Questions. The Second Elected

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

NO. 42: Can the Honourable Member say what was the cost of sending the delegation to London regarding the Shipping Registry, including airfare and accommodation?

ANSWER: The cost of sending the delegation to London regarding the Shipping Registry, including airfare, accommodation and subsistence was C$16,494.33.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Supplementary, Mr. President. Can the Honourable Member say who the delegation consisted of?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: The delegation was comprised of the First Elected Member of Council, the Third Elected Member of Council, the Second Official Member of Council, myself on the official side, and one lawyer from the private sector.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary, the Member may ask question number 43.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 43: Can the Honourable Member say what was the value of the police boat which was recently wrecked and what were the circumstances surrounding the wreck?

ANSWER: Police boat Lima II was bought new from the Bertram-Whittaker Corporation, Miami, in October 1979 at a cost of US$75,000 and was insured for that amount when it was wrecked.

The circumstances of the loss of the boat are:

(1) On Monday 9th March, 1987 at about 11:00 p.m. the police received a report by telephone from Port Security that the weather had deteriorated and the police launch, Lima II, was in danger of being damaged against the Government dock.

(2) Police Sergeant M. Bodden of the Police Marine Section was contacted and went to check on the vessel.

(3) Police Sergeant M. Bodden, on arrival at the dock, found that the launch was already being damaged against the dock wall and decided to take immediate action to move the vessel to calmer waters. He elected to go around the North West Point into the North Sound to anchor at the police moorings at Governor's Sound. The police do not have a permanent mooring in South Sound.

(4) In attempting to go around North West Point in rough seas in the dark, and in driving rain, the launch, under the command of Police Sergeant M. Bodden, went aground on the reef opposite Villas Pappagallo shortly before midnight. Inspector G. McLaughlin was immediately informed and left from East End for Governor's Sound to attempt a rescue in police vessel Lima III. Other members of the Marine Section were turned out.

(5) Lima III reached the area about 1:00 a.m. on Tuesday, 10th March, 1987, but was unable to go alongside Lima II because of heavy seas. Attempts to tow Lima II off the reef failed. The rescue was abandoned until daylight when Police Sergeant M. Bodden was taken off Lima II. A pump was then used to no avail and eventually Lima II filled with water and settled onto the reef.

(6) Arrangements were then made to take Lima II off the reef using a floating barge and crane. Unfortunately, the weather conditions again deteriorated and the operation could not be put into effect until Wednesday, 18th March, 1987, when the vessel was lifted off the reef onto a barge and put ashore and secured at Governor's Sound. It was found to have sustained extensive damage beyond economical repair.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Supplementary, Mr. President. Can the Honourable Member say whether some of the cost has been received by way of insurance?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: A claim has been filed with the insurance company, and the inspection on behalf of the insurers has revealed that the claim is going to be honoured. But the actual settlement has not yet taken place.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: So you do not know what the settlement will be like?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: That is correct, Mr. President, because there is a certain value in the wreck, for example, I believe the engines have a value estimated at around $20,000.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Supplementary, Mr. President. Can the Member say whether Government is satisfied that the Marine Section is properly manned?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Yes, Mr. President, Government is satisfied.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Supplementary, Mr. President. When I say "properly manned" I guess I should have explained myself. Is the Government satisfied that you have people who want to be in the Marine Section, who are capable of being in the Marine Section, handling a boat, know something about the Marine Section? Is the Government satisfied that the crew should not be somewhere else in the police department perhaps the drugs squad?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: I can only reiterate my earlier answer, Mr. President, the Government is satisfied with the calibre of employees attached to the Marine Section, and no one is working within the Marine Section against his will.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Supplementary, Mr. President. In the answer given, the Honourable Member states that the police do not have a mooring in South Sound. Does the Police Boat not normally carry an anchor?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Yes, Mr. President, it does, but it was decided to go around to the North Sound where permanent moorings are situated, and it was on the basis of that decision that the accident occurred.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Supplementary, Mr. President. Is the Honourable Member inferring that the decision to go around North West Point in an impending Nor'wester rather than to the safe harbour of South Sound, which is much closer and much more protected, the correct decision?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, that is asking for an opinion, Sir.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, the Member referred to calibre. I just want to say, I am not supposed to make a statement, but I want to clarify something - that I was not talking about personal reputation, or anything of the sort - so I would not want my question to be misunderstood as casting some aspersion on the crew as to their reputation. That is not what I am doing.

MR. PRESIDENT: Very well, unless there is any further supplementary ...

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Mr. President, the Member intimated in a supplementary that the engines on the boat were worth approximately $20,000. Can he say what, if any, attempt is going to be made to salvage these engines. Because I looked at the boat up till yesterday, and it looked to me like they are being left there to seize up.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, all necessary precautions have been taken to secure the vessel and the engines, and the value of whatever is salvageable will be salvaged.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member may now ask question number 44.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, with your permission, Sir, before I ask that, I wonder if the Member could give this House an undertaking that he will do some sort of internal investigation into the Marine Section of the Police Department?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, I am afraid I cannot do that, because I have no basis on which to undertake.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: All right, Mr. President, I am satisfied. I will put a Private Member's Motion. That will give him some basis.

MR. PRESIDENT: Question number 44, then.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR COMMUNICATIONS WORKS AND DISTRICT ADMINISTRATION

NO. 44: Can the Honourable Member give an up-to-date cost of the road programme in the eastern districts regarding the straightening of curves which was approved by Finance Committee in 1986.

ANSWER: Expenditure to date (24th April, 1987) for the cost of the road programme in the eastern districts regarding the straightening of curves is $175,091.49.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Supplementary, Mr. President. I wonder if the Honourable Member could give us some idea of when it is expected that this work will be completed?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, May the 22nd.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Supplementary, Mr. President. And at that time, the full amount, which was approved by Finance Committee will have been spent?

MR. PRESIDENT: It sounds like a statement but I take it you meant it as a question?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Well, I did say it was a supplementary question, Sir.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: As the Member knows, there was a total of $568,358 allocated in the 1987 Estimates for the Spotts realignment 1 and 2, and the Lower Valley road realignment, and that leaves a difference of $393,266.51. The Public Works Department have told me that they are within estimates.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary, that ends Question Time, and we move to Item 4 in today's Order Paper, Bills, First Reading of the Prisons (Amendment) Bill.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

FIRST AND SECOND READINGS

THE PRISONS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

FIRST READING

CLERK: THE PRISONS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Prisons Law is deemed to have been read a First Time and is set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE PRISONS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Prisons Law.

The Prisons Law was originally enacted in 1975, at which time it was known as the Imprisonment Law. In 1981 it was amended and renamed and given its present name, the Prisons Law. This Bill primarily seeks, Mr. President, to make a number of unconnected amendments to bring that piece of legislation in line with present-day requirements.

The first two clauses of the Bill are minor amendments. Clause 2 removes a reference to discipline as this is now a consequential amendment, having had the necessary provisions made in subsidiary legislation. Clause 3 removes the necessity to have the Governor in Council to give approval for the making of standing orders.

The first significant amendment in this Bill comes in clause 4, which amends section 8 of the principle Law. Section 8 of the principle Law deals with powers of officers. This clause seeks to insert two new subsections. First, it seeks to confer on prison officers the same powers and privileges as constables, but it is restricted to the extent that the prison officers may have such power only when on duty and in uniform and the power is limited in relation to the duty of the prison officer. It is further limited by the proviso that any action taken by a prison officer shall as soon as practicable, be handed over to a police constable, or the individual concerned should be taken to the nearest police station.

The second new subsection that is being proposed is to confer the ability on prison officers to make arrests without a warrant in certain circumstances. And the circumstances that are envisaged in such an exercise would be where a prison officer was in hot pursuit of an escaped prisoner, and in the course of that pursuit found it necessary to enter premises or to arrest someone in connection with that duty, without first having to have a warrant for the purpose. Again, any action taken in this manner is subject to immediate hand-over to the nearest police station or to a Royal Cayman Islands Police.

Clause 5 of the Bill provides for the supervision of female prisoners by officers of the opposite sex where the Director of Prisons may so authorise. This has been found a desirable recommendation to make in light of past experience, where we have limited officers and often times, particularly during the daylight hours when officers are engaged on escort duties and other matters, it is sometimes difficult to have female prisoners always supervised by female officers.

Clause 6 of the Bill seeks to amend section 14 of the Law to remove what is regarded as an unnecessary and over-generous provision for medical attention. Section 14 of the Law provides that all convicts should be medically examined on reception and at least once every thirty days by a medical officer. The proposed amendment seeks to substitute twelve months for thirty days. This, it is believed, is more in keeping with the norm of the society. Certainly, few people ever submit themselves to medical examination every thirty days. If one is not ill, one does not seek the doctor. This does not preclude persons from receiving medical attention if they need it, but as a routine examination it is felt that to have a routine examination every thirty days is certainly an over-generous provision.

The next significant amendment comes in clause 7 of the Bill, which provides for the transfer and removal of prisoners to foreign jurisdiction. This is in keeping with the Council of Europe Convention on the transfer of sentenced prisoners to which a number of countries, including the United Kingdom, are signatories. We as a Dependent Territory, have had the convention extended to us by an Order in Council, and the relevant United Kingdom legislation is quoted in this amendment to enable us to effect the necessary transfer of non-Caymanian prisoners to serve the remainder of their sentences in their home countries. This will principally affect American prisoners currently serving their sentences at Northward, could possibly affect a number of other countries as well, but we are actively pursuing a transfer arrangement with the United States, and in fact, it is anticipated that if successful, the first transfers should take place within the very near future.

Clause 8 of the Bill provides for clarity that a person on the commencement of sentence on an appeal, or a person appealing a sentence or a conviction, may elect to have the remand time counted as part of the sentence, and such an election cannot be revoked.

Clause 9 seeks to insert a new subsection immediately following section 42 to enable the Director of Prisons to allow persons to visit the prison on such conditions as he may impose, and if he considers that such visits would be in the best interests of prisoners. This is, of course, trying in an attempt to liberalise the visiting of prisoners by persons who are considered to be closely connected with the prisoners, persons whose best interests would be served by allowing them to visit inmates, and whose inmates' best interests would be served, as well.

Finally, clause 10 provides a penalty for offences committed under the Prisons Law, and the penalty being recommended for offences is $5,000 or a term of imprisonment not exceeding twelve months, or both.

These are the proposed amendments, Sir, and I commend them to the Honourable House.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Prisons Law be given a Second reading.

The Motion is now open for debate. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, on seeing the Bill I had hoped to give it my entire support. However, the Honourable Member has said nothing to clarify my objections to certain sections. He has not said anything in any detail, therefore I will have to vote no on certain sections of the Bill.

Just a few months ago I brought a Motion to this House asking for an investigation into the Northward Prison. I had hoped that the report of that investigation would have been tabled today so that, as far as I am concerned, I could better understand, perhaps, the reasoning for some of these uncalled for, on the face of it, sections.

The first section that I make objection to is the amendment of clause 7 of the principle Law. Clause 3 seeks to take away the necessity of standing orders made by the Director of Prisons having to be approved by Governor in Council, having to be approved by Executive Council. The Member moving the Bill did not give any reasons why this should be done. I moved out of the Chamber for a minute, but I not hear him do so.

In this day and age, when there are so many questions arising in this Colony concerning corruption and other matters, you would want to think that the Members of Executive Council would want to have their hands on everything in this country, that they could know what is going on. And yet, day after day, time after time and meeting after meeting in this Assembly, Bills come forward from the Government bench where they, as far as I am concerned, are abdicating their responsibility to this country. I have seen it in many Bills where as far as I am concerned, the buck is passed on to some department. What are the reasons for it, so that when they are called to question, they can say I do not know anything about it? It is ridiculous in this country for the ruling arm of Government not to have a say in the making of the standing orders for something as important, in this country, as Her Majesty's Prison.

Mr. President, clause 6 of the Bill seeks to change to every year from every thirty days, the interval for the periodical medical examination of prisoners by the Chief Medical Officer. Again, why in the world is this being done? Just a few months ago, and one of the reasons I asked for an investigation of the prison, there were complaints that there was some dreaded disease at the prison. Parents called and letters were received from inmates. I would think that in something so closely quartered as a prison, that every step would be taken to make medical examinations as often as possible.

The Law, in section 14, provided that all convicts shall be medically inspected at the beginning of their sentence and at least once per month thereafter until discharged. That was in 1975. Numerous amendments have come forward since 1975, and nobody asked that this be done. Why is it being done now especially with the emergence of new diseases in this country? Morally and socially it is wrong. Prisoners, regardless of what they are sentenced for, they must pay the price if they commit a crime - I support that one hundred per cent - but they are human beings, they are somebody's child. Commit them to their full punishment, but what this is doing as far as I am concerned, is not in line, is not proper, and I am not going to support that particular section. It may be that every month might be a little too often, but I would not go any further, or any less than every quarter, and even at that, with, as I have said, the emergence of new diseases, is a little bit too long. Prisoners are not kept forever in a prison, they come back out and they mix with society.

I am very happy to see the Bill providing for the transfer of prisoners. I do not know whether this will help the situation that I asked to be looked at in 1985 I think it was, to send away those prisoners, or expatriate prisoners at Northward to serve their sentence in their respective countries. I trust that this is what it means.

Clause 10 seeks to insert a proposed new section, 43A, into the Law, creating an offence for any person not being a prison officer to act in contravention of any subsidiary legislation made under the Law. Now, Mr. President, I take it that "any person" means the general public. Now are you are telling me that the general public, if it contravenes this section, or any section, will be liable to a fine not exceeding $5,000 or to one year imprisonment. But am I to understand that a prison officer can contravene?

I trust that in his summary, the Honourable Member will explain in some detail, my doubts about certain points on sections that I have raised. I will restate that the most obnoxious clause in this Bill is clause 3. Government is not now going to have a say in the making of prison regulations. Government is not going to have to approve the standing orders. I see no reason for this clause. I trust that the Member will explain in great detail the reasons why this Bill is here today, and I would again say that it would have been fit and proper to table the report on the investigation. But I put you on notice, when it does come, I will have my say on it.

Thank you very much.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, I find the most obnoxious section to be the amendment in clause 5, where it is sought to put prisoners under the direct physical supervision of a person of the opposite sex. If we allow this to happen, we could have male prison officers turning down the beds at night for the female prisoners. This is a strange and a dangerous provision to subject female prisoners to the direct supervision of male officers. And what might even be worse, to put male prisoners under the direct physical control of female officers. I do not think this ever happens in any prison, and should not have been mentioned here at all. This clause must come out. The Member presenting the Bill did make an honest effort to justify this amendment but the reason he gave is not sufficient. He said that there might be a shortage of officers of the correct sex, because officers are engaged in moving prisoners up and down, and so on. But this has to be utter nonsense. We cannot allow this to happen at the prison. No prisoner should be put under the direct physical supervision of a person of the opposite sex.

There is an amendment, which will allow the standing orders to be made by the Director of the Prison without the approval of Executive Council. One can only wonder why the Executive Council has behaved so much like Pilate in completely washing its hands of all the dirty work. I can understand that the standing orders which are for the day to day operation of the prison, could well be made by the senior officers at the prison, and the senior officers should have the right to change these standing orders. But certainly, there should be a provision whereby the Standing Orders would go into effect immediately, but always be subject to some other control. Who knows, one day we may have a very sadistic person in charge of the prison, we could get all kinds of strange orders, there would be no appeal and there would be no control over this person.

Not because today we can boast of two or three fine officers at the head of the prison, this may not continue, and while they should be given the right to make the orders and to change them, and to put them into effect immediately, I still feel that these orders should be subject to scrutiny by the Executive Council at some time - it should not be left entirely for the officers to make the rules and enforce the rules and discipline under the rules. When I say rules, I am really referring to standing orders, because I know the distinction between the prison rules, which are still subject to the scrutiny of Executive Council, and the Standing Orders which are for the ordinary operation. In an institution like the prison, I imagine it is necessary every day, or every month, perhaps, to change the orders, and the Director can be given this authority. But there must be some control. We find that Executive Council has passed everything it could onto somebody else. Everything that comes up, the blame is put on the civil service, is put on the Principal Secretary, it is put on the head of the Department, and Executive Council has shirked its responsibilities in many areas.

There are other provisions of the Bill. One mentioned by the Member from West Bay was the change in the regular medical examinations. I agree that having the prisoner examined on a monthly basis was perhaps, a bit generous, and did put too much work on the doctors and the prison staff that would have to be involved in the examinations. So I can support the change from monthly examinations, but I think, since they have been used to monthly examinations, it might be better if we made the change to have the examinations done biannually or twice a year. Because in most jobs which require medical examinations, the examinations are done every six months, and a lot could happen in twelve months. We know that Cayman, like other countries, has now been touched by AIDS, and we know that AIDS is common amongst certain types of people. It seems to afflict certain occupational groups, certain people that are in peculiar situations, and it would be good to have the checks done every six months rather than every twelve months. The prison population has grown to where it is, to have a hundred and odd people examined every month really becomes a big job, and you would probably need a resident doctor at the prison if we continue with the monthly examinations.

The prison officers have been given the powers of police officers and I am glad that the Member mentioned that these powers are qualified and limited to work connected with the prison, limited to the officer being in uniform and so on. But we have to be careful when we are giving to prison officers the powers of a policeman, because the prison officer has not received the same training as the police officer, and if we are going to give to them the wide powers of a police officer, we will have to provide additional training for the prison officers.

Section 10 of the Bill sets out fines which are excessive, fines which can be imposed on any person who acts in contravention of any regulations, rules or standing orders. This is indeed wide. If this applied only to offences under the Prison Law, maybe we could put up with it, but how can an ordinary person, say a visitor who goes to the prison, know every little standing order or every little rule that has been made up? And suppose we do get in the future, as I mentioned, a sadistic Director who wakes up one morning and makes a strange rule, or a strange standing order that on Sunday morning no-one can have on a flowered shirt, and a visitor comes into the prison with a flowered shirt on, and he is fined $5,000. This has to be utter madness, to make this so wide, applying to everybody, with the rules being made up as you go. What is the Government thinking about anyhow?

The Bill, while it has merits in some parts, has gone to the ludicrous in some areas, and while I will support some of the amendments I am afraid I will have to vote no to the entire Bill, because we have seen yesterday that Members lack the mettle which it takes to defeat a Bill, or any section of a Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think the time has come when customarily, we suspend for a brief mid-morning break, and I will accordingly now suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

AT 11:16 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11:36 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Resumption of the Second Reading debate on the Prisons (Amendment) Bill.

Does any further Member wish to speak? The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, may I also join in congratulating the mover on the able presentation of the Bill, which is a Bill for a Law to amend the Prisons Law. I think he did a very admirable job indeed.

However, there are three clauses in the Bill which I wish to comment on. This is particularly inspired, that is my comments, from some of the experiences which I have had in respect to the operations of the prison, which I find directly related to the provisions contemplated in this amendment Bill.

Accordingly, Sir, I find it impossible to support the Bill in its entirety, even though I find certain sections of it that I can support without any problems. Specifically I wish to comment on clauses 3, 5, 6 and 7 of the Bill, and I may touch on one or two others as I go along.

Clause 3 of the Bill seeks to take away the necessity of standing orders made by the Director of Prisons having to be approved by the Governor in Council. My concern here is not based on the fact that I do not believe in the integrity of the Director of Prisons, this is far from the truth. I believe that he, and his Deputy, are men of integrity, and that they are well experienced in the job that they are doing. But this Law will be a Law that will apply to others after they are gone, and in amending any Law or in enacting a Law, we must bear in mind that a law, for it to be as effective as possible, must be a good law and one that is free from any misinterpretations.

In the past I have received reports from prison officers of what they feel is an unwholesome situation existing in the prison. You are aware of this, Sir, because I have brought these to your attention. But I was very surprised to learn from the prison officers who came to see me that after they returned to the prison, attempts were made to find out who they were so that they could be victimised, or worse yet, fired.

I hope that this is not the case, because I feel that any officer, be they a prison officer or from whatever section of our civil service, should have the right to discuss any matter with their representatives, and I would hate to feel that this is a correct statement that I received. The person that I received it from is a man of integrity, and I have no reason to doubt that what he said he heard, he in fact heard. But I hope that it was just a wild rumour.

This is one of the reasons why I feel that it may be wrong at this stage in the development of our prison services to amend this section where it will no longer be necessary for the standing orders of the prison service to be approved by the Governor in Executive Council. I will not, Sir, try to be trite in this matter, I will not go as far as to say that a lot of things will happen which I feel would not, but my biggest fear is that this section can be abused. With approvals being done by the Governor in Executive Council, at least, we had a check on what happened and what amendments were made to standing orders. But this will be taken away and it will be left to an individual, or perhaps two, to make decisions on this very important issue.

Clause 5 - it is sought to confer on the Director of Prisons the discretion to allow a prisoner to be placed under the direct physical supervision of a person of the opposite sex. This carries two dangerous areas, and I will deal with number 2 first. A male prisoner or male officer, for example, could be put in a very compromising position if for some reason or the other, a female inmate takes a dislike to him. That male officer could be accused of many things if he is allowed the direct physical supervision of that female inmate. I feel that if this law is to be passed without amendment, that at least two officers of the opposite sex should be responsible for this. Dealing with the first problem Sir, I do not feel it is appropriate for officers of the opposite sex to have direct physical supervision of inmates of the opposite sex. This is not correct. I believe that we have sufficient officers at the prisons, both male and female, that can deal with prisoners of their own sex. I cannot see the need for this, it was not presented, or expanded on by the mover of the Bill. Perhaps in his summary, he will tell us why it was seen to be necessary to put this amendment into the Law.

And clause 6, Mr. President, this seeks to change to every year from every thirty days the interval for the periodical medical examination of prisoners by the Chief Medical Officer. I cannot support this. I do not think that this is right. Regardless of what we, in this Legislative Assembly or the public may feel, our prisoners are still human beings. From reports I have been hearing on the medical attention given to prisoners it would appear that the situation is shabby enough as it is. I say this not from hearsay, but from discussions I have had with inmates face to face on my visits to Northward Prison. I can recall even writing to the Medical and the Chief Medical Officer on the situation, and by the way, he is a gentleman for whom I have a lot of respect, but to date I have not had the courtesy of a reply. Of course I have written this down to his very busy schedule, and I trust that in due course I will be hearing from him one way or the other, as I feel it is only due respect that I should get a reply. But I was surprised that on my visit to Northward Prison, in discussion with the individual that I wrote about, I was told that I would not be receiving a reply, because it was felt that it was not necessary. I hope this is not true, because whether the Chief Medical Officer or any officer of Government likes the position and role that we, Members of the Legislative Assembly, have to play, they must realise that we are put here to represent our people, this is the reason we are put here. I do not like it any better than they do, that I have to approach them on these matters, but we have to look to the interests of our constituents. This is exactly what I intend to do. My people have put me in here and by the help of God I am going to give them good service. And I trust Sir, that when I have to write to a member of Government, or to a civil servant, that they will have the courtesy to reply. If it is a matter that they feel that they cannot deal with, then I am sure that they can deal with it through their portfolio. It is not very often that I write, or bother these officers, but when it is necessary for me to do so, I would hope that I would be shown the courtesy of a reply.

Because of this and because of many other complaints I have received, I think it would be a backward step today if we agreed to change the visitations of doctors at Northward Prison from every thirty days to just once a year. This is wrong, it is morally wrong, it is socially wrong, it is just wrong in all its areas. We are dealing with human beings, we are not dealing with dumb animals. With the number of doctors at the hospital, there is no reason why the visitation rights of every thirty days cannot continue. This is totally wrong, and I trust that this will not be supported by the entire Executive Council and Government bench here today. I feel that this should be amended, or at least a more appropriate period put into this Bill, perhaps three months, before this Bill is accepted. To leave this as it is and to jump from one month to twelve months is ridiculous.

The last section I propose to deal with, or the one before the last, is clause 7. Clause 7 of this amendment Bill seeks to make provision by way of a proposed new section 26, to "regularise the transfer of a prisoner in respect of whom a warrant has been issued under Acts of the United Kingdom, for the service of his sentence elsewhere". We have done our part here in the Cayman Islands, to make it possible for prisoners to be returned to their country and I know Sir, from correspondence I have received from you and from the action taken by the Second Elected Member of Council the Honourable Norman Bodden and myself, that we too have been trying our best to help our people here in Grand Cayman. But I believe Sir, that more could be done to put some more effort and pressure on countries like Jamaica so that they will realise that when our prisoners are over there we would like to have the same courtesies extended to the Caymanians as we now extend to their people.. They are telling us that they have not amended their laws so that they can send our prisoners back here. Whether this has to be done through the Commonwealth or however it is going to be done, I feel that it is high time that we pressure the Government of Jamaica at the very highest level, so that we can have the same courtesies extended to the Cayman Islands.

Clause 10 seeks to insert a proposed new section 43A into the Law, creating an offence for any person not being a prison officer, to act in contravention of any subsidiary legislation made under the Law. Comments were made on this, and I should say that the implication is that the prison's regulations would apply where a prison officer is concerned. But I am sure that the mover of the Bill will clarify this point. I do not think that the intention of this amendment is to put the prison officers above the law. I do not think that this is the case, but we know that prison officers have their own regulations, and I trust, Sir, that they will be subjected to the regulations. They cannot be exempted and they are not above the law, and I do not think this is the intention.

Again, Mr. President, in summing up, I wish to congratulate the mover of this Bill for the fine job he did in presenting it, but as I said, in view of these points which I have raised, I find it somewhat impossible at this point to support the Bill in its entirety. And I trust that in Committee stage, appropriate amendments will be made, in order that I can support it.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

I will have to begin debate on this amendment by saying that generally, I am not in favour of the amendments, and would have to question why some of them are being placed before us.

For instance, we are preparing to amend section 5 of the principle Law, the Prison Law, Law 14 of 1975. We are saying in that section:

"And such persons shall be subject to the same discipline as police officers of equivalent rank."

We are deleting that in this amendment, and I wonder why that is necessary, and whether we could have it explained to us in view of the further advancement in the position of the prison officers that we will encounter in certain other amendments in this Bill. Why, if we are going to enhance their position, should they not be subject to the control and the discipline that was in the original Law?

Section 8. We are proposing a change to that. Section 7, an amendment is being proposed to that one. And in section 8 we are now giving them the same responsibilities and duties as officers in the Police Force. Why, then would they not be subject to the same rules and regulations of the Police Force. And I question why in section 8(3) that an officer can only arrest an officer of equivalent rank or of a rank lower than that of the arresting officer. When we go on in the final paragraph of it by saying:

"that the officer shall, as soon as practicable, deliver over the person so arrested to a constable or, in the absence of a constable, take him to a police station."

If a crime is being committed, and it is being committed in the presence of a prison officer or a police officer, in my opinion, that person should have the right to act whether it is the Chief of Police, the Chief Prison Officer or yourself that is involved. He should not be limited to being able to make that arrest if the officer has a higher rank than himself.

I would have to support what the previous speaker has said in regard to increasing the doctor's visitations from once a month to once every twelve months. I can see the reason why once a month, with the amount of work that I imagine the doctors have, that it might become onerous for them. Maybe I could support 60 days on that, but I do not think there is any way I could support a year.

But, as I read the numerous amendments to the Laws that are being made by our present Government, I have to keep wondering why we are giving up the power and shirking the responsibility of the enforcement of that power in so many respects. I also agree with the previous speaker in his submission on the dealing of an officer with the opposite sex. There has been too much happening in the past by rumours in that respect. We have a rumour rampant in the community now about the Girls' Home, and it seems like nobody is doing anything about it but shirking their responsibility once more. The same thing could happen in this instance, if we agree to it. I am not saying that the parties may be guilty, but at least, it will fuel the rumour mills if we make these changes. I hope that in the final submission on this Bill, someone will see clear to give a reason why they think these amendments should be made, why they are being made, and tell us why responsibility is being shirked once more.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to Member who moved the Motion to exercise his right of reply if he wishes.

MR. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Mr. President, I would like to thank Members for their contribution to the debate on this Bill, and I will try to respond to some of the comments that were made during the course of the debate.

First, of all, I think the record should stand corrected that the most recent enquiry conducted at Northward was not an investigation into the prisons, but it was an inquiry into alleged drug abuse by inmates at the prison. And let the record also reflect that the report on that subject will be laid during the course of this meeting.

The three most obnoxious sections of this amendment Sir, seems to deal with, firstly, the question of standing orders and their approval, secondly, the frequency of medical examinations, and thirdly, the supervision of inmates by officers of the opposite sex.

Can I first say, Sir, that in moving the Second Reading debate, I thought I had made it clear that a number of these amendments have been brought as a consequence of years of experience of operation of the prison, and I thought I had also pointed out that it was six years ago since the last amendments to the Prison Law were made. So that some of these proposals have emanated from the maturing and the experience gained in the operation of the service over the past number of years. It is because of the experience and maturity that a number of autonomous provisions can now be considered.

One of them is the question of approval of standing orders. And just like in other disciplined services, the head of those services are authorised to write and issue directives to their officers, so should the prisons, once they have demonstrated the ability and capability of so doing. The approval of standing orders was perhaps vested in the Governor in Council in the beginning, because one wanted to ensure that the experience was gained first before passing on the delegation. It is purely on the basis of that experience that it is now felt that the service is capable of directing itself on purely operational matters of standing orders.

On the question of medical examinations, perhaps we are misunderstanding the intention of the amendment when we say that we are changing the frequency of examinations from thirty days to twelve months. Perhaps some people will understand that to mean that inmates will only be examined every twelve months. I think the emphasis here has to be that inmates will be examined no less frequently, they may be examined much more frequently, but certainly, under no circumstances, less. And in fact the standard of health services available at the institution have not only improved, but they are in the process of being improved even further. For example, Honourable Members may know that in the current year's Budget, provision was made for the creation of the post of nurse to be employed and stationed at Northward. And that individual is in the process of now being recruited, so that there will be the screening and on-the-spot routine nursing facility at the institution that will be an improvement to the present service available. So, examinations are not going to be less frequent, but the mandatory provision for an examination every thirty days as a minimum was certainly considered to be too generous, and it was felt that twelve months as a mandatory minimum would be more appropriate.

Insofar as the supervision of inmates by officers of the opposite sex, let me assure the House that the Director of Prisons and his management team are more than anyone else, aware and conscious of some of the fears that have been expressed during the course of the debate on this matter, and that this recommendation was made only after very careful consideration of all the circumstances, and that it was carefully drafted in such a way as to ensure that the prior approval of the Director is necessary in each and every circumstance, where such supervision would be permissible. And in fact, it is simple yet significant to note that even in a simple matter of transportation on escort duties it occasionally becomes necessary to combine in the same vehicle, inmates of both sexes, and during the course of transporting them from point A to point B, it is sometimes difficult to ensure that there are always adequate numbers of the same sex in the vehicle at the time of the transportation. And so it is only when one is faced with an operational decision that one can really see the problem.

The institution is growing in numbers of population and its staff resources are not necessarily growing in proportion to that increase. The complexity of the service grows, and therefore the attitude of professional officers to their duties have to be carefully monitored, and their assignments placed accordingly. It is therefore felt that the Director is himself, the best person to assess the situation, and to use his professional judgement, should it become necessary to implement the supervision of inmates by officers of the opposite sex. This will not be done as a matter of routine, nor will it be done as a matter of preference. This is something that would only be done as a last resort, and under circumstances that the Director is himself satisfied that he has little, if any, alternative. It would be nice if I could say that under all circumstances we would like to have no supervision of the opposite sex, but this is not practical, and the recommendation was not made lightly, but made after very careful consideration.

One final point, Mr. President, is that a little confusion seems to have arisen as regards the difference between the powers of arrest contained in clause 4 of the Bill versus the penalty being provided in clause 10 of the Bill. The Second Elected Member for West Bay thought that perhaps the officers were being treated differently from members of the public as regards penalties. Well, the answer to that, Sir, is that officers are dealt with similarly to anyone else in respect of penalties under the general penalty provision, but in addition, officers are also subject to their own internal code of conduct, and their own prison's discipline of prison officers' regulations apply. So there is no escaping accountability. In fact, the officer is more accountable than are members of the public.

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH:
$5,000, right.

But you are now charging them

MR. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

While on that subject, Mr. President, if I could just continue to say that the Discipline Regulations of 1984 were made, and it is therefore no longer necessary to have the reference to the ranking of discipline of police officers as it was in the old days when the prison service operated parallel to that of the Police Force. So that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, in asking why is it that we are removing the reference to discipline of police equivalents - the reason that it is being removed is simply because provision has been made elsewhere, namely in the 1984 Regulations. So that reference in this legislation to discipline is no longer necessary.

With those comments, Mr. President, again I would like to thank Members for their contribution to the debate.

The question is that the Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Prisons Law be given a Second Reading.

The Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Partnership Law is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE PARTNERSHIP (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Partnership Law, 1983.

This short amendment is the result of representation made to me by an international investor, who attempted to use the Partnership Law for some of the structuring of his operation, but determined that the Partnership Law as presently stated, does not allow him to use it as an investment vehicle. And I will read what section 47(1) says - and we are talking about a limited partnership, Mr. President:

"A limited partnership may be established in the Islands for the transaction of any mercantile, mechanical, land holding and development, agricultural or manufacturing business, or any business for the development of tourism."

What we are seeking to do is to substitute, or to amend section 47 to say:

"... any lawful purpose or purposes to be carried on either within the Islands or elsewhere."

So that, if the Bill is approved, 47(1) would read:

"A Limited partnership may be established in the Islands for any lawful purpose or purposes to be carried on either within the Islands or elsewhere."

I recommend this short amendment of the Partnership Bill to the House, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill for a Law to amend the Partnership Law, 1983 be given a Second Reading. The Motion is open for debate.

Bodden Town.

The Second Elected Member for

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, I must object to this type of amendment. According to the Honourable Member presenting the Bill, this Bill will be amended simply to accommodate a person, although once it is amended, other people in the same position will use it.

A partnership is altogether a different creature from a limited liability company, and also different and distinct from an individual. For years partnerships have been individualistic in their character, they had peculiar patterns of operation, peculiar patterns of being perpetual, and we should not be changing the Partnership Law to allow somebody to do under it what he could not have done in the normal course of business. What we should do is say to this person since you cannot operate, or you cannot do what you want to do under the type of Partnership Law we have, you should find some other vehicle, that is, you should form a limited liability company under which you could do the things which are sought to be done and the things which will be allowed once this change is made.

It is really disgusting when the Government operates in this fashion. If we keep changing up the Partnership Law and the limited partnerships, the time will come when there will be no practical difference between a partnership and a limited liability company. The time will come when the distinct advantages gained by having a partnership will disappear. This is bad government. We have our Partnerships Laws, we have our limited liability companies, we have our companies that are not limited, we have our partnerships that are not limited. And people coming here to do business should do business under the law as it exists, they should not expect the Government to change the Law to suit the individual.

Under the existing Law, a partnership of the nature we are talking about, could only transact certain specific businesses which were set out in the Law. Those businesses were the transaction of any mercantile, mechanical, landholding and development, agricultural or manufacturing business, or any business for the development of tourism. That is changed by this Bill so that under the Partnership Law, the persons involved can now transact any lawful purpose or purposes to be carried on either within the Islands or elsewhere. This is a dangerous situation, because there are some businesses that should not be carried on by partnerships. We are treading on very dangerous ground here today. I do not want to get into the subject of describing partnerships and limited liability companies, because that is a subject that would probably take up the balance of the day. Nevertheless, it is wrong to change the Law in this fashion merely to accommodate the wish of a certain lawyer or a certain client.

Bill.

I have no support for this

MR. PRESIDENT:

If not, does the mover wish to

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Yes, Mr. President.

I heard the Member, Mr. President, but I was not sure what he was saying, to be quite honest. I believe in telling the truth, and that is exactly what I did earlier, when I said that the amendment is put forward as a result of representation made to me. We do not have to tell that person who put the representation to me that he should find another vehicle. He has gone, Mr. President, he took the business elsewhere, so Cayman lost out. And what will happen if we have another hundred investors of that sort? Shall we stick to our guns and say leave the Partnership Law the way it is? Can anyone tell me why we should restrict it? Are we gaining anything by restricting it, or are we losing? And if an investor wishes to use a partnership as an investment holding structure, somebody tell me what is wrong with it, because I am unable to say. But the whole reason for Partnership Laws, Banking Laws and Insurance Laws, is to try to make it attractive so they will be used, so that persons who wish to establish business vehicles may use them. And if we amend this Bill, and we say that the partnership may be used for any lawful purpose, that satisfies me, Mr. President.

Thank you very much.

THE CAYMANIAN PROTECTION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

FIRST READING

CLERK: THE CAYMANIAN PROTECTION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT:

A Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Caymanian Protection Law, 1984 is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE CAYMANIAN PROTECTION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Mr. President, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Caymanian Protection Law, 1984.

This Bill SIR, contains five principle clauses, four of which deal with and affect the areas of the Law dealing with the granting and/or the loss of Caymanian Status.

The first amendment in clause 2 relates to section 14 of the Law, which is the section that deals generally with persons who are deemed to possess Caymanian Status, and the various circumstances by which that deeming occurs, and one of the persons who are deemed to possess Caymanian Status is in section 14(2) where it says:

"Any person:

- (a) who is an eligible person;
 - (b) who is a child, or a step-child, or an adopted child who has been legally adopted in such manner as is recognised by the law of the domicile of such person at the time of such adoption, of a person who possesses Caymanian Status; and
 - (c) who is under the age of 18 years.
- shall ... possess ... Caymanian Status ...".

This area of the Law has given some considerable concern because it extended Caymanian Status to children whether they were legitimate or illegitimate. Members may recall the debate when the Caymanian Protection Law was being introduced in 1984, the debate that emanated as to whether provision should be extended to include illegitimate children as well as legitimate children. In the end it was decided that all children should be included. In practice and application, however, it has been found that this provision was perhaps, far more generous than Members had envisaged, and indeed that the number of illegitimate children who were by law, automatically being given Caymanian Status whether they had very close connections or associations with the Islands or not, was somewhat disconcerting. There are cases of illegitimate children that have come out of the dark past, and by merely presenting themselves, have acquired Caymanian status by law. It has presented a number of difficult legal arguments, a number of emotional issues for the Caymanian Protection Board to administer, where children, whether legitimate or illegitimate are all thrown into the same category.

It was therefore felt, after considerable thought and attention, that a restriction should be introduced to limit Caymanian Status to legitimate children in the first instance. However, it was also felt that there were certain deserving cases, in which the Caymanian Protection Board should be given the discretion to grant Caymanian Status to an illegitimate child who would otherwise now be barred by this amendment. Therefore, provision is being made in this amending Bill, in clause 3, where a new subsection 6A is being recommended, that:

"Any person under the age of eighteen years who:
(a) is an illegitimate child of a person who possesses Caymanian Status; and
(b) has been ordinarily resident in the Islands for a period of three years immediately preceding the application, may apply to the Board for the grant of Caymanian status."

So whereas as the Law presently stands, illegitimate children are automatically considered Caymanians, with this amendment, illegitimate children would have to apply to the Board for the grant of Caymanian Status, and the Board would have the discretion to grant it.

The other area of the Law that has been quite controversial at times has been section 18, which deals with the various categories of persons who may apply and to whom the Board may grant certificates of Caymanian Status. Upon close examination, it was discovered that perhaps an unintended advantage was being given to an adopted child of a Caymanian versus a child, one of whose parents was born in the Islands. And these provisions are contained in sections 18(2) and (3) of the principle Law. A child, one of whose parents was born in the Islands had to be ordinarily resident here for three years immediately preceding an application to the Board for the grant of Caymanian Status, whereas in Section 18(2) any person, regardless of age, who was an adopted child born outside the Island may, without any requirement of residency, apply to the Board for the grant of status. And it has been considered that that rather unfair advantage should not be allowed. Clause 3 of the Bill, Sir, therefore provides a suitable amendment to introduce firstly, that a residency period will be required, and also that reference to an adopted child in section 18(2) really applies only to persons in their minority. So we have specified in the Bill that it must be an adopted child who, before attaining the age of 18 years, makes an application. This will bring about a certain amount of consistency between consideration being given to adopted children versus consideration being given to children, one of whose parents were born in these Islands.

And as I mentioned earlier, clause 3 also seeks to insert a new subsection immediately after subsection 6, to introduce a discretionary provision that would otherwise have been removed by the amendment earlier mentioned, that is, that the Board may now entertain applications in respect of illegitimate children who have been resident for a period of three years, and who would otherwise have been debarred.

The next two clauses deal with the areas of the law that covers the loss of Caymanian Status. It was discovered quite recently, after the law was enacted that the new Law, the 1984 Law, contained inadequate provisions in respect of the loss of status where that status was granted under previous laws. Clauses 4 and 5 are therefore intended to rectify those anomalies, to make it abundantly clear that as was obviously the intention and the desire of Honourable Members, it was always the intention that persons could lose Caymanian Status under the circumstances defined in section 21 of the Law whether that status had been granted under the 1984 or any other preceding Law. Clause 4 provides that we insert reference to the revised law, which is the preceding law, in the appropriate sections of section 21 which deals with the loss of Caymanian status. And clause 5 similarly inserts the same reference to section 22 of the law which deals with the powers of the Court to recommend the forfeiture of Caymanian Status under certain circumstances. In other words, the ability to forfeit or to loose Caymanian Status was somewhat hampered by the fact that the 1984 law did not make it abundantly clear that status could be lost whether or not it was granted under that or any preceding law. These amendments suffice to make that abundantly clear.

The final clause, Mr. President, clause 6, deals with a totally unrelated amendment to section 45 of the principal law, which provides for the detention of persons who have been refused permission to land. What this proposed clause is intended to do, is to enable an immigration officer to grant temporary permission to a person who would otherwise be detained whilst a deferral has been made in respect of whether or not to grant permission to land. This is principally to enable persons to be released temporarily because we have limited detention facilities for immigration purposes, and it is occasionally necessary to have someone temporarily landed until arrangements can be made for their departure. This amendment would enable an immigration officer to allow that person temporary freedom, notwithstanding the ability to cancel that freedom at any point in time.

With those comments, Mr. President, I heartily commend the Bill to the House.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill for a Law to amend the Caymanian Protection Law, 1984 be given a Second Reading. The Motion will be open debate, but before declaring it so open, I think I will suspend proceedings for lunch, until approximately 2:15 p.m.

AT 12:46 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2:20 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated.
Second Reading debate on the Caymanian Protection (Amendment) Bill, 1987. The Motion is now open for debate.

The Elected Member for North Side caught my eye first.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I cannot support a Bill to amend the Caymanian Protection Law, 1984 for two main reasons. We have all agreed, Members in this Assembly, both privately and to some extent publicly, that the Caymanian Protection Law needs a major overhaul. I do not see, therefore, these piecemeal attempts to try and rectify certain sections of the Law achieving what a redrafting of the whole Law would do. To just take a stopgap approach to this Law is simply going to create more legal hassles for people instead of the Law being a thousand pages with two hundred amendments, it is going to be a thousand and five pages with two hundred and three amendments, and one amendment is contradicting the other amendment, and by the time you get through it, you do not know whether you are dealing with the original Law, or the amended Law or some laws in between. I think we need, as a Government, to take the Caymanian Protection Law, I think we have all agreed, that the Law which was drafted originally in 1975 or 1976, which was redone in 1984, does not serve the purposes, in most areas, that it needs to address in the country today. And correcting these few areas that this proposed Bill does is only going, Sir, in my mind, to complicate the issue and not really solve the problem. For instance, everybody knows my position on who should get Caymanian Status - it should only be two types of people - those who get it by direct descent, as far as grandfather, and those who get it by marriage with an added requirement of a number of years of successful marriage. Nobody else, period. We create a separate entity and call them registered aliens, or whatever we want, that can work, can abide, but that is it, they cannot get involved in the political process, neither by voting nor by standing for office.

I am particularly perturbed by this amendment. The second reason why I cannot support this is that this amendment appears to discriminate against illegitimate children. Now, call it reduction in the moral standard, call it sophistication or whatever we choose to call it, more and more young Cayman women are opting for single parenthood and are we going to tell a Caymanian who has an illegitimate child for another Caymanian (because there is nothing in here that differentiates it) after he was born here, lives here, grows up here, he may apply for status and we are going to leave it up to some Board to turn him down, or to give him the status? The amendment says that people of Caymanian Status, but it does not go on to specifically provide for Caymanians who have illegitimate children. So if it is silent on it, we can get what God would - lost years, yesterday, we could get into the same kind of argument - those people who have been given Caymanian Status, they do not think they are any different from us, and they should not be. So if having Caymanian Status is one and the same as being a Caymanian, which we are telling people in one breath, then this Bill is saying that illegitimate children born of Caymanians, for Caymanians, will have to apply for status. And what are we going to do with them when the Board turns them down for whatever reason, put them on the island they are going to build out in the Sound? And give it a special title so that they do not need citizenship to work? I mean, we are giving an adopted child from Central America or Africa, or the Middle East, more rights in a country than an illegitimate child born of two Caymanians? I cannot support that, Sir.

I can support that there should be provision in the Law for status to be taken away, I have always felt that way, but again, I think it has to be done in the light of a comprehensive review of the Law, which is going to address all the other areas, like people getting status because they were on some list that went somewhere and got lost in some drawer or something else and it should be gazetted, but every Gazette I look in, I look for the names and I do not see any names. But I hear that this one got it here, that that one got it, this one tells me that he is now Caymanian and I have all the rights that you have in your country and everything else, because I was given Status retroactive to 1985. I guess that is a rumour too.

But you know, there is an old saying here, Sir, that a man from Bodden Town said that he heard a rumour that a girl was pregnant, and I will bet you, ten months after that, damn, she did not have a baby. So where there is smoke, there is some fire.

Mr. President, I feel we need to look at the Protection Law in the light of Immigration demands for Cayman today. My feeling on that is that it takes a comprehensive review of the Law. Piecemeal legislation to plug holes in the boat while it is still in the water, rather than taking the boat out and giving it a proper overhaul is not going to solve the problem.

I cannot support the Bill, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Member of Executive Council.

The Honourable Second Elected

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

support a Bill for a Law to amend the Caymanian Protection Law, 1984.

I share the views with the Elected Member for North Side as regards the need for comprehensive and extensive amendments to be made to the Caymanian Protection Law to block certain loopholes and correct certain anomalies, but the amendments that are being brought to this Honourable House today are considered urgent, and putting our priorities in order, it was felt that rather than delay this any longer that it should be brought to the House for this meeting, and that other far-reaching and necessary amendment would be made later on in the year.

I should also point out that I too had some concern when I first read these amendments and considered them, as regards single parentage in the Cayman Islands, but I would refer the Member to section 17(1) where elaborate provisions are made for those cases of Caymanians. It deals with the acquisition of Caymanian Status by birth, and in subsection (a) and (b) it sets out there very clearly the provisions which have been made for the cases of single parentage involving Caymanians born in this country.

The change being made to section 14(2)(b) is actually only reverting back to what the Law said originally and prior to its revision in 1984. In my view it is necessary to reinsert the word "legitimate" because it has been found that in the past several years, the Law as it presently stands allows, a much larger number of persons to claim Caymanian Status as of right. This was never expected, nor intended. It increases the number claiming status as of right, it is also coupled with the fact that the revised Law in 1984 also removed the loss of status on a person reaching 18 years of age, as it stated that the person:

"... shall be deemed to possess and enjoy Caymanian Status both before and after the attainment of the age of 18 years."

This condition has helped, too, to swell the numbers. To my mind and my interpretation, the word "child" not defined by "legitimate" for example, allows those persons who have married Caymanians to claim status for their child or children born to them outside this country through a different relationship or connection. This is an undesirable situation which I think must be corrected urgently, otherwise the numbers of those claiming to belong to Cayman will go far beyond what was intended, and to my mind, will not be in the better long term interests of our country. This section will therefore hereafter apply to legitimate children, but provision has been made in a new subsection under section 18 for an illegitimate child, one of whose parents is Caymanian, to apply to the Board for the grant of Caymanian Status.

In dealing with the adopted children of Caymanians under section 18(2), the situation presently exists where the adopted child is placed in a more favourable position than the natural child of a Caymanian who was born abroad, simply because the natural child of a Caymanian must be resident in the Cayman Islands for three years before applying for status, while the adopted child does not have the three years required residency period. This was never intended to be the case, and the amendment in section 3 will correct this anomaly, and further make it clear that children adopted by Caymanians must be resident in the Cayman Islands for three years and that application must be made for status before the child reaches the age of 18. This again will avoid those unusual situations where cases are made to adopt persons, adults of 19 years, 20, 25, 30 years and older, which has been done in the past in order to give that individual a claim to Caymanian Status.

Other amendments in the Bill are intended to make the grounds on which status is lost applicable to those persons who also have gained status under the Caymanian Protection Law which was repealed in 1984. This deals primarily with any specific case whereby a person has obtained status by fraud, false representation, or concealment of any material fact, and additionally makes clear the power of the Court to recommend the forfeiture of status under the present Law and the repealed Law dealing with marriages of convenience which often end in divorce, and end up before our Courts.

The last amendment provides the procedure for immigration officers to follow to enable them to temporarily and legally land a person without detention, pending a decision as to whether or not that person should actually be allowed to remain as a visitor in the Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, these amendments, though few in number, are absolutely necessary, timely and reasonable, and they are being put forward totally in the long term interest of this country. We have expressed concern as to who should have and should not have Caymanian Status, we have expressed concern at the rate of growth, and Caymanians becoming a minority in our own land. These measures are intended to support that position, and help allay those concerns.

Therefore, Mr. President, I fully support the Bill. Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, my feeling on this Bill was the same as on all the other Bills I received for this meeting. They were couched in such language that you did not know whether they were saying yes, or whether they were saying no. But, I guess that is the legal man's way of doing things. I am not throwing any aspersions on his ability, but what I have just said is a fact.

I will not offer support for this Bill. As representatives of the people, we do not usually get to know much of what is going on. We hear stories that we have to do a little bit of digging up and we get some smoke. However, in this instance, I do know that we have certain problems regarding Immigration that we have to do something about. What I am not going to agree with is the grasshopper approach that the Government has taken in its administration of its policies. I know too, that Government has a lot of work, a lot of things facing them. Bills that should have been brought to this House this session, coming back from 1985, that they committed themselves to, and they are boycotting it. They voted for it here and they boycotted it in Committee, instead of coming to the Committee meetings they form other meetings and claim that they are priority and they have to go.

This Bill is a grasshopper approach to the Immigration problem in this country which the Government will not set down a proper fundamental policy on Immigration and stand by it. One little piece of a Bill here to deal with it. A Motion over here to deal with another little thing. We must be man enough to say if you want people here or you do not want people here. You cannot pat some on the back and kiss some on the mouth. And that is what is going on, and that is what I take objection to. People must know where they stand in this country.

This Bill, as far as I am concerned, reeks of discrimination between the illegitimate and legitimate children. An illegitimate child, Mr. President, or any child, has no say in how it is conceived. I would say, and I will stand by it, regardless of who tells me I am wrong, that some of the illegitimate children that are coming into this country today deserve to be in this country as some of the people that we have granted Caymanian Status to.

I take strong objection to this Bill. Are you telling them they may apply to the Board for the grant of status? Some of the illegitimate children that come into this country saying that they are born by a Caymanian parent, have some sort of paper to prove it, what Government must do, is go out to the limit to find out by whatever means they can, whether that child is in fact, born by a Caymanian parent. And if the child is born by a Caymanian parent they must and should give him status, some kind of status, whether it is just "belongs" status or something else. It reeks of discrimination to illegitimate children, and I am not going to support that, Sir. I had to put up with that all my life, I am not now about to put it on somebody else, not this legislator.

Mr. President, this is a good time to ask the Government what is the position behind the people who got status because of copies of the confidential minutes of the Protection Board's meeting given them, then sued the Government for their privilege. Government should reply to me as a representative, because up until now my understanding is that Government has now given everyone on that list Status, but as the Member for North Side pointed out, has not published the list of people who got status, which is required by law.

I do not condone backscratching. If the other Government is at fault for something, why should this Government compound it? Mr. President, when I get up in this House, and make noise about the way we are treated as representatives of the people, you hear that we are a bunch of fools and only want to make noise. We have every right to make noise in certain instances, and in every instance that I have got on my feet in this House, I have had good cause to. If the Government cannot govern by straightforward policy, it should resign.

The Bill reeks of discrimination, it is a grasshopper approach that I am not going to support. If the Government of this country is finding themselves bogged down with work, then it is high time that they tell the people of this country, look, my hands are full, I have the Portfolio for A, B, C, D, E, F, and it is time that you take the sixth and give them to somebody else. The country is suffering because of it. Why do they not have the guts to get out, whether in this House or on a public platform, and tell the people that they need to do it to get the work done, and I know that this is one of the big problems. The Members are tied down. The day is going to come when that sharing of power is going to happen.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, I think it is expected that I will have some mild objections to this Bill. It seems to me that Government's Immigration policy is now in a shambles. Immigration has always been a very difficult subject, because there is no denying the fact that no country is an island unto itself. We need people from abroad just the same as people from abroad need us. I consider the United States of America to be the greatest country in the world. It was built by foreign labour, it has remained great because it has tapped the brain-power of the world. It is the people from the older civilisations that have really made America great.

Nevertheless, in a small country like the Cayman Islands, the problems of immigration are more intense. We find it very difficult to draw the line and it is not an easy job to police the immigration of an island. To bring in the labour we need, to bring in the capital we need, to bring in the expertise and technology we need, and at the same time keep out the undesirables, keep out the no-goods, keep out those who are selfish in their intentions and can mean the country no good. It is a difficult job. But at the present time, it is an impossible task, because it is lacking direction from the top. The Executive Council seems unable to make a straightforward policy decision, and although I do not yet understand what the Honourable Member meant by a "grasshopper approach", I like the phrase, and I am going to find out from him what it means. But I think it is a very fitting term to the immigration policies of the present Government. And this Bill is yet another example of the grasshopper approach.

This important Bill has not been published to the public - I know Honourable Members are going to jump up and say you did not see the date on that Bill? Published with Extraordinary Gazette of Thursday the 23rd of April, 1987. And did not you Honourable Members receive white copies? But certainly this is not the way to deal with an important and major piece of legislation. How it is that simple things like putting out a fish pot or taking of the spear gun from the little boy, or counting the green parrots - how it is these insignificant things, these minor things can receive so much publicity, can be aired on Open Line, can be broadcast in public meetings, can be put on the radio, can be discussed on the street, can be the subject of conversation at cocktail parties, can be the talk at the dinner table, and important matters like this are hidden and kept secret by the Government until the last minute? The green copy of these Bills came to us Monday morning. I opened mine on Monday morning, and in fact I think some of them were on my desk when I came in on Monday morning. And for the people who subscribe to the Gazette, many of them have not yet received in the mail the green copies of these Bills. So no publication has been given to them, and in fact the Government, because it knew the contents would be controversial, deliberately kept the Bill secret.

And the Bill is controversial. The Bill takes away the inherent right of a minority group, a right which had hitherto existed in the immigration laws. And I speak about the right of illegitimate children to Caymanian Status, which is taken away by the amending Bill when we amend section 14(2)(b) of the Caymanian Protection Law.

Section 14(2) said any person who met three requirements shall, for the purposes of this Law, be deemed to possess and enjoy Caymanian Status, before and after the age of 18, unless such status ceases under other provisions. And that person was (a) an eligible person (which meant that he had to be from a certain country or countries, had to be under the age of 18) and (b) had to be a child, step-child, or adopted child. But we are changing the word "child", which included originally, both legitimate and illegitimate children and confining the word "child" only to legitimate children. So by this amendment, we have taken away with a stroke of the pen an inherent right which the illegitimate child had or enjoyed under section 14(2) of the Law. And that right was that that illegitimate child, if he met the other two requirements of the Law, had been deemed to possess and enjoy Caymanian status.

Both the Elected Member for North Side and the Second Elected Member for West Bay dwell on the aspect of this action, and it is also clear to me that we are discriminating against the illegitimate child. And this is wrong, because if society frowns upon the parent who has an illegitimate child, it is still not right to burden that child with the act of his parents. So whether it be right in the eyes of man or not to be born an illegitimate child, there is no reason for the law of the land to stigmatise that child, to discriminate against him, to make him appear different simply because he had been born out of wedlock. Now those who seek to do this have tried to make us believe that the only reason why they are doing this is because the illegitimate child appeared to be in a better position than a child born under other circumstances or adopted under other circumstances. And if I were committing such an evil, such an atrocious act, I too, would try to put some salve upon my troubled conscience. But there is nothing that can be said that makes this action right.

The second amendment to the Law is aimed specifically at Jamaicans. Another discrimination, and I am talking about adoption. It is my understanding that this act has been prompted because a few Jamaicans have tried to bring in their relatives by claiming that they are adopted. And I even heard of one case where the adopted person was older than the adopting parent. But this action today, I think, is aimed specifically at Jamaicans, and is in my opinion, another sign of discrimination. The parents of the adopted child will now be able to apply, on their behalf for a grant of status. But this is not possible, in my opinion, if the child happens to be aged 16 or 17, because in order to apply now, the child, before he can get his grant through adoption, must have reached the age of 18 and must have been resident here for three years. So that if a parent adopted a child that was aged 16, that child could not now be eligible under this section for a grant of status until the child had been living here three years. By that time the child would be 19, and if the child had been 17, the child would be 20. His application would have to be denied because he was over the age of 18, because under this section he must meet both requirements of the Law. He must be under 18, and must have lived here for three years, and if he had been adopted at 17, this would not be physically possible.

I would like to read the section so that the public will know this is not my interpretation, this is what is written in the Law:

"Section 18 of the Principal Law is amended by:

- (a) substituting the following for subsection (2):
'(2) Any person possessing Caymanian status who has adopted a child in a place outside the Islands may, if that child:
(a) is at the date of such application an eligible person; and
(b) has been ordinarily resident in the Islands for the period of three years immediately preceding the application, and before that child attains the age of eighteen years, apply on his behalf to the Board for the grant of Caymanian status to him.'"

So it is going to be very complicated to receive status if the person happens to be at these higher ages.

Now, I see in this another difficulty. We know that recently several Caymanians have adopted babies in the United States. What will be the position of these children? Well, in the first place, under the old Law, the child would have been deemed to have his status, or his parent could apply and it could be granted, but now they have put in a three years residence, which means that when the Caymanian parents adopt an American child, that child will not automatically get Caymanian status, will not administratively get it, but the child will have to put in his three years of residence and then apply. I imagine those parents who have already brought in these children from abroad will be okay, but for new ones coming in it would seem to me, that under this section if we put through this amendment as it is, that the child will have to be resident for the period of three years. Despite the provision mentioned by the Second Elected Member of Executive Council, in section 17 in dealing with another matter, that section will have no bearing at all on section 18 which we are now amending in this "grasshopper" fashion. And the irony of it is that the illegitimate child and the adopted child could be children with Caymanian parents. Why has there been no objection from the public to these sections? Because a very clever Government with a very industrious Gazette manager kept the thing under wraps, kept it covered up so nobody could object. And now they pass it through with the rough-shod machinery that they have used in the past.

Other amendments to the Bill deal with and tighten up the provisions regarding the forfeiture of Caymanian status dealing specifically with those who have been granted status under section 18(1). I have no fault to find with those sections, but because they form a part of the grasshopper Bill, I will have to vote against those sections in my attempt to defeat the two aggravating clauses which I dealt with earlier. And I would say that if the Government had the courage to tell its public what it would like to see as an immigration policy, and would publish in advance, these Bills - I do not mean the seven days prescribed by our Standing Orders, I mean really publish so that people can see it - they would not find themselves in the dilemma that they have been in with this whole Meeting. What I am saying on this Bill now could have been said on the other half dozen Bills which we dealt with. Although I admit that the other Bills were not as important publicly, as this one is, and did not discriminate against two minority groups as this Bill does.

I think it is only fitting that I conclude by asking the Member to withdraw this Bill and present it at the next sitting of the House. There is no urgency to do this, I have heard nonsense about the Board being swamped with applicants who claim they are the illegitimate children of some illustrious father who procreated them in great numbers in some far-off days. Certainly, the Board can deal with this. If the person claims that he is the bastard child of a Caymanian woman, this fact can be easily ascertained from the records, and people will know who his mother is. And if the person claims that he is the illegitimate child of a Caymanian father, certainly, there are ways of attempting to determine whether the statement is correct or not. The child might be able to prove it from the registration records, he may be able to prove it through a blood test, the father may have been appointed a putative father by the Courts, and failing all this there may be affidavits to prove that his father had acknowledged his child, there may be receipts to show that he had supported him, and the Board could ask for proof and would not have to accept every applicant.

Of course, as the minister told his congregation when the farmer could not understand the difference between faith and knowledge, he said the six children are sitting there, they belong to the mother, that is knowledge - they belong to you, that is faith. And so the Board has the means at its disposal to determine whether the person who claims to be illegitimate is really the illegitimate child of a Caymanian parent. And even if they cannot be a hundred per cent certain, this is no reason for Government to discriminate against an entire class of people, the way the Government is discriminating in this Immigration Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think perhaps it would be a convenient moment to suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes for our customary afternoon break, and I will accordingly now do so.

AT 3:24 THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3:49

MR. PRESIDENT:

Resumption of the Second Reading debate on the Caymanian Protection (Amendment) Bill.
Does any other Member wish to speak?

In that case does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Mr. President, I would like to thank the Honourable Members who spoke for their contributions, and to attempt to summarise my understanding of the main areas of concern.

If I could begin by saying that this Bill was certainly never intended to be kept under wraps. It was never intended to be regarded as a piecemeal piece of legislation. It was, however, intended to plug a number of important loopholes that have come to notice during the recent experience of the 1984 Law, and it was presented after careful consideration by the Government and notwithstanding the possible need for a comprehensive review of the legislation, these particular amendments were regarded as sufficiently urgent and important to merit bringing a Bill at this meeting.

The major concerns that have been expressed seem to centre around the perceived discrimination and taking away of rights of illegitimate children, the amendment proposed in clause 2 of the Bill. As the Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council said in his contribution, this amendment simply reverts to the position that existed pre-1984 - that is, that the Law prior to 1984, specifically stated that only legitimate children were deemed to have possessed Caymanian status. It was therefore since the 1984 Law that experience has shown, perhaps, the inadequacies of the wisdom which went into making that provision in the 1984 Law.

The second concern seems to be centred around clause 3, which deals with the position in respect of adopted children, and contrary to the view expressed, this clause was not designed specifically to exclude, or aimed at any one nationality. But any nationality that is affected by its provisions will be treated accordingly, be they Jamaican or any other nationality. As I said in presenting the Bill, Sir, there was an unfair advantage being given under section 1 of the Law that did not exist in the case of section 18(3), and this amendment was simply being brought to do two things - to bring about the same three year residency requirement, but also to make clear the intention that the granting of Caymanian status in the case of adopted children is really intended for children, and not adults. It is true that numerically, a child of the age of 16 coming to the Island at that age for adoption could not qualify for the three year residency requirement. But that child could qualify under other provisions existing in the Law. In any event, we cannot possibly try to legislate for every conceivable combination of circumstances that might exist. In fact, it is those combinations of circumstances that has added a lot of confusion to the subject already. Therefore my view is to try to keep it in the most simple terms as possible.

Reference was made to the non-gazetting of a certain list of persons who were reportedly recently granted Caymanian status. Let me just add in passing that there was such a list, a number of persons were recently granted Caymanian status as a result of a Court ruling which dealt with one particular case, and the same point of Law extended to others and they were treated accordingly. The Gazette is now being made - the fact that it has not yet been gazetted is in no way an attempt to conceal the decision - they will be gazetted in due course.

There is sometimes, Mr. President, reason to regret the short notice that is given to some major important legislation prior to its introduction, and it is sometimes desirable and necessary to have public input and public consultation prior to so doing. In the case of the Caymanian Protection Law, whereas the general spirit of the Law is so important that public consultation is often desirable when amending it, in this particular instance, the amendments being of a tightening-up nature, it was considered unnecessary and undesirable to have public consultation prior to bringing the amendments forward. As I explained in introducing the Bill, some of these provisions are simply tightening up loopholes and making clearer the original intention, particularly in the areas regarding the loss of Caymanian status.

Again, Mr. President, I thank the Members for their contribution, and thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Caymanian Protection Law, 1984 be given a Second Reading.

GIVEN A SECOND READING

MR. PRESIDENT: Bills. First Readings.

THE TRUSTS (FOREIGN) ELEMENT BILL, 1987

FIRST READING

CLERK: THE TRUSTS (FOREIGN) ELEMENT BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT: The Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to deal with the creation of Trusts and matters connected therewith and incidental thereto, is deemed to have been read a First Time and is set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE TRUSTS (FOREIGN) ELEMENT BILL, 1987

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to deal with the creation of Trusts and matters connected therewith and incidental thereto.

The Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, although concise, I think, indicates the rationale for this Bill, and with your permission I would like to read it.

"The principal object of this Bill is to remove any doubt that upon the creation of a Trust, the parties may select the Law of the Islands to be the governing Law of Trust. And if so, that all questions concerning the Trust, including its creation, effect and administration, will generally be determined by the Law of the Islands, to the exclusion of the laws of other jurisdictions."

And the Bill also seeks to clarify certain other related matters.

This Bill Mr. President, is the result of approximately twelve months of study. It came to light, that under the Trust Law there have been a few cases where, if taken to Court, the Court in some cases has to determine which country's laws are applicable to this Trust. Sometimes the decision is based on the owner of the Trust as to where he or she is domiciled. And certainly Sir, there has been more input on this Bill than any other Bill I have ever dealt with. It has been commented on by the former Attorney General, it has been commented on by the Chief Justice, by the Registrar of Companies and Trusts, and also been studied since January of this year by my consultative committee of the private sector, who have recommended unanimously that this Bill be put forward.

There are some people or practitioners in the financial industry, perhaps in the past, Mr. President, since this matter came to light, who have been working under the assumption that the Trust Law which is presently in force covers the reasons for the Bill presently before us - that is, the conflict of laws of different countries. Although most recognise the uncertainty of these assumptions, that is, if it was to put it to the test as to which law governs the Trust, there is a very good chance that some other jurisdiction's law may apply. It depends on the domicile of the owner or sometimes they call him the settler. Some countries of the world prohibit the establishment of Trusts, or the transfer of assets outside of their country. In this case, it is uncertain which country's law would be deemed by the Court to govern the Trust. The Bill before us seeks to codify this conflict, Mr. President, and codification seems highly desirable, because of the points earlier made - the judicial authority, either here or in England, on these points, I understand, are scant and sometimes unsatisfactory.

The Bill, if approved, would serve to save a good number of Trusts, which validity have previously been doubtful, whether or not the parties were unaware of the doubt. And the drafting of the Bill, I understand - I have to say I understand, because I have no legal qualification - is deliberately kept general so that our judicial system will find some room for manoeuvring, hopefully, in our favour. The rationale behind it, and the gist, is that whatever Trust is created here, we want to make it abundantly clear to the Court that it is our wish that the Cayman Islands Law apply to all of them.

Thank you, Mr. President, I recommend this to the Honourable Members.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that a Bill for a Law to deal with the creation of Trusts and matters connected therewith and incidental thereto, should be given a Second Reading. The Motion is open for debate.

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I rise to my feet quickly in a happy mood, I should say, because this is the first Bill that was brought in detail that will do something to help the country. And I only rise to congratulate the Government and the mover on bringing this Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any other Member wish to speak?
Does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Only to say thanks to Honourable Members who spoke and who did not speak for supporting the Bill, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: I will put the question that a Bill for a Law to deal with the creation of Trusts and matters connected therewith and incidental thereto, be given a Second Reading.

QUESTION PUT: AYES

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH: I would like a division, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Certainly.

AGREED: THE TRUSTS (FOREIGN) ELEMENT BILL, 1987 GIVEN A SECOND READING

MR. PRESIDENT: The House will now go into Committee to study a Bill entitled the Legal Practitioners (Amendment) Bill and other Bills.

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE

COMMITTEE ON BILLS

MR. CHAIRMAN: Perhaps I may start just by noting for the record that at yesterday's Sitting the Committee agreed that any printing errors and the like, in Bills we were then considering should be corrected as appropriate, by the Second Official Member, and I would take it that was the Committee's wish again today, and shall proceed on that assumption unless any Member voices a contrary view.

And secondly by saying that I have been given notice of and have given leave under Standing Order 52(2) for one amendment to be moved to the Bill that we are now about to consider, that is a Bill for a Law to amend the Legal Practitioners Law. I have also been given notice of one amendment and have again given leave in respect of a Bill for a Law to amend the Prisons Law, which we will come to later, assuming we get far enough today. And the notice of amendment in respect of the Legal Practitioners Bill is an amendment to clause 2.

So, a Bill for a Law to amend the Legal Practitioners Law.

THE LEGAL PRACTITIONERS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

CLERK: Clause 1. Short title.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The question is that Clause 1 to stand part of the Bill.

will put that question. No Member wishes to speak, I

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. CLAUSE 1 PASSED

CLERK: Clause 2. Amendment of section 4.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Clause 2 is the clause in respect of which I said I had been given notice of an amendment. I hope all Members have received a copy of the amendment proposed and I will give the Honourable Second Official Member leave to move it formally now.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. Chairman, with your leave I move an amendment to Clause 2 of the Bill. The amendment is intended to fulfil the undertaking that I gave to the House yesterday to introduce an amendment to make it absolutely plain that the Clerk of the Court would only permit a legally aided person to go outside the Islands as a last-ditch necessity to obtain legal representation. In other words, that this Bill would not open the floodgates to foreign lawyers to come in to the Islands. And, in order to achieve that end and make it plain that that is the effect of this Bill, the amendment does two things.

First of all in the Bill as it was originally drafted, there appeared the word "impracticable" - and it was in the context where the Clerk of the Court has certified that in his opinion it is impracticable in the particular circumstances for a person to find representation in the Island and so on. "Impracticable" has been substituted by "not possible". And then secondly, a new subsection is proposed to be introduced. The new subsection will be a subsection to section 4, to be numbered (3), and it would read as follows:

"(3) The Clerk of the Court shall not issue a certificate under paragraph (b) of subsection (1) unless he is satisfied that every reasonable effort has been made to obtain the services of an Attorney-at-Law in the Cayman Islands for the person to whom the legal aid certificate has been granted, ..."

"... and that there is no Attorney-at-Law in the Cayman Islands who is willing and able to advise or represent that person under the provisions of the Poor Persons (Legal Aid) Law."

In other words, the Clerk of the Court has to be satisfied of two things. First of all that every reasonable effort has been made to find an attorney to represent the legally aided person, and he has also got to be satisfied that those efforts have ended in futility. In other words, that there is no attorney on the Island who is willing and able to advise or represent that person. And I hope that this will meet the objections of those Honourable Members who said it would open the floodgates, and of those Members who were worried, and rightfully worried, about the position, for instance, of graduates from the Law School, whether they would be overlooked. Graduates from the Law School will be Attorneys-at-Law in the Cayman Islands, and if they are prepared to take on the legal aid representation of any person, then of course, the Clerk of the Court will not be able to give a certificate under this section, and the representation of the legally aided person can and will be undertaken by that graduate from the Law School. So they will not be shouldered aside by a rush of attorneys from outside the Island.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

The question then is that Clause 2 of the Bill be amended, or really be substituted by the new Clause 2 which has just been explained by the Honourable Second Official Member.

The question is open for

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, I would like to clarify my position regarding the comments made with regards to the Law School. My major concern is not that the students of the Law School will find this type of work as a teething exercise, but mainly that our people here will get the best possible representation from the lawyers that are locally available.

I see this amendment, Mr. President, as really, semantics, and in fact not saying very much, because all that is being said here is in fact a repetition of what was already in the Bill. Because the major operative section of this amendment states that those who are willing and able, so it does not really change the situation. Willing has been the problem - most of the attorneys in the big firms are not willing, and this is where the problem is. So this subsection here is not clearing up the problem that was voiced yesterday. Our main problem was that the attorneys in the Cayman Islands refuse to take on legal aid cases because they are not lucrative. So by putting in here "willing" and "able", this is really not saying anything, it is not changing the situation any, because they will continue to say they are not willing to serve.

The point that we were raising yesterday is that there should be something done whereby the litigation lawyers in this country could be rostered, something could be mandatory, where they would be put on a roster and serve in a similar way as in the example I gave with regard to Justices of the Peace. They have made it quite clear that they do not intend to leave their lucrative practice to go into the Courts and take on legal aid cases. And while I have much respect for the mover of this amendment, I really do not see where this is in any way satisfying the problems that we addressed here yesterday.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, I want to agree with the Second Elected Member for George Town who spoke. The amendment does nothing at all to allay the fears which I mentioned. The amendment may fulfil the promises of the Honourable Second Official Member. I would rather see the Law itself, remain as it had been, with this amending Bill withdrawn, because I think it can be withdrawn at any stage, and when we meet again in June, for the Honourable Second Official Member to bring the Poor Persons (Legal Aid) Law with an amendment that hopefully will help the problem that exists. The problem that exists simply is that although we have an abundance of lawyers, the country is overrun with them, we cannot find any of them willing and able to carry out any of the legal aid work. It is true that the fees are small, and perhaps Government may want to look at increasing the fees.

So I am strictly against the amendment as I had been against the original Bill.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. Chairman, I too share the same concern. This was one of the areas that I mentioned in my debate, and I am wondering if the Honourable Second Official Member could say whether "who is willing and able" could be removed from the section which is now being proposed or if he could give us a reason, really and truly, why it is there.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

The words "willing and able" are there, if I understand the question correctly, simply, so that if there is nobody who is going to undertake, to make it plain, to make it beyond doubt, that before the Clerk of the Court can authorise a legally aided person to go outside the Islands, there must be nobody in the Islands who is prepared and able to undertake the legal aid defence of the person. There may be people who are prepared but are not able, because they are in another case, there may be people who are theoretically able but are not prepared, not willing to do it. So "willing and able" are in there to recognise those two elements.

The comment that I am going to make now applies to all the points made by the Honourable Members who have spoken so far, and it is this: that before I could introduce a Bill that made it compulsory for lawyers to represent somebody, I would certainly have to think very hard about it indeed. And I would invite Honourable Members to think very hard about what that path, once embarked upon, could lead to. If by law you start compelling lawyers, or any men of business to do something in their commercial life, to take on a client when they do not want to, you are treading a dangerous path which it does not take much imagination to see where it leads. And that is a path which, in my understanding anyway, is not in accordance with the spirit in which business has been done in these Islands, and not in accordance with the spirit with which these Islands have been administered up to now. That sort of compulsion on any sort of man of business is, and I can only use the word again, is dangerous and a dangerous precedent. And it is for that reason, coming back to the question that I was asked, it is for that reason that the word "willing" and also the word "able" appears in this amendment.

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. Chairman, I am, as the saying goes, 'caught between a rock and a hard place', because I truly want those poor persons who are not able to pay to get a lawyer to have some legal representation. And, on the other hand, I want to be able to protect our young Caymanians who are just budding at the present time.

One way that - it is a possibility that I would suggest - is to have a public defender. This was something always in the back of my mind, but I bore in mind the cost to Government. But since members of the legal practice are not coming forward as should be their moral and social duty, perhaps Government could increase fees in such a way that you could have a public defender, and his costs defrayed by those increased fees. Maybe this is what needs to be done.

As I have said, I am caught between a rock and a hard place, I do not particularly like the phraseology used here, "willing and able" because, well there is no need to repeat what has already been said. But on the other hand, I would not want our people not to have some sort of legal aid if the need arose for them. But maybe Government would take my suggestion and look at it. Withdraw the Bill and let us look at that suggestion, and increase the fees to defray the cost of a public defender.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. Chairman, I think we might be looking too deeply into it, because the Honourable Second Official Member the other day said to us that there were something like 76 cases which were represented in this Island on legal aid. 72 of them were done by local lawyers, the other four were when we could not find someone local to carry out the defence of those persons.

It seems to me that a lawyer is no different from any one of us. You have to earn a living, you have certain commitments that you have to meet, and while we say that they earn significant sums of money, and I agree the majority of them do, it is illustrated by the seventy-two cases which they defended that they are not only earning a great deal of money, they are also willing to do these cases for lesser fees than they would earn commercially. I do not believe that the amendment which was recently put forward by the Honourable Second Official Member moves too far away from that point. I think my reading of it indicates that the amendment which is presently before us is certainly a lot clearer than the Bill was originally. I personally do not want to force somebody to defend a poor person or any other person, for fear that his defence might turn out to be mediocre, never mind how qualified and how experienced and how good they say he is. I think the amendment presently before us certainly creates a great deal of flexibility, both on behalf of the qualifying attorneys-at-Law from the Law School as well as other people who might be willing to do it within the Islands, before going outside to seek any representation. But certainly if all fails, you certainly, in my view, want to have the poor person represented by a lawyer. I think this amendment, in my view, meets that point.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, I cannot support the views expressed by the Honourable First Official Member regarding the derogation of any professional responsibilities of lawyers, mainly because they feel they are being forced into a situation. I think lawyers, like any professionals, have certain professional responsibilities and ethics. So I believe that if they were encouraged - I hate to use the word forced - to follow a certain path, if Government decided that is the way we are going to go, that lawyers, like any other professionals, would fall into line.

What is the major problem as I see it here is not so much that this year we had 72 out of 76 cases handled by Caymanian, or whatever the numbers, but it would be interesting to know what firms actually handled those 72 cases. And I believe if we were to check that it would narrow down to but a small few. What we have is a situation where certain firms on this Island bluntly refuse to have anything to do with legal aid cases. And because of that (I think this is known also by the Honourable Second Official Member) there are very few of the firms that will take these on. And I believe that this particular subsection here, I would reiterate, offers no comfort. It is totally unnecessary, it does not satisfy the problem which we expressed here yesterday in our debate, it is just put here for whatever reason, I do not know.

This Bill should be withdrawn. I think that the Honourable Second Official Member himself admits that it is a very serious situation, he admits that to ask lawyers to take on legal aid cases against their will is a serious situation. I do not see it that way. I do not see where we should be baby-sitting these guys. We should say to them that they have a responsibility to this country. But we are trying to find an easy way out for them. This is not right, Mr. Chairman.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

I am going to interrupt the Honourable Member, but we are now at past half past four, and I suspect that a number of Members probably want to have more to say during the Committee stage of this particular clause, and I think in the circumstances probably, we had better move back into the House, move the adjournment and continue the Committee stage debate tomorrow.

PRAYERS

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake, Amen.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread: And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us: And lead us not into temptation: but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us: the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us: the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Second Elected Member for

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

NO. 45: Can the Honourable Member say what was the total cost of recruitment of teachers for 1986 in the United Kingdom including overnight accommodation and transportation to the interview site, the length of contracts that were offered and how many teachers were interviewed and how many were recruited?

ANSWER: Government did not recruit teachers from the United Kingdom in 1986.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Supplementary, Mr. President.
Did they recruit for 1987?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

The answer to that question,

Mr. President, is, yes.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Then if they recruited for 1987, would the Honourable Member give me the answer then?

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member has given you the answer. If you wanted figures for 1987, you should have asked for them.

If you want them now - please be seated while I am speaking - if you want them now, I will certainly invite the Member who answered the question to consider undertaking to provide them for you, but you cannot expect them in an answer to a supplementary.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, yes I can expect it, I knew I would not get it, but I can expect it, because the question was asked before and I did not get it.
Would the Member say where they recruited teachers from for 1986?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: The recruitment of teachers in 1986 was from the country of Trinidad.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can you say how many were recruited?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: It would be wrong of me to say because I really did not get that information, but I know that they did do a recruitment in Trinidad in 1986, whether it was ten, whether it was eighteen, I am unable to say.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Supplementary, Mr. President. Is it possible for the Member to say why the change in country for 1986, because I believe they recruited in 1985 from England, and that they have done so in 1987? Was there any particular reason why Trinidad was chosen in 1986 instead of England?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think we are straying, really, rather far from the initial question. If Members want to find out things like that, they must put down questions. The initial question was about recruitment from the United Kingdom in a particular year, and specific information was sought.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, a supplementary. In order for me to get my supplementary across, I need to say something before that.
The first of the year, a question was going to be submitted to the Member for HESS. I told him the reason why I wanted the information, and he said that he would get the information for me. Well, the information did not come, and that is why I have put the question down on the Order Paper. They knew quite well what I wanted. What I do not understand this morning is how the Honourable First Official Member came to get in contact with the question. I know you are going to say he is the Member for Finance.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, there is no reluctance on my part to provide the information for the Member for recruitment of teachers in the U.K. for 1987, if he wishes that I will undertake to do it.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I will put down another question on the Order Paper for the September sitting, and with all due respect to the Honourable Member, I was not talking to him, I was referring to the Honourable First Elected Member of Council.

MR. PRESIDENT: If the Member wants information about recruitment to the public service, whether of teachers or others, the question should be directed to the Honourable First Official Member.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: That would not be the first time the question was cut up to look the way you want it to look.

MR. PRESIDENT: Order! Order! If the Member has no further supplementary, he may ask Question Number 46.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 46: Can the Honourable Member say when will Government deal with the immigration problem concerning Caymanian spouses and adherents who held Cayman Islands' passports or thought that they had Caymanian status, but are now being advised that they can no longer acquire a Cayman Islands' passport or that they do not have Caymanian status?

ANSWER: The Government is dealing on an on-going basis with individual cases involving problems of the kind mentioned in this question. Almost all of the known number of cases involving such persons have been satisfactorily resolved.

It is necessary for persons to first possess British Dependent Territories citizenship in order to qualify for a Cayman Islands passport.

It is a prerequisite that persons applying for British Dependent Territories citizenship be free from immigration restrictions: such persons must therefore normally first possess Caymanian status or permanent residence.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Supplementary, Mr. President. If it is necessary to possess British Dependent Territories citizenship in order to have a passport, can the Honourable Member say why these people were given a passport in the first instance, if they did not qualify?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, the British Nationality Act has undergone a number of changes since 1948, and in the earlier days, persons who had any close connection with the Islands, who were themselves British descendants by ancestry, were privileged to travel on British Cayman Islands passports, as they were then known. With the introduction of the current British Nationality Act, there is no longer such flexibility.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Supplementary, Mr. President. If these persons qualified under the 1940-whatever Act, to the best of my knowledge - or can the Honourable Member state if these same people should not therefore have been deemed to have Caymanian status when the British Nationality Act came into effect in 1984?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, we are mixing up two subjects, Sir. We are dealing with British Dependent Territories citizenship, not status. The persons who previously held Cayman Islands passports by virtue of their descent from a citizen of the United Kingdom and Colonies are now required to register as a British Dependent Territories citizen before obtaining a renewal of his passport. It is not a question of status. Those persons, by and large, already have status, it is a question of nationality, first being registered now.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Supplementary, Mr. President. We are splitting hairs this morning, but I believe I can split them too.

Can the Honourable Member state whether those people who resided in British Crown Colonies prior to the British Nationality Act of 1984 were not given British Dependent Territory citizenship if they had all of the qualifications when the British Nationality Act came into effect in 1984?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: The answer is that not all persons could be deemed, because not all persons fitted into the three new categories of citizenship created by the new British Nationality Act.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Supplementary.

Can the Honourable Member state what are the three categories of the British Nationality Act, and in what areas those people who qualified for a Cayman Islands passport as a citizen of the British Crown Colonies, to have a British passport, differed from those who now need to become a British Dependent Territories citizen, to get a renewal passport, which in most cases they have had for fifteen or twenty years?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

It does not matter how long a person has had a travel document, if the circumstances and criteria changes, then persons have to change to fit that criteria.

The Member should be aware that there are three new categories of citizenship created by the new British Nationality Act. They are, British citizens, British Overseas citizens, and British Dependent Territories citizens. Not everyone who resided in a Crown Colony fitted in all of those three categories. And in any event, a British Dependent Territories citizen's nationality, is restricted to the Colony in which the person is entitled to reside. So, being a British Dependent Territories citizen of one colony does not entitle you to be a British Dependent Territories citizen of another colony. Each individual territory has its own application and process.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think we are getting into a danger that a complex piece of United Kingdom law, not Cayman law, may get misunderstood if further explanations of this kind are given, because I am not sure that they are altogether accurate. And if Members do want a fuller statement of the position, I think it would be advisable that their concerns should be made known to us so that we could seek clarification from the United Kingdom authorities, who are in fact, responsible for this law. It is not anybody here who is ultimately responsible for deciding whether somebody is or is not entitled to what is loosely called a Cayman Islands passport - there is no such thing as a Cayman Islands passport - there is a British Dependent Territories citizenship passport issued in the Cayman Islands - and whether or not somebody is entitled to one is a matter that is ultimately for decision by Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom in difficult cases. It is quite distinct from status, and I am not confident that the position is being fully and accurately understood this morning.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Supplementary, Mr. President.

Could we have an undertaking from you, then, Sir, as President, that we will bring down the necessary hundreds of experts from H.M.G. so that the Caymanians who are today being told, who have been travelling on passports for 20 years and they go away for medical aid, and they come back at the airport they are given two weeks, can go to these people and get their position defined?

MR. PRESIDENT:

I certainly do not undertake that hundreds of experts will come here, nor do I think hundreds of experts necessary. But my understanding is that individual cases are being dealt with as they come to notice, and that the individuals concerned, are being enabled to put themselves into a position where they can obtain status and passports. So far as I am aware, and I do not claim to be aware of all cases, all the cases that have come to notice have been or are in the process of being, satisfactorily resolved. I suspect that a lot of people were issued passports to which they had no entitlement in the past.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Why did they get them in the first place, then, Mr. President?

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am sorry?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Why did they get the passport in the first place, if they should not have got them?

MR. PRESIDENT:

them?

Did you say why did they get them?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Yes, why did they get them?

MR. PRESIDENT:

By mistake.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mistake?

MR. PRESIDENT:

That would be my expectation.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Well, if we are not even Caymanians any more, I guess, yes, that could be a mistake.

CAPT. MABRY S. KIRKCONNELL:

Mr. President, a supplementary. I wonder if the Honourable Member would outline the procedure for correcting this situation, for the benefit of the listening audience? A lot of people have asked me questions which I could not explain, and if he would just outline how they should go about attempting to get it corrected.

MR. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Certainly, Mr. President. As a matter of fact it may of interest to begin by saying that when the British Nationality Act became effective and the new Caymanian Protection Law was introduced as a consequence, I think it was the Second Elected Member for George Town, who raised the matter of public education of this topic with His Excellency the Governor. And at that time it was agreed that Government would look into the possibility of putting together a statement that would be digestible for public consumption that would try to explain what is really a complex matter. It so happens that that pamphlet has just been completed and printed, and a news release is in now the process of being issued to advise the public that such a leaflet is available, and it does attempt to explain how to go about it, how it is done, and the various procedures that have to be followed. As I said, a press release is coming out about it, the leaflets will be available at the receptionist at the Government Administration Building in Grand Cayman, and we can certainly make copies available at the District Administration Office in the Lesser Islands. I think that will go part way to explaining some of the difficulties that people may now be having.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I wonder if the Honourable Member could give an undertaking to have a copy of this passed on to Members of the House?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Certainly, Sir, I will do.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Did I understand him correctly that they are now printed? Thank you.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, I intend to ask a question, but I need to make a statement so that he will understand what I am talking about.

Some time ago the Honourable First Elected Member for West Bay approached me with what I thought was a very good idea. He said that there were so many people that were now on this questionable list that he thought a day could be appointed and somebody in the District, probably one of the MLAs, would sit in the Town Hall and receive information from all the people that believed they had a right to - I do not remember whether he said a Caymanian passport or Caymanian status - and after the information was collected it would be brought to Government, all the Members of the House would meet, and decide in an informal meeting, if any action could be taken to remedy this situation. Because there are hundreds of people out there in a dilemma now, they do not know whether they are Caymanian or not, they do not know whether they can travel or not, and I fully supported his idea. I wanted to ask the Honourable Member if he knows anything about this, and if anything has been done to dampen the enthusiasm of the Honourable First Elected Member. If anything can be worked out, I give him my assurance that I would personally assist in Bodden Town.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Yes, Mr. President, I am aware of that suggestion. I supported it, and as far as I know, the First Elected Member for West Bay has made his intention publicly known, and it is now just a question of making the necessary arrangements with each constituency as to the appropriate dates on which such meetings would take place. And certainly, any means by which such cases can be brought to notice, is welcomed. The only constraint that one must recognise in so doing, is that we can only deal with a limited number at any point in time. So that if we get a hundred coming into the Caymanian Protection Board, or a hundred coming into the Passports Office all at the same time, we have to bear in mind that they cannot all be sorted out and dealt with instantaneously. But on an on-going basis we are trying to sort them out as soon as they come to notice, and if we can get a batch being brought to notice, we can certainly start working on them in batches. But it does not necessarily mean that they are all going to be resolved immediately that they come to attention, because some of them are quite complex cases.

MR. PRESIDENT: Perhaps although I do not think I can properly ask questions, I could just invite the Honourable Third Official Member to liaise with Members of Council, constituency by constituency, to see whether something of this kind can be worked out, because I think it is a problem that probably does concern many members of the public and clearly does concern many Members of the Assembly. Would that be possible?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Did you say liaise with Members of Council?

MR. PRESIDENT: No, Members of the Assembly. If I said Council it was a slip of the tongue, I meant Members of the Assembly, and I certainly said constituency by constituency, because I think the suggestion is a valuable one, and I think it would be helpful to everybody to try to assist people to sort out. But it is only fair to say that some cases are very complex, and it is not possible necessarily, to sort them out overnight. However, that is no reason for not trying to assist each and every individual who is in an uncertain or a difficult situation.

That concludes Question Time. We were, when we adjourned yesterday, in Committee, and the Committee will now resume to continue its consideration of the Legal Practitioners (Amendment) Bill and other Bills.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

MR. CHAIRMAN: Please be seated.
At the time when the House adjourned yesterday, we had, immediately before the House resumed, been in Committee, and we had been discussing clause 2 of a Bill to amend the Legal Practitioners Law. I think I am right in recalling that the Second Elected Member for George Town had just spoken. So the discussion on that clause, is in fact on the proposal to amend that clause by substituting a fresh draft of the clause, technically is what we were discussing I think. That discussion can now resume.
Does any Member wish to speak?
The Second Official Member.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. Chairman, yesterday the Second Elected Member for George Town had said that he did not know why this amendment was being brought forward, because it seemed to do nothing to change the original Bill. Perhaps it might help if I repeat the reason why it has been brought forward. It has been brought forward to fulfil an undertaking which I gave to Members that I would bring forward an amendment to make it plain that the legal practitioners in the Islands, and particularly graduates and new lawyers coming from the Cayman Islands Law School, would not be passed over, would not be ignored or prejudiced by foreign lawyers coming in on legal aid when those local legal practitioners, and particularly those graduates from the Cayman Islands Law School, were willing and able to take the case. And I hope, and I am sure in fact, that this amendment meets that undertaking, by making it absolutely plain that the Clerk of the Court will not give the certificate which is the key to going off the Islands, until the Clerk of the Court is satisfied that every reasonable effort has been made to find representation within the Islands, and that nobody is willing to do it, and that by moving this amendment, I intend and hope to safeguard the position of those graduates in the Law School who would be willing and able to do at least, some of the work that comes on legal aid.

Now, Mr. Chairman, it was not intended by this amendment to change the substance of the original Bill, it was merely intended to take the word "impracticable" in the original Bill, and expand it to meet concerns expressed by some Members including the Second Elected Member for George Town himself, that Caymanian lawyers, and particularly Law School graduates, might be prejudiced.

I do not want to go much further into the principle behind the Bill, and the Bill is comprised substantially in clause 2, but I think I should repeat what I said earlier in this Committee stage discussion, that it would be wrong to force lawyers to undertake the representation of people on legal aid. A lawyer who is forced into representing a client is likely to be not a very effective lawyer, an unwilling lawyer is not somebody whom I would want to have represent me, and I am sure that if Honourable Members think about it, they too, would not want to be represented by a lawyer who had been compelled against his will and against his interests, to represent them.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay, in his comments on this amendment said that he found himself between a rock and a hard place, in that he did have concern for the man in the street, the poor person or the little man who might need legal representation, and might not be able to find it on legal aid. That is, of course, exactly the rock and the hard place that the Clerk of the Court finds herself in on occasion when seeking somebody to represent poor people on legal aid and it is to assist her and to assist the man in the street who needs legal aid that this Bill and this amendment is brought forward. In other words, to get that poor person out from between the rock and the hard place that they find themselves in.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay also mentioned the possibility of public defenders. In my reply in the debate on the Second Reading of this Bill, I had said that that proposal had already been made, and perhaps I might repeat what I said then now. That proposal has been made, it has been put forward by the Law Society and by the Chief Justice. At the moment, it is with the Law Society to make further proposals and firm up the suggestions that have already been made, it is something which Government is willing to consider further and go into further. It is something that will need working out in detail, and those details have not yet been worked out. But it is an idea to which Government is at least receptive. But I should say this, that even if a public defender is instituted, that public defender, if the court's lists remain as they are at present, is likely to be very hard pressed. And it may be that even in future, with a public defender in place, that cases will arise that are just going to be too big for him to fit into his schedule, taking into account, that there may be a time in the near future when two criminal Grand Courts are sitting at the same time. That is something that has already been made possible by bills that have passed their Second Reading in this House, and something which is highly desirable.

If two criminal courts are sitting at the same time, the public defender may not be able to be in two places at once. And so the problem which this Bill is intended to face, though it may largely be met by a public defender scheme, may not go away entirely. And so to have this residual power, this ability, in the last resources to, in legal aid cases, and only in legal aid cases, to go outside the Islands and bring in direct a lawyer from outside the Islands, is something which is not going to go away, and which is going to remain necessary for the proper administration of justice, and for proper servicing of the legal aid scheme, and the proper provision of legal aid representation to the poor man, the man in the street.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. Chairman, a question to you. In regards to the public defender, I might not have been in the Chamber when that suggestion was made, the Member from the Brac and myself were discussing it, so I did not mean to steal his idea. But a question that I have is, since he says that the Law Society is coming forward with this, are they suggesting also, then, that their fees be increased so as to offset the cost of this public defender?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: I think it would be wrong of me at this stage to discuss proposals that really are in their infancy. But ways of financing the public defender so that it will not be a burden, or too great a burden upon the public exchequer, is something which I and which I think Government, has very much in mind when approaching this scheme. But I do think it would be wrong for me to toss about ideas that have not yet been decided or fixed in any way.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I wonder whether it would be fair to say, though, that the Government could reasonably be expected to bear in mind when considering the matter, the views that have been expressed by Members of this House.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: That was my specific recommendation, that their fees be increased in order to offset - I just want to put that on the record again.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. Chairman, the Second Official Member made reference to my comments yesterday, but he is only dealing with a part of what I had to say. I am not that concerned about the Law School students being able to find a job when they come out, because most of them are already taken. My major point is, and I would like to reiterate it, is that the lawyers in this country, those that are on the big fat salaries, are point blankly refusing to take on legal aid cases. Now I was told here yesterday that some 70 out of about 76 cases were taken on by Caymanian lawyers. It would be interesting for the Second Official Member to state the names of those particular firms. And I believe it would be shown that they are the firms that each year take on legal aid cases, because the other firms refuse to do it. And I am suggesting here, and submitting, that this amendment is specifically designed to protect the interests of these lawyers who refuse to take on legal aid cases.

Might I suggest that perhaps the way to go about this amendment, because it is attracting so much controversy, is to withdraw this Bill and introduce a new Bill at our next sitting which would take into account the question of introducing the scheme where lawyers that do not feel that they can participate in legal aid cases might be interested in paying a certain amount for each one of the lawyers in their firm toward a fund that could be used to pay a public defender. And secondly, that the lawyers that are present here now could also perhaps be put on a roster. One of the other things that could be considered is that the legal aid fees be increased, because I too think it is ridiculous - I am not sure whether the fee per day is something like $30, or what it is, $100 ...

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: It is now $100, it was raised from $30.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: $100 a day, which is not all that bad. But if it means that it would be more attractive to get the best lawyers, then perhaps we could consider $125 a day, or maybe $150. But to have your lawyers here refuse to take these cases on, I think is wrong. The other problem we are faced with, that if the cases that lawyers are brought in to look into are simple cases, then you could have a situation where you are not attracting the best calibre lawyers, or the most experienced lawyers into this country. These are the areas. And our people as a result, will not be getting the best legal representation. I cannot also agree with the Honourable Second Official Member that lawyers who are professionals in this country would abrogate the ethics of their profession because they felt they were forced to take on legal aid cases, and that they would give their clients mediocre representation. This is not correct, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN: It was the Third Elected Member for West Bay who first caught my eye.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT: Mr. Chairman, as Members are aware, when this Bill came before the House a few days ago, I did vote against it, I did not support the Bill at that time. However, since the Honourable Second Official Member has given quite a bit of explanation on this, I am now looking at this in a somewhat different light. For instance, he did explain that the majority of cases requiring legal aid had been dealt with or handled through local lawyers. There were only a few, and a very few, that needed to be handled by lawyers outside the Islands. I would suspect that in future, these few isolated cases, will still come up. I also mentioned in my very short debate on the Bill that I felt that lawyers should be expected to contribute their time and efforts as anybody else, say, sitting in a Juvenile Court. However, on second thoughts, nobody sits in Juvenile Court for weeks on end handling any one case - perhaps only a few hours a day or whatever. Taking into consideration that certain cases may take as long as 20 weeks or more, it is difficult for any firm, it does not matter who it is or the number of lawyers which they have, to undertake to use that quantity of time to defend a case. What I am saying here is that I have not really heard anyone put forward an alternative suggestion to what has been put forward in the Bill. What I am saying is, even having a roster, and even having the idea of a public defender in future - of course it is unfortunate that this should happen, but in future, as all of us are aware, these cases will continue to increase to the extent where even one public defender would not be able to cope with it all. And so, Mr. President, having said that, what I am saying is, that I now see this Bill in a much different light than I had earlier on, because of the explanation which the Honourable Second Official Member has made.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, my only comments on the comments made by the Third Elected Member for West Bay is that she perhaps obviously was not listening to some of the debate on this particular Bill. Because for her to say that she has not heard any suggestions made, I cannot see this. But I will not comment on that point any further. Three major suggestions were made, (1) that the Bill should be withdrawn, (2) that a public defender scheme should be considered, and (3) that we should consider increasing the legal aid fees so as to attract more lawyers. The point that she is making that there were only a few that were not taken by Caymanian lawyers, I still say that the major issue here is not that 72 of the 76 cases were taken up, but that there are lawyers in this country that refuse to take any of these cases, and that the same lawyers each year take up the legal aid cases because the others refuse to do it. If they are not going to do it, this is why there is such a strain on those that will do it, that they should contribute in some way toward it - and they are willing to do it - the Honourable Second Official Member has made it quite clear that the Law Society is willing to do this, because they are considering it now. Why, then should we rush this Bill, why then should we deal with it in an ad hoc manner, if we know that there is something more concrete being done now to solve the problem? This is my query.

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. Chairman, I see that any time one asks for one thing in Government now, especially staff, you are going to get three or four. The reference to the public defender having to spend, not being able to get to court because of the backlog of cases and all of this, Mr. Chairman, that is because little minor insignificant cases are going to court that should not be in court. Taking a child to court for a bicycle licence, putting them in prison for five days because his bicycle was not licensed - that is the reason why we need four or five judges here.

MR. CHAIRMAN:
Bodden Town.

The Second Elected Member for

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, there is a strong case for the withdrawal of this Bill. As I said in my debate we should be looking at the Poor Persons (Legal Aid) Law, and I agree that we should increase the fees if the fees are too substandard. Recent events show that we are being penny-wise and pound foolish. We had to bring in lawyers from abroad to do the poor person's legal aid work, and it is my understanding, we will be bringing more. When we bring them we put them up on the Seven Mile Beach in a hotel, we have to pay for food, we have to find air fares, we have to find rented cars and whatever other out-of-pocket expenses they may have. And certainly, this is running more than $100 a day. If we doubled the fees we would still be saving money and perhaps, lawyers might be more willing to accept these charity cases. Certainly, making this amendment today does not help. The problem is that Government is obligated to provide legal aid to poor persons that need it - once a person qualifies, Government has to pay. And Government should be examining the cheapest means of paying for this, which is not the system that we have used recently, to bring in outside lawyers. That is the most expensive way we can have. I know I have found the Honourable Second Official Member to be a reasonable man, in fact, the most reasonable that we have had in that chair in my fourteen years here. And I would suggest that he simply follow his good judgement and withdraw this Bill.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

I agree that he is very reasonable.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL:

Mr. Chairman, I would like to say Sir, that I feel that the amendment offered by the Honourable Second Official Member has gone a long way to allay the fears of the Members who objected to this Bill. There were fears expressed during the debate that the country would be flooded with cheap foreign lawyers, and he has made it abundantly clear in his amendment that the Clerk of the Court shall not issue a certificate unless he is satisfied that every reasonable effort has been made to obtain the services of an Attorney-at-Law in the Cayman Islands. The thing that has not been met, and I could not agree to, and that is, to make a lawyer, or make any lawyer, defend a case that he was unwilling to do. Because the defendant would certainly be at a grave disadvantage, and he would not be getting proper representation. Furthermore, if we should put a mandatory clause into this Bill, this would be setting a precedent. This is a free society. If you make it mandatory in this law, this would set a precedent for other laws. There is nothing to stop the Government if it follows this course, say for instance, the Second Elected Member for George Town, in his profession, making it mandatory for them to do free work for people. So I do not think, Sir, that I could support that suggestion that we make it mandatory.

The Honourable Second Official Member has said this morning again that the Law Society have suggested to him that they are prepared to pay or help pay for a public defender, of their own free will and accord. This is what I could support, and I think that this is a course we should pursue. We are in a free society, and this is what we are here to do, uphold that free and democratic society. I would like to say that the record clearly reveals that the Law Society have, over the past years, assisted people who needed legal assistance. Perhaps those people who have refused are not really lawyers who do practice in court - there are lawyers who do company work, or other work, and naturally if I am captain of a ship they cannot put me to fly a plane because I cannot fly it. This is what I think "willing and able" is trying to bring out. We have lawyers here. But the practising lawyers, lawyers who have the ability to defend people in a court are quite different from those who are doing other legal work.

I see no reason why we should withdraw this Bill. The fees - I remember we increased the fees, I think, sometime last year, and I do not think there is anyone who has objected to the increase in fees. Perhaps later on, if we find that the fees that we increased are too little, we can have a look at that again. But I see no reason for withdrawing this Bill. I think that the amendment offered is fair and reasonable and that we should proceed.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, in a democracy we all have our right of speech, this is one of the tenets of democracy, and I am sure the Honourable Third Elected Member of Council understands this. He is a man for whom I have a lot of respect. But money is not everything. We have a responsibility in this country. My suggestion is that there are a number of lawyers in this country that have done extremely well. They are retiring in five years, they have done nothing to put anything back into the community. These are the people that are refusing to do anything to help in the community. If the legal aid fees are increased, as was suggested by the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, I believe that this problem would be alleviated, thus going right back to what I alluded to earlier, that the whole problem is that of money. The lawyers that are refusing to assist the poor people in this country are doing it because they feel that the legal aid fees are not lucrative enough. It has nothing to do with other considerations. I am not here suggesting that we should make things mandatory under the law. I feel that it is a moral obligation for these lawyers to accept and assist. The Honourable Third Elected Member suggested that as a professional accountant, I would be reluctant to be forced to do something of a similar nature. I would remind the Honourable Member that as a professional accountant, many times I assist in my duties as a Justice of the Peace for $16 a day, not $100, and I do it gladly. Many times I do not even collect the money.

I feel that other professionals in this country should have a similar obligation, and I think that the Honourable Third Elected Member with the Honourable Second Official Member, have indicated that this law is short - it has shortcomings because it was reiterated by the Honourable Third Elected Member, that maybe the Law Society's suggestion is a good one. Now if this is a good one, why cannot we withdraw this Bill for the time being, further study the suggestion made by the Law Society, the deliberations made on this Bill so far by the Members of this House. Why is it that we have to feel hard nosed about the situation, that we must push it through because we feel we may have a majority to do it. We are working here in the interests of our people, not just to show that we have a majority or that we have the power to push a piece of legislation through. I feel that we should give this very deep consideration and take all these factors into account.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

The First Elected Member.

HON. BENSON O. EBANKS:

Mr. Chairman, I have not heard any Member address the question as to why this Bill should not be, or this amendment, and therefore the Bill and Law, should not be in place while the public defender's post is being considered. Surely the two can run side by side, run parallel, and even with this provision in the law, once the public defender's role has been thoroughly worked out and legislated for, then the public defender naturally would take over and this would become redundant. But in the meantime, surely, this solves a problem that exists. I have not heard anybody address that question. The only remedy I have heard to the whole thing is to withdraw the Bill. But what happens in the meantime? I think the Honourable Second Official Member has indicated that the question of working out the mechanics of the public defender is not one that is going to be simple and achieved by the wave of a magic wand, it is going to take time. This would be a reasonable interim measure.

The other thing I have not heard addressed is where the money is going to come from to pay for those increased fees that I am hearing advocated. If I recall correctly, the Members who are advocating the increased fees are those who squeal loudest when Government tries to raise a dollar of revenue. And it is Government that is going to have to pay this.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. Chairman, I might have said fees, Sir, and I had better clarify that. I did not mean fees. I did not mean the fees that the lawyers charge when I say that Government should charge the lawyers to offset the cost of the public defender. I was meaning increase their licence fees - that is what I was meaning so I want to clarify that. I squeal sometimes, you see.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, commenting on what was said by the First Elected Member, I would like to remind the First Elected Member that this amendment is not making any major improvement on what existed before. Because the courts in the past, did get people from off the Island to represent cases in this country. So this is not bringing something new in that respect. This was done before. Now he is asking the question, and I would like to comment on that, the reason why it is felt that this cannot work side by side while the Law Society considers the public defender scheme. And the reason is, that this particular piece of amending legislation will satisfy the problems that are being faced by those people refusing to assist in these cases. This will give them a way out, and there will be no need for them to then contribute to a public defender scheme. Because the system was working before where lawyers could be brought in specific cases, then there is no reason to have to rush an ad hoc piece of legislation, bearing in mind, that Government is aware that the Law Society now, is considering a scheme that would improve this whole situation. Why are we rushing it? It will not throw any mud in the face of Executive Council to withdraw this Bill. Why is it that we are so hard nosed about it? What is this piece of amending legislation doing that will improve the situation? What it is doing is making it worse.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. Chairman, I think if we go back to the basics of it, the Honourable Second Official Member told us yesterday that there were 76 legal aid cases in all, and 72 were represented by lawyers in the industry. And, realising that the Law School is going to produce, or scheduled to produce, five Attorneys-at-Law of the Cayman Islands in July, if, for some reason, in 1988 we have 144 legal aid cases, it is certainly going to mean that all of those will be utilised, all those who are presently providing defence for people who are in difficulty, as well as the five who are scheduled to come from the Law School, and there is no alternative if the 144 turns out to be a realistic figure, but to go outside and to take them in in order to provide the defence for the individual who is in need. I think the amendment which was tabled yesterday by the Honourable Second Official Member goes a long way in answering some of the debate that I heard during the Second Reading as to the word "impracticability". And I think it is quite clear now that the Clerk of the Court cannot issue a certificate until she is satisfied that there is no-one in the Cayman Islands willing or able to represent the person who is in need. And we can talk until we are blue in the face that we are going to roster this person, we are going to roster the other. I have great respect for those who are putting forward that view, I know that in some cases it becomes a frustrating issue, but I do not believe that we can legislate for it, I think it is something that has to be worked out by Government and the Law Society and the individual law firms.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman ...

MR. CHAIRMAN:

If I may interrupt you just for a moment, I do not want anyone to go blue in the face. I think that the time has come for our customary mid-morning suspension, I will note that the Second Elected Member for George Town caught my eye and he shall have first go after the suspension. But I will now suspend proceedings for about fifteen minutes.

AT 11:15 A.M. THE COMMITTEE SUSPENDED

COMMITTEE RESUMED AT 11:38 AM

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Proceedings in Committee are resumed. I promised the Second Elected Member for George Town that he would be permitted to catch my eye again.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, thank you. I must say it would be a pleasure working with you as a politician, because during the break you did give me some food for thought, and I feel that what you had to say was very inspiring indeed, but I am not going to say that it influenced me in any way. But, I believe that we have debated this at length. I feel confident from the respect I have for the Honourable Second Official Member and other Members of the House that the undertaking given that they will indeed work with the Law Society with particular reference to the public defender scheme, and also perhaps, have a look at reviewing the legal aid fees, that maybe this matter will not prove as detrimental to the public as had initially been my fear. But I would hope that this particular scheme that is being considered by the Law Society will not go by the way when this Bill is passed, because I know it will be passed, I think there are sufficient Members here to support it.

I am nonetheless still somewhat concerned at the additional section which is section (b) which has been added here, as I do not see the necessity for this, because to say "willing and able" is really only reiterating 2(b) of the amendment. 2(b) is there mainly because of the people not being willing or able to do some of these jobs. This is the reason why we have to try and get people from abroad. So to put section (b) in there, or paragraph 3, it is really a repetition of the meaning and intent of section 2(b) of the amendment. So this is really, in my opinion, totally unnecessary, it is really putting forward the undertaking in writing that was given by the Honourable Second Official Member, and it is really somewhat unnecessary because it is already contained in 2(b), this is the meaning and intent of section 2(b) of the amendment.

With those few words, I feel that I can now look at this in a different light, but it is with the understanding that the Honourable Second Official Member will still pursue with the Law Society in what they are doing now.

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. Chairman, I am of the same opinion. As I said yesterday the amendment sort of put me between a rock and a hard place, because I wanted poor people to have proper representation, and at the same time, I did not want to open the floodgates. I too will stress the point that I hope, as one Member of Council has already stated, that the public defender scheme will take time - I trust that this does not mean eternity. It is something that could well work in this country, it is needed, and I trust that at the time when that comes in the estimates, we would see a Bill for an increase of licence fees to the Law Society or to lawyers. With those words, Mr. President, I guess that I can give the Bill the support it needs.

MR. CHAIRMAN: It is in fact an amendment to clause 2 we are discussing, but I am sure that is what you had in mind.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I will support the whole Bill now, not just clause 2. You have a good Bill. That is trying to put words in people's mouth, Mr. Chairman, but it is the Bill I am talking about.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I always try to help Members when I feel they need assistance!

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: You have a good way of confusing us sometimes!

(LAUGHTER)

Do not get blue now, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I will have to, won't I! Well, perhaps now I can put the question, and just to remind Members, the question is that clause 2 of the Bill should have substituted for it, the amendment moved by the Honourable Second Official Member.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: AMENDMENT TO CLAUSE 2 PASSED

MR. CHAIRMAN: I did look up Standing Orders, as I was not myself absolutely clear whether when the whole of a new clause was in fact substituted for it, whether we had to treat it as an amendment of the usual kind, and vote first on the amendment and then on the clauses amended, or whether a different procedure should be followed. For an abundance of caution, I propose now to treat it as an amendment, so I will now ask Members to vote on clause 2 as amended. It is in fact voting on what we have just voted for, but I think that we should probably do that.

MR. CHAIRMAN: That completes Committee discussion on that particular Bill. The next Bill down is the Prison (Amendment) Bill.

THE PRISONS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

In the case of the Prisons (Amendment) Bill, I have had notice of one proposed amendment. The notice was given by the Elected Member for East End. It was a proposal that clause 6 be amended. I have given leave for his amendment to be moved. I believe that all Members have had a copy circulated to them, and we can come to it when we reach clause 6. Perhaps it is proper for me to say, in fairness to the Member, that he did, earlier, seek permission to include in his amendment, a proposal that two clauses in the Bill, I think it was clauses 3 and 5, should be negatived, but I discussed it with him and explained that in my view a motion that a clause be negatived is superfluous, and Standing Orders do say this, because you simply vote no against the clause, which has exactly the same effect as negativing it.

The question is that clause 3

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. Chairman, I object to this clause. As I have said already, I feel that the Governor in Council should have a say in the making of standing orders. I feel, Sir, that something as important as the prison, Executive Council needs to have that much more control over it and taking away the necessity of having Council's approval is, I feel, Council stepping away as it were, from their responsibility.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Elected Member for East End?

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. Chairman, this is one of the clauses which you spoke of earlier, that we could not really agree on. I do not wish to prolong the debate on it, but I would just like to say that I feel strongly that Executive Council should have a hand in approving standing orders for the prison. I see it as a safeguard more than anything else, I honestly hope and trust that second thoughts will be given to it, and that we would not take away that responsibility from Executive Council.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, in my debate on this Bill, I also expressed my concern over the inclusion of clause 3 which seeks to take away the necessity of standing orders which were previously approved by the Governor and now vesting this authority in the Director of Prisons. I feel Sir, that something as important as the standing orders under which our prison system is run, should have the very closest scrutiny of our Executive Council. If I could see, or if it had been explained, the real necessity for this move, to my satisfaction, that is, I could easily lend my support to this inclusion. As I stated in my debate yesterday, there seem now to be problems at this level, not necessarily with the Director of Prisons, but I have had reports from officers of the prisons, that things are really not well. Rather than giving more power at that level, perhaps we should be endeavouring to streamline the whole system, with the assistance, and with the understanding that standing orders would still be overseen or still be approved by the Governor in Council. To take this authority away and to place it directly in the management of the prison at this time, especially in view of the development in the administration of the prison, I believe is being somewhat hasty, and I believe that we will live to see that this is not indeed a wise decision.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Clause 4. Amendment of section

MR. CHAIRMAN:

do stand part of the Bill.

The question is that clause 4

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

with this clause also. This clause is adding two new subsections, and the first one is:

Mr. Chairman, I have difficulty

"(2) an officer when on duty and in uniform has, in relation to that duty, the same powers and privileges as are conferred on a constable by the Police Law"

Now what I am finding difficulty with is that he "may without a warrant arrest any person...not being an officer". Are officers little angels or what? Why are the special provision being put in where if an officer finds another officer in some sort of wrong doing and needs to take action at that moment, he would not be able to do so? I cannot understand the reasoning behind this. Maybe the Honourable Member could elaborate.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

stopped after reading sub-item (a) of that section of the Bill Sir. If he goes on to read item (b), he will see that officers may be arrested providing the arresting officer is senior or equivalent to the officer being arrested.

Mr. Chairman, the Member

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

could not arrest somebody in a lower rank?

What you are saying is that he

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

lower rank, he may not ...

No, he may arrest someone of a lower rank ... no, no I was bearing that in mind. Are you saying that he cannot arrest someone of a higher rank?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

He may arrest somebody of a

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

what this amendment is saying.

Mr. Chairman, that is exactly

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

hearing your reasoning for it.

Yes, why is that? I am not

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

officers must be responsible for their actions, and the discipline that goes with the service suggests that it is improper from a disciplinary point of view, to have officers of lower rank with powers to arrest officers of a senior rank. It does not run in accordance with the spirit of the disciplined services, of which the prison is one.

The reason for that is that

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

saying to me is that if a junior officer saw a senior officer conducting himself in an improper manner and carrying on, let us say

Well, Mr. Chairman, what he is bringing drugs into prison, he cannot make a move. That is what this is saying.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

No, Sir. Mr. Chairman, this section deals with making arrests without a warrant of persons who are contravening provisions of this Law or of regulations, rules or standing orders made under this Law, and that the person making the arrest without the warrant, must be equivalent to or senior to the rank of the officer being arrested. There is a provision within the service for reports to be handed up the ranks to senior people, so if a junior officer sees something that needs reporting, he can report it to his supervisor who knows the appropriate action to take.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

And what action will he take? He will hand it to the senior officer. This thing is too wide, those reasons are not good enough. Let us not even say drugs, say something under the law. Suppose you are raping a girl there, say my imagination is broad if you like, but suppose he is committing rape.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. Chairman, if I might just intervene and say a word. The clause 4 confers two separate sets of powers on prison officers. The first is that an officer on duty and in uniform has the same power as a police constable. A police constable has power to arrest without warrant, in cases of rape and in cases of drugs. And in such cases, an officer, against anybody, would have the power of arrest. The new subsection 3, which is the one the Member is addressing his attention to, is a power of arrest in respect of contravention of the Prisons Law or regulations, rules or standing orders made under the Prisons Law. And it is in respect of contraventions of the Prisons Law or the Prison's regulations, that it is felt that it would be contrary to good discipline if junior officers could call their senior officers to task, and by the use of the power of arrest, attempt to, as it were, discipline their senior officers. If a junior officer thinks that one of his senior officers is breaking the Prisons Law there are other lines of approach to the problem open to him. He should, of course, report it to the most senior officer or officer capable of making the arrest. But in all the cases which the Member has alluded to, cases of crimes against other laws than the Prisons Law, then, if an officer sees another officer, whether junior or senior actually committing the crime, then he will have the power of arrest as any police constable would.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

But not under this Law.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Yes, that is just what has been told. Look at section 2 of the new section 8.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. Chairman, I feel that was a very good explanation from the Honourable Second Official Member, and again it bears out the argument on clause 3. I think it strengthens our argument that that is one of the reasons that standing orders should be subject to Executive Council.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

You have made your point, but we now are actually on clause 4.

So, if I may, I will put the question that clause 4 do stand part of the Bill.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: Mr. Chairman, again this is one of the clauses that I had included in the amendment to the Bill. It was clearly pointed out during debate on this Bill certain dangers in this section. I believe Sir, that if careful thought is put into this it would be agreed with me, that it should be removed. What I am saying Sir, we have here that the Director may direct the supervision of a person of the opposite sex while in prison. We must face the fact that we are dealing here with a prisoner and a prison guard. If we have, for example, a female inmate who may have something against a prison guard, although that prison guard could be somebody of high character, I see this clause as something that could cause his character to be smeared. I hope and trust that as it says, discretion will be used in it, because I do not think if I stood or sat here all day and spoke like you referred to, until I turned blue in the face, I do not think it is going to be changed. But I would like to register that I fully disagree with this clause, because I see a danger in it.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Clause 6 is the clause in respect of which, as I mentioned earlier, notice of an amendment was given by the Elected Member for East End, and I granted leave for him to move that amendment, so I will invite him to move it now.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: Thank you, Mr. President. The amendment is as follows:

"In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 52(2), I the Elected Member for East End seek leave of the Chair to move the following amendment:

That clause 6 be amended by deleting the words 'twelve months' as they appear in the second line and by substituting therefor the words 'three months'."

Mr. Chairman, my reason for this amendment is that I feel that what has been proposed in the Bill to change from every 30 days for a medical examination of prisoners to one year is really too much of a long span. I believe that we should change it to a lesser period, and I know the Honourable Member who moved the Bill tried to explain to us the reasoning behind it. I still believe that we should put a lesser period, and it is for this reason, that I presented this Motion.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, I will not cover the same ground as I did in my debate on this, but I would mention here that I feel that the change from 30 days, or one month, to twelve months, is somewhat out of line and somewhat unreasonable. I would fully support the Motion that has been made by the Member for East End because I believe that this would go a long way to making this amendment much more reasonable. I feel that twelve months is really not treating the prisoners the way they should be treated, and that the three months that is suggested here, would be a much more reasonable situation.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. Chairman, as you know, I raised that point when I was dealing with the Bill at the Second Reading, and I am very happy indeed that the Member for East End has put forward the amendment. To move from 30 days to one year would not be, in my opinion, a good health practice with a prison as small as Northward and overcrowded as it is most of the time. What with the diseases that are rampant at this time, I suggested in the Second Reading, every other month or every three months. The amendment is for every three months, I think that the Government would be wise to not try to pound us on the head, but to vote with us on this amendment for three months.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Mr. Chairman, whilst the Government is not prepared to vote for the amendment as it is worded for the three months, if I could seek the mover's indulgence and ask him if he would be prepared in accordance with the same Standing Order 52(2) to seek your permission, Mr. Chairman, to amend his amendment to read "six months" instead of "three months", consideration could be given to supporting that amendment.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

I am just looking up Standing Orders for a moment if I may, as to what happens to amendments to amendments.

My understanding of Standing Order 27(1) is that it is perfectly in order for an amendment to an amendment to be moved. It would be possible either for the mover of the amendment, that is the Member for East End to say, as it were, that he accepted what was suggested and to amend his own amendment, or for the Honourable Third Official Member to move an amendment with or without the concurrence of the Member for East End, but I think the Honourable Third Official Member was offering the Member for East End an opportunity to say whether he would accept six months, and perhaps he would like to comment on that.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. Chairman, on this side of the House we are not as bad as we may be painted. I believe that all those who had intentions here of supporting my Motion for three months would go along with six months, because I believe that a half year is much better than one year. So if the Honourable Third Official Member so wishes, I would ask for an amendment to my amendment, if that was okay with you.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Yes, I certainly grant you permission. I think what you have now formally to do - I will take you as having formally done that, is to seek leave and be granted leave to amend your amendment, so that the word "six" is substituted for the word "three". I think, if I have understood it correctly, we now have to vote on the amendment to the amendment, then the amendment, and then the clause as amended.

So I put the question first.

that the amendment proposed by the Elected Member for East End to clause 6 of the Bill should itself be amended by substituting the word "six" for the word "three".

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AMENDMENT TO AMENDMENT PASSED

MR. CHAIRMAN: We have now got to the point where the amendment originally moved by the Elected Member for East End reads "six months" instead of "three months", and what I put next is the question that the Elected Member for East End's amendment to clause 6 of the Bill should be made.

Government Motion No. 2/87.

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 2/87

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, Honourable Members, I beg to move Government Motion No. 2/87, a Motion requesting this Honourable House to approve a proposal from the Central Planning Authority for an amendment to the Development Plan of the Cayman Islands.

The body of the Motion reads:

"WHEREAS by virtue of subsection (2) of section 7 of the Development and Planning Law (Revised) the Central Planning Authority may submit proposals to this Honourable House for alterations to any Development Plan;

AND WHEREAS the Central Planning Authority has submitted a proposal that the existing Development Plan, being that referred to in subsection (5) of section 6 of the said Law, be altered by re-zoning from "Low Density Residential" to "Hotels/Tourism" a certain area in the West Bay North East Registration Section which proposal is annexed to this Motion;

AND WHEREAS such re-zoning is desirable to facilitate the proposed hotel development on that site;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that this Honourable Legislative Assembly, pursuant to the said subsection (2) of section 7 of the Development and Planning Law (Revised) and to all other powers in that regard enabling, approve the proposal from the Central Planning Authority that the Development Plan be altered by re-zoning from "Low Density Residential" to "Hotels/Tourism" the area in West Bay North East Registration Section shaded purple on the plan annexed to the Proposal."

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Motion is duly moved. Does the mover wish to speak to the Motion?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, this Motion is proposed by the Central Planning Authority and attached to the Motion is a statement submitted by the Chairman of the Central Planning Authority which is in accordance with the provision of section 7(2)(ii) of the Development and Planning Law (Revised). This is to request the Legislative Assembly to approve the proposed re-zoning as set out in the body of the Motion.

Also attached to the Motion is a sketch of the area in West Bay North East showing the area on which the proposed development is to take place. It will be seen that there are three shaded sections of the area. The blue area is now zoned "Hotel/Tourism" and the rest of it, Mr. President, is zoned "Low Density Residential". The proposal is to re-zone a portion of the northern section of the "Low Density Residential" plot into "Hotel/Tourism". The purpose for it is also stated in the Motion, and that is, to enable the developers to have a sufficiently large portion of land on which to build the proposed hotel.

I hope that I am not going to be accused of putting a proposal forward on behalf of a special interest group, as was said at the time when we brought forward the case of the Hyatt Hotel requesting an amendment to the Development and Planning Regulations to allow an increase in the height of their elevator tower. From a Government point of view, this development in the Barkers/Palmetto Point area is a very useful one for many reasons. First, that area is undeveloped. It is a dark area, one we believe is used for drug trafficking and other things, and it is therefore the consensus of opinion that developing the area into hotel business will open the area so it can also be useful to the residents of that area. I am sure that many of the other districts wished that they had a hotel near to them too - it helps in many ways. And so, I do not believe that Honourable Members will object to this Motion. As I have said, it is supported by Government and it is supported by the Central Planning Authority. There is as yet, no definite plan on the timing for the beginning of construction, but the developers have it very much in mind, and at least they have already submitted their application to the Central Planning Authority for outline planning approval, thus the reason why this Motion is here today.

I therefore ask Honourable

Members to give their kind support to the Motion. Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Motion is now open for debate. Does any Member wish to speak? If not, I will put ... the Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I rise in support of Government Motion No.2/87 which is seeking some re-zoning of property in the West Bay/Barkers area. I am glad to see that this decision is being taken by Government. I have always contended that development of the West Bay area, the West Bay peninsula, is a key in the future development of our country, especially in tourism. The time has come, when we need to - and Government has to set the policy - start moving out of the George Town area and off the Seven Mile Beach area. Not only in tourism, but in other respects. I can remember when this stretch of property was just water, covered in swamp, just one little road, where as a boy, we used to go to search for land crabs, the white crabs and also sometimes use one or two good spots as a picnic area. And then two hotels came in - one had some problem. But the business establishment that made a difference in the Barkers area was when Villas Pappagallo was started. There were some doubts at that point too, but as an onlooker I said to myself if those people make it up there, it will be the beginning of development for West Bay. And I want at this point to congratulate them, I take my hat off to those developers. They not only built those condominiums there, but a very fine restaurant, one which has been very highly classed, has been established and is doing well.

Further, Government has completed the Barkers to Mount Pleasant Road, which I have asked to be named Ridley Powery Drive or Ridley Powery Road, I trust that it will not happen to that one, Mr. President, as what happened to Powell Smith Drive. But that is another issue which I will be dealing with later on. But that road, the Ridley Powery Road, has made a great improvement in this area, and, I want to stress the point to Government that now that they are giving approvals - and I am hoping that it is full approval for hotels and not approval for the sale of land - I would stress to Government that now that these approvals are coming with the consent of Government that they would look at other infrastructure in the Barkers area. It is no use passing permissions for development and refusing to spend the proper money on roads which will make it feasible for developers to go in. The Barkers road has been left unattended and even if it is a joint venture between Government and the developers, the road programme in that area has to be upgraded. It is a key factor in the development of West Bay, and not only a key factor for the West Bay's development, but a key factor for the future of this country's tourism, as far as I am concerned. It is, I would say, one of the best areas in this country, other than the Seven Mile Beach.

The other thing I am talking about, is all the other infrastructure. One thing will probably have to come in that area is some sort of slight dredging movements for beaches to be provided and such. And I support that one hundred per cent. I am trusting that the Honourable Member responsible is listening to what I am saying, and knows that he has my support on it, that when the time comes, as I said, we will not just find all the land sold in that area, but we will find buildings coming up, opening up the area.

With those few words, Mr. President, I give this Motion my full support.

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any other Member wish to speak? Does the mover wish to reply?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, only to say many thanks to the Members for their support, those who have spoken and those who have not spoken. Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I will put the question. The question is that Government Motion No.2/87, the terms of which were read out by the mover, should be passed.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. GOVERNMENT MOTION NO.2/87 PASSED

MR. PRESIDENT:

Government Motion No.3/87.

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO.3/87

LOANS (CARIBBEAN DEVELOPMENT BANK) LAW, 1977

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to move

Government Motion No.3/87, which reads:

"BE IT RESOLVED by the Legislative Assembly of the Cayman Islands, pursuant to subsection 1 of section 3 of the Loans (Caribbean Development Bank) Law, 1977, that the Legislative Assembly consent to the borrowing by the Governor in Council from the Caribbean Development Bank of the sum US$1,775,000, on such terms and subject to such condition as have been agreed between the Governor in Council and the Caribbean Development Bank for the purpose of constructing a water storage transmission and distribution system to serve the George Town area of Grand Cayman."

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Motion is duly moved. Does the Member wish to speak to it?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, the terms and conditions in particular the repayment of the loan will be made in 60 equal and consecutive quarterly installments, with a 5 year moratorium. The interest rate is 8.75 per cent for the DCR portion, which is the hard rate, and the other rate is 6 per cent. The project is the construction of storage facility and a distribution system for the supply of water to the George Town area of Grand Cayman.

The source of water for the project will be a low temperature multi-effect desalinization plant which will be located in the existing compound of Caribbean Utilities plant. The plant will be owned and operated by a company which is a subsidiary of Caribbean Utilities Company. The plant will have a production capacity initially, of 450,000 imperial gallons per day, and the principle energy for this plant will be the waste heat from CUC's 4.2 megawatt diesel generators. Feed water for the plant will be obtained by deep saltwater wells and will have the same quality as sea water except that it will contain approximately 3 milligrams per litre of hydrogen sulphide.

A long term contract has been finalised between the Cayman Islands Water Authority and CUC's subsidiary for the supply of water to the project. And the project area is the main area of George Town from the waterfront east to Eastern Avenue including its side roads, North Sound Road, Crewe Road to the airport including the Airport Industrial Park, Shedden Road, Walkers Road to the school at Portuguese Point. The charge for the water by the Water Company will be CI$13.00 per thousand gallon. I recommend the loan to Honourable Members and thus also seek their support.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Motion is open for debate.

The Second Elected Member for

Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, I must express my alarm at the speed with which Government is borrowing money. When the estimates were prepared for 1987, the Government requested a large amount of loans.

The Finance Committee approved the following loans for 1987:

Construction of roads	$478,000
Airport development on Grand Cayman	$115,000
Airport development on Cayman Brac	$1,550,029
Water and Sewerage programme	$4,731,359
Fire Service buildings	$828,044

TOTAL	$7,702,432.

This sum, of $8 million, to be borrowed in one year, is about equal to the total borrowings of a previous Government over an eight year period. So we have let the country slip back into the same style of Government we had prior to 1976 when the Government was heavily indebted, when the Financial Secretary in one of his budget addresses, had to sound a note of alarm that it was taking about 10 per cent of the recurrent revenue to service the loans.

What has happened to the stimulation of the economy which was promised at election time to generate the cash so that some capital projects could be funded from local revenue rather than the majority of it being funded by loans? I realise that the capital projects do require loans, it is not possible to take from revenue the large sums of money needed. But what alarms me is that the vital areas are changing, and the ratio between borrowing and one's ability to repay have gradually degenerated since 1984.

We are asked by this Motion to agree to a loan from the Caribbean Development Bank for the purpose of providing a water storage transmission and distribution system to serve the George Town area. No project could be needed any more than a water system for George Town. This will be admitted by even the severest critics of the Government. What is alarming is that this water system will be more or less dependent upon Caribbean Utilities and their good graces for the supply of the water. What is even more alarming is the over-generous provisions of the agreement with Caribbean Utilities. Over-generous in that, Government did not even see fit to provide for itself a small royalty. I realise the Company may not have been able to pay a royalty to Government for its operation during the early years, but there is no review clause, there is no provision for royalties to be collected in the future if the business should prosper the way it is expected that it will.

So here we have the Assembly being asked to approve a loan which, in one sense, is for a much needed utility, but the agreement for the practical implementation is no better than the old agreements given to Caribbean Utilities and to Cable and Wireless in the past. It is really a shame on the country that the deal which has been worked out for CUC is so much one-sided in their favour and it is a pity that Government did not have some surplus revenue from their three years of operation which could have gone into this project.

MR. PRESIDENT: speak?

Does any other Member wish to his right of reply?

Does the Mover wish to exercise

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President ...

MR. PRESIDENT:
Member for West Bay.

Very well, the Second Elected

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I had not planned to speak on this Motion, but there are questions that have been raised concerning the lucrative, I think the word was, contract with Caribbean Utilities, or whatever the company, K-Sal I think the company is called, and while I am in favour of a water distribution system in George Town, and I hope in the not too distant future, for West Bay, and I hope to give my reasons for that when we get to debate the Economic Development Plan - they are not questions, they are accusations that have been raised in the House, and I am hoping that in order for me to vote a yes on this Motion, the Honourable Member will clearly outline those accusations. Yes, I am speaking to the Member, not the Member moving the Motion, Sir, the Honourable Member responsible for the Water Authority, because in my mind, I find it difficult to see if they are in fact going to get everything imported duty free, they are not going to pay any royalties to Government, then Government has to give an assurance of so much water per month or per day, my worry is at the end of the day, some day, we might find ourselves in a position where people are not buying the water, still using the water, in the case of the hospital where now we are having to strike off thousands of dollars because people did not pay, we would not want to find ourselves in that position - for more reasons than one. We are now having in the case of the hospital, to tell the people that before they get examined they are going to have to pay. I am just trying to draw a relation between the two.

I am skeptical at this point concerning the viability by Government of this project. As I have said, the Honourable Member knows, I have told him he has my support, but there have been accusations raised here, and this is a public company - I for one, would like to see who the share holders are in this company. These accusations that have been made, not questions, I say accusations, by the Second Member for Bodden Town, and should be answered properly in this House.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think in fact we have now reached or passed the time when customarily we suspend proceedings for an afternoon break. I will therefore at this point suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I rise to support Government Motion No. 3/87, dealing with the raising of a certain sum of money from Caribbean Development Bank to finance the first phase of the George Town Water Project.

Mr. President, this project was presented in the budget for this year and given approval. It was known at the time that the funds would be raised through a loan, and the loan would come from Caribbean Development Bank. And so the resolution here today is only conforming with the provisions of the Loans (Caribbean Development Bank) Law of 1977 which states that any loan raised under the provisions of that law must be substantiated by a resolution of the Legislative Assembly. When the approval was given to the project in the Budget and it was known that the funding would be by loan, the rest of it was really by normal procedure of Government moving on with the project. First of all was the raising of the loan from Caribbean Development Bank which has been finalised, thus this Motion to confirm the legality of the loan presented to Government.

The Motion states that the loan is to finance the George Town Water Scheme. But that subject has been discussed and debated for quite some time. First was negotiation of an agreement for purchase of water and this was subject to an agreement between this Government and a company by the name of Central DeSal Ltd, which is an affiliate of Caribbean Utilities Company. The reason for that is because Central DeSal had to use the waste steam of Caribbean Utilities' generators in order to produce the water by that system. The agreement was entered into. It took quite some time to finalise the negotiation in order to bring the price down to where the poorer people in the public could afford it. I think the Government did quite well in obtaining the price which it had set out to obtain.

The agreement is quite clear in all its provisions and what will happen at the commencement of operation of the system: that Central DeSal will supply water to the Water Authority, and the Water Authority in turn distributes the water to the public. The price has been agreed on between Central DeSal and the Water Authority, and the Water Authority in turn has agreed on a price to the public. We recently published a notice to the public in the press outlining the manner in which the Authority would distribute water and in turn requested the public to make application to the Water Authority - those who wished to be connected with the piped water. The price was mentioned in that notice as well.

As to the statement that was made by one of the speakers that it was alarming to him the amount of loans which Government is negotiating, all I can say is this: that the machinery of Government must continue to operate, the various needs of the people must be met in one way or another, and when I say the needs of the public, I mean the essential things which are required and which Government have the responsibility to provide. We can rise in this Legislative Assembly and make many wild remarks, but if we are representing the people, we must bear in mind at all times what Government is able to provide, what is essential, and we must set about trying to achieve those things.

Now we can only provide essentials to the public when money is available, and Government can raise money in only two ways. One is by means of taxation. But I need not say very much here of what the reaction of even people in this Chamber is like when we bring measures here to raise additional revenue. To decide on the avenues of taxation is another problem, because they are so limited. Nobody wants to pay taxes and yet everybody wants everything. That is a problem that legislatures are going to be faced with now and in the future - how and where do you raise your revenue? The only other source of financing to Government is by loans. The Government has set a level at which it will borrow money, that is always being looked at by the Financial Advisers of Government; no proposal is coming before this Legislative Assembly for the raising of a loan unless Government has the ability to service that loan. When people in this Chamber speak about being alarmed at all these loans being raised by Government, I think they should try to understand the finances of Government before making those wild and careless remarks.

As to the water system, the agreement is signed; it spells out clearly everything that anyone wants to know about it. Anyone who would like to read the agreement is free to come to my office and do so. I will place the report or the agreement at their disposal so they can peruse it and satisfy themselves of the commitment entered between Government and Central Desal. The owners of Central Desal are the owners of Caribbean Utilities Company Ltd. Nobody else is involved. It was convenient for them to incorporate a new company to do this particular project and to keep it out of the operation and administration of Caribbean Utilities itself. As to what Central Desal will make of the operation is another aspect that Government examined very closely and for a long time before any decision could be made on the sort of agreement between the two entities. Central Desal will not get any more from that operation, than Caribbean Utilities is obtaining from their operation of electricity. There are controls as to what one can obtain from this business.

As to whether Government is able in future to apply royalty to the operation of this water system was already made quite clear to this Honourable House that the water obtained by the Water Authority is being sold to the public at the negotiated price plus what it requires for overhead costs. Therefore, the public is obtaining the benefit of what would otherwise be paid to Government as royalty. If there is any profit to be made out of the operation by the Water Authority, that will in time be paid over to Government or be used for further investment by the Water Authority. So whatever way one wants to view the operation, the public is obtaining the benefit directly or indirectly from the Government because profits of the Authority will go to Government and Government funds are used for the benefit of the public.

As to the quality of the water, there is built into the agreement the understanding that unless the water is of certain purity then the Water Authority is not bound to take that water, and every endeavour will be made by the operators, Central Desal, to ensure that it produces water of the quality required. It does not matter where the water comes from, whether it is from the sea or the ground, that water is distilled water, and it comes out at a certain purity by which the generators will produce it. All these aspects are under proper control, because the suppliers of the generator will be here to ensure the operation of the unit for quite some time after the commencement of operation. This particular safeguard is being built into the agreement to buy the equipments; also the quality of the water from day one.

There are a lot of things built into the agreement to establish that system, Mr. President. Questions are being asked about it, and again I will extend the invitation to anyone who would like to come and read the report, they are welcome to satisfy themselves as to the contents.

Mr. President, I support the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Does the mover wish to reply?

Does any other Member wish to

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Yes, Mr. President, just to be certain that we are all dealing with the true facts when we talk about public debt. If we look at the accounts which forms part of the 1987 estimate, page 9, we see that at the end of December 1985 the public debt was just $19,000, let us say $20,000 over $11 million, or $11,020,000. At the end of December 1986, the public debt was $9,835,961. So while we are borrowing we must quote both sides, we are also repaying some of the loans that are presently on the books. And just to state one more fact which was made earlier, that we should be using more revenue to fund our capital expenditure rather than borrowing. But I believe, the Member who made this point is quite aware that it cannot be done when you are dealing with projects such as water and sewerage. No country in the world funds them from local revenue that I know of.

But in the 1987 estimates, there is approximately $6.6 million of capital expenditure that is funded by local revenue, so we are doing a little bit of both - we are borrowing when we need to and we are funding whatever capital expenditure we can from local revenue - that is the spill-over of excess revenue over the recurrent expenditure. I thank Members for their points, I think sometimes we need to get these things off our chests and then I think I need the opportunity to say what is the correct one as well.

MR. PRESIDENT: I will put the question.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I beg to move Government Motion No.4/87 which reads:

"BE IT RESOLVED by the Legislative Assembly of the Cayman Islands pursuant to subsection (1) of section 3 of the Loans (Caribbean Development Bank) Law, 1977, that the Legislative Assembly consents to the borrowing by the Governor in Council from the Caribbean Development Bank of the sum of US$300,000 on such terms and subject to such conditions as have been agreed between the Governor in Council and the Caribbean Development Bank for the purpose of a ground transportation study to serve the Island of Grand Cayman."

MR. PRESIDENT: Government Motion No.4/87 has been duly moved. Does the mover wish to speak to it?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Just briefly, Mr. President. The objective of the borrowing is to conduct a Master Ground Transportation study with particular reference to the western peninsula of the Island that is from Tropical Gardens straight back to Bankers. This is the first phase of the exercise, Mr. President, and it is our intention to conduct a second phase which would take it from Tropical Gardens to East End once this exercise is completed.

Obviously those of us who drive up and down Seven Mile Beach, whether it is eight o'clock in the morning or five o'clock in the afternoon, or even at the lunch hour, will realise that some study should be carried out to find the best alternative to the traffic problem as it is. Also the study, hopefully, will indicate what to do about George Town as well.

The terms of the loan, Mr. President - it is a sum, as I said before, of US$300,000 to be repaid in 32 equal or consecutive quarterly installments with a two year moratorium, and the interest rate is four per cent with a commitment charge of half a per cent per annum on the amount of the loan not withdrawn from time to time. I think the terms are quite good indeed, and I recommend it to Honourable Members.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Motion is now open for debate. Does any Member wish to speak?
In that case I will put the question.

OTHER BUSINESS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTIONS

MR. PRESIDENT: Private Members' Motions, Item 4 on today's business paper. Private Member's Motion No. 6/87. Before I invite the Second Elected Member for West Bay to move that Motion, it may be convenient if I let the House know that he has twice sought my leave in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 24(7) to amend the terms of the Motion, and on each occasion I have given the necessary leave. I believe that a paper which is headed "Amended (No. 2) Private Member's Motion No. 6/87" has been circulated to all Members, and my understanding is that the Motion to be moved is in the terms now contained in that paper, and I will invite the Second Elected Member for West Bay to move it.

AMENDED (NO. 2) PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 6/87

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I am not prepared to take the Motion this afternoon. My understanding was that the Economic Development Plan would take precedence over these Private Members' Motions for today, and I understood also that the Standing Orders hopefully, would have been suspended in order to take the report on the Economic Development Plan.

MR. PRESIDENT: With respect, the business paper which mentions the Economic Development Plan has only been issued this afternoon. However, if it is inconvenient or impossible for the Member to move his Motion now, subject to the convenience of the House, there is no reason why we should not now adjourn, postponing this Motion until tomorrow. There is in fact only another quarter of an hour, twenty minutes left this afternoon. I am in the hands of Members. If all Members, or a majority, are in agreement that it would be more convenient to adjourn now and allow you to move your Motion tomorrow, I see no reason why that should not be done.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Yes, Mr. President, I was really expecting to debate the Motion tomorrow, since Private Members' Motions were tomorrow and we had other Government Business down. So I would support moving the adjournment now.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The only question before I actually invite the Honourable First Official Member to move the adjournment and so that there is no misunderstanding, I think that technically the Economic Development Plan will come in the form of a Report from Standing Finance Committee, and I think that the Standing Orders provide - let me finish - provide that reports come before Motions. And therefore, it is likely that any debate which arises out of the laying of the Report of the Standing Finance Committee on the Economic Development Plan may take place before the debate on the Private Member's Motion - conceivably we may not therefore reach that Private Member's Motion debate tomorrow. I did not want you to say that I had said something that misled you after the event. But I think that is probably what will happen tomorrow, if there is a debate on the Economic Development Plan it could well last all day, and it may mean therefore that your Private Member's Motion has to wait a day or two.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

No, I am with you, Mr. President, I am also in anticipation of a very long debate on the Economic Development Plan, the Police Report, and the Prison Report.

MR. PRESIDENT:

One other thing, as to the Economic Development Plan, technically being a report from Standing Finance Committee, it would, in accordance with Standing Orders, be deemed to be accepted by the House. But it was quite clear when the Economic Development Plan was laid last November or December that there was an expectation that the House would have an opportunity to debate it, after Standing Finance Committee had considered it and my understanding is that the Honourable First Official Member would intend to move, if necessary, a suspension of Standing Orders in order to enable the debate to take place. But I think it is as well that the House should understand what the position is.

As to - you mentioned the prisons report. My understanding is that is simply being laid, but we will see.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

I did not understand that, Mr. President - on the Prisons Report.

MR. PRESIDENT:

My understanding is that the prisons report gets laid, if in due course a Member has questions about it, or wishes to move a motion in respect of it, he may do so.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

You mean, we cannot move a motion when it is laid on the table? That is what you are saying?

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am sorry?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

We cannot move a motion when it is laid on the table?

MR. PRESIDENT:

Not at the moment it is laid on the table, but you can move a motion in accordance with the ordinary provisions of Standing Orders. I will explain to you later if you wish.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

In that case I would like to serve notice that I intend to move a motion to debate Government's response to the Report by Mr. Harry Brown, and I will deliver it to you in writing this afternoon if you want it in writing, Sir. Because this is not only a Report from the Prison, Sir, there is a Government Minute attached to this about actions Government intends to take, and Government Minutes are debatable.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Under what Standing Order?

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

There is no Standing Order that says they are or they are not, so we have to accept the democracy that they will be.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Oh, yes, sorry, I am not trying to tell you that the matter cannot be debated, I am only trying to explain to the Member because I suspect he was under a misapprehension that when a Paper or a Report is laid there is not automatically, an entitlement to debate that Paper or Report. The Member can come and see me and ask about it if he wishes, but that is my interpretation of Standing Orders. If a Member wishes to have a Report debated, it is up to the Member to take the necessary action in accordance with Standing Orders to enable the debate. That is all I am saying.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Well, that is all we were saying, Sir.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL:

Mr. President, I am not too clear on the order of things tomorrow, Sir, because I have always understood, and I have just looked up my Standing Orders about the Arrangement of Business. And it says "that on all days other than Thursdays, Government Business shall have precedence over Private Members' business".

MR. PRESIDENT:

That is perfectly true, and therefore a Government Motion or a Government Bill would be considered, on a Thursday, only after any Private Member's Motions had been dealt with. But it chances that the Report of Finance Committee on the Economic Development Plan will be dealt with as the Presentation of a Paper and a Report. That comes before all other business, if you look at the same Standing Order, 14(1), and it was because of that quirk in Standing Orders that I wanted to make clear that on my interpretation, anyway, the debate that arises out of that Report would have precedence tomorrow. I would be in the hands of the House if they wanted to change it around tomorrow, but I think if we followed Standing Orders, the report would be laid, the Honourable First Official Member would ask that Standing Orders be suspended to enable the Report to be debated rather than simply deemed to be accepted under Standing Order 67(4) and that debate would then take place. Or, at the time at which Standing Order 14(1)(e) says and before we come to Other Business, with is 14(1)(k). That is certainly my understanding of it, and that is what I was trying to explain earlier to the Member. But if the House wanted to debate Private Members' Motions before the Finance Committee Report was debated, there would be no reason why we should not arrange things that way tomorrow. I simply did not want the Member to think that his Motion was going to be debated first and then to be upset when he found that my normal ruling was that the other debate took precedence. But I think he has understood the position, and I hope I have made it clear to all Members.

Well, I wonder whether now the Honourable First Official Member would like to move the adjournment.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, in accordance with Standing Order 10(2) I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow morning.

PRAVERS

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake, Amen.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread: And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us: And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us: the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us: the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE PRESIDENT

MR. PRESIDENT:

Before inviting the Honourable First Official Member to present the first of the papers noted in today's Order Paper, I just have two points that I would like to make myself.

The first is an apology to Members of the House for keeping you all waiting for about fifteen minutes - I do not think we started till nearly fifteen minutes past ten - because I had promised one Member that I would try and help him resolve a procedural problem. It took rather longer to find a solution than I had expected. It was my fault anyway that we started a little later than I had thought we might. And secondly, to mention that problem.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay told me that he wished to present a Petition to the House and showed me the Petition which he had given to the Clerk. So far as I can tell, and subject to the Clerk's endorsement in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 16, the Petition is perfectly in order and prepared in the way in which Standing Orders lay down, and therefore perfectly capable of being presented.

But Standing Order 17 says that a copy of every Petition should be sent to the Clerk not less than five clear days before its presentation, and the Member was of the belief, as indeed I am of the hope, that this particular meeting may not continue for another five clear days, and that it might therefore be impossible for him to present the Petition to the House during this meeting as he had wished to do. I said to him that I thought that all he could do would be to invite the House to agree in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 83, that Standing Order 17 which is the one that lays down the five day requirement, should be suspended in order to enable him to lay his Petition at tomorrow's sitting, on the assumption the House does sit tomorrow. I added that it would be entirely a matter for the House whether the House granted that permission, not for me, but that was the way in which I thought he could go about the matter. And I suggested to him that if he wished to adopt that course, I would allow him, at this point in today's proceedings, to move the motion for the suspension which, if granted, would enable him to lay the Petition tomorrow. So it is now up to him if he wishes to move.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Thank you, Mr. President. Under Standing Order 83, I ask the House to suspend Standing Order 17 in order to enable the Petition to be put down on tomorrow's Order Paper.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 83, Standing Order 17 should be suspended in order to enable the Second Elected Member for West Bay to lay a Petition at tomorrow's sitting, to enable it to be put down on the Order Paper.

If no Member wishes to speak, I would put that question.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, we would like to know what the Petition is all about, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Really, I think in a sense the Petition is proper. It is a Petition that is signed by a number of people in West Bay making representations about the proposed construction of a deep water harbour in North Sound. But I do not think I had better go into it in detail further, otherwise I am in effect appraising the House of what the Petition is about - we are almost laying it. I have simply looked at it to make certain that it does accord with all the provisions of Standing Order 16, so far as I can judge. It is prepared in the way, and follows the rules, and does not break any of the rules that the Standing Orders lay down. Therefore it is perfectly proper to be presented, it is simply a question that it cannot be presented for five days unless the House agrees to its presentation earlier.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, since one Member has spoken on the Motion for the suspension - he did rise and say something - I feel that I should remind the House of the very hostile treatment they gave a Petition some time ago - the one which we brought on the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty, a Petition that was in order in every respect, sufficiently timed and yet, because of the contents, they would not allow debate on it, they would not allow any variation ...

MR. PRESIDENT: With respect, I do not think there was ever a petition about the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty. The matter that was not debated was a Motion to refer it to a Select Committee, is my recollection. There was talk about bringing a petition, but no petition was ever brought to the House or to me as Governor.

Is the Member for North Side wishing to raise a point of order - it has occurred to me there may be point of order that ought to be raised.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Yes, Sir, I think before the Motion can be debated, I have to second it.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think you are quite right, that had occurred to me belatedly.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: I would like to second the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town can go on.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Yes, Sir. I am not about to bend the rules for this. The House will be meeting in June again, and I think the Petition ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

If I could just correct the Member, I do not think the House is due to meet again until September.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Well, whenever the House meets again, in September, the Petition can be brought in the normal way. I think we will become the laughing stock of the world, because we apply one rule to one set of circumstances, and another rule to another, it depends on who brings it or what it is. We are not really abiding by any form of democracy where all things are given fair treatment. I certainly cannot agree with this suspension.

MR. PRESIDENT:

In due course the Second Elected Member for West Bay is entitled to wind up the debate, but he must give other Members a chance to speak first. The Member for North Side is entitled to speak because all he has done is formally seconded the Motion.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I cannot subscribe to what the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town has just said. I think in the instance he was talking about there was a completely different set of circumstances. In this case we are asking simply for a Standing Order to be waived to allow the Petition to be tabled in the Assembly and the case he is talking about, the Petition was duly laid, timed and everything else, the problem was the Standing Order which says that no item which has been resolved by the Assembly during the past six months can be raised in the Assembly. And therefore, because that petition dealt with taxes which had been done less than six months before, it could not be debated. I would urge the House to agree to the suspension of Standing Orders to allow this petition to be tabled. Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? Does the mover wish to reply?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

There is not much to reply to, Sir. Just to say that it is very clear what I am asking for. I thought that this meeting would have gone on into next week, but I have the feeling that it might end today or hopefully tomorrow, and that is why I am asking that the Standing Orders be suspended, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

In that case I will put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: STANDING ORDER 17 SUSPENDED

MR. PRESIDENT:

I declare the Motion carried. Just so there is no doubt about it, the effect of that is that the presentation of the Petition can be added, subject to the Clerk's confirmation that, as I believe, is in order in accordance with Standing Order 16 because it is for the Clerk to endorse it. It can be added to the Business Paper and can be put onto the Order Paper tomorrow and then laid. It does not get debated as I have made clear to the Member, it simply gets laid.

Next, Presentation of Papers and Reports, Item 2(1) Report of the Standing Business Committee. The First Official Member.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

REPORT OF THE STANDING BUSINESS COMMITTEE

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Standing Business Committee. The Committee had one meeting on Friday 24th April to discharge of all the work, the Bills and the Questions that were in need of setting down for each particular day's Order Paper. And the Committee agrees that this Report be the Report of the Standing Committee to be tabled during this meeting.

MR. PRESIDENT: So ordered.
Item 2(2), Report of the Standing Finance Committee.

REPORT OF THE STANDING FINANCE COMMITTEE

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Standing Finance Committee which met to consider the Five Year Economic Development Plan (1986-1990).

MR. PRESIDENT: So ordered.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, the Committee held three meetings. There was a meeting held on 28th January, and that Report has already been tabled. In addition, the Committee had two meetings, on Wednesday 8th April and again on Wednesday 22nd April.

The Committee examined the Economic Development Plan chapter by chapter, dealing rather quickly with Chapters 1.1 to 1.6 inclusive, because the majority of those chapters are really historical in nature; background information for the following Chapters which are the meat of the Plan. For example, Chapter 1.1 is a Brief History of these Islands, and 1.2 is on Physical Characteristics, and leading on to 1.3 the Early Economy, and 1.4 the Present Economy. The Committee did spend some time looking at Chapter 1.5 which is the Population and Manpower, and the various projections as to the population through the year 2000. Also 1.6, which deals with the Development Strategy. But I hope, before I finish my presentation, to go a little bit more deeply into the respective Chapters.

The Committee also looked closely at Chapter 2.1, dealing with Roads and Road Transport and the report, I think, is quite illustrative of the discussion that took place during those almost two full days of meetings. There was a question from the Elected Member for North Side about roads in the North Side area, and the Committee agreed that it should be left until the Master Ground Transportation Study of the eastern portion of Grand Cayman was undertaken. That does not mean that it is going to be undertaken in due course. As I understand it, the present study which the Resolution was made for yesterday to borrow US$300,000 from Caribbean Development Bank, the first phase is to focus on that area of Grand Cayman from Tropical Gardens leading straight back to Barkers.

The Ports and Shipping Services, Chapter 2.2 it was agreed that the allocation in the Plan needed to be upgraded due to the extensive work needed on the finger pier and an increase of $1.5 million was amended to the project cost of the port.

Chapter 2.3, Airports and Civil Aviation was found to be satisfactory with the exception of some questions of what to be done about the Little Cayman airstrip. That will be an on-going matter to be resolved sometime in the near future.

Chapter 2.4, Air Transport was agreed, also Chapter 2.5, Telecommunications.

Chapter 2.6, dealing with Postal Services: it was agreed that the allocation of $1.5 million for the Post Office should be increased to $6.5 million, which will provide hopefully, adequate funds to fund not only the Post Office, but also the multi-storey car park presently under consideration.

Chapter 2.7, Energy was accepted, and Chapter 2.8: there was an amendment to delete a portion of the Chapter dealing with Cayman Brac. It was left that we had spent a sum of $45,000 to do investigations in that Island.

Chapter 2.9, dealing with Physical Planning: the contents of that Chapter were not amended, since the development plan, the Physical Development Plan being prepared by the Central Planning Authority would undoubtedly replace the proposals contained therein.

Chapter 2.10, Survey and Land Registration: the contents were basically accepted. There were views that an automated plotting of maps, which is the use of computers, was thought to be not justified, at least at the present, because it is a very costly exercise.

Housing - Chapter 2.11 there was a question about the content of the fourth sentence of paragraph 4. Members were of the opinion that the $400,000 being referred to did in fact refer to mortgage loans to civil servants rather than to the Self Help Housing Programme, and that is correct. It is the $400,000 dealing with mortgage loans.

Chapter 2.12, Mosquito Control was accepted.

Chapter 2.13, Environmental Protection: there was a suggestion that a minor rewording should be done in that section especially on paragraph 8 dealing with Marine Parks and permanent ship moorings in George Town Harbour.

Chapter 2.14, Sister Islands: the contents of this Chapter was merely a summary of proposals covered in previous chapters, but the chapter highlighted the work, in particular, that would be undertaken in the Sister Islands.

Chapter 3.1, Banking and 3.2, Insurance: both were accepted.

In Chapter 3.3 dealing with Tourism: there was a little rewording, Mr. President, to clarify the number of staff in the Department, and where they were actually located. 40 staff including its Director was the total staff of the Department of Tourism, nine in Grand Cayman and the remainder are employed in the seven overseas offices at Miami, Chicago, Houston, London and Los Angeles as well as sales representatives in San Francisco, Atlanta, Dallas, and I must add, Toronto. I would ask Members to delete Toronto as being an overseas office and put it down as being sales representative in that area. I take the blame for this one, it slipped me when I looked at it.

The meeting then adjourned at 4:33 p.m. and reconvened on the 22nd April.

We looked at chapter 3.4. There was a change of wording there where the word (dealing with industry) factory was used, which we thought to be an inappropriate word, since to some people it could be interpreted that we were seeking to industrialise the Cayman Islands, with lots of smoke stacks going up and polluting the environment, which is the furthest thing from our minds. We changed that word to "establishment".

Chapter 3.5, dealing with Agriculture, and 3.6 dealing with Aquaculture were also agreed.

Chapter 4.1 dealing with Education: questions were raised about the practicality of building a composite school in the Frank Sound area. While some Members welcomed the idea, it was a concern of others that a project of this nature would not only cost a great deal to construct, but would also increase recurrent expenditure to about 100 per cent or possibly more, and while the proposals looked good on paper, there would be the great problem facing the Government to find the funds to maintain a second Middle School. As there was no provision in the 1987 budget for the commencement of this project, the Chairman suggested that the funds proposed in the Summary of Projects, being $180,000 should be carried forward to 1988 and the 1988 and 1989 funds carried forward to 1989 and 1990 respectively. The information contained in the chapter under the heading Project 15(3), New Middle School and High School, would be amended accordingly.

Chapter 4.2 dealing with Health: it was suggested that an additional paragraph should be added, and that paragraph to read: "There is a need for additional beds at the Faith Hospital, and $100,000 was provided in 1988 to fund the extension.". The Summary of Projects at the end of that chapter would be amended accordingly.

Project 16(10), New Hospital, that is new hospital for George Town, or for Grand Cayman: it is unlikely that this project could commence in 1988, and it was subsequently suggested that estimated costs for 1988 and 1989 should be carried forward to 1989 and 1990 respectively.

Those comments having been agreed, we passed on to chapter 4.3, Social Services. The Committee noted that there was no provision in the 1987 budget to commence construction of the remedial facility listed as project 17(2) under this chapter. It was therefore suggested that estimated funds for 1987 and 1988 and 1989 should be carried forward in the Summary of Projects at the end of the chapter to read 1988, 1989 and 1990 respectively. That chapter was then agreed and chapters 4.4, Sports and Recreation, 4.5 Culture, 4.6 Broadcasting were all agreed on.

5.1 Police and 5.2 Judiciary: it was suggested that the estimated costs to provide an additional Summary Court slated as Project 12(5) should be deleted as there were currently under consideration, alternative plans to relocate this part of the Court in another Government-owned building. The Summary of Projects at the end of the chapter were amended as well.

That chapter, together with 5.3 Legal, were approved.

Chapter 5.4: we realised that there is a great demand for increased space in addition to that estimated for in the Legislative Assembly Building, and it was suggested that an additional $15,000 should be added in 1988 to allow for this. We noted the air conditioning unit which was installed in 1972 is nearing its period of useful life, and is now considered a priority for replacement, since it has become necessary to have a stand-by compressor on hand should there be a breakdown when the House is sitting or otherwise. Replacement parts are also difficult to find in the United States. It was suggested that the estimated funds provided for 1988 should be increased to $67,000 to allow for the replacement of this equipment. The chapter was thereupon agreed.

Chapter 5.5, Customs: it was suggested that the estimated funds allocated under project 11(3) for 1987 for patrol boats should be deleted and that in 1988 the sum should be increased to $100,000 for the purchase of one patrol boat instead of two. The chapter was then agreed on.

Chapters 5.6 Immigration, 5.7 Fire Service and 5.8 Prisons were approved as presented.

Chapter 5.9 - Financial Services: the Chairman requested that the information recorded under Computer Services be replaced with the information contained in a document dated 31st December 1986 entitled Computer Services Plan 1987-1991. There were no further amendments to the chapter, and it was agreed, together with 5.10 Audit.

5.11 Information Services: in the final paragraph of this chapter, a recommendation was made that the Government should set up a small printing unit of its own. The Chairman advised that plans were in hand to implement this by using computer facilities, and it was now necessary to amend the paragraph accordingly. There were no further amendments, and that chapter was also approved.

Chapter 6.1 Total Financing Requirement and 6.4 were approved.

During that meeting as well, the Finance Committee considered the purchase of land. The Chairman advised that Government was currently involved in the process of compulsory acquisition of two pieces of property, being the Webster dock at George Town, Block 14BH parcel 136 at a cost of $50,000 and land adjoining the Old Man Bay cemetery for extension of this facility at Block 57E part of parcel 17E at the cost of $25,000. Members were advised that the funds provided under capital expenditure would be utilised for the purchase of these properties.

When we dealt with the estimates in November last year, there was a block sum of $400,000 provided to be utilised in accordance with the priorities of Government. And this US$75,000 is taken from that sum.

Mr. President, when I laid the draft Economic Development Plan last November on the Table of this Honourable House, referring it to Finance Committee in order to give Members the opportunity to have input in its contents, and to delete, amend or add to it, so that the political input could be included - at that time, I gave an undertaking that when I reported back to this Honourable House, as I am doing today, that I would take appropriate action to enable Members to debate it. I gave this undertaking for two main reasons. Namely because of the importance of the document and for the public to hear more of its contents. I believe this is a good point Sir, for me to move in accordance with Standing Order 83, the suspension of Standing Order 67(4) to allow the Economic Development Plan to be debated. But I hasten to add that I am not in any way concluding my presentation, but merely breaking it at this point to allow Standing Order 67(4) to be suspended, otherwise the debate cannot take place. And for the benefit of the listening public, in order for them to understand clearly why it is necessary, allow me to read Standing order 67(4):

"When the motion 'That the Finance Committee approves the proposal (or proposals) set out in the paper', or that motion as amended, has been agreed upon in the Finance Committee, and the report of the Finance Committee is laid on the Table the Member for the Government who moved the motion shall report the motion or the motion as amended in the Finance Committee; and the House shall thereupon be deemed to have agreed to the motion or to the motion as amended, as the case may be."

So, Mr. President, in accordance with Standing Order 83, I seek to move suspension of Standing Order 67(4) to allow the Economic Development Plan to be debated, but I have not completed my presentation.

MR. PRESIDENT:

For the information of the House, I agreed with the Honourable First Official Member that the procedure he is now following seemed to me likely to prove the most appropriate and convenient under the circumstances, because clearly, none of us had probably foreseen when we decided last December, I think, to refer this Plan to Standing Finance Committee, that we might get caught by the provisions of Standing Order 67(4) and it was never anybody's intention that there should not be a debate. But simply, in order to allow what I believed to have been the wish of the House to be realised, I thought it proper to invite the Honourable First Official Member to move the suspension of Standing Order 67(4) at this point, in order that the debate may take place.

So I put the question now put by the Honourable Member that Standing Order 67(4) be suspended in accordance with the provisions of Standing order 83 in order to enable the House to debate the report of Standing Finance Committee on the Economic Development Plan.

Unless any Member wishes to speak, I will put that question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. THAT STANDING ORDER 67(4) BE SUSPENDED TO ENABLE THE REPORT OF THE STANDING FINANCE COMMITTEE TO BE DEBATED

MR. PRESIDENT:

In that case the Honourable Member may continue moving the adoption of the recommendations in the report.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President. Mr. President, a speaker a long time ago said as he surveyed the breadth of his subject, he could not help but think of Bishop Jones who was invited to speak before a great convention. A telegram he received from the programme committee read as follows:

"We should like to have you address our convention on the subject "The World, the War and the Church."

He gave the matter some consideration and felt he would like to address the convention but the magnitude of the subject bothered him considerably. So he wired them as follows:

"Gentlemen, I should not like to be cramped in my style or restricted in my remarks by such a narrow subject as 'The World, the War and the Church'. I should be glad to come if you would add to it 'the Sun, the Moon and the Stars'."

Today, Mr. President, I feel a little bit like Bishop Jones. Certainly I could interpret it as being cramped in my style. But when I think of the subject and the subject matters within the Economic Development Plan for 1986 to 1990, I can only say it is fairly close to "The World, the War, the Church, the Sun, the Moon and the Stars".

It has a Table of Contents, a Foreword by His Excellency the Governor, an Introduction by the Honourable Financial Secretary and the meat of the Plan is described in 45 chapters. I would speak later on the subjects of each chapter, giving a brief overview of the contents of each.

The preparation of the Development Plan was certainly a massive exercise for the Government, and it took over a year to actually prepare. It involved a considerable amount of research, analysis, discussion and development in all branches and at all levels of Government. In certain cases the private sector was also asked to contribute. The major philosophy adopted in these deliberations was to consider long term development aims over at least 20 years. And within this context, to establish as best we could a realistic five year programme which the country could afford.

This Development Plan represents the most detailed and comprehensive look that Government, to the best of my knowledge, has ever given to the future of the Cayman Islands. The major issues which affect the prosperity of the country, its life-style and its values are discussed frankly and in depth. Development aims and strategies upon which policies are based are set out clearly in each area for which Government is responsible. Although a great proportion of these matters may already be generally known or understood, it is the first time that much of this information and thinking has been published in an official Government document. This should therefore help to clarify a number of issues where some confusion or misapprehension may now exist.

Despite the small size and population of the Cayman Islands, the country has most of the institutions and services of a much larger and more sophisticated country. This is partially due to the need to create and maintain an adequate infrastructure to support its primary economy, and partially to the continual development of its social services which so affect the well being and culture of its people. The Cayman Islands today, and this is not boasting, Mr. President, it is just a fact, has a very high standard of living. Its gross domestic product per capita - or its per capita income - is perhaps one of the highest in the world, and it is certainly the highest in the Caribbean. The developments which have led to this situation have been extremely rapid, and have taken place in little more than one generation. This rate of development carries its own risk and dangers. It is vital therefore that the country should plan its immediate and long term future with very great care if it is not to lose its own particular individuality.

This is the exercise that has been carried out. As the starting point for future development plans to be updated annually, it represents an important milestone in the development of the Cayman Islands. By the movement on 14th March, 1985 of a motion by the Elected Member for North Side, and seconded by the Second Elected Member for West Bay (and which was passed), the Government was committed to taking a much greater forward look than that normally taken for an annual budget. But the exercise would also be much more than a five year budget. Long term aims, as stated earlier and strategies within which immediate policies and plans fitted would have to be agreed and specified. Short term plans under consideration to meet immediate requirements or relieve current situations might no longer be relevant to these long term aims. It was also necessary to translate plans into financial terms, as accurately as possible, in order to establish the extent to which they could be afforded. The rate at which development could proceed and the degree of priority which should be given to specific projects.

Work began on the Plan in May of 1985. The British Executive Services Overseas Consultant initially visited all Government departments, authorities and enterprises, and held discussions with the principals concerned. These visits also included the private sector directly related to the economy or to the economic infrastructure. Submissions for each area of Government responsibility were then received. These were to cover developments to date, long term aims and plans or projects to meet those aims within the Plan period.

From these submissions, initial draft chapters were prepared by the consultant, agreed with each principal concerned and sent for agreement to the portfolio responsible. Other draft chapters were prepared directly by the consultant. And on request, the private sector also sent contributions to the relevant chapters. The completed Plan, in draft form, which we have today, was then submitted to the Executive Council. This was approximately one year after the work had been started. In turn, the Executive Council held a number of meetings before the final draft document could be laid on the Table of this Honourable House.

It will be clear from this that the Economic Development Plan, 1986-1990 has been meticulously prepared, and that many persons, both within and outside the Government, have been involved in some way in its preparation. The document is divided into six parts, and I will name them: part 1 deals with the background; part 2 the infrastructural development; part 3 the economic development; part 4 social development; part 5 development of other Government services; and lastly, and part 6 dealing with the Plan implementation.

Part 1, as I hinted earlier, covers the general historical and economic development of the Cayman Islands as a background to the present situation. It also covers the historical growth of population and manpower, estimates of current levels since the last census in 1979, and projections up to the end of the Plan period in 1990, and at the turn of the century in the year 2000. Finally, part 1 summarises national development strategy, with particular reference to employment, infrastructural needs and economic support.

Part 2 covers the infrastructural development areas upon which the whole economy depends, including roads, ports, airports, communications, energy, water supply and sewage disposal, housing and, not least, mosquito control. The major developments here during the Plan period will be completion of the West Bay Beach sewerage and sewage treatment works; completion of George Town water supply; continuation of the roads upgrading programme on all three Islands; and the upgrading of Gerrard Smith Airport at Cayman Brac to the same international standard as Owen Roberts International Airport here. It is also planned to proceed with the construction of the new general post office in George Town, and that building will also include a multi-storey car park.

Part 3 deals with economic development. This covers banking, insurance, tourism, industry, agriculture and aquaculture. The Government's main role here is supportive, although the last item is directly controlled, that is aquaculture, namely the turtle farm, is controlled by Government. The largest contributor to the economy, it is said is tourism - we will find out before too much longer that it is not, but we will keep saying it until we prove differently - followed by banking, (and I noticed the Second Elected Member of Council smiling, - he might be right, but we will see what happens) insurance - the largest contributor to the economy is tourism, followed by banking, insurance, and other components of the offshore financial industry. Tourism also accounts for most of the Government's annual expenditure in this area. The main capital projects are a farmers' market complex and consideration of an abattoir. Both will assist effective marketing as an incentive to local producers.

Part 4 is concerned with social development and covers education, health, social services, sports, recreation, culture and broadcasting. During the Planned period, considerable investment will be made in these areas, second only to the infrastructural investment covered in part 2. The major developments planned comprise a new hospital to replace the George Town Hospital, a new complex to house the Community College of further Education, and a second Middle School to meet the growing school population, and a residential remedial facility for children to meet all corrective needs.

Part 5 covers the development of other Government services, primarily concerned with protecting people and property. These include the Police, Judiciary, Legal Service, Legislative Assembly, Customs, Immigration, Fire Services, Prison Services, Financial Services, Audit and Government Information Services. The main capital project in this area comprises: further computer equipment, and a new building for the computers; a new central station training facility and a new sub-station in Grand Cayman for the domestic Fire Services; more than doubling the accommodation for inmates and adding vocational training facilities at Northward prison; and the addition of a second court, which it is thought will be placed in another Government building. That court is not to be constructed, Mr. President.

Part 6 is concerned primarily with the method of financing the Plan's implementation and in addition a scheme for regular monitoring and updating of five year plans is included.

It is intended that the Economic Development Plan should be the starting point for a rolling plan - that is towards the autumn of this year we will update this Plan to delete the amount of capital work which has been completed, and to add one more year, that is 1991, so that the Plan will always be a five year rolling plan. Only in this way can future plans remain pertinent, accurate and current. In the simplest terms, this means that the present Plan will be updated each year by revising the list and summary of projects. This revision will also present a regular opportunity for Government to restate its current thinking on all relevant issues. It is also planned, however, that this annual revision will be carried out in conjunction with, and as part of, the annual preparation of budgets. As the present Plan has taken so long to prepare, and to some extent, has been overtaken by events, the first such exercise, as I mentioned earlier, will be undertaken later this year.

Before I leave this point, I would like to thank all persons who have contributed to this document, which I believe to be the most important Government publication in recent years. All Government departments, authorities and enterprises have been involved, and much time and effort has been spent. In addition, we are grateful for the contributions received from the private sector, including Cable and Wireless (WI) Ltd., Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd., Texaco Caribbean, Esso Standard Oil and Home Gas Ltd. In particular, I would like to pay tribute to the B.E.S.O consultant, Mr. Michael Scott, who did the bulk of the work on this Plan.

The majority of the chapters in this Plan were updated in August 1986, and Honourable Members should take note that some of the facts in some chapters have been overcome by events over the last eight or nine months. It means that we have recognised some planned events that have been implemented or changed.

As I hinted earlier, this is the first time that a Five Year Economic Plan has been presented to this Honourable House, and I am personally thrilled to have been instrumental in putting this document before Honourable Members. It is timely that we should, in the last years of the 1980's, plan the way ahead, especially when the public hear us in this House refer to projects such as water supply, sewage disposal, a new hospital, a new road along Seven Mile Beach, new schools, a new terminal for Cayman Brac, a new fire station at Owen Roberts, a new post office building and so on, because the bill, at the end of the day, Mr. President, has to be paid by the public and we should get our priorities correct.

The Plan over the five years will cost $72.5 million. $3 million of that is capital expenditure which the Port Authority will undertake and also pay for. Therefore the Government capital expenditure is estimated to be $69.5 million over the five year period 1986-1990. But $6.7 million has already been spent in 1986, reducing it to $62.8 million, and the 1987 Budget has provisions for $12.5 million capital expenditure, leaving a commitment of $50.3 million for the remainder of the Plan period. Of this total $50.3 million, $9.4 million has already been approved in loans - we heard some of the Resolutions just a day or so ago. So that the figure now reduces to $40.5 million, the net sum to be funded over the balance of the Plan period, or $13.5 million per year.

Mr. President, I do not intend to go into any more detail of the Plan. I think it might be of some assistance if we did say something about the development strategy which I referred to earlier, especially that dealing with the infrastructure.

MR. PRESIDENT:

If the Member is turning to a slightly different topic, would it be a convenient moment to break?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Yes, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

In that case we will suspend proceedings for approximately 15 minutes.

AT 11:20 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11.52 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, before we took the break for refreshments, I began to turn to chapter 1.6 dealing with Development Strategy, and will now commence.

The broad development philosophy of the Cayman Islands is one of steady development in established directions, and not one of radical change. This means the country will continue to rely on tourism and offshore financial industry sectors. Its primary development objective is thus to ensure the maintenance of the conditions and infrastructure in which these industries may thrive, and to improve upon them where necessary or desirable. The primary development objectives of providing support to tourism, the offshore financial industry and the economy generally is considered here at the physical, administrative and social levels. The development and aims of the physical infrastructure during the Plan period (and I will go through them, although they are very lengthy - I think it is good for the listening public to hear them), I begin by saying:

to upgrade the primary roads and junctions in the western peninsula of Grand Cayman, as part of the provisions and maintenance of a basic network of roads on each Island, which meets known future needs for development and access; to examine the cost and ecological impact of developing a deep water harbour in the North Sound as a basis for both long-term all weather Grand Cayman harbour expansion and a totally new range of economic activities within the country's control;

to upgrade the Islands' airports to full international standards for the twenty-four hour all-weather operations of the largest short haul aircraft in Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac, and to ensure the continuation of daylight operations of light aircraft at Little Cayman; to continue to operate a national airline to support the tourism and financial industries; to ensure that the country continues to have an up to date national and international communications system;

to continue to operate postal services and progressively introduce express mail services to the major world business centres; to ensure that the country's energy requirements are met, with particular reference to electricity and petroleum products; to initiate a programme of providing public sewerage and piped water supply for the more populated areas;

to keep under constant review the need for low cost housing;

to maintain control over the mosquito population, and continue to reduce it where possible;

to ensure the maintenance of Marine Parks and keep under constant review the need to develop further schemes for the protection of the environment;

to provide a farmers' market complex for the marketing of local produce; to upgrade existing primary schools to meet minimum educational and social standards and to extend all schools' facilities as necessary; to build a community college to cater for further education, both technical and academic, specifically relevant to the commercial sector; to upgrade district clinics to health centres covering full primary care;

to provide a community residential care centre and in association with service clubs, a community mental health and drug treatment centre;

to build a new hospital to replace the existing George Town hospital;

to provide an additional Summary Court;

to extend Northward Prison and increase its population from 80 to 160 for males and from 14 to 40 for females; to build a multi-purpose remedial facility to meet all corrective needs for children, including both remand home and approved school;

to construct a replacement central fire station at Owen Roberts Airport for airport and domestic fire services, special fire training facilities and a new sub-station at West Bay.

The main development aims of the administrative structure during the Plan period are:

to revise the system of physical planning, both to simplify and speed up the planning application procedure for minor works, and to achieve a better intersectorial coordination for large scale planning projects affecting the whole community;

to appoint a Director of Trade within the Portfolio of Tourism, Aviation and Trade, to be responsible for trade and investment matters, including industrial development, and the object of promoting economic diversification; to further develop the continuing dialogue between Government and the private sector, to keep abreast of developments, address problems as they arise, and meet, where possible, private sector needs including technical training and management development; to extend the opportunities at home and abroad for future education and training of young Caymanians;

to further develop the Government data processing resources including the construction of a special purpose building to utilise the Government data processing resources to achieve more accurate and timely financial data, to automate repetitive procedures such as payroll, and to produce management information as a basis for more effective decision making.

The main aims at the social level during the Plan period are:

to develop an equitable method of assisting needy persons to purchase their own homes of a minimum acceptable standard; to extend the range of further technical and academic education in accordance with the stated needs and planned developments of the private sector, and the requirements of the civil service;

to further develop health care at the primary level on a preventative medical basis, to minimize the need for secondary level attention; to provide better and more efficient facilities for secondary level hospital care; to provide a greater range of health care delivery at the tertiary level where this is economic;

to tackle social problems at an early stage before they become major ones by increasing the number professionals and support staff dealing with them;

to carry out a detailed study of social problems and develop a comprehensive data base for the preparation of future plans and programmes to deal separately with juvenile offenders in a remedial facility, and thereby ensure they are not mixed with children in either of the caring homes;

to introduce a national social security system;

to institute, in collaboration with private organizations, a programme to develop more and varied facilities and activities for recreation and leisure in order to promote the quality of life by providing healthy outlets for young people, preserving and promoting the cultural heritage of the Cayman Islands, and helping to ensure the enjoyment of leisure by all ages.

The economic support, Mr. President, during the year, besides the wide ranging infrastructural support to the economy, the Government gives certain direct support, and the main development aims in the area during the Plan are:

to introduce in collaboration with the private sector, an aggressive publicity campaign to increase the number of tourists as new hotel capacity becomes available, and to improve occupancy rates during the low season -

I am sure all Honourable Members have seen, in recent times, a significant increase in tourist arrivals here; to continue to support the private agricultural sector through developing most suitable varieties and strains, demonstrating modern farming and horticulture methods, importing livestock for sale to farmers and assisting in the development of more effective marketing;

to continue to work towards the lifting of the Convention on International Trade of Endangered Species (CITES) ban on the import of turtle products from Cayman, and to support the diversification programme of the turtle farm.

In summary, Mr. President, the overall development strategy of the Cayman Islands may be summarised in this way:

to preserve and protect the stability on which the country's role as a major financial centre depends;

to preserve the environment for future generations and maintain the beauty of the Cayman Islands as a tourist resort;

to put the resources of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman to greater productive use;

to diversify the economy and provide more work opportunities for Caymanians;

to develop and train Caymanians to fill as many current or anticipated posts as possible;

to continue to improve the standard of living of Caymanians; and lastly, Mr. President, last on my list at least, to preserve the way of Caymanian life as far as possible.

Mr. President, I move the adoption of the Report of the Finance Committee, and the Economic Development Plan.

MR. PRESIDENT;

The motion before the House is that the Report of the Standing Finance Committee meetings held on 8th and 22nd of April, to deal with the Five Year Economic Development Plan, and that Plan itself as varied by Finance Committee, should be adopted.

Does any Member wish to speak?
If no Member wishes to speak, I shall put the question. Very well ...
the Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President ... you know, throughout this whole meeting I have been the one to have to get up first. I do not usually get up first to speak, but it seems to me no one wants to get up and speak, ... or they do not want to do it first anyway it seems ... and I would not allow this historic occasion to pass by without having a say on this Economic Development Plan.

I think the people, as has been already said, should clearly understand that Members of the House did not put this Plan together. Members of the House asked for the Plan by supporting a Motion brought by the Member for North Side and myself. The Plan was devised by other means. But we are going to have to implement it, we are going to have to vote money for its implementation, thereby it is right and proper that I rise to have a say.

I am a strong believer in planning, Mr. President. Some say I am a socialist. (Laughter). They called Christ many names also - they crucified him, and he rose again to be their Saviour, and is our Saviour today. I am a strong believer in planning. I say that any Government must have a policy or guidelines. That is a long term matter, but, I also say that any Government, and in particular any Government of the day in these Islands must also want and have a plan. That is a matter of today - what to start, when, where and how many things can we do at one time? And most important, priority - what must come first? And that, of course, brings us to the question of money. Where is it going to come from?

Today we boast of a strong economy in tourism and finance, industries which we have no control over except to keep doing the right things here on the home front - that is maintaining stability and such as a key factor. But we have no control over outside factors. We have practically no control over the essentials of a sound monetary policy. All except one of our banks are foreign institutions, our savings being all invested abroad. Our insurance companies, except one are all foreign. I look at these things as a young legislator, with concern as to what will be our position in the future.

It is admitted that the capital for development has, for the most part, been coming from abroad. But diversification can come. There are things which we must do to encourage development of our local industries in order to have more of a spread of money called Caymanian. We have said no to any sort of state bank which could help to finance the development of the local resources, the little that we have, but that question is not dead in my mind. It is something that is going to come one of these days.

We need, as well, to control as much as possible and the business community especially in the buying market must think about this - we must control as much as possible our foreign expenditure. Our basic problems will always defy solution as long as we refuse to control the essentials of economic planning. As I pose the question, where is the money coming from? I say Government must have, when they present this Economic Plan, saying what is needed for this country, Government must have a revenue plan. How they are going to raise the necessary funds, whether it is by taxes or by some other means. But Government must have a revenue plan. And Mr. President, that leads me to look at the various projects that are outlined in this Economic Development Plan.

The first is Ports and Shipping service. We have just had a big furor in this country concerning port and cruise ship facilities. I hold the opinion that there is not much more that can be done to the George Town port and the problem is not going to run away. It is something that legislators now will have to take into consideration. It is not something that we can, like Pilate, wash our hands of, because if we are true custodians of the people, then we will realise that this thing is going to, in the future, cause us problems and hamper the orderly development and day to day life of the citizen in this country here in this town. That is why I have made suggestions concerning moving the cruise ships to certain other areas of the country. One of the main problems is congestion, and the great congestion takes place when cruise ships are in the harbour. Now there are going to be cries of 'we do not know what we are talking about, and we cannot move them from George Town'. Why do certain people believe that Grand Cayman ends in George Town?

That this George Town makes up all of Grand Cayman, and you cannot do anything else unless you do it in George Town.

In 1980 Mr. President, when I first sought a seat in this House, part of our platform was to put a cruise ship landing, or a jetty, whatever you want to call it, in the district of West Bay, where the old dock or old wharf had been before. I talked to many of the older people who knew about this wharf, who knew about weather conditions in the country and they said it was one of the best places in West Bay. My reason for wanting it is that I believe that if we diverted a cruise ship to West Bay - and the anchorage in West Bay is big and good - we could divert two for that matter on days that you have four - business would begin to take hold again in West Bay. West Bay would not continue to be a dormant district. It would help to bring development to the district.

Well, 1984 came by and you see me holding our manifesto, our platform in my hand. This is what we ran on, and in this manifesto in No.11 it says that "when we are elected on November 14th it is our intention to restore the landing wharf at West Bay, thereby providing an additional landing site for cruise ship passengers, and helping to alleviate the present congestion in and around George Town". Well, this was well accepted. I did not just get up and have a public meeting. As far as going to the public is concerned, I went door to door and this was one of the things that was put to the people. Everybody knows that we had an overwhelming victory in West Bay.

Mr. President, just let the Government bench listen, I think I am on a very good subject, and anything they are saying now is going to detract. But this is a worthwhile subject, and they should listen.

The people had spoken on that subject. 1985 rolled in and it was one of the first places that we went. Everybody agreed that it could be done, and oh, we are going to get it soon. But now I am hearing that Government alone is not going to have the say on where and if this landing jetty is going to take place in West Bay.

Mr. President, it says that - in a question answered here the other day - that "whether the Watersports Association would influence Government's decision as to whether the tourist landing jetty should go in West Bay or not". The answer was "yes, the Watersports Association and public reaction could possibly influence Government's decision". I do not really think that the Watersports Association has been elected by the people. Sure, the Watersports Association has contributed and will continue to contribute to the economy of this country. But who are they to tell us that we should not put a landing jetty in West Bay because that area is a prime diving spot?

You know, Mr. President, I have never run from a fight in my life, and I only have one year and a few months left in this House, but I intend to fight that issue with everything I have because I see it as a means that would help our district. There are a lot of factors to take into consideration, but the Watersports Association has already had enough say in West Bay. You cannot even go fishing from South West Point to North West Point, but in one area. They cannot have everything in this country. And besides that, a landing jetty in West Bay would probably be of some use to them.

When it comes time - and I hope Government is going to move on it and make a decision quickly - I hope that the Honourable Member responsible, and the Honourable Member for West Bay on Executive Council will say to the public, we have taken this decision and we, along with the Watersports Association, are telling you that we are not going to put that landing jetty in West Bay. They should do that.

Dealing with the issue of the port, I could not leave that subject without saying something about the issue of dredging. The people in West Bay have also spoken on that matter. Whether I want it, or whether I like it, I am going to abide by what I feel are the wishes of the majority in the district. They have said that they do not want any big dredging operations in the North Sound - that is the majority have spoken - and our duty, my duty, is to say to them also the other side of the coin. And this is what I did in a public meeting I held on the subject.

At some point or another, this country is going to have to decide where they want a proper port put and they are going to have to decide whether Government is going to do it or whether private investment will do it. If Government do it, we know that the cost is going to fall back on the public. If private investors do it, well, it is just that - private investment. But the people must understand that in the near future that decision is going to have to be taken. And I truthfully do not see any area that you can develop in this country for a port that you are not going to hurt something. As far as I am concerned, the decision should be to put the port where it will be of least damage to the country. But as a young legislator, I could not in all good conscience, get up and say we do not need any more port facilities, what we have is sufficient. I could not. So I trust that the Honourable Members of Government are going to be men enough to stand up and tell the public that. One thing I will ask them: do not come to me for one red cent for another study. They can reply to me on that subject.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I was wondering if the Member was switching to another topic, if so, it might be a convenient moment to break. In that case I will suspend proceedings until approximately 2:15 p.m.

AT 12:26 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2:25 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated.
Resumption of the debate of the Report of Finance Committee. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, when we took the lunch break I had just finished dealing with the subject of Ports and now I move on to Water Supply.

As I mentioned in the House yesterday afternoon, the water project is something which I support but as a Member of this House, I would like to know the full details of a subject that is going to take so much money for development and thereafter because of how it is being set up. I believe it will cost the country more money. And, for those reasons, I would like to be kept up to date. As usual, Government Members on this side are not hearing very much about the little intricate dealings and a lot of things are hidden. There are some Members on the Government bench who are coming forward and letting us know some of the things that are going on, but others again feel that it is a privilege that they have and they are not offering to tell us so that we too can know the exact position and can report to our constituencies when we are confronted with these questions.

I mentioned yesterday afternoon, and I do not see why we cannot be told who the shareholders in this new water company are going to be. I have no personal grudge against anybody. But I am a legislator in this country.

Mr. President, the Honourable Fourth Member is offering to tell me who they are, and I will give way now for him.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I told this Honourable House yesterday the owners of Central Desal Limited were the owners of Caribbean Utilities Company Limited.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

I am sorry, Mr. President, I was not in the Chamber when the Member was winding up the debate yesterday afternoon, or when he was speaking on the motion yesterday afternoon. I do not know who the owners of Caribbean Utilities are, that is really saying nothing to me at this point. But bear in mind what I have said, I support the water project, and on looking at this Five Year Economic Plan, it says here that priority must be given to provision of piped water in the more densely developed areas of George Town which Government is about to do, and West Bay where water supply has become critical. But when I look at the summary of projects, I see George Town, George Town, George Town and West Bay Beach, all the way until 1990. I see nothing for West Bay and, as I told them before, the country does not stop at George Town. It goes a little bit further.

Mr. President, they are correct when they say that water supply has become critical in areas like West Bay. I can speak from experience. I am a person that could always use well water. I could always drink it. But in the area of my own home where I have been living for eleven years, when I first moved there the water was fine. I could use it for drinking and cooking - it was potable. But today the water carries a stench, there is not as much, we cannot use it as often. So that tells me with what little knowledge I have about these things, that there is something wrong. Besides that, I have spoken to other Members of my constituency and they have given me similar examples. West Bay has grown in the last several years, and I believe that we too, if we have not yet reached desperation, we are close to it. It would be good to have proper samples taken from different areas of the district to see what the condition of the water is like. I would urge Government to, at the end of this year, when they will review this Plan, to put something in the summary. We go from 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990 and 1991. I think the Honourable mover said. So we should put something in one of those years for the district of West Bay as far as water supply is concerned.

Mr. President, I move on to Housing. As you can see, I have been calm, but this is one subject that I could become very hot under the collar about, because we are not going anywhere with housing. The day of the small man building a house out of immediate cash resources is finished. For a poor family to build a house, as every man in this Assembly is aware, is a tremendous problem. And it is not only in George Town and West Bay, it is all over the country. Cash resources are a problem to them. We have seen in the last couple of years an escalation of price in house lots. We have seen building materials following the same trend. Labour costs, to an extent, have gone up. But bad enough Sir, when things go up in price and there is money with which to buy but the problem which I am also finding, is land space. There is a problem, and we have to face it, housing problems in the low income area are going to multiply with time. Mr. President, there are some people in the private sector who have started their own housing schemes, and that is good. It has helped, has alleviated some of the problem. But Government have to come up with a proper scheme to help those in the low income category and do something about them.

Mr. President, you remember, I believe it was last year, in May if I am not mistaken, when I tabled a motion in the House concerning problems in my constituency, at least ten cases, and I even brought examples to show the seriousness of the problem. That day was a very trying and moving day for me, because instead of getting the support I thought I would have got, I heard all sorts of excuses. We have now come to another year and not that I know of, we have not touched any of the problems yet. In this review, Government is saying that "from 1986 there was supposed to be some development plan review project and environmental health/sanitary survey for 1986, which was supposed to provide qualitative assessments of housing conditions". I am wondering whether this was done and whether they found out exactly where the problems lay. If they did, and money has been lying around, why has something not been done about it.

Mr. President, when you come into this House and you bring the cases that you do, you get the excuses that you cannot provide people with help who are on drugs and should be working and is a drunkard, and all sorts of excuses. Sure, those things are some of the reasons why we are finding some desperate needs in our constituencies, and it is going to rise with time, because our people cannot cope, at least those in that bracket, with the changing times. We do not have time, or some of us as representatives, to be all that is required of us in our constituencies. Some yes, are not spending the time they should. But we really cannot be everything to all people. What I would expect is that when those of us that are prepared to make the sacrifice of getting out there and seeing that these people get proper help and proper direction - when we bring the cases to Government that they move with haste - do not get up and tell me that I have not supported the raise in taxes so I must not ask for programmes. You are not helping me. To leave the problem untouched is detrimental to the stability of this country.

Not because we live in good homes and drive good cars that we must stick up our nose like Master Willy and forget about those that we grew up with, that came in contact with drugs and alcohol and did not know how to handle it. Say by the grace of God, there go I. I take great exception when we confront Government with the problems, then you are told you are trying to help people who can do better. That kind of attitude is not helping the problem, but only compounding it. Staying in your office or your work place and do not seeing the problem, and you will have a do not care attitude, because the people you get the information from, are people who do not care either.

Some time ago, the Member responsible for Housing - and we have two, one with Social Services and one in the Housing Development Corporation - said that he is going to review the Housing Development Corporation plan or guidelines, and I would agree - this is what I have been saying ever since I have come into this House. We are not helping our people with the Housing Development Corporation as it is presently organised. Now whether you are going to raise money from private sources or whether Government is going to put up the money from some other source, it has to start. There have been too many people who still have a life expectancy of ten, fifteen years according to statistics, who have applied to the Housing Development Corporation and cannot get a loan because the guidelines say they cannot get it. A person who is working now, has always worked and has some money saved too. The quicker we get into it the better. I am not going to say any more on this, I would hope that both Members listening will take what I have said into consideration, and when they get up to answer, do not call me a fool.

Mr. President, I come to Industry. I am not going to prolong the debate on this section, because the motion is on the Order Paper, put down by myself. But it is obvious that if Caymanians are going to share in the development of this country, and are going to share in the benefits from development in this country, we are going to have to take initiatives to help them. There is going to have to be some sort of protectionism, although people frown on it. But we have to.

The money that the small Caymanian can get his hands on is very little. There is no long term money to get and no bank with an A-class licence is encouraging it. They run a business, so I am not going to criticize them heavily, or say that we have to kick them out - God forbid, you cannot do that. But, my God, we as a Government have to do something about the situation. On the one hand you talk about fronting, you do not want to see it, and on the other hand things are not put in place where we can help the small Caymanian to get into business. The other problem he is facing is that those ... certain people in the expatriate community who can put their hands on money are getting into business which should have been left for Caymanians to get into, and that he can get into. But we are a free country, and competition is good, I guess. I spoke about fronting a minute ago, and you hear this is a big thing. And if a Caymanian comes up and wants to do a programme or a project you are now asking him to show you where his money is coming from. He provides it, he shows you where it is coming from, and puts up his business, ten feet down the road, somebody else comes in with big money and puts up an identical business alongside him. You want to tell me that you cannot offer some sort of protection? Your excuse is going to be that you have free enterprise.

I make bold to say that free enterprise in this country is for the big people, the big business people. And a good example of that, Mr. President, and as again I will say, it is why this Government has got the name of rich man Government. A good example is right here in the background chapter 3.1, Banking, which says "...in practice there is a moratorium on the entry of new institutions to conduct such retail businesses for fear that the system may become overbanked, resulting in a sharp fall in the profitability (and, therefore stability) of existing institutions". Who are you protecting? Who are you protecting? But you cannot see fit to offer some protection to the small Caymanian.

Mr. President, I move on to Education. At this time I am not going to get into any long debate about whether it is better today than five years ago. It is certainly better than when I was in school. They had a system then where a certain class of children were set up in the bush, and a certain class were sent to a nice school. I am not that old, you know, that is not too long ago. That was the worst system ever devised in this country, and it has hurt a lot of us too. I might have been the lawyer I wanted to be today if it was not for that system. There are still people in the country who say hurrah to that system. When the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council came to Government the comprehensive system came in and he is not doing everything that I had expected that he would do, but I will always give him credit for the part he played in education. And because I know he is going to speak after me, I am not going to debate it any further. But, Mr. President - no, I am not scared, you cannot frighten me, do not worry about that - I would just like to give credit where credit is due, but remember when I am kicking you up that you deserve it.

Mr. President, the Community College is something that I support, have supported since its inception, and we have just begun to scratch the surface. One aspect I would comment on is the Trade School which is a section of the Community College. I mention it because a student said to me that he will finish his course in June and graduate in September, and he has not been on one job where he could get some on-the-job experience. He was disappointed, because although his training there is doing something with his hands, that is one thing, but it is another thing to actually get out there in the field and see how it works. I believe that if that is not yet in place, it should be put in place, that in the last couple of months in the course, they would be given some field experience.

Mr. President, the health situation is so poor that I am going to skip it. Nothing I am going to say here today is going to make any difference. I have talked about it from the time I came here, and I just cannot see where the improvement is. The only improvement in it is the doctors that we put there for 24 hour service, and in the plans to come, if they materialise, we could be well on the way. But no building is going to give us a better health service. I am going to say that first you have to have good management, and you take it from there. This is not a budget debate, and I do not want you to stop me before I get my points across, but what is wrong with the health service is wrong with a lot of other areas that you are scared to touch. And the problem only gets bigger and bigger.

There are a lot of plans for social services and I would like to think there is some improvement. Well, if there is an improvement in the administration, it is the opposite of what I said about improvement in the Health Service. If you improve the Health Service, improve the administration of health, the rest of the service would fall in place. This is different. I believe there has been some improvement in the management, as such, of Social Services. Certain plans have been laid. But there has been no improvement in the country at large, socially. Mr. President, you cannot sit down in your office and handle the problem outside effectively, you must mix with it, feel it and see it. I would like to think that some of the plans for Social Services are going to improve, but they are not going to improve if the workers are not on the street, living in the constituencies or in the districts, and mixing with the problem. I have to pick up an old lady and take her up to the Tower Building. Government is not paying me to be a social worker.

Mr. President, it is a good time for me, I guess, to say that I am not going to depend on Government. I have made my own plans for the constituency of West Bay. I have talked and am in the process of talking to the churches who, those that I have talked to, are agreeing that we try to raise our own money and get a social worker for our district. I hope that I will not be boycotted in that like I was boycotted with the community park. But that is something that I am in the process of doing, and I will get it, I know I will get it, I am optimistic enough. When I was told I could not get the bus for the West Bay school we went ahead and got it and it is there in operation. I am a go-getter. But I would hope I do not hear any pessimism on it, and do not hear that I am looking for votes, that is why I am saying so because every time I get up here and bring a problem to Government, you hear he is looking for votes.

Plans have been laid for sports and here again, we are far behind any other Caribbean country when it comes to these things. Mr. President, we need coaches. The Member knows it, it has been brought to his attention. I think he was talking to some. But when we bring a problem or a case to the portfolio, let us look at it in an optimistic manner. We have one young man from George Town who has been working, saving his money and going abroad for a short course. He comes back home, work, people help him get some money and this is how he is trying to finish his courses in football coaching. Government has to step in when they see that kind of commitment in our young people. You cannot laugh at them. People are getting discouraged. Young people are getting discouraged, and I do not know whether they are telling the Honourable Member so, but they are crying on my shoulder. We can find the money to do everything. We spend a million dollars for a study of the seabed to see where you are going to put down an anchor, if you can put down an anchor. But you can tell me that you cannot help these kind of people, you have to wait until we can get it in the estimates. Well, you know what we have done. It did not do what talk did, but it broke down the dock.

Well, some of the Members might say that the debate is irrelevant, but if you leave these things that I have mentioned, that you know are close and dear to my heart, and you do not put priority on them, the country is going to fall and fall when you least expect it.

Mr. President, the police force has been a subject which every time I speak on you tried to shut me up, call me to order on some point or another, I do not even plan to look at it.

We come to the Legislative Assembly, and there are some plans for this building that I would hope we can get into it next year as the plans have been laid. One of these days I will see that an office of a Speaker is included. As a Member of the House, I feel that Government has to start thinking of continuing to build offices for Members and giving them the help that they need in their constituencies. How else can we serve our people? You cannot expect me to run to the Legislative Assembly staff who are already overworked, every time I want a letter done, or something done. For us to serve our people better, this whole way of operation needs to be changed. We are no longer operating in 1959 or 1965. Problems have multiplied in our constituencies and God bless those that have an office. But in a constituency like West Bay, we need an office where the people can reach us.

I will leave that and I will come to the Prison Service and because there is a report to be laid which I trust will be open for debate, I will leave my comments on that chapter.

Mr. President, on the Turtle Farm - we see that there are some plans moving ahead for the turtle farm. I would say, Mr. President, that if C.I.T.E.S. are not going to lift the ban on turtle products, turtle meat and such, I am prepared to wait until this last C.I.T.E.S. meeting is over but I will be making some strong recommendations. They might not be taken up, but many of our people are coming forward and although we do not have a plan before them at this meeting, I will not say what those recommendations are. But, Mr. President, we are going to have to change our policy. One of the things I will mention is that there are complaints concerning the Turtle Farm giving some concession to one local or one business establishment in this country ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

I hope the Member is going to tie this to the debate, because he is really straying rather far now. I have allowed him in other respects to, but this one does not seem relevant. If he can show me the relevance I will allow him to continue.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Well, we are talking about plans, and that is what I am dealing with.

MR. PRESIDENT:

It appeared to me you were going to be dealing with some present arrangement at the Turtle Farm which is a commercially run operation, not with the plans for future Government capital expenditure which is what the Economic Development Plan deals with.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Well, Mr. President, yes, I had to deal with the present problem in order to tell you how I feel about the future plans. But if you say desist, I will bow to your rulings. But as I already said, there will come a time when I am going to have a say on this subject.

One subject I hope you will not rule out of order is how Government can say no trading on Sunday and the Turtle Farm shop is open on Sundays? I guess you must have thought that is what I was going to talk about the first time.

Mr. President, I have finished what I hope have been some useful comments on this Development Plan. The Member presenting it has done a good job. I had hoped that it would be debated as an issue of national concern because it involves all the sectors and the interests of those sectors. I support the plans that are laid. I only hope, Sir, that now that plans have been laid, that we can find the money to implement these plans and I trust that my district will not be left out.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think perhaps this will be a convenient moment to take our afternoon break, and I will accordingly suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

AT 3:22 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3:42 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated. Resumption of the debate on the Standing Finance Committee report.

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, as the Member who saddled the Government with the commitment and the responsibility of bringing this Economic Plan, I would like to wholeheartedly congratulate the mover. At times when you are speaking here and they are sleeping, you think they are not paying any mind, but either he went back to the minutes or he listened to what I said when I moved the motion on the Economic Development Plan. It has covered the areas with which I expressed concern that planning needed to be done, and that was infrastructure, the direction for the economy, the social and the necessary Government support services along with it.

This Plan does what I feel such a plan should do in that it represents the social and political philosophy of the Government. There is a lot of information contained in the document. Some of the information which they researched that went into the document brought to light things that Government has already taken action on, like the changing of the requirements for qualification to sit as a Member of the Assembly. I do not believe that it is necessary to go through the document chapter by chapter. I attended the Committee's meetings, and put my input there, and I feel that, like I said, basically it is a good plan. Of course it is a dynamic plan, it is going to have to be revised every year to deal with the year in line with the Government's annual budget which is going to be the finite economic plan for that year. The Member has made it clear that it is going to be a rolling plan, that each year they are going to add on another year, which satisfies me.

It is interesting to notice that the annual projection cost for the years up until 1990 we find that the infrastructural cost by Government far outweighs all of the other costs, and that it as it should be, so I hope that we will not see a letter signed by the President of the Chamber of Commerce in next week's newspaper that Government's Economic Plan is trying to direct private enterprise. This Plan pays attention to the areas of need in the infrastructure which will allow the private sector to develop the economy on the basis that it has done in the past, and to help direct it in the future by providing the infrastructure which is going to be necessary for such development to take place.

I have no trouble in supporting the Plan. I believe that we should not believe that the costs that are projected in this Plan for any of the projects are carved in stone. Certainly, everyone must realise that when a cost is put in for a project to take place in 1990, it is done at today's figures, and in most instances there is going to be upward revision of those costs at the time that Government sits down to implement that project in its annual budget.

Mr. President, I give my support to the Plan and I believe it is a step in the right direction. It is the first time, to my knowledge, that the Government has put in black and white so to speak, what it feels are the needs of the country, and what time frame it intends to address those needs. I believe that even if we have a change of Government in 1988 which brings about a change in the political philosophy, at least they now have a document that can be referred to which identifies the needs and they can then reprioritise as it were, to suit their philosophy what is contained in this Plan.

So, Mr. President, like I said, I would like to congratulate the Honourable Member on putting the document together. I had expressed reservations in the past at the time that they were taking to do it, but I believe now that the time was well spent, and with those few words I support the Plan.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? In that case does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply? I am not sure whether the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands was trying to catch my eye, rather belatedly, if he was, he may speak.

CAPT. MABRY S. KIRKCONNELL:

Mr. President, I too would like to congratulate the mover on the able presentation he made. I know the listening audience will appreciate his in-depth report on this Five Year Development Plan. I personally feel it is a good plan. I had the privilege of going over it in detail in the Finance Committee. I do not intend today to take a long time and delay the Assembly. I feel it is good planning, forward planning, that we know the priority of what major items are needed. We all realise that the Island of Grand Cayman and George Town in particular, being the capital, has many needs. Also the other districts will follow behind.

In looking at the Sister Islands, which are my direct responsibility in this House, I am very grateful that we will have an improvement at the Faith Hospital in the year 1988 if this Plan is implemented. Also I would like to ask the Member responsible for the Housing Corporation to continue to give most favourable consideration with loans there as there are several people in that community, who, like every other district I imagine, cannot qualify with the commercial institutions for assistance for houses, but do badly need to upgrade their living standard.

Of major importance to me in the Sister Islands, is our water situation. In the Finance Committee we decided that we felt in interests of the economy of these Islands it was not prudent to spend large sums to further develop the well fields as we did not feel that that would solve the problem. I made a suggestion on the floor of this Honourable House on a previous occasion that I would recommend that Government enter into a contract with the Cayman Brac Power and Light Company similar to what they have done with Central Desal, for the provision of providing desalinated water to the community in Cayman Brac. I have spoken with the managing director of Cayman Brac Power and Light and he is very receptive to the idea. So I am in hopes that something could be worked out that would provide potable water there. Right now we are experiencing a drought and water is not available to be bought because during the dry season it is usually also the tourist season, the only desalinated water available on the Island is at the hotels, and they have limited capacity for the manufacture of desalinated water themselves. The need is definitely there, and I would hope that something could be done as soon as possible to negotiate with the Cayman Brac Power and Light Company because I know it is not something that can be done immediately. They have limited financial resources themselves so it is something that will take some time to be negotiated, and it is a need that we needed yesterday, not tomorrow or in the distant future.

Another area of great importance in Cayman Brac at the present time is education. We have had a major problem with a declining population, a decreasing student enrolment, which has put economic burdens on the education system. But it is my hope President, that no steps will be taken that will in any way, damage the education of our young people in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. As we know, there is no public school on Little Cayman, so the only education expenses in the two Islands is all on Cayman Brac. My concern is that nothing be done that would in any way reduce the staff in the primary schools now or in the future, because I feel the faculty of the primary schools, each and every teacher is necessary, and I would ask the Honourable Member to consider this. I know economy is important, but I feel the benefits of education will far outweigh the expense it is causing this Government in the long run. Without an educated population, the future would be very bleak for these Islands.

I also look forward to the completion of the air terminal at the Gerrard Smith Airport. This is long overdue, and I sincerely hope that as envisaged in this Five Year Development Plan, the construction can commence in the latter half of this year, and will certainly be completed during the period of this Five Year Economic Development Plan.

We also note with interest the view on the airport at Little Cayman. I do not at this time see the need for a new airport at Little Cayman. I believe if the present airstrip was acquired from its owners and improved, it could serve the needs for many, many years to come, and be a considerable saving to our Government.

I turn now to our hospital. This Economic Development Plan clearly states that we have sufficient hospital rooms to cover us to the year 1990 in Cayman Brac. If we look at charts that probably is correct and that would be true if we had 50,000 or 100,000 or 200,000 people, ten hospital rooms or two hospital rooms less would make no difference. But we do not have private rooms, Mr. President, and that is what we have said, is why we have asked for them, and as I said we look forward to them being constructed during the year 1988.

I would like to thank all the department heads and all who had an input into this for their consideration to the Sister Islands and for the good job they have done in the preparation of this Plan. I think it is a good Plan. I know a lot of work has gone into it. I sincerely hope that it will be followed fairly closely, and as the time goes on, the most important projects will certainly be given priority. With these words, Mr. President, in closing, I would again like to congratulate the Honourable mover for his able presentation, and I have already alerted my constituents to listen tonight in order that they will hear a proper explanation of this Economic Development Plan, that they can better understand what it is all about.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? In that case does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Yes, Mr. President.

You know, somebody said to me the other day when I started talking about this Economic Development Plan, that I must be an economist - and it reminded me of a story I heard between a recently married couple - and it goes somewhat like this, Mr. President:

"I am glad you are so impressed dear, because of all these explanations I have been giving you about banking and economics" remarked the young husband. And the wife replied: "Yes, darling it seems wonderful that anybody could know as much as you about money - without having any."

I have a little bit, but it is not mine, it all belongs to the public.

But I want to thank Members for their kind words about the Economic Development Plan, their kind comments as well about the department heads who assisted in putting it together, and also the private sector's contribution, which I think helps to make the Plan a very good one. I am not going to prolong the debate this afternoon, but merely to say that I think one of the Honourable Members, made a point, he was trying to make a point, and I believe he did, about all the banks and all the insurance companies being foreign. And as I listened to his comments, on the fact that all of them with the exception of one in banking and one in insurance, all being foreign, it reminded me that - and this thought came quickly to mind - that it was not too long ago - as a matter of fact I believe it came pretty much to an end in the middle 1960's - that the majority of us, went overseas to search for this foreign money. And as a result, had to be away from our mothers and fathers and family or more intimately, wife and children, for one year, as that was the terms of employment which we had to agree to. Today that foreign money has come to our Island and we have many people employed as a result of it. We no longer have to be away from our families for long periods of time. And, Mr. President, excuse me, but as the lyrics are sung: "We've come a long way, baby".

Thank you very much, Mr.

President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that the Report of Standing Finance Committee on the meetings held on 8th and 22nd of April to consider the Economic Development Plan and that Plan, subject to the Report, be accepted.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. REPORT OF THE STANDING FINANCE COMMITTEE ON THE FIVE YEAR ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT PLAN (1986-1990) ADOPTED

MR. PRESIDENT:

Item 3 of number 2 on today's Order Paper, the Honourable Third Official Member.

GOVERNMENT MINUTE AND REPORT TO
PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.15/86

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Mr. President, in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 18(1) I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the report of the inquiry into allegations into drug abuse at Northward Prison conducted by Mr. Harry Brown, C.F.M., during the period 29th January to 27th February 1987, accompanied by the Government's response to that report in the form of a Government Minute.

MR. PRESIDENT:

So ordered.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 18(2), I would make a few brief remarks. This inquiry, as Members are aware, came as a result of the Government's acceptance of Private Member's Motion No.15/86, and the inquiry was conducted in an independent fashion over a period of approximately five weeks, during which time the inquirer examined the background situation, the current situation, looked at security arrangements, staffing and establishment arrangements at the institution, looked at the procedures and came to interview every prisoner that was in the institution, every member of staff, every Member of the Legislative Assembly and every member of the public who desired audience with him. He came to make a series of observations and recommendations, the summary of which is that there have been, in the past, and there continues to be, a certain amount of illicit drug abuse at the Northward Prison. He cites eight methods by which contraband is generally smuggled into this and any other prison. Just to mention a few of the eight methods mentioned in the report, Sir, contraband can be thrown over the perimeter fence into the facility to await pickup; it can be smuggled in by prisoners on outside visits to the courts, to the hospital, dentist etcetera, obtaining the contraband from outside sources; it can be obtained by authorised visitors to inmates passing contraband through contact; through outside prison working parties picking up the contraband concealed at prearranged places; it can be smuggled in through hand-ins, through visiting work parties, etcetera.

Finally, the inquirer makes twelve recommendations that he considers would be an improvement to the current situation. These recommendations have been analysed and considered by the Government, and the responses to them are set out in the Government Minute.

The Government accepts, therefore, that there is a certain problem. It is not an enormous one, it is not of epidemic proportions, and it is certainly a containable problem. The Government will be taking steps, as recommended, to ensure that as far as possible, illicit trading of drugs at Northward Prison will be kept to its absolute minimum.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, under Standing Order 24(9)(viii) I would move that the report be debated.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I have hesitated because I am not quite sure - are you meaning that you move that there be a debate on a motion that the report be accepted, or something like that? If the motion is simply that the report be debated, technically you cannot discuss the report itself, you can only discuss whether it be debated. But presumably what you want to discuss is the report, and the response to it. In that case I think what you will have to move is that the report be adopted, or that it be thrown out or that something happens to it, then it would be, provided that the motion was acceptable, possible to debate the merits and the substance of the report.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Are you saying that instead of (9)(viii) then it should be (9)(i), and I move that it be adopted?

MR. PRESIDENT:

No, no.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

All right, under Standing Order

24(9) (viii) I move that the report be adopted, as well as the Government minute.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Yes, I think that would achieve what I take it is your objective, and I think that there is no reason why you should not move that. So I suggest you speak to your motion.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I am very, very disappointed that Government would spend time and money on this report, an important report such as this one, an investigation into drugs in Northward Prison; and to come into this House after this Member and the Member for North Side got them to consent to it, to come here and to make the report under Standing Order ... (whichever one it was that he laid it under) and spoke to it as a ministerial prerogative in order that we, on this side of the House could not have a say on this Report. It was a cover up. As all reports have been on any Governmental institution and it is one of the reasons why we will always have charges of corruption in this Colony.

Mr. President, they cannot govern alone, and it is time that the Government bench understand it. They need the support from this side, and they only have one year and some months left in their administration, and the quicker they understand that, the better.

Now, Mr. President ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

Could I interrupt you, it has just been brought to my notice that technically your motion should have been seconded. I am sure the Member for North Side intended to second it, I saw him sort of nodding, but if formally he would do so then we shall be quite in order.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I beg to second the Motion, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Now you can continue.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Well, I hope the public understands that that little interruption there was not my fault. I believe things are done sometimes in this House to try to make me look like I do not know what I am doing.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think the fault was mine, not yours.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Oh, I am glad you admit it, Sir, I would not say that, but ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

I certainly was not seeking to blame you, I should not have accepted the Motion until it had been seconded, and I should not have allowed you to speak.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Sir, you have been trying to keep on the good side now in this meeting.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Well, if you will try and keep on mine, I will try and keep on yours.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I was very happy when the Government accepted my motion for an inquiry into allegations of drug abuse at Northward Prison, but for the record, I would point out that the first motion I tabled was for an inquiry into the Northward Prison - in other words, a full inquiry into the Prison and not just into allegations of drug abuse. Anyway, Government would not accept a full inquiry into the prison, but they accepted an inquiry into allegations of drug abuse.

Now, I did not get to talk to Mr. Brown. The day I was supposed to talk to him we were in session and he came by and told me that he had concluded his enquiry. Well, that was because we were caught up here in meetings and we did not find time.

Mr. President, my reasons I gave were because of the allegations, and I am happy with some of the recommendations. It has some startling - although they say it is not crisis proportions - it does have some startling and revealing comments. They found where they had seen cocaine free-basing and 30 per cent drug usage among inmates. One of the startling findings is on page 10 of the report, "that common methods of smuggling contraband into the prison were seen to be coming from visiting parties such as P.W.D. engineers". If this report is telling me that P.W.D. is involved here, then they too need an investigation. It is one department that I have confidence in many of the staff. But you know, I have to question what is really happening in this country? What are we coming to if we are finding that more and more departments are involved in this thing? The report mentions, I believe, that one prison officer was being called back from Jamaica, and that they are taking precautions to control some of these. But it says nothing about what it is doing about corrupt prison staff. It does not say one, you know, it says some. And I am saying that I do not see anything in the report, I could have missed it where they are saying they are taking any precautions on prison staff, corrupt prison staff.

In the debate on the Bill to amend the Prisons Law yesterday, or the day before, I mentioned that I was disappointed that Government was not laying this report when they were bringing that Bill to the House, and the Member in his reply, proceeded to tell me that the Bill to amend the Prisons Law had nothing to do with the report on the investigation. I do not think that I am wrong. If you search the Hansard you will find where the Member said that. He said that at various times. Yet, I find that some of the amendments in the Prisons Law were taken directly from the recommendations made by Mr. Brown. And, for the sake of clarity, I will point out in the Prisons Bill, what I am talking about. It gave in or clause 4 of the Bill, amending section 8 of the principal law, it gave the prison officers the same powers as police officers. That is, the Bill to amend the Prisons Law. We find in the Government Minute that the powers of search and arrest were recommended by Mr. Brown. Now you are asking me why I am pointing it out. I am going to show you ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

With respect, I did not ask you that.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

You did not ask, but you are hearing. Why I am pointing it out is because it shows you that the Government bench will mislead you. It is not every time they get up on that side over there that they tell you the whole truth and nothing but the truth so help me God. But they swear up and down that we Members speaking on this side, are a bunch of idiots who do not know what we are talking about. That is the point I am trying to make. And that is not the only amendment in that Prison Bill that came from these recommendations. Some of the recommendations are good and proper, I am not going to prolong this debate, but I want to know what is being done concerning those corrupt prison officials that the report talks about. The report says, in section 45, that most of these mentioned have since left the service for one reason or another. And the operative word here is "most". Where in the world are the other ones? I only moved the adoption in order to be able to speak, but I am disappointed to see that this Report was trying to be covered up. I am only left to wonder whether in fact, this is a true report or whether this is the whole and full report.

MR. PRESIDENT:

With all respect to the Member, I do not really think that he can say that a report was being covered up when it has just been laid on the table and therefore has become a public document.

However, the Motion is now open for debate and if anybody ... but, sorry, it is only about one minute before 4:30 p.m. and I am therefore doubtful whether it is worth inviting any Member to start a speech if any Member does want to speak on the Motion. Does any Member wish to speak? If any Member does, we can postpone the debate until tomorrow. I thought so. In that case, I will invite the Honourable First Official Member to move the adjournment now.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, in accordance with Standing Order 10(2), I move the adjournment of this House until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

PRAYERS

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake, Amen.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread: And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us: And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us: the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us: the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated.

Presentation of Petition in accordance with the agreement which the House gave yesterday to suspend the provisions of Standing Order 17. I now call upon the Second Elected Member for West Bay to lay on the Table the Petition standing in his name.

PRESENTATION OF PETITION

PETITION NO. 1 OF 1987

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, in laying this Petition I would point out to this Honourable House what the people are asking.

"We, the people of the Cayman Islands, and in particular the residents of West Bay, hereby ask the Government of these Islands to take into consideration our wishes as stated below:

(1) that no dredging for a deep water harbour take place in the North Sound as proposed; and

(2) that before any future approval is given to any investor, foreign or Caymanian for dredging operations of such magnitude, that we, the people of the Cayman Islands and in particular the residents of West Bay, be consulted first of all and that our wishes be taken into consideration with utmost impartiality, and your petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray."

Mr. President, this Petition is sent in by Mr. Marvin Ebanks of West Bay and some 414 other signatories. I think that Government, will do well to take these wishes into consideration, and I would only thank those people, Mr. Harley Rivers and others, for getting the signatures and having initiated this Petition. I table it on their behalf.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Presentation of Papers and Reports.

Thank you.

Item 3 on today's agenda.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

GOVERNMENT MINUTE AND REPORT
TO PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 15/86

MR. PRESIDENT:

This is a continuation of debate on the suspension of Standing Order 24(9)(viii). I am not quite sure that is right. I think what happened was that the Second Elected Member moved a Motion in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 24(9)(viii) that the report of the inquiry into allegations of drug abuse at Northward Prison and the Government note thereon should be adopted. It is that debate that can now continue. The mover had spoken. The Elected Member for North Side had caught my eye just before we adjourned yesterday, and I invite him to speak now.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

That is not the entirely correct position, Sir, but you had asked if anyone else had intended to speak. I would have preferred to have heard Government, but if they ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

Well, I had in fact asked if anybody wanted to speak thinking that if nobody had wished to speak I would have taken the vote last night. You did catch my eye and I did therefore say that we would adjourn. But I do not press you, if you wish to give somebody else an opportunity to speak first, you can do that. I caution you I will invite any Member to speak, and if nobody else rises and you do not rise in time, I will put the vote.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

That is okay, Sir, I will speak, I will not miss my opportunity, and I promise you that when I am finished they will be up on their feet, they are not going to miss their opportunity either.

Mr. President, like the Second Elected Member for West Bay said yesterday, I too am dumbfounded and surely disappointed that Government chose to lay this report in the fashion in which it was done yesterday afternoon under Standing Order 18(2) which precludes debate on the subject matter.

Now, I had spoken privately with the Elected Members of Government, and they had assured me that they saw no reason why the report should not be debated, and that it would be laid in such a fashion. I believe they were kind of surprised yesterday when it was laid under 18(2). If they were not they did a good job of acting. But I believe some of them were genuinely surprised that no debate was going to be allowed on this very important subject. We not only have a report being tabled with conclusions, findings and recommendations based on a Private Member's Motion asking for an investigation, but we have a Government Minute attached which outlines Government's response and the action it has taken, is taking and is going to take, based on the recommendations, conclusions and findings in this report. Some of these actions that Government is going to take involve expenditure, involve legislation, and while it might be argued technically - and this week we have seen a lot of hair splitting by the Government side in this Assembly - that the act of laying the Report on the Table of this Honourable House under 18(2) is putting it out for public perusal and public information, and it is true that the public can come to the Assembly after the Report is laid here and get copies of it. But, Mr. President, our responsibility as a Government and as Members of this Assembly goes beyond that in a situation like this. We should be allowed to expound, deliberate and debate the findings, conclusions, recommendations and Government's Minutes so that the public can be adequately informed on this Report.

The public heard the debate concerning the Private Member's Motion which brought about this report. Most members of the public do not have the time to come to this Assembly and get reports, and the public will have to pay for them when they come here anyway. But to put it in perspective, the news release on Radio Cayman this morning, based on a report which is 48 paragraphs long lasted less than one minute. Is that the amount of information that the Government wants to get to the public? They all know my position about Radio Cayman. Public perceives, rightly or wrongly, that it is Government controlled, and if they would take my advice and put it under public authority they would get rid of some of that.

But let us look at the events leading up to this Report, and then look at the findings in that perspective, and we will see how bad, how serious, this report really is. I will read the introduction by Mr. Harry Brown, C.P.M., to his Report. And it says:

"For some time past in the Cayman Islands, street rumours and speculative allegations have circulated to the effect that prisoners at Northward Prison have easy access to illegal narcotic drugs within prison confines, and that a flourishing drug trade exists there, linked to a high level of usage by inmates."

That is the investigating officer's introductory paragraph. And that is true. That is the reason why the Second Elected Member for West Bay and myself brought the motion in the first place, because we could not convince the Government Official responsible at that time for Prisons that there was anything wrong.

And now, having to do that in itself defeats the purpose of the investigation. We are raising the flag, we are informing the culprits concerned. We were announcing it for all and sundry to hear that an investigation is going to take place at the Prison. Compound that with the fact that when Government brought in the officer to do it, they made a big announcement on the front page of the Caymanian Compass.

Now all of that combined gives the culprits, the people who are involved in this illicit drug trade at Northward, notice to hold back. Then it is being speculated in the public's eye as to why they brought back a police officer who had been involved with the police force before to do the investigation. They go to all the expense of bringing in D.E.A. agents to a campaign on Seven Mile Beach to entrap citizens, and in some cases I support that, it is a necessary evil to break the back of the drug trade. Why was not the investigation into the prisons, an official arm of Government, done in like fashion? One Member suggested to me that what they should have done was convicted the officer in court and put him in prison for five days and then he would have really found out what was going on. No, they dragged this flag all over the Cayman Islands, we are going to investigate the prisons, be warned.

Mr. President, I know it is difficult for Government to admit that there is something wrong in the prisons. Because, like I said, the Second Elected Member for West Bay and myself could not convince the Honourable Member responsible that there was any substance at all to the rumours. Now I will admit that there has been a change in the structure of Executive Council since that time, and a change in the persons who occupy the seat. But worse than that, in laying this Report on the table, it is brought to my attention that one of the Magistrates in our courts was himself so concerned that he wrote a letter to Government asking for an investigation on 20th July, 1986. Government did nothing. Are you telling me now that the investigation had nothing to do with the Private Member's Motion, that Government was going to investigate it anyway? Well nothing was done before September when the Private Member's Motion was brought, because a simple way to defeat the Private Member's Motion was to say there is an on-going investigation, there is no need for this, we would have withdrawn the Motion. The Hansard of the House bears no such record. So my deduction is that this letter was ignored.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think if the Member is going to say that he ought perhaps to read and read out paragraphs 38 and 39 of the report.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:
and 39 of the Report, Sir.

I will read out paragraph 38

"38. The letter of complaint sent by the Resident Magistrate Hon. Kipling Douglas, to His Excellency the Governor, describing allegations from defendants in court that drugs were freely available in Northward, was investigated. The first subject of the letter suffers from a mental problem and was, at the time of his appearance before Hon. Douglas, under medication prescribed by the Government consultant psychiatrist Dr. Knight.

39. The second person mentioned in the Magistrate's letter has since been released from prison. He was interviewed on 11 February" (I assume the year is left out conveniently and that should be 1987, which is after the Private Member's Motion) "and although he declined to give a statement on the matter, admitted making the allegations described in the Resident Magistrate's letter. He claimed he was misunderstood and was in fact referring to a term he spent in prison in 1983 and 1984, when drugs were easy to obtain. He further stated that when committed to prison last year he found illicit drug use among prisoners still present, but that drugs were difficult to obtain because the system had tightened up from previous years."

What I am saying, Mr. President, that if a thorough investigation had been carried out at that time, there would have been no need for this investigation nor for a Private Member's Motion. So I still maintain that although there is evidence here that the two specific cases referred to by the Magistrate may have been, or were looked at, the whole principle behind his letter, and that drugs were available at Northward Prison, was ignored.

Now we also find attached to the report a list of convictions, 1982 we had two, 1983 we had two, 1984, four, 1985, four, 1986, two. So there was evidence before Government through convictions of court that something was wrong at Northward Prison. Yet the Second Elected Member for West Bay and myself were told repeatedly by the Member responsible at that time that there was no truth to those rumours, there was nothing going on in Northward Prison. It was just people trying to give it a bad name.

The conclusions and recommendations of this report, paragraph 40. Mr. Brown states:

"From information obtained from past official records, and from numerous interview sources, I am satisfied" (and this is Mr. Brown) "that illicit drugs, namely ganja (cannabis sativa) and cocaine (cocaine hydrochloride) have been regularly" (not occasionally or intermittently used, but regularly) "used by the inmates of Northward Prison in past years."

And that is a little bit of that same British diplomacy - it went on before, but it is not going on now. I still get as many complaints today as I got in 1986 when I brought this Motion. Because a recent inmate that I talked to from my constituency told me that he was shocked at what he saw going on there.

"And that they are still being used within the prison confines by present inmates."

he says that:

Paragraph 32, in his findings

"All" (not some) "all prison officers interviewed appeared to be aware of the numerous methods by which drugs and contraband can be smuggled into the prison and of the necessary preventative action they should take in such cases."

Now, what are we doing with officials who know the methods, who know the ways to stop it, but are not stopping it? The age old excuse, 33:

"It was generally felt by all prison officers interviewed that staff shortages at the prison had resulted in lower standards, particularly in the searching, surveillance and control of prisoners, at operational supervisory levels."

Staff is like information - sometimes when you have to make a decision you can always say, you can always prove, you can always justify, that you need one more. But like information, making a decision based on information, we have to work with what we have. We cannot sit down to make a decision and wait until absolutely all of the information is available. And do not tell me that the management at the prison cannot find a way to utilise their staff by shifting them around on any one of these duties to try to stop some of this. That is what Government is paying them to do as management. They can find all kinds of excuses when you want to visit a prisoner. It takes you two weeks, and then they tell you, you should go through management. I was talking to the Director of Prisons, I thought that was management, and he told me that if I wanted permission to visit someone I should go through management. But they cannot put their heads together. They are not so short staffed up there you know, they have quite a few.

What I do not understand, Sir, because if this report had been laid early on in the session, the Bill for Prisons that was brought to this Assembly should never have been brought. Let us take one aspect of the Bill. The Bill which was passed into Law and which I voted for, based on the information which was before me - and that is the job I have to do. Had I had this information, I would have voted against the Bill because one clause in that Bill reduced the number of mandatory doctor's visits from one every month to one a year. One of the recommendations in this report is that doctor's visits be increased. And they are talking about hiring a retired doctor to put there full time. So on one hand you feel that Government, through its Government Minute, has paid some attention to this report. On the other hand, you wonder if the Government Members have read the report. And you know, there is a saying "Jesus likes the truth". Now on my copy, I do not know about other Members' copies, but on page 14, and I will give the Government Members time to find it, page 14 next to recommendation number 5, somebody has handwritten the word "legislation". Now what is the significance of handwriting the word "legislation" there? The Bill had nothing to do with this report and the report has nothing to do with the Bill.

The second recommendation made by Mr. Brown is that:

"The establishment of a Prison Medical Officer must be considered and implemented as soon as possible. A retired doctor could be offered contractual terms to hold clinics in the prison. This should drastically reduce the number of outside visits by inmates and produce savings in transport and personnel costs to make the post viable."

Because in his findings, it is claimed by the prisoners who consume the drug and by the prison officers who should put a stop to it, that one of the places they are getting illicit drugs is at the hospital. Now it is beyond comprehension on my part that Government can have this recommendation before them and they can introduce a Bill in this Assembly to reduce the doctor visits from one a month to one a year.

No Member in presenting the Bill said that the reason why they could reduce the mandatory thing was because they hoped to put a doctor there as is recommended in this. Nobody needs tell me that a nurse put at the clinic can fulfil the role of a doctor, because that is illegal and if they start dispensing medications etcetera, they are breaking the laws of this country. If they put the doctor there, as is recommended here, they get the savings on transportation, they reduce one of the areas that the illicit drugs are getting into the compound. Then they might have some money left to hire all the staff that they need.

The third recommendation is to do with drugs being thrown over the fence. Now, Mr. President, you know I am not saying that it is physically impossible to throw the drugs over the fence at Northward, but it either has to be a fairly large quantity of ganga, an even larger amount of cocaine if the guy is going to throw it over the height of the fence and cover the distance of no-man's land and get it into the compound or he has to package it in something that has weight to pelt it that far over the fence. Now the recommendation here is a logical one - if they are using sling shots, or maybe they are really using a crossbow, that the Honourable Second Elected Member wants eliminated, I do not know - to clear a larger area etcetera. The word legislation, you know, Sir, that is written on my copy has to do with the implementation of random urine tests and stuff like that. Mr. President, the report is fairly comprehensive. I think Mr. Brown did a good job, considering the circumstances under which the report had to be done, the flag waving, the announcing and everything else that went on. But you know, it leaves one to wonder how bad really is this problem. I mean if, after all of this hullabaloo of announcing it, this man goes in there and he finds it so blatant that it cannot be denied, I wonder what it is like under normal circumstances, under the normal day to day operation of the prison when there is no announcement that there is going to be an investigation. Is it better, or is it worse?

Now Sir, let us look at the Government's response to this report. The first paragraph says:

"Government has considered this report and accepts the conclusions and recommendations contained therein."

Addressing each of the recommendations in turn - now you see, it has fallen to my lot now to have to tell the people what these recommendations and Government action is, because the Honourable Member in moving the Motion did not do it. Why? You know, I am getting kind of tired of this Mickey Mouse game. The Members on this side must be given sufficient information in order to intelligently decide, because I feel like an idiot having voted for the Prison Bill and having read his report. Granted, the decision at that time was made in good faith on information available to me. But why could not this report and these recommendations have been laid before that Bill was discussed?

Some of Mr. Brown's recommendations have already been acted on, and I congratulate Government for that. But tell the public. Why must the public be left uninformed? They heard the debate on and the reasons why the Second Elected Member for West Bay and myself brought the Private Member's Motion in September. They are entitled and if Government has nothing to hide it should be willing, because it is able to have read the Government Minute for the public of this country because, make no mistake, when it is something that they want out, no effort is spared in the presentation. The Honourable mover of the Economic Plan yesterday - which was a good thing for this country - eloquently expounded the pros and the cons of the Economic Development Plan. The same should have been done with this report. It is just as important that the populace of this country who are entitled to know be told what went on with the prison report. And then when the people out there start making up their 'Anancy' stories, they can say well we laid it on the Table at the Assembly, you should go down and get it.

We are getting $6.00 an hour to do this you know, to inform the public, and they are getting a lot more than that. The first item on the Government Minute:

"1) Staff Vacancies/Shortage:

Recent efforts resulted in five new recruits entering the prison service and the remaining nine vacancies will be filled by selective overseas recruitment currently in progress."

That is why it was not read, because we are getting to this thing that came up in the Throne Speech, about this selective recruitment from overseas. Mr. President, there are people in this country who can adequately perform these functions and Government has to find out why the Caymanians are not applying for these jobs and create the wherewithal for Caymanians to occupy these posts. If it is because of poor salary, then those selective recruits, if that is the determining factor, are going to be very tempted to get involved in illicit drug trafficking in the prison, because it is very difficult to survive in this country on a poor salary. Whether we like it or not as a Government, it is expensive to live in this country.

"Efforts will also be made to provide additional manpower resources adequate to carry out all security recommendations."

Now in the first instance here, Government has accepted the man's recommendation. They have acted by getting five new recruits, they are going to get nine from overseas, and then they are going to make additional efforts to increase manpower resources again. There is nothing wrong with that - except the overseas recruitment - because we are bringing in people from a different culture to deal with our own people. That is where we are going to get the prison officers hitting the prisoners over the head with a baton because he cannot understand when the man from West Bay say "Almighty God, but I want to go work this morning". And he thinks he cursed him a bad word, right? You know how it is Bushie, because you know you can't talk about North Siders it is your people who do not talk properly, I cannot help that, not because there are more in numbers. And that is a very simplistic approach to the problems that bringing in foreigners, putting them in these positions, has. The language is a basic problem, understanding the whole culture.

Because the people in prison have done wrong, Sir, I am not denying that they should be punished for doing wrong. But we have to make an effort to bring those people back as productive members of society. And no "pan head" or "limey" is going to do that for a Caymanian. So we have to find the root cause, and there is a reason why Caymanians are not applying for jobs as prison officers or police officers, or other jobs in the civil service. And it is not always money. But I have said it over and over again in this Assembly, it has been ignored, and I believe it will continue to be ignored. Somebody had better start listening, Sir, because the thing that has kept the Cayman Islands from going the way of the Eastern Caribbean countries, the way of Jamaica, the way of Turks and Caicos Islands, does not have anything to do with a constitution carved in stone, or no particular stage of constitutional advancement.

It is built on that this country had an honest, hard-working, reliable civil service, made up of Caymanians who put their efforts into their work - that is what this country's success is based on. But look at the brain drain in Government. I do not like what I see down the road in the Civil Service. And it is not money, that is not the total answer to the problem, nor is it the total answer to staff at the prison. And, bringing in somebody who has spent forty years in Africa, again, to do some reclassification or study of the Civil Service, to recommend increases in salary and reduction of other benefits, that is not the answer to the problem. We have to find a way to reward those people, those staff in these positions, who are doing hard work, and we have to motivate them to perform.

The second item on the Government Minute is:

"2) Provision of Prison Medical Officers:

"As a first step towards this end, a nurse is being employed and stationed at Northward Prison primarily to attend to minor incidents and reduce the number and frequency of hospital visits.

Steps will then be taken with a view to fully implementing the recommendation within the next 12-24 months."

Now I hope that this step is not what was done in the Prison Bill this sitting. This Government Minute does not have a date on it, you know, Sir.

"3) Outer Perimeter Fencing and Lighting:

This recommendation will be considered, subject to costing and availability of funds."

Nothing wrong with that.

"4) Prison Intelligence Unit:

Establishment of such a unit is contingent upon the implementation of Part 2 of the response to #1 above" (that is the staffing) "and will be undertaken simultaneously. It is envisaged that manpower should be made available for establishment of such a unit to commence within 12 months."

That is reasonable. But tell the public. When the Honourable First Official Member brings his budget in November, and the public hears me and other Members supporting increase of civil service and prisons staff, if this thing is properly debated and the public is properly informed about it there will be no hesitation in supporting such a request. But if this is simply laid on the Table and one or two Justices of the Peace or retired politicians who want to make hay in 1988 come down here and get it, and go out and tell the people half the story, it is going to be very difficult for Members to then convince their electorate that increasing the staff is justifiable.

"5) Random Urine Testing: Prisoners and Staff:

Provision already exists for random testing of staff and a number of staff have volunteered and provided specimens."

Now, Mr. President, that is a joke. Because it says that provision exists for random tests to be demanded. But Government is satisfied that some people have volunteered a urine test. I mean, anybody who wants to circumvent that, and not get caught, simply knows what the half-life, or the duration of any of these chemicals in the body is like and he gives the test when he knows none will be found. That is not random urine sampling. At least it is not my interpretation, and I hope that this is a misprint and it is not Government's interpretation, because random is like what we did here in the Assembly some months ago. Somebody got up and said we should do it, and I said, yes, I will provide the equipment to do it, and everybody did it that day. The prison officer should come to work and the equipment is there and they have to give it there and then. That is what they do to any little boy on the street in my constituency. They do not ask him, 'Sir, would you come to the police station one day next week or at your convenience and give us a sample of urine'. They might be giving somebody else's urine - that was done in the Assembly too, you know.

Mr. President, if it is necessary, this paragraph 5 goes on to say:

"Consideration will be given to having amending legislation introduced to enable samples of urine to be taken from inmates within the prison by prison officials and/or medical nursing staff, as deemed appropriate. The police now have certain specific powers in this regard."

Why was not this included in the Prison Bill? Insignificant, I guess; I mean if they are using it, they are using it, do not worry about it.

"6) Secondary Prison Institution (Remand and Short Term):

Such needs have been long agreed and will be represented very strongly during development planning exercises within the next year."

Nothing wrong with that, that is reasonable.

"7) Powers of Search and Arrest:

This recommendation is accepted and steps are being taken with a view to providing such enabling legislation as considered appropriate."

Now that was done in the Prison Bill. Now I want somebody on the Government bench to tell me how it was possible to address number 7, giving the police powers of search and arrest in the Bill that was just before the Assembly, and it was possible to ignore 5, the necessary legislation to allow random testing of prison officers, staff and inmates? Why? And do not bother giving me the answer now about the legal draftsmen did not have time to draft it. Because I am getting tired of that excuse too. There is some serious legislation that needs to be brought to this Assembly, and if the man is overworked let us admit it. We get help for everybody else, get him some short-term help so that he can get the Traffic Law that needs to come to this Assembly so badly and should have been here since 1985 and this is 1987 and it is not here yet. Get the man some help if he needs it. Because seven or eight lawyers doing defence work, prosecution work and everything else, and one draftsman, five departments, four Elected Members of Executive Council presenting things that they need legislation on. The complexity of some of that legislation, each one of them needs a draftsman at times. And when it is presented to Finance Committee for additional revenue, they do it for everything else.

We just brought in people to measure the depth in the bottom of the harbour to make a decision not to use the anchors that were so expensively bought in years gone by. This is important. And if he does not have time, get him help, he is going to need help in the next couple of months, because we have the labour legislation, we have the social security legislation, and the Traffic Law - I do not expect to see that until 1999 or something like that. My son, or some other elected representative for North Side I guess will get the opportunity to debate that. Juvenile Law - we are all complaining that these things are not here. That is a good one, the Juvenile Law. The Committee must have handed in a report on that in 1984, because I have not heard anything about it in committee reports since 1985, certainly. Then we come down here and we amend eleven pieces of insignificant legislation in five days, and serious things like this - do not have a legal draftsman to do them.

You know, Sir, I have a lot of respect for that legal draftsman. I believe he does what he is told and what he is asked to do. He puts the priority where he is told to put it. Then it come down here, he cannot defend himself and tell us - the man is snowed with work, it is with the legal department, but they have so much work, they have all these murder cases going on - what has the legal draftsman got to do with that? He amended the Grand Court Law and all that so that we can get 72 jury members instead of 12 because some people might object. That was essential at that time. But that does not take three months to draft. That is a specific problem which required specific amendments which required specific wording. That is less than half a day's work.

"8) Visiting Facilities:

Plans are now in train" (I like that term, Sir, 'in train') "for the construction of suitable accommodation for visiting purposes."

I wonder where that train is, you know, Sir, because we have been complaining about this and we have been voting money for this for a number of years and a number of months. But that is a good word "in train", because we all know there are no train tracks on this Island. And if it is in train, how is it ever going to get from the Glass House to Northward and back - I do not know. But that could be the problem, it is in a train, and there are no train tracks for the train to run on. So I guess we have got to get some supplementary expenditure now to build some train tracks. That is one of the areas identified in here where the inmates are supposedly getting drugs from.

"9) Vehicles:

Introduction of vehicles more appropriate to the needs of the department commenced with a specially reinforced bus which went into operation on 6 April, 1987."

Now, Mr. President, "specially reinforced bus". Now I do not believe you know, Sir, that those people who were given the dope that people passed it through the bus. I mean, I think they were probably getting it when the door was open. And this bus has to have doors, so I mean, having a specially reinforced bus ... I mean maybe they were drilling holes in the bottom of it when it was up by the hospital, and putting the dope in through that, I do not know. So this one they have now, instead of having a thirty-second of an inch or a sixty-fourth of an inch steel body, what is it? Half inch steel?

You know, some of these things, Sir, are just what I normally call "wings flapping and no birds flying". In the case of Northward Prison and the problem identified with drugs in that establishment, we need the birds to fly and get to the root of the problem and solve it. Do not create these smoke screens of specially reinforced vehicles. It is not even that they have got to go over rough terrain road to get to the hospital or to get to the courthouse, maybe where they are fixing the road up around Spotts the road is a little bit rough now, but I believe that old Ford van they had could get over it, my little old Japanese Nissan truck, four wheel drive it is true, but I do not have to use it to get over the road, it is not that bad. So let us not cover these things up about we solved the problem with transportation or with the inmates getting dope while transporting them. There again, it would take a perfectly accurate man with a sling shot, or a crossbow to put dope into that window while the bus is driving, I mean, you know, I used a sling shot a lot in my young days, I killed a lot of judas birds and chip chips with a sling shot, and I missed quite a few. We are not talking here about marbles or gravel rocks, we are talking about an expensive commodity, dope. You just cannot afford to pelt that at a van and hope that the man that you want to get it is sitting in his seat and it is going to fall in his lap.

You know, Members may think that I am being seditious, but I am treating this with the disdain that I think it needs to be treated with. And, if they can poke fun, I can poke fun too. But put all fun and jokes aside, this is a serious matter. When we bring the Private Member's Motion in September for a similar investigation of the police force - because we have been told all along "there is nothing there to worry about" - we got that assurance again this sitting. If there is nothing there to worry about, let us put the reports on the Table for the public of this country to see and restore the confidence in the police force that they are entitled to. But as long as those reports remain up in the Glass House in file number 1322 or 36 behind steel doors, the public of this country is going to believe that there is something in those reports which implicates the police force of this country in wrong doing. And you cannot blame them.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I must ask the Member to come back to the Motion - he strays and strays, and he is straying rather further than usual this time.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Yes, Sir, because they are straying here, you know we all stray. But I can handle interruptions, I can take them in stride.

We are talking about the reinforced bus and reports.

"10) Searches of Staff and Prisoners:"

You see Mr. President, if the Honourable Member in moving this Minute had done his side of the story it might not have been necessary for me to do this, and to stray and to wander. But I mean, he just put it there and gave us no direction to go, or from whence it had come. So you have to feel your own way Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I can promise the Member I shall not interrupt as long as he is talking about the report and the Government note on it that are the subject of this Motion.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

All right Sir, I knew I would get your attention with that little bit about the police, that was just to make sure you were staying awake, Sir. We will not talk about the police any more, we will talk about this report now.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I will try and oblige you, but it is difficult at times.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

I know, I know. For both of us, Sir, for both of us.

Item number 10, Sir, Searches of Staff and Prisoners:

"Subject to availability of resources (manpower and space)" (are the resources identified) "efforts are being made to upgrade searching standards including searches of staff. Implementation of recommendation will greatly assist in addressing the problem of shortage of space."

You see, when you talk about no direction, Sir, implementation of recommendation - what? I assume he is talking about the new visiting quarters and stuff like that, but it is not stated there. They already did something about the manpower. That is another one of those instances of the wings flapping and no birds flying. We have got good air conditioning up here, it is necessary to keep down the hot air some Members talk.

"11) Vehicle Searches and Visits:

Steps are being taken to reduce the flow of vehicular traffic in and out of the prison, as well as the number of outside vehicles entering the prison. Carrying out of recommendation #1" (that is the way the other one should have been written, you see) "will also allow some upgrading of the system of searching to be undertaken."

That is reasonable.

"12) Electronic Surveillance:

That again is acceptable. But tell the public what we are going to do. Members know that I have always objected to Government increases in buying electronic equipment and radios and all that sort of stuff when it comes to budget time. If you identify it properly, I can support it. But the point raised by the Second Elected Member for West Bay yesterday, which is, if you stretch your imagination far enough and if you stray far enough outside of the wording of this Government Minute, you can probably sit down and hope that the problem is being addressed. And that is, Mr. Brown's reference to prison officers being involved in the distribution network at the prison. The report says some have gone. I ask the same question the Second Elected Member did. What efforts are being made to identify the remaining ones? What efforts are being made to discipline them, to take them out of the prison? And there is a quite serious allegation in that, that there is belief that Public Works engineers etcetera might also be involved in this thing. How are we going to cut down on their vehicular traffic? They have to go into the prison to do maintenance. And if they are not searching the vehicles now, something is seriously wrong.

Now Mr. President, as I said in starting, I am surely disappointed that this report was not expounded in more detail. We all know that the majority of the public in this country who we are privileged to serve listen to Radio Cayman to ascertain what is going on. I would hazard to say that more people listen to the broadcasts of these proceedings than read the Compass report. We have to be cognisant of that fact. It behooves every Member of this House when laying or presenting such a report to do it in such a way that the public gets the information it has a right to have. The flimsy excuse that they can come here and get a copy of it is not good enough.

I would like to congratulate Mr. Brown on this report. I think he did a good job, it is presented in a fair fashion. And I could even - I would like to be able to congratulate the Government on accepting it, but I cannot do that with a clear conscience when they accept it and put it on the Table and hope it falls underneath. They are big men, Sir. After getting a report like this, which is fair. I believe it is worse than the report says, because for the reasons I gave earlier, that we waved all kinds of flags in announcing that it was going to be done. But the report is fair. Let the public know what the report contains.

Mr. President, I hope that in the future, when like reports, especially those that are the result of a Private Member's Motion, where the listening public in this country, the people who we are privileged to represent, have heard the rationale, the reasons and the debate as to why an investigation or whatever is called for, that I will never have to exercise my brain to look through Standing Orders again to force a debate on a report such as this.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think the time has come, indeed it is past when we normally suspend for a few minutes as a morning break, and I will accordingly suspend proceedings for approximately fifteen minutes.

AT 11:20 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED 11:40 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for

George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

I feel somewhat unprepared to speak on this very important report, because it was laid on the Table of the House only yesterday, and copies of this report were made available to Members since that time. With a report as extensive as this one, with some 16 pages to study in addition to the Government's response to this report, it would have made a lot of sense if the Motion proposed here yesterday had asked for this report to have been debated in the next sitting of this House, rather than trying to rush it through this present sitting. As a result, any Members trying to make any contribution to this report and to the response thereto will be doing it in somewhat of a haphazard manner. And as the House and the listening public know, I always wish to have myself properly prepared before speaking in this House.

I would nonetheless congratulate Mr. Harry Brown, C.P.M. for what I regard as a comprehensive report which I read in a few minutes while sitting in these Chambers this morning. I also wish to congratulate the Honourable Third Official Member for the Government's response to this report, even though I feel that certain areas of the response require comments, and that perhaps the presentation of the report, the way in which it was presented, could be criticised in certain areas. But I nonetheless wish to commend him and congratulate him for what is a good response indeed.

The previous speaker, the Member for North Side, dealt in much detail with this report, and he is due to be commended. But I believe his enthusiasm sort of carried him away when he suggested in this House that there were certain Members of this Legislative Assembly who may have used other Members' urine samples when we took urine samples here some time back. That is a very ... would the Member wish to speak?

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Yes, please.

Mr. President, I would humbly apologise to Members if in fact I gave that impression. What I intended to say was that Members could not have used other people's urine. If I did give that impression, as the present speaker, the Second Elected Member for George Town has said, it was in fact a slip of the tongue, and I apologise both to the Members and to the listening public for doing so.

Thank you, Sir, and thank the Member for giving way.

MR. PRESIDENT:

And thank you for the explanation. I think the Second Elected Member for George Town is quite right, because I was surprised by what you said, and, well, at least, I too understood it as he understood it. So it is useful to have your clarification.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Yes, Sir, I apologise to Members.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President, and I thank the Member for North Side for clarifying that point. So I will not comment on that further.

Mr. President, As I said, the report is quite comprehensive, and I have been able only to make a cursory attempt at reviewing this, but I would nonetheless wish to comment on certain paragraphs of this report. The first paragraph which I wish to comment on is paragraph 22 of the report, which states:

"None of the inmates I saw wished to give written statements, many said they feared the consequences, and could not be reassured by the confidentiality I promised."

This is somewhat of concern to me, especially in view of the fact that I have heard the same sentiments expressed by not only the inmates of Northward Prison, but indeed the officers of that prison. This was particularly highlighted on a visit to me, which I have already stated in this House, when officers visited me with a complaint which I subsequently conveyed to His Excellency, and I was then told later by them, not to mention their names, because it was circulated around Northward Prison that if their names were heard they would be severely punished and even dismissed from the prison service. This is an unwholesome situation, and it could have the effect to stymie the information which would otherwise come to the Governor and to the officials dealing with the prison. I trust that this is not correct, and that no attempt will be made by the top echelons of the administration of Northward Prison to hide any information or facts which could lend to improving the conditions in that prison.

The second section which I would wish to comment on is paragraph 25. It states:

"Many long term prisoners expressed the opinion that the supply of drugs has fallen off considerably in Northward over the last year, and said they were no longer as easy to obtain as in 1984 and 1985."

I am happy to see this, and unlike some of the comments we have heard here, the situation does not appear to be as dark and as gloomy as the listening public is hearing here today. I am not suggesting that there is not much that could be done at Northward Prison, but let us not just take sections of this report and comment on them in isolation. We should take the full report, and comment on it as a total report. Because by taking little bits and pieces and giving them to the public, they could get the wrong impression of what is actually happening at Northward Prison. Some put this decline in supply down to the present court's policy of deterrent sentencing in drug cases. I know the courts have been doing a great job, and they are to be congratulated. It is my feeling that unless the penalties are increased and made exceedingly restrictive, the incidence of drug cases in this country will continue to increase. I feel that this should be without any sort of curry-favour, regardless of the people involved in these offences, I feel that they should be brought to justice, there should be no favour given in this respect.

Paragraph 30 of the report states:

"All Prison officers, when asked to give an opinion on the current level of illegal drug usage by inmates, said they believed it to be low."

This is a part of the report referred to, the report prepared by Mr. Harry Brown, C.P.M., and this is an integral part of this report. But it seems to have been conveniently left out, only the negative aspects of the report were commented upon. We must take the report in its entirety if we are to give the listening public the right impression of what is going on. I am not here suggesting that there are not problems at the Northward Prison. What I am saying is that those problems are being recognised, and that something is in the pipeline, to be done to cure some of these problems. However, he went on to say that:

"Many qualified their opinion by stating that a serious prison drug problem would probably produce the following inevitable 'spin-off' effects:"

And it is important to note this, because these spin-off effects would show to the prison officers and the administration whether there was a very high usage of certain drugs in Northward Prison:

- (a) An escalation in assault cases amongst inmates, leading to a rise in disciplinary cases.
- (b) Internal conflict between ethnic inmate groupings, seeking to control a rising drug trade.
- (c) The manifestation of drug 'highs' amongst inmates, signs of physical dependency amongst addicts, and possible overdosing problems."

But follow what he said about that:

"None of the above signs have been recognised by prison staff to date."

This is also a part of Mr. Brown's report. So why stand here and give the listening public the feeling that everything is rotten at the Northward Prison. I also criticise the prison when I think things are going wrong, but all things are not going wrong at Northward Prison. There are certain things that are going right. And if you follow the report right through, you will see in the last paragraph written by Mr. Brown, that he said:

"In closing, I must state that many of the above recommendations have been proposed to Government in past years by the Director of Prisons ...".

So, Mr. President, it is not that something has not been done in the past. Now whether Government was as vigilant in dealing with these problems as they should have been is another question. But this does not reflect adversely on the top administration of the Northward Prison in a way that it would show that they have not been doing their job and trying to do it well. It would more reflect on the Government for not trying to implement the recommendations made by the Director of Prisons.

Paragraph 34 states:

"Most senior prison officers expressed the opinion that although they consider present drug usage levels amongst prisoners to be low and contained, they believe they are likely to increase in the future, unless steps are taken to realistically upgrade existing security at the prison.

I intend to deal with this in more detail when I am dealing with the recommendations made by Mr. Brown. Because I feel that we should not say in a matter like this, if and when funds are available, if this is a priority in the report to Government. We must make it a priority and we must find the funds. If it means that we must put a thirty foot perimeter fence around the prison, that illegal drugs could not be thrown over the fence, then it should be done with immediate effect. And, we should try to follow the recommendations of Mr. Harry Brown as closely as is possible. He went on to say:

"The constantly rising level of long term (sophisticated) prisoners, convicted of drug offences, many of whom are users, indicates that the illegal use of cocaine amongst prisoners, will almost certainly increase in the future."

This is something that we should think seriously about. Up to maybe a year or two ago, this country had the main problem of dealing with what is commonly known as ganga. But today, it seems that the drug users have become more sophisticated and they are using much harder drugs like cocaine, rock, whatever it is called. And, if Mr. Brown is saying to us that it appears that this problem could increase in the future, not only in the prison but perhaps outside the prison, then whatever his recommendations are in this respect to try and curb this problem, I feel that we should not hesitate in implementing that particular recommendation.

In paragraph 35 Mr. Brown dealt with what he termed the most common methods of smuggling contraband into prison that came to light from the interviews which he had with prison staff, the inmates of the prison, ex prison officers, and ex prison inmates. I feel that it is important to the listening public that they too should have an idea of what these methods are, so that they can also guard against any of the problems they see or they may hear expressed in these methods. They too have a responsibility to this country, the responsibility is not only with the officers at Northward Prison and the police, but each one of us citizens of the Cayman Islands, has a responsibility to our country. These methods are as follows:

"i Contraband being thrown over the perimeter fence into the Prison, to await pickup."

We all need to be vigilant and if any member of the public sees this happening they should bring it to the appropriate authority's attention.

"ii Prisoners on outside visits to courts ..."

Let us watch them, see what is happening when they come to the court house, or the hospital, or visit the dentist, to see who are contacting them, who are meeting them, and watch them very closely. Do not leave it all to the prison officers. It is our responsibility if we see something happening to do something about it.

"iii Authorised visitors to inmates passing contraband through contact."

It is a recommendation by Mr. Brown that there should be a much closer search of some of these people going to the prison. I feel they should be implemented forthwith.

The fourth of eight methods which he expressed in this report is:

"iv Outside prison working parties picking up contraband concealed at pre-arranged places, adjacent to the prison."

These are areas - many of us visit Northward Prison to visit the prisoners there - I do on many occasions, and I feel that regardless of who the individual is, be he a Justice of the Peace, a Member of Executive Council, the Governor himself, if there is any reason to suspect that that member of the public, or official, is carrying or doing something that would be in contravention of the rules and regulations of the prison, then that person should be subjected to the same search as an ordinary person on the street.

"v Hand ins"

These are things that are carried into the prison, like toothpaste, cigarettes and so on should all be checked, because there are very sophisticated ways of concealing certain drugs; things they call rocks and other things. These are little small pieces of compressed cocaine, and they can be easily hidden away and these should be checked thoroughly at the prison gate.

"vi Visiting work parties, such as P.W.D. engineers, construction workers ..."

This is important, drugs can be carried in by these people, construction workers, people who supply water at the prison, these could all be hidden in the vehicles, and these are points raised by Mr. Brown in his report.

"vii Prison 'trusties' working outside prison confines, unsupervised, obtaining contraband from outside sources and smuggling it into the prison."

I am sure that Mr. Brown had good reason for pointing these methods out, so that he could bring these to the attention of the officers and the powers that be. They should not be ignored, Mr. President. Each one of these methods should be addressed, seriously addressed, with immediate effect, so that all loopholes can be closed.

And last, but not least, we have a situation where corrupt prison staff supply drugs to the inmates. We have a situation right now which is no doubt sub judice and I will not call the name. But we have a situation where we are trying now to bring back an ex-prison officer for such an offence, but no more said on that point.

Mr. President, in paragraph 38, I was somewhat saddened to see a letter addressed to yourself as Governor from Mr. Kipling Douglas, and since it is a part of this report it is public knowledge. Section 38 of the report states:

"The letter of complaint sent by the Resident Magistrate, Hon. Kipling Douglas, to His Excellency The Governor, describing allegations from defendants in Court that drugs were freely available in Northward, was investigated. The first subject of the letter suffers from a mental problem" (so he's pointing out that the first subject of the letter was a mental case) "and was at the time of his appearance before Hon. Douglas, under medication prescribed by the Government consultant psychiatrist, Dr. Knight."

What is of importance in Mr. Kipling's letter to yourself, and I will not read the full contents of the letter, was that he sees that the addiction of prisoners, prisoners that are addicted are not being treated properly at Northward Prison. They are being sent into a penal institution when in fact, they should be sent to a hospital to dry out. They are sick, they are diseased. Addiction is a sickness, it is a disease, and it is not being properly treated when the addicted person is sent to Northward Prison. All that is happening is that we are delaying a situation that could get worse. We should have a psychiatrist checking these people, and where it is seen that there has been a record of habitual use and suspected addiction, those individuals should be given medical attention. We do not have the facilities here for that, but they should be sent abroad, because as the previous speaker said, the prison should not only be a penal institution, but it should be an area and a place for rehabilitating individuals that go there. This is the reason why I felt so strongly about the Bill that came before this House that sought to extend from one month to twelve months the period that a doctor would visit that prison on his regular rounds. And, I was glad that the Member for East End, in his wisdom, saw fit to bring an amendment to this House that at least gave us half of that period, and reduced it to six months.

I cannot overemphasise the importance of Government addressing the need for the proper establishment of an institution that will deal with people under the addiction of drugs. Sending them to Northward Prison is not the answer. Those people are sick, and like somebody having any physical ailment, they need to be sent to a place where they can be made better, they can be made whole, they can be helped.

Mr. Brown went to much detail, not only in the body of the report, but also in his conclusions and recommendations. He said, in paragraph 40:

"From information obtained from past official records, and from numerous interview sources, I am satisfied that illicit drugs, namely ganja and cocaine have been regularly used by the inmates of Northward Prison in past years, and that they are still being used within the prison confines by present inmates."

That is one section of his report, but he goes on to say:

"All information gathered with regard to the rate of illicit drug usage in Northward Prison, indicates this to be at a low irregular level, based on opportunity and limited supply."

So we cannot just take one section of this report and comment on it. When we do that we give the listening public the wrong impression. Mr. President, that is not good representation. We must give the full four corners of the report, whether we like it or not, we must say it as it is. It goes on to say that:

"It is not at an uncontrolled epidemic level ...".

It can be controlled. And from the minute I have seen in response to the report, I am satisfied that the Honourable Third Official Member, with the assistance of Government will do all in their power to try and deal with this problem. But, I am going to show here where Mr. Brown has also said that this is not a phenomena in the Cayman Islands, and it is not a situation that will be cured easily; And that he is recommending areas where this can be helped out, where this problem can be solved to a certain extent, but it will not ever be fully solved. So let us not fool ourselves, or try to tell the listening public that it is a phenomena that is only used or subjected in the Cayman Islands - it is something that happens the world over, it is not only peculiar to Cayman. We do not want to emulate the worst areas of things that happen in other countries but we must be realistic and not let the listening public believe that what happens in the Cayman Islands exists only here and nowhere else in the world. We are fortunate in this country. We have much to be happy about. And, like any other responsible citizen in this country, I too am concerned that things could be better. But at the same time, I am very happy that I live in this country, and I still rate the Cayman Islands as one of the best places in the world to live today.

He went on to say in paragraph

"Nothing came to light during the enquiry to suggest that an organised drugs supply ring exists within the prison ...".

We are not talking about a Mafia situation. And we are hoping that because of this report, and because of the concern of the Government bench, and other Members of the backbench, that this will be nipped in the bud, and with the assistance of our good Magistrate Kipling Douglas, (some people call him Crippling); but with the assistance of his help in the courts I believe that we will go a long way to discouraging users, pushers and potential users and pushers of the drugs. I understand that the new magistrate is almost as good. And this is good, and I hope Mr. Ramsey will also be as vigilant, and as tough as Magistrate Douglas. It says here, and I would like to repeat this:

"Nothing came to light during the enquiry to suggest that an organised drugs supply ring exists within the prison ...".

It is not organised, it is something that happens even in your back yard. But we want to stamp it out, I am not condoning it. I do not take drugs, I do not smoke. So as far as I am concerned, it should not be used. But I am realistic. We do live in a world - I wish we lived in heaven, we would not have these problems. But as long as we live in a world with human beings, we are going to be subjected to the frailties of the human nature.

Paragraph 43:

"There are eight main areas in which contraband smuggling can be carried out ...".

And he dealt with this, I dealt with those methods previously. He pointed out each area, and this was not only for the prison officers, but as Members speaking on this mentioned, it is now a public document, so each member of the public has a responsibility to their country in being vigilant in matters to deal with contraband smuggling, whether it be into the prison or into a public office or wherever, it is our duty to be as vigilant as possible.

It says here, and this is of some concern:

"A substantial increase in the use of cocaine amongst inmates could create serious attendant security problems."

As I pointed out earlier, that areas of this concern that were checked would not indicate that there is a serious use of the serious drugs such as cocaine in the prison. If there was serious use of this, then the signs would be there. But so far as he was able to see, there were no signs to indicate that there was indeed serious use, or high usage of cocaine within Northward Prison.

Mr. President, paragraph 45, as I stated, made reference to a case where an ex-officer is currently awaiting extradition from Jamaica. So because it is in this report, it cannot then be considered sub judice or it should not have been included in this report and laid on the table of this Honourable House. Because it now becomes a public document, and it is being debated.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think if I can just assist the Honourable Member, it is perfectly proper to mention the matter, but one cannot comment on the details of the case or say anything that might influence the courts that have to determine whether the extradition should be allowed. If the Honourable Second Official Member thinks any Member is tempted to stray beyond what can properly be said in respect of the matter, I am sure he will rise on a point of order.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President. I am aware of the procedure in this respect, and I will confine myself to what is in the report, as I am not aware of the details of the case myself, and I will just mention what is here in the report. It states:

"Evidence and information received during the enquiry confirm the past involvement of corrupt prison officers in drug smuggling at Northward. Most of those mentioned have since left the service" (this is encouraging - they were found, and they have left the prison service) "for one reason or another and one ex-officer is currently awaiting extradition from Jamaica on serious charges of drug trafficking."

This report would indicate to me that Government has been very vigilant, has put their hands on these corrupt officers, and that they have been doing a good job indeed in trying to screen them and to bring them to justice. They are to be congratulated in the job they are doing in this respect. It goes on to say:

"Internal surveillance and intelligence gathering within the prison is the only way of combating corruption amongst prison staff."

It is indicative of the success that the Prison Department has had in identifying these people that they are indeed working very hard in this respect.

I made a note in the paragraph while reading this, that this is a reasonable admission that I am going to deal with here, and it deals with paragraph 46 of the report:

"It must be said at this juncture, that it is impossible to prevent the smuggling of contraband into prisons."

The most you can expect is that the very best attempt will be made to reduce the incidents, but he states here that to totally prevent it is an impossibility. And he goes on to say:

"No system has yet been devised anywhere in the world to bring this about and it is unlikely, within the free world, that this will ever be achieved."

This is a sad, sobering, but realistic statement. It is sad that this is the case, but it is a true and realistic statement. This makes it all the more necessary for not only the police officers, the prison officers and other officers involved with keeping the peace, but each member of society, each citizen of this country to become involved in the process of keeping peace in this country. He says:

"It is with this compromise concept in mind, that I respectfully make the following recommendations."

The following recommendations are the most important part of this report, because it is on the recommendations that the Government has made a response to the report by Mr. Harry Brown. And his recommendation number (i) states:

"The most urgent priority should be given to addressing the staff shortage situation ...".

This would seem to be a very logical first move, because without the manpower and the equipment, it is impossible to do the job properly. He said:

"... all other security recommendations depend on adequate manpower resources to carry them out."

The Government's response to this was:

As the previous speaker said, I am somewhat also concerned with the high number of vacancies that will be filled by overseas recruitment, but I am also realistic and knowledgeable of the situation, and I realise, Sir, that we do not have all the trained staff available here that are necessary to carry out the recommendations and to implement all the recommendations being made by Mr. Brown in this report. We have to be realistic. Many of our Caymanians still require some training, and it is foolish for us to suggest in this House that people should be put in position mainly because they are Caymanians. I too am very supportive of Caymanians filling top positions, and filling positions in this country, because I am very nationalistic at heart. But I am also a realist, and I know that it would be foolhardy for us to put people in these important positions before they are properly trained, just because they happen to be Caymanians.

I resent certain remarks I hear made toward "pan-heads" and I hear made toward "limeys". Those derogatory remarks should not be made in this House. Refer to them by the right national name, Jamaicans and British or English men. Let us have some respect in this House. I would hate for anybody to call me silly names. So I hate to hear it used in this House. Let us bring to bear respect in our debates in this House. We have an intelligent listening public, and we should be ashamed of ourselves when we get up in this House and behave in a manner that would cause not only the House disgrace, but would cause the public to frown at our behaviour.

The second recommendation that is made by Mr. Brown states:

"The establishment of a prison medical officer must be considered and implemented as soon as possible."

I would like to read that over, and I am doing this in view of the comments I made on the amendments to the Prison Bill that was brought here.

"The establishment of a prison medical officer must be considered and implemented as soon as possible."

Yet we have just passed an amendment here that wanted to remove visitation rights by medical officers from one month extended to a year. Happily, as I said earlier, it was reduced to six months. But Mr. Brown is seeing this as such importance that he is saying not only was that a silly amendment, but that the medical officer should be full time at that prison. We are dealing with human beings, we are not dealing with animals.

I have had many complaints about this, I am very concerned, and I must say I am very happy that Mr. Brown also saw the need for this. He said a retired doctor could be offered contractual terms. I would not like to see somebody that is entering the grave up there, but there is nothing wrong in offering the position to a retired man providing he is physically and mentally able to fill that position. He says this would drastically reduce the number of outside visits by inmates, and produce savings. I am sure the Honourable Financial Secretary would like to note this - it would produce savings in transport and personnel costs to make the post viable. So I am sure that he would be the first, that is the Honourable Financial Secretary, to support this particular recommendation, because not only will it facilitate the inmates at Northward Prison, but it would be cost effective. It would reduce the costs and produce savings in transport and personnel costs.

The Government's response to this recommendation states:

"As a first step towards this end, a nurse is being employed and stationed at Northward Prison ...".

This is a first good move, and Government is to be commended for this move. It says:

"... stationed at Northward Prison primarily to attend to minor incidents and reduce the number and frequency of hospital visits."

We heard earlier where it is suspected that some of the drugs going into Northward Prisons come about as a result of inmates visiting places like the courts office and the hospital. So if we can reduce this, we will also effectively be reducing the contraband items entering Northward Prison. Government minute goes on to say:

"Steps will then be taken with a view to fully implementing the recommendation with the next 12-24 months."

I hope that it is before November 1988, because if it is not, I promise my people that if I have anything to do with it, it will be shortly after. So I would put the Government bench on notice so that they try to implement this very important recommendation before that time. Twenty four months will put them outside that limit, but I hope it will be done within the next 12 months, because this is one area that I would totally support. I think it would be money well spent, since the people at Northward Prison, as I stated are human beings, and they should be treated as such. But for the grace of God, many of us could be in the same position. So let us not treat them like they are subhuman beings or animals. They deserve respect, they deserve to be treated like human beings.

The third recommendation

"A major source of contraband smuggling is from drugs and other items being thrown over the prison fence from outside."

And this is Mr. Brown's suggestion and recommendation to deal with this. In reading the reply, or response by Government, I cannot say that I was overjoyed by the reply that they have made when they said "subject to costing and availability of funds". I made a note here that a cost benefit analysis should be done to determine whether this would not be expenditure well spent and whether it should not be given top priority, and not sort of put aside, subject to costing and availability - subject to costing I can understand, but the section dealing with availability of funds, it could be put off, as was the civic centre, indefinitely. So we have to be very careful with this. Mr. Brown went on to say:

"To reduce this threat, a clearly delineated area of land approximately 30 feet around the perimeter fence needs to be acquired (by compulsory purchase if necessary) and cleared."

This is money that would be well spent, if we want to deal with the motion that was brought to the House by the Second Elected Member for West Bay. If we want to effectively deal with the report that we have from a very qualified man, then we must follow the recommendations. Wherever it is necessary for funds to be obtained from, we should investigate those areas. But this is a priority, we cannot brush it aside. He said:

"A subsidiary barbed wire fence should be erected as an outer perimeter, past which no unauthorised persons must go. This area would be gazetted as a 'protected place' to which there is no unauthorised access and with severe penalties in law for transgressions. Where land acquisition would interfere with the access of private owners to houses or land, other arrangements would have to be provided by Government, to compensate. Extra security lighting would be necessary to illuminate these outer perimeter areas at night."

The reply by Government, in response to this particular recommendation states:

"This recommendation will be considered, subject to costing and availability of funds."

I hope that this is a conservative way of stating that it will be given top priority, and I trust that this will not be put into drawer 13, but that in fact it will be given urgent and immediate attention, because if we want to effectively deal with the problems at Northward Prison, then we have to do, Government has to do whatever is necessary to assist the Prison officers in combating the problems that they are experiencing at Northward Prison.

Brown states:

In recommendation (iv) Mr.

"The immediate establishment of a Prison Security/Intelligence unit to gather, process, collate and monitor information, from all sources, and carry out daily security inspections throughout the prison, under the control and direction of the Chief Officer."

The Government response was:

"Establishment of such a unit is contingent upon the implementation of part two of the response to #1 above."; which states:

"Efforts will also be made to provide yet additional manpower ...";

so they are referring to manpower here.

"It is envisaged that manpower should be made available for establishment of such a unit to commence within 12 months.".

A very positive statement indeed, and Government is to be commended on this. They are not pushing this problem aside, as we have heard here this morning. They are trying to deal with it, and in areas where I feel they should have given more priority, I have highlighted these, Mr. President.

In dealing with recommendation (v) of the report made by Mr. Brown on the prison, it states:

"The immediate implementation of random urine testing for prison inmates and staff, on a regular basis.".

And I would support what the Member for North Side said in this respect, and that is that staff should not have any idea when they are going to be tested, the same way that the little man on the street, and by this Members of the Government bench understand fully what I mean when I say "little man on the street" would be subject to random testing at any time. I feel that any member, any citizen of this country, from the Governor right down, if there is need for suspicion, should be given a random test. The officers at Northward Prison should not be above this. And I believe that Mr. Brown in his report, and the response made by Government would not try to conceal this. I believe that it is the intention that they should be subject, as it says here, to random testing. It says here:

"At the present time only police officers have the power to institute the urine testing of suspects. Such powers must be given to prison officers ...".

And I fully support this recommendation, and I feel that appropriate legislation should be forthcoming to make this a possibility. Such powers must be given to prison officers to carry out the tests independently, within the prison confines, under the control of the Director of Prisons, or such officers as are authorised by him. The answer to this states:

"Provision already exists for random testing of staff ..."

Very good, I would like the public to hear that this is happening, and it is not a situation where officers are told a week or two weeks in advance that we will be doing a urine test on you in a weeks time. This is not the case. It is being done at present on a random basis. A number of staff have volunteered. They have not been forced to do it. I am happy to see this, like we did in this House. We volunteered to have our urine samples tested. Because it is like Reagan said, when he was asked to do it, he had no problem, because he knew what went inside, and he knew what would come out. And this is the way I felt - I will take a random test anytime, because I know the way I live, and I feel that any Government official, any Member of Government, any member of the prison service or of the police force or whatever, should have no reservations, should have no hesitation when they are asked to give a random sample.

The Government response to the report continues:

"Consideration will be given to having amending legislation" (a point I just raised, I am very happy to see this) "introduced to enable samples of urine to be taken from inmates within the prison, by prison officials."

I would like to see included in this also, and perhaps the Honourable Third Official Member could comment on this - that officials of Northward Prison would also be subjected to this, and not just the inmates. That the amending legislation would enable samples of urine to not only be taken from inmates, but also from prison officers, especially in view of the admission made in this report by Mr. Brown that there have been corrupt prison officers in the prison in the past. So I do not think that the officers should be above this particular proposed amending legislation. The police officers now have certain specific powers in this regard, and there is no reason why this should not also extend to the prison officers.

Recommendation (vi) is a very important recommendation. It states:

"The separation of prisoner categories is essential to the maintenance of prison security, besides having important social consequences, and this problem should be examined as a matter of priority."

It should not be pushed aside.

"I would recommend the establishment of a secondary prison institution to accommodate short term and remand prisoners."

I am fully supportive of this, because many times I know of cases where prisoners are held in remand and really, they should not be allowed to mix with some of the hard core people we have inside Northward Prison. It says:

"A suitable site will be required, preferably within a few miles of Northward Prison, to allow easy exchange of staff for routine and emergency purposes. Top security and medium security prisoners could then be adequately housed in Northward."

The reply from the Government, states:

"Such needs have been long agreed and will be represented very strongly during development planning exercises within the next year."

So Mr. President, Government has not ignored this. They have given us an undertaking that they will deal with this. I too am critical of the Government bench, when this is justified. But if we see that we have a written undertaking that something will be done, why give the public the impression that nothing is being done and that it is being pushed aside. This is dishonest, and it is not good representation. We should tell our listening public and our constituents the truth - and this is why we are put here, to represent them fairly and this is why, when the time of reckoning comes.

It will be like the ten people that had their lamps trimmed - there will be but a few that will enter in through the gates in 1988, because the people will say that those few have given them very good representation. And they may call this playing politics today, but it is the truth. We will see in time how the people feel about a lot of the garbage they hear spewed in this House. They want to hear facts. And they want to hear the truth, not just a lot of talk. We waste our time so much in this House just talking because we have a mouth. If we could only record ourselves before then we would hear how much nonsense that should not even be brought to this House being said in this House. Recommendation number (vii) states:

"Prison officers should be given power within the law to effectively protect their prison charges outside of prison confines."

This is true. They should be given the power to do this.

"Such powers should apply only to uniformed prison officers on duty ..."; not to just somebody that is off duty, out of uniform, but they should be uniformed and on duty.

"... and should include authority to search premises whilst in 'hot pursuit' of escaping prisoners, and the arrest and detention of accomplices assisting escapees - or otherwise unlawfully interfering or attempting to interfere, with the custody of lawfully detained prisoners. Close liaison with the Commissioner of Police would be necessary in the drafting of such legislation."

Government response to this states:

"This recommendation is accepted ...".

Simply, squarely, they state that the recommendation is accepted:

"... and steps are being taken with a view to providing such enabling legislation as considered appropriate."

Mr. President, I can only say that I congratulate them for this admission, and for undertaking to take steps, immediately, to deal with this problem.

MR. PRESIDENT: I wonder if the Member may be continuing for a little further time, and I sense he is not near the end of his speech yet, it may be convenient to break now.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Yes, Mr. President, thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT: In that case I will suspend proceedings until approximately 2:15 p.m.

AT 12:44 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2:20 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated.
Resumption of the debate on the Motion of the Second Elected Member for West Bay concerning the report of an inquiry into allegations of drugs at Northward Prison.
The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, at the lunch break I was dealing with paragraph (viii) of the recommendations of the inquiry into allegations of drug abuse at Northward Prison, as prepared by Mr. Harry Brown, C.P.M.

Paragraph (viii) of the recommendation states:

"The present system to accommodate authorised visitors on visiting days is insecure. A purpose built visiting room should be constructed to allow for maximum surveillance by supervising prison staff. Ideally it should be near to the Prison boundary to permit secure access for visitors, without allowing them into the main prison area."

Government's response in their minute to this recommendation states:

"Plans are now in train" (which means in the pipeline or in progress) "for the construction of suitable accommodation for visiting purposes."

It has long been recognised that this is a major need at the Northward Prison, and I am happy to see that Government has indicated here in their response to this report that they are already taking the necessary action in this respect.

Paragraph (ix) of the recommendations states:

"Some prison vehicles used for transporting prisoners are totally insecure. They are ordinary vehicles which allow prisoners to speak to outsiders through open windows, through which goods can be passed. The use of such vehicles should be discontinued as soon as possible, and replaced with designed vehicles with secure mesh windows and reinforced doors etc."

Government's response, which I think is a good one, states:

"Introduction of vehicles more appropriate to the needs of the department commenced with a specially reinforced bus which went into operation on 6 April, 1987."

We see from the response that action has already been taken in this regard.

In looking at paragraph (x) of the recommendations made by Mr. Harry Brown, we see:

"The present system of searching prisoners leaving, and entering cell blocks and the prison gate should be upgraded to the highest possible standard together with a continuing programme of random strip searches, which should include prison visitors."

Mr. President, I had to smile when I read this, because many times as a Justice of the Peace I am asked to go up there and see prisoners. I would hate to feel that once I enter the gates I am stripped down before everybody. I have not gotten that brave yet, Sir, so I hope if this is the plan I can know well in advance. I would hope that this is not the intention.

"Prison officers should also be subjected to random searches at the prison gate by senior staff."

Government's answer to this recommendation is as follows:

"Subject to availability of resources (manpower and space), efforts are being made to upgrade searching standards including searches of staff. Implementation of recommendation will greatly assist in addressing the problem of shortage of space."

Here again, I would hope that Government would treat this matter as a priority, since they have stated here that this would be subject to availability of resources. I feel that in accepting the recommendation by Mr. Brown that priority should be given to this particular point so that the recommendation can be implemented as soon as possible.

In paragraph (xi) Mr. Brown states:

"The effective searching of motor vehicles is difficult and highly labour intensive work, but essential if security is to be maintained. Consideration must be given to reducing the number of outside vehicle visits to a minimum, to stop the present practice of some P.W.D. vehicles, and others, employed on utilities maintenance, from entering and leaving the prison several times in one day."

He recognised this as also an area for concern.

"Such visits should, unless essential, be strictly limited."

Government's response, Mr. President:

"Steps are being taken to reduce the flow of vehicular traffic in and out of the prison as well as the number of outside vehicles entering the prison."

A very positive step indeed.

"Carrying out of recommendation #1 ..."

which means to deal with filling the staff vacancies and shortfall in staff:

"... will also allow some upgrading of the system of searching to be undertaken."

All through the response made by Government in their minute, it is clearly seen that they have attempted to deal positively with the report from Mr. Brown. Of major importance, I see this as a very important area of the report, and I feel that Government should deal with this with urgency. Mr. Brown states (in paragraph xii):

"There are no electronic surveillance methods in use in Northward Prison, and I feel that they could provide useful assistance, particularly in monitoring cell blocks, the prison yard, and perimeter, at night. The time might be appropriate for a qualified survey of the potential of security video monitoring within Northward Prison."

I think this would go a long way in dealing with some of the problems we have with drugs going into the prisons. The answer to this in the response states - and here again, I feel that we cannot implement every one of the recommendations overnight - but we should look at these and give them priority. This is one area that I feel that funds should be found to implement this particular recommendation. However, the response states:

"Subject to availability of funds, implementation of this recommendation will be undertaken in phases, commencing in 1987 a view to completion by 1989."

This would be a major capital undertaking and would cost quite a bit of money to implement, so I can understand that this would be phased over one or two years. I am happy to see that we have been given the undertaking that this would be done starting this year.

Mr. Brown has commended the Director of Prisons and his staff and stated that the recommendations which he has proposed in this report have in the past years been submitted by the Director of Prisons. But he did state, and this is sad, that approval appears to have been delayed. But he qualifies this "because of financial constraints". He did not say that it was pushed aside and that no interest at all was shown in the recommendations made by the Director of Prisons and his staff. But he did say that this was due to financial constraints.

Mr. President, in closing, again I wish to congratulate Mr. Harry Brown for this very comprehensive report. My congratulations to the Honourable Third Official Member of Council for the very comprehensive response which he has given to the report that Mr. Brown has submitted. I nonetheless feel that there is no room for complacency at this point. As I stated in my short debate on this, there are certain areas of the response which I would like to see given more positive and urgent attention, and given some more priority. Much is needed to be done at Her Majesty's prisons at Northward. But I feel confident that with united efforts of the prison's officers and with Government that much can be accomplished.

I do not want to leave anyone with the impression that I do not recognise that there are problems at the prisons. There are problems there. But I am satisfied that Government has given the undertaking that they will try to deal with this matter as quickly as possible. I am aware of many problems there as are the Members of this Legislative Assembly. Those problems as stated by Mr. Brown are not peculiar only to the Cayman Islands prison system, but these are problems that are found the world over.

Government is to be congratulated on demonstrating, through their response to Mr. Brown's report their willingness to deal effectively and to endeavour to combat these problems. I will be, as many Members of the House will be doing, watching very intently to see whether or not Government will indeed honour the commitments that they have made to this House in their response here today, and I will be watching very carefully to see that these responses are implemented.

Mr. President, may I again congratulate Mr. Brown on this comprehensive report, and the Member responsible for the very comprehensive manner in which it was dealt with. Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Honourable Third Official Member.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Mr. President, when I laid the report and the Government minute on the Table I did so in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 18 and 18(2) of those Standing Orders, Sir, provides that the Member of Government presenting a paper may make a short explanatory statement of its contents. I interpreted that Standing Order, Sir, to mean that I should not go on and make a lengthy speech. I therefore tried to summarise in a few words what was contained in the 47 paragraphs of this comprehensive report. I did not move a motion that the report be adopted, because Members had not had a chance to study it. And perhaps, as was said by the Second Elected Member for George Town, a debate on a matter of such importance could have perhaps been more appropriately placed on the agenda for another meeting. Indeed, the September meeting would not have been too late to entertain debate on this subject.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

How was it going to get there?

MR. PRESIDENT:

about it.

Any Member could move a motion

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

We were, however, Sir, given notice from as early as Wednesday that certain Members had certain anxieties about wishing to debate this subject even before seeing the contents of this report. We also heard on Wednesday from the Chair that any Member of the House may move a motion for the adoption of a paper and for a debate to ensure. Therefore I am not at all surprised at the debate that has ensued.

If I could turn briefly to respond to a number of comments that were made by previous speakers. The Second Elected Member for West Bay advised the House that I had said in the Second Reading debate on the Prisons Amendment Bill that nothing in that Bill related to anything contained in the prison drugs inquiry report. And he drew reference to the fact that the powers of search and arrest were recommended in the report and were in fact dealt with in the Bill. Therefore he came to the conclusion that I had made an incorrect statement and that in fact there was a direct relationship between the report and the Bill. I could not remember having made such a statement, and so I asked the Deputy Clerk yesterday afternoon if she could please transcribe the relevant portions of the tape for me to refresh my memory. That was done, and I do not wish to read it because I have shown it to the Member concerned and I think we are all satisfied that the record does not reflect that I have made such a statement. Let me assure the House now, that there was never any attempt by the Government or anyone else that I know of, to cover up or to contain the dissemination of information arising out of this inquiry.

The Private Member's Motion that was accepted by the Government to undertake the inquiry, made known publicly, that an inquiry was going to be undertaken, and therefore there was no need to have the inquiry conducted in secret. There was no need to curtail the announcement relating to the appointment of the inquirer or announcing an invitation to members of the public who may have felt that they had information to volunteer for the benefit of the inquiry. I do not think Sir, that we splashed any unnecessary announcements on the front page about this topic. I believe that we announced the arrival of the inquirer, citing his terms of reference, the objective of the inquiry, and invited members of the public to cooperate. It was an open inquiry, conducted in a professional manner, and its conclusions and recommendations have been professionally recorded and in many instances, have already been acted upon.

It was also suggested by the Elected Member for North Side that he found it difficult to understand why anyone should find it hard to admit that there was a problem, meaning a problem in relation to drug abuse at Northward. There was no difficulty in anyone accepting that. That was the reason why the Private Member's Motion was accepted. Everyone admitted and continues to admit, that there has been, is and will continue to be, a certain amount of drug abuse in this and any other prison. Because it is a fact of life that life in a prison represents a microcosm of life in the society in which the prison exists. And, as long as there are drugs in the community, there will continue to be a certain amount of drugs in our prisons.

It was also said that the Government appears to have ignored the letter from the Magistrate addressed to His Excellency the Governor about this subject. I would suggest that it is to the contrary. The letter from the Magistrate to the Governor is proof that the matter was brought to the attention of Government and that Government was aware of the problem before the Private Member's Motion was introduced in September. So the Private Member's Motion did not for the first time bring the matter to Government's attention. The Government, having received the correspondence from the courts, was acting upon that correspondence when it received the Private Member's Motion, and therefore it was no problem in accepting the Private Member's Motion. The inquiries had already revealed that in the one case cited in the Magistrate's letter, the prisoner concerned did appear to be under the influence of drugs, because there were drugs that were being given to him as a result of the prescription by the psychiatrist. So the Government did not ignore the Magistrate's representations, Mr. President.

It was also said that prison officers and members of staff knowing of the various methods of smuggling, appears not to be doing anything to prevent the smuggling. Yet, attached to the report, we see a list of 14 incidents in which inmates were either prosecuted and convicted or investigated for various drug related offences. These cases Mr. President, were in all instances, brought to the attention and dealt with by prison officers. So to say that the staff appears to not have done anything is somewhat confusing to me, Sir.

It was also said that there is a conflict between the provisions of the Bill that was passed a few days ago in relation to the frequency of medical examinations and the recommendation in the report that a doctor be provided at the institution. I do not see the conflict, Sir. The amendment in the Bill that was passed provided for an increase in the frequency for examinations which is to provide for the existing set of circumstances, that is, the circumstances where there is no doctor on a full time, or even a part-time basis, at the institution. If and when such an officer is available, consideration can then be given to reducing that mandatory minimum examination. But at the moment, there is no such staff available. Therefore it is important to provide for what is reasonable under the present circumstances.

The Government, in its response, has said that it will consider providing a doctor at the institution, as and when that becomes justifiable. And it goes on to say that that, hopefully, could be entertained and put in place sometime within the next year or two. But we have to cater to the situation at the present time, so the amendment to the Bill was to cater to the present situation, and not to the future. So there is no conflict.

As was said, Mr. Brown recognised and acknowledged that some of the recommendations that he made and that are contained in his report are not of his own making. He gives credit to the Director of Prisons for having made some of these recommendations previously. And indeed, it will be seen that for example, the provision in the current year estimates that has enabled the employment of a nurse for the institution was provided in the estimates long before the idea of an inquiry was accepted.

Also, the recommendation from the prison in connection with the powers of officers to arrest under certain circumstances were recommendations that were made prior to the undertaking of the inquiry. One of the interesting provisions is the provision of the authority that prison officers now have in relation to their duties, certain powers and privileges identical to those conferred on a constable by the Police Law. So that the prison officers now, for the first time, may exercise certain powers in relation to their duties that they could not properly hitherto fore undertake. And we were told in another context during this meeting, Mr. President, that for example, prison officers can now take action for certain offences whether they are being committed inside or outside the prison as long as it is in relation to their duties and responsibilities, they can take certain action. One of those things is that in relation to the Misuse of Drugs Law, if there are reasonable grounds on which to suspect abuse of drugs, prison officers, like constables, may require the taking of urine specimens. And so in reply to the suggestion that nothing has been incorporated in the Bill to cover the point of urine testing, the point is in fact covered by the authority now vested in prison officers. In addition the Government minute clearly states that authority already existed for staff to be randomly sampled - random testing to be done by staff. That is not a requirement of law, that is a requirement under their terms and conditions of employment, and a violation of that would result in disciplinary proceedings.

I think that the Second Elected Member for George Town, in reading out the various points in the report and comparing them one by one with the Government's response has served the purpose well of informing the public of perhaps what I should have done when I tabled the report yesterday. I was attempting to be somewhat brief, and perhaps as a consequence I was too brief.

Nevertheless, I hope that this matter will be given sufficient attention by the public, through the press, the radio and whatever other means, that everyone concerned will understand and appreciate that there is continuing to be a drug abuse problem in our society and in particular in our prison, that this problem is not an easy one to solve, but that steps are actively being taken to minimise the opportunities by which these abuses can take place, and that the public will also appreciate that since receiving Mr. Brown's report, the Government has already taken action on fifty per cent of the recommendations contained in the report while others are yet under active consideration. It will therefore be seen that speedy action has been and will continue to be addressed to this serious topic, and that no breaches will go ignored. It is a problem, there is no easy solution to it, but we are working diligently at it and hopefully, the public will understand that by making this document public, as we have done, that the Government in no way is seeking to cover up anything whatsoever in relation to this or any other matter.

I thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Bodden Town.

The Second Elected Member for

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, the whole problem with the matters at the prison could well be summarised in the conclusion to Mr. Brown's report. He said, in the penultimate paragraph:

"In closing, I must state that many of the above recommendations have been proposed to Government in past years by the Director of Prisons, but approval appears to have been delayed because of financial constraints, or other reasons."

This is perhaps true. The prison was built and went into operation in the early 1980s. It was a new facility on these Islands. Although Government at the time did everything to start it off on the right foot, problems cropped up which no-one had anticipated. Perhaps it had the best start of any department in Government, an entire prison staff was brought in and they worked side by side with people who would replace them when their contracts were up. In this stipulated time, all of the English officers went back and the local officers took over. Since that time, problems have arisen at the prison, recommendations according to this report, have been made to Government and Government did not adopt all of the recommendations. Even if the Government had adopted all of the recommendations, I imagine there would still be problems. Governor Maddocks once said of the New York prison system: "If you want a better prison, you will have to get a better type of prisoners".

That drugs have been found at the prison is no surprise to anyone, when we consider that more than fifty per cent of the prisoners at Northward are there because of drug related crimes. Some of them are there for consumption, possession, others are there for the crimes that go along with supporting the drug habit: theft, burglary, robberies. So it is no surprise that the inmates, having been there because of their drug connections, would somehow or other find drugs. The demand is there, and where there is a demand, the law of supply will provide the demand.

I can find no fault with the Honourable Third Official Member of Government, that is, no fault personally. Because I believe in whatever manner he presented this report, he had the full backing of the Government. I am certain there had been a discussion in Executive Council as to how this matter would be handled, and so if there is any blame, it is not fair to single out the Honourable Member who is bound by collective responsibility, but place the burden on the full Executive Council.

The debates and the recent reply of Government, or comments on the report have shown that Government has taken some steps and has actually implemented parts of the report. Perhaps we could say that the Honourable Member was too modest to mention the great good that he had done.

From Day 1 following the last election, I have criticised in this House, the attitude of Government to the drug problem. My main criticism has been that they attach far more importance to spear guns, green parrots, stray dogs and wild turtles than they do to the severe drug problem. They have spent far more money putting out propaganda on marine parks than they have in advertising this report, or drug education. It has received lip service, but not very much support, or had very much importance attached to it from the Government. I have too often criticised the actions of Government. I have done it so often that it is unnecessary for me to repeat it this evening. But they have taken a soft line on drugs. Whether they admit it or not, they took out the mandatory prison sentences for hard drugs. They took out the mandatory sentences for repeated offences. They have paroled prisoners. They are making extensive use, or made it easy for the courts, to use extensively, the suspended sentence for drugs, the community service orders for drugs. They have become really soft indeed. The Government needs to harden its attitude to drugs, not only to the pusher, but to the user, because we have found that looking at this report in the prison, it is not the supply only, it is the demand that brings the problems.

I sympathise with the Member for North Side who regretted that he had supported the amendment to the Prisons Law. He had given support to an amendment which, in a sense, is contrary to the report. I can comfort him by saying that I never fall in that dilemma because I do not support anything they bring, and perhaps he too, should learn a lesson. It is very dangerous to support some of these piecemeal and grasshopper amendments which come flying by us. So while some of them may have merit, I do not think anyone should eagerly get up to support amendments that have been brought.

The report shows one thing, and that is that the drug problem at the prison is not as bad as it is on the outside. The offences within the prison have not escalated like the ones on the outside. We see there have been fourteen cases over, I think it is a six year period or a five year period, and with the size of the prison population, this is not an alarming number of cases. In some years there have been as few as two instances, although the report does mention there were times when suspicion was strong, although no cases were brought, no convictions were made. If we look at the police report, which I believe was tabled in this House in the last meeting, we will see the dismal picture of drugs on the outside, and this is where I believe Government's action is needed. We see from that report that in 1985, 138 cases involving the use of ganga had been reported. In the next year, the number had risen to 232, a 69 per cent increase.

The use of cocaine, which had been almost non-existent prior to 1984 had risen alarmingly. In 1985, 24 cases involving the use of cocaine were reported. By the end of the next year, 1986, 165 cases had been reported, a 700 per cent increase. Miscellaneous drug offences were up by an astounding 330 per cent from 178 in 1985 to 568 reported cases in 1986. The ancillary crimes that go with drugs, burglary, theft and robbery, were also up - 762 reported in 1985 and 921 reported in 1986. I will not change my belief that it is the permissive attitude of Government to drug offenders that has caused this escalation.

Here in this meeting Government again, seem unable to help themselves, are compounding the problem. They have just made it legal for a prison officer of the opposite sex to be in charge, physical control of a prisoner. If you believe it had been easy in the past to get drugs in to prisoners, you watch it from now on. This madness created in this meeting of the House will go down in history as one of the worst actions of the present Government.

The report, I think, was factual and fair, and has shown both sides, it has given credit to the prison officers, it has condemned the actions of some. I know that the Government wants to reduce the evils of drugs and I would like to see them put this on a priority list, put it ahead of stray dogs, and wild parrots and conservation matters, because we will not need any conch or lobsters if we lose a generation of young people to drugs. I honestly believe that they want to help, but all their actions up to date have produced a different result from what they expected. So now I believe it is time, if it is not too late, for them to get down to the business of educating the public about drugs, and toughening up the laws. I am talking about life imprisonment for the dealers.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I have allowed the Member a lot of latitude to talk about the drug problem generally. I do hope you will get us back onto the particular report that we are supposed to be discussing, which is allegations of drug abuse in the prison rather than the drug problem in the community at large.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Thank you, Mr. President, for enlightening me on the problem with the Government. They do not understand that the problem in the prison stems from the problem in the public - God help them.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I was not meaning to stop your speech altogether, but if you have nothing to say about the prison, perhaps it is appropriate to close on that note.

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Mr. President, I will do my best here with limited voice volume which I have this afternoon.

But I found the report, although I did not have a whole lot of time to study it, I found it interesting indeed, in fact, I would like first of all to congratulate Mr. Brown for the time and effort which he put into getting this report together, and as well to offer my congratulations to both the uniformed and civilian staff at the prison, the inmates and as well, members of the public who made any contribution whatsoever in having this report compiled.

In looking through the report, I do not seem to see that there was any hesitancy on the part of the members of the prison staff or others to divulge what information they had. It did indicate that there were certain inmates who were reluctant to put anything in writing. However, I feel that for the most part, what is seen in this report, is a very accurate picture of what the situation is at Northward Prison.

One Member indicated that he was somewhat relieved, or encouraged, that the drug problem in Northward Prison seemed to be of much less magnitude than outside. And, although I will make my remarks quite brief, what I would like to say here is that I personally know of many young people who went to Northward Prison because of drugs, because of their involvement in drugs. It is out there in our society and it is a very startling situation.

However, I am encouraged that there is also another side to the story, and that is, that many who have gone in there have received help and certainly, any availability of drugs in the prison did not prevent their leaving there, leaving that institution a better individual. In West Bay, for example, I can think of quite a number of young people who are doing extremely well in spite of the fact that they were severely addicted to illicit drugs upon entering Northward Prison. Efforts are made in that prison - I believe this with my whole heart that every individual in there that can be helped is certainly being helped in one way or another. I do not advocate a prison as a solution for anything, but I stand here to say that I think that in my district, as well as other districts of this Island, we would see many a young person either dead or in a hopeless situation if it had not been that they had been snatched in time and spent some time in Northward Prison, where they were able, at least, to get the time to think.

The availability of drugs in the prison is sad, it is the truth, but there are many recommendations which have been cited in this report. The Honourable Third Official Member mentioned that at least 50 per cent of those recommendations are already in place, and that others are under active consideration and implementation of many of them, I am sure, will be seen to be done in the near future.

Mr. President, I do not think at all that Government had any reason to withhold from Members of the House nor from the public, anything which is in this report. I feel that it can only do all of us good to know what the situation is so that we know exactly what action we need to take. The investigation was requested, it was carried out, in fact, I thought it was carried out in a much shorter time that I had initially anticipated. Recommendations have been made, Government is satisfied that the problem did exist, and perhaps still exists, but there are ways of at least curtailing much of what goes on. As I mentioned to one Member today, perhaps it can be likened to high blood pressure - you never ever get rid of it, but that gives you no reason not to do everything possible to hold it down and to minimise its effect.

I feel that this is an area that we need to look into seriously. I noted with concern that just about 25 per cent of the inmates are employed. Boredom is something which young people especially, should not ever have to put up with. Since time began, and it will always be, that the devil finds work for idle hands. I would hope that plans are in place, or will soon be, where we might find other areas of having the prison inmates employed, doing something that they will find themselves occupied and using their time wisely. Their energies must be exerted, and if these are not channelled in doing something that is for the benefit of them or other people, then of course they are going to be channelled in the wrong direction. And those, especially, who are in there because of being addicted to drugs, will find that there would be a tendency to obtain these in whatever way possible. It is a shame that certain, perhaps, members of the public, friends or others would even dare to think of trying to get drugs into the prison, but we live with this, it is all over. However, I would not want anyone to interpret my remarks here as saying that we have to be complacent and throw our hands up and say there is nothing that can be done - there is something which can be done, but it will involve not only Members of Government, members of the prison staff, but it will involve every member of the public to work toward a solution for this dreadful evil that is in our society.

I wish to say that I feel that Government has taken the right step and I believe that each of us here are equally concerned that the good and the benefit which has been received by many inmates in that prison will continue to be the case. There are many areas in which they receive help. There are some of them, when they go in there, they never darken the door of a church nor receive any religious counselling or help, and they are exposed to this when they get there. Many of them have been helped by the prison ministry, the ministers of religion, lay members and other of the churches which have visited, and they are to be congratulated and held in high esteem for the efforts which they have put forth in trying to help the young people of our Islands.

There are many worthwhile efforts that have been made to rehabilitate the young people who have gone into Northward, and as I mentioned, although there is a problem with drugs getting in there, believe me when I say, many of them have been helped because of the plans which have been in place in the prison, and the prison staff should not be held directly responsible for this. As we have seen from the report, there are many ways and means in which these drugs could be obtained.

I wish to congratulate once again, Mr. Brown and all those who had any responsibility at all in putting this report together. I think that perhaps there was some criticism that notice was given that the investigation was going to be carried out, but on second thoughts, I felt that if members of the public were to be able to come forward and to contribute in any way the knowledge which they had, they could hardly do it if the investigation was being carried on in a secretive manner and especially since much of what has been placed in this report, I have no doubt has come from members of the public as well as those within the prison and those directly responsible for its administration.

Mr. President, I am pleased to see the efforts that are being put forward in getting all these very worthwhile areas of help for the prisoners at Northward, I certainly am pleased to see that the report has come forward and that Government is doing all possible to institute the recommendations that were made.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? Very well, yes, the mover may reply.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I suggest that we do not take the evening break, but go right through and try to finish business.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am sorry?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

I say I suggest that we do not take the evening break, the afternoon break ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

That is what I was intending to do. A number of Members have told me they hope we can finish the business today, and I thought I would dispense with the afternoon break. So if any Member wishes privately to go out ...

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Yes, let them go.

Mr. President, it is a good thing that this Member has raised, can raise, motions in this House. Otherwise there would not be much going on sometimes. I have quite a bit to refer to, but I will guarantee you that we will get out in time to drink the champagne they got for us in honour of you leaving.

Mr. President, the gist of what some Members have said is varying. One point made was that the public should not have been misled. I have never come to this House to mislead the public. I saw the report, I had the report from Wednesday, and I comprehend what it means. I have never been dishonest to the people of this country.

When this year came in, I heard several old timers remark that this is the funniest weather they had ever seen. One minute it was to the north the next second to the northeast and right round and round. And that is how some of the Members of this House are.

A point made was that we had tried to say that the report was not fair, or correct. Far from the truth. I am so worried because I believe it to be fair, and I believe it to be correct. My main objections were the fashion in which the report was tabled to this House, and some of its recommendations, especially the recommendations for corrupt prison officials. I did say that Government was trying to cover up, and I will stand by that. When it comes to the public service, no politician has ever wanted to touch it. This Government has not been much better than any of them in previous years. Every time you get a change of portfolios and Members, Officials come into this House, they take their personal dislike to hear you stand up and ask a question, or make your thoughts known. They forget that I have a charge to keep, a responsibility to the people of this country. I do not care who it is, if it is my sister, if she is wrong, she is wrong. That is the whole matter of the public service in this country and in other areas. It depends on who it is at times.

Mr. President, great objection and much talk and delay, although I get blamed for it, has been because we rose to debate, to put the motion to debate, and, Mr. President, I stand in this House and say if we did not put that Motion, the report would not have been debated. If Government wanted the report debated, the Member would have moved for the report to have been laid on the table, and he would have moved his adoption motion, which he did not. That is my duty, I brought the Motion, and I was not going to let him, or the whole Government, or that report, go unchallenged.

Now it would seem that every Member in this House that got up made big because we moved that Motion. Why did they not get up and move it? Debate in September - how in the world would it have got debated in September - somebody explain that to me. Mr. President, I can see ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

explain to him ...

The Member is inviting me to

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Yes, Mr. President, I can see you want to get into this debate and I am ready for it.

MR. PRESIDENT:

No, all I was going to say was that I have explained it once, it would have been open to the Member himself to have moved a motion in September just as he has moved it now.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, when that Motion was moved, that it be laid on the table, the next motion was for him, for the House to accept that he read it, under standing Order 18(2), which in my opinion, is a ministerial prerogative stopping any Member of the House from replying. You, then, in your capacity as President of the House did not give any indication that you were going to move for anybody to make a motion of adoption.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Perhaps I should just make it quite clear for the benefit of all Members and of the public what the procedure is when papers and reports and the like are laid, which they are regularly - would you please sit down until I have finished.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

I think it will be just a waste of time, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I have noted your opinion, but I propose to continue.

I think it will be just a waste of time, Mr. President.

It is a quite regular practice, and a not infrequent practice, for reports, papers and similar documents to be laid and a number have been laid during the present meeting of this House. One was the report of the Housing Committee for the years 1985 and 1986, I think, another was the accounts of the Port Authority, and there were reports from the Standing Business Committee, all in addition to the report of the inquiry into allegations of misuse of drugs at the prisons. There is one procedure prescribed in Standing Orders in respect of all these kinds of papers, and that is the procedure prescribed in Standing Order 18 which lays down that the Member may present the paper and make a short explanatory statement of its contents - no more. At any stage thereafter, subject to the provisions of Standing Orders, it is possible for any Member to move a motion in relation to that report - he can move that it be adopted, he can move that it be rejected, he can move whatever he wishes. It is also possible - and this is sometimes done - under Standing Order 19 for the Member of Government who presented the report, to move a motion that the House resolve itself into a Committee of the whole House to consider the particular report. That has rarely been done here, but it is another possible course of action. Now on this occasion, the Second Elected Member for West Bay sought leave and was granted leave to move a motion and has moved a motion under Standing Order 24(9)(viii). That he was able to do without giving notice, but if he had chosen another course of action it would have been possible to put down a substantive motion commenting on the report in whatever way he wished, of which notice would have had to have been given.

So there is no reason to say that the Government had treated this report in a different way from other reports, all reports are laid. Those who lay them make brief statements on them, and there is no immediate debate. But it is possible, thereafter, for any Member, either the Member who laid the paper or a backbench Member, to initiate a debate - and that is what has been done on this occasion.

The Member may continue.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Yes, Mr. President. With due respect, Sir, I think the time of the House was wasted, because this is all I have been saying - what I have been saying is he did not intend for us, and I stand by it, to debate it - the Government did not intend for us to debate it. He moved it under 18(2), he should have moved it if he intended for us to debate it, he should have moved the same Standing Order that I moved.

MR. PRESIDENT:

What I have been trying to say is that he is not obliged, and it is not the normal practice for him to enable you to debate it, to take action which automatically leads to a debate. It is up to you, in the case of any particular paper, to take the action if you wish the thing to be debated. We did not have a debate about the Port Authority's accounts, we did not have a debate about the Housing Development Corporation's annual report, we did not have a debate about the report of the Standing Business Committee. The same procedure is followed each time and the initiative is left to any Member who wishes to start a debate. Nobody is trying to silence you, nobody can silence you in the sense that you have rights prescribed by Standing Orders, which you have exercised. I am sorry if I have not made myself plain, but the fact of the matter is that it is not an obligation on a Member of Government laying a report to ensure that that report is debated. By laying a report, he gives an opportunity to all Members of the House to initiate a debate. That opportunity has been given in the normal way, you have taken it. I do not see that you have cause for complaint.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, once again I say they did not intend for us to debate it. It should have been debated, they should have anticipated it, because when we moved the Motion, when I moved my Motion, I said that we hope you will come back for us to debate. So do not come here talking these kind of stories. It was a cover up! Furthermore, the other report from 1983 should have been laid for us too, so do not try to defend anybody here this afternoon.

The Housing and Port Authority reports did not come by way of Private Member's Motion, this report came because of a Private Member's Motion I put here. They did not intend for us to debate it. No other Member got up or had any intentions of doing so. You did your usual thing, you sat there and you would have moved on to the next item of business if we had not got up. So do not try to make the public think that I did not know what I was doing.

MR. PRESIDENT: That is perfectly true. But you had your opportunity and you have taken it.

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH: What I am complaining about is this big thing about it could have waited until September. He is talking about September, another time, how could it be done?

MR. PRESIDENT: Is the Member asking how it could have been debated in September?

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH: No, Mr. President, please let me carry on with my debate unless I am out of order.

Debate of the report has taken place to allow all sides of the report to be aired for the public. I just was not going to comment on one aspect of it. I did the honest thing, which none of the other Members were prepared to do. But another point I am not going to miss is that Members said that they did not have time to study this report. Why not? We received it on Wednesday. We knew that it was going to be tabled. I started making my preparation. Our obligation and responsibility is to be prepared for that sort of action that they were taking. And that is what I was prepared for. But you want it to wait for debate until September. It is no good waiting until September.

Among other things in my introduction of the Motion, I complained about certain sections. The report said that there was no organised drug ring, but my concern is that there was usage, there was usage and that officers of the prison, not officer, officers were mentioned, it was one of my reasons for putting in the motion to bring the report. Officers were mentioned as being part of the cause of the drug problem. Now from all sides of the debate, and all sides of the political spectrum in this Chamber it has come that the cause is being laid at the feet of the one officer who was caught. I do not feel that that is right. The report says, on page 9 paragraph 35:

"The most common methods of smuggling contraband into Prison that came to light from interviews with prison staff, inmates, ex-prison officers and ex-prison inmates were seen to be:

viii Corrupt Prison staff supplying drugs or contraband to inmates commercially, or for other reasons."

That is one point. It goes on to say, in the recommendation on page 11, paragraph 40:

"From information obtained from past official records, and from numerous interview sources, I am satisfied ..."

I am sorry, I am reading the wrong paragraph. Page 12, paragraph 45, says that:

"Evidence and information received during the enquiry confirm the past involvement of corrupt prison officers in drug smuggling at Northward. Most of those mentioned have since left the service for one reason or another ..."

There is clear evidence that it was not one, and that he is awaiting extradition from Jamaica. I do not feel that the recommendations are enough to deal with them. Why not? In fact, there is no recommendation to deal with it.

One Member went on for quite a long time crowing the virtues of the Government. They went on to talk that there was nothing to be worried about; because there was no great problem, it was only at 30 per cent. Well, should I, as a representative, put my head in the sand like an ostrich and ignore the 30 per cent usage? That is what they came in contact with.

In a prison that holds 145 or 150 inmates, 30 per cent would be 45 inmates, when the prison is full, 45 out of 150 are using drugs. Now consider the disruption at the prison that these people could cause and do you believe that if it is only 45 that it is not going to spread to the other 105? And they get up here to make a big thing, oh everything is happy, everything is good, it is only 30 per cent. It would seem to me that they are so well supplied that they are happy. There is going to be no big problem, there is going to be no big fight there, everybody is getting some little thing. Not because it is happening in other prisons that I must be satisfied for it to happen here. No. I would want to make it quite clear that I was not blaming the Honourable Third Official Member personally. He too said we could have waited until September. He said there was no attempt to cover up, he was only acting with the wishes of Government, that is my opinion. He made reference to the motion that brought about this report. Mr. President, let it be known, I did not ask for that particular motion, I asked for an investigation into the prison. But that was not accepted. But because that was the only one that I could get in, I was satisfied for it to be put that way.

MR. PRESIDENT: I wonder if I could just make one thing clear. I think you are meaning that you could not win Government's support for it, not that I had ruled the type of Motion you originally had in mind out of order. What you said was ambiguous and could have misled the listening public. Perhaps you would just confirm that I am correct. I never ruled a motion for an inquiry into the prison out of order or inadmissible.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I did not say you did.

MR. PRESIDENT: No, but you said it was not accepted, and most people would construe that as meaning that you were not allowed to put it down, that I ruled it out of order, if you say it was not accepted.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Well, Mr. President, I do not know how or why it was not accepted.

MR. PRESIDENT: Let us make this quite clear. My recollection is that you asked to put down a motion like that. I said that you could put it down, it was in order, in other words, I did not, as President, refuse to accept it. But you, after discussion with some Members of the Government or others, decided to put down a different motion.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I will leave you alone with your thoughts. (LAUGHTER)

I just want it to be known to the public, and on record in this House that the motion that I put was not accepted, by whom, I do not know. You told me that - what you are saying now, I will give you that much.

MR. PRESIDENT: I confess I have not gone back and checked the records, and I will do so with pleasure if you wish. But I really cannot believe for a moment that I would have told you that I would refuse to accept, as being inadmissible, a motion in the sort of terms you just said you originally had in mind, because it would have been quite admissible. I think you found you would not get support for it, and you decided to move a different motion. That is a rather different thing.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Well if you had not started so much about what you did not do and what you did, I would have come round to that, Sir. (LAUGHTER)

Mr. President, you know, it is no wonder that some Members get up in the House and talk about all the foolishness that is carried on. But I am not going to take the blame for it. The first motion was not accepted, this one was. It does not do everything and it is not everything I would like to see, and there are some grave implications here, and I am trusting that Government will act on it and do something about it, and not because it implicates public servants, that it will be hidden.

To the Member who made the point about foolishness being brought to the House, I can give a good account of my stewardship to this House. The people know that to be true. Some Members of the Government bench were very happy when that was being said. I want to let them know that 1988 is going to be right around the corner, and not many of them are going to get McKeeva's 'X' if I am here, so they can fight very hard to kick me out. And a lot that think they are going to get it are not going to get it. If I am here I will be putting an 'X' for McKeeva, let that be known too.

As I said, debate has been like the weather this year, round and round, so you will excuse me if I have to do the same in reply. But the Honourable Third Official Member made a point that I had said in the opening of the Motion, that we should have had the report along with the Prison Amendment Bill. What the Member said was that the amendment was in part, a consequence of years of operation of the prison. Still denying, still denying. But the report is there for all to see, even on the photocopies is the word by the paragraphs that were used, the recommendations that were used, is the word "legislation". Not in Harry Brown's writing, either. It should have been laid with the Prison Bill, before that Bill was laid.

Mr. President, it would be unfair of me, having replied to everything everybody else said, not to reply to what the Member for Bodden Town raised, and I am not going to forget the lady with the lampshade hat.

Facts bear out that cocaine, since 1980 in this country has been on high increase - since 1980, that is a fact. Not such a thing like cocaine was nearly non-existent before 1984. I would dare to say from reliable information that cocaine started to be used in this country in late 1979, heavily. The problem is that Government is now catching every little boy and every little girl and putting them through a test and they go to prison, the majority of the time. It has only served to highlight the fact that there is much usage, and the increase has been high. Government has been capturing these users, these little barefoot boys, I would say. So it is not correct to say that cocaine was nearly non-existent before 1984. I do not agree with that. But I agree with him that it is only the small ones that are being caught.

The lady Member made a reference that we should not hold the prison staff responsible, because there are many ways for the drugs to get into the prison. I hold her, too, responsible, because she comes in here and gives the Government that is not going to do anything about these officials, all the support they need. But I am not going to waste time replying to her, most of the time she is asleep. If she was doing her job in this House, I would not have to raise these motions. But I hold her and I hold the Government responsible. When they are right, I will support them, when they are wrong, they cannot get my support. If she would do that and stop being an extension cord, the country could be run a bit better.

Mr. President, there is no more need for me to say any more than I have said. If I carry on, you are surely going to interrupt me and cause a big disruption in this House, as you usually do.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Order! order!

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

That is the truth, Mr. President. So with those few words, I hope that the recommendations made, some of them have already been put in the Prison Amendment Bill, and I trust that they will find ways and means of arresting the problem of the prison officials. I hold some of them in very high regard, I have, personally, nothing against anyone. They have a duty to do, and I have a charge to keep. That goes for the whole public service.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question before the House, which I will now put to the vote, is that the report on allegations into misuse of drugs in Northward Prison and the Government note on it be adopted.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. GOVERNMENT MINUTE AND REPORT TO PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.15/86 ADOPTED

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

AMENDED (NO.2) PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.6/87
TRADE AND INDUSTRY INCENTIVES

MR. PRESIDENT:

Private Member's Motion No.6/87. I think I did explain to the House before that this had been amended twice at the request of the mover and that it is the amended version No.2 that I understand is now to be moved.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I move Private Member's Motion No.6/87, amended (No.2) which stands in my name:

"WHEREAS many Caymanians show interest and have a desire to start their own businesses;

AND WHEREAS commercial interest rates are high and long term loans are hard to get;

BE IT RESOLVED that Government, as soon as possible, introduce to this Honourable House a comprehensive law on trade and industry which would include incentives for Caymanians to start their own businesses;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that in the interim period the Government revise its present guidelines with regard to Government incentives for trade and industry, including the requirements and guidelines for loans from the A.I.D.B."

MR. PRESIDENT:

Is the Motion seconded?

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:
the Motion.

Mr. President, I beg to second

MR. PRESIDENT:

I declare the Motion duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak to his Motion?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I believe this Motion to be a good thing and I trust that Members will see it that way and give it full support in order to get safe passage.

The Member that is going to reply to this I have a lot of respect for he has treated me with the same, and I know that whatever he says he will do - I can always depend on him.

The first resolve section is asking Government to introduce a comprehensive law on trade and industry which would include incentives for Caymanians to start their own businesses. I believe in the Development Plan there is some suggestion also for a comprehensive trade and industry law. There can be no doubt in anyone's mind that there is a high level of economic activity. Tourism is high, at its peak, and attendant development keeps coming on stream, bringing about full employment for these Islands. Mr. President, this is good today, but we have no say over external factors which control finance and tourism. That is why it is most important for us to have a policy of diversification.

Caymanians might not be able to build a hotel, which would take a lot of cash, or provide a factory which would be labour intensive and which is not the best thing anyway for our small labour force, but there are many smaller scale businesses, or business opportunities, which Caymanians could get into, if the long term cash was available.

I believe, as I did mention somewhere before, there are substantial possibilities for the expansion and development of existing businesses as well as new types of industries. At present the small local businessman is having a very difficult time. While there is much money to be made, the country is paying a very high price for it. The cause, a very high lending interest rate and short term loans instead of long term loans.

Let us look quickly at one instance of how this affects the businessman and the public. You take a man who puts up a building, gets a five year loan instead of fifteen years to pay off the loan. He then has to charge a very high rate for rental and the man who rents the space in the building then passes on his costs to the man on the street, resulting in a very outrageous cost of living in this country. That is the case of a man who is lucky enough to get a five or seven year loan. So there is a borrowing constraint, and I feel that Government must move ahead to provide better incentives for local businesses in regards to better custom tariffs and some means or other of assisting in long term loans.

Also, for the sake of local businesses, some relevant protectionist policy. I would not advocate too stringent a protective policy, but something should be done. I realise Sir, that customs import duty is a high revenue earner, and I am not now suggesting a wholesale waiver of customs duty for every single business. The present Government guidelines give some assistance as far as import duties are concerned for building materials, machinery and equipment and production inputs used in the manufacturing process for export oriented businesses with an investment over $50,000. It also has an incentive for a local production business with an investment exceeding $25,000. This is all good and well, but I do not think it helps Caymanians any, if they are not producing something. But, there are other businesses which Government could look at and offer something in the same scale.

Someone paying $10,000 in customs duties, is a lot to a small business. It is the difference of having a cash flow and not having a cash flow. As I mentioned yesterday, we talk a lot about 'fronting', well, this is one of the reasons, this is one of the instances where fronting comes in. A Caymanian wants his own business, but because of him not being able to get a long term loan and the incentive is not there because he is not in manufacturing or production, he then has to look elsewhere for investment capital. He then finds a foreigner who is quite willing to put in probably more money than the Caymanian himself has in the company, therefore at the end of the day, the foreigner ends up owning more of the company than the local person. We have to do something about this situation. The Agricultural Industrial Development Board helps to an extent, but I feel also that their guidelines must be redefined in order for that Board to take on more of a development bank role in this country.

The big local businesses, and businesses of long standing have to play a greater role in buying Caymanian. What I mean by this is that if you look at people, for instance, who are now building apartments and if you go around the country you will find there are many apartments being built. They in turn go abroad and purchase, let us say, their furniture, without even going to the dealer and saying this is what I need, twenty sets of this and twenty sets of that. The furniture dealer here, when someone is going to buy on a large scale like that, should be able to produce a better rate which would be compatible with at least the Florida area. But this is not happening. I am not telling them now that if they did go to these people and they found that they could not get a good rate, that they should stay and buy from them. No, that would not be good business sense. That is one case.

One way of Government offering better funds and in discussing this Motion with the Member responsible for Trade and Industry - we talked about this - is for Government to try to obtain funds into a pool to be loaned as soft loans for Cayman businesses or business development. And, perhaps I would say it could be structured in a similar way to what we are now thinking about, or along the lines of the Housing Development Corporation. Government could perhaps liaise with banks and establish a facility where money can be lent at favourable rates for specific types of investment.

The incentives are there, yes, for local production, somebody producing something. But there has to be much more encouragement. I do not see the Member responsible for agriculture here, but presently what is happening there is that a good thing is turning into a bad thing. For instance in the demonstration farm which was successful and is successful in demonstrating to the farmer that it can be done, but now the whole Agricultural Department is getting in the competition. How will you as a Government, set policy and tell the farmer that he can get out there and produce more, you are producing the same thing that he is trying to produce and you have cheaper labour because you have got Jamaican labour - it is hard to say it, and I am not being derogative in any manner, but it is true. You do not have to pay for a work permit. These are facts, I know that they do not like to hear me talk, but as I said before, I have a charge to keep.

Before I get onto the next subject, to continue on this agricultural thing, the money that Government is taking to invest, Government should be taking that money and lending to the farmers to better help themselves.

We have an alarming import and export rate, a very high trade deficit. In 1980, imports amounted to $85 million. Exports were only $2.2 million, leaving us with a trade deficit of $83.8 million. And in 1983, imports were at $108 million, exports $1 million, a trade deficit of $107 million. In 1985, imports were $120 million and exports were $1.5 million, a trade deficit of $118.5 million.

To the man on the street, on the surface this means nothing, but I am certain Government realises what this could mean if our invisible trade surplus was to move to a bad position. If it were not for the invisible trade surplus created by the service industries, which is tourism and finance in particular, we would be in poor shape with a very unfavourable balance of trade. What I am hinting at is what every sound person should be thinking about. The future. What if years down the road there is a decline in finance and tourism? Where would the money come from to cover the deficit? Where would this country get the hard currency to purchase the high volume of imports if there is a decline in hard currency due to a fall in economic activity in the service industries - insurance, banks, companies and tourism? We are too dependent on imports. A study recently proved that to us, and we really did not need a study to tell us that. But it is a fact.

I made mention yesterday that we have practically no control over the essentials of a sound monetary policy, that all our banks saving one and all our insurance companies save one are foreign owned. I was not really crying them down I never do, or I was not saying that we do not need them, I never do say that we do not need them. I was born in 1955 and I grew up in Cayman, I know what they mean to us. But what happens if they leave? That is why I say that diversification must and can come. There is ample room for it. There are some things which we must always import because the internal production of these goods would not be profitable. However, there are many goods and services which Caymanian businesses can provide, and every bit of help should be given in these instances. I would not expect to see a Ford motor company started here, but certainly there are things like pharmaceuticals, cosmetics, computer software that can be done here, where the profits can stay here in these Islands, building up more Caymanian cash. But, Caymanians are not going to be able to get into these areas. We need lower interest rates and better availability of funds, and all I am asking is that Government actively encourage this process. We just appointed a Director of Trade and Labour, and I believe Government is seriously committed to the timely and consistent diversification of the economy and increased economic activity by Caymanians now in business and those who want to get into some kind of business.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Sorry, at the risk of irking the Member, I must interrupt him because it is 4:30 p.m. I think I would invite the Honourable First Official Member to move the suspension of Standing Orders, because quite a number of Members did indicate to me they would like to try to finish business today, and as long as the Member speaking is not going to be too long with this Motion and his next, we might be able to. I shall have to leave by about 5:45 p.m., I am afraid, I have another commitment, but I can manage until then.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, in accordance with Standing Order 83, I move the suspension of Standing Order 10(2) so that the proceedings of the House may continue.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Motion before the House is that in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 83, the provisions of Standing Order 10(2) shall be suspended in order to enable the sitting to continue. Unless any Member wishes to speak?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, I have to object to this suspension, on the grounds that the Motion before the House is too important to be hurried, and there is still another important matter on the agenda. If I were to speak on the Motion before the House it would certainly take me past six o'clock. In addition to that, this is Friday evening - some Members may have commitments, they have been sitting here all week, it is unfair to the staff of the Legislative Assembly, and I do not think the business before this House should be hurried, particularly when we are dealing right now with the most important matter on the entire agenda for the whole of this meeting. So I certainly will not support the suspension. I think we should come back on Monday morning and give this Motion the treatment which it deserves.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I am not objecting to the suspension of the Standing Order to enable the Legislative Assembly to continue its proceedings, but I only want to give notice that I have a commitment and have to leave here at five o'clock.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am entirely in Members' hands, it was simply that a number of Members had expressed to me the hope that proceedings could be completed today. I would certainly accept that if there is little prospect of completing the debate on this Motion, and on debating the second Motion today, without going on very late indeed, then really we would be best to accept that we must assemble again on Monday. To an extent I am in the hands and would be guided by the wishes of the mover of the two Motions, if he wishes to speak, to continue speaking at some length on this Motion, perhaps to wind up at some length and to speak at some length on the other Motion, then certainly I should not wish to cut him short, and we might do better to determine that we will meet again on Monday. Other Members might wish to be guided by his views, it is up to them, obviously, but perhaps he would express a view one way or the other.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I was on my last page of notes on this Motion, and with regards to the other one, I had just one point and was just going to allow it to be debated or be put to the vote.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I do not know whether the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town was teasing us, as sometimes he is prone to when he said that would keep us going all by himself well beyond six o'clock on this one Motion, or whether that was said with due seriousness. If he was teasing us, perhaps we could now agree to continue sitting, say, until 5:15 p.m. and see if we can complete our business during that time, which might not inconvenience anybody too badly. If we do not complete it, we do not.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

No, Mr. President, I am not joking, I really wanted to deal at great length with the difficulties of a small person starting a business in these Islands. The expense of starting a business, and so on, the need for incentives for the local people. So I could speak at great length.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I have no doubt whatever that you could speak at great length, it is a question of whether you intend to! What suits Members, would it be reasonable to say we will go on until 5:15 p.m. and see how we get on? I see a number of Members nodding, perhaps I could interpret the Motion that has been moved, which was open-ended, as implying that we will go on until 5:15 p.m., and that the adjournment would be moved then. I will put the vote on that basis.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE THE HOUSE TO CONTINUE ITS BUSINESS UNTIL 5:15 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for West Bay may continue with his speech.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, when we took the interruption I was just about to close by saying that Caymanians must get direct benefits from development, or it is useless to have the kind of development we are having, if we are not going to get our benefits directly from it. I hope the Motion will get a safe passage.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Motion is now open for debate. Does any Member wish to speak?
The Second Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, I rise to speak to Private Member's Motion No.6/87 dealing with trade and industry incentives.

The Motion makes several points with which I agree. Firstly, it is true that commercial interest rates are high, and of course it is also a fact that long term loans are not that easy to get unless of course, you have substantial collateral to support your loan application. And thirdly, it is also true that there are many Caymanians who would like to have their own businesses and rightly so. Caymanians are strongly independent, and to own and operate your own business is an admirable ambition. I have said many times before from different forums that Caymanians must be able to share in and benefit from, the development and growth of their own country, and Caymanians owning and operating their own businesses is one sure way of doing this.

I am therefore very supportive of the idea of Caymanians getting into the business of their choice, and to be factual, the records will show that for a small, young country, many Caymanians have in fact established themselves as competent and capable business people, and do play an important role in our business community.

A great deal of this has been made possible through the banks that are established and conduct business here. It has also been made possible through what Government is doing through trade and industry, and the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board, the A.I.D.B., which has proven to be a source of financing for several Caymanians. The desire and ambition to own and operate their own businesses will continue to increase in our country, especially as Caymanians become more educated, more informed and more aware of the business opportunities available to them in their homeland. I therefore also strongly believe that Government as well as the private sector, must do all within their power to help and encourage our own local people to become an important part of our progressive and buoyant business community.

Recognising, of course, that in our free enterprise system there is a limit as to just how far Government is able to provide assistance to the local businessman. Because while being willing to help, it must be recognised that Government cannot afford to undermine its own revenue earning capabilities, specifically from import duties, nor provide more favourable conditions to any Caymanian businessman to the detriment of the other Caymanian. We must bear in mind that we have mainly a service oriented society. Some provide services, some buy and sell merchandise and other commodities. And there are many Caymanians who, years ago, at much sacrifice, set up their own businesses and to my mind, what has to be considered is, would it be fair to now provide more favourable conditions to another Caymanian for him to be able to put the other out of business by having more advantageous financial arrangements? Great care and caution must be exercised because in our system, competition should be fair and equitable.

I would cite here the case of Puritan Cleaners Ltd., which many, many years ago set up a dry cleaning business in this country. This is a business owned and operated by a Caymanian. To the best of my knowledge and understanding, the cost of the building, the necessary equipment was all dutiable, and all paid for. What comes to my mind, would it be fair today, to provide more favourable conditions for another Caymanian to set up a dry cleaning business that would be in direct competition with somebody who has worked and sweated years ago to get going in business? Would this be considered by the average businessman as discrimination against one Caymanian in favour of another? These are questions that must be answered and given consideration of what is being presently debated.

Of course, obviously, as well, banking institutions must base their positions on sound business practices and decisions. Nevertheless, having said all this, local persons who would like to start their own business and who attempt to start from scratch do have very serious obstacles to overcome. I can state this, because I, for one, like many other Caymanians, can provide first hand knowledge, and I can assure anyone it is not an easy road. Cayman National Bank came to my rescue years ago and still does, and I am sure that they, as well as other banks, have helped many Caymanians to get started and to remain in business.

On the other side of the coin, proper help and assistance to Caymanians is definitely preferred to fronting, as has been mentioned by the mover of this Motion, because fronting has become in our country today a serious problem for the Caymanian Protection Board in providing necessary protection for locally and wholly owned established businesses. What happens is that quite often, fronting only places other fellow Caymanians at a very serious competitive disadvantage, because after the foreign partner gets himself well placed and gets to learn the ropes in the Cayman Islands, he or she attempts to dump the local fronting partner, and this results in resentment which in turn breeds unrest and discontent. So it is definitely in the interests of our people and the future of our country, for both Government and lending institutions to provide all reasonable assistance to Caymanians aspiring to have their own businesses.

Now turning directly to the trade and industry incentives which are in place. These were obviously designed to encourage the setting up of small, light industries, mainly for the export market, as well as to provide local employment opportunities. Duty concessions are offered on building materials and equipment, and the Board is only advisory in its capacity. Its guidelines are aimed at diversification of the economy to whatever extent possible, and I agree that any attempt for diversification of our economy should continue, recognising that tourism and finance are fickle economies. However, diversification is a deep and far-reaching project. Obviously times and circumstances have changed, and as the Member will note, which he mentioned in his presentation, Government had decided that the existing trade and industry guidelines should be revised, and that eventually a comprehensive trade and industry law be introduced to this Honourable House. These decisions were taken in order to strengthen and clearly define Government's resolve to provide encouragement and assistance, where possible, to the local businessman.

MR. PRESIDENT:

If I might interrupt the Member for a moment, with apologies, I am told the tape is about to run out within the next few seconds. A new one should be on within a minute or so. The Sergeant-at-Arms will let us know as soon as they have effected the change over. So I suggest nobody leave the Chamber, but if we could just suspend for a moment.

AT 4:53 P.M., THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 4:56 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Member may resume.

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Thank you, Mr. President. As I was saying, the Member in his presentation acknowledged what was provided for in the Economic Development Plan. As is well known, this Plan was tabled in this Honourable House yesterday, and I would just like to read the section of chapter 3.4 of the Plan, which deals with Industry. Under the section dealing with Government plans, as item (1), it states:

"Revise the guidelines issued in 1977 as an incentive for the promotion of local industries."

In point (5), under the same heading, Government Plans:

"Consider special provisions for group enterprises. The object would be to encourage young Caymanians to form group enterprises on a cooperative basis in a way which would promote commitment and responsibility. Guidelines would be issued to interested groups on how such an enterprise could be organised, whether the enterprise would be feasible, and its organisational rules fair and equitable to each member of the group. Assistance in obtaining loans up to 80 per cent of requirements would be considered."

In point (7) of the same heading, Government Plans:

"Repeal the 1950 Pioneer Industries (Encouragement) Law, and enact a comprehensive industrial development law."

So it is correct to state that what Government has been doing through A.I.D.B. to assist Caymanians with favourable financing, coupled with its plans to revise trade and industry guidelines and, in due course, I think the Motion says "as soon as possible", introduce legislation. All of this, to my mind, fully recognises the need. And so, this Motion from the Second Elected Member for West Bay, clearly and definitely coincides with Government's position in this matter.

Therefore, Mr. President, I have no hesitation in supporting the Motion. To use his words in his presentation, "when he is right he will have my full support, and when he is wrong, he cannot get my support". As I have said, the incentives are still to be determined by Government, and I must again make the observation that great care will have to be exercised in deciding just how the mechanics of such an arrangement would work, and just what the implications are.

With those few words, Mr. President, I support the Motion. Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Does any other Member wish to speak? Does the mover wish to reply?

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH:
Just to say that I am happy that they are accepting it.

MR. PRESIDENT:
In that case I will put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AMENDED (NO.2) PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.6/87 PASSED

MR. PRESIDENT:
We can move now to Private Member's Motion No.7/87. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.7/87
MANDATORY PERSONAL IDENTIFICATION

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH:
Mr. President, I move Motion No.7/87 standing in my name:

"WHEREAS in recent years these Islands have experienced a high proportion of growth;

AND WHEREAS there is much movement of different nationalities in and out of the country;

BE IT RESOLVED that the Government institute a programme of mandatory personal identification for the people of these Islands."

MR. PRESIDENT:
Motion seconded?

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:
the Motion.

Mr. President, I beg to second

MR. PRESIDENT:

I declare the Motion duly moved and seconded. Would the mover wish to speak to the Motion?

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, the Motion is brief and very clear in what it is seeking to do. I will be very brief in my introduction.

My reason for bringing this Motion is that I feel that it is time, with the development that we are having, the problems we are facing, to have personal identification of some sort, whether it be a specially personal identification card, or whether it be a driver's licence, whichever way it comes, I feel that we should have it.

Mr. President, we go to banks, and up until today it was driven home to me while standing in line at the bank, a person went to the bank and was asked whether he had any ID cards, and it was not a foreigner, it was a Caymanian. He said, "No". "Do you have an account here?" "No." "Well you should go to the other bank that you have an account with." Personal identification would solve that problem, it would help immigration, it would help the police, and it would, Mr. President, I hope if it is passed, and I am not suggesting that it be a licence for the police to stop every citizen and say show me your ID. That is not what it is all about.

One of the greatest reasons for bringing this Motion is that we do know that there is a problem today where young people aged 14, 15, 16, are going into bars, are going into night clubs and they are buying liquor and they are getting into the night clubs, and we say, we tend to blame the bar tender, we tend to blame the proprietor of the night club. But how can we, when some of our young people are just as big as any full grown person? It is hard to say what the age is. I can give this example. Just the other night, a young girl age 14, walked out of her parents' home when they thought that she was in bed, went to the Islander Nightclub. I personally checked into the matter and asked them how could they let her in, and this was one of the answers given. A similar situation at another nightclub, and they said, you know, the girl looks as old as your wife, she is as big as your wife. So I would suggest that Government, if they are not going to accept this Motion, that they think of some means or another of alleviating those problems that I have just outlined.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any Member wish to speak?

The Motion is open for debate.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Mr. President, brevity seems to be the order of the afternoon, and I assure you and Honourable Members that I will not depart from the standard so set.

It is unfortunate that the Member bringing this Motion did not do a certain amount of consultation within Government circles prior to putting his Motion down. Because his Motion does not mention what seems to be one of the principle purposes for which the Motion is intended. And that is to prevent unauthorised disbursement of alcoholic beverages to young people. I do not think that his Motion, if that is really the intention, I do not think that the Motion introducing a mandatory personal identification is necessarily going to, in itself and of itself, solve that particular problem.

The Government therefore finds itself in a position that it is unable to support the Motion. Many Caymanians, young and old, already have methods by which they can establish their identity. They have passports issued at quite an early age, they have drivers' licences issued, and in many occupations and professions, employers are now issuing identification cards to employees. At first, I thought that this was something the Motion was seeking to address, but I gathered from what the mover said, Sir, that part of the problem, one of the major problems that he is seeing, is in young people being served alcoholic beverages illegally. That is a matter that has to be addressed in an entirely different manner, under an entirely different set of circumstances, and a mandatory identification card is not going to solve that or similar problems.

It is also not going to help the Immigration authorities, because the Immigration authorities are not so much concerned with Caymanian identity as they are concerned with the identity of non-Caymanians moving in and out of the country. And all non-Caymanians moving in and out of the country are required to have identification.

the Motion, Sir.

I cannot, therefore, support

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Member for North Side.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, as the seconder of the Motion, it goes without saying that I support the Motion. I am disappointed that Government is not accepting the Motion, and most of the points raised by the Honourable Third Official Member who replied to the Motion, do not really address, or justify I should say, Government not accepting the Motion.

He is in a good position because civil servants all have IDs, paid for by the tax payers of this country. When they go into a nightclub, or anywhere else, they have an ID card that has their birth date, their picture and everything else on it. The average Caymanian has nothing except a passport, and if he takes his passport to a nightclub for the purposes of identification, and loses it, then they are going to tell him he cannot get one for another ten years when that one expires. So he is grounded, or maybe since a passport these days is strictly a travel document, there is no harm in issuing two or three.

The driver's licence people have does not serve the purpose, because it does not have a birth date on it. If and when, some time in the distant future, the Traffic Law ever gets to this Assembly, I hope that at that stage, the driver's licence will carry a birth date and it can be used as a form of identification. But I disagree with his argument that personal identification does not help in the prevention of the sale of alcohol to minors and I do not know under what other law that he is talking about that we have to address it. Because it is already in the Liquor Law which prohibits the sale of alcohol to people under the age of 18. We cannot have a law in the country, and expect the law to be enforced if we do not provide some sort of mechanism for the people to abide by that law. This is one of the things that personal identification would provide, along with the other cheque cashing, etcetera and other cases when one needs personal identification. The onus is on the person selling the liquor not to sell it to people under the age of 18 but there is no official identification that he can accept, and I do not know how we expect him to do it.

So I was hopeful that Government was going to accept the Motion, it was not brought with any ulterior motives, it was brought to alleviate what is a real problem in our society. Maybe Government does not see it as a problem. But, I hope that they can find some other way which is a better way than personal identification to assist people in complying with the law and assist the populace of this country in being able to identify themselves.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? Does the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Just briefly, Mr. President. It seems also that one of their points is that it is mandatory identification I am asking for. Well, like the Motion which we just passed, which they got me to agree to change so that they could pass it, and a Motion bringing about the report changed that they could pass it, why did they not ask me to change this one? But it would not be effective if it was not mandatory. That is as far as I am concerned.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I will put the question. The question is that Private Member's Motion No.7/87 be passed.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 7/87 DEFEATED BY MAJORITY

MR. PRESIDENT:

That concludes the business on the Order Paper. I invite the Honourable First Official Member to move the adjournment.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until the 7th September, 1987, and in doing so, as it is your last meeting as President of this Honourable House, I wish to say a few words before I take my seat.

TRIBUTES TO MR. PRESIDENT

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, you assumed your responsibility as Head of State of these beautiful Cayman Islands approximately five years and four months ago. I too assumed the post of Financial Secretary five years and one month ago to the day. So the accomplishments of this Government over the period is well known to both of us.

We assumed our duties at a time when the Cayman Islands were receiving much negative international publicity. Some of it even going as far to indicate that these Islands were sinking because of the weight of billions of dollars deposited by drug dealers. Approximately two years ago we signed the Narcotics Agreement, because we wanted to demonstrate to the world that what was being said about these Islands was incorrect. Today almost three years after we signed that agreement, the total certificates received from the United States Attorney General under it is about 45. And, in the majority of cases, the money was no longer here, only the records that it passed through these Islands.

Two years later, in July of 1986, we signed the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty. We have witnessed much progress in these Islands since the first quarter of 1982. We have seen the tourism figures rise from roughly 200,000, in 1981 (this is arrivals by sea and by air) to 437,000 in 1986. During this period as well, a real clean up of these Islands (that is the garbage and the old rusty cars and all the rest of it) took place. They were removed from the roadsides. Environmentally, we have established Marine Parks. Beautification committees have planted flowers. The Harquail Centre was constructed to improve the theatrical talents and provide proper facilities for its development.

In 1984 the civil service salary review also took place, during your term. It was a major review, and civil servants are grateful for it. We have also seen the country's budget grow from $40.7 million in 1981 to $74.1 million this year, an 82 per cent increase over the period.

On the negative side, we have seen the police force being examined by one of Her Majesty's inspectors; the increase in drug abuse; an increase in the criminal cases coming before the court; the retirement of two of the most senior civil servants, that is, Mr. Dennis Foster and the Honourable Vassel Johnson; and the increase in competition for Cayman Airways.

In all of this, you, Sir have assisted us as leaders and residents of these Islands, to overcome the difficulties and problems which presented themselves during your term.

On behalf of the civil service, we wish you and your family God's richest blessings for a long, healthy and happy retirement.

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

Mr. President, as this is the last meeting over which you will preside as President, at least in the Cayman Islands, permit me, Sir, on behalf of the Elected Members of Executive Council to say a big thank you for all that you have done for these Islands, both in your capacity as President of this Assembly, and that of Governor of these Islands, including Chairmanship of the Executive Council.

In the Assembly, we have tried your patience to the limit on many occasions, but you have managed always, Sir, to keep proceedings on an even keel. You have displayed a keen sense of fair play, and at times, humour, which has enabled us all to keep our sanity. Your guidance and wise counsel will long be remembered and is evident and will continue to be evident in the progress that has been made throughout these Islands during your time of office here.

I believe, Sir, that you can look back over your period of service in these Islands with a great sense of accomplishment and pride. In your position as Governor and Chairman of the Executive Council, you have employed a style of administration and management which has set a very high standard. The people of these Islands owe you a great debt of gratitude, and I wish to associate them with my vote of thanks for all that you have done, and especially my constituents.

Of course, Mr. President, I could not end without mentioning the efforts and work of your good wife, which I am sure was invaluable to you, but in her own way, and in her own right, she also contributed much to the welfare and development of this territory, or these Islands, during your stay with us.

In closing, Sir, may I wish for you and your good wife, Mrs. Lloyd, a long, healthy and happy retirement, and may God's richest blessings always accompany you both.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Mr. President, I count it a privilege and an honour to be able to speak this evening to you as you sit in the position of President of this Honourable House for the last time during your tenure here. I am pleased because I do not know of anything I could say that perhaps would not be pleasing to the ear, and I want to thank you sincerely for the dignity and decorum which you have been able to display in this House at all times. There have been just one or two occasions when perhaps I could not see eye to eye with you, but those were few indeed, and certainly I thank you for the wisdom which you exercised and sometimes when the debates were hottest, you found it very convenient to adjourn to go to the Common Room. Just in the nick of time you were able to cool everyone down.

Mr. President, I thank you for the ways in which you have helped us here in the House. You have displayed a very good example of how best to govern, and I want to say that I can assure you that you have endeared yourself and as well, your very good wife, Mrs. Lloyd, to the people of these Islands. I cannot think of any Governor, and I have been here a little over 40 years now, that perhaps has become as well loved and admired as you both, and this has come about because of how you have involved yourselves in many areas from the Pines Retirement Home right on down to the schools. I want to thank you, and wish you God's blessings and that you will enjoy your retirement equally as much or perhaps even more, than the time you have spent in these Islands.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, the Member for North Side and the First Member from Cayman Brac have asked me to speak on their behalf - they appointed me really, but as usual the lady Member did not agree.

But I would like, on their behalf, to thank you on behalf of your work, your interest in the country. The Member from the Brac, as you will be going to the Brac, will be saying more to you, and I believe the Member for North Side in private moments will express his congratulations on your retiring and wishing you a happy retirement. I myself would do the same.

Personally, me and you have had quite a relationship in this House. I have tried your patience to the limit and you have tried mine beyond the breaking point. There were times, Mr. President, when I did not really appreciate how you acted as President, and while I think and believe you to be an honest man and a good man, as a Governor I have to tell you that I believed you were not the best President we ever had.

But, Mr. President, I remember the first time that I met you, and I believe you remember it. As I told you in your office that if you did not do something about this situation existing in 1983, we were going to march. And you told me, well, march. Fifty thousand Englishmen march every bank holiday in London, that is not anything. And I said to you, Mr. President, yes, but you did not see 300 angry Caymanians on your lawn.

Mr. President, I have appreciated, as I have said, your stand as a Governor. You have done some personal things that I came to you personally for members of my constituency, and I really have appreciated your help in those instances. I came to you for other things and you gave me advice. I appreciated your help as a boy scout leader some time back. I appreciate your help and all the things you have done for the Boys Brigade. Just about last week, I think it was, you had the Girls Brigade down, the week before that was the Boys Brigade, and my little boy said, "Daddy, he's a nice man", I said, "That is outside the House". (LAUGHTER)

Mr. President, I have mixed feelings in seeing you going. While I disagreed with you practically every time I came here, I really do not know what I will be getting next. That is the hardest part. You know, I know how to deal with you, but I will not know how to deal with the next man.

I wish you every happiness in your retirement and I pray God's blessings on you, your wife and your family. One of these days when we are controlling everything, you might yet have to come to me and say, I want to come to the Cayman Islands, is that invitation still open?

Mr. President, I wish you God's speed.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, on behalf of myself and the absent Members under my column, I too, Sir, would wish to convey to you and to your very dear wife, Mrs. Lloyd, my very best wishes for a very happy and peaceful retirement.

As the previous Member said, I too, Mr. President, did not always see eye to eye with you on some of your rulings. This is inevitable, this is why we are individuals, we see differently. But in general, Sir, I think I can truthfully say that you always tried to bring to bear knowledge and wisdom in your rulings and judgements.

May I wish for you, Sir, all the very best and God's richest blessings as you take up your retirement. God bless.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Perhaps before I put the question to the vote, I may just say a word of thanks to Members for the kind, sometimes blunt words that they have spoken. And the Second Elected Member for West Bay says he learned how to deal with me, I can only say I wish I had learned how to deal with him! I will do my best to give my successor some advice, but I am not quite sure what to advise him. (LAUGHTER)

I think my advice to him will be to urge Members to reconsider the way they voted when there was a Motion for the appointment of a Speaker earlier this year. I do not really want to address that issue at length now, and I am not sure that it would be appropriate for me to, but there certainly are substantial arguments in favour of divorcing the Office of Governor from the Office of Speaker, quite apart from any arguments there may be for having a Caymanian as Speaker. I think those are matters that all of you, particularly, and Caymanians at large, would do well to ponder, because there is always a risk that a Governor who presides over your proceedings in these Chambers, despite the fact that for the most part the proceedings are carried on with decorum and good humour, can nevertheless, sometimes be drawn into controversy because some of his rulings, some of his decisions may appear to one person or another to be unfair or prejudiced. And, because there must necessarily be a question of whether somebody who is, at one moment presiding over Executive Council and over Government can, at the next moment, divorce himself from that function and be wholly impartial when presiding over the proceedings of this Assembly.

That said, it has been a privilege, and generally speaking, a pleasure, even if sometimes a somewhat awkward task, to preside over your proceedings here, and I have in many ways gained immeasurably from the opportunity to do so. I am grateful to all of you for the way in which you have assisted me to carry out that task. I would only ask that if you do entrust my successor with the same task, as indeed as of now he certainly will be entrusted with it, you will give him the same assistance that you have given me.

I will not speak more generally of my time in the Islands now, which some of you have referred to, because perhaps there will be a separate opportunity to do that before my departure. But I would like, in saying good-bye to the House on my last day in it, to express my gratitude and to say what a pleasure it has been to be a colleague of you all, even if sometimes some of you have seemed to try my patience slightly.

Thank you very much indeed.

The Motion now is that this House do adjourn until 7th September, 1987.

WEDNESDAY

9TH SEPTEMBER, 1987

10:05 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Prayers.

May I ask the Second Elected Member for West Bay to say prayers.

PRAYERS

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake. Amen.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil; For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us; the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us; the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

MESSAGES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

MR. PRESIDENT:

I apologise twice, once for not putting on the microphone and secondly for incorrectly not asking the Third Elected Member for West Bay to say prayers. I had understood you were not yet here. My apologies.

We have apologies from the First Elected Member for Bidden Town for his absence, and I am sure you will have noticed that the Serjeant-at-Arms, Mr. Cline Glidden, is absent. He is ill. I am sure we all wish him a speedy recovery. Serjeant Banks is standing in for him today.

Before we proceed to the business of the day, I ask the indulgence of Honourable Members to make a short statement. It is technically a Message from the Governor under Standing Order 29, but actually it comes from the heart of your Presiding Officer as he chairs his first meeting of this Legislative Assembly.

I am greatly honoured to join in the service of this House, with its long established tradition of democratic parliamentary process and I pledge myself to carry out the duties of the chair faithfully and impartially for the effective conduct of the business of the House and to afford full and proper opportunity for all Members to exercise their rights and privileges. Although I have served in legislative membership elsewhere for many years, this is the first time I have sat in this elevated, indeed, exposed, position. Like all Members, I am keenly aware that within these fortunate Islands and outside them many people are watching closely to be reassured that we shall maintain our treasured stability which is the basis of our domestic tranquility, and of our attraction to the world as a mature offshore financial centre and a well established high quality tourist destination. It is a very special privilege for me to join Honourable Members in maintaining the dignity and self respect of this House in the exercise of its heavy responsibilities to the people of the Islands. Thank you.

Now if we may move to Item 2 of the Order Paper - Questions. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

MR. W. McEEVA RUSH:

Can the Honourable Member say what is the position in relation to school children seeking treatment at the hospital?

MR. BENSIN FRANKS:

Pure medical fees for school children, Mr. President, are free - hospitalisation is charged for.

MR. PRESIDENT:

There appear to be no further supplementaries. Could I ask therefore the Second Elected Member for George Town to ask his question number 51?

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

MR. 50: Would the Honourable Member provide a breakdown of the capital expenditure programme in respect of the $5.2 million spent in Cayman Brac since 1985?

ANSWER: As the information being sought could in effect be viewed as duplicating that provided on a similar question on this issue, I am therefore of the view that what is being sought by the Member are the details of the budgeted expenditure which amounts to $2,551,152. As any attempt to provide a detailed breakdown of this information verbally could be quite time consuming, the following summary is hereby provided:

BUDGETED CAPITAL EXPENDITURE PROGRAMME FOR CAYMAN BRAC INCLUDING LITTLE CAYMAN FOR THE PERIOD JANUARY 1985 - JULY 1987

SUB-HEADS	1985	1986	1987	TOTALS 1985-1987
40 Local - Vehicles, Furniture & Equipment	103,200	101,048	278,025	490,273
41 Local - Construction	729,200	443,471	1,290,965	2,465,636
42 Local Funds - General	-	741,000	1,000,029	1,740,029
43 European Development Fund	380,000	211,000	550,000	1,145,000
Total Budgeted Capital Expenditure	1,212,400	1,501,519	3,119,019	5,840,938
Total Actual Expenditure	691,394	1,261,464	601,294	2,556,152
Excess of Budgeted Provisions Over Actual	521,006	240,055	2,517,725*	3,284,786

* As Honourable Members will observe, the aggregate difference of $3,284,786 between the budgeted capital expenditure programme and the actual expenditure for the period January 1985 through July 1987 is largely comprised of Government's commitments to various capital projects scheduled for completion or commencement in 1987. As of the date of reporting (31st July, 1987) the outstanding sum committed against these projects amounted to $2,517,725 as set out in the schedule. At the end of July, the majority of these projects were still in progress, with the exception of reduced performance against the airport development programme, for which financing through Caribbean Development Bank will not be finalised before the end of October.

In addition to the preceding information, and for the benefit of Honourable Members, set out below are details in respect of some of the major projects scheduled for 1987. In the interest of brevity, details in respect of projects estimated to cost less than $18,000 have been omitted.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Did the Honourable Member state that approximately CI$3 million of the CI$5.2 million had not been spent in Cayman Brac as of 31st July 1987?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I realise it was rather a long answer, but the answer to the supplementary is that for the years 1985, 1986 and 1987 the total sum budgeted is CI$5,840,938. The difference between that budgeted figure and the sum expended for 1985/86 and to July 1987 is CI$2,956,152. The difference between the two figures is CI$3,284,786.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, it is noted from the answer that construction of roads was budgeted for CI$400,000 and the amount expended was CI$157,846. Would the Honourable Member say whether it is correct that the road on the Bluff followed a winding path through the property of a prominent Government Official?

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not think that that question is strictly in order.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, despite the amazing figures given, may I ask the Honourable Member if it is correct that out of the money budgeted for Cayman Brac over the three year period that more than half of it remains unspent after two and a half years? In other words, that the spending over the next six months will exceed the spending over the first two and a half years?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, the answer to that question is all through the years 1985, 1986 and 1987 some of the major capital expenditure deals with the Gerrard Smith airport terminal. For instance, I am sure Honourable Members will recall that the sum, which has recently been agreed with the European Development Community Fund, CI$550,000 has been in the estimates since then. The Government took a decision some years ago, Mr. President, when we were dealing with the Owen Roberts airport terminal that we could not to our satisfaction supervise two airport constructions at the same time, therefore the airport terminal operations in Cayman Brac, or the construction thereof, was deferred until we completed the Owen Roberts airport terminal building. One of the reasons also that there appeared to be some delay is that much to our surprise we learned that the agreement, that is the financing agreement for this CI$550,000, when we were ready to concentrate on the Gerrard Smith airport terminal, we then had to get this agreement signed, which took quite some time. I believe, Mr. President, it was nine months. I hope that answers the Member's question.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Is the Honourable Member then stating that due to the capital programme in Grand Cayman the capital programme in Cayman Brac was neglected?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: I am saying, Mr. President, that in this particular project the airport development in Cayman Brac and Grand Cayman, that project was affected because of inability at the time, we thought, to supervise the particular project. But even so, had we pushed forward with the Gerrard Smith Airport project, as we did later on, we would have found out that the agreement itself was not signed, so we would probably have had to wait to some other time, 9 months or more.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, I would just like a simple answer. Is the Honourable Member stating - and this is for clarity - that the Grand Cayman capital projects were in fact given priority over Cayman Brac?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I do not think I talked about priority. I think when you are dealing with a budget you allocate a certain number of funds to capital works. The capital works in this case began with the Owen Roberts Airport terminal, to the best of my recollection, before we started thinking about the terminal building in Cayman Brac, so that is basically the reason why we did not move forward with the Gerrard Smith Airport terminal then.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, can the Honourable Member tell us how he is going to crank up the Government's machinery so that it will be able to physically spend more in the next six months, that is from July to December 1987, than it has done in the previous two and a half years?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

I am not sure that "cranking up" is the right word, Mr. President, but I accept what the Honourable Member said. The majority of funds to deal with the Gerrard Smith Airport terminal as we all see from the answer is tied to loans. So once we have made that decision, that we are going to proceed with the construction of the terminal building and other works necessary, a taxiway and apron for the Gerrard Smith airport, we are locked into approvals of these loans before we can move forward. As I mentioned earlier, the European Development Community Fund agreement has now been signed, it was signed on 17th May 1987, the Caribbean Development Bank loan of C$11,029,000 is due to be placed before the Caribbean Bank Board of Directors for approval in October, with the proviso that any funds expended by this Government prior to October would be refundable. The system is, in all cases that I have seen dealing with CDB, that we spend our money first and then we claim. So we wanted to be sure that we were not getting ahead of their approvals, and they have agreed to do it in this way, that is, make the approval such that any expenditure on the Gerrard Smith Airport terminal building can be recouped from their loan funds.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, may I ask the Honourable Member this question? His answer seems to deal with a period up to July 1987, a period which we have already passed. Can I ask him if it is a fact that at today's date none of that expected C$3 million has been spent, so that whatever is left to be spent will have to be spent in four months rather than six?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, in respect of expenditure from that point only, it does not matter, if it is loan funds - if it is not spent this year, it will be spent next year. But certainly the Public Works Department has been carrying out work at the Gerrard Smith Airport, and Members are aware of it. I think we have spent in excess of C$500,000 so far.

MR. PRESIDENT:

That was a very comprehensive initial answer and has been well followed up. Have Members any more supplementaries?

Would the Second Elected Member for George Town proceed, please?

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

MR. 51: Would the Honourable Member provide a breakdown if available comparative recurrent revenue and expenditure figures in respect of Cayman Brac over the past five years?

ANSWER: A breakdown of comparative recurrent revenue and expenditure for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman for the past five years is as follows:

	1983	1984	1985	1986	Jan-July 1987
Recurrent Revenue	703,560	911,134	908,428	1,016,090	662,182
Personal Emoluments	782,735	1,019,604	1,126,173	1,163,715	719,463
Other Charges	714,849	172,882	939,840	967,560	453,557
Total Recurrent Expenditure	1,497,584	1,912,488	2,066,013	2,131,275	1,173,020
Excess of Expenditure Over Revenue	(794,024)	(911,354)	(1,157,585)	1,115,185	(510,838)

SUMMARY

Total Revenue for period January 1983 - July 1987		4,251,391
Total Expenditure for period January 1983 - July 1987:
Personal emoluments	4,821,692
Other charges	3,948,688	8,770,381

Total excess of recurrent expenditure over revenue for period January 1983 - July 1987		(4,518,991)

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Would the Honourable Member confirm that, during the years 1983 to 1987 five year period, each year personal emoluments alone exceeded the recurrent revenue of the Sister Islands?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: I so confirm, Mr. President.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, a further supplementary. Would the Honourable Member further confirm that this trend is a true indication of stagnation in Cayman Brac's economy?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: I cannot confirm that, Mr. President.

MR. C. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, can the Honourable Member say if the deficit spending over the period was proportionately greater for Little Cayman than it was for Cayman Brac? Would he have this information?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I am afraid I do not have that detailed information that the Member is seeking.

MR. PRESIDENT: Is it possible for the Honourable First Official Member to provide it in writing at a later date or are the estimates not so broken down?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Certainly, Mr. President, it can be provided.

MR. C. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, can the Honourable Member say if he has been able to identify any item that has caused the large expenditure - any one item which is responsible for it?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: I am not sure what the Member means by that, Mr. President. It seems the largest expenditure appears to be, in most cases, the personal emolument. But I hasten to add that we are talking about recurrent revenue and expenditure, not capital.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, a further supplementary. Would the Honourable Member state concisely for the interest of the listening public and confirm whether it is correct that between the period January 1983 to July 1987 that the total excess recurrent expenditure was in the amount of $4,518,990, and whether or not this amount was subsidised by Grand Cayman?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: The answer to that question, Mr. President, is that Cayman Brac has always been subsidised by the revenue collected by the three Islands, but mainly from Grand Cayman. I can confirm that the excess of recurrent expenditure over revenue for January 1983 to July 1987 is $4,518,990.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: A further supplementary Mr. President. Would the Honourable Member further confirm that the excess recurrent expenditure over this period exceeded the revenue of Cayman Brac for that particular period?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Yes, Mr. President, I think it is safe to say that I confirm that.

MR. PRESIDENT: There are no further supplementaries. Would the Second Elected Member for George Town put his third question, please?

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

MR. 52: Would the Honourable Member provide separate comparative capital expenditure figures for Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac for the years 1985, 1986 and 1987?

Mr. President, I appreciate that some of this information has already been given.

ANSWER: Comparative capital expenditure for Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac for the years 1985, 1986 and 1987 are as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT:

We are certainly getting a lot of information this morning!

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. LINDFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, just to congratulate the Honourable First Official Member for a very comprehensive answer. Very well done.

MR. PRESIDENT:

That may not, however, prevent supplementaries! There appear to be no supplementaries. We are in no hurry of course, we have two minutes to go on question time. If there are no supplementaries I suggest we take our normal break now. Proceedings are suspended for approximately fifteen minutes.

Item 4. Government Business

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS
BILLS

THE LAND SURVEYOR'S (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987
FIRST READING

CLERK: THE LAND SURVEYOR'S (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT:

A Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Land Surveyor's Law, (Revised), 1987 is deemed to have been read the first time and is set down for the second reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE LAND SURVEYOR'S (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987.

HON. VASSIL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I beg to move the Second Reading of the Bill entitled The Land Surveyor's (Amendment) Law, 1987.

Mr. President, this is a very short Bill and the objects and reasons are set out in the Memorandum accompanying it. It reads:

"This Bill seeks to empower the Land Surveyor's Board by the insertion into the Land Surveyor's Law (Revised) of a proposed new section 8(2) to remove from the Register of Licenced Surveyors, the names of Licenced Surveyors who have died, whose licences have been revoked, or who, not being Caymanian, have not submitted a Survey of Authentication for the preceding twelve months."

Mr. President, the reasons are quite obvious in that if you have a board operating, performing a certain service, the board cannot properly function and carry out its purpose unless it has full membership, because very often in calling a board meeting you scarcely have a quorum. When there are people who are permanently not able to attend board meetings, then it makes it all the more difficult. Thus it was necessary to bring this amendment forward. You will notice that the people who would be struck off the Register of the Land Surveyor's Board are people who have died and those whose licences have been revoked, those persons who are not Caymanian, people who have perhaps left the Islands with no intention of returning or performing such duties in the Cayman Islands. And so it is recommended that they too be included as people who can be struck from the Register of the Board.

As I said, Mr. President, this is a very short Bill, to the point, and therefore I recommend it to Members here.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Land Surveyor's Law (Revised), 1987 be given a second reading. Does any Member wish to speak?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEE:

Mr. President, I would only like to say that with regard to clause 1 (c) of this Bill, the time during which a person can be struck off for not presenting a survey seems very short indeed, and it should be increased from 12 months to 36 months. I say this because it is common knowledge that a certain able surveyor was virtually pushed out of the Island because he dared to stand up to some of the irregularities carried out by certain Government departments, and now that he is gone his name could be struck from the Register with no hope of it ever being put back. I certainly feel that if this section of the Bill is intended to get rid of this individual, we should not allow it.

It seems reasonable that the Board should have the right to remove the name of a Licenced Surveyor who has died, or one whose licence has been revoked. But when it comes to taking away the licence from a person who has done no wrong and whose licence could not be revoked for any irregularity, it is unfair and unjust. I cannot support the Bill unless the time of 12 months is changed to give that particular individual or any other person who may be in such a position to present a survey in order to remain on the Register.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak?
Would the Honourable mover of the Bill wish to reply?

HON. VASSIL G. JOHNSON:

Yes, Mr. President. I cannot agree with the Member who spoke on this Bill by saying that the period of one year should be extended to 36 months. There, again, the Board will be faced with the same problem that it has met over the past.

It is interesting that the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town mentioned a particular case. What I would like to say to you, Mr. President, and to other Honourable Members here is that I too, at first, thought that it was an injustice to this particular individual that the Land Registry found that his work was very sub-standard and it decided that he should not be allowed to work here. It was after much investigation, Mr. President, not only by my Portfolio, but it was an investigation which took place with the Caymanian Protection Board, because his work permit was also at stake. No one did anything here until the Caymanian Protection Board made its pronouncement.

I am sure that if you go around town today, and ask certain people who had contracted work to this particular individual, you will hear some very awful stories of what happened. There is no doubt, Mr. President, in the minds of the Caymanian Protection Board and ours and in the minds now of other private citizens that the individual who is referred to in the debate of this Bill was a person who did not conduct his work in a very professional manner, and one who gave the Department very many problems.

Mr. President, if a person's permit or his licence is pulled, there is no reason why he cannot be reinstated if it is just a matter of being absent from the territory for a period of time. The question of his ability, and his qualification is not at stake. But quite honestly, Sir, when you have a non-Caymanian, who, after working here for some time, leaves the Island, bringing the Board short of members, I think it is reasonable for Government to propose that he be struck from the membership of the Board and somebody else put in his place. Mr. President, as I said, I cannot go along with the proposed amendment by the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, and so I would ask this Honourable House to give consideration to the Bill as it is presented.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I shall then now put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AYES AND NOES

THE WATER AUTHORITY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987
FIRST READING

CLERK: THE WATER AUTHORITY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT:

A Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to Amend the Water Authority Law, 1982 is deemed to have been read the first time and is set down for second reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE WATER AUTHORITY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

HON. YASSEL J. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I beg to Move, Sir the second reading of a Bill entitled The Water Authority Amendment Law, 1987.

In examining the Water Authority Law, which was introduced in 1983, and in relation especially to the functions governing stock matters and financial procedures - and I would say especially financial procedures - this matter was questioned by this Honourable House earlier this year when the Authority's Annual Report and financial statements were requested. But it was the view of Government that the provisions of the Water Authority Law dealing with these subjects, that is to say matters and financial procedures, be made similar to those provisions of the Civil Aviation Authority Law which was recently accepted by this Government.

Mr. President, the proposed amendments contained in this Bill would allow the Authority to better conform to procedures and standardise its administrative and financial procedures in a manner which would be acceptable to this Honourable House. And this is very timely, that is to say, in presenting this amendment, because of the fact that the Water Authority is now embarking on the sewerage project for the Seven Mile Beach and a water system for George Town which are two very important developments for this Island.

In the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons accompanying this Bill, we see there that beginning with clause 2, it says that the Bill seeks to amend the Water Authority Law by introducing provisions relating to the ability of members of the Authority for acts or defaults of the Authority. Mr. President, this carries the words exactly as they are found in section 10 of the Civil Aviation Authority Law, and I will just read what is in the Civil Aviation Authority Law, 1987, section 10. It says:

"No member of the Authority shall be personally liable for any act or default of the Authority done or omitted to be done in good faith in the course of the operations of the Authority." ...

... and we will find that those are the exact words contained in section 2 of this Bill to amend the Water Authority Law.

Going on to clause 3 of the Bill before us, Mr. President, the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons states that clause 3 seeks to confer on the Governor the power to second public officers in the terms and conditions therein mentioned for service with the Water Authority. Now the words of clause 3 of the Bill are exactly the words that are found in section 8(1) of the Civil Aviation Authority Law. And if Members would wish me to, I can read it. It says that:

"The Governor, in exercise of his own deliberate judgement and subject to such conditions as he may impose, may approve of the secondment of any public officer to service with the Authority."

That is in (a) of clause 3 and (b) of clause 3 also follows the words of section 8(2) of the Civil Aviation Authority Law, which reads:

"Any public officer seconded under subsection (1) shall, in relation to salary, pension, gratuity and the like and to other rights and to discipline, be treated as if he was not so seconded."

I am reading, Mr. President, from the Civil Aviation Authority Law, comparing the words there with the words in the Bill before us. No change, the same words, word for word.

Then we come to clause 4 of the bill before us, and those words are contained in section 11(2)(g) of the Civil Aviation Authority Law - word for word - if Members wish me to, I can read them. Then we go on to clause 5 of the Bill before us, and there again we find the same words, word for word, as they are in section 12(1) of the Civil Aviation Authority Law. It goes on to page 3 of the Bill before us.

And then, Mr. President, in the proposed new section 13(1) of clause 5 of the bill the words there are similar to the words in section 13(1) of the Civil Aviation Authority Law. The only difference in those words is that under section 13(1) of the Civil Aviation Authority Law we find that it begins "The Governor may, from time to time ...". Well, those words, "from time to time" are not included in the Bill before us, and that is the only difference between those two sections. In 13(2) of that same clause 5, we find again the same words as those in section 13(2) of the Civil Aviation Authority Law; in 13(3) also the same words as those in section 13(3) of the Civil Aviation Law; and in the proposed new section 14 of the same clause 5 are the same words, again, as found in section 14 of the Civil Aviation Law. And if there are any changes in the words, I will tell you, but they are word for word.

Over on page 4 of the Bill the proposed section 15 continues, and the words in the proposed new section 15(1) - "Reserve fund" - are again the same as those found in section 15(1) of the Civil Aviation Authority Law. The proposed new section 15(2) has the same words as those found in section 15(2) of the Civil Aviation Authority Law; and the proposed new section 16 has the same words that are found in section 16 of the Civil Aviation Authority Law. The new proposed section 17(1) contains the same words as found in section 17(1) and (2) of the Civil Aviation Authority Law. Proposed new section 18 - "Reports and accounts to be laid on table" - contains the same words as those found in section 18 of the Civil Aviation Authority Law.

Clause 6 of this bill, Mr. President, which is the last clause in the Bill before us, contains the same words as found in section 9 of the Civil Aviation Authority Law. Clause 6(1) of the Bill is a provision to give effect to the Authority for all its involvements over the years to its introduction, which was in April 1983. In other words, all the works and anything else that is owned by Government which were a part of the operation of the Water Authority are now vested in the Water Authority by virtue of clause 6(2) of this Bill.

I think, Mr. President, that it was the views expressed here that the Water Authority Law should be so structured as to provide especially for its accounts and report to be readily available year by year by this Honourable House. And so we went forward to arrange that the exact provisions of the Civil Aviation Authority Law be incorporated, by amendment, in the Water Authority Law.

And so I recommend the Bill to Honourable Members.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to Amend the Water Authority Law, 1982 be given its Second Reading.
Does any Member wish to speak?

MR. D. EZIARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I wish to support the Bill before the House, which proposes a number of amendments to the Water Authority Law, 1982. As the Member who has most bitterly and most vociferously complained about the lack of accounting procedure in the 1982 Water Authority Law, I am quite happy to see the proposed changes, and certainly give them my wholehearted support, especially 8G which requires the Authority to table their accounts along with a written report of its activities in this Honourable House, therefore giving accountability to its transactions to the public of this country.

Now, Mr. President, I am a bit concerned about the new proposed section 8A - 'Borrowing powers'. I would like to have seen those limited to capital expenditure by the Water Authority, but all the figures that I have been given over the years of which I have questioned the need and the justification for the Water Authority, indicates that the time shall never come, as I hope it will not, that the Water Authority should ever have to borrow funds for its recurrent expenditure.

So, Mr. President, with those few comments, I support the Bill before the Assembly.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak on this Bill?
I think, then, I shall ask the Honourable mover if he wishes to reply, although he was supported.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I would only like to remind Honourable Members that the Water Authority is a Government corporation, and that any of its acts must be in accordance with Government's policy and principle - in spite of the fact that the Authority operates under the provision of a Law. Careful wording has been given to the Bill as far as its borrowing powers are concerned, and this is, I would say, Mr. President, dealing with borrowing to finance capital projects. As far as its recurrent cost is concerned, until the present time Government has been meeting that from its public funds, but we hope that beginning next year, when the Authority moves into real business, we will be able to cover our expenses.

And not even that, Mr. President, let me say this, we have already asked Government for a schedule of all the monies that have been expended as that Authority and we intend to take this on board as a loan from Government. We hope that it will be interest free and we hope to provide a schedule of repayment over probably 20 to 25 years, depending on the amount it is. But it is the intention ... I see that the Honourable First Official Member is looking this way (LAUGHTER) ...

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:
President.

I am not certain about interest-free, Mr.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:
President, to repay all the money that has been loaned to the Authority.

... well, it is certainly our intention, Mr. President, to repay all the money that has been loaned to the Authority. Nonetheless, I would also say that as a public corporation, a Government corporation, all the surplus money available in the corporation must be paid over to Government's revenue at the end of the year too. So, the Government has the entire control of the operation and we will not be able to fiddle with the funds of the corporation because auditors will be in there to examine all that happens. We hope that one of these days it will grow to an institution which the Cayman Islands can be proud of.

Mr. President, I again request that Honourable Members give their support to this Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I shall now put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. THE WATER AUTHORITY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1982 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

THE REGISTERED LAND (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

CLERK: THE REGISTERED LAND (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT:

A Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to Amend the Registered Land Law (Revised) is deemed to have been read the first time, and is set down for second reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE REGISTERED LAND (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

MR. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to Amend the Registered Land Law (Revised).
Over two years ago, Mr. President, we took steps to ensure, or to verify and make clear to ourselves, that there were not companies taking advantage of the situation as regards stamp duty. That amendment which was passed in May of 1985 gave companies that were not registered in the Islands but were foreign companies the opportunity to register themselves and to pay the stamp duty on land that may have been held by them. That amendment also went on, Mr. President, to say that as of 30th September, which is a couple of months notice, May to 30th September, if that had not taken place, if the company did not register itself and be formally and legally operating within the Cayman Islands, then the land would vest in the Financial Secretary for the disposition of the Governor in Council.

Now over two years old we have not come across any cases and we are satisfied that this particular aspect of that amendment - the amendment still requires that a foreign company is not permitted to hold lands on these Islands, but section 154A(2) could be said to be expropriating land that belonged to some foreign corporation. With that in mind, Mr. President, it was certainly not the intention, and we just wanted to ensure that we were not being taken advantage of. We have spent two years monitoring the situation and we are now satisfied that this subsection (2) of 154A can be deleted, and I recommend it to Honourable Members.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Registered Land Law (Revised) be given a Second Reading.

Does any Member wish to speak?

MR. G. HACC BODDEN:

the House.

Mr. President, I am happy to see this Bill before

In 1985, I strongly objected to the amendments which were made to the principal Law on the grounds that they were confiscatory in nature and expropriated land which did not rightfully belong to Government. It was a blunder of the Government to have brought such a Bill to the House in 1985 and I am happy today that their consciences have pricked them and they are now willing to make amends. I hope I can live to see them correct some of the other blunders they have made.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Would any other Member wish to speak? Would the Member in charge wish to reply?

MR. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Yes, Mr. President. It is not often that I get an opportunity to thank the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town for agreeing with the Bill as put forward, so I would not want to miss it on this occasion!

I am not certain that I would call it a blunder, Mr. President. It was a step taken to ensure that we had proper control of what was going on in this country. Now that we are satisfied that we have control over it we are happy to put the amendment here deleting subsection (2) of section 154A, and I thank Honourable Members for their support.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I shall now put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. THE REGISTERED LAND (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987. GIVEN A SECOND READING.

MR. PRESIDENT:

As I understand Standing Orders, these three Bills, having passed their second reading, stand committed to a committee of the whole House on a date to be specified on the Order Paper.

We now proceed to item 4 of our business today - Private Members' Motions - Private Member's Motion No. 12/87. The Elected Member for East End, please.

OTHER BUSINESS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 12/87
MOTION TO RECTIFY PROBLEMS OF CASH DEPOSITS AT HOSPITALS ON ADMISSION

MR. JOHN J. McLEAN:

Mr. President, I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 12/87 standing in my name, which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS there have been certain restrictions placed at the hospital with regard to a deposit having to be made before someone is admitted;

WHEREAS this restriction is creating some hardship for certain people of these islands, as no one can plan when they will become sick;

WHEREAS not everyone has a chequing account or may not have the necessary money at hand at the time of sickness;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that this Honourable House agree to take the necessary steps to have this matter rectified by:

- (1) allowing the sick person in need of admittance to be admitted immediately;
- (2) by determining thereafter the financial status of such sick person; and
- (3) thereafter by billing such person if it is determined that any expenses incurred can be met."

MR. LINCOLN A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I second the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Private Member's Motion 12/87 has been duly moved and seconded. Would the mover wish to speak to it?

MR. JOHN I. McLEAL:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, let me say that this motion has been brought as a result of complaints I have received from persons in various parts of the Island.

I have received many complaints where such as are in the motion have occurred, but I do not wish to have the persons' names on the floor of the House. Mr. President, no one can plan his or her sickness - this is a fact of life. Therefore it is almost impossible to think that whenever someone becomes sick a cash deposit can always be at hand.

Quite recently I was told of someone who was taken to the George Town Hospital because they had had a blackout at work. On arrival, a deposit of $300 was demanded before the person was attended to. I believe, Mr. President, that in a case like this it would be very hard to assess if this was a non-emergency case without having the person admitted and properly observed.

I would like to divert slightly to the answer given this morning to a question which was asked here - I would like to say that it is not as smooth as we were led to believe in the answer given to the question. What I am saying here is no hearsay - I got this from the horse's mouth - this complaint was brought to me by the individual who experienced this at the Hospital. I would say that the delay could have cost that person's life - yes the family member accompanying him had to go around and collect the $300 from a friend, so that he could have the person admitted.

Now, another point I would like to touch on is the fact that at the end of his stay in hospital the bill did not amount to the deposit, therefore a refund should have been given, I would think, on the day the person was leaving. This, again, I feel is an injustice to the person - this is a poor person who was almost harassed to find $300, yes it has been three or four months now, and they have not been able to get their refund.

Mr. President, Carman is no longer what it was 20 years ago. We have to be realistic about this. Some people say it all comes with progress. Our homes today are no longer as safe as they were 20 years ago. Therefore even if a poor person has $300 or more, it is impossible to believe that he or she would have this lying around the house. The first thing they would think about is lodging it in the bank, and as we all know the bank hours are Monday through Friday. Therefore if such a case was to come about at the weekend it would be almost impossible to expect a poor individual to push his hands in his pockets and come out with $300. Each time the Second Elected Member for George Town and myself mention this in the House we are ridiculed, but we have to face facts and remember that these Islands still have people whom we may term as 'little people - the less fortunate people', and this is a fact. We as Legislators must protect them, not pressure them.

Mr. President, I have to apologise, I have a cold and I tend to keep coughing.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I assure you, you are making yourself very clear.

MR. JOHN I. McLEAL:

Mr. President, let me say that I am aware that as much as possible, we have to collect hospital fees, but in whatever we do we must use discretion and it seems as though proper discretion is not being used in this case.

It was very distressing to talk to an old lady the other day who said to me that she would rather 'stay at home and punish' than go to the hospital and be insulted or be talked to roughly because she could not put her hand in her pocket and find $300. Now regardless of what might have been said here this morning, I believe that somebody needs to be talked to and things put in place, because I know that sometimes in small communities you can hear gossip, but what I am saying here is no gossip - I am basing my argument on facts. I believe, Sir, that health should come first, and I would like to quote here from the Governor of the State of Wyoming, Jack Ruess, when he said:

"In the riches of life, health has to come first. Then the privilege of working at an occupation you can enjoy."

Let us think of our people's health; let us think of which is more important - the people's health or a cash deposit - and I will leave that one with the Members.

Mr. President, too often I believe that we tend to compare our little Islands with the bigger powers that be such as the United States. I have heard it said many times that if that person went to the United States, before the doctor touches him or her, a deposit would have to be put down. That is sickness that we can say that can be planned for, such as if somebody needs to have surgery, they are advised that they can plan to have some money put aside. It is completely different from what I am talking about at the hospital. Therefore we cannot compare the two. Furthermore, we must realise that we are considered foreigners when we go to the United States. If that was a U.S. citizen, I assure you that he or she would be treated, regardless of if it was paid from Medicare, or whatever - they would have the treatment that was necessary. So why should we pressure our own people in their own land?

Mr. President, I know that there are some Members who tend to take issues such as this one on the floor of the House as a political football spending most of their debate in mudslinging the Member who presents the issue, but I am going to ask today that instead of ridiculing me or mudslinging that we take that time and have this matter rectified. This is a serious matter, and the longer we leave it, the worse it is going to get.

Let me again say, Mr. President, that when I bring a matter here to the floor of this House it is not something I am bringing to waste the time of the House or the time of Members. I bring it here for no reason but to benefit the people of these Islands, and I am sure the Secunder of this Motion has the same thing in mind. Let me stress that the majority of Caymanians are a proud people and especially where sickness is concerned he or she believes in paying their way - so why should we have such a restriction that will create a hardship for our people? I would say it is bad enough to be sick, but can you imagine being argued with, or ridiculed, or insulted, when you should be getting proper care and attention?

I would go on to say, Mr. President, that I know that this motion is based on three specific issues in its resolve section, but I would urge those with responsibility for the hospital to look into it a little further because I have received numerous complaints besides what I brought in this motion that I believe should be attended to immediately.

In conclusion, let me say that I hope this will be looked at as a national issue and that immediate steps will be taken to have it rectified. I appeal to each and every Member of this Legislative Assembly to give this motion their fullest support.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any Member wish to speak?

The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. EZIARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I wish to oppose the motion before the Assembly. I am at a loss to determine the motives behind it.

The mover of the Motion, like myself and the Secunder, is a member of the Public Accounts Committee - and the Secunder is the Chairman. The Public Accounts Committee has met and reported annually since it was appointed in 1984, unlike previous Public Accounts Committees; but the significance is that in each of its reports it has recommended that Government attack the problem of unpaid hospital fees at the hospital at the point of entry. Mr. President, at the point of entry means a deposit system at the hospital. It is quite clear in the policies handed out this morning is answer to a question that these deposits are required and asked for in non-emergency medical cases.

Mr. President, a medical emergency is defined as a threat to loss of limb or life. That is the medical definition of a medical emergency. People in emergency cases at the hospital, according to my information, are admitted and treated and it is only reasonable in this day and age - I agree that we are not living in the Cayman of 20 years ago - that people be asked to make a deposit for routine non-emergency health care, or to pay. This is nothing new. The Public Accounts Committee recommended it in its 1984 and 1985 reports. The Government minute of that year accepted it, and decided to act on it. It was recommended again in 1986 because they had not met our satisfaction in implementing the system.

Now, Mr. President, I would not deny that there may be some administrative problems in the collection of deposits, but that is no reason to bring a motion saying that the system should be dispensed with. And I can assure the Member moving the motion that in the good old free United States, where I happen to be a licensed hospital administrator in four states, if you do not pay, if you do not provide some mechanism to pay, you do not get treated - emergency or non-emergency. The biggest problem is that country with Medicare and medical insurances in the late 1970's was the fact that people were left to die halfway inside emergency rooms in many private and public hospitals because nobody could ascertain at what point Medicare and insurance companies became responsible for the bill. So that part of his information is incorrect.

Mr. President, I believe the policies and the policies that require this deposit system were in place from the late 1970s at the hospital. I was an employee there at the time and I was part and parcel of the policies which were developed which required it. Unfortunately, for whatever reason, it was not implemented, but, certainly, it was in the policies and guidelines which were issued that it should be done. Now, whether those reasons were political or administrative, or whatever, I am not certain, but I could not with a clear conscience, with consistency in the positions that I have taken regarding public finance and the protection of the Treasury in this country, support this Motion - especially having been a party to the Committee which, as it were, forced and cajoled and demanded that Government implemented the system of deposits. I cannot, Sir, for any reason, political or otherwise, now ask Government to retrench that position which I have always believed to be the correct and proper way.

The people of this country have to realise that Government cannot continue to expend millions and millions of dollars on health care and collect no fees, or very little. The accounts of the Auditor General, the reports of the Public Accounts Committee and the Government minutes over the last three years have clearly shown that there is an astonishing amount of fees that are uncollectable. In fact, Sir, the only thing that the increase in fees in the past has done - because these decisions were not taken either administratively or politically - and enforced - has increased the uncollectable fees, and the record will clearly demonstrate this - there has been an escalating uncollectable fee at the hospital for the last seven to ten years.

Mr. President, as I said, I am satisfied that the protection lies in the policies for the 'little people' or the less fortunate in this country. There are adequate provisions in that policy and adequate guidelines and procedures in Government for those people to be adequately protected. We may need to improve the administrative running of the machinery to expedite this system, but again that is no reason to put us back where we were in the past with people wandering into the hospital, getting their medical care, saying "Good day, gentlemen", leaving no address, and everything else.

Mr. President, we have to be very careful in this country and increasingly more vigilant and realistic as to what this country can continue to hand out to its people.

Mr. President, I cannot support the motion before the Assembly for reasons which I have explained.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINCOLN A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, it really was not my intention to speak on this Bill, because I felt it was quite clear and even the most uninitiated should have understood it.

It is my opinion, Sir, that the speaker just before me is completely lost as to the resolve section of this motion. He says that the motion seeks to destroy the system. Mr. President, with his four states in the United States where he is qualified as a hospital administrator, it seems that there is still something lacking because I understand the resolve section of this motion to read very clearly. It says:

"BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that this Honourable House agree to take the necessary steps to have this matter rectified by:

(1) allowing a sick person in need of admittance to be admitted immediately;"....

... this is not destroying the system.

"(2) determining thereafter the financial status of such sick person;".

This is also, Mr. President, reasonable, and something that from a humanitarian point of view would be expected. This is not destroying the system. The third point, Mr. President, states:

"(3) thereafter, by billing such sick person if it is determined that any expenses incurred can be met."

Mr. President, fortunately for the mover and myself, we are both in a position to read, and read very well. Fortunately, in an answer given this morning, we were also given the current 1987 hospital fees' policies, and I will also be referring to them as I move on.

But my question, Mr. President, is where is the social conscience of Members who get up in this House and so disdainfully refer to the 'little people', those less fortunate than ourselves? I have often referred to the 'little people' in this House because I recognise them. I love them, they are a part of me, they are a part of the Cayman Islands; but alas, these same little people that form the majority of our population are only known by some of the Members here when election time comes around.

Mr. President, I wish to congratulate the mover of this motion and to give it my full support. He has done a wonderful job. It took some amount of courage to get up in here and move this motion because ever so often we find that there are certain self-made experts who get up in this House and their only true answer is the answer that they give - they are qualified from this place and that place, therefore that makes them experts in every field. I understand that a certain Member of this House who falls in that category was seen a few days ago up at the water plants directing the engineers as to how they should do things. So I am not amazed that these experts will get up in here and try to formulate all the policies for Government. And we know that the objection against this Motion is basically because some of these policies were made with the cooperation of certain Members.

Mr. President, since 1984 certain backbenchers have been able to get a lot of support from the Government bench, regardless of how ridiculous a motion or matter is, and one such support has to do with the hospital policies. I can assure you I will make my debate very relevant and I will keep coming back to the subject before us. But the restriction placed at the hospital with regards to a deposit having to be paid before someone is admitted in all cases cannot be correct. This is not right. And I would like, Mr. President, to refer to the hospital policies which we have received here in this Honourable House this morning. It states, "Current 1987 Hospital Fees Policy". But before going into these, Mr. President, I will admit that, yes, I am the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, and yes, we have had to write off fees over the years. But this would imply, or indicate to me that the reason why the Finance Committee so readily wrote these off was because they fell in the category of very bad debts, and because the people involved could not pay them. This was the reason. It was not out of conflict that I am writing off or recommending that certain fees be written off, and here I am saying that the fees should not be forced on somebody if it is an emergency case. We have two different situations.

Mr. President, as I move on, I will point out exactly what I am saying.

"B(1): Patients are advised that fees are payable for medical consultation whether or not medication is prescribed.

B(1)(b): Individuals entitled to free medical care shall be exempted."

But, Mr. President, those individuals are still to be documented. How many of our people in this country who are not in a position to pay have been documented - have had their names placed on the computer - so that when they go to the hospital they can get immediate access to their names? The people admitting at the registration desk, admitting them, or collecting deposits, will know that Mr. X, Y or Z, is unable to pay. How long will it take for the Social Services Department, together with the Portfolio for Health, Education and Social Services, to carry out a proper survey to determine those persons who are in need? Yes, the policies are here, we are aware of that. But how workable are these policies?

Mr. President, I submit that if somebody goes to hospital, by the time it could be found out whether or not they could pay, time would have elapsed that could cause their death. Is this the type of policy that is most appropriate to the people of the Cayman Islands?

Mr. President, I further submit that the policies here are not workable - they are ineffectual. And the point is, the poor people as a result are suffering. We are told that, yes, the policies are there and you must abide by them. The Elected Member from North Side stated that it could not be done in the United States. Perhaps he forgets that he is representing a constituency in Grand Cayman, not the United States. We are interested in the people of the Cayman Islands. There are not a lot of our people who fall into the category that cannot pay, but for those who cannot pay, let us not deny them the opportunity to get medical attention.

Mr. President, I rarely get up in this House before researching any information I wish to speak on, so in this connection, I in fact spoke to a doctor at the hospital. I am satisfied that some of the doctors will admit patients for emergency cases regardless as to whether or not they are able to pay. You have heard the Member from North Side. There are others who will stick by the rules. We could have some of our people dying as a result. We are Caymanians. We believe in the Caymanian way. We do not want to have thrust on us the rules, the customs and the cultures of the United States or any other country.

I realise that there is a problem with the collection of hospital fees, I was aware of this long before I was made the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee. My records will show that I also fill some very senior positions in Government, so I did not have to be appointed the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee to appreciate this problem. I was also Principal Secretary for Health, Education and Social Services and I had the same problem there. I am aware of the problem, but, Mr. President, I also have a heart.

If a proper survey was carried out it should not take a long time. Government seems to be able to get experts from everywhere to do everything - even counting parrots and advising on crocodiles - so why should we not be able to get the necessary help if a survey is needed to determine those who may not be in a financial position to pay hospital fees? This would result in the necessary passes being issued for those who are unable to pay. But let us not look down at those people, let us not disdainfully refer to them, let us not hold an axe over their heads and say they must die or die. What kind of country are we creating here?

In years gone by, Mr. President, the hospital worked very closely with the Social Services Department. I remember the days when the hospital could get on the phone to Mrs. Joyce Hylton and she had everything at her fingertips. She could tell them that Miss X, Y, Z or Mr. A, B, C needed attention. We are now in the computer age because we have advanced that far, but have we not conducted a proper survey and placed that information on our computer system? I am not asking that this information be kept in the heads of the people within that section, but I would say that it is our responsibility, and particularly the responsibility of the Honourable Member for Health, Education and Social Services, that this matter be given very urgent attention.

Mr. President, I could not and will not support any move that would seek to harm our people or to deprive them of their rights. A person needing to be admitted into hospital, as the mover said, cannot always determine when he is going to be sick. I wish that was possible for then we could all save for the day that we wished to be sick. We are talking about emergency cases. We are talking about treating our people. We are living in a democracy. We are not in Russia or Cuba, or some other communist country. We are in the Cayman Islands where we love the Caymanian way and where we love our people. Mr. President, certainly any objection to this motion would not indicate in any way that we really loved the people that we represent. There are many people in this country that cannot afford even a seal. I know this because I relate to a lot of these people. Some of the Members here would not know about this because the only time they see them is a few months before election, but, Mr. President, I see these people every day, and I know I can fully support the mover's motion because what he is saying here is true. People have been to me with the same problems. They do not have enough money to pay the fee, but yet they are told they must. I have had to take money out of my pocket to give to people and this is no fabrication, I never tell lies in this House or elsewhere. This is the truth; the hospital refused to give them attention and they needed it very badly.

Mr. President, let us not be so pig-headed in this House that we cannot accept anything coming from the opposition side. I do not expect that this motion is going to be accepted, in the same way that I do not expect other motions will be accepted in this House. But the people of this country will see that we, the Members of this side of the House, are trying our best, even though our hands are tied. We are trying our best and when you do your best not even angels can do better. I notice I am coming near to the time, Mr. President, and I assure you ...

MR. PRESIDENT:
say, three or four minutes?

Excuse me, how are you placed; can you complete it,

MR. LINCOLN A. PIERSON:

Yes, Sir, thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please do.

MR. LINCOLN A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I believe that if the Government bench, and indeed, Members of this Honourable House, would consider more the interests of our people and less the political ramifications and implications of actions taken here we would be much better off. In particular, Sir, if the Government bench would not take so much advice from certain self-made experts in this House we would be much better off.

The mover of this motion, Mr. President, said that the motion was brought as a result of complaints, not only from the people of East End, but indeed from people of various parts of the Island and probably a lot of them came from North Side because it would seem that they could not otherwise deal with this matter. But regardless from where they came - whether they are from Cayman Brac or any of the districts in Grand Cayman - they are still Caymanians; they are still a part of us.

Mr. President, I was disturbed to learn from the mover that a patient who had almost been refused admittance into the hospital was also denied a refund of the excess deposit he had paid, and three months after he or she is still waiting to get this. Is this the efficient system that the Elected Member from North Side refers to? In my book that is no efficiency. There are many other areas directly relevant to hospital fees that could be touched on - one comes to mind - exemptions made to people who are able to pay. But alas, I should have taken your offer to speak longer on this, I would have had the time. Mr. President, I do not think I am going to finish by 11.45 p.m. I would like to go on with this, with your indulgence, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I indeed, but as you nearly said yourself, there are other areas which I think might fall outside the ambit of this particular motion. But you will be continuing after the break.

We will suspend now for lunch and return at about 2:20 p.m. Thank you very much.

AT 11:50 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 1:19 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated. The Second Elected Member for

George Town.

MR. LINCOLN A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

When we adjourned for lunch I was dealing with the current 1987 hospital fees' policies and the fact that the actual application of these policies is causing hardships on some of our people, on the less fortunate members of our Islands' communities.

Mr. President, I wish to make it abundantly clear that neither the mover of this motion nor myself wish to dismantle the present system regarding the hospital fees' policies. Anyone reading the motion will clearly see what we hope to get through introducing this Motion. Needless to say, I am sure that the people of the Cayman Islands recognise both the Elected Member for East End and myself as responsible people, and I do not think that anybody would think, other than maybe certain Members of this House, that we would want to dismantle the system. So I want to make that abundantly clear. The motion seeks to change the procedures of the hospital collecting deposits from the general public, and recognising those individuals less fortunate amongst us who may not be in a position to find the necessary funds in an emergency.

In the preamble to the motion, Mr. President, it is stated that the restrictions placed at the hospital with regards to a mandatory deposit having to be made before someone is admitted is causing hardship. It is causing hardship, Sir, for the little people, for those less fortunate amongst us. Why is it so difficult for Government to agree to take the necessary steps to rectify this problem? I hope that I am not preempting the good intentions of the Honorable First Elected Member of Executive Council because maybe he intends to support this motion. And if it is his intention to support this motion I convey to him my very sincere apologies. But we will see - he has just whispered that he intends to give us some support. The members of the public will see whether he is a man of his word. We all heard him say he will give us support. So let us see what he will do.

Why should the motion be brushed under the carpet? Mr. President, it is a simple motion. It is not asking that the hospital fees' policies be abandoned. It is not asking that the system be dismantled. It is showing in the preamble that because of the hardships to a certain group of people certain actions should be taken. Why should very sick people coming into the hospital sit there and suffer because it takes some while for them to be processed - for their financial status to be determined before a means test can be carried out? Give them immediate attention - where are they going to rest? We are asking that some amount of reasonableness be brought to bear in this matter. I wonder, Mr. President, if this motion would have been so vociferously attacked had it not been presented by one of the Members from this side of the House.

Mr. President, again - and I must stress this because sometimes it is a habit in this House to misquote people - I would like to make it abundantly clear to avoid any misunderstanding that this motion is not to seek to make void or to nullify the present policies, but rather to enhance the operations of those policies and to ensure that the interests of our people, not just the chosen few, but all our people are uppermost in mind and protected at all times.

Mr. President, on even the most casual, cursive view of this motion it is quite clear that all that is being sought is to establish a more reasonable and practical procedure for all Caymanians and for all individuals having to use our hospital - regardless of the financial standing of these individuals. Oh, yes, Mr. President, I am going to be told I did not read the policies properly, because the policy states so and so. But I submit that a policy, law or any regulation is only as practicable and workable, and as only worthwhile as its possible implementation. If these policies are hard to implement then they are worthless.

Mr. President, I would again strongly recommend that a survey be undertaken to determine the financial standing of those individuals in need who may request medical attention at our hospital. By no means should any member of the public again be denied medical care at the George Town Hospital, mainly and on the basis that that individual is unable to pay, or unable to find the money at the time of the emergency. As I stated, Sir, I do not think that this occurs in all cases with doctors at the hospital, but it has in the past occurred. It only needs to occur one time for us to have a fatality as a result, and it probably will be brought home most forcefully to the Members how unrealistic the policies are.

We must also, Mr. President, understand that unfortunately in the Cayman Islands we have only one hospital which is a Government hospital. We do not have any private hospitals. Because of this, we have to cater to the needs of all our people regardless of their station in life, regardless of the ethnic, financial, or other situation in life, we have to cater to all our people. Those who can afford to pay should not be exempted - I am not talking about those people - but there should be a system so that we can ascertain those individuals who can pay. Unfortunately, many of the fees that we have had to write off have been in respect of people who could pay. But the system neglected to collect from these people. Yet the poor people who cannot pay are being penalised.

Mr. President, in the contribution made by the Elected Member for North Side he said, and I quote: "I am at a loss to determine the motives behind the motion". I cannot speak for the mover, but knowing him the way I do, I know that like myself, he has the purest of motives. His motive, like mine, I am sure, is in the interest of our people. I think it would be well for us if we do not read political ambitions and motives in everything that happens in this House. Some of us still have our social conscience, Mr. President, some of us still have a heart, and this is what it is all about. When we have retired from being politicians I hope that we can still earn the respect of the people of the Cayman Islands. For the world of me, Mr. President, I cannot understand why he or any other Member should have any difficulty in understanding such a basic, straightforward Motion. No complications involved. And with the professed intelligence I hear voiced in this House, there should be no problem in understanding it. Any sixth standard child should understand it. It is quite straight forward, unless, of course, Mr. President, as I hope is not the case, he is deliberately reading a lot of complications into this motion. I do not think that this is the case, and I hope not. But God help us in the Cayman Islands and in this Legislature if we are ever denied our democratic right to speak in this House - God help us.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Excuse me, excuse me one moment. Nobody has implied that you are going to be or have been denied those rights. I think that should be made clear.

MR. LINEOLD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, with respect to you, Sir, if you would give yourself time to hear my Motion you would understand exactly what I am saying.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am glad you have taken your seat. Thank you. Would any other Member wish to speak.

MR. LINEOLD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I am not through speaking, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Would you take your seat again, and I will then say something?

I would be grateful if the Member would not take offense so easily. I was pointing out that it is not polite to impugn the motives or character of Members of the House when, insofar as I have been Chairman here, they have not been brought into question.

Please resume.

MR. LINEOLD A. PIERSON:

Thank you very much, Mr. President. And I am very happy you reminded me of the Standing Orders, with which I am fully conversant.

Mr. President, as I said, God help us if we ever get to the stage where we are denied our democratic right.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I ask you to be seated. May I ask you to be seated? You are repeating the subject matter which I called to attention, which I thought you had graciously accepted. Please would you stick to the subject.

MR. LINEOLD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I will not at all take offence at your ruling, and I graciously bow to your ruling, Sir, because, as is my intention, I want to be fully cooperative with the Chair. Thank you, Sir.

Mr. President, I fully support this motion because I feel that it is in the best interests of our people, and in summing up, I would wish to reiterate the substance of this motion and to state specifically why I support it.

The preamble to the motion states that there have been certain restrictions on the hospital. Nobody has yet denied this, so this is a fact. These restrictions exist.

The further preamble to the motion states that these restrictions are creating hardships. Nobody has yet been able to deny that. Therefore, Mr. President, if it is accepted that the restrictions at the hospital are causing some amount of distress to our people then the motion is properly in order for us to ask this Honourable House to look into these matters which are creating such hardships and to allow a sick person in need of admittance on an emergency basis to be admitted into the hospital. Mr. President, we are talking about Cayman, we are not talking about the United States of America, we are not talking about the United Kingdom or any other foreign country. We are talking about the Cayman Islands - to admit a sick person into our Cayman Islands' hospital if that person needs attention and does not have the money. This is what we are talking about. And we are further stating, so as to be within reason, that the financial status of that person should be obtained subsequent to this if that person needs immediate attention. But, Mr. President, I suggested earlier in my debate that the proper way to go about this is to conduct a survey that would determine the financial status of those individuals that would fall in that category, and thereafter, Mr. President, to bill those people.

Mr. President, in closing may I thank you, Sir, for the opportunity to debate this Motion, and I feel, Sir, that as reasonable and honourable men in this House we will give this very serious consideration, because it is our duty as representatives of our people to protect their interests.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak?
The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, I rise to speak on Private Members' Motion No. 12/87 in respect of a motion to rectify problems of cash deposits at hospitals on admittance.

I would hope that my contribution here would be rather short, but although I had not intended earlier to speak on the motion, I felt constrained, Sir, to make a few remarks here inasmuch as I am also a Member of the Public Accounts Committee.

The Public Accounts Committee is fully aware of the current policies set down with regards to hospital fees. It was the feeling and the recommendation of members of that Committee that bearing in mind the very large amount of outstanding hospital fees, which certainly caused us more concern than any other one item which we had to discuss, we felt that the policies in hand certainly had to be strictly adhered to. So the motion having been brought to the House does puzzle me somewhat.

However, I would like to bring to Members' attention that having listened to the debate, I am not sure exactly what the Elected Member for East End was told by the individual about having been requested to pay a fee upon admittance. However, looking over the revised hospital fees' policy here, I notice that for an emergency it is only a $30 fee and not $300 which is the figure as I understood he mentioned in his debate, and rather $300 is what is paid up front for major surgery - and this is for routine hospitalisation, which, I guess, a patient knows of beforehand. Also mention was made, Sir, of a recommendation for a survey to be carried out, and in this respect I would like to bring to Members' attention while at the same time congratulating the Honourable Member responsible for Health Education and Social Services, but I notice that between 1979 and 1981 the list of free patients was renewed annually, whereas the 1987 policies have in place that the list of free patients is now reviewed monthly with Social Services and Personnel Department. This would seem to indicate to me that a proper survey is continually being carried out with regards to those persons who would be eligible for free medical care.

I would also like to point out that provision is made here in section 3 of the hospital fees' policies that where necessary in-patients will sign a promissory note to Government before being discharged. This would seem to indicate to me that there is a policy in place whereby a person can be admitted who perhaps does not have the funds up front, and having made this clear to the doctor or the admitting officer in charge, this can be done at a later date by signing a promissory note.

There are also other areas here, and I know, Mr. President, that it is highly unlikely that persons plan to be sick - I think very few people do - however, I personally feel that the policies currently in force provide adequately for cases of emergency. Having lived abroad for four or five years, believe me when I say that I believe we have policies which are amongst the best in the world for medical care I say this without reservation. I would also like to say here, Sir, that during our debates and discussions in the Public Accounts Committee I found the expertise and advice of the Elected Member for North Side invaluable because of his background knowledge of the subject at hand, and I would like to say that I appreciate all that he has been able to assist us with in that regard.

Mr. President, I cannot support the Motion. I feel that the policies in place are adequate. I feel that our people are well looked after. There is clearly an on-going effort by the Social Services Department to update the list of those persons who are eligible for free medical care; and, believe me, I have no doubt in my mind that a person would be permitted to lie in the emergency room of the Cayman Islands Hospital and die because somebody did not have a cheque to offer the admitting officer at that time. I do not think that the Motion is necessary. I do want to thank the Elected Member for East End for his interest, but I do not think that the Motion is necessary at this time.

However, before closing my debate I want to say that I question Government's policy as regards the lengthy delays in refunds being made to those persons who have paid a deposit up front. I see no reason why there should be any undue delay. I have had complaints, not only in this area, Mr. President, but in other areas as well including the Caymanian Protection Board, of persons who have found they have waited quite some time in order to get their refunds. In this respect I would also wish to question what Government's policy is with regard to deposits paid up front? But I do not find it possible to support the motion and I thank you for allowing me this time to make these few brief remarks.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Before inviting other Members to speak, I do not know whether you feel as hot as I do, and whether you would think you might wish to remove your jackets. Entirely up to you, I will follow your example.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

That is the evil forces, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Would any other Member wish to speak on this Motion?

The Honourable First Elected Member of Executive

Council?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Mr. President, I was hoping that I would hear all of those other Members who did not intend to speak make their contribution before I was called on to make mine. But seeing that no-one else ...

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

If the Honourable Member cares to give way, I will speak, Sir - because he might enlighten me.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for West Bay - would you wish to give way to him?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

If he would like to make a contribution, Sir, I will give way.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I cannot assess whether it will be a contribution, that is up to him.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay then.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, yes, I wish to speak. I do not think I have ever stood on my feet in this house without making some contribution to the debate at hand.

Mr. President, this question of hospital fees and Government's policy has not entirely been settled in my mind. I have had queries and questions and requests for help for a long time even before I was a Member of this House because policies had been set in place from 1975. I believe that in 1976 there was a demonstration, I would put it, against fees, certain fees, and how they were paid and how much they were, and again in 1979 there was some reorganisation of hospital fees. So there has been a long history concerning these fees, and as I said it has not yet been settled in my mind why there are people who are experiencing difficulties when they go to the hospital for treatment. Mr. President, I believe that the Elected Member for East End is correct in saying that there are people who have experienced problems. Thank you, Mr. President, it could be that there have been administrative problems and also administrative mistakes made.

I am a representative, Mr. President, who does not believe in putting any great and sometimes unnecessary strain on the people of these Islands, no matter what Government's excuse is. With all this talk about situations and policies in other countries we cannot always take as examples those policies with regard to health services, because, for instance, in the United States medical services, I believe, are private enterprises with their own set standards and costs. What we are dealing with is a Government-run hospital, and Government, Mr. President, is the protector of the people.

When the question of money spent or money saved comes up we must take into consideration the position of our people. However, I can understand the problem Government is faced with when it comes to payment of bills. I am not a Member of the Public Accounts Committee. I was not one of the chosen few to be put on that Committee, however, I have been invited to sit there sometimes. But I am a Member of the Standing Finance Committee and I know and have witnessed the large amounts that have been written off that, I should say, non-residents owe this country which have not been paid. I feel, Mr. President, that there has to be a method of distinguishing the difference between persons actually living on the Island with a living address, not a postal address, persons that we have jurisdiction over. There has to be a distinction between that person and the tourist who just comes into the country to get free medical treatment - and this has happened. So, Mr. President, my support on this motion would be conditional.

The resolved section of this motion is the part we have to deal with and which is going to get action. The resolved section says that the House agree to take steps to rectify certain positions by allowing a sick person in need of admittance to be admitted immediately. As I understand it, this is already the case; this already takes place. It goes on to state: "(2) by determining thereafter the financial status of such sick persons; and (3) thereafter by billing such sick persons if it is determined that any expense incurred can be met." The mover of the Motion specifically pointed out that he is dealing, if my understanding is correct, with indigenous people.

I asked the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council to give way because he has information at hand and he can tell the House what the position is. Information that I do not have, he would have and I hope that information will be forthcoming in order that we can make a better decision on the motion. However, I believe that we have to take into consideration, as I said before, the difference between a person living here so we can get to them in our jurisdiction and we can bill them. People cannot come in and receive free medical treatment and just leave. So I believe that where a patient can sign a written contractual agreement immediately prior to receiving medical services, or, as I say, show a living address, that person could be given treatment without having to put up any great amount of money.

I had an experience recently myself - someone near and dear to me had to be taken to the hospital and they were asked whether they could pay. The conversation did not get any further because right away we said payment was not the problem, we want treatment. And so, we told her, yes we could pay, and the person was admitted. I think there needs to be some clear understanding of what the position is. There are these health policies, but as I said before there are administrative errors and bangles that need to be straightened out. I will wait, Mr. President, to hear from the Honourable First Elected Member responsible for this subject what his position is. This is one of the reasons why I asked this question this morning was because I needed information.

Having said that, Mr. President and being that this is the first time I have spoken today, I would like to say that on the occasion of your swearing in ceremony, we as Members personally had not the opportunity of welcoming you to this House which you now preside over, and I would crave the indulgence of the House to welcome you on my part. You will find, Sir, that your seat is a hot one and that is so because all of us in this House are human beings and prone to make mistakes. I should hasten to say that my seat is a hot one too and that is so because of the great responsibility I have to my people. And so, Mr. President, I pray that patience and tolerance will not be lacking from the Chair, and that always I may get a fair hearing from the Chair. I would add that that would be a little bit more than I received from your immediate predecessor, and I, on my part, will endeavour always to be courteous to and reasonable with you. So, simply put, Sir, if you do your part, I will do mine. That is my welcome to you Sir. Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you very much, that was very kind of you. I shall do my best to do my part also.

The Honourable First Elected Member gave way to the Second Elected Member for West Bar. Would you now wish to continue?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Yes, Sir, unless anybody else wants to speak. But I am prepared to go on now, Sir.

Mr. President, having listened to the debate, or most of the debate on this motion, it seems to me that the problem, if there is a problem that is seeking to be addressed, could have been more effectively and simply handled by a visit to the Portfolio of Health, Education and Social Services and some of the information which we have heard bandied about the floor here passed on to the Principal Secretary. And maybe, particularly in the case of the person who has not had the refund, that could have been accomplished by now, if nothing else.

I must say, Sir, that I am surprised to see the motion before the House, surprised especially that it should be brought by the Elected Member for East End because he is a Member of the Public Accounts Committee, and that it should be seconded by the Second Elected Member for George Town, he being the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee. That Committee, Mr. President, has consistently and repeatedly recommended since its inception in 1984 to use their own words, "that every effort be made to determine methods of payment of hospital fees at the point of entry rather than when the patient is released from the hospital". That recommendation was substantially repeated in every report that has been presented to this House, and, Mr. President, it is unfortunate that this debate is taking place before the presentation of the Report of the Public Accounts Committee, which will be done later in this Sitting. I cannot go further because of Standing Orders, but Members will understand when they read that Report where I am coming from, and I hope that the press will take the opportunity to relay it to the public. But in that connection, Mr. President, I can say that it is my information that as a result of the introduction of the deposit requirement in January of this year, that to the end of June approximately $150,000 more has been collected than was collected in the similar period last year and I believe that this has pleased some people tremendously.

Much has been said about the policies regarding the fees. The first recommendation of the Public Accounts Committee, when it was commenting in the accounts for the year ended 31st December 1984, under paragraph 30 - Revenue, sub-head 63-10 - Hospital fees, said:

"The Committee recommends that Government take necessary action to ensure that hospital fees, as outlined in the Portfolio directives, be collected."

And those directives, Mr. President, which I circulated with the answer to the question this morning state substantially exactly what the position is in those that are given for 1987. I said when I answered the question that the one for 1987 was merely, except in a few instances, updating the amounts as contained in the fees' regulations 1983 and 1985. But if Members will refer to the policies which were published in 1979, section 24B, subsection (2), one will see that it says that fees are payable on registration at the Records Office before seeing the doctor, or by appointment at routine clinics. And then in subsection (3) of that same section B one will find in cases of routine hospitalisation, for example planned surgery or obstetric cases, a deposit equivalent to three days upon admission is required.

So, Mr. President, the question of requiring deposits is not new. The policies are old. It is true, Mr. President, that on and off, these policies have been in effect and not in effect, that is, not the policies, but the practice of taking the deposit. I wonder whether, in fact, the discontinuation of the taking of the deposit usually accompanies a run-up to elections similar to what we are in at the moment. But for some reason, those deposits are discontinued every now and again.

Continuing, Mr. President, on the question of the origin of the latest enforcement: when the accounts were done for the year ended 1985, the Public Accounts Committee again recommended the imposition of a system which collected money at the point of entry. And the Government's minute in response presented to the House dated 27th August, 1986, reads in part:

"Hospital fees. Acting on this recommendation, emphasis is now being placed in the collection of current fees ...", etcetera.

Additionally, Mr. President, the Honourable Financial Secretary, in reply to a question on this same matter in the House in September last year stated that Government was working on a system of taking a deposit and also producing the bill prior to the patient being discharged, and if my memory serves me correctly, he went on further to state that he hoped that when this system was introduced, all Honourable Members of this House would support it. There was no dissenting voice.

So, Mr. President, I wonder, in what I am hearing today, whether the Public Accounts Committee did not mean what it said, or that all of that was merely for public consumption?

MR. PRESIDENT: I wonder, Honourable First Elected Member, if this might be the moment to break for tea, if it suits you?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: At any time, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Then we will suspend for tea break, for 15 minutes.

AT 3.14 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3.31 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: To resume, the Honourable First Elected Member.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, as I was saying, I maintain that the policies are fair and reasonable, there is provision in both the 1979 regulations and those published with the question again for 1981 at paragraph 6 where in the case of an emergency, admission fees are payable within 14 days after discharge, so the question of the deposit is in respect of routine and planned hospitalisation. Naturally, if a person goes in, he might think it is an emergency, but the person to determine whether an emergency exists is the doctor, not a politician or even the patient. And it would be natural that the person would probably be asked if he is capable of paying the fees, and if he can, he will be asked to do so. But the fact that he does not have the money in his pocket does not prohibit him, or prevent him from getting attention once he is prepared to acknowledge his liability for the cost of the service. Because under paragraph 3, Members will note, it says where necessary, in-patients will sign a promissory note to Government before being discharged. So the mechanisms for allowing persons who do not have the money are there.

And we go on further and see that in cases where persons do not have the money at all are admitted, and determination is made by the Social Services Department as to whether the person is capable of paying. Mr. President, one speaker made much of the fact that it would not be known who can pay and who cannot pay, and that we should have a survey and get experts and all the rest of it. It might be of interest to note that at the moment there are 510 active free medical certificates in existence. In other words there is a system where, once a means test has been applied by the Social Services Department, the person is issued with a card. Once they carry that card with them, they have no more problem.

The statement was made, Mr. President, that some of the people who were being turned away at the hospital are people who cannot afford to buy a meal. It is difficult for me to accept that because I believe that anyone in Cayman in that condition is in fact receiving assistance from Social Services Department, and it would include a free medical card. But in the event that for some reason, that person has neglected to contact Social Services Department, if someone in that financial condition comes to the notice of a Member of this Honourable House, it would be my suggestion that it is that Member's responsibility to direct that person to the services of the Social Services Department, because the fact that free medical assistance is given to people who cannot pay is very well known, as well as assistance given for food.

Now I have heard criticism that the Social Services Department is too generous and gives persons food vouchers who do not need them and that maybe the people even use the vouchers for luxury items and not food, but I have never received a complaint that where a means test has been applied that the person has been denied assistance, once they fall within the category of receiving assistance. Sir Mr. President, the mechanics are in place to take place of the "little man" as we are told, and we know that we have those. That was why the provision was in the policies. Nobody is denying that we have those people in the country, but, Mr. President, we have the wherewithal to deal with those people.

Now I am not prepared to stand here, Mr. President, and say that there cannot be some administrative snarl with these policies at the hospital that can be improved upon, or that in fact it needs to be radically overhauled. But I could not, Mr. President, in good conscience, stand here and accept this Motion which in effect, if it is accepted, would dismantle the system we have in place for dealing effectively with the collection of hospital fees. I cannot accept that to accept this motion it would only be dealing with those persons who cannot afford to pay. If we were to take this back and implement it, Mr. President, we would be back where we started. As one Member said, much of the fees that have been written off were fees not incurred by local residents - a lot of them were fees incurred by short-term residents, or persons who were only even visiting the country. And when an attempt has been made to reach these people, it is found they no longer exist in the country - there is no address, no forwarding address - and so Government is left holding the bag. And, Mr. President, if it was said that Government is the protector of the people, and since it is a Government hospital, we have to give the service, this is true, but no Government can return to the people, in the form of service which it has to pay for, service for which it has not taken the money in some form or another from the people to pay for it. A Government can only return to its people what the people have contributed to the Treasury in one form or another; and those who can pay should pay, those who cannot pay, Mr. President, we will see that they are taken care of.

I have noted the complaint. I will look into it. Members should see, for example, in the case of the refund, that No. 4 in the policies provide for appropriate refunds to be made, so that if someone has paid more than the three days and is entitled to a refund, I would like to have the name of the person so that I can take it directly to the Principal Secretary so we can check on it, and see where the hold-up is. If it is at the hospital we would like to speed it up, and if it is elsewhere, we would like to follow it through as well.

Mr. President, I think the Public Accounts Committee was right when it recommended the introduction of a deposit system. I understand it has been working well. I have questioned the staff at the hospital and to the best of their knowledge no one has been refused service. Therefore, Mr. President, I cannot accept that we must dismantle a system which seems to be working well because there may be one or two administrative snarls. I would like to know of those specific instances so that we can investigate them because we do not want any system in Government not to function at its best possible level. I have been assured, Mr. President, that nobody has been left to suffer or at the peril of death to await the deposit or to find out whether they can pay. The system is there, it works, but the doctor has never refused emergency treatment to anyone.

Therefore, Mr. President, when the time comes, I will be voting against this motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HALL BODDEN:

Mr. President, I would like to support the motion.

The motion claims that certain hardships exist for certain people with regards to making the deposit for admittance to the hospital, and I believe there is a real fear among some factions of the society in this respect. The idea behind the motion is to clear up this hardship. The motion states that not everyone has a chequing account or the necessary cash on hand to make the deposits, and I think this is where the trouble is because for many of our local people may not have the liquid funds to put up on a weekend or a holiday, or in the night, if they are called upon to make such a deposit. These may be honest people willing to pay their bills, but not able to provide the liquidity which the policy seems to require.

The resolved section of this motion which is clear. It has been misunderstood by at least two members, one who talked about the implementation of this motion dismantling the system, and the other who spoke about doing away with the system. Far from that, the motion would enhance the system and guarantee that the system would be tiled in such a way that it would flow smoothly.

The Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council called upon the policy which is set out here and which was distributed this morning to back him up in his statement that no one would be refused admittance, and this is what I think this Motion wants to do - to make certain that the criterion for admittance is purely on medical grounds rather than one's ability to pay. However, if one looks at No. 2 of the policy and compares it with No. 2 of the previous policy, one will see that it appears that the policy is not to admit those who cannot put up the deposit. The last line reads:

"Evidence of patients' inability to pay will be confirmed by the Social Services Department if free service is to be granted."

So it is very clear that when a person without the ability to pay arrives at the hospital, if he is to get free service, his inability to pay will have to be confirmed by the Social Services. And this current policy is what has caused the problem because this is a great divergence from the previous policy which simply read, in the same section, that evidence of patients' inability to pay should be made available. The old policy was that once the patient could satisfy the authorities that they were unable to pay, the treatment would be available. But the new policy is different in that it says that the patient's inability to pay will be confirmed. And I think in effect that means shall be confirmed by the Social Services Department if free service is to be granted. And I can see that a Clerical Officer at the hospital could wield a lot of authority simply by relying in paragraph 2 of the hospital policies, and a patient could well be denied treatment, or at least his treatment could be delayed or postponed until the Social Services Department attests to the patient's inability to pay.

Members have mentioned cases that have come to their attention in which people arriving at the hospital have been embarrassed by the attitude of the staff and I think this is the reason why the two Members have brought this Motion. And to try to rely on the Public Accounts Report or Government's minute is utterly ridiculous because the Report, in my opinion, was concerned with the large sums of money that have been written-off and concerned with the unpaid debts rather than being concerned with the few people who would be turned away because of their inability to pay. And it is this minority that this motion is intended to deal with. It is not really intended to deal with the public at large where most of them will pay and the others could pay, but will not. This is dealing specifically with those people who are really unable to pay.

The resolution of the motion asks that the House agree to take the necessary steps to have this matter rectified: (1) by allowing a sick person in need of admittance to be admitted immediately. And here again, this could be a simple matter. It may not actually require a change in policy; it would not require the dismantling of the present system; it would simply mean for the Honourable Member to communicate with the hospital. I think this is what is lacking - there is no communication between the Honourable Member and the administrative staff whereby the staff understand precisely what is meant in the policy. If the Honourable Member had agreed to accept this motion I believe all that would have been necessary to implement it, would have been for himself or his Principal Secretary to speak to the Hospital Administrator and make recommendations as to the proper implementation, bearing in mind that what the Members are asking for is that the decision to admit the person be based strictly upon that person's physical incapacity rather than on his financial incapacity.

The second part of the resolution is that once admittance is made, on purely medical grounds, to determine thereafter the financial status of such sick person. And here again it is indeed a pity that the Honourable Member did not accept this motion for he would have had a golden opportunity to implement this motion and so guarantee the smooth operation of his policy.

Finally, the motion seeks that once the person has been admitted and once his financial status is known, that thereafter the person should be billed if it is determined that any expenses incurred can be met. Here again it is indeed sorrowful that the Honourable Member has not accepted this motion and undertaken to carry out part 3 because it has been found over the years, and I think every government has found this out, that one of the greatest drawbacks to the collection of hospital fees has been the billing system at the hospital; and so by refusing to entertain this motion, he has in fact refused to accept a review of the billing system suggested here. I trust that despite the Honourable Member's speech a few minutes ago in which he denied the very essence of this motion, he will, being the sensible person he is, change his mind and accept this very worthwhile Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak?
The mover may wish to reply.

MR. JOHN J. McLELL:

Mr. President, just briefly.

I was hoping that I would not have to reply because to me this was a very straightforward motion. However, there would be, as I warned, those who would come out politically or otherwise.

Mr. President, the Elected Member for North Side said he was at a loss to determine the motives for bringing this motion, and no doubt, as he continued to speak, he made his confusion more clear.

The motion clearly states the reasons and the first paragraph of my debate clearly explained why the motion was brought. I clearly stated that I agreed that fees had to be collected, my only concern was the manner in which they were collected. I also maintain what I said on emergencies and hospitalisation in the United States, regardless of his qualifications and experience, which I must say are not at all valid in the debate; and I stand by my convictions on this. The only thing this reminds me of are the words of one George Trevelyn, when he said "Education has produced a vast population able to read but unable to understand what they read". My argument was based on certain facts which were explained fully. Mr. President, one of the greatest problems in this House for some Members is that when they get in here they tend to boast of being professional, and knowing everything. But it is a bad day in a man's life when he believes he knows all.

My motion, Mr. President, was intended not to tear down the system but to help and strengthen it. My job as a representative of the people is to take to Government matters such as this one when they are brought to my attention, and I as correct in the procedure which I took to bring the matter before the House. That is my parliamentary right and I follow the Standing Orders correctly.

I would just like to say that the debate which ensued by the Honourable Member does not in any way intimidate me. I would like at the same time to thank the seconder for his remarks, and I will assure each and every Member that we will continue to bring matters such as this one to this House for the benefit of the little people and our country as a whole.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay stated an incident similar to those which were mentioned in my debate, and I thank him for offering this contribution to this debate. At least it bears me out that there is a problem.

The Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council did stress that the Public Accounts Committee made certain recommendations. I know that, and the seconder also knows that, but our motion is completely different from the recommendations made by the Public Accounts Committee. Furthermore, Mr. President, let us face it, he or any other Member cannot show me where the Public Accounts Committee made recommendations in the report for harassment to our people. That is what it boils down to and this is what we want to avoid in the future. However, Mr. President, at the end of the Honourable Member's debate I was most happy to hear him give us the undertaking that he will look into the complaint of administration as laid out in our motion. At least this is what we had hoped to achieve from the motion, and thank God that although he rucked the boat and knocked it and stated that he will vote against it, he has given us the undertaking to look into it. That is all I wanted from the motion, Mr. President. I do not want any pat on my shoulder.

Sir, Mr. President, I leave the motion to the conscience of each and every Member here - the day of reckoning is near, and I am sure everyone knows exactly what I mean by that.

Thank you, Sir.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 12/87 DEFEATED BY MAJORITY

MR. PRESIDENT:

I declare the Motion lost.

Private Members' Motions continued - No.14/87. The Second Elected Member for West Bay, please.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 14/87
MOTION FOR REPAIRS OF THE GOVERNMENT WHARF IN THE NORTH SOUND, WEST BAY.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for West Bay, please.

MR. W. McKEEVER BUSH:

Mr. President, I beg to move Private Member's Motion No.14/87 standing in my name, which reads:

"WHEREAS the Government wharf in the North Sound, West Bay, has for a long time been in a state of disrepair;

AND WHEREAS the wharf has been used for years by local fishermen, tour boat operators and the public in general, and is now a hazard to public safety;

BE IT RESOLVED that Government consider improving the wharf and restoring it to a safe and suitable condition."

MR. LINCOLN A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I second the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Private Member's Motion No. 14/87 has been duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak to it?

MR. W. McFEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, this motion should not require any long debate.

The manner in which the motion is prefaced tells the whole story. The wharf is owned by Government. It has been used for years by local fishermen, tour-boat operators and the general public. The wharf is in a very poor state of disrepair and is a hazard to public safety.

Mr. President, this wharf has been repaired, maybe replaced, probably several times over the last 30 years, if I remember correctly, and right now it probably needs replacing. In 1985, 1986 and 1987 I requested that this be done, however, no priority was put on it and its condition has not worsened. It needs to be fixed or, as I said, replaced as soon as possible.

Now, I know that Government relish the words "as soon as possible", but I trust that this will not mean it will be considered until eternity. I believe Government is going to accept the motion, Mr. President, however, I do hope that I am not told, as I have been in the past, that, "You did not support the raise in taxes, so you cannot ask for anything.". That old answer is now worn out. Work is at hand, and we must go about the people's work.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak?
The Elected Member for North Side,

MR. D. EZIARD MILLER:

Mr. President, while I can sympathise with the need for repairs to the wharf in West Bay because I have visited the site, and it does need repairing, and having the motion before us I respect and accept your ruling under Section 24(2) of Standing Orders.

Mr. President, I cannot help but ask why this matter was not raised at the Finance Committee meeting on 26th August 1987, because I believe that was the proper place and that the problem could have been resolved there. Monies could have been allocated if necessary, and maybe the work could have been completed this year. To go this way is simply going to prolong the process in getting the wharf built, but on the other hand it does offer more public exposure.

Mr. President, as I said, I sympathise with the need and if Government chooses to support the motion and provide funds, I can support it.
Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Would any other Member wish to speak?
The Honourable Third Elected Member,

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRICONNELL:

Mr. President, I agree with what the Second Elected Member for West Bay, the mover of the motion said, that we should have no long debate on this matter. I agree entirely with that, Sir, and I agree with what the Elected Member for North Side said that this matter could have been resolved in the finance committee meeting. I will go one step further, Sir, by saying that the Member could have come to my office, we could have done this administratively and gotten action immediately.

However, Sir, I do support what is before us and I would like to say that I will get the Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department to carry out a survey on the state of the present wharf to determine if it is indeed in need of repairs, or if it is repairable, and what it will cost us to repair it. Secondly, I will ask him to submit an estimate of what it would cost to construct a new jetty. When we have this information at hand a decision will be made as to whether it is advisable to repair the old wharf or construct a new one.

The Member moving the motion said that in 1985, 1986 and 1987 provision was made to repair this wharf. Mr. President, in 1985 and 1986 the money in that vote was used to repair the George Town Bartolomeo Wharf, and in 1987 no provision was made to repair the dock in West Bay. As no provision, Sir, has been made in the 1987 estimates to be carried out on this particular wharf, I will have to refer this matter to the Financial Secretary and ask him to make provision in the 1988 estimates so that the wharf can be repaired or a new one constructed in 1988.

Again, Sir, I would like to say that I support the motion, and I will have the Chief Engineer of Public Works Department carry out a survey and report his findings so that a decision can be made, and the cost included in the 1988 estimates.

I thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Would any other Member wish to speak?
Would the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

MR. W. McEWEA BUSH:

Certainly, Mr. President.

Mr. President, I am glad to hear Government say that they are accepting the motion. There has been some manoeuvring with it, saying probably what somebody else wanted them to say but who never had the guts to speak. But, Mr. President, I can give a good account of my stewardship in this House, and I can give a good account of my stewardship to the people of this country.

I will deal first with the two items raised by the Elected Member for North Side. Mr. President, my duty and responsibility to the people of this country, and in particular the people of West Bay, is that when I see a problem I bring it to Government, and if Government does not act then I move further to get a commitment from them; and this is all I have done in moving this motion - to seek a commitment from Government.

Mr. President, the Elected Member for North Side asked why it was not raised at August meeting of Finance Committee - and I hear the Third Elected Member for West Bay saying that is right. Mr. President, to give you some history of this, on 20th November, 1985, the day in which this Government was sworn in, I handed a letter to the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council which I will ask the Sergeant-at-Arms to pass around again.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Sirry, to whom are you asking it to be passed?

MR. W. McEWEA BUSH:

The Sergeant-at-Arms, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

To ...

MR. W. McEWEA BUSH:

Pass the list around to Members of the House.

MR. PRESIDENT:

These are copies, are they?

MR. W. McEWEA BUSH:

Copies of the letter, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you.

MR. W. McEWEA BUSH:

Mr. President, the letter reads:

"20th November, 1984

Honourable Charles Kirkconnell,
Communications and Works,
George Town,
Grand Cayman.

Dear Sir,

As elections are now over and you are the new Member for Communications and Works, I set out below works that are needed in West Bay. As I know that probably nothing can get done again this year, I am trusting that these things can be provided for in the budget for 1985. I am not expecting everything to be done in the coming year, but hopefully some will be done.

Firstly, a fire station for West Bay.

Secondly, ..."

MR. PRESIDENT:

Excuse me for one minute. I think you should stick to the particular question of the wharf, and not mention the other items, please.

MR. W. McEWEA BUSH:

Mr. President, with respect, Sir, I am replying to the debate of the Elected Member for North Side.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Yes, indeed, I understand that. You are replying to a particular point, and I would be grateful ... I think you can quote the letter, but only in regard to the subject matter of the wharf. Thank you.

MR. W. McEWEA BUSH:

Well, Mr. President, I do not agree with you, but I will abide by your ruling, Sir.

Out of nine projects, plus a list of roads and lights, the repairs to the Government wharf in the North Sound, West Bay, is listed. Farther to that, Sir, in January of 1985 at a committee meeting in our district of the three Elected Members for West Bay, it is noted that we would get Government to look at the wharf in the North Sound. I believe the other two Members for West Bay will remember that particular meeting.

Mr. President, besides that, I spoke to the Honourable Member responsible for Communications and Works and I must say he has been in agreement with me on several occasions, and has tried to help me as much as he could, but I have put my request forward. I do not need the Elected Member for North Side to tell me when to do my work, and as far as public exposure is concerned, I get enough of that. I do not need that. I think I went about it in the right way. I went about it firstly in giving the Honourable Member notice of what was to be done. Secondly, we raised it in our committee meeting. Again it was raised in the 1986 and again in the 1987 estimates. Now we heard what happened to the money for 1985 and 1986, the money was used to fix the George Town wharf even though my request was in. And I believe that in 1987 some money was awarded for wharves, but that, I believe, was voted to some other head or some other wharf somewhere else. Mr. President, this procedure here cannot take any great length of time to do, but the way in which I heard this brought forward by the Elected Member for North Side, and the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council, it would seem that I had asked them to remove Cayman Brac and put it in West Bay! I know what is happening, Mr. President - the same ones that are crying no politics are so deep in it that it is tripping them up.

Further to that, Mr. President, why I have gone this route and probably will continue to go this route, is that I was told that I was going to get nothing unless it is passed through the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council. I am responsible to my people, he is responsible also. I am not responsible to him.

Mr. President, maybe if this was for sand ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

I beg your pardon, I did not catch that - sorry?

MR. W. McLEEVA BUSH:

If this matter was S-A-N-I ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

You were not close enough to your microphone, I am not criticising your pronunciation.

MR. W. McLEEVA BUSH:

I am satisfied, Mr. President, that I have done the right thing, but I think those two Members should, if they want information, come to me before they get up in the House and say that I have not done my work properly. No one in this House can charge me with that. There are going to be some charges laid though and I hope full explanations will be given. This matter, as I see it, needs no long debate. I think my case is well put. It is there, it needs to be fixed, I have been trying, since I was elected, to get it done and I think it should be done. I cannot see any great expenditure involved. The Financial Secretary can use up to $50,000 before he comes to the Finance Committee, so there is no big problem with this. Let them keep their politics in their own districts, and let them clean up their own acts.

MR. PRESIDENT:

On a point of clarification, are you proposing that the money be provided in 1987? I think it would be helpful to explain that.

MR. W. McLEEVA BUSH:

Thank you for giving me a second chance, Sir. No, Mr. President, I did not ask that. The motion says ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

No, I realise what the motion says, I thought just now that you were about to say that, or were saying something like it.

MR. W. McLEEVA BUSH:

No, they suggested. This is what they have been suggesting, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

My misunderstanding. All right, thank you, it is all clear. My misunderstanding.

MR. W. McLEEVA BUSH:

I think they are completely out of order in suggesting it go in 1987. It can be done next week if they want.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Well, as far as I understand it, next week is in 1987, surely?

MR. W. McLEEVA BUSH:

Next week?

MR. PRESIDENT:

Yes.

MR. LINEOLD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, on a point of order.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Go ahead.

MR. LINEOLD A. PIERSON:

It is on a matter of clarity, Sir. During the previous debate from the Second Elected Member from West Bay, it is noted that he was stopped from reading a letter which would seem to have conformed with Standing Order No 31(4), which states:

"A Member shall not read his speech, but may refresh his memory by reference to notes and may read extracts of reasonable length from books or papers in support of his argument."

I cannot see where he was out of order, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I did not rule him out of order for reading from the document, or reading the whole document. I ruled out of order certain parts of the document which were not germane to the motion, in my opinion. Thank you.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: On a point of explanation, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: On a point of ...?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Explanation. Yes, I am asking that it be done this year, as soon as possible, I think were my words in the motion. They were suggesting 1988, that is what they are suggesting, that is election year. We need it done now.

MR. PRESIDENT: You have clarified the point I asked, thank you very much.

Does any other Member wish to speak? We have a second or two.

I beg your pardon, the mover has replied, I am so sorry. I will now put the question, then.

QUESTION PUT: AYES

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: May I have a division, Mr. President?

MR. PRESIDENT: I did not hear any Noes.

MR. PRESIDENT: People have a right to abstain.

MR. LINCOLN A. PIERSON: It is his privilege, Mr. President.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I think if they are going to abstain, that they should say they abstain.

MR. PRESIDENT: Very well, a division, please.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Prayers.

The Honourable First Official Member, Leader of

PRAYERS

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake, Amen.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread: And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us: And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever, Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us: the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us: the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated.

The Assembly is in session.

Questions. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

He has not yet arrived, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you. I think then that the Standing Orders provide that these questions are held to the end of question time until the Member turns up or unless he authorises another Member to put the questions. Thank you. So then we will go to question number 56 - the Second Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR COMMUNICATIONS WORKS AND DISTRICT ADMINISTRATION.

NO. 56: Would the Honourable Member state why the decision to form a committee to examine the economic situation in Cayman Brac was made in February, 1987, when to some people there were signs that economic conditions were worsening in the Lesser Islands before this time?

ANSWER: The decision to form a committee to examine the economic situation of the Sister Islands was in response to a request made by the First Elected Member of the Lesser Islands in his debate on the Throne Speech in February 1987.

Government has always been aware of the economic situation in the Sister Islands and has taken appropriate steps from year to year to relieve the situation. Provisions have been made every year in the annual budget for extra funds to be spent on labour intensive projects, and various laws have included stipulations providing special fee concessions to the people of these Islands.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

LINFORD A. PIERSON:

A supplementary, Mr. President.

Would the Honourable Member not agree that the impetus by him to grant certain concessions to Cayman Brac came only after knowledge of the Private Member's Motion on this subject, which was admitted on 25th May, 1987?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, I just said in the reply there, Sir, that this matter was first brought to the House by the First Elected Member of the Lesser Islands, in February. On the 19th of February, at that same meeting during the debate on the Throne Speech I said that I would ask Government to permit me to form a committee to study the economic situation in the Lesser Islands, and to come back with its findings and make recommendations of what Government should do. On 19th February, I presented a paper to Executive Council asking for this authority to appoint a committee to examine the economic situation and, as I said before, it would have to report its findings to Council. This was approved, Sir, in March 1987. In July, the committee reported to Executive Council and under Section 48, approved the reduction of import duty on building materials and basic household appliances for a period of two years in the first instance.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, a further supplementary. Would the Honourable Member not then admit that no real action was taken by his committee until the meeting of 25th June, 1987?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, that is not correct, Sir. I got from Costa Rica the Pensioners' Plan of that country. It was brought back to us and it was circulated to Members of the committee. They held a few committee meetings in Cayman Brac - Mr. Nolan Foster had a committee there. He was given copies of the Pensioners' Plan of Costa Rica, and we used what we could out of that, but of course it was not relevant to the Cayman Islands. However, what was relevant, we used. We also asked other members of the committee to submit any ideas they had to help us formulate a plan that would relieve the economic situation, and I got these feedbacks from the members. It took time to get this all together - it was not as a result, Sir, of the Member putting in his Motion. I was not even aware of it until one day I was here in this Assembly and he told me then that he had put in a Motion that would be coming up in the Session. I was not aware of it before, Sir.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Did not the Honourable Member imply in this House that Cayman Brac had been neglected when he admitted that more could have been done there, but because of the capital work in which he was involved in Grand Cayman this was not possible?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, I think what I said, Sir, was that there was a delay in the capital works. This came about as a result of the Caribbean Development Bank arbitrarily increasing the interest rate on loans to this Government, and the Financial Secretary, advised Executive Council what the Caribbean Development Bank had done. It was decided by Government not to sign the loans until the Financial Secretary could negotiate loans that were acceptable to the country. This went on for about nine months, and it was eventually solved when the Financial Secretary went down to Barbados and negotiated new terms.

CAPT. HARRY S. KIRKCONNELL: A supplementary, Mr. President. Would the Honourable Member state whether or not it is a fact that, because of the plan having been approved by the Development Control Board in Cayman Brac for construction of commercial projects in Little Cayman including a major expansion to the Brac Reef Hotel and the impending airport terminal, we felt it was not necessary for these economic moves to be made until we found that those projects were not going ahead?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, that is correct, Sir, because even if the airport was not started and had Tiara Beach Hotel started their expansion when they said they were going to, we would not have come up against this difficult period. Also, there was an application to build condominiums in Little Cayman and this was also shelved for the time being. So there were a number of reasons that caused the sort of economic slump in Cayman Brac. Another was the cessation of the transfer of crude oil off the shores of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. This came to a complete stop late last year and threw a lot of people there out of employment. We did not come up with enough work soon enough to employ these people, and that is why they had to leave to come here to find work.

MR. C. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask the Honourable Member - he mentioned earlier that recommendations had been made for duty concessions on building materials for Cayman Brac. Can he say whether these concessions will apply to construction material for all building, or will it be confined to building by offshore investors or confined to building for a particular type of construction, such as hotels?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. Chairman, the concession will be given to foreign retirees, Caymanians living abroad and wishing to resettle and to condominium developers, whether they are local or foreign. But the concession has not been given across the board, Sir, it is only for new business - new developments coming in.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Since the matter of condominiums arose out of his answer, that is in Little Cayman, I wonder whether he would state why the decision to build condominiums in Little Cayman was halted?

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, I am not sure, Sir, but I was told by the Chairman of the Development Control Board that the gentleman who was going to build the condominiums had asked that his permit be renewed for a further period of one year, but he did not give any reason why the developer did not go ahead with the condominiums as he had expected.

MR. PRESIDENT: Unless there are further supplementaries, I think we have covered that question fairly thoroughly. If there are no more, the Second Elected Member for George Town, your second question, please.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FOURTH ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR DEVELOPMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

NO. 57: Would the Honourable Member state:
(a) the number of applications approved for low cost housing loans since 1st December, 1984;
(b) the number of applications refused during the same period; and
(c) categorize the reasons for refusal?

ANSWER: (a) It is assumed that this question relates to the Housing Development Corporation in which case the number of applications approved since 1st December, 1984 is 10.
(b) The number refused during the same period is one.
(c) The reason for refusal is that the application did not satisfy the board that it conformed fully with the guidelines in operation at the time.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Supplementary, Mr. President.
Would the Honourable Member, on reflection, not agree that the Housing Development Corporation, which he rightly assumed what I meant, is possibly not serving the purpose for which it was initially established?

HON. VASSELL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, the Housing Development Corporation is fulfilling the service for which it was established. I will not say any more at this time.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, can the Honourable Member say how the ten applications approved were apportioned amongst the various districts?

HON. VASSELL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I am afraid I do not have that answer right at my fingertips.

MR. PRESIDENT: Perhaps the Honourable Member could supply it in writing later on?

HON. VASSELL G. JOHNSON: Yes, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Another supplementary?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Last supplementary, Mr. President.
Would the Honourable Member not agree that it is a hardship to levy a mandatory charge of C$200 per application regardless of the financial status of the applicant, whether or not their application is approved?

HON. VASSELL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, we found that as one of the operating guidelines in Housing Corporation when we took over, but that fee has been abolished now.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there are no further supplementaries, would the Second Elected Member for George Town put question number 58, please?

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 58: Would the Honourable Member state the number and categories of appeals received by Executive Council against decisions of the Caymanian Protection Board since January 1985 in respect of Gainful Occupation Licences and the number and categories of successful appeals during this same period?

STANDING ORDER 3(5)

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 23(5), I beg the leave of the House to defer answering this question until a later date.

MR. PRESIDENT: May I assume the leave of the House?
So ordered.

STANDING ORDER 23(3)

MR. PRESIDENT: We will now return to question number 53. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT.

NO. 53: Would the Honourable Member state:
(a) the amount of revenue collected from 1st January to 31st August, 1987, or the closest month thereto; and
(b) the expenditure incurred for the same period?

ANSWER: (a) The revenue collected for the period 1st January to 31st July, 1987 (closest month thereto) amounted to CI$48,259,366.
(b) The expenditure incurred for the same period totalled CI$38,992,463.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask the Honourable Member if the amount of CI$48 million, plus, includes any loans?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: The answer to that question, Mr. President, is that there are loan funds both on the revenue side and the disbursement side. The sum is just about the same - CI$2 million.

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON: Would the Honourable Member state whether this expenditure incurred of $38,992,463 would be increased by any accrued expenses up to the end of December 1987? In other words, whether this amount could be significantly increased by the end of the year?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I am a little unsure exactly what the Member is asking. Could he clarify it for me?

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON: I would be happy to, Mr. President.
As the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, I am aware that, between the period of August to December, normally a lot of expenses are incurred. What I am asking is whether the Honourable Member would have any indication at this point - perhaps not, if not he could supply it in writing - whether there are accrued expenses that could significantly increase the expenditure figure he has just provided to the House.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: I think, Mr. President, one point I could allude to are the recent approvals given by Finance Committee to a number of requests for supplementary expenditure. That certainly will increase these figures, and there may be, perhaps, two or three amounts sitting on advance account at the moment that will be charged off during the remaining months of the year.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: May I ask, Sir, to the Honourable Member's knowledge, are there any substantial bills outstanding to be paid?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, we have, to the best of my recollection, millions of dollars in capital expenditure budgeted for this year, so that at any given time there are likely to be substantial bills to be paid. But certainly there are sufficient funds to meet them and we are not above, obviously from the answer, the budgeted allocation for the year, if you take seven months of it.

MR. PRESIDENT: There appear to be no more supplementaries.
The Second Elected Member for West Bay, your next question, please.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 54: Would the Honourable Member provide a detailed account of the manner in which the 1987 provision of C$100,000, budgeted under Head 17, sub-head 08-033, has been expended; giving a breakdown of the amount spent in each district.

ANSWER: Thus far in 1987, some 27 persons have been assisted with either sanitary conveniences or housing repairs, in the amount of C$8,058.30. This breakdown is as follows:

West Bay	- 10 households at a cost of $3,315.50
George Town	- 7 households at a cost of $2,882.80
East End	- 3 households at a cost of $1,860.70

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: From the figure given by the Honourable Member, he should agree that there is much more funding available for work to be carried out in housing, for instance once a genuine request has been made.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, I assume the Member means that could be carried out.

The Department of Social Services, the Department which deals with this vote, is aware of several persons either requiring house and property or needing extensive repairs to their homes. In some instances the materials have been approved for several months. Unfortunately, the difficulty is in getting someone to do the work. With our having this experience, the Department, together with the Department of Environmental Health, have recently engaged an employee to see to some of this work - the Public Health Department providing the oversight and the Social Services Department providing the funds, so that the work should be speeded up during the coming period.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, just to ask the Honourable Member to confirm that there is in fact $91,000 left for housing the help of poor people, and that they will no longer have a major difficulty in obtaining this help - because it seems that in the past they have had some amount of difficulty.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, each application is processed by the Department and treated on its merits. Certainly I would expect that deserving cases will receive assistance.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, the Honourable Member say what is the policy with regards to repairs? I know of one case in Bodden Town where the Department has approved the repairs to the roof of a house, and somebody from the Department told me they could find the materials if I could find the labour. Unfortunately, I have not been able to find anybody to do free labour. Since the labour in this case would be very small, I fail to see why they have not provided the money for the labour since they have $91,000 in surplus, and they have not done any work in Bodden Town at all. Can he tell me what is the policy with regards to repairs? Will the Government provide both labour and materials?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, as the Member is probably aware, it has been the practice over the years to try to enlist the good offices of the service clubs in providing labour. In fact, some of the service clubs have come forward and they have this as a project. In fact, in some instances, they provide materials as well, so maybe that was the question which the member was asked. But certainly in the absence of that free labour, the Department would pick up the bill. It is not an absolute criteria that labour must be free - as I said, if it is a deserving case. In the particular case, I believe the Member knows that the Department has experienced some difficulty in finding someone to do this work, and this is probably one of the jobs that can be undertaken by the person I mentioned earlier, who has been employed.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, on a point of information for the House. Often, in going to the Department, I have come up with the same answer - that is that there is money available, but there is no one to do the work. I have said to the Department more than once that if Members of the House, representatives, are contacted, then I am sure that they would be able to find someone. I have done it in the past and have had to pay, unfortunately, out of my own pocket to get the work done. I really believe, and for the information of the Member, that if Members had been contacted, then there would have been a lot more work done. Speaking as a representative, I know that I can find help.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: My information, Mr. President, is that representatives have been contacted, particularly in the case of areas where some material has been approved, but without success.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, just a short supplementary.

Is the Honourable Member suggesting that this gentleman from Jamaica actually got a Work Permit?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Mr. President, I am sure that the Member knows that Government employees are exempt from Work Permits.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, may I ask the Honourable Member why will the advertising be carried out if prior selection has already been made?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Mr. President, I want into this detail because I did not know whether the emphasis in the question was on advertising or filling the post. All Government appointments require that the post be advertised. So what will happen is that - and this basically is a temporary appointment - the post will be advertised and the present holder is free to apply and compete with all other applicants when the post is formally considered in January next year.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

May I ask the Honourable Member, Mr. President, if this means that this gentleman who has been pre-selected, may be fired and replaced with a more suitable candidate if the advertising produces a more suitable candidate?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Mr. President, the gentleman would not be fired, but the rest of the deduction of the Member, I would say, is reasonable. The post will be considered by the Public Service Commission as are all Government appointments. So I am unable to say what the Public Service Commission will do, but the regulations will be followed.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, can the Honourable Member say if the regulations are being followed if the man was pre-selected before the advertisement?

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think we are getting into the territory of the Honourable First Official Member, but please go ahead if you wish to take the supplementary.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

I made the point, Mr. President, that it was a temporary appointment made by the Public Service Commission, so I do not think any rules were broken.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Temporary appointments, Mr. President, are within the Public Service Commission's regulations.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Are there any further supplementaries? In that case, that concludes our questions for today, and we can move on to Other Business, Private Members' Motions.

OTHER BUSINESS

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. B/87

CAYMANIAN PROTECTION LAW

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. B/87, entitled Caymanian Protection Law, which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS the Caymanian Protection Law at present permits work to be performed which produces capital gain or profit on investment, without the requirement that a work permit be held by non-Caymanians thus involved;

AND WHEREAS section 23, subsection (c), exempts members of crew of vessels engaged in their duties as such;

BE IT RESOLVED that section 2 of the Caymanian Protection Law which defines "Gainfully Occupied" and/or section 24 of the Law be amended to make work which produces capital gain and/or profit on investments by non-Caymanians to require a work permit; or to make all work in the Cayman Islands performed by non-Caymanians other than those exempted by section 23 to require a work permit;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that section 23, subsection (c), be deleted or amended to exempt only those vessels that do not operate full-time within the Cayman Islands."

CAPT. MARRY S. KIRKCONNELLY

Mr. President, I beg to second the Motion.

THE PRESIDENT:

Private Member's Motion No.8/B7 has been duly moved and seconded. Would the mover wish to speak to it?

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Thank you, Sir.

Mr. President, this Private Member's Motion deals with two very specific areas of the Caymanian Protection Law which I think need attention.

The Caymanian Protection Law defines gainful occupation and gainfully occupied to mean the carrying on of or employment in any profession, trade, business or other vocation for gain or reward in, or within relation to, the Cayman Islands, unless expressly exempted by some provisions of the Law.

Now, Mr. President, it has been my experience that the problems exist in the determination of what is gain or reward. I am not purporting, Sir, that an amendment to the Law is necessary, but it may be that it can be handled administratively through a directive which clearly defines what is gain or reward. My argument, Sir, is that reward relates to a stipend or a salary that one may be paid to perform a particular mode of work. I also interpret gain, Sir, to include, where one's labour, one's own work in this country, produces capital gain - that is, Sir, increases the value of a project on which the person is working to the benefit of the individual or individuals who own the property or business.

Also, Sir, I think it involves when one gains on one's investment in this country by their own labour, in that one's work, in a management or other capacity, is to instruct other people to perform certain functions which are going to produce gain and therefore accrue reward to oneself. That is what I am dealing with, Sir, not with what was purported in the press by the President of the Chamber of Commerce - the shadow government - that if you buy a condominium you are going to need a work permit to buy it. That, Sir, is not the intent of this motion.

This motion is specifically to get at individuals, non-Caymanians, who come to this country, who buy a piece of property or a dilapidated house for instance, bring in their friends, relatives, experts from other countries and skilled workers, and use those people who are purported to be owners of that development to improve that project thus producing capital gain for themselves. Then they turn around and sell it at a profit or they rent it to produce income for themselves - and it is being done by their own labour, by their own work or that of friends or other owners who get together to form a company to own this particular development. I do not, Sir, interpret the Law as allowing that to happen. If it does, Sir, we could face a very serious problem in the future of this country.

I would use the scenario, Sir of a public-owned construction company in a foreign country - that is a company owned by three or four thousand individuals as share holders - who come to this country now that there are special incentives given by Government for foreign investment in the country, and who buy a piece of property perhaps on Seven Mile Beach, or on North Side, or in Cayman Brac; and because, Sir, there are four thousand people in that foreign country who own this construction company, they therefore have amongst their ownership all skills that will be necessary to complete the development through its construction stages, even to the extent that they will have the managerial expertise to operate that facility. And if the Law allows them to complete that project because they are "owners", then the Law, Sir, is not serving the purpose, as I see it, that it was put on the books. And that is what I am trying to stop from happening.

The other section of the Law that I referred to, Sir, is section 23 (c). And this reads, Sir:

"23. This Part shall have no application to - "...

... and the part that is referred to is gainful occupations of persons of non-Caymanian status ...

"(a) persons certified by the Governor to the Board to be -

- (i) persons employed by the Government of the Cayman Islands, in respect of their employment;
- (ii) persons employed in the Cayman Islands by the Government of the United Kingdom;
- (iii) consular officers and their staffs;
- (iv) accredited representatives or agents of a government of any part of the Commonwealth; or
- (v) members of Her Majesty's armed forces;

(c) members of the crew of any vessel engaged in their duties as such;

(d) such other class or classes of persons as may from time to time be prescribed."

Now, Mr. President, the part of section 23 which gives me concern and which this Motion deals with is subsection (c) - "Members of the crew of any vessel engaged in their duties as such".

Now, Mr. President, as I interpret that, that could mean the operators of dive boats, and particularly live-aboard dive boats, or cruising boats which may stop in here on a world cruise and start to operate charters for sailing crews of the North Sound, or Seven Mile Beach, or around the Island, or whatever - do not need a work permit.

I would like to see that section removed, Sir, and those people in that capacity working on ships, or aircraft, because this covers vessels, who operate solely within our territorial waters, including our airspace, must have a work permit. I think the exemption should be specific only to those vessels which are not confined in their operation to our territorial waters and air space. In other words, Mr. President, I am not suggesting that ships which call here to discharge cargo, etcetera, and ply international waters should have work permits. Neither am I suggesting that the pilots of Northwest Airlines should have work permits to land a plane in the Cayman Islands, but those vessels which operate solely within our territorial waters and air space, Sir, I feel, especially when they are being operated for gain and reward, should have to have work permits.

Mr. President, this motion gives Government several alternatives in which to solve the problem. Although I am at times ridiculed for promoting to be an expert in certain areas - I am grateful for the acknowledgement of being an expert in some areas. I cannot return the compliment to other Members - I am not going to practice Law, Sir, so I would leave the details to Honourable Second Official Member and the administrative details to the Honourable Third Official Member, once we can agree on the principle involved and that something needs to be done. I will leave it in their capable hands to work out the intricate legal details of re-wording the Law, or re-defining a word if necessary, and the intricate administration involved to achieve the said goal as purported in this motion.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak?
The First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands?

CAPT. HARRY B. KIRKCONNELL:

Mr. President, I wish to support Private Member's Motion No. 9/B7, now before this Honourable House. I would like to make it crystal clear that I congratulate the mover in moving it as I think it is necessary. I also support what he said, that we do not want a hard, fast arrangement here and that we are leaving it to the Honourable Second Official Member to see which way it can be worked out to the best advantage to all the people of the Cayman Islands.

I would like to quote an example of one of the things we would like to prevent. I have knowledge of a group of people who came to the Islands purporting to be brothers. They built a house. On their return they were asked how their brother was doing were told that that was not a brother, it their builder who only came down to build the house. That is an example of what I call evading and taking work and employment from Caymanians which they are justly entitled to. It is not important, when we have a situation of over-employment, as it is in Grand Cayman, but as we are discussing in this sitting the economic situation in the Lesser Islands, when jobs are taken, particularly from builders, it is a hardship for them and their families. And I feel, again I say, it is a timely motion and I look forward to it being handled administratively. Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Second Elected Member for George Town, do you wish to speak?

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON:

I wish to speak, Sir, I just wondered whether you might have cared to take a break now.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Well, I ... it depends how long you might speak - I thought perhaps if you could do five or six minutes, and then maybe go on? I am quite happy. Shall we take our break? We suspend for 15 minutes.

AT 11:05 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11:24 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Proceedings are resumed. The Second Elected Member for George Town was about to speak, I think.

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.
Mr. President, I am going to surprise the Member for North Side, the mover of this motion, by giving my full support to the motion. I am sure when he saw me trying to catch your eye, he thought that once again I was going to get on his case, but as Hansard of the Honourable House will show, I have in the past, and will continue to support any matter that comes before this House which I feel is in the best interest of the people of the Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, while I would agree that the Motion is a timely I would have thought that after the Member had seen motion no.11/87 he would have withdrawn this Motion and instead given my motion full support, as that particular motion is asking for a comprehensive revision of the whole Law. Nonetheless, I too will agree with the mover that this particular matter is very urgent indeed. I know of certain cases alluded to by the Member where the situations which he has stated in his motion arose, and I feel that we should do all in our power to try to correct those situations and to ensure that they do not reoccur in the future.

However, I feel that to continue amending the Caymanian Protection Law on a piecemeal basis, and in somewhat of an ad hoc fashion is not in the best interest of our legal system. Right now I am sure that the Honourable Second Official Member would bear me out in saying that there are far too many laws on our statutes carrying too many amendments, and that those particular laws should be revised and put into one solid volume so that it would be much easier for the general public, and even the Legal Department and our courts, to be able to deal with these. All that is necessary is for one bit or piece of these amendments to fall apart or be lost for one could be in quite a quandary.

What we need, Mr. President, is a full revision of the Caymanian Protection Law. We need a committee, not necessarily of the whole House, but perhaps an expert could be brought in from abroad who could devote his full time - I am not for too many experts coming here - but in this case, Mr. President, I think it would be justified for somebody to come in to devote full-time and work with the Legal Department perhaps on a three to six months, or nine months assignment, and look at many laws requiring attention. Perhaps in this assignment, the Caymanian Protection Law could be put at the top as a priority.

As can be seen, Mr. President, from the Order Paper, I too will be asking for the same Law to be given urgent attention. And as I said, I would have thought that this particular motion could have been embodied in this Motion No.11/87. But be this as it may Mr. President, in the spirit and interest of the Cayman Islands and its people I would be remiss in my duties today if I did not support this motion. In the same way, Mr. President, I trust that Members of this Honourable House will also see fit to give similar support to the worthy Motion No.11/87. Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am not questioning how worthy the motion is, but you must not go too far forward in the day's business.

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Honourable Third Elected Member.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES J. KIRKCONNELL:

Mr. President, I rise to support this motion, Sir, one hundred per cent. In the past I have had representation from my people in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and as the First Elected Member of the Lesser Islands has said, we have had cases where people have come out, gotten permission to build, brought out their friends, have employed them, and local people needing work have been refused work and the building continues with their friends coming out to visit them who they claim are actually relatives, and this is not so. I promised my people, Sir, some time back that I would see that this situation was rectified, and I am very happy to see the motion before the House today.

We cannot go, Sir, to other countries, like the United States or Canada and start working, buying land and building our own homes. This is not permitted. If we are caught, and if one of our people should do something similar to what they are doing here, they would catch them and deport them immediately, there would be no question at all about it. So why should they expect to come here and be given the free run of the land when they will not give our people the same privilege in their country?

The last thing is, Sir, that if this situation is not corrected, all the efforts of Government to invigorate and stimulate the economy of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman will fall flat on the face, because people will get permission to build their houses and come out and build them without employing one single Bracker or one single person from Little Cayman. For this reason, Sir, I think the motion is very timely and I congratulate the mover for bringing it to this House. Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Honourable Third Official Member.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Mr. President, I too am in favour and support Private Member's Motion No.8/87, and am happy to say that the Government is willing to lend its sympathetic support to the fundamental principles and spirit behind the two points which the motion addresses.

Let me say straight up front, Sir, that this particular problem is a problem of interpretation and enforcement, and one that has to be taken in the context of not being quite as simple as it may first appear because it could be argued at some length that the Law as it presently stands is sufficient to meet the first of these two points - that is the point dealing with whether employment is in fact for gain or reward. But the difficulty, Sir, is in the area of getting the necessary evidence and proof to substantiate allegations that persons may be, or are, engaged illegally in such practices. I know, for example, Sir, that a number of cases have been investigated recently and the evidence produced was insufficient to ensure any sort of possible successful prosecution. Hence the enforcement activity had to cease.

It has also to be recognised that the principal objective of this motion is not aimed at the non-Caymanian or the foreign owner of a property from engaging in maintenance and renovation activities such as changing the kitchen sink, or going out and cleaning the gutters on the roof of an apartment - it is not aimed at requiring work permits for those types of activities. But it is aimed primarily at persons who set out to evade the provisions of the Law and set out to deliberately commit an act that is in contravention to the provisions of the Law by engaging in work that is disguised as being for no gain or no reward. And I think we have to ensure that the record reflects that there is that distinction between the person who deliberately sets out to flaunt the Law, versus one who engages in what is quite acceptable an activity on one's own property.

Having accepted the spirit and principles of the motion, Sir, it is left for us to exercise our minds as to how both of these points can be accomplished. The second point is a much less complicated one, and that is dealing with the exemption of crews of vessels that operate full-time within the Cayman Islands - that is quite a simple exemption that can be taken care of, but the most important one, dealing with whether work is for gain or reward has to be given very, very careful thought indeed in not only how it is accomplished, but how it is administered. And it is in that area that I think we have to make it abundantly clear that we are after persons who are engaged, knowingly engaged, in an illegal action, not the innocent condominium owner, or the innocent property owner who comes along and wants to do a bit of weeding and light maintenance around the property. We also have to put on record, Sir, that we are not in any way entering into the area of Capital Gains Tax, because, when you start interpreting gain and reward on capital, there is a temptation to think that one may be entering into a realm of enforcement in an area for which this country has no prior history. And so, I think it should be on the record for the sake of those investors who may be tempted to think to the contrary, there is no thought whatsoever being given to getting into that very complex area of law known as Capital Gains Tax. Having said that, Sir, when the time comes, I will be voting in favour of Private Member's Motion No.8/87.

MR. PRESIDENT:

If no other Member wishes to speak, would the mover ... sorry, Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH:

Mr. President, records I believe will confirm that, as reported in the press, I as the Second Elected Member for West Bay was the original seconder of the motion. I had agreed with the Elected Member for North Side that I would second the motion and did have some preliminary discussions with him concerning the purposes of the motion.

Shortly afterwards, a motion, Motion No.11/87, was tabled by the Second Member for George Town and the Elected Member for East End, which in brief asks that a Committee of the whole House be set up to examine the Caymanian Protection Law. I had discussions with the Elected Member for North Side and informed him I would not second his motion because I felt it should be withdrawn and suggested that we could support the other motion because I felt our purpose would be better served - that is we could support Motion No.11/87 in the name of the Second Member for George Town, which would put the Law in Committee and we could then go in detail in the Law. There are, needless to say, Mr. President, many amendments which I feel are needed to the Caymanian Protection Law.

These are the reasons why I removed my name as seconder, nevertheless, the motion still has my support because I feel that something needs to be done about the situation, and I agree entirely with the principle. However, I did not know at the time which motion would come first. Even though our motion was tabled first, it could have fallen in a different order if there was some amendment to it.

Mr. President, yesterday I was chastised by the mover of this motion and the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council for bringing what they called a matter that could have been handled administratively. Well, this is a like case, but I am not going to do what they did, with a lot of politics between the two, and I give my support at this stage to a good cause although it could have been done administratively. My point has been made, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

No one seems willing to catch my eye. I therefore invite the mover to exercise his right of reply.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I would like to thank Honourable Members for their support and while, Mr. President, I would not attempt to preempt or predetermine the value nor Government's position on Motion No.11/87, I will reserve my debate as to the merits and demerits of that motion when it is tabled. However, Sir, since most of the debate has centred around that I would indulge the chair, Sir, in giving me the opportunity to reply to some of the comments which were made.

The Second Elected Member for George Town did not surprise me in supporting the motion. He knows a winner when he sees one, but, in his usual fashion, Sir, I am not sure where he got on the train, or where he got off, but I will thank him for his support.

Mr. President, the Honourable Third Official Member, in his debate, mentioned Capital Gains Tax, and he wanted to make it clear that we were not dealing with that. I would also like to emphasise that, Sir, because nowhere in this motion is any attempt being made to quantify capital gain, and no tax can be applied unless the item is first quantified. So I want to make it, like he said, absolutely clear that we are not here seeking some round-about way to get at capital gains. The operative word in the motion is 'work' - one's own work, one's own labour, one's own sweat of the brow, so to speak, that is going to produce that capital gain. There is nothing in this motion that addresses an investor who gets capital gain or reward by utilising labour which already exists in this country or other people's labour whether through a management company or any other means. That is entirely outside the bounds and gambit of this motion.

Now, Mr. President, as the Second Elected Member for West Bay mentioned, there have been some musical chairs going on to a tune that is spelt P.O.W.E.R. I am not sure what the final seating arrangement is going to be when the music stops. I am looking on with interest and neither will I try to anticipate that, Sir. But he is entirely incorrect in suggesting that this motion has any similarity to what he tabled yesterday in that it can be or could be achieved simply administratively. To do that he has to ignore the second section of the motion because that is going to require a direct amendment to the Protection Law, which has to be tabled in this Assembly. And that is the difference, Sir.

Mr. President, once again I thank Members for their support, and I am quite willing and prepared to leave the implementation of this intricate matter in the capable hands of the two Honourable Official Members. Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Member's Motion No.8/87.

AGREED: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 8/87 PASSED

MR. PRESIDENT:

I declare the motion passed.
We shall now move to Private Member's Motion No.9/87. The Second Elected Member for George Town.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.9/87
ECONOMIC INCENTIVES FOR CAYMAN BRAC AND LITTLE CAYMAN

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to move Private Member's Motion No.9/87 standing in my name on the subject of economic incentives for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS in recent years the economies of the Sister Islands of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman have been depressed;

AND WHEREAS there is no present sign of improvement;

AND WHEREAS numbers of people of the Sister Islands have re-located to Grand Cayman in order to earn sufficient to support their families;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT this Honourable House agree to assist in the stimulation of the economy of the Sister Islands of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman by providing incentives to potential investors to develop businesses in these Islands through the avenues of:

- (i) a reduction on import duties on all building materials to 2.5 per cent across the board on all such materials, notwithstanding any incentives already provided under the Hotel Aids Law or any other laws, with such reduced duties to be calculated on a freight equalisation basis, i.e. on the C.I.F. value of freight costs to Grand Cayman.
- (ii) a reduction to 5 per cent on all other dutiable imported goods other than liquor and tobacco products;
- (iii) development of the needed infrastructure facilities to allow for the smooth and effective implementation of the foregoing;

AND BE IT ALSO RESOLVED THAT these reduced import duties, which are mainly to attract hotels and other businesses to the Sister Islands, be reviewed at the end of two years with a view to reverting to the old rates;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT all goods transported to Grand Cayman from the Sister Islands during this two year period be subjected to existing rates of import duties in Grand Cayman to avoid any person(s) attempting to abuse an incentive which is specifically intended to benefit the people and economy of the Sister Islands."

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. President, I beg to second the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Private Member's Motion No.9/B7 has been duly moved and seconded. Would the mover wish to speak to his motion?

MR. LINCOLN A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, it is my pleasure to speak on this motion. Unlike the Elected Member for North Side, Sir, I know when I get on the train and when to get off.

Before dealing with the text of my motion, Mr. President, I would take this opportunity to thank all those who spoke out in the papers on this issue, including, of course, those who opposed my suggestions. I am happy to see my fellow Caymanians becoming so politically aware and that they are showing such a keen interest in the present and future well-being of the Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, I am humble and flexible enough to accept that in a democracy one of the tenets of that democracy is freedom of speech - and I say long may this freedom remain. It will be a sad day, Sir, if my fellow Caymanians are ever prevented from exercising their democratic rights of freedom of speech and/or expression. I do not think that this will ever happen in the Cayman Islands. In this connection I was somewhat disappointed to read in the papers that the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council, Captain Charles Kirkconnell, was offended by alternative proposals for Cayman Brac which were made by Mr. Linton Tibbetts, a well respected member of that same Island. Rather than being offended, he should have welcomed any and all suggestions made. It somewhat seems a contradiction in terms that a politician would express his offence because a fellow citizen dared to express his personal views on a particular issue. What, indeed, is our country coming to?

However, Mr. President, let me say here and now that I hold no brief for Mr. Linton Tibbetts and therefore do not intend to justify any of his actions. As most people know, Mr. Tibbetts is a self-made man who speaks for himself. Neither, Mr. President, have myself or the seconder in any way been influenced by this gentleman. The Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council himself can vouch to Mr Tibbetts' integrity, because, as I understand it from that Honourable Member, they have been friends for a number of years, perhaps much longer than I have known Mr. Tibbetts.

There were a number of letters which appeared in the press which were not particularly complimentary to my views or recommendations, but I would never, Mr. President, say that I am offended by them - the day I start taking offence to any views of the public is the day I should consider not being a Member of this House. The only letter, Mr. President, which offended me was the letter written by the elusive, faceless, George Ebanks, an individual it seems no one is able or willing to identify. All I see in the papers is not this George. Well, if I was the architect of such rubbish, Mr. President, I too would hide my identity and hang my head in shame, because that letter was a direct insult to the people of Cayman Brac.

As mentioned, I wish to commend all those who came out in favour of my statement, and also those who opposed me. They have shown, by so doing, that they exercise their democratic rights of speech and expression. I have every belief that, had more thought been given to the contents of my motion, even the staunchest opponents would have understood the wisdom and probity of the contents of my motion, and perhaps would not have been so personal and critical toward me.

What I did find somewhat amusing was the fact that some of the Brackers who spoke out most vehemently against my motion are now living in Grand Cayman because of the economic depression of the Brac. If conditions are indeed as good as, for example, Mr. Ira Walton says they are, then why did he leave these excellent conditions to live in Grand Cayman? Secondly, Mr. President, why is it that Captain Charles - and I refer to him not as the Honourable Third Elected Member of Council, but in his position as the Chairman of that committee - I would not in any way show lack of respect to Captain Charles, for I want it well known that he is a gentleman for whom I have a lot of respect. So I refer to him in his position as Chairman of the committee.

MR. PRESIDENT: Honourable Member, I must ask you not to name other Members of the House. Thank you.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Thank you, Mr. President. I bow to your ruling. I trust, Sir, if you have to interrupt me, it will be on a valid point of order.

MR. PRESIDENT: It was. Thank you.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: I must say I was a bit surprised by the contents of the article written by Joy Baker of the Caymanian Compass in her interview of selected individuals on Cayman Brac. And here again, I must say, she is a lady for whom I have a lot of respect. So it is not critical of herself as a person, perhaps of the editorial policy in this particular respect. If the Compass really wanted to help out in this issue, it should have conducted a more in-depth survey of the views of a wider cross-section of Cayman Brackers, rather than just the views of a selected few. I nonetheless congratulate Ivan Jackson and Lolita Bodden, and others like them for the pride they have displayed in wishing to remain and work in Cayman Brac. They have done this out of choice and love for their Island.

In view therefore, of the very narrow consensus reported by Joy Baker in the Compass, following her trip to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, I feel that in the absence of a more representative view of a wider cross-section of the population of the Sister Islands, that it lacks considerable credibility, and cannot therefore be relied upon as a true indication of the feelings and views of the average Bracker.

In respect to the poisonous letter from R.S. Bodden, I can only say that I feel sorry for her state of mind. She is obviously out on a limb, far removed from the reality of the true situation which exists in the Brac. May I, on the other hand, again, thank all those who supported me during this onslaught. It is not necessary for me to mention their names at any length, as their constructive and sensitive views will be indelibly imprinted and enshrined in the annals of the history of the Cayman Islands.

Even though I will not be going into any details of letters written, during the presentation of this motion, I cannot help but refer to one of the most constructive letters which appeared in Friday 17th August 1987 issue of the Compass, entitled "No more suggestions wanted". I have to agree with the writer, Mr. Bernard Tibbetts, when he asks the following questions: "Is it not more appropriate to thank people for their interest and suggestions, whether they are feasible or not? Is that attitude the kind that motivates geese to lay golden eggs?" - and I should say this letter was in response to the Honourable Third Elected Member's letter in the papers, when he stated his offence to the alternatives suggested by Mr. Linton Tibbetts. Can people with good intentions risk to offer suggestions in future without fear of repercussions or embarrassment, and, may I add, Mr. President, some amount of vindictiveness? Serious questions, indeed, which need to be answered.

I was pleased to see the stand which Mr. Linton Tibbetts took on this issue, as reported in Thursday 30th July 1987 issue of the Compass. While broadly supportive of my views, I can assure the Honourable Third Elected Member that Mr. Linton Tibbetts' views were his own. I can hardly see a man of his stature and intelligence needing to repeat the views of some other individual. And certainly he did not do this in my case. I would like this point to be understood fully as I have been told that Mr. Linton Tibbetts had discussed this matter with me before I decided to deal with it.

I believe that the most vexing revelation from the Honourable Third Elected Member during the airing of this whole issue in the Compass was Mr. Gilbert McLean's announcement to stand for election in Cayman Brac, and also the fact that he came out strongly in support of my motion. Yes, I will agree that I fully support Mr. McLean for elective office in the Brac, but may I make it abundantly clear that contrary to the false impression which certain individuals have tried to give the public, my interest in this issue is not political, but instead an issue which I view to be of national importance.

I personally have a very high regard for Cayman Brackers for I have found them to be some of the most industrious people in the world - they are very ambitious people. They only want the opportunity to work and to make a decent living. They do not want hand-outs of Members' parliamentary salaries. One only has to look around Grand Cayman to see what some of the leading businesses and businessmen and women in Grand Cayman are doing and they will find that the majority of these are Cayman Brackers. My motion, Mr. President, seeks to help them retain this pride that has become an inherent and integral part of their lives. After all, Mr. President, Cayman Brac is as much a part of the Cayman Islands as is Grand Cayman, and any representative worth his salt should have a genuine interest in the planned development of the Cayman Islands and in particular the Sister Islands.

To quote Mr. McLean in his address at his public meeting in Cayman Brac on 25th June, 1987, and I quote:

"What the self-glorified politicians of the day fail to grasp is that the people of Cayman Brac, Little Cayman and Grand Cayman are bound together by historical, cultural and natural affinities, which defines itself as the Cayman Islands governed by a central entity."

He continued:

Since 1979, 17 per cent of the Brac people have had to leave the Brac in order to survive economically. This is a staggering revelation, and an indictment against the present administration since the upper percentage of that 17 per cent left within the past three years."

Mr. President, when I refer to Mr. McLean, I do not refer to him as a budding politician, but also as a past District Commissioner for Cayman Brac. Mr. McLean went on to say, and I quote:

"Granting custom exemptions to the rich to keep the status quo is not going to help the Brackers. Cayman Brackers are subject to a higher cost of living than everyone else in the Cayman Islands. The major mistake that administrations make in dealing with the Brac situation is that they act as if Brackers are different people."

Mr. President, the purpose of my asking questions yesterday on the economic situation in the Brac was to seek statistics to support my motion, because I do not want to rise in this House on any issue unless I have given it thorough study.

Arising out of parliamentary questions answered in this Honourable House yesterday, Mr. President, figures do not lie, especially when they are authenticated by our good Financial Secretary. In answer to a question which I asked in respect to the $5.8 million budgeted for the Brac during the period 1985 to 1987, it was shown that in actual fact only $2.6 million of this amount was spent. A total of $3,284,786 of the budgeted amount for this three year period was left unspent. I would hope that the Honourable Third Elected Member will be able to give us a proper explanation for this. More than half of the money provided for the Brac went unspent. I wonder, therefore, if the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council can provide a reasonable explanation as to this position. It was seen necessary for Government to provide the $5.8 million for development in the Brac. Why did not the Honourable Member responsible for the Brac ensure that the necessary work was done, thus providing employment for the people of the Brac, and preventing them from having to give up their homes and relocate to the Grand Cayman and other places? There is no wonder Grand Cayman had to subsidise the Brac to the tune of $4.5 million over the period 1983 to July 1987. This was more than the revenue collected by the Brac over the same period. On average, the answer to my parliamentary question shows that the Brac's annual revenue is approximately $800,000. Mr. President, this will get smaller if the population continues to dwindle. This is, I suppose, to an average annual expenditure position of approximately $1.6 million, or approximately double the revenue being received.

Mr. President, I am not concocting figures. These are the figures given here yesterday. And it does not take Adam Smith, or any other economic brain to assess the reasons for this disparity. It is simply a lack of economic activity bordering on stagnation in the economy.

We have been told in the press and elsewhere by the Honourable Third Elected Member that, to reduce the revenue of the Brac for two years to a reduction in import duties, will mean the destruction of the Cayman Islands' financial system, or something to that effect. I cannot subscribe to this view. I will demonstrate how there will be increased activities resulting from a reduction of import duties to 2.5 per cent across the board on building materials and 5 per cent on all food and other products not now exempted. I am not suggesting that those items which are now exempted such as yams and so on, that a duty should be imposed on them. I want to make that abundantly clear. I am talking about items that are not now exempted. I am excluding tobacco and alcoholic products. I do not think that anybody anywhere should get any exemption on those products. If anything, the duty should be doubled.

Mr. President, I will show that these incentives recommended by me would boost the economy of the Brac and thus have - and I am going to be dealing with this point in economics - the multiplier effect of increasing overall revenue and thus, in the long term, negating any immediate losses which may be experienced in the short term; and additionally improving the life-styles of our fellow Caymanians in the Sister Islands, thus, Mr. President, having a two-fold desired effect.

Mr. President, as I said earlier, whenever I have dealt with a motion or other matter in this House, I have always ensured that these matters were fully researched. This motion therefore is no exception. It is quite clear to the people of Cayman Brac and Grand Cayman that the Sister Islands have been sold short. There is no use in the Honourable Third Elected Member, or any other Member standing in this House, trying to castigate me for bringing this motion, or, indeed, questioning my motives for so doing, trying to make this motion look unnecessary. This is not the point. I would ask each Member who wishes to speak on this motion to listen to the contents of what I have to say. And on the basis of that, forget about any predetermined ideas they may have had toward my motion - and if it makes sense, what I have to say, support it. If not, then by all means use your democratic rights of refusal. If my motion is not accepted by the Government, it will be clear to the residents of the Cayman Islands, and in particular those from the Brac, that pig-headedness rules the day and that the interests of Brackers have been denied.

Mr. President, I would like at this time to support my motion by taking a look at some of the comprehensive points brought to us by the Honourable First Official Member and Financial Secretary. He gave us a very complete summary of the budgeted amount of the Brac of $5,840,938 of capital expenditure budgeted for the years 1985, 1986 and 1987. He was also good enough to give us the total actual expenditure over that same period. Alas we see that only $2,556,152 was spent. Why was not the $3,284,786 spent? If it is said that this is because the money was not received from the financing source, why did not Government arrange, as has been done in the past, to advance the necessary funds? It is no wonder, Mr. President, that our Cayman Islands Government, that Grand Cayman had to subsidise the Brac, the Sister Islands, to the tune of $4,518,990 over the period 1983 to July 1987. Mr. President, I can only submit from these figures that the Islands were indeed neglected.

We also have a breakdown of comparative recurrent revenue and expenditure for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman over the past five years. We see that each year the personal emoluments could not even be covered by the current revenue. Some would say in this House that that is enough proof that we cannot reduce the revenue to 2.5 per cent, but I will show during my debate on this matter that the multiplier effect, by allowing the people of Cayman Brac to receive the benefit of 2.5 per cent across the board could more than compensate for the loss of revenue that Cayman Brac would receive for those two years. I will show that, Mr. President.

We also see here, from a comparative figure of capital expenditure for Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac for the years 1985, 1986 and 1987, that Grand Cayman had a total of $16,910,980 compared to Cayman Brac's $2,556,152. Mr. President, Cayman Brac is a part of the Cayman Islands. Why such a disparity? I leave that to the minds and the consciences of our Members.

Mr. President, regardless of the political rhetoric which you may hear in this House in opposition to my Motion, I am convinced from the feedback which I have received on it from a cross-section of not only Cayman Brackers, but also residents of Grand Cayman, that my recommendations are practicable, feasible and urgently needed; and I plan to show beyond any reasonable doubt that the advantages that will accrue to the people of the Brac if my motion is passed will indeed be on the positive side. However, let no one feel that I am labouring under any grandiose disillusionment that the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council and his Government supporters have the slightest intention of supporting this Motion. I would be shocked and pleasantly surprised if they saw the light, cast their pride aside in considering this motion and passed it.

Mr. President, my Motion calls for a reduction on import duties on all building materials to 2.5 per cent, across the board, on all such materials, notwithstanding any incentives already provided under the Hotel Aids Law or any other laws, with such reduced duties to be calculated on a freight equalisation basis; that is, on the CIF value of freight costs to Grand Cayman. That really means that the people in Cayman Brac would pay the same in freight as those in Grand Cayman, thus reducing the costs to the people in Cayman Brac. It is, however, my understanding that the freight equalisation - and I would make this point - the freight equalisation system has recently been put into effect and I would wish to congratulate the Government if this is indeed the case.

Secondly, my motion continues - a reduction to 5 per cent on all other dutiable imported goods, other than liquor and tobacco products. I am afraid I may offend some people, but I hope that Government would consider, in their wisdom, to double the import duty on those products. Mr. President, again, may I say, I have never brought a motion to this House - and I want to make that point, because I have put a lot of study into this, I have done a lot of research, so I am not talking off the top of my head; I have done a lot of research into this so I know what I am saying - without first giving it a lot of research. There are potential advantages which will accrue to the people of Cayman Brac from the implementation of my motion and I wish and hope to make this abundantly clear as I proceed.

Let my motion be misunderstood, Mr. President, may I state here and now that I feel that the concessions recommended by the Honourable Third Elected Member will assist in a small way, but these concessions are inadequate and will not provide any immediate and direct benefits to the average citizens of the Brac. If I am wrong, I trust that the Honourable Member will show me the error of my statement.

If the concessions were made across the board at the 2.5 per cent for the two years as recommended by me, immediate benefits would accrue to all Cayman Brackers wishing to avail themselves of these concessions. In particular, Mr. President, local businessmen on the Brac and those from the Brac operating in Grand Cayman wishing to return to the Brac, would have the facility of a reduction in import duties also extended to them - as would home owners, and those wishing to build otherwise. I quite agree that in order for the local people to take advantage of the concessions they will need job opportunities - I am aware of this - but it is a question of the chicken and the egg. However, I contend that much else needs to be done in the way of infrastructure facilities, etcetera, before we can even think of attracting condominium developers to the Brac, retirees and Cayman Brac residents who are living in the United States, who have become accustomed to all the conveniences of life in a more developed country.

Mr. President, in order to bring this matter into its proper perspective and to deal with the subject from an economic point of view, it is important to fully understand our economy and our economic potentials for the three Islands and the various factors required in the development of the economies of these three Islands as a whole, and, indeed, each one individually.

The Cayman Islands export two highly invisible products - namely tourism and financial services. The future growth of both these industries as export activities could have critical macro effects on the three Islands' sensitive economy. Most importantly, in order to reach the development potentials of the three Islands, it will be imperative for our Government, as a prerequisite, to develop the infrastructure which is needed to support the tourism and banking industries in these Islands, including Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. We understand, Mr. President, that Cayman Brac and Little Cayman will not develop in the same way as Grand Cayman, but neither is this desired or required. These Islands can, however, maximise their potential by the introduction of realistic and appropriate policies.

The banking industry in the Cayman Islands continues to grow annually due to several factors, which factors are common to the three Islands, including strict secrecy laws and a very sophisticated financial centre, political and racial stability, and, of course, the Islands' ideal proximity to the United States and most developed countries. Banks and trust companies, offshore companies, insurance companies which register here must pay annual licence fees to the Government. Mr. President, why could not consideration be given to new investors - and I would stress here not existing people working already and registered in the Cayman Islands - but to new investors of, say, a reduction of 50 per cent on fees to encourage them to register in Cayman Brac. This is not far fetched, neither is it unrealistic because we know that now the average investor will go to the remotest part of the world to save a few bucks. We have them going to Turks and Caicos, to Anguilla and to a number of other places. Mr. President, this is worthy of consideration. I can hear, Mr. President, some Member saying there are no facilities on the Brac to encourage investors, but may I remind these individuals that we also had very few facilities here in Grand Cayman in the late 1950s and 1960s when we started developing our financial industry.

As I said, Mr. President, if potential investors will go to places such as the Turks and Caicos Islands, Anguilla, Panama and other politically unstable countries, then why should they not come to the Garden of Eden in the Cayman Islands, and, in particular, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

I have made reference to this possible avenue merely to demonstrate to this Honourable House the various opportunities open to strengthening the economy of the Brac. If only our Government, and in particular the three Honourable Elected Members of Council, would be flexible enough to listen to the ideas and views of others and respect them even though they may not necessarily agree with their own.

I realise, Mr. President, that no one person has all the answers and this would be well for all of us to realise. From a qualitative analysis point of view, the Cayman Islands tourism product can be broken down into certain components which can provide a background for the positioning of these Islands as a competitive Caribbean resort destination. I intend to show from my analysis exactly how Cayman Brac can develop its potentials and, by so doing, to demonstrate to this House and the listening public that the recommendations made will not provide immediate benefits to the average Bracker - that is the recommendations already put into effect by Executive Council.

Mr. President, we have on record the recommendations which Mr. Linton Tibbetts made in the paper which, although corresponded with my recommendations were not as a result of collusion, but I would say indicated a common ground and common sense between the two individuals. The major economic boost recommended by the Honourable Third Elected Member's committee is the development of condominiums to attract retirees and Brackers living in the United States who care to return to the Cayman Islands. But I ask the question, Mr. President, is Cayman Brac ready for large-scale condominium development? We must bear in mind the constraints of the lack of the necessary infrastructure facilities. Do we want to make the same mistakes there that were made in Grand Cayman? We know that in Grand Cayman we are just now getting our infrastructure put in place and at great inconvenience to members of the public.

Mr. President, I will also show the main disadvantages of large-scale condominium development at this time for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman: lack of available food and beverage amenities, including room service - where will we get this in the condominiums proposed in the committee chaired by the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council? Lack of services to co-ordinate travel plans and provide information relative to Island attractions and activities. Lack of available Scuba and watersport instruction and equipment rental - one of the areas that would be most attractive to tourists going to Cayman Brac. Lack of existing support amenities such as rental car services and retail and gift shops, etcetera. I could go on and on, but I think that the Honourable House indeed understands what I am saying.

Why did not the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council and his committee give some consideration to those businesses wishing to expand or to those individuals wishing to build guest homes and cottages? By so doing, he would have given the local Cayman Brackers, who have roughed it through the years and the bad days, an opportunity to improve themselves.

At present, there are a number of guest homes and cottages in Grand Cayman that are still operating. They are still rented to tourists, some of the tourists much prefer to go to some of these intimate accommodations rather than having to rent or buy a condominium. How about Brackers wishing to establish restaurants and boutiques, etcetera, when the tourist ships - and I am going to come to this in time - start visiting the Brac? This will happen, if not in this Administration, perhaps in some other - but it will happen. What is being done to arrange for cruise ships to stop in at the Brac? What is being seriously done, not superficially done, seriously done, to attract cruise ships to the Brac?

Mr. President, tourists often base their selection of vacation destinations or ports of call on three major factors namely, accommodations, restaurants and the natural attractions available to them. This is a fact. Cayman Brac certainly has her share of natural attractions, and one of the best diving areas in the world and, from what I am told, perhaps only second to Little Cayman. When a destination is first utilised by tourists, it is characterised by the following:

- (1) limited accessibility;
- (2) no tourism related products;
- (3) limited infrastructure or superstructure;
- (4) natural unspoiled environment.

During the initial development stage, such as the stage that Cayman Brac is now experiencing, it is characterised by the need for:

- (1) regular air services;
- (2) development of small lodging accommodations; and
- (3) infrastructure development.

Mr. President, I have just described a situation and facts similar to that which obtains in the Sister Islands, and it is therefore my view that the approach recommended by the Honourable Third Elected Member's committee is inappropriate and will not produce the maximum immediate benefits to the people of the Sister Islands.

I, like a number of other Caymanians and residents, can appreciate that Cayman Brac and Little Cayman will attract a different type of tourist than those coming to Grand Cayman, mainly because of the peculiar characteristics of these Islands. But it is doubtful that Cayman Brac or Little Cayman will have any significant development based solely on the three avenues recommended by the Honourable Third Elected Member's committee, namely condominium developments, retirees and Cayman Brac residents wishing to retire in, or return to, Cayman Brac.

Mr. President, Government must also, in addition to planning accommodation, give urgent attention to providing the necessary infrastructure. Urgent attention, not in six months time and not by having $3 million unspent and not being used, but Government must give urgent attention to infrastructure such as water and sewerage. This is most important. This is of paramount importance as a prerequisite to any serious development taking place in the Sister Islands.

Greater efforts must be made to attract cruise ships to the Islands which will have the effect of bringing revenue into the Islands and creating the demand for ancillary tourist facilities such as boutiques, restaurants, watersports, shops, etcetera, as mentioned earlier. Did the Honourable Third Elected Member's committee give any consideration to the middle and lower income Brackers who could benefit if this concession was extended across the board at the 2.5 per cent as recommended in this motion? Has he considered the benefits which could derive to Government's revenue through the multiplier effect of these various facilities and revenues deriving therefrom?

Mr. President, accommodation such as condominiums is but one of the five major categories of travel facilities required. The others, which are equally important are transportation, food and beverage, retail outlets, reservations and recreation. What provisions have been made by the Honourable Third Elected Member's committee for these?

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you. Perhaps we should now suspend proceedings for lunch and resume at about 2:15 p.m.

AT 12.44 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2.14 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Back to the Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, before continuing my presentation of this motion, I wish to basically explain the theory of the multiplier effect which I have alluded to during my presentation thus far.

Basically, the effect that this has is that businesses generating any revenue have the effect of mushrooming within an organisation or given community and by so doing it also offers certain ancillary benefits to those around. So the items mentioned that would be beneficial to the country will also have the effect not only of benefitting those people who establish the businesses, but also to the general public who will also benefit from these special facilities. So basically that is what it is all about, but in each individual case there would, of course, be details to be dealt with.

When we left for lunch I was dealing with the subject of what is regarded as the five major categories of travel facilities for any tourist destination. We mentioned that condominiums are but one of those five categories, the other four of course being good transportation, food and beverage, retail outlets, and recreation for the tourist. My question followed at the break, to the Honourable Third Elected Member, what provisions have been made in this respect by the committee established by him?

Mr. President, other than the reduction of duties on building materials to 2.5 per cent across the board for two years, I am also recommending a reduction to 5 per cent on all other dutiable imported goods other than liquor and tobacco products. This would certainly help those Cayman Brackers wishing to enter into the taxi business when the economy starts moving, and to Cayman Brackers generally as it is an established fact that goods are much more expensive in Cayman Brac than in Grand Cayman.

I have been asked why I should concern myself about Cayman Brac. My answer is simply that as a Member of the Cayman Islands Legislature, the well-being of the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is also important to me as indeed it is to each Member of the House, or should be. It is ridiculous, therefore, for any Member or his supporter to take the selfish view that Elected Members from Grand Cayman should show no interest or have no say in the affairs of the Sister Islands, when in fact statistics, here in this House, have shown that we are subsidising the Brac to a fairly large extent.

For us to sit here and not pay any attention at all to what is happening in Cayman Brac would be a dereliction of our duties. If we leave the economy of the Brac to stagnate any further we could find ourselves in the position where we may have to totally subsidise these Islands. They are as much a part of the Cayman Islands as is Grand Cayman. We have to get that quite clear. They are an integral part of the Cayman Islands and if their economies are left to deteriorate we, in Grand Cayman, will definitely have to subsidise them and carry the string, thus worsening the present situation.

I saw in the Honourable Third Elected Member's release of 23rd July, 1987 that he referred to my suggestion as lacking reality and showing a regrettable lack of understanding. I think I have those facts quite correct. I would like to remind him that I fully understand the situation. I wonder, though, whether he does? An elementary course in economics would have told him that there is something called the multiplier effect and I have already given a basic outline of how this works, not only on a government level, but in any organisation. There is also something called supply and demand. Unfortunately, the lack of understanding in these matters is not with me. The problem with our Government for many years is that we have had too many merchants running the show who believe that Government must be run as a grocery store. As I said, I have always had a great deal of respect for the Honourable Third Elected Member, and any mention in the papers that may appear derogatory toward me will not change this respect for him, but he must allow himself to become more flexible and listen to some suggestions even though they may come from people whom he may regard as his inferiors.

May I remind any Member speaking after me that, in the very likely event that they plan to get up in this House and crucify me on this issue, I trust I will have the ability to appropriately reply in my winding up.

On the question of the multiplier effect and supply and demand in economics, the basic rule of thumb is that certain direct services will generate other ancillary services, thus having the effect of generally increasing the revenue base of that organisation or, otherwise, where this rule is applied to revenue. On the other hand there must be the demand for a particular service in order to justify or command an increased supply of that particular commodity or service.

In the case, therefore, of the present revenue structure the Honourable Third Elected Member gives the impression that the recommendations contained in my motion would in the long term damage Government's revenue earning position or capabilities in the Sister Islands. But, Mr. President, I feel I have demonstrated thus far the position that this is not the case and that indeed my recommendations would enhance the revenue positions of Government, not only on hearsay, but on the basic, pure economic theories of the multiplier effect and of supply and demand.

The Honourable Third Elected Member also said in his letter that his objections to my suggestions are not political. If he can sleep comfortably believing in the truth of that statement, then can I. For me, my interest in the Brac dates back long before I ever thought of becoming a politician and for a long time I felt that those Islands were being neglected. He himself stood up in this Honourable House and replied something to the effect that the reason why more was not done in the Brac was because he was so involved in the capital programme of Grand Cayman. Mr. President, Hansard of this Honourable House can give the exact text of that statement.

I agree that much has been done in Grand Cayman and I am grateful for that, but I also contend that much more could have been done in the Brac and in my books this is neglect. I wonder whether more would have been done for those Islands had the Honourable Member still been living in that Island. Again he states that he has taken offence to my remarks regarding my opinion of his neglect of the Sister Islands. It seems that he takes offence to any remarks made about the Sister Islands which do not fully agree with his own personal views. So this is really not a new revelation.

The Honourable Member cites, for the basis of his stewardship, the fact that in three years, 1985 to 1987, a total of $5.8 million was spent in the Brac. Therefore he implies that Government has fulfilled its commitment to our fellow Caymanians in the Lesser Islands. But, Mr. President, we have shown that the figures given by him in the papers were not totally correct. The figure given was budgeted figures, and not the amount spent. The amount spent was less than half the amount budgeted.

If all is as well as he would have us believe, why is it that so many Brackers, especially the young people, are taking up employment in Grand Cayman and other countries? What are the reasons for the big drop in the population of 17 per cent? Why is it that the schools are now suffering and the Education Department is considering reorganising the system downwards in the Brac? Why is it that the people are so upset about Government's proposed changes in the education system of the Brac? Ask your people whether they too have a regrettable understanding of the situation in the Brac.

I again say, Mr. President, that the concessions recommended by Government will initially only benefit the richer individuals. It is known that the average Bracker needs assistance to boost the economy, but unless we give them the opportunity they will remain in the stagnant position they are now in. They do not need it in five or ten years time, they need that assistance now, regardless of the economic prognostications of any supporter of this Government. I would remind them that it is now that the help is needed in Cayman Brac. One only has to take a trip over there to see for themselves the number of people who are out of work. Check the statistics and see the number who have had to come to Grand Cayman to be able to make a living. Is that a buoyant economy?

What is strange, Mr. President, is that I am yet to see one Cayman Bracker living in the Brac say that he or she does not agree that things are bad in Cayman Brac. I have heard one or two people say that they are going to try to make a go of it in Cayman Brac, but I have had people up to this past week - Cayman Brackers who that have come to my office - praying that something will be done and they have told me that the concession will not help them. They cannot afford multi-million dollar condominium developments; they cannot afford to retire. They also realise, Mr. President, that before these developments will come to Cayman Brac there has to be some attraction - 5 per cent is not the answer. Perhaps Mr. Ira Walton will one day tell me why he chose to live in Grand Cayman if things are as rosy in the Brac as he would have us believe. The same question of course can be asked to other people from the Brac who have been forced, through no choice, for economic reasons, to come to Grand Cayman. I have spoken to some of those people here and they would like to go back to their home, but there is nothing there for them to go to.

Mr. President, I am in possession of a paper that states in 1986 - and this was done by the Honourable Third Elected Member - there was little or no economic activity in the private sector and it was found that quite a number of people, especially from Cayman Brac, left the Island because of the unemployment situation. He has admitted this. So I am not fabricating anything.

Mr. President, I do not want anybody to get the wrong impression. I am personally proud of the contribution made by Cayman Brackers living in Grand Cayman. They are an asset to this country. I have yet to see one who is not an ambitious person, and his is what makes the whole situation so bad. Those very ambitious people have had to root up their lives and come to Grand Cayman to make a living. No one is crying them down, we all respect them. The only place in town that does not have a 'K' on it must be the Glass House. We know that these people are very ambitious, and I am proud of this. But what about all the other people who would like to go back home - what is there for them to go to? What about the school leavers - what is there for them to go to?

Why was this matter not dealt with before February of 1987 when this Government was aware of the economic situation from 1984? Any why was action not taken before 25th June, 1987, a month after my Private Member's Motion was submitted to this House. I am not saying the reason for it, but it does look strange.

Mr. President, what I cannot accept is the political rhetoric from individuals who would use this serious matter for their own political ends. I have no axe to grind, I do not intend to run in the Brac.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Excuse me, one moment. I must interrupt the Honourable Member. You named a Member of the House a moment ago and I did not interrupt you. You are now coming very close to contravening the Standing Order about imputing improper motives. I have no wish to curtail your speech, but I would be grateful if you would observe it as closely as I know you can.

Please go on.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President. I am amazed at how much my patience has grown over the past years.

The Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council in his release also reminded us of the long time he has known Brackers. He said, much longer than I. This is obvious. The man is old enough to be my father. He lived in that country so he should know them much longer than I. But all I can say to that is that he does not seem to know them well enough, at least based on the feeling and the feedback I have been getting from the people of the Brac.

May I remind the Honourable Third Elected Member that the days when the loyalty of Caymanians could be gotten in ways other than through political platforms are fast disappearing. It is a pity I have to place my words so carefully, because I do not want to be interrupted again, Mr. President. The days when Caymanians were satisfied with a few dollar hand-outs are fast disappearing. The people of this country are tired of this type of condescending manner. I am not imputing improper motives to any individual, it is just a plain statement of fact when big brother looked after all your needs. They are not happy with this situation. One only has to go out on the street and talk to the people.

Our people in Grand Cayman and the Sister Islands are asking for opportunities. We are an ambitious people. We do not wish hand-outs. We want the opportunity to work. We are known to be individuals of high intelligence who have been able to rise to any level. Therefore, Mr. President, the people of the Brac are asking for opportunities - work opportunities. What we need in the Brac is an immediate boost to the economy - an immediate boost to that economy - immediate assistance to the residents, not only to retirees or to Cayman Brackers living abroad and wanting to come back home, or to those people who can afford to build expensive condominiums. We need this for the middle and low income people alike.

Mr. President, I have heard that Government dare not accept my suggestions because of the possible loss in the Brac revenues. This has got to be the biggest joke of the year. I think I have demonstrated that this type of statement cannot be based on any economic or financial theory. It is baseless. I would be happy for any Member of this House to prove to me that that statement is wrong. How much revenue is at present being contributed to the Treasury of the Cayman Islands from the Sister Islands? None. As a matter of fact we have seen during the past three or four years where we have had to subsidise Cayman Brac and Little Cayman by over $4 million. Would the loss of this revenue - under my motion where I have suggested or recommended a reduction to 2.5 per cent across the board on building materials, 5 per cent on food items other than those that are now exempt, or on tobacco or alcoholic products - damage the economic base of the Cayman Islands? No, Mr. President, this is not the case. The answer is a resounding 'no'.

Mr. President, continuing with my motion, it has come to my attention that an attempt will be made during this debate to misinterpret the resolved section - and I would like to read it again. It states:

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that all goods transported to Grand Cayman from the Sister Islands during this two year period be subjected to existing rates of import duties in Grand Cayman to avoid any person(s) attempting to abuse any incentive which is specifically intended to benefit the people and economy of the Sister Islands."

The reason, Mr. President, why this was so specifically spelt out was to avoid any possible abuse of an incentive intended for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman to be used in Grand Cayman. I am not suggesting this would be done, but it is a stop measure to avoid it being done. It was not intended that we put any duties on presently exempt items such as yams, as I said earlier. So any Member who tries to raise that point would be mischievous because they should know better.

This resolved section, Mr. President, is not intended to take away any benefits which the Brackers now enjoy, such as duty-free concessions, as I said, on certain provisions. To the contrary, it is intended to safeguard the interests of Cayman Brackers against the possible abuse, as I stated earlier. The purpose for this resolved section, and I repeat, is not to take away the duty free concessions which the Brac farmers now enjoy on the export of yams, etcetera, to Grand Cayman. Gentlemen, let us be honest. You all know what this motion is asking for. Let us not build anything into it.

Mr. President, I have thus far given several examples of the overall benefits which can be derived by the people and revenues of the Brac through various avenues. However, there is none so blind as he who refuses to see. I could stand here all day and point out the virtues and the sagacity of my motion, but I know it will make no sense as I believe it has already been decided that this motion will not be supported. However, Hansard of this House will show that I cannot be accused of dereliction of duties toward the Sister Islands.

If the Honourable Third Elected Member and his committee had the benefit of the information contained in the draft Development Plan for Cayman Brac prior to him and his supporters blasting me in the papers, he would have seen that the plans, in addition to recommending condominium development, calls for the development of homes, as this is seen as complementary to hotel and condominium developments. It is therefore unfair that the rich folks alone should benefit from the duty free concessions. The average citizens of the Brac wishing to build rental apartments, homes, cottages, restaurants, and boutiques should not be deprived of this privilege. Did the committee of the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council give any thought to the poorer individuals who may wish to avail themselves of these opportunities?

Also the plan calls for cruise ships to be solicited on a limited basis. What provisions have been made to assist those Cayman Brackers who may wish to provide the ancillary services which will be created through more tourist arrivals in the Sister Islands? The plan further states that the Island's economy is almost totally dependent on tourism and Government services, and that tourism is seen to have good potentials for expansion. What is now being done to encourage cruise ships to stop off at Cayman Brac and Little Cayman? What is being done to provide water and sewerage and other infrastructure facilities to encourage condominiums, hotels or other tourist accommodation in the Sister Islands? How about improvements in air service to the Sister Islands?

If the Development Plan had been carefully studied the committee would have seen, or recognised, the many limitations which could adversely affect development in Cayman Brac. The Plan lists the following limitations for the Brac: limited availability of affordable financing, which is also a problem in Grand Cayman, especially for the poorer individuals.

Mr. President, this will form the basis or subject of another motion I have before the House during this meeting. I think that during this meeting I may set a record, Mr. President, of probably having the biggest number of Private Members' Motions ever presented by one individual in one meeting. But be this as it may, I feel that this indicates that there is a need for them.

In addition to limited availability of funds, the other limitations were listed as: expensive and scarce labour; small internal market; limited awareness of Cayman Brac - which means the Island needs more promotion; tenuous water supply; no sewerage system; absence of ready-made buildings for industrial use.

How about reviving the shrimp business in the Brac? That was once believed to be a viable concern. How about reviving that or having another look at it? How about the harvesting of cane crops and seafood products generally. Cayman Brac and Little Cayman are known to abound in these products. How about harvesting these, or at least doing a feasibility on it? Has any thought been given to these possibilities?

Another limitation is the high cost of the limited air service; also a built-in preference for imported goods, which is not only a problem in Cayman Brac, but is also a problem in Grand Cayman. I have heard a number of merchants here, or business people, complain that there seems to be a preference for imported goods. They feel that if perhaps the eggs and other products here had 'shipped from America' stamped on them, they would sell much better even though it is accepted that some of the produce such as eggs and so on are much better and are of a better quality.

Mr. President, I realise that there are others who may wish to speak on this motion, so in winding up this first segment of my debate - as I intend to exercise the right of reply - I will again read the contents of my Motion, so as to avoid any doubts. I want to make it abundantly clear the recommendation which I am seeking. I do not want any misunderstanding, Mr. President. I would like it to be understood that my recommendations are intended to bring immediate direct assistance not only to the more wealthy residents of the Brac, but also to the average citizen. Immediate benefits are needed now. I trust that Members will consider my motion with an open mind and not allow their pride to cloud this issue, but instead be flexible in this matter. After all our responsibility to our constituents should surpass any of our petty prides.

Mr. President, the resolved section of my motion asks for a 2.5 per cent reduction across the board on import duties on all building materials, a 5 per cent on all dutiable imported goods other than liquor or tobacco, or of course these items already exempted. And the third point of my resolved section reads: development of the needed infrastructure facilities to allow for the smooth and effective implementation of the foregoing.

Mr. President, I commend this motion to this Honourable House. Again, please understand that my recommendations are intended to supplement those that have already been made by the Honourable Third Elected Member. The difference, of course, being that mine will have the effect of bringing immediate needed benefits to all the people of Cayman Brac and not just to the chosen few.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Member for North Side?

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Elected

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Yes, Mr. President. I am going to let my responsibility to my constituency surpass my pride and therefore I cannot support the motion before the House. This motion would give to the people of Cayman Brac several distinct benefits and advantages which the people of my constituency should have the same right to.

Much has been made about the economic depression of Cayman Brac, but, Mr. President, to what are we comparing this economic depression? Are we only comparing it to the few boom years of Cayman Energy which most people understood and appreciated was more likely than not to be a transient situation which was controlled and dictated by outside forces. The collapse of Cayman Energy's programme in Cayman Brac was largely dictated by forces in the Middle East and the oil crisis, not to anything internally, or anything which Government had to do. Certainly if we take that little particular niche out of the Cayman Brac economy, it is very difficult to prove that the economy of Cayman Brac has been, or is undergoing, any great depression.

The mover of the motion, in his presentation, quite rightly said, Sir, that statistics and figures do not lie. If we look, Sir, at the answer given to a question yesterday morning concerning recurrent revenue for the Sister Island of Cayman Brac, it is a good indicator of whether the economy is being depressed or not. Certainly, in any country, if your recurrent revenue is going down it is going to suggest some form of a depression. Conversely, if it is going up, then, Sir, it has to suggest not a depression but a buoyancy in the economy.

If we look at the figures for 1983 - I will approximate and round them off, Sir, - $703,000; 1984, approximately a 30 per cent increase to $961,000; 1985, approximately 5 per cent decrease to $908,000; 1986, approximately a 10 per cent increase, and if the trend continues, as we all hope it does, we have to be optimistic in this environment, for 1987 we are looking at approximately a 15 per cent increase. So it is very difficult from these figures, Sir, to suggest that the economy in Cayman Brac, with all of its related ancillary matters of people leaving to come to the Cayman Islands, etcetera, etcetera, that there is any great depression in the economy. To the contrary, my information shows that tourism is up. I believe that the hotels over there have approximately a 10 per cent greater occupancy, somewhere around 90 per cent, as compared to 80 per cent in Cayman.

Now, Mr. President, I do not want people to get the impression that I have not supported development in Cayman Brac, because I supported the budget allocations in 1985, 1986 and 1987 to allow development, but as I said in my opening remark, I have a responsibility to the constituents of North Side, whom I represent and certainly a more direct responsibility than to those of Cayman Brac.

If we have a motion giving the people of Cayman Brac an across the board reduction of import duties to 2.5 per cent on building materials, then, Sir, I would request the same thing for my constituents. Similarly, if you are going to have a reduction on all dutiable items to 5 per cent from the standard 15 per cent and 20 per cent, then it would be a dereliction of my duty if I did not ask for the same thing for North Side, and a dereliction of duty of any Member who supports this motion and does not ask for it to be applied to his constituency.

Mr. President, the Member gave us several examples, or several suggestions, as to what the multiplier effect would do to the economy in Cayman Brac. Not being an expert on economics, I was hoping he was going to give me a specific example so that I could relate on a figurative basis what the effects would be. Maybe he can do that in his summing up.

Neither, Sir, do I agree entirely with the position the Member has taken that a reduction of duty in these two areas, building materials and 5 per cent on all other items which are dutiable, is necessarily going to stimulate the economy. The stimulation has to come from the people who step forward to take advantage of the incentives that governments provide. If we reduced it to zero per cent, unless the people in that area decided to take full advantage of the incentives provided, it is not going to happen. There is nothing in the concession which has been given by Executive Council that prohibits Cayman Brac people who are already involved in the tourist industry from building condominiums or guest houses and calling them condominiums, because a condominium simply means that it is under common title - what shape or form it takes is up to the individual.

Now, Mr. President, I do not believe the Member is suggesting that Government subsidise private enterprise in Cayman Brac. It is private enterprise which has to take advantage of these incentives. I think Government is going far enough in giving them the incentives. Certainly the Member is not suggesting that Government should subsidise people who want to open a boutique or who want to open a taxi service.

With regard to most of the ancillary areas which the Member addressed, I will agree there is a need for a certain amount of development in Cayman Brac as there is in Cayman. There are several ancillary areas of tourism which need further development in Cayman if Caymanians are going to benefit, etcetera, from the tourist industry, but that has to be done by the local seizing the initiative. I would hasten to add that my differing opinion with the Member has nothing to do with my big-headedness, etcetera, but it is simply my point of view and the way I feel it should be done.

Much has been made of the first two items of the resolved section, that is the reduction of duty on construction materials to 2.5 per cent, and the reduction across the board to 5 per cent - and I want to make it clear that I could never support that for Cayman Brac and not ask for it for the people of North Side. We subsidise them and as part of our overall community they are entitled to that, and I will support that.

The third part, Mr. President, the development of the needed infrastructure facilities to allow for the smooth and effective implementation of the foregoing. I have to ask the mover of the motion, Sir, at what point does Government's development of infrastructure stop and private enterprise start to provide some of their own infrastructure. Over the past five years, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman have gotten the wolf's share of infrastructure and development in this country - more than can be justified on any comparative basis.

Mr. President, if we are going to use figures to compare, we must compare like with like, and not apples with oranges; it must be apples with apples, and oranges with oranges. Therefore, Sir, we have to introduce some base value in any of these comparative figures, whether it is population, whether it is land area or whether it is income producing capacity, but to take them arbitrarily without the equalising factor of a base value tends to skew the picture in the wrong direction.

The Cayman Islands, Grand Cayman, in particular, Sir, developed its tourist industry with a wooden shack for an airport terminal. It is only quite recently that we have gotten an air conditioned terminal with all the facilities. The growing years of the tourist industry in this country was accomplished in a wooden shack that did not have air conditioning. Cayman Brac is going to have an air conditioned terminal in the very near future. I believe, Sir, that Government has done, and I will venture to say has done more than its share, more than can be justified in terms of the return on the investment in developing the infrastructure for Cayman Brac. My constituency has had to suffer and other constituencies in Grand Cayman have had to suffer. But we, as Members, recognising that they are a part of us have been prepared to suffer a certain amount, and I could never support this overboard attempt to develop Cayman Brac.

Mr. President, here again we have to be reasonable. It took Grand Cayman a number of years to develop to its present position. It was not accomplished overnight. It was done over the last twenty years and it is going to take the same for Cayman Brac. It is going to take time for these incentives which have been offered, to produce results and it is going to take time for the businesses to grow. But it is better, Sir, for the businesses to grow slowly. If you talk to most Cayman Brackers, Sir, they do not want to happen in Cayman Brac what happened in Grand Cayman, where there is almost the possibility of you losing your identity. They do not want that in Cayman Brac - at least the ones that I talked to.

The Member raised some areas of infrastructure which he feels Government needs to develop, and one he mentioned was water and sewerage. In Grand Cayman, until this year, every development had to provide its own water and sewerage unless it was on the Seven Mile Beach area where they got water from a private company and this can be done in Cayman Brac. They have already done it at the hotels that are there. They are not dumping the sewage into the sea or street, or offering people salt water to drink. They have made the necessary provisions and it is built into the cost of their development and what they charge people, and that is what has to continue to be done until such time as Government can afford to put in central sewer and water systems. And I would hasten to add that I would like to see that time predicated by the fact that there is enough usage for sewerage and water to pay for itself, because this country's Treasury cannot tolerate another Cayman Airways' drain on it. To talk about putting central water and sewerage in Cayman Brac today, with the present usage that it would have, that is exactly what you would have - $30 to $40 million disappearing from the Treasury with very little hope of any return. Even if that was done, there is no guarantee, and certainly I do not believe the people in Cayman Brac want to go from having a few tourists per month to a situation where they are having two or three hundred thousand per month with people are crawling all over them. I believe they want to develop gradually. People in Cayman have had to go to other places to look for work. There is nothing wrong with people from Cayman Brac coming to Grand Cayman and bettering themselves.

One suggestion that the Member made as to what he thought could stimulate the economy in Cayman Brac - I would like to challenge him on that, Sir - was that if we reduced the bank licence fees for Cayman Brac, we would get banks going over there. I agree with that, Sir. Do you know what would happen? If we reduced the bank licence and company fees for Cayman Brac by 15 or 20 per cent we would simply have the lawyers and accountants in town moving their whole portfolio of companies, telling the Financial Secretary to re-register them in Cayman Brac. All that is required is a plastic plaque on a wall on some building that is locked up. It does not even have to be air conditioned because those plastic plaques are not likely to melt - Cayman Brac does not get that hot, and to put a telephone in there that simply has the forwarding ability in today's electronic telecommunications world - you ring that number, it automatically rings in the office in town in Cayman and is answered here. They do not even need to employ one single employee in Cayman Brac to deprive this country of millions of dollars in revenue on a reduction of a 10 per cent or 20 per cent across the board for a banking or business licence. And what are you going to tell the people - that they cannot do that? It is free enterprise. It is for them to take advantage of the system, and they are going to do it.

Mr. President, I believe that Cayman Brac has been well served by the Government. I believe the Government has invested its fair share in Cayman Brac. I believe the evidence is there to suggest that the Cayman Brac economy is coming around after the 5 per cent depression in 1985, and I believe the Cayman Brac people are going to be well served. I think they are going to take advantage of the incentives and take the initiative. But I could never, Sir, support, giving the Cayman Brac people more than that by reducing import duty on all building material to 1.5 per cent and on all other imports except tobacco and liquor to 5 per cent without demanding that the same be done for the people of my constituency.

Mr. President, I will take the Member up on one suggestion. If he will move the motion to double the duty on liquor and alcohol, I will second it!

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, for those reasons, I cannot support this motion as it stands before the Assembly because, Sir, it would be a dereliction of responsibility to my constituent members to support this for the people of Cayman Brac and not ask the same for my people.

Thank you, Sir.

AT 3:12 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3:28 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Proceedings are resumed. Private Member's Motion No.9/B7. Would any Member wish to speak? The Honourable Third Elected Member.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL:

Mr. President, the motion before this House is unnecessary as events have overtaken its usefulness. Government has already taken adequate steps that will undoubtedly attract new business which will stimulate the economy and provide work for the people. Already there are signs that the economy is recovering, and several projects have been approved by the Development Control Board which substantiates this fact.

Before going further into the debate, I was confining my remarks to the motion; there were certain things mentioned by the mover which I must at this point clarify.

The mover said that I was offended by Mr. Linton Tibbetts' suggestion. Mr. President, nothing is further from the truth. I was never offended by his suggestions. The press used the word offended, but that was not a true reflection of my feelings. I disagreed with Mr. Tibbetts' method of trying to change the committee's recommendations unilaterally, and his statement that he represented the people of Cayman Brac. Mr. President, Mr. Tibbetts was appointed a member of the committee and he gave me his suggestions in a letter form. If you read this letter you will see the basis for the motion before the House - it is almost verbatim, only it is put in motion form. This motion should be called Mr. Linton Tibbetts' motion not the Second Elected Member for George Town's Motion

Mr. President, mention was made about Mr. Gilbert McLean. For the sake of clarification, Sir, I would like to state that at no time did I say anything against Mr. McLean going to Cayman Brac, nor did I encourage him to go to Cayman Brac. This is a free, democratic country. He can go wherever he wishes. I just want to get the point clear, Sir, that I have done nothing against Mr. McLean, and I have no intention of trying to do anything against Mr. McLean.

The mover also stated that he needed information from the Honourable First Official Member so that he could use it in his motion today. Mr. President, this shows that he placed his motion before he had any knowledge of the true financial position of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. He placed it on hearsay. He went on and made a big point about only one half the money voted has been spent. Mr. President, one must remember that we have only gone five months into the year so far, and furthermore I think I made it clear to the House this morning that there was a delay in the Financial Secretary signing the loan agreement for the airport. I will repeat again, the Caribbean Development Bank unilaterally upped the loan interest to the Cayman Island Government, and the Government refused to accept this increase on its loans. The Financial Secretary had to actually make a trip to Barbados to get face to face with them to negotiate better rates than they were trying to put on the Cayman Island Government. They had said that we were in a better financial standing than any of the other islands and that is why we had to pay more for our money. He pointed out, I think, to them that when we borrow money, we pay it back, and I think on that basis he got a reduction. We are one of their best customers.

Mr. President, another thing which was made much of was the lack of amenities in Cayman Brac, and also cruise ships. This, Sir, is a question of the chicken or the egg - which will come first? On the cruise ships, an attempt, or several attempts, shall I put it that way, have been made to entice cruise ships to go to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, but with no success. They have gone over there in person, they have looked at the facilities there and they asked what we were going to do with 700 to 1000 people on Cayman Brac? There are no shops and there are no beaches. So here we have to build - this is something the private sector must do, Sir - not turn to Government again, the Government has played its part - a very vital part. From 1976 on, Sir, I have been a Member of Government. At that point I worked with the Second and First Elected Members for Bodden Town and they know the efforts which I made on behalf of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. They assisted me and helped me build up the infrastructure while I was working with them as a team, and they continued this, Sir, through 1980 to 1984. The figures are there. So Cayman Brac has not been neglected by the previous Government nor this Government.

Mr. President, much of the mover's debate was based on letters in the press. The Jamaicans have a saying, Sir, that when you throw a stone among a herd of swine, the one that bawls is the one that is hit. So he has been hit by those letters, Sir, and that is why he is bawling in this House today.

LINEFORD A. PIERSON:

I hope, Sir, the Honourable Member is not referring to me as a swine!

HON. CAPT. CHARLES I. KIRKCONNELL:

I would take it that the Member has a little bit more knowledge than that, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I take that as meaning that the Honourable Third Elected Member does not refer to the Second Elected Member for George Town as the animal in question.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES I. KIRKCONNELL:

This is a Jamaican saying, a broad saying. I did not mean it personally, Sir, I am just saying that this is a saying used in Jamaica - when you throw a stone amongst a herd of swine the one that bawls is the one that is hit - and I say he has been hit by those letters, that is why he has made such a big issue of the letters in his debate. He hardly stuck to the motion.

There is another thing I would like to correct, Sir. I do not think he or anybody else can show me where I said in this House that I did not have enough time to attend to the business of Cayman Brac because I was too involved with the capital projects in Grand Cayman. I do not recall this, Sir, and I would ask the Member to be good enough, after this sitting of the House, to show me where I made any such statement. He also said that I take offence when people speak against me, or against what I propose. This is not so. Every day of my life people disagree with what I say, but I do not take it as a personal offence. Every man is entitled to his own opinion - and I do not take it as any personal offence.

Mr. President, the economy of the Sister Islands did feel the effect of the world recession which caused the price of oil to slump, and as a result the ship to ship transfer of crude oil off Cayman Brac and Little Cayman slowed down and it eventually ended. This, Sir, was a big set-back for the people of Cayman Brac in particular, as many of them lost their jobs. Because of this unfortunate situation, Government directed its capital expenditure to labour intensive projects such as road construction, airport development and schools. This was done, Mr. President, in order to give people as much work as possible, and to enable them to support their families.

The second part of the motion states: "And whereas there is no present sign of improvement". This, Sir, is absolutely incorrect. To state that there is no present sign of improvement in the economy is misleading and is not in keeping with the true position. Many projects have been started on Cayman Brac, and anyone who really wants a job can find one. It is undoubtedly true that we have experienced an upturn in the economy over the past few months and now there is actually a shortage of labour in the construction trade in particular. For the benefit of the mover of the motion and other Members of this Honourable House, I would ask your permission, Mr. President, to read a letter from the Managing Director of Tiara Beach Hotel. It deals with the labour situation experienced there. The letter is dated 2nd August and states:

"I would like to bring to your attention a serious problem which appears to be growing more serious, that is, a shortage of skilled labour in the construction trades. Presently, local contractors Roy Tibbetts and Terry Tatum are unable to find enough men on Cayman Brac. This has already caused a delay in the completion date of our 18 guest rooms from October 1st to December 1st. Moreover, the construction of our conference centre, new dive shop and photo centre, and the enlargement of our dive dock will be delayed for the same reason. I understand that the Foster Brothers are planning to begin construction of condominiums on Cayman Brac. I have also been informed that the new air terminal building is scheduled to begin construction in the near future. Please contact me at your earliest convenience to advise me how you plan that these projects be undertaken without sufficient skilled tradesmen."

(Signed) David Feinberg
General Manager, Tiara Beach Hotel."

Mr. President, I would also like to highlight some of the projects that are actually in hand at Cayman Brac and Little Cayman at the present time. The private projects - I just mentioned Tiara Beach Hotel's expansion of 18 rooms; Cable and Wireless are laying an underground cable the length of Cayman Brac; one beach cottage project has been approved by the Development Control Board and should commence shortly; there are four private homes which include the first retiree home to be built since we have given the concession - and that is due to start this month. Government projects include Public Works which has 61 men employed and 85 per cent are working on the roads. Work is also being carried out on the terminal site. A new dental clinic has been started adjacent to the Faith Hospital, and the new air terminal building is scheduled to start on 1st December this year. The Superintendent of Works told me that he would have difficulty finding extra workers if he had to undertake a large construction job now. Furthermore, Mr. President, workers have had to be imported to the Brac because it was not possible to find enough help there. The last information from Immigration shows that there are 40 persons with Gainful Occupation Licences working on Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

The third part of the motion reads, "Whereas numbers of people of the Sister Islands have relocated to Grand Cayman in order to earn sufficient to support their families". Mr. President, the population census taken in June this year shows that there are 1325 persons residing in Cayman Brac, whereas in October 1979 there were 1603 persons. This is a 17% drop which turned out to be much less than was predicted.

Ever since there have been settlers in these Islands we have experienced decreases and increases in population from time to time, so there is no reason for panic because Cayman Brac's population happens to be down - it is not a permanent situation. I am sure we will see many of them returning to Cayman Brac as the economic situation improves.

The people, Sir, did not leave because they were starving or living in huts; they left by their own free will and choice, and for various reasons. The young people were the largest group to leave to come to Grand Cayman to find work. Although jobs may well have been a consideration, I would like to point out another reason. Throughout the world, young people move from the less populated areas to the cities which offer more activities and opportunities for them. But the problem is more noticeable in Cayman Brac because of the small size of the population.

Mr. President, I now proceed to the first resolved section of the motion. Before I go to that though, Mr. President, I will say that I moved from Cayman Brac here, and the mover of this motion moved from East End to George Town - no big thing. Mr. President, the first part of the resolve reads:

"Be it therefore resolved that this Honourable House agree to assist in the stimulation of the economy of the Sister Islands of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman by providing incentives to potential investors to develop businesses in these Islands through the avenues of:

- (i) a reduction in import duties on all building materials to 2.5 per cent across the board on all such materials, notwithstanding any incentives already provided under the Hotel Aids Law or any other laws, with such reduced duties to be calculated on a freight equalisation basis, i.e. on the CIF value of freight costs to Grand Cayman."

I see no justification for reducing import duties on all building materials to 2.5 per cent across the board as called for in this motion. On 1st August, 1987, Government reduced the import duty to 5 per cent on all building materials and household appliances for a period of two years in order to attract and encourage foreign retirees, Caymanians living abroad wishing to resettle, and condominium developers whether they be foreign or local. Reduction of import duty to 5 per cent will not erode the revenue of our Islands, but will help to revitalise and stimulate economic activity in the Sister Islands.

I do not agree that Government should give a 2.5 per cent reduction on import duty across the board on all building materials as suggested. I believe the action taken by Government is positive and fair, and that we should wait and see what effects the 5 per cent reduction on import duty will have on the economy before taking other measures that will affect the revenue earning capabilities of our country.

If Government gave an across the board concession to everyone in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, as suggested, it would also have to be given to the less fortunate people in Grand Cayman and there would be no end to such concessions. Already, Mr. President, we heard the Elected Member for North Side saying that if Government adopts this motion and gives a concession to the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, he too would be expecting the same concession for the people of North Side, and he is absolutely correct. I am surprised that the Second Elected Member for George Town's foresight or vision had him looking over the heads of his own people into somebody else's field. The grass is greener in his own field, Sir, than what is out there, believe you me, Sir. Where we have one poor person in Cayman Brac he has 100. One would have thought that his first consideration would be to the people who put him in this House. That is where he should have directed his attention, not to Cayman Brac.

neglected.

The difference is, my people are not being

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNEL:

So say you. You go out there and look in the field, because every day I get complaints, and am being asked for help from members all over your constituency. People are living in shacks in your constituency, where there are none to be found in Cayman Brac.

Mr. President, the second part of the resolve reads:

- (ii) a reduction to 5 per cent on all other dutiable imported goods other than liquor and tobacco products.

To say that the 5 per cent import duty concession made by Government will not affect the lower income bracket or relieve the small businesses is very misleading. Government policy is to stimulate the economy of the Sister Islands in order to create jobs for the people there and enable them to earn a decent salary to support their families and purchase building materials for their houses. As I said before, Sir, there are no people living in shacks and they can all afford to pay duty on the building materials they use. I do not know of any person in Cayman Brac who does not have a roof over his head.

What the people of the Sister Islands really need is the certainty, Sir, of steady employment, which is only possible if the economy is stable, active and buoyant. Undoubtedly there are people who would like to improve their homes. The same is true about the people of Grand Cayman. I categorically state that the overall quality of houses owned by the poorer people of the Sister Islands is of much better standard than in Grand Cayman, and it would be most unfair to help them while the people of Grand Cayman are deprived of receiving the same consideration by having to pay full duty on their building materials. Furthermore, Members of this Honourable House know that if revenue earned from import duty is reduced, we would have to make up this loss by increasing fees in other areas.

Mr. President, the motion shows a lack of reality, and if it is accepted it would have serious consequences to what is Government's main source of revenue. The first part of the resolve states that duty should be calculated on a freight equalisation basis. Mr. President, if the Member would have taken the time and picked up his telephone to call the Glass House, he would have found out that this was already in place, and has been in place for months. The importers of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman are now paying the same freight rate as the importers are paying in Grand Cayman. I should say, for clarity, Sir, they are paying duty on the same freight rate, in other words, Sir, if the freight rate from Tampa to Grand Cayman is $100, and to Cayman Brac $125, the people of Cayman Brac are paying duty only on that $100.

Mr. President, the second part of the resolution seeks the agreement of this Honourable House to reduce duty on all other imported goods to 5 per cent, other than on liquor and tobacco products. This is yet another attempt to erode one of Government's main sources of revenue. I repeat what I have said before, Members of this Honourable House know that if revenue from import duty is reduced we will have to make up the loss by increasing fees in other areas. The Honourable First Official Member's answer to the question from the Second Elected Member of George Town yesterday clearly sets out the revenue earned by the Sister Islands and the total recurrent expenditure over the past five years. These figures show that revenue earned is not even paying half the cost of running the various Government departments in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. The main source of their revenue is derived from import duty, which amounts to 54 per cent. Can you imagine, to reduce the duty to 5 per cent on all other dutiable goods as the motion asks, what this would do to our economy? You would actually be reducing the Sister Islands' to a welfare state and would be making them even more dependent on Grand Cayman than they are today.

It is well known, Mr. President, that the people of the Lesser Islands are not lazy. They are hard-working, industrious and independent-minded. They have, in the past, provided facilities for themselves which the Government of the day could not afford to give them. They formed their own utility company to provide electricity, they started their airport, they built the Faith Hospital, and have a rest home for their older citizens. Many other projects were started by them which Government has completed and taken over. These are projects such as the Bluff Road which was started by Captain Reid and Mr. Trevor Foster and the dock at the Creek which was started by my relatives and the Reverend King. The records show that since 1976 the Government, in its annual budget, provided over $14.5 million to improve the quality of life on the Sister Islands by constructing new facilities and up-grading the many services required by the people.

Mr. President, the third resolve section states: "(iii) development of the needed infrastructure facilities to allow for the smooth and effective implementation of the foregoing". Here again the necessary infrastructure for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is already in place and the civil servants there are capable of running the administrative affairs of both Islands. I do not believe that the Member could be serious about the method he suggested for controlling imported goods into the Sister Islands and the measures he has recommended to prevent them entering Grand Cayman illegally. I think it is a joke. His proposal would be very costly to administer and would place an unnecessary burden on the people of Cayman Brac. They would have to document every item of cargo shipped between the Islands, including fish, yams and other local produce and prove that the goods originated in the Sister Islands. I am sure this proposal would be vigorously opposed and rejected by people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. President, I cannot support the Motion for the following reasons:

- (i) The Government has already taken steps that will stimulate the economy.
- (ii) There is presently no unemployment in Cayman Brac or Little Cayman. There are definite signs that the economy is improving and there are many projects due to start soon.
- (iii) The revenue of our Islands would be eroded.
- (iv) It would demoralise the people of the Sister Islands and take away their initiative. It would not help them as the mover of this motion seems to think. It would be very demoralising, it would kill their initiative. The Chinese have a saying, Sir, that if you give a man a fish you feed him for a day, but if you teach that man how to fish you have helped to feed him through his life. And this is what I am saying here - we just need to help the people of Cayman Brac, not hand out, hand out, hand out. We want to put the onus back on the people. The people are hard workers - they can work, all they need to be given is the opportunity and we are going to provide that opportunity, Sir.
- (v) It would be totally unfair to ask the people of Grand Cayman to take on the extra burden that this motion would create - absolutely unfair, Sir. We as Legislators have to be fair-minded. We can fight for our constituents, yes, but we have to also see that our constituents are not going to be heads and shoulders above the other man - we must treat one and all alike.
- (vi) It would be unfair to the less fortunate people of Grand Cayman to deny them the same concession as being sought in the motion for the Sister Islands.

There is an old saying that you can fool all of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time. All this peppy talk about the little man and the poor man that we hear of so often. Where is this Member's conscience that he has forgotten the people in his constituency? - the poor people, the little people in his constituency. Where is his social conscience? I beg him to search this and reply to it later when he replies to his motion.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I would like to quote a famous Scottish theologian, the Reverend William Barclay who said:

"Every economic problem would be solved if men lived for what they could do for others and not for what they can get for themselves. Every political problem would be solved if the ambition of men was only to serve the state and not to enhance their own prestige."

They are words I am asking the mover to think about.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Honourable Second Elected Member?

Does any other Member desire to speak? The HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, I had not intended to speak on Private Member's Motion No.9/87 dealing with the economic incentives for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman which is now placed before this Honourable House. However, in view of some questions which have been asked by the mover of the motion, I feel it necessary for the enlightenment of the House and the listening public to say a few words. I would therefore just like to make a few brief points at this time.

Mr. President, the economy of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman has been, for many years now, and continues to be a serious concern of all Governments. I believe that efforts must be concentrated on finding an effective means for improvement. There are many theories which have been offered, much debate has followed on what should be done and who has the best formula that will accomplish this; and it will be measured by the results. I believe that the people in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman await these results with great anticipation.

Mr. President, the first 'whereas' in the motion says that there is no present sign of improvement. I am not an economic expert, Sir, I just have a few years of working experience, but based on the statistics presented by the Honourable First Official Member in reply yesterday to a parliamentary question, I find that the recurrent revenue for the Sister Islands in 1983 was $703,560; 1984 - $961,134; 1985 - $908,924; 1986 - $1,160,910; and for the first seven months of 1987, $662,182. Not being an economist, however, this does not appear to me to be a stagnated economy with no sign of improvement. While the economy stands in need of improvement, and improvement is always welcome by any country, I am sure no country has reached the stage of development where it is not felt that improvement is welcomed.

The people of Cayman Brac who have relocated to Grand Cayman in some cases, as was said, have done so by choice. As many of them have stated in the press they have not been forced out by starvation, nor are they living in huts. Not long ago the District Commissioner stated that many of the people are attracted by the bright lights of Grand Cayman and life-styles offered by many other countries, and this is a fact.

Mr. President, the Member presenting the motion, the Second Elected Member for George Town, asks about cruise ship business for the Brac and Little Cayman to which I should respond. He referred in his presentation to a chicken and egg situation. Surely he knows that the development of cruise ship calls to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is in fact just such a situation. It is a well known and acknowledged fact that efforts to attract business to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, which they are not now equipped to handle, would prove more harmful than helpful - this is only logical and reasonable. Ground support services must be in place to ensure that the quality service is provided for any meaningful business relationship to be established and maintained. So we are back to the chicken and egg situation - which comes first? Who is willing to take the financial risk involved?

About a year ago, the Vice-President for Government Affairs of Norwegian Caribbean line was contacted by our Department of Tourism and he was asked to explore the possibility of cruise ship stops in Cayman Brac even if no more frequently than on a monthly basis. His company studied the suggestion and later stated that this was not possible because facilities did not exist in Cayman Brac to handle 800 people at a time; there was inadequate ground transport; there were not enough shops and merchandise; no developed area for a beach party; no hotel or restaurant capable of catering to such a large group; there was not that much to do; no good sightseeing and no way to move about.

Mr. President, these are inadequacies which will naturally take some time to correct and to provide, but I am confident, Sir, that through the efforts of Government and the Brac people steady development will come and by proper planning, the mistakes made in Grand Cayman can be avoided. In short, Norwegian Caribbean Lines felt that Cayman Brac and Little Cayman could only be considered by very small and special cruise ships. These are irregular and we hardly ever see them in this part of the Caribbean. Of course, as Members will recall, we did have the Sea Cloud with 60 passengers which visited Little Cayman not very long ago.

Mr. President, tourism from a general point of view measured by tourist air arrivals, is considerably up over last year and this is reflected in the new occupancy rate of the lead hotel in Cayman Brac, the Tiara Beach, which boasts today of a 90 per cent occupancy which is far higher than any hotel in Grand Cayman. The improvements in tourism through air arrivals have been made possible through good, safe and dependable air service provided by Cayman Airways. We know that the service is not perfect, but I challenge anyone to show me where there is a community of similar size which enjoys any better daily air service in any part of the world than Cayman Airways provides between Grand Cayman, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Our tourism promotions, Mr. President, in an effort to assist the Sister Islands, pay special attention to the needs in that area. This year we are operating ten special familiarisation trips for travel agents to Cayman Brac in order to expose them directly to the tourism product of the Brac. We have produced a special brochure for agents to promote trips and groups to Cayman Brac. Our public relations firm has issued special stories specifically about Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. All our advertising material, our collateral, our tourism, film and slide presentations present the Cayman Islands as a destination to the American market. We do not advertise just Grand Cayman, Cayman Brac or Little Cayman separately - we are one country and one destination.

From a tourism point of view, our efforts will continue, combined with the help of the private sector in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, to ensure that a continuing healthy tourism growth will be experienced and the spin-off effects are bound to benefit not only Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, but the three Cayman Islands as it should be.

It is my view, Mr. President, that what has been proposed by the committee chaired by the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council will produce effective means to help stimulate the economy, and it is my humble opinion that of the time we spend talking about what should be done, we must set about doing the job and do something definite that will be appreciated by the proud, independent, honest and hard-working people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. President, with those few brief remarks, I am not able to support the motion before the House.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

We are very close to our customary time for adjournment. I am in the hands of the House if it wishes to go over time or to adjourn now. Would any Member wish to speak relatively briefly? The Honourable First Official Member.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I do not think there is any Member left in the House who is going to speak that briefly on this subject.

I would propose that we adjourn until 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Prayers.
The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

PRAYERS

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Let us Pray.
Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake, Amen.
Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread: And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us: And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us: the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us: the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated.
The Assembly is in session. Questions. The Second

Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 59: Would the Honourable Member say whether there are any scholarships available for the training of football coaches?

ANSWER: There is no scholarship funding provided specifically for football coaches. However, the Economic Development Plan which has been accepted by this honourable House includes C1$40,000 for each of the next three years for the training of coaches and football is a priority area for training. Even now, efforts are on-going to have a serving civil servant sent overseas for training as a coach.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Are there any supplementaries?

The Member appears to be satisfied with the answer.

Bedden Town.

Apparently not. The Second Elected Member for

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, I just wanted to ask the Honourable Member if he will give us the assurance that he will try to have this figure included in the estimates for 1988.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

That assurance is given, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for George Town?

I think, then, we could go on to the next question.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR LEGAL ADMINISTRATION

NO. 60: Would the Honourable Member provide a full report of the results of the recent investigation carried out by the Police Department into the alleged misconduct of the Housefather of the Francis Bodden Girls' Home?

ANSWER: The police carried out a full investigation headed by a detective superintendent. In the course of this they interviewed the complainant, three of her associates, her mother and staff at the home, including the Housefather. The investigation revealed nothing to support or corroborate the allegations. The police submitted their report to me as Attorney General, and having carefully considered all the material gathered by them I ruled that there was insufficient evidence to support a criminal prosecution.

MR. PRESIDENT: Are there any supplementaries? The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town?

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask the Honourable Member if there would be sufficient evidence to warrant any administrative disciplinary action?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. President, it is my view that the two go hand in hand where an allegation is made which may amount to a criminal offence - if there is insufficient evidence to warrant a criminal prosecution or there is insufficient evidence to merit a disciplinary proceedings, and this arises from the way that the Public Service Commission regulations are framed. If there is evidence of a crime one proceeds to a trial, if there is not, except in exceptional cases, that is the end of the matter.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there is no further supplementary, we will move to question 61. The Second Elected Member for George Town, please?

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

NO. 61: Would the Honourable Member state why the Housefather of the Francis Bodden Girls' Home was not suspended from duty during the police investigation into allegations made against him in respect of the care of girls living in the home?

ANSWER: Interdiction is governed by regulation 41 of the Public Service Commission regulations which provides that a head of department may, if he considers that the interests of the Public Service require it, interdict an officer serving in his department if, and only if, proceedings for his dismissal are being or are about to be taken or if criminal "Proceedings are being instituted against him.". Before disciplinary proceedings can be commenced regulation 47(1) requires that a preliminary investigation be carried out by the officer empowered to institute disciplinary proceedings. In this case an allegation of criminal conduct had been made, and so there had to be a police investigation. That police investigation also filled the role of the preliminary investigation, and it was considered proper that the question of disciplinary proceedings should, like the question of criminal proceedings, await the police report. In the event the findings of the police investigation did not provide any basis for criminal proceedings, nor for disciplinary action against the Housefather which could have resulted in his dismissal. As no criminal or disciplinary proceedings were, or were about to be, taken the preconditions for interdiction under regulation 41 did not arise.

MR. PRESIDENT: Are there any supplementaries, please? Apparently not. Would the Second Elected Member for George Town ask his next question, please?

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FOURTH ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR DEVELOPMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

NO. 62: Would the Honourable Member state:
(a) the cost of the crocodiles recently brought to Grand Cayman?
(b) the purpose of bringing crocodiles to Grand Cayman? and
(c) what arrangements have been made to accommodate these reptiles securely?

ANSWER: (a) The cost of the three crocodiles is CI$2,520;
(b) The crocodiles were brought to Cayman as part of a programme to develop an indigenous flora and fauna area within the Turtle Farm intended as an added attraction to increase visitors' number and revenue;
(c) The crocodiles are enclosed in a reinforced concrete wall. The portion of wall towards the sea is 11 feet high which, in addition to the security aspect, will provide protection against rough seas flooding the crocodile pond. The wall within the fauna and flora area at the public viewing site is five feet 10 inches high, which includes a two foot heavy aluminium guard rail at the top adopted as added security and for better viewing.

MR. PRESIDENT:
for Bodden Town?

Supplementary questions. The Second Elected Member

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, I would like to ask the Honourable Member that with respect to the security of the crocodiles, will the crocodiles be identified by name?

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable Fourth Elected Member? The supplementary was in respect of security - will the crocodiles be identified by name?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I thought the Member had given them names already.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Elected Member for East End.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAM:

Mr. President, a supplementary.
Would the Honourable Member say whether or not it is correct that negotiations are presently under way for the purchase of a pair of tigers or lions for further attractions at the Farm?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, not to my knowledge or the Beard's knowledge.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Can the Honourable Member say if the particular crocodiles that are here are indigenous to Cayman or are they indigenous to Florida?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, the crocodiles we have here are indigenous to the Cayman Islands. In the early days there were these crocodiles both in Grand Cayman and the smaller Islands. In fact the last one sighted in Little Cayman was on 27th October, 1939 and it was killed by the father of Mr. Guy Banks.

These crocodiles are identified by the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, and they have, at the Institute, remains of the crocodiles found in the Cayman Islands, and they are recorded as crocodiles of the Cayman Islands.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for George Town?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Further clarification on an answer to the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, would the Member say whether or not it is correct that the names Vasselman, Bennor and Charleson have officially been accepted by Government for the crocodiles?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I think the Member had better direct that question to the Compass, because they first started the competition for naming the crocodiles.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think that was an extraordinarily skillful way of naming a Member!

The Third Elected Member for West Bay?

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Mr. President, I would like to ask the Honourable Member in stipulating re the heights of the wall as five feet 10 inches, which includes a two foot heavy aluminium guard rail, could the Honourable Member say whether in addition to this there is any boundary away from the wall which would prevent children getting right up against that guard rail, which would probably then be three feet 10 inches?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, on the inside of the wall, the pond slopes up to that five feet 11 inches. Children getting to that height would have to be in custody of a parent or some adult person, but no child could climb up to that height. And in any case, the Farm would not permit children alone to go into the area. But I would just like to say, Mr. President, that those who have visited Bush Garden in Tampa where there is a display of these crocodiles, they will see that the security there is only a four foot high chain link fence.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, can the Honourable Member say in relation to (b) of the answer, what has been the reaction of visitors to the Farm, with regards to the crocodiles?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I did not hear the question, Sir.

MR. G. HAIG BORDEN:

Mr. President, the question was, what has been the reaction of visitors to the Farm with regards to the presence of the crocodiles?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, the visitors are all delighted to go and visit the fauna and flora area and especially to see the animals there, because the crocodile and other species of animal included in this area are either endangered or threatened species, and so they are not too prevalent around the world. As you know there are different kinds of crocodile, alligators and so on. What we have here is the crocodile which is the smaller-mouthed animal, that is the saltwater breed, and so it is declared an endangered species and perhaps this the reason why we thought of including it in the fauna and flora area since it was indigenous to the Cayman Islands. It forms quite an attraction at the Farm. Visitors are very delighted, children are going there to see it, everybody wants to see the crocodiles and the other things in there.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Perhaps we now might pass on to the next question, number 63. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 63: Would the Honourable Member state:

- (a) how many scholarship applications Government received for the 1986/1987 year;
- (b) how many were approved; and
- (c) how many were rejected, giving reasons for any such rejections?

ANSWER: Between January and December 1986, 35 scholarship applications were received for the 1986/1987 school year. Of these 26 students were granted partial scholarships. Five of these were either not taken up or deferred until the 1987/1988 school year. Nine scholarship applications were not approved. Reasons for non-approval were that these applicants did not meet the scholarship criteria set down by the Education Law 1983 and the guidelines followed by the Education Council.

For example, successful applicants must have attained the age of 18 years; must have four 'O' level passes; must have gained acceptance at an institution recognised by the Education Council; and must satisfy the interview panel of the Council as to their suitability for further training.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Can the Honourable Member say, Mr. President, whether there were any scholarships granted for football coaches?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

No, Mr. President.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

I wonder if the Honourable Member could say why? Was there was an application?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

No applications were received in that respect, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BORDEN:

Mr. President, may I ask the Honourable Member if any full scholarships were granted?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

No, Mr. President, the Education Council has adopted the principle that no full scholarships will be granted except in very exceptional cases. All awards will contain an element of loan. In other words, Government will provide all of the funding, but some element of loan funding is included in all awards.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES H. BORDEN:

Would the Honourable Member state to the House whether the educational policy is a policy laid down by the people who govern the Education Council, that is people more or less from the private sector, or is that decision an Elected Council decision. In other words is it motivated by the desire of the Honourable Elected Member responsible for the Portfolio?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Mr. President, some of the guidelines for scholarships are laid down within the Law itself, and then the Law empowers Education Council to make other guidelines. But to the best of my knowledge when guidelines are accepted they are taken to Executive Council.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: My question, Mr. President, is whether this specific guideline has been changed by the wish of the Honourable Elected Member responsible for Health, Education and Social Services, or whether it was done by the Education Council, the public sector side of the Education Council? I am well aware that the guidelines have to be approved by Executive Council. What I am trying to find out is whether this change in policy was directed by the Honourable Member responsible for the Portfolio or whether it was done by outside sources. I think it is very important, because we want to know why our people are not getting the educational assistance that they have in the past ...

MR. PRESIDENT: I am sorry, you are making a statement ... excuse me, you have put your question, it is quite clear. Will you give the Honourable Member the opportunity?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, as the Member probably knows, the Member for Education is Chairman of the Council and as such has only a casting vote, so that the Council, in deliberations, make or recommend the policies. But I would hasten to add that there have been no change in policies since I took over. We are currently reviewing policies, but they have not yet been finalised to be put to Executive Council.

MR. PRESIDENT: Further supplementaries? The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Can the Honourable Member say, to his knowledge, did the Council grant any full scholarships prior to 1984?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, in my reply to an earlier question I said that in exceptional circumstances the Council has made total awards, and I am sure that it has been done post-1984 as well, it just did not happen in the period that is covered by the question.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, the Honourable Member has said in the answer that one of the criteria is that the applicant must have four 'O' level passes. Can he say if an applicant has been accepted by an institution, would the applicant be able to receive the scholarship if he had less than four 'O' levels?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, not in the first instance. The guidelines allow what is regarded as a mature person, that is someone who has already spent some time at a university or college to re-apply even though they did not have four 'O' levels. The criteria used here, Mr. President, is if the person did not have the four 'O' levels in the first instance and they were accepted at an institution in the States, usually, based on their SAT score, and they have received and maintained an acceptable level of performance during two or three consecutive terms, then the Education Council will review the position. There have been instances when people, because of their performances, have been given scholarships even though they did not have four 'O' levels. And of course I should mention, Mr. President, that I have said four 'O' levels, but I should have also indicated that in the case of our schools operating on the American system, the criteria in their regard is an SAT score of not less than 850.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I would like to ask your indulgence for a little here to ask this question, because I have to set the background for it.

We have about 350 students a year coming out of school. This shows us that about 21 of them were granted partial scholarships which is only somewhere around 7 per cent, I think, of the total number of students coming out of school. Is Government trying to put together any comprehensive system that can give the students graduating from school a better chance of a higher education in view of the large amount of people whom we have to hire from abroad in the professional and technical areas?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, I would presume the Member would be referring in this regard to the Community College and I think the Member should know that we passed the Law establishing the Community College. We are working as fast as possible to get the proper accommodation so that we can accommodate, really, all of the students who would like to get in there. The Member should also be aware of the excellent results obtained recently in external exams by some of these students, particularly in the hospitality industry.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I am quite aware of the Community College. But my worry is, is Government paying consideration to the higher education of the majority of our people? Is he telling me, then, that something is wrong with our system when only about 6 per cent or 7 per cent of our people could qualify to enter a university or a college abroad? The figures here show 26 applications, I think, but 21 partially approved out of probably 350 students that year who entered the job market and came out of the high school system. Is he telling us that the system is that bad, or what?

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

Mr. President, I would have thought for a Member who is expressing such interest and knowledge in this area would know that I can only be dealing with applications that came to the Education Council. There are students who go abroad on their own resources and there are scholarships available from the private sector, so I am not in a position at this moment to say exactly how many children go off in any given year. I can only deal with those who pass through the Education Council. Before it is misunderstood, Mr. President, let me make it clear that the loan portion of the scholarship is usually very small unless the means of the parents dictate otherwise.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, another supplementary, as the Honourable Member brought up the last two points. Could he state the number of students who this year were able to go abroad and pursue a course of higher education on their own - that is with them paying for it, or their parents paying for it? Would the Honourable Member have any knowledge and be able to enlighten this House of the amount of private scholarships that were given by Cayman National Bank, let us say, or some of the other institutions on the Island? How many scholarships of that type were given in this particular year and how many students had the means of their own to go abroad for higher education? Would he give us that information since he brought it up?

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

Mr. President, I said that I did not have that information at hand, because I was questioned on what applications were received by Government.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think that is reasonable, it is somewhat outside the scope of the question. Perhaps the Honourable Member would supply a statement in writing later on if the data is available?

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

If the data is available, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Any further supplementaries on that question? The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, for information I would like to ask the Honourable Member - he may have brought this out earlier, but I just want to make myself sure - in the guidelines set down by the Education Council at least four 'O' level passes are required. I am assuming that first-class CSE passes would fall into this category. Perhaps the Honourable Member could answer that? Secondly in the case of, say, someone at the hospital who is in nurse's training, who may not have four 'O' level passes, but because of the individual's performance it is felt that their suitability for further training is certainly quite good - could the Honourable Member say whether such persons are considered for scholarships?

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

Mr. President, certainly CSE Grade 1 is the equivalent of an 'O' level at A, B or C, so that would be included. The last question is rather broad because if the person is in the employment of Government the training of that person does not come under the Education Council, it comes under Personnel, as a serving officer.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, the Honourable Member has stated in the answer that the fourth criterion is that the applicant must satisfy the interview panel of the Council as to their suitability. Can he say in what ways the applicant must satisfy the panel, or what things would the panel be looking for in order to be satisfied?

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

Mr. President, I do not happen to sit on the panel, but things such as the attitude and aptitude that a person demonstrates that they know or are satisfied within themselves that the course applied for is what they want to do; the maturity of the person, and such things, Mr. President. We have had a lot of people who have had the requisite numbers going off, but after a term or two find out that it is not what they wanted to do and threw up the scholarship.

MR. PRESIDENT:

There appear to be no further supplementaries on that question. In that case would the Second Elected Member for West Bay ask question number 64?

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH, EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 64: Would the Honourable Member state whether it is Government's policy to reject scholarship applications for persons who have turned down training courses/programmes offered in Government?

ANSWER: For persons to have turned down training courses/programmes offered in Government departments they would have had to have been civil servants who, for training purposes, fall under the Personnel Department and not the Education Council scholarship funding. Therefore, this question does not arise.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, often a question is asked to an Elected Member. When Honourable Members want to answer they answer and when they think they can upstage you they do that. This question, if it does not fall under him, could have been directed to the person responsible. But I will get my answer, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: You will indeed. But I am not sure whether you are saying you have not directed your question correctly. Is that your point? Could you clarify it for me? If you would prefer it directed to another Member, I can have it so directed on a future Order Paper, if you wish.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Yes, Mr. President, if you could help me with that. Direct it to the Honourable First Official Member, who would be responsible for the Civil Service Commission. Another question that I had posed in this House to the ...

MR. PRESIDENT: I am sorry, you cannot go on to other matters, we are discussing this specific question.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: This is the same matter, Sir, same matter.

MR. PRESIDENT: You have not posed it at this meeting as far as I know. We must stick to business in hand.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Yes, Sir, this meeting, and the question was taken from the Honourable First Elected Member and given to the Honourable First Official Member. I know what I am saying, Mr. President. But if you can help me, I would be very grateful. Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Chair is always willing to help, wherever it can. But the Chair does have a duty to distribute questions also. I will be very happy to discuss it with you whenever you wish. But not now.

Are there any other supplementaries? That, I think, concludes question time. We are a little earlier than usual. Would Members like to take the first break now, or shall we proceed with Bills?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: No break, Sir, let us go to Bills.

MR. PRESIDENT: Government Business. Bills.

THE NATIONAL TRUST FOR THE CAYMAN ISLANDS BILL, 1987
FIRST READING

CLERK: THE NATIONAL TRUST FOR THE CAYMAN ISLANDS BILL, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT: A Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to establish the National Trust for the Cayman Islands and for connected purposes, 1987 is deemed to have been read a first time, and is set down for second reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE NATIONAL TRUST FOR THE CAYMAN ISLANDS BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that a Bill entitled a Law to establish the National Trust for the Cayman Islands be given its second reading.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I beg to move, Sir, the second reading of a Bill entitled The National Trust for the Cayman Islands Law, 1987.

Mr. President, a National Trust is said to be synonymous with preservation of a country's heritage and thus the reason why it is so appealing and it is so acceptable in most countries of the world. It is said that from the earliest time, man recognised that God had given him certain possessions which he should preserve. That has come down through the ages and we find that in the Cayman Islands, our own homeland, there are many things that we need to preserve.

A National Trust, Mr. President, is operated by legislation according to the needs and desire of the particular country. Some of the main functions of a National Trust are to create parks, preserve sites and buildings of national interest, preserve marine parks and also to preserve, maintain and keep animal and bird sanctuaries.

These functions, Mr. President, are very important. It is important to a nation and to a country because of their scenery and historical values. These properties are set aside by the National Trust and are preserved from destruction so as to ensure the people's inspiration, enjoyment and recreation where these historical sites and properties are concerned. A National Trust is usually created to develop a means of avoiding ruinous effects on these things which are of immense interest to the country, terrestrial and marine properties and, Mr. President, there is no doubt in anyone's mind here of the importance of these to our little Cayman Islands.

In providing the legislation for the operation of a National Trust, we provide a law which will be acceptable to all concerned so that the operation of the Trust will not be harmful in any respect to society or individuals, and so that its usefulness can be of the greatest appeal to everyone.

Mr. President, it is always found to be very useful and acceptable for a National Trust to control these heritage values of the country as opposed to Government undertaking that responsibility. One of the reasons is that there is a far keener interest displayed by the Trust in performing these duties as opposed to Government. Secondly, it would cost the Trust less to perform these duties because the Trust is always open to gifts of money and time, and people are prepared to give voluntary service. And so the Trust has an appealing position as far as its work and value are concerned. People are always ready to give money more quickly to a trust than to any other institution it would want to control any of the heritage values that we have.

Mr. President, one of the areas in looking at legislation which is also important is to ensure that the operation of the Trust is such that it does not accumulate an abundance of power which would lead at some time to challenging even Government. This has been known to happen in some countries and so in preparing our local legislation that was one of the areas foremost in the mind of Government. I am happy to say that the legislation before us today has been well-scrutinised, well-examined by Government, by the Legal Department, and by the Committee that was established in 1985 to recommend the establishment of a Trust for the Cayman Islands.

I know we have a lot of support here. Sir, I can see the Member saying over there saying, "You know I am supporting it". I want to thank him for that. (INAUDIBLE) ... We are coming to the amendment later on.

Mr. President, on 28th August this year, I did a press release on this subject giving the highlights of the contents of the legislation before us. In that press release I stated that the creation of a National Trust was in my opinion a valuable and significant step in ensuring the preservation of what is best in the Caymanian heritage. I hope that the people of these Islands will see the tremendous potential in having a National Trust of their own and that they would give it the support it deserves.

Mr. President, in 1984, Government introduced the Cayman National Cultural Foundation Law. It was largely associated with the Harquail Centre cultural foundation, but nevertheless, Mr. President, it was a Law which established the means of preserving the culture of the Cayman Islands. The only difference between that Law and the Bill before us today is that the National Trust ensures the preservation of the country's heritage, whereas the Cayman National Cultural Foundation preserves the country's culture. One, the heritage, the other culture. And so we have, in these two Laws, Mr. President, a complete package of what should be most desirable in these Islands - the preservation of culture and heritage.

Mr. President, before I comment on the clauses of the Bill before us, I would just like to say that prefacing the clauses of the Bill we have the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons. It says that this Bill is to create a National Trust for the Cayman Islands; its main purpose to preserve the culture, historical and natural heritage of the islands.

Mr. President, I am sure that Honourable Members here have gone through the Bill clause by clause and will see that clause 3 establishes the Trust by a corporate body which is called the National Trust. It says that on the date of commencement, the Trust shall consist of the founding members. Mr. President, as I said before in 1985 the Government established a committee to advise it on the establishment of a Trust. The committee consisted of about 20 members. It had a chairman, a vice-chairman, a secretary, a treasurer, acting secretary and legal adviser. It also had members who represented directly certain districts of the Islands, and that committee has been functioning until now. When this Bill becomes Law, those members will be known as the founding members, and they will operate the Trust Council until a year hence when the first Annual General Meeting takes place and when members would be appointed to the Council, as provided for in clause 5 of the Bill.

Mr. President, clause 4 provides the purposes and powers of the Trust, and especially in subsection (1)(b) it says that the Trust would be responsible for the preservation, conservation of land, natural features and submarine areas of beauty, historic or environmental importance. In order to ensure that the Trust would not have the power to acquire property compulsorily, which could be one of the areas of concern, that sub-paragraph went on to say that these properties are the properties that the Trust may have acquired through gift, bequest, purchase, lease or other means. That is repeated again, Mr. President, in subsection 2(b) which says the acquisition of any property by gift, bequest, purchase, lease or other means which would be used by the National Trust, and again this is to ensure that the power of the Trust does not upset people.

Clause Section 5 sets out the establishment of the Council, and also sets out the purpose and responsibility of the Trust. The membership of the Trust is set out in subsection (3). You will see that in subsection (9) it says that no member of the Council shall be personally liable for any act or default that the Council does or omits to be done in good faith in the course of the discharge of the functions of the Council. Those words, Mr. President, are the same words, the same provision that we find in the Public Corporation, the Civil Aviation Authority Law, and just this week that amendment was made to the Water Authority Law to carry these words.

Clause 6 confirms what I mentioned a while ago, that on the commencement of this Law, the powers, functions and responsibility of the Council shall vest in the founding members.

Mr. President, clause 8 deals with the income of the Trust and it will be seen there that the income of the Trust shall be wholly applied towards discharging the functions of and furthering the purposes of the Trust. It does not say, really, how the revenue of the Trust would be earned, but I would imagine, Mr. President, that, as in the case of the Cayman National Cultural Foundation Law, if there is need for Government's assistance coming from public funds that these proposals would be put forward to Government because in clause (7)(1)(d) of the Cayman National Cultural Foundation Law, it says in funds and resources of the foundation that monies would be voted by the Legislative Assembly for the purpose. That provision is not in the proposed Trust Law before us, but I imagine that since the two foundations are so similar in nature Government would not deprive assisting the Trust if there was need for that assistance.

Clause 10, Mr. President, deals with the accounts. It says that the Trust shall keep proper accounts in a form which shall conform with the best commercial standards of its receipts, payments, credits and liabilities. There are three clauses dealing with the financial operation of the Trust, eventually saying that the annual report, in clause 12, would be laid on the Table of the Legislative Assembly.

Now, Mr. President, I did have notice from the Honourable Second Elected Member from West Bay seeking an amendment to this Bill to provide for the audit of the accounts. Mr. President, audit is a fairly expensive service and seeing that no stipulation was made in the National Trust Bill for funds to be provided for its operation by Government, this is the reason why no specific mention was made in the Bill for an audit. However, the National Trust is going to be largely an independent entity, depending on public gifts and contributions for its operation. If the report, when laid on the Table of this Honourable House as is provided in clause 12(2) of the Bill before us, is necessary and if His Excellency the Governor thinks that in the interests of the public an audit is necessary he can direct, under section 45 of the Public Finance and Audit Law, that the Auditor-General carry out an audit of the accounts of the National Trust. When the auditor has carried out or conducted that audit, the Auditor-General's report can, under sections 42(2) and 46(2) of the Public Finance and Audit Law be laid on the Table of this Honourable House. And so there is that built-in safeguard for the audit should this be found necessary, and the Governor can order that, Sir. That is the reason why the audit was not inserted in this Bill.

Secondly, Mr. President, the Cayman National Cultural Foundation Law, which was introduced in 1984 did provide in clause 12(2) for an audit of the accounts and for those audited accounts to be laid on the Table of this Legislative Assembly. But, Mr. President, I would hasten to point out that when this Law came into effect in 1984, the Public Finance and Audit Law was not in operation. That has just been introduced recently. So there was no safeguard for the audit of the accounts of the Cayman National Cultural Foundation accounts, but it is different as far as the National Trust is concerned. And so I have not yet had time to go through the details of the proposed amendment which has come to me just recently, but that will be dealt with when we move into Committee stage to examine the Bill clause by clause.

MR. PRESIDENT: Is that, perhaps, a convenient moment to break, or do you feel you are coming towards the end of moving the Second Reading.

HON. VASSEL C. JOHNSON: Yes, Sir, perhaps we can break now, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Proceedings are suspended for about fifteen minutes accordingly.

AT 11:20 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11:40 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Proceedings are resumed. The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. VASSEL C. JOHNSON: Mr. President, when we took the break I was moving on to clause 14 of the Bill which deals with the power of the Trust to enter into agreements restricting the use of land. It will be seen in this clause that the Trust cannot enter on anyone's land or property unless there is in place an agreement between the Trust and the property owner. Some views were expressed by Members during the break that the Law does not provide specific provision to ensure that the Trust does not acquire by compulsory means any property in the Islands.

Mr. President, compulsory acquisition of land in the Cayman Islands can only be done by the Governor and therefore no private or other public institution has a right to acquire property in these Islands. I believe that an improvement in the Bill to clearly assure that the Trust will not be able to take property by any means unless it is by way of gift, bequest, purchase or lease, could be done by a slight amendment to clause 4(1)(b) and clause 4(2)(b) where both clauses say that the Trust may acquire property through gift, bequest, purchase, lease or other means. What we could perhaps do there is strike out "other means" and just say that the Trust could acquire property through gift, bequest, purchase or lease.

Mr. President, I have not had time to discuss this with the Government bench and so during the course of examining the Bill by a Committee of the whole House we will deal with that aspect of it and after we have had the views of the Honourable Second Official Member.

Mr. President, going on to clause 17 of the Bill, I would like to point out to this Honourable House that all the by-laws of the Trust must have the approval of the Governor and any rescinding of those by-laws must also be approved by the Governor in Council. And so the Trust will not be able to provide its own by-laws and amend them as it wishes; these will be controlled by the Governor in Council. These by-laws, when made, would be published in the Official Gazette, Clause 17(2). And so, nothing will be hidden in the operation of the Trust. They will all be publicly done and notified.

One important aspect of the Law, Mr. President, which I should bring to the attention of this Honourable House is that clause 15 provides for exemption of stamp duty on all transactions relating to the operation of the Trust. A gift to the Trust of a piece of property would be transferred with the exemption of stamp duty. Under clause 22 any property that is owned by the Trust cannot be transferred unless it is done by a two-third majority of the full membership of the Trust voting at a General Meeting. Clause 23 provides that should there be a case of failure of the Trust that wind-up procedure will be considered and the procedure is set out in the clause. Mr. President, I do hope that this will never happen.

Mr. President, this is not a very long Law, but it is a very important one. It certainly has all the ingredients in it to give it a boost and encouragement to make it work, and to make it fulfill its purposes. And so I would ask Honourable Members again to give it their very kind support. I had envisaged for quite a long time that a National Trust is a useful vehicle to have in this country for the purposes stated in it, and I am glad at this particular time to be the one responsible for presenting it. Mr. President, I recommend the Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I rise to support this Bill to establish the National Trust for the Cayman Islands.

These Islands, among other countries, are coming into their own, and as the years go by, the more we all seem to be catching this national spirit. In order to preserve this national spirit one of the things we are bound to look around for and try to establish is exactly what this Bill seeks to do today. Time is short and memory is sometimes even shorter. It is surprising, Mr. President, to see how people forget things that happened even in their own lifetime.

When we go to the older countries of the world, like America and England, we see they have built up a tremendous collection of history. I have read of a museum in England which has the first cannon ball that was fired at Sebastopol and another museum, somewhere near, where Nelson was born. I believe, they even have the bullet, that was extracted from his heart, set in a case of gold. The people in those countries preserve things built around the lives of their national heroes. When you think, Mr. President, of what the United States has done to preserve its history and to record the lives of its people and heroes, you see the true national spirit of a proud country.

Over the years I believe that tremendous and valuable assets of antique value have been lost to our country by collectors from other countries whom I have known to buy, for instance, old Caymanian bedsteads more than a century old for little or nothing, and have taken them out of the country. There were probably millions of dollars in treasure and other items of priceless value that have gone out of this country without the people realising what it was and what it meant in terms of history to this country.

When we talk of preservation today I think of the work of people like Mr. Ira Thompson, of blessed memory, one who had done tremendous work and laboured over the years to preserve Caymanian history and things of value. I say, Mr. President, we should be grateful that we have had stalwarts like him who loved his country enough to preserve these things of interest, and who, in fact, I believe, started the only museum we have. He was an historian of worth, and I pay tribute to him today. That is why some time ago in Finance Committee I moved a motion that our first museum be named after him. I think that has since been rejected, although it was accepted at that time. Nevertheless, I do hope and pray that this country never forget the work of such people.

The Bill, Mr. President, is responsible for the preservation of its historic sites. I think of places like the Beatuswain Bay school house in my constituency. This building has seen many of our decent and upright citizens of today pass through its doors, but today it is in a dilapidated state. A group of young people in Beatuswain Bay, to whom I also pay tribute, have been trying to restore this building, but it needs a lot of work. And as I said, it is not structurally sound, but this old school could be preserved. It could be restored to its original condition as much as today's material could render it so, and the property where it stands could be declared an historic site. A fee could be charged for visitors to help offset costs. Another tourist attraction could be added to West Bay. I am hoping that when the District Councils are formed, the West Bay Council will look at the school house and site and work together with those who are trying to preserve it.

Another historical site, Mr. President, is the old Prospect Fort which was built, armed and manned by Caymanians for their own protection during the famous Governor Bodden's leadership in the years 1776 to 1823. A monument was erected on that site in 1954 by the Cayman Islands Historical Association. Again, this site could be taken care of, probably fenced and more information given on its history. I think it would be fit and proper also to try, at least try, and restore the old fort - again as far as contemporary material would help. We would be surprised at the great interest it would be to our visitors, and they could be charged a small fee to see it.

I was there the other day, Mr. President, and when you find yourself standing in a place as calm and serene as it is, a feeling of national pride, if you have such feeling, can be easily aroused. When you think that Caymanians built it, armed and manned it, and were actually prepared to die for their country, it does stimulate a feeling of pride and yet they say we have no national heroes. I ponder, Mr. President, their apathy and pray for a change of heart. I hope, Sir, that every effort will be made to discover and preserve those sights of significance and which merit preservation. It does not matter where they are or in which district they may be, but that these things which form some historical background of the country may be preserved for posterity to see and be informed.

As I said, Sir, I am glad to see this Bill before us because there is a certain amount of apathy when it comes to things which some people determine as being nationalistic. When it comes to this Member, Mr. President, you will find I am a nationalist at heart, and sometimes I am at liberty to say to our people, have confidence in the future and be proud of our past. In my opinion we need that confidence if we are to achieve the steady effort that can alone bring success in getting our people more entrenched and to accept that we can have pride in our country and be a nationalist without going independent as has been told them so often. Being a nationalist and supporting things that the Bill asks us to do is a matter of pride in one's homeland, and pride in things connected to the place of one's birth.

I crave your indulgence, Mr. President, for I cannot help but refer, as I hinted before, to the reasons why a national order for national heroes was not accepted or even that Government did not see fit to even speak on it. However, I am glad to see in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons that the policy of the National Trust would be to engage in programmes for the preservation of national heritage.

It is said, Sir, that opportunities lost are never regained, and we must never lose any opportunity to preserve our heritage and to maintain our culture. That creation, of an order of national heroes, was a move in the right direction only aiding us in our national development process, and trying to endow a sense of pride in our own people. National pride and awareness was what I was dealing with in trying to get an order of national heroes. I believe today it is one of the most powerful forces in the development of the character of Caymanians, and therefore when I witness now this awareness, pride and interest by the Government in things rooted in this country, I am glad. "Breathe there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, this is my own, my native land". I am glad, for we need to build up, Elected Members, and further encourage this interest and awareness of our heritage, not only of sites, Mr. President, it should also have been the desire of this House to select from among the men and women of the past people who can be held out to the people of today, our children, as emblems of greatness and as symbols of inspiration, which I think is as vital for us in Cayman at this stage of our development as the Bill before us.

I have a faith in the value of anything that is rooted deep in our country and of the things which can and do inspire our people, and most of all, anything that would tend to unify the spirit of Caymanians. I believe, Mr. President, no greater social and cultural need exists today in these islands than to bring our people as one in everything, be it in education or a resort to the study and preservation of our history, and in development of a love and appreciation of these things because they all contribute to that creation of a unifying force - a force that makes the people one without which this country can never hope to be great in history.

Mr. President, I guess that is enough on my feelings, but I feel strongly about these things, and I am glad you gave me that opportunity.

I have tabled an amendment to clause 10, Mr. President. I feel it only fit and proper that there should be an audit done, and that the audit report be tabled in this House along with the Annual Report.

Mr. President, Government, up until the time the Honourable Member moving the Bill was speaking, I believe made a firm commitment not to accept this amendment, but having since aired our views at the break, I believe that they will have a change of heart. And I am glad. The Honourable Member moving the Bill said that this National Trust is an independent entity, dependent on public funds for operation.

Mr. President, many people are becoming aware in this country of moves to collect funds for whatever reasons, and they are becoming anxious to have some sort of accountability. I feel that an audit would help in that respect. He also said that if the Trust needed money, he was certain it could come from the Treasury - and yes, any time that there is a need for the preservation of things Caymanian, you can believe that they would have my vote a hundred times, as long as it was justified. If we are going to pay out money at any time we need to have proper accounts and cannot say that there will not be proper accounts, but there needs to be, in my mind, an audit tabled in this House where, if I ever needed to question it, I would have that there in front of me. The mover also said that the Governor could order an audit. Why should a Governor have to order an audit? I think the Governor has enough to do keeping Executive Council in check and then having to come here and keep us in check.

Mr. President, clause 4(1)(b) states:

"4(1)(b) the conservation of lands, natural features and submarine areas of beauty, historic or environmental importance which the Trust may have acquired through gift, bequest, purchase, lease or other means:".

And clause 4(2)(b):

"4(2)(b) the acquisition of any property by gift, bequest, purchase, lease or other means and the maintenance, sale or leasing of any such land or thing:"...

... which means that property will be held in Trust and will probably amount to millions in a few years. And when we are dealing with that kind of money, yes, there needs to be an audit, there needs to be that accountability, and it needs to be laid on the table of this House.

More so, Mr. President, clause 15 states:

"15. Any transaction involving the Trust shall be exempt from the payment of any Stamp Duty under the Stamp Duty Law ...".

Here again, anything transferred to it or anything it buys no money will be paid to it and probably the properties would be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. There again we are not accepting any money to the public, which is really due to the public. And in clause 23(1) it states, and I pray that it does not happen:

"23.(1) If the Trust Council finds that, for financial or other reasons, continued operation of the Trust is no longer feasible, it may voluntarily wind up the affairs of the Trust."

Clause 23(2) states:

"23.(2) If events occur concerning the Trust which, if it was a limited company formed and registered under the Companies Law, would enable the Grand Court to wind it up under section 91 of that Law, the Financial Secretary may apply to the Grand Court to wind up the Trust."

And clause 23(3) states that the property which has been declared to the Trust shall vest in the Financial Secretary. So there are all sorts of reasons even within the Bill itself why a proper audit by a certified accountant, whoever he or she may be, should be done - even within this Bill itself. I am not a lawyer, Mr. President, although that is what I wanted to be, but I believe in drafting where examples are used, and this Bill is not dissimilar to other national trust laws in other countries. For instance the Jamaica National Trust, I have seen that Law, and you can believe that this Bill is similar, if clause are not taken directly from it. And that Law says that there should be an audit, an audit sanctioned by the Auditor General. And if you check my original amendment you will find that I had in that original amendment put that the Auditor General should ask for this audit.

But I believe that the present amendment is more fitting, seeing that the Auditor General has a lot of work to do - he will soon be checking on the sewerage project - I hear they are in big trouble. My amendment reads "(2) that the accounts of the Trust shall be audited annually by a certified accountant", and this is all I am asking. I am not asking that the Auditor General be involved, but if the House so feels, then they can give him that extra bit of work.

Mr. President, this amendment has not been put idly. As I said, this Trust is going to involve thousands and probably millions of dollars, if the Trust does its work - property that is probably already declared Government property, but that it would find themselves involved with. And I trust that Government will shed its political cloak and take on at this time, when they consider this amendment, their responsibility cloak.

In closing, Mr. President, I should like to take this opportunity in paying tribute to those people who have devoted considerable time and effort in this manner, including the Honourable Member moving the Bill, and whom, as I said, are responsible today for the inspiration of this particular measure which is only part of the widening circle of creative, cultural development of this country. The matter is therefore one that I have always had the greatest interest in and one which I have tried, in my own little way, to foster as well as I could and one that I desire to see spread, because I know it is another stone in the foundation of pending nationhood. Therefore I have the greatest pleasure in supporting the Bill, a Bill to establish the Cayman Islands National Trust.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I welcome the introduction of this Bill. I think it is timely, it is needed and I hope it will pass this Assembly.

I paid special attention to the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons and it is cited that the purpose is to preserve the cultural, historical and natural heritage of the Islands. I think that I have always championed a nationalistic point of view for the Cayman Islands, and that I will continue to do. I am very much at heart a nationalist.

Our young people have continually experienced a cultural shock. They know but little of our past. The past history of our country and its people have not been taught to them. Culturally they have no identity. They have grasped things from other countries continually trying to put them into perspective with our way of life and I think that we can all say that it has not been of total benefit to our people. It is time that we have something for the young people to identify themselves with as being a part of the Cayman Islands and the country that we represent. So I support this very much. With regard to the historical aspect of it, there are many points of interest that could be pointed out to our people and to people of other lands and be preserved, and I hope that this will be done.

The next point is the creation of parks. This is something that has been talked about on the political platforms and in this House for many years. It is time that we do more than talk. It is time that we do something about it. Our young people, in particular, have no place to go which can really be designated as a park. The visitors to our shores have no place that they can go. This Government came to power on the promise, particularly, that this was one of the things they were going to do. I hope now that it will be done.

I am a little bit disturbed with clause 4 of the Bill, and I would suggest that at the end of subsection (1)(a) we would add the words "which it has acquired". The clause says that the purpose of the Trust shall be the preservation of the historic, natural and maritime heritage of the Islands through the preservation of areas, sites, buildings, structures and objects of historical, cultural significance. I am suggesting that we add "which it has acquired". It may be pointed out to me that this would be superfluous, but I would like a ruling on it. My reason for it is that this clause is a large clause designating the powers of the Bill - and I would not wish it to be used to the detriment of the rights of property owners in the country. There also be the danger that recommendation could be made by the Trust to Government to acquire certain properties, and I would like to see the right manifested in the Bill that the property owner's right is not disturbed in any respect.

I would like to support the words of the previous speaker, the Second Elected Member for West Bay, with regard to clause 10 and I would suggest that we add after the word "liabilities", the words "and shall be audited and tabled annually in the Legislative Assembly". This would give accountability to Members of the Legislative Assembly, who in turn have to account to the electorate of the Islands.

Clause 11. With the Bill coming before the House at this time, in September, it probably could not be signed and put into effect until sometime in October, and I think we will need more time for the Council, once it has been established, to begin to operate. Further, I think to set the first accountable period for October 1988 is a little too quick and I would suggest that that be changed to the month of December.

Now putting on my political cap here for a minute, this Bill, once it is passed and becomes Law, as I hope it will, and takes on its significance, it will in my mind be of great importance to the people of this country, and I therefore think that it should come into effect and the first meeting held after the 1988 election rather than for the present Government, alone, to take the praise for its passing before the 1988 election in November. Therefore, I suggest that we change the date to December of 1988. Thank you.

Oh, Mr. President, just a moment, please.

MR. PRESIDENT:
please go ahead.

We will take it that you have not quite finished,

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

The Second Elected Member suggested I broaden the point a bit, and in view of the fact that he is not going to speak at this time, I join with him in saying that one of the first things the Trust could do is designate Bodden Town the capital of the country again! (LAUGHTER)

MR. PRESIDENT:
a moment!

I thought you were going to say this Assembly, for Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive Council.

Does any other Member desire to speak? The

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Mr. President, it gives me much pleasure to offer my full support to such an important Bill as this - a Bill for a Law to establish a National Trust for the Cayman Islands.

In almost any magazine or newspaper one reads today it will be seen that, in many countries around the world, citizens are seriously concerned about the preservation of their natural heritage, and are actively seeking the means whereby their country's identity can be maintained. There can be little doubt in anyone's mind that, unless some definite action is taken to save some of the qualities and some of the things Caymanian and of interest, those things which have made these Islands special will be swallowed up in change and we will no longer be able to provide and offer the natural charm and atmosphere which have attracted visitors to our shores in the first place.

So this is a most important and valuable piece of legislation, and I, too, offer my congratulations to the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Council for bringing this Bill to this Honourable House at this time. It is encouraging to see that, in spite of extensive development which I agree must continue at an orderly pace, as a Government and as a people we are becoming more conscious of the urgent need to protect and preserve the natural heritage of these Islands and to at least be able to save some of what we have left, and make some provision for the future, for we have already lost a great deal which can never be recovered.

It was once said that Government is a trust, and the officers of the Government are trustees and that both the trust and the trustees are created for the benefit of the people, and to my mind truer words have never been spoken. It is therefore my view that the National Trust rightly administered in accordance with the provisions of the proposed Law will prove worthwhile and beneficial to all Caymanians today and to future generations to come.

Clause 4 sets out the purposes and powers, which are all noble and necessary; the preservation of the historic, natural and maritime heritage of the Islands; and the conservation of lands, natural features and submarine areas of beauty. The Trust, amongst other things, will have the power to protect and preserve any place, building, area of beauty, historic, cultural or environmental significance. It provides for the creation of an heritage register and for the preservation of wildlife and the fostering of public interest through public information and public education which are all vital requirements if this National Trust is to survive and serve the purposes for which it is being established.

Provision is also being made for the establishment of a Council to manage the affairs of the Trust, and the appointment of district committees will provide a fair composition of members truly representative of the three Cayman Islands. I am certain that their input and involvement will prove invaluable.

Our Islands, Mr. President, are so heavily dependent on tourism, and this fact coupled with the urgent need to preserve our heritage for the benefit of future generations who will rise up and either bless us or curse us for the way we have managed what has been entrusted to our care. I believe that with the establishment of marine parks, it is my firm opinion that the establishment of a National Trust is of equal and utmost importance.

With those few remarks, Mr. President, I give this Bill my full support.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

MRS. DAPHNE L. DRETT:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, needless to say, I am indeed pleased to see this Bill for a Law to establish a National Trust for the Cayman Islands and for connected purposes brought to the House today.

Without any self-aggrandisement, or boasting, I think that all Members of this House are aware that I am very, very keenly interested in the preservation of things Caymanian. In fact, Mr. President, I think the Hansard of the House will reveal that at one point in time, I was even somewhat chastised for the part which perhaps I have played in trying to preserve some segment of heritage as far as our Caymanian people and their history is concerned.

There is a certain character in the community by the name of Aunt Suki and she, at least, was trying to preserve some of the language distinctions and other areas which were distinctly Caymanian, and I have no apologies to make for any efforts which I made in this direction. So preserving things Caymanian is almost a part of my lifestyle.

Mr. President, other Members who preceded me, including the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council, whom I congratulate in his presentation of this Bill, have made some very fine remarks and their support of the Bill is very heartening indeed.

I would like to say here, Mr. President, that in my travels, one of the things that has intrigued me is the way in which many countries are able to preserve so much of their country's history and I feel very badly that many of the things that we should have in the past for the sake of historical record for our children has been lost. However, it is not too late to start and thus this Bill is timely indeed.

At the present time the United States is celebrating 200 years of its Constitution, and to visit that country and see the vast amount of land mass which it has - in Canada and in England, and to see the many areas for parks and recreational areas which they have, it almost frightens me that with our limited land mass we have perhaps been a little careless until now in identifying and preserving what should have been preserved for Caymanians. Mr. President, it is for this reason why I supported so forcefully and strenuously, the marine parks. When that was presented to the House I supported it because I felt that unless we took serious steps to do so, much was going to be lost to our children.

Mr. President, I have walked in areas in England where I studied as a girl, and I stood there in awe to think that people had taken such an interest in what was theirs to have preserved it for hundreds and hundreds of years. And to think that I had studied history and there I was almost becoming a part of it in that great country, was indeed richly rewarding as far as I am concerned.

The Caymanian people, Mr. President, are made up of many and diverse nationalities. We are a special people, perhaps a people whom you would not find anywhere else. They are unique in their qualities, I think, and I am proud to be a Caymanian. The children of Cayman have to learn a lot about from where we have come.

One clause of this Bill mentions that public awareness and public education is amongst one of the purposes which it must fill - the fostering of public interest, the provision of information. Something which has bothered me for a long time is that perhaps the younger generation are not aware of all that Cayman is made of. Our dedication to duty, our ability to get along with each other regardless of colour or national background history, our ability to give an honest day's work for an honest day's pay - these are areas which have made up Cayman. I think that in the home and in the school as well as in the workplace, Caymanians have to be made aware of the fact that what we have must be held in trust for those who are going to come behind us.

It has bothered me for quite some time, in spite of the development which is inevitable, that many times that trees, such as the local thatch palm, the mango tree, the nashberry, the cocoplum, are just raised from the earth and no effort is made to even replenish these. As a child, there was a tree called a wild strawberry. I have yet to see one, probably, in the last 15 years and they were ever so plentiful as a child. I believe that a stringent effort must be put forth whenever development takes place in this country in that any of the fauna and flora, which is so much a part of Cayman's history, must be looked after in every plan that is brought to the Planning Department, and that every effort be made, either to refrain from destroying these, or, if they have to be removed, that they be removed and replaced or replanted.

Mr. President, as I mentioned earlier, we do not have too much land mass. We are quite a flat island and I have noticed in recent years that it has become a common practice to raise even the slightest little hill or any little elevated area in order to provide marl, or whatever, for the sake of development. I believe that consideration ought to be seriously given as to whether this should be done as much as it is. I think that an interest ought to be taken in the natural formation of the island - we are small, we have not much to offer, and I believe that these are areas that perhaps are carelessly raised simply in the name of development. Perhaps we could ask ourselves whether there is not some other means of providing marl or whatever is necessary for development, other than to raise the landscape?

Mr. President, the Second Elected Member for West Bay very ably and timely paid tribute to Mr. Ira. I would like to join him in doing that because he certainly preserved a lot of the things which otherwise may have gone the way much else has in our Islands. I also would like to take this time to pay tribute to Mr. Bertie Ebanks of West Bay who has preserved a lot of historical writings and other mementoes from the past. I would like to take this time to pay tribute to Mr. Lee Ebanks who has written a book entitled "Lest We Forget" and I think it should be in the hands of every Member of the House. These individuals and many others, Mr. President, were trying to do exactly what this Bill seeks to do today - to preserve for Caymanians what is ours and ours alone; things we cannot find elsewhere.

Mr. President, the Bill at the outset states: "There is hereby established a body corporate called the National Trust for the Cayman Islands which shall have perpetual succession ...". Mr. President, I give this Bill my wholehearted support. I believe in Cayman, I believe in all that it has stood for. I relish the thought and grasp the opportunity of visiting senior citizens of this country. I enjoy talking with them and learning from them all that took place earlier in their lives, many times before I was born, but I like to think that it would be in my best interest and the interest of the people of these islands if I, too, would endeavour to pass on what I have learned to the younger children of this generation.

Mr. President, I would like to see in our schools an effort made - not necessarily in the High School because at that particular time many children lose interest in an art - at early elementary stages to teach the art of local plaiting, of mat making, of sewing and of making local turtle nets, even though we do not use them. Often we wait until their teenage years to teach them and we lose these arts because they are not interested. I hope that in our school curriculum, not just for a matter of information, a complete and physical involvement in the preservation of things Caymanian might be strictly adhered to in the Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, I support the Bill. I look forward to its implementation and I assure this Honourable House that I will do all in my power to preserve what is ours.

I thank you for the opportunity of speaking on the Bill.

CAPT. HARRY E. KIRKCONNELL:

Mr. President, I rise to support a Bill for a Law to establish the National Trust for the Cayman Islands and for connected purposes. I think this is a very timely and necessary Bill. I would like to congratulate Government in bringing it forward and also the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council for his very able introduction.

I have listened very carefully to debates and I think most points have been very valid. In my opinion, in a small country such as we have, it is more important that we try to preserve our heritage in our National Trust than a large country, because in a small territory one tends to try to copy the developed nations, and you lose your identity completely. So I think it is very appropriate at this stage that this Bill be brought before this Honourable House.

One concern I have is how will this Trust be financed? I know in other territories there are memberships where substantial annual membership fees are paid by a large number of people which provides the necessary capital to preserve these historic sites. We must all realise that they are historic, they are old in nature, and therefore each year it will cost more to properly keep them maintained.

I would ask the Honourable Member - I am not sure that this is the appropriate place to discuss it - in replying if it would not be appropriate to establish somewhere in the by-laws a membership to be subscribed to on an annual basis. In other National Trusts the members also have voting rights - therefore you have a qualified and a dedicated clientele from which to choose committee members and which would guarantee the proper operation of the Trust and to preserve our heritage.

With these few words, Mr. President, I support the Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT: of reply?

Perhaps the mover would wish to exercise his right

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, I think it would be very heartening to see in our national newspaper, the Compass, an article which would say more or less the Legislative Assembly unanimously supported the National Trust Law. I am sure at the end of the day that is what we will see because so far Members who have spoken have strongly supported the Bill. To those who did not speak, it is always said that silence is consent. I have, therefore, no doubt that all the Members will give it their very strong support.

I know there were a few points raised by the Members who spoke. The Second Elected Member for West Bay suggested that in my presentation of the Bill it was not my intention to accept the proposal to provide for audit of the accounts, but before he had finished speaking I indicated to him that that view was not correct.

Mr. President, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town who spoke next on the Bill made quite a few points, some jokingly and others were perhaps more serious. He is alluding that the capital should be moved from George Town back to Bodden Town where it originally was. I would like to say to the Member that it is difficult to define the boundary between George Town and West Bay and so it is with George Town and Bodden Town. What the Member should be more concerned about is that in time he is going to lose his identity because George Town is going to subsume both Bodden Town and West Bay! However, Mr. President, I hear that West Bay is vying for the same thing, and they claim that because Government House is now midway between George Town and West Bay the transition would be much easier! Anyhow, the infrastructure of George Town is something that all of them will have a difficult task to overcome because it will take them a long, long time to build the sort of infrastructure to support a capital as it is in George Town. Mr. President, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town also suggested a few amendments to the Bill. He proposed that at the end of clause 4(1)(a) that the words "which it has acquired" be inserted. It is a point, Mr. President, that I raised with the Legal Department because at first I was also of the same view. However, the Honourable Second Official Member assured me that by inserting the provision under clause 4(1)(b) it would provide the sort of security which is required to ensure that the Trust would not acquire the power to obtain property by compulsory means.

Furthermore, Mr. President, looking at clause 14 of the Bill there is another provision there which would ensure that the Trust could not acquire property without the owner's consent. That is a provision providing the power to enter into agreements restricting the use of land. And the section begins with the words "Where any person is willing to agree with the Trust ...". So there is no way in which the Trust can, by compulsory means, acquire land. I think that when we re-examined the Bill to ensure that these safeguards were there it was determined that the Bill was sufficiently structured so as to provide for that safeguard, and so as not to excite people of things that the Trust could do against the wishes of property owners.

Mr. President, I had made a suggestion during the presentation of the Bill that, in order to further safeguard that fear by the Members, we strike out in clause 4(1)(b) and (2)(b) where the Trust would acquire property by gift, bequest, purchase or lease, the words "or other means", because those words could lead one to believe that there are other means which would include compulsory acquisition. I would be willing to do that, or to leave the words in there and have it accompanied with a proviso which would not include compulsory acquisition. But by striking out those words "or other means" would do the trick and provide the safeguard.

Mr. President, the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands questioned finance and where the Trust would obtain financing for its many projects. I touched on that this morning in the presentation of the Bill and I even pointed out that in the Cayman National Cultural Foundation Law there was a provision where money could be voted by the Legislative Assembly for the purposes of that Foundation. But I thought, too, that this Bill should have a similar provision because of its tremendous importance to the country. At the end of the Bill there is a provision for winding up the Trust in case there is some reason for so doing, and I said that I hoped we would never see that day. Once the Trust is established it should continue in perpetuity in its operation. So the question of financing is something we might want to give thought to in dealing with the Bill at the committee stage.

Mr. President, the question of audit I think is now fully appreciated, and, in order to satisfy all the Members who spoke on it and others who did not speak but who have some concern as well, a provision should be inserted in the Bill requiring audit and this will be put forward at the committee stage. A suggestion was sent to the Second Elected Member for West Bay who proposed it. The re-doing of the proposal was by the Legal Department. I think there is a second draft of it circulating, making a few minor amendments. We will put that to the committee and see whether it is accepted. I did not have time to discuss it with the full Government bench.

Mr. President, I think a lot has been said in support of the National Trust and I will now again rely on the Members of this Assembly to give it their full support when it is moved through the committee stage.

Thank you very much.

UNANIMOUSLY AGREED: THE NATIONAL TRUST FOR THE CAYMAN ISLANDS BILL, 1987 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

THE SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION (1986) BILL, 1987
FIRST READING

CLERK: THE SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION (1986) BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT: A Bill entitled The Supplementary Appropriation (1986) Law, 1987 is deemed to have been read the First time and is set down for the Second Reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE SUPPLEMENTARY APPROPRIATION (1986) BILL, 1987

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I move the second reading of a Bill for a Law to allow and confirm certain expenditure during the financial year 1986. This Bill is one which all Members are familiar with. It arises because during the year there is need for us to consider supplementary expenditure on items that were not seen during the forecasting of the budget in the previous year in November.

Mr. President, the total supplementary amounts to $2,386,257.00, but to clarify a point, perhaps for Members and certainly for the listening public, the Appropriation Law which was passed in December 1985 called for a total expenditure of $63,873,057.00, and although we have this supplementary appropriation Bill before us basically to give legality to the number of supplementary expenditure approvals that have been given by Finance Committee, we see at the end of the year, when we look at the accounts which were audited by the Auditor-General, that the total expenditure for that year is $62,803,940.

So, Mr. President, the expenditure for the year is slightly less than the Appropriation Law which was passed in December of 1985. The amount of money spent in 1986 is less than that sum by approximately $1,069,000.00, so that all we are doing in the Appropriation Law is to give legality to what was done in Finance Committee, although the sum was never spent - not all of it.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any Member wish to speak on this Bill? I am not sure of Standing Orders, but as nobody has spoken you may not wish to exercise your right to reply?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: I do not really need to, Mr. President, only to say thank you to Members who obviously supported the Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that clauses 1 to 9 inclusive do stand part of the Bill?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: I just had one comment Sir. Perhaps the Honourable Second Official Member would clarify a matter I raised with him regarding clause 4(2)(b) with respect to the right of appeal. I think the House would appreciate his explanation on this.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. Chairman, I also see the First Elected Member for Bodden Town ...

MR. JAMES H. BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, I did not circulate a proposed amendment, but I brought it up in the second reading, with regard to 4(1)(a) and I am willing to submit to further clarification from the Honourable Second Official Member or the Honourable Fourth Elected Member to ease the worry on that one.

MR. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, I comment on this. I said that I too was concerned when examining the Bill in the first instance that there should be some safeguard to ensure that property acquired by this Trust should only be those by gifts or by purchase or by lease, so that we would ensure that compulsory acquisition was not also a part of it.

After discussing it with the Legal Department, it was decided that in order to provide for some such safeguard it would be better put in 4(1)(b), where the Trust may have acquired, through gift, bequest, purchase or lease, or other means. What I was suggesting, Mr. Chairman, is that we remove the words "or other means", so that it would be specifically stated that the Trust would acquire property through gift, bequest, purchase or lease, and by no other means.

There is another form of treating that. We could leave all the words there and carry a provision which would ensure that there would be no compulsory acquisition. But whatever form Members wish it to take, I have no objection.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Perhaps, Mr. Chairman, I might just come in here now and say a word about compulsory purchase.

The Bill as drafted was never intended to confer any right of compulsory purchase, and on a strict interpretation my view is that it does not at the moment - the expression "or other means" is not sufficient of itself to impute a right of compulsory purchase. Having said that, I do appreciate that some Members are concerned about it, and although I can assure Members, and would be quite happy to so assure them, that the Bill, even as it stands, would not permit the Trust to go out and commence compulsory purchase proceedings against some member of the public. If there were words in here which were worrying Members, the words which the Honourable Fourth Elected Member just referred to "or other means" could come out without damaging or altering the effect of the Bill as a whole.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, I would like to see the words "or other means" remain, because if we take those words out it would preclude the Trust from getting land through any other source except gifts, bequests, purchase or lease, and they may get land as a result, say, of a court case in which the court determined that land should go to them for some specific reason. I would like to see those words remain, but an exception put in that the Trust could not get land by acquisition on its own nor by making recommendations to Government. My big fear is that the Trust may take a fancy to some property such as Guard House Hill and then make a recommendation to Executive Council that Government acquire the land, and Executive Council, or the Governor, or whoever it is, may follow the recommendation of the Trust - so that while the Trust does not have the power to acquire the land on its own, it could acquire it simply through a recommendation for its acquisition. I think we really need to make such an amendment so that the Trust cannot acquire land by its own volition, nor should it make recommendations that Government acquire it.

MR. CHAIRMAN: By its own volition you mean compulsorily acquire it?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Yes, Sir.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, there is a fear here and somehow we have to come to grips with it. We must not deny ourselves that it cannot happen. As my fellow Member for Bodden Town just said, a member of the committee or the Trust could take fancy to a particular piece of land and speak to a person in Government who could do something about it; say that they would like to get that piece of land and speak to the Planning Board to not give permission for any development to take place on that piece of land. It can happen that way. This is far-fetched, I know, but something needs to go in that will protect property owners with their inherent right that they now have. I am not legally minded enough to know how to phrase it and I would bend to the Honourable Second Official Member in that respect, but I think we should have some protection that says that ulterior means cannot be used to affect the property value of any respected piece of land that the Trust would like to acquire.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. Chairman, it would be very easy to put in a proviso that says that the Trust itself cannot acquire land compulsorily. I do accept the point made by the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town that there may be ways of acquiring land that we have not thought of, like courts, whatever. That is why draftsmen put in expressions like "any other means" to catch something which a failure of the imagination has not foreseen at this stage.

However, I would like to address the point raised by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. His submission is that the Trust should not be able to make recommendations to Government or, as I understood it, to the Planning Authority. At the moment, as I am sure he is aware, there is the Land Acquisition Law which has stood on the statute books of these Islands practically since time immemorial - it was certainly here in 1963. That permits Government to take land for public purposes upon the payment of compensation. There are safeguards that are hedged around - there are appeals to the court and so on. Public purpose is not defined in that Law, but it may well be that some of the purposes envisaged by the Trust might be a public purpose for which the Government of the day might properly, under the Land Acquisition Law, want to proceed to compulsory purchase.

Now in my submission it would be very odd if Government can, under this Law which has always been there, proceed when it thinks it appropriate to acquire land to do so except in one case, and that one case would be the National Trust. You would then be excluding the National Trust which has been set up for the benefit of the preservation of the Islands' heritage, from the benefits that that other Law conferred upon all other functions of Government. The safeguards which are in the Land Acquisition Law, in my submission to the House, really ought to be enough to set the Member's fears at rest. In the last resort, the safeguards are political because the act of compulsorily acquiring can attract, in the last resort, attention and questions in this House. But to debar the Trust, which has been set up, or will we hope have been set up with the unanimous support of this present Assembly, from itself benefiting under that Law would create an anomalous situation where the Trust was in a worse position than all arms of Government.

So, though I appreciate the Member's fear, and would not be so foolish as to say to him that the scenario that he envisages is not possible at some time in the future, I would say to him that there are safeguards within the Land Acquisition Law - that is an old Law which has been on the books for a long time - and that it would not really be necessary to disadvantage the Trust in relation to that Law in this way.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

I am quite familiar with the Land Acquisition Law and I really was not trying to preclude the Trust from having the benefit, maybe, of that, because I realize it might be necessary. I do not know whether there is any way in which we could include any protection in this Bill that would provide for what I have in mind. I have seen it worked before, in Government, and it could happen conceivably in the future. A person could have only one piece of land. It could be the only thing they own. They might not want to sell it, or they might not want to sell it at the price that they are being offered, say, by the Trust. And they might have means of selling that to someone else at a higher price. But someone could ask the Member in charge of the Portfolio which handles the Planning Board, to talk to the Planning Director to see that no permission is granted for a building of a home, let us say, on that site. But as long as the person who owns that land cannot use that land for some benefit, it has but little value, and what I am trying to safeguard is that the Trust, or Government as a whole, cannot use that to infringe on the property rights of an individual.

Now I do not know if there is a way of phrasing it in the Bill, but I am sure that the Attorney General will admit that such a thing can happen, and I would like to see him put his mind together to see if there is a way to protect these rights. That is all I am asking. I am not really making a big issue of it, I am only saying that if we were to put something to protect property rights in this Bill, it may keep us from having a lot of problems in the future.

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

Mr. Chairman, I want to make two points. I guess the first is that I think maybe subsection (1)(b) is the wrong place for us to be dealing with the affairs that have been expressed. As I see it that is the purpose of the Trust. Clause 4(2)(b) might be the better place to deal with the affair that is being expressed - that is the section that deals with the power of the Trust. But I would also like to call attention to subsection (2)(a) and point out that the power of the Trust there really is the identification, investigation, classification, protection, preservation of any place, building, area of beauty or of historic, cultural or environmental significance. So I would have thought that that would be the controlling factor if ever the Land Acquisition Law was thought of being exercised. It would have to meet those criteria so that not just any piece of property would be at stake. It would have to fall, in my opinion, in the realm of historical, cultural, environmental significance. However, the other more important point that I want to make is that, if any provision or whatever is going to be made, I would have thought it would be in subsection (2)(b).

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, I would fully support that, and that is why initially I suggested clause 4(2)(b) because 4(2)(b) actually deals with the power to carry out certain activities and 4(1) states the purposes of the Trust. So if we are going to amend 4(1)(b), then 4(2)(b) will likewise have to be amended to read the same.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. Chairman, may I just come in here and say that 4(2)(b) is the place to do it and that, to meet some of Members' fears, what we could put in there is words to the effect that "provided that nothing in this subsection shall be taken as empowering the Trust to obtain land by compulsory purchase."

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, I wonder whether we should not ask the Honourable Second Official Member, then, to agree the wording of the necessary amendment here, and we could leave that to him.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Well, I thought we might have a short suspension while he works it out and come back.

But may I ask one thing for clarification? Compulsory acquisition of land, once this has happened, what are the rights of the owner? Are there appeal rights to the Grand Court, or what are the procedures?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Under the Land Acquisition Law, once a compulsory purchase order is made by the Governor, which I believe is the Governor in Council, there is a valuation procedure using the Government Valuation Officer, and then that can either be accepted by the property owner, or he has a right of appeal. The right of appeal takes him to the Grand Court. Whether it goes there directly, or whether there is a tribunal in between, I am not sure without checking the Law. But certainly, in the end, he can get a hearing on the valuation in the Grand Court.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

I just want to establish clearly - the appeal is about the value, not about the fact of acquisition - is there an appeal against the acquisition?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

I hesitate to commit myself without having looked at it, but my immediate reaction is that it is against the valuation, and if some - if I might use the expression - "funny business" had happened to diminish the value artificially, that is something which the aggrieved land owner could canvass on an appeal. He would have to bring evidence to show it, but that is something that could be aired.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

If you cannot get permission under the law to develop a piece of land, certainly, then, the value has been lowered. And if we were to put in something here to say that provided that no steps had been taken to lower the existing value, it may adequately cover what we are talking about. I am not saying that is the wording; it can be worded in the legal terminology - but so long as we get that meaning into the Bill.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. Chairman, under the Land Acquisition Law, there are two notices which should be published before the process of acquisition. The first notice is to identify the particular property which Government wishes to acquire. The second notice is to state specifically for what purpose the property is required, and so there is no question, really, of Government going and acquiring property for other people. The property that is acquired by Government must be for specific Government development or improvement.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, I do not think, really, that any of us are arguing against the use of the Land Acquisition Law if it was felt necessary that it should be used to preserve something of historical value, because I think we all appreciate that. The point I am arguing, really, is that I do not want to see any fictitious means used to devalue the existing value of a person's piece of property because the Trust would like to buy it. And this could be done - the owner of the property may not know that that piece of land had been pin-pointed by the Trust to acquire it, and development on that piece of land could be forestalled by the Planning Board year after year after year. And if the person has no rights to develop that piece of land the value has been lowered. I would not want to see that happen through this Bill just because we want to preserve something of historical value.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

In this particular connection?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Yes, Sir, but we must protect the rights of the property owners.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

I think we might have a short break, but specific questions for the Attorney General - it may be that the Land Acquisition Law, as the Honourable Fourth Elected Member mentioned, may only provide for acquisition by Government for Government purposes - and the National Trust may not, in that case, be a Government purpose.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

That is my contention, Mr. Chairman.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Perhaps we will take a break, and the Honourable Second Official Member can think about two things - first of all the question we have just put, and secondly, a suitable amendment to the Bill we are looking at. Shall we take ten or fifteen minutes?

AT 3:15 P.M. THE COMMITTEE SUSPENDED

COMMITTEE RESUMED AT 3:37 P.M.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

We will resume. We are short of one of the interested Members.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. Chairman, in the break I did speak to the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, who I now see coming into the Chamber, and I was able to explain to him privately some aspects of the Law and undertook that I would in the House, as a result of that, make certain statements as to what my view of the effect of the present Bill and of the Land Acquisition Law is. I would like to do that now, if I may, Mr. Chairman.

I would begin at the beginning, although it is going over ground that we have already covered, but in my view the Bill as presently drafted does not confer upon the Trust, itself, the power to directly acquire land by compulsory acquisition. It only confers upon it the power to buy on the open market or to accept by way of gift or bequest, accept land.

Secondly, the Land Acquisition Law does permit Government to acquire land for a public purpose, and it may be that a proper public purpose would be the preservation of some building or site of historical, heritage or national interest. And it would be possible for Government to acquire such land under the Land Acquisition Law and then hand over its management or donate it or grant it to the Trust. It would, of course, always be possible for the Trust, or anybody, to set Government in motion by making a request to do that.

Any back door attempt to alter or artificially tamper with the value of land which was to be so acquired under the Land Acquisition Law would of course be grossly improper - it would be grossly improper under the Law as it stands now, and in my opinion, nothing that we could add into the National Trust Law would provide any more effective safeguard than those that exist in the present laws.

The safeguard that exists in the present Land Acquisition Law is an appeal to the Grand Court on the valuation of the land. The procedure is that the Governor takes advice from Government's valuers as to what the valuation of the land is and offers that to the person from whom the land is being acquired. If the person is dissatisfied with that offer he can appeal it to the Grand Court. If he is satisfied he can accept it, but if he is dissatisfied he can go to the Grand Court and there will then be a hearing - and it would be a public hearing - as to what the market value of the land is. And on that hearing, in my view, if there was some evidence that something improper had taken place, that could be canvassed and dealt with at that hearing. And anything that we would put into the present National Trust Bill could only be as good or as effective as what would already exist under the Land Acquisition Law and what would happen on such a hearing.

So, in my view, it is unnecessary to put anything in the National Trust Bill. I hope that meets the undertaking I had given to the Member.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: And your view on it would be that the Bill, as presently drafted, could not be used in any way to artificially lower the value of any property which may wish to be acquired?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: That is correct.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, I am pleased to hear what the Honourable Second Official Member has said and I am quite willing to accept that. Thank you.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think the position on committee stage of this Bill is that the Clerk has read out clauses 1 to 9 and we have specifically discussed certain aspects of clause 4. Can I now put the question on clauses 1 to 9, or are there issues which Members wish to discuss in other clauses?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: I do not think there were any specific issues raised in the other clauses, Mr. Chairman. Clause 10, yes, dealing with audit.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Yes, I think not. I just wanted to be quite sure, having made several mistakes this afternoon, I was trying to avoid another one!

So I now put the question. The question is that clauses 1 to 9 do stand part of the Bill?

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. CLAUSES 1 - 9 PASSED

CLERK: CLAUSE 10. ACCOUNTS.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Clause 10 - amendment proposed to which I have given leave, with the will of the House.

MR. McKEEVA W. RUSH: Mr. Chairman, in accordance with Standing Order 52(2), I move the following amendment in accordance with Standing Order 52(1).

"That the Bill be amended by:

(1) renumbering clause 10 as clause 10(1); and

(2) adding the following new subclause (2):

"(2) The accounts of the Trust shall be audited annually by a Certified Accountant and the officers, employees and members of the Trust shall grant to the person conducting such audit access to all the books, documents, cash and securities of the Trust, and shall give to him on request all such information as shall be within their knowledge in relation to the operation of the Trust, and a copy of the report of the auditor shall be laid on the table of the Legislative Assembly simultaneously with the Annual Report referred to in section 12."

Mr. Chairman, I do not need to go into any great detail. I think the case has been well put. It seems now that Government will accept it and that all Members are in favour, so I move the amendment.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, providing that the Honourable Members of this House are prepared to accept the amendment moved by the Second Elected Member for West Bay, I am prepared to support it, Sir.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. Chairman, just one observation which could form an amendment to this amendment, and that is the clarification of the first part. It is not going to change it significantly, it says "The accounts of the Trust shall be audited annually by a Certified Accountant ...". In the Cayman Islands we have, basically three categories of accountants which can audit accounts - they are C.P.A.s, C.A.s and A.C.C.A.s. For example, a C.A. is not a Certified Accountant like a C.P.A. and if a U.K. accountant saw this, it could create some confusion, so it may be a little clearer if it said: "shall be audited annually by an accountant qualified to practice within the Cayman Islands". That would then include all three bodies that are certified to practice here in the Cayman Islands - and not just the Certified Accountants.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, I also agree with that amendment.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. Chairman, may I also say that I am very grateful that this point was raised. It was something which had been concerning me - not being an accountant, I do not know all the grades of the profession - but I am grateful to have some input on that, and that would seem to meet the point very well.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Unless any other Member wishes to speak on this, we will take the amendment to the amendment first - the amendment being that in the second line of clause 10(2), in the amendment proposed, that it shall read "by an accountant qualified to practice in the Cayman Islands" in place of the words "by a certified accountant".

The question is that this amendment to the proposed amendment stand part of the proposed amendment.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AMENDMENT TO AMENDMENT PASSED

MR. CHAIRMAN: Now we will take the amendment, if that is agreeable.

The question is that the amendment, moved by the Second Elected Member for West Bay, in regard of clause 10 as amended stand part of clause 10.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. Chairman, perhaps just one other little amendment, and that is that what would now be 10(1) ... if you are going to be taking that now - have we reached there yet?

MR. CHAIRMAN: Well, I think we were about to take it, because 10(1) is part of this original amendment. But please go ahead.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: In the third line where it says "payments, credits and liabilities", since we are referring to receipts and payments, the better accounting terminology would be "assets and liabilities", rather than "credits and liabilities".

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Again, Mr. President, I am in the hands of the accountancy profession on matters like this - so from a legal point of view, I would see no objection to that.

MR. CHAIRMAN: We will take, then, the second amendment to the amendment, and that is that in what would be clause 10(1), in the third line the word "credits" be replaced by the word "assets".

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AMENDMENT TO AMENDMENT PASSED

MR. CHAIRMAN: May I now proceed to take the original amendment - the mover must be wondering if he will ever get it!

The question is that the amendment, moved by the Second Elected Member for West Bay, as twice amended do stand part of clause 10.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. AMENDMENT AS TWICE AMENDED PASSED

MR. CHAIRMAN: The question now is that clause 10 as amended stand part of the Bill.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. CLAUSE 10 AS AMENDED PASSED

CLERK: CLAUSE 11. GENERAL MEETINGS.

- CLAUSE 12. ANNUAL REPORT.
- CLAUSE 13. DISTRICT COMMITTEES.
- CLAUSE 14. POWER TO ENTER INTO AGREEMENTS RESTRICTING USE OF LAND.
- CLAUSE 15. EXEMPTION FROM STAMP DUTY.
- CLAUSE 16. POWER OF GOVERNOR TO GRANT PROPERTY TO THE TRUST.
- CLAUSE 17. BY-LAWS.
- CLAUSE 18. REMOVAL OF PERSONS.
- CLAUSE 19. OFFENCES.
- CLAUSE 20. REGULATIONS.
- CLAUSE 21. PENALTIES.
- CLAUSE 22. INALIENABLE PROPERTY.
- CLAUSE 23. FAILURE OF THE TRUST.

MR. CHAIRMAN:
stand part of the Bill?

The question is that clauses 11 to 23 inclusive do

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, I had not made a formal move for an amendment to that section, but in my debate on the Bill I drew attention to the fact that I thought the date of October 1988 should have been changed to December 1988, because with us dealing with this in September, the Law will probably not become applicable until October, and by the time the committees and it could begin to function it will probably be at least December of this year. I think it would be out of line to expect to hold the first Annual General Meeting in October of 1988.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. Chairman, the date given here is one strongly recommended by the Committee steering the Bill through to Government, and the reason for it is that they hope the Bill will become effective immediately it is given its assent by the Governor, and that it will then run for one full year before an Annual General Meeting is held. I tend to agree that the Trust should have that meeting a year after it is in operation. I thought, Mr. Chairman, that the Member was proposing that we bring the Law into effect in December 1988.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

No, that is not what I am proposing, and I do not think I intimated that in any way in my debate. I wonder if you could advise us who this Committee is that is so strongly recommending that this be done in October?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. Chairman, I have the names of the Committee and if the House so wishes I can read them.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

I wonder, perhaps - this is one point of information, but on the question of October or December - if the Committee is prepared to have a go, we might say well let them have a go. If they fail, then the egg is on their face.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Yes, but I still would like to know the composition of that Committee, and why we are so strongly accepting its wishes for October of 1988.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

All right, Sir. The Chairman is Mr. Joe Heavener and the Vice Chairman is Mr. Vernon Jackson. The Secretary is Miss Deborah Drummond. The Treasurer is Mr. Noel Bodden. The Acting Secretary is Mrs. Dace McCoy-Ground. The Legal Adviser is Mr. Ian Boxall. The Development Liaison person is Mr. John Hurlston. Membership and fund raising: Mrs. Karen Hunter. Historic preservation: Miss Anita Ebanks. Flora and fauna: Miss Gina Ebanks. Flora and fauna: Mr. Alison Ebanks. Flora and fauna: Mrs. Margaret Barwick. Marine environment: Mr. Dan Foster. Conservation: Mr. Kearney Gomez. Government representative: Miss Corrine Glasgow. Government representative: Mr. Timmy Hubbell. District of West Bay representative: Mr. Charlie Farrington. District of East End representative: Mr. Rushbrook McLaughlin. North Side representative: Mrs. Mary Miller. George Town representative: Mr. Kirkland Nixon.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, in the interest of fair play I think we should more than ever change it to December, because after hearing the composition of that Committee there is no representative on Council from the important district of Bodden Town. And there is not one supporter of the unity team on that Committee. So I think in the interests of fair play you as Chairman of this Assembly should intercede under Roberts' Rules of Order to grant the minority a chance to see a little bit of fair play.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER

Mr. Chairman, in that case I would like to nominate the First Elected Member for Bodden Town to represent Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

No, I can represent that more ably in this House.
(LAUGHTER)

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, there seems to be a very serious problem here in that clause 13 has a specific condition that Bodden Town be represented in the Trust. Since the Steering Committee, which is a nucleus from which the Trust will grow, does not have a Bodden Town representative on it, it seems imperative that somebody be appointed to that Committee before we go into passing the Bill and appointing the members for the Trust. It is a very serious defect, and in fact there seems to be so much nepotism in the Committee with members related very closely to the Government, that the Honourable Member should take steps to reorganize that Committee before we can go into what we hope will be a non-controversial Trust. So it is of paramount importance that we change this date of October and that the Honourable Member get his house in order before he proceeds with the implementation of the Trust under this Bill.

MRS. DAPHNE L. DORRETT: Mr. Chairman, irrespective of what the Steering Committee's wishes might be as regards the time of implementation of this Bill, it would seem to me that those Members who spoke within the House today all seem to have indicated that there was some matter of urgency and that the Bill was timely, that it was here in time, and so on. I take it that the majority of Members here felt that the sooner the better.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think we should give the Honourable Member in charge, if he wishes, the opportunity to speak at this point.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, as far as the membership of this Committee is concerned, neither is there a representative for the Lesser Islands. It is the intention that when the Trust gets into operation that a Council will be appointed with district committees representing all the districts of the Islands.

This Committee was largely put together to consider the legislation side of it. Now if it is the wish of Members that the other districts not named here be represented, I can arrange to have members appointed to it, so that they will be known as the founder members. But as far as the operation is concerned, the Council of the Trust will be appointed. That is provided for in the Bill and the membership of that Council also sets out in the Bill who they will be and so on, together with these district committees. So I do not think it is a question, Mr. Chairman, that certain districts will not be represented here - everybody will have their due representation in the Council as a whole.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, the purpose of this Bill as set out in the Memorandum is to preserve the historical heritage of the Islands. And whether we like it or not, Bedden Town was the first capital of the island. So how can we be setting up a Committee to deal with this and ignore completely the first capital - it cannot be done.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think, with respect, if I may, I am new to this, but I think clauses 6 and 13 do answer your point. I think that what is being talked about at the moment is what you might call an organising committee, but they cease to have powers under clause 6 the moment, I think, assent is given to the Bill.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: I think you are wrong, Sir. Their influence is going to pervade throughout the establishment of the Trust.

MR. CHAIRMAN: In that case I think what I need, if we are going to proceed with this, are applications for leave to bring in specific amendments.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, I do take grave exception to the fact that this Committee was formed and has been doing this work. I do not think I have had any notice of it before and I do not know whether my colleague has. Bedden Town is, sort of, the oldest established settlement on the Island. There are more areas of historic interest in Bedden Town than any other district of the Island. We have St. James Castle, we have the Guard House Hill, we have the Gun Square area, we have the old rock wall, and we even have the Savannah Schoolhouse; and to see that this was put together in the form of a nepotistic move, I would say, to appoint no one but their family members to this, and no one who has any suggestion of a linkage to the unity team, I think is an insult to us - and then we are asked to vote on this to bring it in in October of 1988 on the advice of these people because it says that the first annual general meeting of the Trust shall be held during the month of October 1988. That means that the annual activity of the Trust will be reported back to October of 1987. With us just acting on this Bill now it is impossible to make all the changes, and to organise and set it up, and have one year of activity to report on in 1988. This is strictly a political move, and I abhor it. As important as I think the Bill is for the country, I will, in the end, vote against it if we cannot change this date.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. Chairman, I cannot subscribe to the view. We never usually differ on these points, but I could hardly subscribe to the view that it is a political committee because I happen to know - and I know a lot of politics are being played in the House - but I happen to know of some of the genesis of this Committee, and perhaps if the Honourable mover of the Bill had in fact remembered to give a little background of how the Committee came about, then it would have cleared a lot of doubts. It was not, from what I understand, just a straight appointment, as such, by Government of selected individuals. As a matter of fact it was the reverse. Individuals interested in the protection of our heritage got together as a group, and this is where the genesis of this formed, and it was at this stage that the Portfolio really took it in hand and decided to bring the Bill to the House. But initially that group was not selected by Government to be on the Committee.

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

Mr. Chairman, I would like to say that I did not know the names of the members of the Committee until they were just read. But I would call the attention of Members to clause 6 of the Bill. The founder members, on the commencement of this Bill, will be appointed by the Governor, and it says it shall include at least one person representing each of the seven areas mentioned in clause 13(1) - that includes Bodden Town. So, irrespective of the title which the people might have been given on that list which the Honourable Member moving the Motion read, there has to be a member representing the electoral district of Bodden Town, and one from the Brac.

I think one thing has been served by this intervention, Mr. Chairman, and that is that I think we all missed. I do not know whether we would call it a typo or not, but in this same clause 6, I believe that on the seventh line of that, when it refers to "at the first Annual General Meeting to be held pursuant to Section 12", I have a feeling that should be "... Section 11".

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. Chairman, he is right.

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

Mr. Chairman, and again, I think if some Members have fears about the composition of the Council as it might be constituted by the Governor in Council, then that is an argument for having the first Annual General Meeting of the Council earlier rather than later so that the membership of the Trust do their own elections, as provided for in clause 11.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, I once again have to thank the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council because now he has given me even more ammunition for my argument. If we read clause 6 we will see that at the beginning it says:

"On the commencement of this Law, the powers, functions and responsibilities of the Council shall vest in the Founder Members."

The founding members are the people who have been mentioned by the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council and it has no membership for Bodden Town or for the Sister Islands. If we read the clause further, it says:

"At the first Annual General Meeting to be held under section 11, the first Council shall be constituted, whereupon the powers of the Founder Members under this section shall cease."

It is not until a year from now, or in October 1980, that members from the other districts will have the power to function. It will be that the power here, if I read it correctly, is vested for the first year in these Founder Members.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Can we have clarification from the Attorney General, and next the Elected Member for East End.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. Chairman, with great respect, founder member is defined in clause 2, the definition clause, as meaning the persons referred to in clause 6. Clause 6 says that the Governor in Council shall appoint the Founder Members, so the Founder Members are not the Committee who have worked so hard to put together the Bill and the idea of the Trust; they are the people who will be appointed once the Law comes into effect by the Governor in Council, and the Governor in Council will be obliged to appoint a member for each of the districts in clause 13, including someone from Bodden Town. So there will have to be a representative for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Yes, but there are going to be a lot of other Founder Members other than the seven people who by law have to be appointed. By law being under clause 6, I think, where one person from each district has to be appointed, but the Council will consist of a lot of other Members who are going to be appointed by Executive Council, those persons being more or less be the Founder Members - and we know that will be so. If we take time to figure out exactly how many Members are going to be appointed, and if we take the seven Members who have to be appointed by law, we will find that the Council - the Founder Members which the Honourable Member has just mentioned - will probably amount to the other 12 or whatever it is. We therefore know that they are going to be appointed by Executive Council, so what chance is one member from Bodden Town going to have against 18 others in anything he might wish to get done?

MR. CHAIRMAN:

I think the Attorney General might like to clarify further the difference between clause 5(3) which provides for the permanent Council, and the implications for that in the appointment under clause 6 by the Governor in Council of the Founder Members.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. Chairman, I think he is right that under clause

6 the Governor in Council will have some discretion over the size or the number of the Founder Members who are appointed, but that will have to include somebody for each of the districts. With respect, Mr. Chairman, I do not think that the Council as set out in clause 5(3) necessarily binds the constitution of the Founder Members, or the distribution of that, but the whole scheme, or the whole intention envisaged by the idea of Founder Members and then going on to a Council, is really so that when the Trust is set up there has to be somebody who can immediately take over the government and control of it, take possession of any property that is vested in it and so on. This has to happen straight away. We cannot have elections straight away because until the Trust is set up the solicitation of membership among the public cannot begin. So what is envisaged is that one has the Founder Members who then go out, create a membership and they will then have a democratic election. And I think the date of October 1988 has been selected because it is going to be twelve months from the time when this Bill is likely to come into effect, given the length of this Sitting, and however long it takes to get the assent of His Excellency the Governor and so on - more or less twelve months. And I think that is where that period has come from. If I may say so I think that is where it has come from because when doing the draft we put that in there and the justification for that originally was that it was a year - and that the sooner one can move forward to the democratic election the better, while maintaining the concept of an annual renewal, starting from the time when the Law comes into effect.

I hope that clarifies the situation.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

But, Mr. Chairman, clause 5(3) - unless I am being very ignorant today - states that the composition of the Council shall be:

"(a) the chairman, vice-chairman, secretary, treasurer and nine members who shall be elected at the annual general meeting ...".

It goes on in clause 5(3)(b) to say "three members appointed by the Governor ..." and it states which portfolios they shall be from. Sub-paragraph (c) then goes on to say "the seven persons being the chairmen of the District Committees", which means there is an overall composition of 23 members, right? Of those 23 members, seven shall be from the districts - so you might say that that cannot be controlled too much politically. The three members from the Portfolio are political appointments. Then there are 13 other people. Now tell me, under the composition of the founding membership which the Honourable Member just read out, who are those 13 are going to be? I will ask the Honourable Member right now whether it is 11 or 13 people in the composition which he just read out?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Those are 20 members.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

So there are 20 out of which 13 will be selected? It is of great importance to the country, to have something like this established. Here we are approaching the 1988 November general elections and during the week before the elections, the last week in October, we are going to have a big fanfare promoted by Government throughout the country, the National Historical Trust day which was brought about by this elected Government - one week before the election. Do you think that that is fair when we sit in here and pass the Bill?

MR. CHAIRMAN:

I do think we are getting into questions of principle which should have been brought up in the debate on the second reading. You brought up a date, with respect, but you did not go into this detail.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

I brought up a date, Sir. I did not go into the details. I hinted at it in a political sense. I said I was putting on my political hat when I mentioned the October date and suggested that it be December. I did not at that point go into great detail, I will agree, but I did mention it and so having mentioned it I have the right now, since it has gone into this type of debate, to further my debate by stating my meaning. I am sure I am correct on that.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Indeed you have, indeed you have. I am making the point that we are on a matter of principle, now, in committee, and normally we deal with this at the second reading. Normally, I think that would have meant that you might have considered voting against the second reading.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

That is correct, but I thought it was such a simple thing and that it could have been changed without this ... but I now see the reason why we cannot change it.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. Chairman, can we select somebody from Rodden Town to put on the Council?

MR. CHAIRMAN:

I think that the Bill provides who does the selection.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. Chairman, in fact I suggested a little while ago that what I was prepared to do was to recommend the appointment of two members in addition to what is there now. One would come from Bodden Town and one from the smaller Islands.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I have an apology, I misunderstood. You meant the present organising committee, I misunderstood you.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: But Mr. Chairman, instead of diverting from what already has been said as routine, how much simpler would it be if we changed the date to December? The entire House has heard the fears we have on it. We have heard the composition of the Council. There may be one or two supporters of the previous Government in that, that is all. Why do we not just change the date instead of dealing with the irrelevant and changing a lot of other things.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I would support that, Mr. President. I think the First Member for Bodden Town is right. If there is no ulterior motive what is the big thing about changing the date? You can allow an amendment put by the Member to change the date, and if the House agrees, then it is agreed, and we would not be wasting so much time. But the Member has a good point.

MR. CHAIRMAN: So have you in regard to time, Sir. The Elected Member for East End.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: Mr. Chairman, in defence of the organising committee, I would have to say that I spoke with the chairman several times. He came to my office asking my recommendations for my district and as a result of that Mr. McLaughlin was appointed for East End. He did say that he was having problems with some of the districts in finding people who were willing to serve, and I believe this is the case why somebody for Bodden Town is not on it. I do not mean to disagree with my colleague, but I just thought I should make that point.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Well, I agree with you to an extent, and I thank you for bringing that out, but I cannot believe, as public spirited as the people of Bodden Town are and as much as they believe in the heritage of the great district of Bodden Town, and it is unusual that not one member for Bodden Town could be found to serve.

I have raised a couple of other points. I have given way to them on proper clarification from the Attorney General and so forth, and I feel I have a valid point now, and if I could be conciliatory, I wonder why the Member cannot be conciliatory at this time, and agree to a change to December?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. Chairman, another twist has come about. If I understand the Member for East End correctly, he was called as a representative for East End to get membership. Am I right?

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: I was asked to recommend, Mr. Chairman, names of people whom I thought would serve on it, which I did, and at first it was the same thing in my district, a few people declined, and finally Mr. McLaughlin accepted.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Now, for the sake of clarity, I wonder if the Honourable Fourth Elected Member could say whether that was policy on behalf of the members, or just because they could not find anyone - whether it was a decision that Members would make recommendations?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Politics had nothing to do with this, so the Committee was given the authority to try and select members. Not everybody is willing and dedicated to serve on committees and so the Trust officers had problems finding people. I think, Mr. Chairman, that the matter should now be put to a vote.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: But Mr. Chairman, before ...

MR. CHAIRMAN: One moment, the Elected Member for North Side has not had a chance to speak on this issue yet.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: In relation to the time factor, Mr. Chairman, I think we all seem to be ignoring what was pointed out by the Honourable Second Official Member, and certainly no one here would want a non-democratic elected Council to serve for 14 or 15 months, and one that was elected democratically after that to only be allowed to serve for a year. So I think if we accept his reasoning as to why October was appointed so that the non-democratically elected Council does not serve longer than the one that is appointed. I think that is why we should stick to October 1988, Sir.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, I still raise the point that I think my colleague from Bodden Town and myself have been quite conciliatory in the study of this Bill, and when the Honourable Fourth Elected Member started to speak a while ago, I thought that he was going to begin to be conciliatory and suggest that we accept December of 1988. I wonder if he still has that change of heart?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. Chairman, I think that the Committee has made a valid point that the first annual general meeting be held in October 1988, and I have no good reason for not agreeing with that date, Sir.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

But, Mr. Chairman, as we proceed with this House, however long it may be in session, there will be very few points, I think, which I will be conciliatory to during the rest of the sitting, because I cannot see the stern defence of this particular date other than it is intended to be used politically. I think that is all that is intended. No valid reason, Mr. Chairman, has been given as to why we cannot have another date - no real valid reason, and yet we, on this side, have been conciliatory in accepting the Attorney General's and the Honourable Fourth Elected Member's points. We have said that we agree and that we will not stand firm if other statements are made, so that in the future, if it comes up, Hansard will reflect the intention of the Bill. So I hope that the intentions of what I am saying today will be adequately reflected if this House is in Session in September or October, and I am here, if God is willing, in my seat. At that time when this is comes back as a political thing one week before the election, believe me my colleague and myself will raise strong objections.

Thank you Sir.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, if I may speak, Sir. I would like to support the change of the date from October ...

MR. CHAIRMAN:

There has been no amendment proposed yet. I am prepared to, although we are getting very close to time, consider an application for leave to move an amendment without notice if you wish. It seems to me it is the quickest way to resolve this.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

I will do that as soon as I make these preliminary remarks.

If the feeling is that we would profit by having an early election to get the democratically elected officers in, why not have the first annual general meeting in January of 1988? Then we would really have an early start. If that is the reason, that is the date we should have. There is nothing to say we must go twelve months before we have the first meeting.

I would just like to add, Sir, that you are quite correct in saying that we should not be debating the principles, we should have done this in the second reading debate, but the problem is that the Honourable Member who introduced the Bill did not give us the information which we are getting now. Since this was hidden from us we had no way of knowing what was going on behind the scenes, and this is why we are now making these points, which should have been made if the Bill had been properly introduced.

Sir, I would like to move, with your permission, not having given notice ...

MR. CHAIRMAN:

One moment, before you do, I think you should allow the Honourable Member in charge to consider your suggestion of January 1988, and to reply to that.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. Chairman, in the first place, in my presentation of the Bill, I said that a Committee of 20 persons was appointed to deal with the legislation before us. I had no reason at that time to give their names. The names were just requested, and I gave them. However, I did mention to the House that there were 20 people on this Committee.

As far as the date is concerned, Mr. Chairman, the date of October 1988 is really not a magic date. It was the date which the Committee thought would be appropriate to have the first annual general meeting, which would be one year after the law came into effect. What effect it is going to have introducing it in January 1988, I am not too sure. That is the reason why I am not really in favour of moving away from the date which is recommended in the Bill.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

While the Member is thinking, I would propose that we try to finish this committee stage today, if that is agreeable to you?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, with your permission I would like to move an amendment, not having given the proper notice, but your discretion can allow it.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Leave is granted.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

I move that the date for the first annual general meeting be fixed for June 1988. (LAUGHTER)

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Changing it again. (LAUGHTER)

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

That will give us a chance for you to have a part in your administration and the part of the next administration.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

That is politics, Sir!

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Before putting the question, would the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill wish to speak to the point of June 1988 before I put it as a question?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. Chairman if the chairman of the Committee were here, I could perhaps discuss this with him. I have no one here to advise me on the matter just now.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Could we adjourn until tomorrow while you seek advice from him?

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Well, maybe until Monday. I think it probably would be better if this matter is discussed rather than to put specific amendments. Would you agree?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

So long as we will have the right when we come back, if the Honourable Member has not agreed to the suggestion of a change of date ...

MR. CHAIRMAN:

The Honourable Member will consider the suggestions made and reply when we resume.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. Chairman, the Honourable Member has said that he is not going to change his view which is set forth in the Bill, and I think it a waste of time not to take a vote here and now. They should be able to make a decision. It is not any big thing, according to the Attorney General, whether it is October, December or June. Now why is it that he has to go and talk to somebody before he can make that decision. I think now we are wasting too much time. We can resolve this matter this afternoon.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. Chairman, simply because I am not in charge of the Committee.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

You are responsible for the Bill though.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

The Committee has a job to do and I have to depend upon its advice in doing that job. That is the only reason.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Well, it is one more case of saying that it takes a long time to make decisions. I would like to see us change the date because I would like to be able to vote on the third reading, and vote in the affirmative because I think this Bill needs to become Law.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. Chairman, I agree with the proposal made by the Second Elected Member for West Bay that the matter be put to a vote.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, in view of the time element, and of the importance that we try to get through this Bill, I wonder whether Members would not agree that we suspend Standing Order 10(2) in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 83 so that we could just finish this particular Bill, rather than carry it forward until Monday. As the Second Member for West Bay said, it does seem that we are procrastinating and wasting a bit of time, so we should try to finish this afternoon.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Believe me, I want to finish it. I am not trying to waste any time, I am just trying to see that we get a change in the Bill.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

The Motion is that Standing Orders be suspended in order to continue the progress of our present discussion.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. THAT STANDING ORDER 10(2) BE SUSPENDED TO ENABLE THE HOUSE TO CONTINUE ITS PRESENT DISCUSSION.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

It does seem to me that the feeling of Members is that this proposed amendment should be taken. Am I right? I have no wish to force an amendment, but that does appear to be the general feeling.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

So long as - I am assured you are not anticipating acceptance of the amendment.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: No, we know better than that because this you can never do. You expect our support, but we can never get anything changed on your side. But then the next time something comes up where you need our support, you are not going to get it.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I do not think we should horse-trade over matters of national interest.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I am not horse-trading, with all due respect, Sir. All I am trying to do is to state what the position is in this House.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: For the sake of clarity, are we now going to take an amendment for December or June?

MR. CHAIRMAN: I am going to ask the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town to put his amendment, please.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, I move that clause 11 of the Bill be amended in the second line, to change "October, 1988" to "June, 1988". I take it that you have granted permission for me to move it without notice.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Leave has been given.
The question is that clause 11 of the Bill be amended by the substitution of "June 1988" in the second line for "October 1988"?

Mr. Chairman, I have asked the Attorney General who sees nothing legally wrong with the month. If there is no ulterior motive, and since there has been no political chicanery or feelings on the Bill - which there should not have been - then there should be no hard feelings against a different month.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. Chairman, may I just say, because the Member brought my name into it, that he did not send me a written question asking what the difference was between October and December, and I gave no reply to that - I wrote no reply, and being unable to say what the difference is, it is not really a matter for me.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Could you make that clearer, I did not understand what you said, because I do not want to mislead the House.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: I said I gave no reply because I am unable to say what the difference is - it is not really a matter ...

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I thought you intimated to me that there would be no difference - you did not write it, but you certainly intimated to me that there was no difference. I asked you point blank, I wrote it, then caught your eye, and you said, no difference.

I said there is no legal difference, but ...

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. Chairman, I had intended to make one note in clause 19, I was not aware that you were taking it straight through to clause 23. There was one matter I wanted to raise which I mentioned to the mover of the Bill. I think he fairly well agreed. And if I may, Sir, mention that, it is to do with clause 19. Offences?

Mr. Chairman, I had intended to make one note in clause 19, I was not aware that you were taking it straight through to clause 23. There was one matter I wanted to raise which I mentioned to the mover of the Bill. I think he fairly well agreed. And if I may, Sir, mention that, it is to do with clause 19. Offences?

MR. CHAIRMAN: Please do. I think I should make it clear for future occasions, that it would be easier, I think, if Members would interrupt the Clerk at the point of reading each clause, if we are attempting to take several together. If you would wish that we read each clause separately, we shall, we were attempting, in the words of one of the Members, to save time.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Clause 19 states: "It shall be an offence for any person to - ...". The amendment, although not in legal form, seeks to substitute the words: "for the owners of public or private properties to change or demolish any aspect of our natural heritage, without first giving advance notice" - seeking permission, as it were, from the National Trust. This would enable the Trust to save such property, either by donation, acquisition or legal transfer.

There are cases in point, Sir, where certain natural heritage have been destroyed, and I can think of one along the beach. This was intended for something else. I do not want to mention the case here, but I think this particular clause would prevent this happening in the future. I did in fact mention it to the Honourable member of the Bill, so he knows of this case.

MR. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, the Second Elected Member for George Town did speak to me about it in the coffee room, and I thought it should be cleared with the legal adviser, the Honourable Second Official Member. I am not too sure what the implication is between what is in the Bill now, and specific owners of property being suggested by the Member. I would like to hear the Honourable Second Official Member's views.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Seeing as I am invited for my views, I will give them. First of all, I am taken by surprise because I had not heard of this amendment before. To me, it seems to be a fundamental one, and therefore, there are some difficulties in looking at it at committee stage anyway. I should not like the Honourable Member moving it to think that that means that I deprecate the suggestion at all, I do not, but it would introduce a completely new offence into the Offence section, and frankly I have some doubts about the propriety of moving it at the committee stage.

MR. CHAIRMAN: It struck me that it was a rather substantial matter, and would be difficult to consider and deal with in Committee.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: What would be the Second Official Member's suggestion then? Because this is a matter that concerns a number of people, I can assure, it is a very important matter. As a matter of fact, it was first brought to my attention by, I believe, one of your Founding Members, and I believe it should not be left out. Whatever way you care to couch it is another matter, but I feel that it should be given consideration, because it is very, very important.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, if I may speak, I think that amendment would introduce a very important principle - that of interfering with the rights of people with private property, and I would not like to see such an amendment come at committee stage at all because it is getting into the fundamental rights of the owner of the property.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, I agree with my colleague from Bodden Town, because this is just what we were trying to ensure be kept out of the Bill, and I do not see at this stage why we should think of putting such a thing in. I can understand, I think, what the Honourable Member has in mind, that this administration has recently disposed of some Government property which the public is, sort of, not aware of, and maybe that is what he is trying to cover. But I do not think we should accept an amendment which would infringe on the public right to their property.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I am happy to accept the advice of Members, and particularly the Attorney General that this is too large a matter to introduce at the Committee stage. But thank you for bringing it up.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. Chairman, I humbly bow to your ruling, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Well, now that was a postscript as it were, to the committee stage of that Bill.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. Chairman, I am though amused to find that the Honourable member of the Bill would accept such a big amendment as this, but could not accept a minor amendment like changing October to December.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, I did not accept it. I said to the Member that we would look at it, but more especially that I would want to hear the Attorney General's view, because it is a legal point. It is not a point that laymen can deal with.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think we should now go forward, Gentlemen. I believe that we have now reached the stage where in regard to this Bill, I put to you the question:

I am sorry, we did not in fact take the voices on clauses 11 to 23, so I must now put that question. I hope this time I will get to put it. The question is, that clauses 11 to 23 inclusive do stand part of the bill?

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE ON THE AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON THE ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1986

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Public Accounts Committee on the Auditor General's Report on the accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for the year ended 31st December, 1986.

MR. PRESIDENT:

So ordered.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, the Public Accounts Committee which was established by Government Motion No.1 on the 28th November, 1984, functions under the provisions of Standing Order 74. The Standing Order was revised in October 1985 to read as follows:

"74(1) There shall be a standing Select Committee to be styled the Public Accounts Committee to consider reports of the Auditor-General:

- (a) on the accounts of the Government;
- (b) on such other accounts required to be laid before the House as the Committee may see fit; and
- (c) on any matter incidental to the performance of his duties or the exercise of his powers as the Committee may think fit.

74(2) The Public Accounts Committee shall be nominated by the House at the beginning of a new Session following a General Election, and shall consist of five elected Members. The quorum shall be three Members, including the Chairman.

74(3) Upon its receipt by the Presiding Officer, a Report mentioned in paragraph 1 shall be deemed to have been referred by the House to the Public Accounts Committee for consideration, and shall forthwith be distributed on a confidential basis to all Members.

74(4) In accordance with Standing Order 70, the Public Accounts Committee may call any public officer, or in the case of a report on the accounts of or relating to a non Government body or organization, any member or servant of that body or organization, to give information or any explanation or to produce any records or documents which the Committee may require in the performance of their duties.

74(5) The Public Accounts Committee shall make their Report upon the Report of the Auditor General on the accounts of the Government before the Auditor General's Report is laid on the table of the House, and both the Committee's Report, and the Auditor General's Report, shall be laid at the same time.

74(6) Subject to these Standing Orders, the practice and procedure of the Public Accounts Committee shall be determined by the Committee.

74(7) The Government Minute shall be laid on the table of the House within three months of the laying of the Report of the Committee, and of the Report of the Auditor General to which it relates.

74(8) The Auditor General, the Deputy Financial Secretary and the Chief Accountant shall be in attendance when controlling officers or other persons are providing information or explanations to the Committee.

74(9) Notwithstanding the provisions of Standing Order 72, the Report of the Public Accounts Committee shall be deemed to have been agreed to."

Mr. President, on the 28th November 1984, the following Elected Members were nominated to that Committee: Mr. Linford Pierson (Chairman); Mrs. Daphne Orrett; Capt. Mabry Kirkcennell; Mr. John B. McLean; Mr. Ezzard Miller as Members.

Meetings held: The Committee held four meetings, on 15th July, 5th August, 13th August and 18th August 1987.

Attendance of Administrative Officers: The Auditor General, the Acting Financial Secretary, Mrs. Veronica Dilbert for the Deputy Financial Secretary, and the Chief Accountant, attended meetings as necessary in accordance with Standing Order 74(B).

Witnesses: The following witnesses appeared before the Committee. On 15th July, 1987, the Honourable Thomas C. Jefferson, Financial Secretary. On 5th August, 1987, the following individuals appeared before the Committee: Mrs. Marsha Bodden, Collector of Customs; Mrs. Angela Martins, Director of Social Services; Miss Andrea Bryan, Acting Chief Education Officer, accompanied by Mrs. Netha Ebanks, Accountant, and Mrs. Helen Rich, Secretary for the Education Council; Dr. Kenneth Grant, Chief Medical Officer, accompanied by Dr. Frank Ellingham, Hospital Administrator and Mr. Walling Whittaker, Acting Environmental Health Officer; Mr. Richard Beswick, Director of the Water Authority; Miss Cynthia Sterling, Postmaster General; Mr. Paul Key, Registrar of Lands, accompanied by Mr. Martin Connolly, Lands Officer; and Mr. Oswald Rankine, Principal Secretary for Health, Education and Social Services attended on 13th August.

Acknowledgments: The Committee wishes to place on record its appreciation of the cooperative approach adopted by all officers who appeared before the Committee. Further, the Committee is also grateful for the assistance and constructive advice given throughout by the administrative officers. It wishes to mention especially the assistance rendered by the Auditor General. The Committee also wishes to place on record its compliments to the Government on the excellent presentation of the Report and Accounts.

Government Minute: The Committee was pleased to note the progress made in many areas of accounting concern since its last report in September 1986. It wishes to place on record its appreciation of the Government Minute tabled in December 1986, which is found to be a helpful document.

Recommendations: The Committee's recommendations, with respect to certain paragraphs of the Auditor General's Report on the 1986 accounts are as follows.

The Balance of Accumulated Revenue: The Committee is pleased to note that the balance of accumulated revenue at the close of 1986 reflects more accurately the funds available for appropriation by the Legislature at that date. It notes, however, that certain advance accounts will have to be written off through the budget, especially those relating to overseas medical cases, and recommends that if possible, this action should be taken before the accounts for 1987 are closed.

Paragraph 12 and 13 of the Report: Cayman Airways Ltd. and Cayman Air Holdings Ltd. The Committee notes that despite the assistance rendered to the airline in 1985, the airline's accounts showed a shareholders deficiency of $2.3 million at 30th June, 1986. It has reviewed the provision for subsidy made in the 1987 estimates, and recommends that as soon as the airline's 1986-1987 accounts become available, the position should be reviewed, to ensure that the level of budgetary assistance is set at a realistic level.

Departmental and Stores Accounts: Social Services. Whilst noting the improvement in the Social Service's accounts, the Committee is aware of a continuing problem with one of the Department's major suppliers, who has recently suspended credit facilities to Government. The Committee was of the opinion that part of the problem could be attributed to the possible defect of the supplier's records. Nevertheless, it recommends that the Treasury, in conjunction with the Director of Social Services, take early action to resolve the difficulty so that credit facilities may be restored.

Paragraph 22 and 23. - Treasury: The Committee is pleased to note the progress being made with the introduction of computerisation of the accounts. It notes also that the manual subsidiary records will be transferred to the computer in the near future. However, it is concerned that the Immigration Fees Deposit Records have not yet been reconciled with the Treasury Control Account for a number of years and recommends that priority be given to this matter.

Paragraph 29 and 30 - Customs Duty: Whilst recognising that delay in collecting customs duty may be less serious than in previous years, the Committee is concerned that the Department is not yet able to prepare returns of duty outstanding. It has also noted with concern that certain officers appear to have been acting in a brokerage capacity, and hopes that this practice has now been stamped out. This, however, is not to say that Customs Officers should not assist the public with customs documentation in their line of duty, but under no circumstances should they do this for reward. It recommends that early steps be taken to reduce the delays in processing import entries, and suggests that consideration be given to the examination of entries on a selective basis. It further recommends that where goods are released before duty can be collected, steps are taken to ensure that adequate deposits or securities are levied in all cases.

Paragraph 31 and 32 - Customs Overtime: The Committee notes that with the introduction of a shift system at the airport, the level of overtime paid may be expected to fall. It recommends that where possible, the work of the office be re-organised to ensure that idle time on shift work can be used more productively.

Paragraphs 34 and 35 - Overseas Medical Advance Accounts: The Committee notes that progress has been made with the analysis of individual balances recoverable from patients referred for treatment overseas. As indicated in its report on the 1985 accounts, it recommends that early action be taken to write off amounts due from indigent and similar cases, and that the remaining balances be transferred to the budget as interest free loans.

Paragraph 36 - Students' Loans: The Committee notes the efforts currently being made to arrive at firm balances on the loan accounts recoverable from students. It recognises that work still has to be done to agree the outstanding balances with the students concerned, and to enforce recovery. It recommends that the present momentum be sustained to complete this exercise. The Committee has noted that some doubt still appears to exist as to the suitability of the loan and scholarship agreements, and recommends that clearance be sought from the Legal Department for the avoidance of doubt in future.

Paragraph 37 - School Fees: The Committee is aware of the problems leading to the arrears of school fees in excess of $80,000 and notes that write-off approval is being sought for the amount of $37,000 in respect of fees due since 1985 and earlier. It recommends that the Department should review its procedures, particularly where the status of the pupil is in doubt, so that full control may be maintained in the future.

Paragraphs 38 and 39 - Hospital Fees: The Committee notes that with the recent introduction of the deposit system at the Hospital, control of revenue from inpatients has been considerably improved. Nevertheless, inpatient fees in arrears continue to run at a level of $1 million or more. The Committee recommends that every attempt be made to reduce this figure. It further recommends that early action be taken to set up appropriate systems to improve control over the collection of outpatient fees.

Paragraph 41 - Garbage Fees: In the case of residential homes, the Committee notes in particular, that arrears of revenue continue to build up at a substantial rate. It notes that the survey of premises will shortly be completed, and recommends that procedures be developed to ensure the prompt collection, not only of current fees, but of those owing from earlier years. It notes that control over collection of fees is being presently divided between the Treasury and the Environmental Health Services Department, and recommends that consideration be given to making the latter fully responsible for future collections.

Paragraph 42 - Cayman National Cultural Foundation:

The Committee notes the assurance given by the Principal Secretary for Health, Education and Social Services that auditors have been appointed to examine the Foundation's accounts from its inception in 1984. It recommends that the audit arrangements prescribed by Law, be adhered to in future, and that the accounts be tabled in the Legislature as required by the Law.

Paragraph 43 - Stamp Duty Leases: The Committee is aware that consideration is being given to a review of the legislation under which duty on leases is collectable. It notes that at present no machinery exists to monitor this duty, and whilst recognising that a review of the legislation will require considerable research and time, recommends that Government proceed with this exercise without delay.

Paragraph 46 - Postal Department: The Committee notes that the accounting arrangements within the Post Office, which have been the subject of comments in earlier reports, are still not operating satisfactorily. It recommends that the Department make use of the training facilities currently available to ensure that the necessary accounting controls are implemented without delay. It notes that little assistance appears to have been rendered by the Portfolio, and recommends that closer liaison be encouraged where difficulties at Departmental level are known to exist.

Paragraphs 52 to 54 - Central Funding Scheme: The Committee has noted the contents of the "Hill Report" commissioned in 1986, into the operation of the Central Funding Scheme. It notes that wide-ranging proposals have been made to re-organise the whole of the transport function throughout Government. It recommends that early consideration be given by Government to the adoption of the report and to its implementation as appropriate.

Paragraph 55 - Water Authority: The Committee has noted the accounting project encountered on the sewerage project in 1986. Whilst accepting that the Authority must operate in due course as a financially autonomous body, it recommends that the staffing implications of this development be fully reviewed to ensure that the Authority's accounting system will function smoothly.

Report of the Committee to the House. The Committee notes the solid achievements made in response to its recommendations in its earlier reports, and expresses the hope that such progress can be maintained. The Committee agrees that this be the Report of the Public Accounts Committee to be laid on the table at the Third Meeting of the 1987 Session of the Legislative Assembly, commencing 9th September, 1987.

Mr. President, I recommend the Report to this Honourable House. May I take this opportunity, Sir, to again convey our thanks to our Clerk and her good staff for the very efficient assistance offered to the Committee during the Public Accounts Committee's deliberations. May I also state, Sir, that the efficiency of the Department has also been strengthened by the introduction of the word processor. Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that the Report of the Standing Public Accounts Committee on the Auditor General's Report and Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for the year ended 31st December, 1986 be accepted.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, just, perhaps, a word of clarification. The Public Accounts Committee's Report is laid on the Table and in November, three months later, the Government Minute is then laid on the Table, and the two are subject to debate.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I beg your pardon.

AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT AND ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS
GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1986

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Auditor General's Report and Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for the year ended 31st December, 1986.

MR. PRESIDENT:

So ordered.

We will move, then to Item 3 of our business today, Questions. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 65: Would the Honourable Member say whether any random urine testing has been carried out in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force?

ANSWER: Yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Short and sweet, Mr. President! Could the Member then say if there were any results as to positive or whatever?

HON. LEMUEL J. HURLSTON: All tests proved negative.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can the Member say, Mr. President, whether this testing is still being carried out?

HON. LEMUEL J. HURLSTON: Mr. President, because it is a random method, it is a continuing process, and yes, it is continuing.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Could the Member say whether it is done on local officers as well as foreign officers?

HON. LEMUEL J. HURLSTON: Yes, Sir, for this purpose there is no distinction between the two.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can the Member say how they come about a decision to do so?

MR. PRESIDENT: Sorry, could you repeat the question, I did not catch it.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can the Member say how they came about a decision to do the testing?

HON. LEMUEL J. HURLSTON: This came about as a result of the community's acceptance of the principle of random testing for its citizens and police officers serving in the jurisdiction are not exempted from legislation that affects the citizens of the country.

MR. PRESIDENT: Any further supplementaries? Would the Second Elected Member for West Bay please put his second question?

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 66: Will the Honourable Member say:
(a) Whether during the month of July this year the officer in charge of the East End Police Station abandoned his duty and left the Cayman Islands; and
(b) If this is correct, give a report of the circumstances concerning his departure?

ANSWER: There are two Constables' posts at East End Police Station, plus a sergeant who supervises the three outer district stations. One of the Constables stationed at East End went on overseas annual leave on 22nd June, 1987 for 17 days, but failed to return to duty. He has since been discharged from the Force under the provisions of Section 48(3) of the Police Law, 1976.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, can the Member then say whether any urine test had been proposed to this Officer, proposed, or had he actually taken the test?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, before proceeding on leave, the Officer was sent for a random urine drug test. The test proved negative.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Did the Officer actually leave before the results of the test were known?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, yes he did.

MR. PRESIDENT: Any further supplementaries? Question No. 67 then, please.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 67: Would the Honourable Member state the total number of members of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force, with full details of rank and nationality?

ANSWER: As at 2nd September, 1987 the position was as follows:

The strength of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force totalled 190, and there were three vacancies. The 190 officers is broken down as follows:-

	CP	BCP	CH SHPT	SUPT	CH INSP	INSP	SCT	CONSTABLE	TOTAL
CAYMAN
(INCL STATUS)		1	1	3	3	14	26	88	136

VACANCIES								3	3
ESTABLISHMENT	1	1	2	4	5	19	35	126	193

SUPPLEMENTARY

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can the Member say how many officers we have in the Special Constabulary Force?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that is going rather outside, but if the Member can answer ... could you provide in writing, then, please?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, I could undertake to provide that in writing, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: There appear to be no further supplementaries? In that case, the Second Elected Member for George Town, Question No. 68, please.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 68: Would the Honourable Member state whether it is Government's intention to reduce the teaching staff in Cayman Brac?

ANSWER: Yes. The teaching staff in Cayman Brac has been reduced by three for the academic year 1987/1988.

One teacher has been cut at Spot Bay Primary School, reducing the staff to three teachers and one aide. Total enrolment at this school is projected at 36.

Two members of staff have been cut from the Cayman Brac High School, where staff is now 16 and one aide, and total enrolment is projected at 137, with a pupil teacher ratio of 1:8.6.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Would the Member state the reasons for the decision to cut back on the teaching staff in the Brac?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, the reason is the same as the reason taken to cut staff in at least one of the primary schools in Grand Cayman - that is, that it was considered that the staff to pupil ratio in the schools was too generous, and more than was required to effectively run the school.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Is the Member then stating that the reason for this decision was due to a fall in the schools' student population?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Yes, Mr. President, over the years, for example in January of this year, the Cayman Brac High School had a teacher resource capable of teaching 200 children, and the number of children was under 150.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, can the Member say how the ratio of teachers to pupils in the High School at Cayman Brac compares with the ratio in Grand Cayman?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, I am sure it is much more generous in Cayman Brac.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, can the Member say what is an accepted, or the accepted, ratio of students per teacher?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: The accepted rule of thumb, Mr. President, is about 1:20.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, would the Member not agree that the reason for the fall in the student population of the Brac is that most of the students and their families have moved to Grand Cayman?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: I could not answer that question with certainty, Mr. President. The children have moved out, but where they have gone I am not a hundred per cent sure.

MR. PRESIDENT: No further supplementaries, it appears? In that case would the Second Elected Member for George Town put his second question?

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 69: Would the Honourable Member state whether it is Government's intention to cut out the Middle School concept in Cayman Brac?

ANSWER: No. The Cayman Brac High School has had a two year Middle School programme since 1982. However, in January this year, because of the introduction of the GCSE examinations, Government began to consider the introduction of a three year Middle School programme for Cayman Brac with its own coordinator. This will involve the first two years of the High School programme and the last year of primary school. Because the transfer of the last mentioned group to the High School site was seen as a controversial move by some Cayman Brac residents, parents have been given the option to transfer their children to year one of the Middle School or to allow them to remain another year at primary level.

The Cayman Brac Middle School students will study the same curriculum and use the same textbooks as students at the Cayman Islands Middle School.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: In view of the answer given by the Honourable Member, would he not agree that the children of Cayman Brac deserve the same treatment and opportunities as those in Grand Cayman?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Yes, Mr. President, that was why Government took the move that it did.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask the Member if there are any plans afoot for the construction of a separate Middle School in Cayman Brac?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: No, Mr. President, at the moment numbers do not indicate that such action could be justified on either educational or economic grounds.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, can the Member say how many students would be eligible for enrolment if there were a separate Middle School in Cayman Brac?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: At the present time, it would be 50, or at least 50 children including those that have opted to go to the Middle School.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Is the Member telling this Honourable House, Sir, that the educational future of the children of Cayman Brac will be determined on the economics of the system?

HON. BENSON D. EBANKS: Mr. President, not entirely, but economics will come into it. The children will always be provided with adequate educational opportunities. But the economics of the delivery of that opportunity must be considered.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, would not the Member therefore agree that because of the dwindling student population in the Brac that they are definitely at a disadvantage as a result?

HON. BENSON D. EBANKS: Not at the moment, Mr. President, they have, as far as I am concerned, equal opportunity, and the actions taken by Government hopefully will result in a turnaround where we can get an increased enrolment of children in the Brac, and therefore increase resources as well.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that concludes the supplementaries and questions.

We now would normally go on to Government Business, Bills, Third Readings, but I would propose a short suspension because I think all Members will have received a memorandum from the Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council just before we began business this morning, and I would like the opportunity of consulting with the Member, the Attorney General and the First Official Member before we go on with this item of business. So may we suspend for five minutes or so?

AT 10:45 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11:22 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Bills, Third Readings.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

THIRD READINGS

THE NATIONAL TRUST FOR THE CAYMAN ISLANDS BILL, 1987

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, Honourable Members. Before putting the Motion for the Third Reading of the Bill entitled The National Trust for the Cayman Islands Bill, 1987, I would just like to make an explanation, and it relates to a memorandum which I wrote to the President this morning, and copied it to Members of the Assembly.

The memorandum dealt with two particular sections of the Law with which there was some concern. The first dealt with Section 5(3)(a) of the Bill, and that was where Members of the Council were selected. The fear was that they were selected by the Trust itself, and had no connection with appointment by the Governor in Council. The explanation was given by the Honourable Second Elected Member but before going on to the second point, I would like to sit and ask him to do the explanation of the first point.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. President, the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Council has asked me to explain the operation of clause 6 of the Bill, which is headed "Founder Members". The scheme proposed in the Bill, and embodied in clause 6, is that when the Trust is set up it will initially be managed by a body known as the Founder Members. The Founder Members will hold office to the first Annual General Meeting, when there will be an election for the membership of the Council, and after that date the management of the Trust will vest in that Council. The election will be by the membership of the Trust, who will be members of the public who have joined the Trust, in other words, subscribers to the Trust, and the rules as to memberships and subscription will be set out in the bylaws of the Trust which will be made under the provision in the Bill permitting that.

Now, I have been asked to particularly explain who or what the Founder Members will be and how they will be appointed. The Founder Members who will manage the Trust when it begins will be appointed by the Governor in Council. During the Committee stage of the Bill a list of names was read out and canvassed. That list of names was the names of the people in the committee who have been voluntarily and informally working to help lay the groundwork for the establishment of the Trust. There is nothing in the Bill as it stands that requires those people to become the Founder Members, and the Governor in Council, when appointing the Founder Members, will have an unfettered discretion to choose whom they consider appropriate.

MR. PRESIDENT:

This is an unusual proceeding. I am quite prepared for Members to speak if they wish for further explanation.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Yes, Mr. President. I would be satisfied if we can get an ironclad guarantee from the Member that no member of the existing committee will be appointed as a Founder Member, because the great concern the House had was that the committee which has brought this matter so far have been so closely related to the Members of Executive Council and to the Portfolio, that it would be impossible for the Trust to function - in other words any matter coming from the Trust would have to be examined by the Portfolio, and it would be impossible for this to be done if the Founding Members are the same as the existing committee members since it appears to me that nearly every member of the portfolio is now a member of the existing committee, and we would need an ironclad guarantee that these committee members which are known to be hard-core conservationists are not made Founding Members. It would be detrimental to the national interests of this country if a National Trust is composed primarily of people from one particular area, and I do not want to go into the connections because they are quite obvious when we see wives of Executive Council ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

You said you were not going into the connections. I hope you will not.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

All right, well I think it is obvious, and I would be embarrassed to show the close connections because it is bordering on nepotism and all that.

Anyway, what we need to hear from the Honourable Member, who I imagine will use his influence with Executive Council, that no member of the committee will be appointed as a Founding Member.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think I should comment upon that, as I understand it, the Attorney General may wish to confirm or otherwise, clause 6 gives complete discretion to the Governor in Council, and I do not think that you can ask for the hands of the Governor in Council to be bound. On the other hand, I am sure that what you have said would be taken properly into account.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. President, if you had not said that, I would have felt obliged to rise and make exactly the same point myself - that it would be wrong for the Member here to fetter Council in that way.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, dealing with the second point in the memorandum, that is to say, to amend Section 11 of the Bill to replace October with April. I considered this, really not for political reasons, but, the reason why October was placed in the draft Bill in the first instance was because the accountants who are more or less prepared to give free service to the Trust thought that October was a reasonable month because it is a slack period of the year when they have sufficient time to devote to free service. And so that was the reason for mentioning October in the Bill. However, the reason for proposing that the period be brought forward six months to April 1988 is really to give the Trust, or the Council, an early start with its work, and to get on with all the various arrangements which it has to do in order to get the public interested in supporting the activities of the Trust itself. And so, again, the amendment of that date is purely for the convenience of establishing the Council at the earliest possible time.

STANDING ORDER 55 RECOMMITTAL OF BILLS

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, in accordance with Standing Order 55, I beg to propose the motion to recommit this Bill to Committee stage for the purpose of dealing with one section of the Bill, Section 11.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think I should record that the Motion is put, please.

It is moved that this Bill be recommitted to the Committee of the whole House for the purpose of amendment of Section 11. Does any Member wish to speak? The First Elected Member for Badden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I am very pleased to see that the Member piloting this Bill had a change of heart over the weekend. I am not aware of what touched his inner being, whether it was because he heard a good sermon on fair play over the weekend, or what it was that did it, but the points that are back on the floor of this House this morning for debate are the points that a few of us raised in opposition to this Bill on Friday. All of the Members of this House were in agreement that a Bill such as this should become Law, to protect our country and its future. But we felt that it should have been done in a very fair manner. We took opposition to the manner in which this Bill was proposed and came to the House. When I mentioned about the change of the date, to be very frank with the House, I did it in jest. But after hearing of the composition of the founder members, and seeing the close attachment to the Members of Executive Council, to as, it would have been another area that nepotism had crept into, if we had not spoken in opposition to it.

Therefore, we took the stand we did, and in my opinion, there could have been and there would be, a chance for abuse of the powers of this Law if it was allowed to remain in the manner in which it was. That is why on Friday I raised the point, and if we could not change it in the Law, at least have the Attorney General speak in clarification of the point so that in the future, if the Law had ever been abused on those points, at least the meaning of what was intended to be done could be used in a court of law by referring to the Hansard of this House.

I think that the Member piloting the Bill should have studied the Bill and had it explained to him by the Attorney General before it was placed for debate in the House. It shows once more that the tail wags the dog, and there can be no decisive Government for this country.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think you are in danger of getting a little beyond the scope of this specific Motion. Please keep to it.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

I think, with all due respect, Sir, I am staying as close to it as I can. I am trying to abide with what was mentioned in the House, and I am dealing with the relevant points that are contained in this Bill, with all due respect to the Chair.

When this Bill was presented to the House, it should have specifically defined the appointment of the people that would be administering this Trust. Here we are about to give wide ranging powers into the hands of the people who will administer this Trust. We are dealing with a lot of the future and of the past of this country, and I think that it would not be to the best democratic interests of the country if these powers were left to be administered in the manner in which it is prescribed in this Law. It is very clear as to how these would be appointed under section 6, and it is very clear to me, and I stand by that belief, Mr. President, that the present composition of that Board would probably be appointed in its entirety by your Cabinet to administer this Law, once it comes into effect. I do believe that, and I cannot be criticised or admonished for my belief. My belief is well founded in what has happened in the past.

I feel that under section 6 we should have a further definition as to how these Members should be appointed. And dealing with the section of the Bill which is section 11 dealing with the month in which this should come into effect, I would very much support the month of April, although Members are aware of the strong opposition that was shown in this House to a change to June. You know, it makes us worry why in two days there could be such a change of heart - that when we debated the Bill on Friday, there was such strong Government opposition to the changing of the date from October to June, just because a few of us in this House pointed out that October was very close to November, and that we could expect a very joyful occasion happening in October with the composition of the members as it was put forth if this Bill was passed into Law. Such entertainment and enjoyment would probably have been at the expense of the Government of this country.

Therefore, Mr. President, regardless of whether or not you think I have strayed, I think I have dealt with some of the relevant points in the Bill, and I stand to my belief that it should have been changed on Friday if the Members of this House were willing to work together for the betterment of this country rather than thinking, because they have a majority, that they can strangle our voices, and keep us in subjection. That, I for one, Mr. President, will never stand for regardless of who occupies the Chair as President of this House. Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Yes, Mr. President. I already spoke on the preliminary point, but now claim my right to speak since the question has been put on the recommitment of the Bill.

It is very important that this Bill go back to the Committee from whence it came to us. The reason is, that the explanation given for the date of October 1988 for the first Annual General Meeting is not acceptable to me at all. The Member told us that that date had been selected by the Committee because they would be able to get free work from the accountants during the slack period. However, my recollection of this Bill is that there was not the need for any advanced accounting work, nor was it necessary until after Friday, when the Second Elected Member for West Bay moved the amendment demanding a full audit. So, it appears to me that prior to that time any little accounting which would have been done could have been done by some Member of Government, some Member of the Portfolio, and so the need for advance accounting and auditing had not arisen when the committee put in this date of October 1988. So, whatever other reason they may have had, they cannot justify the date of October 1988.

On Friday last week, I moved a Motion which was only supported by the Member for Bodden Town to change the date to June 1988, and this was opposed strongly by the Government bench. But as my colleague said, there seems to have been a change of heart, of which we are very glad, and the Member has come forward with a recommendation that the Bill be taken back to Committee, and that the date October 1988 be substituted by April 1988.

Now, the Committee will have to decide on whether that is a good date or not, but I would just like to say in passing that there is a strong reason why this House should allow this Bill to go to Committee. The House knows what is expected of it in Committee, and for that reason alone, they must now be happy that the existing committee which would probably have been the Founding Members, will not have a full year in which to work. But their life-span will be shortened, and any damage they could do in their previous unbridled state will now be curtailed by six months. So I strongly support the move to send this Bill to Committee. I might add that this would not have been necessary this morning if the Government bench had shown a little more tolerance - but we do not expect that. Nevertheless we are happy whenever they are man enough to change their minds when the error of their ways have been shown up.

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any other Member wish to speak? If no other Member does wish to speak ... The Second Elected Member for West Bay?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I rise to support the question and to say in brief that I am also happy that Government has had a change of heart. When the Bill was in Committee, I also moved a Motion, an amendment, to have the date changed from October until December, and no amount of arguing could convince the Government that this was possible or even that it was needed. I need to say no more, except to say that it shows that those who proclaim knowledge of width and breadth of this country sometimes know very little about the smallest object. Government's unwillingness to take advice from certain Members on this side of the House, no matter how constructive the advice is, is going to trip them up again and again and again.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Third Elected Member for West Bay?

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT: Mr. President, I think a number of the previous speakers have mentioned that there appears to be a change of heart with the Government bench. I am not sure - I do not think there has been a change of heart - but this Member can assure you there has been no change of heart with me. This Bill was brought here on Friday. I too thought that the First Elected Member from Bodden Town had mentioned the date in jest, and until this minute I think it has been a waste of time in this House to stand here and debate whether the date is October, June or April. If this Bill was passed and implemented as was voiced so clearly by the Members debating this Bill - they said it was necessary, it was urgent, and they were happy to see it brought to this House. If that Bill was passed, Mr. President, in September, any six year old child with a bit of common sense would have said October, the following month, would have been a good month for this thing to be put in motion. A year from this October would be October 1988, and I thought this was a fair and sensible justification for choosing that date.

Now the word nepotism was mentioned here a couple of times this morning and if you ever have the opportunity of noting the composition of bodies in this House with the previous Government, Mr. President, you would wonder why that word was ever brought up in the House this morning.

What I have to say here is this. Those Members opposing this morning have not spoken who are decrying and belittling the Government bench - would like to see them bow to their request this morning - to say that they do not know what they are doing. The Government bench would certainly surprise me if they choose to change their mind on this issue. And, Mr. President, as far as I am concerned, I have made up my mind, I did it on Friday, and I think no such change should be made. There is no justification for it. What took place over the weekend makes no difference to me, because this is irrelevant. As far as I am concerned the date is irrelevant. No one has pointed out here this morning why April or June is a much more satisfactory time than this. In my mind I felt that if the Bill was passed in September, October being the following month, we would get on with this business as quickly as possible, because every Member speaking on it said it was urgent, it was needed, it was long past due.

Mr. President, thank you for your time in listening.

MR. McKEEVA BUSH: Wasting time. Cannot believe the Government did wrong.

MR. PRESIDENT: If no other Member wishes to speak in order, I call on the mover of the amendment for his right of reply.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I would like to say, loud and clear so that all can understand that I could have come here this morning and proposed the Third Reading of the Bill without having to do what I did here. I think, Mr. President, this is what you call "the good you do, the thanks you get". All sorts of things have been said about the proposal to make certain amendments here, and, the only reason why the Government decided to do this was, we had always advocated a unanimous decision in putting forward the National Trust Bill, because we thought it was a very important piece of legislation. I cannot think what has gone on in the minds of the Members on the other side to get up and speak such ridiculous words about the proposal to make the amendment.

You know, I feel at this stage like just abandoning, because we can go forward with the Third Reading as the Bill is at present, we do not have to go forward and make any amendments, or recommit the Bill if we do not want to. I mean if that is the attitude we are taking

POINT OF ORDER

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, if we do not want to ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

Is this a Point of Order?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Yes, Sir, if we do not want to, why is it being put? What reason has the Member had over the weekend to change his mind?

STANDING ORDER 24(14)
MOION TO WITHDRAW SUBSTANTIVE MOION

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, to be quite honest with you, I am going to place a Motion to withdraw the one that I now have before the House, because I think with the ungratefulness that was shown by the other speakers on the other side, that I have no real good intention now of supporting the motion that I put forward at first.

MR. PRESIDENT:

This is an unusual situation for me - I think it is necessary that the leave of the House be given to withdraw the proposal for amendment. Unless the Attorney General advised me otherwise, I shall therefore seek the leave of the House. I will wait for his advice.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. President, under Standing Order 24(14), the leave of the House is required for the withdrawal of a Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you. In that case, I will put the question that the House approve that the Motion to recommit this Bill to the Committee of the whole House be withdrawn. In other words, when I call those in favour to say "aye", it is approval that the Motion be withdrawn.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Under what Standing Order, Mr. President?

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Attorney General has just given his advice on the question.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Which Standing Order, I did not hear - for the sake of clarity?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

It was Standing Order 24, paragraph 14.

MR. PRESIDENT:

We will pause while Members consult their Standing Orders.

MR. PRESIDENT:

It appears to me from the point of view of the Chair, to be clear. Have you a Point of Order?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

A Motion is being made Mr. President, then we can speak on the Motion, can we not?

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am afraid it had already got to the point where I had enquired whether Members wished to speak. The Motion to withdraw ...

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

With respect, Mr. President, that was not my understanding. My understanding was that you were getting advice from the Honourable Second Official Member as to the Motion, I did not understand that you were going to put the question forthwith, and that is exactly what you are doing - I really have to object to that.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Would you please be seated for a moment.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Thank you Sir.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, that was my understanding too, because I want to speak on the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I will take it that we will put this, then, that a Motion has been put. I will take it that unless the Honourable Fourth Elected Member wishes otherwise, that he has put the Motion. He of course now has a right to speak to the Motion. Would you wish to do so?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:
Sir.

No, Mr. President, I would like the Motion put.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Motion is put. Would any Member wish to speak?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, we hear about waste of time in this House. Government seems to be going hither and thither, do not know where they are heading with this Bill. The Bill, I have supported in its entirety except for those amendments that I placed. Now, Sir, just because they have been insulted, they have had egg on their face, they seek withdrawal of this amendment that they have proposed. It would seem, Mr. President, that, yes, the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Government did seek some advice after the close of the meeting on Friday evening concerning his Motion this morning to change the date. Having done all that this morning, to come here and show, he said, because of ungratefulness, I say because of small mindedness on their part, Mr. President, to come now and seek the withdrawal of this worthwhile Motion he made to change the date. What are the reasons - ungratefulness, is that what he is telling the House that he cannot take the Members of this House putting them in their proper places? Just because some of their back-benchers get up and say that they think they should not withdraw it, or they should withdraw it.

Mr. President, I believe that his advice over the weekend has served this House well, will serve the country well, and it would be a shame for the Member to now withdraw this Motion. I am not going to support the withdrawal of the Motion. I think Government would do well for this country to keep it, as has been suggested, and I believe it has been suggested by the Members who organised the National Trust in its present form.

MR. PRESIDENT:

had my eye first.

I think the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town

NOTICE OF MOTION
STANDING ORDER 55(1)

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, if the Motion before the House for the withdrawal to recommit this Bill is carried, I will personally be putting a Motion for the recommitment of the Bill for a Law to establish the National Trust for the Cayman Islands and for connected purposes. I claim this right, Sir, under Standing Order 55(1). I would like to put my Motion prior to your moving on to the Third Reading, as soon as we finish the Motion here.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Motion.

If I may interrupt you, I accept notice of that

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

But I must speak on the Motion before the House, which is seeking the withdrawal of the Motion to recommit the Bill.

I am not concerned with the feelings of an individual on this matter. I am not concerned with who supports or does not support it. I am fully convinced that the matter at stake here is a matter for the entire population of the Cayman Islands. It deals with the fundamental rights of our public to have good representation in this Chamber. Representation that is not biased by small-mindedness, avarice or anything else. We feel that the Bill before the House can be either good or bad. Good in the way perhaps it is intended and is set out in its Memorandum, but bad if it is subject to abuse. And, what we are standing up for today is that this Bill be not abused. If it is abused it could interfere with the economics of this country. It could hamper future development. It could drive away the foreign investor. It could make valuable lands useless.

The Motion before the House was intended to prevent such abuse, and even if some Member or Members may have said some words when they were in the heat of debate which may not have been graciously swallowed by the Government bench, the matter at stake goes beyond petty rivalries, and we, as people who have been elected to run this country and to do what is right by the citizens of this country, cannot allow pettiness and small-mindedness to cloud our judgements when national issues are at stake.

We have had instances in the past when this type of legislation has shown its ugly head and we have had instances where men of worth have stood up against legislation which could be abused. I need not mention the 1975 Development Plan, and some of the Land Laws. This piece of legislation is certainly of the same nature, and can have the same effects for good or bad.

I would suggest that the Member who hurriedly made the Motion to withdraw his appeal for recommitment reconsider this or, if that is not possible, Sir, that you absolve your Council from collective responsibility, since you have not conferred with them on this matter, and let each man vote his conscience. You did confer with them, you took the suspension of the House and the result was that it must have been the collective approval of Council to seek the recommitment of this Bill. Unfortunately, there has been no conference to withdraw the Motion for recommitment. So, unless you take a suspension, it will be incumbent upon the Chair to ask for a suspension so that you can discuss this important matter. We are not dealing here today with the price of rice or the import tax on alcohol. We are dealing with something that can make or break this country. This matter must go beyond petty jealousies, must go beyond back-benchers' support, or not getting their support. This must be paramount, and must receive the attention which is due to the public who elected us.

So the Motion for the withdrawal of the means of recommitting this Bill is a frail one, and that Motion cannot be allowed to be put to the vote without thorough consultation with you and your Cabinet. I am calling upon you, Sir, to suspend this House, perhaps until after the lunch break, to have a true discussion with the Members of your Cabinet. And, if the consensus is still to withdraw the recommitment Motion, I would ask you, Sir, in your discretion, to absolve them from collective responsibility so that they can vote at their heart's content.

This is perhaps the most serious matter to come before this Chamber in the last ten years or more, and it is perhaps the greatest test that you will ever face during your time as Presiding Officer. In the interests of fair play and in the interests of the minority, I would ask you, Sir, to do what you know is right, and to confer before you put the Motion for the withdrawal.

I would like to conclude by saying that should that Motion succeed, I claim my right under Standing order 55(1) to move a Motion for the recommitment of a Bill known as a Law to establish the National Trust for the Cayman Islands and for connected purposes.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you, I am grateful to you for your advice, and I note your intention to move under Standing Order 55(1) the recommitment of the whole Bill.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town - I am sorry, I have made a grave error of courtesy, the Second Elected Member for George Town had caught my eye and I had forgotten. Would you please give way to him? Thank you.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, we have sat here in this Honourable House, we have seen a very important piece of legislation or Bill ping-ponged with because of some misunderstandings of the whole purpose of the Bill, it would appear to me.

I did not on Friday debate this Bill because I felt that with a few minor amendments which were obvious that the Bill was indeed a good one. On Friday, the Bill as amended, got the support of the majority of this House. I was however, pleased to see that the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council did in fact, consider the views of the minority back-benchers in this House, as is the true democratic process.

The amendments suggested in the Memorandum from the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council seemed reasonable. In Section 5(3)(a) the Member has ensured through the amendment, that the nine members selected under Section 5(3)(a) would be selected by recommendation of the Chamber of Commerce, the Bankers' Association, the Law Society, Association of Architects, Surveyors and Engineers, Building Contractors Association, Watersports Association, Real Estate Brokers Association, Association of Accountants, and Hotel Association. This was to ensure, Sir, that there would be no question of nepotism in this whole process. Also, provision was made that the appointment of the Chairman, the Vice-Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer would be made by the Governor in Executive Council. This was a major improvement, Mr. President, on the original sections of this Bill. So I thought that all Members would have seen this as a reasonable step.

Further, the Fourth Elected Member of Council decided in what I would regard as his wisdom, to change the date from October to April, even though I personally, did not find that this was necessary. I was proud to see that he had considered the views of the minority. But for us at this stage, because of the views of back-benchers on this Bill, to decide to withdraw a Motion, or a section of this Memorandum, which has taken us almost two hours to deal with, in my opinion, Sir, is a colossal waste of the time of this House. Why are we now changing again, from April back to October?

Mr. President, this is not right. Whether or not the Members on this side of the House may have said things that might have been offensive, we have to be bigger than party politics, we have to be bigger than bickering, we have to consider the national interest of our people, we have to consider the respect and honour of this House, and of the listening public. There is no reason at all why this should be withdrawn. And, Mr. President, I am very disappointed that it is suggested that this be reverted back to October 1988. I can see no interest in us sitting here and discussing this matter further and further and further. It seems to me that this debate should have been concluded, because we are serving no useful purpose standing here venting our anger. What else are we accomplishing when we stand here now and try to debate this? And, whether or not it is agreed on, I would, in accordance with Standing Order 38, ask that the question now be put on this matter.

Mr. President, on a Point of Order - when it is moved that the question be put, it must be put, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you, I am aware of that. The question is put accordingly under Section 38 - I am afraid, First Elected Member for Bodden Town, we have to deal with this first.

MR. G. HAIG, BODDEN:

Just on a Point of Order, Mr. President, for your help, it does not have to be put, it says:

"... unless it appears to the Presiding Officer that the motion is an abuse of the Rules of the House, or an infringement of the rights of the minority ...".

So you do not have to put it, you only put it if you are satisfied that this is not happening - I do not need to tell you that it would really be an abuse.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am sorry, with great respect I do not think it would be an abuse of the minority. If you would like, on a Point of Order, to convince me otherwise, you may.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, maybe I will try. I think it would be an abuse if you were to use that at this time. Quite a few Members of this House have not had an opportunity to debate this issue.

MR. PRESIDENT: I accept that if your statement is that you wish to speak, and you had in fact, given such evidence, I accept that in that case Members should speak who have not yet spoken on the Motion to withdraw the Motion. So would you now please go ahead.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Thank you, Mr. President, the Member dealing with this Motion, in asking to withdraw it used as his reason the vicious attack. Now I fail to see where there was anything vicious or offensive said by the few Members who spoke on the Motion that was before the House. We saw errors in the Bill from the time it was presented to the floor of the House. And that is why certain Members of this House used their democratic right to speak against it. There is nothing in the world wrong with that. There is nothing vicious about it. There is nothing offensive about it. I will remind this House that the minority in this House do not have to be weak and humble, and hang around as little dogs waiting for our masters to throw us the bones after they have savoured the flesh. If anyone may think that that is our duty in this House, then it is time that we do not have a House to debate the issues that face the country. We have to think of the best interests of the country, of the people as a whole, and not just a few conservationists or a few people that are related to the Members of this House.

Now if you want viciousness, we will get to viciousness, and I will start it. What we have seen demonstrated here this morning is what we have seen in this country for three years. A Government that is like a windmill in a hurricane. Stumbling, and not knowing where we are headed. A Government of indecision. I said before, I will say it again, Mr. President, that the Member piloting this Bill, with all due respect to him, if he could not interpret the Bill in the right manner, should have had it explained to him by the Honourable Attorney General or yourself or someone else that he could understand it before the Bill was presented to the House. I have to ask again, after all the opposition that was put forward here on Friday, what changed his mind over the weekend? Was it some elder of the Church? Was it some of his constituents? Was it a family member? Was it you? Or who changed his mind and showed him that he was on the wrong path?

One Member, in speaking here a while ago, spoke about nepotism on the part of the previous Government, because a few of us said that nepotism had shown its head in the composition of the present board. I challenge that Member, or any other Member of the House, to show us, show the people of this country, that the previous administration had their close family members on the Government payroll, and advising them on critical issues to this country. I challenge them to show us the nepotism other than maybe in the form of our close supporters.

Several Members have alluded to wasting time. We are not wasting time when we stand up for something democratically that is for the good of our people. The only thing I can say about that, Mr. President, is that those Members who think we are wasting time when we debate issues of national importance can only say that because they cannot add anything to the debate, because unless they are pulled by their little puppet string, they do not even know they are in this House - that is where we waste the time, because we have too many puppets, and I for one have never been a puppet and never will be. This is ridiculous!

We will have fair play in this House. We will have no stifling of the freedom of speech, regardless of which Government is in power in this country. We might as well make that plain before we go much further. There are still Members in this House that have a heritage to uphold, that have their own free will and convictions, and those free will and convictions will never be stifled even if you were to put us before a firing squad. So, get it out of your minds, any of you who may think that our freedom of speech is going to be stifled. Most of the Members of Executive Council at this time, or the leading powers of Executive Council, were in power in this country in the years 1972-1976 when this country was ruined by them, because of the proposed Planning Law, which they wished to implement. A Planning Law that would have destroyed this country. You would never have seen the progress that took place in this country since 1976 if those Members had had their way with the Planning Law that they were proposing in the years 1972-1976.

The trouble about it, Mr. President, is, that those particular Members have never stopped in their effort to strangle the right of private ownership. This Bill is important to the people - I supported it, I said that - but because I support the overall meaning that it is good for the country does not mean that I am going to support everything that they have put into the Bill, and think that I must blindly follow them as a sheep to slaughter. We have to think about the right of private ownership - that is why I requested the Attorney General on Friday to make a speech to this House outlining the reasons for certain objects in the Bill. We must think of the investors of the future, for the future development of this country. We have a Motion before the House asking us to consider making some drastic changes in Government revenue to support the economy of the Sister Islands - if we allow things like this to go unchallenged, we will be back in here asking that we make some drastic changes to try to support the faltering economy of the Cayman Islands as a whole. That is what we have to be sure of, that we support the right to private ownership, the right for the investors to invest in our country and help us build it up. We do not have the money, Government does not have the money, and when the people lose faith in the Government as they have done in this present Government, then we are not going to get the investors.

I too join my colleague, Mr. President, in asking that you allow your Members on the Executive Council to vote their conscience. And, if you are not going to allow that at this time, then you dissolve the House and get with them in the Committee Room and come back to the House before you take a vote on this Bill. Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am grateful for your advice too, and I shall come to my own decision.

One or two Members did approach me earlier on for a somewhat earlier adjournment than usual because there is a lunch for a visiting delegation. I was proposing to suspend proceedings at 12:30 p.m., which is only a minute or two to go. Unless any Member would wish to speak now on this Motion to withdraw a Motion, I would propose to suspend until 2:30 p.m. Is that agreeable? Proceedings suspended until 2:30 p.m.

AT 12:30 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2:36 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The House is resumed. We were at the stage where, in debating the Motion upon the Motion to withdraw the Motion for recommitment of clause 11 of the Bill, one Honourable Member had moved the closure of the debate under Standing Order 38. I have thought about this a good deal over the lunch time. I have consulted Erskine May. It is a procedure which is very sparingly used, and it is clear that the wise counsel is to give Honourable Members as much latitude as possible, while bearing wholly in mind the feelings and the desire of the Member who moved the closure. So I therefore propose that we should allow, if Members wish to speak, more debate on the Motion to withdraw the Motion and then I will put the question a little later. I felt I should explain that. It is such an unusual situation.

The situation therefore is, would any Member wish to speak on the Motion to withdraw the Motion? The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I would like to try and restore some dignity and statesmanship to this debate.

I did not speak on the Bill during the Second Reading debate, as I believed such legislation should be above political rhetoric. For the same reason, I intended to vote against recommitment of the Bill and will therefore now support the Motion not to recommit the Bill.

Mr. President, I have sat here for almost two days now and listened to debate which, in my opinion, was frivolous and, in most instances, irrelevant to the main issue and the purpose, aims and objectives of the Bill to create a National Trust. The Members have pounded their political chests and have, in my opinion, reduced the value of this important piece of legislation in the eyes of the public. I believe they have ignored, or taken for granted the value, certainly, they have deprecated the value and time put into developing this legislation by the Steering Committee.

It is particularly disheartening to sit here and hear Members become so preoccupied with an insignificant date. But the date, Mr. President, does not really seem to be the issue as the debate has transpired and Members have expounded their reasons for wanting the date changed. It appears that the date is only a red herring, and what most Members seem to be most concerned with is whether or not they are going to get the opportunity to politically control this Council.

I am happy with section 6 in that the Council is to be elected by a democratic process. I have faith in that process, Sir, and have no desire to see Government circumvent by appointment, the democratic process of electing that Council to such an august and important law.

Mr. President, when I received this Bill I evaluated the Bill, the date for which the Bill is proposed not to be committed for and its significance within the aims and objectives of the Bill. I saw no great significance, political or otherwise, in October 1988 and for that reason, I cannot support a recommitment of the Bill simply to change the date.

I believe the country and we would all be better served if we were more concerned with the principles, objectives and aims of this Bill, than to become preoccupied with a date which certainly pales into insignificance when the overall objective and aim of this Bill is considered.

Mr. President, I deplore the type of polyglot debate which has taken place here this morning, people going off on all kinds of tangents to try and justify recommitting this Bill simply to change the date. As I said, in my opinion, the date at which this Annual General Meeting takes place pales into insignificance in comparison with other aspects of the Bill.

I cannot therefore Sir, support the recommitment of this Bill simply to change the date, so I will be voting for the withdrawal of the Motion to recommit the Bill.

It is a sad day in the history of our Parliament when we as Members become so preoccupied one is left to wonder if people have misinterpreted the date of 1988 and believe for some strange quirk of the imagination, they themselves are also in October 1988 thinking about the elections. Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

Mr. President, I did not speak on this Bill when it was given its Second Reading, because at that time it appeared to me that the Bill had the unanimous support of the House. The action of Government this morning, Mr. President, in offering to amend the date from October 1988 to April 1988 was, as I understood it, a gesture to meet some of the objections that had been offered on Friday half way. It was not an action that had to be taken. The Bill had already passed the Second Reading. Government offered an olive branch, Mr. President, to those Members who seemed to have attached a lot of significance to the date of October 1988. Instead of accepting that olive branch, Members seemed to have spat upon it and commenced to bite the hand that offered it. So, I have no hesitation in supporting the Member when he withdraws that olive branch.

As has been said, there is nothing mystical about the date October 1988. As I understand it, it was a convenient date, considered by those persons who worked to get the National Trust moving, and it is regrettable, Mr. President, that instead of Government really thanking those people who worked to move the formation or establishment of the National Trust along, that we seem to be here beating them over the head with sticks and showing them ingratitude.

It has been said that the Government has shown weakness, stumbling around and like a windmill. Mr. President, it appears to me that whatever Government does is misunderstood. If Government offers an olive branch, as I said, the opportunity is taken not only to spit on the branch, but to bite the hand that is offering it, and Government is weak for doing it. Then when the bite hurts, and Government pulls back the branch, Government again is weak for pulling back the branch. But, Mr. President, as far as I am concerned, it takes considerable determination and conviction to pull back the olive branch after it has been offered, and I am afraid that this is what has happened. The Members who are crying loudest now, Mr. President, thought that Government would not have the determination to pull back that olive branch. It has been pulled back and is going to be kept over the fence, it is not going to be offered again in this instance - once bitten, twice shy, nobody is going to offer that branch again, Mr. President.

I would just like to clear up, a couple of misconceptions that have been made during this debate. I think that were extraneous to the Motion before us, but I do not think they should be allowed to go unreplied to. For example, it was indicated Mr. President, that this Bill, the Bill establishing the National Trust, was a Bill that had potential to destroy the economic future and welfare of this country, that it contained provisions of mandatory confiscation of property. Mr. President, nothing could be further from the truth. This Bill does not give unto the Trust any power to acquire compulsorily any property, and the public should understand that loud and clear, Mr. President. One is left to wonder, whether Members were sincere in their praise for this Bill during the Second Reading, after listening to what has gone on today. This is an important Bill, but it does not contain the dangers for private enterprise and ownership as has been suggested. As I said, it does not confer on the Trust any right of compulsory acquisition of property.

I do not intend, to continue to argue the point - I merely wanted to make the simple points that Government did not have to offer to change that date in any way, that government was not motivated by any ulterior motive in suggesting in the Bill the date of October 1988. As has been explained, it was considered a convenient date because those persons who were working on the establishment of the Trust were advised by accountants that if they suggested their year end in future years around July, they could have the quiet time of the year to have their accounts prepared and October would have therefore been a convenient time to present them.

This, Mr. President, brings me to the point which the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town has made and that is, that the Bill did not envisage audit - I maintain, Mr. President, that the Bill has, from its inception, anticipated a proper audit. I did not quarrel with the amendment that was made to make it abundantly clear that the keeping of accounts which should conform with the best commercial standards would require an audit, but, Mr. President, that is the only explanation that can be given to it. Because, accounts that are not audited cannot be said to conform with the best commercial standards. And then Section 12 required that the Council of the Trust tender annually to the Governor and the Member responsible, complete statements of its financial position and its accounts. The only way they could be deemed complete, Mr. President, was if they were audited, and we had the additional protection of the Public Accounts and Audit Law. So it has always been implied in this Bill that proper accounts meant audited accounts, but as I said, in order again to meet half way those Members who wanted to see it spelt out, I did not object to it, neither did Government. We accepted the amendment to make it clear that it included an audit. But, Mr. President, if that attempt to meet criticism half way has been mistaken for weakness and lack of commitment, Members should now understand that Government is strong enough to take a stand and stick with it.

That is why, Mr. President, we are going to stick with the withdrawal of the offer of this olive branch to change this date in the Bill. Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT: Unless any other Member wishes to speak, would the mover of the Motion wish to exercise his right of reply?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I want to thank all the Members who spoke on this Motion to withdraw the original Motion which I proposed earlier today, that a Bill entitled the National Trust for the Cayman Islands Law 1987 be committed to a Committee of the whole House in respect of Section 11.

The withdrawal of that Motion was prompted by the fact that it did not appear to the Government's side that the offer which we made had been accepted by the other side, and as the First Elected Member of Executive Council said, it was an olive branch which they were offered, and that they bit the hand that offered it.

At this stage, Mr. President, there is no alternative but to go forward with the Motion to withdraw that original Motion. I am sorry I did what I did this morning in good faith, hoping to at least to reconcile a few differences here in order that the National Trust Bill could go forward with the full support of the entire House.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay said that I studied this over the weekend and found it necessary to come forward with the proposed amendment this morning. Well, that was quite all right, the reason why I wrote the Memorandum to the Governor this morning was that I knew that this matter was going to be on the agenda, and that immediately as we got here it would have to be moved, that is the Second Reading. And so, I thought I would write to the Governor expressing some concern about the appointment of the members to the Council of the Trust by Executive Council. In other words, it did not appear at that stage that they would be appointed by Executive Council. But, as I mentioned, the Honourable Second Official Member pointed out that under section 6 the members of the Council which would be vested in the Founder Members would be appointed by the Governor, and that those were the members who would eventually be members of the Council.

There was no question at all in my mind that those members who are now members of the ad hoc committee that did the study and presentation of a draft Bill which eventually came before the House, would continue to serve as Founder Members. Founder Members have to be appointed by Executive Council, and while members of the present committee would perhaps be considered as Founder Members, there was no compulsion on Executive Council to appoint all the members now members of that ad hoc committee. I was quite satisfied in my mind that the membership of the Council would be appointed by Executive Council, and so the first recommendation automatically fell away.

As far as the date is concerned, it seems to me that once you have a Council which is properly organised and appointed by Executive Council, that it does require some time for that Council to settle down, to get its accounts in order, to get its different business in order, so when the date October was mentioned, it was thought that that was a reasonable date, because one of the other grounds which was put forward for that date was that accountants would have sufficient time at that time of the year to do the audit free of charge. That is also an advantage to the Trust. So, there was really no question in my mind that the amendments which came forward, for which I apologise, was really significant as far as the Bill was concerned when it became law that those areas would be controlled by the present provisions in the Law. That is largely, Mr. President, the reason for the withdrawal of the Motion, together with the fact that it did not seem to have been accepted in the right spirit by those who spoke out against it. That again prompted the decision to withdraw the Motion.

Mr. President, I now ask Honourable Members to consider favourably the Motion to withdraw the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT: I shall now put the question. The question is that the Motion to recommit this Bill in respect of clause 11 to a Committee of the whole House be withdrawn.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: MOTION TO WITHDRAW MOTION TO RECOMMIT THE NATIONAL TRUST FOR THE CAYMAN ISLANDS BILL, 1987 FOR THE PURPOSE OF AMENDING CLAUSES (5)(3)(a) AND 11, PASSED.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I would like now to take a short suspension for five minutes. I wish to consult with certain Members.

AT 3:06 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3.10 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you for bearing with me during that short suspension. Proceedings are now resumed. The next item has been circulated to all Members, I believe, which is a Motion under Standing Order 55(1) for the recommitment of the National Trust for the Cayman Islands Bill 1987. I should perhaps explain, although I am sure Members are perfectly well aware of it, that because the original Motion along these lines was withdrawn, it is deemed not to have been decided, and therefore it is in order to bring in this Motion which is effectively the same as the original Motion. Would the mover wish to speak?

STANDING ORDER 55(1)
RECOMMITTAL OF BILLS

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, I beg to move in accordance with Standing Order 55(1) that a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to establish the National Trust for the Cayman Islands and for connected purposes, be recommitted to amend clause 11 by substituting the word "April" for the word "October" as it appears in the second line.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I second the Motion, but I would like to await developments in order to debate it at a later stage.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Motion has been duly moved and seconded. Would the mover now wish to speak to it?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, the Motion is a simple one. It asks leave of the House to recommit the Bill dealing with the National Trust to a Committee of the whole House in order that we may amend clause 11. The mover of the original Bill had put forward a Motion for recommitment. Had that Motion been voted on, it would not have been possible for me to put forward this Motion. But as he saw fit to withdraw it, I claim the right to put it forward, and would only like to say that as much debate has already gone on, I do not think it is necessary to go into the merits of the Motion.

But I would like to say that I feel that the matter of the National Trust is very important to the country and the fixing of the date will prove to be very important in that, very important elections will take place at the first Annual General Meeting, and therefore I would ask the Members of the House to support my Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any Member wish to speak?
The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I support the Motion that is before the House, and in speaking on this, I would like to make it quite plain that in my opinion, the reason given to the House by the Fourth Elected Member in asking for the withdrawal of the Motion which he placed before the House this morning was not the correct reason. It was not because the Members of this House did not accept the so-called "olive branch". It is very seldom we are going to get those branches handed to us on this side of the House. In my opinion, it was because the Executive Council did not have the support on that Motion of the Honourable First Elected Member of Council, and that is why it was seen fit to withdraw the Motion. It was not because a few of us got up and spoke in a manner that he thought was a manner dictating abuse.

Because in his Motion he started out in the written word by saying that he was somewhat uneasy last Friday evening, 11th September, in regard to certain things on the Bill. The Bill or the amendment that he proposed should have stood and there would have been no reason for my colleague to have to place another amendment asking for one change in it. The Member piloting the bill, in his memorandum pointed out that in Section 5(3) that the members of the Trust would not be appointed by the Governor.

HON. BENSON D. EDANKS: Mr. Chairman, a point of order, Sir. Could I call your attention to Standing Order 36(1) and I would rely on 55(3) to further reinforce - I am referring to relevancy, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have during today's debate at its various stages exercised great leniency, although Members may not think quite that, in the scope of the debate, but I think that the Honourable First Elected Member does have a point - we are on a very specific Motion which has been quite thoroughly debated, please let us try and keep close to it.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I will try in a humble way to bow to your ruling, although I must point out that what I was saying was quite relevant to the point, because it was submitted in written form to this House. But I, over the years, have gotten used to having that particular Member act in the manner which he does today.

MR. PRESIDENT: With respect, I have to interrupt you for a moment. You are seconding a Motion with regard to the recommitment of this Bill. We are not going over the reasons why somebody else proposed it and then withdrew it. It is your reasons for supporting the present Motion, please.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I think I am being quite relevant in dealing with it, because the specifics of the Motion that was brought to this House is in this one. My colleague here is asking for a part of that Motion which was dealt with this morning to be recommitted to the House.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think I am correct in recollecting this morning that the first part of the first Motion was very quickly disposed of. We are now concentrating on Section 11.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: We are concentrating on Section 11, which was also in this Memorandum that was sent to the House this morning.

MR. PRESIDENT: You have been very graceful so far, I would ask you to continue to be graceful and please proceed with your speech.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I will bow to your ruling. I will not pursue the point any further, but I hope that when you expect the hand of friendship to be from this side of the House, it must come from other sides of the House including yourself in the future.

MR. PRESIDENT: I should always hope to deal with all Members even-handedly.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I hope that will be the case in the future, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: It will be, would you please continue.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: No, I will give up my right to speak, and leave it to you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you. Would any other Member wish to speak? If no other Member wishes to speak, does the mover wish to exercise ... hold on ... the Second Elected Member for West Day, at the last minute.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Thank you, Mr. President.
Mr. President, I am supporting the Motion before the House. My reasons for supporting this Motion are that (1) the Member responsible for the Bill, after a weekend, has brought back an amendment which they refused on the initial introduction of the Bill. After the Government took objection in Members pointing out the way it was being handled, to save face, he withdraws the Motion.. His reasons ...

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, a Point of Order, Sir, the Member must speak to the Motion before the House, and not the Motion that was recently disposed of. Relevance again, Sir, Standing Order 36.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have ruled on this a few moments ago. Please let us stick closely to the subject of this Motion.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: With respect, Mr. President, this Motion before the House here - I have to give my reasons for supporting it and I do that on anything I support or object to. Now, then, am I going to do this if I do not give, at least, a brief update of the history of the Bill?

MR. PRESIDENT: May I say something?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: You certainly may, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you. This is not a question of the motives or the history, it is a question of Section 11 specifically, and you are supporting it being recommitted. Please stick to that.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I am in complete agreement with the Chair, Sir, not that I am in agreement that we need relevance, but I have to persist Sir, that I am being relevant to the Motion, and I have to give my reasons why I am supporting the Motion. If you cannot do that then there is curtailment of speech. I was only giving a brief history.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Honourable Member is overstating his case, with great respect. Please continue and please stick to the point.

If no other Member wishes to speak, would the mover wish to reply?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, Will Rogers once said "I do not make jokes, I just watch the Government and report the facts". And, anybody looking on today does not need to make jokes.

I brought this Motion because I truly believed the date for the first Annual General Meeting is important, and it is important because the subject matter of the Bill is important. The National Trust is important because it could dictate the terms of development in the future. Justification for bringing this Motion can be found in the actual words of the Member responsible for the Bill. He had put forward a similar Motion, and had said that he felt uneasy about the Bill - that is my main reason for putting the Motion to have the Bill recommitted because I feel uneasy about the Bill. And if you would allow it, Sir, I will claim my right under Standing order 32(4) to read the Member's Memorandum in support of my asking for a committal of the Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think it would be entirely in order to read that part of the Memorandum which relates to Section 11, which is the subject of your Motion. But please do not read the whole thing.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Okay, Sir.

In the Member's Memorandum, he requested the House to recommit the Bill so that he could amend Section 11 in the second line by substituting the word "April" for "October". That is all I am asking now, is that the House do what the Member knew to be right, although he has wavered from that thinking since. He has been the victim of circumstances, and in order to aid this ailing Member, I seek permission to take this Bill where it rightfully belongs, back to the Committee so that we can make this important change. No one has made representation to me for this change but the Member who piloted the Bill told us in the Memorandum that representation had been made to him, and that alone is justification for the recommitment of the Bill.

Now although someone has talked him into believing that he should withdraw his olive branch, I want to make it clear that in the matter of changing October to April, he did not offer us an olive branch, he had offered us a tidbit. Now a tidbit is what a dog trainer offers to a dog or other animal when the dog is being trained. If the dog does exactly what the trainer wants, the dog gets a choice piece of meat or a little fish in payment for being a nice dog. We were offered a tidbit. But unfortunately, some of us did not respond with the niceties which had been expected by the First Elected Member of Council and the Fourth Elected Member of Council. Now that tidbit has been withdrawn. But nevertheless, the issue at stake in this Motion is whether it is right or wrong to have the date of April instead of the date of October.

Another reason why I am seeking this recommitment of the Bill, is the same reason that the Member put forward in his Memorandum, and that reason was that the National Trust will undoubtedly grow into quite an important organisation representing the entire cross-section of the community and Government should definitely have some control over its membership. This recommitment is seeking that Government will have the proper control as soon as possible, so that the important elections can take place at an Annual General Meeting which is in April rather than October. So, the more we look into this, the significance of having the Annual General Meeting in April becomes clearer and bigger.

Finally, I would say that every Member should be convinced that recommitment of this Bill is absolutely necessary because the Member in charge of the Bill said that he was prepared with the approval of the Legislative Assembly, to make the change in Section 11. We were told that Government, not in so many words, but words strong enough to stop the recommitment, the tidbit had been offered but it was taken away. And I would like to remind that Member in closing that no Government is strong enough to rule without the consent of the governed.

MR. PRESIDENT: I shall now put the question then. The question is that this Bill stand recommitment to a Committee of the whole House.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.9/87
ECONOMIC INCENTIVES FOR CAYMAN BRAC AND LITTLE CAYMAN

(CONTINUATION OF DEBATE THEREDN)

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I wish to speak on the Motion that is before the House. I will begin my debate on this Motion by saying that I have always been, and will continue to be, sympathetic to what goes on in the Sister Islands. This can be proven by our stand from 1976 to 1984, when the Government of those dates did everything within its power to try to bring prosperity to the Sister Islands. From 1976 to 1984, our Government worked very closely with the Member representing the Sister Islands who was in Executive Council at that time, to try to bring prosperity to those Islands. That same Member is now the Member responsible for a certain Portfolio in the present Government, who, as a born Cayman Bracker, must have the interest of the Sister Islands held as paramount importance to him. So I am quite confident that he has done everything within his power to try to bring prosperity to the Sister Islands. Now I will admit that in the existing conditions of this House, and being saddled with some of the Members that he is saddled with on his team, that that might have been difficult. But, I am willing to lend my support to anything that can benefit the Cayman Islands as a whole.

I cannot fully support this Motion in the way it is before the House. I think it is a piecemeal approach to a large problem. I would propose at this time that we set differences aside and we appoint a Committee of the whole House to sit down and figure out what can best be done to bring prosperity not only to the Sister Islands, but to all the Islands, because there is no doubt that Grand Cayman needs help in a similar way that the Sister Islands need help. The prosperity that many of us have spoken about is not evident today in our society. So therefore I think it is incumbent on all of us to get together, put our ideas on the table and sort out behind closed doors, what could be a good policy for the Sister Islands, and also a policy for our island here of Grand Cayman.

Reducing duties - if we reduced all of it, if we took all of the duty off it will not necessarily help the people of the Sister Islands if they do not have the money available in order to buy the products and in order to stimulate the construction industry. It is my belief, they do not have that money, so whether we reduce the duty to two and a half per cent or we take all the duty off, it is not really going to be a stimulant to the economy. They must first have the money in their pockets to be able to do something to develop the Islands.

I believe that if we were to make a concerted effort through the Department of Tourism to further increase the expansion of tourism to the Sister Islands it would be beneficial. That is, to devote the entire Department overseas to promoting the Sister Islands for a period of at least one month. If we were to get the airlines together and tell them of our problem, they may be willing to help in many areas. The three non-Caymanian airlines that operate from here could be asked to provide a special fare for one month, or two months, to people who would come and visit the Sister Islands. Then our airline, which is subsidised by our Government, which is money that goes into the Treasury from each and every person in the Cayman Islands, could be used on a very cheap fare to transport the people who the other airlines have brought to Grand Cayman on to Cayman Brac.

We could get together with the two banks that operate currently in Cayman Brac, Cayman National Bank and Barclays Bank. We could make them well aware of the problems that exist, and ask for their help. If they are going to expect to reap the benefits when the economy in the Sister Islands is on the high road, then they should be willing to help us when the economy is in a downswing. They could help us in providing some low interest rate loans rather than making loans available at about 6% more than they are paying their depositors at this time. This would stimulate the economy, and then maybe Government could make another effort through Caribbean Development Bank or some other banking sources, to create some soft loans to stimulate the economy and get some industry going in the Sister Islands.

We could publicise abroad and try to bring in some new industries, small industries, into the Sister Islands. This, in turn, again, may help to employ some people and stimulate the economy. Government could try to promote small cottage industries in the Sister Islands. This would enable the people to sell their products in the vibrant tourism economy, like Grand Cayman. We do not have anything for sale to the tourist industry that is really manufactured in our country. As we go around to the different stores that cater to that business, all we can see is things that have been made in Jamaica or Hong Kong, or some other country. The people of Cayman Brac, in particular, has always been known to excel in their industrial work. They are people that do not really want to sit back and depend on someone giving them the olive branch coated with honey. They like to have the opportunity to go out and fend for themselves and feel like they have accomplished something on their own. We could help to stimulate boat building in Cayman Brac. Again, the people there have been known over the ages as very good boat builders, and if Government and the banks would make the money available at a low interest rate, these are the areas that would tremendously benefit the sagging economy of the Sister Islands.

They, at the present time, are in an economic slump. The measures that have been taken so far, and the measures that are contemplated here, in my opinion, I reiterate once more, are only stopgap measures and will not solve the problem. I cannot, as a representative of the good people of Bodden Town, come here and agree to a Motion to reduce duties on certain items to two and a half per cent and in some cases, I think, take them off entirely, while the people in my district, who are also suffering under the heavy hand of the present political administration - it would be unfair to my people to agree to that. You could not have duty lowered on certain items just to protect or to help the people of Bodden Town, neither could you have it done to help the people of West Bay. So I think that at the present time Government has gone as far as it should go in reducing any income of Government in trying to assist the economy of the Sister Islands. I think we have to look at this in a broader sense, that is what I am proposing to this House today, and I hope that the Members will accept it in the manner in which I am putting it forward and that for one time we can sit down together and try to do something that will benefit our people.

In the past the economy of the Sister Islands has been attended to, it has been helped, and every help that could be given from the administration here in Grand Cayman has been given. The dock in Little Cayman was built, the dock in Cayman Brac was built, roads were built on the Bluff, the airport runway was extended, CAL maintained a jet service into Cayman Brac at a great loss in revenue, many Government buildings were built and the airport terminal is now contemplated. Overall, Government has provided a very good infrastructure for the Sister Islands. It is true that there are a few areas that we can look at and say it is sagging - it is true that maybe even my good friend, the Honourable First Elected Member, will get blamed for pulling a few teachers from Cayman Brac, but that is a part of economics also that I can agree with. What I am saying to the Members of this House and to the people of our Islands is, we are in problems - the people of the Sister Islands are in problems. I am sympathetic with the problems that they face, but let us, as leaders of the country, get our heads together and I will propose, if I have to do so, formally at the end of this, that we comprise a Committee of all the Members of this House, and let us diligently work at preparing a plan that can bring economic prosperity back to the people of the Sister Islands, so that they can stay at home, so that they can hold up their heads, and so that they can feel that they are once more contributing to the overall success of our Islands.

While we do that, I think it may also be necessary for us to look at certain areas of the economy in our island of Grand Cayman itself. I would not cloud the issue at this point by insisting on that, but I would say, please let us cooperate. Let us help our brothers and sisters in the Sister Islands. But let us do it in such a way that they can hold up their heads. Let us do it in such a way that it can help. Let us not bite off little pieces and think that we are helping those people, because in the end we will not help them. They must be given the tools to help themselves, and that is what I am proposing.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

MRS. DAPHNE L. DRETT:

Mr. President, I would like to speak to Private Member's Motion No. 9/87 in respect to economic incentives for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. President, the first whereas on this Motion, I would tend to agree with to a certain extent, that in recent years the economies of the Sister Islands have been somewhat in a depressed state. This was in fact borne out by the Honourable Third Elected Member of Council and I think all of us are aware of the situation there, and perhaps the main reasons for this depressed state of the economy.

On the second whereas, I cannot agree. There are certainly, after having listened to the Honourable Third Elected Member of Council, there are certainly signs that there has been a marked improvement in the economic state of the Sister Islands. It seems to me that there is a lot happening there, and we may have a situation there right now where there are insufficient people to meet the needs which need to be met as far as finding those in the area of construction and even in the area of the tourism industry.

The third Whereas, Mr. President, which mentions that numbers of people of the Sister Islands have relocated to Grand Cayman in order to earn sufficient to support their families - I cannot disagree that there has been a move, everyone knows that, but it is not unusual for the people of the Cayman Islands to move when they need to, and certainly this is no less true of the people of the Lesser Islands. This has been an on and off situation. When everything is rosy and going fine in Cayman Brac, the people have no reason to move. Nobody can blame them when there is a depressed state in the economy, and things are better over here in Grand Cayman, nobody can question their decision to move with their families. It is no different than what, perhaps, we here in Grand Cayman would do. And I think, that the only reason why many more moves are not made is that the District of West Bay, and the Districts of North Side, East End and Bodden Town, simply happen not to be separated by 80 miles of water from George Town. These people travel back and forth every day to their work in George Town. And the reason for the move in Cayman Brac mainly, as I see it, is simply because there is no other way of getting to where the hub of activity is in the capital of the Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, I think that every one of us here know that the people of Cayman Brac are an industrious people. They know where the grass is greener. And I believe that in spite of all that, it is not really a heartening thing to go to Cayman Brac and see the number of homes that are closed and other areas where there is a lot less activity. It really is somewhat depressing. However, when one speaks to the people who have moved here, they seem to be happy, they are uncomplaining, they are getting along quite well, and in some instances I have had some of the people in Cayman Brac express that it is their hope to return home to live in the not too distant future. On the other hand there are many of them who seem quite satisfied to be here, and have no intention at all of moving back to Cayman Brac or Little Cayman.

Much has been said on this subject, but what I am saying here is that I do not feel that it can be said that Government is not doing its best for the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman - this was borne out here in figures which were presented by the Honourable First Official Member of Council and certainly by the Honourable Third Elected Member of Council, and for the reasons plus other reasons which have already been expressed by other Members speaking to this Motion, I find that I am not able to support it.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? The First Elected Member for the Sister Islands?

CAPT. MARRY S. KIRKCONNELL:

Thank you, Mr. President. Mr. President, Private Member's Motion 9/87 - Economic Incentives for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman - from the time I heard of this Motion, and I read its contents, it has given me great concern. I have really tried to examine every aspect of it, to try to understand really why it is before this Honourable House today. I had the honour of serving on a committee appointed by the Honourable Third Elected Member of Council, who is also my colleague as a representative of the Lesser Islands. It was a democratically constituted committee. We gave very serious consideration, to what we felt was the best for the people of the Lesser Islands. We went into every aspect. We are a proud, ambitious people. We realised that Government cannot function without revenue, therefore the thing that we were looking for was somehow to improve the economy and at the same time not erode the revenues to the Treasury of the Cayman Islands.

After long consideration and input from all members, the decision was made as all Honourable Members of this House are aware, that duty would be reduced to 5 per cent on building materials and for condominium developments, for people, Cayman Brackers or Caymanians returning, foreigners coming into the country. We felt that what was necessary in Cayman Brac was to create employment for our people. You can reduce duty, you can make it a completely duty free area, but if you do not have money to buy the product overseas, it is not helping you one bit. Therefore we already see an improvement in the economic condition, and I note and have to correct the second "Whereas" of this Motion where it says "and whereas there is no sign of improvement". Mr. President, I am happy to report today that that is not correct. We have seen a marked improvement in our situation there. It is not to the stage that we want it, we have a long way to go. But there is, at the present time, with a limited work force, full employment in the construction field.

The Government is now engaged in the construction of a dental clinic and public health offices on the Faith Hospital compound. In addition to that there is major construction at the Tiara Beach Hotel, and this will be an on-going project which will last for approximately two and a half years, so that is the type of project that we are really encouraged with, for it means it may be able to encourage some of our many men who came to Grand Cayman to seek employment to return, since there will be signs of long-term employment. Also, the Foster Brothers have had approval from the Development Control Board for the construction of beach cottages on the south coast of Cayman Brac. There is also a commercial development in Little Cayman that I see ads in the paper where the pre-construction prices are being offered. It is my hope that that will commence very shortly. All in all, Mr. President, these are the things that we feel will help to restore the economy of the Lesser Islands.

Much has been said in this Session of the House concerning the revenue of Cayman Brac. I would like to call to the attention of Honourable Members and the members of the listening public that the revenue figures collected in Cayman Brac are not actually the only money that is contributed by the people of the Sister Islands. All stamp duty from the sale of land is paid to Lands and Survey, and therefore directly into the Treasury and not credited as revenue from Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. Also, stamp duty, company fees, all petroleum products are imported into Grand Cayman and re-exported to Cayman Brac, where the import duty is paid here in Grand Cayman. It is also true on one of the largest customs revenues that we have - liquor and cigarettes - 90 per cent of that is paid into the Treasury in Grand Cayman - besides, the larger merchants in Grand Cayman having more purchasing power than the smaller merchants in Cayman Brac. A lot of the foodstuff is purchased here in Grand Cayman and its duty paid. So what I am trying to impress on the Honourable Members of this House - that if all revenue paid out by people of Cayman Brac for all their commodities were added together, our revenue figure would be considerably larger than it is.

I would like to say to the Honourable Members of this House, what we need, and I would ask the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council, if it is possible that in regards to the Housing Development Corporation, if he could give the people of the Lesser Islands a little concession in arranging that a Loans Officer would visit the Brac on a regular basis. People applying for housing under the Housing Corporation cannot afford to leave work if they have a job, they cannot afford their airplane passage and the cost of coming over to Grand Cayman to negotiate these loans. I know of several who have made several trips over here before being able to get a loan. If it could be arranged that a member of the Housing Corporation would come to the Brac, there is sufficient space at District Administration Office where they could meet their prospective clients - if they are not able to secure a loan, at least they would not be any worse off for trying. So I would ask the Honourable Member if he would give consideration to this.

Also what we need as the First Elected Member for Bedden Town said, we need help in providing funds. I think if we could get the commercial banks to assist with lower income or at least give a longer term on loans, it would be of some help. One of the most difficult things in getting a commercial loan in the Cayman Islands is if you have a good rating you can get up to five years, but it is difficult to repay a loan of any size in a period of five years.

Mr. President, going back to the mover of this Motion, I am glad to know that he has an interest in Cayman Brac, I really feel, had he consulted with those of us that love Cayman Brac, those of us that live in Cayman Brac, we could have probably cleared his mind on a lot of issues. I am not saying that his motive is wrong, I am grateful for any interest that any Member, or anyone wherever they may be, shows in the Lesser Islands. We are separated by water, we do not have the facilities of just jumping into our car, or catching a bus and coming to George Town, where the centre of all the activity is in the Cayman Islands. We must pay $68.04 for a return air trip over here, and not all the time are seats available. So I want to say that I am not trying to be ungrateful here today, I am very grateful for what has been done.

I have had the honour of representing my people from the Third Electoral District since 1980. I am very grateful to the previous administration for their cooperation and what they have done in providing funds. My colleague has had the honour of serving in the Executive Council from 1974 to 1980 and again since 1984. During the other period, our former Chief Secretary, the Honourable Dennis Foster, was the Member responsible, and all the people of Cayman Brac are most grateful also for the efforts he made in representing us in Executive Council.

Mr. President, I want to say the thing that is holding the Lesser Islands back more than anything else is the matter that our population is slightly over 1300. History recalls that Grand Cayman had a similar problem when they had a small population. We need to encourage people to come to the Islands, that was one of the reasons the Committee took the action it did in asking that we create incentives for foreign investors and retirees, because it has been spoken in this House about the roll-over effect, but the purchasing power of 1300 people will not create much roll-over in the economy.

I would like also to call to the attention of Honourable Members that we, residing in Cayman Brac, have many disadvantages. We have a higher freight rate. I am grateful that the Government saw fit to make a freight adjustment. I had asked for that for many years, but I am very grateful that at last, a few months ago, it was enacted where now we are paying duty on the CIF cost of our merchandise as if they were landed in Grand Cayman. The additional freight on to Cayman Brac is not dutiable. That is creating a considerable saving.

One of the reasons, as I said before, with a small population, the buying power of the merchants is not what it is here in Grand Cayman, and that is one of the reasons that the cost of groceries, building material and the like is higher in the Lesser Islands.

Mr. President, I have listened very carefully to all the arguments that the Second Elected Member for George Town made in presenting this Motion. I recognise very easily, the limitation of his knowledge of the present economic situation in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. Also, some of the points which he brought out were misleading, and I hope that I have been able in some way to set some of the matters straight.

The mover has tried to prove that Cayman Brac and Little Cayman have been neglected. As I said, I can vouch that since I was elected in 1980, the Members of this Honourable House have cooperated with us, and the infrastructure of Cayman Brac I think is as well advanced as any island that has 1300 people. We have good port facilities, we have a good airport runway, hopefully we will soon, after several years of delay, get the airport terminal. We have a hospital which we are very proud of. All Members here know the way that came about. We were told we needed a hospital like we needed a hole in our head. We said that might be your idea, doctor, but we know better. We will get our hospital even if we have to build it ourselves. Land was donated, people joined together, and today, with the help of Government and their operation, we have a well-equipped small hospital, very adequate for our needs. We have a capable medical staff, and we are proud of the initiative that the people of the Lesser Islands have displayed - not today, not yesterday, but throughout the history of the Lesser Islands.

In previous years, nearly the entire fleet of ships owned in the Cayman Islands and registered in George Town was owned in Cayman Brac. It shows you that we are not people that are looking for a handout, we are not lazy, we are not living on the streets, we are ambitious, industrious, and we intend to fight hard to improve the situation in the Lesser Islands. I do not think, because of our limited land area, we will ever come up to the stage of what George Town, or Grand Cayman has developed, but nevertheless, it is our desire to create a healthy economy, a place that we can bring back.

Mr. President, I would like to go on a bit further, if you want to adjourn, I will be glad to yield.

MR. PRESIDENT: If Honourable Members agree, maybe four or five minutes, if that will suffice for you.

CAPT. HARRY S. KIRKCONNELL: I will be a bit longer than that, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well I think perhaps then, we should adjourn.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, in accordance with Standing Order 10(2), I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that this House do now adjourn until 10:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake, Amen.

Questions. The Second Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR GEORGE TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 58: Would the Honourable Member state the number and categories of appeals received by the Executive Council against decisions of the Caymanian Protection Board since January 1985 in respect of Gainful Occupation Licences and the number and categories of successful appeals during this same period?

ANSWER: Since 1st January, 1985 to 9th September, 1987, the number of appeals in respect of Gainful Occupation Licences received by Executive Council amounted to 369 of which 27 were allowed in the following categories:

Domestics	7
Dock Workers	6
Farm Workers	2
Gardeners/Maintenance Personnel	3
Carpenters	3
Taxi Driver	1
Waitress	1
Welder	1
Computer Operator	1
Assistant Accountant	1
Secretarial	1
TOTAL:	27

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask the Honourable Member if he can tell the House why there were many appeals during this short period - if there was any singled reason that he could identify for the excessive amount of appeals?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, we could only come to the conclusion that the number of appeals during this period are excessive if we had access to the comparative periods previously. However, the fact of the matter remains, Mr. President, that applications that are unsuccessful at the Caymanian Protection Board provide a statutory right of appeal, and these are the number of persons who have exercised that statutory right.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Could the Honourable Member say to what nationality the majority of the appeals belong?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: No, Mr. President. The records are not kept to give that information in that manner.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: A supplementary, Mr. President. Would the Honourable Member state how any appeals are now pending before Executive Council?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: No, Sir. I could undertake to give that information in writing, but I do not have it with me now.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: A further supplementary, Mr. President. Would the Honourable Member state the average period taken for Executive Council to hear an appeal?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: I am afraid I also do not have an accurate response to that supplementary, Sir, but appeals are taking a considerable length of time, and, if I had to hazard a guess, it would be an average of approximately six months.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, can the Honourable Member give the House the reason why there should be this delay?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: The reason primarily, Sir, is firstly because of the procedure involved, and secondly because of the sheer number of applications.

The procedure involved requires the referral of the appeal, firstly from the office of Executive Council to the Caymanian Protection Board and then to the Legal Department before it can be dealt with in Executive Council. The reference to those Departments do tend to result in delays, particularly if the Legal Department is swamped with work or if the Caymanian Protection offices are in a backlog situation - which, in many instances, is the situation.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask the Honourable Member if there is any follow-up system - that is if an application is referred to the Department of Immigration, does Executive Council follow up, or does the Clerk follow up to see that a reply is forthcoming; or is it just left until it can be dealt with? Is there any follow-up system at all?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: There is a follow-up system, Sir, and the follow-up is done approximately every six weeks.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: A further supplementary, Mr. President. Would the Honourable Member not agree that because of this obvious inefficient system that an average of six months to hear an appeal is causing major inconvenience to members of the public?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: I agree, Sir.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: A further supplementary, Mr. President. Does the Honourable Member agree that the system is inefficient or that it is causing major inconvenience?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, I have just given the reason for the delays that are inevitable when dealing with such large numbers, and having to refer to more than one agency before the matter can be referred to Executive Council; and this is bound to have an inconveniencing effect. It should be pointed out, however, that the opposite sometimes occurs in that, while appeals in respect of renewals are being considered, the applicants are allowed to continue to work pending the determination of the appeal. That sometimes has the opposite effect of person being allowed to continue the work for a longer period than would otherwise be allowed.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Can the Honourable Member say what happens to the appellant if the appellant had been a new applicant?

MR. PRESIDENT: I am sorry, I did not catch the last two words.

May I have them again.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Yes, I am asking if the Honourable Member can say what happens to the appellant if the appellant was a new applicant? What the Honourable Member has told us is that in the case of somebody who is already at work and just applying for a renewal, that person is allowed to continue work. I am asking what is the position with a new applicant?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: The position with respect to a new applicant is that a new applicant has no statutory right to commence employment prior to the receipt of a licence. Therefore, in the case of a new applicant, the person would not be allowed to remain here.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: A further supplementary, Mr. President. Are we then to understand from the Honourable Member's answer that the perhaps unwritten policy of Government then is that where the applicant is a present employee, that he can continue working until the appeal is heard?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, that is not an unwritten policy, Sir. That is a provision in the Law.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: A further supplementary, Mr. President. Would this also apply to individuals who have received permits for up to three months?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: I am sorry, could the Member clarify what the question is seeking?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Of course, Mr. President. There are perhaps three categories of permits. One is for 30 days, the other is up to 90 days and then one can get a full permit of up to two years with an option for the renewal. My question is, on the category of permits for up to 90 days - if an application was made for a full permit, would that individual be able to continue working until the full permit is heard?

MR. PRESIDENT: We are perhaps getting a long way outside. If the Honourable Member can answer, would he please do so?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: I am sorry. I still do not think I have understood the gist of the question, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think you are in effect asking for an interpretation of the Law. Would that be correct?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Not really, Sir, but I will discuss this with the Honourable Member after the break.

MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you very much.
If there are no further supplementaries then, let us proceed to question number 70.

The Second Elected Member for West Bay, please.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

NO. 70: Would the Honourable Member state:

- (a) What was the total cost of recruitment of teachers from the United Kingdom for the 1987/1988 school year, including overnight accommodation and transportation to the interview site?
- (b) How many applicants were interviewed; and
- (c) The lengths of contracts that were offered and accepted?

ANSWER: (a) The total cost of recruitment of teachers in the United Kingdom for the 1987/88 school year was £67,889. This is broken down as follows:

United Kingdom expenses, including overnight accommodation and transportation to the interview site:	£30,691.00

Passages for teachers to Cayman:	£23,538.00

(b) 143 applicants were interviewed;

(c) The standard Government contract offered, is for two years.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. PRESIDENT:

Supplementaries?
The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

many teachers were actually hired?

Mr. President, can the Honourable Member say how

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

I think it is 38 or 40.

Mr. President, I do not have the exact figure, but

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Can the Honourable Member say if any steps are being taken to reduce the high cost of hiring since it works out to almost $3,000 per teacher hired? Can the Honourable Member say if any steps are being taken to reduce this high cost of recruitment?

Can the Honourable Member say if any steps are

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, the answer to the Member's question is that steps are being taken to reduce the cost, but whilst on my feet I would also like to say, Mr. President, that if we were to compare the cost given in the answer to what it would cost if we were still using Crown Agents for recruitment purposes, the total cost, if Crown Agents were being used, would be GI$210,734.

Mr. President, the answer to the Member's question

MR. PRESIDENT:

There appear to be no further.....

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Yes, I was just going to ask if any of this recruitment was handled through Mr. Russell's office in London?

Yes, I was just going to ask if any of this

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, 99 per cent, if not all, of recruitment in the United Kingdom is handled by Mr. Russell's office.

Mr. President, 99 per cent, if not all, of

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

And, whether the Honourable Member can tell us that he remembers that during the first year of this recruitment through Mr. Russell's office they saved enough money on recruitment of public servants to pay for the office in London?

And, whether the Honourable Member can tell us that

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

The Member is correct, Mr. President. The savings from recruitment of officers in the United Kingdom exceeded the cost of running that office.

The Member is correct, Mr. President. The savings

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

So that when the present Honourable Member responsible for Education objected to the hiring of Mr. Russell, he had made a grave error? Am I right?

So that when the present Honourable Member

MR. PRESIDENT:

I do not think that is a question.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

That is an opinion, Mr. President. (LAUGHTER)

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you. I think we are all in agreement on that.

Thank you. I think we are all in agreement on

If there are no further supplementaries, shall we go to number 71 - the Second Elected Member for West Bay.

If there are no further supplementaries, shall we

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR FINANCE AND DEVELOPMENT

NO. 71: Would the Honourable Member state:

- (a) Whether Government made any attempt to recruit school teachers from the West Indies or any country other than the United Kingdom; and
- (b) If an attempt was made, were they offered the same terms of contract as those recruited in the United Kingdom?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, firstly I have to apologise because the answer is not as extensive as it should be, but if the Member will take it as it is ... the question is in two parts and I think the answer, and I take full responsibility, only gives the answer of the first part. However, I can give you verbally the answer to the second part; give it to you in writing and circulate it to all Members.

Mr. President, firstly I have to apologise because ANSWER: Teachers were recruited from Trinidad and Jamaica in 1986 and the United Kingdom in 1987.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

The other part of the answer which is not on the answer sheet: all teachers recruited from overseas are offered the same contractual terms with the exception of wives of contracted officers who may be offered positions on

The other part of the answer which is not on the temporary terms.

SUPPLEMENTARY:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: A supplementary, Mr. President. Can the Honourable Member say whether any recruitment drive was made in any other country besides Trinidad, Jamaica and the United Kingdom?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: No other countries to the best of my knowledge, Mr. President, has had any recruitment drive for teachers.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: None from let us say, Canada?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: I am not absolutely certain, but I do not think so.

MR. PRESIDENT: There are no further supplementaries it seems. Shall we go then to question number 72? The Second Elected Member for West Bay please.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FOURTH ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR DEVELOPMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

NO. 72: Would the Honourable Member state:

- (a) Whether the Elected Member for North Side obtained approval for the removal of sand from an area west of Cayman Kai resort in North Side, and, if so, would the Honourable Member provide a copy of the written authority;
- (b) Whether he agreed that the sand be bartered in exchange for labour and materials to a contractor;
- (c) The value placed on the sand and the estimated cost of the work required on this project; and
- (d) Whether this work was carried out under the direction of the Public Works Department?

- ANSWER:
- (a) No, but a licence was given by Executive Council to the North Side Civic Action Committee to develop and maintain as a facility for public use a parcel of land referred to as Block 33B, Parcel 47 in the Rum Point registration section;
 - (b) No, I was not personally involved in the bartering or contractual process; that was an arrangement between the Civic Action Committee and a private company;
 - (c) According to the application and site plan submitted to the Central Planning Authority, the value placed on the sand is CI$10,059 or 379.6 cubic yards at a selling price of CI$26.50 per cubic yard; the cost of the work required on the project is estimated at $25,000;
 - (d) No. The Civic Action Committee, under the terms of the licence contracted the work to a private company. If the work is finished to planning standard, an occupancy certificate will be issued by the Central Planning Authority.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. PRESIDENT Supplementaries.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Yes, Mr. President. Can the Honourable Member provide a copy of the licence given to the committee?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, the licence is an Executive Council document and if it is so authorised, I will send a copy of it to the Member.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can the Honourable Member say when the licence was received?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, again I will remind the Member that this licence was issued to the North Side Civic Action Committee, and it was issued by Executive Council a few weeks ago. When it was received, I am not in a position to say.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: A supplementary, Mr. President. When then did Executive Council give the permission?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:
August, 1987.

Permission was given by Executive Council on 27th

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:
was contracted to do the work there?

Can the Honourable Member say which private company

The private company was Cayman Austrian Concrete.

would have to have planning approval to remove sand from beaches?

development must be preceded by planning permission. As I said before, this matter is now before the Central Planning Authority and so the matter will be dealt with by that body.

Mr. President, that is quite so, Sir. All

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:
Member spoke of projects not having planning approval. Can he say which projects he is referring to?

A supplementary, Mr. President. The Honourable

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:
undertaken by Government in the past that went on without Government's permission. One of them that comes readily to mind was the extension of the present Immigration office; but there were others in the past.

Well, Mr. President, I am aware that were projects

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:
President, not construction.

I am speaking about the removal of sand, Mr.

MR. PRESIDENT:
to reply.

That was not clear, but it now is clear. I am

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:
President. I am not saying that it has not been done in the past.

I cannot recall any such cases just now, Mr.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think the Second Elected Member forI am

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:
Member is referring to this project as a Government project?

Mr. President, I wonder whether the Honourable

I am sorry, Mr. President, I did not get that

MR. PRESIDENT:

Could you please repeat.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:
Member is referring to this project as a Government one?

Mr. President, I wonder whether the Honourable that committee - the North Side Civic Action Committee.

It is not altogether a Government project, Mr.
President. A licence was given to a committee formed in North Side to develop the

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:
Honourable Member say why the committee and the licence should have gone hand-in-hand?

Mr. President, another supplementary. Would the

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

That is quite so, Mr. President. The application, the plan and the licence is now before the Central Planning Authority.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Is it not correct that the work has already been done?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Not to my knowledge, Mr. President. The work has started, but the application is nevertheless before the Central Planning Authority.

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, would the Honourable Member state then whether, from his answers, this action to remove the sand was done without the proper authority of the Planning Department.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, the matter is now before the Central Planning Authority, and I cannot anticipate what the position there is.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for Badden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Can the Honourable Member tell us when the work started on the project?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

The removal of sand, Mr. President, was done, I believe, a few weeks ago. But, the Central Planning Authority is very much aware of what is going on on the project. Furthermore, the work that is being done on that beach, is for the benefit of the public; and not only the public of North Side, but the public of Grand Cayman.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

A supplementary, Mr. President. I wonder whether the Honourable Member can say whether the West Bay ramp was for the benefit of the public?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

That is an off-the-beat supplementary question, Mr. President, but I would say to him, yes, it is for the benefit of the public in general.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Would the Honourable Member then say whether he would agree that the people who did the work on the West Bay ramp had to go through the whole rigmarole of planning and wait a very long time before any work commenced?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I am providing answers to a matter relating to North Side and not West Bay.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think the Honourable Member may decline to reply to that.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

He did answer my first question relating to it, Sir, and my second supplementary arose out of his answer. I think I am within the Standing Orders to ask him that question. But, I will accept his refusal.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think you are excavating this question quite well.

The Second Elected Member for Badden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, is the Honourable Member aware that work was started before the licence was granted on 27th August, 1987.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, this matter is in the hands of the Central Planning Authority, and I do not think it is right for us to be dealing with all these various questions here because it is going to prejudice decisions to be taken on that authority.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Rubbish!

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON:

That is not true.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, (LAUGHTER) is the Honourable Member responsible aware that the work was illegally carried out before the licence was granted?

MR. PRESIDENT:

That seems a reasonable question, but I think it has in effect been answered.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, again, the Central Planning Authority is responsible for illegal development and enforcement orders thereon - not V.G. Johnson or the Member responsible for Development and Natural Resources.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

I thought they were responsible for legal development.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for West Bay I think was next.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: A supplementary, Mr. President. In a news article and the controversy on the project, a name was given. Can the Honourable Member identify whether this man is the owner of the company doing the work?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: I am sorry, Mr. President. I cannot answer that question.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Does the Honourable Member know, then, what I am talking about?

MR. PRESIDENT: No, I am sorry - that simply is not a precise enough question.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, may I preface my supplementary which I will state by stating that as a former Chairman of the Central Planning Authority, no removal of sand, public or private, could be done before planning permission was obtained. The supplementary question is, was any work done to remove any sand in this particular area before the matter was taken to the Central Planning Authority?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I think I have answered that question already. However, I did say that work began on the site from a few weeks ago, and the matter is now before the Central Planning Authority. It is entirely up to the Central Planning Authority as to what action it chooses to take, and to examine the matter carefully in making its decisions.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think the question has been answered.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask the Honourable Member if it is correct that when sand is removed from a beach - that is from the foreshore - permission would be needed from Executive Council as well as from Planning?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Removing sand from the beach, Mr. President, is a matter for the Central Planning Authority and not Executive Council. (LAUGHTER)

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: A supplementary, Mr. President

MR. PRESIDENT: Hold on one minute, the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town was on his feet.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, in the matter of the sand, which is an expensive item, being bartered, is the Portfolio satisfied that Government has received a fair return for the sand? In other words, the work could probably have been done for $50, and the Honourable Member has said that $10,000 worth of sand was given away. Does the Portfolio consider this a fair exchange?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: It is a pity, Mr. President, that the Member did not read further down in the written answer to discover that the cost of the project is estimated at $25,000.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Can the Honourable Member outline what, in the project, would cost $25,000?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: I am afraid, Mr. President, that that information is before the Central Planning Authority. (LAUGHTER)

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: So the Honourable Member is saying that the figure of $25,000 is just a figure that has been drawn from an hat and there is nothing to substantiate the $25,000

MR. PRESIDENT: Is that a statement, or will you put that in the form of a question?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: I am asking the Honourable Member whether this figure of $25,000 came from an hat, or is there something to substantiate it?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I do not know whether the Member has made an application before the Central Planning Authority before, but certainly when one is putting an application before that body, it has to be done in detail and the cost of the project is usually shown there.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: A supplementary, Mr. President. Can the Honourable Member say whether, in the process of removing this sand, any vegetation was destroyed - grape trees of long standing; thatch trees, coconut trees, wild strawberries and this sort of thing?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: As far as I know, Mr. President, only 'wild wisp' was removed from this property? (LAUGHTER)

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, does the Honourable Member know that the entire beach ridge has been removed to the detriment of adjacent properties? Has this come to the Member's knowledge?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, we sent surveyors up there to examine the property and that is a false rumour if the Member heard that. The adjoining properties have not been molested.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask if he has seen this, because I know I have seen it?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Well, that is a story going around town, Mr. President. A lot of funny stories too...

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: It is not a story.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: We sent people up there to examine this particular rumour and it is not true because the excavation is done away from the border line of the adjoining properties.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: A supplementary, Mr. President. Can the Honourable Member say whether he visited the site before and after, or whether he relied solely on information given to him by the Elected Member for North Side?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: My Principal Secretary visited the site on two occasions and I had surveyors from Lands and Survey visiting the site and making a report on it.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: But, the Honourable Member did not visit the site himself before or after?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: I have not visited the site.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Elected Member for East End.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: Mr. President, would the Honourable Member say who placed the value on the sand removed?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: The value of the sand, Mr. President, came from the companies in Grand Cayman supplying sand to those who require the material. The value that is placed here is far above what some of the other companies are selling sand for. What we have done here is to place a selling price on it, and not a price as taken from the site. The price as taken from the site is something like $11 per cubic yard. But, we have placed a price of $26.50 which is the selling price of sand material by especially one company here which is a very large dealer in this material.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: Mr. President, would the Honourable Member say whether the Public Works Department was consulted on this matter?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I think the answer in (d) states what the position is - that the Public Works Department was not consulted.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for West Bay I think had one more supplementary.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Yes, Sir. A final supplementary, Mr. President. Can the Honourable Member say what is the size of the property?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: The size of the property in width, Mr. President, is 100 feet.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for George Town, and I really think we have explored the question very fully.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, this is a very interesting parked in the prison confines. Prison officers had received the same information from prison informants, but in all cases no positive evidence was available to confirm these reports or to identify specific persons or vehicles involved.

PWD vehicles and crews were mentioned only in general terms in the report, together with other non-prison service vehicles that have official access to the prison compound; all of which pose an equal threat to prison security unless they are thoroughly searched prior to entering the prison confines and strictly controlled whilst within them."

This statement is intended to set the record straight as regards the reputation of PWD staff.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think it might well be convenient to take our normal 15 minute break. The House is suspended for 15 minutes accordingly.

AT 11:00 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11:20 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Proceedings are resumed. Item 4 of the day's business. Private Member's Motion No. 9/B7 - the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands was speaking.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 9/B7
ECONOMIC INCENTIVES FOR CAYMAN BRAC AND LITTLE CAYMAN

(CONTINUATION OF DEBATE THEREON)

CAPT. MARRY S. KIRKCONNELL:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, when we adjourned yesterday, I was speaking with regard to the mover (the Second Elected Member for George Town) not being able to convince me or Honourable Members, I hope, of the neglect of the people of the Lesser Islands.

I can vouch that since I was elected in 1980 that we have received substantial capital improvement funds; and in recurrent expenses, as the answer to the parliamentary question was given by the Honourable First Official Member in this House, it suggests that our recurrent expenses have increased considerably in recent years.

The Hansard of this Honourable House, Mr. President, records that every time I have spoken concerning funds, I have always asked that funds be made available as early as possible and in sufficient quantity to provide jobs for the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman because there has not been very much private investment in these Islands. The total employment burden has had to be borne by Government - mostly through the Public Works Department, and that is the reason it has been so essential that we received capital expenditure that has been made in the Lesser Islands.

Mr. President, I have respect for the mover and the seconder of this Motion. I was told by the mover at a dinner we were attending that he was moving a motion which would indeed benefit my people. I said to him that I was glad to hear of his interest and I thanked him for it. I said that I would support the motion if it would benefit the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I even went as far at that time, Mr. President, before having had the privilege of reading the contents of the Motion, to say to him that I would have seconded it if it would be for the benefit of my district.

It was several weeks later, Mr. President, while in the Common Room of this House, that the mover mentioned to my colleague from Cayman Brac, the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council, that he was moving a motion. We then, later on, saw the contents of the motion and I immediately said to him that the duty adjustment on freight charged to Cayman Brac had been made. The Honourable First Official Member of Executive Council, the Financial Secretary, had advised the District Commissioner in Cayman Brac that the freight equalization charge was in effect; and it is quite beneficial to my people.

I also, at the dinner, mentioned to him that I was serving as a member of the committee formed to investigate the economic situation in Cayman Brac and that we were considering, or had considered adjustment in duty for certain categories. This was at a dinner and therefore I did not have the opportunity to get much explanation from the mover, the Second Elected Member for George Town. What I am trying to say, Mr. President, is that if the mover, in his reply, implicates that I supported the Motion and that now I am not, I want to make it very clear to the listening public and the people of my district, in particular, that it is my intention to always support anything that comes before this Honourable House which will benefit any of the people of the Cayman Islands, particularly the people that I am elected to represent.

I want to make it crystal clear, Mr. President, that I have always been a person who has tried to help my people - not only since I have been a Member of this Honourable House, but all my life. The people who know me know that this is a fact.

Mr. President, if in my judgment voting for this Motion would improve the economic conditions of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman - and I would vote for it, but it would very unfair for me to expect Honourable Members of this House, who represent distinct districts which have unfortunate circumstances within, to ask them to turn their back on their own people and to vote to give special duty concessions to the people of my district, and exclude their own.

My philosophy, Mr. President, is that charity begins at home. My motto has been that I have tried to provide for the needs of my people. Their wants are another thing and we try to deal with those as funds are available.

Mr. President, had the mover not asked so many different parliamentary questions during this Meeting concerning Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, I would not be as concerned as I am as I stand here addressing this Honourable House. I, again, am asking myself why is this Motion before this Honourable House? We have the Budget Meeting in November where we will be asking for substantial capital expenditure for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. Would this Motion and the parliamentary questions not tend to reduce the capital and recurrent expenditures that will be available for 1988 if this House was to give the concession for which the Motion asks?

Could I face my people having agreed to give them something on the one hand and reduce the jobs available in the District Administration, and also the hourly employees of the Public Works Department, in 1988 and 1989 on the other?

Mr. President, it is not my policy to bring politics to the floor of this Honourable House, but I say a few words now just in defence of myself.

The mover, in his presentation, openly announced his support for an announced candidate for a seat in the third district. There are rumours, and I ask, "Is this not the beginning of a team?". Would the election of this Member not ensure the ambitions of some people to achieve seats in Executive Council?

I wonder if the Second Elected Member for George Town has given any thought of the less fortunate people of George Town, the district which he represents. He has moved this Motion supposedly seeking assistance for the people of my district. His good intentions I appreciate, but, nevertheless, his duty is to the people whom he directly represents.

As a member of the Central Planning Authority I have seen, on site visits, many areas in George Town where I wish I was in a position to help personally to improve the conditions of some people. I have seen their living conditions, and I would ask this Member to go out into his constituency to study the needs and bring a motion to the Meeting in November to see whether the Members of this Honourable House can help the unfortunate people of George Town.

Mr. President, returning to the Motion, if it was passed by this Honourable House and duty was reduced, it would not mean a major savings or give economic benefits to the Lesser Islands that it has been purported to do.

As I said yesterday, much of the revenue is paid in duty here in Grand Cayman, so it would not mean a reduction in the cost of gasoline or any petroleum product; and appropriate duty would have already been paid on merchandise which we buy from the merchants in Grand Cayman. So it can be seen that the reduction would not have beneficial effects that the Motion reads it would have.

If this Motion was to pass, resulting in a reduction in capital projects in Cayman Brac, we would be in a situation to have to come to this Honourable House to ask for more money to be made available for capital projects which would then deprive other districts in these Islands. We are, as I said before, not looking to create a welfare state in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. We are looking to create employment to make the people self-sufficient in order that they can supply their own needs, and, at the same time, support the revenues necessary for a good, healthy economy.

My desire now, as it has been in the past and will be in the future, is to do all in my power to improve the conditions for all the people of the Cayman Islands, bearing in mind my direct responsibility to the third electoral district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

At this time, Mr. President, I would like to list items which, in my judgment, would create economic improvements in Cayman Brac. First, we need to encourage foreign investors to invest in hotels, condominiums and other types of businesses and to reside in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman; to secure long-term mortgage funds for building homes, and business loans for our business people in the Islands to exceed the five-year period now made available by the commercial institutions. I know this is beyond the scope of Government, but if it could, in any way, have any influence in the Banking Association in the Cayman Islands, ask it to give a hand in order that we can improve our economic situation.

As I said yesterday, it would be very beneficial if a loans officer from the Housing Development Corporation and the Agricultural Industrial Development Bank would visit Cayman Brac on a regular basis to have interviews with potential clients to encourage local people in agriculture, orchid farming and other types of small industries which would generate employment and capital; provide improved air service as larger hotels are constructed in order that we can improve our tourism industry.

If we had more rooms in Cayman Brac and daily jet service, I feel that in a matter of five to 10 years, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman could be more or less self-sufficient.

Another thing we lack, Mr. President, is the encouragement of shipping lines to give a more frequent freight service to Cayman Brac. One of the things we suffer from is perishable items. Often we have substantial losses in trying to keep stock which can stay on the shelves or in the freezers or chill-boxes for the two-week period.

I would like to state that we have a very capable and well-administered District Administration in Cayman Brac. I congratulate all the employees of the District Administration for their dedication and service. I am proud to represent Cayman Brac and Little Cayman in this Legislature and I could never come here and cast a vote that would be detrimental to these people.

Before closing, I would ask each and every Member of this Legislative Assembly to put politics aside. Let us all work together for the benefit of all the people of the Cayman Islands. I beg each and every one to support myself and my colleague, the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council, as we seek ways and means to improve, not only economic conditions, but improvements in all aspects of life in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and the whole Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, I regret that I have had to deviate from my normal policy of speaking in this Honourable House, but I felt it was my duty to my people to make it crystal clear of my views, how I felt about this Motion and to bring the facts to this House.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I cannot support the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Motion?

Does any other Member wish now to speak on this

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, the Motion before the House seeks ways of stimulating the economy of Cayman Brac and perhaps both of the Lesser Islands. This is not a new motion. The sentiments expressed in this Motion have been voiced in this Chamber many times in the past and, in fact, as far back as 1972. I, together with my colleague from Bodden Town, introduced the motion asking that Government set up a Committee to look into the economy of Cayman Brac because at that time it had been in a similar position to the present one. That motion was voted down by the Government bench and for four years nothing happened in Cayman Brac.

Four years later in 1976 when we were elected to Executive Council, the new Government took steps to stimulate Cayman Brac's economy. The Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council played an important part in bringing about the oil transfer in Cayman Brac, a project that had been set aside by the Government between 1972 and 1976, and all during his four years in Executive Council, as the Honourable Member mentioned in his speech last week, he did all that was possible to get Cayman Brac's economy going. He did a good job of it and I must sing his praises.

So the Motion today is not a new one, I support it. This is not to say that I agree with every detail but the Honourable Member must be congratulated. Over the last three years the present Government has done everything in its effort to wreck the economy of Cayman Brac and Grand Cayman as well. They have succeeded in wrecking the economy of Cayman Brac and the only reason why they did not succeed in wrecking the economy of Grand Cayman is that our economy is more resilient, it is not quite as vulnerable as that of the Lesser Islands. In saying this, I believe that the greatest damage to our economy has been caused by the $8 million of new taxes which the Government has imposed since 1984. It is not possible to take that amount of money extra each year out of the economy without hurting it.

We were given lessons here on the supply of money and the multiplier effect when an investment is carried out and the opposite happens when money is withdrawn from circulation. Taxation does this. When the Government takes money from the public that is money which the public cannot spend. It is money which private industry cannot spend. If you look at the table which was circulated in reply to one of the questions, we will see that during 1985, 1986 and 1987 a total of $16,910,980 were spent and out of this spending, $2,556,152 were spent in Cayman Brac, roughly about one-eighth. And, if we look at the other table, we will see that the recurrent revenue and expenditure for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman was indeed a sizable sum. The point I am getting at is that out of the $8 million in new taxes, a large proportion, I would not say large, but probably one-sixth to one-eighth was taken each year out of the Cayman Brac economy because the taxes which were imposed from 1984 until now are the type of taxes that were levelled on the small man and were increases in business fees and so on. I do not need to go into the breakdown. But that money which has been squeezed out of Cayman Brac, out of its fragile economy, out of its vulnerable monetary system, has now come back to haunt us, because the system could not stand the milking. This is why I said that Government has helped to wreck the economy of Cayman Brac.

I could go on to mention the fact that the new Government, despite strong opposition on this side, imposed duties on the full airfreight on cargo coming into Cayman Brac, Little Cayman and into Grand Cayman. Cayman Brac is vulnerable in this respect in that, they do import many goods by air but when the Government was imposing this duty there was nothing that we could say that would stop them.

Now today, we begin to see its effect. By taking cash from the businessman, from the private citizen, cash that could have been better spent in improving the business and paying more wages, in purchasing more goods.

The licence fees imposed on businesses also help to hurt the economy and to top this off, there has been, as outlined this week or last week, the big reduction in Capital Expenditures. So, if Cayman Brac suffers, it will have to suffer because the Government has inflicted the damage. The sad part of this is, that the Government does not realise what it has done and even today, will not admit that they have done wrong. I am certain that many of them will be on their feet trying to justify their actions. It is a sad story because the Government is the root of the problems and the Government does not understand and will not admit that the subject of this Motion is necessary because of previous Government's action.

Now I will admit that Cayman Brac has the problem of small size. It is nonsense for Members to say that the Member for George Town should go out in his district and find out what is wrong and the Member from some other district should be looking at his own district. Cayman Brac is not just another district and this is something that the Members should understand. Cayman Brac is a separate island and this means as one Member pointed out, that the people from Cayman Brac cannot drive to the metropolis as they would drive from West Bay and East End to George Town to find jobs. Cayman Brac is unique and has a unique problem. When the Member from George Town brings a Motion to stimulate the economy of Cayman Brac, he has put his finger on the pulse of the economic problems here. Cayman Brac, because it is an island has as it were, to live alone and to provide on a mini scale, all the services which all the districts here enjoy in Cayman and because they have to do this, it is far more expensive. Then, because of their isolation, they find it very difficult for the population to sustain the services which are necessary.

To continue with Cayman Brac's special problems, land is already high priced and it would be very difficult for investors to have the type of speculation which was enjoyed in Grand Cayman when foreign investors started to purchase land here. So, Cayman Brac lacks perhaps, the major incentives and this is one of the reasons that it has been very difficult to get the people into Cayman Brac.

Government itself lost a golden opportunity to have Cayman Brac's economy put on a sound footing. They did not negotiate hard enough with Eastern Airlines when they allowed them to come into Grand Cayman. Eastern had a right to fly into the Cayman islands but it is my understanding that the Civil Aviation Authorities could have dictated the airstrip on which they would land. So, in recent times Government gave away without a fight, the only opportunity or one of the few opportunities they had to provide a boost to the economy of Cayman Brac. In other words, if Eastern had flown into Cayman Brac with continuing flights into Grand Cayman, we might have had the jet service which the Member from Cayman Brac hopes for. Cayman Brac would be enjoying the advantage of international advertisements.

I hear talk about what is going to happen in Cayman Brac between now and the end of next year. If 1986 is any indication, the situation in Cayman Brac will be dismal indeed. I noticed on this table which was circulated to us that the hope for expenditure in Cayman Brac for 1987, that is Capital Expenditure, will be $1,030,760. This is arrived at Sir, by taking the figure that is given for January to July which is $601,294. If we continue to spend at the same rate, we will probably spend $1,030,000 which is nearly a quarter of a million dollars less than what was spent in 1986. So, the hope for bonanza cannot come in 1987 when Government's Capital Expenditure will be substantially below what it was in 1986.

On the local scene, I have been told by Cayman Brackers that the air service with the Shorts is much worse than what they had with the Trilander because, at least, they could take out the seats from the Trilander and bring in some freight. So, there has been no improvement in the air services and I must dwell upon this because one of the essential ingredients in an economy is a reliable communications network - whether it be shipping or aircraft.

I believe, despite what has been said by some Members, Cayman Brac has the potential for tourism. I was surprised to hear one Member say that Cayman Brac has no good sight-seeing, no beaches and so on. I am puzzled by this statement because every visitor to Cayman Brac has been awed by the majestic cliffs on the Bluff, by the bone fishing and beaches of Little Cayman and I might say the friendliness of the Cayman Brac people. So, Cayman Brac has the potential for development, but it is for our Government to believe this and to understand it. This is where the fault is. We are not going strong enough at the things which are necessary because we do not understand the problem.

One Member tried to make fun of the Motion which is before the House and found a lot of fault with the whereas sections of the resolution, but I find no fault in it.

The Motion reads:

"WHEREAS in recent years the economy of the Sister Islands of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman have been depressed;

AND WHEREAS there is no present sign of improvement;

AND WHEREAS numbers of people of the Sister Islands have relocated to Grand Cayman in order to earn sufficient to support their families;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that this Honourable House agree to assist in the stimulation of the economy."

These statements are true. The statements were borne out by Government statistics. Quite recently we heard about a census which was taken - a census which has shown that the population decreased - and there was a substantial decrease. The reasons are varied. It is not only that people have moved away to look for jobs, but families have moved with children to go to school and so on. However, there is a problem and if the decrease continues at the rate that it has in the last three years, pretty soon there would hardly be any people left. It is for Government to recognise these trends and take the steps to correct them.

The Motion seeks a reduction in import duties on all building materials to 2.5 per cent across the board. There are some Members who feel that the reduction in import duties, already implemented by Government, are sufficient, but only time will tell whether they are correct or not.

The mover is seeking a reduction for everybody including, as he likes to call them, the little men. There is great merit to this because it must be difficult, particularly for young couples, to find the money to construct a new house especially since there is a shortage of banks and trust companies offering mortgages that are reasonable.

The First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands mentioned that they are enjoying the relief from duties which are not now charged on freight continuing on from Grand Cayman to the Lesser Islands. If such a small relief can make a difference, how can he argue that this substantial reduction would not be any good for Cayman Brac? The argument has to be hollow.

The mover recommends a reduction to five per cent on all other dutiable imported goods, with the exception of liquor and tobacco products. Some Members say that if this is given to the Cayman Brac, it should also be given to other districts. Well, perhaps there is some truth in it, with the exception that the people who say this do not understand the insularity of Cayman Brac and the fact that it is, as a little kingdom by itself, set out in the middle of the ocean and does not enjoy the benefits of the mainland; and that the cost of doing everything in Cayman Brac has to be much higher. Even while the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands was fighting this section, he also went on to make it clear that Cayman Brac suffers because merchants there, being much smaller, usually purchase goods from merchants here. So the very fact that they are sort of a customer of the merchants here, puts them at a disadvantage - and this could be argued as a reason why the Second Elected Member for George Town put this section in his Motion.

Number 3 of the Motion seeks development of the needed infrastructure facilities. I must say on this that over the last 11 years the Governments have done quite a lot in putting in the infrastructure. The dock is a clear example - and I would just like to deal with this one item, although I could deal with a dozen more.

The dock in Cayman Brac is a classic example. It was never thought that Cayman Brac could have a dock, the type of which it now has. It was not until the matter was discussed with Caribbean Development Bank, and their agreement given, that the Cayman Brac dock or part would become a part of the Port Authority in Grand Cayman, that it would be administered by it, that it would be under its control and that the dock here would pick up the shortfall when it was necessary to make the repayments. The dock here has paid, in the past, many of the payments (I believe all of the payments) on the loan for the Cayman Brac port and they have even had to pay, sometimes, the overdraft to cover the operating expenses. However, it is a wise investment to provide the infrastructure that will be needed if there is ever to be any substantial construction work in Cayman Brac. So, I am not convinced that over the last three years the Government has done enough to carry on the building of this infrastructure. Perhaps this is because so much had been done in the previous eight years. Nevertheless, something has been done and we hear of the new terminal which is to come. The mover has not left his Motion wide open for all times, but has recommended a two-year review.

My colleague, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, made some useful suggestions and I find it easy to agree with both my colleague and the mover because I believe that the Motion before us does not go far enough. This is not to say that the recommendations are not good.

Mr. President, I find it a pleasure to support the Motion because from my first day in the Legislative Assembly I have championed the cause of Cayman Brac and I have had the pleasure of working with the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council over the four years that we spent together in Executive Council. I have had the pleasure of working with him prior to that when he was a solid Member of the opposition camp, and even now I find that he is one Member whom I can relate to because he is what I call a no-nonsense Member. I have found that when he gives me his word, he generally keeps it. The trouble is that he does not give it to me often enough. However, I find it a pleasure to support this Motion, and although he seems to differ from my good friends who presented the Motion, I am certain that when the chips are down he will put his vote along with ours.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak?
The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I am surprised that as much as the last speaker had to say about the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council that he did not instead support the argument which was put forward by him.

Mr. President, I really had no intention of speaking on this Motion because I am sure that the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council and the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands have put their case forward so very carefully, in such detail and so strongly that the rest of Government's bench should really have no problem in understanding the case which they have put forward. But, I would really like to reply to some of the things that were said about the economy of Cayman Brac and in fact, the Cayman Islands because, here, whilst in the House, I represent a constituency, George Town, and in Executive Council I represent the Cayman Islands. So whatever is said about the country affects me one way or another. The public is listening to what goes on in this Honourable House so I believe it behoves us to make it quite clear what the position from the Government's point of view is; apart, Mr. President, from the specific issue which was dealt with by the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council.

The last speaker said that the Motion which is before us has put the issue squarely before this House. In other words, the Second Elected Member for George Town, presenting the Motion, has put his finger on the pulse of the economic problem in Cayman Brac. However, Mr. President, I tend to agree with the suggestion of the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands who said that, in his opinion, politics plays the big part in the Motion before us. Cayman Brac might be suffering somewhat, but all of us suffer. There are large areas in George Town, in my opinion, worse off than Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I have been around Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and I have seen how the people live there... (INTERRUPTION - INAUDIBLE)... Yes, we all say what about George Town? It is quite so. Why not speak about George Town in some of the issues before the House?

Mr. President, speaking of George Town - when we came into Government in November of 1984 we saw people leaning up all around the corners of George Town and other districts who were out of employment... (INTERRUPTION - INAUDIBLE)... Mr. President, I did not disturb any Member when they were speaking.

Mr. President, it was amazing to us that in that sort of situation existing in George Town where people wanted something to do and they wanted to earn a few dollars to help them, but nothing was done about it. Yet, still, they are lambasting this Government which has really in some way, re-established and resurrected a strong economy in this country.

In 1984 that Government spent about $5 million to buy property. My own opinion is that that money could have been spent to build something here, and that would have injected $5 million in the economy of this country rather than putting it into the pocket of one or two people.

That

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

On a point of order, Mr. President, I think what the Honourable Member is saying is quite irrelevant with regard to the Motion before the House - about the money being spent in 1984 by Government to acquire the Tower Building which was very much needed to acquire the property for the sewer plant and so forth. If I was out of order yesterday, I am sure he is irrelevant in what he is discussing this morning, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you. I gave latitude to the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town on this point earlier and I do think I have to give the same latitude here. However, I am watching it. Thank you.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, the accusation was that this Government wrecked the economy of Cayman Brac and that we would have done the same to Grand Cayman if the economy here was not that strong. That is the point which I am trying to make. Who wrecked what is the question? Our memories can be so short.

When we came into Government we found a disaster area along the Seven Mile Beach, formerly known as Paradise Manor. This Government recreated that disaster area.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, please, on a point of order - I am not referring to this book right now, but what the Honourable Member is saying about Paradise Manor is entirely incorrect. The groundwork for the rehabilitation ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

I will take this on a point of clarification or information, but I do not think it is a point of order. Please go ahead.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

What I am saying, regardless of which way it is taken, is that what the Honourable Member is saying is entirely incorrect. The ground work for the rehabilitation of the Paradise Manor had been laid, and laid well in advance of this present administration being elected in 1984. So the House should not be misled. The people of the country should not be misled by this Honourable Member.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Yes, Mr. President, the foundation was laid, but what else? What else? It was

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: What "what else" was, is that what is seen there, the result of what was done by the previous administration. Not by your administration.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Well, Mr. President, it was a good while after the appointment of this Government that anything happened down there, and certainly, what is seen there today - a beautiful hotel - that was done by this Government.
What about the Hyatt?

MR. PRESIDENT: I really think we have pursued this line sufficiently. The Motion is on the economy of the Lesser Islands. We have had latitude to relate this to the economy as a whole. I think we should try to go back to the main subject of the Motion. Thank you.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: I accept the ruling, Sir.
Mr. President, we heard from the two Members for the Lesser Islands that there is a state of full employment in Cayman Brac at the present time. People are applying to the Caymanian Protection Board and pressurising it for work permits. So, Mr. President, I am not too sure what the Motion is really saying because had the situation there been studied and looked upon carefully before the Motion was prepared, then these facts would have been evident. So the need for such a Motion would automatically fall away.

I can assure you, Sir, that this Government lost no time to look at the situation in Cayman Brac from time to time, and at least, over this present administration. We went there and built roads on the Bluff because the people of Cayman Brac said to us that if we built roads there it would open the country to development.

I know, they (previous Government) built the road to the Community Centre, but we built roads stretching out from there right across the country - across the Bluff and invited people there to develop the virgin lands. We spent hundreds of thousands of dollars doing that, Mr. President. We built roads in Little Cayman inviting development there. Development will come. The thing is that people are not patient enough to wait. Already the Members for the Lesser Islands are reporting full employment - oodles of projects on the line to be developed. They are concerned about where labour will come from. So I cannot see what the problem is.

The thing, Mr. President, is that the study of the economy and what is required to move it is a very technical exercise - I will tell you that. Not everyone can understand the subject so well, and so, if one does not understand the subject, one will end up talking a lot and get very confused.... (INTERRUPTION - INAUDIBLE).... Well, that is for you to judge.

Mr. President, as I said, Sir, I did not have any intention of speaking on the Motion, but I just could not let things be said about the economy which is now flourishing and buoyant in the Cayman Islands. Look around the country and see what is out there. See what is going on. Anywhere one turns, Mr. President, activities are there. Everybody is working. We have a state of over-employment. That is why the Caymanian Protection Board is being pressured with applications for new work permits.

Mr. President, let not anyone fool you by saying that we are not aware what the position is. We have created a lot of things in the past three years - a lot of things. We are not here to brag of what we have done. What we have done can be seen by everyone, and, Mr. President, that is the message that I want to leave here today. This country is booming. The economy is buoyant and we are still moving on to continue developing the country.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, most of the speakers which I have heard so far have gotten up and said that they did not intend to speak, but that they are going to speak. Well, I am going to tell you the truth - I intended to speak.

Mr. President, the Motion before the House - Economic Incentives for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman - is a Motion that I do have some support for. I support some of the things in the Motion.

We heard from the two Elected Members for the Lesser Islands who should know exactly what is going on and we have seen some of what Government has tried to do thus far. I supported Government in trying to get outside investors to go to Cayman Brac. That is good. What can one do without foreign investment? However, I feel, Mr. President, that local investors in Cayman Brac must be taken care of as well. That is, if one looks at Cayman Brac and its history - who are the people who built up Cayman Brac? The Cayman Brackers themselves. They built their own hotels, hospitals and everything there except, one could say, for Government's projects. But all private business have been done by Cayman Brackers themselves.

I am not going to prolong this debate, but I feel that I should state my reasons for supporting the Motion.

We hear about financing problems for the people of Cayman Brac. There are many problems that they are facing, but nobody can say they are not facing problems - they are. It a good thing that they can come to this Island and get employment. That is one good thing in the whole picture.

I know some of the business people in Cayman Brac who have told me there are problems that they are facing. For instance one person is a ship owner and my information is that he comes to the dock here - I do not know who is responsible for this - but cannot use the forklift on the dock. There are apparently only special days when he can use the dock. Maybe the Honourable Third Official Member of Executive Council responsible for the Port Authority can enlighten during the break on this. That is just one problem, Mr. President.

We heard about full employment. That is very, very elementary. If there are 20 jobs, but there are only 10 people there is bound to be over-employment. This is just the fact.

In 1978 Cayman Brac had a population of 1,603. Today there is a difference of approximately 200. That can make a large difference when it affects jobs. Those people have moved away. We see them here working; so something must have gone wrong with the economy there.

In supporting this Motion, Mr. President, I do not think anyone could charge me with any dereliction of duty to my constituency. I think that is bunch of rubbish because these are two completely distinct cases. We have a mainland - the large Island and we have two small Islands miles across the sea. Two completely distinct, different cases, and in supporting this Motion I have not done anything against the West Bay constituency.

If it is being said that by giving a further reduction in duty means that we will be taking more revenue from this Island, Mr. President, be it so because we have to do it in many, many other areas. For instance Cayman Airways. We have to pour money into Cayman Airways, but it is a fact that it is needed. We have to support it.

I am going to offer my support to the Motion regardless of what other Members may say. I do not agree with everything in it, but there are relevant sections that can be applied to the situation in the Lesser Islands and I would trust that no Member in this House would say that I am becoming political with it.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Elected Member for East End.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. President, enough has been said on this Motion, so it is my intention to be quite brief.

Let me say that I support the Motion to stimulate economic incentives for the Lesser Islands.

Mr. President, my reason for supporting the Motion before the House is not political. I would like to make that abundantly clear. My reason is based on many complaints that I have received from persons from the Lesser Islands who have actually lived there and have encountered what we are talking about.

I have seen and I have talked with families who have had to relocate here in Grand Cayman for survival and regardless of what has already been said here, there is a problem in the Lesser Islands, and perhaps it is bigger than we think.

Mr. President, I do not believe that the Motion before the House is asking for too much. I believe it is a straight forward Motion and one that takes the trend of the past. Many other incentives have been offered by Government in the past and this is the only thing that the mover and myself were trying to base our Motion on.

It is disheartening, Mr. President, to sit here listening to the many ways in which this Motion has been twisted. It would lead one to believe that this has been one of the worst things in the world that the Second Elected Member for George Town and myself have done. Let me say, Mr. President, I have a clear conscience. I have seconded this Motion and supported it with all good intent for the Lesser Islands. So regardless of what may have been said, I know that I am innocent and I will continue, as long as I am in this House, to do whatever I can, not only for the district of East End, but for these Islands as a whole.

Mr. President, some Members aired the idea that if this Motion is passed, the same would apply to their districts. As the previous speaker pointed out, we are dealing with two completely different things. It leaves one to wonder how short-sighted they could be because many other incentives have been offered to investors in this country and nobody has ever come forward to say that they are going to claim this or that for their district.

We have on the statute book of this land, laws such as the Hotels Aids Law that offers certain investors incentives to try to motivate the construction of hotels. So what are we talking about when we get here and try to paint this Motion black? After all I am not knocking any Member who wants to speak against the Motion because both the Mover and myself felt that, before we brought it here, we were going to come up against a brick wall. But, at least, Mr. President, the people of this country know today where the various Members stand.

The Motion was not an open one. It was clearly stated that after a two-year period it would be reviewed. So why should anyone try to make it sound that we were giving an open-blanket policy to the Lesser Islands? It is only something that we thought would assist to motivate and help a situation that now exists there.

Mr. President, it is a sad day in the history of these Islands when such negative attitudes are displayed in the parliament of the land by knocking a Member when he sees a problem and endeavours to rectify it. Anyway, Mr. President, as I have said before, I seconded the Motion; I stand by that and I hope and trust that Members will have a change of heart.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think we might take our lunch break now ... I am sorry ... the Second Elected Member for West Bay. Do you wish to say something?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Yes, Sir. There is a downpour of rain outside and I think we should carry on - at least for a little while longer.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think actually, from where I sit, it looks as though it is not quite so bad. (LAUGHTER) So we will suspend until a quarter past two. Thank you.

AT 12:44 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2:19 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Proceedings are resumed on Private Member's Motion No.9/B7. Does any Member wish to speak? The Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. BENSON D. EDANKS: Mr. President, my comments on this Motion will be rather short and sweet I hope, and in fact, if the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town had not strayed so far from the Motion I would not have needed to say what I am going to say anyway.

I think that the First and Second Elected Member for the Lesser Islands dealt quite well with the Motion. I believe that what this House should do is to give an opportunity to see what the results of the actions already taken by Government will be. For that reason I have to say that Private Member's Motion No.9/B7 is, in my opinion, unnecessary because I can support the aspect of the Motion which seeks to reduce duty on materials for development purposes, but, Mr. President, I cannot in good faith and conscience support the reduction of import duty on materials to build private housing in Cayman Brac while not doing the same for Grand Cayman; nor can I support the reduction of import duty on items, even foodstuff, to five per cent in Cayman Brac without doing likewise in Grand Cayman.

The concessions for development have been a long established trend in both Islands and therefore the reduction on development material is able to be supported. This is what Government has done. We heard that there are some projects on the way because of what has been done by Government. So, Mr. President, I think it is reasonable to give that a trial and to see what results it produces.

Mr. President, I hope that when I am finished that the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town will decide that it is time that he tried to compose a new ditty for 1988 because what he has been singing since 1972 managed to work in 1976, but I believe that that tune has become a bit sour. It did not work in 1980, it did not work in 1984 and it will not work in 1988. So he should try to learn some new ditties.

With respect to the oil trans-shipment project in Little Cayman, Mr. President, my knowledge of that between 1972 and 1976 was that on one occasion the proprietor behind that motion came one evening after we were dismissed from Executive Council with a representative from Cayman Brac. At that time we sat down and listened to that gentleman - he had a couple of notes on a few sheets of paper torn out of a notebook - we told him that it sounded good, but that we could not give him a decision there. We told him that he should put his proposal in writing and send it into Government and we would consider it and call him in to discuss it if necessary. I have not seen the gentleman since until after 1976. I do not know what happened, Mr. President, whether the proposal could not be put into a proper form or what. But, that is what happened with that. He did come back and do the project for a while after 1976. Of course I am happy to know that the people in Cayman Brac got some work out of it for a while, but unfortunately it did not last as long as most all of us had hoped.

Mr. President, as the old lady from West Bay said about the economy at the moment, I will have to quote that to the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town when he talks about the Government succeeding in stifling the economy in Grand Cayman and that we need to perk it up here. Some of his supporters were telling this lady in West Bay this, and she said, "Well, if they cannot see development now, they should soon bump their foot on it." I will leave him to think about that, Mr. President, because it is a fact that the economy of the Cayman Islands has never been as buoyant as it is today.

I believe, too, that the economy in Cayman Brac will rebound - in fact, it has already started to rebound. That was demonstrated from the figures given to the answer asked by the Mover of this Motion. Revenue has continued to rise and this year looks even better than most. We have heard of the developments that are going on; those that are planned and the fact that there is concern whether they will find sufficient labour to maintain or support the development that is planned.

I would like to make it clear, too, that the 200 and odd people who have left Cayman Brac since the last census or in the last three years, let us say, are not all people in the job market. That 200 persons comprise of wives who did not work in the Brac and a lot of children. So it is not 200 job persons who held jobs in Cayman Brac that have left since the last census and now. I think it serves to show how many people could return if there were even 50 new jobs created in Cayman Brac.

It is not new that people have had, on occasion, to leave Cayman Brac to seek work elsewhere and it is good to know that they do not have to go any further afield than Grand Cayman at the moment to find employment. This means, at least, that many of them can return on weekends.

I have always been one, Mr. President, that once Grand Cayman had reached a certain stage of development there would be an overflow to Cayman Brac, and I feel that this time has arrived. I have made a few trips to Cayman Brac in the last couple of years and each time I go back I see signs of progress in the tourism and its related industries being developed.

The taxes that Government was forced to place on certain items during the last three years was necessary because without that revenue, Government would not have been able to pay its recurrent expenditure much less undertake any capital development. The revenue base of Government had been eroded at that point and, in spite of the fact that we took the bull by the horns and increased taxes in 1985, it means that we have not had to do it since and hopefully not have to in 1987 or 1988.

With regard to Cayman Brac, I would like to point out that in imposing taxes we have always been aware of the special circumstances there and things such as fees for business licences and so on, have always been adjusted downwards. They have been less in Cayman Brac than they have been in Grand Cayman. In many instances, they are 50 per cent of what they are in Grand Cayman.

I believe, as I said before, that the actions taken by Government earlier this year, coupled with the industrious nature of the people in Cayman Brac, will produce the results sought. I believe that the economy of the Lesser Islands is about to take off. The people there, Sir, are hard-working. They, I am sure, would not expect and do not expect any special concessions in their day-to-day cost of living other than to be given a fair break and an opportunity to earn a fair day's pay. This, I believe, they are going to get, and, as I said, I cannot support this Motion that would reduce even duty on foodstuff to five per cent as opposed to the 15 per cent or 20 per cent paid in Grand Cayman. I do not believe it would be fair and therefore I cannot support the Motion.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT: to this debate?

Would the Mover care to exercise his right of reply

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Sir.

Mr. President, I will only touch briefly on the comments made by the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands, but before going into the reply to the contributions to my Motion, I wish to thank each Member who spoke on this Motion - whether they spoke for or against it. This is a sign of true democracy in practice.

I had a number of notes here during the time the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands spoke, but I will only deal with two of the points raised by him.

Whenever I stand in this House and make a statement, I tell the truth. I do not lie. I feel it is infra dig. to lie to any man. When I said that the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands told me that he would support my Motion, I was telling the truth as I am doing now - which I think he confirmed. I will say no more on that.

It appears that he had a change of heart, but this is his prerogative. I do in fact have a great deal of respect for that Member. We have gotten along well for many years and I will not let any indiscretion on his part, at this time, change this.

Another point that was made by him is that he felt that this whole Motion had something to do with my political aims. To give a true chronology of this Motion, it was tabled in this House long before Mr. Gilbert McLean declared his candidacy for the Lesser Islands. I made that quite clear in the presentation of my Motion. Yes, I do support Mr. McLean, but, no, my Motion was not being brought here for political reasons. It was brought because of the obvious needs in Cayman Brac.

It is quite clear to anyone of the problems over here. I have heard Members here say that there is over-employment, but as the Second Elected Member for West Bay said: if there are 10 people, but 20 jobs - that is a situation of over-employment.

The true problem, Mr. President, is that since 1979 over 200 people have left Cayman Brac - a drop of 17 per cent and I would wager a guess that 90 per cent of that drop was in respect of the work force and their families coming to Grand Cayman and moving elsewhere. I cannot see why there was so much bitterness in dealing with this Motion. Members seem to have taken this opportunity to vent their venom.

Also, Sir, I deal with the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council. The Honourable Member said, in his contribution, that there are parts in George Town that are just as bad off as Cayman Brac. My only question to the Member is, what has he, as a Member of Executive Council, done to better any of these situations? ...

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Provided jobs.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

... What has he done? ...

point of order I will give way.

Mr. President, if the Member wants to stop me on a

MR. PRESIDENT:

We will just find out what his point was shall we?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

If he does not wish to stop me on a point of order,

let me continue.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

I will tell you what.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please continue.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Yes, my question is, what has the Honourable Member done to help his constituency of George Town since 14th November, 1984?

He also said that the people of Cayman Brac are not patient enough to wait. "Dodges of projects", he said. Mr. President, it would be interesting to know how many trips the Honourable Member has made to Cayman Brac. His impression otherwise would be much different. I can understand the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council defending his position as I can the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands, because they represent those Islands. It is their duty to defend their position. I am not annoyed that they defended their position. This is their democratic right. But, when a Member speaks of a country that he hardly visits or knows very little about, that is cause for concern. When I speak of Cayman Brac it is because I have always had a keen interest in that Islands and not just because of politics, but because I generally like the people and the Island.

I have a great deal of respect for the Honourable Third Elected Member. He mentioned - I will not go into the details of what he said because I know that deep down in his heart he realises that this is a good Motion, but because of his constitutional obligation under, I believe, section 9 of the Constitution, he has no alternative but to support the Government bench - but he said that each time he went to Cayman Brac he could see signs of development. I wonder whether the Honourable Member will say how often he goes there? Or is it correct that he said that it would not be necessary for him to go since he has just about closed down the schools?

Mr. President, I certainly would not miss this opportunity to exercise my right of reply by responding to the contributions made to my Motion by various Members of this Honourable House. It is a true saying that the only fool bigger than the person who knows it all is the person who argues with him. There is also another quotation that says: "some minds are like concrete thoroughly mixed and permanently set".

Before dealing with the individual contributions of honourable colleagues, I would crave your indulgence, Sir, to comment on that Jamaican proverb that the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council so eloquently quoted in this Honourable House on Thursday the 10th of September in his contribution to the debate on my Motion which asks for certain economic incentives for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

He said, if I quote him correctly: "There is an old Jamaican saying that goes as follows - You throw a stone amongst a herd of swine and the one that bawls is the one that was hit." I can only say in response to this brilliant quotation from him that there was also a lot of bawling from himself and his supporters in response to letters from myself and those who supported my views. But, as in the case of the Honourable Member, I, too, would never refer to him as a swine. I would say one thing, Mr. President, that he however, seems to have much more experience than I do in the ways and antics of that animal.

Enough said on this inappropriate and tasteless quotation from the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council. His quotation was not only in bad taste, but most inappropriate.

Mr. President, the bigger issue before us is not the snide remarks or other unnecessary attacks against me for trying to help the people of Cayman Brac, but indeed the obvious way in which the Lesser Islands have been neglected by the Honourable Third Elected Member. The Hansard of this Honourable House will show that the presentation of my Motion was most comprehensive and couched in the simplest of language in the best Queen's English, as the saying goes. But, Sir, I cannot be blamed if the Honourable Third Elected Member does not understand basic economics and finance. The most I can do in the circumstances is offer to assist him and the Elected Member for North Side in courses in basic economics and finance on my time off - usually on Saturday mornings.

My first instinct in listening to the contribution made by the Elected Member for North Side was to not comment on what he said. I find it most difficult to find any substance in what he had to say on which to comment. It is very difficult indeed, Sir. It was obvious to me that the Elected Member did not understand my Motion or fully absorbed the contents of my presentation; and, that in his usual rambling style, replied as the self-appointed expert for the group. This is the reason, Mr. President, that earlier I referred to the saying: "that the only fool bigger than the person who knows it all is the person who argues with him". However, Mr. President, I am not referring to the Elected Member as a fool.

Early in the contribution made by the Elected Member for North Side, he actually inferred that he did not understand what the Motion was all about when he said, and I quote: "I cannot support the Motion because it would give Cayman Brackers many advantages not available to my constituents.". How selfish, Mr. President.

It is obvious that the Member did not understand that the effect of my Motion would provide work opportunities to the people of the Sister Islands - a situation that we cannot complain of in Grand Cayman. We have an over-employment situation even after absorbing all the Cayman Brackers who were forced to seek employment in Grand Cayman.

Perhaps, if the Elected Member had given himself sufficient time to study and understand my Motion, he would have been in a better position to have made a more meaningful contribution to it. I am therefore sorry that I could not find more substance in his contribution on which to reply. However, I can fully understand that he has just returned from a long flight from Malaysia and could possibly have still been suffering from jet lag.

In rounding off my response to the contribution made by the Elected Member for North Side, I am reminded of the words of George Bernard Shaw who said: "He knows nothing, he thinks he knows everything - that clearly points to a political career.".

Regarding my comments regarding the positive aspects of the economic theories of the multiplier effect, I am sure any of the other Executive Council Members or perhaps Members from this side of the House would be pleased to explain this to him and to the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council. I have already offered my assistance in my spare time.

Mr. President, it was Pope Pious who said "a little learning is a dangerous thing - drink deeper, taste not the Perrian Springs, their shallow drafts intoxicate the brain and drinking largely sobers us again".

Moving on to the contribution made by the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council - if I can call it a contribution - as one of his constituents, not mine, said to me in a telephone conversation following my debate on my Motion, that the Honourable Third Elected Member seemed to have given new meaning to the word contribution. Many of them were disappointed. A number of the influential Cayman Brackers called me and told me that they voiced their disappointment at the response of the Honourable Third Elected Member to my Motion.

I can excuse the Elected Member for North Side for not understanding my Motion as I do not believe he had sufficient time study it or to absorb the details of my comprehensive presentation to the Motion. Also, as I said, he could possibly have had ill effects from jet lag. But, Sir, I cannot excuse the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council as he had ample time to study and understand my Motion.

It is obvious that the Honourable Third Elected Member did not understand my Motion; neither did he appreciate the purpose and intent of the Motion for him to have said in his contribution, that events have overtaken its usefulness. This is not only an insult to his constituents whose interest he should be representing, but it shows a pitiful lack of comprehension and understanding on his part. It is no wonder, Mr. President, that the people of Cayman Brac are experiencing such a rough time.

The Honourable Member attempted to show me in bad light because I have shown that my interest for my fellow Caymanians transcends petty group or electoral constituency politics, but that it is of national significance. I would invite the Honourable Member to walk or drive around George Town and ask my constituents if they honestly feel that I, the Second Elected Member for George Town, have neglected them in any way. He is invited to do this.

I would further request that he does this in my absence. I am sure that he will be surprised to learn that my constituents generally feel that I am doing and have done all I possibly can to help them, and that I would accomplish much more for them if my hands were not tied. A lot of what I would like to accomplish is decided upon by himself and the other Honourable Members of Executive Council.

I have had a number of motions passed in this House so I cannot complain if one or two of them are not passed as I feel will happen. But, to date, Mr. President, I have yet to see any action taken on those motions. They were just passed to placate me - not in the interest of my people or the people of the Cayman Islands because no action has been taken on them. There are a number of roads, lights, repairs to homes, etcetera, that I would like to have put in place, but unfortunately, only certain favourite backbenchers get any attention. I wonder though, whether the Honourable Third Elected Member can truthfully say that he has done all he could for his constituents in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I would remind him that many of his constituents have said to me that they feel that they have been neglected.

The Honourable Member said that his moving from Cayman Brac to live in Grand Cayman is no different from my leaving East End to live in George Town. Again, a brilliant revelation of the lack of knowledge and understanding. It is true that some 28 years ago I left East End and have been living in George Town ever since. What the Honourable Member fails to understand is that I am in fact living in the same constituency that I represent and have been living here for almost 30 years. I am not divided from my people by 90 miles of water. On the other hand, the Honourable Member, as I mentioned, is not in the same situation as me. He is separated from his people by approximately 90 miles of water, and from what I am told, he is rarely available to deal with their day-to-day problems. I am always available - 24 hours of the day. My telephone rings at all times of the night and I answer it. If necessary I get out of my bed and deal with the problem.

Mr. President, I do not think that I need to say more on this because it should be quite clear that there is no comparison with the Honourable Member living in Grand Cayman representing Cayman Brac and my leaving East End to live in George Town and representing the people of George Town. Would the Honourable Member honestly admit that in all his life that he has not spent more than approximately 15 to 20 years in Cayman Brac in succession? He can clear that up if I am wrong. I also know a lot of the old-timers in Cayman Brac and I do my homework.

How well does the Honourable Member really know his constituents? No wonder some other caring politician such as myself, has had to look after his constituents and the interest of our fellow Caymanians in the Lesser Islands. If the Honourable Member is as interested in his constituents as he claims, why did he not advise them of the unspent $3 million, which, if spent, would have certainly improved the economic conditions of these Islands? Why did he not advise them of this? Was it because he did not know that this money was still pending? How aware is he about the conditions of the people of his own constituency?

Mr. President, I felt justified in bringing this Motion because I can truthfully say that I have looked after the interest of my people to the best of my ability and within the constraints of the present system of Government. Why is it that the Honourable Member for the Lesser Islands is only now finding out about the $3 million which he hopes to spend in the next few months? Is this indeed where politics is being played? Is this the election ploy being played? Is this the election ploy that he alluded to? Yes, Mr. President, to use the same words of the Honourable Member - "one can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time". I know that saying too.

The Honourable Member said that he was not offended by Mr. Linton Tibbetts' alternative. He blamed the press that he was misquoted or otherwise got the wrong impression. I really wonder. He said that he disagreed with Mr. Linton Tibbetts because he tried to change the recommendations unilaterally.

I, like many others with whom I have discussed this matter, feel that he was upset with Mr. Tibbetts because his alternatives were not the same as those contained in my Motion or because his alternatives were the same as those contained in my Motion. This is why the Honourable Member said that my Motion should be called Mr. Linton Tibbetts' motion. Mr. President, I was insulted by that remark. Most Caymanians, if not all, know my background and know that I am intelligent enough not to need Mr. Linton Tibbetts', or anybody else's assistance to bring a motion to this House. Can the Honourable Member say the same?

Mr. President, it was Abraham Lincoln who said "it is better to remain silent and be thought a fool than to speak out and remove all doubts". The Honourable Member said that the fact that I supported my Motion by figures provided by parliamentary questions shows that I had no knowledge of the true position of Cayman Brac's economy. I would have thought that my wanting to support my Motion with facts and figures would have been better than talking off the top of my head.

When I come to this House I like to have as many facts and figures as possible. I wonder though, whether even at this late stage, the Honourable Member really understands the state of the economy of the Lesser Islands. No one really needs statistics to see the economic stagnation in Cayman Brac as this is most evident.

During the break, Mr. President, the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council managed to find somebody to convince me that the situation was very good in Cayman Brac, but the poor gentleman was so confused because he must have been told what to say. He even got the facts wrong. This is not fair.

I wonder whether the Honourable Third Elected Member will one day tell this Honourable House the true facts surrounding the aborting of the condominium development that was proposed for Little Cayman by the developers Messrs. Linton Tibbetts, Heber Arch and Keith Balwin, early last year, which would have amounted to millions of dollars. But, Sir, alas, this project was made to flop.

I wonder whether the economy of the Lesser Islands would not have been much improved today had he not kicked against a reduction in import duty on the materials to be brought in for this condominium development? I wonder whether the people of Cayman Brac have all the facts on this matter? What were the other considerations that resulted in destroying this planned condominium development? This would have brought a lot of work, not only for the people of Cayman Brac, but for the few who live in Little Cayman. The people of the Lesser Islands deserve to know.

The Honourable Member stood in this Honourable House on Thursday last and said that Cayman Brac has not been neglected. How then can he explain the 17 per cent drop in that Island's population? He further said that there is enough work and that no one is out of work. Perhaps he is right, but he failed to state that most of the young people and other workers have had to come to Grand Cayman to seek employment.

While we, in Grand Cayman, are happy to have the Cayman Brackers come and live amongst us, it is indeed unfair for them to have to close up their homes and leave their families and friends behind in order to earn a living in Grand Cayman and elsewhere. How would we in Grand Cayman like to have to leave our homes to go to some other country or some other island to make a living?

Mr. President, why is there such a flurry recently to get something moving in Cayman Brac? Could it be because the 1988 elections are right around the corner?

The Honourable Member stated in this House, on Thursday last, that he really did nothing of consequence to address the problems in Cayman Brac until after the First Elected Member for the Lesser Islands, in debating the Throne Speech in February, made reference to the grave economic situation there. This is the reason why his committee was not formed until February this year when there were obvious signs from three years ago that things were going bad.

Why was it that the main meeting of his committee took place only in June this year - just some three months ago? And, then he got Executive Council to rush through his concessions. Mr. President, it was one month after knowledge of my Private Member's Motion.

It is no wonder, Mr. President, that the Honourable Member claims that my Motion was overtaken by events. It would seem that he deliberately set out to tackle a number of the problems raised in my Motion prior to it being presented to this Honourable House.

Mr. President, had the Honourable Member dealt properly with the problems in the Lesser Islands I would have been happy to have withdrawn my Motion - and I told the Member this. I told him, and he cannot deny this, that if he brought realistic concessions for Cayman Brac I would have withdrawn my Motion. However, instead of working along with me and other Members of this Honourable House to really help our fellow Caymanians in the Lesser Islands, he has instead, recommended concessions that will have the effect of benefiting only the "fat-cats". Yes, his recommendations will only help the Islands in the long-term - if at all.

I was not asking for his recommendations to be totally scrapped, but that more assistance be given to the average Cayman Bracker who needs immediate assistance; and, as I said in the presentation of my Motion, they need that help now. Not in three to four years time, but now.

As I said earlier, the Cayman Brackers who have telephoned since the airing of my Motion and the reply, in particular, from the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council, whom they elected to give them good representation, told me that they are comforted by the fact that there seems to be light beyond the tunnel. They also said that they hope that 1988 will bring them that light and hope. They further told me that they need good solid representation.

Yes, Sir, the Honourable Third Elected Member's own constituents called me from Cayman Brac and congratulated me for standing up for them. Regardless of the abuse that I get in this House from the Honourable Member or any other Member, I will continue to stand up for what I think is right. Nobody will intimidate me. I am not made of that kind of weak stuff. The Members of this House should know that. I think in my three years here thus far they should know that.

I want the people of the Cayman Islands to understand that while I do in fact have a great love and respect for the people of Cayman Brac, I will not stand idly by and see Caymanians, from any constituency, in the Cayman Islands suffer unnecessarily. We are Caymanians. Regardless of whether we live in Grand Cayman, Cayman Brac or Little Cayman we are all Caymanians, and we should be big enough now to be looking at that fact with the national pride that it deserves.

Of course I realise that there is a certain amount of poverty in my constituency of George Town, but my people know that I am doing my best to cope with this problem. However, Mr. President, no one living in Grand Cayman can truthfully say that there is a shortage of work here. The problem in Cayman Brac is the lack of work opportunities and why Members cannot differentiate is beyond me. We are talking about apples and oranges. How can the Honourable Executive Council Members who spoke on this, in particular, not understand the difference?

It should be abundantly clear, even to the Elected Member of North Side, that the situation is much different in Cayman Brac than what exists here in Grand Cayman. Let us not be selfish politicians who will say that the only way that the Sister Islands can be helped is if the same concessions are given to Grand Cayman when we should understand that the purpose of the concessions for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is to stimulate the economy of those Islands. If this stimulation was not needed, why then did the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council recommend the concessions that he did? My position is that those concessions recommended by him and his committee are woefully inadequate and will only help the more wealthy individuals such as people wishing to retire in the Sister Islands. It seems that the Honourable Member wishes to have the Islands filled up with people of retirement age, when in fact a large percentage of those 1,300 people now living there are reaching retirement age.

I have already pointed out the impracticability of stimulating the economy in short-term through the methods recommended by the Honourable Third Elected Member, but, Mr. President, as I said in presenting my Motion there is none so blind as he who refuses to see.

Regarding the demise of the oil transfer project in the Sister Islands - the causes of the world economic depression that caused the slump on world markets are well known throughout the world. Other countries even more directly and severely affected than the Cayman Islands took the necessary measures to help their people recover. Why then did not the Honourable Third Elected Member do all he could to help his people after the flop of the oil transfer business in Cayman Brac?

The Honourable Member said that there are present signs of improvements in the economy. However, it is a pity that something was not done in the last three years following the 14th November 1984 General Elections to avoid the exodus of a significant percentage of the work force in Cayman Brac. Why is it indeed that efforts are only now being made - just one year away from November 1988?

The Honourable Member stated in his contribution that he had received a letter from Tiara Beach Hotel complaining of the serious labour problems there. I am not surprised about the situation when in fact, most of the people, most of the work force, of Cayman Brac have had to leave their homes to work in Grand Cayman. It is no wonder that they are having a problem finding people to work. They are all over here. This is the reason that Hotel and other businesses will have a problem with labour and this will continue until there are more job opportunities created in the Sister Islands.

It should be noted that work in the hotel industry is seasonal. How could the Honourable Member reasonably expect people to leave their full-time, 12-months-a-year jobs to go over to Cayman Brac, root up their home life here, go to Cayman Brac for three months and to be put out of a job for the remaining nine months? This would not be practical or feasible.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Could I interrupt you? Would it be convenient for us to break now?

MR. LINEORD A. PIERSON:

Yes, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

We will suspend for fifteen minutes.

AT 3:18 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3:40 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated.

Proceedings are resumed, but before the Second Elected Member for George Town continues on his reply, there are a couple of business matters.

First of all there is a suggestion that we should sit until about 5:00 o'clock this afternoon in order to complete our proceedings in a fewer number of days. If Members have no objection then we will sit until 5:00 o'clock today. Would that be acceptable?

MR. JOHN B. McLEANS:

Mr. President, I will have to leave at 4:30 o'clock. I have a prior commitment.

Mr. President, I will have to leave at 4:30

MR. PRESIDENT:

Well, since I think you are involved in the next Motion we will I think have to adjourn at 4:30 o'clock today - depending how it goes. If you feel able to leave having seconded the next Motion.

STANDING ORDER 24(6)

DEFERMENT OF PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 11/87

Then the second matter is procedural. By an oversight on the Business Paper, four motions were entered for the Second Elected Member for George Town. Under Standing Order only three motions are permitted for any Meeting from any given Member. So, after consultation with the Second Elected Member for George Town, he has decided to defer, to a future Meeting, Private Member's Motion No. 11/87 in regard to the Caymanian Protection Law.

We felt we should make this announcement for public information as well as information for Members of the House.

Thank you. We will now resume Private Member's Motion No. 9/87.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 9/87

(CONTINUATION OF DEBATE)

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, in continuing with the reply to the contribution made to Private Member's Motion No. 9/87 that deals with economic incentives for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, I would refer to a statement also made by the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council who said that the Superintendent of the Public Works Department in Cayman Brac was also finding it difficult to find sufficient people to work.

The answer again is quite simple. The reason for this shortage of labour is, as I have stated before, that most of the work force has left Cayman Brac to come and work in Grand Cayman.

The Honourable Member in his reply to my Motion also said that the 17 per cent drop in the population of the Sister Islands was much less than anticipated. I was surprised to hear him make this admission. Perhaps, like others, seeing how badly the economy had been left to stagnate and the shortage of labour that resulted, he was indeed surprised that more people did not leave. Is this something for him to feel pleased about? What indeed is his justification for making such a statement? A 17 per cent drop in any populations is a situation for much concern. He should be asking the question as to the reasons for this drop in the population of Cayman Brac and he should have done something constructive long ago to prevent the obvious decline in the population.

It is the Honourable Member's responsibility to offer his people the best possible representation. It is his responsibility to ensure that there is sufficient work in the Lesser Islands to avoid the work force having to leave their homes to seek employment in Grand Cayman. Yes, Mr. President, he is responsible and cannot at this stage, attempt to gloss over this problem. The damage has already been done. He, in fact, admitted that the reasons the young people were leaving Cayman Brac were due to the lack of jobs there. If most of them have come to Grand Cayman to look for work, then it is because the situation became intolerable for them in Cayman Brac.

I would suggest to the Honourable Member that he should look at this problem again and perhaps, before I conclude here, he would change his mind and try to change the minds of the other Honourable Members of Executive Council to support this Motion, because by this he must see that it is a good Motion indeed.

As I said earlier, as far as the Elected Member for North Side is concerned, I cannot understand the basis for his contribution. He may need more than 7 votes in 1988 if indeed his people are being neglected by him to the same extent as those who have been neglected in Cayman Brac. However, his people can rest assured that as long as I am in this Honourable House I will not sit back and see them suffer. In case the Elected Member does not know, I, too, have a lot of friends and relatives in his constituency of North Side. So I would advise him to really look after his people as I am doing in George Town, or I may be forced to support a candidate against him in the next election.

The Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council in dealing with the Resolve section of my Motion said that if Government gave a 2.5 per cent concession on building materials as suggested in my Motion, the people of Grand Cayman would want and deserve the same. I can only say in reply to those remarks that again, it is quite clear that the Honourable Member does not understand the purpose of my Motion.

The answer to my Motion is quite clear. It is quite clear and quite simple that the people of Grand Cayman recognise that the situation is very serious in Cayman Brac; and also that my recommendations are for a period of two years only for the sole purpose of boosting the economy of the Sister Islands. It is not intended for this to go on year-in and year-out. It is only intended for a two-year period to give an immediate boost to the economy. It is not the intention that these concessions would be fixed for an indefinite period.

I am sure, Sir, that the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council must understand what I am saying. Most Grand Caymanians and a large part of his own constituency understand the purpose of the Motion. It seems that this Honourable Member and the Elected Member for North Side, and a few others of their hard-core supporters, are the only individuals who refuse to understand the purpose of my Motion and the fact that the situation that has existed in Cayman Brac over the past years is much, much different than the situation in Grand Cayman. The basic difference is that Grand Cayman has a very buoyant economy and Cayman Brac has a stagnant economy. That is the basic difference, but it is a major difference.

Mr. President, I trust that when the time comes for voting on the Motion, Members of this Honourable House will realise that to support my Motion is to say to the Cayman Brackers; yes, we care and no we are not selfish individuals who only care for our own constituents, but, rather, in addition to looking after the needs of our constituents we also do not want to see any Caymanian suffer regardless of the electoral district involved. Our interest must go beyond our own selfish political ambitions. Let us be statesmen who are interested in the national interest of all Caymanians - be they from Grand Cayman, Cayman Brac or Little Cayman.

Mr. President, a two-year period of reductions in the current revenue of Cayman Brac will not cause any strain on our revenue in the long-term. As I have demonstrated here in this Honourable House, the interaction of the economic theory of the multiplier effect would more than replace any revenue lost in the short-term, and would have the other advantage of bringing immediate assistance to our fellow Caymanians in the Sister Islands.

Needless to say, again, Mr. President, this Motion was brought to help the people of the Lesser Islands and I am sure that the majority of the people of Grand Cayman agree with me on the interest I am showing in the welfare of the people of the Sister Islands. Grand Caymanians are not selfish people who would want to see the residents of our Lesser Islands suffer in any way.

The Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council correctly said that my first consideration should be for my people of George Town, and believe me, my first consideration has always been and will continue to be for my constituents. I have already invited the Honourable Member to check with my constituents to ascertain the truth of this statement.

My people believe in the Caymanian way of live and let live. They also know that I have in the past given them good representation and will continue to do so. So there is no use of the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council or any other Member trying to put a red herring across the track. My people cannot be brainwashed. They know me.

Again, I was amazed to hear the Honourable Member relate to this House what other private sector individuals were doing to help the economy of Cayman Brac. However, it was very noticeable that not once did he mention what he had done. I wonder if this conspicuous omission on his part was out of modesty or simply because he had done nothing. The people of Cayman Brac have the answer.

Mr. President, as you and the listening public will note, I am dealing more with the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council than with any other Member who spoke in this House. There is a reason for this, Sir, because he is indeed the Executive Council Member elected to look after the people of Cayman Brac. There is nothing personal against him. He knows that. The same way he shook my hand when he was through with his contribution and said: "Old boy, no hard feelings." I hope that when I am through I can do the same with him. There are no hard feelings. I have a lot of respect for the Honourable Member, but the truth is the truth.

The Honourable Third Elected Member said that I could not be serious in the resolve section of my Motion which says, and I quote:

"BE IT RESOLVED that goods transferred to Grand Cayman, from the Sister Islands, during this two-year period be subjected to existing rates of import duty in Grand Cayman to avoid any person(s) attempting to abuse an incentive which is specifically intended to benefit the people and economy of the Sister Islands."

I believe, Mr. President, that the Honourable Member understands exactly what is involved in this section and what it is intended to prevent. Basically, this is trying to prevent any merchants operating in Grand Cayman trans-shipping goods from Cayman Brac which have been subjected to the reduced import duties. This should not be abused by anyone doing business in Grand Cayman. It is intended for the people living in the Lesser Islands. This is what is meant, and I believe that the Honourable Member understands this.

I have heard that certain merchants may be importing yams grown in Jamaica through Cayman Brac in order to obtain duty-free concessions here in Grand Cayman. This is one of the reasons why that was put in the resolve section. It is to prevent any possible abuse.

The Honourable Member said that the concessions recommended in my Motion would have the effect of demoralising the people of Cayman Brac. Again, I can only say that I feel sorry for his regrettable lack of perception and understanding. The fact is that they are already demoralised. Thank goodness, however, I believe there is someone out there who will deliver the people of the Lesser Islands out of their present bondage and situation - just as Moses delivered the children of Israel out of the hands of Pharaohs.

The Honourable Member used a number of proverbs and sayings which were totally unconnected to my Motion, and in my opinion, Mr. President, are really relevant only to himself. One such Chinese saying he said was to the effect that "give a man a fish and he can feed himself today, but if you teach him to fish he will feed himself forever". Very true, Mr. President, but the situation in Cayman Brac is that the Honourable Member has neglected to give his people the proverbial equipment to fish with. This is where they have been totally neglected. They have no fish and they have no means of fishing.

I think I have made my position quite clear in replying to this Motion. Defeated or supported I feel justified in what I am doing. I know that there is no question of political leanings in this Motion. My private political leanings are my own. I am sure as the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council has, I have the right to my own private political leaning.

Mr. President, in concluding my reply to the contributions of various Members, I wish to thank those who have spoken on the Motion. Whether they were in favour or against the Motion they have indeed exercised their democratic rights. I trust that this Honourable House and the listening public have fully appreciated the purity of my intentions. I believe, Sir, that this Motion will long be remembered for the people of the Cayman Islands and, in particular, the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

They will be the judge of the wisdom of my Motion. They, Mr. President, will in their own way show to the world whether or not they are pleased with the present situation by exercising their franchise or by making whatever changes they deem necessary in the future.

Mr. President, I feel I have done my best in identifying the problem and in proposing workable solutions. Unfortunately, from the contributions made on this Motion, it is quite clear to me that it will not get the majority support of this House. A sad day indeed.

It is a sad day, Mr. President, when politics clog good common sense and deprive the people of rightful entitlement. I would nonetheless again ask this Honourable House for their full support in this Motion. Think of your fellow Caymanians and put aside political differences.

May I appeal to all Honourable Executive Council Members to ask the President to relieve them of their collective responsibility under the Constitution that they may vote their conscience. What we need in here today is a vote of conscience.

In closing, Mr. President, it seems most appropriate under the circumstances that I should use the same quotation used by the Honourable Third Elected Member as it seems to apply to him more than it does to me. However, let the people be the judge of this. One can fool all of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but one cannot fool all of the people all of the time. The day of reckoning is drawing near.

Thank you, Mr. President.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 10/87
LOW-COST HOUSING

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I wish to move Private Member's Motion No. 10/87 on Low-Cost Housing, standing in my name, which reads:

"WHEREAS there is a need for low-cost housing within the Cayman Islands;

AND WHEREAS it is very difficult for the lower income residents of these Islands to qualify for financing for housing through the banks and the Housing Corporation;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that this Honourable House agree to provide an appropriate system of arranging mortgage financing for housing purchases through commercial banks for lower income applicants."

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. President, I beg to second the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Private Member's Motion No. 10/B7 has been duly moved and seconded.

Would the Mover wish to speak to it?

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, before dealing with the text of my Motion, I wish to record my acknowledgment of the efforts made thus far by the Chairman of the Housing Development Corporation and to commend the Board for its efforts made to provide the necessary financing for the Corporation.

I would also register my appreciation and thanks to the financial institutions in the Cayman Islands which contributed to the Housing Development Corporation through the purchase of debenture stock.

It was also satisfying to hear the advertisement on the radio advising Caymanian residents who qualify to take advantage of the attractive terms attaching to loans offered through the Corporation.

Mr. President, these are all positive actions by the Corporation and which are good. However, with all the attractive terms offered by the Corporation - 9 per cent interest rate and up to 20 years' repayment terms - many of our poorer people are still not able to afford to build or purchase a home. To even get their application processed, they are forced to pay a CI$200 deposit fee which is totally lost if the application is unsuccessful - or this was the case until very recently. To some persons, CI$200 may seem insignificant, but to many of the poorer individuals in our Islands, CI$200 means a lot. I have recently heard that this fee is being reduced, however, and have heard a public announcement to that effect.

The Housing Development Corporation was established in 1981 with its main objective to provide opportunities to Caymanian residents to build and own their homes. In 1983, the Housing Development Corporation received a grant of CI$137,000 for setting up expenses. Since then Government has raised funds from private financial institutions secured by debenture stock.

According to the Corporation's report for the years ended 30th June, 1985 and 1986, the Corporation is now seeking external financing through the Caribbean Development Bank. So, Mr. President, the management of the Corporation of past or present Governments cannot be faulted in their attempts to obtain the necessary funds to make its operation a viable concern.

What can be justifiably criticised, however, is the stringent requirements for eligibility for mortgage financing, the conditions to be fulfilled and the standards to be met by the borrower.

Under the present guidelines of the loan programme, borrowers from the Corporation are expected to pay at least 10 per cent of the loan in order to qualify. Unfortunately, many applicants in dire need are not financially able to find the required 10 per cent deposit. Believe it or not, there are many Caymanians who live on or below the subsistence level - not out of choice, Mr. President, but out of necessity.

It is my understanding that the Housing Development Corporation will consider assisting potential clients with either the building of a house or the purchase of an existing house. However, the maximum valuation of the completed house cannot exceed CI$55,000 with a maximum loan of CI$45,000.

Under the present system it is almost next to impossible for the very poor individuals to receive any help. The system is not designed to help the poor. While it is true that an equal opportunity may exist for potential borrowers, this incentive is negated by the qualifications required, and which are acceptable to the Corporation and its institutional investors.

As acknowledged earlier, while I can fully appreciate, conceptually, what the Housing Development Corporation is trying to achieve, it is true to say that the statistics of unsuccessful applicants is sufficient proof that the whole of the system requires restructuring.

Might I suggest, Sir, to the Corporation that the first major important exercise to be undertaken by it, or by Government, is to conduct a comprehensive survey to determine those individuals who are unable to fulfill the 10 per cent deposit requirement. And, on the basis of this information, decide how best to satisfy the housing need in the Cayman Islands.

Since the Chairman of the Corporation is also a Member of Executive Council, it should really not be a difficult task for the Corporation and Government to develop the necessary liaisons and cooperation, in determining and satisfying acceptable criteria for low-cost housing in the Cayman Islands.

Under the present system, if a poor family cannot afford to put up, sometimes, a substantial deposit, he can be deprived of needed accommodation - a situation which should not be allowed in the Cayman Islands. Again, one has to consider the cost of living in the Cayman Islands and determine how much can be done with CI$45,000 towards building a home, especially where the cost of the land is included in that amount.

Mr. President, under the present system, if someone has a house that will be valued in excess of CI$55,000 upon completion, he is told that he cannot obtain a loan. Worse still, what about those individuals who are turned away without any assistance at all - merely on the basis that they are too poor to qualify?

Because of these restrictive policies, the very nice sounding advertisements on the radio are not only unrealistic, but somewhat misleading. I would have thought that the administration of the Housing Development Corporation would have by this time developed a system for more appropriately and effectively dealing with the problems of potential borrowers of varying financial backgrounds.

Our Government, together with the Housing Development Corporation, should now be considering a more long-term plan designed to satisfy the housing needs of those unfortunate individuals. Something should be done to assist those individuals who cannot find the 10 per cent deposit, but who are nonetheless, in a position to meet a reasonable amortized repayment schedule which would also include the capital cost of land and building. This concept is not at all unprecedented as many of our Caribbean neighbours have adopted such a system in order to provide the necessary housing for the poorer and less fortunate citizens.

Jamaica and the Bahamas are but two examples of a number of countries that provide housing for their people without subjecting them to the hassles of prohibitive deposits and the requirements to provide the land for the building. It is my understanding, Mr. President, that we are fortunate to have someone of your calibre and experience in housing, and I believe that the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council should perhaps sit with you and discuss this matter.

May I take this opportunity to state that the Manager of this Corporation, Mrs. Angela Miller, is a lady for whom I have a lot of respect. She is a very intelligent and capable lady, so any statement made by me in my presentation of this Motion, or in my reply, which may appear critical, should not be misinterpreted to be a criticism of this good lady. After all, I, like many, realise that she has to be guided by the Housing Development Corporation Law and guidelines that she has to work with.

In Friday's (31st July, 1987) issue of the Caymanian Compass an article appeared on the front page of that paper captioned: "Higher property values to be allowed for Housing Development Corporation Mortgages". Mr. President, in the article referred to which appeared in the Caymanian Compass, Mrs. Miller who is the General Manager of the Corporation is quoted as saying: "We think that these changes ...", referring to the increase from C$40,000 to C$55,000 in maximum value of property, "have produced realistic limits, bearing in mind that the aim is always to concentrate on the needs of the lower-income person.". However, I think I have already demonstrated to the House that the whole system is unrealistic. What the Corporation has really done is heighten the hopes and expectations of our people without having a realistic proposal to offer them - and one indeed, that the majority of the people can afford.

The General Manager of the Housing Development Corporation went on to say: "We seek to help people achieve their own homes, but we cannot ignore the need to safeguard the Corporation's investment.". I will repeat that: "... but we cannot ignore the need to safeguard the Corporation's investment."

Mr. President, perhaps this philosophy of the Corporation is the main reason for its unrealistic policies. Perhaps this is the main reason why so many people are being turned away who cannot qualify for loans. In order, therefore, for the Housing Development Corporation to operate effectively, Government will have to formulate a policy designed to take into account assistance to those who are not in a position to meet the present stringent requirements of the Corporation. Consideration must be given to those who may be able to meet monthly mortgage payments, but who cannot find the required 10 per cent deposit or the required land on which to build a house.

The social issues surrounding many of these cases are not being properly addressed or even considered. The need for adequate housing is an increasing problem for many of our people, and, unlike remarks that I have heard, I do not accept that all these individuals in need are lazy people. I cannot accept that, Sir. What is true is that many of these individuals are hard-working people who are the victims of circumstances and who really only need the opportunities such as the people in Cayman Brac.

What, indeed, is our Government doing to help these people? Are the measly poor relief handouts enough? What are the pillars of society doing other than making life more difficult for those who really try to earn a decent living? What is really being done to help our fellow Caymanians as a whole? These are the questions to be answered.

Mr. President, my Motion states that it is very difficult for the lower-income residents of these Islands, including Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, to qualify for financing for housing through the banks and the Housing Development Corporation. I trust that the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council is listening to this, because provision is made in this Motion to help those people.

To some extent my Motion may have been overcome by certain, very recent developments within the banking institutions. It is my understanding that certain commercial banks are now considering offering long-term loans up to 20 or 25 years and interest rates as low as 11 per cent.

If my efforts have had any effect in bringing this about, I can only say that the consideration of this Motion would not have been in vain. I trust, however, that major considerations will also be given to setting other guidelines for obtaining mortgages that will make those mortgages more attainable to the lower-income individuals. The reason, therefore, why I have brought this Motion is to request this Honourable House to agree to provide an appropriate system of arranging mortgage financing for housing purchases through commercial banks for lower-income applicants; also to offer a more realistic system for poorer individuals - not for those wealthy people who can well afford to put up the necessary collateral, but for the poor people and for the less fortunate amongst us.

Mr. President, in order therefore for such a system to work, Government may have to give urgent consideration to providing land for a proper housing scheme. Government may have to work out a suitable level of interest rates for those who really need such assistance and in certain cases may have to provide accommodation free of cost for those who just cannot afford to meet any financial obligations at all - even though I realise that this would have to be on the recommendation of the Social Services Department after proper means tests have been carried out on particular applicants.

Mr. President, it will be necessary, initially, for Government to appoint a special committee perhaps comprised of members of the banking sector, together with members of the Housing Development Corporation and Members of Government to investigate ways and means to best cope with the low-cost housing problem in the Cayman Islands. As a result of the deliberations of such a committee it is hoped that an appropriate system for mortgage financing can be formulated through the cooperation of both the commercial banks and the Housing Development Corporation, and no doubt, appropriate plans for a proper housing scheme can be formulated.

Without rent controls and affordable mortgages, the problem of affordable housing will continue to worsen. With the 500 banks and 300 insurance companies registered in the Cayman Islands, I am sure that much more can be done to provide the necessary financing if this matter is handled properly and in the spirit of mutual respect and cooperation. We cannot force people into making investments, but, Mr. President, if we show them the mutual respect, then we will go a long way.

I was shocked to read in a local publication that certain expatriates working in the Cayman Islands are qualifying for 100 per cent financing - yet Caymanians are being forced to pay a mandatory deposit to the Housing Development Corporation and banks or else they are deprived of needed financing to build and purchase their homes.

The article stated that these expatriates qualify for 100 per cent financing by the husband getting the traditional financing from one institution of say 65 per cent and the wife obtaining the balance of the 35 per cent from another. I hope this is not correct, but I have available the article and in my usual fashion, I do not ramble on in this House without facts.

Mr. President, if this is correct, why should they have this privilege while our own local Caymanians are being forced to fork up the mandatory deposits of up to 35 per cent of total cost when the mortgage is through a bank, or, in the case of the Housing Development Corporation, of 10 per cent?

In summary, Mr. President, I would recommend that this Honourable House support this Motion, which, as stated, is seeking for Government to provide a system through cooperation with the commercial banks for arranging mortgages that are affordable to lower-income applicants.

The present system is unrealistic and it creates an unnecessary burden on applicants through its inappropriate guidelines and general criteria. Our people are being squeezed by the non-refundable application fees of up to CI$200, but, as I said earlier, I understand that recently this has been discontinued. I am not sure what the present fee is, but perhaps the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council will advise us.

Mr. President, whilst I cannot see Government having any reasonable grounds for not supporting this Motion, I must admit that nothing surprises me in this House any more. The people of this country will be the judge as to whether or not their interests have been properly protected. They have put their confidence in us by putting us in positions where we can help them. Let us not let them down. Mr. President, I would therefore ask the Members of this Honourable House to give this Motion their full support.

As I mentioned earlier, I understand that in your last assignment, Sir, in Hong Kong, you were responsible for a major government housing scheme or something to that effect - perhaps one of the largest in the British Commonwealth. I feel sure, Sir, that you will gladly lend of your expertise in this particular area as in other areas of our country's development. We are therefore fortunate to have someone of your calibre who is able, not only to appreciate theoretical "on-paper" development demands, but one who has also had the practical experience of working in such a situation.

Accordingly, Mr. President, I trust that the Chairman of the Housing Development Corporation will solicit your views on what you see as a proper procedure to follow in the development of a low-cost housing scheme for the Cayman Islands.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to interrupt the Member just for a brief moment. As we agreed, by nod of head, earlier, we have now reached 4:30 p.m. and I move under Standing Order 83 the suspension of Standing Order 10(2) until 5:00 p.m.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE THE HOUSE TO CONTINUE BUSINESS UNTIL 5:00 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

We will proceed.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

My watch was only showing 4:28 p.m. I will have to get it corrected.

As I was saying, Sir, we are fortunate indeed to have someone of your calibre and experience in housing matters. Believe me, Sir, there are many poor Caymanians and during your time here I will try to take you around some of the areas of my constituency. There are poor Caymanians all over the Cayman Islands, including the Sister Islands. The whole philosophy of the Housing Development Corporation is wrong. I think it means well, but it needs a total restructuring.

Let us therefore put aside our pride and political ideologies and for once consider what is indeed best for our people. There is no use having attractive loans that are unattainable by those most in need.

I would again Mr. President, ask this Honourable House to give this Motion its full support.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I am indeed grateful to the Mover of this Motion for the compliments he paid to the Manager of the Housing Development Corporation. Any criticism about housing is quite rightly mine.

We have a Board that is constituted under the provisions of the Housing Development Corporation Law. It provides for the appointment of members. I happen to be the Chairman, and the Board is responsible, under the Law, for the administration of the Corporation. So, whatever criticism might be levelled at me, I think it must also be borne in mind that the Board is largely responsible for carrying out the provisions and wishes of the Law.

I do look forward to meeting with you sometime to discuss housing. Had housing to the lower-income residents of the Islands not been an important issue, the Law would not have been introduced back in 1981. It is indeed a very important subject.

Assistance from the Corporation is only possible when mortgage funds are available to the Corporation and so when we think about the administration of the Housing Development Corporation, we also have to consider the various means of raising funds to provide for the mortgage financing.

Looking at the Motion and reading it carefully, it says that there is a need for low-cost housing within the Cayman Islands. That is a fairly positive statement. The other statement is that it is very difficult for the lower-income residents to qualify for financing for housing through the banks and the Housing Development Corporation.

Well, Mr. President, the banks do provide financing for those people who can provide sufficient and adequate collateral to secure the loan, and those people who do not have good collateral to go to the commercial banks would go to the Housing Development Corporation because as far as commercial loans are concerned, the Corporation offers, up to this stage, the best terms and conditions. The Corporation offers, at the present time, loans up to a certain figure repayable over 20 years and at 9 per cent interest. There is no commercial institution in town that offers interest rates at that level.

Mention was made a while ago by the Mover that commercial banks are offering up to 25 years. That may be so, Mr. President, but I am not really aware of any such loans being made so far. I did understand that one bank is offering terms of up to 25 years.

Nevertheless, Mr. President, regardless of what the term may be, I contend that the Housing Development Corporation is offering, up to this stage, the most attractive loan to low-income people who do not have sufficient collateral to go to the commercial bank, but who can satisfy the Corporation because, in fact, the collateral that is used in the Housing Development Corporation is to hold a mortgage on the property that they buy.

When people cannot reach the terms of the Housing Development Corporation - and, Mr. President, let me say this - we have really stretched ourselves to the limit to assist some of these lower-income people with loans, many of them have been very grateful for the assistance and have come forward to make their regular repayment, but we do have problems with some. It is not altogether easy going.

We have heard quite a lot of the present system. The Resolve section of the Motion says that this Honourable House should agree to provide an appropriate system of arranging mortgage financing for housing purchases through commercial banks for lower-income applicants.

Now that, to my mind, means that Government is being asked to provide a guarantee to the commercial banks to make loans to lower-income residents to build their homes. Now, nothing could please the commercial banks more than this - to hold a guarantee from Government to dish out loans for lower-income residents. Do you know why? It is because the banks will have no compunction of falling back on Government to say that it is responsible for loans and that repayments are behind, please make good. The question arises then as to whether or not this is what Government is really looking for? Is this the system we want to create here - which to my mind is nothing short of a social welfare system?

Now, what the intention of this Government is, is to assist social development and social need. The scriptures say "blessed is he that considereth the poor". And, the poor, Mr. President, will always be with us. No country will ever be without the poor, and so there will always be that need in the society. The question is, how far can one go to assist the poor?

We have two systems organised by Government for assisting the poor. One is through the Housing Development Corporation and the mover, himself, mentioned here that Government placed into that Corporation a sum of CI$137,000 as a start-up budget to get the Corporation off the ground.

Government has also provided a scheme for financing civil servants' housing projects, and I take it that it is especially those people in the lower-income bracket as well.

So there we have two different forms of loan being sponsored by Government for low-income persons. And, there is another system that when a person cannot afford to repay a loan, but needs his house renovated or repaired or something of this sort, they apply to Government to the Social Services Department where a poor person housing scheme is administered. There arrangement is made for free money to be given to these people to assist them with their housing.

Now, one would ask how many of these poor low-income people are there to assist because the Member moving the Motion spoke about a survey? Well, the Statistics Department of Government carried out a survey some time ago and I think it is about to update that survey in the near future. We will then have good information of what the position is. However, one will have to look at Government's capacity to assist the poor and to decide how much money or funds there are to be placed at the disposal of either commercial banks, the Housing Development Corporation, the civil service, the Housing Scheme or the Social Services Poor Person's Scheme. Then we come to Government with our budget and we make those proposals. But, what I am trying to say here is that it is not Government's policy and Government would certainly not tolerate or would not consider a policy at this present time to give a guarantee to commercial banks to dish money out to lower-income persons. Because, in the first instance, Government is now assisting schemes that would channel money to low-income persons.

We have looked at the Housing Development Corporation, Mr. President, in recent times and we have looked at complaints coming from Members of this Honourable House that the Housing Development Corporation was not doing sufficient to assist people because there were many coming with applications and those applications were refused. So, when we went there we decided to look at the guidelines that we found in the Housing Development Corporation. We saw for instance the requirement to make a deposit of CI$200 upon application for a loan. That was there. We inherited that. We did not create that and so we abolished that, and I told the mover of the Motion some days ago that that had now been abolished.

We also looked at the operating guidelines and we made amendments to those guidelines. For instance when a maximum loan - that is to say the 90 per cent - was CI$35,000, we have raised that sum to CI$45,000 and where the value of the property was CI$45,000, we have raised that to CI$55,000. Where we had a limitation on the income of a person (the applicant) at CI$25,000 per annum, we have also increased that to CI$30,000 per annum.

As I said, Mr. President, we made quite a number of improvements to those operating guidelines, we advised the public accordingly, invited them to enquire from the Housing Development Corporation Department about their needs and to make application if they wished.

After the amended guidelines were completed and the information went public, we received numerous enquiries at the Housing Development Corporation and we even have, now, some applications that I understand are good applications and will go before the Board shortly.

When we went into Government in November of 1984 we found no mortgage money there because the previous Government had committed the lot. They had raised a sum of CI$634,270 and they had committed these to loans. So, we sat there trying to put things in order and to decide what move we would make next to raise some money because all the commercial banks in the Island had been approached and they had made contributions of that amount. There were not many left for us to go to.

Anyhow, in mid 1985, in a brave attempt, we made a second appeal to the commercial institutions largely banks and trust companies that were not approached before - those were largely new companies coming in - and we included insurance companies and law firms. One law firm made a contribution or bought debentures in the sum of CI$20,000. Another law firm wrote a four-page letter to me suggesting ways that we could try to raise some money. If he had put even $5,000 in his letter and said this was all we can afford, it would not be so bad - but four pages of trying to tell me means and ways that I could raise money. I replied to the letter and my staff laughed the whole of that day over that reply to him.

One insurance company, Mr. President, in that second appeal, made a contribution of CI$200,000 to housing and we obtained quite a number of other contributions that amounted to CI$505,448.

We have some funds there and these funds will soon be committed according to the applications that are coming in now. My fear is, what will happen after these funds are exhausted? I have recently made a third appeal. Over one hundred letters have gone out to new institutions coming in, together with other local institutions that had not been asked before. This was about three weeks ago. I had a few replies from a few offshore companies that made excuses one way or another. I am still hopeful all the same, that we will be able to raise more mortgage funds through that third appeal.

It is not that simple to raise money, Mr. President, for the Housing Development Corporation to continue its programme on the present terms and conditions. We went to Caribbean Development Bank and asked if they were prepared to assist the Corporation. After two years of correspondence they came back and said that they were sorry that the only money available to the Corporation was their commercial loan. That commercial loan is at 9.5 per cent interest, plus whatever else would be added to it. So, I think we could do better locally because I am sure that the local banks would offer better terms. That would be our next alternative.

If we cannot raise sufficient money by the debenture issue, we will have to renegotiate with the local commercial banks to see what they can offer.

The operation of the Housing Development Corporation is not all that simple. The Board has spent a lot of time - I mean that people who have volunteered their services free of charge go and sit down and give a lot of thought to the operation of housing. It is not that the Board members sit there and twiddle their fingers, but because there is genuine concern of how the Corporation will be able to assist. But I think we are doing quite well.

One of the other problems that we met was regarding staff. In the three years that I have been there we have changed managers three times. We needed an accountant from the time I went there and only about one month ago we were able to recruit one. Fortunately he is a qualified accountant and we have fairly good staff there now, so the Corporation should be able to get on quite well with its work from here on.

Mr. President, I cannot support the Motion, Sir. I know that our policy is to assist low income people as much as we can, but the form and the system by which the Member moving the Motion has recommended in his Motion, is one which the Government could not really accept. And as I said, we have thrown out the suggestion to the public to come along to see what we have to offer, and we have a few coming to us. In recent times we have had more than a few.

We hope that in time if the Housing Development Corporation runs short of money we will be coming to Government to ask whether it can assist with any and I think that in the future, if we can raise our mortgage commitment to a level of $2.5 million, I think that would be an economic level that could operate the Corporation for many years in the future.

I see the Honourable First Official Member of Executive Council is smiling over there. That means to me, Mr. President, that he will support that application when it comes to Government.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

I think he got it wrong, Mr. President. (LAUGHTER)

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think he was sailing about the time. (LAUGHTER)

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I was just about to wind up because the Honourable Member said that I still had two minutes. He did the same thing to the Mover of the Motion a while ago.

I do hope that the third appeal will bring some more money in and that the Housing Corporation, with its improved operating guidelines and with fairly adequate staff at the present time, will make an impression in the future. But I hope that Honourable Members here will be able to see that improvement and will agree that the Housing Development Corporation is doing a good job.

I am sorry that I cannot support the Motion, Mr. President, but we will always have a great interest in assisting low-income persons.

ADJOURNMENT

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, in accordance with Standing Order 10(2), I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow morning.

MR. PRESIDENT:

HON. W. NORMAN RODDEN:

Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake, Amen.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread: And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us: And lead us not into temptation: but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever, Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us: the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us: the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated. Our proceedings are resumed.

Papers. The Honourable First Official Member.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

REPORT OF THE STANDING FINANCE COMMITTEE

(Meeting held 26th August, 1987)

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the report of the Standing Finance Committee meeting held on 26th August, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT:

So ordered.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, a number of approvals were given at that meeting, but before I get into it, perhaps it is also significant enough to say that I tried on 22nd July to have a Finance Committee meeting, but on that date we could not for lack of a quorum. But in the meeting of 26th August, the Finance Committee gave its approval to a number of supplementary expenditure requests from various heads of departments, which I will now outline in detail, while I am on my feet.

Police Department, Head 40-002 Boats:

Finance Committee approved $194,000 to purchase a 33 ft. Bertram launch to replace the one lost some months ago. In addition to that sum, it approved $6,000 for the purchase of an 155 horse power outboard engine, for the M.V. Lima I.

There is a dissenting report on this purchase of the Bertram, Mr. President, from the Second Elected Member for West Bay, who thought that another boat of equal size and maneuverability could be purchased for less cost. The dissenting report is attached to the Report of the Finance Committee for all Members of the Honourable House and members of the public and the press to see.

The Prison Department:

Finance Committee approved a total of $48,700 for overtime, to meet the cost of manpower needed in the prison to cater and to secure inmates. As most Honourable Members know, the prison has been running on most days above its capacity, therefore the need to pay overtime to ensure that those inmates are properly looked after.

In addition to that sum, for dietary and food supplies, $60,000, and it is really for the same reason, Mr. President, that the budget which was prepared last year and approved in November of that year was insufficient to meet the cost for the prison population as it at present stands. $60,000 it is estimated will take it to the end of December. In addition to that sum, and this is all for prison, Mr. President, there is $80,000 supplementary approved for water. This is a large sum, but we have discovered that the plumbing system at the prison was, for lack of a better word, riddled with defects, and we have now put that right. Water was wasted as a result, because the piping was not up to standard.

For staff houses, $2,500, other equipment, mainly for the kitchen and for replacement equipment, $26,500. Other furniture for the dormitory where prison guards who had been recently recruited in the Eastern Caribbean will live on site - we had to purchase sufficient furniture, beds and mattresses to make them comfortable at a sum of $16,000.

Finance and development:

Finance Committee approved the sum of $30,000 for private schools, being a revote of funds for grants to private schools. In 1986, by some fluke, the second portion of the private schools entitlement was not paid. Usually, the total sum of $80,000 is allocated on a six month basis. The last six months in 1986 they did not get and the revote of $30,000 is for that purpose. We cannot in any way overlook the effectiveness of the private schools and their usefulness to this Government and certainly to the children within their register of pupils.

Again for Finance and Development, a sum of $167,502. In a recent loan agreement for funds provided by Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) to the Agricultural and Industrial Credit and also for student loans, Government agreed to make an allocation to that body, the Agricultural and Industrial Board, a sum of $200,000 and the supplementary requested is to fulfil our obligation to CDB and to the Board.

Finance and Development again: $17,590 for a claim made against the Government by Mr. George Howarth in respect of an out-of-court settlement relating to a payment irregularity for the cab insulation contract and electronics contract for the central tower cab at Owen Roberts Airport. This is a long-standing claim, Mr. President. Mr. Howarth's company had a contract with Government to supply the cab which is that lovely piece of glass work - if we can call it lovely - that sits on top of the air traffic control tower, and some irregularity with the payment was made. His claim was of a substantial amount - over $100,000, and the settlement at the end of the day, with the blessings of the Legal Department, is that we should settle for $17,590, and the Finance Committee also gave its blessing to it.

Continuing on with Finance and Development: under Head 40, sub-head 1B dealing with vehicles, $47,643 for the purchase of two vans for Public Works and one van for the prison, which were ordered in 1986, but were not received until this year.

Customs Department:

A request for $30,018, broken down under a number of sub-heads, Mr. President, including uniforms, allowance for dog handlers, maintenance of dogs, the training of Customs Officers and a miscellaneous vote dealing with equipment, office equipment, other office equipment and vehicles was approved.

Customs, as we know, Mr. President, not very long ago established a task force section, and we needed to assist that section financially, to carry out the function for which it was established. We have seen and witnessed a lot of very excellent work by the task force, a number of boats have been seized. The $30,000, the majority of which was funded from the proceeds of one of the boats that was seized and put out to public tender, and I think the cost of the budget, in essence, is about $8,000, because one of the boats that was seized was put through the court and forfeited to Government, and this was sold for roughly $22,000.

Continuing with the Customs Department, a sum of $900 for motor car upkeep allowance to one of the Customs officers was also approved.

The Judicial Department:

For allowance and attendance $60,000 - this is to meet the court's commitment for the year. As most Members and the public as well know, recently we employed a second magistrate and we are allowing one of those on occasions, to act as judge. So the court is working diligently to remove any backlog that is presently with it and in so doing, we need to have witnesses and pay jurors certain sums of money; therefore the need for this supplementary of $60,000.

Legal Department:

Miscellaneous visits and entertainment - a sum of $6,500. Provided for the graduation ceremony of the Law School, and air fares and accommodation for Lord and Lady Templeman who are patrons to the Law School. Certainly, Mr. President, the sum, in my view, is justified. We have been talking for many a day in this House about the number of articulated clerks - we have now seen them graduate and be called to the Bar - I believe that a ceremony for their graduation is certainly in order.

Education Department:

Supplementary sum of $81,205 to deal with the need for additional educational supplies, school equipment and school furniture.

Mr. President, this is certainly a long report, but I am sure members of the public and Honourable Members wish me to continue with it.

Education Department again: school equipment, $3,000 to purchase typewriters for the Community College in Cayman Brac.

Development and Natural Resources:

$16,704 to cover the 1987 salary for Mr. Ladner Watler who has been transferred from the Police Department to the Portfolio of Development and Natural Resources in the capacity of Marine Enforcement Officer. And an additional sum of $13,990 to be paid to Mr. Watler for the use of his boat in relation to his work activities.

Tourism, Aviation and Trade:

A sum of $18,908 for Pirates Week office to cover the excess expenditure over income for the year ended 31st December 1986. And, Mr. President, this has resulted from Government's decision not to allow the Pirates Week Committee to auction the car because in our view, and I think in the Legal Department's view, it is gambling. As we are prosecuting other people for playing numbers, we thought that we should set the example here. As a result, it has cost us $18,908, but good money and for a good purpose.

Under the portfolio of Tourism, Aviation and Trade - public buildings: to complete the car park and landscaping work at the George Town Craft Market, $16,602.

Public Works Department:

For maintenance of buildings, $7,500 for repairs on the George Town town clock.

The Treasury Department:

Overtime $6,000, mainly to cover the cost of the conversion from a manual system to a computerised system, where the staff has been required to run two systems. We did not have sufficient staff to do that, and we had to pay overtime to existing staff to complete that exercise.

Treasury Department: a further sum of $9,580 to purchase necessary items of furniture and equipment, and for special cabinets, files, chairs and desks.

Internal and External Affairs:

$8,000 to replenish the stock of flags and Coats of Arms of the Government Information Services.

Internal and External Affairs: $5,712 to cover the salary in the sum of $4,200 for the United Kingdom Cayman Islands' Government Office arising out of the 1987 salary revision. Mr. President, I apologise, it should be Finance and not Head 2.

Finance and Development:

Leave passages - $4,962 to provide leave passage entitlements for the Financial Secretary and for his deputy.

Legal Department:

$5,000 for the Legal Department for reference books, mainly to cover orders placed in 1986, but orders which were received this year.

Mosquito Research and Control Unit:

$4,950 to supplement the annual allocation for the purchase of an aircraft navigation system for the larger of the two planes. This is an electronic system, Mr. President, which provides markers for the plane and allows us to save and not overlap when we are spreading insecticide, so, in my view, it is something of importance and necessity.

Tourism, Aviation and Trade:

Wages, $2,000. The Public Works Department will be installing additional toilet, walkway, floodlights and roll-away gates at the Hell Post Office and shop. And there was an additional sum of $12,000 to provide for those.

Public Works Department:

A sum of $121,302 to cover additional air conditioning equipment for the Government Administration Building.

Other matters:

Other matters Mr. President, were approved such as the confiscation of boats for the Marine Department, a boat which was forfeited by the court to the Crown, and approval was given for the Marine Enforcement Officer to use it during his work. Approval for the sale of the old boat house which was Crown land - Finance Committee gave its approval for Government to reimburse Mr. Norberg Thompson a sum amounting to the stamp duty paid on the purchase of Block 148G, parcel 6, George Town Central on the condition that the said property be filled in order to permanently house the Goldfield.

Purchase of land: Finance Committee gave its approval for Government to purchase the following parcels of land: in Cayman Brac East Block 1.11E parcel 61 for a boat ramp facility, $5,250; for the purchase of Block 93C parcel 45, again in Cayman Brac West, a parcel of land contiguous to the runway at Gerrard Smith Airport, US$26,000; and parcel 136 in Block 95C a sum of $30,000 for another piece of property which is contiguous, or adjacent to Gerrard Smith Airport.

Capital projects: Finance Committee gave its approval for the Public Works Department to utilise the sum of $188,000 arising out of a savings of two major completed projects on the Badden Town road - $123,000 from the remaining road works programme, and $63,000 for the master ground transportation programme study.

Finance Committee also gave its guarantee to the Cayman Brac Power and Light Company for a sum of $180,000 to allow it to purchase a generator from Mirreless Blackstone Company in the United Kingdom.

Other matters which were raised during the meeting were the need for additional street lights and primary school fencing - those were approved, Mr. President, and Finance Committee also gave its blessing to a loan previously granted to the Turtle Farm that the three year moratorium on that loan would be on both interest and principle repayment, and the interest at 5 per cent.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I believe the House is deemed to have accepted that report as a Motion under Standing Order 67(4).

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 67(4)

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I, under Standing Order 83, would move the suspension of Standing Order 67(4).

MR. PRESIDENT:

I believe a seconder is required for that.

HON. RICHARD GROUND:

Mr. President, yes.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I second the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Would the mover speak to the Motion, please?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Yes, Mr. President, thank you.

Mr. President, I move this suspension this morning because I feel so strongly about at least one of the items discussed in Finance Committee, which has asked for very important expenditure from the Treasury of this country. At that meeting, Mr. President, we hardly had a quorum, barely had a quorum. I moved the suspension because this bit of expenditure has very much to do with Government's policy of judicious spending.

My dissenting report is before the House, and I moved the suspension also to say exactly what the report says, and I would read that report, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

If you would excuse me one minute, I think the first thing is to decide on the Motions. I have to put the Motion before you can go on, I think. Please go ahead and support your Motion before going into the content of what you wish to discuss, if the House agrees the suspension of Standing Orders.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Well, I seek the suspension to try to get Members, Mr. President, to stop any negotiations going on with the police boat at present and to look into other possibilities as far as the purchase of the boat is concerned.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you. Does any Member wish to speak on the Motion to suspend the Standing Order 67(4), that is.

Since this is rather an unusual Motion, I shall give Members a few more seconds to decide if they wish to speak on it.

The First Elected Member for Badden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I must apologise, because I do not have my papers in order for this morning's debate yet, but what I understand that the Member is trying to do. I fully support the Motion and hope that we can get to debate this important subject, because I too agree that the expenditure is not warranted at this time.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for George Town?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I too feel that there is much merit for this Motion, because even though in Finance Committee the particular item got the majority support of the House, there is no question at all that there was much discussion on this. As a matter of fact, it attracted so much discussion that the Commissioner himself was asked to come down to the Committee. So, Mr. President, I would give this my full support.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable First Official Member.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I think the mover and seconder of the motion have all good intentions, but it seems, to me, that under Standing Order 67(4), the matter was raised in the Finance Committee meeting. There was the need, and we did invite the Commissioner to come along and to give more information on the subject, that is, the purchase of the 33 ft. Bertram. Some Members were of the view that the cost was too high. The Commissioner did explain that he had taken the decision after consultation with a number of his colleagues in the other dependent territories, as well as one of the naval advisers who are based in the Bahamas. I agree it is a large sum of money, Mr. President, but I also believed that the matter was sufficiently thrashed out. The Chairman allowed the Second Elected Member for West Bay to have his dissenting report and I think, in my view, the process of democracy has taken place, the vote went in favour of purchasing that boat, and I see no need now to debate it further. I cannot support the Motion, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Elected Member for North Side?

MR. B. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I wish to oppose the Motion because I see it serving no real purpose other than for Members to reiterate and regurgitate their unsuccessful arguments which may have taken place in the Finance Committee's meeting. We may be setting a very dangerous precedent for future Finance Committees on even more sensitive matters. For those reasons, Mr. Chairman, I cannot support the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for Rodden Town?

MR. G. HAIG HODDEN:

Mr. President, I have to support the Motion because I believe in the principle of democracy, that the Member must have the fullest latitude in expressing his sentiments, particularly when the matter is of great importance and involves excessive expenditure. I fully support the Member in his efforts and commend his minority report, and would like, Sir, to debate other aspects of the paper which has been laid. I trust that as we embark upon this Motion today, Members of Government will find it possible to allow, for once, the minority to have their full say, which they will be entitled to if the Motion is carried.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Elected Member for East End.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. President, I support the Motion before the House and I commend the Second Elected Member for West Bay for proposing it. Mr. President, after all, it is his right to bring such a Motion here, even if a matter is discussed in Finance Committee we have a section in our Standing Orders which he has exercised, and exercised correctly, and regardless if we are setting a precedent or not, it is in order, and I support him 100 per cent. We must always remember there are only two people who cannot change their minds. One is a dead man, and the other is a fool. I do not believe that we have either of those here. So I commend his Motion, and I hope other Members will do likewise.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Mr. President, the matter before the House as far as I am concerned, Sir, is unnecessary. Due notice was given of the Finance Committee meeting. A quorum was present, decisions were taken, and in the normal fashion, the report is being laid, including, as I understand it, a minority report.

In referring to the procedure that is trying to be adopted, I do not see where the mere suspension of Standing Order 67(4) would permit the debate of the report. Even if that were so, Mr. President, it would seem to me that notice of any amendment proposed to the report should have been given, and to suspend Standing Orders in order to debate a Report of Finance Committee is most unusual. If Members were concerned with having an input into the matters before Finance Committee they should have attended. They were given notice and there is no reason, in my opinion, why this procedure should be adopted this morning.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORREYI:

Thank you, Mr. President.

I cannot support the Motion before the House, and in doing so, I would like for this Honourable House to take note that of the five persons who have supported the Motion this morning, there were only two present at that Finance Committee meeting. That was the mover of the Motion, the Second Elected Member for West Bay, and the seconder, the Second Elected Member for George Town.

There was a lot of debate during the Finance Committee meeting. It was carried out in a democratic manner, a decision was made and it puzzles me, Mr. President, that especially the First and Second Elected Members for Bodden Town should be able to come to this House and support this Motion, having really no background as to the reasons why such a decision was made.

Mr. President, the records of this House will prove that these two individuals are hardly ever present at any Committee meetings. How can they come here this morning to decide upon a Motion such as this? The business of this House, Mr. President is done not just within these four walls when the radio is turned on, but much of it is accomplished in that Committee Room. These Members have no business, no right to stand here this morning and support this Motion. When a meeting is on they can be gallivanting all over the globe. Find yourselves here....

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Thank you, Sir. Mr. President, when I decided to seek suspension of Standing Orders, I knew that it would not be passed. No matter how good my intentions are, and no matter what I do, Government and their yes men and extension cords are going to say no. That is a fact.

Thank you, Sir. Mr. President, when I decided to and I am hoping I can refer to them. My request, first of all, was to be able to look again at other possibilities as far as the purchase of the police boat is concerned. The Honourable First Elected Member for Council said it is most unusual. Certainly it is, but it is provided for in our Standing Orders. Yes, Mr. President, the Honourable Member continues to say that I am wrong ... this is all he ever does, without offering constructive criticism otherwise. Standing Order 83, Mr. President ...

Mr. President, many things were brought in here,

MR. PRESIDENT:

Excuse me one moment. It will be necessary to rule on that question later, after the Motion has been put and voted upon.

Excuse me one moment. It will be necessary to rule

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I am replying to the debate given, that is within my rights, Sir.

Mr. President, I am replying to the debate given,

MR. PRESIDENT:

No, indeed it is within your right, but what we are debating, what the House is debating, is the suspension of the Standing Orders, not whether or not something may follow thereafter.

No, indeed it is within your right, but what we are

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, the Honourable First Member said it was most unusual. I am replying to that, Sir.

Mr. President, the Honourable First Member said it

MR. PRESIDENT:

Your previous point was not that, you are entirely in order in replying on the question of it being unusual, but not the question of whether or not it can allow the House to do certain things.

Your previous point was not that, you are entirely

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Well, Mr. President, there is nothing unusual about it, because those who put the Standing Orders together must have thought that at some stage this would happen. The Honourable First Elected Member of Council was a Member of the Committee that put the Standing Orders together, so I do not know what he is saying about "most unusual". Suspension of Standing Orders can be made under Standing Order 83. His tactic in this House is that every time I get up in this House is to make it look like I do not know what I am doing or saying.

Well, Mr. President, there is nothing unusual about

Mr. President, the Member for North Side who did not support the Motion, but because of being away on a C.P.A. conference was not here to vote against the purchase of the boat, as he told me he would do. And I thought at least he would have sought in some way, to try to help me to get further ...

Mr. President, the Member for North Side who did foolishness too.

Thank you, Sir, I am glad you think it is

Mr. President, the Member, before he left to go on that conference certainly spoke to me concerning the purchase. He even wondered whether he could get Finance Committee brought forward so he could be there to attend it. But, as I said, anything that I bring here Government and their extension cords, that is, some Members of Government, is not going to support me. But this is not political, Mr. President, this has very much to do as I said before, with Government's policy of judicious spending. Certainly, Mr. President, this sum of expenditure cannot be deemed to be judicious.

The Third Member for West Bay, Mr. President, in her usual manner, did not support the Motion. She said that those Members who did not attend the Committee meeting for whatever reasons, did not have any background to support the move for suspension. That is not correct. I wonder if the Member herself has read the minutes and seen the report of the discussion with the Commissioner of Police. There is much background here, Mr. President, and I will go on to further explain that point.

MR. PRESIDENT:
the Chair. I am attending.

I would be grateful if you do not actually point at

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

I am not pointing in a disrespectful manner, Sir, and I think you and I could get that straight. That is my way of expressing myself.

But the Member herself in the discussion with the Commissioner of Police, which is stated in the report that I claim is background for any Member's dissension here, asks whether the Commissioner's other colleagues provided any alternative. In reply, the Commissioner stated that the other alternative would have been to purchase a boat in the United Kingdom which would lead to further delays in replacing the lost vessel.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. President, on a point of order, the Member is now debating the report. It is a public document, it lies in the House on the Table and can be read by the public. But this is irrelevant to the Motion before the House.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

It is not irrelevant.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I have to sustain the point of order. The House is debating the suspension, not the matter which you wish to bring up if a suspension is agreed. Please continue.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

But Mr. President, with respect, Sir, if I could explain myself. The Third Member for West Bay raised the point that no Member had any background to support my Motion. Check the Hansard. That is what she said. I am showing the background where Members have every bit of information. In that information I am showing where the Member herself asked the question, and that report is attached to the Finance Committee's Report. I am not out of order Mr. President and I refuse to be handled this way in this House every time I get up. May I continue, Mr. President?

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think so, but I would be grateful if we could maintain our usual dignified debate.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, please do not insult me, Sir, I am being very dignified. I am pointing at every issue in this House. I do not think I am rude to the Chair, I am only stating my point.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am giving you every latitude to do so, but we must try to observe Standing orders.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Please do not say that I am not being dignified, I think you are wrong.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Would you please continue?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Thank you, Sir.
Members have already said they are not going to support it, Mr. President, and they themselves have not given any constructive reasons why the suspension should not be carried through. I agree with the Honourable First Official Member who said that the process of democracy had been carried through. To an extent, that is correct. The process has not yet finished as far as I am concerned. I have done my part, Mr. President, and they are going yet to sup sorrow for this kind of expenditure.

MR. PRESIDENT: I shall now put the question, which is that Standing Order 67(4) be suspended.

QUESTION PUT: AYES AND NOES

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can I have a division, Mr. President?

AGREED BY MAJORITY: MOTION TO SUSPEND STANDING ORDER 67(4) DEFEATED

MR. PRESIDENT: We now proceed to the second item under Presentation of Papers. The Honourable First Official Member.

REPORT OF THE STANDING BUSINESS COMMITTEE
(Meetings held 3rd and 7th September, 1987)

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Standing Business Committee of the meetings held on 3rd and 7th September 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT: So ordered.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, the meeting on 3rd September dealt with a number of items which appeared on Business Paper No. 1, and the meeting on Monday 7th dealt with matters appearing on Business Paper No. 2. The Report, which is self-explanatory and brief, I think speaks for itself and I have no further comment to offer.

MR. PRESIDENT: We will proceed, then, to Item 3 of our business, Questions.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, in view of the very limited time we have left, I wonder if this Honourable House would agree to the suspension under Standing Order 83, 23(7) so that Members can have time to ask the Questions on the paper?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President it was our intention to move Standing Order 23(7) to allow the questions to be taken.

MR. PRESIDENT: We would normally move it just before 11:00 a.m., but I think it would be in order to put that Motion now. The Motion is that the Standing Order be suspended in order that questions on the Business Paper be taken.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES.

NO. 73: Would the Honourable Member say how many students are presently in training as teachers and at which colleges/universities and in which countries?

ANSWER: There are a total of 18 students currently enrolled in teacher education programmes as follows:

- 2 - Plattsburgh State University - USA
- 1 - University of Leeds - UK
- 4 - St. Leo College - USA
- 1 - Macalister University - USA
- 1 - Stetson University - USA
- 1 - Brock University - Canada
- 1 - Taylor University - USA
- 1 - Union University - USA
- 1 - Jacksonville University - USA
- 1 - Covenant College - USA
- 1 - Averett College - USA
- 1 - Xavier University - USA
- 1 - University of Central Florida - USA
- 1 - University of Tampa - USA

MR. PRESIDENT: Are there any supplementaries, please?

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: I wonder if the Honourable Member could say how soon will the first students qualify and return home for service?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: No, Mr. President I do not have that information at hand.

MR. PRESIDENT: As there seem to be no further supplementaries, let us move to Question Number 74. The Second Elected Member for West Bay?

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 74: Would the Honourable Member give a list of all the overseas Institutions of Higher Education which Government recommends for teacher training?

ANSWER: For individuals wishing to be trained as teachers, scholarship applicants must first receive offers of acceptance from accredited institutions offering programmes in teacher education. The Education Council uses as its guide to accredited institutions in the USA, Barran's Profiles of American Colleges where the institution must be rated not less than competitive. In the United Kingdom, the Institutions of Higher Education offering teacher education programmes are approved by the Council for National Academic Awards, (CNAA). The courses on offer have to be first approved by the Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education, (CATE), so there is a wide choice of overseas institutions available.

The selection of the institution is left to the individual once it falls within the aforementioned guidelines.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Supplementary, Mr. President. I wonder if the Member could say whether the colleges of the University of the West Indies are included in Barran's Profiles of American Colleges and the Council for National Academic Awards.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, I have to apologise to the Member in that, we did not but should have included the University of the West Indies. Likewise Canadian universities approved by the National Accreditation Board in Canada would be acceptable for teacher training.

MR. PRESIDENT: No further supplementaries? Question 75, please.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Yes, one supplementary, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please go ahead.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can the Honourable Member say whether the Cayman Islands Government still contributes to the University of the West Indies.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Yes, Mr. President, fortunately for us of course, we are still drawing on a credit balance we have with them because of the devaluation of the Jamaican dollar.

MR. PRESIDENT: Question 75, please.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 75: Would the Honourable Member give a progress report on the proposed social security scheme and state Government's plan of action?

ANSWER: Mr. F. Gordon Smith, Government's Actuarial Adviser on the scheme arrived back in the Island on 13th April, 1987. Since that time he has been meeting with groups of employers and employees explaining and answering questions on the proposed scheme. He has also held a meeting with the Cayman Islands Chamber of Commerce.

As a result of these meetings and suggestions resulting therefrom, certain amendments are contemplated to the scheme.

Members will realise that there are many competing and conflicting interests to be served by such a scheme and that to find the right mix will not be easy.

Once the contemplated amendments have been made it is the intention to present the plan to the public in a series of meetings throughout the Islands and if necessary, further amendments will be made as a result of input received at these meetings.

The final proposal will then be presented to an informal meeting of Members of the Legislative Assembly and if support for the scheme is forthcoming, the Legislation will be taken to the Assembly for passage into Law.

Members will no doubt recall that under normal circumstances I would have been making a progress statement on the Social Security Scheme in accordance with Motion No.14/85. This answer, therefore, will serve as that statement.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. PRESIDENT: Supplementaries please. The Second Elected Member for Badden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, can the Honourable Member give us a tentative date for the completion of the amendments?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: No, Mr. President, in fact, just yesterday evening when I returned to my desk, there was quite a lengthy letter of representation there with what I consider to be some useful suggestions, so suggestions are still coming in.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there are no further supplementaries, perhaps we should take our usual fifteen minute break. Proceedings are suspended for fifteen minutes.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Thank you, Mr. President. Today I am in the hands of the House more than ever before as I am moving the suspension under Standing Order 83.

Standing order 46 to enable me to move the First and Second Reading of the Merchant Shipping (Applicable Conventions) Bill, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Motion is that Standing Order 46 be suspended for the purpose stated by the Honourable First Official Member. The Motion is therefore duly moved. Would any Member wish to speak?

The Second Elected Member for West Bay is on his feet.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I gladly support the suspension of Standing Order 46. I indicated my support to the Honourable Member days ago. This Bill needs to be passed quickly, and I think Government is doing the right thing in getting it through the House as quickly as possible. It is a very important piece of legislation, more important than my Motion to suspend the other Standing Orders, but mine was equally as important. I support it, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, I have to oppose the suspension of this Standing Order, the reason being that the Bill is a very lengthy one and it has not been circulated in the time prescribed, which means that Members will not have had sufficient time to digest the mighty clauses of the Bill, and the one hundred and odd pages of the text. It will also mean that Members will not have had the time to discuss this Bill with people in the community; people that will have knowledge of this very technical subject; Members will not have had the time to do the research necessary to deal with this type of legislation.

The second reason why I oppose the suspension of the Standing Order is that suspension of Standing Orders for important bits of legislation have become a way of life with the present Government. Ever since 1984, in nine out of ten cases, every major piece of legislation has come to the House at the last minute, has come to the Members at the eleventh hour, and have precluded the Members from dealing with the Bill in an intelligent manner. But what is even worse, the public has been effectively precluded from digesting the subject matter of the Bill, and while I know the importance of the legislation, and will not get into the merits of it, other than to say it is time that it has come, I feel that the Honourable Member should have published this Bill earlier, or, not having done that, he should delay the passage until the Budget Session.

So, Mr. President, I have to vote against the suspension of the Standing Order, because of the volume of legal matters contained in the Bill and on the grounds that the time prescribed in the Standing Orders has not been met.

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any other Member wish to speak on this Motion?
The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I rise, Sir, to support the Motion for the suspension of Standing Order 46 to enable the Merchant Shipping (Applicable Convention) Bill, 1987 to be read a first time.

Mr. President, I am sure that all Members of this Honourable House are quite aware of the very long struggle which this Government has had over the last fifteen to twenty years, and especially over the last thirteen years, to introduce to the Cayman Islands a Port of Registry. It was largely because we were searching for another avenue of income for the Cayman Islands. We thought that as a Port of Registry we could attract quite a lot of business here. Again, Mr. President, it was largely because the Cayman Islands was traditionally a seafaring country and in order to continue to maintain this tradition ...

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I rise on a point of order. I think the Member's debate is not relevant to the suspension of the Standing Order, it is more on the purpose of the Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that the Member has a point. Would you please continue.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Yes, Mr. President, I was only trying to lay the background for the need to rush this piece of legislation through.

Mr. President, the present problem, and the reason why it is necessary to have this legislation in place at the earliest possible time is that presently, Caymanian flagged ships entering the United States Port have been served an ultimatum by the United States Government that within a specified time, if these ships are not properly certified by the Caymanian Registry, that they might be debarred from entering United States' ports. There are quite a number of ships represented by local institutions who are out there very nervous about the situation. To say, Mr. President, that the public has not had an input - there was a committee appointed between Government and the private sector from a long time ago, last year, looking into this matter, and in fact, Mr. President, accompanying the Government delegation to London earlier this year was a member of the private sector. So no one can say that the private sector is not being appraised of what is happening. I am sure that you will have full support from the financial community for this Bill to be passed by this Legislative Assembly at the earliest possible time. That is the wish and desire of those people who understand what it is all about, and know the importance of this piece of legislation to the Cayman Islands now that we have been able to convince the British Government that the Cayman Islands should be established as a Part of Registry. And therefore, Mr. President, I think that the Motion before the House at this time is appropriate, it is necessary, it is needed, and I hope this Honourable House will support it.

MR. PRESIDENT: If no other Member wishes to speak, I will invite the Honourable First Official Member to reply to the debate.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I think those Members, those Honourable Members who have spoken, and those who have not, tend to tell us that we are on the right course and let me sit down and allow you to put it to the vote.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question will therefore be put. The Motion is that Standing Order 46 be suspended.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: STANDING ORDER 46 SUSPENDED TO ENABLE THE MERCHANT SHIPPING (APPLICABLE CONVENTIONS)
BILL, 1987 TO BE READ A FIRST TIME

MR. PRESIDENT: Bills. First Reading.

FIRST AND SECOND READINGS

THE MERCHANT SHIPPING (APPLICABLE CONVENTIONS) BILL, 1987

FIRST READING

CLERK: THE MERCHANT SHIPPING (APPLICABLE CONVENTIONS)
BILL, 1987

PRESIDENT: A Bill entitled The Merchant Shipping (Applicable Conventions) Bill, 1987 is deemed to have been read a First time and is set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE MERCHANT SHIPPING (APPLICABLE CONVENTIONS)
BILL, 1987

PRESIDENT: The Honourable First Official Member.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled The Merchant Shipping (Applicable Conventions) Bill, 1987.

The Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, Mr. President, really says the Bill provides for the implementation of, and enables effect to be given to certain conventions and international agreements relating to shipping. Quite frankly, Sir, I believe I got off easy so far with the suspension of Standing Orders - I expected some objection, but it is all in the spirit of democracy, Mr. President.

This subject of ships registry, Mr. President, I remember it from the first day I returned from my training overseas. I took up office in January 1978. It had been going on then, I believe, for about four or five years - everybody diligently working to try to make a decision about the Shipping Register, and trying to gain the United Kingdom's approval to an extension of these conventions to this country to enable our Shipping Registry to be as respectable as any in the world. And I must say, Mr. President, thanks be to God we are almost there.

This Bill is triggered from a number of meetings which were held with a consultative committee which I chaired, which was made up of a number of practitioners in the financial community, lawyers, bankers, trust managers, accountants, insurance personnel and the like. When we came to this Floor earlier this year to put forward a Bill to give the Governor in Council authority to remove certain ships from the Register, and also to give the Registrar of Shipping the authority not to register certain ships, Members then were of the view that we should have had a much more comprehensive piece of legislation. They were right, Mr. President. I agree with them now, and I agreed with them then. But it was our message to the United Kingdom that this Government had stopped talking about what they were going to do and was getting on with some action and demonstrating that, like they say, 'we mean business'.

The Cayman Islands Shipping Register, Mr. President - I could be wrong - I do not believe has ever been under the pressure that it is today, and I am not saying this and trying to point fingers and blaming people. But, in order to elucidate, I have to say that the Coast Guard of the United States - and perhaps they have the right because we have been talking about this as I indicated earlier, and I think the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Council also indicated, we have been talking about this for twenty years - are fed up with us talking about it, and they are taking steps to ensure that the ships on our Register are going to comply with the legislation in the United States that the Coast Guard is required to administer. And many of the ships that were on Cayman Register have now moved elsewhere.

In essence, Mr. President, when you enter the United States and you show this certificate that says non-convention at the top of it, because these conventions we are still trying to get extended to us - the Coast Guard says this is not acceptable, and if you do not put your house in order - that is, the Cayman Islands Shipping Register, we are going to require you to dry docking and that may cost you $100,000 as well as other requirements laid down in our legislation.

The reason for the rush, Mr. President, and I apologise to Honourable Members for it, I think the Hansard will show that during my short time in this House I have never done this before - the reason for the rush is that unless, in my view, we take some action, and I am sure it is the view of many of the Members in this House - unless we take some action quickly we may not get the Conventions extended to us, and all of the ships would have gone. So then you would have to spend lots of money promoting yourself again. It is that issue that has convinced me to move the Standing Orders this morning and to ask the Clerk yesterday to put it on the Order Paper. I had a good sleep last night, I decided this morning that I was ready to take my licks if that is what has to happen, and I hope that if the Members across the floor are going to give licks on this issue, Tom Jefferson is the person to give it to.

This legislation, Mr. President is, as the Second Elected Member from Bodden Town said, is very lengthy, and also very technical. I spent a few years of my life sailing the high seas, but I am not sure I understand all this in here either. One thing I am certain of however, is that I have taken sufficient technical shipping legal advice that what is here is in the best interests of the Cayman Islands. Perhaps, Sir, in order to try to simplify what the Second Elected Member from Bodden Town said was 102 pages - and it is - is to say that this legislation really sets out the requirements for SOLAS (Safety of Life at Sea) Convention. It also covers safety conventions for ships not registered in these Islands, the requirement for the load line conventions, powers and exemption and the requirements of the convention relating to oil pollution. Other main headings, Mr. President, are a Court of Survey, Surveyors of Ships, Inspectors and the Power to make Regulations, Repeals, and also Miscellaneous Detention Provisions.

When I held some meetings on this with the consultative committee, Mr. President, their views were, like mine I guess, we are not so technical that we understand all that you are talking about, and we would recommend that all of your meetings be held on this subject with the law firms that are providing the registered office for these ships on the Cayman Register, which we did. Those law firms then recommended to me that I take one of the lawyers in one of those law firms to the negotiating table with us, which we did. They said to me that he is by far the most knowledgeable on shipping in the Cayman Islands, as a lawyer.

We know, Sir, that there are not millions of dollars to be made by the Cayman Islands Government in revenue from shipping but maybe over the years it may amount to that. The important thing, though, Mr. President, is that it adds to the facilities present in these Islands. If we do have a register of respectability, which we are seeking to do, it does create more jobs, and it does have spin-off effects. I think the Second Elected Member for George Town talked earlier in the meeting about the multiplier effect. This has one as well.

One thing I must make clear, because I never wish to be in a position where a Member accuses me of misleading the House, is that the legislation which is before us has the blessings of the Department of Trade to move forward in this Assembly. They have not said to us that everything you have in here is approved. What they have said to us is that there are no major issues in here that we will not approve. But I wanted to make it abundantly clear that there will be amendments to this legislation, and the amendments are being made to benefit us, not to benefit anybody else.

We went to the United Kingdom in late March, spilling over into the first and second day of April of this year, and we have been diligently working trying to get this legislation together - 102 pages of it, all technical legal jargon. We circulated this document to Members on 3rd September. Maybe it is not sufficient time - I apologise for that. But they had some time to know what we were doing. In addition to circulating it to Members, Mr. President, these three law firms that I referred to were circulated with this document on the same day. So they have had almost two weeks now to look at it. Some people say silence gives consent, and I believe that is the case with the three law firms - they are happy with what we are doing this morning, and, I am sure that before too much longer, everybody on this Island is going to agree that this is what should have been done, because I see great benefits to this country from an improved and respectable shipping register.

Cayman Islands, Mr. President, if you will allow me to go off on a tangent a little bit - have been in this business of attracting international traffic for approximately 20 years. The banking legislation became effective, to the best of my knowledge, in 1966 - So about 20 years. If we can ever reflect what it was like in 1966, even the mosquitoes we were still fighting, and the jobs were not so plentiful either. Many of the males of this country were still at sea, and I believe that every one of them who has had the opportunity of listening to the broadcasts on the radio when this is announced will congratulate every one of us for what we are doing this morning.

But you know, we boast about Cayman being the number one financial centre and we talk about the things we have done in recent times to make a respectable image for the Cayman Islands. We went far. We were the first country in the world that I heard about, signing a Narcotics Agreement with the United States, the leader in the Caribbean to sign a Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty. The drug laws in this country, Mr. President, however you want to interpret it, but I would say, are as strong as any in the world and maybe better than most.

We cannot do all that, Mr. President and close our eyes to what is happening in shipping. Every day, and I think I am pretty confident here, but let me say, almost every day we get information about the ships on the Cayman Register that are breaching somebody's regulations or somebody's shipping laws. They are either getting caught on the high seas with marijuana on board, running up the English Channel in a careless, irresponsible way, or dumping oil off the United States and polluting their waters. What would we do if they did it to us? This legislation, Mr. President, in my view, ties all the pieces together and puts us in control of what we are doing and what image we are projecting to the outside world. Frankly, Mr. President, I believe that when this Bill is passed - and I am sure there may be a few objectors - we will have put the legislation in place to control shipping that we are not happy with, shipping that breaches, perhaps, our regulations too. Safety of life at sea for a seaman is just that - he is either protected or he is dead, and that is what we are doing this morning. I am tempted to go on, Mr. President, but I will try to be brief.

We in Cayman, I believe, are facing a new world. We are on the eve of great things to come. We are wrestling with a number of subjects, including population but we will find the answer - an answer hopefully that will be accepted by all, because history tells us that if there is ever one thing about the Cayman Islands, it is this - they try to be fair. Whatever I have not said before, Mr. President, I will, in my winding up, use the opportunity to say. But I recommend this Bill to all Members of this Honourable House, and I say again, there will be amendments and there may be a number of them.

It is the - if I can use the phrase or the words without being negative, when the legal draftsman sits down to knock what he thinks is a technical document - and I am not talking about our legal draftsman, because I think in essence he is doing a job and his job is well done. I had promised, Mr. President, to jekingly give him some accolades, and that is as far as I will go this morning. I think we have put great pressure on the Legal Department, including my Second Official colleague, and the response I have gotten has always been, in my estimation, excellent. I wish to commend all of them, not just for this legislation, but for their efforts in all respects for this country.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill entitled The Merchant Shipping (Applicable Conventions) Bill, 1987 be given a Second Reading. The Motion is open for debate. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, my support for this Bill is 100 per cent. This talk of ship registration has been knocked around in this country ever since I can remember. It was planned and knocked around on the political platform for many years. In the interim period this country has been kicked from pillar to post regarding ship registration. The cold facts are that we are losing ships from our registry, we are being pressured, and people have pulled out. Not to say, that ships holding registry in other countries, even in the mother country, is not something to be desired. They too have fallen in a bad way. The smuggling of narcotics, contraband, you name it, and they have been involved. But that does not say that we need to 'sit pat' and do not seek to put our house in order.

I have great admiration for the Honourable First Official Member, our Financial Secretary, who I believe has spent many, many tedious hours on this Bill, and has had many headaches before the subject has reached this stage. My congratulations go out to him, not only for myself, but I speak today from a district which has had, or has, a great seafaring heritage. We have come a long way. Our country has a great seafaring heritage which we can be justly proud of. Our forefathers, our grandfathers and our fathers have tasted the salt. They know what it is. They went out turtling, they had the Swanee Shipping Company, they had Southwall, they had National Bulk Carriers, you name it, and Caymanians, our seamen, have been there. Yet they still say we have no national heroes.

Mr. President, our Honourable Financial Secretary has summed it up well, and because of the great importance of this Bill to become law, I think it should have expeditious passage. It needs no long debate, and I would urge Members to take my lead here. I, too, Mr. President, could have done a lot of research, I could have gotten conventions, I could have gotten figures from other countries, and I usually do that when I am in opposition to a Bill. But since I am in support of this one, I think what I have said is enough.

I congratulate the Government bench in this move, and especially our Financial Secretary, who has been battling with this thing for quite a long time. Thank you Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BORDEN:

Mr. President, I support the Bill, and would like to offer my congratulations to the Honourable First Official Member of Government who has presented the Bill and who had the courage to put it forward despite the short notice.

I know that he has worked assiduously on the matter of having a proper register for ships here, and this Bill is merely a part of that process. During the years 1972 to 1976, my colleague from Bodden Town and I put forward a Motion in the Legislative Assembly asking that Government set up a committee to implement a proper ships register. Would you believe that the Government, who at that time was headed by the person who is now the First Elected Member of Government, and the person who is Fourth Elected Member of Government, that is of Executive Council, opposed our Motion strenuously and the Government bench voted down the Motion? However, Mr. Russell was a very sage old guy, and he saw the merit in the arguments which we put forward that day and shortly afterwards he set up a committee through Executive Council to look into the matter of ships registration. The committee was chaired, I think, by the Second Official Member of Government, the Attorney General at that time, and the present Third Elected Member of Executive Council was also a member of that committee.

The committee worked very hard came a long way, did a lot of spade work, but they finally came to a halt when they reached with very strong objections from the British Government. So I am glad today that the British Government and the Board of Trade have had a change of heart, and are now willing to allow us to use these international conventions which are extended by this Bill, and the many hurdles which were put in our way at that time seem to have disappeared. I will not go into all of that, to deal with the objections caused by the United Nations Convention on Trade and Development, nor will I deal with the objections to finding surveyors and so on. Suffice it to say that the work in the past seems to have done away with these hurdles, and today perhaps, because of the new Thatcher Government, we are able to move forward in this very important area of Cayman's life.

The Bill before the House may even cause us to lose a few more ships. There probably will be some that will leave rather than comply with the conventions, but I think the Bill is the correct thing, and over the long run will probably result in attracting and holding bigger and better ships. So, we can look upon this Bill as an investment which will produce revenue for the Government somewhere down the line, if not even this year or next year, in the long run it should be beneficial. We can look upon the Bill as the Second Member for West Bay said, as a matter of continuation of our heritage, because we have been linked with the sea for many years, and most of the Members here including myself, have spent a number of years on ships at sea. We know what the Member has said with regard to safety - either you have it or you die. The Bill before the House will also stop the attrition which has been going on - the Honourable Member introducing the Bill told us about the loss suffered on our Register - and the Bill before the House will also help to ease the pressure which has been put on our vessels registered here, the pressure which has come from the United States Coast Guard.

So the Bill is a good Bill, and is perhaps, the only positive action to come from the Government over the last three years. They found a good foundation for this Bill in the many volumes which are present on the committees that net and the advice from the Government, recommendation from the legal sources and shipping experts. What has come is something that was inevitable, despite the many blunderings, they could not stop this, because it had come of age and the child had to be delivered.

I am glad that, for once, we have a Bill which in some respects supercedes the Merchant Shipping Act, and I am delighted to see this in clause 80, that whenever there is "any inconsistency between any provision of the Law and any provision in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 of the United Kingdom, applicable in or extended to the Islands, the provisions of that Act are repealed to the extent of such inconsistency". So that whenever there is a question of doubt, it would appear to me that with matters relating to the conventions, the provisions of this Law would be paramount.

The Bill will not be without cost to us.

Provisions are made in Clause 71, for the appointment of inspectors, and also in the Bill, there is a provision for the appointment of surveyors under Section 69. Perhaps if this hurdle could have been overcome earlier on, we may have had a proper shipping Bill with these conventions. We were told at one time by the British Government or its representatives that there was such a high cost involved in getting surveyors and in setting up the instruments for their work that we would never be able to meet the cost. But here again, in this Bill, the cost seems to have taken a very lowly seat, and it is perhaps because of the ingenuity of our Honourable Financial Secretary we are able to find the necessary funds to pay these professional and technical people.

For many years we have sat back and allowed this aspect of our lives and the potential for earning revenue to be relegated to insignificance, and we have watched other Crown Colonies move ahead of us in attracting and registering more shipping. We know about the Shipping Act in Bermuda and Hong Kong, and the very large tonnage on these registers as compared to our own. Here again we seem to have got rid of one of the big hurdles which prevented a proper register in that, provision is made in the Bill for us to deal not only with ships that are on our register, but ships that are not on the register. At one time we were told that in keeping with United Nations Convention we could have no ship on our register unless the ship had a direct economic link with the country. That is, either owned by the nationals of the country, or trading directly from the Cayman Islands to some other country. So, we have come a long way and I believe it is cause for rejoicing if this is an acceptable explanation of our feelings.

The Bill itself is perhaps one of the longest Bills we have dealt with over the past three years, and the Member for West Bay who spoke mentioned that he normally would not do very much research if he was supporting the Bill. I can say that I believe even if the Member had set out to do a lot of research on this Bill, he would not find much help in Cayman. I do not believe there are too many people that really understand what these conventions mean, other than the layman that understands that the Safety of Life Convention simply means that the ship and all the actions on the ship, are geared to give all the help possible to the crew and passengers so that they may survive each voyage.

I am glad to see in the Bill that the conventions make provision for the carrying out of boat drills. This is very important, that every passenger on every ship and every crew member know precisely what has to be done if the ship has to be abandoned. I am also glad to see that the conventions make provision for life saving equipment to be aboard the ships and that provision is made for the proper loading of vessels so that they are not overloaded and not loaded in a fashion that may cause the boat to capsize.

The Bill before the House is a part of our heritage. The Coat of Arms, which bears the words "founded upon the seas" is really no idle dream. For many years the people of this country survived because of the sea. It gave them food, and it gave them a chance to visit other countries. And, although shipping today locally has been superceded by other aspects of the community, it has played a noble part, and I believe it has been the discipline of the sea which has produced the Caymanian which the entire world envies. It is because of the hardships which they endured, and the discipline instilled that we have a country where tourists today are happy to come to. We would not have arrived in the 20th century economically if it had not been for our heritage of the seas. When other countries were finding it difficult to meet their balance of payments, our men on sailing ships abroad were sending home money. Later on in the days of National Bulk Carriers, when the remittances from seamen exceeded a million dollars a year, we were perhaps at that time made the richest country in the Caribbean. So any matter which this Bill enables to become a reality can only help to sustain the heritage which we have had, and to carry on the momentum which we enjoy.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINDFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I too wish to congratulate the Honourable First Official Member and Financial Secretary for the obvious hard work he has put into presenting this most comprehensive Bill. I would take this opportunity also to congratulate the Honourable Second Official Member for his obvious input into the Bill.

My contribution, Mr. President, will be very short, mainly because there are very few areas of this Bill for complaint. Mr. President, it is a very good Bill, and as the previous speakers have said, the content of the Bill is fairly technical, and therefore I could see very few Members of this Honourable House being in a position to deal with it in a very comprehensive manner.

Mr. President, it deals basically with three main areas. Part 1 deals with the safety conventions, Part 2 with the load lines convention, and Part 3 with conventions relating to oil pollution. These are the three basic areas the Bill deals with. In my efforts to ensure that I was in a position to deal with this matter properly, the Bill before us, I too got some technical advice on it. As a matter of fact, the advice that I have here I got out of London, from one of the leading marine lawyers in London. I have already shown this information to the Honourable First Official Member, and to the Honourable Second Official Member, and I have also promised them that I will let them have a photocopy of this. They have thanked me for this because they see in it points that were also raised by the technical lawyers in London.

Mr. President, I feel that this Bill is timely, and I would not take any more time of the House in discussing it - only to say to them again, congratulations, and I support the Bill wholeheartedly. Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

I would just suggest that since we are only three or four minutes from closing time, if we were to adjourn now rather than someone start for just those few minutes - I am ready to start, but it would be better if we were able to go through with the debate rather than just having to stop after three or four minutes.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am sure you are right, I was just wondering if anyone was going to emulate the Second Member for George Town.

In that case we shall suspend until 2:15 p.m.

AT 12:40 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2.16 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Merchant Shipping (Applicable Conventions) Bill, 1987. The Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. CAPT. CHARLES L. KIRKCONNELL:

Mr. President, I give my wholehearted support to this Bill, The Merchant Shipping (Applicable Conventions) Law, 1987. At one stage, Sir, I felt that we would never see legislation introduced in this Honourable House that would establish the Cayman Islands as a proper port of registry. We are here introducing legislation that will enable the United Kingdom Government to extend, by Order in Council, three very important international conventions to the Cayman Islands. They are the Safety Convention, the Load-line Convention, Conventions relating to Oil Pollution, commonly known as Marpole Conventions. These conventions are very comprehensive and complicated, and not easily understood by the layman. The Honourable First Official Member this morning made this point, Sir, and to debate this Bill in full would take us to the balance of the year, and I am doubtful whether at that time Members would be more enlightened or not.

In February, Sir, we paid a visit to the United Kingdom and were greatly assisted by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, who arranged a visit to the Department of Transport where we held meetings directly with the top brass of that Department. For years, Sir, before that I had been a member of the committee to try to establish a ships registry here, letters, cables, telexes, whatnot had gone back and forth, we had visits from various inspectors from the United Kingdom, we had problems with UNCTAD, and we kept being put off down the line. Eventually we bit the bullet this year and decided the best way to tackle this problem was to go and see the people in person, let them realise that they were dealing with responsible people, that our intentions were honourable, and that we too wanted to put our registry in order. Not having the Load-line Convention, the SOLAS convention, the Marpole Convention extended to our ships under our registry prevented the United Kingdom from doing anything to ships that were trading with Europe, they were not up to international standards and we could not tell the United Kingdom to go and inspect them, we were powerless.

So, Mr. President, once the conventions are extended to us, we will have two surveyors stationed here, we will have the support of the Department of Transport who will give us all the back up that we require. We will then restore our registry to respectability, and we will be up to international standards.

I know, Sir, people are going to say it is going to cost quite a bit of money, and this is true. I anticipate for the first two years if we break even we will have done well. But, I feel Mr. President, once we have a proper registry here, we will attract shipping that we have never heard of before. As a matter of fact, during our stay in London, we were asked to pay a visit to a very high international body of merchant shipping representatives in the United Kingdom who were very interested in finding out the steps that we had taken and when our registry would be put in force.

Since returning or even before we went to the U.K. ship owners were experiencing a lot of trouble because the certificates which they carried were non-convention. Ships have been prevented from entering American ports, ship owners were warned that unless the Cayman Islands Registry complied with the international conventions, they were going to have to be dry-docked, inspected and passed by their authority. Mr. President, once that was done, say, in the United States, the United States could not issue these ships under our flag a conventional certificate. If they went to Europe, if they went into France, Germany, they still had the non-convention certificate, and these ships would still be subjected to inspections by the various countries. So ship owners decided, some have already decided, to remove their ships from our registry and that is why the Honourable First Official Member has asked this House to allow him to introduce this Bill at this sitting even though the time has not been complied with. It is an urgent matter, Mr. President.

The ships we now have on our registry, unless this Government acts, and shows the American Government that we are actively pursuing legislation that will bring our registry up to international standards, unless this is done, we would soon have very few ships on our registry that are worthwhile. So that is why the Honourable First Official Member has brought this Bill to this House, and that is why it is so urgent that this Government take steps now.

Mr. President, this move to form a ship registry here in the Cayman Islands will add another pillar to our economy. We have Banking, we have Tourism, and Ships Registration could be a very worthwhile pillar of strength to our economy, not now, but in a few years to come.

There are many advantages to ship owners to want to register here. First of all the Cayman Islands have a very stable form of Government. Our currency is linked to the U.S. dollar. The business efficiency with company registration is good here. All of the business conducted will be in English. We will have the protection of the British flag, and Mr. President, what were could shipping companies really want from a port of registry? I think the Cayman Islands have the geographical position, we have a registry which we intend to bring up to full strength, so that it will be effective and efficiently run, and I am sure the United Kingdom Government today will welcome the move that we are making here and give us full support.

So, Mr. President, with those few remarks, Sir, I am asking other Members of this House if they would give this Bill their full support.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

MR. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I think Sir, in summary, I said most of what I wanted to say this morning. But I would just like to say a few more words about ship registration in the Cayman Islands, because I think I have been through it all when the Government first made an attempt at obtaining London's permission to establish in the Cayman Islands a port of registry based on acceptable international standards.

In those days, we went to London almost single-handed. Of course, going and sitting in the Department of Transport or the Board of Trade, we had audience with senior people there, but in those days there was a terrific objection to 'flag of convenience registration', and there were many of those throughout the world - Panama, Honduras and what have you - and this is what the British Government was trying to avoid within the Commonwealth, that no more flag of convenience operations should be allowed to establish, especially in small territories. And so the battle was pretty stiff.

Of course, the recent approach to London was flavoured with a lot of things in our favour. Our delegation, which comprised of Members of this Government and headed by someone like Sir Ian Percival, who could touch top buttons in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and lead us to the right places was something in our favour. Another thing in our favour was that we had conducted ourselves in a very orderly manner in dealing with the law enforcement treaty negotiation between the British Government, the United States and ourselves. Our performance in that negotiation impressed the British Government very much. So, when our delegation went before them, headed again by Sir Ian Percival, the attitude of London changed completely, and we were able to obtain their approval for something that had taken us so long, with so much effort over the past years to obtain.

The mover of this Bill made a very good presentation this morning. We will notice that he did not touch on any sections of the Bill. Mr. President, this Bill is a very technical one. It is not something that we can take into Committee and fiddle with sections in there to say what we would like to have, because the Bill has in fact been already examined very carefully by the British Government, and by the ad hoc committee established by the Honourable Member presenting the Bill, and so it has had its technical input. When reading the Bill - I am not saying that we cannot look at things in there and make suggestions - but it reminds me of days gone by when we presented two particular bills in this House which were not interfered with by the Legislative Assembly because they too were considered technical legislation. The Legislative Assembly accepted what was presented to it, and I dare say, that the confidence of the Legislative Assembly was proven to be of utmost success to this country in the years to follow.

Those two pieces of legislation were, first, a new Exchange Control Law introduced in the Cayman Islands in 1966. It was one of the package of laws which were the forerunners to the creation of the financial industry in these Islands. We operated previously by the English Exchange Control Law, which was adopted by Jamaica and extended to us. But we found that law did not allow flexibility for us to develop our financial industry, and especially in the way of investment abroad. The British Government then said to us if you can create the sort of legislation that you need then we will look at it. That we did, because they were not prepared to prepare the sort of legislation that we were looking for. We did it, we put it into effect, and it has served this country well.

The other piece of legislation, Mr. President, was the Currency Law, introduced in 1971. The Legislative Assembly accepted the Bill as was presented, largely because we had technical input in that Bill coming from the Bank of England and the British Government, together with local input. The Legislative Assembly said, well, this is another technical piece of legislation, we will accept it and wish it well. Today, that law has proved that the attitude of the Legislative Assembly was correct, because it has served this country well, it is serving this country well, and I should say that blessed was the day when we introduced that law and established our own currency. Otherwise our financial industry would not have grown.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, on a point of order. I think we are debating the Merchant Shipping Act, and not these other laws that have been on the books for 20 years or more, I think this is quite irrelevant and the Honourable Member is out of order.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I have, during this meeting, given a great deal of latitude, as the Honourable Member will appreciate, on all sorts of motions for debate. I take your point, but this is an extremely important Bill, and I think the Honourable Member is adducing comparable examples.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Exactly so, Mr. President, and I am coming to the point now, with regard to the Bill before us.

I have given the example of those two pieces of legislation to show this Honourable House that the legislature in those days had confidence in some of the things, or in the things Government presented here, and I am saying today that we must have the same confidence in the Honourable First Official Member and what he has done with this Bill, because I am sure that if he was not satisfied that the Bill carried in it the sort of provision which would bring to the Cayman Islands entire success in our endeavour to establish an acceptable port of registry in the Cayman Islands, he would have taken a much longer time to look into the legislation before bringing it here. He has brought it, he has rushed himself with it, because behind it all lies the fact that if we are not in a position to introduce this piece of legislation at the earliest possible time, we could lose a lot of the business we now enjoy.

The Bill before us is a technical document, it is a long document, and if we are going to spend time to look at every section and debate it, we probably would not get out of here this year. So, I am appealing to Honourable Members to bear that in mind. I am not saying that in time to come there may not be the need to look at some of the sections, after the Bill has been put into operation and tested, because I dare say that all legislation is like that. We introduce something and a little while afterward, through experience of its operation, we see the need to make some minor amendments. I am sure that these will come forward if there is a need for it. But right now it is a technical document which has been vetted by London and vetted by the technical committee established locally to advise Government on the legislation.

I support the Bill, Mr. President, I hope that Members will give it the consideration it deserves and pay attention to the urgency which is necessary to put this piece of legislation into effect.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Reading of this Bill?

Would any other Member wish to speak on the Second

Council.

MR. BENSON G. FRANKS:

Mr. President, I am happy to support the introduction of this Legislation. I think it is probably as important a piece of legislation as has ever been placed before this House. I hope it is not coming late in the day, because even now, I know of developments that could give us more competition than was envisaged even when we embarked on this exercise. But I believe, that with this legislation and the extension of the Conventions to the Islands we will give most places a good run for their money.

I have not been able to research what took place between 1972 and 1976 regarding ships registration legislation, but I can remember distinctly, Sir, that in 1976 and again in 1980 that ship registration for the Cayman Islands was the main revenue plank in the manifesto on which the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town ran. In fact, Mr. President, and I am saying this in relation to the remarks made by that Member in his contribution, because, the people of this country have a much longer memory than most people give them credit for having. In 1976 and again in 1980 as I said, that was the main revenue plank in their manifesto. It had one or two flaws and that is, that the shipping they were going to get was the shipping that was in Panama. Panama used to make so many million dollars a year, and they were going to make so much money from ship registration that they were going to remove all other taxes in Cayman.

Now, Sir, as I said, I do not recall specifically what the Government did between 1972 and 1976 about shipping, nor do I recall specifically what was done since then to 1984. But I do know this - that if the Government from 1972 to 1976 had been so negligent and so incapable of getting the ship register put in order, certainly the Second Elected Member and his team, if they were as committed to it as they said in their manifesto, had enough time between 1976 and 1984 to have done it.

I am not one who need to boast about anything I have done in this House or elsewhere, but I am glad, Mr. President, to have been one of the moving forces behind this legislation being before us today, and I also take humble pride in the fact that I was a member of the negotiating team that went to London to deal with this earlier this year. I think the mover and the Honourable Fourth Elected Member referred to ground work that had been laid for this legislation, and I do not think that we should forget the amendment which we passed to our shipping legislation in November last year. That gave the British Government an indication that we were serious about cleaning up our act, about cleaning up our register and going about it in a mature fashion. And, I remember distinctly the Members who opposed that amendment, and I am sure the members of the public recall that. But because we had the courage to go through with that we have today, been able to come forward with this comprehensive legislation which we are now doing.

With those few words, Mr. President, I give this Bill my wholehearted support, and trust that all other Members will do likewise. Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

It appears that no other Member wishes to speak. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I trust that in my deliberation of this Bill, I will be granted by the Chair the same latitude that has been granted to some of the previous speakers.

I would like at this point, to compliment the Financial Secretary for his tenacity and his ability in having this Bill before the House. It is a Bill which I can support. I am not intimating at this point that I support it in its entirety, because some Members would like us to believe that it is not necessary to make any changes. I do not fully ascribe to that belief, as I have yet to see any Bill of any importance come before this House that has not had to have changes and amendments made to it. But, I am particularly pleased to see this Bill before the House, because if it had not been for the tenacity displayed by some Members of the House on the opposition side, we probably would have no Shipping Registry today, because this present administration was suggesting, and was about to bring legislation that would have closed our shipping registry - if not completely, partly closed it. It was only through the stand that was taken by a few Members of this House that that was not pursued any further.

I also wish to join with my colleague from Bodden Town in saying that the Government bench is always very particular to see that everything done by the opposition is done according to all the rules of the House. Yet, they will not follow in the same path. I believe that this Bill could have been gazetted under the normal time periods of the House, and there would have been no call for my colleague from Bodden Town to speak on that issue this morning. However, that is only one more point to exaggerate on how this present Government acts in the conduct of this House.

With us enacting this Bill into Law we will be maintaining our long heritage in regards to the sea. Our country's motto is "he hath founded it upon the seas". We will be telling the world that we are still pursuing that belief. If anyone doubts the part that has been played in the development of the Cayman Islands by the men who have gone down to sea in ships, they do not have to look any further than the plaque on the old George Town lighthouse which carries the names of many of our people who paid the supreme sacrifice. So our tradition is well founded. It goes back many, many years. This country has built its economy on the sea. The part that our seamen have played in the development of this country has to go down in history. It has to have its roots. It is firmly embedded in even most of the Members of this House. It is a solid foundation which has been laid over the ages by the Caymanian men who had backs of steel and made the wooden ships.

Mr. President, my colleague from Bodden Town and myself saw the importance of such a Bill from the early 1972 to 1976 period, in this House. I cannot recall the exact date that we brought the first Motion in regard to amending the Ships Registry to this House, but I do think it was early in 1973. But one thing that does stand out in my mind is, that that Motion was solidly defeated, as it would be at this time if we had brought the Motion. And the two Members who now occupy the supreme positions in the elected Executive Council, and I refer to the Honourable First Elected Member of Council and the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Council, were the people that fought my colleague and myself, and the few other Members who supported us the hardest. It is all recorded in the Hansard of this House.

With the help of the Honourable Third Elected Member to Executive Council during 1976 to 1980, the Government of that day tried very hard to put legislation like this into effect. We then continued our efforts from 1980 to 1984, when a committee which during those years I would venture to say, was constantly working on this Bill. We had a great amount of help from the private sector. But during those years we could not get the support that was needed from London in order to allow this Bill to become Law.

The First Elected Member of Executive Council, in speaking on this Bill, said that this had been a main plank of revenue for the Unity Team campaigns from 1972. That it has been a part of the plank of the Unity Team from 1972 is correct, but it was not one of the major revenue earners that we expected. It is true that people have long memories, and that is why the people of the great district of West Bay put that particular Member out to pasture in the years 1976 to 1980. It is true that memories are long. He would let the people believe that at the time the Unity Team Government was trying to enact this Bill into Law that we were only after the business that would have been generated from Panama. That is incorrect, it is misleading. It is wrong to try to get up in this House and intimate such things on radio to the people of this country. The people of this country well know that that particular Member has never, until now, supported this particular piece of legislation, or been in favour of doing anything to upgrade the shipping law and the shipping registry.

The United Kingdom constantly stood in opposition to us, and it is on record in the Administration Building, and he has access to it. And, it is my humble belief that the only reason the U.K. Government is now allowing us to put this through is because we are now becoming an embarrassment to them when we read the foreign press and find what is being said about the Caymanian registered ships. The other reason I would say is because for once since World War II ended, the British Government is a Government that I think I could respect fully, and I refer to the Thatcher Government. I believe that the present Government in England is not a Government that looks at points like this in an insular manner. I give them at least that much credit.

One Member - I think it was the Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council - was referring to the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty (M.L.A.T.), and that is what had softened the attitude of the British Government in order to allow us to present this Bill today. I humbly submit to this House that it is my belief if anything could have stopped us from putting this Bill through, it would have been the M.L.A. Treaty, it would not have been the way that they conducted themselves in negotiating the M.L.A.T. Treaty in London. Because we all know the detriments that can be suffered under the M.L.A. Treaty. It has been discussed from time to time in this House and will be discussed again. The M.L.A.T. Treaty was something that had to be passed immediately, or the Island would sink below the waters of the Caribbean Sea. Yet, we find ourselves a year later and the M.L.A. Treaty has not been acted on by London or by the United States. We are the only ones that are bound at the present time fully by that Treaty. Why should we try to cloud these issues any more?

I will submit one point of view, Mr. President, and we can have the smiles from all the people in here and in the balconies and on the outside that we want to have. And I know that some of the strong supporters in this Chamber will smile when I say this: that if this Bill is enacted into Law, it will be the only positive action that this present Government will be able to boast of. But, the only point about that, Sir, is that this Bill when passed into law, is another part of the solid foundation that was left behind for them by the Unity Team. This will be a foundation like the Hyatt Hotel and the Treasure Island Hotel that the Honourable Fourth Elected Member tried to mislead the people of this country on yesterday. The foundations to put these two projects into place were fully laid before this present administration ever came to power in 1984. So the public must not be misled any more. The truth must be told.

The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council also went into great detail about the 1966 Exchange Control Law, which I, in my humble opinion, submitted to you as President of this House, was irrelevant. Yet you in your wisdom, saw fit to rule that it was not. That particular Law may have had some good effects on the economy of this country, but I would submit that it hampered development more than it did any good, until the Unity Team administration had the good sense to abolish it more than ten years later, after it was passed. Why does he not tell the truth one more time in this House?

I agree that this Bill, once put into Law, it will be some time before it will be a revenue earner, or be profitable to the country, because some of the ships that are presently registered will undoubtedly leave the register; it will not be profitable for them to remain on our register. So we must face that fact, that we will have to be paying out more money for the next two or three years than we will receive. What we have to do is to look at the end effect over a period of many years.

I have not completely covered this Bill yet, I have a few pages left to go through, and maybe this particular point is covered in it. But I do know, that one of the strong objections that we had in the past in regards to the English allowing to pass on the different conventions to us was the fact that they wanted to ensure that there were English officers used on any ships registered under this Law. That would have precluded our people who have sailed for many, many years in high positions on the sea, as Captains and Chief Engineers, and so on. It would have precluded them from filling those positions. And, if I have to stand alone, if that right is not still preserved for those of our people who hold Liberian licences, I will have in the end to stand in objection to this Bill - if I am the only one that votes no, as much as I would like to see this come into Law.

Mr. President, the Honourable Third Elected Member to Executive Council, as a licensed Master Mariner, has spent a lot of time on this particular Bill, from 1976 that I am aware of. I would hope, and I would be guided, by the suggestions that would be made by him, that when we come to Committee stage on this, that you will allow him to speak, you will relieve him from collective responsibility, you will not fetter his hands in regards to suggesting changes that in his opinion could be applicable. I am saying this because I say that in his past experience, he would be the most capable one at this time to guide the House. And, I would hope that you would do so.

I will also hope and pray, that when this Bill is passed into law, that some of the avaricious law firms on the island will not use it to register Russian ships, as they did so shortly after this administration came into power. I, for one, have never been a Communist, never will be a Communist, never will be a Socialist, I will die a Capitalist if I die with one penny in my pocket. But, I will never earn any money by registering, or trying to register, Russian ships under our registry. So I hope that the Honourable First Elected Member of Council, with all of his good intentions, will lay his heavy hand on top of the hands of some of his very good friends, and keep us with a registry that will be clear of Russian ships today, twenty years from now, and a thousand years from now if our Island remains.

I support this Bill, I think it will be very beneficial to the country. I am pleased to see this Government make at least one positive step during the three years that they have been in power.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Perhaps before I invite any other Member who may wish to speak to do so, I believe there may be a Motion to adjourn the House a little early today. Oh, obviously not all Members are aware of this, I had thought they might be. I was going to suggest that if we were to adjourn early, we might forego the tea break.

May I explain further. There are at least four Members of the House who wish to leave early to attend a funeral. Two of them are among the Members who would be moving and seconding the next items of business, and they have therefore sought permission to be absent. It seemed to me reasonable in the circumstances, that this should be granted, but it does leave us without movers and seconders for the Motions. So would the House be agreeable, when the time comes, to adjourning at about 4:00 p.m., but proceeding now without a tea break? Thank you very much.

We will continue, then, with the Second Reading of the Bill. Would any other Member wish to speak?

In that case would the mover wish to exercise his right of reply?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

I do, Mr. President.

I must say, firstly, Mr. President, today and the activities in this House shall be carved in my diary by five o'clock this afternoon. A day to remember, when every Member of this House is agreeing to a Bill which in my view, is going to be a document that our grandchildren will thank us for.

Mr. President, many of the Members raised a number of points in respect of clauses in the legislation. Every Member in the House, Mr. President, has the right to suggest amendments. In moving the Bill, I did indicate that the U.K. Government had vetted the legislation and their approval for us to move ahead with it is on the basis that they see no major change necessary to the legislation, but that minor amendments shall be coming forward to us from them. Their vetting - and this information, came to us very late in August - we did not want to lose the opportunity of presenting this Bill to the House, and we therefore, with respect, rushed the Bill. But it is not all that bad, because the requirement of Standing Order 46 is that the Bill must be in the hands of the Members for fourteen days - fourteen days is tomorrow. I asked the Clerk to put this Bill on simply because tomorrow Private Members' Motions take precedence, and I wanted to get this piece of legislation considered by the Members today. I would prefer if all Honourable Members who have any amendment which they wish to suggest, that it be held for consideration and let us consider that amendment at the same time that we are taking the amendments which are coming forward from the Department of Trade. If we can agree to that, Mr. President, I am sure that the Government bench will agree to look at any amendment that is put to us. I think in essence, that procedure may be acceptable to the Members on the other side of this House.

I think, Sir, that during the debate, one of the Honourable Members made a remark in respect of the Mutual and Legal Assistance Treaty, and said that it was not ratified by the U.K. or the U.S.A., and I believe it was a slip of his tongue to include the U.K. because it has been ratified by the United Kingdom Government.

One of the points that was raised by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town is that of whether in this legislation, we are tied to officers - Chief Engineers, Masters, Chief Mates and others - having to be from the United Kingdom. I can assure him that he does not need to worry about that one - it is not in here.

But, before I close, it would be remiss of me not to say how cooperative the officers at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office were to us on this occasion, especially the Honourable Humphrey Maud who even hosted us to lunch, and I would like on behalf of the team that visited the U.K. to record our grateful thanks to him. Thanks also go to members of the consultative committee, especially to the three law firms who have been very instrumental and helpful in dealing with this major piece of legislation. They know who they are I do not need to name them.

I think it is important that I point that out, Mr. President, that in clause 1(2) of the Bill, it reads "The provision of this Law shall come into force upon such day as the Governor may appoint in the Gazette and the Governor may appoint different dates for different provisions of this Law".

Again I wish to say thanks very much to Members for their full and unanimous support.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I shall therefore now put the question to the House.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. THE MERCHANT SHIPPING (APPLICABLE CONVENTIONS) BILL, 1987 GIVEN A SECOND READING

MR. PRESIDENT:

We will now go on to Other Business, and return to Private Members' Motions. The House will resume debate upon Private Member's Motion No. 10/87 on Low-Cost Housing.

OTHER BUSINESS

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 10/87
LOW-COST HOUSING

(Continuation of debate thereon)

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I rise to give my support to Private Member's Motion No. 10/87.

Mr. President, Housing is one of the fundamentals of economic and social development. This Motion will help one area of need. It is not, as intimated yesterday by the Honourable Fourth Member of Council, seeking to get a guarantee, as he put it, for the Government to give a guarantee to any bank. I think he read that wrong. We look at the Housing Corporation and we see that it can only help one area of need. We have a much deeper problem to contend with. Some months ago, and I trust I am not deviating from the Motion, I tabled a Motion in this House for Indigent Housing. The need is there because of people who, for instance, have land but can get no further than that, for people who maybe have started a small home, just a basic home, no frills, but can get no further, because they do not qualify with the Housing Corporation requirements, and they do not qualify with that of the commercial banks. Then we have the need of people who desperately need a house, but because of age, cannot qualify again with the requirements of the Housing Development Corporation.

So, Mr. President, I think the Member has done the right thing in bringing this Motion here. It is a difficult thing when we talk here about the attitudes of our people, it is a most difficult thing to try and inspire a person to even a sense of national pride when he has not got a proper home to go to, nor shelter for his family, not even basic accommodation for them to grow up and live in. In going through this country, I have observed, Mr. President, too much substandard housing conditions. Too much, I say, given the affluence which is so often flouted in this country.

In my district alone, I have pinpointed some ten cases and that was last year when I put forward my Motion, Sir. Some ten cases that cannot qualify with the Housing Development Corporation, needless to say the commercial banks. Government did make some move to give some money, but that money up until now, the ninth month of the year, has been unused, by some $92,000. One has to wonder whether the Government in this country is really concerned about these type of people.

Just yesterday afternoon, the mover of this Motion and myself were approached and were taken to a home, if you could call it that, Mr. President, a hut, I would call it, where a man lay in a terrible condition. It was a building maybe four by four, and we did with that, Mr. President, what I did with the condition in my district with the family of six living in an eight by eight building. In that case I had some photographs taken to place on the table of this House, and Sir, I do so again today, to stress even more, to see whether we can touch the hard heartedness of the people in this House to move quickly to do something for our people in this manner.

If you will allow, Sir, I would like the Sergeant-at-Arms to place this on the Table or to take it around to Members for them to see. I think that is better.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think it is in order to do that. But may I just say the Motion is about persons for whom financing might be possibly arranged.

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH: I am getting to that, Mr. President. We already heard that the Government is not accepting that. Well we have an alternative for them, and I trust they will accept that alternative.

I trust that when I sit down that you will not hear Members get up and say that that man is a drunkard, that is why he does not have any home, because that is usually the answer you get in this House. You search the Hansard and you will find out that that is what they tell you, once you bring these kinds of conditions to the attention of Members here. That type of situation should not exist in this country of 20,000 people.

The Government Member responsible for Housing has said that Government is going to throw out this Motion because they cannot support it. Well, Sir, there is a suggested amendment, Mr. President, coming from the mover, I will only read it, and he can move it, but I think that the House should support it. The Suggestion is: "That the resolve section be changed, that this Honourable House agree to form a Committee of the whole House, for the purpose of examining ways and means of providing an appropriate system to properly deal with the housing problems of the poorer individuals in the Cayman Islands."

I trust that Government today realise that their system is not working for the type of people that we are talking about, which is growing in number, that the commercial banks are not able to help them, and that the Social Services of this country is hopeless when it comes to helping with housing. So, I trust that we would at least, form a committee to look into our problem and that all the experts in this House have some answers.

MR. PRESIDENT: I may have misunderstood. I think you were going to move an amendment to the Motion, or are you saying that you expect the mover to move the amendment?

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH: I think the mover will move the amendment, Mr. President, the mover and the seconder.

MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you.
The First Elected Member for the Sister Islands.

MR. MARRY S. KIRKCONNELL: Mr. President, Private Member's Motion No.10/87, Low-Cost Housing is something that has given me a lot of concern for many, many years. I agree with what the mover has said in his Motion, and I read: "Whereas it is very difficult for the low income residents of these islands to qualify for financing for housing through the banks and the Housing Corporation"- I mentioned this in my debate here yesterday. I would wholeheartedly support this Motion if the resolve section was amended as the Second Elected Member for West Bay mentioned earlier.

I think, Sir, that it is incumbent upon each and every one of us, I know not to incur additional expenses on Government, to seek ways and means in which we can provide for people less fortunate than ourselves. We all have much to be thankful for if we do have a home with all the facilities but we must realise that there are others in this community less fortunate. All the districts have their problems. I feel that as a united committee, with assistance probably from the Banking Association, from your good self as Governor and others, we could come up with some solution that would be beneficial to the people who are in dire need of a house. Some of them, may have created their situation, but many unfortunately, may not have had an opportunity to provide for themselves and with the high cost of living they find themselves today not able to qualify to the commercial banks for houses.

With these few words I would ask the Government bench, when considering this Motion, if it is amended as have been suggested, that they will give it their very serious consideration, and let us all try to improve the situation of our less fortunate. Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have just asked the Clerk if she would get a copy of the proposed amendment. If I may have a copy of the text of the proposed amendment, please. Handwriting is perfectly all right, it is just that under Standing Orders I have to read it and see that it does not materially alter the scope or any principle etc.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I may mention here that this would fall under the scope of Standing order 24(9)(2) where it is being recommended that it be taken to a Select Committee of the whole House, and no notice would necessarily have to be given.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Until I have the text I really could not be sure quite what it was going to be. (Pause) Thank you. It is in order, but it may be that other Members wish to speak on the Motion which you originally put. I think we should give Members an opportunity to speak on that. And certainly in any case the Government bench will wish to speak, and I think they have a right to speak again, in fact, on the amendment.

The Honourable First Elected Member for Executive Council.

MR. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. President, I believe that the intention behind this Motion, is good, and I am glad to hear some indication that there might be amendments proposed to the Motion, because as it now stands, it is difficult really, to understand what the Motion is asking.

In listening to the debate yesterday, there were times when I had to wonder whether we were dealing with middle income housing, low cost housing, or in fact, indigent housing. I think all areas were covered. Nevertheless, Sir, we can only deal with what is before the House, and that is Motion No.10/87, and the second "Whereas" of this Motion says:-

"WHEREAS it is very difficult for the lower income residents of these islands to qualify for financing for housing through the banks and the Housing Corporation;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that this Honourable House agree to provide an appropriate system of arranging mortgage financing for housing purchases through commercial banks for lower income applicants."

Mr. President, if the applicants do not meet the criteria for financing through the commercial banks or the Housing Corporation, it is difficult to see how Government is going to provide any form of mortgage financing through commercial banks unless Government is going to accept the liability for that financing? This is the point I believe, that the Honourable Fourth Elected Member made. I think it is a valid one. Certainly, Mr. President, the mover of the Bill gave us the impression that that was what he was talking about, because he, in his introduction, said that "maybe the Motion had been overtaken by events" because it was his understanding that some commercial bank was now intending to loan money at 11 per cent for a period of 25 years as opposed to the Housing Authority's terms of 9 per cent over 20 years.

He went on further to say that if the Motion did not more than succeed in causing that to happen, it would have had the desired effect. So, Mr. President, it appears to me that the intention behind the Motion, was exactly what the Motion says, to find some form of financing on a commercial basis through commercial banks. And, while I am dealing with this, the terms that the Member referred to, I thought I would do a little research last night, since the Member says he always researches his contributions thoroughly, and he was offering some courses in finance and economics during his debate. I did a little sum on those two terms, that is, money at 9 per cent over 20 years, and money at 11 per cent over 25 years.

I took the arbitrary figure of $40,000 and I found that $40,000 at 9 per cent over 20 years would require a monthly repayment of $359.89. And $40,000 at 11 per cent over 25 years would cost $392.05 per month to meet the repayments. So that the Housing Development Corporation's terms, are in fact, less demanding on the resources of the borrower.

Having said that, Mr. President, I agree with those who have said that there is need for housing in this country that cannot be met by normal commercial financing, and I am glad to hear that we might be thinking of a committee of the House to look into this. I also heard, Sir, of the visit that, I think it was the mover and seconder, they had been taken on yesterday afternoon, and we have seen the picture. Mr. President, I believe that the purpose of that visit was specifically to show those two Members the point that was made in the House during the debate on the Motion for incentives for the Lesser Islands. And that was, that there were severe and very substandard living conditions existing in Cayman, and particularly in George Town. And, Sir, I have reason to believe that because I heard remarks the day before that maybe some of the Members who were talking about the Lesser Islands should in fact, look around George Town. I believe that tour was arranged.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

On a point of order, Mr. President, or a point of explanation, I should say, if the Member would give way.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Mr. President, there is no Standing Order to my knowledge, which gives a point of explanation. If the Member can name that Standing Order,

I will yield.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:
then I would not have to get up?

Well, why do you not tell the people the truth, and

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

I am telling the people the truth.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: was not the purpose of the visit.

You are not telling them the truth, because that

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Mr. President, I gave my view of the purpose of the visit, based on comments that had been made to me the day before.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, on a point of order, Standing Order 34(b) gives a Member the opportunity "to elucidate some matter raised by the Member in the course of his speech, if the Member speaking is willing to give way....."

MR. PRESIDENT:

That is correct, but that is not necessarily a point of information. I think if the Member wishes to give way, if the Second Elected Member for West Bay will name the point he wishes to have elucidated, that will do.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Yes, Mr. President, if the Member is kind enough to give way. The point I would like to clear up is the matter he just raised concerning the visit yesterday afternoon. It was not the seconder of the Motion, it was the mover and myself. And I would like to further clear up the reason why we were taken there. And since the Member is kind enough to give way, the reason we were taken there was (1) to show us the living conditions of the man, and (2) to try to get him moved to the Pines Retirement Home.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think we have had enough on this particular point. The fact is that this Motion is not about housing of indigent people, it is about housing for people who cannot at the moment meet criteria to obtain a loan. So I think we are straying from the point. I would also, if you would excuse me, Honourable Member, for a moment. I am trying to obtain the text of some amendment which is perhaps to be proposed later, or a Motion for a Select Committee. Because if this is going to come forward, I think we should consider that, and I would like the text. Otherwise at the moment we are not getting much further on in the debate on this particular Motion. May I just have a moment for that.

With the leave of the House I wish to put a question to the Mover of this Motion. Could you please tell me whether you are proposing to move an amendment to the Motion in the form which I have here roughly, or whether you are going to propose a Select Committee on either the specific question that the Motion refers to, or the wider issue of housing for the indigent, those who cannot raise loans and so on? Could you please clarify that?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, the amendment to the Motion would be made in accordance with the text which I have in the hand written form you have there, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

So it will be an amendment to the Motion, not a separate Motion for a Select Committee?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

An amendment to the Motion, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you. In that case I think it would be helpful to the House if you put the amendment now, because the debate strictly cannot proceed on this amendment until it has been put. So would you please do that.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. President, just before we proceed, on a point of order, I do not think it need stop the procedure you have proposed, but Standing Order 25(2) requires two days' notice of an amendment to a Motion, unless you give leave in exceptional circumstances. If you are minded to that, then it ought to be recorded.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think I may have it wrong, perhaps you would advise me on this: I had thought that 24(7) of the Standing Orders permitted the mover of the Motion to propose a variation - I may be incorrect.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. President, it permits the mover of a Motion to give amended notice of his Motion. Once the Motion is into debate, then he is not giving an amended notice of the Motion, he is amending the Motion. If one looks at the framework of the two Standing Orders, Standing Order 24 appears to deal with the procedure leading up to the Motion, while Standing Order 25 deals with what happens once the Motion has been moved, and before the question is put.

STANDING ORDERS 25(2) AND 24(7).

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you, that is very clear. In that case, since, if I may without offending the House say so, the debate is becoming somewhat confused, and there has been, I think, misunderstanding as between the sides of the House about the resolution clause, so I would give leave that the amendment be made without the notice required, because I think that will enable, as I understand the course of the debate, will enable the Government to support an amended Motion rather than find that the vote will be taken on a Motion which perhaps was not quite as comprehensively worded as the mover intended. Would the House agree to that?

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Mr. President, I think it would only be fair to Members to have a copy, to ask us to vote blindly on what is proposed I think is unfair. I think - if you would suspend proceedings - we should have a copy of it.

MR. PRESIDENT: There most certainly will be a written notice of the amendment, but I think perhaps we cannot deal with this today as we are going to adjourn shortly anyway. I suggest that we do adjourn when the Motion is made, and that we get this amendment sorted out, typed up, and deal with it in tomorrow's business. Is that all right?

I am sorry, Honourable First Elected Member for Council, we did rather interrupt you.

HON. BENSON D. EBANKS: No, Mr. President, I can continue once the amendment is before the House, because I think I made my point on the Motion as it now stands.

MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Then I take it that I am to move adjournment of the House at this time? I do not want to cut anybody off for two minutes again today.

ADJOURNMENT

I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow morning.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that this House do now adjourn until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Prayers.

PRAYERS

CAPT. MARRY S. KIRKCONNELL:

Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake, Amen.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread: And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us: And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us: the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us: the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.
Questions - the Second Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 76: Can the Honourable Member say:

- (a) whether any report was made concerning police brutality against an incoming passenger from Jamaica in the Customs detention area at the Owen Roberts' International Airport since the beginning of this year; and
- (b) whether, subsequently, the passenger has been charged in connection with possession of a controlled drug?

ANSWER: No report about any incident of this kind was made to the police prior to the receipt of this question, but a written allegation received on 9th September, 1987 (suggesting police misconduct at an incident said to have occurred on 30th July, 1987) is now under police investigation.

The incident under reference involved two incoming passengers, both of whom pleaded guilty at court on 31st July and were fined and sentenced to terms of imprisonment on drug offences.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, can the Honourable Member say whether a similar incident happened in the Customs detention at the Tower Building?

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think that is outside the scope of the original question. I think that should be put separately.

Are there any other supplementaries?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can the Honourable Member state the extent of the brutality involved?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, I believe I should refrain from answering that, Sir, on the grounds that the matter is under police investigation.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can the Honourable Member say whether the persons involved were Jamaicans?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, if the Member is referring to the nationality of the two incoming passengers, my understanding, Sir, is yes, they were Jamaica nationals.

W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can the Honourable Member say whether the policeman involved, himself, was a Jamaican?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: That, I am afraid, Mr. President, I cannot confirm.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, the Honourable Member said that he had a report. He must know who the report was about.

MR. PRESIDENT: In other words you are repeating your question?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Yes, Sir.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, I did not say that I had a report, Sir. I said a written allegation was under police investigation.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Well, if there was an allegation, Mr. President, whether the Honourable Member had it or not he now knows about it. He surely must know who the allegations were made against.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Member must put it as a question please.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: That is the question, Mr. President. I am repeating the same question.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well, it has been answered twice. The Honourable Member does not appear to be able to answer it further.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Do you mean to tell me, Mr. President, that the Honourable Member does not know which officer an allegation had been made against?

MR. PRESIDENT: It is not a question of whether I or the Chair know that - please.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: But, Mr. President, I did not say you, Sir. I said the Honourable Member answering the question. I said the Honourable Member, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you. You have made your point and the Honourable Member has said that he cannot answer further. So there is no more to be gained from going on.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: It is more that he will not answer, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: No, I am sorry. Let us not argue about this. Your point has been made.
Supplementaries?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, since this should not prejudice the investigation, can the Honourable Member give the name of the officer involved?

MR. PRESIDENT: I would like the Honourable Second Official Member to comment on that first, please.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. President, no charges have been laid yet, nor any charges be laid. It would depend upon the police investigation. In those circumstances I would have thought it would be unhappy to have the name of an officer who may be innocent and that these allegations may turn out to be quite unfounded, so I would have thought that this House would not really want to press for that answer in public, because it may severely damage an innocent man.

MR. PRESIDENT: I hope the Member will accept that. At the end of the investigation, of course, it will be a different matter.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: A supplementary, Mr. President. Can the Honourable Member say - I do not know whether it came out in any of his answers - what was the basis of the allegation?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, the original answer contains the basis of the allegation, Sir. It says that the incident suggested police misconduct at an incident said to have occurred on 30th July. So the allegation is 'police misconduct'.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: May I ask, Mr. President, what was the basis of the misconduct?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: I am sorry, Mr. President, I do not have the report with the detailed allegations because the matter is under police investigation, and even if I had it, Sir, I would feel constrained not to give any details at this stage.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: That will be like some of the other reports that went in.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please stand when you are addressing the House.
If there are no more supplementaries, we will go on to the next item of business - a Personal Explanation under Standing Order 31 - the Elected Member for North Side.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Thank you, Mr. President.
Mr. President, the people of the district of North Side had the best intentions of taking forward their project on the public beach, parcel 47, lot 33B in the Rum Point registration section.

The committee involved in this project have taken the opportunity to develop a facility of which the district and the Island will be proud.

As intended, the facility will provide a paved parking facility for eight vehicles; a landscaped entrance and exit; restroom facilities for male and female persons, including showers.

The proposed thatched hut, built of materials indigenous to the Islands, will provide a shaded rest area for visitors, in particular evidence of the traditional building materials of the Islands.

It may be that the enthusiasm of the people involved has gone in advance of the strict requirements for projects of this nature. However, these strict requirements have now all been met and the evidence of their goodwill and hard work will soon be available for all members of the public to see.

I should like, on a point of information, to state that the officers of the committee were elected by the normal democratic process at a public meeting and not, as may have been intimated by a Member of this Assembly, by my appointment.

I would hope that the Members of this Assembly and the public at large will quickly come to understand that this project has been conceived on the best motives and for the best interest of the public, and, in particular, for the people of North Side - and should not be criticised on grounds otherwise than of the public interest.

In conclusion, may I say that it is only because I have a clear conscience in the public interest and a particular appreciation of the integrity and ability of the members of the North Side Civic Action Committee in their pursuance of the project, that I retained a dignified silence in the course of the question, and supplementary questions, raised in the Assembly on the 15th of September, 1987.

Thank you, Sir.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

MR. PRESIDENT: Item 9 of our agenda today - Other Business - Private Member's Motion No.10/B7. When we suspended yesterday afternoon we were expecting an amendment from the mover of the motion. Would he accordingly now move his amendment.

STANDING ORDERS 25(2) AND 24(7)

MOTION TO VARY THE TERMS OF PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.10/B7 LDW-COST HOUSING

MR. LINEORD A. PIERSON: Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 24(7), leave having been granted in accordance with Standing Order 25(2), I move to vary the terms of Private Member's Motion No.10/B7 as follows:

"WHEREAS there is a need for low-cost housing within the Cayman Islands;

AND WHEREAS it is very difficult for the lower-income residents of these Islands to qualify for financing for housing through the banks and the Housing Development Corporation;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT this Honourable House agree to establish a Select Committee for the purpose of examining 'ways and means' of providing an appropriate system to properly deal with the housing problems of the poorer individuals in the Cayman Islands."

MR. JOHN D. McLEAM:

Mr. President, I beg to second the motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The amendment has been duly moved and seconded.

Would the Mover wish to speak to it?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President. Only to say that I am very pleased that the Government bench has indicated its support of the amended version, but I would wish to say, Sir, that I am still somewhat at a loss as to why this was necessary as I had in fact explained in my presentation of my motion details of the resolve section.

The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council mentioned that the resolve section proposed that Government guarantee mortgages for poor people. Mr. President, he and other Members supported this same view and I regret that that was the impression they got, because I feel that had they paid a little closer attention to my presentation of the motion, they would have noted that I gave a full explanation and recommendation as to how the whole matter should be handled.

For clarity, Mr. President, I should like to repeat what my explanation on this particular point was. I read from my notes. I said, Mr. President, that it will be necessary, initially, for Government to appoint a Select Committee comprised of members of the banking sector, together with the Housing Development Corporation and Government to investigate ways and means to best cope with the low-cost housing problem. I went on to say that as a result of the deliberations of such a Committee, it is hoped that an appropriate system for mortgage financing can be formulated through the cooperation of both the commercial banks and the Housing Development Corporation - and no doubt appropriate plans for a proper housing scheme.

Mr. President, I would have thought that that was abundantly clear because the reason why a Member moving a motion is asked to speak to the motion is to further clarify the details of a particular motion. But since, as I said, there was some misunderstanding in this, I have gladly taken the opportunity of amending the resolve section, mainly because I feel that this motion is most important to our people in the Cayman Islands and I hope, Mr. President, that it is now in a satisfactory form that can receive the support of the Government bench.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any Member wish to speak?

Council.

The Honourable First Elected Member of Executive

MR. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Mr. President, we would certainly wish to comment on the amendment, but I have only now seen the amendment so I would like an opportunity to discuss it a second.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak in the meanwhile?

Perhaps it would be better if we take short suspension. We will suspend for 10 minutes.

The Honourable First Elected Member of Executive

DEBATE
ON MOTION TO AMEND
PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 10/87
LOW-COST HOUSING

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, now that we have received notice of the amendment to the motion, it appears that we are dealing with a class of person who falls more appropriately under my Portfolio now, so that is why I am, shall I say, speaking to the proposed amendment.

As I see it, Mr. President, Government has no objection to the appointment of a Committee to examine ways and means of providing an appropriate system to deal with the housing problem of the poorer individuals in the Islands. In fact, Mr. President, this merely mirrors what is already stated in the Five Year Economic Development Plan as Government's plan of action dealing with this problem. So it is easy or simple for Government to accept this.

As I understand the selection of committees, Mr. President, this would probably be done by Government through the Financial Secretary, and I have no problem with the amendment as it now stands.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, I would like to support the amended motion that is before the House.

Through the Housing Corporation, Government is already involved in helping people

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: Mr. President, if the Member is prepared to give way, Sir, could I just enquire for clarification? Are we dealing with the amended motion now or merely that section of the motion? The amendment to the motion is what I really considered.

MR. PRESIDENT: We are. The House is debating the motion to amend the motion. So I take it that the Member is supporting the amendment to the motion.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: I thought that is what I said.
Mr. President, what I am supporting is that the House agrees to establish a Select Committee to examine ...

MR. PRESIDENT: Do excuse me. You are supporting the proposed amendment. What I propose to do is to put the question on the amendment. If it is passed we then revert to debating the motion as amended.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, we have become so technical on this motion that it is difficult for me to say what I support now; but the Honourable Member who spoke just before I did claims that what he has supported naturally falls under his Portfolio. I have no difficulty at all with it.

The question of providing housing for those unable to do it on their own has had the approval of governments in the past, and ways have been worked out to help them through the Housing Corporation and the Social Services Department where there is a special vote to help with improvements.

The idea is one that Government can well accommodate with its large revenue, but it is clear that it would be virtually impossible for Government to provide housing for everybody who may need it. So the most that can be expected is that the Committee will work out some means of assisting the extreme cases.

I fully support whatever it is we are debating at this time and I assure the Member that he is on the right track.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Honourable Fourth Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, yesterday when we were asked if we would consider an amendment to Private Member's Motion No. 10/87 dealing with low-cost housing, I replied that there was a bit of reluctance on this side to send the matter to a Select Committee.

It was the view on this side, Mr. President, that over the past few years we have had such an awful experience in trying to provide quorums in Committee meetings to deal with the business of the House. Members had become so despondent about the thought of sending anything to a Select Committee for that reason, and that was why we expressed some doubt of sending anything to a Select Committee.

Mr. President, I wonder whether those who are supporting this motion can really give an assurance to this Honourable House that when this matter goes to a Select Committee that they are going to attend and participate in the business of that Committee.

Mr. President, as a responsible Government, whatever motions or bills are presented to this Honourable House we must examine them so that we can be assured that their effects will not have any detrimental results as far as the country is concerned and as far as the financial position of Government is concerned.

The first motion, Mr. President, was something of an open-ended affair because it was recommending that Government provide a system of providing assistance through commercial banks to people in the lower-income group for housing purposes. There was really no suggestion of how this would operate.

We have heard so much about multiplier effects during this Meeting that it seems to me that that was one of them - that funds would continue to flow out of the Treasury to meet the guarantee of Government in the providing of funds through commercial banks and that there would be no way of ensuring that those funds would be put back in the Treasury.

Mr. President, we are quite prepared to support the amendment to the motion because, as I said in my debate on the original motion, it is always Government's intention to seek means and ways of assisting those who are in need; those who have not the wherewithal to go to the commercial banks and borrow money. So it remains a responsibility to the state to assist those less fortunate people.

I also mentioned that I have sent out a third appeal based on Government debenture, which is a five per cent - 20 year debenture, and I am hopeful that it will produce some more money, but those institutions that had good intention of assisting schemes of this nature have already made contribution and I am not too sure whether there are many others who would follow suit. And so, in order for the Housing Development Corporation to continue to be in possession of mortgage money, Government will certainly have to find other means and ways of raising money.

Just this morning I had discussion on this matter with bankers and I will not say here what the result of that discussion was, but it is pointing to the fact that the local bankers are not prepared to go any further in assisting in this five per cent - 20 year debenture stock. So it definitely, Mr. President, needs this Government to sit and study the matter in some detail and for all of us together to look at it in a sensible way and to decide what methods or system we can recommend back to this Honourable House.

I will be delighted, Mr. President, to sit in Committee to deal with this matter. Again, I would ask all those who are support this amending motion today to please put in their diaries the dates of these Committee meetings so that they can attend and participate in the discussions because it is of interest to the people of these Islands.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: If no other Member wishes to speak on the motion to amend the motion, I invite the mover to reply.

MR. LYNFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, my reply on this motion to amend the substantive motion will be very short and will be mainly to thank Honourable Members for their support to this amendment.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT: I shall put the question on the proposed amendment to Private Member's Motion No.10/87.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. MOTION TO VARY THE TERMS OF PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.10/87 PASSED.

AMENDED PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.10/87

MR. PRESIDENT: The House may now resume the debate on the motion as amended. If I may say, with great respect to the House, Members seem to have expressed their views fairly clearly. Perhaps you would wish me to put the question on the Motion as amended?

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH: I would just rise to say one thing, Mr. President. I am happy that the motion has gone this way and to make it abundantly clear that my attendance at Committee meetings is well recorded.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that Private Member's Motion No.10/87 as amended be passed.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.10/87 AS AMENDED PASSED.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.12/87
ESTABLISHMENT OF REMAND HOME/APPROVED SCHOOL FOR JUVENILE OFFENDERS

MR. PRESIDENT:
No.13/87.

The House then will move to Private Member's Motion

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to move Private Member's Motion No.13/87 on the subject of the establishment of a remand home/approved school for juvenile offenders which reads:

"WHEREAS there is a growing incidence of juvenile delinquency in the Cayman Islands:

AND WHEREAS there are no appropriate facilities here to adequately deal with the more serious offences committed by our youth:

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT Government give urgent and serious consideration to the establishment of a properly equipped and staffed Remand Home/Approved School for our juvenile offenders as soon as possible to avoid those who qualify being sent to approved schools in Jamaica."

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

I am pleased to second the Motion, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Private Member's Motion No.13/87 has been duly moved and seconded. Would the mover wish to speak to it?

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, for many, many years, long before I even considered running for a political seat, I have been most interested in the future of our young people, and, in particular, the rehabilitation of juvenile offenders.

It was no doubt for this reason that I took a major interest in the establishment of the Bonaventure Boys' Home and the Francis Dodden Girls' Home. Together with Mr. Vernon Jackson, the then Principal Secretary for Personnel, and Mr. Mike Valanie, the then House Father of the Bonaventure Boy's Home, I escorted the first batch of boys who attended Boy's Town in Omaha, Nebraska.

I was, at that time, Mr. President, the Principal Secretary for Health, Education and Social Services. In addition, Sir, I have spent many, many hours sitting in Juvenile Court as a Justice of the Peace, as well as keeping in touch with the young people of my constituency. So, Mr. President, I am fairly well knowledgeable of the problems facing our youth today and of the alarming increase in these problems in recent years.

Mr. President, no one can truthfully stand up in this House and shout that my interest is politically motivated. Neither can any one truthfully say that my interest is a recent development. It is therefore because of my interest in the youth of the Cayman Islands that I have, since 1984, brought two motions to this House dealing with the provisions of appropriate and needed facilities for our youth. Both motions were passed, but they might as well not have been passed as Government has not yet done anything to make these projects a reality.

One motion called for a community centre to provide various avenues and activities for our youth, and the other for a civic centre that could have been utilised along the same lines. The second motion for the civic centre was brought for the establishment of the centre as it was quite clear to me that no action would be taken by Government to establish the needed community centre.

To date, Mr. President, no funds have been allocated for either of these two projects, yet, Government can find the necessary funds for all the many, many other projects upon which they have placed a priority. However, for our Government to ignore our youth is not only neglectful, but a retrograde step in our country's development.

I will not comment further on what I regard as an abrogation of Government's responsibility towards the youth, but, Mr. President, Hansard of this honourable House will show my futile efforts over the years to have these facilities established.

About two years ago, Mr. President, I was instrumental in the establishment of the George Town Boxing Club. However, due to the lack of available adequate space, we have had to close down this facility, with the result that approximately 40 to 50 young men are back on the streets, otherwise seeking activities in which to expend their energies.

This is the reason, Mr. President, why I have to agree with the letters which recently appeared in the papers from Mrs. Bridget McPartland and Mrs. Beryl Arch regarding the lack of wholesome activities for our young people. I, too, do not agree that churches provide the total answer. The spiritual side of the youth is important and I can, for this reason, support that. Perhaps it is of paramount importance, but one must not lose sight of the fact that there are other aspects of the total development of the human being including the physical and social development aspects.

Mr. President, we must develop not only our resources, but indeed our thinking must be developed in pace with the changing times. The important point, Mr. President, is that we cannot afford to neglect our youth.

I was somewhat touched with the statistics revealed during the debate on crime which took place at the Hyatt Hotel on Wednesday 22nd August last. Unfortunately, Mr. President, not one Member of our Legislative Assembly attended that meeting, which is certainly an indictment against all of us sitting in these chambers. Regardless of our excuses, I too, Mr. President, had an important assignment or appointment that evening, but I, too, do not excuse myself for not attending that very important meeting.

I think it was the Police Superintendent Ian McGill who pointed out to the gathering at the end of the seminar, and I quote: "One of the biggest factors in the increase in crime is indicated by the empty seats you see beside you tonight." And how true. Notice of that meeting, Mr. President, had been given in the press and on radio, and circulated among the Chamber's 400 members, yet only 20 people turned out.

What happened to the members of the various churches, Mr. President, the service clubs and the Island's community generally? Why such lack of interest in such an important topic? It is no wonder that such low priority has been given to the development of a proper remand home/approved school over the years. Is it because we have been satisfied to shuffle our children over to Jamaica to approved schools? Why, Mr. President, has it taken so long for Government, present and past, to have provided local facilities long ago? Mr. President, I hope no Member admits that it was because they did not see it as an important project or perhaps because there were not enough funds.

It is important that proper interest be shown in our youth from an early age. It was a startling revelation to learn from the report on the debate on crime, referred to earlier, that when Mrs. Angela Martins, the Director of Social Services, joined the Social Services Department in 1983 the Juvenile Court met only once every three months and dealt with perhaps six to 10 cases. Today, however, Mr. President, the Juvenile Court sits weekly and sees some six to eight offenders each week.

The Director stated that the offences for which juveniles are processed are in rank order of vandalism, theft, burglary, drugs, alcohol, assault, grievous bodily harm and unlicensed firearms. But, Mr. President, it was also startling to note that the top four offences were vandalism, theft, burglary and drugs. Mrs. Martins also said in the debate that what was also beginning to concern the Department is gang type activities, which include burglaries and drugs.

The Juvenile Court has a number of alternatives in dealing with young offenders. There may be a probation order such as school attendance, or participation in a youth group, etcetera. Placement in a foster home is another alternative, and of course placement in an approved school, which relates to the subject of the motion.

Mr. President, I further agree with Mrs. Martins that offenders do not come from any particular walk of life, or of any particular race or income level. They tend to be individuals who lack parental supervision, and who are prompted to be influenced by and to believe in the materialistic attitudes within our society.

Mr. President, while the problems of our youth have obviously worsened over the years, the juvenile problem in this country is not a recent phenomenon. Because of the worsening trend with juvenile offences in the Cayman Islands, however, a Juvenile Law Committee was formed in August 1985 with the specific terms of reference to discuss and make recommendations regarding the revisions of the Juvenile Law, and with regard to the establishment of a remand home and approved school facility in Grand Cayman.

The committee was comprised of private citizens, heads of departments including Social Services, Education, Police, Juvenile Court and the Attorney General's Department. Mr. President I was also privileged to be appointed to this committee. The committee which was appointed by the Honourable Member for Health, Education and Social Services had as its chairman the Honourable Lemuel Hurlston, the then Principal Secretary for the Portfolio.

Mr. President, I feel it is appropriate that I give a fairly comprehensive background of past events in relation to my motion, as it is only fair to recognise the efforts made by Government thus far.

The Committee held ...

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

At the break I was recognising the efforts that had been made by the Honourable Member for Health, Education and Social Services, and the appointment of a committee to study the Juvenile Law and I also said, Mr. President, that I felt it appropriate that I give a fairly comprehensive background of past events in relation to my motion, as it was only fair to recognise the efforts that have thus far been made.

Mr. President, the committee held regular meetings from August 1985 through January 1986, and in March 1986 an interim report was submitted to the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council responsible for the Portfolio for Health, Education and Social Services. Since then, however, Mr. President, there has been very little or no action taken through the committee in response to the report, or at least none to my knowledge. But I am sure that the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council will clear this point.

Mr. President, in August 1985, during the Committee's deliberations, the Director of Social Services reported to the committee that there was a need to bring Caymanian juveniles back to Grand Cayman from approved schools and caring homes in Jamaica. This recommendation was based on a visit she had made to the Jamaican approved schools facilities. She found facilities overcrowded and understaffed. I am aware, Mr. President, of other Members of Government including the Second Elected Member for West Bay who has also visited these facilities and returned with similar sentiments. Mr. President, I have even been told that some of the facilities do not have telephones and in view of the remote location of these facilities there is no immediate means of contacting the outside world in the event of an emergency.

There is a need to keep juvenile offenders, and those on remand, pending hearing before the juvenile court completely separate from each other. It is felt, Mr. President, that one facility would suffice for both - the juvenile offender, and the juvenile on remand, as long as it is ensured that the groups will be kept apart, and separate from each other, although kitchen staff could prepare food for both groups, and office personnel could utilise a common office space. However, Mr. President, dining areas, outdoor space and living accommodation should preferably not be shared.

During the deliberations of the Juvenile Law committee, the need for educational programmes was raised with the Chief Education Officer, who agreed that teachers could be provided for the facility through the Education Department. These teachers would use, in the approved school/remand centre the same educational materials and the same syllabus as is used in the regular classroom. However, Mr. President, much consideration will have to be given to setting up such a system.

Mr. President, I am not here advocating that initially an expensive structure should be built, even though a temporary facility would, of necessity, have to provide the adequate teaching equipment, etcetera. It is, however, my view that provision be made in the estimates as soon as possible for the establishment of a purpose built facility, as this is most urgent and needed at this time. It is believed, Mr. President, that a modular system for a purpose built facility would be most appropriate. Such a facility could house eight to ten juveniles in each module. It is generally believed that institutional living on an open ward system, such as obtains at Northward prison, is not appropriate for juvenile offenders. They need more individual attention.

Mr. President, for many years we have had problems in finding adequate facilities as a lock-up for juveniles on remand. We have experienced this difficulty in the Juvenile Court in issuing a remand order and again this formed the basis for much discussion at the Committee's meetings. It was the view of the Justices of the Peace sitting in the Juvenile Court that, even though the West Bay jail is not suitable as a lock-up for juveniles on remand, in the absence of other more suitable accommodations, the court was left with no choice but to use the West Bay jail for this purpose.

Mr. President, from extracts of the minutes of the meetings of the Juvenile Law committee, I am recorded as stating that the committee should have developed guidelines for the type of facility being considered. On the 19th of September, 1985 I told the committee that once these guidelines were established, the committee could more easily define and select appropriate temporary facilities pending the construction of a purpose built facility. However, Mr. President, to date, to the best of my knowledge, no action in this respect has been taken.

It is important, Mr. President, that the Education Department, and Social Services Department agree as early as possible on the most appropriate type of facility to be used as there seem to have been major differences of opinion at the committee meeting as to what layout would be most appropriate to meet the needs of various types of juvenile offenders using the facility.

In addition to children in need of care and protection are those who may be generally neglected by their parents, resulting in them being admitted to a juvenile approved school or remand centre. Government will also have to consider the emotionally disturbed child who will require specialist attention.

Mr. President, Government will need to give urgent attention to selecting the most suitable location for an approved school or remand centre. I recall at the committee's meeting that we were advised that the Public Works Department was in the process of preparing plans for the facility; even though I found it somewhat strange that we, as a committee, had not yet agreed on the basic configuration of the facility, and were therefore not in a position to fully advise Public Works what was required. And, Mr. President, as I recall, up to the last meeting, of which I received notice, no guidelines of the type of facility required had yet been presented by the chairman of the committee.

The committee's records will, however, Mr. President, show that I recommended that we involve architects from the private sector to assist us with the plans if P.W.D. was not able to render the assistance required, since it was felt that because of the Public Works' workload they may not have been able to give this matter the priority it required. As far as I can recall no action was taken in this regard either.

Mr. President, I will challenge anyone, in or out of this House, to say that I have not done all in my power to help the youth of my constituency - whether in providing facilities for wholesome activities to keep our young people out of trouble, or, as a member of the Juvenile Law committee, in trying to have a proper approved school and remand centre established.

Mr. President, to support the interest I have shown in my constituency to young people, recently I also sponsored a velley ball team known as T.R.C. Spikers, and, Mr. President, I understand that the way in which they have been playing they may come top of the league. I am not saying this to boast, but to just show my interest in the youth of the Cayman Islands.

Mr. President, as the public are aware, one individual can only do so much and no more. We need the full support of this Honourable House. Yes, I would again agree that my motions for a community youth centre and civic centre for George Town were passed, but to date no funds have been provided in the budget for these facilities.

I even advised the Portfolio for Health, Education and Social Services that a client of mine had promised me to supply a 5000 square foot steel building to house the boxing club and for other sporting activities, but to date I am still looking for suitable available property on which to erect the building. I am not here, Mr. President, accusing the Portfolio for not giving some assistance in this, because I do know that they too have been trying to find suitable space. But, I am aware of certain Government lands that could have been used for that purpose, and I also brought this to the attention of the portfolio. But, Mr. President, I am well aware, having spent sixteen years in the Government Service, that the wheels of Government grind slowly. I am also aware that in a small government such as ours, we are bound to meet with bureaucracy and red tape. That is the way governments work the world over.

Mr. President, I would reiterate the need for Government to decide on a basic philosophy and criteria before any decision can be reached with regard to the type of facility required. It must be flexible enough to meet the needs of the broad spectrum of children we serve. Some children will benefit from a few months of intensive care, while others will need more long term custodial care.

The need for an approved school/remand centre has long been accepted. What we now need to decide on is the best possible facility, and the type of rehabilitation programmes that will be required. It should be fully understood that an approved school is not just for incarceration purposes; it is also a place where the child can be fully rehabilitated back to society.

Since we now have two caring homes for these children in need of care and protection, the Bonaventure Boys' Home and the Francis Bodden Girls' Home, we now need a more disciplined and structured facility for the serious offenders. To accomplish our goals, Mr. President, again I say we must establish the proper criteria and guidelines to determine our goals and objectives, and in order for us to build the type of facility needed.

Mr. President, it will be a waste of the time of this Honourable House, and an insult to the public if this notion is passed without the full intention of Government to make it become a reality as soon as possible. If Government has no intention of making this a top priority then it would be just as well that it did not pass the motion. Promises are not enough for our people - they deserve more than promises.

May I take this opportunity, Mr. President, to acknowledge my gratitude to the Jamaican Government for all the assistance that it has given us over the years; even though we now bite the hands that once fed us. Jamaica was and is still good to us. We still have no facilities here for our insane people and for our children in need approved school facilities. The Jamaican Government even provides university facilities for us. It is a good thing that they are not as hard on Caymanians as we seem to be on them, but enough on that.

We have come of age, Mr. President. We can now afford to provide the appropriate facilities for our young people who need the discipline and care of an approved school environment. Let us no longer send our children away from our shores to another country, where they stand a chance of becoming worse off as a result, through the unwholesome influences of children who may be many times worse than they are.

Mr. President, should not the purpose of an approved school be to help the children make themselves better individuals? It should not just be a place for punishment. And it is our responsibility, in this Honourable House, to ensure that our young people get the very best treatment.

Mr. President, much will have to be done by Government prior to the physical establishment of the structure for an approved school/remand centre. For example the necessary amending legislation to provide for an approved school is needed, but I understand, from the Honourable First Elected Member, that this legislation is soon to be presented to this Honourable House, and I am eagerly awaiting that presentation.

Of major concern, Mr. President, and urgency is the need for a temporary facility which can be used as an approved school/remand centre pending the establishment of a purpose built facility. We need a temporary facility now. Let us make a sincere attempt to bring our children back home as soon as possible. Our children, deserve better than we are giving them.

Mr. President, some years ago the Government took the decision to bring our prisoners back from Jamaica - adults, people of mature age who could be held fully responsible for their offences. Much more, Mr. President, should we now be giving urgent attention to bringing our children back to our shores.

Mr. President, one year and six months ago the interim report of the Juvenile Law committee was submitted to the Honourable Member for Health, Education and Social Services. In this report the urgency of an approved school/remand centre was fully stressed. As stated, to date nothing has been done, regardless of the good intentions. And I am sure, in replying, that the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council will certainly set the record straight on that particular point. I trust that we will see that positive action is taken before the end of this year.

I can only hope and pray that Government will support this motion, and in so doing resolve to have a properly equipped facility built or acquired as soon as possible. Mr. President, it is important that we give our full support to this motion. I have seen, time and time again in this honourable House Members get up and give their conditional support, which does not really materialised into anything. I have heard them give qualified support. I would not be surprised if in this instance my motion is given such treatment. Regardless, however, of the way in which it is handled, as long as the people of this country can look forward to the needed facility, I feel that as a representative of this country I would have done my job.

Mr. President, as I said in my presentation, I have given full acknowledgment and recognition to the efforts thus far made by the Government, and I feel that they should be congratulated for what has been done thus far. But I also feel that things could have moved much faster than they have. We knew for a long time that a temporary facility was much needed. I understand that things will in fact take a little while, but let us move on this with haste.

A number of our children in approved school in Jamaica are suffering. I got a report where a little boy is said to have dropped off a truck, but because there was no telephone in the facility, the full details of the matter could not be immediately ascertained. This was told to me by the mother of the child and I reported the case to the Social Services Department. I am not here to say whether this is true or not, I am just saying that there is room for such concern.

Mr. President, good intentions are not enough. This matter should be made a top priority. Let us resolve today that we will in fact make the establishment of an approved school/remand centre for the Cayman Islands our top priority.

Thank you Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I cannot support Private Member's Motion No.13/B7 for two reasons mainly. One, I do not see how this motion is going to speed up the process of the establishment of a properly equipped and staffed approved school for juvenile offenders.

I would agree with the mover of the Motion that such a facility is urgently needed, but I have to say, Sir, that I believe it has been given priority. In fact, Sir, if Members take the time to refer to the Five Year Economic Plan which was tabled ... (INAUDIBLE)... Mr. President, I would be grateful Sir if you would explain Standing Order 34, in kindergarten language, to the Second Elected Member for West Bay as to when he is privileged to interrupt Members, and I will give way for that, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:
say something?

The Second Elected Member for West Bay wishes to

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: look at him.

He is again, Sir, imagining things - I did not even

MR. PRESIDENT:
something, whether you looked or not. If you have something to say, please be upstanding and say it.

Well he is under the impression that you said

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: myself.

Mr. President, I was reading the Juvenile Law to

MR. PRESIDENT: In that case I must ask you to read it more quietly.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Sorry, Mr. President, did you hear me speak?

MR. PRESIDENT: I heard that you said something, I could not hear precisely what you said.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: You heard him.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am not going to be corrected by you in this matter.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I am sorry, Sir, I did not speak.

MR. PRESIDENT: If you did not speak, you made a noise approximating speech.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: No, Sir, I was reading.

MR. PRESIDENT: Would the Elected Member for North Side continue.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Thank you, Sir.
As I was saying, Mr. President, the Five Year Economic Plan, which was tabled in this Assembly some time back, provided in its third year - next year, that is, 1988 - in Section 4(3) under Social Services, Project 17(2) Remedial Facility. With your permission, Sir, I would read what the Economic Plan says specifically about a remedial facility. And I quote, Sir:

"The multipurpose remedial facility will be designed to hold approximately 75 children. The facility will also include the necessary classrooms for educational needs. The plan will be drawn up in 1987 and land acquired. Construction will commence in 1987 and be completed in 1989. The construction cost of this project is provisionally estimated at CI$1.5 million. In addition, the sum of CI$110,000 is estimated to cover site selection. Purchase and investigation, CI$250,000. The construction cost is allocated for 1987 and the remaining CI$1.25 million divided equally between 1988 and 1989."

Following that, Sir, and in keeping with Government's commitment and priority as given to this project, earlier this week we were circulated a computer print-out of the Public Works Department by the Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council, and 41-021 deals with this item, and once again, Sir, with the indulgence of the House I would quote what this report says:

"41-021 Remand Homes. 17-3201 Approved School.
Remarks: Phase Development Plan under preparation for 1988 budget. Estimate prepared."

Mr. President, I believe those two documents give ample evidence of Government's commitment and its priority to this project. But as indicated by the mover of the motion, this project is not a simple one. It requires a lot of detailed planning, and it will take time to develop. Further, Mr. President, all Members will be given the opportunity to support provision in the 1988 estimates for the remand home in the budget session for 1988, including, if necessary, Mr. President, additional revenue measures if it was possible. I am not suggesting Sir, that that is the case, but what I want Members to understand is that if we are going to commit on the expense side, we have to balance the scales, and if necessary - I do not envisage it being necessary at this time, but all things can happen, Sir, - we have to therefore be prepared to make the necessary commitment.

Mr. President, I believe that the mover of the motion has amply demonstrated and given credit to Government for the steps it has taken. Without wishing to repeat those accolades, I believe he has adequately proven that Government has given, is giving, and intends to give, priority to this project.

Mr. President, had this motion, and if it is amended, to say that Government should take immediate action to provide temporary facilities, then I believe, you might achieve what the Member is trying to do in getting people home earlier than possible. But with the late stage in which the development of this facility appears to be, in that the estimates for 1988 have already been prepared, I would hazard to guess at this time that it would be more expedient to add, at this stage, a temporary facility. We might be better off to continue as we are and provide this proper equipped and staffed remand home in the 1988 and 1989 financial years of this country.

Mr. President, I have to take issue with the mover of the motion when he indicated that it was an indictment against me and other Members of the House for not attending the Chamber of Commerce's meeting. I will reserve my reasons and descriptive explicatives of why I have the regard that I do for the Chamber of Commerce. Suffice it to say, Sir, that I am no longer a member of the Chamber of Commerce and did not attend the meeting.

Mr. President, I cannot support the motion as it stands. Thank you Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

While Members are deciding whether or not to speak further on this Motion, I think I would like to say from the Chair, something about Standing Order 34. It is a matter of pride to me that in this meeting of the Assembly I have not had to call, formally, Order, Order, and I think that is a matter of satisfaction to the House, too. But proceedings in other Houses indicate a certain give and take over Standing Order 34, and I would not wish to apply too rigid an interpretation of it. So perhaps it will be sufficient if I say that I hope that interjections will be occasional, will be relevant, and will be given and taken in good humour. That is how I would like, from the Chair, to regard it.

Would any Member wish to speak on the Motion before the House? The Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:

Yes, Mr. President, I would like to thank the last speaker for making the points he did with regard to the provisions that have been made and steps that have been taken to implement them.

Mr. President, there is no doubt in my mind that the mover and seconder of this motion have strong feelings about the motion, and that it is brought with good intent. But I would have to question, really, Mr. President, their power of recall. As the Member for North Side pointed out, the Five Year Economic Development Plan, which those Members studied, commented on, and accepted in this House, includes provision over the next three years, starting in 1988, for the provision of a juvenile remedial rehabilitation centre. And as the mover pointed out, this facility will be much more than just a remand home and approved school.

It is true, Mr. President, that I appointed a committee in 1985 to look at the revision of the Juvenile Law, and later on expanded the terms of that committee to include the examination of facilities required for dealing with juvenile offenders and/or other juvenile needs in the community. The report, once drawn together, was given to the Legal Department. Unfortunately at that time they were buried with other demands for legislation. The most recent piece, which happened to slip in front of the Juvenile Law, was the Merchant Shipping Law. But the Legal Department has now assigned a specific officer to draft this law, and I have been advised that we should have the first draft in two or three weeks time. So, Mr. President, we are moving in that direction as well.

Now, Mr. President, the thing that I have been a bit taken aback on, is the comments by the mover of the motion that he has not seen any plans for the facilities and so on. I do not think the terms of reference of the committee went as far as for them to approve the plans of the facility to be provided. That comes, Mr. President, from the mere technical people whom I have been consulting on the facility.

Mr. President, we felt so strongly about the matter from 1985 that we actually looked at every available or possible building owned by Government in this country with a view to making some makeshift arrangements, but it was concluded that there was no building suitable for that purpose, and therefore we had to go for the purpose built facility.

It is not as simple as some people would have us believe. I was told by one member of the community: 'No big deal, go down to Captain Charles' and get some lumber, put it together and put the children in it'. Now, Mr. President, whatever might happen to me in my political career, I do not want anyone to look at a facility provided for our children and be able to call it Benson's Folly. Whatever we build is going to serve the purpose.

As I said, Mr. President, it has been accepted that it is urgent and desirable that we get the children home from Jamaica, but if Members will recall correctly, when the prison was built, and we were going to bring our prisoners home from Jamaica, we were going to reduce the number of prisoners dramatically, particularly repeat prisoners, because we were not going to have this bad influence which they were getting in the Jamaican jails.

Now, Mr. President, what do the statistics prove? Our own jail has had the direct opposite result. The number of prisoners in Northward is roughly eight times more than what we had when we started to build the facility. The statistics will prove that the number of repeat offenders is large, and I would hope that we do not suffer a similar fate with the children who are in Jamaica in approved schools, once we have our own facility available here. It points to the fact, Mr. President, that no makeshift facility is going to be good enough; we have to have a facility that's going to do the job otherwise we are better off without it.

Some mention was made, Mr. President, about Members not attending the meeting at the Hyatt sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. I did not go, but I have no real apologies to make about that, other than if I had had the time I would have gone to have lent my support to the effort. But no information came out of that meeting, Mr. President, which I did not already know. I try to keep abreast of developments in those areas on, at least, a monthly basis, if not more often.

I have to mention the boxing club facility. The mover of the motion did speak with me in the Committee Room once. I have spoken to him since and asked what was happening about it. He did tell me that some client, or friend, had promised a building. I said that this would be great and that if we could get a plan of this building, I believed that we could situate it on some land which is owned by Government. I even gave some suggestions that the building be built high enough to accommodate other sports. But, Mr. President, certainly I have not seen the plans for that building and I do not believe that they are anywhere in the Portfolio, because I believe I would have had them. But if they perchance have been handed in to the Portfolio, I would like to know about it so that I can move it along. I think it is a good thing, but I do not believe that the plans have been submitted to the Portfolio for a decision to be made as to whether it could be located on the piece of land that we had in mind or not.

Mr. President, as I said, this motion does not do or would not cause any action to take place that has not already been done. I consider the motion redundant. The mover and the seconder of this motion must know that the money has been put in the Five Year Economic Development Plan. I can assure them that next year's provision has been submitted in the budget requests, so that it is being treated seriously and urgently. This motion could not add any more impetus than what is already behind the project.

In addition to what has already been pointed out about the provision of money and the need to build and equip this centre properly, I can say, Mr. President, that even since the recruitment of teachers and added personnel, who will be used in this type of facility - for example for the first time we have a properly trained Educational Psychologist in post and other technical staff, and already they are at work on this project. So, Mr. President, for that reason I have to say that I thank the mover and seconder of the motion for their indication of even greater support when the budget provisions are brought before the House in November, but I regard the motion as redundant and therefore I cannot support it.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Member wish to speak?

The Motion remains open for debate. Does any other

The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I rise to support Private Member's Motion No.13/87 for the establishment of a remand home/approved school for juvenile offenders.

If I may say, one of the greatest dangers to the stability of this country is our growing social problems, and we urgently need to attack these problems with all the tools at our disposal. The root cause of these growing social problems is mostly with our juveniles. This certainly appears to be the case.

We have spent, and are spending, considerable sums of money providing community and sports' centres, somehow thinking that this will bring us the answer. All these things are good and necessary and they have my full support, because no effort is too great for our young people. However, with all these things going for them our youth will benefit but little unless we find the way to attack the real cause of problems with our youth.

One of the big causes in this country is a lack of discipline and control - it is a fact. And there are many reasons why this problem has developed and is rapidly growing in our community. One of the reasons is the growing cost of living, where it has become impossible for the many one-parent families in this country to provide the bare necessities of life for their family. It is thus requiring even the second parent, usually the mother, to practically abandon her God-given role of staying at home and supervising the children. Instead of this, she is required by bare need to go out and take a job that takes her away from her home where she is mostly needed. Well, I do not know what can easily be done about that.

Another cause, Mr. President, in this country, is the many parents, both father and mother, who bring children into this world and then neglect them. It is a known fact that most of our juvenile problems originate in the one-parent home, as I said before.

Mr. President, what can we as a Government do concerning these situations? Much sympathy has come, at least, from the lips for this motion - sometimes words are plentiful, but action is very little; even with the many experts we have, the know-it-alls.

Mr. President, I know that we have a provision in the Economic Development Plan. I read my plan. I was the seconder of the motion which brought the plan into being. What this motion seeks Government to do is to make a commitment, further than they have gone. The Economic Development Plan has cited many areas of need, not only a remand home, but, Mr. President, if the juvenile remand home in this country gets as much support and action as have some of the other Government projects in this country, then that is sure to fail. I cite one - housing. With the amount of money that we have budgeted for housing in this country for indigent people, $100,000, up to now $92,000 is still left unused. Why? Simply because Government has made no commitment to render the housing situation, amongst the poorer people of this country, to a better position than what it is now. No commitment!

Mr. President, I have sat and listened and heard all the talk, but have seen no action. If someone has a big mouth, open it, but back it up with something. There has been much talk, but no real action.

Concerning this motion I recently had a case which I drew your attention to, or the Governor's attention to, and nothing really developed from the case - there was nothing that could be done because I believe that, under the Juvenile Law, once our children have been sent to an approved school in Jamaica, they are left under the responsibility of the Minister in that country.

I spoke to the Honourable Member who, on many occasions was confronted with that problem. Now I am not saying that it was an easy problem to solve, but more could have been done about it. A child came home to this country, Mr. President, and spoke to the Honourable Member himself. He told him of many things that were going on in the school. If I am not mistaken, Mr. President, in my discussion with the Honourable Member concerning the visit that the boy paid him, he assured the boy that he would soon have him released....

MR. PRESIDENT: Is this a point of order, or ...

HON. BENSON D. EBANKS: Mr. President, I do not think that this is really relevant to the motion ...

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, is this a point of order?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Where is the Honourable Member's point of order?

MR. PRESIDENT: Order! Order! Please be seated.

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON: If the Member is not rising on a point of order, he should not get up in this Assembly.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated. Order! Order! I want one Member at a time. I am waiting for the Honourable First Elected Member to speak. Until I hear what he says, I cannot rule. Please be quiet. Please be quiet!
Honourable First Elected Member, would you state your point of order?

HON. BENSON D. EBANKS: Yes, Mr. President, I am talking about relevancy, and the Member is certainly misleading the House. No one came to me.

MR. PRESIDENT: I greatly regret having to act as Chair in this way, but we must allow Members to speak before it is possible to decide what they are talking about, or what point they are trying to make. Would the Second Elected Member for West Bay please continue, and please remember we are giving full latitude, but let us stick as closely as we can to the motion.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I am glad to hear that there is latitude given to me, Mr. President, because other Members roamed all over this House today, and I am only replying to some of what was said.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Chair is not asking you to justify yourself, the Chair has ruled and asked you to continue. Please continue.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, the First Elected Member for West Bay, the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council, knows that I am not telling a lie in this House. He knows that the child went to him personally and had a discussion with him. He knows that he had a discussion with me concerning the visit the child made to him. Why he would now get up and say that I am misleading the House, Mr. President, is beyond me. But maybe he is another one of those experts who is never wrong.

Mr. President, he gave that child an assurance that he would soon have him released, after the child told him about the problems in the school in Jamaica. The problems of the bad food, the problems of clothes disappearing, and other instances, Mr. President. And my point is that I know that in the Juvenile Law once a child is sent there, he is in the control of the Jamaican authorities. The point I am stressing is that the Honourable Member should quickly bring about the new Juvenile Law to render that situation to a position where, if we see fit after having sent the child, we can then have some say in the child's situation.

Recently, Mr. President, to cite a situation that is happening, that child came back to the country and I was approached about the situation. When it was time for the child to go back the mother had not one cent to buy him clothes, because she was not working at the time, and so there became a confusion over the child going back. Police, Mr. President, were sent to the home to have the child arrested. The child did not object in any way concerning his departure to Jamaica. But to show that the Member's department is not doing its work - and he knows that they are not doing their work - why send the police; three policemen!, Mr. President, to get a little boy no taller than would catch me around my waist. Instead of interrupting Members in this House he should pay attention to his department, which he knows is lacking. But they give him full support now and that is all he wants. He is not getting that from me, so everything I say is wrong.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Perhaps I may interrupt ...

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:
Standing Order 35(7)?

Mr. President, could I call your attention, Sir, to

MR. PRESIDENT:
officers mentioned?

You are referring of course to the three police

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS:
about the three police officers. I am talking about the Member's accusations of my conduct.

Not necessarily, Mr. President, I did not know

MR. PRESIDENT:
I accept this, I was about to say that maybe we should break for lunch, but I would like to say something about Standing Order 34, hopefully that we may avoid a recurrence of our little simultaneous speaking a few moments ago. Standing Order 34 provides for points of order and points of elucidation, and I think that perhaps the Honourable First Elected Member could properly have risen on a point of elucidation earlier on. When the conduct or the actions of a Member of the Assembly are brought up when a Member is speaking, it seems to me quite reasonable that if the Member spoken about wishes to rise, that the Member speaking should give way and allow the point of elucidation. The Chair will have of course to decide whether it is relevant, and how far it may be taken, but I do think we should allow ourselves at least this exchange.

Shall we now suspend proceedings until 2:15 this afternoon?

AT 12:52 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2:21 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Our proceedings are resumed on Private Member's Motion No.13/87. The Second Elected Member for West Bay was speaking.

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH:

Mr. President, when we took the suspension, there was so much confusion and red herrings drawn into the debate that I nearly lost sight of where I was at. Before I go on to that Mr. President, sometime in the debate you spoke to me concerning what you thought was a fault of mine on a standing order. All I would say to that is, Mr. President, maybe I was as guilty of reading aloud as the manner in which the Member is guilty of sipping his coffee - one shows bad manners as the next.

MR. PRESIDENT:
closed.

I think we will regard that incident as firmly

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH:

Mr. President, there was the matter of redundancy raised in the debate. I cannot see how the two Members, who have objected so far, can say that the motion is redundant. Their argument is that the motion is redundant because it is placed in the Economic Development Plan. The Economic Development Plan, Mr. President, is only good intentions, and we all know that the road to Hell is paved with good intentions. The Plan is only a guideline and in the matter of a remand home, events have since taken over the Plan.

Mr. President, one Member talked about how good the country of Jamaica has been to this Island, up until now, and it is true. However, today that country is experiencing many problems, and therefore the remand facilities in that country leave something to be desired. Sometime back, maybe in early 1985 or 1986, I asked the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council to send a delegation to Jamaica to look at the remand facilities there. Well, nothing came of that, but I have since paid a visit and I can say that we would not send a dog to certain centres there.

Mr. President, if the two Members who oppose this motion can show me how these centres, and some of what I have observed, can be conducive to a child's upbringing, then I would say that neither of them have any real interest in that type of situation and in those types of children. There are no good sleeping facilities. The cooking facilities leave something to be desired. The bathrooms - well, to keep some sort of dignity in this House I will not go into the bathroom facilities, but I am certain, Mr. President, that no Member in this House would want their cousin or child to be under such circumstances.

Mr. President, you heard about one child falling from a truck. There is another serious situation that exists which I will not voice on the floor of this House, but let me say that if we continue to send our children to those kinds of centres - it does not have to be two years, it can happen in one instance, and the child gets back into this country - we are going to have more difficult problems than finance or mere political points. Because of the extreme situation, Mr. President, I would not carry on with that particular point. But I really wish, not next year - election year, that the Member would authorise a delegation of some Members of this House.

Children take clothes there, Mr. President, and when they come back they do not have any. The same with food. And that child is expected to come back into our community to be the citizen that we try to make him? The Member knows, Mr. President, the case of the one child in West Bay. We are not accomplishing anything by putting a child like that in that sort of environment, and then bring him back here to work.

Still speaking on redundancy, Mr. President, since March 1984, it was said, the Member had a report from the Committee on the Juvenile Law dealing with a recommendation for an approved school and other things. Mr. President, the Member knows the extreme situation. Can he give me any good reason, any good reason, why he has not yet put something in place? Do you mean to tell me, Mr. President, that we have to go to England to get people to tell us what we need? Or is it, Mr. President, the fact that these kinds of items have been left for the beginning of an election year so that on the campaign trail one can get up and say "You see what I am doing", or in the case of just finishing the project, "You see what I have done".

MR. PRESIDENT: I think you are getting close to imputing improper motives - getting close to it.

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH: Well, Mr. President, I will bow to your ruling. However, I do not think it is improper if a Member so chooses to help himself at election year.

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS: As the Member is doing now, Mr. President.

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH: My interest, Mr. President, goes far beyond politics, and this cannot help me politically. My record is good, and the people will judge accordingly. The Honourable Member who interjected with that little statement had better realise that his record on social affairs in this country is poor, and his chances on social affairs in this country are very bleak indeed.

Mr. President, I can do no more - I have done my part. I know that they have a saving clause in this debate, in that one of the Members is going to get up and refute everything I have said. But I stand firm in my belief that in our situation the need for an approved school/remand centre is so great that we should not wait until next year to start it. We should not have waited this long, Mr. President. However, whenever he brings it, and I hope he brings it in good time, I will be thankful, because I have fought for it - and not only now. Social issues in this country have been something of promises in our election manifestos.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for Rodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG RODDEN: Mr. President, I want to support the motion before the House because it seeks the construction of a facility which is needed more than anything else upon which money is spent during the fiscal year. I wish that the Member who just spoke, that is the Second Elected Member for West Bay, had really given the House a more detailed account of his visit to Jamaica, and if he had I am certain that Members would have been more shocked than they were.

A few years ago the Government took a decision to build a prison in Grand Cayman in order to prevent the convicted persons from being sent to Jamaica. The Government at the time had been criticised for it, but the Government at that time, made only one mistake - they should have built the facilities for the juveniles first, but both of them needed to be done.

Even if this motion is not accepted, I feel that you, in your position as Governor, should send a delegation to Jamaica to visit the facilities in which our youth are confined; because it was a delegation from the Legislative Assembly, and the Police and the Probation Department which at that time examined the prison, found the shocking conditions which caused the construction of a prison here.

So I view this motion as very important, because in my mind it is wrong to spend thousands of dollars on a person after he has become a hardened criminal rather than to spend a few dollars earlier in an attempt to save that juvenile from becoming a hardened criminal.

I believe that the money which has been spent on marine parks and all of the conservation nonsense could well have been put, could have been better spent and would have been more useful to future generations than anything else. This is not to say that their efforts on conservation and other matters are not good - I am saying that the priorities of this present Government seem to be mixed up, if they, as a Government, can allow the Honourable First Elected Member of Council, and his supporter on this side of the House, to speak against this motion. What is the use of marine parks and beautiful gardens when these places are filled with a criminal element?

The motion asks the Government to give urgent and serious consideration to the establishment of a properly equipped and staffed remand home/approved school for juvenile offenders. The Government has the right to say "We will not do it", but to try to lessen the need or to try to abuse the Members for bringing it, or to try to show that other matters should have priority, would, in my opinion, be entirely wrong.

I do not think it is necessary to have a long debate on this, as I feel it is the will of the House that we finish the business on the Order Paper by tomorrow. But although I may not speak for long, I think it is imperative that Government re-do its thinking.

We heard the Member introducing the Motion give some alarming statistics on the increase of juvenile crime. Only five years ago the juvenile court met quarterly; today it meets weekly and has six or eight cases to deal with. While all crimes in Cayman seem to have increased, the increase in juvenile offences is far more alarming, because what we are looking at is a future generation spawned from a present generation of juvenile crime.

I fully believe that we cannot help a juvenile offender by sending that person into the conditions which they meet when they go abroad, so I support this motion and I trust that other Members may see fit to do the same.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Elected Member for West Bay.

Does any other Member wish to speak? The Third

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Thank you, Mr. President.
Private Member's Motion No.13/87 - The Establishment of a Remand Home/Approved School for Juvenile Offenders - reads:

"WHEREAS there is a growing incidence of juvenile delinquency in the Cayman Islands;

AND WHEREAS there are no appropriate facilities here to adequately deal with the more serious offences committed by our youth;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that Government give urgent and serious consideration to the establishment of a properly equipped and staffed Remand Home/Approved School for our juvenile offenders as soon as possible to avoid those, who qualify, being sent to approved schools in Jamaica."

Mr. President, I had, earlier, not intended to speak on the Motion. However, I knew how my vote would go, because what the mover and the seconder, in the resolve section of the motion, have asked Government to do is to give urgent and serious consideration to the establishment of the remand home/approved school for juvenile offenders as soon as possible. I, Mr. President, have all along been aware that this was a matter that had not been pushed away on a shelf or under the carpet, but was being given attention.

Mr. President, Members here were provided by the Honourable First Elected Member of Council an update on the activities of his Department, concerning the Remand Home/Approved School. The remarks, as far as the present status of that particular project is concerned, read thus:

"Phased development plan under preparation for the 1988 Budget.
Estimate prepared."

Mr. President, having seen that, I, too, felt that the motion was redundant. If something is actively being pursued, I can hardly see the reason for bringing forward a motion to do exactly what is being done now.

I agree with the background put forward by the mover. The seconder of the motion also gave quite a number of background case histories, perhaps, in his deliberations. However, Mr. President, I do not want it to be misconstrued that even if there were only one child requiring help and attention, that I would in any way be complacent or careless in what priorities Government should have in place. I agree with the Honourable First Elected Member of Council that any such project takes time and money, and I am pleased to see that it has come as far as it has.

We do have social problems in this country. We do have youngsters who need special care and attention and who need the type of home that is being asked for here, but what must be made clear is that this Government is doing something about it.

Mr. President, the Social Services Department has its hands full. Any Elected Member in this House, needs to think carefully before standing and saying that the Social Services Department is doing nothing, or words to that effect.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

You would not know, because you do not do that yourself.

MR. PRESIDENT:

New, Honourable Members will please not repeat the behaviour of this morning. If you have a point to make and you wish to invite the speaking Member to sit down, he or she may give way. Please continue.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Thank you, Sir.

Mr. President, what I am trying to say here is that the cases which require children to be sent to Jamaica are heart-wrenching, it hurts, it is somebody's child, it could have been mine. I am not here to say that the Department must overlook one child, two children, three, four, five or six children, I am not saying that.

What I am saying here is that the listening public in Cayman must never be misled to think that the Honourable Member nor his Department are doing nothing about social problems in this country.

Mr. President, not everything done by a Member in this Assembly has to make the Caymanian Compass headlines, otherwise it would be known that many nights I am in homes or on the street looking for young women who have become addicted to alcohol or drugs or involved in something else. Mr. President, my turn will come. My time for being repaid for what I do will come, because I want to make it abundantly clear that my being in this House is to serve my country, and I do so because first I serve my God. Being here is his calling for me. Time will tell how long he intends me to be here.

The Social Services Department has its hands full. It is not easy to find social workers. The administration must be sure that they have capable, responsible people - people who are well trained, who have experience, who are not looking for a job like that just for the money. They need all the encouragement we can give them. Who are we to judge the Social Services Department or what they do? I know a bit about what they do. I know the early mornings that some of them go around homes getting children out to school; those who go into all kinds of home situations taking insults from parents when they are only trying to do their job. And we are going to stand in this House and say that they are doing nothing!

Can I blame the Honourable Member, Mr. President, for standing on his feet to defend his Department? He would have a lot less backbone than I think he has if he did not. And why should he not strive to have his Department work with him? Can a house divided amongst itself excel? I am so pleased that it was not this morning that the school children of this country sat upstairs to watch the proceedings of this House. The people of this country elected us because of what they thought we could do, but, Mr. President, our dignity and decorum both outside and inside this House says something about each of us. There is no excuse for politics. Who said politics had to be dirty and demeaning and undignified?

Mr. President, the 1988 elections are a little over a year away. But may I remind each Member of this House that this country is a small country, and we cannot fool the public about who we are or what we are doing or why we are doing it. There are Members in this House who want to destroy what the Government is doing. We live in a land of blessings. Every morning we can get up without having to face what a lot of other countries are facing. And yet we are here trying to destroy it!

MR. PRESIDENT:

Excuse me, I must ask you to stick to the motion, you have strayed beyond the bounds of it.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Mr. President, thank you.

I am sorry if I strayed a bit there, but the actions in this House this morning, as well as at other times, prompted my saying what I just said. And if I may get back on the subject, it is to say, Sir, that I believe the Government is doing its best to have the remand home in place as soon as is possible. We have limited funds, and that is not to say we are to get our priorities wrong. But, Mr. President, may I ask the Members of this Honourable House to act in a manner becoming of an Elected Member and also that, before they speak, they think of the efforts which go into making a country tick, and the Social Services Department is not the least of these.

Mr. President, I have probably not even followed my notes, but I cannot support the motion. As I mentioned, I agree with many of the social problems which have been explained this morning, I know them quite well, but I cannot support the motion as it has been brought to this House.

Thank you very much.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I rise to support this Motion.

Contrary to what one of the speakers has said, in the past few years most of us have heard nothing sung except that this present Government would give us a Garden of Eden and the kind of utopia with regard to the youth as well as the economy that no one had ever experienced before.

Alas, I think the facts bear out that they were idle words, and here is a good indication of it today. In my opinion we, as Legislators, cannot spend enough money in trying to change the path of the youth of this country. I think that we can see from the court reports, and in what we learn from actual experience every day, the path which is being taken in our country. I am not saying that that path is any different than what other countries experience, because other countries today have the same problem.

Our youth are facing I would say, and as has been mentioned in this House before, a cultural shock. They are facing an historical gap because they are taught but very little of the values of the old Cayman; they are taught very little about the history of our country and so I feel it is incumbent upon each and every Member of this House, be they in Government or on the opposition, to support any measure that will help the youth of this country. It is the youth that will build this country.

In the next few years most of us, with the exception probably of the three younger Members over here, will pass away from this House.

and our places will be filled by the kids who are on the street today; and if we are worried about the future, then we have to be worried about the kind of youth who will fill the positions in this House and dictate the future of this country in the years to come.

I believe that today the majority of our kids are wandering, like the Jews did in the biblical days of 40 years in the wilderness. I hope that we as Legislators will not sit idly by and continue for 40 years to let them wander in misery.

It is not just good enough, Mr. President, to put the youth in jail. I believe in harsh sentences for the offenders, but I also believe that the time has come when we have to look at these harsh sentences in the reality of our day.

I believe that, the first time that a young person gets into trouble, he be sent to a remand home, and that the remand home will dictate and set the pattern for his future existence. If the groundwork in that remand home is not of a suitable nature, then we are wasting our time in sending that young person there.

Years ago, Mr. President, I, along with some of my colleagues, made a trip to Jamaica to view the situation of the people whom we had sent there. The result of that visit sparked the rapid building of the prison system as we know it in our country today, because most of us who examined the facilities, and the conditions under which our people lived in Jamaica, determined that it was inhuman. People had committed offences; they had done something wrong and society was slapping their wrists, but that was no reason for us, as responsible Legislators, to sit idly by and see them go through such degradation as they were.

At that time, Mr. President, I also visited one of the remand homes. Now that is several years ago, I think probably ten years ago, and I must truthfully tell this House that I did not find the conditions at the remand home the same as I found at the prison. I could make but very little complaint about its conditions at that time. However, I imagine that the conditions there have deteriorated just as everything else seems to have deteriorated, not only in Jamaica, but also in this country.

In speaking on this subject, Mr. President, many years ago, the Rotary Club of this country donated a fair amount of money and a lot of time to assist the Government in the preparation of a boys' home which was named Bonaventure House. The Government has been operating this and I would say that a lot of the young people who have been remanded to Bonaventure House over the period of years have changed their ways and have become young people that we can be proud of in this country. However, I have heard recently that, for some reason or other - administratively I think, there have been some radical changes in the operation of Bonaventure. To be honest with this House, I am not sure whether the statements I heard are correct.

The people of this country who viewed it important to do something for the boys and the girls built the boys' home. They also built the girls' home, which I feel has been doing a worthwhile job in our community. But I wonder if the reason why the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council is dragging his heels with regards to the remand home, mentioned in this motion, is because he does not have a political supporter whom he can appoint to be Housefather, or that he is afraid that he will get egg on his face as he has gotten it in that case.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have to interrupt the Honourable Member, that is imputing improper motives and must not be stated. Will you please continue otherwise.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I said I wondered, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not mind whether you wondered, wondering is sufficient to impute an improper motive, please do not question the Chair. Please continue.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I think we have some democracy still left in this House, Sir. You are questioning me whether I am wrong. I am questioning whether your decision is wrong, and I think I have as much right to speak in this House ... I have been elected by my people for sixteen years, Sir, and I am prepared, as I said in my opening statement when you came to this country, to give you the hand of friendship providing I got it. Now I am not here, Sir, to take any insults from the Chair regardless ...

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated, you are questioning the decision of the Chair. You have a right to question it. I have stated that in the Chair's opinion, you were imputing improper motives, and that is not within Standing Orders. I ask you to accept that without further dispute and continue with your speech.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I think I have come to the conclusion that you are following in the steps of your predecessor ...

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated, please be seated. Will you be seated at once! Order, or I shall suspend the sitting.

Thank you for sitting. Does any other Member wish to speak?

We have five minutes to our normal break. I think perhaps the mover may wish to take more than five minutes to reply, or would he wish to be started?

In that case we will adjourn for fifteen minutes.

AT 3:15 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3:32 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for George Town in reply.

MR. LINCOLN A. PIERSON:

Thank you Mr. President.

Mr. President I wish to take this opportunity to thank the Honourable Members who spoke on this motion - those who supported it and those who did not. Again I must say, Mr. President, that they have exercised their democratic rights.

I am, however, very saddened this evening by the outcome of the deliberations on this motion; saddened indeed that we, the Members of this honourable House, had a golden opportunity to do something positive for our people and we have allowed that opportunity to escape.

I am also saddened that there seem to have been many problems surrounding this motion, but I hope, Sir, that the dignity of this House will indeed be restored and that we, as Members and representatives of this House, can have the freedom of speech without tangling with the Chair. I know that sometimes Members may try your patience, but perhaps a little more tolerance from all of us would help the situation.

Mr. President, in dealing with the contribution made by Members I will be very brief, because, as I have said, this to me is a very dark day in the history of the Cayman Islands.

My motion recognised the growing incidence of juvenile delinquency in the Cayman Islands, and I did my best to support my motion with available facts and figures; and I must say that one of my greatest disappointments is that I am forced into a position where I can hardly, again, accept or believe anything said to me by the Honourable First Member of Council.

Mr. President, I was led to believe that this motion would have gotten his support. But alas, this was not the case. However, that is his democratic right. I am not going to cause any problems here, and I am going to stick strictly to the points raised in the contribution to the debate.

The debate by the Third Elected Member for West Bay, I can only say, seems to be almost word for word what was previously said by the First Elected Member - so if I deal with him I will not again have to repeat myself. But I would ask this honourable House if there is anything more undignified than a screaming woman?

Mr. President, I am not so upset because my motion will be lost. I am upset yes, because I felt that deep down in my heart the people of this country deserved an opportunity now. I have been reminded both by the Elected Member for North Side and the Honourable First Elected Member of the Five Year Development Plan tabled here some time ago, and they have used this as the basis for rejecting the motion. Mr. President, I can only say that, as in other matters raised in the Five Year Development Plan, this is at best a good guide for us over the next five years, and the Members who raised this point also know that the Five Year Development Plan will be reviewed on an annual basis.

Mr. President, if it was a situation where the Five Year Development Plan had to be followed religiously, then there would be no need for revising it each year. Revision, Mr. President, means that matters can either be brought forward or taken further back, depending upon priority. This matter dealing with the remand home and approved school is of urgent priority. It should have been taken now. The Honourable Member for Health, Education and Social Services had the report from the Juvenile Law Committee from March 1986. Mr. President, how long must the people of this country wait? How long must they suffer?

I would submit that this whole report on the matter has been sat on. Nothing has been done - and why? Our children are suffering in Jamaica. I am not asking or guessing that, I got that from the horse's mouth. Mr. President, anytime, and I will not give details of the working of the Juvenile Court as it is done in camera, that the Justices sit on that Court, we are very reluctant to send anyone off to Jamaica. It is only in extreme cases that we do so, but our experience has been that when they return to us, they return as more hardened individuals.

Mr. President, the Honourable First Elected Member of Council said that he was taken aback that I had not seen plans. Mr. President, I am not as fortunate as some of the other backbenchers. I do not get the privilege of the inner workings of Government, but if the Honourable First Elected Member of Council will make these plans available, I will be more than happy to go to his office and see them.

He also, used an example which I thought was best inappropriate. He suggested that, because the prisoners who had been brought back from Jamaica had not seemed to become rehabilitated, statistics show an increase in our prison population, and he further extrapolated that therefore it would indicate that bringing our children back here would not help them, but that there would be a growth in juvenile delinquency. How short-sighted, Mr. President, especially when this is coming from the Member responsible for Social Services.

Mr. President, I feel that a facility, a temporary facility for our youth should be provided, and provided urgently. The people of this country deserve that much.

On the question which the Honourable Member raised regarding the boxing club, as is the usual manner of that Member, he does in fact tell the truth, but omits much of it. He said what was of interest to him. Yes, I did discuss the boxing club with him, but Mr. President, there seems to be a major breakdown of communication, between him and the members of his Portfolio and Department, if he did not know that draft plans had already been submitted to his Principal Secretary and to Mr. Winston Skinner, the Director of Sports. Mr. President, I cannot help it if he is not keeping a closer communication with his staff.

I have heard the word "redundancy" used here. Mr. President, in my effort to see exactly what the Honourable Member was talking about, as my connotation applied to that word did not agree with his, I checked the dictionary - and it seems that the only redundancy here is the inertia within his Portfolio.

Mr. President, I submit that the Honourable Member sat on this matter. If he had not, it should have received attention long ago, because the report was given to him in March 1986, almost 18 months ago. He has said that my motion will add no more impetus than what is now being done. I do not doubt that, Mr. President, because if we have to deal with the situation we are faced with now, I can see where he is coming from. But the Member should realise that to deny this facility at this time is not denying the opposition bench a privilege that they need.

Mr. President, good or bad for us over here, we have passed the stage of being juveniles. There are a lot of delinquents, but there are very few juveniles in the House. I am most disappointed because 90 per cent of those kids in Jamaica are from very poor homes; people that I know and people who are crying out for help. I wonder, Sir what would be the position if these kids were from different backgrounds?

Mr. President, I have to agree with the comments made by the Second Elected Member for West Bay and the First and Second Elected Members for Bodden Town. We need this facility now, not in two years time. The suggestion made by the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, should perhaps be given serious consideration. Perhaps Sir, in your position as Governor, it might be a good idea if a delegation could be sent to Jamaica to really examine the situation there. Also, a similar suggestion was made by the Second Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. President, much talk was made of my reference to the seminar which took place at the Hyatt Hotel and which was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. It is my understanding that there are a number of Members who for one reason or the other do not think very much of the Chamber, but Mr. President, I think they are doing a fairly good job.

I must congratulate the Compass also for reporting such a comprehensive overview of that debate on crime. But since there is so much about Christian principles, about love for neighbours and love for our people, I would have thought that there would have been a bit of humanity, a bit of heart, towards the poor people who have chosen us to represent them. Mr. President, they are crying out for help, they want our assistance, but they know that the most that the backbenchers, like myself, can do is bring motions to this House and try to get these things done. This morning I almost had to strip my soul to get a motion through here for low-cost housing.

Mr. President, as I said, I am very sad about this, and I can only hope that the Honourable Members turning it down can sleep with themselves. Thank you Mr. President.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 13/87 DEFEATED

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 15/87
INCREASE OF AGE OF CONSENT FOR GIRLS

MR. PRESIDENT: Third Elected Member for West Bay.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT: Thank you, Mr. President.
Mr. President, I would like to move Private Member's Motion No. 15/87 - Increase of Age of Consent for Girls - which reads as follows:

WHEREAS the age of consent for girls in the Cayman Islands is 14 years;

AND WHEREAS in many other countries the age of consent is 16 years or higher;

AND WHEREAS there is great concern amongst the people of these Islands regarding what is felt to be a very low age requirement for the age of consent;

BE IT RESOLVED that this Honourable House take steps to rectify this situation by extending the age of consent to 16 years.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Mr. President, I beg to second the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT: Private Member's Motion No. 15/87 has been duly and seconded. Would the mover wish to speak to it?

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT: Yes, thank you, Sir.
Mr. President, the motion before this House is seeking to rectify a situation which has been on our statute book for many years, and one which is certainly not in line with similar regulations in other free countries of the world. For example, in Britain, the age of consent for girls is 16 years. In the United States, in large cities such as New York and California, the age is 16 and 17 years respectively.

This intent of the motion is to bring before this honourable House, as well as to the public at large, the fact that a young woman still of school age in these Islands must be solidly backed by our laws in maintaining her dignity and self-worth.

Mr. President, need I remind anyone sitting in this honourable House, or indeed listening, that we live in a very permissive age, an age in which there are those who say I will do what I please when I please, how I please and for as long as I please. The what, when and how may be possible, but society is learning, Mr. President, that as long as I please is another matter to be reckoned with. Dreaded diseases such as AIDS alone will attest to the fact that society must reckon with its base permissiveness.

Mr. President, the Law as it stands does, in my opinion, present weaknesses and those weaknesses need to be corrected. The change in age put forward here could have positive effects in strengthening the Social Services Department, and the courts, in dealing with the matter of child abuse, as well as in other areas. The issue, Mr. President, in my opinion, as the regulations stand at the present time in the Penal Code, is a ready tool for child abuse, and the regulation lends support to such abuse by tying the hands of parents and that of the Social Services Department, as well as the courts, in dealing effectively with the issue.

In presenting my motion, Mr. President, I would hope that I might be brief enough in order that the facts put forward may be heard and assimilated by those listening; detailed enough to demonstrate how the points put forward relate to the motion; and coherent enough to give a clear and helpful picture. It is my hope that those directly involved in the prevention and treatment of child abuse will find it useful and that it will also be of interest and relevance to those others who are concerned with or about the general care and protection of girls.

The functions of the Social Services Department, Mr. President, are to a large degree determined by the Law. It might therefore prove helpful here if I touch briefly on the relevant statutory provisions, and what is possibly the thinking underlying them.

Mr. President, section 122(3) of the Penal Code states:

"Whoever unlawfully or carnally knows any girl under the age of fourteen years is guilty of an offence and liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years; charged had reasonable cause to believe and did in fact believe that the girl was of or above the age of fourteen years."

As pointed out in the first whereas of the motion, the age of 14 is presently the age of consent. The age of 14, Mr. President, was years ago, the school leaving age in our country. It seems therefore reasonable that this, perhaps, was the rationale behind the decision to set down the age of consent at 14 years. I doubt, however, that it can be argued that the maturity of a 14 year old girl to make such responsible decisions with such far-reaching consequences is justified. The role of the concerned parent and the Social Services Department can only be fulfilled insofar as they are able to work within the legal framework. Thus I feel that the time is right in addressing the issue in question.

Mr. President, there were a number of concerned citizens who indicated to me that I should perhaps have proposed the age of 18 years rather than 16 years of age as the age of consent. However, one has to be realistic. Therefore, when considering that the average age for girls graduating from High School nowadays is between the ages of 16 and 18 years, and further, when considering that upon graduation, many of these young women commence working and oftentimes get their own apartments and so on, it seemed reasonable in proposing that the age of consent for girls be extended from 14 years to 16 years.

Mr. President, in today's society, when an unfortunate young woman who resides in a home where there are many financial restraints, or where there is an alcoholic or drug addicted father or mother, or where some other adverse situation exists, when any such young woman who, even though in her tender early teen years is seduced by some man who perhaps promises her that the grass is greener on the other side, uses that opportunity simply to satisfy his own lustful desires and only further compounds her problems.

Mr. President, because of her home environment, it would seem that some members of society simply look at the situation, shrug their shoulders and say in a rather matter of fact way, this is all that can be expected. Mr. President, we have had cases where parents who although not the fittest of guardians themselves, have tried to persuade their young daughters to remove themselves from situations such as I have explained earlier, but to no avail. Sometimes this is because they are threatened by the man with whom they are cohabiting, or they are enticed with drugs, or because the parties involved knew that the hands of the court are tied in not being able to force the girls to leave. Or unfortunately she is running from a similar terrible situation she faces at home.

Mr. President, I have known of situations in our Islands where not just one, but two or three full grown men - shall I call them men? - have taken advantage of a young woman still in her tender teen years, simply because she needs to get another fix of cocaine, and she gives her consent. The frustrated mother's hands are tied, Mr. President, as are those of the Social Services and the courts.

Fourteen years, Mr. President, is a very tender age. Surely there should be something on our statute book which will prevent such situations from existing without there being some recourse to the courts for help. Any man worth his salt should not have carnal knowledge of a girl of 14 years, even with her consent. But surely to help rid, or at least to minimise such evils in our society, the courts must be in a position to act accordingly.

At the age of 14, it is easy enough to be seduced, whether for drugs, money, clothes, or some other enticement, and such a child, regardless to whose family she belongs, regardless of the colour of her skin, regardless of the moral or financial situations in her household, she must be protected by the laws of our land.

Mr. President, a young woman must be guaranteed those rights she has been given. She has one body, and one alone, it is hers and none others, and perhaps the unfortunate circumstances with which she has been faced is all the more reason why there must be some solution to her dilemma.

Mr. President, "let no man despise their youth", can certainly be interpreted in a number of ways, and it is my belief that oftentimes there are those men who believe that a young woman's body is like a handy tool to be used as they see fit, when how and where.

My belief is that in extending the age of consent from 14 to 16 years gives two more years in which to mature, the opportunity to graduate from school and then to go out and work and provide for herself. A young woman is in a much better position to make a right, or at least a rational decision of to whom she will give of herself. A young woman has a right to retain her chastity if she so desires, and I reiterate it does not hinge upon what her economic situation is, nor her colour nor her level of education, nor even the social status of her family. She has these rights because she is one of God's choice creations. That right has been given to her and she should not be deprived of it, whether by threat of force, nor use of force, nor by intimidation of any kind, nor by fear of bodily harm, as is stated in the Penal Code.

Mr. President, I am often made to wonder how much of this takes place without the evil offenders being brought before the courts and punished, and how much of it takes place with these evil men simply saying I had the young girl's consent. It is my belief that oftentimes, when we hear of a young girl of 14 going out on her own, she may likely be running from adverse situations, but only to fall prey to someone who again will exploit her.

Our laws, Mr. President, must be tailored to protect her. Many young women live with a guilt complex all their lives because of this early exposure to an involvement in such adult situations. It is a known fact, Mr. President, that most prostitutes are those women who from an early age were exposed to carnal knowledge, resulting in their losing their self esteem, placing little value on their self worth, and going through life searching for someone to fill the emptiness and the void in their lives. But for the grace of God, Mr. President, many would live in degradation all their lives.

Perhaps, Mr. President, there might be one, even now, listening to this speaker who has fallen into that category, who, through a set of circumstances, not of her own making, suffers untold agony and heartache. But may I take this opportunity to say to any under the sound of my voice that there is still hope for you. There are still those who care, members of the Christian community are there to help, and there is still a plan which God has for you in this life. He is no respecter of persons, Mr. President.

Mr. President, I do not mean to preach a sermon, but I really need to express what I feel. When I think of God's creation, of all the beautiful things which he has created, and man being his choice creation, giving us all things to enjoy, and that the relationship between a man and woman was his gift to us, surely he intended that it not be abused and misused and handled carelessly.

Every young woman ought to have the privilege of deciding when and with whom she will share of herself, and 14 years of age is hardly the age to make such a decision, if it is to be made rationally. A young girl of 14 years is yet to learn many other things in life. There are many other areas and activities in which to find enjoyment and fulfillment.

Mr. President, I trust that parents, teachers and pastors, members of the community, and certainly we as Legislators, will see the important part we play in educating our young people to the fact that when their youthful energies are challenged in the right direction, there will be little chance of getting involved in evils such as drugs, whether in using it, or distributing it, in stealing, in promiscuous sex and other things resulting from the need for money to meet the urge for drugs. It is a known fact that this is the reason behind many a young teenager giving away her life.

I am convinced that if a child is raised right, if he is given love and security, if that child is raised so that he is taught to obey his parents, not out of fear but out of love; if that child is raised so that he hears equally as much praise for his achievements, or hers, or even for his trying to achieve, as he hears in reprimand for his mistakes; if that child has his share of parents' time and friendship, as does anything or anyone else; if that child is taught not only by precept but by example the better things of life, that child will be well equipped to face the challenges of life.

Time spent with a child is a wholesome activity - just being there when he needs someone to talk to is never a waste of time. Mr. President, not only does the child benefit, but so does the parent. Many times a situation in which a young woman is faced stems from the fact that she is not given the care and protection which she needs at home. In these cases, Mr. President, where parents have let down their responsibilities, it should be possible for the Social Services Department, and the court, to step in and help a young woman to find a better station in life. There is no substitute for a happy childhood - none. But for those who have been so unfortunate as to have missed out on this, I trust that society will be in a position of helping them gain a lifestyle and seek and find goals in life which can help to fill that void.

Mr. President may God have mercy on the souls of those who abuse children, those who have ruined the emotional stability of a young woman, and who take advantage of her for their own evil, lustful appetites. Better would it be that a millstone were hung about his neck and he were drowned in the depths of the ocean for offending one of these little ones - so says the word of God. Those who beguile with their sweet words as smooth as oil on water, yet who have only evil ulterior motives and lead young girls to a life of sin will be reckoned with.

What can a 14 year old decide for herself, Mr. President? How can she possibly determine what is best for her? Surely it can be seen that this low age limit for consent by a young woman is too low. At 16 she is certainly at a better and more mature age to make such a decision, especially if she has been exposed to proper training and guidance at home. The emotional scars are awful on a young woman. As I mentioned earlier there is a loss of self respect, there are suicidal tendencies, there is inability to study in school, the underlying trauma of feeling like she will never get ahead in life, and many other critical factors brought about as a result of being involved in such experiences at an early age.

Mr. President, in a nutshell, a young woman of 14 years is not in a position to decide whether she will have sexual relationships with a man, and should such an unfortunate situation occur, then the parents, the Social Services Department and the courts should be in a position to deal with the matter effectively. Mr. President, I ask all Members to consider favourably the action before the House.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak?
The Honourable Attorney General.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. President, I rise to speak to this motion because as the mover pointed out, the age of consent in these Islands is dealt with in the Penal Code, and that is a matter which falls within my responsibility.

Mr. President, I rise on behalf of Government also to support this motion, and I may say that I rise happily to support it.

I do not think I need go into the moral and social reasons that lie behind this motion; they have been very eloquently addressed by the mover. As she pointed out, the provisions are presently contained in section 122(3) of the Penal Code, which reads that whoever unlawfully and carnally knows any girl under the age of 14 years is guilty of an offence and liable to imprisonment. And it also has a defence: if the man genuinely and honestly believed her to be over that age. Mr. President, that provision is based exactly upon a provision in the United Kingdom law, and the age in the United Kingdom law is 16.

Having said that, I think there is very little I can add to this motion, other than to repeat my and Government's support for it.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINEORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, there is very little reason why a motion like this should not receive support, but I am somewhat surprised that the Honourable Second Official Member would admit in this House that he did not see that this was necessary long ago.

Mr. President, this is a matter that should have been taken care of by Government long ago, and the motion is indeed redundant and should not have had to be brought to this House. However, I do not want to give the wrong impression. I support the motion. Unlike some of my colleagues I see the virtue of this being done right away and not in two or three years time when we find it somewhere in the Economic Development Plan.

Mr. President, I would have thought that the Honourable Second Official Member would have advised the mover of this motion that there are a number of other relevant laws that may require similar amendments, and that we should cease in this House to make ad hoc piecemeal amendments to bits and pieces of legislation. The Marriage Law falls under a similar category, the Age of Majority Law, the Juveniles Law in the same position as the Penal Code. Section 3(2) of the Marriage Law states:

"A marriage solemnized between persons either of whom is under the age of sixteen years shall be void."

Section 29(1) as amended further states that persons who have reached the age of 18 years of age may marry without the consent of others. It is suggesting, Mr. President, that between the ages of 16 and 18 that person still needs the consent of the parents; thus inferring that persons up to 18 years of age are still, under this Law, regarded as juveniles or minors. The Age of Majority Law, 1977 - section 2(1) of this amending law - states inter alia:

"As from the date on which this section comes into force a person shall attain full age on attaining the age of eighteen years....";

again specifically stating that the recognised age of majority when an individual is fully responsible for his own acts is 18 years of age. The Penal Code, Law 12 of 1975, section 12(1) states:

"A person under the age of eight years is not criminally responsible for any act or omission."

Section 12(3) states:

"A male under the age of twelve years is presumed to be incapable of having carnal knowledge.";

I will point out the inconsistency in the laws, Mr. President, and why more homework should have been done on this, and why to bring motions here that will have the effect of an ad hoc amendment and piecemeal amendments to our laws is not right. I am not under any disillusionment, Mr. President, because I know it will be passed, and I hope it will be, because it is a good motion - but I am pointing out that there are many other areas that should be addressed.

Section 122(1) of the same law, the Penal Code, and this is what we are dealing with, states:

"Whoever unlawfully and carnally knows any girl under the age of twelve years is guilty of an offence and liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding fourteen years."

Section 122(3) states:

"Whoever unlawfully and carnally knows any girl under the age of fourteen years is guilty of an offence and liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years."

But Mr. President, there appears, as I said, to be potential problems and conflict between section 12(3) of the Penal Code which states:

"A male person under the age of twelve years is presumed to be incapable of having carnal knowledge."

and section 122(1) and (3) which I just read. The proposed amendment, Mr. President, if passed by this House would not allow a girl, and I would like to make this point, would not allow a girl of up to 16 years to give consent; yet a boy between 12 and 16 can commit the offence. For example, if you had two teenagers, say both 15 years old, boy and girl, the girl could not give consent, but the boy can commit the offence. Mr. President, this seems somewhat anomalous, and should be brought in line.

Under the Juvenile Law (Law 16 of 1975) a juvenile is defined as a person under the age of 17 years, which includes both a girl and a boy. That juvenile, once reaching the age of 17 for the purposes of the Juveniles Law is regarded as an adult, having reached majority. If he or she is therefore under this law held responsible in the same way as an adult, it seems unreasonable that this same adult is prohibited from marrying without the consent of parents or other guardians.

There are a lot of things here, Mr. President, that require urgent attention. Why do we just take these little bits and pieces? We need to look at the laws and have them properly brought in line. It would seem that there are conflicts between this Law, the Penal Code, the Marriage Law and the Age of Majority Law. Therefore, to amend just the Penal Code would seem to approach this problem in an ad hoc fashion.

I can support this motion as I said, Mr. President, but I thought that I would take this time to show that motions are being brought here in ad hoc piecemeal fashions, and that they will indeed be passed because certain Members have the majority of support in this House.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

In response to the entirely correct desire of the House, I allowed considerable latitude there. The Honourable Member introduced a number of points on which he may in fact wish to put motions at a subsequent meeting of the Assembly.

Does any other Member wish to speak?

to reply?

Apparently not. In that case would the mover wish

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Mr. President, just to say that I thank the Second Elected Member for George Town and want to bring to his attention that the resolve section did mention that we take steps to rectify the situation; so I am sure that the Honourable Second Official Member will have taken note of this and will do whatever is necessary to have the situation rectified.

Mr. President, simply to say that a young woman must not only live to survive, she must live to succeed, and I believe that the motion before us is only another tool which will put the young women of this Island in a better position to survive, and more importantly, to succeed.

I thank the Honourable Second Official Member and those who support the motion, and I want to say that I trust that each Member realises that this is motion which, although long overdue, is necessary and I am glad that it has received the support that it has.

Thank you, Sir.

PRAYERS

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Let us Pray.
Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake, Amen.
Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread: And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us: And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us: the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us: the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

AMENDMENT TO THE REPORT OF THE STANDING FINANCE COMMITTEE
(Meeting held 26th August, 1987)

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I have to apologise to honourable Members of the House. The report of the Standing Finance Committee, which I laid on the table on 16th September, I am afraid did not include the bank loan guarantee for the Port Authority of $350,000 for the Royal Bank of Canada, and $200,000 for Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. Neither did it include the write-off of uncollectable school fees of $37,340, although the minutes reflected Finance Committee's approval, and I beg you now Mr. President, to allow me to lay it on the Table.

MR. PRESIDENT:

So ordered.
We move now to the third item of business today, and the House will now go into Committee to study a Bill entitled The Merchant Shipping (Applicable Conventions) Law, 1987.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS
BILLS

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE

MR. CHAIRMAN:

The House is now in Committee.
As the Bill before us is very long and large, may I suggest that we should ask the Clerk to read as usual clause by clause, then take a short pause and any Member wishing to speak on a particular clause may do so. Would that be acceptable?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, if I may. Some Members, in debating the Merchant Shipping Bill, indicated that they have some amendments that they think should be made. I am not asking the Member to give up his democratic right to say whatever he wishes, but just to make one point, and that is that the legislation before us is only the beginning. There is lots more to come. Amendments are coming to us from our legal counsel in the United Kingdom on this issue, and I would appreciate if honourable Members could agree to leave the Bill intact, as it is, and to consider all amendments put to us, as well as those coming from our legal counsel in the United Kingdom, at some future meeting - maybe in November.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Just again, for the sake of clarity, the Clerk will read clause by clause. At any point would Members please interrupt and speak on a given clause, but before a Member speaks, for example on clause 5, I will put the question on the preceding four clauses so that they are out of the way. Is that agreeable?

MOTIONS

MR. PRESIDENT:

We now move to Motions, Government Motion No.5/87.

The Honourable First Official Member.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 24(5)

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, the other day when we came to the vote on the Private Member's Motion on Low-Cost Housing, I was not quick enough on my feet to make the motion at that time for the composition of the committee which would look into low-cost housing, and what mechanics need to be put into place.

The motion which is before us requires to be before us for five days, therefore I am caught up in this matter again, having to put myself in a position and ask Honourable Members to allow me to suspend Standing Order 24(5) in accordance with the suspension Standing Order 83.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that Standing Order 24(5) be suspended to enable the motion before the House to be taken. Would any Member wish to speak?

In that case I will put the question that Standing Order 24(5) be suspended to enable Government Motion No.5/87 to be taken today.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. STANDING ORDER 24(5) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE GOVERNMENT MOTION NO.5/87 TO BE TAKEN.

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO.5/87
COMPOSITION OF SELECT COMMITTEE ESTABLISHED BY PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.10/87 AS AMENDED

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to move Government Motion No.5/87 entitled Composition of Select Committee Established by Private Member's Motion No.10/87 as Amended, which reads:

WHEREAS Private Member's Motion No.10/87 as amended called for the establishment of a Select Committee for the purpose of examining ways and means of providing an appropriate system to deal properly with the housing problem of the poorer individuals in the Cayman Islands;

AND WHEREAS that Motion was passed unanimously by the Legislative Assembly on the 17th day of September, 1987;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that the said Select Committee shall consist of all Elected Members of the Legislative Assembly, and the Honourable First Official Member of Executive Council, the Financial Secretary;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the quorum of the said Select Committee shall be seven.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Government Motion No.5/87 has been duly moved.

Does the honourable mover wish to speak to it?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I think that the words of many Members who debated Private Member's Motion No.10/87 dealing with low-cost housing are fresh in our minds, and I do not have to go over well-covered ground.

The only point that perhaps I need to bring out is that the subject of housing can be a quite substantial financial sum of money, and it is one of the reasons why I took the pleasure of including the Financial Secretary on the Committee. This, of course, Mr. President, is subject to Members who can amend the motion and take him off. But I leave it to honourable Members.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any Member wish to speak on this Government Motion?

The Elected Member for East End.

MR. JOHN D. McLEAN:

Mr. President, just to say that I think that the Financial Secretary should also be the Chairman.

MR. PRESIDENT:

You put me in a slight difficulty, but we will pursue the question later.

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I too would wish that when the appointment is made for the Chairman of this Committee, even though I understand that it will be an appointment by the Committee, that Members will consider the First Official Member as Chairman.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? In that case I will put the Motion.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 5/87 PASSED

MR. PRESIDENT:

I was about to say something under Standing Order 69(2) about the appointment of the Chairman, but clearly I shall be happy to consider the advice given, and we will come to a decision a little later on. Thank you.

So we now proceed to Other Business, Private Members' Motions.

OTHER BUSINESS
PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 16/87
INVESTIGATION INTO ALLEGATIONS OF CORRUPTION OF THE ROYAL CAYMAN ISLANDS POLICE FORCE

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for West Bay to move.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 16/87 standing in my name, which reads:

WHEREAS the law enforcement arm of Government, namely the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force, is one of the most important bodies in this colony;

AND WHEREAS in the past there have been allegations of corruption in the force which gave cause for an inquiry to be undertaken, the findings of which were not made public;

AND WHEREAS allegations of corruption still exist, which, if true, would give cause for grave concern;

BE IT RESOLVED that this Honourable House do establish a Select Committee of the whole House to conduct a general inquiry into alleged corruption in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to second the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Private Member's Motion No. 16/87 has been duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak to it?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

(INAUDIBLE)

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think the problem is that the voice is not being recorded. I think you are coming over on the loud speakers, is that right? I am sorry to interrupt you, but it is important that proceedings are recorded. Would the Deputy Clerk explain please what the problem is?

If it is not coming through on that microphone maybe we could ask you to move across one. It appears maybe your microphone was off. Would you please try again. I am sorry about the interruption.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

In that case, Mr. President, I would like to begin from the beginning.

Mr. President, as I said, I rise on the motion with the greatest amount of sincerity, and the greatest amount of concern at the situation that obtains in this country.

I trust, Mr. President, that this motion will not be turned into another political row in this House - or, a claim of dignity.

I pointed out that much has been said about the sub judice rule. Most of us in this House quite understand what the sub judice rule is all about. However, I would sincerely hope and pray that the application of that rule is not being extended to prohibit Members, from their constitutional duty, to question wrong-doing in the highest halls of Government.

I was amazed yesterday at the answer to my question that an allegation was made after my question on police brutality was submitted. That incident happened over two months ago. I am of the firm opinion - and, Mr. President, opinions are perfectly constitutional - that that report or allegation was made just in time to stop the flow of information that was bound to come to this House by my question and further supplementary questions. Let us hope sincerely that the awful hand of cover-up is not being exerted.

Mr. President, I would further say, to clear up any doubts whatsoever, that nowhere in the world could an enforcement arm of Government, namely the police, and I stress, nowhere in the world could the entire force be corrupted. There are some very good police officers in this country who take their duty seriously and, Mr. President, those officers have my support.

In recent years there has been mounting concern in international circles over disclosures of corrupt practices at highest levels of government. It was evident before, however, with the disclosures in the early 1970's of the Watergate incident, concern reached very high levels, to the extent that, at an international criminal law conference some years back, it was decided that acts tending to undermine the integrity of public administration should be incorporated in international criminal jurisdiction as an international crime.

Concern, Mr. President, stemmed from a variety of corrupt practices undermining the integrity of public administration. Numerous public officers in different countries of the world have had to face criminal prosecution, and in those countries I might add, Mr. President, action is certainly taken on those matters. It is not the persons who seek to disclose corrupt practices who are penalised and visited with the vengeance of the state, it is the persons who engage in corrupt practices who are penalised. In other countries, covering up a crime is a crime in itself, and high officials of the state are expected to assist in the discovery and prosecution of crimes, rather than the covering up of those crimes. Very high officials, including ministers of government, have been sent to jail. It is not a great surprise to us in this country that other West Indian Islands have experienced just what I am talking about.

Recently in the United States we have seen the police under considerable pressure, being prosecuted because of their involvement in corrupt practices, especially in the movement, sale and distribution of narcotics - very large quantities of drugs. And I should say, very large portions of the police force have been involved and suffered the consequences of the law. Corruption is not being condoned in other countries, Mr. President, and every effort is made to disclose it.

In this country there is evidence enough to say all is not well in our local law enforcement body, and we, as the governing body should leave no stone unturned in an endeavour to expose and bring to judgement those whom we know are involved. That, Mr. President, is our duty. That is our constitutional duty.

Mr. President, the motion before this Assembly gives us a chance to put things right, if, we want to. If we look at the way the motion is worded, we can hardly oppose it; there can be no room for constructive disagreement.

The first section of the motion says that the police force is one of the most important bodies in these Islands. Mr. President, there should be no disagreement with that. Some of the goals of law enforcement are to enforce laws, to prevent crime and to protect lives and property. So there should be no disagreement with the first section of the motion.

The second section says that in the past there have been allegations, and that there was an inquiry, and that the findings of that inquiry were hidden from the public. Mr. President, there can be no disagreement with this section either. And, Mr. President, it is this section of the motion which is so pertinent to the whole question of suspicions and allegations, and pertinent to the hope of any kind of conviction in this country. This section, if no other, should prick the Members of Government and their supporters into giving the motion their 100 per cent support to ensure a safe passage. This section takes us back to 1983 when there was much hue and cry concerning certain situations and controversy existing in the country at that time.

Mr. President, when this controversy arose, I, not then a Member of the House, called for a Royal Commission of Inquiry, and whether I was wrong or whether I was right, I was a citizen of this country doing my duty on what evidence I had. This was refused, whatever the wisdom of the Government of the day, and so, the Government of the day came up with their suggestion of a three-pronged investigation. Mr. President, I did not agree with most of that decision, but had no power to change it.

The three-pronged proposal was: (1) that a team from Scotland Yard would come to investigate certain unsolved crimes; (2) that a professional review of the effectiveness and efficiency of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force would ensue; and (3) to have someone to advise them how to strengthen the laws to deal with corruption within the public service.

First to arrive was one Mr. Gibson, and his team. They were given some 13 cases to investigate, so they looked and they listened, but as I knew would happen, they had no better luck than our own force with the unsolved crimes. The major excuse was no evidence; it being too hard to get the evidence.

Well, next to come was one Sir Geoffrey Briggs, the one man whom I thought would make some sense, and I did put some confidence in him. He spent seven days on the Island, and on the day of his departure, he held a press conference in which he told the press that he found evidence of corruption within the public service. Briggs further told the press that he would be making a detailed report to the Governor, and that he would recommend that his report be made public.

Before that, Mr. President, I understood from the Governor that he was going to make this report known, because that was the wish of the people. My understanding is the Governor received his report. He took it to the Assembly Members at that time, who, in majority, decided to keep the report from the public. Now, Mr. President, when I say in majority, I do not mean the Government and their supporters, I mean the entire Assembly - people who had stirred up this whole thing, and yet when the report came they kept it and hid it from the public. I wonder today how they are going to challenge my motion.

Next upon the scene was Mr. Brownlow and his team to review the police force. That report was made public, and with the exception of the Traffic Department, in my opinion, the report condemned its effectiveness and efficiency. force.

This bit of history, Mr. President, sets the ground to the second section of my motion. The question today is why was there hesitancy in accepting Sir Geoffrey Briggs' suggestions when the entire Assembly knew - and I stress the entire Assembly, not just the Government and their supporters, but the opposition - at the time; and when the whole Assembly knew that the one big problem in getting any kind of conviction against the many allegations that it knew of, was that of cold evidence. And I want to repeat that, Mr. President, the whole Government knew that the one big problem in getting any kind of conviction against the many allegations that it had received was that of cold evidence.

I personally, Mr. President, did not know of Sir Briggs' suggestion, at the time. I now know. I believe the one way in which we will ever clean up any kind of corruption in high places and in the force is - what most people in this country might, or most Members of the House, would object to - by the disclosure of assets. And I agree with Sir Briggs - the Government should take specific steps to bring certain legislative instruments to this House in order that certain obligations may be placed on high officials in the country, including the police, regarding the disclosure of assets, and to demand proof whenever there were charges of corruption. It might be a hard pill to swallow, but it is a sure way of finding out who is honest and who is not. And that is what the public is demanding.

The third section of the motion, Mr. President, cannot be refuted either - allegations still exist, and this gives us - the Members of this House, the general public, civil servants and even the Force themselves - cause for great concern. There is no doubt that suspicion is still rampant, and every Member is confronted with it.

We hear, Mr. President, of officers getting pay-offs. We see people coming into the country with pounds of drugs stating that they are coming to stay with certain police officers. We see the same persons being slapped up or ill-treated or brutalised, whichever way you want to put it, by the officers in question and, worse than that, Mr. President, we see that a report is not made until two months later, when a Member of the Legislature puts a question concerning it.

We hear, Mr. President, of thousands of dollars taken from an unconscious person and not reported - a person who was arrested for drugs. We see much involvements in drugs, and the list could go on and on and on. All of us here, all of us as Members have had these complaints. People keep coming to us to tell us these things. And, Mr. President, you would be surprised at the people who come and tell us these things. The one sad thing about all of this is that of getting the conviction; that of getting the cold evidence. What this country needs is a sturdy, methodical start and approach to this question of corruption. Serious effort need to be made to clear the air in this country of corruption.

The public outcry against corruption must be regarded as a constructive force. Resentment is mounting in this country, and, Mr. President, it stems especially from the belief that high officials and police alike go unpunished if even they are sometimes brought into the open by some strange ray of light. Everyone knows that it is difficult to get evidence. You know it exists. You hear people talking, but like the tip of the iceberg, that is all you can get - that is all you can see, just the bare tip. That is why it is so important for Government to provide itself with the necessary legislative instruments to enable it to act effectively. Otherwise, at best, we are wasting our time.

Mr. President, certainly persons who disclose information must be protected. Honest law-abiding citizens, people whom you could never point a finger to in this country, are unwilling to give information because they feel if they talk they will be victimised. The general public feels they cannot trust anyone with information, and that includes the Force, because the same people whom they complain to may be the same persons they are complaining about. So rightly or wrongly, the general public is scared of giving certain persons information.

Mr. President, it is a fact well known, it has happened to me, that time and time again information has been given and the person giving the information has been attacked in some manner by the person of whom he gave the information. So do not talk about the public not having an interest. The public is scared, and they have been scared for a very long time. So, Mr. President, here again is one reason why my motion is a viable alternative to what has been the usual in the past.

The resolve section which makes the motion operational asks that the whole House set up a Committee. We will then conduct our own investigation. Unlike the investigation on the prison, we, as Members of this House would call our own investigators, set our own terms of reference and they would report to us. We are the guardians whom the people trust, so do not tell me that they are not going to come to us - they have been coming to us because they trust us. If we found evidence of corruption, the Attorney General, the Honourable Second Official Member, who will be a Member of the Committee, would then take action.

Of course, Mr. President, the Committee, which would be set under the terms of the motion, as I said, would set certain terms of reference. For instance, we could ask for the secondment of an experienced person to do the investigation, or we could call one from somewhere else other than the mother country. We could ask for such legal advice as necessary, which would be provided by the Legal Department, or such other person as advised by the Attorney General. Witnesses could be called to testify before the Committee when it found it necessary to convene to examine evidence brought to it by the investigating officer, or to examine evidence available to the Committee from other sources. And of course the findings of the inquiry would be laid on the table of the House for public perusal.

Mr. President, this investigation will not only concern drugs, but any aspect of corruption. However, drugs in this country today is at a level never before experienced. The citizens of this country are sick and tired of the little boy on the street being put away. It is said that with all the drugs coming in, and with all the allegations of some police and other involvement, there must be official knowledge. The public has demanded, and is still demanding, their pound of flesh. The best thing to do with anything that is crooked is to lift it up for people to see that it is crooked, and it will either straighten out or disappear altogether.

Mr. President, I know that this motion will fail, but there is no sound excuse, as given by the experts in this Assembly, why we should not have an investigation. Can they say, Mr. President, Can the Government, and its supporters whom I knew are going to vote against this motion, say that after three years of the present administration that the problem has gotten better? Can they prove any methodical approach towards corruption in this country, and its cure.

Mr. President, the drug situation in this country has overwhelmed us, and if we do not do something to clear up this matter, the police force in this country will never get the respect that a police force, which bears the name "Royal", should have. And that is all I want. If there is wrong-doing, the people must stand before the bar of judgement and accept the full consequences of the law. If there is none, then there should be finality on the question of corruption. But we must make the effort and we have not yet made that effort.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think we might conveniently take our fifteen minutes break. The House is accordingly suspended for fifteen minutes.

AT 11:12 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11:40 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Proceedings are resumed. Private Member's Motion No.16/87. The Second Elected Member for West Bay continuing.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I thank you and I am sorry that we had a mix-up, because I really had not finished.

With respect to the second section of the motion, as I said, my concern of the matter goes back many years, and I have made reports. I had such discussion with the previous Governor, in particular on the Briggs' report. I wrote to him on one occasion just after I was elected, and I would read the letter, lest there be someone who says that I did not pursue this situation. It is written to His Excellency the Governor, with respect to corruption in the police force, and dated February 16th, 1985:

"Dear Sir,

I write in connection with the above mentioned subject which has been the cause of much discussion in the past three years, and especially between the two of us since the November elections.

In the past I requested of you to call an investigation, and your defence against this has been that of evidence. If I had cold evidence in my hands, again I say to you, I would need no investigation. Our police force reeks of corruption, and if we do not clean it up it will ruin this country. The Brownlow and Briggs' report, once more I hasten to remind you of your promise to the people of these Islands on the commencement of these investigations. That is that you would make them public, and now you are adamant in the concealing of the reports. I feel strongly about the matter, Sir, and I feel it is your constitutional duty to tell the people of this colony what those reports say, and if you do not you are shirking your responsibility.

I close this letter by saying how disappointed I am in not being able to see what those reports contained, especially being an elected representative of the people.

Respectfully,

McKeeva Bush".

I had discussions with the new Honourable Member for Internal and External Affairs, and he too referred to evidence, hard cold facts. The previous Chief Secretary said the same thing, and the Members of Executive Council know that we had many discussions because they were in an election campaign which contained matters pertaining to corruption. They know that we had much discussion on this issue. So I do not want any one of them to say that this is just brought here today for election propaganda. No such thing, Mr. President.

Mr. President, it is the duty of the police to find and apprehend law breakers, but it is not their duty to unduly harass members of the public. And, since we are not dealing with that particular subject, I would leave it and ask the Honourable Member to bear in mind that it is happening.

We have a serious, serious situation in connection with drugs in this country, and it hurts the bottom of my heart because I also am a parent. I am a parent and I am an elected representative of the people. A lot of responsibility is laid on our shoulders and I find it very hard to accept that when we see certain things, such as I have named, there is not some involvement in officialdom - there must be if not direct involvement, then certainly knowledge of it. And this is what this motion seeks - to clarify and to clear up in this country.

I can do no more with what I have said. I know that I would be called to order if I mentioned in any respect certain Members of the Crown, and I do not want any cross talk between me and you today, Mr. President, so I would ask the Members to take this motion seriously, and to please not use it to get up and talk about dignity and about election propaganda. These are not the matters before this House. We have a serious job ahead of us, and if anyone in this country, and especially Members in this House, thinks that because there is economic activity that all is well, then they have another guess to make, and they are only living in a fool's paradise.

I will say no more, but will leave this motion to the Members of this House, and trust that they will use their good judgement to support it, especially, Mr. President, the Government, because we campaigned together on the clearing up of corruption, and I say that this is not cleared up, but is further compounded and there is no methodical approach to it in this country.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. FZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, I wish to oppose Private Member's Motion No.16/87 as it now appears before this Honourable House. It is my opinion, Sir, that the resolve section sets Parliament up as judge, jury, and hangman of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force, and I cannot support that, Sir.

Mr. President, on returning to this country from the recent C.P.A. conference, I read an article in the Caymanian Compass which said that I had refused to sign this motion. Mr. President, that is incorrect. I had not seen the motion until I received it from the Clerk of the Assembly. However, the Member was absolutely correct in assuming that I would not support this motion in its present form.

Mr. President, I would not challenge your generosity in allowing this motion, other than to state that in my opinion it is unconstitutional because it promotes Parliament into your areas of reserved power, namely internal security which governs the police.

If this motion is passed in its present form, it is my opinion that it is a serious threat to the survival of parliamentary democracy as we know it today, and as has been handed down to us by our forefathers who defended it by the sweat of their brow and in some instances paid the ultimate sacrifice of life.

As I understand parliamentary democracy as handed down to us, including the separation of powers, documents, we have three distinct arms of government: Parliament, as the policy makers; the Civil arm, as the administrators of that policy; the Judicial arm, including police, as the enforcement - and the judicial system being the ultimate test as to the effectiveness, adequacy and application of a policy as decided in Parliament. And, Mr. President, it is my opinion that never the twain shall meet.

The mover, in his opening remarks, Mr. President, mentioned the Watergate scandal, and more recently the Iran Contra hearings as they occurred in the United States. Mr. President, I would respectfully submit ...

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

On a point of order, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Would you state your point of order, please.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Standing Order 34(b), Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: You want to rise on a point of elucidation?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Yes, Sir, 34(b). Mr. President, the Member is completely incorrect. No mention was made of the Iran controversy. That is a figment of his imagination, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: As I remember it, in fact Watergate was mentioned, but not the Iran Contras. Please proceed.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Yes, Mr. President, I sympathise with the Member's lack of understanding of the English language. There was a distinct pause in my speech, and I said that the Member had referred to the Watergate scandal and, I said, "...more recently...". That is in making my point, the Iran ... I did not intimate ... if I did I apologise to the Member, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think honour is satisfied all round.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: As I was saying, Mr. President, I would respectfully submit that both of those cases were an attempt to restore equality amongst those three powers, in that during both of them it was brought out clearly that the presidential, or parliamentary portfolio of those three arms was becoming more authoritative than the other two. And that is what gives me great concern with this motion, in that we are attempting to promote ourselves into areas of which we have no authority.

As I see it, the motion in its present form can do no more than destroy what little morality is left in the police force by such a public discourse on what is alleged, and I would like to stress 'alleged', because I have heard a lot about evidence this morning, Sir, but I have heard no real hard evidence.

My experience as a Member of this honourable House in dealing with this issue has been exactly that. I have had numerous complaints from individuals about this alleged corruption and their own interpretation and justification for making that charge. But when you say to these same people, would you be willing to go to the Governor's office with me and repeat that, or to the Chief of Police, or would you be willing to put it in writing, and sign it, there is great hesitance. And, Mr. President, all of the investigations in the world, all of the talk in the world will not settle this matter unless those people who supposedly have this evidence and who are making these allegations are prepared to stand the test and lay them where they will be effective. I had only one complaint from a person who was prepared to put it in writing - he has done that and I intend to lay it where I think we can get some results.

Mr. President, there are several factors which lead to my concern of the threat to parliamentary democracy as contained in this motion. One is reminded of the walk-out on the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty and the petition that followed.

While some people have taken a liking, during this session, in referring to me as "expert", I will lay no great claim to being an expert on history, but I know - and I speak subject to correction - of no precedent being set in a parliamentary democracy where Members of Parliament have set themselves up in the fashion which this motion seeks to do; and that, as I said, of being judge, jury and hangman of the police force.

Mr. President, we must not take what, in my opinion, is a serious threat to parliamentary democracy as we understand it. If this parliamentary democracy is destroyed, if this travesty is allowed to succeed it cannot be restored by a luncheon meeting in some hotel.

I must say that I have always advocated the release of the reports identified by the mover. However, I do not believe that this motion will in any way achieve that objective. He may be right in that some of the allegations that he referred to could either be proven or disproven by the publication of those documents. I must also say, Sir, that I would like to see these allegations put to rest one way or another, but I disagree entirely with the methodology suggested in the motion that, as the resolve section states, this Honourable House do establish a Select Committee of the whole House to conduct a general enquiry into alleged corruption in the Royal Cayman Islands Force. That, Mr. President, in my opinion, is not the answer that we are seeking - to allow ourselves a carte blanche, uninhibited general enquiry into alleged corruptions. What kind of corruptions? Is the Member dealing with, as he intimated in his moving of the motion, cover-ups? Or does the word "general" enquiry into alleged corruptions go further than that? How far is he suggesting that it go? What are to be the terms of reference of such a committee?

Mr. President, before any doctor can cure a disease he has to first identify the disease he is trying to cure. I cannot agree with the mover's intimation that things are worse now than they were during the historical period that he referred to, 1983 and thereabouts. I have seen no evidence as to what extent the corruption was at that time, nor do I have any evidence as to what it is today. So I have no basis on which to base his claim that the corruption is more widespread, or greater than it was then. On the other hand, Mr. President, I have certainly seen evidence, borne out by the annual police reports, which certainly indicates an improvement in the detection of crime and the prosecution thereafter of individuals.

Mr. President, as I said, I cannot support this motion because I could never subscribe to any motion which, in my opinion, sets Parliament up as judge, jury and hangman of the enforcement arm of parliamentary democracy, because I believe that is a serious threat to its survival. Thank you, sir

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable Third Official Member.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Mr. President, I rise to speak to Private Member's Motion No.16/87 - Investigation into allegations of corruption in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force.

I am very pleased, Mr. President, that the mover of the motion pointed to his recognition, in the very first whereas of the motion, that the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force is an important part of this Government. Indeed, the title of the Force was enlarged and honoured by the addition of the word "Royal" just shortly after the visit of Her Majesty in February of 1983. The record of the Force has therefore distinguished itself and I need not go into the details of where we have come from and what has been accomplished.

The second section of the whereas portion of this motion, Sir, tends to take us back into the past, and indeed much of what was said in the presentation of the motion, Sir, was based on events of the past, events that did this country no good and I can see very little good coming at this stage in reopening some of those wounds and performing yet another postmortem on a corpse that has long decomposed.

With regard to the findings of previous enquiries and inspections, not having been made public, it is not for me, Sir, to rehash the reasons that went into the making of those decisions, and I know of no reason why the present Parliament cannot be invited to reconsider those decisions. But I would just like to refer to one journalist's account of the press conference that was referred to, the press conference at which Sir Geoffrey Briggs is quoted by the mover of the motion as having said he found evidence of corruption here.

This journalist's account, Sir, was published in a local paper dated 1st September, 1983, and I will just read the relevant sections of it. It quotes Sir Geoffrey Briggs as saying, "I do think there is corruption here", but then he goes on in the very same sentence and says "but some of the allegations seem to me more in the nature of rumour". The report goes on to say that he stressed that his role was not to investigate corruption but to find effective laws or machinery to deal with it.

We also heard, Mr. President, on at least two mentions, that the public is demanding its pound of flesh on this issue. I have yet, Sir, to hear from anyone else other than the mover of this motion. Which public is demanding its pound of flesh?

We have heard that all is not well in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force and that there are cover-up and corrupt practices. Let me run the risk of being a bit technical here, Sir, and draw the distinction in my view between allegations of possible areas of misconduct by certain members of the police force, versus my understanding of corrupt practices and corruption.

All is not well in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force. This motion, Sir, has not made the situation any better. This motion has come at a time when the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force are engaged in heavy responsibilities of investigating a number of serious crimes, including murder. This motion does no good. The Royal Cayman Islands Police Force has a record of which it can be proud, and indeed, measures up handsomely in comparison to all the forces in British Dependent Territories and indeed some of the Independent Territories in the region.

Let me just set the record straight that arising out of some of the difficulties in organisation and management of the past, and in particular the Brownlow report of 1983, the current organisational structure and management of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force has been so designed and deployed as to produce planned desired results. There is in place clearly laid down procedures for the investigation of allegations of corruption, of investigations and of complaints, of both a criminal as well as of a disciplinary nature. And a quick reference to the annual report of the Royal Cayman Islands Police published for the year 1986, Sir, will indicate that during the year 1986, 24 police officers were the subject of disciplinary proceedings resulting from 33 various charges brought against them. The report also clearly states, Sir, that during that same year, 29 formal complaints were lodged either against individual officers or against procedure, and that all were investigated and appropriate action taken.

The police force, Sir, does not stand on its own, independently, without any element of accountability. All charges against any person involving a criminal offence are laid and once the investigation is completed, the files are passed to the Attorney General's chambers for prosecution, if he so deems it.

The fact remains, Sir, that the police force, as indeed, any other area of the public sector, can only be as good and as effective as we, the citizens of the community will allow it to be. We know, for example, that the current rate of crime detection is running at 76 per cent - a considerable increase in recent times. And this detection rate, for what it is worth compares most favourably with the detection rate in many cities. For example in the United Kingdom the detection rate is 32 per cent, and in the city of London the detection rate is 16 per cent. So our 76 per cent crime detection rate speaks for itself. It does not speak of cover-up and corruption, Mr. President.

We know, Sir, that in every small community rumours will abound, and this motion today does nothing more than to give unwarranted credence to such petty and unfounded rumours. We heard that persons have made representations to the Second Elected Member of West Bay, and possibly to other M.L.A.'s as well - representations alleging corruption and other, perhaps, acts of misconduct.

The mover of the motion cited three examples of instances where irregularities are alleged to have occurred - his reference to officers being on pay rolls, receiving pay-offs, visitors being brutally abused and cash being stolen and unaccounted for from an unconscious drug victim. What I would like to invite the Member to do, Sir, is to advise this honourable House what steps he took as an M.L.A. to bring these matters to attention prior to September 1987. I will give him credit, Sir, for one of the three - the one dealing with the alleged police brutality, because it is true Sir that on receipt of his parliamentary question and on making some enquiries, we were able for the first time to extract a written allegation about that particular incident. But I would like him to tell the House, Sir, with regard to the other two incidents, what action did he take, or what action does he intend to take with relation to those points.

I am not going to give way now, Sir, the Member will have his turn to wind up.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

I thought he was asking me to tell the House, and I was willing.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

I agree entirely with the Member's statement, Sir that informants should and must be protected. Information given in confidence must be kept in confidence, and this is one of the key issues to successful policing. Any breaches of that confidence, Sir, must be dealt with appropriately in order to ensure that public confidence is maintained at the highest possible standard. But, Sir, we heard that the public is scared. Does this motion do anything, Sir, to allay fears and the scares of the public?

This motion, Sir, calls for the setting up of a Select Committee of all Members of this House to conduct a general inquiry. I question the competency and the appropriateness of parliamentarians sitting down to such an inquiry. We heard that the Committee could call witnesses, appoint its own investigating officers and legal advisers, and so on; and that it could even draw up its own terms of reference. My understanding, Mr. President, is that the terms of reference, for any Select Committee appointed by this honourable House, are set up by the House and not the Committee itself.

As I was saying earlier, Sir, I think we have to make a clear distinction between allegations of misconduct on the part of officers and allegations of the commission of criminal offences by those officers. There is provision to deal with all of these matters, and let me go back and start at the point where some of this all began. Following the receipt of the Briggs' Report, the Governor's Office issued a press release. I have a copy of that press release, and I would just like to read it for the record. The release reads as follows:

"Sir Geoffrey Briggs' report on the need for additional legislation or machinery to deal with corruption has been received. After careful consideration the Members of the Legislative Assembly have unanimously determined that the present law, especially Sections 78 to 80 of the penal code, is sufficient to deal with any allegations of corruption, but that some amendments to strengthen relevant provisions in government personnel regulations should be made during the current revision of these regulations. They (referring to Members of the Legislative Assembly) have also agreed that the Commercial Crime Branch should be charged with responsibility for investigating any future allegations."

The press release concludes by saying, and I quote:

"In view of the foregoing determinations, a majority of the Members of the Legislative Assembly decided that the publication of Sir Geoffrey's report is unnecessary and would serve no useful purpose."

Arising from that, Sir, I am happy to advise that government personnel regulations now renamed and now called General Orders have been rewritten and reissued effective June 1987, and there is ample provision in those General Orders requiring the disclosure of assets by members of the public service and I am reliably informed and can assure Members of this House that His Excellency the Governor will have absolutely no hesitation whatsoever in enforcing the provisions of that General Order - that is the General Order requiring public officers to disclose their assets.

In cases where there are reasonable grounds to do so, also arising from Government's consideration of Sir Geoffrey Briggs' report, the strength of the Criminal Investigation Department and the Commercial Crime Section have all been appropriately strengthened and procedures put in place, that I referred to earlier, dealing with investigation of complaints and investigation of properly laid allegations. The police find it very difficult, Mr. President, to investigate rumours, and unsubstantiated allegations.

I believe that this motion, Mr. President, has served only to smear the good character and reputation of the serving officers of the Royal Cayman Islands Police who are doing their best to fulfil a commitment and heavy responsibility in this rapidly developing community. Rather than live in the past, as this motion seems to suggest we should, I would like to refer to the Member's own words, during this Meeting in his debate on the National Trust Bill, when he said how proud he was of the past, of how confident he was in the future, and of what he said about the unification of our population. Those are the areas in which I think it would do us all well to be mindful of.

I too am proud of the past. I too am confident in our future, and I only hope, Sir, that when the outcome of this motion has been decided that the local press will give the decision the same prominence that it gave the motion when it was set down, in order that the readers of the press may understand that the Cayman Islands are quite prepared to live with constructive criticism, quite prepared to undergo proper review and analysis, but that we abhor unfounded allegations of practices that are based on nothing more than rumour and the wishes of some people in the society to carry a grudge against the law enforcement agencies of the country, and that the Government is not prepared to tolerate.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: On a point ... I know the Honourable Member has finished ... I am wondering whether the Honourable Member is saying that this Member is carrying a grudge against the police. I was not clear on that, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I took it to mean some members of the community, and I do not think it was directed towards the Second Elected Member for West Bay. I am sure that the Honourable Third Official Member would wish to confirm that.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: That is correct, Mr. President.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: It may be that the next Member wishing to speak may intend to take more than fifteen minutes. Do I infer from this that we should take an early lunch break, or would the House wish me to call on the mover to reply?
I think perhaps an early lunch break.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Maybe they are waiting for me to move the closure on Standing Order 38, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: In that case, we shall adjourn until ... I beg your pardon. Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, it is quite obvious that Members are going to speak on this and that they are only playing a waiting game. I think that Members should speak. We have at least fifteen minutes left until the usual time, and we have heard from no Elected Member of Executive Council yet.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that each Member must decide whether he or she wishes to speak, but I take your point. Unfortunately the duty of the Chair is to try to keep the debate moving. What I am trying to do by having an early adjournment is to encourage Members, when they have been fortified by lunch, to speak.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, it is reasonable to take the lunch break now, Sir.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I will agree, Mr. President, I would not hold the House to fifteen minutes.

MR. PRESIDENT: In that case we will adjourn, I think till 2:00 p.m. which will give us an hour and a half.

AT 12.32 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2.05 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Would any Member now wish to speak?
I am not sure how long I can decently let this pause continue. There is no guidance in Erskine May on this!
The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINEFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I rise to speak on Private Member's Motion No.16/87 on the subject of investigation into allegations of corruption in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force.

Mr. President, the motion states:

"WHEREAS the law enforcement arm of Government, namely the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force, is one of the most important bodies in this Colony;

AND WHEREAS in the past there have been allegations of corruption in the force, which gave cause for an inquiry to be undertaken, the findings of which were not made public;

AND WHEREAS allegations of corruption still exist which, if true, would give cause for grave concern;

BE IT RESOLVED that this honourable House do establish a Select Committee of the whole House to conduct a general inquiry into alleged corruption in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force."

Mr. President, having listened to the mover of this motion, as seconder I can see nothing which was said by him that should leave the opinions in the minds of Honourable Members that he was setting this Assembly up as judge, jury and hangman of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force. I can only write such a remark off as rubbish. What the resolved section states, Mr. President, and I would read it again:

"...that this honourable House do establish a Select Committee of the whole House to conduct a general inquiry into alleged corruption in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force."

Mr. President, in my efforts to deal with this matter as fairly as I could, I in fact met with the Commissioner and the Deputy and I also questioned some of the things that I have heard that had given me grave concern. I got certain answers, Mr. President, that I felt fairly comfortable with from both those gentlemen, and Mr. President, I would be the last to get up in this Honourable House and demean the character of any member of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force. As a matter of fact, Mr. President, this may or may not be known to you, Sir, but I do in fact have two brothers-in-law who are in fact members of the Royal Cayman Police Force, and are fairly senior members of the Force. So Mr. President, from that point of view, if from none other, I would be very reluctant to come into this honourable House and demean the character of those good gentlemen and other respectable gentlemen of the police force.

However, Mr. President, I, too, have heard a number of things that have caused me concern. As a matter of fact I have spoken to the Commissioner of Police, to the Deputy and even to the head of the Criminal Investigation Department about some of the allegations which I have heard, and I am comforted that some of these are now being investigated. For any Member to stand in this House and say that there is not some cause for concern, would be to deny the people of this country their rightful due.

Mr. President, I am not here suggesting that any member, in particular, of the force is involved in any matter that would be regarded as corruption. What I am saying, Sir, is that regardless of whether or not certain information may be known to Members of the Government bench, there is much out there that is being said whether it is regarded as rumour or not. Mr. President, there is an old saying: where there is smoke there is fire. So for any Member of this Government bench, or of this honourable House, to bury their heads in the sand as ostriches, and claim that because we have just recently received "Royal" before the name of our Cayman police force, that this is sufficient. Mr. President, they are sadly mistaken.

The United Kingdom Government also has a "Royal" police force, and I am sure that they have their problems from time to time. So having "Royal" before our name is a short-sighted naive understanding of the whole thing if we are to feel that this will preclude us from problems.

Mr. President, a Member also said that there are three distinct arms in parliamentary democracy. This is quite correct, Sir. He stated Parliament, which is the policy maker, the civil arm which is the administrative area, and the judiciary which is the enforcement arm. In actual fact it is known as the legislative, executive and judicial, but it is the same thing.

Mr. President, we, in this honourable House have a responsibility to our people and a responsibility for good government in this country. Regardless of the area of Government that is under scrutiny, we should not push it aside as though it is beyond our interest or control, and say that, we, as Members of this honourable House show no interest. It is our responsibility. As I said I am not here to criticise anybody because I have the very highest regard for members of the police force - there are some good people in there, but Mr. President, like any organisation, there are bad people.

Mr. President, I can remember when the other investigation into the police force was carried out, and a Commissioner, as a result, was forced to leave the Island. I did not fully agree with that, but that is history.

However, I must say that regardless of the outcome of any inquiry it shows that our Government believes in true democracy.

Mr. President, a previous speaker said that he is referred to as an expert in this House. I think he got that wrong. What was really said is that he thinks he is an expert. That particular Member, Mr. President, also said that the travesty of justice cannot be restored by a luncheon meeting in an hotel.

Mr. President, as I said, it would be wrong for any Member of this House, on a matter as important as this, to not try to get all the facts of the matter. Yes, Mr. President, I in fact did meet with the Commissioner and the Deputy and I discussed a number of matters with them which I will not mention here, but I am happy I met with them because at least I got two sides of this whole matter. And, arising from that meeting, I too am satisfied that they are doing what they can to investigate whatever allegations are made, be they supposedly without foundation or just rumours.

Mr. President, if we had all the facts of the rumours on the cases that we have heard, there would be no necessity to set up a Select Committee to examine these, or to conduct a general inquiry for we would already have all the facts and could just turn them over to the Commissioner, or to yourself, so that the matters could be dealt with speedily. This is the reason, Mr. President, why I feel that if there is nothing to hide, then there is no reason at all why we cannot have an inquiry and get this matter over with once and for all. But, Mr. President, to deny not just this honourable House, but indeed the people of this country, their rights in having this matter investigated is not going to solve this problem. It is going to make it worse because the public will see Government as using their power to deny the minority in this House.

Mr. President, mention was also made of the report from Sir Geoffrey Briggs. I think the statement was made to the local press sometime in September 1983, when, if I quote the Member correctly, the statement made by Sir Geoffrey Briggs stated:

"I do think there is corruption here, but some of the allegations seem to me were in the nature of rumour. Effective laws or machinery will need to be made to deal with these."

Mr. President, Sir Geoffrey Briggs is a gentleman, from my understanding, of high integrity and I am sure that he would not have made a statement like this loosely. He said "I do think there is corruption here". Mr. President, that is a very positive statement, and the fact that he went on to say that some of the allegations seem, to him, more in the nature of rumour, should be cause to have this matter fully investigated. He did not say that all of the allegations seemed to him to be in the nature of rumour - by implication he is saying that some of the allegations were not rumour, but had a basis for further investigation.

Mr. President, regardless of the way in which this matter is handled, it is immaterial to me, because as I said I have no reason to want to crucify any member of the police force. I hold those gentlemen in high regard. As I said earlier, I have a very close connection with the police force, but regardless of that my view has always been that we must call sin by its right name. If there is something wrong then by all means let us look into it. If there is any question at all that an investigation should be made, Mr. President, we should do so.

I am sure that even the United Kingdom Government would be happy to know that one of her colonies cared enough to ensure that their Royal Police Force was above reproach. I agree with the Honourable Third Official Member that the Royal Cayman Police Force has a record of which it can be proud, and I also agree that it is better than many, many of our Caribbean neighbours. However, I have always held the view that only the best is good enough for us.

The Honourable Member also said that the police force can only be as good and as effective as we, the citizens of the community will allow it to be. That is also a true statement, and that is why, if any member of the community is upset about something, we should sit down and listen to what that member has to say; not necessarily in a manner that would cause inconvenience, or that would cause any loss of face to members of the police force or any department, but indeed that we should not ignore the voice of the public.

Mr. President, I would have thought from the replies I have heard thus far that the Second Elected Member for West Bay bringing this motion had paid a major insult to this House, when in fact he had only complied with his democratic rights. What is so terrible about the motion before us? It is not accusing anybody of wrong-doing. To the contrary, Mr. President, it asks that a matter be investigated to allay any doubts as to the purity of our Cayman police force.

Mr. President, remarks such as 'petty' and 'unfounded rumours' were most unbecoming. I believe that perhaps if the Member who mentioned this, a gentleman for whom I have a great deal of respect, knew all the facts of some of the matters that have also been brought to my attention and which I have in turn taken to the police department, then he would see that there was perhaps a basis for this Motion.

I agree with the Member that the Legislative Assembly does not have the expertise to investigate a matter of this magnitude, but as in other cases, I would have hoped that if this honourable House saw fit to carry out such an investigation, or inquiry, that it would be done with the assistance of someone who has the expertise.

Mr. President, another remark that was made in this honourable House which, because of my association as the seconder of this motion, I would like to clear up is the remark that this motion serves to smear the character of the Cayman Islands police. It is regrettable that this statement was made. I have to take umbrage to this statement. It is totally out of order. Mr. President, as seconder of this motion, believe me, my last intention would be to smear the character of the police force, or, indeed, any other individual.

MR. PRESIDENT:

If I may interrupt you for one moment, I would like to say that the Chair understands well your point. When I heard that particular remark, I reflected upon it and concluded that the speaker was talking about the effect of the motion, in his opinion, and not upon the motives of the mover and seconder in bringing it. I did reflect on it, and I hope that will explain.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President, for clearing that point. Mr. President, as I said, I am not going to debate long on this, because if it is the wish of this Honourable House that this motion should fall aside, then that is the democratic working and right of the House. However, Members need not get up and cast aspersions, or castigate Members for bringing motions.

Mr. President, when a Motion is brought to this House, I hope that it is brought with the best interests of the people at heart. If anybody get the feeling, or indeed any member of the Royal Cayman Police Force, that my association by seconding this motion was intended in any way to insult any particular individual, then this impression is totally wrong. I had the best intention, Mr. President, because I saw a matter like this, and not just from the motion, but as I said, from my experience and from the things that had been brought to my attention, I, too, felt that this would have been a golden opportunity to erase any doubts and get it over with once and for all. As one senior member of the police force told me, "If there is nothing to hide, then why should not the investigation be made."

Mr. President, again, I will say that I have the very highest regard for the police force, but regardless of whether it is called Royal or not, if we see something that needs to be done, and we are remiss in doing that, we will not have served our people to the best of our ability.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does no other Member wish to speak? The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT:

Mr. President, I rise, Sir, to speak on the motion before the House regarding investigations into allegations of corruption within the police force.

I was hoping that perhaps a few other Members might have spoken, because I have listened carefully to what has been said, both in support of and against the motion, and I am a bit concerned that the motion seeks to place within the hands of this body a little bit more power than we ought to be seeking at this time.

Secondly, Mr. President, allegations of corruption have not only been against the Cayman Islands Police Force. I have lived in this country all my life, practically, and may I ask one question in this House - is the Police Department the only arm, in this country, in which allegations of corruption and involvement in drugs have been levied against? Have we not heard it concerning other areas, including the civil service, including the Elected Members of Government, and other areas? Is someone to tell me in this House, that for five, six or maybe a dozen members of the Cayman Islands Police Force of whom allegations of involvement in corruption have been made, that I must subject one hundred and ninety strong to such an investigation?

Mr. President, if within this Legislative Assembly there was any allegation of corruption amongst certain Members, or were I a member of the Civil Service and such were the case, I do not think I would want anyone to include me in an investigation when in this small country we knew exactly who those allegations have been made against. We must be man and woman enough to single out those persons and find out exactly what their involvement is. If an investigation must be made, we must make it amongst those of whom these allegations have been made.

Mr. President, not today, but all my life, since I was a child, I have been taught to respect that arm which upholds the law enforcement in this country. Have question marks been in my mind? Often times. Have I heard rumours, have I heard people come to me and state certain allegations made of members of the Police Department? I have, but, Mr. President, in most cases the same names are mentioned.

What I am saying, Mr. President, is that if those individuals have to be investigated, so be it. Believe me, I am not sure that Members of Legislative Assembly should set up a Select Committee to do so. If there are those persons who are involved in something in which they should not be - of course they have no business in the police force. We should get them out of there as soon as possible. Perhaps there are those who have been in there a little too long.

What I am asking is can we not trust the Honourable Member responsible? Can we not trust the Commissioner of Police? Can we not trust the Governor to bring those names to his attention, or to the attention of Members and ask that something be done about investigating these particular individuals whose names continually come up in allegations of corruption?

I see no reason, Mr. President, why 190 police officers, the majority of whom I am sure are clean and above board, should be subjected to any such investigation. We cannot set ourselves up as any body which can judge everything that goes on in this country.

Mr. President I have sat in this House and even had the actions of the Chief Justice queried. So I do not know who we are going to trust. We have to trust somebody. If you do not trust an Englishman who is the head of the Force, what makes us so sure that if we bring another one in from England, we can trust him? If you do not trust one Governor, and then we do not trust the other Governor, who then are we going to trust? Are we the only people who are trustworthy in this country? I would think that those persons who have no ties to members of the police force would probably be in a much better position to carry out an investigation and do it in a clean cut matter without any ties to anyone else.

Mr. President, drugs are not a new thing in this country, but I have never taken it for granted, because believe me it is a problem, and I am aware like every other member of this community, of the effects they have had, especially on the young people of this country.

I support the mover and seconder of the motion in that there is a real problem with drugs in this country. I have no hesitation in supporting that we have a problem, but not nearly as bad as in many other Caribbean countries. However, the sooner we nip it in the bud, the better.

Mr. President, the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force must have the full support of this legislative body, and the full support of the members of the community. It will be a dark day when we stand here and paint a picture of the police force which leaves in the minds of our people the thought that they are no good and that they are not doing their job. This can easily be done when we decide that an investigation of the entire force must be carried out.

There are some things, Mr. President, that are not always best to be exposed to the public. There are certain times when it is better that an investigation be carried out and that the public know that it is being carried out, but those persons who need to be weeded out will be weeded out and dealt with according to the law or the regulations of the constitution whatever they might be. Mr. President, this is how I look at this whole situation before us today. The eyes of the world are on this little country, and the day that we have question marks in people's minds about corruption in the force, in the Legislative Assembly and in the Civil Service, it is going to have an adverse effect on this country.

Mr. President, I am not against investigations being made, but I cannot see why we, as a legislative body, can set ourselves up as being judge and jury of the police force. I believe that we have a capable and a concerned Commissioner. I believe that if Members in this House went to that gentleman and explained all that we have heard and all that our representatives have brought to us, he will sit and listen; and I believe that at the end of the day he will do something about it. After all, it would bring a question mark in my mind if the gentleman would not want a force which he knew was clean and above board.

I cannot see, Mr. President, why Members of this Assembly who feel that they have good grounds for wanting an investigation carried out, cannot come to you, Sir, in your position as Governor, or to the Honourable Member in charge and lay all this out before them.

We hear that people do not want to talk or give evidence, but if we carry out an investigation and people are not going to give us evidence, then it is a futile effort. I see the same investigation being carried out in the manner in which it ought to be, and I do not see why we, as Members of the Legislative Assembly, should take it upon ourselves to have the law enforcement arm of this country held up to public scrutiny like this when it is only a handful. We have the names of those persons. Time and time again they have been brought to us. I think that if we need these individuals weeded out then we should get them out just as fast as possible, but that the entire force should be painted as questionable, Mr. President, leaves me not being able to accept the motion as it stands.

Mr. President, as I said, we want to get rid of drugs and any corruption and evil in this country. At least we want to minimise its flow and distribution in this country. But believe me, I do not think that 190 police officers are subjected to being involved, and I think we have to be man enough to sit down and weed out those who need to be weeded out, but not to subject the police force to an investigation like this, any more than we would want this Legislative Assembly to be investigated, or the Civil Service, because one or two names come up as being involved in the drug trade.

Mr. President, thank you very much.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable First Official Member.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I have been thinking over the last couple of days that the Members have been extremely good to me. But I have also been thinking about a motion of this kind and I am afraid, Mr. President, the longer I think about it, the more I see the negative ramifications of it. It is not what the mover intends, it is how the public and the international world are going to receive what we are doing today.

I think, Mr. President, law and order is something that Tom Jefferson, if I may put it that way, is adamant about, and when law and order breaks down, what in essence do we then have? If the international public and businessmen around the world lose any confidence as a result of this motion then I think we would all agree that this is perhaps not the right way to deal with any allegations that may be made about the police force, or any member of the Civil Service.

The penal code that Sir Geoffrey Briggs referred to is very clear on the offences. Section 78 it speaks about official corruption, and the sentence for it. It speaks about extortions by public officers. It speaks about public officers receiving property to show favours in their official capacity.

I know the Member moving the Motion, Mr. President, has heard a lot of allegations, and I have heard them too. As one Member said earlier, sometimes the majority of what you hear points to one or two people, or maybe four. The problem is when you ask these persons who are making the allegations to go and see the Commissioner of Police, or to put it in writing, they say, "Oh, no. I'm not getting involved in that - do you think I want to get myself in trouble?"

What are we doing. We are spreading rumours and accepting that maybe there is official corruption, but do nothing about it. It means Mr. President, that if there are any members of the Civil Service or of the police, or if it is Tom Jefferson as well, and there is evidence, we should be big enough, woman or man, to come forward and make the statement to the proper authorities. I think once we do that we will then be in a position where allegations of corruption in the police force are not going to go away, but we have set the right course and made the right commitment to do something about these things.

I have been around in the Cayman Islands for a few decades now, Mr. President. Since I was a little boy I have heard these allegations. I think it is time we do something about it. I am not convinced that the motion which is before the House is going to solve the problem we have. It is not the fact that we do not hear the allegations; it is the fact that, this is not going to do what all of us who ask these people who make the allegations to put them in writing, this motion is not going to do that, and I cannot support it.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak? I am afraid we cannot all go on being so coy about this, the debate really should proceed.

In that case I will call upon the mover to exercise his right of reply.

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH:

Is the Honourable First Elected Member going to speak or not?

MR. PRESIDENT:

I really do not think you should expect everybody to speak, you know.

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH:

Mr. President, I never heard more feeble excuses in my life as to why we should not have an investigation. Everybody agrees that there is evidence of corruption, but nobody seems to want to do anything about it. Well, Mr. President, if there are allegations, how in the world are we going to get evidence if we do not do an investigation?

I am surprised, indeed, and distressed at the reaction of the Government to the proposals. I am going to deal with the Honourable Member responsible. He he is not an Elected Member, and so I do not think he made any promises in any campaign. But certainly some of the others we heard in opposition to the motion made promises. They did not put it in their manifesto, Mr. President. I have my manifesto which the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council, the Third Elected Member for West Bay, and myself ran and campaigned on. But you can believe that our campaign was an anti-corruption drive in this country. And I should say, Mr. President, that is one of the reasons why we were elected with such a large majority. The people in this country believed there was corruption, and that they were electing men and a woman who would do something about it. Have they forgotten their promises?

There is no doubt in my mind, Mr. President, that the investigation is needed. There is no doubt in my mind that the Government is taking this matter personally and therefore politically. They do not judge this matter on its merit, they are not even judging the matter with any deference to the people of these Islands who elected them on such promises - promises, Mr. President, to clean up corruption in this country. Alas, instead of a clean-up, what has happened in my strong opinion, is that the problems have intensified and have become compounded - compounded, when we are faced with officers taking bribes from dope peddlers, and the peddler is harassed enough to, you would say, commit suicide. Now I would ask the question, what is Government afraid of? If this is a matter of public concern, why do we not do an investigation?

Mr. President the Right Honourable expert in this House has deemed, he has spoken and he has deemed that my motion is unconstitutional.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Sorry, do excuse me. If you would like me to explain my consideration as Governor of this previous point, and why I permitted the motion to stand, I am happy to do so, but I can briefly say that there are two functions, and one is as Governor in regard to the Executive Council, and the other is President of this House. And I took the decision as President of this House, as your presiding officer, that the motion was admissible. So if that serves to explain.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I thank you, Mr. President. I hope you have enlightened the Member who seems to know so much about the English language. He suffers from a delusion that he is an intellect, you see.

Mr. President, but I would further point out to him, and I would read from my Erskine May Parliamentary Practice which is the bible of parliaments. If you would look, Mr. President, on page 642, Chapter 25, the system of committees, it is very emphatic in what it says about committees and the functions of parliament. The function of these committees include the consideration and amendment of public and private bills, enquiries, sometimes of a quasi-judicial character into matters which the House refers to them for investigation. And on page 644, it says that a Select Committee may be appointed by the House to examine any matter which, in the opinion of the House, requires investigation. So, Mr. President, there is no doubt in my mind that you as President ruled correctly. How could the Member say that this matter is unconstitutional without referring to the facts? What are the bases of his statements. He might get a good hearing in the papers, Mr. President, but certainly he had no basis whatsoever - stupid and without basis would I consider his claim that the motion is unconstitutional. I trust that he would get a copy since he is such an intellect of Erskine May Parliamentary Practice, because that is the bible of the parliament.

Mr. President, the Elected Member for North Side also commented on a news report in the Caymanian Compass. He said that I was entirely incorrect in what I told the press. Mr. President, I do not lie about such matters. I am not going to tell you I am an angel, but I am not a hypocrite. Everybody in this country knows that the Elected Member for North Side and I have worked closely together in the past, and when I asked and told him about the situation, he told me of his concern. He felt that there was some basis for investigation - that was our first talk before the motion was even drafted. However, when I spoke to him the second time, right here in the chambers of this House or the precincts of the House, he said he was not going to second the motion because I could not bring him any evidence.

So, Mr. President, I do not know why the Member would now get up and try to make this House believe that I had not contacted him or that I had told a lie. You must put this man in his place. He constantly does it, and I am not going to put up with it much longer. I want to show you, Mr. President, how this Member operates, and the vicious way in which he carries on. He thinks that he can stifle it in his debate. I want to show you exactly what this Member has been doing in this House.

MR. PRESIDENT: Before you continue, is this strictly relevant to the debate in question? You are entirely entitled to correct if, in your opinion, he has recorded a conversation of yours incorrectly. You are of course at liberty to correct that, and he may then rise and ask for elucidation, but I just want to ensure that what you are going on with is relevant to the motion.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Certainly, Mr. President, the Member went on a whole deal concerning the constitutionality of the motion. He went on with regard to the report in the papers, and I am now further going to refer to what he said about the Iran Contra hearings, to show you, Mr. President, this House, and the listening public how this Member operates.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think ... I am sorry to interrupt you yet again, this is the matter that was raised this morning where I believe you took a point of elucidation. I thought we sorted that out. It certainly appeared, from what the Member had said, that he thought that you had mentioned both the hearings in question. It was elucidated that you had not said that, and I thought that he apologised for any misunderstanding.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: No, he did not apologise, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: I believe that he did. I would be grateful if ... please continue, but no, do not let us make too much of the matter, I think both sides have had their say and I think he did apologise.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, that is just it, the Member has been guilty of making dirty remarks in this House and when he thinks he can stifle it in the debate, he does it. That is what I am getting at.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well I think you must leave the Chair to judge that on future occasions. Would you please proceed.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I will leave that, Sir, but I have a copy of what he said. This is the Elected Member for North Side, and I quote:
"The mover in his opening remarks, Mr. President, mentioned the Watergate scandal, and more recently the Iran Contra hearings as they occurred in the United States of America."

That was a statement of fact, Mr. President, that is when I rose on a point of order.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am sorry to interrupt you, but we did deal with this this morning. You are reading the record of the morning's transcript, are you?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Yes, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well, we have been through it, and I am sorry, I do think we should move on. You made your point and the Member apologized.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I am rising and referring to what he said and to show you the Member's conduct in this House - how he carries on every time somebody makes a statement.

MR. PRESIDENT: No, I am sorry, I think we must desist from this. The past is the past, he has apologized for that incident, I hope you will trust the Chair inasmuch as it is able to control this sort of thing from any Member in future.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: All right, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Thank you very much. I think I have interrupted you several times. Should we take our break now and then would you like to continue afterwards, or would you like to go on?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I would just like to finish on that particular point. I will bow to your ruling on the point, Mr. President, I am not satisfied, of course, because I felt that the Member has made too many dirty remarks in this House and has hidden it properly in debate, and I come to the point that I must be vindicated. I will take the break, Mr. President, and leave the matter as put.

MR. PRESIDENT: Good. We will suspend for fifteen minutes, then.

AT 3:08 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 3:39 P.M.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, when we took the break, I was dealing with the point raised under Standing Order 34(b), and I will leave that point. I think I have covered the Member's claim for the motion being unconstitutional, and I have shown that the Member does not know what he is talking about.

The Member also said, Mr. President, that he heard no hard evidence, and that, as I said in my opening remarks on the motion, is just the crux of the matter. That is why we need to have a proper investigation.

Mr. President, the Member also referred to the walk-out and the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty. I have said what I have had to say on the treaty. I did not vote for the powers that we were putting into the law, and I said if I were proven wrong I would get up at that point and say that I was wrong. So far, Mr. President, there is no treaty, I do not know whether we have a treaty between Cayman and the United Kingdom, but certainly the treaty has not been ratified in the United States' Congress. So there is no treaty. Goodwill, perhaps, but no treaty.

Mr. President, my opposition to it at that point respected the welfare and interests of my people, nothing else. They have continued to try to claim otherwise, in other areas, and not only in this House. Maybe at some point the Member could tell us about his trip to Panama right after the introduction of the Mutual Legal Assistance treaty - which he so strongly supported.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: If the Member would care to give way now on a point of elucidation under Standing Order 34(b), I will gladly tell the Member why I went to Panama.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: No, Mr. President, he has had his chance. Mr. President, you might know him, but he is family to Donald Chisholm and he will twist things around - so he has had his point ...

MR. PRESIDENT: I am sorry I cannot hear that, would you repeat it? I could not hear that, could you say it again, the last sentence?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I think we have crossed that point, Mr. President. With no disrespect to you, I think it was just a jive that has always passed between us.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well, I cannot rule on it because I have not heard what it was. If the Elected Member for North Side wants you to say it, I fear that you will have to say it. Do you wish to let it go? I mean, I do not want to waste the time of the House ...

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: It is not important, Mr. President, we all know in this House who is family to who ...

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Sit down, sit down, you are out of order ...

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: The Chair called me.

MR. PRESIDENT: Wait a minute, I invited the Member to speak, please.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: On what point, Mr. President? On what point?

MR. PRESIDENT: The Chair may ask any Member to speak on any point.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Not while I am speaking, if I may say so, Mr. President, according to my Standing Orders.

MR. PRESIDENT: Now please, please do not let us get into a nonsense, please. I do not want to, the Chair does not want to, that is two of me does not want to, none of us does, please let us go on.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Thank you, Sir.
I will leave him to ponder on my question.
Mr. President, the Member also questioned what would be the terms of reference of such a Committee, and how far it intended to go. If the Member had been paying close attention to what I said in my opening remarks, he would have heard that I gave a term of reference which I think could be applied, and he also knows, since he is an expert, that our Standing Orders on Select Committees say that a Select Committee, which would be the whole House under this motion, would set its terms of reference. So why are they continuing to throw all this rubbish into the debate?

Mr. President, two Members made the point concerning the rise in detection, saying of course that there was such a good job being done in this country. The Member responsible, and also the Elected Member for North Side made mention of the rise in detection. Mr. President, what kinds of detections have we had in this country? What is the major portion? - drugs, not hard crime, Mr. President; and the only way they are getting detection is by a 1973 drug law. And I would read the relevant section that is being used to arrest the little barefoot boy on the street. That is where the major amount of detection takes place.

I do not know, Sir, whether you have paid a visit to the prison at Northward recently, but it is crammed full of young people - that is the detection rate, Mr. President. It is from no great police that they can get up and claim praise in this House. It is through the 1973 Misuse of Drugs Law, probably piloted by the Honourable First Elected Member of Council, and it states that 'a Constable or Customs Officer may arrest, without warrant, a person who has committed or whom such Constable or Customs Officer reasonably suspects to have committed an offence under this law'. A person who has been arrested under subsection (1) may, while at a police station, hospital or other convenient place, be required by a Constable to provide a specimen of his urine for a laboratory test, and if such person, without reasonable excuse, fails to provide such a specimen, he shall be guilty of an offence. If they want to claim credit for anything they can claim it for packing our jail full of young people, by a law, and as I said which was probably piloted by the Honourable First Elected Member of Executive Council, for urine tests.

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: On a point of order, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: State, please, which point of order?

HON. BENSON D. FRANKS: I am sure that Law is a 1973 Law (revised).

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, he must state what point he is raising.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think it is a point of elucidation rather than a point of order.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, no, the revised law has it, yes, but it comes from the 1973 Misuse of Drugs Law, which the Honourable Member, I believe, piloted in this House.

MR. PRESIDENT: Excuse me, the point you are trying to establish, I think, is to do with the detection rate, so please go ahead with that.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Yes, Mr. President. The Member who rose to interrupt knows what I am talking about. He piloted the Bill in 1973, and it was only instituted in 1985, under his Executive Council. So I must stress that when it comes to detection rate, at this point in time, the police cannot claim any great credit for some great conviction. It is purely a urine test that has put them in a position to claim that they have made so many arrests. And you know what, Mr. President, the sad thing is that we are not solving the problem with it.

The Honourable Third Official Member who should have risen first to answer me, said that he could see no good arising out of performing a postmortem on a decomposed body. I do not want to prolong the House, but I definitely have to answer. Although it was mostly rubbish, I just cannot let some of the debate which took place go unanswered. It is strange language, Mr. President, but the point is that we know that sometimes it is most necessary to perform postmortems on bodies which have already been buried because there possibly could have been a criminal action involved. That is the point, and I hope that he gets what I am talking about.

The Honourable Member said that the motion can do no good because the police are now involved in heavy investigations of murder and other things. Well, it is just that. As I said no one can say or believe that the entire force is corrupt - nobody has ever said that. And so, while certain officers have been going about their duty, others may have been involved in - to use some good words - unwholesome activities. This is what the motion is trying to stop.

With fast pace that we are now experiencing in our development, a lot of things go unnoticed and a lot of things are hidden under the carpet, so we must try to bring them to light. The Honourable Member said that the motion was petty and unfounded. Mr. President, all the other little remarks he made I did not take objection to, but I took objection to his remark that the motion was petty, and that in other words it was a move to denigrate the police.

Mr. President, I am as honest as any other Member in this House, and I have never done anything to circumvent the law of this country. I have a responsibility to the people of this country, and all I am trying to do in this motion is to carry that responsibility through. But it is a hard job when we have to deal with the people whom we are dealing with.

Mr. President, he called attention to my point concerning the allegation of money disappearing and a few other allegations. He asked what I did and what actions I had taken with regard to the allegations. Let me say again that the people in this country are afraid to go to certain persons to give information, but I am not so afraid, although I would not be so foolish to believe that there could not be retaliation towards me.

I called the Commissioner of Police twice since he has been here, and you know what he did? He did not speak to me, he referred me, without even finding out what I wanted, to his Deputy. I am an Elected Member of this House and I bend to no one in such matters. So I do not think that I will ever be calling him again.

The Honourable Third Official Member also referred to an earlier speech which I made concerning unification, and my points of being proud of the past and confident of the future. That is true, however, Mr. President, some of that confidence is already eroded when we find responsible people trying to duck and weave the way they have been doing.

There is nothing much more for me to refer to, Mr. President. The Honourable Member responsible could not give one good, honest-to-goodness reason why an investigation should not be carried out. He made claim to what the force has been doing, and a few other little things, that bear no relevance to the need for investigation.

The lady Member, Mr. President, well, I am not going to refer much to her debate because she refers to but very little. She reminded me of what Sir Winston Churchill, I believe it was, told another member - that when she got up she did not know what she was going to say and when she sat down she did not know what she had said. However, it looked to me, Mr. President, as though the Member was almost persuaded in supporting this motion - almost, but lost. She pointed out that there were maybe five, six or a dozen police officers of whom allegations were made - so were we going to accuse the whole?

Mr. President, this is exactly what I have been trying to do with this motion - to clear up, take out the bad, and leave the good. And if the Member honestly believes in what she was trying to say, then she should support this motion. She should not smite her conscience and vote with the Government bench. I would say one thing, Mr. President, I could never believe that we had a dozen corrupt officers in the force. What I believe is that there are a few, a very small few, but that few is raging havoc in this country, and the Government is doing nothing about it! They are hiding the fact.

Mr. President, I can do no more with this motion. I believe that the Motion is well put, it is well worded, and all the simple-minded excuses that we have heard have no relevance to the motion, and do not show why we should not have an investigation. All I would say, Mr. President, is that if, after my four years of public life, I were asked what one of the greatest perils facing our people was today, I would have to say one of those perils is the use of arbitrary power. We constantly witness the abuse of power, and until new attitudes to this abuse of power, whether it is one form of corruption or whatever, is engendered in our society - and Government must take the lead

- the abuse of power by those who have power and control will continue, today and in the future. That is the danger we face.

Mr. President, this motion is left to the whim of the House. I thank the Member who seconded the motion and who rose to speak in support. And to those who did not speak, I trust that their minds will be changed because they do know a good thing when they see one.

MR. PRESIDENT: I shall put the question to the House on Private Member's Motion No.16/87.

PRAYERS

MR. W. McKEEVA RUSH:

Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake. Amen.

Our Father, who art in Heaven. Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread: And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us: And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil: For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us; the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us; the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

DRAFT ESTIMATES OF REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE
FOR THE YEAR 1988

MR. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the 1988 estimates of revenue and expenditure for the Cayman Islands Government.

MR. PRESIDENT:

So ordered.

We now proceed to Government Business. Bills - first reading.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

THE APPROPRIATION (1988) BILL, 1987.

FIRST READING

CLERK: THE APPROPRIATION (1988) BILL, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT:

A Bill entitled the Appropriation (1988) Bill, 1987 is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for second reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE APPROPRIATION (1988) BILL, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable the First Official Member.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, the second reading of the Appropriation (1938) Bill, 1987 is being moved with the Budget Address which I now present.

Mr. President, we have never experienced more world uncertainty since the Great Depression than in October last, which effects will remain with us for many months to come. Black Monday, the greatest plunge in the Dow Jones Industrial average since the historic crash in 1929, where the average fell by 508.32 points in the heaviest trading ever seen on the New York Stock Exchange, when a volume of $604 million shares were traded. Other world stock markets suffered sharp falls as well, with the tumble in London falling by 250 points, Tokyo 620, Hong Kong 420 and Frankfurt by 132 points.

This triggered the major banks in the United States to cut the prime interest rate, the Federal Reserve Bank to ease short term credit to its member banks to improve liquidity, but pressure remains on the United States dollar.

The growing world concern over the United States massive budget deficit and its unnerving high trade deficit are the root cause of the majority of turmoil in the financial markets.

We hear that in new talks among the United States, West Germany and Japan, the vital need to establish a new monetary accord is gaining acceptance by the officials of those countries. We are aware that the two major industrial countries which are amassing huge trade surpluses are Japan and West Germany.

One reason for the United States trade deficit problem is the relatively high cost of United States produced goods on the international market, compared with their competitors.

If a new monetary accord is reached, which renders United States goods more competitive on the international market, it will be an important step towards reducing the United States trade deficit.

However, even if a new monetary accord is reached, this alone will not stabilise the financial market. The United States' budget deficit is being funded by all of us around the world when we participate in the purchase of United States Treasury Bonds. If one day, that participation amounts to only 25 per cent of what the United States requires, the global financial market will again become very unstable.

There will continue to be ever increasing pressure for the United States to take the appropriate steps to reduce its budget deficit.

The United States dollar at the end of last month fell to a 40 year low against the Japanese yen, and a seven year low against the West German mark, and more recently it moved lower against the yen.

In European trading last month, the dollar fell to 137 yen, its lowest since 1947. So we can see the very nervous market reacting to different news reports and we have also seen the negative reaction of the New York Stock Exchange to news from West Germany that their September trade figures were a record surplus, signalling further trade deficits for the United States.

However, Mr. President, having made these comments, I am aware of the seven nation agreement called the "Louvre Accord" on exchange rate stability which is in effect. The United States, Japan, West Germany, France, Britain, Canada and Italy reached the accord in February in order to stabilise the dollar within certain ranges. These ranges have never been disclosed publicly. We have, late last month, witnessed the support of the United States dollar by the Central Banks of some of the seven nation countries. Japan bought $1-1.2 billion United States currency and West Germany, $400-$500 million.

Turning now to other areas of the world economy.

Financial leaders of the Commonwealth Government, and the democratic world, are experiencing slow growth, large macro-economic imbalances persist among industrialized countries, commodity prices remain low, while new financial flows to developing countries have been reduced, protectionism has increased, and the problems of chronic indebtedness remain. Growth in developing countries is expected to average a moderate three per cent in 1987.

Some of the deepest concern is over the growing strength of protectionist pressures, and the spread of new trade restrictions. These measures are disrupting world trade, undermining business confidence and investment, causing immense difficulties for developing countries seeking to expand their economy by expanding exports.

Mr. President, in this world of troubled financial markets, slow economic growth and much uncertainty abounding, I am pleased to say that the economy of the Cayman Islands has never, in real terms, been more active than it now is. There is no doubt that the great architect who created this world watches over us.

The revised estimate for the Gross Domestic Product of the Cayman Islands in 1983 is approximately $170 million. With the cooperation of the private sector, we will hopefully have a more accurate Gross Domestic Product figure next year. We have a total work force of 10,034, with Caymanians representing 74 per cent. Not included in this figure is domestic workers.

As we move around in Grand Cayman, we see much construction in progress, many tourists on our shores, much business activity, and a generally healthy economy responding to the demands of both residents and the international businessman and tourist visitors.

THE LOCAL ECONOMY 1987

a) The Financial Sector

(i) Banking and Trust

I am pleased to report that 1986 proved to be another good year for the banking and trust industry in Cayman. Despite strong and ever increasing competition from other countries, the steady and successful growth of this sector has continued into 1987. As I forecast in my address last year, the number of new licences issued, at 37, was similar to that of the previous year. This resulted in an overall net increase of 17 in the number of licensed companies, so that at the end of 1986 there were 498 banks and trust companies with current licences.

As always, several licences were cancelled. Many cancellations were a direct result of the problems experienced by smaller banks in the southern states of the United States of America, which have frequently resulted in mergers or reorganisations. Other surrenders resulted from the completion of the task for which the bank concerned was established. None of those surrendering expressed any dissatisfaction with the Cayman Islands or its standards.

In the course of the current year, we achieved a milestone of 500 banks with current licences, and I anticipate by the end of this year, the total will have reached around 515. What is especially pleasing is that the major banks of the world are so strongly represented in Cayman. Last year, I mentioned we had 20 of the 25 largest banks. All these banks are still with us, as are many of the next 25. So that we have 42 of the top 50. These are really remarkable statistics only, I suspect, exceeded by, perhaps, London and New York. It indicates clearly the high reputation the Islands have achieved. It reflects the stable atmosphere created by this Government. And I believe also results from the visible and vocal efforts of the Government to ensure only the most reputable of business comes to these Islands. Not only Government, but the resident banks, accountants, the lawyers and the Bank Inspector's team have all contributed by their efforts to create the sound, efficient, knowledgeable and well controlled conditions that appeal to the world banking fraternity.

Banks are now licenced here from 56 different countries, as in part a reflection of the problems of the United States mentioned earlier, currently only 31 per cent of licenced operations originate from the United States, compared with 33 per cent last year, and 39 per cent in 1981.

As well as the continued growth in banks, the volume of business carried on the books of the banks also showed a marked increase. At the end of 1986, it is anticipated that the total foreign assets of the Cayman offices of the licenced operations stood at US$202.25 billion, an increase of 15.5 per cent on 1985. In absolute terms this was a larger increase than in 1985, but was marginally lower than the rate of increase of 16.5 per cent achieved during 1985. But it is still a very healthy rate of growth. Forbes Magazine, which has not always been kind to the Cayman Islands, considered that it was likely that we were now the largest offshore financial centre in the world. I am not sure how you measure the largest, but with over 500 banks, and over US$200 billion of assets, it is clear we are a very important centre. This Government takes great pride in this world status, and will do all it can to see that the requirements of the banking industry are and will be treated sympathetically and with understanding. However, at the same time, we shall not be deflected from the high standards we have set, and which banks have come to expect from the Cayman Islands.

You will not be surprised to learn that in 1986, in financial terms, and considering only direct expenditure, the banking sector contributed substantially to Cayman Islands economy. In monetary terms, around C$54.5 million. Of this sum, licence fees paid directly to Government amounted to $5.1 million. In 1987, fees are likely to raise $5.3 million. Licensees operating within the Islands provided the bulk of the overall expenditure, with some $47.5 million. Much of this expenditure reflects salaries and wages paid to the local workforce, but it also covers costs such as company fees, rent, construction and refurbishing of premises, all of which benefits other sectors of our economy.

Nearly 10 per cent of the working force of Cayman is directly employed in the banking and trust sector. At the end of 1986 the total number of employees had risen to 967, with 758 of them being Caymanians. That is nearly 79 per cent. Of the overall increase of 77, 74 were Caymanians. The demand for labour in this sector is ever growing, and I can see no sign of any slackening of demand. In fact, the physical presence of banks in Cayman is rising quite strongly. We now have 62 and there are indications that several others will follow. In some cases, this reflects less settled conditions existing in other centres. But it is often the result of in-depth study and comparisons. Whatever the reason, the new arrivals all want staff, and for the foreseeable future, I see little likelihood of change in this sector, being a major employer of local labour.

(ii) Insurance

Last year I mentioned recent legislation in the United States of America which might have an adverse effect on the establishment of "Captives" in Cayman, or in other domiciles. I am happy to say this has not turned out to be the case, and we continue to receive a good number of applications for new licences.

Because of the very rapid changes which do take place in the Insurance business, it is not easy to forecast very far ahead. However, there seems no reason why Cayman should not attract a number of new companies next year. And the Government revenue should approach the $2 million mark.

Much of our business comes from the United States, but there is good business to be attracted from the rest of the world, and we must make sure we promote ourselves vigorously whenever the opportunity presents itself.

On the domestic front, it is encouraging to note the formation of the Life Underwriters Association of Cayman, the objects of which are to promote higher standards in the industry generally.

(iii) Cayman Islands Currency Board

Total assets of the Currency Board as at 31st July, 1987 amounted to CI$19.4 million, as compared to the July 1986 figures of CI$17.2 million. Total currency in circulation, excluding numismatic issues, was $12.5 million at the end of July. During 1986 $1.9 million in unfit notes were withdrawn from circulation and subsequently destroyed.

For the period January to July 1987, unfit notes amounting to $2.8 million have already been redeemed for destruction.

In addition to the six notes currently in circulation, the Board issued a new denomination of currency notes in March of 1987. The new $50 note bears the signature of the current Chairman. It features an old Caymanian dwelling house on the reverse side, and a portrait of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II and the Coat-of-Arms on the obverse. It is expected that this note will be beneficial to the banks and other businesses in their transactions with the public, and that it will eventually replace the $40 note which has become a collectors' item.

The Currency Board will participate in the Royal Mint's 1987 Ruby Wedding Coin Programme. These coins will commemorate the Ruby Wedding Anniversary of Her Majesty the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, and consist of a $250 gold coin and a $5 silver coin. Approval has also been given for a 1987 Eight Coin Proof Set to be minted and marketed by the Royal Mint. It is intended that the Eight Coin Proof Set will be issued annually, and is expected to be well received by subscribers and other coin collectors.

In addition to the 1987 numismatic issues, the Currency Board arranged for a reprint of its full line of regular circulating coins, (25c, 10c, 5c and 1c). The reverse design remains the same as the circulating coins issued in 1972, but the obverse side features the new effigy of Her Majesty the Queen, by Raphael Maklouf. These coins were issued in October of this year.

As at 31st July, 1987, fixed deposits amounted to CI$1.8 million, with investments in United States Treasury Bonds totalling CI$10.1 million. Revaluation of these investments at 30th June resulted in a net depreciation of $432,339. But as a comparison, last year we had a net appreciation of $454,536. The loss from revaluation is simply a paper loss, due to the unfortunate fall in the bond market. Therefore, the Board adopted, prior to the sharp fall in the market, a more conservative position, reducing the portfolio to shorter term bonds. So far this year, the net loss on sale of securities is $160,000.

For the second year in succession, no transfer from the operating surplus to the General Reserve was necessary, as it was in excess of the 15 per cent of demand liabilities, that is currency in circulation required under the law. Therefore the 1986 operating surplus of $1,489,591 was, in its entirety, transferred to the Government's General Revenue. The operating surplus for 1986 was an increase of 7 per cent over the 1985 figure, making it the largest amount ever transferred to Government.

This year, I anticipate that the Board's contribution to Government will not be as large as the 1986 contribution, because the decline of the United States dollar is expected to continue, adversely affecting the price of bonds, and currency issue expense will be substantial.

(iv) Companies Registration

With the computerisation of the Register, companies can now be more easily regulated, and indeed this is reflected in the 596 companies which were struck from the Register so far in 1987, where the Department had reasonable cause to believe that they were no longer carrying on business. This striking off policy is in accordance with the Government Minute tabled in December 1986.

The striking off of these companies from the Register has had no overall effect on the revenue from company registration, which further serves to substantiate the view that companies now coming to these Islands are of a better quality and of sounder financial standings than in the past.

For the eight month period, January to August 1987, 1,617 new companies were registered in the Cayman Islands, compared with 1,435 for the same period in 1986, an increase of 12.7 per cent over 1986. Collection of revenue for the period was $6,047 of the $6.5 million budgeted sum.

His Excellency the Governor in March 1987 appointed the Registrar of Companies to hold the additional office of Public Recorder, and he is busy transferring various records to the Companies Department. At the same time methods of preserving the documents are being examined. It is however necessary that any method chosen to preserve these documents must be acceptable to the Courts, because the original paper on which they are written will not last indefinitely. It is hoped that the legislation necessary to achieve this will be introduced in this Honourable House some time in 1988.

Previously, the Public Records were dealt with by two persons on a part-time basis, and under the Law the recording fee was personal to them. With the transfer of this subject to the Registrar of Companies Department, all fees collected are now paid into General Revenues of these Islands.

The Partnership Amendment Law 1986 introduced a registration and annual fee. CI$18,660 has been collected in fees with ten new partnerships being registered in 1987. There are now 56 partnerships registered in the Cayman Islands, and with the recent amendment to the Partnership Law in May of this year, allowing a Partnership to be formed to carry on any lawful business, the scope for which partnerships may be established has broadened, leading to increased activity in this area of the Register.

The remaining Register showing any notable activity was the Trusts Register. Under this Register CI$5,619 was collected for the period January to August 1987, in comparison with CI$7,400 for the same period in 1986. Like the Patents and Trade Marks Register, the Trusts Register is an erratic Register, insofar as the estimation of revenue is concerned. Part of this problem may be attributed to the wording of the Law which allows for trust fees to be paid in March of each year instead of January of each year, and for Government fees to be based on revenue earned by the Trust where the Trust earns no revenue, no fee is payable to the Cayman Islands Government. It may be too that the revision of the fee structure in the Trust Law will be a primary consideration to any Trust Laws which may be brought before this Honourable House in the near future.

I am pleased to record that Mr. Woodward L. Terry resumed full-time duty as Registrar General in August 1987, having completed his LLB Degree through Liverpool University in the United Kingdom, and qualified as an Attorney-at-Law through the Cayman Islands Law School.

(v) Agricultural and Industrial Development Board

The Agricultural and Industrial Development Board has recently expanded its portfolio to include the financing of training programmes of study in higher and technical/vocational education. The Board works closely with the Education Department for the purpose of approving loans under the Student Loan Scheme.

A priority training list has been published which details the areas of our greatest manpower needs. Training in the medical and educational fields are being given priority by Government.

As at 31st August, 1987, fourteen loans were approved under the Student Loan Scheme amounting to over CI$150,000. Areas of training include Elementary and Secondary Education, Computer Sciences, Accounting, Nursing, and Construction Engineering.

(vi) Management Companies

The Government is aware of the claim that some applicants for a licence have had difficulty in obtaining the proper insurance coverage. The Inspector of Company Managers, however, reports that most firms have now found a broker willing to give the necessary coverage, and all those applicants who are still experiencing problems in obtaining the proper insurance coverage should contact the Inspector of Company Managers, at the Registrar of Companies Department.

For the second year, we remain concerned that some firms in the private sector have not yet approached his office to obtain the required licence under the Law. These firms are strongly urged to contact the Inspector of Company Managers to make the necessary arrangements to be licenced under the Companies Management Law.

(vii) Legal Firms

The profession continues to provide the services that are so essential to a sound financial centre's operations, and it has recently been enriched by five local attorneys-at-law, who have been called to the bar after qualifying through our local Law School.

(viii) Accounting Firms

Those firms which are internationally renowned, provide the services that add to our credibility as an international financial centre. We have witnessed, in recent times, more local people who are professionally qualified joining this worthy profession as Certified Public Accountants and Chartered Accountants.

b) Tourism Sector

With the completion of two major hotels earlier this year, 1987 has brought a significant growth in the Tourism Industry. Effective marketing, promotions, and advertising campaigns by the Department of Tourism, Cayman Airways, and the private sector are responsible for this success, and it is hoped that the ties between Government and the private sector will continue to strengthen in the year ahead. Eastern Airlines commenced a daily service to Grand Cayman from Miami in January 1987, and in May, Northwest Airlines added a direct flight from Memphis, Tennessee. During the previous winter season, however, it was Cayman Airways which provided the largest increase in seat capacity from the United States, with a successful winter charter programme from New York, Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Atlanta, and Tampa. The latter two cities were changed to scheduled points in the summer.

At the end of October, tourist air arrivals for the year totalled 171,908 which represented an increase of 26.3 per cent over the same period in 1986. The projection for 1987 is 209,000 or 26 per cent increase over 1986. Cruise ship traffic has remained stable, and a small percentage increase is projected for the end of the year.

No new major projects for tourist accommodation are expected to be completed before the end of 1988, so it is expected that tourist air arrivals will grow by a modest 10 per cent next year. The big increase will come in cruise ship passengers, with an increase of 25 per cent expected. This will occur primarily because of the introduction of larger ships by the cruise ship companies.

Acknowledging the need to continue to provide a high quality tourism product, and recognising that this can only be achieved through staff training, more emphasis will be placed on training programmes for hotel workers through the efforts of the Hotel Training School now operated under the Community College, the Cayman Islands Hotel Association, the Caribbean Hotel Training Institute, and George Brown University in Toronto, Canada. Additionally, under the Sister City Programme with Metropolitan Dade County in Florida, a Practical Trainee Exchange Project has been developed which enables the exchange of staff for on-the-job training.

c) Transport Sector

Cayman Airways Ltd.

Cayman Airways continues to play its important role in providing the Country with safe and reliable air transportation.

Following negotiations with Her Majesty's Government and the United States of America in late 1986, Cayman Airways was granted permission to operate scheduled services to three additional unnamed points in the United States territory. After much market research, and based on its own experience from its charter operations, the Company decided to request Government to select Tampa and Atlanta as two of the three points. This was done and scheduled services to those points commenced in June 1987.

In addition to scheduled services, the Company leased an extra aircraft for the 1986/87 winter season, and embarked on an extensive charter programme to seven United States cities which proved to be a success.

In spite of substantial growth in passenger arrivals the entrance of Eastern Airlines on the Miami route has undoubtedly created strong competition, which is bound to affect the operating results of our National Airline for the period ended 30th June, 1987. Nevertheless, it can properly be said that the airline has streamlined its operations, and is maintaining a fair market share. Favourable future results from its expanded route system to Tampa and Atlanta are anticipated.

The Company has continued to meet its financial obligations on a timely basis, and in order to continue to do so, will require the necessary Government subsidy. With this financial assistance, the introduction of new scheduled services from the United States of America, the operation of a successful charter programme, and the dedication of the staff, Cayman Airways is expected to continue to provide a much needed service to this country.

d) Government Sector

(a) Finance and Development

(i) Personnel

The new rules governing the conditions of service of Public Officers in the Cayman Islands, known as General Orders, were approved by the Governor and went into effect on the first of June. They replaced the 1977 Personnel Regulations.

When Government accepted the 1984 Salaries Review, it also undertook the review the salaries and other conditions of service every four years, and a Salaries Commissioner, Mr. C. J. Hall, M.B.E., has been appointed to conduct the review which will take effect on 1st January, 1988.

The Government is continuing its localization policy by sending serving officers on overseas courses. Presently, there are twenty-two officers on courses of various duration in the United Kingdom, United States and the region. In addition, there are school leavers on Government scholarships bonded to return to Government service in many departments.

During 1987 eleven university graduates joined the service as teachers, administrative officers, nurses, engineers and architects.

(ii) Statistics

I turn now to the Government Statistics Unit. Last year you may recall I lamented two facts: that our trade statistics were not up to date; and the absence of firmly based estimates of Cayman's gross domestic product. This year I can report progress in both of these difficult areas.

First, the recently published Overseas Trade Statistics revealed that total imports in 1986 were $134 million, an increase of nine per cent on 1985. Although Governments rarely like to see a sharp increase in imports, it was nevertheless encouraging to note that growth was faster in "productive" imports - that is capital goods and inputs to the construction industry - than in imports of consumer and transport goods. The streamlined methods, which have been adopted, enable the Statistics Unit to process a year's Customs documents in about ten months. We are, therefore, steadily approaching the position of having timely trade statistics.

Government decided earlier this year that the Statistician should compile national accounts - the key statistic of which is gross domestic product - as soon as possible. They further authorised him to take a national income survey to provide the bulk of the outstanding data needed for the task. This survey is being conducted now on a sample basis, with a very short questionnaire to reduce the burden of form-filling on the business community. I believe that the assurances of confidentiality given with the earlier employment survey, together with the new measures now taken, are reassuring respondents to the survey that their data is safe with the Government Statistician.

The report on the employment survey, published midyear, provides a comprehensive array of statistics which should stand us in good stead for a number of years. Returning again to the subject of confidentiality, I expect that readers will have noted the care taken in presenting the statistics, so that contributions by individual firms, or in respect of individual employees were not disclosed.

Another new venture was the publication, early in the year, of detailed statistics on births, deaths, and marriages. That Old Faithful, the Annual Abstract of Statistics, appeared with its 1986 update of a range of statistics from agricultural production to air arrivals from New Zealand.

Although there was some quickening in price increases as measured by the consumer price index, the rate is still fairly moderate: in the twelve months to September the all-items index rose by 4.3 per cent. This is mainly caused by price increases of goods imported from the United States.

(iii) Computer Services

Applications implemented during the year included the payroll for salaried and hourly paid employees, Government accounts and local supplier payments, Immigration residents, Law Library, Tourism Survey and an Insured Assets Register.

By the end of 1987 vehicle licensing will have been implemented, with drivers and bicycle licences following shortly thereafter. A Personnel system will replace the word processing application which produces the Civil List, providing more flexibility, with reporting options to assist in managing the Civil Service, and to monitor calls made through four of the PRX telephone systems installed in Government offices. A system to manage the licensing of insurance firms will be installed on a microcomputer in the department. A similar approach will be taken with banks and trust company registration.

The conversion of applications from the PDP (the old computer) should be completed by the end of 1987. CPI, Consumer Price Index, and the Budget Estimates have already been moved to the VAXcluster. Companies Registry and Trade Statistics are being worked on presently. Feasibility studies for a standard Government-wide Billing and Arrears of Revenue system, Hospital Patients Index and Billing System, and Social Services Client Register have been completed.

A five year plan for computing services in Government was approved during the year, which provides the framework for the future use of Computers in Government, and the resources required to implement the plan. This plan has been incorporated into the Economic Development Plan and includes a proposal to construct an all weather new computer centre in 1988, to house Government's main computer facilities and staff. Some of the space in the Administration Building occupied by Computer Services will be vacated for the use of other departments, but the present computer room will remain environmentally intact so that Government has a backup site in case of emergency. This is essential when departments rely heavily on computer systems to serve the public.

Training continues to be high priority for Computer

Services. Over 400 Government employees have attended various courses given by Computer Services, in addition to over 300 officers trained on word processing alone. Two Caymanian officers on Education Council scholarships worked during their summer break. Unfortunately, this year no Caymanian graduates returned to the Civil Service in this area. Two Caymanians in the department were promoted to the senior posts of Database Administrator and Assistant Operations Manager, demonstrating Government's commitment to appoint Caymanians to management as their experience broadens.

(iv) Customs

The additional officers approved in the 1987 Budget made it possible to introduce a shift system at Owen Roberts Airport Terminal from 1st June, 1987. This confines overtime working to attendance required between 11:00 p.m. and 8:30 a.m. on weekdays and between 4:30 p.m. on Saturdays and 8:30 a.m. on Mondays. This will reduce Customs charges to airlines substantially, provided that airline schedules do not substantially increase arrivals outside the shift periods.

The Task Force, introduced in 1985 and expanded in 1987, has been a successful development. It is now primarily engaged in the investigation of fraudulent commercial practices, such as false invoicing by importers and suppliers leading to underpayments of duty. These investigations have resulted in heavy penalties being imposed upon offenders in recent months. Notable examples have been CI$172,000 on one importer, CI$20,000 on another, and over CI$10,000 upon a third.

In order to ensure that responsibility for the declaration of imported goods is properly and clearly identified, the business community must accept their legal obligation to fully declare their goods on Customs Entries, including Tariff headings, and statistical codings. To do this properly may involve training seminars for importers and brokers, as well as for Customs staff. The provision of this information is not only a prerequisite for any computer-based Customs system and its later interface with a computerised public accounting system, but it is also necessary for the statistical analysis of imported goods - an essential commercial tool.

There is evidence that hard drugs are being landed on remote Cayman shores for collection by dealers for onward transmission to the United States, as well as for consumption here. To combat this criminal activity effectively, the Department needs to operate a marine patrol, and it has requested appropriate provision in the 1988 Budget.

The clearance of incoming passengers at airports, and particularly at Owen Roberts Airport, is under continual review. As well as the increased staff already recruited to reduce queuing, the possibility has been considered of introducing a "clearway" system whereby passengers choose to enter either a red channel when they have goods to declare or a green channel when they have no dutiable or prohibited items. Such a system puts the onus of declaration largely on the passenger, and it would undoubtedly speed up the processing of arriving passengers; it is however, open to abuse, and would have to be accompanied by more severe penalties against abuse.

The Government is very conscious of the need to follow a middle course, which provides adequate opportunity for selective and random baggage examinations on one hand, and to avoid passenger frustration on the other. It is particularly important that tourists, who account for at least two-thirds of passenger arrivals by air, should be made to feel welcome and not unnecessarily harassed. At the same time the increase in drug smuggling in recent years has made vigilance even more necessary, and it should be clear to all visitors that this is in their interests as well as that of the people of these Islands.

In view of this consideration no change in basic procedures for clearing passengers through Customs is contemplated at the present time. It is expected, however, that a continuing intensive training programme, including practical training in the United States under the auspices of the United States Customs, will help officers to perform their duties more effectively and efficiently. The first round of this practical training has recently been completed.

The Customs Section situated in Cayman Brac was reorganised earlier this year, and the staff now consists of one Deputy Collector, one Assistant Collector, three Senior Officers, and two Officers. Recommendations are presently being made to restore the control of this section more directly to the Collector of Customs in Grand Cayman, to ensure that uniform Customs policies and procedures are operated throughout the Islands.

(v) Ship Registration

Revenue from this source will be less this year, reflecting the reduction in the number of ships registered, and the stiff stand, which the United States Coast Guard has adopted against Cayman Islands registered vessels which do not comply with various International Conventions. It is fair to say that the Coast Guard has appreciated our attempts to improve the register by the introduction of legislation, namely the Merchant Shipping (Applicable Convention) Law which enables the United Kingdom Government to extend various International Conventions to the Cayman Islands. Two Marine Surveyors will be seconded from the United Kingdom Department of Transport, to form the core of a Marine Division to be established here in the Registrar of Companies Department.

The secondment of the United Kingdom Marine

Surveyors will enable us to more adequately regulate and to inspect the ships on our register, and to assist in bringing our Register to international standard.

(vi) Revenue and Expenditure

The 1987 Budget presented last November was $74.1 million with a surplus of $1.9 million brought forward and with an estimated revenue of $65.1 million, loan receipts of another $7.7 million, and recurrent, statutory and capital expenditure of $74.1 million.

Increased economic activity was evident this year, so Government revenue continued to improve.

The revised financial position for 1987 indicates the following:

Surplus brought forward from 1st January, 1987 is $1,250,604

Revenue:
(a) Local	67,415,868
(b) Loans	13,090,942
Less Expenditure:
(a) Recurrent	54,839,362
(b) Statutory	13,751,387
(c) Capital:
(i) Local	5,360,674
(ii) Loans	7,855,942
Estimated Surplus at 31st December, 1987	4,950,049

(vii) Accumulated Revenue Balances (formerly called General Reserves)

The year 1986 ended with a surplus of $3,250,604, of which, as I have already mentioned $1,250,604 was utilized in this year's budget, with $2 million being transferred to General Reserves (renamed Accumulated Revenue Balances) in January this year. Accumulated Revenue Balances stood at $8,314,467, which includes $3,273,810 in respect of the Tower Building Loan on the 1st January, 1987.

(viii) Public Debt

The servicing of the public debt and the self-financing loans of statutory authorities continue to represent a small percentage of ordinary revenue, that is 5.6 per cent. Financiers around the world are, I believe, very reassured and appreciative when the fiscal policy of a Government is administered in such a prudent manner.

The Public Debt at the end of 1986 stood at $14.1 million, and at the end of 1987, it should stand at $17.1 million. During the coming year 5.4 per cent of ordinary revenue will be utilized to service the Public Debt and self-financing loans to statutory authorities.

(b) Internal and External Affairs

(i) Broadcasting

The Department of Broadcasting continues to support its Recurrent Expenditures from Advertising Revenue, and over the past year has expanded its broadcasting schedule to include separate programming on FM during prime time hours, with FM service being recently extended to the Bruc. The Department operates with a staff of 17, 16 of whom are Caymanian. It offers 163 hours of varied programming per week to the Islands. Programming on AM and FM is scheduled to expand in the new year, with the emphasis on more local content.

(ii) Police

Development of the Force, as outlined in my previous budget addresses, continues with emphasis being laid on the training and career development of local officers. This will enable localization of posts as quickly as possible, whilst at the same time maintaining efficiency. A major step in this direction has been the recent localization of the Head of CID, a post filled by an expatriate for many years past, and plans have been made to localize certain other senior posts in 1988. Combined with this, professional standards continue to be raised by regular intensive in-Force training, and specialist training overseas for selected officers. The Force has also been strengthened in number to meet the growing demands on it by increased general crime and the continuing substantial increase in drug cases. This latter problem, which is given the highest priority, has led to a strengthening of the Drugs Squad, and the Police Force continues to devote much time and effort in education and drugs awareness programmes. Although crime continues to rise, the continuing improvement in standards is reflected in the detection, or clear-up rate for crime, which now stands at an all time high of 74 per cent.

Active enforcement by the Traffic Department, particularly in areas of speeding and drunken driving, continue to contain the accident rate and to ensure safety for the general public on our roads.

If present police work trends continue, it may become necessary in 1988 to strengthen the Force still further in areas connected with drugs and commercial crime.

(iii) Government Information Services

Government Information Services continues in its role as the official channel of news about Government activities to the public, and during 1986 issued well over 500 news releases. These are now being produced by use of the Government computer, from a printer unit in the Government Information Services' offices. The staff of three also keep updated the range of fact booklets, which are used to respond to the increasing demand for information about various aspects of the Islands. The unit produces the Government's Annual Report and is increasingly used as the sales and distribution centre for Government publications, as well as official flags and plaques.

(iv) Prison

Current trends indicate that demands placed upon the service will continue to increase for the foreseeable future. All available resources have to be committed to meeting the immediate demands, rather than to the planning and implementation of strategies to address effectively issues related to rehabilitation of offenders. Substantial capital expenditure will be required over the next few years, if facilities and programmes are to be provided, which will enable the implementation of more modern correctional methods.

(c) Legal

Throughout 1987 the volume of criminal cases dealt with by the Department has been substantial, although definite progress has been made toward clearing the buildup in pending Grand Court trials. In order to achieve this, two divisions of the Grand Court have on occasion sat at the same time, which has imposed an additional strain upon the resources of the Legal Department.

At the same time the volume of advisory work carried out by the Department has continued to grow. This is largely unseen by the public, and often overlooked, but it forms a substantial part of the work of the Department, and is important to the proper functioning of Government. To facilitate this the Department now has one Crown Counsel experienced in civil matters who concentrates solely on this type of work.

There has also been a continuing programme of legislative drafting. In addition to various items of amending legislation, there have been a number of substantial new pieces of law making, including the Civil Aviation Authority Law, the Community College Law, the National Trust Law, and the Merchant Shipping Law. This last, in particular, was a substantial piece of legislation.

In order to cope with the volume of work, the Attorney General's chambers now consists of the Legal Draftsman, the Senior Crown Counsel and five Crown Counsel. Of the five Crown Counsel three are Caymanian, and one of those has just completed a legislative drafting course at the University of the West Indies.

The Law School made history in 1987 with the graduation of all five students in the final year. They represented the first intake of the school and were the first to graduate from it. Among them were two who achieved distinctions in the Liverpool University external degree which is taken at the same time as the Attorney at Law course. This was both a great personal achievement for them, and an indication of the quality of legal education being offered at the School. Another of the graduates was the Articled Clerk in the Attorney General's Chambers, who will now become a Junior Crown Counsel, although she will be posted to the Courts for a year before rejoining the Department.

The Law School now offers a course leading to a degree at Liverpool University, and although this is normally taken at the same time as the Cayman Attorney at Law course, it can be taken separately. It is hoped that this, together with the admission of students studying papers in law for the Institute of Bankers examination, will augment the intake of students for future years.

(d) Health, Education and Social Services

(i) Education

Nineteen eighty-seven marks one hundred years of publicly funded education in the Cayman Islands. As the Department of Education prepares to celebrate its education centennial in a week of activity scheduled for early December, we can look back with satisfaction on a system which has grown from a budget of fifteen pounds sterling in 1887 to one for which a total of $8,067,645 was voted for the year 1987.

This does not include a request for supplementary funds needed to establish the new GCSE examinations in the country's two high schools. The new examinations were the reason behind the establishment of eight new teaching posts, while the further development of the Community College accounted for three new posts bringing the Department's establishment to 294.

A major recruitment drive was undertaken in the United Kingdom for new teachers, and to replace teachers who were leaving the service. In late August forty new teachers arrived. Several senior Caymanian teachers returned from advanced training and of them two were promoted to be the Deputy Chief Education Officer and the Principal of the Lighthouse School. In Cayman Brac a senior Caymanian teacher was promoted as head of the primary schools, and another was put in charge of the Brac's special education services. Of the fifteen educational institutions under the control of the Department of Education, nine are headed by Caymanian staff.

Six newly qualified Caymanian teachers joined the Department during the course of the academic year. There are now 19 Caymanian teachers in training at universities abroad, out of a total of 50 scholarship students.

During the year the Department benefited from the advice of three consultancies: one advising on provision for handicapped adults; one advising high and middle school teachers on the new GCSE examinations; the third being a two year consultancy through CFTC to assist the development of the Community College.

The University of Miami degree programme entered its third and final year with 33 students scheduled to graduate in the spring.

Demand for additional places in school continued, and this pressure was particularly evident on the George Town Primary School. Land was identified for a new school for the district, and final drawings are anticipated during 1988. In the meantime two additional classrooms at the present site are due to be completed by Christmas.

(ii) Social Services

Some of the highlights of the year were the opening of the East End Sunrise Cottage for the elderly, establishment of therapeutic youth groups for boys and girls, and the creation of paraprofessional posts called Social Work Assistants. These posts provide young Caymanians with the opportunity to gain Social Work experience on the job, which will prepare them for professional careers later on.

Nineteen eighty-eight, it is anticipated, will witness the ground breaking for the much needed rehabilitation facility for juveniles, as well as the creation of much needed Caring Home positions and Social Work positions.

The rehabilitation facility will not only enhance existing services to juveniles; it will also ensure that children will no longer be sent to approved schools in Jamaica. It will cater to the needs of children who do not fit into the ambit of the Caring Homes or Foster Care Programme, but who need some residential and/or therapeutic programmes. Suitably trained personnel will be required, to carry out assessments of children's needs, and to design realistic treatment plans.

(iii) Health

A Programme designed to prevent the misuse of drugs and to improve rehabilitation services for drug misusers and their families is being spearheaded by this Department, with support from other arms of the Portfolio of Health, Education and Social Services. The main burden of these efforts falls on the Drug Counsellor, who took up office at the end of August. His immediate support will come from the Psychiatric Social Worker, and the Psychiatrist, the latter of whom is to take up office in January 1988. The Medical Officer of Health also gives support where hospitalization is considered a necessary component of the rehabilitation treatment.

Preventing the incidence of drug misuse has been the thrust of efforts made in public education.

Preliminary meetings have taken place at portfolio level to discuss the formation of a national council, which will coordinate the activities of all agencies, including voluntary ones, engaged in drug rehabilitation and prevention. It is hoped that this body will soon be in place.

A Public Education Programme on Aids has been extensive and well received. Since 1985 the Laboratory has done a screening test for any person referred through the physician.

The Environmental Health Programme came under new supervision with the appointment of a young Caymanian, with previous experience in the Department, who returned after four years at University in the United States. Emphasis has been placed upon the refuse collection programme, which is now a high-standard service with extensive coverage of Grand Cayman. Improved surveillance in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is now a priority. An Environmental Health Survey is underway in order that appropriate programmes can be implemented before this year ends.

The George Town Hospital has undergone major, and publicly, welcomed changes, resulting in improved facilities for the Reception Counter, Accounts Receivable Office, and Medical Records. New posts and new procedures have been introduced, contributing to an increase in collections of over $232,000 more in the first seven months of 1987 compared with the same period in 1986.

The new facilities at the front of the hospital just completed will accommodate the new posts of Full time Drug Counsellor, Psychiatrist, and Psychiatric Social Worker.

As part of the extension, two new consultation rooms are provided for the Casualty Officers. There has been a 38 per cent increase in patients treated in the past three years. In an effort to improve medical services to the general public, the hours of the Pharmacy have been extended until 8:30 p.m. A new system of ordering has resulted in a marked reduction in stock wasted through outdated.

The official opening of the Neonatal Nursery provides the Government Pediatrician and Special Nursing Staff a fine facility to care for sick newborns locally, rather than having to send them for expensive overseas care.

A W.H.O. supported Practical Nurses Training Programme was reintroduced after a gap of several years. Four Caymanians graduated, providing the Hospital with valuable, young local staff, with the opportunity to attend more advanced nursing courses overseas. One student has already elected to take training overseas as a Registered Nurse.

A Nurses Aide Work Training Programme was provided for 15 students, preparing them for more formal nursing training.

The Hospital Security Unit has been increased, and its officers are now based in the vacated Pink Hibiscus Shop, allowing for regular surveillance of the Hospital entrance and parking lot.

Nineteen eighty-seven will be the first full year with a Genetic Counsellor, allowing the re-establishment of regular district clinics after a gap of several years. A Storage Disease Carrying Testing Programme has been started in association with an American lab research programme.

The Laboratory has expanded its programme to do thyroid tests and is preparing to do the addiction drug testing programme. It continues the Glycohaemoglobin test which was introduced this year, to evaluate diabetic patients more efficiently. Staff attended an Aids Seminar in Trinidad, and the International Medical Technologists Convention in Canada.

The Dental Health Service has been expanded to provide regular surveillance and treatment of school children by visits to each school by the Dental Team. The Mobile Dental Van provided by the Rotary Club has been an important impetus in this achievement.

The addition of the second dentist and two auxiliaries has also enabled a regular dental service to be provided at the district clinics, Faith Hospital, and Northward Prison.

Extensions and refurbishing have been completed to the Dental Laboratory and the storerooms at the Dental Clinic at the George Town Hospital. Construction of the new Dental Clinic at Cayman Brac will be completed this year.

Health care is expensive and costs are always escalating with new advances and new technology. The George Town Hospital is making a successful effort to keep its programmes in step with current improvements in Western medicine. The coming year, as the Hospital's accounting programmes become more effective, more revenue will be collected. A comprehensive population-wide Health Insurance Plan would be one way of reducing the burden on the public purse imposed by the present large annual subsidy.

(e) Development and Natural Resources

(i) Housing Development Corporation

The Housing Development Corporation continues to provide mortgage financing for low to middle income Caymanians.

As at 30th June, 1987, the loan portfolio was comprised of 24 loans amounting to CI$853,135, as compared with CI$636,274 for the same period in 1986. The total assets stood at CI$1,249,003 as at the end of June 1987.

The Housing Development Corporation is presently seeking mortgage financing in order to make more funds available for lending. A target of an additional $1.5 million is being aimed for as this would increase the portfolio to a level where the Corporation would be economically viable. The Housing Development Corporation has approached several local financial institutions to subscribe to the Corporation's five per cent Debenture Stock.

(ii) Water Authority

The George Town water supply project got underway in July 1987 following the signing of the civil engineering contract with a Colombian company, Petroservicios. The project area has been expanded to supply water to the major part of George Town, including Tropical Gardens, Crewe Road, Walkers Road and South Church Street. Earlier in the year a contract was awarded to a United Kingdom company, Propax Industrial Ltd., to supply all the plant and materials for the project. Central-Desal

Ltd., the subsidiary company of Caribbean Utilities, is well on the way to providing the desalination plant which will be producing the water from the generators' waste heat. The plant will be operational in January 1988, when it will provide water to the Water Authority's 1.2 million gallon reservoir. At that time a good part of the Water Authority's piped distribution will be complete, in addition to the facility which will distribute water to the trucking companies. Final completion is scheduled for June 1988. The cost of the project at $4.2 million far exceeded the Water Authority and Caribbean Development Bank's estimates of $2.0 million, and additional funding has been sought from Caribbean Development Bank. The public response to the system has been much greater than was anticipated.

The Water Authority wellfields at Lower Valley and East End have been in continual operation, and it is expected that this will continue so until the George Town facility is in a position to provide water to the truckers. The water at both these facilities remains in good condition and complies with World Health Organisation standards. In Cayman Brac three hand pumps have been installed on fresh water wells drilled during the 1986 Cayman Brac ground water investigation.

(iii) Lands and Survey

The increased volume of work in the Land Registry has continued throughout 1987 to the extent that the overall number of applications is forecast to be some 16 per cent up on the 1986 figure at a total of 6,600 applications.

Proposals for 1988 include the completion of the inputting of the basic Land Registry information onto the computer, in order to provide an alphabetical listing facility.

Approval has been given for the appointment of an additional professionally qualified valuer to assist in providing a wider range of estate management services for Government. An important task will be setting up a Lease Register and monitoring the registration of commercial leases.

The principal work of the Lands Valuation section will continue to be the assessment of stamp duty payable on transactions. For 1987 this is expected to total over C$8 million, compared with C$5.9 million in 1986. Work for other government departments include the presentation of claims for compensation before the Assessment Committee, as well as providing valuations for mortgage, sale, lease or purchase, and advice in all matters related to land administration and economy.

(iv) Agriculture

The Department responded to many requests from farmers and members of the public for assistance in alleviating crop-related problems, including field visits on most occasions. The service of diagnosis and treatment of pests and diseases in orchards, pastures, and ornamental gardens continued. Field staff of the Department carried out spraying programmes in many cases, while on other occasions, equipment was made available to farmers and others for use without charge.

Technological constraints on crop production were investigated. The Department procured samples of a large number of tropical crop cultivars not common in the Cayman Islands. Multiplication plots of sweet potato, cassava, sweet corn, peanuts, pineapple and papaya have thus been established. Expansion of the multiplication plots will follow as resources permit.

Demand has increased steadily for services, especially for livestock feed. During the first half of the year 356 tons of feed were imported compared with 504 tons for the entire year 1986, and 200 tons for 1985.

The Farmers' Market on Thomas Russell Way is nearing completion. The site for the abattoir has been moved from Lower Valley to an area about 120 feet east of the Market. This presents many advantages.

It is intended that both the Farmers Market and Abattoir will be operated by the Co-operative.

(v) Mosquito Research and Control Unit

An upsurge in mosquito number has occurred in 1987 following a year of exceptionally low numbers. The increase is due to favourable breeding conditions with rain and high tides coinciding, and rainfall at suitable intervals for the production of successive broods with escalating numbers.

The first broods to appear in June were suppressed by larviciding with BTI, but by July the flooding patterns had become widespread and complicated, and good larviciding conditions did not occur. The resulting mosquitoes have been treated with alternating sequences of Dibrom and Cypermethrin, as in previous years. By the end of August 144 air sprays and 15 larviciding operations had been carried out. Fogging vehicles had been deployed 216 times on Grand Cayman, and up to the end of July, 66 times on Cayman Brac and 148 times on Little Cayman.

Monitoring of mosquito densities during aerial spraying and the testing of larvae in the lab indicate that no resistance to these insecticides has developed. A new laboratory room was completed at Mosquito Research and Control Unit by Public Works Department, so that increased resistance testing, larviciding research, and other work can be carried out.

Very promising trials have been carried out with a new insecticide and a new larvicide, which has a residual activity of about a month. Both these compounds are exceptionally safe to use and environmentally acceptable.

Facilities at the Mosquito Research and Control Unit's hangar have been improved with the construction of a shelter for the second aircraft, air conditioned storage for larvicide, and a mechanical loader for pelletised larvicide formulations. It is hoped that an electronic navigation system will soon be obtained for one of the aircraft, to improve the accuracy of larviciding operations.

Physical control continues with the maintenance of the dyke and canal systems. The West Bay Peninsula has been completed, and work is in progress in the Barkers area. This will be followed by work at South Sound where a large increase in breeding of Culex mosquitoes has occurred in the last two years.

Two access roads have been made into the major breeding site behind Meagre Bay Pond, so this area can now be monitored and treated with larvicide, if it floods later this year. A programme of levelling in this central swamp is progressing well, and new water level gauges have been installed, so that more accurate details can be obtained of the flooding pattern and mosquito breeding capabilities of the area.

Port disinfection and surveillance of yellow fever/dengue mosquitoes continues; so far, none have been detected.

This year the Natural Resources Laboratory has investigated Grouper spawning off Little Cayman with the aim of assessing whether the grouper population is declining. Preparations have also been made for a general fish monitoring programme, and final work on a sponge survey was completed.

A major effort has been made with the Marine Parks mooring project, and so far 28 moorings have been installed off Grand Cayman, 27 off Cayman Brac and 28 off Little Cayman. Most of these are single point moorings, but a few triple point moorings to hold vessels up to 120 feet have been installed. The Natural Resources Lab is grateful for wholehearted cooperation and assistance from dive operators on all three Islands in carrying out this work.

(f) Tourism, Aviation and Trade

(i) Civil Aviation

The Civil Aviation Authority of the Cayman Islands Law became effective early in the year, and operations under the new system commenced on 1st June, 1987. The Authority is financially responsible for maintaining a balanced budget, and the board has full autonomy for all operations. Travel Tax derived from airline passenger departures is now reflected in the Authority's budget. Revenue collected to date is above budget, due primarily to the increase in tourist arrivals in 1987.

Except for the continuation of the Gerrard Smith Airport Terminal Building and the new Fire Station at Owen Roberts Airport, no further capital projects are envisaged during 1988. Other minor projects such as strip improvement, runway repairs, and general aviation aircraft increased parking are due to be completed by the end of 1987.

It is expected that with the current trend in tourist arrivals, the Authority will be able to meet its financial obligations without difficulty.

(ii) Fire Department

The expansion of the Fire Services Department is proceeding as outlined in the 1987 Budget Address. The West Bay fire station is nearing completion and will be in operation shortly. Fifteen additional staff members (all Caymanians) have been recruited and trained to fill the additional posts (which we approved in the 1987 budget) to man the new station on a 24 hour-a-day basis. A new fully equipped fire vehicle has been purchased for the new station and is presently in the Fire Department's Headquarters. A fire rescue vehicle, donated by Metropolitan Dade County of Miami, will also be placed in service at this station. We acknowledge this gift with special gratitude.

The new Cayman Brac Airport Fire Station will be built as part of the development taking place at Gerrard Smith International Airport and should be completed on schedule.

The George Town Water System will be fitted with fire hydrants providing a high degree of fire protection to the George Town area.

The purchase of a new Airport crash/fire vehicle for Owen Roberts International Airport is being negotiated, and it is hoped that this appliance will be in operation in early 1989.

Twelve members of staff attended overseas training courses in the United States of America, Canada and the United Kingdom. The courses covered a variety of specialized subjects such as Arson Investigation, Fire Fighting, Management, Mass Casualty Handling, etcetera. Government is very grateful to the United Nations Development Programme for having provided financial assistance for this training programme in 1987.

(iii) Trade and Labour

With the appointment of the Director of Trade and Labour on 1st June, 1987, the former Labour Office has been renamed the Trade and Labour Office. Preparations are being made for the implementation of new Labour Legislation. A programme is now in place to encourage all unemployed persons and to ensure that available positions are offered to them first.

Around 79 complaints and disputes to the end of August, 1987 were handled by the office and resolved informally. Three hundred and four unemployed persons were registered with the Office, all of whom have found employment. Forty-three school leavers registered and twenty-nine of them have been placed so far. It is expected that employment will be found for all of them.

The Trade and Labour Office is presently working with various Trade Associations to encourage training schemes for young Caymanians.

(g) Communications, Works and District Administration

(i) Postal Department

In 1988 a start should be made on the construction of a new General Post Office in George Town. The site for this building is the old Public Works compound behind the Public Library.

When completed the new facilities will accommodate the postal needs of these Islands for many years. An ample supply of post office boxes will be available for ready rental.

The present post office building will be used for other Government purposes.

(ii) District Administration

Cayman Brac and Little Cayman have shown encouraging signs of economic recovery with the level of unemployment being drastically reduced.

Private sector projects which have helped the economy significantly are the expansion of the Tigua Beach Hotel, and an underground cable laying project by Cable and Wireless Ltd.

Government capital projects for the year fell into three categories: roads, airport, and building development.

The following road projects for the year have been completed:

One mile of road in Little Cayman's James Scott Road, Cayman Brac and 1.35 miles of Cayman Brac's South Coast Road. Work on the Bluff road is continuing. The total capital road expenditure for 1987 will be some $400,000.

Work is progressing well on the site for the new terminal at Gerrard Smith Airport, Cayman Brac. The access road to the site has been constructed, the preliminary work on the aircraft taxiways and parking apron is in progress, and the terminal site itself is ready for the start of construction of the terminal. The proposed date for this is December 1. Funding is provided by the European Development and Caribbean Development Bank.

The construction of a Dental and Public Health Clinic adjacent to the Faith Hospital is in progress. The total project is estimated to cost $100,000, and when completed will provide adequate dental facilities, which have for some time been in need of improvement. Other building projects include the expansion and upgrading of the Cayman Brac Police Station and improvements in Government staff housing.

In January 1987 Cayman Airways inaugurated its Shorts SD 3-30 aircraft for the Sister Islands run. Its introduction increased the passenger-carrying capacity to Cayman Brac by almost one hundred per cent, but reduced the passenger-carrying load to and from Little Cayman to about half because of the limitations of the airport in Little Cayman. Improved airport facilities in Little Cayman will have to be seriously considered, if our national flag carrier is to continue to offer a safe, efficient service to that Island.

On June 19th this year Government carried out an interim census on Cayman Brac to determine accurately the Island's population. One thousand three hundred and twenty-five persons were found to be residing on the Island. The need for consideration to be given to improving the economy of the Sister Islands was confirmed.

On August 1st Government reduced the import duty on certain categories of building materials and basic household appliances to five per cent in the Sister Islands, for the following categories of people:

- a) Foreign retirees,
- b) Caymanians living abroad and returning to resettle, and
- c) Condominium developers

It is hoped that this incentive valid for two years will attract foreign investment into the Sister Islands. Recent indications suggest that the Sister Islands' economy will continue to strengthen.

(iii) Public Works Department

The Public Works Department training programme continues to expand. At present our complement of officers training overseas includes three students in Architecture, one in Civil Engineering, two in Construction Engineering, and one in Civil Engineering Technology. One other has just completed a course in Air Conditioning Technology. This investment in training young Caymanians should show results by 1990.

Over the last year the majority of Public Works Department's building works have been carried out using private contractors who tender for work on a competitive basis.

Works completed to date this year include Savannah Primary School Multi-Purpose Hall at a final cost of $153,700; the Mosquito Research and Control Unit's hangar at a final cost of $33,000; and George Town Craft Market/Tourist Office/Public Toilets building at a final cost of $135,000.

Works currently under construction include an extension to the Customs Security Warehouse with an estimated project cost of $98,850, and at the Cayman Islands High School an extension to the Technical Block estimated at $115,000 and a new Home Economics Block estimated at $220,000. The new Farmers Market was completed in September at a cost of $228,000.

At Northward Prison an extension to the Cell Block which accommodates beds was completed at a cost of $75,000, and the construction of the new Special Block is underway with completion expected in March. Work on an extension to the Dining Room/Kitchen facility is due to start in September.

At Owen Roberts International Airport work continues on upgrading the shoulders to bring them in line with I.C.A.O. standards. Repairs to 200 feet at the east end runway scheduled to be carried out this year will cost an estimated $150,000 and additional parking for light aircraft is also to be provided in 1987.

Tenders were received for the George Town Fire Station project in July 1987, and work commenced in September. This project is partially funded by the Caribbean Development Bank. The loan application was approved by the Bank's Board in October 1987. Retrospective funding has been approved to allow construction to start as scheduled.

Hardcourts are under construction at East End and Bodden Town Civic Centres, and four new netball courts are to be provided at the Sports Centre. North Side Primary School playing field is also to be upgraded.

Roads Section

General:

The road section this year has been engaged primarily on the maintenance of existing roads. In recent years the road inventory has increased and public expectation is higher, putting more pressure on the road crews to maintain the roads on the allocated budget of $240,000.

Phased Construction:

Major work and surface dressing of the Breezy Castle Roads, Graveyard Road, East End and certain Windsor Park Subdivision roads were carried out at a cost of $52,000.

Still to be completed in the 1987 fiscal year is $229,000 of phased construction works throughout the districts.

New Construction:

New construction has been limited in 1987 to the removal of a number of black spots on George Town to Bodden Town road. Realignment and improvement of the road at Spotts and Lower Valley was completed in July at a cost of $380,000.

Projects Planning/Development:

Project Planning and Development became a significant budget element with the commencement of the Master Ground Transportation Plan Study. C$300,000 was allocated toward this project with a majority of the funding coming from a US$300,000 loan from the Caribbean Development Bank. The Study is being conducted by Wilbur Smith Associates from Columbia, South Carolina, in association with two firms from Barbados: Robertson Ward and Associates, and David Lashley and Partners.

The major outcome of the study will be:

- a) A detailed programme of economically prioritized projects and a corresponding transport investment schedule for 1988-1992;
- b) Appropriate physical plans to allow timely land acquisitions necessary for these projects;
- c) A prospective programme of road transport projects for years 1993-1997 with corresponding approximate investment schedules and primary justifying factors (i.e. reasons for consideration);
- d) Recommendations for the improvement of the operation, planning, and management of road transport including specific

- recommendations to enable the annual updating of the five year investment programmes and
- a) Recommendations for the improvement of Government transport policies, especially policies for effective transport coordination.

The Study commenced on 8th June, 1987 and is on schedule. A draft final report will be submitted to Government by 7th December, 1987.

(iv) Port Authority

During the first seven months of 1987 the Port Authority in Grand Cayman continued to be profitable with recorded earnings of $230,113, although this was reduced to $111,796 due to the Cayman Brac operation which continues to operate at a loss.

Imports for Grand Cayman for the first eight months of 1987 were 17 per cent above the same period for 1986.

Imports to Cayman Brac to August 1987 were 28 per cent above the same period in 1986.

The two major projects undertaken by the Authority during 1987 have been completed. These were:

Repairs to Finger Pier at Grand Cayman	$244,000
Purchase of Container Forklift Truck	$275,782

The Authority arranged for loans totalling $500,000 to finance these projects, but however was able to meet a portion of these expenses from its cash flow, and thus reduce the amount of the loans to $200,000.

Equipment for the marking and lighting of all major channels for the Islands have been purchased and work will commence as soon as the barge being used locally is available.

Lack of container storage space continues to be a major concern for the Grand Cayman facility and during 1988 a feasibility study to increase the area will be undertaken.

3. THE YEAR 1988

Mr. President, the 1988 Budget has taken into account the uncertainty of the financial markets of the world, the increasing inflationary pressure, the substantial level of private sector construction, and other works that are scheduled.

It is in no one's interest for Government to undertake too many new capital projects, requiring more labour to be imported, and overheating the economy. The 1988 Budget is $84.2 million, an increase of 15.3 per cent over the approved 1987 Budget.

The estimated ordinary revenue is $71.0 million, an increase of nine per cent over the 1987 approved figure.

The estimated ordinary recurrent expenditure is $62.4 million, an increase of nine per cent over the 1987 position.

Statutory expenditure is estimated at $3.8 million.

Capital expenditure is estimated at $16.0 million comprised of local financing of $7.6 million, and loan funds $8.4 million.

New services requested are $2.0 million.

The programme of works cover all major services and development projects, primarily those that are ongoing and affords greater priority to others. It will include:

- a) Water and Sewerage Project
- b) Gerrard Smith Airport Terminal
- c) Fire Station at Owen Roberts Airport
- d) Community College First Phase
- e) An Abattoir
- f) A purpose built Computer Building
- g) Visitors Building and other extensions of the Prison facility
- h) A Juvenile Rehabilitation Centre

4. NEW REVENUES

The duty on beverages in Chapter IX of the Schedule of The Customs Law (Second Revision) is based on gallons whereas bottles are now measured in litres. Administrative problems occur in conversions, and it is timely to amend the Law to avoid them.

While doing this, the need was recognised for sample figures for importers and Customs to use. It is therefore proposed with immediate effect that the duty be changed as follows:

9.01	Aerated waters, including flavoured aerated waters, nonalcoholic beers and wines	25 per cent
9.02	Ale, beer and other malt liquors, cider, perry, and wine coolers, not exceeding 7 per cent alcohol content	66 cents per litre
9.03	Spirits, unsweetened, containing less than 50 per cent by volume of alcohol	$5.28 per litre
9.04	Spirits, unsweetened, containing 50 per cent or more by volume of alcohol	$7.50 per litre
9.05	Spirits, sweetened and flavoured, including liqueurs	$6.00 per litre
9.06	Table wines, red, white or rose	$1.20 per litre
9.07	Dessert wines, including Port, Sherry, Vermouth, and other fortified or flavoured wines under 30 per cent	$1.80 per litre
9.08	Sparkling wines: (a) Champagne (b) Other sparkling wines	$2.50 per litre $1.50 per litre
9.09	Purified, desalinated and natural waters, other than aerated waters	Free

These changes will raise approximately $260,000 of additional revenue.

5. SALARY INCREASE

Included in the 1988 Budget is a token allocation for a salary increase of $11 million, pending the report of the 1988 quadrennial salary review. It is important to keep Civil Service salaries at appropriate levels, in order to recognise it for the efficient services it provides to the residents of this country, tourists, and the international businessman.

6. CONCLUSION

Mr. President, a new era is upon us where heavy capital injections are necessary for water supply, sewerage systems, road construction, and airport development, to name but a few programmes.

It would be imprudent for this Government to make any further substantial borrowings, as servicing them would create a heavier burden on revenue. We therefore should take such care in examining all proposals which come before this Government. Greater emphasis must, I believe, be given to revenue earning projects, and proper project appraisals must be carried out. To this end it is my recommendation that we establish an Economic Section in the Portfolio for Finance and Development. Staffing could mainly be those officers who are at present engaged in some of this work, but one additional experienced professional will be required.

The fiscal policies of the Cayman Government are on the right course, and we must commit ourselves to retaining that position so easily lost, but will cause once lost so much sacrifices to regain, if ever.

Mr. President, I am convinced that the Cayman Islands are attractive, professionally competitive, and one of the most reputable offshore financial centres and desirable tourist destinations in the world.

There are great things in the years to come for our people, and we must dedicate ourselves to work hard for continuing prosperity, while concentrating on what is happening in the world around us.

Mr. President, I recommend the Appropriation Bill (1988) Law, 1987 proposing an estimated sum of CI$80,322,214 to Recurrent, Capital, and New Services in 1988. Statutory provisions covering pensions and loan repayments amounting to CI$3,843,593 does not form part of this sum. The estimated expenditure is, therefore, CI$84,165,807.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill entitled the Appropriation (1988) Bill, 1987 be given a second reading.

The motion is now technically open for debate, but I understand that discussions with the Members of the House confirm that most would wish to follow the normal practice of deferring the debate on the Appropriation Bill and the Budget for a few days.

MOTION

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I move that debate on the Budget Address be deferred until Wednesday 18th November, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Motion is that the debate on the Appropriation (1988) Bill, 1987 be deferred until 10:00 o'clock on Wednesday, 18th November. Does any Member wish to speak to that? If not I will put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS DEFERRED UNTIL WEDNESDAY, 18TH NOVEMBER, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT: I have now been notified of a resolution under Standing Order 68A.

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 5/87
PROVISIONAL COLLECTION OF CUSTOMS DUTIES

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, in accordance with Standing Order 68A, and perhaps I should read it for clarity, it says:

"65A. Any Member of the Government may without notice make a motion for giving provisional statutory effect to any proposals in pursuance of subsection (1) of section 2 of the Provisional Collection of Customs Duties Law, 1985, and the question on such a motion shall be put forthwith."

And Mr. President, the motion reads:

BE IT RESOLVED this day by the Legislative Assembly under the powers conferred on it by subsection 1 of section 2 of the Provisional Collection of Customs Duties Law 1985 that there be a variation of the rates of customs duty charged under the First Schedule of the Customs Law, Second Revision, by substituting the following for the contents of Chapter 9 of that Schedule:

9.01	Aerated waters including flavoured aerated waters, non-alcoholic beers and wines	25 per cent
9.02	Ale, beer and other malt liquors, cider, perry and wine coolers not exceeding 7 per cent alcohol content	66 cents per litre
9.03	Spirits, unsweetened, containing less than 50 per cent by volume of alcohol	$5.28 per litre
9.04	Spirits, unsweetened, containing not less than 50 per cent by volume of alcohol	$7.50 per litre
9.05	Spirits, sweetened and flavoured, including liqueurs	$6.00 per litre
9.06	Table wines, red, white or rose	$1.20 per litre
9.07	Dessert wines, including port sherry, vermouth and other fortified or flavoured wines under 30 per cent	$1.80 per litre
9.08	Sparkling wines: Champagne	$2.50 per litre
	Other sparkling wines	$1.50 per litre
9.09	Purified, desalinated and natural waters other than aerated waters	Free.

AND it is declared that it is expedient in the public interest that this resolution shall have statutory effect under the provisions of the Provisional Collection of Customs Duties Law, 1935.

Mr. President, just for information, Standing Orders state that the question on such a motion shall be put forthwith, so that when the Customs Bill comes, the debate can be on that, and not have two debates.

MR. PRESIDENT: Accordingly I put the question without debate on the motion.

QUESTION PUT: AYES AND NAYES

PRAYERS

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Members of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that they may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of their high office.

All this we ask for Thy great Name's sake, Amen.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil; For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us; the Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us; the Lord lift up His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Please be seated.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

CAYMAN AIRWAYS LIMITED'S ANNUAL REPORT AND FINANCIAL STATEMENTS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 30TH JUNE, 1987

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Mr. President, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the financial statements and annual report of Cayman Airways Limited for the financial year ended June 30th, 1987.

MR. PRESIDENT:

So ordered.

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Mr. President, the audited financial statements of Cayman Airways at June 30th, 1987 showed that the Company, with the financial assistance of Government, through the grant of an annual subsidy, was able to make an operating profit of US$859,757. After accounting for financing costs of which the major item is lease charges for aircraft, there is a net loss for the year of $835,826. This amount, when added to the accumulated deficit of $18,772,121 from previous years, brings the total accumulated deficit of the Company to US$19.6 million as at June 30th, 1987.

As was pointed out when I presented last year's accounts, Government's decision to convert, to share equity, the loan and other trade debts due and owing by Cayman Airways Limited to Government has substantially improved the airline's balance sheet, to the extent that the working capital deficiency at the end of this period now stands at US$3.6 million.

In this past financial year, the Company experienced considerable increases in revenue earnings from passenger, cargo and charter operations. Of course there were corresponding increases in expenditure so that at the end of this accounting period, only a modest operating profit was realised. Nevertheless, at the same time, the Company has been able to keep all aircraft lease payments up to date, and service its current debt obligations on a timely basis, so that its credibility in the airline industry is recognised and respected as it continues to operate a safe, dependable on-time service to this country and its people.

Mr. President, it is no secret that the cost of providing a high quality service is mounting daily, but Cayman Airways is determined that its high standards are not in any way compromised. Of course, there can be little doubt that Eastern, especially in the first several months of its entry into the Cayman market earlier this year, has affected, to some extent, the Company's financial results. But I am pleased to report that Cayman Airways Limited has managed to defend its market share very well. And as the market has started to show some growth, especially after the new hotels became fully operational in May this year, the airline is now beginning to reap some benefits from its new routes and is beginning to recover from the first effects of Eastern's competition.

When one considers the factors of increased competition from major United States' carriers, the cost of developing new routes and unforeseen engine overhauls, which cost $250,000 in just one instance alone, this can still be considered an admirable performance. Needless to say, Mr. President, the fact that a small company like Cayman Airways Limited, with its very limited resources, is able to withstand competition from major United States' carriers such as Eastern and Northwest, with minimal damage, stands as a tribute to the dedication and hard work of the board of directors, the management and staff of the airline; and I would here like to publicly record my grateful thanks to them for their efforts.

As our airline strives to maintain its rightful role in the orderly development of Cayman's air services, it will take the continuation of Government's financial support as well as all of our combined efforts to help Cayman Airways to continue to survive and achieve its future goals - goals of an expanded route system that will strengthen the airline and make it a competitor to be reckoned with as it takes the name and flag of the Cayman Islands to new destinations, linking our country with new direct services that are bound to produce long term benefits for tourism and the travelling public.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Questions. The Elected Member for East End.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR EAST END TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FOURTH ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR DEVELOPMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

NO. 77: Would the Honourable Member say what plans are there, if any, to establish proper cattle dips in East End and Savannah, etcetera?

ANSWER: The possibility of establishing a permanent cattle dip at East End has been investigated and it was determined that it would be extremely difficult and costly to do so because of the hard rock in the district. A portable dip was therefore obtained to be used until a more suitable site could be found for a permanent structure.

Funds for a dip in Savannah were requested in the 1988 Budget, but this has been struck out as part of the process to balance the budget.

I would just like to say, Mr. President, that I intend, in Finance Committee, to ask for the re-insertion of the amount of funds to provide the cattle dip in Savannah.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Supplementaries. The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, the Honourable Member has mentioned the use of a portable cattle dip in East End. Can the Honourable Member say if this is being used by the farmers, or if the rumour, that I have heard, that they have been unable to use it is true?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I am not too sure whether the farmers were unable to use it or whether they just refused to use it. However, I can assure you, Sir, that the farmers in West Bay have requested that we transfer the dip there, because they would like to use it. They have provided a site for it, and are just awaiting Government to establish it for use in that district.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. President, just to clear the air with the Honourable Member - and I will come to the supplementary - I would like to say that the people of East End are one of the most grateful people in these Islands, and if that could have been used, we would certainly have been happy to use it.

My supplementary is that since we are now talking about this structure, can the Honourable Member say what the cost was on this piece of equipment?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, the cost was US$18,000.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Could he further say, Mr. President, the anticipated cost to construct a dip?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:
East End is $45,000.

Mr. President, the cost to construct the dip in

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:
could say when this estimate was done?

Mr. President, I wonder if the Honourable Member

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:
the Public Works Department.

Mr. President, the estimate was done last year by

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:
he is speaking of?

Could he further say exactly what piece of property

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: walls.

It is the property near to the Water Authority's

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Was an estimate taken into consideration on another piece of property further out, closer to where the present dip is situated?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

No, Mr. President. I can say, Mr. President, from experience of the Agricultural Department, that we tried all around in East End to find a piece of property on which to build a dip, and the Agricultural Department discussed this with farmers for quite some time. Until now, nobody has really offered a site on which to build that dip.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. President, what the Honourable Member has just said is not just right. What was discussed was a site - I will form this as a supplementary - what was discussed was a site for the present structure. Could the Honourable Member give this House an undertaking to have a second estimate done on a piece of property which is well known to his assistant?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

I will, Mr. President, if that is so.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think we have explored the dips pretty thoroughly now. The First Elected Member for Badden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

My supplementary is to ask the Honourable Fourth Official Member how many other areas in Badden Town were affected in order to balance the Budget?

MR. PRESIDENT:

Now I do think that goes somewhat outside the immediate question, with respect.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

No, Sir, not if you take into consideration the answer.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am sorry, we are dealing with dips in East End and Savannah, specifically.

Thank you.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Well, I stand subject to your ruling, Sir, but I cannot understand why a question is answered and then we cannot ask a supplementary based on that answer.

MR. PRESIDENT:

No, the supplementary referred specifically to the funds for a dip in Savannah. It did not go on to talk about other dips in other parts.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President ...

MR. PRESIDENT:

No, I am sorry, would you please accept my ruling. Thank you.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Again?

MR. PRESIDENT:

Well, thank you nevertheless. Let us go on to Question Number 78, the Elected Member for East End, please.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR EAST END TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FOURTH ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR DEVELOPMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

NO. 78: Would the Honourable Member give the cost of preparing the plot of land at Smith Road presently used to demonstrate crops such as peanuts, corn, sweet potatoes, etcetera?

ANSWER: The Smith Road demonstration farm initially comprised an area of about two acres.

but was increased during the past administration to include the plot of land which the Member is now enquiring about.

In recent time, additional top soil was brought in to increase the depth of the soil at the experimental plot referred to in the question. This was obtained from the Farmers' Market site and the airport at no cost.

MR. PRESIDENT: There appear to be no supplementaries. In that case, question number 79, please.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR EAST END TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FOURTH ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR DEVELOPMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

NO. 79: Would the Honourable Member state Government's policy with regard to farm roads in the eastern districts?

ANSWER: It is Government's policy to continue encouraging agriculture. Routes for farm roads in the eastern districts will have to be identified and recommended by the farmers and constructed when funds are allocated and approval given by the Legislative Assembly.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I hope this question comes within the guidelines. Have any of the farm roads in the eastern districts been built since 1985?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, one is now being built on Little Bluff Road, as far as I know.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: Mr. President, a supplementary. Am I to understand the Honourable Member correctly that what he needs is some sort of a plan put forward by farmers?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Yes, Mr. President, because agriculture is controlled by farmers on the Island, and there is no use in Government constructing a road to then invite farmers to go and cultivate.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: Mr. President, I did not mean it in that sense, I was just trying to get my facts correct, because I am certain the Honourable Member knows that I had circulated in 1984 a memorandum to Executive Council asking that the farm roads in my district be continued. Am I to understand the Honourable Member correctly, that I need something further?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, as far as I know there are farm roads in the eastern district. Big farms are now being conducted there, so I am not too sure what other farm roads are needed unless the farmers come forward and make their desire known.

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: Mr. President, that is what I am trying to get clear. I am not speaking of the present farm roads, I am speaking of the continuation of farm roads in the eastern district.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think you have made your point clear. The Second Elected Member for West Bay, with impeccable timing, question number 80, please.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

NO. 80: Can the Honourable Member give a report of the method used in investigating cases 3640/3641/87 and 3642/3643/87?

ANSWER: On 4th May, 1987 at 3:00 a.m., three police officers acting upon information, entered premises at West Bay and found a substance subsequently analysed as ganja. Two men and a woman present at the premises were arrested and a full report of the circumstances was submitted to the Attorney General who advised prosecution. At their subsequent court appearance the cases against two were dismissed by the Magistrate. The third was acquitted on trial. The method used in investigating this case was the same as that used in any other case of this nature.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Just a question for clarification, Mr. President. The answer says that they entered premises at West Bay. Are you sure this is not South Sound?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, my information is that the apartments entered are described as "Drifter Cove Apartments". Are they in South Sound, Mr. President?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I did not know he was asking you a question, Mr. President, I said ... that it was clarification.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think he was asking me the question, but have we clarified the point, was that satisfactory?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Not yet, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: More supplementaries.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, can the Honourable Member say, arising out of this case, whether there were any urinalysis tests made?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Yes, Mr. President.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Can the Honourable Member say, Mr. President, how long that particular test took?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: No, Sir, I do not have that information, Mr. President.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, it would seem that that sort of information would be ready information since it was a normal case investigated as other cases. Can the Honourable Member then say how long it usually takes for these urinalysis tests to get done - simply put?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: Mr. President, simply put, it depends on the volume of tests to be carried out at the overseas laboratory to which we send the samples.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, can the Honourable Member give a time frame - is the normal time not three weeks, or longer?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: I cannot express it any more simply, Sir, it depends on how many cases the laboratory has to analyse. The length of time could vary, could it not?

MR. PRESIDENT: If I may intervene, perhaps we could ask the Honourable Member to give a written reply if he can, if it is possible, with some survey of cases over a period of time, would that satisfy?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: You are asking me if I am satisfied with that, Mr. President?

MR. PRESIDENT: Go ahead and ask for what you wish.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, the tenor of things has been that they write what they want to write, I do not care what they want to do, I am going to still ask another supplementary.

Can the Honourable Member say whether this particular case took in the region of three to six days, the urinalysis tests?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: I am sorry, Mr. President, I do not have that information.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: For the sake of the record, Mr. President, yes, I would like an undertaking to get that information from the Honourable Member.

Mr. President, a supplementary. Can the Honourable Member say whether this particular case fell under the clause of possession, or presumption of possession?

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON: According to my information, Mr. President, the charges were for possession and consumption.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, can the Honourable Member then say why there has not been a conviction of any kind? Was substance not found ...

MR. PRESIDENT: I am sorry, could I have that first question again, I could not quite hear it.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Yes, Sir. Can the Honourable Member say why there was not any kind of conviction since substances were found in the apartments?

MR. PRESIDENT: I am sorry, that question is out of order, and you know that it is. You are questioning the decision of a Court of Law. So it is out of order.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I have further scope in other areas.

MR. PRESIDENT: I could not hear you, would you repeat that?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: I have other scope, wider scope in other areas. Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I do not fully understand, but we can discuss it at the interval.

Question number 81, please.

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND OFFICIAL MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR LEGAL ADMINISTRATION

NO. 81: Can the Honourable Member say what are the present educational requirements for entrance to the Cayman Islands Law School, whether there are any plans to change the entrance requirements, and, if so, what are the contemplated changes and the reason for such changes?

ANSWER: The present entry requirements are contained in the Legal Practitioners (Students) Regulations 1980 - Second Schedule. There are plans to change these, although the changes largely relate to students between the ages of 18 and 21 years of age.

Mature students (i.e. those of 21 years and over on 1st May in the year of intended entry) will be able to enter the Law School on the existing basis - so preserving the original philosophy behind entry to the Law School. As a new alternative, mature students can take the University of Liverpool's mature students' entrance test. This comprises an overseas paper containing an essay and comprehension test, together with a further essay of which notice will be given to the title. The tests are set and marked by Liverpool University.

For students aged between 18 and 21 years, there will be a requirement for a minimum of five GCE passes, including English Language and Mathematics or a natural science, two subjects of which must be passed at Advanced Level.

The reason for the proposed changes is so that the Law School's entry requirements will be broadly the same as those required for students entering Liverpool University. In addition, it is an existing requirement that students must be at least 18 years of age to enter the Law School. Now that the High School offers GCE 'A' Level courses, the new requirements will be a greater incentive for students to stay on at school until they are 18 where they will be better prepared to cope academically with the amount and type of work involved at the Law School.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask if this new change is aimed at excluding certain local students?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. President, the change is not aimed at excluding anybody, it is certainly not aimed at excluding certain local students. What it is intended to do is to bring the Law School entry requirements in line with those for Liverpool University, because the degree which is now awarded by the Law School is an external Liverpool degree.

Mr. President, the fact that we now have the benefit of an external degree with objective examinations is, in my submission to this House, a good reason for ensuring that those students coming to the School are those who would have been able to have entered the university granting that degree. I might, however, reiterate part of my answer, and draw the Members' attention to the fact that for mature students, that is those over 21, the existing regulations will continue to apply, and also for those mature students they have another further way of getting in by taking this overseas test, a way which they would not have had until now. So that in fact it broadens the categories of mature students who can enter the Law School.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Could it be that the reason for this change is because it is quite evident that the Law School is now a success, and that a lot of local students will be entering the legal profession?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: No, it could not.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Could we be told whether the two students who graduated this year with honours, passed the 'A' level examinations?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: I do not have that information at the moment. I am prepared to give it to the Member. My own off-the-cuff recollection is that they were mature students and so would have come in under the mature students' provisions which I have at such pains to referred to. But if the Member wishes me to, I can research that.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I really do not know what is meant by "mature", because under our law a person at 18 is considered, I think, mature. So I do not know what the answer is for that one. However, I am dealing with the point that we had five students in the first entrance at the Law School. All five of those passed and are now in the legal profession. Two of those passed with great honours, and if we are going to change the existing rules of entrance, I do not believe that those two students had passed their 'A' level examinations

MR. PRESIDENT: I am waiting for your question, please.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Yes, Sir. If this is done, we would be exempting those types of students. So I am requesting an answer as to why we would do it when we could be exempting students of such accomplishments as the two that I am referring to, and which the Honourable Member is aware of?

MR. PRESIDENT: You have two questions there, the first and the latter.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. President, I have some difficulty in extricating them. Let me point out to the Member that it is my understanding that 'A' levels have only recently been offered by the High School (I stand to be corrected by the Honourable Member on that) but the likelihood is that the two students to whom he is referring would not have had the ability to take 'A' levels at the Cayman Islands High School. That is the reason, and I cannot stress it enough, why the mature student exemption is continued.

The Member questioned the meaning of "mature student". Mature students will be defined (and I say will be, because we are proposing a change to the regulations) as I said in my answer, to those over 21 on the 1st of May in the year for which they apply for entry to the Law School. That means that all those candidates who did not have the opportunity of acquiring 'A' levels - because they were not offered at the school at that time, or indeed, mature candidates who, since leaving school have, as so many do, branched and blossomed out as late starters - will still be able to come to the Law School and have two ways of getting in. Again, I cannot stress too much that they can either get in if they are mature students on their academic qualifications, or by taking a new test which will, in part, test those skills which they have acquired in their career up to then.

So, Mr. President, I come back to the fact that these changes, as far as mature students are concerned, will broaden the ability to enter and, in respect of school leavers, will recognise the high standard of education that is now available at Cayman Islands High School.

I would like to just make one other observation, which is that at a Rotary meeting the other night, I had the privilege of meeting a small group of students, all Caymanians, from the Cayman Islands High School, who were doing the Law 'A' level. I think there were six - though it may have been eight, however, I would not like to be held to the number - all of whom were Caymanian students looking to study Law, and all of those doing 'A' levels; so that if they pass those 'A' levels, pass one other subject at Advanced Level, we can look to see them at the Law School in the near future.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, I believe the Honourable Member said that 'A' Levels were only recently given at the High School. Am I right?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think he stood to be corrected.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: I do stand to be corrected. I cannot get exact information on that. I am told that it may have been pre-1980, certainly before my time here and before my own recollection.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I guess I am still confused about maturity, however, if we have a student who passes five GCE 'O' Levels but, for example, does not possess a pass in mathematics or a natural science, would he be excluded from entering the School at age 18, when he comes out of the High School? Is that what the Honourable Member is saying - that that will be the new requirement, and that is what will happen?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: No, that is not what will happen. That is what the old requirement was, and it is an aspect of the old requirement which has been retained. I had not read the old requirements, Mr. President, because they were contained in a public document. I now ought to, to respond to that question.

The old requirements were that you could get into the Law School if you had five approved subjects at 'D' Level with at least four above grade C; passes in four approved subjects at 'D' Level, at least three of which are at grade C or above and one Advanced Level; passes in three approved subjects at 'D' Level, at least two of which are at grade C and above and two others at Advanced Level. And then it goes on to provide that a pass at both Advanced and 'D' Level should be treated as only one pass at Advanced Level. And then the old regulations said: "No person shall qualify unless he has passed English, English Language or English Literature at Ordinary Level grade C or above, and one of the following subjects at Ordinary Level grade C or above: Mathematics, Economics, Geography or a Natural Science.". That has now survived and been carried through into the new proposals (and I stress they are still proposals, and open to input) as requiring a pass in Mathematics or a Natural Science. I might say for absolute clarity that that one requirement is not Liverpool's requirement, it was a preservation that the Legal Advisory Council, which consists of the Chief Justice, myself, and the President of the Law Society. It was a requirement that that Council advised should be preserved, to ensure that students going in to Law did have at least an elementary grounding either in Mathematics or in the Natural Sciences.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

A further supplementary.

In other words what is being said is that if the student, in his immaturity, that is the ages 18 to 21, does not comply with the new standards that are being set, he can go away to work or idle around for three years from the age of 18 when he comes out of High School until he is 21, and then he can be considered for entry after he is 21, rather than continuing his education from the age of 18. Am I correct in assuming that is what the answer to this is?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. President, somebody seeking to amend entry qualifications of this sort is placed in a dreadful dilemma. One cannot take away from people who have already left school their right to get in under the old qualifications. All one can do is make changes for the future, so that those coming up to take the examinations in their own future know what they have to pass and what they have to achieve. That means that we cannot in any way make the changes retrospective or retroactive.

One side effect of that is that by making this preservation for mature students under 21 does mean - as we are presently thinking of framing the requirements - that somebody could leave school at an earlier age having gotten their five 'D' Levels (in other words the existing minimum entry requirement), could go away and either work, acquire experience in life, or, as the Member put it, waste their time, come back and then apply to enter under the mature student provisions.

Mr. President, it is very difficult to see a way of guarding against the student who wastes his time while at the same time letting in the student who does valuable work and, as I said, who blossoms as a late starter in the community, and also not to take away any rights of entry that might be possessed by people who have already left school.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I was not talking about taking any rights that existed with the students who are there now, and I was not really referring to any wasting of time. However, what I am getting after is that suppose we had a student who is to graduate in June of this coming year, and that student was striving to pass enough subjects to enter the Law School in June the following year or whenever the examinations are held; and if that student passed and got five 'D' Levels, which would now entitle him to go on to the Law School, with this change, he would have to wait until he is 21 to be considered eligible with the same requirements. Now I think this is unfair and I would like the point clarified as to whether he would have to wait three years until he is considered mature. I do not know who is going to consider him mature, but this is a question I would like answered.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. President, the intention is that for people who are now coming up to do their final examinations at the High School, the entry requirement should be three 'D' Levels and two 'A' Levels. It is a raising of the basic entry level for candidates for the Law School who are still at school. Whether students coming out of the High School in the future, after the changes were made, would be able to get in under the mature students provisions, or whether when these proposals are finally firmed up, those mature student provisions may not be available to such people, is still something which we will look at. No final decision has been made.

But in answer to the question whether it is unfair or not, my submission to the House is that it is not unfair because what is being sought to be done is to raise the basic level of entry for school leavers, recognising that the High School offers them the facilities to reach that raised basic level of entry. And it is also that candidates who are not academically good enough to go to the Law School should not be encouraged to go to the Law School by allowing too low an entry rate, and then encouraged to waste five years of their life struggling to get a qualification at the Law School which they might not, at the end, get.

It is again my submission to the House the duty of those who are charged with regulating the admission of students to educational establishments to make sure that they have the academic ability to get out of that establishment at the other end with a qualification. Because to do otherwise is, in the end, to betray those students.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

A supplementary, Mr. President.

Could the Honourable Member state whether any attempt is going to be made in these new regulations to encourage law firms to article people who are academically qualified to enter the Law School but who cannot enter because no law firm is willing to article them.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

That issue is outside the scope of the present changes that are being considered. The issue is something which we are aware of and have under review, but out of fairness to the law firms, I must say that most of them have already taken up articulated clerks and that the law firms have put in a great deal of support both by taking articulated clerks and by providing material facilities. They have put in a great deal of support to the Law School.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Third Elected for West Bay.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORREIT:

Thank you.

Mr. President, I would like to ask the Honourable Member whether or not it is intended that these new regulations will come into effect in 1989. If I am correct in saying that, this provision then gives those students who have graduated in 1987 and who have been successful in passing the number of 'O' Levels required an opportunity to go on into Advanced Level subjects so as to enter the Law School. Am I correct in assuming this?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. President, the proposal, and I stress it is still a proposal, as approved by the Legal Advisory Council was that to give students adequate notice of the changes, that if these changes were approved that they would not come into effect until 1st September, 1989, or that alternatively we should look at some form of transitional period. They will not therefore affect this year's graduating class from the High School. So somebody who qualifies this year under the old provisions would be able to enter the Law School.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I take great pride in the fact that the Law School was a Unity Team Government accomplishment, so I am not trying to lower the standards, but I am trying to protect what is there for the people of this country. So would the Honourable Member advise me whether I am right in my assumptions that at 18, a young man or a young woman coming out of the High School with five 'O' Level passes could be excluded from going on to the Law School, but that at the age of 21, when he is then considered to be mature, he could and be accepted with the same qualifications that he possessed when he was 18? Am I right, is that the answer to this question?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

The Member is right that, when the proposals come into effect, if they do so, somebody leaving school at 18 without the minimum required by the new proposals (and that would include somebody with merely five 'O' Levels) would then be excluded from entry to the Law School. Whether they could subsequently qualify by waiting three years and becoming 21 and getting in under the mature student requirements is not something which has been fully thought through yet. If the Member tells me it is unfair, then we will give consideration to not allowing that. I am not quite clear what signal he is giving me, but all I can say is that these are proposals at this stage, and on points like that, representations at this stage still fall upon fertile ground. But as to whether the man or the boy at 18, the person, the girl at 18, with five 'O' Levels would be excluded after these came into effect, then, yes.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think we should now go forward or you will not get in your own three questions.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Yes Sir, one more question which is very important.

MR. PRESIDENT:

One more.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Is there any input into these changes by the Elected Executive Council, or specifically by the Honourable First Elected Member to Executive Council, or are these changes going to be put into effect without any Elected input?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

There is Elected input. As I explained, the changes were first approved by the Legal Advisory Council. They then went to Executive Council in principle, to see if in principle Executive Council liked or disliked them. They then have to go to Liverpool University to see whether they like or dislike them, and at the moment they are at Liverpool University. If they come back with their seal of approval, they then have to be embodied in regulations, and the regulations to amend the Legal Practitioners (Student Regulations) are made by the Governor in Council. So at that stage, Executive Council would have detailed input as to the final form of the regulations.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Really, you have taken, I think, a fair share on these. The Elected Member for North Side has been trying to catch my eye for several minutes.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Yes, Mr. President, in light of the answer given some time ago to my supplementary, can the Honourable Member state whether the Legal Council would then in turn recommend to the Education Council that these people who are academically qualified, but who cannot be articulated locally and join the Law School, be given scholarships to attend institutions overseas to which they may have acceptance, such as Oxford, or other universities in England?

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that goes well outside the original question, but perhaps a reply in writing could be provided and could go in the record of the House.

I am sorry, I will take one more supplementary from the Member who actually asked the question.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH: A supplementary, Mr. President. Can the Honourable Member say whether the arrangements with Liverpool University began from the inception of the Law School, or was it a recent arrangement?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: The arrangement is a recent one. It dates back to the inception because the first Director of Legal Studies was on secondment from Liverpool University. On his return, after doing two years here as Director of Legal Studies, he actively pursued the question of obtaining for the Cayman Islands Law School the right for its students to sit the Liverpool External Degree. And that was finally achieved, I believe, two years ago, and this year's graduating class was the first to graduate under those provisions.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, as we are shortly reaching 11:00 o'clock, I wonder if the Honourable House would wish the Standing Order 23(7) to be suspended in order to allow the other three questions to be taken this morning?

MR. PRESIDENT: The motion is that Standing Order 23(7) be suspended to enable questions Number B2 to B4 to be taken.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. THAT STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) BE SUSPENDED TO ENABLE QUESTIONS NOS. B2, B3 AND B4 TO BE TAKEN

MR. PRESIDENT: Question No. B2, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR BODDEN TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR TOURISM AVIATION AND TRADE

NO. B2: Would the Honourable Member state:
(a) what route was the Shorts SD 3-30 aircraft flying before it was purchased by Cayman Airways Limited;
(b) did it carry cargo, and, if so, what cargo? and
(c) if it did carry cargo, did Cayman Airways Limited pay for any conversion of the aircraft?

ANSWER: (a) The aircraft was flown by Pennsylvania Airlines as part of its Allegheny commuter passenger services;
(b) The aircraft was not used for cargo services; and
(c) There were no conversion costs.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: So it is not true, then, that the aircraft was being flown to transport cattle before it was bought by Cayman Airways?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, this is the first I am hearing that, so I guess based on my reply, that must be attributable to a rumour. I have not heard it before.

MR. PRESIDENT: Any other supplementaries?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, may I ask if this aircraft is capable of carrying cargo?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, the aircraft has two reasonably sized baggage compartments, and based on the passenger load, cargo is sometimes accommodated on some of its flights.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Can the Honourable Member say how large the cargo door is?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, I do not have those measurements with me. I would just say it is a reasonably sized door that can accommodate not bulky cargo, but some cargo of average size.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Is it true that the door is 2 x 2?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: I do not believe that is correct, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT: Perhaps you could supply the Honourable Member the details in writing to settle the question.

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: If he so wishes, Sir.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: What is the total weight allowable to be carried in the cargo space?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, if I remember correctly, there is a limitation, I think, of 1,000 lbs maximum in one of the compartments, and probably about 1,200 lbs in the other. Within those amounts, anyhow.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think the question has been answered. The question was about what the aircraft did before it was purchased, whether it carried cargo. The answer has been given.

Next question please.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I have a clarification on the question that has just been answered.

MR. PRESIDENT: You may.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Is the Honourable Member telling the House that this plane carries, in one compartment, 1,000 lbs of luggage and in another compartment 1,200 lbs, being a total of 22,000. Is that the answer?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, I am saying, as far as I can remember, one of the compartments has a maximum allowable weight of 1,000 lbs, and the other a maximum allowable weight of around 1,200 lbs. These amounts are approximate.

MR. PRESIDENT: Next question, please.

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR BODDEN TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR TOURISM AVIATION AND TRADE

MR. B3: Would the Honourable Member state how many flights of the Shorts SD 3-30 aircraft to Cayman Airways Limited have been cancelled or delayed due to maintenance problems since its purchase?

ANSWER: Of approximately 2,600 flights made by the Shorts aircraft, 84 flights were cancelled and 35 delayed as a result of maintenance. This gives a reliability factor of 95 per cent.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Can the Honourable Member say if the age of the aircraft was a factor in these delays?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, I do not think age would have anything to do with it. It relates to maintenance problems, and maintenance problems can arise with aircraft that are just out of the factory. But in any case, the age of the aircraft, I believe, is about eight years old, and the delays were various maintenance items that came up from time to time.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: The flights that had to be cancelled - were they cancelled because the equipment needed for repairs were not available?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, if the Member is referring to spares when he says equipment, I imagine in some instances, spares were not available on the Island and had to be flown in in order for the Company to effect repairs, yes.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there are no more supplementaries, perhaps we could have question number 84, please.

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR BODDEN TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR TOURISM AVIATION AND TRADE

NO. 84: Would the Honourable Member state what are the nationalities of the flight crew of the Shorts SD 3-30 aircraft of Cayman Airways Limited?

ANSWER: There are two Caymanian flight crew flying the Shorts SD 3-30, in addition to two United States' citizens and two Venezuelans.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Is there any attempt being made to train further Caymanian flight crew?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Yes, Mr. President, my understanding from the management of the Company is that Caymanians are being trained. For example they have a programme where, in some instances, co-pilots or flight engineers off the 727 are also being used as co-pilots on the Shorts. And as Caymanians become available and are sufficiently qualified and experienced to meet the Company's standards, then they will be promoted to their proper positions.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: We have had the Shorts aircraft for quite some time. During that time have we really attempted to train Caymanian personnel, because they should have been trained by this time had we made a serious attempt.

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, I would say that a serious attempt has been made by the Company. I think the Shorts started operation in January of this year. At the time we had six crew members from Venezuela in order to get the operation underway. We undertook, at that time, as with similar parliamentary questions that have been asked in this House, to have them replaced as soon as Caymanians became available. That is an on-going programme and I feel that some progress has been made.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER: Mr. President can the Honourable Member state whether any of these posts will be advertised in the paper so that Caymanians who are not yet part of the Company, or who may be living abroad and are qualified, can have an opportunity to apply?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN: Mr. President, the posts can and will be advertised because Cayman Airways will certainly employ Caymanians, whether they live here or live abroad, who may be qualified. So I will ensure that these posts are advertised locally.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there are no further supplementaries, I think we might take our customary break. Proceedings are suspended for fifteen minutes.

AT 11:10 A.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 11:35 A.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Item 3 of today's Order Paper. Bills. First Reading.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS
BILLS

THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987
FIRST READING

CLERK: THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT: A Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Companies Law is deemed to have been read a First time and is set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT: The Honourable First Official Member.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Companies Law.

This Bill, Mr. President, seeks to make a number of amendments to the Companies Law. As a preliminary, since its enactment, the Companies Law has served the country well in bringing in offshore business. In the interim period, a lot of competing jurisdictions have sprung up, and it is necessary to meet this growing competition and to keep abreast of the sophistication in the class of business coming to these Islands, as well as to bring it in line with other modern company and corporate jurisdictions.

To this extent, Professor Morse, a leading authority in company law and a member of the Law Commission in respect of the recent companies legislation in the United Kingdom was consulted. His findings, together with the input of the local financial centre (the committee was established shortly after a few budget addresses were given, I think in 1985) and that of the committee has been sought and the salient points recommended by them are sought to be incorporated in these amendments without unduly affecting those provisions which have been tried and tested over the years.

The scheme adopted has been to rationalise the provisions which deal with all companies in the general body of the Law, and particular aspects. For example, the exempt companies to be specifically dealt with, rather than at present, where one section lists inapplicability of certain requirements relating to such companies.

Clause 2 seeks to consolidate the requirements of the Memorandum of Association of companies limited by shares, (section 7 of the law), and by guarantee (section 8 of the law) and unlimited companies together (section 6). It also extends the objects clause to give powers and objects of natural persons to a company, unless specifically chosen to be restricted.

Opportunity is also taken to extend the contents of the Memorandum and to review the requirements to alter such Memorandum with minimum requirements (section 9). Consequential changes extend the period of delivery of such changes of the location of the registered office to the Registrar (section 10) and also makes the Memorandum and Articles of Association consistent with each other (section 11).

Clause 3 seeks to amend section 13. This is consequential on the amendment sought to be made to section 34 by clause 7.

By clause 4, section 20 is sought to be amended so as to remove a conflict with the provisions of section 42(1).

Clause 5 substantially incorporates section 25, except that the last sentence of subsection (3) is made clearer. Section 26 has been clarified, and a new Certificate of Incorporation will clarify any ambiguity which the present form indicates. Under subsection (2) of this section, the requirements of corporate benefits are specifically excluded, and thereby make it more consistent with legislation in various other jurisdictions, and also consistent with the powers of a natural person. Similarly section 27 eliminates the artificial distinction of powers and duties under the ultra vires doctrine as it relates to third parties. This clarifies too the capacity of a company to perform acts.

Clause 6 seeks to amend by inserting four new subsections to section 32. These subsections have been amended by reference to Professor Morse's report, and are intended to provide further business to the Cayman Islands from other jurisdictions by providing merger relief provisions similar to those found in the present United Kingdom legislation. It also removes an anomalous treatment of profits arising on takeovers and acquisitions of companies.

By clause 7, it is sought to re-enact a new section 34 which is more in line with the companies' legislation in other offshore jurisdictions and which follows the recent changes in the United Kingdom's companies legislation. It allows the more ready redemption of the company's own shares and will also permit the company to purchase its own shares, a feature which is greatly in demand by the offshore market.

Clause 8 seeks to consolidate, update and rationalise sections 37, 38 and 39. Section 37 is substantially the same as it presently exists, but however makes a specific provision in relation to bearer shares of an exempted company. It does not, however, breach any of the confidential provisions presently existing in the Law. Similarly, section 38 is substantially the same, while section 39 distinguishes the position in relation to exempt companies. This again is consistent with the general scheme of the present amendments. The proposed amendments do not detract from the present position in relation to disclosure.

Clause 9 seeks to re-enact section 41 by correcting an anomaly whereby an exempted company is at present not required to maintain a register. However, this again does not detract from the present position of non-disclosure of such registers to third parties and members. It does, however, raise the fees required in relation to other companies for copies of such registers.

Clause 10 seeks to extend the time within which the particulars are to be delivered to the registrars, from 15 days to 30 days. In all respects, it is otherwise the same as the present section.

Clause 11 seeks to repeal and re-enact section 55 and being consistent with the present scheme, highlights the provision that such general meetings do not change the position in respect of exempted companies.

By clause 12 it is sought again to consolidate, update and rationalise Part VI of the Law which deals with exempted companies, but does not itself make any changes at this stage. Such changes which are made are those consistent with the present amendments made.

And Mr. President, the Companies Law is a very technical document. The recommendations which are being put forward by the committee appointed by Executive Council almost two years ago - that committee is comprised of private sector practitioners, of lawyers, of trust managers, of accountants and people who, on a daily basis, deal with the Companies Law. And I recommend these amendments to Honourable Members.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill entitled a Law to amend the Companies Law be given its Second Reading.

The motion is open for debate.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

My contribution to the Bill will be very short. I could not help but notice, in reviewing the draft Bill on the White Paper and subsequently the Green Paper that it seemed to be the most complicated Bill I have yet seen brought to this House. So complicated, Sir, that in my opinion, much of the amendment or amendments could have been left out, because most of it was re-enacted. In other words, it repeated the same provisions already made in the principal Law.

Mr. President, going down this Bill, the most important areas, or the most fundamental changes I have seen made to the Law is contained in clause 7 of the Bill. This, Mr. President, deals with the re-enactment of section 34 of the principal Law, and it deals with the redemption and purchase of shares. It introduces a new provision by substantially re-enacting most of the principal Law, as I have said, but of importance is that in addition to the redemption of shares as contained in the principal Law, companies may now also purchase their own shares. Of course, Mr. President, there are conditions attached to this, and I would suggest for those people who may be directly or indirectly involved in the administration of the Companies Law, that they read the provisions very carefully indeed.

The second area of interest has to do with the amendment to section 41, clause 9 of the Bill, which substantially re-enacts that particular section of the principal Law. And it has to do with the inspection of registers. In this section, Mr. President, the major change is that exempt companies will now be subject to inspection.

Before this amendment, Mr. President, exempt companies were not subject to inspection, and it will bring about a major change in this respect. Of course, Mr. President, the mover of this Bill has given us the assurance that these changes brought about by clause 9 will not affect the present provisions of non-disclosure to third parties.

Mr. President, I feel all in all that this Bill is very good, even though many of the areas of changes are cosmetic changes, but nonetheless very necessary to the upgrading of our legislation.

Thank you, Mr. President.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Yes, Mr. President, and I will be brief.

Basically to thank the Member who did speak, and make his contribution to the debate, and also to the others who acknowledge their approval of the amendments by their silence.

Thank you.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE INSURANCE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable First Official Member.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Insurance Law, 1979.

This Bill, not unlike the Bill spoken about a few minutes ago, has been discussed for the last eighteen months with the Cayman underwriters, management insurance arm of the insurance industry, that arm dealing with mainly the offshore business. And many of these amendments are a result of input taken from them and aspects which this Government also thought should be put forward in order to improve the present Insurance Law.

In the Insurance Law, Mr. President, there is a definition of "underwriting manager". That definition is being replaced by "insurance manager" which will now mean, subject to acceptance by this Honourable House:

"insurance manager" means a company operating in or from within the Islands, which provides insurance expertise to or for insurers and which has in its bona fide employment a person who -

- (i) is qualified by examination as a fellow or associate of the Chartered Insurance Institute of London, or who is a member of either the Society of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriters or the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters both of the United States of America; and who is either a current member of good standing of the applicable professional body or of some other professional insurance association recognized by the Governor for the purpose of this Law"; and as a result of that change, Mr. President, there are many sections of the present Insurance Law which have to be amended.

Clause 3 seeks to make four amendments to section 3, two of which extend the scope of the offences created by that section so as to cover insurance business transacted outside the Islands by a company registered within the Islands.

In clause 4, it is sought to add a "principal representative (insurance)" to the categories of persons requiring a licence under the Law, and also to make it a condition of every insurer's licence that the insurer's minimum net worth be maintained. This amendment, Mr. President, is really to tighten up the Law and to require all offices or persons who deal with insurance to have a proper licence under the Law, which will give the Superintendent of Insurance the necessary power to supervise them.

Clause 5 seeks to increase the powers of the Superintendent of Insurance in relation to the affairs or business of any person carrying on, or who has at any time carried on, insurance business.

Clause 6 seeks to make amendments to section 6, consequential on the change of name from "underwriting manager" to insurance manager, as I mentioned initially.

In clause 7 it is sought to change the type of securities to be maintained by an insurer and required to be approved by the Superintendent of Insurance, and to make provision for the Superintendent to exempt certain insurers from the provisions of section 7(3). And Mr. President, section 7(3) reads:

"Every licenced insurer, other than an approved external insurer, shall prepare annual accounts in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, audited by an independent auditor."

Clause 7 also seeks to amend section 7(6) in two places to make it mandatory for a Class B licensee to appoint an insurance manager. Again, a little tightening up.

Clause 9 seeks to amend section 8 in five places, four of which deal with the newly-created office of "principal representative (insurance)" referred to earlier, and one requiring 60 days notice to be given to the Superintendent of Insurance of the proposed termination of a management agreement.

Clause 9 seeks to make three amendments to section 10, again dealing with the change to "insurance manager" from "underwriting manager".

By clause 10, provision is sought to be made by a proposed new section 12A for assets of a suspended licensee to be preserved by an order of the Grand Court. And, Mr. President, for the benefit of the listening public, 12A reads:

"Preservation of assets etc. 12A.(1) In any case where the Governor has suspended a licence under subsection (1) of section 12, the Superintendent may apply ex parte to the Grand Court for an order that the assets, books or papers of the licensee be preserved, not moved or otherwise disposed of and the Grand Court may, if it is satisfied that such assets, books or papers are liable to be moved, destroyed or otherwise disposed of make an order that they shall be preserved and not be moved or otherwise disposed of until a further order of that Court."

Mr. President, under section 12 of the Law, "Powers of the Governor in case of suspected insolvency etcetera of licensees", this is a further tightening up, not only to give the Governor in Council the power to suspend the licence, but also to ensure, by the presence of the Superintendent while attending the Grand Court and putting forward his case, that the Grand Court can make an order that the books and the assets and papers of the licensee be preserved so that once the insurance company is suspended, we have the necessary tools to ensure that the winding up, if that is what happens, is done in a professional manner for the protection of the parties concerned.

Clause 11 of the amending Bill seeks to make an amendment to the Schedule of the Law consequent on the renaming of the office of "underwriting manager" as "insurance manager" and also seeks to fix the annual licence fee of a "principal representative (insurance)".

Mr. President, we mentioned on a number of occasions when speaking publicly the need for this Government to maintain modern commercial legislation, such as the Insurance Law, and these amendments are put forward for that purpose as well as to give us additional power to deal with occasions when they are needed. It is no good suspending a licence if we allow all the books and papers to disappear from the Cayman Islands, or to be destroyed. We would be at a loss having suspended it to do anything about it.

I recommend the Bill to Honourable Members.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill entitled a Law to amend the Insurance Law, 1979 be given a Second Reading.

The motion is open for debate. The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

Mr. President, my comments will be few, and mostly favourable. However, I feel it would be a grave mistake to exclude term life insurance lasting for a period of five years or less from the business of long term insurance business. The reason for this, Sir, is that most term life policies carry within them a provision whereby the term life policy can be converted to any form of permanent insurance which could last for the remainder of the life insured's life. The reason why it would be dangerous to exclude this is because in the Law, the business of long term insurance carries with it certain safeguards that would not be available if this business were put into the other type of insurance.

There is another reason, and that is that generally all of the term life business is for large sums of money. Many of the term life policies are for sums of money in excess of $1 million, and very few for less than $100,000. In fact, many companies today do not write any term life insurance for an amount less than $50,000. So we are dealing here with a type of insurance that could be long, and the type of insurance that could be of great quantities.

I agree with the amendment to exclude the credit life insurance and will support that, because credit life insurance deals mostly with small amounts of insurance over a short period. Credit life is used mostly to cover consumer loans made by banks when they make small loans for the purchase of motor cars, refrigerators, or other consumer goods. So credit life could be excluded from the business of long term insurance, but we would weaken the law if we sought to take out term life insurance even if it is for periods of five years or less.

I spoke to the Honourable Member about this and I believe he will probably be putting forward an amendment to this section despite the advice he may receive from his technical advisers. Because I believe there must be some specific reason why they would seek to lessen the rigidity of the Law in this area.

I agree with his amendment in section 7 that the insurance companies should maintain short term securities or other realisable investments proved by the Superintendent in sufficient funds to match the current liabilities of the company. I know this is done by most of the international companies, for example the major life insurance companies do keep their assets here. Unfortunately the Island itself does not provide many suitable vehicles for the investment of insurance funds, but nevertheless most of the companies keep large sums of money which are put on term deposits with the banks, and are used daily by the banks for consumer loans and the investment is liquid and could be made available if the company had to pay a large claim. But nevertheless I think it is necessary to have it in the Law.

I agree with the amendment in clause 10, so that the Grand Court can make an order to preserve the assets, books or papers of an insurance company if there is any doubt that these may be destroyed or disposed of if there is a problem with the company.

So, Mr. President, I have general support for the Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT:

It seems that no other Member wishes to speak. The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I would be brief. Just to state my support for the Bill, in particular clause 11(b). I believe that, if Hansard were searched, you would find this is something I have advocated since I have been in this House and even before.

I would further state, Mr. President, that I believe the Law needs to go further to extend somehow to those companies doing business in these Islands, but not registered. I believe you would be surprised to find the amount of business transacted here in this country by those companies. For example, you would find some of the large buildings in this country insured outside by virtue of the fact of their involvement, somehow, with large companies not registered here. Those companies, Mr. President, do not pay any kind of fee, they do not hire any staff, so they are not contributing to this colony. I feel that those companies should, as other companies registered here, be made to pay. I feel that the absence of some kind of controlling clause for those companies is an anomaly and unfair to the companies in this country.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Would the mover wish to reply?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town did mention that he spoke to me in respect of the amendment which will affect term life. I did agree that I would examine the point and subject to that examination I may seek Government approval to put forward an amendment to the Bill. But I wish to state clearly that I undertook to examine the point.

I thank Honourable Members for their support of the Bill.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I shall put the question.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED. THE INSURANCE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987 GIVEN A SECOND READING

THE FIREARMS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987
FIRST READING

CLERK: THE FIREARMS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT:

A Bill entitled a Law to amend the Firearms Law (Revised) is deemed to have been read a First time and is set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE FIREARMS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable Third Elected Member of Executive Council.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLSTON:

Mr. President, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to amend the Firearms Law (Revised).

The Memorandum of Objects and Reasons reads:

"This Bill seeks to insert into the Firearms Law (Revised) a definition of "imitation firearm", which expression is used, but not defined, in that Law."

The Bill, Mr. President, seeks to insert in section 2(1) of the principal Law a proposed amendment covering the words "imitation firearm". At the moment it is an offence under the Law for anyone to have in their possession a firearm or an imitation firearm with intent to commit an indictable offence. Such an offence, upon conviction, renders a person liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding ten years.

My understanding, Sir, is that one of the difficulties experienced by the courts is in obtaining a clear enough definition of the legislative intent behind the insertion of the words "imitation firearm". Presumably this has come about as a result of the variety and ingenuity of persons who manufacture such products as imitation firearms.

This Bill, Sir, proposes to make it abundantly clear, as far as one can, what might have been in the minds of the legislators when using the word "imitation firearm". This particular form of words is a combination of the definition used in the United Kingdom, along with the definition used in at least one other independent Commonwealth nation.

It has been said, and publicly reported, that this amending Bill is suspect, and that it is possible that this is just the first of a series of steps intended by the Government aimed at ultimately completely banning the importation and use of toy guns, or imitation firearms. Let the record reflect, Mr. President, that I know of no such intention, nor do I know of any reason why such an intention should even be suspected.

The reporting that I referred to is an article that appeared in the local media last Friday, 13th November, and it is an article which quotes a number of the members of the judiciary and one local businessman, all of whom were indirectly or directly involved in recent matters brought before the courts dealing with the subject of imitation firearms. I do not wish to comment to any length on that article, Sir, because I believe that to do so would give it credibility that it does not deserve.

The intention is nothing beyond the stated objects and reasons, and simply put, this little Bill can be referred to as a tidying up Bill, a cleaning up Bill, one that will make the carrying out of the judicial function a little more clearly understood, and I accordingly, Mr. President, anticipate the support of Honourable Members for its passage.

MR. PRESIDENT: The question is that a Bill entitled a Law to amend the Firearms Law (Revised) be given a Second Reading.

The motion is open for debate.

As no Member appears to wish to speak, the motion is that a Bill entitled a Law to amend the Firearms Law (Revised) be given a Second Reading.

CLERK: THE PENAL CODE (AMENDMENT) (NO.2) BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT: A Bill entitled a Law to amend the Penal Code is deemed to have been read a First time and is set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

CLERK: THE PENAL CODE (AMENDMENT) NO.2) BILL, 1987

MR. PRESIDENT: The Honourable Second Official Member of Executive Council.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. President, this short Bill, to amend the Penal Code arises out of Private Member's Motion No.15/87 which was passed at the last meeting of the Legislative Assembly. Honourable Members will perhaps recall that that Private Member's Motion calls for the raising of the age of consent for girls from 14 to 16 years.

Mr. President, the Bill as it now stands does three separate and distinct things aimed towards effecting that Motion, and perhaps I might just take Members of the House very briefly through it.

First of all it makes an amendment to section 120 of the Penal Code, raising the age in that section from twelve to sixteen. Now section 120 of the Penal Code is the section governing indecent assault on females. Section 120(1) says:

"Whoever unlawfully and indecently assaults any woman or girl is guilty of an offence and is liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years."

And then section 120(2) says:

"It shall be no defence to a charge for an indecent assault on a girl under the age of twelve years to prove that she consented to the act of indecency."

It is now proposed to raise the age of 12 years to 16. That will bring that provision in line with the United Kingdom provisions, the Sexual Offences Act, 1956 section 14(2), and that section is largely in similar terms to our own subsection.

Mr. President, when replying to the Private Member's Motion at the last meeting, I had indicated to Members that the way to give effect to the motion was by amending section 122 of the Penal Code, and I will come to that section in a moment. But I had not at that time adverted to this amendment to section 120. However, when I went away and studied the point, it did seem that this raising of age from 12 to 16 in this subsection fell within the motion proposed, and also within the arguments advanced for that motion. And so, Mr. President, I have included it in this Bill.

Now the second amendment effected by the Bill is to section 122, which is the section I mentioned during the debate at the last meeting, and the section I mentioned a moment ago. The amendment there is to substitute age 16 for the age 14 in the second and last lines of subsection (3). Now section 122 is concerned with unlawful carnal knowledge of girls, and section 122(3) presently reads:

"Whoever unlawfully and carnally knows any girl under the age of fourteen years is guilty of an offence and liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years."

The effect of this amendment is to raise 14 years in that provision to 16. And this, Mr. President, brings that again in line with the law as it stands in the United Kingdom and in many of the states of the United States of America, though I say many because it is a matter for state law and it varies from state to state.

The final amendment is really a minor clarification. It proposes to add a new subsection (4) to section 122, which simply reads:

"It shall be no defence to a charge under this section to prove that the girl consented to the act of unlawful and carnal knowledge."

That is in fact declaratory of the common law, but makes it, in my submission to the House, quite plain that what we are dealing with here is the age of consent for girls, and it means that somebody who breaches the Law by having intercourse with a girl under the specified age, cannot as a defence claim that the girl consented. As I say, this makes no change in the Law, it is the position under the common law, but we did, in some cases brought in the Grand Court, encounter arguments to the contrary. They were overruled by the Court, but while we were amending the Law, it seemed wise to take that opportunity to avoid any argument for the future.

Mr. President, with those words, I would commend this Bill to the House.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question is that a Bill entitled a Law to amend the Penal Code be given a Second Reading.

The motion is open for debate.

Does any Member wish to speak? In that case, the motion is that a Bill entitled a Law to amend the Penal Code be given a Second Reading.

THE PENAL CODE (AMENDMENT) (NO.2) BILL, 1987 GIVEN A SECOND READING

MR. PRESIDENT:

We now move to the second part of Government business for the day. Motions - Government Motion No.6/87.

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO.6/87 CARIBBEAN DEVELOPMENT BANK

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable First Official Member.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to move Government Motion No.6/87 entitled the Caribbean Development Bank, and I read:

WHEREAS Caribbean Development Bank has agreed to loan the Cayman Islands Government the sum of $1 million to cover additional funding for George Town public water system, with repayments over 20 years;

AND WHEREAS the loan will be utilised to upgrade and provide urgent and necessary infrastructure to deal with the needs of the general public;

AND WHEREAS if any loan is negotiated under the provisions of section 6(1) of the Loans (Caribbean Development Bank) Law, 1977, that Law states that if the sum being sought exceeds $250,000 Cayman, the consent of the Legislative Assembly is required;

BE IT RESOLVED that the loan from Caribbean Development Bank amounting to not more than US$1 million be authorised by this Honourable House."

Mr. President, while giving the Budget Address, it was mentioned that the estimate of the George Town Public Water Supply system was only half of what the contract was awarded for, the project having gone to public tender and therefore we had to find some additional money to fund the project.

The estimation of the project was done not only by the Water Authority, but also by Caribbean Development Bank. Need I repeat again that the sum of the contract award was almost double the estimated price? Therefore, we needed to find some additional funds and I suppose Caribbean Development Bank, who have been very good to us, but finding that their estimate was exceeded as well, has agreed to lend us another US$1 million.

Mr. President, we had on one or two occasions to visit Caribbean Development Bank (when I say we, I mean myself and the Financial Secretary, Mr. President) to look at some of the cost that this Government was asked to bear in the form of loans to this Government. Previously the loan was divided into hard interest rates and soft interest rates. We do not really argue about the hard rates, Mr. President, or we do not argue as much as we do in relation to the soft rate, because we believe that projects such as this affect people of modest means, but also help to alleviate health problems that the Bank should be a little more generous in relation to interest rates.

On this occasion, it is an extension of the previous loan, or in addition to the loan given earlier. Therefore we had to take it at the hard rate, 8.75 per cent, and a front-end fee of $10,000. It is reasonable, Mr. President, when you think of the term of the loan, 20 years is a long time. The Water Authority should be able to make its mark and repay all of its loans and meet operating costs long before 20 years arrives. There is a moratorium period, which coincides with the previous loan to this Government by CDB for this project, and it is a way of assisting the Water Authority to get over the initial heavy capital injection in the form of laying the pipes and what have you, and to get up on its feet and be able to meet repayments before they are required to repay the principal sum.

I recommend this loan for Honourable Members' support.

MR. PRESIDENT:

If no other Member wishes to speak, I shall put the question - I beg your pardon, I turned away, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, in speaking on this motion, I would like to make a point clear. I believe this water project is needed and that it is very beneficial for the growth of the country, however, I cannot accept that we should agree to the large increase that is being shown to us today.

It is my humble opinion that the Members of this House should have been cognizant of what was involved with the agreement between the Cayman Islands Government and Caribbean Utilities. I speak subject to correction, but I do not believe that the Members on this side of the House are fully aware of the implications of whatever agreement Government did enter into.

We do not know whether, in the end, it will be profitable, whether it will carry itself, or whether we will be called on from time to time to find additional money for the project. I think the general public and myself are somewhat concerned about this contract being awarded to a Colombian company without any explanation being given as to why this was so.

The previous administration of this country saw fit several years ago to suspend even the importation of cement from Colombia, yet all of a sudden we find that our Government has changed its policy and that we have entered into agreement which the Members on this side of the House know nothing about - that is with regard to the contract with the Colombian company. With respect to what has been done in this country in the past, it is somewhat alien to have a company from Colombia doing the work on a Government project.

I must ask at this time whether it was the cheapest contract that we could get? I must also ask how many other companies that usually bid on Government projects bid on this one, and whether any of those companies that bid would have been considered local companies? If so, I would submit that even if the Colombian bid was the lowest bid, it should not have been accepted, for many, many reasons. Due consideration should have been given to a company that was operational here, because the money, or if there was any profit on this deal, would have stayed here.

I would also like to ask whether any restrictions have been imposed on the Colombian company with regard to this contract - whether there are suitable retentions of payments to them, or whether they will be allowed to draw down the full amount called for in the contract when we find that a year later the pipes have broken, or that something was laid wrong, thus resulting another major expenditure on our hands and to find that they have left our territory and jurisdiction, and that there would be no way that we could get anything back in return. I think these are good economic questions, and I feel that, in my duty to the country, I should pose them; and that I should expect some answers.

I would also like to ask whether Government has seen fit to impose any restrictions with regard to immigration procedures on the people whom we have brought from Colombia; whether they will be able to remain here after the project is completed, or whether they will have to leave.

I must state, Mr. President, that as I have read this budget and seen the borrowings that are going on and which have been going on for three years, I see that once again we have a project that was estimated at $2 million, and which has now been increased to $4.2 million. It proves one more time that someone is not doing the necessary work to figure out the contracts that we enter into. If we are going to have 100 per cent escalation in the cost in a one year period or less, then somebody must have really had blinds on when they were figuring the amount of money for this project. I cannot see why, if any diligence had been taken in this project, we should have this great escalation.

Therefore, Mr. President, I feel that the Legislature and people of this country should be told what went wrong. There should be answers to the questions I have posed, and not the usual junk of, "Well, an uneducated country boy from Bodden Town so we do not need to answer it." These are questions that I feel are very important for the well being of this country, and I would like suitable answers somewhere along the line to the questions I have posed.

Therefore at this point, Mr. President, although I feel the water system is very much needed I cannot vote money in the blind, particularly on a large increase like this; and until I have some answers to the questions I have posed, I will therefore stand in opposition although it may be fruitless.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think that would be a convenient moment to take our lunch adjournment. Proceedings are adjourned until 2:15 p.m.

AT 12:48 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2:16 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Proceedings are resumed. Government Motion No.6/87. Does any other Member wish to speak? The Elected Member for North Side.

MR. D. EZZARD MILLER:

Mr. President, to be consistent in my watch-dogging of the Water Authority, I too have to ask a number of questions about this additional $1 million dollars of funding, which we are told is almost half as much as the original cost.

I would like to know, Sir, what this additional funding is going to be used for? Is it an extension in service area by the Water Company, or is it simply additional cost of laying pipes, erecting reservoirs, etcetera, etcetera, and the same serviced area? Mr. President, if we almost double the financing, certainly we are going to almost double the repayment schedule.

I have always questioned whether the proposed price for the sale of water was reasonable to in fact repay the investment to allow an amortization of equipment for replacement, etcetera, when necessary, and to allow for future expansion into other areas. Will this additional funding provide additional revenue if it is an expanded services area, to help meet the cost of the additional funding? If this $1 million in extra financing is for enlargement of the service area, which should enlarge the revenue of the company, I would be inclined to support it. If, however, it is simply an additional cost on to what was estimated for the proposed service area in the first instance, Mr. President, I could not in fairness support the additional funding without the assurance that it is going to produce additional revenue. Because, as I said earlier, I have my doubts as to whether the proposed selling price for the water was realistic in the first instance.

With those few words, Sir, if I can get an answer in the affirmative that, yes, it is going to produce a larger service area and that it is going to produce enough revenue to service the loan, I can support it Sir. If not, I have to oppose it.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Elected Member for East End.

MR. JOHN B. MCLEAN:

Mr. President, I would begin by saying that I fully support and agree with the idea of an adequate supply of good water for the Islands, especially in the areas which cater more heavily to tourists.

It seems to me that each Member who have spoken thus far has the same concern with regard to the vast amount for contractual costs that we are faced with. I am wondering we would not save time and money if we adjourned for say fifteen or twenty minutes so that the Honourable First Official Member could perhaps explain fully to us exactly what is taking place. I find myself in the position that I cannot vote for the motion as I would wish. I believe that if this was done, we could get together for about fifteen minutes, and it would put a lot of matters to rest.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I would like a few moments to consider that, if you would not mind. We do have the other possibility that in the reply to the debate, the Honourable Member could, or has the opportunity, to reply to all the questions.

MR. JOHN B. MCLEAN:

I agree with that, Mr. President, but it would save a lot of time. I am sure other Members feel the way I do and perhaps we may not have even spoken on the motion if we knew exactly what we were voting for.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I might make one other point that a good deal has been said. That is on the record and has been heard on the radio. Therefore, at some point it will need to be replied to publicly and on the record in the same way. These are all points for consideration before we decide what to do.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN:

I was going to say that a great deal more needs to be said, and I would hope that we will finish the debate - and after that maybe the Honourable Member could brief us, if he so wishes, in the chamber. I am certainly not supporting it, but I would like to speak.

MR. PRESIDENT: Well this is very much a matter in the hands of the House. It will require a motion, I think, to suspend Standing Orders and have an adjournment. Perhaps we can do it on an adjournment alone. If somebody wishes to move an adjournment for, say, fifteen minutes, I will certainly hear the voices.

It seems that the majority are of a mind to suspend proceedings for fifteen minutes. Some are in dissent, but a majority appear to be. As always, I take the will of the House.

We will suspend for fifteen minutes.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Yes, Mr. President, but I would like to be able to speak when we return.

MR. PRESIDENT: Oh, please, let there be no misunderstanding, we are suspending proceedings in the middle of the debate on this motion for fifteen minutes, no more, no less.

AT 2:22 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2:43 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT: What we now see from the paper we have just had put before us is actually Government Motion No.6/87 - Caribbean Development Bank. Would the Elected Member for East End care to continue?

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN: Mr. President, I would just like to say that I believe if we have ever spent a very good fifteen minutes together, it was the last fifteen in which we discussed this very important matter. It leaves me, beyond a shadow of doubt, in a position where I can support what is before the House. I would, however, just urge that, perhaps in future, instead of interrupting a sitting of the House on important matters such as this, that we meet as legislators to discuss the matter, so that when we return to our constituencies and are questioned on the issue we will not be in an embarrassing position, but we will be able to answer, as we can now, that we know the facts and figures.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, the need for a pure water supply cannot be denied. In fact, this need was recognised by the Government many years ago. I believe the first water study completed in Cayman was more than twenty years ago, and at that time recommendations were made for Government to establish a water system. The Government back in those days, twenty or twenty-five years ago, really did not have the resources to put in a public system. However, as the Islands developed in the early 1980s, Government came to the conclusion that this matter should not be delayed and we embarked upon not only a water system but a sewerage system for these Islands.

However, while I believe the system is needed, I cannot agree with the methods used by the present Government in handling the motion which is before us, or in handling this project, which is the subject of this motion. We have been presented with a motion today which seeks to borrow US$1 million to cover the water system. We have been told that this additional money is necessary because there was a disparity in the original estimates and the actual costs and also that the money is necessary because a new area is to be added to that covered by the system.

This raises many questions. One would ask that if the Government found itself in such a dilemma, why did it not do several things which may have helped? First of all, I believe there should have been a proper consultation with all members of the Finance Committee before the actual signing of the contract with the company which is now doing the work. In fact, the disparity in the cost is so great that it may even have been prudent for the Government to investigate alternate means of financing, since we were bound by Caribbean Development Bank to use one of their contractors from the member countries, and since the price asked of this captive client of the Bank is an exorbitant price.

We think the Government should have found out, or at least made an attempt to find another means of financing, where we would not be bound as a captive to accept the bids of a contractor. I cannot swallow easily that this Government made a mistake in its estimates, and even if I were to accept such a story, I cannot swallow the fact that Caribbean Development Bank came up with the same estimate, almost the same estimate, and they too made a mistake, having had wide experience throughout the Caribbean in assessing the cost of these projects.

I recall that on a project which the Government undertook some years ago, of very similar cost (that is the port in Cayman Brac) Government was able to get the work done by a contractor who charged $1 million less than one of the most favoured contractors that had bid on the project. So we do get these disparities in the figures, and I feel Government was totally wrong in going ahead and signing the contract with Petroservicios knowing full well that the contract which they were signing would be for figures that were totally out of line with the initial proposal presented to the Legislative Assembly earlier this year, totally out of proportion to the estimates made by Government's technical advisers and totally out of proportion to the estimates of the funding agent.

There is another reason why I cannot agree to this loan today, and that is I am greatly alarmed at the debts which this present administration has created. Three years ago when they took over, Government's long term debt stood at about half of its present figure of $14 million. And if we go ahead with what is proposed in the estimates which are currently before the House, the Government will seek to borrow $8 million over the next twelve months - so that in three years our public long term debt will have increased 300 per cent. This could never be acceptable to the country.

Government's long term debt is growing at a phenomenal rate, and every effort needs to be made to contain that debt. Although there is a ready and willing lender in Caribbean Development Bank, Government must ensure that its projects are kept at as low a cost as possible.

There is a further reason for not supporting this motion, and that is because the motion which is before the House today should have come to the House three years ago when we did the estimates for 1985. But for three years the public has been deceived into believing that the Government was very prudent and was not spending any money. The fact is they have been pennywise and pound foolish, because had they spent this money three years ago on this project, which was then needed, the cost would not have escalated to this degree. So what we are doing now is paying the price for having said, "For three years we have balanced your budget and we have managed your money well." But the truth is the Government over the last three years has not provided the infrastructure which the country needed, and that is why today we are faced with this motion.

The need for the water cannot be denied, but one could go on to ask why it has been delayed. We know the Water Authority went off to a brisk start and up to 1984 had established the reservoir in Lower Valley and the reservoir in East End which was completed in May of 1985, they had put in the law, and they had completed studies and so on. But what has been done in the three years as far as the water is concerned, with the exception of talking about a water and a desalination plant and of doing estimates? Why have we not been spending the cash? And so the three year delay has in itself escalated the cost, and we are paying the price for having a Government that over the first three years of its administration did not embark on a capital project of any size except the few little payments that were required.

So I cannot support this motion, and I trust that there will be others who will feel likewise.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I have to support, in all good conscience, this motion. It is most unfortunate that such an error as has been pointed out has been made in calculating the cost of this project by Caribbean Development Bank and the Government. Errors are easily made, and only become a mistake when they are not corrected. This item is not corrected to our benefit, in terms of which we have to pay more. However, we need the water system, that is very evident, and so we, as sensible men, cannot argue constructively against this sort of borrowing. We might not like the error and I in particular do not like the way this knowledge has come about, or the knowledge of such an error has come about. But what are we to do? The project is in full scale operation. I cannot go to my constituents and say ladies and gentlemen, this borrowing is unnecessary.

Mr. President, for many years, and for large amounts of expenditure in this country, no projects of this nature have been started. In the election of 1980 I stood on the public platform and told the people that it was time that we had a proper sewerage and water system for the country. I was rejected at the polls, but the fact glared us more and more in the face each day. Again, in 1984 it was a theme which was put forward, and I have to say, well, the people accepted us, therefore they must have accepted that these sort of plans and projects were needed.

Mr. President, today Cayman is having it good, and yet we are in a position where we could lose everything. Tourism, and I hope I am not digressing too much, but to show the need for this sort of project, the day that an outbreak of any sort of disease happens we could lose everything. That is the bottom line.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I do not think you are digressing, so long as you stick to the health aspects of water and sewerage.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

More than tourism, Mr. President, our people have demanded it. The only thing that I am sorry about is that I do not see any scheduled arrangement for the West Bay area. I hear no pronouncements or statements saying when it is scheduled for West Bay. And, you can believe that we are in serious need of some sort of water system.

Mr. President, ever since I have been in this House, and before, I have stood for and have asked and implored Government for more frequent consultation between the executive arm of Government and those of us on this side of the House whom they call backbenchers. Time has long passed when any parliament in this country is going to be a rubber stamp. I expect to know every detail outside of your portfolio, or those matters which the Governor of this country is responsible for, and even to that I should know something of what is going on. How can we govern intelligently or represent our people properly if we are not informed about what is taking place in the country? No one man has the prerogative on brains, and what makes good government is when Members who are elected by the people are involved, especially those who want to make a contribution.

Every day it is becoming more apparent that the executive arm of Government is carrying too much of a full load. One Member alone is responsible for health, education, social services, and all the rest that goes with it. It is time that we be men enough to tell the people of this country that we have to do something about the system. We would not be destroying anything.

Again I implore Government for as far as this Member is concerned much more support would be given if I were told the truth were told, if I were involved and know what is going on, instead of hearing Government business spoken in a bar room somewhere - and as Members of Parliament sitting there, being asked of what is going on. How can one answer intelligently? We cannot operate in the 1959's any longer, Mr. President, and I implore upon you, in your capacity as Governor, to sit these people down to take cognizance of what is going on around them.

I will support the motion because it is the most sensible thing to do at this stage, not that I like the way it has come about.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Would any Member care to speak?

We have a few minutes before our afternoon break.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

I would like to speak, Sir, but I think I would

MR. PRESIDENT:

Thank you, right. If you would like to start, we

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

I should be finished by then Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

I too would like to make my brief contribution to Government Motion No. 6/87 which seeks to receive the support of this Honourable House for a loan to the Cayman Islands Government in the sum of $1 million to cover additional funding for George Town public water system, with repayments over 20 years.

Mr. President, when I first received this paper in red ink I wrote on it that we need an account of how money has been spent to date. It is strange, Sir, that this is the same sentiment expressed by Members here. With the exception of a minority so far, I do not think that any of the Members would reject this motion. We see this as being necessary, however, we need to be brought more in line with respect to what is happening at a governmental level. If this was done, Mr. President, we could avoid a lot of debate and speculation in this Honourable House.

Mr. President, I fully support the idea of a proper water system, and it is only proper that this should be started or initiated in George Town, the capital. I am sure that very soon, to ease the mind of the Second Member for West Bay, we will be going into West Bay, but the priority should be given to the capital.

The need for a water system is recognised and should not be denied the people of the Cayman Islands. I believe that there is no Member here today who would not agree with this, but the debate could perhaps have taken a different trend if it had not been for the wisdom of the Member for East End. I want to commend him, Mr. President, for his foresight and also for his wisdom in requesting an adjournment so that the necessary information could be gathered on this very important motion.

Mr. President, I feel that it is only fair to the listening public that they be given all the facts, and not left with the wrong impression in this matter. I have heard previous speakers allude to the problems that could arise from our association with Colombia. We are well aware of some of the problems in that country, but it would be wrong for the public to get the impression that this Government or any Member of this Honourable House would in any way be connected with that country other than on a contractual level as we are at present.

It is my understanding that, in addition to certain member countries of the Commonwealth, the bids for the water project were extended to other member countries of the Caribbean Development Bank, including Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia. Of these countries, the lowest bid came from Petroservicios of Colombia, a member of the Caribbean Development Bank. I would repeat that no member of the listening public should be left with the impression that Government acted in a manner detrimental to this country by granting the contract to the Colombian company.

When we look at the quality of work being carried out by this company we can see that they are very professional indeed. The work is of the highest standard, and so far, I have no information that they have acted in any manner that would undermine the stability of this country. However, Mr. President, we should not be complacent and I would ask that Government always be on the alert and keep a very, very watchful eye, because we are aware of the many problems which this country is experiencing.

To further clear the air and to get as much information as possible on this matter, it is my further understanding that of the eight contractors that were pre-selected for this project, three withdrew their bids and the bids from the five other countries ranged from $2.6 million, the lowest bid which we accepted, to $4.6 million the highest bid.

These bids were submitted by very professional people - engineers and people well versed in this type of work. If their estimates and bids could have ranged by $2 million, I do not think that we should be overly concerned that ours was out by $600,000 or approximately 33 per cent.

It is further significant to note that the Caribbean Development Bank's estimate was very near to the estimate prepared by the Water Authority here in the Cayman Islands. I think that this speaks very highly for that Department, and they too should be commended. Government's estimate was some $1.9 million. The lowest bid was $2.6, approximately $690,000 (difference). I repeat that because it is important that we should get the facts right in this matter.

I do not think that much needs to be said about the necessity for this system. The only query of significance that I heard raised was the large increase now required. But by this it should be understood that the additional funds did not come about as a major error after we had received the bids, or as a major error by the company doing the contract. It was the difference between the initial estimates prepared by us which was necessary, and the lowest bid which was a difference of about $700,000. It is not a situation where the contractor is now coming back to us and saying that they made a mistake in their bid. I want to make that point very, very clear.

Accordingly, Mr. President, I cannot see any Member of this House who really and truly has the interests of this country at heart rejecting this motion, because to reject it would be to say to our people that we are denying them a facility which they truly need - especially when we are allowed fifteen minutes to meet and have all the facts of this matter cleared up.

Mr. President, I want to touch again on the question of information and communication. I would have, as I have done in this House before, asked Executive Council to try and involve Members of the back bench in more of what is happening in Government. Much of the debate and speculation could be avoided if only we were properly informed of what is going on. Many times, Mr. President, I am embarrassed when individuals at a cocktail party or elsewhere tell me of important measures being taken by Government before I, as a Member of this Legislative Assembly, know about it. That, Mr. President, is very embarrassing.

As I said, I feel that this motion is a very good one and I give it my full support. Thank you, Sir.

Government Motion No.6/87. The Honourable Fourth

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I rise to support Government Motion No.6/87 seeking approval for a loan of US$1 million from Caribbean Development Bank to assist in the financing of the George Town water project.

In the early stages of its present administration, we found in the George Town constituency an awful water situation. We found that the wells in George Town had been contaminated, and we are talking about faeces contamination at that. It has been caused by heavy extraction of water from the lands for commercial use, and still I was informed by the Health Services Department that this situation had lingered on for a number of years unattended, and that it is a miracle that an epidemic has not broken out in George Town.

At the sound of this, Mr. President, we moved quickly, first to control the extraction - that heavy extraction of water from George Town - and secondly we moved on to study the possibility of introducing a piped water system for George Town. The problem was clearly seen by everyone, and it is no wonder that all the Members who rose to speak on this subject today supported the water system for George Town because they knew what the problems were and that something had to be done. All of them congregate in George Town, this is where we come, this is the capital of the Cayman Islands, and it is not because we are representing the capital we speak like this. We are dealing with a particular situation, and the George Town situation was next to the Seven Mile Beach situation which we remedied some years ago when Cayman Water Company was established there. Now we are doing the sewerage system which is also badly needed in that area.

So Mr. President, we started in 1985 to study the possibility of introducing water and not just to produce water for George Town. We knew that there were people at various levels of society and financial means living in George Town and that it was a responsibility of this Government to find fairly cheap water; so we embarked on a proposition with Caribbean Utilities to use the waste steam from their generators to produce water by a system that could produce the cheapest water available.

Now, Mr. President, in 1985, between the Water Authority and Caribbean Development Bank, we provided a rough estimate by which to work, because there must be a plan, a programme or a guideline on which to work - and so the figure of CI$1,980,00 was what we agreed on, and the Bank agreed that what we were looking for at that time would cost around that. An estimate is just an estimate, and by the time we concluded our negotiation with Caribbean Utilities and put the project to tender a year and more had passed - this was in early 1987, and so we had that lapse of time between the original estimate and the actual tender for the project. We did not wish to change the figures at that stage because we simply did not want the contractors to have an idea of what figures we were toying with, and so as is a principle adopted in all contractual bids, the project went out to tender requesting the contractors to name their price. When a bid came in higher than what was originally estimated, we knew that that was not a surprise.

Out of five contractors who tendered for that project, there was a variation between the lowest and the highest of over $2 million. We are talking about a small project, and for that variation to have occurred was beyond us. The lowest bid was tendered by the Colombian company that we have heard so much about. Well, I think the Honourable First Official Member has told Members here that Colombia is a member of Caribbean Development Bank and as such they are authorised to bid on any contract in which Caribbean Development Bank will participate in financing - so the Colombian company tendered. Luckily they did, Mr. President, otherwise this project would have cost us a lot of money.

Not even that, we have heard questions asked why the Colombians were admitted here. Well for one thing, you know, I travel every day and two, three or four times a day and I pass the workers by where they are working and, Mr. President, it will do anybody's heart good to stand and watch those men work. They work from sunrise to sunset. They work during holidays and they are still going. They have a programme to maintain, and that programme is not going to fall behind, not from lack of their ability to perform. I wish and hope that all other Government contracts are like that one.

Mr. President, the additional $1 million that is being asked for in this motion is a sum of money which Caribbean Development Bank has agreed to allocate to the project, simply because of the escalated cost in the original contract and secondly because of the extension of the piped areas, which Caribbean Development Bank agree with.

Now, during the course of requesting residents to submit application for connection to the water system, the residents of Crewe Road, Smith road, the airport industrial area, Tropical Gardens, Walkers Road, South Church Street, and those persons living behind Walkers Road, Websterville and George Town Court, all came down for water; and that is all in the George Town area. We made an assessment of what revenue the Authority would collect from the additional water to be provided in these areas, and when we found that it was economically feasible, because that additional connection would produce about 30 to 40 per cent more water, we asked the contractors to make a separate bid for that additional area, which they did. These things were passed through the board of the Water Authority and examined, and through Government and examined, and the bids were put before the public tenders committee. It was there, Mr. President, that the decision was made that on the basis of the economics in having this additional area piped, the cost now, which was very much reduced by the contractors, would be to the advantage of this Government and to all concerned. So it was agreed to go ahead and award the contract for the original project plus the extended areas.

Mr. President, these contracts are approved and awarded within a short space of time. I am sure that the Honourable First Official Member is very well aware of the fact that the Legislative Assembly must give its ultimate approval, but we could not sign two contracts with the contractors. Thus the contract which included the extended area was signed and the work went into effect.

Mr. President, I do not think that it is unreasonable to have this additional work done. I would like to say here that Government is only asked to give the guarantee for this loan. All the monies that are used by the Water Authority coming from the general revenue of this country will be paid back to Government. The Water Authority is operating as a commercial venture. It is not there as a puppet of Government, looking for handouts and maintenance. And so all the Water Authority is asking is for Government to put this guarantee up for this loan.

Another thing I would like to say, Mr. President, is that if Caribbean Development Bank were not sure that the project was economically feasible, and if they were not sure that the Water Authority had the ability to repay that loan, they would not have agreed to it. These are things that the Water Authority, this Government and Caribbean Development Bank have examined and the Bank is satisfied - satisfied in the same way as when they financed the port project in Grand Cayman which is paying for itself, and other things too such as the Cayman Islands Corporation projects. We are not asking the Government to take money out of public revenue and dash in to the Port Authority. I knew, Mr. President, that this motion would have brought a lot of debate. I knew it. I hope that the people of George Town will be listening to the proceedings today.

Mr. President, we already had fifteen minutes in the committee room discussing this, but Members thought that we should come back here so that the public can hear the rest of the debate, and I am grateful for that.

Mr. President, I have nothing more to say, Sir, other than to say that I support the project and that I hope in the not too distant future we will be inviting Members to turn on the tap and let the water run in the capital.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Would the mover wish to reply to the debate?

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Yes, Mr. President, and as a great deal of elucidation has been brought to bear on this particular motion, I do not really expect to be that long.

We know, Mr. President, that the contract which was awarded was roughly $600,000 more than the estimate. The contract being awarded for approximately CI$2.6 million. In the analysis of the cost, that resulted from the higher than anticipated unit construction price. We brag about the construction industry and how well it is getting on and when they are very busy we have to pay the extra price for it. But if we go back to the tendering exercise, there were a total of eleven contractors who responded to the invitation to pre-qualify themselves to bid on this contract. Eight were pre-qualified. Three withdrew. So we were left with five of the original eleven that applied.

We had a range of bids from those five earlier quoted by the Member across the floor, ranging from the lowest bid which is this CI$2.6 million to approximately $4.6 million. These are the people who were going to carry out the work, and if they bid wrongly, they either had to take the loss or pocket the surplus, whichever way it turns out.

It would seem to me that if the people who were carrying out the work and putting themselves in a position to make either a substantial loss or profit, whichever, if the range between the $2.6 million and $4.6 million is there, I do not think we need to spend too much time worrying about the little difference between the original estimate. We know, Mr. President, that when projects of this type are estimated, if they have never been done so before and there is no historical accounting data or statistics on which to base the estimate, one can easily be wrong. But as has been said, it is only an estimate. An estimate is a guide. And that is the guide that Government agreed to accept and put the bid out to tender. The result of the tendering was that of those who wished to be selected to carry out the project, the highest bid being $4.7 million and the lowest $2.6 million, Government accepted the lower bid.

Now someone said that we have been balancing our budget for three years now and it is about time we put forward this particular project and tell the people exactly what we are doing. But even with this motion, and the taking on of the project, the 1988 Budget is still balanced. It is almost as if saying, Mr. President, and I have great respect for the Member across the floor, but it is almost like saying the road programme was a result of the master ground transportation plan. It is going to cost us $50 million, so let us get on with it because if we wait three years it is going to cost $75 million or $100 million to this Government. I think we take it in just the same way as we did with the water supply - we do what we can afford and do not move beyond that, because I think that the day we ever do, we will cause the people of this country to pay quite a price.

However, Mr. President, taking all the points that were made, it is quite easy for me to accept the suspension to go into the committee room and explain what I do know about the project, which appears to have eased some of the concern on the other side. I now thank them for their support.

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 7/87
CARIBBEAN DEVELOPMENT BANK

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Mr. President, I beg to move Government Motion No. 7/87 entitled Caribbean Development Bank:

"WHEREAS Caribbean Development Bank has agreed to lend the Cayman Islands Government the sum of US$3,646,000 to cover:

- | | |
|---|-------------|
| (a) airport development in Cayman Brac | $1,756,000 |
| (b) airport fire station building in Grand Cayman | $1,889,000 |

with repayment over eighteen years;

AND WHEREAS the loan will be utilised to upgrade and provide urgent and necessary infrastructure to deal with the needs of the general public and safety of arrivals by air;

AND WHEREAS if any loan is negotiated under the provisions of section 6(1) of the Loans (Caribbean Development Bank) Law, 1977, that Law states that if the sum being sought exceed $250,000 the consent of the Legislative Assembly is required;

BE IT RESOLVED that the loan from Caribbean Development Bank, amounting to not more than US$3,646,000 be authorised by this Honourable House."

Mr. President, the project for the airport development has been with us for some time, in particular the Gerrard Smith Airport terminal building, and the funds being requested in this motion for airport development on Cayman Brac is for that purpose. We have seen in recent times an increase in the traffic to the Brac and we have been talking about building a terminal building there for some years. I am happy to be able to move the motion in that good cause.

Secondly, Mr. President, the fire station building at Owen Roberts Airport is not a beautiful sight to see for both the people and the officers who have been working in that environment, and it is certainly not something I would wish them to continue to do. I believe they deserve more. The motion before us is seeking to put that right, and I recommend it to Members.

MR. PRESIDENT: Does any Member wish to speak? The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I am a bit alarmed about the continuing large borrowing of the Government. If we look at the present state of the country today with regards to the borrowings which have taken place in the last three years, we will find that at the present time, with the budget for this year being about $70 million, we will be paying out I believe 5.6 per cent to service the national debt. That means that for this coming year we will be paying out nearly $4 million to service the national debt.

In 1984 this country had reserves approximating $11 million, and it took only 2.5 per cent of revenue, of approximately $60 million, to service the long term debt commitments - with the long term debt commitments being somewhere in the neighbourhood of $10 million. This is alarming for such increase in such a short time, and with very little to show for it. No great capital schemes have been presented to this House. We have had a lot of consultants and experts. We have had a lot of promises, but no real, firm capital projects being dealt with.

I agree that the development of the airport in Cayman Brac is very necessary and should have been done probably some years back. Unfortunately it has not been done and we should be doing it. But the point I am trying to get across is that we should be trying to do some of this out of the general revenue of the country rather than spending the general revenue to enlarge the civil service as we have done, and bringing in experts and consultants. That is money that leaves the country and we get no benefit for it other than the volume of papers telling us what we should do and what we should not do.

Mr. President, the fire service building at Owen Roberts Airport. Again I am proud to know that we will be doing something about that by building a new building. In the 1976 to 1984 regime of the Unity Team, it was very necessary to do something with the fire station at the airport, and we did our very best with the resources that were available. I speak subject to correction at this point, because it is difficult to remember everything that has taken place. But whatever was spent at that time, I feel certain that it was spent out of general revenue, and not by borrowing.

If we take into consideration that, at that time the national budget probably did not exceed $20 million, to spend that much money was a big percentage of the overall national budget as this figure is today of the present budget. But acting prudently and wisely this was done, I think, completely out of general revenue funds, and we did not borrow any money to fund that. It might not be the most practical building on the Island. It might not be the most beautiful and as dedicated a staff as we have there, however, as much as I respect them, it may be necessary to look prudently at this. If we cannot afford to build it now we should wait for another two years.

I do not believe that this administration should at this point rush pell-mell into spending more and more money when it is having to borrow every penny of it. It is alarming to the Legislative Assembly Members and alarming to the public. The money will have to be paid back, and it will have to be additional taxes. We are lucky this year that the new taxes that are being imposed are only of a limited amount. The only reason for that is that politically it would not be expedient, in a coming election year, to put on the taxes that they know they are going to have to put on. So they have dealt with something that they think is going to appeal to all the church goers in the Island, and that is why they put a token tax on a few different types of liquors.

As I deal with this Budget in the days to come I will reveal from that Budget what I have revealed here in the past three years - that figures are presented in this House to match the Budget with the figures that are available to them. And the figures are not realistic. Every year items of magnitude have been brought back to the Finance Committee asking for additional votes. And we stood on the floor of the House at the beginning of the year and pointed out this is an unrealistic figure, and that the work cannot be done for this amount of money. And we have the same thing going on again for 1988.

These two projects, I will reiterate, Mr. President, are needed, but I was of the opinion that the reason it had taken this Government so long to move on the Cayman Brac terminal building was because it was being financed by the European Development Fund. I know this because it was partly put in place before the election time in 1984. What has happened to that loan? Has that been used up? Has that money been partly used up on consultants and experts to tell us whether the rock in Cayman Brac can stand a one storey building? What have we used it for?

These are questions, Mr. President, which the people of this country need answers to. They need to know why this present elected Government has not been able to put any money in reserves other than the taken $2 million they borrowed over $8 million and are going to take $2 million of the borrowed money to put in there. I say, Mr. President, the country cannot afford this type of Government any longer. We cannot afford to increase our national debt to the tune of $7 million or $8 million a year. We must find some innovative schemes to provide the money that this country needs. The infrastructure is needed and I agree with it, but we cannot continue to support a Government that rushes headlong into signing contracts for which there is no money available to pay for. If we get into contracts without retentions, we have to pick it up if something happens, or contracts that are open ended and subject to any type of addition. This is not what a responsible government does.

I stand against this loan, although I would very much like to vote for it, because I know, in the end, it is needed. But I cannot sacrifice my principles in supporting a government which can find no other way to do a capital project than to borrow the money for it. Check the records of this country from 1976 to 1984 and you will find that approximately $50 million of general revenue funds were used in capital expenditures, and we have something to show for it. This administration will go down in the history of this country as the only administration to have only one little building to show for its credit of four years, and that is the little farmers' market up towards Smith Road. I believe they have made some renovations to a couple of toilets out by the waterfront. That is more or less the sum total. We have spent money after money after money bringing in every consultant team and every expert. At least one thing that they must have is a mountain of paper in the administration building that they can leave to their memory.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

We are close to normal adjournment. I would be quite happy if the House wishes to continue this debate. What would you prefer to do?

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

CAYMAN TURTLE FARM (1983) LIMITED'S FINANCIAL STATEMENTS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST MARCH, 1987, AND ANNUAL REPORT FOR THE FISCAL YEAR 1ST APRIL, 1986 TO 31ST MARCH, 1987 FROM THE CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, Honourable Members, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the accounts of the Cayman Turtle Farm (1983) Limited for the year ended 31st March, 1987, which accounts have been audited.

MR. PRESIDENT:

So ordered.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, in addition to the audited accounts which I have just laid on the Table of this Honourable House, I would like to make a few remarks on the operation of the Cayman Turtle Farm for the past fiscal year 1986/1987.

This past year saw financial improvement at the Farm - improvement over previous years. In this last financial year, we realised a net income of $31,010. The Government subsidy of $95,000 required was substantially less than the $225,000 necessary the previous year, and the $317,000 the year before that.

Tourism remained the mainstay of the Farm, with 63.2 per cent of all income being derived from either admission fees or sale of goods in the gift shop. The number of tourists visiting the Farm increased from 65,553 in 1985/1986 to 75,653 during this past fiscal year, or a 15.4 per cent increase. Gross income per visitor including admission and shop purchases rose from $6.95 to $7.10.

Wholesale of meat also increased during the past year, due mainly to increased production. The price of stew meat was raised from $3.00 to $3.50 per pound in November of 1986. During the year, 2,918 turtles were processed, having a total live weight of 171,874 lbs. From these animals, 62,712 lbs of stew, 15,763 pounds of steak and 3,797 lbs of fins were produced. The demand for edible products continues to exceed production, and all such products are consumed locally. The loss of the American market continues to make it impossible to sell the shell products and consequently a net loss is incurred for each pound of turtle raised. Herd weight excluding breeder stock increased marginally from 342,423 lbs to 353,682 lbs, with the number of turtles decreasing from 16,659 to 15,490. The number of hatchlings produced was 8,469.

During November of 1986, 1,906 yearling turtles were tagged and released into local waters, bringing to 14,503 the total number of turtles released since 1980.

Five Kemps Ridley nested in 1986 and a number of hatchlings were produced. It had been intended that the majority of these hatchlings would be returned to the United States. However, due to concerns of the possibility of contamination of the United States' Ridley stock, the required United States' C.I.T.E.S. import was so restrictive that the Galveston Laboratory felt they were unable to comply with the terms of the permit. The hatchlings continue to be maintained at the Farm with 36 ten month old animals remaining at the end of the year.

A pilot pig rearing project was introduced in August 1986, raising 14 hogs in one 50 foot diameter turtle tank. Growth rates were excellent, using commercial feeds, but the size of the hog produced was too large for the local market. This project was abandoned in March 1987.

Also in March this year, the Farm closed out its shrimp rearing operation. While it had been shown that shrimp could be raised in the unused turtle tanks, it would have been necessary to increase the scale of operations and invest in additional research and development for the project to be economically viable. A major factor in the decision to terminate the shrimp project was the interest of an Irish Norwegian company beginning a large scale shrimp farm on the Farm's unused property. An agreement was eventually signed earlier this year with the Caribbean Sea Farms to lease 7.7 acres of the Farm's property for establishing such a shrimp farm.

In December 1986 construction started on a flora and fauna exhibit and snack bar, funded by a $100,000 loan from the Cayman Islands Government. These facilities, when completed (and they will be completed by the end of this month and the facility opened) will provide visitors with the opportunity to view larger types of local fauna including the crocodile, iguana, agouti, higuatee and the Cayman parrot, as well as a number of local plants. Visitors will also have the opportunity to purchase snack type foods including turtle burgers, hamburgers, hot dogs, french fries, ice cream and drinks. It is anticipated that this facility will significantly enhance the attractiveness of the Farm to visitors. Space within the snack bar will be made available for the gallery display, allowing for expansion of the gift shop.

Mr. President, the Farm in recent time has made steady progress in its financial operation, and should, in the new year, reach a break even position without the need for further Government subsidy.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, I wonder if you would permit a question.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I am sorry, it is not permitted, it is not for discussion. Would you put your question in writing, please.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Under what Standing Order is that, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Unless there is a motion for discussion, unless a motion is made, it cannot be discussed. Please put your question in writing. We now move to Questions.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR BODDEN TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR TOURISM AVIATION AND TRADE

NO. 85: Would the Honourable Member state whether Cayman Airways Limited's flight crew or maintenance staff examined the Shorts SD 3-30 aircraft recently acquired by Cayman Airways Limited, before its purchase?

ANSWER: Yes, the aircraft was checked by Cayman Airways Limited's maintenance staff.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Did any of the flight crew check the aircraft before it was purchased?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

No, Mr. President, none of the flight crew checked the aircraft before its purchase. I understand from the company that arrangements had been made for one of the senior pilots to accompany the director of maintenance for the inspection, but for one reason or another the senior captain who was appointed to do so was not able to make that trip. So it was only checked by the maintenance staff.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Were the flight crew brought into the decision making, and did they have any input in the purchase of the aircraft?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Mr. President, I am not aware whether the flight crew was brought into the decision making process for deciding to acquire that type of aircraft. That information I do not have, because this deals with inspection of the aircraft before its purchase.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Is it not unusual to purchase an aircraft and not have the flight crew have some input?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Mr. President, the decision of a company to purchase any particular type of aircraft is usually conducted by all sectors of a company - maintenance, management, possibly flight crew, yes, and feasibility studies are developed by specialists and professionals in that area. I would not say that, in purchasing this particular type and size of aircraft, providing that management were satisfied and that the reports from the maintenance directors were favourable and all other things being equal, it was very unusual for the crew not to have some input there.

MR. PRESIDENT:

If there are no further supplementaries, Question 86, please.

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR BODDEN TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR TOURISM AVIATION AND TRADE

NO. 86: Would the Honourable Member state what load restriction on passengers has been imposed on the Shorts SD 3-30 aircraft of Cayman Airways Limited on Grand Cayman - Cayman Brac - Little Cayman flights.

ANSWER: Due to fuel not being available in the Sister Islands, the Shorts SD 3-30 aircraft has a weight restriction by having to take on sufficient fuel in Grand Cayman for the entire operation. In terms of actual passengers, this naturally depends upon their weight and amount of baggage. However, a minimum of eight passengers can be carried to and from Little Cayman, a minimum of 22 passengers from Grand Cayman to Cayman Brac and a minimum of 25 passengers from Cayman Brac to Grand Cayman.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

A supplementary. I am sure whether it is a typographical error, but the word "minium" must have been "maximum". Could I have that clarified?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Mr. President, the maximum that the aircraft could carry would be the 30 seats that are available. The numbers that I have given are the totals and they are guaranteed passage under the circumstances I just outlined. Whether we say minimum or maximum, the number of passengers who can be accommodated under these circumstances are set at the numbers I have given, eight to Little Cayman, 22 to Cayman Brac, and 25 from Cayman Brac.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

I still say that "minimum" must be used incorrectly here. It is misleading me, and I imagine that it is misleading the rest of the Members of the House. I do not think it is intentional in any respect, but you could not use minimum there because you do not know how many people you are going to have on each flight. You could have one, you could have six, you could have fifty. What I am trying to find out is what is the allowable load out of Little Cayman. I am sure the Honourable Member will agree with me that it is eight.

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Yes, Mr. President, that is what I am saying. The allowable load out of Little Cayman is eight. However, I should point out that if there are above eight passengers with their baggage - in other words if there are 12 passengers, none of whom have baggage, 12 could be accommodated.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I am aware of that, but it is quite unusual to have eight or 12 passengers without any baggage. So what I am really trying to get at is what was the limitation that was imposed on the Trilander with regard to operating from or to Little Cayman airport? Could she take the 16 which she could hold, or was she restricted to eight also?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Mr. President, the Trilander could take 12 out of Little Cayman. Although it had 16 seats, they could not all be used because of weight limitations, so the Trilander could take 12 passengers out of Little Cayman.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

So we are fifty per cent worse off having the Shorts on the Little Cayman run than we were with the Trilander?

MR. PRESIDENT:

That is a statement - if you could put it as a question and get the Honourable Member to reply, that will be all right.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Yes, Sir, I am going to put it as a question now. Would the Honourable Member agree with the House that the only thing that may have been improved on the Little Cayman operation on the Shorts over the Trilander is the use of the lavatory facilities.

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

No, Mr. President, I could not agree with that, Sir. I think if you compare those two aircraft from a passenger comfort point of view, no comparison can be made. The Shorts 3-30 offers every convenience and comfort to the travelling public, including toilets.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

That may be true, Mr. President, but the economics are that we have expended approximately 700 per cent more money to have those facilities, without giving us the load factor.

My next question is that on the load factor from Grand Cayman to Cayman Brac there is a restriction according to the answer of 22 passengers. The Trilander could normally take 16. In view of the added money that we have spent to acquire the Shorts, which is about 700 per cent more than the Trilanders were sold for, is this not a large amount of money to expend for so little a return?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Mr. President, the Trilander also had restrictions out of Grand Cayman to Cayman Brac and Cayman Brac to Grand Cayman. There were 16 seats on board the aircraft, but very, very seldom could it accommodate 16 passengers. Sometimes it was 10, 12 or 14, depending on the volume of baggage. I do not feel that you can isolate one sector of a route, of a very short route like that and make a comparison as to the cost that was spent, because the benefits on the other sectors far outweigh the penalties on the short sector between Little Cayman and Cayman Brac. I think the travelling public of these Islands are pleased with the type of aircraft that is being provided. It is a substantial improvement, and it was well worth the money.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I am quite aware of the things the Honourable Member has said. The Trilander did on many, many occasions take 16 back and forth. I know the load factors. All I am trying to do is to establish a basis for the arguments that I will be putting up on Cayman Airways later on. So my next question is, how have we benefited with regard to cargo capacity of the Shorts versus the Trilander?

MR. PRESIDENT:

I do think we are going outside the question, which was in relation to passengers.

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

I can answer that, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

No, I would rather - we have got quite a number of questions in front of us.

The First Elected Member for the Sister Islands?

CAPT. MARRY S. KIRKCONNELL:

Mr. President, I wonder if the Honourable Member could state, if and when fuel is available in Cayman Brac, what quantity will improve out of Little Cayman?

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

To answer that question, Mr. President, I think it will touch on the reply to the next question that is coming up, as these two questions on the Order Paper today were almost identical. But to reply to that supplementary, if you have allowed it, whenever fuel is available in Cayman Brac this would increase the number of passengers that can be taken out of Little Cayman from eight to approximately 16.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Should we go forward to the next question which is number 87 please?

THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR BODDEN TOWN TO ASK THE HONOURABLE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR TOURISM AVIATION AND TRADE

NO. 87: Would the Honourable Member state how many passengers the Shorts 3-30 aircraft of Cayman Airways Limited carries to and from Grand Cayman to Cayman Brac and to and from Grand Cayman to Little Cayman on each flight?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I always like to save the time of the House if I can, and with respect to question number 87 I accept that the answer has been given in number 86, and answered to my satisfaction. All I am trying to establish is that we are only 700 per cent worse off with the Shorts.

Thank you, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

If the Honourable Member cares to reply, I think probably he has got a right to say something, but I am not encouraging you.

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Just that I do not agree with his percentages, Sir.

but we will come to that later, I am sure.

MR. PRESIDENT:
question 87?

Thank you. Are there any supplementaries on

Member for West Bay, please.

In that case, question 88, the Second Elected

THE SECOND ELECTED MEMBER FOR WEST BAY TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FOURTH ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR DEVELOPMENT AND NATURAL RESOURCES

NO. 88: Will the Honourable Member make a statement regarding the recent change in the practice in relation to the definition of the seaward boundary of parcels of land?

ANSWER: Early after land registration began in these Islands in the mid-1970's, the question of seaward boundary arose. According to customs here in the Cayman Islands, the division between Crown foreshore and private ownership was taken at high water mark which, by definition, is the line of the median high tide between the ordinary spring and neap tides, or a mid-way line between low and high tide. Lands and Survey on the other hand relied on a system known as "edge of vegetation" which in early times might have been accepted, but after development along the seashore started that line began moving further and further away from the sea and in some cases reached near the back door of hotels and condominiums. It was therefore not practical to continue relying on edge of vegetation to determine seaward boundary.

The matter was referred to London and the recommendation was that the Cayman Islands adopt the English system which is the high water mark, exactly what was used here until land registration came into effect. As a result of this advice, Government, in order to resolve the matter, established a committee which included the Honourable Attorney General, the Registrar of Lands and Chief Surveyor, together with lawyers and surveyors from the private sector. At the time I also discussed the matter with Members of this Honourable House meeting here in special committee to consider the Development Plan Review and other subjects.

The recommendation of the committee was that Government accept London's advice and adopt high water mark as the seaward boundary between private and Crown property. As a result, the Land Survey Regulations were amended on 5th May, 1987 to adopt the recommendation - this was reported in the press shortly afterwards.

The settlement of this issue does not affect in any way the public's right to the beach which is protected under the Prescription Law (Cap. 131), section 4. Neither does the Prescription Law convey any right on private landowners to secure their boundaries by fencing any areas of the seashore as this would impede public access.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, the term "edge of vegetation" and the use of beach is sacrosanct in this country. Can the Honourable Member explain to me how it would be possible for a citizen of this country to get to the Government House beach if the owners of Sandals prohibited him from using the beach and the owners on the other side of Government House refused him entry. How would he get to the beach?

MR. PRESIDENT:

Although detailed, I think that is acceptable as it illustrates the general question. If you are able to answer it, would you please do so.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, I mentioned in the last paragraph that the public's right to beach and foreshore was protected under the Prescription Law. The Prescription Law at section 4 reads as follows:

"4(1) When any beach has been used by the public or any class of the public for fishing, or for purposes incident to fishing, or for bathing or recreation, and any road, track or pathway passing over any land adjoining or adjacent to such beach has been used by the public or any class of the public as a means of access to such beach, without interruption for the full period of twenty years, the public shall, subject to the provisos hereinafter contained, have the absolute and indefeasible right to use such beach, land, road, track or pathway as aforesaid, unless it shall appear that the same was enjoyed by some consent or agreement expressly made or given for that purpose by deed or writing."

(2) No act or other matter, whether submitted to or acquiesced in or not, shall be deemed to be an interruption within the meaning of subsection (1) if the same took place between the 6th day of February, 1954 and the 30th day of December, 1955."

MR. W. MCKEEVA BUSH: Mr. President, will the Honourable Member give an undertaking to this House that he, by whatever means, will let land owners in this country know of this provision? There is already evidence that there are some jacks in this country, and as I have said before the use of beaches has been sacrosanct in this country, and people hold it dearly. In order not to have any uprising on this matter, I think the public should clearly be made to understand the position.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think you have said enough now. The question is, will the Honourable Member make a statement accordingly?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I will endeavour to have a press release issued on this particular matter.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. President, would the Honourable Member state how the department intends to determine the high water mark on an area bordered by ironshore?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, if at high tide the water does not come over the ironshore, then the boundary goes to the end of the ironshore.

MR. PRESIDENT: The First Elected Member for Rodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. RODDEN: Would the Honourable Member advise the House in what year was the cadastral system was completed on the Seven Mile Beach?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: I am told, Mr. President, that it was in 1976.

MR. PRESIDENT: The Third Elected Member for West Bay caught my eye.

MRS. DAPHNE L. ORRETT: Mr. President, could the Honourable Member state whether or not it is incumbent upon all developers of properties along, say, Seven Mile Beach or any other beach area, to reserve access for members of the public along the edge of property to get to and from the beach?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, that is a requirement for all new development along places like Seven Mile Beach. They must provide public access to the beach.

MR. JAMES M. RODDEN: You have stated that the Cadastral was completed 11 years ago on most of these beach areas. Was not all the foreshore surveyed at that time and plotted in the registry index maps?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, the Cadastral Survey made certain marks along the foreshore, but the actual survey was done afterward by Lands and Survey, and those are the surveys that were recorded.

MR. JAMES M. RODDEN: Is the Honourable Member telling this House that if a piece of land on Seven Mile Beach was bought after 1976 when the cadastral system was completed, that survey was not accurate?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: That is correct, Mr. President.

MR. JAMES M. RODDEN: Well, if it was not accurate, why has it been allowed to continue with Government being given absolute title to those lands for eleven years?

MR. PRESIDENT: I take that one as the last question, we really are straying a long way from the original question, but please take this one.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, I do not think that I can term it not to be accurate, it is a matter that the cadastral survey markers were there for a particular purpose, to distinguish the boundary between one property and another. Where the actual foreshore boundary reached was a completely different matter. The Cadastral Survey had no prerogative over that. That was a matter for Lands and Survey, when the survey began. If someone wanted to register his property, then a survey would have to be made and the Lands and Survey would have to approve or disapprove of the foreshore boundary as stated in that survey. This is where the problem arose, and it was a problem for many, many years, 10 to 15 years. This is the reason why it was necessary, at this particular time, to have the whole thing settled once and for all.

NOTICE OF MOTION

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Mr. President, I would request of you as President of this House to agree that we move a motion asking for additional time, because this is a matter of great importance to the people of this country, and we should not curtail this in any respect.

MR. PRESIDENT: I understand that. If you will yield to me for a moment?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Yes, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think that perhaps the subject is widening into something which could more properly be a debate rather than taken at Question Time. I would therefore be entirely ready to accept a motion put and to waive the requirement for five days' notice or whatever so that it may be taken during this meeting - I think that would be the way to cover it.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I really appreciate that move on your part, Sir, and I would like to move a motion at this point that notice be waived - I do not remember exactly what Standing Order it applies to - and that we be allowed to bring a motion to the floor of the House to debate the change in the high water mark which has been brought about. I would appreciate that very much.

MR. PRESIDENT: I think the way we do it is if the motion can be formulated in writing, and we will take it as soon as it is ready. We will put it into the order paper and I will accept that notice be waived.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: I thank you very much for that, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT: If there are no other supplementaries on that question - the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: I would like to ask the Honourable Member if all the maps, relating to the boundaries of lands which are adjacent to the water, have been changed to reflect the difference between the system under which they were adjudicated (that is, edge of vegetation) to the new change which has been made.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am sorry, I could not actually follow that as a question. Perhaps you could reformulate it for me?

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Yes, Mr. President.
Perhaps if I make a statement.

MR. PRESIDENT: No, I would rather you did not make a statement. I would rather you reformulated the question.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: I will ask the question again. Have all the maps, relating to lands on the waterfront, been changed so as to reflect the difference between the edge of vegetation system which is now used to determine the seaward boundary and the old system, or the system which has been introduced, of the high water mark?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: No, Sir, that has not been done yet. That is a responsibility now of Lands and Survey. As each property comes up for boundary demarcation this exercise is done if the seaward boundary is anything other than at high water mark.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, can the Honourable Member say if it is the intention to change the boundaries on these plots which have already been adjudicated?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON: Mr. President, the custom in the Cayman Islands has always been to demarcate seaward boundary by high water mark. All the surveyors of years gone by have used that as the demarcation line. It was only since the beginning of land registration in these Islands, in the 1970's, that the question arose - that rather than using high water mark the measurement should be by the edge of vegetation. Because of this, that demarcation line began to move away from the sea and up, landwards, so that the original high water mark which was perhaps used by the Cadastral Survey when they were defining boundaries, were no longer applicable as far as Lands and Survey were concerned. They were using edge of vegetation and so there was a big variation between what was originally the seaward boundary and what Lands and Survey were saying now was the seaward boundary. This caused a bit of concern by landowners, and this is the reason why the matter had to be settled. Thus we returned to the original line of measurement which is the high water mark. We are not changing anything that was not custom in the Cayman Islands in days gone by. The edge of vegetation was not customary, the highwater mark was customary.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:
Honourable Member.

A supplementary following out of the answer by the

The Honourable Member said that in some cases the high water mark reached near the back door of hotels and condominiums. Under the Planning Law, these buildings have to have a set back of, usually, more than 100 feet from what was known as high water mark. Could he advise this House which hotels and condominiums are so affected? This would have to be on Seven Mile Beach, so would he advise this House which condominiums and hotels have the water line up to the back doors?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

I am sorry, Mr. President, what I said was that the edge of vegetation had moved away from the edge of the sea and in some cases reached the back doors of hotels and condominiums. Not the high water mark, the edge of vegetation. And you know, cleaning the beach year after year you go further up towards the road, and before you know it the edge of vegetation goes right up against the hotel's back door and so on. That is what I meant, Mr. President, not the high water mark.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Member for George Town.

It is a dramatic description! The Second Elected

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

I am glad you recognised me, because it seems as if certain Members of this House completely monopolise Question Time.

MR. PRESIDENT:

No, please, you must leave that to the possibility I did not fail to recognise you, please.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

There are twelve of us here, Sir.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Let us not get into contention on this. That remark was not necessary. I would ask you please to proceed with your supplementary.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, a sensible supplementary.

Following on from my previous supplementary, on the ironshore, normally throughout the year the high water mark is the same as the low water mark. My question again is would the private ownership of property on the ironshore extend to the edge of the water, in a case like that?

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, if I, in my layman's way, can explain it. You have low ironshore where the water washes over at high tide, while the same principle would apply to that as does on the sandy beach. But there are some ironshores that are high above the water. If at high tide the sea does not come up sufficiently to wash over the ironshore, then the seaward boundary of that private property goes right to the edge of the ironshore where it falls into the sea.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

So, Mr. President, the point I was trying to get clarified was whether in a case like that the public would have any access at all along that ironshore, since technically the property would be private right to the edge of the high water mark.

HON. VASSEL G. JOHNSON:

Mr. President, the Prescription Law would apply to ironshore as it does to sand beach, provided the public had enjoyed that sea coast, or sea shore over a number of years, in other words if it had been a public thoroughway then it would continue to be so. But I do not think we would expect that in private property that this would apply.

MR. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, a supplementary.

What good use would a right of way be if you wanted to sit on the beach?

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think that is a hypothetical question. Perhaps we might go to the last question just before our normal 11:00 o'clock closing time. Question Number 89, please, from the Elected Member for East End.

THE ELECTED MEMBER FOR EAST END TO ASK THE HONOURABLE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL RESPONSIBLE FOR HEALTH EDUCATION AND SOCIAL SERVICES

NO. 89: Will the Honourable Member say whether or not it is correct that in the library of the Middle School there are certain books that are in contravention of the Penal Code?

ANSWER: To the best of my knowledge there are no books in the Middle School Library that are in contravention of the Penal Code. However, if the Member has knowledge of any such books, it would be appreciated if he could provide such information to the Portfolio to enable us to have the matter investigated.

SUPPLEMENTARIES:

MR. JOHN B. McLEAN:

Mr. President, just to say that I will be happy to do that.

MR. PRESIDENT:

There appear to be no further supplementaries. In that case the House will now go into Committee to study a Bill entitled the Companies (Amendment) Bill, 1987 and certain other Bills in item 4 of the Order Paper.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS
BILLS

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE

MR. CHAIRMAN:

The House is now in Committee.
Would the Clerk state each Bill in order and read its clauses.

THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

CLERK: THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1987

- CLAUSE 1. SHORT TITLE
- CLAUSE 2. SUBSTITUTION OF SUBSECTION 6 TO 11.
- CLAUSE 3. AMENDMENT OF SECTION 13.
- CLAUSE 4. AMENDMENT OF SECTION 20.
- CLAUSE 5. SUBSTITUTION OF SUBSECTION 25 TO 27.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

The question is that clauses 1 through 5 stand part of the Bill?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, I, for one, would like some input from the Honourable Second Official Member with regard to us asking some questions as we go along.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Mr. Chairman, I have no problem with attempting to answer questions. I would make it plain that this was, as the Honourable First Official Member said, drafted by, or on the advice of, a committee from the private sector, and it may be that I cannot answer all the reasons behind an amendment, but I will certainly do my best if Members want to ask questions.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, I accept that reply very generously, but this is a technical law, and I would crave time of the House to enable us to fully understand it before we vote. I have not had time to consult a lawyer on this. There are certain things that I do not fully understand, and that is why I am seeking leave of the House to get information on as we go along.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

I think, Mr. Chairman a point to remember here is that the committee was established by Executive Council some two years ago as a result of a request by Government to Professor Morse who is a well known company lawyer on the practical side as well as the academic side. We put together a team of private sector practitioners comprised of lawyers, trust managers and people in the accounting field. The committee has gone through many sections of the Companies Law. They did put forward to us about nine months or maybe a year ago some other quick amendments which were basically to make the Companies Law more attractive quickly. This is the second batch of amendments which are being put to us.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. Chairman, I fully accept that, because the Companies Law is a law that is very beneficial to the country, and I am quite aware that it needs a lot of amendments. But to tell us that, because Professor so-and-so or a committee of so-and-so has done this or that, we should not question points as we go along. That would be ridiculous. There would be no reason in our being here if all we had to do was just rubber stamp everything put before us without question. I am sorry that I may be unable to get the replies to my questions that I wanted to get.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

No, I do not think there is any intention not to reply to your questions, or to ask you not to ask them. I think the best thing is that you should put them as we go along. If they are highly technical questions and require reference outside, we shall simply adjourn on this particular Bill in Committee until the information can be got. All right?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

I appreciate that, but here is my copy of the Bill. Now maybe I am either a complete idiot or a fool, but there are a lot of changes. I have taken time with the old Law to compare it word for word with the new Law. There are so many changes in this that it is difficult for me as a layman to fully understand it in the few days I have had this in my possession.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think there are a number of us who share this problem. It is a highly technical Bill, as you say, but I think nevertheless that as we go through and take clause by clause, you should put your questions, and, as I say, they will be taken. If they involve technical replies which need outside help, that can be brought in and we will defer as necessary. So I think perhaps then we will go back and we will take it the Clerk has called clause 1.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Well, under section 20, subsection 3 has been deleted in its entirety. Now could the House be informed as to why this was done? What do we gain by deleting this section?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: If that is a question directed to me, it is not one that I can answer because it reflects a policy decision that lay behind the committee. I can explicate or attempt to explicate sections. I cannot explain the policy behind them. If I could just give an example of the sort of question that I can field - the Second Elected Member for George Town raised an issue in his second reading speech the other day. When we come to that, having looked at it, I am prepared to answer the issue and I hope reassure him on that. That was a legal point of whether the law still does what it was supposed to or what it was wanted to do. But as to why this was done, that really falls outside my remit.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON: Mr. Chairman, in having a look at this Bill, I too recognise that it is a very technical, but I had sufficient time to seek some legal advice on it, which I did. Even with the legal advice I still found it fairly difficult to comprehend. It is a very technical piece of legislation, and, as laymen, if we were given another week to read this through I am not sure that we would be any wiser or more informed. However, whatever the House decides on this I am prepared to go along, but I would rather go along with your suggestion, Mr. Chairman, that we take it clause by clause and raise whatever points we may have on each clause.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think it may take some time to do it this way because I think the Honourable First Official Member will be cross-checking backward and forward on the reports and so on. But clearly if we take time, well, so be it.
On this first question, which related to the deletion of section 20(3), perhaps while the Honourable First Official Member is looking up that - the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

MRS. DAPHNE L. DRRETT: What I was thinking of is whether or not we could continue as we did when we met last, that is as we go along the Clerk brings to our attention the clauses and whatever question we may have on a clause at that time we could take those clauses one at a time. As the several clauses are called there may be questions on some of those ... we could probably follow that particular procedure.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I am sure we would all like to do this as expeditiously as we sensibly can.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: If we can leave the question that I had and maybe come back to it later on. I am prepared to proceed then clause by clause. On clause 25 I have some questions.

MR. CHAIRMAN: That is also in clause 1 of the amending Bill, is it not?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Mr. Chairman, just before we go on to that, having now had a moment to look at the papers and think about the Member's question, as I understand it the proposal to amend section 20 was to remove a perceived conflict with the provisions of section 42(1) of the Companies Law. Section 20(3), which is to be deleted says that:

"Where an unlimited company or a company limited by guarantee has increased the number of its members beyond the registered number, it shall, within fifteen days after the increase was resolved on or took place, give to the Registrar notice of the increase, and the Registrar shall record the increase."

If one goes to section 42(1) of the principal law, one there sees:

"Where a company has a capital divided into shares ... notice of any increase in such capital beyond the registered capital, and where a company had not a capital divided into shares, notice of any increase in the number of members beyond the registered number, shall be given to the Registrar, in the case of an increase of capital within thirty days ... and in the case of an increase of members, within thirty days ..." ...

(not fifteen as in the other section)

... "... from the time at which such increase of members has been resolved on or has taken place; and the Registrar shall forthwith record the amount of such increase of capital or members."

So there seemed to be some conflict between the time periods specified in those sections, so my understanding is that section 20(3) is to be deleted to remove that conflict.

MR. CHAIRMAN: We are still on clause 1.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Yes, Sir. Section 25(3), we have a duplication there in the new version.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Sorry, what was that again?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Section 25(3).

"A register of companies shall be kept in which shall be entered the following particulars which shall be annexed to the memorandum of association and articles of association and articles of association ...".

So we have a duplication of "and articles of association".

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: That is one that I cannot do off the top of my head. I may be able to do it in five minutes like the last one.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: No, no, I am not asking a question, I am just pointing out we have a duplication.

MR. CHAIRMAN: It appears to have a duplication. The words "articles of association" appear to be one time too many, but there may be a reason for it.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: I see.

MR. CHAIRMAN: The point having been brought, shall we leave it to the Attorney General as being a textual amendment.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Yes, Sir, but I think it is quite evident it is a duplication, and if we are going to vote on this ...

MR. CHAIRMAN: I am all for saving words, I entirely agree.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: Could you just count me to the lines where you say the duplication is?

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think the Member intends 35(3), lines 4 and 5.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: I am grateful to the Member for that. I was in fact working off the white copy of the Bill which does not have the duplication. In the green copy there is a typographical error, the printer has duplicated it. So thank you, and we can delete that.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I happen to be working from the green copy too, but the white copy does supercede. So we have covered that point, thank you very much.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Under 25(3)(c) the words have changed quite a bit from what they were in the principal Law. The new section here it says:

"... the amount of capital of the company and in the case of a company having its share capital divided into shares of a nominal or par value ...".

Now that has a very different meaning than what is in section (c) in the principal Law, where it says:

"... the amount of capital of the company and the number of shares into which it is divided and the fixed amounts thereof?";

So in this case we have added "and in the case of a company having its share capital divided into shares of a nominal or par value ...". So we are now establishing this in the new section. It was not there before.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: As I understand it, it says the same thing but expands it and makes it quite clear, and draws the distinction between companies whose capital is not divided by shares and those which are. It then goes on to specify the sorts of shares into which the capital might be divided.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: It may not have that much significance, but there is a marked difference in the way the new version compares to the old version. I do not think we are going to accomplish anything much in this exercise, Mr. Chairman. I do not have the answers. I am sure that no Member of this House has the answers for this Bill other than possibly the Attorney General.

MR. CHAIRMAN: No, I think he has given you an answer, that it says the same thing but in more precise language. I mean, I read them both and that struck me.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: As I understand it, all it does is really clarify that particular section 25(3)(c) in a better light.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Well I think it probably does, but I am only pointing out that there is a marked difference between the meaning that exists now in the principal Law, and the meaning that we are ascribing to it in the Bill. And really I think the best thing we can do is either put this into a committee ...

MR. CHAIRMAN: But we are in committee.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: No, into a committee in there, Sir. Take it out of this committee, if we can do that. If we are to proceed, I will keep my mouth silent because I have spent a lot of time studying this, and really, I do not think I can intelligently deal with it today.

MR. CHAIRMAN: With respect, I am managing to follow it, and I have studied it much less than you have. But I think in this case ...

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Well, then you are a much more intelligent man maybe.

MR. CHAIRMAN: No, you are very kind, but do not let us get into mutual flattery.

I think the Attorney General has said that in this case it is a more clear definition. Would he wish to confirm that there is no change of intended meaning?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND: I can certainly say now that on the face of the document there appears to be no significant change in the meaning. If the Member would like me to go back and ask whether the committee intended a change or that it be looked at further, I would be very happy to do so, but at the moment it seems to me to expand and clarify a subsection that was unduly condensed in the original.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: The committee's view as I understand it is really to try to rationalise and to take section 27 and put it in a more meaningful and modern way of expressing, in this particular case, the share capital. That is what we are talking about.

MR. CHAIRMAN: If I may interject, I do not wish to play too much part in these proceedings, but this is very much lawyer's law, and that is our problem: is it not?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Quite right, and I agree with that. We are elected here to legislate the laws, but we are not lawyers. Therefore, we should be able to get counsel when we have a question on law.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I agree with that, and I think that is why we have the Attorney General here. I think we should try to proceed, and if we find it too difficult then we will try and decide what we do otherwise.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN: Very well, Sir. I will ask the next question, then.

Section 25(d), I notice this has happened many times in this new version. In the principal Companies Law, it stated the names, address and occupations of all subscribers, and I have noticed that in many cases in the new version, it has left out "and occupations". Is there a particular reason for that, or why are we doing it?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

I am told that when the committee considered this it wished it to be left out because they could see no reason for it.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Well, I cannot understand the answers I am getting. The committee said ... the committee were not Members of this House.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

That is a perfectly fair point to make, if your point is that occupations ought to be in, if you think so, then move an amendment and we will debate it.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

No, Sir, I am not trying to confuse the Law, because I do not have that much of a technical input. I am only hoping there is someone here who could give me the technical input. I am raising the point that it has worked in the principal Law for however many years we have had it on the books, so why are we changing these. There must be some good reason for the committee's suggestion. There must be some reason to make these changes. Can someone not give it to me in laymen's or legal terms.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. Chairman, we are talking about what the register of the company should have on it. In this particular case, the principal Law talks about the names and addresses and occupation and subscribers of the memorandum of association and the number of shares taken by each subscriber. In the new amending version we are (that is the committee - and I agree with them) saying the names and addresses of the subscribers in the memorandum of association and the number of shares taken by each subscriber. I think that is the important factor, not the occupation of the individual. It is who subscribed and how much they subscribed to in the memorandum, and the number of shares taken by each subscriber. Not his occupation. His occupation was not deemed to be necessary.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Well, maybe I can accept that, but there must be a reason for it. If it was used for identification purposes (and it has worked for, say, forty years in the principal Law) is there any real good reason to take it out. If you are saying that for brevity's sake it is being taken out, fine.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

I think the view is that it is not necessary, so why have it. Why should we have every register with the occupation of the individual? If Tom Jefferson is the subscriber to a memorandum and he has fifty shares, why do you need to know that Tom Jefferson is X,Y,Z of West Bay? What is important is that on the register of the company Tom Jefferson has subscribed to fifty shares. His occupation is meaningless.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Well, maybe you have a point, maybe you are right. Maybe we should also take it out of the Election Law where the occupations are listed.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

But we are talking about the Companies Law ...

MR. CHAIRMAN:

I think you seem to have accepted that one.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Section 25(4)(i). That is an entirely new section, although it does embody some of what was in the original subsection (4). The principal Law did not have the (i), (ii) and (iii).

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Perhaps I might just stop the Member there. The principal Law was amended in 1977, which introduced section 25(4)(i) and (ii) to make the fee charging system more elaborate. So this is not such a radical departure. The Member could look at my copy of the amending Law if it would help him.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Perhaps ... may I add a question to it? Does this subsection with (i), (ii) and (iii) introduce any new form of fee, or were they existing fees written in different language?

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

What this does is split up exempted companies in (ii) from any other company. The old provision just had (ii) which said in the case of any other company a fee of such and such plus a further fee of such and such. This now splits up into (ii) the exempted company fee structure, and in (iii) any other company, the fee structure.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

I think I can understand what they have done here. They have broken it down into three different areas, whereas before they covered everything under one area and naturally the fees are being increased because we have to balance this budget.

I do not want a Member to think that, as the Second Elected Member for George Town thought a while ago that I was monopolising Question Time, I am monopolising Committee time, but I have these questions, so ...

MR. CHAIRMAN:

No, you must put the questions and please do not do otherwise. But I think I understand it now, actually, too, this question of splitting the fees. Is it all right now with you?

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Yes, Sir.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Clause 5, carrying on.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

My next question is on section 26.

Clause 5, how far have we gone with that, because

MR. CHAIRMAN:

Please go ahead with that.

Which is also part of the amending clause 5.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

some words:

We have added on the fifth line of section 26(1)

"... with effect from the date of the registration of the memorandum of association ..."

(which were not in the principal Law),

"... and the Registrar shall issue a certificate under his hand and seal of office that the company is incorporated ...".

That is where it stopped in the principal Law.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

This is clause 5 referring to old ... well it creates a new section 26(1) in the fifth line the Member is saying that some additional clause has been added.

I think the words:

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

"... with effect from the date of the registration of the memorandum of association ..."

just make it absolutely plain of the time from which the company is incorporated and the time from which the registrar is bound to certify that it has been incorporated. So it will slightly change the wording of the certificate.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Right, but it has a different meaning, more or less here, does it not, because it is deemed that if you have a company and it is incorporated, that ... I mean that is the date the company went into effect.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Well it was not plain under the principal Law. If you look at the existing section 26(1) it says:

"Upon the filing of a memorandum of association a company shall be deemed to be registered, and the Registrar shall issue a certificate under his hand and seal of office that the company is incorporated ...".

Now we have:

"Upon the filing of the memorandum of association a company shall be deemed to be registered, and the Registrar shall issue a certificate under his hand and seal of office that the company is incorporated with effect from the date of the registration of the memorandum of association ...".

So it does not seem to operate a change, but it does make it plain that the certificate states the date of the registration of the memorandum of incorporation.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

But that was in the principal law anyhow.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

Well that Law, if you read it, was ambiguous and did not require the date to go into the certificate. The Registrar has to issue a certificate that the company is incorporated, but under the existing law he does not have to say with effect from when.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

date was in it, so I mean ...

But the company could not be registered unless the

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

This is simply a clarification on the certificate.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Very well, I will take your point.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

It seems to me to be a sensible thing, I mean I would not personally like to sign a document without dating it in some way, and we surely would not want the Registrar of Companies to not date, he must be required to.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

You see, the reason I am bringing that up is that if you follow that down to 26(2) there seems to be some ambiguity of what is trying to be established and what the Honourable Member just said. Because in subsection (2) "From the date of incorporation ..." we have left out in the new version "... mentioned in the certificate of incorporation ..." which was in the principal Law. So really what we are doing is tightening up one clause and loosening another, the one that follows. The two sections have to run more or less together.

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

You do not need those second words now in subsection (2) because subsection (1) makes it plain when the date of incorporation is and the fact that it is going to go into the certificate of incorporation. You do not need the words "... mentioned in the certificate of incorporation ..." in subsection (2) now because subsection (1) makes it plain that the date of incorporation is from the filing of the memorandum of association.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Well, in section 26(2) we have added on the seventh line:

"... of a natural person of full capacity irrespective of any question of corporate benefit ..."

but we have left out from the principal Law:

"... an incorporated company, and having perpetual succession and a common seal with power to hold lands ...".

So these words have been completely left out of this new proposed section 26(2).

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

What has been left out in the new section 26(2) are the words: "... all the functions of an incorporated company ...". In the principal Law it says that once you are incorporated the company becomes "... capable forthwith of exercising all the functions of an incorporated company ...".

Under the new Law, it says it becomes "... capable forthwith of exercising all the functions of a natural person of full capacity irrespective of any question of corporate benefit ...". And I would imagine that that change was made because the expression "all the functions of an incorporated company" begs the question of what those functions are. Because here you have a law which purports to be the Companies Law, and I do not think anywhere else it tells you what all the functions of an incorporated company are. Now it tells you that a company, once incorporated, can do everything that a grown up person can do. And it has not left out the words "and having perpetual succession". They were both in the principal Law, and you will see they are in the ... at least they are in the white copy of the new Law, and indeed they are in the green as well.

The perpetual succession is obviously an important point, because the thing that a company does is that it can do everything that an individual person can do save that unlike an individual it does not die, it has perpetual succession.

MR. CHAIRMAN: I think clause 2 ... the Honourable First Official Member.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. It was the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town who made a point yesterday in his contribution to the debate where he spoke about term life and that he is not sure that he could support the amendment put forward in this way.

I undertook at that time to examine the point and with permission I would be inclined to move an amendment to the present amending Bill, that clause 2(d) read:

"but excluding contracts for credit life insurance and term life insurance for a period of five years or less"

instead of:

"convertible and renewable term life contracts".

If the Member is happy with that I am prepared to move it.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Yes, Mr. Chairman, that is fine. Of course I think it would be good if you could put a limit to the amount of the term insurance that would be excluded, because you do have some very large policies that I think should be governed by whatever is in the law to govern the long term business. I think the reason for having the two types of insurance, long term and short term, is that in the long term one, the danger comes, you know when it has been on the books such a long time, but the same thing happens when you move from a small risk to a big risk; the exposure is not over time but over quantity. But I would not like him to go back to his technical advisers at this stage, so I will support the amendment he has put forward.

MR. CHAIRMAN: Could I ask you just to read that again so that the Clerk and I may write it down. It sounds to be the insertion of some words after "five years or less".

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:
now read:

That is correct, Mr. Chairman, clause 2(d) should

"adding "; but excluding contracts for credit life insurance and term life insurance for a period of five years or less other than convertible and renewable term life contracts...".

HON. RICHARD W. GROUND:

There is going to be a comma in there, Mr. Chairman, at the beginning of the addition, after "less" - that is a tiny point, a comma after less, so that the addition is preceded by a comma.

MR. CHAIRMAN:

I shall read that again and hope I get it right for the sake of clarity, because commas are obviously important in this class of business! It is proposed that clause 2(d) be amended to read:

"adding "; but excluding contracts for credit life insurance and term life insurance for a period of five years or less, other than convertible and renewable term life contracts" at the end of paragraph (a) of the definition of 'long term business';"

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 7/87
CARIBBEAN DEVELOPMENT BANK

MR. PRESIDENT: I think the Second Elected Member for Budden Town.

MR. G. HAIG BODDEN: Mr. President, I cannot support the motion which is before the House. The motion seeks Government's approval for a loan of US$3,646,000. The projects to be funded by this loan are worthy projects, but I have grave concern about how the public debt has been increased over the last three years.

From the time we had representative Government in 1832, it took 140 years for our public debt to go over the $1 million mark. In 1972 the public debt was something over $1 million dollars, but in 1972 we had a new Constitution and we saw the public debt rise. In four years the public debt had gone from just over $1 million dollars to a figure something around $7 million. In the next eight years from 1976 to 1984 we saw a small decrease in the public debt, and incidentally this was the only period in our history when public debt declined, with the exception of 1934 or 1935.

According to the estimates, which are before the House, on the 31st of December 1986 the public debt had risen from its 1984 figure of under $7 million to $14,041,153.47. In other words in that two year period the debt had doubled. On 31st December 1987 it is expected that our public debt will again have risen to $17.1 million. We are fortunate that the increase was not greater because estimates for loans in 1987 were nearly $8 million, but this is offset by repayments during that period. It is anticipated that in the budget for 1988 we will borrow a total new sum of $8,363,902.

If we approve the measures before the House at this meeting - that is the motion which was passed yesterday to borrow US$1 million and the motion before the House today to borrow US$3,646,000, together with the other anticipated borrowings or estimated borrowings in the 1988 budget - we will find our public debt in 1988 at a sum of $30,260,997, less, of course, any repayments during that year.

I may correct that, it will be more in the vicinity of $25 million. I had not deducted the repayments for 1987.

This is a sad state of affairs, in that the Government for 150 years had contained its long term debt to manageable proportions. At the end of 1984 it was a little less than $7 million, and today, three years later, instead of $7 million we are faced with an already existing amount of $17 million plus the $8 million to be borrowed during the coming fiscal year. So it will have gone from $7 million to over $25 million in a matter of three short years. This has come about not because the Government has done or has carried out that many major projects during the three year period, but simply because most of the capital spending has been borrowed money. I know some of the capital expenditure has been from local funds, but the proportion of borrowed funds to local revenue for capital expenditure is sadly out of line. This has come about because the Government over the three years has done all in its power to wreck the local economy, imposed high taxes which have dwarfed the economic growth which, had it not been dwarfed, would have given the stimulation to the economy that would have produced surplus revenue which could have been used for some of the capital projects.

By this I am talking about the experience from the past, how some capital projects such as the construction of the Middle School at a cost of over $2 million could be funded from revenue, without any borrowed funds, but this does not happen, or is not happening today. Because of my great alarm for the borrowing spree upon which this Government has embarked, I cannot find it justifiable to support this motion.

The two projects to be funded are airport development in Cayman Brac and a fire service building in Grand Cayman. If one examines this year's budget it can be seen that in the capital expenditure the new airport building at Cayman Brac is to be funded not only by the $1,757,000 to be borrowed here from Caribbean Development Bank, but is to be funded also by another loan from a different source. So there are two borrowings for airport development in Cayman Brac.

The other loan for the airport service is just as astonishing because the new airport terminal in Grand Cayman was completed in 1984 at a cost of something in the vicinity of $10 million to $12 million, with more than 50 per cent of that money coming from local revenue, and the fire service building, which is the subject of this motion, was only a small part of the entire airport development programme. And one wonders how the Government can have the guts to come here, three years later, seeking a loan for the airport fire service building when this should have been completed. This small project should have been completed in 1985 from local revenue, if the Government had been smart enough to collect that revenue.

But this only bears out the argument which I started yesterday and which I will continue tomorrow in my debate on the budget, that for the three years since 1984 the Government has not embarked on any major project except the ones that were already started, and so the public have the misconception that for three years this Government was managing the country's money well. The fact was they were not providing the infrastructure which begged to be provided over that period. This is why they come at the end of their existence, because this is the final budget before the next election, with all of these projects that should have been completed long ago, and ask us to increase the public debt.

We have been told about the great burden which now exists in servicing this debt. It is taking something like, if I remember rightly, 5.6 per cent of our recurrent revenue this year to service the debt. I may add that the servicing of the debt has arisen in proportion to the borrowings, because in 1984 it was taking something like 2.4 per cent to service the debt.

Now the Financial Secretary had to warn the Government of the heavy burden which is placed upon his shoulders to service the debt which has been amassed in recent years. I think his warning is timely, because he would not like to get himself in the position as the Island was in in 1976 when it was taking nearly 11 per cent of the recurrent revenue to service the debt.

So it is my suggestion that the Government go back to the drawing board and find out how they can finance these projects or find out whether it is absolutely necessary to go ahead, having wasted three years when these projects should have been completed. In 1984 they inherited the airport development project and in fact at that time negotiations had already taken place on the loan for the terminal building in Cayman Brac. And after three years it is still not a reality. They inherited the new airport building and all they could do was put a new plaque on it and give it a second baptism after it had been opened. But the fire service building, which was an integral part of that airport development project, has been left unbuilt. It has been left just where it was three years ago.

This motion is an indictment against the bad management of the present Government, and I cannot support it.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I think that the timing is impeccable. We suspend

AT 12:43 P.M. THE HOUSE SUSPENDED

HOUSE RESUMED AT 2:18 P.M.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Does any other Member wish to speak?
The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.
Government Motion No. 7/87 dealing with the loan in the total amount of US$3,646,000 is intended to cover the airport development in Cayman Brac at a cost of US$1,757,000, and the airport fire service building in Grand Cayman at a cost of US$1,889,00.

Mr. President, the preamble to this motion adequately states the need for this loan.:

"The loan will be utilised to upgrade and provide urgent and necessary infrastructure to deal with the needs of the general public, and safety of arrivals by air."

It goes on to say:

"AND WHEREAS if any loan is negotiated under the provisions of Section 6(1) of the Loans (Caribbean Development Bank) Law, 1977, that Law states that if sums being sought exceed CI$250,000 the consent of the Legislative Assembly is required."

In my short contribution to this motion, I will endeavour to point out the financial wisdom of Government obtaining a loan for these projects as opposed to depending on the vagaries of possible revenue collections in a world of uncertain economic conditions as we have today.

You will note that from this fourth session, perhaps right up to the next budget meeting, there will be a lot of political rhetoric spewed forth in this House, and I am sure that the listening public will be well aware of what is going on. I would not want in any way for these democratic rights of Members to be denied, but I feel that it is only fair to the listening public that they be given the true facts in matters discussed in this House and, in my short contribution, I will attempt to show both sides of the coin.

Mr. President, I have heard previous speakers object to the idea of Government obtaining loans for these projects, and at the same time, congratulate Government for commencing with the projects. This, to me, is a contradiction in terms. The answer proposed by certain previous speakers is that Government should have financed these projects from local revenue. I wonder if these speakers are indeed advocating deficit budgeting, or spending, or, indeed, expecting Government to raise taxes on the people of this country.

I ran as an independent Member of this Government, and it is not my intention to take sides with either side of this House that call themselves one team or the other. That is not my intention because I feel that the Members involved will look after themselves. I have found a number of weaknesses in the past Government's administration as I have in this one, but, Mr. President, maybe it is my intention to correct these in one way or the other at a later date.

From my knowledge of government and public financing, it would seem to me prudent for Government to finance these capital projects from loan funds at this time. There are a number of advantages which support my position in this respect, least of which is not the fact that on the basis of a gearing ratio our Government has one of the lowest debt gearing ratios of any country in the world.

One may ask the question, what is an acceptable public debt gearing ratio? My answer in turn would be to ask the question to how long is a piece of string? There is no answer to that, but the important guiding criteria in considering a government's public debt gearing or spending is the cost of servicing the debt. The Cayman Islands has a very low public debt servicing percentage of approximately between four and five per cent. We are looking at, this year, about $2.8 million to service a revenue position of $71 million recurrent revenue. Mr. President, in any terms, that is not a bad situation to be in.

I will not always stand in the House and speak favourably, because as you will note in my debate on the budget, I may find certain areas that I will not be as complimentary about.

A significant portion of Government's public debt is already self financing, and anybody going through the budget will see that about $3 million of debt is already self financing. And, Mr. President, I need not dilate on the wisdom of the building of the airport fire service building because I believe that all of us accept that this is a worthy and most needed project. Needless to say, the development of the airport in Cayman Brac is equally as important, if not more so. May I further reiterate that in the long term it is more wise to finance more of Government's capital programmes through loan capital than to attempt to do this through recurrent revenue.

However, there are also disadvantages. One of the disadvantages of pegging capital projects to annual recurrent revenues is the danger of an important project being abandoned during a slow year when revenue may fall and cannot meet the full capital costs of the projects. On the other hand, the cost of financing the servicing cost of interest and capital repayment of a loan could form a small part of recurrent revenue as we have seen here.

I am attempting to show that the most important area to be looked at, at this point, is the cost of servicing our capital programmes - to service our capital loans. This is what is important at this point. What we should have heard from previous speakers is the proportion in which our revenue has grown to the proportion of our public debt over the years. We cannot compare apples with oranges; this is not right and it gives the wrong impression.

Mr. President, in my inaugural address in this House in 1984 I said that I will always support matters coming to this House which I consider to be in the best interest of the people of the Cayman Islands and likewise will also strongly oppose any issues which I consider to be detrimental to this country.

As I said I realise that we are nearing the 1988 elections, but I feel that we should nonetheless bring to bear the necessary level headedness to debates in this House, and refrain from political rhetoric. We can leave that to our political platform, and believe you me, Mr. President, I can see this heating up from now.

I believe that this is a very good Motion, and I would be remiss in my duties to my country today if I did not support it. I give this motion my full support.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for West Bay.

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President, as in the previous Government Motion No.6/87, I rise to support the Government in this borrowing. I am not an accountant, not even a good mathematician, but I can add two and two, and know that it is four.

Mr. President, I was elected with (as one would say) this administration, and in the interim period I have had much cause to vent my anger at their actions on the floor of this House. However, I like to believe that I am a realistic and practical person and I believe in what the Government is attempting to do.

I have criticised the Government in not doing things fast enough. I have criticised it for, as it seemed to me, lack of priority, and I know that I was justified. What, then, if the Government is attempting to get on with the things that I have asked for?

Mr. President, if we look at the capital projects for 1988 we will see that it will include money for water and sewerage projects. I had my say on that yesterday afternoon, so there is no need for me to go into that now.

The Gerrard Smith airport terminal is something that is needed. A motion was tabled some months ago to get things started in Cayman Brac. I supported that motion, although it was rejected by Government. Well, here Government is putting in the necessary infrastructure.

The fire station at Owen Roberts airport is needed; the first phase of the Community College should have been done before, but let us thank God it is being started; an abattoir; a purpose built computer building; extensions to the prison; and, last but not least, Mr. President, (and again something that I feel should have been moved a long time ago) a juvenile rehabilitation centre. Mr. President, a man in his right mind who has complained that he does not get bread and then finally gets it, but does not accept it should starve to death.

A total figure of $25 million was mentioned as being our loans. I would not like it to be misconstrued, having supported the budgets in the past, how this figure of $25 million come about since November 1984. This is a compilation of loans over the years, if I am understand correctly. No political propaganda in the world can change that fact. Figures do not lie, it is people who attempt to twist them round. Therefore, I will support the moves the Government is making at this point.

As was said, what are we going to do? Raise taxes? Mr. President, the question arises, how much farther can this country go with additional taxation? The country has come close to the point where we cannot add on anything else.

We cannot complain that the economy is not booming. No man in his right mind could do that. So the overall policy is good, practical and realistic. I cannot go to my constituents and say that I have asked for these things, but that the Government did not give them to me; but now they are giving them to me I do not want them. I think I would be rejected, Sir.

I therefore support Government Motion No.7/87.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Council.

The Honourable Second Elected Member of Executive

HON. W. NORMAN BODDEN:

Mr. President, I rise to support Government Motion No.7/87, which seeks approval of this House to borrow from Caribbean Development Bank the amounts of $1,757,000 to assist with airport development in Cayman Brac, consisting of an airport terminal building, a control tower and fire station; and the amount of $1,889,000 for an airport fire station building at Owen Roberts Airport in Grand Cayman.

In reviewing the business to be dealt with at this meeting, I felt surely that this motion would easily be passed, and so I was somewhat surprised at the opposition which has been put forward.

Now I am aware that most speakers opposing the motion have said that they support the two projects and that they see them as necessities, but they object to the borrowing of the funds. Well, this position is contradictory and confusing because very clearly at this time we cannot have one without the other, and if we really want these projects then a portion of the funds must be borrowed to see them completed.

I would point out, Mr. President, that these two projects were approved in last year's estimates, but had to be brought forward because Government's application for the loan funds was not approved in time. It should also be noted that the loan funds from Caribbean Development Bank is only a portion of the total cost of these two projects. The balance of funds needed are being provided from local sources, from ordinary revenue earnings and a small loan from EDF of $550,000.

The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town, in his contribution this morning, spoke about the fire station at Owen Roberts Airport being a part of the airport development plan and that it should have been completed long ago. Mr. President, it is true that the fire station at Owen Roberts Airport was originally included in the airport development plan, but it was taken out by their Government in 1983, for reasons best known to themselves. The fact that these projects will not be completed before 1988 is not due to any neglect on this Government's part. In fact, as I said earlier, an attempt was made to start the projects in 1986 for completion this year, but the loans did not come through.

To be frank, it matters not to me that the projects will be completed in an election year, and neither do I care if they have ten official openings or baptisms, it is neither here nor there to me. What I do know, Mr. President, is that we just cannot afford to ignore the pressing needs of these very important projects any longer.

In the case of the fire station at Owen Roberts, the need is reaching a critical point. And, let me say here, only a well disciplined, dedicated department of Government, such as I find the fire service, could continue to provide a vital service to this country in such makeshift accommodations as they presently have. They are dedicated civil servants, Sir, you can believe that.

In the case of the terminal building, the control tower and the fire station in Cayman Brac, the growth in passenger traffic and the large number of international jet flights as well as increases in local services, demand that something be done. This project is necessary for the safety, comfort and convenience of the traveling public.

All governments, Sir, past and present, have borrowed in order to provide funding for most major projects, and if all the country's needs had to wait until local funds from ordinary revenue earnings could be provided, then I am afraid that the delay would be unbearably long, and completion of any worthwhile projects few and far between.

One does not have to be an expert to know that good financing is a valuable means of getting what is needed, both in Government as well as in the private sector. In my view, placing our priorities in order, I must say that these two projects must be placed high on our list. There can be no doubt that the country's economic growth is such that it can support the loan for a need that is fully justified. Furthermore, Mr. President, I do not believe that the Honourable Financial Secretary, the mover of this motion, who is a qualified economist himself, would encourage nor support any Government to go beyond the reasonable bounds of borrowing. I understand from the experts that five per cent is well within the limits of sound business practices. I do not believe that this loan will be placing any burden on the country's ability to service its debts. And so, Mr. President, for these very important reasons, I support the motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:
Council.

The Honourable First Elected Member of Executive

HON. BENSON O. FRANKS:

Mr. President, I support the motion before the House, and in doing so I would hope to deal more with the criticism, going all the way back from 1972 to 1976, that has been levelled at Government.

To get up the present, Mr. President, I intend to start just there. I am not sure, I cannot confirm, nor take issue with exactly what percentage of revenue was required to service the public debt in 1976; suffice it only to say that whatever that debt represented, whatever that debt was, it represented assets provided for the country such as this building we are now in, the Law Courts across the way, the Government Administration Building, the Police Headquarters, and tarmac roads throughout the Island such as we have.

Now, to come up to 1984, we have been told that at the end of December, or at the end of 1984, Government had $11 million in reserves. That is not what my figures tell me when I check the estimates of revenue and expenditure as recorded for that year. The surplus, or reserve, at that time was $7.7 million.

We were told also that the public debt stood at around $7 million. Mr. President, the figure at the end of 1984 was $11.687 million. Now what did exist - and this makes for nice listening if you do not know what the true figures really reveal, that is what they had said made nice listening - is that the percentage of revenue required to service the public debt at the end of 1984 was two per cent.

Again, Mr. President, I have not been able to check that, but what I have been able to check is this: that of the $11.687 million - which they had borrowed, or which was outstanding as a public debt at the time - $9.223 million did not require any repayment till 1985. That was when the first payment was required on $9.223 million of the $11.687 million. So in other words they were repaying on only $2 something million. This is why the repayment amount has suddenly mushroomed. The amount required to service that $9.223 million since 1985 and those that have come on stream up to now, is $840,646 per annum, or 1.57 per cent of the 1984 recurrent revenue. So if you add that to their two point something you end up with about four per cent. And, Mr. President, it might be reasonable to quote also that the percentage of recurrent revenue required to service the national debt in 1986 was 4.33 per cent.

It will also be noted that we only borrowed $165,000 in 1985, so that that is the only burden which could have possibly been added to the repayment schedule in 1986, but as it was that is not due for repayment until next year sometime. So the 4.33 per cent which was required in 1986 could rightly be said to have been the efforts of the previous Government.

In 1987 the percentage of recurrent revenue required to service the national debt was only 2.82 per cent, and in 1988 will be 3.94 per cent. And, I should hasten to add here that I am dealing with the amount of money required to be paid by Government, not by the self liquidating statutory bodies of Government. It has been stated by the Financial Secretary quite correctly that the total that will be required at the end of 1987 will be 5.4 per cent. I wanted to put those few points clearly, Mr. President.

There is nothing to be ashamed of in the record of borrowings of this administration. All going well, if the 1988 budget is on target and all of the borrowings come in and the projects are completed we will have spent some $10 million of borrowed funds on the sewerage and water schemes; roughly $3 million on airport development in Cayman Brac; another million plus on fire services for the airports; $2 million towards the construction of the new post office; and $2 million in roads. So, Mr. President, it will be easy to see where this money went.

One Member seemed to have some problem, I think it was the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. He indicated that he would have some problem in seeing where the money had been spent by this Government. I think the only thing he saw was the Farmers' Market. I named where the money went, but I will just point out that in addition to this, we have been able to fix the road in his constituency and have been able to build multi-purpose halls at the two schools in his constituency. It was not done in the past eight years. And there are many other projects around that we have been able to do.

The one thing I want to emphasize, Mr. President, are the true figures with regard to the loans outstanding in 1984, that was $11.687 million, not $7 million as they have said. The surplus or reserves were $7.783 million, not $11 million as has been said; and that of the $11.687 million borrowed, the repayment on the $9.223 had not started when they left office at the end of 1984.

I want to re-emphasize that the country is in a healthy position, having only to pay 2.82 per cent of recurrent revenue this year to service debts, and at the end of 1988 we will still only be paying 3.94 per cent of recurrent revenue to service the debt.

So, Mr. President, I have no hesitation in supporting these revenue measures sought by this motion. I support the borrowing of the money, and it is good business sense to get on with the construction of needed facilities, even if the money has to be borrowed when the repayments can be met comfortably from income.

Thank you, Mr. President.

MR. PRESIDENT:

If no other Member wishes to speak, the mover may wish to exercise his right of reply.

HON. THOMAS C. JEFFERSON:

Mr. President, so much has been said about the borrowings and public debt that I believe if I did not have access to figures I might be as confused as the general public are today. I think we need to get back to square one, Mr. President.

Let us talk about the project as we know it to be. It is called an airport improvement project, and the total sum for that project is approximately US$6.7 million. The details of the project begin with the acquisition of land, which has already taken place, of $107,000; the passenger terminal building and the fire station at Cayman Brac, total sum $1,764,000; and the civil works (that is the taxiway and parking apron, access road and car park, safety strip and shoulders and fencing and lighting) $1,480,000. Part of the project management cost for the Gerrard Smith Airport is $140,000. The engineering services, $125,000. The base cost of the project is US$3,616,000. We add to that, Mr. President, physical contingency of $525,000, and price contingency of $99,000. Total estimated cost of the Gerrard Smith Airport - part of this entire project - is US$4,240,000.

Now for the second part, Mr. President. The Owen Roberts International portion: the fire station building, $1,300,000; the civil works (the runway, shoulders, light aircraft parking apron) $315,000; the project management cost for the Owen Roberts part of the project, $40,000; the engineering services, $100,000. The base cost of the Owen Roberts, part of the project, specifically the fire station and its ancillary work, $1,755,000. And we add to it physical contingencies, $298,000 and price contingency of $52,000. Total overall cost of the second part of this project is $2,105,000.

The financing charge, the front end fee of $24,000, the interest during the construction period and a commitment fee of $385,000, making a total overall cost of the project of US$6,754,000. This project, Mr. President, the portion that is being funded by Caribbean Development Bank, is set out in the motion. The US$3,646,000 is broken down into two parts: part of it is what we call hard funds, $2,926,000, with an interest rate of 8.75 per cent, and a commission rate of 1 per cent, and a commitment charge of 1 per cent. The other portion is $720,000 of soft funds at 4 per cent. The two together give us our total of $3,646,000.

A Member made the point as to what became of the EDF funding and whether that already been used too? The answer, Mr. President, is that the funding by European Development Bank for this project is being used for the taxiway, the access road, the car park and the parking apron. So it all forms part of this overall project and Public Works will be carrying out that work.

Now public debt, Mr. President. Much has been said about it. Sometimes we can all use percentages while the public get lost in the interim in not knowing what these percentages really relate to. But let me take a few minutes, Mr. President, and just talk in dollars and cents what it is we mean.

Referring Members to page 98 of the estimates which displays the breakdown of the public debt in relation to loans, you will find that $2,797,066 is the total sum to be dispersed by this Government in respect of loans which form the public debt, and also the self financing loans. If we look at page 98 carefully we will find that $804,000 of the roughly $2.8 million is to be refunded to this Government by the Civil Aviation Authority as the loan relates to that particular Authority's responsibility - that is loans in respect of airport development including the fire station. And we look a bit further and find that $423,000 relates to the Port Authority borrowing. So of the $2.8 million, $1.2 of it relates to the Civil Aviation Authority and the Port Authority. The numbers are at the bottom of page 98.

Now, Mr. President, we quoted a figure in the budget address for statutory expenditure of $3.8 million. What we find on page 98, together with the sum on page 49 of $1,046,527, gives us the total figure of approximately $3.8 million, and which, if we want to use a percentage, is 5.4 per cent of the ordinary revenue. But just to be clear, the $1 million mentioned last ($1,046,527,) is not in relation to loans at all. It is broken down in this way: $750,000 for public officers' pensions and gratuities; $16,527 for widows' and orphans' pensions; and $280,000 for the pensions of the Members of the Legislative Assembly - the total that represents the percentage of 5.4 per cent for the coming year. And, Mr. President, any country in the world that can say only 5.4 per cent of their revenue is being utilised to service public debt, bless them, because they are in a very healthy position.

I do not want to get drawn in to a political battle, Mr. President, I think I will stop there.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The question will now be put on Government Motion No. 7/87.

QUESTION PUT: AGREED BY MAJORITY. GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 7/87 PASSED

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.17/87
TERRITORIAL WATERS' LIMIT

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Mr. President I beg to move Private Member's Motion No.17/87 standing in my name, which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS Great Britain has extended its territorial waters to 12 nautical miles from three nautical miles, bringing it in line with most maritime nations;

AND WHEREAS the territorial waters of the Cayman Islands are now limited to three nautical miles;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Government of these Islands take the appropriate and necessary steps through the Foreign and Commonwealth Office to consider whether the territorial waters of the Cayman Islands should be extended to twelve nautical miles."

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Mr. President, I beg to second the Motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

Private Member's Motion No.17/87 has been duly moved and seconded. Does the mover wish to speak to it?

MR. W. McKEEVA BUSH:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, Sir, the complete passage of this motion, meaning also the necessary consent of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, will I believe bring about the protection that is needed with regard to our Islands insofar as in part it will render the law enforcement arm of Government a wider jurisdiction of our territorial waters.

Mr. President, I only too well understand that the requested extension of our territorial waters will automatically bring added responsibility for this country. For instance, if something happened today outside our three mile limit we could hardly be held, and might not be expected, to respond. However, if our request is granted and something happens, say, ten miles away, even though it might be out of sight of land, it would still be within our territorial waters, and, for instance, if someone needed our help, and the vessel did not come in to our shores, it would still be our responsibility to go and offer our help because they would be within our jurisdiction.

On the other side of the coin, too often we hear of small boats of 14 feet and 16 feet easily going out just outside the three mile limit to make their connections, knowing all too well that they are outside our jurisdiction; thus and one more aspect of the drug trade is therefore being enhanced.

Hopefully, Sir, in widening our jurisdiction it will have some discouraging effect to this sort of operation, because of the 12 mile limit. Certainly we would need proper policing and probably a strengthening of our coastal patrol machinery, and hopefully we would get the kind of patrol boat that is so much needed for this type of operation; the type of boat that I have always envisioned and of which I know if we went about it the proper way we can get. When it comes to the scourge of drugs, I would hope that it could be useful to have more control in our waters, so the extension would be of benefit to us in that area alone.

When it comes to other areas, such as fishing, Sir, if the motion is carried to its full intent, then we would have some control over the 12 mile bank, which is a popular fishing ground and which is often used by outside fishing vessels. Some time ago, Mr. President, what is know as long liners were active in our waters, and also in and around the 12 mile bank. Most countries are against this type of destructive fishing method, in that all kinds of fish are hooked and caught, and because there may be miles of line oftentimes fish are destroyed. We cannot afford this type of activity in our limited fishing grounds around this country. So there must be wider jurisdiction and control.

Mr. President, the United Kingdom's three mile limit was established a long time ago, dating back to the rule of Oliver Cromwell. However, it was only earlier this year that the House of Commons approved the change to twelve nautical miles, which took effect on 1st October, 1987. It brought the United Kingdom in line with other maritime laws and conventions adhered to by most maritime nations.

International sea law codified by the 1982 United Nations Law of the Sea Treaty gives nations control over twelve nautical miles off their coasts. We know, too, that there is all sorts of pollution; dumping at sea which can contaminate our healthy environment, whether it be just rubbish, pumping bilges and cleaning oil tanks. I believe that with extending our territorial waters we will increase the Cayman Islands' ability to better curb pollution in our coastal waters.

Therefore, Mr. President, this motion is only asking that the appropriate steps be taken through the Foreign and Commonwealth Office to have our territorial waters extended to 12 nautical miles, and accordingly, I ask the House to give its consent.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

MR. LINFORD A. PIERSON:

Thank you, Mr. President.

Somehow I feel almost obliged to speak on this motion as the seconder, because a seconder has as much interest in the motion as the proposer. Under our Constitution, without a seconder, a motion would not be possible.

Mr. President, I support Private Member's Motion No.17/87 which seeks to extend our territorial waters from three to 12 nautical miles. It is my understanding, Sir, that the Foreign and Commonwealth Office will have to give their consent to this, but this is not a strange procedure as most of our laws and other major legislation have to go that route. This is not a problem to me as the mother country, the United Kingdom, has already set a sterling example by extending its territorial limit from three to 12 miles. There are many, many advantages, Mr. President, in supporting this Motion, and I would trust that the Members of this Honourable House will see these advantages and will give this Motion their full support.

One such advantage is the greater scope that will be offered to our police and enforcement officers who have to deal with the scourge of drugs in this country. There is no use in Members of this House rising to their feet and giving lip service if we are not prepared to do something tangible to deal with this major problem.

When the Second Elected Member for West Bay spoke to me about seconding this motion, I was happy to do so, because I saw many, many advantages in having our territorial waters extended. We have stood here in this House, and have criticised the system for allowing the circulation of drugs in this country, for not being able to cope with this problem more effectively, and today we have one avenue where we can try and cope much more effectively with this problem.

We are known as perhaps the best seamen in the world. Caymanians are known as the best seamen in the world. As a matter of fact our maritime heritage dates way back to early times. It is also appropriate that we should consider the facilities that this motion, if passed, will provide to our fishermen and our seamen. It will indeed protect many of the better fishing grounds around the Cayman Islands, and will make them more available to the seamen and to the fishermen in the Cayman Islands.

My contribution on this motion will be very short, as I see very few areas in which Members would not agree with a motion such as this. Perhaps, though, Mr. President, I should have waited out to see what Members' reactions would have been. However, our whole economy was built from the contribution made by the seamen of the Cayman Islands, regardless of what you may be told or what may be written in our books. The foundation for our economy was based on our maritime heritage.

Mr. President, with those few words, it gives me pleasure to support this motion.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

MR. JAMES M. BODDEN:

Mr. President, I do not wish to be accused of wasting the time of this House, therefore I support this motion. I hope that does not come as a surprise.

This motion, in my opinion, is needed. It probably should have been done a long time ago, but I am glad to see that we are dealing with it today.

The Member who just spoke said that it would go a long way in protecting some of the traditional fishing grounds. There are a few spots around the Islands fished for many a year that would fall into this range, and I too would hope that we will be protecting those grounds for our local fishermen. However, let us be frank, before we can protect those fishing grounds, we have to have equipment that can adequately deal with the protection of those areas.

I think it is common knowledge that over the years a lot of fishing vessels from foreign countries would be fishing within the 12 mile range of these Islands, particularly Japanese fishing vessels and also from some of the neighbouring countries; so we must not delude ourselves, or lull ourselves to sleep believing that once we extend the territorial waters to 12 miles that we would automatically create a wall to protect us inside those twelve miles. We will need to have adequate vessels that can patrol and keep those waters clear of poaching vessels from abroad. At the present time we do not have this, or if in fact we do they are not used effectively. The police have a boat that could deal in these waters, but I think I have only seen that police boat once at sea in the last three years, other than it being moored at the dock with perhaps two feet of moss on its bottom in Governors Sound. So it is not really going to help us if we do not have the means of enforcing these limits.

The other vessel which the police force has is a yacht which this country recently purchased to the tune of about a quarter of a million dollars. This boat will not stand up in heavy weather 10 or 12 miles offshore. It could not stand up against the fishing vessels, and God forbid should we have to fire a cannon from that craft, because the blast alone would probably vibrate and shake it to pieces. That boat was designed for pleasure use.

If we are going to bring these issues out, and they should be brought out, Mr. President, then we must think about getting the equipment with which to enforce the 12 mile limit if we put it into effect. We cannot do it at the present time. Our people from time immemorial have been merchant seamen, and they have been the best in the world. Therefore, we should give consideration to recruiting an adequate marine arm that could deal with this and other things that are happening.

It is true that if we extend the territorial limit to 12 miles we would have better enforcement with regard to the drug trade. But again I ask how are we going to enforce against the drug trade if the one boat that we have, which could be used in heavy seas, is gathering moss 99 per cent of the time at the dock? And the other one is being used as a luxury vessel, probably to take high placed police personnel on fishing trips. I do not know what it will really be used for, I can only imagine. I have seen the other one used on one occasion in the last three years. I think this participated in the pirates landing about two years ago.

So the point I am trying to make is that we must not delude ourselves into believing that once we extend the territorial waters to 12 miles that it will be an end to drug traffic, or that it will be an end to all our problems with foreign fishing vessels, and everything else. If we extend the limit, it will only be the beginning. I support the measure, but I would wish these things to be noted.

The drug traffic is, I would say, is probably rampant within the 12 mile zone around this country, and, in my opinion, is even within our very close coastal waters. But, again, usually we do not hear of any cases of arrest for smuggling inside the three mile zone, so it will be much worse when we get the 12 mile zone.

While on this subject, Mr. President, I would even like to see this motion broadened to include the 200 mile economic zone which a lot of countries in the Caribbean and other parts of the world have adopted. It is true that if we were to adopt the 200 mile economic zone, there would probably only be one direction of the compass in which we could go. But at least we would go the midway point between some of the countries in this area and we would gain a lot of economic benefit for the future. It has been dealt with before, it was something that was the basis of a lot of discussion in the 1980-84 Government. Unfortunately it was not done at that time, therefore I would be very glad to see the present administration build, once again, on what was started by the Unity Team Government, and to try to bring the economic zone into being.

To my knowledge, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office has not really placed any restrictions on us in this respect, and would, in my opinion, be helpful in getting this established. Therefore, Mr. President, I do support this motion, but I wish to voice the words of caution, as I have, in saying that once it is done we must not think that we have solved all problems. Further, I would like to see this extended to cover the 200 mile economic zone.

Thank you.

MR. PRESIDENT:

The Honourable Third Official Member of Executive Council.

HON. J. LEMUEL HURLISTON:

Mr. President, I rise on behalf of Government to indicate how pleased we are to find ourselves in the position of being able to support Private Member's Motion No. 17/87 entitled Territorial Waters' Limit.

As we have heard the motion seeks for Government to consider whether the territorial waters of these Islands should be extended from their present three nautical miles to a new limit of 12 nautical miles in keeping with the recently expanded territory approved in the United Kingdom.
