TOGETHER WITH THE REPORT OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31 DECEMBER 1999, DEFERRED UNTIL THE GOVERNMENT MINUTE IS LAID UPON THE TABLE.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Human Resources and Culture.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS—AUDITED STATEMENTS 2000 AND ANNUAL REPORT 2000/01

Hon. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House audited financial statements of the Community College of the Cayman Islands for the year 2000 and the Annual Report of the Community College of the Cayman Islands for 2000/01.

The Speaker: So ordered. Would the Honourable Minister wish to speak thereto?

Hon. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Please proceed.

Hon. Roy Bodden: The 2000/01 school year was a milestone in the history of the Community College, with the achievement of a number of significant goals. These goals include increased enrolment especially of Caymanian students the ability to cover over 20 percent of the recurrent expenditure, the ability to maintain low fees and graduating for the first time over 100 students. Additionally, one of the most significant accomplishments during this period was the increased acceptance of the Community College's Associate Degrees by schools throughout the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom.

The College was also challenged by a significant staff shortage during this time frame as two lecturers left on short notice. Their departure represented a 12 percent reduction in teaching faculty and could have affected the programmes offered at the college. Fortunately, the staff rose to the occasion and filled in where needed. We often hear about the staffing problems facing primary and secondary schools but this dilemma also extends to the local tertiary institutions and re-enforces the need for a local teacher-training programme.

With an increase in enrolment and the likelihood of more people pursuing post-graduate education via distance learning, the College dedicated some of its resources to improving and increasing its collection of library materials. Feedback from college and outside users indicates that the facility has the "best research reference and current materials of academics on the Islands." In addition to building its library materials the college also completed the construction of its multi-purpose hall in August 2000. The hall will serve as an additional hurricane shelter for George Town and houses the canteen, sporting facilities and various student offices for the college.

At this point it is important to underscore that governments throughout the Caribbean, the United States and the United Kingdom fully fund their capital projects. However, the Government and the Community College jointly funded this hall. Furthermore, since 1998 the college has contributed to the cost of more than 20 percent of its recurrent expenditures. When compared to other community colleges throughout the world this is exceptional since most cover cost less than 20 percent of their expenses. The college has been able to accomplish this milestone without increasing fees because its Board recognises that increased fees would drive the cost of education beyond the reach of many Caymanians especially those who need it most.

In terms of the college's enrolment the certificate programmes continue to have a small number of participants for a variety of reasons. The administration thinks this trend is partially due to the community's belief that technical education is second rate; availability of ready employment regardless of educational attainment and the college's ability to admit and accommodate most students.

With regards to society's views of technical education, it is time for Caymanians to realise the administrative or office type positions are not for everyone. Despite the community's beliefs, blue-collar positions require a significant amount of training and expertise. Spend a day with any blue-collar worker and you will understand the amount of knowledge needed to complete their assignments. The jobs may not be as glamorous as white-collar positions but they are no less skilled and critical for our society.

Madam Speaker, permit me, if you will, to take a digression here to say that this year my agenda is focusing on education and educational initiatives and I take full cognisance of the need to develop a more effective technical and vocational education programme. To this extent it is proposed—and I have held initial discussions with some members of the private sector and I have set down on the agenda to fully discuss with my Permanent Secretary and support staff—the notion of convening for the very first time in the history of this country a technical and vocational trade fair. We can begin to promote appropriately the necessity to have our people qualified in technical and vocational areas and where we can develop some sense of appreciation for the contributions made in these areas. Approximately 75 percent of the students enrolled in the Associate degree programme are Caymanians.

The numbers enrolled in the part-time programme continue to increase and the majority of these individuals are mature students. The college is therefore allowing individuals that may otherwise not be able to pursue tertiary education an opportunity to obtain an advanced degree. In addition to assisting mature students, the college is also enabling full-time students to begin their studies in a familiar environment at a significant savings to their families. This opportunity will enable students to better adjust to the distinct differences between high school and college. These students then transfer to universities throughout the United States, Britain and Canada to obtain their Bachelors degrees.

The students transferring from the Community College usually receive advanced standing at either sophomore or junior status. The universities accepting transfer credits from the Community College include the prestigious Columbia University, The University of Pennsylvania, University of London, Bristol University, McMaster University, Queens University and the University of the West Indies. I congratulate the Community College, its President, Board members and faculty on these accomplishments. In the words of the former British Prime Minister, Benjamin Disraeli, I remind everyone that the secret of success is "constancy of purpose."

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

QUESTIONS TO MINISTERS AND MEMBERS

QUESTION NO.128

(Deferred)

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

No. 128: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Honourable Minister responsible for the Ministry of Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce what is the current employment status of the Director of the Port Authority.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, before I move on, I would like to suspend Standing Orders to allow questions to be asked after 11 am and I so move the relevant Standing Order.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Leader of Government Business. The question is that Standing Order 23(7) and (8) be suspended to allow question time to continue beyond 11am. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Standing Order has been duly suspended and question time will continue.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW QUESTION TIME TO CONTINUE BEYOND 11 AM

The Speaker: The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, under Standing Order 23(5) I ask that this question be further deferred.

The Speaker: The question is that under Standing Order 23(5) that question No. 128 be deferred until it is brought back to the House.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Madam Speaker. The Permanent Secretary is still moving with the question.

The Speaker: All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Question 128 is hereby deferred until brought back to the House.

AGREED: QUESTION NO. 128 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO.153

(Withdrawn)

No.153: Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Are there any plans in place for proper restroom facilities, garbage collection, beach cabanas, etcetera, at the Cemetery beach in West Bay. [Question withdrawn]

The Speaker: Thank you. We will move on to the next question.

QUESTION NO.154

(Withdrawn)

No. 154: Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Break-down of the users of the sport's/recreation hall at the Community College. [Question withdrawn]

The Speaker: Moving on the next question.

QUESTION NO.155

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

No. 155: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the First Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Internal and External Affairs why was the former Director of Tourism summarily relieved of her office without suitable replacement having been identified and why is it that, to date, no suitable replacement has yet been found.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Following extensive consultation within the tourism industry groupings and with Ministry of Tourism there was a consensus view on the need to reposition the tourism product. That decision coincided with the need to become proactive on the planning and organisation of the Quincentennial celebrations for 2003, for which the Director of Tourism seemed an ideal candidate as Executive Director. His Excellency the Governor, therefore, appointed her to the post of Executive Director of the Quincentennial Celebrations 2003.

As it was vitally important to get the Quincentennial Office in operation quickly, the Director of Tourism was relocated to that office and an interim Director of Tourism was appointed for the Department of Tourism while a search was made for a replacement Director of Tourism. In seeking a replacement Director of Tourism it was felt that the widest consultation should take place in an effort to find an industry professional to fill this position.

In December five candidates were interviewed and a selection was made by the Public Service Commission and recommendations made to His Excellency the Governor. His Excellency accepted that recommendation and the new Director of Tourism will be taking up duties on Monday 14 January 2002 as was publicly announced yesterday.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member could say when the former Director of Tourism was relieved of her duties and when was an interim Director appointed.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The former Director was relieved of her duties on 31 August 2001 and an interim director was appointed on 23 October. During that period there was a management team in place until the interim director was actually appointed.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member would say who comprised this management team and what criteria were applied to the appointment of the members of the team.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The management committee was actually referred to as the committee of managers in that interim period. It was chaired by the person heading up the North American operations (a Caymanian) and consisted of the heads of Manager of Public Relations, Manager of Tourism Development Services, et cetera. In addition to the heads of sections in the tourism department, there were two marketing officers. On the question of the authorisation for this team, the decision, as far as I am aware, was taken by the Permanent Secretary in the Ministry in discussions with His Excellency.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member could tell us whether or not the Director of North American operations who chaired this committee is the same individual who was ultimately appointed interim director on the 23 October.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Yes, Madam Speaker, I can confirm that.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The substantive response states that the decision was taken following extensive consultation with the Tourism industry and the Ministry of Tourism that there was a consensus view on the need to reposition the tourism product. Against that background—which does not indicate any mismanagement or misconduct on the part of the former Director—why was such a radical decision taken summarily which left the management of the Department of Tourism in a vacuum for almost two months before an interim director was appointed and a further two and a half months before a substantive director was appointed yesterday or the announcement was made yesterday?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am not aware that there was any misconduct on the part of the former Director. I think if there had been it would have been dealt with through the disciplinary process but as the substantive answer indicated, there was a consensus view on the need to reposition tourism product and at the same time there was a need for a person to head up the Quincentennial office and the former Director was considered to be an ideal candidate for that and His Excellency therefore appointed her to the new post.

I do not accept the fact that there was a vacuum before an interim director was appointed because there was a committee in place of experienced individuals, managers of the various sections with the interim director chairing that before the formal appointment was made. I believe that after the interim director was appointed she continued to do a good job, unless the Member can tell me otherwise.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I certainly was not suggesting that anyone had or had not done a good job. I can only ask questions.

The Speaker: Could you please move on to formulate it into a question honourable Member?

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: That was a preface to my question, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member could say whether or not the absence of an interim director during the period of August and October created uncertainty and concern within the Tourism industry and whether or not that has contributed to our current tourism woes.

The Speaker: Honourable First Official Member, it is my view that that is asking for an opinion and a speculative response. You have the discretion if you wish to respond thereto.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am not going to try to speculate on something that I do not know.

The Speaker: The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you Madam Speaker. Can the First Official Member tell us how many Caymanians were short-listed and interviewed?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is my understanding that there were two Caymanian candidates short-listed or interviewed.

The Speaker: The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the First Official Member tell us if there will be a Deputy Director of Tourism chosen from those candidates that were short-listed? And if that is a "no", where will the Deputy Director come from?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is my understanding that the Deputy Director's post will be filled in due course. However, I would expect it would have to first be advertised.

The Speaker: The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Is it my understanding then from the First Official Member that there has been no Deputy Director and how long has that existed?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I do not have the actual date that the Deputy Director's post became vacant but it was sometime last year.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the First Official Member can tell us why, then, were both positions not advertised in tandem and filled.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is my understanding that the Deputy's post was advertised and there were no suitable candidates. It has since been re-advertised. So my earlier response in saying that it was likely that it would be advertised is probably not accurate. The post has been re-advertised and there are applicants so I expect, then, that the filling of the Deputy's post is in the process of being done.

The Speaker: I will allow one more supplementary.
The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. If it was advertised in tandem with the Director's post and there were no suitable applicants, we would have a short list of applicants for the Director's post. Since at least two Caymanians were in the short list, I would expect that they were all close together with qualifications. May I then ask the First Official Member if the Deputy Director's post was offered to any of those candidates, particularly the Caymanians?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is my understanding that the two posts (Deputy's and the Director's posts) were not actually advertised in tandem. However, when the two Caymanians were interviewed, the matter of the Deputy's position was discussed with them but it is my understanding that neither of those candidates have applied for the Deputy's post.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for George Town, final supplementary.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. First of all in the substantive answer, just in the middle of page 2 (this is just for purposes of clarity), I see where it says, "in seeking a replacement director of Tourism it was felt that 'why this'" . . . should that read 'the widest'? I just wanted to make sure that I understood the context. The question is on top of that same page where it says, 'His Excellency the Governor appointed her to the post of executive director of the Quincentennial Celebrations 2003'. Bearing in the mind the various timings that have been stated thus far in the answer to the supplementary questions, can the Honourable First Official Member state when the former director was appointed to the post of director of the Quincentennial Celebrations 2003?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The former Director was appointed as the executive director of the Quincentennial Celebrations effective 1 September.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO.156

No. 156: Mr. Rolston M. Anglin asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development, what instruments are General Reserves currently invested in?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: the General Reserves of the Cayman Islands are currently invested locally and overseas. The local investments are in fixed deposits and the overseas investments are in the United States in instruments of

- The Federal Home Loan Mortgage (Freddie Mac)
- Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae)
- Home Loan Mortgages
- Government National Mortgage Association (Ginnie Mae).

The Speaker: Are there any supplementaries? If not we will move on to the next question. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Rolston M. Anglin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Question No. 157 standing in my name—

The Speaker: Honourable Member for West Bay, could I have a moment please?

Madam Clerk, can we please have the answers circulated to Question No. 156?

[pause]

The Speaker: Are there any supplementaries to question 156? If there are no supplementaries we will move on to question 157.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO.157

No. 157: Mr. Rolston M. Anglin asked the Third Honourable Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development what has been the rate of return on the General Reserves' investment account(s) in each of the last two years?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: The average rate of return on the local General Reserves was 5.9 percent in 1999 and 7 percent in 2000, whilst the rate of return on overseas investment was 4.1 percent in 1999 and 7.4 percent in the year 2000.

The Speaker: Honourable Third Official Member would you be in possession of extra copies for circulation to your response?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, these were included among the batch that I gave this morning. There were three envelopes that—

The Speaker: Perhaps in the interest of time if one of your staff members could have them copied and will take a break for about five minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.48 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.04 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Are there any supplementaries?

The Elected Member for East End.

SUPPLEMENTARY

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the Third Official Member tell us what percentage of the Reserves is invested locally and overseas respectively?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the percentage of the Reserves that is invested locally is approximately 50 percent and overseas 50 percent.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries we will move on the next item.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO.158

No. 158: Mr. Rolston M. Anglin asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Finance and Economic Development, what are the investment criteria for General Reserves?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer:

(a) Overseas General Reserves Investment

- Schroder Capital Investment Incorporated manages the overseas investment. Under the investment guidelines the investment manager may invest in deposits and certificates of deposits with institutions within the meaning of the United Kingdom Banking Act of 1987 or any other statutory re-enactment or amendment provided that such banks have been approved by the Investment Manager's Credit Committee.
- Investments are authorised to be in fixed rate, floating rate and index-linked bonds issued by, or guaranteed by the Government of Austria, Australia, Canada, Japan, Norway, Sweden, the United Kingdom and the United States of America, and the International Bank of Reconstruction and Development (the World Bank).
- There are no restrictions on the market on which the investment manager may invest, nor are there any restrictions as to the proportions of the fund which may be invested in each of the investments.
- Investments are denominated in the United States dollar and should not exceed a maximum final maturity of five years.

(b) Legal General Reserves Investment

- Local General Reserves investments are placed locally with any class 'A' bank providing the highest interest rate at the time of investment. The investments are usually placed for periods of six months with maturity of 31 December in order that the interest received on the investment can be accounted for within the current financial year.

The Speaker: Are there any supplementaries? If there are no supplementaries, it is my intention to take the luncheon break at this time. We will return at 1.45 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.08 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.07 PM

The Speaker: [Please be seated.]

Honourable Leader of Government Business, would you move the suspension of Standing Order 46(4)?

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46(4)

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I move the suspension of Standing Order 46(4) in order to take the Bill through its Second Reading.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 46(4) be suspended. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Orders 46(4) is hereby suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 46(4) SUSPENDED.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

THE MARINE CONSERVATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, after much delay, I move The Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001, which amends The Marine Conservation Law (1995 Revision) in order to further protect marine life in Cayman waters.

The Bill establishes specific guidelines to prevent the further depletion of threatened marine creatures and to provide an opportunity for these species to be naturally replenished for the future enjoyment of the people of these Islands. It has been widely recognised that our existing Marine Conservation Law and Regulations require updating in order to effectively protect the marine environment that is so vital to the economic survival of the Cayman Islands. I am not satisfied that this Bill will accomplish what I set out to do in the earliest stages.

The Opposition has had some points which they were adamant they could not support and some Members on our side were not satisfied on some areas. So, there is an element of compromise which may not serve the matter of conservation of the marine creature, first asked for by The Marine Conservation Board, the Department of Environment and members of the general public in meetings in the communities.

Madam Speaker, the fact is that this country faces a difficult decision. Research indicates in certain instances, that certain species of marine life are being so rapidly depleted from Cayman waters that they are likely to be approaching critical mass. That is, a stage where the numbers may be too low to allow the species to recover. This has been the experience of Florida and its conch population. Despite all of the conservation efforts over the past 10 ten years, the Florida conch population has shown no sign of meaningful improvement. Our best efforts are required now to see that Cayman's vulnerable marine life does not reach a similar point of no return. Either we act to conserve our precious and limited marine resources or we risk losing them altogether, losing them for a meal now and then.

We must act as a country with prudence and wisdom although we realise in the short term that we may experience some inconvenience and even to an extent some hardship. We must make this sacrifice in the short term so that we may reap the benefits of our marine life in the longer term. By establishing limits and in some instances from outright bans, this Bill provides the necessary framework to allow for the continuation of healthy and abundant marine populations, which have come to be associated with the Cayman Islands. While I appreciate that marine conservation is a highly sensitive matter, I am also aware that corrective action must be taken sooner rather than later or the issue will be mute. When one considers factors such as the growing resident population of the Cayman Islands and the increasing demand being placed on our Islands limited marine resources, it is evident that the strain on certain marine life has taken its toll over the years.

Madam Speaker, when I was a boy, as no doubt others did growing up in these Islands, I went out on the ironshore on the Bay and threw out a line. I could catch all the fish I wanted. If you went swimming or diving around the ironshore or inner reefs the ornamental fish were in schools. Today, you can go fishing all day and you might not catch one and you go swimming in some areas you might see small schools or three or four here and there, but nothing like the previous abundance. It is obvious that we have to take some measures. Ornamental fish today are being destroyed by spear guns, fish-traps and s-traps that were never used by the population here. Things I see being speared today—whether by spear gun, Hawaiian sling or some other home-made spear—were never troubled when I was growing up.

This Bill provides very necessary corrective measures for the marine creatures cited in the Laws including lobsters, whelks, conch and Nassau groupers. Some of those amendments originally tabled in the House are now also amended. If we do not take bold action now, in time these creatures may not be available locally for any of us to enjoy—Caymanians, residents and visitors alike. This could have a far longer and devastating impact on the Caymanian way of life and the appeal of our tourism product.

This Bill has been brought forward to try to protect local marine life and to preserve the ability of future generations to meet their needs in this regard. Subsequent to the drafting of this Bill and following consultation with Members of this honourable House I intend to move certain committee stage amendments. For the sake of clarity, Madam Speaker, I will outline provisions of this Bill and cite those areas where additional amendments are proposed.

The Bill provides for a complete 3-year ban on catching: lobsters, whelks, chitons, periwinkles and bleeding teeth, and closed seasons for Conch and Nassau groupers. I proposed that this provision be amended during committee stage to provide instead:

1. A closed season and catch limits for lobsters (that is the compromise) on whelks, conch and Nassau groupers.
2. A complete ban on catching chitons, periwinkles and bleeding teeth up to the 31 December 2004; which nobody eats in any event.

Madam Speaker, the Bill provides a temporary ban on the catching of lobsters in Cayman waters but instead it is intended in committee stage to further restrict closed seasons and catch limits for Lobsters. The Bill reduces to five (5) the total number of conch which a person may take from Cayman waters in any one day. The Bill also provides that any person who permits or causes to be cut from or loaded onto any one vessel in any one day more than five (5) conch for each person on board, such vessel or ten (10) such conch in total, whichever is the lesser amount would be guilty of an offence.

Clause 8 of the Bill clarifies the principal Law by providing that the Governor may by notice in the Gazette designate certain areas of Cayman waters to be spawning areas for any type of marine life.

Clause 9 amends section 14 to provide a complete prohibition the use of spear guns. The compromise: it is proposed that during committee stage this will be amended to allow for the Marine Conservation Board continue to issue licence for use of spear guns.

Clause 10 restricts the use of fish pots in Cayman waters. A person must be licensed by the Marine Conservation Board to use a fish pot. The new section 15(a) sub-clause (2) provides that any person who uses a fish pot for the purpose of taking any marine life within a one-mile radius of any designated group or spawning area during the months of November to March inclusive is guilty of an offence.

Clause 11 amends section 16 to widen the restrictions on taking certain marine life from Cayman waters. It will be an offence to take fish less than 8 inches in length other than goggle eyes, herrings, anchovies and silver side fish. Persons will also be prohibited from taking certain types of ornamental fish.

Clause 12 provides that it is an offence to feed or to attempt to feed sharks in Cayman waters. Madam Speaker, let me say on this point that recent tragedies in other tourist destinations involving shark attacks highlight the fact that Government must be mindful of the potential dangers associated with this activity.

While there is still some controversy regarding the relationship, if any, between the occurrence of shark feeding and shark attacks, I believe we owe it to the people of these Islands and those who visit our waters to always act in the interest of promoting safety. There are also very cogent environmental reasons for ceasing this activity including concerns for the health of the marine Eco-system and the welfare of the animals themselves. Therefore, this controversial practice of feeding sharks has been prohibited.

I can never forget earlier this year one of the dive magazines that sell for the Cayman Islands sent me a copy of a newspaper article with a shark and on its head was Mickey Mouse (half of it) and the other half underneath and the caption saying, "Wasn't so bad in Florida but better in the Cayman Islands." We know that we have never had a shark attack here last year or in recent years but that is how the opposition (if I can call them that) or the newspapers (we can call them that) will spin whatever message they want to get out.

Clause 13 provides that a person who immediately before the commencement of this Law was licensed to use or possess a spear gun is entitled to use or possess such spear gun until the expiration of his licence. I propose that this provision be deleted in committee stage and rather than the Marine Conservation Board issue by way of directives the necessary provisions which are required from time to time.

It is important to note, Madam Speaker, that for the most part the provisions made today were first outlined in a press conference in June last year and it was followed up on a White Paper to the Assembly which was distributed to Members several months ago. After further discussion changes—as I said, compromises—I propose to amend this Bill in committee stage. These changes involve removing the temporary ban on whelks, proposed in the Bill and instead imposing a catch limit and close season for whelks taken from Cayman waters. That was one of the changes asked for.

Another change involves the deletion of section 9(a) sub-clause (2) which prohibited during certain months vessels which exceed 20 ft. in length from entering the designated Nassau grouper spawning areas, another change that was asked for by Members.

Also, a change is proposed to section 7 sub-clause (3) to replace the words 'from Cayman waters' with 'designated Nassau groupers spawning areas'. These compromises and consequential changes are proposed to be finalised in committee stage.

Despite extensive consultation on this matter issues have been raised regarding the enforceability of these conservation provisions. Members throughout the time have talked about this. Madam Speaker, when legislation was first introduced to create marine parks there were no enforcement officers. Nevertheless, the Law was passed and served as a deterrent for most people. In response to that element which chooses to break the Law, enforcement officers were hired to enforce the Law.

I think it is important to stress to Members that when this Bill comes into effect, additional enforcement resources if necessary can subsequently be addressed upon determining the level of need for such service. The point is firstly there must be adequate provisions in place to enforce. If there is no law or regulation to enforce well, what do you enforce? No matter how many officers are there, or will be, there are those who will break the law in any event. They will take a chance and if you put law enforcement officers all over the North Sound, all over South Sound, all over this Island, there are those who are going to break the law. Some people see it as part of their heritage. But it is a part of their heritage that is fast disappearing!

I say if we can help today to preserve some of that then let us be reasonable. Let us take the political fall-out that perhaps will come but nevertheless, in the long run it will be better for our children, grandchildren and great-grand children, for our future generations. People will be better able to catch more fish in fish-pots and perhaps catch more fish from fishing with a line. However, if we do not put in place restrictions, and leave people to do as they please, and then what do honourable Members feel? What do they say?

When we strive and spend money to promote our marine environment as a tourist destination and they come and they cannot catch a queen fish or they cannot catch bill fish or they go reef fishing and they do not catch any fish, what then do Members say? There comes a time when we all have to stand up and say 'I believe this is right' and there are people who vote for us but they have to understand that we are doing this in their long-term best interest.

The Bill provides for designated spawning areas for groupers and a ban from the 1 January 2003 to 31 December 2003 and every alternate year thereafter. People are prohibited from catching groupers taken from such areas during those periods. During the spawning season there is also a prohibition on setting of fish-pots within a one-mile radius of any designated grouper spawning areas and outside of the designated spawning areas there is a restriction on the taking of grouper less than 1 foot on length using a fish-pot during the month of April to October inclusive and the S-pot as it is called, is also prohibited.

Madam Speaker, I cannot say that I am satisfied with the Bill, but it is a compromise. I would rather have something than nothing at all.

In closing, I recommend this Bill for the perusal of this honourable House. I again would like to emphasise that the provisions call for sacrifices some of which are temporary and have been drawn up as a result of several years of research, extensive dialogue and consideration by the Marine Conservation Board to professionals at the Department of Environment and meetings with the affected groups in various districts in Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. It must also be borne in mind, as previously stated, that Members of this honourable House had time to consider the vast majority of the provisions in this Bill since about mid-year 2001 when the White Paper on Marine Conservation was first announced.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Leader.

Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak? Last call. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The First Elected Member for the district of George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Honourable Minister has moved the Bill and, as he has stated, perhaps the proposed amendments are not in exactly the format that he would have wished; but, as he said, he would rather have something than nothing at all, which means it will remain as it was.

Before I speak to the Bill itself I would like to just raise two quick points with the hope that this is the appropriate time to do so. When we got the original White Paper it had attached to it some proposed regulations and also some proposed directives. While the Bill that we are debating does not include the two documents that I speak of, I am presuming that regulations and directives will follow passage of the Bill. I believe that the regulations and the directives will not come via the Legislative Assembly. I would like to take this opportunity to make a couple of observations regarding the regulations and the directives because they have a direct bearing on what is hoped to be achieved through the Bill.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I have listened and I can see the reason and justification for one wanting to address it seeing that it would not come back to the honourable Parliament. The problem I find myself is that I have no cognisance as to what those regulations or directives will be. Hence it is going to be very difficult to rule whether or not your debate is relevant. I have no problem pausing informally for you to speak to the Leader of Government Business and I would ask his permission to see whether or not those regulations and directives have remained the same as published. If that is the case then I will go ahead and allow the debate.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, in order to be pointed . . . and if I have to limit it to one area then I will. However, one area deals with fish-pots and the Bill deals with fish-pots so I cannot see whether there could be any question of relevance.

The Speaker: What I am saying honourable Member is that because I have not been informed or have privy to any knowledge that the White Paper draft form has been changed or whether they remain the same, I am not in a position to make rulings that would be relevant and I would not wish to enter into that area at any stage of my chairing of this honourable House. Therefore, I have offered you the position to get an indication from the honourable Minister, if he is so desirous of sharing it, if that has changed. If it has not changed then I have no problem with allowing debate by any Member and those regulations.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, I hear your dilemma and I will be able to deal with my debate in such a way that the question will not arise.

[The Honourable Leader of Government Business rose]

The Speaker: Honourable Leader of Government Business?

[Addressing the First Elected Member for George Town] Will you give way?

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, as the Member knows, regulations and directives were approved in Council and cannot be put in place before the Law is passed and assented to by His Excellency the Governor. There will be consequential changes to those regulations and directives based on what has happened here today with the amendments.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, please proceed on the basis that they would be public knowledge and if there are consequential anticipated things, of course, you have a wide enough discretion that you can so debate.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The first point that I wish to raise is one that I believe to be simply of logistics with regard to the fish-pots issue. I heard what the Minister said about the S-pots. I do not think anybody is going to argue that point. I think everybody is in total agreement with that. Under the directives in section 20 part 5 'Licensing of Fish-pots', and section 20(b) it reads in these directives that 'the fish-pot shall not exceed 2 feet in height by 2 feet in width by 4 feet in length.' I think that needs to be re-examined with regard to those dimensions. I do not think that a fish-pot with the dimensions given in these directives is what people would need, if they only check their fish-pots once per week. The proposed size does not allow for fairly reasonable size fish inside the fish-pot. They will probably die because they will not have enough space to move.

The normal fish-pot that most of us know about is 4x4x2 not 2x2x4. I do not think the height or length is a problem but where it has the width as only 2 feet, I think it is just not sensible. So, I think they have to re-examine it.

There are different configurations that people will use. Some will use 2x3x4 but 2x2x4 is really a problem and I am just speaking to the logistics of the matter when we look at it, and if fish are in there for more than three or four days . . . I just wanted to make sure that that point did not go by the wayside.

Madam Speaker, with regard to the Bill that is before us, and, while there are committee stage recommendations, I am presuming that it is sensible for us to debate both rather than deal with the original Bill as it was and then have to come back and deal with a totally different understanding again.

The Speaker: Yes, you have my approval to debate together because that is in the essence of time.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Madam Speaker.

First of all let me speak generally and say that I certainly recognise the need (as the Minister has said in the introduction of the Bill) for us to be looking very carefully also at the preservation of certain species of shellfish. Over the years those who do a bit of fishing, whether it is recreational or otherwise, have certainly experienced the proof of the pudding by observing that certain species are no longer as prolific as they were. It is quite obvious.

The first area that I wish to speak to . . . and I will quite readily say what my discussion has been. I understand the situation with the conch and I see there is also a problem with the whelks. If I look to the committee stage amendments, I think the final situation is going to be a closed season for both conchs and whelks, and there will be set limits for both, whenever they are able to be taken.

I believe from the discussions that the Department of Environment is of the opinion that both species perhaps share the same sort of reproductive timeline during the course of the year. So I think that the time of year that you cannot take these species should be the same time for both. I was hoping that it would be a situation that could be alternated between when you could not take the conch and when you could take the whelks, or vice versa. Therefore, it would not be the period of time during the course of the year when neither one could be taken once you took within the limits. The truth of the matter is, I do not think anyone of us will have knowledge to be able to counter the argument to say that that is not the time when reproduction takes place with the whelks. So, as much as I would personally prefer to see it that way, I cannot stand here today and argue that it is not what should happen. I have to just voice an opinion to say how I would have liked it but accept what is being said. I certainly am not going to try to give any arguments for something about which I am not certain.

I really need to talk about the other amendment and I do not know whether it stands alone on this or not, but of this I am totally convinced. During discussions regarding the taking of the grouper, my understanding is based on the assumption that everybody agrees that something needs to be done about the large quantities and the way in which the grouper are taken during grouper season. It is accepted that something has to be done. I think the department's position is that it is almost impossible (in their minds) to police the situation or to enforce whatever legislation may be put in place for it. Therefore, the Marine Conservation Board, the department and whoever else was involved, whether it was taking public input or whatever, the conclusion is that you do not allow any taking of the grouper for one year and then for the next year they can take all they want.

Personally, I am not going to stand and argue forever about the enforcement about the Law. I am going to say that I see absolutely no sense in doing it that way because there can be no good results from that. I call it feast or famine to not allow any to be taken this year but then the next year individuals who like to engage whenever grouper season is around have the ability to go and take as many as they want. That cannot serve any purpose to me. In my view, there has to be another way than doing like that. This is not about politics. I want people to think of what I am trying to say. You cannot tell me that one year you cannot touch them but next year you can go and slaughter them. In my opinion, there is no sense in that.

I can stand here today without calling any names and I can speak of many of the individuals who take these grouper. They will get as many as they can get and sometimes they do not even have the ability to readily sell the quantities that they have because the market cannot absorb it that quickly. If they store it for three months the people are not going to buy it because it is not fresh, but they are still going to do it. If there is no law which restricts them on alternate years, no amount of preaching is going to stop them from doing it because there is nothing to prevent them. This I do not just pontificate on—I know this because I have seen this. I believe that there must be some other way of looking at this and it is not about arguing to set a limit that people can have them every year. However, I believe that if there is any limit set then it is much better than simply having no limit for one year and that you can take whatever you wish and then the next year you can take none.

Let us look at the grouper: if my memory serves me right I think there are five recognised spawning areas within the territorial waters in the Islands. I believe there are five, somewhere in that region. I understand that there may be difficulty, but if we also look at what we know as the grouper season, all of those who fish know which month it is and how many days that you are able to do so. You will find that as people fish for them they trail off and after a few days after each of those moons, people do not go back because they realise it makes no sense because they are gone!

In a simple conversation with the Honourable First Official Member—I am not just using him but the conversation arose yesterday and it is not just him that I have spoken to in this manner before—he has memories of 15 to 20 years ago when you went to the grouper hole and you looked down in the water glass they were literally 15 or 20 ft thick down below. You could not count them! That was in those days. Not so very long ago, that is how they found them in Little Cayman.

Now I am going to tell it like it is, and I know them all and know them well. Although the Minister and I differ in many other things, the point that he made that is correct, that I agree with, is, even if we have to face some hardships now, it is better for us to look sensibly and make an approach that will preserve these species rather than to just be looking in the immediate period. Somebody might say 'well, I'm not voting for you anymore because you do not make me go and take the grouper'. This is not what I am arguing about. However, those people who have the desire . . . and we can truly say it is part of the culture that they are used to being able (whenever that time comes around whether or not it is for grouper) to go and get, they have to understand that if they are left alone to do it the way they see it, before long they will not have any to go and get.

We have so many other species that we can speak to and say that it is 'proof of the pudding' so this is why we are trying to do it with these. I agree with that, but I come back to the point . . . and I beg you not to charge me with tedious repetition, but I am asking whoever it is that can do something about it not to pass this law in this situation or word it like this. It is not going to do it any good. It is not going to serve its purpose and I will not take any pleasure in saying 'I told you so'. I am not suggesting that I can see it different from anybody else; I am asking everybody to think of it like this and it has to be obvious! How long does it take before one of these fish matures to be able to reproduce? So, if I leave him alone this year and he gets one year older and next year I go and kill all of them . . . It makes no sense, Madam Speaker.

I hear and respect the problem, and I am saying, notwithstanding all the problems that we have, if we are going to make meaningful strides in this area, we have to do it right. Otherwise it makes no sense to do it at all.

We may be depending on the belief that we are not able to cure this problem and perhaps assuming that if legislation is in place it might be a good enough deterrent. However, let us look at the logic of not being able to enforce it even if we have the appropriate legislation. If it is only the legislation that we are going to depend on and not sure we can find enough bodies to monitor these five areas, then is it not better to use that legislation and put a limit every year than to tell them 'one year you cannot get any but the next year you can get all you want'? It has to be! I am not even asking for you to make any movement to say, 'yeah or nay.'

Forgive the passion. However, I am hoping that somebody will listen to it because I would hate to see this happen, or we will regret it.

I am going to tell you something else. The talk that has been going on for a couple of years about putting a ban on them, even with the problems that we now have with it, the fever is not so bad. However, you make this go into legislation and you hear that this year you cannot get any and the next year there is slaughter, there would never be the word to justify it. You know how it is, Madam Speaker, we all know how it is. The difficulty is the short period of time and I have seen this happen. I have seen huge fish stay in the freezer and you cannot get rid of them so they are freezer burned. Nobody will buy them, you cannot give them away! However, when you are catching them, it is impossible to have that self-discipline to say on your own 'well, let me stop now, oh just one more...look at that one down there through the water glass, hmm'. That is how it is and I hope that the point is made.

I really believe we need to forget politics or who will vote and who do not vote, I believe we are 100 percent better off setting limits. I do not mean limits that they can get 50 or 100 either. I can say what I believe and others can have their input. I believe the way that all of the other limits are set—for instance, when you speak to how many per person, but a maximum per boat, whichever is the lesser of the two—should be done like that, that is fine! That has to be a lot better than the feast and famine situation that is going to exist with this. I do not raise this point to try to say that somebody does not know what they are doing because I understand the problems with the whole situation.

Even when the department knows what is best to do, they have the politicians to deal with yet they think of where they come from, their strengths and now with whom they have to deal with. I know how that is—

[Inaudible comment]

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yeah, but even with all of that I am trying to strike a balance to the situation. So, for me, if there was a situation where you said 10 per person per day, for whatever season, and if you had limits along with all of the other things, I think there is the maximum length of a boat and that kind of stuff. I do not have any problems with any of that, I just have a real problem with people being able to do what they want to do one year because they could not get them the year before. However, the maximum of 15 per boat per day, whichever is less, means that if two people are in the boat they can only get 15 and so they cannot get 20. That is just off the top of my head. I do not know, but I certainly would not want to see huge numbers. I just used that as a type of yardstick to deal with the situation.

So, if we speak to hypothesis, if every year each boat that went could get 15 during the season it would be less taken than if you could not get any one year and the next year you could get all you want. Anyway, I see logic in what I am trying to say. We will have to see what happens with that.

I would like to make it clear with the other issues. I explained my position and feeling with the whelks, and I accept what the department is saying because I cannot argue that they are not correct. I spoke to the situation with the groupers for no other reason than I believe that we are going to make it worse if we pass the legislation in this manner, rather than if we left it alone. I really mean that. Before we pass it like this, I would rather leave it how it is.

There will be others who will speak behind me about issues with the lobster and the spear guns, but the Minister was talking about the Opposition and other Members. So, I wish to make it very clear that as far as my knowledge is with whatever discussions may be had, the two points that I have raised are the only two points that we have problems with at the end of the day.

Everybody would like to see it a little bit different but if we could have it our own way it will be like the old time saying, 'having the cake and eating it'. If we could have it our way we would still like to be able to do what we want to do but hope to God that replenishment would take place and there would be no depletion of the stocks. We know by experience if by nothing else that that is not the case so we have to accept what is reality and the situation that obtains at present.

I am not going to spend a lot of time on the other issues because even with the committee stage amendments, as with the issue of the Nassau grouper they may not be quite as I would personally have it. That is what is coming through the pipeline from the majority and I too would rather see something than nothing so I am not going to get into a lot of arguments about that. As far as I am concerned we have to experience some pain if we are going to get any gains and I do not have any problems with that. I argue the point with the grouper especially because I really believe we are going to make it worse if we do it like that. The more I think about it the more I believe it.

I raise the issue about the fish-pot and I saw while I was speaking that the Head of Department was nodding her head accepting that they already know about it and that is a relief so I think that will be taken care of. I do not know how we feel about some other issues. Also, in those directives perhaps I might leave my good friend, the Member for East End to argue at length with this one.

But, first of all, I do not know if anybody has a copy of the proposed regulations here but there is also a 'typo'. I had a problem because I thought that this size mesh was only one-quarter inch but I see where it is 'tow' it should be 'two'—Two and a quarter inches. I was a bit confused for a second so that needs to be corrected.

In these directives . . . again, we can argue this from different angles, but I would like if this could be considered. Section 21(1) reads: "The Board may revoke a licence under this part if it appears to the Board that

"(b) The licence holder is convicted of any offence under the law or any regulations under the law. The licence holder is convicted of any offence involving violence or the threat of violence or the licence holder contravenes any condition or restriction of the licence whether or not the licence holder is prosecuted or convicted of an offence in relation to such contravention."

With all of these things, it says "...if it appears to the Board." In my opinion and this has nothing to do with any individuals who are there now or whoever may be on another Board, but where it says "if it appears to the Board", then I think that that is too wide-ranging a licence. If it reads like that in the Law, people are always going to feel aggrieved whenever anything happens. They are going to say some individuals have spite against him, do not like him and so on, because it is not seen as a conviction but it is. I do not have the answer as to how that should read, I am only pointing a difficulty that I see with actually being able to live in that environment and for the Board to function properly. The worse thing is every day or whenever there is a problem you always have everything being pointed at the Board, it is not fair and it is 'this and that'. So, I do not know if that can be worded in any other way or if it can be tightened up whereby it might be able to operate more smoothly.

Section 21(2) says, "any revocation of a licence under this part will be notified to the licence holder and to the police by a notice in writing and such notice will be expressed to terminate the licence 14 days after the service of the notice on the licence holder, and thereafter he will no longer be licensed by the Board." So, one leads to the other, Madam Speaker.

Really, what this is saying to me (unless I did not read it right) is that not only may the Board revoke licence under this part ('if it appears to the Board') . . . the Board [can] take away his licence. That is it. He could live as long as Methuselah and there would be no more licence and I do not know if we want to do that. That is what I am saying. That is the way I understand how this reads. I am not suggesting that there should not be penalties but the way it reads is, if it appears to the Board, the result can be losing a licence and the end result of that is never to get it again. That is what I am saying. I do not know whether I have read this the wrong way or not but perhaps that needs to be revisited.

I think those in the profession call that 'rough justice', that is how I hear it.

So, with the best of intentions I fully believe that there are issues that need to be looked at and restrictions have to be placed in different areas in order to allow for certain species to become more prolific and for stocks to be replenished. I think we also need to accept that as has been mentioned when the Minister was making his presentation; the numbers in the population are a lot different now. There are many more people around. The demand is much greater but I do not believe that the stocks are increasing accordingly in order to balance the equation. In fact, I think it is exactly the opposite. So, we have to accept that if we are going to allow for any replenishment of stocks we have to lessen the limits in certain areas.

In my opinion if there were bans on certain species that put specific periods to allow that replenishment, I would not have any huge problems. However it comes and whatever the committee stage amendments proposed, we will see.

I will close, Madam Speaker, but I am going to say it one more time: I am asking this honourable House not to pass this legislation allowing groupers to be taken at will, whether it is every other year or anytime. Let us see the wisdom in a better result by having a limit that is reasonable rather than anytime for any individual or any groups of individuals to be able to take as many as they can get during the spawning season. Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member for the district of George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to offer my short contribution to the debate on this important Bill, shortly entitled The Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2002.

Perhaps I should preface my remarks by addressing a matter raised by the Honourable Minister for Tourism when he introduced the Bill. He stated that he is not entirely happy with the proposed amendments, which he made to the Bill, and that if passed in its amended form, the Bill would not go as far as he would have liked in furthering the cause of marine conservation. He intimated that the Bill as amended will reflect a compromise, and he certainly gave the impression to me that this was a compromise as a result of submissions or suggestions made by Members of the Opposition.

I acknowledge that the honourable Minister was not present at the meeting to which we were invited by other Members of the UDP Government. However, it is not correct to say that this compromise reflects changes suggested by Members of the Opposition. To put it beyond doubt, we had hoped that perhaps some of our suggestions might have been taken on board, but at the very early stage in the meeting, the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay made it plain that the purpose of the meeting was for so that questions which we had could be answered by the technical staff and in particular the Director of Environment. The term he used was that 'conceptually we (UDP) are fine with the Bill in its current form'.

I can stand here this evening and say categorically that if there is compromise, it is as a result of disagreements within the UDP—not as a result of suggestions made from this side of this honourable House. I just wish to make that absolutely clear.

Madam Speaker, I did make suggestions in relation to technical issues and in relation to aspects of the Bill which appeared to me to be either unclear, contradictory, or did not give the effect which the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons suggested was intended. I am grateful that all of those were taken on board and that those technical changes have been effected. In fact, I put forward no suggestions and none of those suggestions that were put forward by any other Member of this side were taken on board.

Having said that, let me make it absolutely clear that I am fully in support of conservation; I am fully supportive of efforts to preserve our marine life and heritage.

The question of possible political fall out as a result of taking a strong line in relation to the catching of certain marine life has been raised. If that is the result then so be it. I have never intended to be a politician all of my life, but I intend to live here as long as I breathe. I have children, I love seafood and I especially love to cook it. And I would very much like that when I am old and bent and grey I could still taste a little bit of conch and fry a little lobster that have not come from somewhere else.

So, Madam Speaker, I come back to this question of compromise. Let me make it plain that the White Paper (which was circulated in mid 2001) did not propose a ban on the taking of whelks but it did propose a complete ban on the taking of lobster. The Bill which we received yesterday morning—and which I pause again to point out has never been gazetted . . . indeed, I am reminded by the Elected Member for East End that virtually none of the Bills which we have dealt with in this meeting have been gazetted—proposed a complete ban on catching lobster, whelks, chitons, periwinkles and bleeding teeth up to 31 December 2004. Let me say that that is a position that I could support and a provision that I wish had been retained in the Bill which is now going to be amended at committee stage.

Madam Speaker, I grew up here catching all of these types of marine life—lobster, whelks, conchs, fish—and I gather from speaking with the Director of Environment that they do not have data to substantiate what appears to be anecdotal evidence of decline in the numbers of whelks. Unless the whelks have gone somewhere else and are hiding, I know, like most other people that whelks are not generally available in places that they were even 10 years ago. You will not find any whelks on the Ironshore.

I heard the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac say that they are still in abundance in his constituency. That is certainly not the case in Grand Cayman.

While I have some constituents who will be most unhappy with me taking the position, there should be a complete ban on the taking of whelks for a period of years. That is my considered position. There is far too little known about the reproductive lives of these marine creatures and the actual numbers in this jurisdiction for us to accept the perception that the numbers are decreasing for us not to take what some may consider the drastic step of banning the taking of whelks altogether. I do wish that that provision had remained. The same issues are relevant to lobsters. I do believe that we should ban the catching of lobster for a number of years to permit the population to recover, but, having said all of that I hasten to add to use the language of the Minister for Tourism 'something is better than nothing'. I certainly will give those aspects of the Bill, which I believe contained the proposals of the Department of the Environment, my support even though I believe that the Government should have continued on the course set out in the Bill circulated yesterday.

Madam Speaker, the one aspect of the Bill circulated yesterday with which I did have some disagreement with was in relation to the suggested reduction in the number of conchs that could be taken in the course of one day. The current limit is 20 per boat or 15 per person, and the proposed reduction is 5 per person or 10 per boat. I believe that the reduction limit to 5 per person is too low. My concern about that is that if the legislation is unduly restrictive to a point where even the most law-abiding persons may feel that they are being hard done by, it is going to become next to impossible to enforce those provisions. It is very difficult, Madam Speaker, to accept that you are only entitled (because most people would not go to catch conch everyday or two or three days a week they might go out) over the course of the weekend to get enough for dinner. Unless you got five very big conchs and you had a small family five conchs would be too little to provide a good meal. My suggestion is that the number per person should be in the range of 8 to 10 per person.

I certainly supported the complete ban on the use of spear guns and, again, I wish that that was a provision that was going to be retained in the Bill to be passed.

The provision banning the feeding of sharks is another one which I am happy to support.

I endorse the remarks made by the First Elected Member for George Town in relation to the catching of groupers and I will not rehearse what he said, but I believe that his suggestion that there should be a catch limit in relation to the number of groupers which may be taken from the spawning areas is an eminently sensible one. I hope those who hold the reins of power in this honourable House will not simply discard this one on the basis that it was suggested by the First Elected Member for George Town.

There is one other aspect which I find illogical and troubling in relation to The Marine Conservation directives—

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION

The Speaker: Honourable Member before you embark thereon, we have now reached the hour of 4.30. I should wish to call on the Leader of Government Business to move the appropriate Motion for the suspension of Standing Order 10(2).

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I move to suspend Standing Order 10(2) in order to complete the Business this afternoon.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 10(2) be suspended to allow the Honourable House to continue its Business until completion this afternoon. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House will continue until the completion of its Business this afternoon.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW THE BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE TO BE CONCLUDED.

The Speaker: Please continue Second Elected Member for George Town. Thank you.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I was speaking to the Marine Conservation (Amendment) Fish-pots Directives 2001 which were attached to the White Paper which was circulated and which the Honourable Minister of Tourism has indicated have been passed by Executive Council, subject to whatever consequential changes that are necessary as a result of amendments to the Bill.

The First Elected Member for George Town referred to directive 21 which deals with the revocation of licences to use a fish-pot. Again I will not repeat his arguments, but if the Honourable Minister of Tourism, in particular, who has carriage of this Bill, would refer to Directive 21(1) (c), "The Board may revoke a licence under this part if it appears to the Board that the licence holder is convicted of any offence involving violence or the threat of violence." Madam Speaker, if this licence was licence to use a spear gun I could understand why someone convicted of violence of threatening violence should not be permitted to hold such a licence. However, from my experience it would be quite difficult to use a fish-pot as a weapon. So I do not follow the reasoning in including a ground for revoking a fish-pot licence, based on the fact that the licence holder has been convicted of an offence involving violence or threatening violence. Perhaps in his wind-up or if some of the UDP Members on that side rise to speak, an explanation could be offered.

Those are my comments on The Marine Conservation Bill, 2002. I give the Bill my support. It is critical to the long-term survival of these Islands as we know them, and notwithstanding the fact that I too wish that the measures had gone further, I am much happier with half a loaf of bread than with none at all.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak? Last call— does any other Member wish to speak? If not . . . The Third Elected Member for the District of West Bay.

Capt. A. Eugene Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to support this Bill on the amendments. Being involved in water sports and the charter business all of my adult life, I can truly support these conservation measures. I remember as a boy, there was an abundance of conch, lobster and fish. Even before the days of the spear guns, masks and snorkels, it did not take any time at all to get any amount of seafood you wanted.

By 1986, because of over-fishing and no regard for conservation, the Conservation Law was brought into place in Grand Cayman. When it was being introduced, I did not support it. However, after seeing how well it has worked for us I certainly support it one hundred and ten percent and I will do everything within my power to improve and increase the conservation of our marine life.

I know the First Elected Member for George Town mentioned the size of the fish-pots. That we recognised as a typo-error. We do realise that is not the normal size of the Caymanian fish-pot and when the recommendations were made, it took into account the traditional Caymanian fish-pot which did not include the S-pot as we know with two funnels; it included just the Caymanian fish-pot with one funnel.

As far as the spear guns, we made those amendments because there have been some wanton destruction of fish by spear guns and we have made amendments to correct that problem. However, there are some responsible people who have spear guns that use them occasionally and we did not feel like disenfranchising the responsible people for the irresponsible people. With the amendments we have made to the spear gun clarification and the proposed changes in the regulations we will be able to police that in a fairly responsible way in order to help preserve our marine life.

Madam Speaker, that amount of lobster (as amended) compares to a reasonable amount compared to when the Law was introduced in 1986. Since that time there was a noticeable increase in the amount of lobster that have come back to the North Sound or around the Island. Before the Law was introduced you would have to swim long and far to find a meal of lobster or conch. Since that has been introduced there are quite a lot of them in the marine park areas where we cannot fish. So, to improve the amounts outside the marine park we thought it was necessary to reduce it some more.

The season we have opened has proven that there are no lobster with eggs at that time and it is also during the rough weather months of the year. Therefore, nature will help take care of protecting lobster since there are many days within those months that nobody can get out there or can find lobsters, even if they can get out there. We felt that that was a reasonable compromise.

Madam Speaker, we found that for a few years the conchs were coming back quite well. In fact, they are doing exceptionally well within the marine park. However, we felt that we needed to restrict the limit some more in order that the population may be replenished in a shorter period of time. At the same time we felt the amount of five was a reasonable amount. If a guy just wanted to go out and fish and not have them for a meal, five was fine if he was going fishing alone. If a guy was going out for a meal of conch and he took his child or a relative with him then the law would allow for 10. Ten conchs would allow any reasonable person or any average size family a decent meal. So, we made those recommendations after considerable consultation amongst ourselves.

It has to be remembered that although it is not possible for us to please everybody we have to do what is best or what we feel is best for the country and for the marine environment. We are so heavily dependent upon that because we are a tourism destination and we have to do whatever is necessary to protect our environment.

There was a reasonable argument that the whelk population could possibly withstand the reduction from five gallons to two and a half gallons with the same closed season as the conchs have. That is why we introduced it. However, these populations will be assessed regularly and if we find that more restrictions need to be brought in place, we will do it.

While we have to give every consideration to the marine life around us, we also cannot forget the people who have traditionally fished all their lives, so we had to make some concessions in the way of our limits. Here again, Madam Speaker, I support this Bill with the recommendation as is presented.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Member. Does any other Member wish to speak?

The Elected Member for the district of East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am sure everybody will agree that debate would not close without me having something to say. Before I go into my debate (which I trust will be short), let me start by saying that I understand the objectives here.

I also understand the importance of the marine life in this country, particularly, the two roles that I would like to highlight—tourism and heritage. It is an integral part of the tourism product but it is also an integral part of the maritime history of this country. While I understand that the heritage must be maintained, I also understand that we have to strike a balance to be able to maintain our heritage so that generations coming behind us can understand and enjoy the experiences that we have had in our lives.

The marine life also plays an attracting role in tourism—one of the pillars of our economy. However, I think that it is also incumbent upon us to ensure that we do not make laws to the point where we stifle our people to feel like their lives are being truncated.

Madam Speaker, I support the control of taking marine life. I think I have been one of the biggest advocates of that. When the Marine Conservation Law came into effect many years ago (in the mid '80s) I supported it then. I was a little reluctant because of the privileges that I had enjoyed as a teenager and a young man. I agree, I contributed to the reason for bringing the Marine Conservation Law—like we all did, I believe. At that time I could not really applaud Sir Vassel, but in years to come I did. I would like to say once more that I believe that the Marine Conservation Law was one of the best pieces of legislation ever passed in this honourable House in modern times.

As years progressed after the passage of that Law I specifically saw the need for enforcement. For instance, the Law allowed 15 conchs per person or 20 per boat whichever was less, and I saw the abuse of the Law. I saw many people taking more but there was no enforcement and it is no different today. I believe today that behaviour continues to exist. It may not be to the extent that it was 12 years ago, but certainly the behaviour continues. I have maintained that we have to enforce the Law.

We could stand in here until Kingdom come and make laws but, like the Minister of Tourism said, people are going to break these laws. We cannot legislate morals. We make laws but we have to enforce the laws. We have been woefully lacking over the years in the area of enforcement. In the last six months, or thereabout, I have seen a greater presence of enforcement officers particularly in East End, but it is not enough.

In my Throne Speech debate earlier last year I called for increased enforcement within the marine section. Madam Speaker, like I said earlier, there has been an increase but it is not good enough. I have called for enforcement officers to be stationed in each district, particularly the districts that have more to lose, that is, East End, North Side, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I recognise it means more civil servants, like the Minister of Community Services would say, but I think it would be to the benefit of this country to ensure the preservation of the marine life.

I think it is money well spent when we increase enforcement. I would have liked to have possibly seen in the last Budget (or maybe in the not-too-distant future) a plan for total and comprehensive enforcement of the laws and, in particular, this Law, that is, the Marine Conservation Law.

When I received the White Paper (which was circulated mid 2001) I too was a little confused with some of the ways that it was set out. Since then (yesterday) we received the Bill and today amendments to that Bill. I would like to speak on some of the areas of the Bill that I believe need attention.

I start with the area on the spear gun. I note that the definition of spear gun includes a mechanical spear gun, Hawaiian sling, pole spear and harpoon, rod, or other device which may be used to take marine life by spearing it. An amendment to section 14 of the Law prohibits anyone taking marine life using all those things, without a licence issued by the Board. As it is so broad and encompassing, I wonder if we will now need to get a licence for a striker. I trust not, because further on in the Law we are allowing the populace to take five conchs per person or 10 per boat and there are many fishermen in Grand Cayman (I dare say, Madam Speaker, in your constituency) and also on West Bay, who still use strikers. I trust that that is not the case. I trust that the marine officer does not pick up someone like Mrs. Stanford Rankin in East End for striking up 10 conchs without a licence. I trust that they do not approach people like Nelson Christian—

The Speaker: Honourable Member I would ask you if you would refrain from using the names of persons in your constituency or otherwise as it may imply that they have a tendency to contravene the Law.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Madam Speaker, I will just say then that there are fishermen, some of whom depend on fishing as a livelihood, who have no intention of contravening the Law but, certainly, would be using strikers to strike up.

By virtue of the intention of the Law, we would have a law-abiding citizen being prosecuted for something that he has done all his life. Now that is going to be tough because I am going to defend those gentlemen. I know it is not the intention of the Government to put good law-abiding citizens in jail, and, in particular, my people from East End. I know that they will look at that and get that clarified at the first opportunity. Maybe it can be brought in the committee stage to change that, so we have it properly clarified. These gentlemen do not dive for conch and they still use their water glass and strikers to take conchs. That is not to say Madam Speaker, that I do not welcome the amendment because, again, I am going to tie enforcement into this.

The amendment to section 14 of the principal Law says, "...any person who has a spear gun in his possession in the Islands or take any marine life with the aid of a spear gun in Cayman water or has in his possession any marine life taken from the Cayman waters with the aid of a spear gun is guilty of an offence unless licensed by the Board, who may in granting such licence make such conditions as to possession and use as it may think fit." I welcome that but I just need the clarification on whether strikers are included.

The reason I welcome it most of all is that there are many occasions when I have been down at the docks in George Town and I have seen people selling fish from the docks with holes in them and it is not the allowed amount. It is much more. It was neither striker nor dynamite doing that. We need to stop the abuse of the spear guns. They go out and they strike.

The other thing I welcome in this amendment is the fact that they cannot catch anything less than eight inches. I have seen them with fish with holes in them that the holes from spear guns are bigger than the fish. That is ridiculous and that is what is taking and destroying our marine life and there is no enforcement. I welcome the teeth being put in the Law and for people to be prosecuted. They have to be prosecuted!

Moving on to the whelks, again, I do not have a real big problem with controlling the taking of whelks. I thought maybe we would have said the five-gallon, but so be it. What I have a problem with is subsection (9)(a)(b) which says, "...has in his possession more than two and one half pounds of whelks which are processed and which were taken from Cayman waters." Now, Madam Speaker, what that says to me is even if a person has it in his refrigerator and he went two days in the last two weeks and has five pounds he is committing an offence. What we are saying then is that every time you take the whelks you have to cook them before the police get to your house. I would suspect that the two and a half pounds is related to the two and one half gallons of whelks.

Then it is estimated that that would be the processed weight but we cannot do that if we are allowed to take two and a half pounds. I would like to think that we cannot tell anyone that they cannot keep the two and a half pounds until they go another time, which may be the next day and get another two and half pounds. We cannot do that.

I am just trying to show the other problem we have so that the Government can think about it and maybe make some changes to it at committee stage. "Any person in any one day purchases or receives more than two and one half gallons of whelks in the shell taken from the Cayman waters or more than two and one half pounds of processed whelks is guilty of an offence." Madam Speaker, I am sure there is more than one person who catches whelks and sells to a restaurant. Let us talk about Heritage Week when the real food is whelks and conchs and they store it for a few months. Can we really say that those individuals bought 10 pounds of conch in a day and bought them from one person? They also have them in their possession and it is an offence?

Madam Speaker, I am only bringing it out to show that there are some flaws that need to be addressed, because, in effect, the people would be contravening the Law. Maybe it can be explained away but I doubt it, because of the way it is worded which says that 'if it is in the person's possession'. More than one person can sell two and a half pounds. It did not say that only one person in this country could sell two and a half pounds in one day to the same individual. It could be many people who sell to that individual and they have it in their possession. I am sure the Government will look at that and assist and explain to the draft people to get that straightened out for us. Maybe my interpretation of it is wrong but that is the way I see it.

Madam Speaker, another area that I would like to touch on is that of the fish-pots. Section 9A (1) which says, "...any person who by the use of a fish-pot takes from Cayman waters any Nassau grouper which is less than one foot in length during the months of April to October inclusive is guilty of an offence." We are trying to control and save the grouper population. So why are we saying only April to October? I understand that in the year there is a ban on the grouper that will suffice because you still cannot catch it throughout that whole year. What happens the year that it is opened? How are we going to deal with that? No grouper under 1 foot should be caught whether it be by line or not! It should be less than 8 inches to prevent people from catching the groupers under 1 foot. No grouper less than 12 inches should be caught period! There are too many openings that will allow people to think that they can catch them when the grouper season is opened and keep them, whether it is by fish-pot or by line.

Madam Speaker, I know there are areas, particularly in the Caribbean and around Florida, where they are trying to again preserve the marine life and they have banned certain size of fish and the likes and I welcome that too. Now, it is going to be a little difficult for me to go out with my son to catch the grunts but we will just have to chuck them back in anyway, unless they are eight inches and that is fine by me. He will just have to put them back in and try and catch a grouper over 1 foot. There are not many Caymanians who are going to keep these little small fish except those who use the spear gun and will not work.

I have noticed on more than one occasion not only the Caymanians (because there are not many Caymanians who are going to keep the small fish) but that there are residents, foreign nationals, who go out there and the only thing they do not take back home is the Caribbean Sea. Those people have to stop because they are the biggest culprits in depleting our marine life. I want to see the policemen take up persons that are walking along the road, with the little angel fish and the squirrels and the doctor fish, et cetera, on strings. They use Clorox to flush them out from under the rocks and they use it to get the lobsters too.

When the Minister for Tourism says that he had to compromise he can be comforted that a lot of this is done well. We are going to have some problems with the groupers but at least we will not see the small fish slung across people's backs walking down the street. I trust that we will no longer see speared fish for sale.

The other area is that of sharks. During the last year I have taken my licks for this shark thing and rightly so. But I do not know who else in this honourable House have received the same. I have consulted with the Minister on a number of occasions on this particular thing and he has done his best to try and get it in place. So much so that, particularly in my constituency, there was an operation that was given permission to do 'scientific research' on sharks. It was alleged that the feeding of sharks was being done for gain. I cannot say that because I did not go on any of those dives. I do not dive but I can tell you that from here on it will be clear cut that no one will feed any sharks in this country lawfully.

During last year we heard so many times of shark attacks (provoked or unprovoked regardless of how they came) within the Caribbean and in neighbouring USA, namely Florida and the Carolinas. Madam Speaker, I am sure this country was living in fear of such happening in this country. We should. We talk about tourism. If one tourist in this country is bitten by a shark, that is the end of our tourism. We will not have to worry about 11 September. I welcome the total ban of shark feeding because as an alleged result of the scientific research that was being carried on in East End, there are many sharks within the Sound. I have no scientific proof of what brought them there. I have tried to research it and I understand that the breeding time for the sharks is during the summer and they usually come into the shallows. Nobody can say that it was not a contributing factor.

I have heard from many fishermen in East End that say they are now seeing a proliferation of sharks within the Sound. I am sure they will welcome the ban on shark feeding. We cannot stop the sharks from coming in but we can stop the people from feeding them. We know what kind of havoc a shark can do to a fisherman, especially if he is pulling up his meal and the shark takes it away. I welcome the ban on feeding sharks and I thank the Minister for so doing.

Madam Speaker, I hope that I will not be called for repetition but on those same amendments to the directives and regulations that the previous speakers mentioned, I too have a little problem with two of the areas that was mentioned and that is on the size of a fish-pot. I hear the Third Elected Member for West Bay saying that "we (I took that to mean the UDP) have recognised that it may have been a mistake in the size of the fish-pot" and it will be changed. I think the Director of Environment is probably indicating that that may be true. Just to say that I have never heard of a fish-pot 2 feet wide. I have thrown as many of them over the side as anybody else in this honourable House. I would like to suggest there can be a minimum and a maximum size, where the maximum should be 4x4x2 or 3 but we cannot go down to 2 feet wide. The smallest I have seen them is 3 feet wide. So, I just make that suggestion to the Government.

The other area in the regulations that I really have some difficulty understanding is how can a licence for a fish-pot be revoked on the basis that the licence holder is convicted of an offence involving violence or threatening violence? I really do not understand the connection between violence and a fish-pot. I am not advocating violence. If it was a spear gun yes, because that is a dangerous weapon but not a fish-pot. You cannot go down the street with a fish-pot on your head to your next door neighbour to threaten him with it. So, maybe the Government can look at that because that does not ring true to what I know a fish-pot is used for.

I would ask the Government to look also at the section concerning the trap door of the fish-pot when it says, "...it must be hitched at the bottom and secured only by corrosive wire or decomposable cord." I do not know if decomposable cord is going to operate too well. I understand the corrodible wire. I suspect that is in the event that the fish-pot gets lost and we know the fish is going to get out. However, I do not know if decomposable cord is going to work well because of the fish hitting against it and within a week it probably breaks down.

The other area that I would like to be looked at is under the regulations, the application to use a fish-pot in the Cayman waters. On the one hand we say only Caymanians can get the licence to use the fish-pot, but then we are asking them the number of years they have been fishing with pots. I do not see any relationship in that. I really do not. Then it asks, 'Do you own a fish-pot?' I guess that is why we are applying for the licence. I am sure the answer to, 'What types of fish are you are going to catch with the fish-pot?' will be the types that actually go into the pot, so I am not sure how that is expected to be answered. I am only saying this, because it is going to appear cumbersome to the applicant when asked these questions. For example, 'Where do you most frequently set your fish-pot?' If we are trying to find out the area and prevent people from fishing in that area—which is subject to restrictions in the marine parks and in the spawning area, et cetera—the only answer I could give to that is the sea. I am saying it should be considered if the questions are too tedious for the applicant, not to malign anyone or embarrass anyone, but only for them to look into it.

The other area is that of lobster. I do not believe that there should be a total ban on lobsters. I believe that there are many lobsters available out there. Again, it comes back to the abuse. We hear of people catching a hundred lobsters in one day. Lobster season opens and at 12 o'clock that night at the stroke of the clock, the boats hit the water! Why is it that we cannot pay the enforcement officers' overtime so that at the stroke of 11 o'clock they too are in the water? They are destroying us because they want to go out there and get all these lobsters and then the other thing is these restaurants. We have to start prosecuting them too. If they buy it they should go face the judge. We need enforcement because we could come in here and we could totally ban all taking of all marine life but it would not work unless we have the proper enforcement.

I take note that the closed season for lobster has been changed. Well, it has been extended to include November when most of the lobsters have eggs. I have been told that by elders in the district of East End and I recognised a long time ago that the season was not in the right time of the year. From their knowledge, lobsters spawn later on in the year and I am glad to see that the Director (whom I assume has sponsored this Bill) and the Minister, have taken that into account and now hopefully we will not have too many lobsters taken with eggs.

I see where the chitons, periwinkles or bleeding teeth are banned until 31 December 2004. Madam Speaker, Caymanians do not eat them. We do not eat these. We want a permanent ban on them forever and ever and amen. It is whelks, conchs, lobsters and fish that we eat. We do not eat those little periwinkles and anyone who is eating them it means that they are not buying anything from the stores, because they are easily retrieved. Let us stop talking about 2004 and get it done forever.

In the Bill there was a provision for preventing boats over 20 feet from going into the designated areas for groupers during the spawning time. That one was going to create some serious nightmares for the people of East End. I understand the rationale because I have heard before that the engines are disturbing the spawning and running the groupers and that maybe true. I have no scientific data to support that and I do not think anybody else would have it. I recall as a youth when there were catboats (no engines) and we were bringing a hundred and twenty groupers per boat per day. It was pure brawn then, pulling or selling.

As time progressed the catch declined. I do not know what caused that depletion; it may have been the boats running the fish. I do not know and I will attest to any particular thing. I would say that not all boats over 20 feet have the same types of engines because the boats under 20 feet would have 60 horsepower and there are many boats in East End over 20 feet, particularly the canoes. A lot of the fishermen in East End use the (Jamaican) canoes and they do not have any bigger engines, but they would not be allowed to fish for groupers. So, I see that that has been repealed and I welcome that.

I also agree with the First Elected Member for George Town, for a preference of a limit on groupers, but I guess the Minister for Tourism had to compromise so I will have to compromise.

Madam Speaker, I agree with the First Elected Member for George Town that if we close it down one year and open it the next, we are going to see some serious abuse of it. I believe a limit per day, per year, per season, whatever the case may be, would come across more palatable with the people who fish for groupers. However, that is also too difficult to enforce. It is easier to enforce by just saying that it is banned and all the enforcement officer has to do is check the boats as they come in. He will not need a boat to do that but just to drive around in the car on land and anybody with a grouper during that year must prove that he got it elsewhere. Then again, he should not have to prove it because we are saying that it is only in the spawning area that you cannot fish.

There are many areas in East End where I know you can catch groupers other than the Coxson groupers on the banks. It is going to be extremely difficult to enforce.

The amendment reads: "with effect from 1 January 2003 to 31 December 2003 and every other year thereafter any person who by any means takes from a designated grouper spawning area or receives or has in his possession any Nassau grouper which has been taken from such an area is guilty of an offence." I trust that the Government understands that that area is going to have to be extremely big and that there are other areas in which the groupers can be caught. Groupers like any other fish have fins and they do not stay in the spawning area. When they are caught outside that designated area you cannot prove otherwise that they were caught inside there. Therefore, it is not enforceable. This says, Madam Speaker, 'only in the spawning area' and I am only saying this to say that when we see in the year 1 January 2003 people coming in with groupers we cannot immediately assume came from the spawning areas.

I do not know how it can be proven because you cannot say use the colour of that grouper, the depth that he was caught at to prove anything as we can find the same depth elsewhere. The fish can move. It would be interesting for the Minister in his reply to let us know what criteria is going to be used to determine where that fish was caught. It comes back to the same thing. During that year especially during the spawning time, enforcement and regular patrols of the spawning area is necessary. The boats do not just go in and have one down, they are there for a few hours so you will find them in that area.

As I said, the amendments are a far cry from what the Bill and the White Paper dealt with and proposed. While I would like to have seen it a little different I do understand, and all of us will have to compromise and explain the objective to our people. All of us in this country will have to try and live with it because of the intent of Law. I grew up in the district of East End where it was plentiful. I have seen it diminished significantly over many years. In those days, Madam Speaker, lobster and conch were considered bait. You had to go far to sell conchs in those days. You do not need to now. I too intend to spend many years in this country; to be buried here and would like to eat some of that which I enjoyed as a youngster. I would also like to pass some of that on to my children.

Another area which I overlooked is section 11 of the Bill which talks about the principal Law as amended in section 16, by renumbering the section. In (b) it says, 'by inserting after paragraph (b) the following new paragraph: - (f) any fish less than 8 inches in length other than the following:

- (i) goggle eye fish (Selar crumenophthalmus);
- (ii) herring fish (Clupeidae);
- (iii) anchovy fish (Engraulidae);
- (iv) silverside fish (Atherinidae);

and (C) by inserting the following new subsection (2) Any person who takes –

- (a) any jew fish (Epinephelus itajara); and
- (b) any of the following ornamental fish –
  - (i) tilefish (Malacanthus plumieri);
  - (ii) filefish (Monacanthidae);
  - (iii) angelfish (Pomacanthidae), is guilty of an offence."

Madam Speaker, I see that goggle eye, herring fish, anchovy fish, and silverside fish are exempt from the offences. I do not know if sprats are included. Maybe we can do an amendment to include it, as we have in other areas used the local terms for these things, because I really did not know we have anchovies here. I knew we had herrings and I do not know silverside fish. Well, maybe it can be said in here what it is because I have caught more fries than most of us and did not know their names. I did not know anchovies were sprats either. I thought anchovies were used on pizza!

I see the indication that Government will try to address that so that the local people will understand it and I welcome that also.

I would like to thank the Minister for listening to me and I trust that he will reply to some of the things that I have mentioned. I trust that the Minister has learned something from this whole exercise too as I have and that in his reply he will try to address some of the issues that I have raised. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you. Is there any other Member who wishes to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak? Last call—does any other Member wish to speak? If not, I will call on the Mover if he wishes to exercise his right of reply.

The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I have listened to the Opposition and have summed up their contribution in this way:

They believe this to be an emotive issue and seek to get as much mileage out of it as possible. As I said, I find that much of what they raised were the changes they already knew were being made. We could have been out of here a long time. The minutia raised by them could have been left unsaid.

The First Elected Member for George Town raised the matter of the error in the fish-pots in section 20 in the directives, as we said was a drafting error which was found out during the examination in various meetings and this has been changed a month ago. I listened to that same Member talk about the groupers. This matter of an alternate year for fishing of groupers which he made much ado and was 'parroted' by the other two Members in the Opposition. I would like to say that this was in the White Paper from the beginning but more than the White Paper was prepared for Executive Council and the First Member for George Town was a part of Executive Council that agreed to publish it. I should say to the other two Members . . . if the First Member for George Town knew you can believe that they knew about it.

[Inaudible comment]

Well, if you did not agree with him on that that must be the only thing you did not agree to.

However, they would like to beat up on the UDP and somehow make people believe that this was not given much attention. I would like to say to them that there was no outcry from the public on this issue. There has been none. It was in the White Paper which was out from, I think May, and we talked about in public meetings and I would believe that the only Member for the Opposition who took time to have a meeting was the Member for East End. I would suspect that he too would have brought that to the attention of his constituents.

[Inaudible comment]

Madam Speaker, I am hearing them say we have to compromise. But just now when I mentioned compromise, it was not much of a compromise—it was the UDP that was opposing me, according to the Second Member for George Town. They had all afternoon—

[Inaudible comment]

I would ask the Member for East End to give me a break. Rest me!

We will amend and provide an amount in the year where grouper fishing is allowed. We will make that committee stage amendment. However, what I am saying to the Opposition, is that they just cannot get up here and make the world believe that something is so when it is not so. The Second Member for George Town went on at length to talk about this compromise that I mentioned. They also mentioned that I was not at the meeting which is true. I was not at the meeting all the time. I had another meeting going on in the Legislative Assembly and the truth is we have had meetings between meetings here in the Chamber on various matters and meetings with various people, to the extent that we did not have space to meet. So, I was not able to be at that meeting all the time. We started yesterday and went on today as well. However, I would like say that my Permanent Secretary, the Director of Environment and the Senior Assistant Secretary in the Ministry were there and they are still here this afternoon. Therefore, I have been kept up-to-date on all that has happened.

Madam Speaker, they did not want a complete ban on lobster and whelks so they cannot come and say one thing inside there and come out here and say another thing. The truth is the two of them attended the meeting, one wanted one thing sometimes and the other one wanted something else another time. They wanted catch limits in some instances and two Members on this side of the House were in agreement on some things. So, it does not matter if they come blaming the UDP as he did. As I said, they did not have their show together either. The Member for East End was the most vocal at times and they had different positions at different times. Sometimes there was agreement on both sides, other times it was not. So, why try to make anyone believe that the amendments are due to the UDP?

There were people on both sides who did not want a ban on spear guns. Madam Speaker, the same Member for George Town spoke about the Bill not being gazetted which means the Bill would have been in the Green Bill form and he usually realises that. However, this is not the only Government which has had to pass legislation this way and certainly would not be the last.

[Inaudible comment]

You would not know. Yes, well, they change with the wind.

Madam Speaker, what that really means is that the Green Bill is not printed and, for instance, while some changes might have been made to a Bill, there is no difference between the Green Bill and the White Bill, unless there are significant changes. That is the only difference between the Green Bill and the White Bill. I can say that if they had another three years they still would not agree or would find something to complain about. Yet they would not have one meeting to talk about the amendments to the people of this country.

[Inaudible comment]

You are not the . . . you are the Member for East End.

Instead of the Member for George Town grumbling in his seat he should have informed the public a long time ago as he had the opportunity but, he chose to take that time—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Please state your point of order.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: The Minister is misleading the House. The Bill was presented yesterday morning. Did he want to adjourn the Legislative Assembly so I could have held a meeting to discuss the proposed amendments? He is misleading the House by saying that I could have held a meeting. I could not.

The Speaker: Honourable Leader of Government Business, did you actually say that the Bill was presented or did you say the White Paper?

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I said they could have had a meeting to inform the public because that is what his colleague, the Member for East End did, and what we did. I think the Bodden Town Members should have their meeting on matters before the House. So, it was not the Bill I mentioned. I said that they should have had a meeting to inform the public and the White Paper had been public long enough for them to have a meeting. If I said a 'Bill' at that point, Madam Speaker, then I will withdraw that. I do not think I did.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Leader.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: I certainly said they should have had a meeting and I say that again. However, instead of having a meeting on the marine environment, he had a meeting on McKeever Bush!

Madam Speaker, that Member has to understand that . . .

Do you know what? I will just leave him alone because the truth is the three of them have talked here this afternoon mostly to hear themselves talk.

He also raised a matter to criticize us by saying that we should not give five conchs per person and that there should be 10 conchs per person. I wonder how many people did he want to have 10 conchs? Why does he want to increase the number of conchs per person but would put a complete ban on whelks?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Speaker—

The Speaker: Please state your point or order.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: That again is misleading. The current legislation provides for 15 per person and 20 per boat. I proposed 10. How is that an increase? It is an increase over what is proposed in the current Bill.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: That is what I was saying, Madam Speaker. That is all I am saying! Why does he want to increase the amendment from five conchs per person but put a complete ban on whelks? When he talks about not being political, that is his modus operandi at all times! Why would he say that? Is it because there are not too many whelks to get in George Town and they are available in other districts so he is not concerned about the other districts? Playing politics, Madam Speaker!

The point raised by the same Member, that the limit for catching conchs was too low and that provisions are unduly restrictive, it should be pointed out that the previous catch limit was set in 1978 (23 years ago). The catch limit should have been reduced years ago and that is why the reduction is so drastic and necessary today.

I would just like to refer to the point raised by the First Elected Member for George Town about the provisions in the fish-pot directives. The Member pointed out that the decisions of Board are binding. The reality is that in the Law there are provisions for persons to appeal decisions of the Board, to the Governor in Council. So the decisions of the Board in this respect can be appealed.

In regard to enforcement, all of us would like to see an improvement, but if I had asked for five more enforcement officers those same Members would have criticised me for raising the number of civil servants. I know that you cannot please them. I realise that. I will do what I believe is in the best interest of the country. I can only say that I believe, given the circumstances, that the enforcement officers are doing the best they can. That is not to say there is no improvement because there is improvement to be made. However, if you had enforcement officers all over Grand Cayman, Little Cayman and Cayman Brac, some people would still break the law and get away with it.

If it was only the old time Caymanian fishermen (like the Member for East End talked about), the few that we have left, then we would not have to worry. As I said, there was so much minutia raised that I do not think I should take the time of the House to deal with those matters.

In regards to the application, which the Member for East End seems to have a field day with and which left his colleagues cackling like a Christmas party. We have to bear in mind that the Department is one which operates on information. They must have information on what is going on in the marine environment and so it is best that they know who is doing what and where. So, those applications should ask those kinds of questions. At least, they will have some sort of information at hand.

These amendments were discussed from yesterday. I have been to and fro from yesterday, and we have taken a lot of time to get to this point and I do not think that I or the Department would be able to please everybody. However, we have to make an attempt to do something about what is a serious depletion in certain areas and types of fish in this country. When you look at the types of fish that are caught, most are ornamental fish. Nobody should make much of any attempt to stop this, whether it is by striker or whether it is by fish-pot or some sort of handmade spear gun.

I am going to lay them [photographs] on the Table, Madam Speaker, so Members can look at them.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, in many instances we are late in what we are trying to accomplish but I believe that it is in the best interest of the country. We might not have it all right the way that I want it or other Members would want it but we have to put some of these things in place. So, I want to thank all persons who were involved in this exercise, especially over the past two days. As I said, we have been working on this from May last year and the Department has probably been working on this for many years before this.

I would like to thank the Director who has worked very hard on these issues. I would like to thank the Senior Assistant Secretary and the Permanent Secretary. I would like to also thank Ms. Cheryl Neblet who was the draft person on this Bill and in fact all other persons.

The Opposition has made some good points on this matter and if they were genuine at all times it would be all right. So, Madam Speaker, I ask all Members to support the Bill.

[Inaudible comment]

I am glad to hear them say they are going to vote for it. They know what is in the best interest of the country and I wish they would do that at all times instead of playing the politics that they do.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill shortly entitled The Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001 be given a second reading. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001 has been duly read a second time.

The House will now go into committee.

AGREED: THE MARINE CONSERVATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE AT 6.25

COMMITTEE ON BILL

The Chairman: Please be seated. The House is now in Committee. With the leave of the House may I assume that as usual we would authorise the Honourable Second Official Member to correct minor printing errors and such like in these Bills?

Would the Clerk please state the Bill and read its clauses?

THE MARINE CONSERVATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001

The Clerk: The Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001.

|          |                                                                                    |
|----------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Clause 1 | Short title.                                                                       |
| Clause 2 | Amendment of section 2 of The Marine Conservation Law (1995 Revision) Definitions. |

The Chairman: If there is no debate, I will put the question that clause 1 stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clause 1 stands part of the Bill.

The Clerk: Clause 2. Amendment of section 2 of The Marine Conservation Law (1995 Revision) Definitions.

The Chairman: Honourable Leader I believe that there is an amendment to Clause 2 of the Bill.

Ms. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairman, if I could just ask a question before the Honourable Minister does his spear gun definition.

The Chairman: Certainly.

Ms. Edna M. Moyle: When we look at the Marine Conservation directives it says 1998 Revision. I do not know whether or not there is a new one since that. The definition of spear gun means, "any device whereby a harpoon, rod, spear or other projectile may be impelled through water." I think this definition would be slightly different.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Chairman, we intend to repeal that one and there is a consequential amendment to 2 which would take care of that.

The Chairman: Are you then going to move your amendment at this stage?

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Yes.

The Chairman: Member for East End, did you have a question?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: I raised the situation of a striker.

The Chairman: Perhaps if you could wait one moment.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: All right.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Are you ready for me now Madam Chairman?

The Chairman: In a second. There was another question from the Member for East End. I do not know if it is from the same topic or whether you needed a separate response. Is it on the spear gun as well?

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Yes, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: Please proceed then.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: I raised in my debate thereon, the question of the definition of spear gun and particularly other devices and I questioned the striker or spike as we would call it in Cayman.

The Chairman: The Honourable Leader.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Chairman, the Member himself in his debate talked about the destruction he sees in front of the bakery and sometimes at other places. The Director has elaborated that the Department has information that quite a bit of what we see there is done by a striker form spear which is used to strike much of the fish. Now, they are shaking their head, but they have to give the Department what is due as well. I know what you call a traditional Caymanian striker. Cayman's traditional striker has two prongs.

The Chairman: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: Madam Chairwoman, I understand the difficulty the Member for East End has as far as enforcement goes. If we have a Law in place and all we have for evidence is a fish with a hole in it, we may leave a provision or a loophole in the Law. It will allow someone with a striker to be able to strike or spear fish, so that when the enforcement officers go down to the dock and they find some of them with a hole, how will they be able to determine whether that was a spear gun (by some mechanical device) or whether it was a permitted striker? We say it has two prongs but it is very possible that a striker could have one prong as well. When we want it enforced, the enforcement officers will see a fish with a hole in it. I know what a striker is, but I am saying if you have a striker that puts a hole in a fish how do you define what can be termed 'the Caymanian striker' versus anything else that is used to spear the fish?

The Chairman: The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Chairperson. If I could explain what a striker or traditional spike is, it is two metal prongs on a minimum of 15 feet of pole. It is not a peg. It is only used to retrieve conchs and lobsters. You cannot strike a fish with it. It is impossible to strike a fish with a striker unless he is half dead and lying on his side in the water.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank McField: Madam Chairperson, the Member for East End has this attitude that I have never seen the sea and the boat. However, when my grandfather Lemmy was building boats and we were fishing in North Sound, I wonder where he was. A peg is what we call that instrument. We use it to retrieve fish-pots, we use to strike lobsters and if you are good at it and real lucky, you might be able to strike a fish with it. However, normally it is a very difficult task and you have to be extremely skilled to be able to strike a fish with it.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Chairperson, they talk about enforcement but some of these things that they do not want included (if we did not put them in it) would be an enforcement nightmare. Unfortunately, as I said, old time Caymanians would make good use of what they call the striker and I know that some districts call it striker and some call it pegs. One bad apple spoils the rest and we cannot legislate for every small matter on the Law. Unfortunately that is the point.

As I said, we talk about enforcement and not having enough enforcement but if we put in all things or take out some of the things that they have mentioned, it would create a nightmare for enforcement. Some of these matters are to help enforcement.

The Chairman: Member for East End did you have something to debate? If not I will ask for the amendment to be put.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Yes, I have something to debate.

The Chairman: Please proceed.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you. I think the Minister for Community Services is on the right track in understanding what I am talking about. It is difficult to strike a fish with a spike, which in some places in this country is either called a spike or striker. I am familiar with it, like the Minister, in that it does not have any barbs on it and is merely used to get conchs out of deep water and maybe lobsters if they are out from under the rocks. You cannot strike fish with it and maybe he is talking a little different when he said it could retrieve fish-pots. I have never seen those that I am talking about as being capable of doing that. However, maybe we are at cross-purposes and we each have a different interpretation of what it is, but a striker needs to be excluded from the definition of spear gun in my humble submission.

The Chairman: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. Cline A. Glidden, Jr.: I just want to say that as long as we all agree that it is not impossible to strike fish as was first stated, then it is going to have to remain in the Law. Otherwise enforcement is going to be impossible. Once a possibility exists there is no way of going down to try to enforce and to prove that the individual who got the fish did not get it in that manner. We agree that it is not impossible to do.

The Chairman: Member for East End, is it your intention to move a motion in that regard? If not we will move on the motion that we have sought leave for.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Yes, Madam Chairperson, it is my intention to move a motion.

The Chairman: Well, I have received a request for leave from the Leader of Government Business for his motion, so that motion will come first in order so you need to formulate your motion either verbally or written and seek (through the Clerk) for me to give leave, which I will be prepared to do.

Honourable Leader of Government Business, please proceed with the moving of your notice for committee stage amendments.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Chairperson, in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 52(1) and (2) I, the Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment, Development and Commerce, give notice that I intend to move the following committee stage amendments to The Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001. That clause 2 of the Bill be amended by inserting the following definition in its appropriate alphabetical order:

“‘Spear gun’ includes a mechanical spear-gun, an Hawaiian sling, a pole spear, a harpoon, rod, or other device which may be used to take marine life by spearing it.”

The Chairman: The amendment has been duly moved. Does any Member wish to speak further on it? If not, I put the question that the amendment stands part of the clause. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. The amendment stands part of the clause.

AMENDMENT TO CLAUSE 2 PASSED.

The Chairman: I now put the question that the clause as amended stands part of the Bill. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clause 2 as amended stands part of the Bill.

CLAUSE 2 AS AMENDED PASSED.

The Clerk: Clause 3. Repeal of section 6 absolute protection of certain lobsters.

The Chairman: The question is that clause 3 do stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate I put the question that clause 3 stands part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clause 3 stands part of the Bill.

CLAUSE 3 PASSED.

The Clerk: Clause 4. Repeal of section 7 and substitution closed seasons.

The Chairman: Honourable Leader, clause 4. I believe you want to do an amendment.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Chairman, I move that clause 4 of the Bill be amended as follows by repealing section 7(1) and substituting the following:

“(1) Any person who takes from Cayman waters or receives or has in his possession any lobsters taken from Cayman waters during the months of March to November inclusive is guilty of an offence.”

And by renumbering section 7(2), (3) and (4) as section 7(5), (6) and (7) respectively; and inserting the following as 7(2), (3) and (4):

“(2) Any person who takes from Cayman waters or receives or has in his possession any—

- (a) chiton
- (b) periwinkles; or
- (c) bleeding teeth, taken from Cayman waters is guilty of an offence.

“(3) Any person who takes from Cayman waters in any one day more than 3 lobsters is guilty of an offence.

“(4) Any person who permits or causes to be caught from or loaded onto anyone vessel in anyone day—

- (a) more than 3 lobsters for each person on board such vessel; or
- (b) six such lobsters

whichever is the lesser number is guilty of an offence.”

Madam Chairperson I would further move that in this clause we strike out the balance of the words stopping at ‘Cayman waters’ and what we are doing here is banning them completely.

And by repealing section 7(3) (now renumbered as section 7(6)) and substituting the following -

“(6) With effect from 1 January 2003 to 31 December 2003 (and every alternate year thereafter) any person who, by any means, takes from a designated grouper spawning area or receives or has in his possession any Nassau grouper which has been taken from such an area is guilty of an offence [Madam Chairperson we insert the words there] and in the years during which a person is permitted to take Nassau groupers from a designated spawning area, a person who, in anyone day, causes or permits to be loaded onto any vessel in Cayman waters more than 12 groupers is guilty of an offence.”

Madam Chairperson, what I am suggesting is that the Clerk and the Draftsman get together afterwards and put that in typewritten form (as it is in handwritten form right now). Madam Chairperson, if you could continue please.

The Chairman: The amendment has been duly moved. Does any Member wish to speak or debate thereon? If not, I put the question that the amendments stand part of the clause. All those in favour please say Aye. All those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. The amendments stand part of the clause.

AMENDMENTS TO CLAUSE 4 PASSED.

The Chairman: I will now put the question that the clause as amended stands part of the Bill. All those in favour please say Aye. All those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: Clause 4 as amended stands part of the Bill.

CLAUSE 4 AS AMENDED PASSED.

The Clerk:

|          |                                                                                  |
|----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Clause 5 | Repeal of section 8 limit on lobster catch.                                      |
| Clause 6 | Repeal of section 9 and substitution. Restriction on taking and receiving conch. |

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 5 and 6 do stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate I put the question that clauses 5 to 6 stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clauses 5 and 6 stand part of the Bill.

CLAUSES 5 AND 6 PASSED.

The Clerk: Clause 7. Restriction on taking and receiving Nassau groupers.

The Chairman: Honourable Leader, I believe there is an amendment intended for clause 7.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Thank you, Madam Chairperson.

I move that clause 7 of the Bill be repealed and the following substituted which is an “Insertion of new sections—restriction on taking and receiving whelks and Nassau groupers.”

“7. The principal Law is amended by inserting the following new sections after section 9— ‘Restriction on taking and receiving whelks’

“9A. (1) Any person who in any one day –

- (a) takes more than two and one-half gallons , whelks in the shell from Cayman waters; or
- (b) has in his possession more than two and one half pounds of whelks which are processed and which were taken from Cayman waters, is guilty of an offence.

“(2) Any person who, in anyone day, causes or permits to be loaded onto any vessel in Cayman water more than two and one-half gallons of whelks in the shell which were from Cayman waters is guilty of an offence.

“(3) Any person who, in any one day, purchases or receives more than two and one-half gallons of whelks in shell from Cayman waters or more than two and one pounds of processed whelks is guilty of an offence.”

“Restrictions on taking and receiving Nassau groupers.”

“9B. Any person who, by the use of a fish-pot takes from Cayman waters any Nassau grouper which is less than one foot in length during the months of April to October inclusive is guilty of an offence.”

The Chairman: The amendment is duly moved. Is there any debate thereon?

The Elected Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Chairperson. During my debate I suggested that we do not make it a particular period. It should be an offence all the time to take a one-foot length grouper any less than 12 inches and I am wondering if we can address that right now.

The Chairman: The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Now, Madam Chairperson, what this would actually do is to stop any person taking by any means Nassau grouper which is less than one foot in length. I just want to tell them that some of the things that they complained about just earlier is what we are doing now. I am with you but I just want you to know that what you are asking for now you argued against it just now in your debate. Well, I think you are, but anyway, Madam Chairperson, I am happy to agree with them. Any person who by any means takes from Cayman waters any Nassau grouper which is less than one foot in length if guilty of an offence.

The Chairman: The amendment has been moved.

The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you. I just want to say that I supported that proposed amendment in my debate and it was not like I was against that. I proposed that in my debate because I said that we are trying to preserve the groupers and this is one way of doing it. I was the one who proposed it so the Minister may very well have not understood what I said.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: No, Madam Chairperson, I understand quite well what the Member said. What I am saying is that what they are doing now is putting on a further restriction. Just now they were arguing about unduly restricting people. However, I am with them. If they can take the pressure I can.

The Chairman: I will put the question that the amendment stands part of the clause. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. The amendment stands part of the clause.

AMENDMENTS TO CLAUSE 7 PASSED.

The Chairman: I will now put the question that the clause as amended stands part of the Bill. All those in favour please say Aye.

AYES.

The Chairman: Those against, No. The Ayes have it. Clause 7 as amended stands part of the Bill.

CLAUSE 7 AS AMENDED PASSED.

The Clerk: Clause 8. Insertion of new section Designated Spawning Areas.

The Chairman: The question is that clause 8 stands part of the Bill. Is there any debate? If not, those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clause 8 does stand part of the Bill.

CLAUSE 8 PASSED.

The Clerk: Clause 9. Amendment of section 14 Use of spearguns prohibited.

The Chairman: Honourable Leader do you have an amendment for that?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Chairperson. I move that clause 9 of the Bill be deleted and the following substituted –

“9. The principal Law is amended in section 14 by inserting after the word ‘waters’ the words ‘or has in his possession any marine life taken from Cayman waters with the aid of a speargun.’”

The Chairman: The amendment has been moved. Is there any debate? If not, I will put the question that the amendment stands part of the clause. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The amendment stands part of the clause.

AMENDMENT TO CLAUSE 9 PASSED.

The Chairman: I will put the question that clause 9 as amended stands part of the Bill. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES .

The Chairman: Clause 9 as amended stands part of the Bill.

CLAUSE 9 AS AMENDED PASSED.

The Clerk:

|           |                                                                    |

| Clause 11 | Amendment of section 16 restriction on taking certain marine life. |
| Clause 12 | Insertion of new section prohibition on feeding sharks.            |

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 10 to 12 stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate I put the question that the clauses 10 to 12 stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clauses 10 to 12 stand part of the Bill.

CLAUSES 10 THROUGH 11 PASSED.

The Clerk: Clause 13. Transitional provisions use of spear guns.

The Chairman: Honourable Leader, I believe there is an amendment to clause 13.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Madam Chairperson, that clause 13 of the Bill be deleted.

The Chairman: The amendment has been duly moved. Is there any debate?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Chairperson, I would just like to say this is now entitling spear guns to be used but of course to be licensed. The Law was taking away the use of any kind of speargun. What this is doing (as Members wanted) is allowing spear-guns to be licensed but under the Law where they are still prohibited from being bought but only as parts, as I understand that is in the directives to the Marine (Conservation) Law. In the directives that exist, spearguns and parts are now prohibited from being imported.

The Chairman: The Member for East End.

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Chairperson. Am I to understand that the regulations will be changed to allow parts to be brought in for spear guns?

The Chairman: The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I did not hear that question.

The Chairman: Will there be changes in the regulations to allow parts to be brought in for spear guns?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Of course not.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: Madam Chairperson, perhaps we could have some explanation because we understood the Minister—

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Chairperson, what I am saying is that they are prohibited.

The Chairman: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: I understood the Minister as saying that the proposal now will give effect to the continuation of the licensing of spear guns, which would be that parts would be allowed to be imported. If that is not the case then I misunderstood him but that is certainly what we heard on this side.

The Chairman: The Honourable Leader.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Chairperson, I certainly did not say that, so I do not know how he could hear it.

The Chairman: I put the question that clause 13 be deleted. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clause 13 is now hereby deleted.

CLAUSE 13 DELETED.

The Clerk: A Bill to amend The Marine Conservation Law (1995 Revision) to protect lobsters, whelks, Nassau grouper and other marine creatures, to restrict the use of fish-pots and spearguns and for incidental and connected purposes.

The Chairman: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: The Elected Member for East End sought, and I believe obtained, leave to propose an amendment to clause 2 of the Bill as amended.

The Chairman: Honourable Member, when we were actually dealing with clause 2, I think I am correct in saying that I asked if there was any debate and there was no indication so I took it that he did not intend to rectify or do anything more to the clause. So, that is why we moved on to the question for the title.

Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: However, I distinctly heard you say that the Minister had proposed an amendment which would have to go first and that he should prepare his proposed amendment in writing or orally and that has been done. He just has not had an opportunity to bring it.

The Chairman: Honourable Member I do not wish to give the impression that I will not give an opportunity, because if you recall I brought it to his attention that that was an option he had. However, it is my ruling that at the time when that should be done the opportunity was not taken and I will ask Madam Clerk if she could read the title again. I will put the question that the Title to stand part of the Bill.

The Clerk: A Bill for a Law to amend The Marine Conservation Law (1995 Revision) to protect lobsters, whelks, conch and Nassau groupers and other marine creatures, to restrict the use of fish-pots and spearguns and for incidental and connected purposes.

The Chairman: The question is that the Title do stand part of the Bill. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. The Title does stand part of the Bill.

TITLE PASSED.

The Chairman: The question is that the Bill be reported to the House. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. That concludes proceedings in committee stage.

AGREED: BILL TO BE REPORTED TO THE HOUSE.

HOUSE RESUMED AT 7.04 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

REPORT ON BILL

THE MARINE CONSERVATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable Leader of Government Business.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I have to report that The Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001 was considered in Committee and amended.

The Speaker: The Bill has been duly reported to this Honourable House and is now set down for the Third Reading.

Honourable Leader could you move the suspension of Standing Order 47.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 47

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I move the suspension of Standing Order 47 in order to have the Third Reading.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 47 be suspended. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Order had been duly suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 47 SUSPENDED.

THIRD READING

THE MARINE CONSERVATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Environment.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I move the Third Reading of The Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001, and I have great pleasure in doing so.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill shortly entitled The Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001 be given a third reading and passed. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Marine Conservation (Amendment) Bill, 2001 has been duly read a third time and is passed.

AGREED: THE MARINE CONSERVATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 2001, GIVEN A THIRD READING AND PASSED.

The Speaker: Honourable Leader of Government Business, I believe it is your intention to move a motion to allow Reports of Committees to be laid on Table.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 74(4)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, before I move the Motion for the adjournment, I would like to move for the suspension of Standing Order 74(4) so that interim reports may be tabled without the committee meeting to consider the interim reports as these reports were not of anything controversial. The Business Committee agreed to move in this direction.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 74(4) be suspended. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Order 74(4) is hereby suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 74(4) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW REPORTS OF COMMITTEES TO BE LAID ON TABLE OF THE HOUSE WITHOUT BEING CONSIDERED IN COMMITTEE.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, those reports will be on the Order Paper for Monday and I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 am Monday. I would like again to thank everyone involved with this Bill.

Thank you Madam Speaker, the Clerk, staff and the Membership of the House for staying and getting through with this piece of legislation.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 am Monday, 14 January 2002. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Honourable House stands adjourned until 10 am Monday, 14 January 2002.

AT 7.08 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED
UNTIL 10 AM MONDAY, 14 JANUARY 2002.

MONDAY
14 JANUARY 2002
10.57 am
Fifteenth Sitting

The Speaker: Good Morning. I will invite the Fourth Elected Member from the district of West Bay to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. Cline A. Glidden Jr.: Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth, that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly, that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake.

Let us say the Lord's Prayer together: Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace, now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

CAYMAN ISLANDS CEMETERY REPORT - JUNE 2001

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Planning, Communications, Works and Information Technology.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House, the Cayman Islands Cemetery Report as of June 2001

The Speaker: So ordered. Would the Honourable Minister wish to speak thereto on this Cemetery Report?

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The Ministry of Planning, Communication, Works and Information Technology has tabled a 2001 Cayman Islands Cemetery Report. This Report, Madam Speaker, was prepared by the National Cemeteries Committee. The Committee Chaired by the Chief Environmental Health Officer is comprised of representatives from the Department of Environmental Health, Public Works and the Planning Department in consultation with the Lands and Survey Department.

The Report is designed to estimate the remaining public cemetery capacity in the Cayman Islands and to plan for future cemetery capacity for the next twenty years. The Report identifies alternatives for future cemetery capacity, citing considerations for new cemeteries and proposed regulations for the operation and maintenance of cemeteries.

Estimates based on the current rate of vault sales indicate that all existing public burial capacity will be exhausted by 2015 (that is, two thousand and fifteen). The estimate, based on the total number of deaths per year, indicate that the public burial capacity could be exhausted as early as 2010. Burial rates vary from district to district and in general at the same ratio as the population in each district. In some of the district cemeteries, remaining capacity is less than 4 years. Estimates indicate that the Bodden Town Cemetery will reach capacity by the end of this year 2002; the Prospect Cemetery in 2003; and the West Bay cemetery (that is the main cemetery in West Bay) in 2006. The East End district currently relies on the Gun Bay Cemetery as the old privately owned East End cemetery has reached capacity and is closed. For twenty years of capacity in Grand Cayman, the recommended overall additional space requirement is nine acres.

The Committee's recommendation is that, in addition to the current existing public cemetery space available, the following areas to be provided in Grand Cayman. Four acres for George Town, two acres for West Bay the main cemetery, two acres for Bodden Town and one acre for East End. The capacity for North Side extends well beyond the designed period. In anticipation of the need for additional land the Ministry has obtained valuation for properties in East End, Bodden Town, West Bay and Prospect.

In tabling this Report, Madam Speaker, I think it only proper to remind Members that there is also growing interest from the private sector in the provision of additional cemetery capacity. These initiatives should likewise be encouraged as a compliment to the Government facilities.

Madam Speaker, I take this opportunity to thank the members of the National Cemeteries Committee for a detailed and comprehensive Report. The statistics contained in the report will guide the Cayman Islands toward a solution to the diminishing cemetery capacity in this country and will provide a plan for the future of this essential infrastructure. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister. Madam Clerk.

REPORT ON THE COMMITTEE OF INQUIRY INTO THE CAUSES OF SOCIAL BREAKDOWN AND VIOLENCE AMONG YOUTH IN THE CAYMAN ISLANDS

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Services, Youth and Women Affairs

Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, I would like to Table the Committee of Inquiry into causes of social breakdown and youth violence among Caymanian youth in the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: So ordered. Would the Honourable Minister wish to speak thereto?

Hon. Frank S. McField: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Please proceed accordingly.

Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, and Honourable Members of the Legislative Assembly, it gives me great pleasure to lay on the Table of this Honourable House, the Report by the Committee of Inquiry into the causes of social breakdown and violence among youth in the Cayman Islands.

Members will be aware that in May 2001 a Government Motion calling for the establishment of a National Youth Commission and Committee of Inquiry into the causes of social breakdown and violence among youth in the Cayman Islands was passed in this Honourable House. The Committee was charged with investigating incidences of youth violence, determining the causes and identifying possible solutions.

The Committee gathered information through oral and written reports and carried out original qualitative interviews with young offenders at HM Northward Prison, young persons at the Cayman Islands Marine Institute and other identified delinquent youth within the Cayman community and a controlled group of young people, who had never offended. The Committee hypothesised that there was an intensification of group violence paralleled by an increase in individual youth violence as young people respond to violence in like manner in self defence. The qualitative assessment of the data confirms this hypothesis.

Summary of Main Findings: Results of the research revealed the following risk factors as contributing to the violence and social breakdown.

I. Risk factor within the family.

The Committee considered the following risk factors associated with juvenile delinquency.

- ◆ Poor parent child relationships.
- ◆ Family structure
- ◆ Negative influences within the home.

II. The weakening of social systems.

Since the Cayman Islands have grown economically the population has increased dramatically while spiritual and social values have become more diverse. Critically important institutions within the society (that is, churches, schools, social services, law enforcement agencies and the juvenile justice system) have begun to weaken.

III. Lack of success in educational settings.

The Committee considered that it is unlikely that a young person becomes unsuccessful because of one failed academic attempt. They explore the correlation between lack of success in educational settings and

- a) Significant number of missed opportunities
- b) Lack of structure and discipline
- c) Poor school skills
- d) Drug use
- e) Learning disabilities.

IV. Easy availability of alcohol and marijuana.

The Committee investigated the attitudes towards drug use, within the community family and peer group and the frequency and ease with which young people have access to drugs.

V. Negative impact of the media.

The Committee examined the influence of international teen culture on Caymanian youth.

VI. Membership of negative peer group.

Local evidence suggests, that gang membership and affiliation include; young persons across the spectrum of social economic and racial backgrounds. The Committee examined how negative peer associations influence the behaviour of young people.

Recommendations: The Committee recommended that the Government use the National Youth Commission to advocate for, cultivate and recommend early intervention and prevention strategies. These solutions should be multi-faceted and involve the co-operation and collaboration of all the agencies and their affiliates that deal with human development.

To achieve this, the National Youth Commission must help to create opportunities for healthy lifestyles among our young. It is imperative to address the issues impacting all children and youth at risk.

The Committee has made three broad recommendations to strengthen the family.

1. Early Family Intervention.

The Committee recommends that the Public Health Department work in conjunction with the Department of Social Services to identify at the earliest possible stage, social, economic and moral factors within the family that may result in the inability of the parents to transmit positive social attitudes to children.

The Committee further recommends that home intervention teams should be created by the Department of Social Services and be available to go into homes of at risk families to educate parents and develop with them effective parenting strategies. The Department of Youth and Sports could encourage local associations to allow children accompanied by their parents or parent, free access to social, sporting and other recreational events, thereby encouraging families to spend quality time together in recreational and leisure activities.

2. Improve Corporate Support of the Family.

The Committee also recognises the important role which employers must play in strengthening the family and fostering the bond between parents and their children. Among other considerations, corporations should be encouraged to provide day care facilities for working mothers; introduce paternity leave and extend maternity leave with benefits to allow parents to spend with their young children.

Consideration should also be given to improving job conditions by allowing flexible arrangement such as job sharing or working from home or by providing retraining for qualified staff. Additionally, parenting programmes should be in hands by garnering the support of the corporate sector to allow these programmes to be incorporated in the work place thereby, insuring that the messages will be received by the broadest possible cross sections of persons in the community.

As largest employer in the Cayman Islands, the Government should take the lead in this initiative.

3. Enhancing Parenting Education and Child-care Establishments

The Committee further recommends that existing legislation be ratified to introduce mandatory parenting classes for those families who are identified as experiencing social, economic and moral deficiencies which prevents them from effective parenting. Legislation should be enhanced to ensure that all child care establishments are properly monitored and staffed with quality child care providers.

The Committee made the following recommendations to enhance social systems include:

I. Review of Immigration Policies.

The institutions within the social systems are often times staffed with expatriate personnel, for example, pastors, teachers, social workers, police officers and magistrates. If expatriates are held in low esteem, this can breed resentment. The Committee acknowledges that the perceived resentment by Caymanians also erode the security and confidence of expatriates, thereby further reducing the effectiveness of these institutions.

The Committee therefore, recommends that in its deliberations the Immigration Department recognises the pro-social impact that the integration of expatriate human services personnel would have on the Caymanian society. Further, the Committee recommends that the previously mentioned institutions, (churches, schools, social services, law enforcement agencies and juvenile justice system) address the public's perception that expatriate personnel are lacking a cultural understanding of our Caymanian youth to enable these persons to perform their job effectively.

This process could begin by conducting internal reviews to assess whether or not these perceptions exists within their own institutions and effectively address them.

As members of the community, expatriates must be given reasons to see themselves as stakeholders and therefore be responsible for the preservation of pro-social norms, values and beliefs. The sharing and caring involvement of community members with its family, determines the eventual effectiveness of that community as a social control agency with regards to the behaviour of children and adolescents.

II. Examine the Outreach Methods of the Church.

Secularisation has eroded the traditional dominance of the church. For example, sports, entertainment, work and other activities are common on Sundays. Members of the Committee agree that it is not the message that young people are rejecting but the method by which the message is being delivered. The committee therefore, recommends that churches re-examine the methods by which spiritual guidance and religion are being imparted to our youth.

Perhaps they could extend religious teachings beyond the physical constraints of the church buildings in an effort to reduce the gap or the distance between the youth and the church, they could become more active in the communities in which they exist. Churches should also train their leaders in issues that affect our youth. The church must maintain its role as spiritual mentors of the youth and devise ways and means of reaching the young people in our society and use them to impact the rising generation.

As a community and family institution the church should continue to provide counselling services and other programmes geared toward our youth and open its door to provide or assist with facilities to rehabilitate, rescue, house and make provisions for youth at risk.

III. Improve Collaboration Between the Educational System and other Social Systems

It is necessary for the Department of Education and the Department of Social Services to co-operate and collaborate in an attempt to simultaneously address the behavioural and learning problems a child may be experiencing. This collaboration could further be enhanced by the Home School Association where parents actively become involved in their children's academic lives and reaffirm relationships with the teachers.

IV. Restructure the Services and Roles of the Department of Social Services.

Presently social workers are perceived within the community as welfare officers. Therefore it is imperative that the social workers role in issues of social development be adequately recognised within the community. The committee therefore, recommends that the Department of Social Services consider restructuring the services offered and the manner in which social workers are allocated responsibilities in order to maximise their effectiveness.

V. Develop a Restorative Justice Approach to Juvenile Crime.

The Committee acknowledges the significant difficulty of changing the current mindset to juvenile offences in the Cayman Islands, from a punitive to a restorative justice approach.

A restorative justice approach to crime is a new way of thinking about crime and the criminal justice system. Restorative measures repair harm and rebuild relationships rather than simply seeking punishment, expulsion, shame or revenge. Restorative results are measured by how much repair is achieved rather than by how much punishment is inflicted. Restitution to those harmed is a rule and not the exception with this approach. Besides helping to restore order and repair harm in the community, restorative measures provide a means for facilitating change in individuals. Restorative measures give communities more ownership over how to handle problem. Communities can reinforce expectations without abandoning the person who violates them by clarifying that certain behaviours are not acceptable, the person who engages in them is still valued and can be a part of the solution.

This approach seeks to determine what harm has resulted from a crime and what needs to be done to repair the harm as well as who should be responsible for repairing the harm.

A restorative justice approach is contrary to our retributive justice approach which is the dominant approach to criminal.

The Rules

A crucial element to the approach would be teachers who are equipped with the necessary . . . Madam Speaker, could I just have one second here?

The Speaker: Certainly.

[Pause]

Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, the restorative justice approach has been an approach that the Committee finds would be worthwhile for the Government to seriously consider. The Government should also try to improve the alternative education options, since it was found that children should be assessed and the appropriate resources identified to meet their needs, thereby allowing them to function without undue stress and frustration.

The Committee recommends the examination of the effectiveness of the current facilities for alternative education and vocational training with a view to ensure that the quality of education provided is comparative to that which exists in mainstream education. Further, the Committee recommends that the Education Department evaluate how and when vocational training can be most effectively offered and play an important role in promoting its values to the student and the wider community.

The Committee made the following recommendations to address the easy availability of marijuana and alcohol.

1. Establish and Enhance Programmes to Minimise Risk Factors

It was observed that attempts to increase the protective qualities of the environment and to decrease the opportunities for anti social behaviour can have beneficial effects in preventing substance abuse. Therefore, the Committee recommends that the Public Health Department, in collaboration with early childhood intervention programmes established or enhance early childhood and family support programmes that will aid in reducing the number of risk factors in the parent child environment.

2. Develop a Multi-Agency Approach to Prevention and Intervention

Madam Speaker, the Committee recommends the development of a multi agency approach to prevention and intervention. Further, the Committee recommends that the National Drug Council co-ordinate a multi agency initiative to implement prevention and intervention programmes at all levels. It is crucial that programmes be designed to specifically address the existing cultural norms surrounding alcohol and marijuana use. There must be a greater community awareness of the social impropriety of these drugs. The Committee recognises that this initiative will require a Legislative review to support the efforts of substance abuse providers in the establishment of a drug court and the procurement of a secure treatment facility for young offenders.

3. Empower Parents to Set Limits for Media Access

The Committee made the following recommendations for the negative impact of the media. Empower parents to set limits for media access.

Given the evidence that violent materials in television films and music have harmful effects on young people, we must now devote ourselves to shielding our children from such harmful depictions. The Committee recommends empowering parents to be able to make good choices when it comes to the use of the media rather than censorship and through public policy promote what we as a society expect of ourselves. While government can set forth through public policy what we as a society expect of ourselves, parents ultimately would bear the responsibility for shaping their children to meet their expectations. Parents should supply their children with alternatives to television, movies and music, regularly providing children with art supplies, books, athletic activities or outdoor excursions, will reduce the number of hours devoted solely to watching television. Some helpful tools for parents are included in the 1996 American Association Guide for parents interested in limiting media's influence on their children.

According to Carla Kalin (1997), children can be taught media literacy skills in order to help them become critical viewers and therefore less influenced by media violence.

The Committee recommends that parents and other care givers would become engaged in learning and teaching media literacy. This would allow children to explore drama and other media presentations and appreciate the differences between fiction and reality.

The Committee made the following recommendations to address negative peer groups.

1. Encourage the Development and Participation in Local Youth and Outreach Programmes

Young people should be actively encouraged to become involved in positive peer groups. These groups or clubs can be self initiated or provided by local youth groups or sports club. Such groups could exist at the grass roots level so that they are more accessible to at-risk youth. Equally, organisations should be encouraged to establish sub-group committees, not only within respectable districts, but also within those communities that have been identified as at risk or lacking in positive resources for young people.

The committee recommends that the Ministry of Education, Human Resources and Culture and the Ministry of Community Services, Women Affairs, Youth and Sports, consider the possibilities of introducing a community service component to the graduation requirement that could be met by students participating in any of the above and other activities.

2. Utilize the National Youth Policy

The Committee recommends that the Government utilises the National Youth Policy. The Department of Youth and Sports youth database will be an excellent resource for young people to find out what services currently exists and they can receive guidance as to how they could develop a group or programme on issues that are not currently being addressed.

The Cayman Islands youth assembly and Youth Passport would provide many opportunities for young people to get involved and to receive credit for contributions that they make to the society. The Committee recommends that Government in partnership with youth service providers, fully utilise the National Youth Policy.

In conclusion, Madam Speaker, the Committee recommends that after comprehensive study of youth violence in the Cayman Islands, the committee wishes to endorse the goals of the National Youth Policy, particularly goals (g), (h), and (l) dealing with creating the conditions for young people to embrace healthy lifestyles free of substance misuse, sexual promiscuity and acts of violence.

Since the Committee whole heartedly endorses Dr. Ivan Henry's analysis of restorative justice, it is felt that it is essential to shift from a punitive to a restorative approach in order to create conditions for young persons to embrace healthy lifestyles.

The reliance on a punitive approach to maintain social order in a society ignores the social factors that contribute to offending behaviours. The Committee recognises that one manifestation of social breakdown is the increased incidences of youth violence. Furthermore, the Committee acknowledges the need to engage in building and enhancing family, schools, public organisations and the political directorate which will ensure that the community supports the needs of youth.

In a complex modern society, it is impossible to draw up a comprehensive list of prescriptions. The Committee thought it necessary to compile feasible and affordable recommendations that would offer a framework for addressing the problems and act as a catalysts for positive change.

I know that the people of this country will support the recommendations made in this Report, it is imperative for the future sustainability of our country and people. I would like to thank all my colleagues in Executive Council and the Legislative Assembly for their continued support and advice. I would like also to take this opportunity to thank the members of the Committee of Inquiry into the causes of social breakdown and violence among youth in the Cayman Islands for carrying out this research. I would also like to thank all those agencies and other areas of Government who may have assisted in this process.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

FIRST INTRIM REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE ON MINIMUM WAGE

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education, Human Resources and Culture.

Hon. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House, the first Interim Report of the Select Committee of the whole House on Minimum Wage.

The Speaker: So ordered. Would the Honourable Minister wish to speak thereto?

Hon. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, only to say that I envisaged the National Minimum Wage Law as an integral part of the new employment Law and I recognise from the work of previous Ministers that there seems to be some reticence, if not obstinacy, on the part of many elements in the society, to establish any national minimum wage legislation. However, I want to underscore that it is not only necessary for us to have such an instrument in the Cayman Islands internationally, we are also under scrutiny since recently the Ministry received an inquiry from the Human Rights Policy Section of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office on behalf of the international convention on social and economic rights inquiry as to the progress we have made and our intentions towards establishing a national minimum wage. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

FIRST INTRIM REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE TO REVIEW CAYMANIAN OWNED BUSINESSES AND FAIR COMPETITION ACT

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting Leader.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, on behalf of the Minister for Tourism and Leader of Government Business who is the Chairman of this Committee, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House, the First Interim Report of the Select Committee of the whole House to review Caymanian Owned Businesses and Fair Competition Act.

The Speaker: So ordered. Would the Honourable Minister wish to speak?

FIRST INTERIM REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE OF ELECTED MEMBERS TO REVIEW THE HEALTH INSURANCE LAW

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Planning.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House, the First Interim Report of the Select Committee of Elected Members to review the Health Insurance Law.

The Speaker: So ordered. Would the Honourable Minister wish to speak thereto?

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker, just to make some brief comments.

Madam Speaker, your Select Committee of this Honourable House to review the Health Insurance Law was established on 22 June 2001, with the passing of Private Member's Motion 9/01. That Motion read,

“BE IT RESOLVED THAT this Honourable Legislative Assembly appoints a Select Committee of all Elected Members to review the Health Insurance Law and matters pertinent to its operation in the Cayman Islands;

“AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Committee take input from the public health care and insurance providers and medical practitioners and report to this Honourable House no later than the last Meeting of the 2001 Session.”

That Motion was moved by Mr. Gilbert A. McLean (who is the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, now the Minister for Health) and seconded by Mr. Lyndon L. Martin, MLA (the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman).

Madam Speaker, in accordance with the provisions of the Motion your committee comprised all Elected Members of this Honourable House and I was elected the Chairman of this committee, with Mrs. Moyle being appointed the Deputy Chairman of the committee on 29 August 2001. There were two meetings of the committee held during the year. Nonetheless, Madam Speaker, I wish to point out that the Ministry had done a considerable amount of work in drafting suitable instructions to be sent to the Legal Department in relation to the Health Insurance Law. Hopefully, the White Paper will therefore become available soon and also for public scrutiny.

Madam Speaker, I am sure that the new Minister will be bringing that white paper to the Assembly as soon as it is ready. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

FIRST INTERIM REPORT OF THE STANDING ORDERS COMMITTEE

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House, the First Interim Report of the Standing Orders Committee to review the Legislative Assembly Standing Orders 1997 (Revision).

The Speaker: So ordered. Would the Honourable First Official wish to speak thereto?

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker, just some brief comments.

Madam Speaker, the committee was established on the 16 March 2001 by Private Members Motion 8/01 and the Motion read,

“BE IT RESOLVED THAT, not withstanding Standing Order 87, the Standing Orders Committee convene to review and consider what changes to the Legislative Assembly Standing Orders are necessary and desirable;

“AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT the Government considers engaging the service of a resource person versed in Parliamentary practice and procedure in Standing Orders to assist and advise the committee.”

The Motion, Madam Speaker, was moved by Mr. Gilbert McLean and seconded by Dr. Frank S. McField, both of whom, at the time of the passing of the Motion, were Backbench Members being respectively, the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town and the Third Elected Member for George Town. Madam Speaker, the Committee wishes to report that it has been unable to convene meetings and therefore has not yet concluded the matter of review. I thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable First Official Member.

We have passed the hour of 11am. Can the Acting Leader move the relevant Standing Order being Standing Order 23(7) and (8).

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS 23(7) AND (8)

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I move that Standing Orders 23(7) and (8) be suspended to enable Question Time to continue.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Orders 23(7) and (8) be suspended to allow Question Time begin and indeed continue beyond the hour of 11 am. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDERS 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MINISTERS AND OFFICIAL MEMBERS

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member or the district of George Town.

QUESTION NO. 128

(Deferred)

No. 128: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Honourable minister responsible for the Ministry of Tourism, Environment and Transport, what is the current employment status of the Director of the Port Authority?

The Speaker: The Honourable Acting Leader.

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, as you mentioned earlier, the Honourable Minister for Tourism is unavoidably absent today. So, Madam Speaker, I would remind the Honourable Member that this question as will any other unfinished business fall away at the end of this Meeting if we complete today. However, he may re-submit it at the February Meeting, which will be the first Meeting of the new Session. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

QUESTION NO. 143

The Speaker: The Elected Member for the District of East End.

No. 143: Mr. V. Arden McLean asked the Minister responsible for Community Services, how many homes for persons in need, have been built over the past nine years by the Social Services or the Public Works Department and in which districts were they built?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Services, Youth and Women Affairs.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, the answer. There were 26 homes built by the Department of Social Services between 1992 and 2001. Madam Speaker, by district, the breakdown is as follows:

|             |    |
|-------------|----|
| Bodden Town | 8  |
| East End    | 1  |
| George Town | 5  |
| North Side  | 0  |
| West Bay    | 12 |
| Cayman Brac | 0  |

Cost by district:

|      | 8  | 1  | 5  | 0  | 12 | 0  |

The Speaker: Are there any Supplementaries?
The Elected Member for East End.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. V. Arden McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker,
Could the Minister tell us if more than one application was made for the district of East End over that period?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, I have no idea.

The Speaker: Are there any further Supplementaries?
The Second Elected Member from the district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Lyndon L. Martin: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Minister indicate what criteria are used to prioritise the building of homes by the Social Services Department?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, it would appear (since I am new to this question) that the criteria that the Social Services Department has traditionally used is one of need and so the person would have to be assessed to be in need. According to the relevant persons responsible, it also meant that it was not only important that the person was in need but that they also had land, as the Social Services Department would not purchase land and then build a home.

So, if you had a piece of land and you were really in need they would assist in terms of building some type of accommodation. Also, if the person had started something and was unable to finish and was in need, then that person would have a better chance of getting support than someone who had no land, no structure or anything with which they could work.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member from the district of George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, I would like to ask if all of these 26 homes were built on land owned by the individuals. I think the Member has alluded to that in his previous answer to a supplementary but perhaps he could state in a definitive fashion whether these 26 homes (or any one of them) were built on land purchased by the Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Services.

Dr. the Hon. Frank S. McField: Madam Speaker, to the best of my knowledge, I am not aware of any land being purchased to build homes for individuals that were in need.

The Speaker: Are there any further Supplementaries?
If not we will move on to the next item.
The Second Elected Member from George Town.

QUESTION NO. 150 (Deferred)

No. 150: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr.: asked the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Legal Administration, what is the status of the Euro Bank prosecution.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
The Honourable Second Official Member is unavoidably absent today. As you announced earlier, under the circumstances, could the question be withdrawn or allow it to fall away and be brought back at the First Meeting of the 2002 Session. The same thing would apply to Question 151 although it has not been called yet.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable First Official Member. What I would propose is that Question 151 follow the same procedure where it was read into the record. Both would fall away and the Member would have the discretion to, with notice, submit it for the next Meeting.

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 151 (Deferred)

No. 151: Mr. Alden M. McLaughlin, Jr. asked the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for the Portfolio of Legal Administration, what are the terms of the agreement to retain the services of Andrew Mitchell, QC, in connection with the prosecution of the Euro Bank matter, and specifically:

- when was he retained;
- what is his brief;
- on what basis is he being paid, that is, hourly rate, brief fee or otherwise;

- (d) how much has he been paid to date; and
- (e) from what source of funds is he being paid.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, I would also ask that because the Honourable Second Official Member is unavoidably absent, that this question fall away and the Second Elected Member for George Town has the option of bringing it back at the First Meeting of the 2002 Session.

The Speaker: Thank you.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

The Speaker: I have received no statements for this Sitting.

Honourable Acting Leader would you move the suspension of Standing Orders 45 and 46(1) and (2)?

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS 45 46(1) AND (2)

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Suspension of Standing Orders 45 and 46 (1) and (2).

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Orders 45 and 46(1) and (2) be suspended. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDERS 45 AND 46(1) AND (2) SUSPENDED.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

FIRST READING

THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) (SEGREGATED PORTFOLIO COMPANIES) BILL, 2001

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a First Time and is now set down for the Second Reading.

The Honourable Acting Leader.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46(4)

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: Madam Speaker, I beg to suspend Standing Order 46 (4) to allow for the Second Reading of the Bill.

The Speaker: The Question is that Standing Order 46 (4) be suspended. All those in favour please say Aye. Those Against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 46(4) SUSPENDED.

SECOND READING

THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) (SEGREGATED PORTFOLIO COMPANIES) BILL, 2001

The Speaker: The Bill has been duly moved. Does the Honourable Third Official Member, wish to speak thereto?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker.

I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled, The Companies (Amendment) (Segregated Portfolio Companies) Bill, 2001.

The Companies (Amendment) (Segregated Portfolio Companies) Bill, 2001 seeks to expand the eligibility for the Segregated Portfolio Company (referred to as an SPC) to all exempt Companies, whereas previously it was only accessible to Class B Insurance Companies. Certain other jurisdictions do not have this access restriction and have geared their SPC regimes more broadly. Therefore, the expansion proposed is important in assisting Cayman to maintain competitiveness. It is expected that Class B Insurance Companies, Mutual Funds and Special Purpose Vehicles will be the main potential users of the SPC Form.

Clause 2(a) of the Bill provides that only exempted companies formed after the date of the commencement of the Law will be eligible to register as SPCs. This avoids legal and commercial complexities attendant on converting existing companies to SPCs, which would require, on the commercial side, wholesale changes to a company's constitution, null documents and any contracts and shareholders' approval; and, on the legal side, detailed provisions governing the conversion of general assets to segregated assets and associated issues. Because of the practical commercial matters, the industry indicated that the incidence of demand for SPC form among existing companies would be very low. This has been borne out by the experience in the captive insurance sector. Consequently, the prospective ambit of amendment is expected to have minimal if any effect on the utility of the SPC form.

Clause 2(1)(a) enables the Monetary Authority to have control over which of its licensees are to be allowed to be SPCs. The Monetary Authority policy in this regard will be co-ordinated with the companies registry, so that there is an expedited process. The Registry and Monetary Authority already cooperate in respect of Class B Insurance Companies which are only registered as SPCs on permission from Monetary Authority. A similar system will apply to Mutual Funds and other licensee categories.

Clause 2(c) changes the fee from $1,000 per segregated portfolio to $300 with a maximum of $15,000. This is, again, for competitiveness and market share considerations as the current fee structure—particularly the absence of a cap—put the Cayman Islands SPC program at a significant disadvantage in comparison with other jurisdictions. It should be noted that as well as per portfolio fee, an SPC attracts an additional fee of $2,000 and an application fee of $500 on top of the normal annual fees for an exempt company. These additional fees will remain in place.

Finally, Madam Speaker, there is a committee stage amendment to the Bill to deal with the consequential amendment arising from the expansion of the SPC form. Because previously only captive insurance companies could be SPC's, it was appropriate for section 244(1)(e) of the Law to give the Monetary Authority a blanket power to apply for receivership orders. The committee stage amendment clarifies this power so that it applies only to SPCs regulated by the Monetary Authority.

Madam Speaker, the Bill is timely and I therefore commend it to this Honourable House for passage. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you. Does any other Member wish to speak? Does any other Member wish to speak? Last call, does any other Member wish to speak? If not would the Honourable Third Official Member wish to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: To say thanks to Honourable Members for their support, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill shortly entitled The Companies (Amendment) (Segregated Portfolio Companies) Bill, 2001 be given a second reading, all those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) (SEGREGATED PORTFOLIO COMPANIES) BILL, 2001 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Is it the wish of the House to take a break or should we proceed and conclude business? The House will now go into Committee.

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE AT 12.06 PM

COMMITTEE ON BILL

THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) (SEGREGATED PORTFOLIO COMPANIES) BILL, 2001

The Chairman: Please be seated. The House is now in Committee.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Honourable Third Official Member, you may proceed to move the amendment at this stage.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Chairman, that the following Clause be inserted as Clause 3: The principal Law is amended in section 244 (1) (e) by inserting after the word 'authority', the words "whereas the Segregated Portfolio Company is regulated by the Authority."

The Chairman: It has been duly moved, does the Member wish to speak any further there to?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: In the remarks I made earlier, Madam Chairman, I mentioned the reason why this amendment is being proposed.

The Chairman: I shall put the question that the new Clause be added to the Bill as Clause 3. All those in favour, if there is no debate, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

NEW CLAUSE 3 PASSED.

The Clerk: A Bill for a Law to Amend the Companies Law 2001 (Second Revision) in Order to Change the Criteria for Registration as a Segregated Portfolio Company and for Incidental and Connected Purposes.

The Chairman: The question is that the Title stands part of the Bill. All those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

TITLE PASSED.

The Chairman: The question is that the Bill be reported to the House. All those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THAT THE BILL BE REPORTED TO THE HOUSE.

The Chairman: That concludes proceedings in Committee.

HOUSE RESUMED—12.13 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings in the House are resumed.

The Honourable Third Official Member.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Linford A. Pierson: On the Adjournment I wish to say thanks to you, Madam Speaker, for the stellar performance and manner in which you have conducted the affairs of this Honourable House during your tenure as the Speaker of the House. The 2001 Session has been a rather eventful year—to put it mildly—but, hopefully, all of the happenings prove beneficial to the Government and the people of these Islands.

Madam Speaker, I wish to take this opportunity to thank all our hard working civil servants for their invaluable service to these Islands and to also say that despite the darts that are constantly thrown at the Civil Service, that their contribution is appreciated and that we look forward to a leaner and more efficient Civil Service in the years to come.

Also, Madam Speaker, may I take this opportunity to say a big thank you to the Clerk and other staff members of the Legislative Assembly for their invaluable services provided to Members of this Honourable House and by extension the people of the Cayman Islands. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I beg to move the adjournment of this Honourable House sine die.
