Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I fully support this Motion, and I congratulate the Mover and Seconder for bringing it. I have always appreciated the experience and expertise of the Second Elected Member for George Town. I think that no one more appropriate than he could have brought this Motion.

There are many problems within our society that many times we do not address. There have been problems that have existed for a long time. The Motion is very precise in the recitals and Whereas clauses, and it sets out what I think will go a long way towards improving health in the Cayman Islands. While smoking is permitted under our Law, and persons who wish to smoke, naturally, have a right to smoke, on the other hand, this will give a measure of protection to persons who do not smoke and who choose not to do so.

It may be that in the mechanics of putting this into place, specific buildings may have to be looked at to see where some agreement can be reached so that areas made smoking and nonsmoking are reasonable. We know the airlines have stopped all smoking or international routes, and we tried to implement this at the airport sometime back. We have provided a specific area for persons who wish to smoke. That is their right, but nicotine (like many of the other nouns that end with "ine"—caffeine, and all the other ones) does have side effects. I am sure that the Honourable Member who proposed this, and the Seconder, will see that it is reasonable and tolerable because some of the places are smaller and maybe built differently, and special considerations will have to be taken into account.

The other areas of the operative parts of the Motion, the three of them in relation to sale and promotion advertisement, we know that this already exists with liquor and this is an extension of that. It is important that we now come in line with what is the accepted international standards in relation to the use of tobacco products, at least in the Western Hemisphere, and in Western Europe.

What I would say is that I understand that it is possibly one of the most difficult habits to give up. Especially within the schools we have tried through different programmes to ensure that the younger generation keeps as far away from smoking as possible. I do know that the efforts which have been put out by the service and charitable clubs have had effect. I have had to explain on several occasions to my own two children the picture which shows what one's lung would look like after a period of smoking, so I know that there has been impact there in the schools.

I think the Motion is good, and I am sure that it will be dealt with in such a way that what is done in areas, such as the smaller bars and restaurants, will be reasonable and that it will be in the interest of everyone.

Once again, I commend the Honourable Mover and Seconder, who are my colleagues on the A Team, and I support this Motion. Thank you.

The Speaker: Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Growing up in the 1950s, I can look back and remember the handful of women who were smokers—and they were considered wild women. It was all right for the several hundred males who smoked—but it was a sin. Over the years time has changed, and smokers are readily accepted.

Some people will argue that smokers have rights. But, often times, they lack responsibility. Because of this lack of awareness, and lack of consideration for others, and because of the representation that the Mover and I have had from a lot of our constituents, we felt compelled to present this Motion to all Honourable Members of this House.

This past Monday night I listened closely to the Open Line programme aired on Radio Cayman, and I appreciate all the listeners that took the time to phone in to offer their support. I must say that this was, perhaps, one of the most readily supported programmes on Open Line, where most listeners seemed to be in favour of the No Smoking Motion proposed here.

In the citation we laid out the health problems associated with smoking and today, more and more of the public are aware of the dangers, and we hope that we will be able to increase the awareness of these dangers by some of the resolutions that are placed here today. We are not saying in our resolutions that we go to extremes in all public places, we are just saying that smoking areas are provided. This does not necessarily mean that it will be sectioned off, where one has a complete wall separating smokers and nonsmokers. I think that what we are saying here is that in public places, such as offices and enclosed work places, in order for employees not to have to go outside to smoke, that some area be provided with a fan to extract the smoke so that those who do smoke can do so without disturbing the nonsmokers.

In restaurants and bars, I think concern has been expressed about being able to separate smokers and nonsmokers. Again, with heavy extractor fans I feel that this would be possible. But all that we are asking for in the resolve section (a) of this Motion is just to have a designated smoking area.

I travelled earlier this summer to Spain, and in the business section of the plane (the flight was about 9 hours) in the designated smoking area there was hardly any smoke. I was a bit curious because the stewardess announced that when it was time to smoke after take off, that fans were provided and it would be of no discomfort to nonsmokers. Because of my curiosity, and being aware of this Motion, I questioned the stewardess and she informed me that those fans are capable of extracting all smoke in one minute. Once those fans were working and a smoker started to smoke, the cabin would be cleared of smoke. This was not saying that were not completely exposed to the second hand smoke, but there are fans available to eliminate the second-hand smoke.

I do not think that we have to go to extremes. Several years ago we visited a large manufacturer with about 5,000 employees and they had just banned smoking in their factories—so much so, that employees had to go into their cars and smoke. They were not even permitted to smoke in a designated area. To me, there is open air, and I felt that this was a bit extreme for employees to only be able to smoke in their cars. This is not what we are saying here, but I feel that we must address the second hand smoke.

I think we are all aware of a very dedicated Civil Servant who passed away several years ago who, I believe, never once touched a cigarette. She passed away at an early age because of second-hand smoke. These are the dangers that we face.

In the second resolve it talks about prohibiting the sale of tobacco products to persons under the legal age limit. For years, some unthinking adults would sometimes ask the child to run into the store to purchase a pack of cigarettes for them, not realising that we constantly tell our children that smoking is not good. Yet we smoke, and set contradictory examples for our children, and then ask them to go and purchase cigarettes. We are role models for our children. They will think, since they go and buy cigarettes for their dad or some adult, that it is all right if they smoke.

It will be difficult to monitor vending machines with the sale to persons under the legal age limit, but if responsible adults see a person under the legal age limit purchasing a package of cigarettes, I feel it is their responsibility to ask if that person is aware that they should not be doing it, and encourage them not to use the package of cigarettes. We are not saying here that Government must come down on owners of public places, but I think it is up to the owners to work out their problems in finding a suitable smoking area.

In making the promotion and advertisement of tobacco products a criminal offence, I think Fourth Elected Member for George Town touched on some of these concerns. I also had some representation on this. But, on the importation of preprinted magazines, such as mentioned, Time, Newsweek, and so forth, I do not feel that the Motion is addressing these types of publications or advertisements, but I think we are talking more on the promotion in the form of a Tee-shirt that advertises Winston Cigarettes, that adults wear and children see. Since the adults are now advertising Winston Cigarettes, the children will say, 'Oh, well, I'll go and get a pack of Winston Cigarettes,' and they end up smoking them. The same goes for drink stirrers, napkins and other products.

We feel that for the merchants selling tobacco products, it is time that we take a stand to discourage, or pass legislation to prevent the promotion of advertising tobacco products. Here the Mover and I are not saying that this is the solution for non smokers, but I feel that it is a good start in that we will have designated areas for smokers and that non-smokers will not have to inhale the second-hand smoke that is so dangerous to them.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to support the Private Member's Motion 19/94, No Smoking.

I believe that it is most essential, in the face of irrefutable scientific proof that tobacco smoke is so very dangerous to the health, that we in the Cayman Islands take steps to ensure through laws that something is done to restrict smoke to smokers and not expose non-smokers to these particular hazards.

There is already in place a law called The Tobacco Product and Intoxicating Liquor Advertising Law, 1986 (Law 21 of 1986), and as one reads this law it becomes clear that as far back as that time there were legislators who took cognisance of this. I think it is quite laudable that there are legislators in the persons of the Mover and Seconder of this Motion who continue to view this situation with the concern that it deserves. The Law that I just referred to prohibits any advertisements of tobacco and alcohol products in the Islands by radio or television. But I do not see where it prohibits these advertisements in print. So, perhaps tightening the situation there will make a considerable difference.

Under the Law, in section 5, the Governor may make regulations, and as I was unable to find any regulations which have been made in regard to this law, the fact that the Government has now accepted it, I think this would be an opportune time to deal with all of the various points that have been raised in this debate by various Members.

I think, in itself, the debate on this subject should serve to some extent to educate persons, both young and old, to the hazards of cigarette smoke. Third Elected Member for Bodden Town spoke in some detail with some statistical data, as did others, about the hazards of smoke. In recent months, some shocking scientific facts were found by scientists in the United States when the Federal Government took on the mighty tobacco companies about cigarette smoke, its use and hazards, and some of the many chemicals it contains, such as was noted by the Second Elected Member for George Town. It is quite incredible to believe that poisons are used in some instances in cigarettes.

I listened with keen attention to Third Elected Member for George Town, the seconder, about what she found on a flight she was taking across the Atlantic, where the plane was so equipped that it could extract smoke. I believe in looking practically at the situation where the Motion asks for certain designated areas in places such as restaurants, cinemas, bars and night clubs to be set aside for smokers. Overall, the situation could be improved immensely if somewhere in the regulations, or somewhere in the Law (as the Government may determine), there could be some requirement that these places install extractors with a capability to pull out the smoke in some of these places.

There are some night clubs where, if one goes there at a certain time of the night after the crowd has arrived, the intensity of the smoke is incredible to see: it is like a cloud when one steps through the door. It is my understanding that it is the breathing of this smoke that is so very deadly to persons—passive smokers, as the term goes—that causes cancer. I have often wondered why these facilities have not put in extractors to take out the smoke and perhaps this is one area that can be looked at seriously in coming to grips with the situation in the resolves as asked for here.

It was mentioned earlier that it might be difficult to prove that one is of a legal age or not because we do not have a national identification. However, I hope that in the near future this will come about, as has been asked for in a previous Motion, and it will make things easier for places where tobacco products are sold. In the meantime, I would suggest putting in the word "knowingly"—that a person who knowingly sells persons under the legal age—might strike some reasonable balance between an underage person buying tobacco products and the person who might unknowingly sell them.

Madam Speaker, it has been proven that the promotion and advertisement of tobacco products affects the extent to which people buy. There are experts in advertising who have developed that art to the extent that they can develop an advertisement that catches a particular cultural or ethnic group with tobacco products. So, I think it is wise on our part to do something to inhibit this advertisement.

I notice, as well, in the present Law that it provides for a warning to be on smoking material stating, "Smoking can severely damage your health." However, if we follow the example of the United States, the warning on cigarettes sold in the United States is much more severe than that. So, it might also be a good time for the warning to be included to express the concern and the hazards to health more than it is at present.

It is my understanding that tobacco companies, once they are selling outside of the United States, do not have to include that same type of warning. In fact, they cleverly develop packaging that has different warnings than those sold in the United States. Perhaps this is something that can be done, as in section 5, the Governor can prescribe the wording of the health warning. Perhaps this would be a suitable time to do that.

I think this Motion is good for the people of this country, and I give it my wholehearted support.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, would the Mover of the Motion wish to exercise his right of reply?

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wish to thank all Members for the support of this Motion and also for all the comments which each person has made. I feel convinced that once this Motion is put into Law it will have an extremely beneficial effect on health promotion in these Islands.

I was also very heartened by the Open Line, with the almost 100% support on the part of the callers. I believe that there was only one person who seemed to say that, while he supported anti-tobacco legislation, he thought that the same thing should be done regarding alcohol.

While I agree with him as far as alcohol being a very harmful thing, I do see a slight difference between smoking and drinking alcohol and the effect that it has on persons in the same building. The non-smoker has to put up with second-hand smoke, and I really do not see people forcing other people to drink alcohol in business places and places of entertainment. So, from this point of view, there is a bit of difference between drinking alcohol and smoking tobacco. We know that they all have very harmful effects on human health.

I feel that something has to be done regarding advertisement of tobacco products, particularly cigarette smoking. One cannot help but notice how ingenious the manufacturers of cigarettes tend to be, and as cigarette smoking becomes outlawed in many of the developed countries, the efforts of these manufacturers shifted to some extent in the so-called Third World countries. We realise that there is big business in this industry and apparently they will stop at nothing. I believe that we should try to protect our people here from this adverse advertising.

In this respect, I could not help but notice an ad that has been carried in the Caymanian Compass over the past few months. It has to do with the promotion of Rumheads. I believe that it is appropriate to mention this, as so many constituents have brought this to my attention. It has a beautiful girl with a long cigarette in her mouth and it says, "Be bad this Saturday Night, all drinks $1.00 8 PM—10 PM, Cover $5". Under the Rumheads sign it has a flag with some skeletons, and I just thought (although this is in fine print), perhaps this is what this whole thing is about. Certainly, we realise that this would catch the attention of younger people who want to go out and have a good time. Cigarette smoking has been promoted as a habit for the successful, and for those who want to be glamorous. We know that this is not the case, for these are the tactics that the promoters utilise in order to fool the people who are so easily influenced.

I certainly appreciated one individual who said there should be educational programmes in place in the schools that emphasise how serious cigarette smoking really is. I believe that that would go a long way towards influencing the behaviour of our young people in the country. It is interesting, those of us who remember the Marlboro Man, how he died of lung cancer—although he was supposed to be one of the most glamorous.

I would like to take this opportunity to appeal to adults who drive around in air-conditioned cars with the windows up, and their children inhaling second hand smoke. They do not realise the danger to their children. They should either desist from smoking within their cars, or at least open the windows.

Fourth Elected Member of George Town brought out some very valid points, and I am sure that these points will be taken into consideration once the Attorney General and his department take this matter in hand. For instance, he spoke about the difficulties this could pose to small establishments, and we realise without doubt that it will cost—not just the small, but all establishments—something to ensure that there are designated areas for smoking. But I do believe the end result justifies the amount of expenditure.

I have done extensive reading on specialised air-conditioning and other methods, such as extracting fans, that have been utilised abroad to accomplish this and some of it can be a bit costly. But I do not think the size of the building would prevent implementation of this policy once the proprietor decides to take the necessary action.

One thing that he said regarding vending machines certainly appealed to me, and that was what he said regarding vending machines – that they would have to be tackled. Of course, it would be illegal for the juvenile to get a pack of cigarettes from a vending machine. I should hope that when the law is passed, if this Honourable House gives its support to the Motion, that that would be illegal; not just the person selling the product, but the person who buys cigarettes should also be committing an offence. Either we have a ways and means to implement our policy (which could be very difficult), or we just decide to prohibit the sale of cigarette and tobacco products by way of vending machines (which is an easy solution).

I also thought of what was said about imported journals, magazines and other forms of literature, and those perhaps having advertisements included. This I will leave completely to the Legal Department. As I see it, this would not be an offence, but it would be a different matter if individuals promoted cigarettes and other tobacco products by giving away T-shirts, caps, et cetera—anything that constitutes a direct, intentional, purposeful effort to advertise or promote cigarette smoking on the part of the perpetrator. I believe that would constitute an offence.

Of course, with every Law it takes a lot of thought and one has to consider all matters carefully and finally come up with a law that is in the best interest of the country. But, I certainly appreciate the fact that whatever is done to cut down on the excessive use of cigarettes in the country and, in particular, to safeguard the innocent victims—those of us who do not care to smoke—from second-hand smoke, I believe that this is a very, very good thing to do and this is what we should be doing, and I do hope that the Motion gets the support of the House.

The first Motion that I brought to the House got the unanimous support of the House (Identification Cards) and that is almost a prerequisite to this one. I look forward to the Legal Department working on that one so that we can have our National Identification Cards so that the various individuals can easily ascertain who is below the legal age limit.

Once again, I would like to thank all Members in this House for their contribution to the debate.

The Speaker: The question before the House is Private Member's Motion 19/94. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Motion has been passed.

AGREED. PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 19/94 PASSED.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion 20/94.
The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 20/94

ESTABLISHMENT OF MINI-POLICE PRECINCTS

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to move Private Member's Motion 20/94, Establishment of Mini-Police Precincts, standing in my name, which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS many Caymanians are desirous of having more efficient and effective policing;

"AND WHEREAS many complaints have been expressed regarding the dissatisfaction with the response time of police from the Central Police Station and other stations;

"AND WHEREAS the most effective policing has as its basis the "deterrent effect" largely based on the obvious presence of police in communities;

"BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT Government consider the establishment of mini police precincts in areas that experience the most activities of crime."

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would like to second that Motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion 20/94, having been duly moved and seconded is now open for debate.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
This Motion has its genesis in a number of factors, not the least of which is the fact that the Cayman Islands is a changing society. As we read the papers, and listen to the news, we hear of problems encountered by the Police Force in trying to maintain public order and peace. Indeed, Madam Speaker, I was reading the supplement in today's "Caymanian Compass", documenting the activities and providing some information on Drug Free Week, which we are observing this week. I was struck by a notice bearing the Commissioner's signature concerning the holding of certain illegal after-hour parties, commonly known as "sessions", in certain sectors of George Town. I am informed that they are also being held in some areas of West Bay.

This has to be the concern of any law abiding citizen in this country because the notice stated that not only are these parties held into the early hours of Saturday morning, but they are also held into the early hours of Sunday morning, which to many, if not the majority, of people in these Islands, is held as a sacred day of worship. But what is even more alarming is that at these sessions, illegal alcohol is being dispensed and, according to the notice signed by the Commissioner, and also according to reports which I periodically read in the newspaper, drugs are prevalent at these sessions. Some of the patrons, from what I understand, are also given to saluting—taking out their firearms and firing into the night sky. So, it would seem Madam Speaker, that this whole business of these illegal "sessions" in these areas, is a serious threat to law and order.

Further, I am made to understand that these areas in which these sessions are held, are predominantly what the sociologists and anthropologists call ethnic areas—areas populated by a certain people. In many cases it has to do with certain nationalities. In many cases it has to do with socioeconomic status. What is disturbing about this is that it seems we are breeding a particular subculture which is not prone to be law abiding, but which is prone to be defiant and problematic and, indeed, the neighbours of these adjacent areas are complaining. To be specific: the area of Windsor Park; the area of George Town known as the Swamp, among others, are areas where I am made to understand these sessions are commonly held.

This Motion would seek some limited decentralisation of the police into these kinds of areas so that the police can have an established presence there at all times. I would like to qualify what I am requesting the Government to consider, by saying that it is not my expectation, nor that of the seconder, that the Government would have to go to any great expense to erect a concrete building or station which would be very expensive, nor would they have to platoon a large number of officers.

I got this idea from the time I spent in Japan in 1985. I was struck by reading and observing in the city of Tokyo, which is among the largest cities in the world, the crime rate is insignificant in comparison to cities like Montreal, Los Angeles, New York City, and even London. I discovered that the reason for that is because the police in the city of Tokyo are almost omnipresent—you do not have to look very far to find a policeman.

I lived in a section called Kita Senju, and commuted by train to Ginza (which was about an hour away). From the hostel where I lived to the train station (which was about a 15-minute walk) I had to pass a Mini-Precinct, which the Japanese called Kobahns. At all times there were four police officers: an Inspector, who was in charge of the Precinct, a Sergeant, and two other officers, one of whom was a lady. The business of these officers was not so much to arrest or apprehend people, but to provide support. They provided directions to people who were lost, they were on hand to answer questions by people like myself who were visitors to the city of Tokyo. They provided a semblance of stability and confidence to the Japanese people wandering around the city.

I could not help but notice that they were unarmed. I also learned that the Japanese people on a whole, but especially in the city of Tokyo, have a serious aversion to guns. It is very difficult for anyone to obtain a licence. The police themselves are unarmed, so these people, while they were omnipresent, were not in any form or fashion intimidating or threatening. Indeed, I observed, as I passed daily, that it was their pleasure to come out and assist. At times, one would only have to be standing like one was lost, and they would come up and ask if they could be of assistance.

Tokyo is a city of bicycles as much as it is a city of trains and they were especially good at keeping order among the many hundreds of cyclists who passed that area.

It was also striking to notice that the little precinct was not any separate or imposing building, but rather it was like a little shelter (for want of a better word), like a little alcove between two adjacent buildings. The city had established a little sliding glass door, a little air conditioning unit and it was, for the most part, immediately obvious because there was no concrete or board, it was, for the most part, glass, and the door was kept open all the time. Usually an officer was standing either in the door or immediately outside the door.

It is something like this that I am suggesting the Government consider doing, especially in areas which we know are prone to be areas where the police are frequently called, either because of "sessions", or because they are ethnic areas in which a particular type of sub-culture may be brewing.

Madam Speaker, I believe that this would be an effective deterrent. The police could be platooned on a shift basis and they would be in regular contact with the Central Police Station. There would be back-up readily available, should it be desired. Most important of all, the police would have an established presence within a community where all and sundry could see that the police had set themselves up. This, in conjunction with Community efforts and neighbourhood watches, would, in my opinion, go a long way towards the maintenance of law and order and go a long way to sending the message to unlawful and unruly elements that the Government and the law abiding citizens are indeed serious about the maintenance of law and order.

I would suggest that for the most part the establishment of these mini precincts, on the basis of need, and on the basis of information which I have garnered from the newspaper and the radio, would be limited to probably only George Town and West Bay, because the situation as it arises in the other districts does not call for this kind of decentralisation as yet. The establishment of these mini precincts, bolstered by regular Police Patrol, would serve to reinforce in the citizens of those areas that the Government and Police Authorities are working to make the communities a safe place.

I hope that the Government will see fit to explore the possibility and feasibility of the request the Motion is making.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended until 2.00.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.43 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.00 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Debate continues on Private Member's Motion 20/94.

The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, as the Member of Government responsible for the subject of Private Member's Motion No. 20/94, I would like to make a brief contribution to the debate. In so doing I would like to say at the outset, that whilst being sympathetic to the intent and the good wishes expressed in the resolve section of the Motion, the Government does not find itself able to extend any support for the principle contained therein at the present time.

The matter of community policing was part of the terms of reference of the recent review of the Royal Cayman Islands Police by the Inspector General Of Dependent Territory's Police Forces, Mr. Lionel Grundy, who, during the course of his review, visited all districts of the three Islands and held a variety of meetings and appointments with relevant persons desiring to have meetings with him.

His report was just recently made public and there are a number of recommendations in it which the Government has accepted that are now in the process of implementation. One of those recommendations is for ongoing opportunity for the community to participate in conveying to the police their wishes and desires for the type of policing that they consider most relevant to the needs of their communities. These ongoing contacts are the means by which the police will be able to provide an appropriate response to the needs of the districts.

The Motion, when being introduced by the Mover, has as its ethos the question of manpower deployment. Of course, it goes without saying that the Commissioner of Police has, by Law, the unfettered responsibility for deploying his officers in such a manner as to achieve the most effective and efficient utilisation of those resources.

Just recently, the Government appropriated additional funds for the employment of some additional officers in various branches within the Force. The Commercial Crime Branch has been strengthened to respond to white collar crime; the Drug Squad has been strengthened to respond to increasing problems of drug trafficking and money laundering; the CID Branch is being strengthened to respond to criminal activity; the Marine Branch has been strengthened and incorporated into a special Task Force; etcetera, etcetera. In excess of 20 new officers have been added to the already rapidly growing establishment of the Royal Cayman Islands Police.

It goes without saying that there are in every district of the Islands, police stations are already established. It is through these, that the manpower and the supervision of that manpower is currently practised. It must be assumed that if these are considered ineffective for the purposes of this Motion, and if in either substituting therefore, or complementary thereto, precincts are to be established with any degree of supervision; and if these precincts are to operate perpetually—24 hours a day, 365 days a year—even if we are only talking about two precincts in George Town, one or two in West Bay, the arithmetic adds up quite rapidly in terms of the amount of manpower that would be required to staff such precincts.

On that basis alone, Madam Speaker, the Motion cannot be supported because it would add to the establishment of the Force such numbers as would be unaffordable, and it would create difficulty in the Commissioner's unfettered ability to deploy his manpower throughout the country, wherever that manpower might be needed.

Turning specifically to what the Honourable Member referred to as "these illegal late night sessions". The comment that he made in reference to an item which appeared in a local newspaper today is a reference to an article which is an extract of the Commissioner's Annual Report for the year 1993, which was recently laid on the Table of this Honourable House, in which the Commissioner pointed to this relatively new phenomenon that has developed particularly in certain parts of the George Town suburbs. It is for this and other similar types of illegal activity that a special Task Force was recently established and provided with certain special training and equipment to be able to effectively respond to these kinds of illegal activities. This special Task Force went into operation about a month or so ago, therefore its presence and effectiveness is yet to be measured. It is believed, however, that such an approach is likely to be the way of combating that phenomenon.

As to the question about Government being serious about law and order, there can be no question about the seriousness with which that subject is viewed and regarded because, indeed, that is the fastest growing arm of the disciplinary branch of the organisation at the moment. Every effort is being deployed to combat and to nip in the bud, as early as possible, these new phenomena and these recent increases in criminal activity.

I believe, enough said, the Government understands what the Mover of the Motion is seeking to achieve. I, too, have read about these little precincts which have been established in large cities such as Tokyo, and in many of these cities, these little precincts are not much larger than telephone booths, sometimes deposited right in the middle of busy highways and busy streets. In those communities their Governments obviously find them as effective ways of dealing with specific types of problems in those cities. That is not to say that Cayman's problems are going to be addressed by duplicating or copying what other countries have found to be appropriate.

Cayman, with a tourist based economy, with a reputation for a high degree of integrity and honesty among its people, with the high standard of religious practices, etcetera, one has to be careful that we do not present the wrong image to our visitors—that we are over reacting in any way on this subject of law and order.

I can recall visiting a certain city in South America, walking downtown into its main avenues and seeing soldiers with weapons upon their shoulders. Upon returning home that evening I turned on my television and the first item on the news was that there had been a curfew imposed on this particular city. I was in the city, walking down the street, and I did not know that there was any curfew. I saw the soldiers standing on the street corners and I just assumed that this was the normal way of life in this particular city, because, as a visitor, you take what you see for granted, being the most obvious.

One has to, therefore, be careful not to present to our visitors the impression that they are coming into a community that is so dreadfully un-lawabiding that we have to proliferate our streets and our communities with officers in uniform of any sort.

The most effective type of Government is self-government. The most effective type of policing is community policing. If we are to invest our resources in anything, it should be in showing our citizens the benefit of being completely law abiding, thereby reducing the necessity of having to police ourselves in such a manner as having to present the image that we are, ourselves, uncontrollable.

I believe that this Motion may be well intended, but the Government does not find sufficient favour with it to agree to it at this time.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. G. Haig Bodden: Madam Speaker, unlike the Honourable First Official Member, I find favour with the Motion, but I cannot support it because I know it is impossible for it to be effective with the present set up which we have.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town and I have tried for years to get the Police Station in Bodden Town manned on a full time basis, and that has proved to be virtually impossible. The excuse is always that there are not enough police officers to go around. The districts of North Side and East End suffer even more.

If the House should accept this Motion, it would be useless for two reasons: 1) there would not be sufficient officers, at least that is what we are told; and 2) there does not exist, in my opinion, the will within the Police Force to properly deploy the police officers that they have. I believe that there are sufficient police officers to man the Police Stations full time—if they were properly deployed. It is my opinion that they are not properly deployed. All of our efforts in the past in trying to remedy this situation have been useless.

Until we get the will, the purpose, within the Police Force changed—and I do not know how we are going to get that changed—to get the men deployed in such a manner that all of the existing Police Stations would be manned 24 hours a day, I believe it is useless to require the Government to put in additional mini precincts.

So, while I favour the idea, and I trust that the day will somehow come when this can be done, I know at the present time it will not be done, even if the Legislative Assembly should pass the Motion because, if my memory is correct, they accepted motions in the past which would have led one to believe that there would have been some improvement in the services at the critical hours when the Police Stations in Bodden Town and the other eastern districts, are closed.

The Motion highlights the fact that these mini precincts would speed up the response time. In his debate, the Member explained how it works in another country which he has knowledge of. I believe all of that is true. We have need for it, because I remember an instance which happened a couple of years ago (and it has not changed), a personal instance, when I found a school age boy coming to our place of business and I could see that he was destitute. So I gave him money to go to Co-mart to buy some patties and drinks, but the next day he appeared at the same time—the same hour—and I knew that something was wrong. I tried to get the help of the police to see who the child belonged to, because the child would not give me any information to take him to his parents, or even to the school where he should have been. I remember saying to the officer who answered my call, that I could see he was a good boy, it was just that he was being neglected. You will hardly believe this, but it is true, the next day I had a call from the Police Station asking me if the boy was still at the store. That is the kind of response that we get.

Another instance I know of, from first-hand information, is where it took two hours to respond to a call right in the centre of George Town. So, there is a need. But, unless there is the will to speed up the response—and I do not believe the will exists at the present time—there is no use of talking about additional mini precincts. So, while I commend the Member for bringing the Motion, and for bringing this to light, I know it is useless to cast my vote in favour of it.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cay-man Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I rise to speak to Motion 20/94, Establishment of Mini-Precincts.

As I see it—and I agree with the Member speaking on behalf of Government—this Motion is requesting a certain kind of deployment of the police in the Islands. That deployment is largely having a police presence in areas that are defined as areas of most criminal activity.

It is as the saying goes, "If the mountain does not come to Mohammed, Mohammed can go to the mountain." Crime does not necessarily come to the police, it happens somewhere and the police have to go to it. If areas can be identified, and I understand there are particular areas where there is crime activity, then the presence of the police can be established there. In my opinion, such presence would serve as a reminder, it would serve as an irritant, and it would serve as a threat or a barrier to crime which might occur in these particular areas.

As has been noted, there has been a recent review of the Police Force in the Cayman Islands, and I believe that to take into account this response from a citizen and elected representative of this country, is very timely. The Motion, of course, does not demand that such be done. It is requesting that the Government consider this matter, and I do not know how much consideration has been given to the overall benefit which might accrue from it.

I am aware that this Island is tourist-oriented. Certainly, those of us who keep up with what is happening find that there is more incidence of criminal activity in the areas of tourism activity and indeed, there are some visitors who have fallen afoul of this criminal activity—thankfully, none too extremely serious. So, I believe that there should be police in areas where there is some density of population, be it temporarily, as is with the coming and going of visitors to this Island, for example, it will lend a feeling of safety.

I am aware that many years ago, on studies done on the Caribbean, one of the things that stood out in Cayman's favour, was that visitors liked the Cayman Islands because it rated so highly in the safety factor. I really am not certain what the most recent statistics have shown in that regard. I would hope that it still shows the Cayman Islands with a high safety factor, for I would believe that while we have some concerns and some increased criminal activity, it is not to the extent that it is in some other island territories.

I have to agree to a large extent, with some of the things which were said by Third Elected Member for Bodden Town. We can say as much as we want—that everything that can be done is being done where the police are concerned—but the facts are that there are more incidents of crime than before, and it also stands to reason that it was hardly likely that the police were where the crime was taking place because they would have been a deterrent against it happening.

I am one who believes that the will of the police is there to deter crime, or arrest crime, as the case may be, but that the police force can be better deployed. I say that because I so often see a police car sitting in someone's yard, or someone's driveway, in a particular speed zone, when it shoots out to catch that person who is exceeding the speed limit by some small percentage. I personally believe that while it is necessary to contain speed within the speed limits and so on, that on many occasions those police officers who are doing such duty and who are posted in such instances could be better deployed elsewhere. I think that could be expanded to include other units or sections or personnel within the police force.

So, it is not that this request is so far fetched by any means. I think that it offers a strong practical suggestion to improving the situation of police force deployment.

Madam Speaker, crime will be lessened if it can be deterred through the presence of the police. We hear of instances where the response time is very good. But, I think we hear more often about the response time not being so good. I believe that is part of the basis for what this Motion is asking for.

Certainly, when it comes to deployment, I am not one who believes any governmental position (be it wherever, and from whomever, and for whatever reasons), if deployment is what it should be, there cannot be deployment, at least within the police stations within these Islands, 24 hours per day.

This is talking about the deployment of police. I cannot believe, and I do not believe, that the public at large will accept the position that you cannot have police coverage where, even in the stations, it should be where it is not being done. It is as if the question of deployment has become less improved than it used to be years ago, when the stations were manned 24 hours, and, surely, there were less police available then.

So, as to the will of having the police be as effective as they could be, I think there is room for improvement. I do believe that with the extent of expenditure in other areas—some areas where one wonders if it makes any sense and what is the overall public benefit—there could be a benefit from looking at this situation, as is requested in this Motion, and, indeed, setting up such a deployment system.

Madam Speaker, as I believe this Motion asks for something which is attainable, and which will make a difference, I give this Motion my support.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The question of crime in the Cayman Islands is, undoubtedly, one which everyone in this House is very concerned about. We are doing everything that we can to deal with it. It is a subject that is reserved to His Excellency the Governor and under our Constitution, our Chief Secretary, the Honourable First Official Member of this House, is the one who deals with it.

However, to put the balance where it should be, there has been a decrease in crime in recent months and this is really something which I think is very heartening, to know that the police are on the right tract in many respects. While it would be good to perhaps double the Police Force and put police all over the place, this is not something which is economically possible, nor do I think it would be desirable in some areas or neighbourhoods.

This Motion deals with an ideal, it deals with a dream. Really, the Mover of this Motion, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, is putting forward, basically, a dream. It is not realistic. Quite frankly, the setting up of multiple precincts in districts at this stage is something that is not practical or attainable. Actually, the efforts of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town would be much better spent if he supported the police in the efforts which they now have, instead of constantly trying to destroy and fight them and also the Prison Service, and really try to look at the police we now have in reality and how they can best be deployed in doing these things.

We have at present...

POINT OF ORDER (Imputation)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of Order, First Elected Member for Bodden Town?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker. The Minister is imputing false and untrue motives to me when he mentions my fighting the Police and the Prison Service.

The Speaker: The Point of Order is taken. Will the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation continue the debate and leave aside anything that might...

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I did not intend to impute anything improper. What I am saying is that many times questions are asked which are not constructive. It is sometimes better to work with what we have in reality and to really try to support the police as they are now; try to support what is realistic, and also to support the Prison Service. They, too, deserve support.

I would be the last one to say that the Police, or the Prison, or any department, is perfect. But, with the question of trying to radically alter the system of police in the country into these small precincts, I think is unrealistic. If we have effort and time and money, let us stand behind the good that the police are now dealing with. They are putting out a lot of effort in many areas. I think that, more than anything else, is what is important here now.

We have seen some reduction in crime, and like everything else, ideals are easily put forward, but many times they are not achievable. In these circumstances, I would be voting against the Motion.

Thank you.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate... Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As the seconder of this Motion, I have listened very carefully to the Mover. I have also listened to others who have spoken since. I believe I have a fairly good grasp of the Queen's English, and I understand the various positions that have been taken. But, for the life of me, somewhere along the line, either I do not understand the Motion, or some other people choose not to understand the Motion.

The resolve section of this Motion simply states: "BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT Government consider the establishment of mini police precincts in areas that experience the most activities of crime." The intent here, as discussed with me by the Mover, was simply to find out if Government would be willing (if I may break it down again) to look into the possibilities, in the process of deployment; being able to have police officers in certain areas, depending upon the availability within certain identified areas so that response time can be speeded up; so that the mere presence of these officers would act as a deterrent, and I will go on to some other areas.

This Motion is not asking Government to hire 50 more individuals to throw them all over the place—as is the impression I am getting as to how some people understand it. Every one of us here has enough sense to understand that there are financial constraints on everything that we examine at a national level. I understand that the First Official Member, who responded for the Government, could not be in a position to say that while everything seems well intended, we will go off tomorrow and hire another 40 people so that we can act the situation out. I understand that. But, for the life of me, what I do not understand is what is so difficult in whatever Government is doing (with regards to the beefing up that I just heard about of the various departments), for them to say that in the process of doing all of this, that they will consider the possibilities (depending upon manpower and man hours at their disposal) to see if they could identify an area and try this thing out to see how it would work. If the success warrants, then it could go on from strength to strength. That is the way that I understand the Motion.

Law and order and social harmony, as far as I am concerned, are possibly the two most important facets of any community. We can talk about everything on any given day and put any degree of importance we wish on any issue on any given day, but as far as I am concerned, those two rise above all. Others may have different views; this is my view.

The fact that this is my view, means that I cannot readily accept the intention of this Motion being put to be something, as the Minister for Education called it, a dream. All right. So, as he explained it, it is a dream, I understand that. But, what I am saying is that the Motion was not intended to be a dream. If they want to make it one... well, they will simply have to do that. There are some real issues at hand here, as simple as one might want to take the Motion, and as quickly as one might want to pass it by and get on with something else.

I have been in the Town Hall right next door to us, and have heard first hand stories from individuals within our community about problems with certain activities taking place and response time from the police. Let me break right here to say something else. I support the Police; I support the Prison Service; I support whatever is necessary for this country to survive. This Motion is not criticising their efforts. So, please, I do not wish to hear somebody say that that is what the intention is. Because if they do, their minds are warped. That is not the intention of the Motion. If there is something that I, as an individual, see that might enhance the process of their doing their work, I do not see such a big deal in somebody looking at it and finding the positive avenues in it. I just wanted to say that.

Going back now to what I was saying about response time and with regard to people calling the police in certain areas with certain activities taking place. I understand that there will physically be problems from time to time, depending upon the hours that a call might be received at the Police Station, or depending upon what other activities might be going on. There might be a spate of calls at a particular point in time by coincidence one night, and there are just not enough police on duty to cover all of them in seconds or in a few minutes. I know that can happen. But, the whole effort here is that maybe it could be tried in one area first of all—maybe being able to deploy individuals in such a way that their presence is felt more, not only as a deterrent factor (which is obvious), but the response time in these areas would be a lot faster. So, there goes our dream.

Madam Speaker, I noticed that Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, in his usual skillful fashion, explained why this Motion made all the sense in the world, and then quickly explained why it did not make sense and why he could not support it. I understand his reasoning too. But, as far as I am concerned, because things that have been done in the past—Motions that may have been passed, or policies that may have been adopted which have not reached great success—does not mean that I must give up the ghost and say, "Well, nothing will be done, so what the Hell." That is what I understood, but that is not what I intend to do.

The other thing that I wish to quickly address, is that the Honourable First Official Member made a point regarding the show of too many policemen around the Island giving the wrong impression to visitors. He alluded to a visit he made to a South American country. I understood what he was trying to say. I just wish to say that I beg to differ with the point. We would not really be showing armed soldiers.

I beg to differ from his point of view because I believe that in this day and age, the law abiding citizens (who I still believe outnumber the rest of them) are comforted anytime they see a uniform, not frightened. That is my belief. So I beg to differ, to say that the presence of these people will cast the wrong image. As far as I am concerned, the people who still outnumber the criminals in the specific areas that have been mentioned (and other areas) would be very heartened to know that there is police presence in their immediate communities more so than now. I do not think that they would say that they do not want to see them.

I guess I will start to repeat myself if I go on anymore, but just let me try to cap this Motion in a nutshell. The Motion is intended to make an attempt for Government to explore the possibilities of enhancing individual community policing. It is not expected for Government to perform any miracles to find men who do not exist – to let people work 24 hours a day in order to accomplish this.

That is by no means the intention. It is simply an attempt to ask the Government to consider the possibility of having police presence more in certain communities in order to act as a mode of prevention and to be able to respond to criminal activity faster. I believe that if there is some way that they are able to find the funds to do so, that the results that will be reaped from this will far outweigh the time and effort that is consumed now when police have to be deployed from a totally central position, and the time that it takes for them to act. I believe the deterrent effect, and time saved, will supersede what may be seen to be an extra cost at this time.

I support the Motion.

The Speaker: Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Having listened to the debate, I understand Third Elected Member for Bodden Town in that he understands the Motion, but cannot agree with it. However, I agree with this Motion in that I believe, as responsible legislators, we have to get tough with crime.

During the past two and a half months, the Second Elected Member and myself, have been visiting our constituents here in George Town on a weekly basis. The main concern expressed is the increase in crime. The perception of the police sitting at the station, or driving up and down, not walking the streets; the idea that we have imported over 30 additional police officers and they are still not visible, is of very grave concern for some of our constituents.

This Motion is asking that Government consider the establishment of mini precincts. I somewhat agree with what the Honourable First Official Member has said, and I am not saying that our police officers are not working, some of them are very concerned as well, but this is not good enough for the crime which we are encountering.

I have a document here, which is part of some statistics from a superhighway computer system in California, and it shows the Cayman Islands in relation to other Islands. According to this, a crime is committed every 40.2 minutes in the Cayman Islands. If this is correct, then we do have a serious problem. I feel that we must consider the establishment of mini police precincts.

[Member's Interjection: Hear, hear!]

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: I believe that police officers from these mini precincts, would mean less officers at the Central Police Station and I feel it could work. What I am asking Honourable Members to do is to consider this Motion and let us see if it can work. When we talk to Heads of Departments we hear that they need additional staff—well and good. If we need more staff, let us see about employing more police officers, if that is what it takes, but we need more police officers, especially in the area of George Town. Therefore, that is the main reason I am going to support this, to consider this. I am sure it will not pass, but it is only asking that we consider the establishing of Mini Police Precincts.

While I understand the Honourable First Official Member referred to a curfew not being needed here, I think we would all agree that we do not want to create the wrong image regarding law and order, and we would not have to go as far as a curfew. But, something has to be done. Every day we open the newspaper and read statistics of a wreck here or there, or gambling, or "sessions", or drugs and we have got to get tougher with criminals and people who are breaking the law. If this is one of the means of stopping crime, then I think we should consider this Motion.

Right now we have a situation where we have the Chief of Police in a separate building, with the Central Police Station somewhere else. If this can work, I feel that mini police precincts can also work. Therefore, I support this Motion.

The Speaker: If there is no other debate, would the Mover of the Motion like to exercise his right of reply?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, kindly, Madam Speaker.

I have listened with keen interest to the contributions of Members who spoke, and I have learned from some of those Members one or two profound facts.

Let me begin my winding up by reiterating a few points which I made at the beginning. I stressed that the idea was based on a practice which I saw employed in Japan. Indeed, so successful was that practice, that in The New York Times magazine of February 6th, 1994, there is a recommendation: "Tokyo's Tips on New York". David E. Sanger, the author, gives nine tips that he says New York City could adopt from Tokyo, as far as improving the reputation of New York City is concerned. Number seven of those nine tips, is the suggestion of kobahns—mini police precincts. I also stressed that as in the Japanese setting, so too, it could be in the Caymanian setting where the policemen operate largely unarmed.

I got the impression from the reply of the First Official Member, that the maintenance of law and order must be looked at from, among other things, a dollar and cents point of view. While to a certain extent, this is true, one must also pose the question: Because the maintenance of law and order is expensive, can we afford to let the reputation and our communities go to ruin because it might be expensive to invest in methods which are proven deterrents to crime?

With respect to what is being done now, being juxtaposed against what is proposed, I can only say that it strikes me as a criticism of the way the Force is administered now, that presently the Force is administered on the 19th century policing approach. This is not good enough. The ways of criminals have become more sophisticated. The community is broadening. We have an influx of outside cultures. Therefore, it is no longer feasible to effectively police the country by a kind of authoritarian centralised style in which the Commissioner of Police acts as a god. So, what I am suggesting in this Motion is that the Government consider some flexibility of approach, some limited decentralisation, particularly in areas of high population, areas where the sociologists and social anthropologists call ethnic areas where there is a necessity for a permanent police presence as a deterrent.

Quite interestingly, Madam Speaker, I recently visited a Central American country, a country which has a reputation of being a peace loving and law abiding country. Certainly, when I went downtown to the capital city of that country, the police presence was very obvious to me; yet, when I read the newspapers, I did not become alarmed because of any proliferation about reports of crime. Then, upon returning to Miami, I noticed in one section I was driving through, that there were at least three mini police precincts set up. So this idea is not as far fetched as it was made out to be.

I have been labelled by the Minister of Education as a dreamer. This Motion has been described as a dream – I see the Minister leaving the Chamber, I wish he would stay to hear what I have to say, because I believe it could be for his edification. I have been labelled an idealist, and this Motion has been labelled an ideal. I can only say, Madam Speaker, that as far as he is concerned, I am progressing towards a more acceptable level, since in April of 1979 that Member then labeled me a fox. So it would seem that from a fox to an idealist to a dreamer, I am moving to a more acceptable level.

But this is not my dream, this is the dream and expectation of the people of these Islands—my constituents, as Third Elected Member for George Town has said, the constituents of George Town, who are also the constituents of the Minister for Education—and I hope that these constituents take note at the fun and derision he has poked at this Motion. The compulsion, the obsession of that Minister to try to put me down and to try to destroy anything that I bring to this Honourable House, does not surprise me. He has been trying that since 1979 and has not been successful, and I dare say, he will be trying it to 2079, and he still will not be successful.

The difference between the dreamer and him, is that the dreamer is sincere. Because, when my constituents in Bodden Town complained to me about the need for more support and community policing, I (along with my colleague, Third Elected Member for Bodden Town) brought a Motion here asking the Government to set up a pilot project of neighbourhood watches in our community. Indeed, we have started that. Compare that to his behaviour where he went to a section of his constituency and told the people that his solution was to increase the Task Force—I suppose, to break the heads of the sons and the daughters of the residents of that area. He talks about dreaming? Well, Madam Speaker, I would rather dream my dreams any day, than put his plans into action.

Madam Speaker, the Minister for Education mentioned a decrease in crime. A decrease in what area? Third Elected Member for George Town just read a statistic saying that there is a crime committed in the Cayman Islands every 40.2 minutes. What decrease is he talking about? What decrease? I dare say, the proof of the pudding will come some years hence, when the people themselves will have an opportunity to assess who put forward what.

I also want to say that that Member is always quick to impute mischief and to sow dissension, as when he mentioned my fighting the police. Madam Speaker, there is no Member—and I repeat—there is no Member in this Honourable House whose record of co-operation and support of the police and the authorities is greater than this – the reputation of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. What I do not tolerate is injustice in any form. Just like I do not want, nor do I expect, the citizens of this country to be beating up on the police, I do not want the police of this country to be beating up on the citizens unjustifiably so. Madam Speaker, that kind of heart, that kind of position was instilled in me by the late Stanley Bodden, and I will not change.

I have a job to do. I have a chore to perform. I have responsibilities to live up to, and I view those responsibilities seriously—almost to the point of being sacred—because I consider that there is but one job greater than the job I am trying to do, and that is being a "Fisher of Men". So, when I come here with Motions, I do not take it lightly, and, in this particular instance, I have been more than reasonable. I have not tried to put down the police or what they are doing. I have merely asked the Government to consider this method of community policing.

Both the First Official Member and the Minister for Education made reference to the image—we have to be careful that we do not convey the impression that we are not a law-abiding country, that we frighten people by the presence of police. Well, figuratively speaking, the Cayman Islands has already lost its virginity as a pristine crime-free country. We can continue to delude ourselves by thinking that it will be the way it was when we could leave doors open, windows unlatched and possessions strewn down to find them as we left them. From the mere fact that we can have a bank robbery on Seven Mile Beach in broad daylight is evidence enough to show us. Certainly, the Minister for Education should be concerned about that because that is his bank. We are no longer what we used to be.

Speaking from common sense, Madam Speaker, many of the districts have one way in and the same way out, so a sophisticated criminal can wreak all kinds of havoc by organising some sort of road block while they do their dirty work. So, what I am saying is simply this: If there were a mini police precinct somewhere down along the Seven Mile Beach Road, it could serve as a deterrent for mischief-makers and potential criminals, as well as a source of support for tourists who may be wondering or may be desiring to inquire about directions, or whatever.

Madam Speaker, long after the laughter has subsided, long after the lament has been made, the sensible, upon viewing the annals, the chronicles and the Hansards of this Honourable House, will say for themselves, 'Whoever that dreamer, that idealist, named Roy Bodden was, now and then he came up with some sensible ideas and sensible motions.'

Madam Speaker, I can never be put down because my family instilled too great a sense of self in me. There is absolutely no way. I was taught from the time I was knee high; "Son, you are better than no one, and equal to all." So, he can laugh, he can poke fun. There is one thing that I can say: My stature is as great as his—that is, now, and that is how it will be a millennium from now. I hope when payback time comes, that he will take it when he gets it (as I take it when I get it) because his time is coming—maybe sooner than many people anticipate.

Madam Speaker, I thank those people who spoke in support of the Motion, I understand their position. I appreciate the fact that they took time to express their position, even though there were some that were not worth the wind that came out from their larynxes. Certainly, the sensible will have established themselves, and the people of this country will take note. It is unfortunate that the Government does not see fit to grant this small request, but I am reminded of the suggestion that someone gave me not long ago, that is, that if the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, Fourth Elected Member for George Town or I brought a Motion here decreeing that everybody here should get a million dollars, and there were sufficient funds in the kitty to do so, the Government would vote against it. So I do not expect any more than what has been declared.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Private Member's Motion 21/94. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 21/94

REINSTATEMENT OF FREE MEDICAL ATTENTION TO RETIRED SEAMEN OF CAYMANIAN NATIONALITY

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to move Private Member's Motion 21/94, entitled Reinstatement of Free Medical Attention to Retired Seamen of Caymanian Nationality, standing in my name, which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS it is widely recognised that Caymanian merchant seamen played an important part in the development of the Cayman Islands;

"AND WHEREAS many of these now retired seamen are in positions where they have little or no provision for medical attention;

"AND WHEREAS a previous government had in place a system where Caymanian merchant seamen and their spouses benefited from certain free medical services;

"BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Government consider reinstating free medical services for Caymanian seamen and their spouses;

"AND BE IT NOW THEREFORE FURTHER RESOLVED THAT the Government devise a "means test" so as to be able to accurately and fairly determine eligibility for benefits."

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I beg to second the Motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion 21/94, having been duly moved and seconded is open for debate.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is, as the Motion says, widely recognised that Caymanian Merchant Seamen, during the years when this country was not as economically prosperous as it now is, played an important part in opening up the Cayman Islands by plying the oceans of the world on ships flying flags of convenience.

It is my understanding that during its peak, the number of merchant seamen so sailing was about 1,000. That these Caymanian seamen made tremendous sacrifice, is borne out by the fact that they were non-unionised; they signed agreements allowing the companies for which they worked to fire them from any port in the world, fly them home; and they worked for the lowest of wages.

History records that these dedicated, hard-working (but low paid) people, were some of the most reliable, and best sailors in the world. No doubt that had its genesis in the fact that for generations Caymanians had been building boats and plying the seas of the Gulf Coast of the United States, not to mention Central America, particularly the Mosquito Cays where Caymanian seamen established a worldwide reputation as efficient turtlers.

We have come several years from the late 1950s, early 1960s, when this occupation for Caymanian seamen was in its heyday and at its most popular. So too, have we come to the time when most of these men who so willingly sacrificed and dedicated themselves so that their families and those persons in the Cayman Islands at that time could have a better livelihood, are now entering their twilight years—the years when many of them are unable to find regular paying employment; the years when some of them have been left by their children who have since grown up and had to make a life of their own; the years when, because of declining health, many seek services of doctors and the medical profession.

It is not uncommon in these kinds of instances for governments to offer some kind of assistance to persons who have made these sacrifices. While it is true to say that people in the Merchant Marines are not viewed with the same kind of sympathy and empathy as people who volunteered, for example, for the armed services, it is no less true that Merchant Seamen, in many cases are just as deserving.

Hence, the Motion seeks to reinstate some form of free medical for these people. It further suggests that some form of a means test should be devised so that it can be fairly and accurately determined as to who deserves what level.

The contention seems to have been that in the service extended for gratis by a previous Government, there were no methods for us to ascertain who was in a position to pay, from who was not in a position to pay for these services. Consequently, I establish, from the very beginning, that what the Motion is seeking to do is to arrive at some criterion whereby we can determine what and if, to what extent, some of these people need help.

Madam Speaker, when the news of this Motion came over Radio Cayman and was in the press, I received several calls from retired Caymanian seamen who beseeched me to persevere, because they said they were in dire need of having free medical attention reinstated. Some of them, quite movingly, explained their dire financial straits to me. I have no doubt as to the sincerity and the voracity of the information which they gave me. Some stopped me as I walked along the road, not only in my constituency, but as I moved around George Town.

So, I would say that there is a pressing need for a re-examination of this. There is a pressing need for a reinstatement of this free medical service because, while it is true that at the time these people sought employment as Merchant Seamen they were paid for the jobs they performed, it is also true to say that it is because of their willingness and the sacrifices they made, and the hardships they faced that our country has come to this point to be recognised as one of the foremost international financial centres of the world, and also has an established reputation as being one of the major tourist resorts in the Caribbean, if not in the Western Hemisphere.

Were it not for the sacrifices made by these people, our economic development, our social development, and it may even be our political development, would lag much further behind than it is at present. So, in the twilight years of many of these people; in a time when they are not so physically able; in the time when the frailty of their bodies is becoming obvious; the Motion asks that we consider making it easier for those who are in need to have access to some medical attention. At a time when they most need it, the Motion asks that they be shown some form of appreciation for the sacrifices which they made.

Madam Speaker, I would hope that the debate could steer clear of any controversy or casting of aspersions, and could be contained in its essence for the provision of medical attention for these people whom I think so readily deserve it. I would hope that as the Honourable Members debate we can bear in mind that it was as a result of the sacrifice made by these people that persons like myself, and many others of us who occupy these hallowed and distinguished halls, can today speak with intelligence, feeling and commitment because these people sailing the waters of the Persian Gulf, the Far East, the Venezuelan Coast, and the Gulf Ports of the United States, made possible the development that these Islands are witnessing now.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In rising to speak on this Motion, I would like to bring to the attention of this Honourable House that no one in these Islands is denied proper medical care. As a matter of fact it is a mark of the seriousness of the Ministry which I now head that one of the first parameters that was arrived at during the strategic planning last weekend, where some 23 people from a wide cross section of the community took part, and I will read that first parameter: "We will not deny anyone access to our health services."

In reference to the section of the Law, there is a provision in the Law now to cover some of what has been advocated in the Private Member's Motion. I will read section 10(b) and (c) of the Health Services Fees Law, 1993, which replaced the Health Services Authority Law 1991, provides for the following:

"10. Subject to section 11, fees are not payable by a patient at a health care facility if the patient presents a card issued, or recognised by the Government identifying the patient to be –

"(b) a member of the Veterans Association of the Cayman Islands or the spouse of such a member; or

"(c) a veteran member of the Seamen's and Veterans' Association of Cayman Brac or the spouse of such a member; or..."

Section 11 of this Law goes on to say: "11. The exemptions from fees provided for by sections 6, 7, 8 and 10(b), (c) and (e) do not apply in respect of a person who is covered by health care insurance which would otherwise cover those fees."

It is my understanding that the change to the wording of the Law (which was brought in 1993), came because situations had arisen whereby some people of considerable financial means, who could well afford to pay for their health care were taking advantage of the system. There were even some who were covered by health insurance but who still expected Government to foot their bills.

Government continues to appropriate the millions of dollars for overall healthcare services: in 1992, approximately $14.8 million; 1993, approximately $14.9 million; and, so far, through June of this year, it is approximately $7.5 million. It is only fair and responsible for us to ask ourselves who will bear the burden of this unjustifiable expense, with some of the people who, in the past, abused the facilities within the Law and took advantage of our health services? It is, of course, we the people who will ultimately bear the burden of these expenses.

Once again, I would like to remind this Honourable House that no-one in the Cayman Islands will be denied proper health care service. I am certain that it was never the intent, when changing the provisions of the Law, to penalise Caymanian Merchant Seamen, or to dishonour in any way their very important contribution to the development of this country. It is my understanding that much of the difficulty that now surrounds this situation exists because of the lack of clarity as regards the eligibility for free medical services extended to those persons intended to be covered by sections 10 (b) and (c) which refers to the Veteran Members of the Seamen's and Veteran's Association of Cayman Brac, or the spouses thereof.

In view of this confusion, I am willing for this Ministry to sit down with the executive body of the Seamen's Union to have a full and frank discussion of this matter so that together we can arrive at a solution which will avoid the abuses of the system in the past, while at the same time, ensuring that full and equitable measures are in place to provide for the medical care of our merchant seamen.

I understand the means test as proposed in this, but also in the Law, in section 9, it says: "9. Fees payable by a patient at a health care facility may be waived, in whole or in part, if the patient satisfies the Government that he is unable to pay all or any part of the fees."

So, Government does not support this Motion, but we are willing, since, as I quoted, this is already covered in section 10 (c) – it is just a matter of clarifying and meeting with the executive bodies of the Union to find out those that are certainly eligible and specifically those as the Mover spoke about at the age of retirement. I feel sure that this Government will not deny those, or anyone else needing medical care at any time.

Being both an ex-seaman and ex-soldier, I must once again emphasise in closing that we will not deny anyone proper medical care, especially a retired seaman.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In rising to support this Motion, which I seconded, I am not quite certain what is the position from the Government side, as I gathered that the Minister said that the Government did not support the Motion, but at the same time, the Government supported the Motion. I am not quite sure as to the situation on this particular matter. He also noted that medical attention is provided for all persons here in the Islands, where they cannot afford the cost of medical attention.

What this Motion is asking for, is that the Seamen of the Cayman Islands be recognised (as they were before) and their spouses, for free medical services. This was the case in the term of the last Government when under the Health Services Authority Law, 1991, there was prescribed the Health Services Authority Fees Regulation 1991, where in section 9, it stated: "No fees are payable by a patient at a health care facility if the patient presents a card issued by the Authority identifying the patient to be [and in this case (b) and (c) apply]

"(b) a member of the Veterans Association of the Cayman Islands or the spouse of such a member; or

"(c) a member of the Seamen's and Veterans' Association of Cayman Brac or the spouse of such a member; or..."

Here, Madam Speaker, I think I should clarify what I have just read. In (b) it speaks of the Veterans' Association of the Cayman Islands. This was an organisation operating or functioning in Grand Cayman, most specifically dealing with veterans. In the instance of the Veteran's and Seamen's Association of Cayman Brac, this included seamen and, to the best of my knowledge, it was to this particular society that most seamen subscribed and it was under this section that their wives were also able to receive free medical attention.

At that time, a large number of persons who were the original hard currency earners in this country, were categorised and they benefited from free medical services in the Cayman Islands. I think one must look historically at this situation to really appreciate what this Motion is asking for at this time. The seamen in this country, made this country. To a large extent, the money which came into this country came from the salaries of our men who went to sea. That money built homes; paid for governmental services; put hard currency in the banks; and kept commercial activity going to a very, very large extent.

Though this is a time removed from the days when seamen played such a vital economic role in this society and were paid such high respect, we are at a situation now where we should consider these citizens of this country in a way that they can be proud of having done what they did for the economy of these Islands and for the younger generations that have benefited from it.

In 1993 the situation was changed whereby seamen were no longer identified for free benefits. In the Health Services (Fees) Law, 1993, under section 10 (c), this was amended to read that persons who would be eligible for free medical care were: "(c) a veteran member of the Seamen's and Veterans' Association of Cayman Brac or the spouse of such a member;" and "(b)...the Veterans Association of the Cayman Islands or the spouse of such a member;". Here, the people who really came in for benefits were veterans of which there are but a very few number of people left. Veterans, as it has worked out, are those persons who served during the time of the last war in the Merchant Navy, and I also understand in the Trinidad Navy, of which, again, I say there were but a few.

The seamen for all practical purposes were lumped into a group which would receive free medical attention if they could not afford it. The way it was before, where it specifically stated that seamen would be eligible for free medical attention, was changed. These seamen, proud people (and rightly so), fell under section 9, which in the marginal note it says; "Poor people" and it reads: "Fees payable by a patient at a Health Care facility may be waived in whole or in part if the patient satisfies the Government that he is unable to pay all or any part of the fees."

Madam Speaker, I think the Minister referred to this earlier and one could assume that, indeed, these seamen could come under that particular section. But, as it was before, where the seamen and their spouses clearly knew that under that category of persons they were eligible for free medical attention, was changed.

Madam Speaker, I do not believe it is true to our culture or to our history that we should take the persons, our seamen renowned around the world, and cast them under such a section as they presently fall. There was a list of all the members in the Seamen and Veteran's Association of Cayman Brac (of which there were a few hundred), and each person was identified as being a member thereof. The objection, as I recall it, was that some of the people who were seamen were also persons of considerable means in some instances, and that was the reason why the whole situation of seamen was changed.

I think that it did a disservice to this category of citizens and their spouses. What could have been done was the very thing that this Motion is asking for, and that is that seamen, men who have sailed the seas (and there are not a whole lot of those anymore either, for many are old and many have died, some are still alive that can afford it), could be, can be and should be identified as a category of persons who would be eligible for free medical care if they met a certain means test. The Motion is asking that the Government devise a means test so as to be able to accurately and fairly determine eligibility for benefits to the category of persons called "seamen", and their spouses.

I am aware of various seamen in this country who are in need—not that they are unwilling to work, not that they have become drug addicts or anything of the sort—they are old and the money that they worked for was not sufficient to accumulate a sum which can now tide them over their older years. What they were able to save, in instances where they do have something, is not sufficient to pay the fees that are now charged for medical services in this country. These fees have changed with time.

These men, in most instances, are proud persons, and a number of them have talked to me since this Motion has been publicised saying that they hope that it will be reinstated for seamen and their wives. They feel that they deserve some recognition. Not just the veterans, for I understand the veterans to a large extent did not necessarily engage in battle, but they battled the seas during the last World War. These seamen now, in my belief, require such recognition under the Law.

So, Madam Speaker, in the resolve section of this Motion, it is being asked that the Government consider reinstating free medical services for Caymanian seamen and their spouses. Not just those within the "(b)" and "(c)" category in the Health Services (Fee) Law, 1993, who are veterans, and in these two associations. It is asking for a distinction and for a categorisation of these persons and their wives. Some of the men have passed on, but their wives are still left and they were the people who, in effect, ran the homes, kept the neighbourhood and ran the community while their men were at sea. They raised the younger generation who have now grown into adulthood and are enjoying the fruits of the hard labour of these particular seamen.

Madam Speaker, the question of the persons who were members of the Seamen and Veteran's Association of Cayman Brac, and who, it was felt by the Government, were rich and wealthy and so on and should not be there (many of whose names are read out in this House), would not be included in the number of who would be eligible. For, surely, if there was a means test it would identify those who could not afford, thus they could be helped. As I referred to the question of some of those persons who were in the Association as members and paid their dues, they also paid their bills at the Hospital. It was not as if every one of those members in that Association who had financial means was actually seeking and getting free medical attention.

Madam Speaker, I believe this Motion addresses a matter that needs to be addressed. It recognises the role in history played by a special category of our people who now, in many instances, need help. So, by simple amendments to existing legislation these persons can be helped and recognised, and so can their spouses in such instances as is the case.

I support this Motion and, as I have said, I am not quite certain what the Government's position is on it. I trust that in the course of the debate it can be made clearer or I, myself, will surely seek to have a discussion with the Minister speaking on behalf of Government to understand clearly what was said or implied in his reply. I was not in the Chamber at the time when he was speaking since I was trying to locate the two Laws to which I have been referring.

Madam Speaker, I support this Motion and I think it is good for this country. Thank you.

THURSDAY
15 SEPTEMBER, 1994
10.06 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Third Elected Member for George Town to say Prayers.

PRAYERS

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE PORT AUTHORITY OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS FOR 31ST DECEMBER,
1993 AND 1992

The Speaker: Presentation of Papers and Reports. Financial Statements of the Port Authority of the Cayman Islands for the 31st December, 1993 and 1992. The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

DEFERRAL OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, may I ask that this paper be deferred until tomorrow, please?

The Speaker: Yes, you may.

The next Report is the Civil Aviation Authority Annual Report, 1993. The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

CIVIL AVIATION AUTHORITY ANNUAL REPORT 1993

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Civil Aviation Authority Annual Report, 1993.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the Cayman Islands Civil Aviation Authority has again successfully met its national and international obligations with respect to the safe, efficient, regular and economic growth of aviation services in the Cayman Islands. This achievement reflects the policies and decisions of the Authority's Board, and the commitment of the Civil Aviation Authority's staff to succeed. I would like to publicly thank the Director of the Civil Aviation and all the staff at the Airport and at the Civil Aviation Authority.

As is customary, aviation services in the Cayman Islands are occasionally inspected by international agencies such as the International Civil Aviation Organisation and others from the United Kingdom and the United States. In addition to the safety concerns of these agencies, financial institutions, such as the Caribbean Development Bank, which funded aviation projects in the Cayman Islands, carry out their own inspections to assess the economic health of the Authority.

Staff training has remained one of the main priorities of the Authority. While most staff training is conducted overseas, the Authority has made strides to carry out training locally in certain areas. A major achievement in this area was the organisation of an Air Traffic Control Basic Course which began in November.

Detailed activities and achievements of the various sections of the Authority, including the audited accounts for the year ending 31st December, 1993, have just been tabled in this Report.

Madam Speaker, the Civil Aviation Authority continues to be what I regard one of the best and efficiently operated Statutory Authorities. While I am generally against statutory authorities which have excessive powers, as we have seen in some of the other ones, this Authority operates on the basis of the old Statutory Authority in that staff who are there on a permanent and pensionable basis are under the rules and guidelines of the Civil Service itself. At meetings of the Authority on many occasions either the Honourable Financial Secretary or a representative of his Department or Portfolio is present.

The assets of the Authority are quite extensive, and I am also happy to say that as at the end of the year 1993, we showed a general reserve of $2,736,151 with a net income for that year of $914,237.

I would like to conclude by repeating that I owe a lot of gratitude, as does this country, to the Director of Civil Aviation and the staff. Specifically, we have had the retirement of Mr. Pat Johnson and I would like to once again publicly acknowledge all that he has done for the Civil Aviation Authority in his 27 years of service. He was a very dedicated staff member and Deputy to Mr. Sheldon Hislop our present Director.

So with that, Madam Speaker, I am happy to say that the Civil Aviation Authority continues to be a very healthy, well-run, efficient and safe organisation.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. Question No. 129 is standing in the name of the Honourable First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 129

No. 129: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to provide a breakdown of the work accomplished by the Drug Assets Confiscation Unit from its inception to the present time.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: This Unit was formed in September 1989 under the title of Drugs Profit Confiscation Unit. In January 1994, to reflect the broader base of the work encompassed by it, the name was changed to Financial Investigation Unit.

Its achievements since its inception can be categorised in two parts: Domestic; and International.

(i) Domestic: Locally this Unit supports the Drug Squad and to date has been responsible for the seizure and confiscation of the following:

- (a) one aircraft;
- (b) two yachts;
- (c) three small craft;
- (d) five motor vehicles (three of which are currently in use with the Drug Squad);
- (e) land valued at approximately US$75,000;
- (f) jewelry—total value US$46,000;
- (g) land valued at approximately US$3 million (still subject to legal argument).

The Unit has also dealt with 144 disclosures under section 16(O) of the Misuse of Drugs Law, all of which required investigation.

(ii) International: Internationally its responsibilities have included the following:

- (a) fourteen assistor notices served under the Narcotics Drugs (Evidence) (United States of America) Law, 1984;
- (b) forty-one notices served under the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty (United States of America) Law, 1986;
- (c) US$6 million is currently under restraint awaiting the outcome of court action in the United States of America and is to be the subject of the asset sharing agreement.

The Head of the Unit has given assistance to the Financial Supervision Department on numerous occasions. He has advised Senior Members of the Government on the protocols laid down by the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force and represented Cayman at meetings of that Organisation.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say what the relationship of this Unit is to the Commercial Crime Branch and, also, to the Drugs Squad?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: The Unit is responsible for liaising with the Commercial Crime Branch on those aspects of commercial investigations that may be linked to the possibility of drug profits confiscations. Similarly, it is tied to the Drugs Squad by virtue of the objectives of the Drugs Squad in targeting drug dealers and, naturally, trying to target, in so doing, the assets that might potentially have derived from drug dealings.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the Honourable Member say what arrangement exists to avoid conflicts and also duplication of resources, research and investigation between the Commercial Crime Branch and the Drugs Squad?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, there is no duplication of resources. These Units work in collaboration with each other and their work is coordinated so that there is no need for any fear about the duplication of their efforts.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 130, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 130

No. 130: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to say what resources are available for the instruction of "Conflict Resolution Techniques" in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, conflict resolution techniques have not been taught in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force as a subject in itself, but because the subject of conflict is so broad it has been covered in many other areas.

During the basic recruit course, Officers are taught "The role of the Police in Society". This subject encompasses such topics as: Definition of a Role; The Many Roles We Play; Role Conflicts; Adopting a New Role; Supporting the Transition of a New Role.

Recruits are also taught "stress management". During these sessions they are taught how to deal with role conflicts as it relates to friends, family and the Police, work and social situations, etcetera.

At the supervisory level, stress management is also taught and the same principles are part of the subject.

A selected few are chosen as tutor constables and during their training they are taught how to counsel and resolve conflicts.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member give an undertaking, in that I am made to understand there is an increasing call upon the Police to intervene in domestic and family disputes, that some investigation be made into the possibility of introducing this as a formal course of study so that the Police can be better able to deal with domestic violence situations when they are called upon to intervene?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, I will simply pass the suggestion on to the authorities and they will have to consider incorporating those recommendations in future training programmes. I am not aware, however, of any complaints about the manner in which domestic disputes are currently dealt with, therefore, I am unable to say whether I am satisfied that it is an area deserving of extra training. I know of no complaints.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 131, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden.

QUESTION NO. 131

No. 131: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to state the existing arrangements for training of policemen in hand-to-hand combat.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, the Police are trained in self-defence techniques which are significantly different from hand-to-hand combat. The latter concentrates on offensive techniques, usually practiced by military or para military organisations.

The self-defence training of the Royal Cayman Islands Police is identified as a non-aggressive level of force that would be used to control non-compliant subjects, thereby reducing officer and subject injuries. This training is done with the use of empathy, hand control, baton and handcuff techniques. The duration of this basic training is 16 hours and is currently being conducted by a qualified self-defence instructor and a member of the Legal Department who is instrumental in teaching the use of force.

Whilst the present training is considered adequate, it is also being reevaluated, and to this end research is now being done to provide recommendations on use of force context, policy considerations, scale of escalation, procedural considerations, techniques and tactics, minimum performance, certification standards, and recertification programmes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say if this training is available to all recruits, male and female?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Yes, Madam Speaker, it is.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Member say if during the course of this training there are any offensive techniques given to the Police? I would think there would be occasions when it could be a life-saving situation where they would take an offensive action which, in itself, would be a defensive action. Is it totally excluded, or is it involved?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, I am afraid that I am not qualified to elaborate on the information that I have been given. I have provided the answer that has been given to me. I am not competent to elaborate any further.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 132, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 132

No. 132: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs on what basis are awards given by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II and His Excellency the Governor.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, honours and awards are given to deserving candidates upon recommendations made to Her Majesty's Government by His Excellency the Governor.

His Excellency the Governor invites nominations and endeavours to balance candidates between the public and private sectors as well as various districts. There are various service areas and each honour or award is intended to reflect the exceptional degree of service rendered by the nominee.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Member state if this is done solely by His Excellency, or is it in conjunction with Executive Council?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, His Excellency the Governor is free to solicit nominations from a variety of sources: Senior Civil Servants; Members of Executive Council; Members of the Legislative Assembly; distinguished citizens in the community; previous recipients of honours and awards; Churches, and Civic Organisations. There are many sources from which ideas and suggestions emanate, and although it is His Excellency the Governor's final choice, any member of the public is entitled to submit a name in nomination and it will be considered.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am not sure if the Honourable Member understood what I was trying to solicit, maybe I was not clear enough. What I am trying to determine is that when the names are submitted, do they go before His Excellency the Governor as well as Executive Council, or do they just go to His Excellency?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: I understand the question much clearer. This is a matter that is reserved to His Excellency the Governor acting in his absolute and sole discretion. He is not obliged to consult the Executive Council, and he does not do so.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 133, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 133

No. 133: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to state if there are any policies in place regarding the District Commissioner and the Deputy Commissioner being away from their offices and/or the Sister Islands at the same time.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 133

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 23(5), I am obliged to ask the leave of the House to defer answering this question. I do not have the answer today.

The Speaker: The question is that the Honourable First Official Member be allowed to defer answering this question until a later sitting. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against, No.

The Ayes have it. Leave has been granted to defer answering the question.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 133 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 134, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 134

No. 134: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Aviation to outline how the janitorial contract for Cayman Airways Ltd. was awarded.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Upon the expiry of the former janitorial contract, which was for US$249,000 per annum, tenders were invited through the local press and by contacting firms individually through the Yellow Pages. Potential tenders were invited to a briefing to explain the services required and to view the aeroplanes to be cleaned.

Thirteen bids were received, including a bid from the former cleaners. All bids were considered by the Board, as required under Board policy for contracts over $100,000, and the contract was awarded to the lowest tender who met all criteria as set down by the tender.

The contract was awarded to Reliable Industries, with a bid for U.S. $204,000. Reynolds Janitorial Service, Cayman Airways Limited's former cleaners, which is headed by Michael Powell, submitted an unsuccessful bid of $316,000.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister state if consideration was taken not only from a monetary savings of over $100,000, but were the former cleaners cleaning to the Board's satisfaction?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, there had been problems in the past with those cleaners, and Cayman Airways Limited was unhappy in several areas in relation to the cleaning itself, and also to a lesser extent the question of security with things that were left there. We have had several reports where people said that they had left something and no one could find it.

But I should stress that the difference between Mr. Michael Powell's bid and the lowest bidder was actually US$112,000, and that is an extremely large amount of money for a company that is trying to make money.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could the Honourable Minister say if it was ever drawn to the attention of the last cleaners that their services were unsatisfactory, and that they either had to shape up or ship out?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I have been told that they were told on many occasions of the lack in their cleaning ability. However, as to whether they were told to 'shape up or ship out' as the Honourable Member said, I cannot answer that. But they were told of their deficiencies.

I go on to stress that there is a difference between $204,000 and $316,000.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say if the concerns about the unsatisfactory work performed by this cleaner were put in writing or were they of an oral nature and, if so, to whom were they delivered?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I cannot now say specifically whether this was in writing or how it was done because, as the Honourable Member appreciates, it is a supplementary to this. But I understand that he was told.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 135, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 135

No. 135: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Aviation when will a Caymanian be appointed to understudy the Managing Director of Cayman Airways Limited.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the Board of Directors of Cayman Airways Limited has approved the creation of a post of Assistant Managing Director. This individual will understudy the present Managing Director with a view to taking over on the expiration of his contract. The post will be advertised in the near future.

Madam Speaker, I should mention that this is the third time this year a question similar to this has been asked.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister say when the post of Assistant Managing Director was created and who is the individual to understudy the present Managing Director?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, if the Honourable Member would look at the answer, I said the post has been created and it will be advertised in the near future. But let me just go on to explain that we are going to get the right individual in Cayman Airways Limited to take over.

It has to be when the company is properly stabilised. I would like to see the accounts for this year because, while they are very good for six months, by the end of that if Cayman Airways is genuinely on a long-term basis pulling out and is well stabilised, our chances of getting a good person to come in there will be greater.

Madam Speaker, it is crucial that we get a person to take over Cayman Airways who is not going to run it into the $30 million, or $35 million in losses as we saw over a matter of two and a half years. So I would like to just make sure, and I think the Board requires me to make sure, that whoever goes in there is someone who can definitely take over, and is one who is going to run this along the proper lines.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Honourable Minister could say whether there is any person now within the Airline who offers any sort of management support services or who, in the event of the absence of the Managing Director acts in any way in the performance of the duties of the Managing Director?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, that is an opinion and I think the Honourable Member should really wait until the post is advertised. Obviously, there are people within management, but I do not know, and I am not prepared to give an opinion about their ability or otherwise.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I think he also asked who presently acts in place of the Managing Director. That I would expect you to answer, please.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Oh yes, I can answer that. Presently the Acting Managing Director is Mr. Michael Adams.

The Speaker: Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Honourable Minister said, in reply to a supplementary question, that he wishes to wait to make sure that the Airline stabilises financially, and so on. How long will such a wait take, and what will happen in the event that he determines that it has not stabilised? Does the present Managing Director (who is a contracted officer) continue, and no attempt will be made to find anyone to fill that post?

The Speaker: Honourable Member, the first part of your question seeks an expression of opinion, but if the Honourable Minister is able to answer with regard to the contract of the present holder, he may do so.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, all I will say is that I would like to see more of the accounts for this year. Hopefully, January, February or March, somewhere within that area, we will be able to show someone coming in that this is not a company that is going to collapse the following day. Because to get anyone good in there, we have to show that Cayman Airways is going to continue and that we are not in a hot bed of politics and losing a lot of money in it. That is really all I am trying to do.

What I would like to say is that it would be a disaster to bring a person in before the company has properly stabilised and can move upwards, as it appears to now be doing.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is the Honourable Minister saying that there is no good person in Cayman Airways that could fill this position, and that a person must come from the outside?

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I do not think the Minister implied that at all, and I cannot allow that. We will pass on to the next question, No. 136, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 136

No. 136: Mr. Gilbert McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Aviation if Government has received any guarantee from Caledonian Airlines with regard to their proposed Sunday Charters to Grand Cayman.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the answer is no. Government has received no guarantees from Caledonian Airlines.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister say that there is no guarantee that the flights with Caledonian Airlines will actually begin and, if they begin, just when or how they will cease?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I am not saying that at all. The Honourable Member has asked me if Caledonian Airlines has given any guarantees. The answer to that is no. I have every faith that Caledonian Airlines, as a reputable company, will do what it said it will do, or it will have a very good reason not to do so. But no airline coming in here guarantees the Government that it is going to run the next year or any other day.

What I can guarantee the Honourable Member, though, is that if they will keep politics out of Cayman Airways, I will keep it guaranteed and running.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: As there has been no guarantee about the start up of the Caledonian Airline flights to the Cayman Islands, is the Government then acting in a way that is irresponsible by spending money to change the road which is supposedly affecting the flight safety of this airline?

The Speaker: That is an expression of opinion and the Honourable Minister, I know, cannot give an expression of opinion. But if he wishes to say something further to that he may.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: If I may, Madam Speaker, because an imputation has been made. All of the trouble that the Government had with changing the road at the Airport was because of misrepresentations like what the Honourable Member has now stated—that the only reason for moving the road to get the use of 600 feet of built airstrip was for Caledonian Airways.

Our local Cayman Airways' Pilots, the American Airlines and Northwest Airlines, and all the other airlines' pilots, can use that strip to add safety to the flights. I am looking after the public on a whole—not Caledonian Airlines. If I had only been thinking of Caledonian Airlines, I could have done what I had said—I could have dropped the fence and let them in. But our own pilots and our children are much safer with an extra 600 feet of airstrip.

So the reason for changing that road is so that the public can be assured that the request from the International Civil Aviation Authority Organisation on increased safety at the Airport, can now be enjoyed by the public on a whole. And I stress that the 600 feet is built—it is sitting there and nobody is using it. That has to be a stupid situation.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is difficult for me to see the association with our children in the flight path of a landing aircraft. But I would ask the Honourable Minister, if there was not an official release from the Government (of which he is a part) that the road would be closed and then eventually be diverted because of the coming of the Transatlantic flights by Caledonian Airlines?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation—and this will be the last supplementary on this question.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

To be frank, the Honourable Member asking this question created so much confusion, and so much has been out there in the press on this subject in an effort to create problems for the Government, that I really do not even know anymore what has gone out there. Somebody will have to look up the last six months of newspapers.

But let me say this: he has misconstrued what I have said. I never said that there are children in the flight path. What I am saying is that if children are in that aeroplane and it lands and goes 200 feet into the North Sound, and they die as a result of it . . . There is 600 feet of built airstrip that the plane could have used and avoided a tragedy and a disaster like that. That is the reason why I have changed the road. It is not about anyone in the flight path, because that has no relevance at this stage. The planes are far above the safety levels.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 137, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 137

No. 137: Mr. Gilbert McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Aviation what are the present designated external examinations at High School level.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The external examinations presently taken by students at the John Gray High School are: Advanced Level; Advanced Supplementary; Caribbean Examinations Council; General Certificate of Secondary Education; Certificate of Education; City and Guilds; Royal Society of Arts; Pitmans; Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test; Scholastic Aptitude Test; and Advanced Placement.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Are any of these examinations the exams that the largest percentage of the children at the High School sit, and could he explain which examinations are advanced level?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the largest entries for examinations are, naturally, on the Caribbean Examinations Council. Advanced level is Cambridge and Welsh Joint.

The Speaker: Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I did not quite understand what he said. I think he said something about Welsh Joint. Are we talking about the GCSE examinations here, or is there another type? I did not quite get his...

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: No, Madam Speaker. It is a Welsh Joint Education Council.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 138, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 138

No. 138: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs: a) to state the number of Caymanian Heads of Departments in the Civil Service at the end of 1992; and (b) the present number of Caymanian Heads of Departments in the Civil Service.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, the answer: (a) There were 25 Caymanian Heads of Departments in the Civil Service at the end of 1992; and (b) the present number of Caymanian Heads of Departments in the Civil Service is 24.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Would the Honourable Member be in a position to state if, since the 1992 figures, any new departments have been created that there would be need for additional Heads of Departments?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Yes, Madam Speaker. I can think of, for example, the creation of a fifth Ministry which has created an additional post that is equivalent to a Head of Department, and there are perhaps others.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Would the Honourable Member be in a position to state how many?

The Speaker: The Honourable Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. I wonder if the Honourable Member is in a position to state how many changes of Heads of Departments there have been in between that time?

The Speaker: I do not know if the Honourable First Official Member can do that because that was not part of the original question.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: If not, in writing is fine—if he would undertake to do so.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, the net change is a net change of one. If the Member is asking for a breakdown of how that was arrived at, I am afraid I do not have that detail.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Yes, that is what I was asking. I would ask if the Honourable Member would accommodate me by providing that in writing?

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As a supplementary, I wonder if the Honourable Member could tell us if the reason for the present number of Caymanian Heads of Department now being 24, and in 1992 it was 25, is because of the amalgamation of departments?

The Speaker: Honourable First Official Members for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: No, Madam Speaker. The primary reason for the reduction in the statistic was as a result of the recent promotion of a Head of Department, and a subsequent acting appointment of someone in that position who is a non-Caymanian.

QUESTION NO. 139

No. 139: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to make a statement as to Government's policy regarding deportation of persons convicted of criminal offences who have no close Caymanian connections.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, deportation is carried out in accordance with the provisions of the Immigration Law. Decisions are made by the Governor acting on the advice of the Executive Council.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I trust that I will be able to explain myself in the question that I wish to ask. What I would like to ask the Honourable First Official Member is if he could state how the process originates to arrive at the Deportation Order?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, deportation is an Executive Action, meaning that no matter what the origin of the source of the recommendation, the ultimate decision in the matter is an Executive decision. Recommendations may emanate from a variety of sources, including the Judiciary.

The Law under which Deportation is carried out attempts to specify certain categories of persons that are deemed to be deportable persons. In some instances, recommendations emanate from the Courts. In other instances, recommendations emanate from the Police, Immigration Department and other sources. So it is very difficult to pinpoint specific sources. But the source is not as important as where the decision rests, and that is with the Executive Council.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I thank the Honourable Member for bearing with me. I understand what he has answered, but I am asking for a little bit more clarification. The fact that there is no set method whereby these recommendations are passed on to the Executive branch of Government, has there ever been thought given that the system would be a lot tighter if there were some specific guidelines in regard to these individuals, if they have been convicted, that there be certain procedures which would automatically take place, which, to the best of my knowledge, do not take place automatically now?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, the procedure at the moment is that when a person is convicted of a serious criminal offence in the Courts of these Islands, the Court automatically considers the question of deportation and makes a recommendation which is forwarded to the Executive Council for consideration if the person is a non-Caymanian. That is an automatic feature in the system at the moment. But that is only one of a possible number of sources.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I will try to make this the last supplementary. The Honourable First Official Member said that it is an automatic part of the system. Can he state if this is in any Law, or if it is just something which is an unwritten law?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: In the Immigration Law there is a provision which says that anyone who is convicted of an offence and is sentenced to a term of imprisonment (of a certain minimum duration) is automatically, by Law, a prohibited immigrant to the Islands. Therefore, that provision has to be taken note of and, whether or not the Court makes the recommendation, the Executive Council on its own back can initiate deportation proceedings at the appropriate time—for example after the convicted person has completed serving the required sentence. The question of deportation often comes up just before the sentence is about to expire and the person is about to be released from prison. The question of deportation quite frequently arises at that time.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

The Speaker: It is now 11 o'clock.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning, Leader of Government Business.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I believe it is the will of the House that under Standing Order 83, we suspend Standing Order 23(7) and (8) to allow the other questions and supplementaries to be taken.

The Speaker: The question before the House is that Standing Orders be suspended in order to deal with the last question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against, No.

The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE THE REMAINING QUESTION UPON THE ORDER PAPER TO BE TAKEN.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 140, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 140

No. 140: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs: (a) What was the number of established posts in the Civil Service before the recently completed down sizing exercise; (b) what was the number of established posts at the completion of this exercise; and (c) what is the present number of established posts in the Civil Service.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 140
Standing Order 23(5)

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, in accordance with the provision of Standing Order 23(5), I have to beg leave of the House to defer answering question No. 140, as I have do not have the answer today.

The Speaker: The question is that the House approve the deferment of the answering of Question No. 140 by the First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against, No.

The Ayes have it. The question is accordingly deferred for answering at a later date.

AGREED. ANSWER TO QUESTION NO. 140 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: That ends Question Time for today.

I apologise to the House for the delay, apparently copies of the statement were not readily available which is now to be made by the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Is this a statement or... this looks to be a response to Parliamentary question, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, I apologise to the House for this because I asked that it be sent down from about quarter to nine this morning. I gave the undertaking in response to a supplementary question asked by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

The Speaker: Except that this is not a statement as such, this is a response to a question which is under a different heading.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, I beg then that it be withdrawn until the appropriate thing is . . .

The Speaker: It could come under Questions, except if an undertaking was given, I do think it should have been just supplied to the Member asking the question, rather than coming from you as a statement. But if you want to make a statement you can proceed.

STATEMENTS BY MINISTERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

REVIEW OF HEALTH SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. It was in regards to reviewing the Health Services Department. The review will be done at my request, by an inspection team under the authority of His Excellency the Governor. The Team comprises the Deputy Chief Secretary (Mr. James Ryan), Acting Permanent Secretary in the Ministry of Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation (Miss Andrea Bryan) and the Director of the Budget and Management Unit (Mr. Peter Gough). The Review is scheduled to start the week beginning 19th September, 1994, with the final report to His Excellency at the earliest possible date.

I would like to advise the Honourable House, through you, Madam Speaker, that I was reluctant to provide the information at the time the question was asked out of consideration for the staff of the Health Services Department, not all of whom had been aware at that time that the Review would be taking place. They have now been informed.
Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Minister. The next statement is a Personal Explanation by the Third Elected Member for West Bay, under Standing Order 31

PERSONAL EXPLANATION
(Standing Order 31)

ON THE MATTER RAISED BY THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER FOR BODDEN TOWN DURING QUESTION
TIME ON MONDAY, 12TH SEPTEMBER, 1994

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, in accordance with Standing Order 31, I beg your permission to address a private matter concerning me which was raised by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town on Monday, 12th September, 1994, during Question Time. The matter relates to my company, Jefferson Travel Services Ltd., and Islena Airline of Honduras, which we have represented for four years.

First of all, I must say that I was surprised to see Mr. Roy Bodden with a copy of a private and confidential letter written by me to Mr. Arturo Wood, the owner of Islena Airline, addressing the severance terms of our Agency Agreement and the issue of slander concerning Mr. Wood's attempt to destroy the good name and reputation of my sister, Mrs. Norma Jean Bennett, and myself.

It is my information that Mr. Arturo Wood passed a copy of this letter in question to Mr. Graham Thompson who arranged to have a copy passed to the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. This Member should have known better than to bring a private matter of this nature before this House, without having all the facts of the case, in an attempt for political expediency to ruin my good name and reputation.

POINT OF ORDER

(Misleading)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of Order?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker. The Honourable Member reading the public statement has misled the House, made a false accusation and has uttered a statement which he cannot substantiate because I told no one that Mr. Graham Thompson passed me the letter. I made no statement of origin and, indeed, it did not come from the said gentleman.

The Speaker: I have noted your Point of Order, and I would say that on a personal statement I will allow no other debate or points to be raised. If someone wishes to make a personal statement thereafter, they may do so.

Third Elected Member for West Bay, please continue.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Islena Airlines was given a final and full accounting of all funds owed to it by Jefferson Travel for ticket sales and excess baggage revenue collected on its behalf. I have also acknowledged the outstanding obligation to Cayman Airways for handling services rendered and I have arranged with the Airline to pay off this amount over a period of time.

What Mr. Graham Thompson failed to tell the First Elected Member for Bodden Town was that when I took over as agent from Mr. Thompson in 1990, I was obligated to pay off, on behalf of Islena Airline, an outstanding amount with Cayman Airways, incurred by Mr. Graham Thompson for handling services, which Islena Airlines paid him for, but he never settled with Cayman Airways.

Mr. Graham Thompson also failed to advise the Member of the fact that we were also required to settle a long outstanding account for Landing Fees with Civil Aviation which he also failed to settle, even though he was paid by Islena Airline for these charges.

I was also told by Mr. Arturo Wood at the time we took over as agents from Mr. Graham Thompson, that Graham was taking 15% rather than the previously agreed 10% of sales and excess baggage revenue as his commission.

This was one of the main reasons why his Agency Agreement was terminated in 1990. Mr. Graham Thompson has, once again, been appointed as the agent of Islena Airline.

I am making arrangements to allow the courts to determine whatever amount I am to receive for termination of my Agency Agreement without notice, and my claim for slander charges.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 21/94

REINSTATEMENT OF FREE MEDICAL ATTENTION TO RETIRED SEAMEN OF CAYMANIAN NATIONALITY

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to make my contribution on Private Member's Motion No. 21/94, Reinstatement of Free Medical Attention to Retired Seamen of Caymanian Nationality.

I would first like to publicly state that I am a member of the Veterans and Seamen's Society of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, therefore I will be abstaining in the vote on this Motion. I shall give historical information as to the society and the Health Services Law.

Madam Speaker, the Veterans' Association here in Grand Cayman has been an organisation affiliated with the Veterans' Association of the United Kingdom for many years. But it is my understanding that it did not reach out to seamen. It was for those who were involved in military conflict as armed military or naval personnel and who took part in areas of hostility around the United Kingdom and Europe by certain latitudes and longitudes. Therefore, many of our much deserving seamen who, certainly, were veterans of war zones were not able to join and were not recognised for what they had done—not only in war time, but in peace time—to help establish the economy of these Islands. The historical facts have been borne out by other Members as to what benefits they bestowed upon these three Islands.

Some in my age group, and older, fully realised that the opportunities for employment in the Cayman Islands many decades ago were limited. More or less, people had to resort to going to sea as a career—part of the year turtling on the Miskito Bank, and the other part cultivating the land. Life was difficult in the Cayman Islands. But, because these gentlemen left their families, sometimes for years at a time, and went overseas—sailed through peace and war—and sent back funds, they were able to raise their families and create a stable economy. With the revenue they contributed, the Government provided schools and hospitals and improved the educational and health standards of these Islands.

It was after much consultation that it was decided that this society would be open to both veterans and seamen. So it became the Veterans and Seamen's Society of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. The directors of that organisation approached the Government (not necessarily for people who needed financial aid only) to ask that Government bestow some kind of an award for those who had contributed much to the founding and development of these Islands. This was dealt with through the proper channels and incorporated into the Health Services Regulations that all members of this society would get free medical benefits.

I want to call to the attention of all Honourable Members that although the lists were long, there were many that were already covered by Government pensions. Many of them had joined the Civil Service after their sea careers and, therefore, had become pensionable employees and were drawing pensions which entitled them to free medical aid. Others were spouses of pensioners, or civil servants. There were others, including myself (and I am grateful to Almighty God) who were not in a financial position where they needed to have the Cayman Islands Government pay our fees. There were also many of us who had hospitalisation and medical insurance and this took care of our expenses.

Having the list of members, which I hasten to say included not only the seamen from Cayman Brac, but from the three Islands, including many from Grand Cayman—West Bay, George Town, East End, Bodden Town. It was not a selfish move on the part of the Sister Islands (as we are often accused of) it was open to any who wanted to join.

This society has proven very beneficial to many of the less fortunate of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, in particular. It has established a fund set aside for burial (similar to the Social Security system in the United States) so that upon the death of a member, or a member's spouse, a fee is paid to assist with burial. I hasten to say that the Rest Home in Cayman Brac received a very generous donation from the Veterans and Seamen's society in building a patio—12 x 70 feet—with a fire escape ramp. We had quotations of $12,000. The President of the Association told me that they built it for under $6,000 with donated labour. Nevertheless, we consider that they made a donation to us and saved us $12,000, that is the Sister Islands Community Care. So the revenue that they have derived from their members has been poured back in to the people who need.

What I would like to suggest today, is that this be looked into very carefully. Although I said before that the number of members is large (and we are grateful for that), it should be prioritised to those who are really in need. We must realise that when most of these people (who are now 70 years of age) were raising their families, the cost of living was much less than it is now, but the salary scale was equal, if not lower. It took just about all that they had to raise their families, as those families in general were larger than families today.

So, we see a need for this. Even with health insurance, drugs are not provided. There are individuals suffering who need high blood pressure tablets, tablets for diabetes and other types of diseases. If some minor provision could be made where they could at least get their medication, it would ease the pain. I fully realise that when the Government considered this generous gesture towards the seamen of this country, the National Health Insurance was a part of it. The number of members who need it could easily be multiplied by what it would cost per month and quantify the cost. Without the National Health Insurance, the sky is the limit.

So, Madam Speaker, I appeal today to the Honourable Members of this House, our Executive Branch, that everything be done to bring about our National Health Insurance as early as possible. This will enable our Government to know what their aid to people in need is going to cost. If they carry a policy on that individual and they pay a premium monthly, that will pay for the air ambulance to take them to Baptist Hospital and pay for their expenses overseas. It can be quantified.

There are many means by which we can eliminate a number of our unknown expenses today, using that money to make the lives of those who made it possible for us to stand here in this legislature today, more pleasant and healthy in their latter days.

Madam Speaker, as I said in the beginning, I shall abstain in voting on this, but I want to make it abundantly clear that the Society is not trying to be a freeloader on Government. It is trying to help the community, and looking for the Government, in turn, to work hand in hand. With these few words, I say to all Honourable Members, and to the Honourable Minister of Health, I look forward to your making the necessary arrangements to get help to those who need it as early as possible.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Debate continues on Private Member's Motion No. 21/94. [Pause]

If there is no further debate I will ask the First Elected Member for Bodden Town...

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, before I get into the debate, I will make an explanation on behalf of the Honourable Minister of Health, who has asked me to clarify that Government is not accepting the Motion because we feel that there is now provision in section 10 (b) and (c) of the Law and section 9. But he will undertake to meet with the Seamen's Association to get the eligibility clarified.

I have listened to the proponents of the resolution before the House, and let me say to one and all from the outset, the resolution before the House is not asking for anything more than what is being done today. The resolution asks that Government consider reinstating free medical services for Caymanian seamen and their spouses, and that the Government devise a means test so as to be able to accurately and fairly determine eligibility of benefits. This is what is being asked for today.

The Health Services (Fees) Law says, in section 9: "9. Fees payable by a patient at a health care facility may be waived, in whole or in part, if the patient satisfies the Government that he is unable to pay all or any part of the fees." The system in place is exactly what this resolution is asking for—a means test. The only way that the Government can accurately and fairly determine those who are eligible for benefits is to do a means test, and that is what exists presently. Furthermore, when that Law was being debated, an enquiry was made by the Fourth Elected Member of George Town as to what was the way of proving that a person could not pay, I said at the time that if a person goes to the hospital there is a Medical Social Worker there who will discuss with them whether they can pay or whether they cannot. That is how it will be dealt with, speaking broadly. That is exactly what is in the Law, and that is exactly what they are asking. Nobody can say there is anything different.

It is a fact. All of us in this House (some who were seamen) know full well that Caymanian seamen have done a tremendous amount of good for these Islands. The seamen of this country went away at a time when there was nothing here and the vast majority of them sent their money home to raise their families, to build their homes, and to generally contribute to the meager economy of these Islands. All of us in this House recognise that this has happened. Those of us who benefitted from it are sincerely appreciative for all that the seamen have done for their families, which has also enabled some others to benefit because of money spent in the Islands.

I do not think that any one of us in this House can claim to want more than the next for any particular seamen, or any particular worker in this country. But we have to be realistic. The country does not have an open bank account to spend, and spend, and spend, to give to the people that normally can help themselves. What we are trying to do is assist those people who genuinely cannot assist themselves. But there were many on the list at the time who were eligible to get free medical who had health insurance and were not using it. When one goes through the list, which I distributed at the time of the presenting of the Bill, one will see that there were some on that list that were not even Caymanians. When one considers people such as Wayne Hasson—do not tell me that we should be spending the country's money on somebody of such means. I know of people in my constituency who had health insurance, one Alfred Sydney Hydes Sr., who is an employee of the Holiday Inn, with insurance. I know that Holiday Inn has insurance for their staff, and he was eligible. Reverend Lee King made a contribution to the country, but does that give him the right to be a possible drag on the country's finances?

There were many people who are on the list—big business people of this country—who either have business or the means to pay through some other income, and they carry their own health insurance. Why, Madam Speaker? We took the decision because there was abuse. Now, what the resolution, or the Opposition, is asking the Government to do is no more, or no less, than what Government said it would do and what is in force at the time.

Madam Speaker, I am speaking very frankly here today. It could be that when people go to the person who determines the eligibility they might not like the approach of that person. They may not like how that person deals with them, and I have had to deal with complaints from seamen and others about this particular situation. That person is a civil servant, and I have made my complaint about that matter before. It should be taken in hand because when you are dealing with the public you should know how to deal with them. I say no more on the issue.

I have also noted the Opposition's claim of how good the previous Government treated the seamen by giving all seamen free medical. I have also noted in a radio broadcast yesterday that my name was used by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town when he said that I had taken away what the previous Government had given. I cannot help but think, if the Opposition considers what the previous Government did to be the right thing, judiciously, or morally correct, against the finances of the country with a wide open policy (as that was), why then would the Opposition not ask the Government today to replace what we have done with what was in place before by the previous Government? Why? If they felt that it was correct to have a wide open policy where all these people who had insurance and who were not even Caymanian could have their free medical, if they felt that was correct, why have they not said in this resolution that we should replace what we have done with the previous method? They have not done that.

What the Opposition has asked Government to do is exactly what is now in place—nothing else. They have asked Government to devise a means test. They claim that I have taken away what the seamen had. If I took it away, why did they not replace it? All they are doing is asking the Minister to put in place what is already there. Maybe they can explain that, because I just do not understand what they are doing.

Generally, all over the country the matter of free medical was abused. There were people from Mexico, India, Cuba, Singapore, Guyana, Ethiopia, Trinidad, Switzerland, Barbados, Philippines, Israel, Santo Domingo, Malaysia, Netherlands, Belgium, Ireland, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Bahamas, St. Lucia, El Salvador, Columbia, Cyprus, Nicaragua, China, Costa Rico, Argentina, Panama, and Honduras. What did they expect Government to do—not to put the checks and balances in place?

It is true, it has been said before that they will give McKeeva a good beating up with this because he is the Minister that did it. If that is what they want, let them do their worst. But while I was the Minister I took the position in consultation with all the Members, and I dare say from what I can recollect of the vote, there was not one soul except, I believe, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, who objected to the situation. Even the good Captain, the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, who says today that he is going to abstain on this, voted for the Bill. Why? Because, as he said, he too recognised the abuse and he felt that people could get their free medical.

Let me say to this House that while I was the Minister for Health, there were people—and since I was Minister for Health there are people—who had problems, but we worked it out. When I say we worked it out, they received their free medical care. Because we said that seamen who could prove to the officer in charge at the Hospital that he did not have the means, would get free medical locally or otherwise, overseas. Further to that, in correspondence between the Association and myself, I have said to them that in the review now going on with the Health Insurance, Government would make sure that these seamen were covered. That is what is going to happen while I am a Member of this Executive Council.

They were going to be covered because if we have to pay a small premium, or whatever we could work out to get them fully covered under the insurance scheme that comes up, it would be done. So, nobody needs to try to make political hay out of this issue. Naturally, there are people who are disgruntled, but they are not disgruntled to the point where they cannot get medical attention—no one is in a position not to get free medical attention.

I believe with all my heart and soul today, that we took the right decision. The Government confirmed by the House not to allow the abuse to continue, but to give them that chance. Further to that, there have not been any recommendations, correspondence, or discussions from the Seamen's Association to the Government to do otherwise than what we are now doing. As I have said, there was correspondence, there were meetings held with the president. In fact, there are dozens of seamen who have said to me, "McKeeva, I realise what you are doing. We realise that all these people on this list, in all good conscience, should not get free medical." But for the few areas that I mentioned, nobody else has come forward.

This Law addresses the issue which recognised the role played by the seamen. Today we know that those who are in the twilight years, those who cannot assist themselves, can be assisted by the Social Services even if they are not assisted now. Further, the Pension Committee will be addressing this matter of all elderly people. The Minister for Health has said that he will be having discussions with the Association, and I will be having discussions with them to see where their problem exists. If there is a problem other than what we now know of, we will take the matter in hand further.

In summary, we have said that those who have the ample means to pay, should pay. There are elderly people, elderly seamen and their spouses, whom we know do not have any means today, and those people are being assisted. I do not know of any, because nobody has come forward to me and said they cannot meet their bills. Those who have come forward have been taken care of.

I repeat, in summary, the Opposition is not asking the Government to do anything more than what is now in place. The Opposition says that the Government should devise a means test so as to be able to accurately and fairly determine eligibility for benefits. The Law says "Fees payable (and I repeat this because this is the crux of the matter) by a patient at a health care facility may be waived, in whole or in part, if the patient satisfies the Government that he is unable to pay all or any part of the fees." The Law further goes on to say in 10 (b) and (c): "(b) a member of the Veterans Association of the Cayman Islands or the spouse of such a member; or (c) a veteran member of the Seamen and Veterans' Association of Cayman Brac or the spouse of such a member;" are eligible. So the Opposition is not asking the Government to do any more than what is now being done. Therefore, I agree with the Members who have said that there is no need for this resolution unless it is changed, but, what stands before the House is already in place.

Again, to make it clear, a few things will happen: The Minister for Health and I will be speaking with the Association; the Health Insurance review will take the Seamen, and the parameters will have to be worked out so that they will be taken up in that process, and also in the Pension Law.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Perhaps the Minister who just spoke might be able to convince the Public Works Department to change our parking spaces in the back to read "Opposition." Maybe that will help him to remember the word, because he seems to call it so often. He has a serious case of not wanting to forget.

Madam Speaker, this Motion calling for the Reinstatement of Free Medical Attention to Retired Seamen of Caymanian Nationality, was worded in that fashion for very specific reasons. I am glad to know that the Honourable Minister can pronounce all the names of those foreign countries which he called earlier on, but I wish to remind him, and all others who have interest in this Motion, that the Motion is calling for the reinstatement of free medical attention to retired Seamen of Caymanian nationality.

The people that we make specific reference to in this Motion are a dying breed. These people will not grow in numbers—like the refugees that are coming—but, rather, will dwindle by nature taking its course. We are not referring to hundreds and hundreds of individuals in this Motion. Before I go on let me remind everyone here—those who have spoken on this Motion and those who have not—that the people referred to in this Motion, namely, the retired seamen, are not necessarily members of the Seamen and Veteran's Association of Cayman Brac. Throughout this debate we have been hearing about the Veterans' Association of the Cayman Islands, and the Seamen and Veterans' Association of Cayman Brac. I dare say, that some of the individuals who have either had dialogue with me, or from whom I have received letters, are not necessarily members of either one of these associations. So let us not forget that.

As I said earlier, we are talking about (without meaning it the way it might come across) a dying breed of people. In all that we have said, and all that the proponents of the Motion have said (also the Government bench, who is not persuaded to accept the Motion), is that we have rolled out the red carpet and flogged accolades at these individuals, because history has proven, and will continue to prove right down the line, the important role that these individuals played in our infancy as a growing country. Having given all those accolades to these individuals it is my view, and it is my bone of contention, that while section 9 of the Health Services (Fees) Law, 1993 reads: "Fees payable by a patient at a health care facility may be waived, in whole or in part, if the patient satisfies the Government that he is unable to pay all or any part of the fees", from what I have listened to, it is the Government's position that all of these individuals whom we have referred to in this Motion, if they do need free medical care, they fall under this category. No one is denying that. No one has questioned that.

What we are saying—which seems to be missed by others—is that these people, to whom we have given all the high praises, are people deserving to be in a category by themselves. That is what we are saying. We are not saying that they cannot get this treatment. We are saying that in section 10(a), (b), (c), (d), and (e), which have all the various other categories somewhere in that section, these retired seamen should also be listed.

Madam Speaker, there are some people who will say that what I am going to subscribe to now is a bunch of foolishness, and that is fine. They have that right. But, historically, our people are proud people. I think it is a fair comment. I dare say that not only do I know of some instances, but I believe that there are more existing of which I do not know about, of individuals who fall in this category and find it very difficult within their inner-being to go down to the Hospital to beg for free treatment. That may sound like hogwash, and it might not cut it for some, but I can guarantee you that it happens.

That breed of people—even if I have to accept being watered-down myself—has been watered-down since then. Those people were a special breed. I cannot even begin to say that I can think like those people. Maybe that is why they were so special at the time and why we should still accept a special thought for them. So just to reiterate, the point is not that they cannot be covered. The point is that we are asking for them to be covered in a special way.

Madam Speaker, I noticed that the previous Minister who spoke, referred to what was in place by the previous Government. The Mover and Seconder of this Motion are not asking for that to be reinstated. Frankly, speaking I do not care whose Government or which Government. It is all the same to me, once the right thing is done.

Let me say what my position is on that. What the so-called previous Government had in place had areas which had some problems. What this Government addressed to try and, should I say, clear up those problems, did that. But they cleared the problem too well. What we are asking is for them to accept that they needed to clear the problem, but leave the people in the category who deserve to get this treatment. That is what we are saying. So basically, what we are saying is that sometimes if it takes three tries. So what? I leave them with that thought.

Madam Speaker, the "means test" that is being asked for is simply a test to be devised—I will come to that—by whatever means so that the problem we might have all seen with the Law regarding seamen being how it was before, can be addressed so that the abuse which many of us thought (and might still think) could take place can be overcome. So we do not have to worry about the fact that Government does not have an open bank account. We know that, and we are not asking Government to open the coffers wide and throw the money all over the place and not know where the next cent is coming from to take care of other needs. No one is asking for that. What we are saying is that the "means test" which is being asked for is really the crux of the matter. Not what was said earlier on to be the crux of the matter. The crux of the matter is that if Government is prepared to give these retired seamen a special category of their own and have a "means test", either for themselves to use or to be used by other avenues to ensure that the people who are given this free treatment are people who are deserving and cannot take care of it otherwise without facing much hardship.

Those who have insurance, those who have enough wealth, and those who still earn enough at that age would certainly not fall into the category that we are talking about. But I can assure this Honourable House that there are enough of them who will fall into the category for us to pay attention to it—to not simply tell them to fall in a queue, to wade through the Government System at the Hospital in order to get some free treatment. That is what we are saying.

Madam Speaker, at the age at which these people who we are talking about today, as time goes on and on, they will find it much harder to get jobs. It is simply obvious, by age. And that is just another reason. Let me specifically go to the Law, since everyone else has taken their shot at it (and I will try to do it quickly), to make an attempt to show where we think the Law needs slight revision.

The Law of 1991, referred to on several occasions as the Law of the previous Government, so let us call that the "Law of the Previous Government." [The Health Services Authority (Fees) Regulations, 1991] in section 9 it reads: "No fees are payable by a patient at a health care facility if the patient presents a card issued by the Authority identifying the patient to be—(b) a member of the Veteran's Association of the Cayman Islands or the spouse of such a member; or (c) a member of the Veterans' and Seamen's Association of Cayman Brac or the spouse of such a member; or..."

The Law created in this Honourable House by this Honourable Legislative Assembly, of which I am a part, is the Health Services (Fees) Law, 1993 (Law 9 of 1993), which we will refer to as "The Government of The Day", has in section 10, and I read: "Subject to section 11, fees are not payable by a patient at a health care facility if the patient presents a card issued, or recognised by the Government identifying the patient to be— (b) a member of the Veteran's Association of the Cayman Islands or the spouse of such a member; or (c) a veteran member of the Seamen's and Veterans' Association of Cayman Brac or the spouse of such as member; or..."

Exactly the same words as section 9 (b) and (c) of the previous Government. In subsection (c) is where the difference is, and that is why I referred to them. Subsection (c) in the Health Services (Fees) Law, 1993—and I will quickly say that the Law of 1991 started off with "a member of the Veteran's and Seamen's Association"—the Law of 1993 says: "a veteran member of the Seamen's and Veteran's Association of Cayman Brac or the spouse of such a member;." The only difference is one operative word "veteran" which means that, unless I am totally out of it, that word has been put in there to say that members of the Seamen and Veteran's Association, who are veterans will fall into the category but the seamen will not. So that is where the basic difference is.

The logic that was used to take the privilege away—and I am not standing here to fight and say how wrong it was, I can stand here today and willingly admit that at the time when the Motion was brought I saw the merit of the Motion because of the abuse, I am not trying to deny that, and no one is. But like I have heard other Honourable Members willingly admit, as knowledge is gained, it is not difficult for a position to change. If one gains knowledge and is not prepared to change a position, then he is an idiot. So my position is that having gleaned some more on this issue, I accept what has been done to clear up certain problems that existed. But there is no reason why we cannot go into third gear to do what is right. That is my position.

There was mention of the Health Insurance Law, that when it comes into being, a provision would be there for those people. I am grateful for the thought, but with the greatest of respect (and I cast no aspersions at the Honourable Minister, he knows that), no one can tell me when that will come into being. These people need help today. That is my position.

If this is done and the Health Insurance Law comes into being, it overrides this [the Health Services (Fees) Law] because it is taken care of then. Fine, I do not have a problem with that either. But the politics that was said are being played, I wonder who is playing the politics. I can assure each and every Member here that my support for this Motion has no bearing on who did what. I could care less. Today is today, and I personally see a need for this for I think these people deserve it and that is basically why I support it.

Madam Speaker, the philosophical difference here is that some are saying that there is a category already created en masse, where they will simply fall in a long line and eventually get taken care of. I am saying at this point in time (since I am the one that is speaking), these people deserve a little more than that. So give them their own category. If we can have a category for those suffering from AIDS and tuberculosis or malaria, then why cannot our seamen have their own category?

Madam Speaker, when I started speaking, I was about to say that the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman did so well to support the Motion, I could not understand why he was abstaining. But I respect the fact that he is a member of one of these Associations so there is a slight conflict there. The reason I mentioned that is because, with the greatest of respect to him, and I think, there is another Member here of one of the Associations, I have no problem with that, but in my view the seamen that we are talking about are as important and deserve as much special treatment as the veterans. People can differ and vary with that view. That is their position. I feel that with regards to tenure they served this country as well. I dare not make any comparison to try to say better, but, it is my view that they served as well.

So the arguments put forth by the Government, that these individuals whom we are trying to pin-point are already taken care of, I understand all of that. But for the little that I counted, I cannot accept, because my view is that they deserve a little more.

Without going on to repeat myself, I wholeheartedly support this Motion. There is no egg on Government's face to reconsider based on the facts. In fact it would do us all well to understand, sometimes, that as words flow, minds can change.

I would ask the Government to reconsider their position, although it is not something that is done on a regular basis. I think in the interest of all concerned these people deserve what this Motion is asking for. Whatever supersedes that, however many meetings come after, that is all well and good. I think we need something in Law for these people and that is what we are asking for, and I support the Motion.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.09 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Debate continues on Private Member's Motion No. 21/94. If no other Members wishes to speak, I will ask the Mover if he would like to exercise his right of reply.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, this Motion and its requests are simple enough. In spite of the arguments put forward by the Government, that what we are asking for in the Motion has already been done by the Government, that claim is completely unfounded.

The position as it stands now, based on approaches which have been made to those of us speaking in support of this Motion, is that these seamen—which one of my colleagues described as a dying breed—find it difficult, if not well nigh impossible, to get access to medical attention—notwithstanding, that the Minister for Health has assured the House that no one in these Islands is denied access to medical attention.

Madam Speaker, I want to make two points of significance here. If it is as easy as the Minister for Health said, for people to get medical attention, will someone please explain to me why, in our constituency, we have an elderly lady who constantly calls this Member, and I believe she calls the Minister for Health frequently, complaining about the fact that she has cataracts on her eyes, yet cannot get medical assistance to have them removed? Fact number one.

Fact number two, is that the Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture made some remark that one of the motivations for bringing this Motion may be that persons applying for assistance were being given a difficult time by the Medical Social Worker. Madam Speaker, let me say clearly and unequivocally, I have no such knowledge of the person occupying that post giving any of these applicants a difficult time. The only time that I have dealt with that lady she has been more than cooperative and willingly assisted with the requests that this Member and those constituents which I have referred to her have made. So let me reiterate that this is not an attempt or effort to castigate that civil servant or to bring her in bad repute. The only thing that I can say is that in my dealings with her she has been fair, professional and reasonable.

There would be no need for this Motion if the Minister for Health (now the Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture) had done at the time what should have been done in the first place. But sometimes we get so taken up in being so vindictive, striking out so blindly that the very goodness of the efforts we purport get lost in a spate of revengefulness and vindictiveness. And this today, is the single most accounting factor for the way this country is being misgoverned.

Madam Speaker, the problem, as I see it, and according to what the Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture has said, his 1993 Law required that a seaman be a veteran seaman: which means that the seaman has to be a person who was at some stage previously a member of the Armed Forces.

Now, what this Motion is asking is for that to be rectified simply by dropping the term "veterans" and stating "seamen", because that is the category under which the majority of those persons needing [free] medical attention fall. Let me reiterate that these people are a dwindling breed. The Mover, Seconder and supporter would not only like to see it cover the seamen themselves, but we would like it to be extended to their spouses because in many cases they have left spouses and widows. So we believe that these spouses and widows are also deserving of these benefits.

Madam Speaker, it has been said in this Honourable House many times that we are a people with pride. Caymanian generations have demonstrated that one of our positive qualities is our pride. And in my introduction yesterday, I stated that some of these men were so full of pride that when things were not going right, rather than live and work in contention, they would pay off from distant ports, as far away as Osaka and Yokohama in Japan, from the Middle East, the Persian Gulf, and fly back home. So proud were they, that they would not accept or tolerate the curses and the put-downs of the officers under whom they worked.

Now Madam Speaker, the Government is telling me that the only way these people who made such sacrifices, and who made such valuable contributions, can qualify for [free] medical attention is to fall under the category in their Law, the Health Services (Fees) Law, 1993 (Law 9 of 1993) of "poor people" which reads: "Fees payable by a patient at a health care facility may be waived, in whole or in part, if the patient satisfies the Government that he is unable to pay all or any part of the fees." The Government is telling us that the only way these seamen who made so many sacrifices can qualify is to go join a queue and announce, "I am poor, I am indigent, ask me any humiliating questions you want to ask me, I need [free] medical attention", and reduce them to begging. When these people left our shores to join ships and worked under conditions such as the Persian Gulf heat, Arctic cold and the Atlantic storms, and now this is what they are reduced to in their twilight years. Shame on them!

Sometimes I wonder if it is for lack of understanding, or it is just hard-heartedness why the Government takes these positions. If it is just hard-heartedness, then I would remind them of the prayers of the old Bodden Town woman who prayed that the Lord could melt the old iceberg heart she had. If their hearts are that hard maybe they should share her prayers. If it is for lack of understanding and obstinacy, then I say, they just need to pay a little more heed to those of us on this side who are given to beseeching them, to cajoling them, to pleading with them to understand the position.

Madam Speaker, if the Government intends to help these people, they can do so easily. The Motion asks that a "means test" be instituted. Let me go on to explain how it could be done. I would expect that the "means test" could be administered either by the Government, as a common criterion for all who apply to take the means test and then, they would be given some kind of identification card identifying them as retired seamen (name so and so), stating the percentage of free medical that they would get whether free; 50% free; or whether they have to pay for the consultation and the medication is free; whether it was 25% free, and the same thing could be done for the widows or spouses. The Government could take the responsibility for administering and issuing of those cards.

Or the Government could say to the Seamen's Association, "Please announce that we are opening this up for your members and anyone who wishes to qualify must first join your association", then the Seamen's Association might want to say, "Well Mr. Roy Bodden, we noticed that you have applied to join. Can you bring us an affidavit or give us some proof? Bring two people who can swear that you were sailing for this number of years with this company." After which they will issue a card saying that Mr. Roy Bodden is a member of the Cayman Brac or the Cayman Islands Seamen's Association. Then they may say, "We are going to administer the means test because the Government has agreed to recognise and accept our recommendations." So they could do it themselves.

As a matter of fact I would suggest that it be done that way to ease the Government bureaucracy and ease the little cost that it would be on the Government. Let the Seamen's Association do that themselves. I am sure that they would be quite willing to do that once the Government agrees upon the means test or the criterion. Once we have that understanding then the Seamen's Association could publicise it and they may want to go on a recruiting drive to recruit new members and their spouses. So it could be done in a way that would not add any significant costs to the Government bureaucracy as far as organising and arranging these members who can qualify for free medical attention.

Madam Speaker, I take cognisance of the point made by the Minister for Health when he said that he is willing to sit down with the Seaman's Association and discuss these things. I would admonish him and plead that he discuss this approach with them and encourage them so that they will take that approach and try to reach a settlement along those lines, because every day I meet seamen who complain. We are a people not accustomed to begging. That is a new phenomena. Perhaps in the next generation it may be more commonplace, largely through the influx of uninvited visitors that we are having daily on our shores. But the Caymanian people have never been a people of beggars. The young do not beg, let alone the old.

Madam Speaker, I can see some of those people now in Bodden Town, some of those men—stone faced, stern, sinewy, proud and intelligent. You expect those people, who at 70 and 75 years old, who are not stooped- or humped over, now to stoop and hump themselves to bow down and beg. Never! They will die a thousand deaths before that. Anyone who proposes that does not know their people. Maybe that is what people like the Minister for Education would expect because I suppose he is one of those who likes to see people in positions of subjection, Madam Speaker. Maybe that makes him feel good about his stature. But I am not advocating that. I am not proposing that. I have never done so, and will never do so.

I have to say that having campaigned with my colleague, the Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation, that his reply lacked his usual conviction. I know that deep down that did not come from his heart because I know that he has a good heart. But he saved some faces. He saved some faces when he said he is willing to sit down and talk with the seamen. Madam Speaker, that is good. That is a beginning.

I say in closing that what this Motion is asking for is fair, reasonable and equitable. It should be given, in consideration of the sacrifices of these seamen and their spouses and widows who stood by them in trying and difficult times. This is but a small consideration to give for people who made such great sacrifices. If the Honourable Members who inhabit these hallowed halls have a conscience, I am making a conscience call that they support this Motion. Thank you.

The Speaker: The question before the House is Private Member's Motion No. 21/94.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against, No.

NOES.

The Speaker: The Noes have it.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, can we have a division please?

The Speaker: You certainly may.
Madam Clerk.

Clerk: DIVISION NO. 10/94

AYES: 3

Mr. Kurt Tibbetts
Mr. Gilbert McLean
Mr. Roy Bodden

NOES: 11

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston
Hon. Richard Coles
Hon. George McCarthy
Hon. W. McKeever Bush
Hon. Thomas Jefferson
Hon. John McLean
Hon. Truman Bodden
Hon. Anthony Eden
Mrs. Berna Thompson-Murphy
Mr. Haig Bodden
Mrs. Edna Moyle

ABSTENTION: 2

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks
Capt. Mabry Kirkconnell

ABSENT: 2

Mr. John J. Jefferson
Dr. Stephenson Tomlinson

The Speaker: The result of the division is three Ayes, 11 Noes and two Abstentions. The Motion has, therefore, not been passed.

NEGATIVED BY MAJORITY: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 21/94 DEFEATED.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 22/94

NATIONAL STUDY ON CRIME

The Speaker: The next item is Private Member's Motion No. 22/94—National Study on Crime. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 22/94, entitled National Study on Crime, standing in my name, and which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS it is widely recognised that crime, especially drug related crime, poses a threat to stable Caymanian society;

"AND WHEREAS it is necessary and expedient at this time for some knowledge as to the causes and consequences of endemic crime in Caymanian society;

"BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Government consider establishing the necessary procedures to have such a study done;

"AND BE IT NOW THEREFORE FURTHER RESOLVED THAT upon completion, the findings of such a study be brought to the Legislative Assembly in order that its implications may be debated."

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I beg to second the Motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 22/94, having being duly moved and seconded is now open for debate. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, the records will show that the rise in crime in the Caymanian society is a concern of many Caymanians from all walks of life. An examination of the records will also show that there are persons who continuously and persistently try to keep this rise in crime in the Caymanian society in the main stream of public attention.

Madam Speaker, yesterday this Member piloted a Motion on the floor of the House requesting the Government to consider a deployment of the Police Force in to mini precincts. From information which my colleague the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and I received while at lunch in a restaurant the very day we were debating, at the very time the Government was rejecting the Motion, an armed robbery was taking place at a liquor store just up the road. Imagine, in the broad daylight an armed robbery at a liquor store.

Further, in my constituency—the staid, quiet little hamlet of Pease Bay—on a Sunday afternoon a robber entered a house, tied up the male head of the house and proceeded to rob by force, taking away jewellery and cash then escaping. Yet, we are told by the Government that the Motions this Member brings to try to force some action, are being brought because this Member is attempting to destroy the Police Force, to destroy the Prison Service and to fight them.

No, Madam Speaker, the Motions are being brought because there is a need for a concerted effort to arrest this blight, to stem this flow of crime before it gets any further out of control. Madam Speaker, what does the Government do? Led by the Minister for Education and Aviation, they have become a set of wafflers. And I would like to read from Saffire New Political Dictionary, what it means to waffle. The word is derived from waft, a Scottish word for wave: its dictionary definition is to flutter or flack like a clumsy bird. Another possible derivation is from woof: to bark and snarl; and to use weasel words: to straddle or refuse to commit.

So, Madam Speaker, the Government waffles, while crime takes over Cayman. How sad. How sad—armed robberies in the broad day light and yet they say, "What is Roy Bodden trying to do? Provoke alarm? He wants to see a Policeman on every street corner giving the visitors the wrong impression." Madam Speaker, read the newspaper, listen to the news. It is only a matter of time until someone in here becomes a victim.

I wonder what it is going to take before we provoke these people into sobriety. I wonder how long they are going to continue to live in this state of false security. Madam Speaker, I am reminded of Machiavelli, the architect of political genius who said; "there is nothing more difficult to carry out, nor more doubtful of success, nor more dangerous to handle than to initiate a new order of things." Anyone who has read "The Prince" will be familiar with that—anyone who has studied a little political science or political sociology—and, Madam Speaker, that was in 1515. Now it has become so dangerous, so difficult to initiate, that when you come with ideas they call you a dreamer, an idealist. Well, you know dead men cannot dream so I know that when I dream I am alive.

When the Motion calling for the National Commission on Crime was brought to the floor of this House, the Government replied saying that they could not accept it—it was uncalled for and it was provoking alarm. They made all sorts of pristine observations and promises of what they were going to do. They were going to initiate a study. Fifteen months have passed, and I am going to come to this at great length, I want to refresh their memories if they need refreshing.

I want them to listen to what the Honourable Minister who now has the responsibility for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture, said. I quote: "The Government agrees with the First Elected Member for Bodden Town in the view that crime in this country has grown to the point where a strong and very determined effort must be made to come to grips with it.

We share a deep concern on this and Honourable Members and the country at large may be assured that we are doing something about it." [Official Hansard Report, 24th June, 1993]

What are they doing about it Madam Speaker? They are waffling. "Yes, all of us are deeply concerned." They are so concerned now, I have them nodding their heads like lizards. "We realise that the rise in crime not only affects certain people or businesses, but it affects all of us who live in these Cayman Islands. As we move from one part of the country to the next it is a current topic because people are concerned about their safety especially, when things are so highlighted in the press." How profound, Madam Speaker! Yet they continue to waffle and deter.

"We have to do things to protect this country and we as a government, are determined to do it. So I trust that when those initiatives—and some of them have been drawn to the public's attention, and others cannot be because of the nature of the action—I trust I do not see editorials in the paper as was attempted sometime back in the Caymanian Compass in trying to throw cold water on the attempts of Government." Madam Speaker, I hope when they get up to reply they will tell us what these attempts were.

The Honourable Minister went on to say: "What can be said is that, in taking over this country we found a deteriorating social situation. Many things impact upon crime; absence of parental responsibility, ..." and so forth and so on. Madam Speaker, of significance, was that the Minister admitted at that time that "we are six months into our administration." I wonder how many months they are into their administration now?

Let me read now the proposed solutions: "In addition, to that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, although announcing this Commission of Crime, sometime back shared with the National Team, and other Members of this Honourable House, the commitment for a community safety survey study on crime. [That commitment took place when, Madam Speaker? on the 25th May, 1993. What time is it now, Madam Speaker? September 1994.] That commitment took place at a meeting on the 25th May, 1993 at the Government Administration Building with the Criminologist from Cambridge."

Where has the criminologist gone? The criminologist must have flown the coop. Nothing. Nothing, but empty promises. That is all. It was just meant to appease. A bag of wind.

Madam Speaker, this business is serious. We have commentators in our country who frequently comment, hold public forums. I have (and so has at least one other Member from the Backbench) attended some of these forums held in the Town Hall, right here next door. Some are panel discussions, some commentaries written in one of the newspapers—and I draw specific reference to The New Caymanian of the week of the 29th July, to the 4th August, 1994, in which Mr. A. Steve McField, a prominent Caymanian Attorney and social critic wrote: "WATCH OUT! The Cayman Posse is Approaching." Vivid in its description, the writer goes on to say that, "Within two decades the icons of Caymanian culture and development have been reduced to mere myths. Traditional values seem to have been simply cast aside for values of alien corrupt, violence societies." Madam Speaker, that is complemented by the comments and observations of Dr. Frank McField, a sociologist, who has, as I understand it, done extensive work on the Caymanian family and its problems.

Now in this article written by Mr. Steve McField, part one tells us what he describes as the Caymanian posse. Who are these people? He says: "Posse members live outside the norm in a sub-culture where crack cocaine is the status symbol, and the gun is the power, and violence scripts a false sense of dignity. [dramatic, expressive] Posse members' confidence and masculinity is rooted in their hatred for the system they say failed them and that treats them as nobodies and does not see them as worthy of participating in the social and economic pattern." [page 12]

Madam Speaker, this Motion is calling for a study. A study which will attempt to get to the roots of the causes of these crimes. And anyone sitting in here who thinks that this is not a serious problem needs only to move around.

Permit me to just give one experience from my repertoire. On Monday afternoon at the Annex Field, I went to my football club practice, and on the field there was a set of four youngsters who I figured were in the range of ages 11 to 13. They were just kicking [a ball] around the periphery of the members of the club. Three of the little boys told me that one did not go to school, so I tried to gain his confidence and asked if it was true. He told me that it was. He had not been to school for six months. He is 11 years old. He told me where he lived, and the name of his mother and also his father. He said he was not going to school. I asked him why? He said "because nobody cared." Nobody took the time. He was not, in any way, someone who I would describe as a problem, but at 11 years of age and having not been to school for six months, it seems to me that this youngster, in a few years' time, will be a candidate for what Mr. McField describes as a posse member.

Now we can laugh because we think that we who inhabit and sit in these hallowed halls are insulated because we live in exclusive neighbourhoods in far away places—or in the middle of nowhere, like I do. We think that we are free. We are not free, Madam Speaker. We are prime candidates because if you talk with these people, they see us and people like us, as the causes of their predicament. We have failed them and we continue to fail them because we think putting up a little centre here, or a little programme there, and getting a couple of them in is the solution. Check it carefully. We are missing the vast majority. Madam Speaker, even in an organisation as popular and as widely followed as soccer, we are just touching the edges—the bad guys do not come to football. The bad guys do not play football. You do not see them at the Annex, or at any other playing fields. We have to go and look for them.

I say again, that I know when the time comes fun will be poked at the Motion. But they are not laughing at Roy Bodden, they are merely laughing at themselves because I am not so stupid as to believe that if this is allowed to happen, I am going to be safe; that I am going to run forever. No! They can make comments about me wanting to rehabilitate—I must rehabilitate them with my own money and with my own resources.

They can call me an idealist or a dreamer, or whatever else they want to call me. Perhaps when I become cynical enough I will say; "You know what? I am going to fold my hands too." I tell you what, a lot of them are going to go before they decide to come for me because I am not such a bad guy. They are going to take a lot of those before they reach to me.

Madam Speaker, the Motion is asking that something be done. And let me say this: I am not suggesting that we hire some criminologist from Cambridge, Oxford, MIT, Columbia or Princeton. I am not suggesting that at all. I am suggesting that we get someone who is familiar with these kinds of problems...

[Inaudible words from across the floor]

Mr. Roy Bodden: [addressing voice across the floor] Has she come? So I signed for her to come here. Has she come?

[inaudible words from across the floor]

Mr. Roy Bodden: [addressing voice across the floor] Well, I am going to continue to put stumbling blocks. If the Minister for Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture calls the Motion that I bring, stumbling blocks. I am going to put stumbling blocks. I am going to continue. I am going to be like Sisyphus. I am going to continue to roll this stone up the hill until I get results.

[inaudible words from across the floor]

Mr. Roy Bodden: No, I suggest that the stone will knock the Minister for Community Development, Sports and Youth Affairs out before it knocks me out, since with his size he will find it more difficult to get out of the way. I am agile.

[inaudible words from across the floor]

Mr. Roy Bodden: That remains to be seen.

[inaudible words from across the floor]

Mr. Roy Bodden: Well, if a man with a Master's degree is a fool, then how much more so is a grass cutter with no degree.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: And what have you done with your degree?

Mr. Roy Bodden: I am earning an honest dollar.

[inaudible words from across the floor]

Mr. Roy Bodden: [addressing voice across the floor] Yeah, convince the street people.

Madam Speaker, let me say that the Motion has merit. The Motion is not seeking to leave any obstacles in the Government's way. The Motion is leaving it up to the Government to say what, if anything, they are going to do.

Madam Speaker, I shall sit pensively and listen. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, in his usual fashion, has given a very bleak picture of this country with what he calls "the Caymanian posse." A further bleak picture, and one to be very concerned about, is the one about who will be taken out and who will not be taken out.

Let them say what they want to say, I am definitely much more in an upbeat and positive mind about the future of this country than that. And if he believes, or anyone else believes, that criminal activities will destroy this country by this Government not acting, then he has another guess coming.

Madam Speaker, yes, we are very much seriously concerned about what has taken place in this country—the rise in crime. But I say—and maybe they will have some explanations when he and his colleagues rise after I speak—that this country could not clear itself of criminal activities in the run of a year or even 15 months: perhaps in four years with the mess that we inherited, when all and sundry did as they pleased, came into the country as they pleased and did as they pleased.

I am not here just to push blame, but that is a fact. People recognised it, even though some might change their mind today. That is human nature. Certainly, with that existing condition and the social deterioration that has taken place in this country and which exists in this country, Government is naturally very much concerned.

Last year an announcement was made for a number of initiatives to be taken to address the increase in crime. It was also announced that the Government considered it important to arrive at an understanding of the factors contributing to criminal activities. Government stated that it intended to commission a study on the causes of crime in the islands. An informal meeting took place in June (the same meeting that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and the Mover of this resolution referred to) between the Government Members and a member of staff from a well established United Kingdom Institution in the field of criminology. The same one which the Honourable Elected Member read about, which he has agreed (or maybe he did not read that part of the Hansard), but the same one now that he has said we did not need. I will deal with that a little later on, Madam Speaker. Just let me say, that because they have the last word does not mean that they are right. Only cowards are afraid to say what they should say when somebody else can rebut.

Subsequent to Government's decision to commission the study, this contact was activated with a request to respond to draft terms of reference for the study. Since that initial correspondence, letters have been exchanged. This correspondence has sought to arrive at a common understanding of what is needed by a review of the draft terms of reference, discussion of timetabling, staffing costs and other considerations. Yes, this has not come to the early fruition that the Government had hoped, but Government has been on top of it and we continue to be on top of the aspects of getting that person [the criminologist] to do the study.

Now, Madam Speaker, that woman, after all this haranguing in the House the last time, and again on this occasion with the First Elected Member for Bodden Town saying that we do not need to bring in anybody, do you really believe that we are going to get somebody to come in here and do any kind of study with the Member making those sort of accusations in the House? Yet he did not have the guts nor the stamina, which he claims he has, to get up in this House and say who it is that he (Mr. First Elected Member for Bodden Town) wants to do this crime study. Who? Who in the country are you proposing to do this study?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, please address the Chair. Do not use the word "you." Honourable Minister, you are speaking across the floor and that is not allowed.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, very much, and I am sorry that I had to address that question. But I found it most important to ask him.

The Speaker: It could still be asked through the Chair.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Well, Madam Speaker, could you ask the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, who in this country he is proposing to do this study? Since the person that he had signed for, he now says he does not want. Can you ask him that? I am waiting Madam Speaker, because if he can tell me [who that someone is] it would be done today. Immediately!

POINT OF ORDER
(Misleading)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker,...

The Speaker: Are you rising on a Point of Order?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of Order?

Mr. Roy Bodden: The Honourable Minister is misleading the House. Since he is claiming that I signed a contract for some lady to come and do the study, I signed no such contract.

The Speaker: I do not think I understood him to say that you had signed a contract. I do not think that was what I...

Mr. Roy Bodden: I beg your pardon, Madam Speaker. He said I signed for someone to come to do the study; which I interpret to mean that I signed a contract or an agreement.

The Speaker: Can we get on with the debate?

Honourable Minister would you please continue and address the Chair in the future because anything you say will be heard by the Members of this House and members of the general public. So I would assume that the Member to whom you wish the remarks to be directed will also hear. Thank you.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Elected Member gave an eloquent description of 'waffling' earlier. That is it: when you do not have the courage to stand by your convictions.

Yes, Madam Speaker, he signed an agreement with the Government to hire the lady in question. That is in the "HANSARD" report, he should read it.

[inaudible words from across the floor]

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, when the Member tells the Government who it is in Cayman he wants to be hired, maybe we can say why we have had so much trouble hiring the woman. But I pose the question again to this Honourable House...

[inaudible words from across the floor]

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Madam Speaker, it is all right when he has the last say, but he does not have the courage to say so now.

As I understand it, Madam Speaker, there are only two such psychologists with that claim: he and the good doctor he has mentioned. Madam Speaker, he had his time. He should keep quiet unless he can answer some of my pointed questions.

It is true that time has elapsed, and there has been some problem in getting the person. We received a letter from the woman saying that she received an aggressive call from someone living in Germany, saying that if she was going to do anything she had to come through him. All these sorts of things, Madam Speaker, to put stumbling blocks in the way of the Government. We have had to convince the woman that the Government—nobody else—has the say. Nobody else has the say on who comes here to do such a study as commissioned by Government.

Nevertheless, in spite of all these red herrings and stumbling blocks put in our way, we are still discussing with the lady in question, and currently exploring the possibility of utilising the service of another research agency. But I say again, no one is going to come here when you have such haranguing about an outsider coming in to do the study, because there is somebody here locally to do it. This is what he has said, we do not need to hire anybody. Well who is it locally that is going to do it? If he can tell me now, then I will ask for the agreement of Honourable Members to get a suspension of this House. But try not to get up and pontificate and talk about people's education when something is being done.

I am not a super-human, Madam Speaker, but no one can say—no one inside this House or outside this House can say—that I have not been trying to address these problems which come under my Ministry. No one! Whether I have a college education or whether I am just a grass cutter! When you consider the programmes put in place by this Government in trying to stop the deterioration, how can anybody in his right mind in this House justly and honestly say that we are waffling—except that he is a chef of flowery language! Talk is cheap! But when you have the courage to do what you believe is necessary in the place of the many stumbling blocks that this Minister has found, Madam Speaker... but that does not deter me. I believe that the programmes being put in place by my Ministry with the assistance of the Government are going to reap benefits in the future, and I believe that they are already doing something for the good of this country. Yet you hear that we are not doing anything.

Madam Speaker, in spite of what is being said about criminal activities the facts prove it is on the decrease. We must remember that the general public saw this also as being their concern with the Chamber of Commerce, the Business and Professional Women's Club, everybody taking part. One prominent member said to me last week, "Yes, crime is happening, but at least we believe that we are coming to grips with it. We feel that we are seeing a decrease."

Madam Speaker, it is not just going to go away. Nobody has to believe that. But bringing Motions to the House to ask the Government to do something it is already doing, or that the general public is already doing, will not help. What will help is if those educated people in this House put forward sound proposals to combat the problems they are pointing out; sound proposals to deal with every item. But are they doing that, Madam Speaker? No, no. They are making broad statements about the Caymanian posse, and who is going to be wiped out. Well, let us just wait and see, Madam Speaker. Let us just wait and see.

Madam Speaker, the Government believes that the increased emphasis on positive programmes and our initiatives and thrusts towards establishment of services for young people are positive ways in responding to the same problem—social deterioration. We must put politics aside, stop taking the opportunity to beat upon somebody's head, to throw rumours around in this House without substantiating it. We must stop being eager to do that, and take upon ourselves the cloak of responsibility because that is what we were elected here for—not to shy away from it and blame it on the Government—but to put the programmes forward.

Madam Speaker, the task in getting this done is serious, and the Government sees that the task involved in structuring and administering such a study requires establishing a focus for the research which is broad enough to examine all the key issues to give clear useful answers. For example, regarding the relative importance of our socio-economic factors and psycho-social factors which are manageable, both in terms of the time required and the pool of expertise to be harnessed towards getting the answers that are needed. This is what we have been attempting to come to grips with. It is a complex matter and one we continue to work at.

Let me hasten to say that if the First Elected Member for Bodden Town cannot provide this criminologist/psychologist, and we have to go overseas or continue dealing with the person or the research agency, and if there are persons locally that can help the outside people to do the study, it will be done. But I cannot see, and I cannot understand what is the play of the Elected Member, who says he is so educated. What is this big play today about not hiring somebody from outside?

Madam Speaker, I do not understand what the Elected Member wants. I hope that we can—and we have been trying to—have this [study] completed as quickly as possible. The staff of my Ministry are very hard-working, and they have been very hard at work in trying to get the programmes of this Government through. Let me say to all those who like to put stumbling blocks, that the fight is not over yet and while they will have the last say on this, the Government has the last say in carrying out policies. As it has been proven with other things that they have said will not come to fruition, this, too, will come to fruition.

As for them haranguing me and the accusations that they have heaped upon me, let them carry on. This too, Madam Speaker, will pass. The Government is already trying to accomplish its policy by getting a study done. Therefore, we do not see the need for this Motion to do a Crime Study.

We see the problems and we agree with the Elected Member that we are still experiencing criminal activities. But we have other crises on our hands, and daily it comes. But that is what happens in a country. All we want for them to do is to be genuine and to work, and to not just be a bunch of grumblers or complainers and people that spread rumours they cannot substantiate—people who complain about other peoples' education and poke fun at them. It is easy for them to do it. It is very easy for them to do it, but it is hard to put policies in place. It is difficult to come up with programmes, and if they can tell me one programme that they have come up with to stop the deterioration [in the society], if the programmes we have now put in place and continue to put in place are not more effective or better. I await to hear what those [Elected Members] have to say.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. G. Haig Bodden: Madam Speaker, when one looks at the Police Report for 1993, one will see that there has been an increase in crime, and the increase in the number of cases have all been drug related cases, with the exception of a small increase in fraud. This means that in all other areas there have been reductions.

The Police Report mentioned some unusual cases and these indicate that the situation needs careful analysis. For example, there was an attempted case of arson against the Police Station; there was an increase in robberies from seven to eight over the 1992 figures; there were two murders (which is not unusual for there had been more in other years); and one peculiar one was that on 14th July, where there were 14 arrests for drug-related dealings.

So, obviously, there is cause for continued concern. But as the Report points out, we compare quite favourably with a lot of other countries. Of course that is no good to us if our country is saturated with crime. In 1993 there had been an increase of approximately 240 crimes above the 1992 figure, making the total crimes committed last year 3,298, or something in the vicinity of nine crimes per day. But as I mentioned earlier, most of these crimes were drug related and, in fact, there was a total increase of 47.36% on drug related crimes.

Ganja cases in 1993 almost doubled over the 1990 figures. We had a total of 513 cases in 1993, as against 200-odd in 1990. Cocaine was up over last year's figure—not by a very large amount but, nevertheless, the trend is upwards. The miscellaneous drug crimes were also more than double the miscellaneous crimes in 1992.

But the present Government has made very strong efforts to arrest this upward flow. The Honourable Minister who just spoke indicated that they are still working to bring in a criminologist (the person referred to in this debate as "the woman"), and he also indicated that there had been some drawbacks. But I gathered from the Honourable Minister that the Government is very near in concluding the arrangement for the criminologist to come in. It is hoped that she will help the Government identify the main causes of crime and probably make recommendations which will help to decrease these crimes.

If what the Honourable Minister has said is true (and I believe what he has said), there is really no urgency for this Motion, although I respect that what the Motion is asking for is very necessary. But if the Government gives the assurance, as the Honourable Minister has given, that the Government is looking at this matter and is doing all in its power to complete the arrangements for the study to be done, we can only wait. I think it would be useless to embark upon another study by a different individual, or even to take a new approach to the person with whom they have been negotiating. So while I welcome the Motion, I will be forced to cast my vote against it as I think its resolutions are being carried out. It is only a matter of time for the actions taken by Government to become reality.

I think yesterday the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, said he could not understand my debate, where I agreed with the principle but could not support the Motion. So, I must commend the Elected Members for bringing the Motion and, perhaps, if they had known what the Honourable Minister has just openly revealed, they might not have brought this Motion. Maybe it is a good thing to have brought so that the whole country now knows that "the woman" will be brought in as soon as the Government can conclude the negotiations.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.31 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.52 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Debate continues on Private Member's Motion No. 22/94. [Pause] May we please have debate? Time passes by so quickly and I am sure everybody has important work to do—the Government has, we have, everybody has—please! The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, as the seconder of this Motion, I naturally support what the resolve asked for, which is that the Government consider establishing the necessary procedures for a study to look at the causes and consequences of crime in the Caymanian society; and that when such a study is completed the findings of that study be presented to the Legislative Assembly for debate. This is normally considered standard procedure.

I think it was during the break this morning that I heard a Member of this Legislature mention a certain situation in the country at this time, where the Government apparently knows blow-by-blow what is happening, but the rest of the country, including Members of the Legislative Assembly, do not. He said, "It is like winking at a woman in the dark: the person winking knows exactly what he is doing, but the lady is completely unaware."

It seems to me, from what I have heard in reply from the Government, that, supposedly, the Government is still attempting, as it claimed it was more than a year ago, to find a person to carry out such a study as this Motion is asking for. I have heard of that entity being referred to as "the woman." I do not believe for one minute that such studies need to have any sexist bias and it could be "the man." What I think is important in finding such a person is that the person is suited for such an undertaking. That person should have experience in how to carry out such study, and what to look for. The credentials of that person should be able to show that it will not be the first job performed by that person.

I also do not believe that the person has to come from Cambridge, Massachusetts, Paraguay, or any such place. In fact, in my opinion, the person best suited to do that would be someone from the West Indies who has expertise in such study. While I make no recommendation about anyone on this Island or in the West Indies as a whole, I do believe that much expertise lies within the University of the West Indies, for example, and it would not be too hard to contact that institution to seek such a person to carry out such a study. But I am sure that such expertise is available within this region. Such a person would have much more insight into the Cayman Islands, I believe, than someone from Cambridge in England.

Having said that, although there may be specific parts of such a survey that you could find a social scientist having certain expertise in, even if it is some line of mathematics, I do not discount assistance from such an area or a person from such a location.

Madam Speaker, the problem that has existed so far in this country, now for over 18 months, is that in numerous instances, and particularly where the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and I have brought Motions here, they, in the large majority, have not been accepted. And the usual answer from the Government is that this is already being looked after. That, I think, is the problem—looking at it. It is like the sign one sees in an office sometimes in some places about great workers: They love work—they can sit and look at it all day. It is no good just looking at the situation, something has to be done. Something positive has to be done.

I believe that is necessary because crime, being universal in the world, in all societies, has come to be too great a neighbour to the Cayman Islands. Cayman no longer can truthfully make claims to being "crime free." We are now crime ridden. Crime has escalated in this country to the most unacceptable proportions and it is not sufficient to say that in comparison to other territories in the region it is not as high as theirs—it is too high and unacceptable for us.

I believe crime is a concern of everyone in this country, including all Members of this House. I meet citizens in all the districts from time to time and hear their expressions of concern about crime. It is also becoming a concern to visitors to these shores who now understand that this is really not the place it is claimed to be. I understand, that even nowadays it is claimed that there is no crime here and you can leave your windows open and so on. Long before these times when I had association, for example, with the tourism efforts in this island, my position to the people selling the Cayman Islands was just to tell the people the truth. Tell them the sensible and practical thing: 'Close your windows because it is good security'.

I think if we could stop fooling ourselves, stop lying to ourselves and, most of all, stop believing it to too large an extent, we would be better off. If we could just accept the fact that our lives have changed dramatically over the past decade and a half, and it is irreversible, I believe we would be better off. When you get out of your car now you should lock it, because there is the likelihood that someone will steal something out of it. It was not that way before, but that is the way it is now, and that is what we should do as a counter measure.

So crime is with us. What we are going to do about it and how we are going to deal with it is the question. Statistics prove that crime is on the increase. Crime has escalated from the last Police Report. Crime certainly is here this year and more and more we hear of it. Every day there is a column in the newspaper showing us that there is some commission of crime. Unlike what I have heard suggested by the Government side—about persons in this House trying to destroy the police and destroy the efforts of the Government (which I deplore)—that is untrue, everyone is concerned. Everyone is expressing his concern about what is happening now and wants something done about it. A solution needs to be found. Statistics should shock those who are capable of understanding their implications.

The police are concerned. I believe the police are doing generally all that they can. I believe that there can be improvement in their performance because there is always room for improvement (and the police are no different). I would not accept that because there is a deployment of police officers in one way now, that they cannot be deployed in a different manner more effectively, I believe that they can. Not to say that the police are not attempting to deal with it, but it is not just their problem. It is the problem and the concern of all of us because we do not hear too many criminals going to rob the police. They are robbing the citizens of this country, not the police. All things being equal, I think they do stand in some fear of them, if not respect of them. So they are not robbing them. But they are surely pulling some daring criminal activities very near to where the police are in this country. There are various instances of that.

We hear in sermons, from various Churches, expressions of concerns about criminality and criminal activities. The Churches are offering their opinions as to why, suggesting that persons have forgotten God—that there is a breakdown in the family, et cetera. I think all of those things could be said to be true in one way or the other. But what is at the root of it all? What is the virus that is causing crime? What is that element, so that we can describe it in words and focus on it? I do not think that we have had any real surveys to determine that.

Broad, foolish statements about 'That is what you get with progress.' Progressive minds are not saying that because there are many industrialised countries that have been industrialised for decades, so their progress has been in place for a long time—generations—yet crime is escalating. So I do not think they would, like ourselves, be blaming progress. There are causes within the society, and if we know the causes—just like someone having a fever, it is but an indication that something is wrong—if we can find out what is wrong, if we can find out what the infection is, then there can be a curative given, there can be an antibiotic prescribed.

That is what this Motion is talking about and asking for. And this is what the Government says it is doing, but it is waiting for Cambridge. Parents are concerned about the situation of crime. Why? Parents' children are committing crimes. Regrettably, when their children commit a crime, too many parents go up to their necks in debts—pawning their homes, pawning their valuables—to get money to pay legal advocates to defend [their children] in court. Not only are the children in problems, the parents and their homes (where nine times out of ten those children are staying) are in jeopardy. The parents cannot find the money to pay for the indebtedness, therefore the whole family becomes engulfed.

They are the realities of the Cayman Islands right now. And it is not a fact to say that in the two smaller islands, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, there are not some serious similar problems as there are here in Grand Cayman. They are the realities.

I hear stories of parents going to the Social Services Department saying, "Listen, I cannot take care of this child. I want the Social Services to take over," and so on. That was inconceivable 15 years ago. A swift slap on the side of the head, or a belt, would draw quick attention and response from children. There was a discipline—that has slipped away. Why has it slipped away is the question I think we need to find out through some type of scientific study.

I heard, as recent as yesterday, of an instance where a parent was willing to cooperate in a situation to assist the police in making a bust on his own child. Why? The situation is growing hopeless! Parents would rather see their children in jail than around them in their houses [stealing] and so on. And, of course, I believe they have a social conscience—they know that their children are doing things which they are ashamed of, and they want to hang their head around their neighbours when they see them, and they know that for the good of the community and themselves it is better for children like those to be in prison. That is the reality of the Cayman Islands.

The situation is not solved by football or softball or any other kind of ball. We need an understanding of what is causing this thing to happen. Athletes seldom fall within the category of criminals. They are people who are proud of their healthy bodies and their abilities to perform. It is that, too large of another group, that other athletes have become people who prey on others in our society. We need to find solutions for them and it is not good enough to say look at so and so, who is a good jumper, or a good football [player], etcetera. That drug-head looks at him and criticises him. I remember, from the time I was a young child, hearing my mother saying that "misery loves company." That criminal would just as soon see that good athlete join him in criminality than him do the reverse. That is the kind of situation here now.

I believe our society has gone to the point where all of the festering criminality and violence that our people see on a daily basis on television—where the criminal, the shooter or the killer has respect—they are trying to emulate it, unfortunately! We need to find out if that is part of the problem. I believe it is part of it. We need to find it out now, not next year. We need to find it out right now so that the Police, Social Services, Members of the Legislative Assembly, the parents, the aunts, the uncles and everybody can understand. For example, they say, "Listen, it is because you are not making those children in the household do their chores—fix their beds or be on time at the dinner table—or say look, today we have beef and if you do not eat beef then you will eat the vegetables and you will not have any meat, like the good old days when we were glad that there was something to eat." I am not like some of my associates or colleagues, or the Government who has always had it so very grandly and are very comfortable with that situation now, where they can be apt to choose and refuse.

Madam Speaker, I believe that the causes need to be found for criminality because the education system needs to be able to respond positively in a manner to guide and to instruct children's understanding of the best methodology. The causes of crime are known to the teachers, for there are crimes in the schools, and teachers, if they are aware, will know that this is one of the elements to avoid—this is one of the conditions, and here is the situation we need to be aware of. These children need more direction in this manner, more attempts being made perhaps to build self-esteem or to build confidence, whatever it is we need to know.

Certainly, I believe businesses are worried. They are worried about losses due to theft and damage to property; they are worried about the safety of their personnel and they are surely worried about the cost to business. But businesses too can assist if we can find the root cause. They can, at least, play a part by contributing some money into programmes which would help—although businesses, generally, in these Islands seem to want the Government to find the solutions and Government too, in the largest part, must pay for the solutions. We claim to be so capitalistic, but one wonders why in these Islands so much is expected of the Government.

Madam Speaker, another reason why there is need for a study is because of the immense impact crime is having on our social and cultural fabric. We are being changed from people who have respected other people in our society; who lived by certain moral codes; who would not take from one another; who would not conceive about killing one another and we are growing to a point where to be in crime is just fine—it is cool, everybody is doing it. If you get caught you can get a lawyer perhaps at the expense of one's parents who will plead and say that it is the first time this has happened and, because his mother did not give him the gold chain he wanted, he felt compelled to go and break into the jewellery shop to get it to satisfy his childlike yearnings. That is where we are getting to.

We need to stop the deterioration that is happening to this society—socially and culturally—and I firmly believe that this can be done if we can determine what are the causes. Surely, assurances that the Government is trying and is working on it, does not help the situation. Priorities need to be set, and set now, and there needs to be more action and less talk. There needs to be the courage of one's conviction to insist that we are going to deal with this situation and take every means and every step in dealing with it. But, of course, we are not. Like so many things, the clear and impending disaster that is coming upon us by the overwhelming number of economic refugees and, similarly, we are talking about it—in this case we are not even talking, we keep it quiet, and lo and behold because we keep it quiet it is all going to go away.

There is some sick thinking loose in the political management of this country at this time, and it is because of these attitudes, this inaction, why things continue to deteriorate. They are going to destroy us if they are not stopped, and who should stop them at this point in time are those people who have been elected by the people and put in charge of the day-to-day runnings of this country, at this time. Any frivolous, ridiculous remarks about others who do not have that authority or responsibility in finding solutions and solving the problems is just that—ridiculous.

I say to the Government, they had better get on with the job. Others will be coming behind who will do the job but in the meantime they are in the way. So they should do the job instead of talking about it. Madam Speaker, I support this Motion asking that something be done about it.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Motion presently before the House dealing with a National Study on Crime—I believe that if I did not live here in Grand Cayman, I might not be able to shed a little light on some of the comments that we have heard today. When we look at crime—the figures from the Royal Cayman Islands Police Annual Report 1993 indicate on page 54 that the total crime reported to the police in 1992 was 3,058; and the total crime reported in 1993 was 3,298, in other words, an increase of 240 crimes. As I look through the categories of crimes from pages 51 through 54, all of that increase is in the area of drugs.

Some of the comments that have been made in this House today, and yesterday, talked about murder. But there was one case reported in 1992 and there were two cases reported in 1993, and according to this Report all three cases were cleared up. It is not something we like to see, Madam Speaker, but let us not go overboard beating ourselves up. Let us not destroy ourselves from the inside.

You know, there are people on this Island that are listening to what is happening in the House and it would be surprising to know how far the Caymanian Compass travels when they carry some of these comments. Some of these comments about "Caymanian posse." I think the persons who make those statements should really ask the question, "How much interest do we have in the present and the future development of this country?" Because, as sure as there is a God above, they are going to link it to the word they know in the United States as "Jamaican posse." Nobody can tell me that that does not strike fear in the heart of any visitor in any part of the world.

I do not know anything about any Caymanian posse, Madam Speaker. This is a nice label to put on the crime that is going on in the Cayman Islands, in trying to alarm and frighten everybody who lives here and perhaps everybody who is trying to come here. Maybe tourism is too good, Madam Speaker, 'let us put a little damper on it, let us strike some fear in the heart of the North American traffic which comes to the Cayman Islands'. We all know where the larger percentage of our visitors come from; let us frighten the business investors in this country; let us frighten the banks, because we are not frightening anybody else. They are certainly not frightening me with their comments, Madam Speaker. I live here and I move around the Cayman Islands just like everybody else.

I have been in this House a few years, so I am not going to allow anyone to tell me what the position is as if I do not know it. There is a way to handle situations such as this, and there is a way not to handle it. The way to handle it, I believe, is the way the Government is moving forward—to institute dogs back into the system again; dogs at the Airport, dogs within the Police Department, and dogs within the Customs Department; to buy a boat to provide some surveillance around the Cayman Islands; to add more police officers—not mini precincts, we do not need more buildings, Madam Speaker—we need people on the street, policemen to deal with any criminal activity. The job of a policeman, in my view, is to protect all of us that are innocent, and deal with the persons who are trying to harm us in whatever way.

We have amended legislation to deal with people who use firearms, legally or illegally, and to increase prison sentences to such a level that I believe any sensible person would take notice. We have said to the Commissioner of Police and the Customs Department, that whatever you need to do your job the way we are asking you to do it, you let us know because, by God, we will find the way of finding the funds to help. I did not say that all of us are pleased with the police, but I do not think that going out in the public and attacking them is the answer either. What about the persons, the Police Officers, whom all of us know are doing a very good job. When you start attacking the police how are you going to tell him or her that you are not attacking them too?

If you have a problem with anybody at the helm, you deal with it. I do not have to go to West Bay and tell them on a platform that I am unhappy with this one or the other one. You take it to the right corridor and you deal with the matter in a way in which all of us look as if we are still human beings.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION—4.30 PM

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, it is now 4.30, would you be finished shortly?

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I do not believe so, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Would you continue to stand and move the Motion for the Adjournment?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I thank you, Madam Speaker. move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.31 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM FRIDAY, 16 SEPTEMBER 1994

FRIDAY
16 SEPTEMBER 1994
10.07 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable First Official Member to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. The proceedings of the Legislative Assembly are resumed.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE PORT AUTHORITY OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS FOR THE PERIOD ENDED 31 DECEMBER, 1993 AND 1992

The Speaker: Papers and Reports. Financial Statements of the Port Authority of the Cayman Islands for the period ended 31st December, 1993 and 1992.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House the Financial Statements of the Port Authority of the Cayman Islands for the period ended 31st December, 1993 and 1992.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker and Members, for the first time these Financial Statements of the Port Authority have been prepared in accordance with the International Accounting and Auditing standards. The net operating income for the year was down by approximately $472,000 against 1992, caused by a substantial increase in insurance premiums from approximately $45,000, to the 1993, $155,000. Repairs to the George Town Dock were necessary, to deal with the damage which was done to it by a Northwester in 1993. However, for the first time in probably 10 years, the Port Authority paid a contribution to the general revenue of the Government of $773,000.

In addition, during 1993 the Port Authority also created a reserve of $500,000 for the Cargo Distribution Centre, which was estimated for the rehabilitation costs. That matter is now under the direction of the Legal Department. With your approval, Madam Speaker, I would like to read Note 9(a) dealing with contingencies in the Cargo Distribution Centre.

"9. Contingencies: (a) Cargo Distribution Centre: In May 1992 the Port Authority commenced operation of a new Cargo Distribution Centre in George Town, which was completed at a cost of CI$3,992,874. Subsequently, the land surface of this facility settled in certain areas resulting in uneven surfaces which appear to require major rehabilitation. The Port Authority commissioned Law Engineering, Inc. of Maryland U.S.A. to determine the cause of the failure and recommend solutions. In their report, dated March 1994, they estimated that the cost of rehabilitation could range from CI$422,000 to CI$763,000 depending on the alternative selected by the Port Authority. Based on this report, the Port Authority has provided CI$500,000 in the 1993, financial statements as their best estimate of the costs of rehabilitation. In addition, the Port Authority is seeking legal advice on the legal remedies available to recover the costs from third parties who might have been negligent."

Additionally, the Port Authority charged to expenses in 1993 the total cost of the Master Port Development Plan which is approximately $230,000. A self-insurance amount was also established at $134,410 to deal with future insurance claims on our premiums. Net income for the year was, therefore, $823,354.

It is also important to mention that the Grand Cayman Port continues to subsidise our Port in Cayman Brac, and the total revenue earned by the Cayman Brac Port in 1993 was $238,736, with the total operating expenses at $317,143. Therefore, the annual loss for 1993 at the Cayman Brac Port Operation was $78,407.

In this public forum, I thank the members of the Port Authority Board and staff for their efficient performance of service to the Port Authority. And, to the public, I hope that the Port Authority office next door to the Customs Department and the Airline offices at the Airport Warehouse is proving convenient for everyone so that the clearance of goods becomes easier in having to go to one location and clear with Airlines, Customs and Port Authority.

I personally deem this a valuable addition to the services provided to the public by the Port Authority.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

Cayman Turtle Farm (1983) Limited, Financial Statements 31st March, 1994. The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

CAYMAN TURTLE FARM (1983) LIMITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS 31ST MARCH 1994

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Cayman Turtle Farm (1983) Limited Financial Statements 31st March, 1994.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: These financial statements are also prepared in accordance with International Auditing and Accounting standards.

During the fiscal year, ending 31st March, 1994, the Government agreed that the employees of the Cayman Turtle Farm could become participants in the Government Pension Scheme.

On the 18th day of October, 1993, the Board of Directors resolved that the company should become part of the Government Pension Programme. Under the terms of the scheme the company and employees each contribute 4% of the employees' salary or wages each year. This policy has been applied retrospectively from 1st January, 1990, to the 31st March, 1994. The company has contributed the employees' share in addition to its own. Contributions of $35,813 relating to the year ended 31st March, 1994, have been included in determination of operating income for the current year and those contributions relating to prior years have been separately disclosed in a statement of income and retained earnings as "retrospective pension contributions."

I would also like to mention that with effect from the 31st of December 1993, the company has elected to self-insure all risks, with the exception of public liability, due to both the unavailability of commercial coverage for livestock losses and increases in other premiums. The Board of Directors is committed to transferring amounts of between $50,000 and $100,000 per financial year to a self insurance reserve. Additionally, the Board of Directors intends to set aside equivalent amounts of cash in a separately designated bank account. These cash amounts are to be used exclusively for losses that would otherwise have been claimed from a third party insurance provider.

May I also mention that due to the continuing limitations surrounding the market for the products of the secondary herd, the Directors considered it prudent to write the value of the herd down by $309,949 to its estimated realisable value, based on current market conditions. I do not think I need to go into great detail about what the current market conditions are. For the same reasons raw shells continue to be valued at nil, with none of the costs of production being attributed to them during the year.

I deem it appropriate too, to mention that the Cayman Turtle Farm paid to the Government early this year, a dividend of $160,000. The previous year we paid $150,000 as a dividend to Government. So, in the two years that I have been the Chairman of the Cayman Turtle Farm, we have paid to Government a total dividend of $310,000.

May I publicly thank the members of the Turtle Farm Board and staff for their keen interest in the operation of the Farm and their punctual and responsible manner in which they dealt with matters at Board level.

I would like to mention too, that the system which was introduced on the 1st of August, 1994, for the sale of the additional weekly 400 pounds of stew has been, for lack of better words, overwhelming. There are two to three times the requests than we are able to supply. However, the waiting period has been reduced from six months to two months. I realise that is not a lot of comfort when you want turtle meat tomorrow, but we are getting there.

I would ask the public to be patient with us, as we try to ensure that everyone who calls does have an opportunity to receive five pounds of turtle stew, although he or she may have to wait two months. If we try to give everyone who calls five pounds of turtle stew, the turtle population at the farm will eventually be no more. I am certain that none of us wants to see that day.

We now have 1,200 pounds of stew available for sale on a first come first served basis, which means (if I put it in my calculator) that the first 240 calls for five pounds of turtle meat will cause that 1,200 pounds (which is available on a weekly basis) to be sold out. If you are the 241st caller, then your five pounds will be available next week. We can go on with the argument for a while, but it gets to the point where you move on week by week with a volume of calls and it will show that for the first 1,920 buys in the 8th week a total amount of 960 pounds. That is why when you call at this present time, they may tell you that you have to wait two months.

This is the present position that we are operating under and it is better that we come out clearly in the open and tell everyone and not dodge around the bushes. We have on a weekly basis a request, according to estimations which we have done, for 960 pounds for turtle stew when only 1,200 pounds can be sold. Otherwise we will kill off all turtles within one year, I would estimate.

In my statement on the sale of turtle meat during our last meeting in the summer, I indicated that the 1st of August, 1994, the stew available to the public on a first come first served basis, would increase from about 800 to about 1,200 pounds. On the 1st of August, 1994, the stew available would increase from 1,200 pounds to a much more significant figure which I do not have available with me this morning. But our objective is to provide on an annual basis, while retaining a good population of turtles at the Farm, more and more of the population with turtle stew, if they so wish. I am sure that within another 15 or 16 months, we will get to that position.

May I also mention that during the year ending 31st March, 1994, the Farm has witnessed a faster increase in our turtles due to our decision to change the feed. I hope that we can, in the near future, supply all callers on a weekly basis with turtle meat. But we have not reached that level of turtles as yet, and the turtles would be too young at the present time to slaughter. So we say to the public: Bear with us, we are getting there. It will take a little longer.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.
Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

The Speaker: The first question is No. 141, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 141

No. 141: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to state what action Government took, if any, regarding the recent AIDS research in these Islands, as published in the Caymanian Compass, by a former Executive Council Member and what Government policy is in place presently to deal with such research being carried on in these Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Health Practitioners' Board is dealing with the subject as per section 9 of the Health Practitioners' Law, 1974, and it is my understanding that no such treatment is being offered presently in the Cayman Islands.

The present policy is governed by the Health Practitioners (Registration) Regulations, 1993, which requires the approval of His Excellency the Governor in Council, on the advice of the Health Practitioners' Board, for the use of any medicinal products that are not routinely in use in the United States of America or the United Kingdom.

I may add, that prior to this Law which came into effect in December, there were no restrictions on any form of treatment offered by doctors.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Was an application made to the Chief Medical Officer by the former Executive Council Member carrying out this research?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Is this, then, the normal procedure, that they do not have to apply to do any type of research in the Cayman Islands?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As I mentioned earlier, prior to this Law coming into effect, there was no requirement for doctors to make these representations.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 142, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 142

No. 142: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to state the current status of the proposed health insurance scheme.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In June of 1994, a similar question was asked by the Second Elected Member for the electoral district of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, was deferred from the March 1994 Meeting of the Legislative Assembly, and was answered.

The question was, "If a National Insurance Scheme will be instituted to replace the previous scheme which was abandoned by Government." In responding to supplementary questions, the undertaking was given that a scheme would be in place by the end of 1994. That target is still being worked toward.

I will share with the House that I have been having meetings with providers of health insurance locally and abroad. For example, Mr. Trevor Stewart of John Alden International; Derek Bogle of Jamaica Mutual; Mr. Danny Scott of Cayman General; Mr. Spencer Marshall of Cayman Insurance Brokers. I also spoke recently with Mr. Roger Corbin and Mr. Harvey Stephenson and other members of the health insurance industries, some of whom will be invited to participate and become involved in providing these Islands with the best services possible.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 143, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 143

No. 143: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what action, if any, does Government plan to take regarding the Chief Medical Officer in view of the vote of "No Confidence" expressed by the nursing and medical staff of the Hospital as published in a recent issue of the Newstar magazine.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It has to first be established that a vote of no confidence has been expressed by the nursing and medical staff of the Hospital. In the most literal sense, it is not known by Government that a vote has been taken. If, on the other hand, this so-called 'no confidence' is widely held by the nursing and medical staff, all enquiries to date by the Ministry have not found such evidence. However, Government expects to be able to determine very shortly the extent to which these allegations are true or otherwise.

If indeed such allegations were made to the Newstar reporter, they were not made in the presence of Hospital staff who spoke at an interview, which the reporters requested and which was approved by the Ministry. To date, the source of such information, if there is one, has not been identified.

Madam Speaker, I would also like to add that this has been one of the requests which, as I announced yesterday, I will take a look into. With the forbearance of the House, I would ask Members to hold on so that this investigation is not prejudiced.

QUESTION NO. 144

No. 144: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment and Planning whether a decision has been reached concerning deep sea cruise ship moorings in the West Bay area.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Government has not reached a final decision concerning deep-sea ship moorings in the West Bay area.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister say that before decision is reached concerning cruise ship moorings in the West Bay area, a poll of the residents of the West Bay area will be taken, and also will consideration of the Water Sports Association be taken?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The process of consideration for the West Bay cruise ship mooring is still under consideration, at this time we are still considering it. No action or decision has been taken, it is still under consideration.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the Minister's reply he said that the Government is considering it. Does such consideration permit any input by persons or entities such as those named by the Third Elected Member of George Town, or is it purely an in-house Governmental matter?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Consideration means that it is wide open to input. That is what I thought I was saying. I do not believe the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman should make his own assumptions about whether it is in-house or not.

QUESTION NO. 145

No. 145: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment and Planning to make a statement on the present concessions available to tourism development in the Eastern Districts of Grand Cayman, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The Hotel Aid Law, 1976, as amended, provides for reduction in Customs Import Duty in relation to hotels in the Eastern Districts of Grand Cayman, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. In such cases qualifying properties will be required to pay Customs duty on building materials and hotel equipment at the rate of 2.5 per cent of the value of those items. Customs duty on these items normally range between 15 per cent to 20 per cent.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Minister say if there is any consideration being given to providing a type of concession of no import duties, as was done for the three-year period which has since expired?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, in 1989 (I believe that is the correct year), there was an amendment to the Hotel Aid Law, which provided in the second schedule that for a period of three years only (from the date when the Hotel Aid Amendment Law, 1989, came into effect), the prescribed percentage would be zero. I believe this is what the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is referring to.

We are not considering at this time to put it back to zero, we are leaving it for the time being at 2.5%.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 146, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 146

No. 146: Mr. Gilbert McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture what is the cost per student at the Cayman Islands' Marine Institute.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The cost per student at the Cayman Islands' Marine Institute is approximately US$83.00 per day.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
Could the Minister say how many children there are, in total, at the school at this time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the current enrolment is 19 in the day programme, and six in the residential programme. I should also say that the current cost of overseas approved placement ranges from $150 to $280 per day, depending upon the institution.

QUESTION NO. 147

No. 147: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture what are the Government's future plans for the Housing Development Corporation since the Housing Development Corporation is no longer engaging in any new lending.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: With the fruition of the new Government guaranteed home mortgage initiative involving one of the major Class 'A' banks in Grand Cayman, the role of the Housing Development Corporation as a direct lender to middle and low income Caymanians will be phased out. In providing for the phasing-out of the Housing Development Corporation as a direct lender, Honourable Members are aware that a Bill to amend the Housing Development Corporation Law, 1981, is being presented at this Meeting. This legislation will allow the Corporation to, amongst other things, sell its mortgage portfolio to a private sector bank or banks. The privatisation will be on a competitive bid basis and will retain the same terms and conditions for the borrowers.

The Housing Development Corporation will also perform an administrative and support role with regard to home financing. Functions such as assisting with counselling of borrowers, processing of applications for guarantees under the guaranteed home mortgage scheme, monitoring Government's exposure with its guarantees, interfacing with any banks which are participating in the guaranteed home mortgage scheme, and any other functions which may arise from the re-structuring of the Housing Development Corporation.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
As the Minister said the Housing Development Corporation is to be phased out, and that its role was dealing with middle to low income and low income housing lending, what will the Government be doing, then, to replace the lending element for low housing?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, first of all, I did not say that the Housing Development Corporation would be phased out. I said the role of the Housing Development Corporation, as a direct lender, will be phased out.

In regards to the low-income group category in this country, as far as housing is concerned, I have publicly said that we are looking at ways and means of coming to grips with low-income housing. I have said publicly that we will need to look at a type of building that can be done under the building code of the country that could facilitate mortgages for $200 to $300 per month. We have said that, and that is what I am currently doing.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Minister's explanation as to the type of structure is relatively clear. I wonder if there is also provision for consideration by Government through any institution such as the Housing Development Corporation or some other corporation for providing the money for the lower income people to borrow that they could purchase such?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, that is very obvious. The Housing Development Corporation was not as successful as we had hoped because it depended upon the public investing money into it at a low rate.

We are, as I said, looking at ways and means of being able to come to grips with the matter of the very low income group in this country.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Statement by Member of the Government. A Statement by the Honourable First Official Member.

STATEMENT BY MEMBER OF THE GOVERNMENT

CUBAN MIGRANTS TO THE CAYMAN ISLANDS

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, this Statement is entitled: "Cuban Migrants to the Cayman Islands". This statement conveys the latest position of the Government in dealing with the refugee situation.

The Cayman Islands Government is treating this situation as a matter of national importance.

A high-level committee comprising senior government officials has been meeting since Monday on an almost daily basis. Members of the committee have been considering in detail all aspects of the situation and exploring all options for resolving the current crisis.

Since the development of this crisis, the Governor's Office has been involved full-time with all aspects of the situation. All available diplomatic channels are being pursued. Discussions are continuing with the United States through the British Embassy in Washington on the ramifications of the US-Cuban agreement for the Cubans here in the Cayman Islands.

Discussions are also taking place on a daily basis with the Foreign and Commonwealth Office on a range of concerns.

Locally, an important consideration is the maintenance of a professional level of security at all locations, not only for the security of the Caymanian community but also for the Cubans themselves.

At present, RCIP (Royal Cayman Islands Police) officers are working 12-hour shifts and patrolling three locations, they are: Tent City, the Agricultural Pavilion and Smith Road. Three officers from Grand Cayman have been assigned to Cayman Brac to assist. The RCIP recently established special task force is now fully occupied with this situation. The police can continue to carry out these duties, in addition to all their other work, for the time being but support may be needed in due course.

A four-man planning team from the British Home Office arrived yesterday to assess the situation. No decisions will be taken until this planning team has completed its assessment. The team was preceded by two other Home Office officials who arrived on the 11th September. I must emphasise that any support will supplement the RCIP and will be under the command of the Commissioner of Police.

In the meantime, the regular security services and the management team at the main site have been doubled in keeping with the large increase in arrivals.

The 20 tents which were funded by the British Government, at a cost of some 50,000 pounds sterling, are expected to arrive within the next few days. In the meantime we are exploring other options to procure tents more quickly. Additional cots are arriving this weekend.

These additional provisions, along with the incorporation of the Agricultural Pavilion, will alleviate some of the over-crowding at the main site. They will also ensure some room for expansion which is clearly necessary in view of the continuing influx of large numbers.

On Wednesday, 117 were transferred from Cayman Brac. To make way for these newcomers at the main site, where we had 684 earlier this week, we have relocated 119 to the Agricultural Pavilion. We hope to transfer 48 from Northward Prison to the Agricultural Pavilion to relieve the pressure there.

The allocation of Cubans at today's date was: Tent City, 702; the Agricultural Pavilion, 119; Smith Road, 54, Northward Prison, 29; and Cayman Brac, 222.

The Government has been most gratified by the outpouring of support from the people of these Islands. I would first like to pay tribute to civil servants, many of whom are working around the clock to provide the additional services to meet the needs of this large group while carrying on their regular duties.

The administration of the Immigration Department (Messrs. Gerry Maguire and Orrett Connor and others) and of the Social Services Department (Mrs. Deanna Lookloy and Ms. Jen Dixon and others) are working extremely long hours. The six-member Enforcement Section of the Immigration Department is solely preoccupied with the Cubans and has required supplementary staff. The Acting Chief Engineer, Mr. Max Jones, and various sections of his Department have performed miracles in the last few weeks. We have already spoken about the exemplary work of the police.

I would like to make special mention of the District Administration on Cayman Brac that has borne manfully the full brunt of the impact of these sudden arrivals. I know how much that has demanded of the small staff on the Sister Islands. Government appreciates the extra effort, which is far beyond the call of duty, that they have so far, willingly put out there.

In London, a team at the Foreign and Commonwealth Office has been very busy conducting discussions on our behalf and co-ordinating the British Government's response. The Governor continues to be fully involved and take a very great personal interest in all the concerns of the people of the Cayman Islands who are having to cope with the influx of migrants and of the Cubans, both diplomatically and from the human perspective. His Excellency's Staff Officer, Mr. Tony Bates has been spending many hours on various external diplomatic matters relating to this situation.

I would also like to pay a special tribute to members of the press for their co-operation since this crisis has developed. I have a very keen sense of their understanding and of their high professional standards throughout.

Overall, we believe that the press, in the professional way it conducts its coverage, can contribute greatly to the containment of this situation. In the best interest of the management and control of such large numbers of people we may at times reluctantly have to temporarily limit press access. This will only apply when pressing duties prevent staff from co-operating with requests from the press.

I would also like to pay tribute to the co-operation of the general public. We have been overwhelmed with offers of assistance and donations for which we are very grateful. Caymanians have once again demonstrated their hospitable nature in extending kindness to strangers within our land.

I should also mention that the Miami-area Cubans have also made generous offers of support. We are currently making arrangements for local storage. The press may perhaps be able to assist us in getting the word out that before public appeals are launched, contact should be made with the Social Services Department to determine items that are most needed.

Finally, I would like to thank the Cubans themselves. They have been co-operative, upbeat and helpful. The Government has been impressed by their orderliness and general demeanour.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable First Official Member. Government Business, Bills, First Reading.

THE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Clerk: The Housing Development Corporation (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for Second Reading.
Second Reading.

SECOND READING

THE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

(Deferment of Second Reading)

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, may I ask that this Second Reading be deferred until Monday, as I think there is some communication gap between the Business Committee and the Order Paper, and I take responsibility for it.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister. The question is that the Bill be deferred for the time being.

I shall put the question, those in favour please say Aye. Those against, no.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill is accordingly deferred.

AGREED. THE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994, DEFERRED FOR SECOND READING.

The Speaker: We proceed to Other Business, Private Member's Motion, continuation of the debate on Private Member's Motion No. 22/94.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 22/94

NATIONAL STUDY ON CRIME

(Continuation of debate thereon)

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning continuing.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, yesterday afternoon before we took the break, I stood here at this microphone to make my contribution to Private Member's Motion No. 22/94, entitled National Study on Crime.

I would like to say that the Cayman Islands, quite modestly, is the envy of many countries of the world. It may also be that the present Government's performance for less than two years is being envied by some Members of the Opposition. I believe this is the principal cause why people want to alarm everybody about the crime situation in this country. We hear all kinds of statistics being thrown out over the microphone, over Radio Cayman into the homes of this country, picked up, perhaps, by the Caymanian Compass, and sent to different parts of the world. Statistics such as there is a crime every 40.2 minutes in the Cayman Islands. Please, let us evaluate this information before we say it, because it could not be possible.

I have been trying to track down this information ever since I heard that mentioned in this House. They say it came from 'America on Line', we have checked 'America on Line', it is not there. I will tell you what is on 'America on Line', it says: "Cayman Islands, British West Indies, counselling information sheet" (dated 7th September, 1994). It gives a country description, and I will read it for everybody: "These Islands are British Dependencies and are moderately developed. Tourist facilities are widely available."

Then it goes on to talk about entering information: "For tourists staying up to three months, US citizens need proof of US citizenship, photo identification an onward return ticket and proof of sufficient funds. For further information concerning entry requirements for the Island of the British West Indies travel, may contact the embassy of the United Kingdom, 3100 Massachusetts Avenue N. W., Washington, D.C. 20008; (202)-462-1340, or the nearest British Consulate in Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles, New York or San Francisco."

It goes on to talk about medical facilities: "Medical care is generally good, but may not meet United States standards. Doctors and Hospitals often expect immediate cash payment for health services. United States medical insurance is not always valid outside the United States. In some cases supple- mental medical insurance which includes specific overseas coverage is considered useful. For additional health information, travellers can contact the Centres for Disease Control International Traveller's Hot Line at (404)-332-4559."

Then it goes on for crime information about the Cayman Islands: "Petty street crime occurs. Valuables left unattended on beaches are subject to theft."

Now, Madam Speaker, that is far different from this report. I really wonder where this came from.

You know, Madam Speaker, if we had (God forbid) a crime every 40 minutes... I wonder if we could put our calculators to work... it means that in a 24 hour period which, when you multiply 24 hours by 60 minutes, is 1,440 minutes. If we had a crime every 40 minutes... we divide 1,440 by 40 and we would have 36 crimes every day. All of us walking around here in the Cayman Islands know that is totally incorrect.

If we take this further, we now take 365 days, and multiply that by these 36 crimes per day, you will get 13,140 crimes in a year. This gives the population of the Cayman Islands as 28,000, which really means that (almost) one person out of two is involved in a crime in some way—either conducting it, or as the victim of it. We know that that is totally false.

All of us should be very careful about information on crime. All of us are concerned about crime. All of us are doing whatever we can to deal with crime, but you know, crime is like a balloon, when you start talking about drugs and addressing the drug problem—when you squeeze the balloon on one side, it bulges out the other side. When you go into the Swamp to deal with the persons involved with drugs, they are going to move somewhere else. When you deal with drugs in West Bay, in a particular area, they are not going to still hang out there, they are going to go somewhere else.

We have a good thing. I support the National Crime Study and we are going to get it done. But let us not alarm the whole world and try to say that there is crime running rampant in the Cayman Islands. I said yesterday—and I hope you will allow me to repeat this—that anyone who says they are responsible and uses the words "Cayman Posse", I believe the public should hold him responsible for anything that happens thereafter, because the words "Cayman Posse" are going to be connected with the words "Jamaican Posse", and I do not know anything about a Cayman Posse. Maybe to gain a lot of public attention and to alarm everybody, those two words came out of some person's mouth, hopefully, by accident, but they are out there in the open.

One of the problems of any country, and the possible destabilisation of the economy, is this same thing that we are playing with—trying to say that the crime in the Cayman Islands (maybe I should use the words they are trying to use) is out of control. And they would like me to believe that these statistics that they quoted—a crime every 40 minutes—is accurate. But I have been around here a long time—not just in this House, but in West Bay. While I may be quiet, it does not mean that I am not fully observing what is going on.

The Commissioner's report says that this piece of paper here is rubbish. The 1993 Royal Cayman Islands Police Report says that the total crimes reported to the police in 1992 (as a comparison) was 3,058; in 1993, it was 3,298—an increase of about 240 crimes. I did not need the report from the Commissioner, or the other piece of garbage, to tell us about the crime situation. This report tells you where it is—it is all involved with drugs. In 1992, we had 121 cases reported to the police for simple possession of ganja (or cannabis); in 1993, we had 222 cases. In 1992 we had 76 cases of cocaine consumption; in 1993 we had 113.

I am not trying to say that there is no crime, I am not trying to say that I am not concerned about it, but what I am trying to say is let us tell the public the correct position as given by the police; they are the people who are involved with crime; they are the people who are arresting people and giving the crime statistics.

The report says, murder: (which everyone of us would like to see at zero at all times) in 1992 we had one; in 1993, we had two cases. Looking at other offences against the person: Common Assault, in 1992 we had 163 cases; in 1993, we had 142 cases. So not all of the crime rates are increasing, some are reduced. We must not be complacent about what action we are going to take to deal with the crime, but let us deal with the facts.

Government has not been sleeping, but we have not gone out into the public and beaten up on any policemen verbally. Our responsibility is to assist the police, to assist the Governor with the security and the Law and Order of this country. If we have any concern, we go in and talk to him. We have done so, and we have gotten results.

When we came to office there was no dog section in the Police. It is there now. When we came into office, I do not think we had a boat of any size to speak of. We have one now, patrolling the waters around the Cayman Islands. When we came into office the Police, and Customs, were asking for additional equipment, and to some extent some of them asked for manpower as well. Early this year we gave the Police what they asked for—we gave them the number of people they wanted to set up a special task force. We gave Superintendent Cutts his additional men that he wanted in the Drug Section. They said they wanted more equipment, we gave them that too.

I believe that is the way for us to deal with crime—not running around in the street making noise, or in the House, putting forward information that, by God, we should know is incorrect.

We have come so far. We are, in my view, the leading country in this Caribbean Sea that we live in. We have done what needs to be done to improve tourism, and we will continue to work on it. But I believe (let me say that I am tempted to believe) that with this thing about crime and all this noise, maybe we are getting too many tourists. Maybe they want to put a damper on it, because this is one of the best ways to kill your tourist trade. If I know that my life is in danger by going to a particular destination, I am going to find somewhere else where I am safer.

The Cayman Islands National Crime Study, is on the way. It is taking a little time, but that is not to say that we are not dealing with crime. The study is to try to find out the cause. If you know the solution to the crime problem in some instances, you deal with it. Which is exactly what we have been doing.

This report says that there is 6.1 murders every week. I would wonder where I am living if I were to believe that. I believe that we should examine our own souls and our minds when dealing with the future development of this country and the things we get up and say—here and outside—because it is easy to lose what you have. It is not easy to put the pieces back together—just like a jigsaw puzzle when you drop it. How do you put it back together? You scare everybody away from this country with statistics on crime that are not true.

The reason why this country's economy is the way it is, is because of the financial industry and the tourism industry working hand in hand to move us forward, and we have turned this country around in such a short time that the Opposition cannot believe it. We did not have any magic wand, we just put our noses down, put our heads together, shoulders to the wheel and did what had to be done.

I am going to close by hoping that everyone in this House will commit themselves to the future generation of this country rather than, as it appears, try to ruin their chances of having the prosperity that we have today.

Thank you.

[Pause]

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, I would like to ask the Mover if he would like to exercise his right of reply?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I certainly wish to so do. I pray the indulgence of the Chair, because my winding up is going to be a rather long one.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town, I think under the Standing Orders you have four hours; there is going to be no indulgence unless the House otherwise desires.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, kindly. I shall use it judiciously.

I am going to begin by addressing some comments made by the last speaker, the Minister with responsibility for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

I would like to assure that Minister and his Government that they are no more blue-blooded, true Caymanians than I am. They are no more responsible and concerned about this society, this country and its future than I am. That is the reason I have brought this and similar Motions.

I am going to outline my position and my responsibility, as I see it—based (as it is) on a comment and observation made by no less a distinguished personality than Mr. Thomas (Tip) O'Neal, when he was Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, who said, and I quote: "The Opposition has a special responsibility in those cases where the Government fails to do, or fails to deliver on promises it has made."

Again, I am reminding the Government that 15 months ago they promised to do the study. It has not been forth coming. Consequently I saw fit to bring this Motion. For that, Madam Speaker, I make no apologies.

Let me say, again (as I have said many times), that, as far as my being in this hallowed hall is concerned, I only account to two entities—my constituents (the Bodden Town people) and God—not the Government. It is not my responsibility, nor my right, nor would I be so presumptuous and stupid as to give the Government my solution to problems which they face. Because you know what they are going to do? They are going to use my proposals and my solutions and be so ungracious as to give me no credit. I would be stupid to do that. I am exercising my responsibility and my rights by coming here in this public forum and pointing out their shortcomings and expressing the concerns of my constituents and the wider country as expressed to me.

My Motion is not Roy Bodden's Motion. I have my solutions. I do not go around interfering with people and I do not expect them to interfere with me; if they do interfere with me, I already have my plans set and laid out, and I know what I will do. I am here representing the concerns of my constituents and the country.

I want to say this: the erroneous information which the Member for Tourism so emphatically dwelt upon, was not introduced into the House by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. It was introduced into the House by a Member of the National Team. So, I take no blame or responsibility for erroneous statistics. It seems that they have the problem—I do not have any problem.

I would, however, highlight that the Member quoted that in 1992 there was one murder, and in 1993 there were two. I wonder if the Member, who is so good on statistics, realises that that is an increase of 100%? One murder is too much, two murders is two times too many. That is the reason why we have to be concerned. Let us remember that is how it starts, that is how blight begins. It does not begin with an epidemic; you have one case reported, then two, then 10, then 40 and, suddenly, it becomes pandemic. This is the reason why we should be concerned.

I want to say something else—because he has caught the disease from his colleagues in making reference to beating up on the police—let me remind him that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town publicly states his position, and I have no quarrel against individual policemen. Many of them are my friends, and some are my relatives. What can be appreciated in my approach is that I am open, public and forthright. I give them the support they need and I do not wish the society to be disrespecting the police, but the converse is also true—I do not wish the police to disrespect the society.

Let me further say, as far as beating up on the police is concerned and fighting the police, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town did not bring any Motion here calling for the early termination of the Commissioner of Police. The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture did when he was a Backbench Member, and brought Motions calling for investigations into the Police [Force]. I hope the police understand who is a true friend, because what I have to say I am up front and outspoken with.

There is another thing I wish to draw reference to in the speech made by the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning. It is their forte to settle differences on matters which affect the public in board rooms, thus eliminating the public and the public's input, and to make compromises and deals which exclude the public. That is not my style of management and administration. I say any matter which concerns the public, I, as a representative of the people, must be open in striking the deal and making that settlement. That is the reason why we stumble from crisis to crisis and are in the predicament that we are in now and not making any headway in an amicable settlement and solution.

I say that we had better be concerned about crime in this country, and I remind them that they cannot escape the facts that day before yesterday, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, on a broad thoroughfare opposite the Airport, there was an armed robbery. And on Sunday afternoon, in the staid and quiet little hamlet of Pease Bay in my constituency, a man entered somebody's house, tied the male occupant up and robbed him at knifepoint. And you are telling me that we should be like ostriches, and stick our heads in the ground and say there is nothing to worry about?

There is another thing. I do not envy them for the increase in tourism; I share some of the credit too, as a responsible legislator. I hope that it may continue, but I also hope that they realise that they could not have made such a miraculous effect in two years. I hope they are not so cocky, arrogant and conceited as to believe that is as a result of their work in two years. It is the result of successive political directorates who have, in spite of the differences we may have with each other, laboured to maintain stability and a certain image, including coming into this House of arguing, proposing and opposing. So, they cannot now expect in two years to come and grab up and say we made a miraculous turn around. They will not fool Roy Bodden with that one, Madam Speaker.

There is another thing. The position of the Government with regard to what is happening now reminds me of the work of the Italian playwright and dramatist, Luigi Pirandello, who experimented with the differences between elusion and reality. The Government's vision of what is happening in this country with regard to crime, it seems, is blurred. The reality is faded right into the elusion that they are labouring under—that crime is not a problem.

Permit me to read a short section from a text called "Crime and Human Nature": "Predator's street crimes are most commonly committed by young males. Vio- lent crimes are more common in big cities than in small ones. High rates of criminality tend to run in families. The persons who frequently commit the most serious crimes typically begin their criminal careers at quite a young age. Persons who turn out to be criminals usually do not do very well in school. Programmes designed to rehabilitate high rate offenders have not been shown to have much success, and those programmes that do manage to reduce criminality among certain kinds of offenders often increase it among others. These facts about crime—some well-known, some not so well-known—are not merely statements about traits that happen occasionally (or in some places but not others to describe criminals) they are statements that, insofar as we can tell, are pretty much true everywhere. They are statements, in short, about human nature as much as about crime.”

Who are the "we" referred to [in this quote]? James Q. Wilson; Henry Lee Shattuck, Professor of Government, Harvard University; Richard J. Herrnstein; Edgar Price, Professor of Psychology, Harvard University. So, these concerns are not manufactured by Roy Bodden.

I do not expect the Government to know that because they have a contempt of academics; they have a contempt of intellectuals; they have a contempt for learned people, as is so often expressed in their behaviour and their attacks against myself and my colleagues on this side. The efficacy and the wisdom, and certain knowledge and appreciation of that knowledge, escapes them. That is why they can poke fun and ask me to tell them whom I would like to do the study. Madam Speaker, I am going to rise to that challenge and I am going to tell them, before I wind up, who I think should do the study, and why.

The Speaker: Would this be an opportune time for you to take a break in your long debate, Honourable Member?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.35 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 11.56 AM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town, continuing.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In any request for a study on crime, it is fitting and appropriate to arrive at a definition of what we mean when we speak of crime as a social phenomenon. What is crime? Simply put, crime is that behaviour condemned by society. It occurs despite the rewards and punishments that have been devised to enforce condemnation—very simple, rudimentary definition.

It is interesting to note that not only are we on the dawn of the 21st Century in the Cayman Islands—which used to be described as the Islands that time forgot—not only are we concerned about crime now, but internationally that is the case. It was so from earlier times, as witnessed Thomas Hogg, who wrote a political treatise called "The Leviathan", in which he proposed that man was neither good nor bad, but was a creature of his senses who desires certain things and who quarrels when those desires are in conflict. That was in 1651. Anyone who did any studies in Political Sociology and Political Science would have read of Jeremy Bentham, who, in 1789, wrote in his "Introduction to the Principles of Morals and Legislation", of the famous principle of futility; that nature has placed man under the governance of two sovereign masters—pain and pleasure—and that man naturally and instinctively seeks pleasure. So, society, to strike a counterbalance, has to impose certain elements of pain to keep man in line.

Then too, not only were the English people concerned with this whole business of man's behaviour in society, but so too were the Italians; as witnessed the works of Cesare Beccaria, who portrayed man as a self-interested, rational calculator. This man, this academic, Cesare Beccaria, proposed and wrote the first modern treatise on crime and how we should deal with punishment.

The 18th Century French Philosopher, Jean Jacques Rousseau, is perhaps the best known proponent of this whole idea of man and his behaviour in society and nature and nurture, and how it affects man's behaviour. He wrote a work which he called Emile [ou Traite de l'education], about a fictitious character who lived in the natural state. Jean Jacques Rousseau believed that man was naturally good, but that he was corrupted by the society in which he lived. I laid that foundation to say that that is the case of people who investigate and have some knowledge about the phenomena of crime in our society.

I draw reference, again, to this article written by Mr. A. Steve McField, which appeared in The New Caymanian. The Government and its supporters can laugh; but in the absence of their producing a work of such scholarly magnitude—and I can say they lack the ability to do so—I have nothing else to quote. If they can do as good, why did they not come with a counter [argument] to what this gentleman proposed? His article was written on the week of the 5th August—11th August. They had ample time to come with a counter argument. By the way, that is how academics operate—someone proposes, someone opposes, giving their arguments. So they can laugh, but I know that they lack the ability. All they can say is that a person should not use the word Cayman Posse. Well, I did not tell him what word to use, that was his description. If they do not want to use the word, then they should research and write an article trying to convince us that a posse does not exist. That is the challenge for them!

I should not say it in here? This has gone all over the world, it is a public document, and we have freedom of speech. If they want to refute the argument, then let them come up, showing why this writer does not know what he is talking about; destroy his basis by coming with something to the contrary to what he has written. They cannot do it. Why can they not do it? Because this gentleman is not only a social critic, he practises in the court every day the court is in session, and it is on that basis from which his knowledge emanates.

I will say that what Rousseau, Beccaria, Betham and all these other writers wrote about has bearing today, because Mr. McField says that it is from these neighbourhoods of low income residents, single parent mothers, neglected poor, that the conveyor belt from birth to prison is linked.

He goes on to say: "Those of us witnesses who are observing this contrast in the Cayman development can see the dichotomy. . . " What is the dichotomy? "In fact, many of them who were fortunate to make it to the fashionable subdivisions, who slipped through the maze of double standards and prejudice no longer identify with the source of their being—the little man. There seems to be no social conscience left."

That is the point. All those people who have become 'tokens' of the system, who like to set themselves up as being the successful persons, have severed the connection; have dismembered the umbilical cord which led them away from these pockets; and have now set themselves up on pedestals, completely forgetting the dispossessed and the disenfranchised until it is time to seek their vote every four years.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Hear, hear!

Mr. Roy Bodden: I believe that, and I am convinced of that—I only have to see what kind of automobiles some people drive and hear some people say that, 'of course they want to live in a big mansion by the sea and drive a Mercedes Benz', to know that they have distanced themselves from the people who put them where they are. The proof of the pudding is two years hence that is the proof.

The writer goes on to say: "On the other hand, some educated Caymanians who allow themselves to become 'tokens' in the system, do not identify with their people's problems. In the Cayman Islands it is legitimate to say that in almost every case where the oppressed become liberated they become the oppressor. [How profound!] When we continue to classify our social and economical dilemma we face in terms of paper studies from outside, we are regarding the cancerous problem as not important and diminished in urgency."

Let me repeat, "When we continue to classify our social and economical dilemma we face in terms of paper studies from outside, we are regarding the cancerous problem as not important and diminished in urgency."

That reminds me of something. The National Team used as one of their foundations the fact that they were not going to fall into the trap of the last political directorate by advocating and using wholesale and large scale services of outside consultancies. And what are they proposing in this case? To bring in a criminologist from outside. Not only from outside, you know, but from outside the Caribbean.

This whole business of political expediency, political opportunism and situational ethics is going to come to a head sooner or later. You know why it is going to come to a head? It is going to come to a head because people like the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, the Fourth Elected Member for George Town and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, have a continuous spot light on the Government, and we are going to hold them to account. They can mumble that no one listens to us—no one listened to Noah or John the Baptist either.

Madam Speaker, you know, it is our job to force the realisation. It is our job to let them understand that the promises they made . . . I want to read from the Hansard of the debate on the Motion calling for the National Commission on Crime, in which the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture said: "In addition, because we feel that there needs to be an investigation into the causes of crime, sociologically and otherwise, we propose a crime study." Let me refresh the memory of the House: this was on Thursday, 24th June, 1993. [Official Hansard Report, 1993 Volume 1, page 394]

"Because we feel that while deviant and criminal behaviours are, to some extent, unavoidable, the Government is not comfortable at the moment that there exists a sufficiently clear idea of the causes of, or explanation for, such behaviour in our Islands." (Ibid.)

Madam Speaker, the Second Elected Member for George Town, had this to say: "Escalating crime and a sluggish economy are, I believe, the two overriding concerns now facing our country. No longer can we boast of a virtually crime free society which was once the case." [Ibid, page 396]

That was the same thing that the author of the article in The New Caymanian was saying, but he has taken it a further step.

In an effort to be as all embracing as I can, let me also include one other prominent member of the National Team, the Minister for Education and Aviation. He said, in one section of his speech: "It is unfortunate because I really think that the input of Members of this Honourable House is very important." And now, Madam Speaker, they are saying that I should not say anything, that I should shut my mouth and not bring this Motion. Let me repeat what this Minister said: "It is unfortunate because I really think that the input of Members of this Honourable House is very important." We are offering our input now.

Madam Speaker, under our system, that is all we on the Backbench can do. The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture accused me of stopping the criminologist that they were trying to recruit from Cambridge. I cannot do that. And he said, I have signed her up. I cannot do that either. As a Backbencher, I have no power, no authority, and no resources to write or to offer any contract on behalf of the Cayman Islands Government. If I would do that, they would cage me at Northward Prison.

So, I never made, or signed, any agreement with any criminologist from Cambridge University. I could not do it—I have not taken leave of my senses. I could not go and offer anyone employment on behalf of the Government, nor can I lay any obstacles in their way. What I can do as a representative of the people, and as a Member of the Legislative Assembly, is to express my concerns and to posit what kind of person I think should be engaged to do the study. I can also posit what angle and what perspective I think the study should have—which is what this Motion is doing. So, I wish to lay to rest the argument that I was responsible for them not recruiting this lady before now. You know what was responsible for that? Their waffling and their dithering. The year 1996 will come, and that study will still not be in place, because the study is not a high priority on their list. They are not directly affected by what happens to the little people in these areas that Mr. A. Steve McField wrote about. They are the tokens.

We have a chance to do something about it, bearing in mind that no solution is going to alleviate these problems overnight; that the nature of these problems is so endemic and so entrenched that it is going to take years, and it is going to take successive political directorates to stem the flow, to make inroads that will become obvious. However, if we do not make a start, we will never be able to be in a position where we can see some downturn.

The Government is so contemptuous, so utterly shameless, and so discouraging, that when Members of the Backbench try to give them an opportunity to look good—because, Madam Speaker, a sensible Government would take a Motion like this and completely disarm the Opposition. If I were on that side, Madam Speaker, believe you me, when I got through I would have the Backbench eating out of my hand, because I would co-opt every one of them. I would involve every one of them at some point in this effort. I would even put them out front, then they would have no reason to say it is not being done, and why is it not done.

But Members—like the Minister for Education, who is bankrupt of such solutions, who can only tell his constituents that he is going to increase the Task Force, who is unable to come up with a divergent approach, can only say, "he is a dreamer, he is an idealist, leave him alone." How sad. It does not matter that I get the Ministry of Education, that is not an obsession in my life. I have made my accomplishments, and I will continue to do so. But I will tell that Honourable Minister that my reputation as a citizen of this country and as a Legislator is as good as his will ever be, and six months after I am dead I will be considered more of a man in the Cayman Islands than he is, or ever will be.

There is one thing people can say about Roy Boden: he does not have any hang-ups about smallness or about size, which is more than can be said about that Minister. I told him before, he has been gunning for me since 1979, and he could not get me; he will be gunning until 2079, and he still will not be able to get me, because any day the sun rises, I am still smarter than he is—even for all his law firm and his banks. I also told him that I am honourable, and very good at repaying debts. Enough said on that.

The responsibility for the crime situation in this country lies with the Government and in spite of what they say they have an obligation to come with this study that they promised the people before too long. I do not know what it is going to take to shock them into reality. They have done nothing but promise this study—it is time they get on with it.

And now, Madam Speaker, I wish to say this: it seems that they are unable to arrive at someone to do the study. It seems as if they are unable to determine exactly how to go about it. Well, let me give them this much, I promised that I would tell them. I am going to tell them how, and then I am going to tell them who.

Firstly, they should seek to come up with a job description. What are the qualifications of the person they are looking for? There are areas of the social sciences: Criminology, Social Psychology, Sociology, or Social Anthropology, all related areas. So, it should be someone from one of those areas. The job description should be so structured that it includes someone who has training and qualifications in one of those areas. The job description should read that such a person should be able to conduct independent research, or should be able to lead a team into conducting independent research. Therefore, such a person should have a graduate or post graduate degree, plus provide some proof of independent study, or completion of a project involving the criterion laid down, that is, they should have written some thesis or dissertation which would show that they have the ability to synthesize, dissect and put back together a problem. Any one of those disciplines: Criminology, Social Psychology, Sociology, Social Anthropology.

Madam Speaker, the person should also have some familiarity with the socio-economic setting, and the demands of a micro society, such as the Cayman Islands. Therefore, it would no doubt exclude people coming from large metropolitan cities unless they could provide proof and substantiation that they had experience, knowledge and training in the kinds of setting like the Cayman Islands.

Now, that is the job description. What are the terms of reference? 1) To investigate into the phenomena of rising crime in the Caymanian Society, especially drug-related crime; 2) To determine, or to ascertain if, and what, connection exists between poverty, low self-esteem and the tendency to become involved in criminal activity; 3) To investigate into and find out what relation exists between poor performance in school and crime in juvenile or early adult years; 4) To investigate into and find out what relation exists between children from single parent families, or broken homes, between deviant behaviour and acceptance in the society; and, 5) To investigate and ascertain what role low self-esteem and self-confidence play in those persons who drift into the criminal subculture.

That is exemplary, rather than exhaustive. One could add or delete, depending on how broad and how long one wanted to study. One could do a longitudinal study, or one could do a shorter study. One could do a study restricted to one or two areas, or one could do an Island-wide study. Ideally, the study (if the results were needed immediately, or early), should not last beyond six months. But that does not preclude a mechanism from being put into place for continuing the study on a long term basis.

Who should be recruited to do such a study? Simple—check with the regional University, the University of the West Indies Social Sciences Department, Social Anthropology Department. Forward the job description, and ask for some applicants—or go farther away.

[Directed to the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation] No! You ask that through the Chair, Honourable Minister, and I will be happy to answer that.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town, please address your remarks to the Chair.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I am telling the Honourable Minister to ask through the Chair, Madam Speaker, and I will gladly answer him. I will even give way for him to ask that question.

The Speaker: Please continue with your debate.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. As usual, I have wolfed him again.

Who should do such a study? Advertise. I do not have to call any names, Madam Speaker, because I am not into personalities. As an academic I can only lay down the criterion—I do not know everybody who is qualified in this field. It is impossible. From my experience that is not how it is done. No name is mentioned, the successful candidate is chosen or selected on the basis of their Curriculum Vitae.

I do not know anyone to recommend by name, and I would not be that presumptuous. I can only say what I think the job description should be, what I think the terms of reference should be and take it from there. I am not prepared to call names; even as much as I read I do not know everybody who has investigated this field and who has qualifications and who has written. I would not do that; and for persons who do that, it shows the shortness and the breadth of their wisdom. Perhaps that is why the Government has not proceeded—because they stopped at one person, and they cannot get that person, so they have stopped completely—punto final! Madam Speaker, you will understand that. They have come to a full stop, because they chose only one person and now they cannot get the person, so they are in a quandary!

I will say this much, Madam Speaker, it is usual in these kinds of circumstances that the person who heads the research team has, as his or her assistant, some persons who are knowledgeable and qualified from the jurisdiction or the area in which they are doing the study; because it is extremely difficult, if not impossible, to introduce outsiders—people from different cultures, people whose accents are different, people who are physically, obviously, different—to come into some areas and pockets and gain the confidence of the people.

In studies which I have read, in strictly ethnic areas, like the work I have read by Herbert Ganz, with investigations he did as a sociologist into the Italian and Irish communities in Boston, it was suggested that it would have been manifestly impossible to garner the kind of information he was commissioned to garner if he did not have some people who were readily accepted in those communities. That that is a truism, one need go no further than this whole business of policing. The police are successful in certain areas when they employ people in those areas to snitch, to snoop. The same principle has applied in the world of international espionage.

I know, firsthand, of an organisation in Chicago which is, according to the annals, one of the most internationally known and best respected organisations, which wrote the methodology and the rule book on these kinds of investigations. Years ago, when I read the briefs, that is exactly the kind of job description and terms of reference that the Sol Alenski Foundation in Chicago proposed for these successful studies. These people have been employed all over the United States, by all kinds of organisations and they have a well-known reputation. Indeed Sol Alenski was one of the eminent professors of the Chicago School of Social Sciences.

So, what I have just proposed, Madam Speaker, does not come from my head, but comes from what I have garnered and gleaned of the experts as they set out the terms of reference. That is how I think it should be approached and, ideally (I say again), there should be more than one candidate so that we have a choice.

Madam Speaker, I take pride in my position, and I thank God that I have been allowed the opportunity and the possibility to represent my constituency. I thank the people who have returned me on two occasions. I do not know what the future might hold, because my tools are such that I can do other things besides politics—and the temptation grows stronger every day. But, I will say this much: As long as I am here, and as long as the people of Bodden Town give me the privilege of being a trustee of their wishes, I will strive to represent them to the best of my ability.

And, as far as being controversial is concerned, as far as not being a sycophant and an extension cord where the Government is concerned—that I will never be. I like the words of the Great Martin Luther King Jr., when he said, "The ultimate measure of man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands in times of challenge and controversy. The true neighbour will risk his position, his prestige and even his life for the welfare of others." I said in here once before that I am one who will never sit in that Greta area occupied by feeble minds and timid souls. I will speak my peace as eloquently as I can, as respectfully as I can, and if I tread on any corns in so doing, I have no apology to make. I ask no quarter, because I am prepared to give no quarter.

Madam Speaker, I have put forward my case. I believe there is merit to this Motion; I believe that the Government needs to act posthaste, as they say. I believe it is unwise for us to lull ourselves into a false sense of security by braggadocio, in saying that we are begrudging the Government because tourism is booming. I admire what is happening. I pray that it may continue, and I encourage whoever is doing whatever to continue to do that. But, I am also saying that on the other hand, there is a need, and a reason, to be concerned because we are losing the youth from the 'Swamp' and all these other places. The great empire of Rome never fell to the barbarians—it fell from within because the Caesars lulled themselves into a false sense of security and got distracted and did not emphasise the discipline of the army and the praetorian guard and education and culture. They got drunk on wine and song and neglected the sons and daughters that made the empire strong.

That is the lesson. That is the essence, Madam Speaker. It makes no sense to say tourism is booming; we are having an influx; Caledonian Airways is coming, in one column—and in the other column—Northward Prison is full of young people on drugs and drug related crimes; the rehabilitation services are taxed to the limit; recidivism is frightening; armed robberies in broad daylight. I, Madam Speaker, am a realist, and I am saying that I would never be so stupid as to believe that one comes without the other.

I am saying that we must find where we are failing. It starts small first, then it grows. Is it because the people are of a certain complexion that they are failing? Is it because the people who are failing and who are incarcerated have certain surnames? Is it because the people who are failing and who are incarcerated and hooked come from certain ethnic areas that are considered of no value? Is it because they do not occupy houses in exotic subdivisions? Is it because their only worth is that their vote is needed every four years? Is it because they are [considered] human fodder, to be treated as nothing more than people who are only remembered when their faces appear in front of us with an outstretched hand for a dole?

Are we that callous? What is our responsibility? Is it because we do not see them at the Courts? Is it because we refuse to listen to, or read, or believe what a prominent law practitioner and social critic writes? Is it because we would like to see him declared persona non grata because he dare declare the truth, or he dare put pen and ink to his conviction? Is it because people, like myself, who bring these kinds of motions are labelled dreamers and idealists and poked fun at? Is it because people who dared to get an education, and voice their opinions, are called communists by people who now set themselves up to be Ministers of Edification, Education and Learning?

Madam Speaker, what is the cause of this? We have to find out. It is incumbent that this study be done sooner, rather than later. When the Motion on the National Commission on Crime was brought, it was said that it was going to send the wrong signals; that it was alarmist; that we were going to make the people believe that crime was endemic, ripe, rampant on our streets.

Now, comes a Motion for a National Study on Crime—significantly lower key—and still we hear that the Mover and the Seconder are out of whack with what is happening. 'We have things under control; the streets are full of tourists; the beaches are full of tourists. Of course we have some crime, there was a murder in 1992 and two in 1993; but, do not worry, most of the crimes were drug related.'

Madam Speaker, that is exactly what we need to ascertain. What is the link? Is there a link? Is it because our social system is failing?

It seems that the Minister for Education wants me to give way.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I am not speaking to him at all, really, and I am not getting up anymore when he says this.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town, would you please continue with your debate and pay no attention to anything that is going on in the Chamber, and address your remarks to the Chair, please.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, I thank you for that observation, but the Member in his conversation is distracting me. I would like him to know that I am gracious enough to allow him to ask the Chair...

The Speaker: Well, I think you should rise above that First Elected Member.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, as I was saying, I can understand how the situation has deteriorated when we have people who occupy Ministries and cannot conduct themselves better than some people are presently doing. I can understand the reason for some of the failure.

Can you imagine someone who is in charge of young people's minds in this country, who does not have the common courtesy and common decency to allow other people to say their peace unmolested and unprovoked? It is no small wonder that we have degenerated and deteriorated to the level we have, because if this is the example that young people have to go by at the schools, then I can understand the failure—the reason for so many of them dropping out.

I say that we have to find out where the breakdown comes, because allowing for the fact that 40 scholarships were granted this year (we often hear about those who do well), what percentage is not doing so well? Is the failure in the home? Is it in the school? Is it in the wider society? It is incumbent upon us to set the study in motion to find this out. Let us not be like ostriches. Let us not adopt the ostrich syndrome—bury our heads in the ground—and hope and pray and pretend that this problem is going to go away; that it is going to be melted into the increase in tourism; that it is going to be taken up, drowned by the statistics which says that tourism is increasing.

I did not spend any time, I did not dwell, I only mentioned en passant the fact that the international media has taken note. That is what we have to worry about. The fact that they are producing wrong statistics is important; if they were not producing any statistics it would be of no consequence, but the fact that they are saying that a crime occurs in the Cayman Islands every 40 (point whatever it was) minutes means that we must begin to work to contain this problem now, and also let them know that their statistics are not worth the paper and ink they were written with. If we leave it and let it fester, because the Police Report says this

And, Madam Speaker, I want to say this with regards to the war on crime: It is all well and good to fill the statistical columns with the small man, but what about the mid-level and the top level? When has a big pusher last been busted? When last has he got a dealer? You know what happens now? We have become drunk on the statistics of the little people who have been busted. I call them the victims, the users. I am not misled by that. I get excited when I hear them bust a dealer or a pusher because it is impossible for the country to be full of users if there are no dealers. Let us get some dealers—let us bust some big guys. You know what the word on the street is? Somebody must be protecting them. Let us move to find that out: who or what is protecting them?

Madam Speaker, I hold no brief with the Government, except to say that as a responsible citizen of this country, and as a Legislator, I think they are not addressing a pretty critical situation fast enough. I implore them to get on with the job. I remind them that as a Backbench Member I can only bring Motions like this expressing my concern. Under our Constitution and our Standing Orders, I have no authority, no commitment, no responsibility to write contracts, or to lay obstacles in contracted people's way. I have a responsibility and I have an obligation to express my concern, and it is just too bad if those concerns do not please the Government; I am certainly not tailoring my concern to gain favour with the Government. What I will do, however, is cooperate with the Government when they do things which I think are in the best interest of constituency and country.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question before the House is Private Member's Motion No. 22/94. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES AND NOES.

The Speaker: The Noes have it.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can we have a division please, Madam Speaker?

The Speaker: You certainly may.
Madam Clerk.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The Speaker: Before we proceed with the Business for today, I understand that a few Members would like to attend a funeral at 3.30 p.m., at North Side. I would like to have the wishes made known from Members who would like to attend, if the majority would like to attend—I would like to myself.

Can I have an indication from Members who would like to attend? We can do this informally.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, may I say that the Honourable Thomas Jefferson, and Mr. John Jefferson would like to attend also, even though they are not in the Chamber.

The Speaker: All right. So, would one take that to be the majority of Members who would wish to attend? In those circumstances then, the funeral is at North Side at 3:30 p.m. Do you think we might adjourn at this time? Would someone please move a Motion, then?

The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, I move the suspension of Standing Orders so that this House may adjourn until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Orders be suspended and that the House do now adjourn until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye... Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until 10 o'clock, Monday morning.

AT 2.31 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM MONDAY, 19 SEPTEMBER 1994.

MONDAY
19 SEPTEMBER, 1994
10.07 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Fourth Elected member for George Town to say Prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

Presentation of Papers and Reports.

PRESENTATION OF
PAPERS AND REPORTS

THE PORT AUTHORITY OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS MASTER PORT DEVELOPMENT PLAN (EXECUTIVE SUMMARY)

The Speaker: The Port Authority of the Cayman Islands Master Port Development Plan (Executive Summary).

The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House the Executive Summary of the Master Port Development Plan for the Port Authority of the Cayman Islands

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, last week, when I laid the Financial Statements of the Port Authority on the Table, I mentioned that this Master Port Development Plan was carried out at a total cost to the Port Authority of approximately $230,000. This study was authorised by the Port Authority in August of 1992.

We discovered that the study, which was supposed to tell us what was the most appropriate venue for a Port in the long term for Grand Cayman, among other things, that in the terms of reference given to the consultants, they had been tied to George Town. Therefore the consultants had no authority to look elsewhere.

When we looked at it, as the (shall I say) new Port Authority Board, we believed that this was not appropriate, and we therefore amended the terms of reference to allow them to look all around the Island for fear that, if this was not done, a year or two later someone would say, 'Of course, your recommendation was George Town, but you did not look anywhere else.' So we decided to remove that restriction and allowed the consultants to apply their skills and expertise to the report as to what is the best Port to establish the harbour and Port for the future of the Cayman Islands in Grand Cayman.

As a result of that, the consultants looked at the Red Bay area; the North Sound area; the West Bay area—now, I know someone will say West Bay is part of the North Sound, but let us not think about the North Sound, let us think on the south side—and also the George Town area. They submitted a number of proposals which to some extent are summarised in this Executive Summary. Members will be able to read it and understand what proposals they have.

In essence, there are seven (although I think the report incorrectly says 8 in one area) alternative concepts. They have them labelled "A" through "F": "A" meaning a full cruise and cargo port at South Sound, which is the Red Bay area I mentioned earlier; alternative "B" would be a full cruise and cargo port at North Sound; alternative "C" would be a full cruise and cargo port at George Town. They have two different alternatives here. Where alternative "C" would have the cruise ships dock to the south and the cargo to the north, alternative "D1" would have the cruise to the north and the cargo to the south; alternative "D2" also has full cruise and cargo port at George Town with the cruise ships docked to the Northwest and the cargo slips to the south. Alternative "E" would have a split facility—the cruise at George Town and cargo at South Sound. Alternative "F" is modest improvement at the present George Town Port.

I am not going to go into the detail of the cost of each, but when we looked at the North Sound there was a need for substantial dredging coming in from the main channel straight into the right side as you come in on the West Bay peninsula. That cost was over $100 million.

Obviously, if you dredge an area 500 feet wide—and we have cruise ships that are 800,000—900,000 feet in length—if that happens you can forget about sand bar, and probably forget about Stingray City too.

The consultants ended up recommending the George Town Harbour, or Port area to be developed. In this Report, that recommendation would cost us over $50 million. I will come back to that, but let me also mention that when the consultants were carrying out their study and we (the new Port Authority Board) looked at the terms of reference, we decided to also amend it to include home-porting. We amended it because (similar to the comments I made a while ago) somebody would come along and say 'You opened the terms of reference to allow the consultants to look all around Grand Cayman to decide on George Town, but you did not ask them about home-porting' (meaning cruise ships docked here departing from here and returning here on some voyage to some part of the Caribbean, probably).

This report also mentioned what contribution that would be to the economy of these Islands. It mentions that the economic impact of one 900 passenger ship making 26 cruises to the economy of the Cayman Islands would be $7.3 million. But I am not a single entry bookkeeper, Madam Speaker, there is also an economic cost and, perhaps, a substantial economic cost. I need only mention, that if you have a cruise ship docking alongside or you have home porting, you have to provide additional facilities such as sewage and additional security measures, whether it is done by the Port or by the Police. That is not an exhaustive list. It also could change the Cayman Islands to such an extent that the economic cost of home porting should undergo serious and lengthy thought, both looking at the positive and negative benefits.

Those of us who visit Miami on a Friday night or a Saturday morning, or who are still in the hotel on Sunday, will be reminded how you can hardly walk in the lobby for the number of people who are there. One of the best ways to damage your Island as a destination is over population of tourists. It is an area we have to be very cautious about. While some countries can do it with ease, the reason is they are moving, and had moved many years ago, to mass tourism. So when you move to mass tourism, when you have to squeeze through a 20,000 foot lobby, it is all part of the scenario that you expect. But I do not believe that the people who come to the Cayman Islands would expect that.

I make those comments just to try to put a little light on home porting, and if I were sitting down to deal with this again, I would certainly ask the consultants to carry out the same exercise because I think it gives us a full picture of possible port development and the impact on the country.

Coming back to the port in George Town, while the new Port Authority Board (and I say new, meaning the present Government) had really no alternative but to accept the report. We said in accepting the report that an investment of $56 million will come, as and when, the Port Authority and the Government are able to agree that the country can afford it.

May I say, as the Minister and the Chairman of the Port Authority, that I do not believe this country needs it at the moment, and during my term of office (to November 1996, God willing) I do not think you will see me putting this forward before you for funding. With the system we are using at present I believe that the businesses gain more benefit—where the cruise ships anchor in George Town and their passengers are brought ashore by a tenders, which are locally owned. While improvements can be made in that area, I believe that system can carry us forward for some time to come.

It is always important to have a sense of direction, and I believe that the Master Port Development Plan (Executive Summary) which we laid on the Table this morning, does give the Port Authority and the Government some plan for possible future development of the Port. We will decide to spend this money when we believe the service is needed.

Looking at the Port today, it is far different than it was four or five years ago. The majority of cargo that is landed at the Port disappears in a short period of time. It is moved to the Cargo Distribution Centre, where we have several acres of land for storage purposes. So, I think the direction we have taken is the correct direction. We will continue to improve the facilities.

May I mention that one of the earliest reports that I have seen gives an assessment of the present docks (George Town and Cayman Brac docks) and the need for repairs. That is a priority, and it is that report that the Board has agreed to implement with immediate effect. I am sure that Members and the public will see this matter going to tender in the near future, for work to be done to the Cayman Brac dock, in particular, which over a period of time has had some damage, particularly underneath part of the dock itself. We will be moving forward with that in a few months.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Report of the Standing Business Committee.

REPORT OF THE STANDING BUSINESS COMMITTEE (Meeting held 27th May, 1994)

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I am pleased to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Standing Business Committee, for the meeting held on Friday the 27th of May, 1994.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, this meeting dealt with seven Business Papers, and set down the Questions, Legislation and Private Member's Motions for the Meeting which began in June.

The Committee has agreed that this is the Report of the Standing Business Committee.

The Speaker: Community College of the Cayman Islands Annual Report 1993/94; and Community College of the Cayman Islands Financial Statements.

COMMUNITY COLLEGE OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS
ANNUAL REPORT 1993/94;
and
COMMUNITY COLLEGE OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS
FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House, as required under the Community College of the Cayman Islands Law, 1987, section 11(6), the Financial Statement of the Community College of the Cayman Islands for the year 1993, and the Annual Report of the College for the Academic Year 1993/94.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the Community College of the Cayman Islands is one of the Government's best investments in the future of these Islands. I have been pleased to see in recent times that several of our larger financial institutions in recognising the College's contribution to the work force, both present and future, have contributed scholarships for the students. I should like to publicly acknowledge and thank the Swiss Bank, Coutts and Company, the Bankers' Association, the Royal Bank of Canada, and Barclays Bank for their contributions to the College.

I should also like to thank those businesses and associations which every year assist the College in finding work experience places for their students and in contributing prizes and awards at the graduation ceremony. I would like to stress how important it is for businesses to assist each year for placement for students over their summer vacations for work experience.

In recent years, we have seen several pleasing trends in the development of the College. We have more businesses requesting specially designed courses for their staff, and we see more firms involved in day release programmes at the College as part of their in-service training of staff.

During 1993, the distance learning programme of the University of the West Indies (UWIDITE) became operational and a wide variety of academic programmes and short courses were offered. While it would take some time for the UWIDITE programme to reach its full strength, it has enormous potential for expanding the offerings of the College. This programme is via satellite.

The first year, and for the first time, the advanced level course will be run at the Community College. This will round out the range of courses which the College offers, and add Career and College Preparation courses for the first time. We anticipate excellent "A" level results in two years' time from the class of 1994, who were so very successful in this summer's Caribbean Examination Council's Examinations.

Government's grant to the College in 1993 was approximately three-quarters of a million dollars. Fees collected amount to 21% of the operating costs. While Government will always have to support post secondary education locally, the College is committed to making a contribution to its own operation while abiding by the Government policies which govern Statutory Authorities.

Of particular significance is the fact that the College has contributed almost $.5 million in savings from their annual grant towards the cost of their new general studies building. Government will meet the additional costs for a loan and this building which constitutes part 1 of a two part phase should be ready early in the new year.

In the nine years that it has existed as an institution in its own right, the College has grown from strength to strength and now offers a wide variety of programmes, including professional certification in banking, accounting, insurance, and hotel administration, as well as secretarial and commercial studies, auto mechanics, carpentry, electricity and electronics, and the hospitality studies. A well supported extension study offers courses to adults between the hours of 5.30 PM and 9.30 PM, ranging from professional to academic practice and leisure courses.

Madam Speaker, I would like to thank the Chairman and Members of the Board of Governors; the Principal, Mr. Sam Basdeo and his staff, and also a special thanks to Mrs. Islay Connolly who was the first Chairman of the Board. All of these people have contributed a vast amount of time, expertise and experience to the Board, and without them the Community College of the Cayman Islands could not have progressed at as full and as rapid a pace as it has.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Water Authority Annual Report 1993.

THE WATER AUTHORITY ANNUAL REPORT 1993

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House, the Annual Report of the Water Authority for the year 1993.

The Speaker: So ordered.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, 1993 was another productive year for the Authority. I am pleased to have been able to continue my role in its leadership as Chairman of the Board and as Minister responsible for the Water Authority.

The month of March 1993, marked the 10 year anniversary of the Authority, and it was gratifying to reflect on the significant achievements which have been accomplished by the Authority since its conception. Laws and regulations are now in place to protect and manage the water resources of this beautiful country, and to provide public water supplies and sewerage infrastructure for its thriving economy. The Authority has grown from a small well field operation in Lower Valley in 1983, to a utility which now provides much of the population in Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac with wholesome desalinated water through pipeline and truck facilities. In addition, the progressive thinking and planning which went into the design and construction of the West Bay Sewerage System has ensured that the precious beaches and resort areas of Grand Cayman are protected and preserved for future generations. However, throughout this rapid growth, the Authority has always maintained a position of operational strength, and 1993 proved to be no exception with the Authority showing a modest operating profit of $621,973—despite an operational expenditure of $441,421 for line damage to sewer pipes for the West Bay Beach sewer system. In addition, in 1993 the Authority was able to contribute $700,000 to the General Reserve Revenues of the Cayman Islands Government. This did not come about by big talk, fancy words or rumour-mongering, but by the sweat of many brows and determined and consistent leadership.

Total operating income for 1993 was at $6,922,360, up 12.4% from 1992. However, total expenses were up by 19.6% from 1992, mainly due to the expense of repairs to the damaged sewer pipes.

The Authority's total assets stood at $28,764,251 at the end of 1993, up from $25,573,642 in 1992. A further $3,000,606 was drawn down from CIBC Bank and Trust Company during 1993 to finance the completion of phase 2 and to begin phase 3 of the Spotts to Pease Bay water supply extension. This particular project neared completion with the piped water system reaching as far as Pease Bay by the end of 1993.

The increased distribution area, as well as healthy growth within the previous distribution area yielded an increase in the Authority's customer base of almost 23% during 1993. A new pumping facility was commissioned at the Red Gate Water Works in July in order to continue to provide adequate pressure to the rapidly growing public water supply system. The Cayman Brac Water Supply continued to operate efficiently and reliably, and expectations were high that one of the hotels which previously operated its own desalination plant would soon become a full time customer, instead of carrying out costly maintenance on their plant.

The Board agreed, after more than two years of negotiations, to the terms of a new licence for Central DeSal Ltd. who provides the Authority with a portion of their desalinated water needs. Central DeSal and its new partner, Ahlstrom Heat Recovery, Inc. of the United States, began work at the end of 1993 which when completed will, hopefully, remedy operational problems with the IDE unit and increase its capacity levels greater than its original rating. It was pleasing to see that Ocean Conversion (Cayman) Ltd. continued to operate reliably and provided approximately 72% of the Authority's desalinated water needs over the year. By the end of 1993, negotiations were under way to increase the capacity of the Ocean Conversion plant to 4,000 cubic meters per day. A new and revised Water Production licence between Government and Ocean Conversion was signed this past April, and plant modifications are now well underway.

Repair work to the 150 mm clay sewers on the West Bay Beach Sewerage System was completed in April 1993. The benefits of this work were immediately apparent as the overall flow into the sewerage treatment works was reduced by almost 40%, due to the elimination of saline ground water infiltration in the repaired pipe sections. This has resulted in significant savings on electricity costs, pumping stations, and in maintenance and wear on equipment.

The Authority is well aware that its greatest asset is its staff and efforts to provide training and further education for staff members continued through 1993 with three young Caymanians continuing their tertiary education overseas. All seconded civil servants became directly employed by the Authority when it was agreed by Government that they could maintain their pension rights. All other qualified Caymanian employees were allowed to join the Government pension scheme.

Consistent with Government's policy on Caymanianisation, and the Ministry's supporting initiatives, and in spite of the hullabaloo we sometimes hear in the House about Caymanianisation, the Board was recently able to move a number of Caymanians into more senior and key positions within the Authority.

I am very pleased to report that the management of the Authority remains focused on the future and the mission of the Authority. The upper management staff was restructured in July 1994 and is now staffed by a Caymanian Director and Deputy Director. Three other Caymanians were promoted to the posts of Operations Engineer, Operations Manager and Superintendent, all under the leadership of this Government.

With the completion of the Spotts to Pease Bay water supply extension earlier this year, the Authority's management team has embarked upon several new initiatives, particularly in the area of long term financial planning which will dictate the rate of growth of the Authority's water and sewerage service areas for the next 10 years. Negotiations are currently underway with several local banks to refinance a major portion of the Authority's long term debt in order to facilitate investment into further service area extensions and, possibly, additional water supply and sewerage schemes and on service areas of the country.

It is envisioned that these small projects will be carried on in-house without the necessity of significantly increasing the Authority's long term debt. The Board is pleased that Government has agreed to allow the portion of the funds remaining from the Spotts to Pease Bay water supply loan to be used to finance a feasibility study of a sewerage scheme for central George Town. The Board is strongly supportive of this design project which will commence shortly.

If this project is found to be feasible, further consideration will have to be given as to whether this project can be carried out by the Water Authority with a Government guarantee on their required loans, or by private sector investment.

Finally, Madam Speaker, I would like to thank my fellow Board members for the many hard hours they contributed towards the establishment of this successful operation, and to thank the staff of the Authority for their continued hard work and dedication. I believe that the Authority weathered a difficult storm recently, particularly with regard to the circumstances surrounding the untimely departure of the former Managing Director and has, in fact, become stronger from the experience. We look forward to accomplishing much in the years ahead.

Thank you, Madam Speaker

The Speaker: The next item is Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers.

The first question is No. 148, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 148

No. 148: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation for the reason why a particular member of staff at the George Town Hospital has been given permission to sell meals during breakfast and dinner hours.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: No member of staff at the George Town Hospital has been given permission to sell meals on a personal basis during breakfast and dinner hours.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Could the Minister state then, if during the lunch hour the Pink Ladies operate the concession stand, and is it not correct that during the dinner and breakfast hours that a particular member of staff operates there in the concession stand?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. To clarify to the casual observer how the function works at the cafeteria, I will briefly go over that for you.

The cafeteria is open from 8.30 a.m. to 2.30 PM, and from 4.00 PM to 6.00 PM, Monday through Friday; and on Saturdays from 8.30 a.m. to 2.30 PM. The cook at the George Town Hospital prepares meals for the Pink Ladies to sell at the George Town cafeteria. The Pink Ladies are responsible for the preparation and sale of breakfast 8.30 a.m.—12 noon. They are also responsible for the sale of meals from 12 noon —2.30 PM, Monday through Friday.

A request was made by the staff for people coming on later in the day to provide meals for them. So the cook at the George Town Hospital is responsible for the sale of meals and snacks from 4.00 PM to 6.00 PM, Monday to Friday, and on Saturdays from 8.30 a.m. to 2.30 PM, for the Health Services Department.

Madam Speaker, approximately $1,500 in profit is realised monthly on the sale of these snacks sold to the Hospital staff. These funds are lodged with the Health Services Accountant and subsequently deposited to Government Treasury as revenue earned.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: The $1,500 profit that is realised, is that including the Pink Ladies Association, or is that solely from the evening meals?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: No, that is solely from the evening meals and maybe from breakfast, sometimes.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Are there any controls over purchasing of these supplies and, if so, who is in charge of these purchases?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, I think that is a question that is coming, but there are controls and inventories taken care of to make sure that these things are accounted for. But I think there is a substantive answer coming later.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 149, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 149

No. 149: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what policies and programmes are in place for public health, particularly regarding genetic and sexually transmitted diseases.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The Mission of the Public Health Department is to promote, protect, maintain and improve the health and safety of all residents of, and visitors to, the Cayman Islands.

In relation to genetic disorders and sexually transmitted diseases, it is Government policy to promote preventive and control measures. The public Health Department offers programmes aimed at disease prevention and health promotion. I will list some of the programmes carried out by the Public Health Department:

The various programmes include:-

- Primary Care through District Health Centres
- Health Promotion Programme
- School Health Programme

I may add that in respect to the genetic counsellor, a person has now been identified and interviews have been conducted with a recommendation being made to the Public Service Commission for the vacancy to be filled.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Since May of this year, when we were given a tour of the George Town clinic, could the Minister kindly state if the Genetic Programme and the Sexually Transmitted Diseases (STD) Programme have come back on line, because we were told then that they had not.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In regard to the Genetic Counsellor post (which I just mentioned has been recruited for), as you know this was cut out during the down-sizing of the Public Service, that is why that post was not filled. But we have now been able to identify a person.

As a follow up, the Public Health nurses do go out into the districts and follow up on the STD cases, etc.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Who recommended that the Genetics Programme be dropped, because here in Cayman the illness known as the Cayman Disease is of grave importance to us. Who recommended this?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: To the best of my knowledge, no one recommended this. What I understand is that it was dropped by the previous Government.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 150, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 150

No. 150: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to state the reasons why school medicals are done by a nurse and not a doctor.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The purpose of School Medicals is health screening. This includes a family history of any medical condition; a history of any chronic medical condition of the child; assessment of growth by height and weight measurement; hearing and vision screening; assessment of immunisation status and identification of any obvious illnesses of the child through records and physical examination. School nurses are trained to carry out these assessments.

Children identified with any abnormality during these assessments, are referred to their family doctor, or to a Government doctor.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister state that when the school nurses are examining the child for their school medical, no doctor is assisting?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: No, Madam Speaker. An assessment is made by the nurse and if the nurse picks up something that may need to be referred on, then this is done, because there are approximately 400 or 500 children that go through this examination.

As a follow-up, this policy was instituted about 20 years ago. It was updated in 1987 and this was done in consultation with the Public Health nurses and School nurses. There are written guidelines for the programme.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister kindly make an undertaking that this could be reviewed, because I feel it is very important that when someone is being examined, a doctor should assist the nurse.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, Ma'am, if this is deemed necessary, we will look into it.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 151, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 151

No. 151: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture if land has been purchased in the Spotts area for a National Sports Complex and, if so, the cost.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Negotiations have been completed for the acquisition of land in the Spotts area for development of a National Sports Complex. The purchase will be executed within 21 days of Government's being granted detailed Planning permission for the proposed development.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, thank you. The Minister obviously overlooked the substantive part of the question, that is, the cost of the property.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the question asks about the purchase and that is not executed as yet. I said the purchase will be executed within 21 days of Government's being granted detailed Planning permission. An agreement is being done.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Is it not correct that if the land is purchased for the National Sports Complex this will be spread out over a period of time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, that is a question that I welcome today, because for many months there have been rumours, speculation and outright lies told about the sports policy of this country, in spite of repeated explanations on radio and television and on the floor of this Honourable House. We have said, time and time again, that a sports development programme is essential for the social development of this country and that it will be spread out over a period of years. The country knows that we are upgrading the George Town sports facility to accommodate the games of CARIFTA and the Caribbean Shell Cup games. We are continuing our district facilities and during these times, we have to put emphasis where we think the priority is needed.

In regards to the property, when the purchase is completed we will be building in the first phase an Olympic swimming pool, hopefully, as I feel that will complement the facilities throughout the country. I hope to make a statement, but I thank the Member for asking the question. That, I hope, assists those in the Opposition who are spreading the rumours, and those who do not seem to otherwise understand.

The Speaker: The Second Elected member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Would the Minister tell the House how many acres of land are being negotiated, and who are the parties from whom the land is being negotiated?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the total acreage is some 38 acres, as I understand from the Lands Department. I should further like to inform that Member, so that he has his information correct, and so that when he speaks he will have the facts. On a Point of Clarification, I would like to read a letter from the Permanent Secretary from Agriculture Communications and Works, a letter which I have already made public:

"On a point of clarification, I should like to note for the record that the controlling officer responsible and accountable for all land purchase schemes in the three islands is the Director of Lands and Survey. The land purchase guidelines state that the Director of Lands and Survey shall be directly responsible for all land transactions and negotiations with participation of other officers subject to his consent and direction. The Lands Officers, who form part of the staff complement of Lands and Surveys, are qualified general practice surveyors, specialising in land acquisition, sale lease and valuation. These are officers who the Director assigns the responsibility to for all land purchase schemes.

"In the case of the National Stadium, your Ministry, as the client, has instructed the Director to negotiate the acquisition of a site within the Spotts registration section to accommodate such a sporting facility, including parking and landscaped areas.

"The lands officers have been actively pursuing the acquisition and have progressed quite satisfactorily. The property being acquired is owned by Messrs. Rex Crighton and Hugo Zeiderent.

"Although the principals involved may have contacted the Ministry of Agriculture Communication and Works, and the Ministry of Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture, concerned about the progress of the acquisition and the terms proposed, I should stress, most unequivocally and categorically, that at no time has the client Ministry been assigned the responsibility to negotiate the acquisition of this property, nor has that Ministry usurped the powers vested in the Director of Lands and Surveys." [Official Hansard Report (8 June 1994) page 234]

I hope that answers the question.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) and (8)

The Speaker: It is now past 11 o'clock. The Honourable Minister for Tourism Environment and Planning, Leader of Government Business.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I believe it is the will of the House that we suspend, under Standing Order 83, Standing Order 23 (7) and (8) to allow the other supplementaries and questions to be taken.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23 (7) and (8) be suspended in order for the remaining supplementaries and questions to be dealt with this morning.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The ayes have it, Standing Orders are accordingly suspended.

AGREED. STANDING ORDER 23(7) and (8) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In the reply the Minister said that negotiations have been completed for the acquisition of the land in the Spotts area. He has also said that it is approximately 38 acres.

Madam Speaker, I think if the negotiations are completed that, surely, the cost must be known. Could the Minister say if it is correct that Government in fact... or does he know if another Ministry has paid actual sums of money to the people interested in selling this property and, indeed, they, in turn, have passed on their sales agreement and there has been approximately $2 million paid for this property?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, it is no wonder that the people of this country are confused, when we have that line of questioning: Misinformation, and nothing but misinformation.

We have said that there were down payments made but it is not completed because it depends upon the Planning permission. When that is completed then the sale of the property will be finalised. That is my understanding from the Ministry responsible for Lands and the Land Department.

As for amounts paid, Madam Speaker, deposits were paid in the amount of $110,000 to Hugo Zeiderent, Grand Cayman Gulf Resort; and $169,001 to Rex Crighton of Crighton Properties. It is an absolute untruth to say that the property, the 38 acres, has cost $2 million. It is no wonder that people in the country spread misinformation, when Members of the House get up and say that it cost $2 million.

As I understand it, when the deal for the property is completed through the Lands and Survey Department the total cost would be $1,472,850. I gave to the House the amounts paid out. The purchase money will be payable over five years at an interest rate of 3% per annum. The real cost to Government is, therefore, considerably lower than the quoted figure due to the subsidised financing being offered. In addition, .5 acres from block 25B Parcel 177 will be donated by Stella Enterprises, a Rex Crighton Company, to facilitate the widening of the small road to the requisite 64 feet.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman has been able to apply all kinds of answers to all kinds of circumstances, even to the situations that do not exist. He should not be too hard pressed to understand the answer given.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Is the Honourable Minister saying that, should Planning permission not be forthcoming, the deal to purchase the land will fall through? If that is the case, are there any penalties to the Government on monies already paid on deposit?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, if Planning permission is not given for the go ahead for a development for sports—which every Member in this House campaigned on, talking about the need for facilities for the country—then we should wait and see what happens. However, Government is not that stupid. As I understand it, the people doing the transaction have made the proper guarantees. If there is no deal with Planning then Government is safe. That is my understanding of the situation. If permission is not granted, the deal will not go through, the purchase will not go through and the monies will be returned to Government.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 152, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 152

No. 152: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture what role does the Honourable Minister play in attending overseas events such as the recent Commonwealth Games in Canada.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: It is a common and well accepted practice for Ministers of Sports and other senior Government officials to attend major international games such as the Commonwealth Games, the Pan American Games, the Olympic Games, and so on. These occasions provide the opportunity for senior officials to meet their counterparts and discuss matters pertinent to their own sports development programmes. Such contacts can serve as a valuable aid in policy-making and implementation, as well as providing a foundation for technical cooperation.

On the occasion of the XV Games in Victoria, Canada, more than 30 Commonwealth Ministers of Sports were in attendance with a variety of senior officials from their respective governments and private sports organizations.

Ministers' presence at the Games in support of national athletes is also important.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Minister tell the House if he has made a report to Government on what was found to be the situation while attending the games in Victoria Canada, and if there was any indication of improvement, or of using these games as models in any local effort here in the Cayman Islands?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, Ministers of this Government travelling to any function which has relation to their Ministry or policy make a report to Executive Council. I always make a report, and if that one has not yet been done it will be completed shortly.

As far as using the Commonwealth Games as a model for local games, I would hope (whether I would be the Minister of Sports or not) that one of these days we would have something in this country like what exists at that XV Commonwealth games. But, for the foreseeable future, that is on a scale that I do not think Cayman can hope to have.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister say how large his party was that went to the games in Canada, what was the cost, and does the Minister think that his time spent overseas at these various events is indeed excessive in the light of his responsibilities?

Speaker: Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, I will not allow the part that asks for an expression of opinion, and neither can I allow the request for cost, unless it is readily available, as that was not part of the original question. If the Minister can answer about the delegation, he may do so.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, my attendance at games—and I have only been to two—I believe is good, as far as a Minister attending to a matter under which his responsibility falls. I do not see why I should not. At most of these games there is a general conference of some kind in regard to policy and that is where I, or any Minister, would come in.

I should tell the Member that when I go away, I spend more (I think most Ministers do) than I receive from Government, and I should further tell him that I do not spend Government's money on liquor, or cigars, or brandy, as used to be the case when he was Principal Secretary.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I have asked you to reply to one part of the question—the composition of the delegation. The other matters were expressions of opinion, etcetera, and I said I would not allow those.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Well, Madam Speaker, I gave an expression of opinion. As far as the number in my party, either I go alone or my Principal Secretary goes with me, as is the case with any Minister travelling—no more than when the Member asking was Principal Secretary.

QUESTION NO. 153

No. 153: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs what decision, if any, has Government taken regarding the influx of Cuban Refugees into the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: The decision taken by Government regarding the influx of Cuban refugees into the Cayman Islands is to temporarily house them and interview them, in accordance with the guidelines of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, to determine whether they are political refugees or economic migrants. All Cubans who are not political refugees will be subject to possible repatriation to Cuba.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say if there are any specific guidelines or checklists which are followed when interviewing these persons, and can it be handled locally, or is the Government having to employ external persons—officials from the United Nations or such organisations?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Yes, there are specific guidelines laid down for conducting UNHCR interviews. Local officers have been trained in the correct procedure in carrying out these interviews, training has been supplemented by expertise from the British Home Office and some training has been afforded by the United Nation's (UNHCR) Washington representative.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It has been reported in the local media that this process of interviewing could take a long time. Could you explain to the House just why that is the case? What has to be determined that it is so hard to set the two categories?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, the interviews have to be carried out as thoroughly as one could expect at such an interview, in light of the serious consequences that result from the process. One is endeavouring to solicit sufficient information to make an informed judgment as to the status of the person interviewed, together with all members of that person's accompanying household.

Because the asylum-seekers in this case are speaking a language that is not native to these Islands, the interviewing process is complicated by the need to have translators involved in the process. That, therefore, contributes to somewhat of a delay. The sheer number requiring to be interviewed, again, presents an enormous task. It is a question of numbers, language and logistics.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I would like to ask the Honourable Member if, to date, any consideration is being given to sending a delegation of elected Ministers to the countries touched by this—the United States, the United Kingdom and, perhaps, the Government of Cuba, even through the British Embassy there, to make contact in this matter?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: I cannot confirm any such delegation at this time, however, the idea has come up in various discussions. If that is to take place, the Government would make a suitable announcement in due course.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. G. Haig Bodden: Madam Speaker, will the Member say, if a decision is taken to repatriate, is there any appeal against that?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, under UNHCR guidelines, the procedure following the initial interview produces a decision which is subject to an appeal, and that appeal process can also be expedited. That is what we are hoping to achieve in this instance.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Member state if a fence will be installed where the refugees are housed on Smith Road, or what security measures are in place at that compound?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, I do not wish to publicly discuss security arrangements. All I can say is that persons accommodated in Government Housing are carefully selected before being placed there, and appropriate restrictions are applied.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

SECOND READINGS

THE PROPERTY (MISCELLANEOUS) PROVISIONS BILL, 1994

Clerk: The Property (Miscellaneous) Provisions Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to move the second reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to Make Provisions with Respect to Disposition of Property and Related Matters.

One of the major factors which has contributed to the success of the Cayman Islands as an international financial centre has been the responsiveness of the Government to the legislative needs of our financial industry. In keeping with this trend, it is to be observed that as a marketplace for off shore financial services continues to increase in competitiveness, the need for innovative and responsive legislation will always be required. This Bill is one of four Bills listed on the Order Paper today, which are all inter-related. It is also the primary Bill, and it is to be noted that the requirements of section 8 of this Bill are responsible for the amending legislation to the Companies Law (Revised), and the Powers of Attorney Law.

An overview of this Bill by section, is as follows: Section 2 confirms that a charge can be validly created over a debt (such as a bank deposit) in favour of the bank with whom the deposit is held. Section 3 confirms that a trust can be validly created over an existing debt, such as a deposit held by a trust company, where the debtor is the trustee. Section 4 provides an important clarification for the legal principles that apply to the disposition of properties under trust. This, simply put, brings the Cayman Islands Law in line with United Kingdom Legislation on this subject.

Section 5 provides for the legal assignments of "things in action" and, again, brings our legislation in line with English Law on this subject. Section 5 is taken verbatim from section 136 of the English Law Property Act, 1925. This section will eliminate some of the procedural problems with assigning things in action (for example, bank deposits), and sets forth a clear procedure to be followed.

Section 6 clarifies, without doubt, that the thing in action (for example, a debt, interest on units, trusts, etcetera), may be represented by a bearer share instrument. There has previously been some doubt as to whether many of the instruments common in the Euro-currency Market (for example, bonds, notes, debt instruments, interest in unit trusts, etcetera), could, without doubt, be represented by a bearer instrument. Given that such Euro-currency instruments set up are typically in bearer form, it is important that there be no doubt as to the validity of such instrument under Cayman Islands Law.

Section 7 provides that bodies corporate can hold property as joint tenants. It follows the wording, as far as is appropriate, of the English Bodies Corporate Joint Tenancy Act, 1899. Section 8 brings the manner of executing deeds in the Cayman Islands into line with procedures now in place in the United Kingdom and elsewhere. The aim of the change is to eliminate the technical requirement that a seal be attached to documents which must be executed as deeds.

Section 9 will repeal the obsolete Probate Deeds Law (Revised), which is no longer considered necessary. This Law was originally enacted in 1863 and survives in substantially the same form today. In days before modern means of communication, the Law provided safeguards and procedures for the authenticating of deeds. In the somewhat different circumstances of commercial and financial transactions in the 1990's, it will be no surprise to learn that this Law is considered obsolete, and has no role in safeguarding the integrity of these commercial and financial transactions. Section 10 clarifies that the changes to be made by the Law will, for the most part, apply to pre-existing transactions and documents.

This Bill has the wholehearted and full support of the financial industry and, accordingly, I commend it to this Honourable House.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled The Property (Miscellaneous) Provisions Bill, 1994, be given a second reading. The Motion is open for debate.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, The Bill for a Law to Make Provisions with Respect to the Disposition of Property and Related Matters, which is before the House is, as best as I can understand, necessary, as the Financial Secretary has said. I have inquired of legal practitioners who tell me that this should bring our Law in line with certain legislation in the United Kingdom and that they see these sections as rather harmless and they provide a tidying up operation.

I have a query, however, on the last section of this Law, section 10, which is marked in the margin, "Application". As far as I can see, the Law is being made retroactive. As a general rule, I think one must be careful or seek to determine or find out what effect such a section would have when it is made retroactive. I would like to read it:

"10. Except where expressly provided to the contrary herein, this Law applies to any charge, mortgage, trust, assignment, bearer instrument or joint tenancy created, given or executed or purportedly created, given or executed before or after the coming into force of this Law and no such charge, mortgage, trust, assignment, bearer instrument or joint tenancy shall be invalid by reason only of the fact that it was created or purportedly created, given or executed or purportedly created, given or executed prior to the date of coming into force of this Law."

I have heard at least two interpretations of the meaning of this particular section of the Law. However, I would value hearing what is the intention of the Government, or what the Financial Secretary sees this section providing. Other than that, I support this Bill amending this Law.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to support a Bill for a Law to Make Provision with Respect to the Disposition of Property and Related Matters.

I note from the Honourable Third Official Member's explanation that many of the clauses of this Bill presently before the House are similar to English Statutes. I am not one to believe that all sections of the English Statutes should be included in our legislation, but I have no difficulty with what I see here. I am happy to know that the Honourable Financial Secretary continues to review this legislation under his responsibility in order to keep the legislation up to date, to be able to deal with current financial needs and the operation of the financial market here.

I think, in terms of section 10, it is really there to provide some kind of certainty that deeds executed before also come under this Law. I, myself, find no difficulty in supporting this particular clause and, while Parliamentarians generally have some degree of worry about retrospective legislation, I think clause 10 gives us more benefit than concern.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

This Bill, as far as my level of understanding is capable, and as has been mentioned before, brings us in line with legislation from other jurisdictions. I do trust the Honourable Financial Secretary and his ability, so I would not be one to suggest that it is not wise legislation. However, I have to bring two points to mind, one of which has already been eluded to in the debate. I would like to also express my concern so that the Honourable Financial Secretary could possibly address it.

My first question, which may be a worry that I should not have, I simply request clarification, is in section 7. The marginal note reads: "Bodies corporate holding as joint tenants." I have to read section 7, to make the question clear: "(1) A body corporate shall be capable of acquiring and holding any real or personal property in joint tenancy in the same manner as if it were an individual; and where a body corporate and an individual, or two or more bodies corporate, become entitled to any such property under circumstances or by virtue of any instrument which would, if the body corporate had been an individual, have created a joint tenancy, they shall be entitled to the property as joint tenants:

"Provided that the acquisition and holding of property by a body corporate in joint tenancy shall be subject to the like conditions and restrictions as attached to the acquisition and holding of property by a body corporate in severalty.

"(2) Where a body corporate is joint tenant of any property, [and this is where I have the real question] then on its dissolution the property shall devolve on the other joint tenant."

I looked at a dictionary to make sure I was not misunderstanding the word devolve. If my understanding is correct, the way it is used in this context means that the property shall be transferred on the other joint tenant. Without trying to stretch my imagination too far, I can see the possibility of a conflict (depending upon the heirs and executors of any one person involved with the property originally) after joint tenancy is changed, for whatever reason, whether it be the disappearance, demise, death, whatever, of another individual. The way this reads to me is that automatically this property will be transferred on the other joint tenant. To me, if the joint tenant has some heirs or executors there may be a conflict if this is automatic. I was wondering if that could be clarified, because I do not quite understand, and I see a possible conflict there.

Section 10, which the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning just touched on briefly, if my memory serves me correctly he said that while legislators quite often have a problem with retroactive legislation, this one will benefit us more than do us any harm. I do not doubt that, but I call upon the presenter of this Bill to address this situation because I think it is only fair that there are fears of retroactive legislation. I am sure there is just reasoning behind it, I would just like to satisfy myself before a vote is taken with regards to the problems in these two areas.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: Madam Speaker, I support

this Bill. It is as its name infers—a miscellaneous provisions Bill—which is dealing with areas as outlined by the Honourable Financial Secretary, that date from way back, some of them over 100 years ago, when either the Common Law, or early legislation, made certain prohibitions and restrictions in relation to companies themselves. In fact, when joint stock companies were first established back in the United Kingdom in the mid-1800s, there were many restrictions put on the companies as they were, for the first time, creating a legal fictional entity. Some of these restrictions have hung over through the years even though the Case Law, the law made by judges, can reverse some of this. It is always better to legislate precisely, than to rely on precedent from the Court where there is any doubt as to important matters.

The first section deals with charges over debt and other obligations. That moves on in section 3 to trust over debt. The principle which created this problem arose in a case that, as reported in the 1986 reports, is called The Charge Card Case. It was RE: Charge Card Services Limited. There are sections relating to disposition in favour of a legitimate issue. Also, going back to what was corrected in 1925 by the English Law Property Act, is the section that relates to legal assignments of 'chose in action'. This goes on to deal with bearer's shares in certain entities.

The section on Bodies Corporate holding as Joint Tenants, and deeds being executed where a simple instrument can be used instead of a deed has also been dealt with here and the old Probate of Deeds Law has been repealed.

The modern approach is basically that, in this day and age where people are better educated, better able to understand a financial transaction, the necessity of doing a deed in which certain formalities had to be carried out to ensure that the parties understood the transaction, are really no longer necessary. This gives credence to that. Deeds are only essential where no consideration for transaction was given. If there was legal consideration, then the instrument was valid. If not, it could totally fail if it were not done by deed and certain types of instruments, such as Powers of Attorney, had to be under seal where it was to execute an instrument such as a deed that was under seal.

There are some other areas that I think we need to look at as well, perhaps relating to the confusion that sometimes occurs with formalities relating to debentures, and whether the formalities of the old Bill of Sale Law (which is about 90 years old now) applies or not. But, this does go a very long way. I agree with the principles. I cannot say that I can remember very much of the origins of these as I have been out of Law School now for 25 years, but I rely fully on the legal draftsman in dealing with the finer parts of these to ensure that the legislation has effectively done what we expect it to do. These will go a long way to enhancing and assisting with developing the offshore sector and they are, I think, recommended by persons in the Offshore Centre Private Sector Committee of the Honourable Financial Secretary. So, I commend him for bringing this, I think they are good and will assist the offshore sector and I fully support them.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, would the Honourable Third Official Member like to exercise his right of reply?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, let me first thank all Honourable Members for their support of this Bill.

With your permission, I am going to ask the Honourable Attorney General to deal with section 7. I think he will be able to introduce the necessary legalese in order to set us straight.

Going to section 10, on the question of retroactivity...

The Speaker: Honourable Third Official Member, if you are now speaking, this closes the debate in spite of what you might wish to happen. If you wish for the Honourable Second Official Member to say something before you do, then let him speak first, otherwise he cannot speak after you have closed the debate.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: After dealing with section 10, I was going to invite him and then I will finalise...

The Speaker: No, you must allow the Honourable Second Official Member to speak first, please.

Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am happy to cede to what the Honourable Third Official Member has asked me to do, and to give an explanation to the two Members who raised a query about section 7 of this Bill.

When property is purchased by more than one person—and when I say person, for these purposes that can be interpreted as a company as well, there are two ways of achieving it: one is as joint tenants (which is the phrase used in this section) and the other way is as tenants in common. There are various differences between those particular methods. But the real difference is that in a joint tenancy, where one of the individuals dies, the property automatically passes to the survivors. That, in fact, happens irrespective of any provisions that might be in the deceased's will. So, even if the deceased had attempted to leave his property elsewhere, it does not take effect: It still goes to the survivors of the joint tenants. That is what a Joint Tenancy is.

A Tenancy in Common is the opposite of that. If you hold property as tenants in common, then you are free to dispose of your share in that property to whomsoever you wish, and it goes to your executors and your beneficiaries under your will.

All section 7 does is give the same rights to a corporate body that an individual already has. So, if a company or corporate body is dissolved, then any property it holds as joint tenants under this section would automatically pass to the other joint tenants, whether they were companies, or individuals.

I hope that clarifies the matter.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member will now conclude the debate.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, in relationship to section 10 of this Bill, dealing with retroactivity, I think what this is doing is not a question of retroactively, in the context of the word, meaning that this will create a very difficult situation for pre-existing transactions.

I would like, with your permission to read this section in full to see where the emphasis should be placed: "10. Except where expressly provided to the contrary herein, this Law applies to any charge, mortgage, trust, assignment, bearer instrument or joint tenancy created, given or executed or purportedly created, given or executed before or after the coming into force of this Law and no such charge, mortgage, trust, assignment, bearer instrument or joint tenancy shall be invalid by reason only of the fact that it was created or purportedly created, given or executed or purportedly created, given or executed prior to the date of coming into force of this Law." This validates pre-existing transactions and where a pre-existing transaction would become invalid as a result of the introduction of this legislation this allows for such transactions to be validated.

This is where the emphasis should be placed, on the last set of words in this paragraph, because it makes it quite clear that this is not something that seeks to go back and disadvantage anyone that would have entered into any one of these transactions as listed.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled The Property (Miscellaneous) Provisions Bill, 1994, be given a second reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a second reading.

AGREED: THE PROPERTY (MISCELLANEOUS) PROVISIONS BILL, 1994, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) (NO. 2) BILL, 1994

Clerk: The Companies (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, 1994

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the second reading of a Bill entitled A Bill for a Law to Amend the Companies Law (Revised).

This Bill seeks to amend the Companies Law (Revised), to provide that a company need not have a common seal; and to provide that deeds and other instruments under seal of a company need not be executed under seal, but may be executed in other ways.

These are minor amendments, consequential to section 8 of the Property (Miscellaneous) Provision Bill, 1994, (which has just been dealt with) and it deals specifically with the requirements of the execution of deeds and instruments under seal. This is an optional requirement and what this will do is bring the Cayman Islands in line with other jurisdictions that have removed the mandatory requirement that all such deeds and instruments be executed under seal.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Companies (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, 1994, be given a second reading. The Motion is open for debate. (Pause)

If there is no debate, would the Honourable Third Official Member have any further remarks to make before the question is put?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I would like to thank Honourable Members for their support in allowing this Bill.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Companies (Amendment) (No. 2) Bill, 1994, be given a second reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE COMPANIES (AMENDMENT) (NO. 2) BILL, 1994, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: At this time proceedings will be suspended until 2.00 PM

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.27 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.05 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.
Continuation of Second Readings.

THE POWERS OF ATTORNEY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Clerk: The Powers of Attorney (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to Amend the Powers of Attorney Law, 1979.

This amendment seeks to remove the requirement that the Power of Attorney must have a seal affixed to it.

It is a consequential amendment resulting from the Property (Miscellaneous) Provision Bill, which was given a second reading earlier today.

I commend this Bill to this Honourable House.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled The Powers of Attorney (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading. The Motion is open for debate.

[PAUSE]

The Speaker: If there is no debate, would the Mover wish to say anything further before I put the question?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Once more, just to thank Members for their tacit support.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled The Powers of Attorney (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE POWERS OF ATTORNEY (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

THE PARTNERSHIP (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Clerk: The Partnership (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the second reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to Amend the Partnership Law, 1983.

This amendment is intended to repeal section 5 of the Partnership Law for the purpose of removing an obsolete statutory requirement that certain rights in respect of loans are postponed. The provision to be repealed currently defers two types of creditors claiming in the insolvency of a person.

The first right is where a person claiming the insolvency has lent money to the insolvent person as part of an arrangement to engage in any business on a contract with him. The second is where a person has sole goodwill of a business for a share in the profits of the business. The existing effect of section 5 of the Partnership Law, 1983, is to postpone the rights of both types of creditors to claim in the insolvency to the rights of all other creditors. It is considered that there is no need to penalise in this way, the making of these types of commercial transactions.

This proposed legislation has the full support of the financial community and, accordingly, it is recommended to this Honourable House.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled The Partnership (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a second reading. The Motion is open for debate.

[PAUSE]

The Speaker: If there is no debate, does the Third Official Member wish to say anything further?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: No, Madam Speaker, other than to thank Members, once more, for their tacit support.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled The Partnership (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a second reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE PARTNERSHIP (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

THE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Clerk: The Housing Development Corporation (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the House is aware that the new Government Guaranteed Mortgage Scheme is now a reality. To date, Government has executed a very sound agreement with Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Trust Company, and is in advanced stages of negotiations with British American Bank, Bank of Butterfield, First Cayman Bank, and is currently handling enquiries from other institutions. When all agreements are in place, the funding for mortgages for low to middle income Caymanian families will be $5.25 million per year.

I hasten to add that there has been much interest shown from potential borrowers since the signing of the agreement with Canadian Imperial Bank. We have a good working partnership with CIBC and they are busy processing applications. Government anticipates that it will approve a fair number of guarantees in the very near future.

In early 1994, Executive Council agreed to a general proposal for the sale of the Housing Development Corporation Mortgage Portfolio to Class A banks in Cayman through a tender process. This action is consistent with Government's policy of phasing out the Government's Housing Development Corporation as a direct lender with regards to mortgage financing. It is intended that the debenture holders would be repaid from the proceeds of the sale.

The conditions for the sale of the mortgage portfolio will be structured to also ensure that the borrower's terms remain at least equal to what now exists. In moving ahead with the implementation of this proposal, the Housing Development Corporation Board identified two legal obstacles to an otherwise straightforward transaction.

First, was the uncertainty of whether the Housing Development Corporation Law of 1981 gave the Housing Development Corporation the power to divest itself of its assets—in this case assets meaning its mortgage portfolio. Second, clause 5(2) of the debenture certificates is also restrictive in this regard: It provides that the Housing Development Corporation will not sell, or dispose of its assets or undertaking unless it obtains the consent of the debenture holder, except where the corporation is required to do so by the provision of the Housing Development Corporation Law.

Honourable Members will appreciate that the requirements for consent are not only cumbersome, as there are quite a number of debenture holders, it could also cause difficulty if consent was withheld. Government's legal department obviously advised that an amendment to section 17 of the Housing Development Corporation Law of 1981 was necessary to enable the corporation to divest itself of its existing mortgage portfolio.

Generally, the provisions of this amendment are as follows: Section 17A, Powers of the Corporation to make transfer schemes. Subsection (1): Power is conferred on the Housing Development Corporation to sell its mortgage portfolio. Subsection (2): The Housing Development Corporation can only exercise the new power to sell its mortgage portfolio if the Governor in Council directs it to do so. Subsection (3): Power is conferred on the Governor in Council to direct the Housing Development Corporation to sell its mortgage portfolio and to direct Housing Development Corporation how and when to do so. The Housing Development Corporation cannot sell its mortgage portfolio unless a direction is given by the Governor in Council authorising the Housing Development Corporation to do so. If the Governor in Council gives the direction, the Housing Development Corporation must prepare a scheme for the sale of its mortgage portfolio and the sale is made on the date specified in the scheme. This must be a date within the period set by the Governor in Council in the direction given to the Housing Development Corporation under subsection (3) of this section.

Section 17B, The Transfer of schemes. In subsection (1) of this section the scheme prepared by the Housing Development Corporation for the sale of its mortgage portfolio must define the mortgage portfolio to be sold, and the scheme prepared by the Housing Development Corporation may include all the details necessary for a successful sale of its mortgage portfolio, including the requirement for the Housing Development Corporation to make all of the necessary written agreements with the buyer. The Housing Development Corporation can take legal action against the buyer of its mortgage portfolio if the buyer fails to sign all of the agreements for the sale specified in the statutory scheme. The sale cannot be completed until the Governor in Council has approved the statutory scheme which provides all the details of the sale. The Housing Development Corporation must provide the Governor in Council with all the information needed to enable him to give approval.

Section 17C, Transfers and Registration of charges, applies the provision of section 17C to the sale of the Housing Development Corporation mortgage portfolio under the new amendment to the Law, the sale of the mortgage portfolio to the buyer the same rights over the mortgage portfolio as the Housing Development Corporation. The buyer is entitled to be registered by the Registrar of Lands as the new proprietor of the Housing Development Corporation mortgage portfolio and the buyer must give the Registrar of Lands all the information that will enable the buyer to be registered as the new proprietor of the mortgage portfolio and the buyer will own the mortgage portfolio with the same legal expense as the Housing Development Corporation did. Then the buyer will not have to pay any land registration fee to be registered as the new proprietor of the mortgage portfolio.

Section 17D, which deals with the restrictions on ceasing to carry on business, removes any doubt about the legal power of the Housing Development Corporation to sell its mortgage portfolio. This subsection provides the necessary interpretation of the important terms of subsection (1) of section 17D.

Section 17E, Preparatory work and the overriding nature of functions under this Part, confirms that the corporation has the power to prepare for the enactment of this Bill and this subsection confirms that the Housing Development Corporation will not breach any duty it owes to the people who have borrowed Housing Development Corporation money.

Section 17F, Stamp Duty. In subsection (1) of Section 17F, stamp duty will not be charged on the sale of the mortgage portfolio. In subsection (2) stamp duty will not be charged on any document in connection with the sale of the Housing Development Corporation mortgage portfolio.

Section 17G deals with the power to prepare a transfer of function, the Housing Development Corporation can make preparation for planned role of facilitating provisions by the private sector of mortgage finance for low and middle income households. In subsection (2) the scope of power of the Housing Development Corporation to make this preparation is confirmed.

Accordingly, we ask the House to agree to these amendments.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Housing Development Corporation (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a second reading. The Motion is open for debate.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wish to voice my concern with this Bill for a Law to Amend the Housing Development Corporation Law, 1981, Madam Speaker, for the following reasons:

As I understand it this Corporation, when it was established in 1981, was established with the objective in mind of providing housing to a category of people who would otherwise experience difficulties in obtaining mortgage loans from existing mortgage institutions.

I also understand that there was a great struggle and much opposition was met by the proponents of the Housing Development Corporation in 1981. Be that as it may, the Corporation battled along and 13 years later seemed to be on the way to doing something toward filling this void.

My concern lies in the fact that, notwithstanding that the Government has set in place a scheme which will provide money for a certain element of people seeking mortgages, it is my contention that that scheme as it exists does not cover that sector of people which would fall under the category, strictly speaking, of low income borrowers, which in my opinion, is a worthy and fairly significant segment of the populace. I would see the Housing Development Corporation as being equipped to service these people. What is my reason for so saying? Simply because in its 13 years of existence the Housing Development Corporation has met the needs of many of these people who wish to build houses in the vicinity of $50,000 to $80,000. And I understand that the record of these borrowers is exemplary. Information suggests that in their 13 year existence the number of foreclosures has been limited. Indeed, Madam Speaker, I am told that to this point there is only one, and that is still being negotiated with a view toward an amicable settlement.

This category of people which the Housing Development Corporation was set up to deal with, are people who would make sacrifices to ensure that their payments are up to date. They are people from whom we hear daily about the need to have access to funds for proper housing. I am going to speak from the purely personal aspect of the situation.

The strong points of the Housing Development Corporation, as I understand it, was the fact that it was a small organisation—so the clients were able to deal on a personalised basis with a Government Statutory Board. I have heard from many people who have dealt with this corporation, even those people who were not successful in the first instance. The mere fact that they were treated in a certain way, the mere fact that they could get easy access to the officers of the corporation, suggests to me that this corporation had merit in its existence. And the existence of this corporation is still necessary. As a consequence, I am not prepared to support this Bill. I am not satisfied that the void which is going to exist, as far as the provision of low—and I stress low—cost housing for what seems a growing number of Caymanians is going to be met by the system currently in place. No mention has been made as to how the need for low income housing in this country is going to be met even after the divestment of the Housing Development Corporation's business. I am not satisfied. I cannot be satisfied, based on concerns that have been expressed to me by my constituents and the wider community.

It would be interesting to know how many people have applied for mortgages under the system just put in place; who cannot get those mortgages because they do not meet the income level.

Therefore, Madam Speaker, I would see the Housing Development Corporation, by the mere fact of its smaller staff, by the mere fact of being able to give personalised services, as being attractive to these kinds of people and the overhead operations would be significantly lower. The fact that it had 13 years in existence is, in itself, a calling card and a reason for its continued existence. I would have to ask who is this being divested to at this time, and what is the urgency? If there is an urgency, why sell this?

Under the original Law, it would seem that the Housing Development Corporation was not allowed to transfer any of its mortgages easily. So why are we wanting to change this now? And there has to be a disadvantage to those people who are customers of the Housing Development Corporation now. There has to be a disadvantage. Their business is going to be in the hands of new people and there is going to be a disadvantage, even if it is the fact they have to make new acquaintances.

Let me just deal a little on the human aspect of it. Suppose that a present client of the Housing Development Corporation is customarily a week to ten days late in their payments—the staff of the Housing Development Corporation may be familiar with that now. They know that, and they know that the person may be a week late but the person can be depended upon to make those payments. Will the new people be as tolerant and as understanding? So there are all these kinds of things which seem small, mundane and insignificant. But they should no less be taken into consideration. And, while I can understand that there may be some element of protection, that does not completely preclude the fact that some of these people—having been accustomed for 13 years in dealing with certain personalities—are going to have to become acquainted with new people. So why is it being changed now to give Executive Council the power to divest?

Madam Speaker, I cannot see the urgency, I cannot see the advantage, and I say that the people were looking forward to the continued existence of the Housing Development Corporation. There may be something of a paradox in this because as I understand it, the former legislator—whom we named as a National Hero yesterday—was the author of the Housing Development Corporation. He was its greatest proponent, and now, today (after having done that yesterday) we are destroying one of the things which forms one of the criteria for making him a National Hero. That element of logic escapes me.

If in its existence the Housing Development Corporation was an albatross around the neck of the Government, then, perhaps, there could be some argument. If the Government had to continuously pour in money every year, I could understand. What was needed was a regular infusion of cash which, as far as I can garner, was difficult, but not impossible to get, because in the recent past the infusions were becoming more encouraging. Perhaps some attempt should have been made to interest some corporations into laying off some money which could have been lent at reasonable rates to the persons who fall in the lower income category and who could qualify for loans in the Housing Development Corporation.

The point should not be missed: with this divestment there is going to be a gap, and everyone of us in here knows that. The society which has a large percentage of homeowners is a stable society. If we close off this avenue, the Government is going to be under more pressure to provide housing for these people. The society itself is going to be under more pressure to accommodate them. We have to be careful that we do not suffer a great backlash.

So, Madam Speaker, I cannot see that this is necessary, nor is it in the best interest of the people who are perhaps most in need. I repeat, by eliminating the Housing Development Corporation we are taking the lower income people out of the market, and I have heard every legislator inside of here, at some stage, say that they would prefer to have some avenue that would allow those people to get proper access to housing.

I have some other things to say at the Committee stage of the Bill, but I am going to reiterate that I cannot stand here in all good faith with the interest of my people at heart. I have people in my constituency who have petitioned me because they cannot qualify for a mortgage under the system which exists now—people who are widowed, some who are single parents—and their income does not allow them to qualify.

What is going to happen to these people? They are going to become dispossessed and disenfranchised and discouraged. While they are not in a position to qualify under the present scheme, if the Housing Development Corporation were allowed to blossom, I am sure that it would not be entirely impossible that these people could at least have some hope. They are honest, hard-working people and I just do not think it is right. Who are the assets of the Housing Development Corporation being sold to? Why? I will ask a third time, a fourth, and a fifth time if necessary, because I do not think it is right. I say we are doing the wrong thing and I, in all good conscience, will not be supporting this.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Yesterday evening, the Mover of this Bill, the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture, in the forum where these Islands honoured its first National Hero, said that profound words are Honour, Duty, Country. As I listened, it struck me, honour begins with "H"; duty begins with "D"; and country begins with "C"... H D C—Housing Development Corporation. It caused me to reflect back in time to June 1981, in Cayman Brac at the Aston Ruttly Centre. I was the Principal Secretary to the late James M. Bodden when this Bill was brought before the House, as a Meeting of the House was actually called in Cayman Brac. If the severity of the heat was not enough, the heat that was evoked from this Bill was enough to sear the brows of most people in that building. After immense debate, and quarrelling to some extent, this Bill was passed. It was passed with the intention of helping the poor people of this country.

I remember also being required to go to Jamaica by the late James M. Bodden, to the Housing Development Corporation to get as much information as I could about how the programme was run there. I do know that that information and material was used in getting a picture of how this was to be.

Now, I fail to see how one would laud—and rightly so—the efforts (sometimes controversial efforts) of one of our people who had the courage to do something that needed to be done, against great odds, and the following day this is being undone by the said Member who made the remarks yesterday.

I disagree with the destruction of this Housing Development Corporation out of principle. We have heard the Government and, certainly, the Minister moving this particular Bill, and Government Members on the Backbench say that this guaranteed Housing Scheme is not a scheme that provides housing for low income people in this country. All and sundry have had to admit that. I certainly agree with that. I was one of about three Members that pointed that fact out in the House. Eventually the country as a whole sees, understands and accepts that. In fact, I am told by persons who have attempted to get loans, and by persons on the periphery of the system that has been set up under this, that there was a rush of persons hoping to get mortgages to build homes and they were quite stupefied when they understood that they could not qualify. Their natural response was, 'Why can't I?' because the Government is prepared to guarantee a certain percentage of the loan.

But, it is my understanding that there were many instances where these persons had to have explained to them that while it was well and fine that the Government would pay that percentage (be that whatever), that their earning power could not satisfy the lending institution that they were in a financial position to be able to pay that mortgage amount over the period of time—10, 15 20 years, as the case may be.

Why? It is quite simple. Unlike what the Minister who is dealing with this subject believes, the bank can raise its interest rates anytime. They are not raising it against any individual, they are raising it because that is what the economic stimulus is at the moment. Therefore, people who were paying before could find themselves in financial jeopardy by not being able to pay the higher mortgage.

That Minister said that he is sure the banks could never raise their interest rates where people who had mortgages could not pay them. So, on that premise I have an insight into the way this particular Minister thinks, or what he does not understand about that system.

So, what do we have in this country to fall back on? Only the Housing Development Corporation; thirteen years of functioning. It has provided homes to many Caymanians in this country who could never have afforded homes otherwise. With the ceiling of $50,000 lending capital and a fixed—and this is most important—a fixed interest rate of 9%. Now, I do not know if anyone in this House could possibly be prone to believe that any of the banks in this world of today—and certainly in Cayman, where they have absolute freedom to do basically what they want in terms of rate adjustment—would provide fixed interest rates on loans to the lower income people in this country who already have been excluded from borrowing because they cannot afford it.

Madam Speaker, in a reply to a question asked by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town about two days ago, the Minister moving this Bill said that the role of the Housing Development Corporation as a direct lender to middle and lower income Caymanians will be phased out. I pause at this point, and ask: If you are phasing that out, what are you phasing in? He does not know. When he was asked a supplementary on that he said that there is going to be the need to look at a different type of construction. I trust he does not think he is original on that, for I have said that a number of times here (that we need to change to where we have prefabricated, or pre-engineered, or pre-whatever, buildings), and we need to change the section in the Customs Law to allow flexibility of construction.

But, the question still remains: Even if there is a new type of physical structure, which is less costly—and, obviously, that is the proper way to go—where do the lower income earning people in the Cayman Islands get the money to buy those houses? That has been left unanswered. The only thing, apparently, that the Minister is interested in, is selling the portfolio to some person or some company.

I think there was much wisdom in this Law when it was first drafted, in that the Law hindered the Housing Development Corporation from selling off its liabilities, or its mortgages. It stopped it. Therefore, this Bill is now attempting to get around that by authorising the Governor to instruct the Housing Development Corporation to sell. When this is done, it means that what is now being done by an independent Board that is making decisions on behalf of the Housing Development Corporation, will now fall into the bailiwick of the Members of Executive Council—for Governor means Governor in Council. So, as this stands, the Members of Executive Council will decide that yes, the Housing Development Corporation must sell. And the Housing Development Corporation will then be obliged to go through the routine of setting up in detail its assets, its liabilities and all the rest of it to be sold.

Who will it be sold to? That question was asked by another Member. This Bill provides that it can be sold to a person, or it can be sold to a corporation. Now I wonder, how could anyone really look at this situation? How could any Government look at this situation and be satisfied that the loan portfolio of the Housing Development Corporation could be sold to some individual, and believe that the people that presently have mortgages could feel comfortable?

In its present state it is with their Government—be that good or bad. Everyone in Cayman understands Government. Everyone has some sense of security and well-being—it is Government. But now, suppose it is sold to some individual. I wonder who that person could be? Suddenly, the close to 100 people who have benefited from mortgages with the Housing Development Corporation might be meeting a completely hostile individual—an individual who saw it as a grand opportunity for grabbing a money-earning venture and demanding his money or the pound of flesh. It totally changes the situation. I cannot see how it enhances trust in Government.

I know a few people who had loans from this corporation. I know an older lady and her daughter. Back in about 1984 or 1985, together they were earning enough so that they could qualify, and they have a lovely little two bedroom house. I think that is one of the proudest possessions that they have. It is theirs. It is nice, it is accommodation that, I daresay, they could never have had otherwise. How can we suddenly go and change this? There is no cause. Why should the Government want to sell the lending part of the Housing Development Corporation? Take the money from that and pay off loans on debentures which were given for 20 years. Why on earth would one want to go and pay them off at this time, causing those persons who lent in good faith, believing that they would earn so much money and no doubt calculated that into their financial affairs? Why would the Government want to sell this section of the Housing Development Corporation to be able to pay these people off?

I see no sense, nor any logic in this whatsoever. There is no alternative. Is there an individual, or is there a bank, or a company that is going to get down to what is perhaps considered by the commercial banks an uninteresting level of financial dealing to provide homes for the low income Caymanians in this country? The details of that situation should be interesting to know, if such does exist.

What kind of honour is that, I ask. Is it not the duty of Government, of any Government, to look after the welfare of the country? Are the low income people of this country not part of the country? What is the logic? There is obviously none.

The people in any country—and certainly in this one—who are always, unfortunately, in the majority, are those persons who earn the least. It is not that they are not good people. They are some of the most honest, hard-working people. But, for one reason or another, they do not earn sufficient to enjoy the wider benefits and quality of life. We know that one of the main needs of mankind is housing, shelter. So, why would we want to take it away from them?

Madam Speaker, in 1992 this House approved that Government would inject $1 million into the Housing Development Corporation to assist it to build up its capital for lending. Beginning in 1992, $200,000 was put into it; in 1993 there should have been another $200,000; and in 1994 there should have been another $200,000 which was not done. In fact, in the early beginning of the present Government, I heard that the Housing Development Corporation was going to be put on hold and instructed to stop lending and apparently that was the case as is now being proven at this particular time.

Madam Speaker, I really wonder if the venom runs so deeply that this last effort by the former Member responsible for the Housing Development Corporation has galled persons so that they have to get rid of the Housing Development Corporation too, or its ability to lend, which is the main purpose for its existence? If this guaranteed scheme is so good, if it is so wonderful, then, surely, the process by which a person applies, and that application is examined and approved, should be smooth running. Is the Elected Member moving this Motion saying, or is the Government saying, that one must keep the same number of persons in place who, let us say, were running a bank or a lending institution, simply now to look at the applications that are going to a commercial bank on behalf of Government? Where is the logic? What kind of cost-saving is that, and how can it be a saving to government anyway, if Government understands and accepts (like it has been said in here, by various Government Members) that they have to look at alternatives for the low income, or the poor, or whatever they call the other citizens? Why, then, do we remove the only means for presently assisting these persons? Why is this Bill not a money bill that came here to ask for some money, like the $400,000 that should have been paid into it, to be placed into the Housing Development Corporation to be allowed to be loaned to persons who need it?

There are some of us who know that if you take a certain amount of money and loan it out, and let it roll over enough, it can work up to $17 million.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: That is what I did—I laughed when I heard about that $17 million jackpot that was going to give the people of this country $17 million. But I know that was only $4 million that was going to be turned to create that $17 million. Why not make it $5 million in the Housing Development Corporation, and let them help 1,000 low income people?

Madam Speaker, this amendment to the Housing Development Corporation does nothing to help this country. It does nothing to help the people who need help—the low income earners in this country who are in a majority who need to be helped, who deserve to be helped, who are asking to be helped—it does nothing to help those persons. I would never support this Bill that is before this House. Of course, I may add that it does not need my vote to pass, and I am sure that its passage has already been ordered. But it sure will not pass with any assistance from me.

Madam Speaker, I have not come across such a retrograde step since Christmas Eve, 6 o'clock, December 1992. This Bill has no honour; it does not help this country; and I believe it is the duty of any Government to help its people to do that which is right and that which is logical. This Bill certainly does not do that and, therefore, I will be no part of this destructive action.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to offer my support for a Bill for a Law to Amend the Housing Development Corporation Law, 1981.

I also recall the time when the Housing Development Corporation was formed and the difficulties that surrounded that act. But, the Housing Development Corporation met difficulties in the very outset. It was, in my opinion, very unrealistic to expect the banks, who compete with the Housing Development Corporation, to loan the corporation funds through the purchase of its debentures at an interest rate that to them was not attractive, when the banks were in a position to earn much more on their funds through investing them in other sources, for example, extending mortgages of their own.

It is good to say that one is in a position to guarantee a certain fixed interest rate, but the Housing Development Corporation, like any other Government Statutory entity, is at least in the business to break even, or make a little money. It would have been impossible for the corporation to extend funds to persons in the form of mortgages at an interest rate that was less than what they were paying for those funds from financial institutions in this country. So, there has been a lot of effort with regards to attracting funding for the corporation without a great deal of success. As a result, even though the demand for low income housing or funding has remained very strong, the corporation was never in a position where it could accommodate the number of applicants who were requesting consideration for funding.

I believe that the present Member, that is the Minister for Community Development, and the present Government have to be congratulated for coming up with such a creative scheme to address the problem of mortgages, especially to limited-income Caymanians. This was the concern, and why the Housing Development Corporation was formed in the first place by the late James M. Bodden. But the present scheme does not have the same limitations, in that Government has agreed, to the satisfaction of the banks, to guarantee a portion of those funds requested by our Caymanian people for mortgage purposes. That has been one of the main difficulties experienced by our people when approaching financial institutions for mortgage funding.

When one walks into a bank, and even if one only needed to borrow $30,000, most banks probably have a requirement that one would have to find 20% to 30% of what one requested. So, let us say 20% of the requested $30,000—according to my calculations, that means that the borrower has to come up with $6,000 Cayman Islands Dollars. That immediately disqualified a lot of honest hard-working Caymanians, who had limited funds, from qualifying for a mortgage.

The other point that I must make clear is that even under the Housing Development Corporation, if one applied for a mortgage, one still had to satisfy the management there that one had the income to service the loan and that one was a good risk. It was not automatic. In other words, it was not guaranteed just because people applied for it. People had to qualify. The same approach has been taken by the banks and will be taken by the banks under the present Government Housing scheme. If you qualify and the banks are satisfied that you are a good risk, then the guarantee from the Government will kick in. The Government will instruct CIBC, Bank of Butterfield or British American Bank, to extend a mortgage loan if they are satisfied, and then Government will extend the guarantee for their required down payment.

I believe that the present Government has to be congratulated for coming up with such a creative programme, one that also has the support of the financial institutions operating in this country.

There were points raised by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, which are genuine concerns with regard to whether or not the banks which are in this programme will look at each application with the same degree of sympathy that the Housing Development Corporation did—because it was geared to consider that type of application. I believe that this has to be monitored by Government to make sure that any Caymanian who is genuinely interested in obtaining mortgage financing, providing that he can satisfy the banks with regard to his income in relationship to the amount that he wants to borrow, will get a fair chance of approval for that mortgage.

But, the other point which has to be emphasised is that it is no good for someone who earns $1,000 per month, maybe his spouse earns $500, for a total income of $1,500, to walk into any financial institution and say he wants to borrow $120,000 to build a home. It is just not practical. Caymanians who are interested in obtaining a mortgage have to recognise that their requests have to be in line with their total combined income. Once that approach is taken, then I believe the banks in this country will look at those applications very carefully.

I do not want to confuse low income housing with indigent housing. They are totally different. This scheme that the Government has put in place does not cover those people. Government will still have the responsibility for assisting persons with regard to indigent housing, and Government has been doing that all along, and continues to do that today. If you check right now with Social Services, they have a list of requests of this nature, probably as long as your arm. So this particular programme that Government has in place will not address that need.

The idea of selling a mortgage portfolio may be somewhat of a novelty here in the Cayman Islands, but it is not an abnormal business practice. Financial institutions buy and sell mortgages all the time. The great deal of professionalism existing now within the banks licensed to operate in this country, should ease those fears raised about people with mortgages at the Housing Development Corporation having to suddenly make their payments to the Bank of Butterfield, or any other bank who has bought the portfolio. I do not see that as being a real problem.

The banks here (with all due respect) do a fairly good job as far as accommodating people. I have talked to many of them and we have had some difficult years with regard to our economy here in the past, and the banks recognised that when those times come, they have to accommodate and work along with their customers with regards to delinquent payments on their accounts and that type of thing. This is not a new thing as far as they are concerned, they deal with that on a daily basis.

I do not see a paradox between what we did yesterday as a country (that is, honouring Mr. James M. Bodden as our first National Hero), and requesting today, through the Legislative Assembly, an amendment with regard to the Housing Development Corporation which he was responsible for establishing. I believe, and it was mentioned so many times yesterday, that Mr. Bodden's ultimate interest was not personal glory or edification, but the interest and concern for the welfare of his people. The present Government, with the proposed amendment to this Housing Development Corporation, will only advance his efforts in doing just that—making it a reality for more Caymanians to own their own homes.

So, Madam Speaker, I fully support this amendment, I believe it is in the best interest of our people and I think that Government must be commended for its efforts.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

There are 15 Elected Members in this Honourable House, and three Official Members. Including the three Official Members, every single one who supports this Bill today is going to live to regret it.

Before I go on, let me say that, contrary to what the Honourable Minister who has moved this Bill might think (and maybe others), my intention with any criticism levied on the Bill is to be constructive. In my little time here I have learned that there are a few who believe that to criticise means you must not exist. I will have to employ that risk again this afternoon.

This Bill for a Law to Amend the Housing Development Corporation Law, 1981, states in its Memorandum of Objects and Reasons that "this Bill `amends'...", choice wording here, it does not say it seeks to amend, it says: "This Bill amends the Housing Development Corporation Law, 1981. The amendment will enable the Housing Development Corporation to sell its mortgage portfolio and pay back the money it borrowed from its debenture holders. This is in preparation for the Corporation's future role of facilitating the provision of mortgage finance by the private sec- tor for low and middle income households, under the Government's recently announced scheme.

"Existing home owners who have mortgages with the Housing Development Corporation will not see any difference in the terms and conditions of their mortgages. Their monthly payments will not be affected."

First of all, before making comparisons, let me remind all of us here that to make any point about debentures and any problems that might ensue, as far as I am concerned, does not hold much water as to the reason why this mortgage portfolio has to be sold. These debentures were sold on two different occasions under two different guises, but both of them were sold as 20—year debentures. Everyone who has participated in this venture knows full well that the debentures are not to be called upon until the 20 years have elapsed.

To the best of my knowledge, the interest on these debentures can either be accrued or passed on at specific intervals. So the debentures are not a problem to date. Homeowners who have mortgages... Madam Speaker, I will not suggest (because I do not wish to be facetious) that certain problems will exist if and when this mortgage portfolio is sold, but I will ask certain questions which I think need to be clarified in order to ensure that any fears of that nature are unfounded.

The fact is (and it has been discussed before now, and let me make it very clear so that one of the speakers before me is not pounced upon by misinformation) the Housing Development Corporation lends money at a rate of interest ranging from 9% to 11%, but whatever rate of interest is decided upon between that range is fixed. The variation in the interest rate equates to the earning power of the borrower. That is the way the Housing Development Corporation functions. I trust, if this mortgage portfolio has to be sold, that a part of the agreement will be that whatever that fixed interest rate is for the individual, it will remain the same and not be put into the big melting pot of the 3% above prime. That, in itself, must be answered.

For the record, I think it is worth our taking a step back and really understanding what the Housing Development Corporation is, what it does, and what it has done. I will also venture to say what I believe it could do if it is allowed to live.

From their brochure, the definition of the Housing Development Corporation is simple: "The Housing Development Corporation is a Statutory Organisation set up in 1981 by the Government of the Cayman Islands to provide mortgage loans to assist borrowers in the low to middle income group in owning their own homes." Who is eligible? "Born Caymanians and those granted status are eligible to apply for Housing Development Corporation loans..." and it goes on.

Madam Speaker, as I say a few things, note how similar certain new proposals that have come forth are, and it makes us wonder why something that made so much sense is being thrown away to be put in the hands of someone else, and operate under the same guise.

What are the maximum loan amount limits? "For building a house, the maximum loan amount obtainable on land already owned is $50,000." Purchasing a home? "The maximum loan amount available for the purchase of house and land is $60,000." This simply means that $10,000 goes towards assisting with the purchase of land.

Repayment terms: "Loans are repayable over a maximum term of 20 years." Here is where I believe the Housing Development Corporation has proven that their policy is right. What is the borrower's minimum contribution towards the cost of a home? "Borrowers are expected to contribute a minimum of 10% towards the total cost of a home", that is, house and land. This means that the Housing Development Corporation will finance up to 90% of the home up to a maximum of $60,000.

Here is where I have to interject. I do not know... yes, it was eluded to before, but I do not think it was specified. The Housing Development Corporation has entered into contract up until June 1993 with 121 individuals for mortgage financing. To date the percentage rate of foreclosure is zero. If we want to put it so that everyone can understand, it is ought. That means no foreclosures. It is no wonder that as small as the mortgage portfolio owned by the Housing Development Corporation is, as compared to the private institutions, that it is the envy of the other institutions. It is also no wonder that so many of them are willing to gobble it up. It would naturally assist the statistics, but, to me that is no reason why it has to go.

Let me go on about the Housing Development Corporation in my efforts (as puny as they may seem by certain individuals) to prove why it is healthy and alive, and should stay alive. This is just a small excerpt from the statement by the now Chairman of the Board from the last report. It reads: "Over the years, the Corporation has been faced with the challenge of providing low to middle income mortgage financing while at the same time ensuring that the funds received from debenture holders were invested in good quality mortgages. This challenge has been successfully met and the corporation continues to boast a loan portfolio of outstanding quality."

Under the subheading of "Operations" in the last Annual Report, it reads: "During the year under review the Corporation received the second of five annual instalments of CI$200,000 approved by the Cayman Islands Government to increase its direct investment in the Corporation by $1 million over a five year period. [This last sentence is what needs to make sense] This equity injection programme is intended to strengthen the Corporation's capital base and reduce its overall cost of funds."

Madam Speaker, worthy of note right here is that based on this principle that had been applied by Government, there may be a little conflict in the thought as to how many instalments were received. But, as I read from the Report it mentions the second instalment, and I think it is safe to say that they have not received any since then.

"It has been announced by Government, that the Corporation [meaning the Housing Development Corporation] will pursue certain new initiatives with local private sector financial institutions and a property aimed at providing 100% mortgages to low to middle income Caymanians."

"It has been announced by Government that the Corporation will pursue other initiatives jointly with the Social Services Department aimed at widening the access to the Corporation's loan funds for low income Caymanians. Details of all these initiatives are yet to be worked out."

I do not know who reads between the lines in this statement, but I know (and I know that everyone else here who is interested in listening knows) that this simple statement made in this Report has had several changes since the statement has been made as to exactly what has happened. I am very curious to know what the Corporation will be doing to pursue other initiatives aimed at widening access to the Corporation's loan funds for low income Caymanians if we are selling the mortgage portfolio.

In the very last two little excerpts that I wish to read from the Report, under the section of "Accounts", the very last line of the first paragraph reads: "This decrease in investment income was more than offset by the increase in interest income from loans which rose by 11.71%."

This statement means that the decrease in investment income—meaning the decrease in income derived from investments made by the Corporation elsewhere, in other words, if the Corporation had $100,000 and they put it on deposit with another bank because interest rates had decreased so much there was a decrease in the returns of that investment. But the statement says that this was more than offset by the decrease in interest income from loans, "Loans receivable increased by 12.63% to [nearly $3 million], although new funds advanced to borrowers were $111,876 less than in fiscal year 1992."

The point with those last two statements is this: The Housing Development Corporation, to survive, cannot depend on having money to deposit elsewhere. What it needs is to be able to continue the prudent lending procedures that it has exercised over the years in a greater magnitude, to bring it to self-sufficiency. Anyone who says today that the Housing Development Corporation is not a viable operation, is bordering on truthfulness—because a statement of that nature is either made out of ignorance or by not wanting to subscribe to the fact that if an institution of that nature is able to reach a certain level of lending that the returns will make it self-sufficient and able to make its way.

I will go into a bit more detail...

The Speaker: Would you take a suspension at this time?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.48 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.08 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town, continuing the debate.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you.

Madam Speaker, when we took the break, I was just about getting ready to give my views on the Housing Development Corporation, its value, and how I envisage it could exist and be alive and vibrant, serving a very needed purpose for our society as a whole.

As I mentioned before, the Housing Development Corporation, to date, has in excess of 120 mortgages, or has had in excess of 120 mortgages. I am not quite sure how many have made their last payments, but at any rate, the Housing Development Corporation at present enjoys a very successful lending rate.

The main problem experienced by the Housing Development Corporation is undercapitalisation. There was a move, on more than one occasion, to get private enterprises and individuals to participate in debentures. The first one guaranteeing an interest rate of 5%, the second guaranteeing an interest rate of 7.5%. As their annual report indicates, there are several private companies, many of them from the banking centre, and there are also some individuals who have participated in these debentures. But it has just not been enough to put the Housing Development Corporation to where it will have a large enough capital base to continue lending, recycling their funds to where the monthly payment coming in from mortgages is sufficient for them to continue lending, and the full cycle is able to take place without depleting one end of it. That is where the problem lies.

At present, how the Housing Development Corporation operates is, basically, the Government pays salaries, pensions, I think there are contracted officers' supplements (because there are two contracted officers there), and whatever else is involved at that level. The Housing Development Corporation is able to take care of all other expenses, including their sinking funds, to ensure their ability to pay back these debentures when the time is right. The only reason why they are not able to be self-sufficient is because they have not been in a position to increase their lending level to the point where their income gets to that level.

I say here, today, that if Government (and by Government, I mean all of us) in its consideration were able to participate in these debentures over a period of time to where the mortgage portfolio (which stands just bordering on $3 million now) were up to between $5 million or $6 million (and those who know about this will know that this is not a pie in-the-sky) at that point in time the Housing Development Corporation would be able to operate at a point of self-sufficiency. In so doing, they would certainly, because of more lending and unlending, be fulfilling the need that they have fulfilled for 13 years to a much larger extent within the community.

Madam Speaker, the way that this Bill strikes me is that either one of two things is going to happen. First of all, it has been made clear that a fairly vital part of the Housing Development Corporation AIDB operation, which was the student loan programme, is planned to be channelled elsewhere as a separate entity, which leaves mostly the lending programme in order for them to have anything to do. As far as I can glean, the AIDB is not an entity that is super active, and it is sufficiently viable to say that the six people who are employed in that office will have enough to do.

How I understand this Bill is that either these six people (or some of these six people) will be disposed of, or these six people will be kept on costing the Government, I feel for certain, in excess of $200,000 to keep the office going simply to sit down and examine the applications for the mortgages that are coming for the new Housing Scheme. Look at them and decide which ones are good and which ones are bad.

It seems to me that the Government's position is, since the new scheme has become a reality, that there is no need for the Housing Development Corporation. That is what their position appears to be to me. I beg to differ with that position because while it has been said that the new scheme has no minimum borrowing level, it only has a maximum of $125,000. It is my contention that the Housing Development Corporation has been, still is, and could continue to be, the personalised service that a certain segment of this society requires.

There are people who have gone to the Housing Development Corporation who have literally been walked through the motions to get their house. They have gone to them knowing that they wanted a house, and nothing more. Sometimes it has taken in excess of a year (and I am not making this up), sometimes closer to two years, but they have gotten a house and today they are in that house and they are grateful for the chance to get a house. It is not for me to suggest that the way the new system is going to work, that this is impossible. But what I can easily suggest is that it is very unlikely.

Again, this is a supposition on my part, but I will be able to say Yea or Nay down the line. I believe that the majority of borrowing for the new Housing Scheme will be in excess of $60,000. That is my firm belief. The reason I contend this is because the people who are in the income bracket that will qualify for mortgages above $60,000, up to the $125,000, are those who are able to wade through the system with more knowledge and everything else, and—if I daresay, without meaning to be insulting to anyone—who are able to stand on their own a little better. They will go in, ask questions, find out the requirements and be able to do things on their own. The segment of our society which is below that level, I contend, are the ones who will not get the assistance that they really need. It would not be a question of whose fault it is, I am simply speaking about what I perceive to be reality. This is the gap that the Housing Development Corporation has filled.

The Housing Development Corporation, as far as I am concerned, need not be looked at as competing with the new scheme. The truth is, the commercial banks that will be involved in this new scheme are set up in such a way to handle the other people much better than those who the Housing Development Corporation handles. I am not suggesting any prejudice, I am simply saying this is how it is. The people who can only handle $30,000 or $40,000 mean less to them because the larger the mortgage, the more money they make. It is as simple as that. It is not a question of being callous, it is simply the way it is. I believe today, that if the purpose of this exercise is to ensure that this new scheme is not parallel and competed with by an operation done by Government, then I believe the philosophy is not right.

If Government is convinced that the new scheme (which, after many changes in concept, has ended up to be what it is today) is the one that will help the majority of the people in the country—and that is debatable—but if that is their position, then go right ahead with your scheme. But do not tell me that Housing Development Corporation is not serving a vital role in this community. And, do not tell me that Housing Development Corporation cannot serve that role and serve it better and be self-sufficient at some point in time.

Madam Speaker, what this country has never effectively addressed, never—and I cannot blame the Government of today, the elections were in November of 1992 and I have just said what this country has never addressed, I am not blaming anyone... I am simply saying this country has never effectively addressed people at a certain level whose income is not such to let them move fast in life and get what they want to get at a fairly rapid pace. We have always done it in little dribbles. And for those who subscribe that the people that I am talking about are Social Service Cases, then if they want a social state, let them go right ahead, I certainly do not want one.

If we are prepared to accept that it will be a little more difficult, a little more tedious, but try to ensure that we catch everybody straight across the board, we will be a lot better off. If there are plans afoot, as I have heard the Minister who is responsible for Housing state, trying to deal with certain types of housing which will call for something like a $300 a month mortgage payment, I am not talking about those people either. I am talking about the hundreds of people who continue to multiply, who are proud, hard working, but whose income does not allow them to save at a rate where they can get ahead in life under normal circumstances if they are left alone. Those are the people that I am talking about.

I, personally, have not been satisfied that any movement to do with housing by this Government, or any previous Government, has included these people properly. As far as I am concerned, we have walked to the end of the race where the tape is set up, walked there outside of the track, cut the tape and we have not run the race. That is what we have done with the new Housing Scheme that has been put in place as far as I am concerned. It is easy to say the tape is broken, but it is not easy to say that the race has been run.

I am happy for the people who will easily benefit from the new scheme, unlike what will be said when I am finished talking. But because they are the easiest situation to satisfy, does not mean (in fact a rule of thumb at a National level should dictate the opposite) that those are the ones that you deal with first. The easiest situations are usually the least volatile ones.

After the hissing of teeth, and all of that, if some of us would listen sometimes, we might do things a bit more correctly. Madam Speaker, even if I repeat myself, like so many others in here continue to do from time to time, it is because I consider that it is important that this area of the community not be left aside.

A very similar situation occurred with a motion here not too long ago, regarding retired seamen. We were told... I am not straying from the point, Madam Speaker, I am making a comparison, and I will prove my point... we were told that the people that we were requesting this special category for were already taken care of. The contention was that nobody was saying that another category could not take care of them, we were saying that they deserved a special category so that they could be more readily taken care of. That is what I am saying today. I am saying that the broad range of mortgages which the new scheme will envelope is not going to be one which properly looks after the category that the Housing Development Corporation takes care of today.

Under the new scheme, the plan is for Government to put aside $230,000 per annum commencing in 1995 as contingency in case of foreclosures on guarantees. The Housing Development Corporation has never had to foreclose yet. The Housing Development Corporation could take that money and in five years Government would have, by way of interest, earned close to $1.6 million in debentures. The Housing Development Corporation would be helping our people. It would be alive and well and the many who I am sure are going to fall by the wayside under the new scheme will have had a chance to be helped, even if it is on a timely basis.

You see, Madam Speaker, there are many of these people who because of being unable to put aside a reasonable amount of money do not even entertain the thought about getting a mortgage because they do not have a reasonable amount of money to go to the bank with. They form the opinion that they are in a hopeless position and have to remain where they are. I grant that this new scheme says that they do not have to, but also accompanying that has to be a certain level of income. The people with that certain amount of income are not the people that I am talking about. The people that I am talking about, if they had that level of income, they would have saved, but they do not.

Standing Order 10(2)

The Speaker: Honourable Member, it is now 4.30, will you finish shortly?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: You would welcome the adjournment?

Honourable Minister for Tourism, would you move the Motion for the adjournment of the House, please?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Yes, Madam Speaker, and before I move the adjournment could I say that we are very grateful to Mary for the lunch today, and we hope that she will change the diet on Wednesday.

The Speaker: Oh, she will appreciate that.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I therefore move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock, Wednesday morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10.00, Wednesday morning.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.36 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM WEDNESDAY, 21 SEPTEMBER 1994.

WEDNESDAY
21 SEPTEMBER 1994
10.12 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Second Official Member to say Prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

Presentation of Papers and Reports.

PRESENTATION OF
PAPERS AND REPORTS
REPORT OF THE AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT BOARD FOR THE YEAR ENDING 31ST DECEMBER, 1993

The Speaker: The Report of the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board for the Year Ending 31st December, 1993.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House the Annual Report for the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board for the year ending 31st December, 1993.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I am pleased to be presenting the first Annual Report and Financial Statement of the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board, since assuming Ministerial responsibility for that institution and being appointed Chairman of the Board on the 1st February 1994.

I would like to begin by thanking the outgoing Chairman, the Honourable John McLean, and the members who have served the Board over the past several years, for their contributions in developing the policies of the Board and in overseeing its operation. I would also like to welcome new members to the Board.

The AIDB's financial performance for the year ended 31st December, 1993, was quite good. Its total assets increased by 5.8% over the 1992 figure of $2.3 million. The Board's surplus from operations also increased by 15.8%, to $89,207, although its net surplus for the year declined by 19% to $113,722. This decline was due to two extraordinary factors. First, the Board earned income of $15,000 in 1992 from the disposal of an item of fixed asset. Secondly, the gain of $48,592, that was realised in the translation of CDB loan balances declined to $24,515 in 1993. At year end 1993, the Board's accumulated surplus stood at $660,532, an increase of 20.8% over the comparative figure for 1992.

Let me now proceed to highlight the Board's accomplishments during the year ended 31st December, last year.

The year 1993 was a year of unprecedented growth and achievement for the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board. Total loans approved exceeded $1 million for the first time since the establishment of the Board. The enormity of this achievement should be viewed against the fact that the Board's total assets, as at 31st December, 1993, amounted to $2,430,000. This significant achievement was largely due to the overwhelming demand for student loans. During 1993, the AIDB not only maintained, but enhanced its position as the prime provider of credit for human resource development in the country. Overall, 57 loans were approved in 1993, compared to 32 (amounting to $680,404) in 1992. This represents an increase of 78% in the number of loans approved, and an increase of 88% in the dollar value of the loan.

The Board's pre-eminent position as a provider of credit for human resource development is one which is a source of great pride to me as Minister, to the Government as a whole and, indeed, to all Caymanians who are interested in seeing our young people acquire the training and skills necessary to assume leadership positions in their country. For the year, an unprecedented 54 student loans, amounting to $936,940 were approved. Compared to 1992, there has been an increase of 108% in the number of loans, and 100% in the value of loans approved. It is my firm belief that this vast growth in lending can be attributed to a more cooperative philosophy by Government, as well as this Government's commitment to the long range development of Cayman's manpower resources. This is in spite of all those people who write letters in the press saying that the Government is doing nothing for the young people.

The high level of lending activity during the year created a situation where, by the 31st December, the Board's lending resources were depleted. In order to allow the Board to maintain its level of lending during 1994, Government agreed to advance a sum of $1 million to the Board in four equal installments of $250,000 over the next four years.

Traditionally, the Board has relied on the Caribbean Development Bank to provide funding for its student loan programme. However, due to the high cost of the funds from the Caribbean Development Bank, and the restrictive conditions that are attached to these funds, the Board has been forced to seek advances from Government to supplement its own resources in order to meet the demands for student loans.

Government is now exploring new ways of helping to meet the demand for student loans in the Cayman Islands. A committee has been established by my Ministry to review the guidelines for the student loan scheme with a view toward working with the commercial banks to meet the demands for student loans. I should say that the committee has completed its work thus far, and a report has been made to me which will soon be made public.

This collaboration between the Government and the private sector could result in an initiative by which significant levels of new funding could be made available for human resource development within a frame work of prudent and reasonable guidelines.

I wish to acknowledge publicly the assistance of my colleague, the Honourable Financial Secretary, which was given to us at the time of the Caribbean Development Bank's new policy which restricted us.

During 1993 the Government of the Cayman Islands announced its intention to amalgamate the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board and the Housing Development Corporation. These two institutions, which now fall under my Ministry, have been jointly administered under the same management and with the same staff since 1986. The new entity, which we expect to come on stream in 1995, will combine the functions of both institutions. It will also be responsible for discharging new functions which are currently under discussion.

Quite apart from its pre-eminent position as a provider of credit for human resource development, the AIDB is also a leading provider of credit for agricultural development. The agricultural sector continues to be the major sector in which the Board's resources for Agricultural and Industrial Credit are employed.

As Chairman, I expect the AIDB to maintain its position in agricultural lending and to enhance its role as a provider of credit to the industrial and tourism sectors. I also expect the Board to extend various support services to accompany its lending activities in those sectors for which it provides funding.

In closing I would like to thank the management and staff for the hard work and dedication that they have put into bringing about the accomplishments I have just mentioned. It is my desire, as Chairman of the Board, to give them the necessary support and motivation to build on these accomplishments.

Again, Madam Speaker, I would like to thank all previous and existing members of the Board, and the previous Chairman, for their tremendous input.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Questions to Honourable Members and Ministers.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

The Speaker: Deferred question No. 133, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 133

No. 133: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to state if there are any policies in place regarding the District Commissioner and the Deputy Commissioner being away from their offices and/or the Sister Islands at the same time.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: The policy regarding the District Commissioner and the Deputy District Commissioner being away from their offices and/or the Sister Islands at the same time, is that both Officers should not be away from the Cayman Islands simultaneously. It is permissible for both the District Commissioner and the Deputy District Commissioner to be in Grand Cayman at the same time. If both Officers have to be away from Cayman Brac at the same, the Deputy Collector of Customs (the next Senior Officer in line) is available to deal with routine matters.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Member state, in the event of an emergency on the Sister Islands, if this officer is qualified to act as a District Commissioner?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Yes, Madam Speaker. Any public officer whom the Governor deems appropriate can be appointed in an emergency to occupy any public office.

The Speaker: The next deferred question is No. 140, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 140

No. 140: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs: (a) What was the number of established posts in the Civil Service before the recently completed down-sizing exercise; (b) what was the number of established posts at the completion of the exercise; and (c) what is the present number of established posts in the Civil Service.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, the number of established posts in the Civil Service before the down-sizing exercise was 1,750 posts; (b) The number of established posts at the completion of the exercise was 1,655; and (c) The present number of established posts in the Civil Service is 2,102.

A Departmental breakdown of this data is attached. (See Appendix)

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Honourable Member would be in a position to state what has been the reasoning behind the down-sizing exercise being completed, and some 350 established posts being put in place after the down-sizing was completed?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, I think if the Honourable Member took a moment to refer to the departmental breakdown attached to the answer, I could point out that two primary features appear. Firstly, the 285 positions that were formerly vested in the Health Services Authority have now reverted to the central Government establishment, so that accounts for 285. Additionally, with the creation of a fifth Elected Ministry earlier this year, a number of new positions had to be created in order to staff this Ministry. Item 36 accounts for an additional 25 new positions. The remaining adjustments are fairly self explanatory - increases in Police, in Education establishment, etcetera, would account for the difference.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Member say if during the down-sizing exercise, the individuals who were terminated were considered, and were any of them rehired within the new posts created?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, it is difficult for me to answer that supplementary question. I really do not have access to that information, I am sorry.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 154, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 154

No. 154: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation whether any records are kept for control of food purchased for the kitchen at the George Town Hospital.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: As required by the Financial and Stores Regulations, records and inventory control are kept of food purchased by the kitchen at the George Town Hospital.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: In the purchasing of the supplies, is there just one person responsible, or how does this operate?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, there are about three people involved in this, including the accountant, the dietary and the storekeeper.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Are these three people the only ones with keys to the storage, or how many additional people have access to this store room?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, the keys are kept under lock and there is only one person who is supposed to have access to the store room.

QUESTION NO. 155

No. 155: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to state why, after the Health Services Authority was dissolved, was the senior management structure allowed to continue after being reverted to the Health Services Department.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The Senior Management structure of the Health Services Department existed before the established of the Health Services Authority (HSA). Upon the dissolution of the Health Services Authority, Government took the decision to retain a Senior Management structure.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Minister state if this appears to be successful?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, I will say to the House that this is one of the avenues that we are now addressing in our review to see if it is successful, and what impact it will have overall.

QUESTION NO. 156

No. 156: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs will any police officer be charged for the damage to the police vehicles involved in the accident recently reported in the media which resulted from a chase.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: In keeping with laid down Police policy, all accidents involving police officers are investigated by an officer above the rank of the Officer involved. The case file is then submitted to the legal Department in order for a formal ruling, which is followed. The case in question, which occurred on 24th August, 1994, is due to be submitted to the investigator in the coming week and will be treated in like fashion.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac & Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is there a policy in place by which police officers can be guided in terms of when they should take up a chase; and are there any guidelines in place at all, especially in high residential areas, regarding a police chase and would-be escapees, or speeders, or whatever?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Yes, Madam Speaker, officers assigned to work in the traffic branch, in particular, are given training and guidelines as to how to pursue those kinds of inquiries.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

If this is the case, will an officer, after it has been decided that he is responsible, pay for the damage, or is a claim made to the insurance company?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Once a determination has been made as to responsibility and liability, decisions are made as to the extent to which personal recovery is made from the officer and, in any event, in all such accidents claims are made against the insurance company and proceeds from the settlements of any such claims are deposited to the Government's treasury.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the answer to the question given by the Member, is it the case then, that if an officer is found at fault that he may be penalised by being required to repay part or all of the cost of the vehicle?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Yes, Madam Speaker, that is a provision in Financial and Stores Regulations where all public officers can be surcharged in such circumstances.

QUESTION NO. 157

No. 157: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs if the vacant post of Chief Engineer of Public Works Department will be advertised.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: The post of Chief Engineer will be advertised when it is vacated by the substantive post-holder who is presently acting in the post of Deputy Chief Secretary.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
Could the Member say if it will be advertised internally, or both internally and externally?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, that decision will be taken based upon the advice of the Ministry responsible in consultation with the Chairman of the Public Service Commission.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 158, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 158

No. 158: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs if Drug testing is being done on employees of Government and Government Authorities and, if so, how is it managed.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Appointments on pensionable or contract terms are subject to a certificate of medical fitness. This includes drug testing.

Contracted officers also undergo a medical examination before re-engagement and all officers, including those serving on hourly rates, may be required by their Head of Department or by a Constable, on the request of his Head of Department, without prior notice, to present himself at the Hospital for medical examination for such tests as the medical officer may think fit, including tests for excessive blood alcohol or illicit use of drugs.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Member say if there is a procedure or policy in place regarding actions to be taken should an officer refuse such a test in the service?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Yes, Madam Speaker. The requirement to comply with this is laid down in Civil Service Regulations and a refusal to comply is considered a breach and is, therefore, grounds for commencement of disciplinary proceedings leading to possible dismissal.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Member state the number of random tests that were carried out on employees and Government Authorities during the past year? If he does not have this available, perhaps he could share it at a later date.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, I do not have that statistic available, but I can say to the House that random tests are done throughout the year and the statistics would, therefore, change from week to week.

There are certain departments which deploy specific methods for random testing, and some of those methods include spreading them over the 12 months or the 52 weeks of the year. Therefore the element of surprise is what is important, and at the end of each year each department is asked to give an account of how its programme for that year has been implemented.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for today. The next item was to have been a statement by the Honourable First Official Member. I understand that this will be ready and on the Order Paper for tomorrow.

Continuing with item 5, Obituary.

OBITUARY

Capt. Theophilus Reavie Bodden, OBE, JP

The Speaker: Members are all aware that Capt. Theophilus Reavie Bodden, OBE, JP, passed away at 5 pm on Monday, 19 September, 1994. It is therefore fitting that some comments should be made about his life.

He was born in Little Cayman in 1909, and went to sea in his mid teens. At the age of 19 he received his Chief Mate's licence and obtained his Master's ticket when he was 24. He worked in Jamaica and, during the Second World War, he married Valda Merren. He returned to Grand Cayman and worked with H. O. Merren and Company, but resigned from the sea in the mid 1950s and started Home Supplies and Bodden Funeral Services, followed by a floral department in the same business.

In 1968, he got involved with the car business with a Ford franchise (Vampt Motors), and in 1972 with Toyota (Cayman Economy Cars).

Captain Bodden also played a vital part in the development of cruise ship tourism in the Cayman Islands through Bodden Shipping Agency, Ltd. Up until 1986, he himself piloted cruise ships.

He was well known for his community work, was a charter member of the Rotary Club, and president in 1971-72. He was also a charter member of the Chamber of Commerce reconstituted in 1967, its first vice president, and was then president for four years. He was re-elected president in 1974.

In 1956, when on the arrival in Grand Cayman of Major Allan Hilyard Donald, OBE, as Commissioner of these Islands, he instituted an Advisory Executive Council which met regularly to deal with matters.

I first became acquainted with the late Capt. Theo Bodden when he was Appointed a nominated Member of the Legislative Assembly in 1956, and was also a member of the old Advisory Executive Council. Under the new membership system which was instituted to train the public and civil service, and the members themselves, to the machinery of the Ministerial System in 1961, Capt. Bodden, as nominated member, was the Member for Social Services. He served in this capacity from 1961 until the general elections in 1962.

I always found him to be a gentleman of the highest order, and a sincere Christian practicing what he said. If he could not say anything good about a person, he said nothing.

On behalf of Members, I extend sympathy and condolences to the family, and ask that as is customary the Clerk would send a letter to this effect to the family.

As a mark of respect I will now ask all Honourable Members to stand in silence for one minute.

[one minute of silence observed]

The Speaker: Thank you. Please be seated.

SECOND READINGTHE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

(Continuation of debate thereon)

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, a good man has left us. May his soul rest in peace.

To continue with the debate on a Bill for a Law to Amend the Housing Development Corporation 1981, let me start off again this morning by quickly outlining the school of thought which I understand to be employed here.

From what I can gather, the reasoning behind this Bill is, because it is thought by the Government that the purpose of the Housing Development Corporation is now being fulfilled by the new middle to low income housing scheme which is, to my understanding, underway, the individuals who the corporation has catered to, and whom they might cater to in the future, will be able to have access to mortgages under this new scheme.

I differ with that view, and as I listened this morning to the First Annual Report which was tabled for the AIDB, I noted a few things which struck me as being significant. At the beginning of the Report there are a few sections, and I wish to read them: "The AIDB acts as a catalyst for development by providing medium to long-term development credit particularly to small businesses which in many instances would be unable to qualify for commercial bank financing for one reason or another." It goes on to say: "The Board's role is therefore to supplement and complement that of the commercial banks."

It also says: "The AIDB also functions as an ad- visory body to its clients by providing guidance, technical and management advice, as well as moral support. It is by maintaining this close relationship with its borrowers and undertaking proper loan supervision, that the Board seeks to ensure reliable servicing of its loans."

Madam Speaker, to my mind, this is exactly what the Housing Development Corporation has been doing, and should be allowed to continue to do - except, instead of small businesses, small people.

I contend that the commercial banks, with no disrespect to them, will not be able to fulfill the service that the Housing Development Corporation has been doing for that certain sector of our society. I also contend that the monies which will be available under the new mortgage scheme will be used up fairly rapidly by individuals who are able to borrow probably from $80,000 upwards. These people are the people who will not only have easier access, but who will be dealt with easier by the banks. Naturally, these are the ones who will (shall I say) monopolise the situation. That is not a problem in its own right, because I am happy for them at this point in time. But in saying that, I believe that others are going to be left out. The same others who the Housing Development Corporation - by guidance, management advice and moral support - would help to get houses.

The Housing Development Corporation Law of 1981, Law 14 of 1981, was very specific in its coming into being and its purpose and, literally, its outline of the existence of this corporation. In part 3 of the Law, under the subheading of "Functions of the Corporation", section 17(1) reads: "Subject to the provisions of this Law the Corporation shall have power to carry out or provide for the acquisition and building of houses in the Islands."

[subsection (2)] "Subject to the provisions of this Law the Corporation may, for the purpose of performing any of its functions under this Law, do anything and enter into any transaction which, in its opinion is necessary to ensure the proper performance of its functions."

[subsection (3)] "In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the provisions of subsections (1) and (2) the Corporation may in connection with the performance of its functions under subsections (1) and (2) - [and there are several sections here, but I will only read the one I wish to make the point with.]

(d) carry on any business or undertaking for housing development;

(e) make arrangements with other persons for the purpose of enabling them to provide housing or finance therefor;

(f) engage in any other activity designed to promote housing development;

(g) with the approval of the Governor make gifts or donations in deserving cases;

(h) provide, maintain and keep up government houses and other buildings;

(j) make available moneys for the purpose of financing the building and acquisition of houses upon such terms and conditions as the Corporation may decide;".

Very specific in its function - a function which, I daresay, it has served well. The Bill that is before us today is to ensure that these functions go away.

Let me draw a small illustration to show the kind of end results this Bill will bring about. Without calling any names, I know of a specific situation where there was a lady who had a loan from the Housing Development Corporation for several years. She has serviced that loan through thick and thin. In other words, she is a good, paying customer. For various reasons which are valid and known, the same house in which she lives with her family and which the Housing Development Corporation holds a charge over for the mortgage, is in some disrepair. But she is the same kind of person that I have been referring to throughout this debate. She is able to take care of her debts, but she is not in a position, by way of her earning power, to save money to be able to do what she needs to do at any given time.

So, her way of continuing to survive at this point in time would be (after the loan has been paid down several thousand dollars and with her home being in disrepair) to go back to the Housing Development Corporation, take the people out to her house, show them the problems that she has and get some more money to get her house back in order.

At this point in time, the Housing Development Corporation cannot help her because it is not lending any more money. At this point in time the Housing Development Corporation holds a charge on her home. The policy of the Housing Development Corporation reads: "Loans must be secured by a first charge in the Housing Development Corporation's favour on the property being purchased. The Housing Development Corporation will not share this equity with any other lender.". So, this lady cannot get any refinancing from the Housing Development Corporation - not because it does not want to give it, but because it has been instructed to do no more lending. She cannot go elsewhere, as she has tried to. Another institution would be quite happy to assist her, but it would have to take a second charge on her property and the policy of the Housing Development Corporation disallows that. So she has nowhere to turn, short of turning to a private institution to refinance her entire loan. But here is the catch: Her interest rate at the Housing Development Corporation is 6 per cent. To go to a private institution she has to employ the risk of a floating interest rate which could become anything at any time depending upon what the prime is.

I am not going to stop there because I can understand what the other thought is going to be. When this Bill is passed and the Law comes into being, when somebody buys the portfolio, somebody can look after her.... You know what I want to ask? When all is said and done, and she needs refinancing, will the amount that she needs refinanced be separated from her initial mortgage, and will that be the same rate that she has now? I doubt it.

This may seem to be an isolated case, but it is very real and I can see it happening all the time. The people who are involved with the Housing Development Corporation are exactly like the person that I have just described. I am not convinced by anything that has been said so far regarding this Bill, that the new situation will take care of this lady in the way the Housing Development Corporation has been able to in the past - and would have been able to at this point in time, had they been functioning the way they were intended.

So, here we have the lady I just mentioned, who is a typical example of the people that I am talking about. There may be individuals in this Honourable House who choose to take the view that I stand here spouting my mouth off just because I can. I just heard the Minister reiterate that that was just what I was doing. Madam Speaker, if every single Member in this House wants to deal with me in kind, and they do not agree with what I am saying today, they have that right. But the way I learned was if I want to take a view, and there are others who take a different view, I should listen to those views, and with reasoning and a certain amount of rationality, I should decide whether my view is one to be kept or whether I should change it because there are salient points brought forth to the opposite.

I need to tell a funny little story. Cost what it may, I have to make this point this morning because it disturbs me to the core. As far as I understand the Members in this Honourable House, whenever they wish to debate it is their duty to debate from an informed position. That is my understanding. When I saw this Bill, there were questions in my mind which I thought needed answering. Naturally, I took it upon myself, and I went to the place where I thought I could get the answers, namely, the Housing Development Corporation. I did not go there to look for anyone special. I went there to get some answers. When we were leaving the Chamber on Monday, I was quickly told that by late that afternoon my source of information would be blocked off - simply because my view differs from someone else's.

If this is bona fide, and this is all kosher, why can I not get information? Why does it have to be blocked off? If that is the style of Government, then they can keep it, I certainly do not want any part of it. I really do not care.

Madam Speaker, there are times in one's life when one has to deal with what one believes in. For the life of me I cannot understand why, if I choose to differ, it is wrong and that I should not exist. What I also know (because the Minister who is bringing this is very predictable) is that he is itching right now for me to complete my debate so that he can jump up and pour out his venom and his innuendoes. The truth is he cannot wait to bring about his acrimonious and uncouth style of buffoonery. But I will take it when I am finished here, because I believe that what I am saying is correct. I just wish him to know that we are dealing with an informed and concerned public nowadays, and the hollering does not go as far as he might think.

With this or any other Bill that comes to this House, whether it be a Private Member's Motion, or a Government Bill, I will choose my path - not by anyone telling me what to do, but by assessing the facts. The facts that are in front of me tell me that there is no earthly reason for the Housing Development Corporation's mortgage portfolio to be sold.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Hear, hear!

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: It is simply a desire of the political directorate, of which they have the right. If they do it, they do it, and I wish them well. I hope it ends up well; but I do not believe that that is the right thing. That is simply my position.

There are other matters which could be considered, but let me simply state here this morning that it is my firm belief that when this is all over, the nonexistence of the Housing Development Corporation in its workings as a mortgage lending institution will prove detrimental to many people in this country. It is my contention that with proper supervision the Housing Development Corporation can even be brought to the place where Government would not have to subsidise it. I have seen it happen with others that have not performed as well as it has.

I heard earlier on during the debate that Government was seriously looking at finding some means to develop some type of housing at a cheap enough cost where a $300 mortgage would be included for people of that income bracket. At that point in time, the Housing Development Corporation would be dealing with it. That is good news if that can become a reality. But if that is the intention why wind it down now, to wind it back up then? Why not look towards making it a more viable entity?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Hear, hear!

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: If the Housing Development Corporation, whatever it costs to run today, is not going to service mortgages or administer mortgages, and it is simply going to sit down and review applications for the new scheme (parts of which Government will guarantee), do not tell me that it is going to cost the same thing to run, or that the cost incurred by Government is not going to be more.

I guess I had better not go on anymore, but let me say again that in my view the working of the Housing Development Corporation is worth continuing. If any assessment needs to be made, it should be an assessment to assist it to become more viable.

I also heard mention of the debentures and the debenture holders possibly creating a problem as to why part of the amendment is here. In the 1993 Annual Report there is a list of subscribers for the 5% debentures and for the 7.5% debentures. Several of them are banks, several are businesses of long tenure in these Islands. There are a few individuals. You know what I have wondered since seeing this Bill? Each of these people knew what they were subscribing to, they knew what interest they were guaranteed; they knew how long they had to subscribe to the debentures. Can anybody tell me if we know these people want their money back now? Has anybody been asked? Has someone come running saying that they are afraid, could they please have their money back? I do not know.

In this situation, the truth of the matter (in my opinion) is that if the Housing Development Corporation is allowed to continue then it really does not suit the new scheme that is being developed. I differ with that view. I said it on Monday, and I will say it again: The role of the Housing Development Corporation, just like the AIDB, should be to supplement and complement that of the commercial banks. The whole reasoning why someone had good sense to put pen to paper to write the report about the AIDB is because he/she understands that it grows. It is the same role which the Housing Development Corporation plays now. But it seems like we do not want it to supplement and complement the commercial banks because we want the whole kit-and-caboodle in one situation.

Like the seamen, who will have to go and sit down and wait for hours to see whether they are eligible or not, these people will have to build up the nerve to go and speak to the big four-storey building to find out what their fate might be.

Madam Speaker, I do not support this Bill. I understand and accept that only time will prove me right or wrong. Certainly no words that have been said have convinced me that my thoughts are wrong.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I support this Motion. What is very clear is that this Housing Development Corporation has not fulfilled what was expected of it. I was one of the Members who fought in 1981 - fought very hard - to get this in; but the corporation itself has remained a rigid Statutory Body that has failed to meet the needs of mortgages within the society. The corporation itself, unfortunately, has taken an approach in relation to loans in which many, many people who needed loans were not able to get them. The best example of that is what was borne out by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

I know of the instance he is talking about, as the lady is my constituent as well as his. That is a good example of the failure of the Housing Development Corporation. She has not been able to get what she needs either in the line of consent for the second mortgage, or the money she needs. That, I think, is the best example that the Member could have raised as to why the corporation has failed to meet the needs of the present-day public.

It was set up in 1981 and is now 13 years old. If it has not matured sufficiently in this time, then it is not going to do so. The other thing is that the corporation, notwithstanding the funds that it had, was operating at a very high expense. When one looks at the cost of the administration for the number of loans involved (121), in a normal bank that would support perhaps six or eight more loans than there are. So it is a very expensive administration process as well.

There is now an opportunity to access $15 million - $17 million in funds from the private sector, and the Government has agreed to guarantee the upper layer under that scheme which really means... and I will explain this to the public again... that instead of being directly liable for all of these loans (as within the Housing Development Corporation) as soon as that upper layer (up to 35%) is paid, Government ceases to have liability. This is very important to understand. There is a difference between taking money out of your pocket and lend ing it, and merely guaranteeing the upper layer of it. The comparison of what we now do, and what the new scheme is going to do, puts far less responsibility on Government, because the history of loans is that normally they are paid best at the beginning. As soon as they are paid off, Government's liability reduces.

So, I have every faith that this scheme is going to benefit the public. I know that the Opposition to this Bill has said that it does not cover persons in a very low income bracket. Let us face hard facts: There are people out there who will never be able to pay a loan of any amount on a mortgage. That is a hard fact of life, but the Government will have to bite the bullet and help them in some other way - either through a full guarantee on those loans, or they will just simply, at some stage, find some way of getting much cheaper housing to deal with people in a very low income bracket. There are going to be some people (not a large number) who cannot make a payment of $300, $500 or $700 a month on a loan; but, as the Government now has to assist Caymanians who cannot afford to pay for medical or schooling, then we will have to assist them. This is a different bracket and we should not confuse what is being done now - which is going to cover about 90% of the people who need homes - and confuse it with perhaps 10% or 15% who are not capable of making the payments.

Not only was interest reasonably high under this Bill as well, but the same problem arose under this and there is no way of amending the Housing Development Corporation Law in such a way as to turn it into a type of corporation that is going to deal both with loans on a normal basis and loans that relate to persons who cannot pay.

That Member has continued to mumble for the last 20 minutes... anyhow, I am not going to let it affect me.

There is no way that one can try to bring all the people under any one scheme when there are some people (who fall within a small bracket) whom the Government will have to find some way of assisting who will not be able to make payments under either the Housing Development Corporation or under the present scheme. So, from the point of view that, yes, the Housing Development Corporation did not cover everyone who needed a house, the housing scheme that Government is guaranteeing will not cover everybody. But it will cover a large portion of the people who need it. For the first time we are looking at young persons - and I point this out, the youth of this country are going to be able to own a home, to get a mortgage and pay on it, rather than continuing to pay rent. This is what this is geared for.

I know it frustrates the Opposition that there is something good coming out; and, obviously, it is their duty to bring the worst side of everything that Government puts forward. What I would say to them on this specific thing is that the public must be aware, and Honourable Members must believe, that the scheme that is being put forward is to help a large number of people. So why do they not join us and try to help the youth of this country?

It is no good to stall it and wait for next year while young couples out there continue to pay rent. It is not good to say that because it does not cover 100% of everybody in Cayman that we should not help 90%. That is a very mean and personal approach to take. I think what this does, for the very first time, is give the young people in this country some hope and an expectation which will be realised. Under this housing scheme they will receive the necessary funds for housing within their means.

I really do not understand how anyone can fault that. I think the Minister who has put this forward has done a lot of work, he has achieved what no other Government (with all due respect) could. Every Government that I have known of has promised that they were going to bring in a mortgage scheme to help the youth (not just the youth, everybody) of this country. The Minister has achieved it, and stumbling blocks are constantly being put in the Government's way.

I am satisfied that if the Opposition will give this a chance to go forward... It is the first time (and I have been in banking 25 years) that I have seen a realistic scheme with that amount of money being put up for long-term mortgages. The normal commercial banks, as we saw in other areas, borrow and lend short. They cannot lend a large amount of money out for 20 years when they are borrowing on six months or the maximum of one year. This scheme now, with Government's guarantee (and without that guarantee it would not be the same, it could not have been done) is a realistic scheme. Yes, there will be some problems to sort out. There will be problems with the Housing Development Corporation amendment and the transfer of the loans - and there are only 121 loans in this whole thing - and it has been going for nine years. Obviously, it has not been the success that they are trying to make it out to be.

I am satisfied that what is being done here in this Bill, and what is being done on mortgages, generally, is in the interest of this country and the youth of this country. I give it my full support. I have 20-odd years of experience in lending, I have seen what people can get from banks, and what they cannot get. I say to the public and to the Honourable Members of this House that this scheme is something that the country has not yet had, and it is something that every Government has tried to

I support the youth of this country, and to support them I have to support this scheme. It is in the interest of the young people that we get out of the rigid type of Housing Development Corporation rules, especially the example that the Honourable Fourth Elected Member for George Town mentioned. That is a good example of the problems that we have come up against under that Housing Development Corporation. I believe there is a solution to it, and I will assist in any way that I can on that specific matter, and any other matter relating to it. I really think that at this stage our duty is to throw our full weight behind the new mortgage scheme and try to get it operational - work the problems out of it, and try to get some of these $15 million worth of funds released to the young couples. Anyone can go in there, but normally the persons who have the biggest problems with mortgages are people who are just starting out - the young married couples. These are the people who would benefit under the scheme.

I support this fully. I supported the formation of this operation 13 years ago, and it obviously has not reached the expectations of either the Government or the Opposition. They have given clear reasons, I think, of why we should move on.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.36 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 11.58 AM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In 1981, when the Housing Development Corporation Law was enacted, the people of these Islands were just recouping from an economic recession. The Mover of the Bill had good intentions in trying to create mortgages, and the Housing Development Corporation was formed. However, I remember that threats were made in order for debentures to be made with certain companies, and debentures were placed with the Housing Development Corporation. Through the years it has helped some of our people, with 121 loans since 1984 to 1993. If we divide that by nine, it comes to 13.4 loans per annum. If we look at administration on an annual basis, it is over $137,000, therefore, if we divide that by the loans, that is very costly.

I wondered, when this was being developed in 1981, why Government was getting into the business of lending money. All my life I had heard the public saying that Government is responsible for this and that; I even heard members of the public get on the radio and say that Government must come up with a law to keep the children off the streets. Government can do only so much - nothing is free; someone has to pay, and the entire public is paying for these loans.

The question has been posed: Why do we not put funds into the Housing Development Corporation? The previous Government certainly did not because in May of 1992 I attended a luncheon sponsored by the Housing Development Corporation, inviting members of the private sector to attend a presentation asking for them to inject funds into the Housing Development Corporation. The Opposition cannot sit back and say that we are not putting funds into the Housing Development Corporation because neither did the previous Government which they supported.

With the amendment to this Law, we are not taking away the Housing Development Corporation and not putting something else in place. The Housing Scheme is an alternative, and we keep hearing that this is for high income earning persons. But there is no minimum amount set for lending with the new Housing Scheme. One will be able to borrow, depending upon one's income, what one can afford, therefore, the scheme will be able to assist, not only middle, but low income as well. If they can afford a $40,000; $90,000; $120,000 home, and they are earning those funds, then they will qualify in the same manner as with the Housing Development Corporation.

There is only one question that I would like the Mover to address in his winding up, and that is if he could explain if negotiations have taken place regarding a fixed interest rate with the contract as it will be passed on? In other words, if they are presently paying 9%, when the contract is sold, will that remain at 9%? Can he kindly negotiate to have that fixed, or will it be on the open market with prime rate?

I am happy to see this Bill coming for a Law to amend the Housing Development Corporation, because this is a good example of privatisation. There are no funds. If there were funds available all Members of this House would want all of our constituents to be able to afford loans at 9% fixed interest rate so they would all have proper housing. With the constraints that we have in raising income and having revenue to use for our people, there is no way that the Government can inject funds into the Housing Development Corporation at this time. Not only this Government, but as I mentioned, previous Governments had this dilemma.

I would like to commend the Minister for this move toward privatising this corporation, and I hope that consideration will be given to privatising other statutory boards also, or bringing them back under Government. As a Government we cannot continue to borrow funds in order to put money into projects such as this. Like the people borrowing money from the Housing Development Corporation, Government too has to know how it will pay back those funds.

I think this is a good move and I support this Bill for a Law to amend the Housing Development Corporation Law.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, I rise to offer my support for a Bill for a Law to Amend the Housing Development Corporation Law, 1981.

I listened to the debate by the Members opposing this amendment. I have only come to one conclusion: We are preaching fear to the present homeowners under the Housing Development Corporation, and probably the banks in this country. It is quite clear in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, where it states: "Existing home owners who have mortgages with the Housing Development Corporation will not see any difference in the terms and conditions of their mortgages. Their monthly payments will not be affected."

We heard of the little old ladies who got their homes under the Housing Development Corporation. I am happy for any member of this community who was able to get a loan to have his own home. My concern about the Housing Development Corporation for some time now, is how effective has it been in providing homes for the low income people of this country? Before entering these Chambers as a Member of the Legislative Assembly, I sent people from my district to the Housing Development Corporation to seek loans. When they came back to me they said it would have been easier if they had gone to a bank to obtain a loan rather than to seek it through the Housing Development Corporation. I am certain that the people who piloted the 1981 Bill did this in the hopes that people of the low income bracket would be afforded some assistance in getting their own home. But this did not prove to be the way.

The Housing Development Corporation, as I understand it, has been in existence for some 13 years now. I understand that in those 13 years just over 120 loans were granted. Can we honestly say that the Housing Development Corporation provided the type of service that it was set up to provide?

There has been mention, since the dedication of the statue in memory of the Honourable James M. Bodden, of Housing Development Corporation meaning "Honour Duty Country". I think this gentleman was involved in the formation of the Housing Development Corporation, but there is one thing we must remember: Even though he may have helped to set the corporation up, if he had lived to see that this corporation was not providing the service that he originally brought it about for, he would have had the guts to get some other scheme whereby his people would profit.

The Honourable Minister piloting this Bill today did the exact same thing when he sought the assistance of the banks in this community to provide a scheme whereby, not only the middle class would get loans to build houses, but the less fortunate will get loans which they can afford. They will be advised not to reach higher than their hat. They will be advised that if they can afford a loan for $10,000 to build a shelter over their heads, then that is what they must build.

We heard that there have been no defaults under the Housing Development Corporation. We heard that there is one that is being negotiated. I wonder if this is really true when the banks, which are more thorough, I would assume, are constantly Gazetting properties that they are calling in the payments for. I am certain that the Honourable Minister will provide us with the correct answer.

We also heard that we are doing this out of hatred for the last Member who had the responsibility for the Housing Development Corporation. The same question could be asked about every project that the present Minister brings before this House to help his people. Attempts are made to knock things down before listening to what he is trying to do. It is time we cast aside dealing with personalities, one on one, and provide the facilities that the people of our country need.

I believe that with the scheme, where the banks will be providing mortgages for all our people who qualify, we will be in a better position in this country and probably have less homeless people than we have at present.

With the new scheme coming on line, to continue with the Housing Development Corporation, would only be a duplication. The Lady Member for George Town clearly pointed out the costs of the Housing Development Corporation at present and the number of loans that they are allowing the public to have.

Therefore, I support the Bill and I congratulate the Honourable Minister for seeking new ways and new schemes for the people of this country to be able to afford houses in the future.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Madam Speaker, the Housing Development Corporation Law was passed in 1981, as we all know. Since that time, particularly between 1984 to 1994, some 121 loans have been made to persons wishing to own their homes. We already heard that works out to about 13 loans per year. The number of people who really need homes, in fact the number who would like to apply to the Housing Development Corporation, far exceeds that number every year. Because of the mortgage portfolio, and other reasons, they have only been able to supply the needs of approximately 13 persons per year. This is insufficient to meet the demand.

Where does the Housing Development Corporation get its money? From sales of debentures, and also from infusion of Government money to boost their capital. We know that over the past five years some $200,000 per year (starting from last year and expected for five years from then) is the amount that Government plans to contribute to the Housing Development Corporation. In fact, the capital of the Housing Development Corporation does come from debenture holders, from Government money, and from investing that money.

What the Minister is trying to do, and has succeeded in doing, is to provide private financing through various banks for persons who would like to own homes. Obviously, there will be no need, then, for Government to inject capital into the new scheme. There will only be the necessity to give the guarantee for a certain percentage of the loan. So, it will amount to a savings for the Government.

I think it is very important to consider the percentage charged by the Housing Development Corporation on loans in this whole exercise. It is from 9% to 11% interest that they charge, depending upon the earnings of the individual. We have been assured in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons that the terms and conditions, for persons who have loans now, will not be affected when the Housing Development Corporation divests its mortgage portfolio. I would like to know for sure that this assurance has come from the class "A" banks. I am sure the Minister will be able to tell all of us here whether he has this assurance.

I believe the Housing Development Corporation at this point in time has loaned over $5 million, in fact they passed that mark in 1983, according to their report. There is no question that they have helped those individuals in the past. But, the demand far exceeds what they are able to do. Seeing that the various banks have come up with an offer, and considering the terms of the offer, it seems to be as good as what the Housing Development Corporation can offer.

The Housing Development Corporation demands that an individual have at least 10% of the amount of the loan, or at least to own the land, whatever is the lesser. I understand that in the new scheme individuals will not need to make any down payment whatsoever. So, right there, in my opinion, the terms and conditions of the new scheme are better than what the Housing Development Corporation is presently offering.

There is one concern that I have, and that is the method of financing. I understand that the Housing Development Corporation does allow contractors to make draw-downs as the house is built. I am told that will not be the situation with the new scheme, although there has been some bridge-financing provided. I voiced my concern to the Minister, but I would hope that some deal could be struck with the other banks that will be participating, whereby small contractors can get money directly from the banks offering the loan, rather than having to finance the building of the various houses and later selling to the people needing houses.

There are some other areas of concern that I also have, and that is in regard to the present employees of the Housing Development Corporation. I understand that they have six employees. Although they are operationally one unit with the AIDB, with this gradual phasing out of the Housing Development Corporation, as they divest their mortgage portfolio. I sometimes wonder what will happen to those particular employees - will there be sufficient work in that department? Will they be transferred to other Government departments? Will Government assist them to find employment in the private sector? Will they be kept on until they find employment in the private sector?

I also would like to mention that I certainly would like the terms and conditions of the loan to remain the same once they are transferred to the class "A" banks, or lending agencies.

Then, there is the question of the persons holding the debentures. I believe there are at least 50 people who own 5% debentures and some 40 people, companies, or corporations who own 7.5% debentures over a 20 year period. We know that the certificates they received stated that the assets of the Housing Development Corporation could not be divested without their approval. The Housing Development Corporation Law is such that unless amendments are made it will be very difficult to divest capital assets of the Housing Development Corporation without their approval. I maintain that it is very important to have the full cooperation of the debenture holders. To pass legislation that would put them on the spot and would really breach what was on those certificates, I believe would do something to the credibility of Government. Personally I would like to make sure that this amendment and this move is with the approval of the debenture holders. I would like to ask the Minister if he has been approached on this matter, and if it has the full cooperation of the debenture holders?

There is no question that the new scheme will give better terms and conditions in that there will be no necessity for a down payment, and once there is enough bridge financing I believe that will enhance the product. The fact that Government will not have to inject capital funds is certainly worthwhile considering. Overall, I support, and have always supported, the Minister's move to make every effort to ensure that there are funds available from the private sector, whereby people can get loans to buy houses. Most people feel that the Housing Development Corporation has come short of fulfilling the need and the demand that homeowners have in the provision of homes.

I would certainly like the Minister to address my concerns before the vote is taken, and I shall have no problem supporting the Motion once these things are made clear to me.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. G. Haig Bodden: Madam Speaker, it is not surprising that a full scale debate has developed on this amendment. Neither is it surprising that there has been a bit of controversy over this. The Housing Development Corporation, as well as the AIDB, as has been mentioned in this debate, were both conceived and travelled in a hot debate of controversy.

I remember when this Law was passed in 1981, in one of the few meetings held in Cayman Brac. The Opposition at the time had been successful in arousing most of the people in Cayman Brac, and a great portion of the people here, against the Housing Development Corporation. It was only because there had been a strong elected Government at the time, that the Bill went into Law. It is, perhaps, because of that controversy that the Housing Development Corporation never received the amount of funds which should have been injected into it to make it a very prosperous concern.

Nevertheless, some private individuals as well as some businesses invested funds, and those investors were well repaid because a 5% or a 7.5% bond on a 20 or 30 year investment is considered in fiduciary circles as a good investment. I have seen it happen right here; because while the people who had bought the 5% bond were earning 5% from the Housing Development Corporation, other people who had large fixed deposits in the commercial banks here were earning as little as 1%, sometimes 2% - not even half of what those wise investors who had put their funds into the Housing Development Corporation bonds at 5% were earning.

So, for the investor, the Housing Development Corporation has not been a bad deal. They have received all the interest guaranteed to them, and the borrowers have also received some benefit. Of course, as mentioned by other speakers, only 121 homes were built. Still, these are 120-odd borrowers who today have an asset which they would not have had if the Housing Development Corporation had not come into operation.

We live in a changing world. Certain questions have been raised. One wonders if the Housing Development Corporation had become a threat to the commercial banks and if this is the reason why the Housing Development Corporation is changing its role. The Memorandum to the Bill sets out clearly the intention of the Government. As explained by the Minister, this amendment is being made in preparation for the future role of the Government in taking care of the new mortgage scheme. The present borrowers are given a guarantee that no change will be made in the terms of the repayment on their mortgages. They will not be asked to make any larger monthly payment, they will not be asked to pay any higher interest rates. I believe the Housing Development Corporation whetted the appetites, increased the desire of people to own homes. Now, we have a scheme which is able to suffice, in larger quantities, the need which exists. I think we should give it a chance to work.

Perhaps the time will come, as in all Laws, that the amendments which we are making today will have to be amended again. But we must act. We cannot remain stagnant, we cannot refuse to change when the forces of investment and the forces of finances, and the forces of a changing world, change. I do not believe this change will hurt those people who have already embarked upon certain loans, and will probably help other people who may not have benefitted from the old school.

It has been said that the two schemes, that is, the old Housing Development Corporation scheme and the new housing scheme, are very similar. But there is a big difference, in that under the old scheme the borrower had been forced to put up 10% of the value of the house. That 10% could have been put in land. Under the new scheme, the borrower will be forced to put up a portion of his mortgage - but, if he does not have that deposit, the Government may (if it deems fit) step in and guarantee that deposit.

The accumulation of enough cash or land to get a mortgage started has been the biggest stumbling block to many people in obtaining a loan. Young people, particularly - even couples where both husband and wife work - found it difficult to save any appreciable amount of cash. So, while they may be able to make the monthly payments on a mortgage, they can never find the 20% or 30% which the banks normally require. Civil servants, particularly, or anyone on a monthly salary can attest to this, they live on what they have. But, if one gets an increase in pay - no matter how small it is - after two months one wonders how one lived on one's old salary. If one's salary were even to double, in another month or two one would commit that entire salary building a bigger house, a better car, or a longer vacation. It is just human nature to live it up, and it is very difficult to save. It has been said that anybody can save money, but there is only one in 100 that can keep it saved.

So, acquiring the capital which is needed for a deposit to start a mortgage is a very difficult exercise. Once a person gets started on the mortgage, (particularly a Caymanian) he will move heaven and hell to protect the investment which he has made, particularly when he realises that every payment he makes on his home means that he owns so much more.

So, any scheme that entices young people, or anybody, to embark upon the acquisition of a home is an excellent scheme. And while, if I felt like it I could find some fault in this amendment, I believe that, overall, in the interest of a better life for the people of this country - who not only deserve it, but who have worked so hard for it - we ought to support this Law.

The Speaker: At this time proceedings will be suspended until 2 o'clock.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.43 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.05 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I rise to make my contribution on a Bill For a Law to Amend the Housing Development Corporation Law, 1981.

I had the honour of being in this Honourable House in 1981, when the Housing Development Corporation Law was debated, and meetings were held in Cayman Brac. I also have the distinction of being the only sitting Member today that voted against the Housing Development Corporation. I again want to make it very clear that I have always been in favour of providing housing for people who needed it. Our family history shows that my uncle, Capt. Charlie Kirkconnell, and my immediate family (in different companies with which I have been involved) provided housing for people who needed housing - financed and built them in Cayman Brac before the advent of the commercial banks. We have tried since then to help where we could.

I asked questions when the Housing Development Corporation Bill was first mentioned back in 1981: Why was Government going into the lending business, and where was the money coming from? Those were two major questions which I needed to have answered to my satisfaction to support the Bill in 1981. It has proven today, in 1994, that the reason why the Housing Development Corporation has not been more successful is the fact that it did not have the money to lend and it therefore became very difficult for people who really needed homes to get loans. Often, after qualifying for the loans, people of my constituency were told that there were no funds available.

Madam Speaker, I support the Bill brought by the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture, which provides Government guarantees to commercial lending institutions who joined the scheme in providing housing. I believe that this is the right course to take.

The Federal Housing Administration in the United States has never got involved in outright lending to individuals. They have simply given a Federal Guarantee. I think the United States has been quite successful in providing housing. They also have a scheme, which is the Low Cost Federal Housing Scheme, for those who could not make monthly payments, they built and rented them.

I think if the Housing Development Corporation is successful in divesting itself of its particularly, loan portfolio and the responsibility they have for providing loans, then there will be less contingency liability for debentures against our Government. They will be able to put forth more money to provide small homes for those who are not able to meet those requirements.

Madam Speaker, I do not feel that a commercial lending institution is being difficult or hard when it tells someone that it will not lend him money if he cannot make the payments. Anytime someone helps you do something that you cannot afford, he is really doing you harm. He is not helping you, because at the end of the line you will be the looser having to put up equity in the home that you might lose by foreclosure. So, Madam Speaker, if the Housing Development Corporation had put the money that has been spent on administrative costs over the years into financing real low cost housing, we might not have the problems we have today.

So, with what I have said here today, I would like to ask the Honourable Mover of this Bill if the Government has a provision in the debenture whereby it will not have to pay for the period not used, and whether it is a three year or five year debenture. In other words, there will be no penalty for paying off that debenture earlier. That is the only concern that I have. If we have to continue to pay interest for the period in which the debenture was made, then that could be a problem. As previous Members have said, there will not be a higher rate of interest charged to those who have received loans from the Housing Development Corporation. Madam Speaker, the commercial banks are in a position to accommodate as many people who qualify with the amount of money they have available, they will not have the short fall of funds expendable.

Therefore, with these few words I support the Bill For a Law to Amend the Housing Development Corporation Law, 1981.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I too rise to give my support for a Bill For a Law to Amend the Housing Development Corporation Law, 1981. I feel within myself that this is the right move being made. Housing is something that is very much needed in our Islands and I know that this gives people the chance to get homes who formerly could really not see how they would ever own homes.

I want to commend the Honourable Minister for his move in pushing this scheme forward, and I feel that this whole House should support a move like this. I know that this has to be controversial [and has] loopholes. But what we should do is really plug some of those loopholes and work together for one good reason, and that is to help the people of our Islands. With that, I support the Bill.

The Speaker: If there is no other debate, I will ask the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture if he would close the debate.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I wish to thank all Honourable Members who understand what is being done here today; what the Government is seeking to do; and who support the reform that is necessary to rectify the inequities that exist in the housing sector, and to rectify inequities that exist in the Housing Development Corporation.

The Opposition Members have used this opportunity, as usual, to generally bring a debate to castigate the Government. In the course of this very interesting debate we heard many allegations from the three Members opposing. We heard about things which they claim need to be done. We have been given all kinds of scenarios, none of which is real or true. As usual, the Opposition took the opportunity to castigate me. Particularly, this time the Fourth Elected Member for George Town in his closing remarks said some very nasty things about uncouth and buffoonery. So they use this opportunity to get a general debate on Government's administration of the country's affairs. We heard from them about investors' confidence and all sort of things, as I have said.

Madam Speaker, I first want to put a few things to rest. I am really tired of their castigation every time they rise. One of them mentioned a well-informed public. I think it was the Fourth Elected Member for George Town. I agree. But what I believe - and I am not going to pull any punches either, and I will tell you why in a short while - is now that the Fourth Elected Member for George Town is in this Honourable House, where the spotlight can be shed on his shenanigans, yes, our informed public will be in a better position to see him for what he really is. That opportunity with him is ongoing, and the public will soon see him for what he is.

It seems that when they get up and kick Government in the face, and say all manner of evil about its Members, that it is all right - Oh! that is good, that is what they are supposed to do. Then when the Government, in particular this Minister, is forced to reply - when I am forced to reply to their attacks - it is uncouth and buffoonery. It seems to me that they believe that if you put a drop of white dye in your hair on the front of your head, or you put a red handkerchief in your pocket, that makes you a gentleman.

Madam Speaker, the public of this country knows me, and the Honourable Members of this House know who I am. I believe that is the reason why they gave me 13 votes for a seat on Executive Council. The people of this country know that in Church I can be as solemn as a Presbyterian Minister. They also know that I do not have the patience to deal with hypocrites, lazy people and general troublemakers who have not accomplished anything. And I want to say to this Honourable House this afternoon, that Jesus Christ, the good Lord, turned his other cheek - and they crucified him. I am not about to let those three men in this House, or anyone else for that matter, do the same to me by playing a gentleman's game with them when they refuse to follow the same rules. I am really sorry for anyone who believes that. I am here to do the country's business. But I am not here to be castigated, kicked in the face and ridiculed every time I try to do something that I believe is good for the country. If they want to oppose, fine! But every time they get up must they castigate people? That is what they have been doing this whole week, and last week, Madam Speaker.

I would ask each one of them: Why have they not brought a sound solution to the problems that this country faces? What do they think they are getting paid for - just to stand on the floor of the House and castigate this Minister about his education? Let me make it absolutely clear again, once and for all: The Government of this country, the people of this country, did not put any money on McKeeva Bush for his education. What I got, I got through the school of hard-knocks. What my mother could give me, she gave me in all honesty, and I am proud of where I have come from. I am proud to know that I have come from the other side of the tracks and that I have pulled myself up by my bootstraps to try and make something out of myself, and I try to set a good example for my children and for the children of this country.

Yes, Madam Speaker, I have a little-lad, backwoods preacher in me. I am sorry. If that is what they are calling uncouth, then so be it. I know when to be a gentleman, but it is hard to be a gentleman when you are dealing with a bunch of ruffians. It is very hard, indeed, to be diplomatic to people who refuse to be diplomatic. I challenge each one of the three Opposition Members to show this country what they have done with their education. Let the First Elected Member for Bodden Town show the country what he has done, and let the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, show this country what he did with his Teacher's education.

I am really sorry, Madam Speaker, for the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, because while I and the other two Elected Members have been political colleagues, the truth is that the Fourth Elected Member for George Town and I have been close friends over the years. But I know what it means; I know how Jesus felt now... or how Caesar felt, when he used that phrase "et tu, Brute!"

I am really sorry, Madam Speaker, that in their spite against this Minister, for whatever reason, the Fourth Elected Member for George Town has taken that line - has stooped to those kinds of attacks. Those three Elected Members continue in their efforts to berate the Government and say all manner of evil about Members. They spread all kinds of propaganda, raise all kinds of unnecessary doubts and, generally, tell a lot of falsehoods. It is time that they act responsibly. They are getting paid - well paid - as Legislators.

Never in my life have I seen so much rumour-mongering which has no basis in truth. Never, have I heard so much falsehood purported as truth. Never! For what, Madam Speaker? From 1989 to 1992 this country has been faced with all kinds of problems - marches, a general decline in democracy. As far as I am concerned, democracy was being kicked out through the doors when Elected Members had no say in what was happening in the country. We had a National Airline that was putting us to the ground; finances of the Government were destroyed. Yes! Then the people had something to talk about. What is happening today? This Government has turned those situations around - and they have the nerve to talk about investor confidence.

Let me remind this Honourable House, again, where we have come from: We have come from a deficit position. We came from a position where the previous Government ran this country into debt to the extent that the National Airline was going under; to the extent that they came to the Honourable House to borrow $20 million. What happened, Madam Speaker? The financial institutions in this country refused them. They could not - could not - borrow, and Mr. Gilbert McLean wants to run along with them and now say that we...

Standing Order 34 (a)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of Order, please, Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I am a Member of this House and the Standing Orders do not allow a Member to call another Member by name, as the Honourable Minister has just done in his ranting and raving.

The Speaker: The Point of Order is well taken. Honourable Minister would you please refer to the Elected Member by the designation of 'Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman'? Thank you.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I am sorry, and I take your ruling in good stride. It was a mistake for me to call him by his name. I would like to call him many other names, though, that would apply too; but I will bow to your ruling.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman can call it ranting and raving. It is because I speak with force. I am sorry if they do not like it, but I want to clear up this afternoon some of this propaganda about the country losing investor confidence, because it needs to be told to this Honourable House.

Madam Speaker, the total number of companies registered as of 31st December, 1992, amounted to 25,000; as of 31st August, 1994, the total number of companies registered was 29,668, representing an 18% increase. The number of Banks and Trusts licenced as of 31st December 1992, was 532. This number has increased to 554 as of 31st August, 1994, and still growing.

It is history that this country enacted legislation for Mutual Funds, and we now have registered 615 Mutual Funds, and 100 more to be processed.

The total from land transferred during 1992 was $106,000; during 1993 this value increased to $130 million representing 22% increase over 1992, and it is still climbing for this year. When the figures are completed for this year you will see that it has increased. Why? Because Government took the initiative and there is investor confidence.

Government's recurrent revenue totalled $121 million for 1992; 1993 saw an increase of 12% over 1992, totalling $135 million. All indications are that there will be an increase in 1994 over 1993. Recurrent revenue as of 31st August, 1994, totalled $104 million, compared to $90 million for the same period in 1993, representing a whopping 15% increase.

Madam Speaker, Ship Registration, something that the previous Government - the colleagues and friends of the now present Oppositions - could not get anything done with it. It was dying on its feet and in deficit. The total tonnage registered and revenue generated in 1993 increased by 28% over 1992, and 1994 promises to be an even stronger year in growth with the first six months already showing a 20% increase over the first six months of 1993.

This is proof positive. I say to the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, to the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, that this is proof positive that investor confidence in the Government and in the country was restored in November 1992. The charges and inferences made by the Opposition about confidence by investors cannot be substantiated. In fact, what this shows is the opposite - people want to come to Cayman and do business, and good people are coming to Cayman and doing business.

What have they contributed to it, except to criticise every effort - every one of these too, that I have pointed out here. They were criticised by the Opposition, and we proved them wrong, and we are going to prove them further wrong. They believe at this particular time in our Government that we are lost. Let me tell them something: The fight has not yet begun. What are we busy doing, Madam Speaker? We are busy doing the country's business; and even though I have had to take licks in the newspapers and elsewhere, I cannot reply because I am too busy. All of us are busy in our Ministries, over-burdened with work - some of the things which were left by their colleagues, the last Government. Yes, while we cannot get around to everybody, while we cannot be everywhere at the same time, we are doing the country's business to the extent that some of us do not take vacation.

I am sick and tired of that group that does nothing - they have done nothing for this country but criticise people who are doing something. It is time that they do some work. What have they accomplished? I had to listen to them on Thursday and Friday last week, and I listened to the radio again, and I wondered what good will it do the country to have so many dangerous statements bandied about? Where is the responsibility of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and his two other colleagues? They believe that they do not have a responsibility. They say all they have to do is come here and talk. Surely not, Madam Speaker! That is not what you are elected to do. You are elected to work, and I have always been a worker. I can talk, but I can work - and I have always proven that I am willing to work. Let the Opposition understand that there is no greater disservice any responsible person can do to his country than to adventurously, and for purposes of political propaganda, cast about and destroy faith in programmes and policies which are, in fact, good.

Madam Speaker, I might have said earlier that the land sales for 1992 were $106,295, it should have been $106,295,000; 1993 would have been $130,101,000 which, when compared to $106,295,000 for 1992 represents a 22% increase. I am sorry, and I thank the Honourable Financial Secretary for correcting me.

But, criticism of a Government is, of course, necessary, and I did it while I was on the Backbench. But I did not stand there without giving programmes - which are recorded in the Hansards - such as after school care. I asked the previous Government to do that; they did not do it. Community development programmes were refused. I started on the course, and I still say to the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman: What is he doing instead of sitting in his seat grumbling like an old woman? What is he doing to better the situation, rather than to spread rumour and gossip?

Criticism of a Government is good, it is necessary in a democracy; but deliberate attempts to mislead people; attempts to deliberately play upon explosive emotions, as in the case of this Bill - debenture holders will lose out or mortgage holders will suffer - that type of tripe. Falsehoods create the greatest damage to the future and well-being of this country. And they are doing it - not the Government - the three of them with their colleagues on the outside, who are such cowards they cannot even sign their names.

For people who really have not accomplished anything, this seems to be a pleasure to them. You know what you hear them saying? 'We'll fix that McKeeva Bush. We told him about himself today.' That is what you hear when you walk out of here.

I wish that we could sell them for what we believe they are worth. What a lot of money this country would have in the treasury. It would be good if I could debate and pay them no mind, but we have to refute their allegations so that the people of this country can see them for what they are - false prophets. To leave them alone would be to let them succeed. To let them alone would be to let them succeed in destroying the possibilities of achieving many of the things by way of development and advancement in this country.

I ask Members of this House to be careful of the Opposition, because they are good enough to smile in your face, and put a dagger in your back.

[directed to voice across the floor] You never mind what I did to Benson. Benson got what he deserved - what we are going to give you in 1996.

There is much talk by the Opposition about the fundamental rights and liberties. Every time they get up this is a question they throw on the Government: What about fundamental rights and liberties? It is high time the Opposition understands that along with these rights and liberties there exists responsibilities. It is time for them to act responsibly. It is time for them to be a responsible Opposition.

The truth is that all of their debate was based on inference, as usual, and not fact. I will deal with each one. But before I do that, I want to deal with inferences made in connection with our National Hero.

It is sad, very sad indeed, that they would stoop to include in their argument the auspicious occasion of the National Hero. But, I expect no better from the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, nor from the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

[directed to voice across floor] I am going to tell you who destroyed what latter on.

It is time... [directed, again, to voice across the floor] ...I did not burn down the Glass House.

It is time for certain things to be understood. It is true that I was an opponent during the time of the Honourable Jim Bodden, but the Hansards of this House record many issues that we stood together on. One thing about Jim Bodden: when he said he would do something, you could depend upon him. His word was his bond. That is partly why I chose him to be the first National Hero, and the Government consented - I knew where he stood, and he knew where I stood on issues.

Let me add, very quickly, I never betrayed him, like some of his so-called friends working closely with him; who sent out his private letters to the public in the closing days of 1984; nor did I have disputes with him, as did some of his so-called close friends. Let me further add that not one soul, in Government or outside, asked me to appoint Jim Bodden as a National Hero. I further say, if there was no statue and we agreed to make him a National Hero, the Government would have done a statue. Madam Speaker, if there is ridicule, give it to me. If there is credit, I want that too, because no one asked me to make him the National Hero. He fought with me on the Motion back in 1987, and he was a nationalist in the true sense - whether we like some of what he did or not. Let us put this to rest.

The previous Government was asked, and what did the former Member for Communication and Works (Mr. Linford Pearson) say? We should put the statue in Bodden Town. That was his answer. That is what they felt about a National Hero. I did it because, in my opinion, there was no other contemporary leader who had the love of his country, or who did more for his people than James M. Bodden. Yes, at times I was an opponent. It is not a matter of whom I supported, or anyone else. What people should do is try and capture the true meaning of a National Hero and what it means to the country. I would hope that any inferences of the kind by the Opposition would stop, because it was not McKeeva Bush who sent out his private letters to help kill him in 1984. Yes, the National Hero also had his back-stabbers, who laughed in his face.

This country is an informed country, ladies and gentlemen, Honourable Members. They know who is who; they know who held what position in those years. People are not as foolish as they would have the House believe.

Madam Speaker, it is appropriate for me to deal with this doomsday scenario given by the three Opposition Members. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town continues his scare tactics in regard to foreclosures and defaults. Let us examine his inconsistency.

Monday, he was expounding, in his usual hypocritical fashion, how the lower income sector is such a fine, trustworthy group of people.

POINT OF ORDER

(Misleading)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of Order?

Honourable Minister, would you please sit for a moment? Thank you.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: The Minister is making misleading and mischievous statements which he cannot prove, when he addresses me as being hypocritical.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, would you continue? If you have any proof of a Member being hypocritical would you so indicate to the House? Otherwise continue with your debate. Thank you.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

He can give it, but he cannot take it. He is like a spoiled child it seems. When he is on his feet he is a big champion; but when he is sitting down, listening, he cannot take it.

Madam Speaker, the House will recall that in 1993 those three Opposition Members brought a Motion to this Honourable House to stop the housing scheme that Government was struggling to put together. This is what the Member from Bodden Town had to say, and I quote the Hansard of 27th September, 1993, almost a year ago: "Another important point I wish to underscore [and this is The First Elected Member for Bodden Town, Mr. Roy Bodden speaking on that Motion.] is that lending institutions like to talk about the borrower's equity and interest in the project. That is why they stipulate that the borrower must participate to the extent of putting something into the project. Not only is this economically sound, it is psychologically sound. Here is why. If someone goes to the bank to borrow $80,000 to build a house, but they have to come up with $20,000 and they get into a problem, if they are logical and clear thinking, as most Caymanians are, they are going to say, 'Hey, I am going to have to make some sacrifices here, I only had $20,000. If the bank takes this house or this property, my little $20,000 will have gone down the drain. You know Bobo, I can't make that happen.' So they are going to work that much harder to meet their obligations. It is my argument that in a situation where the borrower has not a vested interest, the same kind of philosophy does not obtain. 'I don't care if they take the house, I ain't got nothing in it. If I have to go out and pay rent, I will go out and pay rent. I will try to get myself in a position where I can try again.'" [1993 Official Hansard Report Vol. II, page 658]

That was last year. This is what he says this year, and I quote from the Hansard of 19 September 1994, that was Monday: "Simply because in its 13 years of existence the Housing Development Corporation has met the needs of many of these people who wish to build houses in the vicinity of $50,000 to $80,000. And I understand that the record of these borrowers is exemplary." He continues by saying: "This category of people...are people who would make sacrifices to ensure that their payments are up to date. They are people from whom we hear daily about the need to have access to funds...".

Madam Speaker, if that is not inconsistent and hypocritical, then tell me what it is. One year ago he was saying that the country should not guarantee their loans because they could not be trusted; and Monday he says something else. If that is not inconsistency, tell me what it is.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I have to agree with you, that is why I asked you to make a point. I agree. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town, therefore, does not have a Point of Order.

Please continue, Honourable Minister.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

How can they be so inconsistent? It only takes about six months after a matter is raised in the House to raise a Motion. They change from one position when the Government brings it, to another position when they bring it back in a Motion. I wonder if that Member believes that the public cannot see through him?

Last year they were opposing the help Government was giving these people by guaranteeing their loans.

According to him, and his other two colleagues, we were going to have so many of these foreclosures because they would not pay their loans. Today he is saying the opposite. Why? Because it is politically expedient for him to do so. It is good politics for him to rile up the people and make them believe something else. But, you must be responsible, you must tell the truth - the Constitution demands that from you.

They do not want any scheme to succeed. They are not worried about poor people. You hear them talking about the Government not being concerned about poor people because we are rich today and we live in fancy houses. You know, they should really be ashamed of themselves. I have had my house since 1976. I would not have been a good parent if I could not have built on to that over the years for my children. I did it before I got into Executive Council. You know what I have to say in all honesty to this Honourable House? None of them should begrudge me of the clothes I wear, or where I stay, because I knew when I was in short pants and bare-footed, what it meant to be poor. That is why I am struggling for poor people. It might not be to their liking, but I am trying to get something for people that had nothing before. The Government is moving in this direction.

They are so taken up with trying to belittle the Gov ernment programme that they fail to recognise how ridiculous, how inconsistent they are. If I was as wishy-washy as those three Members, I would stay at home and count pigeons.

Let us look at another bit of inconsistency - and let me say further, that while they are accusing Government Members of living in big houses, and Members of Executive Council of living good, at least one of them was building or repairing his. It is good to do that. People recognise you as trying to do something good. Why criticise the Government and Executive Council Members and belittle them to that point? It is a downright disgrace for them to do that.

I want to continue with their inconsistencies. Let us look at another bit of inconsistency by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and, in fact, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town joined him in this suggestion. According to them, Madam Speaker, in their collective irresponsibility, we should put money into the Housing Development Corporation. This is their argument. Yet, they brought a Motion here last year - the same Motion I referred to awhile ago - trying to stop Government's housing scheme saying that the liability would financially affect the lives of the citizens of these Islands, using the same argument of foreclosure and defaults.

I want to ask them: Who is going to guarantee the money put into the Housing Development Corporation, as they are suggesting today? Who is it? Would it not be the Government? Certainly, it would be the Government. Who else would guarantee it, and who else has guaranteed the debentures?

As I said, they are shallow, and without substance.

They say one thing today, and another thing tomorrow.

Last year, in their Motion, what did they say? "AND WHEREAS the Government guarantee for the purpose stated will allow expenditure to be incurred which will financially affect the lives of citizens of the Cayman Islands" - a Motion moved by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, Mr. Kurt Tibbetts, and seconded by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, Mr. Gilbert McLean, and supported by their colleague, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. Totally inconsistent - one thing one minute, another thing the next. They do not have the people of this country at heart, the only thing they are interested in is tearing down this Government, so that they can walk away...

POINT OF ORDER

(False Imputation)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of Order, Honourable Member?

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, Erskine May page 381, Imputation of false or unavowed motives - about my tearing down the country and trying to deny the people of my country the things they deserve.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: That is what you are doing.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I have noted that which is laid out in Erskine May, and I will ask the Honourable Minister if he would refrain. I realise that there have been castigation and acrimonious statements made on both sides. I think that it is time now that we get down to the meat of the matter, if the Member is ready now to deal with the other points raised.

Please continue, Honourable Minister.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I sat here yesterday and again this morning and took my licks. I did not raise any Standing Orders, nor did anybody interrupt. It is time that they be answered. I crave the indulgence of this House to reply, and that is what I am doing - I am replying to the points they have made.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I agree that you have to reply, but I am just asking if you could refrain from any unnecessary expressions which do not add somewhat. I know what has been said on both sides, and I think everybody has been given a certain amount of leeway.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Hear, hear!

The Speaker: Could you now continue, Honourable Minister?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I repeat myself. It is shallow and without substance for them to have come here last year with a resolution saying that we should not do the Government guarantee; that it would financially affect the lives of the citizens of the Cayman Islands, and then come here this year and suggest that we should pour money into it. If that is not being a hypocrite, then I am not McKeeva Bush, and everybody knows (as big and ugly as I am) that that is who is talking here. Another serious misrepresentation of the facts, and it only shows that they do not do their homework. It shows that they get together, spread rumours and then come into the House and make these inferences.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town said that people could get a mortgage from the Housing Development Corporation for $80,000. There is no truth in that statement. None whatsoever. If he had taken the time to read the scheme that now stands at the Housing Development Corporation, instead of trying so hard to impress people with concocted information, he would see that the maximum loan available from the Housing Development Corporation is $60,000 - not $80,000. Why do they not tell the truth and act responsibly? Madam Speaker, what kind of webs we weave, when we practice to deceive... and that is what they have done: deception, nothing but misleading statements, and a lot of untruth.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town referred to some person who he said was a good customer - and I do not intend to bring anybody's personal business on the floor of this House. This person's problem is not money. The problem is that the person needed to put a second charge on the mortgage at the Housing Development Corporation and the regulations of the Housing Development Corporation do not allow it. I would tell that Member that these are some of the very same reasons why this Government is trying to reform the Housing Development Corporation.

I want to refer to another matter that he raised here about someone closing off information. Let me state to this Honourable House what my position is on Members getting information from any one of my departments. We have no problem with information being given out. But the problem is their using it correctly. I am not going to approve any information to go out from my office for them to turn it around, get up in this House and use it incorrectly.

When they get information - if they are such academics - they should not make the mistake (if it was a mistake) that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town made - trying to say that they were giving $80,000 loans. That is some of it, Madam Speaker. They are so confused that it is pitiful. I know their confused state - they talk about mine - no one ever heard McKeeva come to this House and say that the Government should give contraceptives to pregnant women, did they? The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman did, it is in the Hansard. So bright...

Despite efforts to down-play the operating costs of the Housing Development Corporation, there are a lot of important cost factors to consider - pensions, salaries, office costs, rental. Interest on the debentures is paid by the Corporation in April of each year. For 1992 and 1993, this amounted to approximately $200,000. These are guaranteed by Government in the event of the Housing Development Corporation not being able to pay, in which case Government will have to pay. They should try to be more responsible.

Madam Speaker, all sorts of scenarios have been given. Let me say that it is not Executive Council that asked for this to be done, it is the management, the Board's suggestion, to sell - and a good one it is. The Board of the Housing Development Corporation will not proceed with a sale of the portfolio unless it is able to achieve the same terms for its existing borrowers. For the Opposition Members to take the amount of time which they have taken in castigating Government and generally confusing this Bill, all they had to do was take the Bill and see what it is that they are doing.

If they are so smart, so educated, all they had to do was pick up the Bill, which says that the existing homeowners who have mortgages with the Housing Development Corporation will not see any difference in the terms and conditions of their mortgages. It goes on to say that their monthly payment will not be affected. I think the Elected Member for North Side first brought to the attention of the House what the Bill really contains. I really appreciated her debate, in fact all Members'. It is contained in the Bill, yet they confuse the issue; yet, they compound it by throwing so many other inferences into it. Their objective is for people to become so confused that they stay home and not seek information from the Housing Development Corporation - and that is happening.

I had a young lady call me last night. She said: "Mr. Bush, I do not know where to go because there has been so much said by the Opposition that it sounds like the whole thing is falling apart." I asked her if she had been to CIBC and she said, "No, but I have been listening to the radio, and I heard the Fourth Elected Member for George Town talking, and it sounded like everything was falling apart." That is what they are doing. It is time that they are more responsible if they want to help the people that they say they want to help.

The Board wants to assure itself that the result of the sale and the repayment of the debenture is a sensible, economic and financial proposition. The amendment carries no obligation for the Housing Development Corporation to sell its mortgage portfolio. The Bill does not say that they must sell, it only gives it the power to do so, if determined to be beneficial to the country.

Madam Speaker, another point made by them was how good this Housing Development Corporation has been in its years of operation. Contained in the tables that the Fourth Elected Member for George Town was using, contained in that very report in table 1 of the report ending last year, it shows that only a total of 121 loans have been approved by the Housing Development Corporation for the nine years - 1984 to 1993. I say if that was what this country needed, then it would have done much more for this country in terms of housing.

Despite the many endorsements given by the Opposition members to the Housing Development Corporation today, how can they explain this low approval number? How can they explain the number of people who have been to the Housing Development Corporation and could not get a mortgage? Money was there - a lot of money was there - they could not get it. And I am going to tell you soon why they could not get it.

I hear the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman grumbling again about the money not being there. Tell me why? In the amount of years that it existed under the previous Government - eight years (1984 to 1992) - why could it not give more to the public? It had money. In 1988 this country had $35 million in surplus. Your friend - the same Member whom you say I am trying to put down - was the Member for four years. Let me say that I was a member of the Housing Development Corporation and when I saw the inequities existing - the applications coming into the Board and getting turned down; when I knew that people should have gotten mortgages; when certain ethnic classes were turned down, or given, and the Caymanians were told to go out the door - I knew it was wrong. I knew the wrong people had it. I knew it could not function and was not functioning right. And let us not forget that when I complained to the public about it - what happened? They removed me as a member mid-way in my appointment.

Is it due to lack of funds, or is it that borrowers did not qualify? Is it that the requirements are too onerous, or that the amount of funds was too limited per borrower? Are these the reasons, or are there other reasons? I am here to tell this Honourable House today, that it was difficult for the low income people that they are talking about to get loans. I shed many a tear over it when I knew these people had sent in applications while I was a member of the Board. Thank God, I am the Minister. You might call me a dictator (or anything else you want to call me), but I am going to see that reform comes about with this issue.

When you look, by contrast, at the new guaranteed home mortgage scheme with Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, although those three Members... I see one has left the Chamber - usually when he cannot take the heat he runs... Those Members complain bitterly - saying all sorts of things have been said, all sorts of aspersions are cast on my integrity and my character about that housing scheme. I do not forget it. In this very same House, and outside today, there are some 35 applications pending to guarantee now. We are going to give the guarantee, and more is going to come.

This is not only people in the low to middle income bracket. Thank God, we are talking about people who are only making $1,300 per month in a hotel. Dishwashers can build a $42,000 house. I am not done with the issue yet, it has to go further if we are going to assist the people who really need housing. We will have to come here for another guarantee and so it must be. We were the ones who stood before the public and said that we are going to do something about this housing problem. And I hope and trust today, that the Members of this Honourable House will not weaken, will not listen to the three Opposition Members - those prophets of doom - and they will stand firm in their convictions that the poor people must get housing, and will support those guarantees when they come.

Do not talk about the new scheme doing something, not because they talk are they going to kill everything.

There is no good cause for the Opposition to suggest that people will not be able to borrow money to build suitable homes. The facts are that under the new guarantee scheme there is a generous provision of funds for mortgage borrowing. Additionally, the requirements are not onerous, nor are they cumbersome, but they are in line with industry standards with prudent safeguards.

The amount of loan which is available from that scheme can be as low as needed, and upwards to $125,000. A debt service ratio of 33% is for the best interest of the borrowers and the bank and the Government. I advise the potential borrowers not to become frustrated in their application process; I say to them that they should be patient and have the aspiration for a home which is in line with their ability to service that loan. That is all I am asking my people. That is all the Government is saying - we are with you in getting a home - but, please, build within your means.

What the Opposition should be doing, is assisting their constituents - the prospective homeowners - to overcome their obstacles, rather than aggravating their hopefulness, because this is all they are doing. When you look at the situation, it is appalling what those Members will do, what they have done in the run of 15 months.

If the Board members find a good buyer (and none of this has taken place or been finalised), if the Board sees a position where some of the banks will buy, they are safeguarding the present mortgage holders. But they intend to have discussions with the class "A" banks (or whichever ones come forward), to protect the mortgage holders and, if that happens, there will be a net surplus if the mortgages are sold at the same rate. I repeat for the sake of clarity, they will not be sold unless the same interest rates are given. If that happens, there will be a good surplus from this transaction and that can be applied to a new scheme for lower income Caymanians who wish to become homeowners. That will not nearly solve the problem, and that will only become necessary if the existing scheme - be it from CIBC Bank, or any other bank (we have had other banks come forward) - is not able to satisfy that sector of need.

As a companion for this scheme, Government is already considering (and has discussed with the Contractor's Association) the concept of new construction systems, whether it be prefab or pre-engineered, in order to achieve safe, suitable low-cost housing. That is the only way we are going to get it. We are not going to get it in the system that is now operating, it is too costly. What we need to address (and that is where we are headed) is to give people in the range of $200 or $300 per month mortgage payments - that group of people is who I am looking after now.

I heard on Monday that this is what we should have done first. We are addressing that. It is taking much longer because people are more content to keep their money in a safe bank account, rather than put it on some low cost housing for those with a very low income. But I am determined that this must happen, and it is going to happen - Almighty God is going to help this Government get past this hurdle also. It is going to happen, it will not be easy.

Much has been said about the good interest rates charged by the Housing Development Corporation. I wonder where they got their facts? When you look at what the Housing Development Corporation is now charging for an income of less than $25,000 - 9% interest; $25,000 to $30,000 - 10% interest; $30,000 to $40,000 - 11% interest. What are they saying, Madam Speaker? They say that the base rate will change. That is what the Guidelines and Regulations of the Housing Development Corporation say; they say it will change. All this, Madam Speaker, these figures that I have just given ($30,000 to $40,000 - 11% interest) this is for a maximum loan of $60,000 (in spite of what the First Elected Member for Bodden Town had to say) to purchase land, of which at least 50% must be already owned, as well as to build a house. So how in the world are they saying that this is a better scheme than the new Government scheme? They are confused.

I want to quote some things here from the Hansard to show you how confused they are, because I do not understand this. Maybe you can tell me later on. I am quoting the Fourth Elected Member for George Town: "To the best of my knowledge, the interest on these debentures can either be accrued or passed on at specific intervals. So, the debentures are not public to date. [Listen carefully.] Existing homeowners who have mortgages...Madam Speaker, I will not suggest (because I do not wish to be facetious) that certain problems will exist if and when this mortgage portfolio is sold, but I will ask certain questions which I think need to be clarified in order to show that any fears of that nature are unfounded." (Hansard 19 September 1994)

If anybody can make any sense out of that statement, tell me what it means because I cannot understand that. It must be some man from Mars who wrote that. I do not know what he is talking about. It shows his confused state of mind. That was the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

The $30,000 to $40,000 income, with 11% interest, is for a maximum of $60,000 - the maximum that the Housing Development Corporation loans. And this is where at least 50% of the land must be owned. The new guaranteed home mortgage scheme presently charges an interest rate of 10.75% up to a maximum loan of $120,000, for a maximum combined income of $60,000. So, you want to tell me today that they can stand in this House and say that the Housing Development Corporation is better than the new scheme? It is not!

As with the new scheme, the quantum of the loan granted to a borrower is dictated by his ability to repay; that is 33% debt service ratio. That is the new scheme, and that is what exists under the Housing Development Corporation. When you look at some of the situations in regard to repayment, it is ludicrous and down right dishonest for them to try to smear the new scheme by saying that it is worse than the Housing Development Corporation scheme.

A maximum loan of $60,000 under the Housing Development Corporation, approximately $600 for monthly repayment (I am using their same $60,000 for the Housing Development Corporation) for a combined income of $25,000. For the same $60,000, the new scheme is approximately $600 per month repayment, but the income only needs to be $22,000. Which one is better? Follow me closely, which one is better? When one looks at interest, for the same $60,000 for the income group of $30,000 - $644. It is still $600 with the new scheme, and they only need a maximum combined income of $25,000 to qualify there. When you look at the Housing Development Corporation, for the $33,000 to $40,000, it is $681 per month; $60,000, it is still $600 under the new scheme.

Madam Speaker, looking at the scheme, with an income bracket of $30,000 to $40,000 a borrower can get one up to $110,000 under the new scheme to buy a home. Under the Housing Development Corporation, all one can get is $60,000. So which scheme is better? They are shaking their heads. They should have done that when they were spitting forth all those untruths.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Minister care to take a suspension at this time?

Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.32 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.50 PM

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture continuing.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, a closer look at what level of mortgage borrowers can obtain under the new Government Home Mortgage Scheme, in comparison to the Housing Development Corporation Scheme, is very enlightening. Basically, if the borrower is qualified he can get a mortgage for much more under the new scheme than the Housing Development Corporation's scheme. Under the new scheme a borrower with an income of $1,800 per month can qualify for a loan of $60,000. Under the Housing Development Corporation's scheme a borrower needs $2,500 per month to get a loan for a maximum value of $60,000 at 10% interest. A borrower who is earning $40,000 per annum, or $3,000 per month combined income, can only obtain a loan for $60,000 at 11% from the Housing Development Corporation.

It is worthy to note that in both of these cases the borrowers under the new scheme can afford to borrow more based on a debt service ratio of 33%. The borrower earning $2,500 per month can afford a monthly mortgage payment of $825.00. The borrower earning $3,000 per month can afford to payment of $1,100 per month. Those are combined incomes. A monthly payment of $825 can service a mortgage slightly in excess of $80,000. A monthly payment of $1,100 can service a mortgage of approximately $110,000. Those are combined incomes. Yet, even though borrowers in the Housing Development Corporation's scheme are qualified to borrow more, they are only able to borrow $60,000.

So based on these facts, when we see the trend we are bound to see borrowers under the new scheme obtaining more funding because there is more funding available. And they will be borrowing up to the 33% debt service ratio as provided under the new scheme.

I would not be surprised, based on these facts, if many of the borrowers under the Housing Development Corporation's scheme proceed to refinance their indebtedness with Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and other banks under the new scheme. This is their choice, if they so desire. However, as I pointed out previously (but it bears repeating), if the mortgage portfolio of the Housing Development Corporation is sold to one or more Class A banks, the existing Housing Development Corporation borrowers can be assured that the terms of their loans will not be changed. That is what we have said in the Bill. So it is ludicrous and downright dishonest for Members to suggest otherwise when the Bill says one thing. Protection of the borrowers is guaranteed.

Madam Speaker, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town continues his scare tactics about foreclosures and defaults. Let me point out again that what has been said time and time again to the Member, and to his two other colleagues, by statements in the House, by newspapers reports, television reports - but this matter has been explained time and time again. Section 4(16) of the agreement between Government and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, dated 16th August, 1994, provides very adequate protection for the borrower in the event of default, if any.

Last year they said there would be many defaults; this year they are saying that there will not be any. We said last year that the default ratio in this country is very low. We continue, we will be consistent (as a Government should be) and say that it is very low, because Caymanians do not want to lose their homes - not one that has put something into it, or anyone who might get it under the housing scheme. People are too eager to have their own shelter. They are not going to just give it up, as was suggested by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. He is living in a dream world.

While not being unreasonably cumbersome for the banks, or creating further liability on the Government as the guarantor, this particular section enables the banks to demand payments from the guarantor under the guarantee only after the banks have exercised other options. The banks cannot foreclose on the property until six months have elapsed subsequent to the first notice of demand to the borrower. This notice is given three months after a default. Therefore, Madam Speaker, a total of nine months is allowed for the borrower to make good on his indebtedness before a foreclosure. This is very reasonable, despite the Oppositions' attempt to paint it otherwise. A whole nine months if you got into trouble with your loan, unless serious sickness has taken place, and this can be taken care of in this case. But if something normal just happens - where people get into a rut and cannot pay their mortgage for two or three months - they have nine months. Why, Madam Speaker, [should they] try to make people believe that the Government is doing something where financial institutions can just walk in and take their homes? I had to listen to those Members talking about it.

Madam Speaker, big talk came up about what is going to happen to the staff. I have never pulled punches, and I am not going to do it here today. We have six members of staff administering 121 mortgages. Out of those six members of staff, two are expatriates - and if they have to go home, so be it. I have nothing personal against them, but that is not yet determined. None of that has come up. When you consider pensions, salaries, office rental and other attendant costs, the Housing Development Corporation is costing too much, which can be done elsewhere at no cost to Government. Why should we continue with it in that light? I am saying that we must reform it and bring the costs down.

None of the staff there is going to be thrown to the wind. They are full civil servants and they will have to be taken care of accordingly. That is what would happen, if that came to that position, but the Housing Development Corporation is not shutting down completely - there will be staff needed to run the scheme.

After I met with the staff this past week, I told them to get their acts together because it is Caymanians, and citizens lawfully allowed here, that can be serviced under the Law that the Government is catering to. I am not going to have students put down, and pushed around not knowing where they are going and what they are doing, in total confusion and discouraged - our students, whom we want to get educated - and plenty of that took place in that area between Housing Development Corporation and AIDB (Agricultural Industrial Development Board), and it was our students that were given the run around and were pushed around.

I say that it must stop, and for those who do not like it, the door is there for them to go and complain to the Public Service Commission. But as the Minister responsible I am going to see that students are taken care of. I am going to see that people get houses under the two of them [corporations] that come under my administration.

If any Member of Government (the Elected Members or the Opposition) does not like it, he can just lump it. But while I have the responsibility, the people that we cater to, that we are responsible to, that we are trying to help (and you heard this morning how many people have been assisted by scholarships or loans) will be helped. This is in addition to the scholarships that the Government has given, in spite of so many things being said by the Opposition about the Government not doing anything for the young people. We have to take care of the students and we are going to continue to do it. Those in the administration of the Housing Development Corporation and the AIDB will have to get their acts together by being more humane; being more reasonable; and generally attend to the affairs of students and customers, or else the door is there for them to walk.

I am not going to be charged with the responsibility, and then take the licks for getting nothing done while these people sit down and warm their seats and give students a hard time. There is nothing more frustrating than to go overseas and have to worry about where your money is coming from, and where you are going to get it, even though your parents are paying for it. That is the kind of situation that obtains there. And I would not have brought it on the floor of this Honourable House, except for the fact that the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, and God knows who else, had not walked into that office and talked with them. They have only heard one side of it. The public must hear the other. There is good reason for reform.

Call me whatever you like. If you want to call me a buffoon, a dictator, or uncouth, whatever you want to call me, I have a responsibility. I had a platform which would cater to the youth of this country because we needed to lift them out of the depth of the mire that they were getting into.

POINT OF ORDER

(Privilege)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of Order, Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, as the Minister speaking has rightly said, he has brought the matter of the department, and some serious castigation on civil servants, who have no right of reply. I think that it is improper that he should continue, since they cannot reply in here similarly.

The Speaker: I am afraid that I do not see any reason to stop the Honourable Minister if he wishes to make these remarks. I do not think there is a Point of Order.

Would you continue Honourable Minister?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, thank you very much.

I am not castigating civil servants. Civil servants were castigated when the other Government was in. When his colleague (the Member for Health at the time) ran them out of his office. That is when they were castigated. I was in the House and stood up for them, and I stand up for them today. They would have been castigated and would not have been able to walk freely if the Constitution had been supported and put through - the same one the Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is now complaining about - and they would have been controlled. We said no! But I am not going to stand on the floor of this Honourable House and tell people that all is well within a Department when it is not.

I am not castigating anyone, I am saying that they must do their job, and that job is to act as humanly as possible; to treat them fairly and to let them generally feel welcome. If they cannot do that, then they must go, because it is our students that are going away to be educated, and if they cannot feel contented they will not be educated. Madam Speaker, I am saying that why I raised it was because one of them went to the Housing Development Corporation. I castigate no one unnecessarily, and I do not deride them. I am simply saying that they must do their job. That Point of Order is typical of what the Opposition does. So much untruth in what they spread. They are worse than old women.

Madam Speaker, the Bill before this Honourable House is seeking reform of the Housing Development Corporation - it is not closing it down. It is only seeking the ways and means to be able to sell off its mortgage portfolio and that will be done at a profit. Those people that already have mortgages do not have anything to worry about because the reform is going to be this: When they need to upgrade their homes they will be able to do it. Under the present situation that does not exist, unlike what was said by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, in his criticism about dealing with new people. I wonder if he had the complaint from the other side of it. So, one or two have said that they want to stay there. How about the dozens that came to us and said that something must be done. You are not hearing that side of it. Only their side exists. One or two people tell them one thing and they blow it up to be a mountain: making a mountain out of a molehill.

Madam Speaker, I do not think that what we are attempting here today is going to damage anybody. It will take some time for Honourable Members of this House to see the fruition of it. Just as it took a year to get passed that hump and the criticism... many nights I lay in my bed wondering what I had done wrong by trying to assist the people of this country, knowing full well what the people expected of me when they supported me throughout this country. I wondered what I had done wrong. All I did was try to get houses for them.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman said all sorts of things about the scheme while they were criticising the Government; while they were saying all manner of evil against the scheme, and about the people that were going to get the scheme [project]; and who were going to get what out of it, just as they have said today about who they wonder was going to buy the mortgage portfolio; making inference that somebody is getting something out of it.

Who is going to buy the mortgage portfolio? Who, they wondered, was going to get it? That was the question from the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. This is what they did last year with the scheme to derail it. And while they were doing that there were certain family members running to the Government trying to get us to agree to their housing scheme and trying to get us to give them our land for them to do a housing scheme.

They do not have the interest of this country at heart. I am here to tell them that because the attitude in George Town is that if a dollar is made somebody must make two out of it, and that one person must make it all. Do you think they have this country's interest at heart? Let them not fool anyone.

Madam Speaker, the Opposition Members should try and be more responsible and not resort to scare-tactics and doomsday prophecies, as it is a disservice to the public at large. It not only discourages and confuses the potential borrowers, but also can negatively impact on the source of mortgage funding and investments in this country. This reckless attitude can jeopardise the sale of the attractive mortgage portfolio, and will also scare off future investors and debenture holders in low income housing schemes.

Is this what they are trying to do? Is that what you want? Do you want people to run away and say we are not dealing with the country because too much is being said about this? Too much is being said about that? Too much is being said about crime and the posse, and everything else, when the truth is that things are getting better. Let us be realistic. Let us be honest. We have to live here, you know, we have nowhere else to go. This is our home. Run off the investors, scare them off and see what happens.

I doubt that any of the Opposition Members have more credibility than this present Government to bring them back when they run, because the Government that they supported ran them away. They could not get the mortgages; could not get the loans. This Government could do it.

Madam Speaker, I am proud today that the Government is on the track that it is. Yes, maybe we cannot see everybody at the same time; maybe there are people who dislike what is going on; maybe there are people who dislike me for one reason or another, or some other Member of Government. But let us be truthful; let us be careful with the country, this is where we live. We have to raise our families here. Some people do not care about that, it seems.

I can say no more, Madam Speaker. I would hope, as I have said, that Members will support this and the other initiatives when they are brought back here to this House for the lower income group. But I can say no more, I can do no more than what I have done, and that is to attempt to get proper housing in this country.

If there are any further questions at the Committee stage of this Bill, I am quite willing to have staff here to answer them. I thank those Honourable Members who spoke in support. I ask the Opposition to get off their grandstand; get off their soapboxes and stop this doomsday prophecy; get on to a good track, a clean track and support the Government in something that is worthwhile.

Thank you, very much.

The Speaker: The question before the House now is that a Bill entitled the Housing Development Corporation (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading. Those in favour please say Aye, those against No.

AYES AND NOES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could we have a division please?

The Speaker: You certainly may.
Madam Clerk.

Clerk: DIVISION NO. 12/94
The Housing Development Corporation (Amendment)
Bill, 1994 (Second Reading)

ABSENT: 1

Hon. Richard Coles

The Speaker: The result of the division is 14 Ayes, and three Noes. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: THE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

THE TAX CONCESSION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

The Speaker: Second Reading, the Tax Concession (Amendment) Bill, 1994. The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled a Bill for a Law to Amend the Tax Concession Law (Revised).

The Tax Concession Law (Revised) was enacted in 1963, and was intended to provide a guarantee to exempt companies that no future taxes imposed would be levied on these companies for a 30 year period. The perinent section of the existing Law, which is Part III section 6(1), reads as follows: "6(1) The Governor in Council may give an undertaking to any exempted company that makes application therefor that no law which is hereafter enacted in the Islands imposing any tax to be levied on profits or income or gains or appreciation shall apply to such exempted company or its operations."

Madam Speaker, as the financial market has grown in sophistication, so has its method of accruing, distributing and accounting for profits. Simultaneously, the tax authorities have become more innovative in the levying of taxes. The most pertinent to this amendment is the Withholding Tax. This amendment extends the guarantee to account for both of these changes to ensure that the original intention of the Law, the guarantee of all future taxes for the specified period, is provided for.

Section 2 (b) of the amending Bill therefore provides for the provision, as I detailed earlier, to be retroactively applied to all companies currently given the concession. Madam Speaker, this is a straightforward amendment and I commend this Bill to this Honourable House.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Tax Concession (Amendment) Bill, 1994 be given a Second Reading. The Motion is open for debate.

If there is no debate... the Honourable Third Official.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I would like to thank Honourable Members for their support of this Bill.

The Speaker: The Motion is that a Bill entitled the Tax Concession (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading. Those in favour please say Aye, those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED: THE TAX CONCESSIONS BILL, 1994 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

THE MENTAL HEALTH (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Clerk: The Mental Health (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Bill should be introduced by the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation, who is absent. This could probably be put down for the following sitting.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION - 4.25 PM Standing Order 10(2)

The Speaker: It is now 4.25. Would the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning wish to move the adjournment of the House?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I believe it is the wish of the House that we move the adjournment, so I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye, those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.25 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM THURSDAY, 22 SEPTEMBER 1994.

EDITED
22 SEPTEMBER, 1994
10.08 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Elected Member for North Side to say Prayers.

PRAYERS

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

Questions to Honourable Members and Ministers. Question No. 159, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 159

No. 159: Mr. Gilbert McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Communications and Works what is the process by which Government bulldozers can be engaged for work by the public.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture,

Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: The Government's bulldozer (CAT D-9) in the Sister Islands, can only be publicly used if no privately owned similar equipment is available for hire. Unavailability of any privately owned equipment is confirmed prior to rental of Government's equipment.

In Grand Cayman, Government owns three bulldozers (two CAT D6H and one CAT D-3). Only the bulldozer of the Department of Agriculture is engaged for work by the public.

Persons needing assistance to clear their land for agricultural purposes using Government's D6H bulldozers are required to complete an application form (request for Land Clearing Equipment) and submit it to the Department of Agriculture.

On receipt of the application, the officer assigned to the programme visits and inspects the premises in question and reports to the Chief Agricultural and Veterinary Officer on its suitability or unsuitability for the purpose intended. The Chief Agricultural and Veterinary Officer then either note approved or not approved on the application.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: In the case of the use of the Government's bulldozer for agricultural purposes are there any fees attached to this use?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Yes, there are fees attached to the use of the bulldozer. The fee for moving the bulldozer from district to district is charged to the individual using it and also the cost of fuel. This was done in an effort to try to assist the farmers and promote agriculture in the island.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Minister say if the use of the Agriculture Department's bulldozer is limited to only a certain amount of acreage per farmer. For example, if a farmer had 50 acres he could only have the use of it for, say, ten acres?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, the policy which is put in place allows each farmer 10 acres cleared at any one time.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is there any exception to that particular policy where, for example, a farmer might have property larger than 10 acres which really needs to be utilised and the use of the Agriculture Department's bulldozer would be ideal?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, prior to the policy (which I referred to earlier) coming into place, we did clear large areas of property for certain farmers. It was proven that those farmers with larger plots of land were having the services of the bulldozer while the farmers with smaller plots were more or less on hold. This was the reason why I thought of an acreage size of 10 acres.

However, if there is somebody who has a larger plot of property who makes a request to the Department of Agriculture, once it is checked out and it is found out to definitely be a farmer needing the assistance, no doubt we will give whatever assistance we can.

QUESTION NO. 160

No. 160: Mr. Gilbert McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Communications and Works what is the policy concerning Government Surveyors being allowed to perform work for private citizens.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Current policy is that Government's Land Surveyors only carry out surveys for Government on Grand Cayman, but provide a service to private citizens on Cayman Brac and Little Cayman up to a value of $1,750.00.

It is, however, intended that once revisions have been made to the Land Surveyors Law and Land Survey Regulations then Government's Surveyors will be able to carry out surveys for private citizens without restriction on value or location.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I think this reply from the Honourable Minister will be good news to a lot of people in this country. I would like to ask, if there is any idea as to when the revision and the new policy might come into effect?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Yes, we are hoping that by the end of the year, God's willing, it will be ready for action and we are hoping to increase the survey team by three more groups so that we should adequately be able to attend to the many problems which the poorer class of people have been experiencing over the last few years.

The Speaker: Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, in looking at the reply, is there any consideration given to the fact that there are private surveyors as well, and that this will be running a parallel and not creating any undue advantage or disadvantage to those persons who are doing surveys in the private sector?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: One of the complaints I have received many times since being in office is the fact that the private surveyors have set fees which are very high, and a lot of people are unable to pay for those. If they do pay what they cannot help paying, it means that it is costing them a lot of unnecessary spending and hardships which they could do without.

What we are trying to do is to strengthen our team and, of course, we will put our rates, as always, much lower than the private surveyors. So it is my hope that the private surveyors will see fit to work along with us, and perhaps in some way try to regulate themselves and lower their rates also.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. G. Haig Bodden: Madam Speaker, may I ask the Honourable Minister if any comparison has been done with any other country to find out how exorbitant the fees are here?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: To answer the question the Member has just asked: Yes, I have. I have checked several areas and I must say that our fees are a little higher.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Could the Honourable Minister say, then, in reviewing the Surveyors Law, if it would not be better to keep restrictions for a certain amount so that the public will not abuse the Government's Land Surveyors? In other words, so that they will not always turn to Government if it is cheaper, and then you might find Government having to hire more Surveyors and creating another problem.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: I do not think that there will be any abuse because it will have to be done in a similar way to what I explained earlier with regard to the use of the bulldozer. It would have to be proven to the Department that an individual who is actually asking for Government's support with surveyors is really the type of individual that is in dire need and really needs the assistance. In other words, it would not swamp the Government's surveyors with work if the private sector could also help.

Take the condominiums, for example, or some big developer who could afford to go into a couple of millions of dollars, then I do not see why we should swamp the Government surveyors with their work.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, as a follow up to what the last Elected Member has asked, would it be fair then to say that the Government would offer the service to those persons or sectors that can least afford it?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: That is exactly what I am saying. We would be catering to those persons who, in recent years, have suffered as a result of only having one sector to go to which was the private sector.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 161, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 161

No. 161: Mr. Gilbert McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Communications and Works: (a) how much Capital Works have been undertaken by Government from January 1994 to date, giving a breakdown by projects, location and estimated cost; (b) whether any other projects are planned for completion by the end of 1994 and, if so, what are they.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture,

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO 161 Standing Order 23(5)

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I would like, if possible, for this question to be deferred for a later date in the Session so that I could have the answer properly put together.

The Speaker: The question is that the answer to question No. 161 be deferred until a latter sitting during this Meeting. I shall put the question, those in favour please say Aye, those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The answer to the question has accordingly been deferred.

AGREED. ANSWER TO QUESTION NO. 161 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Item 3, Statements by Members of the Government. The first statement by the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

DISALLOWED SUPPLEMENTARY QUESTION ON QUESTION NO. 121

¹Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: During Question Time on 14th September, the Chair did not allow a supplementary question which was proposed by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

The question being answered was No. 121, dealing with any possible breach of civil service regulations by a senior officer. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman asked a supplementary question if there had been any request from certain Elected Members made to His Excellency the Governor, seeking to have this senior officer dismissed from his post.

I wish to confirm that His Excellency the Governor has denied receiving any such request. There has been no political representation made in connection with this matter.

The Speaker: The next statement is the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism Environment and Planning.

SCHEDULED VISIT TO WASHINGTON, DC, USA, RE- GARDING CUBAN REFUGEES

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I wish to thank you for allowing this additional statement to be read this morning. It is a statement regarding a delegation comprising a number of Members of the Executive Council: The Honourable Truman Bodden; Hon. McKeever Bush; Hon. John McLean; Hon. James Ryan; Mr. Haig Bodden and I are scheduled to visit Washington D.C., early next week to discuss the problems of Cuban migrants in the Cayman Islands with British and American officials.

An initial meeting will be held with the British Ambassador and Diplomats at the British Embassy who have been in constant touch with the United States Administration on behalf of the Cayman Islands. Talks will be held with the United States officials at the State Department, Immigration and Naturalization Service and other Government Departments dealing with this Cuban migrant situation. The delegation also plans to meet with concerned Congressmen and Senators.

SHORT QUESTIONS BY MEMBERS Standing Order 30(1) and (2)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, as provided under Standing Orders, could I ask one or two short questions of the Minister making the statement?

The Speaker: You may, under Standing Order 30 (1) and (2). The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Would the Honourable Minister say if prior to the departure of the delegation which he has named (which I think is a very progressive step in dealing with this matter), will all the Members of the Legislative Assembly have an opportunity of meeting with the delegation to express any concerns which we may have so that the delegation might be aware of the feelings of all Members?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, stepping back two or three paces, we have called for the Governor on more than one occasion to brief all Members of the Legislative Assembly on the Cuban situation. Certainly, any delegation going abroad to represent this country on this issue should take input from all Members of this House and that is the intention from the beginning.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable minister say if the delegation will be travelling with a specific set agenda as to persons with whom they will deal, and that they may present their views to the American Officials, for example, without having it done through a second party.

The Speaker: I think the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning outlined this, although there were no names given. But I think this was clearly stated in the statement; "British and American Officials also with concerned Congressmen and Senators." I do not know if he can add anything further to that.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I think at this time it would not be right, or fair, or accurate to say exactly whom we are going to be talking with. Arrangements are being put in place and, hopefully, before the delegation leaves the Cayman Islands, we will be in a position to say exactly whom we will be meeting with. I believe that it is the intention of this delegation to meet with the highest authority that we can get in the door to.

The Speaker: Proceeding to Private Members' Motions, Private Member's Motion No. 23/94. The Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 23/94

DECLARATION AND DEFINITION OF FACE OF THE BLUFF, CAYMAN BRAC, AS CROWN LAND

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 23/94, entitled Declaration and Definition of Face of the Bluff, Cayman Brac, as Crown Land which reads as follows:

"WHEREAS the Bluff is an outstanding geological feature of Cayman Brac and has had continuous significance to the people of Cayman Brac over generations with access to the Bluff being of most vital significance, particularly in times of hurricanes;

"BE IT RESOLVED THAT Government officials declare that the face of the Bluff, including the 'foothills' or 'keys,' is deemed to be included as Crown land forming the face of the Bluff, unless individual landowners can positively establish that those 'foothills' or 'keys' are cultivated or otherwise used productively by them as part of their land."

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I respectfully beg to Second the Motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 23/94 having been duly Moved and Seconded is now open for debate. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: On a Point of Order, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Official Member for Legal Administration.

POINT OF ORDER
(Sub judice)

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Madam Speaker, I wish to make a Point of Order under Standing Order 35(1), and bring to your attention the fact that there is a Civil case proceeding at the present time in the Grand Court, which appears to involve a dispute over ownership of certain sections of the Bluff in Cayman Brac.

I am informed that it is not a case that involves Government, I should hasten to add, it is a private case. But I understand that it has reached the stage where this matter has been set down for a hearing in the Grand Court. I make no comments on it other than to draw it to your attention, Madam Speaker, to bear in mind, of course, the sub judice rule.

That is all I have to say, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: I would like to ask the Honourable Second Official Member if he could give me a date which has been set for the hearing.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: A date has not yet been allocated, but it has been set down. In other words, an application has gone into the Court for them to set a date. To my knowledge, they have not yet set a date but the application I am told went to the Court on 24th June, 1994.

The normal procedure is that the Grand Court judge would set the matter down as a private hearing and then the Court's Clerk would in due course allocate the date. I am not aware of whether or not a date has been allocated.

The Speaker: Thank you.

I realised that this question had come up, and on instruction the Deputy Clerk got in touch with the Court's Office last week and she was told that a summons for an injunction had been made for 29th September, 1994, and that there was a possibility that the case would not be heard until 1995.

So, in those circumstances, I cannot see any objection (if no references are going to be made to a court case or anything) why presentation could not be made by the Mover and the Seconder. Of course, it is all subjected to whether or not Members wish it passed by putting it to a vote.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, would you proceed?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would just like to say at the onset that the request that is being made in the resolve section of this Motion has nothing to do with any specific case. It refers to the face of the Bluff in Cayman Brac, which happens to be miles of land.

Madam Speaker, this Motion could be said to be a companion motion to a Motion which I moved in this Honourable House back on 20th June, 1991. That Motion was Private Member's Motion No. 12/91, and it dealt with the reestablishment of Bluff Roads.

The situation with the Bluff in Cayman Brac is that it is the only such land mass in the Cayman Islands, and its unique features affect only the Island of Cayman Brac. The Bluff, being what it is, physically presents certain difficulties or problems with access. The Motion I referred to a moment ago was one which attempted to create, once and for all times, access to the Bluff by the people of Cayman Brac. There has always been access to the Bluff, and the original access was confined to only two roads which went along the face of the Bluff, where people and/or cattle walked to access the top of the Bluff.

Fortunately, in these times (and for some years now) there has been created, and constructed, a road which runs more or less through the centre of the Bluff east and west, and over the Bluff, north and south. Other than these roads, the only access to the Bluff in Cayman Brac is through roads that go up the face of the Bluff. Some of these Bluff roads are quite well known, as they are considered major Bluff roads. Some were not it is my understanding. Branching off from some of the major Bluff roads were also other less travelled roads that provided access to individuals' properties.

Unfortunately, when the Cadastral Survey was carried out many years ago, the surveyors did not, for whatever reason, put on the Survey Maps these roads which traversed the Bluff in many instances. In some instances there were some roads put down and some of them were only partially shown. Most of the major Bluff roads, as I am made to understand run north and south right across the face of the Bluff. For example, there is one road called Charlotte's Bluff Road, which is partially shown on the [Survey Map] of the Bluff. So, there has been since the time of the Cadastral Survey (which is now the official record), a situation that truly does cut off persons from access to their properties because no access roads are shown. For persons who have property along the road which runs centrally through the Bluff (east, west, north, and south) life is made easy for them; there is no problem in accessing those. But behind those proprieties, in many instances hundreds, perhaps a few thousand, parcels of land—which could be accessed if people walked the old original road—do not appear on the Survey Maps.

The face of the Bluff bears the greatest significance in that in all normal circumstances where the roads on top of the Bluff do not suffice, the face of the Bluff would be the passage over which persons would travel to reach the top. Because of this, I am reliably told that during the Cadastral Survey the Government treated the face of the Bluff as Crown Land. That made it possible for all people on that Island (Cayman Brac) and persons who may purchase land from the people of Cayman Brac to have an unrestricted access to reach their land on top.

Madam Speaker, I might add at this point that this Motion is not asking Government to get into any vast expenses, but simply by written word declare and define the face of the Bluff. Perhaps I can enlighten the House more clearly from the official records of the Development Plan, 1977. I read from the first page: "These documents may be known as the Development Plan 1997 and supersede and replace all previous development plans in- cluding the proposed Development Plan for the Cayman Islands 1975 and all Appendices and Annexures."

And over on the inner side of the front page is an inserted statement which reads: "The Planning Statement for the Cayman Islands, 1997, together with its Appendices and accompanying map was approved by Government Motion No. 3 by the Legislative Assembly on the 28th day of July, 1977 [signed] Sybil McLaughlin, Clerk of the Legislative Assembly."

Madam Speaker, I am therefore referring to an official document that has been in effect for almost 17 years.

I would like to turn to the page, which deals with Appendix I, the Development Plan 1977. It is headed "Guidelines for Development Control in Cayman Brac." I would like to read a few excerpts from it: "3. The following proposals and considerations are submitted by the Development Control Board in consultation with members of the public of the two islands for incorporation in this Statement. [being the 1977 statement I have just referred to] (b) Any person's existing rights of property must not be taken away through zoning or other regulations."

I understand that to include the existing rights of persons to travel freely over the face of the Bluff, as it has been for generations (and as was recognised during the Cadastral Survey), this should remain and not be restricted by any one or two or three individual persons claiming the face of the Bluff.

Madam Speaker, this document speaks specifically of the Bluff. In subsection (d) of section 3, I read: "(d) The following GUIDELINES should be used in assessing any proposal on the Bluff: (i) It is recommended that wherever practical agricultural land (locally known as moldy land) will be retained for present and future use for pasture of horticultural purposes. (ii) Adequate road access through the whole length of the Bluff should be provided whether for agricultural or residential purposes..."

It refers to a survey which was then in place, or was made by the Public Works Department, which I think has been at least partially carried out by the establishment of the roads on top of the Bluff. It reads: "A survey of such a road was prepared by the P.W.D. and should be reexamined immediately for adoption wherever it is practical to do so. It is desirable that rights of way should be granted without charge to permit development on either side of the road whether for public or private purposes."

Madam Speaker, this Motion said in the recital that the Bluff is an outstanding geological feature of Cayman Brac, and has had significance to the people of Cayman Brac.

Sub subsection (iii) says: "It is recommended, that the Bluff is a unique feature of Cayman Brac and an important attraction to visitors. Every effort should therefore be made to retain the unspoilt visual aspect of the cliff face of the Bluff." In terms of access, this document made a recommendation which is: "(iv) It is recommended, that wherever possible that sufficient access be provided at the top of the Bluff to permit the public to enjoy the scenic views along the Bluff edge." And its importance is expressed in the paragraph where it says: "(v) The people of Cayman Brac believe that the Bluff is needed for residential use in view of the potential danger of hurricanes on the low lying land and the limited amount of such lowland available for residential and other development purposes." Madam Speaker, I think that is much more concise and perhaps clearer than I might attempt to do myself.

I would like now to refer to subsection (r) of section 3 which reads: "Careful consideration should be given to preserving the detached rocks known as "cays" for their scenic and landscape value when planning development anywhere in the Brac; (s) should similarly be taken to identify, protect, preserve, explore and evaluate the valuable caves on the Brac which are of importance for their scientific and tourist interest." Madam Speaker, the caves in Cayman Brac are just about all located on the face of the Bluff. If we could picture the floor of this Honourable House as being the lowland, say, under Peter's Cave—which is one of the largest caves in Cayman Brac and is used every time there is a hurricane and is one which the people and the Public Works Department also maintain to some extent by sanding the floor of the cave, etcetera, for persons to be sheltered in time of hurricane—if someone owning the lowland claims to own the face of the Bluff (which would prohibit persons walking on that road to reach that cave), it goes without saying what effect that would have. The face of the Bluff, I would liken to the sheer slate walls of this Honourable Chamber, they are as sheer as these walls. In some places, I am told they rise to 180 feet in height.

I would liken the "keys" to which this Motion refers, to the metal chairs which sit against the walls of this Honourable Chamber— against, attached to— and for the purposes of this Motion would draw a clear example of what the Motion refers to.

This Motion is asking the Government, once and for all, to simply declare what has been the case in practice— that the sheer face of the Bluff in Cayman Brac is Crown land— and the "keys" (like the chairs here) which are virtually attached to it, are part of that Bluff face; unless any landowner on the lowland can prove that they cultivated or otherwise used productively these huge boulders (large rocks) as part of their land.

Madam Speaker, I do not think that there would be too many people who could really lay such a claim. For while these chairs are maybe 18 inches in height, some of these pieces of rocks that have broken off from the face of the Bluff and have fallen to the ground, are huge and jagged and rise anywhere from two feet to 15, 16 or 18 feet into the sky next and are attached to the sheer face of the Bluff.

Madam Speaker, there are some huge boulders that broke off from the face of the Bluff whenever there was an eruption underneath the sea (I do not know how many thousand years ago that created the Bluff) 50 feet or, maybe, 100 feet, in some instances— away from the face of the Bluff. This Motion does not refer to those keys, for they are also called "keys." All around those boulders and pieces of rocks is flat land and people cultivate around them. This Motion does not refer to any such keys or boulders.

If anyone gets a map of Cayman Brac and looks at the Bluff on that map, they will see that for just about every foot of the Bluff, where these huge keys and boulders exist, there is a line running down along the Bluff, east to west. That strip of land is shown as Crown land, as it logically should be. Ninety-nine point nine (99.9%) percent of the lowland on both sides of the Bluff in Cayman Brac is shown on the map as going to the foot of those keys. No one in his good sense would try to scale up those 15 or 18 feet of rocks to get on top of those jagged rocks, or would attempt to defy gravity to walk horizontally up the face of the Bluff.

This Motion is simply asking that Government declare the face of the Bluff as being Crown land, thus ensuring access indefinitely to the people of Cayman Brac as has been the practice. Anyone who might purchase land from the people of the Brac would want to know that there is some access. Because of the situation with the Bluff road not being placed on the map, the majority of the landowners there do not officially have access.

The face of the Bluff should be defined. When I say defined, again I turn to the Development Plan, 1977. It has various words in it such as "duplex," and the word duplex is defined. It says it means two dwelling units; one above the other or side by side having a party wall or being on one lot.

It defines "heavy industry" to mean any industry other than light or cottage industries. It even defines the word "law" to mean the Development and Planning Law. So all this Motion is saying to the Government is would it please declare officially (what has been the case and the concept and practice) that the face of the Bluff be Crown land and define "face of the Bluff"?

The definition which is recommended is that the face of the Bluff, including the "foothills" or "keys" I have previously explained be deemed to be included as Crown land forming the face of the Bluff. And there is a proviso here— unless landowners on the lowland which the Plan has said is in great scarcity, therefore the need for the Bluff can positively establish that the "foothills" or "keys" are cultivated, or otherwise used productively, by the person on the lowland making the claim.

Madam Speaker, that is the case for this Motion, and I leave it now to the House to decide. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I rise to speak to Private Member's Motion No. 23/94. There is very little that can be said to this Motion at this time.

Madam Speaker, it is my understanding from the records that adjudication was carried out by the Cadastral Survey. All plans were exhibited for a period of two months for public scrutiny and objections. The records revealed that there were no objections filed by anyone, therefore the Adjudication Records were completed and closed. It is my further understanding that there is only one parcel that is presently causing a problem and it is between two landowners on Cayman Brac. It is a private landholding and the two individuals have chosen to take it before the Courts for a decision.

Madam Speaker, therefore, I believe it would be improper for me, or for the Government, to stand in this Chamber and go into this matter in depth. I would also like to say that on this basis, the Government finds it hard to say more on it at this time, and we will, no doubt, not support the Motion.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Madam Speaker, I rise to support Private Member's Motion No. 23/94, entitled Declaration and Definition of Face of the Bluff, Cayman Brac, as Crown Land.

Madam Speaker, I have spent most of my life in Cayman Brac. From my earliest recollection, I always knew the face of the Bluff to be considered Crown land. Further to what the Honourable Minister replying for Government has said, I was there when the Cadastral Survey put the parcels on display, and there were no claims to the face of the Bluff as it was accepted as being Crown property. Therefore, it bears out what I am saying here today. I understood, and I am sure generations before me understood, that that was the face of the Bluff.

Later in my career, serving as Chairman of the Development Control Board, I recognised that; and also as a Member of the Central Planning Authority, I also recognised that. As Chairman of the Development Control Board, I had applications for building at the extreme end of the Island to leave buildings over the edge of the Bluff, and we did not have the authority to extend this privilege as the face of the Bluff was Crown property, and not owned by the persons making the application for development.

Therefore, I do not think there is a question as to the legitimate ownership of the face of the Bluff. I think that we have all tried to preserve this, because in the early days prior to the Government building a Hurricane Shelter in the 1980s, most of the less fortunate people of Cayman Brac (and, indeed, most of the people of Cayman Brac) went to caves during inclement weather and when hurricanes were approaching, as they were felt to be the safest areas since most of them are at a high elevation. On a small island like Cayman Brac we fear the tidal waves, one of which swept the island in 1932. Being Crown property everyone has a right to go into the caves.

Some families have protected and improved the condition in certain caves, and some have a sort of priority to them. But no one has a right to refuse anyone entry since the cave, being on the face of the Bluff, is owned by the Crown—it is Crown property.

Madam Speaker, therefore, with what I have said, I feel that this Motion is only echoing what has been known as a fact, and which was borne out by the Cadastral Survey when the people in Cayman Brac valued their land. And I assure you, any one of us who would have just reason and right to claim the face of the Bluff, certainly would have filed a claim for it.

So, with these words, I support the Motion.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I do not know a lot about Cayman Brac, but by listening to the debate, I cannot support Private Member's Motion No. 23/94. In presenting this, the Mover left a lot of unanswered questions. I would like to ask the Mover to answer some of these questions that I would like to bring out here.

First of all, the number of lots was not mentioned. It says that there are several owners, but no number of lots was brought out. Secondly, how does the Mover propose that Government obtain the keys and foothills? Is this by acquisition, or does the Crown just declare and take over this land; or is there any payment of money involved in doing this?

He read from the Development Plan 1977, that the Public Works Department was to complete a survey. Has this survey been completed? If the survey has not been completed, has there been any representation made to the Public Works Department to complete it?

If I remember correctly, on travelling the road on the Bluff, I believe that this road runs north and south. I also believe that there is one road going to the east, and the Honourable Minister has mentioned that he is only aware of two landowners that are locked away. All Members of this House received a letter from a certain individual in Cayman Brac. Upon receiving this letter, I made a few telephone calls to individuals in Cayman Brac. They also supported the letter. Therefore, with these uncertainties, and with what the Honourable Minister has stated, I cannot support this Motion.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. G. Haig Bodden: Madam Speaker, I have a suggestion that I would like to put forward on this Motion: It is that in a short time from now we will be reviewing the Development Plan and perhaps that will be the ideal time to settle, once and for all, the questions concerning the face of the Bluff. I say this because the Development Plan, 1977, recognised the significance of the Bluff in Cayman Brac.

The Members of the House at the time made certain that it was mentioned in the Plan. In fact, the Development Plan was the most controversial piece of legislation that I ever put through this House in the years that I spent on Executive Council. But we were not able to treat the Bluff in Cayman Brac with the fullness that we should have, in that there had been strong objections in Cayman Brac to the Development Plan on a whole. Of course, they were right to stand against the previous proposal, that is, the Development Plan, 1975.

Despite the fact that the new Government in 1977 had given the assurance that they were discarding the 1975 Plan and putting forward a reasonable plan for the development of the Islands, the people in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman still held strong views against such a Plan. The result that was realised was that the Members, as usual, paid strict attention to the wishes of the public. All matters pertaining to Little Cayman and Cayman Brac were dealt with in a very delicate fashion. So, as far back as 1977, the Legislative Assembly was aware that cognisance should have been taken of the face of the Bluff, as indicated from the statement read in the Plan. But their hands were tied in that the will of the people of the Sister Islands did not permit the Members of the Assembly the freeness that they needed to settle the question.

I would urge the House to postpone this Motion until such time as the public in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman can have an opportunity to review the Development Plan for the Islands. That would be a good time to make whatever suggestions they have with regard to the ownership of the land, because the Development Plan itself is worthless without the ancillary legislation that will go with it— the Planning Law, any changes in the Adjudication Law, and all other matters surrounding the use of land.

I do not think we should hastily move now to settle a matter which has existed for hundreds of years without, as the Member pointed out in his own debate, a proper definition in the Plan; for the other ominous reasons which we know about, such as the case which is pending, and probably which will be settled long before we do anything about this. So I urge the Legislative Assembly not to take any action on this Motion at this time, although I believe fully that it is a matter which requires attention.

I, therefore, will have to cast my vote against this Motion. But, if I am here at the proper time in the future, I will definitely be committed to looking at this matter again.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The Honourable Minister who spoke earlier, and under whose Ministry land falls, specifically stated that a procedure had been set out under the Land Adjudication Law. That Law was to have settled all disputes relating to land and, in effect, all land in the Island was put into litigation and was litigated on. Having gone through that process, it is not just simply a matter of this Legislature passing a resolution to turn private land into Crown land.

As I understand it— and supporting what the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac said— just about all of the sheer wall of the Bluff is Crown land, and that was at the adjudication stage. Where the problem seems to come in is over Bluff land that is not sheer, but which has a gradient going up to the Bluff. Apparently, some of that has been adjudicated as being private property— not very much of it, I understand, but some has. So, the fact that the Land Adjudication Law has dealt with and/or there has been a satisfaction of the process under that 1971 Law, that effectively deals with ownership of all property.

The Mover of the Motion, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, dealt extensively with the Development and Planning Law. But this does not deal with ownership of property, it deals with the use that property can be put to. While what he read would support, in many areas, parts of his argument, one cannot effectively take private property and turn it into public property under the Development Plan, nor can one take...

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

POINT OF ORDER
(Misrepresentation)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, Erskine May at page 381, "Misrepresentation of a Member's Speech." He is misinforming the House. I made no statement whatsoever about taking private land and turning it into Crown land.

The Speaker: Minister for Education, can you explain please, before I make a ruling on the point of order?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker. If you look at the Motion itself, and his argument as I understand it is that it says: "...THAT Government officially declare that the face of the Bluff, including the 'foothills' or 'keys,' is deemed to be included as Crown land forming the face of the Bluff..." That is now partly private land, and the Motion is seeking to change private land (and this is apparently what the dispute is about) into Crown land. Unless I am reading his Motion different—if all of this land is Crown land—there is no need for him to bring the Motion.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I am afraid that this is getting to be very misleading in all respects. I think that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman has a point of order. One needs to be careful in their representation about what another Member has said. I cannot really accept the argument, and he has a point that there is a slight bit of misrepresentation.

Would you continue, Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, let me read this resolution because...

The Speaker: Honourable Minister...

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I accept your ruling... I am not going on that argument at all, I will only deal with the resolution.

The Speaker: Please. Thank you.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The resolution says: "BE IT RESOLVED THAT Government officially declare that the face of the Bluff, including the 'foothills' or 'keys,' is deemed to be included as Crown land forming the face of the Bluff, unless individual landowners can positively establish that those 'foothills' or 'keys' are cultivated or otherwise used productively by them as part of their land."

My understanding of this is that where there is property vested in individual landowners, it be declared to be included as Crown land. If the Motion does not mean that, then it need not be here—because if all of the foothills and keys are not in the Crown, then it must be in private individuals. Therefore, the only way that one can change land that is owned by individuals (owned privately) into Crown land, is to go under the Land Acquisition Law, which I am going to go on to. It has nothing to do with the question of cultivating or otherwise using the land productively. That does not, as such, give ownership to property.

As I understand this Motion, Madam Speaker, we are saying take away private individuals' land and give it to the Crown. I am saying that is impossible. I am dealing with the Motion. I am saying nothing to what the Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman has said, and I am making that very clear. I am now dealing only with the Motion, what he has said matters not to me. This Motion is basically cutting across one of the most fundamental rights that exist in any country, and that fundamental right is protected under our Land Acquisition Law.

I would just like to read what that Law says: "Whenever it appears to the Governor that land in any locality is likely to be needed for any public purpose, a notification to that effect shall be presented and the Governor shall cause copies of such notification to be exhibited at suitable places and central locality."

That is the only Law here by which one can take privately owned land—owned by individuals—from them, and declare it to be Crown land. There is no other procedure. The Development Plan and the Planning Regulations do not deal with ownership of land. Therefore, I am saying that the Private Member's Motion before this Honourable House is misconceived because under this the basic fundamental rights that one has is that when one owns property, the Crown just cannot take it away from them. If it does, it has to go under the Land Acquisition Law.

More than that, this could not apply in these instances because that does not then turn the land, as such, into Crown land. A process has to be gone through. And individual owners have to be paid for it. But the purpose of it does not have to be to help one individual owner get a right-of-way, or get an access over the land—it has to be for public purpose. This is the difference between the law in this country and, perhaps, the law in the United States—where one can just condemn property, and do so without proving what is set out in section 3 of our Land Acquisition Law. So, there can be no doubt.

I think two very important questions were posed by the Honourable Third Elected Member for George Town, when she asked the question about the Motion and its referring to individual landowners. Who are they? And, secondly, how is this acquisition to be dealt with? Because, surely, it cannot be . . . and it is not, indeed, with the law of this land, or the law of England, or the Commonwealth countries that have remained under the English Common Law that one can just take land that is in the name of individual owners as private land, and make it Crown land. That is what happens in a Communist Country.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, I am going to allow the Minister to finish his debate and at the winding up you will have every opportunity to present your views, and reply to expressions he will make.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, may I speak on a point of order?

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order? And it will have to be a very good valid point of order please.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, the point of order is misrepresentation of what is in this Motion. This Motion says nothing about taking people's land. It is asking for a declaration and a definition.

The Speaker: Honourable Second Elected Member, I am not allowing that point of order, it has already been raised. You will have every right in your reply of explaining the opposite of what the Minister is now doing. He has every right to present his view, and you will also have your opportunity.

Please continue, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

What I am saying here— despite whatever sympathy this Honourable House may have with that individual landowner (whichever of the two, or whomever is claiming these keys or foothills)— is that it is impossible for this Honourable House to just pass a resolution deeming private land to be Crown land. It matters not whether it is cultivated, used productively, or anything else that is stated in here. This is an impossibility of this House, under this Motion, to achieve what is being set out.

The reasons why we cannot do it are very important. If this Honourable House could just suddenly deem the piece of land adjoining some other Government land to be included in it; or they could get around it by amending a definition to include it and take away private property and put it into Government's hands, that cannot be correct. If this is to come about, then the only way it can be achieved is either through litigation in court, in which a person proves that they own the property (and there are sections under the Land Adjudication Law that can be used)— and I do not want to get into the civil side— but I am saying that there is a civil process that can be gone through between owners.

There is also a civil process that can be gone through between a private landowner and the Government, and that is a different matter. If the Court finds evidence to substantiate ownership, then, naturally, they can make a declaration of ownership. And this is the way people go.

Quite frankly, this Motion as it stands would be usurping the powers of the Court in this country and, by all means, it would be going clearly against the Land Acquisition Law— which has a certain process when Government acquires or deems land to be Crown land. The main principle is that there has to be compensation paid— but it must be for a public purpose. One just cannot take the law and use it for purposes for a right-of-way to get over a piece of land up to the Bluff, or wherever.

So, whatever sympathy may be there, what I am really saying is that this declaration is impossible in law. To be frank, hopefully the day will never come when this Legislature will start taking privately owned land and deeming it to be Government's without the proper process— a Court hearing under the Land Acquisition Law, with a right to appeal and all of this. The sections set up compensation and how that is dealt with and how it must be paid and that sort of thing.

What I will say is that in the previous eight years when I was in Government, we never (except on one occasion) used the Land Acquisition Law, and up to this point (thank the Lord) we have not had to use it. I am not saying that it may not have to be used, because if something is needed for public purpose and a person is not prepared to negotiate reasonably, then, naturally, it will be used. But it was used extensively by the last Government. In fact, most of the time they did not even bother negotiating, they just kept taking people's land, and that trend is wrong. The Land Acquisition Law should be used very sparingly, and then only for a very good public purpose.

In winding up, I support the Minister for Agriculture and Lands who dealt with this land matter. I believe that the Motion is impossible— I know it is impossible, in light of the Law— to be passed. It can achieve nothing and, therefore, what I feel is the proper position is for this to be left for the Court to deal with through the civil process— whether that is against the Government or between individuals. Therefore, on that basis, I cannot support the Motion.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.42 AM

PROCEEDING RESUMED AT 12.57 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

I would ask the Honourable Minister for Tourism, I think we had a brief discussion, and I would ask him to tell the House what really happened since we suspended proceedings for 15 minutes.

EXPLANATION CALLED FOR BY THE SPEAKER

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, we are very grateful to you for allowing us to have a discussion with all the Members so that we could talk to each Elected Member of this Honourable House on the delegation that proposes to go to Washington, D.C. I found the discussion helpful and I believe as we said when we read the statement that particularly all Elected Members of the House would have input into what the delegation would deal with.

I do not believe that it is necessary to go into any details, Madam Speaker, but basically to say how thankful we are to you for allowing us the time for discussion.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I think it is my duty to say that I knew nothing of what was happening. I had suspended the proceedings for 15 minutes, and I did not have the pleasure of being notified by any Honourable Minister or other Member about what was happening.

While I appreciate the urgency of certain matters, I think that the House is due a certain amount of respect in these matters. If I had been notified it would have been a horse of a different colour, and perhaps Honourable Members will see to it that this does not happen again. Thank you, very much.

Proceedings will be suspended until 2.15 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.00 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.18 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Debate continues, Private Member's Motion No. 23/94. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, when I was asked to second this Motion, I knew nothing about any civil case in court. So my support for this Motion has no bearing on any such case. Let me also quickly state that it has been my understanding, that while no individual made any claims to the face of the Bluff during the process of the Cadastral Survey, that the Bluff itself, although it is basically understood and accepted that it is Crown property, has not been legally done. While my understanding might not be correct, I have been made to understand that the face of the Bluff is vested in the Crown. Standing here I cannot, by any proof, say yea or nay; I have to go on my understanding at this point in time.

Madam Speaker, I know the manner in which many of the trails that have been used for generations by the people on the Brac have been used and by whom. One of the first things that came to mind when I was told about the situation was the fact that generation after generation of Cayman Bracers have been courteous to each other with regards to passage through property; use of roads going up onto the Bluff, or whatever, whether to till the soil, attend to cows or to go across to the other side for fishing. While Cayman Brac has not fully become like Grand Cayman, the fact is, there are foreigners who will purchase property, and who have purchased property. I have held a great fear that where properties were passed on from generation to generation in olden times— that not being the case now— some of these properties go straight on to the Bluff, and other persons are purchasing them. I can see problems down the line with individuals not wanting other people to cross their property to use these roads. I held the view that if the face of the Bluff is vested with the Crown it could eliminate such problem.

I heard other views expressed, and I have also gathered the impression that some people might hold a view that this Motion stems from a case that may be in Court. I can only say that to the best of my knowledge, this was (and still is) not the case. The First and Second Elected Members for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman have held a view that I support.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: If there is no other debate, I would ask the Mover if he wishes to exercise his right of reply.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, thank you.

This Motion which I have brought before this Cayman Islands Legislative Assembly was a Motion asking the Government to take certain action which is right and necessary for the people of Cayman Brac, whom I represent. It is not a Motion that asks for the Government to spend lots of money, or that they could say there were no funds provided for it; it is a Motion that was absolutely straightforward.

For several days, I have been sniffing in the wind and there were certain Members of the Government and, indeed those associated therewith, that had intentions of perverting this clear and straightforward Motion as has been done this morning. I do not intend to allow that perversion to go unexplained or unchallenged, and I am not the least bit surprised that this Motion is not being accepted.

I am aware that with all of the hot air and (as it was described yesterday by my colleague, the Fourth Elected Member for George Town) with all the "buffoonery" that goes on in here, I in particular face the greatest challenge of having any motion passed— simply because I am the Mover of the motion.

I accept the fact that the Government is quite incapable of accepting what is clearly, as in this case, a straightforward motion, and one that would help the people of Cayman Brac. This Government has sworn, Madam Speaker, to do whatever it possibly can against the best interests of the two Islands, for which I am one of the representatives. This was stated, from way back on the 23rd of October, 1992, by the person who is now the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation, when he attempted in his usual fashion to order the people of Cayman Brac to vote for certain people he felt they should vote for. And in his usual fashion, he told them (and I quote from an article of previous times), "Please remember that without a team behind your candidates, they are not going to be able to achieve anything. They can sit on that Backbench as a lone voice and cry for four years but, they are not going to get anywhere" (The New Caymanian).

So he and his colleagues are carrying out that threat. But, by this time that Member should understand that he has not stopped this lone voice from crying. And although he might believe otherwise, there are a lot of people who are listening to that voice, who have made certain decisions with regards to himself and his colleagues who presently run this Government.

Madam Speaker, how this Motion ever became a motion asking the Government to take away peoples' private properties could only be found in the dark recesses of the mind of the Minister for Education and Aviation. In the 1992 Election, he was part of a group that named itself— and he named himself— "dependability." As surely as I am alive, I could depend on the fact that he would have twisted, distorted, and perverted this Motion the way that he did.

I would like to quote what he said at one point, from the transcript. I quote: "My understanding of this [speaking of the motion] is that where there is property vested in individual landowners that it be declared to be included as Crown land." Madam Speaker, not even the most mentally retarded within this country could possibly believe this Motion to be asking for that. Not even the worst-off mentally lame in this country could believe that.

In fact, this Motion could never have made it to the floor, I am sure; for the Presiding Officer— the Speaker who allows motions— would have stricken such a Motion and, indeed, would have made me (the Mover), and the Seconder know in no uncertain terms that we were either crazy or perverted— like the Minister for Education and Aviation obviously is— to suggest it.

He went on to say, "if the Motion does not mean that, then it need not be here. Because all that land under this Motion if all of the foothills or keys are not in the Crown then it must be in private individuals." Whatever that means.

Madam Speaker, I do become agitated — as I rightly should— when I believe that the people of this country deserve better than such twisted misrepresentations in this House.

He then led off into the Land Acquisition Law. And this Motion says nothing about acquiring any land under the Land Acquisition Law. This Motion clearly states that the face of the Bluff— which is known as, and has always been held to be, Crown land— be so declared in writing.

The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, whom I give all credit to where it is due— indeed, in this case I believe he is one of the most informed persons on the question of the face of the Bluff (and land generally, in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman) because he is a large landowner himself and he has been the Chairman of the Development Control Board there for years.

In some of the bigger developments during the time of the last Government, he was the Chairman of the Control Board. I believe him also when he states that he was aware at the time of the Cadastral Survey that no one claimed the face of the Bluff. There was no claim to it. If there were no claims to it, no one but the Crown could own it; and it is a matter for the Crown to say, yes, they did— for now and for the future generations.

Madam Speaker, I received a letter from a person in the Brac (as did other Members) who felt he must respond in regard to this Motion. The Attorney General raised the matter from the very beginning just prior to the debate, and I made it clear that as far as any one individual goes it does not exist. And I have no brief whatsoever with any one individual in the Brac regarding the face of the Bluff. Now I imagine the Third Elected Member, and the First Elected Member for George Town must— for that is why both of them entered into this debate. I hold no brief for anyone and if they do, that is their business and their affair. I do not.

Now the Minister for Education and Aviation refers to what the Third Elected Member for George Town had to say about the Motion when (according to him) she was referring to individual landowners and who they are. Well, the people who own land on the Bluff and at the foot of the Bluff run into the thousands. I made no attempt whatsoever to find out about all of the people, or the number of people who own land in Cayman Brac. The Bluff stretches from the sea to the east of the island down to just east of the island on the west end of the Airport. Why should I have cause to count numbers and parcels and people?

What this Motion is saying is that a situation can be helped. Help it! That is what this Motion is saying. If those two Members are talking about taking away land from any person in Cayman Brac, the only thing I could do is warn them to be careful. I do not know what it is all about, but they should be careful and mindful, because there is a Land Acquisition Law, and who knows what is in the pot of stew. Who knows what might have been decided in the last Tuesday or Wednesday evening meeting of the people who, in a majority, form the present Government?

Madam Speaker, another thing— and this is consistently the way the Minister for Education and Aviation is bent. He talks about the Motion suggesting that you take away private land from people and that it is basically cutting across one of the most fundamental rights that exists in any country; and that fundamental rights are protected under our Land Acquisition Law. How dare the Minister for Education and Aviation utter the words "fundamental rights." How dare he! When he wrote a Constitution which he and his associates imposed on this country and from which he removed the fundamental rights and freedoms of the individual. It is an irrefutable fact!

The British Government gave us this Constitution, and the first chapter dealt with the individual rights and freedoms. He came to this House and began to destroy the fundamental rights and freedoms of the individuals in the Cayman Islands that we could have had, by first removing one of those rights— which is considered the most profound— the protection of freedom of conscience. It cannot get much more personal than that, Madam Speaker. We live on top of the earth and the day we stop living we go underneath or we rot on top. But the conscience is purely within, and is totally individualistic.

The British Government, we can believe, must have thrown its hands in the air and said, 'Well, we cannot believe this. This is too much.' And, apparently, they said as much to the Minister for Education and Aviation, who is talking about protection of fundamental rights and freedoms. What was his answer to that? He came to this House, and got this House— not with my vote I may add!— to strike from the Constitution the fundamental rights and freedoms of individuals. He dares to stand up and talk nonsense indirectly to me about the fundamental rights and freedoms?

Madam Speaker, I do not want just to see the fundamental rights and protection of deprivation of property being in the Land Acquisition Law. I want to see that in the Constitution of my country where it is more difficult for him to be able to play with it. If he wants to talk about the fundamental rights and freedoms in this country and what people need fear, I think this country needs to fear him for the fact that he will not allow a Bill of Rights to be passed in this country. And if he wants to do something about it, let him get that Select Committee of Un-fundamental Rights and Freedoms up and going, so that many of the things which are happening now would simply run afoul of the Constitution under the various sections of Fundamental Rights and Freedoms.

Madam Speaker, I am not quite sure why this Member inevitably gets going on anything, particularly anything on which I have stated my opinion on, or have debated or, certainly, any Motion— even questions which I ask. He always seems to have to create some kind of sentimentally, or try to evoke some kind of emotion (which he believes the public is hearing and believing) which might make it appear that I was devoid of such understanding, or did not support. Only last week in a question about the 600 feet of runway . . . I do not know how he got children into the flight path of the airline landing in Cayman, but he did! As if that was being done to the children.

He has another theme too, and one of his favourite words is "radical." I find him quite radical, because he radically purports the most straightforward sentence in the English language— he is capable of that.

Another thing that seems to linger in his mind always is this thing of Communism, and a Communist country. Again, with inferences and innuendoes he tries to push that accusation in the direction of certain people— including me.

Madam Speaker, let me ask the Minister for Education and Aviation, since his obsession with Communism is so great, if that is what has driven him towards applying to the Communist Island of Cuba for Cayman Airways to fly in there? I never heard of it happening in the days of the late, great Jim Bodden!

What are we dealing with here? Who has the Communist intention? Not any Motion that I bring here. Surely, not me. I have never gone to the country. I have read history about it. I know there are lots of boat people who leave here on the weekends and go to gallivant over there, or so I am told . . . piña coladas, banana daiquiris over in Cayo Largo and the likes. [Members' laughter]

I have never been there. I have not gone there officially, semiofficially, for pleasure or for anything else—ever. So, where does this Communist thing come in? Or where should it rightfully be placed?

Madam Speaker, there is a hymn that says there will be peace in the valley someday, but I do not see much peace around as long as the Minister for Education continues with his perverse way. On this occasion, as on others, he loves to invoke the name of the Lord, and to thank the Lord. Well, let me inform him that were it not for my thanking the Lord on many occasions, and realising that there is immense strength in Him, I would have simply withered up and died under the assaults from the Minister and his associates since 1991 until this time.

But, like the prophet Elijah, when he said, "Lord, they have killed all of your prophets, and I am the only one left, and I am fleeing out here in the wilderness. I want to hide." The Lord said, "Get up and go back, because there are thousands that have not bowed down to Baal."

I have not bowed down to the ridiculousness so often brought in this House, and so often done by this Government, and I never will. I know that is a hard pill for them to swallow, but that is one that they must.

Madam Speaker, if this Motion were brought by another Member it would most likely have passed. But, it was brought by me. That in itself is cause for the Government of the day to refuse it. They have done nothing whatsoever to help this situation. The face of the Bluff will still go on being referred to as Crown land after today, and it will be undeclared. When foreign persons come and buy land on the Bluff . . . and one day someone from the Brac will perhaps be walking up the face of the Bluff, over a trail leading up the face of the Bluff towards that foot path to his property, he or she might find themselves challenged. There are people who will get lawyers to stop those people from walking those trails too. Where will the Minister for Education and his associates be on that day?

I went to the Brac for the first time in 1967. I visited a few times after that. I was for one year in 1980. I am now one of its elected representatives. I do not claim for one minute to know all about it, but certainly I have taken the time to look into the Development Plan to learn from the people who do know—some of them are 80-odd years of age. If we can do one right thing in declaring this, then that should be done.

I want to warn the people of Cayman Brac that they must be very watchful. The Government of the day may be out to take their property and call it Crown land. They must know something that I do not.

The foothills or keys, as I described this morning, are pieces of the sheer face that have broken off and are down attached to the sheer face at the bottom. So it is sensible, reasonable, to define what the face of the Bluff is. Just like the Development Plan defined the duplexes, and tourism property, and different zones— define it. No foreign person buying land after that, or confronting any Cayman Bracer who might be walking on what he knew as a Bluff road (or the face of any part of that Bluff which has been that way for the past 200 years) would have a problem knowing what the face of the Bluff is. But, no, that is not being done. What is being done is absurd, with ridiculous suggestions about taking people's land.

It is as though this Motion provided for people who wanted to claim some of those pieces of rock. If they can show that they are using it, and using it productively, they may lay claims to it. Let them. There is a provision there for that. But I believe it is as the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman has said—there were never any claims to it. It seems to me that the only people who know that there is claim to those jagged rocks, and so on, are the Minister for Education and the Third Elected Member for George Town. They know what they claim to know—I know what I can read and understand from the people affected, as best that I can.

Madam Speaker, they can vote down this Motion, as they have done so many, and continue the pattern of destruction that this country has, unfortunately, been undergoing. I do not think it has become accustomed to that. I would just leave one thought with the Members of Government: Those who are the most verbal in support of their policies of destruction are seldom in the majority. We hear of the silent minority—they are the silent majority. They are the greatest in numbers, including some of those who write to the local newspapers and are afraid to sign their names. They also fall within that category of the silent majority.

So, let those who hold grief for this one individual that I hear about in the Brac—and, apparently, all the Bluff must be for this individual, or all the lands thereunder, and so forth, and so on, that the court is going to stand still for—let it continue; there is another day coming. There will be people who will look after the interests of the Brac, as I am attempting to do. Certainly, one such individual will be approaching from the East, like Nostradamus spoke about in his *quatrain*s— not wearing a blue turban, but wearing a big East End straw hat.

The day is coming. It is approaching. Things will not always be this way, and those who are comforted now by sheer numbers to do anything and everything that they choose, will find themselves stricken before that silent majority.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question before the House is Private Member's Motion 23/94. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye... Those against, No.

AYES AND NOES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could we have a division please?

The Speaker: You certainly may.
Madam Clerk.

NEGATED BY MAJORITY: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 23/94 DEFEATED.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion 24/94.
The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 24/94

THE IMMIGRATION (AMENDMENT) LAW, 1994 (LAW 4 of 1994)

THE IMMIGRATION (EMBARKATION & DISEMBARKATION CARDS) (EXEMPTION) REGULATIONS, 1994

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to move Private Member's Motion 24/94, standing in my name, which reads: "The Immigration (Amendment) Law, 1994 (Law 4 of 1994) -and- The Immigration (Embarkation and Disembarkation Cards)(Exemption) Regulations 1994."

"In view of the many serious concerns expressed to some Members of the Legislative Assembly by certain members of the Royal Cayman Islands Police and Immigration and Customs Departments on the recent amendment to the Immigration Law, 1994, and the Immigration (Embarkation and Disembarkation Cards) (Exemption) Regulations 1994 made in Council;

"BE IT RESOLVED THAT Government review the matter and reinstate section 47 of the Immigration Law to its original form in light of the concerns expressed."

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I beg to second the Motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 24/94, having been duly moved and seconded is now open for debate.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

This Motion has been brought here with the full knowledge that it has a controversial nature. And it is fairly complicated to assess the good and bad of a situation. But after the recent amendment to the Immigration Law and the Regulations that followed, I have had discussions with several individuals regarding problems that have arisen in certain areas because of the amendment to the Law and the new regulations.

So that we may fully gather exactly what the new situation is, let me briefly go to what the old time people used to call "what used to was."

In the Immigration Law of 1992, section 47 reads (and this is all to do with disembarkation and embarkation cards— what we know as the pink slips): "47(1) Whoever disembarking in or leaving the Islands fails to complete and hand to an immigration officer immediately on arrival or departure a disembarkation card or embarkation card, as the case may be, in the prescribed form is guilty of an offence.

"(2) It is the duty of the Chief Immigration Officer to cause records to be kept and maintained of the entry of all persons into these Islands and of the departure of all persons from the Islands.

"(3) Without prejudice to anything in the Evidence Law, 1978, any such record shall be received in evidence in any court or in any tribunal whatsoever in the Islands as evidence, prima facie, of any entry or particular entered therein."

We had an amendment to the Law that brought about the new regulations dealing with section 47. The Explanatory Note on the new regulations reads: "These regulations give effect to the recent amendment of the Immigration Law by exempting persons who travel under Cayman Islands passports from the requirements of section 47(1) of that Law. This section required all travellers, including Caymanians, to complete and hand to an immigration officer a disembarkation or embarkation card when disembarking in or leaving the Islands. These requirements will not apply to persons who hold Cayman Islands passports and can produce to the immigration officer their valid passport when entering or leaving the Islands."

I do not think that I have to make a correlation between how the Law used to read, and how it now reads because that is basically what has happened.

It is certainly not for the purpose of saying to the Government that a very serious mistake has been made in passing the Law and making the regulations that I bring this Motion. The truth is that I know from my own experiences that many of the people who live in these Islands and hold Caymanian passports, have made representation on more than one occasion to other Members—whether to the Government Bench, or ordinary Elected Members, like me— regarding the fact that the citizens of the United States are not expected to fill out these cards and wait in line like everybody else. So, it was a move made by the wish of the public not to have to fill out these E/D cards.

When the original Bill was brought to the House, there was some debate. I think it was the Acting First Official Member who brought the Bill to the House, and in his winding up he said: "Madam Speaker, I believe it is timely that Caymanians be treated as first class in their own country." (1994 Official Hansard Report, Vol. I page 91)

I understood what he was saying then, but I am not asking for them to be treated as second class by this Motion. He alluded to the fact that he had travelled on many occasions from the United Kingdom across the Atlantic, on to Grand Cayman, and after long hours of travel, his statement reads: "I really do not feel like standing in line for half an hour or 45 minutes before finally getting through. I believe that Caymanians on a whole will appreciate this amendment and appreciate this opportunity to enjoy something that I consider would be first class in their own country." (IBID)

Madam speaker, the Member had every right to feel this way. I believe that many Caymanians were happy to see this amendment where they no longer had to fill out the E/D cards. It may seem at this point in time that I am arguing against myself, but I am not; I will shortly come to the point which I wish to make. I contend that, like myself, the majority of Caymanians who were happy to see this amendment are totally ignorant of the problems that this amendment has caused in certain areas. I will now state a few of those problems.

In the process of interdiction, Immigration records are, on numerous occasions, of vital importance. I do not believe that the people who sat and made their points to me are trying to create trouble. I believe that while their motives may be selfish, because it affects due process in their jobs, that maybe their selfish motives warrant our having a second look. That is why this Motion is here.

I will give a quick example, from a policing point of view, to show some of the types of problems. Policing in these Islands has now reached a stage where our department is in contact with various other countries because there is a lot of travelling between countries, especially in the area of drugs— organising pick ups and deliveries, and such the like. Before the new system was in place, if I was a known drug runner the police at all times had access of my movements by way of the records kept. The way the records were kept, the Immigration Department would advise their Department immediately (once they knew they were supposed to) and they would advise the Police Department immediately of any of my travels—going or coming.

I have been told that on the going process, because the Police knew of my whereabouts (and I am using myself as the example now), they would be able to contact the other country before I ever landed, for instance to make sure that somebody met the flight to put a tail on me because they knew that something might be going down. And they have been successful, on more than one occasion, although sometimes we do not even hear about it here in the Cayman Islands. That is one exam-

Someone is going to say now, 'Well, we have the other ways in which to trace the individuals.' By the coming and going process, the only other record that is kept by a Government Department is the Customs card that is filled out upon arrival. The Customs card still has to be filled out; you still have to hand it to the Customs Officer; and even though you might get through the Immigration line earlier, you still have to wait in line at the Customs end before you can go about your business; and you have to fill out the card properly and hand the Customs Officer the Customs Declaration Card. Those cards are bundled up on a daily basis, not kept in any sequence, and shoved in a corner. Every few months, when the pile gets big enough, they are thrown away. That is certainly no record. That is processing the individual through the Customs to go out of the Airport terminal by way of their declaring anything that they may have in their possession at the time. So that is certainly not a record.

The other record that might be said to be kept nowadays is the passenger manifest at the Airlines. I did a test run, which I will speak about in a minute, but let me explain that while a passenger manifest may be of some help, it is certainly by no means reliable. Even the passenger manifests, which are computerised at this pint in time, are done up in the same exact way that the tickets bought for travelling are written up. So, on the odd occasion when I travel, I could have purchased four tickets for four different people in my family and each of them can be D. Tibbetts. That is a fact. There is no guideline that the person writing up the tickets has to follow regarding writing the person's full name on the ticket. So, as the ticket is written, so, too, is the passenger manifest made out. With that in mind, it is physically impossible, if you get your hands on a passenger manifest, to know who each individual is. This is certainly not a criticism of the airlines. The truth is, it is not their business. They have nothing to do with interdiction—it is simply to keep records as necessary.

I listened to a call requesting a passenger manifest, and I would venture to say that the call was placed at a most inopportune time because they were probably very busy. I was told that the call was made a second time three days later, and it was exactly nine days after the first call was made that the passenger manifest was passed on to the department that required it. Like I said, there is nothing that forces them to do it, they have other things to do. Matters of that sort might not seem that important to them. Sometimes, in fact, with the individuals we are talking about, the Police need this information immediately.

For those who hold Caymanian passports—and I have not gone into the research of getting the exact number of people with Caymanian passports (it could well be 13,000/14,000 somewhere along those lines but let us use the figure of 15,000)—the truth of the matter is that of that 15,000, I am sure that 14,800 people should have the privilege of not having to fill out that card. I have not seen another system that will assist the Police in taking care of, or trying to deal properly with, interdiction with those 200 people that are ruining our country. That is where I have a problem.

I brought this Motion because it was the most fitting forum where I could evoke a debate regarding these problems. The Motion is worded this way because I had no other answer to ensure that a record is kept which is available for those who need it, when they need it. If there is another way, I do not have a problem. It is not that it is my wish to say that we must be strapped with a system of the pink slips. It matters not to me. I do not know of any other way for the interdiction process to have its best chance unless we have access to those records, as and when they are needed. No matter what else I have heard, there are none that are foolproof. There are none where you are assured of the right answer every time.

There are other problems. When it comes to consumption of an illegal drug, the various types, like cocaine, or marijuana, remain in an individual's system at various stages (I do not have to be exact to make the point). I think marijuana stays in the system for six to eight weeks afterwards; I think for cocaine it is some 72 hours afterwards.

I have known of at least seven cases where people have been arrested and they have had to take a drug test. Because they know how the law is, they have said (two of them before the test was taken), 'Yes, I consumed such and such, but I was off the Island.' No matter what happens in criminal matters before the Court, the onus is still on the Crown to prove the individual guilty.

This has caused some problems, even with the passenger manifest that might be requested. A passport cannot be checked because a passport does not have to be stamped, and Immigration cannot tell the Police Department if this person really left or came back to the Island because they do not have a record. The only sure way, to the best of my knowledge, to prove cases of that nature, is to go to the authorities of the country to which the person swears that he visited; and the information that I receive is that, at best, it is a lengthy procedure and more commonly there are either no positive results, or an officer from this country has to go to the other country and search through a bunch of records in some archives to make this determination. So, there are problems.

I was speaking with an individual involved in the airlines, and he was telling me that he was totally convinced that a system can be put in place whereby the passenger manifest can act as the record that we now need which is not being kept. I am not saying that cannot work, but I am just not able, for lack of more knowledge, to point out how it can work.

If that can work, then I do not have a problem with it at all. But I really believe that there are enough problems for the authorities to warrant the Government's looking at this with a view to having some method to hold the record that is now not being kept for Caymanians (by their not having to fill out the E/D cards) both on leaving and arriving.

There are a few other matters which I can, and will, talk about, but I await to hear the reply from the Government on the Motion.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.36 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.57 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Debate continues on Private Member's Motion 24/94.

The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston: Madam Speaker, it is not unnatural when reform such as contained in Private Member's Motion 24/94 is being introduced, that doubts and reservations are noted. When the Government contemplated introducing this reform, the comments by the Immigration Authorities were invited. And the reservation noted at that time was one of concern about how does one satisfy oneself that every person who is in possession of a Cayman Islands Passport has, in addition to that, the unquestionable right of abode in these Islands. Historically, a number of persons have been in possession of passports, but not necessarily having the right of abode because we operate this rather strange and unique system which splits status and nationality. That was the only professional reservation that the Government was advised about at that time.

The decision was taken that, yes, there will be a number of persons who will benefit from this exemption whom we would, technically, not wish to benefit. However, on balance it was decided that we would tolerate a few persons receiving that benefit in order that the majority would not be inconvenienced. It was also decided then that because it was a new exemption it would have to be kept under review, and that any discrepancies or difficulties observed or noted during the early stages of its implementation would be taken note of, and at some subsequent date those reservations and observations would be taken into consideration. Like anything new, Madam Speaker, there are bound to be teething problems. We are still at that stage, where the exemption has been introduced and its implementation is being monitored.

What is rather peculiar is that the representations, which seem to have been made to the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, who is moving this Motion, have not yet been formally made to the Government—not to my knowledge. The Police Department has not reported any interdiction problems, or that any difficulties have resulted from their inability to get information quickly and appropriately.

No representation has been received from the Customs Authorities about any difficulties from their point of view and, therefore, until such time as official representation has been received at the correct level in the Government organisation, one can understand the Government's reluctance to initiate decisions based on representations made at, what I have to regard as, unofficial levels.

There may be supervisors in these departments who are genuinely concerned about the effect of these exemptions, and it is possible that these concerned officers may, with the best of intention, have made representation to the Fourth Elected Member of George Town. But until the Government has had an opportunity to receive those representations at the correct level, it is difficult for the Legislative Branch of the Government to be reacting to that sort of representation.

It is the view, therefore, that the exemption will continue, and that as originally envisaged the matter will be reviewed at some point in the future, and all concerns will be taken into account and all practical deficiencies, if there are any, will be attended to. Should it be found at that time that there is any reason to amend the exemption in any way, the Government will take a decision at that time.

In the meantime, therefore, the Government does not accept Private Member's Motion 24/94. It does not intend to amend the Immigration Law as requested, but it will as originally intended keep the matter under review.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to lend my support to Private Member's Motion 24/94, which is on the floor at this time.

It strikes me that the position of the Government, in denying the request made in this Motion, is doing nothing but making it more difficult for the social control authorities, and aiding and abetting those people who have a vested interest in living outside the law by virtue of their participation in illegal clandestine activities. Also, it is not greatly adding to the convenience of the Caymanian traveller.

Permit me to establish again, that what we are seeking to do (because our responsibility lies wholly and solely with Caymanians and within the Caymanian jurisdiction) is to make it easy, when the necessity arises, to keep tabs (as is frequently the case nowadays) on our own citizens.

This is one of those times when we have to make a trade off. If we are serious about intensifying the war on drugs and clandestine and illicit activities, then we have to be prepared to suffer one or two small inconveniences. I take cognisance of the fact that the Honourable Member replying on behalf of the Government gave the undertaking that the process will be under continuous review. It has, however, been expressed in some circles that this policy will tie the hands of the authorities; that it will be difficult to trace the movements and whereabouts of certain known traffickers. We have to bear in mind that these people are quick to take advantage of any loopholes, be they perceived or real.

The Mover of the Motion gave an example of how this could be exploited in that it could become increasingly difficult for the Courts (which the onus is upon) to prove that illegal drugs were consumed by some of these people—when they give as their defence that they consumed it outside of the jurisdiction—within this jurisdiction.

I am also made to understand that one of the frequent occurrences which can be expected is that the people leave here by an aeroplane and return by a Jamaican canoe (as is not uncommon), and we will have no record of their departure and none of their arrival when this comes into effect. So these are the kinds of things that we have to bear in mind.

We cannot rely on passenger manifests to keep records. Every country reserves the right—every country has to, at any one time, know of these movements and these whereabouts. I am merely saying that the Government has an obligation to seriously look at this matter because it is fraught with danger. They should endeavour to ensure that the system is not further eroded.

Thank you.

[PAUSE]

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I move that the question now be put.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, as the seconder of this Motion I naturally support the request that is being made by the Mover of the Motion.

I think the records will show that when this Law was changed, I was the only Member of this Honourable House that voted against the change. My reasons then are the same as they are now—I could see no logical reason for changing the requirement where all persons, including Caymanians, submit a departure card and an entry card at Immigration.

At the time of the change, the Law made it possible for the Governor in Council to exempt certain types of persons from this requirement other than Caymanians. My argument was that if this was the case, if the Government wished to exempt Caymanians (as supposedly was the case), it should have said that specifically, and the other terminology should not have been included.

In these times when countries on the one hand are saying let us deal with open borders; on the other hand, these countries are realising the frequency of crime and the interacting of criminals around the world. It behoves each country to be able to keep track of its particular citizens.

As the Law presently stands, foreigners coming into this country continue to fill out the cards we are talking about; and rightly so, because the Immigration Department wants to keep a check on these persons—when they entered, how long they are allowed to remain in the Island, and that they leave the Island when they are supposed to, otherwise they could be over-stayers and in the Cayman Islands illegally. We do not have the problem of a Caymanian being an over-stayer, since this is the Caymanian's home.

I am told by persons associated with Law Enforcement in this country that one of the chief means by which they kept a check on certain individuals was by checking their names as they left and returned to the Island. Often a suspicion could be raised when one saw the frequency of an individual's travelling back and forth in the Island, or setting up certain patterns in time intervals, where those persons in the law enforcement agencies had cause to believe they may have been involved in illegal activities. I understand that is not available anymore to the Police and it is creating quite a problem for them.

Another point, in terms of Caymanians, is a requirement under the Elections Law that a person voting in an election, or being eligible to vote in an election, has to be resident in the Cayman Islands for a certain period of time. As recent as the last election, when it was a matter of determining who was qualified, the Immigration Department had ready access to records that could show where a person who might be claiming to be eligible might not be, simply because they were off of the Island for a period of time which disqualified them.

There is also the question of disaster situations where a person, for all practical purposes, could be missing. One of two things could have occurred: the person could still be on the island but lost for a period of time; or the person may have left the Island. Because a Caymanian is no longer required to fill out an exit card, or have their passport stamped, a person could be absent from the Island, having left the Islands, and there is no means of assisting whatever parties might be interested in knowing the whereabouts of that person.

One of the biggest cases where jurisdiction was involved and, indeed, extradition was involved, was resolved because the Cayman Islands Immigration Department was able to verify that the person had left the Cayman Islands at a particular time and, indeed, the authorities in another jurisdiction could be supplied with that information. Thus the case, as far as the Law was concerned, was resolved. This particular matter involved three different jurisdictions. Again, it was the simple and common exercise of someone having to show that they had left the country.

On a whole, I think that any well-thinking person in these Islands would want to show when they may have left the country. Since this has been in place, I have travelled and, quite faithfully, the Immigration Officer advises that they do not need the exit card anymore, and neither do I need to have my passport stamped; whereupon I ask in each instance that my passport be stamped when I am going out and when I am coming in, for I wish to be able to account for where I am at any given time. Certainly, this particular amendment and change has made it possible for Caymanians to be off this Island with no record to show.

These are but some views, Madam Speaker, and some conditions. There are, no doubt, many more. I daresay, the Mover will make mention of other instances of where this affects conditions in the country. But I, for one, believe that we did not help ourselves in this country by removing this requirement. Certainly, I do not share the view that for a Caymanian to be a first class citizen, he must be able to walk through his/her Immigration without offering an entry card to Immigration to keep a record. I think that this Motion is in keeping with the reality of the times and I would hope that the Government might reconsider its position and think about reviewing this matter with the view to reinstating the section that was removed.

Thank you.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, would the Mover of the Motion wish to exercise his right of reply?

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Just to let you know, Madam Speaker, I do not think I will finish this afternoon.

The Speaker: Well, at 4.30 I will interrupt proceedings.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Unfortunately, at this point in time there may be some people who view this Motion as one that might give rise to the wrong people to start thinking about being able to do the wrong things. The truth is, the cat is already out of the bag. In fact, the cat, I believe, has had kittens.

There is also the thought that jurisdictions larger than ourselves do not use a similar system for their own native people. If we look at the United States, for instance, besides their regular Police Force and the Sheriffs, they have the FBI, the DEA, the CIA, the IRS, and I, daresay, they probably have other agencies that we know nothing about in this process of interdiction. But what we have to bear in mind in the Cayman Islands is that we have our one little Police Force, and we have access to nothing else.

I think it is safe to say that all of us would like to see crime lessened as time goes on. We would like to see our level of interdiction and success rate at persecutions to be rising. I hold the view that it is imperative that we allow the agency, namely, the Police, as much access to whatever ammunition as is possible for due process to take place with due diligence.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION—4.30 PM Standing Order 10(2)

The Speaker: Honourable Member, it is now 4.30. I will ask for the Motion for the Adjournment.

Honourable Member for Tourism.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker, for inviting me to move the adjournment. I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock

AT 4.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM FRIDAY, 23 SEPTEMBER 1994.

FRIDAY
23 SEPTEMBER, 1994
10.01 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Third Official Member to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. George McCarthy: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived: We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

Presentation of Papers and Reports. Cayman Airways Limited Financial Statement for Period ended 31st December, 1993. The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Aviation.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

CAYMAN AIRWAYS LIMITED FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR PERIOD ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1993

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House the Financial Statement of Cayman Airways Limited for the 31st December, 1993.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Honourable Minister would you like to speak thereon?

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. During 1993, Cayman Airways went through a restructuring programme which saw its fleet reduced from five aircraft, which was then comprised of one 737-400; one 737-300; and three 737-200s, to two 737-200 aircraft. This reduction in the fleet was accomplished simultaneously with the reduction in route structure and the reduction of the airline's overhead.

In the Accounts, at page 5 Note 2, it states: "In November 1992, changes were made in the Company's senior management and, under mandate from Government in its capacity as sole shareholder, the new management instigated a programme of down-scaling the Company's operations and, where consistent with efficient and safe operations, reducing staff levels, expenditures and fleet size. As an ongoing part of this process, the Grand Cayman/New York and Grand Cayman/Baltimore routes were discontinued shortly after 31 December 1992."

The impact on the Company's revenues as a result of the down-sizing was a drop in revenues of just under $10 million. However, this down-sizing enabled the Company to effect cost reductions of over $13 million, thereby improving its operating performance by $3.4 million compared to 1992.

Madam Speaker, the more significant reductions were in staff expenses and salaries, which were reduced by $2 million as a result of reducing the number of staff by over 100. Another significant drop was in aircraft rentals, where we made a savings of $3.3 million; and fuel and oil of $1.6 million.

We have to remember that just two years prior to this about $4 million had been spent by Cayman Airways and the Department of Tourism on promoting the New York and Baltimore routes. It was discovered after they came into effect that, because of the low fares, the aircraft would have to had flown at 110% capacity to have made any profit. This was the reason why they were quickly cut.

The accounts will show that the loss made for this year was affected significantly by below the line and one-off costs of $7 million. Of this, $200,000 was a write-off of a security deposit that was held by ILFC against the B737-400. However, I should point out that we made a savings, and a refund was given of $.5 million in relation to that aircraft when it was returned.

The most significant aspect of 1993 was the termination of the lease on the ILFC 737-400. This lease had 10.5 years to run at a monthly lease rate of $316,000, giving Cayman Airways legal obligation to pay ILFC almost $40 million. Bearing in mind that the previous management of Cayman Airways had agreed to pay over $6.1 million to be released from the lease of the two 737-400 aircraft to GPA, I believe that this was a considerable achievement. I would just like to read what the Auditor General said at page 8 of the accounts, paragraph 7: "Under the original termination agreement, GPA had the right to require the Company to lease two 737-400 aircraft for a three year period commencing in 1994 at a monthly rental of US$290,000 each (a total rental of US$20,880,000). During 1993, the Company paid US$1,350,000 to be released from all obligations relating to this put option and is seeking to lease more affordable aircraft from other sources. The $1,350,000 paid to GPA was in addition to the amounts noted above." [The amounts noted above are: GPA Group PLC $6,184,115]

We found that in the year 1993, Cayman Airways had a liability of $40 million (possibly) on the lease of one 737-400 from ILFC and, also, $20.8 million to GPA in relation to the two 737-400s that were coming back. That $60 million liability has to be looked at in light of the fact that for the two and a half years prior to that, Cayman Airways had lost $34.7 million in that short period, mainly because of the high rental cost of the 737-400s.

In 1993, which is the only full operating year that we have had so far, we were able to cut our contingent liability by $60.8 million and we were able to negotiate our way out (at a cost) from both of those leases. In fact, on the ILFC lease we actually received a rebate of almost $1 million from ILFC over the last six months on the B737-400 lease, because they reduced the rent by one-half.

The accounts that we have before us today show, notwithstanding the below-the-line payments that had to be made out of the profit/loss account, such as the settlements on the GPA, as well as the cost of staff retirements, that the company was still able (after putting in the Government subsidy) to show a net loss for the year of $3.988 million. But that is with the Government subsidy of $4,761,905.

Another problem was the fact that Cayman Airways had one 737-400 CFM56 Engine which was returned to the owners. In fact, we never really paid anything on it, and the $3 million engine was left with us for several years. That was returned, and they rolled off a significant amount that we would have had to have paid to them in interest on this amount, to the extent of about $.9 million. I guess they were happy to get it back, so they wrote this off.

Also important is the fact that the projected loss left by the previous Board and management for 1993 had been set at $12.9 million, without the below-the-line payments that we had to make to GPA, and on the ILFC plane. That was before taking into account the $2.3 million which would have put it in the area where it was before (the area of $14 million) if the projected loss had continued—and it would have continued because we would still have been flying the 400 and the 300.

Perhaps most important is the fact that in December of 1993, Cayman Airways paid to the staff in the lower-paid bracket an increase of approximately 10%. This was the first pay award to be made in Cayman Airways for almost four years. Subsequent to that there has been a further pay raise which covered all staff excluding senior management.

The staff of Cayman Airways are some of the most dedicated and, obviously, some of the most tolerant I have ever seen—from a salary point of view. Many of them have put in very long hours there without overtime and, really, without even being paid the basic salary. I would like to publicly thank the staff of Cayman Airways and also the Chairman of the Board, the Board itself, and especially our Managing Director, who has been the person responsible for doing what has really been a miraculous turn around in Cayman Airways over a very short period of about 18 or 20 months.

I would hope that when looking at these accounts the press would be responsible in their reporting, as many times we have had to correct unfair lies which have been spread which damage Cayman Airways. If there are areas of the accounts, which may not be understood, perhaps they should seek advice from an accountant who can properly interpret them before going out to the press with these reports. In fact, we just had a very damaging report made recently by Mr. Rick Catlin. That type of report on a matter as important as the accounts could be further damaging. It was corrected because what he said was inaccurate. So I am calling on the press, in relation to this, to be fair and accurate in reporting because my tolerance is getting fairly low at this stage when reports that hurt Cayman Airways are made which are untrue.

Madam Speaker, the accounts this year are undoubtedly very healthy and fair, showing that Cayman Airways is beginning to stabilise, notwithstanding that the gains were only made in about the last three to four months of 1993.

I am also happy to report that the accounts of 1994 have continued to be very good. From January to June of this year, with a subsidy of about $2.2 million, we showed a cumulative profit of $1.661 million. In other words, we used about $600,000 or $700,000 of the subsidy. Unless we have any tragic or difficult unforeseen problems, this year should also be a good year. For the first time since 1989 (when a profit was shown), it looks like we are back on course, coming very close to making a profit; or, if we retain what we have achieved in the last six months, of making a profit itself.

Lastly, the accounts that have been laid on the Table will clearly show that the Board, the Managing Director, and Government, are now taking a conservative approach to Cayman Airways. By cutting back on routes, by not buying new planes and not coming up with fancy ideas, we have been able to make gains on the gateways into the United States and Jamaica that we now fly. That conservative approach, which I fully believe in, and I believe the Board and Managing Director fully believe in because it has been working, will continue. I would ask that staff be tolerant when they see new charters, new routes, or new planes, and we have to say 'no' to them—it is because I believe that for the first time we are getting Cayman Airways on a proper business footing and that is paying off at this stage.

Finally, I would just like to, once again, thank all Honourable Members of this House for the support that they have given to Cayman Airways, to me, and to the Board and the senior management. I would ask them for that continued support and tolerance in an effort to keep Cayman Airways as far out of politics as is politically possible.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Questions to Honourable Members. Deferred question No. 109, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 109

No. 109: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Administration to state what progress has been made in respect of the revised Regulations for the Traffic Law, 1991.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: I am afraid I shall have to crave the indulgence of the House once more, because the written answer that I should have made available to your Clerk is still unavailable. But I am reliably informed that it will be available on Monday. I apologise.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 109

Standing Order 23(5)

The Speaker: The question is that the answer to the question be deferred once more. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The answer to the question is accordingly deferred.

AGREED. ANSWER TO QUESTION NO. 109 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 162, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 162

No. 162: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Communications and Works, what is the estimated cost given by the Public Works Department for the road to be built near the Owen Roberts Airport entrance when the present road is closed.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: The estimated cost to build the road to relocate the existing Crewe Road is $740,000. The work necessary to provide a double spray and chip road by 15th December is estimated to cost $375,000.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I wonder if the Honourable Minister could say if there are any drawings available, or maps which the public might see in reference to this particular roadway?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Yes, there are maps, but they are not quite finalised, so I do not have a copy here with me.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Is it envisaged that the Public Works Department will undertake this work, or will it be done by way of a contract with some road building company in the country?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: We hope to do some through Public Works, and the remainder will be contracted.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 163, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 163

No. 163: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Administration what progress is being made in producing a Law against Invasion of Privacy in the Cayman Islands as passed by the Legislative Assembly in March, 1993.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: The Ministry of Agriculture, Communications and Works has had talks with Cable & Wireless (W.I.) Limited and other interested groups, and has now given initial drafting instructions to the Legal Draftsman. The proposed legislation is included in the legislative drafting programme for 1994, and it is hoped to bring the Bill to the House in the November Meeting.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I wonder if the Honourable Member could say if input from the legal profession and the security businesses and so on is also being sought in terms of getting a comprehensive assessment and a full picture of what is necessary to be included in this law, other than Cable & Wireless, for example.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

We always try to give as much notice as possible to Honourable Members, and I fully appreciate that we do not always succeed. That is due to the pressure on my staff to produce the legislation that is required within a limited time scale. But I will endeavour that with this particular piece of legislation, we do give sufficient notice because I understand Honourable Members wish to consider the draft Bill in detail before it is debated in this House.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time. Government Business. Bills, Second Readings.

SECOND READINGS

THE MENTAL HEALTH (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Clerk: The Mental Health (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Madam Speaker, I beg to move that a Bill entitled a Bill For a Law to Amend the Mental Health Law, 1979, be given a Second Reading.

The Speaker: The Honourable Member would like to speak thereto?

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Perhaps I can begin by just reading out for the benefit of the House the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons which is at the start of this Bill: "This Bill will amend the Mental Health Law, 1979, to enable the Governor in Council to prescribe places of safety under that Law for the detention and treatment of mentally ill people. It is intended that the first place of safety to be prescribed will be Northward Prison. Special arrangements will be made there for the detention and treatment of mentally ill prisoners, and any mentally ill person ordered to be detained under the Mental Health Law for the protection of the public."

I understand that this Bill has given some cause for concern to members of the public, and that has been relayed to me by Members of this Honourable House. I imagine that it is the last two sentences, particularly the second sentence, of this Memorandum that has caused this concern. I will do my best, when speaking to this Bill, to allay those concerns and fears.

Perhaps the best thing I can do before I explain what this Bill does is to tell Members what it does not do. There are two things that this Bill definitely is not introduced to do. The first is that it is not intended to be a solution to the problem of dealing with mental health in the Cayman Islands. Secondly, it is not a long term solution to the secure detention of the mentally ill in the Cayman Islands.

The Bill has been brought because the Law which it seeks to amend, The Mental Health Law (Law 22 of 1979), has been found to be defective and it is necessary for me to go into some detail to explain that deficiency and why this amendment is being brought to remedy it.

The amendment, as can be seen from the draft Bill, amends section 15 of the Law. Section 15 deals with the ability of the Governor (here meaning the Governor in Council) to make regulations under the Law. But before we can deal with section 15, we first need to consider section 5 of the original Law. I think it would be helpful for me to read out what section 5 actually says: "Where it appears to any constable that any person is, by reason of mental disorder, an immediate danger, or is likely to become a danger to himself or others, he may take such person into protective custody and with all reasonable despatch bring him before a Government Medical Officer who shall examine such person and if such Medical Officer considers that such person should be further detained he shall direct that he be detained in a hospital or in a prescribed place of safety able to receive and care for him, there to await the decision of the Chief Medical Officer as to his further detention."

The salient words in that section are "be detained in a hospital or in a prescribed place of safety." There has never been a prescribed place of safety, which is being so described in this Law. As a consequence of that, the Law only provides that such a person can be detained in a hospital and, of course, the hospital that we have here is the George Town Hospital. That hospital does not have a secure facility. It is there, of course, to treat people that are ill and not to restrain people who require restraint or secure accommodation.

However, we have a further problem: What I have just outlined is not a problem with the Law, it is just the fact that no place has been prescribed under the Law. The difficulty we have to remedy is that the section (which is section 15) that gives the power to the Governor in Council to make regulations, which is the way that matters are prescribed under the Law, limits that power to prescribing procedures to be used in the administration of this Law. I do not regard that this limitation is sufficient to properly allow the Governor in Council to prescribe a place of safety under the Law—it only allows regulations to be made for the administration of the Law. It is for that reason, and that reason alone, that this amendment has been brought. This amendment now specifically specifies in section 15 that the Governor may make regulations to prescribe any place as a place of safety for the purposes of this Law.

I already pointed out in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons that the Government has stated that it has intended that the first place of safety to be so prescribed will be Northward Prison. Of course, that is not something that is dealt with in the Bill itself, and it is not something that is dealt with by this House today; that is a matter for Executive Council when the question of regulations goes before them. But as I mentioned, the hospital, which may be well at first thought the logical place to detain someone who is ill, has no secure facility. In fact, the only place in the Cayman Islands which is a secure facility is Northward Prison. Perhaps it would also be helpful if I explained precisely why this amendment has come at this stage, because the substantive Law has been in force since 1979 and this deficiency has only now caused some concern.

The amendment is necessary because recently there has been a case (and I have no intention of mentioning the name of the person involved, but I am sure Members will be well aware of what I am talking about), that has come before the Summary Court where the defendant had been remanded in custody—in other words, had not been given bail because the Court decided, for whatever reasons, it was not correct that he should be allowed his liberty, pending the determination of the case—but should be restrained in custody. That person was found to be unfit to plead to the charge because of mental illness. That was an opinion that was given by the Medical Officer on the Island and was, of course, quite correctly followed by the learned Magistrate in the Summary Court.

The affect is that the case proceeds no further and the Magistrate then remand the defendant in custody; and the normal order is a remand to Northward Prison. This is under the Criminal Procedure Code, and I certainly do not want to become too technical or too involved here. The relevant section of the Criminal Procedure Code (and I am going to pick out the relevant points of this) says that; "the Court shall report the matter to the Governor who may order the accused person to be detained in any hospital or any place appointed by any Law for the reception or custody of insane persons, pending the order of the Governor in any such case the Court shall direct that the accused person be remanded in custody." As I stated, that has already been done.

So, the next stage is that it is reported to the Governor (meaning the Governor in Council) who may order the accused person to be detained in any hospital or any place appointed by any Law, etcetera. Of course, this is where the deficiency comes to light, because as there is no secure unit at the hospital. We then turn to where else is appointed by Law to receive such persons, and the answer is: nowhere. That is why this amendment is necessary today.

I am unable to say, and it would probably be wrong of me to say, for how long a period this particular individual would have to be detained in this particular manner. That will be a question upon which the Governor in Council will be very much, if not wholly, guided by medical opinion.

There is something else that I would also like to speak to as it is something that concerns me and, I am sure, Honourable Members as well: that is, certainly, on the face of it, having an non-convicted man in prison (and I say on the face of it) and, therefore, in the same place and going through the same routine as convicted criminals. This is certainly not a desirable thing. For that reason, I gave the instances of what this Bill was not designed to do when I started my speech.

The decisions as to exactly how this particular individual will be accommodated at Northward Prison and, indeed, any other individuals that fell under this particular section, will remain with the authorities who have that responsibility. That will be the Minister for Health and the First Official Member who has the responsibility for the Prison itself.

What I can say is that every effort will be made to try and ensure that the accommodation (that will be prescribed under the regulations, when Executive Council passes them) will be adapted specifically (as far as possible) for this purpose. I cannot go into too much detail, because I do not profess to be an expert in these matters. But, I can highlight some of the things that I have already thought about and I know that my Honourable Colleagues have also thought about.

First of all, it is intended to designate in this instance a particular cell for this purpose, and it is hoped that a cell can be found perhaps on the extremity of the block so that it can be set apart as far as possible from the convicted prisoners. Alterations will be made to that cell or secure room (however you wish to call it), to make it fit for the particular purpose it is going to be used.

I want to see a regime which is designed for that patient. Of course, the input of the medical authorities will be requested for that. I think it would be desirable to have a different type of clothing, and there will be much advice from the medical specialist involved. There will be provision for medical monitoring of this person and, in any event, the Law as I have read it out to you, requires that the Governor in Council take advice from the medical officer. I cannot say at what intervals that will be done, but it will be done at intervals that are felt appropriate by the medical authorities. I can, perhaps, say at this stage that because someone is found to have a mental illness, or to be in a particular mental state at one point in time, it does not follow that he/she is going to remain in that state. Hopefully, that state can be altered for the better.

I have already said that it is not desirable that an individual such as this should be in the same place as convicted prisoners. It might, out of necessity, have to take place, but I appreciate that it is not the most desirable state of affairs. I would certainly like to state categorically, that the person detained in this way is not a convicted prisoner and would not be treated as a convicted prisoner.

Thought has been given to other alternatives, of course, and the decision still has to be made by Executive Council. Although the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons sets out what the intention is, and that is quite correct, Executive Council has yet to make the decision. But, discussion has already taken place before this Bill was introduced to the House and that is why it was felt appropriate to put that intention so that members of the public were fully aware of what was on the minds of Executive Council in trying to deal with this very difficult problem.

It is not intended that this will be a long-term solution; but there are times when a person requires secure accommodation, and it is not unreasonable in a small jurisdiction that there are limited types of secure accommodation. Whatever we might think is the most desirable state of affairs, there are other restraints that do not always make it possible to achieve that; so, this is felt to be the best way of dealing with the matter at the present time.

I want to re-emphasize that the designation, in any event, of Northward Prison is not something that is being dealt with by this House. What this House is being asked to do today, is to approve and pass this Bill which will remedy the deficiency in the Mental Health Law itself, and allow Executive Council (the Governor in Council) to prescribe a place of safety which legally it cannot do at the present time.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question before the House is the Second Reading of the Mental Health (Amendment) Bill, 1994. The question is now open for debate.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to speak on the Bill for a Law to amend the Mental Health Law, 1979. From the very commencement I wish to make it absolutely clear that I do not support this Bill or this amendment.

I listened as the Attorney General presented this Bill and I wondered to myself why was he chosen by Government to do so, since this deals with the Mental Health Law and Health is really not his subject. I would suspect that that was the decision of the Elected Members of Executive Council because they know that this Bill and this amendment is something that is politically obscene.

This Bill is asking that the Governor in Council (meaning the Governor and the Elected Ministers and the three Official Members) prescribe places of safety for mentally ill persons; and the best we can do for them in this country is to put them in Northward Prison. This request and this Bill is a shame for this country.

How in this modern, supposedly intelligent, society can it be acceptable for a Government to find it suitable to place the individual, as has been cited in this case (or anyone else), in prison to take care of their mental health? Prison cannot be a place of safety for any mentally ill person. No mentally ill person can be in a place of safety, or have their mental health attended to, in any manner whatsoever, in prison.

Madam Speaker, the situation with mentally ill persons in the Cayman Islands is increasing—although I imagine the Ministers of Executive Council say that this is not so and that there are only a few, and we really do not have anything there to worry about either, and we should not exaggerate it. But it is increasing. Prior to these times one would have found certain mental deficiencies caused by genetic disorders, whereas at this point in time there is less of that type of individual, but more and more of the type of persons who have whacked out their brains and their senses from the use of drugs.

The priorities of this Government are wrong. They have their priorities in the wrong places. They have their priorities set to do things which are not pressing, and many things which do not help the social good, such as having a proper place to put mentally ill persons.

I am sure that in each district of these Islands there are persons who could well be in an institution where there would not be prison wardens taking care of them; but, indeed, psychologists, psychiatrists and properly trained technical people to handle them even when they have a tendency to (or do) become violent. It is not sufficient to inject people in this country with drugs which, if anything, turns them into zombies, and it has some peculiar features. I have seen in a number of people in this country where the right hand becomes skewed out from the body in a twisted fashion.

We need to provide health care for mentally ill persons in this society, not prison care. Northward Prison is, most times, overflowing. There is not enough space for the persons being sent there. That prison does not provide, to the extent that is desirable, training in trades and skills. How then, can that prison be set up to accommodate the mentally ill?

I knew of one instance (perhaps a year ago) where there were three youngsters who at the time, as described by the Attorney General, could not plead. It was felt that they were not capable. They were there for quite a long time. One of them was from the district that I represent. When is this going to stop? When is the Government going to do something that is right to help the people—particularly people in this society—who have the greatest need of help, such as the mentally ill? When?

This amendment is a shame on this country. If we can build structures in which we are housing over 1,000 foreign nationals in this country at this stage as refugees—providing accommodation, three meals a day and this morning I heard on the news that a clinic is being set up by Tent City—why can we not build 10 rooms in a purpose-built place to take care of our mentally ill and mentally deficient people? Why can we not?

We have a grave need for health care services in this country and that need is not being addressed. The possibility for improvement in that has been set back by 10 or 15 years, from back in 1992 when we were not allowed a hospital. Surely, there has been nothing done to date which is significant in the improvement in health services here.

(Relevance)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order. I draw your attention to the matter of relevance. The Member is generalising on health care. This Bill deals specifically with the criminal element of mental care.

The Speaker: That is not a Point of Order because there is a relevance there. So the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman can continue his debate.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker...

The Speaker: I have said that...

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: [interjecting] Could you explain to the House what is the relevance?

The Speaker: I consider a relevance there. Mental health certainly deals with health care. So the Member is quite in order in speaking about it.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I know the mere mention of Health Care pushes a button on the Minister who just got up to interrupt. And it should! It is a brand that he will wear forever.

I will say to the Government on this matter, that they should provide—be it to take money from some project that quite likely is not necessary at this time, and begin some building (which they may add to as the need arises) so that they do not have to subject the citizens of this country to this kind of disgrace. There are those of us who can think of instances, I am sure, where there is a need.

There are some persons today here in George Town that could no doubt be helped if there was such a place as that. They walk around these streets, people see them, laugh at them, give them a dollar as the case may be. Madam Speaker, that is not good enough in this country, and certainly not in these times, particularly where, through the abuse of illicit drugs, so many young people (to say nothing of the middle and older) are simply having their minds smashed and need health care.

There are other instances where there are various levels of high anxiety among persons, but we have no such place here to deal with it. When will the Government get its priorities right? I think that before the Government passes this Bill—and I am sure they will, but without my help—they should really sit down and think about what this Bill is saying and what this attitude is bringing towards the people in need in this country.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to speak to this Bill for a Law to Amend the Mental Health Law of 1979. I would first like to say to this Honourable House that there was no collusion within Executive Council for the Honourable Second Official Member to bring this Bill. I, personally (as I stand before this House and God), went to the Attorney General and spoke to him. It was my feeling and understanding that because of the criminal element that was coming out in the Bill, he should present it. If we look at the last sentence in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, it says: "Special arrangements will be made there for the detention and treatment of mentally ill prisoners and any mentally ill person ordered to be detained under the Mental Health Law for the protection of the public."

Madam Speaker, I too have had representation of concern from the public in regards to this. But this is what I told them: it is not designed for the mentally ill of the general population. As the Honourable Second Official Member said there is no provision in the present Law for a place of safekeeping for the people deemed unable to plead—specifically those who are alleged to have committed a crime.

It is not the intention of this Law to incarcerate those mental patients who are not a threat to the public at Northward Prison. I will emphasise that again: it is not the intention for those, unless they are deemed to have committed a criminal offence. As a matter of fact, those mentally ill persons who are not a threat to public safety are being addressed. As I mentioned earlier in this sitting of the House, provisions will be made in the review of the new George Town Hospital.

It is also my understanding that this facility at Northward will be isolated from the general prison population. It will be provided with a padded cell. I have been made to understand that prior to this administration, there was a padded facility at the George Town Hospital, but the previous Government used that facility for something else. I would like to let the public know that it is not the intention of this Bill to incarcerate those people unless they are deemed to be a threat to society.

As the Honourable Second Official Member said, this is a temporary step because at present there is no provision in the Law to keep a person—specifically in the instance which has brought about this Bill—to avoid the seriousness that could have come to other members of the public if this person was not taken care of temporarily. This is the reasoning behind this.

I must say again: there was no collusion of Executive Council on my behalf, or any other's, to ask the Attorney General to bring this Bill.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In listening to the presentation by the Second Official Member, he explained that this is a short-term solution to one isolated case—and I think we all understand and sympathise with that case. He said that there is a deficiency in the existing Law, and that there is nowhere to place a mentally ill individual who goes out and attacks someone—it was not within the Law. I understand that.

However, I understand what the Minister for Health has brought here and I agree that we have that need for this case. We also have another pressing need and I think it is time that we look at the Mental Health situation in general that exists here.

In the last sentence it says: "Special arrangements will be made there [meaning Northward Prison] for the detention and treatment of mentally ill prisoners..." It says that these persons would be isolated. Does that mean their meals and recreation that they are entitled to? Will they be separated for this as well? These are some concerns that I have regarding this Bill. Will they have any contact with the other prisoners there? I would appreciate it if he would explain this in this winding up.

This might be a short term solution, but we have had a need to address our mental health problem for a very long time. I sympathise with people who are mentally ill. I have experienced problems with mental health with a family member, when they were placed in the George Town lockup on more than one occasion. This is not a suitable situation, and I know that all Members of this House are concerned with the George Town lock-up; and I do not believe that this is used to any extent any longer. The West Bay remand centre is not ideal, but I feel that we will address this very shortly.

On Tuesday of this week, I visited the George Town Hospital and there were four mentally ill people being held there because there was no other place for them. I understand this, Madam Speaker, but we have to address this. I am appealing to all Honourable Members of this House to consider a suitable place of abode for the mentally disturbed.

The "Not In My Back Yard" syndrome is very popular today. Earlier last year, the then Minister for Health (the Honourable McKeeva Bush), looked at a centre on Smith Road (where the Cuban refugees are currently housed—the houses known as the Tim Thompson's apartments) to put a proper centre there for the mentally ill people; with a fence, nursing station and so forth, to be properly installed—only to be petitioned against by the residents of that area.

If this was going to be enclosed with a fence, with proper security and a nurse there, I cannot understand why those residents petitioned this when we have such a need for such a facility for our mentally disturbed people. I would like to ask the present Honourable Minister for Health to reconsider developing that same site when the Cubans are removed, because this could be a very good site for our mentally disturbed people.

There is a Day Care Centre in West Bay, and I inquired about two individuals that are (I hate to use the word nuisance, but I cannot think of another term at this point) a nuisance to the public; one is a male, one is a female. They travel the streets of George Town and West Bay interfering with individuals, stealing plants, going to their doorsteps, interfering with their dogs, whatever. I learned that these two individuals were at the West Bay Day Care Centre and I appreciate the efforts there at that centre in working with these two individuals. But, again, this is not good enough and I feel that we need to take a look at another site for our mentally ill.

In asking at the hospital about the number of mentally ill people, I learned that we have over 300 and I believe that we have only two psychiatrists. I hope that in the near future this Law could be looked at in dealing with our mentally ill people because that is a large number for two people to try to handle on a weekly basis.

I also have another question for the Mover. In dealing with the mentally disturbed who are placed at Northward, how often would they be visited by the psychiatrist; and would they be assigned to a medical Social Worker on a one-to-one basis per day, or what would be the situation with this? According to the Mental Health Law of 1979, under section 7, where it speaks about detaining a person, it says that they can be detained for up to six months. It reads: "...the Member in the prescribed form certifying such person to be a patient in need of treatment and stating the nature of the mental disorder suspected and ordering that the patient be kept in detention for a period not exceeding six months within which period the Chief Medical Officer may issue a further certificate in the prescribed form recommending the patient's release or further detention and the Member, upon perusal of such certificate may make an order accordingly."

If we have an isolated case, and this individual is placed there, does that mean that he will just go on for six month intervals, or what will be the situation for this individual? These are questions that I have before I can truly decide on this Bill. I would thank the Mover if he could answer some of these questions.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

A Bill For a Law to Amend the Mental Health Law, 1979, is (as best as my understanding has it) a stopgap measure for a specific situation which has arisen; and, given the circumstances, the Government has had to react.

While this Bill only encompasses sections of the Mental Health Law which needed to be remedied in order for Government to deal with that specific situation (and I do understand that), I would have been a lot more comfortable with its presentation if some specific outline regarding plans for addressing the situation which exists in the country (which I am sure we are all aware of) had been provided.

What I will not do is point fingers, because I remember asking a question in this Honourable House some time back about mentally disabled people and the Minister for Health did explain to some extent that plans were afoot. He mentioned this also this morning. So, I am not suggesting that he, or the Government, or anyone else, has the responsibility resting squarely on their shoulders for not doing anything. But, it is disturbing to me in that we do not know exactly what is happening about a situation that is, to my mind, very critical.

I wish to address a few areas. The Mover of the Motion, the Second Official Member, mentioned a specific case and, if memory serves me right, he mentioned that the person (because of his mental state) was not able to make a plea. Therefore, if I am correct, there is no conviction. It may sound picky, but I wish if he would clear it up. If that person is not convicted, is this Bill, then, addressing in general when it says in its Memorandum of Objects and Reasons: "Special arrangements will be made there for the detention and treatment of mentally ill prisoners and any mentally ill person ordered to be detained under the Mental Health Law for the protection of the public"?

I just want to make clear in my mind that the person we are talking about is not being treated as a prisoner. That is the question that came to mind.

Madam Speaker, I live in Northward, I have lived in Northward in excess of 20 years. I will not go into thoughts regarding the fact that the Prison exists there, but it is my humble view that this is really a stop-gap measure because when it comes to mentally ill patients there are varying degrees of these individuals very parallel to the criminal element. There are those who will commit murder while there are those who will only get themselves involved in pilferage. So it goes from one end to the other with these people, and if we are going to be dealing with it, I fear that many of the wrong people may fall into this trap if this stopgap measure is allowed to extend. I simply wish to say that because (as it so often happens in life), once we take care of a given situation we put it aside because other things become important until another similar situation arises. I sincerely would not like to see this happening.

I do not think that the Prison, regardless of how isolated an individual is, is the right place for these people. I also have to disagree with two other areas I heard mentioned—I have no decision, but I have to state my case. The Honourable Minister for Health mentioned in his delivery about a section in the Hospital being planned for (if I am correct in my understanding) the mentally ill. It is my humble belief that if we are going to address this situation, or this problem, I think we have to look at it from the point of view that these individuals need to be in a locale that is by itself. I think (while, certainly, not being any expert) that it is common when we examine other institutions around the world that they are an entity onto themselves.

I have the greatest respect for the Third Elected Member for George Town, but I have to state on record that I do not agree with her about the Tim Thompson's Apartments being considered for these people. I think that while dollar constraints are being examined, and while something is wishing to be done fairly early, and the fact that this location may be convenient because it exists; I cannot agree with that being the long term solution. As I said before, it is my contention that a complex or a building to house these individuals need to be an entity onto itself. I believe that the residential area surrounding this specific location is such that, while all things may be done properly, the thought alone creates discomfort amongst the people. As a representative of some of those people (when I say some of those people, I mean the people in that area) I have to say that I hope Government is not considering that location at this point in time. That is going a little bit further away from the main topic.

As I said before, I wish for the Mover to clear up those things that I pointed out. I would have been much more comfortable with this Bill if accompanying it was some outline as regards to exactly what is being done about a pressing problem.

Thank you.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.32 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 11.54 AM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As I make my contribution to this Bill, I would like the Government to give some serious consideration to what I have to say. I regret that I was not here when the Second Official Member presented the Bill, but I have spoken with him since and he has briefed me on his presentation.

I believe by now the Government does realise that I am staunchly opposed to this amendment. I will endeavour to give valid reasons why I am opposed to the Bill.

The Bill seeks to amend the Mental Health Law, 1979, by making provisions whereby the Governor may by regulations prescribe any place as a place of safety for the purposes of this Law, and prescribe procedures to be used in the administration of the Law. It goes on to say that; "the Governor would have the power to make regulations under this section, including power to make such supplementary incidental, consequential or transitional provisions as the Governor considers necessary or expedient." In the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, it says: "This Bill will amend the Mental Health Law, 1979 to enable the Governor in Council to prescribe places of safety under that Law for the detention and treatment of mentally ill people. It is intended that the first place of safety to be prescribed will be Northward Prison. Special arrangements will be made there for the detention and treatment of mentally ill prisoners, and any mentally ill person ordered to be detained under the Mental Health Law for the protection of the public."

I would like all to take note of who this will apply to: It will not only apply to mentally ill prisoners, but it will apply to any mentally ill person.

I would like to say from the very beginning that mentally ill people that commit a crime fall into a distinct category. I certainly do not agree that people who are unfit to plead should be excused, they should be punished; the place for them is Prison. But, there should be a facility in every prison to deal with this kind of person. Notice, I am referring to mentally ill criminals, mentally ill prisoners.

There should be a psychiatric facility in the prison to deal with this kind of person; a facility that is staffed and run by medically qualified people. What we now have at Northward Prison, unfortunately, falls very short of that. We have Nurse Jabulami who works there and does a very good job trying to care for the common, everyday health problems of the prisoners. What we offer externally is a weekly visit by a medical practitioner, again, to deal with all medical problems as they present, including the mentally ill patient. We have one visit per month by the Government psychiatrist. All whom I have spoken to consider that the psychiatric service being offered at the moment, to even those who have committed crimes and are incarcerated, is inadequate. I believe that it can be improved without too much expenditure.

The mentally ill persons who have not committed crimes, fall into a completely different category, and in the Memorandum of Objects of Reasons these persons are included: if the Governor feels that they should be put in a place of safety, other than a medical institution, they would be detained and incarcerated and kept in that type of facility.

Already there is a stigma to being in prison. We know very well that there is a stigma attached to being mentally ill. The mentally ill person is extremely vulnerable. After all it is his/her mind that is affected. It is these kinds of added burdens that will only make the patient worse and more difficult to rehabilitate and treat.

I could never, ever, imagine that a mentally ill person, who has not committed a crime would be sent to Northward Prison. I could never imagine our doing such a thing in this Legislative Assembly. As a doctor, and as a human being, I cannot support that kind of action. I ask the Government to seriously consider this amendment.

I would like to deal with a number of issues, and perhaps it is best to categorise those: First I will try to give this House a brief overview of mental illness in the Cayman Islands. I think that kind of information will be of great help. Secondly, I will talk about the existing facilities that we have to treat the mentally ill and the current practices in managing the mentally ill. Thirdly, I will deal with ideal conditions for treating the mentally ill, and then I will go on to talk about recommendations—not only my recommendations, but other health professionals' recommendations for immediate changes to address the problems we are faced with in the Cayman Islands. Lastly, I will talk about future plans for mental health care in the Cayman Islands.

Mentally ill people are patients, first of all. It is important for us to realise that they are patients in the very same sense as any other patient that is sick; it is a sickness of the brain, a sickness of the mind. It is as much a sickness as sickness of the heart, pathology of the bowels, or any other part of the human being. Furthermore, mental illness is extremely common. We are dealing with many, many persons in our community. The prevalence of mental illness in the Cayman Islands is presently about 1500 people for our population. That means there are about 50 in every thousand people who are thought to be mentally ill. The statistics show this and those statistics are easily available to all who would like them.

In neighbouring countries, such as the United States, mental illness is even more prevalent. In this last issue of The American Journal of Psychiatry, there is a discussion here on mental disorders in the United States. I will read at least two paragraphs from this, to give a bit of insight into the problem in that country: "Far more people suffer from mental disorders than previously assumed in the United States, according to a national survey published in the January Archives of General Psychiatry. In fact, nearly one in two adults experienced a mental disorder at some time in his or her life. Almost one in three suffered from one during the previous year. The survey is the most comprehensive look at the mental health of the United States' citizens to date. It finds that roughly one-sixth of the population grapples with three or more mental disorders over the course of their lives. These people tend to sink further and further into psychological turmoil. They accounted for a majority of lifetime mental conditions reported by the national sample. They accounted for an even greater majority of disorders experienced in the previous year."

So, Madam Speaker, mental illness is common in the United States; it is common in Jamaica; it is common in the Cayman Islands. Therefore, adequate provisions need to be made for this part of our population.

Medically speaking, mental illness is not exactly what the average person perceives it to be. Often one conjures in his mind a ranting, raving, violent person. This could not be further from the truth. That is only a small percentage of the mentally ill persons. The majority of mentally ill people are frightened, extremely timid, afraid—they are not violent. There are some that are violent, in particular the manic and the hypo-manic types of persons. But these too, need to be treated by medically qualified people who understand if there is any hope of their making a recovery.

There are about 140 chronically ill persons in the Cayman Islands who are psychiatric. By far these are psychotic people who suffer from depression and mania, or hypo-mania. Then there is a smaller number who suffer from schizophrenia. Hypo-mania and mania, and depression sometimes go hand-in-hand in the same individual so that person often has manic depression—periods when they have mania, where they are extremely volatile and apt to do anything. This is the category of persons that many individuals refer to as mad people.

The depressed individual is often the opposite and is withdrawn, timid, frightened; will often not even want to come out of their room. They are no threat, usually, to other persons. The threat is often to themselves. These people often commit suicide because they cannot continue to live in the way that they find themselves living. If there is no light at the end of the tunnel then, often, they end up committing suicide. You can see there, Madam Speaker, that this type of individual should never be put in a prison environment. He has to be protected from himself. He has to be protected in a medical institution, properly supervised, so that he can make a recovery.

Presently, there is a Government Psychiatrist who holds regular clinics at the George Town Hospital, and the majority of psychiatric patients are seen on an outpatient basis. The number of admissions to the ward itself remains, thank God, very low. There is no doubt that these people who have to be admitted to the general ward at the Hospital pose a definite problem. They often disturb other patients and they roam around the ward and sometimes get in trouble themselves. Remember, these persons are often out of touch with reality. They are unable to taste and smell properly; they do not see properly at times; and their whole perception of the outside world is completely different from rational people like ourselves. Therefore, they are apt to behave in a much different fashion.

No prison officer is able to cope with this type of person. Therefore, I am suggesting that even for the criminally mentally insane we need to set up a psychiatric department in the Prison. There is no question in my mind that that is what is needed. For the other category that has committed no crimes, we can easily make provisions for them. The past (and possibly, this present) Government was given recommendations about how to care for these patients. We are not talking about a great number of individuals who need admission and inpatient care. A suggestion was made to modify the Nurses' Lounge on the General Ward, at minimal cost—there is hardly more than one in the hospital at any one time—that could be modified and serve as a psychiatric unit. And although it would not be ideal, the individual would be away from the other patients and, if necessary, if the person is very, very ill, they could be restrained there without disturbing other patients in the ward.

There is also Room 2 at the General Ward, that is presently used as a store room. It has been suggested that the storage room could be used for a psychiatric unit and it is easy enough to find alternative space for storage.

There is another suggestion: There is enough space where the General Surgeon conducts his clinic, and next to that is a lounge; as far as I am concerned, that would be ideal for a psychiatric unit. The lounge there is hardly utilised by the staff. Already we have five counseltoriums for doctors and it has always been my opinion that there should only be specialists in the hospital doing outpatient clinics. General practice, I do not believe, is necessary at the hospital level, there are many general practitioners in the community. What we need in the future is to ensure that we have specialists and specialist clinics at our hospital and there will not be any necessity for more than four of the counseltoriums. So, even in our present facility, believe you me, there is space to accommodate these persons. But, because of many different factors, so far no one has done the conversion and modification as required.

Patients can often be treated at home. There is no question about that. Many mentally ill patients are, in fact, better taken care of by their relatives, as long as they are not too ill. The community nurses can go out and visit them and give them their monthly injections, as is the case with schizophrenia. But there is a problem with the Law. The 1979 Law does not empower the nurses to give the injections if the patient does not comply. The nurse could be at a disadvantage here. As far as I am concerned, we should be looking at an amendment like that, rather than this amendment that is before the House.

The next thing: there is a problem with the mentally ill juveniles—there is not enough teeth in the Law to deal with these mentally ill juvenile criminals. We need to address that problem.

The ideal conditions for treating the mentally ill, obviously, is to have the outpatient service and the community based service as we now have and proper inpatient facilities. What I have suggested is not ideal, and I would not stand here saying that would be ideal. But, it is far better than sending them to Northward Prison, where they will not be managed by medical practitioners at all, except on a visiting basis.

It is amazing the number of mentally ill patients and their relatives, who have called me asking if it is true that they are going to send these people to Northward Prison. It is amazing, the number of people who are concerned. They are frightened at the very thought that when they relapse again they are going to be sent to Northward Prison. Something like that may make them relapse even quicker, or perhaps they will be scuttled off to Miami before they really relapse and have another break down of mental disorder.

I was talking about ideal facilities. What I believe we need to address more urgently than anything else is ideal inpatient facilities. We already have a psychiatrist. That is quite sufficient to handle the patient load that we have here. He has a number of nurses and, according to him, his staff is adequate for the volume of work; it is just the facility that we need for them to operate in.

In any good psychiatric unit there has to be maximum security rooms, or a room that can serve as maximum security when it is needed and could otherwise be easily used to accommodate less ill persons. When a person is very, very ill, often we regard them as Stage I, with Stage I privileges—which is absolutely nothing—they are completely restrained and sedated. Stage II, they are not restrained, but must remain in the unit. Stage III, they can leave the unit and walk around the ward. Stage IV, they can leave the hospital, but must be supervised. At Stage V, they can go out whenever they require, but they must return at certain times. Finally, these people are well and they are sent home. They are followed up in the outpatient department and they get the moral and medical support of trained health professionals.

There needs to at least be a decent sized room where these persons can be accommodated for group therapy. Sometimes it is very necessary to give them various tasks to do as they recuperate. One of the worst things is to be mentally ill and be left alone because these people cannot even plan their day. So, they need to be supervised, they need to be given tasks. Often they do ceramics, they make belts, they do whatever can be provided for them. They even form groups where they can help keep the unit clean—they are given various chores to keep busy. They sometimes engage in sports—of course they are usually very clumsy; these individuals often cut themselves and are very uncoordinated—so, they must be supervised. But they are given liberties to enjoy certain sports and inside games, swimming, etcetera. The important thing is, they need supervision.

We do not have a great number that need inpatient care so, obviously, we would not be able (nor would it be necessary) to provide an elaborate psychiatric unit here on the Islands. We need to have a psychiatric unit of a certain size that can cope with the caseloads that we have.

In the immediate future (in fact, in this Phase I of the new Health Plan) a Psychiatric Unit is included. This Government has felt that it is a pressing need. The previous Minister made attempts to address the problem for those who are psychiatrically ill because of drugs (and there are quite a number of them here on the Island whose psychiatric illness is drug induced), in fact we voted the monies for the purchase of the house there in Breakers. Unfortunately, nothing has been done about that as yet, and I do understand the reason why the Ministry has not pursued that. The Minister also thought that some of the vagrants (psychiatric patients) could be housed in the Tim Thompson's apartments. Frankly, I do not think that those apartments are ideal for the purpose.

Those individuals that I am talking about, those very, very chronic, violent individuals; or those who are simply withdrawn and psychotic and are a danger to themselves and sometimes to others, could easily be accommodated at the present George Town Hospital with little modification. You only have to ask the psychiatrist and he will give many suggestions, and he has made suggestions in the past.

In Phase I of the plans, I understand there is going to be a Materials Management Building; a Physio Therapy Unit; and another unit that I cannot recall at this time, but, certainly, a psychiatric facility is included in Phase I. So, before too long, we will have the ideal facilities to treat our psychiatric patients. One should hope then that the avenue to take is a minor type of modification of the George Town Hospital that can serve the purpose to take care of these kinds of persons until we get a proper psychiatric unit.

The previous Law said that: "4. A guardian, the Commissioner or the nearest relative of any person who believed that that person to be in need of treatment under this Law may make request to the Chief Medical Officer that such person be detained for observation and the Chief Medical Officer may, at his discretion, order and require that such person be so detained."

As far as I am concerned, this is quite in order and is being done and is working well. Section 5 says: "Where it appears to any constable that any person is, by reason of mental disorder, an immediate danger, or is likely to become a danger to himself or others, he may take such person into protective custody and with all reasonable despatch bring him before a Government Medical Officer who shall examine such person and if such Medical Officer considers that such person should be further detained he shall direct that he be detained in a hospital or in prescribed place of safety able to receive and care for him..."

I thought that was well written, Madam Speaker. That is exactly what we needed then, and exactly what we need now—a place of safety able to receive and care for him. Certainly, what we now have at Northward Prison, or any other place I can think about, except, perhaps, the Hospital, does not meet those conditions: "6. A person detained under section 4 or 5 may, at the discretion of the Chief Medical Officer be kept in detention for a period not exceeding forty-eight hours from the time of his original detention or apprehension and, during the said period, be under the observation of the Chief Medical Officer and of at least one other medical practitioner appointed by the Chief Medical Officer for that purpose."

The Law is very comprehensive and the only problem that I understand the present Government faces is the violent individuals, and maybe one isolated incident caused the problem. I agree that should not be allowed to occur, but the thing to do is not to ask the political officials of this country to decide where the mentally ill should be put. But should be left in the hands of the doctors to care for them. Let the doctors, doctor.

Thank you.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED 12.31 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED 2.20 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Debate continues on the Mental Health (Amendment) Bill, 1994. The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, this Bill has created worry, and perhaps quite rightly, among Honourable Members of this House. What is proposed and will be moved by the Mover of this Motion, the Second Official Member at the Committee stage will be two amendments to clarify and make more explicit the regulations. What it is intended is to remove the words in the Memorandum of Objects and Reason which says: "It is intended that the first place of safety to be prescribed will be Northward Prison," and to add into section 15 (1) (a) after the word "place" where it first appears the words; "which the Chief Medical Officer certifies", or words to that effect. So what would then happen is the Law would then say; "15 (1) The Governor may by regulations— (a) prescribe any place which the Chief Medical Officer certifies as appropriate as a place of safety for the purposes of this Law", or words to that effect.

The objection to this, and the worry (and I think quite rightly) was that maybe a mentally... and there are three description of a patient that the Second Elected Member for George Town, our Doctor has pointed out... But it would be a person who may be detained under section 5 of the Law to be put into a place of safety which has been prescribed but, which the Chief Medical Officer certifies is proper to receive and care for him/her.

Madam Speaker, in section 5 of the Law, —and to dispel any fears that the public may have had, I know the Second Elected Member for George Town read—specifically states: "Apprehension of person suspected to be a danger. 5. Where it appears to any constable that any person is, by reason of mental disorder, an immediate danger, or is likely to become a danger to himself or others, he may take such person into protective custody and with all reasonable despatch bring him before a Government Medical Officer... [And that Medical Officer has to be a person lawfully practising medicine in the islands under the definition. It goes on to say] ...who shall examine such a person and if such Medical Officer considers that such person should be further detained he shall direct that he be detained in a hospital or in a prescribed place of safety able to receive and care for him, there to await the decision of the Chief Medical Officer as to his further detention."

So the place of safety has (by law) to be one which the Medical Officer, not the Police, deems to be a place of safety able to receive and care for him. So the Law itself, I think has seen fit to ensure that people who have a mental disorder or mental illness (and some categories I know apply only to some sections and some to others), who can be detained will only be detained in a proper place where there are proper facilities to care for him.

So in any event, Madam Speaker, I can assure the public and Honourable Members of this House that I would never agree to any type of regulation that was prescribing a place that was not a proper place for someone ill. So the Chief Medical Officer's submission to Executive Council would normally have with it a Chief Medical Officer's opinion stating that the place is a proper place for a mentally ill person to go. I think it is very important and I know many Members, especially all three Elected Member for George Town, stressed that it is important that the place be a proper one to care for them.

I will assure Honourable Members that for eight years I was the Member responsible for Health and this Law was used very sparingly and extremely carefully, because we are actually dealing with people who many times, physically and mentally, have lost their senses, as the Doctor mentioned; and really have to be very carefully and dedicatedly looked after.

I believe that this will now satisfy Members, and I guess, perhaps, it is another good way for Members of the House to get together, when Government does something that needs amending. I think one thing we have to do is to go ahead and make the necessary amendments to ensure that the largest number of Members of the House are satisfied with it. So we are happy that this has been pointed out; we are happy to make the amendment and, hopefully, with that, Madam Speaker, I will ask all Members to please support the Bill.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The announcement of the modification to the amendment by the last speaker certainly brings a sense of relief and, yes, it does place the business in a position where it can be supported by most, if not all, Members of this Honourable House.

I am happy that position was taken, because, otherwise, I would have found it very difficult to support. Indeed, I was prepared to ask the Government to consider withdrawing the Motion. One is left to wonder why the consultative process so often touted by Ministers of Government to exist among the National Team was not employed; why did it have to take the eminent Second Elected Member for George Town, being a medical professional, and the education (because it was an education that he left with the House this morning) to do such a thing. It strikes me that the Government could have saved themselves much by seeking his professional input before this stage.

Be that as it may, I am happy to have had the opportunity to listen to him inform us from his professional position, and I am sure that the things he left with us this morning will not be lost anytime soon.

The question of the treatment of mentally ill people is a sensitive issue, and I recall very well from studies in the sociology of deviants that the particular category of prisoner labelled the "criminally insane" poses dilemmas for countries with much more advanced techniques and many more trained personnel than we have. Many of these people have to be administered daily doses of medication; and that medication and those psychiatric evaluations have to be done by the highest and most skilled people in the profession of medicine.

So I am happy that we averted a situation where we placed these categories of prisoners (and not only these but those who were of a lesser problem) in the prison. Madam Speaker, I want to underscore this point: One of the problems of mixing these kinds of people with the general prison population is that often we have cases of abuse—sexual abuse as well as other abuses. So I am happy that by the amendment and changes we can avert the possibility of that happening.

In conclusion, I am glad to lend my support to the proposed changes.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I am happy that Members now find commonality in the Bill and can support it. I think in defence of the Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation, that when the matter was discussed with the National Team (and it was discussed), I think his opinion was that Members had a clear understanding of the issue. It was not a matter which was done across the board for mental patients, but I understand from him that he explained it was for this particular case. Perhaps he did not grasp the feelings of Members that they were not going to support it.

Nevertheless, there have been things said in debate concerning psychiatric treatment, and a good evaluation of the problems presented by the Second Elected Member for George Town. But it is not fair for anyone in this House to say that nothing was being done. I want to clear the air on that issue; and, in particular, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, in his usual fashion, went on to derail the Government about their priorities and what we do and what we have not done. As is usual with the Opposition, they throw all sort of inferences into a very important matter.

Madam Speaker, Members will recall that in June of last year, I made a statement to this Honourable House, which I am going to read for clarification because it seems that everybody wants a facility for drug rehabilitation; everybody wants a facility for people mentally incapable of handling themselves, but nobody wants it anywhere near them. In this little Island—where we only have 22 miles by seven miles of space—how can we do all that everybody is asking for without upsetting people?

Madam Speaker, I well recall last year when we were dealing with Tent City. The Government received a petition that it must not go by the Prison; Bodden Town was not accepting it, and one of the places that was suggested (and the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, was a signatory to that petition) was that it should go somewhere about on the Seven Mile Beach. It should not go by the Prison [in Northward] but it must go down in the heart of the tourist resort. And this is the kind of tripe that comes around, and the politics which are played when we have important issues to deal with.

When Members say there was no programme [in place], that is not true. There was a programme, and I am going to tell Members what happened to it. I quote: "This Statement, Madam Speaker, is intended to inform Honourable Members as to progress being made in responding to the needs of a relatively small but most unfortunate number of our people; people whose problems are often difficult to manage. This causes them, and often their families, a good deal of distress. I am, of course, referring to the chronic mentally ill and mentally handicapped, and especially those without the means available to adequately respond to their condition.

"Presently, our Mental Health Services are limited to outpatient consultation by the psychiatrist at George Town Hospital and regular visits (twice monthly) to Faith Hospital in Cayman Brac, follow up activities by the Psychiatric Social Worker and inpatient treatment for the acutely ill (i.e., those who are disturbed or seriously disturbed). Appropriate secure beds at the George Town Hospital for the care of the severely disturbed patients and patients who abscond will be included in the Master Development Plan of the George Town Hospital Complex.

"However, it is well recognised that the chronic mentally ill will be benefited by medical and social supervision. Some clients are difficult to control at home, some unemployable without any family supervision and some are causing a public nuisance. We need to provide a programme that can offer residential care for those who cannot be cared for at home, due to lack of accommodation or family supervision, and day care activities for the chronic mentally ill. A day care facility will relieve the burden on families in the day time, in addition to providing rehabilitation activities to the clients who are mentally ill and mentally handicapped to restore some level of functioning.

"The Government intends to renovate the Government apartments on Smith Road to provide residential care for 6 to 8 clients initially, and day care for another 7 to 8 clients. This would accommodate those known to be in most severe need. One community mental health nurse will be in charge of the residential and day care center. The Psychiatrist and Psychiatric Social worker would participate in the activities as deemed necessary. The social Services Department would be called on to assist as necessary. We would have to employ an occupational therapist, caretakers, and three aides for the management and implementation of the programmes of the residential and day care centre. Community involvement through volunteers, voluntary organisations and families will be encouraged. Initially the day care clients can be dropped and collected by the families where feasible and we would procure a vehicle to enable the staff to assist in transportation of clients. I anticipate the recurring expenditure to be around $150,000 per year.

"The programme will offer supervision for the taking, and administering of medication, occupational therapy and life skills training and, in some cases, full rehabilitation. It is hoped that some clients will be employed. The programme will offer clinical assistance and social support to the clients and families. Clients who are acutely disturbed, suicidal, excessively aggressive or significantly disabled will not be included in this programme as they may need hospitalisation. Those recovering in the hospital from bouts of such conditions will be able to benefit from the day care programme.

"The principle of helping individuals to help themselves and one another would be the essence of the programme.

"The programme models will be flexible to meet the needs of the clients. The clients will have the opportunity to learn to cope effectively with situations in a programme where staff and patients mutually participate in various activities and will also be taught social life management and recreational skills to help them overcome difficulties in these programmes. It is anticipated that the clients will be actively involved in their daily activities; cooking, housekeeping, gardening, maintenance of grounds, etcetera, thus providing them the opportunity to learn as well as keeping the overhead costs to the minimum.

"The activities include:

1. Treatment through staff to client; client to client; staff to staff interaction.
2. Social and recreational activities.
3. Skill training through community practice as well as formal instructions in social communication, social interaction, relaxation training, etcetera.
4. Training in daily living activities such as grooming and personal hygiene, shopping, independent living, cooking and basic housekeeping.
5. General Health and wellness promotion through information and activities such as exercise, habit control, etcetera.
6. Skill development in the management of their medications.

"It is expected that the programme will remove some of these clients from the streets thus making them less liable to be drawn into antisocial and criminal acts, give families relief and respite from the burden of responsibility for caring for them; thus providing a humane approach to the chronic mentally ill citizens of these Islands. In addition we will be employing community mental health nurses to complement the psychiatric services of the Islands.

"The proposed facility is of temporary duration of 2 to 3 years as this will be included in the Master Development Plan of the George Town Hospital Complex. I ask the members of the community to lend their support to the Government in developing this programme for some of our less fortunate [fellow] citizens." [1993 Official Hansard Report, Vol. I page 390]

Thank you, Madam Speaker, for allowing me to read that long statement. But no one can say that Government did not attempt, and that they did not know that there was a programme planned. I recall the Fourth Elected Member for George Town (who said today that it should not go in what is now known as the Tim Thompson's Apartments) coming across right to where I am now standing, shaking my hand, saying; "We think this is something that is needed because of the situation on the street with these mentally disturbed people."

All Members I believe congratulated me—except for the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. He did not directly say anything to me, but I heard him mention that it was something that was needed. Today, they are saying that it should not be at the Tim Thompson's Apartments. Why in the world, Madam Speaker, should we not put it there? But, yet, it is loaded with Cuban refugees today. It is not good enough for our own, but good enough for somebody else's.

Madam Speaker, to say that there was not a programme, and that I was whistling in the wind—the Plan for the Mental Health Unit was done and shown to Members. It carries something like five bedrooms with resident managers' bedrooms, and also a daycare centre, a store-room, a laundry, with fencing for security. So those Members whose memory seems to be slipping today should well stop and think. Let them stop playing politics with every issue, and every chance they get to slap the Government in the face. The election is two years down the way and they will have their say on that day—so will the people.

Do not say that the Government did not attempt a programme. Just let me tell you, Madam Speaker, if I had my way that programme would be in place, because it was not something that was going to disturb the community; it was temporary and it is something that everybody now today says is much needed. Madam Speaker, you cannot walk down the middle... and I keep saying this to Members: like me or like me not, you have to be on one side or another—you cannot pacify the Opposition and pacify the Government at the same time. Opposition is going to be against Government and Government is going to object to the Opposition's objecting to them. Madam Speaker, we have to learn that we are representatives and when national issues come forward we have to stand our ground.

If I was the only Member in Government today, if I was the only Elected Member on Executive Council, then they could blame me. But they cannot blame Executive Council because it was not the Executive Council. We have to be led by civil servants to do these things. And I say again, it was not the Government who stopped it.

The Fourth Elected Member and the other Members who objected to the programme going at the Tim Thompson's Apartments supported it last year. Do they want a facility? Or whenever we put up a facility anywhere, are they going to complain about it if it is located beside somebody's house? Let us realise Madam Speaker, that the Government does not have a lot of property all about the place just empty. We do not. So where it is going to go? Anywhere a facility or unit goes, except if it goes in the Hospital (and even that) will be an attendant problem. This plan and the proposal which I read to the House today, and last year, was not put together by McKeeva Bush; it was put together by the psychiatrist and the staff at the George Town Hospital—the same ones we depend on for medical and technical advice.

Do not say that the Government did not do anything. Do not say that there is not something in existence. If I had my way... if McKeeva Bush had his way, it would be done. Today it would have been done. But I am only one Elected Member.

I believe now, Madam Speaker, that should clear the air on whether Government had intentions and had, in fact, started to do something. And I believe the amendment that my colleague, the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation, mentioned should satisfy the House. But I warn the House that at some point somebody is going to be disgruntled about where it is put. I hope it will not be like everything else; when we put forward the drug rehabilitation centre there was a big hullabaloo about that, motions to stop it and all sort of inferences that Government was doing this and somebody was getting something out of it; should you put the Mental Health Unit by the Tim Thompson's Apartment, no that was not good enough. Last year it was good for some Members, but it was not good. Tent City? Do not go by the Prison with it; put it down on Seven Mile Beach.

When are we going to stick to our guns, as men and women who are elected by the people, to do something about the problems? Not to find a way around it, to kick the Government in the face when the Government presents a problem and a solution. It is time that it stop. Now, if you all want to support me any other time, go ahead; but I have had enough of it.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate would the Honourable Second Official Member wish to reply?

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Let me say at the outset that I am very happy to accept and to move when we come to the Committee stage the amendment that has been outlined by the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation. I certainly had absolutely no intention of a place—Northward Prison or indeed anywhere else—being prescribed by the Executive Council until steps had been taken to make it suitable for the reception of the persons intended to go there. I certainly took that for granted (as far as I was concerned, it went without saying), and I am more than happy to make that specific point in the amending of the Bill and I am sure that the proposed amendment, when it comes to the Committee stage, will be seen by Members to do exactly that.

Certainly, when I spoke at the start of this debate I attempted then (albeit an outline) to state the sort of changes and structures that would be put in place at the Northward Prison. Of course, I am not a medically qualified man; I certainly do not have that expertise, and I would not claim it. It is not for me to say what those should be other than as a responsible human being. But I am happy that the Bill will reflect during the Committee stage what I have already said.

There have been a number of points and questions raised by Members during the debate. I think quite a number of these will be dealt with by the amendment which I have just referred to; so I do not intend to deal with all of those, certainly not in detail. But I will try and go through various Members' queries because some of them are still highly relevant.

The Third Elected Member for George Town mentioned a number of things that she was concerned about. I think most of those will be addressed by the proposal that the Chief Medical Officer be satisfied before any place is prescribed. She certainly mentioned things like isolation of the individuals concerned, and where they would obtain their meals; contact with other prisoners, if indeed it is at the Northward Prison, etcetera. Well, I think those are all the things that will be dealt with by the Medical Officer before the place itself is prescribed.

Of course the other thing, as the Second Elected Member for George Town alluded to, is that it is going to depend on the state of the individuals as well and not only the state of that individual when he is first put into the place, but also his continuing state whilst there because, hopefully, it will improve and certainly is likely to change from time to time. Therefore, the regime or the particular treatment that is being offered will itself change from time to time as the responsible Medical Officer decides.

The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation quite rightly at the start of his debate responded to the suggestion that there may have been some collusion as to why I, as the Attorney General, was presenting and putting forward this piece of legislation as opposed to the Minister for Health. I am quite happy to confirm exactly what the Honourable Minister has said, in that the reason I chose to present this piece of legislation is because it is, as far as I am concerned, for a specific purpose (which is what I outlined in the first spoke) to remedy a deficiency in the substantive Law. It was felt that it would be more appropriate for me, as a Lawyer, to explain the technicalities of the law and why it was needed. I think that underscores the fact that this amendment was in no way designed for the Government to address the problem with mental health in this country.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town asked some specific questions relating to the individual that I referred to in my opening speech, who was found by the Summary Court to be unfit to plead to a charge. That point is still relevant, so I will certainly answer it. At the present time the particular individual has been remanded under the Criminal Procedure Code in custody; which means that he is a prisoner. That is what the order of the Court was. But when I read out the relevant section of the Criminal Procedure Code it is not pending a decision of the Governor in Council as to the next decision to be taken for detention. Of course when that decision is taken then it will be on the grounds of a patient, and will be dealt with in accordance with the amendments.

Perhaps that clears that up. I should add another point to this because I do not want Members to be confused about the purpose for which I have introduced this amending Bill—which I have no intention of going through again because I explained it in a lot of detail when I first opened the debate. The order that has been made (and, indeed, will be made in the future by the Governor in Council) is not under the Mental Health Law or, indeed, under the amendment that is before the House today—it is under the Criminal Procedure Code.

The sole purpose of this amendment today to deal with the situation is to allow a place of safety to be prescribed under the Mental Health Law, and it is that place of safety that is then used under the Criminal Procedure Code. But any order that relates to persons found medically unfit to plead is under the Criminal Procedure Code not the Mental Health Law. The Mental Health Law quite correctly is there to deal with mentally ill people in society, and not as the Second Elected Member for George Town, correctly pointed out, the criminally insane. That is a question for the Criminal Law to deal with and it is how our Criminal Law deals with it.

So I hope, Madam Speaker, that matters have now been fully aired—and I think it is only right and proper that something that is of considerable public concern should be fully aired—that Members will feel able to support this amending Bill.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The motion is that a Bill entitled the Mental Health (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED: THE MENTAL HEALTH (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

THE STRATA TITLES REGISTRATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Clerk: The Strata Titles Registration (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I move the Second Reading of a Bill For a Law to Amend the Strata Titles Registration Law, 1973.

Madam Speaker, this short Bill is introduced as the first stage of the implementation of a reform of the Strata Titles Registration Law, 1973. The Law is 21 years old and requires reform to continue the benefit to the economic development of these islands. The short Bill makes two changes to the existing Law.

Firstly, in clause 2 it will allow the subdivision of raw land in addition to land already built on to be registered as a strata plan. The second change is in clause 3, which inserts a new Part IV A into the Law to allow the phased development of strata lots. This also will benefit the financing and marketing of developments.

Madam Speaker, this short Bill has been brought about because of complaints from members of the public, mainly developers, who no doubt have experienced hardships and problems with the Law because of its age. It is intended to revamp the old Law but in an effort to keep things on an even keel we decided to do this short amendment to rectify these two areas. I ask all Honourable Members for their support.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled, the Strata Titles Registration (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading. The motion is open for debate.

If there is no debate would the Honourable Minister wish to add anything further.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Just to thank Honourable Members for their support.

The Speaker: The motion is that a Bill entitled the Strata Titles Registration (Amendment) Bill, 1994 be given a Second Reading. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED: THE STRATA TITLES REGISTRATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: The House will now go into Committee to consider various Bills.

THE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

DEFERMENT OF COMMITTEE STAGE ON BILL

The Chairman: The next Bill is the Housing Development Corporation (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Chairman, I invited the Chairman of the Housing Development Board to appear before the Committee. He is on his way, and I am wondering if you could go to the next three Bills and come back to the Housing Development Corporation (Amendment) Bill? I think what he has to say, in view of what some Members were asking, he could explain better to the Members.

The Chairman: That is possible, except that in our Standing Orders it is the Standing Select Committee that has the power to send for witnesses. But our powers to send for anyone to speak in the Assembly comes under the Privileges Law. I think normally it is proper to ask the Committee or the House if people could come in—we do not just do it off the bat like that.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Madam Chairman. If you will recall I wrote to you about it today, and I think that is the route you have to take; if the Members of the Committee have to be asked, then I think we should. But they are the ones asking the questions about the Bill. It would be good to hear him if he could get here in time.

The Chairman: Yes. Did you say he is on his way now?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Ma'am.

The Chairman: May I ask Honourable Members if they have any objection to having the Chairman of the Housing Development Corporation down?

We can then move on to the next Bill until he arrives. The next Bill is the Tax Concessions (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

THE TAX CONCESSIONS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Clerk: Clause 1—Short title

Clause 2—Amendment to the Tax Concessions Law (Revised).

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 and 2 do stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate I should put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 1 AND 2 OF THE TAX CONCESSIONS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994, PASSED.

Clerk: A Bill For a Law to Amend the Tax Concessions Law (Revised).

The Chairman: The question is that the title do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes it.

AGREED: TITLE PASSED.

THE MENTAL HEALTH (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

The Chairman: The next Bill is the Mental Health (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

Clerk: Clause 1—Short title.

The Chairman: The question is that clause 1 do stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSE 1 PASSED

Clerk: Clause 2—Amendment of the Mental Health Law, 1979.

The Chairman: The next clause—clause 2; the Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

I wish to move an amendment to clause 2 of the Bill. Because I have been unable to give the requisite notice, I should first move the suspension of Standing Order 52 (2), to allow an amendment to be brought without notice.

The Chairman: I do not think that that is necessary because the Chairman has the power to give leave without the two days' notice, which I have done accordingly.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: I am very pleased to hear that, Madam Chairman. In that case I move an amendment, which I am not sure has been circulated as yet... I have a typed copy, but I think the Legislative Assembly's staff are copying it to be circulated. Do you have a copy, Madam Chairman?

The Chairman: I have a copy, but I had hoped that all Members would have had a copy too. Could we see that all Members have this copy? If I have a copy, I am sure other Members will be able to have it.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Chairman, I think it is also fair to say that this amendment was discussed with all Members of the Legislative Assembly and agreed. Certainly we would like to see the amendment, but it has already been agreed to.

The Chairman: Thank you, if we could just wait for a few seconds we will have copies for everybody. (Pause)

Honourable Second Official Member, I think you can now proceed.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

I will read the proposed amendment which is to clause 2 of the Bill. It reads as follows: "In the new section 15(1)(a) of the Mental Health Law, 1979, (to be substituted by clause 2 of the Mental Health (Amendment) Bill, 1994) after the word 'place' where it first occurs, there shall be inserted the words 'which the Chief Medical Officer certifies is appropriate (in all the circumstances) to receive and care for a mentally disordered person.'"

The Chairman: The question is that the amendment as stated by the Honourable Second Official Member be made. If there is no debate.

Mr. Tibbetts.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Chairman, just a question. The amendment that is proposed, I do not see any amendment to the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons. Maybe I do not know what I am saying, but I do not see any amendment to the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons.

The Chairman: I think you will appreciate that the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, while it is not part of the Bill, it was stated I think by the Honourable Second Official Member that there would be an amendment to it.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Yes, that is quite correct, Madam Chairman, there will be an amendment to it. But, strictly speaking, the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons does not form part of the Bill; so it does not fall (if I am correct) in being considered by this Committee. But I have already stated it and I will repeat it in committee that the amendment will be made.

The Chairman: I shall now put the question, that the amendment as stated by the Second Official Member be made. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THAT CLAUSE 2 BE AMENDED.

The Chairman: The question is that clause 2 as amended do stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate, I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSE 2 AS AMENDED PASSED.

Clerk: A Bill For a Law to Amend the Mental Health Law, 1979.

The Chairman: The question is that the Title do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: TITLE PASSED.

The Chairman: The next Bill is the Strata Titles Registration (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

THE STRATA TITLES REGISTRATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Clerk: Clause 1—Short title.
Clause 2—Strata and strata lots of land.
Clause 3—Phased development.

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 1, 2, and 3 do stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 1, 2, AND 3 OF THE STRATA TITLES REGISTRATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994, PASSED.

Clerk: A Bill For a Law to Amend the Strata Titles Registration (Amendment) Law, 1973.

The Chairman: The question is that the title do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: TITLE PASSED.

RE-COMMITTAL OF THE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Chairman of the Housing Development Corporation Board is here. But he has one problem—he does not have a coat on, and I hope the House will allow him to come in. The purpose as I said, is for Members who raised certain questions, to have a chance to get them answered.

The Chairman: He does have on a shirt, I hope.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Oh, yes, he does; and a tie—best of all he has on a pair of pants.

The Chairman: Could you ask the Serjeant-at-Arms to bring him in please?

MR. DANIEL SCOTT, CHAIRMAN HOUSING DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION
(3.18 PM)

The Chairman: Mr. Scott, thank you for coming in. Have a seat.

The Bill before us to be considered is the Housing Development Corporation (Amendment) Bill, 1994. There are two clauses in the Bill.

Clerk: Clause 1—Short title.

The Chairman: The question is that clause 1 do stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate, I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSE 1 PASSED.

Clerk: Clause 2—Amendment of the Housing Development Corporation Law, 1981.

The Chairman: The question is that clause 2 do stand part of the Bill. This is open for debate. If anyone wishes to ask the Chairman of the Housing Development Corporation questions, they may do so now.

Mrs. Berna Murphy.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Mr. Scott, could you kindly tell us when the mortgage portfolio is sold, will the same rate of interest apply? For example if someone is paying 9%, if that is sold will those same terms apply?

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: The intention is that the Board has recommended, and it is certainly going forward, that any sale of the mortgage portfolio to an institution that is licensed to transact business in lending (most likely it would be a bank), would be on the same terms and conditions as those portfolios currently held by the Housing Development Corporation. In other words, if it is a fixed rate of interest, the banks would buy the portfolio on that basis.

I have been advised by several of the banks that that will not cause a problem because in most cases persons come back to refinance their mortgage prior to the 20 year expiration; at which point in time if they need to renegotiate they can do so. But, certainly, as it stands, persons transferring their mortgages would have the same terms and conditions.

The Chairman: Dr. Stephenson Tomlinson.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Mr. Scott, will you tell us if the holders of debentures are happy for the Housing Development Corporation to divest its assets and also, about the debenture certificates; what are the terms and conditions?

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: Madam Chairman, we have obviously been very wary, as far as approaching the holders of debentures on this issue—based on the fact that the Law itself, as it was previously drafted, did not allow us to do so. Nevertheless, the feedback that we have been given since the Bill has been raised in the House, is that those who have spoken to me (some whom are substantial debenture holders), would have absolutely no problem with redeeming it; mainly because they are also the banks on the island that would be participating in a lot of cases (one way or the other) in mortgage lending themselves rather than go through the Housing Development Corporation as an intermediary.

On the question of the terms of the debentures itself, basically we have to give the holder three months' notice that we do intend to redeem, and there is no penalty for other redemption.

The Chairman: Mr. Tibbetts.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Mr. Scott, just a follow up on an answer you gave to a previous question. You said that the majority of the people who have mortgages usually refinance before the 20 year period is up. At which time they would renegotiate with whomever is the purchaser of the mortgage portfolio. I just want to make it clear, at that point in time, for them to renegotiate, would they relinquish their hold on that fixed rate?

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: Madam Chairman, that, as I understand, would be correct. They would then be negotiating with the financial institution based on the terms that they would be offering at that stage. However, I may add that in a majority of cases now, they would not be given the opportunity to come back to the Housing Development Corporation and renegotiate terms. Normally, where you find people renegotiating is for additional sums. Right now the Housing Development Corporation is limited as to how much they can borrow. A majority of people have borrowed up to their limit.

In addition to that, with a number of cases if they were now borrowing from a bank (as opposed to borrowing from the Housing Development Corporation), it is fair to say that they would be getting a better rate of interest at this current point in time; because the Housing Development Corporation's rates have ranged between 9% and 11%. A lot of them now are at 11%.

In the current easement of interest rates, a lot of our potential clientele were coming in to the Housing Development Corporation. They were very concerned that we were talking 11%, and they could go out to a commercial bank and perhaps get it at 9% to 10%.

So the answer to your question is, yes. They would have to negotiate the mortgage on the terms the banks are offering, but it would not necessarily be worse than the Housing Development Corporation. In some cases it could be better for the person.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Temporarily?

Mr. Daniel Scott: That could be argued, depending on how the interest rates go.

The Chairman: Dr. Tomlinson.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Mr. Scott, can you tell us whether it is specified that the Housing Development Corporation can only divest with the consent of the debenture holders, debenture certificates, or not?

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: If my memory serves me right, there is a restriction in there that we do indeed have to consult with the debenture holders and, indeed, any change to the operations of the Corporation would also have to come with the support of the debenture holders. It is our intention—and I suspect certainly at this stage now that we are exploring the idea, that we will inform debenture holders—and if there is any objections from them we will give that due consideration. I would suspect, and I do believe we will have very little. Indeed, we have recently had several requests to redeem.

So I think a majority of debenture holders have invested as a show of support for the Cayman Islands and would have no problem in getting their funds back.

The Chairman: Dr. Tomlinson.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Mr. Scott, as the Chairman of the Housing Development Corporation Board, what do you see as the functions of the Housing Development Corporation being once it is divested?

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: Madam Chairman, it is, again, one of the considerations that the board has obviously looked at. As I see it, housing in Cayman is very broad-based, and the Housing Development Corporation today has focused on the lending. I think, certainly, in the earlier stages when it was initially established, it was done at a time when we did not have available mortgage financing for 20 year periods. So the Housing Development Corporation came in and did offer that.

In the current environment, we have any number of financial institutions that are offering that. So I think right now the focus of the Housing Development Corporation, perhaps, can switch. Right now, as I see it, it would be much better served concentrating on some of the housing problems, which to be quite honest we have not had the opportunity to address; things such as, dealing with the question of housing for the indigent; and, perhaps, looking at an overall housing plan for the Cayman Islands. It is one of the things we have suggested, that it go on and do what could be considered a mini-case study even for young people coming back that do have the need for housing. They are coming back, they have good jobs and a college education and want certain types of housing. Perhaps it could gather information on them and try to put them in touch (so to speak) with developers or financial institutions where you have a group of maybe ten people coming back and, as a result to that, certain economy scales can be recognised and realised for the potential purchasers of new homes, whether young people, or whatever the case maybe.

So in response to your question, Dr. Tomlinson, I think there is a lot the Housing Development Corporation can still do, and needs to be involved in.

The Chairman: Dr. Tomlinson.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Do you anticipate that you will need all the present employees?

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: Madam Chairman, I think that is very difficult for me to answer, and I will tell you why. The Housing Development Corporation has been served, I think until recently, by a group of six employees. The other thing is that they have also served the AIDB (Agricultural Industrial Development Board). With the amalgamation of both, it would be difficult, from the Housing Development Corporation's standpoint, for me to try and assess the bigger picture as to what the new board is. To be quite honest, I am not even familiar with what it is planning and that I think, would have to go back to Government's policy.

So I really would not know.

The Chairman: Dr. Tomlinson.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Madam Chairman, may I ask the Minister a question at this point?

The Chairman: You may.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Honourable Minister, tell the House if he has been able to negotiate a fixed interest rate with the participating banks for the new housing scheme?

The Chairman: Honourable Minister.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: If we have been able to do a fixed... The new Government Housing Scheme?

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: If you have been able to negotiate a fixed interest rate, rather than one relating to prime interest rate, for instance?

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: The position is as I have said in the past in the House: I could not get a fixed rate.

The Chairman: Dr. Tomlinson.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Madam Chairman, I heard Mr. Scott say... and I think most of us realise that the Housing Development Corporation lends at somewhere between 9% to 11%, depending on earnings of the applicant; we also know what the banks lend money for, and this is the reason why I am asking... perhaps the Minister should make every effort to negotiate, if possible, a fixed interest rate so that it will not, in fact, exceed that which the Housing Development Corporation charges at the moment.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Are you talking about the new scheme?

The new scheme was already negotiated. I could not do any better on the scheme. Hopefully, on the new schemes to come (as I have said in the House, there will be other schemes) we will be able to get a better rate than what we have gotten before. But I cannot give the House that undertaking. I give the House the undertaking that I will continue dutifully to press for good interest rates.

The Chairman: Dr. Tomlinson.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: I fully understand that he has made efforts in the past. I understand further that the agreement has been finalised with only banks. I would like the House to know whether this agreement has also been finalised with the other lending institutions.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Chairman, I said in the House the other day, that the only agreement signed was with Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce—the other ones are still pending. But the Bank of Butterfield, British American Bank and the First Cayman Bank, I do not think, are going to give any better than what the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce gave; this is what it seems like to me. However, when we go to negotiate, because we will have to look further at the other scheme, as I mentioned also the other day, then we will have a change. But as it stands, it does not seem that it will get any better than what we have now, unless the base rate drops.

The Chairman: Mr. Scott, you wish to make a comment?

Mr. Daniel Scott: If I may, Madam Chairman, in response to the question Dr. Tomlinson raised. I think it is fair to say that in the current environment it is virtually impossible to get fixed rates for long period of time. I think it is indicative—and it is one of the things the board realised has caused us some concerns; and it is certainly one of the things we have considered in seeking guidance from the Ministry as far as divesting ourselves of the loan portfolio, in that what we have is 20 year debentures with fixed rates of interest at 7.5%. In addition to that (which provides us with the financing so that we can match and fixed our loans) the other side to that is that we also under the debenture agreement have provided a sinking fund, which we have to fund every single year and have to segregate that in a separate term deposit account.

In recent times what we have found is that we are indeed having a net interest loss because we have almost $700,000 that we are holding on fixed deposit for the benefit of debenture holders which we have to repay them. We are getting about 3.5% on that ($700,000); and in turn, we have to pay 7.5% to debenture holders.

So this, again, is one of the problems that arises as a result of getting long-term money. But as interest rates swing, it creates problems. Indeed, with the Housing Development Corporation going forward, we are projecting that next year we are going to have to set aside an additional $155,000 for the sinking fund. Currently on an annual basis we are probably losing $26,000 in interest. Every year it will continue to mount as we spread.

The Chairman: Mr. Tibbetts.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Mr. Scott touched on the formation of the new institution which would be called the Cayman Islands Development Board. Maybe you cannot answer the question, but I am going to ask: At this point in time, is that still being put together or has it been put together? Or exactly where are you with the merger at this point in time? If Mr. Scott cannot answer, and the Minister can, that is find.

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: Madam Chairman, I think that is the case to be quite honest. I have not been involved. I have only been focussing on the Housing Development Corporation.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Chairman, there has been a draft Bill prepared for the Housing Development Corporation and the aid, by amalgamation thereof, and that was sent to both boards for their input.

The Chairman: Are there any further questions to Mr. Scott? Mr. Haig Bodden.

Mr. G. Haig Bodden: Yes, Madam Chairman.

If I understand correctly, you [the Housing Development Corporation] are paying 5% or 7.5% interest on debentures, and you are lending that money at 9% to 11%. Why are you losing so much on it? Is it because the expenses of operating the Housing Development Corporation are top-heavy? You are almost doubling the interest rate, are you not?

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

No, Mr. Bodden. Indeed where I was talking about us losing money—the Corporation made money last year up until (and I have management accounts here) June of 1994, we made $122,765. So on the portion of our portfolio that we are able to lend out we are making money.

The part that we are losing interest on is the portion that we are not able to re-lend and have to set aside into a sinking fund and we are only allowed to put it on fixed deposit and not re-lend it at the 9% or the 11% interest rate. We have to set it aside on a fixed deposit and that portion is close to $700,000 and we are only earning 3.5% on it, whereas we are having to pay about 7.5% on the debentures.

If I may, the Minister has mentioned to me that the whole suggestion of divesting the mortgage portfolio did indeed come from the Board. The Board is not into establishing policy. That has always been, in my view, the job for the Government of the day—whomever it may be—I serve simply as a member of the Board in the best interest under the Law as it is prescribed for us to do.

The things that we have to look at as board members are: 1) we have to be prudent in our management of the affairs of the corporation because, among other things, we have investors who are third party; 2) we have to ensure that whatever we do is in the best interest of the borrowers; and 3) in the best interest of the people who are lending to us and, indeed, in the best interest of the country as a whole.

So looking at all the changes that have occurred and the changing times in Cayman, what we have now, I think it is fair to say that this was where the whole assessment came to the board and thus the suggestion.

The Chairman: Mr. Tibbetts.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

Just one final question, depending on how it is answered. If the Housing Development Corporation was at a point of being able to lend (and I will not put a fixed figure on maybe you can assist me with that), would there be a level where they could actually be self-sufficient? In your opinion, would the Housing Development Corporation be serving a good purpose for the Islands?

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: My apologies. Could you go over the last part.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Like I said, maybe you can assist me with the type of figure it would be, but if the Housing Development Corporation got to the point where what they were able to lend out, would their earnings be able to make them self sufficient? The type of lending that it does and the type of individuals that it caters to, in your professional opinion—notwithstanding what the commercial banks are doing—do you think that the Housing Development Corporation would be serving a specific, bona fide purpose for the community?

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: Madam Chairman, in response to the question, it is my view (and I think the Board shares my view on this) that we are in a very fortunate position in Cayman—unlike a lot of other jurisdictions—in that we have several (close to 70) banks with physical presence in the Cayman Islands, who do have funds available in any number of them. Grand Cayman, once again, is very fortunate and has a small population by comparison.

But it has been my experience that it is always more efficient for a bank that is geared up to do this sort of lending, to do so, rather than the Housing Development Corporation. The reason why I said that is because they already have the facilities, the people in place, and they have the access to the ongoing funding—which is one of the biggest problems we have had at the Housing Development Corporation.

In my view, I think that the Housing Development Corporation does have a very important role to play, and, perhaps, it is questionable (certainly in the long term) as to whether or not it would want to get involved as far as structuring and giving guidance to the financial institution, and even overseeing the programmes that are being initiated with these institutions. But from a pure lending standpoint, I think the banks in the country can indeed provide whatever is necessary; with Government, obviously, monitoring the programmes that they want in place.

My short response would be that it would be best served by the banks, as opposed to the Housing Development Corporation, regardless of the amount of funds they have available.

The Chairman: Mr. Gilbert McLean.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

I would like to ask Mr. Scott a question. Is it correct to say that there has been at least some close and personalised relationship between borrowers and the staff of the lending section at the Housing Development Corporation that has been working acceptably?

The Chairman: Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: Madam Chairman, in response to the question, I think the answer is that the Housing Development Corporation has, on an ongoing basis, dealt in a professional manner with its clientele. Having said that, we have had numerous complaints from people who are somewhat disgruntled on the other side—but you get that regardless of what happens.

So my answer is, yes, the Housing Development Corporation's management in my view has done a good job and dealt with it. I do not think, though, that any less of a job would be done by a financial institution.

The Chairman: If there are no further questions for Mr. Scott, I would like to thank him for being here and being able to answer questions to satisfy Honourable Members. Thank you, Mr. Scott.

Mr. Daniel Scott: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: The question now is that clause 2 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 8/94

AMENDMENT TO THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY STANDING ORDER (REVISED)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam speaker.

I beg to move Government Motion No. 8/94—Amendment to the Legislative Assembly Standing Order (Revised). It reads:

"WHEREAS it is expedient that the Select Committee, established in 1993 to study the draft Part IVA of the Cayman Islands (Constitution) Order, 1972, as amended (being the Fundamental Rights and Duties of the Individual) should remain established for that purpose;

"AND WHEREAS it is desirable, for the avoidance of doubt, to amend Standing Orders to ensure that this and other Select Committees which have been established since this Honourable House was last dissolved, and which have not finished their business, continue (and shall be treated as continuing in being) for the respective purposes for which those Committees were established, and to ensure that all future Select Committees remain in being until their business is finished or until this Honourable House is next dissolved after the date on which they are established (whichever shall first occur);

"BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT Standing Orders be amended by the addition of a new Standing Order 69A as follows—'Duration of select committees. 69A (1) A Select Committee shall continue in being for the purpose for which it was established (notwithstanding any prorogation of the House during the period beginning on the day on which the Select Committee is established and ending on the day on which the House is next dissolved thereafter) until the day of that dissolution or (if sooner) the day on which the business of the Select Committee is finished.

"(2) Paragraph (1) of this Standing Order applies, and shall be deemed always to have applied, to every Select Committee established after the end of 1992."

The Speaker: The question is that the Motion be referred to the Standing Orders Committee. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES AND NOES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Motion has accordingly been referred to the Standing Select Committee the Chairman of which is the Honourable First Official Member.

THE IMMIGRATION (AMENDMENT) LAW, 1994
(LAW 4 OF 1994)

THE IMMIGRATION (EMBARKATION & DISEMBAR-KATION CARDS) (EXEMPTION) REGULATIONS, 1994

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Continuing with the winding up debate—having heard contributions from other Members and also the Government's position on the Motion, it appears to me that there is no question that there may be some problems. I would like to take this opportunity to briefly address parts of the reply made by the First Official Member on behalf of the Government.

In his reply the Honourable Member stated, and I read: "What is rather peculiar is that the representations, which seem to have been made to the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, who is moving this Motion, have not yet been formally made to the Government—not to my knowledge. The Police Department has not reported any interdiction problems, or that any difficulties have resulted from their inability to get information quickly and appropriately."

Madam Speaker, it is my understanding that at least one high-ranking officer in the force has had discussions with someone on the Fourth Floor of the Government Administration Building. I do not know what the result of that discussion was—but that is my understanding. In the Honourable First Official Member's discourse, he also said, and I quote: "There may be supervisors in these departments who are genuinely concerned about the effect of these exemptions, and it is possible that these concerned officers may, with the best of intention, have made representation to the Fourth Elected Member of George Town. But until the Government has had an opportunity to receive those representations at the correct level, it is difficult for the Legislative Branch of the Government to be reacting to that sort of representation."

"It is the view, therefore, that the exemption will continue and that as originally envisaged, the matter will be reviewed at some point in the future [I repeat at some point in the future] and all concerns will be taken into account and all practical deficiencies, if there are any, will be attended to. Should it be found at that time that there is any reason to amend the exemption in any way, the Government will take a decision at that time."

Madam Speaker, first of all, I am not suggesting that... in retrospect, maybe going directly to the powers that be might not have been the right approach—at least for some of the individuals—because, as I said before, some representatives from at least one of the agencies have spoken to a Member of Government. But, notwithstanding that, I believe that with the best of intentions some problems here are real and have been shown to be occurring.

Now I think we need to also bear in mind at this point in time, that, based on the nature of the reaction from the Government, it is very likely that individuals involved in these agencies may be very reluctant to come forward on their own volition to make any representation to the Government for the fact that it seems they have erred in their ways. I have to admit that when I was spoken to the thought did not occur to me that I was lending the wrong ear, and maybe I should have passed them on to the right one. I simply listened, understood and found grave concern. So if I have sinned, I am sorry, but the fact remains—the situation exists.

Therefore, regardless of the position the Government, or for that matter the entire membership of this Honourable House at the end of the day when the vote is taken, I am saying, through you Madam Speaker, to the Honourable First Official Member, that it is incumbent upon the Government (if they accept that there are some problems) that they set about some type of exercise to have these problems heard in whatever they may deem to be the right forum so that they may genuinely decide upon the best course of action.

For, as I have said before—and I firmly believe the cat is already out of the bag—I am not very satisfied with the wording that the exemption will continue, and as originally envisaged the matter will be reviewed at some point in the future. Some point in the future gives me no indication as to when. And, as I said before, with the best of intention, that is why the Motion is on the floor of this House.

I know that the Government has already made their reply, but I reiterate that I wish for them to find cause to investigate these problems with a view of correcting them in whatever way they deem necessary, but to get the best end results.

There are other problems, Madam Speaker, which have to do with Laws that are in place in this country, and which arose as a direct result to the Immigration Law and also the new Regulations. This point was alluded to by a previous speaker, but I think that I need to point it out because this might also be something that the Government might deem necessary to have a look at.

The Elections (Amendment) Law, 1988, (Law 15 of 1988), "Oath of Qualification", in section 2, subsection (2), whereby a person swears, it reads: "You swear—That you possess Caymanian status, have attained the age of eighteen years, are a British Dependent Territories citizen by virtue of a connection with the Cayman Islands, were domiciled and resident in the Cayman Islands at the date of your registration as a voter and either-

"(a) were born in the Cayman Islands, or of parents or grandparents one of whom was born in the Cayman Islands, and were ordinarily resident in the Cayman Islands for a period or periods amounting to two years out of the three years immediately preceding the date of such registration; or

"(b) were ordinarily resident in the Cayman Islands for a period or periods amounting to seven years out of the nine years immediately preceding the date of such registration, and that in the three years immediately preceding the date of such registration the number of days on which you were absent from the Cayman Islands did not exceed three hundred."

The Speaker: Honourable Member, it is now 4.30 pm; do you expect to finish shortly?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: May I ask for the Motion for the adjournment? The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, before I move the Motion for the adjournment may I mention that as read in the statement yesterday (22 September, 1994) there will be a delegation travelling to Washington, D.C. on Sunday with a view of returning on Wednesday, 28 September 1994. Therefore, I will move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock, Thursday morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock, Thursday morning. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.34 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM THURSDAY, 29 SEPTEMBER 1994.

THURSDAY
29 SEPTEMBER, 1994
10.00 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the First Elected Member for Bodden Town to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. Roy Bodden: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

In the absence of the Honourable Third Official Member the Oath of Allegiance will be administered by the Clerk to Mr. Arthur Joel Walton, to be Temporary Third Official Member.

Mr. Walton, will you come forward please?

ADMINISTRATION OF OATH OF AFFIRMATION

OATH OF AFFIRMATION

Hon. Arthur Joel Walton: I Arthur Joel Walton, do solemnly and sincerely affirm and declare that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, Her heirs and successors according to Law, so help me God.

The Speaker: Please take your seat Honourable Temporary Third Official Member, and we welcome you to the Legislature.

Proceeding with Questions. Deferred question No. 109. The Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 109

No. 109: Mrs. Berna Murphy Thompson asked the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Affairs to state what progress has been made in respect of the revised Regulations for the Traffic Law, 1991.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: A policy decision has been taken by Government to divide the proposed new regulations being brought under the Traffic Law, 1991, into sections. The first of these sections, the Public Transport Regulations, is being scheduled for completion and publication before the end of 1994.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. I wonder if the Honourable Member could state how the remaining sections are divided?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member for Legal Administration.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: I assume that question is asking for the details of the other sections that have been brought in. I am afraid I am not in a position to say at the moment, because that depends on the drafting as it progresses. All I can say is that the new regulations will address the matters that are presently dealt with by the existing Regulations in an updated form. But rather than being dealt with and drafted as one complete unit and brought in as one complete, they are being phased in. The first phase will be the Public Transport Regulations.

I do not think that specifically answers the question, but it is the best I can do, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Could the Honourable Member state if these regulations are being worked on at present, or is it in the near future (before the end of the year), that they will be worked on?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member for Legal Administration.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: The policy decision that has been made and the instructions—or should I say initial instructions—have been given to the Legal Draftsman. But they are not being worked on at this precise moment. They are in the programme to be done this year.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: The next deferred question is No. 161, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and was to have been asked to the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works, who is listed as having sent an apology for absence—there were three apologies for absence: The Honourable Third Official Member and The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 161 DEFERRED FOR ANSWER IN THE ABSENCE OF THE HONOURABLE MINISTER

No. 161: Mr. Gilbert McLean was to have asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation how much Capital Works have been undertaken by Government from January, 1994 to date, giving a breakdown by project, location and estimated cost; and (b) whether any other projects are planned for completion by the end of 1994, and if so, what are they.

The Speaker: Statement by Member of Government. The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

STATEMENT BY MEMBER OF THE GOVERNMENT

(RE: DELEGATION TO WASHINGTON, D.C.)

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, a statement on the delegation that travelled to Washington, D.C. earlier this week.

We departed the Cayman Islands on Sunday, 25th September, 1994, for Washington, D.C. as the result of a unanimous decision by the Legislative Assembly, which was suspended. We called on Her Majesty's Ambassador, Sir Robin Renwick, and members of his staff who briefed us on discussions, which had taken place between the Embassy and various United States Government Departments concerning the refugee problem in the Cayman Islands.

We met with the Ambassadors and representatives of the Refugee Bureau and Cuban Affairs section of the Department of State, National Security Council, and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees. At the various meetings we strongly put forward the plight of the Cayman Islands in having to keep the 1,183 refugees/economic migrants, and that the continuation of this problem could have serious economic ramifications—manpower burdens, security problems, severe strain on medical, courts, educational and social services facilities.

We made clear that unless the United States authorities were able to help, the Government of the Cayman Islands would have no alternative but to involuntarily repatriate those Cuban migrants who had not chosen to return home voluntarily. The United States authorities were receptive and sympathetic to the Cayman Islands and will notify the Cayman Islands Government through our Embassy of what assistance the United States Government can offer within the next week.

We wish to express our appreciation to our Embassy in Washington, D.C., especially Mr. Peter Westmacott and Ms. Pamela Mitchison, for the professional manner in which they assisted us and in securing appointments with high level United States Government officials and representatives of the United Nation's High Commissioner for Refugees.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Other Business. Private Members' Motion, Private Member's Motion No. 24/94. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town is continuing his reply.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 24/94

THE IMMIGRATION (AMENDMENT) LAW, 1994 (LAW 4 OF 1994)

-AND-

THE IMMIGRATION (EMBARKATION & DISEMBARKATION CARDS) (EXEMPTION) REGULATIONS, 1994

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we adjourned on Friday, I was beginning to make a few points on the Election Law and the Immigration Law, where in my view the recent regulations that were passed had some adverse effect. The first one is with the Elections Law—and just to refresh our memories I am dealing with the Elections (Amendment) Law, 1988 (Law 15 of 1988), under the section which has the heading "Oath of Qualification."

The first main point in this section is subsection (2)(b) where it reads: "You were ordinarily resident in the Cayman Islands for a period or periods amounting to seven years out of the nine years immediately preceding the date of such registration, and that in the three years immediately preceding the date of such registration the number of days in which you were absent from the Cayman Islands did not exceed three hundred."

Here, Madam Speaker, I need to make a point, which in my view will be relevant to all that I am going to say regarding this section of the Elections Law and the sections of the Immigration Law.

The way I understand it is that one year after an individual acquires Caymanian status, that person may apply for naturalisation. The period during which that person applies is usually completed in a few months, at which time a Caymanian passport is issued. Also, the dependants of individuals who have Caymanian status under 18 years of age can become naturalised. I am not sure exactly how that works. They also have the ability to acquire Caymanian passports—until they are 18 years old, when the other sections of the Law trip in.

So, there are categories of people who will have had Caymanian passports, and under sections of the Law are required to be within the Cayman Islands for certain periods of time to be eligible for certain things. With the Elections Law there is a view that is held by some (and probably quite rightly so), that the application of the section that I have just read is not adhered to strenuously. Nevertheless, it is a Law, and it is our Law.

The point with the Elections Law is that if there are people who have Caymanian status, who are naturalised and have a Caymanian passport, travelling back and forth to and from our territory; if there are no records kept it is going to be, in my opinion, virtually impossible for the authorities to prove that in the three years preceding the date of such registration for eligibility to vote, the number of days the individual was absent from the Cayman Islands did not exceed 300.

I am also told that when an individual leaves the Cayman Islands and enters another territory, many of those territories stamp their passports. That in itself would be partial proof of an individual's whereabouts within a certain period of time. I am not widely travelled, so I am no big authority on it, but I am also of the understanding that not every territory operates in the same fashion. There is also the problem in that many of the territories do not stamp passports when persons are leaving the jurisdiction. So while there may be a stamp for some territories on entering the jurisdiction, there is not one for leaving.

If the person has a Caymanian passport and is told that he/she does not have to have the passport stamped on entering the Cayman Islands or on leaving the Cayman Islands, then from what I understand there is no real way of proving whether or not this person was in the islands for the 300 days that is required by Law.

When it comes to the Immigration Law (Law 13 of 1992), there are many sections. I will do my best to be as concise as possible, but there are certain subsections that I have to read to make my point. Under Part III (which has all to do with Caymanian status) section 14, the marginal note reads, “Acquisition of Caymanian status by children of persons possessing such status.”

As boring as these sections may be, I find it necessary to point out some problems that will occur with the recent amendment, and it reads: “14. (1) After the day upon which the Law comes into operation, any per- son under the age of eighteen years who is the legitimate child, step-child or adopted child of a person who possesses Caymanian status shall, for the purposes of this Law, himself possess Caymanian status and shall continue to possess such status unless and until he loses it under any other provision of this Law.”

The key thing that I wish to point out in section 14(1) is: “unless and until he loses it under any provision of this Law.”

We go on in section 15, which reads: “(1) Any person of not less than eighteen years of age who has been ordinarily resident in the Islands for a period of ten years immediately preceding his application [notice ordinarily resident for a period of ten years immediately preceding his application] may apply to the Board for a grant of Caymanian status.

“(2) Any person possessing Caymanian status who has adopted a child in any place outside the Islands, may, if such child—(a) is under the age of eighteen years; (b) possesses such status under section 13 but is likely to lose it under section 18 on attaining such age, apply to the Board for the grant of Caymanian status to such child to take effect immediately upon such loss occurring.”

As I am going on here, Madam Speaker, the point that I wish to continue making is that each section I read has certain time limits, whereby individuals have to be within this jurisdiction for that certain period of time.

Section 15 (9) reads: “Any person that— (a) has attained the age of seventeen years; and (b) has Caymanian status which status would otherwise expire upon his attaining the age of eighteen years, may apply to the Board for the grant of Caymanian status to take effect upon his attaining the age of eighteen years and, in dealing with such application the Board may grant such status to the applicant to take effect or to be deemed to have taken effect at the date of the applicant attaining the age of eighteen years and if such person has been resident in the Islands for at least five years out of the seven years immediately preceding the date of application.”

Again, there is a time element involved when the individual must have been resident or ordinarily resident on the Island.

Section 15 (10)(a) read: “In relation to the qualification of ordinary residence as set out in the foregoing subsections and in section 18 (1)(d)(iii), the following provisions shall have effect, that is to say—(a) where any question arise as to whether an applicant was or was not, during any material period, ordinarily resident in these Islands, such question shall be decided by the Board [That is the Immigration Board].” Which means that for them to make a decision they must have access to information.

Section 18 (1) “Loss of Caymanian status” reads: “Any person who possesses Caymanian status shall cease to possess or enjoy that status in any of the following circumstances, that is to say—(a) in any case where, having acquired Caymanian status by grant as mentioned in section 15 by reason of the grant of a certificate of Caymanian status by the Board or by reason of such a grant under section 18 of the Caymanian Protection Law (Revised) or section 18 of the Caymanian Protection Law, 1984, he has subsequently been ordinarily outside these Islands continuously for a period of five years;

“(c) in any case where being a person having acquired Caymanian status as mentioned in section 15(6) by virtue of being the widower or widow of a person who possessed Caymanian status or by reason of section 14 (2) or (3) of the Caymanian Protection Law (Revised) or section 18(6) of the Caymanian Protection Law, 1984, he has subsequently to the death of the spouse been ordinarily resident outside these Islands continuously for a period of five years or acquires a domicile other than a Caymanian Islands domicile;

(d) (iii) he had not been ordinarily resident in the Islands for a period of seven years immediately before he reaches the age of eighteen years.”

As I mentioned before, Madam Speaker, as boring as these sections may seem to be there is one crucial point through the entire exercise: In many sections of the Law there is proof required whether they have been ordinarily resident in the Cayman Islands for a certain period of time, or whether they have been resident outside of these islands.

In many instances, Madam Speaker, the individuals (in the majority of instances mentioned in this Law) are those who will fall under the categories that I have just mentioned, and will have a Caymanian passport. The way it is now, there is no system, no method or any record which can prove one way or the other whether the individuals will be penalised by these categories or fall in line with the categories. That is the entire point in reading those sections.

There has also been mentioned that one might wish to use another avenue to acquire this record of an individual's movement within or without the Cayman Islands, and mention has been made of using the Customs Declaration Card. I do not have a problem with that, if the method can be set up that the record is kept properly—it is certainly not being done now.

Madam Speaker, as I mentioned when I brought the Motion, the exercise here is not to say to the Government that they do not know what they are doing, or they have erred in their judgment. Nothing of the sort. The point is simple: What has been done to create a convenience which many Caymanians have long asked for, because of being exposed to it when they visited other territories, is causing problems in other areas. If the attempt is going to be to allow the convenience to continue, then I say we must find some other method to keep these records which are no longer kept.

I think I have proven that some problems have ensued. I am not here to tell the Government how or what they must do, because I do not have access to all the machinery. But I am here to say that in many instances—the last of which I have brought forth to this House—there are individuals with status or who will eventually gain status and I am sure down the line there will be problems. I will not doubt that it will cause legal action to be taken in certain instances if we do not have some type of method to keep these records.

If the thought is that this new system needs more time to be assessed properly, Madam Speaker, the only comment that I can make from that point of view is that problems have arisen. How much time is needed to correct a situation that is not only blatant but also glaring in front of us? I think from an interdiction point of view it is of the utmost importance that it is dealt with at an early stage. And, while I remember the Government's position on this Motion, I still have to say, for what it is worth, that I believe the issue needs to be addressed.

Madam Speaker, I have to say before I close that having understood from the Government that they will not support this Motion, I have to bowl a different ball. I cannot change their views on it, but I wish to see something done. If the position is that the Motion cannot be accepted but the situation will be dealt with in a different manner, then the Motion would have served its purpose. But I will be keeping up to date with what is being done—if I am allowed information—and I can only ask that something be done about the problems that have been raised, in an expeditious fashion.

As the Mover of this Motion, I certainly support the Motion. I believe it has been proven that it has been worthwhile bringing it to this Honourable House for debate and I would ask, at least, the other Members on this side of the floor to see the merits of the Motion, and to give it their support.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question before this House is Private Member's Motion No. 24/94. Those in favour please say Aye, those against No.

AYES AND NOES.

The Speaker: The Noes have it.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, can I call for a division please?

NEVATIVED BY MAJORITY: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 24/94 DEFEATED

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 25/94

AMENDMENT TO THE GAMBLING LAW

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 25/94 entitled Amendment to the Gambling Law, which reads:

"WHEREAS large numbers of charitable and non-profit organisations, associations, clubs and fraternities engage in raffles as a means of fund-raising;

"AND WHEREAS the Gambling Law (Law 6 of 1958), makes a raffle for any purpose illegal;

"BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Gambling Law be amended to allow charitable and non-profit organisations, associations, clubs and fraternities, registered as such with Government to raffle for the purpose of fund-raising."

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, I humbly beg to second the Motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 25/94 having been duly moved and seconded is now open for debate. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

[The Honourable Second Official Member rose]

The Speaker: Honourable Second Official Member for Legal Administration are you rising on a Point of Order?

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Madam Speaker, I am rising to move a motion under Standing Order 24(9), but I am not sure whether this is the appropriate time to move it.

The Speaker: I do not think so. I think that once you have had the debate then you can move your motion. What is the Motion you wish to move?

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Madam Speaker, the motion that I wish to move is that this matter be referred to a Select Committee.

The Speaker: We have to hear the presentation of the debate. The Mover has to move that. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, this Motion seeks to have the Government correct a situation which is occurring in the country where raffles—plain, simple, non-sinful raffles held by even Churches for the purpose of raising funds for good causes—are illegal under the Gambling Law.

Madam Speaker, I wish to state straight away that as the Mover of this Motion I do not agree to this Motion being put into any Select Committee of the House—standing or otherwise. It is something that can be dealt with straight away without offence to anyone and, indeed, it would stop the situation whereby persons who for very good reasons are trying to raise funds, are unfortunately committing an illegality because of the way a Law is written. It has been happening now for years, and I believe that in many instances persons are not even aware of it.

I do not know if anyone in the House would say that a raffle is not illegal under the Law, but certainly, I have sought legal opinions to that effect. Even a raffle—be it by a Church, a service club, or wherever—is illegal. Madam Speaker, I can cite a few instances, for I try to help various [charitable organisations] and I have a few instances of what I am speaking about when such raffles are held.

There was a raffle that was held on the 12th September by the Cayman Islands Little League (which is a baseball team) which, to the best of my knowledge, is doing much for young people in the game of softball. They were raffling a 1994 Lexus. Madam Speaker, this is the flyer. I bought a ticket to support the cause. This is a piece of ticket from the Tae Kwon Do Organisation in the Island that was raffling the car for the international competition, which was held here a few weeks back (28th May, 1994). This now is a whole ticket, the same Tae Kwon Do [Organisation for the] World Cup Fund Raising Committee presents a car raffle a 1994 Ford Tempo. Price $10.00—buy five, get one free.

I do not think that it could be said that this group was attempting to do anything illegal, or that their cause was not reasonable and just. I have here another ticket which I bought to help a football group—Yobo Rangers Fund Raising Draw—which was to have been held on 23rd September, and it offered different prizes.

It all goes to make the point, Madam Speaker, that various groups, associations, service clubs, schools and Churches use one of the most widely-used means in the world—that of fund-raising—to raise funds which are used productively and in the best interest of the society.

Where some service clubs are aware that it is illegal and are attempting not to break the Law but still raise some funds, the way they get around it is that they have a dance at which the prize that would normally be raffled is offered as a gate prize or one of a number of gate prizes. Now what does that do, say, to a sports club, a service club or a charitable organisation, as the case may be?

Normally when a dance is held there are refreshments including alcoholic beverages. Such organisations have to go and attempt to get a licence for that purpose where they can dispense alcoholic beverages. If it is a dance, they have to go and find a band. Long gone are the days when you could hire a band for $200 or $300—bands now charge in the thousands. Then such a club or organisation has to find a venue. The cost of renting a venue is in the thousands of dollars.

Therefore, while a club, association or organisation, is attempting simply to be able to raise some money through offering a prize, they are saddled with certain expenses before they even begin to earn or raise any money. Naturally, they must pay for a Liquor Licence; they must make certain deposits to the bank of certain sums of money; and they must, certainly, make certain deposits to venues for them to hold the place for the particular occasion or period in time. Madam Speaker, it totally defeats the whole purpose for which such persons—we are talking about people who are trying to raise some money.

I see that the Gambling Law of the Cayman Islands 1989 was taken from the Jamaica Law, Chapter 137, which was brought into our Law (Law 6 of 1958). Straight away, it shows a time far removed from the realities of the present situation. Surely, if we claim nowadays to be so wise, so prudent, and indeed so conscious of Laws being broken—and we do not wish to see this continue—then the most logical thing is to do something about it.

This Motion suggests that something can be done very, very simply by amending this Law simply to say that charitable, non-profit organisations, associations, clubs and fraternities who register, as such with the Government can raffle for the purpose of raising funds for the body.

The Motion envisages that the amendment would state (in however many words) that any association, any club, and any fraternity who hopes to avail themselves of this provision would have to go to the Government and prove to the Government (be it whatever department or Ministry as the case may be) that they indeed qualify as such under one of these heads. Having registered with the Government, and the Government's recognising them as such, then they are in a position to go and hold the fund raising [event] to raise money without breaking the Law.

Madam Speaker, the question of the Sunday Trading Law came up about a week or two ago and that has been referred to a Select Committee. In the meantime, every time a Caymanian buys a tank full of gasoline on a Sunday or a chocolate bar or anything else, that Caymanian is breaking the Law. It would not be the same thing for a tourist. The Government has allowed that situation to continue by not dealing with it through a short amendment in making it legal for a Caymanian to do so.

Surely, if this Motion is not accepted in a straightforward and honest attempt to help a real live situation in this country, these associations will go on holding their raffles, knowing that that is basically the only way they can raise funds—and they will be breaking the Law.

Madam Speaker, I think that this matter is so straightforward, and so painfully, explicitly clear that even the Government would see the folly of not accepting it and doing something about it. So, Madam Speaker, having said that, I rest the matter.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member for Legal Administration.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I have listened with interest to what the Mover of this Motion has said. I certainly agree with him, that there are situations at the moment where organisations are running raffles (I think that is the word he used), which in my opinion clearly fall outside the Law as it is at the present time. Many of these events in my experience—and it is a limited experience of course—tend to be tickets for particular functions that have a gate prize attached to them; in that you purchase your ticket for the function and that automatically entitles you to take part in a drawing for a prize. I think people do believe that that particular way of giving a prize complies with the Law. In my opinion, it does not; it falls into exactly the same category as a straightforward sale of a raffle ticket for which you get no more than entry into a prize draw.

I do not want to get into a lot of technical discussion on this, but the wording within the Gambling Law, 1958, catches, in fact, any game of chance where there is a prize. But I think in the cause of common sense and good sense, prosecutions have not been brought in those sorts of instances where an organisation that is doing good work is trying to obtain funds for that purpose. And I certainly hope that the Law is not an ass and in those circumstances prosecutions have not been brought; but Honourable Members will be equally aware that the sale of lottery tickets—commercial lottery tickets—also takes place within the Islands, and that this practice is illegal under the Gambling Law, and prosecutions do take place for those offences and will continue to do so.

When I was looking at the Gambling Law, and in response to this Motion, it struck me that, yes, this Law is an old Law and was brought into force here in 1958. Since then it has been amended once in 1967. But I think it is pertinent to point out that the amendment in 1967 (and it was a very short amendment) in fact restricted even further the gaming that could be allowed under the Gambling Law. So it was not an amendment that in any way relaxed the Law, it actually strengthened it.

I do not think it is particularly helpful if I go through the amendment, because it is really not relevant to the Motion we are talking about today. But I just wanted to state that to illustrate, the only reference that I have in terms of the Law on gambling in the Cayman Islands, would seem to indicate that once the substantive law had been brought in 1958, it was restricted afterwards. That is really one of the reasons behind my request that I will put later—that this matter be considered in more depth, rather than just an amendment being made to the Law.

I think it is a matter that public opinion needs to be consulted on, and I think it is a matter that does concern people. The whole question of gambling, albeit for the limited purposes that the Mover has mentioned, when I looked at the Law itself, that feeling seems to be reflected in the way the Law has progressed over the years.

I also have some practical difficulties with just accepting an amendment to the Law to accommodate what the Mover has requested. The Motion refers to charitable and non-profit organisations, associations, clubs, and fraternities engaged in raffles as a means of fund raising. Then it goes on to say; “to allow them registered as such with the Government.” Now at the present time there is no method of registration with Government, or indeed any other body. It is true to say that the Government receives applications for companies which have been formed by charitable organisations to trade without the word “limited” after their name. They are usually the sort of organisations that the Mover has referred to. That is used as, I suppose, a list of charitable organisations, and it is the nearest that we have to such a list. But it certainly is not a comprehensive register and the criteria tends to be the criteria under the Companies Law and certainly have nothing to do with this particular Law.

So if we were to go down, or to consider going down that route, then we would need to put in place some method of registration, some criteria for registration; and whether it was Government or a separate board that would consider it, very often gambling is dealt with in a licensing system similar to liquor licensing. If this Motion was to be allowed then we would need to put in place some form of licensing system for these organisations.

So let us assume that they have first of all satisfied the test, let us call it “charitable status by registration.” So they are now registered as such. But I think it would be very dangerous to then give them an automatic right without any further sanctions at all to engage in these activities. Normally they would then be required as a registered charity to apply for a licence for a specific function.

Regulations would have to be put in place for that licensing procedure, whether it be a board or whatever body chosen to deal with that. We would also have to then provide for some appeal procedure because not all the applicants would have their application granted. To fulfill the rules of natural justice we would need to have an appeal procedure in place if they disagreed with the decision that was made.

Madam Speaker, I am not trying to put stumbling blocks in the face of this Motion just for the sake of it, but I do honestly believe that an amendment such as this, which I think is a radical departure from our Law as it is at the present time, does require a lot of consideration. I would be very unhappy merely to see an amendment made to our Gambling Law and no further provisions at all; and in those circumstances, whilst sympathising with the Mover's motives for bringing this Motion, I do not believe that the way to address it is by the amendment he suggested. I therefore cannot support the Motion.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to offer my contribution to Private Member's Motion No. 25, Amendment to the Gambling Law.

So often we as human beings take things for granted. I really had to smile to myself when the Mover of this Motion shared with us some of the different organisations [who sell raffle tickets] in that I was actually breaking the Law and I, perhaps, was one of the individuals that sold most of those tickets.

More or less, we have grown accepting that this was acceptable, not realising that it was illegal. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town and I probably sell more tickets for organisations, not realising that it is illegal.

I feel that for something this important we should have input from the public, and we should consider a Select Committee. Gambling is a very touchy situation here in Cayman. My mother and a very good friend of our family, [the late] Miss Anne Huldah Bodden were very opposed to gambling of any sort, and there are a lot of other people who grew up from their old school with the same idea. I believe that here the idea means well. We need to take a look at the entire Law because it dates back to 1958. But something this important should have more input from the public.

If we could put this to a Select Committee and have time to get the public's feedback to find out how they would want us as representatives to vote—not how we personally want to vote, but how the people we are representing would like us to vote—I would then be happy to vote for this Motion. But I would like to see it go into a Select Committee. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, in rising to support this Motion, permit me to summarise what I understand to be the reason for seeking this course. We have an anomaly that has been in existence for a long time and, indeed, continues to exist; and this anomaly affects all of us. Indeed I am part of a committee that will be holding a function to raise funds for the development of a public beach in my constituency tomorrow evening, God willing, which is (according to the interpretation of the Law) illegal—although we have a Music and Dancing Licence and a Liquor Licence.

Now the question is this: we are busy with a number of Select Committees—Select Committee on the Penal Code, Select Committee on the Sunday Trading Law, Select Committee on the Bill of Rights and Privileges (which is yet to assume)—so if we add this we are burdening ourselves and time is fleeing. I am of the opinion that the Government knows what is needed to set in motion the legal provisions under which charitable and religious organisations can legally carry on these needed fund raising activities. Then the onus is upon them to go ahead and do it.

Madam Speaker, may I remind the Honourable House that what we are asking for is narrow and limited. We are not asking for any Select Committee to study gambling in its broadest sense. We are saying that we recognise that a need exists for these charitable organisations to raise money from the public from time to time. We intend to go no further than that. Let us make provisions for that to be done legally so that there can be no embarrassment or regrets later. There is absolutely no need to put that before a Select Committee.

I believe that the public understands; the people from religious organisations understands; the people from civic and community organisations understands; and I will venture to say that there will be little, if any, objection to this. The Motion is calling for that punto y final—there is no need to take input. The mere fact that these organisations have been carrying on these kinds of exercises is reason enough to suggest that we can legalise this safely without expecting any overwhelming objections from them.

We are quite aware of the obnoxious nature of gambling, and of the existence of the game called “numbers”—and I hope that the Government can see fit to persecute and declare an inquisition on all those people who play that game—but what we are talking about is a common, simple fund raising that goes on by almost all the organisations in this country.

Madam Speaker, I do not believe, and certainly if the Government does not understand that they are saddling themselves with Select Committees, then this Backbencher humbly reminds them that as time is flying we are increasing the work load of the Parliament and in an instant like this the Government can easily do this.

I support the Motion for what it is calling for, and I reiterate from my position—there is no need to go to a Select Committee on it. Thank you, Ma'am.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I rise to offer my contribution to Private Member's Motion No. 25/94, entitled Amendment to the Gambling Law.

I believe that the public knows where I stand on issues like this, and the first question that I would like to pose is: Why is this Motion being brought to the House at this stage? Have we had a problem in this area? I do not believe so. I have not heard of any such problem. And I recall that one of the first issues I had to deal with as a Freshman in the first Session of this House was abortion. The Government came saying it was a very innocent amendment that was being brought. I remember that Motion when into a Select Committee, and the overwhelming result was that the people of this community—the Churches—their attitudes were that they did not want that type of legislation in this country.

I believe that the Government's position or recommendation is a good one; if this issue is going to be adressed that it be referred to a Select Committee where we have an opportunity of getting the input from the general public. I am one Member who does not assume too many things as far as the public is concerned. I believe that in a democratic process where an issue like this is being raised, one which is so controversial, we must give the general public an opportunity to give their input on the issue.

Madam Speaker, it also makes me wonder how far we are going to go in this country. Today it is raffles; tomorrow it could be casinos, and the next day it could be lotteries. Where are we going to draw the line in this country? My position has always been that we have got to try and hold on to as many of the traditions that this country has been established on. Those traditions are fast being eroded by external influences and we have to be very careful—otherwise the Cayman Islands will become just another place where people go just to have a good time, and anything goes.

Madam Speaker, I recall visiting Las Vegas on one occasion—and it was a business occasion—that environment is so permeated with gambling; everywhere you turned there was a slot machine, all types of gambling going on. After a week of that kind of environment, I came to one conclusion: that I would never, under any circumstance, want to return to an environment like that. I am going to fight to the very last to ensure that the Cayman Islands does not become that type of environment—not as long as I am a Member of this House.

I believe that the suggestion is a good one, whereby if this issue is going to be addressed, let us refer it to a Select Committee where we can sit down and invite members of the public, that is, members from the Churches and other organisations to give their input, and then a final decision is arrived at.

Madam Speaker, I do not support this Motion. Thank you.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.26 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 11.47 AM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, as the Seconder of Private Member's Motion No. 25/94, I first of all want to make it explicitly clear that I have no underlying motives for this Motion except to be part of an attempt to bring reality in line with the Laws of this country.

For those who might misinterpret this Motion as part of any other scheme, or thought process for any further action to be taken with the Gambling Law, I wish to say very clearly that this is not so.

As the Mover of the Motion outlined in his opening debate, for many years the Gambling Law of 1958, has been broken, and broken, and broken, and continues to be broken. I grant that this is a situation where the easiest thing to do is not to address it; but I cannot subscribe to the school of thought of leaving things alone, although nothing is happening now, when we know that something is not right.

A simple comparison is, as has been alluded to before, the Sunday Trading Law—the anomaly that exists with that. For years, no one chose to enforce that Law, although the Law existed. No one said anything about it and everything just continued. All of a sudden, someone tries to enforce the Law and everyone sees clearly something is wrong with it.

There is the fear from the Churches, because I think they stand in unison—steadfast against gambling. I certainly do not have a problem with their opinion and stance. But, I think it is well known that I have been part of a service organisation in this country for many years (almost 18 years in fact), and not wanting to stray too much, but I am totally confident that that service organisation—and that is only one of many—has served a purpose of no mean order in this community in supplementing a lot of activities which quite likely would have put tremendous pressure on the Government to supply.

There are other organisations, as I have mentioned, other service and non-profit organisations, which serve their purpose in this community. The truth is, whether we like it or not, that the way the world is today, no matter how good the cause, people are just not of the nature to support the cause unless there is a possibility of some reward. Whether that is right or wrong is another matter. I think it is fair comment to say that is the way it is.

So, for these organisations to function properly, or to have any positive effect, they have to be innovative in their approach to the community; and in so doing, many times, in order to raise funds to achieve their goals, they have to resort to functions which have gate prizes and such the like. The truth is, if we look in many of the sections of the Gambling Law, these organisations, in so doing, are breaking the Law over and over.

This Motion is not meant to be thought of as any stepping stone; it is not meant to be looked at on a wide scale, it is specific in its resolve section. It is simply addressing one area that has been of concern for many years. I know that for many, many years the Legal Department of Government has turned a blind eye to functions of this nature, simply because they recognised the goals in mind, and they recognised the value of these goals. So, in order to allow these goals to be achieved, they have simply said, "It is for the right cause so, while the Law is being broken, let us ignore it." In my view, that has happened because it is the easiest thing to do.

If there are other areas that people fear, the Second Official Member made comparison to these types of functions—the service organisations and other non-profit groups—being totally different from the Numbers Game or any actual type of Lottery. I take his point that they are different in a sense that the desired goals are different, because on one hand there is the desire to assist within the community; and on the other hand, with the Numbers Game and the Lottery, it is a commercial venture for an individual to reap personal reward. But, in the eyes of the Law, they are one and the same. That is why this Motion is before this Honourable House today. This Motion simply asks to correct that situation.

I also take note that the Honourable Second Official Member outlined various procedures that would have to take place, and that making a simple amendment might create some difficulties. This Motion is not questioning the mechanism through which the Government would regulate the situation; this Motion is not suggesting that natural justice should not take place, that is the job of the Government—if they should accept the Motion—to put whatever has to be put in place and to do it properly.

Nobody is expecting any can of worms to be opened up. This Motion is specific about one thing. The resolve section reads: "BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Gambling Law be amended to allow charitable and non-profit organisations, associations, clubs and fraternities, registered as such with Government, to raffle for the purpose of fund-raising." If it is the view that it should be looked at from a wider base, that is up to them. This Motion is addressing nothing more than what I just read.

Madam Speaker, when it comes to Select Committees—I guess one of these days I might learn the trick, because at one time I hear that a Select Committee is no good, and another time I hear that it is the answer. I am left to wonder whether it is possible or not for good intentions to be accepted for what they are, rather than to be thought of in a fashion where people tend to read between the lines things that do not really exist.

In seconding this Motion (and if you want to call it tunnel vision, let us call it tunnel vision) the tunnel vision is simply dealing with what I mentioned before—a specific section of the community that is affected. If it is the wish of the majority of the people in this country, and if Government is so led to believe; then let us tell all of those organisations that they can no longer have any of these functions.

What is happening to us is that we are allowing things to go on and, sooner or later, we are going to find situations that we cannot handle. If something is not clear and specific in Law, somebody is going to feel that there is a prejudice against them when they are not allowed to perform certain activities. If the truth be known, as it stands now the situation is abused from time to time. The reason it cannot be addressed is that the moment someone is of a mind to say that one really should not be doing this because they are not a non-profit organisation, they will ask why so-and-so is allowed to do it and they cannot—because there is nothing in the Law. This is simply an attempt to clear this matter up.

I wish to make it clear that in supporting this Motion, it is only an attempt to go through proper legislative process to clear up a certain anomaly that exists. I consider that not only the right, but the duty of us here in this Honourable House as Legislators. I, therefore, support this Motion, and would hope that it is understood for what it is and not be put into a situation which it was not intended to be.

Thank you.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, I would like to ask the Mover if he would like to exercise his right to reply?

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I cannot really say that I am surprised that Government did not accept this Motion, basically for two reasons: I moved the Motion and, secondly, Government refuses in instances such as this to do what is right.

I believe most seriously in the righteousness of Parliament, in the unquestionable body corporate of the Elected Representatives of the people who are elected every four years in this country to do the people's work. I have read enough and I have had enough experience in the Parliamentary field to really appreciate what a Parliament is, and what it should do—its duties and its responsibilities. It is because I have a certain sense of duty and responsibility, and because it has been brought to my attention in various instances (including instances where I was directly a participant in fund-raising efforts) about the ongoing situation of charitable organisations and the like holding fund-raising events, through raffles (which is about the only way of fund-raising) and that it was illegal.

I listened as the Second Official Member, the Attorney General of the country, confirmed this situation and I want to say quite seriously, with no jest, that I would not like to be put into his position as he has been put into today. He is the country's chief Law Officer. He, in that capacity, and with the knowledge of his job and application of Law, knows that what this Motion is saying and the debate which has gone forth is correct. Also, he is placed [in a situation] where he admits that a blind eye (as the saying goes) has been turned to this activity. I do not, for one moment, set any criticism to him; but I set the criticism to the Elected Members of Executive Council whose decision it has to be to allow this situation to continue. In my opinion, he was basically presenting what is the wish of the political directorate. I also believe that it is all because the Elected Members of Executive Council, and some of their Backbench supporters, at least believe that it is Kosher to say, 'Let us put it into a Select Committee,' because there are certain people whom they believe might direct votes to them by so doing.

I learned something from this debate due to what the Attorney General expressed. Even the instance where so many organisations, attempt in their belief that they get around the Law so as not to break it by having a dance and offering the prizes, and so on, that that is not a breach of the Law. I know that there are organisations, some service clubs and so on that do that, because they do not want to be in the position where they are breaking the Law; and it was their belief that in so doing, they were not.

It is sad. It is a terrible indictment in this House here today. It is awful. It does not matter to me if the Government takes this Motion or undertakes to correct this by an amendment. If they have to make three or four amendments, such as to allow a situation where the various charitable organisations may register, or whether they require an amendment to licence them or such, it matters not to me. All that I wish to see and have tried to say is that there is a serious number of organisations, which are charitable organisations, that are in breach of the Law, and they do not want to be; and the Government could correct the situation through an amendment. How big, how small, how varied that amendment needs to be, I do not know—and that is really not my business. I am saying to the Government, you have the legal expertise; you are in charge of the day-to-day running of this country; you take it and fix it the way it has to be fixed." That is the duty of all elected representatives to have such a thing done. It is not the duty of the Lions Club, the Rotary Club or Kawanis or any of those. It is not the duty of the churches, it is not the duty of any football club, it is the duty of every Elected Member of this House to do something about this.

It is quite incredible to see what has happened here today, to realise what will be happening tomorrow. That is a good example: tomorrow, two of the Elected Members of this House are spearheading an effort in their district to raise funds to provide a public beach for the people of that district, and, indeed, the people of the Cayman Islands (because it would not limit it just to the people of Bodden Town). How are they going about it? Through selling tickets and raffling a piece of property in a subdivision. That is the prize. People have been labouring to sell them. What will happen tomorrow? Obviously, they will be holding a special event (as is stated under the Gambling Law), and offering that prize—and they will be illegally doing so. Could there be a more just cause in the district of Bodden Town, or for the islands as a whole?

This morning I went and paid for some tickets. One of the people that was selling the tickets called me and said the books have to come in. I am committing an illegality because I bought the tickets to help the cause. I think it was well put by the Third Elected Member for George Town, that this is something that has gone on for years. No one wants to believe that when they are doing something like this (that is so righteously just) that they are committing an illegal act. It is a foolish, outdated Law that is letting them do it. That can be hindered by simply saying, "You are not breaking the Law, you are not gambling if you raffle something to raise funds and the organisation is a charitable organisation, a church organisation or otherwise.

Since the time I spoke, I have become aware of another raffle that is going on. It is being done by the church. It is to help the St. Ignatius High School. People are willing to buy tickets—they hope to win the prize—but, also, it is something good in the community. With the assistance of anyone who sells a ticket, anyone who buys a ticket is committing an illegal act for a just cause. We should stretch our imaginations to imagine that we are committing an illegal act for something that is helping the community, not something against it. It is only against it because a raffle is said to be gambling, even where it is for a good cause.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay wondered why this matter was brought to the House at this time.

Today, yesterday, tomorrow, two weeks from now, whatever, would be the right time if any responsible Member of this Legislative Assembly (any responsible Elected Representative of the people) who sees a wrong going on and can correct it, comes to this Parliament where it can be corrected—that is the right time. That is why it is here now. It could have come at the last meeting of the House, but with all the other things, I did not get to bring it. But, the Mover and I brought it this time because it is something that needs to be addressed.

The Seconder of this Motion is the President of the local Lions Club. I do not think that anyone would try to down play the efforts of the Lions Club in this country. Over the years, they have had many successful fundraisers—I am led to believe because of the things they have been able to do—the Lion's pool and all the rest of it. But he is one of the biggest law breakers in this country, and I am thinking that when he gets out of this building and off of this compound where he has immunity, I might attempt to do a citizen's arrest for the illegality some weeks ago where he gave away $30,000 to the public. [Members' laughter] I understand that another Member is guilty because they drew the tickets at the Little League for the softball raffle.

There is a strong element of humour to it. But, I think it is so humorous because it is so serious, so ridiculous, so absurd, and so very absurd for us a Legislators not to correct this.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay also wondered where will it end. Well, it ends today when the Government votes it down. That is where it ends. It ended when the Second Official Member got up and spoke on behalf of the Government (of which the Third Elected Member for West Bay is a part) and said, "No go. The people can continue to do this and break the Law, and we will look the other way." What a frightening condition. That is where it ends, Madam Speaker. I would remind that Elected Member that nothing goes any further than the 15 Members (of which he is a Member) allow it to go in this House. That is how far anything goes in this House at this time—where he and his associates and his Government Executives allow it to go.

Now, I do not know if they have something in mind that the rest of us do not know anything about. I do not know if they have anything in mind about big time gambling, and when you speak of the Gambling Law there are shivers and shudders; or anyone believes that a spot light is being put on them. I do not know. But, this Motion could not be more specific. It says amend the Gambling Law so raffling for a worthy cause is not counted gambling. That is all it is saying.

To talk about the church and their position on the question of gambling; if they, including the Third Elected Member [for West Bay], had looked at this Motion carefully, they would have seen this Motion is attempting to stop gambling. So it accords to the point raised by the Attorney General (that the one amendment in 1967 further restricted it). This Motion is asking that this be further restricted by the removal of a ridiculous situation from it.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay, tells us that he travels to Las Vegas. I do not believe he was attending church there. We know that Las Vegas is a gambling town and a party town where some of the liveliest shows on earth are put on. He did not enlighten us as to his mission there. [Members' laughter]

This business about putting everything into a Select Committee: One minute the Government is saying that because the Members (myself and the Fourth Elected Member for George Town included) wanted to put the matter of low income housing into a Select Committee—where the world at large could come and state their peace—we are killing it. Twice that was the song. But now, they have put the Sunday Trading Law into a Select Committee; they have put the Bill of Rights into a Select Committee; and they are Select Committin' everything of any significance that comes to this House; now they propose to also put this in a Select Committee. Well, let me say that the likelihood that it will be passed is great. If those 15 votes are carried for the amendment that the Government wishes to make, then that is how far it will go. Then, when the Select Committee has selected what they want and what they do not want on this issue, it will come back to the House and that is what the same 15 votes will accept or reject. So I say there is nothing that goes any further than that Member and his colleagues allow it to go.

Madam Speaker, I remember when the Third Elected Member for West Bay brought a Motion here to hang people. I did not hear anyone saying that we must put a Select Committee in place to see who needed to be hung from who did not. No, no. Something which was life threatening, life and death—the taking of life by the state—was decided on this floor by the same 15 Members. Fifteen? It might have been more than that, I cannot recall. I know that I certainly did not vote for it.

That was decided right here, no one had to go and decide on that in a Select Committee—let us hang them now! That is the way to deal with them—hang them. And we hang them and let them dangle in the wind for the rest to see and they will not do the same crime. Well, if that is the way it is, then why through the ages do people continue to commit the same crime? There is no answer to that.

I wonder if there is not going to be any more molestation of the little storekeepers, who open their shops on Sunday to sell a few pampers, milk and the like?

POINT OF ORDER (Relevance)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order. I draw your attention to relevance. We are not debating, nor has anybody raised any debate on that particular matter.

The Speaker: I have noted your Point of Order, but he is making an analogy, and that is quite acceptable in the debate. Please proceed Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I can but trust that the little storekeeper will not have the police go at them for the same type of situation as we are talking about in this particular Motion. I just hope that it remains wide open, frontier territory.

I do not, for one minute, wonder at the fact that an author in recent times wrote a book called, The Lawless Caymanas. It was quite a history. Why do we not stop it? Why do we not—when we find out that it is wrong—just stop it? Why do we have to go to a Select Committee about it? We know. It is evident, it is clear.

Madam Speaker, this resolve asks, and I would just like to read that once again: “BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Gambling Law be amended to allow charitable and non-profit organisations, associations, clubs and fraternities, registered as such with Government, to raffle for the purpose of fund-raising.”

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: There are two questions before the House. Private Member's Motion 25/94, and a proposal that the matter should be referred to a Select Committee. I shall put the question on Private Members Motion 25/94, as it stands, “BE IT RESOLVED that the Gambling Law be amended to allow charitable and non-profit organisations, associations, clubs and fraternities, registered as such with Government, to raffle for the purpose of fund-raising..”

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye, those against No.

AYES AND NOES

The Speaker: The Noes have it.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could we have a division?

The Speaker: You certainly may.

The Speaker: The result of the Division on the original Motion is four Ayes, 11 Noes. The original Motion is therefore defeated.

NEGATED BY MAJORITY: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 25/94 DEFEATED.

The Speaker: The next question is now on the proposal that the matter be referred to a Select Committee. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye, those against No.

AYES AND NOES

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Can we have a division, Ma'am?

The Speaker: You certainly may.

Clerk:

The Speaker: The result of the Division is 11 Ayes, four Noes. The matter has accordingly been referred to a Select Committee.

I nominate the Honourable Second Official Member as Chairman of the Select Committee.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 25/94 REFERRED TO A SELECT COMMITTEE.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion 26/94, Review of the Maintenance Laws. The Third Elected Member for George Town.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 26/94

REVIEW OF THE MAINTENANCE LAWS

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Private Member's Motion No. 26/94, Review of the Maintenance Laws:

"WHEREAS there are increasing and frequent complaining from the public whereby Maintenance Orders have been ignored by persons against whom they have been made;

"AND WHEREAS maintenance arrears continue to escalate while innocent children and their parent and/or guardian suffer as a result;

"AND WHEREAS the Government is being called upon to subsidise children and/or the single parent in cases where a Maintenance Order is in force but not being adhered to;

"AND WHEREAS the present sanctions are not serving as a sufficient deterrent and/or a satisfactory method of enforcing Maintenance Orders; and proper effective sanctions including the consideration of making provisions for a defaulting parent's driver's license to be endorsed or that a period of disqualification be attached to a Maintenance Order to be activated in the case of a default;

"AND WHEREAS the best interest of the children are of paramount consideration;

"AND WHEREAS the individual needs of the parent should be a secondary priority;

"BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT this Honourable House request the Government to review the Affiliation Law, the Maintenance Law, and the Matrimonial Causes Law and to report thereon."

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Madam Speaker, I beg to second Private Member's Motion No. 26/94.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 26/94 having been duly moved and seconded is now open for debate.

The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I feel compelled to bring this Motion asking for a review of these three laws because of the many complaints from mothers, not only from George Town, but from all the electoral districts.

This Motion is not against any individual or person in particular, but in the best interest of the children—as they are paramount in the consideration of this Motion. I am asking for a review of the Affiliation, the Maintenance and the Matrimonial Causes Laws because they are intertwined and related. I will mainly deal with the Affiliation and the Maintenance Laws as very little representation has been received on the Matrimonial Causes Law. I feel that that should be looked into at the same time.

I would like to share with the House at this time, something that was published just this Sunday in the Miami Herald of September 25th. It is a very interesting article. I will just read excerpts from it. The title of the article is, "Family Values Start with Mom and Dad." I am not dealing here with values, but it is relevant to our children and the responsibility that parents have toward them.

"Politicians on the right, left and center, may not be hitting exactly the same notes, but like sopranos, tenors and baritones, they are pretty much in harmony. The tune that we hear again and again is the dirge against increasing numbers of children coming into the world and growing up without two parents, especially without fathers. Even Dan Quayle and Bill Clinton have done a duet on this subject. The former Vice President, earlier this month went back to the stage where he first took on Murphy Brown." I think most of us are familiar with the series on Television where he blasted Murphy Brown for being a single parent.

"Re-writing history in his original lyrics, Dan Quayle said, 'What I was talking about then—and what I am reiterating today—is the importance of fathers. Too often fathers walk away from their children or, worse yet, they do not even know who their children are. Somebody has to say it again. It is not right. You should not have a baby before you are ready, and you should not have a baby when you are not married. We have got to turn it around.'"

"An emerging consensus across political lines is that the fragmenting of the family is the principle cause of declining child well-being. Fathers are no longer peripheral to this discussion, they are central." And if you will just bear a little longer here, Madam Speaker, one last thing here.

"The truth is that prosecuting dead-beat dads makes good politics, and policy and talking about re-connecting fathers and children makes good sense. But, it does not get to the heart of the matter—relationships between men and women. We are talking here about the failure of relationships."

"A major weakness of the current way of talking about fatherhood is that we are not having a serious conversation about how men and women find a common life—how they find it and keep it."

The reason I wanted to share that is because I feel this relates to what I want to say and to the issues that we are faced with today.

Yesterday, while I was in the MLA Office, a constituent came in concerned that her daughter's school fees were not being met. She is divorced with one child and wants to continue to send the child to a private school. The father's arrears total $4,755. It is hard to comprehend that an individual is not accepting the responsibility for his child.

Society being what it is, we have illegitimate children as well as legitimate children. We also have irresponsible fathers who feel no obligation to their child or children. The Affiliation Law of 1973, was amended 17th November 1992, and that was actually the date of the election. It was amended to read in section 5(2) to read, "Section 5(2) of the Affiliation Law, 1973" it reads: "If the court adjudges the man to be the putative father, it may also, if it sees fit, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, proceed to have an order (hereinafter called an affiliation order) on the putative father for the payment to the mother or guardian of the child of a sum of money weekly, not exceeding twenty dollars a week, for the maintenance and education of the child." That was amended to fifty dollars a week.

I believe that what happens here is that the Judge looks at the putative father (fifty dollars, or what the father can afford) according to his income. This is good, but is it being adhered to? Too often we have leniency given in sob story cases. I am sure that the Judge or Magistrate hears a lot of these sob stories, excuses, and tends to be a little bit lenient.

In section 3 of this same Affiliation Law, it states that a claim must be made within 12 months of the child's birth. In other words, if the mother fails, for whatever reason, to make the claim within 12 months of the birth of that child, then the father does not have to support that child. This, in particular, is one area where I would really like to see this reviewed and changed. Perhaps instead of the 12 months, it could be increased to 24 or 30 months. In that same section 3(c), if the father is off the Island and he does return, it reads: "at any time within the twelve months next after the return to the Islands of the man alleged to be the father of such child upon proof that he ceased to reside in the Islands within the twelve months next after the birth of such child, make complaint, on oath or affirmation, before a Justice of the Peace alleging some man to be the father of the child."

One mother made representation on this because she failed to make a claim within the 12 months and the child is suffering today. The father is of quite substantial means and able to support this child, but the child receives nothing from the father.

I have been provided with some statistics from the Clerk of the Courts, Mrs. Delene Bodden, and I would like to publicly thank her and Mrs. Nancy Fredericks for compiling these statistics that I asked for on short notice. I requested that the statistics be compiled on a six months basis, and this is what they provided for the last six months. In the Affiliation Law, the total number of cases was 231. Of these 231 cases, we have 55 with arrears. That is a very large number. The total dollar value for the Affiliation arrears is $40,165. This is a very large amount of money and could well benefit the children.

In the Maintenance [cases] the statistics quoted are 242 cases and 36 of these cases were for arrears. The amount outstanding for Maintenance is $51,105. If we total the two, we have over $91,000 in a six month period. That would work out to over $15,000 per month and that could go a long way in supporting these children.

We have single mothers who are working two jobs, and I believe that this is part of the reason why our children are seeing less and less of their mothers. These mothers are struggling because they are not being helped with the maintenance of their children. This adds an additional strain to Social Services in that they have no one else to turn to; having to provide rent, vouchers for food and clothing, and lunch money. Only if our men would accept their responsibilities.

From these statistics we see that the court is lacking in collection. It says that the success rate is 75% in Affiliation, and approximately 80% in Maintenance. What about the other 25% and 20%? The arrears of $40,000 and $51,000 is quite steep.

The procedure in the Law is not by complaint but is normally by the way of a summons for commitment—that means jail—to deal with the putative father.

In section 6 of the Law, it states that the Court shall appoint a Collecting Officer. As far as I am aware, no one has been appointed; but the Clerk of the Court acts as the Collecting Officer and is also responsible for making the payments to the mother or guardian of the child or children, or to the person named in the Affiliation Order. No deductions can be made.

In section 7(1), and I read: ". . . in case the putative father neglects or refuses without reasonable cause to pay the sum so due together with such costs, the court may commit him to prison for any period not exceeding three months unless such sum and costs, together with the costs of commitment, be sooner paid."

"(2) Where the court commits a putative father to prison under the foregoing provisions, then, unless the court otherwise directs, no arrears shall accrue under the order during the time that the putative father is in prison."

If an Affiliation Order is made, and if payment is 14 clear days in arrears, then the court may, upon the application of the Collecting Officer, issue a warrant of distress. When someone goes to jail, they might be paying for their actions. However, the child or children are not being supported. That really serves no purpose. If they go to court and the arrears do not accrue (naturally there is no income), what happens when they get out of jail? They are not easily able to find a job; they lost the job that they were holding before, and most of the time the former employer does not want to re-employ them. Therefore, more problems are created.

In that same section it says that the goods and chattels of the putative father can be seized and sold and put towards satisfying the arrears.

In the Caymanian Compass of 18 August, 1994, there was a headline "Delinquent Father Could Lose Truck for Child Support." Here the Magistrate, Grace Donalds, issued the directive for seizing the goods (the truck) of a putative father for it to be sold and the arrears to be paid. On Monday of this week, the mother involved in this case informed me that the father is still driving the truck, the sums outstanding are increasing, and the Collecting Officer is doing nothing about it. If there are no goods or chattels, or if the amount is not sufficient—but in this case the father had a very valuable truck, why was it not done? Although the Magistrate gave the directive, why do our children still suffer? I hope this will be addressed in the review. As a result, the distress warrant was not issued and the arrears continue—again, the children suffer.

Someone put forward the argument of selling the truck, but until fathers realises that they have a responsibility to their children, I am not very sympathetic towards the father losing his truck. How can he drive his truck knowing that his child's school fees are not paid? The child may need shoes, food, or the rent might not be paid. This is where the sanction of the driver's licence may be considered. Consideration could be given to defaulting the parents' driver's licence, either by endorsement or by disqualification, and be attached to the Maintenance Order to be activated in the case of a default.

One could say that not everyone has a driver's licence. This is possible. But all of us who do have a driver's licence know that losing a driver's licence is not something that we would relish. What if the father needs the licence to get back and forth to work? I do not have a problem with their having to thumb a ride, or walk. They might then realise that they have to contribute to their children.

In the Maintenance Order, the Magistrate can order if he appears before the court an extra $20 to $75 per week towards these arrears depending upon his income. I know it is difficult to find $1,500 to $4,700 and onwards, but if it is broken down this way then it is not difficult to bring the arrears up to date. But, if it is not being done and followed through, then there is no point in adding that extra payment to the arrears. Again, the innocent victims are the children and their welfare is paramount in our society.

I believe endorsing the driver's licence is better than someone serving three months in jail and not having arrears. What about the three months? No arrears will accrue, but in the meantime the children are suffering. I believe consideration should be given to the first appearance in court, that the licence is endorsed for a period of three months; for the second arrears, it should be disqualified for six to twelve months, depending upon the amount of the arrears. I feel that no one wants to lose their driver's licence.

I shared the statistics showing the amounts of maintenance, and if they are not willing to support their children, they must suffer the consequences. I am not blaming just the father, because we do have irresponsible mothers as well; but nine times out of 10, it is the mother that is responsible for the child who is struggling.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, could I just be excused to ask when we are going to break for lunch today?

The Speaker: I was hoping that the Lady Member would have finished shortly and we could have taken the break until about 2.30.

Will you be much longer?

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Just one more thing, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: If the driver's licence is endorsed, this should act as a catalyst for irresponsible parents to properly organise their priorities. Therefore, I ask that all Honourable Members consider this Motion to review these three Laws and place the interest of our children as paramount in our society.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended until 2.30 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.09 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.33 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The attempt to force irresponsible fathers to live up to their paternal responsibilities is a universal phenomenon. A few years ago the then Member whose responsibility this fell under, attempted to alleviate the situation that we are discussing in Private Member's Motion No. 26/94, by bringing forward some changes which will improve the situation as far as bringing the allotments or allowances up to a realistic amount was concerned.

The problem, as I understand it, has been in the consistent collection of these allowances. This has not been easy because it is compounded by several factors, and to demonstrate that this is not a phenomenon limited only to the Cayman Islands, I crave permission to draw a reference to an article appearing in The American Sociological Review, Vol. 25, 1960, in which one researcher quotes thus: "Over a generation ago, Malinowski enunciated a principle which he said amounted to a universal sociological law [and this is the law]: that no child should be brought into the world without a man, and one man at that, assuming the role of sociological father."

William Good goes on to explain, "The rule expresses the interest of the society in fixing responsibility for the child upon a specific individual." He goes on to state, "The problem of illegitimacy is found in the United States, in the Caribbean, in Europe and, indeed, all over the world." That this is a serious and topical issue in the Cayman Islands is borne out in an article appearing in The New Caymanian for the week of the 23rd to 29th September 1994, entitled "The single parent family in crises" in which the author—and I hasten to add that this is a significant and important point—states: "Usually, one or more putative fathers provide very little or no economic stability and no social guidance to the family. Similarly the father, divorced or separated, often supports the family only by order to do so [by order in italics here, I take it to mean court order]

"In most cases, the putative father is unemployed or just does not work. If he is working, he cannot give much support or does not give any support to his baby's mother because he has other babies' mothers to support. An order for support by the Court will have little effect simply because it may not be obeyed or if the court sanctions the order, the usual thirty day stint in Northward will not make the economic situation any better."

So it is succinctly put that the problem is compounded by the fact that the father may have more than one child to support—indeed, often as many as three or four—so that what is crucial and necessary is to try to arrive at a situation which we can get the father to live up to his responsibilities and obligations. While it is true that these things are usually achieved by some sort of sanction, one has to be careful what kinds of sanctions one tries to employ; because we may indeed defeat the purpose of the exercise if we employ or put into practice the wrong sanctions.

I would like to draw some references from the Affiliation Law, 1973, Law 10 of 1973. Section 6 of that Law says: "The court shall from time to time, subject to the approval of the Governor, appoint for the purposes of this Law one or more collecting officers who shall be styled 'the collecting officer' for the place to which they are appointed, and in default of such appointment, the Clerk of the Court shall be the collecting officer for Grand Cayman and the District Commissioner shall be the collecting officer for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman."

As I understand it, these collecting officers are responsible for receiving the funds, which have to go to these children by way of their mothers or their guardians. Section 9 goes on to explain "Pensions liable to attachment."

Section 11 is interesting and has some bearing and significance to the point at which I will arrive at in a moment or two. Section 11 reads: "Where by an affiliation order it is provided that payment be made to the collecting officer, the putative father or the mother or guardian of the child, if he or she changes his or her address shall give notice thereof to the collecting officer, and on failure so to do without reasonable excuse shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty dollars."

Madam Speaker, I would like to say that a weakness in the Motion that has been moved is that if we resort to the punitive sanction of defaulting the parent, ostensibly the fathers' driver's licence, we may come upon a situation where the fathers make a claim—legitimate—that he is not able to live up to his responsibilities because, being deprived of his driver's licence, he has lost his job. So we are faced with a quandary; a moral dilemma where, by trying to remedy the situation in this way, we aggravate an already difficult situation.

It is with this in mind that I crave the indulgence of the Chair to move an amendment.

AMENDMENT TO PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION 26/94

Mr. Roy Bodden: In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 24(1) and (2), I, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town propose the following amendment to Private Members Motion No. 26/94, entitled, Review of the Maintenance Laws, by adding the following new and second resolve: "BE IT NOW THEREFORE FURTHER RESOLVED that where a Maintenance Order has been made by a court, the Government consider amending the Maintenance Orders Enforcement Law, Revised to provide that the court may request an employer to deduct from an employee's wage or salary any Maintenance sum(s) as have been ordered upon such employee by the court, and that the employer shall forward such sum(s) to the Clerk of Court in Grand Cayman, or the District Commissioner in Cayman Brac for payment to the spouse, guardian or dependants."

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would like to second that amendment to that Motion.

The Speaker: Before the House is a notice of an amendment to Private Member's Motion No. 26/94, as has been read out by the Mover. Having been duly moved and seconded, it is now before the House.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Such an amendment would establish very clearly the lines of responsibility and would make it increasingly difficult for the putative father to abnegate his responsibilities; not make it impossible, but would make it increasingly difficult for the father to abnegate his responsibilities.

What often happens now, as I understand it, is that the punitive sanction is often a sentence at Northward Prison for 30 days, during which time the father is legitimately unemployed and is not in a position to pay the allowance. Upon release from prison the father is in a position where arrears have accumulated. In many instances, these people are transitory workers with no permanent and steady means of employment. He may have lost his job during his 30 day imprisonment period, so it means that he has to begin from scratch, as we say, trying to find a new job and getting himself established. In the meantime, what happens to that child or children? They are deprived. We have heard cases where these arrears can accumulate to the point of thousands of dollars.

I wish to draw the distinction that not only do these cases apply to children born out of wedlock, but, in many instances, they apply to children legitimately sired by a husband. I will cite a case that occurred in my constituency.

One evening some time ago, I was visiting with some of my constituents in the Savannah area, when a car drove up just as I was about to leave the residence I was visiting. A young lady looking very distraught said she had to speak to me, and it was an emergency. So right there, just outside the person's fence, this lady told me that she was in a predicament—her rent was due; she was ill and unable to work; she was in the process of being locked out of her apartment by her landlord because her rent was in arrears. She has two children—a young boy, about 11 years old, and a girl a couple of years older. I asked her, as evening was approaching, what was she going to do for the night? She told me that she did not have any alternative except for the three of them to sleep in the car (she was driving a small car). I said to her that there was no way the three of them could sleep in that car, and asked her what she was going to do for sanitary facilities, and how were the children going to cope since they would have to go to school the next day. I finally said that with the state of this country now I, as a man, would not attempt to sleep in a car, and I certainly would not advocate it for a lady and two young children.

So, we discussed a number of possibilities and probabilities. Finally, I had no alternative but to go to her landlord and make good the rent. Fortunately I was in a position at that time to pay, because it ran $300. That was but a temporary remedy. I told her the next day she should make an appointment to come and see me and I would try to arrive at a more permanent solution. I was surprised to learn that her children were legitimate children born in wedlock. Her husband had left her and did not offer any kind of child support for years.

I went to the court with the young lady to try to make some representation so that we could force this man who was legally married to this woman who needed help, only to find out that the lady did not make any report. The court was, therefore, unable, or not interested in, pursuing the matter. I was crestfallen, to say the least. I then had to scout around to try to help the young lady find some better employment.

Shortly after that, I came across a similar situation where a young lady had a child, this time out of wedlock, who was about 12 or 13 years old. But in her case no help could be forthcoming from the courts either because I was told by the officers of the court that since one year had passed and the lady did not make any attempt to establish paternity, indeed, this lady went to court and the case was thrown out because 12 years had passed and she made no attempt to establish paternity. The father simply said the child was not his and he did not know anything about the woman, and the lady was left to fend for herself. These cases are not farfetched and, indeed, they are more common than we care to admit.

The amendment which I am bringing in those cases where paternity has been determined, I would like to see the onus put more clearly and the responsibility drawn out in such a way that the only way the father can escape is if he absolutely refuses to work, and that way he will be punishing himself because I hope that no one gives him food, clothes or shelter. So what is proposed here can work, because already in the section of the Affiliation Law (which I read), the Clerk of Courts is appointed the collection officer in Grand Cayman, and the District Commissioner in Cayman Brac.

I would like to see the onus placed so that when a person leaves a particular employer, that employer then notifies the court if a Maintenance Order has been served; "That as of the end of the month, Mr. "X" will no longer be employed by this company, or myself", so that the court will be in a position to follow up that person and it will become increasingly difficult for that person to abnegate their responsibility.

What is attractive about this amendment is that the money so ordered by the court is deducted from the wage or salary of the person before it reaches his hand. So, the excuse cannot be given that they have to put the car in the shop so the $50 dollars they were going to give for support has to go for repairs, or that they stayed out and had a little bit more to drink than they expected and the money is gone. It is high time we move towards a more effective solution to this problem. The number of youngsters deprived in this society by fathers who work and who are in a position to do something for them is growing. Quite unrealistically, these sources are depending upon the Government, and it is taxing the social and welfare system of the Government to the point where the Government cannot be expected to bear the brunt of this burden while able and working fathers go free.

But, the ultimate solution to the problem lies deeper than this amendment. It lies in our society inculcating a sense of responsibility, a sense of values and a sense of morals; or a sense of shame, which would be so wide spread that these instances when they occur, the guilty parties would realise that they are not helping themselves when they do not exercise the responsibilities in doing for their children. But they are hurting the society and the very children to whom they had a responsibility. While we can attempt to address the problem with these kinds of amendments, we also have to find some way of educating the men and society in general as to the importance of living up to this responsibility.

That may not be as easy as it would seem because this problem, as I understand it, has its genesis in slavery and the whole notion of the settlement of the West Indies where it was taught that it is macho to have a whole brood of children outside. Indeed, it was encouraged by the Plantocracy because the more numerous they were, meant the more help they had on the plantations. This is inbred in our culture, so we now have the problem of de-programming ourselves and realising that it is not necessarily macho to have a number of children, particularly if they are deprived. So, we eventually have to find a way to reverse this cultural phenomenon.

I would hope that the Government and other members of the Backbench would see the merit of the amendment, and will see the amendment as a more effective solution than depriving someone of their driver's licence, or some other punitive sanction, and support it for what it is worth. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to speak on the amendment to Private Member's Motion No. 26/94.

I believe the Mover has a genuine concern and interest with respect to the problem that we have of non-payment of maintenance by fathers. But I have grave reservations with regard to this particular proposal, as far as salary deductions are concerned.

First of all, I believe that the responsibility should not be shifted to the courts or the employer, because in large establishments, like banks, where they have salaried employees, that may not be a problem. But we have a lot of small employers in this country and all of a sudden they are going to be faced with the responsibility of having to, first of all, remember to deduct from each person who works with them, that has a court order for maintenance, from their salary and then have the responsibility of seeing to it that those funds are then taken to the courts office, or wherever else these funds may be channelled through. I do not think that is fair as far as the small employers in this country are concerned, and I do not think it will work at all.

So, I believe that we have to find a solution to this problem, but I am not sure, I am not convinced that this is the solution. My attitude is that the responsibility should remain with the courts. If the court's office needs more bailiffs to ensure that these decisions by the court are carried out as far as maintenance of children, then let us employ more bailiffs to ensure that it is done. I do not believe that this is the answer to that problem, so I cannot support this amendment.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I also rise to speak briefly on the proposed amendment. I wish to point out to this Honourable House the wording of this amendment. This proposed amendment reads: "BE IT NOW THEREFORE FURTHER RESOLVED that where a Maintenance Order has been made by a court, the Government consider amending the Maintenance Orders Enforcement Law, (Revised), to provide that the court may request an employer to deduct from an employee's wage or salary..."; it says no such thing as shall. It says the court may. While I respect the submission by the Third Elected Member for West Bay, that there are some types of employers, namely, the smaller ones, who might not be able to handle this situation, the point of the amendment is not seeking that it be mandatory for employers to take salary deductions; it is simply seeking the latitudes where in instances it is deemed fit, these employers may deduct from the salaries. I just wanted to clear the air for the Motion with the amendment and I just wish to express my support for the amendment.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wish to speak, very shortly, on the amendment to this Motion in order to draw the attention of the House to certain matters.

The Members of the House may be aware that there is a Grand Court Rules Committee that sits from time to time and is comprised of the Honourable Chief Justice, myself, and two private legal practitioners in Grand Cayman. A sub-committee of that Rules Committee has been considering, for some time now, a complete revision of the Grand Court Rules. I am pleased to say that it is hoped that those rules will be ready very early next year. It has been a considerable deliberation which has taken place, and it is a fairly mammoth task. I am certainly not suggesting for one moment that I have been solely, or even to a major part, responsible for this—it is others who have done the very hard work that is involved.

Part of my responsibility in the House is to represent the Judiciary within this Honourable House, and the Honourable Chief Justice has asked me to bring this matter to the attention of the House. I acquainted him with both the Motion and the proposed amendment, and the Rules, when they come out do address this very point. They will make provision for maintenance orders to be enforced by means of attachment to earnings. All the necessary regulations and rules to enforce an order in that way will be comprised in the Grand Court Rules. In fact, it is intended that those rules will go somewhat further than what is envisaged in this amendment, insofar as any monetary order made by the court will be able to be enforced in that way. That is the intention.

I should hasten to add that those rules have not yet been passed by the Grand Court Rules Committee, although it is intended that they should be, probably around the beginning of November. But there is a further process that has to be gone through before they are actually published and come into effect. I am sure that appropriate announcements will be made nearer that time.

It seemed an appropriate time to mention to the House what is taking place and, as I mentioned, the Chief Justice is particularly anxious that Members be aware that this is something that has already received detailed consideration and is, in fact, going to be proposed within the new Rules.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, this amendment clearly falls within the present Motion. The Lady Member, when bringing the Motion itself, made it very clear that there would be a review of the Maintenance Laws. Therefore, in my view, this is only one small bit of detail of many that are caught under it. In any event, the area for dealing with this, as mentioned by the Honourable Second Official Member, will come under a different set of rules. What the Member moving it, and the seconder, can be assured of, is that this, and many other issues, will be dealt with. But, I think to attempt to state that this specific aspect of it has to be specifically into this Law is beginning to tie our hands; it is beginning to narrow the issue down considerably.

I can see what they are getting at, but I think that this amendment should not be passed in the form it is because it is, once again, a matter that will be dealt with under the general review, and is actually coming under rules that are made under a totally different Law.

The Lady Member made her Motion sufficiently wide so that it would be able to catch up many of the specific things coming up in relation to maintenance and, in fact, is much wider than maintenance in any event. I think her Motion should stand as it is. I do not think this amendment really does anything. I think it is merely going to restrict. It may well be that the best person to receive the payment for the employee may not be the Clerk of Courts, or the District Commissioner; these are very busy people. It may well be the accountant, or the bookkeeper or the accountant for the Social Services Department. I think the way it is now is really going to restrict and the Motion should be left wide so that we can look at all aspects and leave the freedom and flexibility within it so that the Court itself, or those who are dealing with enforcement, would be left to do this on whatever basis may be deemed to be more appropriate.

So, I do not support the amendment as it stands, as I really do not think it is good to take it in the form it is in. I understand the spirit of it, but that will be caught up under the substantive Motion itself.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

First of all, I would like your guidance on the particular condition at this time. Is it the case that I should confine my remarks specifically to the amendment, or should I include comments that would catch both the Motion and the Amendment?

The Speaker: Both matters are before the House, so you can debate either.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, are you saying that when the amendment is put, before a vote is taken on that, that both matters are before the House?

The Speaker: Both matters are now before the House—the original Motion and the amendment thereto—and when it comes time for the question to be put, the question will be put on the amendment first and then on the Motion afterwards. Both matters are before the House for debate.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, with respect, as I understand the procedure normally one moves a Motion and then moves the amendment. One speaks on the amendment and, if that fails, or goes on, one speaks on the substantive Motion.

The Speaker: No, you can debate on either because if you are for one you will debate that one and state that you do not support the other one. You cannot have two debates. A person debating will say that either he/she is for the amendment to the Motion, or for the Motion as it now stands, which is now debating. You put your reasons for it. When it comes time for the question, there will be two questions—one for the amendment, those that are for the amendment and those against; if the amendment falls away the original question will be put. That is how it is proceeded with.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, as I understand it, there should never be two Motions before the House. You must dispose of one matter before you go on to the other, because if the amendment fails, or if it is carried, it materially changes the substantive Motion. I will just leave it at that. I spoke only to the amendment.

The Speaker: I did say that there would be two Motions, because we cannot have one. The question will be put on the amendment and then, if that passes, it would be the Motion as amended because the amendment is to amend a part of the Motion. That would be the question put then, if the amendment passes—the Motion as amended.

Please continue the debate Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I think Private Member's Motion No. 26/94, which is before the House is addressing a matter which is of considerable concern to our society at this time. It is a Motion which invites one's attention to matters which relate to three Laws: The Affiliation Law, the Maintenance Law and the Matrimonial Causes Law. I believe that a review of these Laws, in light of present conditions in this country, is in order.

The two speakers before me cited various cases with which they have personal experience. These highlight the conditions which affect our society at this time, particularly where children are concerned—the citizens of tomorrow.

There are cases, as has been noted, where fathers do not provide for children, even where they may be a married spouse in a union that has produced the children. It is a situation where for a variety of reasons these fathers do not take into account their serious responsibility for their children. Of course, there is always the situation where the mother is a single parent and the father has simply fathered the children; and as far as he is concerned, he leaves the care and maintenance to the mother.

I really do not know of any societies in the western world where this condition is condoned or considered to be the appropriate action of fathers. Surely, as times in the Cayman Islands grow harder, in terms of cost of living and limited earnings, it is becoming more difficult for one parent, usually the mother, to raise the children without the support or help of additional finances from the father. There are many instances in this society where a father may be the father of more than one child with different women, and it compounds the problem—for here is one individual who has created a situation of social difficulty and disharmony in one, two or three instances.

I believe that one will find more cases of irresponsibility on the part of fathers in the middle or lower income brackets, and not to say that it may not be the case in instances where fathers have the ability, but simply do not have the mind to meet their obligations. Larger families, we know from statistical proof and sociological studies, often seem to be in economic brackets where raising large families can be least afforded. So this situation that we are debating here and speaking about today is really one of considerable difficulties.

While I certainly am one who does not condone this irresponsibility on the part of fathers, and, in fact, I think it is to be deplored, one should not look at their role in isolation for surely family planning in terms of how many children a woman may choose to have comes into play. I think that while we need to attempt to get a psychological change in the fathers, as to their responsibility, we also need to get in mind the fact that women have control where they can decide if they will have a child or not. In this modern age there are means and methods of controlling population; indeed, women need to take the responsibility to not have that child if they know that the father, who is so anxious to be a father, may not choose to support. In instances where a mother may have more than one child, in such a situation it also becomes iraproachable on the part of the mother, in my opinion.

So, I think we need to look at it in its wider perspective and hope that a change of thought on both sides might come about. Certainly, where the father is concerned, and where the court has ordered that he provide certain maintenance for a particular child/children, there has to be ways and means of enforcing this particular order or condition as ordered by the court. There is always the question as to how effective punishment is in any given situation. It does not seem—in the instances I have heard about, persons being sent to prison because of outstanding maintenance monies—to have the desired effect. Those fathers come out of prison and they do not pay the amount of money. Often it continues to accumulate—they pay so much then lapse into the situation of not paying again.

In the substantive Motion, it speaks of taking punitive measures against fathers who refuse to maintain their children like they should, by penalising them in terms of having their driver's licence endorsed or even a period of disqualification. I cannot agree with that particular concept as put forward because I feel that is, in effect, far removed from the whole situation of the child in the first instance; and no one is helped where this disqualification might be imposed, surely not where a father might fail to provide maintenance. The father might be a driver and for his licence to be endorsed or taken away would create a greater hardship in him earning money to pay the child's maintenance. So, I do not agree with that concept.

However, I lend full support to the amendment, as moved by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, in that it gets right at the source of the father's earnings. I think this is true if we use the example of the Cayman Islands Civil Service Cooperative Credit Union. It has become an outstanding success, and I personally believe that one of the major elements in its being such a success is that the members have a common employer and such deductions as they are obligated to pay are taken out by the Treasury and paid to the Credit Union. So I see this as being a very similar situation.

I understand that the Clerk of the Court now collects money from "dead-beat" fathers, and the mothers go to the court to collect. I know in Cayman Brac, the District Commissioner's office also provides this service. I do not know if at this point in time it has changed, but in both instances it is someone so designated (rather than the Commissioner or the Clerk) to collect the money. These fathers have to face entities of authority where they pay the money, and the mothers go to these locations to get this money which has been collected in their behalf.

I believe that the amendment to the Motion is one which gives an extremely practical dimension to the substantive Motion, and I give the amendment my full support. It is encouraging to know, as stated by the Second Official Member, that the Grand Court operates under certain rules or guidelines and that the court itself has taken this method of collection into account. I think the chances of collections will be greatly enhanced. For that reason also, I would think this amendment is very much in order. If it is accepted it should help.

I support the amendment to Private Member's Motion No. 26/94, and I also lend the substantive Motion my support in requesting for a review of these three very important Laws; while disagreeing with the section which makes suggestion as to certain penalties which I think are impractical.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, this is a very important matter before us. It is one which I have a lot of interest in, and it is one that I have plugged to change over the years.

The debate today highlights a number of problems in connection with the maintenance of children, and the attendant problems which exist because of fathers (in most instances) who refuse to take up their responsibility. I am at a loss, Madam Speaker, as to which Motion or amendment to debate. I thought we would dispose of one, and before we took the vote on the Motion (which is the first substantive debate), we would move the amendment and dispose of that.

I wish to thank the Mover, the Third Elected Member for George Town, and the Seconder, the Second Elected Member for George Town, for their genuine concern for the plight of children in our society. This is not a new problem in our country—that of fathers neglecting to take up their God-given responsibility. It seems that they believe that all that is expected of them is to father the child. As I said, this is not something new. This is a very old problem which has intensified over the years, but I do know that the problem exists.

Back in 1985, as a Backbench Member of the House

(a junior Member of the House), I spoke in my very first Budget and Throne Speech debate on Wednesday, 13th March, 1985, and I quote: “Another area of discontent to me is the Maintenance Law in this country. I want to pose a question to this Honourable House—what can $20 per week buy for a child today? These men who walk out on their wives and children and leave them unprovided for are not in any way contributing to our social stability. They, I feel, should be compelled by Law to provide for these children to help prevent them from becoming a further drain on our meagre social budget. Twenty dollars is certainly not enough and I would like to see this Law upgraded and strengthened to bring it into line with the present-day cost of living.” (Official Hansard Report—13th March 1985)

By some convincing of the Government then, and some hauling and pulling from the Backbench, the amendment to the Maintenance Law came about on the 22nd May, 1985, where section 6 of the Law was amended by substituting $50 for $20 in the penultimate line of the Law. That move from $20 a week to $50 a week, nevertheless, did not correct the inequity that existed because of the court not having the wherewithal to enforce the $50.

I know many families who have suffered for want of care and attention from fathers who, while they ran up and down, played the sweet boy, continued to have children and those continued to suffer as well.

I believe I heard one Member saying that the problem might not be solved with these amendments to come, and that is true. While these amendments are going to help, they are going to address—and when I say amendments, I am not saying the amendment now before the House, I mean amendments to come, which are being asked for by the substantive motion. We need to preach responsibility in our society. There is no use in changing the Law, if at times, in opposition to Government, you are not going to stand firm on your feet and say to that irresponsible man, look him full in the face and say; “Today, I am a legislator, you might have voted for me, but you need to change your attitude towards your children.” All of us need to say that to these men. There is no good getting up here in this House and saying it. We need to get on a public platform. Whenever we meet them on the street, it is our responsibility to say to them, “I am sorry that you feel that you voted for me and, therefore, I should not pass these laws. You have a responsibility.”

The truth is, it is causing social disruption in our country. The Laws are in place. The Maintenance Law, 1977, is a clear statement of the responsibility that parents have to maintain their own children and the children of their partners. That, in itself, could cause problems. These provisions understand the financial problems that individuals may have in fully meeting their responsibilities. But do not condone the behaviour of work-shy or irresponsible parents. The penalties are clear, and include compulsory payment of maintenance and imprisonment. Some people feel that will not help, but I contend that there must be some sort of sentence where a parent—a father—refuses to adhere to the court. The court must have some comeback, and if that is imprisonment, so be it; but he must take up his responsibility and if he does not then he must pay the penalty.

The new legislation to come, the proposed Children's Law, would address these areas in some detail and increase the number of parties that are entitled to make application for maintenance. It would be possible, for example, for the department of Social Services to make application for a child that was wholly or partly maintained by Government's provisions. The responsibility for parents and others to maintain children continues in the Law, and the proposed penalties would not be changed under the provisions of this draft Bill. However, if Members feel that penalties are not in line with their thinking, then it will be up to them to let Government know or to offer amendments themselves.

I want to now speak from the current Social Services position. Despite these clearly drafted Laws and proposed additions to the legislative framework, the scenario described in the Private Member's Motion now under discussion is realistic. The Government, through its department of Social Services, should not continue to provide financial assistance for large numbers of children where the parents are failing to meet their responsibility. The dilemma, however, that the Department faces is that it is unclear to its officers whether the parents with this responsibility are unable or just unwilling to meet this responsibility.

When an application is made for financial assistance, including food vouchers, free school lunches, waiver of school fees, or any other financial service, the Social Worker is obliged to conduct a full financial assessment of the child's family, including parents. Often grandparents, uncles and aunts are included in this assessment before granting that service. The financial assistance includes a signed declaration that the information given is true. If the assistance requested is ongoing, let us say, beyond two weeks, the client is expected to pursue outstanding maintenance claims, or provide proof to the Social Services Department of serious employment searching, or provide a medical certificate explaining any limitation on their ability to work. In all of these circumstances, Social Workers provide advice and practical assistance to enable the client to complete these tasks.

Despite these checks and balances, many families have to receive ongoing Government assistance despite application being made to the court. There are many persons who might say to me as the Minister; “Government should not give these parents anything.” The truth is, I feel as a Government we have an obligation to these children. We just cannot let them starve or go without the education or the wherewithal to get an education. It is Government's responsibility to take up where these parents fail. It is a fact in our society.

The main problem is that parents (and almost always fathers) despite having orders made against them, refuse to pay. It may take months for the subsequent action to be completed in the court, by which time any disposable income that the father may have had has been spent, and the father claims poverty. Too many fathers, father children and let them go—while they run around and play sweet boys. Sometimes they flagrantly run around with two and three women. I have to wonder sometimes how they can do it. I have to wonder at their conscience, if any, the love for their child. For a person to bring a child into this world and not love it is beyond my comprehension.

I have known of cases where the father of the child leaves them. He then goes and builds a beautiful home for another woman with two or three children. It is incomprehensible to allow this sort of thing to continue. We are going to have to take serious measures. All of us in this House will have to put politics aside and stand together and say; "Look, man, whether you supported me or not, you have a responsibility and it is my duty to see you pay the penalty if you do not keep the children the way you are supposed to."

Then, of course, some fathers genuinely cannot afford to meet the maintenance claims against them, and the provision for these children may have to be subsidised by the Government. One Member mentioned that there needs to be family planning. This is something that I certainly believe needs to take place. But then, we have some hard-headed women and nobody can tell them anything. They only know how to have children. You cannot give them advice. You can tie a rope around their necks and drag them to the hospital, and they will hold an argument with the doctor and tell him why they should not take birth control. I have seen it happen. As a representative I have put them in my car and taken them to the hospital—all the way from West Bay—talking my head off, and they still talk to the doctor in the fashion that they know what is best. What you do with these kinds of women, I do not know, but in these instances it is not all the man's fault.

Some Social Workers are cynical and wonder why these fathers often seem bent to continue to have many more children, but, as I said earlier, in a multitude of relationships with apparent immunity, they have to pay the price. Simply, if they want the fun they must pay for it.

Where parents refuse to make payments that have been ordered by the courts, various penalties apply, including the seizure of goods and funds by the court bailiff or, ultimately, imprisonment. The first sanction, the strength of property, seems to be used infrequently while imprisonment is favoured.

Madam Speaker, some ask why imprisonment? They say it is ultimately self-defeating, as during the life of the sentence the defaulting parent is being kept at the Government's expense while the children are still being maintained by the provisions of Social Services. But what do we do, I ask, when in or out of prison they do not take up their responsibility? Do we let them laugh in our faces and say we cannot do anything about it because we cannot put them in jail? So what do we do? We slam them in there for a long time, that will teach them a little bit of sense. Perhaps, Members will say, we should feed him bread and water. We have to be tough or else nothing we do here today is going to matter. We imprison them, they walk out and say that they do not care.

The usual sanction applied in most other countries with similar legal systems is the direct reduction of outstanding sums from wages, salaries or any kind of allowance. In our Islands, where the absence of income tax and such other matters means that income is not usually declared to the Government, powers to deduct from income, some argued, would be largely ineffective. But, I believe that we must find a way for the courts to order an employer to deduct from the salary, and in so deducting, deduct any amount that he, an employer might incur in doing that deduction. Now, I know that we are going to hear that we are creating more red tape. I do not know how much red tape this could create, because all employers carry a payroll, they know who they have employed. More and more in our community, since we have all created this society which we have, we are going to have to band together to attack some of the problems we have. As I said, I hope we do not hear that outcry if that suggestion is taken up in any Law—that we are creating red tape.

I believe the creation of new, just and very effective sanctions for defaulting parents is a challenge facing us as representatives of the people. We have heard about the suggestion of endorsing their driver's licence. That is not before the House. While it may be a suggestion, it is not before the House. The resolution that I have asks that the Affiliation Law, the Maintenance Law and the Matrimonial Causes Law be reviewed and that a report be made thereon, so, I do not believe we are voting on that. I believe that the matter has some merit, but also provides some problems.

We could say that if the driver's licence of the defaulter was suspended, then the prospects of that person finding employment are reduced. I believe that this was one of the main arguments previously put forward—I must say less convincingly against the seizure of property, particularly cars. The reluctance of usually the mothers, to pursue maintenance claims against the children's father is a very major problem. There is a suggestion in the draft Children's Bill that the Government can bring these proceedings where the Government would otherwise have to pay for the financial relief of the children. I believe that would assist to resolve this matter where mothers refuse.

As a representative, not as Minister for Social Services, but as a representative, I am confronted weekly to give money for things like pampers for small children. And when I say to the [mother] well where is the father and why do you not take this man to court, a lot of times the answer is that they are afraid of the father. Social Workers feel, however, that in their experience it is the mother protecting the father, rather than a fear of retaliation and violence that intimidates the mother from making a reasonable claim on behalf of her children.

The problems identified in the Private Member's Motion are very real to the Social Services staff. Statistical analyses have not been done so it is difficult to show clearly how big a problem this is. Social Workers in the Department feel that enforcement of Maintenance Orders through the Court is a time consuming and largely fruitless task, although appropriate. They also feel that any legal or procedural changes that can be made to make this work a little easier and reduce the pressures on Government coffers will be welcome by the Social Services Department.

Madam Speaker, as part of the duties of the Social Worker Supervisor, he gives regular instruction in social studies to the students at the Young Parents' Programme, which is a new programme that has come on line this year. Today, Madam Speaker, I believe the programme is working well. Recently he was scheduled to speak to the group which now consists of five young parents (ages 14 to 20 years old) and he was speaking on custody and maintenance issue. The students asked that their comments be passed on to the Honourable House by myself, as this debate took place.

Firstly, all of those students were unanimous in expecting the fathers of their children to contribute to the maintenance of their children. They felt that rich parents should pay more but that there is a minimum contribution that everybody pays. Proving fatherhood through the Affiliations Law, was not regarded as a major problem, since they felt most fathers were very happy to boast of conquest. But once paternity is established, a court order should give reasonable time to start paying and that any potential penalty should be indicated at the time of granting the Maintenance Order so that there is no doubt as to the consequences of default. First choice as a penalty was Northward Prison, but with compulsory community work that brings in a minimal wage that can be handed over to the aggrieved parents for the benefit of the child. The option of just doing time should not be available. Expatriate defaulters who fail to respond should be deported and reciprocal agreements made to ensure that payments are still made. The seizure of goods was welcomed, particularly the seizure of stereo equipment, televisions and cars. The suggestion of endorsement or suspension of driving licences met with mixed feelings. Some men cared more for their cars than for their babies, was one quote.

Madam Speaker, the group wanted their representatives to be aware of their problems, and to understand that they did not want to be dependent on the Government. They all expressed the wish to also work and maintain their children personally.

Madam Speaker, the Government is concerned and has taken some steps in regards to these maintenance payments. We heard from the Honourable Attorney General, when he mentioned the review of the rules which will cover a reform of all procedures dealt with by the Courts whereby money is owed and not paid.

The Motion is very genuine and addresses this problem which we are having, and I have no hesitation in accepting it. I believe that the Motion is broad enough to incorporate what the amendment asked for. As I said, the Motion asked; "BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED that this Honourable House request the Government to review the Affiliation Law, the Maintenance Law, and the Matrimonial Causes Law and to report thereon." And, as I pointed out all these things that the amendment asks for are taking place.

One matter I have concern with in the amendment is where it says: "AND BE IT NOW FURTHER RESOLVED THAT where a maintenance order has been made by a Court, the Government consider amending the Maintenance Orders (Enforcement) Law ...to provide that the Court may request an employer to deduct from an employee's wage or salary, any maintenance sum(s) as have been ordered upon such employee by the Court and that the employer shall forward such sum(s) or sums to the Clerk of the Court in Grand Cayman or the District Commissioner in Cayman Brac for payment to the spouse, guardian(s) or dependence(s)."

As I said, this is being addressed already in the new Juveniles Law. The substantive Motion is asking for a full revision.

But the one piece of discontent I have with the amendment is that it is saying that we should give or forward such sums to the District Commissioner in Cayman Brac. I cannot for the world understand why the District Commissioner. If they say the District Commissioner's Office that would have been another thing. You could pay the sum to the District Commissioner and he could have some peeve on some day or another and sit on this payment as long as he likes. I believe that when these payments are made, the Courts should pay it directly to the parents or to the Social Services Department. That would be a different matter, for it is Madam Speaker, the Social Services Department who is called upon to support the children most times. Therefore, Madam Speaker, I cannot understand why the Member is asking that we pay to the District Commissioner in Cayman Brac.

We support the Motion, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Before I suspend proceedings for a few moments, I would like to refer to the question of what matters can be debated.

An amendment has been made to the Private Member's Motion for an additional resolve section, and the meat of the Private Member's Motion was that the review be called so that satisfactory methods of enforcing Maintenance Orders and proper effective sanctions so that defaulting parents may make payments. I am sure that Members are aware of Standing Order 33 (1) which says that no Member may, without the leave of the House, speak more than once on any question except in Committee and in the case of the Mover of a Motion, but not an amendment in reply after the other Members present have had an opportunity of addressing the House.

Further, in Mays—the amendment position—two matters can be before the House: the substantive Motion and the amendment. These can both be debated at the same time, as I said, in particular with reference to this Motion that an additional resolve section has been included. Therefore it is quite proper that a Member debating would debate the substantive Motion and the amendment thereto.

Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 4.16 P.M.

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.33 P.M.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Education.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order. I wish to address you on the ruling you recently made. I tried to rise before the break, but we adjourned.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I think you are aware that if you wish to bring up a matter on ruling, you have to do that on the substantive Motion. Thank you.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: But, with respect, I did rise, and you did not see me. I got up...

The Speaker: You are now speaking on a ruling that I have made, and I said that if you wish to speak on a ruling then Standing Order 40 applies and it is not open to appeal. If you wish to do on a substantive Motion, you may do that.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker I believe he is drawing attention to a procedural matter, and I think that it is one that you should hear him out on. It is not a question to a rule or otherwise, it is on a procedural matter.

The Speaker: Well, let me hear the procedural matter.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The section 25 (4) deals with the question of amendments before the House. That says: "An amendment to a motion may be moved and seconded at any time after the question upon the motion has been proposed by the Presiding Officer and before it has been put by him at the conclusion of the debate thereon. When every such amendment has been disposed of, the Presiding Officer shall either again propose the question upon the motion or shall propose the question upon the motion as amended, as the case may require, and, after any further debate [I point that out, after any further debate] which may arise thereon, shall put the question to the House or Committee for its decision."

Mays, at page 321, states that, and this is in the second paragraph, ". . . Between the proposing and putting of a main motion, subsidiary questions and amendments may be proposed and decided in the same way."

That basically sets out what has been the procedure in here for many years in that when a Motion is put, there is debate on that Motion. Those Members, who spoke obviously cannot speak again under 33(1), as you quite rightly pointed out. But once the Motion is then put before the amendment, the Mover of the amendment speaks on the amendment, other Members speak on the amendment, and then the Mover of the amendment winds up and the question is put on the amendment. At that stage, under 25(4), you then put the...

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I would like to stop you now, because you have gone into a substantive Motion debate. I drew Members' attention to Standing Order 33(1) which says that "no Member may, without the leave of the House, speak more than once on any question except (a) in Committee; (b) in the case of the Mover of the Motion, but not an amendment." and you have just stated that the Mover of the amendment has the right to reply—he does not.

Standing Order 33(3) says, "A Member who has spoken on a question may speak when a new question has been proposed by the presiding officer." In this case I would draw Members' attention to the fact that the Third Elected Member for George Town moved the Motion and immediately when we returned from the luncheon suspension, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town moved an amendment to that Motion.

Therefore, as said in Mays, page 336, "The debate that follows is not restricted to the amendment, but includes also the content of the motion, both matters being under the consideration of the House...." We shall now proceed to the debate on the Motion and the amendment before the House.

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: I am sorry. May I ask you to sit one moment, because it is past 4.30, and I have to know the will of the House, if they wish to proceed to conclude the matters before the House.

Honourable Minister for Tourism.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I believe it is the will of the House that we adjourn this meeting until tomorrow morning. Two of the Ministers are involved with a groundbreaking ceremony for the George Town Courts Complex at 10.00 tomorrow morning, and, with the wish of the House and yourself, perhaps we could adjourn this meeting until 10.30 or 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I think I told Members that I would be leaving tomorrow morning. Therefore, if the House wishes to sit tomorrow you will have a Deputy Speaker in the Chair.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I believe with the assistance of the Governor that could be arranged.

The Speaker: I am afraid that I do not think the Governor has anything to do with it. The Deputy Speaker has been appointed by this House, and when the Speaker is not present, the Deputy Speaker takes over.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: That is fine, Madam Speaker. I did not quite hear what you said earlier. I believe that as we have a Deputy Speaker, we could put him in the Chair and you will not be deterred from leaving tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: Thank you, that is the reason for a Deputy Speaker. May I ask you to move the adjournment of this House, Honourable Minister for Tourism?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I, then, move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock

AT 4.41 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 11.00 AM FRIDAY, 30 SEPTEMBER 1994.

FRIDAY
30 SEPTEMBER, 1994

[Mr G. Haig Bodden, Deputy Speaker, in the Chair]

The Deputy Speaker: I will call upon the Honourable Temporary Third Official Member to give the invocation.

First Official Member to take his seat, and I welcome him to the Chamber.

All Honourable Members, please be seated.

PRAYERS

Hon. A. Joel Walton: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Deputy Speaker: The Assembly is now in session, and I ask Honourable Members to remain standing whilst Mr. James Montgomery Ryan, MBE, JP, takes the Oath of Affirmation to become the Honourable Temporary First Official Member.

ADMINISTRATION OF OATHS OF AFFIRMATIONS

Mr. James Montgomery Ryan, MBE, JP

Mr. James M. Ryan: I, James Montgomery Ryan, do solemnly and sincerely affirm and declare that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, Her Heirs and Successors, according to Law.

The Deputy Speaker: I invite the Honourable Temporary

APOLOGY

The Deputy Speaker: I would like to offer apology for the absence of Madam Speaker, who is away today on some important business.

Presentation of Papers and Reports. We will receive the Report of the Standing Orders Committee to be laid on the Table by the Honourable Temporary First Official Member.

PRESENTATION OF
PAPERS AND REPORTS

REPORT OF THE STANDING SELECT STANDING ORDERS COMMITTEE

(Meeting held 29 September 1994)

Hon. James M. Ryan: Mr. Speaker, I beg to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Standing Select Standing Orders Committee dated 29th September, 1994.

The Deputy Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Pursuant to the moving of Government Motion No. 8/94 at the eighth Sitting of this Meeting of the Legislative Assembly, held Friday, 23rd September, 1994, the Motion stood referred to the Standing Select Standing Orders Committee in accordance with the provision of Standing Order 84(3).

Standing Order 84(3) reads: "84(3) When the Motion is reached, the mover shall move the motion, and after it has been seconded, the question shall be put forthwith that the motion be referred to the Standing Orders Committee and if that question is agreed upon no further proceedings shall be taken on that motion until the Committee has reported thereon."

The Motion, moved by the Honourable Truman M. Bodden, OBE, Minister responsible for Education and Aviation, Government Motion No. 8/94, Amendment to the Legislative Assembly Standing Orders (Revised) read: "WHEREAS it is expedient that the Select Committee, established in 1993 to study the draft Part IVA of the Cayman Islands (Constitution) Order, 1972, as amended (being the Fundamental Rights and Duties of the Individual) should remain established for that purpose;

"AND WHEREAS it is desirable, for the avoidance of doubt, to amend Standing Orders to ensure that this and other Select Committees which have been established since this Honourable House was last dissolved, and which have not finished their business, continue (and shall be treated as continuing in being) for the respective purposes for which those Committees were established, and to ensure that all future Select Committees remain in being until their business is finished or until this Honourable House is next dissolved after the date on which they are established (whichever shall first occur);

“BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT Standing Orders be amended by the addition of a new Standing Order 69A as follows: ‘Duration 69A (1) A Select Committee shall continue for the purpose for which it was established (notwithstanding any prorogation of the House during the period beginning on the day on which the Select Committee is established and ending on the day on which the House is next dissolved thereafter) until the day of that dissolution or (if sooner) the day on which the business of the select committee is finished.

“(2) Paragraph (1) of this Standing Order applies, and shall be deemed always to have applied, to every Select Committee established after the end of 1992.”

In accordance with the provision of Standing Order 75(2), which reads, “The Standing Orders Committee shall consist of the whole House with the First Official Member as Chairman,” the following Members constituting the whole House are the Members of the Committee: Chairman: Hon J Lemuel Hurlston, CVO, MBE, JP, First Official Member; Members: Hon Richard H Coles, Second Official Member, Hon A Joel Walton, Temporary Third Official Member, Hon W McKeever Bush, JP, Hon Thomas C Jefferson, OBE, JP, Hon John B McLean, JP, Hon Truman M Bodden, OBE, Hon Anthony S Eden, Mr John D Jefferson, Jr, Mr D Dalmain Ebanks, Dr Stephenson A Tomlinson, Mrs Berna L Thompson Murphy, MBE, Mr D Kurt Tibbetts, Capt Mabry S Kirkconnell, MBE, JP, Mr Gilbert A McLean, Mr Roy Bodden, Mr G Haig Bodden—Deputy Speaker, Mrs Edna M Moyle.

Absent from the meeting with apology were: Hon George A McCarthy, OBE, JP, Third Official Member; Hon John B McLean, JP; Mr D Dalmain Ebanks

The Committee held one meeting yesterday. The minutes of these proceedings are appended to the Report hereto.

The Committee agrees that Standing Orders be amended by the addition of a new Standing Order 69A, entitled “Duration of Select Committees”, as follows -

“69A (1) A Select Committee shall continue in being for the purpose for which it was established (notwithstanding any prorogation of the House during the period beginning on the day on which the Select Committee is established and ending on the day on which the House is next dissolved thereafter) until the day of that dissolution or (if sooner) the day on which the business of the select committee is finished.

“(2) Paragraph (1) of this Standing Order applies, and shall be deemed always to have applied, to every Select Committee established after the end of 1992.”

The Committee agrees that this Report be the Report of the Committee to be tabled in this Honourable House at this current Third Meeting of the Legislature.

Mr. Speaker, I therefore move that this Report be adopted.

The Deputy Speaker: The question is that the Report of the Standing Orders Committee as detailed by the Honourable Temporary First Official Member, be adopted. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES

The Deputy Speaker: The ayes have it.

AGREED: REPORT OF THE STANDING ORDERS COMMITTEE ADOPTED.

The Deputy Speaker: The next item of business is the continuation of debate on Private Member's Motion No. 26/94.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, if I may please address you on a Point of Order and procedure prior to the next speaker beginning.

The Deputy Speaker: Yes, I will entertain that.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Mr. Speaker, first I would like to welcome you as Speaker to this Honourable House, and assure you that Honourable Members here will give you every cooperation and assistance to democratically run the business of the House.

Mr. Speaker, the present Motion before the House has added to it an amendment, and it is around that I would ask if I could set out what has always been the practise of this House in the past, also what the Standing Orders of this Honourable House states.

Before I read this, the procedure has been that a motion would be put and Members would have a right to speak on that Motion—once. Then, if an amendment is put, Members speak on that amendment and the amendment is voted on and concluded. Then the question is put again on the original motion or, if the amendment succeeds, then on the amended motion and Members then finish speaking on the substantive motion and then there is a winding up, or last speech by the mover of the motion and a vote is taken on the motion, either as amended or the original motion.

Mr. Speaker, the Standing Orders of this Honourable House are very clear. Standing Order 25(4) states: “An amendment to a motion may be moved and seconded at any time after the question upon the motion has been proposed by the Presiding Officer and before it has been put by him at the conclusion of the debate thereon. [This is the important part] When every such amendment has been disposed of, the Presiding Office shall either again propose the question upon the motion or shall propose the question upon the motion as amended, as the case may require and, after any further debate which may arise thereon, shall put the question to the House or Committee for its decision."

So, the Standing Orders have stated first, that an amendment has to be disposed of. Then, at the end of disposing of that the question has to either be put on the motion, or on the amended motion. After any further debate on that, then the question is put at the end.

Now, I appreciate, Mr. Speaker, that the debate on this matter has apparently been by some Members on both the amendment and the substantive motion, and by some, on the substantive motion alone. It may be very difficult, if not impossible, for you as Speaker to find out who has debated what at this stage. I accept that. But I believe that it is very important that there be a ruling which complies with the Standing Orders so that, at least, in the future we will know that the normal procedure of debating the amendment and concluding it before going on to continue or to debate the substantive motion is done.

Unfortunately for me, and if you so rule, Mr. Speaker, I am prepared . . . because it is I think nearly impossible to find out who has spoken to amendments and who has spoken to the motion, or both not to speak further. Even though I spoke only on the amendment, which I point out has been the practice of this House under Standing Orders throughout the full time that I have been here.

I am very happy to know, Mr. Speaker, that you gave me the privilege to address you. Yesterday afternoon I was stopped in my address, and I believe that in a House that is democratically run, the Speaker should always listen to Members of this Honourable House on important points of procedure and order before making very important rulings.

I appreciate that the decision of the Speaker is final, and there is no appeal, as I have been told many times before. But, unless someone is infallible—and there is only one—then I believe, in life generally, that listening to someone on important points is a very important aspect. I must say, sir, that it has been refreshing to be able to fully address you on this very important point.

Thank you.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you. This is such an important matter, I would also invite the Honourable Second Official Member, the Attorney General to make any comments he may have and after that I shall make a ruling.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I have listened to what the Honourable Minister has said, and I concur with his interpretation of Standing Order 25(4).

I have always believed that the meaning of that Standing Order was exactly that—if an amendment was moved during the course of debate on a motion, then that amendment was to be debated. And once a decision had been taken on that amendment, then the motion itself would be debated, either in its original form or as amended.

I can say, Mr. Speaker, that it is based upon that interpretation that I contributed to the debate which, in fact, is still continuing. Insofar as I can, my advice would be (and I appreciate that the Speaker is certainly not bound to follow my advice but, for what it is worth) that the interpretation that has just been given by the Honourable Minister would be the correct interpretation.

The Deputy Speaker: Thank you. Almost thou persuaded me.

If we were dealing with an entirely new matter today, I would be inclined to allow an amendment to a motion to be debated by itself, and a ruling taken on it; and then the substantive motion to be debated as amended, or as it stood originally if the amendment had not passed. However, since I have inherited what has been an ongoing debate, I am not in a position to know who has debated the motion by itself or the amendment by itself or the motion and the amendment together. If I were to allow Members to debate again to make up for lost advantage in not having debated both sides of those two questions, we would be transgressing into that established rule that no Member, except the mover, shall be allowed to debate a second time.

So, I thank the Members for clearing up this matter to their satisfaction and for the benefit of the House and also for future reference. But I am afraid we will have to continue with the debate, and the debate will be confined to those Members who have not yet spoken.

The Honourable Minister for Education suggested that this was the proper course and I thank him for that suggestion. So, I will call upon the Second Elected Member for George Town to continue the debate.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 26/94

AMENDMENT THERETO REVIEW OF THE MAINTENANCE LAWS

(Continuation of debate on the amendment)

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: I wish to congratulate and thank the Third Elected Member for George Town, Mrs. Berna Murphy, for bringing Private Member's Motion No. 26/94 to the House. She knows what it is to be a responsible dedicated parent and empathises with those children who are not so lucky to have such parents.

The problem is a very commonplace one and it is universal. I do not believe that any country in the world is exempt from this problem and many countries have tried to solve the problem by adopting different methods and means to see that children are properly cared for and that monies are provided to maintain them.

The Member feels that the Affiliation Law, the Maintenance Law, and the Matrimonial Causes Law should be reviewed. We have heard much debate on these Laws as they now exist. We all feel that there is room and perhaps the time is now, for a review of all these Laws so that we can achieve the desired effect. Whatever is happening now is not working. Many, many children, as was pointed out, go without getting the necessary monies to ensure that they are properly taken care of.

There are hundreds of children who suffer from neglect, financial neglect, and perhaps most often it is as a result of the fathers who realise that there is this natural bond that is established between mother and child. Fortunately, it is very, very unusual for a mother to leave the child completely. But if she has to take care of the child at home it is very difficult for her to be working out and at the same time providing the care that the child needs, especially in the early years of life. Therefore, it is necessary that the father of the child to come up with the necessary money to take care of such child.

I am sure there are manifold reasons why this problem exists in the country. Some of them I believe are very deeply rooted and have to do with parental upbringing. We know that if there is lack of education and if proper morals are not taught to children, they will, in fact, go astray and often this is the result—fathering children and not expecting to provide for them.

It is very natural that as children become adolescents and then adults, they will experience sexual urges. These are healthy. But we know that it is very important that they also exercise self-control and do what is best for themselves and, in the end, the community. The necessity for adults to be responsible in all aspects of living, including this, cannot, I believe be over-emphasised. Children do get formal education in schools and other places, but really the onus is upon parents in my opinion. Parents teach us how to live and it is very important that the right values be instilled in children at a very early age so that they will, in fact, end up doing what is correct and proper and assume the responsibilities and shoulder them like men and women.

We know that it is a very common belief here in the West Indies (Cayman being no exception) and in other parts of the world that the more children one has, the more of a man it makes one. This is a sad state of affairs, but I believe it is beliefs such as this that helps to propagate the problem.

We know that there is nothing in any Bill of Rights ever established that gives anyone the right to propagate. Therefore, if a person does not have the means and cannot afford a child, he has the option not to father or to mother a child. I believe that with all the modern methods of contraception there is no excuse for individuals behaving in this fashion.

The Government provides free contraception and it is free for all living in the Cayman Islands. I believe that this even makes it more inexcusable. No one has the inalienable right anyway to have children. It is good that we do have children, but if we are going to have them then, in my opinion, we have to be prepared to assume and shoulder the responsibilities that go along with fatherhood and motherhood.

It is because of this, the Social Services Department is overburdened. Government often, in most instances, has to come to the rescue to assist mothers who are left destitute with children. If for that reason only, this Legislative Assembly has every right to be discussing this very commonplace problem in our community.

The Courts have tried to deal with the problem. There are some teeth in the law and we know that a court order can be served. But if the individual does not pay the necessary money, deemed necessary by the court—and I believe that the maximum amount now is $50.00 per child per week, and in my opinion this is very small and can hardly support any child with the high cost of living here in the Cayman Islands—I think that should definitely be reviewed.

We know that if they do not pay this amount the Court also has the power to dispose of property owned by the individual to thereby get the money for this purpose. Recently, it was said in the paper that maybe a man would lose his truck for this purpose, but I do not think he has lost his truck and we heard someone say that he is still happily driving his truck.

If the person does not come up with the funds, we know, too, that they can be imprisoned. But does this ever happen? A Member yesterday in the debate said that he believed that this would be counter-productive because a person would not be making the money to provide if they are in prison. I beg to differ from that point of view. I believe that it is important that such individuals be punished and I have always maintained that there is no reason why Government should be incurring such huge losses on account of expending so much money to take care of prisoners. We know that it is very possible to ensure that these jailbirds earn their keep. This is happening in different parts of the world where it is, in fact, considered the done thing that all prisoners work to earn their keep. I found this very, very interesting.

I was reading a newspaper published in Philadelphia, and it talks about jailbirds paying rent and buying food. It reads: “The rent-free privileges of the involuntary lodgers at a Pennsylvania county jail may be coming to an end.

“The 1,386 inmates of the county jail in Pittsburgh could be charged for their food, lodgings and medical attention if Allegheny County plans are approved by the State $65.00 a day. ‘It is not an easy thing to do, but we think there is an obligation for government to recoup the costs,’ says Tom Forrester, a county commissioner.

“County tax payers fork out $65 a day to house each of the inmates.

“The country would recover what it could by placing liens against property of inmates, attaching future wages and claiming parts of estates after an inmate dies.”

In my opinion, there is absolutely no reason why we should not adopt this policy here in the Cayman Islands. Let the prisoners earn their keep and they would not be a financial burden at all on the Government. Furthermore, they could still work and earn money, not just to earn their keep, but to support their children.

The Motion has many recitals. I know that all of these recitals are true. It goes a further step into suggesting that one of the remedies could be to take away or default a parent's driver's licence if the person does not do what he is supposed to do. Many people have said that this is rather farfetched and that it has nothing to do with not supporting the children. I would like to point out here that this was only a suggestion on the part of the mover, because she obviously felt that this would be effective—knowing how much most men in the community think of owning their driver's licence and how important it is to them. If they knew that this was possible perhaps they would buck up and do the right thing. Of course, there are many ways in which this could be addressed, and she did say that the whole matter should be reviewed. Perhaps when it comes to that, maybe the endorsing or taking away the driver's licence might not be the answer in the final analysis.

There are many things that could be done and in the Amendment to this Motion as suggested by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, he gives an option of empowering the Court to serve a court order directly to the person's employer and deducting from the individual's salary, and then this could be paid for the upkeep and support of the child. That is worthy of consideration in my opinion.

Of course, there is another way in which we could enforce this. Many men hate the idea of having to work on weekends for the Government, for instance, and if they knew that if they did not contribute they would be picked up on a Friday evening or a Saturday morning; and if they have to work on Saturday and Sunday, forcibly, then I think that would put some sense into them.

I believe, too, that it is worthy here to consider some medical options. Individuals who get into this habit might very well deserve to have a compulsory vasectomy or a compulsory tubal ligation; because if they are going to indulge in this habit and be nothing but a menace to the community, then something has to be done. Believe me, it is not far-fetched at all. There are some countries in the world that do this, namely, China, and others that are more to the right even than China. So, as far as I am concerned, what can be done is almost limitless. We can look at this problem and decide what we believe would best serve the purpose here in the Cayman Islands and do exactly that. I believe the review is necessary because we know that presently many of our children are neglected and go without the necessary support.

The problem is not always due to the male. That is a fact. Quite often the mother is extremely irresponsible and she jumps from one man to another without realising that her behaviour can lead to these kinds of problems. I would never say that the problem is an altogether male problem, it takes two to make this problem. Quite often there are two who are responsible. I believe that in having said that, it is important for me to go on to what I consider very necessary—that of proof of paternity.

Often some women in our community have no idea who a child even belongs to. That has happened in the past too, and she decides that she will blame it on the person who most likely can support the child. I believe that in some instances we have to make sure that there is proof of paternity, and it should be available to any man who feels that he is not the father. The admissibility of DNA tests in our Courts should certainly be considered here because I believe that can prove whether or not a man is the father.

It is a complex problem. It is one that will take us some time to review. The solutions are numerous. The driver's licence does not seem to appeal to many people in the community. As I said, the mover feels that the man would take it very seriously. I believe that there are some other things that they would take even more seriously than that. But, I would like to congratulate her for her deep-seated interest, and her concern for children in our community. This House has displayed much sensitivity to the problem and I thought that the debate went very well. I hope that this Motion will be accepted and that something will be done about the problem.

I must say, at this point, that I have not been very happy up to date with the way in which some Motions are passed in this House, and I would like to see more action on the part of the Government. When a Motion is passed in this House I would like to know that something is done about it and that it does not drag on forever and forever.

Thank you, very much, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Mr. Speaker, as I rise to offer my contribution to the debate on this Motion, I must first of all ask you to forgive me if during this debate I call upon you as "Madam Speaker" as the words "Mr. Speaker" are something new to all of us this morning.

The Motion before this Honourable House asks in the resolve section that "this Honourable House request the Government to review the Affiliation Law, the Maintenance Law, and the Matrimonial Causes Law, and to report thereon." My interpretation of that resolve, Mr. Speaker, is that this Motion has been brought in this form so that the Members of this Honourable House can give input to assist the Government in any amendments, deletions, or changes whatsoever, when reviewing the three Laws.

This Motion has been on my mind since I was elected a Member of this Honourable House. I have done research and have gone overseas for draft copies of the various Laws that we are debating today.

It is my opinion that the reason why there is so much trouble is because of the lack of enforcement of the laws already on the books of the Cayman Islands. It is said the $50.00 a week is not sufficient to maintain a child. I agree with this wholeheartedly. The Affiliation Law was amended in 1992, and I believe it was section 5 that was amended to add a subsection (9) to read; “For the purpose of calculating any sum of money to be paid under subsection (2), (3) or (5) the Court shall have regard to the means of the parties and all the circumstances of the case.” Therefore, the Courts are provided with the section of the Law under which they can grant maintenance on the income of the father who is being brought before the Courts.

Section 6(1) of the Affiliation Law provides for the appointment of collecting officers. It reads, “The Court shall from time to time, subject to the approval of the Governor, appoint for the purposes of this Law one or more collection officers who shall be styled ‘the collection officer’ for the place to which they are appointed, and in default of such appointment, the Clerk of the Court shall be the collecting office for Grand Cayman and the District Commissioner shall be the collecting officer for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.”

As I understand from the mover of this Motion, there is a provision in the estimates for a collecting officer who has never been appointed. I think it is time, Mr. Speaker, that these collecting officers be appointed, not only to collect the payments as they are brought to Court, but to ensure that if these payments are not made that they will be responsible for bringing back the guilty parties before the Court, and not the woman having to expend funds and legal fees once again, which she can ill afford, to bring a man before the Court.

Section 7(1) of the Affiliation Law provides, “Where under an affiliation order, which provides that payment thereunder shall be made to the collecting officer, payment is fourteen clear days in arrears, the court may, upon the application of the collecting officer, issue a warrant directing the sum due under such order or since any commitment for disobedience to such order as hereinafter provided, together with the costs attending such warrant, to be recovered by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the putative father,” We have heard that one of the judges ordered that someone's truck be sold. I feel that the Law should be strong enough so that when a Judge makes such an order—a vehicle, or whatever it may be, should be impounded immediately until all necessary action is taken to put it up for auction.

Section 9 of the Affiliation Law gives the right, “When an affiliation order has been made, the court, in any case where there is any pension or income payable to the person to whom the affiliation order has been made and capable of being attached, after giving the person to whom the pension or income is payable an opportunity of being heard, and provided that the court is satisfied that such person has without reasonable cause made a default under the order, may order that such an amount each week as is specified in the affiliation order, or any part of such amount, be attached and paid to the collecting officer.”

Mr. Speaker, since I have been in this House, I, for one, have tried to fight the cause of the women of the Cayman Islands. And I would like to make it clear that I am not a woman's liberator, but I feel that there are certain causes for the women in this country that were forgotten. When we have on the Law Books in this country laws such as these, giving the Court certain rights, I think it is time that they be enforced.

I do not believe, and as the last speaker said, the idea of taking someone's driving licence will be very effective in fighting the cause that we are trying to fight. Those people will use this as an excuse to say that they cannot get to work and, therefore, that they cannot pay the money, as there is no proper transportation system in these Islands.

I understand that there is an amendment coming shortly to the Judicature Law of this country, where anyone who is ordered to pay monies, these orders can be enforced. I applaud the Honourable Second Official Member and his Department for thinking of this because I not only feel that we should be here today fighting for maintenance orders to be enforced; any order for which monies are owed by a judgment debt should be enforced, and I feel that the amendment under the Grand Court Rules to the Judicature Law will make this effective.

I guess there will be Members of this Honourable House who will shoot me down when I say what I have to say on the Maintenance Law, Mr. Speaker. I feel that it needs to be rewritten, entirely. Section 2 states; “Every man is hereby required to maintain his own children and also—(i) every child, whether born in wedlock or not, which his wife may have living at the time of her marriage with him; and also (ii) if he cohabits with any woman, every child which such woman may have living at the time of the commencement of such cohabitation;”

We are here saying today that it is very unfair to the women of this country not to receive maintenance monies when the Court orders. I, and this is entirely my opinion, think it is very unfair to state, by law, that a man who marries a woman who already has six children and is probably receiving maintenance from the father of those children has to pay maintenance again. This should come from the love and respect which a man has for a woman for him to maintain the children, but it should not be compulsory by law.

The other section of this Law which gives me concern is section 3. It says; “..... every woman is hereby required to maintain the legitimate children of any child that she may have had in the event of the parents of such children and of any man primarily bound under the provisions of section 2 to maintain such children” Mr. Speaker, I am the mother of five children, and I feel that I am obligated to care for those children until death. I feel that if I am given the respect from the parents of the children who are not being cared for, it is my responsibility because of my love and my attention that I have for my grandchildren.

We must remember that there are women and men in this country who will marry our children and the first thing that they will do is to teach those children to disrespect, particularly, the mother-in-law. I feel that I, out of love, would care for my grandchildren, but I do not think it is fair for us to put such things in a law.

We have the same thing in maintaining parents and grandchildren. I do not feel that my children should, by law, be compelled to do for me. They must, through the love and attention which I have paid them through the years, find that a responsibility of their own.

We can sit here and write any amount of laws that we would like for the maintenance of parents and grandparents, but we are faced today in trying to do something for the children who have been fathered by the men who are not doing anything for them. Do we really believe that by putting this in law that they are going to do for their parents and grandchildren?

Mr. Speaker, some women and girls are sometimes lured into affairs with men, and have a child to portray their love for him. The woman or the girl may choose to have this child as a means of holding on to that man without realising the seriousness of the responsibility of having a child.

I agreed with the Honourable Minister when he said that it is time for Members of this House, as we meet these people, to remind them that they have a responsibility. I do not feel that it is only the responsibility of the Members in this House, but that the time has come for schools, churches and other organisations to become involved in letting these people know that having a child is not a joke. I think it was Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis who said that if we have failed our children, we have achieved nothing. Mr. Speaker, we can continue to amend laws, but until we get to the root of the matter we will not have achieved anything.

The Matrimonial Causes Law. Mr. Speaker, I have two suggestions for the Government when they review these laws: Section 5 reads; “The Court has jurisdiction to entertain a suit arising out of this Law where at the time of filing suit; or at a material time with reference to the suit and within on year of the presentation of the petition, either of the parties to the suit was domiciled in the Islands; or the party filing suit, being a female, has been ordinarily resident in the Islands for at least two years immediately preceding the presentation of the petition.” If we can allow either of the parties, because they are domiciled in this country, to file this petition, why are both parties given the right if they are ordinarily resident in the Islands to file the same petition? Maybe when the Government looks at it, they can give me the reason and I will understand, but as of now I do not understand.

The other matter that gives me grave concern in the Cayman Islands is the procedure of the Court when there is a divorce. It is normal to look at the mother to be given total care and control of children and for the father to be given visitation rights. Mr. Speaker, contrary to most public opinion, I, for one, believe that there are some good fathers out there who should have the right, as much as the woman to fight for the care and custody of their children.

My father, who was a very wise man, always told me that every woman can have a child but not every woman can be a mother. We can sit here and fight for the rights of women—which I have done and will continue to do—but as a fair-minded person I think that it is time for us to look at giving these fathers a chance.

There are mothers in this country who do not know when their children go to bed; who do not know if they have school uniforms; who do not know if they have had a meal before going to bed; who do not pick up the telephone and call; but the father is there with those children. In my opinion this matter of having to prove a mother unfit, the father has to go through the Social Services Department to prove that the children are not cared for when the children are with the father most of the time. He knows, so why not give him the right also to have the care and custody of his children. As the lady Member for George Town in presenting this motion said, the most important thing in the review is the interest of the children. They must be the ones who are thought of first.

Mr. Speaker, I have contributed the points that I have a problem with in these Laws and maybe there will be women on the outside who feel that I do not have their interest at heart, but I cannot stand on the floor of this House and speak out of the corner of one side of my mouth and feel differently within my heart.

I hope that the Government, in their review, will take cognisance and look at these Laws whereby the children of this country will be the ones who are uppermost in their minds.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.10 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.28 PM

The Deputy Speaker: Please be seated.

Continuation of the debate on Private Member's Motion No. 26/94. The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Before I go into the debate I would like to welcome you to the Chair. I think that you well deserve the position of sitting there.

I rise to make my comments on Private Member's Motion No. 26/94, Review of the Maintenance Laws.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to congratulate the mover and seconder for this Motion to the House at this time. I cannot say it is very timely, because it is something that we probably should have done long ago. It is a considerable problem in all three of the Islands, and something that we must address. We have the same problem in Cayman Brac, and it is growing.

Mr. Speaker, the resolve section makes it very clear that we want to review the Affiliation Law, the Maintenance and the Matrimonial Causes Law. In reviewing these, one observation that I would like to make is that very often there is a problem with children not being properly cared for, yet there is no spouse who will go and file with the Courts against the other. Therefore, the responsibility comes back to the Social Services Department; and in order that the children are not deprived of proper diet and all the proper needs of a child, it in turn rests on the allocations of the school lunch programme and other programmes of a similar nature. This creates and compounds problems for the Social Services.

I think that in reviewing these Law we should make a provision that if a situation is found to exist by the Social Services Department, then Government will step in and take action. I have seen this happen time and time again, yet there is no provision for asking the Courts for relief. We find children on the streets not properly taken of; their education and health is impaired and they become susceptible to things that are not conducive to being good citizens in their adult years.

Mr. Speaker, I listened very carefully to the debate of all Members. Each and every Member has made a sound contribution, and I look forward to the report on the review when it comes back to this House. I hope that it will be timely for it is an urgent matter and, hopefully, something will be done to help alleviate this problem.

In conclusion, I would again like to congratulate the mover and seconder for having brought this Motion, and also the First Elected Member for Bodden Town who brought an amendment to the Motion. I support the amendment because I know of people who have the ways and means to pay their maintenance orders, but who have excuses for not having the money. This is the reason for so much arrears in the payment of maintenance. If it is paid by the employer, it will come out first before the other unnecessary items of expenditure.

With these few words, Mr. Speaker, I support the Motion and the amendment.

The Deputy Speaker: If there are no other speakers, I will call upon the mover of the Motion, the Third Elected Member for George Town, to wind up the debate.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I, too, would like to welcome you. It is refreshing, and I like your style because I know you happen to enjoy coffee as well as I do and, therefore, we got a shorter session and were able to enjoy coffee much faster.

I would like to thank all Honourable Members for their input, and especially for their support in their debate on Private Member's Motion No. 26/94. I believe that all of us have agreed with the paramount consideration for our children and their welfare.

Most agreed that fathers have the misconception of only having to father a child, leaving the mother to raise and be responsible for the child or children. I do not have a problem with the amendment that was presented, however, I was aware of the Grand Court Rules being reviewed, and as I knew that this was taking place I did not include that as one of the sanctions to be considered. The Motion, as the last speaker said, is for a review of the three Laws and for Government to report, and I am sure that this will be included in the Report.

The reason for the sanction regarding the driving licence was that during the past several months, in being aware of maintenance and responsibility and dealing with things coming before the House, I read in an article in one of the news magazines that this sanction is very effective in 10 states of the United States. Mr. Speaker, we are very often accused of not being like the United States which is a large country, however, if this is successful in 10 states, I thought it worthwhile for us to consider. I know that there are mixed feelings amongst Members regarding a sanction, but, again, this will come out in the review of these Laws and if there is enough input that will be included as well.

Most of us mentioned the importance of a driving licence, and I feel that some action must be taken as a result of the individual's actions. Even the Bible tells us that we are responsible for our actions. Therefore, some punishment must be included in there somehow.

Now, in taking away the licence, I am sure that men will go before the Judge and say that they need the licence in order to work. Cayman is very small, Mr. Speaker, and I, for one, do not see anyone walking to work—and if I do I sometimes I will stop and pick them up. But very few people depend upon walking to work. We have some public transportation in the outer districts and quite a few buses for West Bay. Knowing, in our community, that most people know each other, I am sure they would be able to get rides to work.

I cannot think of too many jobs that really depend upon driving licences—heavy equipment, delivery and so forth—if that is the type of work then I am sure that the employer would be willing to switch an individual around to another department if that is the case. In the case of heavy equipment, well, then he can walk. He can find another job. But something must be done for them to realise their responsibilities.

Other Members, I think, said that the mother must also be responsible as it takes two to make a child. The Honourable Minister for Health shared with us the new mothers' programme, and I am very pleased to hear that the 14 to 20 year olds are receiving some guidance and help in raising their children in their single-parenting role. The parenting skills there are welcomed and some of their suggestions and input should be included in the review as they are very good, sound ideas. I also heard that they had mentioned the idea of the driving licence as well.

The idea of the jail sentence does not solve the child's well being, being taken care of. The idea of the prisoner earning his keep—I am not saying that we must run out and do so—this is something that should be looked at and, with all the comments that we so often hear from the public, I am sure that this will be a welcomed consideration for us here in Cayman.

Let us also include in the review the suggestion of week-end working, and if that is what the public would like us to do, that would be welcomed as well. But something must be done. I am sure that we will hear, in regard to the idea of the vasectomy and the tubals, that the rights of individuals will come into play.

Mr. Speaker, in talking with someone at the Courts, this would work well for they could cite one case of a gentleman who has seven children from seven different women. Therefore, if he thinks that he is such a lover-boy and has to produce these seven different children, then irresponsibility comes in here and the rights of that individual should go out of the window. That individual should most certainly have a vasectomy or whatever is necessary to prevent him from having an eighth child with an eighth woman. The same works for women who have five, six or eight children and do not stop to think about the child.

I so often heard when I was growing up that children are not asked to be brought into the world and their welfare and maintenance are of utmost importance in our society.

The other lady Member gave some very good points and I appreciate the thoughts that she shared in regard to the collecting officer. I, too, fail to understand, with the Law being in effect for all these years, why a collecting officer has never been appointed, and that it has just been left to the Clerk of the Courts and the District Commissioner to collect payments. They are very busy people and even if their assistants in their offices were appointed to do the work, it is not good enough. A collecting officer should be appointed because if our statistics show that $15,000 on average per month is outstanding—and it is of utmost importance that our children be maintained—then I think it is only fit for a collecting officer to be appointed to collect these payments.

Most often when a person defaults on the maintenance, the single mother, or the mother...

POINT OF CLARIFICATION

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Mr. Speaker, I wonder if I could just rise on a Point of Order? It is a point of clarification, in fact.

The Deputy Speaker: Yes, if the Member will give way.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I am grateful to the lady Member for giving way.

My understanding is that a collector has been appointed. I know that it has been mentioned in this debate that one has not been appointed, but a collector has, in fact, been appointed. The collecting officer for Grand Cayman is the Clerk of the Court; and the District Commissioner for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. That has actually been passed. I am unable to give the exact date, but that has taken place. So, as a point of information, I would not want the House to be, albeit completely unwittingly, misled on a point like that.

The Deputy Speaker: All right, thank you for the information.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Honourable Second Official Member. I appreciate that. I apologise if I misled the House, but I think others mentioned it, and we were not aware of that. I am happy that someone has been appointed. However, I think that those two individuals are very busy and in the review I would hope that another officer would be named, or even someone hired to do this because this is of utmost importance.

During the discussion with other Members, my colleagues, the Honourable Minister for Education and the Honourable Second Official Member, shared some useful information in regard to international laws where, if a maintenance order is given here in the Cayman Islands, it can be extended to other countries; and that Courts here can apply to other territories in order to have this enforced. If the father leaves the Cayman Islands to reside in another country and an enforcement order has been placed, then they can apply to that territory. So, for the listening mothers, and especially for our children, it is very good to know that they will be looked after.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to challenge the churches, the schools, and mothers to teach good morals and instil in their children the idea of relationships—the lasting relationships and something of a commitment. If our churches and schools can instil in our youth the idea of lasting relationships and commitment in a relationship, then I feel that maybe we would not have some of these problems with our children not having responsible fathers.

Again, I would like to thank all Members. I look forward to an early review. All Members stressed that need to place less strain on our Social Services Department from single parents not meeting their responsibilities. It is of utmost importance for our children, to make this paramount in our considerations. With the review of the three Laws, a lot of our children will not continue to suffer in the manner in which they do because of lack of funds and parental guidance.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The Deputy Speaker: An Amendment has been proposed to the Motion before the House. It will be necessary to put the question on the Amendment before we put it on the substantive Motion.

I would like to read the Amendment so that Members will be clear on it. This Amendment has been proposed by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. It reads: “AND BE IT NOW FURTHER RESOLVED THAT, where a maintenance order has been made by a Court, the Government consider amending the Maintenance Orders (Enforcement) Law (Revised) to provide that the Court may request an employer to deduct, from an employee's wage or salary, any maintenance sum or sums as have been ordered upon such employee by the Court and that the employer shall forward such sum or sums to the Clerk of the Court in Grand Cayman or the District Commissioner in Cayman Brac for payment to the spouse, guardian(s) or dependent(s).”

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES AND NOES

The Deputy Speaker: I think the noes have it.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Mr. Speaker, may we have a division please, sir?

The Deputy Speaker: Yes.
Madam Clerk.

ADJOURNMENT

The Clerk:

DIVISION NO. 18/94

AYES: 5

Dr. S. A. Tomlinson
Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts
Capt. M. S. Kirkconnell
Mr. Gilbert A. McLean
Mr. Roy Bodden

NOES: 10

Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston
Hon. Richard H. Coles
Hon. A. Joel Walton
Hon. W. McKeever Bush
Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson
Hon. Truman M. Bodden
Hon. Anthony S. Eden
Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr
Mrs. Berna Murphy
Mrs. Edna M. Moyle

Absent: 2

Hon. John B. McLean
Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks

The Deputy Speaker: The result of the division is five Ayes and ten Noes. The Amendment has not been carried.

NEGATIVED: AMENDMENT TO PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 26/94 DEFEATED BY MAJORITY.

The Deputy Speaker: I will now put the question on Private Member's Motion No. 26/94. The resolution reads: "BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT this Honourable House request the Government to review the Affiliation Law, the Maintenance Law and the Matrimonial Causes Law and to report thereon."

The question is that this motion be passed. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES

The Deputy Speaker: The ayes have it.

AGREED. PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 26/94 PASSED.

The Deputy Speaker: Before calling upon the Honourable Minister for the adjournment, I would just like to thank the Members for being so helpful this morning in helping me in this, my maiden voyage in the speakership, and to say that I am grateful for their cooperation.

It is my understanding that the Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston, the First Official Member, will not be here when the House meets on 4th November as his retirement and leave start before that time. But it is the intention of the Leader of Government Business to invite him to come down to the Budget Session so that he will be present to hear our thanks first-hand.

I call upon the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment and Planning, the Leader of Government Business, to move the adjournment.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Mr. Speaker, I was almost ready to start singing "For he is a Jolly Good Fellow", because I think all of us in the Chamber are grateful to you for the way in which you have carried out your duties as Speaker of the House this morning. The cooperation that you received, and I believe that you will always receive if you are ever in that Chair again, will be one of cooperation and cordiality.

I want to also make mention, Mr. Speaker, just before I move the adjournment, that we thought about the Hon. J. Lemuel Hurlston, and the fact that he would, I think, have his last day in Government on the 3rd of November, which is the day before the House is due to resume. As he is not here today to receive our remarks of appreciation, I believe that it is more appropriate, perhaps, to invite him here where he can hear from us our remarks, rather than to record our remarks and for him to read them.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until the 4th of November, 1994.

The Deputy Speaker: The question is that the House stand adjourned until the 4th of November, 1994. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES

The Deputy Speaker: The ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until Friday, the 4th of November, 1994.

AT 12.58 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM FRIDAY, 4 NOVEMBER 1994.

FRIDAY
4 NOVEMBER 1994
10.11 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Order. The Assembly is in session.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

APOLOGY

The Speaker: First of all I have an apology from the Third Elected Member for George Town for her absence; she is overseas, but will be at the next sitting of the Legislature.

OBITUARY

(Mr. Desmond Vere Watler, CBE, OBE, JP)

The Speaker: It is fitting, at this first sitting of the Legislature after the passing of Mr. Desmond Vere Watler, that tribute be made to him.

Mr. Watler joined the Cayman Islands Civil Service on the 1st of August, 1937, as a clerk and when he retired in 1976 he had reached the position of Chief Secretary. He served as the Third Official Member of the Legislature from 1959, and he was one of the first members of the Advisory Executive Council appointed by Major Donald in 1956. After the Executive Council came into being he was also a member and he eventually became the First Official Member of this House. I deem it an honour and a privilege to have had the opportunity of working with Mr. Watler in the Legislature during those years.

Coming from a well-known and respected Caymanian family, Mr. Desmond was a loyal and God-fearing civil servant. He was among those few who today can be called a true statesmen. He took pride in all his duties, was always willing to help, and advised the younger recruits in the service.

He was a source of information, a wonderful mathematician and a keeper of the purse. In those days when preparing the Draft Estimates the Government used an old NCR, and even before the figures could be put on that machine, he totalled all the sums for the budget.

Throughout his life, Mr. Watler was the embodiment of courage and grace. All of Her Majesty's representatives to these Islands under whom he served could always count on his support, advice and help at every turn. If he did not come forward to offer these, they were quickly requested.

He was a man of self-reliance, discipline and responsibility. Of course, we all know he was a man of great humour, but he was a man of few words. He did, however, always weigh very carefully the words before he uttered them.

Mr. Desmond was chairman of the Committee that was asked to arrange a special service for Thanksgiving on the occasion of the Islands' celebration of the 150th Year of Parliamentary Government in 1982. Those who attended the service at Elmslie will remember how deeply moving it was because he had put such care and attention to all the details. This was because he was a true Christian, having the love of God in his heart, and a deep love for the people of these Islands.

I think there can be no more fitting expression of Mr. Desmond's life than what was said of the late Arthur Ashe, who was a Christian tennis player. It was said that he wanted to be seen as fair and honest, trustworthy, kind, calm and polite. He wanted no stain on his character, no blemish on his reputation.

As is customary, I would ask the Clerk, on behalf of this Legislative Assembly, to send a letter of sympathy and condolences to his son and family. And, as a mark of respect, may we stand and observe one moment of silence to a great Caymanian - Mr. Desmond Watler.

[Moment of silence]

Pleased be seated. Continuing the Business of the House. I will have the Administration of Oath of Affirmation of Mr. James Montgomery Ryan, MBE, JP, to be the Honourable First Official Member.

Mr. Ryan, will you come forward please?

OATH OF AFFIRMATION

(Mr. James Montgomery Ryan, MBE, JP)

Hon. James M. Ryan: I, James Montgomery Ryan, do solemnly and sincerely affirm and declare that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, Her Heirs and Successors, according to Law.

The Speaker: Please take your seat Honourable First Official Member.

On behalf of the Legislative Assembly I welcome you as the permanent Honourable First Official Member.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

Presentation of Papers and Reports. The Draft Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure of the Government of the Cayman Islands for the Year 1995. The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Draft Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the year ending December 31st, 1995.

The Speaker: So ordered. First Reading.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

FIRST READING

THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

The Clerk: The Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

The Speaker: Second Reading.

The Clerk: The Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994.

Madam Speaker, the last Budget Address delivered in November 1993 outlined, inter alia, measures aimed at restoring fiscal budgetary balance through managed revenue and expenditure growth. There was also an underlying warning of the dangers of complacency at a time when other developing countries were looking towards promoting Offshore Finance as a means of boosting their ailing economies. I am pleased to report that the Government has achieved a considerable measure of success with regards to restoring fiscal budgetary balance and, that despite the anticipated competition from other developing countries, the Cayman Islands was still able to attract a substantial amount of new business.

I would now like to mention briefly some of the challenges government has had to face during the past year. Firstly, our social, moral and Christian beliefs necessitated that we assist neighbouring Cubans who landed on our shores in a quest to flee their country. This has been extremely taxing on both the human and capital resources of the government and people of the Cayman Islands. I would like to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to all members of the community for the laudable efforts put forward to address this situation.

Secondly, the success story of the Cayman Islands in the global financial arena has led to occasional unwarranted attacks on the integrity of the financial industry. It is well-known that success sometimes leads to envy, and it is only natural to expect some form of criticism from time to time.

There has been a proliferation, in recent years, of new locations marketing themselves worldwide as offshore financial centres. This increase in competition in a growing market has stimulated innovative responses from centres globally. All of these centres make equal claims to political stability and other reported advantages of their locations. The emerging differentiating factor among financial centres, however, is the commitment and ability to uphold their reputations.

The Government of the Cayman Islands has repeatedly demonstrated its diligence in preserving its reputation and also, in deterring the use of its financial institutions for illicit activities, through the joint efforts of the public and private sectors.

In 1984, the Cayman Islands took its first step to combat money laundering by the passing of the Narcotics Agreement. This Agreement provided for cooperation between the government of the Cayman Islands and the United States to combat illicit activities.

In 1986 the Cayman Islands Government further established its position against the illegal use of its financial services by the passing of the Misuse of Drugs Law, which made money laundering an offence in the Cayman Islands. The Law provided the foundation for future efforts to safeguard against banks and other financial institutions in the Cayman Islands being used as intermediaries for the transfer and/or deposit of money derived from criminal activity.

Also, in 1986 the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty was negotiated and signed between the Cayman Islands, the United States and the United Kingdom, and came into effect in 1990. The Treaty states that the parties will provide mutual assistance for the investigation, prosecution and suppression of criminal offences. This Treaty demonstrates the willingness of the Cayman Islands to cooperate in the common effort against serious crimes of all sorts.

The Cayman Islands has supported the work of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) and has endorsed the 40 recommendations proposed for implementation by all participating countries. The first of these recommendations was to fully implement and ratify the 1988 Vienna Convention against illicit traffic in narcotic drugs and psychotropic substances. In 1993, the Government of the Cayman Islands legislated extensive amendments to the Misuse of Drugs Law, to allow for the adoption of some areas of the Convention. The Cayman Islands has invited the United Kingdom to endorse the Convention on its behalf. In fact, most of the 40 recommendations made by the FATF were already in place in the Cayman Islands. In 1994, a self evaluation phase was completed for the Cayman Islands as prescribed by these recommendations and the next phase, a peer evaluation, is to be undertaken in 1995. The Cayman Islands will therefore be the first country in this region to open its financial regulatory system to outside scrutiny in accordance with the provisions set out in the FATF's recommendations.

As early as 1992, the advances made by the Cayman Islands to rid the region of drug trafficking and money laundering were recognized at a meeting of the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force held in Jamaica. The Islands were nominated to be the United Kingdom's Caribbean Dependent Territories representative on the steering Committee being set up to direct a Caribbean Secretariat based in Trinidad and Tobago. Justice Anthony Smellie, Q.C., was selected as the representative of the Cayman Islands and the other Dependent Territories to serve on this committee.

These initiatives are in addition to the traditional vigilance of the Islands' financial system: the Banking industry voluntarily accepted and published a Code of Conduct, which provides guidelines to reduce our vulnerability to money laundering.

Madam Speaker, bearing in mind all I have said thus far, it is clear that the occasional attacks on, and insinuations about our financial industry are totally unsubstantiated and very much un-enlightened. I am confident that through the Grace of God, these Islands will not only overcome these occasional and unwarranted criticisms, but triumph in our continued efforts to remain a leading International Financial Centre of the highest repute.

These challenges that we have faced may have come at an opportune time, in that they have forced us to look more closely at the path that needs to be taken to prepare the Cayman Islands for continued success, well into the 21st Century. The road ahead will undoubtedly be lined with many more hurdles, but these obstacles, both present and future, can be overcome through cooperation at the national level irrespective of individual, political, social or religious persuasion.

Furthermore, while it is agreed that national cooperation is an essential element in the formula for successfully negotiating this path, there are other elements which must be considered. Preserving and enhancing our image as a reputable International Financial Centre; further diversification of our economic base; and continued prudent fiscal management are all crucial to sustaining development in the long run.

Madam Speaker, at this juncture, I shall briefly review the current and future outlook of the world economy and subsequently, the impact it may have on our local economy. This will be followed by a preliminary review of local economic performance for 1994 and an economic outlook for the year ahead. I shall then address Government's Revenue and Expenditure performance for 1994. And finally, I shall present the Draft Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for 1995.

The World Economy:- World output is projected to expand by 3% in 1994, and by 3.75% in 1995, as the global economy continues its gradual recovery. The expansions that are now clearly underway in North America and the United Kingdom contrast with continued sluggishness in Continental Europe and Japan. Growth in the developing countries is expected to remain robust on average, although disparities remain large and the short term outlook for the poorest countries remain virtually the same.

Our local economy is strongly influenced and arguably driven by international occurrences. There has been a dramatic resurgence of regionalism on the international scene, largely resulting from the failures of the General Agreement on Trades and Tariffs (GATT). GATT advocates a "New World Order" by significantly increasing market access via tariff reduction, the dismantling of non tariff barriers and the removal of some subsidies. Negotiations over the GATT have been progressing, but at a snail's pace. In the absence of a concrete agreement, many countries have turned to regionalism to improve trade relations and ultimately increase their prominence in international trade.

The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) represents a commitment between the United States, Mexico and Canada to pursue a programmed reduction of trade barriers over a twenty year period. These three economies, now linked economically, represent 30% of the world's Gross Domestic Product. With no trade restrictions in place, the added 86 million people of Mexico are envisaged to generate vast opportunities for these three countries to expand trade. Chile is poised to join NAFTA, adding a further 14 million people to this global trading force.

Emanating from a history of attempts at unification, 12 European countries signed the Single European Act (SEA) with the aim of creating an internal market without barriers. The convergence of these European countries as well as those countries under NAFTA has ramifications for Caribbean countries which rely heavily on exporting to these territories and which previously enjoyed preferential access to their markets.

In response to the thrust towards unification, 25 Latin American and Caribbean countries formed an Association of Caribbean States in July 1994. This represents the world's fourth largest economic block. The Cayman Islands like the other British Dependent Territories were offered associate membership, subject to their individual terms and conditions. Four of the British Dependent Territories have already opted to accept such membership. The Cayman Islands will need to assess, with great care and caution, the advantages that might emerge from such membership. It should be noted that Bermuda has not yet made its intentions known on this offer.

International finance has also benefited from the formation of such groupings. Global trade liberalization, catalysed by the increase in open market economies with freedom of currency movement, the resurgence of regionalism, the globalization of production and the resulting increase in cross-border transactions have fundamentally restructured the focus of international finance. This new focus has generated increased demand for sophisticated financial services. As a result, offshore financial centres worldwide are booming despite the ever increasing number of jurisdictions entering the arena.

In light of the changing focus of international finance and heightened levels of competition, the Cayman Islands must now carefully consider its position, insuring that its offerings are aligned with the demands of the international community, while simultaneously being sensitive to the preservation of its well-earned reputation.

Domestic Economic Events:- In 1994, the local economy remained robust with leading sectors showing visible signs of further expansion. The Financial, Tourism and Real Estate sectors all surpassed growth forecasts thereby increasing the level of overall economic activity in the Cayman Islands.

Financial and Business Services:- It is well recognized that the industries in this sector contribute much more than the fees received by Government. They have played vital roles in generating employment, training of the indigenous population and many additional spin-offs. During the period March 1993 to March 1994, employment in the financial and business services sector grew by approximately 9%, from 2,875 to 3,030, with the proportion of Caymanians employed growing from 63% to 73% over the same period.

It can be concluded from the preceding statements that the Financial Sector continues to grow at an impressive rate. This growth is supported by innovative amendments and introduction of legislation to ensure a modern and responsive regulatory framework. The Mutual Funds Law, 1993, has added yet another facet to the large array of financial services offered by the Cayman Islands. In just over one year, 615 funds have been registered and 100 more are currently being processed. The recent amendment to the Companies Law, the Property Miscellaneous Law, and the amendment to the Partnership Law ensure that the legislative regime is current and meets the demands of the local financial community.

Although the number of Mutual Funds has surpassed the number of licensed Banks, steady growth in numbers and assets held by these banks is also evident. As of August 31st, 1994, the value of deposits held by Banks registered in the Cayman Islands totalled US$415 billion. The number of Banks licensed at the end of September 1994 totalled 561, with 31 new registrations, as compared to 22 in 1993. This places the Cayman Islands fifth in the world in overall terms behind London, New York, Hong Kong, and Paris.

The total number of captive insurance companies registered in the Islands amounted to 380 as of September 30, 1994. Of this total, 40 were registered so far this year compared to 28 for the same period of 1993.

Total new registrations for Companies and Trusts for the first nine months of 1994, indicate that we should surpass previous records for new registrations. A record number of 4,269 Companies and Trusts were registered in this time. This represents a 30% increase over the same period in 1993.

It is therefore evident that Government's bold decision to reduce company registration fees has yielded a greater than anticipated response. The 25% growth in company registration used as a prerequisite in the Report on the Review of the Cayman Islands Company Fee Structure was eclipsed. In fact, company registration has almost doubled since April of this year when the new fee structure was introduced. Company formation in the Cayman Islands is now internationally advertised at a cost of US$975.00, compared to the previous figure of US$2,200. This reduction in fees has positioned the Cayman Islands as a premium, but affordable, jurisdiction of choice. I am confident that this move was a necessary one and will continue to yield great dividends.

The Shipping Register continued to grow, albeit at a slower rate than in the previous year. This has been partially due to the increased vigilance and selectiveness of the now, Cayman Islands Shipping Registry. During the first half of the year, 77 new ships were registered compared to 81 for the same period of 1993. While this is a small decrease in new registration activity, overall the Shipping Registry has been sustaining steady growth. At year end 1993 the Shipping Registry had grown overall by 24% over 1992, and experienced a 17.5% increase from June 1993 to June 1994. The total number of ships registered as of the 30th of June was 771.

The level of success attained by the Cayman Islands has enticed not only regional countries but also European countries to enact legislation to facilitate the offering of competitive financial services. We are frequently seeing legislation which dramatically resembles that of the Cayman Islands. As the number of competitive centres increases, Government must be committed to providing the resources and guidance necessary to maintain the industry's vanguard position.

In order to converge all efforts at promoting the Cayman Islands as a premier international financial centre and to crystallize our "blue chip" status in the minds of the international community, a Coordinator of Marketing and Promotions has been appointed to the Portfolio of Finance and Development. This officer reports directly to the Financial Secretary and acts as a liaison between the private sector and the Portfolio.

One of the first duties undertaken by this officer was to arrange for, in consultation with the Government Private Sector Consultative Committee, the commissioning of a local company to develop a high quality, informative and attractive publication, with a view to providing a cohesive message to the international financial world on the services of our financial sector. This publication will be available at the beginning of December 1994, and will be distributed to an anticipated 20,000 financial practitioners worldwide.

At the core of the promotional activities being planned for 1995 are three one-day conferences on the financial industry of the Cayman Islands. These conferences are scheduled for February 13th, 16th and 21st, in New York, London and Hong Kong respectively. They will showcase the range of services offered by the Cayman Islands; enlighten the international community about the structure of our government and the sophistication of our regulatory regimes; demonstrate our professionalism at both Government and Private Sector levels; whilst correcting instances of misinformation concerning the Cayman Islands' Financial Industry that may exist within the international financial community.

Tourism:- Overall, visitor arrivals to the Cayman Islands, up to September of 1994, grew by 4% over the same period in 1993. However, growth in the number of stayover visitors outstripped cruise ship passenger growth significantly in the second and third quarters of this year.

The performance of air arrivals or stayover visitors was exceptional throughout the year, representing a continuation of the robust growth recorded in 1993. Double digit growth was recorded in every quarter of this year with the average around 21% over the same nine month period in 1993. This is a very promising sign for the industry as a whole, based on the fact that stayover visitors generate more economic activity than cruise ship visitors. Estimates derived from the most recent visitor expenditure data available, reveals that stayover visitors' spending grew by 28%, representing $136.2 million in the first half of this year.

Cruise ship passenger arrivals registered an overall decline of 3% during the first nine months of 1994. The latest available estimates reveal that cruise ship passengers spent approximately $11.5 million in 1994.

It is no surprise that the tourism sector continued to show positive signs of growth at a time when the United States' economy was quite robust. There was nearly 4% growth in real Gross Domestic Product during the first half of this year with more moderate growth expected through 1995. Furthermore, consumer disposable income was up 4%, vacation travel expectations were up 16% and international air traffic had increased by 4.6%, all indicators of increased economic activity originating from the United States market.

It is also important to note the high growth rates experienced in the Canadian and United Kingdom segments of the market. The United Kingdom market picked up in the second and third quarters with the number of arrivals from that country almost doubling. The Canadian market also performed well throughout the first nine months of 1994, increasing by over 50% compared to the same period in 1993. Also, the European market for potential tourist arrivals is expected to fuel further growth in the tourism sector given the increased availability of flights from the United Kingdom. In an effort to diversify the industry, the Department of Tourism has allocated additional resources to promote the local tourist product in the European and Asian markets.

The Department of Tourism has developed profiles of its target markets by employing a technique known as "niche marketing". With the aid of a new promotions agent, the Department has pursued a more active marketing campaign aimed at potential tourists in these derived "niche markets". If the performance during the first three-quarters of the year is any indication of the success of their efforts, then the outlook for 1995 should be very promising. Investor confidence in the tourism market is also up as evidenced by the recent unveiling of several proposals for large scale hotel projects.

To reiterate, the forecast for 1995 in this sector is an optimistic one. As long as economic growth prospects for the United States remain promising we should expect continued growth. The forecast growth in stayover arrivals is between 10% and 15% for 1995, while growth in cruise ship passenger arrivals is expected to average around 5%.

Agriculture:- The Department of Agriculture has continued its thrust towards increasing agricultural productivity in these Islands as a means of further diversifying the local economic base. Several initiatives were implemented during 1994, including training programmes for farmers, the importation of high quality beef cattle for breeding and rearing and the ongoing service of advice and assistance.

Gross sales for 1994 at the Farmers Market are expected to increase to $0.9 million, or by 20% over 1993. This follows similar growth patterns in the previous three years. The Farmers Market continues to develop ways of diversifying its products as a means of sustaining growth.

Agricultural infrastructure was enhanced by the completion of the Agricultural Pavilion in Lower Valley, which was officially opened in July of this year. Plans are now in place for the construction of an abattoir in Lower Valley.

Real Estate:- In January of this year, Stamp Duty on the transfer of property was leveled at 7.5%. Prior to this, Stamp Duty was charged at a rate of 7.5% for property transfers below $250,000 and 10% for transactions above this value. A review of the data on Stamp Duty revealed that $10.1 million had been collected up to September of this year. This corresponds to a 19% increase over the same period in 1993, which is a positive sign of growth in the real estate market.

In fact, many professionals and investors in the industry believe that infrastructural and institutional development, political stability, and unrivalled professional expertise in the financial and tourism sectors are factors which will continue to fuel growth in the real estate market. Increased recreational activities available locally may also have played a role in encouraging condominium sales.

However, the uncertainty surrounding interest rates and the high cost of insurance may stifle some of this potential expansion. In an attempt to address the harsh financial burden brought about by the increase in property insurance over the past two years, Government has commissioned a review which includes a study aimed at assessing Cayman's risk position vis a vis that of the rest of the region. This hopefully should assist in determining whether local insurance companies can attract lower reinsurance rates and in turn be in a position to offer lower rates to policyholders.

A buoyant real estate market is a strong indication of growing investor confidence in the current and future state of the economy. Given the recent investor interest in major capital projects in the tourism, commercial and industrial sectors, many believe there may be another "boom" in the real estate market in the near future.

Construction:- In the absence of data on housing starts, the number and value of approved new construction has been used as a proxy for economic activity in the construction sector. The data for the first nine months of this year, compared to that of 1993, shows significant improvements in this sector.

In the first nine months of this year approximately $115 million of planned new construction on Grand Cayman was approved, compared to $78 million for the same period in 1993. The "hotel" category had one application estimated at $35 million dollars, compared to none during 1993. The value of approved residential construction increased by approximately $8 million or 28% when compared to the first nine months of 1993. Also, commercial activity rose by 334 percent, representing an increase of $13 million during the same period.

On the Sister Islands, 1994 proved to be a slower year when compared with 1993. During the first nine months of the year the estimated value of approved projects was 26% less than the same period in 1993.

Banking:- Loans and advances made locally amounted to $734 million by the end of the second quarter of 1994, compared to $711 million for the same period of 1993, representing a 3% increase. Most of the lending activity surrounded commercial wholesale business while real estate, utilities and personal loans increased modestly. Although lending activity for agriculture, hotels, retail trade and construction showed declines, these were insignificant. Overall the growth in lending activity indicates continued investor confidence essential for future economic growth.

The total level of deposits or savings was up 7% in the first half of this year compared to the same period in 1993. Higher interest rates in 1994 may have been responsible for this increase in savings, especially since good returns on savings were elusive for most of 1993.

Labour Market:- The number of registered job seekers in the Cayman Islands declined in the first half of 1994, compared to the same period of 1993, from 335 to 208. This decline in unemployment supports the previously detailed indicators of economic growth during 1994.

Prices:- In the first three quarters of 1994, inflation averaged 3.1% compared to 2.2% for the same period last year. This increase in the rate of change of prices is predominately due to imported inflation from the United States, our major trading partner. The growth in the local economy may also have created some "demand-pull" inflation. However, the United States' commitment to control inflationary pressure through tight monetary policy is expected to keep the movement in local prices down. The year-end forecast for inflation is that it is not expected to exceed 4%.

Economic Outlook:- Overall, economic growth prospects for 1995 appear promising. Not only does the United States' growth prospects favour the Cayman Islands, but the leading sectors of our economy appear to be robust. If the economy does as well as projected the only cause for concern may be inflationary pressures fueled by increased economic activity. Economic growth for 1994 is expected to be between 4% and 5% and this is expected to move upward to approximately 6% by year end 1995.

Socio-economic Issues:- Several initiatives of a socio-economic nature were undertaken during the year. Earlier in this address I alluded to the path that would have to be taken to prepare the Cayman Islands for the challenges of the 21st century. However, Madam Speaker, so far I have dealt with purely economic developments and I feel it would be remiss of me not to mention some of the key social issues facing this country which have very obvious economic implications for future development. Developing innovative policies to address these socio-economic issues is paramount to placing ourselves in an advantageous position to successfully overcome these challenges.

In March of this year, what was previously the Portfolio of Health and Human Services was divided into two separate Ministries; the Ministry for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation, and the Ministry of Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

It is very important that we recognize that the physical and emotional well being of the people of a country are of primary importance to its development process. With this in mind, the Ministry of Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation has identified a number of areas in which cooperative community involvement is essential in moving towards a healthier population. Some of the areas considered include a comprehensive educational programme aimed at prevention of drug and alcohol abuse and the development of supporting legislation. Also, in recognition of the need for an improved level of health care the Ministry has produced, with staff input, a Master Facilities Plan for the new and modern George Town Hospital with phased implementation to begin in 1995.

Similarly, the Ministry of Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture is spearheading the Government's thrust to enhance the social development and quality of life within this community. To this end, it has either initiated or further enhanced a number of programmes and policies; including the new housing scheme for low to middle income earners; new youth programmes such as the After School Programmes and National Children's Choir; new legislation on children and labour, and young persons; the manpower development initiative; a new student loan scheme; and studies on the status of the family, and crime.

By providing additional recreational facilities, through this Ministry, Government is ensuring that the youth of this country have productive activities with which to occupy their leisure time, an essential foundation on which good character is built. The cumulative impact of these initiatives should be far-reaching.

Addressing the current and future educational needs of the population is another socio-economic issue which impacts on overall development. In this regard, Government has upgraded a number of schools and has committed itself to further programmes of this nature during the coming year. The contribution from the private sector in this field should not be overlooked, and we trust that they will continue to assist in this important area of development. As an indicator of this, if Government had to school the 1,507 students enrolled in our private schools it would cost CI$7.2 million per annum.

Madam Speaker, it is known that human capital investment produces significant returns in the long term. Although the dividends will not be immediately visible, this should not deter us from providing the necessary funding to ensure that the people of this country are properly prepared in all areas of their physical and mental development.

Government Sector:- Overall Financial Performance; continuing the trend set in 1993, Government's financial position continued to show improvements during 1994. The Government's policy of maintaining prudent fiscal management has resulted in an overall reduction in the growth rate of expenditure while encouraging local revenue growth. Notwithstanding having to incur significant unforeseen expenditure on the maintenance of the Cuban migrants, it is likely that another budgetary surplus will be realized in 1994. While it is evident that Government's financial performance has been encouraging thus far, continued vigilant stewardship in the management of public finances through tight fiscal policy measures must be retained as a primary mechanism for ensuring the continued prosperity of these Islands for generations to come.

1994 Revised Estimates:- The Revised Estimates for 1994 indicate a total expenditure of $156.9 million, which falls below the approved amount of $157.2 million by $0.3 million.

Total revised recurrent revenue is $152.0 million which exceeds the approved budgeted amount of $149.0 million by $3.0 million or 2.0%. The 1994 Budget provides for loans of $9.1 million, however, it is anticipated that only $5.8 million of this sum will be required during 1994, with the balance of $3.3 million being drawn down during 1995 to finance the completion of 1994 capital projects.

Honourable Members will also recall that the 1993 accounts presented in the Legislative Assembly earlier this year, set out a $2.4 million accumulated surplus brought forward from 1993. This amount exceeded the $0.5 million deficit anticipated at the time of preparing the 1994 Budget. Revised 1994 receipts therefore total $160.2 million being the composite of: $152.0 million recurrent revenue; $5.8 million loan proceeds; and $2.4 million accumulated surplus brought forward from 1993.

Taking into account the 1994 revised receipts of $160.2 million, the $0.4 million transfer from the surplus and deficit account to General Reserves approved by Finance Committee earlier this year, and the 1994 revised expenditure of $156.9 million, the accumulated surplus at year end 1994 is expected to total $2.9 million.

General Reserves:- The balance on General Reserves at the beginning of 1994 was $3.6 million. This was increased by the transfer of $0.4 million from the Surplus and Deficit Account during the course of this year. The balance at the end of 1994 will therefore be $4.0 million, exclusive of interest. In view of continuing improvements in 1994, it is expected that there will be no need to draw on reserves. If, at the end of 1994, it is found that the realized surplus exceeds the projected amount of $2.9 million, based on the revised figures, it is likely that a further recommendation could be made to transfer some portion of this sum into General Reserves during 1995.

Public Debt:- At the end of 1993, total outstanding public debt, excluding contingent liabilities, stood at $54.1 million. Loan proceeds of $5.8 million from a commercial loan used to finance various capital projects will be drawn down by year end and represents the only source of loan income for this year. No other loans were negotiated with multilateral institutions. Total repayments for the year have been forecasted at $5.3 million which should bring total outstanding public debt to $54.6 million by year end. Government will not be undertaking any new borrowings in 1995.

Public Service Pension Fund:- The Pension Fund balance as at August 31st, 1994, amounted to $11.5 million (inclusive of accrued interest). Contributions and investment income accumulated in 1994, amounted to $2.2 million. The actuarial assessment which commenced in 1993, was completed in July 1994, and a report setting out the findings of the Actuaries will be laid on the Table of the Legislative Assembly during this Meeting. Contributions to the Pension Fund in 1995 will be increased from 4% to 6% by the Government, and from 4% to 5% by Civil Servants, thus increasing the overall level of contributions into the Fund from 8% to 11% of pensionable salaries.

1995 Draft Estimates:- Madam Speaker, the Draft Budget is $177,976,714 up 13.2% over the 1994 Approved Budget. It proposes no new borrowings, but does provide for the final drawdowns on two loans: $1.0 million on a loan approved in 1990 for hospital improvements, and $2,313,104 on the 1994 Capital Works Loan which will be used to fund those 1994 capital projects which continue into, and are to be completed during, 1995.

The 1995 Budget provides for revenue enhancement measures in two specific areas that are expected to provide additional revenues of approximately $4.6 million. These areas will be discussed further at the time of moving the respective Bills. The 1995 receipts are therefore expected to total $178,148,922, being the composite of: $167,353,880 recurrent revenue; $2,881,938 accumulated surplus brought forward from 1994; $4.6 million in revenue enhancement measures; and $3,313,104 in loan proceeds.

Total recurrent expenditure is $138,722,161, up 11.7% over the 1994 Approved Budget. Total statutory expenditure is $15,266,879, up 20% over the 1994 amount, mainly as a result of the commencement of repayments on the 1994 Capital Works Loan and Government's contribution to the Public Service Pension Fund, as discussed earlier.

Total capital expenditure is $23,291,109, up 15% over the 1994 Approved Budget. This amount has been broken down into capital acquisitions of $4,009,240, up 22.3% over the 1994 Approved Budget, and capital development of $19,281,869, up 13.6% over the 1994 Approved Budget.

The major capital projects planned for completion during 1995 include: Phase III of the West Bay Primary; Phase III of the Red Bay Primary; the George Town Sports Complex Upgrade; Phase I (Building I) of the Community College of the Cayman Islands; and the Bodden Town Health Care Centre.

The major capital projects scheduled for commencement in 1995 include: Phase II of the George Hicks High School; Phase I of the George Town Hospital Improvements; the West Bay Health Care Centre; the North Side Civic Centre and Hurricane Shelter; the Northward Prison Visitors Centre and Administration Block; Phase I of the Pedro St James Castle Restoration and Development; Phase II of the Queen Elizabeth II Botanical Park; Phase I of the Harquail Bypass Road; various District roads; and upgrading or new construction of the Courts Office, Customs Office, Agricultural Office and Department of Environment Office.

Total expenditure on new services is estimated at $696,565. When taking these figures into consideration, the expected accumulated surplus at year end 1995 is $172,208.

Madam Speaker, prior to concluding may I express my sincere appreciation to the Civil Service for its unstinted support and cooperation in completing this task. Specifically, I would like to thank my Deputy, Mr. Joel Walton; the Coordinator of Promotions and Advertising, Mr. Lyndon Martin; the Director of Economics and Statistics, Mr. Bryan Boxill; Miss Catherine Delapenha; Miss Sian Miller, my Personal Secretary; all the staff of the department of Finance and Development and all the other departments that have cooperated so well; and, finally, the Ministers and Members of Executive Council who have spent several mornings from 7 o'clock going through until the afternoon (and this had gone on for several weeks) in order to bring about this Budget that is being presented here today.

In conclusion, Madam Speaker, I recommend the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994, proposing an estimated sum for recurrent, capital and new services of $162,709,835. Not included in this sum are the statutory provisions for loan repayments, pensions and gratuities totalling $15,266,879. The total expenditure for 1995 is therefore estimated at $177,976,714.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

MOTION TO DEFER SECOND READING DEBATE

ON THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the deferral of the debate on the Budget Address, until Wednesday of next week.

The Speaker: The question before the House is, as moved by the Honourable Third Official Member, that the debate on the Second Reading of the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994, be deferred until Wednesday, November 9th, 1994. If there is no debate I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

The debate has accordingly been deferred until Wednesday, November 9th, 1994.

AGREED. THE DEBATE BE DEFERRED ACCORDINGLY UNTIL WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 9TH, 1994.

The Speaker: I will now ask for a motion for the adjournment of the House by the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning - Leader of Government Business.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I have pleasure in moving the adjournment of this honourable House until 10 o'clock, Wednesday, November 9th, 1994.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until, Wednesday, the 9th of November, 1994.

I think Members have agreed that at this time there should be certain expressions of appreciation to the last Honourable First Official Member, Mr. Lemuel Hurlston.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

EXPRESSIONS OF APPRECIATION
(Mr. J. Lemuel Hurlston, CVO, MBE, JP)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, it is appropriate that we take time today to say a few words in regard to the previous Chief Secretary, Mr. J. Lemuel Hurlston, CVO, MBE, and Justice of the Peace of these Islands, who served this country for over 26 years in many capacities - starting as a clerk in the Civil Service and moving up the ladder to become the Chief Secretary - head of a 2000 membership Civil Service.

I believe that his tenure of service should serve as a good model to all civil servants, and young Caymanians generally, as to what diligence, good work ethics, the will to stick with an organisation through thick and thin mean, and the heights that can be reached by any Caymanian who puts forth such an effort.

In 1986, Mr. Hurlston became the Third Official Member of this Legislature, and it was in this capacity that I had a closer working relationship with him. I can personally say that while we did not agree on every issue (and sometimes I made him understand that in this Legislature), if I had a matter in connection with a constituent which impacted on his responsibilities, I was received by him with understanding. As a good civil servant he stuck to the Government's policies. If he could help otherwise, he made an effort to do so.

Since November 1992, my colleagues and I have had the privilege of serving with him on the Executive Council. We experienced a good working relationship as we accomplished many initiatives for the betterment of these Islands. On behalf of my colleagues and I, we wish him well in any new endeavours he might undertake.

Madam Speaker, he is also a member of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association. As Chairman of the Executive Committee, and Vice President of the Association, it is expected that we will host a farewell function in his honour.

I can only say to him what was a favourite of the late-President, John F. Kennedy, and also a favourite of mine, written by the poet Robert Frost: "The woods are lovely, dark and deep. But I have promises to keep, And miles to go before I sleep, And miles to go before I sleep."

May Almighty God guide and protect him and his good wife and their children in the future.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The opportunity is also given to any other Member who might wish to speak.

The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I deem it a privilege and a pleasure to have the opportunity to say a few words on the retirement of the Honourable Lemuel Hurlston.

I have had the privilege of knowing Mr. Hurlston from the time he was very young, working with him throughout his career in the Civil Service. His father and I were both seamen, we have known each other for many years.

After the 1988 Elections, Mr. Hurlston became the member responsible for District Administration which consisted of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, the district for which I have been elected one of the representatives. I want to go on record as expressing the deep appreciation of the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman for the way in which he performed the tasks of representing the district in the Executive Council, also the two-fold purpose it has served for the people of Cayman Brac (having an Official Member of Executive Council visit the Brac and Little Cayman on regular occasions) it gave them an opportunity to be in contact with the official branch of Government as well as the elected branch.

So, to Mr. Hurlston, and his wife, on his retirement (although he is a very young man), I wish for him all the very best in the future. I look forward to seeing him around for many, many years and I wish God's richest blessings on anything that he may endeavour to do in the future.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, it is my privilege to make a few remarks on this occasion when we are paying tribute to Mr. Lemuel Hurlston, who has been the Chief Secretary for a number of years in these Islands, and indeed a civil servant that has served 26 years. Starting as a temporary clerk, he rose to the highest job in the land that a Caymanian is allowed to hold.

I have known Lem personally for many years. We worked together, we were civil servants together. I worked with him as a member of the Cayman Islands Civil Service Association, I worked with him as a member of the Cayman Islands Civil Service Co-operative Credit Union. He was a foundation member, he was its first treasurer and he served as its president on a number of occasions. To the best of my knowledge he presently serves as President of the Credit Union Association.

Madam Speaker, I have had the opportunity of working with him also as an elected representative of the people, and I can truthfully say that there has never been an occasion when I needed to see him on a matter in his official capacity that he did not afford me the opportunity within the shortest period of time. I do not know of an occasion when I called him on the telephone, and if he was not available, that he did not return my call. He paid me (in my capacity as an elected representative) every courtesy that I believe could be expected of anyone in his position.

When he became responsible for District Administration, that is, for the islands of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, I think he served in that role to a standard that anyone would wish to emulate.

He heard the complaints of the people when he visited there; he heard the complaints of the representatives, my colleague, Capt. Mabry Kirkconnell, and I. I can truly say that he did whatever he could within his ability when he was called upon to deal with a matter.

I always found it easy to deal with Lem because I always knew what to expect. I knew first of all, that I was going to be dealing with someone who would not get flustered or run me out of his office, and that he was going to listen to me. I also knew that I should not expect him to do anything which was not in accordance with what the books said about a particular matter; that kind of dependability, Madam Speaker, I found most outstanding.

I think he has been one of the most outstanding civil servants in this country and he is due every respect that can be shown him now, and in the future. I do not know what he may choose to do, but there is certainly no doubt in my mind that he will go on to do whatever he chooses to do in the near future. He is a young man and few people have risen to the very top in so short a period of time, which allows him the opportunity of going on to whatever career he may choose. He is certainly qualified in Management, Accounting and Audit, so I think many opportunities await him. He, in his quiet way, will make a decision and follow whatever he decides to do.

I have had the privilege also of knowing his wife and his children, and I wish for him, and for them, all that is best in the future, and certainly for Lem, the very best of success in whatever pursuits he may have in mind.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. G. Haig Bodden: Madam Speaker, I have known the Honourable Lemuel Hurlston for more than 20 years and I have found him to be a dedicated civil servant. Every year they play "Rundown" which pokes fun at the Members of the Legislature and they usually portray Lem as one who likes to refer everything to London. They were very close to the mark because, as the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman indicated, he is a civil servant who lives by the book. He is one who will not bend the rules.

When I was elected in 1976 to the Executive Council I found Lem to be one of the most 'neutral' of the civil servants, because some of them were very political. But Lem seemed to have a neutrality, born of years in the service where he did his job, knew his job, and hell, nor health' nor high tide could sway him from his principles.

As he departs from Government to go on to what will be a better life, I assume, I would like to say my best wishes go with him. I think my own life has been richer for having known him.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is a pleasure and a privilege to be afforded the opportunity to stand here and offer a few thoughts on the retirement of Mr. Lemuel Hurlston from the Cayman Islands Government Service.

I was familiar with Mr. Hurlston, and knew of him during my years as a civil servant. But it was only upon my being elected as a Member of this Legislature in 1988 that I came to know the man to whom we are paying tribute today.

A few months ago I had occasion to meet with him in the presence of another Member of this Legislature and at the conclusion of the meeting I remarked to him that I regarded him as the consummate civil servant - and I still do. Indeed, walking the streets of this country I am left with the impression that many people regard him as the quintessential civil servant: firm, resolute, honest and up-front.

Whenever I had occasion to call him on matters concerning my constituents or the wider public, he always afforded me the courtesies due to my office and position. Sometimes he accommodated me on the shortest of notice. I do not know if I was successful or diligent in remarking to him then, how much I appreciated that coming from someone whom I know was as busy as he was. If I did not do so, I would like it to be recorded in the Hansards of this House at this time.

There is one thing that his retirement from the Civil Service leaves us with as Caymanians (young and old), that is, the road to the top must certainly involve sacrifices, patience and hard work. I think that his 26 successful years as a civil servant should be a motivation to those young Caymanians who are entering the service as to the success and heights that their efforts can take them if they apply themselves.

I wish for Mr. Hurlston and his family God's blessings always, and in whatever undertakings he may choose I wish him success and health. I leave him with the assurance that he has left me - a positive impression. I will always have a respectful place in the inner recesses of my soul for a person like him.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I rise today to make a few remarks in tribute to Mr. Hurlston although I have not had the privilege of serving with him in this Legislature as other persons here have. Before doing so, however, I would like to respond briefly to your very warm welcome this morning.

I am deeply honoured to be a full member of this honourable House, having served on a number of occasions in the past as a temporary member. Madam Speaker, I will no doubt make my share of mistakes, but I am certain that I will have your guidance and your wealth of experience to draw from. In the early days I will do more listening than speaking, and I look forward to the assistance and cooperation of all Honourable Ministers and Members here.

Madam Speaker, I am very cognisant of the fact that I have stepped into a very large pair of shoes today, those of my predecessor, Mr. J. Lemuel Hurlston, CVO, MBE, JP.

Mr. Hurlston has not been a person who physically towered over others, but his wealth of experience, his foresight and his quiet determination have indeed made him a giant in this honourable House and in the Civil Service.

I have been privileged to serve as his Deputy for two-plus years and I am therefore deeply conscious of the hard act that I have to follow. I pray God's richest blessings on Mr. Hurlston and his family as he retires, and I wish him all that is good in his future endeavours.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I rise to pay tribute to the Honourable Lemuel Hurlston. I said a lot at his retirement party at the Clarion Hotel on Wednesday night, but I feel that given this opportunity again I should not allow it to pass.

I met Lem in 1968 when both of us initially joined the Civil Service. In 1969, I resigned and went out into the private sector to work and returned in 1974. Lem stuck through all those years with what obviously would have driven anyone out into the private sector, because the salaries in those days were not very attractive. I thought Lem was quite happy to remain and it was quite interesting on Wednesday night to learn from Mr. Johnson that he attempted to hand in his resignation but was talked out of it.

However, when I returned to the service in 1974, I joined Lem in the Audit Department and we worked together until he was promoted to the position of Deputy Financial Secretary.

Since that time we have maintained a very good working relationship. I am happy to see that the relationship has been such that he has taken time today to come out and listen to the Budget Address. I would like to wish him and his family God's richest blessings.

As I said on Wednesday night, we are living in a very small community and Lem and myself are living within walking distance of each other. I would like to feel that as long as we know each other, we will continue to foster the friendship that has developed from those early years.

At this time I would like to digress slightly, to mention thanks to Mr. Peter Gough, the Director of Budget and Management Services, who has spent many nights in the office getting this Budget document in order. He was there last night and I am not sure what time he left this morning; also, Mr. Gilbert McLaughlin, Mrs. Dalphine Terry and the other staff within the Budget and Management Unit.

Madam Speaker, finally, I will say to Lem, God bless and take care.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, I, too, wish to pay homage to the retiring Chief Secretary, the Honourable J. Lemuel Hurlston.

For the many years that I have known this gentleman, I have always found him to be a very warm person, very knowledgeable and very helpful in any matters which fell under the auspices of his Portfolio. I dare say today that he will be sorely missed by at least some of his colleagues in the Legislative Assembly and in the Civil Service.

Mr. Hurlston has served his country well and I am proud to have been associated with him in this Honourable Legislative Assembly, although it was really much too short a period of time. On a personal note, I shall really, truly miss his affable and warming personality, his guidance and his well-thought-through opinions and, most of all, the bright hallow of integrity which always cast a huge shadow over him to protect his otherwise seemingly frail structure.

I wish for him and his family every future success. I offer them my continued love and friendship and may God lavishly bless them in the years to come. Thank you.

The Speaker: If no other Member wishes to speak, I would also take the opportunity of saying a few words in respect of Mr. Lemuel Hurlston.

I think I have an advantage over everyone because I have known Lem from the time he was born - January 1951. It is not a period that I can forget because my youngest son was born the following May and they have been very close.

I wish to thank him for his extreme courtesy to the Chair, and not only to the Chair, because respect to the Chair also includes respect for the House. He has always been very respectful.

He has been involved in a number of Committees, and I think that a very important one to remember is his chairmanship of the Caymanian Protection Select Committee dealing with that business. A long time was spent on that piece of legislation and it is worthy of note.

As everyone has said, Mr. Hurlston has been a top-ranking civil servant and a Member of this House. During all this time he has held a high regard for protocol and played a leading role in many activities in the community, principally the visit of Princess Alexandra many years ago, and the visit of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II earlier this year. He was the guiding force in all the preparations. And, as many of you know, he was awarded the CVO by Her Majesty the Queen, personally, and that is a great distinction.

He has always had a quiet, calm and a dignified manner with respect for all, and he has always emulated a professional quality which is an example for all civil servants.

Mr. Hurlston is a Christian young man. I want to salute him. For in the midst of the difficulties in life in the Cayman Islands, he has a happy family and this augurs well for him in the future.

I would also like to reiterate that I wish the best for him and his family in the future, with God's richest blessings and relying on God always for his guidance.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker: I shall now put the question that this House do now adjourn until Wednesday, the 9th of November, 1994. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

The House is accordingly adjourned until 10 o'clock, Wednesday morning, the 9th of November, 1994.

AT 11.48 AM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM WEDNESDAY, 9 NOVEMBER, 1994.

WEDNESDAY
9 NOVEMBER, 1994
10:03 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture to say prayers

PRAYERS

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: An apology for absence has been received from the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town, the Deputy Speaker. I know that Members will keep him in mind.

Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

The Speaker: Question No. 164, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 164

No. 164: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development what is the current status of Government's attempts to alleviate the financial burden brought about by the increase in property insurance.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

STANDING ORDER 23(5)

DEFERMENT OF QUESTIONS NOS. 164, 165 AND 166

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, in accordance with Standing Order 23(5), I would like to ask the leave of this House to defer providing an answer to this question and also to questions number 165 and 166 that are also on the Order Paper to be asked by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, until next Wednesday.

The answers to the questions are presently being prepared.

The Speaker: The question is, that in accordance with the provision of Standing Order 23(5) the Honourable Member be allowed to defer the answering of these questions, numbers 164, 165 and 166 until next Wednesday.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The answering of these questions is accordingly deferred until next Wednesday.

AGREED. QUESTIONS NOS. 164, 165 AND 166 DEFERRED FOR ANSWER UNTIL WEDNESDAY, 16TH NOVEMBER, 1994.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 167, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 167

No. 167: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs whether any consideration is being given to providing the service of inspection and licensing of vehicles in districts other than George Town, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, no consideration is being given to this matter at the present time.

The extension of vehicle inspection and driver and vehicle licensing services to the district of West Bay was considered some years ago by Government, with the possibility of similar services in the other districts in Grand Cayman. However, the proposal was not followed up for three main reasons.

Firstly, the majority of persons residing in districts on Grand Cayman other than George Town travel into the capital each working day early in the morning and do not return to their districts until the end of the day. It was not felt, therefore, that the use of an extended service would be sufficient to justify the costs involved.

Secondly, the Vehicle and Driver Licensing Department is fully computerised and if services were extended to other districts, expensive computer equipment would need to be purchased and computer links installed.

Thirdly, additional clerical staff and vehicle inspectors would need to be recruited at considerable cost. The Vehicle and Driver Licensing Department has suffered from periodic staffing difficulties from its inception. The suggestion that private garages and motor dealers be authorised to carry out vehicle inspections was put forward, but it was considered impossible to achieve this without raising the current inspection fee of $10 to an unacceptable level. The difficulty in regulating the inspection of vehicles by private garages was also a matter for concern.

The proposals made more recently for the Department of Vehicle and Equipment Services (DVES) to take over the Vehicle and Driver Licensing Department functions was felt to have merit, particularly in the area of vehicle inspection. The recommendation was made both by the former Management Services Unit and also by the Senior Police Advisor, Mr. Lionel Grundy, in his 1994 Report following a review of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Member say, in light of the latter part of the question, then, if DVES is expected to take over this inspection and does the Member forecast, or have knowledge whether more time would be devoted to this particular aspect of vehicular inspection?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, I began by saying in the answer that no consideration is being given to this matter at the present time. I cannot expand on that because that is, in fact, the position at the moment.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would like to understand this matter, is it not being considered at this time for any changes other than what presently exists?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is my understanding that it is not being actively pursued at this time.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 168, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 168

No. 168: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning what system of inspection exists for dredging in the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, in the Cayman Islands dredging works are approved by the Executive Council, normally subject to various conditions which are set down in a Licence issued to the applicant.

In order to verify that the Licence conditions are being complied with, the Department of Environment staff monitor the dredging works at regular intervals.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could the Minister say, when Executive Council may have occasion to look at giving approval to a particular dredging undertaking, does the Council have the benefit of any technical information prior to making its decision, or is it done purely from an Executive point of view?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, in all the cases that I am aware of, the Executive Council acts on information and technical advice which come to it normally from the Department of Environment.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
I wonder if the Minister could explain the monitoring procedure?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, the monitoring procedure in Grand Cayman is that the Department conducts periodic site visits to excavation sites, frequented by air photography.

Recently licensed to conduct dredging works have included water quality standards for suspended sediments, and light penetration.

Marine Parks staff, in the course of their daily patrol are asked to report any apparent abnormalities and periodic checks are conducted to ensure that the standards for these parameters have not been exceeded.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister say if there are any ongoing dredging works now taking place in the Island which may require attention at this time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I understand the question and I have to answer off the top of my head because I did not come with that information this morning.

I do know that there is one dredging operation going on in the area of Morgan's Harbour, which is being monitored by the Department of the Environment.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 169, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 169

No. 169: Mr. Gilbert McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation how much money has been paid to date to the Hawley Estate for the property at Breakers for a Drug Rehabilitation Centre, including principal and interest.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
The amount of expenditure incurred to date on the property at Breakers for a Drug Rehabilitation Centre is CI$287,052.00. This is broken down as follows:

Deposit	$100,000.00
Stamp Duty charged for transfer	60,000.00

Stamp Duty on charge	5,000.00
Stamp Duty on collateral charge/sales agreement	40.00
Stamp Duty on promissory note	250.00
Instalment I Principal & interest	60,881.00
Instalment II Principal & Interest	60,881.00
TOTAL	CI$ 287,052.00

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could the Minister say if Government is taking any steps to ensure the protection or maintenance of this property, the buildings at least, ensuring that this investment (what has been paid so far and what is intended to be paid) will be safeguarded?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
I recently spoke with the Engineer at Public Works and asked him to look into this and do the necessary maintenance to bring it back up to standard and to control any further deterioration of the area.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 170, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 170

No. 170: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture what applications have been approved by Executive Council from lending institutions or companies interested in providing mortgage financing for Government's Low-Income Housing Scheme since Finance Committee recently approved the amendment allowing this to be done.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Up until the October meeting of Finance Committee, approval in principle had been given to Government to enter into agreements with four (4) Banks as part of the "guaranteed home mortgage scheme" for the Cayman Islands. These Banks are: Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Trust (CIBC), Bank of Butterfield, British American Bank, and First Cayman Bank.

On the 16th of August, an agreement was executed between Government and CIBC Bank and Trust. Government hopes to execute the remaining agreements in the near future.

To remove any doubt as to Government's openness on this matter, in October the Finance Committee was requested to and approved a variation to this authorisation making it clear that Government would be prepared to enter into agreement with any suitable institution which was prepared to accept appropriate terms. This, clearly, is not a situation of approval of applications, but one in which negotiation has to take place. No further agreements have yet been reached, although interest has been shown by a few institutions.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Minister could say if any other institutions, over and above the four that he mentioned in the first part of his answer, has shown interest in the scheme?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I just said that no further agreements have been reached, although interest has been shown by a few institutions.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, I was simply asking for that to be clarified; whether the few institutions mentioned in the answer were inclusive of the other three, or whether it was separate and apart from those three.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, that could not be as the answer says that I have discussed with the four banks and I named those four banks. I further said that interest has been shown by a few institutions, which means other institutions.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 171, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 171

No. 171: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture to state: (a) how many applications have been received to date under the Government Low-Income Housing Scheme; (b) how many have been approved; and (c) what percentage of guarantee has been required in each case.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 171 STANDING ORDER 23(5)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, under Standing Order 23(5), I ask the House to defer this question to a later date in this meeting.

The Speaker: The question is that the answer to question number 171, be deferred to a later sitting during this meeting. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The answering to question number 171 is accordingly deferred.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 171 DEFERRED TO A LATER SITTING.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 172, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 172

No. 172: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture to state: (a) under what circumstances can Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce call in any Government guarantee given under the Low Income Housing Scheme; and (b) what amount can be called in, the arrears or the total amount of the guarantee.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the answer: (a) The agreement between Government and CIBC Bank and Trust of 16th August, 1994, allows the Bank to demand payment from the guarantor under the guarantee only after the Bank has used its best endeavours to sell the property and not in any case before six months have elapsed subsequent to the first notice of demand to the borrower.

It should be noted that a client is deemed to be in default when he or she is three (3) months in arrears and it is therefore, at this point, that the first notice of demand would be issued. Therefore, a total of nine (9) months is allowed. This is viewed as being fair and equitable to all parties provided for in this agreement and a prudent buffer for Government.

In addition, the agreement obligates the Bank to adhere to the procedures set out in sections 64 and 72 of the Registered Land Law (Revised), which can be varied by the charge. In this case the variation to the charge would reflect the nine (9) months' grace period as outlined above in the event of a default in payment by the borrower.

(b) The agreement with CIBC requires Government to provide a guarantee to the Bank for up to 35 per cent of the upper layer of the principal of any loan made available under the scheme to an approved borrower, plus any accrued and unpaid interest due on that portion of the principal sum guaranteed which is outstanding from time to time.

Honourable Members are aware that Government's guarantee liability on each mortgage will be reduced on a continuous basis through a factor of the monthly payment on a priority basis, that is, Government's guarantee liability will be amortised first and as time elapses thereafter the Bank's liability will also be reduced.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Based on the answer, I wonder if the Minister is in a position to give a brief overview as to the way in which the mortgage is installed, meaning is interest pre-calculated for these mortgages or is it simply based at the usual 13% above prime on the receding balance?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, that is information I do not have at hand.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries, that concludes Question Time for today.

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

COMMENCEMENT OF THE DEBATE ON THE BUDGET ADDRESS DELIVERED BY THE HONOURABLE THIRD OFFICIAL MEMBER

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, as in the Motion made on Friday, 4th of November, 1994, for the commencement of the debate of the Budget Address to be deferred until today's date, 9th of November 1994, I now move that the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question is that the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading. The Motion is open for debate.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Let me be the first to congratulate the Financial Secretary and this Government on the comprehensive and inspiring Budget Address delivered by the Financial Secretary on Friday, 4th of November, 1994.

This Budget shows that despite the opposition's many attempts to portray this Government as not accomplishing anything, this Government continues to do a good job in turning around the financial position of Government and in cranking up the economy.

Despite the many attempts by the opposition in and out of the House to give credit for our present success to the former Government, this country is beginning to once again do very well in all sectors of the economy.

Tourist arrivals by air are at an all time high. The Strategic Planning Exercises in Education and Health are well under way. Our sports and other social service programmes have been well formulated and are now being put in place; financial credibility and confidence in Government has been restored; and investor confidence is at an all time high resulting in a number of large projects in the pipeline, or under construction.

It is my feeling, and it is shared by many in the community, that we stand on the verge of one of the largest construction booms in our country's history.

There have also been major accomplishments in the area of agriculture with the recent completion of the Agricultural Pavilion, and works are moving forward with road construction and repairs and other essential services for the community. But there is still much to be accomplished, and we are working to deal with all aspects of our society where there are problems.

There are two areas in particular that are of personal concern and interest to me, that is, the transportation industry and the watersports industry. These are areas that affect a large number of Caymanians and more care and attention has to be taken to ensure that Caymanians continue to earn a decent living in these areas. This Government is now attempting to make positive changes in this area, and I am confident that the problems will be addressed.

Let me now attempt to outline the positive changes that this Government has brought about. In order to appreciate the extent of the accomplishments of the present Government, with only two years in office, we have first of all to compare their record to the record of the 1988 to 1992 Government, which was led by Mr. Ezzard Miller.

When our Government took office on November 18, 1992, this country was on the verge of financial disaster. Government's credibility was at an all time low; the economy was at a standstill brought about by high taxation and mismanagement by the past Government. It was a real challenge the present Government faced in order to turn the situation around.

I would first like to look at the first four years of failure, I would term it, of the 1988 to 1992 Government, and then compare that with the two years of success that this present Government has enjoyed since taking office in November 1992.

In 1988, Recurrent Revenue amounted to approximately $85 million. The Government of the day took out $6.8 million in loans. Recurrent Expenditure was $71.5 million; Capital Works of $13.6 million, for a surplus of that year of $6.7 million.

In 1989, Recurrent Revenue was $95.9 million, which was a 12.8% increase over the 1988 Budget; loans amounted to $4.6 million; Recurrent Expenditure amounted to $81.1 million, which was a 13.4% increase over Recurrent Expenditure for 1988.

At that stage we saw a trend being developed where estimated budgetary revenue was being out-paced by estimated recurrent expenditure—which is not a very healthy trend.

In 1990, Recurrent Revenue amounted to $101.8 million. That year they had borrowings of $900,000; Recurrent Expenditure of $103 million, which represented a 27% increase over the estimated recurrent expenditure for 1989.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I have been listening very carefully to what you have said, but I am forced to draw your attention to Standing Order 63(2), which says: "On the motion for the second reading of an appropriation bill debate shall be confined to the financial and economic state of the Islands and the general principles of Government policy and administration as indicated by the bill and the estimates."

I am afraid that I have not seen anywhere in the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994, or the Draft Estimates for 1995, any reference to the finances of the period 1988 to 1992.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Madam Speaker, the only reason why I referred to that period was to really highlight the accomplishments of the present Government.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, you are outside of the provisions of the Standing Order. I must ask you to continue the debate on the general principles of Government policy and administration as indicated by the Bill and the Draft Estimates.

Thank you.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

To continue, the financial turn around experienced by this country in the past two years is only short of a miracle, considering the position this country was in as at November 1992.

Turning to the Financial and Business Sector, which was highlighted in the Budget Address, I am pleased to see that the Financial Sector continues to thrive and also the number of Caymanians employed in that sector continues to grow significantly.

What was reflected was that growth in this sector was approximately 9% (that is employment in this area), from 2,875 to 3,030 persons, with the percentage of Caymanians employed in this area increasing from 63% to 73% over the same period.

As Government, we have to ensure that despite the significant achievements in this area the financial community continues to offer its employees, in particular Caymanians employed in that area, advanced training and to also ensure that once Caymanians acquire the necessary qualifications and experience that they have an opportunity to move up the ladder of success.

This Government has been very accommodative of the financial community. For example in 1993, we passed the Mutual Funds Legislation and in just over a year 615 Funds have been registered in the Cayman Islands, and there are 100 more currently being processed. The Mutual Funds business is a large source of new business for our financial community.

I am also pleased to see that the number of banks licensed in Grand Cayman continues to increase and at the end of September the number of banks stood at 561, with 31 new [Banks] licensed in 1994.

The Captive Insurance business continues to grow, and companies registered in the Islands grew to 380 as of September 30, 1994, which also reflects a 40-company increase in this area. This is all evidence of economic recovery and Government.

What was also most pleasing was to hear of the number of new companies that have been registered by the Registrar of Companies this year, which amounted to 4,269 companies so far in 1994. This represents a 30% increase in company registration over the same period of one year ago.

What was also most pleasing was to learn that company registration has almost doubled since April of this year when this Government took the initiative of reducing company fees, to put the Cayman Islands in a much more competitive position with the other offshore destinations such as the BVI. The result of that has been very positive and we have seen a significant increase in the number of companies which have been registered in the Cayman Islands since the new fee structure came into effect.

Ship registration continues to grow at a somewhat slow and disappointing pace. I believe the reason for this is because of the onerous and impractical requirements which are being imposed by the advisors we have in place in that area, who are British. I think it is foolhardy for us to believe that the British Government is going to put us in a position where we as a destination can compete more effectively than they can for ship registration, which is also a big business in Europe.

I feel the approach that we in the Cayman Islands should take regarding ship registration is to approach the large shipping companies and determine what their real needs are; provided that safety (which is of the utmost importance), is a condition we should be in a position to be accommodating in order to attract more large, reputable shipping lines to register their ships in the Cayman Islands.

I do agree with the decision regarding cleaning up the Register and making sure that more care is taken in regards to the registration of fishing boats, which have caused us some problems in the past. I believe we have to be more creative in this area and more accommodating if we are going to see and experience any degree of success regarding ship registration.

I was pleased to see that the Financial Secretary has moved ahead in appointing a person with experience in marketing and promotion in the Portfolio of Finance and Development. He is in a position to focus on promoting the Cayman Islands as the first class offshore destination that it is, on a full time basis. It might be time for the same approach [to be taken] in regards to the Ministry. I must add also that the police has a Press Officer for public relation purposes.

I believe it might be time for us to move forward with regard to the appointment of a press officer who would work very closely with the Ministries on a daily basis to ensure that the public is kept abreast of what is going on, and is properly informed of what the Ministers are doing in regards to addressing the many needs that we have in this country.

This could be accomplished in a number of ways; maybe weekly press conferences could be held, television appearances, or articles through the newspapers. I believe it would be very effective, and that people would be better informed and Government would also be in a position to rebuff some of the nonsense that is being spread by the Opposition.

It does not matter how fine a product or programme one has, if nobody knows about it, it is very difficult to sell that programme. As a businessman, I am required to take into consideration the need for promotions and advertising as far as the business is concerned. I think we should perhaps move forward to adopting a similar policy regarding each

Let me now turn to Tourism. Overall, visitor arrivals to the Cayman Islands for the first nine months of 1994 were up by 4% over the same period in 1993. As far as tourism is concerned, the year 1993 was the record year when we experienced a 19% increase in air arrivals over 1992. The year 1994 is even better than that. At the present time, the average increase for the year is about 22%. This is very positive because this affects so many areas of our economy. I am not sure how many have attempted recently to catch a flight out of, or into the Islands, but most airlines are running practically full at all times, even in the off season. So this has been good for our national airline, Cayman Airways.

People who arrive here, spend money. The spending by our stay-over visitors rose by 28%, representing $136.2 million in the first half of this year. On the other hand cruise ship passenger arrivals were down by 3%.

That does not alarm me too much because I do not believe it is the numbers that count in that area, but rather the quality. I believe what that reflects is that the Ministry has taken a much more hands-on approach with regard to selecting what [cruise] lines to allow to come in here. If this means that we have to drop a few ships whose passengers were not spending any money here, then let us do that. There is a long waiting list of cruise ship lines that want to make the Cayman Islands a destination point on during their cruises.

As far as I am concerned, the Cayman Islands is probably one of the most important stops for a cruise ship. It is estimated that cruise ship passengers spent approximately $11.5 million in 1994. I believe that in order to maximise the return from cruise ship calls to the Cayman Islands, we have to make some decisions regarding what we are going to do; where we are going to allow them to land, in order to ensure that our people who are employed in the transportation [industry] can benefit.

The problem that I have (and I was involved in the industry for a year and a half), is that when they come into Hog Sty Bay, this puts them in a position where they can just walk off the ship, walk into the duty free stores, walk around town, cause congestion and basically spend very little.

I believe it is time for Government (and they are looking at this) to look at other locations with regard to cruise ship landings, like West Bay. Also, I have advocated and recommended for years that we consider Spotts as an alternate landing. I understand that the Government, through the Port Authority, has recently moved to acquire control over this area and proper bathrooms and other facilities have been put in place. I look forward to the time when the cruise ships will eventually be required to come into Spotts or West Bay, in addition to landing in George Town.

One of the problems that we face in this country as a result of cruise ships, is transportation. The cruise directors go out and pre-sell a number of tours (sometimes at exorbitant prices). And, to make matters worse, rather than saying that whoever does not book a tour with us is free to go aboard and make their own arrangements, they in turn bad-mouth the independent taxi and bus operators. This then makes it difficult for them to pick up a fare or a tour. This has been an area for problems for some time.

I know the present Minister, who is also the Chairman of the Port Authority, is attempting to address this issue. He is meeting with the cruise ship operators and I am quite sure he will have something to say further on this issue, that the cruise ships are cooperating with him to ensure that the business is more fairly distributed between the big buses and the independent taxi and bus operators.

I found it somewhat amusing, but at the same time a little distasteful, the attempts by the opposition through their newly designated minister of tourism, Mrs. MacPartland, to give credit for the present success in tourism to someone other than the present Minister. But the track record of the past Government in this area is well documented (and out of fear of being ruled again out of bounds, I will not get into that), it is well documented, the track record in tourism of the past Government, that is the 1988 to 1992 Government.

Without a doubt the present success in tourism is as a result of the present Minister of Tourism, Mr. Thomas Jefferson, and his Government who has taken a much more personal and hands-on approach to tourism. The results speak for themselves.

I was recently in Dallas and persons with whom I spoke who asked me where I was from, when I mentioned the Cayman Islands, they had heard of them and were positively impressed. So the present Minister for Tourism is doing a good job in this area and he must be commended for the success that we have experienced and enjoyed in tourism over the past two years.

For many years we talked about trying to diversify our tourism product as far as where tourists come from. The present Minister with the support of the present Government, have been successful in convincing Caledonian Airlines, with effect from this winter to begin weekly non-stop flights from London to the Cayman Islands.

It is very positive indeed, because it is important for us to diversify the destination from which our visitors come. We will continue to depend and rely heavily on the United States' market, but it is prudent to move on to encourage tourists from Europe and Asia to visit.

Madam Speaker, what is very evident as well, is that investor confidence is back as far as this economy is concerned. For a while, huge investors were sitting on the fence waiting to see what new policies the present Government would put in place, because of the experience they had with the former Government regarding high taxation. Now the investor is confident that he can move forward and the result has been that we have, in the tourist area, a number of large upscale hotels which are scheduled to be constructed here in the Cayman Islands.

This is very positive, Madam Speaker, because we want to be in a position to attract visitors in the upper sector of the market. In order to do that we must be in a position to provide them with the class of services that they are accustomed to receiving when they visit other destinations.

Just recently they broke ground for the new Marriott Hotel, and I believe that is a 350-room hotel. In my opinion it is going to be located on probably the best piece of beach land along Seven Mile Beach, that is, the old Galleon Beach Hotel site.

Madam Speaker, this is also positive from the standpoint of employment, because one of the areas that has lagged behind has been the construction industry. So those Caymanians who are still unemployed in that area should soon be in a position to pick up a job when this large hotel comes on stream.

Real Estate: One of the first things that the present Government did after taking office, was to reverse the decision of the former Government (that is, the 1988 to 1992 Government) who had increased the stamp duty on real estate sales of $250,000 and over, from 7.5% to 10%, which virtually killed the real estate market; by reducing the stamp duty back to 7.5%. If you talk to anybody now who is employed in the real estate industry, things are beginning to move—large sales, and many sales, are taking place. The results have been that Government is also collecting their fair share of stamp duty on these transactions. I believe that the figure mentioned was something like $11 million that had been collected so far in 1994 in stamp duty on real estate sales.

Things are looking good as far as the economy of this country is concerned, and I think we have every right as Caymanians to be proud.

It is important to this country that the real estate industry is healthy because this is a good sign, as I mentioned before, that investor confidence has returned and things are moving forward.

In the area of construction, the first nine months of this year approximately $115 million of planned new construction on Grand Cayman was approved, compared to $78 million for the same period in 1993. Among those that were approved is the large hotel that I mentioned before which is estimated to cost in the region of $35 million once it has been completed.

The value of approved residential construction had also increased by approximately $8 million (28%), when compared to the same period in 1993. Commercial activities were also very strong with increases in this area amounting to 334%, or $13 million. So it shows that the economy is moving ahead in all areas—tourism, commercial sector and also the residential sector of the industry.

What I believe is important, and would be in our best interest, is if somehow we were in a position to stage these large developments to ensure that our Caymanian people who are employed in these areas are kept fully employed and are able to accommodate the labour demands over the next two or three years. I believe that we are on the verge of a large construction boom. I believe also that the construction industry is another area where a lot of our people are employed and it would be prudent for Government to look at putting [in place] a moratorium regarding the licensing of any new contractor, especially if they are foreign contractors.

We have had representation from local Caymanians in this area and these are some of the things that they are recommending. I do not believe that we can continue with a policy of just allowing anyone to enter whatever area [of business] he wishes without having some concerns regarding the effects it will have on the others who are employed in those areas. There are many people who are calling themselves contractors. I believe that it is time for Government to pay a little more attention to this area ensuring that we do not have an excess capacity, and that Caymanians continue to thrive and succeed in the construction industry. I would recommend that it also be considered that any new licence in this area be only to Caymanians or companies which are 100% owned by Caymanians.

On the labour situation the Financial Secretary mentioned that unemployment had declined from 335 registered persons to 208. I called the Labour Office this morning and they told me that as of yesterday (I think it was) the number now stands at 140 persons who are unemployed. Out of the 140 who are unemployed I think there are approximately 84 who are Caymanians; the other are foreign persons who are married to Caymanians. So the unemployment situation is improving and this is expected because of the economic activity which is presently being experienced by this country. My concern is that within a year or two, if we are not careful, we will be moving at such a pace that we may have to once again consider bringing in foreign persons to meet the [labour] demand in this area. I believe that if we find ourselves in that position, those persons should be allowed in only for specific jobs and for specific time periods after which they are required to be repatriated to wherever they came from.

The Speaker: Would this be an opportune time to take a suspension, Honourable Member?

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Yes, Ma'am.

The Speaker: The House will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.24 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 11.55 AM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay, continuing the debate.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

For quite a long time the Cayman Islands have been considered a leader in this region because of the policies and steps adopted over the years in an effort to clean up our image and to discourage unlawful activity in this country. To name just a few of those efforts which have been highlighted by the Financial Secretary in his Address: In 1984, the Cayman Islands took its first step to combat money laundering by the passing of the Narcotics Agreement. As I understand it, the architects of that agreement were the present Honourable Minister for Education and the Honourable Minister for Tourism.

In 1986, the Cayman Islands' Government further established its position against the illegal use of its financial services by the passing of the Misuse of Drugs Law, which made money laundering an offence in the Cayman Islands. Also in 1986, the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty was negotiated and signed between the Cayman Islands, the United States and the United Kingdom, and came into effect in 1990.

So our success has been built on a reputation of a clean environment, outstanding expertise as far as the financial community is concerned, and also the image of political stability.

I would now like to turn to Socioeconomic issues. Despite the many financial successes we have experienced and enjoy in this country, if our people are not healthy, then it amounts to very little. The Ministries of Health and Community Affairs are moving forward to address the social issues and needs in this country.

In keeping with our promise to the people of this country to provide them with a first class modern health facility. As I understand it, in 1995 we will start the construction of our new hospital on the site of the present hospital. I have learned that the concept is a very modern one and once completed, our people will be proud of it. It will be done in stages, in keeping with the available finances, but I am very proud and pleased that the new Minister for Health is doing so well in this area.

Maybe now the Opposition can come off the hospital-in-the-swamp issue because this Government is moving ahead to address the health care needs in this country by constructing a new hospital.

The Minister for Community Development, Sports and Youth Affairs has also been very busy putting in place programmes and policies which the Government feels are in the best interest of our people. One of those decisions was the establishment of a new housing [scheme] initiative which I understand, despite the opposition attempts to discredit, is doing very well indeed. The persons for whom it was intended are beginning to benefit from the programme.

The Minister has also moved ahead in initiating the manpower development initiative and the role of this committee will be to assess the labour needs in this country. I believe that it is time for us to ensure that training is available for our Caymanians in the Financial, as well as the Tourism Industries, and other industries that we have in this country and that once they are qualified they have an opportunity of moving up the corporate ladder or in the areas in which they are employed.

I believe it is also time that we look at the labour needs in this country, that is, the needs of foreign labour, in a very objective, realistic, and practical manner, by saying to the employers: 'Let us know what your labour requirements are, as far as persons being brought in for the next two or three years.' Once that programme has been developed, then the Immigration Board is in a position where it gives out a two/three year work permit on the condition that in the meantime Caymanians are going to be identified and trained in those areas so that eventually some of these work permit [holders] can be replaced by a Caymanians who are qualified to take over in these areas.

The present system of approving permits on an ad hoc, or on a demand basis, is very unfair not only to the country, but also to the Immigration Board members who are obligated at probably every meeting to review 400 or 500 applications for the renewal or issuance of work permits. With that kind of volume it is impossible for any board to do a thorough job, as far as screening to be sure they are making the right decisions regarding approving persons who are allowed to come in to work in these Islands.

I also commend the Minister for Community Development for his initiative in establishing a new Student Loan Scheme because this is very necessary. I recall a number of occasions where persons from my district would approach us seeking our assistance for their son or daughter who had a desire to go away for further education. It has been very difficult in the past for some people to get the required financing in order to further their education. We have come a long way in this area.

Many years ago (when I was thinking about going off) unless one had the right surname, or right contacts, no scholarship or financing was available. Today, if a young person has the desire and the ability to further their education, there is no excuse for that person not to move forward because the financing is available for scholarships, loans, and grants.

I am also pleased with the progress that has been made regarding the establishment of proper sporting facilities in this country. It was a shame for a country like ours—that can boast of the financial position it has—to have had in place that type of facility for sporting activities for our young people. On many occasions visiting teams from other countries remarked about how bad our sports facilities were. I firmly believe that it is important for any country to make available to the young people, healthy and wholesome activities, and there is no better way to do that than through the medium of sports.

I understand that in the Budget this year there is provision for the appointment of international coaches in the areas of football, basketball, netball and cricket which seem to be the major sports that our young people participate in. This is good because what is now happening is that we are moving forward to increasing the level of international competition. This past year we hosted some international tournaments in basketball and football. Our boys did very well, indeed. What was evident was that the other foreign teams had paid personnel who accompanied the teams because their countries had committed so much in finances in the area of sports. As a result, it was very evident that the investment had paid off.

I was very proud to be able to attend a football game at the West Bay Sports Complex where I could sit in comfort and enjoy the game. I think that Complex is something that we can all be proud of, and the Minister is moving forward to establishing similar facilities in the other districts so that young people and spectators can be encouraged to attend more sporting functions, and be in a position to enjoy themselves because of the type of facilities that we have available.

One of the things that I am pushing for, and Government has agreed that we should do, is a proper modern indoor sporting facility for games such as volleyball, netball, basketball, etcetera. To a certain extent that facility would be in a position to accommodate track and field events. I have seen these multi-purpose complexes used in other areas and I see no reason why we cannot utilise it to the same extent here in the Cayman Islands. So, I look forward to a proper indoor facility being built so that our young people can enjoy competing in very modern comfortable surroundings.

The Minister has also initiated a crime study (which he spoke about) even though the opposition tries to make a lot out of the crime situation that we have in this country. I believe that this Government has taken some very positive initiatives in order to address the issue of crime.

We looked at the Firearms Law; we stiffened the penalties and increased the terms of convictions in that area. Today, if one is found in possession of a firearm (and there are still too many in this country in the wrong hands) one can get up to 20 years in prison for that offence.

We also established the Special Task Force that would patrol the districts particularly at night to discourage illegal activity, drug peddling and otherwise. They have been very effective indeed. I recall on one occasion while driving through George Town, seeing the unit on foot patrol with their batons in hand, walking as a group. Let me tell you, Madam Speaker, they were not only very impressive, but also very intimidating.

Just recently we were finally able to put in place a proper marine patrol service. We have a very modern vessel, I understand (I have not seen it) that is well equipped, and they are doing a good job interdicting and intercepting illegal drugs and firearms being brought in from the outside.

The Education Ministry is also moving forward with its programmes. A number of schools have been upgraded, much money has been spent in that area. Also, the present Minister has done much in assisting private schools regarding building needs and needs for equipment. The strategic planning initiative in education is well underway and I look forward to that process being complete and seeing some of those recommendations being put into place to ensure that our young people get the type of education they deserve; an education that will be practical and useful and, place them in a position where they can go out and find jobs either with Government or in the private sector.

I have always contended that in the area of Education the real secret to success lies in the number of Caymanians we can attract into that profession and be successful in keeping them there. We seem to have had a problem with that in the past because we have people going off and [gaining] qualification, coming back home only to be attracted away from the profession by other departments in Government or by the private sector. I trust that this strategic planning process will look carefully at the salaries and benefits made available to our teachers, and that the Education Council will look at increasing the dollar amount available through scholarships.

I know it is a policy of full scholarships for anyone going into education, but it is my understanding that the amount is limited to something like $12,000 per annum. The cost of education has really increased in the United States, where most of our students go to school. So even with the assistance of $12,000, if they do not attend the 'right' schools they find themselves digging into their own pockets to supplement their education.

I am also pleased to know that by this time next year a young, qualified Caymanian will take over as Principal of the John Gray High School. I believe this is very positive, and I look forward to that appointment and the results that will come about, as well as the influence that appointment will have.

The Draft Estimates for 1995 reflects a Budget of $177 million which, according to the Financial Secretary, is up 13.2% over the 1994 approved Budget. What is significant about that Budget is that it includes no new borrowing. For us as a Government to be in a position in only two short years to present a Budget of $177 million without borrowing, speaks well of the Financial Secretary and his Portfolio and the Government of the day. This Budget also has a provision for some $23 million for capital expenditure and that is 15% over what the approved budget for capital was in 1994.

The major capital projects planned for during 1995 include: Phase III of the West Bay Primary; Phase III of the Red Bay Primary; the George Town Sports Complex Upgrade; Phase I (Building 1) of the Community College of the Cayman Islands; and the Bodden Town Health Care Centre.

The major capital projects scheduled for commencement in 1995 include: Phase II of the George Hicks High School; Phase I of the George Town Hospital Improvements; the West Bay Health Care Centre; the North Side Civic Centre and Hurricane Shelter; the Northward Prison Visitors' Centre and Administration Block—which is badly needed and has been in the Budget for a number of years but was unable to be built. I trust that this year they will be able to at least start the construction of that new block which is so badly needed, not only for the visiting families, but also for the security of the Prison.

Capital projects also include: Phase I of the Pedro St. James Castle Restoration and Development; Phase II of the Queen Elizabeth II Botanical Park; Phase I of the Harquail Bypass Road.

The influence the partial third lane had on the traffic situation along Seven Mile Beach is very evident. I believe with the addition of the Harquail bypass that we will go a long way towards eliminating even further the traffic congestion along Seven Mile Beach.

I believe that this Government has been in a position to put together a very good Budget. It is within our means, that is, we do not have to go and borrow money to fund recurrent and capital expenditure. I believe that this is prudent because I have always been of the persuasion that we should live according to our means. This has been a policy in place over the years, except for the period 1988 to 1992.

We have to be very careful how we saddle this country with debt because I would hate to see the Cayman Islands go the route of so many of our Caribbean neighbours, where the foreign lenders come in and dictate what the policies are.

So in closing, I want to congratulate the Financial Secretary and the Government on a good Budget. I believe that we are poised for a good future and I believe that the people of this country can be well satisfied with the type of Government they elected in 1992.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am grateful that by the choice of the people, I am honoured to debate today in this honourable House the Budget of Revenue and Expenditure for the Cayman Islands for the sixth time. I continue to be mindful of the fact that the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman have given me that opportunity. It is something that I take very seriously, that is, representing the people of these Islands, and the political district of which I am but one Member.

This time of year, every year, is considered one of the most important for it is the occasion when the Government of the day accounts for its stewardship in handling the finances of the country, by putting forward its policies in terms of what they intend to spend money on for the ensuing year. Having done my best to understand and decipher what is not so clear to me since receiving the Estimates on Friday, and inquiring of those who should know, I tend to believe that this book of Estimates of Revenue and Expenditure for the year ending December 31, 1995, could be shortly titled as the 'National Team Cook Book for 1995'.

I say that because I think the Government is trying to show itself, with great effort, in the very best light of its financial performance when that is actually not the case. I do not think that the management of funds is in favour of the Government of the day. In fact, I am convinced that monies have been spent in areas that do not serve the best interest of the people at large or, for that matter, the country at large.

Numbers have been juggled around, not that I am suggesting that there is any attempt whatsoever in causing money to be short, or indeed, causing money to be more than what it actually is; but I think they are very interested in it [Budget] appearing to give a very beautiful picture.

I will cite but one single example, which I will speak further on in my debate: the question of the Cuban refugees in this country and what it is costing—projected and to date—has really not earned itself any true position in these Estimates. I contend that if that figure were there, it would hardly be showing a situation where there is any accumulated surplus. It would, indeed, have wiped that out and removed that. I do not believe that it is good policy for any government to fail to deal with what is the greatest financial liability pressing and bearing down on us on a daily basis.

There are other instances that I will cite where I think the Government failed to show a true picture of the financial standing of this country.

I would like to take the opportunity to look at some items in the Estimates departments and subheads, not necessarily all of them, and offer my view as to how these funds could have been better allocated and, where I think priorities have been misplaced. I would like to first refer to the Government Information Service and Broadcasting—which is now a combined department as they have been amalgamated. I think this department is due all the consideration that it can be given in terms of allocation of funds for its present functioning and future development. Monies that are spent on Radio Cayman and the Government Information Service, which is a smaller entity in terms of staff, is well spent.

Radio Cayman serves a most vital role in these Islands and has been serving that role for close to two decades—more, in fact. I believe because of the fact that it has worked so well, it should be given the opportunity to function more within its own rights and its own domain and its own economy. I believe that Radio Cayman or the Broadcasting Department, could be made a statutory board which gives it more impetus to take care of its own business without being constrained or encumbered to the normal extent that it must be, being within the regular governmental structure. It is nothing new, I have said this before, and I still believe that this should be the case.

I am very happy to see the building which houses both Government Information and the Broadcasting entity has been improved in its physical facilities. This was the foresight of the last Government and whatever improvements there may have been in the past two years would have been a follow up by the present Government. It has sufficient space, and I believe it should be given its normal course to develop into a television broadcasting entity; a public television broadcasting entity owned by Government, whose main purpose would be to give information to the public. It could give the hard facts to the public through Government, similar to the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) in the United States.

For that matter, I would believe that just as PBS gets certain funding from various agencies and companies and so on, it is conceivable (even though on a smaller scale) there may be those businesses smart enough in Cayman to realise the value of the electronic audiovisual media and they may sponsor some programmes. I am not necessarily thinking that it would run 24 hours a day, but I think it could run for some hours of the day, every day.

It could develop its own magazine with various information on any given subject. I visualise this as being practical and commonplace as teaching the public the proper attitude and behaviour when driving a car: stopping at a stop light, moving away from a stop light—road courtesy. It could certainly educate the populace in what their fundamental rights are, such as when a person is arrested they really do not have to give a statement until they have seen their lawyer, and that they can ask to see their lawyer—education which would improve the quality of our lives as a people, which is the duty of any good government. There is no better medium known on earth than television.

Some of the persons who work in Radio Cayman already are broadcasters on the local television station. I believe that in this day and age, if the Government in its public duty, is to overcome the great mountain of what we do not know as a people, television (public broadcasting) can be a shortcut to achieving a desirable end.

The fact that I have suggested this leads me to believe that surely this will not come to pass, at least between now and 1996. But, so be it, times change and so do faces and places.

One of the services that Radio Cayman carries out is the broadcasting of the debates of this Legislative Assembly. Many years ago, through the foresight of the forefathers in this legislature, it was decided that there would be public broadcasting of the debates, a delayed broadcast, but verbatim. I think in this regard the management, or should I say, more correctly, the Government, should see to it, as a policy, that they hand down to the radio the times which it chooses to broadcast the debates from the Legislative Assembly. Quite often, the broadcasts go on to one o'clock and later in the morning.

As far as I can tell, there are three FM frequencies. I cannot see why, when the Legislative Assembly is in session four times a year, a specific time cannot be set for the broadcasts to begin and end. Everyone would know that is the time and it would end at a particular time at night.

From what I can calculate in terms of how we have suspensions and lunch and breaks, at best I think we are talking about four or four and a half hours of debate in the Legislative Assembly on any given day. I believe it would be prudent, good, wise, helpful, and it would be something that the public would appreciate if the broadcast time was set at seven o'clock in the evening and cut off at 11 o'clock. Most people are working people, and if they stay up until 11 o'clock to hear the broadcast—fine. But when it goes on to 12 o'clock and beyond that, I think what is hoped for to be achieved is lost.

I do listen to Radio Cayman a lot, and I listen to certain debates of Members of this House that I may have missed. I listen to it sometimes at night and I believe that is something which could be done quite easily, with whichever one of the FM stations. But I really do not see how one station can play music at a certain time, or Open Line at 8.30... it is just not practical, nor is it good management, in my opinion.

If we look at the money which is voted for Radio Cayman and Government Information Service, it is not really staggering. It is within what one could consider reasonable limit. If one takes into account that Radio Cayman is a revenue-earning department of Government, then they are due for some consideration. I think greater allocation of funds, the development of staff and the development of its functions are a great necessity. My country, the Cayman Islands, is not as informed as it should be about itself. Government does have a medium by which it could help the situation.

As time goes by and Government grows, the bureaucracy grows; larger sums of money are spent each year in the Budget, large sums are increased through supplementary expenditures, unusual demands occur which fall to the Government to meet.

It is right to have in place the best that is possible in terms of an audit office. This small island spends a lot of money. Money is spent by Government in numerous ways. If one just look at the various sums for the various items, the number of calls made on the Government, and the areas where Government pays out money for one thing or another is really amazing. As it becomes harder and harder for countries to raise revenue to meet the many demands (and the Cayman Islands is no different), we have to ensure that every opportunity is taken to see to it that we get value for money; that we have persons who can audit the situation and see whether that is functioning in the best way to get our money's worth. Indeed, we can think of audit as purely looking at numbers on ledger sheets, but it goes beyond that in that we can see where there is inefficiency and make recommendations to correct it, because one way or the other it eventually reflects in cost to the public first.

I believe at this stage that there is a considerable demand on the Audit Department. I know the time I was in the Civil Service (almost 10 years ago) there was immense pressure on it. If one looks at the growth in staff at this time, it certainly has not tripled and quadrupled and all the other increases that one would expect in this particular area. I am glad to see that the Department has made a move to increase its staff complement and, indeed, the Government seems to be minded in putting this forward in the Estimates.

I believe what the Government needs to ensure is that each and every officer within this department is keyed in to the Mission Statement, is sure of its objective, receives formal training as to what is required of them and that they, without fear or favour, go forward and do what is required of them. Not to say that is not happening now. This is an area where I believe if the Government Policy could be directed to upgrading, improving and developing that, it will ultimately be in the best interests of this country now and, surely, in the long term. There are too many instances of questions being raised, questions raised by any reasonable person, as to how Government funds are being allocated and spent. There has to be a strong watch-dog to stem what seems to be a runaway train under the present Government administration. So, I most surely support this department's request for the additional staff.

Madam Speaker, it might seem a bit novel, but I am going to suggest that where they find losses in Government; that thought might even be given to allowing audit staff who discovered it to be personally compensated, say up to 10% of the loss. This might create a motivation that would do every good in the world.

Another area that has been sorely lacking for a long time, is the Judiciary of this country. I perceive that there is a lack in staffing and in the building which houses our judiciary. I am convinced that having accommodations to house the judiciary and its support staff (technical, professional staff) in a right a proper order is 100 times more necessary a pursuit at this time than a stadium. Certainly the Courts of Law are used on a daily basis and it is the place where people go to seek justice.

I really cannot conceive people spending the same time inside of a stadium in this country. But, when one looks at it, the Stadium development gets millions, and the Court is told to do what it normally does—sit. I believe that monies need to be allocated to this department of Government to whatever extent it takes.

We boast that we are in the international world and that all the wealthy people of the world come here to invest and do business, and so on. It naturally follows that there will be legal matters which will have to be dealt with. If this development is true then, naturally, it is continually impacting on the judiciary in whatever way, shape or form.

One cannot forget for one moment where we are going in the world of crime—full speed ahead. It is the one thought that I think is constant with just about every conscious citizen in this country, including those who are committing it.

It is a matter of getting the priorities right. That is one priority that I think any reasonable person would agree with. We know that even athletes find themselves on the wrong side of the road and end up before the courts where the motivation of becoming physically fit, or striving in a particular area of sports was not all that encompassing, and that is the place they must go with the hope that they will find understanding, reason, compassion and justice.

So, Madam Speaker, my views are that when it comes to doing for the judiciary in terms of allocation of funds, what has been done when there is a known need, versus what is going to build places (for one game) supposedly going to thrust us into international fame, I do not really see the logic.

The Speaker: The proceedings will be suspended until 2.30 PM.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.59 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.31 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we took the suspension for lunch, I had been speaking on the subject of the judiciary. At this time I would like to turn my thoughts to the subject of the Police.

I see in the Estimates certain sums of money provided for the Police which will go towards providing their services in the country. This is something which I think everyone in the country is talking about, complaining about, and asking for at this time. I think there is a central concern in this society at this time that there is the need for police or protective services because of the way conditions have grown as far as crime goes.

I share the view that it is important to have a well-trained and a well-functioning police force, one which has the equipment it needs, the trained personnel that it requires, and one that can see clearly both sides of the coin in their function in the society and who understand the citizens who might be in breach of the law but who have certain rights which must be respected. I think it needs to be clearly understood that the two have to go side by side, that is the ordinary citizens and the people who are given authority under the law to enforce against them where it is necessary.

I believe that there are certain difficulties in policing the country the way it should be. I also believe that these conditions can be overcome by placing sufficient money to achieve this objective. I would just like to read the Mission Statement in the Head dealing with the Police. It says:

"To preserve public peace and tranquility, prevent crime and, where crime is committed, detect and prosecute offenders; interdict against the supply and consumption of illicit drugs and maintain safety on the roads."

Madam Speaker, all of that goes hand-in-hand with what the Police are supposed to do. We have a relatively limited number of police officers to carry out the various tasks, and we do not have that many specialised units. Where we do have specialised units, there are not that many members of staff within it, to the best of my knowledge.

In recent times, however, I have seen so many instances of police along the roadside parked in someone's yard or by someone's shop waiting to come out to stop someone who may be going a few miles over the speed limit. I think that particular aspect of the police service can be better handled if their presence is seen along the roadway, driving, rather than sitting somewhere to pounce out on some unsuspecting citizen, someone who is really not intending in any way to break the Law, but who might be doing more than the speed limit—albeit a few miles over the limit. I think that there are many areas where uniformed police officers can be better utilised on an hourly, daily basis, not to say that they should not enforce speed limits and the like.

I noted with interest the section of non-achievements in this particular section, and I observe in subsection (2) where it says; "Some new vehicles were supplied but not to Police specifications and our vehicle situation remains poor."

Madam Speaker, I am convinced that if the police are to do the job that all of us expect of them (the public in general) I believe most, if not all, the Members of the Legislative Assembly believe they need the equipment and the means to do the job. Again, I believe that this is so important; if the police need cars, they should get the number of cars which they need.

There is only one pie, but one needs to set priorities—which is obviously not happening—or they would not be in the position to state and complain as to what is happening in this regard.

There are thousands of cars on the road of Cayman (in all three islands there are cars), even the smallest of the islands, Little Cayman, to the point where there are even now available a certain number of rental cars. So how can one expect the police to deal with the vehicular side of things if they do not have a car? They cannot get on a horse or a bicycle and chase the cars.

Madam Speaker, I think that the Government could wisely look at this problem and correct it. And if these cars are supposed to have certain specifications, why get less if that is going to place them in a position where they cannot do the job? I see in a section of the Estimates as well where radios are required. Certainly, we need supply them with the number they need. If there is equipment—surveillance equipment, whatever it may be—and they need it, the need is justified. If they are to perform the way they are expected, then I am convinced that the priority needs to be set.

For many years it has been my opinion that there needs to be a vigorous, all-encompassing, ongoing training programme within the Police Force. I am not speaking of specialised courses where police officers may be sent to in Canada, the United States, or the United Kingdom (as the case may be). I am talking about a properly functioning unit which is training them in ever-improving techniques and knowledge of the Law and the duties which they are to perform. Not just taking them in as cadets and training them to the level where they pass their examinations and become police officers. It needs to be ongoing. I would certainly like to see such priorities being set and I do not really see where large sums of money are earmarked for such things in this Budget.

In the performance of the duties of a police officer, I believe it is very necessary for [there to be] proper supervision and control. As they are semi-disciplined force, or military force, they have a great leaning towards the various levels of chain of commands; that is what makes them different from most of the other services. To succeed, I think that money has to be found to improve the service, or there should not be the matter of complaint.

If the money is not provided for the officers to do the job, then it cannot be expected. The various ranks need to be changed so there is upward mobility in the Police Force. How real that is now, is a question in my mind. For we often hear of some officers rising to a higher rank, but how well-tuned is the whole organisation so that the opportunity readily exists? I think it could take a serious looking at.

Promotions should be forthcoming, where that is in order, and officers should ever be trained or encouraged to do extra training in specialised areas, even at their own expense, be it a course in Public Relations because they are the people who meet the public in any given day, I dare say, than any of us.

Madam Speaker, I think that we need to arrive at a situation as to what we can realistically expect and require from our Police Force. I believe this should evolve out of the demands and concerns from the public, what the public hopes and would like to see in terms of feeling secure and safe. Politically, I think it is necessary for the Government to respond to the demands of the public by letting the official who is responsible for the Police to know this and, while there is going to be the technical side of things to be looked by the Police Officers, there is a role to be played by the public and the public's representatives in getting the overall picture in sync.

As far as I can tell there is an increase of 21 officers in the Police Force (or a request for 21 officers), I have not really seen any great detail as to where these persons will fit in or what precisely they may be required to do. However, that needs to be made clear, for in the Estimates which provides the money for the Police we are looking at close to $9 million.

I trust that as the Police Boat changes captains—another is expected in the first part of the coming year—every opportunity will be taken to let the new captain have an opportunity to interact with the public, be it groups, organisations, associations, individuals or whatever. We, the elected representatives of the people, would also like to have an opportunity to talk with him, giving him ideas and letting him hear our concerns. Hopefully, from that there can be a means of improvement.

I do not know if the increase which is requested is a hard and fast need or whether, if we equip the number of officers that we have and train them to a higher level, they could do the job. Apparently, that is not the opinion of the persons putting forward the request. So, to a large extent, I will have to be led by this particular request made in the Estimates. But, as usual, I know that I have the right to ask why, and I certainly would hope that in the course of this meeting, even in the Finance Committee, there is an opportunity to discuss this matter further.

I think deployment of the Police Force needs to be a priority. And if it is the case where police officers can be better deployed to do a better job, I do trust that someone is going to look at this particular aspect of things.

I also observed that in some of the outer districts there are improvements to be made in the Police Stations. That, in itself, is good. But, as I read it I had to wonder: If we are not going to reach the point where we have 24 hour coverage in the substations, what is the use of making them so modern and efficient? Are there not going to be police around to really man them the way so many Members of the Legislature have expressed their desires to see happen? I do hope that with the request for an increase there will be some steps taken to rectify the particular situation.

Madam Speaker, considerable money is being earmarked for the prison. I know certain recommendations were made this year by Judge Tumim. I think many of them were very practical and attainable. When the Report was brought here by my colleague, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, a motion was moved to debate it and each Member had an opportunity of expressing his concern, his endorsement and acceptance and, oddly enough, the Government voted against it. So where it stands at this point in time in its totality, I really do not know.

Prison is a place where, I think in any society, the members of that society would rather not know it was there. I dare say, that society would accept that it becomes almost an everyday necessity, for part of the society will always be breaking the Law, committing some crime, and the only thing that can be done for the safety of the majority is to put away such persons—lock them away from society.

We have had some very serious crimes committed in this country. I do believe, once and for all, that Government needs to make up its mind that the Prison—with whatever level of population it may have—is here to stay. Make plans for modern facility for those persons who are to be locked away for life, and who commit crimes which are utterly objectionable to society, so they can be kept there without too many chances of leaving those premises.

I think of modern facilities as being able to be locked down electronically; in the case, for example, of murderers, those persons are locked away for as long as the court may prescribe.

There is, of course, the other side to it where our prison also has to attempt, to whatever extent is practical, to help offenders find some worthwhile skills while in prison. So education needs to be a part of the process.

I believe that while we are doing something in this regard, for the number of young people that are going to prison, we need to look at this particular aspect of it more closely and look to providing more money in the direction of education where these persons may be helped. I am told that there are some young people who are in prison who have little or no chance of rehabilitation and they are of a mind-set that they do not really seem to want that, in some instances that I have heard about.

Madam Speaker, if we have to build larger prisons, I think the Government has to find persons who know about prison services, who can use statistical data to find what might be the number in the next five, six or ten years (as the case may be), and plan for it. Buildings and structures that do not have in their design future expansion should not be built. There are times when expertise is needed and surely the world at large has to cope with prisons. So there are those persons who, like in everything else, specialise in designs, we should see in this country what can be done to find such persons where it is necessary.

There continues to be various complaints that I hear from time to time about conditions at the Prison. And I do subscribe very much to the view of Judge Tumim, who said that a well run prison is a place which has nothing to hide. The public can feel free to visit it and see the facility and to know what is going on there. I think that if there can be more light shone on the conditions there, the facility itself, it might help to dispel some of the suspicions and, indeed, might even prove that some of the stories one hears from inmates from time to time may not even be true, or may not be the way it is told in the first instance.

I think a playing-field is necessary, certainly, the Judge felt that way and he made the recommendation. I think this is something where Government might well solicit the help of persons who can help both with equipment and money towards it because the business of prison and prisoners seems to get close to most of us in this society one way or the other.

Madam Speaker, there is a section in the Estimates where life seems to have gone completely different to what should have been the case when the Government took office and declared its intention to see the Civil Service cut. The Budget pays out like 51% in salaries to civil servants. And in 1993 the speech given by the Financial Secretary on behalf of the Government said in paragraph (4), I read: "As part of the measures currently underway to contain costs, the Governor, in consultation with Executive Council, has established a Committee to effect certain retrenchments throughout the entire Civil Service where such cutbacks will not impair the effectiveness of the Service. The overall goal will be to attempt to reduce the size of the Civil Service by 7.5% and thus the cost."

Madam Speaker, I criticised this hasty move and as it turned out, 7.5% could not be cut. The Government was only successful at cutting 5%, and I understand that some of those were persons who were reaching the retirement age and so on. On the matter of retirement age, I think that even where the Government may take steps to retire a person from a cost effective point of view (they would not have to pay pension based on a longer period of service), I do not believe we in these islands can afford, simply because a person reaches the age of 55 or 60, to cut them loose. Our manpower resources are much too small, particularly when these older persons are healthy and willing and able to work.

This House did approve a motion brought by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, that persons can go on to work and this was passed on to the administration and it happened in some instances. But, I believe Government needs to keep a careful watch on this situation, because of the growing number of non-Caymanians, when we have those who are reaching retirement age, particularly in the skilled and semi-skilled areas that do not pay a lot anyway, and where they need to work, and if work is available, they be given the opportunity of doing so.

If I am correct in my examination of this Budget, we see the Government (before it has achieved the exercise of getting rid of 20 people in total) has now set out to hire 108. I think that this is a very good example of what can happen when enough time is not taken, and I think haste, generated from political pressure, caused certain actions regarding the retrenchment of civil servants.

I still believe there is opportunity for a proper study to determine the number of civil servants that are necessary. It can be done. I understand that there is some ongoing exercise within Government that is looking to evolving job descriptions and evaluations for each post and also an evaluation. Ultimately, classifications, as is my understanding, is the way it should be. It is the way each officer—each employee in the service—can understand exactly where he fits in and can then endeavour to work towards performing those duties and responsibilities that may be assigned to him, at whatever level of employment. But hasty actions can damage the service and I believe that civil servants are under intense political pressure at this time—undue political pressure. I think they have been victims in this whole process, and among them, I believe, has been the gentleman who was the head of the Civil Service who went into early retirement.

In this country we need to do more than talk about

Caymanianisation of the Service. I sometimes get the impression that we, as a people, feel a reluctance to promote our own welfare by discerning that rightfully, Caymanian people should have the first opportunity where a job is concerned, and where there is a person who is qualified, willing, ready and able to work.

In recent years I do not believe as much has been achieved as could have been. I can think of the time in the 70s when there was meaningful, hard-driven efforts to Caymanianise, and it is from those times that the higher officers in the Service evolved. If we are not going to do so at this time, when these officers in higher posts leave, who will come to take over for them? That is the question that we better address seriously.

Again, one of the things that was done in those times (back in the 70s when there was less money and all the rest of it) was inservice training, external services. I know there is some of that, but I believe it can be intensified, and I think it needs to be intensified.

The most recent statistic that has been released should cause any sensible person to wonder when will we reach a plateau where there will be a catching-up of the indigenous people, to the persons whom we have to employ on work permits. The Civil Service should at least be the model, or the guiding light, in evolving a policy that other private sector organisations could take a serious look at.

The birth rate is there, but, of course, is not fast enough. There are not enough Caymanian people to fill all the jobs that are coming about.

I would think that the Government Service would be the guiding light, as I said, to look carefully at growth and to make sure that the needs are clearly there when a job is created and, certainly, wherever possible, that the job be filled by a Caymanian.

Madam Speaker, at this point I would like to mention that there has always been the concept of security of tenure within the Civil Service. It is something which I was taught about, and something that I passed on to persons when I was in the Service. It went largely then on the fact that civil servants were not as well paid as persons in the private sector. So it was like a balance—you have a job and you are secure in your job. You would have to do something really bad, like misconduct, to lose your job. But times have changed.

I believe that the concept now of security of tenure has become more relative and that, indeed, if we have someone in the lower skilled jobs (in the lower cadre of the Service), who may not be performing as well as they should, it should not be a situation where simply because they are there that they cannot move on. It might be the case that they are actually performing well, that they could move on into the private sector. Someone from the private sector can move into Government. I think that is something which needs to be looked at by the powers that be, where the employment within the Civil Service and the terms and conditions of service are taken into account.

Madam Speaker, the Public Works Department has always been the spending department. It is not the earning department, but it sure earns itself criticism from the day I heard about it right up until this point in time. Some criticism is due some is not. In this island it now has, according to the Estimates, 52 staff members . . . and I would imagine that what we are speaking of here and what it is showing there is established staff because the wage scales are normally dealt with under other vote heads.

Madam Speaker, I looked at the various staff named, and I see engineers; quantity surveyors; executive architects; graduate engineers; graduate architects, and the likes. I do not know to what extent their time is engaged in doing the work for which they are employed, for I do not have any real idea as to what projects are going on. It would normally be the larger projects that would catch my attention, and I suppose that would be the case with most persons. So there may be other things that are not really visible. But, if I am to believe some of the instances that I have heard about where Public Works is drawing the plan, and it is not drawn, then I really have to wonder.

Since these technocrats are employed specifically by that department and, specifically by the Government, if they are not getting the jobs demanded by Government done, then what is the problem? Does the department need a complete audit and investigation as to performance? If that is the case, most surely we should do it, because I am sure everyone in this honourable House has heard that story—'we are getting such and such for the district, the Public Works Department is drawing the plans'. And you hear that Public Works Department is drawing the plans, and the plans are supposedly never drawn. If they are drawn, there are problems.

I think that perhaps next to the Police, the department which functions specifically on a set and rigid chain of command (because of specialised and technical skills in that department) should be the Public Works Department. I say to the Government that if this needs to be done, do it. Spend money to have it done. For heaven's sake do not start a strategic planning to do it. Get somebody who knows what they are doing. Get an expert who can do it quickly, decisively, and get it done. I think something needs to be done. If it is the case that the work is more than the ability of the persons who are there (the number of staff) to complete, then the logical thing is to get more staff—even if there are no Caymanians available to do that job. And where it might be possible, for greater efficiency, for the Government to get some of the technical work done by technical persons outside of the Service, it would also seem to make sense.

Time is money and, surely, in this Budget so many projects are written down that were supposed to have been done which, apparently, were never started, I should think would inspire someone to do something about it. I take aim at no individual person because nowadays I only know a few of the older persons who are in the Public Works Department (maybe that amounts to three or four—half a dozen at the most) because I understand that there are some younger engineers and architects there now.

Because that is a Government service department, that is where Government has to go for its technical advice. It is where they have to depend in evaluating certain things that come into play—particularly where technical fields such as the ones these persons are involved in. The money that is assigned to that department each year inevitably runs in the millions. So, if we are going to get value for money, if we are going to get efficiency, we need to deal with it in a way that is realistic.

I know that times have changed but, surely, there is one beacon to follow in terms of doing what it is authorised to do against what it is not authorised to do. I hope that persons in that department know of something called the Public Finance and Audit Law, and that they would not attempt in any way to do things by misappropriating funds, or otherwise, as is being suggested at this particular time.

In fact, this morning I saw the Minister responsible for Public Works on television speaking to such matters. Indeed, the civil servant is the one, to the best of my knowledge, who still signs the payment vouchers. They need to be smart enough not to sign any pay vouchers where they know they might be allocating or spending money in an area and for something that was not approved in this Legislature or in the Finance Committee; that would be my heart-felt message to any such person, even though I am very much aware that the normal course of Government's political pressures are brought to bear to have something done, but the smart civil servant really does not have to do one where he will be found wanting.

There is good news, Madam Speaker, in this particular Ministry where the Postal Service is concerned, and I, as a member of the public, feel extremely good when I go into the General Post Office now. It is not as if you are stepping into a cave of gloom. There are nice, bright lights which stimulate the workers to greater motivation—they move faster, their countenances have changed. Simply because Government, after 40-odd years, has put in some good florescent lights, counters that are brightened up by the colours, and has painted the building to make it look alive. I am sure if one was to take a poll as to the level of satisfaction before that happened, it would be, at least, about a 500% difference. I certainly compliment the Minister and the Ministry, and all those involved, who brought about a change that has been a glaring need for so many decades.

I understand that there is to be another Post Office or another building built which will deal with a specialised area of postal services somewhere in the vicinity of the Airport. From what I understand it seems to make a lot of sense. In the years when I did have dealings with Postal Services I realised that postal services entailed much more than simply stamps and letters; it very much involves International Law which impacts on postal services and the mail went on its merry way—no matter what the particular definition of the Government—to any country of the world.

It simply goes to show that human beings can be civilised after all and they can extend certain considerations and courtesies—keep the mail going whether it is in China, Russia, North Korea, the United States, Canada or wherever.

I believe that the new building will bring about improved services. But, again, I would say to the Government: balance the act, you are getting a new building for the Post Office—fine—do something about the Courthouse too, put it in the right place. Put the priorities in the right place.

I must express my shock, however, to see that a new Post Office is to be built in West End, Cayman Brac. I could not be more delighted to know it. But I do believe that it would have been plain decency and common courtesy for someone to have informed me, as one of the representatives from that island, that such was taking place. I inquired if my colleague knew of it, and he told me he was not aware of it either until he saw it in the Estimates. Upon inquiry, I understand that it is supposed to be built somewhere down on the beach. Our beach land is too good for that, I think, and of course salt spray does not help the windows or anything inside the building. So if that is the case, I hope that whoever is doing it will indeed place it somewhere in the West End where it would not be so subject to salt spray if, indeed, what I have heard is the case.

I am very pleased and very grateful to know that in this instance Cayman Brac did come in for a consideration in having a post office. However, I would believe that it must be a very small one if about $60,000, or so, is supposed to build it.

That is one of the cases where I spoke about the cook book. I think it is going to cost more than that if it is to be—it has to cost more than that—but there was some cooking so that the Budget could look good and the bigger numbers would not have to show.

I think it is well to give priority to the Postal Services, for, indeed, it is one of the revenue-earning departments of Government and it is a means by which the Treasury earns money.

Madam Speaker, in that regard, that is, of being supportive of what is good in Government, I am, and I will continue to be. But, I do not have to play the same tune as the Government because I am not the Government, and I do not propose to do so. There are surely certain basic courtesies that are supposed to be extended among this fraternity of people chosen by the majority of people of this country to serve in this Chamber.

Perhaps it is well that I comment here and now about the number of instances I hear about Ministers of Government leaving Grand Cayman to go to Cayman Brac or Little Cayman, to deal with public matters—matters which I am definitely a part of as I am one of their representatives. I never hear about it until someone says; 'Well, you know so and so was up on the Brac.' And the way it is done these days, too, is that everybody charters a plane. No one goes anymore by the regular flight, like I have to do. So it becomes more difficult to keep in touch with what is happening.

But if the idea that me not knowing should in any way impact on me negatively, such persons are misguided because I simply tell the people who elected me the truth; "I do not know, I cannot tell. I was not told." And they, like myself, find it most unacceptable.

Madam Speaker, again on the matter of savings and cost cutting, here again is what the National Team Government said it was going to do as put forward in the Budget address of 1993. It says under (e) on page 17: "Across the board reductions of up to 50% in operating expenditures such as, overseas travel and subsistence costs."

Madam Speaker, each one has his own opinion as to whether things like that happen or not.

The department that perhaps has come under the most intense pressure in this country in the past four or five months is the Immigration Department. This has been the case ever since we have been subjected to the illegal migration of Cuban nationals into this country. By what I read, it seems as if the whole Immigration Department has had to reconstruct itself to keep up with the situation which is ongoing.

I can certainly sympathise. I do not know if they have the same concerns as I do, but I have the gravest concerns for this situation which is upon us. What is happening with that I am not quite sure. The Immigration Department can only be further taxed as long as the numbers of non-Caymanians keep growing. Every time there is a person who comes to take up employment, to live, to reside or whatever, there is that much more to be done by Immigration.

I know that for over 20 years there has been a situation in the Immigration Department, in terms of money expended, where some of the highest amounts of money paid in Government have been in overtime to Immigration Officers. I know of instances where it has been tackled at different times by different Principal Secretaries of Personnel, by Heads of Departments from time to time, and never has anyone come to grips with it and really changed the situation where officers could virtually make as much in overtime as from their substantive post.

I know that over the years it has brought about dissatisfaction of other departments where that was not available to them, albeit they are working extra time, but it is not available in other departments. So when I heard the new Head of Immigration say that he could actually do something about that and correct it, as he did here a few weeks ago in the Finance Committee, by increasing the staff, I, for one, was delighted to hear that. As far as I can tell there is a request for eight new members of staff. If I remember correctly, I think he said he needed about a dozen, I am not sure, but it is something that I will take the occasion to inquire about.

This has my support, because I believe that it needs to be done. I think it is right. If that amount of money has to be paid out it should go to employ more people. If it can be corrected now, I do think that it is something that all Members can feel good about.

Madam Speaker, as I am on the subject of Immigration, I wish at this time to comment on the situation which, to the best of my understanding, is giving the Immigration Department its biggest task, that is, the situation of the Cuban nationals in the Cayman Islands. I suggest that if the facts are known, since about July or whenever the great influx of Cuban nationals started [to arrive] in this country, it is now a few million out of pocket, money that cannot be collected, and it is something which the Government has to deal with and deal with quickly.

I say that fully understanding that there are certain international laws that have to be dealt with, certain international agencies, certain international media that is prepared to find the most heart-rending scene and put it on television, be it in the United States, England or wherever, that is big time emotion worldwide where refugees are concerned. But the Government has to deal with this situation or it is going to bring financial ruin to these islands. I have to feel concern as a citizen, as a legislator and for my relatives, friends and the people of this country on a whole.

What I have observed, Madam Speaker, is true to the way the media world wide works on this matter. Considerable emotion evolves out of this. Indeed, the place nearest and dearest to Grand Cayman (which could not be Cayman Brac and Little Cayman) is Miami. I think all of us know the influence of the Cuban community there in the media, economically and otherwise. There are people who I understand have seen immense hardship—politically, socially and otherwise.

The story is well-known around the world, for, unlike the Cayman Islands that has to go and pay to get itself known around the world, that is not true of the island of Cuba. So the situation is known worldwide.

I watch the letters in the newspapers here, Madam Speaker, and I wonder how well the people who write some of those letters understand, including some merchants. People who say let us give them employment and all the rest of it. I wonder if in some of those instances employment would not be similarly seen to be for a lower wage than what would be paid to the locals or the Caymanian persons, and would be a source of cheaper labour. And that is where that interest begins and ends.

Recently I read a letter from someone who calls himself Henry Morgan. I did not figure that he had come back to this place and time. Whether or not that is the name of that person, I think it is right to look at what the argument might bring forward, which might cause the Government not to do what it should do and thus continue the situation of a policy where these islands are paying for the maintenance of these persons. It is absolutely impractical and ridiculous to talk about 1800-so-and-so, when Capt. Kirkconnell's boat took 40 Caymanians to Cuba, and so forth and so on. Look at the situation in the world and the Cayman Islands now in 1994.

First of all, the Caymanians were admitted legally by the Immigration of Cuba. They went there not to take jobs or jeopardise jobs, they went to work in lower [paying] jobs that they needed labour for—working on the roads, domestics, plantations and the like. This is not so real to us in comparison at this time. So when someone tries to bring on an argument I believe it is the duty of the Government through whatever means, to counter that argument to show our people (the Caymanian people) that we are not without sympathy, but we are obliged to live with the facts, with the truth.

Who are more sympathetic in the world than Caymanians? Caymanians are sympathetic. They will go out of their way to do something for a stranger when their next door neighbour will not do it for them in many instances, that is the way we are, and I speak as one. I do not need any paper for that because I have been around here—I trace my ancestry back five generations. That is the way we are! So it is not a question of feeling sympathy. We do! That is why there has been the response there has been from the public.

But how much is the public being told about the cost? How much money should be reflected in this Budget right now, where it would not balance or anything else if it was known? And, indeed, if it was earmarked for a year's expenditure at what we have found out to be the monthly expenses, it should be here, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, could you have some sympathy on the other Members and take a suspension now for 15 minutes?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Indeed, Ma'am.

The Speaker: The House will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.46 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.04 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman continuing the debate.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, when the House suspended I was commenting on the situation with regard to the serious financial commitment that these islands have imposed on us due to the fact that we have a large number of Cuban nationals now on the island, as illegal immigrants—non-immigrated persons—into the Cayman Islands.

Madam Speaker, I have serious concerns with this situation. I have had many people talk to me about it with differing views; some who believe that we can and should simply take these persons into our country and, in effect, offer this as their new-found country of choice. I believe that anyone who sits and seriously thinks about the situation would take into account that we as a country—from the time we became peopled to any significant extent—are looking at between 150 to perhaps 200 years at the most. And during that time with births and deaths, Caymanians migrating to different part of the world, and so on, it took us to reach what the most recent statistics tell us—and this is counting those persons here who are indigenous coming from the first settlers, and those who by law have been given what we all know as Caymanians status, a combination of that—it took us 200 years to arrive at 19,215 people.

Now I say to the people who believe that in five months we can increase the indigenous population by approximately 7%, to think seriously about that situation. And if we take the whole number of 30,500 we are still looking at 4%. It is, in truth and in fact, quite impossible.

We are in a situation where our Government says so much, but yet very little. We do not know what is the actual situation between what the United States is saying or doing. We hear from our Government about the position of the British Government on the matter. But what is the truth of the matter?

Our Government went to Washington and spoke with officials there. We understand that on a daily basis our Governor is in touch with the United Kingdom, and we hear and understand that legally it is possible and, as a last resort—and, certainly, it has to be the least acceptable—the Cuban nationals who are in our country would be forcibly repatriated.

What I believe we need to know and hear, is exactly what the offer made by the United States to the Cayman Islands was—if, indeed, there was one. And, it is my understanding that, yes, there was one. The information available to me is that the United States would consider accepting the Cuban nationals who are here to either Panama or to Guantanamo Bay, but that they would require of the Cayman Islands $10 per day per person and they want that paid one year in advance.

Now, Madam Speaker, we are attempting to balance a budget where—albeit with all the noise that past administrations and all of us like to talk about having all the wealth and riches—we provide a financial environment whereby we understand large sums of money move through here. It blips on a computer screen, or whatever the case may be, but the money that many people mistakenly believe is here is not the case.

The average income of the middle earning person in this country is an average of $1,002 per month. Now when we think that the average apartment here is $650, $700, and $800, where is all the wealth that we are supposed to have as a people? It is not true. But we ourselves perpetuate the story—we are so wealthy, we have so much money. It is not true! I believe the truth needs to be told. We need to tell the Cuban nationals who are in our country the truth about ourselves. We need to let the United States understand that when they say that in the Cayman Islands, there are all these millions and billions going through here every day, it is something on paper. The spin-offs that we get are strictly a fee that is charged for operating a company, or a "B" Class Bank, or a Trust Company here. And so it is not possible for this country to bear the cost indefinitely.

The United Kingdom has been providing materials but they are not providing money. Of course, money is what is needed. Money is what can make the difference, and we do not have that. So, my position to the Government is that it is time that we deal with the truth to all parties. Let the truth be known. Certainly, the United Kingdom should know, but, then again, they are so far removed... how many thousands of miles from here? They have thousands of things to worry about on a daily basis and certainly they have problems to deal with that do not make ours become their greatest priority. But a solution has to be found.

I believe it can be found, but, Madam Speaker, we are at a point where it cannot continue this way indefinitely. This is the biggest liability we have. This is the biggest problem that we have to deal with, and what makes it so difficult is that it is people. We are dealing with people, not machines, not merchandise, not produce. It is people, and it makes it that much more difficult.

Madam Speaker, I do not know what is the perfect solution. It is my understanding that the Cuban nationals who are here would wish to go on to the United States where they have family, some I also understand have some relatives here in some instances, but there is not too much we can do about the Presidential policy in the United States that has brought this situation about, except to negotiate. I believe we have to convince the United States that all the money they claim we have just is not so.

A solution has to be found. The solution does not lie with me, for I am doing the most that I can do—talk about it. speak about it. It is the first time as such that it has ever been spoken about this way in the Legislature. But a solution has to be found.

Madam Speaker, having covered that particular aspect of immigration as it relates to us, the situation of the Cuban nationals, I would like to turn next to the subject of Planning.

The Planning Department has to be one of the departments in Government that impacts the most vitally on the development process in this country. It is the Department, having gone through various changes over the years in terms of people who have filled the post of director and changes on the various boards, that has guided the development of these Islands to where it is today. Although there are many criticisms and many complaints, I think that generally the country has developed with some order and practical being since the time we had our Planning Law. The problem seems to be that the process of getting a consideration or a plan approved (as the case may be) takes unreasonably long—so I have heard and experienced in some instances.

I believe that it is something which can be corrected. If we were to take a plan for example, for a house, and submit it to the Planning Authority, that is but the focal point from their various agencies; Fire, Water, the Water Authority, various authorities have to give their approval to that plan.

I have often wondered if it is not possible that the plan be sent to all the various agencies at one time for their comments to receive an answer about the same time. I was told that it does not happen that way, each one does its own process somewhat individually.

I certainly believe that there is greater efficiency to be gained where it is done as I have suggested it might be done. I think, too, that the Board, for there are two sides to the planning process as is my understanding, looks at the plan generally and approves it to whatever extent and way it does. The technical side of it is dealt with by the various planning persons within the department who check it, approve it, and so on.

I know that the Minister presently involved with Planning has taken some steps to speed up the process. I do not know how well it is working for I have not had cause to deal with the Planning Authority in a long time. Where certain powers were given to the Director that he could act independently, I think perhaps it could, and it should speed up the process. But I do believe this needs to be done, for when plans do not go through quickly it means that the whole process, which might include a person's getting an approval from a bank and the possibility of that person losing that approval if it is not forthcoming within a certain time period affects a person's finances.

Where the Government can make a difference is when the process is monitored carefully and regularly, always with the objective of improving the present situation. How well this is done I do not know, and how well the member of staff are coping with the work load (which I understand is immense), I am not quite certain. I do see that there is an increase and a request for two more posts within the Planning Authority. If these will make a difference, I think, by all means, it should be supported.

There is also money in the Budget for improving the present accommodation for the Planning Department. I am told that needs to be done because there is serious problems with space and this is affecting efficiency. I would wonder, however, if it is not possible to relocate the Planning Department into a building of the Government, or into a building it might rent—I do see money in the Budget for rental as well—where the Department could be more accessible for one thing, by being on the ground level. Right now it is in the Tower Building some floors above ground level. But I think that this is something which needs to be examined and to be kept in focus.

Coming on to the Ministry for Tourism and Environment, is also the subject of environment. And this has come to be a huge department with different and specific functions since the Department of Environment grew out of an amalgamation of the Mosquito Research and Control Unit (MRCU), the Marine Research section and the Sanitation section of Government. At least the Mosquito Research and Control Unit had a Head of Department, a Director (I do not know if that individual is still there), but it was my understanding that when the contract was up the person would then be leaving and the man immediately below would become a section Head and it would no longer be a Head of Department in that position.

Madam Speaker, again this was done for cost efficiency. I trust that this has indeed proven to be the case.

The Sanitation Department is one that is vital to the community, the tourism trade, to hotels and all the other hospitality industries which do exist in this country, to say nothing of individuals' homes.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION—4.30 PM

The Speaker: Honourable Member, it is now 4.30 PM would you be finished shortly?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: No, Madam Speaker. I have much more.

The Speaker: May I ask for the motion for the adjournment, Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning—Leader of Government Business?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I am happy to move the Motion for the adjournment, until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM THURSDAY, 10 NOVEMBER 1994.

THURSDAY
10 NOVEMBER, 1994
10.13 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Member for North Side to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

Suspension of Standing Order 14. The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 14

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to lay on the table of this honourable House a copy of an independent audit of Caribbean Utilities Company which was carried out by this Government.

The Speaker: So ordered. Honourable Minister.

PRESENTATION OF
PAPERS AND REPORTS

REPORT ON CARIBBEAN UTILITIES CO LTD.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

On September 16, 1993, I informed this honourable House by way of a Government statement of this administration's decision to exercise its right for an independent audit of the financial affairs of Caribbean Utilities Company Limited, in accordance with section 7(9) of the Licence Agreement dated 17th January, 1986.

This action was taken as a result of Caribbean Utilities Company Limited, implementation of a 2.5% rate increase effective from August 2, 1993.

CUC has been granted a licence which exclusively authorises it to generate, transmit, distribute and supply commercially electric current for public and private purposes throughout Grand Cayman. The Licence currently used as a basis for adjustments in traffic rates is a 1992 revision of the original licence. This has been signed on behalf of Caribbean Utilities Company Limited, but partly owing to a change in Government in 1992, has not yet been signed by the Governor of the Cayman Islands.

In the event of the company's final rate of return being less or more than 15% per annum, the Licence Agreement provides for CUC, to increase or decrease its rates without Government's approval.

Invitations for an audit assignment to be commissioned by the Cayman Islands Government and related to CUC, were sent to firms in the United Kingdom and the United States, as well as advertised in a local newspaper.

On June 30, 1994, Peat Marwick which is a leading firm on the Island was one of the applicants and was given instructions to carry out the audit on behalf of Government.

The outline of the programme of work was as follows:

1. Review of Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd., external auditors and Cayman Islands Government's files and records to familiarise themselves of the background of the licence conditions.

2. Examination of Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd., accounting records and policies. Interviewing employees of Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd., and the Government to ascertain whether accounting practices had been complied with in conjunction with the licence conditions.

3. Audit test to determine the correctness of figures used in calculation of the rate increase, for example, ascertaining correct figures of total revenue; verification of amounts used in operating expenses; comments on their eligibility and their reasonableness given the nature and size of the business; special emphasis on major costs such as fuel; examination of staff and costs and use of consultants; verification of assets values; reasonableness of depreciation schedules; utilisation of assets on site; physical verification of main assets; write-off and disposal of assets policies; construction work in progress similar to

(c) above; value of allowable inventory; repayments and deposits; allowable cash working capital.

The overall conclusion of Peat Marwick is that, in their opinion, subject to the limitations and work relating to the completeness, accuracy and existence of fixed assets as discussed in section 6 of this report, the final Government return for Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd., for the year ended 30th April, 1993, was correct in all material respects and the firm supports the increase in electricity rates of 2.5%.

It should also be noted the Mr. Peter Thompson, President and Chief Executive Officer of Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd., has advised that the company is preparing, and in the future will maintain, a formal fixed asset register.

The Government wishes to publicly thank Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd., and their independent auditors, Coopers & Lybrand, for their full cooperation in allowing the examination of working papers, accounting records, et cetera, for the audit.

Also, I now take this opportunity to thank Mr. Gordon Bird, Chief Internal Auditor, Finance Department; and Mr. Philip Tatum, Assistant Secretary in my Ministry, for the manner in which they handled this matter.

I am now laying on the Table a copy of this report and I trust that this will put to rest the many different views with regard to the rate charged by Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd., and what Government would do to make sure the people of this country receive the right rate.

The Speaker: Proceeding to Questions. The first question is No. 173, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 173

No. 173: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning to make a statement outlining the steps which Government proposes to take to alleviate the concerns of Taxi Drivers as expressed during their recent demonstration.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The Government will make a statement to this honourable House or to Members if the House is not in session when we have reached an agreement between the parties concerned.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Minister is in a position to say whether the group making the petition to the Government was representative of all the taxi drivers, or was the group representing only a segment of the drivers?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I am sure that the persons who came forward to make their representation were not representing 260 or more taxi drivers. Basically, they were trying to represent the number of taxi drivers who are operating, and who are licensed to operate, from the Port.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 174, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 174

No. 174: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation what programme has been instituted to ensure that Caymanians will comprise a larger portion of the Government's teaching staff.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Government has two initiatives underway to encourage Caymanians to train as teachers. High School graduates can gain experience in the profession by signing on as a teacher's aide for one year prior to taking up formal training.

Under the internship programme, these students and others can gain valuable experience in the schools during the summer vacation until they complete their undergraduate degree.

The other initiative is that the Education Council awards a full scholarship, that is, $12,000 per year (maximum), to those qualified applicants who indicate that teaching is their chosen profession.

In addition, one of the nine strategies developed under the Strategic Plan relates specifically to teaching. It says, "We will ensure the continuous development of all staff, with emphasis on elevating the status of the teaching profession." Action plans which detail how this strategy is to be carried out will shortly be submitted to the Ministry.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wish to ask if the Teachers' Aides programme is continuously throughout the year or if it only operates during a certain portion of the school year?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, it operates from September to July, the full school year.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is the Minister in a position to say how many young Caymanians are abroad on teacher's training?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I can get this and give it to the Member, but I did not come prepared to get into scholarships.

The Speaker: Thank you.
The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Minister could say if any thought has been given, or any action taken with regard to assessing the salary scales of professional teachers with a view to seeing if there are any inadequacies in that area?

The Speaker: Honourable Speaker, I am afraid that is far out of the ambit of the original question.

If there are no further supplementaries, the next question is No. 175, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 175

No. 175: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation if the Cayman Islands Marine Institute is registered as a school under the Education Law.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, the Cayman Islands Marine Institute is registered as a school under the Education Law.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Does that then mean that the members of staff for this institution are all qualified and licensed teachers under the Education Law and Regulations?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Ma'am.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 176, standing in the name of The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 176

No. 176: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Second Official Member for Legal Administration how many licensed attorneys are there in the Cayman Islands with a breakdown by firm, length of practice and nationality.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTIONS NOS. 176 AND 177 STANDING ORDER 23(5)

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Madam Speaker, I am afraid I am going to have to ask for the leave of the House under Standing Order 23(5) to defer the answer to this question and, indeed, to the following question, number 177. I had sincerely hoped to have the answers to both of these questions available to the House at the sitting today, but regrettably, they are not ready. I would ask that both these questions be deferred until later on in this meeting of the House.

The Speaker: The question is that the answers to questions 176 and 177 be deferred until a latter sitting during this meeting.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The questions are accordingly deferred.

AGREED. QUESTIONS NOS. 176 AND 177 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 178, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 178

No. 178: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation what is the total strength of the Airport Security Unit and its general daily deployment.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The total strength of the Airport Security Unit at Owen Roberts International Airport is 23. A rotation of four shifts is provided with an average of five officers on duty during normal operational hours and three officers during the late night shift. This allows for an average daily deployment of 13 officers.

The total strength of the Airport Security Unit at the Gerrard Smith International Airport in Cayman Brac is six, with a daily deployment of three officers.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Minister say if there is a head person, a commander or a chief among the security unit at the Owen Roberts airport?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister say if the number of persons now employed are the same total number at Owen Roberts as when this unit was set up and, if not, what has been the increased difference?

The Speaker: I do not know whether the Honourable Minister could answer that, it all depends on the year when it was set up. This seems to be beyond the scope of providing an answer at this time. If he could provide an answer at a later date, I presume that would be acceptable?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker. I would like to ask a supplementary.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Is the Minister satisfied, or is he finding that the number of persons at the airport in Grand Cayman is sufficient for the amount of security coverage they are required to give?

The Speaker: That is an expression of opinion that is being sought and one would assume that if the Minister was not satisfied he would make representation to Finance Committee for additional staff.

Does the Minister wish to add anything else to that? [pause] If there is no further supplementary, the next question is No. 179, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 179

No. 179: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communication and Works whether there are plans to undertake road repairs in the immediate future in the areas commonly known as the Swamp and Templeton Pine Lake Subdivision.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communication and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: There are some funds for maintenance of roads in the Budget from which the repair of roads in the areas commonly known as the Swamp and Templeton Pine Lake subdivisions will be made. Because of the susceptibility to flooding caused by inadequate fill and a high water table, an effective storm water management plan will have to be devised before any road works can be undertaken. To undertake reconstruction of these roads (which are currently in a poor state of repair) without addressing storm water management, would only exacerbate the situation and result in flooding of homes in these areas.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I wonder if, not misunderstanding the question, the Honourable Minister would be in a position to give a commitment with regard to the time frame in which this might be done?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communication and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Taking into consideration the unforeseen problems which have arisen this year with regard to road works, it would put me in an awful position to commit myself as to how soon I could do it. But I will try, as much as possible, to get it done.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 180, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 180

No. 180: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communication and Works what is Government's present policy in processing applications for street lights.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communication and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Government's current policy for the processing of street lights is the same as has subsisted for the past decade. All applications are channelled through the district representatives who are asked to prioritise their lists. These lists are dealt with by the Ministry and, based upon the availability of funds, instructions are given to Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd., for installation through the Public Works Department.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Thank you, Mr. Minister, for the answer. I wonder if the Honourable Minister could advise this honourable House if at present there is any tremendous backlog in applications for street lights from the various districts?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I would not like to say there is a back log, because we are constantly working on trying to light the entire Island. We have been trying to attend to the areas where we have had crime most noticeably especially here in George Town.

So it is an ongoing arrangement with Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd. I realise that some of the Members in the House have passed on various lists which will be attended to as soon as we can.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 181, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 181

No. 181: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for External and Internal Affairs to state: (a) what is the present average daily cost to the country for upkeep of the Cuban refugees at Tent City; and (b) what has been the total cost since the influx of these people began a few months ago.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 181 Standing Order 23(5)

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, under Standing Order 23(5), I would ask the leave of the House to defer the answering of this question until a later date as the answer is not ready.

The Speaker: The question is that the answer to question 181 be deferred until a later sitting during this meeting. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Question 181 is accordingly deferred.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 181 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for today. Government Business, suspension of Standing Order 14. The Honourable Minister for Education.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 14

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the suspension of Standing Order 14 to allow the debate to continue.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 14 be suspended in order for the debate on the second reading of the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994, to continue.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against, No.

AYES. The Ayes have it. The answering of question 181 is accordingly deferred.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 14 SUSPENDED.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

(Continuation of the Debate thereon)

The Speaker: Debate now continues.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I would like to speak to the matter of Tourism as mentioned in the report on the Budget Address.

Since it can be proven statistically, we are aware that there is a very large increase in tourism arrivals in the Cayman Islands. There is a large number of visitors, and this has been ongoing since 1993, up until this time. There are various reasons for this. The fact that there are many international carriers flying into the Cayman Islands has direct influence on tourism arrivals in that these airlines advertise the routes and instead of people connecting with the smaller carriers that used to fly to the Cayman Islands out of Miami, they are flying directly now from points where the new carriers come from. Of course, a large part of it is as a result of advertising that had been done over the years, and is ongoing.

I take a difference in the view of the Third Elected Member for West Bay when attributes this success—which is short of a miracle, as he stated—to the present Minister of Tourism. I really wonder if one could logically attempt to attribute such praise? Taking into account the Government of the day took office on, or about the 23rd of November 1992, it would surely have been a miracle brought by one person who would have had powers much greater than mortal man to indeed entice the people who have come here during 1993, in such a short time. The advertisers for the Department of Tourism, to the best of my knowledge, continue to be who they were and I dare say, are largely doing what they were doing prior to that. If any claims and praises are due, surely the former Member, Mr. Norman Bodden, should be coming in for 1% or 2% along the way for such achievement.

One of the things that is clearly changing in tourism in this country is, we are not catering exclusively to the upscale type of tourist, as had been done over the years. More and more we see arrivals here by charter or package-tourism. We need to be very mindful that we are not counting numbers to the exclusion of being able to count the money that visitors are spending.

We should not get lost in believing that this Island has grown like some of our larger neighbours. It is limited and the accommodation we offer is limited. If we should double or triple that, it will impact on the infrastructure in the country as it is, indeed, doing.

We could get lost counting numbers when we really have not benefited equally in terms of the money generated. It has usually been the case where we have attempted to attract those types of persons who are in the higher economic brackets, who would spend more. This was noted by a recent letter in the press by Mrs. Lott-McPartland, and I think she put it very well, what have been some of the causes of our recent (over the past two years) success here in the Cayman Islands. I would think that there were about a half a dozen other women in this country who would write letters to the press expressing their views and most of all, actually using their names instead of becoming those faceless entities called "Name Withheld by Request."

When we drive along the Seven-Mile Beach area we see the large area cleared out next to the Governor's residence on which I understand a 300-odd room hotel is to be built. The Third Elected Member for West Bay noted that it is being built on the best piece of beach land in West Bay. I wonder if that is such a very good thing, for that was like the one piece of beach where everyone went and enjoyed themselves, to say nothing of the thousands of trees that gave it a nice shaded condition. Every single one of them has been ripped out of the ground. I hope there was permission for so doing, as I understand that the approval for that particular hotel went through some of the quickest examinations and approval there have ever been in the Planning Board. I guess that points to the fact that it can be done. What we have to find out is what is the motivator for such outstanding performance and apply it full time.

Tourism is labour intensive. If there is going to be a 300/340 (whatever is the correct number) room hotel, the rule of thumb is one employee per room. Of course it is many more than that, for a hotel operation hires a manager right down to the man who cleans the yard, moves the garbage, the laundry—everything. So what we are talking about is increasing the number of people in this country automatically when that hotel is built. Is that such a good thing? I wonder.

I am by no means against progress, but, certainly, one has to understand that when hotels of that size are built, particularly in the western peninsula, it means the statistics (which were recently released), will surely increase.

It comes back to the question that needs to be asked: Who is the Cayman Islands developing for? Is it developing for its own people? How could that be when allegedly just about all of our people who are willing and able to work have employment? Does any country in the world strive to create jobs within its borders over and above what it needs to employ all its employable citizens? Maybe we will find some sweeping answers for that in the process of things coming from the Government.

The Tourism scene has dramatically changed life in the Cayman Islands in every which way. It has brought improvements because brought money. As a result there have been development in the restaurant industry... although none of us eat tourism, we eat the food which is sold in the restaurant which comes about as a result of tourism. [Members' laughter] Tourism hardly pays the bills for people, but it offers employment so that people can work—there is a difference to my mind. But it has changed life here and affected it so much that we would wonder what part of the deep south some of our own people are from when they speak, because it even causes us to adopt a new accent. [Members' laughter] So, it has had its effect. I think it was ably pointed out this year, if I remember correctly, by Jacques Cousteau when he came to the Island and clearly stated as an authority some of the thoughts I am putting forth at this time.

I believe that a moratorium should have continued on the western peninsula of this Island as was sensibly done by the last Government, the last Minister for Tourism, so that investors who want to invest in hotels are encouraged to invest in the eastern districts of this Island, where surveys have shown the largest numbers of those who are unemployed are found. It would offer opportunity to some of the older persons in these districts who, for one reason or another, are not going to get in a car and drive to West Bay beach to work in the hotels; it would have also allowed, as was done by the last Minister for Tourism, development in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman; and, it has been dealt with as seriously as having no customs duty charged on material coming in to build hotels in the eastern district and Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. That has changed now and we see the trend continues in West Bay.

Advice that was given in the Tourism Plan (which has been suffering from two years of consideration by the present Government), is that the Island should look to upgrading its standards, to creating standards, making the product as attractive as possible, and going for high quality and high service. I sure subscribe to those things. We find numbers on paper and it gives those concerned with its efforts an opportunity to say, "Look at the numbers." But, looking at the effect and the result is a different thing.

As has been recommended through a study, I believe we need to look at the improvement of the standards and the property; the improvement of the quality of service through properly trained people within the industry and give a breather to our people catching up and being able to find employment there, instead of simply finding in most of these properties nationalities from every part of the globe except our own. I do not buy the fact that Caymanians are not naturally inclined towards service.

Labour is one of the areas where there is always the greatest opportunity for complaint. The Labour Office, with extremely limited staff, is doing a good job, although I hear scores of complaints from persons in my district about inadequacies and what it is not doing. I honestly believe that those officers (and I know several of them) do their utmost to do what is right. However, there are areas which have been pointed out where changes need to be made in the legislation to give greater force to causing certain conditions to come about, and these have not yet come to the Legislative Assembly.

I think the Labour Office needs to be expanded in its function. It needs to become a place that deals with manpower resources for this Island with all the natural statistical data, that it would come up with.

In my opinion, more persons are needed within that department; persons who should all have an opportunity at some time to do certain studies in labour management, industrial relations and personnel management. One cannot take a greenhorn and put him in such a position and hope that he will function. One has to select persons who have the ability and who would have the opportunity of studying to learn more about it.

I do not believe there is the political will in place to support some of the tougher actions that the Labour Office has to take. Labour relationships in any country are not easy to deal with—certainly, it is not that way here in Cayman. But I think when dealing with matters which arise, and the problems in labour, it should be dealt with objectively, with an arm's length distance between the Labour Officers who are supposed to do so, and the employers or employees. It is not the best practice to solve labour disputes in the hospitality industry or elsewhere, through lunch with management and a big wave through the disgruntled employees when those individuals who presume to do so are leaving.

This department needs great support for it to function properly because the number it is dealing with is large and ever growing. Naturally, where there is a situation with such a large number of non-Caymanians, and Caymanians in the work force, there will be difficulties and conflicts. They need to be resolved in a better fashion, with less political interference and more political will to support the efforts of the department.

The Social Services Department is one that is vast in terms of the needs it is supposed to meet. I think it has come under intense pressure at this time as it also has to deal with the situation created by the Cuban refugees in the Cayman Islands. It deals with a very wide spectrum of services.

What I wonder is how every few weeks there is some new thing that is set up and put in place to give to those persons who are getting out there in the public and talking about it, the opportunity to be heard. Where is the time coming from to actually get something done? Is it simply this constant evolution of new things that are to be attended to in some particular manner?

I believe what needs to be done is to give the staff in that office the number [of officers] it needs and let them get on with the job, give them the opportunity to make the hard decisions and to say "no", when it is necessary and to leave it to Social Services to determine by its means test where the assistance will be given.

I am aware that there are many instances where persons who have been receiving assistance—and I can think of one where a lady called me (she is 80 and her son is 64 with both legs gone) and they were getting about $100. There was a query as to whether they would still need this because the Government needed the money. I just want to make this statement clear for the Government to know that if we can provide to the extent that we are doing for the Cuban refugees in this country—every single need of theirs—without question as to the cost (and that cost is undoubtedly mounting), make sure that nothing less is offered to the needy of these Islands. Do not think about taking away from those persons a measly $50 a month, or $25, $75, $100 per month, when that type of money is being spent on a daily basis on the maintenance of the Cuban refugees here.

I trust that the situation has been resolved, where Cayman Brac and Little Cayman are concerned, as to what is the organisational structure of Social Services. There is a Head here in Grand Cayman and the persons who are appointed in the Social Services in Cayman Brac are the representatives of the Director here. The decisions made by the officers there are the final decisions. I do not want to hear the allegations of the Minister of Social Services about me knowing that some civil servants out there are blocking the efforts of Social Service—because I do not know of any such instances. If that is happening by any officer in any department of Government, if I were the manager or the Principal Secretary or Minister of Government, I would know what to do about it because my approach to that type of thing is very straightforward and it is what proper management would demand. So, I leave that with the Minister for Social Services to deal with it and those are the persons who are, indeed, involved.

The Government needs to look at creating some sort of fund, or better yet, we need a programme or a system of social security in this country and we need it right now. It cannot go on indefinitely with the Government attempting to give this person $10 or $15, and the next one $25, and so on. It is not the right way. We need a system of social security. It is a fundamental right, written down in International Law and subscribed to by England as well, which is the administrative authority for the Cayman Islands.

If the Minister for Social Services wants to do something dramatic, I would say to him, See about a proper social security system. And the millions of dollars going into a stadium and sports this, and sports that, let it go into creating a fund to help the people of this country. All of the people can be helped that way, including the youth.

One of the things that creates a drawback for many Caymanians is that we do not have among us a large enough number educated in the various areas where educated persons are needed. To my mind, education is what should be first and foremost in any country, immediately followed, or working hand-in-hand with proper health services. Education (good education) makes any nation a better nation, for it trains the minds of people. Trained minds are known to act, behave, discern better than those who are uneducated. We have many living examples of it in this country—in high places and elsewhere. Education needs to be one of the greatest priorities in this country.

I am pleased to know that although the Minister for Education and the National Team as a whole found that the Caribbean Examination was not good for this country, and that it could only cater to 30% of the student population that the Caymanian children have proven that theory utterly wrong. I salute the teachers who took up the challenge to prove otherwise, and the children who showed that not only their elders in this House have the ability to learn; that there is no brain deterioration. They have done remarkably well taking the examination for the first time with some of the best results in the region.

I say that one of the reasons is that the syllabus used in each of the subject areas of the Caribbean Examination has meaning to the children of this country like no examination has before; except, perhaps, that one we were familiar with many years ago, the Jamaica Local Examination.

So, according to what I see here in the Budget, someone is to be appointed to become the Registrar for the CXE examination in the Cayman Islands. I hope that does not mean registering it out of existence as I think was the plan, to strategically plan it out of existence.

I say to this Government, Use the Comprehensive Education Plan that was done by eight of the best educators in the region and some of the best in the world. If they want to toss in persons from the European side, the man who headed the team is a UNESCO advisor and is also on the British Council of Education in England. Use that plan and get on with the job, instead of playing around not wanting children to study for examinations which are good and meaningful for them.

Place money into the George Hicks School to create a second high school, as the plan called for, and stop taking the money that should go for that and making sure that private schools are in a position to compete with the public schools using public money.

There have always been public schools and private schools in this country, and long may they be. But, irrespective of what the Minister for Education says, or any of his supporters or colleagues, that the Government must subsidise education because education is compulsory in the Cayman Islands, and if the private schools did not provide that education, Government would have to provide it. That is the same as saying that insuring one's car is comprehensive and if the car owner decides that he is not going to pay the premium the Government will pay.

Government has its obligation under law. Government should see to its obligation and the work on the schools, for example the Red Bay School; the George Hicks School, et cetera. That should have been done last year. It is only just now beginning to get underway according to the estimates. This Government needs to stop playing with the lives of the future of this country.

We have to allocate money for training of our teachers. It is one of the most serious areas of need in this country. Caymanian people need to be encouraged to enter the field of teaching. I think, generally speaking, the salary is attractive and there is some fulfilment in it. There needs to be an all-out effort to get people to enter the teaching profession.

I am glad to see that there is some money allocated for scholarships and I trust that every penny of it will be used. I would be happy to see the Minister come to Finance Committee asking for more money for scholarships for Caymanian children instead of coming to Finance Committee asking for money for other things.

Civil Aviation is an area that has been associated with some of the largest expenses in this country, if we bring Cayman Airways into the ambit of civil aviation. I think it is correct and I think we should. I do not quite understand aviation because I see in the Estimates where the Civil Aviation Department is expected to earn $11 million this coming year when this has not been the case in previous years. Indeed, Government has had to subsidise this through loans and guarantees—Government giving guarantees for monies to be borrowed for this particular department.

I, therefore, do not understand where the large sums of money will come from where this particular department is concerned. Where it will earn that kind of money I really do not know.

Another thing that I seriously wonder about is, we are giving $4 million in subsidy to Cayman Airways and, in addition to that, we see an amount in Table 2(b) of $2,176,590 as money for recapitalisation. Only last meeting the Minister for Aviation was here saying how Cayman Airways showed a profit and was making money. Therefore, I have to wonder: Why is it necessary to further recapitalise Cayman Airways at this time?

There is surely no doubt in my mind that if the last Minister for Tourism and Aviation had had close to $30 million available to him and the personnel then; I believe there may have been many more improvements to be seen in Cayman Airways. But that did not happen and Cayman Airways did not succeed to the extent that it could have. Now, when we hear that it is supposedly making money, we find a situation where it is receiving $2 million more to recapitalise and an additional $4 million in the normal subsidy—$6 million altogether.

Madam Speaker, at this time I would like to comment on the subject of health. Here I want to say without hesitation that I think one of the worst things that has ever happened in the history of this country is the fact that the people were denied the right to have a new medical facility.

The situation with health services in this country is lamentable and there is an ever ongoing demand for improvements in service in this area. There is demand now—numbers and diseases to deal with like never before in many instances. There are conditions which require medical assistance that were not there before. And look at what we have to deal with in terms of our antiquated, little hospital that is about 50 years behind what we actually need. This country has lost $4,508,645—no hospital. It will eventually have to be paid in relation to the stopping of the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital. But our medical services are lamentably inadequate.

When I say that, I want to make it absolutely clear that I am talking about the physical facility and the equipment to do the job. I marvel at how the doctors and the nurses function so well in that hospital and in that emergency area. In recent times I have had occasion to go there daytime and night-time; there is an ever ongoing stream of people who go to Emergency (or casualty department as they used to call it). I have seen people from all walks of life there—lawyers, people who I know work in the banking sector, people who have money that they could go to private practitioners. I see them at that hospital. So the argument that some people prefer to go to the private practitioners, I agree with, but the government health service is absolutely 100% necessary.

It is a tragedy which has occurred by us not having a proper medical facility. It is therefore, incumbent on this Government to change that situation. Changing it cannot be through sitting down and talking about it for two years through strategic planning. It cannot be sensible to attempt to build on that old compound, as it has proven not to be the thing to do.

There will be additional cost to knock down what is now called the MRCU (Mosquito Research and Control Unit) and will add to the $4 million; that we know (and in these Estimates we see that in 1996, $6 million is to be spent). The reckless design of this Government, as far as the Health Services is concerned, is costing this country in every way—human suffering and money.

As for the stories told in this House about no instances where people need beds and so on, they can always get them when they are needed, that is untrue. It is not so. I remember going to the Casualty Department a few weeks ago and a man coming in bent over in pain saying that he was supposed to have hernia surgery and he was told there were no beds. I said, "That cannot be true; you know what the former Minister, the destroyer of health services, said." The man said, "It is not true. Gilbert, look here [at the bulge in his belly.]" Too much of that is happening. This Government is talking nonsense about they are going to have this and what they are going to do in the next year and when people need a hospital."

There is only one sensible place to put the hospital and that is where it was designed to go, which has now become a refugee camp. Something has got to be done, and done fast. I ask: Where is this Master Facilities Plan for the hospital? Why is it not being made known? Is it because the numbers for doing that in that place are so large that it is going to be an embarrassment? I am told that is what it is.

We must not forget that for $11.7 million, the almost completed physical structure of the Dr. Hortor Hospital would have been completed. For $16 million it would have been equipped. Let us count the numbers when this exercise is over. It will frighten everyone, I hope. It will shock the population of this country into understanding what happened to them when they elected a Government which really did promise to stop most things. And, indeed, they did—but how? Negativism affects their lives!

We have another loss, and that is in the Drug Rehabilitation effort. There are those persons in this House, and here prior, who said in every which way, shape, and form, that they support a drug rehabilitation institution in this country because we need it so badly. I agree, we need it extremely badly. It seems like the numbers are growing for those persons who are getting whacked-out on drugs, and conditions are changing so dramatically. Where we had one policeman who was all out to at least stem some of the usage, we hear now that he is leaving. So the druggies have won again!

In the meantime, victims of drug abuse are being piled up in this country. So many of them are young and have not even seen life yet. And, regrettably, so many older ones, who we figure know better, are also falling. So it is one thing wasting $600,000 to buy the Hawley Estate, but having now bought it, one would believe that some effort would be made to do something about the buildings that are now falling into disrepair to wood lice, so that they can be used. The priorities of this Government are wrong.

If the Government is impotent to do what it should do, at least they could use money (and, surely, I would support it) to assist the church group associated with the Canaan Land effort. Many, if not most, drug rehabilitation programmes always have some church-related side to them in any event. These people, on their own, have gone out and gotten a structure underway, begging funds and so on. Help them, then. Work out a mutual programme between them and Government, but something needs to be done.

It does no good to strategically talk about it because if strategic planning was, indeed, the thing it is supposed to be, then it would be clear that it makes sense to do something to help the situation now.

The Speaker: Would this be a convenient time to take a suspension?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.33 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.02 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, when we took the suspension I was speaking on health services and drug rehabilitation. I dare say, that at some point the Government will get up and respond to what I have said. I suspect that response would be: "Oh, he was against building the hospital too." I would just like to take a few seconds to make clear what factually happened in that situation, that is, that I (in association then with the so-called Backbench) argued that we could not afford a hospital at that time.

I personally felt that it was possible to have built it on the present site, using steel frame, block structure. I believed that we should have let the health insurance, which was being brought by the then Minister, get into play before we entered into that situation that we could clearly show we could pay for it. I was also gravely misled into believing that one could not adequately engineer a hospital into an area that was originally swampy.

Since that time I have looked at Governor's Sound, Governor's Harbour, the place behind the 19-hole Hyatt, the whole lot, and I see that I was mistaken. That is not the real point I wish to make. The point I wish to make is that I stood and stated my position in this House but when, by majority, that motion passed, I saw that as the will of the people, the will of the majority.

When the Minister (who is now Minister for Social Services and who destroyed the opportunity for this country to have a hospital) wanted the House to breach the contract that was in place for that hospital, for this Honourable Legislature to withdraw, in effect, the guarantee, I was the first one to rise and say; "Not me." That is on the record. That was the finding of the Commissioner and I want that to stand for I may err (I am not perfect), but, surely, when I see the process taking place, I am also able to stand and support that system, which I certainly did.

I know now that it cannot be a question of the hospital being wrongly located, for at no time was it designed to have 1,000 patients and I have not heard of any of the present 'patients' (if I may so term them) having gotten drowned, or anything else, there; it has held up under the winds and the rains that we have had here in recent times.

So, I make clear to this Honourable House that that is now my clear understanding of the situation and I stand where I stood in not wishing Government for the first time in its history to withdraw its guarantee, to stop something such as this hospital, which has been done.

As I think of this and I look at the Estimates here, I do not see any figures at all for the 1993 medical services when it was the Health Services Authority. I wonder where the accounts for the Health Services Authority are? My information is that those accounts looked so good that that is one of the reasons why they have not made it to the light of day. It would prove that even with less than a year of operation, that authority was functioning in a way that the Department of Health now should be functioning. I wonder where those accounts are, and I wonder where the numbers on the Master Health Care Facility are. Where are the drawings, and where are the numbers? I hear it is over $30 million. Let the people know those things.

Surely, the former Minister for Health might now want to be remembered as being the Minister for Sports but I trust that the present Minister for Health will be imbued somewhere along the line to make it clear to all of his colleagues—because I imagine he knows the problems that are there—he is going to act, and act seriously and swiftly to change the situation now and not be led down any garden path by those who came before him and left him the destroyed situation.

Madam Speaker, sport is one thing; it is normally for healthy people, except for what exercise unhealthy people might have to do to regain their health. But, surely, the need for health and for education far outweighs immense expenditure for building effigies (monuments) to one's self.

Everyone wants a stadium. But the question is: Do we need one? I believe that we have adequate large-seating capability in West Bay, at the Ed Bush Sports Centre, and at the Middle School facility. I really do not see this country needing a stadium for 15,000 people. I do not really think that anyone would expect the whole population of Cayman to go to watch any particular game.

We have proper playing-fields with some seating capacity (bleachers) in each district for the youth to use for sports. If we have proper sports' programmes and a coordinator who will see that is happening, that is what we need at this present time.

I wish to speak on the matter of taxes. The National Team government went from one end of this Island to the other and to all of these Islands talking about the last Government and the fact that it supposedly taxed them so very much—taxes this, and taxes that. Well, I can truthfully say this about the last Government: they were the boldest and most hard-nosed when it came to a situation where they believed they needed to raise revenue, and they brought it in this House as a money bill and they took the beatings and the kicking and the pounding and accusations and everything that the then Backbenchers laid on them—day after day they got it.

What is true is that the last tax package of $10 million (passed in 1992) went to raise revenue that this present Government is presently using. This Government said that for one thing it was going to take 25 cents off on duty for diesel. Where is it? Why do they not do it? They said they were looking at alcohol and tobacco and getting all sorts of representation from the hospitality industry with a view towards reducing it. Where is the reduction? The truth is, they cannot—where are they going to get the revenue? The last Government had the guts to come here and take the beating for doing it and they are now

They talk about taxes; last year there were taxes. How did that come about? Behind closed doors in Executive Council the government of the day brought taxes on the country in work permits. When you learned about it was when you went to pay. That is how they did taxes. And on taxes, Madam Speaker, I cannot fail to remind this House that the Financial Secretary, speaking on behalf of the elected Government, says that they wish to bring tax enhancements. But we know what has happened until now—we have not seen any tax bill. We are in effect being asked to approve these estimates here, which have built into them $4.6 million in taxes and we do not know what those taxes are to be. Until this moment in time, we do not have the ability to see the tax bill that we can debate here in this House.

That is one of the reasons, Madam Speaker, I will not be voting for these Estimates. It will pass, but I will not be voting for it, for I believe that as a representative of the people I have the right to see any tax measures. In fact, it is the elected representatives of the people who have the right to bring about taxes—all of the elected representatives, not just the five on Executive Council. So I want to know where the $4.6 million in taxes is supposed to come from and whether this Government is going to be making those taxes again in Executive Council and imposing them on the country. They need to tell this country because one thing with taxes, all of us feel the effects of those.

Where are the taxes going to be placed? Is it another closed door session where it will come out that such and such has been increased in taxes? Where is the bill to show this situation? It is not here.

As we are talking about Government finances, it also leads me to refer back briefly to the situation relating to Civil Servants where there is going to be an increase in contributions for their pensions.

Prior to the time of Mr. Ezzard Miller, the former Minister for Health, who had a study done and found out what it would really cost to fund it, and the Government of which he was a part increased the tax to pay an increase in the Civil Service, they in effect paid the Civil Service 4% that they took back. It was a known quantity.

Up until now, civil servants pay 4% deducted from salary and Government matches it with 4%. Now, the Government says that it is going to increase the amount that civil servants pay by 5% and the Government is going to increase its payments to 6%. There is one thing that I wish to point out about this little exercise, that is, civil servants are going to lose 1% of their salary. I do not know whether they were consulted on this. I do not know what their Association said or whatever, but that is a fact. They will lose 1% of their salary.

What else I wonder about at this time, is the fact that there was an actuarial assessment. Again, the former Minister, Mr. Ezzard Miller, got them down here and he made sure that every single one in this House and elsewhere got copies of the actuarial study that was done to determine if there should be an increase in these taxes and these revenues here. We have not seen it.

In fact, how far under-funded is the pension of civil servants? We should see that study, we should know who did it. Were tenders invited? That thing that the National Team Government talks so much about—'tendering to the private sector' and all the rest of it—was it tendered? If it was, we have not heard anything about it. Who did it? How did they arrive at it? Should the public not see this to know? Because it is the public who is affected: it is the public's money.

Civil Servants should be aware that prior to these times nothing was deducted from their salaries. This is something the public needs to know and should know. For whatever help it may be, I raise these points at this time.

Taxation is on its way—$4.6 million worth of it and we do not know where it is going to be applied or how it is to be applied. That is the way taxes are applied by the Government of the day. So, when they begin to rail and talk about the taxes of the other Government, that is somewhat of a joke. Everybody was aware. Everybody paid, and the people are still waiting for tax discounts that they were supposedly going to deliver when they were elected.

The truth is, the National Team Government could not be spending the way they are if they did not have the benefit of those taxes from alcohol, tobacco, gasoline and diesel. They certainly could not have the benefit without those.

When it comes to their accounting and what they say and what is fact, there is considerable discrepancy because I am sure that all Members of this House must remember the claim that the country was broke. The country had no money but the first thing they could do in 1993 was to take $8 million out of nothing in Treasury. It is remarkable—eight million dollars from nothing. It was not true. They took it out of the almost $11 million that was left in reserves by the last Government.

Time never stops running and I have a few other remarks I wish to make. I wish to turn briefly to the Capital side of things.

I see that in the total for the coming year there is to be expended $2,880,000. Within this amount is the construction of the Harquail by-pass road. Now, I do not for one minute believe that any road to by-pass Harquail leading to the Airport can be built for $560,000. That is simply money that was put there and we will again hear, unlike what the Government said it would do, that we have to approve supplementary money for them to spend.

In the Elected Government's opening policy on finances, as presented in their behalf by the Financial Secretary in 1993, they said: "The Government has observed that one of the main causes, if, indeed, not the main cause, has been the too frequent use of Supplementary Appropriations over the past three years."

Talking about the last Government, it says in another part: "However, while supplementary appropriations are a necessary backup mechanism, and may be inevitable in many cases, reliance on, and too fre- quent a use of this mechanism undermines the discipline necessary to restore budgetary balance and fiscal stability. To make this point more strongly, Madam Speaker, reliance on supplementary appropriations not only tends to encourage fiscal indiscipline in planning and preparing budgetary submissions, but together with too frequent a use of supplementary appropriations, these practices must be considered 'concealed time bombs' that threaten restoration of budgetary balance and ultimately fiscal stability."

Well, Madam Speaker, those time bombs have been exploding since 1993. They exploded this year too, like $6 million worth of it. Those time bombs have gone off. One may attempt to create an impression that the electorate, or the business of facts and running Government is very different indeed. I think this year there has been nearly $12 million in supplementary appropriation we had twice.

This is an exercise where this little amount is put in to cook that little figure there to make it appear that is all it is. It is not. Maybe it is $2 million. Why not cost it and why not put it in? It would not make the estimates look good. While a by-pass road is being built for the West Bay traffic congestion, traffic congestion is being set up for everyone who lives east of Jose's Esso—children of a lesser God.

Beyond doubt, the Minister for Tourism said that road would be closed, immediately following the Minister for Education who said it would not be closed. No decision was taken to close it. The Minister for roads said nothing about it.

Mr. Roy Bodden: [laughter]

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Now, we hear from the Minister for Education that, indeed, the road is going to be closed and a $1.5 million job it is.

That road is not going to help traffic from the east. It is going to back up that 7.30 traffic which now backs up to Savannah. It is going to back it up to Breakers and further on. Who would want to drive down Smith Road with the 21,000 cars moving on Smith Road that were not there before to turn around and drive back east to the airport gate to turn around and drive back west to go to meet the stop light by Graham's Esso?

It is a disaster. They should have extended that runway into the North Sound. That $2 million or $3 million should have gone to extend it into the North Sound.

What is certain is that no one is going to escape hearing about it. The first day that road is closed and the people from the eastern districts are coming west in this country to reach George Town they are going to remember, indeed.

I wonder if the plane flies over a particular section of road, if that road becomes the subject for the Minister for Education? I really do not believe so. That is the subject for the Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works—inescapably, unless the Governor reassigns it. That is what is happening in the eastern districts versus the by-pass road at the Harquail Theatre.

The other thing that I notice in this section of the Estimates is that there are two sections to this construction of roads. For on the construction of roads from local loans, we see number 8.10, construction of driveways in West Bay—which we will hear more about in due course—and construction of roads in private subdivisions in West Bay. That is shown here as revised amounts in 1994. If revised means changed, then that would be correct because no such funds were earmarked in the 1994 Budget. But, strange enough, there is nothing in these areas that is shown going on into 1995.

Now, I see also under this section, on page 375, that job being "1405 Plan and design new private access drives and roads in other districts." I wish to point out that I do not wish to be any party to any situation where the Government is going to attempt to allocate public funds for private access or private driveways in my district. If there are roads which need to be paved, widened and straightened—and there are those—if they are gazetted in the proper fashion, fine. But, I will not become a party to any $140,000 exercise for private driveways in other districts.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, that comes under anticipation. I think there is a matter coming up about that later on and you would have to refrain from debating that.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: No, Madam Speaker, I may have led the Chair to believe that, but I was referring to page 375, which has this amount for Planning and Design—new private access drives and roads in other district—an amount of $140,000.

I was simply commenting that I wish to be no part of this part of the Budget.

The Speaker: All right. Thank you.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The other thing that I noticed in this construction of roads is that there are block amounts for West Bay, $400,000; for East End, $400,000; George Town, $400,000; Bodden Town, $400,000; construction and repairs to various roads up in North Side, $400,000; Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, $320,000. The difficulty that I have with that is that if these amounts are simply left as block amounts and no specific road works are assigned for the money presented therein, then it means that someone in the Government Executive will determine how and where and which roads these are. That cannot be correct procedure, and it has never been that way. When the estimates come they can be clearly identified—10 roads in North Side, 10 in Cayman Brac, 40 in George Town, or whatever the case may be. So we are voting monies, as required under the Finance and Audit Law specific to certain undertakings.

This is a brand new situation here. So, again, I do not want to be any part of what is coming in as apparently some new deal as best as I can tell.

As one looks in these estimates, one can easily see that pieces exist in one place and pieces in another. I wonder why. Purchase of lands: I see in the revised 1994, there is $200,000 from local loans. Which land does this refer to? Is it the purchase of lands for the corridor that is supposed to go down at the Harquail Centre? I look and I see Sports Centres and Parks. What was approved in 1994 was $712,000 and that was changed to $2.4 million in 1994.

What is so alarming about this is that we are talking here about money. When it comes down to things like purchase of land, we are well aware of the situation in that regard—where sports and parks are concerned.

The most outstanding example at this time that should lead all Members of this House to caution is in another section of the Estimates page 359 showing the approved amount of $800,000 for the purchase of lands. It was revised to $3,043,150 and it is estimated for this year $1 million.

I think it is prudent for all Members of this House to be aware of how things are placed in the Estimates and to wonder why. Seek explanations in Finance Committee. I trust I will not run into any road blocks there because the Minister will say that he has said enough about a particular thing that I, as a rightful Member do not have the right to call for any documentation, that the House at large can be privy to.

The example that I refer to is this situation at Spotts, where a sports facility, a stadium or centre, whatever it is called (it changes from time to time depending upon what is being said when and where). In that instance there, something seems to have gone seriously wrong in terms of value for money. It is a fact that one parcel there in that area, parcel 25B/494, was advertised for 476 days in the Cayman Islands Real Estate Brokers Listings and it was not sold. It was listed as 27 acres for $315,000.

From October, Parcel 25B/431, directly across, was listed by Cambridge Real Estate for $55,000, being 5.1 acres. Grand Cayman Golf Resorts was selling parcel 25B/469 for $75,000, which worked out to $8,999.50 per acre. Parcel 25B/495 was selling for $50,000, which showed a value of $6,925 per acre, for a total of $125,000.

Now, Government agreed to purchase these parcels in June 1994 for $584,350, when collectively it was being offered for $125,000. That is 4.67 times higher than the price I quoted previously.

Crighton properties registered the property (25B/497) on June 20, 1994, for US$140,000. On the same day it was sold to Government for $880,850. That is approximately 7.67 times higher.

What I just said happens to be the painful facts. Anyone who chooses to go to the Land Registry, unless the records have been changed, for whatever reason (and I suspect not), it is all available to be seen. The other data is also available in the CIREBA Land Listing Records.

I do not blame people when they can sell something for one million, two million, or three million, and it is only worth one hundred thousand—that is the way free enterprise goes, sell it for as much as you can get. I wonder what the situation is with this particular situation in the purchase of this land. As I said, in the Estimates it shows that $800,000 was approved, the revised was $3 million and the estimate for this year is $1 million, plus there is $200,000 shown in another section to come from local loans.

In the broadest sense, we are all Government here in that we are elected representatives of the people and we are dealing with the finances of the country. All does not appear to be well.

There has been money provided for capital works for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I am happy to see that. I have not been privileged to know what the intention is with these block amounts, as there is no indication here. What I would say, if, indeed, $320,000 is spent in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, is that it will have a kind of effect in that small community that maybe $800,000 would in Grand Cayman. It would mean some business in terms of material sales and certainly it would provide some employment for the labour force there.

I hope that it does come about and I trust that the Government might condescend, even if it is by the furthest stretch of the imagination, to ask me, or at least my colleague, if he has any ideas about which roads might be the greatest priority.

Madam Speaker, to support what I said earlier in reference to Health Care Facilities, according to the Estimate in the coming year the Government proposes improvements at George Town Hospital to a total of $1,257,349; in 1996 $6,075,751. Again, what these improvements are we have not been privileged to. I contend that we should be. If not me, take it to the television station and let the people of the country see it then. But we should know. The Government should stop holding this Master Facilities Plan we hear about and let the people know what the numbers are and what it is supposed to be.

In coming to the end of my remarks, I see much in this Budget that we need to concern ourselves with. Of course, among those things are matters that I have raised: the question of the purchase of land; the question of roads where almost $3 million are applied; the fact that we do not know where these roads are; the fact that according to the explanatory notes here, monies may be allocated to purposes which have never been Government's policy—the design and planning of private driveways. I do not understand that at all.

On that principle I simply make the point: Were it possible that the Government, any government, could provide the money to fix the driveways of private homes, how wonderful it would be. But it cannot. . . . and from the time the Government does one, two, half a dozen, 15, 41...

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: [interjecting] You should know because you got more than anybody else. Or have you forgotten?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I do not know what the Minister is talking about, but I am sure he does and he will tell us when he gets up to speak.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Oh yes.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: The basic principle is that if it is done for some, then every citizen of this country has the same unquestionable right to expect it to be done for them.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: It will be done for them.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: This Budget, as it stands, increases taxes to $4.6 million, which we do not know about. It increases the public debt this year to $54.6 million. In 1992 it was $40.8 million which is a tremendous increase over that period of time.

This Budget sees the reduction of the National Reserves by almost 75% during the same period and Cayman Airways continues to take money—$2 million-odd more recapitalisation, $4 million-odd more as subsidy and there still seems to be considerable uncertainty about its future.

Civil Servants will be losing 1% of their salary that they were not losing before, and there are many areas here in these Estimates that are open to question. I trust some answers will be forthcoming, but as it presently stands I would not support these particular estimates as I see them and understand them to be. I will have an opportunity in the Finance Committee to vote by subhead where I can support or not support.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will now be suspended until 2.30 PM.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.52 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.32 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Debate continues on the Appropriation Bill. The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would first like to welcome the Honourable Chief Secretary, our Honourable First Official Member, to this Honourable House, and to pledge to him support and assistance as he sits in this House as well as in the Executive Council and Government. It is very good to have a very capable person, again, in that position.

The Budget presented by the Honourable Third Official Member, our Financial Secretary, is indeed an extremely good Budget. I would like to congratulate him and his staff for producing this Budget. It is so good that it has baffled the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman to such an extent that in his debate he started to use the words "the apparent position", or the "alleged position", because if you look at the Budget, the true position is very clearly set out.

This is the first time in many, many years that this country has seen a Budget that is balanced. That is very clearly shown where you have a situation that until the Budget last year was not existent for many years before. The recurrent expenditure when deducted from the recurrent revenue shows a current surplus of $13,364,000 (table 2(b)). This was elaborated on in the Budget Address.

This is a very good position because there is sufficient revenue on the recurrent side to produce $13 million which can be used in relation to capital expenditure. I am certain that that is the largest current surplus that this country has seen with the exception of one year when I was in Government previously.

What is important is simply this: It is the equivalent of a person receiving a certain amount of income and having a surplus left. In other words, spending much less than what they are making so that they have money to set aside to use for capital purposes, such as to buy a house or office or that sort of thing. It is very different from what we saw in the immediate past, where all of the capital expenditure in the country was borrowed. In other words, we are living within our means. This is something that did not happen under the previous two governments.

The small amount of borrowings that are in here are brought forward from loans that were approved and committed for 1994 which cannot be spent. In fact, some of that relates to two of the school buildings that will only be partially finished this year.

So, the Budget is a very prudent Budget; it is one in which Government is living within its means; and it is one which has to be looked at by people in the financial sector as being a total turn around for the economy of this country.

It is not that this Government cannot borrow money if it wishes to. When we came in two years ago, the Government could not borrow money because nobody will lend money to a person, or a government, who is squandering and going over its budget and wasting money. That is different this time—we have a surplus for the second year running, and that surplus covers a very substantial part of our capital. It is like building a house out of the money you are making in your salary, rather than borrowing it over a period of time, and $13.364 million is coming out of the recurrent revenue as a surplus, and will be going into capital works, which are assets that the country will own. That is what baffles the Opposition to this Budget.

But, as we know, their duty is to try to put things into the worst light. In this instance we heard statements like the "apparent" position, whereas if we look and see what the true position is, the Budget itself is an extremely good one.

We have taken this country from a stage of economic depression, from a stage of economic recession, back into an economic boom. With this Budget the country is now poised to go into very good financial times. This is what the people of this country want to see. They want to see a Government that manages and lives within its means. The means are the means of the people; when it is squandered and wasted, then it is the people who suffer as a result.

The containment of expenditure is an important aspect. Indeed, it is more important, perhaps, than increasing the revenue. In these areas we have been very successful in so doing.

What has contributed to that success has been the ability and, more importantly, the discipline in the Legislature itself—the National Team seeing that the country's finances are properly run. It is well known that where a country borrows, and borrows, and borrows... and, Madam Speaker, we have about $140 million of debt that we are just now beginning to repay that this Government did not borrow. The heavy payments that we are now making are also shown on table 2(b)) of the Statutory Expenditure ($15.2 million) of which approximately $12 million plus is on the repayment of loans from the past.

Because of the inability and the lack of living within one's means and the squandering of the public's money, we now have these massive loans. I stress once again that this Budget is going forward and the small amount of loans shown for this year are actually a carry-over of some projects from the previous year. I would like to come back to that in more detail, but I would like to now go on to correct a half-truth that was put forward just a few hours ago by The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. The Member responsible for this will further elaborate, I am sure.

The press has a funny way of putting forward only one side when it suits them and when they can make a little bit of money. I have a very interesting quotation that I will pass on for what it is worth. It comes from The Wall Street Journal, 8th of November, at page 1. It is a statement made by a man named Conrad Black. He is referred to in this as a press baron, who lists the Caymanian Compass as one of the companies within his holding company. The article states: "London: 'My experienced journalist', Conrad Black once wrote, 'authorises me to record that a very large number of them are ignorant, lazy, opinionated, intellectually dishonest and inadequately supervised.'"

I thought that somewhat funny because on page 10 it lists the Caymanian Compass as one of the companies that he owns. [Members' laughter] I am not saying that I hold that view, and I would just like to make that very clear. But on page 10 it says: "Most of these publications are small and cater to local taste. The Caymanian Compass in the Cayman Islands has a 'Bathing suit' issue every week."

Having said that, I will go on to deal with what the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman spent some time on.

It is written by one of those journalists (who was referred to by the owner in that statement that I just read), Mr. Rick Catlin. He wrote an article on the sports complex land purchase and he made all sorts of statements which the used-to-be a teacher or professor (whatever the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman calls himself), has adopted. What is very clear is that the article is a half-truth. That is the most dangerous and vicious sort of lie you can have because it gives a bit of the truth but does not tell everything.

What they did not tell was that the transfer of a parcel of the land that was referred to as $100,000, $500,000, $600,000—whatever—that was purchased, or agreed to be purchased by Government—the newspaper, as well as the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman stated was transferred in June of 1994. What they did not tell the public was that that had been purchased under an instalment agreement on March 8th, 1989. It was a 1989 purchase. That is why the price of the land was less in 1989 than it is now. It just goes to show you—because there are two stages to a transaction, the contract and the transfer of land—they chose only to take the transfer of land because it would make it look worse. All right?

We have a situation where that has now been taken out of context, first by Mr. Catlin, and then repeated by The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. What is also very funny in this is that Mr. Catlin is relying on a broker who has no name. Throughout this there is reference to a broker who has valued this and valued that, but he has no name. I suggest that he made this up, as he has done on so many other things towards Cayman Airways. The man has a fantastic imagination for producing half-truths.

As I said before, nothing is as dangerous as a half-truth because one looks at it and says, 'yes, there was a land transfer in June for "X" amount of dollars', but they do not say it was a piece of land purchased five or six years ago when prices were lower than they are now. It is not unusual for people in this country to enter into a contract on a purchase/instalment basis (as do many Caymanians), and they do not take the transfer until five years—and I have seen some go up to 10 years, later. Obviously, the price of the land 10 years before is a lot less than the price of the land now. That is one of the half-truths.

The second one is that this has been checked out officially and what is very clear is that if either Mr. Catlin or the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman had taken the time to inspect the type of land, they would see that there is a difference between the property that is compared in the newspaper—which is underwater, or, to use the official phrase, it is "perpetually flooded", which basically means it is a lot of swamp—compared to land which is dry land and good land in the area.

In the article itself, Mr. Catlin quotes past private sales—and this is very amusing because I can see why Mr. Black (the owner) made that reference to journalists—he quotes past sales of block 25A, parcel 175, at $50,000 per acre. We remember that Government is purchasing at $38,000 per acre. He quotes another parcel 498, which the Land Registry says that number does not exist, but he quotes it at $120,000 per acre. It is all here in his newspaper. He then goes on and quotes another one at $45,000 per acre, parcel 506. This is very clearly set out here.

Also in his article he has stated that land in the vicinity has been sold by much more per acre—some of it nearly four times the amount, $120,000, when you multiply the fact that .275 of an acre, which here in the fourth column gave a worth of $30,000.

I think another aspect of this is that the Government is not paying cash for this land, the land is being transferred to the Government and it is financed over five years at 3% interest per annum—3%—which is undoubtedly different from a situation where full cash is paid up front.

One last thing on this is that even more ridiculous is his calculation of the Cascades subdivision lots at $79,000 per acre. What I am quoting here is what I have been given as a professional valuation. According to Government's information that is incorrect, and the lots are generally 19,500—20,000 square feet and sell for $70,000 upward per lot. This equates to approximately $155,000 per acre, which is twice the figure that Mr. Catlin quoted in his article. He is so misguided in what he is doing that I am really amazed that someone we expect better of, would pick it up and quote it in this Honourable House.

So, I hope that this will now rest as it is. Swamp was bought beside the Civic Centre by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town at quite a price. So swamp is bought elsewhere, but this was not all swamp.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of Order, Honourable Member?

Mr. Roy Bodden: The Honourable Minister is deliberately misleading the House. I bought no swamp beside the Civic Centre in Bodden Town.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I withdraw what I said. He asked that it be bought—same thing.

The Speaker: He had a Point of Order. The Member has now withdrawn that.

Proceed, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

This is a storm in a teacup. It is just another way that the Leader of the Opposition, as he appears to be, and his single follower are trying to disrupt the country and the Government and to stop the youth of this country. This is what is so important, they are trying to stop the youth of this country from getting the benefits from sports and other matters that could keep them off drugs and the streets and out of other things. What a thing to attack! I could see if... and I should be careful here, I really cannot say the First Elected Member for Bodden Town is going to attack this. I should say the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman because, while I know that one follows closely behind the other in certain matters, I do not want to anticipate the position there.

[Interjection:] You'd better not!

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Here we have a situation with the Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman trying to stop something which could assist the youth of this country. He should, quite frankly, level it at other areas.

I am not saying that we should not be criticised in certain areas, but the one area where I think we definitely have shown that we are very much aware, and the Minister for Youth Affairs is very much interested in seeing that the youth of this country get what they have not been getting for the last decade or so, and that is, a fair shake at good facilities that will assist them.

We have had other areas that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman went into and one of them was the Post Office in George Town. I was very interested to see the way that through implication he basically destroyed Mr. Linford Pierson who was responsible for the Post Office and I endorse what the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman said. That Post Office in George Town was the most dismal, rundown place that I have ever seen. Basically this was the implication he made.

The new Member, the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communication and Works, has now got it pulled out of that dismal stage. Mr. Linford Pierson kept it in darkness, as he kept this country and other areas of his Portfolio. This was left to a stage where trying to actually upgrade that Post Office has taken vast sums of money. It was left in that state while money was wasted in other areas, such as looking in the Budget and the comparative, some of which go back to 1991, that related to the Master Ground Transportation Plan and the other systems which laboured on until a couple of years ago where this money was put.

Actually, the $900,000+ spent on a quarter of a mile of road was money that could well have gone to sports for the youth of this country—referring to the Dr. Roy's Road, which is probably the most expensive road that this country has ever seen.

The tone of this Budget is to get back to reality because it is unrealistic to believe that we can build roads 120 feet wide that are super highways, with another road running beside it because you cannot come on and off except for every two miles. To have run the country in debt to the extent it has been run . . . and this is just the comparisons that are in the Budget. The money that was being spent there was ultimately going to commit this country to $200 million for a Master Ground Transportation system. Our system on the roads is realistic. We have said to Public Works that there are areas where two lanes in a road is sufficient—why build four or six—and I guess 120 feet would have built probably eight lanes. What in the world would we have done with it?

We understand about living within our means. We are phasing in what we do, rather than trying to do it all at one time. What was very interesting was that all the money disappeared and there is nothing to show for it other than a lot of reports from experts which are just gathering dust on the shelves that were left by the last two governments.

Madam Speaker, reference has been made to roads and this, once again, has come out in the debate and also in the Budget. More recently there was some criticism in the New Caymanian that dealt with the traffic problem and these situations. Indeed, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman dealt with the problem of the traffic in George Town.

Of course, there is traffic in George Town and in The New Caymanian of 28th October, Mrs. Bridget Lott-McPartland spent some time talking about the roads and the traffic in a letter which looks to me like it has the type of political penmanship she is not capable of. Of course there is a traffic problem: it was left in this country by Mr. Linford Pierson.

[Interjection: by a Member: Hear, hear!]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Instead of repairing the roads and phasing it like we are doing, he spent $1 million on a quarter mile of road he named Dr. Roy's Road. Only Dr. Roy could have afforded it because I do not know how many dollars per square foot it is. I have the utmost respect for Dr. Roy, but, quite frankly, I think his name could have been put on something better.

The criticism on traffic. . . and I am going to deal with roads in our own district, is a direct criticism by Bridget of the Member who sat by for four years and did nothing. When we asked how much it would take to repair the roads—just repair them, not build new roads—in Grand Cayman, we were told $10 million. That is where the problem arose. All I can say is that one catches a tinge of the company one keeps and perhaps one's letters have the slant of the company one keeps, as we saw a certain two-some in the Gallery on the Budget day.

This is a clear example, a clear criticism, I think, both this letter and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman when he talks about traffic. Yes, traffic is a problem. We have done a lot with it, and I am going to list what it is, but it was left by the last Government, specifically by Mr. Linford Pierson who failed as badly with roads as he failed with that Post Office in George Town that was so appropriately described by his colleague, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

On the question of land valuation and land purchases and spending money, when hundreds and hundreds of acres of Government's land was turned into a 99-year lease (from about a 55-year lease), for $1 million, and $1 million paid over 10 years with no interest, Madam Speaker, that is what I would refer to as financial rape of the country. A piece of land which was admittedly worth some $100 million for a matter of $2 million—$1 million of it over 10 years was given back to a full lease of 99 years. That type of valuation is what the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and his friend, Mr. Linford Pierson who masterminded that upgrading of the lease, should look at.

I do not know whether I need to remind the Member about the water contract and their issues of water—about $4 million—that there was an extension of about $7 million to it without going out to public tender. The contracts were signed by the Minister of that day (relating to the Motorola and the communications equipment), without the authority of the Finance Committee. These are things that one does not find happening in this day and age.

Whenever one has to look and criticise, I believe that there is so much that was done in this area that was just a simple squandering of the public's money by the previous Government, specifically the two masterminds of it, Mr. Ezzard Miller and Mr. Linford Pierson. We do not now have instances of drugs missing from the pharmacy as existed in the days when Mr. Miller was a pharmacist in Government, nor the large consultancy fees that were paid out by him to Mr. Conti and others during his short period in Government before he was rudely ejected by the North Side electorate, and quite rightly, they put a very capable lady Member in his place and may she remain there for ever and ever.

Turning to the question of the districts, I would like to just state some of the things that have been done in George Town in relation to the road works. The road shoulders in the White Hall area, the shoulders on the North Church Street/South Church Street/North Sound Road have all been done. We have put the third lane in the West Bay Road leading from the Treasure Island up to the old Pageant Beach area which has helped traffic. With all of the ingenuity of the last Government, they were not capable of painting a third white line on that West Bay Road. We have completed road surfacing from Caribbean Utilities Company, Ltd., to the North Sound Bacadere; we have completed a certain amount of repairs on the roads in the South Church Street and the South Sound area; we have done the surfacing of a parking lot by the jetty on the South Sound Road. By the way, these are all works that were requested by the George Town Members which we felt were important enough to be done.

There was marl patching on the Middle School Dyke Road, and this is in line under the Budget to be upgraded so that people will be able to go in at Bob Thompson Way and they will be able to come out (as they do now) at the Middle School and be able to reach the other schools in the area. There was some re-sealing and patching in certain other areas. I do not want to go fully through all of these, but there were repairs to Shedden Road, Mary Street, Eastern Avenue and Walkers Road. Shoulders were also repaired on Elgin Avenue, Hospital Road; there was a further re-construction with marl to what I refer to as the Middle School Dyke Road; and there was also an old hot mix seal programme on Eastern Avenue for approximately one mile.

Also, going on now—and I know this has come under a bit of comment—the Minister for works is dealing with the road that circumvents the left side of the Airport and I would like to just point out that anyone driving on the old road that now goes to the west of the Airport will find that it is probably one of the worst pieces of road. In fact the whole of Crewe Road is very bad and would have needed redoing in any event. I would like to go on record as thanking the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works for all the help that he has given. I really must say that within the last three months, Public Works has done more works for us than they have done in the past two years. What they did in other areas I am not commenting on.

I would like to thank them again for what they did in getting through the school building within the four-month period, substantially within the Budget, and without any extensions. Also for the refurbishing and rebuilding of the other school building at the Middle School and the Campbell Building. When a certain other document comes to this House, there are going to be some comments relating to the valuation of the Campbell Building. So, if the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman would like to see how it used to be done, let him look at that document and comment on that when it finally shows up—not that it has not been in this House, not that it is irrelevant, because we paid last year to strengthen that building (because it was unsafe). But that was not bought for $38,000 an acre, I can assure him of that. The real estate commission was far more than that probably.

In relation to the schools, I would like to thank all who participated in the strategic planning. We have had a cross section of some 300 people who took part in it. It was really good to see the process of strategic planning in operation and so many people giving of their valuable time. That is why I was very surprised to hear that there had been criticism on television by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. That was followed by further criticism in the Newstar, which is partly owned by the gentleman, Mr. Black (who said all the nice things about the journalists).

Why I am amazed that that Member criticised strategic planning, is because in a very nice letter (which I appreciated), he wrote to me dated November 23, 1993 I appreciated it, I would just like to quote paragraph 3 of it in which that First Elected Member for Bodden Town said: "The choice of strategic planning, while not new to educational administration, was, in my opinion, timely and relevant to the Caymanian educational establishment."

Oh, how being an Opposition Member tends to let one forget the real nice relevant statements one makes when one scuffles to find criticism on something that one previously endorsed in such a very full way. He said that "in his opinion, it was timely and relevant." How in the world, a short time later, it has become irrelevant, I do not understand.

In one of the first publications of the Newstar, under the new ownership, on the cover appears Mr. Desmond Seales, which I guess... Well, I will not comment on that... One can wonder what the contents will hold. On page 13, there is an article that we were not told about, or the Minister for Health and I could have prepared a timely reply to it. But it is written by a Henry Mintzberg, who is apparently a Professor at McGill University. He is making comments on things, like, 'General Electric and Texas Instruments did not use this.'

The idea of strategic planning, which the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and I fully agree on, is a very good thing, is one in which it cannot be applied to every private company and every situation. What makes it good when used in relation to health, drugs and education, is that it involves a very large cross section of the public—200 or 300 people are involved and they give their input.

The result is a document which is about as perfect and complete as one can get. It has been arrived at because the Ministers have been prepared not to hold on to power the way the last government did—especially Mr. Miller and Mr. Pierson. They are prepared to put it back where it should be—with the people; with the school teachers; people in commerce and private industry—and ask them what they would like to see. Few politicians would do that, but The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation and I have been prepared to do it. I would have thought that that would have been a very sensible and acceptable thing.

The comments made in this article by Mr. Mintzberg who, by the way, is a professor and obviously has never sat in the seat of management, and does not understand what it is all about. This is a man (as we have heard from the two Opposition Members in this House) who comes up with a lot of theories, but the theories are not really based on experience. If he had been the Chairman of General Electric and commented on General Electric, I would have taken that as carrying some weight. But anyone can sit and write a lot of theories, which is what he is doing. He has been a professor and has never really been in the real world.

Of course, if I owned General Electric, I would not go out to the public and ask what I should do. If I were that smart, I would make my decisions and move on. But it is a private company: so are the other companies that he refers to. He goes on to state the way they operate. Of course it is different from what we do: they deal with their money, we are dealing with the public's money. We are dealing with services which affect the public as a whole.

Texas Instruments produces computers. That does not affect everyone in every aspect of his life. That is why I would ask the public to just disregard this because this is just another hurdle that is being put in the way of trying to do something for the youth of this country. The test of this is going to be in the eating—we will show that these will be the three best plans that this country will have ever seen because it will be exposed to the public at large when we finish.

I fully support what the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation is doing. I stand fully behind him. I am satisfied. I am a fellow of the British Institute of Management so I am not unqualified in management. Unlike Mr. Martin's professor, I have been in the seat of having the practical experience and looking at a sizeable organisation. I would not apply it to a large organisation I am a director on either. But, to what we are doing, it is very relevant.

With all the criticism levelled at education, I would think that once again the tests are really in the results.

Look at the Caribbean Examination Council's results. I hope that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town will get up and say how good they are because they are really fantastic. If the Government is doing what is wrong, then why are the results so good? The public is not stupid. What I found interesting is that at the stage where we have had extremely good results in the school, there is a Sunday Gleaner report of October 23, 1994, for Jamaica, headed "What Went Wrong? School's Baffled by CXE Failures."

What I want to point out here is perhaps (and I say perhaps, not just singling out Jamaica) in other countries the reason why failures are so high is because they have a lot of theorists, like the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, who are incapable of having the hands-on experience and ability to run the system. To be frank those two have been out of teaching—one for about 12 years and the other for about 20, and they are defunct in that area. So, one has to think very carefully before one ends up accepting theories which they put forward.

In these other countries, a lot of theories have been put forward but the results actually come where one can see the children passing tests and where one sees things moving on.

I would like to thank all of those involved in strategic planning. We have had very good help and assistance from the public. I think that what we have is going to be very good.

Why I referred to the question of being defunct, is because on the 15th of September, 1994, I made a statement to the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman in a supplementary to a question, saying: "Madam Speaker, the largest entries for examinations are, naturally, on the Caribbean Examinations Council. Advanced level is Cambridge and Welsh Joint." And it goes on—"Mr. Gilbert A. Mclean: "Madam Speaker, I did not quite understand what he said. I think he said something about Welsh Joint. Are we talking about the GCSE examinations here, or is there another type? I did not quite get his..."

I then said: "No, Madam Speaker. It is a Welsh Joint Education Council."

It goes to show that I, at least, know what exams are current because these have come into operation within the last 20 years, since that Member went out of the teaching profession. I am only going into this because of the comments that they are making on the other side, to show that they are out of touch with the education system of this country. They are coming up with nothing but theory—the same as the gentleman in the Newstar on strategic planning. The Welsh Joint Council Exams are very much current, they have been current for about the last 10 to 12 years in our schools.

Anyone who is good at his profession stays in it. I will not say anymore than that in relation to...

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: [addressing the voice inter-

jecting from across the floor] In reply to whatever comments the Member has made, I have been a lawyer for 25 years, and I practice as a lawyer, and I am still a professional lawyer. I challenge the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman to tell the public in due course how long they have been out of the education system. When did they last work inside of a classroom? They are now trying to tell me how to run the education system where I am getting extremely good results. I am not a defunct lawyer, I will say that.

No, Madam Speaker. I think that the reason why some of the education results in the other islands were never good is because of some theorists who never made a go of it in their private lives or in their professional lives, and are producing theories that are really messing up the education systems elsewhere, and I am only speaking generally here.

Going on further with education, I have tried to do as much as I can to ensure . . . and, indeed, we have improved the system in relation to maintenance and minor works in the schools. Most of the things scheduled for this year which the principals and Members of this House had asked to be done have been done and I thank Public Works for that.

There were some orders of books where two of the companies went bankrupt and there were delays. That is being cleared as quickly as we can. At present about 95% to 98% of the books and equipment are here. There has been upgrading of computers and equipment generally, and the phases in relation to the West Bay and Red Bay Primary schools will be moving on. The George Hicks Phase has been completed.

One of the things that I would like to see this coming year—and I think the figure in the Budget for it is approximately $50,000—is now that we have assisted many of the schools with getting buses, that the bus shelters I have asked for will be going up in this coming year. This will assist the children when we have inclement weather.

We have good teaching staff and very tolerant staff within the Education Department who sit down and spend hours, sometimes days, researching and trying to produce the information that the two Opposition Members ask for in relation to the schools. Several of the questions are coming up in this sitting. What I would say on that is that there has to be some sense of how much time the education system or Cayman Airways should waste on questions which seem irrelevant, like asking how many passengers we have carried in 10 years. I do not see the relevance of some of these, but I just ask the Members, even though they are running out of questions, to try to ask something which is sensible which does not waste too much of my Education Department's time.

Madam Speaker, I can never thank the Minister for Agriculture and Works enough for the many lights he has put up in George Town. He has really done a good job and it has helped [deter] crime. He has put them all over the Island, but especially in relation to George Town.

The time, effort and money that the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture has assisted us with in the sports in George Town and all over the Island, I think is really excellent.

There will always be criticism—you cannot do good work unless you spend some money. I think this is a realistic approach, but his heart is in it and I look forward to the day when we can have further proper football fields, soft ball and the other 15 or 20 different fields. I refer to those two mainly because of the use of the school fields for it and I am very grateful to the Ministry. Previous Governments were very happy to do this as well, but I think that in due course they should have their own fields and that those adjoining, like the Annex or those in the Middle School, could be dedicated to the schools themselves.

Madam Speaker, the cost of buildings, building roads and whatever, could never match the $400 a square foot that the Post Office Building in North Side cost. I am at a loss to really see what explanation could be given by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, who is obviously the expert of the two in square footages and costs; or maybe he could consult Mr. Ezzard, who came up with that little building at that very large price.

I would like to turn briefly to the Airport and the Civil Aviation Authority. That has operated very well. As Members can see it has a very good surplus, it contributes quite heavily to Government. While I am against statutory corporations with a lot of power, such as the Hospital Authority that we dismantled, because I believe that sometimes that power is abused and has been abused in the past, the Civil Aviation is a quasi type of statutory corporation because it is one of the older ones that does not have the power, a lot of what exists there is vested in the Government. That is why I think it has made money and it has run well. I would like to thank the staff and especially the director of Civil Aviation, Mr. Sheldon Hislop, who has really been exemplary in producing a well-run, profitable, efficient, safe airport and air traffic.

Notwithstanding the bit of criticism on the roads surrounding the airport, I know the press got somewhat frustrated because neither the committee nor myself would speak to them when we were negotiating, but we never could have achieved a settlement if the press had been involved. As Mr. Black said, some of those journalists are just as he described them—some words that I need not even try to remember they were a little bit big for me.

Perhaps the area that I would like to see dealt with are two safety areas: one was the road, which I think we are getting in place now and all of the flights will be able to use it. There is also the deal with the Little Cayman Airport, which has been put off for 25 years. We need to get it upgraded where it is, or arrange for somewhere else so it can be lengthened and made more safe than it is at present.

Having said that, and despite that there will always be problems in the Airport because there are four or five other departments—Customs, Immigration, Civil Aviation, Security, the Airlines—it runs very well. I am very grateful to the Civil Aviation Authority and I would like to thank all the members of that authority as well as all members of their transport authority, both of which do a lot of work and sit for long hours.

There has been some criticism levelled at tourism by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, criticising the fact that there is another hotel being built. But this Government has been capable of getting another hotel, that is something the previous Government was not able to do. All I would say to the public is that tourism in some of the other islands has been destroyed by taking the approach that tourism is bad for the country—the socialists, the communists . . . I remember specifically a Minister for Tourism, 10 or 12 years ago, going to a conference in Miami and specifically saying that new hotels were bad and tourism was bad.

When the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman gets all this money for Cayman Brac that the District Commissioner will not spend and just sits there while the Cayman Brackers go without jobs, it comes from tourism. It is the main pillar of our economy and there has to be controlled expansion. Yes, we are going to get some side effects with it, but overall, the economy has to continue to expand. I think we should wipe away socialist fantasies because Russia is gone, the Soviet Block is gone. They were the people who said no capitalism, no tourism, no large hotels, no this no that. So, let us get back to capitalistic reality and forget about socialistic fantasies.

It is good that we have been able to see money put in for the extension to the Court House as well as to begin a new Court House. I agree with the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman in his criticism of the fact that something needs to be done in that area, the same as he criticised the Post Office in George Town and implied that Mr. Linford Pierson had left the place in shambles.

The Court House itself needs to be expanded, it is too small. It was built 20 years ago when there were two courts, there are now sometimes six courts sitting and I fully support the Honourable Attorney General, the Second Official Member, in his efforts to upgrade that and to upgrade the system.

The Speaker: Would this be an opportunity to take the suspension?

Hon. Truman M. Boddien: Yes, Ma'am.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.46 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.06 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation, continuing the debate.

Hon. Truman M. Boddien: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Community College has functioned and expanded and developed and is now offering more and more courses and subjects while continuing with the adult education that it started sometime ago.

The College itself operates under a Board of Governors and I would like to express my appreciation to them, and also to the Director, Mr. Basdeo, for his continuing effort and ability in expanding the College.

We are now planning on getting accreditation for the College over a period of time from different colleges in the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom so that within a few years we should have sufficient accreditation from the different colleges or universities elsewhere so that we can begin giving Associate Degrees.

Until that time comes, students still have to go abroad at a very large expense to do degrees which in due course, in two years, can be done in the Cayman Islands then that will be an asset to the country. It is not beyond the realm of possibility because we have seen with the Law School, which I am extremely proud of, the expertise and technical ability within the country to produce a very good institution of higher learning with very high standards.

One of the things that has always baffled people, both educationalists within the Caribbean and in the United Kingdom (when we were over there discussing, for example, with the University of Cambridge Overseas Examination Syndicate, the question of external exams), is how we have managed in this small country to produce such a very high standard in what has been referred to as possibly the third oldest profession in the world—the legal profession. The standard is high, to the extent that it now offers the Honours Bachelor of Laws Degree from the University of Liverpool. That speaks for itself.

I know that we have the ability to also get the accreditation we need for the Community College. I believe that the success we have shown with the College thus far, within a few years we would be able to do the Associate of Arts Degree and then students can go on for another year or two (depending upon the degree they are taking) to universities that will accept two years of accreditation.

We have also completed to a large extent, the next phase of the Community College and I am hoping that in this coming year we may see the beginning of a road from Walkers Road going into the College itself which would ease traffic in the area. The College is run very efficiently from a monetary point of view, and the Director exercises very careful and prudent control over the funds that are there.

Linked to this, and to education overall, is the Education Council. I have worked with the members—in fact, most of them were appointed by the last Government, as were the members of the Community College—and the continuity of it is important. I have worked with them and have found them to be very able and capable. They have given a lot of very good advice and dealt with some very difficult areas of education—discipline within the school system, of looking at aspects that may be going wrong. We spend many long hours in there trying to ensure that the education system is dealt with in a timely and efficient manner.

The Budget this year is one that the silent majority (as one letter referred to them) will clearly understand because of the prudence in spending—the restraint on spending that is in it. While we have had very extraordinary expenses, such as the heavy payments that have had to be made in relation to the Cuban refugees, we have been fortunate, thank God, that the country has been able to produce sufficient revenue to still show a very good position.

The system itself that we are now putting in place relating to expenditure and the reduction of [loans]—in fact no new loans will be coming out this year, is extremely important. We have found that on the offshore side there have been very good and efficient policies brought in by the Third Official Member—our Financial Secretary. He has outlined in the Budget the history which has led up to this, much of which was begun by the present Minister of Tourism and the groundwork laid many, many years ago, back in the 1980s, before that by his predecessor, Sir Vassel Johnson.

I think our Financial Secretary has taken the right approach and we cannot sit by and expect the offshore business to continue without the necessary motion that is needed to ensure that we hold on to the very important market area that we have. The consistent upgrading of the laws, which I know has many times put the Second Official Member and his Legal Draftsman under a fair amount of stress, has been necessary to ensure that we remain competitive. Most important has been the move to reduce fees in relation to companies and it is now beginning to pay returns.

The success here has also been with the communication and the openness that we have had through the Financial Sector Consultative Committee with members of the International Financial Centre that we have created. I think it was very fitting for the Third Official Member, in his very able Budget Address, to begin with this and to outline in it the necessary steps and initiative to advance it. It is our second largest income next to tourism, and it is one that we have to continue to pay a lot of attention to.

There is so much happening in the world that it is sometimes impossible to keep up with all the developments. There are new countries, and old countries that bring in new incentives that either update their laws, or deal with tax relief. There are countries that have the double taxation agreements in which the competition continues to try to whittle away as best they can at what has been a very leading successful business by the Cayman Islands. I would say that, notwithstanding the Bahamas, perhaps we can well be said to be pioneers in this industry.

The sections and the growth of tourism in this country are astounding. At times when the country was moving into recession—North America was in a recession—the figures continued to grow and I would like to commend the Minister for Tourism in his ability, not only to continue in the orthodox markets in North America, but to spread into Europe and the Far East. As time goes on I think we will see the benefits of spreading the risk of tourism over many countries because like financial risks, the wider it is spread, the less the chance of having a very sizeable dip in the market. Many times North America may be in a bit of recession and we may have Europe in a bit of a boom and this movement is very good and the niche marketing and the 'Yours and Ours' campaign is, in my view, going to pay off good dividends in the long run.

I think what is really outstanding is that during the stage of North America's recession, we continued to have people travelling to Cayman. That is something that has taken a lot of effort and promotion. In fact, one of the letters, the letter by Mrs. Bridget Lott-McPartland, attempted to say that all of these benefits that we are now seeing came from the last Government. Madam Speaker, that statement is about as lost as the last Government is. If they were such geniuses, they would not be—all of them—out there in moth balls now, running around, scrambling, getting people to sign their letters that they put in the paper. [Members' laughter]

Anyhow, this aspect and the growth of tourism is such that it has come as a result of the direct efforts of the Legislature and the Government. I want to make it clear that the Legislature is an integral part of the Government—the National Team—and continues to be a very close-knit team. Our members have their independent views, but we always work together for the good of the country.

Really there is not much of an Opposition when you think of it. The misguided misrepresentation to the public that we have had—that tourism, two years later after the Government has come in, is a result of what some other Government did in the past—is a real joke, and I do not think that anybody would take this seriously.

The campaign that was put forward has hit on the right note—the 'Yours and Ours' campaign—because in many of the islands the approach to tourism has been that it should only be 'ours' the 'yours' never comes into it and they believe that, notwithstanding how they treat tourists, that they will continue to come in. That is not so. That is why I think putting in that campaign, to let local people, the Caymanians, show the importance and the relevance of the fact that it is not just a one way street and we have to smile and give the necessary service in the relevant tourist hotels or restaurants.

The increase in banking referred to by the Third Official Member is very astounding and we have seen a considerable decline in unemployment in the labour market.

Some reference was made by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman about hotels—why have a hotel when you have over-employment. But we always have had over-employment, it is the nature of the type of economy that we have. It is good to be in a position where we can continue to say that we have over-employment, but we are capable of attracting the type of controlled—and I stress that controlled—development needed to move the economy forward. If we do not continue to advance the economy, and we get unemployment of any scale, I think it has been one of the things in many of the other little islands that has helped to destroy the country which otherwise would have been better off with the side effects of more development.

In fact, many of them ran tourism away about 10 years ago when the West Indian socialists were preaching gloom and doom and that Russia, which by the way, is defunct too, was actually putting forward the major areas of development and theories.

There is one other area that I will perhaps touch on tomorrow morning relating to private schools that I would like to deal with in some depth to show the misguided views that have been put forward in that area.

The Budget Address the Honourable Third Official Member put forward, while it was short, it was one that was powerful, well-thought out and very capable and understandable. It dealt clearly with the important pillars of the economy. Perhaps one area in it that is never really looked at as deeply as the public should look at it, is in the area of prices and inflation that he has dealt with in this. Notwithstanding the fact that we are into an economic boom, we are not expected to exceed 4% inflation this year, the year which he forecasts in here. Keeping this down keeps the local prices down and it really is what is expected of a good Government that it will not do anything that will rapidly cause hyperinflation or developing inflation as it is called from time to time, where this gets out of line. The movement upward for 1995 he forecasts at approximately 6%, which is still a very low and uneventful inflation for the type of economic boom that we are in.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION—4.30 PM

The Speaker: It is now 4.30, Honourable Minister, I would ask for the Motion for the Adjournment.

Honourable Minister for Tourism.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I am pleased to move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10.00 tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at 10.00. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10.00 o'clock.

AT 4.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM FRIDAY, 11 NOVEMBER 1994.

FRIDAY
11 NOVEMBER, 1994
10.07 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

Deferred question No. 164, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 164

No. 164: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member what is the current status of Government's attempts to alleviate the financial burden brought about by the increase in property insurance.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: As reported to this honourable House in June of this year, Government has established a Task Force to deal with this issue.

Following the recommendation of the Task Force, Government has entered into a consultancy agreement with the Risk Management Division of KPMG Peat Marwick, London. The agreement calls for the provision of two studies: the first being an evaluation of the probable maximum loss which may be suffered Island-wide following a major windstorm or earthquake; the second being a review of Government's own insurable risks with recommendations as to how these might be best insured and managed.

These studies, covering both Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac, are to be presented by the 30th of November this year. Of the two, the former, the probable maximum loss study, is most relevant to the current high cost of insurance issue.

The result should enable the Government to pursue discussions with the local insurance industry with a view to determining the prospects of obtaining reinsurance at lower costs and for the resulting savings to be passed on to local policy holders, particularly home owners.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say if the terms of reference include the Firm's recommending to the Government strategies which can be adopted towards ensuring that the problem of high property insurance in the future does not become an over-burdening problem?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I have been made to understand that the study will not request specific recommendations. What the study is requesting is that the findings as to the local insurance industry be set out in such a manner that will enable the Government to arrive at specific determinations as to what strategies will be adopted.

The Speaker: Next, the deferred No. 166, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 166

No. 166: Mr Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member what circumstances prompted the Government to acquire the services of a Customs Advisor/Consultant.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: In view of the Custom Departments expanding role in relation to revenue collection and drug interdiction, Management considered it timely to review and update policies and procedures. Although the Customs Law was revised and updated in 1990, the Departmental "Procedures Manual", which was produced in March 1985 by the former Customs Advisor, was not updated to reflect the relevant amendments to the Law.

It should be noted that the "Procedures Manual" is an invaluable guide to officers in the performance of duties.

Additionally, over the past few years the production of fraudulent documents appears to be on the increase. Whilst the imposition of penalties in accordance with the provisions of the Law for such offences seems to be a reasonable deterrent, the Department considers that the more serious and blatant offenders should be prosecuted and dealt with through the Courts.

However, to effectively investigate fraud cases, Officers require specialised training. Management determined that such training could best be provided in-house by a trainer with experience in commercial fraud techniques. This individual would also be readily available to assist and guide our own officers during preliminary and subsequent investigations.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say what the length of the contract for this officer is, and when can we expect such a person to take up this duty?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the duration of the contract will be between nine months and one year. This officer will be taking up office in January of 1995.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Will this officer be giving any special training in the detection of fraud to a particular group of Customs Officers singled out for such exercises, or will such training be to Customs' Officers generally?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, to respond to that question I will read the terms of reference for this officer:

"The consultant will be engaged to provide the following services to Government:

- 1) Review the existing enforcement procedures and organisational structure of the Department of Customs;
- 2) Develop new and/or amend the procedures and the organisational structure necessary to implement the said procedures in consultation with the Collector of Customs;
- 3) Determine training needs in all areas of Customs work with special emphasis on matters relating to revenue fraud;
- 4) Conduct training seminars designed to meet the needs as identified in accordance with number 3;
- 5) To familiarise the staff of the Customs Department with the implementation of procedures referred to in item 2."

Item 2 specifically states: "Develop new and/or amended procedures and the organisational structure necessary to implement the said procedures in consultation with the Collector of Customs."

"Together with the Collector of Customs and other senior staff members of the Customs Department to development policies for the Department in respect of issues being raised by other local law enforcement agencies and international bodies."

That is the listing, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 176 (deferred), standing in the name of The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 176

No. 176: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Second Official Member for Legal Administration how many licensed attorneys there are in the Cayman Islands with a breakdown by firm, length of practice and nationality.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The total number of attorneys admitted to practise in the Cayman Islands is 128, made up as follows: (a) 119 attorneys licensed in private practice; (b) Four attorneys admitted to practise, but do not do so due to failure to pay practising fees; (c) Three Attorneys admitted to practise at the Legal Department; and (d) Two admitted to practise at the Court House.

A breakdown by firm, date of admission, and nationality is attached (Appendix I).

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Member say if there is any quota, as such, placed on the number of attorneys in the Cayman Islands, whether in totality or by firm, as a policy?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: There is no quota, as such, that I am aware of, Madam Speaker. Every application for an attorney to be employed in the Cayman Islands that requires a work permit comes before me as a matter of course and is referred to me by the Immigration Board. The purpose of that is for me to establish that that attorney is suitably qualified to be admitted to practise in the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 177 (deferred), standing in the name of The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 177

No. 177: Mr. Gilbert a. McLean asked the Honourable Second Official Member what has been the cost for overseas legal counsel since January 1992 to date, with a breakdown by year, amounts and territory.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Cost for overseas legal counsel since January 1992, is as follows (prices quoted in CI dollars):

For the year 1992:
Counsel in the United Kingdom	$ 126,321.34
Counsel in the United States of America	143,317.75
For the year 1993:
Counsel in the United Kingdom	42,566.96
Counsel in the United States of America	142,835.68
For the year 1994: (to date)
No expenditure for United Kingdom Counsel
Counsel in the United States of America	$ 110,832.04

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Member say if these amounts reflect only fees paid for work done, or do they also include a fee factor for the retaining of these attorneys or firms in the two countries named?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: All of the fees that are disclosed in this answer are for work done. The Government pays no retainer, as such, to a law firm. Each account that is submitted through my office for payment has to identify the actual work carried out by the firm and the rates charged for that work and it is on this basis that it is paid.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Member say if any consideration is being given to the retention of attorneys or a firm, for example, to be on stand-by for matters relating to, say, our financial industry, or otherwise in these two countries, since in these two countries matters impact heavily on the Island here?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: There is a particular firm of attorneys in Washington that has been used by the Government for some time, and continues to be used. They certainly do advise Government on a whole range of issues, including financial matters as it affects the United States. I suppose to that extent you could say that they are retained by Government because they have been used by Government over a number of years. But, we do not pay a retainer, as such. They are only paid for work that they actually do.

They have, I suppose one could say, a roving brief to identify matters that they feel are of interest to the Cayman Islands and bring them to our attention. Then it is a matter for the individual Ministry, or myself, to decide if those matters should be taken further and we instruct them to carry out more work on them.

As far as the United Kingdom is concerned, we do not have a firm in that way; we tend to instruct individual counsel in the United Kingdom on specific matters. I think that is mainly because the members of the legal profession in Government themselves have considerable experience of the English Legal System and, of course, the English Legal System is very much mirrored in the Cayman Islands as well.

Again, if specific advice is required from United Kingdom Counsel, then we ask it.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 182, standing in the name of The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 182

No. 182: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation to provide a breakdown by school of the amount of money given by Government to private sector schools since November 1992.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Grants to private schools since 1992 are as follows:

St. Ignatius Preparatory	$169,334.41 (Recurrent)	$150,000.00 (Capital)
---------------------------------	-----------------------------	---------------------------

Cayman Preparatory	$139,679.70 (Recurrent)	$175,000.00 (Capital)
Wesleyan Academy	$ 57,293.37 (Recurrent)	$200,000.00 (Capital)
Triple C	$81,814.01 (Recurrent)	$38,075.00 (Capital)
Truth For Youth	$60,094.80
Edmer Academy	$36,949.66
I.C.C.I.	$35,000.00 (in 1994 only, because the previous Government did not support ICCI).

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say how these grants are awarded?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, it is a formula that relates to the number of pupils and whether it is prep or high school, and also the number of teachers comes into it. As the Honourable Member will see in a later question that is asked, those with the heaviest grants are normally those with more pupils.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would like to ask the Honourable Minister if we are to assume that the Capital Grants are based on the formula of the size of the project undertaken, or is there a different formula for the Capital Grants?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the Capital Grants were given to these schools because of projects that they were going on with. For example, the Catholic School and the Prep School were constructing extra buildings. The savings to Government, for example, on the $175,000 to the prep school, totals in the area of about $1.5 million recurrent per year. I point out recurrent, per year.

So, for example, over 10 years the Government will save $15 million by investing $175,000. That is very good economics. In fact, in my debate later on I will refer to the fact that the private schools save the Government $7.2 million every year by schooling children which Government would have to school because of the compulsory education system that we have.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 185, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

No. 185: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation what kind of programme, if any, exists locally for the training of Caymanians as teachers.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: No recognised initial teacher training exists locally at present. The programmes which are available at the Community College, through UWIDITE, are for the upgrading of persons who are already certified and experienced teachers.

Teachers have participated, or are currently participating, in two such programmes called 'Textbooks for all' and 'The Certificate of Education.'

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: A few years ago, the Legislature unanimously approved the idea of initiating teacher-training within the Island. Is there any consideration being given to this, or is there a pilot programme started which would allow teacher training, at least, partially or in whole, here on the Island?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The answer to that is yes. The Community College is looking at this. That motion was passed when the previous Government was in and they did nothing on that, like they did nothing on everything else in the line of education, other than to create chaos.

So, we are now trying to move on with this, but what is very important with this is that when the course is initiated it carries the necessary accreditation and status to ensure that the teachers will have a very high standard that will be acceptable.

For example, if two years of the course are done here, we will have to make sure that the University of the West Indies or colleges in the United States would accept those two years.

They are well advanced in dealing with this, but accreditation is a very slow process. It is no good of saying that we are going to get it overnight. It took the Law School nearly five years to get to the Honours Degree stage with the University of Liverpool. There we were dealing with a single university; here we have to deal with accreditation in Jamaica, colleges in the United States and the United Kingdom.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister state if any consideration is being given as to whether persons interested in becoming teachers could enter with the qualifications which they would earn coming out of the high school here, or would they have to do some type of preparatory course prior to entering it?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I could only give an opinion on that and I would say that the entrance to the course here would have to be on parity with what is accepted, for example, in Jamaica or North America or in the United Kingdom, because if the standard to enter is not sufficiently high, the chances of success would be greatly diminished.

The Speaker: The next question is no. 188, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 188

No. 188: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable First Official Member if Government has conducted an investigation to ascertain what effect, if any, the new system instituted for Caymanian passport holders leaving and entering the Cayman Islands has on the Police and Immigration Officers in their interdiction process.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

There has been no such investigation, and no reports by law enforcement agencies that any interdiction efforts are being affected by the new exemptions.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Am I to understand, then, that Government at this point in time has no intention of conducting an investigation?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Both the Commissioner of Police and the Chief Immigration Officer have reported that this policy has had no adverse effect on the functions of their respective departments and it is therefore felt that there is no need for any further investigative work on this.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I wonder if the Honourable Member could state how long after the system was instituted that these reports were made by the Heads of both Departments?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, this information was supplied late last week by both departments.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 189, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 189

No. 189: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable First Official Member what is Government's policy regarding royalties being paid by Westar.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Westar, as a management company, is not liable for the payment of royalties.

CITN and CTS are television licence holders, and under the terms of their licences are obliged to pay royalties.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I wonder, then, if the Honourable First Official Member would be able to explain the additional fees patrons of this so-called cable television are being charged which is said to be royalties being charged by Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Perhaps I should answer that question by saying that this general area is a shared responsibility between the Minister of Agriculture and my portfolio.

I have responsibility for what is commonly called over-the-air channels, the broadcasting side of it. The Minister for Agriculture deals with the cable channels and since the question is asking for information on the cable channels, I do not think I am in a position to answer that.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, the purpose of this question was to inform the public of a fee that has been added in recent months to their monthly bill regarding the cable television.

I am asking, if there is another Minister in a position to answer, if a position can be established so that the public may understand because there was no information passed on to them, officially or unofficially, about this extra charge.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works, I do not know if you are in a position to answer that now, or could you do it at a latter date?

Hon. John B. McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker, I can answer it now. I am aware of the matter which the Fourth Elected Member for George Town is speaking about. It has been brought to my attention by various subscribers and the Government did not in any way authorise this fee. Therefore, we are taking the necessary action to have it corrected.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 190, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 190

No. 190: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs, having issued a permanent licence to Cayman Islands Television Network, is Government totally satisfied at this time that all legal requirements for re-broadcasting have been met.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Yes, in accordance with the provisions of the licence it is the licensee's responsibility to ensure that all programme material is legally obtained for broadcast.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member would be able to say if any questions arise or any legal action is forthcoming about a matter regarding re-broadcasting, is the Government of the Cayman Islands in any way liable, or in any way involved in such matters regarding re-broadcasting on the Island?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The licence clearly absolves Government of any liability or responsibility with owners of broadcast material and the liability is squarely with the television company.

Thus far, Government has had no complaints from the producers or owners of broadcast material in regard to any of the television licences.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is not a suggestion on my part that there is a problem, but my question emanates from the concern that if the Government has to issue the licence, and the terms and conditions of the licence issued by the Government involves certain strict regulations with re-broadcasting, how then is the Government out of the picture if the Government's licence is the one which establishes the criteria under which re-broadcasting can be done?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. If Government receives a written complaint from the owners of material which is being broadcast, and if it is not being broadcast legally, Government will deal with the matter. There are certain sanctions in the licence that the Government can effect if it is proven that re-broadcast is taking place illegally and there is a complaint about it.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Just a final supplementary, Madam Speaker, I just wish some clarification. Are we simply saying then that the owners, or those responsible for these programmes, have two options if there is a problem? They can either deal by legal action directly with the licensee or they can ask for the situation to be sorted out through the Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. If a complaint is received from a company in the United States that controls a particular programme that is being broadcast illegally, then Government will deal with CITN—in this case we are talking about CITN—in accordance with the sanctions that would be used under the agreement of their licence.

The matter of the owners of a programme dealing with, let us say, CITN, would be a matter for the owners to address. But, as a Government, we would deal with the matter if it comes as a formal complaint.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Statement by the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

STATEMENTS BY HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

DR. HORTOR MEMORIAL HOSPITAL CONTRACT

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am grateful to have been given your permission to make a statement to this Honourable House on the subject of the 1994 Master Planning Study for the George Town Hospital.

Honourable Members are aware that the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital contract was terminated in December 1992 because of a number of very serious concerns about the project expressed very clearly by the electorate in the General Election of November 1992.

Two major problems were identified at an early stage by concerned citizens, professional health care workers, both Government and non-government, and by electoral candidates, many of whom, thankfully, make up this Honourable House.

The first of these concerned the location chosen (namely the 'swamp') and the resultant split site situation (that is, the Dr. Hortor Memorial in the swamp and the present George Town Hospital). This led to duplication of cost in providing essential services and a cumbersome and expensive system of moving basic necessities such as laundry, medical records and pharmaceutical items between the two sites. Increased personnel to adequately staff the two sites would also have led to an unnecessary increase in recurrent expenditure.

The second major concern about the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital was the capital cost of the construction of the new site and the additional cost of developing the George Town Hospital into a centre for Ambulant Care, Clinical and Public Health Services. Taken together the cost of this undesirable split site was estimated to be:

Hortor Memorial	$16,500,000.00
Re-development George Town Hospital	10,631,000.00
Total of:	$27,131,000.00

One can only speculate on how much extra would have been spent on access and proper landscaping.

Madam Speaker, it has been the declared policy of this Government to provide our people with the best medical care possible and, with this in mind, a local firm, Chalmers, Gibbs, Martin, Joseph, in association with APEC Consultants Incorporated, were instructed to proceed with the preparation of a Master Planning Study for the improvement of the existing George Town Hospital.

The resulting report is detailed and comprehensive and in marked contrast to the Hortor project contains considerable input from both public and private health care professionals and others working at the George Town Hospital.

Madam Speaker, everyone knows that the present George Town Hospital is sadly deficient as a modern health care facility in terms of its old buildings and haphazard lay out. Fortunately, this is offset by the very high quality of care provided by the hard-working and dedicated staff. But it is not fair to them or the people of these islands to allow this situation to continue. I am therefore very happy to be able to announce today that Executive Council has given its approval to the extensive redevelopment of the George Town Hospital site. Those buildings which are functioning satisfactorily will be retained and modified where necessary. Those that have a limited economic life, or do not meet international standards for the functions they are used for, will be demolished and replaced by new buildings. Construction will be carried out on a continuous, phased basis with construction activities in each phase being carefully planned in order to maintain operation of the hospital with minimum disruption.

The resulting facility, Madam Speaker, will provide, on a single, functionally well-organised site, the physical health care facilities required to meet both existing and future needs in terms of clinical functions, ancillary functions, support functions and administrative functions.

A total of 86 beds will be provided in Patient Care Units and a further 46 beds in other Care Units, making a total of 132 in all.

Madam Speaker, while very considerable savings on recurrent expenditure will be made possible over the years because of the single site location, the situation as regards capital expenditure is even better. As compared to the Dr. Hortor Memorial's total capital cost (including the George Town Hospital redevelopment) of $27,131,000, the total capital cost of the intended facility is approximately $21,719,514. This figure includes capital construction, furniture, fittings and equipment, and a sum of $1,450,000 for professional services, fees, and expenses. It is important to note, Madam Speaker, that this expenditure will be carried out in a phased manner, one that is affordable to the country. And, may I add at this point also, Madam Speaker, that the cost of this capital development is not affected in any way by the current strategic planning exercise.

Madam Speaker, a ground-breaking ceremony will take place in January and a Project Manager and Steering Committee appointed to oversee this important project. This Government is determined to honour its pledge to our people to provide them with an excellent health care facility and in such a way that it does not mortgage our children's future.

I am confident that this major development will be welcomed and supported by Caymanians and residents alike. The Country needs it, the country deserves it and, Madam Speaker, with God's blessing, the country will have it.

Madam Speaker, I thank you for granting me the opportunity to speak to this Honourable House.

The Speaker: Continuing with Government Business, continuation of the debate on the second reading of the Appropriation Bill.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

(Continuation of the debate thereon)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would now like to turn to the Sister Islands of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

I have a very special place in my heart for those two islands, and these days we, the Government, have been attempting to have tourism turn towards those two Islands to keep dollars in the country so that instead of having persons going to Miami or Cuba for vacation, they could travel to Little Cayman or Cayman Brac, then those dollars are being kept in the Islands.

I do not get there as often as I should, but several times a year instead of going abroad somewhere, I go to one of those two islands for a short vacation. My time goes back to Barclay's Bank when I spent six months there as second in charge of their branch at the time. I am very distressed to see what has been happening in some areas up there.

We have a situation where the Legislature—Finance Committee appropriates money to be spent on the Sister Islands and we are finding that substantial parts of it are not being spent. Money that could go out to help the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is just not being used, it is not being spent, and perhaps between a quarter and one-third of the money in the Budget still remains there while the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman are not getting the benefit of it.

This seems to me that the vote control rests with the District Commissioner. The responsibility must therefore lie with him and his friends such as the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, to see that the people...

POINT OF ORDER
(Misleading the House)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: The Minister is grossly misleading the House to connect me with the expenditure of any amount of Government funds in Cayman Brac, as I am not authorised to do so by law.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister...

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I did not intend to impute that. I will withdraw anything that...

The Speaker: Well, please do so, because it did have that connotation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I guess what I am saying is that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is a good friend of the District Commissioner, which I am sure he will not deny.

The District Commissioner is holding up the spending of funds over there. He has to be persuaded to help the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman because this money could be spread around and spent to help them. At the end of the Budget the money is going to lapse.

The projects are very good. I am sure they are supported by both the Members. I know that the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is doing all he can. He has done this for many years in the past and as a good legislator he is doing everything that he can. I have heard him mention from time to time certain projects that he would like to see go on, but the money is just not being released from the votes.

What I am saying is that perhaps the system is wrong. Why should one man (the District Commissioner) have all this power and bureaucracy to cause the people over there not to get this money released? There is a lot of money for them in the Budget at this time, but what hope do they have when we appropriate it here if it is not released?

I am very pleased to have the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman as the Chairman of the Education Council Committee of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and I pledge him my full support because I think education in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman will now see many good changes as soon as he begins his role as Chairman of that very important body.

While related to Cayman Airways, which I will deal with later, we have put in an additional flight on Saturday, and this has really benefited the Islands. We at Cayman Airways are doing everything we can for the two Islands to ensure that their economy moves well, but something has to be done quickly to ensure that funds are released and spent after they are appropriated.

The results that we saw in the Caribbean Examinations Council (and I now have some details of this) of having 100% passes in five subjects and between 80% to 90% passes in a further six subjects, are indeed fantastic results. I would like to thank my Permanent Secretary, my Assistant Permanent Secretary, the Chief Education Officer, and the Department staff. Yesterday I thanked all of the teachers and the staff involved in the schools. The results are there and nobody can criticise that. The same as this Budget—the results are there and the Opposition is in a quandary and flustered trying to find some way to criticise such good results.

When the results are good, then it is obvious that the system is too. I have put a lot of effort into education, and more into Cayman Airways, but my heart has been with education for many years because I have quite a few degrees myself. The Manifesto (our National Team Manifesto), set out several very important factors in relation to education. There has been criticism by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman about the money that is paid to private schools, but I know that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town cannot agree with him because he supports... and I am going to read from a document...

POINT OF ORDER
(Imputation)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, please?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Ma'am. The Minister is imputing false motives to me and misleading the House because I gave him no undertaking, either orally or written, about my position on any statement made by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Education, perhaps it would be better if you were not to make suggestions about what some Member may be doing in relation to a statement by another Member because that really is out of order.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Well, Madam Speaker, what I will do, without making that statement, is to read from a document that shows that his views (held in that document) are totally opposed to the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I am entitled to do that, while not saying what opinion he now holds.

The Manifesto of the National Team, at page 10 (and this is relating to Education which was criticised yesterday), paragraph 4 says:

"Increase where necessary financial assistance to private schools and colleges including International College of the Cayman Islands (ICCI)." Further in that we said: "We regard Private Schools and Colleges as very important to our overall education system. They provide a competitive edge to keep educational standards high and save Government substantial expense of providing school facilities and staff for students attending private schools who would otherwise have to attend Government schools."

It is this part, as well as the $7.2 million referred to in the Budget as what Government would pay for private school grants, that I now wish to dwell on. Those statements were accepted by, because the front of the National Team's Manifesto has his smiling face, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town who was, at that stage, deemed (at least by some of the Members) the shadow Minister of education. He totally endorsed the concept that it is better to put a small amount of money into private schools and have them save Government $7.2 million per annum.

The statement is abundantly clear, and I am reading again from the statement that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town has adhered to, in fact he wrote quite a bit of what is in the Manifesto relating to education. This is what happens when one jumps the fence because there are statements like this in writing that remain like ghosts to haunt one when one changes.

I will just read it again, it says; "...save Government substantial expense of providing school facilities and staff for students attending private schools who would otherwise have to attend Government schools." I am saying that those statements, those views, are totally opposed to the leader, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, who is now trying to say that we should not give money to private schools. I say that that is totally short-sighted because the small amounts of money that we have given out for the savings that we have is good economics.

If we had to take back all of those students, we would probably have to spend $25 million to build schools and we would spend another $7.2 million every year. So, I hope that the Opposition will better synchronise its views when it is dealing with these matters because I know that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town has a lot of his heart in education and he would not have made that statement unless he held those views.

[Inaudible interjection]

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: [addressing the voice across the floor] Well, I have really never jumped the fence, so I do not know how the frustration is when that happens.

The Speaker: Order. There will be no cross-talking between Members in the House.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Well, through you, Madam Speaker.

Now, I would like to touch on one other area, which is some criticism that was levelled at preschoolers by Mr. Steve McField, whom we know is a close friend of the two Opposition Members.

In the Budget is half a million dollars for preschoolers. I want to now tell Members of this House how this quandary about preschoolers came about. The education plan that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman endorses cut out preschoolers. Preschools were abolished in the Government system and over 200 children were put out of the Government schools and the classrooms were used for the extra year that was put onto the primary school by the last Government. There were not sufficient private preschools, Madam Speaker, to take them. I think it was probably one of the worst things that the then Member for Education did in relation to the school system.

These young, innocent, children were put out of the preschools and I could not do anything when I came in because the space had been used for an extra year in the Primary School. What I had to do then was to pay private preschools, many of whom were not registered—another failure of the previous Government. I think there were only about four or five schools registered.

We had questions being asked by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, or the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, about the number of children in school. They were put out and there were some 15 preschools that were not registered. The Government was having to pay substantial sums and this year the sum has doubled.

So, all I can say to Mr. McField, is to look at the Budget, talk to his two friends in here and he will see that I am doing what I can on preschools. I am not a magician and there is no way, even though I think the decision is wrong, that I can reverse it short term because there is no space in the schools to do it. This is the system that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is telling me that I must move on with. It was a disaster. If I had not intervened and did what I did, one would have really seen a disaster in the education system. But, the results speak for themselves.

I know it must have hurt when they saw the results of the Caribbean Examinations Council. It had to hurt. They were so good.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: They hurt you. You said the children were fools they could not pass the exam.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: There were 11 subjects that came out between 80% and 100%. They are the results. If I am not doing what is right and good for the system, how am I getting the results?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: You are not.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, there has been some comment about the school's budget. The budget in there now for schools, is what has been requested and what I think is adequate. There are modest increases in equipment and supplies. Some of the staff that were in there, for example, counsellors that were removed, there are very substantial savings in posts in the John Gray High School, which has reduced its population by 200 plus students. These are the posts that are vacant and will be used to ensure that the extra staff needed will be gotten.

So, I want to put it beyond doubt, and assure Members of this House that the budget for education is a full one. There is sufficient money there for anything that is necessary—and I point that out—that is necessary. If for any reason any area of the Budget falls short, I have always found this House to be very sympathetic, extremely sympathetic, in grating money for schools. I believe that a very small (and I use the word small) supplement will always be supported by this House. So, I would like to assure the Education Department and the public that the school's budget this year is much bigger than it was last year. There is sufficient money there and sufficient posts coming from the John Gray High School where we will ensure that there are adequate staff.

I noticed that this question of strategic planning, which I can assure the public will be as big a success as the examination results were this year, seems to continue to bother the Opposition. It also has caught the vicious swipes of Mr. Gordon Barlow in one of his recent articles an article that I would regard as one of the most damaging articles I have seen, in which he alleged, among other things (and I will deal with this under Cayman Airways), that drugs were rampant in the country—here, there and everywhere. In the course of it he also referred to planning and he said that no one should be wasting time on dealing with strategic planning.

He, once again, is another unemployed theorist. Most of these big theses that we find and all of this criticism is normally done by people who have failed in the society. He is in no position to criticise strategic planning because he does not have the ability to understand it. I would like to refer back, very briefly, to the article that was written in the Newstar, merely to state that what Mr. Mintzberg is talking about relating to big corporations is quite right—it does not suit everybody. But, what it does suit is the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation. It suits what he is doing with it and it suits what I am doing with it. We are involving a large number of the public and they are deciding how best to spend public money.

As I said yesterday, I think that Mr. Mintzberg, who probably did not even know where Cayman was, should really have tried to find out a bit more about how good this is working, before making what I regard very off-hand and irresponsible remarks on something which he—another theorist—has written a book about.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman had quite a bit to say about the Police and the Prison. This Government, and I am speaking for myself, fully supports the police and the prison service. They have a very difficult job to do. A policeman has to make split-second decisions whether to arrest someone, while lawyers and a judge can spend days arguing in court whether it was correct or not. He does not have that time. They have to act on the spur of the moment. Yes, they make mistakes. Anyone who has to act on the spur of the moment will make mistakes.

What would be more helpful—instead of the constant criticism of the police and the prison, which seem to be pet subjects of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town—is if they would spend their time constructively trying to help the police and trying to help the prison officers. The country would be much further ahead. Every session we have barrages of questions put in which either humiliate, or criticise, or dig at the Prison system or the police. Here the Member is talking about having more radios or police cars. This is a bit of a joke because that is the one good thing said about them for the run of the year. The rest of the year those two members are just simply pounding upon the police.

This is the reason why the necessary co-operation has to come from Members of the House to help the society stand behind essential services, such as the police and prison, to ensure that they can properly function. I am not saying that everyone in there is perfect, because nobody in any organisation is perfect. But, by and large, we have very good people in there.

We are doing all we can to try to put the Civil Service pensions on a proper footing by having the proper reserves put in the Budget. This year we are adding a very substantial amount to that. I believe that the money for pensions is money that is earned as a right; it should be segregated. I actually moved to have the Constitution amended so that politicians could not have access to pension funds. I think that was supported by the majority of members here because it is money that is earned by the Civil Service.

The reason why I moved that was because at one stage this fund was included as part of the reserves of the country by the last government. That is wrong. This money has to be segregated for the payment of pensions. I will repeat that I believe that having an efficient and a lean civil service is most important. Whatever is due to them in the form of pensions, or otherwise, should be segregated and kept away from politicians because we know that when all of the money is spent, politicians have a way of going into funds and getting in there, which they should not. When you go through $56 million lost in three years, and then you begin to put the pension fund into the general reserve category of the country, you are reaching a desperate stage. That is what the last Government did after losing $56 million—they tried to throw in a few million dollars that were really not sufficient to pay but a small percentage of Government pensions. I believe they would have used that money which legally belongs to civil servants.

The Hospital in the swamp has continued to draw a lot of attention and I am always very surprised when I hear the different twists given by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman when he is trying to support his mothballed, colleague in politics—Mr. Ezzard Miller. I know that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman opposed what was being done at the time.

Let me say that we were all together at that time. I have nothing with any Member changing his mind, that is fair enough, and maybe the views are different now. But, there was total opposition to this. We came in here and brought motions to this House, normally he or I would move it or second it. Those were the days when the Member was with the Opposition as we were at that stage, to such an extent that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman brought in someone who was prepared to do a hospital on the present site. So, I know that we were totally opposed to the hospital in the swamp. He was quite helpful at the time, but I think that Member needs to think back to those days when we bitterly opposed this.

I do not understand how it has become right, because nothing has really changed in relation to the mess that we had with the situation at the time—splitting it, paying maybe $20 million at the site in the swamp, and probably another $10 million or $15 million. The last Government estimated $10 million to renovate the facility, we could probably double their figures.

The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation is very capable and has moved as quickly as he can considering he has come in mid-term. The public has to appreciate that the task of the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation is really a very heavy one because he had to come in mid-term and try to do in half the time what most of us will have had the full four years to do. He has my total support and I am sure the support of all the Members of this House.

What he is proposing makes sense. In fact that Manifesto which the First Elected Member for Bodden Town assisted in writing and subscribed to, specifically states on page 12, paragraph 1: "We are against the building of the new hospital in the swamp..." I know the First Elected Member for Bodden Town will fully support the Minister for Health in his efforts to continue what was agreed to in the National Team's Manifesto, and he will do the right thing of building a good facility on the present site. There are eight acres plus another one and a half—nine and one half acres. There is a lot of space to do it there, there are good buildings and some will remain, but some are very old and may have to be demolished.

I think that notwithstanding the little bit of opposition to it, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman knows that when that Manifesto was put out the First Elected Member for Bodden Town fully subscribed to what the Minister for Health is now doing.

The country was headed for economic disaster and we have managed to turn it around. It is so interesting sometimes, to hear those who took one view not very long ago do a round-about and take another one.

Before going on to Cayman Airways, I would like to just touch on one other area. There was a statement made in relation to paying 10% to auditors who were keen enough to find where money had been wrongly spent. I do not have the statement, but words to that effect, made by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. Indeed, it is quoted in the newspaper today.

To put an auditor on commission is absolutely ludicrous. It goes totally against the system and the common sense of having people within the service who are honest. Once we begin a 10% approach, which was the hallmark of many commissions past—vast amounts, millions of dollars went out—once we get the 10% mentality, it has to be wrong. How can we pay independent auditors a percentage according to what they find?

Even in law, the system of paying a percentage to a lawyer for court work, depending on whether they succeed or do not succeed, is totally against the rules of etiquette and professionalism because it puts that person in a position where he will go to extremes to find or to sometimes even set up a series of things whereby he would make this 10%. They are paid salaries.

The only way that civil servants can, and should function, is if they are paid a salary to do their job. If you have people (auditors or otherwise) who are not doing their job, you cannot pay them 10% to do something they otherwise should be doing. It goes totally against the Civil Service principles. It goes totally against any professional principles to try to say that you should put auditors in the 10% category.

This is what has destroyed many of the other Caribbean Islands, this 10% mentality. We have seen some of it in this country and that is why I am speaking strongly on this because there was a stage in this country when 10% was the run of the day. It hurt this country. The auditors' profession is supposed to be independent from this type of thing. In fact, our Constitution brings in the independence of the auditors. They are on a level with the judges and the police—well, the police are not specifically set out in there, but the judges are set out in there. That independence is very important.

I would say that this is not only misguided, but very dangerous. It is something which can bring corruption into this country that we must keep out.

Madam Speaker, Cayman Airways has been very much like Education in that the results that we have seen have been quite good. I would like to begin by thanking the Chairman, the Managing Director and all the directors and staff at Cayman Airways: they are a very dedicated group of people. Some of them worked for about four years without any raises. They remained with Cayman Airways through the hard times and I am happy we are now in a position to be able to start to give raises to them.

It was really touching to be able to go into a meeting where people were so appreciative of something such as a raise, which all of us in the civil service and other institutions take for granted. These are people who have worked three and four years with no raises—some had their salaries reduced. I am very pleased to say that we are now getting a very good staff with a lot of team work in there and as long as Cayman Airways continues on the course that it is going, I will endeavour to see that the staff get their fair share of raises and ensure that they are treated in the way that they should have been during the three or four years that the last Government squandered the money on jets, new routes, $14,000 cocktail parties and that sort of thing.

The position at Cayman Airways is one where, at least for the time being, we have been consistently showing a profit just about every month of this year, taking into consideration the subsidy. I think the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman mentioned something about the amount of subsidy paid, but I would just like to remind this Honourable House that it paid $35 million over two-and-a-half years for losses that were incurred by Cayman Airways during an 18-month period. It is a considerable turn around to now be able to say that we have not used all of the subsidy that was given. It does not mean that that subsidy can just be cut. We need some reserves because the airline industry is very fickle—today it is one thing, tomorrow it is another. Airlines go in and out of business like a child runs in and out of a toy shop.

It is important that we get some reserves built up in Cayman Airways because we are going to hit problems from time to time. The airline business is never out of problems. It is one of the most difficult industries to predict. But we have applied the orthodox and usual principles of management to it, not the strategic planning, because it does not apply to Cayman Airways, but proper principles of management have been applied to it. The results have been very good.

I would just like to remind this Honourable House that out of the many people involved in Cayman Airways during its disaster of losing $35 million in that short period, the only people that have changed within the directorship area have been the Managing Director and the Minister for Aviation.

If I am getting the results with the few changes that have come about, it has to show that the airline was being badly run. The burden for that running has to clearly fall on the shoulders of the last government.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, would this be a convenient time to break?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes Ma'am.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.38 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 11.59 AM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Minister for Education, continuing the debate.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The rapid and catastrophic losses that still show in the accounts of Cayman Airways from past years were a direct result of having the undue interference of the Executive Council Members in the running of Cayman Airways. I am happy to say that the present board operates as a board and makes its decisions very clearly to find what it can do and the Managing Director makes his and those parameters are clearly defined and the Government has its role very clearly defined.

It was sold on the basis of what was referred to as 'sweetheart' deals, touted by Mr. Linford Pierson and those sweetheart deals we know cost this country $35 million and it still shows in the books of Cayman Airways. I believe that the course we are now steering is totally different from the course that Cayman Airways steered—as a direct result of interference by persons who were qualified to know better (that is, perhaps, the underscoring point) and who tendered bad advice for these sweetheart deals, as Mr. Linford put it, that were being entered into. We do not have sweetheart deals anymore, they are straight, orthodox, honest, simple transactions that we enter into. Most importantly, Cayman Airways, like this Government, now lives within its means.

That is very important, it is very hard for the two Opposition Members in this House, or their colleagues from the past Government, to understand. But, if you follow the normal course that is taken and keep away from these sweetheart deals, then you normally end up having a much better Government. And we have, I believe, a much better Cayman Airways.

Madam Speaker, in a report on Cayman Airways in March of 1994, the Chamber of Commerce said that 29% of the persons polled rated Cayman Airways as excellent; 46% said they were good; 17% said it was satisfactory; and only 8% said it was poor. I guess that 8% is the past Government and their colleagues and at least one of the Opposition in the House. They had this to say: "The handling of Cayman Airways received the highest appraisal by respondents of any issue. Positive comments included: 'It has been professionally run for the first time', and 'Great efforts were made to save our Airline and our National pride.' The few negative comments focused on the continued belief by some that Cayman Airways is still a financial burden."

I am reading the full statement because I believe in being fair. There is some financial burden, but it is to a large extent far better off than days when we were losing $14 million. At least the subsidy so far this year (and it is in for next year) has been sufficient.

I do issue this warning: The airline market is volatile and prediction of future trends is not easy—not that I am qualified to make those predictions, but even by those qualified it is not easy.

What I would like to say is that I believe that the promises made by this Government, and specifically by the National Team in relation to Cayman Airways, have been fulfilled—long before our four years are up.

I would just like to move briefly through these and relate it to the present budget and the present subsidy to show the public that the National Team has come through on their promises because this is what I think the silent majority that Mrs. Bridget keeps referring to—who mothballed a lot of her colleagues—actually looks at. They look at a good budget, a balanced budget, and they also look at what we have done with the problems of the country. I do not think anyone—even previous governments—would not admit that Cayman Airways has been the biggest problem that the Cayman Islands has seen.

I will be brief on this, and it is on page 4 of our Manifesto: "Our policy: We support Cayman Airways (CAL) and regard it as valuable to the Cayman Islands economy and to our people.

"Our objectives: 1. We believe that in accordance with paragraph 3.1 - 'Main Conclusion and Recommendation'—of the report of consultants Airline Services Ireland (ASI), CAL should 'consolidate and optimise its present position in terms of market share, load factor, revenues and costs. In pursuance of this strategy every effort should be made to contain major financial and marketing exposures such as would be created by further fleet expansion...."

That has been done, we have reduced down in accordance with their report. This was a good example of hundreds of thousands of dollars being spent on consultant's reports that were never carried out, they were just put on the shelf. We have carried that out and we have downsized.

"2. CAL should have followed ASI's recommendation and should now by legal means reduce its fleet back to three suitable jets at reasonable lease rates.

"3. Review CAL's routes where serious losses are made."

We have done that and cut back. It is astronomical the amount of money that was lost on some of these routes which we cut. The New York route, for example, some $4 million between tourism and Cayman Airways which had been spent in promoting it for a very short period. I think at one stage the losses on that route were running at $2 million a year. Yet, for politics, it continued on. Mr. Linford and Mr. Ezzard and whoever else was supporting it then.

"4. Strengthen CAL's Board of Directors and set guidelines with accountability to the Member for Tourism who must account to the public for expenditure of public funds on CAL."

Well, Cayman Airways was under the Member for Tourism. But this has been done, a Board has been set up, there is accountability.

"5. Abolish the Executive Committee as recommended by the consultants and reduce the Managing Director's powers and review this position."

The first thing we did was to cut the Managing Director's power all the way back to what a normal Managing Director has and the Executive Committee was abolished. Let me say this, I... Well, he is going on, so...

Normally an Executive Committee is not a bad thing in principle—if it is done right. There are many large institutions that have them, it is just that this Executive Committee had basically, literally all of the powers of the full Board. That is where the danger comes in.

"6. Institute better management, staff communication, participation and team work ethics and review CAL's reservations system."

The communication has really improved and we have found that staff are more open now in what they have to say, and I try at least once a quarter to go in with the members of the Board and sit with all the staff and let them have their say. Some of them say some very hard things at times, but we have done some hard things in Cayman Airways to get where we are, and I accept that. While I remain Minister I will continue to go in to full meetings of all the staff.

I also go to the meetings of the Directors. I sit with them and get their input and listen to them. In fact, a lot of what has resulted in Cayman Airways has come from the staff. They knew the many areas of waste and problems and we have corrected many. There are still others that will have to be corrected, but many of them have been dealt with.

As you know, the reservation system was reviewed, and I think it was reduced by nearly one-half of the personnel, many of whom were not Caymanians, in fact one of the persons who went from there was my first cousin, but in this position one has to learn that what applied to the public generally, has to apply to one's family.

"7. Seek a legal solution in relation to the two 737-400s which Guinness Peat Aviation (GPA) has a right to return in 1994 for three years at a total lease cost of approximately US$20 million."

That has been done. We negotiated out of it for $1.5 million. We also had to pay the $6.5 million judgment from when they had grounded the two 737-400s.

"9. Ensure that there are regular, practical flights to, from and between Cayman Brac and Little Cayman which are convenient."

I think we have done that. In fact, we have added an extra flight on Saturday, which I mentioned earlier. We have some very good support from Island Air in this area and they have done a good job in many respects in assisting the Sister Islands with their service.

In thinking back a few months, at one stage there were about 550-odd flights per month to Cayman Brac and at one stage it peaked at 700 to Little Cayman per month. That is hard to believe, but it is so.

The National Team, in my view, has discharged the duty in Cayman Airways that it set out to do. I will endeavour to the best of my ability to ensure that Cayman Airways continues along the lines that it is going. There are going to be problems. We still have to face the Bermuda II Negotiations in air rights, we still have to face very stiff competition from airlines such as American Airlines, but I think the National Team's approach—that the Cayman Islands has to come first, and Cayman Airways is secondary to that—has to be applied. It rarely conflicts, but occasionally it does. In instances like that it is better to subsidise it some, as we do on the Cayman Brac route, than to have people in the Islands suffer.

I noticed in the newspaper that there is to be a meeting dealing with the 'tax borrow and waste' government. The person holding the meeting is an expert in this because it applies fully to the last government. So we will hear, perhaps tonight or tomorrow night (Tuesday the 15th) exactly how that Member engineered the tax borrowing and waste of Government funds in the last four years to the tune of $57 million. I am sorry... A former Member for Health, Mr. Ezzard Miller, is what I am saying.

One other short area before I leave Cayman Airways is that we now have put out a job description within Cayman Airways for the Assistant Managing Director. We will be endeavouring to look both within the company and outside the company for a Caymanian to fill that position. It is very important that whoever sits confirmed as Managing Director of Cayman Airways is capable of handling it because it is something that can wreak economic disaster in this country in a very short period of time. The evidence of that is plastered in red over the last four years.

It may well be that we will be able to find within the Island someone capable of sitting there. I am sure we will. If necessary we will give the proper training. We will have some continuity in relation to the present Managing Director who unfortunately is going in the middle of next year—I had hoped it would have been closer to November of next year. He is very capable, very experienced, and he has really taken Cayman Airways to the heights it has now reached in what has been (and this is the one time I believe I am changing sides) a total turn around and change of sides and approach that we have taken there—this time for the better.

I think that I need to clearly say that if the Board is not satisfied that an applicant—be he Caymanian or otherwise—is competent to fit or hold that position, then he should not get it. It is just too critical and too expensive a position to be filled by someone unless he is fully capable.

The comments in today's Caymanian Compass on the Budget Address debate by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, has as its headline "The Budget Has Been Termed a Cookbook". Well, Madam Speaker, I am going to speak for a minute or two on 'cookbooks'.

What the National Team has cooked was the last Government's business. They are out there burning up in the fire now and unfortunately the leader of the Opposition can not get them back out of the fire. If there is any cooking that is being done, it is not being done by this Government.

When you look at the $57 million in losses in three years, they did not cook the books, they basically raped the country economically.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Hear, hear!

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: They are the hard facts that are laid down—the accounts of this country which are on the Table of this House.

So, I would suggest that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman go and listen to the Tuesday meeting and he will find out all about cookbooks and how they did the massive losses the last time.

On a lighter note, the Caymanian Compass, on Tuesday, 8th November, 1994, had an editorial report that I believe is the shortest editorial in its history. Why that is short, and in fact it is about one-third of a page, is because it is headed "Good News on the Economy." If that had been headed Bad News on the Economy they would have written four pages on it. Maybe this is the mentality of Mr. Black who made all of those bad statements against journalists. They had to admit that the economy is moving upwards and that there is good news.

What I would say is that they should go back and look at this and really try to do a bit better on the news because I believe that Mr. Black, who owns the newspaper, would be very unhappy if he found the good profits that he says are coming out of the small newspapers, reduced as a result of their not trying to assist the economy in the interest of business continuing to develop.

What I always find a bit strange . . . and I am not really criticising the Caymanian Compass here, but they do their little cartoons of me and other Members at times, and every now and then they need to be told a few things. I would not go as far as their owner did in that article in the Wall Street Journal. Only to say that when they do get some good news, try to give us a bit of good coverage on it.

What always amazes me is why anyone in the world would take and advertise in The New Caymanian, which has 'gloom' on the front page, and inside of it they are trying to sell their piece of land. I think the classic [example] was a headline that said "People who dive get heart attacks quicker" and inside someone was trying to sell a dive business.

So, maybe people who advertise should find out what the headlines are going to say before they put their good money into the newspapers. They should tell the editors to print some good stuff when it is there, because it helps the people who pay the bills that pay their salaries.

Now, the Budget presented by the Honourable Third Official Member is one that cannot be criticised fairly by anyone. It is one that has no borrowings for this year. We have taken $13 million of recurrent monies and that is being put towards capital. It is the same as having a situation where out of one's salary one buys one's house. It is the best position one can get in. It is not that the Cayman Islands Government cannot borrow money, the last government could not. In fact, to borrow the $20 million for Cayman Airways took us more than six months. Not until the first Budget came out, so that the banks were convinced that the policy had changed radically, were we able to borrow the $20 million that had been attempted to be negotiated from June of 1992 for Cayman Airways.

We have been prudent. We have kept down expenditure, and we are living within our means. If there is one message which this Budget sends to the public and private sector, it is that the National Team understands what it is to run a country in a proper way; to run it efficiently; and not to take and do the massive borrowings which left this country with contingent liabilities of nearly $140 million which included the $56 million of losses over the last three years when the last Government was in. And really they had brought this country to a stage where it was totally bankrupt. We are paying back $12 million a year now for debts which we did not incur.

So, the message we have sent is very clear, and I hope that all of our supporters will echo that. The National Team lives within its budget. We live within the means we have. We will continue to do that because that is the only proper way to get this country back on an even keel.

Let me just issue one word of warning and that is that if they believe that the economic wreckers of the past three years—the last government, Mr. Linford, Mr. Ezzard and those—will not come back and continue to wreck the country to the extent of another $57 million in three years, then they make a mistake of even thinking of supporting them. To those who are connected with them—their colleagues, (like the letters we have seen in the paper which I commented on earlier), they have to understand that they carry the same burden as the people who wrecked this country. If they keep company with them, they must take responsibility for what they have done. I do not know who in the world going in to politics would want to associate with the economic wreckage of the last Government.

So the message we have to give to the public is that we are living within our means. I believe that is all we can be expected to do, and that we account to the public. We have kept our promises: I read from the Manifesto on Cayman Airways; I read in relation to education. We are an honest Government, we are doing our best and we are asking the public to help us; we are asking for God's help.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism.

ADJOURNMENT

Re: Tropical Storm "Gordon"

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, just on a point of procedure, if I may.

I understand that the National Hurricane Committee has declared Phase I of an action this morning and intends to do Phase II at 4.30 this afternoon. I would make a suggestion that the House adjourn at this time until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The Speaker: The question before the House is that the House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning. If there is no debate I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

AT 12.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM WEDNESDAY, 16 NOVEMBER, 1994.

WEDNESDAY
16 NOVEMBER, 1994
10.03 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

The Speaker: Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. Deferred question, number 165, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 165

No. 165: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member to provide a progress report of the review by the Task Force into the alleged under declaration of duties by Cayman Cement Distributors Company Limited.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Findings as to possible under declaration of duty by this company have been passed to the Attorney-General's Office. Follow-up meetings have commenced between the Attorney-General, the Collector of Customs and other appropriate officers with a view to arriving at a decision as to what action should be pursued.

Madam Speaker, I should point out that the providing of any further information on this question other than what has been given could prejudice any suggested follow-up action that may be recommended by the Honourable Attorney-General.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 183, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 183

No. 183: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation to state: (a) the number of students suspended from the George Hicks and John Gray High Schools from September, 1993 until June, 1994; and (b) to provide a list of the offences for which the suspensions were granted.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The answer: (a) a total of 42 students (29 boys and 13 girls) were suspended from the George Hicks High School between September 1993 and June 1994. At the John Gray High School, 109 students (87 boys and 22 girls) were suspended during the same period.

(b) At the George Hicks High School, students were suspended for the following reasons: endangering the safety of other students; gross rudeness and disrespect to a member of staff; continual disruptive behaviour; refusing to behave while in detention; causing a major disruption in the school; and fighting.

At the John Gray High School, students were suspended for the following offences: fighting/violence; abuse to teachers; continual serious disobedience/disruption; possession of offensive weapon; refusal to accept punishment/sanctions; thefts; and drugs (including alcohol).

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say what percentage of these students come from the Primary Schools with a history of this type of behaviour?

SUPPLEMENTARY DISALLOWED

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I do not think the Minister would be in possession of such a figure because it was not part of the original question. The question concerns the suspension of students from the George Hicks High School and the John Gray High School. There were no references at all to the number coming up from the Primary School.

If the Honourable Minister could give something later on, fine. If not, I cannot allow that question.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

May I ask the Honourable Minister then, what kinds of psychological tests or counselling, if any, these students get?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, all I can say is that there are three Educational Psychologists and about another three Counsellors who deal with these matters. But there is no way that I can try to tell him on a case to case basis what psychological tests or otherwise are done at this stage.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister give the undertaking that if not presently administered, that these students be administered some tests which will determine whether or not they suffer from attention deficit disorder?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I cannot give the Member any sort of undertaking where he is just standing up and putting some test in limbo to students. The students who need testing get tested, and we have qualified professional people who deal with those tests. I am not prepared to put any type of test that this Member comes up with out of theory to any of those students.

And I want to just point out that this is a very important and a very personal aspect of schooling. He should not be attempting to pry into the personal lives of these children.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, I am just asking the Minister—since he says that there are Educational Psychologists—if the psychologists administer tests to determine if any of these students suffer from attention deficit disorder and, if not, would he enquire if the psychologists think that would be a worthwhile practice to adopt.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, unless I venture into giving an opinion that I am not qualified to give, I cannot answer that question. All I can say to him is that we have professional people and he has to rely on the fact that this is a very personal matter for these children. They are children who have problems and they get the proper professional help.

I can go no further than that with it, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 184, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 184

No. 184: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Second Official Member for Legal Affairs to provide a breakdown of the students at the Cayman Islands Law School by programme of study and nationality.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

During the academic year 1994-95, in the Honours Degree Programme: Year One, a total of 11 students, 4 Caymanian, 7 non-Caymanian; in Year Two, a total of 9 students, 7 Caymanian or married to a Caymanian, 2 non-Caymanian; and in Year Three a total of 10 students, 8 Caymanian, 2 non-Caymanian.

The Professional Practice Course: A total of 8 students, all Caymanian or married to a Caymanian.

The Ordinary Degree Programme: there is 1 student, Caymanian.

The Diploma in Legal Studies: Year One a total of 4 students all Caymanian or married to a Caymanian; Year Two—3 students, 2 Caymanian, 1 non-Caymanian; and Year Three—2 students both Caymanians.

In addition there are General Students who study out of interest but for no particular qualification and there are 4 students: 1 Caymanian, 3 non-Caymanian. So the total enrolled number of students is 52, of whom 37 are Caymanian or married to a Caymanian and 15 are non-Caymanian.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
Can the Honourable Member say if there exists any quota for non-Caymanian students in any of these courses?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Not that I am aware of, Madam Speaker. There is no quota.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Member say if there has been a recent change or ruling in the Law School that non-Caymanian students are allowed to pursue legal studies? Certainly, the original intention of the school to the best of my knowledge was that it was catering specifically to Caymanian persons to be trained in legal studies.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Caymanians, of course, are always encouraged to participate at the School. But it has always been available for non-Caymanians to study there. The essential difference is that it is only Caymanians who are entitled to go further and qualify to be admitted to practice law in the Cayman Islands. So to obtain an academic qualification non-Caymanians can do that in certain circumstances, but only Caymanians can go on to be admitted as Lawyers and Attorneys in Cayman; unless the dispensation of the Governor is given. That has not been given.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Member explain or give some detail as to the general students studying out of interest. Will they eventually end up with a degree or a diploma or what is the situation in that course of study?

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: No, Madam Speaker. They will not end up with any qualifications at all (not formal qualification). They are students who, as a matter out of their own interest, come to the Law School to study a single subject, rather than a complete course. Maybe they have an interest in a particular area of law that they want to study and they come there for those lectures. But they do not go through the whole course, so they will not get any qualification.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 186, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 186

No. 186: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation for the total number of Flight Attendants employed by Cayman Airways Limited, with a breakdown by length of service and nationality.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The answer, Madam Speaker, is that Cayman Airways has 34 Flight Attendants. The breakdown follows:

Total No.	Nationality	Length of Service
10	Caymanian	Since 1981: 1
	"	1985: 1
	"	1986: 3
	"	1987: 1
	"	1988: 2
	"	1990: 2
12	Jamaican	Since 1985: 1
	"	1986: 1
	"	1987: 3
	"	1988: 3
	"	1989: 1
	"	1992: 3

The 1992 that I am talking about is June of 1992.

5	American	Since 1983: 1
		1990: 1
		June 1992: 3
1	Nicaraguan	Since 1986
1	Canadian	Since 1992
1	British	Since 1992
1	South African	Since 1992
1	Scottish	Since 1992
1	Honduran	Since 1992
1	Bermudian	Since 1992

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could the Honourable Minister say if any effort has been made to recruit even a few more Caymanians for Flight Attendants on Cayman Airways, to change the pattern of this international line up?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the policy of Cayman Airways Board is to Caymanianise as much of Cayman Airways as is possible. But as the Honourable Member will see, all of the foreigners originated with the last Government and the Government before, which had the policy of just employing foreigners instead of Caymanians. I want to point out that all of these were employed prior to this Government coming into [office].

We have been attempting now to change over as best we can and indeed, and some of the Flight Attendants who were foreigners were terminated. Some resigned. So a lot more have left since that period of downsizing.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister say what has he been doing in the past two years specifically to change this situation of foreigners other than those that have been laid off? There are still many here. What is being done? Is there any advertisement to change these posts or is he simply going along with the way he found it?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the disaster of Cayman Airways arose because the former Member dabbled into the workings and the daily employment of Cayman Airways staff. I am not going to fall into that trap.

It is a decision that has to be made by the appropriate authority. It is not my duty to recruit staff for Cayman Airways and the reason why we have gone from this loss of $35 million in two and a half years (that the last Government got into by recruiting extensively), is because the Board and the Managing Director have very clear parameters within which they operate and we do not overlap.

However, the decision of the Board is to Caymanianise Cayman Airways as far as possible. And to that effect we do so within the proper and orthodox channels of the Board and the Managing Director.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, the Honourable Minister spoke about what the last government did, indeed at this time he is Government. What I would like him to tell the House is if he has set any policy (being Government) about hiring of non-Caymanians and Caymanians in Cayman Airways which the Board of Directors must adhere to.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I, as a Member of Government representing the shareholders of the company, do not set policies in relation to staff for Cayman Airways. And I want to get this very clear—the policy for staff of Cayman Airways is set by the Board and in certain circumstances by the Managing Director. As Members know, shareholders of a company are not the directors of a company and do not run it.

It is this failure to understand the difference between a shareholder and a director, which is now displayed by this Honourable Member, that caused the disaster of a $35 million loss to Cayman Airways in two and a half years—a failure to appreciate how to run a company. I am not going to interfere into areas as a shareholder that I am not legally qualified to go into and indeed, which does not fall directly under me.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 187, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 187

No. 187: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation what consequences are projected for Cayman Airways Limited due to the charter proposed by Caledonian Airlines and other Airlines which may be flying approved charter services into the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the total number of seats provided charters, including Caledonian, is less than 10 per cent of the total seats in the Cayman market. Furthermore, Caledonian operates from a United Kingdom market which Cayman Airways Limited does not serve. That United Kingdom market is less than 5 per cent of total traffic to Cayman. Therefore, charter traffic is not the major threat to Cayman Airways Limited. The real threat is provided by scheduled carriers operating on the same United States of America/Cayman routes as the national carrier.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Minister say if any traffic is lost to charter flights into the Cayman Islands that Cayman Airways once had prior to these charters coming on line?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, common sense, dictates that with the charter flights there is some loss of passengers to Cayman Airways. Also it must be remembered that in downsizing to put the company back in a profit we had to cut routes such as New York, Baltimore, Turks and Caicos and, obviously, we do not carry passengers on those flights. So charters in those areas will hurt Cayman Airways, but, notwithstanding that, we continue to make a profit in Cayman Airways with the subsidy.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Minister say if Cayman Airways at this time undertakes any charters itself?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, it takes a few from time to time. But to keep Cayman Airways in a profit—I want to stress this—to keep Cayman Airways in a profit we only have two aircraft and the question of new routes is a position for the shareholders and Government (unlike the staff matter that the Member mentioned earlier). To keep the profit in Cayman Airways, we have only taken charters from time-to-time. I would hope this policy would continue for some time to come.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 194, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 194

No. 194: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation how many students are in the Primary, Middle, and High School and Community College respectively in each of the Government and private schools.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The number of students enrolled in the Primary Schools are as follows:

West Bay Primary	429
George Town Primary	331
Red Bay Primary	316
Savannah Primary	175
Bodden Town Primary	114
North Side Primary	42

East End Primary	58
West End Primary	3
Creek Primary	45
Spot Bay Primary	59
Lighthouse School	65

The number of students enrolled in special schools are as follows:

Sunrise Adult Training Centre	22
Alternative Education Centre	12

Number of students at George Hicks High School: 721
 Number of student at the John Gray High School: 567
 Number enrolled at Cayman Brac High School : 109

Number of students enrolled at Community College:
 In full-time programmes 138
 In part-time programmes 78
 Customised contract courses (projected) 300
 Extension courses (projected) 700

The number of students enrolled in the private schools is as follows:

St. Ignatius Catholic School	395
Cayman Preparatory School	356
Triple C School	293
Truth for Youth School	234
Wesleyan Christian Academy	140
Edmer Academy School	89

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could the Honourable Minister say if in the two Government High Schools (if indeed that is what they are) if the numbers there are above what was recommended by the last Education survey as being an acceptable number at the schools?

The Speaker: I do not know if the Honourable Minister could answer that. Perhaps he may do so at a later time.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, those numbers were 500; the Minister claims to know so much about education and the plans.

The Speaker: Please, no statements.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I would like to ask if the Honourable Minister could explain exactly what are the customised contract courses and the extension courses at the Community College?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Borden: Madam Speaker, these are courses that the College runs for the private sector. For example, the Chartered Institute of Bankers Examinations.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Statement by the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS/MINISTERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

STRATEGIC PLANNING

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Members of this Honourable House may have been made aware of an article appearing in a recent edition of a local magazine, in which a Professor of Management in a Canadian University, Henry Mintzberg, makes critical comments about strategic planning based on adverse experiences resulting from its misapplication in large foreign corporate organisations such as General Electric and Texas Instruments. At no time in the article, nor in his book on strategic planning, does the professor give any evidence of any knowledge whatsoever of the Cayman Islands, its culture or what we are achieving through strategic planning. Quite the opposite in fact.

I have no intention, Madam Speaker, of getting into the details of the article or Professor Mintzberg's book on strategic planning. Suffice it to say, the external facilitator for the Cayman Islands three strategic plans, Dr. Bill Cook, believes that the professor's views, in so much as they relate to corporate strategic planning, are fundamentally correct, but not relevant for what we are seeking to achieve in Education, Health, and Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation here in Cayman.

With your indulgence, Madam Speaker, I would like briefly to remind this Honourable House why I chose a strategic planning approach to the formulation of plans for my Ministry.

When I took office earlier this year, it was clear to me that the provision of first rate services in Health and Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation was going to involve the expenditure of considerable funds. In order to ensure that value for money was achieved, I decided that we must have a structured approach and systems in place. The strategic planning process impressed me for a number of reasons: First, it is a highly systematic approach to developing plans for the next five years, with a focus on the best interests of providers and clients.

Secondly, it involves wide community participation, inter-sectoral collaboration and decision making by consensus, key ingredients in getting the staff and the general public's ownership of the plan.

Third, it provides for letting the public know what is happening at each stage of the plan's development.

Fourth, at the implementation stage, it clearly assigns accountabilities. And, last but not least, it provides for an annual update to allow for fine tuning, deletions, or additions to take place, again by input from the community and by consensus.

Madam Speaker, I remain unshaken in my confidence that this orderly, structured approach to planning, which involves a cross section of our society and capitalises on their concerns, ideas, good will, expertise and commitment to improve important aspects of our society, will produce excellent plans for implementation which in turn will assist us in our drug abuse prevention and rehabilitation efforts and with the provision of an excellent health service.

The very many Caymanians and non-Caymanians involved in strategic planning should not be discouraged by this irrelevant and irresponsible article. On behalf of the Government, I salute them for their efforts and promise unwavering support as we carry these plans through to implementation.

It is my firm conviction and belief that if the people in our communities are not involved in an approach to solving our drug problems we cannot be successful! This is one of the major strengths of strategic planning which, in our case, is being applied to a service-oriented enterprise as opposed to a corporate entity designed to make a profit.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS 46 AND 47

The Speaker: Government Business. Bills. Suspension of Standing Orders 46 and 47.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning—Leader of Government Business.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I move the suspension of Standing Order 46 and 47, in accordance with Standing Order 83, to allow the Marriage (Amendment) Bill, 1994, to be taken this morning.

Madam Speaker, at present the Marriage Law under section 21 (a) (ii) requires that a person who is visiting the islands (in other words a tourist) needs to reside in the Cayman Islands for three days. And the amendment which we seek to put forward this morning is to remove the three days and just substitute that both of them have disembarked in the Cayman Islands and have complied with the provisions of Part IV of the Immigration Law, basically to ensure that the Immigration Department administers proper control over the individuals and to ensure that they are legally landed in this country and the Immigration Department knows about it.

We are competing in a competitive market, Madam Speaker, against other islands in the Caribbean, and I move the suspension of Standing Orders.

The Speaker: Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman are you rising on a Point of Order.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I would like to speak on the question of the suspension of Standing Orders.

The Speaker: There is going to be no debate. Our Standing Orders are silent on that. You cannot have a debate on the suspension. But if there is anything else you wish to raise I would have to put the Motion and if it is carried you can debate the business.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I would like to make a Point of Order.

The Speaker: Let me hear the Point of Order, please.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, the House has suspended the Standing Orders to allow their ongoing debate of the Budget Address. We are talking about suspending the Standing Orders to bring in an amendment to a Law, and this amendment came into the House three minutes ago.

I think this is really an abuse of Standing Orders.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I have said that there should be no debate on that. I will put the question and the House will decide whether Standing Orders should be suspended further.

I shall put the question. The question is that Standing Orders 46 and 47 be suspended in order for the House to deal with the Marriage (Amendment) Bill, 1994. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Orders are accordingly suspended.

AGREED BY MAJORITY. STANDING ORDERS 46 AND 47 SUSPENDED TO ENABLE ALL STAGES OF THE MARRIAGE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994, TO BE TAKEN.

FIRST READING

THE MARRIAGE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

The Speaker: First Reading.

Clerk: The Marriage (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for Second Reading.

SECOND READING

THE MARRIAGE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1994

Clerk: The Marriage (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled the Marriage (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

The Bill before this Honourable House proposes to make one small amendment to the Marriage Law. Section 21 of the Marriage Law empowers the Governor to issue a special Marriage Licence to visitors of the islands who wish to get married here, provided that at least one of them has been resident in the islands for three days.

In recent times there have been a number of requests from cruise ship passengers for the Special Marriage Licence to be issued. As it stands today that is impossible, since cruise ships are only in port for less than 12 hours. However, to permit this, it is necessary to remove the residency requirement for these persons. I should hasten to point out that this special Marriage Licence is not available to Caymanians and, therefore, the amendment will have absolutely no effect on them.

Madam Speaker, the number of Special Marriage Licences issued thus far for 1994 total 410. The revenue from each licence is CI$150.00 and there is a $10 charge for the stamp. The total revenue therefore is $61,500.00 for 1994. As said earlier there are about four other jurisdictions in the Caribbean that are issuing Special Marriage Licences, and the Cayman Islands, because of the three-day residency requirement, is losing a considerable amount of business. We therefore wish to remove that residency requirement, and instead simply have the visitors complete the Embarkment/Disembarkment Card showing that they are legally landed.

Madam Speaker, I commend the Bill to this Honourable House.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Marriage (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading. The Motion is open for debate. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, ever so often we hear these claims about this Christian society of ours where when it comes to question as to whether a shop can sell a pamper instead of a bottle of milk, or something of the sort, it has to be referred to a Select Committee. When one tries to correct an ongoing illegality—with raffles, because of our Christian society and the threat to it by gambling, that has to go to a Select Committee. Now three minutes ago a paper was passed around to amend the Marriage Law. The Standing Orders were suspended to permit this, and here we are from debating the Budget Address, now amending the Marriage Law to suit cruise ship passengers.

Madam Speaker, I think that the business of legislation in this House is being taken to positions that are questionably dangerous, and is being made to look ridiculous. Standing Orders are strictly there to be suspended at every whim and fancy, and for any frivolous purpose it would seem. I just want to make a few observations as I have not had any opportunity to look at the deeper implications of this Bill, for there has not been sufficient time. But I do want to make the point about all of these claims of religious fervour.

I wonder Madam Speaker, if the Cayman Islands is suddenly getting into a new tourism market—selling marriages here. What, indeed, is the purpose of that? Is it supposed to bring us some particular image abroad, or sell our name abroad, and, indeed, if it does, what type of image is it going to be?

Persons who are travelling on the cruise ship—their conscience is bothering them, or whatever, about what they may have been doing prior to marriage—step ashore in the Cayman Islands, the Immigration Embarkment/Disembarkment Card is taken and it says: Yes, you are "X" and you are "Y" now we will marry you and make it right. Is that the service that we are now taking on?

Madam Speaker, I understand that it does not apply to Caymanians. But why should we choose to change our Marriage Law, with all the hype about marriage being a holy institution and so forth, and made in heaven, to cater to persons stepping off on our shores and being here for five minutes or 10 minutes or whatever time it takes. That is ridiculous.

It is absurd, and I can see no justification whatsoever for this particular exercise. From a purely practical and common-sensical point of view, I think that this particular amendment to the Marriage Law is questionable.

Indeed, if persons wish to be married while they are on a cruise, it is my understanding that under the Laws of the sea most Captains can perform funerals and weddings—persons could be married on board the cruise ship. Why do they choose to say that they are married in the Cayman Islands? as this is suggesting. Would this bode well for us as with our financial services, where the people say they step off the plane, run in here, do business and go back on the plane and their company is made and they can do business? I do not see how this can help the Cayman Islands.

Madam Speaker, as I have said I received the Bill three minutes ago, so I can offer no more than those immediate thoughts on it. But I will not support this.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, obviously I rise to support the Bill. I believe some people think that they know all the facts, but I would question some of the statements being made.

The honeymoon travel market is no small item in the travel world of tourism today—it values $5 billion—and we are in competition for that market. People are going to get married whether it is in their own jurisdiction or somewhere else. The growing trend today as we understand it, is that many people particularly from the North American continent want to have a special marriage in a special place that they have selected. It may be in Aruba, it may be Jamaica, it may be in the Bahamas, it may be in Barbados or it may be in the Cayman Islands. God knows that we are getting honeymoon traffic to the Cayman Islands, but in our attractiveness there is a lot left wanting.

In many of the Caribbean countries one needs to be there for 72 hours. That is sometimes easy because either they stay in a hotel room for that period of time, or their cruise ship ties up for that period of time, or it may even be that they bend the rules to fit. Our views are that if we are going to do marriages in the Cayman Islands, we want to ensure that all legal authority is in place. That is the reason why we brought this amendment to the House—to continue to have authority as to who gets married, and that the Immigration Department is satisfied, and they have to fulfill the requirements of section 21 (a) (ii) among other part of the Law that deals with visitors being married.

I see nothing dangerous about it, Madam Speaker. I see nothing unreligious about it. Maybe some people would like them to come and stay in a room and live for three days. Is that religious? I think that is the unreligious aspect of it. What we are trying to do is to maintain the religious characteristics of the Cayman Islands by saying that we are building all the controls we need, but let us do it in a moral and proper way.

Some people say that in the Bible, there is Sodom and Gomorrah, and we remember the religious aspect of that. But I see nothing wrong with removing three days and inserting an amendment as we have put forward in the Marriage (Amendment) Bill, to deal with the requirements of the Cayman Islands and to cause us to be more competitive for this line of business. For what are we in the business of tourism for, if not to make some money and to be competitive against other countries—while at the same time holding on to our beliefs that things must be done properly, from a legal point of view and from a moral point of view.

Nobody is selling any marriage, Madam Speaker. The marriages are under the Law. God knows that you do not sell marriage for $150.00. What we are doing is basically placing the Cayman Islands on a competitive level with other destinations which are catering to this market. It is very simple: Just remove the "three days" and put in the amendment that we are seeking, which gives the Immigration Department the control to ensure that persons who are married in this country under this Special Licence are landed properly with Immigration Authority.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Certainly, I must confess my consternation that the National Team, which touts its members as respectable, Bible-thumping people, would have the temerity to bring this Motion here suspending Standing Orders to turn the Cayman Islands into a haven for marriages of convenience and whatever else at short notice. If this is an indication of things to come, I am most concerned.

Now, Madam Speaker, the Minister has spoken about catering to people who want to spend their honeymoons, but he has the situation wrong. Because the honeymoon comes after the marriage—not before the marriage—and if these people are coming here, stepping off cruise ships to get married, then they certainly will not be spending their honeymoon here if they intend to continue on the cruise.

I have to ask, Madam Speaker, because the reputation that we are getting in the international world and some other areas is not good. Are we compounding that problem by bringing this kind of notoriety on ourselves like Mexico and the Dominican Republic? Believe you me, we are not that destitute in these islands that we need any portion of that five billion. What about the moral aspects? Who, Madam Speaker, is going to perform these weddings? What self-respecting and serious man of the cloth is going to marry someone who steps off the cruise ship saying that he is John Doe, or Miss "X", whom he does not even know and has not even met?

Madam Speaker, as I understand it, marriage is a serious business and most marriage officers certainly require counselling of the candidates; counselling that goes on over a period of days, sometimes weeks. They have to satisfy themselves that both parties are aware of the seriousness. And, Madam Speaker, even with that precaution, some still have misgivings.

In this country we have always subscribed to a certain moral and spiritual position. This is not enhancing that position, and I wonder what we are going to gain that will be worth the reputation that we are going to lose?

We are talking about not opening stores on Sundays because it is our day. We are so moved spiritually and religiously that we want to distinguish ourselves by setting aside a particular day when everything goes kaput! Dead! Bam!

On the other hand, we are talking about marrying people—allowing people, who we do not even know, who may be criminals, who may have any reason in the world other than the legitimate reason of love to enter into a union. Then we say we are going to allow them to just step off [a ship] and get married.

It does not matter that our own people are excluded from this, Madam Speaker, it is still wrong. I stand here proudly saying that I will not be supporting this Bill.

Madam Speaker, I would like to know who will be marrying these people, because I am sure that no self-respecting preacher is going to marry someone whom he has only known for the length of time that this Bill has been before the House—three minutes.

Madam Speaker, it will not get any support from this Member, and I shall listen and observe with interest. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise in support of the amendment to the Marriage Law.

Listening to the Opposition speak, reminds me of an advertisement that I saw with regard to the firms on Wall Street. It said: "When E.F. Hutton speaks, people listen." I believe that is the position the Opposition thinks it finds itself in. All its members have to do is get up here and thump their chests, and people will take in all they say—which is nonsense, Madam Speaker.

This amendment is a very simple one. It is basically intending to put the Cayman Islands in a competitive position with other destinations. Just because the persons who intend to get married here in the Cayman Islands land here for only a couple of hours does not mean that they have met two or three hours before [landing]. Some of these persons have probably known each other for years. So that argument about us getting away from religious traditions here in the Cayman Islands is total nonsense.

This Government encourages marriage rather than shacking up, which is probably what the Opposition is proposing or encouraging. And we have to be in a position...

POINT OF ORDER

(Misleading)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a Point of Order.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of Order?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker. The gentleman last speaking is misleading the House and casting aspersions on the Opposition that did not come out in either of our debates. Madam Speaker, I request the Chair to take the matter into consideration.

The Speaker: I have listened very carefully to what the Member has said and I think he used the phrase that "this is what the Opposition is probably advocating", or something to that effect. That does not really say that they are, in my opinion. So I will not agree with that Point of Order.

Honourable Member, would you continue please?

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Between now and November 1996 they are going to jump up many times because we are going to have some things to say. As I said, Madam Speaker, we in the Cayman Islands have to be in a competitive position. The other day the Financial Secretary took the bold decision on behalf of Government to put the Cayman Islands [back] in a competitive position with regards to some of the other offshore destinations, like the British Virgin Islands, by reducing company fees. What has the result been? Since April when the amendment came into effect, company registration has basically doubled here in the Cayman Islands, which is revenue.

You can imagine the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town as Ministers of Executive Council, wanting to run a country, having all these demands that calls for money, but having no concern whatsoever as to where those funds will come from. I commend Government for the bold decision to address this issue, and I look forward to the revenue from this source increasing substantially.

It does not mean that we are encouraging marriages of convenience. Madam Speaker, that is nonsense! And I believe that this is a step in the right direction. I do not see the relevance it has to the issue of Sunday trading or any other issue that has recently been brought to this House, including gambling, which the present Government does not support, and from all indications a majority of the people of these islands also do not support.

So, Madam Speaker, I support this amendment. I think it is a good one and I commend the Mover.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I will be very brief.

I do not see this amendment calling into question the moral aspects of marriage. The position today is that persons from overseas can come to the islands, and within three days those persons can be married.

As the Honourable Minister for Tourism has pointed out, this aspect of tourism is a growing business—over $5 billion dollars—and we are not doing anything to the country to say that the Cayman Islands can be put in any bad light as has been suggested by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Madam Speaker, marriages of people from outside is not something new. This is something that happens. In fact, from what I can gather—and I am a marriage officer—it is a thriving business here in Cayman today, marrying these people from overseas. If the Ministry can make this much more feasible, much more desirable, then why not? Even if we have one percent of the business, whether it be from a cruise ship or whether they came in by plane. Nobody is saying that it is going to come through the cruise ship.

We know that because of weather at times people are put at a disadvantage. They plan their marriage to be performed in the British Virgin Islands, Barbados or some place else, and a hurricane develops and the cruise ship has to be diverted through the Cayman Islands. Why should we not take the opportunity to make some revenue? Even if we only receive one percent of that business, how much would that be, Madam Speaker? One percent out of $5 billion, or even half of a percent.

I feel that the Cayman Islands, being the good destination that we are, the Minister is doing the right thing.

As far as counselling for days and weeks is concerned, it is true that most marriage officers like to do some sort of counselling. But I can tell the world that the people who come in for three days are not asking for any counselling, and the people who are performing the weddings—and I tell the world this—it is not McKeeva Bush, and if I do (just in case, Madam Speaker), I do not charge to perform any wedding. But those people who come here for three days are not coming here to receive a lot of counselling. It is a pity that it could not be done sometimes.

As for their remarks about the National Team touting themselves as Bible-thumping Christians, Madam Speaker, we do not say that we are the best Christians: we certainly are not black Muslims. But we believe that there are situations in this country that we have known all of our lives, like opening shops wholesale on Sunday. Why should we bend to the wishes of the two Elected Members that spoke on the Bill?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: For the same reason you bend to marrying people in three minutes.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, it is a lot of rot to say that the two are the same. We are a changing world, but we do not have to change to every whim and fancy that the Opposition wants us to. And I, for one, do not agree with their position on the Sunday Trading Law, whether they call me a Bible-thumping Christian or an idiot (sometimes they do), I do not care.

My position is that we are doing too much on Sunday; that we should all be taking a rest and taking time to contemplate on what the Almighty has done for us. It is time that this country realises that as a government we do not have to do it, and we are not going to do it. I think enough is said on that.

For people who have been through several marriages, they have a lot of gall to get up and talk about the moral aspects of marriage, preaching religion. You know what that Bible says about that? I wonder what kind of counselling they took on that!

Nevertheless, Madam Speaker, I do not think that we should stifle tourism in any shape or form. And this certainly is not doing anything to harm it. It is enhancing what everybody has been talking about for the last couple of days in the letters and the media, and in the speeches that have gone on so far.

I support the Bill.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, I will ask the Honourable First Official Member to conclude the debate of the Second Reading of the Marriage (Amendment) Bill, 1994.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker, I wish to thank all Honourable Members who have spoken, both for and against the Bill. I would simply like to say that there is nothing questionable about it.

The original intention of the three-day waiting period was to facilitate civil servants dealing with [the special marriage licence]. Removing that requirement, in my view, speaks well for the improved efficiency of the Civil Service. If a licence can be dealt with in a day instead of having to wait for three days, it saves time.

Madam Speaker, as I mentioned earlier, 410 licences have been issued thus far this year and the removal of the three-day waiting period is not going to adversely affect the quality of these licences. The applications will still be scrutinised with the same degree of care as has been done up until now. I do not see any problems coming out of it.

My Portfolio processes the paper work and prepares the licence for signature and it simply means that the paper work will be moved through faster than before. Madam Speaker, I commend the Bill to its next stage.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Marriage (Amendment) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading.

I shall put the question, those in favour please say Aye...Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could we have a division?

The Speaker: You certainly may. Madam Clerk.

Clerk:

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

(Continuation of the Debate on the Budget Address)

[Long Pause]

MOTION TO CLOSE THE DEBATE

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I move that the question be now put.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member, would you close the debate on the Second Reading of the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994?

I take a very dim view of having to sit here for five minutes with Members refusing to get up. This is part of your responsibility as Members of the House.

The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to offer my contribution to the Budget for 1994, delivered on the 4th November, 1994. I would like to commend the Honourable Third Official Member, the Financial Secretary.

This is a conservative budget. I believe that compared to three years ago he was very concerned about the route that expenses were taking, and that we have made a turnaround and have gotten expenses in hand. We are also correcting the wrongs of the previous Government.

In the Budget there are many good things that will be taking place for next year, and I would like to share a few of these with the listening public to make them aware of some of the systems that are being put in place.

I am pleased to see that the civil servants are receiving proper training, and that their salaries are in line with the private sector. Of course, the Opposition has said that we are going to take back one per cent of the salary. I would like to state that this is not correct. Last night I received a call from a constituent saying that this is the propaganda that is being put out, and maybe I can share a little bit on what will take place.

In the private sector most pension schemes operate 50/50—with the employer contributing 5% of the salary and the employee another 5% to go toward pensions. In the Civil Service it is even better than in the private sector because the Government will contribute 6% and the civil servant will contribute only 4%. So that is a lot better than even in the private sector. It is not the case where we are taking away 1%. I think now they were paying 4%, and this is the type of propaganda that they are putting out. But this is not the case.

I see no reason why they should be upset because they will benefit from those funds upon retirement. So again, I would just like to correct this; we are not taking away 1% from the civil servants.

We have some very dedicated civil servants, and I think we are all appreciative of the services that a lot of them put in. I think that most of them do a very good job.

The shipping registry: I have had different members of the public ask me why are we continuing with the Shipping Registry. I asked the Third Official Member, the Honourable Financial Secretary, to share with me some of the expenses and to discover some of the operating surplus, if there was one, and he gave me a breakdown. Not only is the ship being registered, but it also spreads out that there are companies to be formed and licensed. So this has a domino effect, as we might say, in that it is not only registration but also in extending other services and that means added income in our community.

In looking at some of the accomplishments of this present Government, we have under the Social Services, the Children's Law [(Revised)], and the Young Offenders Law [(Revised)], which will be brought and looked at. We have the expansion of the after-school programmes, and for those in George Town, I know that we have been working with certain church groups in trying to get this organised. Finding a site in George Town has been our biggest problem. However, I think we have now identified a Government building and it is being assessed to see if this can be used, or whether we should have a purpose-built building.

Hopefully, by the end of next year we will have an after school programme and a youth centre for the youth of George Town. One of the Rotary Clubs is assisting us and I would like to thank them for helping us.

We are also working on a [Halfway] House for abused women and children. Earlier this year, on behalf of my two colleagues from George Town, the First and Second Elected Members, I made a proposal to the Ministry for [Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation], for someone to man a house to deal with abused women and children. We have been able to identify a house and I would like to share at this time that we are proposing to purchase the late Annie Huldah Bodden's house, and donate it to the Government to run as a home for abused women and children.

I have been working with the Business and Professional Women's Club, and they have a hotline set up to help abused women and children, and they are prepared to assist. However, we believe that if we can have a full-time worker from the Social Services Department to man the house it would be better, rather than depending upon volunteers to help.

Madam Speaker, the Business and Professional Women's Club is prepared to assist us in manning and answering the telephone, and supervising the house and doing different things. Hopefully within the first three months of the year we will be able to get this up and running.

During the past year the Finance Committee was aware of the lower-income housing project that was launched, and I have worked with a lot of my constituents in trying to assess their income to know what type of housing they can afford. I think that it is finally beginning to work. Some of them feel frustrated, but, as the Honourable Minister who brought the Bill said, it would be what an individual can afford. Like the Government, I agree that individuals must live within their means, and not purchase a house they cannot afford to pay for even though they would like to have something larger and better.

Madam Speaker, the Government's guaranteeing the first 35% of the mortgage will help people who do not have a deposit to put down. From that same department the Minister has promised the Crime Study, and I am happy to hear that will be done and, as I understand, this will take place very shortly. I am pleased to hear this.

In the Ministry for Health, the Minister shared with us that by May of 1995, the Health Insurance Scheme will be put in place. I believe that, unlike what the previous member for Health was proposing—which was not affordable for a retired person living on a $200 or $300 pension to be paying out $170 per month on health insurance—that the Honourable Minister and the Permanent Secretary from his Ministry will work together with the Committee and come up with a very good insurance scheme that our people can afford. Then the Government will have to look at another type of plan to cover those people who are unemployed.

Looking at the Hospital, I am sure the collections of accounts department has a difficult time in collecting [these outstanding amounts]. I hope that with the insurance scheme in place it will help to correct the attitude that, "Oh it is Government, we do not need to pay."

Community health clubs in each district are planned, and if people can become healthier and fit then we will have a healthier community. These clubs will help in eliminating some of the stress, and weight problems that our community faces. Here, again, Madam Speaker, we are working hard to do things for the islands.

I do get concerned at times when I hear that the National Team is not doing this or not doing that. But, if those individuals would just stop and look at where we are coming from, the mess that we were in. We did not promise them any miracles, but I feel that we are working. When we see something that needs to be done, we address the issue—like the Bill that was brought and passed this morning. We are doing many good things.

Moving on to the Education field: The John Gray High School was reduced. In the Budget there is almost a quarter of a million dollars for internship and teachers' aid.

Questions are posed in the House as to what is being proposed. We can put out the funds and we can encourage our Caymanian children to go into the teaching field, but we cannot force them. Listening to some of these questions by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, in asking about internship and what is being done, I feel that the Minister and the Department of Education is encouraging our children, but if they do not want to become teachers, then there is very little we can do. We can only put the system and the money in place and hope that they will take advantage of it.

This coming week we will be hosting a Teachers' Conference again, as we did this same time last year. It is good to get all of our teachers together from the public and private schools to be able to put on a workshop like this, to share with each other. I think it is very good, and I am happy to see that the Department of Education is encouraging this.

In the Department of Environment, I am extremely happy to see the Recycling Programme taking off. Several years ago when an individual in the private sector was proposing to do this, the National Trust wanted to do it as well, I felt that the private enterprise should have priority, and if they were prepared to do it then Government did not need to extend that service. I think the private company who started it brought about an awareness of the need for recycling. I know that he has had some problems and I think he is still prepared to help with the programme. I hope that all households in the islands will contribute to the recycling programme starting off with aluminium cans. It would be very surprising to learn just exactly how many cans are used in one day.

The Department of Environment also has the oil spill response equipment. About a year ago there was a little oil spill out by the Harbour House Marina. I remember the concerns that were expressed by individuals about the damage to the marine life. I am happy to see that something is going to be put in place in the event of a larger oil spill, especially in relation to our tourism having to rely on the cruise ships coming in, also that our beaches would not be destroyed, and the marine life really suffers. So I am very happy that is also going to take place.

There is also a relocation of the Agricultural Department to Lower Valley with the existing site being sold. That, Madam Speaker, is a very good move. It will be relocated to the Pavilion in Lower Valley, and with just one site it will save time and money for the Department not having to go back and forth and they can supervise their crops. I think this will be a very good move on behalf of the Minister.

I notice that the Abanks Diving Lodge will be converted to a marine base station. Madam Speaker, that is also very good.

We have the upgrading access control of the Court's Building. For some time now I have been very concerned about the security of the courts, and the accommodation in general there for justice and order to take place. We are all aware that if we have good working conditions we do perform better. I believe that in the Judiciary Department the working conditions will be improved with the accommodation and they will perform better. I noticed also, that there is an increase in staff and that will help in the Department considerably.

I think a Motion is being brought about bus shelters. Madam Speaker, there is over $50,000 budgeted for bus shelters for the islands. Shortly after the general election when a few parents mentioned bus shelters for our children, especially in the George Town area, I approached the Rotary Club about purchasing some of their bus shelters, or placing them in the areas where the children were waiting to catch the bus. They said that they had additional shelters that were being purchased and they said they would consider putting them on the sites where the children waited for the buses. They are still waiting on those bus shelters, but I think the Government will move on in building their own shelters for the school children. But this is being addressed and we will have that early next year.

The Lighthouse School is being expanded. The Lighthouse and the Sunrise Center [attendees] work in very cramped conditions. I would encourage all Members of the House to pay those two facilities a visit. I am pleased to see that the improvements in these two facilities are being spread out over the next couple of years so that they will have new and expanded facilities.

There are plans for a new mail sorting Post Office at the Airport. This has been needed for many, many years, but the previous Member for that Portfolio somehow could not see that need. I am happy to say that the Minister for the Portfolio now has taken the bull by the horns, and is addressing the mail sorting office. Again, that will be in the works for early 1995.

There are funds in the Budget, for public parks in West Bay and George Town, and we will be working towards developing either the park in Spotts or another site in George Town. But we will have a public park in George Town in 1995.

I have heard some rumours that we are spending lots of money on a hospital. But, Madam Speaker, when I explained to the two individuals who were complaining, that what the Minister proposed was a $21 million [plan] and the former member for Health had proposed $27 million, and showed that we would have a better hospital for $6 million less than what the former member was planning on spending and that we would not have two sites with added costs for operating and not getting the proper facilities, they were quite happy when they walked away.

Madam Speaker, I am pleased with the progress that is being made with the Strategic Planning. That seems to be a dirty word for the Opposition. While we were campaigning one of the things that we promised was accountability, and the Minister said that accountability was the main reason that he was so enthused about the strategic planning. I agree that the Ministers for Education and Health are both committed to making sure that we have the right plan.

The Bible, tells us (in the book of Luke, I think) that we must know the cost of something and that we should have proper plans and money in place before we commence anything.

Madam Speaker, this is what is taking place with the strategic planning. We must know where we are going and work towards that goal. But the best thing about the strategic planning is that it is being written and designed (if we would like to call it that) with input from the people in the community. It is what they feel our community needs and not these experts that we have had in previous years coming in on short notice to tell us what we need. For example the previous study that was done for the Education Department was not really what was best for our children. With this strategic plan, with the input from the locals and the teachers that will be operating it (the same thing with the hospital, the doctors, nurses and staff members) then I am sure we will all be much further ahead with the plans.

In looking at the early paragraphs of the Honourable Third Official Member's Budget Address, he touched on the Cuban [situation]. Madam Speaker, I know that all citizens of these islands are concerned about the expenses, but we are all humanitarians and want to make sure that their needs are being met.

I feel that within a very few short weeks something will come up with the United States Government that will help with the burden that we have in trying to help the asylum seekers.

On the construction side of the economy in the islands, the increase has been very dramatic and I am sure that the boom predicted for next year will certainly help our economy in that the money will go around and our people will benefit.

When we took office in 1992, the construction industry was down, there was a lot of unemployment and our economy was suffering. But, with the help of the Good Lord, I am happy to see that we have been able to remove restrictions such as the 10% on real estate. In looking at the figures it must have surely helped because there is quite an increase and that was the right thing to do.

So, Madam Speaker, contrary to the Opposition I am not leaving the Team. We do not always agree but we work together as a team and the majority rules. But, Madam Speaker, we do it behind closed doors and with whatever the majority rules. That is democracy at work. If I do not agree, I let them know, and if I agree, I also let them know. But we work together as a team. And this is why we have been able to accomplish and get a lot of things done over the past two years and hopefully more in the next two years, as good representatives.

The saying is: 'Unity is strength', and if we are pushing and pulling then we cannot accomplish a lot for the people that we are representing.

I would like to publicly thank the Director and the staff of the Museum, as I am Chairman of the Control Board for the Museum. A lot of good things have happened this past year and in the coming year we will be looking at new storage for all the collections that the Museum has. New exhibits will be on display. We would also like to have an education co-ordinator in the schools working and teaching more about our history and culture. The Librarian and staff at the George Town Library and the committees from the Museum and the Library, will also participate by giving help and support.

We are looking at a long-term plan for the Library. We, and I am sure many people on our Island, would love to have a new library because the present one is very cramped. We must live within our means though, and work with what we have. Hopefully, we will be able to expand and have an additional reading room and do it in stages whereby we would move along without long term borrowing so that we will not be strapped for funds.

I would just like to thank all the people who have assisted at the Library and the Museum this past year for their help and support.

Madam Speaker, I think with what we found two years ago, and what we have today, we have made a turn-around and are working diligently so that we do not have a bankrupt government. I am very pleased that we were able to do the things that we have done and will continue to do in the next two years.

I would like to congratulate the Honourable Third Official Member and his department again for their hard work, and all the controls in spending the public's funds.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I say that to debate a Budget of the magnitude that we have before us in this Honourable House, should make the Members of this House feel proud just to know that they have played a part in it, regardless of how small it was.

We all should commend the Honourable Financial Secretary, and staff for the job that they have done to bring forward this Budget Address.

I know that the Budget has surprised a lot of people on the outside, and also some of the Members in this Honourable House, for the Budget shows that the Government is not what some of the critics say about it—that it is not any good and it is not doing anything for the islands.

Madam Speaker, one just has to go back to 1992, and look at the financial condition that this country was in. This country was in a financial dilemma at that time. Now within two years we have a budget of $178 million. To produce that kind of budget without any major tax increase is almost a miracle.

Madam Speaker, someone has done his homework well, and I hope that he continues to do that. With the plans for the coming year, one can only say: 'Well done'. We hope that it will continue to be that way.

Our tourism industry is still in a growing form and that means that revenue in our Treasury Department will always be there. Because tourism is one of our biggest income earners, we should do whatever is needed to keep it growing. The tourism industry is the one thing that we should not play around with. Every consideration should be given to it, to keep it in a healthy and growing condition.

The tourism industry, like everything else, gets its criticism, but there is one thing that we should realise and it is that if it was not for tourism we would not have what we are enjoying today. So let us strive to keep it in a growing and friendly atmosphere.

If more accommodation is needed then we will have a part in getting it. Let us try to build it instead of tearing it down. There may be something about it that we do not like, but that is the way of life—we have to accept both the sour and the sweet.

There have been some remarks about the new hotel being planned for Seven Mile Beach. Well, that reflects on what I said about accepting the sour and the sweet. Let me say that the Seven Mile Beach is the main attraction that brought the tourism here, and that we as Caymanians paid very little attention to it before the tourist and the developers came into effect. I feel that the Seven Mile Beach has played the greatest part in tourism here because if it was not for the attraction of the Seven Mile Beach, we might not have had what we have today.

We should remember that the site that is now being cleared was just cocoplum bushes and shrubs before the tourist industry. Very few Caymanians paid any attention to it, if any of them did.

When the old Galleon Beach Hotel was first opened by Mr. Benson Greenhall, he chose that area because he saw the prospects and it was cleared for a hotel. It was the first hotel site and then it was used again for the new Galleon Beach Hotel. That is gone and now the developers have decided to put their hotel there. This is the place that they wanted.

If a developer comes to a place and spends his money, he sees an area that he likes, or feels it is the attraction that is needed, he buys it. We cannot tell him not to. I am sure if he did not get that site he would not have spent any money in the Cayman Islands. He might have gone somewhere else.

So in spite of these grunts and grumbles we are still forging ahead and I hope we will do it in the spirit of hand and heart together—not fighting against one another because, as they say now, it helps the National Government or builds a face for them. No! It helps everybody and the Islands. Even the Opposition is helped by it. So that is why we should join hands together and push for what we are striving for.

There have also been some remarks about Members spending so much money on sports. Now here it goes again. During the campaign everybody was crying for sports. I have been pushing for sports development for three years and I could not get anywhere with it. I never could. I kept pushing and plugging and hoping that one day some Member would really see the need for sports development. Thank God, I feel we have got one now. I have to tap him on his shoulder.

Sports in any country is life because it is the youth that we are helping. The youths are always the future for a country. I only pray that this will succeed. What I would love to see is facilities for certain sports, such as indoor sports, placed in every district, not just one, so that we can have cross-country tournaments.

We need sports and we need the stadium. I also hope that the Minister will find it in his mind, that we cannot leave out the Brac any longer. I think it is high time for us to move in there with sporting facilities. I have mentioned it to the Honourable Members, and they probably tried. But I also had representation from Cayman Brac asking me to try and bring sports, at least boxing, over there. And I think it is a worthwhile thing.

I say: Let us get together, Members of this House, Opposition and all, join hands and try to get these things going.

Madam Speaker, I say that things are going well. The Cayman Islands has turned around and has come a long way in two years. We have a long way to go in the coming years, but I beg one and all to join hands and hearts together, and strive for the betterment of our Islands.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended until 2.30 PM.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.45 PMPROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.35 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Debate continues on the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994. The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to speak on the Budget Address as presented by the Honourable Financial Secretary, the Third Official Member, and to take a look at the 'cookbook' which, I think, includes some very good recipes for this Government and for this country.

I would like to take this opportunity to welcome our new Chief Secretary, the First Official Member and I look forward to a long and continued relationship with him and his Portfolio. I must say that in my first few months as the new Minister for Health, I have found it very enjoyable working with him and also with his predecessor.

Once again, I would like to say how proud I was of our Financial Secretary, in the way he was able to go about presenting this Budget. I think he is probably the envy of many Caribbean countries, and I feel sure that President Clinton would not mind having someone like him in his Cabinet.

Madam Speaker, under the management of the Financial Secretary, despite the great difficulties we have experienced recently with the influx of the Cuban [refugees], we have been able to provide a balanced budget to this country. We know the difficulties that have been experienced with these [refugees] and I must say that, but for the Grace of God, there go I.

With careful planning we have maintained, or otherwise improved, our excellent structure so that we can continue to reap the benefits from the two main pillars of our economy: tourism and finance. Much credit must be given not only to the Government and the civil servants that have worked so well to implement policy, but to all members of our community who have contributed in one way or another.

I would like to now go through some of the points that were brought out in the Budget Address by the Honourable Financial Secretary.

We know the great criticism these islands experienced recently by some bad publicity in the United Kingdom. I know efforts have been put forward by the financial industry in an effort to counteract this detriment and apparent jealousy perpetrated by other territories toward the Cayman Islands. I know the efforts that have been made to rid us of these bad images in regard to narcotics and other things where the Cayman Islands has subscribed to agreements for co-operation between the Government and the United States to combat illicit activities.

As he said: "In 1986, the Government further established its position against the illegal use of its financial services by the passing of the Misuse of Drugs Law. Also in 1986, the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty was negotiated and signed between the Cayman Islands, the United States, and the United Kingdom which came into effect in 1990. This Treaty states: that the party will provide mutual assistance for the investigation, prosecution and suppression of criminal offences."

Madam Speaker, this shows the efforts that have been put forward by this country wherever possible to clear up the idea that the Cayman Islands is the place where undesirables may wish to come and [invest] their funds. As early as 1992, the advances made by the Cayman Islands to rid the region of drug trafficking and money-laundering were recognised at a meeting of the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force held in Jamaica.

In regard to the drug situation, I would like at this time to pay tribute to one of the gentlemen who successfully and diligently worked in this area. He is none other than Chief Superintendent Trevor Cutts. After I took over the Ministry in March of this year, I had the great opportunity of working with him. We have learned in recent days he will be returning to the United Kingdom for personal reasons.

I know that in some situations in the Cayman Islands, questions have been asked, but I have been assured by Mr. Cutts—even before he went away he came and explained the situation. It revolves around the fact that his elderly mother, who is in her 90s, and his wife's parents who are also elderly, were experiencing great strains. He did not think it was fair for his wife to be undergoing these difficulties by herself.

I assured him that the effort he has put forward in this country and with what we are trying to do in keeping our families together in the Cayman Islands, it would not be fair for us to expect him to stay here while his wife was thousands of miles away experiencing difficulties. So I could not, in all good conscience, try to keep him back. We all know the tremendous job he has done and the effort he has put forward in [eradicating] drugs. I would venture to say that what he has accomplished in his short period of service here was a lot more than has been accomplished in all prior years.

I look forward in future times, once this gentleman has gotten things straightened out, and if the opportunity develops, that we could once again utilise his services. We know that he has been an asset to these islands.

While I am still on the drug situation, I would also like to take this opportunity to thank CASA and the many other organisations that have worked so diligently, and so selflessly with the youth and in trying to educate the community regarding the dangers of drugs.

Recently a lot of us attended an occasion which came up during Drug Free Week. Once again, this was an effort put forward to try and bring our communities closer together to let our young people see the dangers of drugs. I must commend CASA and the other organisations, CODAC, and the Youth-to-Youth [group].

On many occasions I spent [time] with the Youth-to-Youth group (who are young teenagers), and I really enjoyed myself with them because they are the future of this country. The time we spend with them and the efforts that we put forth are what I term investments. Time cannot be too valuable; there can be no better time spent than what we spend with these young people.

Back to the financial and business services. As we look at the increase in the financial services sector we see that this sector grew at about 9%. But the very key point in here is where the proportion of Caymanians employed grew by 10%. That makes me feel real good, because there is not much use in us having all of these benefits from companies here, if our own Caymanians are not receiving the end result of these improvements.

Last year the Mutual Funds Law was brought into effect—once again another innovation by our Financial Secretary—and there are over 700 of these funds contributing probably close to $.5 million or more dollars. And as we look forward to next year we can imagine the great contribution this will bring to our economy.

Another increase in our financial services is the registration of new banks. The Financial Secretary noted in his Budget Address that at the end of August 1994, the approximate amount on deposit was $415 billion dollars.

Madam Speaker, when we talk in these terms it is very difficult for the man on the street to really comprehend that a little dot of an island in the Caribbean has been able to manage itself so prudently and has brought the confidence of international investors back. And, as we see, banks have increased by over 41%.

Further on we look at the insurance companies that were registered in 1994; once again that figure is up over 40%. This avers very well for these islands. As the companies keep coming we know the spin-off benefits that will come to our people in the financial industry; the benefits they get by improving their standards of living, et cetera.

Once again I must pay tribute to the idea which has brought forward and into Law, the reduction of companies fees. Many companies have now been registered because of the reduction in these fees. As a matter of fact, it has almost doubled from the period in 1993. So again, we look at the leadership within the financial industry, it is the way in which we do not have to tax our Caymanians directly. These are benefits that are coming to these islands because of providing a conducive area to companies from far away to perform and operate their businesses.

Recently, the financial industry and the Financial Services of Government appointed a Co-ordinator of Marketing and Promotions. Madam Speaker, as a matter of fact, through you (this gentleman is sitting in these chambers), I must give credit to him for his efforts in working along with the financial industry to help promote our Cayman Islands. I think for the first time in our history, the Cayman Islands Government will promote our services overseas. This will be done through conferences to be held next year in New York, London and Hong Kong.

Madam Speaker, this is a very bold move, and I know, as with other moves, it will only benefit these islands and, certainly, improve the well-being of this country. The benefits that our people can receive without being taxed directly, as was done by previous Governments, such as tax on diesel and gasoline and so on, this is the difference, Madam Speaker, with this Government. We look for ways to help our people, by promoting our industries within, without [taxing] directly; creating a climate that will draw and attract these multinational companies to our islands.

Madam Speaker, when we look at tourism, I must say what the Honourable Minister has done is probably nothing short of miraculous. I know that people try to decry the effort he has put into this, but if we go back and track the history [of tourism] prior to six years ago, there was a gradual coming down. For whatever reasons people may try to justify, I say that it was when the new Minister took over that we saw an upturn (and a constant upturn) where through this year there is well over a 20-odd percent increase in our tourism industry.

These are new strategies being put in place. He did not come in and sit down and say: 'Well, you know, let us hope they come.' If things were slow, he looked at new ways of creating things in these islands to make people want to come here. And I must say, that during the time of depression in these islands back in 1980 and 1989, it has saved us much difficulties, because tourism has certainly increased dramatically in 1993 and now into 1994. As we all know construction had come to a grinding halt and if it were not for tourism, things would have been much more difficult.

We see that projected through the end of this year, we will be bringing in approximately $275 million through tourism. Once again, I must say, 'hats off' to him for this great accomplishment. I know with the plans that Ministry has, there are many, many good things to come. There will be many more developments on these islands, many more innovative things providing an infrastructure when the tourist comes here—he is not just stuck down on the Seven Mile Beach. The creation of the Botanic Park, the projection for the St. James Pedro Castle, all of this avers well for this country.

And once again, we take these moves to not only stay on top within the tourism industry, but to increase and provide more desire for people to come here.

Madam Speaker, I would like now to look at Agriculture, Communications and Works. Once again, I must commend the Honourable Minister for his able leadership, especially over the last few months when his Departments were called upon to literally do super-human efforts. I know, with the influx of the Cuban refugees, that an unbelievable amount of stress and strain has been put on his department, specifically the Public Works Department. It is amazing how they have coped with it.

I know in the past great criticisms have been levied against these [departments]. Being in Government and seeing how they have functioned with limited personnel—every time he turned around someone was calling here and calling there, there were demands for roads—on the whole, this was all handled quite well.

Under his leadership during the last two years we saw the Agricultural Show brought back into function in these islands, which was something the people in our islands were accustomed to for many years, except the four years of the previous Government when they were unable to attend these functions. We saw what could be offered in these islands—cattle, vegetables, and fruits—and all we need to do is to continue to encourage our farmers.

Another dramatic and far-reaching effect of this Government was when we removed the 10% tax on transactions over $250,000. The figures are there to bear this out. There was over a 19% increase in real estate transactions. We know, once again, that real estate is one of the very important areas in which the Cayman Islands derives many benefits.

Madam Speaker, it does seem, though, that we are being inundated with real estate men, and I hope that more Caymanians can be used instead of foreign expertise being brought in for this area, because this is good, hard currency that can be left here.

Another thing I must comment on is the Financial Secretary's initiatives in looking into the insurance situation. I see here that a Committee has been commissioned to review insurance, which includes the study aimed at assessing Cayman's risk position vis a vis that of the rest of the region. This, hopefully, should assist in determining whether local insurance companies can attract lower re-insurance rates, and in turn be in a position to offer lower rates to policy holders.

When it comes to insurance we know that this is one of the things that has put a hold on development in this country. As these young families try to build their houses and in the meantime they also have to find the money to pay the premiums for these overly high rates. I hope that we can come to some resolution of this because once we can do this, I know it will only mean that we will see a lot more young people building their homes.

It is hard to believe that the Cayman Islands not having been hit by a serious hurricane in many years, are grouped with countries and other territories that have to pay these exorbitant fees. I certainly hope that we can get this resolved to the benefit of this country.

When we look at new construction, it is very heartening. There is an overall increase in construction of 48%, with commercial activities increasing by a whopping 334%. We must now stop and ask why this has come about. We know why. It is once again, the complete confidence that investors have (local and foreign) in this Government; the stability that has been brought back; a Government that believes in the free enterprise system; a government that believes in capitalism and no other "ism's"; and above all, Madam Speaker, no moratoriums.

Some people may try to make us believe that it was a slow down in the United States, but I put it to this Honourable House that the grinding halt in development was brought about by that dreaded word, "moratorium".

As we know, economics, and the history of supply and demand, there is no way that we as a small nation, having investors coming here with multiple millions of dollars ($50 million or $60 million) that they want to spend on a hotel, we cannot tell them they cannot put [a hotel] here, they have to go somewhere else. That is their money, Madam Speaker. We cannot tell them how to spend their money.

For those who may think that the economy is not moving, when we look at the banking section and see loans and advances (made locally) amounting to $734 million by the end of the second quarter of 1994, this was up by 3% over 1993. Once again, it shows the movement of our economy, the gradual move, and we know that when we took over at the end of 1992, construction and other things had almost come to a halt.

When we look at unemployment we realise how dramatically it has been reduced. In the year 1993 it was 335, and the most recent figures show unemployment at 208. This has been brought about by the robust way in which our economy is going. People are able to find jobs and have been able to work; they are constantly improving their standards of living. I would ask that as these buildings continue to be built, that more of our Caymanian labour force be employed and paid a fair salary.

I know that this is very important to some of our people working out there, making just barely the minimum of $3 to $4 per hour. It is no good to develop if our basic Caymanians are still wanting and can hardly afford to buy the things that others are in a position to buy when foreign labour is brought in and paid such high fees. We must make sure that in the boom that is coming upon us (whether we want it or not), that our Caymanians are taken care of.

I would like to look at the Ministry of Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture. We know the able leadership of this Minister, and a lot of times the Ministry comes into heavy criticism. Much of this criticism would not be there if provisions for sporting facilities had been provided for our young people in the past. We would not now be having such great expenditure. Who else can we better provide for, than for our young people?

I know that under the able leadership of the Honourable Minister, many good things will be coming to these islands. We know that if we can keep our young people occupied, we can certainly keep them off the streets, keep them out of mischievous things, and, above all, keep them from dabbling with drugs and other serious crimes.

Madam Speaker, the next thing I would like to look at is Education. The unparalleled success that we have attained in the CXC examinations has been brought to the attention of this House. I know that these were adopted by the previous Government, but the mechanics and the infrastructure for teaching our children were put in place by this Government. I know that under this Government many scholarships have been offered. I do not think that there is one person who has made an application for a scholarship who has not been granted his wish. I know that this will continue to happen.

Madam Speaker, I would also like to thank the Honourable Minister for the tremendous assistance he has given to the two schools in my district, the Bodden Town Primary School, and the Savannah Primary School. There was nothing, no matter how small or large, when it came to the schools, that I did not get support for.

I know my colleague asked last year about the school bus, and I must say that this has triggered an onslaught from the other schools. But where can we spend our funds better than in helping our children and young people, transporting them in a safe manner? I also know that in the coming budget that there is over $154,000 provided for the two schools in my district for further improvements. For this I would like to thank the Minister for his assistance.

Madam Speaker, I know we may feel today that we must take great pride in a job well done. We are mindful that our economic position is not such that we can expect to have an over-abundance of revenue in 1995 and the future years. Much consideration must be given to the actual needs of the country. We must seek to prioritise these needs and to apportion the estimated revenue accordingly.

I would like now to touch on things in my area of responsibility. As we know the former Portfolio of Health and Human Services was divided into two Ministries. The Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation, for which I am responsible, was created. For the first time in the political history of these islands, drug abuse prevention and rehabilitation has been elevated to Ministerial level and given the emphasis it deserves.

The drug rehabilitation programme, which includes Cayman Counselling Centre, was assigned to the new Ministry along with the Health Services and all the other associated complex issues. My Ministry has been established for eight months; we started first with one Permanent Secretary on the 2nd of March. The Ministry has now grown to a total complement of five. It has been greatly blessed with a small staff of highly qualified and experienced individuals, who are committed public servants giving unstintingly of their time and effort on many occasions. Many nights I have left there after seven o'clock or later, and those people are there working. There is excellent team spirit, and it comes as no surprise to me that we are often referred to as the 'beautiful Ministry'. I am proud to be associated with these people.

One of the earliest initiatives of the Ministry was the approval given to us by Executive Council in regard to formulating two separate strategic plans; one for the Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation, and the other for Health Services.

Madam Speaker, this was under the direction of Dr. Bill Cook, from Alabama, and he has been in this service for over 20 years. He has facilitated in over 300 different areas of education, public service in 36 different states, and nine international countries.

So, when I see former politicians, like Mr. Ezzard Miller, who get out there and try to decry this Government, I know where we are coming from and I know where we are going with this system. And with the input from the public I know that we will succeed.

Under strategic planning there are certain guidelines that show us where we want to be (or the objectives), it shows us where we are now (the internal analysis): what factors affects them, the external analysis, and how they are going to get where they want to be, which are the strategies.

Madam Speaker, these are the strategies that we are now working on. We have well over 130 people working on the drug abuse prevention and rehabilitation strategies. These are dedicated people. With your permission, Madam Speaker, I would like to read out the names of some of the people who are working on the No. 5 strategy (the Prevention and Rehabilitation Centre in Breakers), which I know this Honourable House has expressed quite a bit of concern about. I will read the strategy: "We will guarantee treatment and rehabilitation services and facilities to meet the diverse needs of individuals." At the moment we have at least 14 persons working on this strategy—persons like: Chief Nursing Officer, Eloise Reid; Dr. Stephenson Pickering; Lionel Armstead, from CIMI (and we need not question his ability to assist us in putting together a programme on this with the vast experience he has had from organisations in the United States working along with youths), Dr. Kumar, Dr. Margo Koeman, Mr. Mitchell Ebanks, and Miss Judy Brandon. These are just a few of the people we have, who are dedicated and putting in many hours.

My colleague on the Backbench, the Elected Member for North Side, will be able to tell the House about the tremendous amount of effort and time were put in by the planning team when we first started this programme. I would like to thank her and also the Second and Third Elected Members for George Town who have put a lot of effort into this and given us the moral support as we went along.

On the whole, I would like to thank this entire House for the support that they have given me in approaching this very serious problem. If it is not addressed it will have the possibilities of bringing this country down.

Through you, Madam Speaker, I ask and urge all Members and the rest of the people out there to support this, and work toward a common goal in assisting our young people.

Madam Speaker, it is my firm belief that in successful organisations the outmoded, autocratic leadership style has been done away with, and participative decision-making now prevails. In a small country such as ours, with a limited revenue base and the major expenditures which we are expecting to embark upon in upgrading the physical facilities and the delivery of health care, we cannot afford to arrogantly ignore the input and support of health care professionals and the wider public.

No model of health care systems which may have worked successfully in other jurisdictions can be uprooted and transplanted into the garden of the Cayman Islands.

The people of the Cayman Islands have entrusted Honourable Members with the prudent management of their resources, therefore we are duty-bound to respect their wishes. Time and again the people have dealt with those politicians who chose to do otherwise. Who, with their way of thinking, it has to be their individual way or no way at all, we must respect the wishes of the people who put us in here and do what they tell us—not what we want.

In the area of drug abuse prevention, a fragmented approach is about to be effectively coordinated and a national alliance of governmental agencies and voluntary organisations established. Through collaboration and a joint effort, we expect to succeed in our fight against drug and alcohol abuse and its ill-effects which have plagued these islands for so many years and threatened our very future.

I was pleased to learn very recently that the efforts that we have undertaken in the Ministry of Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation has been highly applauded, and we have received great praise in a recent report released by the Dependent Territory's Regional Secretariat in Barbados. The report, which dealt with drug demand reductions programmes in the British Dependent Territories, commended the Cayman islands for having made considerable progress towards the formulation of a national strategy on drug abuse, doing so on its own, without the benefit thus far of formal contact with the United Nation's Drug Control Programme.

Also, at this point, the leader of the United Nations' Drug Control Programme was invited to our planning meeting which was held back in September, and she said that she was so wrapped up in the meeting, even though she was there as an advisor, she could not believe the high [level] of input from such a broad cross-section of people. Madam Speaker, coming from a person like that, this really made me feel good.

The report also went on to point out that: "Cayman has put in place a range of services for drug abusers including detoxification, counselling and educational programmes, some of which are innovative and have wider lessons to offer." I know that some of these are things that I inherited from the present Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture, who had put these in place out of his concern for the young people. I must applaud him at this time for his foresight in assisting our young people.

In this report it is also noted that this coming year the United Nations' Drug Control Programme will make funds available to the Cayman Islands (I think the figure I saw is in the region of $45,000 (US)), because of the steps that we have taken in trying to take care of ourselves as we have independently done before. We do not wait on the mother country, or anyone else, to help us. We plunge in, we see our problems, we face them and we try to do something about it. And with our ability to provide and show a plan we will be offered financial assistance.

Just after taking over the Ministry I had the great opportunity of meeting the head of PAHO (who is stationed in Jamaica), and when we told him of our approach to developing solutions and the way forward within the new Ministry, he said that the idea of strategic planning was the way to go, and he really gave us some great praise for this.

As I mentioned earlier this week, we will begin implementation of detailed cost plans of strategic planning. Once again, I would also like to thank the hundreds of people who have been working with us on this.

Madam Speaker, as I said to this Honourable House in September, when the question came up in regards to assistance for our seamen, the Honourable Minister for Community Development and I met with the local Seamen's Association and agreed tentatively to a satisfactory solution for medical assistance to members of their association.

We are now in the process of talking with the Cayman Brac Seamen's Association to reach an amicable solution for assistance to them. Madam Speaker, their members are in a slightly different situation from those in Grand Cayman.

I must say that I was very impressed with the dedication of people like Mr. Walsham Conolly, and Mr. Dicky Hurlston, the great efforts that they have put forward to assist their fellow seamen in making things a lot easier. The Cayman Association was very happy with the approach that we planned to use with them, and at a later date this will be made public.

As said earlier in another Sitting of this House, Madam Speaker, a review of the Health Services Department is now under way with interviews soon to be concluded and a report from the Inspection Team with its recommendations. Hopefully, this will be presented by the end of November. It is anticipated that matters which may be negatively impacting on patient care and staff moral will be addressed in a timely manner.

Madam Speaker, I remember looking at a report recently from those persons who were requested to look at the overall operation of the hospital. Some of the things they came up with included the restructuring and a complete professional approach in doing business at the hospital. This is something that has now been developed, and we look forward to putting in place a vehicle whereby this can be made easier with better accountability, and responsibility.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many dedicated professionals who we have working at the hospital. They have done a magnificent job under very difficult circumstances, at times. I would like also to thank the Cayman Counselling Centre where things are now falling in place; personnel issues are being cleared up and a more logical approach to the delivery of services is being addressed. Hopefully, arrangements can be made where they can be put in different facilities because the space there is very limited. Being so close to the Airport, when a client is in with them it becomes very noisy. So I look forward in the not too distant future of being able to assist them in finding a new place to work.

We look forward to continued counselling services at Northward Prison. These will be resumed and will be extended to the Cayman Islands Marine Institute.

Madam Speaker, earlier this year a tertiary health care services contract for overseas was initiated, once again, by the former Minister (who is now the Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture), with Baptist Medical Hospital in Miami. This has been a very positive thing for these Islands. I continue hearing some very good things about this institution, including reports from patients saying that the treatment is superb, outstanding, and sometimes almost royal. This makes me feel good when we have a facility like this taking care of our Caymanians, who, as we know, expect nothing but the best. I am made to understand that this is the kind of treatment that they get at Baptist Medical Centre.

Madam Speaker, we are ever mindful of the great cost of high quality health care in the United States, as well as the high expectations of our Caymanian community that they should have access to such health care, therefore we must find ways of containing those health costs. To that end we have put in motion a committee of insurance persons whose names have been approved by the Executive Council, and they will be meeting to look at a solution towards health insurance in these Cayman Islands.

Madam Speaker, within the Ministry we look forward to the improvement to our district Health Centres. This is now under way in Bodden Town. I know the land is in the process of being bought for the centre in West Bay, we also hope to improve the facilities in North Side and East End once this has been finalised. I know that our people look forward to this, and they deserve nothing but the best.

Madam Speaker, an accomplishment of major proportions within the Ministry and, once again, with the assistance of my colleagues on Executive Council, is the Master Facilities Plan for the George Town Hospital which has been formulated with full input from the staff and repeated consultations with them to provide necessary feedback and make adjustments as required.

The plan has taken into account the identified need for more space, improved functional relationships of departments and sections, improved, as well as new, services, and the need to conform to international safety standards. The plan is designed to meet these needs well into the 21st Century, and at the same time make provision for intermediate and future expansions.

It confirms that with the new design the existing site can be fully utilised with construction of new facilities, demolition of some and the retention of others such as areas, the Dental Clinic, the Eye Clinic, some Wards. Madam Speaker, all of this will be accomplished with minimum inconvenience to staff and patients.

Yesterday afternoon I took the opportunity to visit the site that we have been looking at behind the present Paediatric Ward at the Hospital, and I am amazed at the amount of space that is there, land (good land, level land) where we can save lots of money. When we look back at some of the projections under the previous Government, where new staff alone was supposed to be increased by 29%, or 69 personnel (figures produced by Ellerbe Beckett Chalmers Gibbs) . . . If we were to take some of these figures and project them forward, we would see the tremendous amount of expenditure that we would now be incurring in 1993. As a matter of fact, the Cayman Islands' Health Services Authority forecast statements showed that in 1993 expenditure would have reached $31.77 million and toward the projection of the year 2011, expenditure would reach $45.28 million.

Madam Speaker, it baffles me as to how we would have been able to fund such grandiose schemes as these put forward at the time. These could never have worked. Once you talk to the personnel at the Hospital who operated it, as I have said before on many occasions it would have been a logistical nightmare for them in trying to operate a split-site facility in central George Town and going up to the swamp.

So I must say that I am very pleased that we have been able to use the very same architectural firm that did the background work (the Master Facilities Study), who told us that there is adequate space there for expansion.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, in one of his debates, did support (at the time) the present site where we plan to do our expansions and new buildings. I look forward to the support of all the Members of this House as we work forward to the improvement of our health facilities. Madam Speaker, as I have said, this is something I have waited on for a long time. This is something this country deserves and must have.

Madam Speaker, another move we have initiated in the Ministry is making an application for securing a Medical Chief of staff. Just after going into the Ministry, this was one of the highlights that all the people brought to my attention. There was one person, the Medical Director who was expected—with all due respect—to carry on his practise and also be a supervisor. He sometimes puts in 18 or 20 hours a day. We hope that in 1995 the new Medical Chief of staff will certainly make a difference in the operations of the Hospital since he will be able to dedicate the time to looking and monitoring overseas referrals, and the day-to-day running of the Hospital, leaving the present Director to what he is best qualified to do, that is, to practise in his speciality.

We have now appointed a new person as a Genetics Counsellor, and I know this is something that was battered around and around. We have now found a very fine person to fill this position and I know this is something many Caymanians will be glad to hear. We can go back to the days when we were doing the research to look at the many peculiar things that happened in our islands and to see how we can benefit our people and try to assist them.

Madam Speaker, at this point I would like to speak briefly on Cayman Brac. I have had the opportunity in recent times to talk to some of the people of the Brac about the depressed state of their economy, the difficulties that they are enduring with minimal work and minimal construction development. I look forward to getting together and sitting down to talk to these people, because if we do not address the Cayman Brac situation I see an inherent danger with so many people out of work that could cause a problem downline if we do not assist them by improving their infrastructure—not that they really have at this time a good infrastructure—but to get some businesses over there to encourage investors to go there. So I urge this Honourable House, through you, Madam Speaker, to look forward to coming up with a programme to assist and allow Cayman Brac to benefit from some of the prosperity that we are now experiencing in Grand Cayman.

Madam Speaker, I know that there is a handful of organised critics of this Government out there trying to put us down every chance they get. It is hard to believe that people could have such short memories. As we know, it is less than two short years since this present Government inherited this financial chaos. We inherited the construction and other developments almost at a stand still, unemployment for the first time in recent history was running rampant. Our few critics try to come up with every excuse in this world to try and justify their failure. But it boils down to one cold hard fact: the inability of the leaders and policies they instituted.

Yet, today we have these same people, Mr. Miller, Mr. Pierson—who led this country to the brink of financial ruin, doing their best to get themselves established as candidates in the 1996. But I would like to say to the people of these islands: "Beware of wolves in sheep's clothing." We must not be blinded by their sweet talk whenever we think about wavering or giving them another chance. Remember their years in office (the years 1989 to 1992)—these years were possibly the most traumatic and controversial in the history of these islands.

Madam Speaker, there is talk about a silent majority and their actions in 1996. We know about the silent majority. We saw what they did in 1992, and this was in no uncertain terms, when this country witnessed the most lopsided election in history.

I will list some of the things that the silent majority will remember in 1996: They will remember Motion 3/90. What I termed at that time one of the most drastic things that turned the tide of this country around since 1932, when Finance Committee was taken away from the Elected Members of this Parliament and this House was controlled by a minority of five elected members. I must say, thank God, that with this now entrenched in our Constitution, we no longer have a fear of Finance Committee coming out of the hands of responsible elected members.

The silent majority will remember the Cayman Airways situation, the debacle that we almost experienced when we got into the deal with the [Boeing] 737-400 aircraft. Cayman Airways almost went down the tube, it was almost forced into liquidation. But, thank goodness, this has now been turned around and we look forward to Cayman Airways continuing to grow with the support of this Government and the present subsidy of $4 million a year. We know what this means to Cayman Airways, as in years past, other foreign airlines left this country overnight: we cannot afford to be left without our own airline.

The Speaker: Honourable Member would this be a convenient time to take the suspension?

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.44 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.05 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation, continuing.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we took the break I was giving a few points in regards to a letter that was trying to remind us of the silent majority and the actions which they will probably take in 1996.

To reiterate, we experienced in 1992, in no uncertain terms, what the silent majority did. The silent majority will remember the construction of a Post Office in North Side at a cost of approximately $400 per square foot by Mr. Ezzard Miller and his government. This is approximately three times what will be required to design specialised areas of the new hospital that we are going to build. People do not easily forget these situations.

Madam Speaker, the silent majority will also remember the attempts of the last government to ram a constitution down our throats which the majority of people did not want, as was evidenced in the 1992 Election. This constitution, if it had been put through, would have put in place a Chief Minister who would have had unlimited powers and would be almost impossible for us to remove. This we did not need.

They will remember the $0.50 cent tax that was placed on diesel and other fuels which triggered a multiplier effect on about everything that we used in the Cayman Islands and affected every man, woman and child, the cost of living went up. This we will all remember.

We remember the slow days when there was no construction going on, no work and, as I have said before, unemployment. People were discouraged and upset, and I am pleased to say that things have certainly improved and people, once again, have a smile on their faces.

The final thing I would like to talk about, which the silent majority will remember in 1996, is the summary of the Cayman Islands Government—the Financial Summary 1984 to 1994. When we look at the period 1989 to 1992 there was an accumulated annual deficit totalling $52.6 million. There is not going to be too many Caymanians out there who will forget these figures.

A lot of this deficit had to be covered by taxing our people. In the last two years, as a matter of fact, there were approximately $20 million of direct taxation that went on our Caymanians.

The civil servants were given a raise on the one hand, and on the other hand there was this 'taxation' taking it right back from them. They benefited nothing. When you go back and look at last year there was nothing in our budget that directly affected Caymanians.

We have to remember where we came from in less than two years and what this Government has accomplished without over-burdening our people. How can the public have such short memories, when they know what we found when we took over office and what has happened in the last two years?

We have created an atmosphere that is conducive to companies coming in here and feeling comfortable. The confidence has been restored, and I look forward to a fantastic year in 1995.

When we look at the measures being put in place and the action that is being taken under the direction of our Financial Secretary, I am pretty sure that when they come back from their tour in February, we will be pleasantly surprised at the feedback and the results of such a trip, making the public know that the Cayman Islands is the place to come to—to be welcomed, where they will not be ripped off, and where they will be treated as decent human beings without being taken advantage of.

Madam Speaker, when we think of the new hotel that is scheduled to commence shortly on Seven Mile Beach—I understand this is in the range of $30 to $50 million—when we look at that, using a multiplier effect of three, that is well over $100 million that will be going into this very small community where people will be able to get jobs once again, and improve their standard of living without being taxed (as I have said before) to pay for necessary Government services. Madam Speaker, this is what the silent majority will remember in 1996.

Madam Speaker, I would now like to turn to things within my electoral district of Bodden Town.

Last year, and during this year under the able leadership of the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sport, Youth Affairs and Culture, we were able to see the Bodden Town playing field upgraded. Through the assistance of the Rotary Club, and Mrs. Monica Gore, we were able to get some lights for the field and we also purchased approximately one acre of land at the Civic Centre in Bodden Town.

In recent days clearing of land has started on this property adjoining the Civic Centre, and we look forward to further development of this in the coming year where, like West Bay, George Town, North Side and plans in hand for East End, our youth in the district of Bodden Town will have the proper facilities on which they can expend their youthful energy.

Madam Speaker, recently there has been the acquisition of the public beach behind the Spotts Cemetery. I must truly thank my colleagues on Executive Council for their support. This is something the people of Savannah, Newlands, and the lower end of the district of Bodden Town have been waiting for, for over 30-odd years. They had just a tiny strip of a 12 foot right-of-way on the east side of Coral Bay condominiums. I have been made to understand that they will have a decent place where they will be able to go and swim and enjoy themselves in the close proximity of Spotts. This I am truly grateful for, we have been instrumental in getting this for them.

I would also like to thank Messrs. Kearney Gomez, Alan Jones, and Philip Tatum, who negotiated very capably in the acquisition of this land.

Madam Speaker, there will be further development of the Breakers Civic Centre (ceiling, lights, roofing) and I know that the Minister for Community Development and Sports has approved funds of $10,000 to work on the playing field in Breakers. It is not a very big community, but we have some fine young men there who most of the time have to go to Bodden Town or North Side playing field to practise with other football teams. This provision, once it has been finalised, will allow them to literally play in their back yard in the proper facility.

In the Budget for 1995, there is a total of approximately $3.5 million for capital development in the district of Bodden Town. I think this is a very handsome sum of money and once we can get this going I know it will be of benefit to the people of Bodden Town.

Not to take away from the Minister responsible for Communications, Agriculture and Works (I know he will talk in more detail), but there are plans to relocate the Agricultural Department and offices to Lower Valley. This alone is close to $300,000, and I note that this will certainly provide much needed work in the district.

The construction of a modern abattoir, which will not only benefit the district of Bodden Town, but will go towards improving the health and the continued support for people who do their butchering, not having to worry about picking up germs or diseases.

As I mentioned very early in my debate, there is well over $150,000 for improvements at the Savannah and Bodden Town Primary Schools, for things such as tiling porches, fixing of bathrooms, air-conditioning the halls which are used specifically for Christmas programmes, at which time the halls are full to capacity. It gets very warm and this is great to know that finally the children after much hard work in school will be able to enjoy themselves when they have their programmes.

Many of us have seen in recent times the dramatic improvement to the Otto Watler curve where numerous accidents have taken place. We have also acquired the land that goes toward Northward Prison and in this coming year we plan to develop it (as we know it comes to a "V") because it is very difficult for big vehicles to manoeuvre.

There has already been commitment from the people who live in the area and close proximity to put in some gardens with flowers and this is the beauty when we have the community working collectively to improving their surroundings.

Madam Speaker, the biggest undertaking of a development within the district is probably the restoration and development of Pedro Castle. Most of us legislators here saw certain renditions and projections for this area and this means a bit more to me than probably anyone else, as my great, great grandfather was born in that castle. So when we look at $1 million going into a project like this, once again, to develop and improve the facilities that we have to offer the tourists not just coming here to enjoy the beach but to get out there and see a part of our history and culture. We know that Pedro Castle is filled with that—culture and history. They say the first legislature... the first of many things went on there.

It is great to know that this is being undertaken, and I look forward to assisting, and the people of the district of Bodden Town will also look forward to assisting on such a project of this magnitude.

Madam Speaker, another project we hope to work for in the district of Bodden Town, is the building of a new Post Office. This is something that is greatly needed because the little one that we have is literally on the edge of the road. It is very small, very dusty, and it is not air-conditioned and the Post Mistress has done a wonderful job in keeping things going. But we look forward in this coming year to providing the people of Bodden Town with a nice but not too grandiose Post Office. Something that we can afford Madam Speaker, without taxing our people to the hilt but providing services for them and making things better and more convenient.

There will be work done around the cemetery at Pease Bay and other places. There will be new vaults built and this is all coming up in 1995.

One of the most pleasing things for me, Madam Speaker, is the construction of a new health care facility in Bodden Town. I have been made to understand that the tenders for this will be closed in less than two weeks and hopefully, as soon as this is finalised construction will begin immediately. This is something that Bodden Towners have looked forward to for many years. The little cramped facility that we have there has done its job well, but it is time that the facility be improved where there is less danger for the elderly, who I know on occasions have come close to being hit by vehicles because of its close proximity to the road.

So, with it at the Civic Centre in Bodden Town, which I am pleased and proud to say has now been renamed the James Manoah Bodden Civic Centre, another great tribute to our outstanding national hero. This was facilitated through the assistance of the Honourable Minister for Communications, Agriculture and Works, where he was able to organise and have everything put together. We hope that when we get the brass plaque finalised we can have an official opening that will be done hopefully by his father—God spare his life.

Madam Speaker, I am also pleased to say at this time that the work on the Bodden Town channel is finally at a stage where I am quite comfortable with the belief that it will start. Just yesterday I was in a meeting with the people from the Environment Department and the company who will be doing the work and we will be going off from the public beach in Bodden Town and clearing up in front of the beach and opening a channel in that area where the people of Bodden Town have waited for about three decades to get this done. And I look forward to this being completed.

We also look forward to the lighting of the main streets in Bodden Town, and the other areas (small communities) in Savannah. This undertaking has now been given to me where the street lights will be placed in areas that have requested lights for some time now. I understand the delay with this was that there was a great demand for security reasons to have George Town and other areas lighted as quickly as possible. I am sure we can all see the result of this where the commission of crime, I think, has gone down.

I think the continued lighting throughout the districts will be of great benefit to our people and the police, taking some of the pressure off them. As we know, if an area is lighted properly it is highly unlikely that we will have people of disrepute in these areas.

I have also asked and have been promised assistance in filling the roads in Belford Estates and Plantation Village. These roads are private subdivisions, and I have told the people to go back to the developers and impress on them that it is their responsibility. But, in the meantime, we look forward to giving some assistance by putting some fill in the worst holes and bringing them up to a situation where the roads can be used.

Madam Speaker, I must say that I am very pleased with this Budget, and I know that as new measures have been initiated by the Honourable Financial Secretary, when they come on-line in 1995, it will be much easier for us to work and get much accomplished for our people. We will be able to do this, once again, hopefully, without directly taxing our people to any major heights.

Madam Speaker, I read in the newspaper yesterday, that a political meeting is being held by Mr. D. Ez-zard Miller. He is inviting the public to 'Come and hear what the National Team Government is not doing—the tax, borrow, and waste government'. I do not know which islands he is living in, but I think if he goes back and looks at the last two budgets they cannot give him support for the advertisement that was in the newspaper.

Finally, in closing, Madam Speaker, I would once again like to thank my Permanent Secretary, who has been a right-hand woman— she has been extremely diligent, worked very hard and has been a great support to me—a rookie and freshman politician—especially in coming to Executive Council. Our new Senior Assistant Secretary, the Assistant Secretary and the other two Clerical Officers in the Ministry have worked long and hard hours and this is a tribute to our Civil Service.

Thanks also to the Financial Secretary and his Deputy, Miss Sian Miller (who was able on many occasions to come and give me assistance, guidance and understanding of things within the financial operations of this country). Thanks also to Mr. Peter Gough, the manager of Budget and Management Unit.

Madam Speaker, I look forward to a very exciting and promising year in 1995. Thank you.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION

Standing Order 10(2)

The Speaker: It is now 4.30 PM. May I ask for a motion for the adjournment of the House?

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning—Leader of Government Business.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I am pleased to move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM THURSDAY, 17TH NOVEMBER, 1994

EDITED
THURSDAY
17 NOVEMBER 1994
10.17 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Fourth Elected Member for George Town to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office. All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

Questions to Honourable Ministers. The First question is No. 191, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 191

No. 191: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member to state: (a) The number of complaints against the Police during the past twelve months; and (b) what was the nature of these complaints; and (c) how were they handled.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: In the past 12 months, that is from the 1st of November, 1993, to the 31st of October, 1994, there have been 25 complaints against the Police.

The nature of these complaints were as follows:

Delay in providing medical treatment to a person in custody	1
Discourteous behaviour during a search	2
Assault whilst in custody	2
Assault during investigation of a traffic accident	1
Assault during arrest	4
Improper treatment whilst in custody	1
Threatening behaviour	1
Verbal abuse whilst in custody	1
Lack of police action and discourtesy on the telephone	2
Lack of Police action and discourtesy at the scene of an enquiry	1
Improper Police action or procedure	4
Refusal to provide identification and discourtesy	2
Failure to appear in Court	2
Offensive remarks during a traffic stop	1
Total	25

Of the 25 complaints received: Three were substantiated; 14 were unsubstantiated; Eight are still under investigation; the Three substantiated complaints were handled as follows:

(i) Delay in providing medical treatment to a person in custody: The complainant was arrested following a domestic dispute, during which he and his wife were injured—she being the more seriously hurt of the two. The complainant requested medical treatment at the Hospital for his minor injuries. The Sergeant on duty delayed sending the complainant to Hospital as he was concerned that a quarrel would break out again between the complainant and his wife, who was already at the Casualty Department receiving treatment for her injuries.

During this delay the shifts changed and the information concerning the complainant's request was not passed to the Sergeant taking over the shift. The complainant had not been taken to Hospital up to the time he was bailed.

A letter of explanation and apology was sent to the complainant. Both Sergeants were interviewed by their Chief Superintendent and given advice and guidance on the need to provide prompt medical treatment to persons in custody.

(ii) Refusal to provide identification and discourtesy: A CID Officer in plain clothes, carrying a bolstered firearm, entered the lobby of the Government Administration Building. The Officer, who was on a Currency Escort Duty, was correctly challenged by the receptionist in the lobby and politely asked to identify himself. He refused to do so and was discourteous in his response. The Officer was seen by his Chief Superintendent and reprimanded for his unprofessional conduct. A letter of apology was sent to the complainant.

(III) Lack of Police action and discourtesy on the telephone: The complainant telephoned to report loud music coming from a next door apartment. Instead of taking her report, the operator transferred her to another Officer. She was then transferred back to the operator, who insisted that she give her name before he would accept her report. When she was reluctant to do so and asked why the information was necessary, the Officer was discourteous and unhelpful.

The investigation revealed that the complainant did not receive the response and service to which she was entitled. The Officer was seen by his Chief Superintendent and given suitable advice and guidance. A letter of explanation and apology was sent to the complainant.

In all the other unsubstantiated cases, the complainants were notified in writing of the outcome of the enquiry.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the Honourable Member say who comprise the Board receiving complaints against the police?

The Speaker: The First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. There is a complaints committee set up within the Police Department. It is a three-man committee. I am not sure just what the Honourable Member would like by way of an answer, but simply to say that, as I recall, it is the Superintendent, a Sergeant and a Constable.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Member say if any thought has been given to the establishment of a civilian complaints board, meaning that there might be representation for the Police, but it certainly would not be comprised entirely of police officers?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am not in a position to say whether thought has been given to this or not.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, I wonder if the Honourable Member could tell us what is considered improper police action or procedure?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am afraid I cannot give the actual definition. I think in cases where complaints are made the investigating committee will determine that. I am sorry that I cannot be more helpful.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Would the Honourable Member be in a position to give an undertaking that he would investigate into the possibility of setting up a complaints commission that has some civilian members represented, seeing that a complaints commission made up entirely of police officers could convey the impression that civilians complaining about the police might be somewhat at a disadvantage?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. We had a recent inspection carried out by the Police Inspector and every aspect of policing has been examined. No recommendation to this effect was made. I do not know if there is any evidence that there is the need for this.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Honourable Member could state if he is aware of a complaint made earlier this year about police officers shooting birds in the Frank Sound area? (I think it was in July). They targeted the birds, shot them and just left them there. I complained to the former Chief Secretary on two occasions. I notice that it is not listed here. Could you please follow up on this, or could you please make sure that this does not continue?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am aware of the incident that the Honourable Member is referring to. The fact that she did not make a complaint directly to the police is probably the reason why it is not recorded here. This list reflects actual complaints made to the police. I did have the assurance of the Commissioner that the matter was looked into at the direction of the former Chief Secretary and no evidence of this was forthcoming. There was the complaint to the Chief Secretary, but it could not be substantiated.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, I am aware of an incident where a wallet was lost and a complaint was made that when it was handed to the police station it contained cash. That cash disappeared on arriving at the police station. I see nothing here which reflects that complaint. I wonder if the Honourable Member is aware of improper police action in this matter?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

No, Madam Speaker, I am not aware of that particular incident.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would like to ask the Honourable Member how current this list is because I noticed that there was at least one report of unlawful entry by the police at premises in my constituency. I notice that report is not contained in this list.

The Speaker: Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The report covers the period up to the 31st October of this year and the information was supplied to me late last week, if memory serves me correctly.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member please state for the information of the House, the correct avenue to take when making complaints against the police?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the Deputy Commissioner normally receives the complaints, but if the Honourable Member would wish me to do so, I could actually have that in writing for his information.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 192, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 192

No. 192: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member to state the number of persons aged 17 to 25 years who have been convicted of criminal offences since January 1994, and the categories of these offences.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

A total of 118 persons between the ages of 17 and 25 have been convicted of 242 offences in the categories listed below during the period 1st January to 27th October this year. The discrepancy in numbers reflects the fact that some offenders were convicted of more than one offence.

Offence against public order	6
Offence injurious to the public	14
Offence against the person	24
Offence against property	49
Malicious injury to property	4
Forgery and counterfeiting offence	22
Attempts and conspiracies	3
Misuse of drugs (ganja)	61
Misuse of drugs (cocaine)	9
Miscellaneous drug offence	17
Breach Police Force Law	13
Breach Marine Conservation Law	13
Town and Community Law	2
Miscellaneous offences	5
Total	242

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Member say, in the cases of the misuse of drugs and miscellaneous drug offences, if all of the convicted persons were subjected to any form of drug awareness counselling?

The Speaker: The First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I am afraid that I am not in a position to state that.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 193, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 193

No. 193: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member to state the total number of work permit holders employed by hotels and restaurants in the Cayman Islands and the positions represented.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The total number of work permit holders employed in hotels and restaurants in the Cayman Islands as of 31st October, 1994, is 1,108. The positions represented in this figure include: Activities Coordinators; Engineering Directors; Food and Beverage Directors; General Managers; Rooms Division Managers; Dive Instructors; Bartenders; Boat Captains; Boat Mechanics; Entertainers; Chefs; Executive Housekeepers; Food and Beverage Server; Front Desk Supervisors/Clerks; Greens Keepers; Concierges; Housekeepers; Kitchen Helpers; Landscapers; Maitre d's; Night Auditors; Parasailers; General Restaurant Staff; Waiters and Waitresses.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is the Member in a position to say if in any of these positions, which presumably there were no trained Caymanians to fill, are there any Caymanian understudies?

The Speaker: The First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Madam Speaker, the Immigration Board has a policy of requiring employers to carry out training programmes wherever possible for replacing work permit holders with Caymanians.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Am I to understand the Honourable Member that in all of these positions occupied by overseas workers, there are Caymanian understudies, or Caymanians training for these positions?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. No, Madam Speaker, that is not what I said. I said that there is a policy for employers to carry out training where possible when there are work permit holders employed, with a view to having Caymanians take over.

I cannot say that in all cases there is a Caymanian understudy.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 195, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 195

No. 195: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation what is the total cost and cost per student (a) for recurrent expenditure in each of the Government Primary, Middle and High Schools; and (b) cost based on a present valuation of the school and equipment in the Government, Primary, Middle, High School and Community College.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The total recurrent cost for operating the schools, based upon 1993 unaudited figures, is as follows:

John Gray High School	$3,340,604.31
George Hicks High School	1,944,306.01
Cayman Brac High School	733,784.32
Primary Schools, Grand Cayman	3,614,646.07
Primary Schools, Cayman Brac	570,814.84
Lighthouse School	467,084.82
Sunrise Centre	89,806.06
Alternative Education Centre	296,847.03

The cost per student is as follows:

John Gray High School	$4,551.23
George Hicks High School	4,145.64
Cayman Brac High School	6,380.73
Primary Schools, Grand Cayman	2,524.19
Primary Schools, Cayman Brac	3,755.36
Lighthouse School	7,533.62
Sunrise Centre	4,726.63
Alternative Education Programme	24,737.25

(b) The present valuation of school buildings in the Government's Primary and High Schools is as follows:

John Gray High School	$7,604,100.00
George Hicks High School	4,103,400.00
Cayman Brac High School	2,199,750.00
Primary Schools, Grand Cayman	9,293,337.50
Primary Schools, Cayman Brac	1,468,950.00
Lighthouse School	500,850.00
Sunrise Centre	108,150.00
Alternative Education Programme	101,850.00

Note: These valuations were supplied in early 1993 and more current figures could not be obtained.

The total cost per student based upon present valuation of school buildings is as follows:

John Gray High School	$10,359.80
George Hicks High School	8,749.25
Cayman Brac High School	19,128.26
Primary Schools, Grand Cayman	6,489.76
Primary Schools, Cayman Brac	9,664.14
Lighthouse School	8,078.22
Sunrise Centre	5,692.10
Alternative Education Programme	8,487.50

The cost of equipment in the Islands' schools is not reflected in the valuation figures presented because it is not the normal policy of the Government to insure equipment, the reason being that overall it is more economical to replace equipment rather than to pay insurance premiums.

Please note that administrative costs for the Education Department have not been included, nor have some utility costs (electricity and telephone) and maintenance of building costs which were unavailable at short notice. The total cost, and cost per student based upon a valuation at the buildings at the Community College is as follows: Buildings and equipment costs per year $157,753.08; buildings and equipment costs per student per year $682.91.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, this question was the identical question asked by the Member in 1990 to the then Education Minister. I note in his reply that in 1994 it is stated that it is not the normal policy of Government to insure equipment.

Because some equipment in schools now include computers which are expensive items, and one would hope that they are used as long as is possible, although the technology in that area changes so much, my question is, Has Government simply taken the policy of not insuring the equipment, or have they actually gone to insurance companies for tender in terms of cost?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the question does not deal with insurance and, quite frankly, I do not have it. I gave the Member as much information as I could give him in this very long and exhaustive question.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, in the answer it is also stated that the administrative costs for the Education Department have not been included, nor the utility costs for the maintenance of the buildings and so on.

Does this not comprise a part of the actual cost of education, and would this not then change the figures here in the determination of the cost? Does the Government not include this as a policy?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I believe that if the Member had tried to listen to me trying to catch my breath giving him all this information, he would have realised how long it would take to put this together. There simply was not enough time for us to put together the information beyond this. The answer is yes, it would increase the cost per student.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, it appears that this is an extremely good basis of costing within the education system, something that would have statistical value. Would the Honourable Minister give an undertaking, as a follow-up and using this as the basis, to include this other information and arrive at what I think is valuable statistical information?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, this type of question wastes a lot of good time where the staff could be teaching the children rather than building up a lot of statistics...[In reply to voice across the floor] Would you please shut up?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, please address the Chair.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, with all due respect, through you, the Member over there is muttering into the microphone. Obviously you did not hear him and I drew your attention—through you to him...

The Speaker: I am afraid you did not because you addressed him, telling him to shut up. In the future please bring it to my attention by the words you say.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Sure, Madam Speaker, but...

The Speaker: Please continue.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Could I also ask you to listen carefully to what people like him, that Member, are saying into the microphone?

The Speaker: I am afraid that I can only hear one person at a time and you are the person who is talking and I have to pay attention to you. I would not like to deviate my attention from what the Honourable Minister is saying.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I will bear that in mind, Madam Speaker.

The time that has been wasted in this Honourable House by the Opposition Member, asking this question and the follow-up supplementaries by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town are such that if the staff have sufficient time and they are not detracted from their normal duties of teaching the students of this country, then I will undertake to get the information that the Member has asked for.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister. The next question is No. 196, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 196

No. 196: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation how many aircraft arrivals have there been at Owen Roberts Airport since January 1993 to date, with breakdown by month and type of flight, that is, commercial or private.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: There were 16,570 aircraft arrivals at the Owen Roberts International Airport between 1st January, 1993, and 30th September, 1994. Eleven thousand, three hundred and eighty-six (11,386) of these were commercial operations and the balance of 5,184 were in the private category. The attached table shows the breakdown of flights by month and category.

1993	Private	Commercial
January	272	508
February	255	480
March	313	533
April	236	549
May	233	467
June	326	525
July	229	497
August	164	508
September	188	476
October	190	515
November	196	567
December	318	563

1994	Private	Commercial
January	280	516
February	245	495
March	258	660
April	264	667
May	244	690
June	372	538
July	173	495
August	251	634
September	177	503

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could the Honourable Minister say if the Civil Aviation Department collects the fees for landing and any other relevant landing fees for the private and commercial flights at the airports, or is there in addition any private agency that also does collections?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I find it difficult to see the relevance of this to the question. He is asking about fees, the question only dealt with the number of aircraft. I am not in a position to answer it.

The Speaker: I think it would have been reasonable to assume that if we are talking about aircraft arrivals that the matter of fees might also come in. But if the Minister is not in a position at this time, perhaps he might wish to supply it at a latter date.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Not really, Madam Speaker. I do not have it available and at present the staff are at the Caribbean Meteorological Organisation Council's meeting. I just do not have it available.

The Member asks so many questions, I am sure he will ask that of me next time.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I am sure that no one expects that to be answered today or tomorrow, but in the foreseeable future.

The next question is No. 200, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 200

No. 200: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation if the Wesleyan Christian Academy is registered by Government under the Education Law.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, the Wesleyan Christian Academy is registered as a school under the Education Law.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister say when this registration took place?

The Speaker: The Honourable minister for Education and Aviation.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: In September of 1977.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Has there been any recent incident in which the registration of this school as an authorised school has taken place?

The Speaker: Perhaps the Member might indicate the incident he is referring to if the Honourable Minister is to answer that.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I would not wish to refer to any incident of this matter being up for renewal if the Minister for Education is not aware of it. Perhaps at a later date. Thank you.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for today.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

Standing Order 39

The Speaker: Before proceeding to other matters I would like to refer to the section in Standing Orders dealing with rules of debate, in particular Standing Order 39 which deals with rules for Members not speaking:

"Members present in the Chamber during a debate shall- (a) enter and leave with decorum; (b) not read books, newspapers, letters or other documents unless they relate to the business before the House; (c) maintain silence while other Members are speaking; and not interrupt except in accordance with Standing Orders; and (d) in all other respects conduct themselves in a seemly manner."

I think Honourable Members know that these Standing Orders have been made by the House. This is not a school, and I do not propose that everything that happens and goes wrong I am going to notice. It would be impossible to still listen to whoever has the floor for debate.

There is one point I would like to make, however. It has been normal in Parliament for other Members not speaking to make comments, but comments are not to be made into the microphone of the House. This is very interruptive to the speaker. I think it would be rather foolish of Members who have some comments to make to not do so in a soft voice. I think those of us who have visited other parliaments see this go on. Sometimes, when it is not done in a decorous manner, it can be very disruptive.

I thought I would bring that to Members' attention. Those persons not speaking should not have their microphones on. I ask for your indulgence in the future. We continue with the business of the House.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

(Continuation of the Debate on the Budget Address)

The Speaker: Debate continues on the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994.

I would hope that we will not have to wait five minutes again today before an Honourable Member takes the floor. If not, I shall have to call upon the Third Official Member to wind up the debate.

The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Madam Speaker, I rise to make my contribution to the debate on the Budget Address and the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994.

I would like to congratulate the Honourable Third Official Member, the Financial Secretary, on the able way in which he presented such a comprehensive Budget Address to this Honourable House on the 4th of November.

Before going into that Address, I would like to join other Members in welcoming my fellow Cayman Bracker, the Honourable First Official Member, the Chief Secretary, to this honourable House. Although he has visited us on many occasions as the Temporary Member, he is now here permanently. I welcome him and I look forward to his support as the Member responsible for District Administration for the Sister Islands, the district which I have been elected to represent.

I would like to thank the people of my constituency for enabling me to have a seat in this Honourable House since 1980, and to have had the opportunity on many occasions to make a contribution to the Budget Address debate.

During the time that I have been in this honourable House, I have seen many changes and the economy of this country has grown. I am very impressed that a country with such a small population can actually stand and present a balanced budget of approximately $178 million. The history of the development in recent decades is indeed a credit to the Government and the people of these Islands. We have made great strides in our economic development. And I want to congratulate the Financial Secretary in his moves to further enhance the growth of the financial industry—the reduction in the companies registration fees, and also, the promotion which is being carried out throughout the world is to be congratulated.

I also want to congratulate another fellow Bracker, Mr. Lyndon Martin, on the position he now holds which will help to promote the financial industry to the rest of the world.

We, today, are privileged people. We often forget our blessings and prefer to complain and criticise. If we would use as a guide many of the other industrialised nations and the problems that they face, we would realise that the Cayman Islands are head and shoulders above many.

Many of the great decisions being taken by world leaders, such as GATT and other things, will have a direct or indirect effect on the economy of the Cayman Islands. So to some extent, our success depends on the leadership of the great nations of the world, and the economy of the United States of America, in particular. It is important that we realise that we do depend upon outside influence to keep our economy buoyant.

During this year we have had a great influx of Cuban migrants coming to our land. During my sea career I traded with the Republic of Cuba, making literally thousands of trips in and out of that country when it was a free, democratic country, and I saw the turn of events from a capitalist society to a communist society when we stopped trading there. I realise that it is because of good government that we are successful and it is because of the change of government in Cuba that those people are fleeing their shores. I sympathise with those people, but, nevertheless, the terrific financial responsibility which it is placing upon such a small population is something which we all must take due consideration of.

We have all seen major changes around the world—in Africa—we have seen the peaceful invasion of the Republic of Haiti. It is my hope that that will be successful and also help this region to become more successful. From personal knowledge I realise that the people of that country have been a forgotten people for many, many generations.

I would now like to turn to Tourism. We all accept tourism as the primary leg of our economy. I want to congratulate the Minister responsible for Tourism for what has been achieved since he assumed that responsibility. I am very thankful to him on behalf of the people in my district for the emphasis he has placed on the Sister Islands, for the advertising and including us in the overall promotion of the Cayman Islands.

Although our hotel rooms are small in number, our economy is even more heavily dependent on tourism than Grand Cayman. So, I am most grateful for what has been done to encourage the travelling public to visit Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

We look forward to the construction of additional hotel rooms and condominiums in the Brac which will afford more opportunities for visitors to visit our shores and also more employment for our people as additional rooms are provided.

While on the subject of Tourism, I feel that if small cruise ships will use the port of Cayman Brac, that, too, could offer us some assistance. I know the Minister for Tourism is working to achieve that goal.

We look forward to continued growth in tourism and that is why only yesterday another step in providing the necessary tools to make this a successful tourist honeymoon/marriage destination was achieved with the passing of the Marriage Law (Amendment) Bill.

We are going on a steady course and much is being accomplished, but we must never reach the stage where we forget that we must be a friendly people. If these tourists do not enjoy their stay in the Cayman Islands—word of mouth is by far the best advertisement, and it certainly can be the most discouraging. So, I appeal to all to have a smile, give good value for money to all who come to our shores and thank them and wish them a speedy return.

I turn now to the Department of Agriculture. The Department of Agriculture has made great strides, and I would like to congratulate the Minister and his forward-moving programme which includes Cayman Brac as well. The opening of the Pavilion where cattle shows and Agricultural shows can be held has enhanced that programme and will allow us all to become better acquainted with what is possible and what is being done in the farming sector of our country.

Also, the vigilant eyes of the Agriculture Department in trying to prevent any animal or plant disease from coming into our country is of great importance. We must endeavour to keep a healthy country.

The institution of an abattoir where animals can be slaughtered in a proper manner will be a great enhancement to the beef production in Grand Cayman, and I look forward to the time when a small area—I do not think that we would go as far as to call it an abattoir, maybe a slaughterhouse—could be established in Cayman Brac where the animals could also be slaughtered under proper health conditions.

The Public Works Department has had a very busy year, and they have come under criticism, but they must come in for praise. I am quite impressed with the progress they are making on the diversion road around the Airport. I realise it is a certain amount of inconvenience it is under construction, but once it is completed it will afford an additional safety factor to the Airport and a properly engineered road for the travelling public.

I shall have more to say on Public Works when I deal with my own district.

Madam Speaker, the Honourable Financial Secretary also spoke of the buoyant real estate market that now exists in these Islands, That is indeed encouraging because not only do we look forward to the sale of land, but we look forward to the development of the land after it is purchased which will have a roll-over effect on our economy.

The construction industry is rebounding. I think that is important, as many of our native Caymanians are involved in that industry and we need to see construction grow in order to provide employment.

On the Sister Islands 1994 proved to be a slower year when compared to 1993. During the first nine months of the year the estimated value of approved projects was 26%, less than the same period in 1993. Statements of this nature are true but alarming to those of us who love the Sister Islands and realise that employment is absolutely necessary there if the population is to remain with us. If employment is not available in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, they must move on.

I think we should be extremely grateful that inflation has remained under control. Inflation averaged 3.1% as compared with 2.2% for the same period last year. An inflation rate of 3.1 % is still an extremely low rate when we consider that we have to import 90% or more of what we eat and wear. I think we have been very fortunate.

I am somewhat disturbed that the interest rates are being moved up by the Federal Reserve, that will make it more difficult for Caymanians seeking to get homes. Nevertheless, if the experts feel that is necessary to keep inflation down, then I guess it is a cost we will all have to pay.

I am grateful that we do have a low-cost middle income housing scheme in effect with the Government guarantee. I advocated that this was something which was absolutely necessary here long before I entered into the political arena. I am glad that the Honourable Minister has seen fit to negotiate a scheme whereby Government will not directly get involved in the lending of the money but will be simply guaranteeing it. This has been successful in other countries and I feel certain that it will be a great success here in the Cayman Islands. It will allow people who do not have the money to make a down payment on a home. Once they own their home, they will make the payments to guarantee their equity and not have to fear having it foreclosed.

The secret of the success of some of the commercial institutions has been their firm, hard policy if one did not meet their requirements they had regulations to foreclose. With the guarantee from Government, the banks feel more comfortable, the interest rates can probably be more attractive and certainly more funds will be made available to those who need them.

So, again I congratulate the Honourable Minister for moving in this direction. After this is better established, I look forward to seeking consideration for those who do not qualify under this scheme who may need help from the Social Services for building very small homes.

It is the responsibility of those of us who are more fortunate to provide for the less fortunate. This is one time that the Government is showing that they are prepared to guarantee. Our Government has guaranteed loans for the utility companies. Today our Government sees fit to guarantee housing for lower income persons. I think it is definitely a proper step.

I also want to speak on the sports development. Having been involved in athletics during my younger days, I know the benefit of physical training and the spirit of cooperation. The idea that one has to depend upon team work plays an important part in how one lives his adult life. One realises that one is not an island to one's self, but realises that it takes more than one to accomplish anything. Therefore, I think the benefits that properly organised sports will bring to this country in the long run will have a very beneficial effect. I do not think we should look at what returns we will get at the gate from an individual match. That is not the idea. It is what it will do for the social development and for the youth of this country.

I am grateful that it is the intention of the Honourable Minister to create district sports fields because practise and keeping in shape is so important in sports. If one only sees the playing field on the day of competition, he is not ready for competition. His desire to have the districts (which will include the district that I represent) is most appreciated. Not only is it appreciated, but it is going to show the beneficial effects for generations to come. It will help us realise how important team work really is.

As I said before, in this country we have had a phenomenal growth in our financial sector. The economy of this country is great. But what I want to say today is that I feel that it is high time that the community as a whole should help the Government of the Cayman Islands with the social burden that it has. I am sure that all of us are familiar that in more densely populated countries they have the United Way, the United Fund, the Community Chest (call it what you may), organisations which take care of most of what our Government has to fund from the Treasury and our Social Services programme. This is an Organisation which is set up as a non-profit Organisation, therefore it can benefit from contributions from individuals and companies doing business in nations where there are taxes and they can deduct that from their taxes.

I believe that we could set a goal and reach it. We could set a high goal and, therefore, many of the companies doing business within the Cayman Islands are subsidiaries of multi-national corporations doing business around the world, many of them paying enormous amounts of taxes to their home countries, whereby a substantial contribution to this fund would be deductible and not really be coming from their treasury, it would only be money that they would be paying out in taxes to another nation, and that would benefit the Cayman Islands. Likewise, companies doing business within the Island could make contributions. That fund could then be administered by a Board where a certain amount of money would be channelled to meet the needs of the less fortunate. It could help sports and many avenues, but the important aspect of it is that it be organised in a proper manner so that it could be a tax deductible Organisation and benefit from countries who have high taxation.

I feel that this would enhance our Government's care for its people and afford all of us who have had success within the Cayman Islands to contribute in a more genuine manner. We would probably prevent the increase of taxation across the board as we have had to do on many occasions since I have been a Member of this House, realising that some of the taxes would touch people who could ill afford to pay them, but neither can the country afford to do without the services which would be benefited by the tax package. Therefore, I had to (and I did) support many tax increases because of the need for revenue. If this revenue that we are talking about could be a substantial amount, it would alleviate the social requirements and the charitable requirements on this country's Government.

Madam Speaker, we have seen the plan for the proposed Port Development. We have seen many forward moving steps since we have come into the House this year—the development of Port Facilities has proved itself very beneficial to the Cayman Islands. I can remember back when we only had the rocks to tie up on here in George Town. If the ship you were on was shallow draft enough to get in, you had to worry about going aground, you had to worry about getting out before the Nor'wester caught you.

Today we have proper facilities. Many people said at that time that the expense was too great for the country, but it has certainly paid its way. It is showing a profit, and it has allowed Cayman to develop. Without the Port Authority we would never have seen the development that we have seen in the Cayman Islands. So, forward planning, looking ahead, is an absolute necessity if we are to continue to stay abreast of the needs.

I am not sure just how to address the cruise ship mooring problem. I, for one, prefer to see them moored at anchor, but that is not my job to say. Nevertheless, we need to be a forward thinking country and move to keep abreast of the needs of the industry.

Madam Speaker, we are proud of the health facilities that we now have in the Brac. We have come a long way over the years—from a District Nurse to what we now have.

Madam Speaker, you, and all Honourable Members, are aware that we have attempted to construct a rest home. We have the building now completed, and we are attempting to work with the Minister of Health in the operation of this facility. We feel it is too much of a risky business for us as individuals to attempt to operate this on our own. We could not construct it on our own, because when the money stopped flowing, we stopped the construction. That could not be so after we have made the rest home operational. When we have residents in there we must know our source of revenue, where the meals are coming from each day. I stand here today very disappointed that we have not received the support of many of my very close friends who promised major support when we started the construction, but as of today we await the first penny from some.

So, Madam Speaker, that has been discouraging but we will not accept defeat. We intend to get it operational and supply the need that is so desperate. Every day that I am in the Brac I get at least one call asking when it is going to be ready. I wish I had the answer.

Again, this morning, I want to express on behalf of my Committee—The Sister Island Community Care Association—a very grateful appreciation to this Government for its strong support, the contribution for construction, the advice and guidance we receive from the medical staff in Cayman Brac and the cooperation from the Minister of Health. But I do look forward to an early decision from the Ministry of Health as to how we can best get it operational. The one thing that my Committee and I are concerned about is that when it is operational the rate will be so that the people who need it can use it—that the fee will not be such that the people who need it will not be able to afford it and it will only go to people who can afford it. That was not the intention when it was started; that is not the intention today. Therefore, we seek the cooperation of the public and private sector to help us to operate this, so that we can supply that very much needed facility for the people of Cayman Brac and little Cayman.

I would now like to turn to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. Little Cayman has been moving at quite a rapid rate when we consider the developmental history of that island. It is moving much faster in its development than Cayman Brac, and I know that the Minister for Education and Aviation is exploring the possibility of improving the airport landing facilities on Little Cayman. I look forward to seeing this implemented in the not-too-distant future. It is unbelievable to me, but the District Officer tells me that it is not unusual to sometimes have 39 flights per day out of Little Cayman. That is hard for me to believe, but it does take place. So it is not just a little island that time forgot.

I also know that the Minister for Aviation has provided us with an extra flight on Saturday afternoon out of Cayman Brac which has been a flight that has historically been very beneficial to tourism development and the local travelling public. It has certainly helped to improve the tourist arrivals on Cayman Brac and that is greatly appreciated I think it has done more to help build up our occupancy rate than anything that has been done. So, to you, Mr. Minister, we would like to say a great big 'thank you'.

I would also like to express gratitude for the keen interest the Minister of Education has taken in the education facilities in Cayman Brac and also in implementing their strategic plan. I look forward to the report on that Strategic Development plan and the future development listed in the Capital Works for this year in Cayman Brac. I think the schools will be enhanced and brought back up to the condition we all would like to see our children go to school in, and we are grateful for that.

We would like to see some bus shelters provided, particularly in the highly populated areas of Watering Place and Spot Bay, where a large number of children get together to ride the school bus. We do not have that much rainfall in the Brac, but when it does, it usually comes at the time when the children are preparing to go to school and it makes it very inconvenient to arrive at school not prepared to attend classes. It is a necessity.

One item that I have long been a great advocate of is the National Health Insurance Scheme. I feel that this is a must. We need to provide some type of insurance for our people. We need also to have a National Health Insurance Scheme in order that Government itself can know what its liability for its civil servants and pensioners and others is going to be. With health costs rising at such a rapid rate, it is baffling to see some of the bills coming in from some of the institutions. Once we have a National Health Insurance Scheme, at least we will know what the premium will be and we can quantify that.

I want to say today, that the premium for insurance will be controlled by the cost of health care in the Cayman Islands. Unless we can keep the cost of health care in the Cayman Islands down, our health insurance rates are going to escalate, they will bill us according to what they have to pay out. We can do nothing about the overseas medical, they are controlled by factors beyond us, but we do have, through the Ministry for Health, a controlling factor on health care in the Cayman Islands.

On a more personal note on the Sister Islands, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, during the 14 years that I have been honoured to be in this honourable House, we have always had very close cooperation between the Members responsible for District Administration; District Administration itself, Public Works and the Elected Representatives. I have always considered us a team, all trying to accomplish a task and each one of us had a part we could play with certain responsibilities placed upon each one of us. As an Elected Representative, elected by the people, I feel that my duty has always been to represent the people. I have always tried to provide employment by getting allocations in the Budget and with the cooperation of the District Commissioner and the Member responsible, supplemental expenditures, if necessary, to provide this continuity of employment due to the very slow pace of employment within the private sector.

During the year 1993-1994, situations have changed. We have had considerable problems in getting our projects implemented and I stand here today not flinching for one minute from my responsibility to my people—I have made it very clear that I have never attempted to take the responsibility from the civil servants. I fully know how Government works. I know what I can do and what I cannot do and after 14 years, you do learn a little. But, unfortunately, today in my district there is really no lead being given for respect for Elected Representatives. The Elected Representatives in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman just happen to be around. They are not shown respect.

I will give you an example, and it may be a bit petty, but nevertheless, these things sometimes hurt. We had a Memorial Day Meeting on Sunday at the Aston Ruddy Centre. I was told that there was a seat there for me as a Justice of the Peace if I wanted to sit in it. That said something, there was no seat as a Member of the Legislative Assembly. That is the type of respect that is now being shown. Unfortunately, if my colleague had been there, there would have been no seat for him at all since he is not a Justice of the Peace. That is the kind of respect that is being shown to both of us.

This is not conducive to good representation. I am not trying to play politics. I have never campaigned before nomination day and I do not intend to do it at this stage. I am here, simply stating the facts.

This year has been so different from most other years, and I think the Financial Secretary will bear this out. Many years we have come crying for supplemental expenditures in June and July when the funds are finished. This year, the year is finished, the funds are there but the work has not been done. Our people have been unemployed. There is a policy that they have retired many of the older people—and I agree with the retirement policy—but I also agree that if you cannot get the young people to work and the old people prove to you that they can work, they should be given an opportunity. They are not being used.

I do not want to cry in this honourable Assembly, but I want to set the record straight. The Budget has come to the Budget Committee without everyone seeing it. I have seen it because it is published in this black book and I have been talking to the Honourable Elected Members of the Executive Council to see if there is anything which can be changed around in it that may make it better.

Unfortunately, that privilege was always given to us in prior years, whereby we could hear what the people wanted, It is not possible for them to speak to all of the public, it is our duty to keep in touch with the public and we could then say this is what we feel is best. Not dictating how Public Works does the work, but just what we feel is most essential.

I am a person who will not hesitate to tell you what I mean, but I will not tell you what you want to hear. That is one of the reasons I have not been asked by them because if I would have said 'Sure you are saying what is right' I would have been acquainted. But I have my ideas, I came here to represent the people and I will go out as a representative of the people. I am not trying to buy friends, I am not trying to buy enemies, I am simply trying to do my job.

Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, as I have said so many times in this House, depend very heavily on continuous employment by the Public Works Department for our people who cannot get employment elsewhere. It really hurts me to know that money will not be spent and hardships and unemployment have existed in the district during the last 12 months. I really hope that this does not continue, because the district cannot afford it.

I said in a public meeting in Spots Bay, some months ago, that this was not a year in which we had the largest Capital Expenditures, but it certainly was not the least. It was not the fault of the Elected Government, we had the appropriations—the fault was not spending the money that was appropriated to us. I want to repeat that again here today. I am not talking that the Elected Government did not appropriate funds to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman—District Administration did not spend those funds as they should have been spent, otherwise they would not be in the treasury today.

The economy of Cayman Brac is such that people try to make due with what they have. But, after they are unemployed after a certain period of time, naturally, they have to leave. When they leave most of them come to Grand Cayman and it is very obvious, there are literally tens of millions of dollars which originated in Cayman Brac which are invested in Grand Cayman. Right here in the city of George Town one can see millions of Cayman Brac funds invested because we did not have an opportunity to keep our young people there.

That is really where my concern is. I want to see something in Cayman Brac that will increase the population. When I traded here in Grand Cayman (when Grand Cayman had about 7,000 people), we were still bringing aviation gasoline in 55 gallon drums. Grand Cayman could not develop. It just did not have the volume of business. So, the infrastructure in Cayman Brac is far better developed today than Grand Cayman was when its population was around 7,000. It took the extra initiative to get it going.

We are underpopulated and until we can encourage additional population, some type of development in the Brac—tourism has helped us immensely, but we have to look beyond tourism to something that will encourage people to come and settle within the two Islands.

As I said, Little Cayman is having major development for a small island. Unfortunately, it is a construction boom. When the construction is over, where are we going to be after that? It is not something that will continue.

I do not think the construction boom part of it can last more than another two years at most. Most of the developable property will be developed and then they will be back to what Cayman Brac is facing today—no permanent population or a small permanent population. I would ask this Honourable Government to help us look for some ways and means by which we can generate an interest in people doing business within Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation touched on it yesterday and I was grateful for his remarks. I will deeply appreciate, on behalf of the people, anything that can be done. We do not like the idea of being a drag on Grand Cayman, if that is the word we should use. Nevertheless, until such time as we can have a buoyant economy, we will continue to need employment provided by the Government.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, would this be a convenient time to take the suspension?

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.49 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.14 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, continuing the debate.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we took the break, I was talking about my constituency, Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and the concern I have for the lack of private sector employment there I am grateful to be looking at the Estimates for 1995. I have extracted all of the capital expenditures that will be made in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. It comes to approximately $1.5 million for capital works in addition to the recurrent.

Out of the recurrent budget there are fees for maintenance of playing fields—$20,000; maintenance of boats—$10,000; fire equipment—$1,000; buildings—$175,000; radio transmitters—$1,500; office equipment—$6,000; school buildings—$80,000; other equipment—$10,000; cemeteries, $13,000; public parks and gardens—$25,000; harbours and channels—$50,000; drainage wells and hydrants—$10,000; road maintenance—$200,000; traffic lanes and signs—$18,000; vehicle and equipment—$135,000; which is a total of $754,500.

This will provide a considerable amount of employment. It is my hope that the necessary arrangements will be made once the Budget is approved and expenditures can be started early in the coming year we will not have this type of problem, as I have spoken about here today, come the latter months of 1995, that money will remain un-spent and people will have been without employment.

This is a very serious thing. It is not like you can walk down the street and get a job from someone else. There is just not anyone else in a position to employ you. It is hard for me to stand here and really express to you, Madam Speaker and Honourable Members, how important the capital expenditure is to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

If our workers do not find work within that district, there is no other district for them to drive to. I want to try to emphasise that. If a person from East End does not find work in East End, he can go to Bodden Town or any of the other districts. The same way with West Bay and George Town. But being two separate islands it is even difficult if work is going on in Little Cayman to get there to work. That is one of the problems we are having with the development of Little Cayman—the majority of people in Little Cayman are people on work permits. It has been established for years that anyone from Cayman Brac going to Little Cayman to work was paid from the time he left home to the time he returned and paid for his food and accommodations while there. It makes it extremely expensive. So, many of those working now charter an aircraft to take them there in the morning and bring them back in the afternoon in order to avoid the accommodation. It becomes very expensive when you live on one island and try to work on another. And it is impossible to pay $78.96 on Cayman Airways if you fly everyday, on what a common labourer earns. It is physically impossible for a person living on the Brac to get employment in Grand Cayman.

Coming towards the end of what I have to say, we have in the Budget a sports grant of $4,800. This, I understand, is a fee that is divided up amongst the different sports associations in the Brac. Each year we seem to be getting more sports minded and there are more associations being formed. So I ask the Honourable Minister to look at that and see if he can help us with a total amount of that figure.

Mr. Minister, I was saying sports grants are $4,800 and that covers all the associations, it is divided up into all the different sports—volleyball, soccer, softball, etceteras—and it comes out to a very small sum when it is divided into the different associations, so I would ask if you would look at that.

Madam Speaker, I do not believe that we all truly appreciate the many benefits which we enjoy living in the Cayman Islands. I think it would do us all good if we could travel to the less fortunate places and see how life is in some of the other countries. We could then appreciate our islands much more.

In my parting remarks, I want to say that I think everyone of us wants what is the very best for the Cayman Islands; we want the very best for our youth; the best health facilities, and truly, in every sense of the word, we want the best. In order to get the best, we all have to contribute to it.

I want to speak again on why I feel it would be advantageous for the Government to look into this United Fund. I do believe it would be a means of relieving a lot of the pressure that is now on Government and providing funds that are really necessary.

Even a country with all of the assets of the United States cannot undertake all of the social benefits that the Cayman Islands offer today. A lot of it comes through the United Fund, United Way, whatever you want to call it, and it is divided by a very competent group of individuals to best suit the needs of that particular district. Millions of dollars are raised in that respect that will not have to come out of revenue earned by the country. I am just asking the Government to give this some consideration. Madam Speaker, I look forward to discussing the Estimates in Finance Committee and I support the Appropriation (1 995) Bill, 1994.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I begin my contribution to the debate on the Budget Address by first welcoming the Honourable James Ryan as the First Official Member of this honourable House. He is a gentleman who is no stranger to any of us; one who has already made a significant contribution to the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, in particular. I have no doubt that he will serve the country well in his new position.

I believe it is also proper to congratulate the Honourable Financial Secretary and his team for the excellent budget delivered so ably almost two weeks ago. I say excellent because the budget is balanced; it is projected to deliver a surplus in December 1995; it meets all of our loan repayments—all of the $12 million plus of it—which this Government did not commit.

I note that Mr. Ezzard Miller states that we committed the Government for 30% more public debt. What he did not say was that the Government, of which he was a major player, contributed to and created that debt, namely Cayman Airways—$35 million, which they lost in just a few years.

When they tried to borrow the $20 million (US) from the bank (which is what I think he is talking about the 30%) to pay off the creditors before they shut down Cayman Airways, in their effort to borrow the money to pay off these creditors to keep Cayman Airways in the air, on that Government's financial performance, they could not get any bank or any group of banks to lend them that $20 million (US).

It was only when we took office and demonstrated to officers of our local banks our commitment to sound, fiscal management that we got their approval. The $20 million was received in 1993. Yes, received during our watch! But the losses were created during Mr. Ezzard Miller's time as Minister for Health, together with the other Executive Council Ministers. We know who they are. They all lost their seats with the exception of one who decided not to run for re-election. The $35 million loss on Cayman Airways was created by the former Government. That is why I said all of the $12+ million in statutory expenditure which we are having to pay back. We committed only a small portion to this year in order to have sufficient money to deal with capital expenditure, in order to begin the stimulation of this economy. Everybody is now asking who we are developing for. I heard the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman say that.

The Budget is an excellent one. It holds the current expenditure in check. It provides for a small amount of essential new services. It provides many millions in capital expenditure to provide the necessary infrastructural development and maintaining our facilities for the people of these Islands.

I have always been delighted and encouraged about what the future holds for these Islands. When I experience Caymanians reaching the top level in Government, or in the private sector, I believe that all we need to do is to give Caymanians a chance to take on the responsibility. We can search our mind, those who have gotten that chance, you can just watch their growth as professionals and as people who care about the community in which we all live. What all of us need to do is to practise what I call positive attitudes and tell the world the positive accomplishments that we have achieved.

Which country in this world, with a population of 31,000 people can fund a budget of CI $178 million, or roughly US $200 million? And no major borrowings, Madam Speaker—just completing the draw down on the funds that I referred to earlier—approximately $3.3 million.

I repeat what I said: Which country in this world, with a population of 31,000 people can fund a budget of approximately US $200 million? Today I am going to say, None. Let someone prove me wrong. I challenge the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, or the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. They seem to do a lot of research.

Which country with 31,000 population ranks higher as a world banking centre than the Cayman Islands? None. Which country in the world with 31,000 population has better telecommunications? Again, I say, None!

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Hear, hear!

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I could go on, Madam Speaker.

Which country in this world, with 31,000 population, has a more reliable supply of electricity to their people? Again, I say, None.

Tell the negative guys over on the other side to make that negative.

Which country in this world has a better quality of life and social atmosphere? I say, None. Let the researchers prove me wrong. Everyone, it seems, who comes to the Cayman Islands would wish to stay. Why is that? It is the type of living in the Cayman Islands that they cannot find anywhere else.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Hear, hear!

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Why is that? Because we live in islands with strong religious beliefs, even though I think the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town do not agree with me, based on their comments yesterday.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Is that why you are selling marriages?

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: [addressing the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman] I should have sold you one. [Members' laughter]

Although there are Members of the Opposition who would like to open more stores—like the same two Members—perhaps even the cinemas and other places on Sundays, maybe they might want to do a little dancing at the night club as well, I say to the people of these islands, remember our Biblical teachings. There were false prophets in Biblical times too.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Hear, hear!

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, because the Opposition makes speeches, writes letters, like Mrs. Bridget Loft-McPartland—and I put her in the Opposition given the company I saw her keep in the gallery the morning the Budget Address was given—so, while they make speeches and write letters, that does not mean that their constant negative and (in some cases), rumours that they tend to spread are true. We know who the main players of the Opposition are—all those who previously served in the Government and took a thrashing at the poles in 1992. Plus the two or three Members in this House and the two who were in the gallery that morning when the Budget Address was delivered.

I believe, as I read my Bible, I found an appropriate verse. With your indulgence, Madam Speaker, I want to be able to read that this morning for the Opposition Members and for Mrs. Bridget Lott-McPartland. It is taken from the book of Matthew, chapter 13. It was a time when Jesus was at the seaside and a multitude gathered together. He spoke to the multitude and his disciples. The disciples questioned why he (Jesus) was speaking in parables. In verse 13 he said: "... because they seeing see not; and hearing they hear not, neither do they understand."

Madam Speaker, the verse that I led up to reading is Chapter 13, verse 15. This is read to the same group: "For this people's heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted..."

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Not everyone that says; "Lord, Lord shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven."

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: [Laughter]

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I have the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman reading his Bible now. That is a good start, a very good start. [Members' laughter]

As a youngster I wanted to say this: We had some preaching at young people's meetings on Friday nights. One of the persons who generally spoke (and I spoke on occasions) referred to some hard-hearted people. He made an expression, which I believe relates to this group—the heart must be made of canvas, it is not a normal heart.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: [laughter]

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Yes, Madam Speaker, if the Opposition Members see, listen and understand, they too will be converted to the truth in their hearts; although I wonder if their hearts are normal, or are they like what my colleague said, made of canvas.

Generally, in Cayman the people you associate with—your peers—can either steer you in the right direction or the wrong direction. In Mrs. Bridget McPartland's case (who writes letters), I believe she cannot even see nor hear that I am the only Member of Executive Council responsible for Tourism who has recognised all his predecessors. That is why I think that scripture is appropriate. I recognised all of my predecessors for their contribution to tourism development by presenting them with the Golden Thatch Award, at last year's and this year's Tourism Awareness Week Function at the Lion's Centre. I do not know where she was. By the caption in the Caymanian Compass, she infers that I am in the right place at the right time, and I agree with, her fully. Thank God I am the Minister for Tourism today.

She wants me to publish all of my strategies and my policies that are different from my predecessor's. If one is in competition, should one go and tell one's competitor(s) all the details as to how one does it? He would be a blathering idiot! But I will give her this much information to let her know that what Mr. Norman Bodden left is not the same place today in reality.

When I took over the Portfolio in 1992, all of the overseas staff were reporting to the Miami Office Headquarters. The Department of Tourism here at the Harbour Centre was not in complete control of the overseas staff. We changed that very early in 1993. We lost one of the major players in early 1993, whom I think was in conflict with the Director of Tourism on occasion. I believe that when we changed it and took early control in 1993, all of the staff in the Department realised that they had to report to Grand Cayman. The mechanism, the promotional machinery and the strategies that some people referred to then, were implemented.

The results are what they were in 1993 and what they are today. The visitors just kept coming and coming. So many of them came that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman does not believe that I did it. But when December ended in 1992, there was only a 2% increase for the whole year. At the end of September, this year, we were 16,000 visitors over the whole year of 1992. But he wants me to give that to some previous Government. I give the former Minister credit for all that he has done, but I will not give him any credit after November 1992.

I want to say that I believe that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman has a very keen interest in the 10-year Tourism Development Plan. And I say that honestly, because he has asked more questions about this than 1, as the old saying goes, 'would want to shake a stick at.' But I want to tell him too that 'you realise the former Government was not following any plan...'

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: He did not know that?

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I wonder if he knew. Yes, I think he knew that.

We took control of the overseas offices, we caused them all to report properly to the Department of Tourism in the Cayman Islands in early 1993, and we took the decision to change the advertising programme of 'Ours and Yours' and by all accounts so far, it has been warmly received by visitors and potential visitors. We changed the advertising programme because the world of travel is now interested in more than sun, sand and the sea. But from the contents of Mrs. McPartland's letter, she does not even seem to know that there is a new campaign—even after we launched the new campaign locally at the Hyatt on the 30th of September. We did this to cause everybody locally to realise the new campaign, and we displayed the pictures that we were going to put across the newspapers, magazines and the television screen. In addition to that, we launched the same advertising campaign at the Brac Reef on the 14th of October. I think the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman had some trouble with reservations, he just could not make it.

Mrs. McPartland must realise that if she enters the political arena—which she appears to have done—and she attacks me, or any Member of the National Team, she can put one thing in the bank—she is going to get answered, and answered well. We will answer her call. These are not days to allow twisted facts and political manoeuvring to go unanswered, for the public needs to hear the truth as well. I will come back to this.

She asked me in her letter to publish my Government's policies. While that request was made with what I would call a little bit of sarcasm, my answer to her is: If you have eyes and can see, keep watching. If you have ears and can hear, keep listening. It is going to happen soon. I am going to give her a good Christmas present, Madam Speaker. It will be my Christmas present to her, and I question if she deserves it. But, Christmas is a time to be generous.

I say to her: Keep writing letters so I can tell the public, or maybe I should correct that statement, Madam Speaker, on advice from my learned friend, let her keep signing letters so that I can have the full justification to tell the public what this woman is capable of. I am now going to rest my case with her.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Minister take the luncheon suspension at this time?

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: It is a very appropriate time, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended until 2.30.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.52 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.33 PM

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning continuing.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we took the break, I think my words were, "I was resting my case", on this lady who had wrote letters to the press. So I will move on.

I noticed this morning though, as I was looking at the Caymanian Compass, I saw another letter by D. Ezzard Miller, and he keeps talking about this strategic planning. Obviously, he objects to it—at least he infers that in his letter. I might have to come back to that. He goes on to talk about the cost of health care services and that the 1995 Budget does not show the true effect of the cost of health care because in it there is no money for recruitment, advertising, entertainment, money to pay telexes and facsimile and no money for the payment of water, telephone and electricity. He says that this figure should be $250,000 or something along those lines. Madam Speaker, he knows better. That is why I said, 'not everything they say, because they said it, it is correct.' He has been in Government long enough to know that the majority of departments, if not all of them, (with minor exceptions) their electricity, telex and telephone bills are paid for by the Department of Finance and it has been that way for 20-odd years.

So I do not know what kind of message he is trying to convey here in an attempt to mislead people. But I come back to this point about strategic planning, and he makes reference to this ... I think he made reference, if he did not make it in this letter he made reference to it on Daybreak, this eloquent professor who, I think the Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation dealt with.

I do not believe you can apply strategic planning for General Motors as it applies to the public in any one country. Where I take Mr. Ezzard Miller on this issue about strategic planning and his apparent non support, I only need to refer to the document which I was talking to the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman about, the Ten-Year Tourism Development Plan which was accepted by his government, obviously endorsed by him (Mr. Miller). Otherwise it could not have been laid on the Table here in 1992. I do not want to bore the House, but this document has on many pages those same words "strategic planning."

On page (ii) it talks about "a strategic approach to choice is recommended". And the first line under that paragraph talks about, "this is a strategic management plan". Now he is trying to tell people that he does not accept strategic planning. But he approved this one. I mean where is the truth?

On page (vii) it talks about "a strategic approach to marketing is the next step for the Cayman Islands". Where Madam Speaker, is Mr. Miller's ability to deal with the truth?

On page (viii) it talks about the "human resource strategy" and it listed a number of bullet points (I would call them).

On page (ii) of the document it talks about, "to provide a clear set of policies, strategies and implementations guidelines."

What is strategic planning? All we need to do is to just look at Exhibit 1.2, which talks about situation analysis; the work plan and all the graphs and boxes underneath it which demonstrates that this document is heavily strategic-planning oriented. It even talks about "to prepare implementation plan, organisation plan for the administration, monitoring and evaluation model and ongoing planning process". It also talks about advisory committee workshop to review strategy and implementation planned recommendations etcetera. Well what in his view is strategic planning? That is exactly what the Minister for Education has done. It is exactly what the Minister for Health is doing and it is exactly what they should be doing. Because they are on the right track.

He would like to confuse them if he can by telling them that they are not, as well as some of the other Opposition across the floor. A tourism management strategy for the Cayman Islands, all through this document that he (Mr. Miller) approved to be laid on the Table of this House is the word "strategic planning". So he should go home and shut up about strategic planning. Perhaps he does not know anything about it. He reads the word but he does not know what it means.

Madam Speaker, anyone who believes that he is in authority on every subject, should be careful and watch out.

I recall earlier in the debate, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman was commenting about planning and the—I would put it Central Planning Authority's activities. He asked some questions which I am going to try to provide some answers for. He asked about a delegated authority which we did in September of 1993. We brought the Bill to the House and the amendment was approved. We delegated the authority to the Chairman of the Central Planning Authority and the Director of Planning, to deal with what we called routine applications: houses, signs, swimming pools and things of that sort. I think that delegated authority is working well. I think it enables the Central Planning Authority more time to review complex applications, simultaneously requests for COs (certificate of occupancy) for houses. After the houses are built you should have a certificate of occupancy before you move in. Those can be processed quicker by that same delegated authority.

On an average, it appears from a random sample taken from the three-quarters of 1994, reveals that the average amount of time for an application (in this case it is a house), to be approved was 16 calendar days. I think we are getting there Madam Speaker. This is 16 calendar days with a shortage of staff. So when we have the full complement which is just about now, I am sure the Director of Planning will simply try to reduce the length of time for the approval to be given—the 16 days.

There are other types of applications Madam Speaker, commercial, industrial, etcetera, and the average processing time for those according to the information provided by the Director of Planning is 37 days, seven days more than the normal month of 30 days. But the thing to bear in mind also is that applications of this kind have to wait 21 days as a minimum because of notices to adjacent landowners. If for example some advertisements have to be done, or are required under the Law to be done, then that time is five weeks because you would do the advertisement for two weeks and wait three weeks for any kind of a reply.

I think the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman made a comment about this as well. We have given the other departments namely: the Water Authority, the Public Works Department, Fire Department and the Department of Environment, once the application arrives in the Planning Department it is then farmed out to these various department for their approval and they are given 14 days to reply. If we receive no reply, we take the view that they have no comments to give and the application is supposed to move forward to the Central Planning Authority for consideration.

Madam Speaker, last year the Opposition was licking us left, right and centre because the construction industry was down. Now that we have begun to get it going they are saying, "Who are you developing this country for?" Where is the logic in all of this? I was happy to see that working almost 18 months in dealing with development, that the figures had substantially improved.

The Honourable Financial Secretary quoted on page 18, of his Budget Address that in the first nine months of this year approximately $115 million of plans for new construction on Grand Cayman were approved compared to the same period last year when we had $78 million.

Some people were saying last year, when I made the comment in my contribution that I believe that what this country needs is a new four or five star hotel. I heard snippings too. I heard challenges issued, it cannot be done. He cannot get it done. We broke grounds a few weeks ago. Now they are asking who we are developing the country for. We are developing the country to ensure that all of those people who called for help last year in the construction industry have a job and can provide for their families. Any country that stands still, loses.

It is easy for people to write letters to the press talking about development and how we should be holding on to this and that, and sometimes—look who is writing the letters! They have already made their millions! Who cares about the little person who is trying to make it? But this is democracy: everybody can write letters. We do not have to share the same views. They talk about the old Galleon Beach project so much so that the Opposition and their rumour-mongering are going around saying that this Government—the National Team Government—gave away all that land that used to be the Galleon Beach site. Because they said it Madam Speaker, does not mean that it is true. There are facts about this. There is a document here, an agreement signed by His Excellency Sir John Huggings, Knight Cross of the most distinguished Order of St. Michael and St. George on the 14th day of April, 1950, leasing this land (all seven plus acres of it) to Benson Greenall. I wonder where the National Team was then in 1950, that they want to blame us for it.

Madam Speaker, you know sometimes you ignore some of this rumour-mongering, but sometimes it can be very dangerous. The other day I walked into a bank and the receptionist stopped me. She said "Mr. Tom, I want to have a word with you." I said, "Okay, what would you like to tell me?" She asked a question, "Why did your Government give away this land—the old Galleon Beach?" That is no false story Madam Speaker. I can name the person if I have to, but I will protect her, it is not necessary.

That is the rumour-mongering that is going on in this country in trying to degrade the National Team Government—trying to make it look as if we did what the previous Government did when they gave away the land over at SafeHaven.

I want the Opposition to talk about that. And I want the former member of Executive Council, responsible for Communication and Works to tell this country how much money he got out of it, for extending the lease agreement which had 40-odd years to run, back to 99 years. I heard a figure of $1 million and another million over a 12 month period of time. But I beg to ask this question Madam Speaker: Is that anything near the value he gave away? And Ezzard gave away? And Benson gave away? And Norman gave away? I say no! They are trying to say that the National Team gave away the land at the Galleon Beach to cover up this activity by them in 1991 or 1990, I do not remember the exact year.

That little lady [the receptionist] said to me, "But are you not going to help us with some public beach?" I said to her, "Yes. The National Team will ensure that we have public beaches in this country for our people, and you can put this in your bank and draw the deposit soon."

Another person wrote a letter to the press talking about... And I think even the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman made this remark - 'destroying all these trees down on the Galleon Beach site'. Madam Speaker, as the document that I just talked about mentioned—as a little boy I used to go to the bathhouse on Seven Mile Beach where this document mentions, that I just talked about. What were the beautiful trees there? Just like the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay said, Cocoplum bush and shrubbery. It did not have all these Casuarina trees on it as it does now. Was this what the lady and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman were talking about? All those Calamel trees that I see growing on it? Are those the beautiful trees they are talking about?

He asked questions about how the delegated authority is working, how the Central Planning Authority is getting on, and how many days it is taking for this approval? But when we get big projects like the old Galleon Beach site (the Marriott or whatever it is going to be called), they approach us and we say to them, "Now before you do anything in a final form, go to the Planning Department and be sure you speak to the Planning Officers; be sure you get all their input on your plan before you finalise it." If you do that, I bet you there will be a faster approval. That is the fast track he talked about. He said, he wondered how we could fast track this one. But that is improvement in the system, my friend.

Madam Speaker, I have spoken to my Permanent Secretary and the Director of Planning, and I said to them that all of the people responsible for planning in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman must come under the Planning Department. Those staff members must be controlled by the Director of Planning, not the District Administrator. You will find that in the 1995 Budget.

I am in sympathy with the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, because he really has a concern. This House and the Finance Committee provided money for the people of the Brac so the Brac people could have some work during 1994. What happens? It is still there. It has not been carried out the majority of it. And who is to blame? It has to be the District Administrator—he is the Controlling Officer. So let us lay the blame where it belongs—right at his feet, Madam Speaker!

But I want to assure the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman that the National Team will take action to ensure that development happens in their islands too, not just in Grand Cayman. We are going to help the people of the Brac, not just from a tourism point of view, but all around.

Madam Speaker, let me back up two steps just in case some people believe that the Marriott that they see on Le Jeune Road in Miami, or the Marriott that they are going to see on Seven Mile Beach is the average Marriott. I want to share a little bit of information.

The Marriott chain has won more awards internationally than any other chain in recent times. Even the information that has been provided to me here in the 1994 Reader's Choice poll from the official Hotel Guide says; "The best value hotel chain in the Americas is the Marriott." It goes on to talk about other things Madam Speaker, the Four Diamond Award, the Five Diamond Award—its all there. But it is not just the Seven Mile Beach that we are looking to develop.

I understood the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman to say that he believes that a moratorium should have continued in the Western Peninsula of this island, as was sensibly done by the last Government. I think he went on to say that this would stimulate development activity in Cayman Brac, Little Cayman and the other parts of Grand Cayman. I want to ask him: After three years and the expiration of the moratorium, where is it? Where is the evidence? This moratorium, Madam Speaker, which expired in the summer of last year. That expiration was one of the best things that happened to development in this country.

We really do not need a moratorium for the Government to decide what type of hotel it wishes to have in this country. I believe you control the development by making sure of the quality that you are going to accept. While we may understand what a moratorium along Seven Mile Beach is, or may be, it does not necessarily mean that some developer in the United States interprets it only to be along Seven Mile Beach. Perhaps his or her interpretation may be that it is a moratorium on the whole Cayman Islands. So, I am not for moratoriums, Madam Speaker, and I want to make that point before I move on.

On second thought, Madam Speaker, I am going to share a little more information about the Marriott, now that I have found this piece of paper which I was looking for. Recognition and Awards for 1994 and 1993 earned by Marriott lodging hotels; Mobile 5 and Five Star, AAA4 and five Diamond Awards earned by Marriott Resorts in the past year. Two recent awards given to two of our resorts by Golf Magazine. I could read out the entire list, but I do not believe that is necessary.

When I look at some of the statistics for tourism, I see that in 1991 the total number of visitors was 237,351; in 1992—241,843 an increase of roughly 4,500; by December 1993 a total of 287,277 or an increase of 45,434 --a credit to the National Team. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman talks about numbers rather than money something to that effect. He forgot to read the Budget Address.

On page 14 of the Budget Address it clearly says: "Estimates derived from the most recent visitor expenditure data available, reveals that stay-over visitor-spending grew by 28%, representing $136.2 million in the first half of this year." He is talking about numbers? Tell him to go to the Hyatt Hotel and pay the room cost at night, or the Radisson or the Holiday Inn. I think what he meant by numbers, was that there was a lower quality—we are not now dealing with the upscale visitor. I would challenge him to prove it.

In April of this year [visitors from] Europe was down by 3%. I do not know if he wants to give this credit to the former Government as well. We did our journey and did our major promotion in Europe in May, and we did promotions in Frankfurt, Germany; in Munich; in Vienna, Austria; Milan, Italy and Rome and we are beginning to see a change in these figures. The September figure for Europe is 18.2% over last year's. And they are the ones who say that the Minister for Tourism is travelling too much. How in God's name are we going to get the job done? I am not a person who sits in the office and expects it all to fall into my lap, Madam Speaker. My style of management is hands-on, not hands-off.

At the end of September, 1994, the number of visitors from Austria had increased by 27%. From Germany by 9%. From Italy—4%. Certainly a change from the 3% down in April. To what does the Opposition contribute that? Good promotional work by the Minister and his team in the Department of Tourism. I might have made this statement before, but the total number of visitors in 1992 was about 241,000. At the end of September this year we have received more than 257,000 visitors. But they want to give that to the previous Government. I say to them, Think again! I am not going to agree.

I have another little story for them. The preliminary figures for October—and I emphasise: "preliminary"—reveal that the total number of visitors to the island at the end of October was 281,972. If these figures prove to be correct when they are finalised, we are still over 20% above last year's figure for January to October. I do not know who they want to give that credit to.

We set up a representative in Spain in September of this year and we have slated in the Budget, promotions in Spain for May of next year. We also have promotions planned (I am talking now about the promotions that I will take part in), in the United Kingdom to assist the traffic coming from Europe. We started out last year saying that we were going to make a serious attempt to diversify tourism so that when North America catches a cold, we do not get pneumonia down here. But we have another source, the European continent which, I think, on mass is one of the wealthiest areas of the world (I could be corrected on that) but it is not by much if you find another source.

The reason why we are going to be doing promotions in the United Kingdom is to assist with what the Opposition lambasted the Minister for Aviation and myself for—the flight of Caledonia once per week. I said then, one week now but look at what the potentials can be. So in less than a month's time we are going to have two flights a week until the end of March. Then British Airways is going to have scheduled services directly to the Cayman Islands from Gatwick, London. I wonder what they are going to say now.

The National Team is going to take credit for this, Madam Speaker. It is a break through in attracting European traffic to this country that no other Government has been able to accomplish. That is no 'Anancy' story; it is a fact. What we seek to do in 1995 as we started out on 30th September, 1994, is to 'upgrade' the awareness among the populace of the Cayman Islands of the contribution tourism makes to this country. We want now not only to promote in North America and Europe, we want now to promote that industry within these Cayman Islands. For I believe that a change in attitude needs to take place among young people seeking employment in the hotel industry.

Most of us know that from about 1966, the great social esteem was to work in the banking industry, an accounting firm, a law firm or an insurance company as happened since 1979. It is not just changing the attitudes of the children: we have a job to change the attitude of the parents who influence those children into those areas because of the lucrateness as they see it for careers in the financial industry. All we are going to do in 1995, is to try to give the Honourable Financial Secretary's industry a little competition and grab some of those good people who are coming out of the High Schools. Get them scholarships where they can be awarded four-year Hotel Management degrees from Cornell, from Michigan, or other good universities.

But we are not going to stop there. There are other young people who are not academics, they too need training; they too need to find a job in this country. I believe the hotel industry—let me broaden it to say the hospitality industry—is the vehicle that can provide that for us. We have talked to the hoteliers about it and they have agreed with us that forming a partnership to accomplish this is the right road to go. Some of them have agreed to serve on a committee and the committee is going to get together as soon as we can find some time when this House adjourns.

Madam Speaker, with great respect, this training is more on the job training than it is academic, granted that the theoretical portion needs to be there. But is it not a two-year degree that you are taking at the Community College? It is not a six-month course that you take at the Community College. In my view (and I am no academic although I hold many degrees, I do not profess to be a specialist in this area) what needs to happen is that we need to have a short theoretical portion and heavily laced with hands-on training at the Front Desk in the hotels, in the bedrooms as bed maids, in the bars as bartenders, as bellhops, wherever they may be needed; to cause, as I have said on many occasions, this Caymanian flavour to come across to the visitors to our country.

It is not an easy task, Madam Speaker, and all the Members of the Opposition need to join us in this task. It is a national issue, not a political one. It is an issue where some young people have not been able to find a job since they left High School. Or they find it for a short period of time and then they lose it and end up unemployed for a long period of time. We need to change that. We need to ensure that we can provide the training to cause that person to feel like he is part of the labour force and have some pride in what he or she is doing on the job.

Many people will say that it is a simple job; it is not important. I would say to that person, "If you think that the person who comes around on the garbage truck twice a week is not an important fellow, let him not come for four weeks and see what you will do." It takes all of us to make this country work well and be appreciated. Not specifically by the visitors, but by us who live here continuously. We are also going to be picking up the pieces. We saw the editorial in the Caymanian Compass about Pirates Week and indeed for us to rethink. I believe they are right; it was established a long time ago. Let us have a re-look at it. Let us see if the original objective has been achieved: Pirates Week (as I recall it way back in the late 70's)—to attract tourists in the slack periods to this country. Initially it was attempted to be done in September, but was moved to October. I do not remember the details as to why that took place.

Madam Speaker, whatever we do with Pirates

Week, it is not necessary that we move the date back to September, and I say that because if your hotels are running 80-odd per cent occupancy, they need to catch their breath one month to do all the renovations to keep the property at the right quality for service. So I would not say, move it to September. But the Committee will look at it and make its report to the Ministry and to the Executive Council.

In 1995, we are going to be looking at how we can provide additional attractions for our visitors. We are going to enhance the Botanical Park; we are going to restore Pedro's Castle (that's what we call it; the correct name is St. James Castle). The birth place of democracy, they say, in the Cayman Islands, where the vote was taken that we shall now from this day forward have an elected body within the Cayman Islands.

I do not need to go into great details, Madam Speaker, because not too many months ago Members of Finance Committee were briefed on these two projects as to what we were looking at as Phase I of the Botanical Park and Phase I (more or less) of the Pedro Castle. Dealing mainly with the restoration of Pedro Castle, but realising that we have to construct another building to be the visitors' reception centre where you get all the background history of that building which has not been designed as yet. We do not want to design a massive building for that purpose and take away from the attractiveness of the main feature which should be Pedro Castle, let me call it that.

Members were somewhat, concerned (as I am) about taxi operations in this country. My responsibility only deals with the Port, but of course I have a national responsibility as well. We have put before this Honourable House the Port Authority Licensing of Vehicles, 1994 (Draft Bill). This Bill tries to incorporate and to bring legal authority to the present guidelines that have been in operation at the Port since about May of this year. We believe that in order to properly deal with taxis and tour bus operators (everyone who operates at the Port), there should be legal authority for it. We want to ensure that the persons arriving to take passengers are presentable and sober; their cars are clean; the air-conditioning is working, and that they are behaving responsibly in this country.

The worst thing in the world is to have a taxi driver who does not have accurate information when he is asked questions—sometimes telling visitors that the reason why the cliff in Hell is black, is because they burnt slaves there. How ludicrous! I am just mentioning this because I do not want to talk too much about the Bill that will be presenting in due course in the House.

I notice that there have been some comments about sport development in this country. Madam Speaker, that is a National Team's promise. We have to develop our sporting facilities for our young people and we have to continue to move it as we are doing on a phased basis, so that no particular facility causes a serious crunch on that year's budget. But the Ed Bush Sporting Complex was built—no serious crunch on the Budget. The George Town Sporting facility is going to be enhanced—no serious crunch on the Budget. The Eastern District Sporting Complex is going to be done without any serious crunch on the budget. I think we need to provide these facilities to allow our young people to have wholesome activities in this country.

It was probably ten years ago in delivering a Budget Address when I made the remark, and I think I was talking about Social Services at the time, in those days it was not really a lack of facilities per se. The greatest lack in those days were programmes. The Minister for Sports has put those programmes in place and he continues to enhance those programmes. believe he is doing a good job and everyone of us should support him, not try to tear him down.

I have come across many politicians in my days Madam Speaker, I do not believe that any were above the Minister for Sports, who has an interest like he has, in the people of this country. I give him full marks for that. We are not talking about lip service Madam Speaker: we are talking about genuine interest! We see it here almost every time we come to the House; my colleagues and I see it every day in the Glass House. So we know about that interest; it is alive and kicking well. I do not have to defend his subject Madam Speaker, I was just making a point about it. There is no person more able to defend it than himself. But I wanted to echo my chorus of approval to what he is doing.

Before taking my seat I want to say that the Budget Address, which was presented by the Honourable Financial Secretary, although not a voluminous document, was quite comprehensive and broad-based. So much so, Madam Speaker, that this document and the 1995 Budget is so good that some of the Members of the Opposition do not know how to deal with it. They did not debate this! They went to the Draft Estimates to pose their arguments because they simply could not find anything in the Budget that they could fault and be justified in faulting it in the eyes of the public.

I want to commend the Honourable Financial Secretary, the Third Official Member, for the bold steps he has taken in dealing with the financial industry. It is not easy for a Financial Secretary to come to an Executive Council and ask for revenue for companies [registration] to be reduced or anything else. Generally, politicians need more money than they presently have and we are all skeptical about giving up money. But, his case that he put forward to us as they say, spelled sense. And the evidence is, it is still sense.

My view is that it will always be sense because in this world of competition, not only for tourism, but also for the financial industry, we have countries that are competing and they do not mind seeing us fall on our face. They would like to tell the public in any country how expensive the Cayman Islands are and say, 'Just come to mine, I am only charging $500, when the Cayman Islands charge $1,500.' I know that some of the firms in the financial industry have reduced their fees. I am somewhat disappointed that more of them have not done so. But that is their business decision. I believe the ones that have reduced their fees just might be getting much more business than those that failed to reduce theirs.

I think it is appropriate too for me to say how very pleased I am to be in this Executive Council with Ministers and Official Members such as we have. I think the teamwork and the support are the key to the future of this country. I would hope that all of us from time to time, on national issues, can forget about the politics and the sniping and the back-biting and the rumour-mongering just because they cannot find something wrong with what the Minister is doing, they then spread these malicious rumours trying to degrade him in the eyes of the public saying all sorts of malicious things. But one of these days, somebody is going to agree to be a witness and we are going to have a court case because all of us take our reputation seriously; we have spent all of our lives building it, the first chance we get with evidence and a witness, we are going to ask the person who is spreading these malicious rumours to justify them in a court of law. They are totally untrue.

It appears that some of the people want to judge others by some of the things that they have done in their lives. If they have a problem with themselves, they must sort out their own lives. Madam Speaker, the Opposition also talked about the real estate market last year and when we brought the amendment to take it back from 10.5% to 7.5%. There were all sorts of comments—it was not going to work; we were giving up too much money; you promised the people to do this all sorts of mixture of comments. We said this was what we were going to do.

The First Official Member is quoted in the Caymanian Compass yesterday as saying, "We are going to deal with it." Do you want us to deal with? We are going to deal with it, and we dealt with the real estate amendment. We dealt with the stamp duty amendment. What is the result? The real estate market is booming. I do not hear any complaints anymore that they cannot sell land. Do any of you? The National Team Government got it right. You know what the problem is? The Opposition is getting frustrated. They have to now try to make up some false argument to try to tear us down.

There is one thing about Caymanians. They have a lot of common sense. They know all of us—strong points and weak points. While you might try to sell yourself as somebody respectable, if you are not that type of person, they know that too.

That old silent majority, Madam Speaker, is what they sometimes refer to. I want to tell them one thing: That silent majority that they talk about is the same majority that caused us to give the former Government a thrashing. They were with, and still are with, the National Team. Sure, we live in a small community. Sometimes they tell you what you want to hear. Everybody in this country knows who is who.

I want to say that all that has gone on and all that will go on, the one thing we have to remember is that we have to behave in the best interest of the people of these Islands. Look all around us—north, south, east or west—which country in this hemisphere, or any other hemisphere, is better off than the people of the Cayman islands? So much so that we are getting all their jealousy. What do you think the BBC's "Dirty Money" article was all about? Its all jealousy.

To me, the "Dirty Money" tape is not any big thing to me. We have the machinery in place to deal with any criminal activity in our country and we are going to do it.

The articles, the television shows that came on when I took the Financial Chair in 1982, those were the days! Everywhere you looked it was coming at you. But some investigative reporters start out with an agenda and they come to various islands and they move through with that agenda and select the parts that they want to show in order to prove their agenda to be correct.

In any financial community, in any banking arena you are going to have crime. The Exchequer in London cannot hold his hand on his heart and say in truth that there is no crime going on in the banking system in London. The President of the United States cannot do that either, that it is not going on in New York and Chicago, among other cities. Neither can the Emperor of Japan. So a small little country like ours, which is the fifth largest banking centre in the world, what do they expect. We cannot be squeaky clean—they are not squeaky clean. But they want to paint us as though we are a bunch of rascals, when, in essence, we have more control in this country than they have in many of theirs. But the first thing they want to tell you about is your per capita income, your gross domestic product yours is three times mine. That is at the seat of it—envy, jealousy. When you are at the top in the industry, you can Make books, people are going to shoot darts at you, try To pull the rug out from under you, but I say to the Honourable Financial Secretary: Steady as it goes, my friend, it is looking good to me. Just hang on to the reigns. We will support you. Thank you.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.42 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.03 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Debate continues, the Second Reading Debate on the Appropriation Bill.

The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wish to applaud the Third Official Member, the Honourable Financial Secretary; his dedicated staff and any other persons involved in the preparation of this Budget.

A study of budgetary trends since 1990, I found most enlightening and I would like to share that experience with you by starting with 1st of January, 1990, at Port Fantasy, Cayman Islands. Travelling out to sea later taking a brief stop at Port Reality in November of 1992, and then finally arriving at Port Hope as of now, as we discuss this present Budget.

The time is 1st January 1990. The ship is well fitted, properly staffed; the weather conditions are fair and the forecast is excellent. It sets out to sea for business as usual. What happens? Between January 1 1990, and December 31 1992, the vessel makes $335.4 million in revenue, but spends $386.8 million to maintain and improve itself.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, may I draw your attention to Standing Order 63(2) which says: "On the motion for the second reading of an appropriation bill debate shall be confined to the financial and economic state of the Islands and the general principles of Government policy and administration as indicated by the bill and the estimates." I do not think that the Bill or the Estimates have any bearing on the year 1990 or 1992.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Madam Speaker, this is just an introductory remark—

The Speaker: Honourable Member—

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: . . .and it will lead—

The Speaker: Honourable Member, please. It does not matter what sort of introductory remark you wish to make, but your debate must be confined to what is contained in the Bill and the Estimates. Thank you, sir.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Madam Speaker, the Bill does in fact tell us about expenditures that took place in 1993, and in some instances in 1992, and it is for this reason that I wanted to do an historical review of what went on in the financial affairs of this country. I am asking you to kindly consider that fact.

The Speaker: I am afraid that I am not allowed to under the provisions of the Standing Order. You can deal with 1992, the latter part as indicated by the Bill, up to whatever time in 1995 you can. But you must follow what the Bill and the Estimates contain and not go outside the ambit of it.

POINT OF ORDER

(Procedural)

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: On a Point of Order, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Thank you.

I believe that there are a few Members left to speak, and most Members who have spoken have traversed from the years 1991, 1992 and last year. I believe that the Second Elected Member for George Town should be given an opportunity, since those years have been brought into the debate, to just state even slightly what his position is as introductory remarks.

The Speaker: I said that the Member can deal with 1992 onwards. This is what I stated before when another Member rose on the same subject and I am afraid that I cannot change that.

The Second Elected Member for George Town, would you continue?

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I will begin then, in 1992.

In 1992 the accumulated deficit before financing in this country was $21.1 million and Capital Expenditure was $16.9 million, therefore, $4.2 million more was spent than was earned. This was an ongoing thing as a trend had been set. Everybody knows that if we continue to spend more than we earn, it can only go on for so long; one day the bucket's bottom must fall out.

The Financial Sector remained relatively buoyant in those years that I referred to, including 1992, and it, in fact, showed some positive growth every year. Therefore the weather conditions cannot be blamed for what was going on and what went on during those years aforementioned.

Loans and advances showed steady increase as did savings activity. Surprisingly, savings increased despite falling interest rates, which is, of course, very remarkable. Even more remarkable, inflation dropped from 8% in the year before to 2.4% in 1992, that is from 800 basis points to 240 basis points. In the face of falling interest rates, there was such a drop in inflation. This, of course, is not the usual thing that happens in any economy. One wonders if this could have been due to the state of the economy in the United States, the main source of all of our imports. And, of course, it is impossible to import inflation, and this was not the situation, then it could be one of the reasons to explain what was going on in that area.

Tourism in 1991 went into a slump because of the Gulf War. But, in 1992, this sector showed signs of recovery and the average occupancy rates rose by 2% to 58%. Cruise ship arrivals increased by 20% compared to 1991. Construction activity was perhaps at an all time high due to increasing demand by the public and private sectors.

Of note here, we will remember that some very notable Government projects never materialised and I believe that this will be proven to be in the interest of posterity.

Construction workers were in greatest demand in the third quarter of 1992. There was, however, no increased demand for workers in tourism or in the wholesale and retail industries and Government, in fact, showed a decline in demand due to the freeze on filling vacancies.

The import sector showed vigorous activity showing 42.6% increase in imports in the fourth quarter of 1992, as compared to the previous year.

My question is: Why, in such favourable conditions was this ship in such serious financial trouble? What was wrong with the Government? Why did it incur such deficit, necessitating such huge loans? We know, we no longer have to guess what the problem was and the electorate answered it in 1992.

Despite the favourable conditions (generally speaking), the past Government failed miserably and that is a fact. Any amount of explanation will not change that. Their proponents argued that we are just fortunate that we find ourselves in the right place at the right time. I would like to point out that what has been going on in the last few years did not happen because of chance or mere coincidence. It occurred because of definite positive steps made on the part of this Government. I will be highlighting some of those as I continue to contribute to the Budget Address.

It was in 1992, that the previous Government increased company registration and planning permit fees and increased import duty on diesel fuel, alcohol, cigarettes and tobacco in order to raise an additional $10.4 million. And with all of that the Budget could not be balanced, but incurred a deficit of over $21 million. It is a pity that the joke was on us and the people of the Cayman Islands.

In fact I have said over and over that I believe that they should be charged for mismanagement. The Government could not even get enough loans at the end of 1992 to wipe out the deficit; they managed to borrow $4.2 million from external and local sources; they drew down $4.4 million from the Accumulated Balance and Deficit Account and transferred $3.5 million from the General Reserves, still leaving a deficit of $8 million (which was later revised to $7 million). We inherited that deficit when we were elected.

Madam Speaker, it was at this time that the ship stopped at Port Reality—the Cayman Islands. But, before going on, I wish to point out that the present Leader of Government Business, who was then the Financial Secretary, repeatedly pointed out the dangerous trend which the Government was trekking at that time. I remember listening to debates of this House and I clearly remember him giving very prudent advice to this House, but I do not think it was taken very seriously.

The Honourable Financial Secretary did say in his Budget Address in 1992 how his predecessor had made every effort to inform the then Government of the serious road they were taking towards financial and fiscal instability.

Madam Speaker, when the ship stopped in Port Reality, it changed crew and that crew immediately took stock. The Third Official Member presented all the foregoing in his Budget Address and this is why I thought I would do a brief recap of what he said in the Budget Address here on the 4th of the month.

How much money was in the General Reserves when we [boarded] the ship. It was $10.2 million to be exact. We needed to clear off the $7 million deficit which we inherited. We did so by using $7 million from the General Reserve.

We had also inherited a public debt of $40.8. Later in 1993 (that was revised to $42.9 million). In addition the previous Government had committed itself to $18 million, but failed to secure the funds. The amount of $16 million had been approved in July of 1992 to recapitalise Cayman Airways; $1 million had been approved in 1990, for the Health Services Authority and, $2 million (the balance) in a CDB loan approved in 1991 for the resurfacing of the Owen Robert's International Airport runway. This $18 million was obtained by our Government and shows up as part of the gross receipts in 1993.

The Third Official made it clear in March 1993 that it would no longer be business as usual and, to quote what he said in his Budget Address:

"No longer will recurrent and statutory expenditure consume 100% of recurrent revenue without any contribution being made to financing the cost of capital programmes! No longer will departments of Government continue to mushroom in growth by providing services, which, if deferred, will not impair the effectiveness of Government! No longer will statutory authorities be held to less stringent standards of accountability than line departments of Central Government!"

He went on to say: "...commencing in 1994, the Budget will reflect not only the requirements of Central Government, but the budgets of all the authorities with particular attention being given to their capital expansion programmes." The budgets of Cayman Airways, Cayman Islands Turtle Farm, and the Housing Development Corporation would be excluded, but their budgets would be submitted for Government's scrutiny and all managers in Government would be made fully accountable.

He mentioned that at that time all attempts would be made to cut the Civil Service by 7.5% in order to contain its expenditures.

He suggested that we should avoid spending what had been saved in one Department of Government, in another department, because by doing so, nothing in fact would be saved.

He warned against wanton supplementary appropriations, stating that these would be regarded as conceivable time-bomb leading to fiscal instability.

The estimated gross receipts for 1993 were $153.3 million (which included the $18 million loan proceeds mentioned before), and the recurrent statutory and capital expenditure were $116.6 million; $8.2 million, and $10.1 million in addition to the $18 million loan proceeds making a grand total of $152.9 million.

Therefore, Madam Speaker, the estimated accumulated surplus at the end of 1993, was said to be $0.4 million. We know that this later proved to be in excess of $2 million.

The Financial Secretary outlined a five methods to be employed to ensure restraints on expenditure. would like to do a brief recap and really give some consideration as to whether we have in fact, met our objectives; whether we accomplished our goals in 1993. So let us take a look: The total recurrent revenue for 1993 excluding loans and transfer from General Reserves was $133.8 million; external and local loan financing were $17.5 million and $7 million which were transferred from the General Reserves, making the total receipt $158.3 million.

On the expenditure side, recurrent expenditure was $115.6 million; the statutory expenditure was $10.1 million; and the capital expenditure was $8.5 million, a total of $134.3 million.

The loans which flowed through were $17.5 million which give a grand total of $151.7 million. Therefore the recurrent expenditure was slightly below the estimated amount and statutory expenditure was approximately $2 million more than estimated, and capital expenditure was less.

There was an accumulated deficit of $0.5 million instead at the end of 1993, of the estimated surplus of $0.4 million which had been predicted. However, $1 million less than was provided for in the Budget was transferred from the General Reserves, which means that we were on target.

Earlier this year, Madam Speaker, we learned that we had even done better than this: we learned that there was a $2.4 million accumulated surplus from 1993. It is very important to realise that all of this was done without taxation; without any new revenue enhancement measures. I believe that says a lot for the government that is in power.

I believe, in fact, that even the Opposition would agree with that statement, Madam Speaker.

I shall now take a look at the public debt. At the beginning of 1993, it stood at $42.9 million, but by the end of 1993 it was $54.1 million. Cayman Airways recapitalised loan of $16.6 million, and CDB loan for the Civil Aviation Authority of $0.7 million were added during the course of the year, increasing the public debt to $6.2 million. But loan payments of $6.1 million were also made during the year making the net public debt at year-end, $54.1 million. It is however, noteworthy, that this was $11.2 million more than the previous year.

Of course, I am not happy with that, Madam Speaker. But I dare say, that there was hardly anything else that could be done, especially inheriting what we did.

Madam Speaker, as I have said earlier, the past government was not even able to secure the funds for the $18 million approved in this Legislature in 1992.

The Pension Fund balance as at 31st December, 1992 was $6.2 million inclusive of accrued interest and receivables. The sum of $2.5 million had been paid to this account during 1992. A preliminary actuarial study to assess Civil Service pension liability, I understand, was approved in 1992. As at January 1989, this was estimated to be $32.4 million.

I regard this as a sorry state of affairs for the Pension Fund, but it was in a rather sorry state when we were elected and every effort is being made to increase contributions to the Pension Fund.

The Pension Fund balance as at 30th September, 1993, was $8.3 million, inclusive of accrued interest. The balance as at 31st August, 1994 was $11.5 million, inclusive of accrued interest.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION 4.30 PM
Standing Order

The Speaker: Honourable Member, it is now 4.30 pm. I do not expect that you will be finished shortly.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: That is correct, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: May I ask for a motion for the adjournment? The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye ... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM FRIDAY, 18 NOVEMBER 1994

FRIDAY
18 NOVEMBER, 1994
10.45 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communication and Works to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. John B. McLean: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

At this time we also pray for the Fourth Elected Member from Bodden Town that he will have a speedy recovery.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. The first question is No. 197, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 197

No. 197: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member what criteria exist for selecting candidates from the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force for overseas training.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Overseas training of Royal Cayman Islands Police Officers tends to be in two categories: Command or Management Training, and Specialist Training.

Command Courses are undertaken at the Jamaica Police Staff College and all Inspectors attend this course. More senior Officers attend the Senior Command Course as and when places are available.

Officers are selected for specialist training according to the skills it is necessary to enhance, and subject to available finances. In addition to monies available from the Police budget, a United Kingdom grant of 30,000 pounds sterling has been given over each of the past two years enabling the attendance of Officers on United Kingdom courses which otherwise would not have been funded.

Skills related courses are also attended in Canada and the United States of America. The criteria for selection of candidates are aimed at ensuring the relevance of the course to Royal Cayman Islands Police requirements, the suitability of the Officers nominated, and the value for money of the courses on offer. At the debriefing of Officers returning from courses, all of these factors are discussed to ensure that future selections are appropriate.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Regarding specialist training, can the Honourable Member say if candidates selected for this training are limited to, and exclusive of, Caymanians or status holders?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is my understanding that the requirements for training, and this goes for all types of training in the Police Department, are looked at, so it may be that non-Caymanians are included in training. But, certainly, Caymanians are being considered for training.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Honourable First Official Member would divulge how persons are chosen within the system to go on training?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The selection of officers for overseas training is dictated first by the training need in the force. When these needs are identified in specific departments of the force, the Head of that department will recommend an officer of suitable rank to the training department and, with the Commissioner's approval, this officer will be selected for the course.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries, the next question is No. 198, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 198

No. 198: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member to make a statement detailing the use and effectiveness of bicycle and foot patrols by Royal Cayman Islands Police Officers around George Town.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The bicycle patrols commenced in 1991, but had to be phased out due to their ineffectiveness. Traffic conditions in the George Town area are such that Officers riding bicycles were obliged to concentrate on their safety to the detriment of being in a position to observe what was going on about them.

Foot patrols are effective for two main reasons: They act as a deterrent to criminal and anti-social behaviour, and they are reassuring to members of the public who are able to see and speak to Officers on patrol.

With the increase of available Officers from late May of this year, extensive foot patrols were mounted in the George Town area and the positive benefits referred to above accrued from such deployment.

The frequency of such patrols by both ordinary Officers and those attached to the Special Task Force has become spasmodic due to commitments to Tent City. Despite an increase in private security guards on duty at Tent City, there are regular occasions on which Police must be deployed there to assist with problems.

Notwithstanding this impediment, every effort is being made to mount foot patrols and to this end the George town area is prioritised to ensure that those areas which would most benefit from foot patrols do have Officers deployed according to the set priorities.

To supply details of those priorities would be counter-productive, but the criteria on which judgments are made include crime levels, congregation of youth, disorderly bars and traffic problems in the daytime.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is the Member in a position to name any of these areas that patrols extend to in George Town?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: No, Madam Speaker, I do not have the specific areas. It is my understanding that it is generally done in the George Town District.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 199, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 199

No. 199: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member what the total number of Caymanian versus non-Caymanian Civil Servants is, broken down by nationality and departments.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The total number of Caymanian versus non-Caymanian civil Servants, broken down by nationality and Department is as follows:

DEPARTMENT	CAYMANIAN	NON-CAYMANIAN
HE the Governor (3 British)	1	3
CI Audit Office (1 British; 1 American; 1 Jamaican)	7	3
Judicial (3 British; 3 Jamaican; 1 Trinidadian; 1 Nicaraguan)	26	8

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, it is not necessary to name the nationalities, Ma'am, just Caymanian and non-Caymanian.

The Speaker: If you would like to shorten your reply, please do so Honourable Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Before other supplementaries are allowed, I will point out that it is now 11 o'clock, when questions should end. It should be noted that we did not commence proceedings until 10.50. Under these circumstances, would an Honourable Minister wish to move the suspension of Standing Orders to allow the remaining questions?

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker we move the Standing Orders to allow the required number of questions for each Member to be answered.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Orders be suspended in order for remaining questions to be asked.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

The ayes have it. Standing Orders are accordingly suspended.

AGREED. STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE QUESTION TIME TO CONTINUE.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

From the answer given by the Honourable Member, comparatively speaking, it is noted that the two departments, Police and Prison, have not shown any significant increase in Caymanianisation.

Is the Honourable Member in a position to say what ongoing efforts are made in these departments to ensure that more Caymanians are recruited, or at least made aware of vacancies when they occur?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When vacancies arise in the Civil Service the posts are normally advertised. If there are no suitable Caymanians available for the posts, then it becomes necessary to recruit overseas.

The Government is certainly committed to the Caymanianisation of the Service, but I think we have to recognise that in some instances, and in some particular professions, this is not an easy task.

The Speaker: If there is no further supplementary, the next question is No. 201, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 201

No. 201: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture how Government proposes to reinstate "Free Medical" to Caymanian Seamen, as recently announced by the Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 201 STANDING ORDER 23(5)

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the answer to this question is not yet prepared, and I respectfully ask the House to allow it to be answered at a later sitting.

The Speaker: The question is that the answer to Question No. 201 be deferred until a later sitting.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

The Ayes have it.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 201 DEFERRED UNTIL A LATER SITTING.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 202, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 202

No. 202: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked The Honourable

Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture what criteria is used for selection of contractors under Government's Low Income Housing Scheme.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the answer is as follows:

Section 2.2 of the Agreement between Government and CIBC Bank and Trust which governs the guaranteed Home Mortgage Scheme, as it has thus far been put into operation, empowers the guarantor (Government) to specify a schedule of approved contractors and developers and supply same to the Bank from time to time.

The criteria are set out in a simple set of guidelines produced by the Ministry, which are as follows: 1) must have majority Caymanian ownership; 2) must be in possession of a valid business licence for this jurisdiction; 3) must be reputable, with a good track record; 4) have suitably priced land for this scheme which meets the requirements of the Central Planning Authority, et cetera; 5) be prepared to sign a standard/approved contract or purchase agreement with the potential homeowner for an agreed fixed price. This will usually be done after confirmation from the borrower's bank that mortgage financing will be provided in support of this contract; 6) be able to secure the construction or bridge financing for each dwelling to be constructed until it is taken possession of by its owner (usually upon the issuance of certificate of occupancy).

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the answer, guideline number 4 says that the person must have suitably priced land for this scheme. Is it the intention, or is it the programme, that the contractor will build a house on land owned by him/her or the company for sale to the person who wishes to purchase a low income house?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, that is possible, but not necessary.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister say if the scheme allows a developer to offer low income houses for sale, but that they must be built by a contractor approved by the Ministry?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: That is correct, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Minister say if the answer is in truth saying that the contractor must build the house prior to being able to get a draw down from the prospective homeowner from whom the financing will eventually come?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, bridge financing is provided by the contractor or the developer unless otherwise agreed to by the bank.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Is it then a fact that a contractor may not receive funds from the bank which are guaranteed by Government until they have delivered a completed house for whatever amount of money?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Madam Speaker, unless the bank otherwise provides bridge financing.

I should add that all of that information is available for the public's knowledge in the guidelines of the scheme. I would urge Members to collect it if they have not yet done so.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 206, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 206

No. 206: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning when Government expects to establish the post of "Complaints Commissioner", as provided in the 1993 Amendment to the Cayman Islands Constitution.

The Speaker: It is observed that the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning is absent at this time.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, could I ask that my question No. 206 be withdrawn and re-submitted at a later date, when an answer may be had?

The Speaker: I think it is reasonable for it to be put down for another day, unless the Minister has determined that he will not reply.

That concludes Question Time for this morning. We proceed to Government Business, continuation of the Second Reading Debate on the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

(Continuation of the Debate on the Budget Address)

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town continuing.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Honourable Third Official Member, the Financial Secretary, gave a very thorough, a very objective, Budget Address on 4th November, and I believe that it is one that should be very reassuring to the public. He has always taken a very objective position on Government matters and, lest by any chance that I gave the wrong impression yesterday that he took sides in his Budget Address, I would like to state clearly that that was not what I implied. What I, in fact, said was that he, in his maiden address, had pointed out that his predecessor, Mr. Thomas Jefferson, had, in fact, warned Government that problems were being experienced in balancing the budget.

In fact, just to quote him, he said that: "there are indications that we should stop and make an assessment of where we are going. If we were to select a point in time to be noted as when actual expenditure began to seriously outpace actual revenue, we should definitely have to choose 1990, when the cumulated deficit for that year amounted to $14.9 million before financing."

This development in Government's fiscal position was also observed and highlighted in the 1992 Budget Address in this honourable House. So he is not taking sides and he has not entered into bipartisan politics.

When the House adjourned yesterday afternoon, I was dealing with the pension fund. I showed where the pension fund had been virtually doubled since this administration took office in 1992 - increasing from $6.2 million to $11.5 million as at 31st August 1994.

I was also very happy to hear that the actuarial study that was put in motion in 1993 was completed and that it will be laid on the table of this House during this meeting. I, of course, expressed some concerns that the preliminary actuarial assessment done earlier showed that the civil servant liability as at January 1989 was something in the region of $32.4 million when, in fact, there was only $6.2 million in the pension fund.

The financial paucity of the pension fund does give me some concern, and I will support the increase from 4% to 6% by the Government, and from 4% to 5% by the civil servants. I think that increase in contributions is in order. I certainly feel that these funds should continue to be earmarked for pensions. Many countries have had problems by not doing so, and the end result is that when people require their pension they have to be issued IOUs. So I would certainly suggest that the funds be earmarked and that we avoid this kind of problem which could occur. What if the entire Caymanian labour force was eligible for pension? This would be a completely different picture. While I agree that social security is desirable, I encourage the Government to devise an effective, well-thought-out plan before initiating it.

Many countries, including the United States, are grappling with the problem, even at present, of meeting social security commitments mainly because monies were not earmarked in some instances and as the baby boomers retire, the baby busters are unable to support the payments of pensions.

I will go back now to the public debt. I believe it is heartening to hear that the public debt should only be $54.6 million, at least for this year's end. At the end of 1993 it was $54.1 million, and a commercial loan of $5.8 million will be drawn down by year end to finance various projects. Repayments are forecasted at $5.3 million and this results in a net position of $54.1 million being the estimated public debt at the end of this year.

I would like to congratulate Government in limiting our borrowings this year to $5.8 million. The 1995 Budget includes no new borrowings, and I would like the public, and all of us, to take pride in that - there are no new borrowings planned for 1995. Therefore, I expect that at the end of 1995 the public debt position will be improved and that we should be able to make contributions towards the public debt during 1995, thus decreasing our public liability.

I believe that it is very important for us to make every concerted effort to increase our pension funds and decrease our public liability.

General Reserves had $3.6 million at the beginning of 1994, and we know that the sum of $0.4 million was transferred to the General Reserves during 1994. That adds up to $4 million that we should have in our general reserves at the end of 1994.

Healthy general reserves are absolutely essential in any country and we should have general reserves in place, not just to make draw downs to balance budgets, but in case of disasters and unforeseen events that can in fact occur in the country. I feel rather comfortable knowing that we have general reserves in place. Therefore, I believe that we need to do everything possible to build up our general reserves during 1995. The year 1994, is about over and I doubt that we would be able to contribute any more to the general reserves this year.

The Financial Sector continued to thrive in 1993. Inflation dropped from 2.3% in 1992 to about 2.2% in 1993. Interest rates also dropped, which I believe may have been responsible for the fall of 1.6% in savings, as compared to 1992.

We know that the Federal Reserve has increased the interest rates in the United States for the sixth time this year. As their economy improves the Federal Reserve tries to prevent overheating of their economy and increases interest rates to keep things in check. We know the effect that this normally has on Wall Street inflation on in the United States.

It is interesting here that despite the very slight increase in interest rates it has not had any adverse effect on our local economy. Instead what we have seen is continued growth.

Tourism boomed in 1993, with air arrivals increasing by about 18%. I think that is remarkable. Cruise ship arrivals dropped by about 1%, but this was largely offset by the huge increase in air arrivals.

The financial and business sectors, we were told, have shown tremendous growth in 1994 employing 9% more workers. It is important to me that there was a greater percentage of Caymanians employed. It grew in leaps and bounds in 1994.

We remember the articles that were published by the newspapers and I believe that if the public is paying attention they must realise the way tourism has grown. I believe that most people will admit that this too did not happen by chance or mere coincidence. It is largely attributable to efforts being made by the present Government. I will touch on this later on. There was a 21% increase in air arrivals and that is of even greater significance when we consider that marketing efforts were enhanced during this period. Therefore, it must have been the result of this increased aggressive marketing effort.

Even of greater importance, I believe, is the stay-over visitor spending which grew by 28%. This should dispel the rumour that is going around that we are having more tourists, but they are not spending any more money. The facts show that overall spending by the tourists increased by 28% and this amounted to $136.2 million in the first six months of 1994.

This is extremely welcome news to know that tourism, which is one of the main pillars of our economy is doing so well. I certainly would like to congratulate the Minister for Tourism for the hard work that he has put in, his staff and all of the workers in the tourism industry, without whom this would not have been possible.

I believe that stayover arrivals are expected to increase by 10% to 15% next year. We have shown a record of passing our expectations, outstripping our estimates. So I have no reason to believe that this figure too is just a very conservative estimate and we will, in fact, see even a greater increase in our tourism arrival especially with the availability of more rooms and increased marketing efforts.

We know that construction was slow in 1993, but the picture has changed in 1994, as pointed out by the Honourable Financial Secretary. There is $115 million worth of new planned construction approved, if my memory serves me right, in the first nine months of this year. During that same period in 1993, over $70 million had been approved. That shows a remarkable growth and I believe that not only were these approved, but we see evidence where construction has actually taken place and more construction workers to work and gain the benefits.

I noticed that in the Sister Islands construction was down. I believe that we need to make every effort to boost the construction industry there. The Sister Islands depend heavily on Government projects and I certainly support and encourage efforts to boost construction there, even if it is to support Government's ventures there. I believe that there was to be a solid [waste] plant built in the Sister Islands, for the disposal of garbage and that was in the Estimates for 1994. As far as I know that has not taken place and that is one of the things that we can make sure is done in 1995. I am sure there are other things that we can do as a Government to promote the local economy in the Sister Islands.

Real Estate has taken off in 1994, and the market is now active and has surpassed predictions. Real estate figures have skyrocketed sales. Agriculture has also shown positive growth with sales in the Farmers Market increasing by 20%. All of this is the result of decisions which were made during our tenure.

Unemployment has decreased from 335 persons in the first half of 1993 to 208 in the same period in 1994. All figures released by the Financial Secretary in his debate were extremely encouraging, extremely positive, and I, for one, is extremely reassured and I believe that the public should be also.

All of the indicators show positive growth in the economy. There is no doubt that the economy has made a complete turn around and we are out of the doldrums of 1991 and 1992, thanks to the cooperative effort. I would like to congratulate the private sector because in many instances they have also assisted in making this all come to pass. It has only been two years since we were elected, and all of this has occurred and has been accomplished. I really think that we have done a remarkable job.

The 1994 Revised Estimates are nothing short of a windfall. The expenditure is $.3 million less than estimated and revenues are $11.2 million more than budgeted. The budgeted revenue was $149 million and the revised revenue is $160.2 million, comprised of $152 million recurrent revenue; $5.8 million of the $9.1 million loans provided for in the Budget and the $2.4 million accumulated surplus brought forward from 1993.

Transferred earlier this year to the General Reserves were $400,000 which left the balance of $159.8 million in the revenue.

Revised expenditure for 1994 is $156.9 million which leaves an accumulated surplus of $2.9 million at the end of this year.

The 1995 Draft Estimates show expenditure to be $177,976,714, and revenue to be $178,148,922 - comprised of Recurrent Expenditure of $138,722,161 and Statutory Expenditure of $15,266,879; Capital Acquisitions of just over $4 million; Capital Development of $19,281,869 and New Services of $696,565.

The receipts are comprised of a recurrent revenue of $167.3 million; local loan financing of $3.3 million and revenue enhancement measures of $4.6 million. The accumulated surplus that was brought forward was approximately $2.9 million as previously stated. This makes the total revenue of $178.1 million. The anticipated accumulated surplus at the end of 1995 is estimated to be $172,000.

The major capital projects planned for 1994, were the Phase II construction of the Community College and this is well underway. I go to the Sports Centre at least three times per week, so I see that that building is nearing completion.

Also planned was further development of the George Hicks and John Gray High Schools, Red Bay and West Bay Primary Schools - and I am speaking now of Capital Projects for 1994. I know that extensive work has taken place at the George Hicks High School, I do not know if the same thing can be said of the Red Bay, West Bay and the John Gray Schools. Perhaps the Financial Secretary will let us know if this work has been completed or even started.

The beginning of the first phase improvements of the George Town Hospital and the construction of new health centres in West Bay and Bodden Town were also projects that we hope to complete, or at least begin in 1994. While we have a master facility plan for the future hospital, we know that, unfortunately, the construction of the first phase was not started in 1994 and to be honest, this does not please me at all.

I know the reasons why it was not started and therefore can accept what has gone on, but I would certainly like to see something happen in this area early in 1995. I believe that the Minister did tell us that this was exactly what the Government plans to do, that this project will be given some priority, and we shall see the implementation of construction of the first phase of the hospital. Of course, I always put medical matters at a high priority and I believe the public does also. I will be behind the Government to get this project started and to see its completion in 1995.

I do not believe that the West Bay or Bodden Town clinics were touched. Again, this is a disappointment and I certainly hope that something will happen in that regard in 1995.

Substantial road improvements in all districts were planned, including the new road corridor from the Harquail leading to the airport area. We have seen evidence of many road improvements throughout the Island and I believe this is how it should be, we have to develop a roads infrastructure to cope with all the development that is planned. This is one area that I regard as a priority and I would like Government to continue to do as much as possible in the upgrading of our roads.

I do not believe that the land was bought in 1994 for the corridor for the new highway that is planned from the Harquail to the airport, and I know that this entire matter is being considered. I have attended at least two meetings about where would be the best place to put this road and I believe a decision will be made soon and we will see some action on this. It is long overdue and everybody knows that I like action and I want to see something happening.

Sports centres and parks development throughout the Islands and the commencement of a development of a national sports centre on Grand Cayman was also one of the capital projects that we set out to undertake in 1994. There is no doubt that much has been done in this regard with the upgrading of the Ed Bush playing field and we know that the Sports Centre behind the school is now being upgraded so that we can host the CARIFTA Games in April 1995 and so that our people - young and old - can have this facility to use.

I think most people know my stand on sports development in the country. I have told the Minister for Health and I told all and sundry who approached me how I feel about this. I feel that once we complete the Ed Bush playing field and upgrade the sports centre behind the Middle School and complete the sports centre for the eastern districts and upgrade the districts playing fields that will be sufficient.

I will not support, at this time, any monies to build a national sports stadium in Spotts. That remains my position. I will not be supporting it. I realise that we are not planning to build a sports centre in one year and I am fully knowledgeable about that. I know that it is to be done on a gradual basis until we have the sports stadium. I also know that there are many other priority issues, and I shall not be supporting any money for a national sports stadium at this point in time until more important matters are addressed.

I know that every Minister in Government is interested, and should be interested, primarily in his Ministry. I know that monies have been voted by the Finance Committee. Monies have been voted for development for example for the Minister of Health. It is easy for a Minister to say that he is in no way compromising expenditure in other Ministries and should therefore be allowed to continue to do what has been budgeted for in his particular Ministry.

But how things actually pan-out at the end of the year shows that the money spent ... and that yes there may have been accomplishments planned for one Ministry and accomplishments for other Ministries may not have been as effective in being enacted. Therefore, what I am saying is that come the end of the year, the money is spent and although a Minister might argue that he has not, in fact, encroached or imposed on expenditure in other revenues, the fact remains that particular Ministry has achieved, whereas the other Ministries cannot say the same. It is important to see the forest, and I believe that the Ministers will listen to us Backbenchers.

The development of the Agricultural Sector and the construction of a new animal slaughter-house facilities was also planned for 1994, in particular the abattoir in Lower Valley. We know that there has been considerable development in agriculture; farmers have been trained, high quality beef, cattle have been imported and there is ongoing advice and assistance to farmers and other workers. These are all in place.

But, the fact remains that we still have no abattoir, and this was in the Capital Works planned for 1994. I believe that a slaughterhouse is very essential and that we should get it. So, I encourage the Minister for Agriculture to continue to push ahead so that this abattoir becomes a reality in the very near future.

We know that the Agricultural Pavilion was completed and we can all say that the most successful agricultural fair was hosted there earlier this year. I also would like to point out to the public that this will not be the only function for the pavilion, as the Minister has informed me. It will be used for other purposes - hopefully not for housing Cuban refugees - in the future.

I think I said that the solid waste disposal site for Cayman Brac was also planned for 1994, but this did not take place. Therefore, we see from all of this that there are a considerable number of projects that were planned for 1994 that did not become a reality. Frankly, this was one of the things that I have been disappointed about and I have made this known to the Ministers involved and, as far as I am concerned, this was one of the reasons we have a healthy Budget to present. The monies need to be spent if these various projects are regarded as priority and as essential. Clearly all of the capital projects were not started and, like I said, expenditure was, therefore, less than estimated.

I would like the Financial Secretary to also tell this House whether all of the funds used from the Capital Expenditure vote in 1994, were applied to the Capital Works undertaken, or were some applied to offset the Recurrent and Statutory expenditure? I hope that he has the opportunity to tell us this in his winding up.

The capital projects scheduled for 1994 are all priority issues, with perhaps the exception of the prison visitor's centre. They all have my full support.

I hope that capital works gets off the ground faster than they did in 1994. In particular, Phase I of the George Town Hospital improvements. We must regard this as a number one priority and do something about it in the early months of 1995. Of course, we are now in a position to start it, and I believe that the Minister will see to it that this is done.

The Bodden Town and West Bay health centres must also be given priority. These districts are heavily populated and deserve much better health centres. I will be pushing along with the Minister to see that we are not distracted in any way and that these things are accomplished in 1995.

The Budget is very promising and very realistic and I believe it is achievable. I would like more funds transferred to General Reserves and also to the Pension Fund if they are available.

Positive changes such as I have just described are the result of collective measures that were taken by Government. They did not just occur by coincidence. I know that; I keep saying this over and over, because it is a point that I would like to leave with the public - they did not just occur because of coincidence. It is not because we are in the right place at the right time, as some want to purport.

We saw for instance the wisdom of enacting Mutual Fund Legislation. This was done in July of 1993, and it is certainly paying off. We dropped company registration fees and since then we have virtually seen a resurgence in company registration. I believe it doubled since April of this year.

We augmented the administrative framework and the legislation to ensure modern and responsive regulation of the financial industry. That, too, is paying off.

Recent amendments were made to the Companies Law, the Properties (Miscellaneous) Law, the Partnership Laws, and that is also paying dividends.

The Financial Secretary told us that a Coordinator of Marketing and Promotions has been appointed and one of the first things that person will be doing in consultation with the Government Private Sector Consultative Committee, is to come up with a publication of high quality, high profile, in order to help market our financial industry. I believe that measures like this are extremely important, especially in light of broadcasting shows like "Dirty Money". We have to stay on the cutting edge and we have to market ourselves - nobody else is going to do it for us.

The Government has also done a considerable amount in promoting the financial industry during the years. They have done so on all fronts. They promoted it through high quality publications; they have attended financial conferences abroad; they have hosted them locally, and these are just some of the methods that the Government has employed with obvious results. The Financial Secretary informed us about the conferences planned in February 1995, in New York, London and Hong Kong. They have my best wishes. I believe that they will serve to promote our product.

Our Minister for Tourism has also been very active in promoting his Ministry and encouraging diversification of the tourism base, and Cayman now has more to offer than just sun, sea and sand.

We know that we hosted the conference on Ecotourism here, in fact we got two awards in ecotourism. There has been more co-operation than at any other time between the Government and the private sector in the field of tourism. Without this, tourism will not be a success. We have seen co-operation like never before between these two sectors in trying to promote tourism, hence the results - tourism has taken on new dimensions. A more aggressive marketing policy has been adopted - 'niche' marketing is the "in-thing". We are seeing more and more tourists coming from continental Europe, the United Kingdom and as far away as the Far East.

I feel sure that the Financial Secretary and the entire Government and, of course, the Minister for Tourism, will continue to thrust forward and we will see continued growth in tourism in the following years.

Tourism is the main contributor to our national economy and efforts like these are truly commendable. Many people benefit from tourism in these Islands. Tourism Awareness Week is yet another measure that the Government has taken to enhance tourism. We have to be prepared and trained, we have to know how to stay on the cutting edge and be competitive if we are going to make it in tourism. Obviously, we are doing something right because the figures indicate that we are.

We dropped stamp duty on transfer property and BAM! real estate started. It was in the doldrums before that. We were the ones who took the bold action of dropping stamp duty on property transfers from 10% to 7.5%.

We did not think that we knew it all; we listened to the realtors. I hope that we never see the day where any one, or any Government, fails to seek advice from those involved in any industry and be guided by them in steering the country right.

Government fully understands the implications of high property insurance. I believe a task force was set up a year or so ago to look into this matter and in his Budget Address, the Financial Secretary told us that he has commissioned a study of Cayman's risk position and hopefully this will bear fruit and be able to attract the kind of insurance that will be much more appreciated than what is available now. We realise that high property insurance does impact negatively on the economy, particularly construction and commercial activities, and development in general. I look forward to this exercise being completed and tangible recommendations given to improve the situation.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, would you take a suspension at this time?

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.58 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.23 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Second Elected Member for George Town, continuing the debate.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: The Government realises too, that in order to continue to grow economically, to prosper, the problem of crime has to be addressed. It has been doing so many things in combatting crime.

The Government fully supports Cease-Fire, and I believe that every person who does have an unlicensed firearm should take the opportunity to turn it in. I urge the public to do so.

Crime has a devastating effect on progress and therefore it has figured high on the Government's priority list. Attacks on this problem have been multifaceted. They include increasing the penalties on firearms, which we know went through this House not long ago; getting The Protector, the Coast Guard Boat, and increasing surveillance at ports of entry. The Police Force has been increased, special training courses have been set up for law enforcement agents, and many other things have been done in the last two years to try to combat crime. So the Government has been up and doing, trying to address the problem of crime. I believe this is the single most important factor that, if allowed to deteriorate, will destroy us here in the Cayman Islands and we will no longer be the prosperous little country that we are now.

The presence of the United States Radar Station has helped us with drug surveillance and interdiction. I had hoped that the United States Radar Station would have been at least one bargaining tool that we could have used in trying to get the Cubans relocated. I understand that they are moving on now and that they are trying to sell the radar station as President Clinton cuts expenditure.

We are most fortunate. The same way that the storm (Gordon) missed us, many of the economic problems that other countries are plagued with, also missed us. Therefore, we are certainly a blessed country and I believe hard work merits a certain amount of blessing. I thank God for all of the many blessings that we have experienced here in the Cayman Islands.

The Financial Secretary told us about the Association of Caribbean States which was formed in July of this year. He told us about these major trading blocks - NAFTA and the European Community and others. I have been thinking seriously about the invitation we have to join the Association of Caribbean States. I believe that four other overseas British Dependant Territories have opted to join, and that only Bermuda and the Cayman Islands have not joined as yet. The more I think about it, the more I recommend that we adopt a wait-and-see approach. I do not believe that we should bother to join the Association of Caribbean States.

Many improvements have been made in the last year in George Town. We have seen the installation of the new street lights, and credit goes to the Government and Caribbean Utilities Company, particularly the Minister for Communication and Works. I believe all persons in the public really appreciate these new street lights and I believe that they will impact positively in reducing crime.

The next big improvement that comes to mind is the Post Office renovation. I would like to again congratulate the Minister responsible, and Mrs. Corrine Glasglow. This is a hard working young woman and I am really impressed with what is going on at the Post Office, and the public is extremely pleased about the renovations and the services that are being offered there.

I would like the Government to consider installing traffic lights in various intersections around George Town. I know that it has been discussed before, but the matter is becoming urgent at some intersections. I can think of the Eastern Avenue/No Name Road intersection. There is such a hold up of traffic there, especially when people are going to work. There are other intersections where it is becoming quite urgent and pressing to have traffic lights installed. Also, I believe plans are afoot to install bus shelters here for the children and for people who wait for the bus in rainy weather. These will be greatly appreciated, I am sure. I hope to see some action taken on this in the coming year.

We also really need some improvements in the road system in the Swamp and the Windsor Park/Templeton area. If we do not get it soon we are going to have problems. So, as a special request - from me to the Government - let us try to do something about those two areas. I know that a number of improvements have been made in even those two areas, but they really need more upgrading and let us pay attention.

There is another road too, where something needs to be done to increase the width, and that is the Meringue Town Road. That is a very, very dangerous road. In the area just before you get to the South Church Street intersection, accidents have occurred there and it is very dangerous. I really believe that that road should be widened. I do not believe that the owners of the land there would object. They have a lot of money and I do not think that they would renege in giving Government a little bit of land, even if they want to sell it. I, for one, am just a small-fry and I am actually building a sidewalk on the hospital road near the entrance to the hospital out of my own funds, just to improve the aesthetics in that area. So, I am sure the millionaires who own that area would donate the land to Government. Let us access them and see to it that that road is changed and no further accidents occur there on account of it being so narrow.

The Ministry of Health has been conducting a strategic planning exercise and it continues to come under heavy fire. I believe that if we can only see so far and if we only have an incomplete understanding of any subject, it is very likely that the wrong conclusions will be drawn. I am certain that in the next few months we will see results from strategic planning and I certainly hope that those who have been shooting it down will be man enough then to stand up and say it was just on account of their ignorance.

Some of these little points might seem trivial, but I believe in addressing the small things. If we attend to all the small matters, the big ones will take care of themselves.

I would also like to see Government pay off Mr. Val Hurlston, who was shortchanged by the previous Government. I know that the Third Elected Member for George Town has been urging Government to look into it and I believe that the last word I heard was that the monies were made available to pay off this man, a former Vestryman, and I trust that this will be done very soon.

Another subject: We need to investigate allegations of police brutality. There was a question in the House directed to the First Official Member. I read the answer and obviously there were charges and the matter is in hand, and it is being investigated. But, I have had reason to examine at least seven of these people who said that they had been beaten up by the police. I think that the problem needs urgent investigation. We know that the police have a difficult job in dealing with criminals, and we certainly are not suggesting a soft approach. On the other hand, we cannot support a violation of civil liberties.

A Select Committee also to study the Bill of Rights has been formed and I would like to see it enacted in the not-too-distant future, certainly before...

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I hate to interrupt you, but I really must ask you to keep within the general principles of Government's policy and administration laid down by the Financial Secretary in his Budget Address and what is contained in the Estimates.

When the Speech from the Throne is delivered by His Excellency the Governor, this is the time when any subject can be brought up, because at that time Members can indicate with regret that this or that subject was not touched on, but this is really not the time to talk about payments to a certain gentleman, or a select committee.

Please, would you continue with the debate as outlined? Thank you.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I appreciate that word of advice, and I would like to point out that I am a rookie, like others here, and I will certainly try to abide by what is correct.

Monies have been allocated for a central park here in George Town - at least a certain amount of money, perhaps not sufficient to purchase land for a central park, but that too is very important for the Capital, we need a central park and it has been needed for a long time. At least we are doing something about it and I hope that very soon we will be able to enjoy a central park.

I believe that the Cuban situation is relevant to this debate because monies are being spent on them and I believe others have touched on the Cuban crises. I would like your permission to...

The Speaker: I do not have to give permission for that, because that is outlined in the Financial Secretary's Budget Address. You can quite safely discuss that.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Cubans, these unfortunate people, arrived on our shores and Government, as we know, has been doing everything in its power to deal with the problem. I will not waste the time of the House going over what has been done.

What I would like to say about it is that the one thing that really peeves me is the reaction of the British Government in this respect and I am extremely peeved. I am very dissatisfied and put out at the response and the so-called help that we are getting from the British Government. I say this because I understand that the only offer that we had was $60,000 worth of tents, and they have been of some assistance at arranging meetings in Washington. Apart from that, I do not think that there has been any tangible effort to assist us here in the Cayman Islands with the Cuban crisis. We are but a small country and our standard of living and our economic resources are reasonable, but when we consider the number, as compared to our population, it is overwhelming. The Mother Country, in my opinion, can and should be doing a lot more to assist us - especially in the light that the Mother Country signed the International Treaty on Refugees - and we have to abide by that treaty. As a British Dependant Territory we shall abide, and we are abiding by that treaty. But, surely, they owe us some sort of financial assistance in helping with these people - seeing that they are not even Caymanians.

I remember that very recently a request for $131,000 came before Finance Committee for approval of payments made to Transmedical Corporation. I tried to ask a question in the Finance Committee which was to show that the original value of that contract was far in excess to the $131,000. The Government had, in fact negotiated the contract down to this meagre $131,000. Congratulations to the Legal Department and some of the advice of the doctors.

Do you know, Madam Speaker, that many Senators were lobbied in the United States and they put pressure to the United States Government and the Foreign Commonwealth Office. The Foreign Commonwealth Office in turn put pressure on the Cayman Islands Government about this matter. To not have a similar thing happen in the reverse at this point in time with the Cuban Refugees, I think is ludicrous. It is very upsetting.

Why can the Foreign Commonwealth Office not put pressure on Washington to try to help us out of this situation? I would like to congratulate the National Task Force and all the hard workers trying to deal with the Cuban crisis. I hope that the public understands that we are limited in what we can do. We are limited by treaties, such as I have mentioned. We just cannot offer these unfortunate people food and gasoline and send them on their merry way; we must abide by a treaty.

Now there is no forthcoming help from the United Kingdom Government. What is the use of the United Kingdom Government, Madam Speaker?

I would like to touch on a few things that are now going on in the Ministry for Health. Some of these things certainly need money for them to operate. We know for instance that there is presently a Health Practitioners Board whose purpose is to register and discipline health professionals. The Law was enacted back in 1974 and has served us well until recently. We know that we have had serious problems recently because of the very nefarious past Minister of Health, Mr. Ezzard Miller, realising that there was a loophole in the Law and taking advantage of it for his own gain.

The Ministry put regulations in place that would, in fact, control the practice of medical experimentation here in the Cayman Islands. I think the Ministry along with the Legal Department deserve some credit for taking this action.

We are presently vigorously pursuing enabling legislation to ensure acceptable standards of medical services in both the private and public sectors. We will be hearing more about this in the future on how the various councils will be set up and how it will regulate and ensure that medical and other related health care professionals serve this country in an acceptable manner for the benefit of all. As we know, without a healthy population, we will not have a healthy economy.

There will be more teeth in the laws that effectively administer and monitor standards of medical services. There will be a review of the Pharmacy Law (which we know was passed by the previous Government) and I understand the regulations had not even been approved.

The Public Health Law will be updated. We have a problem, Madam Speaker, Public Health Inspectors do not fall within the umbrella of the Ministry of Health, they fall under the Department of Environment. These people are responsible for inspecting beauty salons, barber shops, restaurants, to ensure that there is an acceptable standard and no risk of infection to persons, etcetera. But there is a problem because the Public Health Inspectors are under the Department of Environment. True, their duties overlap, but I believe that something needs to be done about this.

Many endeavours are being made to encourage the development of tertiary medical facilities on the Island. We know that sending patients abroad for medical treatment is a heavy drain on Government. It is an increasingly heavy drain despite attempts to limit expenditure in this area, it is ever increasing. Therefore, I believe that the Government will, and I think it has endorsed sensible efforts in this direction.

What I am now about to say does not follow usual conventional wisdom. I have never put a lot of trust in conventional wisdom, and we know that pack-journalists and many newspapers constantly write articles telling us about other economies of the world, what their situations are.

I remember back in 1980 reading about the predictions that Russia would be marching on Afghanistan, Africa and Latin America. I remember reading that the Dow [Jones] was at 1,000 and would be stuck there. I remember them saying that gold was king and that in a few years it would be worth $2,000 per ounce. All kinds of reports were brandied across newspaper headlines.

At that very time, I remember reading in the Exclusive Insider that Germany would reunite (this was 1980), they were saying that the Soviet Union would crumble, that it did not make all that much sense to put money in real estate. Almost the opposite of what pack-journalists were saying. Which one was right? As it turned out it was not the pack-journalists, and not those who professed to have so much conventional wisdom.

I think it behoves us in this House to take what we read in many of these sources with a grain of salt. They obviously have some truth, but like the Minister of Aviation said in his contribution, half-truths are sometimes the most dangerous because they fool so many people.

I shared some things with the Financial Secretary recently that I read in the Exclusive Insider, The Elitist and Tiapan, and I think it may be enlightening for us to look at some of these things because they affect not only the global economy, but some of them are very relevant to our own economy here in the Cayman Islands.

This is from the [Spring] 1994 issue of Exclusive Insider. It is talking about Mutual Funds. It says: "This year you will not get rich investing in any of the thousands of over-priced mutual funds on the market.

"This is going to come as a terrible surprise to people who believe that mutual funds are the safest place to put their money now...and who think they're `doing the right thing by investing like everybody else.'

"Last year over $1.7 TRILLION [U.S.] was invested into mutual funds, more than one-quarter of American households own a mutual fund.

"Unfortunately most people do not know that you lose out big time over the long term by investing in mutual funds rather than investing in stocks.

"In fact, a recent study showed that you lose practically $400,000 (US) in profits over a 25-year period on a US $100,000 portfolio if you invest in mutual funds instead of stocks.

"The reasons are numerous - big loads, high management fees, tax liabilities (which almost no one talks about) and so on.

"The conclusion? Anyone with just US$10,000 - or more - will do better - much better - buying individual stocks.

"Still, investors hand money over to mutual fund managers, thinking they need "professional management." Sadly, in any given year, 2 out of 3 fund managers don't even do as well as the market. Your mutual funds are likely to UNDERPERFORM the market - to do LESS than average.

"This spring, more mutual funds will crop up...like weeds in an empty parking lot. And the inevitable result. It's a case of simple economics.

"When interest rates rise, the buying trend will reverse - and people will start investing less money in mutual funds. When that happens it will trigger a market sell off that will rival the crash of 1987.

Why? There are a lot of first-time investors who think a mutual fund is like some kind of CD. You just deposit your money and make 15% or 20% per year. They are going to get the shock of their life when they find the market can go the other way. And there is no protection for mutual funds investors.

"We're going to see a run on mutual funds that will be a lot like a run on the banks. The banking system is based on the assumption that not everybody is going to show up and demand his money at once and the mutual fund system operates much the same way. There is less than 10% cash on hand - the rest is invested in stocks.

"If too many people show up demanding their money at once, the fund has to sell stocks, even at a loss, to meet the redemptions. If there's a run on all the funds at once, the market is forced down.

"The selling cycle will feed upon itself - prices will begin to fall as soon as people stop buying, and lower prices will many investors who will start to sell. Fund managers will dump the stock to pay investors clamouring for cash. Share prices will start heading down as a result. More investors will panic and sell their shares. Prices will fall farther and faster until the mutual fund bubble bursts."

Luckily for us, Madam Speaker, I believe that we will get many of the benefits of mutual fund investments before such a thing happens. But I believe that it is important to know these kinds of things and to prepare. We need to prepare.

One of the things that will help us is the lack of tax liabilities here in Cayman, because this is one of the reasons why in the United States, for instance, it is not as profitable to invest in mutual funds. I am not trying to say that at the moment mutual fund investment does not make sense, all I am saying is that this is a prediction and this is what could happen in the future. Therefore, I believe that if we give this any credence we should be making plans, at least.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, could you take the luncheon suspension at this time?

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended until 2.30 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.54 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.34 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Second Elected Member for George Town, continuing the debate.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The point that I was making just before we adjourned for lunch about mutual funds is that mutual funds have been thriving, especially since the enactment of the Mutual Funds Legislation in 1993. In light of us not having certain taxation in place, which exists in other places, it is quite likely that they will continue to do well, at least in the medium term.

But, I also pointed out that it is the opinion of at least one reputable authority that mutual funds may not always be what they are now, and it behoves us then to at least take this into consideration. I invest in mutual funds and I intend to continue investing in mutual funds until such time as it does not appear to be the wise thing to do.

I would also like to sound a word or warning at this time regarding the business and financial sectors and also the Government, hooking up to international computer [network] systems, such as Internet and CompuServe. I understand at the moment that it seems to be in the embryonic stage of planning, but various private organisations, including banks, may be considering the advantages of hooking up to these international computer networks. We all know that it will serve a great purpose, it will increase the efficiency of business and I am sure that there are reasons why such organisations would consider this.

I also believe that Government is looking at instituting E-Mail and all of these things which have certain advantages and they come with sophistication and development.

It is absolutely prudent to have the safest data encryption in place so as to avoid invasion of privacy. I believe that this is extremely vital in an offshore financial centre such as ours.

The next subject that I would like to touch on is concerning import duty and the Government collection of duties. We know that the Government has tightened up procedures in regards to import duty collection, but I believe that in spite of all that the Government has done there have been examples of various persons and companies evading import duty. I understand that some of them are presently under investigation. I am all for Government getting its due, and what is good for one company is good for the other. Unfortunately, I understand, there has been a significant amount of alleged import duty evasion. I understand that an individual known as Peter Savill has evaded import duty and I believe the Government is investigating this matter, but it seems to be taking an awfully long time before the matter is brought to a conclusion. There are other individuals I understand, such as Island Paving, especially with regard to the runway project that there were some import duties that were never paid. Similarly, Cayman Aggregate has been brought to my attention, they have not paid up. The same thing applies to Cayman Cement Distributors, I am told; they have not paid their import duties in all instances. I think it is high time that the Government either write off these import duties or collect them, and the investigation should be brought to a conclusion before too long.

We have been told that Avalon has also been guilty of this, but I believe that people like Avalon who might end up having to pay up quicker than those larger organisations and I contend that what is good for Avalon, is good for the Peter Savills in Grand Cayman.

I would also like to reiterate what the Honourable Financial Secretary said in his maiden Budget Address regarding excessive supplementary appropriations. I believe, like he said, that if used wrongly they are like concealed time bombs. I would like us to stick, as far as possible, to the Budget. I realise that there are instances where supplementary appropriations are absolutely necessary and I have voted for some, but I do not want to see situations arise where it gets out of control because I believe it can have an adverse effect on the budget and fiscal stability.

In summary, I would have to agree that very much has been accomplished in the past two years - just two years since we were elected - and accomplished by the present Government. The prosperity of the country is starting to show once again. I believe with the cooperation of the public and even more importantly, the cooperation and team work inside Government, we can be assured of continued prosperity in these Islands. I will do all I can to assist in attaining the prosperity that we all look forward to.

I believe I started yesterday evening by saying that I was taking the House through a budgetary virtual reality ride. I would like to remind us that we have incidentally just stopped at Port Hope, Cayman Islands. We will stay at Port Hope until Christmas, and we will enjoy ourselves. I wish everyone a very, very prosperous New Year and Christmas; may we have a very good Christmas.

I do not believe I congratulated the First Official Member. I certainly would like to extend my welcome to the First Official Member who joined us in Parliament. I look forward to all of us working together for the future benefit of these lovely Islands.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, first of all I would like to congratulate the First Official Member on his new appointment and welcome him to this Legislative Assembly. I would also like to congratulate the Honourable Financial Secretary on the presentation of an excellent Budget. The Honourable Financial Secretary has presented the true financial position of the Cayman Islands.

Reference has been made to a cook book budget, which I felt was in very bad taste because it throws a bad light on the integrity of our Financial Secretary. Even though there may not be a definition of the words for cook book, or a cooked budget in the dictionary, I believe we all know what the general meaning put to these words is.

It was said in this House that the budget is like a recipe. To me, the end result of a good recipe is a tasty meal, and this is exactly what the Honourable Financial Secretary has done for this country.

The opposition inside and outside this House are constantly referring to the 1995 Budget. As a matter of fact, the former Member for North Side, if I am not mistaken (and I stand to be corrected), said on television that they have "cooked the books." I would like to make it very clear to that gentleman, and anyone else who may believe in such statements, that I will be no part of a Government that cannot give the proper financial situation of the country where I am representing the people. I know that the National Team - and I will go on to say the Members of the Opposition - truly do not believe that the books have been cooked; but, as has been said, everyone is electioneering so I guess they are electioneering also.

The Budget Address as presented by the Honourable Financial Secretary is so good that it could not even be debated. Members had to go to the actual estimates which will be torn apart and put back together in the Finance Committee's meeting right after this meeting. We have been given a budget that will have a surplus at the end of 1995 with capital projects being carried out in almost every district, if not all.

We are not borrowing money to carry out these projects, Madam Speaker. We are not known as the waste-and-borrow Government, like the past Government. There are going to be major capital projects completed during 1995: Phase III of the West Bay Primary School; Phase III of the Red Bay Primary; the George Town Sports Complex upgrade; Phase I of the Community College of the Cayman Islands and the Bodden Town Health Centre. There are going to be major capital projects commencing in 1995 which includes: Phase II of the George Hicks High School; Phase I of the George Town Hospital Improvements; the West Bay Health Care Centre; the North Side Civic Centre and Hurricane Shelter; the Northward Prison Visitor's Centre and Administration Block; Phase I of the Pedro St. James Castle restoration and development; Phase II of the Queen Elizabeth II Botanical Park; Phase I of the Harquail bypass road; various district roads and upgrading or new construction of the Courts Office, Customs Officer, Agriculture Officer, and Department of the Environment Office.

I would challenge the past Government, and those who are in this Parliament who support them, to go back through the years and give us a Budget such as has been presented here today.

I would now like to go through the Budget Address, and I will deal first where the Honourable Financial Secretary has told us: "The Government... has repeatedly demonstrated its diligence in preserving its reputation and also, in deterring the use of its financial institutions for illicit activities, through the joint efforts of the public and private sectors."

I congratulate him for this, but as we all know, the Cayman Islands are still getting some extremely bad publicity and this extremely bad publicity is being brought about by the one or two people in this country who have no respect for law and order and no respect for the policies of the Government. I am certain that under the good leadership of the Financial Secretary, and backed by the very good Government of the National Team, we will weed out the one or two and bring our Islands to where no one can point a finger at them.

He spoke about the Banking Industry voluntarily accepting and publishing a Code of Conduct which provides guidelines to reduce our vulnerability to money laundering. I personally believe that it is time the Government put this code of conduct into legislation because, as I said before, the vast majority of the banking industry in this country sticks to the policy and there are one or two who have no respect for the policy. Should we put this banking code of conduct into legislation it will give more strength to it whereby the other banks under the Cayman Islands Bankers Association can deal with the ones who are tarnishing the reputation of these Islands.

On the section on the world economy, he is saying that under the expansions, "that are now clearly underway in North America and the United Kingdom contrast with continued sluggishness in Continental Europe and Japan. Growth in the developing countries is expected to remain robust..." Madam Speaker, I would like to say to the Honourable Financial Secretary that we have no worry about the United States economy collapsing because the former Minister of Health told me that he advised President Clinton on his Health Plan, and we know what happened to that - he is no longer advising on the economy, so I feel certain that it will remain robust.

Under Financial and Business Services. The one sentence in that paragraph that gives me a bit of concern is where it says: "They [speaking about the Financial and Business sector] have played vital roles in generating employment, training of the indigenous population and many additional spin-offs." I feel that more can be done for our people. I have personally had the experience of seeing jobs advertised which were blown out of proportion to basically keep Caymanians from applying.

They ask for 14 and 15 years of experience in the particular field. They employ someone from overseas and when those people arrive here they are not even capable of sending a fax. I am not asking about this, Madam Speaker, I have been in the situation where it happened, the young lady sent the fax upside down and the company it was being sent to was constantly calling, saying that they were receiving a blank sheet of paper. I feel that the Government must put in place legislation which can deal with false advertising of jobs; that legislation must put the fine of not $100,000, but a fine that will deter other people from making it hard for our people to get jobs. Jobs that are advertised for basic typists who sit all day with earphones in their ears need 14 and 15 years experience. Maybe the manpower study will deal with this problem and we will have an end to it.

I agree with the Honourable Financial Secretary that the recent amendment to the Companies Law has given us more registered companies in the Cayman Islands. But I still feel that the Government needs to do some public relations to sell this overseas because there are still those one or two [businesses] selling companies in this country for $8,000, even though the Government has lowered its fees. It does not make sense for us to sit in this House and bring about legislation which can help us and let our revenue grow, when there are those out there who have no respect for what we are doing.

Much has been said against the proposed Phase I of the George Town Hospital improvements. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman said that he was misled on the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital being built in a swamp, that was why he opposed it back in 1992. He has since looked at other developments in this country, such as, Periwinkle Restaurant - I think he said Governor's Sound, or Snug Harbour - and that the hospital should have been built no where else. I do not see that Honourable Member being misled. I have had great respect, and have considered him a leader, but I see leaders misleading followers, but I do not see a leader being misled.

I would like to congratulate the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation for carrying out the strategic planning that so much has been said about. At a public meeting the former Minister for Health who, as the Honourable Minister for Tourism pointed out, agreed to the Ten-Year Tourism Plan, which was all strategic planning.

It comes as no surprise to me that the former Member cannot tell the truth about anything. Some weeks ago there was a letter in the newspaper about the strategic planning of the hospital and in that letter he said the Member for North Side was not even there. I saw him, and I said to him, "You knew I was in Canada at a conference." His words for me were, "I have no respect for the truth." It is so sad that they are prepared to carry down this country, not just this Government, by telling untruth.

The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation is going about his upgrading of the hospital in the right way. He has brought his own people in to help him produce a plan for a hospital for the people of these Islands. In the past it was a norm for the Government to bring in experts from overseas to tell us about every section of life in the Cayman Islands and charge us hundreds and millions of dollars to tell us this, when we had our own people who were capable of doing the same thing - maybe a better job.

I am certain that the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation will achieve his goals in providing a medical facility for the people of this country that we can afford, a medical facility that the Cayman Islands population can be proud of. He is willing to take advice and I congratulate him for this. He may not be a long-winded speaker, as the former Minister for Health, but there is one thing that I must say about this gentleman: he has the ability to relate to his people. He may not have the arrogance of the former Minister, but he has the ability to speak the truth - cost him what it will - and his people appreciate him for this.

Just yesterday we saw a letter - and sometimes when I see these letters and [attend] these public meetings, I get a bit confused - am I in 1996 campaigning for the elections (today is the 18th, it would have been today), or am I in 1994, debating the Budget for 1995? This former Member speaks about the zero percentage for many things for the hospital. This gentleman has said that I was part of dismantling the Health Services Authority. I say that is true, Madam Speaker. When I stood for elections in 1992, I campaigned on this issue, the people of North Side gave me that right because they knew what I stood for. Even though he says that he always tells them what he is going to do, and that he did what they asked him, I wonder if I am from the same district.

They told him in no uncertain terms that they did not want the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital prior to 18th November, 1992. He did not listen. But on the 18th of November, 1992, they told him in no uncertain terms that they did not want it. He must now accept that and let the Government get on with its business.

We know the role of the opposition in any Parliament or outside, is to bring down the Government of the day. But, do not bring down your own country so that at the end of the day we have nothing. This is what these people are about to do.

I would like to congratulate the same Minister for Health on his strategic planning for drugs. I happened to have been one of those persons attending the strategic planning [meeting] and that was an education in itself. He had people from every walk of life across this Island attending. The people appreciated it, I appreciated it and we did not come up with a mission statement formed by the gentleman running that strategic planning exercise. We had to come up with it on our own. His words to us were: "You are Caymanians, you want a policy for drugs, you must bring that about. I cannot tell you what you want, you must tell me what the Cayman Islands need."

This Honourable Minister recently took over the Portfolio of Health. I feel that he is doing an extremely good job. The Honourable Minister of Community Affairs who had this Portfolio before did bring about legislation to stop the loopholes whereby AIDS patients were being brought to this country - 10 to 15 of them - to be treated by the former Minister of Health (Mr. Miller) without the Government having any knowledge of such things going on. Can you imagine, bringing 10 to 15 AIDS patients to this Island to be treated and put in hotels with no control? What would be the result? And the Government only learned of this through someone who attended a conference and understood that such a thing was going on.

Mr. Miller claimed that he had a professor who was in business with him. When that professor was contacted he said he knew of no such thing. He had talks with him, but no more than that. These are the things that these Ministers must be ever so vigilant to stop from taking place in this country by people who wish to destroy it.

I will now turn to Tourism. Tourism, which is one of the main pillars of our economy has grown by leaps and bounds since the General Election in 1992. This was not (as has been insinuated) a case of being in the right place at the right time. The Honourable Minister, because of his ability to see the needs of his country to promote tourism, has done a fantastic job. We see from the Honourable Financial Secretary's Address, that; "visitor arrivals... up to September of 1994, grew by 4% over the same period in 1993." We see that; "double digit growth was recorded every quarter of 1994, with the average around 21% over the same nine month period in 1993."

He also told us that: "Estimates derived from the most recent visitor expenditure data available, reveal that stayover visitors spending grew by 28%, representing $136.2 million in the first half of this year."

Madam Speaker, even if the opposition wanted to give the laurels to the former Minister of Tourism for the growth in 1993, certainly, they must have enough common sense to know that that is not what has caused the tremendous growth in 1994. What has caused the tremendous growth is the planning, the advertising, the appointment of a new Public Relations Company.

When the Minister saw that this country was not getting its worth for the money it was spending on public relations, he bit the bullet and replaced [the company] with another. It is now unbelievable what is happening in this country as far as tourism is concerned. He has included his own people in the advertising of these Islands and I commend him for this because shortly after the election, when he got that Portfolio, I spoke to him and told him it was time that this country was advertised with pictures of our own people. He has done a fantastic job.

I attended the show the Minister had at the Hyatt and I was impressed by the number of our older people who have been in the hospitality field of this country when there was nothing to be made from it and their pictures are all now appearing on brochures, advertising the Cayman Islands that they helped to build.

He has seen the need to provide other attractions to the tourists coming to the Cayman Islands. For a long time we have advertised sea, sand, sun and smile. We are now seeing that there are people in the tourism market who we can get by diversifying and going into things such as the Botanical Park and the St. James Castle project. I commend him for going about this in the right way, phasing these in over a period of time.

It has been said that the Cayman Islands are only receiving peanut butter sandwiches. This, again, comes from those people out there who are in opposition to the Government and who are incapable of speaking the truth at any time. When we check the figures, the percentages of hotel occupancy in this Island (and when I say hotels, I speak of the Hyatt, which we all know is not a cheap hotel) running at 80% to 90% capacity, how, in the name of God, can they say that these people are considered peanut butter tourists?

We will always have opposition when any of the things that we are trying to do for the Cayman Islands are advancing and our people are once again able to live to a standard that they were used to prior to the last eight years, and the economy is on a rebound and they now have a dollar in their pockets at all times because of good Government.

I am certain that under the leadership of the Minister for Tourism and his colleagues on the National Team this country can look forward to many more bumper years in tourist arrivals.

The first time that we put in a budget any money for awareness and promotion of tourism locally is this year and we put in $170,000. We know we have to promote outside, but in order for the tourists to continue to come here, we have to educate our people as to what tourism means to this country. We have to get more training for our young people because a stigma has been put on jobs in the hotels in these Islands.

I said for many years prior to coming into this Legislative Assembly, and maybe it would be something for the Honourable Minister for Education to look into, I think it is time that we put an arm on one of our High Schools that caters to students who are not academically inclined to go on, but who are able to go into the hospitality field. Let us turn them in the direction of that section of the High School that will deal with all sectors of the hospitality field, waitresses, bartenders, bell boys, whatever.

Our Caymanian people are very proud. If you take a child at the age of 13 or 14, and tell him and his parents that the child is not academically inclined to go on and come out with six or seven CXC's, but we feel that they will advance in the hospitality field and we would like to send them to this section of our school which is providing the training, I am certain that the number of our own people coming out to fill positions in the hospitality field would be tremendous.

Maybe the Honourable Minister for Tourism can look into the Audrey Palmer Scholarship that I think is granted by the Caribbean Hotel and Condominium Association, whereby children from the Cayman Islands can also compete to receive this scholarship.

That scholarship entitles person to attend Cornell University. My son had the opportunity through the previous manager of the Hyatt to apply for that scholarship. They have to do an essay. He did an essay on the Cayman Islands. He did not get the scholarship, but it was between him and a girl from Trinidad. So it means that our Caymanians who are in the hospitality field have the ability to compete for such scholarships.

Madam Speaker, sitting in this House and listening to the debate on the Budget Address, I find it unusual that nothing has been said about Cayman Airways. It has been a topic of discussion ever since I came in here, and prior to that. Because the Honourable Minister has done such a fantastic job in turning that Airline around, there are no laurels thrown at him in this Budget Address. There was a lot of negative things said to him before he got the Airline turned around whereby it is no longer a drain on these Islands as it was before.

I congratulate that Minister because had he not had the guts to do what he did with the Airline, it would have either taken this country into bankruptcy or there would have been no jobs for a number of our people.

I would also like to congratulate that Honourable Minister for having the guts to stand up and say what he found wrong with the CXC examinations and to take the speedy implementation to correct it. He did not do that only by himself. The changes that were brought about in that CXC examination in these Islands, from what he found, were done with the assistance of the National Team. He discussed every aspect of it with us, including my Honourable friend from Bodden Town. I personally remember that Minister suggesting, at a National Team meeting on a Tuesday evening, certain things and turning to the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and saying; "Don't you agree?" and that Member said, "Yes, that is right, that is what must be done."

There are Members of this House who will stand up and say the CXC examination was the best thing that happened to this country in the last two years. But they are only going to say that now because of the excellent results that have come about. Those excellent results would not have come about had the last Minister for Education continued in that Portfolio. The Education system in this country would not be a disaster today. But because the Honourable Minister did not just go in there and say; "Do this and do that", he went through it, he investigated what was wrong and he brought about an examination that our children have passed with honours.

What else can we expect from a Minister who has the education system and the children of these Islands at heart, like the Honourable Minister presently does? It has been my opinion, and I will stand by it, that once the previous Ministers of Education got their children educated, they did not care about the rest coming along.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Hear! Hear!

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: But this Honourable Minister has two young ones who have to come up through the whole system - Primary, Middle, High School. He wants the best for his children, and he wants the best for the children of the Cayman Islands also.

I would now like to turn to Community Development. Much has been said about the Honourable Minister handling this Portfolio. Much has been said by the opposition, that he is uneducated. But God help us, if that young man was as educated as some of us claim to be, this country would be in a different position now, having spent 12 years here prior to this. He has his people at heart. He believes in sports and I congratulate him, having been a sports person myself.

Sporting facilities in the Cayman Islands are long overdue. Had something been done each year by that someone who had the responsibility for sports, we would not be in the situation we are today, which this Honourable Minister has to take the licking for because he is trying to get something done.

In the Budget we speak of sports centres in each of the districts; I think this is very good. We see where coaches are going to be placed in districts and it is long overdue that not just providing a facility in a district puts our young people in the right direction thereby taking them off the streets, from getting into trouble that they should not be into.

I say to him, North Side desperately needs a coach. We desperately need facilities, upgrading of the playing field. We need a walking track because a lot of our people are now into health and fitness. I know I can depend on this Honourable Minister to put in place programmes that will assist each and every one.

From the opposition that we have had on the National Sports Stadium, I believe they have now left the feeling with people that this Government is embarking on a facility such as the Orange Bowl. I would like to stress, and I am certain that the Honourable Minister in one way or the other will stress this also, that this is not so.

What this Government is proposing is a sensible centre which will have over 10 acres of parks that will have amenities for the entire family where they can take their young children and spend some quality time with them. They can also spend time with their teenagers and maybe discuss problems in a different atmosphere. It will be a family facility.

This Government has taken a lot of blows because we are into sports. I say, where better to put our money than in our young people. The last Government was prepared to spend $200-$300 million dollars on a road programme.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, that is the truth.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Fifty million dollars on planes which this country does not have now; $340,000 on a Post Office which cannot rent all of its boxes; $680,000 to pull teeth. Why can this Government not put money into an area that is going to help the entire country in the long run?

But, Madam Speaker, that comes as no surprise to me. When the former Minister for Health, Mr. Ezzard Miller, stood on the floor of this House and said; "We must be prepared to lose an entire generation to drugs..." to save 5 or 10 of our young people, it is worth spending the money we are spending on sports.

[Honourable Members: Hear! Hear!]

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I know that since I have been elected in North Side, I have been instrumental in saving one young man from drugs. He was a constant user and he got on the telephone one night, in the wee hours of the morning, and he said; "Ms. Edna, I need help." I am proud of that young man today. He has gotten his life back together, he is working. He is carrying home money to take care of his family. Prior to that, this young man sold everything he had. So, I am one who is prepared to vote any amount of money that can be earmarked for our young people to change their style of living as far as using drugs is concerned.

I would also like to congratulate that Member on the half-way house for battered women and children. This is much needed because this type of behaviour is escalating in these Islands. We are aware of a lot of it, but there is a lot that goes on that we do not hear about. I would say to that Member that providing one facility in George Town is not going to suffice. We will have to go into the Districts and provide such a facility.

The Human Services have been divided into two Ministries: the Ministry for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation, and the Ministry for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture. It is my intention to bring a Motion to this House in early 1995 to add Women's Affairs to one of those Portfolios. I am hoping that every Member of this House will support me.

I feel that women in this country make up 50% of the voting population. They have many major problems that are not looked at which I feel must now be directed to one Portfolio. I congratulate the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture for the very controversial Housing Scheme for low to middle income earners. I say to him: do not be deterred by opposition. The opposition is there because there is something good being done for our people.

I congratulate him on the new youth programmes, such as the After School Programme, the National Children's Choir, the new Legislation on Children and Labour, and Young Persons, the Manpower Development Initiative, the New Student Loan Scheme and the Studies on the Status of the Family and Crime.

If I may retract a bit, I know that the Honourable Minister for Education is constantly upgrading the schools, and he has committed his Portfolio to further programmes during the coming year. I say to that Honourable Minister: do not forget the North Side Primary School because the number enrolled at that school is very small. It is my dream that one day that school will be brought up to a standard where parents of every child in that district can be proud to have their children attend and not bring them into George Town for their education. I know the Head Mistress is doing her best, she is doing a fantastic job trying to turn the school around, and I intend to give her every assistance that I can during my time in this parliament.

Prior to my entering politics and coming into this Chamber, that school was forgotten. The piano for the school music was bought by the Pirate's Week Committee when I was the Chairman. The last bus was bought by the PTA with the assistance of funds from that same Pirate's Week Committee. Thank God, through the new Minister, I was able to get a new school bus for the North Side district, and also a garage where that bus can be parked and protected from the salt air.

I have asked the Honourable Minister for an additional teacher for that school and I am certain that he has taken care of it.

For the National Team to have come into this parliament in 1992 and turned this country around the way it has, I think everyone in this country should thank God that we removed that stagnant Government that was here in 1992 and put in a forward-looking Government.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Hear! Hear!

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: When we look at the General Reserves of this country, at the beginning of 1994 it was $3.6 million, we were able to transfer "$0.4 million from the Surplus and Deficit Account during the course of this year. The balance at the end of 1994, will therefore be $4.0 million, exclusive of interest. In view of continuing improvements in 1994 [in the words of our Honourable Financial Secretary], it is expected that there will be no need to draw on reserves." This is such a difference to the last Government who was constantly drawing down on reserves.

"If at the end of 1994, it is found that the realised surplus exceeds the projected amount of $2.9 million, based on the revised figures, it is likely that a further recommendation could be made to transfer some portion of this sum into General Reserves during 1995."

I will now turn to my district of North Side.

Much has been said that 'because Edna is a woman, the men walk over her and she cannot get anything done for her district.' I would like to inform those people who think that because my body is slender that I can be walked over easily by anyone, that they are mistaken. I agree that not much was done in my district in 1994, not as much as I would have liked to have seen done, but I am a big woman, a mature woman, this Government came in here with nothing to spend in 1993 and in 1994, we were matured enough to spend what we had on Education before moving into other projects. The majority of the money spent on Capital Projects in 1994 went to the schools and I am very proud that the National Team stood behind that decision.

A lot of money went into road works which had to be done because the roads in this country were left to deteriorate and nothing was spent on them. I will not get into money spent on roads in North Side prior to 1992, as I bow to your ruling, Madam Speaker. But on road works, the total road works carried out in North Side in 1992 was zero.

In 1993, $90,750 was spent on the re-sealing of the Frank Sound Drive and repairs to the Frank Sound Drive. A total of $45,100 was spent on the Old Man Bay Junction realignment.

In 1994, $33,000 was spent on the re-sealing of the Rum Point Road; $9,090 was spent on repairs to the Finger Keys; $4,680 plus $2,603 was spent on the Old Man Bay Junction clean up for the Royal Visit; and $63,000 (I stand to be corrected on this figure, Madam Speaker) was spent on the road to the Botanical Park.

So I do not know what this good gentleman means when he stands up in a public meeting and says that North Side got nothing in the last two years, but they are going to get everything this year and next year (1995 and 1996).

When I look at the Budget that I have before me, and I see the figures; I see $400,000 for a Civic Centre and Hurricane Shelter in North Side; I see $400,000 for construction and repairs for various roads; $40,000 district health centre construction; $8,000 standby generator for the Police Station and new signs; $48,000 for air-conditioning of school halls and purchase of 100 chairs and renovation of the North Side Town Hall; $20,000 storage for North Side School; $35,000 for upgrading of Old Man Bay School playing field.

I read the newspaper, I see for 1995 and 1996 North Side is going to get an allocation of $400,000 for 1995, in the Budget for roads; $290,000 for a district clinic; $620,000 for a Civic Centre and air-conditioning for the school hall. This plainly goes back to what I said previously, he does not have the ability to tell the truth. He looked at the same Estimates that I looked at and he constantly wants to mislead the people (which the opposition is trying to do a good job of) unfortunately for them, the people of this country know when it is good.

There are two things; one thing for the North Side Primary School that I see missing from the Budget that I would ask the Minister for Education to see if something can be done, that is, the fire exit doors. I feel very strongly that every Primary School in these Islands should have fire exit doors. It would really be sad if our children were caught in a fire and, due to lack of oversight, there were no way for them to escape. So I would impress upon that Honourable Minister to deal with this as quickly as possible.

The other thing that I see lacking in this Budget, is a facility for the mentally ill in this country. I implore the Honourable Minister to do something as soon as possible.

We had a plan because I remember in my first debate in this House on the Throne Speech, it was one of the things that I impressed upon the new Government - a facility needed to be provided. This plan was drawn up, but unfortunately, it was not enacted or brought about. But the Honourable Minister is saying to me from across the room that this facility will be included in the Hospital programme.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Member, in the midst of her debate on provisions for the mentally handicapped, take a break now?

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, I have about five minutes left.

The Speaker: All right, please finish then.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: When I read the Honourable Financial Secretary's Address, I honestly cannot see where any Member sitting in this House cannot see that this is an excellent address, that they cannot see that this Honourable Member, together with the Government has put in place things that have caused this economy to turn around.

Construction was dead prior to the National Team's coming into this Parliament. We have seen the number of plans that have been approved. We have seen an increase in tourism, an increase in company registration, an increase in the number of insurance companies, an increase in the ship registration, an increase in the number of banks and mutual funds.

Madam Speaker, there is no way any politician can honestly stand on the floor of this House and say that this happened by chance. This happened because stability has been returned by this Government being put in power by the people whom the Cayman Islands elected in 1992.

Investor confidence has returned. There is no more victimisation. We hear that there is so much victimisation in this Government, why do these people not come forward and say that they are being victimised? That they cannot get work permits, that they cannot get plans approved? We would like to know who they are because if it is happening, we want to help them.

Had this Government walked into this Chamber and continued with the 10% [stamp duty], these Islands would be no better off today in 1994.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Hear! Hear!

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: There are two things for the benefit of my people in North Side that I forgot to mention.

The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, maybe I did not say much about his Portfolio, but I want to say that this gentleman - no matter what my need was for the district, whether it was big or small - he was there to assist. I just want to say that I thank him for the number of street lights which have been put in the district to make it safer for our people.

I want to thank him for seeing to the purchase for the land for the North Side Civic Centre which will now, at the very beginning of 1995, become a reality so that the people of North Side can say at the end of 1995; "Edna got us much more in one year than the last Member got us in eight sittings on the Executive Council with the power."

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.45 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.09 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. [pause]

We have just over fifteen minutes left before the moment of interruption at 4.30. Would any Member wish to utilise that time to continue the debate?

The House could adjourn if it so desires.

MOTION TO CLOSE DEBATE

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I would move that the question now be put.

The Speaker: If the question is put on the Second Reading that means that the Honourable Third Official Member will have to rise and start his closing debate.

[addressing the Honourable Third Official Member]
Are you prepared to do that, sir?

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I was hoping that the Government would have sympathy on us grubs on a Friday afternoon at 4.30, but it is obvious that they do not. Seeing that I have a great respect for the Financial Secretary, I would not want the wind up delivery on the Budget Debate to start at this time of the evening. Again, I will have to play night watchman.

First of all, the Honourable Financial Secretary who is the Third Official Member, and his Deputy, are two individuals with whom I have had years of friendship with outside of this forum. They are two individuals for whom I hold high regard.

I have seen on more than one occasion their abilities manifested in various ways and while in my contribution to this Budget Address, I will raise some matters, I have to say to both of them and the other staff whom I am sure have played a great part in the preparation of this Budget, that it is obvious from the content they have spent much time and effort and have utilised their abilities to the fullest.

The Budget Address itself, while not containing too many specifics, has obviously given a broad overview of the state of affairs of the country from the Government's point of view. I think that there are certain sections of the Honourable Financial Secretary's Budget Address which need some comment.

If you will pardon me, I will try my best not to get into any real content this afternoon, but I will try to live within the parameters.

In his address, the Honourable Financial Secretary touched on the fact that as the years have gone on, an earnest application has been placed towards making the Cayman Islands one of the finest (if not the finest) financial centres in the world. There are those people who, for fairly obvious reasons to us here at home, find it necessary to try to discredit the integrity of the Cayman Islands. I know that the Honourable Third Official Member takes much of this very personally. And I cannot blame him, because I know that he has spent many long, hard, dreary hours utilising whatever resources he has available to him to assure that we are, as someone said earlier on, squeaky clean.

My only comment on that area is simply for us to keep on doing what we are doing, and do the very best that we can to ensure that we cannot get caught. By offering services we cannot determine from the very beginning who will be coming to our shores to seek those services, that is where the problem sometimes comes in that people of ill-repute may wish to utilise these services and as a result the bad name rubs off on us. I am confident that the Honourable Third Official Member and his team are being very watchful and they will continue to do their best to ensure that no one is able to use the services that we offer for any ill gotten means.

It is not something that will go away. It is something that because of the nature of these services will naturally attract some types of people who we care not to attend to. Nevertheless, checks and balances are in place and I am sure other checks and balances will be put in place as time goes on and there will be a continued effort to prevent such happening from occurring.

Having these problems occur, and foreign media causing us to have the jitters, if we were to take the view that some people can talk about it and take advantage of it and others have to take the full brunt of it, I think that is insular thinking. As I stand here this evening, with my different ideas from the Government in certain areas, it is very incumbent on us to take cognisance of that type of problem because it is not one which will bring any advantage to anyone of us here. It is one that any ill effects of it will spare none of us. So from that point of view, I have to look at it as the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay said, in those areas we have to join hands. I will certainly join hands with him to speak out and do whatever I can to discourage this type of bad publicity which is totally unnecessary, totally uncalled for and totally unfair.

[addressing the voice across the floor] It is not over yet, sir.

Madam Speaker, the Honourable Third Official Member gave some projections on world economy: He expected world output to expand by 3% in 1994 and 3.75% in 1995. It is the view of most qualified people in the industry that the global economy is gradually recovering. He pointed out that the North American and United Kingdom expansions are in contrast with Continental Europe and Japan who are still experiencing sluggish economies. There is a point which I wish to make in regard to what he spoke about in the growth of developing countries.

The view of the Honourable Third Official Member is that growth in developing countries is expected to remain robust on the average. "Growth in the developing countries is expected to remain robust on average, although disparities remain large and the short term outlook for the poorest countries remains virtually the same." I wish to parallel locally, within our economy and just say a few words regarding disparity.

I am not into the big world of finance, but for many years I have observed and continually gain apprehension on what I view as the disparity of the earning power of the people of this country. This can be a fairly long topic to discuss; I will only venture on the periphery this afternoon. I will simply touch on the fact that it is all well and good for us to be able to report that tourism is on the rise; the banking sector is stable; the inflation is in check and all other matters seem to be kosher. The fact is, however, that people below a certain income level multiply faster than people over and above a certain level. They not only multiply faster by natural causes (that is by more births), but they multiply faster because all of the socioeconomic factors which prevail with many of those families do not act in a conducive fashion to allow them the growth that we would all like to see. If more money is made, and it is not made there, it is only natural that it will be made elsewhere.

It comes back to the old saying – the rich get richer and the poor get poorer. I care not to be called a socialist for saying this: I simply wish to make a point, hoping that it is taken by one and all.

Many of the problems that we experience in our country today emanate from the social and economic surroundings under which large numbers of our population, both indigenous and otherwise, are surrounded. I do not stand here with all of the answers and I do not stand here with a great plan. But while this may seem jargon, it seems that a majority of the problems and solutions that we have to try to find at a national level, surround the problem I just identified. The answers cannot be looked at short term, because it is never good to advocate a welfare state. The way the world is going today, one has to be properly prepared in order to be accepted in the job market. I think that this is where we have not made great strides.

The question is not necessarily one of having programmes in place, or trying to institute new programmes, I think the question is ensuring that those good programmes that are put in place are used by the people who need them. I draw reference another old time saying about taking the donkey to the well, but not being able to force the donkey to drink water.

In the instance of what I am talking about, we no longer can subscribe to that way of thinking, because the truth of the matter is that where we have problems in our society and the same people that we as representatives continue to talk about who we wish to help, we have to provide them with the right tools, the right atmosphere, and the right impetus in order to get them on the right track.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION - 4.30

Standing Order 10(2)

The Speaker: It is now 4.30, Honourable Member.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I am so happy, Madam Speaker, that it is 4.30.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Tourism, will you move the adjournment of the House until 11 o'clock on Monday morning?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, as I understand it, all Members have been invited to the Opening Ceremony of the National Teachers' Conference at 9 o'clock on Monday morning, and you will excuse me for not saying that Madam Speaker is also invited. I would move that the House adjourns until 11 o'clock Monday morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until Monday morning at 11 o'clock

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

AT 4.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 11.00 AM MONDAY, 21 NOVEMBER, 1994.

MONDAY
21 NOVEMBER 1994
11.08 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

Suspension of Standing Orders to enable questions to be taken after 11 o'clock. The Honourable Minister for Tourism Environment and Planning, Leader of Government Business.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In accordance with Standing Order 83, I move the suspension of Standing Order 23(7) and (8) to allow the questions to be taken after 11 o'clock this morning.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23(7) and (8) be suspended to allow the questions to be taken after 11 o'clock this morning.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Orders are accordingly suspended.

AGREED. STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE QUESTIONS TO BE TAKEN AFTER 11 O'CLOCK.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

The Speaker: The first question is No. 203, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 203

¹No. 203: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member to provide a list of those members of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force currently enrolled at the Law School as follows: (i) nationality; (ii) rank; (iii) years of service; and (iv) type of programme being pursued.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the answer.

Nationality	Rank	Years of service	Type of programme
Caymanian	Chief Superintendent	25	Bachelor of Laws (Honours) Degree (LLB)—2nd year
Caymanian	Chief Inspector	12	Bachelor of Laws (Honours) Degree (LLB)—Final year
Jamaican	Inspector	11	Bachelor of Laws (Honours) Degree (LLB)—2nd year
American	Constable	5	Bachelor of Laws (Honours) Degree (LLB)—Final
Jamaican	Woman Constable	5	Bachelor of Laws (Honours) Degree (LLB)—2nd year

¹ Also see: "Statement by Member of Government," page 866

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say if the Government is underwriting the cost of studies for these students?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Yes, Madam Speaker, as far as I am aware, Government is underwriting these costs.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say what arrangement exists for the Government to recoup the money spent in the cases of the education of those students who are not Caymanian?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I do not think there are any plans in place to recoup the costs. It is fair to assume that even those officers who are non-Caymanian have served here for a fairly long period of time and in some instances it is likely that they will continue to serve until a Caymanian can be found to replace them. Therefore, there is no plan that I am aware of to recoup the costs.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is the Honourable Member in a position to say how these non-Caymanians were chosen, that is, whether there were no more Caymanian applicants, or were these persons chosen on a competitive basis even from among Caymanian applicants?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

No, Madam Speaker, I am not in a position to say how these were chosen. Most of these have been working for some time on their degree programme.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Member say if there is any policy in place that prohibits the Government from paying for the studies leading up to a law degree for Jamaican and American police men in the Royal Cayman Islands Police Force?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

There is no policy in place to my knowledge, but what I can say is that in the near future the whole aspect of training, including training at the Law School will be reviewed.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 204, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 204

No. 204: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works to provide a list and the estimated cost of the outstanding road works in the Constituency of Bodden Town.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

There are currently two outstanding road works in the district of Bodden Town that were approved in the 1994 budget. These are: 1) The Roy Bodden Farm Road which is slated to commence shortly, the amount budgeted was $110,000; and 2) The Poinciana Drive curve reconstruction which is nearing completion, $72,000 was budgeted.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would like to ask the Honourable Minister if the road he called the Roy Bodden Farm Road is going to be a phased construction, or if the $110,000 is the amount estimated for the completion of the project?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I was only referring to the road as I saw it in the Budget. As I understand it, that will be the first phase of it.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Minister elaborate on this road, the Roy Bodden Farm Road, and tell the House whether this road is built on any farm of Roy Bodden's or is this a road which moves down through the properties leading to farms elsewhere?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As I know this road, it goes through a farm, which butts and binds the properties of Roy Bodden. I guess that is why it is referred to as Roy Bodden Farm Road.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

On a point of clarification, I would just like this Honourable House to know that I am the owner of no farm. I am certainly flattered, although I think it is inaccurate that somebody would name a road the Roy Bodden Farm Road when I have no farm. So, I would just like to make that clear.

I would also like to ask the Honourable Minister if he is in a position to say when this road work may be undertaken?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is my understanding that the work is slated to begin this month.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 205, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 205

No. 205: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works what is the present procedure regarding laboratory testing of materials bought by the Public Works Department for road construction.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Materials bought by PWD for roads projects and requiring testing fall into two main categories: Bituminous materials and aggregate.

Bituminous materials for the manufacture of hot mix, for tack and prime coats and for spray and chip works arrive on the Island with a test certificate date. This testing is the standard testing required for all supplies of bituminous materials in the United States of America, and is carried out in accordance with their standards.

Aggregates used for sub-base, base hot mix aggregate, and chip and spray and chip work are visually inspected by PWD staff. Periodically, laboratory testing of these materials is carried out.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I noticed on the answer that it says: "Periodically laboratory testing of these materials is carried out." Can the Honourable Minister elaborate on what this laboratory testing consists of and also, is he in a position to give the House some idea of what time frame the description "periodically" takes in place?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is my understanding that these lab tests are carried out on larger jobs and it is done through a private company. I think mostly Tomlinson Engineering.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Am I to understand that the Honourable Minister is saying that the Public Works Department is not equipped to conduct laboratory tests?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

To a certain degree, he is correct. It cannot be done on a large scale.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say, in light of the Government announced aggressive roads policy, is any consideration being given to the PWD developing their own laboratory testing?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The reason why PWD does not have a full scale testing facility is simply because we have a young Caymanian who is presently abroad training. It is hoped that he will take up the post next year and at that time we will have a full fledged laboratory.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Minister say if PWD has not had a full-fledged laboratory for years and, if so, why has it been allowed to reach a point where it is not performing as it did in the past?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: This is something that was prior to my taking over the Ministry, but it is my understanding that it was more cost-effective to do it through private labs and it was for this reason that the position was taken. I think also at that time we had our own asphalt plant which was also abandoned some years ago prior to my coming in.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 207, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 207

No. 207: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works if Government has put to tender any works being undertaken on the diversion road in front of the Airport entrance.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

All work being undertaken to relocate the portion of the Crewe Road by the airport is being carried out in house by Public Works. There are, however, a number of pieces of hired equipment and operators on the project. This is necessary as Public Works is currently involved in road projects in at least four districts.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, if I remember correctly, the Minister said a few weeks back that the work at the Airport entrance would be done in two phases, the base work and the finishing work. Is PWD also going to do the finished surface of this road?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Member is correct. I did make that statement, and if it is that we are using the hot mix on the road, which I think we probably will considering the amount of traffic that will flow on it, we will definitely have to use a private company.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, can the Minister say if this work will be tendered or will it be undertaken by PWD?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As I understand it there are only two companies on the Island that actually do the hot mix and both will be asked to submit tenders.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 208, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 208

No. 208: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works to state: (a) How much capital work, including road work, has been undertaken by Government from January 1994 to date, giving a breakdown by project, location and estimated cost; and (b) What other projects are planned for completion by the end of 1994.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The answer: a) The Public Works Department undertook numerous capital projects in 1994. An update project report detailing the projects and status of each, along with associated costs, is provided with this answer. As there are over 166 capital projects which the Department is involved with, I am circulating copies in the interest of time; and b) the projects that are not currently completed, but which are expected to be completed by the end of 1994 are:

Building Works:

1. Improvements to Director of Broadcasting Office
2. Frank Sound Jetty
3. Renovations to Licensing Department
4. Courts Building--fire walls to staircase and new ceiling
5. Legislative Assembly Building—security upgrade
6. Refurbishment to Central Post Office
7. East End playfield
8. West Bay cricket pitch
9. Phase 2—Community College

Road Works:

1. Hot mix surface to Crewe Road at the Lions Centre
2. Second application spray and chip in Bodden Town at Drive-in location
3. Spray and chip old hot mix at Eastern Avenue, George Town.
4. Crewe Road relocation
5. Sidewalk to Middle School
6. Commencement of work on Roy Bodden Road
7. Commencement of work Half Moon Bay realignment

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Minister say if it is envisaged that these various works which are not completed will actually be done within this year or is there a possibility of a carry over?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

We are going to try to do as much as is humanly possible, but I believe that there are some that will have to be carried over into 1995.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Minister say, if these works are carried over, if they would be charged against the next year's estimates, or would money be available now to pay for them?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The usual procedure is if there are funds which would come to an end at year's end, we would ask for a re-vote. The remainder would have to be what is budgeted in the 1995 Budget.

Also, I would like to point out, and this should have been in addition to the question a while ago, while we are hoping to get as much of the road work finished as possible, the problem has been that we have been held up several times due to rain which we cannot help.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I noticed that conspicuous by its absence, is mention of the controversial road works undertaken in West Bay, the so-called private roads. I would like to ask the Minister why was that not included on this list?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I did point out that I had appended to this question and I think it is on page 11 where he will see that it was not left out, it was included.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Minister say if any of this work is still ongoing or has it ceased at this time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I think most of the jobs that were tendered have been completed.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 212, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 212

No. 212: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what has been the cost to date for the Strategic Planning involving the Health Services and Drug Rehabilitation including any professional or franchising fees.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The answer: To date a total of $79,495.45 has been spent on Strategic Planning for the Health Services and Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation. There are no franchising fees. Professional fees amount to $47,713.36.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say what is included in the professional fees?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The professional fees include training of six local facilitators (that is, people who are resident in the Cayman Islands). Also, the bringing down of most of the training and briefings during the process.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Minister elaborate a bit, if possible, on what constitutes the $79,000 spent on Strategic Planning, what did it really involve to arrive at this total?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As I said, the professional fees for the training of the Caymanians was $47,713.36; consumables, such as office supplies, papers and things which had to be photocopied; hotel rental and accommodation $22,557.10. This amount which seems to be quite sizeable was for the three days spent at the Clarion Hotel when the Planning sessions took place. They were on two separate occasions which is the biggest amount on here. Air travel, $4,616.64; Car rental $258.44; Travel subsistence of $2,356.31.

As a matter of fact, there is a balance of $29,455 which remains available for Strategic Planning in the 1994 Budget, which made up the total, as we requested, of $108,950 for the year.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

(Continuation of the Debate on the Budget Address)

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

First of all this morning I, too, would like to congratulate and welcome the new First Official Member. He has some large shoes to fill, but I am sure he is quite capable of doing so.

I would also like to say that my heart and my prayers are with the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town in his time of illness and his family; I can only say that I wish the best for them at this time.

Continuing my contribution to the Budget Address, this morning I would like to start by touching on a few areas of the address by the Honourable Financial Secretary, and then make a few points which I note in the Estimates.

In the Budget Address on page 9, under Financial and Business Services, I have to raise a question, which I am sure the Honourable Third Official Member will address. He says that the financial and business sector "...contribute much more than the fees received by Government. They have played vital roles in generating employment, training of the indigenous population and many additional spin-offs."

One of the statistics that he quotes is: "During the period March 1993, to March 1994, employment in the financial and business services sector grew by approximately 9%, from 2,875 to 3,030, with the proportion of Caymanians employed, growing from 63% to 73% over the same period."

As much as I wish not to be confused, I do not think that the number of work permits in this area has declined, so a simple clarification would let me understand that.

The Shipping Register continued to grow, as he said. I know that over the past few years there has been some debate regarding this Department. I simply wish to know, while the growth rate is a bit slower than last year, what type of subsidy has had to be forwarded for this department to function. If it is at all possible, I would like to know what type of projected break even point we are looking at, and in summary, what benefits have been derived, either directly or indirectly, and what benefits are envisaged. It is all well and good for us to deem it necessary to have this register. I simply say that at some point in time we have to see some light at the end of the tunnel. This may well be the case, I just do not know, and I would like to know.

Madam Speaker, on page 12, paragraph 9, the Honourable Third Official Member also informed us that "In order to converge all efforts at promoting the Cayman Islands as a premier international financial centre and to crystallize our "blue chip" status in the minds of the international community, a Coordinator of Marketing and Promotions has been appointed to the Portfolio of Finance and Development." I will not talk about this appointment very long, I just think it is very fitting and in order to congratulate the young man in his appointment and I am totally confident that the Government and the Portfolio of Finance and Development will be that much better off with his appointment. I have followed the young man's career and hold him with high regard. I know that under the guidance of our goodly Third Official Member he will do more than is expected.

The Honourable Financial Secretary goes on in his delivery to speak about the promotional initiatives being planned for 1995, within the financial industry. He says these promotional initiatives will "showcase the range of services offered by the Cayman Islands; enlighten the international community about the structure of our Government and the sophistication of our regulatory regimes;"... Outside of the political arena I am pleased to see the stalwart efforts being initiated by the portfolio led by the Honourable Financial Secretary and I am sure that the good results that he has mentioned in his delivery will continue. I have every confidence in that department and I thank God that we do not have to deal with it from a political point of view. I think it is incumbent upon us to allow the portfolio to perform its task to the benefit of us all.

The Honourable Third Official Member made some notes in his delivery about tourism and visitor arrivals being up. I will deal with that area a little bit later on as a combined effort with some other points which I wish to make.

There is a very important point that I wish to deal with for a few minutes. On page 15 of his delivery, the Honourable Third Official Member notes that "The Department of Tourism has developed profiles of its target markets by employing a technique known as "niche marketing." With the aid of a new promotions agent, the Department has pursued a more active marketing campaign... If the performance during the first three quarters of the year is any indication of the success of their efforts then the outlook for 1995, should be very promising. Investor confidence in the tourism market is also up as evidenced by recent unveiling of several proposals for large scale hotel projects." We know of one that is already started.

The good part of that will be talked about, and has been talked about, but there are some problems which I envisage, and I just wish to share my concerns at this point in time.

The first word that I wish to speak about is "infrastructure." The Minister for Tourism and other Ministers have spoken about capital projects and other Government-spending towards infrastructure. What I have not seen—and I cannot work on the premise that it exists simply because I have not seen it; no one has promised to let me see it—is any type of long range planning from the point of view of infrastructure.

If it is the view held by the Government that we have the ability to expand our tourism markets, we have the ability to provide more rooms and fill them. Then while I have heard many things talked about, every time we got into trouble in the past it has been because of a lack of long term planning.

I remember a few years ago there was something which now has a sour taste in the mouths of many, called the "Master Ground Transportation Plan". I happened to have been a member of the Central Planning Authority at that time. I listened carefully to the presentations regarding the plan.

I accept that there were problems with that plan, but while we cannot divorce and throw away the costs from the plan itself, I thought at that time, and I still think, that the end result of the plan itself, whether it be the year 2050, or the 22nd century, was sound.

The point that I make is not that we should simply develop plans that we cannot afford, or we should simply deal with plans as we wish to see it and not take any consideration with the fiscal aspects of the plan, I am simply saying that we need to make that type of plan.

It is very obvious to me that establishing connecting road corridors and making for fluent movement at the end of the day is something that has to be planned. If we deal with this matter as we see fit, when crises arrive, it is going to be just like the many marl pits that we have in this country... if we imagine it as someone once mentioned, to be a human body – I am out of shape as I am, how I would be with all of those marl pits dug all around me.

The parallel is: If we intend to see this country right, as legislators at a national level, we cannot deal simply with the political aspect of making things sound right. We have to do things that we know are right, even at the risk of immediate criticism because it does not please some individuals. It is going to happen daily, more so now by the mere fact that the country seems to be running nicely—to put it in loose terms, money is flowing.

We only have to check our history to know that we run in cycles and at some point in time we get back to where we start over again. We have to depend on many outside factors; we have a history of going up and coming down. My point is: now is the time for us to deal with long-term planning (I am now speaking about infrastructure) and maybe some of the things I am speaking about are already being done. My point is that I do not know about it; I am simply airing my views.

There is another matter regarding the tourism sector. I heard the Minister for Tourism mention in his contribution about training locals to fill positions. This is something that I have advocated for a long time and daily I become a stronger advocate of it.

We mention the rate of unemployment dropping; that rate that is statistically produced is based on the number of job-seekers who go to the Department of Labour to seek a job. I accept, and I look over at the goodly Statistician, but that is the only statistic that can be provided. There are hundreds more [job seekers] who those statistics do not take into consideration because they cannot. And I accept that they cannot. But, there are hundreds more who either do not care, are too proud, are ashamed, or are simply out of it, who are chipping away at the society—many of them without even realising it – and causing us problems that we wish did not exist.

I have had a few conversations with some of the managers of the hotels, in fact, there have been occasions where I have had conversations with one or two of the owners. Let me say this: A year ago, when, supposedly, there was a "clamp down" on work permits in the tourism industry simply because we wanted more Caymanians employed, many of these hoteliers resigned themselves to the fact that in order to appease the situation, they would have to decrease efficiency by 25% to hire Caymanians.

I am not suggesting that is wrong, but it is a lot deeper than that. We stand up and we boast of our up-scale market (that is with our left hand we throw that in the air). We stand up with the mighty right hand and tell the people that we are going to make sure that they are employed. There is a gap. We all want to achieve the two things, but to bridge that gap in order to keep the hotels running efficiently and literally forcing them to employ Caymanians, Caymanians must be capable of doing the jobs that are available in those hotels.

This is not a "today" problem, Madam Speaker, this is not a problem for which one should point fingers, but it is our problem. I make that statement simply to do my little part so that the political directorate and whatever other Government agencies are involved, will look into this matter.

Someone thinks that there should be a proper first class hotel training school. I do not know if we have the capacity to deal with it in that fashion. It seems to me that with the number of visitors we are talking about and with additional hotel rooms coming on line, it might be something to consider.

What I also know for a fact is that the hoteliers are prepared to assist, because whether individuals involved may have their own ideas about it, the truth of the matter is that the costs of work permits and repatriation fees and such the like today, they are almost prohibitive. If we have people who can do the job locally, it is obvious that somewhere down the line they are going to get used to hiring local people. But we have to equip those local people.

If we look at the numbers, the majority of numbers in that industry are the lower paid individuals, not everybody can be the manager. I understand that. The truth of the matter is that we have to devise a method to work hand in hand with that industry so that we can have available methods to train our people so that we can continually fill the posts that become available. If we are going to have new rooms, we are going to have new jobs available.

It makes no sense for us to have new rooms coming available, having the market going in circles—people changing jobs because the new ones seem to be better—it is going to create chaos for us. The person without the employee is going to make application for a work permit and will rightly say he has no one else, and what would they like him to do? Close down? This is what happens to us and we find ourselves in a quandary. It is a market that many of our individuals within this society can find decent jobs, but unfortunately many people do not take kindly to the educational process at an early age and it is only when they realise that they cannot walk in as they please, get up a job and put money in their pockets, that they say, "Oh my God, I wish I had known what I know now when I was in school." It is nothing new. It is possible that some of us in here have gone through that experience. It is possible that I did—I might be speaking from experience. Nevertheless, the point that I am making is that training is very important. Whatever we are doing, my impression there is more that can be done.

The new hotel which comes on line in another 12 months (and this is just to close this line of argument, Madam Speaker, just to draw what I think is a relevant situation) if my understanding is correct, and even if my numbers are a bit out of whack, the principle is still going to apply, it is my understanding that if it has 350 rooms, it is very possible that there will be somewhere between 800 to 1,000 people employed at that hotel. The exact numbers do not really matter. Twelve months from now, how are those positions going to be filled? As a representative of the people, I will sit in the MLA office and I will hear people come in and say; "Kurt, what is my country coming to?"

I will say; "What do you mean?"

"Well, I am trying to get a job at this new hotel, but they are telling me that I cannot get a job."

"What do you know how to do?"

"Well, really, nothing."

This is what we face as a country today. I am not overemphasising this point to make it sound like my people do not have sense. That is not what I am saying. I am saying that there are many among us—and they multiply daily—who have either no chance, or no type of retraining in order for them to be able to support themselves properly.

We cannot look and say who we are going to blame. If they examine their lives and their history, it is very possible that the majority of the blame lies within themselves.

Having them in that position does not help us. These are the things that we have to take pointed steps and make efforts in order to have jobs for our people.

It is a situation of many tiers, I would say three tiers, but it may well be more than that. If as our people come out of school at what I call that tender age; if they have an opportunity (and it is not good enough just to provide it, sometimes you have to go get them and sit them in there) and we get them to where they can see a way of life within themselves, all of the arguments we are having about the police will lessen; all of the arguments we have about the prison will lessen.

When we talk about the police and we talk about the prison, if we take two steps backward, we can stop it before it gets to that point. I may not have said that in the nicest way, but I believe that what I am saying is totally true.

In a statement which the Third Official Member made as part of his contribution, he said; "In fact, many professionals and investors in the industry believe that infrastructural and institutional development, political stability, and unrivalled professional expertise in the financial and tourism sectors are factors which will continue to fuel growth in the real estate market." I believe what he said, and I agree with what he said, that is why I said what I said earlier.

He mentioned in his delivery the uncertainty regarding interest rates and the high cost of insurance, having the ability to stifle some of this potential expansion. He is so right. While I know that it is not easy for me, the Government, the Members of the Backbench, or even the Official Members to actually have any controlling prospects in those two areas, there are players in the game and I also know that there are discussions which are continuing and I can only say to him to ride hard and see what can best be achieved.

I understand the difficulties and I would not be speaking truthfully if I tried to say today that we must be doing something about this and we must be doing something about that, especially in the field of insurance. I do understand the difficulties and I am sure that with continued efforts and a bit of nationalistic thought from the players in the industry, we might be able to find some relief in that field.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Member wish to take the suspension at this time?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.13 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.36 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

During the short break, I realised that I had not quite covered two areas and I want to clarify my thoughts with the hope that they will be understood a bit better.

The first one was the possibility of a hotel training school which I mentioned. I knew that one existed in the past. I just wish to quickly explain that the type of facility that I am talking about might be one that Government might well be able to work hand-in-hand with the movers and shakers in the industry whereby a small facility might be created and actually used for the purpose of tourist accommodation. While providing the necessary services at a very reasonable rate, this would also involve continual training. That is the type of facility that I envisage. I am sure with the demands prevalent today in that industry, that the proprietors of the various hotels may be quite happy to share in this type of venture.

The second thing which I had just briefly touched on was insurance. Specifically in the area of property insurance, I have had several discussions with individuals in that industry and I understand some of the problems that exist. I think that if one were to take all factors into consideration, these people in the industry may well be able to operate in such a fashion whereby they are able to reduce rates reasonably as time goes on, assuming that we do not have any major catastrophes. I do not think that I will bore the Honourable House this morning by trying to be a professional in that area, but it is fairly obvious to me that as time goes on, rates, if they had the will to do so, could be going down on a graduating scale. I rest my case in that area.

When it comes to the Sister Islands, I think everyone knows that I am originally from the Brac and regardless of turns in life I still retain a close affinity. As the First Elected Member stated in his delivery, Cayman Brac needs some type of growth stimulus. I know that there are many obvious reasons why growth has not taken place in the Brac, but it is my view that the Brac has much to offer in tandem with Little Cayman. I think it could be looked at for both islands

I am going to make a brief recommendation to the Government. There may have been ad hoc situations created, like the one I was talking about before, but I believe that Government might do well to create a joint programme involving the Government and the private sector to examine the possibilities of growth in the Sister Islands – growth that would be pleasing to the inhabitants. I believe there is scope for that growth once it is looked at in a fashion whereby both investors and the inhabitants can benefit. I think that while there has been a lot of lip service about it, maybe if they got the right parties interested we could see some positive end results. I would hope that Government and the two elected Members for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman may take credence to what I just said so that we might see something forthcoming in the near future.

As I mentioned before regarding the labour market, where the Honourable Third Official Member mentioned in his delivery that "the number of registered job seekers in the Cayman Islands declined... from 335 to 208." It is my view that what he said was quite true and these figures reflect the number of "registered" job seekers, not necessarily the number of unemployed. I just make that point to strengthen some of the arguments I tried to put down before.

His economic outlook for 1995, as he states, "the growth prospects" appear promising: "If the economy does as well as projected the only cause for concern may be inflationary pressures fuelled by increased economic activity. Economic growth for 1994 is expected to be between 4% and 5% and this is expected to move upward to approximately 6% by year end 1995." Good!

Others may view my job to be different, but I consider it incumbent on me, as a representative of the people, that while all economic indicators may point towards a good year, I think it is important that I point out some difficulties that will come naturally along with this economic growth.

A few years ago when I was on the Central Planning Authority, there was a team from the University of Tennessee who came down as part of an exercise to do some studies. Their projections showed that if our economic growth rate continued the way it was going then (we have had a lot since then), in the 7.5% range by the year 2005 Caymanians would be outnumbered in this country.

That sparks some frightening thoughts in the minds of people, and quite rightly so. It is not that I am trying to suggest that this is something that we should shut off all the valves, get scared about and lock ourselves up in the house and hope for the best. What we must accept at all levels in this country, in every area, is that we cannot have the cake, and eat it too. Every one of us who has direct access to policy making does our best to ensure that there is a reasonable growth rate in order to sustain economic activity, keep people working and hopefully everyone will keep happy.

If we check every statistic that has been produced within the past five years, it will prove me right. I cannot stand here and say when it is going to happen, but eventually there will be more non-Caymanians on these three islands than Caymanians. We will not be able to stop it. Those who vary from this view will have to prove me wrong. I do not base my thoughts on what I dream.

The reason why I make this point is because I have noticed in my going about on a daily basis, that slowly but surely we are creating a society where we have "us" and "them", and there is no worse poison for any society than for that to be allowed to happen.

I will stand here today and say (and mean it) Cayman for Caymanians. But the growth rate that has been sustained, while it fluctuates, has naturally caused the indigenous population in this country to be watered-down. Integration is a natural phenomenon in any part of the world and the Cayman Islands is no exception. If we look around at each of us in this honourable House today, we will see integration. If we check each extended family that exists in these Islands today, we will find that there has been integration. The point is, it is something that we have to accept and plan for. It is something that we have to make work, because I am of the view that there is no turning back.

While that point may not seem to be too relevant, the truth of the matter is: If we do not gear our policies to encompass that integration of which I am speaking about, we will be a failure as a small nation. We will find ourselves in turmoil with hypocrisies and prejudices that we thought were not possible in the hearts of our people. We have to act responsibly in that regard.

If we, as legislators, go through a Budget of $177 million today, and do not take note of this phenomenon in our policy-making and in all other aspects, we are going to have a problem for which there will be no solution.

It is easy for us to say that the other physical things are more important. It is easy for us to say that we must build roads to accommodate the growth. I say that too. But, the intangible point that I am speaking about, I personally feel is as important as any other decision-making process that we take part in within this Government today.

I have long used as my passwords, law, order, and social harmony. These are the keys to the success of any country. I mention those two keys because the problem which I just pointed out is one of the major players which will cause law and order and social harmony to disintegrate—"us" and "them".

I will not mention specifics—not out of fear, but because I do not want to stir up a hornet's nest. But, we only have to look around us and see certain problems with certain types of labour. If you talk to the players in the game this is what you begin to hear—"us" and "them".

It goes on further into Immigration. I know the answers are not simple, but I say today that we can take these estimates, add all of the figures up and make them look right. Each and every one of us can throw the political thoughts through the window and say that this is the biggest budget we have ever had and according to all safe projections it will be balanced; but if we leave matters alone like the one I am talking about now, $177 million will mean nothing.

I do not wish to be a precursor of doom, but these are social aspects in our country that we have to look long and hard at. It is not for me, in fact it is not right for me to stand here and find an individual or a group to blame for it. There are many reasons why it has happened. The fact is, it is here. It is not approaching us, it is here, and it is not like [tropical storm] Gordon who saw it fit to wave us bye-bye before it came—it is here and it is not going to disappear.

I mentioned Immigration because that is a part of the problem. As a country we have brought many people to our shores. We have entertained their presence for many years. Many of them eat side by side with us and rub shoulders with us daily. Many of them we consider our peers. Many of us right here in this Honourable House take advice from them on a daily basis. What have we done with them? I leave it at that.

That is just one of the areas that I speak about when I talk about the integration that has taken place and the problems that have arisen and will continue to arise unless we look carefully into these matters and deal with such matters rather than living in the hope that many people before us lived—that these problems will disappear. They will not.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Member take the luncheon suspension at this time?

Proceedings will be suspended until 2.30 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.58 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.34 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town, continuing.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Continuing, and making my comments in relation to the Budget Address, I also noticed where the Honourable Third Official Member made note in his address about the Ministry for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation. I see where this Ministry has identified a number of areas in which cooperative community development is essential in moving towards a healthier population. Some of the areas considered include: "a comprehensive educational programme aimed at prevention of drug and alcohol abuse and the development of supporting legislation. Also, in recognition of the need for an improved level of health care the Ministry has produced, with staff input, a Master Facilities Plan for the new and modern George Town Hospital with phased implementation to begin in 1995."

I also paid very close attention to the Minister in his delivery and I have a few short comments. There will be overlapping in some of my statements, but there is hardly anything I can do about that because some of the areas that I will talk about do overlap other areas. In the area of prevention of drug and alcohol abuse, the two things come to mind quite readily are the Education system and the Prison.

We have heard about initiatives from time to time being put into place, especially up at Northward Prison—and I am not quite sure exactly how the programme through the Ministry ties in with the operation of the prison facility—but, I hold a view that while prison is a necessary facility, I think that there is still much that can be done after the fact, meaning both in the field of education and also in drug abuse prevention.

I know of a few individuals who have actually complemented the workings in the prison system in the field of education by giving of their time freely. It is my view that if this has not yet been considered, or is not yet in place, a constructive programme can be developed and it has to be during and after incarceration. I give full marks to Mr. McIntyre and the people assisting him in the prison system in the field of education. But because of constraints I do not know of any programme in place for job placement after someone who has committed a crime against society and has paid his dues, completed his tenure in prison.

On many occasions people become repeat offenders. Many times I have had people come to me and say that they have just come out of prison and have been to the Labour Office trying to get a job, but people are very afraid to hire them. I understand that and I think it is fair comment to say that anyone, including myself, would have apprehensions about hiring – what should I call them – ex-convicts?

But, if a system were in place where programmes were set up which involved the Chamber of Commerce; or with businesses that are of high labour intensity; if people were able to be recommended by those involved in this programme; I am sure that employers would be more willing to take the risks if they were followed-up afterward, by those people initiating the programme checking on the ex-prisoners to make sure that they are doing all right and making sure that the necessary counselling and backup services are in place.

These are not new initiatives, but I believe that as a society we should be concentrating on doing all that is necessary to ensure that people who get caught in the trap (and the majority of them are simple users, there are some who go to the other level where they become pushers and they are of a different kettle of fish because most of the time they do not actually use it, they look at it as a commercial venture) and who we find being real problems in our society are those people whom I am saying that more can be done for. Not everyone will be successful, I accept that. But I am sure that if we are able to have something firmly in place, not something that is a voluntary exercise, but something that is in place where there is a natural transition period, many of these people might not be the repeat offenders they are. The statistics prove that the majority of cases in Court which are drug-related, either directly or indirectly, are committed by repeat offenders.

So I think it is important that we head in that direction, not on a basis of we will see what we can do, but put a programme together because I believe that that money would be well spent in that direction and it would cause us not to have to spend money in other directions in the long run.

The Honourable Third Official Member spoke about the Master Facilities Plan for the new modern George Town Hospital. As I listened to the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation, I recall and if I am to be totally honest today, I am still not 100% sure which one of the proponents is totally right and which is all wrong, or exactly what conclusion to come to. There is one thing I know: This country lacks facilities, terribly. I think it is a fair statement to say that the people of this country, both the residents and those who pass through these shores, deserve a facility that is much better than the one that we have. The Government of the day has spoken about the Master Facilities Plan and from all indications, implementation will begin in 1995.

The way that I have to look at it is that I cannot be fair to this country and speak forever about the wrong, about what is to be done, or the right about what was to be done, or visa versa. I just know that we need it. I have a few problems that come to mind that I am assuming will be addressed, but I will nevertheless make mention of them simply for the powers that be to take what I say and throw it aside or pick out of it what makes sense. I think that it is worrisome in a phased project at the existing facility of how the facility is going to function properly during this time. I have not seen the plan so I do not know how it is going, but I am hearing what I think are valid and genuine concerns.

It appears to me, from smaller experiences, that whenever you have to go about doing renovations within a confined area, disruption is a natural occurrence. How much disruption, or how able the construction crew will be, is another matter. I just hope that it is looked at and the disruption will be contained as best as is possible.

The other point I wish to make, which is not really a separate issue, is one of traffic. I do not know if anything has been discussed with regard to having any other entrance to the new facility when it is completed. I find the location of the entrance where it is now, frightening. And as time goes on, more and more the ambulance and other vehicles have to be in and out moving at a fast speed. That four-way intersection, while drivers are very careful, to me it is a very difficult situation for the long term. If a new facility is going to be done in that location, I am sure that we are looking at a long-term project and one which is going to cater to the people of this country for years to come. I think it is very important to look at that area of traffic. It would be ideal in my mind to have something of that nature decentralised. But, if that is what is going to happen, then we at least need to try to look at it in order to do the best we can.

I also hope that whatever construction there is, the fact that 600 feet of runway is going to be able to be used now, will be under serious consideration. I have not seen it, but I understand that there might be some multi-storey building involved in the renovations and the Master Facilities Plan. And I think it is only right for the people of this country that any structure of that nature be put as far as possible away from the path of the planes. It is a simple point, but I do not know what is being done, so I simply have to say it.

The other area that I wish to touch on in the Budget Address is the fact that we have a total budget in excess of $177 million and to my mind we have not looked at increasing our reserves to any mean proportion.

While statements that I make may seem to be contradictory to each other, let me say this: As a representative of the people I will be crying out for services in different areas for the Government to look at doing this, that and the next thing, to make sure that people of the country get what we rightly deserve and I know that that costs money. But, at the same time, I also hold the view that while you must 'make hay while the sun shines', you should prepare for a rainy day. I cannot quantify a figure, but somewhere a few years ago I heard (I do not know if this is exactly true) that the best position a small developing country can be in is to have in reserves what its recurrent expenditure would be for approximately three months.

In this day and age that is a fairly large sum of money and I do not necessarily subscribe to the belief that that is a realistic figure to look at today. But, I do believe that we should be looking at making real contributions to our reserves so that we feel a bit more comfortable, especially in light of the fact that all budgets presented at any time give subjected figures. While indicators may run true on many occasions, there are times when short falls will occur and although we have the blessing of having capital expenditure involved and we have the ability to cut short on capital expenditure, if the money is not flowing in the way that it is projected to flow, we can still find ourselves in some problems if we are not careful.

So, as I speak to the Honourable Third Official Member, I am certainly not trying to pretend to know his job, but I only base my thoughts on a national level on my personal experiences. Maybe he will clip my wings when he replies, but at least I will have a better feeling for his thoughts on the matter.

At the beginning of 1994, the General Reserves was $3.6 million and at the end of 1994, it is expected to total $4 million, exclusive of interest, of course. He has outlined some possibilities where there will be some small increases in those General Reserves, but in the meantime they are still hypothetical. Maybe we would feel a bit better if we had an exact figure to look forward to.

There is the issue of the Public Service Pension Fund which was mentioned. I could take whatever stand I wish, but not being as powerful as I would like to be sometimes, I have to resort to my safe zone on matters such as this.

What I do know for a fact, is that the pension fund balance for many years has been nowhere near what it should be. The fact that Government has taken the initiative to increase that fund at a higher rate than has been, I would have to say is in the best interest of the country. It can be argued that the fact that Government is putting an additional 2% of civil servants' salaries out of the coffers towards the pension and taking 1% more from the civil service salaries to make the total from 8% to 11%, and I am not waffling on this issue, I am simply stating that the fact that Government is doing twice the amount of the 1% additional that is being taken from the civil service salaries is a step in the right direction in my view. What is in the fund is certainly disproportionate to what is liable. While we expect normal life spans and retirement ages and such the like which affect the draw down on that fund, the truth is that it needs to be more on par with having the fund with the ability to pay out more if necessary.

Now we come to the issue that Honourable Third Official Member will be making many notes about, before I am through. I will do my best to deal with it.

I notice that the 1995 Budget provides for revenue enhancement measures in two specific areas that are expected to provide additional revenues of approximately $4.6 million. Since the debate on the Budget Address started, I have seen a bill which appears to be one of the two areas expected to provide this additional revenue; that is the Amendment to the Hotel Accommodation Law (I cannot remember the exact name, but it has to do with hotel accommodation tax).

That means to me that there is another area which there will be another bill for. But the real problem that I have with that is: As one-fifteenth of the collected vote in this honourable House, what I am being told here is that the Government is totally confident that these measures will pass. That when a Budget was created it did not matter whether these measures were brought and debated beforehand or not.

Now, whatever reply comes, I am sure that it will be plausible. I have to speak on what I consider a matter of principle. As one of the representatives of the people of this country, I have not had an opportunity to examine closely this bill or the other one which I know nothing about—and I have not even been able to hear marl road rumour. So I have no idea what it is about—it says to me that the process of national legislation...

POINT OF ORDER (Anticipation)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: On a Point of Order, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of Order?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I am rising on the Point of Order of anticipation. The Member is continuing about this bill that is before the House. I do not think the Standing Orders allow him to carry on in that vein.

The Speaker: The Point of Order is well taken.

Fourth Elected Member, would you continue your debate and omit any discussion on the bill that is coming before the House?

Thank you.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: My apologies, Madam Speaker. That was done totally out of ignorance. However, I wish to continue on the Budget Address delivered by Financial Secretary. As I said before, plausible explanations may come, but I have to speak on what I see and have to work with.

I think that if revenue measures are to be part of projected income for a budget those revenue measures should be brought to this Honourable House, discussed as they usually are, go through passage of law and then they can become a part of the Budget.

I am not alluding to any editorials from any newspapers. Before I saw any editorials, I had the thought that I am expressing now and the fact is, I have already expressed that thought to some people across the floor from me.

Madam Speaker, my point is not whether the revenue measures are all in good order. My point is that I am expected to debate: If I am a good citizen and expect to play my part in the approval of this Budget, and in all honesty I do not know what I am approving (others may know and I do not have a problem with that), then I have to discuss the matter while I stand here.

Let me just back up for a second. If I do not have a problem with this, it means that whatever those revenue measures are that come to this House I cannot have a problem with those when they come. It means that I have to run the risk of saying to people that I represent, that I knew nothing about this thing but it was all right with me. Call it what it may, I have to deal with it as I see it and I am saying that I believe that this matter should be dealt with in a different fashion.

The revenue measures may well be in order, but, as I said, I do not know what they are, what they represent, and as a result – on a matter of principle – I have a very serious problem with that.

Moving on to some of the areas which we have to vote funds for: On page 61 of the Estimates, and if I may ask before I get caught in a trap this afternoon, am I allowed to discuss any parts of the estimates, like the Mission Statements? I am asking if...

The Speaker: I think you would be in order to do that.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The basics to one of the estimates under the sub-heading of the Police, the Mission Statement is an all encompassing one which reads: "To preserve public peace and tranquillity; prevent crime and where crime is committed to detect and prosecute offenders; interdict against the supply and consumption of illicit drugs; and maintain safety on the roads."

In the section of non-achievements, number 2 reads: "Some new vehicles were supplied but not to Police specifications and our vehicle situation remains poor."

Madam Speaker, all a matter of opinion: Everyone else holds theirs, but I wonder seriously if we should not be looking in this area with a bit more information to assist.

I notice a very small point. The Honourable Third Official Member may be able to rectify it since it is so small. I noticed that the Drug Task Force also requested a microwave which costs $250. I can well understand the need for that because I know that on many occasions they work odd hours and many times they have to put their meals down for hours on end and then try to get a chance to eat it. Unless I am reading it incorrectly, the request has been denied. It is only $250. They do have weird working hours and I think that small creature comfort, might well assist in making their life a bit more tolerable.

When I get to Head 20—Fire Service—there is nothing much to say except that as usual that department is being run efficiently. I know the Chief Fire Officer over the years has had many politicians to deal with and I think every one of them can attest to his forceful manner to get his needs satisfied. I think that department is well on track. I think we would all be minded to get a good understanding of how he has been able to have a full complement of Caymanians.

Madam Speaker, under Head 22—Environment—I wish to personally applaud and congratulate the Head of that Department. I noticed recently that there are some people employed by that department driving the garbage trucks, some working on the back of the garbage trucks, who one might well have said would never fit back properly into our society. I know several of them personally. To see them everyday, willing to go, ready and able, I feel nothing but pride. I think that everyone involved should be congratulated because it had to be a bold step. I make mention of this not just to congratulate the individual or a department, but to say that it is initiative and innovation of this order that will make the difference in our country in the future.

It seems like a small number of people, but it is that number less that we will have to worry about. It is that many more who will make positive contributions to our society, just by example, if nothing more; just by being an ordinary somebody who works for a living.

I mentioned earlier on about retraining and I also mentioned unemployment. What I forgot to mention was that while the unemployment rate may have lowered itself (thank God for that) by way of the statistics this year, it is a fact by study that between the ages of 15 and 24, unemployment in this country is approximately 20%. There is where our problems lie. Whatever we are doing, whatever policies are being put in place, that is what we have to home-in on if we are going to reap benefits now and down the line.

I also notice under the objectives for 1995 for the Department of the Environment, that one of them is to reduce odour nuisance at the sanitary landfill by March of 1995 at a cost of $100,000. I thank God and all concerned that that is recognised as something which needs to be attended to. It is certainly a nuisance to some residents and I think that while it is debatable who existed first, if both can coexist and become compatible that is certainly the best solution.

Under the Ministry responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture, let me say first of all that at whatever risk it may be, or even if sometimes that Minister and I are at opposite ends of the pole, I do support sports. I have firm beliefs in the merits of sports programmes and facilities. I have tried my best to keep up with what the Ministry is doing. I certainly do not have it all 'down pat' with regard to the total expenditure on sports and any questions of prioritising, but, as a basic concept, I certainly support sports programmes and initiatives and I will continue to do so, within reason.

Under the 1994 achievements, the Ministry has initiated, the Government guaranteed mortgage scheme for low to middle income Caymanians. I stood in this House on more than one occasion and I had battles of words. Depending on what occurs, they might come again. One thing that I feel that I can rightly say, is that my concerns were justified. What I have seen as the end result has involved some changes and if questions are answered, and people are informed, sometimes less conflicts may occur.

The Member for North Side made a statement regarding this to the tune that there was opposition to it initially, only because it was something good. I do not take great exception to the statement, but I wish to categorically state that I differ with that statement because I can assure her and everybody else that if I am in my sound senses and have full knowledge of any programme that Government is initiating for the good of this country, I will certainly not try to block it just to be heard.

Under the Social Services section, in the objectives for 1995, number nine is to facilitate the completion of study on the causes of crime in the Cayman Islands. Number 12 is to examine and advise on the propriety and effectiveness of present arrangements for rehabilitation of prisoners. Number 14 is to plan provision as necessary for serious young offenders, both in terms of remand and rehabilitation including work toward development of a programme or national youth service.

These are the objectives for 1995, and I can only say in pointing those three out, that I trust that they will come to reality because the three areas that I mentioned are of tantamount importance to me and society.

In the non-achievement section of Social Services, the provision of Drug Rehabilitation Residential Services to 30 clients was not met due to transfer of Cayman Counselling Centre to the newly created Ministry of Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation in 1994.

I understand the statement, but at some point in time I would like to fully understand the new role (if it is a new role) of the Cayman Counselling Centre. One might say that I could easily ask the Minister. But I think this is something that while it may have been talked about before, it might well serve a good purpose for public knowledge.

Under Trade and Labour, one non-achievement of 1994 was improved compliance with the Labour Law was burdened because of manpower constraints. That is something that I would like to hear about.

Under the objectives for 1995, one of them is to improve compliance with the Labour Law by 50% by December 1995 at no additional cost. I would also like to hear about that. Another one is to establish a service for counselling for lesser skilled, or unskilled persons by October 1995 at no additional cost.

That objective is all well and good and that may serve its own primary purpose, but a service for counselling for lesser skilled and unskilled persons is only a temporary relief; we need those persons trained to do some type of job.

The next objective is to improve the job placement system by June 1995. I mentioned the two together because any counselling can only be temporary relief, as I said before, we need to find jobs that these people can perform.

Under the Ministry of Health, one of the 1994 achievements was the establishment of staffing the new ministry and I am confident that the staff in that Ministry are doing a good job. It is also embracing the Cayman Counselling Centre. I mention that to tie in what I said before simply as a matter of our understanding exactly what is happening.

Under the objectives for 1995, number four is to implement with the approval of the Legislative Assembly a revised National Health Insurance scheme by November 30, 1995.

Under the outlined programme for 1995, number four reads: "In collaboration with Government Information Services and Health Insurance Providers, initiate publicity on revised national health insurance scheme by May 31, 1995; adapt operations at the George Town Hospital and train two cashiers in new collection system by November 30, 1995."

Under the performance indicators or targets, number four reads: "National Health Insurance scheme operational by November 30, 1995." Thank God.

For whatever the difficulties were and the differences philosophically, I think each and every one of us accepts that a National Health Insurance scheme is vitally necessary for this country.

I need not go into much of the gory details, but suffice it to say that the longer we drag on without a national health insurance scheme, the longer it is going to take us to have proper medical facilities in this country. After all of the good ideas come to mind it all comes down to money—and it does not grow on trees. It never did.

I dare say that the now Minister would almost wish that he had come into his ministry with a National Health Insurance scheme existing. That has not been the case. I do not envy his task. I would love to be able to say to him that I want to see it before then, but the fact is that for nearly two years we have been asking about it, simply because we all want it. Those who have to put it in place properly have the headache of making sure it is done right.

Let me say this, for what it is worth: I respect the fact that it might not be all right when it comes into place. I know the Minister may have fears and apprehension about making sure that it is right. But if I may be so bold as to give him a simple word of advice: It will never be right when it starts, but it will never start if you wait until it is right.

I say that to be quoted. Let that Minister know that even if I find things that are wrong, it has no bearing on whether he should get it going. It must get going. We can talk about the wrong things afterwards. We can see what else we have to do to make it right, but I say let us get it going because the country needs it.

Under Health Services the one point that I would like to quickly touch on is one of the non-achievements in 1994. Staff training was not met due to lack of funds. I hope that that has been taken into consideration this time around.

The Ministry of Agriculture, Communications and Works. Under the review of the 1994 achievements of the Ministry, number five says: "The Ministry successfully negotiated street lighting programmes with Caribbean Utilities Company." It would be unfair for me to say that a lot of street lights have not been put up, especially in the general area of the George Town district and other districts. But, I have a wild scheme, I have had it for a while and I have talked about it before, I am going to say it again – maybe one of these days when everything else fails, someone might think it makes sense. I know that there are approximately 15,000 customers of Caribbean Utilities Company Limited. These people are both private and commercial and they get bills every month. I do not know about other representatives, but on an almost daily basis, I have requests from individuals in the various subdivisions and other areas for a street light. Many people feel a lot safer with a street light near them and most of the requests to my mind are genuine, because 'an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.'

The scheme that I am talking about involves $1.00 per month. If an agreement was made with individual subscribers paying $1.00 per month and the commercial subscribers paying $2.00 per month, added onto their bills, but separately indicated, and people knew what they were paying that money for, that would probably net close to a quarter million dollars a year.

If that money were directly allocated to street lighting, in my humble view it would not take long before we would be caught up and very soon we would be in a position as development continues, to also bring in line the necessary lighting. It is not a complicated scheme, it is one that others may have difference with, but it is a simple one and I believe that it just might work if one were to use it.

There is also a second point that I would ask the Honourable Third Official Member to clarify for me. Under the summary of existing 1995 proposed establishment, both under the Ministry of Youth, Sports and the rest of it, and under the Ministry of Agriculture, there is a post of the Manager of the AIDB. I do not understand whether that is an error or whether half of the funds for that post are being paid by each Ministry – I see it showing up twice and I just wondered about it.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, would you take a suspension at this time?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.43 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.06 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town, continuing.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

To continue, under the Head of Agriculture, I see in the objectives that there is a plan to relocate the existing Department of Agriculture to a new site, at the Lower Valley Farm by December 1995. There is also a plan to reinstate a Tree Crop Husbandry Programme, which I think is very good, and the improvement of services at the Farmers Market is also a step in the right direction.

The Farmers Market by its co-operative effort is one that I think is very good to act as the holding tank for the produce of the farmers in the country. I am pleased to see that the local supermarkets now support local farmers and I think that with proper management there is room for more produce being taken. I also believe that as volume increases, so too will prices stabilise and these prices will come more in line with the prices that the wholesalers are able to import the same goods for. I think that has been the main problem and the initiatives of the Farmers Market are slowly but surely bringing that matter in line which will naturally be conducive for farmers to farm more and reap more.

The Postal Department deserves mention. I think that the objectives for 1995 are certainly well in line. For those who will listen, the objectives are simple, straight forward: 1) To reorganise the Postal Service in the three Islands; 2) To reclaim market share lost to international couriers; 3) To improve public relations image with the public; and 4) To improve working conditions for staff. These are all pertinent areas for the service to be looking at. I think the lady who is at the helm is very capable. I know she is hard-working, she has dedicated staff and if these objectives can be met I am sure the service will be improved and in doing so while it means money spent, revenue will also improve proportionately. If we look at the statistics from the Post Office, we will see that it is a fairly good revenue earner as it is. I am sure that with the new initiatives this will be enhanced even more.

Education: I was at the opening of the Education Week ceremonies this morning and was very pleased to hear of some of the ongoing initiatives. I am especially pleased to understand that there are plans to initiate the training of a Registrar for CXC by September 1995. Also under the objectives for 1995, it is intended to develop and maintain a relationship between the Ministry, the Education Department, the Caribbean Examinations Council (that is the CXC Council), establishing a point of reference for up-to-date local sources of information on the CXC examinations.

I would not be truthful if I did not say that at one time I had some fears regarding the CXC exams—not fear about the exam, but fears about the life-span of those exams. It is comforting to note from these objectives that there must be long term plans for these exams. I think they are very relevant. I am proud to know that the students did so well in the first year of sitting. I think it is obvious from those results that we can move from strength to strength. These exams are recognised, so we do not have a problem in that area.

There are two points I wish to mention in the field of education. It is an old song of mine and I am going to sing it again. I am very close to the QUEST Programme, which has been instituted and is ongoing in the public school system. But I feel strongly that there should be some further initiatives at primary level with drug education. I do not know whether the answer is to amalgamate it with the programme that I mentioned before, or whether it is one which the Department and the Ministry can involve other agencies on a more regular basis. I guess it is something to think about. I honestly believe that at the primary level today the children are ready for drug education on a regular basis.

I noticed, not too long ago, I think the Customs Drug Task Force was doing some visiting in some of the schools showing different ways in which they operate. I think the message was clear, that is, the danger of drugs. That was well received by one and all. I heard parents and children talk about it – my own children talked about it. I have also heard a few teachers talking about it. Point in hand: it may be something that can be done on a more regular basis involving other agencies dealing in the same way. This is food for thought.

There is one frightening statistic. I do not stand here today having a cure for it because I am certain that the problem is much further reaching than where it has identified itself. But in an answer to parliamentary questions given recently, it manifested itself to me, and it concerns me greatly, at the John Gray High School, where the number of students enrolled is 567, between September 1993 and June 1994, 109 students were suspended. This is nearly 20% of the entire school. That is frightening.

I do not know of any other previous statistics; I do not know whether that is a decrease from last year, or from years before, or whether it is an increase. But the fact is, it is frightening and it points to me more so on things that I spoke about earlier on where we have problems.

While I do not have the answers today, I think it is something that needs to be seriously looked into. There might have to be issues taken to task beforehand, because certainly, at the age where this is happening, impressions have already been made, dies have already been cast and certainly any curative measures at this stage have become more difficult.

I am not suggesting that teachers are at fault at this level, but I do know for a fact that this is a problem that we cannot leave alone. We can talk about all of the good results, and I feel good when I see good results, especially in the public system—it gives me faith in that system. But a statistic of this nature is a frightening one.

I was not able to get previous statistics. As I said before, whether or not they show a decrease or an increase, the fact is that it displays the social problems which are frightening. Our adults of tomorrow—20% of those that are in the public system—have said that the society is wrong.

These end results tell me that it is a rebellious nature which causes situations like this to arise and the disciplinary actions having to be taken. It sends a clear message to me that somewhere along the line something is not being done right. It might take someone with access to other facts and figures to be able to pinpoint exactly how to deal with this, but the point that I am making this late in the afternoon is that this is something that is not to be hidden, covered up or afraid to be discussed—it is here and it is frightening.

The paradox in that situation is that we have had great results at the exam level, but here we have almost 20% of the students having to be suspended. Chances are (and I am guessing here) that several of those students suspended may have done well in the exams. I bring this point out just to create an awareness that it is something that needs to be addressed.

It is probably something that simply at the education level at the high school is not really the answer, because I am sure that the students getting into those problems at the high school did not start with those problems entering high school. It may be a state of affairs at home. It may be a way of life that the growth and the economy has created that has caused parental guidance to be lessened, thus the lack of discipline. It may be that, and more.

I would venture to say that I have only touched the edge of the reasons. I wish not to speculate because I do not know all the facts. I pointed out the fact that it is there and I think we need to have a serious look in that area.

I am pleased to note in the Objectives for 1995 (I also heard the Minister this morning in his delivery at the opening of Education Week discuss it), that the first objective is to establish a School and Pre-School Inspectorate by December 1995. He touched on the pre-school inspectorate and I think that positive results are showing.

In the Outline Programme for 1995, number three is: "Liaise with Public Service Commission and the Personnel Department regarding recruitment of staff; Action by Senior Education Officer Monitoring and Planning; Chief Education Officer to monitor and review." I am not 100% sure that I quite understand what this means. There is probably something else that it leads up to, or from, that I do not have a full grasp. If it is to deal with teacher recruitment, then I would like to know exactly what the policy for recruitment is based on the external examinations that we are dealing with at this time.

The other point that I would like to mention has to do with an answer to a question wherein the Minister for Education outlined full scholarships for qualified people who wish to qualify as teachers. I think there are full scholarships available for anyone locally who qualifies for tertiary education in that field. I do not have all of the statistics regarding local teachers compared to foreign nationals who have been hired, but I am glad to hear that these scholarships are available.

I would like to go a step further. I think that our own people, once they are qualified, are definitely the best to be able to impart the knowledge to our students. I think that would go for anywhere. I understand that we have not had as many locally, to fill the posts, and overseas recruitment is done on a regular basis. I also take my hat off to several of the foreign nationals who have been here for many years, who have made themselves part of the system and who continually excel in their fields as teachers. But I believe that we need to do more to get our people motivated to become teachers.

The scholarships available a year ago totalled 103. Fifty percent of those were business and 16% were in the field of education. That is a rough estimate. I say that while we are doing the right things to motivate Caymanians to become teachers we must find other means to increase this percentage. I will not try to suggest that the salary scale is not in line. I do believe that there might be some disparity with professional jobs in the private sector and teaching.

But there is one thing that I feel we can do, and it is my thought—not necessarily to be subscribed to, but hopefully—I am of the understanding that when overseas recruitment takes place, there are perks which are deemed necessary which are over and above what local teachers get as salary. This view may be slightly radical, but I believe that if it is necessary to put the local staff on line with the overseas recruited staff in that regard, then let us do it.

I am told that from long ago, the concept was that if we were going to expect people to leave their country to come here to do a job, there has to be some special incentive. I do not know if we have ever compared with the other countries from which we recruit, what the salaries are to ours, compared to the cost of living, et cetera, to really see if what we offer, ordinarily speaking, is sufficient or not. But I subscribe to the thought process that whether the person is coming from somewhere else or whether the person is from this territory, that it might well be sensible for us to be thinking that all the salaries and the other benefits derived are on par.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION—4.30 PM

The Speaker: It is now 4.30, Honourable Member. I do not expect you will be finishing this evening.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: May I ask for the Motion for the Adjournment? The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment and Planning, Leader of Government Business.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM WEDNESDAY, 23 NOVEMBER 1994.

WEDNESDAY
23 NOVEMBER 1994
10.08 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Second Official Member to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly. Questions to Honourable Ministers and Members. Question 209 stands in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 209

No. 209: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Communications and Works what provision Government has made for the services of a Roads Engineer since the termination of the services of Mr. Noel Mowbray.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: The post of Roads Engineer, which was occupied by Mr. Noel Mowbray, has not been filled. Two (2) road engineers have been taken on short-term (six month contracts) to assist with the supervision of roads projects. Some design work has been carried out by the private sector. This has been necessary because of the current heavy workload in the Roads Department.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister elaborate on what sources in the private sector this design work comes from?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker. The design, as I understand it, has been done by Quarry Products.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister elaborate on the arrangements between Quarry Products and his Ministry with regard to this design work, and state specifically who in Quarry Products was responsible for this work?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Absolutely no one in the Ministry. The Department of Public Works made whatever arrangements have been made.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say which officer/officers in the company of Quarry Products took part in the design work, and is he in a position to elaborate as to the quantity of work?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Absolutely not, Madam Speaker. The Roads Department of Public Works happens to be the professional area that deals with this sort of thing. I do not get involved in the day-to-day operations of Public Works.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: One would assume that it falls under the Honourable Minister's Ministry... I am asking, Madam Speaker, if he is in a position to give the House some idea as to what this design work included—which roads were taken into consideration, which roads were worked on and also the amount involved?

The Speaker: I am afraid I do not think the Honourable Minister assumed that this would be part of the supplementary and would not at this time, I am sure, be in a position to reply. But perhaps he may undertake to do so if he wishes to reply.

Honourable Minister?

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, you are quite correct. I do not see the relevance of the supplementary. But I would like to say that it is my understanding that most of the engineering work was done by the Public Works Department and it was only a certain part of it that was sub[contracted] out to Quarry Products.

The Speaker: Second Elected Member Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister say if the engineer of Quarry Products who did some of this work, was the former Public Works Department engineer, Mr. Noel Mowbray?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I think the Honourable Member knows this as well as I do, that this is the same Mowbray, as I understand it, who worked for Public Works Department. However, I would like to point out, again, that the contract/arrangement is with Quarry Products not with Mowbray.

QUESTION NO. 210

The Speaker: The next question is No. 210, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

No. 210: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Communications and Works if he would make a statement regarding the Government's proposed independent audit of Caribbean Utilities Company Limited.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The answer is yes. I have already made the statement.

QUESTION NO. 211 DEFERRED

The Speaker: The next question is No. 211, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

No. 211: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture what is the Government's position regarding increasing the amount of assistance offered to the indigent.

The Speaker: I observe that the Honourable Minister has not yet arrived. If he does so before the end of Question Time, we will revert to Question No. 211.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 171

The Speaker: Deferred question No. 171 also stands in the name of the Minister who is absent.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 181

The Speaker: Deferred question No. 181, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

No. 181: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs to state: (a) what is the present average daily cost to the country for the upkeep of the Cuban refugees at Tent City; and (b) what has been the total cost since the influx of these people began a few months ago.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 181 (Second Time—Standing Order 23(5))

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, I would like to seek leave of this honourable House under Standing Order 23 (5) to further defer this question. There was a problem with the officer dealing with it in getting an answer. The person has been ill, and the information was not ready in time for this morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the answer be deferred until a later sitting during this meeting. I shall put the question, those in favour please Aye...Those against No.

AYES AND NOES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 181 DEFERRED (A second time) UNTIL A LATER SITTING DURING THIS MEETING.

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 201

The Speaker: The next question is being asked of the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture, who is absent and accordingly will be [further] deferred.

QUESTION NO. 206

The Speaker: The next question is No. 206, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

No. 206: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Environment and Planning when does Government expect to establish the post of "Complaints Commissioner" as provided in the 1993 Amendment to the Cayman Islands Constitution.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The National Team recommended to the United Kingdom Government that the amendments to the 1972 Constitution should include a provision for a position of Complaints Commissioner. That recommendation was accepted by the United Kingdom and is now part of our Constitution. The post of Complaints Commissioner will be established in due course.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Has the Government as of this time made any attempts to investigate this particular area of work, that of a complaints commissioner as set down in the Constitution, to see whether there are persons who might take up such appointment?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, the matter has been discussed among ourselves, but we have not dealt in great depth with it.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister say if there is any accurate definition in time for the term "due course"?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, in all humility, it is when we decide that it should be done.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Is it not correct, Honourable Minister, that the purpose of the MLA Offices was to meet the needs in having complaints taken to the different MLA offices in the various areas?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, the answer to the question by the Third Elected Member for George Town is "Yes." We have established MLA offices in a majority, if not all, of the districts in order to hear complaints from our constituents, and we act accordingly.

The question of Complaints Commissioner is a formal position within Government and that decision has not been taken as yet.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: As a matter of clarifications, can the Honourable Minister say if the elected representatives in George Town, or within the National Team Government, are assuming the role of Complaints Commissioner?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, the answer is obviously not! We cannot ourselves be the Complaints Commissioner under the Constitution. But we can make ourselves available to a constituent who has complaints which they want to air, and we can hear those complaints and take action accordingly.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Government Business, continuation of the debate on the Second Reading of the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town continuing.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In continuing the final lap of my contribution to the Budget Address and the Estimates, as I go further into the Estimates I see where there are provisions in 1995 for construction and repairs to various roads in all the districts. For all five districts in Grand Cayman there is a sum of $400,000, and for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman there is a figure of $320,000. The principle I see being applied here is certainly not one that I have any gripes with, but I wish to make an observation regarding the way the amounts have been determined.

It seems to me that requirements in the various districts will vary in quantity, and I wondered if it might not have been better suited for the entire country to look at these allotments parallel to the population within the constituencies. I am not trying to take away anything from any district. I am simply saying that, for instance, in the district of George Town (which I represent), these roads are used the most on a daily basis and many of the inhabitants of the other districts travel these roads on a daily basis going to work and taking children to and from school, et cetera. I thought that the allotments might vary according to the righteous needs that may possibly be considered.

Madam Speaker, I notice also that there is an amount of $80,000 for the construction of a concrete docking or bulk-head at the George Town Bacadere. I think this is a needed improvement: I hope that this is really done. And when it is done, I trust that via Customs and/or the Port there can be some use put to the facility whereby it becomes an income earner. I am sure this can be achieved as there are many vessels which use the North Sound at present which would wish to utilise proper docking facilities in this location.

Madam Speaker, when we reach the section on the Estimates that tells us about work to be done at the Northward Prison, I notice that there is in excess of $600,000 worth of capital works being proposed. As the amounts are divided and explanations are forthcoming with the notes, I think that the majority of things I see here to be done are in order. But I have to repeat a statement which I made earlier in my debate regarding training of inmates and follow-up services with job placements afterwards.

I do trust that while the physical needs of the Prison Service are being attended to, that parallel to that will be attention paid to the other needs which I personally consider as important or more important than upgrading of the physical facilities.

Madam Speaker, there is an amount in the Estimates also for the renovation and remodelling of the Court's Office Building—$560,000. I just wish to draw two things to the attention of all Members. One deals with dollars and cents, and the other I will deal with as soon as I am completed with [number one].

If we look in the [Estimates], the areas that deal with Law Enforcement: Convictions and incarceration (which are basically from the beginning of a crime being committed, the person being caught, going to court and being sentenced) it is nigh on to $15 million that this country spends, or is spending, in this budget for that type of activity.

The point that I make is certainly not trying to say that these amounts are not necessary. I am simply drawing to the attention of all concerned, including myself, that $15 million is what we will be spending. I do not anticipate in any future budget for it to lessen, unless we have some other results in other areas which may cause for less needs, this amount tell us that the wrongs in our society are multiplying. It sends us a message. It is my opinion that we need to backtrack to determine the causes, not just try to stem the flow by way of punishment and interdiction. We need to go back to really determine why these things are happening in our society.

In another area, we look at the answer to a recent Parliamentary Question in this House, where the question asked what the total number of Caymanians versus non-Caymanian civil servants broken down by nationality and department was. When we look at the total figures we see that of 1,901 civil servants there are 1,222 Caymanian, and 679 non-Caymanian. If we bring a percentage to that it means that approximately 36% of the civil servants in this country are non-Caymanian. I am not suggesting that these non-Caymanian civil servants are not deserving of their posts, certainly not. I know many of them, and I have high regard for many of them. The point that I wish to make here, Madam Speaker, is: Are we on the right track for our indigenous population in the area of training?

Madam Speaker, as growth takes place in this country on a continuously steady basis, there will be more employment; there will be the need for more individuals not just in the civil service, but in all areas. But at this particular time I am addressing the civil service. If we look back historically (and I do not have all the figures at hand), I think it is fair comment to say that this ratio has not decreased tremendously in recent years. I will not go so far as to say that it has increased tremendously because I really do not know. But I think it is fair comment to say that it has not decreased tremendously.

Now, this means for us, that growth has taken place and we have found the need for specifically qualified services and we have not taken time out to put ourselves in gear so that our own people can deal with it. We are dealing with this matter after the fact. This is not a today problem. This is something that has continued for many years.

I understand the difficulty of dealing with it because on the one hand we wish to enhance and upgrade efficiency continuously, and at the same time we are wondering how we are going to slow things down enough so that our people will be on track to fill these posts. I understand the difficulty. But I suggest here today that if we do not take a serious look in that direction and make seriously positive steps to have a situation where the balance continues to be in the favour of our people, then we are only creating problems over which we will soon have no control.

I simply make that statement with the hope that the powers that be see merit in the thought process and will, should I say, act accordingly in the near future.

I understand that this is not a process that one can turn around overnight. But I also believe that unless we are thinking in the same way continuously, we will not lean towards having that situation regularised. I think that in developing countries the accepted norm for situations like this (where we have what we call a healthy one, namely, a healthy ratio of foreign nationals in the labour force including the civil servants) is acceptable at somewhere between 17% or 25%.

Our situation may well be unique because our indigenous population has not grown in the same strides as the demands that have been made because of our growth. Nevertheless, while we cannot physically put ourselves to where we would like to be (because we do not have breeding farms for Caymanians), I do not believe it is a situation that we should leave alone. I think we should do everything physically possible in all areas in order to ensure that each and every one of us has ample opportunity for moving on.

I am not suggesting that there are not situations in place where our population has opportunities to upgrade themselves educationally and otherwise. I am saying that we as a people need to develop a way of thinking where it becomes a must. I am saying that if we have to use legislation let us do it, because I know that there are many people out there (local Caymanians) who do not realise today the need to upgrade themselves to fit better into society.

I am not blaming a careless Government or representatives who sit in here, I am simply saying that if we have to change our mode of operation, if we have to go out and get these people—and I am very serious when I say if we have to use legislation to do it, I do not care how—we have to tap into these people because 'the Devil finds work for idle hands'. And this is what is causing the problem where we have to spend $15 million in law enforcement areas in the Budget in order to stem the flow.

Madam Speaker, I am pleased when I look at the Appropriation Bill and see that the largest single figure is that of Education—$17,665,565. Unless I am mistaken, that does not include capital works. As far as I am concerned, to me that is a step in the right direction for this country. That is going to be the key to the success of our society; our people being educated and the majority of them being able to fill the required roles. In layman's terms—to have the opportunity and the ability to make something of themselves.

There are other areas which have fairly large amounts. I notice that the Health Services have just in excess of $15 million. One could stand here and debate on what real benefits the country is deriving from our Health Services, although the costs continue to increase. But, in all fairness to the new Minister, I have to take the position and give him some time and I will wait patiently to see the end results.

In Tourism we are spending in excess of $15 million, and that is separate from the operations on a day-to-day basis. There is a separate figure for the Ministry. I think this applies to the department and its workings, its advertising campaigns. If we look at statistics where tourism is on the rise (and I am not qualified to say whether this proportion of nearly $16 million of the budget is one that is correct) I can only ask that the Minister continues to look carefully to make sure that the country's money being spent in this direction reaps the best benefits.

Madam Speaker, just to finally close off on the area that I seem to have made my theme song "Training", there was a time not long ago when it was the norm for many Caymanians to be quite willing to take very lightly their jobs because they could walk from one job into another within a matter of days. I think it is fair comment today to say that the Caymanians understand that is not the case nowadays.

I have constant requests from people seeking assistance in finding jobs. I am sure all the other elected representatives have these same requests—not that on many occasions we can physically do anything about it, but sometimes we are able to help. To me that says that people understand that the job market is not what it used to be. In saying that, I wish to finally reiterate that this is the right time to deal with our people by having them placed in positions where they can sensibly do these jobs. And the only way we are going to be able to do that is to force them to learn something so that they can sensibly fill a post.

We say that 'we can take the donkey to the well but we cannot make him drink water.' We cannot apply that principle today with our people. There are hundreds of people, especially young people, who are out there, many of them have no sense of direction and if we leave them alone, I do not even know the words to use for what will happen.

So I trust that as the elected representatives of this country we can find the ways and the means to home in on this area to make it of vital importance and innovative to the point where we not only attract our Caymanians to want better for themselves, but literally (I have seen the word in the Compass used in a different context recently) if we have to 'entrap' them to do so, certainly I advocate that because it is to their benefit and ours.

In summary, as we look at the budget that has been presented to us, a budget of approximately $178 million indicates an increase of a total recurrent expenditure of 11.7% from the 1994 Budget; an increase in statutory expenditure of 20% from the 1994 Budget; an increase in capital expenditure of 15% from the 1994 Budget. And it seems that we as a country are rearing to go.

Madam Speaker, as a representative I will cry out for the new services, sometimes not the new services, but enhanced services, for the people. Insofar as I know that it is not an easy task to balance a budget of this magnitude, I still wish to send a message that I believe we should be looking at increasing our reserves even if we have to move at a slower pace when it comes to capital expenditure. When I say capital expenditure, I also have to make the short comment that, for whatever reason, it seems we have not been able to complete the capital expenditure that was proposed for 1994. I think, I heard someone mention that the Queen's visit distracted a lot of the ability to do some of the work, and the national problems that we have had recently with the influx of the Cubans has not helped any. But notwithstanding those two items, first of all we really do not know if, and when, the most recent problem will go away. I wonder if we will be able to complete $23 million worth of capital expenditure this year. I guess time will tell.

I think that I am winded now. Some of the points that I have discussed may not be considered important; but I will make my last repeated appeal that Government, (including the official arm, the elected arm, and grubs like me, on the Backbench), must look at the ways in which it is steering the course for, not only generations to come, but the existing generation insofar as all of us finding our place in the society. We must do whatever it takes to find the ways to make our Caymanians fill their rightful roles. I know that individuals have to be responsible and do their own part for this to happen, but I believe that if Government is innovative enough, we can reap much more benefits, especially with our young people.

I also believe that we have to be looking carefully at our growth compared with the population of this country and how it is made up. I also believe that while we talk about money and how well our country is doing, we need to seriously look at our immigration. We need to decide a specific direction in which we are going to head. We seem to have a good ability to 'hedge' on the real problems simply because we run the risk of being popular or unpopular. I think that all these factors are very necessary if we are going to continue to reap success as a nation.

As we go through the individual items of the Estimates in Finance Committee, I am sure all of us will have more specific comments. I can only say to the Government at this point in time, that they will find me differing in certain areas, or maybe trying to add a few more things in certain areas. Whatever I say or do is what I consider to be in the best interest of this country.

Finally, I would like to ask if we as elected representatives in this honourable House can find a way to disagree and still move forward with positive steps to serve our people best.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: If no other Member wishes to continue the debate, I will ask the Honourable Third Official Member if he would like to exercise his right of reply, which will then close the debate on the Second Reading of the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994.

The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would like to wind up this Budget Debate by thanking all Honourable Members for their very favourable comments on the 1995 Budget Address. Additionally, I would like to reiterate my thanks to those Members of the Budget and Management Services Unit, whom I failed to mention by name earlier.

While looking at Government's economic performance for 1994, and making certain projections for 1995 and beyond, considerable efforts were committed to informing the community of the initiatives taken over the years to ensure that we have in place the best possible regulatory regime for ensuring the effective and efficient management of our financial industry.

Madam Speaker, we are all aware of a BBC Documentary aired in September of this year which attempted to suggest that the Cayman Islands was a haven for condoning nefarious activities, such as money laundering. While the local news media expended great energies and efforts in propagating what they knew was misleading information, they seemed quite reluctant in disseminating the facts as provided. For example, Madam Speaker, I would like to draw your attention to an article by Mr. Robert DeAngello under the caption of "Financial Secretary Still Fuming."

According to the Co-ordinator of Promotions and Advertising, Mr. Lyndon Martin, Mr. DeAngello of The New Caymanian called the Financial Secretary's Office to say that he would like to do an article on the Cayman Islands' financial industry. Specifically, he wanted to get an outline of the regulatory initiatives taken by the Government in guiding the activities of this industry. He even went on further to state that in developing the article he was working on, no reference would be made to the recently aired BBC Documentary, as his objective in this exercise would be to focus on the merits of the regulatory regime as currently obtains within the Cayman Islands.

In keeping with his request, he was the one who undertook to provide the assurance – this was not sought for. The following article was prepared and faxed to his office. I quote:

"In terms of the responsibilities of governing specific to the financial industry, a major role is the issuance of bank, trust, insurance and mutual funds administrators' licences. The ultimate decision on an application rests with the Executive Council. Applications for licences are submitted to the Executive Council through the Financial Secretary acting on the recommendation of the Inspector of Financial Services.

"In an effort to protect the reputation of the Cayman Islands as a legitimate base for international financial operations, strict safeguards are applied to this licensing procedure. The high quality of banks, trusts, captive insurance companies, and mutual funds administrators now operating in our Islands is testimony to this assertion.

"Further, the general acceptance of these safeguards also attest to our sterling reputation as a leading financial centre and serves as an unequivocal endorsement of our uncompromising policy.

"The Government is heavily committed to an effort to educate consumers, investors, other regulators, government, and especially journalists about the financial industry of the Cayman Islands. A particular aim is to always ensure that the Cayman Islands is recognised as an efficient, well-regulated and progressive financial centre where most of the world's top institutions do business.

"A significant milestone in the commitment to instilling responsibility and maintaining integrity in the financial industry dates back to the Narcotics Agreement of 1984. This agreement subsequently evolved into what is now known as the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty between the Cayman Islands, the United Kingdom and the United States. The Treaty states: that the parties will provide mutual assistance for the investigation, prosecution and suppression of a range of criminal offences.

"This Treaty represents the Cayman Islands' boldest demonstration of its willingness to co-operate in the common effort against international crimes of all sort."

"We went on further to state: "In 1989, the Cayman Islands introduced legislation making drug money laundering an offence. In this regard we are the first country in the region to take this step. As a result the Cayman Islands is playing a leading role as an active participant in the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force, in coming to grips with the many issues involved in the introduction and implementation of the relevant policies and legislation necessary for the suppression of illicit activities in the region's financial centres. In fulfilling this role, the Cayman Islands represents the other British Dependent Territories in the Task Force executive meetings."

We went on to say that "in April of this year [but that should have been in November of 1992], Cayman's Justice Mr. Anthony Smellie, served as a discussion leader at the Task Force Workshop in Trinidad dealing with constitutional and jurisdictional issues. It is well recognised that while it is important to implement laws and policies necessary to guard against illegal activities it must be achieved in a way that does not compromise the confidentiality and unanimity of legitimate business. So far, we seem to have achieved this delicate balance. We have found that in spite of concerns at the outset, the initiatives we have taken have served to more firmly establish the Cayman Islands as one of the world's top leading international financial centres.

"Evidence of this is the 30,000 companies, 572 banks and trust companies, 560 mutual funds and over 700 ships on our register."

Madam Speaker, that was the article that was provided to the Journalist, Mr. DeAngelo. Now, to my surprise, I have never spoken with this gentleman, in fact, I do not know who he is. If I were to see him on the street, he and I would walk across each other as total strangers. Then he deduces from this article, "Financial Secretary Still Fuming," "Fall out from irresponsible BBC continues" and he quoted me. I would like your permission, Madam Speaker, to quote a few sections from the article he wrote. I quote:

"Fallout is still occurring as a result of a British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) Documentary alleging money laundering and other financial crimes are rampant in the Cayman Islands. The latest salvo is from the Financial Secretary, the Honourable George A. McCarthy who two weeks ago blasted producers of the documentary as "irresponsible." McCarthy told The New Caymanian this week, "the country is trying to maintain a difficult balance between passing laws to safeguard against illegal activities and keeping confidentiality codes in place."

He goes on further to say: "Government Officials have put in the position of defending their record of sniffing-out financial crimes and erecting barriers to prevent its spread because of the documentary and recent stories of major money laundering operations involving the Cayman accounts."

He goes on further, Madam Speaker. This would suggest that an interview took place, this was not the case. He asked for an article. He said he wanted to get some information on the measures introduced by the Government in order to guide or put in place our regulatory regime. We provided this on a very objective basis and I cannot reconcile this article to the information that we provided.

This suggests, Madam Speaker, that certain individuals are not being as honest and as truthful as they should be. And the media has a responsibility in this country to act in an unbiased and objective fashion in providing the community with factual information. It is not a question that anything should be swept under the carpet or hidden, because I expect that both the good and the bad must be reported. But to do something like this is really causing persons, like myself, to draw certain conclusions about the attitudes of these individuals.

In reviewing the observations made by Honourable Members in their response to the Budget Address, I would like to single out the comments of the Second Elected Member for the Sister Islands in referring to the Budget as a "cookbook". I consider this observation as a very favourable one, as in my estimation a "cookbook" is one that contains recipes defining quantities of items that are to be combined in a certain manner for the purpose of achieving a life sustaining end product. This is a most favourable comment, and a noble comparison by the Honourable Member, as by its implications he is confirming that the Budget is a very digestible one and contains recipes for the continuing economic success of these Islands.

I now turn to the Cost of Maintaining the Cuban Migrants: It was said that by failing to include the cost of maintaining the Cuban migrants in the Budget the document ceases to be meaningful. This conclusion can be given credence or be set aside, depending on the position taken as to whether such individuals will be remaining in these Islands on a permanent basis. It is evident to all that the ultimate destination of these migrants is the United States of America. It is impossible to determine how soon the immigration hurdles currently preventing them from entering the United States will be resolved; therefore to include an amount in excess of the sum which has been provided for in this Draft Budget becomes debatable as to what that provision should be.

His Excellency the Governor has recently received word that the European community is willing to assist the Government by agreeing to meet the operational costs of maintaining the camp (Tent City) for the Cuban migrants. This assistance, however, will not include the cost of salaries for officers working at the camp on a day-to-day basis. And neither will the funds be paid directly to the Government, but only through a non-governmental organisation such as the Red Cross. This arrangement is currently being pursued and hopefully will be finalised for such assistance to materialise, commencing in early 1995.

The question was raised also by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman that the projected surplus of $2.9 million at the end of the year would be distorted or would have been a different figure if provisions were made to take into account the expenditure on the Cuban migrants through the end of the year. But I would like to point out that the revised figures for 1994 includes $1.6 million expended towards hosting the Cuban refugees. This amount is inclusive of the $150,000 approved in the 1994 Budget. And it was revised upwards to take into account the subsequent approvals by the Finance Committee.

This $1.6 million is comprised of $1.3 million for maintenance under Social Services; $45,500 for repatriation from Cayman Brac to Grand Cayman; $45,000 for Immigration overtime; $136,152 for police overtime; and $30,000 for overtime at the Social Services Department.

Reference was also made to the projected revenue of $11 million appearing in the Budget for the Civil Aviation Authority as being unrealistic. I should point out that this was not a figure arrived at by the Central Government, but provided by the Authority itself. I should also point out that the revised revenue for the Authority for 1994 is set at a level of $8.4 million. The difference between that, of $2.6 million which takes it up to $11 million for 1995, recognises that the Civil Aviation Authority has taken a decision that the usage of its facilities by the various Government Departments (such as, Immigration and Customs), the rental will be fixed at the economic rate rather than being subsidised, as will be done up through the end of 1994.

In addition to that, I spoke to the Director of Civil Aviation who mentioned to me that there will be a $1.00 charge per departing passenger from the islands as a form of security tax. This is not a burden that will be recognised by those persons travelling in that it will be built in as part of the cost of the ticket being sold by the airlines.

Sister Islands Development: In 1995 exploratory visits will be made to free zones within the regions to investigate the applicability of such economic arrangements to Cayman Brac. It is hoped that this represents one alternative to improving the economic situation for the residents of these islands, particularly Cayman Brac.

I should say that this review has already commenced by the Director of Economic and Statistics, and he will be attending a conference later in December in Miami. It is a means of looking into the possibilities. We cannot be sure what the end product or, specifically, what the arrangements will turn out to be. But we are going to be reviewing all of the opportunities that exist in order to stimulate the economy of Cayman Brac. This will be given high priority for the upcoming year.

The reference to United Funds made by the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is noted and I undertake to investigate such a scheme to see the potential that it holds to benefit the Cayman Islands, because at this time I am not familiar with the way it works.

Public Debt: It should be noted that the growth in Public Debt is mainly due to the recapitalisation of Cayman Airways Limited for which a Loan Bill was authorised in 1991 for US$20 million, but was not finalised until early 1993.

Inflation: the Honourable Minister for Education and Aviation made reference to this. The current low level of inflation was highlighted by that Honourable Minister and I feel that there is a need to expand on this issue by stating that low rates of inflation, in contrast to higher rates which can stifle growth, increase the amount that can be purchased with each dollar.

In effect, what this is saying is that a low rate of inflation, as we have been having, enhances the purchasing power of each dollar that is spent within the local community.

It is interesting to note that we have been able to maintain this low rate of inflation without the intervention of Government, such as the introduction of monetary policies which normally arise or result from Central Banking activities that are pursued in countries such as the United States and some of the other developing countries within the region.

We have been able to achieve this and it is a very good sign that the economic policies of the Government are working. Basically, the broad description of inflation, as everyone knows, is too much money chasing too few goods. This balance is not easily obtained but we have been able to do this, Madam Speaker.

Benefits of Continuous Growth: One Honourable Member asserted that with the current low level of unemployment no benefit to the indigenous population would be derived from continued development taking place in these islands. It should be noted that annually approximately 300 students graduate from the secondary school system searching for employment. Additionally, over the next three years there will be approximately 30 graduates on government scholarships who will graduate from overseas tertiary institutions. It is estimated that another 30 are privately funded annually. This gives an estimated 60 persons per annum seeking high level jobs. In 1998, this number is expected to grow by almost 50%, bringing the figure to approximately 90 persons.

Therefore, without growth in the economy these persons will be forced to join the rank of the unemployed. It is, therefore, imperative that Government lays the groundwork at this point in time so that these individuals can find meaningful employment at the time when they enter the labour market.

Mutual Funds: One Honourable Member warned of the risks involved in mutual funds to which I am obligated to respond. It should be noted that all activities in life have a risk factor associated with them—including life itself. Mutual funds provide an opportunity for investors to pool their funds together to provide for various forms of investment, which includes investing in the stock markets; in futures; in various financial vehicles that obtain within the financial market. In many instances the motive of this pooling is to allow for the risk factor to be reduced by spreading out the risk, and by hedging risk through a greater degree of diversification than the individual investor could achieve on his own. It should also be noted that the Mutual Funds registered in the Cayman Islands are primarily institutional investors who are well-informed and aware of the risks involved in such investments.

I think the Second Elected Member for George Town would have had difficulty in addressing this in that he may be looking at a mutual fund as an arrangement similar to a fixed deposit. A mutual fund is an investment vehicle where several individuals come together in order to pool their resources to explore investment opportunities. These individuals do not take their money and go out and invest into what is called "Mutual Fund". These are individuals who have their funds under the umbrella of an arrangement styled "Mutual Fund", they then take their money out into the community to explore investment options such as investing in the stock market, or other investment opportunities that they are of the view will yield a return. Therefore, it is not a question that this constitutes any greater risk than any other investment vehicle.

Shipping: The question was raised as to the economic viability of that arrangement, and whether the Government should consider taking a decision to close the Marine Survey Department.

I should point out that the revenue that is generated by the Department is not obvious at a first glance. The way the Estimates are structured allows for revenue generated from shipping activities to be factored into other areas of revenue. For example, in the 1994 Estimates the expenditure for this department, including promotional costs, will be $350,000. A breakdown of revenues is shown: Ship registration fees—$250,000; marine survey fees—$70,149; and marine manning licences—$19,549. When these sums are totalled and compared with the $350,000 it seems that the department is just operating in a break-even mode. It is to be recognised, however, that most of the ships on our Register are covered by a company being formed. From those companies, which are holding companies for these vessels, it is estimated that a sum of $520,000 is generated for fees from existing companies.

Also, before the end of the year there will be another $45,000 fee taken up by new companies being formed in order to hold new vessels that will be brought on to the Register. So the revenue – generating potential of that department falls short of a $1 million, by just about $96,000, for the year 1994. This is a very good estimate.

When it is compared it is seen that this Register is now into a revenue-generating mode and is not a loss leader as is the general feeling that is being held concerning this activity. So the net surplus when the estimated revenue for 1994 is compared with the expenditure is approximately $600,000.

Reference was made again as to the credibility of the Budget on the basis that the new revenue measures were not given in detail. Subsequent to the Budget Address Members would by now have received in hand a copy of a Bill to increase the tourism accommodation tax from 6% to 10%. It is anticipated that this increase will generate an additional $4 million commencing – initially it was thought – in 1995. However, the reason why it was not brought at the time was no mystique; nor was the Government attempting to withhold any information. The Honourable Minister, under whose Ministry this subject falls, requested time to consult with the managers within the tourism sector to get their views as to when would be an appropriate time for the introduction of these increases.

After discussions with them he took the view that it would be best for this Bill to be introduced as of the 1st of June. So, in effect, before anyone raises a question as to whether the full $4 million will be realised, we can say that 7/12 (seven-twelfth) of that is likely to be realised, which means that there could be a shortfall of approximately $1 million or more.

Madam Speaker, what we are also doing in tandem with this, is the new services provision of the Estimates provides for the recruitment of an officer who will have responsibility for pursuing the arrears of revenue. We know that this is one area (and I will share a part of the blame as the Financial Secretary) where enough attention has not been given to policing it to ensure that all revenues due to Government are collected.

We see, for example, by questions being raised by Honourable Members in this House, where the revised figures as appearing in the Estimates for 1994 are over $1 million in excess of what was budgeted.

We have had calls from owners and managers who have been late in submitting their returns: there is a penalty normally incurred by failing to submit a month's return within 28 days of the subsequent month. And hotel managers have become very vigilant. If there are any administration hurdles that come in the way to prevent this from being done they are normally calling to ask for this to be addressed at an early point.

Madam Speaker, with the number of persons in that area being reinforced, commencing in 1995, we feel that we will achieve a higher level of policing and what would otherwise be a short fall will be compensated for with the increase in revenue that will be coming about. So, effective 1996, we will have the full impact of the $4 million that has been targeted.

The next area from which it is estimated that the additional $600,000 will be raised will be an increase in the garbage fees and refuse disposal services. The regulations are currently being worked on at this time by the Legal Draftsman.

I should point out that a study carried out several years ago recognised that this was one area that was heavily subsidised by the Government. It was demonstrated that, for example, the average cost of collecting refuse per household in the Cayman Islands amounted to approximately $200 per annum.

Against this the Government was only collecting a sum of $50. It is felt that while the Government will not seek to recover the cost in full, there should be a further increase in this area, and private houses and apartments will be increased from $50 to $100 per annum. In order to ameliorate this, Madam Speaker, the Government has taken a decision that, rather than this sum being paid in one lump sum at the beginning of the year, it can be paid biannually, which means in two instalments. The Government has insisted on making a further provision for those Caymanians who are not at this time getting a guaranteed income, or monies from other sources; also, for those having difficulty in paying their garbage fees at the current rate and who would have further difficulty with the increase that is now being introduced. Provisions are now being made within the regulations, for the Financial Secretary to waive those fees upon request so that it will not pose a burden for these individuals; not only for the year 1995, but for subsequent years.

Once it has been proven that the sum is quite onerous to a person, he can submit a request to the Financial Secretary's office where it will be dealt with in a non-embarrassing manner. There will be no one going around probing in to anyone's finances. We recognise that these are individuals who are 60 years old and over, who are proud individuals, and the Government is very concerned and will not put them in an embarrassing position. If there is no means of income from any guaranteed source at this time, the Government recognises that there is a need for these individuals to be assisted, and they will be. So, private houses and apartments will be increased from $50 to $100.

For the benefit of Honourable Ministers/Members in the House, I will read the provision that has been made:

"Provided that the Financial Secretary may in his discretion waive this fee in whole or in part, whether prospectively or retrospectively if he is satisfied that having regard to the financial circumstances of the persons liable under these regulations for payment of fees, it is equitable for him to do so;

1. Condominium units will be increased from $100 to $150.
2. Hotels (bedrooms 1 - 19) from $600 to $800; (bedrooms 20 - 39) from $1,200 to $1,600; (bedrooms 40 -60) from $1,500 to $2,500; (bedroom 61 - 100) from $2,000 to $3,000; (bedrooms 101 - 150) from $3,000 to $4,000; and (bedrooms over 150) from $3,500 to $5,500.
3. Lodging Houses (other than hotels) will be assessed at an annual rate of $225.
4. Restaurants (without bars) seating capacity (1 - 15 seats) from $150 to $250; (16 - 30 seats) from $300 to $500; (31 - 50 seats) from $425 to $600; (51 - 75 seats) from $625 to $800; and (over 75 seats) from $800 to $1,000.
5. Restaurants (with bars) seating capacity (1 - 15 seats) from $150 to $300; (16 - 30 seats) from $300 to $600; (31 - 50 seats) from $425 to $800; (51 - 75 seats) from $625 to $1,000; and (over 175 seats) from $800 to $1,200.
6. Business premises (offices) from $100 to $200.
7. Small offices (less than 1/4 cubic yard of garbage and refuse per week) from $100 to $200; medium (a quarter to one cubic yard of garbage and refuse per week) from $500 to $800; and more than one cubic yard of garbage and refuse per week from $1,320 to $1,600 per annum.
8. Containers: (front-loader, rear-loader and skiffs) 2 yards: there will be a levy of $350 per annum. At present there is no charge for this. From 2 - 4 yards: $600 to $700; in excess of 4 yards to 6 yards: $800 to $1,000; and in excess of 8 yards from $1,000 to $1,200 per annum.
9. Emptying of Containers: (daily) from $1,560 to $1,800 per annum; 2 days per week from $520 to $750; 3 days per week from $780 to $900; 1 day per week remains unchanged at $300.
10. Roll-on, Roll-Off fees: Containers (stationary) 28 cubic yards remains unchanged at $4,200; Emptying of Containers remains unchanged."

The Speaker: Honourable Financial Secretary, I have reached a point where we could suspend. There is a service at 12 noon. Would this be a convenient time for you?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker, I will be through by then.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended until two o'clock.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.44 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.01 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Third Official Member winding up the debate on the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. When we took the break I was outlining the increases which will be taking place with the garbage collection fees commencing in January of 1995. I had reached the point where I was dealing with the removal of derelict vehicles: I will continue. For removal of vehicles within the following areas, fees will be increased as follows:

1. Central George Town – $30 to $50;
2. From West Bay to George Town – $30 to $50;
3. From Bodden Town to George Town – $30 to $50;
4. From Bodden Town and the Eastern Districts – $35 to $60.

Removal of animal carcass within the following areas:

1. From George Town: $30 to $50;
2. From West Bay : $30 to $50
3. From Bodden Town: $30 to $50
4. Districts east of Bodden Town $35 to $60
5. Small carcasses (dogs, cats, et cetera) unchanged at $25; and
6. Portable toilets with daily servicing will be $75

For those that will be provided on a monthly basis; these are sites that will be using such facilities over monthly periods will be $250 basis.

The following increases will also be effected by the Department of Environmental Health by amendments to the Mosquito Research and Control Regulations. I read:

"The following fee shall be payable to the Director in respect of disinfectant of aircraft and ships, space spray (treatment with spray bombs) from $6 to $10; light aircraft (12 passengers capacity or less) $6 to $10; heavy aircraft (more than 12 passengers capacity) $10 to $20; ships (sloops of up to 150 gross tons) $20 to $25; ships over 150 gross tons plus crew accommodation from $25 to $40; and ships over 150 gross tons from $25 to $50.

Residual spray every three months commencing with ships of up to 150 gross tons – $30 to $60; ships over 150 gross tons—$50 to $100; containers by spray bombs, with or without, misting or fogging (over 20 feet in length) $12 to $20; and (up to 20 feet in length) $15 to $30.

Spraying on Sundays, Saturdays or on Public Holidays: (from midday until 5 p.m.) and all days between 5 p.m. until midnight and between midnight and 8 am for services listed is from $8 to $15 per hour or part thereof.

These constitute the increases in fees that will be introduced by the Department of Environment effective as of the 1st of January, 1995. As I mentioned earlier, homeowners and apartment owners will have the option of paying the amount of $100 in biannual instalments or single sum by a programme to be introduced by the Government.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town, asked for an explanation of what he viewed as two conflicting occurrences; the increase in the number of work permits and the reported increase in Caymanians employed in the finance and business sector. At the time of the Budget Address I highlighted the increase in total employment in this sector. The increase in employment was partially met by an increase in Caymanians employed. But the remaining jobs were filled by non-Caymanians representing the simultaneous increase in work permits.

It was also argued by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman that several projects in the Estimates were undervalued as a method of balancing the budget for 1995. This view is not correct. It should be borne in mind that the Budget is a one-year document, but close examinations of the budget will demonstrate that especially for capital programmes where they are commencing in 1995, provisions are also made by showing what the likely expenditure will be in the years 1996 and 1997.

The reason for this is that most capital projects by the Government are of a short development life and normally take place within a three-year time frame or less. This demonstrates the total amount of expenditure that will be incurred within any given period in carrying through any aspects of a capital programme. However, the only amount that can be shown for the year 1995, for the Budget to remain as a meaningful document, is the expenditure that will be incurred within that calendar year. To put a sum over and above the full cost of—let us say for example, a road project that has a projected development time frame of three years – to put in the total cost for the three years would become somewhat misleading. It will not really be showing the amount of expenditure that will be consumed within the one-year time frame of the Budget. However, to make sure that information is not omitted, it is shown in the document over the remaining life of the development of this project.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town questioned whether the provision of the Manager for the Agricultural Development Board was being carried out by two Ministries. Madam Speaker, this is not so. During the course of this year this post was initially under the Ministry of Agriculture, Communications and Works. As a part of the amalgamation exercise and reorganisation of the subjects by Ministry, this post was transferred during the course of the year and now falls under the Ministry of Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture. So it is not a question that it is being carried in two places at the same time.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman also made reference to the fact that the Government will be taking back one per cent of civil servants' salaries. To be tabled during the course of this session will be the Actuary Report setting out Government's liabilities for pension obligations to civil servants. It shows that in order for the pension liability, the past service costs especially, to be properly funded it will require that the Government have in place assets in excess of $60 million. When this takes account of existing civil servants, not only the time for which pension rights have accrued up to present time, but projecting through the time of their retirement, it shows that the funding that should be in place (asset base) to support this pension obligation should be in excess of $90 million.

It also shows that in order to achieve a funding that would be appropriate for addressing this liability, the Government would have to set aside approximately 39% of what is now being paid by way of salaries. Now, for this to be done it would constitute an onerous and harsh liability and would mean that the Government would have to find funding from other sources. To do so, especially 39% of personal emolument, would be very harsh to attempt to address this in the short-run.

The Management Council of the Civil Service Association and the Public Managers' Association, recognising the problem that this is likely to bring about for the Government, and the Government, in turn, recognising its obligation, are now in the process of having discussions on this as a means of addressing it.

It is known that at this time the Government is making a contribution of approximately 4% to the Pension Fund and there is a 4% drawback from the salaries of civil servants making it a total of 8%. It was demonstrated by the Actuaries that if the Government were to start paying its pension obligations from this 8% fund, it would run out by the year 2001. It would be very short-lived.

It is also shown that if the Government fails to take appropriate actions in regard to pension liability, what would be a general burden on General Revenue or Expenditure within the next 25 years could be in excess of $40 million per annum. Now that, by any stretch of the imagination, will not be a small sum. So, as a means of commencing to address this matter, discussions are now on the way (at least in the short-run) to increase the level of total contributions into the Fund to the level of 15%. This will be done in stages commencing in 1995 for the Government to increase its contribution level from 4% percent to 6% percent. There is no agreement as yet between the Management Council of the Civil Service Association and the Public Managers' Association as to how the Civil Service (as a body) is going to be addressing this.

One argument that has been mooted is that a further increase of one percent, if civil servants are agreeable to make this contribution by allowing for a deduction to be made from their salaries, this would take it up to 11%. This would make it short of approximately 4% to achieve the 15% level.

This is an interim step. It is a liability that is not to be taken quite lightly because there are hundreds of civil servants who have been employed over the years, including myself, who have worked quite hard. We know that the Civil Service is not a place for anyone to get rich, it is a question of public service and duty to one's country. When civil servants go into retirement their life line is often dependent upon the pensions that will be paid to them by the Government. And not to have a fund in place while demands against the Government coffers are increasing would not amount to wisdom, Madam Speaker. This is why it is now being addressed.

At the same time it means that the Pensions Law will need to be amended as well, because we are talking about divesting of pension benefits. It is not a matter that should be discretionary anymore; it is a matter that should constitute an investment (an entitlement) by civil servants and pensioners of this country. It means that at any point in time, once this reform is introduced, one should be able to demonstrate to any given civil servant who has pensionable entitlement against that Fund what the accumulated benefits of this person are. And this should cover all the pensions—Parliamentary Pensions, Civil Service Pensions—because as the number of persons entering the political arena and the Cayman Islands Government continues to expand, it means that the liabilities will only continue to increase.

We are at a point now where it is bearable against the Revenues of this country in that the total pension payments for 1994 will not exceed $2.2 million. We cannot run the risk and leave this unattended for the next 20 years and believe that it is going to be like that. It will be consuming at least 10% to 15% of the budgeted provisions at that time.

The question was also raised as to what the Government was doing with Cayman Airways, in that over and above this subsidy of $4 million there is a further provision of approximating $2 million appearing in the Estimates being provided to Cayman Airways. This will not represent a cash payment. But over the years Cayman Airways incurred certain indebtedness by failing to pay its landing fees to the Civil Aviation Authority. It was felt that since the Civil Aviation Authority was an inter-Governmental Department, when the recapitalisation financing of $20 million was secured, the best way to make disbursements of these funds would be to pay off third party creditors and see what could be done in terms of dealing with amounts owing to Government Departments.

Therefore, amounts paid by the Treasury Department in respect of overtime due to Customs Officers, or work performed by Customs Officers for which reimbursement should have been made by Cayman Airways amounted to a sum of approximately $700,000; and the amount of money owing to the Civil Aviation Authority amounted to approximately $2 million. To have made payments to the preferred creditors and also settle the amount of money that was owing to these governmental departments would require a sum in excess of the $20 million that was raised.

Madam Speaker, a decision was therefore taken that this should be capitalised and the Government should recognise this as an inter-governmental settlement whereby the obligations of the Civil Aviation Authority to central Government is made up of the equity in the Authority at that time the entity was made an independent body, in that a valuation was placed on the assets and the liabilities and when it was netted the difference was taken as a loan that was due by the authority to central Government.

The Civil Aviation Authority is paying this [loan] on an annual basis and it was therefore felt that if the Government assumed this obligation of approximately $2 million and offset this sum making it a corresponding offset against the liability (the sum due from the Civil Aviation Authority) would constitute a fair and reasonable settlement.

The Civil Aviation Authority would not be worse off for having given up the benefit of collecting $2 million cash from Cayman Airways; and Cayman Airways, in the short-run, would not have been in a position to have made that payment.

For the Government to contain its public debts within reason it was felt that the recapitalisation loan should not have been extended beyond the $20 million (US) that was borrowed. So this is why this sum is there. It is just a book entry and will not mean an outflow of cash.

Madam Speaker, it seems that I have covered all of the concerns and points raised by Honourable Members of this House. I commend the Budget to this honourable House and I would like to thank you for your patience, and for guiding Honourable Members and myself in our presentations. I would like to once again thank the Ministers/Members of Government for the time spent in going through the Budget Review process and also Heads of Departments, all the staff members who have been involved, in one way or the other in the process to have made this meaningful.

I also thank every Member of the Legislative Assembly for their points raised, because for those points which sought clarification it also helped for me to have carried out further review and to do other research to come up with an answer. By so doing, the public has been better informed.

Thank you very much, Madam Speaker, and I am also thankful to the Clerk and the other staff members of the Legislative Assembly.

I commend this Budget to this honourable House.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994, be given a Second Reading. I shall put the question, those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994 STANDS COMMITTED TO THE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, can we have a division?

The Speaker: I have said that the Bill now stands committed to Finance Committee, so that moment has passed.

Would the Honourable Financial Secretary indicate when the Finance Committee will be meeting?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, this afternoon. The Government is of the view that a short break followed by Finance Committee would be in order.

The Speaker: Can you give a time please?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: At 3 o'clock this afternoon, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Accordingly, I will ask for a motion for the adjournment of the House until consideration of the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994, and the Estimates in Finance Committee.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Environment and Planning—Leader of Government Business.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until Finance Committee is ready to report back to the House.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until the Finance Committee has completed its deliberations and is ready to report to the House.

I shall put the question, those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned.

AT 2.27 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL CONSIDERATION OF THE APPROPRIATION (1995) BILL, 1994 BY FINANCE COMMITTEE IS COMPLETED.

WEDNESDAY
30 NOVEMBER 1994
10.16 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Third Elected Member for West Bay to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Order. Proceedings are resumed in the Legislative Assembly.

Presentation of Papers and Reports. Report of the Standing Finance Committee on the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994. The Honourable Third Official Member.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS

Clauses 1 and 2 of the Bill, the Schedule and Title of the Bill were passed, the relevant Questions having been put by the Chairman.

Other Business: The Committee also considered two items not related to the Appropriation (1995) Bill, 1994, and these are as follows:

(i) Request for variation of the Resolution Re: Low Cost Housing:

The Committee considered a request to vary the Resolution passed at its meeting held on the 19th October, 1994, regarding the Low Cost Housing Scheme, and that the existing Agreement be amended to read:

“to allow any Bank or Company approved by Executive Council to provide financing to the Low Income Housing Scheme up to a maximum aggregate amount not exceeding CI$3,000,000 per annum (over the specific amounts approved for the named Banks) for a period not exceeding two years. In the event of the three Banks named in previous resolutions not committing themselves to the Scheme by 31st December, 1994, Executive Council may approve any other Bank or Company to provide the financing as would have been provided by these Banks.”

The second item:

(ii) Request for authorisation Government Guarantee of $22.15 Million on behalf of the Water Authority:

The Committee agreed unanimously that –

(i) The current Government Guarantee of US$5.83 million be increased to US$22.15 million on behalf of the Cayman Islands Water Authority in favour of Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce Bank and Trust Company Ltd., who will provide a loan to clear the existing loan with Caribbean Development Bank and to provide additional funds to construct the proposed Lower Valley Reservoir, Pumping Station and other works; and

(ii) The Caribbean Development Bank Loan of US$6.20 million be repaid.

The Committee agrees that this Report shall be the Report of the Committee to be laid on the Table of this Honourable House.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Sports Development in the Cayman Islands—A National Policy Statement.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

SPORTS DEVELOPMENT IN THE CAYMAN ISLANDS—A NATIONAL POLICY STATEMENT

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table the Sports Development in the Cayman Islands—A National Policy statement.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: In laying on the Table of this Honourable House the document entitled `Sports Development in the Cayman Islands: A National Policy Statement', I crave your indulgence because I believe it would be helpful to Members, and to the general public, to make some general observations.

I will preface my remarks by pointing out what is obvious to those who have rolled up their sleeves in the enormous task of nation-building which faces us. The point is that in spite of the many achievements of the Cayman Islands Government and people over the years, not enough attention has been paid to the social infrastructure of the country. I think it will be generally agreed that sports is an important part of such infrastructure. Therefore, I trust that any commentary on the paper being presented will consist of constructive criticism.

The approach now being taken towards sports is summarised in the phrase "Sports for All". All the objectives set out in the document can be grouped under four broad Headings, namely, health promotion, prevention of social ills, competition, and tourism.

Health promotion is critical to our mental and physical well being in that the major causes of death and much of the stress and ill-health in the Cayman Islands are life-style related, and thus preventable through a regular exercise programme and sensible dietary practices. I am pleased to be able to say that the Ministry of Health has indicated its support for health promotion in general, and, in particular, for sports as a positive way of implementing same.

I believe it is true to say that we have some way yet to go in developing an active partnership in this area with medical professionals; but given their overriding interest in good health, as opposed to treating illness, I expect that they will be among our strongest supporters in this effort to enhance the quality of life through promoting wellness, as well as in the long run reducing the National Health bill.

We share another area of keen interest with the Health Ministry where sports can be seen to play an effective role, that is, in the area of preventing drug abuse. I have said many times before that every child who is actively participating in sports is a child who is going to be more difficult for the drug dealer to reach. And it obviously goes far beyond this seemingly custodial relationship. The lasting benefit of consistent involvement in sports stems from its value as a socialising agent and shaper of personality. The Ministry of Health understands this, as we do, and this is why with responsibility for drug abuse prevention, their support is forthcoming.

I would similarly expect that the National Curriculum which is to be developed under the auspices of the Education Ministry will be another pillar of support, added to the collegial support already received from that quarter. Once properly rationalised in regard to its Physical Education content, the Curriculum will provide, on an ongoing basis for successive groups of students, the fundamental understanding of the importance of sports to health, which will continue to serve them as they grow through adulthood.

Of course, all these positive activities require physical facilities, as do competitive activities among the high-performance athletes among us. I should like to note here, in passing, the excellent support of the Ministry for Lands and Works, and especially the Public Works Department in the development of the facilities and plans for facilities under the present administration. In catering for high-performance athletes, please bear in mind that this includes all those who commit to a more or less rigorous schedule of training and organised, scheduled competition under the auspices of more than two dozen national associations—many hundreds of persons.

It has been said that there are no programmes in place to warrant the building of facilities. This policy statement addresses programmes, but let me give a few more details for the benefit of those who may not know or seem not to know.

In Cricket, Madam Speaker, the Primary School League, seven schools participate with some 105 children. There is a first division men's with five teams, with approximately 25 players on each team—125 players. Then there is a second division with another five teams with approximately 25 members on each team making a total of 125 players.

We should note that a combined schoolboys' team of boys from both high schools played in the second division and gave a good account of them.

Swimming: Approximately 860 children and 150 adults pass through the 'Learn to Swim' programmes at the Lion's Centre Aquatic Centre annually.

Basketball: Approximately 170 players participated in a recently concluded league in the following categories: Boys Under 14 and Under 16; Girls Under 14, Under 16; then there is a men's and a women's league.

In Netball there are 100 children, in the Under 9 age group; 84 in the Under 10 group; 75 in the Under 13 group; 60 in the Under 14 group; 150 in the Under 16 group. Then there is a talent club of 50 children and 40 senior women, for an actual membership of 559 participating in the Netball league.

We should note that Netball programmes for this age group begins in October and end in June and national squads are formed for international games.

We should also note that Netball is used as a medium to assist in lifelong experience and development, and Netball is also taught and played in every school in this country except Wesleyan, Truth for Youth and Edmer's.

As of the 30th of November, 1994, the National Team will begin training for the world championships in July 1995 in Birmingham, England. As of January 1995 all of the above age groups will be playing intra-district leagues.

In Volleyball there are 16 teams – 10 players per team, for a total of 160 participants.

In the Little League Softball teams there are approximately 700 participants. There are all age groups up to under age 16.

In Badminton there are 50 adults and 70 children. In Squash there are 200 adults and 45 children. We have 28 youths in Special Olympics, 15 adults and 35 coaches.

In Cycling there are 15 under the age of 18. There are 30 adults and 15 volunteers.

Then there is a Sports Youth Summer Camp.

In Cayman Brac there was one Football Camp with 50 persons and one All-Sports Camp which was mainly conducted by the Sports Office with participation by some 50 young people.

Approximately 150 young ladies attended the Netball camp at the Lion's Centre. Approximately 150 children of all ages attended a Basketball summer camp. Approximately 95 children attended a Cricket camp during the summer. Approximately 450 children and 330 adults were involved in summer classes at the Lion's Aquatic Centre.

International Camps: Two of our talented young people (youth goalkeepers), were sent to a Goalkeepers camp in Florida during the summer.

In Boxing, Charles Whittaker is currently being trained in Florida and has recently won a professional fight. He is expected to do well.

There were several coaches who went to Jamaica for training in Cricket.

Football Programmes: As with other sports, the programme is centred around organised competition which requires a cadre of volunteer coaches, managers, 'team doctors', 'waterboys', supporters, family and friends, along with Government and private sponsorship.

In Football there are nine league competitions either currently active or in the pipeline for the immediate future, as follows: 17 and Under League - 6 Teams; Under 15 League - 4 Teams.

I should say that in the age 17 and under group, there are some 180 players; and the Under 15 League, the four teams there have 60 players.

Under 13 League – 5 Teams, 15 players each = 75 players; Under 11 League A and B Divisions Primary Schools – approximately 390 children; Under 9 League A and B Divisions (Primary Schools) a total of 633 under the age of 17; Senior Men's Division 1 and 2, 18 teams for a total of 450 participating; Cayman Brac – Men's League 4 Teams 25 on each team = 100; Over 30 (Men's League) 6 Teams expected with unlimited registration for approximately 120 players.

The total number of adult men directly involved in Football is 670. There is also the Women's League with 4 Teams—25 players each = 100.

It should also be noted that this will be the first ever Women's League competition and that the efforts made by the Football Association, strongly supported by Government to establish links between the junior and senior teams, is now bearing fruit.

In almost all instances the juniors are being coached by players or coaches from their 'host' senior men's teams.

Youth football camps were revived under this administration, spearheaded by interested parties in the private sector and supported by the Football Association. Cayman Brac has been included. This year alone over 400 youngsters took part, and another clinic, sponsored by Adidas, is to be held here in December.

The first annual District Competition, sponsored by Caribbean Utilities Company (CUC), took place this year and included Cayman Brac.

These programmes are conducted in partnership with volunteer organisations and national associations and any sensible person will understand that there are many programmes.

It is among these persons that we can see clearly illustrated the benefits of self-discipline and value in achievement – the benefits of personality development in general – which comes out of sports. These athletes not only provide entertainment, but also inspiration especially to the youth of the country. It is important that there should be conditions which are safe for play, conducive to good performance, and comfortable for patrons.

It should be borne in mind, too, that the number and diversity of patrons whom we seek to accommodate could very well extend beyond our own population. We are conscious, as is the Tourism Ministry, that the amenities for participation in sports, either as a spectator or user of facilities, are more and more on the list of provisions expected by travellers. A simple example is the increasing numbers of visitors we see walking or running along West Bay Road.

It goes far beyond this, however, to certain 'niche markets' in tourism, which I will say more about shortly in discussing the National Sports and Recreation Centre. The point is, in any event, that there are some possible revenues to be earned in this area, along with all the other benefits already named.

I could easily speak for much longer on any of the aspects I have already touched on, but I trust I have argued the case enough on other occasions that I can leave anyone listening to see behind what I have said. I will only touch on one specific proposal in some detail, that is, the proposed National Recreation Centre, since this has in fact been kicked around so much of late.

Before I do, however, I would like to say, yet again, how grateful the Government is to all those amateur sports persons (that is, persons playing without financial reward, and often at cost to themselves), the volunteer organisers, coaches, and so on, and the supporters and sponsors. Without all of them, there would be a massive gap in the social life of the Cayman Islands. We would be a much poorer people in spirit and in health.

In the coming year, we have undertaken to provide a few coaches in some of the priority sports, in an effort to enhance development, and we also plan to renew our efforts to make it easier for people who wish to give volunteer service. The proposed time release programme, whereby arrangements could be made for the release of employees once or twice a week for a couple of hours per day, can facilitate needed voluntary work not only in sports but in other areas of community service.

I should say that in this time release scheme there are already some 10 or 20 persons involved.

Now to get on to the National Sports and Recreational Centre.

NATIONAL SPORTS AND RECREATIONAL CENTRE

The proposal to construct a National Sports and Recreation Centre has been questioned in recent weeks by certain parties. I am moved once again to ask if those persons raising the questions have simply not given due consideration to the matter, or are they merely being mischievous?

I must point out first of all that Government owns very few sizeable pieces of property, and those that are potentially suitable are already slated for other development. Naturally, in order for a National Centre to be planned properly, adequate land had to be identified. This was part of the task of the National Facilities Committee set up by Government early in 1993.

This Committee examined several areas: The property behind the Middle School – the new George Town Sports Centre – was looked at but did not serve to be adequate. Not much can be built on it except for what is now being built there – football fields, grandstands and related facilities – the main reason being that the adjacent available property was already slated for development and needed expansion of the Community College.

Another area which was examined by the Committee was the property opposite the Holiday Inn on the swamp side and adjacent to Safe Haven on the George Town side. Part of this property was offered to Government by the leaseholders with these conditions:

- 1) That they would give back to Government 80 acres of the swamp joining the North Sound, if Government would give them free and clear the 40-odd acres adjoining the West Bay road.
- 2) There was no support for this proposal in Government. It was felt that in the long run this land now on lease should revert to the people of these Islands in its entirety.
- 3) This property found favour with some of the Committee members.

The proposed development in Spotts was made known to the Committee and so far, all of the members have given their support.

In addition, the three opposition members were appraised by me of Government's intention to purchase the Spotts property for a national centre and they gave me, at that time, their support.

The Cayman Islands are not as affluent as some people say we are, but by the grace of God, hard work, and careful attention to standards, we have done remarkably well for such a small community. We have paid a good deal of attention to building up our infrastructure, in the process, but this infrastructure has often catered to either promoting further economic growth, or to absorbing its impact in physical terms.

Take roads, for example: Good and sufficient roads are essential to facilitate communications and transportation, which are critical to doing business; they also accommodate the growing traffic, which is a benefit – maybe I should say a consequence – of economic growth.

Meanwhile, however, facilities which lend themselves to the enhancement of the quality of life, which seek to create spaces and amenities to enable us to socialise and enjoy ourselves, in a healthy environment, have not received anywhere near the same amount of attention. If we stop and take stock of what has been provided for the population of these Islands in this respect, we have to conclude that we have fallen short.

This Government has made a commitment to address this shortfall – quickly, and in a meaningful way. As you will see, the plans call for development of sports and recreation facilities on three levels: district, regional, and national. In three cases – West Bay, George Town, and Cayman Brac – the district and regional facilities actually go together for the most part.

The bone of contention seems to be that the National Sports and Recreation Centre is unnecessary, and too expensive. I ask the critics to bear in mind that this Centre is to be developed over a period of 10 years, in manageable phases. The factor of cost, however, is really best judged in relation to the need and the prospective returns. I have already hinted at the reasons why a need exists for such a facility, and implied some of the return which may accrue. Let us look at a few specifics.

We should not underestimate the value of the rest and relaxation element which comes with such a facility, offering as it does the possibility of hosting high standards of competition. This will be a boon to us as we face the mental and emotional stresses of a growing society and economy. Neither should we underestimate the need to provide a large park area, with walking trails, picnic areas, swings and benches for our children, et cetera, such as is intended to be provided in the National Centre.

Can it be denied that there is a need for such an amenity in this community? Which community above the subsistence level, would hesitate to develop facilities such as this, to provide for the recreational needs of its elderly and very young?

Can any of us truthfully say that there is presently available in Cayman adequate provision for the clean recreation of families? Can we really say that there is not need in the present situation for the proposed types of amenities, to cater to families?

We make more and more demands, have higher and higher expectations of what families are expected to do, and to be. There is too much television being watched, we say, not enough time being spent with children, not enough attention being paid to family life. Should we not seek to facilitate more positive developments in this area? Is it too much to expect that public amenities such as this will be developed by the Government? The Government's expenditure is of public funds: should not the public be able to enjoy the fruits of it?

This same line of reasoning applies to the proposed Olympic sized pool, which is intended to be developed side by side with recreational aquatic facilities. This kind of development has been done very successfully in Canada.

Of course, the major element of the National Sports and Recreational Centre is intended to cater to the high performance athlete. This is really only sensible planning. To those who say, "Let the regional facilities suffice." Let me respond that there is no point in taking our young athletes to some half-way stage and then letting them go. We have to accept that our athletes will require high level competition to progress, and such facilities actually offer them the possibility of meeting such competition at home; while offering us the benefit of, not only of enjoying them in action, but of providing another means of drawing visitors to our shores. Some will attend the events themselves, but even more will come to know of us through the events.

This leads me to the revenue side of this investment. High profile fixtures which can potentially draw large numbers of visitors as spectators, such as tennis, and swimming, really only become a possibility if we are prepared to provide appropriate facilities. These cannot be duplicated in the district facilities and would have to be part of a national facility.

In addition, there are specific areas that may be targeted, such as provision of winter training and acclimatisation facilities for temperate-zone athletes. We have already catered in a small way to college swim teams seeking winter training facilities, and there is good possibility for expansion in this area.

Competitors in other fields often are 'in the market' for a comfortable venue with the right facilities, to acclimatise themselves prior to participation in a big event in a hot zone. Again, we could cater to this in the national facility.

Similarly, the 'masters' level competitions which are growing internationally, especially in the United States, offer a potential tourism 'niche market' for us to tap into, once the appropriate facilities are available.

Another feature of the National Centre which I have not yet mentioned, is the indoor hall to cater to indoor sports. This, again, has the potential to also become a venue for conferences, either sports related or otherwise, in the context of the other amenities Cayman has to offer in communications, accommodations, and services.

It may be said that if this is such a good investment, then the private sector should be left to do it. I put it to all who will listen, that the benefits that will accrue to the community, in terms of well being, provide the larger part of the justification for this investment. With all due respect, this is not the kind of return the private sector generally seeks for its investments. This is uniquely the responsibility of a caring government to its people. Any community which seeks to make the best of its people and enjoy the greatest happiness will see the value of this type of investment.

This is why we had an Olympics in the first place, and what the modern Olympic movement seeks to inspire us to do. This is why all civilisations of note have held achievements in sports and recreation among their most laudable accomplishments.

Madam Speaker, we must not fail our people in this matter.

I thank you, and the House for your indulgence.

The Speaker: The next item is Questions, and as it is now 11 o'clock, in order for questions to be taken an Honourable Minister is asked to move the suspension of the Standing Order 23(7).

The Honourable Minister for Communications and Works.

SUSPENSION OF THE STANDING ORDER 23(7)

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I move that Standing Orders be suspended to allow us to take the remaining questions on the Order Paper today.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23(7) be suspended in order for questions to be taken after 11 o'clock.

I shall put the question. Those in favour, please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Orders are accordingly suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) SUSPENDED TO ALLOW QUESTIONS AFTER 11 O'CLOCK.

The Speaker: The first question is No. 211, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 211

No. 211: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture what is the Government's position in regards to increasing the amount of assistance offered to the indigent.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the 1995 Draft Budget just completed, the Government has included a proposal to increase financial assistance to the indigent. This will be the second increase in two years. Members will recall that last year it was increased by $25 and this year we have further increased it by adding $50 for a total of $125.
