The main Loan Bill sets out clearly what is being borrowed and what it will be used for. What seems to have put the three Opposition Members in a dilemma is the fact that on the one hand they are saying (as has the Democratic Alliance) that there should be more construction of roads and, on the other hand that we are not voting the money for roads. I do not know who they think they are really fooling in taking this approach. They criticise that there should be more school buildings, but then they want to vote against the money that will provide those buildings. That is simply an irresponsible Opposition. They cannot reconcile between themselves what they want to do, they want to criticise regardless of whether one is doing what they feel should be done or not.

Loan Bills and the Finance Committee deal with what can be spent within the year. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman referred to the school buildings... he opposes a lot of what I and this Government (the National Team Government) have done for schools. One of the tactics, I am speaking generally, of socialist governments is not to educate the people; keep them in the dark and at the end of the day you can become chief minister and rule the country. I stand clearly in the way of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, or Mr. Linford Pier-son, or anyone else becoming chief minister. That is the reason why so much wrath has been put on me.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: On a point of order, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: May I hear the Point of order, Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

POINT OF ORDER

(Relevance)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean : As is normal for the Minister for Education, he is rambling off into Socialism and Chief Ministers while debating this Bill. Madam Speaker, I raise the point on relevance. Secondly, he is using my identification in this House in connection with his insane ramblings about Socialism. There is no connection between the two!

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman has a point of order, because I was going to ask the Minister to refrain from speaking about Socialism. There has been no attempt in this country, as far as I know, to import socialism. I think that we need to get away from that aspect and continue to deal with the finances as set out in the two Bills under discussion. Thank you.

Would you please proceed, Honourable Minister?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. At least we know who the cap fits.

Looking at the Bill itself...

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, I know the point of order. Can we just pass this over for the time being?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I constantly bow to your ruling. But, please, speak to the Minister for Education. It could change me from my good-natured self to where he might not like what would happen in here. I am capable of that.

The Speaker: Shall we just pass this over? I would like to say that this reminds me of when I was in school and someone misbehaved. I said to the teacher, would you speak to so and so, and she said, "I have spoken to you." So, can I say that I have spoken? Let us end it right there. Thank you.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the Bill itself...

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, is the Member threatening people? This is serious now, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: I have not heard that.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Well, he is threatening us across the way with the Mace and about it being a missile of 60 pounds. We know what he is capable of, and I would ask him to refrain from it.

The Speaker: In fact that is quite out of order and I would ask that we continue with the discussion before the House, which is the two Loan (Capital Projects) Bills. Shall we refrain, in future, from any other comments?

Please proceed Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The financial position in this country is the best that it has ever been. I laid on the Table of this Honourable House at the last sitting, the Accountant General's Memorandum which dealt with the position of Government and what it had repaid on loans. This points very clearly to the fact that in three short years, down to 1995, we had put from Recurrent Revenue into Capital Expenditure $41,948,132. That is pure profit. If the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman can understand figures of this size, he will know that the Ministers along with the National Team had three good years. That has come about, unfortunately, without the help of the Opposition who are always crying down the Government in their little ways and taking backward approaches to the accounting.

In 1993 the profit that went into Capital Expenditure from Recurrent Revenue was $11,176,986; in 1994, the profit from Recurrent Revenue to Capital Expenditure was $13,944,551; and in 1995, we had a profit of $16,826,595 that went into Capital Expenditure. That is pure profit, a total of $41,948,132. I will be happy to give a copy of this to either one of the three Opposition Members who might have forgotten, because this is fact, it is signed by the Accountant General.

It is incorrect and nearly hallucinatory for the Opposition to say this country is not in a good financial position. If one looks, they will see that the profit each year has moved basically up: from $11.1 million in 1993, to $13.9 in 1994, to $16.8 million in 1995. These are facts, nobody can dispute them; these have come from the Government's accounts. On top of that, for the three years we have repaid $19,142,058 on the past Government's debts, because the only thing (and that is not the last Government, that includes all past Governments) that is far in excess of the amounts that have been borrowed. Up to this point, the point of these Loan (Capital Project) Bills, for this year the Government had only borrowed about $8 million. So, in effect, up to this stage the Government and the National Team have a profit of $61 million with only a borrowing of $8 million.

So this amount of $10 million that is brought up today is peanuts. Remember, these figures do not include the contributions for this year which we understand are probably going to be in the area of between $14 million to $18 million going to Capital Expenditure. Yes, there are large amounts of capital projects that are being done now, but we must remember that some of these projects, if they are to be done, cannot be financed from Recurrent Revenue. It is like trying to build a house out of your monthly salary. We have done that for three years, but the time has come when we have to borrow long-term. It is not a large amount of money when we look at what we have repaid and more than that, the amount that has been contributed to Capital Expenditure from Recurrent Revenue. So basically we have paid, including this year, about $80 million mainly towards Capital with about 1/3 of it going towards the repayment of past loans. That is undoubtedly good fiscal policy.

We are nowhere near reaching the 10% mark of principal and interest in loans. We are a long distance away from that, Madam Speaker. The only way that these large projects can be done is with medium and long-term loans. But these are projects that the public will benefit from, and that is why the three Opposition Members continue to oppose them because they do not want to see the Government succeed. Worse than that, they do not want to see the public get the benefit of these projects. I do not know how they expect to get votes in trying to stop a school or a hospital from being built, or trying to stop roads from being repaired or built. What they (the Opposition Members) should do is jump on the band wagon and say, "Yes, we need roads, we need school buildings, and we need parks", and try to take a bit of credit for it. That is what causes you to lose elections eight times and never learn. These are the mistakes that the public does not forgive you for. Therefore, the approach of this Government has been a positive one towards the betterment of the public's interest, their way of life. We have to remember that unlike the $20 million in taxes that was put on just before the last two years before the Election, we have not put on anything of any consequence in the last two years that has affected the local people. We have put this $80 million of profit into the Capital Expenditure without getting into excessive increases in taxes and that sort of thing.

It is good government and the public knows this. That is what frustrates the Opposition and their little followers, and why their policies are never forward but sometimes backward. It has to be a backward approach to oppose something such as school buildings. These are for our children, these are our future.

The placards, the one or two that were dealing with finances today outside of the House were really a pitiful attempt by some of the supporters of our Opposition (I am speaking generally now) to try to cause a bit of concern. But the public knows the facts. We are responsible people and we are only going to do what is in the public's interest.

Madam Speaker, perhaps the surprise that the Fourth Elected Member for George Town and his Democratic Alliance members, Mr. Pierson and Mr. Briggs have just found out is that they do not even know the procedures of this House, and if they know it, then they are misrepresenting the facts as they have attempted to put out today. They have attempted to say that we have purchased the Cayman Food s building. Surely, Mr. Pierson is an accountant, he must have enough sense to know that if a Loan Bill is before the House that the authority to raise the funds to pay for these projects comes from it. So should the Fourth Elected Member from George Town. In fact, I have explained this to him, so I am at a loss as to why that Honourable Member has gotten into something here that totally misrepresents the position.

My position has been clearly set out in a letter to the press and one would have thought that before putting in such a serious, libellous, in fact misrepresentation, stating that I have purchased the Cayman Foods building.... They should have had enough sense to try to understand the democratic process in this House. The Caymanian Compass had been out four or five days before stating what the Loan Bill was for. But this is all politics in an Election year, and it is totally incorrect to state that I, or the Government has purchased the Cayman Food s building or the Baptist building or any other matter that sits in this Bill. It is totally untrue. Those who have stated that should be ashamed of themselves for the misrepresentation to the public.

What we have before us is a Bill that, if passed in this House, will authorise the Government, through the Financial Secretary, to raise loans for these different projects. It does not mean... and surely, the Fourth Elected Member for George Town and Mr. Briggs and Mr. Pierson must know that we do not buy things before we have the money. So, if this Bill is passed the loan is then sought. Once the funds are received, then negotiations are entered into through the Lands and Survey Department for the purchase of the lands. The Department looks at all the evaluations and comes to a conclusion. It is not a matter of me doing what, for example, Mr. Linford Pierson did, who personally negotiated the purchase of the Campbell Building, and recommended $1 million for the SafeHaven project, and bought the land for the Port Authority without going to the Lands and Survey Office: That is not the position here. The position is that the maximum that can be paid on any of these projects listed here is the amount that is in the Loan Bill, but that is only an authority.

If the process within Government finds that the land is worth less or more when they look at the private valuations and their valuations, Government will settle on a price and if they cannot at the end of that reach an agreement with the vendors, so be it. It falls through. So it is not correct to say that the Government has bought the land, or that I have bought the land, or that there is a contact for sale on this property. In fact, this morning one of the Opposition Members asked the question to the Honourable Third Official Member and he tried to explain. They do not want to hear the truth, and I repeat that it is a lie for anybody to state that this property, or any other property listed in this Loan Bill, has been purchased. It cannot legally be purchased. Anyone who says that, and then goes to the public and says that they can run a country like the Cayman Islands, in my view, is misrepresenting his own ability. If they do not understand a simple procedure of authorising a loan for projects being different from purchasing or erecting buildings, then I cannot help them and the public should not help them either by putting them in this Legislative Assembly. They will just be a millstone around the public's neck.

That is why I will go on to deal with where we are now financially, and really look at what a grim picture our finances presented when we took over the Government. The Memorandum from the Accountant-General (these are facts that I brought to this House during the last sitting) showed that in 1992 there was a deficit on Recurrent Revenue of $3.6 million; in 1991 there was a surplus which was a contribution to Capital Expenditure of $1.8 million; and in 1990 a deficit of $1.2 million. So that all the Capital Expenditure for 1992 of $18.1 million; 1991 of $17.2 million and 1990 of $13.7 million were financed by drawing on the Reserves and Surplus left when Sir Vassel Johnson and Capt. Charles Kirkconnell ran the country in a business-like and very able way. They left some $38 million in there which the last Government, including Mr. Ezzard Miller and Mr. Linford Pierson, destroyed and wasted within one year. They showed a loss of $48 million in three years. That is frightening - $48 million more was spent than they raised in Recurrent Revenue compared to our surplus for the three years of $41, 948,132. So the difference in the position when we add the present surplus to the deficit will show that we are actually about $90 million better off than the last government during their time.

Those are the people outside of this House, Madam Speaker, who are now coming to the public talking about how they want to run the country. They had their chance and they ruined it. They should remain where they were put after the last Elections - as the late Mr. Haig would say - in mothballs. If the three Opposition Members of this Honourable House do not watch themselves, they might well be in the same category as the two members of the last Government.

Even worse than that, I heard the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman talking about how any government can borrow money. This Government can borrow money, but let us not forget that the Cayman Airways' loan of $20 million (US) could not be borrowed by the last Government, because they had no credit. That is a fact. The National Team Government had to borrow that $20 million to cover two and a half years of loss that was nearly US $35 million. On top of that $40 million in loss, they had another $35 million in two and a half years. They bankrupted the country. That Government could not borrow money. That was a hard fact, Madam Speaker.

When this Government came into office, we went to raise that loan and were told, "Let us see your budget before the bank will make a decision whether you can borrow $20 million to pay for the last Government's debt." It was not until May or June of the following year, if we remember the Resolution was passed in June of 1992, almost one year later after we had established ourselves as a Government that the credibility of this country was returned. The public should never forget that, because if they do, they are going to continue to pay for it, the debts of the last Government will be paid for over the next 15 years. One generation of Caymanians will come under the debt that was left by the last Government and will spend the earlier part of their lifetime repaying.

That should tell any young person out there, especially those young ones who have been given a good education, that people who oppose schools - private schools, government schools, the school system - should not have the benefit of receiving their votes. People who oppose (I am talking generally about candidates when I say this, Madam Speaker) the sporting facilities that the Honourable Minister is struggling to get for the young people, should not get the vote of the people. I believe that they are smart enough, and are well educated enough to know the difference.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman when talking about responsible Government, should just look at the national airline, or perhaps talk to some of the people with the airline who have had three pay increases in the past few years, to see where it has come over the years. The figures and facts are here and there is nothing that can be said to warp the position.

What is frightening is what the two Opposition Members tried to put out in a newspaper report. The Honourable Financial Secretary had to deal with this because an attempt had been made to show that the Government's debt had increased last year by wrongly adding an area of debt that related to statutory authorities on the one hand, but leaving it off on the other side. That clearly showed that while they attempted to add some $15 or $20 million (I do not have it before me at present) to the debt, it had in fact been reduced. But this is the way that those Honourable Opposition Members have tried to warp the figures.

If the public is going to follow anything, they should go by the facts that are put out by the Auditor-General. They are available. I gave them to the press the last time and they are available for everyone to see. So the public has nothing to worry about with this loan. It is small, we have repaid far more on loans than we are now borrowing. In my view this is prudent spending on projects that are very necessary for the country. We have to have the infrastructure to assist the public.

I would also like to remind the members of the Democratic Alliance that if they are going to present what appears to be facts, they should get their facts straight. I have not bought any building or any land including the Cayman Food s building. I have neither bought, nor has the Government bought, any of the other lands that are listed in the Loan Bills. When the proper authority is passed, the Bill has to be assented to by the Governor. So we are looking at some distance down the line and after that a loan has to be negotiated, then the proper process (which obviously Mr. Linford Pierson never followed, so he would not know what it is) will then be followed. It will not be in my hands. The process of dealing with the raising of money and the entering into of whatever agreements can then be negotiated regarding the property.

I would like to point out clearly to the public that there are some projects that are crucial to the school system. One of them is the Lighthouse School. To be frank, anyone who opposes the Lighthouse School... in fact the Opposition Members have been invited there time and time again and, rarely, if at all, have they gone there... if anyone goes and see the position of the Lighthouse School, no one will stand in the way of any projects that are geared towards helping and assisting those children.

We had a study done in the United Kingdom where schools similar to ours are operated (in the United States more mainstreaming is done than in the British system). The Permanent Secretary of my Portfolio and the Chief Education Officer visited the United Kingdom and subsequently we had an expert who came to the Islands and did a report in relation to the school for the handicapped. His recommendation has been that it should be put next to a school in which these children, when they are ready for mainstreaming, can be mainstreamed sometimes even for short periods, 15 minutes, an hour per day, or for every few days whatever. It has to be a school building that is capable of taking wheelchairs, as we know some of them have certain physical disabilities. That project which we hoped we would have finally found sufficient land for (we need to find three to four acres of land) a purpose-built school is intended to be built so that it will have custom-built classrooms. We had hoped that this land and building would be available for that. But if it is stopped, then it is clearly on the shoulders of the three Opposition Members in the House and Mr. Linford Pierson whose agitating letters (which I know are his, but someone else signs them) are trying to stop this project.

Three pods will be built in which custom-built classrooms... and we are getting an architect from the United Kingdom who specialises in this area, but a site has to be found before the schools can be built. For the last 15 to 18 months we have been looking with the assistance of the Public Works Department to find property to build this school. We are now at a stage where the report is in and in a position where we can, providing that we have land secured, get the plans ready for it. It would really be sad if anyone got in the way of the Lighthouse School project and cause a year's delay or more.

The other problem that faces me on the school side is that we have a large influx of Primary 1 students coming into the system which neither the Government schools nor the private schools' facilities for this school year can take. Those children have to be placed somewhere; a combination of building onto Government's schools and attempting to induce private schools to take these children in are the most economical and sensible ways to approach the subject. But time does not wait when we are dealing with schools, whatever is going to be done must be in place for the school year beginning in September.

So clearly on the shoulders of the three Opposition Members and Mr. Linford Pierson is the slowing down that is caused there, because if things are stopped then, when parents come to me I intend to send them to the three Opposition Members and Mr. Pierson to explain to them where their children are going to be put. I hate to have to put it in that form, but that is the situation where if, the schools buildings that are planned...

POINT OF ORDER
(Relevance)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, relevance. We are talking about $10 million and $8 million, and I know some of it is going towards school. I do not understand where my shoulders, etcetera, come to these sums of money.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I am not sure what he means by that, because I am sure, like everyone else, that the majority will vote for the Bill unless something has gone wrong with the membership here. How can three Opposition Members stop the projects? That is the point.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: (Inaudible interjection.)

The Speaker: Pardon?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: (Inaudible interjection.)

The Speaker: Well that has nothing to do with the number in Opposition now.

Honourable Minister, please continue with your statements.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden : Madam Speaker, it is a fact that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town oppose private schools, and they oppose...

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order?

POINT OF ORDER
(False motives)

Mr. Roy Bodden : Yes, Madam Speaker. The Minister is imputing false motives to the position we took. We made no such statement that we oppose private schools. I crave the Chair's indulgence in stopping this miscreant.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, there is a valid point of order. So far, I have not heard any of the two Members (so far only one has spoken, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman) and I have not heard him say that he opposed buildings for schools.

Would you continue, and close off your debate if you are nearly finished. Just avoid that point about opposing the schools.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, if the Honourable Member had not jumped to his feet so quickly, he would have heard the balance of my sentence. With respect, he intervened before I finished my statement. My statement is that they opposed private schools by opposing the funding of private schools which they have done in this Honourable House. There is no doubt about it. They have made statements in the newspaper, as well as writing letters. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town has written a letter...

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, First Elected Member for Bodden Town?

POINT OF ORDER
(False motives)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, the Honourable Minister continues to impute false motives. I challenge him to bring the proof where I declared that I opposed funding public schools. Let him table the proof, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, it is clearly recorded that when I have put up grants for private schools the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac opposed. They voted against it. This is what is upsetting them at this stage, because this is a fact. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town recently wrote a letter criticising the giving of money to private schools. Worse than that, he was trying to bring elitism, and, up to a point, an imputation of the racial structure of those schools into effect.

So it is clear that when I come here for grants for private schools, the church schools, that they have been opposed. That is a fact. Every time Finance Committee meets to vote money for it there is opposition to it. If there is no opposition to private schools, then let us see, after all the talk and letters, who is going to vote for the funds. If so, then someone is speaking out of one side of his mouth.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION - 4.30 PM

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, it is now 4.30 p.m. I do not expect that you will be finished this evening.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: No, Madam Speaker. I have had so many interruptions that I.... I will be quick on Friday.

The Speaker: Will you move the motion for the adjournment?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

I shall put the question, those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM THURSDAY, 20TH JUNE, 1996

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: In accordance with Standing Order 23(5), I seek the permission of the House to defer this question until a later sitting.

The Speaker: The question is that the answer to Question No. 59 be deferred until a later sitting during this Meeting.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The question is accordingly deferred until a later sitting.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 59 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Question No. 60, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 60

No. 60: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to state the number of prisoners serving time at Northward Prison (excluding those sentenced to life imprisonment) and to provide details of sentencing such as gender, age and length of sentence.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: First the number of male inmates: Governor's pleasure 1; Others 115; Total 116.

The breakdown is as follows: Prisoners between the ages of 18 to 25 - 34. The average length of sentence is four years five months. Again, this is dealing with male prisoners.

Between the ages of 26 to 40 - 63. The average length of sentence is two years nine months.

Male prisoners over the age of 40 years - 18. The average length of sentence is two years six months

The number of female inmates is nine. The average length of sentence is two years three months.

A further breakdown is as follows: Between the ages of 18 to 25 - one; Between the age of 26 to 40 - seven; Over 40 - one.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is the Honourable Member in a position to say if the numbers in the age groups 18 to 25 and 26 to 40 have been constant over the last two years, or have there been any fluctuations? If so, in what direction?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: I am not in a position to say whether the numbers in those age categories are increasing, decreasing or holding constant.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 61, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 61

No. 61: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development to state the number of customs duty evasion cases uncovered since June 1995 to date.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: For the period June 1995 to present, the Customs Department Task Force Unit in its routine inspection disclosed a total of 66 duty evasion cases.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say how many of these cases have been recommended for prosecution, or how many have been settled without prosecution?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: They have all been settled without prosecution.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member state whether any of these cases have been by entities with a previous history of custom evasion?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: These were all first time offenders.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member state what the policy is in these types of circumstances?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Provision is made under the law for three times the duty to be applied in the case of duty evasion. But the Collector of Customs has discretion in these matters and he often seeks the advice of the Legal Department before the introduction of such penalties.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 62, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 62

No. 62: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works why the 9-1-1 system is being relocated from the George Town Fire Station to the 3rd floor of the George Town Police Station.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: In answering a similar question asked by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town at the First Meeting of this Honourable House in February, I provided the answer as to why the 9-1-1 system was relocated to the Central Police Station. The same answer still stands, which is as follows:

After having conducted a final evaluation of the project, prior to entering into contract for the system, it was determined that the majority of calls are of a police nature and with the grouping of Emergency Medical Service and police in central dispatch utilising the same staff, a savings of approximately $378,000 will be realised, thus making it more practical in having the system housed there.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Minister say how many additional staff members are being recruited to operate the 9-1-1 system?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Six posts were established in supervisory positions.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I did not ask how many posts were established, I asked how many people were being recruited.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: The recruiting is being done at the present time and interviews are being carried out by Personnel. I cannot remember any figures. If the information is available at a later date, I will be happy to provide it.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: If, as the answer states, after having conducted a final evaluation of the project (prior to entering into the contract for the system) it was determined that a majority of the calls were of a police nature, why, then, did the Government go ahead before that to construct an addition to the existing Fire Station to house the 9-1-1 system?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: I will have to repeat to the Member what I said to the First Elected Member for Bodden Town when he asked the same question in February, and that is that it is far from being truthful that that building was constructed for the 9-1-1 system. The 9-1-1 system was going to utilise a small portion of the building built at the Fire Station for emergency services.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 63, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 63
(Deferred)

No. 63: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development what the figure for General Reserves was as at 30th November, 1992, and what is the projected figure for 31st December, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer to this question is not likely to be finalised until early next week. Accordingly, I would like to seek the leave of this Honourable House, under Standing Order 23(5) to defer the answer to Question No. 63 until a later Sitting.

The Speaker: The question is that the answer to Question No. 63 be deferred until a later Sitting during this Meeting.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The question is accordingly deferred.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 63 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 64, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 64

No. 64: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning how the numbers of Cayman Airways Limited's staff compare at present with the number after it was down-sized three years ago.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Cayman Airways Limited's down-sizing took place over a period of nine months starting in April 1993 when the employee count was 393. By December 1993 this figure had been reduced to 322.

Through June 1996 the employee count stands at 308. These figures include the North American offices.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Might the Minister have a breakdown of this number of 308, as to how many Caymanians are employed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I do not have that, but I can assure the Member that Caymanians were kept in preference to non-Caymanians. Obviously, the fact that we are now another 14 below the down-sizing goes to show that Cayman Airways has been prudent in its operation. It is obviously not the answer that the Member wanted.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, the Honourable Minister has no idea about the answer that I wanted, I simply asked the question.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 65, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 65

No. 65: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation whether a contract has been signed with McAlpine Limited for the construction of the George Town Hospital and, if so, what was the date of signing and the amount of the contract.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The standard Cayman Islands Government Construction Contract, entitled G.C. Works 1, is the United Kingdom's Government standard contract, modified in July 1986 for use in the Cayman Islands and approved by Government's Legal Department. G.C. Works 1 does not require a formal signing for the contract to be binding. The legally binding contract is actually established without any "formal signing" ceremony at the conclusion of a three stage process:

(1) the contractor submits a written tender which is his offer to carry out the work in accordance with the tender documents;

(2) Government accepts the tender in writing;

(3) the contractor acknowledges in writing that he has received Government's written acceptance of the tender.

McAlpine Limited provided Government with the necessary written acknowledgement of receipt of acceptance on 27th March, 1996, thereby establishing a legally binding contract to construct the new Cayman Islands Health Services Complex. I therefore announced to the general public by way of a media conference held on 27th March, 1996, that the contract had been awarded to McAlpine Limited for the sum of $17,988,805.52.

Just for information, this is the type and size of the G.C. 1 provided to Government.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I am somewhat baffled this morning. I think we have come upon a brand new situation, at least as is known or heard about in this House.

Is the Honourable Minister saying that there is no formal contract signed with McAlpine Limited setting out specific conditions and terms? Exactly what is the answer here saying?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: As I set out, it shows the procedure which... and for the information of this Honourable House, I would be willing to table this document which is used universally by Government Services to provide contracts to tenders.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Would the Honourable Minister say if there is any signing in this document at any time, or can one walk away from it, stay with it, or exactly what is the situation? What makes this document legally binding as a contract? Perhaps the Minister would table it, as it would be an edification for all of us.

The Speaker: I need to say that that answer has very clearly been provided by the Minister in the first paragraph. It does say that it has been approved by Government's Legal Department. The legally binding contract is actually established without any formal signing ceremony. Therefore, Government has accepted the tender in writing and it is legally binding. I do not think the Minister can add anything further.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Minister say what makes the document legally binding?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: As I have been advised by the Legal Department, it is the three steps as set out here. I do not know what else I can say. Unlike the last time when the contract was signed, we have done all things properly. Everything done on this hospital situation has been set out in Government guidelines. It has taken a bit longer, but I made very, very sure that what was done was done in the proper procedure.

The Speaker: The last supplementary by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Minister say if there is any break-clause with a penalty, and is the amount of $17,988,805.52 provided for anywhere by a Money Bill at this time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: There is within the contract the right for Government to break the contract. The funding, as I said when we originally spoke about the hospital, has been appropriated by this Honourable House in Finance Committee's November sitting, for funds we would have used this year. Next year we will deal with them as needed.

QUESTION NO. 66

No. 66: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning whether Board Meetings of Cayman Airways Limited are held overseas and, if so, how many were held during the past year, and where.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddien: The Board of Directors of Cayman Airways Limited holds a planning meeting in one of its gateway cities annually. The meeting is usually held in June. This year's meeting was held 5th and 6th of June in Houston, Texas.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Does the Board of Cayman Airways hold any meetings other than planning meetings overseas, and were any held in the past year?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister cannot answer that as it was not part of the substantive question about a meeting being held last year. If he is able to do that, well and good, but if not, it was not part of the original question.

The next question is No. 67, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 67

No. 67: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs what is Government's policy regarding Civil Servants flying first-class.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Officers entitled to first-class travel overseas are: The Governor; the Chief Justice; Official Members of Executive Council; Permanent Secretaries if accompanying any of the aforementioned on duty.

I should like to note that Elected and Official Members of Executive Council have waived their right to travel first class and instead travel business or club class.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Member say if he is aware of any instances where some Heads of Department travel first class?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: I am not aware of specific cases, but I do know that in North America on domestic routes where business or club class cabins are not available and where the flights are longer than two hours, that first class is allowed.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Is this allowed for Heads of Departments, because the list here shows Permanent Secretaries.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: There is an entitlement for business or club class travel, and most Heads of Departments above a certain salary cap are allowed to travel this class.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I wonder if the Honourable Member could say why the Speaker of this Legislative Assembly is not in this list of officers entitled to first class travel on duty.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The simple answer is that it is not listed in the General Orders. But I thank the Member for North Side for bringing it to my attention. This can certainly be done.

Perhaps I should simply point out that in the past, and the General Orders go back a long way, the President of the Legislative Assembly was the Governor, and he travelled in his capacity. But that is an oversight that can and will be corrected.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the list of officers entitled it says Official Members of Executive Council, but the footnote speaks of Elected and Official Members. For purposes of clarity, would the Honourable Member say whether Elected Members of Executive Council are entitled?

The Speaker: The Member cannot really reply to that as it is clearly set out "Officers entitled to first-class travel overseas are: The Governor; the Chief Justice; Official Members of Executive Council; Permanent Secretaries if accompanying any of the aforementioned on duty...". The additional footnote says "Elected and Official Members of Executive Council have waived their right to travel first class...".

Can you answer, then, why the Elected Officials are not included in the first part?

Hon. James M. Ryan: The reason for that is that the substantive question asked what was Government's policy regarding Civil Servants flying first class. I simply put in, in addition to Official Members having waived their rights, that Elected Members also did the same thing.

The Speaker: If there are no further supplementaries, that concludes Question Time for this morning.

Other Business, Private Members' Motions. Private Member's Motion No. 3 of 1996. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 3/96

DEBATE ON THE REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE AND THE AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1994, AND THE GOVERNMENT MINUTE WHICH RELATES TO IT

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I beg to Move Private Member's Motion No. 3/96, Debate on the Report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands' Government for the year ended 31st December, 1994, and the Government Minute which relates to it.

"BE IT RESOLVED THAT the House now debate the Report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands' Government for the year ended 31st December, 1994, together with the Government Minute, subsequent to it having been laid on the Table of this Honourable House on the 18th day of March, 1996."

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I respectfully beg to second the Motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 3/96, having been duly moved and seconded, is now open for debate.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

(10.45 AM)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: The three reports referred to were, in effect, set down for debate at the request of the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee when the report of that Committee was made earlier this year.

The three reports reflect perhaps the most comprehensive view of Government's overall monetary operation, the effects of it, the lack or the result from these various areas. There is much information contained in these three documents. I do not propose to attempt to speak on all of them, but I have chosen certain areas which look at the findings of the Auditor General, the Public Accounts Committee and Government's reply to some of the statements in the Auditor General's report and the Public Accounts Committee Report, and Government's answer to the queries raised.

I would first of all like to comment on the question of debt collection as referred to in the Government Minute, where the Government says that it is undertaking to set up a debt collection unit and that some debts are not collectable. The point I make is that it is obvious that the system which existed during 1994, and perhaps to date, has not been adequate to address one of the most basic and fundamental needs of the Government, that of collecting debts owed to it. If there is recognition that there are debts owed to it, then there is not in place (at least at this time) the means by which it can legally be done.

There was also an undertaking by the Government that steps would be taken to see to it that legal expertise was available, where necessary, to collect outstanding monies through the courts. The amount of money outstanding at the time of the report of the Auditor General was $12.5 million. According to the Government Minute, only $6 million or $7 million of this might be collectable. This raises the question why the other $6 million is not collectable, and it also places an onus on the Government to tell the public what type of debts we are talking about and, indeed, to come to the Finance Committee to seek approval for a write-off of these amounts and, for that matter, to have these amounts approved by this Legislative Assembly.

Another area of considerable significance is the radio and television licensing fees. The Government has responded to this outstanding amount by saying that CITN and CTS (which are Cayman International Network, Caribbean Limited and Cayman Television Services Limited) have permanent licences and the licence for Z-99 is now in the process of finalisation. The point that was made by the Public Accounts Committee is that by these licences not being granted Government was not really in a position to collect the fees from these licences; and there seemed to have been considerable doubt as to how much should be paid in this particular instance.

The Public Accounts Committee made the observation that the receipt of royalty fees was dependent on the issuance of a permanent licence. They went on to say that "It is not clear to the Committee the date from which CITN's royalties are payable. Additionally, Executive Council is said to have granted a 12 month moratorium on royalty fees from the commencement of cable broadcasting. The MMDS licence is silent on a moratorium period and does not specify the commencing date for royalty assessment. Witnesses were not able to clarify these points. As a result of these uncertainties, the Committee was unable to establish the extent of revenue arrears."

This is typical, it seems, of the type of contracts that are written under the present Government. There is always doubt as to when the person must begin to pay the Government, and when it comes into effect. With the Executive Council granting moratoriums it seems to be vague as to the length of time and when anyone should start paying. These things continue to show a lack of proper financial management under the Government of the day.

The television station, too, according to the Public Accounts Committee, is supposed to submit annual audited financial statements to Government. The Committee stated, and I quote, "The Committee is concerned that the licensee has failed to provide these audited accounts, despite numerous requests from the Ministry...". It seems that we have a developing situation, as with the dredging in the country. I further quote, "Since presentation of the Auditor General's Report, the Ministry has received some recent quarterly audited statements of revenue and the latest annual unaudited management accounts for WestStar TV Limited. Ministry officials confirmed to the Committee that these statements do not meet the licence requirements."

This Legislature has a duty to insist that the Government carry out the business of the people of this country by collecting fees which are due to it. There is but one functioning television service here, which is CITN; although there are also claims that there is one CTS. That seems to perpetually run information on the Cayman Islands which would be of particular interest to visitors. I have wondered about that programme and who pays, for I do not believe that channel 24 runs perpetually without someone paying for it. I wonder if it is the Government or not.

I am particularly concerned about the operation of television in this country in that I was the person back in 1990, or 1991, when the possible awarding of licences was coming up (and there was then a different company offering television services), who brought a motion that no one company should have a monopoly in offering television services. The House agreed unanimously with the Motion. The Government of the day issued more than one licence.

What now appears to be happening is that there is a collusion between the persons who have the two licences, supposedly under the guise that one management company is managing the two television stations. I want to know how one management company is going to manage two television stations and there be any form of competitiveness in it. Or is there not to be any competitiveness? Is it purely a money deal for one group of persons to have the television licenses in the Cayman Islands, controlling television broadcasts, while others are excluded therefrom? What does the country get for it?

One thing I noticed is that when it comes to local television programming in this country, it is virtually zero unless one chooses to see Issues 27 (as it is so-called) which is put on by the television station every now and then as local programming. One of the things this country needs is local programming to educate the people of this country in their rights as citizens and in the functioning of Government; in the rights and privileges of voting and the importance of voting; programmes that would make for a more informed and better educated public. The Government itself has not done this. For years I have been an advocate of programming similar to PBS, where sponsors could be found.

The latest thing that we hear of in the direction of Government is that a programme is supposed to come into effect to show the wonderful things which are happening politically in various Government departments. That is not really the most important aspect to the public.

I think the question of television services in the Cayman Islands needs to be seriously examined to determine the public benefits that can be derived from it. It is also necessary for the Government to collect any fees outstanding to it from this particular service. It should not fall into the category of the dredging royalties.

Undoubtedly, the only ads that go on the television are those that are paid for, and the only people who watch the cable television are those who pay their fees - they would be cut off otherwise. The Government should be as positively responsive as the television station is.

I also believe that it is important to see that there is competitiveness in television - even to the point where Government advertises for persons who might be interested in offering television services here in the islands to ensure that it does not simply fall to only a handful of individuals, or to a company that has cross-pollinated and become one, it seems.

I hope that the Government-managed audit, which the Government claims to be carrying out in regard to these television stations, has been carried out by this time and that the Government would be in a position to say that they have collected the monies which are due. I also hope that the moratorium has come to an end by this time.

The next point that I would like to raise is in regard to the statement of losses and waivers as identified by the Auditor General, and also noted by the Public Accounts Committee. We hear of various duty write-offs. Invariably it never happens to the poor man on the street, not to the person who can best benefit from reductions in duty, and so forth, we hear of it happening to major establishments such as the Westin Casuarina Hotel, which had a write-off, or a reduction of up to 15%. If I remember correctly, in the last report given by the Financial Secretary (in reply to a question) it owed in the region of $200,000 in disputed customs duty.

It is important for the Government to determine where there is genuine need for a waiver of duty, or for duty to be taken off, or for a reduction in fees as the case may be. In the Government Minute the procedure that is followed, according to the Government statement, is that when there is a request for a waiver in custom duty, this is made to the Minister for Tourism. In cases where it relates to private industry incentives, or to the Portfolio of Finance, in cases where it is religious, charitable or sporting organisations, the Government says that these are carefully researched and advice from various departments is sought. This includes consultation with Immigration, General Registry, Customs Department, the Minister of Tourism, Economics and Statistics Department. If all of these persons are consulted in regard to waiving of customs duty, I wonder why there seem to be so many problems with collecting duty, even at reduced rates? Why does the Government sit around and allow these things to happen and find excuses for payments not being made?

I am told that in the case of one particular hospital property there is an incredible 'sweetheart' deal ongoing, one which I am not totally informed about as yet. If it is as the first indications to me suggest, it has to be one of the greatest skimming operations that has come about in a long time, and certainly one of the biggest losses to Government's revenue. I hope to have more information on that in the not-too-distant future, at which time I will approach Government for some answers, through Parliamentary question or otherwise.

There is the ongoing problem of collection of hospital fees. The method which could have best suited Government was for these fees to be collected through a statutory body, such as was in place with the Health Authority. One of the main reasons for the establishment of that was the considerable reluctance on the part of the public in general to pay Government for medical services supplied. It is something which has developed over generations - that Government, being the entity that it is, is supposed to provide for the need, even where money is not available.

Successive administrations have not taken as tough a stand as should have been taken in many instances. Even now there are many cases where money is owed to Government. The Government statement in this regard says that steps are being taken to improve the accounting system and the billing system. All of this is fine, but one has to wonder seriously if it would not be in the best interest in offering health services to have a statutory authority, like the Port Authority and the Water Authority, which takes a business approach and does not have to be in any way persuaded, dissuaded or influenced by what might be the political sympathy of the day when collecting for these services.

Vast sums of money are being paid from the Cayman Islands into at least one industrialised country of the world - the United States - for health services. All of us know that it is one of the most costly in the world. Here we are talking about millions of dollars in any given year. Health service is one of the major areas where Government must ensure that the mechanisms to provide for collection of fees, once the service has been rendered, are in place.

The Auditor General in his Report made note of the fact that the money which was spent by this Government to build private roads and driveways in West Bay was at the time unauthorised by Parliament. Private driveways with public funds. Strangely enough, there is not a single comment about that in the Public Accounts Committee's Report, and it is easy to know why.

In the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature of the Cayman Islands, there is not a single Member of the Opposition. It is chaired by a Government Backbench Member and all of the other Members are Government Backbench Members. It is certainly against all convention under the British style of Government. It is essential that there be some opposing persons within that Committee who would be inclined to query things the Government is doing while, naturally, the Government Members will try to find reason or excuse for everything the Government is doing. This was one such case.

The Auditor General says (and I quote), "In August 1994 verbal instructions were relayed from Ministers to the Acting Chief Engineer, Public Works Department, to the effect that funds were to be re-allocated from an approved project ($400,000 for land purchases, authorised for the proposed Harquail Bypass) to certain projects to be carried out primarily on private roads and driveways in the West Bay District. For fiscal 1994 a total of $347,177 was spent or committed on these projects. However, at the time payments were made there was no Legislative or other acceptable approval in place to permit expenditure against these projects." (1.7).

This particular thing is continuing in a big way, for the spending of public funds which started in the western-most district of Grand Cayman has ricocheted into the Eastern-most district of Grand Cayman. Never has the like been seen, where citizens in that district stepped from their front doors onto tarmac in just about every single footpath that exists in that district. I hope that the Auditor General will again note and examine what has occurred in this instance. If there has been authorisation, it certainly did not come from the Finance Committee or the Legislative Assembly where anyone brought a list of private roads and said that they intend to asphalt these private roads. So there is, again, this question of legality and authorisation for doing such things.

This is carrying on into other districts and, of course, the people who are getting the benefit of this are happy - as they should be. Let us not try to say that the business of Government is to make some citizens in some districts happy by using Government funds, while making others very unhappy because they are not getting the same treatment - which they have a right to expect - because Government is supposed to treat all of its citizens equally. This is not happening.

It comes back to a situation in budgeting where we are now coming up against a monstrously large sum of money - $4 million in the most recent case - which is to be approved right now through a Money Bill, and we simply leave it to the Members who represent that particular district. If that were the right thing to do, surely we would not have the need for a Finance Committee where all 15 Members sit down to make a decision on how Government's money is spent. That is a fundamental principle under the Westminster style of Government - the Parliament approves it.

This business of approving these large blocks of money is wrong in itself where it is not attached to certain works. The Auditor General also made that point in his report: Parliament does not approve the block amount, it approves the allocation of that amount broken down into various projects for which it is to be used. That is the reason why the Financial Secretary needs to come to get approval to move one amount of money to another project if there is to be a change.

The system has been perverted under this Government. When you pervert the system you remove the degree of accountability; and the Government of the day has the driveways of those persons in the various districts who are seen to be politically correct done, while the others get punished by not having theirs done.

The Auditor General makes this comment, and I quote: "As a result of inadequacies in the legal and accounting framework, internal rules have been developed over the years to enable funds to be switched between projects in the same or different economic sectors. On occasion funds have been switched to projects which have not been brought before the legislature for debate and approval. This seems to breach the important principle of prior Parliamentary approval which is the cornerstone of the financial supply system." (1.5). I could not agree with the Auditor General more. May he have long life, and may he be around these islands for a long while to come, he and his efficient unit, because never before has there been a report of this type produced. It is an enlightenment! When his report goes to the point that it makes those observations, it is good for all of us, including the public at large.

The situation with the land purchased by Government at Spotts for a National Stadium also came under scrutiny by the Auditor General. Naturally, it got missed by the present Public Accounts Committee for the same reasons that I noted earlier - the way the Committee is constituted; but the Auditor General noted that this was anything but a generally acceptable deal. He observed the way this was handled, and it comes back to something that is ongoing. He talks about the valuation of the property. The Auditor General says on this matter of the land at Spotts, "My office reviewed the land valuation and purchase negotiations. We concluded that the authorised policy and procedures prescribed in the 'Land Valuation Acquisition Disposal and Exchange Guidelines' had not been complied with by those involved in the purchase negotiations." (1.49). It would be difficult for him to be more specific than that.

Bringing it into immediate focus, I wonder if the Land Valuation Acquisition Disposal and Exchange Guidelines have again been overlooked in the most recent business of acquisition of lands now before this Legislative Assembly. In this particular exercise the Auditor General says, "Originally it was intended that only five acres should be acquired in lieu of dredging royalties. The vendor appears to have been in contact with the Ministry of Agriculture, Communications and Works who requested a valuation from the Director of Lands and Survey in January 1994. This valuation was completed in February 1994. The Lands Officer reported that the land was flat, level and clear of all indigenous vegetation except for some bushes and grasses. The surface was reported as flat rock and clear of surface water. The Lands Officer concluded that the land was ready for, and capable of supporting immediate development and valued the five acres at $225,000 ($45,000 per acre)." (1.50).

I note here that it speaks of five acres which the Government Land Valuator found acceptable. But then a strange thing seems to have happened. I quote what he says: "According to Lands and Survey's records, an informal meeting took place on site on 16 March 1994, between Ministers, MLAs, the Lands Officer, Government Secretaries, the Sports Director, PWD Engineers, the President of CIFA (Cayman Islands Football Association) and vendors. The purpose of this meeting revolved around Government's need for a 40 acre site for the national sports and recreation centre. Subsequent to the meeting, vendors offered the full 39.55 acre site to Government at $45,000 per acre." (1.51). It was left to the Lands Officer to conclude this.

The interesting thing is that the Auditor General notes in his report that "The 39.55 acre site was never valued or inspected by the Lands Officer prior to the discussion with the vendors. The Lands Officer's valuation of $45,000 per acre related to a five acre site cleared of vegetation, flat and free of surface water. The site conditions of the 39.55 acres being acquired appear to vary considerably. Old survey maps show about 2.5 acres of surface water." (1.51). In other words, Government bought some ponds at $45,000 per acre!

These are some of the things that have been occurring under the Government where there has been a deviation from the process. That deviation seems to be continuing, and something as major as this was not even mentioned or commented upon in the Report of the Public Accounts Committee. We are at a point in time where we still have need for proper process and for proper valuations - not diversion from them.

Another matter which is of ongoing significance is the matter of dredging .

(Standing Order 11(1))

ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Under Standing Order 11(1), I seek leave of the Chair to move a motion that this Honourable House do now adjourn to debate a matter of great importance.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister has discussed this with me, and I would now propose the question that the House do now adjourn.

Honourable Minister, would you like to speak to the motion?

(12.17 PM)

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

To say the least, it is the first time during my 20 years in this Honourable House that I am so disturbed over an act such as has occurred here today. I deeply regret that this country has come to where Parliamentarians are not even safe within the Legislative Assembly. A senior Member and Minister has been literally attacked by somebody placing what is known here in this country as "Cow-itch" in his jacket.

If this is the beginning of the 1996 election, God help this country. Such an act of bitterness and hatred is beyond all belief. It is honestly hard for me to comprehend that in my 20 years of serving my people I would see such a bitter act, knowing that this was carried out on a Minister who has slaved for this country, the Honourable Truman M. Bodden.

It is ridiculous, and I am here to say that I find it hard to believe that a Member of the public could walk through the door, come into this building and know where to find any one of our jackets. This bothers me because if I leave my briefcase in this place for a week, or a month, I should be able to come back and find that as I left it. This is our Parliament building. We are put here by the people of this country and, by God, to come to this.... It is ridiculous to know that these beautiful islands could ever come to something like this.

We all know that the Honourable Truman Bodden is an individual who suffers with certain allergies. This good man could have been killed today through this act of violence. I am not asking anybody what they saw. I saw it myself when he pulled off his jacket. A piece of cow-itch was lodged under the arm of the jacket. It was shown in turn to another Honourable Minister, and I advised Mr. Bodden that he should not put that jacket on again, but should get out of here and try to get it off.

Is this the way that certain people believe this country will survive?

It is with deep regret that I even have to stand here as Father of this House, as the senior Minister, to bring such a matter to the public today. But the public needs to know exactly what is going on in this country and to know what to expect in the general election we are facing.

I invite the churches to come forward and unite and pray for the people of this country, and for some of those who are jumping around calling themselves would-be politicians... God help us. God help this country if this is where we are headed.

I hope and I trust that what I have said here today will not be taken out into the political campaign. I intend to defend what I have said here today with the last drop of blood in my body. I repeat, it is ridiculous to know that we are not even safe as representatives of the people in our own Parliament.

I invite other Members to have their say on this ridiculous thing which has taken place in the Parliament of the Cayman Islands today.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

(12.23 PM)

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I think that I am the second longest serving Member of this House. It is with deep regret that I stand to say a few words here today.

I think that we have all been honoured by the people of our districts in being elected to represent them. We have all done this to the best of our ability. To see an occasion like this today... I wonder what will be next. This is serious enough, but there could be something worse.

We have all had businesses of our own and occupied other professions, but we have chosen to serve our country and the people who so graciously voted for us in numerous elections. That something like this could take place in our Legislative Assembly is a black mark on our beloved Cayman Islands today. I sincerely hope that it will be the first and last.

I would like to say to all of the people of the Cayman Islands that we have a wonderful country. We should all be induced to try to preserve and protect the freedom and blessing which God Almighty bestowed upon us. I stand here today and ask for God's guidance for this country, and for the protection of all of our people, for His leadership and direction... and that those people who may think this is funny will realise the seriousness of it and the black mark which it places upon our country which we love so greatly.

With these words I close by asking God's blessings on the people of the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

(12.26 PM)

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is with a sad heart that I speak about this act which has closed this Honourable House down. It was such a mean, cowardly act. Use of cow-itch is a criminal act and anyone caught using it should be punished severely. I do not feel that the use of cow-itch was just a prank, it was put here for a deadly reason. This goes to show that Cayman is not the Cayman that we once had. We have to take drastic measures to ensure the security in this House, the Glass House and every other Government building.

I hope that somehow or another it will be revealed who did this cowardly, nasty act, and that they will be punished for it. I would like to punish them myself.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: It is true that at the same moment we are born, we begin to die. Regrettably, from the time a person becomes an Elected Member of this Legislative Assembly certain feelings, both negative and positive, are directed against him - even by those who actually voted to get him in here.

What has occurred here today is extremely unfortunate, both for the Minister and Member of the House affected, as well as the fact that such a thing could occur in this House. I think what it points to more than anything else is that the Cayman Islands we live in now is not the one that used to be.

It is a question of doing all that is possible from a security point of view. The records of this House show, I am sure, that in the House Committee I have time and time again spoken about the security in this Legislative Assembly. We cannot rely on the fact that because it is here no one will do anything. There are persons who access this House on a daily basis, perhaps a dozen times per day, who walk the corridors on the western side of it going all the way to the back to use the rest rooms which are designated for the public. Anything could happen here.

While I have been chided on so many occasions that I take these things too seriously, I would rather be safe than sorry. I believe it is necessary to put in place a proper security system. The present House Committee has the metal detectors at the front and swipe cards at the back, but we also need to physically control the movement of people. That this, or something more serious could occur shows that we need to seriously address the matter of security.

In saying that, I realise that we normally rely on the police. But it stands to reason that if police officers are here they cannot be doing other police duties. I think we should look to hiring some kind of security personnel to be here doing specifically the job which needs to be done.

This is an unfortunate situation to say the least, and I trust that we can at least agree to do something which will prevent this, or anything else, from occurring in the future.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Yesterday, when the Pensions Bill was passed in this House removing the discrimination against female officers, a positive mark in the history of this county was made. Today we are looking at the dark side of things which can happen in the Cayman Islands - when someone entered this Parliament building (if it was someone from outside, which I hope it was), and put cow-itch in the jacket of an Honourable Minister. That does not speak well of the Cayman Islands.

One would think that when a person is elected and enters this building that he is as safe as one can be. Unfortunately, this incident today has changed all of those thoughts. Being one of the victims of this cow-itch by sitting in the chair under Mr. Bodden's jacket, I will constantly be looking over my shoulder to see what is coming next.

If someone is so vicious as to plant cow-itch, we must ask what will that person do next? That person, in my opinion, would kill any Member of this Parliament in cold blood, because to put cow-itch in someone's clothing can have the same effect. This is particularly so in the Honourable Minister's case as he suffers from severe allergies.

As the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman said, the House Committee has constantly been asking for proper security in this building. We have the equipment at the front, but we all know that as we walk through it beeps and there is no one there to question anyone. I have spoken to the Honourable Chief Secretary who has given me the undertaking that he will see what can be done as soon as possible. As a matter of fact, I am asking the Members of the House Committee to meet immediately after the adjournment to draft a letter to the Honourable Chief Secretary stating the requirements of what we would like to see in a security system for this Parliament building.

I remember, having worked here as Deputy Clerk many years ago, ropes being placed across the corridors to prevent people from entering the western corridor to go to the back. I recall that the public was not allowed to use the bathrooms at the rear of this building. We must put these sort of security measures back in place.

As Chairman of the House Committee, I give this House my undertaking that we will do whatever is necessary next week to have proper security measures put in place in this Parliament building.

If the Police find out who did this terrible act, as the Honourable Member for West Bay said, I hope they are severely punished.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to voice my concern over the dastardly act which has taken place, and to say that I am not surprised in any way, shape or form. I am going to speak openly and honestly about this matter because, as far as I am concerned, Ministers of Government have been gentlemen (although called many other things) and have suffered too much abuse for it to continue.

These islands have always been a place of peace and tranquillity. While there have been threats in this House, up until yesterday there has never been this sort of act. I know what cow-itch feels like; in primary school I came into contact with it. I can tell this House that I have never forgotten what that is like, and it is not a good thing.

Members have spoken about the need for security. I agree. But I am not here to blame any House Committee, the staff of this Parliament or anybody else, because we do have a system in place. The system that we have in place would not pick up cow-itch. It picks up knives and metals. I believe that any system we put in place, unless we put in place one that is so fine-tuned that we pass everything through it... certainly, the one we have now would not pick up vegetable matter, as such. I believe, as the Member moving this motion said, that for a member of the public to be able to walk into this House and go into the room where the coat of the Minister hangs and put cow-itch in there - they had to know where it was.

Let us be frank with ourselves: We need to be secure, but can we be secure from ourselves? That is the question we need to answer. When Members of this House can be attacked in the parking lot or within the precincts of this House, as I was yesterday by one of the protesters (namely, one of the Wight twins) it is going too far in this election.

I heard some time ago (I think it was in the last Meeting) that the electioneering would start with the June Meeting. If this is how they are going to start the electioneering, then I am sorry, I will not be a candidate. I get hot in this House and elsewhere, and I shout; but I certainly do not threaten anybody or abuse anybody in any other way. If they mouth me, I mouth them back. But when people are prepared to give of themselves (and we do give of ourselves) then it is time that we say so.

We have to take much abuse as Members of this House, not just the Ministers, all Members take much abuse. We get accused of stealing, of taking bribes... when I see the kinds of faxes that are sent around I have to wonder exactly where they are going with this election. I have to wonder if people remember that they have children. My mother always used to say to me, "Remember, you have children." She used to say that she, as a mother, could not say this or that about another person's child because she had children too. We must all remember that in this House.

I hope to God that, as the Elected Member for North Side said, it did not come from within this House. No security system will pick up cow-itch. I pose the question: Are we secure from ourselves? Members of this House, please let us get back to being honest with ourselves. I do not think this was an outside act. If it was an outside act, someone told that person where Truman Bodden's coat was.

I am sorry to have to be speaking this way, but it is the truth. When Members of this House can constantly be abused...I do not care who they support, whether its the National Team, Team Cayman or the Democratic Alliance, this has to stop. We must say to all of our people, supporters and friends alike, the electioneering is one thing, but when it goes this far we are damaging the Cayman Islands.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

(12.41 PM)

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I, too, rise to voice my disappointment and concern over the incident which has taken place. Of all the Parliamentarians in this Honourable House, the one individual who was targeted, Mr. Truman Bodden, is perhaps the most gentle and non-aggressive individual in this House. Unfortunately, he seems to get all the licks in whatever takes place. If someone does not support him or agree with the stand that he takes on certain issues, that is their privilege; but to stoop to this level is very, very sad.

Unfortunately, history was made here in that we had to close down this House today. It is very negative and it sends out bad messages in an election year. As previous speakers have said, I hope that all individuals, whether supporters or non-supporters, will respect the position that Parliamentarians hold. We are here to represent them. I hope that this will never happen again in the history of this Parliament on any occasion. This is very sad and unfortunate.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

(12.43 PM)

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to voice my disgust at the cowardly act that has taken place here in this Parliament with the placing of cow-itch in the jacket of one of the Honourable Members of this House, the Honourable Truman Bodden.

It is a dark day in the history of Parliamentary Democracy of this country when Members cannot put their personal effects down and know that they will not be interfered with. I am thoroughly disappointed and disgusted that such a thing could happen.

We have had a measure of security for the Legislative Assembly building. The Member for North Side, the Chairman of the House Committee, has just asked that efforts be made to increase security. As soon as I get the specifics of what the House wishes, the matter will get top priority. Again, I must voice my disgust that such a cowardly act has taken place.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

(12.45 PM)

Mr. Roy Bodden: After an occurrence such as this it is difficult not to be emotional. We should take this as a lesson that we need to be more conscious of the security of our surroundings and our persons.

Since I came here in 1988 I have held (based on observations I made in other countries) that the security of this Parliament has been far too lax for far too long. We need not sequester or isolate ourselves, but we need to move with the times and adjust ourselves accordingly.

I too have witnessed Members accosted in the parking lot, have heard abuses hurled from across the street, have been chased and sometimes (more often than the accosting and hurling of abuse) pounced upon, solicited and begged. There is nothing wrong with that, but our people must respect us enough so that when they enter these precincts... these are sacrosanct. This is their building, we are their servants, their Ministers. What has happened is indeed regrettable, and I hope that the Honourable Minister has a speedy recovery.

I want to say, because there is a lesson to be learned from this, that no good can come of finger-pointing and accusing. What we have to do is to protect ourselves so that this incident does not happen again.

I have seen people from the public walk in with paper bags and all other kinds of bags. They do not say anything (they certainly did not say anything to me, they walked past me) to the office staff, and proceeded to go to the far... I did not even know until I raised queries that there is a thing called a public bathroom. This is a Parliament, we have to be exclusive, there is no other way to describe it, as a club. Although we are representatives of the people we cannot cater to people walking in from off the street to use the bathroom.

It is cow-itch now, what if it were a bomb? It is regrettable, but we have to say to the public that some of these things will have to be curtailed. When they visit their representatives they will have to be prepared to at least go through some kind of rudimentary questioning. To know that a Member's jacket is not safe...who knows the extent of it. It would have had to have been some sort of conspiracy.

Even though we have a gate in the parking lot which operates with an electronic device, that is not safe either. Today must be the beginning of a new awakening for us. It is regrettable, but let us hope that the matter goes no further and that this will be a single, isolated incident.

Our apologies have to go out to the public, but we cannot leave ourselves so open that we are subjected to these types of things.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

(12.49 PM)

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to air my disappointment at the gutter level that some person has actually stooped to, to damage one of my colleagues, the Honourable Truman Bodden, by placing cow-itch inside of his jacket while it was hanging in the Common room of this Honourable House.

As previous speakers have said, it has to be a dark day in the history of the Cayman Islands, but more particularly in the history of the Parliamentary procedure and the decorum of this Parliament. I believe that an act such as this really strikes at the heart of the Government's stability. If this is any indication of the type of persons who are connected with the 1996 election... and we have prided ourselves more than 30-odd years since becoming a British Dependent Territory... I, in all of my lifetime have never heard about nor witnessed such a gutter level tactic within the Legislative Assembly.

It strikes at the heart of even the way we promote these islands from a tourism point of view. We say it is safe, and today we experience that we are not even safe in our own Legislative Assembly building. We say it is friendly, and God knows that to cow-itch somebody could never be a friendly act. I believe, as previous speakers have mentioned, that we must take action to ensure that once we enter the doors of this Legislative Assembly that everything that happens within is proper, and if anyone of us, God forbid, is personally involved with this, I think he should be (if found to be connected and in the natural course of justice) suspended from the House.

I believe that from today on any activity such as this, and any person who attempts to do such as this, will get caught. I hope that the Honourable First Official Member will ensure that the manpower is made available to the Legislative Assembly to bring all of that in line.

I know what cow-itch is. You cannot catch that with a metal detecting machine. We need more than that.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am shocked at this atrocity which has taken place in these Honourable Chambers today. Never in my 51 years would I have thought that these islands would have come to this. The Honourable Minister has been under severe attack in the past few weeks from just about every angle one can think of. It culminated here this morning when he changed into a jacket that he has not used (which he kept in the Common room) since February. When he sat down by me at the beginning of Question Time, he asked, "Tony, what is this here? I am itching severely."

I looked (and as you know my eyes are not well, and I put my glasses on) and I could see that a piece of a pod of cow-itch was in his jacket under the armpit. This was also witnessed by my colleagues, the Honourable Minister for Communication and Works and the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

This is a dark day for this island. This is the type of tactic that brought about the demise of so many countries surrounding us. We cannot tolerate this.

This is an election year, but we have run many, many elections without going to these low depths where snakes crawl. We all know that the Honourable Minister suffers with allergies. This could have been fatal.

It is a disgrace that someone could have entered these Chambers and done this. We, as representatives of the people, must stand up and not allow this type of thing to go on in this country - terrorist acts which have brought down so many surrounding countries are allowed to creep into our beloved islands.

Mr. Bodden is probably one of the most gentle of all of us in here. He has done nothing but good. Is it because this Government has stood up to prevent the moral decay that has taken place in this country that we are being attacked like this? God forbid! I hope that this is not what is happening. As long as I have one drop of red blood running through my veins I will not succumb to terrorist acts. We will defend these beloved islands which have grown to unparalleled prosperity and success. This has been accomplished through our working together for the good of our country.

Whether it is political or not, I will take this opportunity to urge the electorate of George Town to support this Honourable man come November 1996. He has been an ultra-conservative, and he has done nothing but good for these islands. He will continue to do this if given another chance, but we must not tolerate these terrorist acts which have crept into these Cayman Islands.

We are not accustomed to this. This is what we read in the papers about foreign countries. It must not happen. I know that the question of security has been addressed and, without a doubt, the Honourable First Official Member will take action starting tomorrow. We are grateful for this.

In closing I would like to quote one of the Psalms, "I will not be silent, I will sing praise to you. Lord, you are my God. I give you thanks forever."

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

(12.58 PM)

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, like Honourable Members who have spoken before me, I rise to extend sympathy to the Honourable Truman Bodden who has had this unfortunate act carried out upon his person.

While I am not a politician, I know that political views will differ. I will not pretend to be naive and say that there will be any Government in the Cayman Islands where you will find everyone of equal mind. If we were to find something like that, it would spell disaster for us.

Notwithstanding that, I have sat in this Parliament and seen on previous occasions where we have had Government and Opposition. It always works very well. As Mr. Bush said, he gets hot under the collar, and other Members will get hot from time to time, but it never comes down to a point where we have seen a situation such as this, where there has been an attack upon a Member of the Legislative Assembly.

In a situation like this, no one can take comfort in saying that Member is the only Member being targeted. It could happen to any Member in this Legislative Assembly. In fact, it could happen to any member of the community. Someone who would walk into this Legislative Assembly with cow-itch and take the time to put that into a Member's clothing could walk into a Member's home in the night when the person is resting with his or her family and carry out acts that we would not want to contemplate or describe.

I believe that what has happened, and whoever perpetrated this act, is not what I would consider of the Caymanian mentality. I believe that it could be one of a few persons acting in isolation. This is not the reflection of the thinking of my country. This is something that is foreign and alien. This is a person who would attack a tourist, who would perform unfortunate or deviant activities and not be concerned about the consequences.

As the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce said, we are promoting ourselves as a jurisdiction where safety is a key factor. I have spoken to many people who have come to the Cayman Islands and it is not only to spend time here on our beaches. Quite a few of these people are here to do business. They bring their families because they know it is a safe environment. I believe that it will continue, but this act would suggest that we should take up the mantle and observe what is laid down in the Bible about being our brother's keeper. This is a situation that should not be put to rest.

I recently saw an incident which causes me to wonder if the person who would do something like this is aware of the implications. I saw a letter that supposedly originated under the name of a Mark Pain, talking about the introduction of taxation in the Cayman Islands, suggesting that business which would otherwise be coming to the Cayman Islands go elsewhere. Whoever would do something like that is the same type of person who would walk into this Legislative Assembly and put cow-itch in a Member's clothes. It is the same person who would go and probably inflict injury on a person who is sleeping in his bed at night.

Most of us do not have our cisterns under lock and key. There are so many means by which we can be reached, but we have always prided ourselves, even when we differ and come to a fist fight, in not holding extended animosities or carrying ill-feelings towards each other where something like this would be done.

We have to look very closely and examine ourselves, and make sure that even when we are free of such thoughts that would encourage such deviant activity that we extend this to how we see other persons conducting themselves. This is the only way we are going to rout out such behaviour.

Whoever does something like this would be aware that Members in the Legislative Assembly would talk about it. It is likely that it will be in the television news today. It is likely that it will be in the papers tomorrow and it will be going abroad. When someone sits (and I know the Caymanian Compass is circulated world-wide) and sees something like this happening within the highest institution in the land - the Parliament of the country - what type of message does that convey?

If someone wants to undermine the stability of the country through such subversive activity, they are achieving some success. But it is not only the persons here who are affected, we are gambling with the future of our children; we are gambling with the future of the Cayman Islands. I suggest that if we are aware of anyone who would do something like this, that we do not take it lightly.

We are at a stage in these islands where, while the principles which established the solid foundation of the Cayman Islands continue to prevail, we find deviants, as are found in any given society. I am hoping that whoever has done such a thing will be found and dealt with.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to voice my concern over this incident. As the newest Member of this House this particularly upsets me. It now makes me wonder (since it is an election year) if we are to expect worse.

I sincerely hope that whoever is responsible for this act is caught and dealt with in the same manner. This has truly saddened me today, and I pray for God's help and guidance for all of the Members of this Honourable House.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

There is not much more that can really be said. Each and every one of the Members who has spoken has expressed deep regret at such an incident. I have always said that I will have varying views from others at times in this Honourable House, and they will have varying views from mine. But beyond that responsibility there is always the personal aspect, and we have made mention of it; but I find it very difficult to believe that somewhere, somehow, one of our own is dealing with our own in this fashion. Sad times, to say the least. One would hope that it is not frightening times.

I am sure that I speak for all of us here when I say that regardless of differing opinions, we all understand the almost sacred responsibility that we hold. I do not believe that anyone of us here would be so unthinking as to participate in such an act. In my view, what is really important for us as Legislators is to ensure, notwithstanding the political aspect of things and the political fights that will occur from time to time, that our message to the public is never to take things personally.

Somewhere along the line something has gone wrong in someone's mind; someone feels that what was done this morning was, as a retaliatory measure, justified. We need to make sure that in all we say or do the message is that it must not go beyond the issues.

One of the Ministers mentioned about being hot sometimes. That is understandable. As he said, even with all of that we must always ensure that our message to the public is not to let it become personal.

Unfortunately, in dealing with the public there are those of us who for one reason or another tend to get excited. Maybe because they do not have the access to speak out in the forum that we do, some may attempt to deal with things in other ways. The truth is, whether I know them or anyone else in here knows them, they need to understand that when we begin to even think of acts of this nature we are spelling ruin and damnation for us all. There is no one in here or outside of here who does not understand what we mean by the implications of such an act. What I fear greatly right now, because of having to talk about what happened this morning, is that this does not give anyone else any ideas.

If we are going to be what we should be to make this country move forward, we need to all take stock of what happened today to make sure that we fully grasp our responsibilities, and hope that we can play our role in ensuring that the public understands their responsibility in the political process.

I am very saddened about what happened today, in fact it really took the wind out of my sails. I just hope that somewhere along the line the people of this country realise the serious implications of what else can happen, that all of us in the political fray band together to ensure that we do everything that we possibly can to make sure politics does not get to that level.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Administration.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: To serve in this House as an Elected Member is a privilege. To be appointed to sit in this House as an Official Member is a privilege. It is also a privilege that members of the public have been allowed virtually unrestricted access to this House at all times when it is opened. Today that privilege has been abused. As a result, that unrestricted access is likely to be curtailed.

Indeed, it is a very sad day for this House and for the Cayman Islands. The police have been informed of what has happened, and I am sure that they will conduct their own investigation. If some person or persons are apprehended for what has taken place today, then I can assure Members of this House that I will see that those persons are prosecuted, and prosecuted quickly.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Having gone to University in the United States, I have become very security conscious. I do not take anything for granted, even at home. We boasted of times when we could go to sleep with our windows open. Times have changed, and I think, as leaders in this country, we have to recognise that. I do not leave my car unlocked.

I am one of those Members who has advocated over and over again that we need to tighten the security in this building. When we are in session here in the Legislative Assembly, we are talking about the total leadership of this country in one place at the same time.

I think what happened this morning is unfortunate. But, you know, it could have been much worse. That is what I am concerned about. Somebody could have come in here with a bomb or some other weapon and done much more harm than what was inflicted this morning.

I keep saying that I am a business person who has gone into politics. I believe that we should be in a position where we can oppose one another, even within our National Team, but be able to continue to be sociable and respect the views and opinions of other Members of the House and members of the public. That is a right that each and every one of us has.

I was talking to a personal friend of mine who happens to be a citizen of Jamaica. She remarked that what she liked about the Cayman Islands were the peaceful elections. Even at the by-election, while there were several candidates vying for that seat, it was such a peaceful election. In Jamaica, she stated that when they hold elections they are fearful what the outcome will be, as far as violence, if the right persons were not elected. As representatives, I think the message we need to get out to our people is that regardless of who sits in here as an Elected Member, we have the good concern of our citizens, regardless of who they are. We have opposition, people on the front bench and on the back bench, but we all fight for a common cause, that is, the best interests of our country and our people.

We cannot tolerate that differing views will allow us to go to the extent that we saw here this morning. That is a very cowardly act; not only cowardly, but a very inhumane act. The Honourable Minister, Mr. Bush, mentioned his experience... and I was at school the day that happened to him, Madam Speaker. I tell you, it was not a pretty sight at all! I would daresay that if you clocked him running home, he would have been as fast as Carl Lewis. It was an experience that I will never forget.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: I could run then too, Madam Speaker!

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: I will never forget that. This is not a nice thing. Whoever did it probably thought it was only a prank. But when people resort to those measures, it is not a prank, it is a criminal act. I believe that we have to do whatever we have to do in order to protect our Members and Representatives in this House.

I have said on more than one occasion that we are too tolerant. We have to recognise the position we hold in this country, and regardless of who holds it they are entitled to a certain amount of respect as long as they hold that office.

I support the Motion for the adjournment under these circumstances.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: I would like to thank you for allowing Members of this House to express their views and their feelings to the people of this country on this sad occasion. In closing, I would like to remind all Members of this Legislative Assembly that acts of violence such as we have seen here today, have been the beginning of the downfall of many good countries around us. We must try to ensure that this does not happen again.

All Members mentioned the Honourable Truman Bodden and the lady Member, but we failed to mention another senior civil servant who was a victim to what took place in this building, a top civil servant who has dedicated most of his life to this country; I am speaking of Mr. Kirkland Nixon.

However, as bad as this is, can we imagine having our Head of State here for a meeting and having him, the Queen's representative, affected by something like this? This is how serious this whole thing is. I hope that this will bring all of us to our senses and that we will discontinue the bitterness and harshness towards each other in this House. I trust that we will never, ever have something like this happen in here again.

The late Miss Annie Huldah Bodden quoted, on more than one occasion, these words of scripture, and I would like to leave these words with my colleagues: "Let us search out and examine our ways, and turn back to God." True words found in Lamentations 3:40. Let us think of the great privilege that God has given us in these beautiful Cayman Islands, and let us endeavour to put aside personalities, hatefulness and violence as we have seen here today, and work what is right for this country and our people. Thank you.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Minister indicate when the House might resume? One would assume that we would need at least the weekend to clean the premises.

Hon. John B. McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker. I move the adjournment until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock Monday morning.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

Before the House does adjourn, I would also like to express my very deep regret over such an occurrence in the Parliament. I have always held the Parliament in high esteem, and I have felt that more and tighter security should be available to the Honourable Ministers, Members and other officials who serve this country. I think I am safe in saying that no expense should be spared in seeing that proper security is afforded to Members without delay. It is also my opinion that security should be provided in this building, not only when the House is sitting but on other occasions as well. There are various Committee meetings, and Members have to come in to take care of business. I think the security should be from Monday to Friday. I hope that I have the support of Members on this when I put forward some proposals.

I thank Members very much. The House is accordingly adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 1.27 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM MONDAY, 24TH JUNE, 1996, TO ENABLE THE MATTER TO BE DEALT WITH.

EDITED MONDAY
24TH JUNE, 1996
10.38 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father, who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done, in earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us, and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever, Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE SPEAKER

The Speaker: On behalf of Members I would like to welcome a group of students and teachers from the Lighthouse School.

QUESTION NO. 68

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the answer: Grants to private schools can be broken down into two categories, annual grants and grants for special projects. Special projects are normally grants towards capital expenditure, such as new buildings or special equipment such as computers.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say how the amounts for these grants and special projects are arrived at?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, it is a formula that is based on the number of students and the number of teachers.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. Would the Minister be able to say when this formula was adopted by the Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I understand the formula was adopted about 15 or 20 years ago. However, International College of the Cayman Islands was totally left out of the formula for the past eight years prior to this Government.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Minister say if it is simply that the formula is taken for granted or in recent times has there been any review to see if there needs to be any revision?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the formula is now back before the Education Council. It has been there from about two meetings ago to be looked at. Now we think the time has come to review it.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister if the amounts for special projects are arrived at by that same formula?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: No, Madam Speaker.

The special projects are normally capital contributions, for example, when the Catholic, St. Ignatius School was building its high school, and also when the Prep School and Wesleyan Academy were dealing with projects, a specific capital sum was given.

The way that has normally been done is that, for example, the amount given to the Prep and the Catholic Schools which, say, totalled $.5 million to one, and $.75 million to the other over three years, would save the Cayman Islands Government $1,500,000 per annum at Catholic School, and about $1.1 million at Prep, for each and every year, because under the Law the Government has to educate all children whether they are Caymanians or non-Caymanians. Regardless of who they are, if they are residents they have to be educated.

At present we have a savings of $10 million per annum because the private schools teach 1/3 of the children who would have to be compulsorily educated in Government schools. So it is good money. Over ten years, for example, with the Prep and the Catholic Schools, there would be a savings in the area of $15 million on the Recurrent Expenditure alone. Naturally, Government would have to erect buildings that would cost a lot of money if we had to replace the private schools.

I fully support the private schools. Hopefully, the Opposition Members in this House will see fit to do so one good day.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say in the case of grants... for example, I noticed that listed for St. Ignatius Prep School there has been a substantial increase from 1993 to 1996. Since the formula is based on a number of students has the increase to do solely with an increase in enrollment?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, it is because they have more students or more teachers, I would think. Naturally, this question is extremely detailed and I would not have all the mathematical workings on each of the schools with me. So I assume that it is an increase in students or in staff.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 69, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 69

No. 69: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development if the developers of the Westin Casuarina Hotel have settled their outstanding customs duties.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: The Westin Casuarina Hotel project was granted a duty concession on building materials in October 1994. This concession allowed for importation at a concessionary duty rate of five per cent.

During 1995, the project developers imported furniture, fittings and equipment to complete the project believing that these items were also covered by the concession. Although the eligibility of the items was questioned by the Customs Department, the consignment was released at the five per cent duty rate pending the Department's further investigation and obtaining legal advice.

According to the Collector of Customs, the matter is still unresolved, but the Customs Department is in negotiations with the legal representatives of the hotel developers to recover the duty. The estimated duty outstanding is approximately CI$243,000.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is the Honourable Member in a position to give the House an indication of how much time will be necessary to resolve this matter, since three months ago we were made to understand that the matter was under discussion?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I wrote to the Collector of Customs instructing him that the matter should be referred to the Legal Department by April the 1st. However, in discussions that he has had with the Legal Department it was recommended that the department should continue to pursue negotiations with the attorneys for the Westin Casuarina Hotel in order to seek to obtain a settlement. That is presently under way. I would hope that settlement will be forthcoming. However, I have recently asked the Collector of Customs if this is not done to ask the Legal Department to take it forward.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Would the Honourable Third Official Member say whether it is a fact that the developers of the Radisson Resort, who are the same developers for the Westin Casuarina, were granted duty concessions when they were constructing the Radisson on both building materials and furniture and fixtures?

The Speaker: Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer is yes.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Is this the reason why there is a problem, because the developers were assuming that the concession was the same for Westin Casuarina as it was for the Radisson Resort?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker. This is exactly the reason. But the application that was made asked for a duty concession to be on building materials not furniture and fixtures. Accordingly the application was so approved.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 70, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 70

No. 70: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs if it is Government's policy to allow non-Caymanian contracted officers time off from work on full pay to study for examinations.

The Speaker: Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the answer: Government has no policy on whether non-Caymanian contracted officers can have time off from work on full-pay to study for examinations. However, no non-Caymanian contracted officer has been granted time off from work on full-pay to study for examinations.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Member say if any non-Caymanian contracted officer has been allowed time off without pay to study for examinations?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, I have no information on expatriates having time off without pay to study for examinations.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you. In the answer it says that "...no non-Caymanian contracted officer has been granted time off from work on full pay to study for examinations." Can the Honourable First Official Member say if there have been requests by non-Caymanians to be granted time off from work on full-pay to study?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

No, not to my knowledge. Perhaps I should clarify further my earlier answer on whether there have been expatriates granted no-pay leave to study for examinations. I understand that there is in fact an executive officer in the Internal Audit Section who was granted 20 days no-pay leave to study for his Chartered Accounting examinations.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 71, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 71

No. 71: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development whether Government has put in place a plan to replenish the General Reserves to equate to three months Recurrent Expenditure as recommended in the Public Accounts Committee's Report for the year ending 31st December, 1992.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: The Government is mindful of a need to maintain General Reserves at an established level linked to Recurrent Expenditure, and plans to achieve this by way of legislative procedure.

A review of the Public Finance and Audit Law (1985) is underway and the appropriate General Reserves levels will be examined as part of this process with a view to establishing the necessary legislative framework to facilitate this plan.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In the answer the Honourable Third Official Member has said that "...the Government is mindful of a need to maintain General Reserves at an established level linked to Recurrent Expenditure..."., is this in any way linked to what the question asked regarding three months' recurrent expenditure?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes it is connected with the three months' recurrent expenditure. But that amount can be varied and possibly reflect a higher sum based on the variables that would be considered at the time the whole process is looked at, as to what would constitute an appropriate level for the General Reserves to be fixed at.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member elaborate on what those variables may be?

The Speaker: The Honourable Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, when we say 1/4 of Recurrent Expenditure it takes into account the Government's expenditure requirements on an ongoing basis, and also what would give rise. For example, the Reserves make provisions for contingencies to deal with expenditures over a given period of time. We hope that the Government will never have to resort to using up the 1/4 provision whenever it is made. But, for example, if there is a recession and it is estimated that this could last for a period of three, four, five or six months, this would be based on projections (which often times the future becomes unpredictable), which would be essentially the variables that would be considered at that time.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member say when the review of the Public Finance and Audit Law will commence, and can he say when it is anticipated that the review will be completed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the review has already commenced, as I mentioned on previous occasions in this House, under the chairmanship of the Deputy Financial Secretary who has drawn together quite a number of senior Heads of Departments and is also drawing on the resources of the Auditor General's Office.

A recent attempt was made to bring on board (as mentioned previously) a consultant to carry out a review of the Public Finance and Audit Law and also the Financial and Stores Regulations. A series of candidates were interviewed in the United Kingdom and the most suitable candidate found subsequently advised that due to illness within the family, he would not be able to take up the position. But we are presently looking to the Controller and the Audit Office in the United Kingdom to assist us with making available a candidate with the requisite expertise to carry out this job.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The Honourable Third Official Member has made statements regarding percentages of Recurrent Revenue which may be an acceptable amount to put towards the General Reserves on an annual basis. During this ongoing review, is this still one of the formulas being considered or are there other routes that are being looked at?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, it will essentially start off on the premise that the General Reserve should equate to 1/4 of Recurrent Expenditure for any given financial year. Once that limit is achieved to be adjusted... but we cannot pre-empt the recommendations or suggestions that will be made by the advisor in the review to be carried out. This is just the benchmark and any suggestions that would improve upon that would be taken into account.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Perhaps I did not make myself very clear on the last supplementary. Understanding that 1/4 is the figure that is being thrown about, but which might change depending on the recommendations, it has been said before that a percentage of the annual Recurrent Revenue will be considered going into General Reserves in order to build it up. Is this still going to be the way that it is looked at, or are there other methods being thought of?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The most prudent and less demanding way would suggest that the reserves be built up over time. For example it was suggested that an initial contribution of 4% per annum would be a reasonable amount to contribute until the level so determined is achieved.

The Speaker: The next question is No 72, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 72

No. 72: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development in a written answer to a parliamentary question during the fourth Meeting of the 1995 Session, it was stated that the 1995 Annual Accounts were not finalised and audited. Has this been completed since then, and if so, what was Government's financial position as at 31st December, 1995.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: The audit of the 1995 Annual Accounts is currently being finalised. There is a sentence in this paragraph that I would like, with your permission, to have omitted. It reads: "The audited accounts will be laid in accordance with established procedures at the next meeting of the House." On second thought that is appropriate because this will be laid at the time when the Auditor General's and the Public Accounts Committee's Reports will be tabled.

The draft financial statements show that Recurrent Revenue was $147.5 million, loan receipts were $1.8 million, giving a total receipt of $176.3 million for the year. Recurrent Expenditure was $137.9 million, Statutory Expenditure was $19.7 million, and Capital Expenditure was $23.5 million. The Surplus brought forward from 1994 was $2.5 million. But when we take into account the 1995 position as outlined earlier, there is a resultant 1995 deficit of approximate $2.4 million, excluding the General Reserves balance of $4.4 million.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member say if the time for the Audited Accounts to be produced is regular or has it taken longer than usual?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: It is on time. I think in the Law it is required to be submitted to you, Madam Speaker, in July.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Will it be submitted by the month of July?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, unless I hear contrary I believe that it will be. I have not sought to obtain confirmation from the Auditor General that it will.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 73, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 73

No. 73: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning if Cayman Airways is presently experiencing operational losses.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the answer: I am not sure if the Honourable Member is familiar with the accounting terminology used in the airline business, but to focus on airline operating profit is to ignore the finance charges and other below the line charges which, in this business, can turn any operating profit into a significant loss.

In the case of airlines, it is more appropriate to focus on the "net profit", as this figure takes into account all expenses, not just operating expenses. It accurately reflects the substantial airline expenses which occur below the line, e.g., Loan and finance charges, and it also reflects the Government subsidy.

But to answer the question as it is asked, Cayman Airways has an operating profit of US$1,061,762 after subsidy for the three months ending March 31, 1996. Taking all of the figures into account, Cayman Airways is showing a cumulative net profit for the three months ending March 31, 1996. The airline's net profit is just under US$1 million. Compare this to the airline's performance under the former Government who lost US$34.6 million in just two and half years. In 1991 alone, the airline reported a net loss of over US$14 million.

The balance sheet is a snap shot of the financial condition of any company at a specific point in time. Cayman Airways' current balance sheet also reveals a much improved financial condition. Total liabilities in 1991 was $34,329,506. At the end of 1995 total debt was less than half that at US$14,175,532.

All of these significant improvements in the financial position have been achieved while simultaneously paying off debt inherited from the last Government. Cayman Airways has in the past two years paid off over US$1 million of debt inherited from the former Government and management.

Cayman Airways Limited has disciplined itself to manage its cash flow and has operated within its approved overdraft limit. Again compare this with the previous Government's and previous management's performance: there were times when Cayman Airways Limited could not pay its aircraft's monthly lease costs, for which back-payments totalled over US$1.5 million in 1992, but worse, there were occasions during that time when the airline could not even pay its staff. There were no staff salary raises in three years, some staff took a salary reduction.

Since I took over responsibility for Cayman Airways Limited, the airline has never had to come to Government or to Finance Committee for rescue from a financial crisis, thank God. As a result of the stupid and costly mistakes made by CAL and the previous Government with ILFC and GPA (which included almost US$108,000,000 in contingent liabilities), in 1992 the airline had a bad reputation with International Leasing and financing institutions.

In 1990 and 1991 local banks would not lend to CAL nor lend to Government for CAL, because of CAL's bad credit record and also Government's bad credit record (Government had cumulative losses of approximately US$42.8 million in 1990, and 1992).

I am happy to say that the problems left by the former Government seem to be safely behind Cayman Airways and its reputation has been restored; so much so that the airline has been able to secure leasing and financing arrangements on very favourable terms.

The aircraft purchased by Cayman Aviation Leasing Limited, the wholly Government-owned company one year ago for US$5.2 million now has a market value of almost US$7 million. The Government now has over US$700,000 equity in its own aircraft, CAL has reduced the aircraft loan by a similar amount, has accumulated nearly US$680,000 in reserves for engine overhauls and has cash on hand of over US$560,000. Furthermore, Cayman Airways has paid over US$1,978,000 in outstanding fees to the Customs and Immigration Departments and to the Civil Aviation Authority. Under the former Government there were some years when CAL did not make any payments to the Civil Aviation Authority or other Government Departments.

Finally, Cayman Airways provides good quality employment for approximately 250 Caymanians in these islands. Therefore, the airline's performance, impressive in its own right, is particularly remarkable in light of all other achievements accomplished in the last four years.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. With all of this good news, it amazes me that the Government did not have this question asked before now.

Regarding operational losses, can the Minister state if there are any routes at present which are experiencing any losses?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I do not have a breakdown of that, but naturally the main loss is on the Grand Cayman/Cayman Brac/Grand Cayman route, because Cayman Airways carries tourists totally free of charge between Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac and Grand Cayman.

As the Honourable Member can see, a profit of $1,610,000 in three months is very impressive and we will get leaner months as time goes on. This is an impressive amount. There are losses on that route and I think perhaps another one or two of the other routes. I do not know for sure.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In response to this supplementary question, the Honourable Minister stated that Government had cumulative losses of approximately $42.8 million in 1991 and 1992. Can the Honourable Minister state if this was in general or was it for Cayman Airways Limited?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, that $42.8 million was Government's losses and was in addition (and that was CI dollars, I noticed US dollars was put in the answer) to the US$34.6 million losses of Cayman Airways Limited. So it was a total of $65 million in losses in the three years between Cayman Airways Limited and the Government.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister say if the accounting system of the airline has in place the means of telling whether there are losses within its various routes? Is there any specific ability to find this out? The Minister said that the inter island route perhaps was, and he imagined that there were others.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, it is a matter of estimating and dividing the direct costs which are very easy to find out. The indirect costs have to be a division of matters such as the cost of leases, the cost of the extremely expensive building in Miami which the last Government stuck us with a 12-year lease on. The overhead such as that, Madam Speaker. There is a way of finding this out.

I merely pointed to the Grand Cayman/Cayman Brac route because that is our largest area of loss mainly because we carry passengers to and from free of charge. The National Team Government does this happily to assist Cayman Brac and Little Cayman with their tourism, so that a tourist can come to Grand Cayman for the same cost as he can to Cayman Brac or to Little Cayman if he travels on Cayman Airways.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 74, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 74

No. 74: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce if approval has been given for another hotel on the Seven Mile Beach peninsula.

The Speaker: I observe that the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce is not present.

The Second Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTIONS NOS. 74 & 75

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I now observe that the Minister is not present. If you will, can questions Nos. 74 and 75 (which is also directed to that Minister) be set for another time during this meeting?

The Speaker: Yes that can be done. Questions No. 74 and 75 will be set down for another sitting when the Honourable Minister is present.

The next question is No. 76, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 76

No. 76: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development whether Government has borrowed any money from Barclays Bank for the land at Spotts for the National Stadium and, if so, how much.

The Speaker: I understand that this question will be answered by the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs, and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, the answer: There is no land at Spotts for a national stadium. To my knowledge, there could not be any funds borrowed for such.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, the land in reference is the land which everyone knows has been purchased by the Government over a time-payment plan, on which we understand various types of buildings are to be erected, and which the Auditor General found that a large part of that property was under water. The question is trying to ascertain whether Barclays Bank has any interest in that particular property?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, everyone knows the Member is correct that everyone knows about the land in Spotts. It seems that it is only he that does not know that there is not a national stadium to be erected there; yet, questions are constantly put about this national stadium. We have said in statements, and in answers to the Member, and have stated in the newspaper that there are no plans by the Government to erect a national stadium. I do not know why the Member keeps referring to one.

Everyone knows about the land. As for a large part of it being under water when Government purchased it, we knew that there was a lake there and we intend to use it, which would enhance the development for family and recreation.

Madam Speaker, everyone also knows, including that Member who keeps imputing otherwise, that there is no loan to the Government from any bank for any land. Government purchased this land over a five year period at a good deal which, he should also have said that the Auditor General mentioned.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister say if it is not a fact that one of the proprietors or owners of that property no longer has an interest in the land, but indeed Barclays Bank now has that interest, therefore Government would be in an agreement with Barclays Bank?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, when Government bought the land, as I understand (if he wants an answer for that he should ask the Lands and Survey Department), we did not make the agreement to purchase the land from any bank. We made the agreement with private individuals (when I say "we", I mean the Lands and Survey Department).

Now, this Member seems to have much more information than I have, perhaps he can tell me a bit more about the land. I certainly do not know... and if the Auditor General knew, he certainly did not put it in his report. What the Auditor General did say, was that the Government made a good deal.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Government Business. Bills, Second Readings. The debate continues on the Loan (Capital Projects) Bill, 1996, and the Loan (Capital Projects) 1993 (Amendment) Bill, 1996.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning continuing.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

LOAN (CAPITAL PROJECTS) BILL, 1996

-together with-

LOAN (CAPITAL PROJECTS) 1993 (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1996

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the two Loan Bills that we are debating cover a wide variety of projects. The projects that affect me directly are those relating to schools and roads, parks and sports areas in George Town. It is well accepted that the money spent on Government and private schools is money that is well spent; it is an investment in the youth of this country who will be the leaders of tomorrow and in whose hands the destiny of this country will be placed. Nothing can be a better investment than to ensure that our children are well educated.

There was a time, some years ago when I was sort of, I would not say attacked orally, but some of the Members got at me because I hold several degrees -and I do not mind saying that I am well educated - which I have worked very hard to get. My aim is to see that every child in the Cayman Islands gets a good education whether they be in the Government school system or in the private school system.

If we fail to spend what is necessary on these schools to get the system, which is so important to the development of our young people (and I am very happy to see that earlier today we had students from the schools in this honourable Gallery)... we must do everything possible to see that our children get a chance to excel to their fullest.

The rare criticism of the Strategic Planning system that we hear only in this Honourable House is criticism of 353 people, about half of them professional teachers in practice (not defunct teachers) who have put together a 5-Year Strategic Education Plan which they feel (and the public after input feels) is what is needed to develop and to promote education in the Cayman Islands.

The Executive Council, the National Team Government and I, fully accepted the recommendations of the 353 persons who developed the 5-Year Education Strategic Plan over a period of one year. That is not my plan, it is not my Government's plan, it is a plan that has originated from the people of this country. When it is done in that way it stands the best chance of being right. Therefore, in justifying the expenditure in this Honourable House under these Loan Bills today, I am very pleased to say that I am endorsing and putting full faith in the teaching profession and the many persons in the private sector who have spent many long hours going over and preparing the strategies and working on the action plans that will be putting into effect the system of education in this country for which these buildings are needed.

There can be no doubt that the education system in this country is far better than it was a few years ago. There can be no doubt that there is more equipment - computers, books; there are more buildings, more teachers. We saw that in the George Hicks High School alone, over 120 classes have less than 20 students in them. That is a considerable achievement, even though I know that the Opposition Members (which I now include the Fourth Elected Member for George Town) have tried to single-out four of the classes for Physical Education that had in more than that number.

The schools have to be looked at as a whole. There are some problems, and I am endeavouring to deal with as many of the problems as I can. I would like for it to be remembered that there was a period (and I will not go into it to say when) when we had to be very careful not to put any further pressure on the Chief Education Officer, Mrs. Mary Miller, when she was ill. I hold the highest respect for her. There was a gap of about five or six months when things slowed down somewhat within the department.

Once we can get the additional staff (and I should point out staff is not under me, it is up to the Permanent Secretary and the Public Service Commissions) into the senior positions in the Education Department, it will lighten the load considerably and we will be able to bring some of these things that have gotten behind up to date.

I make it a point of discussing as far as I can all major developments with the staff of the schools. I go there once a quarter and sit down with all staff members, even though during my recent visit the week before last to the John Gray High School I was only able to meet with the senior staff members because there was a funeral on that day for a student who was attending college and I felt that I should attend it.

When I visit the other schools, I always sit with all staff members to find out what problems they are having and what areas of development they feel... and coming to the Capital Projects in this Bill, it is very important for the continuity of the school system and the development of it that the appropriate approval be given for the four classrooms at the George Town Primary; four classrooms at the Savannah Primary School, that either the upper limit of loan funds is approved for the Baptist Church purchase and the Cayman Foods purchase. I am going to deal with these in a bit more depth because there have been further comments on these prior to my speaking both in the House and in the press. It is important that what remains to be done at those schools and the three buildings that are needed at the George Hicks School, that we get the go ahead on this project.

I would like to go on from here to deal with some of the criticisms that have been levelled at parts of this Loan Bill and to show that it is either a misunderstanding of the process of what happens with Loan Bills or it is intentional misrepresentation on the part of certain parties outside of this Honourable House why we have had so much comment on this.

I must say that in my full political career I have never had such an intense and desperate, and in some cases vicious, attacks on me by all members of Team Cayman (I think there are about 10 or 11 of them at this stage) and the three Democratic Alliance members and their many supporters who seem to create more problems than help to the system.

I want to make very clear (and hope that it is well understood at the end of this) the process of a Loan Bill. The letters in the newspaper today show that once again there is confusion as to when a project is entered into contract for land to be purchased or buildings to be erected and the process under the Loan Bill. Members of this House know that until these two Loan Bills are passed in this Honourable House and the Governor assents to them (which will probably not be for another three to four weeks), and until the Honourable Financial Secretary raises the loans for the purchase and the construction of roads and other buildings listed in the Loan Bills, there can be no contractual purchases. There can be no contract to agree to purchase this property. Indeed, I repeat again: There is no agreement for the purchase of the First Baptist Church building, there is no agreement for the Cayman Foods Building because it is legally impossible for that to happen. The authority for it rests in the Loan Bill. If for any reason the Bill fails, then there can be no expenditure either for roads, the parks, or any of the other projects listed in the Bill.

I need this to be made abundantly clear, because I am very surprised that the Democratic Alliance in this paid advertisement in the newspaper of 13th December, 1996 (they seem to have more money than they have sense when we see the amount of advertisement in the newspaper and on television), has deliberately twisted... and I expect better of fellow attorneys, like Mr. David Ritch, who at least at one stage was the Chairman of the Democratic Alliance Committee... Surely they must know. If not, it is the duty of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town - who seems to find this very funny - and the other two Members, Mr. Linford Pierson... perhaps Mr. Adrian Briggs does not know the process of a Loans Bill, but the other members of that Committee are people who should know the procedures of this House. There has been an attempt to set out in the advertisement under "Facts and Questions"... but the questions have been very shrewdly put in the form of facts. They have stated in this advertisement in paragraph 5: "How can the Honourable Truman Bodden justify a waste of Government's funds?" They have said: "The Government will end up paying $580,000 over the original price...". They asked another question: "From whom does Government intend to purchase, and when was the Transfer of Land form in respect of it executed, and when will it be registered?" There has been no execution of any transfer form. There can be no registration of it because this House has not approved the funds for any of these projects.

Quite frankly, I intend to issue letters to them because they are responsible people in this society and they should correct these mistakes (for which I give them the benefit of the doubt). But I do not believe that these are mistakes; they are just a continuation of the harassment that I have had over the past five or six weeks. It seems that everyone who is running against the National Team has just levelled in on me and there has been a steady, premeditated attack in all areas. If they are going to state the facts, I can deal with that. If what is being done is a mistake, I can only ask the people of this country to look at the truth and disregard the lies and the misrepresentation that has been put out.

I would like to deal with another area of that because it is a legal matter. Surely their Chairman, who is a lawyer, should know better. Questions were asked about this regarding why the transfer from the earlier mentioned property was not taken. I am not the lawyer for the owners (Mrs. Murphy and Mr. Thompson), but there is nothing against the law in having a contract where you purchase property over a period of time. It is done every day. One can enter into an Agreement for Sale with the original owners - as apparently was done several years ago on the Cayman Food s building - and one need not take a transfer on it until later on.

The Law on this is very clear. It is the Stamp Duty Law (1995 Revision), and in the second Schedule under "Assignment" says this: "Assignment (a) of any rights under an agreement or memorandum of agreement for or in relation to the purchase of or an interest in, any land or strata title or other immovable property - for the first two assignments: [This is very important because you can assign property twice under the Law, and this was only one assignment, apparently.] ...7 1/2 per cent of the value of the consideration or for the premium for the assignment howsoever paid."

You pay on the assignment, when you register the transfer, the premium over and above the cost of the land. So if the land was being sold for, say, $50,000, and you took an assignment for $10,000, you pay the 7.5% on the $10,000. Naturally, at the end of the day when you take the transfer you would pay the stamp duty on the full amount.

So there is nothing wrong with a contract for sale of land, as was done in this case on the 14th of October, 1992, to purchase the property over a period of years from the Thompson family. The transfer does not have to be put through as they are trying to impute here. Once again, this is just a case of facts are being warped. That is the truth. I challenge anybody to dispute what I have said in relation to Loans Bills, conditional contracts and stamp duty.

If and when these Loan Bills go through, the position then is that there will be the approval for all these projects, including the Cayman Food s and the First Baptist Church buildings, up to a maximum of the amounts set out in the Loan Bills. What will then happen is that the Lands and Survey Department will enter into negotiation with the vendors of these properties (not me, not my Ministry). They will go through valuations that the vendors have prepared and also valuations that they have prepared and at the end of the day they will negotiate and execute a contract on behalf of the Government. So this is a long way away from the fixing of a price.

After that is done, then the Honourable Financial Secretary, once he has raised the money, will release the money to the Lands and Survey Department who will pay under the contract. It is totally untrue to tell the public at this stage that because an upper limit of $1.4 and $1.1 million... in fact all the other amounts there, approximately $800,000 for contracts - for example, the George Hicks High and the George Town Primary School s (the George Hicks is more, perhaps $1.2), those contracts might well come in over or under those amounts. But it is not for me to say what those amounts will be. Whatever the fair market value of the property will be paid. And it will follow its normal course.

What I would like to do is show two transactions referred to in the comment on this that did not follow that procedure in the past. This must be where the misunderstanding has come in, because in the past proper procedures were not followed and they are presuming that this Government does not follow the proper procedures. While I am on that (I know this will be dealt with by the Third Elected Member for George Town), I have been shown a letter in which the Lands and Survey Department is asking for stamp duty to be paid on the Cayman Food s building because they valued the property at $1,268,500. I do not know how they will deal with the confusion on it... and this is CI dollars. The other valuation which was given to me when I was in here was CI$900,000. It looks to me as if this valuation has come from a different Lands Officer than the one who did the previous valuation for $900,000. But I can tell you that, by law, the valuation to purchase the property by Government is on the same basis as the valuation for stamp duty - it is the market value of the property at the time.

I am sure that there will be private valuations that are more or perhaps less than these amounts, but at the end of the day it is not my duty to decide how much is paid for the property or properties. Now it is not my duty to decide how much money is given out on a contract for the building of the George Town Primary School or the George Hicks High School. That is dealt with through a different mechanism of which I am not a part. I hope I make this clear to one and all at this point.

If we look at the two transactions over which this debate arose, the procedure had been set out by the Auditor General. We find in the Auditor General's Report of 31st December, 1992 (page 22), in relation to the SafeHaven project where the procedure is dealt with. At the top of the page it says: "The minimum current rental value calculated was US$277,000 per annum and was based on 277 acres with a capital value of US$10,000 per acre and a required rental rate of return of 10% per annum. This would have generated a total income stream of US$27.4 million over the life of the 99 year lease before applying the recommended 10 yearly rent reviews. However the Lands Officer subsequently confirmed to my Office that this valuation failed to mention that the present value of SafeHaven's remaining leasehold interest would have to be offset against any new lease rental." In other words, 40 years had run on it so about 4/10 would be reduced which would be about $15 million.

It goes on to say: "No formal valuation of this was ever carried out, but the Lands Officer has advised that this would have been an extremely complex and highly subjective exercise without access to all of SafeHaven's records. In my opinion, the October 1990 valuation was incomplete. The above valuation process relates to a surrender and renewal situation. The Lands Officer told me that SafeHaven was never prepared to consider this option as they were of the belief (probably rightly) that it would weaken their negotiating position. A further valuation for the SafeHaven lease was prepared in January 1991 which calculated the landlord's inducement in a range between CI$450,000 and CI$976,568. This report was prepared on the same day as negotiations opened..."

The next relevant part goes on to say: "Negotiations were concluded within two hours [and I will read later that this negotiation was done directly by the then Minister for Communications and Works and Lands, Mr. Linford Pierson] and a premium of US$940,800 was agreed to be recommended to both sets of principals by the representatives." So instead of the $27.4 million being reduced back to the $15 million that should have been paid, which the Lands Officer recommended, $940,800 was negotiated.

The report goes on to say: "The premium proposed was quickly agreed by SafeHaven Limited and was submitted to Executive Council for ratification." I would like us to look at the words "was quickly agreed by Safe-Haven Limited and was submitted to Executive Council for ratification..." not even approval. "Executive Council rejected the proposal and directed that the premium should be US$2 million. SafeHaven submitted a counter offer of US$1 million on execution and the balance by ten annual installments of US$100,000 on the basis that no further stamp duty would be payable in relation to the lease extension. Executive Council accepted the deferred consideration proposal but directed that Stamp Duty should not be waived..."

If the Democratic Alliance, and Mr. Pierson wish to tell the country (as they put the question to me last week in the newspaper) why, when there was a recommendation of $27.4 million to increase the life of the lease, did he personally have a two hour negotiation (which SafeHaven quickly accepted) and recommend $980,000? Where did the $14 million go? But at least Executive Council had in it some good people, like Mr. Norman Bodden, who must have seen the light and at least said that it could not go through. That sum was increased to $2 million. But even at $2 million it is still $13 million based on the prorated amount under what was recommended.

SPEAKER'S RULING

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I hope you have now concluded your comments on the matter of the purchase of buildings, because Standing Orders really require a Member while doing a second reading debate to speak on the general merits and principles of the Bill.

Perhaps you would go on to that area, please. Thank you.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I am finished in that area.

The principle that I am dealing with here is very important because it deals with the valuation and the procedures that are laid down for the valuation of buildings (of which this Loan Bill has several). I will not attempt to go into the principles relating to the contracts that relate to the Tenders Committee. It has been an issue here as to the valuation of buildings.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I appreciate that, but I think that when it comes to debating Bills, the matter that you are dealing with arises from publications by members of the public to which you are replying. This would be better replied to in a statement by you at a convenient time.

Please proceed with the other portions of the Bills. Thank you.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I am finished on the SafeHaven matter at this stage.

It is also very clear that we have seen in this Honourable House some objections, speaking and voting against items such as this when they relate to private schools. The position that I have is very clear, and I support the amounts in these Bills that relate to private schools. It is right, in principle, where we have $10 million per annum of Recurrent Expenditure that the private schools are carrying for the Government under the Compulsory Education system, that we should assist them with these small amounts.

I would like to now turn to deal reasonably briefly with a matter which unfortunately I was not able to speak on at the time it arose earlier on Thursday. The attempts to justify acts which have been carried out by members outside of this House, attempts that we have seen recently on the steps of this Legislative Assembly building where, specifically, one of the Wight twins has basically...

The Speaker: Excuse me Honourable Minister, I am afraid this has nothing to do with the Loan (Capital Projects) Bill which is before the House at this time.

If you can show me how this could be admitted into this debate I will be most grateful. But I certainly do not see the connection.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, all I can say is that it is very unfortunate that on Thursday, and the subsequent days when I suffered, I lost the right to speak on something in this Honourable House. Now all I can say is that the attempts to justify those attacks on me by people on the outside, like Mr. Linford Pierson, is sick. I will shut up and sit down.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister will have another opportunity. I have already said that you could make a statement and in that statement you can say whatever you want. But this is really most inappropriate to be brought into the debate on the Second Reading of two Loan Bills. I think the correct Parliamentary procedure of the House must be adhered to.

Would you continue the debate on the Bills?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, all I will say is that it was very relevant to me on Thursday when I was trying to debate these Bills because it stopped me. I have nothing more to say, Madam Speaker. I have been disoriented from it. If it is the view of the House that I say nothing, I will say nothing. I will take and just go on taking, but at some stage it must stop.

The Speaker: I think everybody appreciates how the Minister feels, and felt on that particular day. But as Speaker of the House I must really keep to the procedure. As I said, if you wish to make a statement, that can be put down at the appropriate time. I appreciate that at the time of the incident you were not in a position to do so.

Have you concluded your debate on the Bills?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, I am finished. Totally finished!

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.37 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.10 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Debate continues on the Loan (Capital Projects) Bill, 1996 and the Loan (Capital Projects) 1993 (Amendment) Bill, 1996.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In my contribution to the debate on these Bills, I wish to begin by saying that I am somewhat surprised, though not totally dismayed, by the National Team Government coming here requesting the authorisation for this money, because it shows that what some of us have been claiming is accurate. What we had was not a true representation of the Budget and there were, whether deliberate or otherwise, figures fudged, amounts left out, in order to present a document which could be described as balanced. I am even more surprised in that the National Team had within its ranks two Financial Secretaries, two Bank Directors and a Bank Manager.

One cannot sensibly debate these Bills without drawing some comparison to the state of affairs which existed previously. I would like to highlight the fact that with the forecasted figures for 1995 and 1996, the National Team Government would have had a revenue of $673,000,000, compared to what existed previously when the previous Government had a revenue of $458,000,000 and an expenditure of $484,000,000. But, what I find interesting is that both Governments spent approximately 14.25 per cent of the revenue on capital expenditure. Given that comparison, I would have to say that any edge in the best management would certainly have to go with the Government of 1988 to 1992.

Yes, I would like the National Team Government to show me what they have bought - single entry or double entry. I would like them to show me how their management of the money has placed us in a better position than we were; or how we are in a more improved position now. Where are the roads? Where is the hospital? Where are the school buildings? Are we not still labouring under the same old pains?

(Inaudible interjection)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Getting them - but at what expense? Look at how the contingent liabilities have ballooned. Where are the reserves that we were supposed to have? Where are the savings?

The National Team knows as well as I do that the proof of the pudding is in the tasting, and their pudding has no taste - it is burnt! What happened here a while ago has shown me that the National Team has a lightweight approach to Government and financial management; a lightweight approach lacking guts, lacking direction and lacking proper fiscal responsibility.

I wish to point out that the situation as I see it, should have been handled differently and there is no escaping that some of these purchases leave much to be desired, because this is the only country in the civilised world where purchases like this would be made and no questions come upon the Members.

Madam Speaker, can you understand that in the great United States of America, or Britain, from whom we take our parliamentary cue, Government buying property from a sitting Member of Parliament... and it goes just like that! I do not care what excuses are being made. I say it is not right. It is not proper and I do not want to go into what happened in the previous Government because that is no justification for what is happening now. I say these purchases do not represent the best value for the money spent, and I would like an explanation as to why the National Team Government wishes to depart from the valuations that were given. What explanation can be given?

I cannot understand the situation because I heard the Minister of Education in his contribution in Finance Committee say that the Cayman Foods building was going to be bought. Now I understand he is trying to back out of the deal and say that no such commitment was given. Well, where are we, Madam Speaker? Are we buying, or are we not buying? Did we give a commitment, or are we not giving a commitment? Are we reneging?

A true leader would have stood up, assumed the responsibility and would have said, "I, on the advice of my Ministry, took the responsibility to purchase that property. If it is wrong, I will have to apologise at some time, but I am going through with the purchase for these reasons." Do you know why that is not done, Madam Speaker? It is because no one on the National Team could stand up here and say that these purchases represent the best value for the money spent. That is why they have to duck and dodge and shy away and resort to fenky-fenky excuses.

I marvel at their record of financial management. It is no wonder that we have been here twice in the last little while approving loans so shortly after voting and approving the largest Budget in the history of this country.

I want to go on record as saying that nobody is against private education or the Government helping the private schools. I say, and I wish to make this point abundantly clear, explicitly clear, and I will continue to say, that charity begins at home and that public funds must be spent first and foremost on public schools. Since the public schools cater to 68 per cent of the children in the school system, there is no reason why they should be neglected and private schools be supplied to their detriment.

If one takes the figures that were given in an answer here to a question which I asked earlier this morning, it is interesting... and I have only cursorily dealt with this matter. But if you add up the individual amounts for these schools, one is hard pressed to come up with this amount being spent on each Government primary school for these comparative periods. So I say that there is something radically wrong with the system. Certainly, to come now and claim that the Cayman Foods building has to be bought because it is less expensive to buy than to build a purpose-built facility in the absence of any proof is ludicrous. I do not know, but it seems to me that that could either be the excuse of a fool or a scoundrel. I do not know which it is.

Why are we placed in this position? Do you know why we are placed in this position? Because the National Team mismanaged the financial resources of this country. They had no plan.

I want to revert to dwell some more on this purchase of the Cayman Foods building because if the Leader of the National Team, the Minister of Education, had any insight, any common-sense to go along with the degrees he so likes to boast that he has, he would have purchased the Cayman Foods building from the time he came in office and the Red Bay School was opened. A blind man on a galloping horse should have seen that that was a necessary acquisition. Had he bought it then, he would have been in a stronger position to bargain to get the best value for the Caymanian taxpayers' money that he wants to now give away.

I want to say something else about leadership. It is a pity that the people with all the degrees did not take some course in public administration and the administering of public affairs. It is my understanding that the suggestion was made to this Honourable Minister by a mutual acquaintance of many of the Members inside here that this property should have been acquired years ago. Do you know what I suspect? They do not need the Opposition - there are only two, and at the best of times three of us - so they can ramrod and railroad anything through us. So they figured that that was going to be one of these times too. They did not figure that the tide of public opinion was turning. They did not figure that they were going to be questioned in this way.

Mr. Roy Boddén: Well, we certainly have no one out there demonstrating and picketing against us.

Madam Speaker, I have some figures which I would like to peruse for a little while in an attempt to show that what has happened with the financial management under the National Team of this country has led us into trouble.

The revenue from 1993 to 1996 for the National Team - $658,927,924, as against an expenditure of $672,919,136, the 1988 to 1992 Government, the revenue was $458,400,000 as against an expenditure of $484,500,000. The Capital Expenditure for the 1988 to 1992 government was $64,400,000. Capital Expenditure for the National Team Government - $94,159,461. But, I want to point out a significant difference. The 1988 to 1992 Government did not pillage the statutory authorities like the National Team Government did. The National Team Government took from the Port Authority $1,590,979; from the Civil Aviation Authority, $6 million plus; from the Water Authority $950,000 and left them with loan guarantees instead.

I am saying, and I will continue to say, that I have to give the 1988 to 1992 Government more credit in the financial management, comparatively speaking, than the National Team Government, because, I say again, we are not substantially better off at this point in terms of new capital projects than we were.

I do not know if the Bills are going to pass. That is not for me to say. The National Team Government has the people who vote 'Aye' without much analysis and perusal for themselves. But what I have to say that should be clear to the country is that if we take these requests into consideration with and among all the other things, the National Team Government is not all it is cracked up to be. Over and beyond it, there is a problem of the ethical aspects of the whole exercise; something does not seem well with the process. I am not accusing anyone of anything. I am merely stating the facts as they are obvious.

It will remain to be seen. I do not need to make any more points than I have made. I will now leave it up to the others, including the speakers of the National Team, to justify their position.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to contribute to the debate on the Bill for a Law for Capital Projects for 1996. These projects came before Finance Committee on the 13th of May of this year. Unfortunately, I was not here because I was off the island with a sick member of the family and was unable to participate.

The question has been asked about capital projects, "What capital projects has the National Team contributed to?" We were broke when the National Team took over office from the previous Government. We could not afford them. It is only this year, and that is why we are here now with these Bills seeking to have capital projects, because we are paying for the previous Government.

When Finance Committee met to discuss these applications and projects only one individual said "No" and voted against them. That was Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I did not read in the Minutes that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town voted "No." The only vote of "No" recorded was by that one individual Member. Yes, Madam Speaker, the only one recorded in the Minutes was the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

In the Loans Bill we have construction of roads $4,050,000. As a representative for George Town... and we are constantly being accused of not doing anything for the district... I would now like to state the roads that we have slated, where over $3 million will be spent in George Town.

Now we know that the staff of the Public Works Department are hard working individuals and they can only do so much at any time. Of course this will go out to private enterprise. I would like to share with the House what will be done. Here is a priority list of roads for 1996 for the George Town district to be hot mixed as follows:

- 1) Harbour Drive from Goring Avenue to Mary Street;
- 2) Crewe Road, from Crighton Building to Lion Centre;
- 3) South Church Street, from Goring Avenue to Melmac Avenue;
- 4) Nixon Road, from North Sound Way to Eastern Avenue;
- 6) Crewe Road, from North Sound Way to the Airport;
- 7) Walkers Road, from Boilers Road to Hospital Road, including Ash Road;
- 8) Eastern Avenue, from West Bay to Shedden Road;
- 9) Smith Road, from Templeton Pines to west of Bob Thompson Way; and
- 10) Smith Road, again, all of which will be completed.

In addition to the hot mix on those roads, we have development of several other roads that will be completed. I will find that list. The only way that roads can be completed in these islands is through a loan; $238,000 is allocated for George Town, but there is no way all the roads that are required can be completed or even repaired. That is what we inherited from the previous Government.

I have heard former politicians saying in the media that the roads need to be repaired. Why did they not fix them when they had four years in office? They did not have any funds; there were no programmes in place to repair these roads, programmes like the ones the previous (the Unity Team) Government had to do so many miles of road. That went down the drain when the previous Government took over in 1988.

Continuing with the roads in George Town. We have road reconstruction of Prospect Park in three different areas. Templeton Pine Lake - three areas. There is road reconstruction to be done to Bernard Drive; road reconstruction for Tropical Gardens; rip-and-relay - Tropical Gardens; road reconstruction - Palm Dale Road; road construction (second application) Edward Avenue; Diaz Lane extension (second application) in shoulders; Bodden Road (second application); South Sound Road (second application) and road construction; rip-and-relay Croton Lane, Tropical Gardens road construction - Bel Air Gardens; raise and repair dip-in road - Denham Thompson Way, and that is presently being worked on. Install turning lanes at Denham and Walkers Road junction.

Those are some of the roads that will be repaired in George Town. As I said, it will take time and we are presently working on some of them which, hopefully, will be completed.

There is an additional estimate for roads to be done: Construct roads to Cardinal D's George Town Courts; reconstruct small road off Bodden Road; Parsons Road, Eden Road; reconstruct Martin Road, Windsor Park; clear and second application, Hawkins Drives, Windsor Park; clear and second application for Windsor Park Road and Walkers Road junction; construct Holy Rise Road Phase I and II; reconstruct Barnes Drive; construct road off Spotts/Newlands Road. Ash Road is included again in this estimate.

The previous speaker mentioned the lightweight approach with the National Team regarding funds on behalf of the people of these islands. I do not believe any Member of this National Team has done that with the funds we have had to work with.

Through the media a member of the Democratic Alliance said that we have spent over $700 million since this Government took office. I wonder if he realises that his colleague and running mate voted for this budget. Does he realise that?

We also have slated for George Town three parks which I will share with the Honourable Members who are not familiar with them. We have one opposite Fosters Food Fair which will be done shortly. We have the Taib Welcome Park on Washington Avenue (better known as the Swamp), and another one to be where the old Agricultural Grounds, or Cricket Pitch, was. Some people may be familiar with it by that name. In addition to what is being done at Watlers Square and Windsor Park those three parts will be completed for George Town. There were funds in the Budget for the Windsor Park facility which is being done by the Rotary Club. We are grateful to the Rotary Club for doing this. Those are some of the parks that will be dealt with.

The former speaker wanted to know if there would be an explanation for the purchase of buildings and if the Government had received the best value for money. Following all the attention in the media, I would like to share some information regarding this piece of property (Block 23C Parcel 5). Yes, I am the part owner of that property.

In October of 1992, my brother and I entered into a contract to purchase the Cayman Food s building. With the Cayman Islands being very small, it is impossible for the Government to purchase land from any individual who is not an employee of Government, or a Parliamentarian, or a family member of someone negotiating with the Government. The population here is very small and being small we run into problems such as this.

I remember when a former Member of Parliament in the early 1970s, Mr. Warren Conolly, owned a lot of land in East End and the road was to be constructed through his property (what we now know as High Rock). There was a big outcry, because he was a Member of Parliament, and the Public Works Department was constructing the road through his property, that he was going to benefit. The Public Works Department decided to look at several pieces of property. Lo and behold, all the property in that area belonged to the same individual. So there is nothing different between then and today.

If I am a Member of Parliament, and I have things that I buy and sell, can it then be said that they cannot come into my store and purchase because I am a Member of Parliament?

(inaudible interjection from across the floor)

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: I am coming to the price, Madam Speaker. We purchased the property in October from Westwind Holdings. We took caution on the property and gave them $350,000 as a down payment. Unfortunately it had to be exposed in the newspaper along with the contract. Privately, I have nothing to hide, and neither does my brother. I think the thing that amazes them is why it was not completed. I will explain why it was not completed: We agreed to purchase the property for $1 million (US), however the owners would carry it and give us time to pay for it. We, in turn, had to pay the real estate commission of $50,000 which was done in 1992 when it was purchased. That was from a real estate agent who is now a member of the Democratic Alliance, so I am not surprised that all of this was published.

We put into the building roughly $125,000 in repairs because shortly after we took over the building another individual had given a deposit to purchase it from us for $2 million. This was paid to a real estate agent on the condition that they would receive approval from the Planning Department to assemble fire extinguishers. The Principal of the Red Bay School objected, even though the business would be environmentally friendly (the purchaser could prove it), and the Planning Department turned down the application. Since we had put in the repairs we decided to put it to our own use as a warehouse. All of the repairs totalled $1.176 million. We have invested that in the building. Now we are asking for $1.4 million.

We were to pay for the project after three years. We wrote and obtained an extension where on the 14th of October... and I have a copy of that, and with your permission, Madam Speaker, I would like to lay it on the Table of the House... we were given until the 14th of April at which time we would have to make the payment in full. We put in another $100,000 and would be paying interest on the outstanding balance at LIBOR, plus 4%. I also have copies of the cheques that were paid.

I have a letter dated 24th of October, 1995, signed by A.L. Thompson Jr., to the Honourable Truman Bodden, the Minister for Education and Planning, offering the Red Bay property for further development of the Red Bay School. I would also like to lay this on the Table of the House. In January of 1994 we listed the property with a real estate agent, and in February of 1994 the agent contacted the Lands and Survey Department notifying them that the property was available for sale at a price of $1.8 million. The property was valued by the agent who also does valuations for Crighton Properties Limited. At that time it was valued at CI$1,338,900. This I would also like to lay this on the Table of the House, with your permission.

Of course, as is typical of the Government, we received no response. In fact the property is still for sale, there has been no transaction. We have not received $1 from the Government or anyone else. We refunded the deposit from the would-be purchaser, who I mentioned earlier, because of the Planning approval being turned down.

I also have some other valuations here: Cayman Islands Realty and Development valued the building including paving, for a sum of $1,340,585. The valuation states: "Based on the above, the current rising market in the subject area, and our knowledge of the real estate market in general, it is our opinion that the value at that property is in the range of $1,350,000." I would also like to lay that on the Table of this House. This valuation was done on 13th June, 1996.

J.E.C. Building Consultants was also contacted to do a valuation report on the property. They are used by the Government and other bankers. Included in the report is a thorough valuation of $1,247,500, including replacement costs. I would also like to lay this on the Table of this Honourable House.

The final payment of $650,000 was made to Westwind Holdings on the 3rd of May, simply because my brother was off the island (he was in the Far East for 17 days) and we both had to sign the cheque. Upon his return we paid Westwind Holdings the $650,000. We received an extension from Westwind Holdings because it was in the best interests for our finances at the time.

(Inaudible interjection)

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: No, Madam Speaker, we are not broke, as the Wight twins seem to be telling everyone in George Town and other areas - that we are broke and the Government had to bail us out. Thank God we are not! We are solvent, which is more than they can say.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, would you please continue with the debate on the two Bills before the House and leave out personalities and otherwise?

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I will.

On the 10th of May, Mr. Lambert from the Lands and Survey Department did a valuation of this property for the Cayman Islands Government and valued it at $900,000.

On the 15th of May, my brother and I forwarded a cheque to the Lands and Survey Department for stamp duty in the amount of US$75,012.20 on the purchase price of $1 million for the building. Why it was not done before is because, according to law, you have 45 days in which to file and complete any transaction with the Lands and Survey Department.

On the 10th of June we received a letter from Mr. Lambert (the same Lands and Survey Officer) telling us that the stamp duty we paid was not acceptable and the stamp duty liability we now have to pay is valued at CI$1,268,500. That is exactly 30 days between the 10th of May when it was valued at CI$900,000 and the 10 of June where it is now valued at $1,268,500. Is this the same gentleman we have in the Lands and Survey Department?

This is not the first time there has been problems in the Lands and Survey Department regarding valuation and stamp duty fees. I remember after being elected to this House that there were numerous meetings with a member of the Lands and Survey Department regarding Mr. Val Hurlston's land that was taken by the previous Government to build the Community College. For about eight years not one penny was paid to that gentleman. The Lands and Survey Department valued the property at $10,000 per acre. The going rate at the time was about $18,000 per acre, and Mr. Hurlston held out because it was not acceptable. At the same time land all around was being valued at a higher rate, half an acre was CI$45,000.

So deviating from the process and talking all this nonsense (that because I am a Member of Parliament), why should I not sell the land? It is for sale. If the Government wants it, they can certainly buy it. But I am not going to lose on it. That is not "Thompson economics", unlike the economics of some individuals in town. That is not what we will do.

The former speaker shared some information with us this morning concerning the Campbell building and the deviation from the process regarding the SaveHaven project.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, please do not repeat the arguments of another Member which have already gone. That is not correct procedure. Now I will suspend proceedings until 2.30 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.55

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.36 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Debate continues on the Second Reading of the Loan Bills. The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Prior to taking the lunch break I was dealing with the purchase of the Cayman Food s building and I really do not have very much more to say about it, except that it has unfortunately become a political football. Hopefully, in the course of events something else will become a political football.

The presenter of these Bills, the Honourable Financial Secretary, mentioned that 7.2% of annual revenue would go towards covering these loans. The normal percentage is 10% of our revenue. I think he should be commended because it is under the norm.

The George Town Primary School will be equipped with two new classrooms, hopefully for the Fall if not by the end of the year. The George Hicks School building will also have additional classrooms and there is a sewage plant included in these Bills.

There are several items in the Bills, but I wonder why it is only the purchase of lands that has been attacked by the Opposition inside and outside this Honourable House.

The previous speaker mentioned statutory authorities, particularly the Port Authority. It is stated in their Regulations that if a profit of $150,000 is realised over and above the $150,000 then that must revert to Government. I am not sure about the other authorities that were mentioned, they probably have the same built-in regulations where any profit over $150,000 reverts to Government unless it is being invested in development or expansion.

Madam Speaker, we have $1 million in the Bill for medical facilities. I am sure the Honourable Minister knows that this is what is required. Again, we are being attacked. I am sure that the funds allocated in the Bill will be put to good use and will be utilised for the people of these islands.

The Community College building: that is the annual grant provided to them and there is expansion taking place there now - a new library and other buildings will be coming on stream as well.

Madam Speaker, I have no problem supporting these Bills. The Opposition has said that we need items, so I will sit and listen keenly to hear if they are going to vote for these Bills. They have said we need roads, other school buildings, and so forth. I, Madam Speaker, certainly support these Bills.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to offer my support to the two Bills before the House, the Loan (Capital Projects) 1993 (Amendment) Bill, 1996, and the Loan (Capital Projects) Bill, 1996.

I think the Government has been very prudent with its finances over the past four years. First of all, when we took over in 1992 there was no money to spend. That is a fact. The approach we took was that the 1993 Budget would be within our revenue means with no borrowings attached to it. That is the way it was. In the first year I think we were able to realise a small profit in the region of $600,000. The next year was basically the same thing.

We really did not have any money in the first two years to spend on any major capital projects in this country. What has also aggravated the situation, especially regarding road works in the district of George Town, is that the previous Government (the 1988 to 1992 Government) spent very little on the repair of roads. What we have tried to do over the last three years is divide what is available for road works between the different districts. I think the Third Elected Member for George Town mentioned something in the region of $200,000 that was allocated this year. Pittance! It could not even begin to address the need for road repairs in this country.

I believe what has to be appreciated is the fact that at the present time revenue is coming in, Government is managing and controlling its expenditure. The policies that we have put in place since taking office in 1992, for example, reducing stamp duty on land transfers from 10%, imposed by the last Government which basically killed the Real estate market, to 7.5%. Also the fact that in subsequent years (I think it was 1990/1991) the Government of the day introduced some $20 million in taxes. It basically killed the economy of this country.

In spite all of the losses that were incurred by Cayman Airways, the past Government was not in a position to go out and borrow the necessary funds that were needed at the time to rescue Cayman Airways. We did that a year or so after we took office. We were able to negotiate a loan for something in the region of C$16 million to help pay off some of the creditors who were knocking down the doors and threatening the airline with liquidation. We did that, Madam Speaker. But at the same time we were prudent in ensuring that the projects that we needed for our people all fell within the bounds of local revenue capabilities.

At the present time, the financial position in the economy could not be better. I understand from talking with real estate agents that real estate is hot right now, and that as fast as properties are made available for sale, they are gobbled up. This adds revenue to the coffers of the country through the stamp duty on those land transfers. This is an ideal time for the Government to approach the financial institutions or individuals and say to them, "We are now in a position to repay funds that are borrowed and we want you to move on with providing these services for us."

I am very pleased to see that in the Loan (Capital Projects) Bill, 1996, there is a provision for $1.4 million for new classrooms for the George Town Primary and the Savannah Primary School. They are getting four new classrooms each which are necessary because of the increase in enrollment.

The one thing that I believe no one can accuse this Government of is skimping on providing funds for education in this country, public or private education. I am one who also believes that the public school facilities have to be as good, or better, than that which is available at private schools. I do not believe anyone can accuse the Honourable Minister of Education and Planning for depriving public schools of their facilities and materials in order to support private schools. So Madam Speaker, the Savannah Primary will get the classrooms it needs, and also the George Town Primary. This is in keeping with the demand for space caused by new students being enrolled.

I recall in the 1996 Budget that even for my district of West Bay there was money for a new Assembly Hall for the West Bay Primary School, which is badly needed. So we have done our best to provide those facilities that the public schools, as well as the private schools need.

I am also pleased to see that plans are in place to establish district parks. These are badly needed. At the end of the day one can take one's family for a nice outing, perhaps a walk, or sit under the stars and enjoy the outside beauty. With the rapid growth and development in this country these types of facilities have fallen behind. We were so busy trying to provide the services so desperately needed in order to keep up with the pace of development. Now that we have a bit of breathing space, time to reflect, the Minister for Community Development is moving ahead to ensure that each district has a number of parks where its residents can enjoy their spare time.

Regarding the $10 million being borrowed, there are some $4 million for roads. Out of that sum some $3 million will be spent on road repairs and maintenance in the district of George Town. I must say that even before this request came to this House, I took the time to drive through the district of George Town. I must say that there are significant improvements which have taken place over the last three years in road repairs. That is as a result of the present Government's policy.

The other thing that we have tried to do as a Government is to share as equally as possible the revenue that we have available to provide facilities in all districts of this country, rather than trying to deprive particular districts of facilities which are so badly needed, for political or other reasons.

I do support the idea of spending in the region of $3 million for road repairs and maintenance in the district of George Town. I believe that even after this money is spent, there will probably be a need for additional funds to handle additional road repairs. As I have said before, the former Government did not spend any time or give attention to road works in the district of George Town, and very little on road work in the other districts.

There are some $2 million in the Budget for the purchase of lands. We have had a lot of debate in this Legislative Assembly regarding one of the proposed purchases. I know from experience, because we were looking at the possibility of purchasing a piece of property just east of the Red Bay Primary School for the purpose of establishing another Wendy's Restaurant. What we were quoted was something like $400,000 for a piece of property 100 ft. by 120 ft. Here we are, talking about over five acres of property plus a building, and it is projected that we are going to pay $1.4 million for it. Not only that, we are getting it on terms where the repayments will be made over a period of four years.

I asked these questions when we sat in Finance Committee dealing with this request. Whatever final price we pay for that property, it is supported by the Government's appraisal, which I think in most cases is ridiculous and very unrealistic. In addition to this purchase, I can remember other purchases that we have dealt with and the appraised value that they come up with, as compared to an independent appraiser, was totally ridiculous. But we must have the Government's appraisal plus a reputable independent company also giving an appraisal. The purchase is based on that.

I do not agree with the comments of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, who said that because a Member of Parliament has an interest in it we should not purchase it. We need to ensure that whatever we pay for it is justified. At the present time we are faced with a situation where we have cramped quarters for the Lighthouse School. The Sunrise Centre in West Bay is also cramped and needs additional space. I understand that the Red Bay Primary also needs an Assembly Hall and other facilities. So where else in the world are we going to find that amount of property near a school for that value?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Yes, First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. On a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order please, First Elected Member for Bodden Town?

POINT OF ORDER
(Misleading)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, the Honourable Member has just uttered a deliberate false statement. I did not say that the property should not be bought because it is owned, or is being sold by a Member of Parliament. I said that it does not represent the best value for money.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Third Elected Member for West Bay, what have you to say to that? You have heard the point of order.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Madam Speaker, I recall very clearly that there was a reference regarding the United States of America and Great Britain, that in those two jurisdictions a transaction such as this involving a Member of Parliament would not take place. That is what I recall, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: I think I remember that myself.
First Elected Member for Bodden Town, have you anything further to say?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker. I said that it would not take place without some fallout and some investigation.

The Speaker: I think that we have all gotten to the stage where there is so much talking going on, it is really difficult without going to the transcripts. I would say that this is really not a valid point of order.

I will ask all Members in future to be very careful in their presentation on any issue under this.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: If you do not mind, Madam Speaker, I am saying that I did not say that the property should not have been bought merely because it is being sold by a Member of Parliament. I would like my position clarified, and if it means going to the transcript, then we should go to the transcript.

The Speaker: I agree with you. If the young lady can get a transcript of that, I will read it and make a final decision on the matter. It depends on whether she can do it today or the day after.

Madam Clerk, will you please ask the young lady if she can possibly do the transcript?

Mr. Roy Bodden: It does not have to be today... (last part inaudible)

The Speaker: I am just asking the Clerk if it is at all possible, because I understand there is only one lady left. The other one has not yet returned from leave.

So if it is possible, Madam Clerk, can you please ask the young lady to let us have the transcript with as little delay as possible?

(Interjections)

The Speaker: Please, please, would you let the Speaker have a little say? I do not want any interruption when I am speaking.

Third Elected Member for West Bay, can you continue your debate until such time? Thank you.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr.: Thank you, Madam Speaker. All I want to say in closing on that issue is that I fully support that purchase. I think it is good value for money, and I am quite sure that in the end Government will be pleased with the investment.

Another item in the proposal for a loan is $1.2 million for a Post Office building near the airport. I understand that the Government has broken ground for this project. I believe the contract has been awarded and it is proposed that before the end of the year the Post Office will have this new facility available. I fully support that. I must say that the Postal Service, over the last three or four years, has been one Government department where we have seen significant improvements. I believe this facility is long in coming and I am pleased to see that it is finally here. Hopefully, before the end of the year we will have that facility available.

I also see that there is $1.4 million in the request for school buildings. As I understand it this is to be used for some additional classrooms needed at the George Hicks High School, and also to construct a proper sewage plant for those schools in that area. This is money well spent. It also reflects, once again, Government's commitment to supporting education in this country.

I am not going to be very long, but before closing I want to offer a few comments regarding the feeble attempt by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town in comparing this Government's performance to the 1988 to 1992 Government's performance. Anyone who knows anything about finances, who is honest, cannot rightly say that there has not been a significant improvement in the financial position of Government since 1992.

As the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee (and prior to that I was also member of the Public Accounts Committee in 1988 to 1992) I recall one of the recurring comments of the Auditor General was the fact that the Government's expenditure for the period 1988 to 1992 was constantly outpacing the country's revenue. What that means is that that Government was guilty of spending more than it took in. Even on a personal basis if you adopt that type of philosophy or policy, it does not take very long before you run into financial problems. That is exactly what the 1988 to 1992 Government did; it spent more than it took in.

I think it was three out of the four years when there was very little funding coming from Recurrent Revenue that was contributed to the Capital Projects. I also recall the last Budget they presented (which was 1992) there were $18 million budgeted for Capital Projects which was all financed by borrowings. When you compare that to the National Team Government's Budgets, that is, 1993 through 1996, the first year we had a surplus. We not only covered all our Recurrent Expenditure, we also had enough revenue to cover our capital projects. At the end of the year we still had a surplus. In 1994, I think it was basically the same position. So it is only this year that we have gone out and borrowed any significant amount of money in order to finance any of our capital projects.

I heard the First Elected Member for Bodden Town also ask: "What capital projects has this Government put in place for the money that they spent between 1992 and 1996?" One of the things that we can boast of at this present time is that for the first time in our history, the people of this country can be proud of the fact that we have first-class sporting facilities, which were lacking in this country. That is only one item, Madam Speaker.

The Truman Bodden Sports Complex and its grounds in George Town is one of the best facilities, not only in the Caribbean, but probably in the world. Government is moving ahead in spite of all the rhetoric we have heard in providing our people with a first-class, affordable hospital. If I recall correctly, the contract has been awarded and construction is proceeding on schedule.

For the district of Bodden Town, which the First Elected Member represents, we dedicated a very modern, first class, district Health Clinic. This year we hope to break ground on ours in West Bay. It has been talked about for so long. I could go on and on regarding projects that this Government has financed over the four years. The difference in philosophy between this Government and the last Government is that this Government believes that it is in the best interest of this country if we learn to live within our means. Another significant accomplishment of this Government is the financial rescue of Cayman Airways.

I recall the controversy that surrounded the sale of equipment which took place in the last administration. We told them that it would not work, but we could not tell them anything. They ended up not only selling what we had, but on top of that, they incurred some $34 million in losses.

This morning a Parliamentary Question was answered in this House regarding the present financial position of Cayman Airways. The Minister was able to report that for the first three months of this year the airline is running with a net profit of just in excess of $1 million. That is a remarkable achievement.

In my mind the reason why the Opposition made such a big hullabaloo out of this land deal is because in the last four years they have been grappling, trying to grab hold of something that they could use to get political mileage. We have run such a tight ship, financially, that we have provided the facilities that the country needs while at the same time living within our financial means.

What amazes me is the fact that now that things are so good, the Opposition Members, who were thrown out in the last Election, are all clambering to get back into this House. I wonder for what reason. They want to come and mess it back up, Madam Speaker. I am proud of the people of the Cayman Islands. Our forefathers and parents, who did not have the financial opportunities we have, or even the educational opportunities, have what the First Elected Member keeps referring to as "good granny wits." Caymanians have good common-sense; and I believe the people as a whole appreciate the job that this Government is doing. I do not believe they are prepared to give any single-entry bookkeepers a second chance at messing it up.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town also referred to contributions from the statutory authorities. That is ridiculous. I am proud (and I believe I am correct in saying this) that for the first time in the history of the Port Authority (taking into consideration the amount of money that the Authority makes on an annual basis) the authority made a significant financial contribution to the General Revenue. As the Third Elected Member for George Town mentioned, it is obligated to do so. So I have no apologies to the Port Authority contributing $1.5 million to the General Revenues of this country. It is excellent. It speaks well for the management and the present Board of Directors for the Authority.

I am also pleased to hear that the Civil Aviation Authority contributed approximately $6 million on the same basis. There was also a significant contribution from the Water Authority.

I remember being in the Civil Service when the Port Authority was established and the way it was established was by way of a Government guarantee - a loan. So if government financed the establishment of it, then it is only fair that the Government get something back by way of contributions from profit generated by these authorities. That is good financial management, Madam Speaker.

I do not know who the First Elected Member for Bodden Town was referring to when he made the comment about a "lightweight approach to financial management." We have as Ministers of this Government a former Financial Secretary, who (like the present gentleman we have in that position) ran a very tight ship and Government performed financially well. There is also another Minister who is qualified in accounting. Even on the National Team Backbenchers there are people who have significant experience and qualifications in the area of finance. This Government and this country are fortunate to have the leadership they have at this time. So we will move ahead in providing those facilities and services that the country needs despite the puny opposition I hear being raised.

I want to say to the Ministers of Executive Council: keep on target. Keep on course, and do not let the Opposition in this House or on the outside deter you from doing what you should do.

Regarding contributions to private schools, I have no apology for what we have done as a Government in that area. By supporting the private schools it lessens the demands on the Government to provide those facilities and services. Not only that, just about every one of the private schools are well managed and run as a very tight ship, and it is only fair that as a gesture of appreciation, Government supports them through the puny annual grants and, on occasion, with assistance on special projects. This is money well spent.

What the First Elected Member for Bodden Town failed to mention was that even in these private schools a significant amount of the enrollments are our Caymanian students.

Madam Speaker, I thank you for your time. I do support this request.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, needless to say, I rise to give my support to the two Bills before us. I have to wonder at times whether those Members who are in opposition to the actions and policies of the Government know what they are talking about.

We have heard much in these debates, and I do not want to traverse grounds that probably have been covered already. I think some of the nonsense of the Opposition has to be put in the right place. To borrow money is not always a good thing, but to borrow money for good projects is good for the country. What is most important is the ability of the country to repay its debts. Just to be able to borrow money means that Government's credibility is good, it means that bankers trust us, it means that bankers have confidence in the Cayman Islands' ability to repay its debts.

When we launched our economic programme (and I would daresay our economic recovery programme) at the end of 1992 when we took office, we set ourselves certain goals. We knew that their attainment would not be easy, but they would call for strong political will, steady nerves, and unremitting effort. Today, in spite of the difficulties we have had to overcome, we have achieved at least some, if not most, of our goals. The National Team can continue to move forward to address further needs of the country.

From the time we began our term of office, we made it clear that our greatest concern was to turn around our damaged economy and to allow the economy to grow in order to satisfy some of the needs of the people of these islands. I believe that we have done that in spite of the Opposition Members (the Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town) saying that we would not get anything done. Let me say at the onset that from the beginning the two Members opposed everything that we tried to accomplish. I cannot think of anything that we tried to get going where they did not throw stumbling blocks in the way. We have turned around the economy.

How can we forget what it was like in 1992? Does Team Cayman believe that the people of this country forgot the mess created by Ezzard Miller, Linford Pierson and their cronies? Can we forget the Laws that were passed which damaged the country? Can we forget that real estate was dead? Nothing was moving because of the amendment of the 10 per cent in fees. Can we forget that when we tried to amend the Law, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town objected? Can we forget that when we tried to get construction moving again, and tried to protect, as best we could, having a say on who could bring in certain equipment to help our people get more, the Opposition tried to stop that as well? Construction was dead! Can we forget that over 1,000 were registered as being unemployed? They cannot say that today. If they do, they (including the First Elected Member for Bodden Town who said that the performance of the last Government is better than the performance of the National Team Government) are not living in reality, or do not know what existed before 1992, and are not staying in this country. We know that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town is not in any of the categories I mentioned. He has been here at all times, so he knows the difference, and he used to say what the difference is. He is not admitting it today, but he certainly gave the Government at that time a hell of a time, if I can put it that way.

I wonder, if the people were to listen to him and change the Government this year, whether he would do the same to that Government. He likes to elect them and then leave them!

Can we forget that in 1988 we had over $30 million in Surplus and General Reserves? What did we end up with in 1992? Over $7 million in debts and $10 million in reserves. Well, like any good Government the bills have to be paid and, after paying those, that left us with just about $3 million. Can the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, or his colleagues, Mr. Pierson and Mr. Miller, show us what the country has for that kind of management? Can they show us what we got from that kind of management? We virtually had to start from scratch. We had to create a climate in which investors, both domestic and foreign, felt welcome, felt comfortable and felt safe.

There is talk about priorities. Anyone who thinks that as an island-nation we do not have to show the international community, particularly the bankers, that we are serious about the management of our economy, and that we are prepared to be realistic about our wants and priorities.... We have to, Madam Speaker. How else are we going to be able to borrow? Do they believe that we can dream up these projects, write them on a piece of paper and bring them to Parliament, then force the banks to lend the money to us? No! Although it is said by the Opposition Members that the country is badly managed (and if you listen to their words you would say grossly mismanaged - if we listen to them we could not say otherwise), do they believe that the bankers just come and say, "Oh, we know you, we will lend you the money..."? The Cayman Islands has to be in a solvent position, the economy has to be well managed. Just as we have to be good managers of our personal economy (our income and expenditure) to be able to borrow... if not, we know what happens when we go to the bankers and they tell us: "Sorry, we cannot lend you the money." If we have not found ourselves in that position personally, we certainly know of people who have.

At the end of 1992, when there was a decision to borrow $16 million for the National Airline or let it sink, our bankers said, "Let us see how willing you are to properly manage, to cut your expenditures and prioritise." We know the result of that - we got the funds. But Mr. Pierson and Mr. Ezzard could not get them. Because the international community respected us and trusted us enough (and when I say 'us', I am talking about the country), and believed in the management enough they said, "Here is the $16 million."

Do not let anyone think that we are just printing this Bill to get these projects just so. We have to put up.... And yes, let me say to the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, that the proof of the pudding is in the tasting. We know what we are doing!

The country cannot ask for roads and not have to pay taxes or not have any increase in fees. They cannot ask for all of these things and get them without expecting to see some kind of borrowing. How else would we get the roads if we did not have an increase in taxes and an increase in fees? How else? Can we just wave a magic wand and have roads or school buildings appear? We made a decision to borrow and not to raise fees or tax our people as the previous Government did - the Government the First Elected Member for Bodden Town is lauding today. They had to borrow money for all of their capital projects.

We are funding ours because of good management. We are not a country that can stretch out our hand and some friendly nation will give us millions for the development of our infrastructure. I would not want to find my Government in that position. I am proud that we have managed so well, that banks are running to lend to us and that individuals are offering us money to borrow so that we can buy needed property on time.

The Opposition, in true fashion, has criticised every item in the Loan Bill. That is nothing new to them. They opposed the grant for churches and private schools in the past. They criticised the Government for giving to schools. That is nothing new. Every child today knows what the Opposition says about private schools.

In fact, every programme that the Government embarked upon has come under heavy fire from them, even we, as Ministers, were (and still are) accused of all kinds of things in connection with our programmes. They are still criticising the building of roads for the people of this country. But what kind of Government would we be if the need for roads to the homes of our people were identified and we refused? We cannot. This is what the past Government did. Only the roads in the subdivisions of their supporters were built or fixed. But the National Team Government has fixed everybody's - supporters and non-supporters alike.

The Opposition Members talked about things which were not done over three and a half years and are just being done now. That is neither here nor there because given our policy not to tax, we would still have had to borrow whether it was in November last year or now. The truth is, people held off from borrowing for as long as possible, which I did not support altogether because it did not make the need any less.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town spoke about fudged figures and left out amounts. I do not know who will rise to defend him after I sit down, but we are not doing anything that we did not tell the people we would do. If you examine the Financial Secretary's Budget Address, he said that we would have to borrow. So why get up in here and make the world believe that we are doing something that we said we would not do? Do not tell me that he did not hear the Financial Secretary say that. I know that they used that argument in their budget presentation as well. But the truth is that it was said at that time that we would have to borrow. Some projects come to mind. People push for projects even after the Budget is put together. But if it is something for the people of this country why should we do otherwise?

The Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, who seems to think that he knows it all and votes against everything, began his speech by talking about financial imprudence. I think we have addressed that matter already. He also began by talking about dishonesty. I wish to address that issue.

The Member and his cronies have been talking in public meetings on the street, and in the House, about spending $1 million on a cricket pitch. They talked about financial dishonesty. I am not worried about that with this Government because we have a good Financial Secretary and we work together as a Government should, under our circumstances. But I am concerned with the kind of dishonesty that is so blatantly touted from political platforms and in this House. Dishonesty such as what the Second Elected Member (who used to represent Cayman Brac) was doing in his speech. I can term it nothing else but blatant dishonesty.

They were in Finance Committee and they well know (as they knew then) that there were not millions of dollars going toward any cricket pitch. In the Minutes of the Finance Committee it says: "Finance Committee's approval is hereby being sought for a supplementary appropriation in the amount of $419,000 to cover the cost of construction of a cricket pavilion which includes a softball and baseball facility.". How can he, or any other Team Cayman candidate, such as the female candidate whom they have with them, say that these Loan Bills contain $1 million for a cricket pitch? That is dishonesty, flagrant dishonesty in the worse form. They cannot claim that they did not really know what was discussed in Finance Committee when they sat in Finance Committee (both of those Members) and asked all kinds of questions about the $419,000. Even when the same subject is in another document they still tell blatant lies.

Yes, they are Christians all right. How vicious! They are the first ones to claim perfection, to talk about their honesty and to paint Ministers as black as possible. But this could not be a mistake of theirs, as they sat in Finance Committee and asked questions on it, and they put it in their advertisement in the newspaper and talked about it for 20 minutes in their public meeting. This could not be a mistake. It can only be dishonesty! It is proof positive of what a misguided, evil-minded Opposition is capable of.

When they claim that they are Christian and hobbnob with those who criticise Government, and say that they are Christians too, yet so willing to brazenly tell lies about something.... They better read the story of Ananias and Sapphira.

(Inaudible interjection by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Perhaps the Member who was speaking can tell us if Socrates misguided the young people of his day. I do not know because I did not study Socrates. Maybe he knows about the misguidance of young people because he was in the schools. I do not know about Socrates, but I sure do know that in Acts it is said that Ananias told a lie, then walked out the door and dropped down dead.

Better mind that it does not happen to you, Mr. Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: You better mind yourself. Physician heal thyself.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I am not telling a lie, and I am not a physician. I can only tell the truth, and if it hurts...

Mr. Roy Bodden: You did not understand the analogy.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I understand the analogy.

The Speaker: Please, I ask Members that if they have anything to say they address the Chair. The debate is on the Loan Bill, not on Ananias and Sapphira, or Socrates.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Tell him about it, Madam Speaker. Some people like to sport a new shoe, but they cannot stand the pinch.

I say that when two hard-backed men come to this House and question a Minister about it, see it before them and hold it in their hands, and still go out and tell a lie about it; then come back into this House and tell another lie.... I say that those Members should be tarred and feathered. That would probably be too good for them.

(Inaudible interjection by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Is he challenging me, Madam Speaker?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, I am.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I am not Truman Bodden. Do not challenge me. Furthermore, you are not in a position to challenge anybody.

The Speaker: That is not part of the debate, Honourable Minister.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I agree with you. Tell him to keep his place.

It is not true that we spend more on private schools than on Government schools. I heard the Member for Bodden Town say that. He constantly says that. We spend $20 million a year on Government schools. That is in the Budget for all to see. Yet they lie about that too. They said that I spent more on sports than on education. They criticised all of the projects.

It is not good for any Member to get on the public platform saying that they support sports, then when it is time to vote funds, run behind the door and talk about expenditure. He has to make up his mind as to which way he wants to go. The only way that we can get funds is to vote for them. They should be honest and tell the people what they are all about. I am tired of hearing those two Members say that we spend more on sports than we do on education.

I am also tired of hearing those two Members get up in this House and talk about the deterioration of our young people. Yet, when the time comes to do something which uplifts their quality of life, they do not want to vote the funds. They would rather spread propaganda, especially in this election year.

We come here and ask for millions of dollars for roads, and we cannot spend a few hundred thousand dollars on sports for our children? Where do they want the children to go? Do they want them to go to some grass-piece to kick football? Do they want to take them somewhere on the beach where it is already overpopulated? What kind of quality of life do we want for our children? Do they want them to play on the marl road? Where do they want them to go with a bat and a ball - out in traffic?

By the time we finish this year, this Government will have spent in the region of $100 million on education. When the Government was planning a high school in the Bodden Town area the First Elected Member for Bodden Town kicked against it and said that he did not want any division. What is he grumbling about? Inconsistency is the big brother to instability. That is in the Hansard. He opposed it.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Find it.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I can find it. You better mind that I do not bring it. You better remember Ananias. The last Government...

(Inaudible interjection by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, may I continue, or are you going to say something to that little rat over there?

The last Government built a building for some $600,000 to pull out teeth, but could not spend $300,000 on parks. The same Government he lauded had plans of $350 million for roads. Yet we cannot spend $500,000 on sports. The last Government also spent over $400,000 on a post office in North Side. But we cannot spend $250,000 on sports. What do Members want? If we have to borrow and we are able to, so be it. This is not for any National Team Member. This is not for the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, or the Member for North Side or the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay. It is for the children of this country. These are things that should have been done 25 years ago. If the Member who is constantly interrupting would tell the truth, he would say that the last Government should have done it, as should have the one before that.

He talks big, trying to find some issue about this land being purchased. They did the same thing when we bought the Spotts land. When we buy land it becomes an asset, it is not going to rust or deteriorate; it will increase in value for this country.

The biggest joke of all is to hear the First Elected Member for Bodden Town criticise the Minister for Education and Planning about buying the Cayman Food s building and then go on to say how confused he is, and that the Minister should have bought the Cayman Foods building just after he got elected because any blind person could see that it was a necessary acquisition. What a joke! Some people are so confused that they do not know if they are coming or going, standing or sitting. He never talked as much while standing up as he is now while sitting down when he is supposed to be listening.

The biggest joke of all in that Member's speech was when he was trying to compare the expenditure of the last Government, then went on to ask, "Where are the roads? Where is the hospital?" The hospital was stopped because people like the First Elected Member for Bodden Town had sense enough (then) to assist us in the stopping of that atrocity being built in the swamp. He and his colleague were part and parcel of the efforts in the House. They were part and parcel of the efforts on the street to stop the building of the hospital in the swamp. I thank them. Why do they come back now and try to say otherwise? Have they forgotten? Have two men in their 50s...(Inaudible interjections from other side of the room) They look like they are in their 50s!

We have been building all along. The funds now being discussed will go to pay for roads, the hospital and other capital projects. I find it hard to believe that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town (who says he is an academic) says that things were better under the last Government.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town came waving some piece of paper around saying that we had pillaged the authorities, and that the last Government did not. It cannot be said that anybody from this Government had their water bill wiped out, as was done for Mr. Pierson who is now complaining about the $700,000. That would have given us a little bit more, at least. I do not think that the Water Authority was pillaged. Anyone listening to that Member would believe that Government did something wrong.

It says in the Water Authority Law that any excess over the sum recommended to be held should be paid into the General Revenue of the Islands. That is the Water Authority. In the Civil Aviation Law, section 7(4) says, "Any balance of account in favour of the Authority up to the amount of $100,000 may be carried forward to the account of the following year and any balance in excess of that sum shall be paid into the General Revenue of the Islands."

If we look at the Port Authority Law, section 4(8), it says, "Any balance of account in favour of the Authority up to the amount of $100,000 may be carried forward to the account of the following year and any balance in excess of that sum shall be paid into the General Revenue of the Islands." So what does the Member mean when he says that their accounts are being pillaged? The truth is that this is the first time that the Authorities were in such a good position that they could contribute to the General Revenue of these Islands. That is what the Law says should be done. In the past they had some funds but they did not contribute. We know what happened to some of the Authorities. Mr. Pierson likes to brag and accuse Government of $700,000 expenditure - he does not even have that right. What they should tell the country about is the mess that the National Team Government had to clean up at the Port Authority warehouse - the sunken property. They talk about buying Cayman Food s. At least that is standing!

Even if we received some funds from the Authorities, we still contributed to the capital development of this country through the earnings of the country. We are in a much better position than the previous Government.

Criticism can be levelled at the Government, which is the job of the Opposition in a democracy. One thing we can say for this Opposition is that they do no work, but they can sure talk. They have big words, even though they get them mixed up sometimes. But talk is cheap. We had to burn the midnight oil to turn this country around.

I am proud of the National Team Members, and I am proud of the civil servants who assisted us and the Official Members. We did it by the sweat of our brow, with hard work, not with cheap talk.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town also tried to show that the last Government's budget was less than ours. We would have been a backward Government, we would have been regressing if we went back to their figures. What nonsense. It only shows that the country is moving forward. We have plenty of projects which came out of the expenditure he mentioned: schools; a new clinic in West Bay; the starting of the Civic Centre in West Bay; the Bodden Town Clinic; the North Side Civic Centre; sports facilities in all districts; a new hospital started and well underway; student loans (the first time our students can get loans, not like before when it was a chosen few). I do not think the Minister and Members of the National Team have anything to hang their heads about.

For them to talk about elections.... The people will choose wisely. They know who is who. They know who has produced and who has not, they know who is inconsistent and who is not, they know who is unstable; they know who is responsible enough to be on Executive Council. We have Members who do not run away from it because of two jobs. We hold our heads high and do our job. I am not worried about the general elections. The people will choose wisely.

This country can only advance with these projects that we are asking for today, such as, schools, post offices, roads and other amenities, such as parks for our families. This is a well-rounded proposition. What we have in our hands now is an opportunity, we ought to grasp it. The Opposition should not expect to criticise Government for borrowing money then run to us and ask us to do pet-projects for them. They should bear that in mind. We are not building these things for the National Team, we are building them for all the people of the Cayman Islands. We will continue as we have because we are doing what we promised the people we would do. We do have a country to develop and we have a future to secure. We are prepared to go forward into the 21st Century with good management to get these things for the families of these islands.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: This Bill for a Law to authorise the borrowing for up to CI$10,685,268 for the financing of specified capital projects and the accompanying Bill which is seeking to allow Government to draw a balance of $2 million which was borrowed, in effect, before and not used up, are two Bills being debated together. The two Bills that we are debating call for additional borrowings of the country in the middle of the year. There are specific areas which the larger of the two Bills has outlined for the total borrowings.

I intend to take the specific amounts as they appear in column one on page 4 of the larger Bill, and go through each item with the view to showing what I consider the merits and demerits of each one. In the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons of the smaller of the two Bills, says "This Bill would amend the capital pro- jects for which authority was provided to the Governor in Council to borrow CI$8,130,171 by the Loan (Capital Projects) Law 1993. The total amount authorised would remain unchanged, but the amount in respect of item 5 in the schedule would be increased by CI$611,260; that in respect of item 6 would be reduced by CI$2,046,566; and a new item 7 would be introduced." Item 7 is school buildings, $1,435,306.

My understanding (I say 'my understanding' because I am not quite sure of this) is that this amount for school buildings refers to some work that has to be done at the George Hicks High School. I understand that this is for the sewerage plant and for some necessary structures. In dealing with that issue, let me quickly take a trip back into the very recent past, going through the 1995 Estimates and the 1996 Estimates, both of which were approved.

In the 1995 Estimates the approved figure for expansion of phase II at the George Hicks High School was $446,600. In the very next column, which is the projected 1996 figure, there is a projected amount of $1 million. That was in the 1995 Estimates. I fail to see a specific figure put in for any work to the George Hicks High School in the 1996 Estimates.

I have heard it said that nothing had been done ... I seem to be being corrected here.... Let me continue with my figures. Speaking generally, regarding estimates for school buildings, which would include George Hicks High School and whatever other schools, I am speaking about the comparison of the 1995 and 1996 Estimates.

In the 1995 Estimates, there are three sections lined up next to each other. The first section says "Revised 1994 Figures." Under subhead 51-122, which is School buildings, the Revised 1994 Figure was $2,596,075. In the column next to that is the 1995 Estimate which was approved. That figure was $2,371,048. In the column next to that (as is the usual case) for the 1995 Estimates is the projected 1996 expenditure for that same subhead (51-122 - School buildings). The projected 1996 figure was $3,313,200. Here we have a revised 1994 figure which means actual money spent of just under $2.6 million; we have the estimated amount to be spent in 1995 which was just under $2.4 million; and we have the amount projected for 1996 which was just over $3.3 million.

When we look in the 1996 Estimates (one year later), which have been approved, we see an actual figure for 1994 of just under $2.6 million (which is what the 1995 Estimate said); we see the amount approved for 1995 which is just under $2.4 million (as the 1995 Estimate said); then there is a revised 1995 figure (which by our 1996 Estimates we would have had the figure of the money that was spent because the 1995 Estimates gave us the figure we thought we would spend, and the 1996 Estimate would say what was spent) of just over $2.5 million which is just about in line with what was estimated.

In the 1996 Estimates where we would expect to see an estimated figure for 1996 there is nothing. Unless I have a different set of Estimates from everybody else, in the column for the 1996 Estimate under School buildings, there is nothing. I am prepared to give way right now if I am wrong and somebody could explain this to me.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION - 4:30 PM

The Speaker: Honourable Members, it is now just after 4.30, I assume it is the wish of all Members to finish what we have today, at least down to the Third Reading of the Bills. I hope that Members would wish to continue to deal with all of the Bills this evening. It would be the debate, the Committee stage, the Report and Third Readings. We could go on a bit longer.

I am in the hands of Members.

The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: How long would the Member have, Madam Speaker?

The Speaker: I need to find that out.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I could be very lengthy. In fact, I will be very lengthy.

The Speaker: When you say 'very lengthy', do you mean beyond 5 o'clock?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, beyond 5 o'clock. With respect, I had no warning of this, and I have two commitments this afternoon - one at 5.30 and one at 6.30.

The Speaker: I am prepared to take a Motion from a Member.

The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Before I move the adjournment, I had written to you about a matter that I wanted to raise at the adjournment.

The Speaker: I am aware of that. Before I deal with that, I need to deal with a point of order that was raised.

I would like to hear from the First Elected Member for Bodden Town who raised the point of order.

RULING BY SPEAKER

(On point of order raised on 20th June, 1996)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Concerning the correspondence, Madam Speaker?

The Speaker: No, it was concerning the statement made by the Third Elected Member for West Bay in his contribution about the purchase of the Cayman Food s building. You raised a point of order there.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, I did not say that the purchase should not have been made because it was being purchased from a Member of Parliament. I said that in other jurisdictions, if the purchase was made from a Member of Parliament, there would certainly be a lot more furore and investigation into the matter.

The Speaker: I have received the transcript which says: "Madam Speaker, can you understand that in the great United States of America, or Britain from whom we take our parliamentary cue, that Government buying property from a sitting Member of Parliament... and it goes just like that!" Those are the transcribed words which have been edited by the Deputy Clerk.

Third Elected Member for West Bay, what did you say in your contribution?

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: That is exactly what I said.

The Speaker: I am afraid that I have not received your transcript. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town raised a point of order when you said.... What was it you said? Let us get that first. I have it right here. You objected to what he said.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, because he implied that I said that the purchase should not go through because of the fact that it was being purchased from a Member of Parliament.

The Speaker: I said then that it was not a point of order. I think that I was wrong when I said that because here it clearly shows that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town said, "...can you understand that in the great United States of America, or Britain from whom we take our parliamentary cue, that Government buying property from a sitting Member of Parliament... and it goes just like that!" The Third Elected Member for West Bay said that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town had objected to the purchase of property from a Member of Parliament. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town did have a valid point of order because that is not what he actually said.

I ruled that there was a point of order to answer for and that can be duly recorded.

The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to speak to a matter which...

The Speaker: Excuse me, you have to move the Motion for the adjournment.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I do move the adjournment of this Honourable House until...

The Speaker: No. You move the adjournment of the House then you speak to a matter of urgency. After that you put the time we should adjourn.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: So I can get this right, Madam Speaker, do you want me to move the adjournment under Standing Order 12?

The Speaker: Yes.

MOTION TO ADJOURN
(STANDING ORDER 12(1))

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: To be able to discuss a matter of urgency, I wish to move the adjournment under Standing Order 12.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn and that there be a debate on an important matter which the Minister has discussed with me. I shall put the motion that the House do adjourn and that there be a debate on an important issue which I am satisfied is important.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Please continue, Honourable Minister.

STATEMENT RE: COW-ITCH INCIDENT AND MR.
LINFORD PIERSON ON NATIONAL TELEVISION

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I wish to draw Members' attention to a matter which I think affects the integrity of Members of the House. Since the incident in the House last week, much has been said. We wish to address the comments of a former Member of the House, Mr. Pierson, on national television.

Mr. Pierson was quick to say that people were saying that it (the cow-itch in Mr. Truman Bodden's coat) was a prank by the National Team Members. He further said that the police should do a thorough investigation before fingers are pointed. For Mr. Pierson to go to such lengths, when he should have been totally neutral, was a deliberate attempt to smear the integrity of the National Team Members in this House. Since Mr. Pierson sought to create doubt in the minds of the public, it is important to clear up any misgivings which may have been created by what he said on national television.

The National Team has never done anything to hurt anyone who opposes us. When you consider the amount of abuse heaped upon us, and the number of lies told about us, it would make many a good man commit himself. But we are different from them in that we do not want power to the extent that we damage someone. We would never do that. If we do not follow in the footsteps of those who are against us, why would we try to hurt someone who is with us, someone who is doing so much to help the country as has Mr. Truman.

I find it deplorable for Mr. Pierson to go on national television and point fingers at the National Team. Why is Mr. Pierson finding so many excuses for these dirty acts? I have found that this is not the first time that this gentleman has found an excuse for such occasions. He did the same thing in the newspaper when the Wights nearly stopped Mr. Truman's meeting some time ago. Why did he go on national television about the cow-itch incident?

It is strange (and rather unusual in this incident) that on Wednesday after the lunch break (before the cow-itch incident on Thursday) when a few of the demonstrators who were outside came in, at least three of them kept asking for Mr. Truman Bodden. I would not come here today if this were not important. We feel that there has been an attempt to smear our integrity.

Three of the demonstrators were asking where Truman Bodden was, Mrs. Ellen Pugerro, Janet (I do not know what her last name is... Tomasky?), the daughter of Mary Lawrence, and one of the Wight twins. They could even say, when they were told that he had left, that his car was still in the car park. One has to wonder why those three were so interested in where Mr. Truman was. It is important to note that some were supporters of Mr. Linford Pierson. No one knows why he had to go on television about the cow-itch, but the old saying holds true: A guilty conscience needs no accusers.

I want to thank you, Madam Speaker, because we felt that we should address and clear up that matter. None of us would want to do anything to people who oppose us, much less someone who supports us.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town

Mr. Roy Bodden: I stand here this afternoon, truly amazed and I wonder where I am. Does the Minister who just sat down not realise what he has done now? The Minister, whom I wrote you the note about expressing my concern, is the same one who said that someone should tar and feather my colleague, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac, and Little Cayman, and I, now gets up saying, 'My, my, my...', and accuses four persons, whom I have to say are innocent.

The National Team Government had better take stock of what they are leading this country to. They talk about not wanting to hold on to power? They better be careful at what cost, Madam Speaker, because I cannot believe my ears. That Minister, who claims he is so responsible, has just incriminated four citizens who have no recourse to defend themselves in this forum to the level that he has. It is downright dangerous. It is insightful, it is inflammatory, and I am crying shame on him! I wish to have no part of it.

Let me tell you something, Madam Speaker. What should be done is that the police investigation should run its full course. There should be no interference, no compromise and no correlation by anyone outside of the legally constituted body who should investigate these things. For that gentleman to come here and go home feeling good this evening when he has just left those four persons in a terrible position, is reprehensible. That is the same Minister who was preaching across the floor at me a while ago talking about Ananias and Sapphira. He is a Barabas, Madam Speaker, an old mother rouser. This is serious, Madam Speaker...

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: On a point of order, Madam Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Who is the Member calling Barabas?

The Speaker: I was just going to ask, because it does not help the situation if names are being called. If there is going to be any further name calling, I am just going to have to put the question that the House be adjourned. We can debate without name calling. I do not want to hear anymore of that, please.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I did not call any names. I just said Barabbas. Is there a Barabbas in here?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: You said, "The Minister."

The Speaker: Please, let us be careful. Have you finished, First Elected Member for Bodden Town?

Mr. Roy Bodden: No. I could be here until midnight on this matter.

What has just happened is a serious matter and I wish, as a representative of the people, to distance myself to the furthest point from any speculation that what happened here Thursday could have been done by any of the four persons so named, and that they would have any part in condoning, or otherwise.... If persons came in here inquiring after Minister Truman Bodden, did anyone seek to ask what the purpose of their inquiry was?

I would like it noted that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, while I consider the act done on Thursday reprehensible, stops short of accusing any citizen, least of all anyone who does not have access to this forum to defend himself. Far be it from my style to besmirch anyone's reputation.

I just end with the warning that we had better be careful what we are doing.

The Speaker: I wish to say that I was aware that the Minister was concerned about this issue, but I was not aware that names were going to be called. I feel that we will have to leave it to the time when the police complete their investigation into the incident. It is wrong for this House to be engaged in accusing people without their knowledge.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Thursday afternoon I rose in this House to state my opinion, as did all Members of this House, following the incident in which the Minister for Education was involved.

I did not say it then, but I will say it now: I thought it most peculiar the way everyone seemed so anxious to use the forum of this Legislative Assembly to impute everything in the world, except some good, to one another - particularly those not involved with the Government of the day. I have been around Government for 17 and a half years. I know normal procedure of Government. The Legislature is a very unique and official part of Government.

As I went home that night I wondered why this matter was not contained, with the person damaged or hurt given all the medical attention necessary, while the police were called in to do what was obviously something for the police to do; with everyone in here keeping their mouths shut until the police had completed their work. That was not the case. Everybody in here was dancing a jig to talk about it. The ludicrous part of it was talking about what the world is going to think.

Well, guess who was informing the world! The House suspended to accuse everyone. I wish to make this point, because the Minister for Community Development talks about Mr. Pierson being on television saying what he said: His handsome self was seen on national television standing in front of the Legislative Assembly with the words, "How do we protect ourselves from ourselves?"

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: We cannot protect ourselves from you.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: What is that suggesting, Madam Speaker?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I did not say anything that I did not say here.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: What is that suggesting?

This evening he comes here under the privilege of this House, again, on a special Motion on the adjournment, to accuse four citizens of the Cayman Islands for something relating to what happened to the Minister for Education.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Oh, sit down.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: He thinks it is privilege. I think it is criminal.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: What is criminal?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I believe...

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

(Imputation of false motive)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The Member is imputing improper motive. I do not think that anyone in here has done anything criminal.

The Speaker: I think he is expressing his opinion.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: He is talking about a Member who was speaking - me!

The Speaker: I do not think it is a point of order.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman would you please come shortly to the end of your debate because I am going to put the question.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I have nothing more to say other than that I think this Legislative Assembly and the purpose for which it exists is being disgustingly perverted.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Having seen the apparent upset and anger by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, I am beginning to wonder who got the cow-itch out of this whole thing.

I did not have the opportunity on Thursday to speak on this matter. What was done to me was a despicable act and I can only hope that the Good Lord sees fit to help the sickness of the person who did it to me. I not only suffered from the itching of it, but I suffered badly from disorientation for several days.

If anybody should be angry in this House, it should be me. Not only have I suffered, but I actually had the First Elected Member for Bodden Town strike me in this House in the presence of the Honourable Third Official Member a few months back. That is the God's truth. So when he is alleging all of these things, hopefully, he will remember that. He did come to me and he apologised, but he walked across the floor of the House and actually struck me. It is nothing for the Honourable Member to get angry about because I have been on the taking end of continuous harassment here.

What has brought this debate about is perhaps two things: 1) I did not have an opportunity then because I was physically unable to debate; and 2) the fact that Mr. Linford Pierson went on television and put forward the ludicrous statement that Members of this House, the National Team Members, would do something like this to me. I do not believe that any Member of this House, Opposition, Government, Official Members, or anyone in this building, would do something like that to me or anyone else in this House. I think that advancing a statement like Mr. Linford Pierson did on television is as sick as the act that was committed on me.

Something needs to be done to ensure protection of rights. Today, in the area of this House I attempted to speak to the television reporter and one of the Wight twins interrupted. I had to take the microphone off me, come back into this building and ask one of the guards to come out. There has been a series of things. At some stage the Immunities and Privileges of this House need to be invoked to see that Members can, in a peaceful way, exercise and express their right to speak, as well as to remain comfortable within the House.

The police have been called on this matter, and I have given a statement to them. Hopefully whoever did this will be found. I do not understand why the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town should be getting so angry and upset - if anyone should be angry and upset it should be me. Perhaps the difference at this stage is the fact that it is all right to be giving this type of punishment, but, obviously, when you are on the taking side it is totally different.

I have been on the taking side of....

Mr. First Elected Member for Bodden Town, please do not interrupt me. I let you off the last time you physically struck me, and I am getting a bit tired of it, I am not going to be...

The Speaker: Kindly direct your remarks to the Chair, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: If I were someone different from who I am.... It was a criminal offence to strike a Member within the precincts of this House. I am saying that the sympathy within my heart, because he apologised...

Mr. Roy Bodden: Why are you talking about it now, then?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I am talking about it because of the allegations that that Honourable Member has made, so that they can see that this is not a one-of incident. A lot has been levelled at me over the past year or so. There seems to be some move, since they cannot destroy me with words, to get on to the physical stage of doing so.

If it reaches a stage where I have to deal with the whole lot of the Team Cayman and the Democratic Alliance within this House or within politics, then I will have to do it.

In closing, I can only pray that the Good Lord will somehow try to reach people who do despicable acts such as this. It is something that no decent person who has a mind that is not sick would even attempt to do - come within the precincts of this House, into the Common Room and plant cow-itch as was done.

I would like to thank the many people and the many Members of this House who expressed sympathy to me. Shame on whoever did this act! I have been told to keep fighting on and not to let this sort of thing get in my way.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Before I put the question on the adjournment, I need to say that over the weekend I prepared Orders under the provisions of the Standing Orders and the Legislative Assembly Immunity Powers which gives me the power to do so. I hope that these will shortly be ready to be circulated to Members. I believe they have already been passed out to the Serjeant-at-Arms and the security officers now on duty. These Orders are very stringent and ask for the strictest supervision of the entire precincts of this House as well as the supervision, protection and care of Members while they are in this House.

Perhaps later on the Attorney General will make an amendment to the Law which will also encompass the car park. That is also an important part of the area which should come under the control of the Speaker to ensure that unauthorised persons do not accost Members and Officers of the House.

Members will shortly receive this, but in the meantime, I have had two complaints about someone who has been accosting Members. If there is a third complaint I will have to declare that person persona non grata in the precincts of this House. It will be done and I will not be afraid to use the powers that I have. The protection and care of Members in the work of Government in these Islands is very important.

Honourable Minister can you give me a date when the House will resume?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I thank you for your indulgence. I do not think that I have anything to ask forgiveness for or to be ashamed of. The National Team and I have not accused anyone. I note that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town who was instantly on his feet, made all sorts of accusations himself.

I wrote to you, as Speaker, and I rose because according to what the former Minister said on national television, we were being accused. We do feel that it affects the integrity of Members. He made no bones about it. He was here this morning saying the same thing.

I just want to say that I do not know who the four persons are who the Member for Bodden Town mentioned. I simply mentioned three names. I do not know how he could say that he knows that they are innocent. I would like to know how he knows that. Hopefully the police will carry out their investigation. But we have to let these people know that they cannot come within the precincts of this House and constantly bamboozle Members as they have been doing.

It is time that the public understands that every time they do it we are going to make noise where people can hear it and bring it to their attention. That is why they are hollering about it - they do not want people to know what is going on. The people shall know about these kinds of acts.

We have not done anything wrong, and I hope that they have learned a lesson from going on national television accusing Members of the National Team. Accordingly, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning the 3rd of July.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until Wednesday morning, the 3rd of July, at 10 o'clock.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned.

AT 5.08 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM, WEDNESDAY, 3RD JULY, 1996.

EDITED
WEDNESDAY
3RD JULY, 1996
10.06 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. Anthony Eden: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth as it is in Heaven; Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever, Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed.

Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. Question No. 63, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 63

No. 63: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development what was the figure for General Reserves as at 30th November, 1992 and what is the projected figure for 31st December, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The General Reserve balance as at 30th November, 1992, was $10.2 million. During 1993, interest and valuation gains on the General Reserve were $0.3 million and the sum of $7 million was transferred out to help finance the 1992 deficit balance of $7.1 million as at the end of 1992.

The balance of the General Reserve remaining at 31st December, 1993, was therefore $3.5 million.

During 1994 a sum of $0.4 million was transferred into the General Reserve out of the 1993 surplus. Interest and valuation gains during the year were $0.1 million, producing a 1994 year end balance of $4 million.

During 1995, interest and revaluation gains were favourable at $0.4 million, producing a 1995 year end balance of $4.4 million.

Based on current interest rates the balance of the General Reserve projected to 31st December, 1996, is $4.6 million.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Member say if during this time any amounts were transferred into the General Reserve, outside of interest earned?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: As I pointed out, there was a transfer during 1993 of $0.4 million from surplus.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: My apologies, my supplementary meant after that transaction took place.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: At any point in time since that, have any funds been taken out of the General Reserves?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: For purposes of clarity, is it fair to say that since the $7 million was transferred out of General Reserves to finance the end of year deficit for 1992, that the account has basically been dormant with the exception of interest earned?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Dormant with the exception of the $0.4 million transferred into the account.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 77, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 77

No. 77: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development to state how much import duty did Caribbean Utilities Company pay on diesel fuel imported during the period 1st January 1993 to May 1996 with a breakdown by years.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Caribbean Utilities Co. Ltd. (CUC) does not import diesel fuel directly, but purchases its fuel locally from the two bulk petroleum companies. As a result, the Customs Department does not maintain a separate record for CUC.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Member say if the figure for the amount of the import duty on diesel used by CUC is available?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The figures could be made available, but it would require an inordinate amount of work in order to extract the figures. We could undertake to do it, but it would mean that the Collector of Customs would have to assign a staff member in order to obtain those figures.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Would the Honourable Member have the figures for the total amount of duty collected for diesel, on an annual basis, since 1st January, 1993?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I do not have those figures available at this time, but they could be obtained.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 78, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 78

No. 78: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to state the total number of applications pending on file for permanent residence (with the right to work) and Caymanian Status as at 31st May, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The total number of applications pending on file for permanent residence with the right to work and Caymanian Status, as at 31st May, 1996, is as follows: Applications for permanent residence with a right to work - 86; Applications for Caymanian Status - 146.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Member say how many such applications are processed for the two categories in the ordinary run of a year?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: I do not have the figures for both categories. I know that for permanent residence in 1995, there were a total of 245. I do not seem to have the figures for status. If the Member wishes, I can provide that in writing.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Member say how far back the applications that are pending for Caymanian status go?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The Immigration Board deals with applications for Caymanian status, that is, in those categories that can be dealt with, on a regular basis. But we do have applications on file for Caymanian status where there is a quota. Some of those could possibly go back quite some time.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I take it that "some time" means a few years. Could the Member say what quotas are in place for any categories for Caymanian status and at the same time, could he say what quotas were in place prior to this that are not in place now?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: There are basically two areas where there have been quotas. There is one on status as a result of becoming a British Dependent Territory Citizen. If memory serves me right, the quota is 12. On the grounds of residency, there used to be a quota on that, but there has been a moratorium for the past few years, at least since 1992, if not before. That moratorium remains in effect.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: This is obviously a Government policy. Could the Member state the reasoning behind that quota being dropped?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: I am not in a position to say this because the last Government had a moratorium on it, and the present Government has a moratorium on it. I am not in a position to answer that.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Member explain if a moratorium is on the submission and receipt of applications, or if it is on the applications being decided upon?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The moratorium is on applications being decided upon.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Could the Member explain the procedure for an application? Is it screened by an individual before going to the Board, or do all applications go to the Board?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: When an application comes in it is examined by a section of the Immigration Department to ensure that all documentation is in place. The Immigration Board will then advise the Department when they are ready to deal with the application. All applications, unless there is a moratorium on a particular application or group of applications, would go to the Board.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: The Member said that they are done on a regular basis. Can the Member say if the applications are put all together, or are they done on a quarterly or monthly basis?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Applications for work permits would take priority because of the urgency of having this type of application dealt with. But applications for permanent residence and status would normally go before the Board on a quarterly basis, or if there is a slack period in applications for work permits. Just for information, a number of the applications which I mentioned in the substantive answer were processed by the Board on the 10th of June this year.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I think the Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs stated in an earlier answer to a supplementary that there is a quota for the grant of Caymanian Status under the category of British Dependent Citizen. Can the Member say what that quota is?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: I did name a figure, but that was subject to memory. I believe the quota is 12. I would have to check that.

The Speaker: This will be the last supplementary. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I thought that I heard that, and I asked the question because my memory tells me that the other quota (for which there is a moratorium) was 12. I was simply wanting to confirm that the magic number was 12 on an annual basis for both quotas. Can the Member confirm that?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: In the case of status on the grounds of residence, the quota would be set by the Government. It may not necessarily be 12, it could be 10 or whatever the Government sets. At one stage it may have been that the magic number was 12.

The Speaker: The next Question is No. 79 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 79

No. 79: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works what royalties have been assessed against the dredging of the turtle grass in South Sound.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: It is with regret that the Ministry finds it utterly impossible to provide an answer for such an open-ended question, as it does not state any particular project.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Can the Honourable Minister state if in the recent dredging of the Turtle Grass in South Sound the applicant was assessed at any time the amount of $30,000?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: The supplementary is not in keeping with the original question. I cannot answer it.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Minister tell the House what amount of dredging was carried out in the South Sound area during the past year to date?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: If the Member wishes to put a substantive question to that effect, I will be happy to answer it. I cannot give the answer at this time.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Minister say if the formula for assessing royalties on dredging of turtle grass is the same as that used for dredging marl?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: With due respect, I cannot see the relevance of the supplementary to the original question.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 80, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 80

No. 80: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development (a) to advise the revised figures of Capital and Recurrent Expenditures for the period 1st January, 1993 - 31st December, 1995; and (b) the total amount of Capital and Recurrent expenditures committed for the period 1st January - 31st December, 1996 (including supplementary).

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: As requested in part (a) of this question, the revised figures for Capital and Recurrent Expenditure for the period 1st January, 1993 to 31st December, 1995, are as follows:

- 1st January, 1993 - 31st December, 1993 - $8.5 million Capital Expenditure and $133.1 million Recurrent Expenditure.
- 1st January, 1994 - 31st December, 1994 - $18.1 million Capital Expenditure and $126.8 million Recurrent Expenditure.
- 1st January, 1995 - 31st December, 1995 - $20.3 million Capital Expenditure and $131.7 million Recurrent Expenditure.

As the actual expenditure figures are now available for these years perhaps the Member will find these more useful. The actual expenditure figures are as follows:

- 1st January, 1993 - 31st December, 1993 - $9.4 million Capital Expenditure and $130.6 million Recurrent Expenditure.
- 1st January, 1994 - 31st December, 1994 - $18.1 million Capital Expenditure and $132.5 million Recurrent Expenditure.
- 1st January, 1995 - 31st December, 1995 - $23.5 million Capital Expenditure and $137.9 million Recurrent Expenditure.

As requested in part (b) of this question, the total amount of Capital and Recurrent Expenditures committed (that is, appropriated) for the period 1st January to 31st December, 1996 (including supplementary), are $40.5 million and $162.4 million respectively.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: From the answer to part (a), as outlined yearly, could the Member say of the capital expenditure indicated on an annual basis what amounts were dealt with by way of loans?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: For the year 1994, of the $18.1 million, warrants against that were in the region of $8.1 million. The only other borrowings that have been entered into are those for 1996 which, as set out in the Budget presented to the House in the later part of last year, is approximately $16.2 million. With the Loan Bills presently before the House, those borrowings amount to $12.3 million.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: For purposes of clarity, is the Member saying in the last part of his answer that the $16.2 million as indicated in the 1996 Estimates, and the new Loan Bill which will total just over $12 million, is a part of the $40.5 million in part (b) of the answer?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 81, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 81

No. 81: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development to provide projected capital expenditure figures for the year ending 31st December, 1996, including new loans, supplementary expenditure, the Harquail bypass road, the restoration project at Pedro St. James Castle, and any other committed capital expenditure for the same period.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Capital Expenditure projections to year-end 1996 indicate likely expenditures of between $35 million to $42 million. Honourable Members should note, however, that these projections are based upon current expectations and are subject to change as the year progresses.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The answer to part (b) of question No. 80, which includes the total amount of capital and recurrent expenditure committed (the figure for capital expenditure is $40.5 million), did not include the projected capital expenditure for those areas mentioned in the question that is now being asked, namely, the Harquail bypass road, the restoration project at Pedro St. James Castle and any other committed capital expenditure.

That answer, without those amounts, was $40.5 million. This answer ranges between $35 million to $42 million. Can the Member say, taking into consideration the Harquail bypass and the Pedro St. James Castle projects, how those figures compare when one actually is a defined $40.5 million, and the other is between $35 million and $42 million including other projected expenditure?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The figures of $35 million to $42 million embrace the two projects the Honourable Member has just mentioned. It is estimated for the Harquail bypass that the range of expenditure during 1996 will be in the region of $1.5 to $1.8 million. This is not taking into account the overall cost of developing the project, this is looking at the expenditure that is likely to be incurred during 1996.

For the Pedro St. James Castle, the amount of expenditure likely to be incurred (disbursements) will be in the region of $1.125 million and $1.35 million.

These figures were arrived at by the Budget Unit, the Deputy Financial Secretary and the Public Works Department looking carefully at the figures and estimating the range of projects through the end of the year, taking into account what is likely to be accomplished despite the financial provisions.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Is the Honourable Member saying that the new method by which the Government borrows money is only on what will be spent on an annual basis?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: This is not what I am saying.

As the Member will recall, we have had many instances where projects have been outlined to this Honourable House both in the Budget Meeting and in Finance Committee Meeting. These have taken into account instances where the overall cost of the project is aligned to the amount of financing that will be required. On other occasions there are cases where the borrowings are aligned with the likely expenditures to be incurred against certain projects.

QUESTION NO. 82

No. 82: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture how the CI$986,000 for a cricket pitch in West Bay will be expended.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: The CI$986,000 was not allocated for a cricket pitch in West Bay, or anywhere else for that matter.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister tell the House what the CI$986,000 in the Budget was for, since it stated that it was to be used for a cricket pitch? What was it there for?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: The Member is not telling the truth. It is public knowledge. If the Member looks at the Minutes of Finance Committee he will see the correct answer given there.

Approval was given for $419,000 to cover the cost of a cricket facility and $567,000 to cover the additional cost of community parks. That is on page 26 of the Finance Committee Minutes of 13th May, 1996.

I have explained this matter over and over to those Members but they still say that $986,000 was voted for a cricket pitch (as they call it) in West Bay. I do not know what else I can say to the Member or to this House.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: The Minister has stated that in this $986,000 there is an amount of $400-odd thousand for a cricket pitch. The question attempts to find out how this will be expended - will it be for asphalt, for paving, for fill and so forth and so on.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: If the Member was honest with the House and with the public the question would have asked what the $419,000 was for. But they have been on a band-wagon throughout this country, putting a question suggesting that the $986,000 is for a cricket pitch in West Bay. That misleads the public.

If he wanted that information, that was given to him before. I ask Members to be honest with themselves and with the House and ask the questions correctly and stop talking foolishness.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 83, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 83

No. 83: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what the total cost of the two new "temporary" buildings constructed for pathology and dialysis on the George Town Hospital site was.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The total cost of the two temporary buildings constructed for Pathology and Dialysis was approximately $210,000. These buildings were needed for Pathology and Dialysis because the old buildings they occupied had to be demolished to make room for construction of the new facility and there was no other spare space in the present hospital facility. This has been provided for since the inception of this project and the cost is included in the cost of the overall project.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Minister say if the two buildings which have been constructed will have any use after their usefulness as temporary buildings is completed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, many people have expressed interest in these buildings and they can be used in the future.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Does this $210,000 just include the buildings themselves, or does it include any equipment?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: It is a combination of both.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Will the equipment that might be included in this cost have any usefulness in the hospital that is supposed to be built?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, most of this will be used, especially the dialysis, etcetera.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

The statement which was to be given by the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce, will be put down for a later Sitting.

Government Business, Bills, Second Readings. Continuation of the debate by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town on the Loan (Capital Projects) Bill, 1996 and the Loan (Capital Projects) 1993, (Amendment) Bill, 1996.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READINGS

LOAN (CAPITAL PROJECTS) BILL, 1996

-together with-

LOAN (CAPITAL PROJECTS) 1993 (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1996

(Continuation of Debate thereon)

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we took the adjournment I had just commenced my contribution to the debate on the two Loans Bills before the House. I had started making some comparisons in the Budget of the Estimates for 1995 and 1996.

First of all, I wish to make a correction. When I said that there were no funds in the 1996 Estimates for school buildings, I was referring to 51-122, Local revenue, School buildings. There actually were funds allocated under 52-122, School buildings, which is local loans. I wish to make that point clear before someone says that I was misleading this Honourable House.

As we go through the two Bills, and before I continue to draw these comparisons, in studying them further I noticed something which I think I need to draw to the attention of this Honourable House. If I am correct in what I am about to say, then I would like for it to be corrected as soon as possible.

First of all, my understanding of the purpose of holding a Finance Committee meeting is for the Committee to give the authority to spend. I question why, now that there are these two Loan Bills here in front of us, exactly how and why the procedure was such. I now have an understanding of it. As I just said, Finance Committee gives the authority to spend and the purpose of the Loan Bills which we are now debating is to give the authority to borrow. There is clearly a difference in the exercise - one gives the authority to spend, the other gives the authority to borrow.

Having said that, going back to the Finance Committee meeting of May 13th, the Honourable Financial Secretary, in a memorandum which he passed out, detailed information with regard to the way the funds were going to be appropriated. In that memorandum he discussed the total amount of $12,456,834 from a listing of several categories.

He further went on to explain that the capital projects were to be funded by local loans totalling $12,456,834, of which $2,046,566 was going to be derived from the Loans (Capital Projects) Law 1993 (because that said amount had not been drawn down), and from a new Loans Bill would be an amount of $10,410,268.

In correcting the agenda afterwards, an amount of $1,145,000 was deducted from the original amount of the new Loans Bill which would have left a total of $9,265,268 - what the new Loans Bill should have been.

My understanding of where that $1.45 million has come from is in the initial agenda for the Finance Committee of May 13. The figure quoted for the new Mail Sorting Building at the Airport was $2,345,000, but it was deemed (and it is my understanding) that only $1.2 million would be expended this year, therefore $1.45 million was to be taken out. That is my understanding of what transpired.

Remember that I said earlier on that my understanding is that Finance Committee is to give the authority to spend and a Loans Bill gives the authority to borrow. Therefore, it stands to reason that if Finance Committee has given the authority to spend a certain amount of money, the Loans Bill would have to correlate to that amount in order for the authority to borrow to coincide with the authority to spend. If there are any variations in the Loans Bill to what Finance Committee agreed on, it means that we will be giving authority to borrow money that we do not have the authority to spend.

I noticed a few speakers before me mentioning that there was money in one of these Loans Bills to do the capital projects at the George Hicks High School. Going through it, I see where there is an amount in the larger of the two Loans Bills under number 6 of the Schedule (52-122, Local Loans) for school buildings, $1.42 million. Nothing was brought forward in Finance Committee about this $1.42 million.

Let me interject here to say that while it is very late in the day, I have no problems with work being done at the George Hicks High School. Let me also quickly say that it is my belief that there is something wrong with the process. Whatever transpires at the end of the day with these Bills, and unless someone is prepared to give a correction (I am never averse to giving way to a better understanding), my understanding is that something has to take place in order for that $1.2 million to be spent.

What really shocks me (I should not say shock, I should say surprise)... what really surprises me is that on May 13th, when we came to Finance Committee there was no discussion about anything to be done at the George Hicks High School. I remember making a note in the original agenda when I saw the two amounts for the George Town Primary School, the $713,000, and by the Red Bay Primary school I put a little note 'What about the George Hicks High School?'. Nothing was said.

Then the PTA wrote a letter in the newspaper and there was a back and forth argument because of their understanding from a couple of years ago of things that were to be done at the George Hicks High School and nothing was done. I believe that it is fair comment at this point in time to say that when a little hell is raised someone starts to pay attention. So coming now in the Loans Bill is $1.42 million for the George Hicks High School.

It is a pity that the process has to be like that in order for certain things to get done. But having said all of that, I wish to reiterate that I am happy to know that there is some intention to do certain very necessary things at the George Hicks High School. I have no idea on the details of how the $1.42 million is going to be spent, but, again, that is not strange, we hear of these things. I guess some people figure that those who need to know will know, and those who do not need to know will not know.

Before I leave the subject of the George Hicks High School, there is also a point that I wish to make. I remember on more than one occasion when certain things were supposed to happen at the George Hicks High School and nothing was being done, it was said that the reason why certain capital works were not done at the George Hicks High School was because the Planning Department had made it quite clear that there would be no further construction allowed at their institutions until a central sewerage plant had been erected and installed to accommodate the various Government schools in that area, including the Community College.

For ease of reference, I will use the Estimates. In the 1995 Estimates, under 51-119, Public Buildings, there is a section which says, "Waste Water Treatment Plant for the John Gray High School, the George Hicks High School, the Community College and the centralised facilities of the George Town Sports Complex." This is in the 1995 Estimates which was prepared and delivered here in November 1994.

In that section regarding the Waste Water Treatment Plant there are no funds in the 1995 Estimates, but in the projected sections, there was projected for 1996 $300,000 and for 1997 $400,000. That means that by November 1994 somebody was thinking about the Waste Water Treatment Plant. The fact of the matter is that the Water Authority first advised about this. If I am not being very bad about the time, I suspect that it was sometime in 1993 that the Government was advised about the Waste Water Treatment Plant.

Even so, the document for the 1995 Estimates proves that in November 1994 there was knowledge of the necessity to construct this Water Treatment Plant. Then, we look into the 1996 Estimates, nothing is there for the Waste Water Treatment Plant, yet we hear that the capital works cannot be done because Planning has stymied the efforts by stating that no approval would be given until such time as a Waste Water Treatment Plant is constructed. It is a paradox. Planning is blamed...

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, may I take a point of order?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Point of Order

(Misleading)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The point of order is in relation to misleading. The Central Planning Authority has now approved the George Hicks High School buildings. I would just like to make that clear to the Honourable Member.

The Speaker: The point has been made, and I think it is a valid point of order.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: With the greatest of respect, I was going back into time to prove a point. I am not questioning that the approval has now been granted. My point has nothing to do with a very recent approval, I have gone back to November 1994. I will prove my point before I am through.

The Speaker: If you are making an analogy, please continue.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I appreciate the fact that at this point in time Planning Approval has been granted. The point that I was making was that the excuse that was given prior to the sudden hurry to get things done in the schools, including the George Hicks High School - and specifically the George Hicks High School - was the alleged fact that Planning had stopped the effort because a Waste Water Treatment Plant had to be constructed.

I have proven that in these 1995 Estimates, in November 1994 there was knowledge that this had to be done. After saying 'no' to it now, I am assuming that in the big scheme of things this includes a Waste Water Treatment Plant... and this is now July 1996 - suddenly, it is to be done. In all the points that I prove, regardless of the fire and brimstone to come afterwards, I wish to make it very clear that the things which are being done now are things that I am very happy about. I just wish that priorities were laid in better order so that it would not happen in the fashion in which it is happening now. That is the point I wish to make.

When the Honourable Minister attempted to make a point of order, I was about to say that it is almost comical to know that Planning was supposedly the cause for things not happening, when in actual fact it was the lack of planning that was causing it.

Going on to other areas of the Loan Bills, I wish to once again directly request the Honourable Financial Secretary to do what is necessary in regard to the amount for the George Hicks High School so that people like myself are not blamed for trying to hold up the works. I have made that point in good faith.

It took me a little while to clarify the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons on the smaller of the two Bills, but I understand what is happening. The initial amount in the Loans (Capital Projects) Law, 1993, for the Community College buildings was $2,634,000, of which $2,046,566 had not been drawn down and used. So that figure was divided and the school buildings for the four classrooms for the George Town Primary and the Savannah Primary schools (a total of $1,435,306) and the $611,260 which was added to the sports centres and parks is what has made up that amount.

After lots of hollering, begging and pleading, I am very happy to see that the classrooms are being constructed at the George Town Primary School and the Savannah Primary School. I do not know if they will be completed by September, but the consolation is that they will be built.

In a little while I am going to compare the 1995 and 1996 Estimates and try to prove my line of argument to show that it is my belief that many priorities have been misplaced.

Going on to the larger of the two Loan Bills, as we go down the list, number 2, section 3 (which is the Schedule) we find 52-106 (these are all local loans), Construction of roads - $4,050,000. I think I can safely say that on more than one occasion in this Honourable House I have put forward the idea of long-term planning in all areas. I do not claim to be the expert, but when I examine certain areas it is obvious to me that some type of planning is vitally necessary for this country.

I do not think I can count the number of times since November 1992, when this Government was elected, that I have stated that we need to talk about some kind of national plan for roads. The old situation always creeps up, and there are lots of arguments thrown about regarding the Master Ground Transportation Plan. I do not want to get into that because what happened, happened. I am not going to debate the rights and wrongs of that plan. I was not here at the time.

It is obvious to me today that we need some type of long-term planning if we are ever going to find ourselves anywhere near what the infrastructure should be with regard to roads. For all of the money spent in the past four years on roads, there are hardly any new roads, if any, and we still have the majority of the roads in this country at death's door. I am not just saying that to say it; the professionals who know have said it - the majority of the roads in this country have almost lived out their entire life.

If a vehicle is regularly and properly maintained it will last much longer and cost much less. The same with our roads. If there were a plan in place to enable us to deal with our situation on a regular basis, we would get more value for our money and we would not end up (as it is going to if nothing is done about it) where we have to completely re-do huge sections of roads in this country.

Let me make it clear. My understanding of my responsibility here is to point out to whoever the Government is (whether it be elected, official or altogether) things which are necessary for this country. Fortunately, or unfortunately (depending upon who is looking at it), I am not a part of the process of policy-making, therefore, I have to place the onus on the policy makers when it comes to my interpretation of the lack of planning in whatever area it may be. At this point in time I am discussing roads.

As money has been spent in the various districts, and I have made the point more than once (and I have to quite rightly say that the lady Member sitting next to me has also made the point on more than one occasion), the district of George Town, the hub, where everyone commutes on an almost daily basis, has to have the most used roads. It is also fairly obvious, given the comparative area with other districts, that there are more roads in the area of George Town than anywhere else. But we are left behind. We go on road visits, we sit with Public Works, we get a long list of priorities; but we never have the money to deal with it.

We keep getting small amounts, for which we never get value for money. Those small amounts are what I call penny-ante amounts. There is always a rush to get things done, and at the end of the day we never see anything of any real magnitude where we can say we have accomplished this in the district for roads.

I know, from the parochial side of politics, that each district fights for its own. I, too, have tried to wage battle for my district. Unfortunately, I do not have the access, as others have, so I can only fight on the front afforded me. All of these years we have been dealing with various roads that really need to be dealt with.

Before I go on to talk about this specific amount, let me say that when I talk about long-term planning (and it is not the first time this is being heard), I believe that this country would be a lot better off if there was some type of national plan put in place. Even if we do not think that we are in a position at this time to address new arterial roads and connecting roads, the fact is that it is vitally necessary for us to deal with our existing roads to get them up to par. Otherwise, it is going to cost us several times over down the line.

I firmly believe that if we added up what we spent on roads every year, and if we were to engage in reasonable, prudent borrowing over a period of time, even if it were five years, and Public Works had a national plan to deal with going from point 'A' to point 'Z'; if the people of the country knew that their turn would come and the areas that they live in would be done, then, while they might get anxious at times, they will not go overboard to the tune that they are today. The way they figure it today, it is what connections they have, and how loud they can holler that will ensure their getting something done for them. My opinion is that the thought process engendered is 'What has my representative done for 'ME' lately?' Lost in all of that is 'Where is my country going?'

If we were to deal with something at a national level, we would know which roads would be done, we would have our projected cost and it could be done in a uniform fashion. I can just about guarantee that the amount which has been spent on roads annually for the past few years would more than service a loan to do what we have to do. By the time we would have completed what we need to do to bring the existing roads up to par, we will just about have paid for that loan. We could continue with a revolving facility and properly plan as we go along.

I am not an expert, but I know that what I am saying makes a lot more sense than the way it is being dealt with.

It is really unfortunate that the politics of today dictate that there are no acceptable levels where we can talk about our national good while not dealing with personalities or taking sides. It just keeps eroding more and more. There was a time when there was an unwritten rule that one could deal with certain things, then, after that, get into the politics, the who looks better than who, and the upstaging. It is fast waning and doing this country no good.

With regard to the construction of roads, I will quickly say (again, to make a point) that if we examine the Public Works Department and the deployment of its manpower and equipment, if they were given a chance to really speak their minds and say what they know to be the correct way, the amount of man-hours and equipment time that is wasted would amaze us. That is real money. Those people are being paid to operate the equipment.

This is no problem to them. Even if it were being done right, they would still be there working and getting their daily pay. The question is not that they have to do it that way in order to have work. If we had a plan they would pass through four generations before asking if there was anything else left to do. The amount of work is not the problem.

Using hypothetical names, say that I represent one end of the island and the lady Member next to me represents the other end of the island. We want to be seen as doing our jobs in our respective constituencies. The way it now operates (and I have seen it happen more than once - and these people have no reason to make up stories)... the Public Works Department is located in the district of George Town. There is a little plan for them to go up to the east end of the island out from my district, and they have agreed to do certain works. All of a sudden there is a call from the lady Member from West stating that she wants something done now, that she has promised this, that and the other thing. Remember, Madam Speaker, I am speaking hypothetically, so the names are fictitious.

The Public Works Department then has to redeploy the equipment and the manpower all the way down to the other side of the island to get something done, then go back a week later to finish what was started. That is because there is no plan.

It may seem that my intentions are negative towards this Loans Bill. Let me tell you what I really think. I believe that my country is a good country. I believe that the people of my country are good people. I believe that the people who have been extended a welcome here, who are not indigenous, are also good people. I believe that we all want what is good for this country, including the Government that I might find myself at variance with this morning. This country has as much potential as any other fast-growing little nation that I can think of. In fact, it has more potential than some of the larger ones because even with our mounting problems we are still not at the stage some of them are today.

In saying all of that, we need to change the way we have been operating. From the little bit of experience I have been able to acquire in dealing with this process, I firmly believe that. It is no longer good enough to say that we will deal with certain things when we get to them. I contend that somewhere along the line the Good Lord has looked out for us more than anybody else. With all of the things we have done in the past and all of the achievements we talk about, we have never, ever seen any kind of plan that is all-encompassing. It is always a plan about the right hand, about the left hand, about the right foot, the left foot; but we never talk about the whole body. The day that it catches up with us, the professionals who work in Government (who get the blame for everything) are not even going to be afforded the comfort of saying 'I told you so', because they are going to be scrambling like all of us to try to find the solutions we should be looking for now.

I have finished up with roads. I believe that I am not being unfair to say that as one of the representatives of the district of George Town, regardless of where I find myself voting on any procedure in this Honourable House, I have been the best representative I know how to be. I have cooperated, by and large, with the other representatives of the district.

I am constantly reminded when the meeting for Finance Committee comes, and the $4,050,000 for roads is being voted on - of which my district ends up with $2,650,000 - that I represent the district of George Town. So it is certainly in my interest to support the amount of money for the roads. I say to myself that I wish it were being dealt with differently, but I do not know what is going to happen between now and November. It is at least possible to get something done. Hopefully, whether the Government changes, or does not change, somebody will start to plan. I agree to the amount of money for roads, recognising that I am only one of 15, and that at the end of the day it probably will not matter, but wanting the knowledge that I have done what I believe is right.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Member take a suspension at this time?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.34 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12 NOON

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town, continuing.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In discussing the $4,050,000 for the construction of roads in the Loans Bill, I was specifically targeting the $2.65 million approved in Finance Committee for the District of George Town. Although I recognise that I am but 1/15 of the authority in Finance Committee, I voted in good conscience for these funds because I firmly believe (as I said earlier) that the district of George Town has been especially suffering from a lack of attention to road works.

The Speaker: May I ask the Honourable Member not to repeat what he has already said?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Going on, I was under the impression that, as has usually been the case, the Elected Members for the district would have got together (knowing that there would be $2.6 million available to do road works) to sit down and arrange the necessary road visits to prioritise this spending. I asked several people when this would take place and I kept hearing "very soon", only to discover during this sitting that the road visits were done, and that a meeting with the Public Works Department and the Ministry of Communications and Works had taken place. Then the Third Elected Member for George Town actually called out a list of roads which should begin in the month of July.

Let me make the reason why I am stating what I am this morning clear. I fully understand the game by now. I cannot truthfully say that if the roles had been reversed I would have handled that in the same way. I do not really think that I would have. I think I can safely say that I am not like that.

Even if that is the way the Government decided to put me, the Fourth Elected Representative of George Town, on ice - because it is pretty close to election and they do not want me to be part and parcel of a situation that I might be given some credit for - I can understand that. But what I wish to make clear to the people of my district with regard to this section of the Loans Bill is that come November, what has been done out of this will have been done, and what will not be done will not be done. I wish to make it clear that I was not allowed to participate in the process. So what is good will be good, and what is not good will be bad. But my point is that, unfortunately, the way the system works it does not seem to be mandatory for all representatives to participate in the decision-making process with regard to how money is spent in the districts.

I heard that this has happened in the past and this is how it is when situations are reversed. Frankly speaking, I could care less. I feel that even though I am only the Fourth Elected Member for the district, and I did not get in on a ticket with the National Team, that as a representative my rights should be preserved. In previous years the situation was such that all of the Members for the district got together with whatever small amounts were available to be spent, and a consensus was taken and decisions were made. That has not been the case this time. If it is the Government's wish that this be the case, then so be it. I just wish to be absolved of anything which is not done correctly in the minds of the people of the district.

Before moving off of roads, and just to cap it off, I again say that even with this approved amount the rush is going to be on. It is known and accepted that whenever things are done in a hurry they are more liable to not be done properly. If there were any thoughts given to these roads works and money was put in place gradually, or if wisdom prevailed where some type of long-term planning were put in place, then I am safe in saying that the country would have its money better spent.

Moving on to Harbours and Docks. Thirty-seven thousand dollars were approved in Finance Committee and will be coming under a local loan for some type of rectification of the channel on the south side of Cayman Brac. Unless memory fails me, there have been several attempts to rectify certain dangers with the south side channel in Cayman Brac over the past few years. I trust that this money which has been approved will achieve what is hoped for.

I did not get a chance to search the records to determine the amount that has been spent on this channel, but the point that I am making is that it seems like this effort is a vicious cycle, because every time funds are allocated we think it is over, and funds are asked to be voted again. I do not know what exactly the problem is, I just hope that somebody can get it right.

A thought just occurred to me. I think the analogy here is very similar to the line of argument I have been trying to put forward this morning. If there is something wrong with that channel, if it were done correctly and taken care of, then we would not have to be dealing with it on several occasions. I only wish that I was more informed. Unfortunately, I am not. I think it is obvious from the end results that whatever has been done in the past has not worked. I trust that we will not see a need for this again. I understand the value of safe passage through that channel, and I have no qualms about seeking for it to be fixed in the proper manner. I keep wondering, when it comes to these types of approvals, why we have to go back and forth. It seems like it is far enough away from us that we cannot grab hold of it.

The next item in the Loans Bill is 52-119, Public Buildings. If I am not mistaken, the amount of $709,774 is comprised of $650,000 for the new building for the Department of the Environment, and $59,774 makes up the balance. The approved amount of $650,000 in Finance Committee was being sought to cover the cost of completion of the department's new building and improvements to the MRCU airport facility. In the 1995 Estimates there was nothing under the 52-119 section (meaning local loans, and 51-119 means local revenue for public buildings) for this specific project, the estimate for 1995 was $640,000. The projected figure for 1996 in the same Estimates was $250,000 and there was a projected figure for 1997 of $150,000. In the 1995 Estimates we have three different projected figures under local revenue - $640,000 (for 1995); $250,000 (for 1996); $150,000 (for 1997).

When we compare the 1996 Estimates under 51-119 (local revenue) there was nothing. There was a change of thought in the 1996 Estimates with the completion of this structure, and it is obvious that there will not be enough money from local revenue to complete the project. We see in the local loan section (under 52-119) an estimate for 1996 of $1,200,000. To be fair, and not to twist the picture, the estimate for 1995 was $640,000 (under local revenue); in 1996 there is a revised figure (which according to my interpretation is what was spent in 1995) of $300,000 in the local revenue section. But there is nothing in the local revenue for what is to be spent in 1996. That comes under local loans - $1,200,000.

In 1995 it was estimated that if it worked the way the projections said, for 1995/1996, with completion in 1997, there would be $1,040,000 spent to complete the project. What I do not know is if the building that we had the big fight about (which has suddenly disappeared!) was included in that projection. Let us assume that it was not. Here we have in the 1995 Estimates $1,040,000 estimated to be spent over three years. By 1996 $300,000 has been spent and then the Estimates for 1996 has $1,200,000.

If that is correct and it is working as it should, that tells me that when we got the 1996 Estimates in November of 1995 it was projected that instead of costing $1,040,000 in 1995, it will cost $1,500,000 at the end of the day, which is $460,000 beyond what was projected. That is bad enough. Then, on May 13th in the Finance Committee agenda under 52-119, there is a request for another supplementary appropriation of $650,000 to complete it. I understand that there were some over-runs, and I understand that these things are possible. The picture painted here this year is that instead of $1,040,000 to be spent on a specific project, we are looking at $2,150,000. That is more than 100% above the projection.

Another thing that I am not sure about is whether the initial projections involved any land. I doubt it because that is another section. So we are not addressing land cost. The point that I am making is that in one year we are talking of an increase of almost 110%. It is not who to point a finger at for the problem, because when all of that is over and the finger-pointing is done, this country still has to pay. If there is any type of proliferation... That explains all of the jumbling, and the bobbing and the weaving to get the figures presentable.

As to where the responsibility lies for the over-runs, I know all the possibilities, but I do not think I need to go through them. I am just saying that if we have a capital project and the figures for the estimates are presented as a certain amount, and at the end of the day it ends up being twice that amount... how, in God's name, can we deal with everything, or do any type of sensible projection as to what our income is going to be, or what we will be able to spend and how we will spend it?

If this is an isolated incident (which I hope it is), then let us hope that somebody learns from this experience. If it is not, then I feel truly sorry for the Financial Secretary and his Department. I wish for him not to feel sorry for himself, but I meant what I said. The point is how can all of these things occur, considering the way I believe the country should be planning for its future, if this is the way we end up - with funds being allocated and twice that amount being spent to complete the project?

Moving on to number 5 of the schedule, which is the purchase of lands, there are several items under 52-120. The amount approved in Finance Committee (the same amount coming forth in this Loans Bill) is $220,518. This comprised 13 items. The narrative regarding these items was basically a one-liner for each one, with the exception of number 13. Let me say how I feel about an item such as this coming to Finance Committee.

Everyone is busy trying to keep up. I do not think anyone is excluded from that. Responsibilities are relative, but everything that each one of us has to do still takes time. My feeling on this section of the agenda is that when I am asked to play my part for voting for funds of this nature, the least that should be given to me is some type of explanatory note, if nothing more, for each individual item. Because the figures are not huge amounts does not mean that we should fall into the trap of it being no big thing, but when we get to the big amounts we jump back and say, "What is this?". All of those figures add up and are reflected in the total amount.

As far as I am concerned, when it comes to purchase of lands, regardless of the amounts, whether controversial amounts or small amounts, I believe that there should be some type of clear policy developed whereby when Finance Committee is being asked to vote for the purchase of lands, each portion of land is clearly understood - the reason it is being purchased and the purpose it will serve. As tenuous as it seems, there should be valuations accompanying the individual items so that the normal political animal is not allowed to rant and rave and question because information has not been immediately forthcoming. That is my first general observation.

I was told awhile ago from across the floor that all of the explanations were made during the Meeting of Finance Committee. I have the Minutes here. Let me tell you without going into detail that when it came to sub-head 52-120, Local Loans/Purchase of lands $2,221,518, they were all one liners. It was read out exactly the way it appeared in the agenda, nothing more. The first thing that was discussed was the last item on the agenda. All 13 items were read out and the first thing that was discussed was the controversial one - the Cayman Food s Building. I am going to deal with that.

The point that I wish to make, and in retrospect there are those here who will say that I am wasting time, and those who I have heard speak about the "Swan Song" that I may be singing... I want everyone to know that no one knows who may be singing a "Swan Song" today, or who may be singing one tomorrow.

As small a point as this may seem to be, the point I make is that when we come to Finance Committee Meetings, if the people who are presenting this to the other Members do what they should have done and provided the relevant information, a lot of headaches, heartaches and other aches, could be avoided. What I am saying now about the purchase of lands may fall by the wayside. I may have another opportunity to make this point again in a forum such as this. I do not know. The people will decide.

I firmly believe, after listening to all kinds of things and thinking about it, that when people are informed they are less likely to be distrustful. Those of us who are married know that. I have made the point.

I will quickly go over a section concerning this amount of $2,221,518. We have gone to Hell and back about the Cayman Food s building. There have been arguments for the purchase and arguments against it. The first point I wish to make, having been a part of the 13th May Finance Committee Meeting, is that in all of the statements that have been made the message that seems to be coming from the Government is that no one said that the building was being purchased, or that there were any intentions to purchase it. The latest argument is that if the Money Bill is approved Government will negotiate with the owners of that building and will pay the best price they can, if it is bought at all.

The very first thing said in the narrative is "Cayman Food s Building, block 23C parcel 5 - $350,000." In brackets it says, "This site will be paid for in four annual payments of CI$350,000 and includes five acres of land. The building, which is 13,000 square feet, will be used for a school assembly hall.... On the property there is enough land for a new Lighthouse School to be built. This purchase represents good value for money as compared to the estimated cost of $1.7 million to provide only a school assembly hall, canteen facilities and library for the Red Bay Primary School ." I want to know what that narrative was telling me on May 13th.

The very next statement, which was made by the Chairman, reads, "I should mention that the cost of the Cayman Food s building property is $1.4 million, but the Government is purchasing this on terms which require payment of $350,000 per annum, interest free." I have just read verbatim from the Minutes. The narrative says the land is being purchased, the first statement made says the Government is purchasing the land. All of the upset which led the public of this country to take sides on this issue happened because all of the ducks were not lined up. I daresay that if there had been any thought or planning for this particular school, and not something that had to be rushed and dealt with immediately, the ducks could have been lined up. But it is expected of me to prove how bad the building is and why we should not be purchasing it, when the truth of the matter is that it all stems from how it was done and how the situation was handled.

I felt that I was being asked to vote these funds... and bear in mind that out of this total amount, only $350,000 was being sought. Once that purchase is negotiated and the first instalment is paid, then the balance of that $1.4 million will be spaced out into recurrent expenditure. In all of this money that we were talking about, we were not talking about $1.4 million; we were only considering the $350,000. The commitment being asked in Finance Committee was a long-term commitment over four years. Is it not fair, if you are being asked to vote on these issues, that you have sufficient information to make a decision from an informed position?

I may seem to be battering this home, but one of these days somebody just might listen.

Here is how the line came across, and here is where I take a different position from the Government and the Minister. The Minister's line of argument with regard to this purchase goes on to say, "Secondly, for the intake of children coming in this September, whatever has to be done, has to be done in this Finance Committee [13th May], otherwise there will be children who cannot get into school. I just need you to bear that in mind." What that says to me is that they have me cornered, and it does not make sense for me to consider if it is right or wrong; that I am in an untenable situation, and if I do not vote for it the children will have no place to go to school come September.

I do not need to remind anyone that the children coming in this September are five years old. They are not going to be born in September and come to school. Are we saying that we had no projection for the number of children coming into the various schools this September? Even with no access to the information that I would like to have access to, I know that there are figures and projections based on varying circumstances available. It is nothing new. My point with this specific instance is that had there been any forward planning whatsoever, we would not be fighting over Cayman Food s in a matter of a day and tearing up the whole place because there is no place for children this September.

I do not mind the Government calling me the third Opposition Member, and lifting my 290 pounds and putting it wherever they please on a daily basis. What I do mind is being told, and I quote, "This is very typical of the Opposition. They come in here and they oppose, but what is the answer? If they believe that giving me $2.4 million to build the Lighthouse School and look for some land, together with $1.7 million, which is $4.1 million to do the same thing, is good economic sense, then I would say that there is a considerable amount of financial confusion, perhaps financial madness, among them."

Even if there is financial madness about me, I am not a financial terrorist!

The Minutes go on to read (the Minister for Education speaking), "It suits the Opposition Members to make statements against it and walk out and leave me with the problems, but as Minister for Education I have to educate the children of this country. To do so I have to have schools in which to do it. While it might not affect the Red Bay School or the two Opposition Members, it surely affects the Fourth Elected Member for George Town. When the crunch comes and there is no place for these children to go, he is going to have the same pressure as I will as to why the facility is not there. I believe that he will support me on that one."

That is from the Minutes of 13th May, 1996, and I can stand here today and guarantee this country that that building, by the time everything is completed in there, will not be useable by September of 1996. We are now into July. With all the pressure being put to deal with it now, now, now... what happened to all the time before?

I do not pretend to be something I am not, but I can understand it is typical to hear the ploy trying to change the point at hand. As long as I have the opportunity to do so, I will continue to preach what I believe; and one of these days, someone will believe. It has to happen. But the moment I say something that does not go along with what some people say, it makes me public enemy number one. My point is simply saying what I believe should have been happening long before now. I have no reason to change what I believe.

Let me tell you what I can accept. If somebody comes to me and says, "Kurt, I understand what you are saying, and I think that it is exactly right, but hear this: I have had so much levelled on my shoulders, I have tried to do everything physically possible, but some things just did not get done....," I can understand that. But do not throw things at me and expect me to be a fool and believe that that is not the way it should have been. Do not come with that - that is not acceptable to me.

In all of this situation I am speaking about, there is an equation for the larger picture. In dealing with it in the fashion that it has been (and I can only speak from the few years of experience that I have had in this Honourable House), and continuing to deal with it in this fashion, every time there is a crisis, this is how it is going to have to be dealt with.

In my mind, what that does to my country is help to expand the divisions. Personalities come into play. If somebody thinks that that is not important in this country today, they are sadly mistaken. A divided nation will never succeed. We are too good for that. We have come too far to prevent the winds of change from taking place when they come with good for the people of this country, specifically the children.

I have no doubt that the Minister for Education wishes what is best for the children. I do not say that to sound apologetic to him. I believe that. But I cannot believe that the prevailing method is one which should continue. I do not speak with a whole tongue-load of wisdom, I speak from things which are obvious when I look around. It is obvious that there are numbers coming into the schools which are known before hand; it is obvious that the country has to have priorities, even when politics must play its part; it is obvious that the policymakers need to look at the big picture and do what has to be done. They can play politics with what is left over. That is the way that I see it.

Are we dealing with the Red Bay Primary School, the Savannah Primary School, the George Town Primary School, in the month of May for school in September? Is somebody going to tell me that while preparing the Budget in November in 1995 that was unknown? Humph! I will not even begin to believe who might. So, you balance a Budget in the month of November and you have all of your little dribbling as part of your Estimates to make sure that individuals look good. Way down on the list of priorities are the same children you are talking about. What happens then?

I will take a suspension, Madam Speaker, if that is what you are hinting at.

The Speaker: I do not think I started to, but I will suspend proceedings until 2.30 PM.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.58 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.37 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town, continuing.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: When we took the luncheon suspension I was discussing the timing of some of the capital projects proposed in the larger of the two Loans Bills. My contention is based on some arguments which I have already brought forth - that we look towards developing specific plans of action in order to fill the gaps which we know exist.

I was speaking about the various schools and the physical deficiencies which are presently being addressed: the George Hicks High School, the Red Bay Primary School, the Savannah Primary School and the George Town Primary School. I think it is important to note that the longer we take to plan for the future, the quicker the future catches up with us. It is like waking up one morning and suddenly realising that you have grown old. You say to yourself, 'had I realised that this was going to happen so quickly I would have done the many things I would have liked to have done when it was physically possible for me to have done them. Alas, it is now too late.'

I wish to draw a quick reference to the proposed Education Development Plan for 1995 to 1999 which came about as a result of the Strategic Planning Exercise in Education. If memory serves me right, this was an exercise which comprised some 353 local individuals. In Strategy IX, which is the very last strategy, the initial statement simply says, "We will provide and maintain all necessary facilities required to achieve and support our stated mission and objectives." We have the objectives and we have the mission. That makes all the sense in the world. We have created the objectives, we know what our mission is, we have stated that we will provide and maintain all necessary facilities required to achieve these objectives.

In the specific objectives of Strategy IX, number 3 states, "To determine future building needs and develop a building Time-Line." The importance here is determining the future needs of the structures in the public school system and building a time-line: simply meaning a plan of action for what is realistic so that construction can take place as regards the priorities that have been put in order.

This document was produced in November 1994. November of 1996 is just around the corner. I draw this to the attention of the House to strengthen my line of argument with regard to planning.

I like the terminology 'building time-line.' What has happened since then? It is my understanding that the process of determining these building needs and developing a building time-line was a process that was supposed to start, if not immediately, very soon after the completion of the document. I really do not know what has happened since then, but I think it is fair comment to say that a time-line has not been developed for the provision of the necessary facilities. If that were done we would not be in the quandary we are in today, trying to rush to fill the gaps that we have talked about on so many occasions.

It has to be right to say that somewhere along the line we, as a country, are doing business the wrong way. Allow me to draw a few more comparisons from the Estimates.

While I am getting these documents together, I think a further statement which warrants airing is that in this picture being painted, I, as a representative, fully understand how other representatives feel when it comes to making their wishes and demands known concerning the districts they represent. I do the same. The way our system is set up ensures that the representation is not only at a national level but at a district level. Let it not be misconstrued in any of my statements that I am suggesting that district representatives should not be thinking about the specific and peculiar needs of their districts. That is why we have the Executive arm of Government as the policy makers who have to determine by order of priority how far the district wishes can be satisfied without risking the national good. I think that is a very important point.

In the 1995 Estimates, under 51-122, Local Revenue, School Buildings, just to draw a few references: 35-2841 - Expansion of Phase I, Technical Study Block at George Hicks High School. These are the 1995 Estimates which were prepared and delivered to this Honourable House in November 1994. For the expansion of Phase I of the George Hicks High School there is a revised figure for 1994 of (and I will try to expedite the matter by rounding the numbers off) $1.65 million. There is an Estimate in 1995 of $68,000.

mate for 1995 is $8,000 and the projected amount to be spent in 1996 is $573,200.

In this same section (51-122), we read under the project narrative, "The construction of the remaining four classrooms to the Primary School at Red Bay." The 1994 revised figure was $100,000, the 1995 Estimate was $320,000. There was no figure projected for 1996.

Based on what the figures show me here, it seems to me that at that time the cost of the remaining four classrooms to be constructed at the Red Bay Primary School at its maximum was $420,000. Going on a bit further in the same Estimates, for the expansion of Phase II of George Hicks High School, the figure to be spent in 1995 was $446,000. The figure projected to be spent in 1996 was $1 million, the projected figure for 1997 was zero. My assumption, from looking at these estimates, is that it was expected, when we spent $446,000 in 1995 and another million in 1996, that the Phase II expansion would have been completed.

There was also a figure in these Estimates for the expansion of the existing facility at the Lighthouse School. The estimate for 1995 was $240,000. The projected figure to be spent in 1996 was $300,000. Those are various components of 51-122, which is School Buildings, Local Revenue, in the 1995 Estimates.

We look in the 1996 Estimates under the same heading and we see expansion of Phase II, comprising the Art Block, Changing Rooms, Extension to Administration Block George Hicks High School. The revised figure for 1995 is $10,000 which I suspect would have taken care of the planning process, bills of quantities and things of that nature. In the 1996 Estimates there is nothing. Under the expansion of Phase I of the George Hicks High School there is a revised figure of $50,000 for 1995 and for 1996 there is nothing. Both of these projects had specific amounts designated to be spent in 1996.

We go on to the 1996 Estimates and there is another section under 51-102, which are the same school buildings, but the difference is that this is where local loans are, instead of local revenue.

For the same expansion of the Phase 1 Technical Studies block of the George Hicks High School, we see a figure of just under $50,000. Then we come up with these little magical $25,000 figures: Construction of the Administration Block at the Red Bay, estimate for 1996 - $25,000; Construction of the multipurpose hall and the hard court at the Red Bay Primary School - $25,000. Expansion of Phase II, comprising Library block and canteen building at George Hicks High School - $25,000.

Construction of four classrooms at Savannah Primary School $150,000. Construction of a new facility for the Light House School on a new site in George Town, the estimate for 1996 was $25,000. I must admit that there is a projected figure for 1997 of $490,000 and a projected figure for 1998 of $450,000.

The picture to be painted here is that in our 1995 Estimates we have recognised several important projects to do with school buildings. We understand that fiscal restraint did not allow for much of it to be done in 1995, but because of wanting to do a little bit of planning we have specific figures projected in those 1995 Estimates to be expended in 1996 to complete these projects. By the time we get to the estimates of 1996, which were brought to us in November 1995, figures that should show a million dollars show $25,000, and figures that should be other hundreds of thousands of dollars are $25,000.

During Finance Committee Meeting and during the Budget Session in 1995, I remember specifically asking the question. It shocked me to see what was hoped to be accomplished in the narrative under this section of projects, and the amount being devoted to that project, because it was very obvious that in the majority of cases the amounts allocated or proposed could no where near complete the projects. In fact, it would make no sense to start those projects with the funds being made available.

Having seen all of this in the month of November, what was produced along with just over $16 million worth of borrowings for capital expenditure in that Budget included a myriad of other projects, but there was nothing to be said about the projects for the physical upgrading of the public educational institutions in this country.

The question being asked, with no sensible answer forthcoming, is: How are we going to get this all done? When are we going to get it done? Are we not making some attempt to plan for the future? I remember saying in this Honourable House that we needed to act in that area because students would be coming on line in the month of September 1996, and the physical space was not going to be there to accommodate those students.

I remember saying that we should have dealt with it then, rather than waiting until it came down to our arguing amongst each other as to who was to blame for its not being done. That same thing is going to happen because it has not been done. I am not a prophet, but how true that statement was. Here we are debating the argument today, differing in views (which has to happen). I still contend that what has happened is because priorities were not being set in the order they should have, even without going any further back than the 1996 Budget. What came to us in November of 1996? A balanced budget which did not have the priorities right. We have those priorities before us today and we are being told that if we do not support the Loans Bill then they are going to send the parents to people like myself and say that I am personally responsible because they do not have anywhere to go. That is what is being said. It can go one of two ways.

My absolution is that I know, and the records will prove that I said that this was going to happen to us before. That gives me no satisfaction, whether some people believe it or not. I would have been much more gratified to know that we were on the way with what we know we have to do.

We come back to what I said about it going one of two ways. In my mind it is either that somebody was not paying enough attention to the priority list and it just got put by the wayside, and, now, suddenly, a shock has set in; or with knowledge that they could set the budget the way it was done in order for it to be approved in November, and hold the very necessary projects - the majority of which are coming before us now. Regardless of how we may disagree with the methodology, the fact is (and I speak for myself, but I think I also speak for others) that even though I will stand here and argue against the way certain things were done, because I know and I recognise how important these things are, I have no choice but to support the Bill. When I say I have no choice, I mean I have no choice. Good conscience will not let me say no to the Bill when I know what the needs are - not the wants, the needs.

Not knowing which of the two it is, either one of them is bad business for our way of operating as a country. That is the view that I hold. When all is said and done, bad habits which are allowed to continue only get worse. If you allow the child to suck his thumb without trying to use preventative measures, at the age of ten the child will shamefully suck his thumb in public, and you will hide your face when he does it and say, "Oh, my God!" That is what happens when bad habits are not corrected.

The whole point is not whether we all want the same things or not. I believe that we do. I honestly believe that we do. But the responsibilities that lie at various levels of this House go beyond what we simply wish to see happen in our country. That is why we are elected, so that we can use our good conscience, good knowledge and collective opinions in order to steer the country in the right direction. Steering it in the right direction goes many, many miles further than any one aspect I might be discussing today.

We can talk about the way the country is going financially, we can talk about the social problems, we can talk about all kinds of problems that keep occurring which we have to keep battling. But if we do not exercise the responsibility that we have to ensure that our priorities are in order, we are always going to be in trouble because when the arguments continue we deal with the personalities in this Honourable House.

I stand up today to debate the issue at hand, taking my differing view and trying to put forward what I think is the right thing. Inevitably (and, frankly speaking, it is nothing new to me), what is going to be argued about in this instance is not what I have talked about, but me. Even when that happens (whether I do not like to be talked about because it makes me nervous is not the point) the point is that our country is suffering from our lack of initiative to deal with the issues at hand. That is the point that I wish to make.

It just so happens that the majority of my delivery has dealt with school buildings. Even if some choose not to believe, I just wish to say that the biggest reason for that is because of the alarming problems that I see on the horizon. The moment that we allow ourselves to get into the situation we are in today, we find the fighting, the bickering, we find the lack of direction; we find the chain of command begin broken down because there is no fixed direction which people can head towards. The moment we end up with a crisis situation where a group of people have to decide which direction to go on in the spur of the moment, everybody heads in a different direction. Somebody might have enough sense to stop and holler at the rest and say 'please come back and let us try to start over again,' but sometimes even that does not happen.

In my opinion we simply need to accept that as a growing country with various problems which continue to occur (we all battle, whether in our individual lives, our business lives, our social lives or in our political lives), the truth of the matter is that somewhere, somehow, we have to come to grips with the fact that no matter how many political campaigns we run to be elected (or re-elected), it is our solemn responsibility (no joke, no playing with people's minds) to lead this country with direction that is not a Band-Aid situation. We will forever be the losers for it.

The problem that it creates (and I have said this in a different way before)... I am totally convinced of this from being inside and outside of this House. What we say, how we say it, or what we do in this forum becomes the norm of our society. If we show our country that we measure our success by Band-Aid practices, that is what they are going to do, saying, 'I saw those fellows make it all right, so we can make it like this too.' That may not sound important, but you talk to the people and hear them say that they heard this one say that, and that one say the next thing, and that is how I am going to deal with my given situation tomorrow, as light as that might seem, it adds to the responsibility.

Making those specific points, let me try to take the last few minutes to look at what I call the big picture. When we look at the borrowings proposed, there are several areas in these borrowings which do not end right here. The Post Office building: Money will automatically have to be voted for that in a few months from now to allow for its completion. You cannot start a project and then leave it like a white elephant. That makes no sense, and money is wasted before it is spent. So money will have to be spent on that.

There are land purchases which are given to time payments. There is the hospital facility for which there have been borrowings this year, and I daresay (no exaggeration) that there will probably be at least another $10 million of borrowings to complete that. If it is not borrowed but used out of local revenue, then the borrowing will have to be somewhere else. Do not think that I am trying to twist anything.

There is the Pedro Castle project for which, in this Sitting, there will be monies asked for, meaning a loan which will supposedly be self-financing, but will still create a liability for the country. I am only naming some. There are other land purchases which the Government has engaged in which are ongoing, and will be ongoing for a few more years.

Let me take this quick opportunity to say that I am not suggesting that there is an error in engaging in that type of financing at a national level, but let us not forget that when we start to make payments, whether it is on land or on a loan, once we have to make steady payments until such debts are paid off, those payments automatically become a part of recurrent expenditure. If we are not careful and we allow those payments to increase beyond the accepted level when we compare our revenue and the amount of expenditure which has to go to these loans, that simply narrows the gap with what latitude the country then has to continue the goods and services required by the people.

In this year alone, while it is wonderful to say that the country for the last three years only engaged in $8.1 million, it has turned around, and because we have chosen to use a certain amount of recurrent revenue towards capital expenditure (the new terminology for that is 'profit'), then you deal with the situation in that fashion. You come around in one year and are dealing with $28 million worth of borrowing.

I am not suggesting that at the end of the borrowing of $28 million that the country is not going to be in a position to make the required payments. What I am saying is that when you have an impact of that magnitude, in the immediate future you certainly diminish your ability because of the vast increase in your recurrent expenditure for those payments. You diminish your ability to perform.

The other thing this leads to (and we only have to look at our own lives to know that this is true) is the tighter we get, the more inclined to borrow in order to accomplish something. This comes back to my original argument, Madam Speaker, that of planning.

If the country knows the direction it is headed in we get less specific hollering, screaming demands being placed on us politically. We can always truthfully answer when the question arises, 'This is what we are doing.' The way it is happening now is an excuse for the correct way of operating - by voting token funds for specific areas. When the project does not get completed, the question is asked, and you can answer with a slight truth by saying, 'Money was voted, but it did not get completed.' Then the Civil Service is the bad guy.

That may not seem to be a very important point, but we cannot continue to live like this. We cannot deal with it in that fashion; we are going nowhere doing this.

The contingent liability in this country at present (not knowing exactly, but knowing that I am fairly accurate) is approximately $105 million. Existing self-financing loans... and these are loans which Government has guaranteed, but undertaken by the Statutory Authorities that are presently paying their way. Nevertheless, the day that any one of those Authorities cannot pay their own way, the Government will be immediately called upon to make those payments. That is the self-financing loans. Knowing that I am fairly accurate, I will state that this figure is close to $16 million. When this Loan Bill is approved, and all the plans are put into action, the direct liabilities to the nation will be $57 million. That is a fact.

It is not my intention to frighten anyone, but we are looking at three different figures here: $105 million worth of contingent liabilities, $16 million worth of self-financing loans, and $57 million worth of direct borrowings by the country. Those figures, while not frightening (I do not wish to create that impression), do give rise to concern about the direction.

Somebody will come behind me and say, 'Here you are talking about things which need to be done while questioning how much we owe.' My whole argument is centred around priorities and proper planning. I come back to it again. Madam Speaker, I beg your indulgence because it is not to be repetitious, but I am using various lines of argument to come back to the same point. If we plan our lives properly we know what we can afford at any given time. We are then able to prioritise what has to come first and our nation then understands when we are not in a position to do something.

Then comes the other power play, when the pressure comes on from certain sectors of our society and politically you need to please them. So you lose track all over again and go on to deal with something to satisfy that area because you do not have a plan. If you had a plan, when each area points at you and says, 'We want this and that,' you can say, 'this is how we have it planned, this is what we are able to do now with the money we have. But tomorrow, as soon as we get this out of the way, this is what is going to happen.' If we had a track record for doing that, the public would not question it. I am not just talking about today, I am talking about all of the years in the past, the very recent past and now. We have to change our way of doing business.

We have the ultimate responsibility for the success of this country when it comes to our children and the ability for them to enjoy the same, if not better, quality of life that we have.

After what I have said is torn apart and critiqued, however it is dealt with, I just sincerely hope that somewhere along the line some of us will have the courage to accept - not to understand, because I know we all understand it - but to accept the importance and the good in trying to deal with our nation at the level I am trying to instigate.

I live with the philosophy that if I help to make my country well, that I will be well. If I simply look for me to be well, what is well with me may not be any good if my country is not well. That sounds a bit complicated, but it is simple. If I play my part to make my country better, then, obviously, the law of averages dictates that I will be better. But if I only look for me to be better, then all the worth that I have can mean nothing if my country is worth nothing. We must remember that.

To conclude, these various amounts in the two Bills for local loans in order to accomplish the various needs that have been pointed out are necessary. It is just unfortunate that they come in the way that they have come so that there is no great satisfaction in participating in the voting process simply knowing that you vote because there is no choice at this point in time.

Whatever side each one of us chooses to be on, let us strive as a nation, let us strive with out directives, our policies and our wishes for this country to allow the professionals who perform their chores daily to be able to do what they know they should do. If the policy makers are such that they can see the wisdom in forward planning, I am sure that this country will be a lot better off.

I have to say that I will support the Bills. I just hope that in the future we will be able to look at such borrowings in a different light than we do today.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Today we have two Bills before us, A Bill for a Law to amend the Loan (Capital Projects) Law, 1993, and A Bill for a Law to authorise the borrowing of up to $10,685,268 for the financing of specific capital projects.

I wish to clarify a number of issues. The first one has to do with the misconception some members of the public have regarding these two Bills. It has been brought to my attention that some members of the public seem to think that the Government is trying to borrow $8,130,171 in addition to the $10,685,268. Of course all of us in this House know that is not the case. What happened was that the Bill for a Law to authorise the loan 1993, which was passed in November of 1993, authorised the borrowing of over $8 million. Some $2,046,566 were not utilised.

The amendment Bill we are now discussing is seeking the approval of this House for $611,260 of that amount to be spent on sports centres and parks and $1,435,306 to be spent on school buildings. That should make it absolutely clear that we are not talking about borrowing $8 million in addition to the $10,685,268.

The schedule to the Bill has been discussed by various contributors at length, and every contributor so far has said that they will support the Bill. The last speaker made a significant contribution and pointed out the importance of short-term and long term financing. I wish to say that I feel confident that the Minister for Capital Works is in a very good position to answer for himself when it comes to why these various capital works are regarded a priority, and why they do constitute part of the long-term and short-term plan of Government.

There is no question in my mind that any Government should have short-term and long-term planning in place. This is absolutely essential for us to have good Government. I remember hearing the Financial Secretary speak of the significance of short-term and long-term planning not too long ago, and what is being done in that direction. Much work is being put into that at this point in time to come up with a long-term plan for Government. All of us in this House recognise the significance and importance of this coming to fruition.

The first item on the schedule of the Bill for a Law to authorise the borrowing of up to $10 million, Civic Centres and Museums, amounts to $200,000 and it has been said, and we all know that this is for the hurricane shelter and community hall in the East End District, and nobody in this Parliament would disagree that this is extremely essential. The hurricanes often approach from that direction. This is a flat island and hurricane shelters are essential in all the districts, East End being no exception.

The second item, Construction of Roads, amounts to $4,050,000, and we know of that amount over $3 million will be spent on roads in the George Town area. The Third Elected Member for George Town adequately discussed some of the roads that will be fixed in the George Town area with that sum of money. I am happy that George Town, the Capital of the Cayman Islands, is going to get the needed attention. We know that the roads, as pointed out in the last Session of this House, are in a state of disrepair in some parts of George Town and badly need attention. With the approval of these funds, we should get our roads fixed.

I am delighted to hear that this work will be put out to tender and that the private sector will effect its completion. The Public Works Department finds it impossible to do all of the work allocated to it, and I believe that this is the way to go. The private sector should be given the task of completing these roads, especially since we hope to get them finished in the near future.

Three million dollars will be spent on the George Town Roads and we will have excellent roads all the way to Boilers and Harbour Drive will be fixed, which is one of the main thoroughfares in George Town. Many other roads in the George Town district will be fixed. The Third Elected Member discussed that at great length. I think the George Town constituents will be very happy to see the amount of work that will be done in the George Town district. Everybody has to use the roads in George Town. The entire country will benefit.

There is an allocation here for West Bay also of $400,000. The total vote is over $4 million. Bodden Town, a quarter of a million, North Side, a quarter of a million, East End $150,000. There is $37,000 for the third item, Harbours and Docks, to fix the West End channel access near the Tiara Beach Hotel. I understand that this is long over due and badly needed to improve conditions in Cayman Brac. Access to that area will enhance tourism, including the dive industry.

The amount voted for public buildings is in the region of $709,000 to renovate the court house and complete the Department of Environment Building and improve the MRCU Hangar at the airport. These projects are all badly needed. In my opinion, they constitute a priority.

Item 5, purchase of Lands, has been adequately discussed by so many different Members. We all know that in order to get the things which are so badly needed in the Cayman Islands, Government has to purchase land. Much of the land that Government already has is not desirable for building so Government will have to purchase land in order to build these various buildings, which includes the West Bay Sports Complex; the Cayman Brac Swimming Pool; the East End public beach. The Baptist Church building is going to be purchased at over $1182,500; the slaughter house for the Department of Agriculture; the proposed boys' home; the Mission House for the National Trust; the Bodden Town Community Park; the Frank Sound Community Park; the East End Elderly Home; the hurricane grave site, and House for the National Trust, and $350,000 towards the Cayman Food s building which will be utilised by the school for the handicapped and Red Bay Primary School . All of these projects have been recognised as extremely essential and necessary if we are going to progress and move forward.

Item 6 deals with school buildings. In that respect $1,435,000 of the unspent money from the 1993 loan will be utilised and $1,420,000 is being borrowed if this Bill is passed. That is almost equal to $2 million. We should see significant improvements in all of our school buildings throughout the island once this goes through. Four new classrooms will be added to the George Town Primary School . I am sure this comes as good news to all of the students and also to the parents in the George Town area. That will cost $717,000. There will be four new classrooms at the same price for the Savannah Primary School. Schools throughout the districts will be upgraded and improved. What is more important than providing the facilities to educate our people?

Item 7 deals with sports centres and parks. Of the $2 million that were not utilised in the 1993 loan, $611,260 is being utilised for this purpose and a further $846,000 will be borrowed. How will this money be spent? There are outstanding bills from 1995 for work done at Pedro Castle and also at the Queen Elizabeth Botanical Gardens which amounts to approximately $222,000. These monies will be used to pay those off. Also, a quarter of a million dollars will be used to pay a contingency amount for construction of a visitor's centre at the Queen Elizabeth Botanic Gardens. The Cricket pitch which includes the soft ball and baseball facility in West Bay will cost $419,000. A further $567,000 will be spent on Community Parks throughout the islands. This all amounts to the sum of approximately $1.5 million.

I believe that all of us would agree that this is a very, very important purpose for this money to be spent on. Approval is being sought to borrow $1,200,000 for Post Office buildings. We know that in Finance Committee Meeting in May, some $2.3 million were approved for the construction of the airport mail processing centre.

I am not clear myself whether the balance will be coming from recurrent revenue or, as the Fourth Elected Member for George Town pointed out, approval will be sought to borrow more funds to complete the airport mail processing centre. I will seek clarification on this. I hope that the balance of the money will be forthcoming from the recurrent revenue budget.

All in all, I feel confident that this money is being put to good use. Like the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, I see the significance of long term planning. I see the significance of short term planning. But I also know that Government is doing its endeavour best to make sure that such planning is implemented. I feel that as much work as possible should be put in this direction so that we avoid as many supplementary approvals, spending, virements as possible.

Rome was not built in a day, and everything takes time. I am here to wish the Government all my good wishes. It takes a lot of work to run a Government. Yes, we are being paid to do it, but everything takes time. I certainly hope that the long term planning policy, once on line, is well thought out and will assist us in achieving more effective fiscal management of our affairs.

I have no problem with supporting these two Bills. Thank you, very much.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

(3.49 PM)

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to give my support to these two Bills. I am grateful that I have been part of a Government with the ability to borrow these funds. I recall when we took over that the previous Government was not afforded that luxury, and it was several months into our administration before funds could be raised to pay off some of the debts relating to Cayman Airways .

As pointed out by previous speakers, the majority of this money will be going to very worthwhile causes - construction of roads, especially in the George Town area. As the Capital and financial centre, it is time that these roads be brought up to an acceptable level. They have been left to deteriorate for far too long.

What better way can we spend our money than on the School buildings? I know that the Minister has taken a lambasting for this, but people must remember that when we took over funds were not readily available. It took time to build up investor confidence so that people would come here and invest, making it unnecessary for us to tax our people. During our three and a half years I do not believe that we have put direct taxation on any of our Caymanian people.

This is only the second time that we have come for a loan. I remember that in two short years with the previous Government there was over $20 million in taxation. We have tried to make it easier on our people by going the route of borrowing.

There is $846,000 for Sports Centres and Parks. We have seen in just a few short years what has happened in this country especially with our young people by providing the facilities for them. We have taken much criticism for this, but it has been an investment that we cannot judge overall. When we look at the results from the Juvenile Courts and other police statistics showing the dramatic reduction in the incarceration of our young people.... It is a pity that people will take a very important area such as this to try and make political mileage.

During the May meeting of Finance Committee, there were approximately 61 votes taken in regard to appropriation. At that time there were perhaps two or three negative votes. We know the process that we have to go through. Why, when the vast majority of these votes were supported in Finance Committee, is there so much hogwash as we try to appropriate and regularise the voting for a Loan Bill?

I agreed with the Fourth Elected Member for George Town when he spoke about long-term and short-term planning. I am proud to say that within my Ministry, and also within the Ministry for Education, we have undertaken the Strategic Planning approach. Several Members of this Honourable House have dealt with this. It takes a while to get it going, but I am sure that in the end we will see some very positive results.

Other speakers have mentioned the money this Government has gone through. When I look in my district of Bodden Town I see two primary schools, Bodden Town Primary and the Savannah Primary. I see the tremendous improvements made to those two schools in the area of education. I think about a half a million dollars were appropriated by this Government to bring these up to an excellent standard. There has been nothing that I have asked the Honourable Minister for Education for in regard to these two schools that we have not received. One of the finest busses in the island was delivered last year to the Bodden Town Primary School. Both of the halls are now air conditioned. The hallways have been tiled. We were able to build an art block at the Bodden Town School. I could go on and on. Why do people try to tell lies about the Minister for Education when we know what he has done? It is a crying shame.

There was talk about dishonesty in this Government. I have not seen any. A few days ago on television one Mrs. Peguero said that this Government had spent approximately $30 million on a new hospital and had nothing to show for it. If that is not twisting the figures and misleading this country.... That is what I call dishonesty.

Some of these people believe that Government can give and assist, but when some of them are the benefactors they turn around and say that we are wasting the money. Let us be truthful with ourselves. I have had a number of people come to me asking how we could give money to some of these organisations when people tell deliberate lies, when we have trusted these people with the youth of this country and they go and tell a deliberate falsehood.

I am going to be brief because I am fairly sure that the majority of the people in this country know what we are doing, they know how far we have come in just three short years. They remember the unemployment, the down-turn in construction and tourism, you name it. People were not working and wondered where their next dollar would come from. What have we done? We have established that investor confidence that has brought these islands to a construction boom the magnitude of which we have never before experienced.

The comparison was drawn about the financial management of this Government. I am proud of our Financial Secretary. As he has said on more than one occasion, we are well within the acceptable limits of less than 10% before we would get into any major problems with the recurrent revenue side.

When we compare this Government with the last Government, there is no comparison. History has already made a judgment on their style of management. Not one Elected Minister from the last Government was returned to this Honourable House. There is no better proof-positive than that. They were not trusted and the people demonstrated, in no uncertain terms. Never before in our history was an election decided by such a huge majority. I think some of these people either have a short or convenient memory.

As I said, we will continue to go forward and manage this country as a team as we started out. We all contributed to our Manifesto and the vast majority of our hopes and expectations have been accomplished. We could only do that through team work.

When people try to twist the figures, I ask the public to look and see what the truth actually is and not to pay heed to some of these smooth talkers.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

(4.01 PM)

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I have listened with keen interest to the debate on the two Bills, A Bill for a Law to Authorise the Borrowing of up to $10,685,286 for the financing of specified Capital Projects, and A Bill for a Law to amend the Loan (Capital Projects) Law, 1993.

Much has been said, and I will not attempt to go over it because it would take days. I have been in this House for a considerable length of time, and it has always been my understanding that things of this nature come to Finance Committee affording us the opportunity to discuss and understand what the expenditure is going to be for. It is explained by our very capable Financial Secretary of the day whether or not the country can afford it. Then it is voted upon.

In my earlier days in this House all of this was done behind closed doors, in secret, and we could not elaborate on the proceedings of Finance Committee until the Report was tabled in this Honourable House. Therefore, much of what we have heard here today would not have been possible. Nevertheless, evolution and democracy have progressed to the point, and I think all of us must be extremely proud of what this country is able to do today.

Speaking for my district, I am very grateful for the educational facilities that have been established in Cayman Brac. We had an excellent graduation ceremony there last Saturday night. We were very proud to hear the reports by the Principal that Cayman Brac High School had the highest percentage of CXC passes of any part of the region. That speaks very highly of the Minister for Education and the entire Department of Education and all that goes within. I think that for us to limit our expenditures on such an important thing as providing adequate facilities for our educational system, particularly when speaking about the Lighthouse School, we must reconsider.

The future of this country will rest in the hands of these young people who are now being educated. The world is becoming more difficult and they must be adequately prepared for tertiary education if we are to have the leaders to keep this country in the forefront of the financial off-shore centres and our high tourism development.

I, as other speakers, truly believe in planning. I have tried to plan my life. I have tried to provide for my personal needs and those of my family, making my wants take second place. When there was extra I tried to get the things I could maybe have done without. But since being a Member of this Honourable House I have seen some very ambitious planning schemes come before this House, some I supported in principle. I speak specifically this afternoon of the Master Ground Transportation Plan. Certainly, Grand Cayman needs a better network of roads, but I must say that the Cayman Islands needs a road system that it can afford.

The Master Ground Transportation Plan would have indebted this country to double the public debt we have today simply securing rights-of-way. Up to 1996 we would not have had the funds to begin construction of that Master Ground Transportation network. We would still be paying for rights-of-way. I do not consider that that type of planning is planning in the best interest of this country.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Hear, hear!

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: We must plan for the future development of this country and bring this country in line. Our needs, not our wants, must be met.

The MGTP was in some instances going to go through an area in the West Bay peninsula that had 150 feet of water. How much marl would we have had to hear about in this Honourable House with royalties and dredging to fill that? I served on the Central Planning Authority at the time, so I am not talking about what I do not know.

When a plan is a plan, it must be properly thought out and be able to be financed. I want to repeat myself by saying that short-term and long-term planning will be for the future benefit of this country. But let us look at exactly what a long-term plan implies - it is how the country will benefit over that long period of time. It is not what you are going to get within a very short time frame.

This Loan Bill now before the House is providing expenditures which this nation needs. When I hear people objecting to this Bill, I wonder how we can say that we need money for roads, and money for this and that. There is no one who will give us the quantity of money that we are asking for here. We must borrow it. We must authorise the borrowing of that sum.

I am most grateful to the Government for what they have appropriated to be spent in my district. I am guilty of always asking for more!

(Members' laughter)

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: I want to be honest in saying that I know the source of getting the revenue is through this Loan Bill.

We must not forget the great responsibility to preserve the future of this country today, not because we are approaching the period of time where we seriously begin to campaign. I have always used as my motto 'Country before self', and I think that all of us should establish that policy. Whether I am re-elected (if I chose to run) is one thing, but whether the Cayman Islands is a country that I want to live in for the balance of my life is far more important to me. That is really my goal in life today - that when I leave this Chamber I will be able to say that I did the best that I could and that the Cayman Islands is a place where I want to live as long as God spares my life.

So, today I want to congratulate the present management of our Government. I think there is room for criticism, but we do not know how the shoe fits (or hurts!) until we wear it. You have to have that responsibility before you can truly say that they could have done better. I have been in positions of responsibility on numerous occasions and I know this from experience.

With these few words I give these two Bills my full support.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

(4.12 PM)

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I, too, rise to offer my support to the two Bills before us. I will mainly speak on the Bill to authorise the borrowing of up to $10,685,268 for the financing of specified Capital Projects.

In the debate on this Bill we have heard a lot of talk. Many things have been said. But I do not think it will go very far in proving the ability of the present Executive Council to manage the financial affairs of this country. I think that they have done a tremendous job. Had this Government not had to pay off so many debts left behind in 1992, perhaps there would have been no need for this borrowing today.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Hear, hear!

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I, as the Elected Member for North Side, would like to thank all of the Ministers of Executive Council for the things they have provided in the District of North Side over the past three years. I would particularly like to thank the Honourable Minister for Education, who has taken a tremendous amount of knocks here today. No matter what time I went to him with the needs of the North Side Primary School, which was completely forgotten during the years of 1984 to 1992, he was always willing to assist and find funds if at all possible to provide the necessities for this school to operate properly. It was not only the North Side School that he did this with, it was all Government schools coming under his Portfolio.

Some of the knocks placed against this Minister during the debate on these Bills are unnecessary and unwarranted. We have heard much said about the purchase of lands. I am tired of hearing about the purchase of the Cayman Food's property. If I have property for sale, whether I am a Member of this Honourable House or not, I do not agree that I should be ostracised if the Government needs the property I have for sale. I do not agree that they should not look at the property I have for sale.

We have heard much about long-term planning for roads, a national plan for roads, but as the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman has just said, we had a scheme put forward (the MGTP) which was a long-term plan, as far as the payment for that was concerned. There was some $350 million of which $100 million was just for land acquisition. We know that we need roads. I feel that this Government has done, and continues, to do its utmost to provide more roads for Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town made some comment along the lines that the majority of roads in this country have almost lived out their entire life. He referred to the maintenance of a vehicle. I agree with him 100%. But, had the maintenance of these roads been carried out over the previous years, maybe the amount of money that has had to be spent would not have been necessary. If we continue to not maintain our vehicles, at the end of the day the entire engine will drop out. This is what has happened particularly to the roads in Grand Cayman.

I speak from experience with the roads in North Side. Back in 1994 there was one stretch of road with a hole where you could have taken and pushed into it the entire length of a 10 foot pole. The road was deteriorating from underneath. It cost this Government some $75,000 to repair that stretch of road. If there had been maintenance we would not have had to spend that amount of money.

I agree that more time and money should have been spent on the maintenance of roads in George Town, seeing that it is (as the Fourth Elected Member for George Town said) the 'hub'. But this will be done shortly, as we are now voting the funds where major maintenance and upgrading of roads in George Town can be carried out. This amount of money will not have to be spent in other districts in the coming years to upgrade and maintain these roads. I think that the present Government should be given a pat on the back for upgrading the roads to where our people can now drive and feel safe. We have had terrible roads in the past.

We heard past Members saying things like, 'The worst the roads in this country have been in the last decade is now.' How untrue, when they spent nothing at all to maintain these roads except building subdivision roads prior to the 1992 election.

I would like to thank the Honourable Minister for putting before us today the means to provide parks and sports centres for the districts of this island. I am personally pleased that through the funds provided in this Bill, and sports centres and parks, there is provision to purchase property in the Frank Sound area to build a park so that we can take the children of that area off of the 50 M.P.H. highway, because that is the only place that they have to play in at present.

Much has been levelled at this Minister for wanting to provide these types of facilities for our people. I think that every one of us sitting in this Parliament building should be proud to know that he is trying to give each district a facility that the people can enjoy rather than having nowhere to go to spend an evening with their families.

I would like to congratulate the Government, and I offer my full support on this Bill and say to them, ignore the lambasting you have received. The people will tell who they feel have represented them and properly managed their funds. To the Honourable Financial Secretary, I say that certain things have been passed on the debate of this Bill that could question your integrity. Hold your head high because I am confident and I believe that you have tackled your job as the Honourable Financial Secretary of this country with full responsibility and maturity.

Let us look forward to the implementation of all of these projects for the betterment of the people of these islands.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: We have five minutes left if any Member would like to utilise that in contributing to the debate.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I was hoping that we would move the adjournment.

The Speaker: Do you mean that you would like to move the adjournment, Honourable Minister, because I am not in a position...?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I would like to move, Madam Speaker, that the House do adjourn until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: I have no objection.

The question is that this Honourable House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.22 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM, THURSDAY, THE 4TH DAY OF JULY, 1996.

Questions to Honourable Members and Ministers. Question Number 84, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 84

No. 84: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development if there has been any settlement by Cayman Cement Distributors Limited on the alleged evasion of Custom Duties.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: As this case involves the alleged evasion of import duties it is not possible to reach a settlement unless the Company agrees to a settlement or a Court ruling is obtained in favour of a settlement. To date, neither of these positions has been reached.

In the most recent correspondence received from the Legal Department it is stated that the case has been dormant for sometime. As a result of this, it may not be possible at this time to initiate criminal proceedings due to the passage of time and other difficulties.

As an alternative, the Legal Department has proposed that civil proceedings could be pursued and the Portfolio of Finance and Development is now being asked to advise whether it would like to pursue the action and, if so, the Portfolio could instruct the Legal Department accordingly. This Legal Department has further advised that if we were to opt for this approach, it would involve a considerable commitment of resources to prepare the case.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the Honourable Member tell the House how long these negotiations have been going on?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, between 18 to 24 months.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say whether the case of the Customs Department in alleging duty evasion is weak, or the extenuating factors is the reason why no decision has been taken thus far?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, in the first instance it is a question of judgment. The Customs Department took the view sometime ago that the rate at which freight was being charged should have been what is normally charged to a member of the public had the company not been using their own ship. In this instance, because of the fact that the company in question used their own shipping line there was a question as to whether it would be charged the rate that an ordinary member of the public is charged. This is where the difference of opinion ruled. Even with the help of the Legal Department, as yet we have not been in a position to resolve this issue.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the Honourable Member tell us what the time frame was in which this alleged evasion took place?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, this was first disclosed by the Internal Audit Unit in 1992.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the Honourable Member give the House an indication of the amount of money involved in this case?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, according to the Internal Audit assessment, it would be in the region of half a million dollars.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Member say whether any thoughts were given to negotiating with a view to an out of court settlement?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, that was a part of the negotiating process. But we were waiting for advice as to what would be the basis for pursuing the case from this angle.

The Speaker: The next question is number 85, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 85

No. 85: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs to state the work permit figures by category (that is, temporary or one, two or three years) for each of the following years: 1993, 1994, and 1995 up to May 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the answer: The work permit figures for the years 1993, 1994, 1995 and up to May 1996, are as follows:

1993	Temporary Work permits	894
	Six-month work permits	none
	One-year work permits	12,134
	Two-year work permits	291
	Three-year work permits	100
1994	Temporary Work permits	1,472
	Six-month work permits	414
	One-year work permits	13,852
	Two-year work permits	321
	Three-year work permits	52
	1995	Temporary Work permits	6,394
		Six-month work permits	845
One-year work permits		9,609
Two-year work permits		193
Three-year work permits		82
To May 1996	Temporary Work permits	3,169
	Six-month work permits	471
	One-year work permits	3,843
	Two-year work permits	342
	Three-year work permits	51

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is the Honourable Member in a position to explain the significant fluctuation in the temporary work permits for the years 1993 to 1995?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The temporary work permit figure for 1993 is very low and we believe it is because the system dealt with them manually. The figure for 1993 may not be accurate. The information is now on computer, so, certainly from 1995 onwards, the figures are accurate.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town

Mr. Roy Bodden: I noticed from the figures provided that the three-year work permit figures are rather low. Can the Member give an indication why this is so, and also give the House some information regarding the type of person who would fall into this category?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the three-year work permit category deals with two groups of people; (1) persons married to Caymanians, and (2) persons in managerial positions generally in the financial sector.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Member say if these work permit holders are eligible for renewal and, if so, what is the time frame?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. This category of persons would be eligible for work permit renewals unless there is reason why the Board is unable to renew them. The time frame should be similar to the other categories, the one-year and two-year categories.

The Speaker: The next question is number 86, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 86

No. 86: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning what is Cayman Airways Limited doing to comply with the noise level requirements for the type of aircraft it uses as prescribed by the United States Authorities.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the answer: The United States Department of Transportation has ordered that only Stage III aircraft will be permitted to operate in the United States of America after the 31st of December, 1999. This, of course, means that aircraft such as B-737-200s; B-727s and DC-9s will not meet the noise level criteria unless they are modified to reduce the noise level.

Cayman Airways Limited's Management Board and I addressed this problem as far back as 1993 by setting out a programme which enabled us to operate our Stage II aircraft for as long as possible without having to invest in the costly noise abatement equipment.

You must remember that the Noise Abatement Programme is designed to reduce noise pollution only. The basis of the United States Control is a programme which requires airlines that operate into or within the United States to remove 25 per cent of their Stage II aircraft by year end 1994, 25 per cent by year end 1996, 25 per cent by year end 1998, and the balance by year end 1999.

These percentage reductions were based on the number of "Stage II aircraft" each airline owned during a "window" which the United States Authorities opened from 1st January, 1990, to 1st February, 1991. Carriers were allocated one base level for each Stage II aircraft in their fleet at any given time during that period.

Cayman Airways Limited at that time was getting itself into a dreadful legal and financial mess by contracting with GPA and ILFC for Boeing 737-400s which, since their engines meet the Stage III noise level, did not require base level. The result was that when I got the problem of sorting out the mess the airline was in, I learned to my horror in 1993, that the airline only had one base level and, therefore, was only approved to operate one Stage II aircraft into the United States of America. A great deal of ingenuity was required to resolve the situation which can be summarised as follows: When Cayman Airways returned two B-737-200s to ILFC at the end of 1994, it wisely retained the base level to apply to a future Stage II aircraft.

Next, we made it a condition of the purchase of the 737-200 VR-CAL from Citicorp, that they transfer to us a base level with the aircraft. Finally, we appealed to the FAA for the restoration of a third base level on technical grounds and our appeal succeeded. This meant (and you can verify it by applying the reduction scale I mentioned earlier) that Cayman Airways could operate one B737-200 into the United States until December 1998 and a second until December 1999. Ironically, what Mr. Linford Pierson called a "sweetheart deal", the disastrous sale of the 727-200 jets in 1989 which would have been fully owned in 1994, was made partly because the Government wrongly stated that the 727-200s would not comply with the United States Noise Regulations beyond 1994.

The difference between the situation which I inherited from the previous Government, that is, between having one base level and three, is worth a savings of approximately US$1.5 million.

Cayman Airways Limited plans to meet the noise level demands of the United States Authorities by hush-kitting its 737-200 aircraft. The airline is already in discussions with several manufacturers of hush-kits and will soon make a decision as to which one to choose.

The anticipated cost is approximately US$1.5 million for ship-set and the Board of Cayman Airways will not be asking Government to fund any of this cost. The wisdom or purchasing rather than leasing aircraft will be further reflected in the fact that the asset value of our aircraft will increase by an amount greater than the hush-kit cost.

As you know it is the policy of this Government to facilitate the purchase, rather than the leasing, of aircraft. In this way Cayman Airways gets to own its aircraft where previously it was effectively paying the cost of aircraft which the leasing Company ended up owning.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say if the cost of $1.5 million also includes the fittings, and if it does not, approximately what will be the cost of fitting the hush-kits?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, that is why I said it is a ship-set. It is actually purchased and fitted on the aircraft for the $1.5 million.

The Speaker: The next question is number 87, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 87

No. 87: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning why the Hard Courts which were completed in November of 1995 have not been sealed and striped since that time.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning .

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I have been asked to answer this question.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: The answer: It was originally planned that the courts would be sealed and striped in 1995, however this did not occur. Consequently, the 1996 Budget made no provision for this work. Funding has now been provided for this work by way of a virement. The funds were released to the Public Works Department on the 4th of June, 1996, and the work will be carried out during summer recess.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. For the purpose of clarity, it is anticipated, then, that these works will be completed before school starts back in September?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, the work will be carried out during the holiday.

The Speaker: The next question is number 88, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 88

No. 88: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning if Cayman Airways has considered renting or selling any of the approximately $5,000,000 worth of spare parts for various aircraft being held in inventory.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning and Cayman Airways.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the answer: Cayman Airways has a total spare holding of approximately US$5.88 million. However, of this figure only US$3.49 million worth of spares are available for sale or rental. Let me explain as to how we arrived at this situation.

Cayman Airways has aircraft spares for Boeing 737-300 and 737-400 jets, which were another expensive problem left by the former Government and referred to by Mr. Linford Pierson as a "sweetheart deal". These two aircraft are no longer in the fleet. The original cost of these spares was just under US$3.49 million. When I took over as Minister in November 1992, CAL had one Boeing 737-400 and 737-300 in its fleet. Prior to 1992 CAL had an additional two other 737-400 jets from Guinness Peat Aviation in its fleet.

In 1991, CAL broke its contract with GPA and as a result the two GPA-400 jets were returned. I inherited the responsibility of paying for the arrangements reached in 1991, an arrangement to break the contracts which ultimately cost the airline some US$8 million. Therefore, in 1992 the third and remaining 737-400 had US$1.5 million of accumulated unpaid lease payments, and for the same 400 jet the airline had a contracted liability of US$39.8 million, in lease payments alone, over the next ten years.

In addition, the airline had title to a CFM 56 engine for the 400 jet, valued at US$3.5 million. Unfortunately the airline had not paid for this engine so further finance charges of US$800,000 had accumulated and utilisation charges of over US$1 million had accrued.

In 1993, we were successful in returning the engine to the manufacturer in full and final settlement of all charges which amounted to US$5.3 million. Remarkably, we were also successful in escaping the contracted liability of US$39.8 million in lease payments over the next ten and a half year. We negotiated with the lessor and they agreed to take back the 737-400. I would remind the House that this was accomplished at no cost to CAL or Government, without rancour and without loss of goodwill. So this leaves only the $3.49 million worth of spares, US$3.25 of which are for the said 737-400.

We have had offers to purchase these spares at offer prices significantly below the purchase costs. The problem is that in 1990 Cayman Airways paid a fairly high price for these spares which were not readily available then, but are now available with much shorter lead times.

Cayman Airways is presently developing proposal to make these spares available for rental to airlines who are badly in need of immediate spares, for example, when another carrier has one of its aircraft temporarily on the ground and is in urgent need of parts. In these types of situations the rental charges are very high. If Cayman Airways rents these individuals parts it can earn rental income on each part within 45-47 days which will more than pay for the cost of the part.

The rental of aircraft parts is a developing business and Cayman Airways has already had some success with rental of some of these parts.

The Speaker: The next question is number 89, standing in the name of Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 89

No. 89: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce to explain in detail how the Pedro Castle project will be self financing when completed.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The Cayman Islands Government has submitted a request to the Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) for a loan to assist with financing the development of the Pedro St. James National Historic site into a heritage tourism attraction.

The capital cost of the project is estimated to be CI$8.68 million, of which funding in the amount of CI$4.83 million is being requested from CDB as a loan for a period of 17 years. For the first five years of the loan interest only is payable at a rate of 6.75%. During the five years grace period, revenues generated by the project is estimated to exceed the expenditures. The table (that I shall indicate in a few minutes) depicts the Estimated Revenue and Operational costs for the five years period 1997 to 2002.

	Total Revenue	Total Operating Cost	Net Revenue Profit/Loss
1997	$ 490,435	$ 679,600	$ -189,165
1998	1,064,972	706,784	358,188
1999	1,471,851	735,055	736,795
2000	1,743,926	764,458	979,468
2001	1,868,103	795,036	1,075,067
2002	1,959,200	826,837	1,132,363
Total Net Revenue (1997-2002) = $4,090,716

The revenue forecasts have been developed based on a combination of gate fees, restaurant concessions and gift shop sales, site rentals, and special events.

The Turtle Farm attracts 28 per cent of cruise and air arrivals to the islands from which the following assumptions were made. Forecast for visitors is estimated at 77,000, which is the base, increasing in parallel with the growing tourist market to the Cayman Islands.

It is forecast that Pedro St. James will attract 6.7 per cent of cruise passengers in the first year, increasing to 9.1 per cent in the sixth year; and 11.8 per cent of passengers who arrive by air in the first year of operation, increasing to 25.4 per cent in the sixth year.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Minister say at this point in time if it is anticipated by the Government that sections of the entire operation will be handled by the Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, it is my recommendation (and I think the Government will receive it) that there will be a board established to run the total project. The restaurant will be put out to tender so that the Government will, in essence, be in control of the overall project, although some portion of it will be private sector driven.

The Speaker: The next question is number 90, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 90

No. 90: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works why the request for the purchase of Block 98D, Parcel 4 in Cayman Brac, next to the Government Administration Building, was left out of the Supplementary Expenditure request on 13th of May, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker, the answer: Government, in evaluating the many applications for supplementary expenditure did not consider the acquisition of this property as urgent and relegated this item to the list of other proposed purchases for further consideration at a later date. It was decided that in this instance the owner be contacted with a view of negotiating terms. This is currently in progress.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister say if he is aware that the owner has placed the property on the open market? Or is it presently on hold while negotiating with the Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I am not aware of what the Member is talking about, but I am aware that the Lands and Survey Department has been negotiating the purchase of this property, as I pointed out earlier. It is hoped that these negotiations can be brought to an end shortly.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister say if he is aware that there is quite an acute shortage of space in the District Administration Building, and the only way that any expansion can be made to the building is to purchase the land to the north because there is none available to the south of the building?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I am aware that there is a shortage of space in the District Administration Building. I totally disagree that the only place it can be expanded to is on this piece of land.

The Speaker: The next question is number 91, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 91

No. 91: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development what the amount of Government's contingent liability is, including any land bought through owner-financed deals in 1992 to date, with a breakdown by year.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: As shown in the Annual Accounts of Government, contingent liabilities totalled: $80.5 million as at the 31st of December, 1992; $65.6 million as at 31st of December, 1993; $88.9 million as at the 31st of December, 1994; and, $101.8 million as at 31st December, 1995. The 31st December, 1995 figure is unaudited.

In addition, the total amount outstanding for land purchases made through owner-financed agreements entered into by Government since 1992, amounts to $1,707,597.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Is there any Government policy whereby the Government would propose to cap the contingent liabilities at a certain amount or percentage of the annual budget?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, it is likely that that will emerge during the review of the Public Finance and Audit Law, because the review will embrace the entire financial picture of the Government taking into account direct and indirect obligations.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Member say if this is an ongoing exercise, and does he have any idea as to when the Government might reach a conclusion on the review?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, it is anticipated that the exercise will be completed by the end of this year.

I should point out at this time (and I think I mentioned this earlier to Members in this House) that the Deputy Financial Secretary is now charging a committee drawing on the senior Heads of Department within Government. We have now reached the stage where we are seeking the assistance of the National Audit Office in the United Kingdom in order to make one of their senior staff members available to carry out this exercise.

The Speaker: The next question is number 92, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 92

No. 92: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development how much money was contributed by Statutory Authorities from 1988 to 1996 with a breakdown by year.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: The total amount contributed by the Statutory Authorities from 1988 to 24th of June, 1996, was $18,406,792. I will ask that the figure of "$19,834,808" shown on the answer sheet be correct to read what I just mentioned. This sum is made up as follows:

1988	CI$ 1,465,142
1989	2,112,327
1990	2,100,000
1991	1,600,000

1992	1,895,420
1993	3,553,678
1994	4,226,499
1995	793,726
1996	660,000 (Jan - June 24, 1996)

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the Honourable Member say why there is such a sharp increase in 1993 and 1994 in the amounts taken from Statutory Authorities into public revenue?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I should point out that the biggest contributor from the Statutory Authorities is the Currency Board, which for the year 1993 contributed approximately $1.2 million. In 1994, the contribution was approximately $1.9 million. Also, the Civil Aviation Authority contributed $1.5 million.

In 1995 the contribution from the Civil Aviation Authority was in the region of $200,000. Discussions at this time are underway in order to sort out the difference that is due to the Government. So, overall, if we were to take it on the basis of contributions by Authority during this period the Civil Aviation Authority contributed $4,155,604; the Water Authority - $1,450,000; Port Authority - $1,365,125; the Currency Board - $10,806,063; and the Turtle Farm - $630,000.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Would the Honourable Third Official Member say what method is used by the Government in deciding how much money is contributed by each of these authorities on an annual basis?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: In the first instance, when the Budget is being prepared each of the Authorities is invited to indicate to the Government how much money they are likely to contribute during the course of the year. This takes into account the amount of revenue they are likely to earn, what their level of operating cost will be; once that is defrayed, what will be their likely contribution or reserve provision that will have to be made, and other obligations such as, having to make repayments against bank loans. Once these obligations are determined, the various legislation in place makes provision that once reasonable provision is made to assist them with working capital, the balance is paid to central Government.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: In some instances these Authorities have had to take loans with various banking institutions which the Government has guaranteed. Has the Government given any thought to the fact that if the Authorities have a good year, and show a large profit, that it would be better to allow them to pay back more on those loans at any given time, reducing the overall amount paid in interest, rather than keeping its loan running on an annual basis where it costs more, simply to pay money into central Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, it must be borne in mind that often times the loans that are entered into with the Statutory Authorities are strictly on the basis of business arrangements with the bank. It is like having a personal loan. If one attempts to repay the loan much quicker than the time period allocated, unless there is some prior provision in the agreement, the Authority would be penalised.

In addition, the loan repayment is often times set in line with the amount of assets, for example, that will be consumed during that period. So it is not a question of stripping the cash from the Authority, or not suggesting that a more prudent way would be to allow for the repayment. It should be borne in mind that most of these authorities (for example the Port, the Civil Aviation and the Water Authorities) were at one time all departments of Government. The Government looked to their revenue sources in order to make a contribution to the overall revenue available to defray Government's overall operating expenditure.

One or two million dollars from each Authority is very important because, in the absence of this, going into the central pool means that funds would have to be raised from other sources. This is why it is important for the Government to talk with the Authorities on an ongoing basis to monitor the projects to which they are committing their surplus funds. At the end of the day, these are all departments of Government that have been hived off in order to provide services to the community on commercial terms.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Member say if any attempts have been made to have lending institutions remove a penalty clause in agreements/contracts where the Authorities may be able to repay these loans earlier? Is it the case that by taking money from these Authorities, their ability, efficiency and expansion are affected?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, as I mentioned earlier, it would be somewhat difficult. It is not a question that the Authorities would not like more favourable terms to be built into the agreements that are entered into by the lending institutions, the lending institutions are often times lining up the cash that is available, or what they are making available through loans with the deposits they are taking in. It is a question of what is often the case (and it will have to be) because they are in the business to earn a profit.

If the lending institutions were to allow for the Authorities to pay off these loans as and when cash becomes available, this would distort their cash position. Let us say, for example, that these institutions get excess cash on hand. The cash will not make money sitting down in the bank, that money would have to be loaned to continue to earn an income. It is a business arrangement that has been strictly entered into.

Secondly, in terms of the efficiency with which the Authorities continue to operate, the Government is a primary backer of these Authorities. It would be very unwise to strip the Authorities of their operating cash knowing that they would be placed in an invidious position. If that were the case, and they are unable to render the services for which they have been established (and this comes about as a result of deficiency in working capital), the working capital would have to be made good by the central Government.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Proceeding to Other Business, Private Member's Motion No. 3/96 -Debate of the Report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands' Government for the year ended 31st December, 1994, and the Government Minute which Relates to it.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 3/96

DEBATE ON THE REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE AND THE AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1994, AND THE GOVERNMENT MINUTE WHICH RELATES TO IT

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, it has been several days since this motion was debated and the House unexpectedly adjourned. The debate, as has just been noted by the Chair, is on the Report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands' Government for the year ended 31st December, 1994, and the Government Minute.

At the time the adjournment was taken, I was about to turn to the question of dredging as was noted in all three reports. Indeed, much space and comment was given by the Auditor General to the question of dredging. The Public Accounts Committee commented at some length on this issue as well, and in the Government's reply in the Government Minute there was also considerable comment on this particular aspect. In my opinion this is mainly so because dredging is such an important subject, both from an environmental point of view and by the fact that it has been shown that Government has been out hundreds of thousands of dollars in fees which are due to it.

Dredging is one of the major sources of fill on this island and, as such, it is significant for building and road construction. It does appear to be reaching a point where it needs to become one of Government's greatest priorities in determining whether it continues or stops. If it is to continue, within what limit will it be allowed, from a scientific analysis, and should Government be the entity that dredges the North Sound (or wherever) to secure material to be used in the construction of roads and other public works? Would Government then sell the surplus, if there is any?

To say the least, it is not well regulated. The decision on whether to dredge or not falls to the discretion of Executive Council, as has been noted by the Auditor General. The Executive Council takes technical advice on dredging from various entities within Government. Over the years, to date, it has been an ongoing problem for the Government to collect money due. For the entities that have been allowed to dredge, it has been a money making venture. To the environment from which they dredge there has been undoubted damage.

It seems that at this point in time it is extremely necessary that the Government arrive at what will be a sound national policy. The Auditor General identified certain deficiencies in assessing the royalty fee structure. As little as 25¢ per cubic yard has been charged by the Government in some instances. In other instances, 50¢. According to the Government Minute, at this time a decision has been taken to charge $1.00 henceforth.

The Protection and Conservation Unit, according to the Auditor General's Report, favours charging $1.00 per cubic yard when the cutter edge is used, and $2.00 when the dragline is used, as the latter is alleged to be more damaging. However, the Government now seems to decide that $1.00 per cubic yard is sufficient. It is most peculiar that after all was said a few months ago (in March) regarding an approval the Government had given to extract 600,000,000 cubic yards of fill from the North Sound, that approvals have been given since that time, for example, in South Sound.

Only yesterday the Minister responsible for dredging refused to give an answer to a question on the grounds that it was an open-ended question. So the House and the country are not aware as to what royalties were charged. I have heard that for the operation mentioned it was a grand total of $500. Now how that would equate to $1.00 per cubic yard one has to really wonder. According to the newspaper articles and certain photographs that were contained therein, it seems to have been a very large area that was dredged. In fact, it affected the beach-line in other areas.

There seems to be a lot of inconsistency, saying one thing and doing another. The Minister responsible takes the attitude that something so important does not deserve to be answered. This, of course, brings one to the conclusion that all the Government says about dredging and what it intends to do, and has done, may be highly questionable.

Another thing that has been noted regarding dredging is that there seems to be no relationship between fees charged and the actual sale of material extracted by persons who are allowed to remove fill. This has been noted by the Auditor General, although in the Government Minute there is no indication that the Government was prepared to look into this particular aspect of things that would bring more revenue to the country.

Another thing that was found not to be the very best, as far as dredging is concerned, is the swapping of land for the dredging of marl to pay royalty debts. There needs to be emphasis made that when Government, like any other entity, enters into a contract it is expected to abide by that contract as should the other entity. If money is supposed to be paid, then money should be paid, particularly when the persons who extract the marl or fill material can sell it for a profit. They earn cash, they do not earn land. Why should the Government resort to getting land instead of cash? The Government badly needs cash to carry on its operations for the whole country.

Another thing that has clearly emerged from the matter of dredging is that dredging has gone on for a long time too loosely. Most persons and companies do as they see fit, with no accurate check on how deeply they have dredged; and, certainly, there has been poor surveying of how much marl has been taken. In fact, the Auditor General noted that no one really knows how much Government should really be receiving as fees.

The Public Accounts Committee noted that, and I quote: "The Committee finds it unacceptable that licensees fail to provide timely reports of quantities extracted. This is a major loophole which prevents assessment of royalties payable.

"A further weakness is that surveyors who are hired to measure quantities dredged report to the licensee rather than to Government." It is clear (or it should be clear) that there is a great necessity to have in place proper means by which Government can know how much of the people's marl is being taken by entities which receive licences, and that the people receive the fees that should be paid via the Government.

The Public Accounts Committee also made note, and I quote: "Another worrying issue which concerned the Committee was the frequency with which licensees ignored the financial obligations of their dredging licences..." Similar comments are also made in the Public Accounts Committee's Report; "...and there seems to be little or no penalties for so doing." The Auditor General noted one of the deficiencies as, and I quote: "...the absence of appropriate debt recovery action."

I believe the majority of people in this country are concerned about the environment and what dredging does to it. The very least that can be done is for the Government to collect fees that are prescribed for dredging.

In the last Meeting of the House I brought a Motion, which was seconded by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, asking that Government in its own right commission an environmental impact study on dredging (for which Government would pay, and not any prospective dredger). If the findings showed that more dredging could be done within the North Sound (and I would certainly say any other areas as well where there may be marl) that Government extract that marl by hiring persons in that field, and collect the marl over which it would have control. Thus, Government would not be buying at the rates that marl is being sold by the people who extract it. The cost to Government would be that of having it dredged. If there were quantities that were in excess of the Government's need, then they could sell it and that would be additional revenue.

That Motion - as is usual for many motions which I bring to this House - was not accepted.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, may I hear the point of order?

POINT OF ORDER (Relevance)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The Member is discussing a Motion that he brought to this House which was debated and dealt with. The Motion before the House now really deals with the Report of the Public Accounts Committee on the Auditor General's Report. While the Auditor General's Report deals with dredging, it is very specific. It is not a general matter. I do not know how much longer the Member can go on, but I would ask that you look into the relevance.

The Speaker: In referring to Standing Order 35(2), it clearly says, "It is out of order to attempt to revive in any debate a matter or reconsider any specific question upon which the House has come to a conclu- sion during the current session..." I do not think that he is attempting to ask for it to be reconsidered. He has just mentioned it in passing, I hope. He should realise that a matter on which a decision of the House has been reached cannot be reconsidered, except on a substantive motion of rescission. The Member has made a comment, and I will now ask him to continue without further reference to the previous motion.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, the Public Accounts Committee Report says this on page 9: "The Committee recommends the following:- (a) there should be a thorough independent review of all aspects of marl dredging ." This falls directly in line with the comment that I made about a motion - certainly not one I wish to resurrect because that would be quite impossible. The point is that it is extremely necessary for such a study to be done. Then the Government claims, on page 12 of the Government Minute, "In 1995, the Government decided that a comprehensive Environmental Impact Study should be conducted on dredging in the North Sound by Government approved consultants." My, my.

Now, if they had decided to do that from 1995, why was it so difficult in 1996 to accept that this would be done? To not do so, of course, would not be in keeping with the Government-loaded Public Accounts Committee - on which there is no Member from the Opposition. Additionally, the persons on the Public Accounts Committee who examine the financial position of the country on behalf of the Legislative Assembly are, and I quote: "Mr. John D. Jefferson, MLA; Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks, MLA; Mrs. Berna Murphy, MLA; and Mrs. Edna Moyle, MLA." The Government claims that it is appointing such a review and that "...the Protection and Conservation Unit of the Department of Environment is currently finalising the terms of reference of the study along with the required qualifications for the consultants." Yet from 1995 to now we have not heard about any progress made by Government in getting this underway. But we hear of studies in various other areas, certainly none of which impacts on the environment as dredging does.

In the Government Minute it is claimed that with the "...outcome of the study, the Government will be in a position to develop and adopt a comprehensive set of dredging guidelines and, if necessary, legislation." How could legislation not be necessary? Why would we want to continue in a situation where, behind closed doors, five elected politicians decide whether there will be dredging or not; to what extent, and how much will be charged for it? There should be legislation, because if there was, at least it should be followed and we would not act at the whims and fancies of persons on Executive Council.

Why have the studies not been done? Why has legislation not been drafted? If one takes into account what has happened since this time, then, indeed, it seems that the Government is not moving too speedily, except to give more approvals for dredging .

The Government has an obligation to this country regarding this very important matter. It is not sufficient to say that the Protection and Conservation Unit is undermanned and that there is insufficient staff to check regularly to see how much marl is being extracted. Just as persons are appointed to jobs in other areas, if there is a manpower shortage, then persons should be employed to fill the need.

The Public Accounts Committee in (c) of their recommendations said: "The existing Marine Conservation Laws should be extended to encompass dredging . The Department of Environment should be given statutory backing for its role of protecting the marine environment." It also makes a note in (d), "The cost of environmental monitoring should be passed on to licensees." I wonder if what is being said quite regularly - about the Government temporarily halting dredging while it hopes to be re-elected, and then dredging will come to the forefront and things will be hog-wild again - is true. If not, this Environment Impact Study would now be underway.

Also covered in the Auditor General's Report is the matter of pre-school grants. In recent times there have been many claims by the Government, and by the Minister for Education on behalf of Government, about all the grants that have been given to schools, private and otherwise. This has come about, it is claimed, because the last Government decided on recommendation through an Education Study to phase out the reception classes in the Primary School s effective with the 1992/93 academic year.

There have been up to 210 applications for 1995 to 1996, 140 of which have been approved. The Public Accounts Committee arrived at some conclusions as follows: "(1) Detailed rules and procedures for operating the pre-school scheme were not fully developed by the Education Department, which was not properly resourced to administer this programme." I wonder if that has come about since this report? If not, it certainly should, and the parents, the schools, and the public should know what the procedure is regarding this particular exercise when parents seek assistance for schooling their children at pre-school.

According to the Public Accounts Committee report, these budgets have been overspent in 1993 and in 1994. This is an ongoing condition which affects the lives of children; children who, it is said, are the country's greatest resource. It is required by law that the children should attend pre-school. Government should play its part in seeing that this particular matter is dealt with in a way that is consistent with good money management and provide the assistance to those who are in need.

An interesting note in the Public Accounts Committee's report is, and I quote: "One fundamental weakness of the scheme was the failure of the Education Department to obtain suitable proof of applicant's income." There seems to have been large sums of money paid out to persons who were in the higher income brackets than really could have been justified. The Government claims that this has changed, and yet it has not been corrected. Just how it is determined (by how much, and which schools will benefit) I certainly wonder. Are there any clear guidelines on this particular aspect?

This needs to be addressed, which would mean there would not be claims and counterclaims in the newspaper about Government grants, which schools and how many children benefit. What I think it points to more than anything else is the fact that the Government has, over the past three-and-a-half years, failed to set proper guidelines to handle this particularly important matter.

The Auditor General made a point on the question of income, and I quote: "The income of 52 applicants who are either civil servants or spouses of civil servants were checked against Government's payroll records. The Audit Office found that 15 persons under-declared their invoice by a material amount. Fee assistance provided to these applicants for 1994/1995 amounted to $37,200.50.

"It was assessed by the Audit Office that had the correct income been disclosed, at least nine of these grants involving assistance totalling $24,000 would have been disallowed in full or in part."

We are talking about money, and its importance in being available, in this case for pre-school grants. But we are also talking about money that could, and should, be saved where it is incorrect to pay these particular amounts.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Member take a suspension at this time?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.39 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.20 PM

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman continuing the debate.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, when we took the suspension I was commenting on pre-school grants. Overall, I was making the point that there are substantial amounts of money paid to various schools. In fact, in a question answered by the Minister for Education during this meeting of the Legislative Assembly, the total amount for pre-school assistance for 1995 was $425,668.00. The significance of that is that this amount is more than likely to increase as fees increase and things become more costly. Of course, there are more children coming into the system for the Government to assist.

Great importance should be attached to what was pointed out in the Public Accounts Committee, and also to the Auditor General's Report, in addition to what I quoted earlier. One of the things stated in the Auditor General's Report is, and I quote: "No formal rules or guidelines to regulate the operation of the scheme were ever prepared by the department. Another important weakness is the absence of any form of independent check or verification of monthly income and expenses reported by applicants. In the opinion of the Audit Office, this weakness has undermined the basic foundation of the scheme." Very straightforward, strong language in terms of what is happening in this particular area.

I quote again where the Auditor General says: "Figure 3.3 shows gross income levels disclosed by successful applicants by bands. Figures include ten unemployed persons and two referrals from Social Services. Four applicants who did not provide details of income and expenses also received full assistance. No upper limit of eligibility was placed on earnings, some 78 per cent of recipients reported annual income levels below $30,000, which would suggest that most of the 1994/95 expenditure incurred has been directed to middle- to low-income parents." (page 60).

He also made this comment: "The Audit Office noted that partial assistance was provided in a significant number of cases in 1993/94. However in 1994/95 partial assistance was provided in only 12 out of 183 cases (6.5%). The Audit Office considered it significant that no application submitted in 1994/95 on behalf of an eligible child was rejected for any reason. The Department later disclosed that present policy was not to reject any applications on behalf of eligible children solely on financial grounds." Now, that strikes me as dangerous financial management. We are talking about payment of Government's money, and what other reasons would the Government have to refuse the payment of money except on financial grounds? If parents could not afford the money, then, of course, the Government would pay - that would be the main reason for any payment.

Interestingly, in the chart in the Auditor General's Report it shows that persons in the income band of $80,000 to $90,000 had received assistance for pre-school; those with income of $60,000 to $70,000 had received assistance; those with $50,000 to $60,000 had received assistance. Significant, too, is that during the interviewing process of an applicant, according to the Auditor General, "However no written record of interviews with applicants has been kept, although the Education Department confirms that interviews took place."

"The Audit Office also located several cases where more than one application form had been submitted by an applicant. In these cases the objective appeared to adjust the applicant's initial financial position to one less favourable which would attract financial assistance."

What is of great significance is that Government needs to help in certain cases, and in certain cases it cannot be legally, factually, and truthfully justified that assistance is necessary. A policy where no application was refused, based on financial grounds only, is surely a policy that is open to major abuse.

The Public Accounts Committee makes certain recommendations, and in (a) it says: "...greater media publicity about pre-school financial assistance should be provided to the general public;". This only comes out largely when questions are asked here in the Legislative Assembly. I have not seen where any major efforts were made through the media (newspaper or otherwise) to better inform the public. I think that is necessary, and I do agree with the recommendation.

The other recommendation is: "The Education Department should investigate thoroughly the reason for the low pre-school attendance statistics at certain Government Primary Schools;". There were considerable disparities found between the students who are going to the Government schools who had not attended pre-schools versus those who were attending private schools. Recommendation (c): "The basis on which financial assistance is presently granted to parents should be reviewed. Scheme guidelines should be clear and easily understood by applicants, operationally sound and sufficiently robust to withstand external scrutiny." (page 14). It seems that those are good recommendations as far as I can tell.

The Government made an effort to be somewhat facetious in its Minute, and I quote: "The Public Accounts Committee cannot expect professional teaching staff to be qualified credit managers, but if the Finance Committee will provide a post for a Fellow of the Institute of Credit Management, or a comparably qualified person, then these high standards can be met." I think that is a facetious statement, Madam Speaker, when we are talking about half of a million dollars worth of public funds going into this particular area. I believe they are to be treated much more seriously than the recommendations of the Public Accounts Committee.

We are now into 1996, and we understand that the numbers have risen. Therefore, the need is greater to monitor what is happening with grants to schools, particularly with the regular feature now in the media where the Minister for Education is claiming the generosity of Government in giving money to pre-schools and private schools, and saying that money is given to some pre-schools, when these pre-schools are saying that is not the case. I think it is time to get away from the personality one-upmanship in politics and get down to some hard decisions as to financial management in this area.

Prior to today I covered all of the major areas in the Auditor General's Report that I think have widespread bearing on the Government's financial management. The only other area that is still outstanding and ongoing is that of the Health Services. It is being pointed out by the Auditor General that there needs to be serious changes made in spending on Advance Accounts into the millions of dollars for overseas medical fees. He states that generally there needs to be improvement in the accounting system at the Hospital, particularly where there is an ongoing 30-million-dollar hospital in the works - money spent in stopping one and starting another - and the fact that we know that the normal fashion of having contracts signed is no longer in vogue. There needs to be great priority and seriousness given to Government's financial management. I think that is what has come out of the Auditor General's Report. There are some good recommendations contained in the Public Accounts Committee's Report - while it left out comments on those matters that affect its Government. I think we can all be guided by this in this particular area of Government.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I rise to comment on Private Member's Motion No. 3/96 which reads: "BE IT RESOLVED that this House now debate the report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands' Government for the year ended 31st December, 1994 together with the Government Minute, subsequent to it having been laid on the Table of this Honourable House on the 18th day of March, 1996."

Earlier this year in my response to Private Member's Motion No. 1/96 it was pointed out that in regard to the accumulated arrears of $12.5 million, as set out in the Auditor General's Report, only $3.6 million related to the year 1994, and the balance represented an accumulation of arrears going back to early 1980s. I also gave a breakdown of this showing the spread of this sum of money, and also the efforts that were being made to ensure what could be collected of that portion deemed to be collectable.

The Debt Collection Unit we have spoken about in this Honourable House on many occasions is now in place and it is doing a very good job. Most of the outstanding debts that are collectable are now being addressed. Notices are being sent out by the Treasury Department and assistance is now being rendered to departments wherever such is sought. We are hoping in time to address the full scope of the arrears of this $12.5 million. Once that is behind us we are hoping that we will not find ourselves in the position as reported by the Auditor General in his Report as at the 31st December, 1994. But, as I mentioned earlier, this is an accumulated-arrears position.

Interestingly, when I provided my response to Private Member's Motion No. 1/96, it was pointed out that quite a substantial portion of that sum was made up of amounts that were overstated by controlling officers. I gave some examples, whereby if we took the Customs Department import duty which was stated as being $1,127,339 that was overstated by $468,645. Also included in the remaining sum of $658,694 was an amount of $180,000 representing inter departmental transfers. It was further pointed out that of this reduced balance $306,100 was collected, leaving a balance of $172,594 to be addressed during the course of 1996.

It was also pointed out that the sum shown as owed for tourist accommodation taxes was $1,081,467; of this sum only $620,704 applied to 1994. The remaining balance of approximately $1,019,000 was made up of $587,000 due from the past owners of the Ramada Treasure Island Hotel (and this was a sum accumulated between the period of 1986 through 1989), and $411,000 due from Hospitality World - and I should point out that negotiations are underway to put an agreement in place whereby the balance will be paid off. This has been spearheaded by the Manager of First Cayman Bank. I will give him credit on behalf of the Government for coming forward with a workable approach that will resolve this issue.

I also pointed out that $75,000 was due from the past owners of the Cayman Kai Resort. That establishment has long since been in liquidation and the amount at the time was reported to us as being uncollectable. When we look at the $12.5 million, I think enough has been said on it to suggest that this is not money that was collectable. What we need to do (and efforts are under way to achieve this) is to factor out those amounts that are uncollectable from that sum and seek the necessary approval in Finance Committee for those sums to be written off. We have commenced this exercise by looking at the outstanding hospital fees. An exercise has been done by the Director of Internal Audit and a report has been submitted to the Ministry. Once that report is accepted the necessary approval will then be sought for those amounts deemed to be uncollectable to be written off.

I think it would also be useful if I were to read the specific response of the Government as set out in the Government Minute on the Auditor General's Report in relation to these outstanding arrears. Madam Speaker, I quote: "The Government wishes to reassure this Honourable House that it is firmly committed to taking the necessary corrective action to reduce arrears of revenue and will take a hard line with outstanding debts. Wherever possible this may involve the discontinuation of Government services to delinquent debtors.

"Notwithstanding this commitment, however, it is important to recognise that some debts which make up the $12.5 Million reported in the Government Accounts may well prove in practice to be irrecoverable... As outlined in the Financial Secretary's response to Private Member's Motion 1/96, this sum includes certain amounts which have been outstanding since the early 1980s and which have proven to date to be uncollectable.

"In addition, the various amounts comprising this sum as provided by the various departments were, in many instances overstated and in the majority of cases, the amounts advised could not be corroborated by documentary evidence. In the absence of proper documentation, it is the view of the Government that the amount due and likely to be collectable could be in the region of $6 to $7 million.

"Against this background, the Government will undertake the following actions:-

- (a) strengthen the organisational structure and the staffing of the Treasury and the other departments in order to assist Controlling Officers to properly record debts, collect current debts, and deal with the backlog of old debts;

"In addressing this issue, the first task of the new Debt Collection Unit of the Treasury will be to carry out a thorough review of all amounts owing to ensure that such debts are properly recorded, valid and collectable. Those amounts deemed to be uncollectable, will be immediately recommended to Finance Committee for write-off. However, once the amounts stated as outstanding by the various departments can be substantiated, every effort will be made to collect these monies.

- (b) improve existing financial systems and procedures so that revenue is collected efficiently and on a current basis through the implementation of an integrated financial information system known as IFHRIS which, inter alia, electronically records and tracks debts, the details of which have been made known to this House during this Meeting;
- (c) amend existing legislation in a number of areas to improve the position of the Government vis a vis outstanding debts in the event of liquidation and bankruptcy of its debtors; and
- (d) utilise a local firm of attorneys and/or debt collection agency to assist with the debt collection process."

I am following the closing remarks of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman who made the observation as recorded by the Auditor General as to the need for sound fiscal management. That has never escaped me as Financial Secretary, or escaped this Government or the past Government under which I worked as Financial Secretary. At no point in time can I recall any situation where a deliberate attempt has ever been made to practise financial imprudence. As resources are becoming scarce and demands are growing against those resources, it calls for greater management of those resources in a prudent manner.

We have seen over the years where practises have evolved which require that certain methodologies be changed. For example, when we put in place the Public Finance and Audit Law in 1985. At that time it was the general view of the region and those who have since looked at our Public Finance and Audit Law, and the Financial and Stores Regulations, that they constituted state-of-the-art financial procedures. In 1993 a consultant, Mr. Coddington, engaged by the United Kingdom Government to review financial procedures in the Dependent Territories came to the Cayman Islands. He looked at what we had in place, and today our system has been recommended for implementation in the other four Dependent Territories.

I should also mention that a Review Team Chaired by the Deputy Financial Secretary, including senior Heads of Departments and representatives from the Auditor General's Department, has been formed into a committee to carry out a review of the existing Public Finance and Audit Law, and also to look at the Financial and Stores Regulations. We sought to recruit a consultant, and the Deputy Financial Secretary, together with the Government's United Kingdom representative, Mr. Thomas Russell, recently interviewed several candidates. The wife of the candidate of first choice will be going into the hospital about this time for an operation. As a result of that he cannot take up this position. We recently got in touch with Mr. Russell regarding this matter and efforts are underway at this time to recruit someone who, hopefully, will get the job done.

No attempt is being made to take the Government's financial position lightly. Like the Auditor General and Honourable Members in this House, we are all concerned that the finances of Government are properly managed. In this regard, the Treasury is made to provide monthly reports on the financial position. These reports are normally submitted to my office and are shared with Members of Executive Council. This is why, when we have a meeting of Finance Committee (such as we did in May) and we come to this House, the relevant financial information can be shared with Honourable Members of the House.

One of the things that should be borne in mind, however, and it is often suggested that the Budget should be "carved in stone", that amounts set out in the Budget should not be subject to change - I would believe, to a given extent, this would be somewhat unrealistic. When we look at the budget process, for example the year 1996, that would have commenced around March or April where controlling officers would be asked to state their requirements for the year 1996 as best as they know how. Meetings would be ongoing with those controlling officers through the end of June, July, or August. At this time they would have quantified their needs and those needs would have been submitted to the Financial Secretary's Office or to the Budget Unit.

When we quantified the requirements for the year 1996, we had a Budget in excess of $300 million. If that were to be allowed, the Government would have to look for new revenue measures in order to fund that level of requirement. The view was therefore taken that there was a necessity to cut back as much as possible in order to bring the resources in line with the demands. This is why we have a Budget today approximating $202 million out of which over $2 million will be funded from loan funds. It is suggesting that we are looking at approximately $176,000,000 from local revenue coming in. This is why when meetings of Finance Committee are held, like the one in May, often times the projects set out in the agenda are not new projects and they are not projects that were not presented during the Budget session for consideration. It is a question of balancing the matching demands with resources.

As I mentioned earlier, if all of those projects were considered and brought to this Honourable House, and Members were presented with a Budget for over $300 million knowing that existing revenue sources in place could only support $174 million, and looking in terms of what would seem to be a prudent limit on borrowing, let us say for example, that prudent limit (given the existing Public Debt) was deemed to be $20 million; that would have taken the resources available up to approximately $196 million, which means that the additional sum of money would have to be raised from Local Revenue. The other alternative would be deficit financing, or creating an overdraft against which there would not be the necessary approval because we do not know where the money would be coming from before proceeding with expenditure.

I remember the Mail Sorting Centre being put forward by the Public Works Department. But as a responsible Financial Secretary, I could not bring a Budget to this Honourable House totalling over $300 million on behalf of the Government and say to Members of this House, "Now, we have only $176 million to fund all these requirements, where are we going to get the rest of money?" If we consider the limited revenue sources that we have and the impact that would be created in terms of trying to introduce new revenue measures, we would be talking about over 50% increase for the average householder.

Notwithstanding that, I will not say that some of the points that have been raised by the Auditor General or the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman should not be taken into account. All of us are striving for the same goal, that is, prudent fiscal management. We want to ensure that we do not incur a situation of indebtedness that becomes an unbearable burden to future generations or to ourselves. As a result of that, we have to look very carefully at what we are doing.

A lot has been said about the arrears position, but we should look at that and the circumstances that would have given rise to it, even taking into account the elements of the overseas medical assistance. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman mentioned what the Auditor General said about the thousands of dollars in debt being incurred by various persons. For example, take someone becoming ill and having to be sent overseas for medical treatment. It starts at a given point in time and, if we were to take a time line and say starting at point "A", this person will go and probably have to spend one, two or three weeks. A further trip may be required and several others. So when it gets to the point where it is said that someone owes $200,000 or $300,000. This is not for a one-off treatment. We are talking about treatment over a protracted period of time.

In this regard, the Honourable Minister for Health is now working on the National Insurance Scheme, and he will be expanding on this. This is in an attempt to try and alleviate this burdensome cost, because sickness does not give notice, Madam Speaker, when it is coming upon anyone. We are hoping that this will be in place in order to alleviate that situation.

When we look at where we are - and I heard on the news this morning about one country that is into a debt crisis situation. At this point in time the International Monetary Fund is being blamed for having introduced onerous and burdensome measures. Every one of us is trying to get to that point where we do not have external organisations coming in and dictating what our fiscal policies should be.

Planning is very important. In this regard it was mentioned earlier that a Medium-term Development Plan had been prepared and submitted to be reviewed by the Government. While it has not been tabled in this Honourable House, it has been broken down to a given extent (where possible) and implemented through the Budget process.

We know what the ideal situation is. We know what we are striving for, and collectively by pooling our wisdom and our ideas we will get there. When we look at the Budget process, I, myself, can find fault with it. Any Member in this House can find fault with it, this includes Ministers of Government and Members of Government. For example, when I take up the budget document... and I noticed recently the Fourth Elected Member for George Town having difficulty with it, in that he thought sums were not provided in 1996 whereby the sum previous to 1996 was classified to be funded by Local Revenue and funds for 1996 are under the classification for Local Loans. What we should really have in place is a capital development fund where a decision is taken that, for example, a given percentage of General Revenue is going to be put into that fund. If borrowings are to be made, it will go into that fund based on needs. So we will not have the case where we have an education project costing $3 million, for example, and $1 million out of that will be funded by Local Revenue and is put under Head 51. Let us say, for example, the other element of it is to be funded by Local Loans and that is put under Head 52.

We are hoping that the Budget document will be brought together in an integrated process. This is what we are hoping will emerge from this financial review that is being undertaken; where the project will be set out, the life of the project will be given, the costing of it will be given; then the financing from it will be set out; how much will be coming from Local Revenue, how much will be coming from Local Loans.

We know all of these things to be the ideal and we are striving towards all of them. I would like for Members of this Honourable House and members of the community to note that ideas for improvements are always welcome. We are doing our best, we will continue to do our best, and as far as I am concerned I have not seen evidence of reckless disregard for the use of resources. What I gleaned from everything that has been said is that we should try to improve the methodologies of how we look at managing the resources that we have. So that we can optimise the benefits to be derived.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: At this time proceedings will be suspended until 2.30 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.03 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 3.03 PM

[Hon. Edna M. Moyle, JP, Deputy Speaker, in the Chair]

The Deputy Speaker: Please be seated.

The debate on the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report continues.

The Third Elected member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker, and it is nice to see you in the Chair.

I rise to offer my contribution regarding Private Member's Motion No. 3/96. Earlier this morning the previous speaker mentioned the selection of the Public Accounts Committee. I remember distinctly the selection to appoint members to serve. We did not know that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman was going to pose as Opposition until he announced it the day after the Committee had been selected. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town was part of the National Team, but did not volunteer to serve on the Public Accounts Committee as he was the previous chairman from 1988 to 1992. I guess he was waiting to serve as a minister.

However, the points that were mentioned in the Auditor General's Report were points we also mentioned in the Public Accounts Committee's Report. So it goes to prove that even though we are the Government, as the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman claims, those points were brought out. We are there as watchdogs for the Government's accounts and are to be impartial.

I feel that the Public Accounts Committee Members were very impartial in bringing out the points raised by the Auditor General and we made recommendations on them. The area of the Debt Collection is still a major concern for all of us - Government, Opposition and National Team. Until the public changes its attitude that 'it is the Government and Government can afford it,' then there will always be large sums of money to be collected by the Government. Unfortunately, this is a very poor attitude and a misconception. Nothing is free. Someone has to pay for it, whether it is medical bills or garbage fees, which also has a very high amount outstanding to the Government.

I believe with all of the outstanding debts, there are certain debts that should be written off. But any business has "X" amount of dollars that have to be written off annually, at least according to my private business. There are certain debts that have to be written off. Government probably has to do the same. However, because of the amount of debts that have to be written off by the Government, it has to be determined by the length of time it has been outstanding and the chances of collecting it.

The Statutory Authority that was appointed to collect outstanding overseas medical fees has been disbanded. That was a good idea. Persons do not pay these bills. Sometimes it is not that they do not want to pay, they just do not have the means to pay. The Government then has to pick up that responsibility. I am sure that the introduction of National Health Insurance will eliminate some of the problems that the Government faces with outstanding bills.

In listening to other speakers debating the Auditor General's Report, I have one point that I would like to share. We are the Elected Representatives who vote the funds, then it is up to the civil servants to use those funds in the way we appropriated them. About the Government managing the money: We, as Elected Representatives, do not manage those funds. It is left to the Permanent Secretaries and other civil servants down the line. In the debate this morning, speakers mentioned "the Government," and "poor management of funds." That is not the elected representatives. This is why we have a Public Accounts Committee to go over and make sure that the people who are managing those funds are doing it to the best of their abilities. In the Public Accounts Committee's Report there were recommendations, and I hope the Government will take up those recommendations.

Regarding the radio and television fees, there is the big question as to how much is to be paid to the Government. However, that contract was written before the National Team Government took office. Therefore, that must have been another "sweetheart deal" that Mr. Linford Pierson talked about that his Government was capable of doing.

In the Losses and Waivers it talks about the Westin Hotel getting a rebate on duty concession. When we took over, there were no large projects slated, and we decided that in order to enhance and get development going, this reduction would take place.

I heard the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman speaking about a "sweetheart deal," and that he would provide more information. I would like to challenge that Member: If he does not have proper information, then do not get up on the floor of this House and talk about a sweetheart deal that he will provide information for at a later date.

The dredging in the North Sound. The impact study to be done by the Government was questioned. In His Excellency's Throne Speech of this year, he said that there will be no further dredging in the North Sound, therefore no impact study should be done. However, there are recommendations made by the Public Accounts Committee in determining and following through with dredging contracts to make sure all the royalties are collected. Again, this goes back to the various departments. If there is a problem, then it should be taken to the Ministry responsible, which, again, the Permanent Secretaries are responsible for passing them to the Minister. The Ministers have a lot of responsibilities and can only take care of problems if they are brought to their attention. That is why they have Permanent Secretaries.

One of the things that the Auditor General mentioned in his report was that he would recommend that the Public Accounts Committee have a stand-alone report. Now when the Public Accounts Committee receives the Auditor General's Report it is very difficult because it is usually September when it is received and the Public Accounts Committee spends a very long time reviewing this report, in coming up with the Public Accounts Committee Report. It is very time consuming. The reason is that the accounts from the various departments are not available and it takes the Auditor General a very long time to go through and audit these reports.

If we were to have more than one report, then it would also be very time-consuming for the Public Accounts Committee as well. However, most audits are done on a yearly basis. We did not recommend the stand-alone report, and I am sure that Government will look at it. But I hope that they will not consider a stand-alone report as recommended on page 76 of the Auditor General's Report.

Regarding the Standing Public Accounts Committee on the Report of the Auditor General on the Audited Accounts laid on the Table of this Honourable House, I feel that the Members of the Public Accounts Committee did a very good job in being impartial while pointing out to the Government things that need to be corrected. Hopefully, they will take what we have recommended and work with them. As a matter of fact, the Honourable Financial Secretary in his contribution mentioned that the Debt Collection Unit was up and functioning. I know of various people who have received statements for outstanding bills owed to the Government.

I cannot support what the Mover of this Private Member's Motion has said in his debate. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

(pause)

The Deputy Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is so good to be able to stand in this Honourable House and know, as does the public of the Cayman Islands, that despite what has been said here about debt and economy and that sort of matter... the economy of this country has never been better. If anyone cannot recognise that business is good, it is probably because they do not have any business. So you cannot expect the Opposition Members to even recognise whether the economy is good or bad. Everyone in this country knows that the economy is good because the National Team Government, despite all the negative and backward approaches of the Opposition (and when I say that, I include the opposition in the public, not just in this Honourable House) who have tried so hard to keep down the economy and to destroy it.

The Government of this country and the National Team have within it capable, experienced Members who are capable of running a country, and who have proven that over the years. The public has to take a lot of the rhetoric and criticism that comes from the three Opposition Members of this Honourable House, who have really never sat in a Government and have never had the responsibility of running a country, with a grain of salt. It is a heavy burden, but the proof of the pudding is very clearly in the results of the economy of this country. The economy is good, and therefore there is nothing that the three Opposition Members can put up that can affect that.

I should point out that those Honourable Members contributed nothing to the economy reaching the boom that it is in. So when the electorate of this country, with this vibrant economy, goes to the polls, they should always remember that it was the National Team which has put this country where it is and took it out of the financial disaster that it was in when we took over four years ago.

No matter what they may attempt to say, there are no other politicians out there who are attempting to run who have the ability to run this country - most of them do not have the ability to run their own business. Some of them do not even have a business of their own. If they cannot help themselves, they cannot help others. In fact, Team Cayman is made up of several members who are retired, some unemployed, none of them, absolutely none, have any experience in Government.

POINT OF ORDER
(Relevance)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Deputy Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town, may I hear the point of order?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, the point of relevance. Is the Honourable Minister discussing the Report of the Auditor General and the Public Accounts Committee and the debate put down by the Mover, or is he discussing the composition of Team Cayman?

The Deputy Speaker: Honourable Member, I am certain that the Honourable Minister is leading up to his debate on the Public Accounts Committee's Report as we have strayed pretty far from the debate on the relevant issue before us.

Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

One of the several important matters debated at length by that Honourable Member's leader, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, dealt with the chapters in this report that deal with the economy, the public debt, the revenue collection. Surely, I have every right to deal with these matters in the Auditor General's Report. The problem is that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town does not like to hear the truth. The truth of the matter is that the debts of this country have been kept down, its revenue has been increased, because the Government and the National Team are made up of people who are capable of running this country and who have proven that they are capable of putting this country in an economic boom.

No matter what can be said, anyone who says this country is not in an economic boom, and that business is not good, then they have no business themselves, so they would not know.

When we take a look at some of the areas that have been dealt with we realise that a lot of the arguments put forward in relation to the fact that there is not sufficient planning is all the height of nonsense. The proof of the pudding is in the eating. The economy is good. What the National Team and the Honourable Financial Secretary have done has worked. So what is the use of trying to criticise and let the public believe that the times are not good? The dilemma that the Opposition is in is that they do not know how to make an economy good. We have proven it, and therefore they remain in economic darkness.

The question of the public debt set out in paragraph 8 of the Auditor General's Report of 1994 is debt that the National Team's Government inherited from the colleagues of the present Opposition. The debt is made up of many years of previous debt. I would therefore like to go back and show how this is structured.

When the country was taken over four years ago, we need to look at what the debt was then because that debt was passed on to the National Team's Government. I would like to refer to pages 2, 4, and 5 of the 1992 Report of the Auditor General, because the Opposition is trying to let the public believe that their colleagues, Mr. Linford Pierson and Mr. Ezzard Miller (who were put out of office four years ago) had some ability. Let us look at where the country had reached in 1992.

The Auditor General (at paragraph 4 on page 2 of the 1992 Report) said this: "It will be observed from Table 1 that Government's overall financial position, excluding transactions undertaken on behalf of Statutory Authorities, deteriorated further in 1992, continuing the trend established in 1990." The economy of this country deteriorated every year from 1990 straight through to 1992. These are not my words, these are the words of the Auditor General. No one can dispute that fact. I would like to stress what he has said: "That Government's overall financial position deteriorated further in 1992, continuing the trend established in 1990."

The report goes on to say on page 4: "The annual deficit before financing increased from $12,973 million to $16,877 million." So they had a deficit in 1991 of $12.973 million, and that deficit increased to $16.87 million in 1992. This is important. We are now dealing with deficits. It goes on to say, "Local revenues were insufficient to cover recurrent expenditures and the recurrent account moved from a 1991 surplus of $1.854 million to a deficit of $3.624 million..." Financial deterioration! The country was in a bankrupt position, and I am going to prove that relating to the debt as raised in the 1994 accounts and referred to here. I read on: "The accumulated deficit on recurrent and capital accounts since 1990, after crediting loan proceeds, exceeds $30 million." The country had lost $30 million in less than three years. The Auditor General went on to say, "...the Surplus and Deficit Account recorded an accumulated deficit of $7 million at year end 1992." This is significant, and I will show from the accounts in relation to what has been repaid on the loans on the public debts that were left during our time, and the fact that we contributed in the area of $55 million, including this year's estimates from Recurrent Revenue to Capital. That is profit.

The Auditor General goes on to say, "Government expenditure has been increasing at a faster rate than local revenue since 1990 - an annualised rate of 14.5%..." This is clear. The debt that we were left with... the Auditor General said that the expenditure was increasing more rapidly since 1990. It is important to appreciate that when the Government before that, the 1984 to 1988 Government which included very capable men such as Sir Vassel Johnson and Capt. Charles Kirkconnell - good businessmen who actually had businesses and had been involved in running big businesses - they left money. The deterioration came a year after their budget from that previous Government had been put through.

The Auditor General goes on to say, "Above line cash outflow was $14.91 million as against $1.263 million in 1991, placing strain on Government's cash balances. Total above line cash outflows since 1990 exceeded $30 million." That is frightening. If these are the colleagues who are running for the Government in this country along with the three Opposition Members in here, then the good Lord help this country. With a record like this, they spent $30 million more dollars between 1990 and 1992 than they took in. This is the Report of the Auditor General that has been laid on the Table of this House. No one can dispute it.

The Auditor General in the 1992 Report goes on to say, "A transfer of $3.5 million from the General Reserves, combined with $5.2 million of favourable cash flow below the line, limited net cash outflow to $6.185 million for the year." Then he goes on to say, "Government's cash balances, which had stood at $13 million at the beginning of 1990, were exhausted by year end 1992." They were broke! The country had been brought to its knees.

The Auditor General goes on to say, "During the year it was necessary to increase Government's overdraft facility to $9 million. At year end 1992 Government's net assets were only $3.16 million." Does the country realise what that means? The Auditor General said that at year's end 1992 Government's net assets were only $3.16 million, down from almost $30 million in 1990. The country had been striped of its cash, striped of its assets, and it was broke. I am not saying this, Madam Speaker. Hopefully the Press, if they do not have this Auditor General's Report of 1992, will either pick one up, or I will be happy to give them a copy.

What is very clear is that the public debt that we inherited, at least $30 million of it was incurred between the years 1990 and 1992. There is this talk about the pension contributions. Listen to this, the Auditor General reporting on the last Government in 1992 said, "The Pension Contribution Reserve (1991: $3,373,300)...," and I know that we had one Government Member on the floor of this House who tried to take that and put it into the General Reserves when there were no General Reserves at the time. So the hard facts that are set out in the 1992 Auditor General's Report are that this country lost $30 million and had a reversed cash flow of $30 million between 1990 and 1992. That is why the country was in an economic recession.

If the public puts Mr. Ezzard Miller and Mr. Linford Pierson back, they will strip this country of the little cash that we have been able to build up.

The previous Government had a negative cash flow (or losses) of $30 million. It is not me who is saying this, this is the Auditor General in 1992. He talks about the deterioration of the finances of the country. I submit, Madam Speaker, that it was a financial disaster. Added to that, we must not forget - because Cayman Airways is referred to in this 1994 Auditor General's Report - that during that same time there were losses in Cayman Airways in two and a half years of $34.4 million. The country was basically stripped of all cash; it had no credit, because we know that that Government could not raise the $20 million loan for Cayman Airways Limited and now we hear nonsense about the country not being in a good position.

Let me just tell Honourable Members where we are now, because I have laid this on the Table of this Honourable House and it is signed by Mr. Mason, the Accountant General. It states: "The financial information 1993, 1994 and 1995, the contribution of Government Recurrent Revenues to Capital Expenditure over the past three years is as follows:- 1993, $11,176,996; 1994, $13,944,551; 1995, $16,826,595." A total of $41,948,132. A positive cash flow - a profit. This is like taking $41.9 million out of your wage as an individual and putting it into capital expenditure such as a house. This is unheard of, because during the period of the last Government they did not make enough money, as the Auditor General said, to even pay for their recurrent expenditure. On top of that, they put $20 million in taxes on the country which, when you multiply it, was not the $10 million put on the first year, but remember that $10 million continued through year two, and year three. Then they added a further $10 million to that. Even raising the $40 million in taxes over the three years, the country still had a negative cash flow of over $30 million.

Today, we have paid back about $20 million on the past Government's debt and we have only borrowed $8.5 million until this $10 million that is now before the House.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town talks about "no planning." Look at what his contemporary, Mr. Linford Pierson, did to this country. Look at where it is now. I submit that if this country puts those people back in, they will do the same things all over again. We will find that it will be financial rape of the country.

There was no planning. The only planning the last Government did was to plan how to spend money, because they spent more in four years than this country had made in the past eight years. They had no plans. They had nothing. Today, for the first time (and I will deal with that at a later stage) there is a 5-Year Education Plan in place, which the Fourth Elected Member for George Town apparently does not know anything about. He has said that there is no planning for education. Three hundred and fifty-three people: students, teachers, parents and the public put together a 5-Year Medium-Term Plan on education, and Members stand up in this House and say that there is no planning for education.

The Honourable Financial Secretary knows where he is going if he has a good Government (as he now has) with him. Over the past three and a half years, even though we have put back $90 million between capital and repayment of loans, we had only borrowed $8.5 million - another $10 million is not going to hurt this country. It is peanuts compared to what the last Government did.

So, all of this attempt to try to tell the public that the economy of this country is bad, is nonsense. The public is wise, Madam Speaker. They are all out there in good jobs making money. When they get ready to go to the polls they know who is speaking the truth, who is not speaking the truth. If there was no planning, as the three Opposition Members, especially the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, allege, how could the country be where it is? If there is no planning and things are supposed to be so bad, how do they explain why things are so good? These are the hard facts in the country and the people know it. Instead of taking a positive approach and trying to help the country move forward, they take a backward approach, at least two of the Opposition Members, in attempting to pull this country down.

Let us look a bit further (I would like to come back to another area of this at a later stage) at the area relating to land purchases beginning on page 27, and what the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman tried to make out in relation to the purchase of the property in Spotts. The Report of the Auditor General on page 28 states this: "Taking into account the financing concession, the Lands Officer has concluded that the prices to be paid for these properties are within the 20% tolerance permitted in the official guidelines." I concur with his conclusion. The Auditor General has said that the purchases are within the Government's guidelines. In fact, the percentage for one of the purchases was actually below the amount that the Auditor General had suggested. It was 0.4 per cent or $1,823.00 below the valuation that had been put on by the Government's valuator.

So what are they attempting to make out of this? The land had been bought over a period of six years through an instalment agreement. That, as I explained last time, is usual - people buy land on instalment, especially Caymanians. They buy a lot of land/parcel on instalments and five or six years later the land is worth a lot more; they take a transfer, they pay the stamp duty on the value at the time. More recently, over the last few years you can pay the stamp duty up front on an agreement for sale, but that carries a risk because if you do not complete the agreement you have already paid the stamp duty. While that concession exists and is used by some people, some people do not use it because they would be paying the stamp duty up front long before they are in a position to take title for the property.

The Auditor General has stated that despite what may have been alleged, the prices paid for the properties are within the official guidelines. Therefore, the purchases for the sporting facilities are in order. Anyone who says otherwise is either not telling the truth or they do not want to read the truth of what the Auditor General has stated.

Let us look at page 31, beginning with the first project and analyse what went on. The first project there is SafeHaven, the licence date was June 1998; the dredged quantity authorised in cubic yards was 1,400,000; the basis of royalty was 25¢ per cubic yard. Did we hear anything from the Opposition about the cheap dredging prices that the last Government gave out - their colleagues whom they are now running with, who were rejected from Executive Council by the public.

This is the largest dredging contract on the list here (and I believe in the entire island), that was ever given out and it was given out at 25¢ per cubic yard. Ask Mr. Linford Pierson and Mr. Ezzard Miller why they gave out that contract (the largest contract) at 25¢ per cubic yard. Even more than that.... By the way, let me make very clear that all of the royalties on dredging that were owed to Government have been paid. I need that to be made very clear to the three Opposition Members: ALL DEBTS OWING ON ROYALTIES TO GOVERNMENT HAVE BEEN PAID!

Let us look further at the SafeHaven project. We see that on page 22 of the Auditor General's Report of 1992, and I quote: "The minimum current rental value calculated was US$277,000 per annum and was based on 277 acres with a capital value of US$10,000 per acre and a required rental rate of return of 10% per annum. This would have generated a total income stream of US$27.4 million over the life of the 99 year lease before applying the recommended 10 yearly rent reviews. However the Lands Officer subsequently confirmed to my Office that this valuation failed to mention that the present value of SafeHaven's remaining leasehold interest would have to be offset against any new lease rental." So it would have been about 4/10 of this taken off which left approximately $16 million. On this same land where the dredging was being carried out, the Auditor General had this to say: "No formal valuation of this was ever carried...", further down it states: "Negotiations were concluded within two hours and a premium of US$940,800 was agreed to be recommended to both sets of principals...", and at a later stage it was stated that Executive Council rejected that and accepted $2 million. Now the dredging that was taking place in SafeHaven was being pumped onto Government's land under lease.

We know that along with the 25¢ per cubic yard royalty given to SafeHaven, the Government's valuator valued the lease extension at $27 million, and Executive Council put it through at $2 million ($1 million down and $1 million over ten years). All part of a package. This was negotiated personally by Mr. Linford Pierson. I will read that from the Public Accounts Committee's Report which relates to this. First, the valuation that the Government gave was $27.4 million for the extension of the lease. Mr. Linford Pierson put it through for $2 million and he, therefore, has taken from this country (possibly when it is prorated), in the area of $15 million which he could have received on it. Along with this out went the royalty on the dredging at 25¢.

I would like to make clear that a lot of this was done as a package. If this country remembers, Mr. Linford Pierson was trying after that same piece of Government land was dredged, to transfer the Courts Office down to SafeHaven and put it on leased land of Government's in one of SafeHaven's buildings. It was all part of a package - a "sweetheart deal" - and a conspiracy that took from this country at least $16 million with the stroke of a pen.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, would this be a convenient time to take a 15-minute break?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Ma'am.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.55 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.15 PM

[Hon. Speaker in the Chair]

The Speaker: Debate continues, the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

On page 31 of the 1994 Auditor General's Report, we find that in relation to the SafeHaven project (which I had been speaking on earlier) the low royalty of 25¢ that was paid on that. In Note 1 it says: "File for SafeHaven was archived and was not made available to the Audit Office." I understand that that basically means the file is gone. So what has been recorded in here is probably (or could be) only half of the story of what took place. I guess looking at that note, my question is, where, then, is the SafeHaven's file relating to dredging?

The position that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman tried to press home on that section carries no weight. If one looks at these contracts for dredging, most of them were given out by the last Government or the Government before that. The largest one on the list, which we know was linked to a swap of lands somewhere in Colliers and some ten acres in Frank Sound. Part of the dredged land in SafeHaven was given back to them, extremely valuable land, for a piece of land in the back lands of Frank Sound, which I understand was not filled.

The position regarding the environmental issues section on page 37 is now clearly dealt with. The Government's and the National Team's policy is that there is no dredging licence granted by us other than the two exemptions where contracts exist. As is shown in the Report of 1994 they have existed, since October 1988 in one instance, the other just prior to this Government taking office. We look back at what was put forward by the Opposition Members here, that dredging should continue and an Impact Study should be carried out. In fact, there had been an Impact Study carried out previously, which as far as I can remember, had recommended that some 12,000,000 cubic yards of fill could be dredged from the North Sound. This Government has not really allowed any dredging. The small amount that has been dredged up (which is set out on page 31) is a total authorised amount of 4,500,000 cubic yards of which we know a part was never dredged at all. The situation as far as we know is that we will endeavour to deal with environmental issues in a sensible and reasonable way having regards to all the facts that exist at the time when the matter is being reviewed.

Very little can be said at page 39 in relation to the cost for the refugees because these decisions were taken by all Members of this Honourable House, not just the Government or just the National Team. This was a national issue and, therefore, it was one that was put to all Members of the House and dealt with in that respect.

The other aspect of the section relating to dredging that exists here seems to be well replied to in the Government Minute that was presented to this House. Where it has been stated that the proper controls and accounting under the Government Debt Collection Unit have been put in place to deal, not only with this but with many other areas that require attention by that department.

In fact, it is stated on page 13 of the Government Minute that the Government will be in a position to develop and adopt a comprehensive set of dredging guidelines. It has also been stated that the Protection and Conservation Unit of the Department of Environment will continue to monitor the projects. There are really none in operation at present.

So I believe that in relation to what has been raised under these section, it is now clear that the necessary checks and balances have been put in place. I would like to point out that they did not exist before, as alleged by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. They obviously did not exist before, and this Government has taken the initiative to put these guidelines in place.

Madam Speaker, it appears to be approximately 4.30 p.m. I do not know if...

The Speaker: My clock says 4.29 p.m., but we can call it 4.30 p.m.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Ma'am.

The Speaker: Would you be finishing shortly, or would you go on a bit longer?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I could not finish in one minute, Ma'am. I have another four or five main topics to cover.

The Speaker: No, I meant that perhaps you could go on longer if you wish.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, tonight is the graduation for students at the George Hicks High School. I would like to get off early enough to be able to get home and get back. Also, I would like to just remind all Members of it because they have been invited, and to ask them to please attend.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

I shall put the question, Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.39 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM, FRIDAY, 5TH JULY, 1996.

EDITED
FRIDAY
5TH JULY, 1996
10.08 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Third Official Member to say Prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Let us pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana, Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven; Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed.

Questions to Honourable Members and Ministers.
Question No. 93, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO.93

(Delayed)

No. 93: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning, to state what market research or feasibility surveys were conducted by Cayman Airways Limited prior to its inauguration of the Orlando route.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The answer to that question is on its way. May I just ask for the indulgence of the House that this question be asked at the end, then I will have the answer. I apologise.

The Speaker: Certainly, that can be done.

The next question is No. 94, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO.94

No. 94: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning to provide a breakdown by district of the number of students attending the John Gray and George Hicks High Schools from East End, North Side and Bodden Town.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: There are 38 students from East End; 41 students from North Side; and 75 students from Bodden Town attending the George Hicks High School. There are 27 students from East End; 17 students from North Side; and 43 students from Bodden Town attending the John Gray High School.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say if there has been any significant fluctuation in these numbers over the past three years?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: If the Honourable Member had asked me that earlier I might have been able to get the information, but I do not have it. I can only say that both of the Government's High Schools are flourishing.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Is the Honourable Member in a position to make any comment on the projected enrollment in these schools from this area over the next few years?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Once again, if the Honourable Member had asked me that I would have attempted to find this out. However, I do not want to venture an opinion at this stage, and I do not have any facts as to that.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 95, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO.95

No. 95: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development what is the outstanding balance owed in connection with official travel.

The Speaker: Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A McCarthy: The outstanding balance owed in connection with official travel as at 4th July, 1996, is $51,414.68.

Although this is the balance that is shown as at 4th July, the processing of claims is on-going.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Is the Honourable Member in a position to elaborate to the House on the section of the answer which states that the processing of claims is on-going?

The Speaker: Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes. Although the balance given as at 4th July is the amount read in the answer, it is likely that if the claims presently being processed in the Treasury were taken into account this balance would be considerably less. It does not necessarily mean that this is the amount owing, as such, without any further claims being processed. This is the balance not taking into account the present claims for which a value has not been placed against.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 96, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO 96

No. 96: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning, how much of the $587,600 approved in the 1995 Estimates for Capital Works at the George Hicks High School was actually spent, and how was it spent.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Communications and Works will be answering this question.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I apologise, I have actually undertaken to answer it. The Honourable Minister has provided the information. I know it was given to you in that fashion, but if it is all right, I will answer that.

The Speaker: Certainly. The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, of the sum approved in the 1995 Budget, $524,216 was spent on the following projects at George Hicks High School:

Upgrade electrical mains	$6,073
Wells	721
GHHS Ph.1 (Technical Studies, Home Economics, Science and Hard court)	190,826
GHHS Ph.2 (library, Physical Education, Administration, Art)	12,891
Replace Kitchen cabinets in Canteen	1,351
11H Re-carpet Administration Office and Library	712
11J Replace windows on east side of buildings	26,343
11N Install security gates	14,269
11P Install gate house	10,206
11Q Strengthen/upgrade existing roofs	260,824
Total:	$524,216

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In these Estimates for 1995 there was an $8,000 amount under 11M, reinforcing existing roof to canteen building at George Hicks High School. I do not see it in the answer. Is the Minister in a position to explain why the reinforcing of the roof to the canteen building was not done? It is considered to be very dangerous at this point in time.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I do not believe that there is anything considered dangerous that has been left undone. What I can say is that the previous Government (and some of the Honourable Member's colleagues) did 11 buildings of which we had to redo all of the roofs because of a structural problem which caused leaking. It was not a danger, it just caused leaking. I think that cost us nearly $800,000.

I do not know of anything dangerous in any of the schools. If I know about it, it is corrected immediately. I can only assume that of the roofs which have been upgraded, some of the $260,824 must have gone towards that particular roof.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, neither the answer to this question or the list given includes what I just asked about. In a recent visit to the school I saw the existing problem, which means the job was not done.

Since the Minister has chosen to talk about a lot of other things let me now ask him if he will ensure that it is done because, as he would say in other areas, I care a lot about the children who sit under that roof and eat their lunch. It is warped almost to the shape of me! Can he please give me that undertaking?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I went to that school about a week-and-a-half ago and nobody showed it to me. All I can say is that if it is warped (as the Honourable Fourth Elected Member for George Town) then, by all means, I will request Public Works Department to go up there and deal with it.

I have been in the George Hicks High School and have sat with senior staff, with all the staff in fact, and no one told me that there was anything dangerous up there in the canteen. If what the Member is saying is correct, I will undertake to correct it.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 97, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO.97

No. 97: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning if the new Orlando route is proving to be financially viable.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Cayman Airways Limited launched direct service between Grand Cayman and Orlando on 3rd April, 1996. Very rarely does a new route start off on a profitable basis. It takes time and promotional effort to develop a new route. The market has to be made aware of the availability of the direct Orlando/Cayman service, and many people already had their summer travel arrangements in place.

Unfortunately, the inauguration of the Orlando service was complicated by problems of which the House should be aware. These problems had to do with the FAA not finalising certain operating documentation in time for the scheduled inauguration. As I have told this Honourable House before, Cayman Airways had a licence from the United States Department of Transportation to operate the Orlando route, and Cayman Airways complied with all the necessary United States and United Kingdom safety regulations. The problem, therefore, was not of Cayman Airways' making.

Unresolved issues between the Cayman Islands Civil Aviation Authority, the United Kingdom Civil Aviation Authority and the United States Federal Aviation Authority led to the National Carrier's difficulties. This resulted in delays promoting the service and Cayman Airways incurred extra cost involuntarily. The only alternative available to Cayman Airways was to charter a United States' carrier to operate the first series of flights.

The original basis for the new service, using CAL's own aircraft, called for 37% load factor in order to break even on the marginal costs. To date the route has generated a load factor of 35% which is about 205 passengers under budget, or CI$17,000 loss. On the positive side, the new route has carried over 3,500 passengers to the Cayman Islands, many of whom would not have otherwise come. This latter fact illustrates one of the benefits of having a National Carrier, even though this benefit cannot be credited to the airline's account.

Nonetheless, the Government and the Board will continue to assess the performance of the Orlando route.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Giving the Honourable Minister every opportunity to prove my ignorance, would he kindly explain exactly what he meant in the answer by 'marginal costs'?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The marginal cost is the cost within the margin set to break even.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: For purposes of clarity, would the Honourable Minister say if the load factor discussed in his answer means consideration of both directions of the flight, or just one.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: It is on both directions. We have carried 2% less. That is the difference between the 35% and the 37%, which is a loss of $17,000.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Would the Minister be able to say if based on the seasonal number of tourists we have visiting these islands it is expected that this load factor will increase in the very near future, or is it expected to have a down turn.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: This is obviously an opinion, but I hope that it will increase. That is the most I can say.

When you really look at this (and there is another question coming up), the fact that $4 million were spent back in 1990 or 1991 on the New York Route in advertising alone, and we have spent a total of $300,000, I think the route has done very well. In fact, to move Cayman Airways and its routes from a $14 million a year loss into a profit, I think the Honourable Member must give me a little bit of credit for getting Cayman Airways going in the right direction.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 98, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO.98

No. 98: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development what is the annual total presently paid in Civil Service pensions and the annual amount being paid in to the Pension Fund.

The Speaker: Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The estimated amount to be paid in Civil Service pensions for 1996 is $2,443,794. This amount is paid from General Revenue.

The estimated amount to be paid into the Pension Fund for 1996 is $3,760,228, which includes contributions from Government and the employees. The unaudited balance of the Fund at 31st December, 1995, was $14,504,070.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Does the $3.7 million include the envisaged increase of 6% which the Government will be paying into the fund this year?

The Speaker: Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, it does.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 99, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman

QUESTION NO.99

No. 99: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what is the status of the proposed purchase of the Hyperbaric Chamber from Cayman Islands Divers.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: During the last meeting of Finance Committee, a sum of $77,500 was approved for the purchase of the Hyperbaric Chamber from Cayman Islands Divers. These funds have not been paid as yet to the Dive Club, but it is expected they will be in the near future.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Is the hyperbaric chamber in use in the meantime, and is there anyone to manage it in the event it is needed?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, the chamber is in use and will continue to be in use until a new entity takes over.

The Speaker: Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Has Government identified personnel to operate this chamber when it becomes Government's responsibility and, if so, how many?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The operation of this will be put out to public tender. Government will, through regulations ensure that whatever company is successful will operate it correctly and that everything will be in proper order.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I think I understand the answer to that supplementary question, but has any thought been given to employing people directly by Government, that being the better route seeing as where this equipment is housed?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, Madam Speaker, we have given this great consideration and it is not cost effective.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Is the reason for that because this chamber will only be used when necessary and not on a continual basis?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: That is correct.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Does being put out to tender, as the Honourable Minister has said, include the maintenance of the equipment, or simply providing the personnel when necessary?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: I should correct the terminology. What I mean by tender is that it has been advertised in the Caymanian Compass for expressions of interest. -

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I do appreciate that clarification but I still asked a supplementary that has not been answered.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, the operators will ensure the maintenance.

The Speaker: Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Bema L Thompson Murphy: Could the Honourable Minister state if any consideration has been given to divers being charged, say $1.00, through the dive shops for the use of this chamber so that it would be spread out evenly by all divers?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: No. I think that whoever undertakes the obligation to operate it will do it in a business-like manner.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Based on the answer just given, will it be the case that those people who express interest will not be paid directly by Government, but will be remunerated by the users?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, Madam Speaker, Government would pay for whatever use we have out of it, based on serious injuries where gangrene has set it. Other additional users would remunerate the operators.

The Speaker: We now go to question No. 93, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO.93

No. 93: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning, to state what market research or feasibility surveys were conducted by Cayman Airways Limited prior to its inauguration of the Orlando route.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: As you are aware Cayman Airways commenced operation to Orlando in April 1996. It is important to understand the context in which this decision was made since it was the opening of new routes, specifically the opening of the New York/Baltimore routes in 1989 and 1990 respectively which helped bring the airline (and, almost the Cayman Islands economy) to its knees under the previous Government.

In 1989 Cayman Airways leased a new 737-400 to operate New York/Baltimore and in conjunction with the Department of Tourism spent $4 million to launch that service, and also contracted to pay US$45.4 million over the term of the lease for the aircraft. In so doing, the former Government and management lost $3.5 million per year on that route alone (New York/Baltimore).

Contrast that scenario with the 1996 launching of the Orlando route. The Orlando route was integrated into existing schedules so that no new aircraft or insurance costs were incurred. The result was that the risks involved in launching the Orlando service were minimal as the service needed only to cover its out-of-pocket expenses, such as fuel, landing and handling costs, and en route navigation charges.

With such a low risk strategy it was not necessary to pay exposure market research consultants to advise us. In any case the final decision would have been ours alone. Cayman Airways analysis into the feasibility of Orlando involved the following:

1. Department of Tourism data on past performance of Orlando regional market;
2. Demographics of Orlando and surrounding areas were gathered;
3. Connectivity report of domestic and international flight schedules for the other carriers for feed at the Orlando airport was amassed;
4. Break-even analysis revenue projections and profitability studies were conducted internally;
5. Department of Tourism, London Office, was tapped for market information from European suppliers for two centre traffic;
6. A flight schedule study was conducted to produce optimum times and days for the operation;
7. Local and overseas travel agents and wholesalers were tapped for information on the Orlando market;
8. Department of Tourism and Cayman Airways Representatives conducted field surveys in the Orlando and surrounding areas to gather information as to whether the Orlando/Cayman service would be supported by the local communities;
9. New market studies were conducted to define new revenue potential, that is, convention and incentive spin-off traffic and Latin American to centre market;
10. A cost analysis was conducted for introduction advertising and promotion of the service to the market.

The results will be closely monitored so that the future development of the Orlando route can be monitored.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say if this research was done by a professional marketing research consultancy? If so, which one?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: When I became responsible for Cayman Airways there were enough expert reports which had cost hundreds of thousands, probably millions of dollars on everything in the world from Orlando straight back, yet the airline lost over $14 million in one year.

Since we have moved the airline from the drastic losses it had into a profit, we regard ourselves as sufficiently expert. We conducted the study, it was done by our own staff who are very capable, and the results have been good. I see no reason to pay any more consultants in areas such as this.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say over what period these surveys and this research was conducted?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: It was over a period of about a year and a half.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Is there a defined time frame by which this route will be monitored in order to decide if it makes sense to continue or not?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The route is doing very well. As a new route, with a loss of only a few thousand dollars, the fact that we are using our same equipment and staff and basically only paying the out-of-pocket expenses, the route will continue. I do not foresee any reason why we would have the drastic losses. Remember, New York lost $3.5 million per year after promotional expenses of $4 million. In the short period it was flown the public of this country had to pay possibly in the area of $10.5 million. I cannot see that arising.

What I will say to the Honourable Member is that the Board and I watch Cayman Airways closely and any time we find any route (other than Cayman Brac) taking drastic losses, I will be man enough to request the Board to cut it. But we are very optimistic about our routes at this stage, including this one.

We do have a difficult situation with American Airlines. They are very aggressive and they are really attacking us on most of our routes. I do not know what effect that will have on us or what tolerance will be given to us by the authorities. I am monitoring that as well.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Member say if the research has shown whether the load factor on this route will be seasonal or will remain fairly constant throughout the year?

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: It will be seasonable. In fact, most of our markets are seasonal. This specific route will hopefully tap into the European market which will help the Cayman Islands because it will spread the tourists more into Europe than just concentrating on North America. It is really quite a good advantage to the Cayman Islands. It is mainly because of the benefit to the Cayman Islands and the attempt to spread the market that we opened this route. It was done in conjunction with the Ministry for Tourism, so it will be seasonal.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say, regarding the tapping of the European tourist market, if there has been any attempt to link up with any European airline in a partnership encouraging Europeans to travel from Orlando on to the Cayman Islands?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: We are looking at inter-line links with some of the charter operations out of Europe. At this stage I would rather not go into details on that because it is in the negotiation stage.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

We proceed to Government Business, Government Motion No. 3/96, The Development and Planning Law (1995 Revision) Building Code (Amendment) Regulations 1996. The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

MOTIONS

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 3/96—THE DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING LAW (1995 REVISION) (AMENDMENT TO THE DEVELOPMENT PLAN 1977)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: This Motion reads as follows:
WHEREAS it is desirable for a certificate of completion to be issued under the building code;
BE IT RESOLVED that the draft regulation entitled the Building Code (Amendment) Regulations 1996 now being laid before the Legislative Assembly be hereby approved in accordance with Section 38 of the Development and Planning Law (1995 Revision).

I will give a copy to the Serjeant-at-Arms to lay on the Table.

This Motion is a very short and simple one that has been requested by builders and it was actually the - removal of a section that had been excluded from the Building Code that is now desirable that it should be included.

I should say that the Building Code is hundreds of pages long. In the attempt to adapt it to the Cayman Islands Laws and Regulations we had to exclude some sections, for example, that related to snow and sleet. Unfortunately, this section was removed when it should not have been removed.

What it will allow is that prior to a certificate of occupancy which does not deprive the Caymanians from going into their houses...

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I think we are dealing with the wrong Motion. It is Motion No. 3, which is a very long Motion with eight preambles.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I was following the Order Paper. The number of the Motion there is No. 3 of 1996.

The Speaker: There is another one, No. 4 which deals with the certificate of completion.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Sorry. I guess I will have to try to blame it on that old cow-itch disorienting me again. I am sorry, I beg your pardon.

The Speaker: That is all right. There is no problem.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Oh, I see what has happened. The Order Paper has the right number, but the wrong name. I am sorry, I am afraid that I just looked at the name. I beg your pardon.

The Speaker: We have to apologise for that.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: This Motion, No. 3/96, is the Development and Planning Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment to the Development Plan 1977), which states:

1. On or about the 8th day of July, 1991, the Development Plan 1977 was reproduced by the Department of Planning. There was an error in that reproduction in that the Storm belt was totally removed from the land West Bay Beach North Block 10A Parcels 40, 41, and 42 (hereinafter called the Land).

2. On the 10th day of November, 1993, a senior officer of the Planning Department wrote to the proprietor of Parcel 41 stating that the parcel was zoned Low Density Residential, and not that it was partially Residential and partially Storm Belt.

3. On the 28th day of October, 1994, a prospective purchaser of the three parcels of land wrote specifically requesting notification as to whether there was a Storm Belt restriction on the property.

4. On the 5th December, 1994, the Planning Department responded that "The Storm Belt restriction from the shorelines of Salt Creek as shown in the Development Plan 1977, no longer exists."

5. The cost of this property and the easement to it apparently runs into several million dollars.

6. Government believes it is in the best interest of the public to settle this matter to avoid the possibility of a successful claim for substantial damages (the Government specifically denies any liability in this matter), and that the land be re-zoned in accordance with the said letters from the Department of Planning.

7. The Storm Belt has been removed in the proposed new Development Plan to which there has been only one objection which apparently has now been withdrawn.

8. The Development Plan Tribunal has recommended "that in view of the confusion and misinformation the Mangrove Buffer Zone located on the South Side of Salt Creek be removed from Block 10A Parcels 40, 41 and 42 from Storm Belt to Low Density Residential as shown on the attached map.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Legislative Assembly, pursuant to the powers conferred on it by the Development and Planning Law (including section 8 thereof), and every other power enabling it, that the Development Plan 1977 (being the Plan referred to in subsection (5) section 6 of the Law) be this day altered by the amendment of the map incorporated with and form part of the plan herewith, re-zone the land West Bay Beach North Block 10A Parcels 40, 41, and 42 from Storm Belt to Low Density Residential as shown on the attached map.

This Motion...

The Speaker: Excuse me, I have to present it.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Sorry.

The Speaker: Government Motion No. 3/96, having been duly moved by the Minister, is now open for debate.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

This Motion has been brought because two letters from the Department of Planning dealt with confirming a mistake made in July of 1991 in which the storm belt was removed. I understand the history of this. By the way, the land is not large parcels as mentioned in one of the press or television reports, the total land is 16.22 acres. About a half or a third of it had been zoned as storm belt, so it is not a large piece of land. It is a strip on the south of the large Salt Creek entrance, and only goes about half-way down the entrance.

The history of this was that apparently back in July of 1991, because the front part of that property has ten foot high iron shore the feeling at that time was that the storm belt should be removed because of the ten foot high iron shore that bounded on the North Sound.

Be that as it may, in 1991 there was no authority to remove the storm belt from the plan. Apparently the plan was upgraded and made larger with more detail being put in. The 1977 Development Plan was just a small plan and was not very precise.

In any event, that is all I could glean because in 1991 it was not my responsibility, nor was it the responsibility of the Present Minister for Tourism. I understand from the Department that the reasoning was that they felt it was sufficiently protected.

The error was confirmed in a letter by the Deputy Director of Planning and subsequently by the Director of Planning. It is the correction of the error that I am now seeking to sort out. If it is not sorted out, while Government specifically denies liability and legally I have to state that no matter what I say we deny liability, as all lawyers say before they open their mouths, the fact is that it may result in a case against Government. I know that the claim against Government would be substantial.

Since the Development Tribunal has sat and heard the National Trust representatives on the matter (Chaired by the very prominent senior attorney, Mr. W. S. Walker, and is comprised of two other persons sitting with him), they recommended that it be removed, especially in light of the confusion and misinformation.

I think that it is in our best interest, rather than having to fight a costly court case on this. And since it is such a small strip of storm belt, which is protected by a ten foot high iron shore, we remove it and I ask Honourable Members of this House to do so.

It is a Motion that I have had to look at long and hard because I knew that for some people it would not be a popular motion. But it is something which has to be done, and in the interest of the country I am putting it forward.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I understand what the Honourable Minister is saying, and I do not have a problem with this specific situation. But I wish to get some clarification in the winding up of the Motion to ensure that, in the immediate area we are talking about, there are no other parcels similar to the ones being discussed where there might be a problem down the line with any precedents. Is the situation a very isolated one?

The concept I understand the Minister to be bringing is certainly an acceptable one to me bearing in mind that it is an isolated situation. I just wish to make sure that it is not something which is going to open up a can of worms.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to support Government Motion No. 3/96.

From my experience with the Central Planning Authority, I am familiar with the area. As the Honourable Minister has said in moving the Motion, the storm belt serves to benefit when there is not a high iron shore involved. But having this high iron shore in that area the storm belt really only serves to dissipate the force of the sea in case of a storm. The high iron shore will certainly take care of that.

With those few words, I give my full support to the Motion.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, would the Honourable Minister wish to reply'?

Hon Truman M. Boddan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would like to thank the Fourth Elected Member for George Town and the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman for their support, as well as other Members who support the Motion even though they did not speak.

My first question when I saw this was similar to the question raised by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town: Are there any more surprises for me? I was told that this is an isolated incident.

I also asked the Director of Planning to go back and re-check and make sure that in the reproduction of that 1991 plan there are no further surprises.

What I can say is that the property on the opposite side of this, stretching about three or four times the length of this, is actually Government's land. As far as I know it has a storm belt of some 46 acres. It has been transferred to the Trust so that it can be kept in that form. There are no worries on that one at all. If any more arise, I will be just as unhappy as the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

The Speaker: I shall put the question on Government Motion 3/96, that the Motion be passed. Those in favour please say Aye. ..Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Motion has accordingly been passed.

AGREED: GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 3/96 PASSED.

The Speaker: Government Motion No. 4/96, The Development and Planning Law (1995 Revision) Building Code (Amendment) Regulations, 1996.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 4/96

THE DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING LAW (1995 REVISION) BUILDING CODE (AMENDMENT) REGULATIONS, 1996

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: I beg to move Government Motion No. 4/96 which reads:

WHEREAS it is desirable for a certificate of completion to be issued under the building code.

BE IT RESOLVED that the draft regulation entitled the Building Code (Amendment) Regulations 1996 now being laid before the Legislative Assembly be hereby approved in accordance with section 38 of the Development and Planning Law (1995 Revision).

The Speaker: Government Motion No. 4/96 is now open for debate.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

This is an amendment to the Building Code, which is a very large document comprising hundreds of pages. This specific amendment - and I am sure that in the future there will be other amendments as that Code comes into operation - merely deals with the Certificate of Completion. This can be granted prior to a Certificate of Occupancy and has been requested by builders and by the public.

I understand that it will allow for the requesting and turning on of electricity and some of the things that could happen after completion, but prior to the issuing of a Certificate of Occupancy.

I should mention that from the Caymanian public's point of view, the Certificate of Occupancy does not apply to houses which are owned by Caymanians. Therefore, while this will assist, the Certificate of Occupancy itself does not apply. I know that the Honourable First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is more of an expert in this; he has been on the Authority for many years. As I understand, it will be very helpful to the people here, and I put this forward with those words.

The Speaker: If there is no debate, and the Honourable Minister...

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I do not wish to reply, Ma'am.

The Speaker: I shall put the question on Government Motion 4/96. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Motion has accordingly been passed.

AGREED: GOVERNMENT MOTION NO.4/96 PASSED.

The Speaker: Government Motion No. 2/96, Caribbean Development Bank Loan - Pedro St. James Heritage Project.

The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 2/96

CARIBBEAN DEVELOPMENT BANK LOAN - PEDRO ST. JAMES HERITAGE PROJECT

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I beg to move Government Motion No. 2/96 which reads:

BE IT RESOLVED THAT this Honourable House, acting in accordance with section 3(1) of the Loans (Caribbean Development Bank) Law, 1977, give its approval to the Governor in Council to authorise the Financial Secretary to enter into a loan agreement on behalf of the Government of the Cayman Islands with the Caribbean Development Bank for the sum of US$5.79 Million, being advanced by the Bank to the Government of the Cayman Islands to assist in the financing of the Pedro St James Heritage Project, together with interest, commitment charge and other charges in respect of the said amount of US$5.79 Million.

The Speaker: Government Motion No. 2/96 having been duly moved is now open for debate.

The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

An offer has been received from the Caribbean Development Bank to provide a loan to the Government for an amount not exceeding US$5.79 million, or CI$4.74 million to assist with the financing of the Pedro St. James Heritage project.

The loan offer provides for principal repayments to be made on a quarterly basis over a 17 year period commencing five years from the date of the first disbursement. Interest is payable quarterly and is charged at the rate of 6.75% per annum on the amount of the loan withdrawn.

Under the loan offer, total disbursements from the loan shall not exceed 56% of the cost of the project and Government shall not contribute less than CI$3.85 million towards this cost.

The projects has a total estimated cost of CI$8.676 million and has been reviewed and found to be financially viable on the condition that the marketing strategy for the project is effectively implemented as planned.

Honourable Members will recall that in the answer to Parliamentary Question No. 36, delivered by the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce, information was provided to support this financial feasibility of the project based on current estimates. I am sure that the Minister will be expanding on this financial information in his contribution to this Motion.

Honourable Members will also recall that as part of the $3.58 million required to be contributed by the Government toward this project, $1 million has been provided in the 1996 Estimates under Head 51-1 04 Civic Centres and Museums.

As Members are also aware, all borrowing activities between the Government of the Cayman Islands and the Caribbean Development Bank are governed by the Loans Caribbean Development Bank Law, 1977. Section 3 of the Loans Caribbean Development Bank Law, 1977 states: "Subject to this Law, the Governor may in such manner and on such terms and subject to such conditions as may be agreed between the Governor in Council and the Bank, borrow from the bank from time to time such sums as may be required by the Government not exceeding $250,000 (CI), or with the consent of the Legislative Assembly amounts in excess of this sum."

In accordance with this Law, this Motion seeks the approval of the Legislative Assembly to borrow from the Caribbean Development Bank an amount not exceeding US$5.79 million to assist the Government in financing the Pedro St. James Heritage project.

Madam Speaker, with your permission I would like to quote from the report that was done by the Caribbean Development Bank. I will table this section of the report during the break because I found it to be very relevant to this project and it will be useful information for Honourable Members, in regard to the view that has been taken in connection with this project. I was hoping to have had a chance to have read the whole report, in which I probably would have been able to extract other useful information. But I had a sinus problem over the week-end and time did not permit that, so I will just quote this section:

"A strong and vibrant tourism sector is critical to the Cayman Islands continued economic well being. Although the country has enjoyed robust tourism growth over the past decade, there are warning signs that the tourism industry in the Cayman Islands needs to be revitalised and the products and services improved so that tourism benefits can be maximised.

"Recent visitor demand surveys have pointed out that there is a distinct lack of quality attractions and things to do during the tourism experience being offered other than diving and the traditional sun and sea and sand activities. In addition, a survey of the cruise industry revealed that a strong interest in heritage attractions is being displayed by cruise passengers.

"World tourism market trends also indicate a much greater interest and appreciation on the part of consumers in a destination's people, culture, history and natural resources. Destinations world wide are recognising the market demands and are investing in products which meet these needs and expectations.

"The development of Pedro St. James presents an excellent opportunity for the Cayman Islands to invest in its cultural development through the restoration of the most important historic site on the island. This is a first heritage tourism project to be developed and is therefore a challenge for the Cayman Islands since it is expected to provide a revenue generating tourism product which satisfies the demand of the visitors to the Cayman Islands and at the same time protects and commemorates an important part of the Cayman Islands history.

“Pedro St James can also serve as an important venue for Caymanians to learn about their history and increase their awareness about their heritage and its values in shaping the Cayman Islands.”

I think that is very useful in demonstrating that in developing the Pedro Castle as an historical site the Cayman Islands is not acting alone, that there is an interest that has been stimulated in this regard throughout the region. This is one of the attractions that tourists visiting the Cayman Islands are looking towards.

I should point out that as this project will be established upon its completion as a statutory body, the indebtedness to the Caribbean Development Bank will not form part of public debt, but will be classified as a self financing loan.

The self financing loan balance as at the 31st of December 1995 stood at $18.3 million. When this amount is added to it, which amounts to approximately C$4.7 million, we are looking at approximately $23 million. That is what the balance will be after this Motion is approved.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to support the comments made by the Honourable Third Official Member on the Pedro St. James project. We, in the Tourism Ministry and Department, believe that it is an excellent opportunity to have an attraction of quality. While the project is estimated to cost $8.7 million, we have to bear in mind that this is the total cost of the project. Some of this money has already been paid. Almost $800,000 is the cost of purchasing the land and the present facility. That is all part of that $8.7 million.

The original cost was estimated at around $5 million some years ago. It did not include these sums, neither does it include.., and may I back up to say the $8.7 million comes from a Caribbean Development Bank appraisal of the project. The project was first appraised by the Commonwealth Heritage group out of Canada which continues to work for us on contract. Their estimate was $5 million several years ago. They did not build in the cost of the land which was $800,000. In the Caribbean Development Bank exercise they generally include physical contingencies and price contingencies. When you put those in as well, you add another $5.8 million, something that might never happen, but is a procedure they use in estimating a project to its completion.

I believe that with the number of cruise ship passengers coming to the Cayman Islands, as well as those arriving by air, tying the Pedro Castle project together with the Botanic Park we can have an excellent marketing tool and certainly there is absolutely no reason why the revenue outlined yesterday in an answer to the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, should not be achieved.

I believe that when we look at it in terms of its comparability to the Turtle Farm, which captures about 28% of visitors here (and is the main source of income to that farm), that even if we have the small percentage as indicated yesterday in the answer, and I quote ‘. . .6.7% of cruise passengers in the first year (a very small number given that we have in excess of 600,000 visitors coming to our shores by cruise ship), and “...11.8% of the passengers who arrive by air . I think those percentages are quite conservative and achievable in the first year.

We really need more activity in the eastern districts. We need activity by way of tours where visitors of the island have an opportunity to visit an historic site, the only structure in the Cayman Islands which links us to the 1780s. The year 1780 was when it was built.

When we look around the Caribbean and the research which was done on it, we see it as simply when we looked in places like Antigua, St. Lucia and some of the other islands of the Caribbean; they all have grand houses of that era, things which are quite attractive. They have two or three different floors.

If we capture the market on cruise ship and air arrivals where we put tours together to visit the Botanic Park and also the Pedro Castle, those who visit will come away with a deeper appreciation of what Cayman really is: the culture, the history, and the seamanship. While the Pedro Castle building is due for completion towards the end of September or mid-October this year, the visitor’s centre, which will be the place where they enter and get their interpretation of what this project is all about, its function, how the birthplace of democracy was in that building where the decision was taken that from that day forward we would only have Elected Members of our Parliament, or Vestry as it was called in those days. It served in many different ways. I think that most of us know the history of it, how it was in private hands, that it was built by an Eden who I think is an ancestor of the Honourable Anthony Eden. Savannah and the electoral district of Bodden Town need a structure and facility such as that. I believe that we need to provide more and more attractions for our visitors because the number of people who come to the Cayman Islands, the repeat business, is now in the 40% range. So we are doing something right.

If you visited this island five, six or ten different times, it would always be good to see something new. Not that we can do that on an annual basis, but facilities such as this can only lend to the image and understanding of the Cayman Islands and I ask Honourable Members to support the loan.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Being one of the representatives of the area in which this development is going to take place, I would certainly be missing a golden opportunity if I did not say something as to my sentiments toward this development.

I certainly welcome the idea of the development of this tourist attraction. As is the case with many of the Honourable Members, I can see the benefits which are to be derived from such a development. I am sure that I speak for a significant number of my constituents and the residents of this area when I say that the development is something which will be anticipated and appreciated by many who live in the community.

However, that does not mean that the development with all its promise does not go with some problem. As should be obvious to all, we will be entering the era of fast tourism. What that will mean when we have these percentages of people visiting and this amount of traffic on the road, is that people in this area will also be suffering from what is commonplace and an every day phenomenon down on what is popularly known as the Western peninsula - traffic jams, slow moving traffic and bottle necks.

I want to say that with this prosperity and economic opportunity will come some headaches. I do not want it to be projected that it is a totally ideal solution.

I also have to raise a point with which I am familiar from my tenure as Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee. In noting that we are getting a loan from the Caribbean Development Bank, I hope that this loan is not from that famous basket of currencies which put us in trouble with the Civil Aviation loan, but rather is from a unitary currency, that is, the United States dollar or some other single currency. I would hate to find ourselves in the trap we are still in with the loan from the Civil Aviation Department. I welcome some comment in the winding up by the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development as to what we are borrowing from and if indeed we have avoided the so-called basket of currencies.

I also want to say that...

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I rise on a point of elucidation for the Member, if he will allow me.

The Speaker: He has sat down, Honourable Minister.

POINT OF ELUCIDATION

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: For the benefit of the Member, the loan presently before the House is $5.79 million United States dollars. There is no "basket of currencies." The US currency is fixed to the CI dollar.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I convey my thanks and my relief to the Honourable Minister for that elucidation.

I was going to say that there is a great positive factor in linking this development with the Botanic Gardens. I think that if we continue in this way along this section of the island, we can have a unique progressive and attractive tourism development package. Towards this end we have what I guess could be largely described as ecotourism and cultural tourism whereas on the western section we have a different type of tourism offering the Freeport shopping, the hotels and restaurants, etcetera.

I will lend my encouragement and support, and promise that I will do my utmost to provide enthusiasm and to promote understanding and appreciation among my constituents. At the same time I implore the Government to take into consideration the significantly increased traffic on the road and to try at the earliest possible convenience to do something to try to alleviate this problem.

It would be good if before the project reaches its conclusion something could be done which takes into consideration the increased traffic that we will have. No one can then say that blessing comes with the curse of traffic jams and slow moving traffic. I think it is a step in the right direction. I urge the Government to continue, and I certainly stand in favour of the project.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I join the First Elected Member for Bodden Town in giving support to this Government Motion. As has been alluded, it has been part of the Eden history. It is said that this castle was built by some of my ancestors.

I recall fond memories of playing on these grounds while growing up when it was not in the condition it is now, it was then in ruins. I appreciate that Government is taking the view to look at this project as we know that today's sophisticated tourists no longer want to just see sea and sand, but look forward to enjoying heritage and other aspects of ecotourism. This provides a diverse area for people to enjoy.

We know the standard we have set in this country for tourism and it is said that if we do not build on what we have, eventually we will become stagnant and go into regression. We certainly do not want that to happen to the very high standards we have set in these islands.

It is reassuring to the public to know that it will not be a strain on the coffers of this country but will be self financing. I also agree with the First Elected Member for Bodden Town in regard to works that will need to be done on the roads. But I am sure that these problems will be addressed and improvements will be made so that travel from George Town to the Pedro Castle area will not be very difficult.

I give my full support to this Motion knowing that it will be of tremendous benefit to the Electoral District of Bodden Town. This will be the largest project, by far, ever undertaken. I am sure that much benefit will be derived from a project of this magnitude.

I look forward to the day when it will be completed.

The Speaker: Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I too rise to offer my support to the Pedro St. James Heritage project, a project which so many people in my district are looking forward to.

Having been owned by members of my family as well, it is with great pride and anticipation that I look forward to the completion of this project. I give the motion my full support.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to give my full support to this project. My connection with this goes back long before my birth. I am told that my great-grandfather had it constructed initially. I am very proud that the Cayman Islands are in a position to establish such an attraction as this.

When I visited the island of Jersey during a Parliamentary visit many years ago, I was so impressed at how their heritage had been preserved and how they had historically preserved what had taken place during World War II and before, tourists could not only see the present, but they could see the past. I think this is what we have lacked in the Cayman Islands.

The Lord has blessed us immensely with our beautiful beach, but we have not done very much in preserving the heritage of those who made the Cayman Islands what they are.

I am very happy to support this and I feel very confident that as tourism continues to grow in these islands, in particular in Grand Cayman, that it will be a viable project.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to give my support to this because I am one who likes to see historical things. It has been said that sand and sea is one thing, but it gets tiresome looking at that at times. From the time I was a child, Pedro Castle was always something that we went to see. I know it will be a great attraction to the tourists.

I am proud that it is being developed and that I am part of it.

I thank you very much.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Bema L Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to offer my support to Government Motion No. 2/96, regarding the financing of the Pedro St. James Castle's restoration.

The former speakers who mentioned that this was a family project were very brave, knowing that in the past several weeks the Opposition has levied a lot of talk about purchasing Cayman Foods building. They were brave to get up and say that this was family related. I am sure that you will hear that they are pushing because of that.

However, it has been mentioned that it is a very historical site and I remember also that when someone asked what can you do in the Cayman Islands, one of the first places mentioned was Pedro Castle.

We would always visit it as we travelled to the outer districts when we were growing up. A lot of the children still go out there today. As a matter of fact, I visited there about five or six times recently and there were always individuals out there, mostly tourists.

I think that castles always interest and appeal to many people, especially knowing that sun, sand and sea have been mentioned. In the event of inclement weather the Museum (of which I am Chairman of the Board) receives a lot of visitors. During the past 16 months there has been a steady increase in the number of visitors. I know that this will also take place at the castle after it is developed.

There will be a statutory body and it will be a self financing loan, which I am very pleased to discover. I am sure that the Financial Secretary will make sure that a very good interest rate is achieved for this large sum of money being borrowed. I am sure that in the negotiating he will make sure that there is no penalty if this loan is paid off early.

The projections are very conservative. They state 6.7% of cruise ship passengers. I am sure that tourists arriving by air will also take advantage of this site.

Most of the taxi and tour operators with whom I have discussed this project are very happy. It will take individuals out of town and they will benefit as well. Our historical sites are quite spread out with the Museum in George Town and the Botanical Park in North Side and the Castle in the Savannah area. I am sure that it will not only benefit the tourists, but locals, especially the younger generation, in that this is a very historical site and they will learn from it.

I support this whole heartedly. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

This Motion regarding the funding of the completion of the Pedro St. James project is one that I do not think the Members in this Honourable House have any problem with conceptually, but in making my contribution I will make a few observations. I believe that sooner or later (and probably sooner than later), my nickname is going to be Mr. Picky. With full knowledge of that risk, I nevertheless air my views.

As other Members have said, any chance this country has of enhancing and diversifying the attractions available to the tourists coming to this island is a boon to the tourism industry - whether they come as stay-over tourists by air, or whether they come on the cruise ships passing in and out on the same day.

Having said that and also hearing the Honourable Minister for Tourism mention about the tie-in of the Botanic Park with Pedro Castle when completed, I have to make an observation that the majority of the revenue earned at the Turtle Farm is by visiting tourists paying their way into the farm and purchasing gifts at the gift shop.

It is important to my mind where any marketing focus is being made regarding the other two areas in the Eastern Districts that there is not a lack of foresight so that we get a lopsided situation and the healthy situation which prevails at the Turtle Farm becomes unsteady ground because market forces are generating the revenue into these other two areas.

I simply wish to say that it is important that whatever the marketing strategy is, it should encompass at least all three of these areas which the Government is directly attached to the Botanic Park, the Pedro St. James Castle and the Turtle Farm. I am not suggesting this is a situation that is being forgotten, I am simply saying that I heard it mentioned that the two were being tied-in and I want to be sure that the attraction at the Turtle Farm is not forgotten.

While geographically their locations are at either side of the island, the truth is that the distance is not that great compared to what tourists are used to. The scenery between the locations (after you get out of the concrete jungle) is fairly nice scenery and I would like to ensure that whatever is being done involves all three of these locations.

This also brings to mind, when we speak of the project at hand, that I have been one of the proponents of the development of the Spotts Dock into a more user-friendly facility. I am pleased to have heard that presently the Port Authority is in the planning stages of creating a much better facility there to accommodate the cruise ships whenever they are able to land their passengers there.

With this in mind, I believe that once these facilities are enhanced, and we are able to induce more cruise ships to use this facility it will bode well for the restoration of Pedro

Castle in the Savannah area. It will easily be one of the first stops because of the proximity to the landing.

Thinking along those lines, and of the numbers, and seeing how the projections have been done, I think it is fair comment to say that the success and financial viability of this project, as per the projections, are based on what I call mass tourism. Thinking about it (and I am quite willing to give way to be corrected) I am inclined to believe that in selling this product and homing in on the cruise ship passengers (who far outweigh the number of air arrivals), the strategy in my view will be to attract the tourist ship arrivals towards this Pedro Castle location. It seems to me that it is going to be automatic and sensible to be dealing with some type of tour package.

How those tour packages will be sold, I have no idea. I am sure that the powers that be will be dealing with that in the best way that they know how. The thing that keeps popping into my mind when I look at what is before me, is that at present there is a very volatile situation in the ground transportation area between the parties involved in ground transportation for tourists. I wish to make the point from my side of the coin to the Government, that in all they are doing, I think it is very important to bear in mind that they have to find a palatable situation so that the project itself does not suffer and get involved in the muddle of conflicts that exist in these areas.

Believe me, Madam Speaker, while what I am saying is not a very positive statement, I say it with all good intention because it is my belief that if this is going to be important in the marketing strategy, it is best that we do not do it and find out that the Government is in the middle of a fray. I think that is very important. I wish to make that point and hope that it is something that Government will be minded to consider when they are deliberating.

I would certainly support the idea that is going on here. Before I close I just wish to make one more point. It is not the first time that I make this point, and I suspect that there are others who do not hold it as near and dear as I do. Being the convinced person that I am, I feel the need to express this view.

I have long considered that the mere fact that the largest single employer in the country outside of the Civil Service of the Caymanian population is the tourism sector. I strongly hold the view that some type of situation needs to be developed between the Government and the private sector in the tourism area to create a facility which will allow for this country to produce trained Caymanians to fill the many posts that are now being filled in this area by imported labour.

It does not matter which rung of the ladder we examine in tourism, the fact remains that there is always potential for improvement within the Caymanian populace with regard to their upward mobility in employment in that industry.

I feel strongly that the providers of these facilities (the hotel rooms, restaurants and all of those areas) in Cayman, even where the majority of them are foreign owned, would be quite happy to hire Caymanians and to play their part in any role to entrench the Caymanians into that industry if the situation is conducive.

We strike various odds in the thought process whereby the average Caymanian figured that he or she should be employed in whatever job he sought out because of the mere fact that he is Caymanian. The situation is now where many Caymanians realise that if they are not equipped they will become what is called unemployable, which certainly leads to frustration.

We have gone on now to where the majority of Caymanians who are not professional or in very skilled positions (as they find themselves not going on to tertiary education and only coming out of our public education system looking for a job) are not finding their niche. They are left out with no sense of direction. I believe that if the Government were able to provide a training facility, or we could call it a Hotel Training School... before I go any further with that...

The Speaker: May I call the Member's attention to the fact that we are considering the Caribbean Development Bank Loan, Pedro St. James Castle project?

You have stated your point, but I think that it is time that you get back to this subject.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker., but when I am through you will understand that I will make the point to tie it in with the Motion at hand.

The Speaker: I think that you need to. I do not think that I can allow you to go much longer. You need to get to the final submission.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Having made an attempt to show the importance of such a facility, I firmly believe that in the whole big picture of this project, that a facility of this nature would complement the situation. I believe that it should be considered.

I am not suggesting that it be thrown into the fray to throw all of the financial projections out of proportion or anything like that. I am simply saying that it is my firm belief that a small facility could be created in this location with all of the same good things for the project in mind, and a facility like that could have Caymanians going through being paid a per diem while they are learning and at the same time providing a service. I think the facility would not cost the Government to run...

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I am going to ask you to please stop. You have made your point and are now making some other points on the same point. Please terminate your debate on this Motion.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Not being able to expound on my thoughts regarding the matter, I will simply say that in supporting the Motion I am asking the Government to seriously consider including what I have just suggested at the completion of the project...

The Speaker: Honourable Member please, you are under my authority.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12 NOON

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.30 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Debate continues on Government Motion No. 2/96. (pause) If there is no further debate, I shall ask the Honourable Third Official Member to conclude.

Hon. George A McCarthy: I would like to thank Members of this House for their support on this Motion. Assurance has been given to a question raised by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, that the currency in which the loan will be denominated will be United States dollars, which carries a fixed parity to the Cayman Island dollar. Having had the unfavourable experiences we have had before with various loans, particularly, in relationship to the fluctuating currencies in a loan from the Caribbean Development Bank for the Water Authority and Civil Aviation Authority, we will not enter into such loan arrangements again.

I should point out that we have been recently advised by the Caribbean Development Bank that they have now gained the necessary approval to convert to the US dollar the fluctuating currencies such as the Japanese Yen and others that presently denominate the Civil Aviation Loan. This was approved by Executive Council last week and the Caribbean Development Bank instructions are on their way to them to do the necessary conversion. We are also looking at all other loans where we have fluctuating currencies, or loans financed in part by a basket of currencies to also convert those loans into US dollars.

The problems that we have been having with those fluctuating rates will hopefully not be for much longer.

In connection with the interest rate, it is set at 6.75%. Initially, when we had the offer from the bank they quoted 7.75%. I checked around with various local banks and found out that we could raise the finances locally at a much cheaper cost, mainly LIBOR plus 1.25%. When we looked at this carefully we found out that it was coming in the region of under 7%. This is LIBOR plus 1.25%.

I got in touch with the bank and spoke to the controller of the bank and he pointed out that at the Caribbean Development Bank Board of Governors Meeting held in Guadeloupe a decision was taken to reduce the interest rate on the ordinary capital resources of what they call the OCR of lending of the bank. So it is now at 6.75%, so the rate compares quite favourably with what we could have if we had raised the funds locally.

In regard to trying to curtail other costs, there is one element of it which is the 1% commitment fee on the undrawn balance which will begin to run 60 days after the agreement is signed. I spoke to the bank concerning this and it was agreed that we would wait until the very last minute until we are in a position to begin using the funds which will then be made available by the bank and the agreement signed. So we will minimise that cost incurred by rushing ahead and signing the agreement earlier.

Finally, the Fourth Elected Member for George Town mentioned the need to introduce a training facility on the complex. I have been made to understand that such programmes are now in place at the Community College. I am not sure to what extent they are advertised, but those programmes are there for personal development for those wanting to be trained in the tourism area.

I would like to again thank all Members for their support on this Motion.

The Speaker: I shall put the question on Government Motion No. 2/96. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Motion is accordingly passed.

AGREED: GOVERNMENT MOTION NO. 2/96 PASSED.

The Speaker: Continuing with the Second Reading of The Loan (Capital Projects) Bill, 1996, and The Loan (Capital Projects) 1993 (Amendment) Bill, 1996.

The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

BILLS

SECOND READINGS

THE LOAN (CAPITAL PROJECTS) BILL, 1996 TOGETHER WITH THE LOAN (CAPITAL PROJECTS) 1993 (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1996

(Continuation of Debate thereon)

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The two Bills being debated have priority over any of the other Bills in this Meeting. They are asking that we borrow 'X' amount of money that will be spent in the way I am sure all Members of this House agreed was needed to help develop our roads, recreation centres and parks, but most of all the educational system.

These things have been spoken about in the past. But I see where the Opposition is complaining against it, that we should not get the money to get these things done. I would like to know how we are going to get it done if we do not have the money. Most developing countries cannot finance themselves all the way, they have to borrow money. That is our position here.

I feel that the Opposition is just trying to tear down what the Government has been doing. They know that this National Team Government is a good Government. We have moved this country back to where it is something to look up to. But they will never give credit where credit is due. Their method is to tear down and destroy. They seem to think that they know it all, but they never come back with a solution to anything they try to tear down. They cannot do it because it is not in them.

(inaudible interjections)

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: I am going to knock you out.

(Members' laughter)

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: They ask, what has this Government done? The First Elected Member for Bodden Town said some time back that a blind man could see what was needed. It is funny, because their blindness is worse than a blind man's, because they cannot be seen.

I support this Bill all the way and all that it stands for. It is needed and I hope that the Opposition will learn a lesson before it is too late. I do not know if they can do it.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we get in front of the microphone and start talking about fiscal or financial imprudence or lack of proper management, I believe there is a little poem that should be read to those Members of the Legislative Assembly, among others. With your permission I will read it:

*You've got to have the goods, my boy,
If you would finish strong.
A bluff may work a little while,
But not for very long.
A line of talk all by itself
Will seldom see you through;
You've got to have the goods, my boy,
Nothing else will do.
The fight is pretty stiff, my boy;
I call it rather tough,
And along the route there are the wrecks
Of those who tried to bluff.
They could not back their lines of talk
To meet the final test.
You've got to have the goods, my boy,
And that is no idle jest.*

I was not in here in the House for all of the debate because of other commitments.

When we were planning the Cayman night in Chicago in the early part of the year, we settled for the date of the 27th simply because last year the June Sitting of this House started on 1st of June. We were hopeful that by setting the date for the 27th, this House would have adjourned by then. When it became known that the timing for the beginning of the June Sitting was the 19th, it was impossible to cancel the invitations which had already gone out, and we had to proceed with the function as planned.

I must say that I was very pleased with that function. We drew 850 wholesalers, travel agents, airline representatives, among others, to that function, as well as many of our local partners in tourism. I hope that benefit will come to the Cayman Islands as a result.

The Bill presently before the House, the 1993 Loan Capital Project Law, which was passed on the 29th day of November, 1993, listed a number of projects for which funding was being sought. The last item on that list of projects, the Community College building, was sought to be financed with an amount of $2,635,000. That amount was not used. What we basically used was $588,434. That left within that approved loan $2,046,566.

The Bill before the House, A Bill for a Law to Amend the Loan (Capital Projects) Law, 1993, seeks to reallocate that sum of money by distributing $61 1,260 to Sports Centers and Parks, and to utilise the remaining sum of $1,435,306 for school buildings without any specific label as to which building, rather than the Community College. This amendment had to come back simply because we could not utilise the remaining funds without proper approval from the Legislative Assembly. Even if we tried to use it for school buildings we had to come back here.

I heard all sorts of commentary about that, so much so that some people may believe that we are borrowing $10 million plus $8 million which is certainly not the case. The $8 million was authorised earlier in November 1993. Roughly $2 million of it was not used and we are seeking to allocate a portion of it ($61 1,260) to Sports Centres and Parks, and to utilise the remaining amount of $1,435,306 for school buildings as the Ministry and Department so indicated in their budgetary request.

The other loan, A Bill for a Law to authorise the borrowing of up to $10,685,268 for the financing of specified Capital Projects, lists $200,000 for Civic Centers and Museums; $4,050,000 (almost half of the amount) for construction of roads; $37,000 for Harbours and Docks; $709,774 for Public Buildings; $2,221,518 for purchase of land; and school buildings $1,420,000; $846,973 for Sports Centers and Parks; $1,200,000 for Post Office buildings.

All of us who have lived in the Cayman Islands for some time remember when some of these roads were built. Any of us who travel the roads today, particularly the roads that are paved with hot mix, see cracks in many areas. This indicates that the life of that road is (or has) coming to an end in terms of its economic life.

As we enter the rainy season, if we do nothing it will only be a matter of time... and as we travel around it is evident that in some places those networks of cracks have begun to come loose and are becoming potholes. Some of the roads were built 20 or 30 years ago, even more in some cases. I think the Government's priority here is right. It must be done.

Borrowing $10.6 million does not put the country in any serious difficulty. We have a budget in excess of $200 million. The recurrent revenue alone is estimated to be $185 million. In order to utilise and honour our debt, we are only using 5.3% of the revenue. There are countries in this world (The US, UK, Bermuda or any other) who would love to be in our position.

I wonder what they mean by financial irresponsibility. Is it using 5.3% of our revenue to pay our debts? Most people utilise the use of 10% of the revenue to cover their debt obligations as being the border line. We are about half of that percentage, so what is the worry? The worry is that they do not want us to do any roads because we are going to get too much credit for it.

I heard the Fourth Elected Member for George Town speak for hours about one line in the supplementary request. Which line was he talking about? If you look at the sum of money requested for purchase of lands, you only need one line to say George Town block so, and so, line so, and so. What further explanation does he want? It is an old complaint.

Being the former Financial Secretary of this country when we had a budget in 1988 with about 100 pages, the Opposition always said that we did not give them enough information. Now look at what you have, a budget in excess of 300 pages, and they come in here still saying that they do not have enough information. They want to run up the cost of producing paper in the Government. I thought that was high enough already!

Anyone who lives in this country and says that we should not spend $3 million to correct the deterioration in the roads in George Town, like the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay said, and quoting the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, they are more than blind. If we do not do it now, the next time we try to correct it I will bet that it will cost somewhere between $4 million to $6 million if we do it properly.

There is no sense in doing main roads and talking about chip and spray which cannot last for more than a year. The traffic going through this country at the present time... and we look at some of these huge trucks... when you take the bend with that, the chips come off, and continue to come off. That is where the money is wasted. My father always told me, 'Son, if you are going to do it, do it properly. It may cost you more, but it will last longer.' That is the philosophy in this country. That is why we have the roads we have today.

They are talking about borrowing? In 1973 (and I am not discrediting the 1973 Government or the former Financial Secretary) the Budget of this country was $6,179,659.15. Let the Opposition go and find the Loan Law that authorised the $5 million in that year. They borrowed $5 million, almost the same amount as their Budget. Why? Because the infrastructure of this country needed to be put in place.

Item one in the schedule of the Law: the construction and equipment of Administration Headquarters of the Government of George Town, which is what we call the Glass House today; the improvement and equipment of the terminal building at Owen Roberts Airport, George Town (that is, the old terminal); the construction and improvement of highways in the Cayman Islands; the construction and improvement of Harbour facilities in the Cayman Islands. They were not irresponsible. That is not the point I am making. But having put all of this in place, the life of whatever they did 20-odd years ago, I think we can see the need to do some serious road re-construction. That is what the Bill is all about. Almost half of it is dealing with roads.

This is only the start. A lot more has to be done. The majority of it (and I am getting a bit of coaching here and there) is in the district of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town. I do not know what he is grumbling about. Maybe that is the one line he is talking about - he does not want the $3 million for road work.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER
(Misleading)

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, Fourth Elected Member for George Town?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: At no time in my debate did I say that I did not want to see the $3 million worth of road works done in George Town. The Minister is misleading this House.

The Speaker: The Member has a point, Honourable Minister. I do not think that he said that.

I think that we should take the luncheon suspension at this time.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I did not say that the Fourth Elected Member for George Town said that. That was my observation from his debate.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended until 2.30 PM.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.05 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.42 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we took the break I was commenting on the amount of money in the Bill dealing with the construction of roads. There has been some extensive exercise carried out to make an assessment of what roads need to be fixed. Just in George Town alone, my understanding is that the estimate is that $5 million worth of road work is immediate. This is based on some roads paved with hot mix and some with chip and spray.

But, being the responsible Government that we are, we are going to fix the majority of those roads and yet not put the country in any real financial difficulty while doing so.

When we took the reigns of this country there was $43 million in public debt. There was $80.5 million in contingent liabilities, meaning guarantees and what have you that the House approves. At the end of 1985 the total public debt (which was borrowing directly by Government and by the statutory boards and Cayman Airways) was $51.5 million. Sixteen point eight million dollars of that were debts the previous Government left us, otherwise the public debt today would be $34.7 million.

The General Reserve, which they tried to confuse the public with, was $10 million. But there are two pockets. In the left side you have the General Reserve and in the right pocket you have a deficit of $7 million. If you are going to count how much you have, you only have roughly $3 million no matter how you try to put the spin on what you have to say.

This Government has always acted responsibly in the financial arena, in the management of the Government and otherwise. Today $9.8 million is the amount of revenue that we use to service debts, and those debts are not created in a major way by this Government. When we took over we found $43 million already in place. We have been paying that off over the past three years. I am not going to go into detail because I remember the Minister for Education making this point on several occasions. I am sure that members of the public are aware of it.

I really want those who have been making a lot of noise in the House to justify all of the things that they have said. As I read the newspaper on their debate I really do not see much evidence for them to hold on to. Is it that the country is fully occupied? Is that a justification? Is it that big and small contractors have work? They do not want to talk about that; they want to say something else. It is that the Government is making too much money? No. They are not saying that either. Is it that the economic buoyancy in the country is too good? No, they are trying to say otherwise. Is it that the National Team has put this country back into a sound, economic and financial position together with the Official Members of this Government? No, they do not want to talk about that.

They should not be like the ostrich and stick their heads in the sand and then pull it up every once in a while and bellow complaints and accusations. The public understand what the position is. They are trying to use certain words trying to convince them that it is not so, but every person in this island, who is legally here and who has Caymanian status, or who is a born Caymanian who wants a job, can have one - every one of them. There is not another country in this world..., and let the Opposition correct me. There is not another country in this world that can say that and be right.

Who did it? It certainly was not the last Government. The loans that they created... the Backbench is part of the National Team, I do not give any credit to some of our Opposition for doing anything other than trying to take us to task for issues which are already resolved. Given all the things that we have heard in recent times, I must give credit to the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman for his contribution yesterday. His contribution is so close to the truth, and it is the truth, that the Opposition did not want to hear it. I think they turned their ears off.

In previous contributions by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town (and I am not attacking him, I am just quoting what I know) gives great credit to the MGTP, how that should be the case, and it is a long term plan... Anybody can make a long term plan. Anybody can spend money too. Not everybody can earn it. The National Team has a record of earning money to spend, and for spending it wisely. While they do not agree with what we are doing, let us wait until November 1996 and see who is right.

I bet the public understands what we are doing, and I bet they appreciate what we have done. There may be a little fight for re-election, but I am letting them know today that I am not prepared to stand down. I am going to be in there with the rest of my colleagues from West Bay. Everything we have fixed we will take credit for and there is much of it. I try not to blow my own horn, but sometimes it is worth the mention.

I remember the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman raising all kinds of sand about the moratorium - we should not have done that. Some other people in very high places were basically acting the same way. There was every justification, every evidence..., even those who were not quite with us when we did it, are now saying it was a wise idea.

It is not just what I say. Here is a report from the Caribbean Development Bank, the same report that the Honourable Third Official Member spoke of this morning. Do you know what it says in one of the paragraphs? '1.08: The economic activity in the construction sector was fueled by the removal of a moratorium imposed on hotel construction. I would read some other parts of it, but I am really not prepared to do that yet.

I realise I am straying a little bit, and I ask for your indulgence. We are talking about a Bill that provides money for Capital work. They said that it was because of luck that the country has a record of air arrivals 19% above 1992. It had to be attributed to the previous Government. It was not anything that I did. Then it came to 1994 and they found a similar percentage of increase in visitors. We know that air arrivals generally spend for their three or four days, over $1,000 in this country. Take 287 and multiply it by 1,000. Everybody can figure out what that amount to - millions. So, when we get to 1995 and we are over 361,000, what do they say? It is mass tourism now, a different spin on the argument. We are doing too good. Now they have to put a negative thing in to try to confuse people.

Do you know who the people who receive visitors are? Do you know the sales in the duty free shops? Do you know the number of people who go to dinner at restaurants? While they say the taxi and tour bus operations are volatile, when we put it all together and we are talking about $10 million to $14 million being earned by this particular sector of the economy - all from tourism. I am not blowing my trumpet, it is a fact.

When we were dealing with the heritage project, we heard those words from the First Elected Member for Bodden Town - mass tourism. Six hundred thousand visitors came before I arrived.

I give credit to the former Member for Tourism, Aviation and Trade. I always try to treat him as the gentleman he is, and try to put the politics in the back pocket and forgetting about it for now. He has made his contribution. With the help of God I am going to finish making mine by November. Then, when they challenge me in West Bay during the campaign, I am willing to defend it too because I am running.

It is always good to come back to the base from which we start. I know that you would like me to do that. This Loan Capital Bill is nothing more than the essential that is required in this country. It would be a miracle if the Government were in the position every year to do all of its Capital work from the surplus (the Minister for Education used the same word) - the revenue less the recurrent and statutory expenditure - that amount. It would be a miracle if that could ever pay for all the Capital work throughout the history of an island or a country. It has never happened in this country or any other country.

There are times when we must act because having put the country back on a sound financial footing, having paid off millions and millions in debts created by the former Government, having taken the bold decision only to do on-going Capital projects in 1993, there are certain projects which cannot be further postponed; Roads is one of them.

This Bill also deals with Sports Centres and Parks. I remember the second Budget Address I gave back in 1983, making the comment that social development needs attention. It never got much until the National Team came along. We not only have additional facilities which the public appreciates, whether it is the Truman Bodden Sports Centre, or the Ed Bush Sports Centre. We also have an enhanced programme of athletic endeavours, whether it is football, basketball, netball or cricket. We can even host the Shell Cup, which has never been done before in this country. We get no credit for all of this from the Opposition. They feel we are spending too much money on social development.

Madam Speaker, I am going to make this statement and stand by it: Never in the history of the Cayman Islands that I know of has there been so much attention paid to social development. I think The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture is owed a great debt. Sure he has support from us, but he is out there taking the licks and marching forward with it. The country owes him a great debt.

As one Minister would say, it is hard to argue with results. Look at them, even the blind, even though they cannot see them, hear and know about them. I am not talking about the blind members of the community; I am talking about the blind Members of this House. This has all kinds of domino effects.

I have often heard the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay saying that sports is the answer. It is not only today that he is saying that. When I was a teenager he used to teach me how to box too. He has been saying it from those days and helping in the community. We have to spend another $2 million in 1996 to move on with the programme to provide facilities for the youth. Even we get out there sometimes and believe that we can play football I think the Honourable First Official Member was part of that not too long ago. Why are we a part of it? We are part of it because we want to demonstrate our support for that movement - our support of wholesome activities for our people.

Look at all of the Police Reports from 1992 forward. When we arrived on the scene the Juvenile Court was lucky to start at 10.00 on a Friday morning and get home at 7.00 in the evening. They had some serious cases in front of them. I will not go into detail on that because I think the work has been done. The results are evident. Now they go to the court room and in a period of a couple of hours business is finished. The Cayman Islands Marine Institute - another programme instituted by the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture - and he had to fight to get it through. They did not want to do it - spending too much money on sports and other programmes. Now I think that even they are starting to say, 'It was not a bad idea. It seems to be working out OK, producing good results.'

This Government is on the right track. It is listening to the people and carrying out its promises to the people of this country. It is not enough to say that we are carrying out the promises we made in 1992, but it is sufficient to say that we are. We are still listening; we are still carrying out our promises. If anybody wants to read a copy of what we promised in 1992, I have several copies of the National Team Manifesto. Although it has 13 or 14 pages, there is very little in it that has not yet been done, but we still have work to do. It deals with all sorts of issues, the economy, Cayman Airways, the Constitution, Finance Committee, Civil Service and Police Service, private pensions, crime, Immigration, Tourism, Agriculture, Community Development, Education, Housing, Sports, Health Services, Environmental protection, Roads, Channels and compulsory acquisition and consultation. Most of it has already been done.

As I said, there is more work to be done as well. That was one agenda of promises. We have more to issue shortly to indicate to the people of this country the direction we feel we should go. Let them decide. They will get their opportunity on the 20th day of November of this year.

The National Team, this Government, is acting responsibly. There is no secret about the Budget that a Member tried to talk about from the other side of the floor. This has been to some extent the way we have handled it for years and years.

If you step back in time 10 years, the Opposition was talking about $10 budgets. Similar concept, one that says we want Legislative approval for this project, and the allocation is put in the Budget. If the country's financial position improves during the year that is estimated, you move forward to implement it. If it does not, then you have to reconsider - can the project wait? If the answer is yes, it waits. If the answer is no, then you have to move forward. If the revenue is not there, the only answer I know is to go and borrow.

With all this money we have earned over the last three years, we have given Civil Service increases - 5% in one year, 9% last year - $7.5 million. Why? Because we are honouring our obligation! They are entitled to it; the country could afford it, and we did it.

Social programmes, crime - we have even increased at our own initiation the number of police men within the police service. When we had the problem with 'sessions', we authorised the Commissioner to set up a unit. We told him to go and conduct recruitment and we would find the money. We did it. Today, we find that results from that particular unit are coming in. The police certainly got their hands on the control in most areas. I think we owe the Commissioner of Police our congratulations. He has been doing a good job together with other members of his service, as he calls it, which I think is the correct word.

When we look at the position of Government at the end of May, we paid all of our debts. We have not collected everything that is due. We are still working on that. We have a surplus position in excess of $11 million. They are calling that irresponsibility? All kinds of spin on the words they are using, trying to confuse the public. Thank God some of us know the facts and can present them.

One section of this report which the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development read from this morning, also talks about public finances. These are not Thomas Jefferson's words; this is a team of specialists from Caribbean Development Bank made up of technical persons, economic persons, finance persons and a combination of civil engineering skills. They say (on page 24 of that document); "The performance of the central Government finances from 1990 to 1994 was marked by cumulative savings of $18.5 million. This reflected an average rate of growth in current revenue of 11.7% to $148 million in 1994 compared with the average growth of expenditure of 7.8%. Traditionally, the central Government overall deficit declined by $50.7 million in 1993."

The Opposition wants to know what we did, tell them to read this sentence. "This reflected a decline of 30.4% in capital expenditure a net lending to 17.6% over the period. In 1994, the current account surplus increased by 57.3% to $50.1 million." That is the same surplus I was talking about a while ago: In essence, confirmation of the good stewardship of this Government. If they want confirmation of it, it is here. There are no word like 'irresponsibility' is used in this document; no words like 'imprudence' are used in this document. It is all positive.

That is not what they want to hear, but that is the facts as the Government knows them to be. The records speak for themselves. I do not know what twist they will use after this, but we will reserve every right to answer.

What else have we done? I do not have any notes. Ask anyone in the financial industry what the track record of this Government is, having taken power in November 1992. Ask them to give you an assessment of how much business is coming to this country, of how many days a week they have to work and how many hours, and what is the quality of the business coming to this island.

The stock exchange was a good move by the Honourable Financial Secretary. We support him. We take credit for backing the Financial Secretary on the Mutual Fund Legislation in 1993. It was the biggest increase... I know the Opposition does not want to hear this, but they do not know anything about running a country. All they know about is sitting on the other side and throwing darts and complaining and ridiculing. They can check my record. I believe I know something about running a country. I will put my racket against any person in this House.

The banking arena, the trust, the company management... They asked if we knew what we were doing when we lowered the fees on companies. We told them then that, yes, we knew what we were doing. Because we made that move, because the world is becoming a keener competitive place to operate, we cannot sleep too long or stand too still. If we do we will lose our attractiveness. That is why the Financial Secretary put this forward, and we supported him. Now he is coming with a Monetary Authority Bill. It is a timely and a right move.

I am glad to see too that he got his signature on the notes. It was long overdue. I take umbrage to those in here who have made certain innuendos, or inferences about his ability.

This is the way some people operate - if they cannot find a fact to trip somebody up with, they ask every embarrassing question they can possibly dream of just to try to degrade the individual. I know about it. I suffered through it too. Thank God, he is a bigger man than that. I would not question his ability as a Financial Secretary. I suggest they do not do so either because he has the interests of this country at heart.

He got his qualification the hard way. I know a little bit about that too. It is not easy as an adult to pull up your roots and go to New York and gain a qualification in a competitive university and then go on and sit for the Certified Public Accountant exam and win; and then to go on and say 'this is not adequate. I want to be in the financial arena to get a working experience in it.' He has done all of that. Why would we question him? Are we questioning his commitment? No way! He is the advisor to the House on financial and economic matters. I would suggest that those who try to second guess him get the facts. Before posing embarrassing questions, go to his office and talk to him. I lived through it. They come into the House making all these statements. Then when we take a break and go into the common room, they try to fluff you over. 'I did not really mean that, you know.' We are supposed to accept that and not remember that the thing went over the air and people heard it - and some people believe it. Where are we going if we do that to each other? Where is the leadership in this country? Where are the role models for the younger generation to follow? Where is the integrity of the Members of this House? It is a shame to even be talking like this.

Do not tell me that you will do anything in the world just to make a point, or just to try to win an election. If I have to do that, they will not have me standing for any election. For 50-odd years of my life I have not done it, and I am not going to begin now. I have taken my licks. I gave a few back too, and I am still capable of giving a few back. Anyone who attacks me in my present mood will get a response.

No matter what dictionary, atlas, encyclopedia or what CNN or CITN or Z-99 they go on with their advertisements, the facts are still going to ring true at the end of the day. I hear people talking about the Government spending $700 million. Why do you not tell them what we spent it on? Why did they not tell them how much money it takes to run the Government itself? Why did they not tell them the total recurrent expenditure and statutory expenditure in this country? Because that is another spin, trying to confuse the majority of the people in this country that they are right and that this Government has gone off on some spending spree. There is no record in this House or in the Treasury, or any place else that they can factually use and talk about the National Team being on a spending spree.

Did you say that Gilbert is on a spending spree? I apologise, Madam Speaker. I know that I am not supposed to mention Member's names.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I said McKeeva.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I think I addressed that point already. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is trying to take me down a different road. I will only say to him that I know that he knows the good work that is done by the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture. He may not want to publicly acknowledge it, but I know that he knows. I also feel that he appreciates what is done, although he is the Opposition. He will not give him any accolades for it.

I even saw the front page today where he is accepting a cheque. I looked very carefully to see where the Financial Secretary was and he was right near to him. So you are not going to hold that cheque too long. Get it into the Treasury and earn some interest.

Everything that is before us... I wonder, Madam Speaker, if I could ask for a little break, my throat is getting in trouble.

The Speaker: Yes, certainly. Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 3.32 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 4.05 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce continuing the debate.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As we took the break I had referred to a comment made by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, when he said 'McKeeva is on a spending spree.' I thought I would try to educate him by saying that prevention (as my parents and grandparents used to tell me) is worth a pound of cure. It is estimated that the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture, will spend $7 million in the area of sports and his other responsibilities, for the four years, which is a combination of salaries and operational expenses of the various Government units and the addition of facilities.

We can take that $7 million and compare it with the cost of policing the country, which is the curing side. For the years 1984 to 1996 we spent $100 million in police services alone. Would it not make more sense to spend money preventing that situation? That is what the Minister is doing. I do not call it a spending spree, but they always put a little spin on it just to get some kind of reaction from the public.

The other matter I want to refer to is my earlier comments about certain kinds of statements and questions being posed to the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development. One of the things that I failed to mention was a news letter which is floating around the island called "Town Talk, a Newsletter for the Constituents of Bodden Town". On page 2 it reads: The Financial Secretary gave a long, rambling answer, unfortunately not still clear as to the Government financial position and one can only speculate that given the National Team's poor record of management that the financial position cannot be good."

As I understand it, one of the publishers of this was in the gallery earlier, and the other two are Members of this House, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. I believe that my earlier comments were necessary, and I do not need to say anything further about it except that it is unfortunate that those words got into "The Town Talk". I am sure that there are many other things that they could say. Perhaps they too are sorry. If they want to elucidate the House by taking a point of order, I am ready to sit down.

The Bill before the House also makes some allocations within this Loan Bill. Within the $10.7 million is $2.7 million for school buildings, and within the 1993 Bill the reallocation of a sum of $1.4 million for school buildings. The Budget also allocates $2.7 million for school buildings. We know that primary school buildings and high school buildings, particularly primary school buildings, are spread all around this country (when I say this country I mean the Cayman Islands), a total of $5.5 million. This expenditure cannot wait. It needs to go forward to provide facilities for our youth. I support it and I support the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning. I am sure that if it were not urgent, it would not be here.

I have already explained the procedure for dealing with the Budgetary allocation and the $25,000 allocation. I mentioned that ten years ago it cost $10 in order to get approval for the project. When the financial position improved during the year, we moved forward with it.

The other area I referred to, which I think triggers the amount of money spent in sports and community development, is the statistics on crime. None of us is totally pleased with it, but the figures are reducing. When I look at the 1992 position, 1993, 1994, 1995, we find a pretty sharp reduction in most of the crime. It is right to give the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture some credit for it. He must certainly play a part in it. Certainly the police play a prominent part as well.

In all that we do, we do it in the interest of the public and based on sound financial movement. "The Town Talk" also mentioned a budget of $219 million. There is nothing wrong with that. The country can afford it. Are we going to deny services to the public? Are we not to provide facilities to enhance the standard and quality of life in this country? Who should we deny if we are going to reduce the budget?

In all of that, the responsibility rests on the Government to move forward with prudence, with fiscal responsibility providing the services required by the public, and not putting the country in any difficult position. Certainly, 5.3% of the total revenue to pay your debts is not any alarming figure. Out of a total revenue earned of $185 million, $9.8 million is not any alarming figure.

It can be "Town Talk", or "District Talk", or "Cayman Islands Talk", but the fact is that it is only talk! It is not based on any fact. Just the kind of spin certain people want to put on it trying to influence the population that something is drastically wrong in this country. I would like for them to show me where it is. They talk in parables, they talk in generalities, they never come with specifics. When you challenge them and ask where it is, they start to complain. Then you say to them, "What really is your problem? What is it you want me to do?" Most of the time they cannot tell you.

I close my speech by saying to the public of this country that the economy of this country is buoyant, the financial position of the Government is healthy, and as long as you have the National Team running the Government it will continue to be healthy because we practice sound fiscal policy and integrity in our management of the Government.

Before I sit down I also want to say how impressed I am with the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation and the job that he has been doing since taking that responsibility. It is not an easy subject to deal with. I was Principal Secretary of Health, Education and Social Services from December 1979 until February 1982. It is not easy at all, and it only gets more difficult. Obviously he has things in hand. He has generated a good team that assisted him to move the project of health services forward.

I am looking forward to the ground-breaking in West Bay shortly for the clinic in my district. Bodden Town has theirs, North Side and East End will soon get theirs (as with us in West Bay). We are not just looking out for ourselves - just because I live in West Bay it must get everything. We look for a distribution of the expenditure for capital works so that each person living in each district gets the kind of service and facilities they require.

Simply put, Madam Speaker, we look out for the interests of everyone in these islands. We are not playing games; we are dealing with the broad brush of the population. We are not dealing with any parochial movement.

Madam Speaker, I am grateful for your endurance and tolerance this afternoon. Thank you, very much.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The last Minister has clearly put the content of the Bill before us and has also dealt with the nasty remarks that have been put forward, leaving very little for me to add. But I will still have my say as far as the portion of the Bill concerning my Ministry.

I would first like to say that I am delighted to know that I am part of a Government that is exactly as the last speaker said - not for self. We are here to look after the needs of all the islands. That is exactly what this Bill does.

The way the Opposition tries to twist things to make this Government look bad is amazing. I honestly wonder who they are catering to. As you drive from district to district - it is just like flogging a dead horse - the people understand their tactics. They tend to especially ignore the type of questions posed on the floor of this House.

But I am pleased to know that my Government saw fit to support me with the very first item in this Bill, the $200,000 which will allow me to provide in my district a Civic Centre/Hurricane Shelter which is so badly needed. It may be said that we have one in East End, but the size of my district dictates the necessity to have another one in Gun Bay.

I know that the Opposition has in recent times visited that area looking at the road works which I have done. I just have one word of warning: save your gas because I will be building more. I wish that waste of manpower would be put to better use.

I move to the second item in this Bill of $4,050,000 for construction of roads. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town made, what were in my opinion, nasty remarks regarding Public Works Department and the Government with regard to roads. I wish that the Members for the constituency of George Town had advised that Member a long time ago to stop riding the fence. Either be on their side or be on the other side. Out of courtesy we have always invited him to go out and tour the districts and to suggest what roads are to be fixed. If because he has not lived up to his part of showing support to the Government they have decided not to take him this time, he should not take out spite on my Ministry or the Public Works Department. Tell it like it is.

My duty is to the three Members for George Town who are supporting the National Team Government. As I said, I have extended the courtesy to him many times - something he has not really returned the way he should have, because I am often faced with questions.

In his debate he said that the deployment of manpower in the Public Works Department was a waste of time. He drew some references to show that they could be in one location and be called to another. The only time I can think of that is when we were doing his district a favour. Is he saying to me that we should not do that for his district?

Yes, I have had to remove the Public Works Department from one of the Eastern districts because there was literally a crisis situation in his district. We had roads in Templeton Pines... as a matter of fact some houses were flooded. I had the same thing in the swamps. Yes, I have that right. The Governor gave me responsibility for the Public Works Department and I use my better judgment. If I have to move them around, I move them around.

That is no waste of manpower. I hope he can go into Templeton Pines and say that to the people there, or to the swamp and say that it was a waste of manpower when I brought those people to fix the roads in those areas.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER
(Misleading)

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, Fourth Elected Member for George Town?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In my opinion the Honourable Minister is misleading the House. During the course of my debate I at no time said that Public Works Department was wasting time. My argument was based on the fact that the way they were deployed, time was not utilised properly. It had no bearing on creating any impression that the Public Works Department as regards their operation.

It is obvious from the Minister's contribution that he is, either by innuendo or direct speech, saying that I have said that the Public Works Department is not doing its job properly.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works, can you show me the portion of the Member's debate that does say that it is a waste of time? I have a copy of the debate in front of me.

Hon. John B. McLean: If you read page 2, I think it is in the right-hand column. Although he used his usual tactic of saying that he was only using names... But you can read what he said here. He said: "...the Public Works Department is located in the district of George Town. There is a little plan for them to go up to the East End of the Island out from my district, and they have agreed to do certain works. All of a sudden there is a call from the lady Member from West stating that she wants something done now..." He goes on in another section to say that those who holler loudest are the ones who are attended to.

All through his statement he pointed out exactly what I have said.

The Speaker: But he has not used the words, 'that is a waste of time.' I do not see that here, and I think that the point he has raised... If you are going to quote, please quote correctly. He has a valid point of order here. He said, "The Public Works Department then has to redeploy the equipment and the manpower all the way down to the other side of the Island to get something done, then go back a week later to finish what was started. That is because there is no plan." He did not say 'because it was a waste of time'. That is the point I think he has raised.

Please continue, and quote him correctly. Thank you.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I was looking as you were speaking. I will read further with regard to the construction of roads. "I will quickly say again, to make the point, that if we examine the Public Works Department and the deployment of its manpower and equipment, if they were given a chance to really speak their minds and say what they know to be the correct way, the amount of man hours and equipment time that is wasted would amaze us."

The Speaker: I do see that there. But he is really making the point about the proper deployment of its manpower and equipment. I think it is a reasonable thing for him to say that "the amount of man hours and equipment time that is wasted would amaze us," but I do not think that he is saying that it is a waste of time. He is just saying, "That is real money - that is not what one writes on paper. Those people are being paid to operate the equipment.". I think that is the point that he raised there.

Fourth Elected Member for George Town, have you anything else to add to that to clarify it?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As the Honourable Minister has read, my point was that Public Works Department's time - both manpower and equipment time - were wasted at times. I made no inference that the department was wasting time, which is what the Minister was trying to say that I said. I was not saying that. I repeat that I was not saying that!

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I have accepted that as a valid point of order. Would you please continue?

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I bow to your ruling. As the saying goes, "A rose by any other name still smells the same."

Let me say, regarding his remarks on this Bill and the things which have been said with regard to a national road plan, this country has had one or two national road plans - plans which this country could not afford, which literally took families out of their homes. The type of plan he referred to in his debate, the MGTP, was such a plan. This Government campaigned in the 1992 election against things such as the MGTP because this country could not (and still cannot) afford it.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION - 4.30 PM

The Speaker: Honourable Minister it is now 4.30, but I would hope that Members would wish to continue until about 5.00 to conclude the debate on these two Bills.

Would someone move a Motion to that effect? The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I move that this Honourable House continue until the debate on the Capital Bill before us is completed.

The Speaker: If there is no debate I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The debate will continue.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE PROCEEDINGS TO CONTINUE UNTIL 5.00 PM.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As I started to say, during the 1992 elections, this Government campaigned against the plan I mentioned. We told the people exactly what we would do if elected.

Speaking of no national plan, as I pointed out, we have had two which the Government of the day actually spent a lot of money on. I am not referring to this Government, I am referring to the previous Government.

What we have done in every budget thus far is have monies put aside for road works. For somebody to say that nothing has been done is being most ridiculous. In every district road works have been carried out on an annual basis. It is not what any of us would like to see, we would like to see more, but the first time the country could really afford us the opportunity of putting together a loan the size of which we are talking about now, is at this time.

I hear some rumble about wasting money on side roads. Let me say that this Government was taken to task; a Motion was moved on us because we did certain roads in the district of West Bay. All roads that were fixed (and which are still being fixed) with taxpayer's money, and the persons for whom those roads were built, contribute to our revenue. So what is wrong with our doing it? But the Opposition has to have something to say, not that it is necessarily the truth.

We have fixed roads and we have built new roads. I would say that the largest expenditure on any one new road was built during our administration right here in George Town. All of the critics who said that was a waste of money are seen using it on a daily basis. It is working, and working well, serving the purpose.

We also have other plans for roads. It is not only the $4- million, there are several other plans. One Member mentioned traffic congestion going east; we have plans in place to build a Crewe Road bypass; we have plans in place to build roads further east; we have plans in place to complete roads that are presently under construction in my district. We are also going to build the Harquail bypass and upgrade all major roads in George Town. There is nothing wrong with what we are doing or the way we are spending these funds in the Capital of the islands. In my opinion this is the right way.

I do not expect the Opposition to support us. Regardless of what we do we are wrong in their eyes. But, as far as I am concerned, I am going to do what my Government wants me to do with these funds. As my colleague said a while ago, we will stand by whatever we do. I am not going to ride any fence.

As we drive around in Grand Cayman today and reflect on what the roads were when we took over the Government, and on how little had been done as far as preventative maintenance in this country, and if there is somebody prepared to say that nothing has been done during the four years we have been in... Well, I think they need to get their head examined. We have done well with what we have had to do it with. As I said, God knows that one of the first things I did was go around with the various representatives to see the needs in the districts.

The Public Works Department, on more than one occasion, worked up costs on what it would take to repair roads in each district, as well as to build some new roads. To talk about not know where we are going.... We knew where we were going, but, unlike others, we waited until the right time. We did not take things into our hands and try to put down our Financial Secretary and not listen to his advice. No! That is the reason he is here. We waited until he advised us that it was the right time to get funds. We are not about to change the complement of this House as was done in the past so that the Government can operate because we cannot take advice from the Financial Secretary. It will never happen.

As far as I am concerned, the funds which we are seeking, as explained, are well within our means. As far as I am concerned, I have no problem recommending them to the public. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Third Official Member wish to wind up the debate on the Bills?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would like to thank all Honourable Members for their views in connection with these Loan Bills. As recognised by Members, and mentioned at various stages of the debate on these Bills, the total authorised borrowings for 1996 (once these Bills are passed) will amount to $28.86 million. That is $16.16 million during the Budget Session, together with the $12.7 million of which only $10.6 is being introduced by way of a new Bill.

As mentioned during the proceedings of Finance Committee in May, if the assumption is made that all borrowings will be expended during the year, the public debt position at the end of the year would be $55.4 million, arrived at as follows: The public debt balance as at 1st January - $33.3 million; less repayments during 1996 ($6.8 million), plus draw down against loans in 1996 ($28.9 million), giving a net position of $55.4 million.

Mention was made during Finance Committee that the provision made in the Budget for the servicing of Loans amounted to $1 1.6 million, representing 6.3% of recurrent revenue. It was further pointed out that this debt service cost could increase to $13.5 million during the course of the year, thus increasing the percentage ratio to recurrent revenue from 6.3% to 7.3%. There is a likelihood that although the approved capital programmes for the year would now have increased to $40.5 million, not all borrowings will be expended.

Honourable Members will recall that on Wednesday of this week, in an answer to a Parliamentary Question, I mentioned that based on the estimates provided by Public Works Department a range for the carrying out of capital works was given as falling between $35 million to $42 million, to the extent that the actual capital spending falls below the approved level, this should reflect a corresponding decrease in draw down against loan approvals for the year.

The Treasury, in its extrapolation of the overall financial position through the end of the year, has made the assumption that the approved capital budget will be expended in full. If this happens, the end of year out-turn is expected to realise a deficit of $.5 million arrived at as follows: Financing available (revised local revenue) $186.4 million; loan receipts $28.8 million making a total financing available through the year of $215.2 million.

Application of these funds will be as follows:

Recurrent and statutory expenditure, $172.8 million; capital, $40.5 million; total spending covering recurrent statutory and capital amounts to $213.3 million, leaving an excess of $1.9 million available.

When we take into account the deficit brought forward from 1995 of $2.4 million, and match that against the excessive available financing over expenditure of $1.9 million, this is how the $.5 million deficit at the end of 1996 has been arrived at. I should say that every effort will be made to contain expenditure within the resources available, thus avoiding even this very small projected deficit.

During the debate on these Bills, I have been accused of being politically aligned. This would suggest the absence of objectivity in dealing with the country's financial affairs. In this regard I would like to assure all Members of this House, and members of the public, that if they were to hold that view they are entirely wrong.

As a Member of Executive Council, I am bound by collective responsibility. Any difference in views held between Members of Executive Council and myself should be addressed in Executive Council. I will not come to this Honourable House and try to create the impression that I am at variance with this or any other Government. To do so would be improper. I am not going to engage in such impropriety in order to appeal to the sensitivities of any Member of this Honourable House or the public.

I have also read with interest quite recently the views of a certain aspiring politician on my response to questions raised during the meeting of Finance Committee held in May. Irrespective of what I said, the interpretation of what I said by such a person would not be any different. The lesson that I have gleaned from such remarks is that you cannot please everyone, and that to attempt to do so could mean a regression in the principles and standards that I have ascribed to and know to be correct.

Finally, as a Christian I am aware that a bitter spring cannot give fresh water, therefore I take consolation in the fact that while I do not know it all, I will continue to use the wisdom God has given me in serving my family, country and fellow man. My advice to this aspiring politician is, therefore, that it should always be borne in mind that no one gets ahead in this life with any lasting degree of success by unreasonably and unjustifiably castigating their fellow man.

This person's response to what I have just said is likely to become even more caustic in his publication concerning me. But I will not be concerned with that because, as I said earlier, I will not commit myself to doing or saying what is wrong in an attempt to please anyone.

I would like to thank Honourable Members for their support on these Bills.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Questions to Honourable Ministers and Members. Deferred question number 74 standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

DEFERRED QUESTION NO. 74

No. 74: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Planning if approval has been given for another hotel on the Seven Mile Beach peninsula.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, the answer is no.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister say if there are any applications for another hotel pending with any of the Government agencies, including his office?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Planning.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, it is difficult to say whether any application is before any of the respective authorities, because it may have happened nine o'clock this morning.

The Speaker: The next question is number 100 standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 100

No. 100: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning to provide estimates for the cost of converting the Cayman Food s Building into the proposed educational facilities as mentioned in the Finance Committee's meeting of May 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the answer: Until the Loans Bill has been passed, the price negotiated and the contract executed, it will be premature to speculate on the cost of renovating this building.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister then say how he arrived at the position that it would be less costly to purchase this building and to convert it rather than building a new purpose-built facility?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I do not see how this arises out of the question, and I am not certain what the Member is referring to.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you very much, Madam Speaker. My questions are based on information which the Honourable Minister provided in his explanation during the Finance Committee meeting in May 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: If the Honourable Member will let me see a copy of the transcript, I will be happy to look at it. But the question was directly in relation to the building. I know the Member does not like the answer he has received, but I do not have any other information here.

The Speaker: The next question is number 101, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 101

No. 101 Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning on what basis was the Government valuator's report on the Cayman Food s property rejected.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden My Ministry has not rejected the Government valuator's report on the Cayman Food s property. It will go along with all other valuations to be considered by the proper authorities.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say if we are then to understand that the valuation of $900,000, as recommended by the Government's valuator, is still being considered as the appropriate price?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I am going to repeat this for the last time. The previous answer stated that until the Loans Bill has been... and I will add, until His Excellency the Governor has assented to the Bill, the price negotiated and the contract executed, it will be premature to speculate on what the price will be. All valuations will go into the appropriate authorities and they will decide on it in due course, if the Bill is assented to and if a contract can be reached.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Can the Honourable Minister say if a copy of the letter from a Mr. Lambert, the Assistant Lands Officer from the Registrar of Lands, dated 10th June, has been forwarded to the Ministry stating that the property value for Stamp Duty is now $1,268,500?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: That is correct. I would like to state that the basis for valuation for Stamp Duty purposes is the same basis for the purchase of the property by Government - the open market value under the specific laws. There is a considerable difference between two valuations given by two persons in the same department on the same piece of property on the same basis.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Since it is customary for the advice of the Government valutors to be taken into consideration, can the Minister say how he will reconcile this difference?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: It is not my duty to reconcile any difference. I have repeated that this goes on to the appropriate authorities who will deal with it. But there is a serious conflict between the $900,000 given by one of the valutors in the Lands and Survey Department and the $1.23 million given by another valuator in the same department.

It will not be my duty, I repeat, to reconcile which one is right or whether the several private valuations are right. It is a departmental matter and it will be dealt with through the normal course.

The Speaker: The next question is number 102, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 102

No. 102: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development if there are any outstanding duties still owed by Island Paving on equipment which was imported into the islands for the airport paving job.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: The Customs Department's records show that there are no outstanding duties owed to the Cayman Islands Government by Island Paving on equipment imported to carry out the Owen Roberts International Airport paving project.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say how much duty was paid on this equipment upon its importation?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the equipment for this job was imported under the temporary importation facility allowed under the Customs Law. Therefore, a temporary importation bond in the amount of $25,297.12 was placed with the Customs Department to secure the duty at risk, and upon completion of the job all the equipment was re-exported between December 1992 and January 1993.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning. We proceed to the Government Business. Bills. First Readings. Suspension of Standing Order 46.

The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER S (Standing Order 46)

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I move the suspension of Standing Order 46 so that we may take the First Reading on the Telephone (Amendment) (Emergency Telecommunications) Bill, 1996, and the National Pensions Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 46 be suspended to allow the two Bills as stated by the Honourable Minister be dealt with today.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Standing Order is accordingly suspended.

First Readings.

FIRST READINGS

TELEPHONE (AMENDMENT) (EMERGENCY TELECOMMUNICATIONS) BILL, 1996.

Clerk: The Telephone (Amendment) (Emergency Telecommunications) Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for Second Reading.

NATIONAL PENSIONS BILL, 1996.

Clerk: The National Pensions Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for Second Reading.

Second Readings.

SECOND READINGS

TELEPHONE (AMENDMENT) (EMERGENCY TELECOMMUNICATIONS) BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Telephone (Amendment) (Emergency Telecommunications) Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to move a Bill for a Law to Provide for a Telecommunication System to enable the public to communicate urgently with the Emergency Services.

This Bill fulfils Government's commitment to provide an Enhanced 9-1-1 Emergency Communications System for the Islands. It establishes the service and empowers the Minister responsible for the telephone service for the time being, to give directions to the company which provides the islands' telephone service that will define the service to be provided. It also requires the Government to provide equipment and personnel to receive the emergency calls and to operate the command and control facilities that govern the dispatch of the emergency services' vehicles.

This Bill is a short one. It was necessary for us to bring the 9-1-1 system on line as our target date, as I have said in the House, is in September. All things have been going well and we feel that we will reach the target date as planned.

I feel it will be a service for this country that has been long overdue, and a service which in the future may help to save lives. I ask Members and Ministers to offer their support to this Bill.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Telephone (Amendment) (Emergency Telecommunications) Bill, 1996, be given a Second Reading. The motion is open for debate.

Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Madam Speaker, I fully support this Bill and I commend the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Lives cannot be valued in money, and if one life is saved by this system, then the money was well spent. For many years we have needed the 9-1-1 system. In the event of an emergency we do not know whose loved one's life might be in jeopardy, either in a fire or a car accident or some other type of emergency. This is money well spent.

I know the system is a class one system and when it is fully in place I am sure it will save lives. I fully support the Honourable Minister for taking this bold step in bringing it.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, I do not know if the Honourable Minister has anything further to add.

Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Just to thank all Members and Ministers for their silent consent to the Bill and to the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning for his remarks.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Telephone (Amendment) (Emergency Telecommunications) Bill, 1996, be given a Second Reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED:THE TELEPHONE (AMENDMENT) (EMERGENCY TELECOMMUNICATIONS) BILL, 1996, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Second Readings continuing.

THE NATIONAL PENSIONS BILLS

Clerk: The National Pensions Bill.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Madam Speaker, in the light of the absence of the Honourable Minister for Community Development, I ask that we suspend the Standing Orders to take the Committee on the other Bills until I can ascertain the position in relation to the Pensions Bill.

I did speak to the Honourable Minister over the weekend at an official function and at the time I did not expect we would have moved so quickly this morning. If I could be given an opportunity to telephone him to see whether I need to move this further down on the Order Paper and put other business on.... Thank you.

The Speaker: I think we can defer the Second Reading of this Bill and go into Committee on the other Bills.

The House will now go into Committee to consider various Bills.

COMMITTEE ON BILLS

(10.28 a.m.)

The Chairman: The House is in Committee and will be dealing, first of all, with the Legal Practitioners (Amendment) Bill, 1996.

LEGAL PRACTITIONERS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1996

Clerk: Clause 1 Short title.

Clause 2 Amendment to the Legal Practitioners Law, 1995 (Revision).

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 1 and 2 do stand part of the Bill.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

CLAUSES 1 AND 2 PASSED.

Clerk: A Bill for a Law to Amend the Legal Practitioners Law, 1995 (Revision).

The Chairman: The question is that the title do stand part of the Bill.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. The title is accordingly passed.

(b) in the case of a woman is married to a man."

AGREED: TITLE PASSED.

THE PENSIONS (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1996

The Chairman: The next Bill is the Pensions (Amendment) Bill, 1996

The Clerk will read the clauses.

Clerk: Clause 1 Short title.
Clause 2 Amendment to section 2 of the principal Law.

The Chairman: There is an amendment that will be proposed by the Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 52(1) and (2), I give notice that I intend to move that the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons be amended in the first paragraph, subparagraph (c) by deleting the full stop (.) and substituting a semicolon (;), and by inserting thereafter the word "and"; and secondly by inserting a new subparagraph after (c) which reads: "(d) by providing for the payment of pensions to group employees."

The second amendment is to clause 2. I propose that clause 2 be deleted and the following clause substituted: "Clause 2 section of the Pensions Bill, 1995 (Revision) in this Law referred to as the principal Law is amended by-

- (a) in the definition of "contributor" by inserting the words "or a group employee" after the word "terms";
- (b) by inserting in the appropriate alphabetical order the following definition: "group employee" means a person employed by the Government on a temporary basis and paid at an hourly rate;
- (c) in the definition of "pensionable service" by inserting immediately after paragraph (b) the words "and" and the following new paragraph- "(c) employment as a group employee";
- (d) by inserting the following new definition in its appropriate alphabetical order-

"spouse" means a man or woman who

- (a) in the case of a man is married to a woman; and

The Chairman: The notes made by the Honourable Third Official Member concern the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons which, in the final analysis, is not part of the Bill when it has become Law. This should be made just for information at some future date.

The question now is that clause 2 be deleted and the following substituted therefore. I think all Members have been supplied with a copy of the substitution. The question is that clause 2 be deleted and substituted with what is set out in your paper. Do all Members have a copy of the proposed amendment?

The motion is open for debate. The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Chairman, I would just like to say that I congratulate the Mover of this amendment. I would like to say that it is timely. As a matter of fact I would say that it should have been here a long time ago, but good comes to those who wait. My view is that the group employees in the Public Works Department or any other department who have slaved for the country for many years, no doubt under some tough circumstances in the sun on a daily basis... it is only fair that their contribution to the Government service be taken as any other civil servant. This will bring them in line to receive benefits. So I am grateful for it.

The Chairman: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, as I said during the Second Reading of the Bill, as you and Honourable Members are aware, during the 1940s through 1970s group employees were considered as part of Government's temporary work force. Currently, however, group employees are employed on a full-time basis and have often completed long years of service. The current Pensions Law only allows for group employees to receive 3/4 the pension which a pensionable officer would receive, thus there is a need for changing the concept of the group employee, in particular the pensionable benefits to them.

As I mentioned, I think in an answer to a Parliamentary question in this House, the assessment of past service cost or pensions liability by Wyatt as at the 1st January, 1993, indicated that the liability then was approximately $66 million (without projection). With projection it reached $99 million. The difference being when we say, "without projection" if the Government had closed down the service on the 1st of January, 1993, that would have been the liability in order to make pensionable payments to all current civil servants also those persons who are on pension. Taking into account those persons who are continuing in the service, such as myself, the assumption is made that we will qualify for full pension. That is the investment that needs to be in place in order to provide for pensionable benefits.

What this means is that by widening the benefits as we are now doing, and have done for female officers' spouses and their dependants, that liability will have to be reassessed. So we can expect that when we have a further actuarial assessment it will not only take into account the additional liability that would have accrued since the 1st January, 1993, to date, but the provisions as if these benefits were in place from the beginning of the employment of the officers who are now affected, such as group employees and pensionable officers.

This is a matter that we will have to consider. Although it is quite welcome, I want to point out to Honourable Members that all of these factors will extend the liability that we are thinking of initially, as advised on the 1st of January as being $66 million and $99 million.

The Chairman: Is there any further debate? If not I shall put the question that the amendment be made to clause 2. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. The amendment is passed.

AGREED: AMENDMENT TO CLAUSE 2 PASSED.

The Chairman: I shall put the question that clauses 1 and 2 as amended stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Accordingly clauses 1 and 2 as amended are passed.

AGREED: CLAUSES 1 AND 2 AS AMENDED PASSED.

Clerk: Clause 3 Amendment of section 10 of the principal Law.

Clause 4 Amendment of section 15(1) of the principal Law.

Clause 5 Amendment of section 17 of the principal Law.

Clause 6 Amendment of section 21(b) of the principal Law.

Clause 7 Amendment of section 22 of the principal Law.

Clause 8 Repeal of section 26 of the principal Law and substitution.

Clause 9 Repeal of section 27 of the principal Law and substitution.

Clause 10 Repeal of section 28 of the principal Law.

Clause 11 Amendment of section 29 of the principal Law.

Clause 12 Amendment of First Schedule of the principal Law.

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 3 through 12 do stand part of the Bill. The motion is open for debate.

The Honourable Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Chairman. I would just like to ask the Honourable Member if he has any idea how many individuals make up the group employee establishment?

The Chairman: Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I do not have the exact numbers, but I should point out that they are now entitled to 3/4 of the eligible pension. So it is just the differential to be added.

The Chairman: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I would just like to ask the Honourable Member if there has been any consideration given to always using the masculine gender in these amendments, seeing that we have both male and female civil servants who are always referred to as 'him'?

In section 9(2), I think we need to change the words "dies before 10 July, 1980", to the words "died before 10 July, 1980."

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Chairman, in terms of the reference to gender, it is not a choice by the Portfolio of Finance and Development. This is how it has been drafted by the Legal Draftsman. However, I could probably ask for the assistance of my Honourable colleague, the Attorney General, to deal with this matter.

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

The reason why the masculine gender is used in all Government Bills is because the Interpretation Law states that where the masculine gender is used it also includes the feminine gender. There is no interpretation if it were used the other way around. So it is in conformity with the Interpretation Law and in conformity with established practise for drafting of Bills.

The Chairman: If there is no other debate, I shall put the question that clauses 3 through 12 do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Accordingly clauses 3 through 12 passed.

AGREED: CLAUSES 3 THROUGH 12 PASSED.

Clerk: A Bill for a Law to Amend the Pensions Law, 1995 (Revision).

The Chairman: The question is that the Title do stand part of the Bill. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. The title passed.

AGREED: TITLE PASSED.

The Chairman: The next Bill is the Fire Brigade Bill, 1996.

THE FIRE BRIGADE (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1996

Clerk: Clause 1 Short title and commencement.
 Clause 2 Amendment of section 2 of the Fire Brigade Law, 1995 (Revision).

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 3/96 -

DEBATE ON THE REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE AND THE AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1994 AND THE GOVERNMENT MINUTE WHICH RELATES TO IT

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I would like to finish dealing with the 1994 Report of the Auditor General at page 28, which deals with the valuation and purchase negotiations.

It is clear from the valuation of the two vendors, in one of them the land was purchased for 0.4% less than what the Lands Officer's valuation together with his 20% tolerance was valued at, and the second one was 10.8% less, in relation to the land that was purchased at Spotts for sports facilities. In fact, in relation to the land at Spotts the Auditor General at page 29, paragraph 1.52 stated this: "Vendor financing is being provided on $941,700 at 3% (per annum) over 5 years, compared to an estimated 9% (per annum) cost of capital for funds borrowed by Government direct for the balances payable. Taking into account the financing concession, the Lands Officer has concluded that the prices to be paid for these properties are within the 20% tolerance permitted in the official guidelines. I concur with this conclusion." That says two things: Despite all the rhetoric that we have heard in relation to the land purchased at Spotts for the sports facilities, this states abundantly clearly that the valuations and the price that was paid for it were within the official guidelines. The Auditor General having audited the Government's accounts stated unequivocally and clearly: "I concur with this conclusion."

So there can be no doubt that regardless of what may be said about the purchase of the lands at Spotts they are within the official guidelines, they have been properly purchased, and the Auditor General has confirmed it as well as the Lands Officer who dealt with the matter. I hope that with such a clear and unequivocal statement such as that, the Opposition will go on to something else where they may be a little bit more successful at putting forward the truth.

This also deals with the question of assessments of royalty fees on page 30. I am happy to say (as was stated in a previous meeting of the Legislative Assembly) that all royalty fees for dredging which are owed to Government have been paid. There are no royalty fees outstanding. Hopefully, that is the end of that as well, because there were allegations made in relation to this. But all monies owed for dredging have been fully paid, therefore, nothing is outstanding on this.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman states that dredging royalties should be more. I think the reference was perhaps to $2.00 per cubic yard, if I remember correctly. When we look at the statement made on page 31 of the Auditor General's Report we find that the lowest royalty was that of SafeHaven and the North Sound Marl Pit of 25¢ per cubic yard. That amount for SafeHaven of $1.4 million is the single largest amount in this table for dredging. I think it is probably the largest amount of dredged fill, perhaps other than when the South Sound was dredged up many years ago. I understand 2,000,000 cubic yards of sand was dredged from inside the reef including the black grass that was there at the time. I do not know what the royalty would have been on that.

These two amounts listed as (a) and (b) in the table were undoubtedly the lowest amounts. After that, the little that this Government did was at the rate of 50¢ (twice the amount). So if anything has to be levelled at any Government regarding dredging, then the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman can only be referring to the past two Governments - his colleagues Messrs. Miller and Pierson. In fact, I am sure that Mr. Pierson would have been the Member in charge, at least during his four years in Executive Council, and he would have obviously been supported by Mr. Miller.

In the 'In lieu of agreement' column there is a reference to "Clear and fill 10 acres of Crown property in addition." When we look back, we really see that this SafeHaven project was actually dredging Government's land in the North Sound (that is, the seabed) which was in fact being put onto Government's leased land. I would like to tie the two of these together to show the overall picture that this specific dredging operation was linked to Government's property, which was also leased property, but going along with this dredging agreement were several matters that affected both dredging and the Government's property, which made this specific dredging agreement different from the other agreements in the Report.

Over the period from 1988 to the present, we find that at page 22 of the 1992 Auditor General's Report referring to the matter of SafeHaven, and I would like to quote three different sentences in which it stated in relation to the extension to the lease of the property that this dredging was being used for, I quote: "The minimum current rental value calculated was US$277,000 per annum and was based on 277 acres with a capital value of US$10,000/acre and a required rental rate of return of 10% per annum. This would have generated a total income stream of US$27.4 million over the life of the 99 year lease before applying the recommended 10 yearly rent reviews." It goes on to say: "No formal valuation of this was ever carried out but the Lands Officer has advised that this would have been an extremely complex..." It goes on to say: "Negotiations were concluded within two hours and a premium of US$940,800 was agreed to be recommended to both sets of principals by the representatives." It goes on further to say: "Executive Council rejected the proposal and directed that the premium should be US$2 million." So tied in with the dredging rights was the extension of some 40 years of the lease at SafeHaven.

What was recommended should be paid was $27.4 million, and only $2 million were paid, as we know, $1 million down, and $1 million over ten years without any interest. We know that at least $15 million was lost to the Government. The Member in charge at the time was Mr. Linford Pierson.

We are not talking about thousands of dollars now, we are talking about millions on top of millions of dollars. What is very important is that this states that no formal valuation of this was ever carried out by the Lands and Survey Officers. So any chance of that fill from the 277 acres (which is where the fill from SafeHaven under the 1994 Auditor General's Report went) would have been lost to future generations for another 99 years because that is what the lease was extended to.

Looking at that we realise that the Government lost $20-odd million, perhaps in the area of $18 million when the adjustment for the period of time was carried out. We know as was stated in the report, that those negotiations were done by the Minister himself within two hours. So that large amount ($20-odd million) was given away in a two-hour negotiation, which I understand was in a restaurant with Mr. Pierson.

Going on to look at this matter. There was, and has been for some time, the levelling of the fact that purchase of property under a time agreement seems not to be understood by certain Members of this House. It is fully legal to purchase land on a time agreement. You can purchase land over five years, ten years, whatever time you wish. You are not liable to pay Stamp Duty on that purchase until the time when the transfer is actually made. You are permitted to assign the property, I think perhaps twice. So the fact that some of this property was purchased on a time agreement when the value was much less, when the value is more later on is nothing unusual. This is something that Caymanians have done throughout the years.

Therefore, that a transfer is taken five or seven years later at a larger amount (because remember the transfer has to go through at the value of the property at the time of transfer, not the value of the property at the time the agreement was signed) we will always find differences between the stamp duty valuation and also the sale valuation if someone has owned it five or seven years. So I think that is very easily differentiated and set out.

There was an attempt to say property was transferred one day for the value stated together with the assessed value and the following day there was a transfer (the following week) and because of the differences in values they should have been the same. Well, that is obviously not correct. The consideration that goes into the transfer is a consideration of the agreement from five or seven years before, but the assessment is done on the true market value of the property. I hope that is now made clear. I referred to the specific sections earlier in this House and I do not propose to go back into the Law on this, other than to say that as the Auditor General accepted, and as the valuator stated, the transfers of the properties at Spotts for the sports facility was fully within the official guidelines. That is the legal position.

There is also a section in the 1994 Report relating to 'Debt Exchanges'. I would like to add that in relation to the SafeHaven project and during the previous Government's time, the exchanged land in Governor's Harbour that was public open-space for property at Frank Sound (inland) which in my view had considerably less value.... That, once again, related to the SafeHaven project. Mr. Linford Pierson was the Minister responsible at the time.

So it is nothing new to exchange fill. This looks like it might have related to... value of land I see over on page 36. Indeed, the transfer seems to relate perhaps only to that and one other piece of property.

The environmental issues. In fact, the Government has gone far beyond what the Opposition Members call for in their motion. We have stopped all dredging in the North Sound, other than where there were legally binding contracts for a very small amount compared to millions and millions of cubic yards that had been dredged in the past. We believe in a proper balance between ecology, the environment and development progress. We have endeavoured to achieve that. It is a fact, though, that marl is necessary for the building of roads mainly, and for other development in the islands. Therefore, it must either come from the sea or from the land. It can only be from two areas in the land, either from marl pits that are dug or from the quarry. So this, once again, has to be balanced with the ecology.

I see there is reference to the Wickstead Report of 1975 at page 37. To the best of my knowledge they recommended that 12,000,000 cubic yards could be dredged from the North Sound. They marked the area, which is largely the area where the present company has the right to take the 700,000 cubic yards from. The total amount of dredging rights given (but obviously has not all been dredged) is 4,521,263 cubic yards. So this Government's and previous Governments' are probably 1/3 of what he recommended.

There have been other very important recommendations in relation to these areas. Mr. Cousteau for example, recommended that certain areas which are dived should remain fallow. I think he recommended two years.

The Wickstead Report recommended that protection should be given rather than having large boats churning up a lot of turbidity. I do not have that report before me, but all that I would like to say which is relevant to this, is that perhaps 1/3 has been dredged up. Government's position on this is very clear; we have stopped the dredging in the North Sound with the exception of the 700,000, and I think, 120,000 cubic yards, of previous dredging rights. It would not have been right to breach them.

Turning now to look at the Statutory Authorities, specifically at the Water Authority. Set out at page 53 is a section that deals with an amount involved with funds contributed by private individuals. This sets out a total of some $694,000 in that area. This relates back to several things that arose not very long ago, and I would like to read from last year's report on this, which relates to contributions by private individuals for capital works that were previously carried out. On page 34 of the 1993 Report, two things are stated which relate to capital works and private persons. On page 35 it states: "It was drawn to the Audit Office's attention that in one case payment of an invoice for -$17,400 was waived. This invoice relates to the cost of installing the water distribution system in a new sub-division. The developer paid $3,750 for materials by way of a deposit and an invoice for $17,400 was issued in July 1993 for the cost of installation by the contractor, Petroservicios Ltd. This invoice was subsequently cancelled in October 1993 and the cost was financed from the Authority's long-term borrowing." That we know was the sub-division of which the Fourth Elected Member for George Town was a shareholder. In fairness to him, I understand it has subsequently been paid. But this report shows that in 1993 some $33,139 (at page 53 of the 1994 report) were outstanding. This is a sizeable sum. Also in 1993, at page 53 in the amounts under the heading, we find that in the previous Auditor General's Report it was stated on page 34 under the heading 'Under-Billing of Water Charges: "The results of this exercise confirmed under-billing of $2,634 in two accounts, plus under-billing of $1,880 on one other account. These irregularities occurred during the period August 1991 to January 1993, and were attributable to the deliberate manipulation of water meter readings. This practice appears to have ceased completely with effect from January 1993."

We know, Madam Speaker, that that billing was for Mr. Linford Pierson. Whether he has repaid what the Auditor General has referred to as "a deliberate manipulation of water meter readings", I am not sure. That makes up a substantial amount of page 53 of the present Report which is set out in 1993, at $33,139.

I guess, taking this joke generally and lightly, and in looking at the two areas of $17,400 and the water bill reductions, I would say that waterbirds of one feather, flock together.

I would like to go on to look at some other areas of this and to look specifically at the area which relates to schools. This is set out at page 54 (1994 Report) and onwards dealing with 'Pre-School Grants'. This sets out several pages of problems that were involved in dealing with pre-school grants. I would like to begin by stating that these are dealt with purely by the Department. They have nothing to do with me, they have nothing to do with the Ministry of Education; it is the Department of Education. I would like to go into these briefly. These pre-school grants arose as a result, as was mentioned by the Auditor General, of the fact that the last Government abolished pre-schools (or what we call reception classes) at the Government Schools. It meant that some 205 children who were in Reception Classes, and who would subsequently come in, were put out of the Government school system.

The position then arose under the policy of the then member for Education, Mr. Benson Ebanks, where Government stated that pre-school children would not be in any worse of a position than they had been before. He then started funding a grant that would go to the pre-school children who went into private schools. This, I have continued. Unfortunately, I guess for the country, but fortunately for those young children, we have a situation where this year probably half of a million dollars will be spent on pre-schools. These are grants that come under the same heading as any other grant, the same as we give to private schools for their recurrent amount.

I know it was stated that a grant to a pre-school is different from a grant to a private school, high school or to ICCI for example (which we now give, but in the past had not been given). But there is no difference between a grant to a pre-school and a grant to any other private school. It is the same thing, it is a grant. The only difference is that considerably more has had to be given to the private pre-schools than at present. In the past we gave even less to the private schools. It is a difference in that area of $300 per month coming out to some $2,700 per year, compared to in the area of about $277.00 per student that we give to the primary and the high schools. So this is a very high grant.

At present all of the pre-schools have been registered. Which is different from when the last Government abolished pre-schools. This was basically the brain-child of the then Principal Secretary for Education, Mr. Oswell Rankine, who is now, as we know, a member of Team Cayman. The decision, as was stated here on page 54, was to totally remove from the Education system, not just the children who would be going into primary schools, but those in the Lighthouse School. That decision was perhaps one of the harshest decisions that this country has ever seen. I do not believe the Minister then, nor the Principal Secretary foresaw the consequences of this when they made that decision. It was a ruthless decision in an effort to extend the school term by one year. They took the classrooms and used them to add another year in primary schools.

I have gone a long way in having to fund this as fully as I can, and now in some of the schools we are seeing that we are getting some pre-schools back into the Government system. There is no intention to put Government pre-schools where private pre-schools can now cope with the situation, for example, in most of George Town and partly in West Bay.

The decision caused great concern because children going into Primary went in with different degrees of skills. There were children going in who had not gone to a pre-school and they were at one level. There were children who went to pre-school for two or three years and who went in at a different level. So it created problems within the Government system because children were coming into Primary I at different levels.

In defence of the Education Department - as mentioned this has nothing to do with my Ministry or me - but the Department has been under a substantial amount of staff shortage. Not the least to say, our Chief Education Officer has been ill for some time. What the Auditor General has asked in this Report that should be done relating to the checking of persons who apply for pre-school grants is something that (as I stated in the Government Minute) would take a person who is qualified in Credit Management. On that specific area I can speak with considerable authority because perhaps within the entire Government system, I am the only person who holds a Fellowship from the Institute of Credit Management, and have held it for some time.

It is not possible to expect a clerk, normally a junior clerk, to look at an application that is dealing with about 30 different things, including salary (one of the comments in this was that they should have seen that someone had put the expenses too much higher than they should have been) to look and assess these things. It is not possible for a clerk without the necessary qualifications to do it.

What I would strongly recommend, if the Auditor General requires such high standards, is that the Honourable Financial Secretary employ a Fellow of the Institute of Credit Management and put him within his present Debt Recovery Department (which he is setting up, and which is good) and ask him to do the credit assessment for these matters. I can say no more, than to say that I believe that my department did everything it possibly could to deal with what I think was a disastrous decision when the pre-schoolers, including the Lighthouse School's reception classes were cut and 205 children were put out of the schools with nowhere to go.

As I have gone from primary school to primary school, and discussed the results over the last few years for each term/quarter, I sit with all the staff members. I make it a point to do that, so I understand what their problems are in areas other than matters relating to staff matters or conditions of service. Matters of conditions of service, appointment of civil servants and teachers, transferring of teachers, termination of teachers, has nothing to do with me. I would like to make that abundantly clear. That is reserved to the Governor under the Constitution, and it is not legally possible, indeed, it is not legally right, and it is not right from a policy point of view that I should interfere in any matters relating to staff, be they matters that are going on now in some of the primary schools, or in any other area of the Civil Service. So when I sit with staff in the schools, I make it abundantly clear to them that I can discuss all matters except matters relating to staff, salaries, and conditions of employment because legally I cannot do so.

One of the things that has come up from time to time is the different ranges of ability the children who are coming into the school system display. Some have gone to pre-school longer than others, and some have not gone to pre-school at all. I assume that the new procedures set down in the area of pre-schools would have been run by the Accountant or Auditor General or some other department that would have approved these. Notwithstanding that, this grant and the private school grant and the other grant which is for scholarships are (of which I am happy to say, 37 students were granted scholarships this year and it is the highest amount, I am sure, that has ever been granted) all the same. They are going to assist students in dealing with their education.

While on that subject, I am sure that Honourable Members will be happy to hear that the first prize for the Royal Commonwealth Essay Competition was won by Angella Davis of the Red Bay Primary School. That is really a feather in our cap to have this young lady coming first in the entire Commonwealth, which comprises some 350,000,000 people in over 50 countries of the world, in her age group. So we can be justly proud that the funds that are going to pre-school grants, and grants generally, are going to a good cause because the performance is there. No one can say that the Government schools are not the best in the country and that they are not representing the best results that can be achieved.

I am therefore happy to state that I will have to continue the pre-school grants for some considerable time despite the costs, if we expect the results that we have gotten in the schools to continue.

The Speaker: Would you take a suspension at this time?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Ma'am. Thank you.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for half an hour.

PROCEEDING SUSPENDED AT 11.45 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.42 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning continuing.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Going now to look at roads in the Report of the Auditor General and the statements that are made on pages 6 and 7 about the different projects (29 projects) that are referred to there and continue on page 8. These projects came about because of the fact that many of our roads lacked maintenance, and lacked the repairs that were needed. It is not something that has come about over the last few years of this Government's life. We have to remember that for the previous eight years practically no new roads were put in and no maintenance was done.

I would like to refer back to the Auditor General's Report of 1991 on page 24, in which he said this: "No precise figure is currently available but it is estimated by PWD that it is likely that as much as $25 million over the next 5 to 10 years will be required to be spent on roads maintenance representing over 100 miles of road that will need urgent attention. Therefore, based on a ten-year period the Government would have to spend an average of $2.5 million per year which is nearly 400% more per year than was actually spent in 1991." These failures go back mainly over the eight years prior to 1992. It is clear that no major road improvements have been done.

I would just like to read one other area from that report. At page 25 the Auditor General stated this: "The last major road improvement project undertaken by the Government, was in the mid 1970s with work extending into the 1980s. This involved the reconstruction and resurfacing of much of Grand Cayman's roads." That government was the Government of the Honourable John McLean and the late Honourable Jim Bodden, the late Honourable Haig Bodden and the Honourable Capt. Charles Kirkconnell. The Auditor General has very clearly stated that since we finished that extensive road repair in the mid-1980s no major road repairs were carried out. So if the Opposition or the Alliances or whatever want to ask what is being done?, my question is: Why was nothing done on roads during those eight years that they were in? There can be no doubt if in 1991 the cost was $25 million to bring the roads up to date, there is no way in a matter of three short years - most of which were spent paying off the last Government's debts - that we can be expected to perform miracles. My question is simply this: Why was nothing done for eight years? These are not my words, these are the words of the Auditor General.

I am reminded that during the late Jim Bodden's, the late Haig Bodden's and Mr. John McLean's and my period - those eight years from 1976 to 1984 - we had a programme in which we did a certain amount of hot-mix every year, a certain amount of maintenance. But what happened to us during this period of Government was that there was so much maintenance to be done that that was basically all we could do, recapping roads before they got too bad.

So the Auditor General, as he refers to the different project (and some criticism is in this report on page 7) has to bear in mind that the Road Programme did not exist for eight years before we took over. At this stage my question is: Why was it not done during those eight years? There was really no maintenance. In fact, they stated in 1991 that the pure maintenance itself would have required 400 per cent more revenue than had been put in there.

We have exceeded the $2.5 million per annum that is stated in the report, and we have recapped a lot of roads. But there are a lot of roads that remain to be done. Therefore, I think that the attempt here to deal with some of the smaller roads, private roads that are set out in the 1994 Report (and these are roads that were not just in a specific district. They range from the little roads in West Bay through the Roy Bodden Road in Bodden Town through to private roads up in North Side). It is a full range of roads...

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, First Elected Member for Bodden Town?

POINT OF ORDER

(Misleading)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, the Honourable Minister insists on misleading the House. There is no road in Bodden Town known as the "Roy Bodden Road."

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, what I will do is pull the references to that road which have been stated in this House many times. I will undertake to bring them back here. I do not have them at my fingertips now.

As Madam Speaker knows, many times there have been references to that road and both from documents laid on the Table of this House - I laid one of the documents ...

The Speaker: I think what the Elected Member for Bodden Town is implying is that while the name may have been given to a particular road as the Roy Bodden Road, it is certainly not his road. I think that is the point you are making, First Elected Member?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, that is correct.

The Speaker: I think that is the point he has made, whether a road has been given a particular name does not mean that it is his own private road. In the context in which you have been talking about private roads, that is the point.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I will accept that. I really did not mean that it is his road. It is a road that leads to that Member's house. For whatever reason it has been referred to as such. I do not need to refer to that anymore. The cost I should mention of doing that road which leads to the Honourable Member's house was around $0.5 million.

The roads referred to in this, therefore, in my view, this Government has done a lot. We have not only repaved many miles of road, we have repaired a lot. We have funds now which the lady Member for George Town and I have striven to get. It has been supported by the National Team and this will do a considerable amount of more roads. It is some $2.6 or $2.7 million. We hope that the reference in the Auditor General's Report to the proposed Harquail bypass we will see the start of that route.

The Second Elected Member for George Town has put in a lot of effort to deal with the different roads. I know that that Honourable Member, like the lady Member, has been into many of the nooks and crannies, so to speak, of George Town and has identified roads in need of repair.

I guess the point that I am making is that if it is necessary to repair the roads for purposes of getting emergency vehicles such as ambulances, fire trucks, etcetera, into those roads, then it is Government's duty to repair them whether the road is gazetted or not gazetted, or whether it is public or private. It is a matter of a person's life, that cannot be represented in terms of money. So I would ask the Auditor General in his report where he has referred to these, to bear in mind that this Government found as big a road mess as we found a financial mess in the country in 1992.

The only other comment that I would like to make on roads is that I hope in the future when the utility companies (all four of them) cut trenches, they will properly deal with filling them back because most of our roads have deteriorated in certain areas. I understand from the Honourable Minister that from now on the proper method is in place to deal with them.

Going on to deal with the Health Services Authority on pages 44, 45, 46, 47 and onwards. This is one in which there has been a lot of criticism by the Auditor General, and the criticism is levelled prior to December of 1992. Indeed, on page 44, paragraph 2.5, he said: "Law 14 of 1991 requires the Authority to maintain proper accounts of its financial affairs which are to be audited annually by the Auditor General by the following 30th June. The financial statement audits for 1992 and 1993 should therefore have been completed by 30th June 1993 and 30th June, 1994, respectively. In December 1991 I appointed Coopers & Lybrand (Chartered Accountants) to carry out these audits on my behalf." (1994 Report). He goes on talking about 1992 and 1993 Reports.

If we look back at what has caused those accounts to be a problem, for example the 1993 audit which would have dealt with the 1992 accounts referred to in the 1994 audit, says this: "The audit examination was hampered by a general lack of documentation...", and to show how this chain of lack of documentation and lost documentation has stretched through the full thread of the last Government. If we look at page 31 of the 1994 Report of the Auditor General, Footnote 1 says, "File for SafeHaven was archived and was not made available to the Audit Office." Every time we come upon a situation relating to what the then Member for Communications and Works, Mr. Linford Pierson, and the then Member for Health, Mr. Ezzard Miller, did we find that the documentation is gone. It is a story of the missing files. The truth, therefore, will never be known.

We look further at the 1992 Report and we find, for example that at page 48 of the 1993 Auditor General's Report, paragraph 65 says: "In only one of seven consultancies (Software supply), was the Board of the Health Services Authority provided with a summary of costs and a proposed work plan, as part of the Authority's computerisation project." Without these details it is no wonder the Auditor General in 1994 is stating that he cannot get a completion of the audit of the Health Services Authority. To make things even worse it is stated on page 49 of the same report: "However, during the Authority's two years existence it did not develop or institute any formal financial regulations to ensure the regular and proper conduct of its business by management and employees. So far as can be established, none of the consultancies examined was advertised or tendered either within Cayman Islands or overseas." So out of all the consultants in the report that the Auditor General is commenting on, none ever went out to tender. This has got to go badly against the last Government. We may never know what the true picture is. It is like the Water Authority's cheques for $700,000 or $800,000 which are under consideration by the Auditor General, and was set out in one of his reports.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister do you still wish to adjourn at one o'clock?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: May I just have a minute, please? (Pause)

Madam Speaker, perhaps we can go on for another 15 or 20 minutes, until I reach a breaking point. If that is okay with Members.

The Speaker: Certainly.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: We also find that in those accounts, it stated on page 52 the 1993 Report that: "Most consultancy agreements made no provision for termination by either party." So these were unlimited contracts that were subject to the accounts. Further on that same page we see: "When the project manager's services were terminated following the cancellation of the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital the Authority was left with a $30,000 rent liability for the unexpired portion of the leased accommodation." What an astounding set of affairs! We know that while there have been areas of criticism levelled at this Government, what the Auditor General has churned up in the Health Services Authority is mind-boggling. It is beyond comprehension how much went on and where the money went.

We know it was set out in those accounts that the contract on the new hospital, which we will be dealing with pages 46 and 47, which set out the reasons for qualification of the financial statements.... when we read that we really see what a horrifying situation it was. At paragraph 2.9 on page 46 of the 1994 Report, the Auditor General says: "I have qualified the Authority's financial statements on nine grounds. These are:

(1) inability to determine the value of furniture and equipment vested with the Authority at 1 January 1,992 (and the dates here are quite important) but not valued, and whether the values attributable to vested furniture and equipment are reasonable;".

We know that a large part of the equipment for the hospital was purchased before the ground was even broken and that it had been housed in very expensive leased premises up at Ropers warehouse or somewhere there. Notwithstanding that, the Auditor General held that both the vesting and the value were impossible to determine.

Paragraph 2.9.2 of the Auditor General's Report states: "...inability to conclude whether supplies vested at 1 January 1992 were fairly valued and unreliability of year end valuations produced by the inventory system, which did not become operational until September 1992;". This is the previous Government's period of tenure. So he is stating that there is unreliability of the valuations set out there.

It gets worse, paragraph 2.9.3: "Inability to conclude whether hospital supplies were fairly valued at the year ends;". In other words, nothing in the line of equipment and furniture was properly valued. Therefore the Auditor General had to qualify these statements because he did not know whether the money that was spent on this furniture and equipment was there or not. There is no way of checking the fair value of the property.

Paragraph 2.9.4: "...uncertainty to the accuracy of costs totalling $1,068,000 incurred by the Cayman Islands Government reported for design fees and part of site preparation expenses for the Dr Hortor Hospital project, which were vested with the Authority and which have been written off subsequently as an extraordinary item;". One Million and Sixty-eight thousand, four hundred and thirty dollars, that there is uncertainty as to the accuracy of the cost. Those members out there from the previous Government should really run and hide when they come trying to criticise this Government. When we look at the extent of what the Auditor General has set out here, it was basically a financial wrecking of the country's funds.

Paragraph 2.9.5: "...failure to maintain a reliable fixed asset register (FAR) and inability to determine whether all furniture and equipment included in the financial statements existed at Balance Sheet dates;". What that is saying is that somebody cooked the books because what they put in the balance sheet could not be verified for accuracy. Where did the missing files go; the SafeHaven files, the files that the Auditor General could not find here or furniture and the missing equipment? This is what this is stating and this is a serious matter, I submit. We are not just dealing with a few hundred thousand dollars, Madam Speaker, we know that in paragraph 2.9.4 alone it is over $1 million.

"Inability to determine whether it is appropriate to include the partially filled site of the Dr Hortor Hospital in the financial statements at cost ($1,721,381) or whether a write down in carrying value is required;". What that is saying is that the hospital site itself appears to be overvalued. Should it be left in at that amount or should it be put in at a lower value? Paragraph 2.9.8 is dealing with $1,700,000 for the site. Then I hear criticism of a five-acre site that is coming in at $800,000 for the site alone and which is not in the middle of a swamp as this was.

At paragraph 2.9.8 of the Auditor General's Report he said that he has qualified the Authority's financial statements on nine grounds, and the eighth one is the: "...inability to determine the amount of provision, if any, which should be included in the financial statements in respect of the claim for damages for breach of contract filed by Hurlstone Construction Limited (HCL), following termination of the Dr Hortor Memorial Hospital project;". We know (and I am merely stating facts that have been public now) that the contract was signed on the 17th of November, 1992, one day before the General Elections of this country. We know that a $1 million loan was given out which was not included in that contract. So if the last Government had been doing things in the proper way, they would not have done matters such as signing the largest contract during their term of four years on the day before the elections if everything had been in order. So this contact and these accounts were wrong from the beginning to the end.

Before I go on any further within that, much has been said about this hospital whether it is at the right place or the wrong place, whether money is being spent here and there. But when we look back at some of the Hansards of the House that relate to this (and they are within these accounts for the 1992 period), on the 11th of March, 1992, we find a statement made to this effect: "I have believed for a long time that the present hospital can serve us for sometime yet, and that steps should be taken to improve certain areas of it to a certain stan- dard so that the physical plant can be in a position to better do the job for which it was intended. This was the understanding of this House as was presented by the Member in 1990...", meaning Mr. Miller. That comes from the Hansard. It is a statement by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

There is no doubt that at the time that this was going on, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, as was set out in the National Team's mandate, made it clear that they were against the hospital going on the site in the swamp.

POINT OF ORDER

(Misleading)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: On a point of order, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I, at no time in my life, had any dealings with the formulation of a National Team's manifesto setting out anything against the hospital in it.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I did not refer to that Honourable Member. With respect, I referred to the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. He had nothing to do with our manifesto.

The Speaker: Fine, as long as you have made that clear.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman had nothing to do with our manifesto. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town was involved in our manifesto where it said that we would prefer to do what we are doing now - which is building the hospital where it is.

Just a couple of other brief areas. Also on the 11th March, 1992, there is this statement: "Madam Speaker, this situation is one where I think the Government has failed and the Member has failed to do what he should have done in the time since this was first given until now. I think it is largely due to the desire to build a new hospital since the time that the need for the present hospital was identified." That statement is by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac. It states clearly that Mr. Ezzard Miller had failed and he stated that in clear and unequivocal terms in relation to the hospital.

Lastly on this point... (pause) Madam Speaker, times change and regardless, I guess, of what the feelings for the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac towards the then Member for Health, Mr. Ezzard, were at that time, on the 11th of March, 1992, he made a statement that the Government and that Member, Mr. Ezzard Miller, had failed. That statement is very clear.

Whether the cost and the uncertainty of those costs are correct or not, on the 29th of November, 1991 (and this is the last quote that I have), the Second Elected Member for Bodden Town stated: (Member laughing). I keep thinking of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac because he is now running in Bodden Town. I refer to that. I am sorry.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac stated: "We are talking about expenditure and there is no one except the Member [meaning Mr. Ezzard] that has said that $16 million can build that hospital and fix that site. What I have read in the newspapers from one of the engineers and so on, was that the mud was not any deeper than what it was somewhere down around Lime Tree Bay. He is fixing his posture. Nobody is going to nail him down when it takes $10 million to fill the site."

I would just like to stress that, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman felt at the time that along with the $16 million to build the hospital, it would have taken $10 million to fill the site. He goes on to say: "Well, I told you it would not take any more than that, and after all they had a dredge down there." That is what we need to look at.

It goes on to say: "I personally believe that the MRCU should be ideally moved from there, take that to the area of the land that the Government owns in the swamp on the Dyke Road. Ideally, that is the business it is in, mosquito, research and control. Knock it down and use that large area there, that the people of this country has know forever as a hospital and build a new hospital there in phases. I cannot support the idea of entering headlong into three major expenses at one time in that particular area."

No doubt, Madam Speaker, even if the posture has changed, those words of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman were not only very hard against the Member and the Government, but it stated to do exactly what the present Minister for Health is doing. He is knocking down the MRCU building. He is going to build it on that site. I do not understand how that Honourable Member, whom I have known for so long, could so radically change his views and say that the hospital should be built in the swamp after putting in $10 million of fill.

Perhaps even more interesting than that is the fact that in 1992 an Opinion Poll was carried out in George Town which showed that 54 per cent said "No" to building the hospital in the swamp. That was Mr. Linford Pierson's campaign, and it is a memo that I have here, yet he voted for the hospital to go into the swamp. My question at this stage is, if he did not do what the people asked at that time, what guarantee do they have that he will now represent them and carry out their wishes?

Even though the Government knew it was wrong to put the hospital there they went head long into it and decided to put it in the middle of the swamp which both myself and the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman realised would take $10 million to fill.

Going back to the Auditor General's Report of 1994, on page 47 we see at paragraph 2.9.9 that one of the qualifications is: "...incomplete recording of revenue and billing to patients for services provided; and inability to quantify the full extent of errors and omissions and their impact on revenue recognised in the statements of revenue, gross receivable at the Balance Sheet dates and the amount of provisions for bad debts." Once again, a failure to have complete records. Incomplete records, whether these were merely missing or not filed, I do not know; but they were incomplete in these different areas.

The criticism that is levelled at the 1991 and 1992 Government which would have been the previous Government or those years of that Government, I think are well-founded criticisms. They are still trying at the late date in 1994 when this came in - I do not know what has happened by now - to find out what went on at the hospital with all the contracts and the building of the hospital in the swamp during the last Government's period. There was no accountability to the public. We know that millions on top of millions of dollars, as is set out in this, were basically thrown away. Contracts, as stated here, nine of them were given out and never went to the Public Tenders Committee. We know land was bought, the value of which is now in doubt - $1.7 million for nothing but swamp. They have the nerve, the Alliance and others, to come here and try to talk about the purchasing of properties for schools which is following the proper procedures.

Questions that I see keep popping up in the newspaper, such as, What have I done in George Town? There is one thing for sure, I have not thrown away or given away the public's money to the extent that the last Government has done. I have been accountable for what is here. I guess to throw a bit of humour in it, neither have I taken a gun and shot it in the air within a public place. So this on the Health Services Authority is pin-pointing the 1992 stage of the accounts.

The people in George Town can be assured that our present Minister for Health (whom I support fully) has a hard task because he came in mid-term, he will deal with what he is doing in the proper way as he has always done in the past. He has my full support. They will not find files missing, money missing, property undervalued, and contracts signed on the day before the election. That, in itself, should have put a red flag to what went on in the last Government. The desperation to squeeze that last contract in before the election is set out by the Auditor General.

I believe there are two more headings under this, but I believe we have probably come to a time when perhaps I should ask if we could adjourn. I will finish very quickly on this topic when I return.

The Speaker: Certainly, Honourable Minister.
Would you move the adjournment accordingly?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Do you wish to speak on it Honourable Minister?

The Speaker: The Report of the Standing Business Committee for meetings held on the 14th February and 1st March, 1996. The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

REPORT OF THE STANDING BUSINESS COMMITTEE

(Meetings held 14th February and 1st March, 1996)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Standing Business Committee for the meetings held 14th February and 1st March, 1996.

The Speaker: So ordered.

The Report of the Standing Finance Committee for a meeting held on the 28th of September, 1995.

The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

REPORT OF THE STANDING FINANCE COMMITTEE

(Meeting held on 28th September 1995)

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House, the Report of the Standing Finance Committee for a meeting held on the 28th of September, 1995.

The Speaker: So ordered. The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: In accordance with the provision of Standing Order 73(5), the Standing Finance Committee met to consider a paper from the Financial Secretary. The Committee held one meeting on the 28th of September, 1995, and considered and approved request from various departments of Government for a total of $14,007,197.

Other matters considered and ratified by the Committee were current expenditure virements between different subheads for a total of $308,645; variation of funds between the same classification under capital expenditure for a total of $683,728; capital expenditure between different classifications for a total of $684,700; creation, deletion and regrading of posts for the various positions within the Civil Service for the period January through June 1995; and request for Crown Land grant, the details of which are as follows: "An application for a Crown Land grant was made to Government by a local law firm on behalf of the beneficiaries of the Estate of Aamon Ebanks (deceased) in respect of Block 9A, Parcel 240.

"The Director of Lands and Survey was directed to research the application based on information provided and the Cadastral records maintained by the department. Accordingly, the investigation showed that there is no documentary or corroboratory evidence adduced or in the Cadastral Adjudication records which substantiates this claim. Other properties in the area were returned to land owners who made claims who are in the same position as this claimant. The Director of Lands and Survey also noted that Block 9A, Parcel 240 is in an environmentally sensitive zone and contains a portion of Salt Water Pond.

"Based on the findings of Lands and Survey the matter was referred to Executive Council. Executive Council advised that the matter should be referred to Finance Committee for its decision.

"Accordingly, an application was made by the local law firm and the decision was approved for the property to be granted to the beneficiaries of the estate of Aamon Ebanks."

There was a request for a variation in a land purchase agreement. The details are as follows: "At a Finance Committee Meeting held on October 19th, 1994, Finance Committee approved supplementary funding for the Government to purchase Block 101C, Parcel 48 from Mr. Selbourne Lazzari. The property is adjacent to the Cayman Brac High School and the swimming pool which is situated on the property is currently being maintained at $6,000 per annum. The property is approximately 2.30 acres, and is valued at US$250,000.

"Under the terms of the proposed purchase agreement a deposit of CI$60,000 would be required with the balance payable, interest free, over a period of three years subject to the continuation of the existing maintenance agreement. That is the maintenance agreement for the payment of $6,000 per annum for the maintenance. Continuing, in conjunction with the acquisition of Mr. Lazzari's property, the Government purchased an additional Parcel 9, Block 101C; parcel 20 for CI$18,000, for the purpose of giving road frontage to the property that is being purchased from Mr. Lazzari.

"Mr. Lazzari (the seller) is requesting that the maintenance cost of $6,000 per annum be increased by $3,600 per annum (Total $9,600 per annum) to carry out the maintenance duties."

Finance Committee's approval was granted for the sum to be increased in the maintenance fee from $6,000 to a total of $9,600 per annum, as requested.

Item number 16 was a request for assistance to the Cayman Council of the United Church of Jamaica and the Cayman Islands. It reads: "At a Meeting of Executive Council held on March 28th, 1995, Executive Council considered an application by the United Church of Jamaica and the Cayman Islands for assistance in opening a further school to complement the existing Cayman Preparatory School. This is supported on the basis that secondary-aged children cost approximately $5,000 per student per year to educate, thus it would cost Government $1,500,000 to provide places for 300 secondary aged students.

"The total project cost for Cayman Preparatory is estimated at $1.5 million. Executive Council advised that approval should be given for: a) the existing loan of approximately $250,000 owed by the United Church of Jamaica and the Cayman Islands to be written off over a period of three years; b) a Government guarantee for a loan of $500,000 from a local bank, which will be paid off as a grant in three installments plus interest, over a period of three years; and "Government should ensure that such an agreement is binding and on condition that:- 1. Every effort should be made to ensure that fee levels are kept within reasonable amounts so that Caymanian parents are able to afford to choose private education if this is their desire; 2. Changes to the approved curriculum, including but not limited to the addition and deletion of subjects, should be submitted to the Education Council for approval at least three months in advance.

"Executive Council ordered that the request should be presented to Finance Committee."

Finance Committee granted approval for the existing loan of $250,000 to be written off over a period of three years, and that the guarantee of $.5 million be issued. We are aware that at a subsequent meeting of Finance Committee this guarantee was subsequently rescinded.

There was also a request for a guarantee to be issued to Triple 'C' School. This was approved for a sum of $750,000 to be issued to a local bank and paid off in three equal installments. There was also an approval for unauthorised expenditure, totalling $36,564. This was expenditure that was not covered during the financial year 1993, and in order for the Supplementary Appropriation Bill to be tabled in this Honourable House in accordance with the Public and Finance Audit Law, it was necessary to seek this approval which was accordingly granted.

The Committee agrees that this report be the report of the Standing Finance Committee in respect of its meeting held on 28th September, 1995.

The Speaker: The Third and Final Report of the Standing Select Committee (of the whole House) to review the Sunday Trading Law.

The Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Administration.

THIRD AND FINAL REPORT OF THE STANDING SELECT COMMITTEE (OF THE WHOLE HOUSE) TO REVIEW THE SUNDAY TRADING LAW (CAP. 161)

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Third and Final Report of the Standing Select Committee (of the whole House) to review the Sunday Trading Law (Cap. 161).

The Speaker: So ordered.

The Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Administration.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: The Standing Select Committee of the whole House established to review the Sunday Trading Law was appointed by the Legislative Assembly on the 12th of September, 1994, upon the passing of Government Motion No. 7/94.

The Motion, moved by the Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson, the Honourable Minister responsible for the Portfolio of Tourism, Environment and Planning, Leader of Government Business, read: "Government Motion No. 7/94 Appointment of Standing Select Committee to Review the Sunday Trading Law."

WHEREAS the Sunday Trading Law, enacted in 1960, provides that Sunday trading is prohibited in the Cayman Islands except as prescribed in the Schedule of the Law or by Orders made in Executive Council from time to time;

AND WHEREAS the provisions of the said Law could not envisage the present trend of development within the Islands;

AND WHEREAS there have been various concerns expressed and it has been implied that the Law requires revision;

BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT, in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 76, this Honourable House appoints a Standing Select Committee of the whole House to review the provisions of the said Law and in so doing that the Committee should solicit the views of the general public and, based on the input received, table a Report in this Honourable House of its findings and recommendations."

The Motion set the Committee to comprise all Members of the Legislative Assembly, and I was appointed by yourself, Madam Speaker, to be the Chairman. The Committee met on six occasions and the Minutes and notes of proceedings are attached to this report, together with the Committee's first and second interim reports which have already been laid on the Table of this Honourable House.

In accordance with the terms of reference of the Motion, in 1994 the Committee invited the public to participate by way of written representation and oral hearings. We received 24 representations, three of which were petitions representing over 472 signatures. In addition, the Committee also heard from 14 persons on the 25th of May and the 29th of June.

The Committee agreed that its mandate was to table a report of its findings and recommendations based upon the input received from the general public - that, clearly, was that the overwhelming majority wanted no change to the Law.

With no representations having been received from any commercial undertaking the Committee noted that it only had one side of the picture with which to make its recommendation, and that it was very clear that the majority wanted to maintain the status quo. In accordance with the Committee's mandate, and the representations made to it, the Committee recommends that the Sunday Trading Law remain unchanged, and that it be enforced. That is the recommendation of the Committee and the Standing Select Committee agrees that this report be the Third and Final Report of the Committee to this Honourable House.

The recommendation is that the Law remain unchanged and that it be enforced. It was the Committee's wish that it be enforced strictly and fairly. It is my intention, following that recommendation and having laid this report on the Honourable Table today, that there should be a reasonable period of grace for commercial undertakings to ensure that their premises are in conformity with the Sunday Trading Law, and that after that reasonable period, and upon notification which I envisage being made in the press so that everyone is fully aware of it, the police will be asked to strictly and fairly enforce the Law.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Perhaps, Honourable Second Official Member, you may wish to move under Standing Order 72(5) that the report of the Committee be adopted.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: I am happy to move under Standing Order 72(5) that the Report of the Committee be adopted by the House.

The Speaker: I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Committee's Report is accordingly adopted.

AGREED. THE REPORT OF THE STANDING SELECT COMMITTEE ADOPTED.

The Speaker: Third and Final Report of the Select Committee (of the whole House) to Review the Gambling Law.

The Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Administration.

THIRD AND FINAL REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE (OF THE WHOLE HOUSE) TO REVIEW THE GAMBLING LAW

Hon. Richard H. Coles: I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Third and Final Report of the Select Committee (of the whole House) to Review the Gambling Law.

The Speaker: So ordered.

The Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Administration.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Madam Speaker, the Select Committee appointed to review the Gambling Law was established by the Legislative Assembly on the 29th day of September, 1994. The Motion proposing the review, Private Member's Motion No. 25/94, was rejected by a majority of the House, but upon a Motion moved by myself in accordance with the provision of Standing Order 24(9), it was agreed that the matter be referred to a Select Committee. The Committee's terms of reference were set out in Private Member's Motion No. 25/94, entitled, Amendment to the Gambling Law, which reads: "WHEREAS large numbers of charitable and non-profit organisations, associations, clubs and fraternities engage in raffles as a means of fund-raising;

AND WHEREAS the Gambling Law, Law 6 of 1958, makes a raffle for any purpose illegal;

BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED THAT the Gambling Law be amended to allow charitable and non-profit organisations, associations, clubs and fraternities, registered as such with Government, to raffle for the purpose of fund-raising."

The Committee membership comprised all Honourable Members of the House, and it met on five separate occasions. Two interim reports were laid on the Table of this Honourable House, and the Minutes of proceedings and notes of discussion, together with the interim reports form a part of this Third and Final Report of the Committee.

The recommendation of the Committee: The resolve of Private Member's Motion No. 25/94 read that the Gambling Law be amended to allow charitable and non-profit organisations, associations, clubs and fraternities, registered as such with Government, to raffle for the purpose of fund-raising. However, the Committee was of the opinion that to accomplish this it would be more appropriate for a Charities Law to be drafted and provision made for the establishment of a charities register and for the accountability of funds and donations. The Committee therefore recommends to this Honourable House that a Charities Law be drafted and that provision be made for the establishment of a permanent charities register, and that all charitable and non-profit organisations, associations, clubs and fraternities, shall be registered and liable to maintain and present to the Registrar accounts of the funds raised.

The Committee agrees that this Third and Final Report be the report of the Committee to be laid on the Table of this Honourable House. I request that this report be adopted by the House under Standing Order 72(5).

The Speaker: The question is that the report of the Select Committee to Review the Gambling Law be adopted. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye. Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED. THE REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ADOPTED.

The Speaker: I wish to congratulate the Chairman and Members of these two Committees which were appointed in 1994 for having completed the work of the Committee.

Thank you.

The Royal Cayman Islands Police Annual Report 1995. The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

ROYAL CAYMAN ISLANDS POLICE ANNUAL REPORT

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I beg to Lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Annual Report for the year 1995 of the Royal Cayman Islands Police.

The Speaker: So ordered.

The Honourable First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I simply wish to commend the Commissioner and his staff for the thoroughness and quality of the Report. I certainly recommend it to Honourable Members and the general public as a source of information on the quality service that the RCIP delivers.

I feel confident that the Commissioner would welcome feedback particularly from the Honourable Members of this House, in respect to any additional information which they would like to see the report regularly provide.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Annual Report of the Housing Development Corporation for year ending 30th June, 1995.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION FOR YEAR ENDING 30TH JUNE, 1995

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Annual Report of the Housing Development Corporation for the year ending 30th June, 1995.

The Speaker: So ordered.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am pleased to table the Housing Development Corporation's Audited Financial Statements and Report for the Year Ended 30th June, 1995.

Members are aware that the Housing Development Corporation was experiencing difficulty in raising capital through its debenture offerings and this created a situation where the Corporation was unable to fund its lending activities. As the Government was not in a position to fund the Corporation's lending through budgetary support, it decided to tap the resources of the private sector.

Discussions between the Government and the local commercial banks led to the development of a scheme under which the banks would provide home mortgage financing for low- to middle income Caymanians on the strength of a Government Guarantee. In light of this, the Corporation was directed to suspend its lending activities in 1993. Thereafter, the Corporation continued to provide a service to its existing borrowers. In early 1995, the Government directed the Corporation to prepare a transfer scheme to effect the divestiture of the Corporation's mortgage loan portfolio by way of a private offering to eligible purchasers as defined under the enabling legislation which was passed in the Legislative Assembly on the 23rd September, 1995.

A public presentation was made to Housing Development Corporation's debenture subscribers to advise them of Government's decision, as well as to invite them and other eligible financial institutions to participate in the divestiture. Copies of an offering document, which provided detailed information on the Housing Development Corporation's mortgage portfolio, were made available to those institutions which indicated an interest in purchasing the Corporation's mortgage portfolio. In addition, the Housing Development Corporation made available its books, records and whatever information were requested in order to enable these institutions to satisfy themselves as to any representations made by the Corporation. After a bidding process was gone through, the Board of the Corporation recommended to the Government the acceptance of an offer from Cayman National Bank Ltd., a locally owned commercial bank. Approval was granted by Executive Council and the completion of the sale of the mortgage portfolio took place on the 3rd July, 1996.

I am pleased that a locally owned bank was the successful bidder of the Housing Development Corporation's mortgage portfolio. The mortgage loans were sold on the same terms and conditions as existed under the Housing Development Corporation. The borrowers will therefore continue to repay their loans at the same fixed rate of interest and over the same term as obtained with the Housing Development Corporation. The Housing Development Corporation's clients have been notified about the sale and they will be assisted by both the staff of the Corporation and Cayman National Bank to ensure a smooth transition. The proceeds from the sale of the Corporation's mortgage portfolio will be used to repay the subscribers to the Housing Development Corporation's 5% and 7 1/2% debenture offerings.

As at fiscal year end 1995, the Corporation's assets stood at CI$4,311,845, a decrease of .9% over the figure for fiscal year end 1994. The Corporation realised a surplus of CI$130,694 from operations in 1995, compared to CI$122,779 in 1994 - an increase of 6.4%. This increase was due mainly to the reversal of the provision for loan losses in light of the proposed sale of the loan portfolio. The estimated loss provision of CI$220,000 on the sale of the Corporation's mortgage loan portfolio was treated as an extraordinary item which resulted in an overall deficit of CI$89,306. The significant decrease in Loans Receivable from CI$2.9 million in 1994 to CI$2.2 million in 1995 resulted largely from the retirement of a number of loans as well as the estimated discount of 10% of the carrying value of the loan portfolio as at the date of divestment.

On behalf of the Government of the Cayman Islands, I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the Chairman and members of the Board as well as the management and staff of the Housing Development Corporation, for their dedication and commitment to providing housing for low-to-middle income Caymanians. The affairs of the Corporation have been managed by its Board and management in a prudent and business-like manner to ensure that the Housing Development Corporation's financial commitments were always met without recourse to the Government's purse. I congratulate them on their good stewardship and once again thank them for their hard work and dedication. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. Question No. 103, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 103

No. 103: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development to provide a breakdown of the number of contingency warrants issued from September, 1995 until May 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The total number of Contingency Warrants issued between September 1995 and May 1996 is 59. These Warrants total CI$3,709,172. This total is broken down as follows: 28 Warrants were issued between September-December 1995 valued at $2,169,734; 31 Warrants were issued between January- May 1996 valued at $1,539,438.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say why this seemingly high number of warrants were issued rather than the more traditional route of getting the approval of Finance Committee?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I think we should look at the aggregate value of the warrants in question. When we consider 28 warrants issued between September through December, at a value of $2,169,734, taking an average we would find out that the amounts would not be large sums. If the Honourable Member will recall, there were meetings held of Finance Committee in September and December. The issuance of these warrants was to allow for the approval process as granted in the Public Finance and Audit Law for the Financial Secretary to exercise. There are always unforeseen requests put forward by controlling officers and there would have been varying circumstances that would have given rise for these requests and for these warrants to be issued.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 104, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 104

No. 104: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development what the Government's plans are regarding the funding of the contingent liability representing the Civil Service Pension.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The Government has recognised the need to address the pensions liability, and accordingly, in 1993, engaged the services of Wyatt Company to carry out an actuarial review of Government's pension liability. The findings indicated that the liability, as at 1st January, 1993, was $65 million with no projections and $99.4 million with projections. Amongst the measures that have been put in place to address the issue of the pensions liability, the Government recently comprised a team of four senior Civil Servants to review the existing pension plan and to consult with Civil Servants to determine if they would rather remain under the Civil Service Pension Scheme or opt to be placed under the proposed National Pensions Plan. If the decision is taken to opt for the former, a further actuarial evaluation will be carried out prior to 1st January, 1997, to confirm the current liability and a decision taken at the earliest opportune time to agree on all requirements necessary for the setting up of a fully funded Civil Service Pension Plan.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member say if there have been any thoughts or methods arrived at as to how this plan will be fully funded?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: It may be useful if I looked at the report for Wyatt which was tabled in this Honourable House during 1995.

In order to address the deficiency and to put in place a pension plan allowing for disbursements to be made as at 1st January, 1993, out of that plan, the recommendation was that there would need to be a contribution into the plan totalling approximately 24% of the then Civil Service salaries which amounted to $8,789,000. In addition, there was a proposal that in order to cover the normal costs there would be a need to first contribute a sum of $5,501,000. Therefore the annual contribution would be $14,290,000.

In light of the decision that has been taken recently to amend the Pensions Law, and this was recently approved in this Honourable House, it would mean that these figures would be significantly increased. What needs to happen will require a concerted decision of Government and the Civil Service, the Management Council of the Civil Service Association and the Public Managers Association together with their respective members to sit and look at the extent of the liability, what the financial obligations of the Government will be to achieve a fully funded pension scheme and to agree on what procedures would be put in place to achieve this.

Presumably it would be over a period of 20 years as suggested by Wyatt, and we could be looking at a sum not less than, I would imagine, $17 million per annum. That is just a crude guess.

As the Honourable Member will recognise, one of the amendments at this time is to allow for the Government's contribution element to be increased from 4% to 6% per annum, and also for the civil servants' contribution to remain at 4%. In 1994 it was felt that there should be a need for the Civil Service contribution to increase by a further 1%, but, notwithstanding these increases, they are to be regarded as interim measures because at the end of the day we will have to be in a position where whatever percentage is agreed upon this is what will be the contribution into the fund.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 105, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 105

No. 105: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development what the total loans and guarantees are for which the Cayman Islands Government is obligated.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The Public debt as at 31st December, 1995, was $33,241,189. Contingent liabilities as at 31st December, 1995, were $101,790,680.

Self-financing loans which are reimbursed to Government by the Statutory Authorities were $18,293,606 as at 31st December, 1995.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Member say if he has a general idea of what the figure for the public debt is at present?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The public debt as at this morning would be in the region of $33.3 million. But I am sure the Honourable Member is making reference to the loans that were recently approved. Those two Bills amount to $12.7 million. When they are taken into account it will put the public debt position up to $55.4 million. This takes into account the reduction that will be occurring in 1996 from repayments which will be in the region of $6.8 million.

If we take $33.3 million as at 1st January, 1996, less the $6.8 million that will be repayments, and we add (assuming that we will be using up the full amount of the loans of $12.7 million in 1996) that $12.7, that will put the public debt position in the region of... In addition to the $12.7 what should be included as well is the $16.2 million which was approved during the budget. So when the $16.2 million is added to the $12.7 million recently approved, this gives a total of $28.9 million.

That would put the position at $55.4 million, but as I mentioned during the answer I gave to one of the Parliamentary Questions, it is unlikely that the full amount of the loans approved will be drawn down during the course of 1996. I should point out that it does not become public debt until the sums are drawn down.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Of the $16.16 million approved in the 1996 estimates, would the Honourable Member have any idea of how much of those approved funds have been drawn down by way of loans?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Against that $16.2 million approximately $7 million has been spent. But we have not drawn down any of the loan funds as yet, although we have the approval in place. We have been using the excess revenue that has been generated up to this point because we are attempting to minimise interest cost. It is only when the cash position is likely to be put into an adverse position will monies be drawn down.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Member say if any of the $7 million that he referred to in his answer, is part and parcel of the payments being made to the contractors for the hospital project?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning. We now proceed to Government Business, Bills. Second readings.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

SECOND READING

NATIONAL PENSIONS BILL, 1996

The Clerk: The National Pensions Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Today I believe that we can say that we have taken one giant step in the progress and betterment of the people of these islands. We bring to this House a National Pension

Bill which provides for the retirement benefits of the working people of this country.

When all is said and done, regardless of the complaints, regardless of the criticism, we have reached an important milestone in the development of this country - to provide pensions for the working people in their old age.

In September 1985 a Private Member's Motion was passed by the Legislative Assembly. That Motion was piloted by me, asking the Government to commission a study and report its findings on the feasibility of a contributory pension scheme for these islands. Since that time, there have been two proposals presented by various Governments, one in 1986/87 and another in 1990/91. These proposals were for a pension system which was to a large extent Government controlled and Social Security in nature. These proposals were very unpopular and after much public debate and opposition, each proposal was shelved.

As a result of this debate, much discussion has been ongoing on the subject of pensions and retirement plans generally amongst the public. However, in the absence of guidelines or legislation mandating pensions, and specifying minimum standards there has not been a significant improvement in the availability of pensions for today's working population.

As years go by a greater number of Caymanians will reach retirement age without adequate provisions for their golden years. These older citizens could become a burden on their families and on Government's Social/Welfare purse.

As a Caymanian and the Minister responsible for the subjects of labour relations and human resources and pensions, I remain concerned about the lack of structured and reasonable pension provisions for our working Caymanians. Too many people have given their lives to the loyal service of their employer and have gone into their sunset years without sufficient financial security to meet their needs, and have struggled with ill health to make ends meet long after what should be a normal retirement age.

It is true that our Caymanian people are independent minded, our elderly are proud and many of them still work as long as they can hold a job, but it is also equally true that many of them work because they have to and they go to work even when they are very sick, and they only become sicker.

It is obvious that this situation will not improve for today's workers unless the provision of pensions is made mandatory. A number of pension plans are in existence in this country already for the public sector and for several private sector employers. While the organisations and businesses who have had the foresight and social responsibility to voluntarily offer these deferred benefits must be commended, we must also now accept that many of these plans will have to be more closely regulated and in some cases revamped if they are expected to provide a meaningful retirement benefit for the working people, the contributors.

There is minimal monitoring of these plans today and the provision of these plans is wide ranging and potentially problematic. For example, with regard to the vesting period, that is, the length of time required for one to be eligible for retirement benefits. Affordability is another example, that is, keeping one's benefits even though one may change an employer. Another example is control of the plan, investment guidelines for the fund and protection of the accumulated funds and reserves. Government's stated policy on pensions calls for the introduction of legislation to enable Government through a relevant inspectorate to properly regulate all existing and future pension plans. Government's policy and the Bill which is before us now clearly underscore that this Government feels that the Government should be the regulator and not the provider of pensions for the general public.

Other provisions are being made by the Government for the indigent and elderly who do not have sufficient safety net coverage. We have tried as a Government to address this by increasing the dollar amount and by increasing the quantity of Caymanians who receive monthly financial assistance through my Ministry. This now stands at $200 per month. It is not yet to the stage where it is enough to assist the elderly, but it does help them and I know that the elderly and the handicapped appreciate it.

Based on the public's views and concerns regarding the earlier pension proposals and its own assessment of the shortcoming of the proposals, the National Team's policy was shaped. This policy is sensitive to the fact that any plan to be workable must be acceptable to the people, employees and employers, whom it seeks to assist.

Appointment of the Committee: In order to fully examine this policy for implementation, the Governor in Council approved the appointment of the National Pension Plan Advisory Committee in July 1994. This Committee comprising 14 members representing a broad cross section of knowledge and expertise from the private and public sectors began its work in October 1994. The members of the Committee are: myself as Chairman; the Honourable Minister responsible for Education as Deputy Chairman; Mr. Mario Ebanks, the Sr. Assistant Secretary in my Ministry, as Secretary. He kept the Committee going in my absence, and for this I am very grateful. It also includes Mrs. Edna Moyle, the lady Member for North Side, Both Permanent Secretaries, the previous Permanent Secretary, Mr. Leonard Dilbert, and the present Permanent Secretary, Ms. Lucille Seymour. At this point I would like to publicly thank my former Permanent Secretary who assisted in getting this Committee going and, of course was the overseer of the whole project. The present Permanent Secretary has certainly done her part.

Also included are: Mr. Billy Adams, Chamber of Commerce representative; Miss Juliet Johnson, Hyatt Regency representative; Mr. Carlyle McLaughlin, Accounting Sector representative; Mr. Greg Merren or Mr. Adrian Briggs, from the Water sports sector; Mr. B. Knights, Star Sanford, the Banking and Finance representatives; Mr. Hubert Boden, the Heavy Equipment Operators representative; Mr. Allen (Bunny) Myles, Construction sector representative; Ms. Judy Carlman; Hotel/Condo/Hospitality representative; Mr. Norman Kline, Orren Merren and Company, the co-opted member who is a Canadian-trained attorney with working knowledge of the Canadian Pension Legislation.

In order to fully examine this policy for implementation, the Governor in Council approved the terms of reference of the Committee, summarised as follows:

1. The review proposed planned guidelines, as well as existing draft legislation or regulation, that is, the Government's plan at the time; the Chamber of Commerce's Plan and draft legislation and regulation previously sent to a Select Committee;

2. To identify prudent and equitable provisions and guidelines and safeguards;

3. To consult with non-Government and private organisations on their plans and ideas or suggestions to achieve the policy directives;

4. To advise on the parameters for drafting instructions for a National Pensions Law;

5. To advise on the institutional and regulatory mechanisms which would be needed to monitor and enforce the law.

Meetings and Work of the Committee: The Advisory Committee met on the 27th of October and the 15th of November, 1994; the 18th of January, 6th and 28th of February, the 14th and 28th of March; the 11th and 25th of April; the 13th of May, the 1st of July, the 16th, 21st and 24th of August, 1995. As I will demonstrate later, there were several meetings this year of a sub-committee of the Advisory Committee held with the Legislative Council as well as with Government's technical advisors.

During this period of work, various assignments were delegated to some members of the Committee to undertake, and ongoing research and coordination was performed by the ministry representatives on the Committee.

The Committee shared Government's concern about the lack of pension provisions for working Caymanians, and agreed that the situation will not improve unless pensions are mandatory, through legislation which applies to all workers in the Cayman Islands. The Committee concurred with Government's sensitivity to the fact that any national pension legislation should be workable and acceptable to the people whom it seeks to assist. This is the basis on which this Committee tackled its work, and submitted its report to my Ministry and subsequently to Executive Council in September, 1995.

The Committee recommended that pensions should be viewed as a part of the employee's salary package, as such his contribution, together with the employer's contribution benefit, should be his right. With this in mind, being able to obtain benefits from a pension plan should not be used to force an employee's longevity of service with a particular employer. In order to ensure the highest possible benefit to all contributors, the Committee supported the concept of immediate vesting, with allowances for existing plans. The Committee recommended that the vesting period should be reasonable, and come into effect immediately upon employment. Under this type of environment, existing plans which have vesting periods of five, ten, 15 years, et cetera, will obviously have to be amended accordingly. As I understand it, there are several of those in the country. This is not good for the working person to be working that many years without having an interest in a pension for his retirement.

With regard to portability, it is similarly the Committee's view that as the vested pension of an employee is his right, it should be able to move with him if he moves to another employer, through various specified methods.

CONSULTATIVE PROCESS

In September 1995 Executive Council gave approval and I released, and my Ministry dispatched, 450 copies of the discussion draft by the Committee for circulation and for public consultation. During this official consultative period, which lasted from September 1995 to April 1996 every effort was made to create ample opportunity for all interested parties to understand the provisions of the proposed legislation, and to appreciate the philosophy surrounding this initiative.

At the time of releasing the discussion document, there were a number of specific issues on which Government invited feedback and suggestions:

1) The acceptability and viability of the rate of contribution, which was and still is proposed at 10%, split evenly between employee and employer. That is, the employer will pay 5% and the employee will pay 5%.

2) Applicability of the legislation to non-Caymanians. On this point there have been suggestions made by some individuals and groups that employees on work permits should not be covered by this legislation. Government encouraged feedback on the pros and cons of this issue.

We have reached some agreement which I will discuss later.

3) Retirement age. The proposed discussion draft suggests a retirement age of 60, with provisions for continuing to make contributions for a reasonable period beyond that age. Government also encouraged feedback on this matter.

As I said I will speak about the feedback received from this public consultation process later.

COMMITTEE'S SURVEY

The National Pensions Plan Advisory Committee, undertook a survey of private sector employers to gather information on existing policies and practices regarding this subject. Approximately 800 survey forms were sent to a broad cross-section of employers, via 18 of their respective professional and trade associations and the Chamber of Commerce. Despite several media reminders as well as my Ministry contacting many of the associations, only a small percentage of the forms were returned.

There were, however, a number of trends which were obvious from the review of the sectorial collation of the survey reports

Defined contribution plans, as is obvious from this survey, are becoming more popular. At least two large local employers have switched from a defined benefits to a defined contribution pension plan in the past two years.

Also, those companies which have a defined contribution plan mostly require their employees to participate once they complete their probationary period. A contribution rate of 8% to 10%, split evenly between the employee and employer seems to be the norm.

Shorter vesting periods, for example after one year, as well as full portability are also the norm in plans which have reformed. However, the survey showed that vesting periods are very varied, ranging from immediate to long vesting periods (for example after ten years of service).

The normal retirement age which currently prevails appears to be 60 to 65, there are also options for early retirement as well as disability benefits.

There were also wide-ranging findings in regard to the issues of portability, level of funding etc. It can be seen that most plans in existence seem to have provisions for audits and actuarial surveys.

Based on the returned survey forms, there is a clear lack of participation in any form of pension or retirement planning in the following industries: hospitality, construction, accounting, agriculture, architects/surveyors/engineers.

The associations whose members returned their forms were: Construction, CI Bar Association, Restaurants Association, Insurance Managers, Bankers Association., Architects/Surveyors & Engineers, Accountants Society, and Agricultural Society. These eight associations (of the 18 surveyed), represented a total of 1735 employees - with an average age of 33.

Of this number, only 22 1/2 percent were covered by a pension plan; the vast remainder of 77 3/4 percent were not covered by a pension plan.

This is a fairly good indication of the situation which prevails in the country in regard to pension coverage.

REVIEW OF DISCUSSION DRAFT LAW BY TECHNICAL ADVISOR

At its meeting on 15th January this year, Executive Council approved that independent expert input should be sought on the provisions and implications of the September 1995 discussion draft of the law.

Subsequent to this decision a number of persons and companies having expertise in the field of pensions were short-listed. My Ministry negotiated a consultancy agreement with Mr. Robert Hawkes QC, to provide a range of technical services, for a cost of CI$15,000.00. An agreement was drafted by Crown Counsel of the Legal Department, and this was executed between my Ministry and Mr. Robert Hawkes, QC, on 13th February 1996.

Mr. Hawkes is no stranger to Cayman, its pensions situation and the intricacies of our labour market. Mr. Hawkes, who is now retired, served as the Superintendent of Pensions for the Pensions Commission of Ontario, Canada from 1987 to 1991, as well as holding senior positions and directorships of several major Canadian institutions from 1955.

Mr. Hawkes' overall task was to provide technical assistance to the Legislative Council on the fine-tuning of the discussion draft, in order to ensure compliance with Government's policy, and to ensure that any amendments were consistent with the Advisory Committee's report and Government's policy. To guide the technical advisor, the following terms of reference were provided to him:

1. Review the draft law for clarity, in liaison with the Legislative council.

2. Ensure that all policy parameters contained in the September 1995 report were clearly reflected in the draft law.

3. Ensure that powers to make regulations are clear and comprehensive so as to provide for all operational and administrative details.

4. Ensure that both types of plans (defined benefits and defined contributions) are recognised and equally accommodated in the draft law.

5. Ensure that provisions for portability arrangements (local and overseas) are clear and fair to all participants.

6. Ensure that transition rules, for plans in existence prior to the coming into force of this legislation, are reasonable and clear.

7. Advise on ramifications of any unusual or difficult clauses or sections, and provide recommendations for refinements as necessary.

8. Review and compare the discussion draft law with other current legislation, for example other provinces in Canada, Hong Kong, Bermuda, et cetera.

9. Produce a written report to the Committee and the Ministry.

At the conclusion of his work (covering the tasks as outlined in terms of reference 1 to 8 which I have just read) and the submission of his report, Mr. Hawkes had positive words on the draft of Cayman's pension legislation, saying that it would be more up-to-date and complete than legislation in many other countries, while also including provisions specific to the Cayman Islands. He stated that pension legislation is especially important, as the primary difference between Cayman and other countries is that the social safety net consists primarily of assistance given by the Social Services Department, as well as benevolence by community groups, churches, and family members of the elderly. He said that with pension legislation in force, people were not dependent on a hand-out from Government. He said that he had sensed during his time here that financial independence is very important to people in Cayman, and the draft law was tailored to that objective.

PUBLIC COMMENTS AND CONCERNS EXPRESSED DURING CONSULTATION PERIOD

As Honourable Members of this House are well aware, the subject of pensions has been discussed in Cayman since 1965. Discussed, let us say, with at least two proposals for the past ten years and even before that, as I can recall people talking about pensions in 1965. The latest round of discussion has been generated as a result of this Government's policy statement, which got underway with the release of the Advisory Committee's Report and discussion draft in September 1995, followed by the release of a revised discussion draft in May 1996. Coinciding with the release of these drafts, there were some media activity initiated by my Ministry through Government Information Services (including Radio Cayman and CITN appearances, press stories, public service announcements, discussion with focus (advisory) groups, and the publication of a brochure). At this time I would like to lay a copy of this brochure on the Table of this House.

Also, we had dialogue with several private sector associations and employers (including the Advisory Committee - which, in itself, is a broad-based source of diverse backgrounds and expertise).

During this period written representation was received from the following: After the first discussion draft in September 1995, Coutts and Co., Brown Brothers Harriman Trust Company, Cayman National Trust Co., Mr. Peter Tomkins, Mr. J. Wallace Platts, Mr. Charles Adams, Caribbean Utilities Co. After the revised discussion draft my Ministry did not receive much written representation aside from newspaper letters and articles from primarily the Chamber of Commerce, and letters from the Council of Associations, Columbia Sussex Corporation (owners of the Radisson and Westin Hotels), Global Life Assurance Co. Ltd, and W.S. Walker & Co. Of course, there has been the usual misinformation from politicians on the platform and, I should say, from Members of this Honourable House who are now on a bandwagon. I will deal with them in due course.

A LISTING OF THE HIGHLIGHTS OF THIS WRITTEN FEEDBACK IS AS FOLLOWS:

1. Transitional issues with regard to plans in existence prior to this law coming into effect, particularly how to fund past-service liabilities (especially for plans with long vesting periods vs. the proposed immediate vesting period as we have in the law).

2. Need for an efficient and reasonable inspectorate.

3. Support for the defined contribution plan because it is more simple, cost-effective, portability is easier, easier to track accumulated funds etc.

4. The importance of containing costs, especially for small companies. The contribution phase-in procedure which is proposed in section 46(9) of the Legislation was appreciated by the public as a good concession in this regard).

5. Rate of contribution, applicability to all workers, and retirement age proposals in the discussion draft were all supported. 6. Support was given to the proposal that existing plans be allowed to phase-in the Law's requirements over five years.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Minister take a suspension at this time?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Madam Speaker. Thank you very much.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.35 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.05 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture, continuing.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Dealing now with the highlights of the written feedback from the public;

7. There was also support for clear and reasonable investment guidelines.

8. Inflation protection through indexation of benefits was supported, although further information would be required in the regulations in regard to this and other specific procedures.

9. Comments were made on the role of existing and new life insurance policies/plans.

10. Support was given for public education and awareness, as well as developing various enforcement methods.

11. Comment was made on the need for careful scrutiny on what quality of companies are registered as approved providers, as well as the need for ongoing monitoring.

12. Support was also given for the need for confidentiality of all information.

13. Need to ensure that knowledgeable individuals serve as trustees or board members.

14. Need to arrange workable portability procedures for departing expatriate workers.

15. There was strong support for full participation of all employees (including civil servants).

16. There was also strong support expressed in the written feedback for a referendum type procedure for any amendments to this law. However, while this idealistic procedure may have some merit, several respondents commented on the practicality and potential abuse of this sort of procedure. If we had to have a referendum when we wanted to change this law it would provide a higher rate of contribution to a half percent (or some percentage). We would have to go out and call a referendum, have a vote on it... I think that in a small island such as ours, we can have general consent from organisations. It is difficult to get general consent from the Chamber of Commerce because they just like to fight all of the time. But, nevertheless, we can sit down and discuss with them. I, myself, cannot support a referendum to make any changes in this law.

17. It was also suggested that membership on the National Pensions Board should be made by direct election from relevant associations, organisations and so on. Of course, that is the usual thing whenever Government is appointing a board, they want (the Chamber in particular) to have ten members out of nine on the board.

18. Concern was also expressed on how to address the public sector pension scheme's liability for past service.

A sub-Committee of the National Pensions Plan Advisory Committee and my Ministry, in most cases with the Legislative Council in attendance, has reviewed all of this representation. Where necessary, and as considered prudent by Executive Council, there have been amendments, refinements and clarifications to the drafts. The Bill which I am presenting today is the fifth draft of the September 1995 discussion draft, which was used to formally get this public consultation exercise underway. It is the fifth draft. For anyone to say that they never had a chance, or that there was never any public consultation cannot be serious about providing a pension for the working people in this county.

MAJOR POLICY COMPONENTS OF THE LEGISLATION INTRODUCTION

There is a great deal of debate going on in the world today concerning the important issue of retirement planning. For example in the United States, Hong Kong, France, the United Kingdom, and Canada (to mention some), there is much discussion concerning the importance of pensions, safeguards to protect the interests of the contributors and the credibility of the plans; reforms needed, and the need to ensure that pension plans are sufficiently funded to cover the various benefits.

The American President recently said, "Every American should be encouraged to set aside money for their retirement and make investments in their economic future. Our action will assure millions of Americans that they can put their savings and their trust into a financially sound retirement plan."

An article in a recent issue of a British newspaper also highlighted efforts which are underway to reform and privatise the pension system in the UK. There is a big debate going on right now in the UK on that matter.

At this particular time, my Ministry is very pleased to have led the debate in Cayman concerning the introduction of this landmark legislation to regulate and I want to underscore that word to regulate, not to administer pension plans in these islands. The National Pensions Law will mandate that all eligible persons employed in the Cayman islands should participate in an approved pension plan. It is not the intention that a Government controlled Social Security scheme (as proposed by previous Governments) be set up. Instead this legislation will set the minimum standards for all existing and new pension plans in these islands, and will provide for the regulation and supervision of these plans by a suitably qualified and equipped Government inspectorate, in the form of a Superintendent of Pensions and a National Pensions Board. Government will not control or manipulate the investment of the funds in these pension plans, but will only ensure that they are invested in accordance with prudent guidelines as provided by the law and regulations. Obviously employers are encouraged to exceed the benefits as prescribed in the law, while ensuring that the interests of contributors are protected.

I know that some concern has been laid saying that it is the politics of an election year. That we have left it to late. That is not true. I would have liked to have had this matter before the House earlier, but I believe that any sensible person listening to what I have said and the process that I outlined this morning, will determine for themselves that we have made every effort as a Government to get this to where we could have a draft Bill. Even now there are still complaints, there are still radio announcements reported to be from the Chamber of Commerce regarding this pension scheme.

I do not know, but our great Creator could not please everyone. I doubt that McKeever or the National Team can. However, none of the political pundits can deny the fact that we have been actively discussing and debating pensions since, as I said, 1965. Nor can anyone deny that when we had the "great debate of 1995" on the labour law amendment, that there was overwhelming support and calls for legislation to mandate the provision of pensions for all employers and employees in the Cayman islands. If that great debate did nothing else, it made all and sundry in this country understand that this was not a Government that was going to sit down and not provide the long term (in some cases short term) retirement for its people. If I had not gone forward at that time, I would have to be fighting today much greater battles, I am convinced, to provide pensions. I would not have gotten this far.

As a proactive Government, we have listened to the public on this important matter. The pulse of all reasonable people is that we are as close as we have ever been to proposing an acceptable and workable framework for retirement planning for these islands).

Government appreciates very much the support and assistance of the many organisations and individuals who have served on the National Pension Plan Advisory Committee or who have provided ideas or suggestions on how to improve this initiative. We all know that the alternative could be a Government-operated and sponsored pension plan. It has been proven that these types of plans have failed around the world, and it would be unwise for Cayman to adopt that type of system for Cayman's unique and progressive economy. This Government is endeavouring to introduce a legislative system which is current and adequate;

we trust that Honourable Members and the public will fully support the better proposal which is before us at this time.

It is Government's intention that when the Bill is passed it will not come into effect right away in 1996, but there will be a six month moratorium on enforcement.

I would now like to take some time to tell Honourable Members about some of the aspects of the revised proposed Bill, as well as to shed some light on other aspects surrounding this initiative.

PURPOSE OF LEGISLATION

We all understand that the primary advantage of pension legislation is that it protects the future financial security of the population. Its aims are that future retirees will have a reasonable standard of living, and that they will not place a burden on the Government or their families. Pension legislation seeks to guarantee that senior citizens in the future remain independent and enjoy their retirement.

By instituting retirement planning, contributing to an approved pension plan promotes a "saving society". I believe that one of the greatest faults of many Caymanians is that they have failed to be prudent in putting something away for a rainy day. I know from my experience as a legislator for the past 12 years, many of the 'little men' who have to come to us as legislators when they are in difficulty, sometimes for medical, sometimes for other major and less major things, but they do not even have $200 or $300 to help themselves. We all know what it is to be poor, but if we can help somebody understand that if they are making $200 and they put away $10 for the week, in a couple of years time that will grow and blossom into something beautiful for them and assist them. We will have then done our part as legislators.

Look at the statistics. You can tell from the saving trends (just savings, not investments of upper income people; I am talking about saving tends of the common man on the street) we are far behind. This is what this legislation is attempting to also do. It gives the country a social safety net, and assures greater peace of mind for both employee when he needs something, and also the employer. There are many people who are concerned about their employees. They have to work with them day in and day out; they see their situation and come to us as legislators. The same way they come to us as legislators is the way they sometimes go to their employer. So there are employers who will have a greater peace of mind from this legislation.

This can be achieved as employees gain confidence in their ability to live well in the future, as well as in the promotion of goodwill towards employers who are seen to be carrying out their civic duty and providing for their employees.

ELIGIBILITY

The legislation proposes that all workers who are between the ages of 18 and be required to participate in an approved pension plan in the Cayman Islands. Of course, employees may choose to begin contributing before age 18 and after age 60. I would encourage them to do so, as the bigger fund they can accumulate the better off financially they will be during their retirement years.

I will be moving some amendments at Committee stage. These amendments will provide that in clause 2 the words 'but does not apply to pension plans of Government' be deleted, and that in clause 3 the definition of certified copy, the word 'attorney' be deleted and the word 'attorney-at-law' substituted.

What I want to hone in on at this time is the deletion of the words 'but does not apply to pension plans of the Government'.

There is big hue and cry about this. I must say that all of the civil servants that I spoke to told me that they have a good pension plan. We are not yet ready. I must say that is not from a broad cross-section, but there are those in this House today who I hope will address that issue in this debate. As far as I am concerned, I am waiting on the hierarchy of the Civil Service to say what they want to do and what they think is prudent.

The fact is that before any pension was in this country, this Government and previous Governments for many years provided pensions, before anybody else, for the Civil Service in these islands.

Those people who are trying to make some hay out of the fact that the civil servants were not in the Bill should not try to stir up any trouble there. They should listen to the people in the Service in the know. That is who I have to listen to. That is who I will be guided by. The Civil Service pension scheme is better off today than it has ever been. But if they go into the scheme the big gripe is that they must go in because this large amount is not provided for, that it is out standing. If they go in now, will that make them any better off immediately? No, because we must all use our common sense. Whether it is $65 million or $100 million, this country does not have the money to say pay Global Life, or pay into the Chamber of Commerce scheme. We have to be practical and sensible. Government, through the hierarchy is coming to an agreement, and has reached some agreement. There was a Bill passed. So, those people who are trying to start up trouble should think again.

I will probably come back to this later. The amendments that I will be tabling to remove those words so that when the hierarchy says we are ready for them to come in, they can come in - if that is what they want.

In the amendments we will also clarify and make absolutely clear that domestic servants in the private home can have their own arrangements but it will not mandate that they are covered. Each family will make an arrangement with their domestic.

I do not know why they twisted that, because I listened to a meeting the other night and I shut off after listening to what I call serious misinformation that they could have gotten to the stage to talk about domestics. I would just like to say that when you consider the vast number of domestics and the present state of the country culturally (and I use the word culturally for want of a better word)... People historically in this country have not used to a great extent pre-schools. Young families could easily get a maid and they thought that it was better to get a maid to do some work in the home and to keep the children home. Families are now beginning to use pre-schools more and more in the country. The domestics in most instances take care of children. That is why there are a lot of them.

We have many single parent families who have domestics. I do not think that I would be putting forward any suggestion at this time to say that they must cover their domestics. What I am prepared to say in the legislation is that they should make an arrangement between themselves.

I think that is one of the most serious parts of the amendment. You will find in clause 94 the amendment, 'the Governor in Council may, after consultation with the employees of the Government make an order providing that this law shall apply to the Government.' I guess that is the best that I can do.

Listening to the various criticisms, I heard one political group, in particular the First Elected Member for Bodden Town in a meeting, saying that there were no defined benefits. He put forward the position that employees were going to make direct payments to the Government. I listened and I had to wonder.... I am not going to say any more. I am going to give those Members a chance to save face, and to come and say that they were wrong. The Bill certainly does not say that. I know they will debate it, so I am going to give them that chance. I am trying to keep the debate at a high level, and I hope that they are prepared to do the same. I can say that I am not happy with the amount of deliberate misinformation. Even at that time, the draft Bill was out, when Team Cayman dealt with it in their two meetings. I hope they are prepared to admit that they were wrong, to say the least.

They also say that we disregarded the people's input. I do not believe that that can be said either. "They have not told you what you will be getting for putting in all of that money." I am quoting the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. I hope that he can tell them what they will not be getting. I know what they will be getting. They will be getting peace and satisfaction when they reach retirement age.

The objective is to put in whatever little bit you can put in, but whatever you put in you will get back. Government is not collecting any. This is not a social security system. Government will not collect anybody's money. You will chose with your employer what scheme you want to get into. Then you and your employer will put in an equal amount and whatever that comes out to be you will get all of it back. I hope they will be big enough to say that it was in the heat of politics that they said it; or be big enough to say what they said then, that they are not supporting this scheme. That is what they said.

I do not want the House to be left with any impression that anyone is going to put money into this scheme and not get it back. They will get every cent back, plus interest. I await to hear from the people who are saying that I was an idiot and did not know what I was doing. That sort of thing hurts at times, but I take it in the spirit that it is politics and that they know better. The same way they were wrong with their understanding of the Bill, they are wrong about the things they say about me.

Moving on to Registration and Approval.

REGISTRATION AND APPROVAL OF PROVIDERS:

The law establishes an Inspectorate. One of the duties of the Superintendent of Pensions will be to assess and register all qualified applicants who are seeking to be licensed as approved providers for the purposes of offering pension plans in this market.

These providers will include: life insurance companies, pension companies, class A banks and trust companies, and other suitable employers who may offer multi-national plans. By ensuring that only the best quality providers are registered, allowing freedom of choice, and promoting competition, we will have an effective and beneficial framework for all parties.

Government is primarily seeking to regulate the pension industry, to ensure prudent standards of operation, and to ensure a similar basis for benefits to all participants - all within the fundamental democratic principle of freedom of choice.

CONTRIBUTION RATE AND PENSIONABLE EARNINGS

The contribution rate is proposed to be 10% of each person's declared earnings, split evenly between the employee and the employer. The employer will be empowered in the law to deduct the employee's contribution from his salary or wages; add on the employer's matching contribution, and pay the total into the approved pension plan in which that business is participating.

Another criticism from the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, who must have been the spokesperson on pensions, was that Government would have access to what people's salaries are. They promote the Social Security System. How would they think that they would be able to make a deduction from that type of scheme? The only way that you could get run out of it (when Government handled it) is for the Government to deduct it, or for your employer to deduct it and send it on to Government. This is exactly all that is happening except that this is not being sent to Government, this is being handled by independent people, just like you have a bank. All Government does is regulate Barclays Bank and say they must do this or that, or CIBC, and they are a good company. This is all that Government will do. Why not? We regulate insurance, we regulate bankers, we regulate accountants, we regulate mutual funds, we regulate the whole financial industry. Why can we not regulate this?

But to have the audacity to get up and say that Government will know what your salary is so do not support that system, but support what Team Cayman proposes, which is a social security system to say the least, and to tell the people that Government is going to know what their salary is, yet propose something that Government will have full control of is not being honest with yourself, the people they purport to serve or the entire country, or the future of those people. Social Security systems in the vast majority have failed. We all hear about the problems in the United States.

The law further provides that contributions be calculated on earnings up to CI$60,000 per year; in other words, deductions need not be made on amounts in excess of CI$60,000.00 p.a.

I see that the Chamber of Commerce and the Hospitality Sector are proposing that gratuities not be included in the calculation of income for the purposes of assessing the pension deduction. I cannot agree with this, and I hope that the House will not agree with it. It is a well known fact that gratuities account for the largest portion of salary/income for non-managerial staff in the hotels, restaurants, condominiums, bars, etcetera. If the pension provision is only provided from the straight wages, the employer and employee will only be paying a small amount which will only give the employee a pittance for retirement. Anyone who suggest that does not have the peoples' welfare in mind. At the best of times all they take home on a straight wage for the month is $800, if they even make that. I cannot understand why it is so hard for some people to accept that that level of person needs as much as me, or you, or the next higher income person to make it. Their whole argument is that they do not want gratuities in the first instance. We know that because some people deliberately steal them. As fast as we plug one hole, they find another one.

The Chamber of Commerce and the Hospitality Sector and... I do not want to get into any big fuss with him because I have had enough meetings. It is time for action it is time that something be done. The Chamber of Commerce and the Hospitality Sector are going a step further and suggesting that the employee should pay the full 10% on the gratuity portion of his income.

This again is an insult to their loyal employees because they will be paying the "lions share" of the contribution, and the employer who often use gratuity to subsidise the low wages will be getting a "sweetheart deal" again.

Furthermore, this type of inequity will only discourage Caymanians from choosing the Hospitality Sector as a career, and would poke fun at the claims which the Hospitality Sector makes concerning their desire to attract Caymanians into this sector. It goes without saying that I will not be subscribing to any games and sweetheart deals with the hospitality or any other sector which will generate "short term gain for long term pain" on the people of the Cayman islands. So they had better think again about how to equitably treat gratuities and not try to abuse this by a new method.

Of course, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town in his recent meeting told his small audience that this Bill proposes that the full contribution for the gratuities should be paid by the employee.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER
(Misleading)

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, First Elected Member for Bodden Town?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker. I think the Honourable Minister is misleading the House. Really and truly, I have tolerated it for as long as I could, but now I can no longer tolerate it because it is becoming too dangerous. At no meeting did I tell any audience, small or large, that the full contribution of gratuities should be taken. I think the Minister should discard or fire that messenger because they gave him incorrect messages.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister.

Hon. W. McKeewa Bush: If I fired the messenger, I would have to fire the speaker, that is the person speaking at the public meeting. That is what the tape has on it. But, as I said, I am trying to keep this at a high level. If he says that he did not say it, then, so be it. But if I am challenged, I am prepared (and I hope that the House would agree) to play that portion of the tape which I have complained about, because I listened to the tape myself.

The Speaker: The point of order was made and if the Member wishes to withdraw his point of order, I will leave it there.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I will have a chance to debate, so I will rectify and clarify the matter in my debate.

The Speaker: In that case, then, you withdraw the point of order?

The point of order is withdrawn, Honourable Minister. It is five minutes to 1 o'clock, would you take the luncheon suspension now?

Hon. W. McKeewa Bush: Yes, Ma'am. This is a good time to take a break.

The Speaker: Proceedings suspended until 2.30 pm.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.55 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.47 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture, continuing.

Hon. W. McKeewa Bush: (microphone not turned on)

In order to minimise the impact of the contribution on the employee's take-home pay, and on the employer's bottom line, the law and regulations will prescribe a phasing-in mechanism for contributions for the first 5 years of the legislation coming into force. Employees up to age 45 may choose to phase-in their contribution rate for the first 5 years. That is from the acceptance age of 18 to age 45 can phase in their 5%. They can choose to put in 1%, 2% or 5%. Employees who are 45 years or older will be required to begin contributing at the prescribed rate of 5% at the minimum. While this phase-in provision may seem to be convenient, it is obviously better for contributors to begin at the required minimum (now proposed at 5% each), because the lower contributions in the early years will translate into lower retirement or disability benefits when needed. All workers will be encouraged to make "additional voluntary contributions", however, these would be voluntary on the part of the employee and employer.

It is only fitting, that the employer share the burden of providing for the retirement of the employees who have served them in their productive years, and have helped the business enjoy a high level of success. I believe that businesses have a social responsibility; contributing to the future well-being of their present workers is part of that responsibility, as well as ensuring that the future of that company and the economy of the host country remains prosperous in the long term. I believe that it is true that the image of employers will be raised by their offering a good pension plan to their employees. In this connection we commend those companies who have been farsighted in voluntarily offering good pension plans to employees in Cayman.

IMMEDIATE VESTING

The proposed legislation prescribes that vesting (that is, the time period which is required before the employee can claim ownership of all of the proceeds in his accumulated fund), be immediate upon employment. This has been proposed because of the transient nature of Cayman's workforce; the trend appears to be that workers in this labour market will change employers at least once in every five years. Therefore the long vesting periods of five, ten or 15, and even 20 years as is currently the case with some pension plans is really not appropriate for the best interests of retirement planning in these Islands. In fact, several other industrialised countries are also reforming their pension plans to immediate vesting.

If we view pensions as deferred remuneration, it is a part of the employee's benefit package, and is therefore his right, and he should be able to take it with him if he changes employment - but cannot withdraw it until retirement, or upon permanent disability. I do not agree that long vesting periods alone should be used to retain employees. Neither would I want to encourage our employees to move from job to job. They need to be more permanent and have continuity in their job. That is something that I would like to encourage.

PORTABILITY - LOCALLY AND OVERSEAS

The proposed legislation ensures that if jobs are changed, workers can transfer the pension benefits accrued under one employer to the new employer. The balance in his fund can be transferred to the pension plan in which the successor employer is participating.

If agreed upon, participating expatriate employees will also have full portability. Upon completion of work in Cayman and departure from this territory, they may have their fund transferred to their new employer's plan; they may leave it in Cayman indefinitely, or they may terminate their Cayman plan and have the proceeds transferred if their Cayman plan has been inactive for two years or more.

BENEFITS

Proposed benefits are: retirement pension; early pension if the contributor becomes permanently disabled; and survivors benefit (if the contributor dies during his working life or during retirement). These payments will be made on agreed intervals (example monthly), and will obviously be in proportion to the fund which the employee has been able to accumulate during his period of contributing to his pension fund.

TYPES OF PLANS

Both types of common pension plans will be allowed under the legislation, that is, the defined benefits plan and the defined contributions plan. The law will ensure that existing plans meet the standards as prescribed by the law. Those private sector plans which are currently in existence but may not initially meet the law's minimum standards may still be registered by the Superintendent of Pensions, however they will have to file an undertaking with the Superintendent to bring their plan up to the minimum standards within five years.

INVESTMENT GUIDELINES

The regulations to the law will prescribe investment guidelines which are prudent while at the same time maximise the return for the pension fund. Conventional investment vehicles will be proposed, with a sensible "investment mix", and a low-risk portfolio.

One of the Opposition's criticisms, in particular the pension spokesperson, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, criticised this and said that it was just going to take people's money and we would not have any way of keeping track of people's money and that we would lose their money by their insurance company running away with it. I even heard some fun being poked at me while they asked who was going to chase it. It certainly could not have been me because I could barely get out of my way! Well, they will have to deal with me if they think that I cannot! Greater people than he thought I could not get out of my way, and they are in mothballs today.

The truth is that we as a Government (or any Government after us) will regulate. As I said earlier, this is no different than the regulations proposed to deal with banks or insurance companies now, dealing with mutual funds and all of those other things. In the general run of administration there are good and bad companies. The Government weeds them out as best as possible and they are not allowed to operate.

I do not think that that Member should tell the public not to support this pension scheme because some insurance company (or any other company) is going to run away with their money. It is unfair to the scheme. It is unfair to the regulators and it is unfair to the country to put that kind of unproductive representation forward. I am waiting to hear what they will say in the House, but I have been dealing with their criticisms as I go along and as I hear them.

This will be regulated as well as any bank is being regulated. The people that they are trying to frighten are the people who needs it. Do not believe that this is being done for the National Team. I could have easily left it alone. I could have shelved it because I have taken a lot of heat for it. I could have put it away, but we have to start somewhere. We have to give the people of this country some safeguard. We have to be leaders enough to show them - even when the doubt - we have to show them what is good for them. If he or any other person can get up and say that this scheme does not give the man who does not have anything some protection, then they are not leading right. They are not telling the truth.

We have too many cases now of people at age 74 or 75... I have recently had to deal with it. The older ones are being shut out. It is one of the reasons why the labour amendments were being proposed, to try to get some discussion to come to grips with the problem. Whether I was wrong in proposing what I proposed or whether someone else was right is not the point. The point is that there are people in this country... and the thing that hurts me the most is the women working in the hotel industry an din some of these offices for 30 years with nothing - not even a good wrist watch. Even if they had gotten a wrist watch, that cannot buy milk or bread, it cannot pay for doctor bills. To tell people not to support it because it is no good - when they do not even know what is in it themselves... they are not leading, they are regressing.

The regulations to the law will prescribe investment guidelines which are prudent while at the same time maximise the return for the pension fund. I might have already stated that, but I want to underscore it.

It is proposed - for those Members who have gotten up on a platform to educate the public about this scheme, telling them to ask me as the Minister responsible for pensions, telling the public to ask me what they will get out of it because they will not get anything out of it - that each employee's fund will be individualised and tracked just as a bank account is now done. Employees will thereby be able to see the growth of their fund over the years; the employee will receive regular reports (of at least twice per year) on the status of his fund and the performance of the investment.

It is also proposed that there will be full participation by all participating employees and employers through being represented on advisory Committees in respect of the pension plan in which they are participating, as well as having input into any proposed changes to the law or regulations. This type of information and participation will hopefully encourage savings for retirement and serve as a discouragement to employees who may be tempted to evade contributions.

SUPERVISION AND SAFEGUARDS

All pension plans in the Islands will be subject to the ongoing monitoring and supervision by the office of the Superintendent of Pensions. This Inspectorate will be established to oversee the operation and compliance with the proposed legislation. As I mentioned previously, all plans will have to be registered, they will have to submit regular reports for supervision purposes, and there will be penalties prescribed to those who breach the law.

Each plan will have to also undergo audits and actuarial assessments as prescribed by the regulations, so as to ensure that the plan is being properly administered and that the assets are sufficient to cover the liabilities for pensions and other benefits.

Seeing that the defined contributions pension plan is more straight forward and simple to administer, its requirements for audits and actuarial assessments will be less frequent for these types of plans.

Before I move into the Memorandum of Objects and reasons, I would like to say to those persons who have been against the Pension Plan inside and outside of this House, in particular those who are going to debate, that I would like for them to take this Bill and explain its every clause to the public - those who are going to object to the plan. Explain the Bill then tell the House and the country that we do not support it. Then, give an alternative to each clause and then the whole scheme because that is what we need. There is no use to come and criticise this Bill.

I hear them saying the other night that they are not now expressing their alternatives. Do they have one? Now is the time that the public needs to hear why this Bill is not good - each and every clause, each and every provision - and what should be put in its place. That is the job for the Opposition. This is an important piece of legislation, as important as any constitution that has been proposed or debated, or any other matter of that nature.

They cannot hide and run and say that they are not going to express their alternatives. Now is the time for those people who criticised it on the public platform to put it forward. Put forward your alternatives now. Tell us why clauses 1 through 96 cannot work and what you propose.

MEMORANDUM OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Clauses 1 through 5 deal with preliminary matters, such as the title of the Bill.

This may seem tedious to Members but there has been a campaign going on to discredit it. The Chamber of Commerce has taken certain parts and tried to discredit it. The two Members who are now having a separate meeting over in the corner have done the same thing. I think it behoves me as the Minister to go through the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons in detail.

In clause 3, the definitions of terms used in the Law. Definitions include "pension plan" which includes defined benefit pension plans and defined contribution pension plans but does not include an employee's profit sharing plan or a deferred profit sharing plan, a plan to provide a retiring allowance, or a plan under which all pension benefits are provided by contributions made by members only.

In clause 4, the definition of place of employment. A person is deemed to be employed in the Islands-

- (i) where the office of his employer to which he is required to report to work is situated in the Islands; or
- (ii) where the office from which the person's salary, wage or other remuneration is paid is situated in the Islands.

Clause 4 also provides that an employer who fails to provide a pension plan for an employee commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine of $5,000 or on indictment to a fine of $10,000.

In clause 5, the provision for the regulation of defined benefit pension plans which are terminated on the date of the commencement of the Law.

Clauses 6 to 19 deal with the registration and administration of pension plans.

Clause 6 provides that no person may administer a pension plan which has not been registered. A pension plan may however be administered for a period of 180 days after the commencement of the Law without being registered. Any person who administers a pension plan contrary to this clause is liable to a fine of $5,000 and to a further fine of $500 a day for each day in which the plan was administered contrary to the Law.

Clause 7 prohibits the administration of a pension plan where the Superintendent has revoked the registration of that plan or has refused the registration thereof.

Clause 8 specifies the persons who may administer a pension plan. These persons include an employer, a pension committee, an approved provider, and a board of trustees.

Clause 9 deals with the registration of a plan. An application for the registration of a plan shall be made in the prescribed form within 60 days of the establishment of a plan. The form should be accompanied by the prescribed fee and by other documents including the following -

- (a) 2 certified copies of the document constituting the pension plan;
- (b) a certified copy of any reciprocal transfer agreement relating to the pension plan;
- (c) an actuarial report given to the administrator or employer in connection with the establishment of the pension plan.

Clause 10 specifies the information which should be contained in the document that constitutes the pension plan. Such information includes-

- (a) the method of the appointment and the details of the appointment of the administrator of the pension plan;
- (b) the conditions for membership of the pension plan;
- (c) the benefits and rights which will accrue on termination of employment, termination of membership, retirement and death;
- (d) the retirement date under the pension plan;
- (e) the contributions and the method of calculating the contributions required by the pension plan;
- (f) the mechanism for establishing and maintaining the pension fund; and
- (g) the method of dealing with surplus during the continuation and on the winding up of a defined benefit pension plan.

Clause 11 provides that the Superintendent shall not register a pension plan that does not provide for the gradual and uniform accrual of benefits or a pension plan under which an employer can vary the formula for the computation of the employer's contributions.

Clause 12 deals with the registration of an amendment to a pension plan. The administrator of a pension plan may not amend a pension plan without the recorded approval of two-thirds of the active members and former members of a pension plan. An administrator may however amend a plan without the approval of the members where, in the opinion of the Superintendent, the amendment is minor or statutorily required.

Clause 13 provides that an amendment of a plan which reduces certain accrued benefits is void and of no effect while clause 14 provides the procedure for the acknowledgment by the Superintendent of an application for the registration of a pension plan.

Clause 15 prohibits the registration by the Superintendent of a pension plan or an amendment to a pension plan which does not comply with the Law. The Superintendent may also revoke the registration of a pension plan which is not being administered in accordance with the Law. A person affected by a decision of the Superintendent under this clause may appeal to the National Pensions Board under clause 71.

Clause 16 specifies the duties of an administrator of a pension plan. An administrator shall ensure that the pension plan and the pension fund are administered in accordance with this Law, the regulations made under the Law and the documents filed with the Superintendent upon the registration of a pension plan or an amendment to a pension plan. An administrator's duties also include the review of the financial operation of the plan, the filing of an annual information return relating to the pension plan with the Superintendent and the filing of such additional reports required by the Law and the regulations.

Clause 17 imposes a duty of care on the Superintendent in his administration of the pension plan and the administration and investment of the pension fund. An administrator must not allow his private interest to conflict with his duties and powers in respect of a pension fund.

An administrator may employ one or more agents to assist in the administration of the plan or the pension fund. An agent is under the same duty of care as an administrator and is entitled to usual and reasonable fees and expenses provided in respect of a pension plan which shall be paid out of the pension fund.

Clause 18 provides for the provision of information by an employer to an administrator to assist the administrator in complying with the Law and the terms of the pension plan.

Under clause 19 the members of a pension plan may establish an advisory committee to, among other things, monitor the administration of a pension plan and to make recommendations to an administrator respecting the administration of a pension plan. This clause does not apply if the pension plan is administered by a pension committee or by a board of trustees.

Clauses 20 to 24 deal with the disclosure and the provision of information relating to a pension plan. Clause 20 provides that an administrator shall provide in writing to each person eligible to become a member of a pension plan explanations relating to the provisions of the plan, the person's rights and obligations under the plan and other information prescribed by regulations.

Clause 21 provides for the giving of notice to members by the administrator of a proposed amendment to a plan, and clause 22 provides that an annual statement shall be given to each member specifying the member's benefits or accumulated funds under the plan and any ancillary benefits.

Clauses 23 and 24 deal with the inspection of documents relating to a pension plan by specified persons who include members, former members, claimants under the plan and the spouses of members and former members.

In accordance with clause 25 most employees between the ages of 18 and 60 shall be members of a pension plan. An employer is not required to provide pension plans or to contribute towards a pension for the benefit of employees who are not Caymanian or of Caymanian status and who have been employed in the Islands for a period of less than 2 years. Further, every self-employed person is required to be a member of a pension plan and shall make such minimum contributions as are prescribed in the regulations. The Superintendent may approve the provision of a separate pension plan for part-time employees where such plan provides benefits equivalent to those in the pension plan for employees of the same class employed on a full-time basis.

Clause 26 provides that the normal retirement date under a pension plan shall not be later than one year after a person has attained 60 years of age. Every pension plan established before the commencement of the Law shall be deemed to specify such a date unless it provides an earlier retirement date. A member may elect to continue employment and membership after the normal retirement date and to accrue benefits under a plan. This is however subject to the terms of the plan limiting years of membership for the purpose of determining a member's pension benefit or fixing a maximum amount of a member's pension benefit.

Clauses 27 and 28 provide respectively for deferred pensions in respect of employment before the commencement of the Law and employment after the commencement of the Law and clause 29 specifies the circumstances in which a member may terminate membership of a pension plan.

Clauses 30 to 44 deal with benefits under a pension plan. Clause 30 provides that the minimum benefit under a defined benefit pension plan to which a member of a plan is entitled is 1.5 per cent of his pensionable earnings for each year that he is a member of a plan subject to a maximum of 40 year's membership. Where a member elects to retire before the normal retirement date his annual pension shall be calculated in accordance with the regulations.

Clause 31 deals with the value of a deferred pension and provides that a member shall not be required to provide more than 50 per cent of the commuted or the actuarial present value of his contributory benefit. Where a member's contributions made before the commencement of the Law exceed 50 per cent of the value of the contributory benefit, he is entitled to a lump sum payment equal to the amount by which the contributions exceed 50% of the commuted or actuarial present value of his contributions accrued before the commencement of the Law.

I pause here to say that the question has been asked 'what about the regulations?' If you look at and listen to the amount of information contained in the Law which is normally contained in the regulations, there is not much to worry about - the information is already contained in the Law.

Clause 32 specifies the minimum ancillary benefits which may be provided under a plan. These include disability benefits, death benefits, benefits arising from additional voluntary contributions and early retirement options and benefits.

Clause 33 provides that early retirement pensions may be paid, for example, where an active member is within 10 years of his normal retirement date and he is entitled to a deferred pension. An inactive member is also entitled to an early retirement pension in specified circumstances.

A member of a pension plan may under clause 34 require an administrator to transfer the commuted value of his deferred benefit to another pension plan, to a prescribed retirement savings arrangement or for the purchase of a life annuity. The administrator may only make a transfer in accordance with the Law or with the approval of the Superintendent.

Under clause 35 an administrator may purchase a pension plan for a member from an approved provider which is defined by the Law to include insurance companies or other companies licensed to provide pensions.

In accordance with clause 36 every pension paid under a pension plan to a former member who has a spouse on the date that the first installment is due shall be a joint and survivor pension. This does not apply however to a pension benefit if payment of the pension has commenced before the operation of the Law or if the member is living separate and apart from his spouse on the relevant date or to an ancillary benefit.

Clause 37 provides that a person entitled to a pension shall, before receiving payment, provide the administrator with all information relating to the calculation of the pension. The administrator is discharged from all liabilities upon making a payment of a pension in accordance with the information provided or in the absence of such information, in accordance with his current records.

In accordance with clause 38 the remarriage of the widow or widower of a former member of a pension plan who is receiving a pension remains entitled to the pension notwithstanding the subsequent remarriage of the widow or widower.

Clause 39 deals with pre-retirement death benefits and specifies the value of such benefit and the time for payment of such a benefit to a spouse, to the children or other beneficiary of a member. A personal representative of the member may receive payment of the pension in specified circumstances.

Clause 40 provides that a pension plan may provide for the payment of greater benefits to a disabled member where such member's life expectancy is reduced because of such disability. Clause 41 permits the payment of a lump sum to a former member of a portion of the commuted value of a benefit if the annual benefit payable at the normal retirement date is more than the prescribed minimum pension.

Under clause 42 a court is prohibited from ordering the payment of more than 50 per cent of a pension to a spouse on divorce or separation. The payment of a pension ordered in such circumstances shall not commence before the earlier of the date on which payment of the pension benefit commences under the plan or the normal retirement date under the plan.

Clause 43 provides that the sex of a member shall not be taken into account in determining the amount of contributions, the benefits or eligibility requirements under a plan. Pursuant to clause 44 only internationally accepted formulae shall be used in adjusting pensions or pension benefits.

Clauses 45 to 51 deal with contributions to a pension fund. A defined benefit pension plan must be fully funded at least within 5 years of the commencement of the Law as indicated in clause 45 and clause 46 requires the payment of contribution by a member and his employer at the date of the commencement of the member's employment. Under no plan shall a member be required to contribute more than the employer and contributions are payable at regular periods during the employment of the member. A member's contribution shall be deducted by the employer from the member's remuneration and paid together with the employer's contribution into the pension fund. An employee shall not be required to contribute without his express consent to contribute more than 5 per cent of his earnings to a pension fund.

Clause 46 also provides for the payment of contributions by members which are less than the 5 per cent minimum for a period of up to 5 years after the commencement of the Law. The rates of contribution payable in these circumstances will vary according to the age of the member. Further an employer may not seek to recover the contributions payable by him from the employee.

An administrator must notify the Superintendent under clause 47 of contributions which are in arrears under a plan and the Superintendent may direct the administrator to commence proceedings against the employer for the recovery of these contributions or take the necessary action himself. An employer who fails to make contributions within a time limit given by the Superintendent to pay such arrears shall also be criminally liable to a fine of $500 for each day in which the contributions are in arrears.

Clause 48 imposes a trust on the employer in respect of the employee's contributions deducted by him and not yet paid into the pension fund and in respect of his contributions not paid into the pension fund.

Clause 49 provides for the accrual of interest on all money due to be paid into the pension fund by the employer.

The Superintendent may under clause 50 require an administrator or any person who receives contributions under a plan to be bonded and to provide a guarantor. Clause 51 requires every person involved in the investment of a pension fund to ensure that the investment is selected in accordance with the criteria specified in the regulations.

Under clause 52 a member is only entitled to a refund of contributions where his employment is terminated in the Islands, he has ceased to reside in the Islands and no contributions have been made to a pension plan on his behalf for a period of 2 years or more.

Clause 53 provides for the provision in a plan for shorter qualification periods for entitlement to deferred pensions other than those set out in clause 27 or 28 and Clause 54 invalidates any assignment, charging and other specified dealings with a pension benefit.

Clause 55 deals with the exemption from execution, seizure or attachment of money payable under a plan. This does not apply to court orders respecting the payment of a pension to a spouse or former spouse.

Under clause 56 it is provided that a pension or a benefit of a person under a pension plan, a prescribed retirement savings arrangement or a life annuity purchased for a person shall not be commuted or surrendered during a person's life.

Clauses 57 to 65 deal with the procedure on the winding up of a pension plan and with the determination of member's entitlements on such winding up. The Superintendent may in certain circumstances act as administrator on the winding up of a plan. Clause 65 provides that the pension fund that is being wound up continues to be subject to the Law and the regulations until all of the assets of the fund are disbursed.

Clause 66 prohibits the payment of a surplus under a defined benefit pension plan to an employer and directs that any such surplus shall be for the benefit of members only.

Clause 67 provides for the transfer of a pension plan on the sale of a business and the entitlements of those employees who become employees of the person who has bought the business of another.

Clause 68 deals with the adoption of a new pension plan by an employer. Where the employer ceases to make contributions to the original pension plan upon the adoption of a new plan the new pension plan shall be deemed to be a continuation of the original plan.

Clause 69 empowers the Superintendent to make certain orders under the Law. He may, for example, order an administrator to refrain from taking action in respect of a pension plan where he is of the opinion that the pension plan and the pension fund is not being administered in accordance with the Law. Under clause 70 the Superintendent may also make an order for the correction of documents or the preparation of new reports.

Clauses 71 to 76 provides the procedure for the appeal against any decision of the Superintendent and by the National Pensions Board. A person affected by a decision of the Superintendent may appeal to the Board. An appeal lies from the Board to the Grand Court.

Clauses 77 and 78 establishes the National Pensions Board and the office of the Superintendent respectively. The members of the Board and the Superintendent shall be appointed by the Governor in Council.

Clause 79 specifies the duties of the Superintendent and the Board which include the administration of the Law and the improvement of pension plans in the Islands. Under clause 80 it is provided that the Board shall conduct surveys and research programmes and compile statistical information related to pensions and pension plans.

Clause 81 provides for the provision of information to the Superintendent by administrators and employers, clause 82 deals with the liability of members and employees of the Board and that of the Superintendent. Clause 83 provides for the audit by the Auditor General of the accounts of the Board and of the Superintendent and clause 84 provides for the submission of annual reports by the Board and the Superintendent.

Clauses 85 to 95 deals with general matters including the following-

(a) under clause 85, the extension of time limits under the Law by the Superintendent or the Board;

(b) under clause 86, the entry onto business premises by the Superintendent for specified purposes;

(c) under clause 87, the obstruction of the Superintendent or others designated purpose in carrying out a duty under the Law;

(d) under clause 88, the issue of an order by a justice of the peace empowering the Superintendent or other person to enter on to premises for certain purposes, for example, to examine documents or to make inquiries;

(e) under clause 89, the penalties for certain offences;

(f) under clause 90, the power of the Superintendent or Board to restrain any contravention of the Law;

(g) under clause 91, the service of documents under the Law;

(h) under clause 92, the time for actions by the administrator ;

(i) conflicts between this law and any other Law under clause 93;

(j) under clause 94, the regulations which the Governor in Council is required to make under the Law; and

(k) under clause 95, the commencement of the Law.

I would now like to deal with ongoing and other pending matters, such as the public relations campaign. In regard to the education of the public on the subject of pensions, the suggested draft of a National Pensions Law was submitted to the public for feedback last September. My Ministry obviously wanted to obtain as much feedback as possible after the draft was made public. The period between September 1995 and April 1996 was devoted to taking the views of the public into account.

During that time there was some press coverage. A press conference was held to introduce the draft law, with other media coverage following. The topic of pensions was also featured on "Open Line" in November.

In January 1996, the Senior Assistant Secretary in my Ministry appeared on "daybreak", along with a member of the Advisory Committee, Mr. Billy Adams, and the Chamber providing information on the discussion draft. The Senior Assistant Secretary and two members of the Advisory Committee appeared on "Issues 27" on CITN.

Further publicity for the issue came from editorials in the Caymanian Compass, as well as letters to the editor from the Chamber of Commerce, including the publication of a survey undertaken by the Chamber showing support for the law.

Government Information Services in conjunction with my Ministry and the National Pensions Plan Advisory Committee, have prepared and are now implementing a comprehensive plan for a public education and promotional campaign to support the introduction of a National Pensions Law.

This plan consists of a number of impelling factors to capitalise on, as well as impeding factors to be overcome. Objectives, messages to be disseminated, strategies, and a plan for implementation were devised with these in mind.

The objectives of the campaign are as follows: -

- To inform the public of the provisions of the proposed law and to keep them abreast of the development process.

- To educate the public on the subject of retirement planning and sensitise them to the need to be concerned about the "golden years".

- To encourage a sense of civic duty in employers. - To encourage feedback, ideas and cooperation from all sectors.

- To fully explain the provisions and operational mechanisms of the proposed legislation.

This campaign is presently being implemented with radio and television public service announcements, press stories, as well as the distribution of 10,000 copies of an explanatory brochure.

DRAFTING OF REGULATIONS

As Honourable Members of this House are aware, section 94(4) of the Bill provides that regulations under this proposed law are subject to the affirmative resolution of the Legislative Assembly, that is that we have to bring the regulations to the House in order to put them into effect. In other words, Executive Council cannot pass regulations. We have to bring them to the House to be voted upon.

Drafting instructions in connection with the regulations, as well as other instructive information, were sent to the Legislative Council on 24th May, 1996 to produce these regulations..

There have been calls by the Chamber of Commerce and the Council of Associations, that the regulations should be brought to this House at the same time as the Bill. While Government agrees with this in theory, this is not practical at this time for several reasons: First, it is well appreciated that this Bill is very detailed and lengthy - in fact it contains many provisions which would normally be found in regulations. The purpose of this is to afford the same level of comfort which the Chamber and the public expects to see in important legislation of this kind. The other reason is that the public (and most associations) seemed to have had enough material to review with the various drafts of this Bill. I felt to further inundate them with large volumes of paper in the form of draft regulations at the same time would have been unrealistic and counter-productive, as well as significantly delaying the implementation of this long-overdue initiative. The Pension Bill itself is quite technical, and the regulations are expected to be more so. It is hardly practical to expect individuals other than lawyers or actuaries or others who have expertise or experience with pensions to get much benefit from reading large volumes of technical pension regulations.

Government intends to bring the regulations to this House in September, and hopefully a draft for those people or associations who have an interest or the time to review them prior to September.

ADMINISTRATION/ENFORCEMENT OF THE LEGISLATION

At this point in time my Ministry is making preliminary arrangements and contacts, with a view to establishing the office of Superintendent of Pensions as well as the National Pensions Board. This will be done through the Government.

As mentioned previously, the Human Resources Department is to be restructured with a new unit hopefully to deal with pensions with financial assistance and these other matters. Those arrangements are being made and looked at presently through the staff of the Ministry of which Executive Council will have to decide on. I trust that we will get the support to put this infrastructure in place so as to ensure a smooth transition of the coming into effect and the supervision of the legislation.

In summary, Government, my Ministry, and the National Pensions Plan Advisory Committee are convinced that this legislative framework enjoys the input and scrutiny of a wide cross-section of the public as well as from experts in this field.

The Bill contains progressive and current provisions and also has fundamental democratic principles enshrined in it. The key provisions are:

- Freedom of choice for employers and employees to choose a plan.
- Realistic rate of contribution.
- Flexibility in phasing-in the contribution rate over 5 years,
- Prudent investment guidelines.
- Qualified and reasonable inspectorate.
- Fair rules for vesting and portability.
- Current and sensible safeguards.
- Involvement and participation by all parties.
- Reasonable and clear transition rules for existing plans which do not initially comply with the law.
- Clear and specific law and regulations.
- Very detailed law, and provision for the regulations to be presented to the Legislative Assembly as well.

We sincerely hope that we can bring this matter to its rightful conclusion in the very near future. I trust that those who would wish to scuttle this initiative (for whatever reason) will consider very carefully the alternatives which exist, the dangers that may lie ahead for the economy and the liability of Government's obligations to the elderly retirees if something prudent and fair is not done as a matter of priority. Hopefully in this debate we can put the politics and personal agendas aside and pass this law, work together in completing the drafting of regulations, and move towards implementing this long overdue legislative initiative in a spirit of partnership.

You might hear that this is not good enough, you might hear that we need to have regulations, you might hear that this is going to hurt Caymanians. You will hear all sorts of things. However, as I said in the beginning, this is a giant step forward for the working people in this country who have nothing to look forward to at retirement age. This is one giant step for mankind in these Islands.

Madam Speaker, I have been long. I have tried to express in detail what the Bill covers in different ways. I do thank you for your indulgence and attention, and I do thank Honourable Members for their support in hopefully passing this much needed legislation; and for the support in the months ahead as we work together to overcome the obstacles, for the benefit of the Cayman islands who we are duty bound to serve.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled, The National Pensions Bill, 1996 be given a second reading. The Motion is open for debate.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Honourable Minister moving the Motion has certainly been long and comprehensive in his introduction. I note his appeal for a debate which is free of politics and personalities. I can only remark that I hope that he remembers that he himself is as bound and obligated by that as are the rest of us.

There is much which I will have to say, given the Chair's indulgence. I shall try to be as dispassionate and impersonal, and as constructive as I usually am. Be that as it may, there are some charges which were made by the Honourable Minister during his presentation which need some clarification. Perhaps there can be no better point to begin with than the point to underscore that at no time was it ever mentioned, either from a public platform or in the media (in whatever form) is the preference for those of us in Team Cayman for a Social Security System as against a Pension System. Let me just put that misconception to rest.

There are other areas which I will attempt to clear up and refute as I move along.

It is a truism that culturally and otherwise we in the Cayman Islands, and by inference the Caribbean, have never been peoples who have been as disciplined as we could be, and as we need to be with regards to saving. The speaker does not exclude himself from this observation. What we find throughout modern times is that when we have approached the golden years we have little or no provision to take care of ourselves. History left us with a system of dependency upon our progeny.

This system worked reasonably well until we entered the era of the consumer society with all of its problems of rising costs of amenities, inflation and the myriad of other problems which came upon us. What used to be a moral obligation of sons and daughters to look after the elderly, became more difficult and onerous until we have reached this time where it is well nigh impossible unless we have (by good luck or good fortune) some kind of legacy or inheritance where we could share our resources.

Equally important is the fact that no one in any society whatsoever has been successful in saving through the conventional means (i.e., a bank) account enough money to tide them over during their retirement age. We recognise that while it is good for each of us (and I certainly encourage it, and I am sure that other responsible Members would encourage it too) to have at least one bank account. We have to recognise that the interest earned, that is, assuming that we are able to resist the temptation to deposit it today and withdraw it tomorrow. The interest earned would certainly not be enough to allow us to maintain the same standard of living that we had when we were working, when we retire.

Then too, there is the fact (and I rejoice in this) that lifestyles and health practices being what they are, the majority of us experience longer life-spans. It is not impossible for someone who retires at age 60 to live another 20 years and some even go beyond that. What this means is that any accumulated savings would have to be of a significant amount to suffice one from the age of 60 through age 80. Most of us try to be frugal, but I believe that that would have to be beyond that point to live reasonably comfortably on any such savings account.

It is necessary for us at this point... and indeed, I argue that we are a little late. Although, in the case of doing good, better late than never in trying to implement some sensible system. It is an accurate remark to say that the attempt to implement a pension plan in this setting is nothing short of revolutionary in the sense that it is a new concept which will have to be grasped by the majority of the people. It is revolutionary also in the sense that to be effective and widely accepted we would have to be prepared to have embarked on a massive education programme.

Indeed, some people would describe it as a massive propaganda exercise because we have to sell it to people with whom the concept has not been familiar.

If there is a weakness in what is being presented, it is the fact that a more comprehensive and aggressive and more wide spread education campaign could have been embarked upon. I am not laying blame, but when one is prepared for wide spread consultation, one also has to take into account the fact that to alleviate some of the objections, one would need to have embarked upon a widespread publicity exercise. This is not peculiar only to events such as the introduction of a pension scheme - but, indeed, to anything which is new. Leaders recognise that there is great difficulty in getting people to accept a new order of things. While there has been some, and there are ongoing public awareness programmes, they could have been more comprehensive and wide spread. I will make some suggestions as to what may have been done as I develop my argument.

I must concur that the effort to provide some sensible system for providing for people upon retirement age is a worthy one. We know that countries which have the social security system seem to have not fared well in recent years. I share the concerns of those people who shy away from a Government-operated system. While it can be argued that there are some positive factors, I think that the drawbacks far outweigh the benefits and advantages.

If for no other reason than there seems to be a popular mistrust now among the public regarding politicians managing and handling these funds. When we consider what is happening in the United States (which everyone uses as a thermometer), I think that it is wise to shy away from any kind of arrangement that is managed by the Government. I see the Government's role as being regulatory. That is not to say that there are no improvements and variations to what is being proposed.

There are many countries of the world which have grappled with this business of the provision of retirement benefits. Some are still in the midst of fierce struggle. One country stands out above all and serves as a model for many other countries in what it has achieved in this regard. That is the country of Chile, in South America.

If there is one thing that the regime of Augusto Pinochet did in Chile when it took over in the 1970s, it was to establish an enviable national pension scheme. It must be borne in mind that this scheme did not just start as progressive, effective an enviable. There were many air pockets, many ups and downs. Perhaps one of the beneficial aspects was the fact that Chile is a moderately sized country population wise, with a high percentage of literacy and (at that time) a buoyant economy with little or not unemployment. Although there was one stage where they went through a rather high and turbulent inflation.

This country now serves as a model for the pension scheme of many countries, both those that are more advanced industrially than Chile, and those who fall under the rubric of developing countries. We in this jurisdiction can learn from their model and their example.

There is another point I wish to make which bears on the international aspect of this problem. It is recognised that events have so changed in the world that it is rather difficult to abide by the same kind of methods one used decades ago to make certain income adjustments.

For example, it is recognised that this whole business of industrial production and the military/industrial complex which fueled the economy of countries has changed by the mere fact that wars are fought differently now than they were years ago. What I mean by that is that wars have evolved to such a frightening and efficient manner now that millions and millions of tons of material is not destroyed as it used to be in the more conventional era of even World War II, or even before that, World War I, when the replacement of this material necessitated thousands and thousands of people put back to work in factories. What happens now? Countries have developed what they call 'smart bombs' and ultra-sophisticated technology that destroys human life but not the material.

What we have is a concept where once upon a time we could rely on almost continuous employment to maintain and keep a certain economic standard. That is not necessarily the case now because the society has evolved to the point where behaviour has changed, tastes have changed and the very destructive forces of war and strife have changed. That makes it even more necessary for us to arrive at systems where we can sensibly take care of those people who have worked for a great part of their lives under adverse conditions so that they may afford them the opportunity to pass their golden years with some dignity.

For us in the Cayman Islands there is a point which has always concerned me. While it is true that successive Governments have done well in keeping up a kind of welfare system, it is an accepted fact that the welfare state is certainly not the most popular state of affairs in a time like this. Indeed, many politicians get the stick for attempting to maintain a welfare state. Not only will that eventually mean that the tax man will have to hit harder and harder, but there are those who are concerned about what sociologists and others describe as demeaning factors and the inferiority complex that emanates out of someone being deemed as totally helpless and ever dependant on the dole.

It is good that we are trying to get away from a system where people are accustomed to handouts. There is no escaping that some of that exists in the Cayman Islands. There are those who would argue, justifiably or otherwise, that in the last few years this sector of the population has grown.

In instances such as these, it becomes easy for people to accuse those apologists for this kind of system of playing politics and of holding that sector of the population for ransom, particularly during times of election or other events where the popularity or number of people in these programmes would be beneficial to any party or Government in power.

It is good for us to get away from this kind of system to try to introduce a system where people can feel that they have worthily contributed; that when it comes time to take something out of the system they do not have to be dehumanised because they can take pride in the fact that they were equal partners and that they made a meaningful contribution. Whenever the time comes, they can feel proud when they queue up at the bank to cash their cheque, it can be a source of pride.

I remember my grandfather, who during the turn of the century had immigrated to the United States (as did many Caymanians), and returned to these Islands in 1955 after working for 30 years with the Gulf Oil Corporation in Houston, Texas. I can remember being sent, as a young boy, to the Post Office to collect his cheque for him. I recall the sense of pride he had as he enumerated to my grandmother the amount of his contribution both from the Gulf Oil Corporation and from the United States Social Security System.

I have progressed as far as learning goes, because when he wrote the note I did not understand that the spelling 'c-h-e-q-u-e' was pronounced cheque, and I went in and asked for his 'check-queue'.

It is from these kinds of rudimentary beginnings that we look forward to our people progressing and prospering. I would like to state that I personally think it is fallacious and incorrect, if not downright mischievous for anyone to suggest - let alone issue the challenge - that I at any time said that I was not supporting pensions. What I will say is that being the kind of person I have been, I am not prepared to blindly accept anything without reserving the right to dissent in those sections which I do not agree with, and to also suggest alternatives in those sections which I think can be improved.

Let me hasten to say that this exercise, while it is, as I have described it, revolutionary, and while the Government should expect some criticism, I believe that a stronger public education or public awareness programme would have definitely served the efforts better. cursorily, a two year programme might have had more effect.

I note that what is usually the case in some countries with a Government propaganda system is that a target date for coming into effect is set for about two years down the line. Then the programme of public education and awareness is designed around that. It could be longer, it could be three years, but the programme is designed around that period.

Let us say that it was deemed to have been introduced into the Legislative Assembly on September 1st. That could be described as Pension Introduction Day, then in every little nook and cranny of the community there would be seminars and discussions, there would be presentations as to what this would entail.

The people whom we really need to education are not the employers, as much as it is the employees who will have to understand that the contributions taken from their wages and salaries for the first time is going towards an effort that will yield them immense benefits when they retire.

I have not been around as much as I could have been, but I have been approached by some of the older people who do not seem to understand the concept as clearly as they could. It is true to say that these are the people who are at the greatest disadvantage in that they will have the shortest contribution time before they reap the benefits. These are the people whom we have to take time to educate and be sure that they understand that if they are 50 now, and if they retire when they are 60, they have to be able to be in a position to put something aside. Remember, these people would have presumably been working all of their lives without making any deduction from their wages. They will argue that they have been living all of this time. I make the suggestion that it is unfortunate that a longer public awareness/education programme and time line was not set and that greater use was not made. It is also true that some of the most effective presentations are those which are done informally, moving around, meeting a small group of people and talking to them explaining and allaying fears. I have made no assessment of the education programme and the public awareness programme so please let it be understood that I am not saying that the programme is not effective or will not be effective. I am merely making the point that it could be much more effective if this were done. One has to be reasonably convinced by this in light of the fact of the criticism against this plan when one listens to an advertisement being aired and sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. The only way that one can effectively counter this kind of anti pension Bill is by an aggressive promotional propaganda exercise of its own. What I am afraid will now happen is that the Chamber's anti pension efforts will be more effective than the attempt by the Government by virtue of the fact that the Chamber of Commerce always likes to say that they have a corpus of 500 or 700 people.

It is something for the Government, if they deem it constructive, to make a note of. If it is too late for this time, it is certainly something that could be borne in mind, especially in light of the fact that the Government has an information arm, namely, the Government Information Service. I say this with the full realisation that events of a comparable nature, such as when we were converting from the pound to the Jamaican Dollar, this was how the exercise was handled. I think we can learn from these kinds of experiences that we are half way there when we mount a real effective national public awareness programme.

STANDING ORDER 10(2)

The Speaker: Honourable Member, it is now 4.30. I understand that it is the wish of some Members to continue until 5.30. At this time I propose to take a 15 minute suspension if the Minister would move that we go on until 5.30.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, I wish that the Government would have been considerate enough to have given us some prior notice of this. I have no reason to be uncooperative, but I think that it would have been courteous if the Government had indicated as much to give the person speaking a little time to make some more adequate preparation.

I have to admit that I am caught at a disadvantaged position, and I am not in a position to go on.

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I can only say that I have just been informed by the Government. I do have a commitment, and I propose that, if the majority agree, we take a suspension for 15 minutes. I shall put the question, unless anyone has anything to add to the debate, that the House should continue until 5.30. Those in favour, please say Aye...those against, No.

Presentation of Papers and Reports. The Water Authority of the Cayman Islands Annual report 1995.

The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

WATER AUTHORITY OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS ANNUAL REPORT 1995

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Water Authority of the Cayman Islands for 1995.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am pleased to report that 1995 was another very successful year for the Water Authority, as the company strengthened its financial position by reducing its operating costs and expanding its revenue base. Both Government and the Authority are well aware that the costs of basic services, such as drinking water and proper sewage disposal, must always remain within the budget of all people in this country. The Authority will strive to remain a lean and competitive organisation in order to provide good and affordable services to its customers, and to generate capital for the expansion of services. The Authority's major accomplishments in 1995 are as follows:

- ◇ Significant expense reduction was achieved in 1995 by refinancing a portion of the Authority's long-term debt. This undertaking included repayment of a multi-currency loan from the Caribbean Development Bank using funds from a new loan with Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce (CIBC).

This Caribbean Development Bank loan was signed by Government in December 1985 and provided the equivalent of $5.7 million in a basket of currencies for construction of the West Bay Beach Sewerage System. Under the CDB loan agreement, principal repayments commenced in June 1991. However, by December of 1990 the balance of the loan had grown to $6.1 million because of world currency fluctuations. This represented an increase of $456,000 over five years. By the end of 1994 the loan balance had swelled by another $235,435.00 due to world currency fluctuations. By June of 1994, it was clear that the Authority needed to stabilise its long-term debt which has been impacted by a further decline in the United States dollar in the world market.

Several local banks were asked to submit proposals for refinancing the Caribbean Development Bank loan. Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Trust Company was selected by the Water Authority Board in September 1994, and after extended negotiations between Government, the Authority, and CIBC, the loan agreement was signed in late February 1995. Repayment of this loan and conversion of this portion of the Authority's long-term debt to US dollars has assured that the Authority will no longer be faced with burdensome foreign exchange losses and has significantly improved the cash flow of the Authority over the next five years.

The new loan with Canadian Imperial Bank also provided additional capital for construction of the Lower Valley Reservoir Project which is currently very near to completion.

- ◇ Additional operating expense reductions were achieved by restructuring the Authority's long-term water supply contracts. In early 1995 it was apparent that Central Diesel Limited was unable to provide sufficient quantities of water to meet the terms of their contract. The Authority determined that it would be in the best interest of the country to secure a more reliable source of water and that substantial savings could be had by negotiating an upgrade to the existing Ocean Conversion Limited water plant which was the Authority's primary water supplier at that time. An amended contract was signed with Ocean Conversion in February 1996 and it is forecast that the Authority will save approximately $4.5 million over the next six years on water production costs.
- ◇ The Authority expanded its projects department in April by adding equipment and manpower to construct extensions to the water supply and sewerage systems. The Authority recognised soon after the completion of the Bodden Town Water Supply Project in 1994 that provisions must be made to continue expansion of its service areas in order to keep pace with the rapid growth of the country. In the past, the Authority had contracted out construction work of this nature to specialised companies that imported labour and equipment from overseas. However, it was determined that it would be more cost effective and practical to continue pipeline construction using in-house resources.

I am pleased to say that several new jobs were created and were filled by Caymanians who have been fully trained to carry out this work. The projects department brought in a respectable amount of revenue from developers who contracted with the Authority to install water mains in new sub-divisions. Members will recall that it has always been the policy of the Water Authority to provide water in all areas, even in sub-divisions.

Also of key importance to the expansion of the projects department was the return in 1995 of two young Caymanians from University in the United States to work with the Authority as Civil Engineers. Mr. Troy Whittaker returned to work in January after having completed a Master's Degree in Environmental Engineering at Stephens Institute in the United States. Mr. Anthony Reid returned to work in June after having completed a Bachelor's Degree in Civil Engineering at the Florida Institute of Technology. A third engineering graduate, Mr. Clement Reid, returned to work with the Authority just last month after also having completed his Bachelor's Degree in Civil Engineering at the Florida Institute of Technology.

Training for each of these young engineers was fully sponsored by Government and the Water Authority. Also in 1995 the Authority sponsored the Deputy Director, Mrs. Gelia Frederick-van Genderen, during her post-graduate work which involved an analysis of the Authority's sewerage treatment works in order to identify ways in which to improve the operation of the works. As a result of her thesis, Mrs. van Genderen was awarded the degree of Doctor of Philosophy by the University of Surrey in the United Kingdom.

Madam Speaker, as the Minister responsible for development of this country's work force, I am indeed pleased to be a part of an organisation like the Water Authority which has anticipated the future needs of this country and has made significant investments in time and money to train Caymanians in engineering.

- ◇ The Authority commenced construction of the Lower Valley Reservoir and Pumping Station in February 1995 which has been designed to supplement pumping from the Authority's main water plant off of North Sound Road in George Town. The new facility will ensure that sufficient water and distribution pressure is available to all areas of Grand Cayman through the end of this century.

Phase I of the project consists of a 1,000,000 US gallon bolted steel reservoir and a pumping station. Provisions have been made on the site for a water production plant which will go out to competitive tender early next year and for an additional 3,000,000 gallon of water storage.

The Authority is very pleased with the high quality which was done by the contractors on the project, including Florida Aqua Store, Arch and Godfrey Construction, and Precise Construction.

The Authority purchased the Reverse Osmosis Plant in Cayman Brac which had previously been owned and operated by Ocean Conversion under a five-year water supply contract with the Authority. The Plant was completely rebuilt by Ocean Conversion Limited prior to purchase and is expected to reduce basic operating costs in Cayman Brac to a point where the operation will fully pay for itself. In addition, the Authority negotiated with Ocean Conversion Limited to improve the water quality which the Plant provided to match that distributed in Grand Cayman.

The Authority has received many good comments from Bracers about the improved water taste. Two Caymanians, Mr. Burnstein Banks, and Mr. Cantrell Scott were fully trained by Ocean Conversion Limited and now operate the state-of-the-art water production plant.

As a statutory organisation the Water Authority is charged with protection of water resources in the country and exercises regulatory power over a number of independent water producers and operations related to sewage disposal. Several improvements were made in the areas of water resources management in 1995 including closer monitoring of ground water used by expanding agricultural operations in East End, and closer regulation of several independent water producers through issuance of water production and supply concessions by Government. The Authority also worked closely with the Department of Environment to assess the potential threat to ground water from two fuel spills which occurred in the George Town area from the Esso Terminal and the Texaco Station on Walkers Road. This happened last year. The Authority continues to review all major developments during planning stage and makes recommendations to the Central Planning Authority regarding water supply and sewage treatment.

The Authority's focus and planning for the future includes preparation of a comprehensive Ten-Year Development Plan for Water and Sewerage Infrastructure which addresses the anticipated water and sanitation needs of Grand Cayman and the Sister Islands throughout 2005. While reviewing this development plan, I found myself reflecting on the Authority's many achievements over its relatively short life of 12 years. In 1983 the Authority was established to protect the country's water resources and to provide public water supply and sewerage. This happened while Mr. Haig Bodden, now deceased, was responsible for the Authority. Shortly after its creation, the Authority prepared a Ten-Year Development and made many recommendations which are now a reality.

In 1983 proper sewerage treatment and disposal in the West Bay Beach area was seen to be vital to the protection of the country's beaches and marine environment. It was also envisaged that a piped-water system would be constructed in George Town and would eventually extend to all districts of Grand Cayman. Today we have a sewerage system which serves the West Bay Beach area and properly treats the waste water generated by our many tourist facilities before it is discharged into the environment. In addition, all of George Town, Bodden Town, and West Bay now have access to wholesome piped water.

It is not hard to imagine how the course of development of these islands could have changed had Government and the Authority not possessed the foresight to take vital steps in providing proper water supply and sewerage infrastructure for the expanding populace of the Cayman Islands.

In May 1993 the second Phase of the Bodden Town Water Extension was completed which provided piped water from Savannah through Northward. Government gave approval for continuation of the piped water system through Pease Bay. A new and expanding pumping station for the public water supply system was completed and commissioned in July 1993 which increased the distribution pressure and provided better and more reliable service to water customers.

West Bay Sewerage System pipe rehabilitation was completed by a specialised contractor from the United States which repaired leaking sections of sewer gravity in the main. This work has saved the Authority over $35,000 per year in electricity costs for pumping saline ground water which had been infiltrating the sewerage system through the leaking pipes.

The West Bay Water Supply project was completed by Cayman Water Company in September 1993 under the terms of a licence which was issued by Government. I can only say that there is sometimes a lot to be desired by the quality of water coming from there in West Bay. Government is looking at that.

In May 1994 Phase III of the Bodden Town Water Supply Extension was completed which brought piped water from Northward through Bodden Town and up to Midland Acres. A new agreement signed with Ocean Conversion which expanded the production capacity of their plant on Red Gate Road to 4,000 cubic meters per day and replaced expensive electrical-driven pumps with diesel-driven units.

The Authority's Management staff was restructured and a Caymanian Acting Director and Deputy Director were appointed to Head the Authority. The Authority's investment in expansion of the water supply began to pay off as additional revenue was collected from new customers in Bodden Town. The Authority's net profit doubled from 1993 figures.

Now, in 1996, I am pleased to announce that the Authority has completed the design of an extension from Pease Bay through Breakers to the Frank Sound Road, and construction will start on the 20th of August this year (that is next month). I fully support continuation of this extension through the district of East End and it is hoped that most East End residents will have access to piped water before the end of 1997. The construction of the system will continue into East End.

To complement the many successful projects which have been completed, the Authority's financial growth over the past four years has been laudable. In 1995 the Authority collected revenue totalling $8.9 million, an increase of 46% over 1992 figures. In addition, the Authority's net profit has increased from $740,000 in 1992 to $1.5 million in 1995 which is an increase of 110%. Careful technical and financial planning, as well as prudent spending have paid off in a big way. Very few countries (and I would like Members to note this) in the Caribbean region can boast of a water and sewerage corporation which makes a profit, and fewer yet which have performed as well as the Cayman Islands Water Authority, in service to the people.

It is important to recognise that a public utility, and in fact any organisation which serves the people, must never become complacent and should endeavour to meet the challenges of the future with planning and preparation. The Cayman Islands continue to experience growth and prosperity, and I am very happy to say that the Water Authority continues to meet the challenges of this growth.

Madam Speaker, I would like to take this opportunity to publicly say a word of thanks to my colleagues who supported in Council on any matter regarding the Water Authority; to the director who took over at a very difficult time when the Authority was under investigation; and to the Board members - I would take time if you permit to name them - Mr. Harry Chisholm, Mr. Brainard Watler, Mr. Otto Watler, Mr. Jerry Wood, Mr. Phillip Hydes, and Mr. Richard Flowers; also members from the Environment Department and member from the Finance Department. These Board Members are very studious, they work with the Authority and have given significant service to these Cayman Islands.

I would also like to compliment the staff of the Authority without whom we could get nothing done. This is from the road man who shovels the dirt and who gets into the pit to the technical advisors. They have all done an excellent job as this Report bears out. I offer my thanks and that of the entire country on behalf of the Government to them all.

Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The Third Interim Report of the Select Committee of the whole House to Review a Register of Interests for the Legislative Assembly and a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators.

The Elected Member for North Side, Chairman of the Committee.

THIRD INTERIM REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE HOUSE TO REVIEW A REGISTER OF INTERESTS FOR THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY AND A CODE OF ETHICS AND CONDUCT FOR LEGISLATORS

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, in accordance with Standing Order 2(5), I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Third Interim Report of the Select Committee of the whole House to Review a Register of Interest for the Legislative Assembly and a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators.

I would ask Members to make one correction. This is the "Third Interim Report", and not the "Third and Final Report".

The Speaker: So ordered.

The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Select Committee of the whole House established to Review a Register of Interests for the Legislative Assembly was appointed by the Legislature on the 9th day of June, 1994, upon the passing of Private Member's Motion No. 11/94. On the 7th day of December, 1994, the Legislature passed Private Member's Motion No. 29/94 entitled "Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators". The motion resolved "That the House refer the matter of legislation for a Code of Ethics and Conduct for legislators to the Select Committee reviewing a Register of Interests for consideration as companion legislation." With the passing of both of these motions the Select Committee's terms of reference was to make recommendations to the Honourable House in regard to both a Register of Interests and a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators.

The motion was moved by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, Mr. Gilbert A. McLean MLA, and seconded by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, Mr. Roy Bodden, MLA. The Committee comprised of all Members of the Legislative Assembly.

The Committee has thus far held 13 meetings: 20th July, 1994; 25th August, 1994; 7th December, 1994; 13th April, 1995; 10th May, 1995; 21st September, 1995; 30th October, 1995; 27th November, 1995; 25th March, 1996; 1st April, 1996; 8th May, 1996; 31st May, 1996; and 25th June, 1996.

The Committee has also held three informal discussions where notes were taken. On the 10th and 24th of August, 1995 and on the 29th of April, 1995.

In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 72(1) the Committee tabled in this Honourable House two interim Reports, one in 1994 and the other in 1995. On the 26th August, 1994, the Committee in accordance with its terms of reference invited the public to participate in the Committee's work by way of making written and oral representations. The public received up to the 14th of October, 1994, to respond to the Committee's invitation.

The Committee received one letter of representation from Mr. Colin A. Panton, a former member of the Legislative Assembly and an Associate member of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association of the Cayman Islands Branch. The Committee wishes to express gratitude to him for his views. The Committee also received a request from the Chamber of Commerce to make oral representation, but the Chamber failed to appear before the Committee.

Recommendations for The Register of Interests Bill: Section 53A of the Cayman Islands (Constitution) Order 1972, makes provision inter alia for the establishment of a Register of Interests for the Islands. The Committee agreed to recommend to this Honourable House that a Bill giving effect to section 53A be drafted and presented to the Legislative Assembly, a copy of which forms part of this Report and is attached.

Section 53A (1) of the Cayman Islands (Constitution) Order 1972 states that: “There shall be a Register of Interests for the Islands which shall be opened to the public. The register shall be maintained by a Registrar who should be appointed and may be removed from office by the Governor acting in his discretion.

(2) It shall be the duty of any person to whom this section applies to declare to the Registrar for entry in the Register of Interests such interests, assets, income and liabilities of that person, and of such other person or persons connected with him, as may be prescribed by law.

(3) A person shall make a declaration under subsection (2) of this section upon assuming the functions of his office and at such intervals (being no longer than twelve months) as may be prescribed by law.

(4) This section applies to all Members of the Legislative Assembly and the holders of such other offices (except that of Governor) as may be prescribed by law.

(5) A law may make provision for giving effect to this section, including the sanctions which may be imposed for a failure to comply with subsection (2) or (3) and, notwithstanding any provision of Part III of this Constitution, the sanctions which may be imposed may include the suspension of a member of the Legislative Assembly from sitting therein for such period as may be prescribed by law.”

It is recommended that the proposed Register of Interests Bill provide:

- (i) for the establishment of a Register of Interests of Members of the Legislative Assembly, as well as journalists reporting on the meetings of the Legislative Assembly;
- (ii) That the following persons be required to register:
 - The Elected Members of the Legislative Assembly.
 - The Speaker.
 - The Chief Secretary.
 - The Attorney-General.
 - The Financial Secretary.
 - The Registrar of Interests.
 - Candidates nominated for membership of the Legislative Assembly.
 - Journalists reporting on the meetings of the Legislative Assembly.
- (iii) that each year Members and journalists will be required to make a declaration of their interest with the first declarations being made in respect of interests existing on the date of the commencement of the proposed recommended Law. The declarations will be made to the Registrar appointed by the Governor for the purposes of the Bill under section 53A of the Cayman Islands (Constitution) Order, 1972.

- (iv) that the interests that will have to be declared under the Bill include details of directorships and shareholdings, employment, financial sponsorship, foreign travel relating to official duties not paid for by the Member and income derived from property. Relevant parts of the declaration will be required to include these details for a Member's spouse and children.
- (v) that the Register will provide for the disclosure of the interests of Members of the Legislative Assembly and will be open for public inspection. The Registrar will be subject to the provisions of the Confidential Relationships (Preservation) Law (1995 Revision).
- (vi) that a Member of the Legislative Assembly may be suspend from the Assembly for failing to comply with the Law, but only after a Report of the Standing Committee on the Register of Interests has been debated by the Legislative Assembly and it is satisfied that the Member has failed to comply with the Law.

Recommendations for a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Members of the Legislative Assembly: The Committee recommends to this Honourable House that a decision regarding a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators will be taken following this Report which recommends the Register of Interests Bill being laid on the Table of the Legislative Assembly.

Recommendations to amend the Legislative Assembly standing Orders (Revised): The Committee further recommends to this Honourable House that the Legislative Assembly Standing Orders (Revised) be amended to make provision for the establishment of a Standing Select Committee on the Register of Interests. It is recommended that the Chairman of the Select Committee move a Motion following the tabling of this Report in this Honourable House, to provide for the insertion of a new section 73A.

Before I move the adoption of this Report, I would like to thank all Honourable Members for assisting me in bringing this Register of Interests to a close, as I understand that Executive Council has approved the draft Register of Interests Bill. It will be brought to this session of the Legislative Assembly. Under the same Standing Order 72(5) I move that the recommendations contained in this Report be adopted.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I beg to second the motion.

The Speaker: The question is that the recommendations of the Select Committee be adopted. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Report has been adopted.

AGREED. THE THIRD INTERIM REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE (OF THE WHOLE HOUSE) TO REVIEW A REGISTER OF INTERESTS FOR THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY AND A CODE OF ETHICS AND CONDUCT FOR LEGISLATORS BE ADOPTED.

The Speaker: I wish to thank the Chairman and the Members for the numerous occasions on which they have met to deal with this business, probably 16 occasions. Thank you very much.

Questions to Honourable Members and Ministers. Question number 106, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 106

No. 106: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning to provide a breakdown of the money paid to Cayman Airways Limited by Government since June 1994.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the answer: As the House is aware, Cayman Airways Limited was in serious financial difficulties for several years prior to 1993. It was clear to all that the Airline could not continue to sustain massive losses and expect Government to pay the Bills.

In 1993 the down-sizing of the Airline was begun, as a result of which the Airline received a new lease on life. Government's commitment of our National Airline was:

(1) to recapitalise the Airline with a once-off investment by injecting the approximately $20 million which the previous Government authorised, but was unable to raise because of the previous Government's bad credit record; and

(2) to continue to subsidise the Airline through an annual subsidy of CI$4 million.

The annual subsidy of CI$4 million was paid quarterly during 1995 and the first two installments of the 1996 subsidy were paid in the first half of 1996.

It is very important to remind this House that this Government did not simply hand the US$20 million to the Airline's previous management to further squander, as was done with the US$12 million profit from the unfortunate sale of the B-727 aircraft in 1989 - every cent of $12 million was gone within a year. On the contrary, the Financial Secretary sat down with the Board of Directors and the new Managing Director and agreed how the US$20 million would be spent. Every dollar was spent on past debts. Not one dollar was available to the new Managing Director as working capital.

I remind the House of this sorry episode in our history because the feeling may exist, or it may be implied, that this Government wasted another US$20 million plus on Cayman Airways Limited. Not at all, Madam Speaker, this Government simply used the money to pay debts it inherited from the previous Government in order to restore the badly tarnished image of these islands and saved Cayman Airways Limited from imminent liquidation.

With regard to the annual subsidy of CI$4 million, it is worthwhile looking at what the Government and people get in return. Firstly, it helps keep a vital part of our island's infrastructure alive.

Cayman Airways Limited provides and ensures continuity of access to and from these islands when the Pan Am's, United's, LACSA's, BWIA's and Eastern's of this world suddenly pack up and leave. It shuttles tourists to the United States of America when a hurricane is approaching and brings many travel agents free (FAM trips) to Cayman at the Tourism Minister's request.

In addition, Cayman Airways Limited pays hard cash to many Government agencies. In 1994 this was approximately CI$1.93 million and in 1995 it was approximately $2.09 million, and these monies are PAID - not like the old days before I took over, when they accumulated as bad debts. So you can see that half the annual subsidy comes back to Government in various ways. Furthermore, Cayman Airways Limited injects almost US$10 million in the local economy by way of salaries paid to Caymanians.

Even though we now have the best Cayman Brac and Little Cayman service we have ever enjoyed, we are working hard to make it even better. In 1994 Cayman Airways carried 11,500 passengers from the United States to the Brac. The airline did not charge for the Grand Cayman/Cayman Brac/Grand Cayman portion of this travel specifically so that the Brac economy would not be at a disadvantage compared with Grand Cayman.

Finally, I would like to say that Cayman Airways Limited has lived within its subsidy. It pays all its creditors in good time. It continues to provide good employment. Its long suffering and loyal staff have finally seen three increases in salary and the Cayman community can once again take pride in Cayman Airways.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say if there is a specific area within the operations of Cayman Airways for which the subsidy is earmarked?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, no. The subsidy goes to the company and the company then subsidises places such as the Cayman Brac route and, for example, if there is a hurricane we would do one way flights from here say to the United States or Jamaica, if it was necessary to take people out from here and the airline would fly back with no one on it. So there are many ways in which the subsidy is used.

I would like to point out again, that $10 million per annum goes to Caymanians in the Cayman economy, very little comes from any of the other airlines to the Cayman economy.

The Speaker: The next question is number 107, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 107

No. 107: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning what action has Government taken towards the implementation of Private Member's Motion No. 27/94 - Fair Competition Act.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 107

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, this question has been asked of me, however it is a question that does more appropriately fall under commerce and trade for the Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce. I would please ask if this could be held over to be answered by that Honourable Minister probably within another few days or so.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister. I think that is reasonable if the Honourable Minister is prepared to answer it.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I am prepared to answer it.

The Speaker: Thank you. Question number 107 will be deferred until a later sitting.

I shall put that question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against, No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The question is accordingly deferred.

AGREED: QUESTION NO. 107 DEFERRED UNTIL A LATER SITTING AND WILL BE ANSWERED BY THE HONOURABLE MINISTER FOR TOURISM, AVIATION AND COMMERCE.

The Speaker: The next question is number 108, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 108

No. 108: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what the current status of the proposed Health Insurance Scheme is.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The answer: In the November 1995 sitting of this Honourable House, I tabled a draft Bill for a Law relating to the Provision of Health Insurance. At that time I invited comments and suggestions from Government Departments, private sector organisations and individuals in our community. Subsequently, I met with a number of organisations who invited me to hear their views and I received substantial written input on various aspects of the draft Bill. My Ministry combined the oral and written responses and, based upon this, instructed the Legislative Counsel to amend the Bill and produce regulations to accompany it.

The resulting revised Bill and the draft Regulations have been reviewed and accepted by the Health Insurance Advisory Committee. The revised Bill has now been sent to Executive Council for its approval to be submitted to this Honourable House for debate. In addition, I am pleased to say the draft Regulations have been submitted to Executive Council for approval and I intend, with your permission, Madam Speaker, to table them as a discussion paper during this present session, with a view to bringing them back for debate in a later session of this Honourable House.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Suspension of Standing Order 14(3). The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS (Standing Order 14(3))

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the suspension of Standing Order 14(3) to allow the continuation of the debate on the second reading of the National Pensions Bill, and it is with the agreement of all Members of the House.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 14(3) be suspended in order that Government Business have priority today (which is scheduled for Private Members' Motions)

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Orders are accordingly suspended.

AGREED. STANDING ORDER 14(3) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE GOVERNMENT BUSINESS TO HAVE PRIORITY OVER OTHER BUSINESS.

The Speaker: The Second Reading debate on the National Pensions Bill, 1996.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

SECOND READING

NATIONAL PENSIONS BILL, 1996

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

At the conclusion of the yesterday's sitting, I made the point that it is my observation that efforts such as the introduction of a National Pensions Bill need promotion on a large magnitude scale. It must be recognised that we are introducing a new concept. Indeed, I described it as revolutionary, and there is going to be the need for large scale public awareness, not to mention the fact that we have to deal with detractors and those who oppose the introduction.

As a result of this effort to introduce a national pension there has been a coming to the forefront of an allied debate regarding the state of the public sector pensions. It is a well known and accepted fact, that the Civil Service Pensions Fund is grossly under funded. Indeed, yesterday morning during Question Time in answer to a question posed by myself, the Financial Secretary answered that the Government has recognised the need to address this pension liability. Accordingly, in 1993 he engaged the services of the Wyatt Company to carry out an actuarial review of Government's pension liability. The Financial Secretary went on to provide more detailed elaboration as to the Government's plans.

It would seem more palatable and acceptable if the Government was in a position where their pension plan had been better organised. I think it would be easily acceptable, this whole notion of a National Pensions Bill, but there is another side to that coin, which is: can we afford to wait until the Government's pensions fund is properly organised before we set in motion efforts to address the National Pensions Fund? That could be adequately described as the sixty-four-million-dollar question.

My own position is that while it would be the ideal, I do not believe we can afford to wait. So I have come to the conclusion that while the two could be developed simultaneously, it would perhaps be in the best interest to keep them separated for at least ten years until they have reached maturity. I must say that I will have reluctance to merging the Civil Service Pensions with the National Pension Scheme because there are what I would call some significance differences. I recognise that while the objectives are the same, the civil servants have too many circumstances peculiar to them to risk merging their pensions with a National Pension Scheme which has not yet been allowed to develop.

It is also recognised that it will take from about five to ten years before we can iron out some of the stitches and hitches in a Pension Scheme. Even in a society and an economy as small and seemingly insignificant (comparatively speaking) as the Cayman Islands, it has to be recognised that there will be some differences which are unavoidable. I am not saying that a merger cannot work. I am merely stating my position. I would be happy to see the development take place. I did not make any dogmatic statements that it cannot work. I said that I would like to see them develop before there is a merger, certainly for my own satisfaction.

There is no doubt arising from this effort that there has been much concern raised by many elements of society. The Chamber of Commerce has kept up a running dialogue expressing concern, if not opposition, to what is being proposed by the National Team Government as a National Pensions Bill at this time. It seems as if the Chamber has premised one of their major opposing points on the fact that they said the Bill is significantly different from the draft proposal. They have claimed that some things that were in the draft proposal have been left out.

I make the point to say that while some opposition and concern may be dismissed as merely of nuisance value, we cannot assume the position that we can ignore these concerns or that we should not take them into consideration. I think that it has to be recognised that the Chamber of Commerce, as a special interest group, has their own plan. So we have to accept that there is a certain amount of bias in their opposition. But then we could also say that other elements and other individuals who oppose also have certain biases for whatever reasons.

It behoves us to try to examine the points of concern raised (and the opposition points) and see to what extent, if any, these positions can be accommodated. It strikes me that it is still not too late to continue a dialogue. The Chamber has been on this business since the 30th of May when they, in an issue of the Caymanian Compass, made comments on the National Pensions Bill. I have to say as a reader that article that much of what they said is legitimate, and I will gradually move individually into some of the concerns that they raised.

In today's Caymanian Compass they have a full-page advertisement entitled "A message - an appeal to all workers in the Cayman Islands". I do not believe that anyone expected that a move such as this would not come without some opposition or concern being raised. The constructive approach would be to look at these concerns in light of what has been proposed and try to see if an amicable situation can be arrived at. Certainly, one would not expect the whole effort to be changed, but one can reasonably expect some attempt at accommodating and taking these concerns into consideration.

One of the points the Chamber of Commerce has raised is the whole question of the absence of regulations. This has to be taken seriously because it is in the regulations that the specifics of the operation will be articulated and described. So it has to be viewed as a set back, an obstacle of sorts, in that there are no accompanying regulations.

Out of interest, Madam Speaker, I note that the Honourable Minister with responsibility for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation stated in his answer to my recently asked question that he will be bringing a draft Regulation when he brings the proposed Health Insurance Bill. So it seems to me that someone on the National Team realises that regulations are an important and integral part of Bills. I must say that I welcome his consideration with appreciation, and look forward to reading the Regulations with the accompanying Bill. That will certainly make matters more acceptable.

The point has also been ably drawn out by the Chamber of Commerce that some aspects of the proposed Pensions Bill are discriminatory. I would have to agree because there are provisions in the Bill - exemption for some persons recruited from overseas for up to two years. This exemption calls into question a number of things, not the least of which we as legislators hear perennial complaints from Caymanians about - problems in the work place; Caymanians finding it difficult to get jobs, Caymanians being passed over in favour of those from outside the jurisdiction. So this provision will certainly not make it easier for Caymanians to be looked upon favourably. Indeed, I have to express my surprise that it appears in a Bill being brought by the Minister who likes to remind us that he has the best interest of Caymanians at heart. Perhaps it is an oversight which will be corrected. I look forward to the Minister's comment, especially since he has gone on record time after time, touting himself as the champion of the Caymanian worker. I am afraid he will stand to lose his reputation if he does not correct this gross anomaly.

There is also the concern of the discretionary authority given to the Superintendent of Pensions or the Pensions Board to take action including the unrestricted authority to fix fees. At the beginning, at least, care needs to be taken and we need to tread very carefully to ensure that any authority exercised is not only understood, but that authority is accepted and appreciated. What we do not want to happen is for the very people we are purporting to help to become turned off because they believed they are being run over rough-shod, and that they are being taken advantage of.

It is my experience that in far too many cases discretionary authority is abused. This is particularly important because for many of these people with whom we are dealing (many of them) this will be a new and unfamiliar concept. Care must be taken to educate them and make them aware of every move that is made. I have reservations about unrestricted authority by this Board and the Superintendent to fix fees.

It is my understanding that all pensions are based on three important concepts: the Plan, the administration of the plan, and the investment of the funds. We have heard discussed here two options, a Defined Benefit, and a Defined Contribution. Defined Benefit Plans are common enough, and it is my understanding from those whose wisdom and knowledge I sought, that while these plans seem attractive care has to be taken because they are the most susceptible to certain things.

Indeed, in the Sunday 30th June issue of the New York Times newspaper there was a section in the "VIEW POINT" column dealing with pensions. It was written by a James H. Smallhouth, entitled "Why our pensions must be made portable". He was speaking (writing, of course) about what is happening in America. But, as is often the case, knowledge and experience are transferable, and we can stand to benefit from the concerns and experiences of people in other jurisdictions. He starts the columns by saying: "Millions of Americans will never get their monies' worth from their pensions because in a very crucial way, the nation's pension system is hopelessly backward. Workers covered by traditional Defined Benefit Pension Plans can lose as much as 90 per cent of their pension wealth as a result of routine job changes or termination of their plans because there is no accounting for the corrosive affects of inflation." I am going to pause there because it is a good time to mention something else.

We in the Cayman Islands should recognise that a significant percentage of the people this Pensions Bill should be designed to protect will be seasonal workers, who could accurately be described as being transient; whose jobs in the construction or the hospitality industry depend upon a number of things. It is a recognised fact that among this category of workers there is a high turnover - people change jobs frequently. In many cases (I would like to believe in most cases) they have to do that in order to stay employed. So that leads me to make the point that we have to ensure that we have built into this some grace period for when these people may have to be unemployed through no circumstance of their own, perhaps for as long as four to six weeks until they can get another job. Also, we have to ensure that they will be covered if they have to take a job at a wage or salary that is lower than the previous wage. I say that because it is not an easy exercise catering to this type of person.

I make what I consider another significant point as a result of this: There is a school of thought which promotes the idea that such a plan as this would have been more effective were it phased in, giving ample time to assess these kinds of effects and circumstances.

Under the Defined Benefit Plan, in some jurisdictions there is also the notion that while the workers contribute on a regular and ongoing basis, the employer is not really bound until the time comes for the draw down of the pension. In these cases and under these circumstances the danger is (as does sometimes happen) that the employees are disadvantaged because the employers' portion may not be forthcoming because of any number of circumstances including bad business practices, bankruptcy or liquidation, litigation or whatever. So while there are many types of defined benefit plans, that defined benefit plan in which the employer is not obliged to come up with contributions until the time of draw down should be discouraged and frowned upon. I am not saying that that is the proposal, I am just using the theoretical argument that we should shy away from those kinds of plans because what we are trying to seek is an ideal situation in which the employee is guaranteed protection.

This plan, the Defined Benefit Plan, according to this author is most susceptible to the corrosive effects of inflation because, he says, "When pension coverage ends the earnings benchmark used to determine benefits is frozen and inflation can then whittle down those benefits to almost nothing at retirement." I am going to talk later about inflation as it relates to the proposed Pensions Bill in the Cayman Islands, but I wanted to make that point.

The Defined Contribution Plan, as far as my understanding of it goes, is my plan of preference because it is easier to manage, it is easier to explain and to sell, and it is safer because the provisions for participation are clearly set out and outlined, and can be explained in very simple and non-threatening ways. That is the kind of route we have to take with this Pensions Bill. So having established the two possible alternatives or components of a plan, I want to move on to speak about the administration.

Administering the Pension Plan is just as important as the type of plan we have, if not more so. I would like to emphasise that one of the reservations I have about what is proposed in this National Pension Bill is that it has too much scope for individual plans. While I recognise the universally accepted phenomenon in Capitalist countries, that competition is good, when we come upon something like this some screening must be done. My reading and interpretation is that it is possible for many plans to exist under these proposals. Some guidelines need to be set regarding the administration of the plan, as I am going to show later that if we get a system where the administration fees eat significantly into the investment, and administration fees rise significantly each year, those people, particularly at the lower level of the spectrum will be at great risk that their investments may not be as effective or as much as it could be at retirement. Some of these administration fees, according to my understanding, can be quite significant, especially when we talk about audits, reports, assessments and that kind of thing. So there is a need to arrive at what is a basic administration process and attempt to put some costs to that and monitor it closely to see that it does not eat into the funds. Therefore, the whole effort does not become counterproductive. Such is the role for the Board set up by the Government as a watchdog.

I want to come now to perhaps the most important point: What is to be done with the funds collected or the third component of pensions, as I understand it, the investments? It is safe to say that the management, the investment of these funds, is by far the most important aspect of this whole exercise. I make the point again that the reason why we attempt to provide pensions for employees is because we recognise that saving in the normal method as we know (that is, putting it in a bank account even if we were to escape the inevitability of drawing out monies on some occasions) and saving consistently from the time we started working, say from age 20, until we retire at age 60, would not be enough to suffice in our retirement. So the way these funds are handled and invested has to be of crucial importance. I want to pause here to make a significant point. I have great and serious reservations about commingling, that is, mixing the funds.

Certainly, people who are now at age 50 should be encouraged and educated to treat their funds differently from persons who are just entering the work force at age 20; the reason being that if some funds for those people who are at age 20 can be invested in a more bullish way (if we want to stick strictly to the money market jargon) than for someone who is at the age of 50 (because at age 50 according to the projections we are dealing with is ten years away from retirement), of course you would be better advised to be a bit more conservative in your investment effort. Someone who is at age 20 should be in a better position to take risks if they want to play the stock market which goes up and down because the history of the market is such that certain stocks have never consistently fallen - they rise and fall. So it is my understanding from investment analysts that for the whole pattern of investment in pension funds to be effective, it must differ according to the age group and category that those funds come from. Indeed, commingling (the term that was used to me) usually puts the older members of the work force at a disadvantage.

I am going to say a little more about investment and the kinds of things that should be attractive later. One of the concerns I have with what the Chamber of Commerce proposes is exactly this business of commingling, not to mention that we also should avoid conflicts of interest. I want to take the time here to underscore what I consider an important point. The administrator(s) of these funds must be separate and apart from the people who are responsible for the investment. We should not have the administrators being responsible for the investments. The investors should be accountable to the administrators whose business and job it is to monitor the investment; and to provide reports, assessments and accounts to the pensioners. I would not want to see a system where the administrators are also the investors. I think that there is a weakness in that system. The whole business of accountability would not be as sharp as it could be.

My preference would be for the investment to be handled by professional people, people whose business it is to do just that, and who have a reputation. They would be better advised to say, "Well, here is what is available based on the information, here is what we recommend." Then too, I would not want to see the administration made up of employers because that is a conflict of interest. In any kind of difference, disagreement, confrontation, the employee is not going to be in an advantageous position. So I would like to see the administration made up of people who can quite accurately be described as having no conflict of interests.

I am aware that some of the plans offered around here at this time have the administration made up of employers. While they claim that the Government plan has some weaknesses, their plans also have weaknesses which they need to rectify.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Member take a suspension at this time?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.36 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.17 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town continuing.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Concluding the observation I wish to make on investment of these funds, I wish to make the point that investment of the pension fund must take into consideration the fact that life spans are increasing. It is my understanding that people who retire at the age of 60, in jurisdictions such as ours, can quite realistically expect to live to reach their late 70s, indeed, some make it into their 80s. So this is another reason why it is very important that these funds, particularly from those persons who enter the work force at later years, be so invested that they can realise enough returns to last until it is time.

The disadvantage to the elderly people in the work force is exactly that the investment cannot be carried out in growth options which are put in equity-oriented funds carrying considerable risks, because, of course, these kinds of funds often fluctuate. It would be ill-advised if for someone who has ten years until retirement contributions were invested in a high-risk/high-yield fund which had to suffer through some period of fluctuation before it eventually yielded the expected returns. For these kinds of persons the option might be some kind of cash-fund or fixed-income option where the risks would be less, but there would be some growth, nevertheless. The problem is that the yield might not be sufficient to keep up with inflation.

To conclude, it is of crucial importance that the investment of the funds be done properly in order for the benefits to be as ideal as they should be. In arriving at that point, consideration must be given to the life expectancy and the average life span of persons in our jurisdiction. I say that also to say that it will then have to be the responsibility of the regulatory authorities to ensure that these kinds of considerations are taken in order to protect the pensioners and the beneficiaries. So the job of the Government as a regulating body is not an easy one indeed.

I would have been happy if some account was taken as to the short-term effects of such an exercise. I have to return to the point I made earlier, that in these kinds of exercises one must have an effective awareness and education programme. The Compendium of Statistics suggest that there are about 16,000 people working in these islands. If we are to assume that the average income is $35,000 per annum, it would mean that a total of $560 million is paid out each year in salaries. If we take 10% of this amount, then half of that to represent the five per cent which is contributed by the employees, that would be $28 million per annum.

Now I posit that in the short-term this is bound to have some upsetting effects on our economy. Remember that we are an economy which is basically made up of hospitality sector, the banking sector, with the construction sector contributing significantly as well. It is an inescapable conclusion that this contribution of five per cent by the employer is bound to affect the costs of goods and services. Under the laissez faire Capitalist System that we live, these people are going to have to recoup this money. So the most logical way, perhaps the easiest way, is to tack it on to the goods and services. I was speaking to one contractor who suggested to me that the costs of the services he provides would escalate by about 20 per cent as a result of this. So in the short-term we are bound to experience some inconveniences.

The employee, remember, will be contributing five per cent. So his pocket, to express it figuratively, will be shortened by five per cent. Remember now, this five per cent is not something that he or she will be able to see. This is not something you put it into the bank today and can go and draw it out tomorrow if the need exists. He or she is not going to be able to get this until down the line. So at a rough calculation it is my opinion that we are going to feel the effects of an inflation rate of anywhere between seven and ten per cent. We have to get the contributors to understand this. We have to prepare them for this. We have to let them understand that they have to make a short-term sacrifice for the long-term gain.

What we have not heard from the Government in bringing this Bill is if they have taken into consideration this fact, or, indeed, if they believe that this is an expectation - if this is going to happen. Let us not forget also, Madam Speaker, that we will have a Health Insurance Bill under similar circumstances. Remember too, that we had a problem when the insurance providers raised the property insurance rates; people were complaining. That was a serious problem. That problem was not as widespread as this is going to be because that problem only affected people with property on which they had insurance. These effects will be considerably more widespread.

The question was posed: What do I suggest? It is not for me to suggest what is to be done. I am not bringing the Bill. I am saying that what needs to be done is for the public to be made aware that they can expect these things and to prepare them for it. If it is not made clearly understood, that, too, will be a deterrent.

To express my concern in another way, I am saying that there needs to be some kind of preparation or awareness programme so that people can understand these things. When they are confronted with the situation, they can say, "Oh, yes this is the result of this. Well we were told to expect that, but ten years from now this is how we are going to benefit. This is where we are going to be."

Remember, too, that there is no minimum wage. I come back to this notion: there is an argument proposed by some special interest group about gratuities forming a part of one proposed pension plan. Now all of this, I would think, fuels the importance of the matter which I just brought up. If someone is going to suggest that the workers in the hospitality industry contribute a portion or all of their gratuities towards the Pension Plan, then someone had better begin preparing them for the reasons why they should work so assiduously in what they are doing when many of them have come to see the gratuities as the most immediate reward.

Given the magnitude of funds involved, it then becomes even more crucial for the regulation and administration of these funds. We will be talking about economies of scales when we talk about workers putting in $28 million per year. Even at my rudimentary stage of economics, I know that it does not take many years for that to add up to the multi-millions.

(Inaudible interjection)

Mr. Roy Bodden: I am glad the Honourable Minister raised that point because that is the point I am coming to.

The Speaker: I would ask Honourable Members, please let us have no discussions across the floor.

Mr. Roy Bodden: We have to screen those entities that would handle these funds to ensure that they are safe at all times.

I have been approached by many people who said, "To tell the truth, we understand some concerns that people have against the Government, but we would feel better if the Government was handling our money. At least we know we could vote them out every four years if they were not doing the right thing with it." So I am happy to be able to say that there are still some people out there in the public who have the confidence in their elected representatives to say that they would not feel badly about them handling their funds. Tongue-in-cheek aside, Madam Speaker, it is imperative that such an amount of money be managed by the most capable persons, if for no other reason than to see that the returns realised on the investments are that which meet the expectation of the people who contribute.

I would have been happy to have seen the Health Insurance Scheme implemented first and been given a chance to work, then have a Pension Scheme. But in all candor, one must realise that the hour is late and time is going, personal preferences play little or no part in what should happen for the benefit of the country. I can only say that the Bill has some shortcomings that need to be addressed. Its essence lies in the fact that it serves as a starting point - a long needed starting point. Certainly, I can only, on this occasion, speak for myself. If we do not begin we will never complete the journey. We have to realise that even those countries with established Pension Plans have taken years to get their plan, not to perfection, but to an acceptable position. So I would caution anyone who expects to bring a plan, or that any plan brought will be perfect.

I can say that I will be listening to hear how the concerns that I have articulated will be addressed, if they will be addressed. I also warn against anyone adopting the position that this vision is the vision of the anointed. Madam Speaker, while the employees will benefit from a pension scheme, what is proposed has to be reworked. In that realisation, it is necessary to listen, perhaps do some redrafting, but above all, to keep an open mind. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I did not intend to speak on this Bill because I felt that the Honourable Minister piloting the Bill had given an in-depth explanation as to how the National Pensions Scheme would work. I have one concern as a member of the Committee and that was to do with the membership (that is, who will be provided with a pension). I refer to persons working in these islands for a period of less than two years. I feel that these persons should also be included. There will have to be some exemptions, I am sure, but I have discussed this with the Honourable Minister and it is my understanding that it is his intention to bring an amendment for this section of the Bill. I would like to thank him very much for agreeing to bring an amendment to this section.

Since I am on my feet, I would like to say that much has been said within this Chamber and outside concerning regulations. I, too, would have liked to have seen regulations brought with this Bill. But the Honourable Minister explained the reason. If I remember correctly, I think he said that these have been with the Legislative Council since May. Had it waited, with the amount of work that the Legislative Council of these islands has to do to bring this Bill, we probably would not have the Bill nor the regulations before this Honourable House is prorogued in September.

Everyone seems to agree that the National Pension Scheme is a necessity - that it needs to be brought about. But if the Honourable Minister did not have the guts to bring the Bill to this session, with the understanding by the general public that it is his intention to bring the regulations as soon as they are prepared, perhaps we would end up with nothing for our people.

I clearly understand what he has said concerning the civil servants not being included in the National Pension Scheme at this time. I commend him for that. The Civil Service has had a Pension Scheme for a long time. We have heard that it is under-funded, but we also heard the Honourable Financial Secretary say that it is his intention and the Government's intention to look into this matter. I agree that the civil servants should be given every opportunity to say whether they would like to remain as they are, or whether they would like to come under the National Pension Scheme.

I offer my full support to the Honourable Minister on the Bill for A Law to Provide for the Establishment of a National Pension System. Thank you.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended until 2.30 PM.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.44 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.44 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Debate continues on the National Pensions, Bill, 1996.

The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to offer my short contribution to a Bill for a Law to Provide for the Establishment of a National Pension System. For many years we have heard of a National Pension Scheme to be introduced into these Islands. Several years ago the former Minister who was responsible for Health (the Honourable Ezzard Miller) brought a proposal which was unacceptable. This was carried from district to district and from one meeting to another. While not listening to the public on the many things that he did not listen to, we did not get a pension law - a law that was for the people and one that the people wanted.

I am sure that this National Pensions Bill that is being presented here today is not acceptable to everyone in these islands. But, again, nothing is carved in stone. Ever since the Honourable Minister presented this, he has had consultation; he has listened to the people, and is now proposing this Bill here today.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town mentioned that none of us really knows anything about pensions. I am sure we will all agree that even the workers, especially the workers in these islands and the employers, do not fully comprehend what a pension scheme entails. However, it is very important. Through you, I appeal to all workers in these islands to meet with their employers in an effort to understand the benefits that will be derived from a pension scheme. Individuals do not fully understand (and this I know is the case having 43 employees. We personally do not have a pension scheme because when we proposed it the majority of them did not want to contribute their half as proposed, with us putting in the other half. They just felt that with the cost of living they could not afford it. This is why it is very important that all workers understand the benefits. They might not reap the benefits today, but it is the long-term benefits that a pension scheme is there to provide.

I must commend the Minister and his Ministry for the brochure presented in layman's terms so that the average individual can understand. The scheme is fully explained in the brochure. It is a beautiful brochure, and if there are more questions I am sure that individuals can contact the Ministry as stated on page 12. Not many individuals would take the time to prepare this, like the former member who did not prepare anything in there respects. So I commend the Minister for this brochure.

The system recommends that it is just regulating and that is all this is, a regulatory body. It is up to employers to provide a pension scheme; to find a carrier to provide pensions. It is suggested here that it be shared - five per cent by the employer and five per cent by the employee. In the beginning the five per cent is not required, it is only those who are 45 years and older who are required to contribute the five per cent in order to bring up their pensions.

I, too, shared with the Honourable Member on my right just yesterday, how it is frightening when we think about the age of 60. Just in another 14 years I will reach that age. To think that we can participate in a pension scheme, I am not sure if that is something to look forward to age-wise, but it is certainly good to know that this Law is before us now.

(Inaudible interjection)

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: I am not scared. They are ribbing me, Madam Speaker, of giving away my age. There is not much anyone can do about their age, we just live with it and go on.

Mention has been made of the public sector fund - that it is very under-funded. I agree with this. However, in the question that was asked yesterday by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, to which the Honourable Third Official Member responded, I was pleased to see that a Committee has been established to look into the chances of the public sector fund being included into the National Pensions Scheme. Again, the civil servants will be given the opportunity to decide if they would like to have their pensions scheme included in the National Pensions Scheme that is being proposed in this Bill. They will decide by poll, I am sure, and will be given that opportunity. It will not be rammed down their throats like the former member who proposed a pension scheme several years ago was so intent on doing with his scheme. That is why we never actually go a pensions law until this present one.

In today's Caymanian Compass there is a full page advertisement by the Chamber of Commerce. I would like to address some of the points that are made in this paid advertisement regarding the proposed National Pensions Bill. Here it says that "it is wrong that section 94 gives ExCo the power, selectively to exclude anybody that they choose from the protection afforded in the proposed Law." (Caymanian Compass 11th July, 1996). This is not what is in the Bill. Section 94 was in the proposed bill, but it is not included into the National Pensions Bill that is before the House.

A pension is an individual's right, and no right thinking Executive Council, whether present or future, would even think about taking away an individual's pension. They have worked for it. They deserve it. They have earned it and they have every right to it. No reasonable individual would think of taking away an individual's pension.

It was mentioned that it is wrong to pass a law and then to make up the Regulations later on. The proposed law contains over 100 references to provisions to be spelled out in the Regulations. The law cannot be fully understood in the absence of the Regulations. I am so pleased to learn that this Bill was studied and they found over 100 references to the Regulations. This proposed bill has been circulated well over six months and as a representative of the people, I receive one telephone call regarding this bill. So I am happy to see that someone did study it and found all the references regarding Regulations.

The Honourable Minister shared with us that the Regulations have been in the Legal Department from May of this year (and this is not the first time that regulations were not provided with a Bill when it was presented here in this Honourable House). Just this year, as a matter of fact, we received the Regulations for the Traffic Law that was passed in 1991. But to say that it is wrong.... Regulations will be presented.

In the National Pensions Scheme that is being proposed, it is just a regulatory body. Like the Minister said, similar to a banking inspector, the insurance inspector or any other regulatory body that the Government has established - it will be just that. It is saying that employers and employees will work together jointly to provide a pension scheme so that all employees will have a pension when they reach the age of 60 (which they are entitled to and have every right to and no one can take it away).

Moving on further in the advertisement, it says, "It is wrong for the proposed law to deny to the Civil Service the protection it provides other workers in the Cayman Islands". The Honourable Third Official Member assured us that the only pension scheme in the Cayman Islands for many years has been the Civil Servants' Pension Scheme and that civil servants are provided a pension. It is under-funded, but I am happy to hear that it is being addressed. There is an option that civil servants will have the opportunity to decide if they would like to come under the National Pensions Scheme.

It says: "It is wrong to deny pensioners and contributors their democratic right to participate in the decision-making process for any future revision of the law." This is what we have representatives for. A referendum was taken. I think the Honourable Minister addressed that yesterday. If something is wrong, contact the representatives. This Bill is not going to have amendments to it every week or every year, but until the scheme is up and running there will be amendments. But to say that the contributors' democratic right is taken away for any future revision of the law is not correct. All revisions would have to come before this Honourable House to be made. To print this is very wrong and misleading.

The lady Member for North Side (whose was the previous speaker) mentioned the foreign workers who have been working in these islands for less than two years. We discussed this in the Common Room with the Honourable Minister yesterday, and said that we felt that it was discriminatory. He was quite willing and said that in the Committee stage he will bring that amendment.

If one is working here there is no reason why one should not pay into a pension scheme. I think it is unfair to ask temporary workers of one month and up to six months because I am sure they will move on, but if they become permanent, as a foreign workers in these islands, I see no reason why they should not be included in this scheme. The Minister has said that he will consider this proposal in Committee stage as an amendment.

I think we should be grateful to the Minister for this so that discrimination does not arise where Caymanian workers could be left out because employers would take the foreign workers over the Caymanians because they would not have to provide a pension. As you know, in any system there are ways it can be beaten. I am sure there would be some employers who would try to do just that a create more problems.

I am pleased that individuals will have something to look forward to in their "golden years" as stated in here. There are many elderly individuals in our islands. I was very much aware of this before being elected, but since being elected I am even more aware of it, especially in the George Town area. The previous concept of Caymanians taking care of the elderly... with the cost of living and being single parents, it is very difficult for them to do so. Just this morning I received a telephone call from an elderly lady who is receiving about $600 per month in pension. She is responsible for an aunt who is almost 80 years old. There is no way they both can survive off of $600. These are some of the situations that we find, even though on a $600 pension she cannot feed three individuals and meet her other needs. So I am very happy that Cayman will have a pension scheme for all workers.

For many years we have heard about a pension scheme. I believe that this is workable. There will be many problems. I am sure amendments will have to be made. Until all the problems are worked and the scheme is functioning properly, then there is no reason why amendments cannot be made. They will come forth. I am happy to support this system.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Like so many in the public, I welcome this National Pensions Bill. This legislation, in my opinion, is one of the most important pieces of legislation that the House has dealt with during the four years.

I would like to begin by congratulating the many people who have worked so hard to make sure that this is being presented to Parliament for discussion in this session. I would also like to congratulate the Committee that was formed. The Honourable Minister was the chairman and Mr. Mario Ebanks was the secretary. A lot of hard work was involved, research has gone into the compilation and formulation of this bit of legislation. The Member for North Side also served on that Committee and I think it is very important that she be thanked and congratulated for the work she did. The Legal Department certainly deserves some praise for the work that it has done.

This piece of legislation comes in some people's mind a bit late. I have heard that comment from many members of the public that we should have had this legislation in place a long time ago. We know that others have tried to put a National Pensions Scheme in place and have failed. They have failed for many reasons. This Government is going to succeed in putting a national pensions scheme in place which all and sundry agree is so badly needed for almost everyone in this country. Some people have argued that they do not need to save towards their pension because they have the capability of making profitable investments and they can be absolutely confident in the fact that they will have enough money in the kitty for retirement. What I say to those people who have such entrepreneurial spirit is, at least they are assured that if they invest in this pensions scheme they will get eight per cent return. I know of many instances when entrepreneurs have invested in many schemes and have gotten far less than eight per cent. If they have so much money, then I would encourage them to contribute to the scheme. At least they can be assured of an eight per cent return on their contribution. The small contribution relatively speaking, that they will be investing towards their retirement is almost negligible.

A brochure is being circulated, and this is extremely commendable, this is good public relations. It is being circulated at a time when it is not too late or not too soon. This subject is very current and prominent in people's mind at this point in time. This brochure is very well put together and will answer most of the questions the public would like answered about the Pensions Scheme that is being launched. It explains what a pension is. Most of us know what a pension is, but it certainly begins at the right point. It goes on to talk about what the Pension Law does.

I think to avoid any confusion in the minds of the public, at this point - not that it has not been pointed out before - I would like to stress the point that this Pensions Scheme will not be Government-operated. There have been people who have tried to spread misinformation, perhaps they were not informed. I will give them the benefit of the doubt. But it has been told to many members in the public that the Pensions Scheme would be Government-operated similar to schemes that are operated in the United States of America, Jamaica (closer to us) and many other countries. The social security, the familiar social security-type system that most of us are familiar with. Research was done, there was much public inquiry into this also, and it was decided that this was not the way to go forward in the Cayman Islands. All factors being considered, it is wise to have a privately operated pension scheme regulated - and I stress - regulated by Government.

It is very important that Government regulate the Pensions Scheme to ensure that all the existing Pension Plans come into line with law and provide the necessary benefits that they purport to claim, that an inspectorate is put in place that whenever there is a problem appeals can be made to that inspectorate and it is handled properly.

Social Security Schemes, the Minister pointed out (and this is common knowledge) are just not working. This is one of the big problems that the United States Government has to face at this point in time. All of us who listen to political debate from that country are very aware of the problems it is experiencing - trillions of dollars that are now owed to the citizens of that country, and there is no money in the kitty, nor in the near future, to pay the social security benefits that have accrued.

There are many reasons why this may have occurred, nonetheless being the fact that at times these monies were not earmarked for the purposes of pensions and governments, unfortunately spent these funds on other projects (recurrent and capital etcetera). They now find themselves in a position where the demand is there but the money is not.

We will not be experiencing this problem at a national level at any rate, by the mere fact that this Pensions Scheme will be operated by the private sector. Insurance companies, I am sure, will operate and offer pension plans. Some corporations might even have their own, but at any rate the pension plans will be operated by private entities. Reinsurance will be the order of the day to ensure that in the event of bankruptcy people will be ensured that their pension contribution benefits that have been made will still be there, and upon retirement various benefits are available to them.

We have been told that anyone between the age of 18 and 60 years of age who is working is eligible to join the pension plan and any person working in this country over two years is also eligible. I would encourage those people who are working here and who are not Caymanians to join the pension plan. I believe that the pension contributions that they will make will be fully transferable to foreign pension schemes that exist. Even if they are Government-operated, I am sure the cheque can be sent to the particular government which they fall under upon returning home. This money will never be lost because the Law insists that the person is eligible for the benefits they are entitled.

No one in their right mind would try to argue that it is an unwise thing to have a Pension Scheme in place to ensure that the Government and relatives are not unduly burdened when the elderly ones among us come to that age when they retire and need funds to continue to subsist. That has got to be good practice.

We live in a time when it is even more important. Some persons among us in the past were eligible for Social Security by virtue of the fact that they lived in the United States, then there was the Maritime Union and pensions often came from other sources. I believe that these sources of pension funds are beginning to dry up, therefore it is very important for us to look after ourselves here in the Cayman islands. It is very mature that we do now.

Government is often accused of the lack of long-term planning. This is an excellent example of long-term planning; planning for the future generations. I feel proud to be part of a Government that has this foresight.

Many people have asked: How much will I have to contribute to my pension? That is very well explained in the brochure, and it has been explained by previous speakers. We know that up to a maximum earning of $60,000 you can contribute five per cent which will be matched by the employer. So it is a total of ten per cent that will be contributed towards an individual's pension. That is to say, if a person is earning $60,000 per annum they will contribute $3,000 and the employer will contribute $3,000. So $6,000 per annum will go towards their pension.

The Government in all its wisdom has made allowance for a grace period of about six months, during which time employers can make sure that every employee (including themselves) is enrolled in a pension plan; a further five years in which to make sure that the contributions reach the five per cent level. I think it is very wise, when we are launching a scheme of this magnitude, that we have this grace period and the five year period to make sure that everything goes in place effectively and smoothly.

People who are getting on in years and are over the age of 45 are being encouraged to contribute as much as they possibly can find towards their pension. That is a very important point that is made and probably will be stressed more by employers and even Members of Government. We can do our part to show them why. If a person is 45 years of age and contributes $4,000 per year towards their pensions (that is, they have an annual income of say $40,000, of which $4,000 is five per cent), the employer will contribute five per cent. They will have a retirement fund of $127,000 plus and be entitled to a monthly pension of $1,124.00. This is based on the life expectancy of 74 years or thereabout. If that person cares to double the contribution, that individual will be entitled to $2,251.00 per month in pension. That is over a 15 year period. They will have to make a sizable contribution towards their pension in order to be entitled to this sort of monthly pension.

A different set of circumstances exists if a person is joining the scheme at a younger age, say 18 or 20 years old. They will have a long period of time to contribute towards their pension. They can contribute less, if they so desire, and end up with a reasonable pension. Of course, with inflation one wonders whether that amount of money will be significantly different - dollar for dollar.

If a person is 50 years of age and the normal retirement age is 60, they will only have ten years to contribute to their pension. If an annual contribution of $5,000 is made, they would only be entitled to $681.00. Some people are pointing out that this is a weakness in the plan. But what I have said over and over is that despite every Member of this Government and everyone in the country wanting to see each person have a reasonable pension upon retirement, we cannot have our cake and eat it too. Everything costs. Unfortunately, I do not believe that the purporters of this scheme have been able to come up with a system that entitles such individual to more than this amount. I cannot think of a system that can do it either, unless we are going to give away money. Therefore I am not going to complain about it. If the person doubles that amount they will be entitled to a monthly pension of just over $1,300 per month.

The point that I am making is that it would suit people who are close to retirement age to make sizable contributions. Make the sacrifice if they want to receive good monthly pension benefits upon retirement, it is going to be important that they make a sizable contributions. There is no getting around it, that is the only way that they will have a reasonable monthly pension to live on.

A person who joins the plan at 18 years of age and has 42 years to contribute can make an annual contribution of $1,800 per months and still get a monthly pension upon retirement of $8,146. That looks good in this day and age. A similar case is for persons joining at the age of 25 and contributing for 35 years making approximately $6,000 per month. This is a good pension scheme.

I have firsthand knowledge of the Chamber of Commerce Pension Scheme because I am an active member. I have to contribute $9,000 per year to get a reasonable monthly pension upon retirement at the age of 60. That is exactly how much I have to contribute. I joined the pension scheme when I was 44 years of age.

So I will leave that for people to work out. It is quite a significant contribution that I have to make.

I believe the Government's pension scheme compares favourably to, if not better than, the one operated by the Chamber of Commerce and I certainly will be joining it.

(Inaudible interjection)

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Well, I have to or else I will be in breach of the law when this is passed.

I have highlighted the fact that this is going to be privately operated and that the scheme will have reinsurance.

At this point, I would like to highlight a few other very vital ingredients of the law regarding continuation of benefits under successive employers. There are individuals who are concerned that if they move from one employer to another they might lose their pension benefits. There is absolutely no need for that worry or concern because the Bill ensures that they are entitled to their continuing benefits. The funds that they have contributed beforehand will certainly be there for them. So there is no need for that anxiety and apprehension.

It is very important that we in the Cayman Islands do our endeavour best to retain a very strong economy so that the funds that we are repaid upon our retirement are hard currency. This is a concern. I remember when I was approximately 20 years of age, I took out a life insurance policy in Jamaica. I soon realised that the best thing for me to have done was to convert that life insurance policy to a Cayman Islands' policy. That has saved me much worry and headache. Today, I am entitled to the same benefits in the Cayman Islands dollars that I was entitled to when I took it out. Of course, my contribution remained the same.

I do not think that this is an immediate worry for those of us in the Cayman Islands - the worry of devaluation. But it is something that is always lurking in the back of our minds.

I would like to point out a section that deals with benefits under the Pension Plan which appears in clause 30, it says: "A member of a defined benefit pension plan that is continued or established after the date of the commencement of this Law shall be entitled at his normal retirement date to a minimum annual pension equivalent to 1.5 percent of his pensionable earnings for each year that he shall have been in membership of that plan subject to a maximum of 40 years membership." I understand that if the person's pensionable earning is $60,000 per annum he is entitled to a minimum benefit of $75 per month. I am concerned about that section. I know that minimum is "minimum", but when we are setting the minimum we better be more realistic than that. I would like us to take a fresh look at that to decide whether that percentage should be corrected.

Much work has gone into arriving at this Pension Plan. I have perused it in great detail, and have read it at least five times. It makes adequate provision for the ma-majority of things that will be necessary - deferred benefits, benefits in the event someone changes employment, benefits in the event someone dies before retirement, passing on benefits to beneficiaries, and the list goes on. I am quite content that this is a beginning and it is a very good beginning. There will be, as we have heard, reasons to amend the Pensions Law as situations arise in the future. But the way it is being set up, I could not agree more. I believe we are going in the right direction. With the exception of that minor point that I mentioned, I am completely happy with the proposed Pension Bill as it is compiled and reads.

Our people have much to gain by contributing towards their pension. This country will be more stable. There will certainly be more restful minds as a result of this. Where we have these spin-off benefits, it can only be a good thing. So I wish that the launching of this scheme will be smooth and that it will be successful and we will all benefit from it.

Thank you.

(Pause)

MOTION THAT THE QUESTION BE PUT

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I beg to move that the question now be put.

The Speaker: I am afraid I am going to have to refuse to do that because there are other Members, I am sure, would be contributing to the Bill.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: They are standing over in the alleyway, looking through the door into the Chamber, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to make my contribution on A Bill for a Law to Provide for the Establishment of a National Pensions System. I would like to congratulate the Government on bringing this Bill to the House. It is unfortunate for the country that this was not done many years ago. Had it been a bill of this nature enacted when our country began to develop as an offshore financial centre, all people at retirement age today would have benefits upon which to retire. Unfortunately at that time we relied on pensions from outside territories which are not of sufficient amounts, because of the increased in cost of living. Today many of those people are having a hardship. Some are being helped in some way by financial assistance from the Government.

It is important that we say to the public, through you, Madam Speaker, that although this pension scheme will be established, it will not be a cure-all. We must still provide for our senior years. We must not depend on what we will be able to derive from this scheme even if we start at a young age, will be all that will be needed. We will have to make other investments and secure for the future. This should be the basis of financial security in the senior years, but certainly not to be relied upon entirely.

As I have said earlier, it is really unfortunate that it had not been established much earlier, but nevertheless it is better late than never.

I would like to also congratulate the Honourable Minister for Community Development, for the comprehensive way in which he explained the Bill in the Second Reading. It gives very little to be debated. He did an excellent job in pointing out what the amendments are that he will make at a later stage. They are of much comfort to me. I see the need for those.

There seems to be a lot of controversy on the outside concerning whether the Government pension should be included. Madam Speaker, the civil servants are fortunate inasmuch as they have a pension scheme. If and when this proposed pension scheme is up and running and it can be amalgamated, I feel confident that it will.

One concern that I have regards the management of these individual pension funds. Do we have protection? That the investment made for these pension funds are made in hard currency, preferably the United States of America dollars, which in my opinion, although, at the present time is not the highest currency, it is the most stable. With our currency being tied to the United States Dollar it will give us added security.

Many of us in my age group remember quite clearly when the Jamaican dollar was our dollar and when we changed to the Cayman Islands dollar we were on par with the Jamaican dollar. All of us today know the difference in the ratio of our dollar to the Jamaican dollar. It just seems to be continuously getting larger and larger. So it is important that the companies that are entrusted with these funds make substantial investments.

We hear of bad investments being made by some of the large Pensions Fund in the United States which create problems. It is my hope that this will be monitored very closely.

Madam Speaker, people are also concerned about the inflation rate in cost of living. This is a percentage of people's earnings and in any country wages will have to increase as inflation increases. So the contribution by employer and employee will also increase so that the money that is contributed to the scheme will enable the pension indexed to the cost of living.

As we go forth with this, it has been said that persons coming here on a temporary basis will be excluded. I am glad that the domestic group will be excluded for the time being. It is quite obvious that if someone has a person who they have a lot of confidence in, they can certainly establish a pension fund for them. It does not mean that it cannot be done, it just means that it is not compulsory. So we are not actually excluding domestic, if someone wants to open up a pension fund, include them in their pension scheme, that can be done.

In closing, I would like to say that nothing we do in this Legislature is cast in stone. Certainly as time goes on we will see where amendments can be made and amendments will be necessary. I am confident that the Government will make the necessary amendments as they are required. With these words I support the Bill.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 3/96

DEBATE ON THE REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE AND THE AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1994, AND THE GOVERNMENT MINUTE WHICH RELATES TO IT.

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, thank you.

On page 26 of the 1994 Report of the Auditor General, we find that in Figure 1, paragraph 1.6 a section that deals with Cayman Airways Limited's refinancing loan. That section deals firstly with the fact that the proceeds of the US$20 million loan which was borrowed by this Government but was in effect used to pay for some of the debts that existed when this Government came into office after the elections. It was a refinancing loan that had been approved back in June of 1992. It was credited to the Government's/United States Call Account. It is around that area, I would like to emphasise how and why this went into the Government's account and how this matter of interest rates came about.

The proceeds of that US$20 million were not permitted, indeed I did not wish for them to be permitted, to go directly into Cayman Airways' accounts at the time. In the past - as we saw with the $12.4 million (US) which is the only other sizable amount of cash that was put into Cayman Airways Limited back when (or sometime after) the 727s jets were sold - was rapidly spent. Within a matter of a few months the $12 million went.

The Honourable Financial Secretary, quite rightly, put the proceeds of this loan directly into Government's Call Account. From there along with the Board of Cayman Airways and myself, we looked at the massive debts that Cayman Airways had at the time and we had to choose which ones would be paid from the $20 million. I would like to emphasise that none of the $20 million - absolutely none of it - was given to Cayman Airways Limited to be used as capital to carry on its business.

The delay in dealing with the proceeds was so that a schedule of Cayman Airways Limited's debts could be drawn up and consolidated. We also had to look at what debts had to be paid immediately because Cayman Airways Limited at the end of 1972 was basically scheduled to be liquidated. The debts were so massive. We then looked at debts sometimes $1 million to $1.5 million were owing., some of which were non-payment of rental. At one stage just after the government changed in 1992, over a period of the first few months I would get calls sometimes on a daily basis saying that the jets would be seized in Miami because the rental was outstanding.

We were also at that stage, as stated in the fourth line of Figure 1.6: "Since settlement of aircraft leasing claims were being negotiated at this time, funds could not be tied up on monthly fixed deposit." The money was kept in a Call Account (which really means we got less interest) but because the claims under those leases averaged about $46 million for the 737-400 jet -- because it was leased payments that could have accrued over a period of a further ten and a half years at the rate of $3,600,000 per annum together with substantial amounts for aircraft hull reserves, engine reserves -- it was therefore not possible during the stages of negotiations with the aircraft lessors to be able to tie the funds into say 30-day deposits. Two reasons; we did not know how much we had to pay. I have seen some legal disasters throughout my 27 years as a lawyer, but I have never seen so many claims in such unquantified and substantial amounts that were outstanding to so many companies as was the situation when Cayman Airways Limited was taken over by this Government.

The actual negotiations on this 737-400 (and we have to remember that there was already a judgment of approximately $7 million that had been entered in the High Court of the United Kingdom in relation to the leases from Guinness Peat Aviation of which the contingent liability was probably in the vicinity of $90 million, because they were longer leases. I think there were close to 12 years left to run. We were not dealing with small amounts, however, the position had to be left that while the funds were under the control of the Honourable Financial Secretary, we had to move fairly quickly into the accounts if a settlement could be reached to settle the heavy liabilities that were either in litigation or were to a stage where they may be litigation, dealing with the lease of the 737-400.

This took some considerable time because this Honourable House has to remember that taking over a company that size in such a desperate financial position was no mean order. Even trying to find out what amounts were owing took some considerable time. During the stage, if we were able to reach a settlement, then substantial funds would have to be available to meet that settlement at an early stage.

The actual finalisation of the settlement on the International Leasing Finance Corporation of California, 737-400 arose sometime further on. We were in an invidious position because they were also the lessors of the only two jets that were then running which were the 737-200s. So the negotiations were on two different fronts in dealing with three different jets; one that we could not afford - the new 737-400 which we owed substantial amounts on, and two other jets that we need then to have a lease to continue the operation of Cayman Airways. I will be frank, Madam Speaker, ILFC made it abundantly clear that if we did not reach settlement on the 737-400, which is one of the three jets that had put us in the serious financial problems, then they were going to take back the 737-200. This was all back in early 1993. Thank God it is all behind us now. I do not know if the Audit Department understood clearly the background to the fact that the money had to remain on Call Accounts during that period.

Finally, a vice president from ILFC came to Grand Cayman and after negotiations a settlement was reached which allowed us to keep the 737-200s on an extended period of close to a year on one, and to continue the leasing arrangements on the other 737-200. I should say, what I thought were literally impossible negotiations because we had nothing at that stage to really negotiate with. ILFC held all of the negotiating clouts because they threatened to cease the two jets when they arrived in Miami because they were under United States Register, unless a settlement could be reached. These were much older planes, unlike what we have now which one is the new 737-200 to come of the line. We reached a settlement that over the next six months we would pay one-half of the rental on the 737-400, but had to keep it for another six months. We would make certain back payments in rental over that period of time. Then finally they would take the jets back.

From the point of view of negotiating ourselves out of the 737-400 dilemma we came out far better off on that jet, in that we got a reduced rental over a period of six months. Naturally at the end of that period, the 737-400 was taken back. Even then there were times when I believe both the Board and the Honourable Financial Secretary could feel the bottom of the Call Account coming up as we try to keep the negotiations within the limits that we could afford to pay.

The $20 million that were held in the Call Account at rates that were perhaps two or three per cent less than what we could have gotten, if the accounts were deposited for say, a one month period, if in the end we did not succeed in the negotiations there would have been no Cayman Airways in any case. It would not have been a matter of one per cent or two per cent interest, but the fact that we would have had 350 Caymanians out of work. We would have had probably $40 million in debts that would have been on call.

This is very important, Madam Speaker, because when we took over Cayman Airways, an assessment of these debts had to be carried out. It was then clear at that time that there was no alternative to the Government but to continue operating Cayman Airways because we could not come up with $40 million in capital to pay its debts. It was not a matter of choice, the country then was broke and Cayman Airways owed close to $40 million in debts.

I believe now that the Audit Office realises the grim early days of Cayman Airways Limited and the reason why the funds did not go into Cayman Airways Limited -- because I can assure you, if that $20 million had been put in the Call Account -- in fact we are still trying to pay off that account -- the mere debt to the bank would have taken up half of the $20 and there would be nothing left to pay out. Luckily we have good bankers. I thank them very much for all that they have done for Cayman Airways Limited. Therefore the approach that was taken while it was not an orthodox approach, was the only way to go. If the funds had been put directly into Cayman Airways Limited, then the $20 million would have been gone. They could have written cheques for that amount overnight and still have another $20 million worth of debts.

I am very happy to say that we have been able to pay $1 million back to the bank on Cayman Airways' loans and overdraft that were left by the last government over the past year, because we have paid perhaps $50,000 a month. It is in fact, about $1.2 million in total. But it will be a long time before one can really say that Cayman Airways Limited is getting itself out of the debt that the last government left it with.

Those leases claims referred to in the Auditor General's report were the disastrous result of the "sweet-heart deal" that was referred to by Mr. Linford Pierson on the sale of the 727-200s.

I support the Honourable Financial Secretary on what was done here. Government borrowed the money, not Cayman Airways Limited, and that also has to be made clear. Cayman Airways Limited could not borrow any money. So the money had to be borrowed in Government's name which was kept in a US-Call Account where interest was paid at one per cent. But we could have drawn on it at anytime to deal with the position of settling the claims.

All in all, especially the fact that during the negotiations we found that we saved on the lease of the 737-400 for the balance of the term, approximately $900,000 (6 x $175,000 per month) by paying only half during that period. In fact, if I may say so Madam Speaker, as with the negotiations on the return of a $3.5 million engine that was sitting at the airport of which nothing had been paid on, ILFC looked at Cayman Airways and thought they should perhaps take what they can get and settle the debts. This is back in 1993, they were told bluntly that if they pursued their claims against Cayman Airways, they were not going to get anything, because there is absolutely to get. Really, it is out of the goodness of Government's heart, so to speak, that we were prepared to honour the large debts that Cayman Airways owed. The money was very carefully meted out by the Honourable Financial Secretary. In fact, he had the ultimately say as to how the payments would be made from the $20 million. As we know it went in as capital. In the early days when we were trying to figure out which of the many debts to pay, the funds were held on a Call Account.

The Auditor General's confirmation, in paragraph 14.7: "On the suggestion of the Financial Secretary, an Investment Committee of senior Treasury managers was established to review investment performance." I fully support what has been carried out there. But I do not believe that it could have affected the position with Cayman Airways Limited because we were really in one of the most desperate positions I have ever seen.

Madam Speaker, going on with the question of interest on cash balances. I have been a proponent of the fact that when Government, as it does now, finds itself with cash balances it should negotiate the best interest rates that it can with the banks. It is undoubtedly a very large depositor, it is a large spender within its current account, therefore there is a high turnover on its accounts.

The question of matching maturities that the Auditor General refers to at the bottom of page 24 to the top of page 25 is not always as simple it seems. Government has to have its cash projections in place prior to the timing on its deposits. What is important as has been stated here that the Honourable Financial Secretary has taken the initiative to go ahead and manage Government's deposits on a much close basis so that it does not find itself with open positions of substantial amounts sitting on a current account or a call account when they actually could be making more money. We must remember that one per cent interest on $1 million is a lot of money. We are not dealing here with a few hundred dollars, we are dealing with $10,000 for each increment.

The Honourable Financial Secretary, as he always has had, a good grip on the Government's funds. He has in place the proper criteria to ensure that the funds are managed. I am comfortable with that.

Moving on, I would like to go to the section that deals with the reference on the Reserves and the Pensions Fund. In the course of dealing with reserves in general, the Pensions Fund has been raised and as we know, the Honourable Financial Secretary has quite rightly segregated those Pension funds from the Government's other reserves. This was done sometime when there was concern in relation to the fact that under the past Government, the Pensions Fund were kept as general funds and at one stage, were included in the Reserves for the country.

The Pensions Fund for the civil servants' pensions has grown and has grown considerably within the past few years. The reference I made earlier would not have been to the previous government, but the government before. What I want to bring out very clearly is the fact that that fund has grown at the end of 1992 -- I am reading from the Auditor General's Report of 31st December, 1992, page 5 where it states: "The Pension Contribution Reserve, 1991 stood at $3,373,300." We know that by the end of December last year it had reached $16.7 million. I fully support the fact that very substantial sums have been put into it by this Government. In fact, between 1993, 1994, and 1995 we would have put in approximately $10 million into the Pensions Reserves for the Civil Service. I am very proud of that, Madam Speaker. It should continue to be increased at the high rate that this Government has done. What is most important is that it is separated from the other reserves of the country.

The position is one that notwithstanding the increases that have been carried out by the Government in relation to the General Reserves and the other areas, we have seen that this Government has increased that fund by approximately $10.4 million between the end of December 1992 and up to December 1995. I understand that as at the 31st of December, 1996 we will be somewhere in the area of $20.4 million. So the references to these accounts, while putting it separate, are quite rightly segregated from the country's General Reserves.

There has been from time to time certain things said in relation to what should be done. But what is important is looking at the facts such as this, and really to see that there has been meaningful increases in the fund. In fact, the General Reserves are set out at page 4 of the Auditor General's Report for 1994. There is a section on page 6 and onwards that deals with 'Authorisation, Control and Reporting of the Capital Budget'. The new reporting structure has been set out. It is important, while it is not easy to go through 300 or 400 pages of the Estimates and Expenditure, what is now being done shows that a proper system is in place and being improved upon. What is certain is that far more detail is now given to the public, therefore allowing more legislative control and authorisation to exist. We know that the Honourable Financial Secretary is at present reviewing the Public Finance and Audit Law to continue to upgrade the system.

Perhaps what needs to be clearly brought out under this heading is that Ministers and Members of the Legislative Assembly are not the people who spend money as such; they do not sign cheques. The control is dealt with through Heads of Departments in the Civil Service. Sometimes this is not fully understood, and many times there is misunderstanding as to conditions of service, or the hiring of staff, the termination of civil servants is dealt with purely by the Civil Service through the Public Service Commission, which is a non political body. Similarly here, the persons who are in charge of the budgets and who are the officers who allocate the funds and give authority for funds to be paid are not the Ministers not the Members of the Legislative Assembly.

Madam Speaker, I am actually at the end of this section. There seems to be about two minutes to go, but before I go on to another Head that I wish to deal with, can I ask for the adjournment?

The Speaker: Yes, certainly, you may. Honourable Minister, would you move the adjournment?

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 109 STANDING ORDER 23(5)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: When I received this question back three or four weeks ago, I had hoped that I would have had this, but it is taking a very long period of time; and as the Honourable Member will appreciate there have been reporting sessions to parents, graduations and final exams. I am afraid that I just do not have it. I will have to ask that this question be deferred until a later sitting.

The Speaker: The question is that the answer to question No. 109 be deferred until a later sitting of this meeting.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The answer is accordingly deferred.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 109 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 110, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 110

No. 110: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs what the current number of work permit holders in the Cayman Islands is; how many of these persons are employed in hotels, restaurants and bars.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The current number of work permit holders in the Cayman Islands as of 20th June, 1996, was 10,598.

Approximately 1,800 were employed in hotels, restaurants and bars.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Member comment on the increase or decrease in this number as in comparison to one year prior?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I have no information currently at hand as to what the figures were one year ago. I would venture to guess that there has obviously been an increase, but I am unable to say what the level of increase is either in the total or the category.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Does the figure of 10,598 also include persons on temporary work permits?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Yes, it includes temporaries. All current permits in effect as at 20th June, 1996.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Does the Member have the breakdown of what the temporary permits and full time permits are in that figure?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: No, Madam Speaker, that information is not available.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Would the Member give an undertaking to provide that in writing at a future date?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Most certainly, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you.

The next question is No. 111, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 111

No. 111: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to provide a breakdown on money spent on the George Town Hospital Project to date.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Expenditure on the new George Town Hospital project as of 10th June, 1996, is as follows:

1. Construction Work $1,138,000
2. Consultants' Fees 1,169,000
3. Project Management 215,000

This gives a total spent, thus far, of $2,522,000.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the Honourable Minister say what was entailed in the construction work?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thus far we have completed the materials management building and we are on the foundation of two other buildings.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister provide some elaboration on the consultants' fees; i.e., if this fee represents an extended period of consultancy, or if it was just a fee for the construction work thus far?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: This would be for the design phase of the overall project.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Is the Honourable Minister in a position to say what consultancy fees may be forthcoming in the next little while, and what amounts we might expect?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Not to be specific, but I have been advised that the $25,000 to $30,000 range would be the balance on the winding up.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

On a newscast sometime ago, I heard someone (probably from the project management office) suggest that the work may be somewhat behind schedule. Can the Honourable Minister offer any enlightenment as to the schedule of the work expected to be completed?

The Speaker: I wish to draw attention to Standing Order 22(1)(f)(viii) which says that a question, "asking whether statements of the press, or of private individuals, or unofficial bodies are accurate;" cannot be allowed.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: May I ask the Honourable Minister, then, to comment as to the level reached on work up to this point?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Gladly. We have experienced a bit of difficulty because of the very hard rock that we are dealing with which we did not expect. I am fairly sure, unless something unusual happens, that the overall terms of the contract will not be affected.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: When the Minister says that some difficulty was experienced, can he say if this difficulty entailed any additional expense for the time expended to sort this difficulty out and, if so, can he please give us some further explanation?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, as I said, some time would have been lost and more costs would have been incurred. But this would, I feel sure, be covered in the contingency.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a point of procedure.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

POINT OF PROCEDURE

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I would like to inquire about a question that was deferred on the Order Paper on the 24th of June which was directed to the Honourable Minister for Tourism. It was Question No. 75. Two weeks prior to that it had to be submitted, and it has not yet come back to the Order Paper. It was regarding a crane.

I would like to know if and when that will make it back to the Order Paper, if the Minister has any views on it.

The Speaker: Would the Chairman of the Business Committee, the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning, be able to set the record straight?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I would suggest that the Member ask the Honourable Minister when he is here. If not, if he would give me a bit of paper stating what question it is, then I can pass it on to him. He is not here now, and I am not certain. But I can find out.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Would you do that Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker. The question was No. 75 which is "Whether a multi-million dollar crane is being purchased by the Port Authority, and how is it expected to be deployed."

The Speaker: Would you just put that in writing for them please? Thank you.

Continuing with Other Business, Private Member's Motion No. 3/96. The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning, continuing.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTIONS

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 3/96

DEBATE ON THE REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE AND THE AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1994, AND THE GOVERNMENT MINUTE WHICH RELATES TO IT.

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The last main area that I wish to deal with is the part of the Auditor General's Report 1994 which deals with the Budget and the outcome for the year ended 31st December, 1994. In so doing I will refer back a couple of years, as has the Auditor General, to certain comparative figures that will be relevant to how the aggregate balances have reached the amounts they now are.

What we find in the 1994 figures is that revenue set out at $152,108, has increased by $3 million above the estimate. That is very much in our favour. We have made $3 million more in revenue than we expected to make. What is most important is that the recurrent expenditure, including the statutory expenditure (which is repayment mainly on debts, not just of the past Government, but of past Governments) has also been taken out of that. When we deduct the $138 million of expenditure for recurrent from the local revenue of $152 million, we see a profit of $18,157,000. That is headed as Capital. We took that $18.1 million of profit - pure profit - and funded Capital Expenditure. That amount is very substantial and significant as I will show from corresponding figures. I will only go back to the end of 1992, because that is the time when this Government's period of office began, to show that for the three years previous to 1992 (and I will read those figures) there was a loss of $3 million for three years. Nothing at all was contributed to Capital; that is, this country had no profit. No one can dispute this. These are the Auditor General's accounts, which show that we spent on recurrent revenue $18 million less than we received for local revenue. That went for capital projects.

We see that 1994 was a very good year, and it is very obvious that 1995 was an even better year; and we merely have to look around us to know that matters in the economy are very good at present. The National Team and the Honourable Financial Secretary guided this country back to a very stable, safe and booming economic time.

I would like to briefly look at how we arrived at the accumulated cash flow and the actual accumulated profit and loss aspect of the country's position. This is an accumulation of several years, and if we look back just a few years ago (because this is an accumulated balance which shows the amount at the beginning of each year, and the amount at the end of the year) we see right at the bottom of page 3 of the Auditor General's Report that at the end of 1994 there was a positive cash flow of $3.360 million. The accounts show... it may be better to begin with the end of 1992... but they show an accumulated amount that historically is what one Government passes on to another. I would just like to read at this stage from the 1992 Auditor General's Report which showed what the position was then, and compare that to the 1994 accounts, taking the position from there. The 1992 Report of the Auditor General, and indeed the report of the Public Accounts Committee, highlighted these matters which have a table similar to the table in the 1994 accounts, which other Members make use of from time to time. I would like to look at the specifics .

The Auditor General stated on page 2 of the 1992 Auditor General's Report, "It will be observed from Table 1 that Government's overall financial position, excluding transactions undertaken on behalf of Statutory Authorities, deteriorated further in 1992, continuing the trend established in 1990." According to the Auditor General there had been a deterioration of the Government's accounts from 1990 continuing until the end of 1992. When we look at the following page (page 4), it shows that "The annual deficit before financing [this is the 31st December, 1992] increased from $12.973 million to $16.877 million." Massive deficits continuing to increase. But it goes on to say what I just recently mentioned, "Local revenues were insufficient to cover recurrent expenditure. The recurrent account moved from a 1991 surplus of $1.854 million to a deficit of $3.624 million." We know that in the 1994 accounts there is a surplus of profit of $18.17 million.

Reading on through this fairly quickly, "The accumulated deficit on recurrent and capital accounts since 1990, after crediting loan proceeds, exceeds $30 million. The Surplus and Deficit Account recorded an accumulated deficit of $7 million at year end 1992." So from 1990 to the end of 1992 there was an accumulated deficit which exceeded $30 million.

It goes on to say, "Government expenditure has been increasing at a faster rate than local revenue since 1990 - an annualised rate of 14.5% compared to 8.0%."

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

POINT OF ORDER (Relevance)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Private Member's Motion No. 3/96 is for a debate on the Public Accounts Committee's Report on the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Government for the year ended 31st December, 1994. The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning has been reading out of the report for 1992. I wonder as to the relevance of the matter.

The Speaker: May I ask the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning... He did say that the Auditor General mentioned 1992 in his report. I assume that he meant the 1994 report. Can you...

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, it is strewn in different areas, but if we look in the middle of page 10, we see that the "...matter was referred to the Accountant General in my two previous management letters issued at the conclusion of 1992 and 1993 annual audits." This is one of those audits. There is a comparative to 1993, but... and I will look for their references to 1992, but throughout this report it is dealing with... sometimes going back as far as 1985. If you look back at page 73, for example, you will see a table there, "Financial Summaries", that goes back to 1985 in a lot of detail. It is not possible to discuss accounts (especially public debt that has been dealt with in some depth)... this is not something that stands alone at a specific time. It is an accumulation of debt, the same as profit and loss is an accumulation of profit. The 1993 figures, for example... or go back, say, to the 1985 figures in here under the General Reserve summary.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, the first point that you made on page 10, the reference to the annual audits of 1992 and 1993, refers specifically to loans to non-civil servants. That, really, as a point of argument for referring to the 1992 accounts, has no bearing. I appreciate that on page 73 this is the one that can be used if you wish to continue your discussion on accounts other than the audited accounts of 1994 if you wish to include your discussion on that. But page 10 has no relevance.

If you are going to continue under the General Reserve summary, and any other points that you may find in the audited report of 1994, you may continue to do so.

Thank you. Would you please continue?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The accounts as I read them cannot, as I see it... for example, in 1993 (and this is not dealing with your point, Madam Speaker), the statement of reserves going back... and those reserves in any event deal with opening balances, gains and losses, transfers from profits, inward transfers, government outward transfers, general reserve, demand liabilities... it seems that it covers the whole ambit of the country's accounts. What I would like to be able to do, because accounts are not something that are basically fixed at any specific period of time but run on from one year to the other... to get things in the proper perspective, as have other Members of this House, it is sometimes necessary to look at some of the past matters.

Any how, let me deal with 1993 and 1994 in relation to the statements set out in here. We find that the position in 1994 is considerably improved. Anyone with any sort of business experience and ability could have looked around them in 1994 (and indeed at the present time) and realised that the country was in an economic boom. The accounts bear this out. We find that if we remove the $16.4 million for the Cayman Airways debt which came in in the 1993 accounts, and unlike the disastrous situation that an ad in the newspaper put in by Team Cayman which tried to show that the public debt had increased from 1994 to 1995, from 1993 to 1995 we find that the increase was the $16.4 million of debts that this National Team Government did not accrue on Cayman Airways; when that is removed from these accounts it shows a definite decrease from the figures that they showed.

What happened in that advertisement was that Team Cayman was confused between the public debt of Government and the statutory debts of the statutory authorities. They added it in when it suited them, and left it out when it suited them. But the Financial Secretary made a statement which was laid on the Table of this Honourable House during the Finance Committee Meeting of 23rd November, 1995 (which I am holding here), clearly showing that what Team Cayman put out was misleading to the public. In 1995 there was a 14.9% decrease in debt from 1994, and the increase from $54 million to $61 million between 1993 and 1994, when you actually take off the $16.4 million, also showed a decrease in debt in 1994. This is borne out by the accounts that are in the 1994 Auditor General's Report. At the time (1994) a profit of $18.15 million was made. In 1993, even though it was still in the doldrums of the economic recession we had inherited, we contributed and made a profit of $8.782 million.

(Inaudible interjection by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: We go on to really...

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, please.... Has the First Elected Member just become Speaker of the House? I see you are addressing him.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I did not address him with the microphone on.

The Speaker: I am sorry, sir, you were standing and your voice came through my microphone.
Please proceed with your contribution.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: We find that Team Cayman, in the production of these accounts... and we know that Team Cayman's economist is now Mr. Brian Wight who has the experience of managing the 'Wight Empire', which...

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, please....

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: (addressing the First Elected Member for Bodden Town) Please, before you bring your point of order....

(addressing the Hon. Minister) I have to take umbrage to this because Mr. Brian Wight's name does not appear in the audited accounts for 1994. If you have a statement to make on any matter you are privileged to do so in a statement by yourself at any time, but, please, just deal with the audited accounts for 1994.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the future what I shall be doing... any other name that is mentioned, other than Members of the House, I assume I can then object to. If that is the way it should go, then I am very happy with this, provided that all Members comply with it. I am sure that you will ensure that all Members will not refer to anyone outside of this House, or to former Members of this House.

The Speaker: I am glad that Members are cognisant of the correct thing to be done in the House. When at all possible, unless you are replying to a statement or a publication in the newspaper, which you are allowed to do by making a separate statement... but in your debate, please confine yourselves to the matters at issue - which at the moment is the Report of the Public Accounts Committee for the year ended 1994.

Please continue, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Let me just get this clear. I can refer to Mr. Brian Wight's statement in the newspaper relating to this?

The Speaker: Certainly not, sir.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: So there can be no reference to any newspaper in the House?

The Speaker: Certainly not.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Very well, Madam Speaker. But I shall ensure that I object whenever that arises elsewhere, and I am sure that you will sustain that.

The Speaker: I certainly will, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The position is very clear that we have had an accumulated surplus (that is, profit) not only of the amount of $18 million which has been put in Capital, but we find that over the life of this Honourable House we have had a total of $58 million in profit including the profit for this year. That compared to what I mentioned some time back, of an accumulated loss of $3 million for the comparative period prior to that by a previous Government.

Not only that, but the repayment on the statutory amount, the repayment on principal and interest on the debt is set out under the statutory expenditure in these accounts. It clearly shows that in the year 1994 alone we had approximately $5.7 million that was put on debt charges that were inherited. I should point out that the debt that this country has had during the National Team's time (which is about $8 million, other than the borrowings, of which probably only $10 million can be used) shows very clearly that the country is in a profit and surplus when you take into consideration the public debt in the area of $90 million. That is the best financial position that this country has every been in. The position has gone from where the recurrent expenditure (and this is how bankruptcy arises) used to be more than the amount of revenue (that is, the Government was spending more than they took in), to our position that we must always have a profit where money can be used over and above that to fund projects.

Not only that, we found that in 1994 we spent $8.302 million less than what had been estimated. This is not only fantastic from the point of view that we have made more revenue than we expected, but that we spent far less than we expected to spend. Every year (including 1993 and 1994) these accounts will show that through the prudence of this Government we have spent considerably less than what was authorised. The Estimates referred to in the 1994 Auditor General's accounts... this Government has never exceeded the total amount of estimates and the supplementary for the year. Indeed, what has to happen, because of the makeup of estimates... for example, in 1983 we saw funds, which were supposed to be spent, not spent. There was a Bill authorising us to spend quite a few million dollars on the Community College back in 1993. That was not used. That is why we were able to vary that Bill this time and go on to apply it to the present loans that we are anticipating to make.

It is prudent financial planning where one has large capital projects and there is borrowing, for that to be repaid over a period of time. What is important always (and we are a far distance away from that) is that the cost of funding those loans is something that can be easily done from the revenue of the country. I do not believe there will be draw-downs from the borrowings to the full extent of the loan this year as there are only five months of the year left to deal with the loans that have been borrowed, therefore half to two-thirds of that amount is the most that will be spent. But when you are making $18 million profit per year there is no problem in re-paying a debt of $10 million over a period of, say, eight to ten years. When you cannot do that is when the country has no profit, such as back under the previous Government (as I read earlier) when they were taking losses. That is a bankruptcy situation. This country is now viable, it is healthy, and as these accounts clearly show throughout our time in Government (including this year) a substantial amount of profit will be contributed to capital expenditure.

There was reference to transferring $7 million from the reserves when the Government got in. The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman dealt with that. That was because a deficit of $7 million was left. It is nonsense to run a deficit when sitting on $7 million worth of cash. It does not make sense because you are paying heavily for something that is unreal. It is a fairy tale to believe that if you are running a massive deficit you should borrow money and put it into reserves. If you do not have the cash and you try to build up reserves by borrowing... it just does not make sense. It is like going to a bank and saying that you are going to borrow $70,000 to put into a savings account. You are paying 10% interest on the loan and only making 4% interest on the savings account. At the end of the day you are losing money. So we transferred what money was necessary from a reserve to wipe out the deficit the country had. It saved the country money. It saved them the difference between the borrowing rate and the deposit rate they were getting which could have varied between 3% to 5%.

There can be no doubt at all that the position now, which anyone with business ability and knowledge... and I submit that experience in big finances by the two Opposition Members in this House is very slim... but anyone who has had experience with large finances knows that the economy, as stated in the 1994 Auditor General's Report, is the best that this country has ever seen. The public should know that when there is money in their pockets, when they have jobs and are making money, that the Government is also making money. The duty of the National Team and this Government is to have the economy healthy and to provide the jobs for the public.

Along with the surplus of $56 million which went into Capital Expenditure went a further $12 million or $14 million to pensions. The pension fund for the civil servants when we took over was badly under funded. That comes out of the statutory expenditure here. The reason why the statutory expenditure has increased is due to several things. One of the main things is that substantial funds have been removed from the profits of the country and put in the pensions reserve which was badly under funded.

We also find that in the 'Highlights' the Auditor General has set out that we transferred $444,817 to the General Reserve during 1994. That was money that was part of a profit. We also find that at present we see the repayments from previous years beginning to increase as the principal of more and more debt has to be repaid. The slight increase referred to at page 4 of the Auditor General's Report relating to servicing costs would relate to the repayments on matters such as the Cayman Airways debt and the previous loans and the increase by $1.765 million.

What is important is that at page 9, when we look at where Team Cayman (or I should say the two Opposition Members) with their ad on public debt got confused,... let me just read from page 8 of the report. "Figure 1.3 shows that total public rose by 13% from $54,126,799 to $61,161,544.... The increase was attributable to two factors: The liabilities of the former Health Services Authority were transferred to Government effective 1 January, 1994 upon the dissolution of the Authority. The HSA's pre-existing loans have been reclassified from self-financing loans to public debt. The loan for the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital (balance at 31 December, 1994: $5,850,000) has been included within public debt for the first time." So the increase is totally the $5.85 million where the public debt increased because that debt, which sat in the Health Services Authority, was the debt of the country. There is no use in clouding issues such as this through devious mechanisms such as statutory authority borrowings, as did the Health Services Authority, and trying to say that the $5.85 million is a debt of the Health Services Authority. It has no assets, it does not have the wherewithal to pay it. This is why the accounting in this country is back on a sound footing, because in previous years statutory authorities were used to hide debt and then the previous Governments could say that the debt had gone down. Sure! If you take $5.85 million out of the public debt and put it into a statutory corporation you will not see it in Government for a period of time. But it has not gone away. You cannot brush debts of this sort under the carpet.

In an effort to hide from the public the true position of the debt in this country, they held out a lot of debt and put it into statutory authorities. So we are now having to bring it back to Government because the statutory authority (I am speaking here of the Health Service Authority) had no money to pay back this debt.

Another statement by the Auditor General on page 9: "An amount of $840,339 was drawn down but remained unspent as at 31 December 1994." A very clear example of what I said earlier, that money authorised does not mean that it is money spent. Every year far more millions of dollars are authorised than are spent. The country will see that at the end of this year there will not be time enough to spend a lot of money that was authorised.

I am satisfied that in the Auditor General's Report, which really begins on a very good and positive note... and, indeed, the accounts that he has set out for 1993 and 1994 clearly show that the country is on a sound financial footing. Not only is the Government on a sound financial footing, but Cayman Airways Limited, which could have buried this country financially and bankrupted this country, and out of which repayments for the loans and subsidies are in this account (that is what I am talking about at this stage), is no longer a threat to the finances of this country. The subsidies are easily paid by this Government. As we saw in 1994, we paid; and after that there is still $18 million to go around. No one can dispute these facts.

I believe that the Auditor General's Report puts forward very few problems within the system. It puts forward a very positive set of accounts; it fairly well sets out that the increase in the public debt was due to money being rightly taken back under public debt that had been under statutory authorities. That is not the only statutory authority from which debt has come back. It has come back from other areas as well.

The country is in good hands. No one else could have turned this country around from the bankruptcy we, as the National Team, took over, and produce the surplus each year that we have since we have been in here; with that surplus going towards capital expenditure. We lived in 1993 and 1994 (and the other two years as well) within our means. We have not spent money of recurrent revenue on recurrent expenditure that we did not have. There has been a substantial profit and surplus every year. Therefore, when the finances are as good as they are now, when banks are finally lending us money again (as the Auditor General's Report brought out), and the borrowings in 1993 (which until now are the only borrowings that this country has had during our time) of about $8 million, compared to the $40-odd million of the past that we are now trying to repay; and the $36 million of Cayman Airways debts (of which only $20 million was repaid and we are repaying the balance), we find that the banks are happy with us. The country has good credit again. The economy is booming. The only criticism that can be made now is that things are too good.

I warn the country that any idiot can slow the country down, but it takes a good Government and good men - qualified with experience in business - to move a country forward financially and put it in a financial and economic boom. We are in an economic and financial boom. I hope that the people of this country appreciate it and that at the polls they will vote accordingly.

The Speaker: May I draw Members' attention to the fact that Private Member's Motion No. 3/96 calls for debate on the Report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for the year ended 31 December 1994 and the Government Minute which relates to it?

Debate continues. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town .

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I find it necessary to preface my comments with a rather rueful admission: I hold no qualification from the Fellow of the Institute of Credit Management, nor have I any experience in big finances. I have only God-given good common sense, and the good fortune to have a solid academic background which merges very well with my God-given common sense. I find it rather peculiar that someone who boasts of such lofty experience and high qualifications could fail to make a distinction, and keeps referring to Government surplus as profit. It may be a quirk of my lack of experience in high finance or my lack of qualification from the Institute of Credit Management.

I want to also say, in reference to some points made by the last speaker, that there are two schools of thought with regard to Governments not spending money. One school of thought is that when Governments do not spend money they deprive the people of public services. Another school of thought says that when the Government spends too much money the country runs into problems. I hold the view, in the case referred to by the last speaker, that the Government's not spending money meant that people were deprived of services; hence the quandary we are in now regarding roads in this country, not to mention all the problems with school buildings and the corollary effects.

It is also a moot point in regard to the whole business of the handling of the reserves, for there is also a school of thought which says that it may be better to hold one's money in an account and to borrow, particularly when one is reasonably sure that employment will continue and a state of economic affairs will last for a while, for when the loan is paid off, one will still have the money in their account.

There is also another side to the argument that the money was taken from the reserves to pay off a loan. I would prefer, if I knew that I could reasonably pay on a loan to buy a car, for instance, to take a loan from the banks. I would know that when my loan was paid off I would have a car and still have my money in a bank account. I do not have a degree from the Institute of Credit Management. The only experience I have is that I was lucky to have been associated with one of the more famous Caymanian business houses.

I wish to offer some brief comments on two aspects of the Auditor General's Report and the report of the Public Accounts Committee, and I shall endeavour to avoid any repetition. In the first topic I wish to discuss, that of dredging, I shall mainly concentrate on the environmental aspect because I deem it as relevant at this point in our development and very important that we arrive at some philosophy in the areas of protecting and preserving our environment.

Great emphasis is placed on environmental issues in the Auditor General's Report. I have extrapolated from the Auditor General's Report the notion that he is calling for a strengthening of the Protection and Conservation Unit (PCU), especially in light of the fact that he makes the point that the work of this Unit is not easily enforceable. On page 37, column 1.67 he said, "No comprehensive studies have been carried out to establish how much land reclamation is desirable in the long term or the forecast quantities of dredged marl which will be needed in future years. Before any dredging licence is approved, the PCU carries out an environmental impact assessment, which is submitted to Executive Council for decision, previously via the CWAC and now through the Ministry AEC&W. The PCU also recommends the level of royalties payable." It would seem that the work of this unit is important and, indeed, sensitive. Yet, we get the impression that the recommendation of this unit is not given the credence it should be given, because on page 38 the Auditor General states, "The PCU does not have statu- tory authority to enforce compliance with conditions of dredging licences, including terminating dredging operations when the licence period has expired."

I am suggesting that in these kinds of cases concern for environmental issues is sacrificed for political expediency. I am also suggesting, as extrapolated from both the Public Accounts Committee's Report on page 9, and the Auditor General's Report on pages 37 and 38, that it is high time for the Government - and I would say high time for the National Team Government, since it is that Government which is confronted with the issues - to take up the political will (if, indeed, they are honest) and adopt measures to better protect and preserve our environment.

POINT OF ORDER

(Imputation of dishonesty)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I object. The Honourable Member is imputing dishonesty to the National Team - "...if the National team were honest." I submit that he should withdraw that because it is an imputation of dishonesty.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town, would you rephrase your comment?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Certainly, Madam Speaker, if it is the wish of the Chair. Let me say, then, that it is high time for the National Team Government, if they intend to practice what they preach, to seek to implement measures which would protect and preserve the environment.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Mr. Roy Bodden: According to the recommendations made in the Auditor General's Report and the report of the Public Accounts Committee, we cannot continue the way we are going without serious harm to our environment. It bears reiterating that the Public Accounts Committee recommended: "There should be a thorough and independent review of all aspects of marl dredging; there is need for comprehensive legislation to regulate dredging activities. This legislation should be developed following the independent review suggested above and should incorporate dredging guidelines. The existing [Marine] Conservation Laws should be extended to encompass dredging; the Department of Environment should be given statutory backing for its role of protecting the marine environment."

Both the Auditor General, in the Report for 1994, and the Public Accounts Committee's Report on the Auditor General's Report, recommend giving some form of statutory authority to either the Department of the Environment or the Protection and Conservation Unit. Yet, for all the pronouncement of well-meaning this has not been done; nor was it addressed in the Government Minute which is Government's reply to the Auditor General's Report and the Public Accounts Committee's Report. I have to say that in this important aspect the National Team Government has adopted what is called the 'Ostrich Syndrome', burying its head in the sand pretending that the problem does not exist. This is clearly not good enough for a Government that claims it alone has the mandate to govern this country.

I want to hit a little closer to home to deal with that Aegean mess which the Auditor General covered in part 3 - Pre-School Grants. I am not concerned with why it was necessary to implement a system of pre-school grants. I am not concerned with the evolution of this system. What I am concerned with is that both the Auditor General and the Public Accounts Committee commented in great detail on the mismanagement and the mess that was made of this. It goes without saying that any positive aspect arising out of this effort has to be weighed against the massive disorganisation and mismanagement these two reports have so vividly commented upon.

There have been some corrective measures taken, but I am not convinced that the measures are so comprehensive as to have completely eliminated the problems. There is no excuse for the Government paying school fees for people whose income ranges in the region of $60,000 to $70,000, while, in my understanding, many in the low income bracket have a real difficult time obtaining the assistance. I think that this (to be objective) began with good intentions, but, through haste or otherwise, was not well reasoned out. It seems clear from these reports that not enough effort was given to promoting and developing a set of rules and regulations which were widely disseminated and clearly understood. So those people for whom the effort was designed to benefit in the larger scale were not able to take as great an advantage of it as they could.

I am especially interested in that section of the Auditor General's Report (page 55, section 3.17) where he comments: "Almost $100,000 has been provided to subsidise three pre-schools in Bodden Town, East End and West Bay. The fees at two of these establishments are 40% lower than the average." When I got this report I made some inquiries as to these schools in my constituency. I was surprised to learn that all is not Kosher in one of the schools. Indeed, the proprietor approached me at one stage in utter desperation and said that if things did not improve the school would have to be closed. I hope that with the drafting of guidelines and regulations the relationship between the department and these schools will improve. I would hate to see that the school in question had to close because it does offer a good service. I attended one of the school leaving ceremonies some time ago and was impressed with the efforts being made. I shall, when the opportunity avails itself in a little while, be back in contact with the persons involved to see if the situation has improved.

I noted that the Minister tried to distance himself from this confusion saying that it was a departmental matter. I have to ask if that department does not fall under the Ministry. There is a famous Chinese image of such confusion, and that image is of monkeys gazing at the reflection of the moon in a pond - their perplexity intensifying when the breezes...

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

(Relevance)

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: If the Honourable Member can show me where in the Report there is any reference to monkeys looking in a pond... as these same points were taken when I tried to give an illustration. I submit that whether monkeys look upon it or not is not relevant.

The Speaker: I think he is using an allegory which is well-known to most people. I do not think it is a reflection on anyone. He is making a comparison. I do not think it is a valid point of order.

Would you continue, First Elected Member for Bodden Town, in dealing with the specifics?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. You know, they teach in the Martial Arts that when you get hit and it hurts, you should not wince.

I was saying that there is a famous Chinese image for such confusion, that image is of monkeys gazing at the reflection of the moon in a pond...

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town, you are repeating yourself. I have a great aversion to that because the Standing Order concerning repetition makes it quite clear to Members....

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I was hoping that I could finish my allegory. I take your point and will continue to say that their perplexity intensified when the breeze created distorting ripples across a placid surface. I trust that my point is taken.

The Public Accounts Committee's conclusions should serve to help the department and the Ministry develop what should be a good system into an excellent system of helping those who are in need of pre-school support. I would like to briefly read from the Conclusion and Recommendations of the Public Accounts Committee's Report because I find that it is enlightening.

"Greater [media] publicity about pre-school financial assistance should be provided to the general public. The Education Department should investigate thoroughly the reason for the low pre-school attendance statistics at certain Government Primary Schools." Finally, "The basis on which financial assistance is presently granted to parents should be reviewed. Scheme guidelines should be clear and easily understood by applicants, operationally sound and sufficiently robust to withstand external scrutiny."

I have to say that both the Public Accounts Committee's Report and the Auditor General's Report are very good reports. Indeed, they leave many valuable conclusions and recommendations. I think it is worthwhile remembering that these reports serve as the basis for improvement in the performance of the Government. I am disappointed that in the Government Minute the Government did not state their position as regards some of these recommendations and important conclusions.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings are suspended for 15 minutes.

Debate continues on Private Member's Motion No. 3/96.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Resolve section of Private Member's Motion No. 3/96 reads, "BE IT RESOLVED that the House now debates the Report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands' Government for the year ended 31st December, 1994, together with the Government Minute, subsequent to it having been laid on the Table of this Honourable House on the 18th day of March, 1996." In reading all three of these documents, several of the areas which I considered important areas in the Auditor General's Report were not addressed by either the Public Accounts Committee document or the Government Minute. I am not 100% sure as to what this really says, but for now let me just say that I made that observation. As my discourse continues I will try to point out some areas which I think should have been addressed.

Early in his Report, the Auditor General discussed the financial highlights for the fiscal year 1994. A previous speaker mentioned the situation regarding recurrent revenue. As the Auditor General has pointed out, for 1994 the figure in the approved Estimates for that year was just over $134 million, and the actual recurrent expenditure for the year was $126 million. There is a difference of approximately $8 million. There are different ways of looking at this. When we look at an approved amount for Estimates and we make projections for the year for capital expenditure, if there is an amount of $8 million (which is probably 7% or 8% of projected amount) not spent, I guess one could say the money was not spent because there was prudent action and at the end of the day it was not necessary for that money to be spent. But if we make a comparison to the past few years (and as mentioned by speakers from the Government Bench) what becomes obvious is that when a projected figure for capital expenditure appears in the Estimates (whether it be by way of recurrent revenue, or partially by recurrent revenue, or by loans, or whether it be totally by way of funds derived by loans) history has proven that whenever you see these capital expenditures projected some portion of that money is not going to be spent.

There is a bit of confusion in my mind with regard to the method. The questions that I will raise are questions that I ask be answered. If a Ministry, in consultation with the relevant departments, projects capital expenditure in a certain area at a national level for some type of service to be provided, or for some type of infrastructure to be upgraded, then if it comes to Finance Committee to be approved and it is commonly said (as has been said in the very recent past) that we know the money is not going to all be spent.... For the life of me I do not understand why it is that we keep getting these projected figures for capital expenditure when in truth and in fact we really do not know what is going to be (or not going to be) accomplished at the end of the day.

I understand that there are projects that will start today which will not be physically completed within the given year simply because it takes longer to complete them. I understand that. I also understand that if you engage in a project and are entertaining borrowing, it makes no sense to engage in the borrowing other than for the total amount you need. I also understand that you only draw down on that borrowing facility as and when the need arises, simply because if you took all of the money at one time you would be paying interest on what you have not used.

Having outlined the situation in that manner, it is still a bit confusing to me when we deal with the Estimates (as has been outlined in the Auditor General's Report) as to exactly how we line up all of our priorities and are able to complete them in the same order of priority as I would like to see. It throws a bit of confusion in that when these figures are included in the Estimates they do not allow me to add everything up and know exactly where we are headed. I am sorry that I cannot bring my line of argument to a conclusion because the truth is that I honestly do not understand the train of thought. At some point in time I would like to get a full understanding of exactly what the benefits of this methodology are.

In looking under the Financial Highlights for 1994, it is obvious that there is a trend where less is spent in recurrent expenditure than is approved. There is need for clarity in this matter, because in recent years a fair amount of recurrent expenditure has been going toward capital (as has been boasted). I do not think the conclusion should be that because your recurrent estimate was a given figure and less was spent, that less was actually spent on your recurrent expenses. I think the majority of the funds that are not spent from estimated recurrent expenditure are funds not spent on the capital projects. So, if that is a fact, and that is established by way of the figures, then it comes back to the question that I have asked.

As the Auditor General goes on under the Financial Highlights, there is another question which I do not know if there is an answer for. He states, "There is no mechanism within Treasury Department to ensure that expenditure is incurred only against authorised projects." (page 6). Before he makes this statement he explains, "Under section 8 of the Audit and Finance Law, 1985, no changes can be made to the approved estimates without the approval of Finance Committee upon a proposal by the Financial Secretary. Public Officers are also prohibited from making any payment of public monies unless authorised to do so by warrant issued by the Financial Secretary, or by instructions given under the Public Finance and Audit Law, 1985." (page 6).

I do not have to go into any further detail on that because that is fairly self-explanatory. If this should not occur, then the Treasury Department should have some type of mechanism to ensure that expenditure is incurred only against authorised projects. He is simply saying that we should have a system of checks and balances whereby, no matter what instructions are given, the cheque is cut from the Treasury; the final action (the payment made) comes from the Treasury Department. If there are no checks and balances it is impossible for them to know whether everything is in order with the payment or not. I understand that this report does not necessarily dictate as to what obtains today. The truth is, I do not know. The point that I am making in regard to his observations is that if it is still not the case, then it is very important that this happens.

He goes on to say, "As a result of inadequacies in the legal and accounting framework internal rules have been developed over the years to enable funds to be switched between projects in the same or different economic sectors. On occasion funds have been switched to projects which have not been brought before the legislature for debate and approval." (page 7). In his view "This seems to breach the important principle of prior Parliamentary approval which is the cornerstone of the financial supply system." I concur with his thoughts at present.

There will be those who will say that I have never been in Government so I do not know how it operates on a day-to-day basis, and that I do not know why that is necessary. I am certain that they will have their line of argument. But from a principle point of view, and bearing in mind that checks and balances are very important when you deal with the country's money, I believe that it is something which should certainly exist.

Leading up from the two points I have just made, let me explain by way of an example why I believe a mechanism should be in place in the Treasury, and that being able to switch funds without prior approval through Finance Committee is not necessarily the right way to go.

The Auditor General's Report goes on to discuss a section where some roads were fixed, and there were many arguments for and against. Let me immediately state that my line of argument has nothing to do with whether the roads were fixed or whether they were not fixed; or even whether they should have been fixed or not. What I am dealing with is the method by which we arrive at the ability to be able to decide if we are going to fix those roads.

As he outlined, "In August 1994 verbal instructions were relayed from Ministers to the Acting Chief Engineer, Public Works Department (PWD) to the effect that funds were to be re-allocated from an approved project ($400,000 from land purchases authorised for the proposed Harquail bypass) to certain projects to be carried out primarily in private roads and driveways in the West Bay District.... However at the time payments were made there was no legislative or other acceptable approval in place to permit expenditure against these projects." (page 7).

The question is not to determine whether or not the roads should have been fixed, because I stand here knowing full well that as a district representative there will be times when, after receiving calls from constituents, I will go to the powers that be and request that something be done regarding certain roads that are in bad condition. My argument has no bearing on that line.

He goes on to say, "The correct procedure should have been to apply for a Supplementary Estimate. If the requirement to commence the work was urgent and attributable to exceptional circumstances, Government could have used the 'fast track' approach of applying for a Contingencies Warrant under section 21 of the Public Finance and Audit law, 1985. In the event, retrospective approval of Finance Committee was obtained in December 1994, some time after funds had been committed and spent on the projects." (pages 7-8). What he is saying here is that the roads were done, the money was taken from another vote and spent. After it was all over, to regularise those expenditures it was brought to Finance Committee (after the fact!) for approval - without even a Contingencies Warrant.

The bigger picture with this problem that I just pointed out is that we should never get lost in the whole process of being able to decide and dictate unilaterally how funds are to be spent. My point is not even whether, at the end of the day, the end result was the right decision or the wrong one. That is not the point. The point is the way by which you accomplish what you set out to do.

In using that example, I am not suggesting that this situation is very prevalent. What I will say is that even if it is an exceptional circumstance, the country's money must be spent in the way the law specifies. I noticed that in this instance neither the Public Accounts Committee's Report, nor the Government Minute addressed the issue at all. Having said that, I bring this to light because I think it is very important that no one in this Honourable House, including myself (for whatever reason) should ever get the idea that this is the way we should operate. It certainly is not.

To cap off the point he says, "I have raised these matters because, in my opinion, the failure to follow proper procedures breach the important principle of prior parliamentary approval." (page 8). That is why Finance Committee exists. That is why Finance Committee only consists of 15 individuals who are elected by the people of this country. The only way to ensure that those 15 Members of the Legislature involved in the spending of the country's money can be held accountable is by way of an election. That is my whole understanding of the exercise. It is also my understanding of why, when it was changed some time ago, there was a big argument; and that since I was elected one of the first things that happened in here was that the situation was reversed and normalised to the way it exists now.

He says, "In my opinion appropriate approval should have been sought in advance for the projects described above prior to the commitment of funds. [This is very important.] Where prior approval of Finance Committee has not been obtained for a supplementary provision, appropriate approval consists of either a Virement Warrant or a Contingencies Warrant issued under section 21 of the Public Finance and Audit Law, 1985."

The point is that you have virements and contingency warrants. Those are put in place to be used whenever circumstances which have to be acted upon immediately arise. They are not put in there to be bypassed or abused. This matter was not brought up to raise another ugly head talking about whose roads should be fixed or not. It has nothing to do with that. If there was another instance I would have preferred to quote that, but this is the instance that the Auditor General used. I remember being very confused myself about the issue. There was the question of illegal manoeuvres and whatnot. I do not want to deal with the situation at that level. I just consider it very important that the point the Auditor General raises in his report of 1994 regarding the correct procedure for expending funds is very important and the rules should be adhered to.

These regulations, laws, principles and everything else, are in place having been tried and tested. If they were not correct I am certain that by now some type of legislation would have been brought to this Honourable House seeking amendment. I know of nothing in the wings for that to happen, nor do I know of anyone who thinks these are outdated. I certainly do not think so. Let me simply say that I hope this example will be one for all of us to learn from.

Public Debt is probably one of the few issues where there was comment forthcoming in all three documents.

One of the points brought out by the Auditor General was, "An amount of $840,339 was drawn down but remained unspent as at 31 December, 1994. In accordance with established practice, this amount is being held in a Deposit Account pending further expenditure on approved capital projects." (page 9) The Public Accounts Committee made note of this and said that "...the interest rate offered by bankers on Treasury's Deposit Accounts is substantially lower than that charged on loan funds." That is fairly obvious.

Then the Government Minute goes on to say, "The Government accepts the point raised by the Public Accounts Committee in relation to the drawdown of loan funds for capital projects." While they did not quote the figure, I am certain that they were referring to the same item. The Minute says, "However, every effort continues to be made to fine tune the estimation process so as to match loan income with likely capital expenditure as accurately as possible. It is important to note, however, that the draw down of loans is based on estimated expenditure and that the actual realised expenditure, especially on capital projects, will rarely ever match the estimate."

There are a few issues which immediately come to light here. As mentioned earlier, there is a question as to the procedure when it comes to capital expenditure and loans. The procedure is that Finance Committee approves the expenditure and then a Loans Bill is brought to this Honourable House to approve the borrowing. In this specific instance, as pointed out here (and I am certain that it was not done on purpose, it was probably just an oversight or some miscalculation somewhere along the line), there was a sum drawn down on a loan, and payments, including interest, immediately started to be made. The Government was holding it in its hand but could not expend the funds. The only way to make the best of a bad situation was to put the funds in a deposit account. We all know the reason that banks make money is because they charge a higher interest on what they lend than on what they pay out on deposits. It is obvious that money was being lost in this instance.

The amount was not in the millions, and this is not to make a big issue over how much money was lost, it is the principle. This all relates to how the chain of command is able to operate by way of communication when it comes to the whole procedure. The policy-makers decide what they want to do and the people involved in finance put it all together and bring it to us to decide on whether or not we wish to spend it. Then they bring us a Loan Bill to decide how we are going to borrow it; thereafter it reverts back into the chain of command to be spent as wisely as possible.

The Government then makes the observation and takes the point from the Public Accounts Committee... and I also noted that the Deputy Financial Secretary gave witness to the Public Accounts Committee. He accepted that the point was valid and that the Government appreciated the situation. He said that "...funds had been drawn to meet the estimated cost of certain capital projects which were due to have been started by year end. Several projects did not start on the expected commencement dates, with the result that funds were unspent at 31st December 1994. The Deputy Financial Secretary assured the Committee that every effort is being made to fine tune the timing of future loan draw downs. The Committee accepts the explanation offered and notes that action is at hand." That is good to know.

Sometimes little things have to happen to us for it to really hit home as to how we should act in certain areas. Another good thing that I recently heard was that the Honourable Financial Secretary, in another debate, stated that Government is now using recurrent revenue to fund ongoing projects until the need arises for draw down on approved loans. That is good to know, because I think that is as prudent an action as any other that can be dealt with at this point in time. What that simply means is that if Government has revenue coming in by way of recurrent revenue, and there is no need to be spending it immediately on recurrent expenditure, they can tap in on that to utilise those funds for ongoing capital projects until such time as they need for their recurrent expenditure, which they then draw down the funds for. It certainly saves a lot of interest. So that is very good to hear.

It brings the point home that with all of the agencies involved it is very important that the tracking system allow for complete communication so that the left hand knows what the right hand is doing, and you do not have confused situations where the end result is that people simply continue to blame each other for what has occurred. I am pleased to note, with the one experience pointed out in the Auditor General's Report, that the appropriate action has been, and continues to be taken in order to do the right thing.

In moving on with the Auditor General's Report, under the section of Debt Exchanges, there is another question that I am not sure can be answered. There is a section on page 36 relating to royalties. The Auditor General's Report indicates that, "Royalties were not required for a 19,263 cu yd extension to Project D but were linked to the donation of 30,000 cu yds of fill material to be provided by the licensee for the proposed Batabano - West Bay road construction project." I really do not know which road that is. It does not appear to be the Harquail bypass, but the point I make is that I do not know whether that 30,000 cubic yards has been taken from Project D in lieu of royalties or not. I raise that issue because I am certain that at this point in time, with all of the road work that Government has to do, 30,000 cubic yards of fill would be very helpful.

Without knowing exactly what is what with that situation, I simply raise the point in order for someone to make sure that what has to be done is done.

The Speaker: Would this be a convenient time to take the luncheon suspension?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Certainly, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended until 2.30 PM.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Before the debate continues on Private Member's Motion No. 3/96, I have given permission to the Chairman of the Select Committee to Review a Register of Interests for the Legislative Assembly and a Code of Conduct to lay on the Table an Errata which should have been attached with the Third Interim Report.

The Member for North Side.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

ERRATA TO THE THIRD INTERIM REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE TO REVIEW A REGISTER OF INTERESTS FOR THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House an Errata to the Third Interim Report of the Select Committee of the Whole House to Review a Register of Interests for the Legislative Assembly and a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators, which reads as follows:

"Further to the Third Interim Report of the Select Committee having been laid on the Table of this Honourable House on Thursday 11th July, 1996, the attached Journalists Registration of Interest Form, as was recommended by the Committee in its first meeting held 20th July, 1994, forms part of the Third Interim Report including the Register of Interests Bill as recommended in that report."

The Speaker: So ordered.

Does the Member wish to speak to it?

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I will just say a few words. There has been a tremendous amount of concern among the journalists in the islands that they would be required to complete a form and declare interests as in the form for Members of this Legislative Assembly and candidates. I would just like to apologise to the journalists for the omission of the Registration of Interest Form for journalists, and hope that they will accept this Committee's apology.

The Speaker: Thank you.

We will continue with the Business of the day. Debate by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town on Private Member's Motion No. 3/96.

OTHER BUSINESS CONTINUING

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 3/96

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: When we took the luncheon break I was capping off two areas, namely, the Authorisation Control and Reporting of the Capital Budget, and the Public Debt. While I was having a bowl of soup a few things came to mind which I wish to clear up in regard to the points I made earlier about the Auditor General's Report on the important principle of prior parliamentary approval, which is the cornerstone of financial supply system.

I think it is possible that there may be some who will misinterpret those statements, and that it may seem that I am laying blame in certain areas where that is not necessarily the case. I wish to say that in speaking about the communication within the chain of command of Government, and the way that money should be authorised and spent, I understand that the onus does not lie in one area. I spoke of the Treasury Department which is directly under the Financial Secretary, and while I subscribe to the belief that the Treasury should have some type of mechanism to determine if requests for monies to be paid out are duly authorised, at the same time let me make it clear that I do not think there is any onus at any other level.

To put it into proper perspective, if an elected official makes a request of a department for certain things to be done which will cost certain amounts of money, the truth is that the Head of Department should have knowledge as to the way due process should take place. While I speak of checks and balances, let me make it clear that the checks and balances should not be neglected throughout the various departments so that the onus does not fall on the Financial Secretary or any department which comes under him. That is not to say that there is no onus; I am simply making the point that the responsibilities should be borne throughout the entire chain of command.

The other thing I wish to quickly comment on is where I mentioned money being drawn down on loans and capital works not being completed, therefore the money is not able to be expended and is put in a deposit account until such time as it is used. The important thing to note here is that while the department involved (namely, the Finance Department and/or Treasury) would be dealing with the actual funds, the fact is that the communication should be in a proper sequence of events so that there is some way for those who are responsible for the work being carried out to communicate with whichever department or individual is responsible for the funds being drawn down, so that everything is in sync. I make those points simply to ensure that we understand the workings and how they should be carried on.

As I go on to deal with the public debt there are a couple of issues which I think need to be cleared up. As the Auditor General discussed, in 1994 the public debt rose by 13% from $54.126 million to $61.16 million. There was a statement made by the Minister for Education regarding the public debt. What he said was, “Over the past three and a half years until the borrowing this time, even though we have put back $90 million between capital and repayment of loans, we had only borrowed $8.5 million - another $10 million is not going to hurt this country. It is peanuts compared to what the last government did.” (Hansard - 4th July, 1996). Let me immediately say that I have never been a part of any Government so I am not prepared to take issue about the last Government. But I think it is important for us to understand that within the past three years the borrowings have not just been $8.5 million and the $10 million just recently approved.

In the 1996 Estimates, which were presented in November of last year for the 1996 Budget to year end of 31st December, there was an approved amount of $16.16 million to be borrowed for capital projects. This amount is referred to in the Loan Capital Projects Law, 1995 (Law 13 of 1995), which was assented to by the Governor on the 28th day of May, 1996. In actual fact there have been $8.5 million of borrowings; there was $16.16 million approved to be borrowed in November and the $10 million approved recently for capital projects.

There have been arguments spewing back and forth as to how much of the money will actually be spent, and it was said earlier on that probably no more than $10 million will be drawn down for capital works. Having said that and having corrected the amounts that we are talking about, because they all total up to the year end projected figure that the Honourable Financial Secretary has quoted (which is in the region of $57 million), I am still befuddled when I try to understand all of the reasoning behind the way we are dealing with these situations. If $16.16 million were authorised in November 1995 for the year 1996, and we are probably only going to draw down on $10 million because of works to be completed, and we have authorised another $10 million for further capital expenditure.... I do not fathom how all of the funds balance out.

On the one hand I hear that while we agree to borrow a certain amount of money, we are actually only dealing with how much will be drawn down this year. Coupled right behind that, we have to authorise another $10 million worth of borrowing for other capital projects which are necessary. Either I am not up to scratch or something is missing. It is not that I do not physically understand what is being said, but if we are dealing with it the way it is purported, then I am not so sure that this is the way we should be doing it. As I said very early in my contribution, I do not understand. I cannot say anything more about it. I just took that example to show some of the reasons why there is some confusion.

When the Honourable Minister for Education was speaking earlier on this Motion No. 3/96, he referred to some arguments which I put forth while debating the two Loan Bills which were recently passed. He said, “If there was no planning, as the three Opposition Members - especially the Fourth Elected Member for George Town - allege, how could the country be where it is?” (Hansard 4th July, 1996). Let the arguments not be twisted to say that somebody like myself is trying to say that the country is in bad shape, and that everything is going wrong and other things along those lines. I wish to make it very clear that I do not see my job here as standing up for hours wasting the people's time clapping hands and singing joys. My job, as I understand it, is to look out for the happenings in this country; and where I see things (within reason) that I believe should be dealt with in a different fashion, or that could be improved upon in certain ways - and without any authority to do that - my job is to say how I think it should be done with the hope that those in authority will pick up on it. Apparently the order of the day is that we either do not say anything of this nature, or, if we do, then we are not dealing with things correctly because all we are doing is looking to criticise.

There is a reason why people like me are over here, and people like the Government are over there. It is because of something called responsibility, accountability, and authority. With the policy makers dealing with the issues and putting forth into action the policies that they think are right, people like me are part of a system of checks and balances. So when it is mentioned that there is no planning, how could the country be where it is? I do not see the line of argument at all.

Any point I may have made in prior debates regarding anything to do at a national level and regarding the finances of this country, I simply make because it is my belief that insofar as whatever is being done, if certain things were added then things could be better. Regardless of how important it is for the Government to send the message that everything in the country is fine, none of them could say to me (and justify the statement) that there is no room for improvement. Suffice it to say that while any statement I make may not fall in line with the thinking.... I just hope that the points made are listened to, if not by admission then by action.

I hear statements such as, 'Instead of their taking a positive approach and trying to help the country move forward, they take a backward approach.' If my trying to do what I consider to be my job to the best of my ability in this Honourable House is considered a backward approach, then, I am sorry, but someone is totally misunderstanding not only my intentions, but also what I am trying to achieve. If anything should be expected of us in these hallowed Halls (as we were elected to defend the good things of our constituents, and the well-being and future of these constituents) it is to tell it as we see it and as we believe it, from as an informed position as possible. As long as I am here and I have a responsibility to the nation, I will never be one who gets up to speak on any issue to mislead it. If anyone thinks that any statement I make is misleading or twisted, henceforth they will have to prove that because I know better. I believe that the constituents also know better.

Moving on into another area of the Auditor General's Report, I note that in the Government Minute there is a statement made regarding pre-school grants. The area which I consider very important in this is where it says, "In addition, steps have been taken to re-introduce the Reception Programme in the primary schools in the East End and North Side Districts." I think it is a fact that the primary schools in Cayman Brac never did lose the reception classes. That was good reasoning because of the fairly small population there. It is obvious that this has been to their advantage for, as reported in the CXC exams last year, the Cayman Brac High School had the best percentage of results as compared to all of the other regional institutions.

In speaking about the pre-school grants and the reception programme, there was a fairly long discussion regarding the removal of this reception class by the previous administration. So that everyone will know how I operate, let me say that I also did not think it was the correct step for the reception classes to be taken out of the primary schools. I hate to disappoint some people who might think differently, but I am not on any bandwagon where it is decided what I should or should not defend and I then simply go about making arguments for that case. That is not what I am about. My terms of reference are simple: I want what is best for my people.

It is obvious from visiting the schools since the reception classes were removed, that the children entering the Kindergarten level at the primary schools now (especially in the George Town and West Bay Districts) who did not have the opportunity to enter at three years and nine months, but had to wait until they were four years and nine months to enter the Kindergarten level (which is the first year of primary school now), are way behind the curriculum. There were arguments for and against, but I think the fact remains that it has not worked. I think there are moves to strengthen the pre-school attendance but I know that that is a battle onto itself. The important thing is that it is recognised and it appears that something will be done.

When we talk about education - and I started off with pre-school grants and the reception programme which is missing from some of our schools - I noted that in the contribution by the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning, that while talking about education, he stated "The Fourth Elected Member for George Town talks about 'no planning'. Look at what his contemporary, Mr. Linford Pierson, did to this country." (Hansard - 4th July, 1996). He goes on, and on, and on. I will not even quote verbatim because for the point that I am going to make, I really have no time to be talking about others. He said there was no planning, and he is referring to a previous administration.

He stated, "There was no planning. The only planning the last Government did was to plan how to spend money, because they spent more in four years than this country had made in the past eight years. They had no plans. They had nothing. Today, for the first time there is a 5-Year Education Plan in place, which the Fourth Elected Member for George Town apparently does not know anything about." (Hansard 4th July, 1996) I only draw reference to that statement because if the Honourable Minister knew that he was not going to be in the Chamber during all of my debate, he should have informed some of his table-mates to take notes. He would have then understood clearly that I made mention in my debate of the 5-Year Education Development Plan which he refers to. I really do not see how he can even try to suggest that I do not know about the 5-Year Education Development Plan. His reason for mentioning that I do not seem to know anything about it is because I made reference in another debate regarding the lack of planning in the field of education.

He said, "Three hundred and fifty-three people: students, teachers, parents and the public put together a 5-Year Medium-Term Plan on education. And Members stand up in this House and say that there is no planning for education." I read the 5-Year Education Development Plan before I referred to it in my contribution. I am not perfect, but when I speak to the people of this country, I do everything within my power to ensure that I speak to them truthfully from an informed position. Sometimes when I do not speak (and people say that I should) it is because I do not take chances; it is not within my purview to mislead anybody.

He speaks about this 5-Year Education Development Plan and then he says that if I knew anything about it I would not say there was a lack of planning. This plan deals totally with strategic planning in education. I will not belabour the point, but the reference I make to this plan is that in all of the Minister's arguments trying to say that I have been pounding upon him - which in all honesty he may say and believe, but I have a job to do and I am really not speaking about the Minister, I am speaking about the lack of planning in education. If he wishes to take issue, he is free to do that. But what I think he should be doing about it if he recognises the truth in what I am saying, is to go and do what he needs to do to correct whatever is not going as it should. That is understandable. Nothing is perfect in life. Not being entirely surprised, but living in false hope that my arguments might not be taken personally.... so be it.

This strategic plan has as a very integral part of it (in order to accomplish all of the goals) the physical restructuring and preparation of the educational institutions of this country. I mentioned in another debate that the plan should determine future building needs and develop a building time line. I am not going to tempt you this evening, Madam Speaker, by going into a long line of debate about it, I just wish to make the point that I totally recognise at this point in time the validity of the 5-Year Education Development Plan. I also wish to make clear that I, and many others - including the 353 people who prepared this document - recognise that the plan itself will have no worth if the physical structures are not available for the various sections of the plan to be executed.

With regard to the Auditor General's Report and the pre-school grants, others have made some mention of these and they are mentioned regarding making sure that the public is well informed as to the availability of these grants, and also making sure that the grants are distributed equitably. I do not have to deal too much with that part of the Auditor General's Report.

There are just a couple of things left that I would like to touch on, and one of the areas I feel compelled to speak on is an area that the Honourable Minister for Education brought to light in what seemed fairly obvious to me to be a pot shot. I guess these things happen, but nevertheless, I feel compelled to make very clear the situation which he spoke about.

He read from the 1993 Report (and I am sorry that I have to deal with the fact that he said what he said the way he said it), and I quote, "On page 35 it states: 'It was drawn to the Audit Office's attention that in one case payment of an invoice for $17,400 was waived. This invoice relates to the cost of installing the water distribution system in a new sub-division. The developer paid $3,750 for materials by way of a deposit and an invoice for $17,400 was issued in July 1993 for the cost of installation by the contractor, Petroservicios Ltd. This invoice was subsequently cancelled in October 1993 and the cost was financed from the Authority's long term borrowing.' That, we know, was a subdivision of which the Fourth Elected Member for George Town was a shareholder. In fairness to him, I understand it has subsequently been paid." (Hansard - 8th July, 1996).

I am not prepared to say that the Minister knows everything about the situation. He mentioned that in 'fairness' to me the money was paid. But, even though he knew the money was paid, he had to drop an innuendo to those listening that maybe I have a dishonest streak in me. Let me quickly reply to that situation.

First of all, I had no knowledge, nor was I aware of that situation until a Member of this Honourable House who was on the Public Accounts Committee brought it to my attention when the Public Accounts Committee was dealing with the 1993 Report. Having learned about it, I sought to get a full understanding. I went to the Auditor General. I went to two members of the Board and I went to the then Acting Director of the Water Authority, just to ensure that I understood what was happening. Unfortunately, it was not a matter that I was dealing with personally and I simply did not know what had happened.

What is important here, and I wish to make it very clear, is that if anyone, including that Minister, was about to make any inference that maybe I was not the 'old honest Joe' that I purport to be, they should give me enough credit so that even if I was not honest enough to know that, I would have better sense than to expose myself to people like him for $17,000. After it was explained to me what had happened, and there was a payment for the materials but the labour had not been paid for, even though this invoice, as the Auditor General mentioned, was cancelled (which I had not, and still have not seen); although I was told by everyone I spoke to that this was an action by the previous Director of the Water Authority and there was no responsibility on my part to pay these funds, I ensured that the funds were paid because I had knowledge of it. I will probably hear other versions of the story between now and November 1996, and I guess I am prepared for that. I am just using this forum to speak the truth about the situation.

The Minister went on to say, "I guess, taking this joke generally and lightly and looking at the two areas of $17,400 and the water bill reductions [that being inference to something that he keeps chiming about Mr. Pierson], I would say that water-birds of one feather, flock together." (Hansard - 8th July, 1996). Out of an abundance of caution, being very careful that I am not being anything other than what I am supposed to be in this Honourable House, I am actually going to defer from saying anything about that. I guess it is probably best to sometimes leave well-enough alone.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Preach, brother, preach.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Sir Winston Churchill once said that the truth is incontrovertible. Malice may attack it, ignorance made deride it, but in the end there it is; it still stares you right in the face. So true is truth.

I had a few other points to deal with, but I am sure somebody else wants to speak regarding Private Member's Motion No. 3/96. I trust that my contribution is accepted in the right forum, and I trust that those who have to deal with the specific parts of it will understand my reasoning in the various areas that I made. I hope that in debating this Motion and talking about the Auditor General's Report of 1994 and the Report of the Public Accounts Committee on that report and the Government Minute, that by the time it is all over it will serve for the betterment of the running of Government and that in the future we will not hear the Public Accounts Committee making mention of the same things that they have in the past. As we continue to work towards good Government, whoever the players in the game are as time goes on, they will continue to make every effort, as I am, to make it right.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: It is now 15 minutes past four. Does another Member wish to continue the debate?

Is the Mover of the Motion prepared to begin the winding up? The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I have been having some severe problems with my throat for the past few days. I ask if the House would take an adjournment at this time and allow me to reply on Monday. I would appreciate that. I would ask to so move that the House be adjourned to allow such.

The Speaker: Are you moving that motion now?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Is there a seconder to that Motion?
The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, I respectfully wish to second that Motion.

ADJOURNMENT

The Speaker: The motion has been moved and seconded that the House do now adjourn until Monday morning at 10 o'clock. If there is no debate I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

MEMBERS/MINISTERS

WITHDRAWAL OF QUESTIONS NOS. 112 and 113

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, I seek the leave of the House to withdraw these two questions, seeing as the information sought in them has been received from elsewhere.

The Speaker: The question is that the House grant permission for the withdrawal of Questions Nos. 112 and 113, as the information has already been provided. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The questions are accordingly withdrawn.

AGREED. QUESTIONS 112 AND 113 WITHDRAWN.

The Speaker: The next Question is Nos. 114, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 114

(Deferred)

No. 114: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce what regulations exist with regard to production and sale of beer at the local brewery.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I beg leave of the House to have this question deferred until later. The question arrived at the Ministry on Friday afternoon and there was some confusion as to whether it was on or not for this morning. So I ask leave of the House to defer it, please.

The Speaker: The question is that Question No. 114 be deferred until a later sitting. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The question is accordingly deferred.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 114 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Question No. 115, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 115

No. 115: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs what the total number of posts in the Civil Service was as of May, 1996, with a breakdown by year from 1992.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: The total number of Established Posts in the Civil Service for the period as at 31st December, 1992 to 31st May 1996 is as follows:

As at 31st December, 1992:	1,701
As at 31st December, 1993:	1,665
As at 31st December, 1994:	2,019
As at 31st December, 1995:	2,148
As at 31st May, 1996:	2,203

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Member say if the recent developments with regard to group employees will have any significant effect on the figure as at 31st May, 1996, or does it include those?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: These figures do not include group employees. I know of nothing in recent times which would have converted group employees' positions to what is referred to under the General Orders as 'Established Posts'. There was an amendment which was successful in upgrading the pension entitlement of group employees to the equivalency of that of holders of Established Posts.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Member say if all of the 2200 posts are filled up to the 31st of May this year?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: No, Madam Speaker. As of that date there were 218 vacancies representing 9.9% of that complement.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Member say if the Group Employee Post, which now receives the same pension benefits as the permanent pensionable establishment, will ever be called 'Established Post' or will it remain as it is?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I am unable to say that those posts will at some point be converted to Established Posts. There remains one other difference relating to entitlement for medical benefits which Group Employees qualify for after three years of service, as compared to holders of Established Posts who, other than temporary occupants of those posts, qualify for it immediately.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: For purposes of clarity, is the only main difference between the Group Employee and the Established Post that there is a three year layover for any medical benefits for them, while the medical benefits are immediate for the Established Post?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: That remains the only substantial difference.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: In the figures given here for the year ended May 1996, are civil servants who may be working in Statutory Authorities included, or is this basically only central Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: This would be central Government with the exception of (and I do not have a number on that) some civil servants who are held against posts but who are on secondment to Statutory Authorities. I can give an undertaking to the Member to provide that information if he wishes to have it.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Member say if those individuals employed with the Statutory Authorities who are not part of the Established Posts receive the same benefits as the Established Posts, or do they vary depending upon which Statutory Authority it is?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member responsible for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: I expect that there are some slight variations between the Statutory Authorities in terms of their benefits packages. I think the menu offered by central Government is certainly a guide in terms of what they provide.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning. Proceeding with Government Business, Bills. The National Pensions Bill, Second Readings. Reply by the Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS BILLS SECOND READING

NATIONAL PENSIONS BILL, 1996

(Continuation of Debate thereon)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I have listened intently to what the various speakers had to say on the Bill. I have also made many notes on their speeches. I must say that there were some very good contributions. Even though the Opposition Member who tore me apart on the public platform was 'out to sea' on many occasions during the debate, he had to agree with the National Team's position. I will deal with these matters in as much detail as possible.

I want to thank you for your indulgence as I was unable to be in the Legislature on Thursday afternoon due to a funeral, and Friday due to other matters. I do thank the House.

Although there were good contributions from most Members, there were tongue-in-cheek contributions by the Opposition. This did not surprise me, seeing that the Member was absent during much of my contribution on Wednesday. There are a number of points that were raised by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, to which I will reply and try to clarify.

One of the matters raised was that the Member wanted to see a much more aggressive public relations and education campaign. The truth is that we have done as much as we can. If that Member and the Chamber of Commerce would cease their reckless and misleading public misinformation campaign, the Government would not need to run a more aggressive campaign than we are running now.

Hopefully, that Member will agree that the public relations and education campaign which the Ministry has implemented through the GIS is effective, and mirrors what he also tried to take credit for suggesting. I repeat that this programme involves a very broad-based committee which met from October 1994 to September 1995. It involved a survey of all employees on the island, a genuine consultation period from September 1995 to May 1996. There were appearances on Radio Cayman's Open Line, CITN's Daybreak and Issues 27, press stories and articles. Focus was placed on other discussion groups and on discussions and meetings with employers/employees and associations, providing answers to numerous telephone inquiries. I held public meetings in which I spoke about the scheme and dealt with the publication and circulation of 10,000 copies of an explanatory brochure, as well as the ongoing monitoring and evaluation. Hopefully, that Member and the group he belongs to, the Chamber of Commerce and others who have been confusing and alarming the public, will now make a constructive contribution towards educating the public and implementing this much needed scheme.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town ventured off course and began to discuss (he reform of the Chilean Pension System. He did not seem willing to give full credit to the fact that the Chilean Pension System is now the envy and model in the world. They changed from the antiquated social security state scheme, similar to the previous Government's and Team Cayman's choice. They have changed to a fully funded, progressive, defined contribution and a private alternative.

To clarify any misunderstanding the House may have on points made by that Member, I will take some time to review the evolution of the Chilean Pension Reform. This is particularly relevant because our Advisory Committee also took guidance from that system. I had hoped not to have to go through the technicalities of that system, but because the Member was the only one who spoke for the Opposition and went on a public campaign about the Pension Scheme, I will take the opportunity to speak briefly on it.

Social Security was introduced in Chile in 1920 with various Pension Schemes existing simultaneously. In each case these schemes were designed to satisfy the requirements of the different occupational groups. A common characteristic of the various schemes and institutions dealing with pensions was that they all operated under the pay-as-you-go system. This system is similar to that which the previous Government tried to put in place and which Team Cayman (the greatest opposition outside of the Chamber of Commerce to what we are attempting) favours.

Retirement pensions were financed by contributions paid in by workers. Therefore the survival of the system was subordinated to the prevailing active and passive ratio (that is, workers to retirees ratio) of the population at all times. During its early years of operation, the proportion of active contributors was sufficient to finance the pensions of retired or other passive members. However, demographic changes, reflected in a permanent decrease in the birth rate and an increase in the average life-span, reversed this ratio and caused a significant negative impact in the financing of the system in Chile.

While in 1960 there were nine pensioners for every 100 active contributors, in 1980 there were 45 pensioners for every 100 contributors. In other words, the same 100 contributors that financed the pension of nine retirees, by 1980 had to finance the pension of 45 beneficiaries. This situation was compounded by the strong temptation to evade payments of compulsory employer and employee contributions, given that the worker's contribution in the latter years of his life were critical in determining his pension benefits.

Consequently, there was a built-in incentive to minimise contributions in the early years. This situation obliged the Chilean state to repeatedly increase the level of pension fund contributions which resulted in a higher level of avoidance. A major characteristic of the system was its absolute lack of equanimity since there was no direct relationship between workers' contributions and benefits obtained. There were marked differences among the various groups covered.

While 70% of the workers (usually those in the lower end of the income scale) received only 30% of the benefits, 30% of the workers (particularly those in the upper income bracket) received 70% of the benefits paid. Such a situation was susceptible to significant political risks, with the political authorities deciding which groups would receive greater benefits depending upon the political pressures exerted by the groups.

This situation was exacerbated further by the high level of inflation which eroded the benefits paid, as well as placing an increasing financial burden on the system. The lack of fairness in the pay-as-you-go system, and the shortage of funds, led to the reform of the system and the introduction of the new pension system based on individual capitalisation administered by the private sector.

There was a new pension system created at that time for Chile. The new system, introduced in 1982, is based on individual capitalisation of mandatory pension contributions made by workers, and is therefore a defined contribution based system, the same as we have proposed. This means that each worker affiliated with the system makes mandatory monthly contributions to a pension fund which is accumulated in an individual capitalisation account. This increases according to the contribution made by the worker and by the return on investment obtained by the fund. Funds accumulated in each account are portable and are the property of the individual worker.

I trust that the Member who delved into that area understands the difference. I hope that their political counterparts on the outside will also understand what we are doing.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town also commented on the civil servants' pension plan also being covered by this legislation. He supported his argument by reminding us of the unfunded liability for pensions which currently exists for civil servants.

It is unfortunate that some Members have not yet heard from the Civil Service publicly. Much has been said in the past few weeks about the exemption of the Government in respect of its own employees. I have indicated my intention to move a pair of amendments during the Committee stage to remove the exemption, and to provide a facility for Public Service employees to be brought under this law in the future. I also indicated while presenting the Bill that the Government stood willing to entertain whichever preference the Public Service expressed.

The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development told this Honourable House one day last week that a team of four senior civil servants had recently been comprised to review the existing pension plan. They will consult with civil servants to determine if they would rather remain under the Civil Service pension scheme or be placed under the proposed National Pension Plan.

In order to ensure that this team, the Civil Service Staff Association and the Civil Service as a whole are able to deal with the matter properly, I wish to also announce that the Government will support the effort by, hopefully, providing an individual with the necessary expertise and experience to provide sound objective and professional advice.

Finally, I wish to give this Honourable House and, in particular, the public servants of this country, my assurance that the Government of which I am a part stands ready and willing to entertain the desired course which the majority of public servants wish to pursue with regard to their pension.

It can be said that the civil servants in the country have a pension plan. As far as I know, no one in this country, who as a public servant was promised a pension and who became eligible for it, was denied that pension. Simply covering civil servants in this legislation will not do very much in the short-term, that is, less than 10 to 20 years, to eliminate that liability. I believe that there was an editorial on that matter too.

As I said in my presentation, the Civil Service Scheme needs to be reviewed and possibly revamped. The question of funding, vesting portability, benefits involved, involvement by members, removing provisions for pensioners to lose pension entitlement, and so on, are my personal views. This all needs to be addressed. But, as I said, hopefully this reform will evolve into a Civil Service Pension Plan which complies with all of the provisions of this law, possibly even exceeding it. Thereby, the Civil Servants will have an even better scheme than they have today.

This is the purpose of the Bill, is it not? We are not creating something like the First Elected Member for Bodden Town talked about, where Government was going to collect money. This is not the purpose of the Bill. The purpose of the legislation is to make new or existing pension plans the best they can possibly be for the benefit of the employee and the employer.

Team Cayman did not have their way in this country. They will not get a pension system such as a social security system because I do not think that anybody wants it except those who were proponents of it a couple of weeks ago. In fact, during the months of May and June, when Team Cayman went throughout this country trying to educate (and certainly misleading) the public on their wishes for a social security system, I also announced in my presentation other amendments which have been tabled.

It is unfair for the Chamber of Commerce to allege, and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town to repeat those allegations, that the Bill before us is significantly different from that of the September 1995 draft. The only change of substance which has not yet been reinstated by means of Committee stage amendments is this idealist (I call it) and very cumbersome referendum procedure relating to any amendments to the law when it comes into force. I already addressed that when introducing this Bill last Wednesday.

I wish that the Chamber of Commerce would get a sense of direction. As an employer/special interest group, they seem to have lost their direction and are very biased in this regard. I trust that they will try to focus more on matters relating to commerce, such as training, assistance to small businesses, investment guidance; fostering better business practices, such as pricing and service amongst their members. They could encourage better labour and hiring practices amongst their members, rather than meddling with everything else in this country. They are not an elected group. The quicker that group realises that, the better off this country will be. They are not an elected group. Until they put their thousand dollars up and stand where we can shed some spotlight on them and get them elected, they should not delve into the areas that are Governmental only.

Yes, they can give advice, but it has not gotten to that point. This is a ridiculous stage from whence hatred and political victimisation is produced in radio announcements and in the written and televised media.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town seemed to have missed the rationale for the regulations not being presented at this time. This is not surprising, seeing how little attention he paid to our public education and my presentation last Wednesday. In fact, his - and this is the crux of the matter when it comes to regulations coming together with this Bill - inability to absorb the provisions of this Bill on its own adds credence to Government's argument that circulating the regulations with the Bill would have been too much for the public to reasonably be expected to comprehend.

I doubt that even he (who claims to be an academic) could handle the regulations and the Bill simultaneously. As I mentioned, this Bill is very comprehensive. Many of the provisions usually found in regulations are found in this Bill. I expect that the Legal Drafting Department will prepare the regulations to be presented to this Honourable House in September, in accordance with the request and drafting instructions which were sent to that department on 24th May, 1996.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town also claimed that the Bill was discriminatory towards Caymanians in that it excludes expatriates who have been working here for two years or less - surprisingly, something that came from the Chamber of Commerce. I would never have thought that in my political career I would have heard the Chamber of Commerce talking about the hiring of Caymanians that positively. This exclusion was made by the Government based on verbal and written representation from the public concerning the potential administrative costs of including short-term expatriates on pension plans and pension records. In order to maximise the benefits to Caymanians it was decided to exclude short term expatriates at that point. I note that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town went on quite a bit about my championing the cause of the Caymanian people. That was not the first time that I heard that. I also heard it in his public meeting.

I do not think that anyone can question my determination or my good will in getting things done which benefit the people of this country. The bunch of them went from one end of this country trying to make me look bad and tried to derail the Housing Scheme. That same Member gave all kinds of scenarios of how the scheme would not work. We now have over 120 new families with their own homes.

Anyone listening to them is bound to fall into rot and dry ground. They cannot succeed because that group does not know what they are talking about. If it is not written in a book, then they cannot push it forward. The books which they read pertain to systems and situations which existed in the 1920s, and probably in A.D. 2.

Due to subsequent input and discussion within the National Team Government it was felt that this exclusion may, in fact, have disadvantages in other areas. Additionally, it is also recognised that with our prevailing labour and immigration situation many of these expatriates may be here for longer than two years.

Accordingly, as mentioned by the lady Member from North Side, and subsequently by the lady Member from George Town, Government has circulated a Committee stage amendment which will reduce this exclusion for short-term expatriates from two years to three (3) months. This, again, demonstrates that this Government is sensitive to public representation, and always tries to accommodate sensible and constructive feed back.

I want to give this House a brief scenario. That Member (and others) are saying that having to provide for the many expatriates here for two years is going to be inflationary, and ask would that not add to the employers' cost? Would it not send up the cost that much more than if they did not have to provide for it? To hold an argument without looking at all of the aspects does not make sense. There is a possible scenario.

That Member also complained about the discretionary authority of the Superintendent of Pensions to fix fees. I had to wonder just where the Member was going. Does he expect that Government should establish a well qualified, equipped and efficient inspectorate (something that must be), and not try to recover as much of the operating costs as possible? Is that what he is saying? That is the only deduction that I could make of it.

It is only reasonable to expect that Government should try to off-set the cost of operating the inspectorate by assessing fees for registration, fees for annual renewal, etcetera, of private approved providers and administrators. Other departments and agencies do. It is in the interest of the employer and employee that a proper inspectorate is in place. A small fee of between $5 and $10 per employee per year is a good investment in ensuring this supervisory function.

It is reckless for the First Elected Member for Bodden Town to suggest that these reasonably low fees will eat into the value of the investments in the retirement fund.

To show his inconsistencies again, he and his colleagues often try to criticise Government concerning fiscal responsibility - they move motions, they go from one end of this country to the other on national television, and everything else, talking about fiscal responsibility. Yet he is now trying to say that Government departments or units should not try to operate with fiscal prudence! As I said, inconsistency is the big brother to instability.

That Member also tried to impress this House with his knowledge of the defined benefits and defined contribution pension schemes. Again, he was only confusing the public. I know the predicament that the Member is in, because he went from one end of the country to the other speaking against the scheme. He never came and offered some kind of support. His team is against him. I understand his predicament and his confusion.

For the benefit of all Honourable Members of this House, and the public, I would like to provide some details on these two types of common pension plans. This article, written by Messrs. Bodie, Marcus and Merton, from the Boston University, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and the U.S. National Bureau of Economic Research, is very instructive and is relevant to this debate, seeing that there is some misunderstanding concerning these two types of plan.

I quote: "Many fine benefit plans appear to subject workers and employers to unnecessary earning risks by tying the pension payment to the average of earnings at the end of workers' careers. While hedging inflation, such provision means that workers' pensions are very sensitive to earnings late in their careers.

"Such earning may be unusually low for reasons including poor health, changes in market conditions, and so on. Other defined benefit plans relate the pension to longer averages of earnings which make the initial real pension benefit potentially quite sensitive to inflation.

"Still other defined benefit pensions are independent of earnings, positing a nominal benefit that depends only upon service. The real values of these latter pensions are also very sensitive to inflation.

"In contrast to the defined benefit plan, defined contribution plans appear to be respected for their real rate of return. However, as the authors point out, one can devise close to risk-less portfolios that get around this objection. In addition, they make the important point that defined benefit plans are also sensitive to the real rate of return because changes in real rates alter the present value of future defined benefits.

"Once workers retire, the defined benefit pensions are subject to considerable inflation risks. While many firms do provide cost-of-living increases on an ad hoc basis, these increases do not keep pace with inflation, as one Mr. Robert Clark has shown in his study of cost of living increases in the 1970s. In contrast, defined contribution plans give workers the option of withdrawing their funds and investing them themselves.

"As mentioned, one can safely hedge inflation and secure a real, if minuscule, rate of return. The problem is, however, that many retirees may not know how to devise such risk-less portfolios, which involves using future commodity markets. While financial markets could provide such safe assets, they do not appear readily available at the current time.

"A problem with defined contribution plans not discussed in detail by the authors is that defined contribution plans that pay off at retirement do not provide retirees with an annuity, and, therefore, do not provide retirees with insurance against life—span uncertainty. Those that do pay off in the form of an annuity provide a stream of nominal retirement benefits that are subject to inflation risks just like the benefits of defined benefit plans.

"Another important issue that the authors do not consider is whether defined benefit plans are too complicated for workers and, indeed, even employers to understand and properly evaluate.

"It is not typical to find a defined benefit plan that has (1) an age and service related benefit formula; (2) an average earnings base; (3) age and service dependent early retirement reduction formulas; (4) special early retirement supplemental benefits; (5) actuarial reduction for workers terminating prior to early retirement.

"To calculate correctly one's accrual of benefits in such plans requires actuarial skills which typical workers do not possess. In addition, in many cases, even if the workers possessed the skills, the booklets describing the pension plans are so poorly written, if not intentionally misleading, that it is very difficult to figure out what one is actually receiving. Hence an important advantage of defined contribution plans is that they provide workers with better information about their retirement finances.

“My guess is that defined benefit plans emerged because they were attractive to older union members and employers who thought that they could generate strong retirement incentives without being explicit about those incentives. In the process, the country has been straddled with a very risky private pension system that provides insufficient information for both workers and employers about benefits and the cost of financing retirement.”

I trust that the Member understands a little bit more about defined benefits.

That Member also tried to criticise the defined contribution plan by saying that the defined benefits plan is superior, in that it defines the benefits which one can expect at retirement. I trust the article which I just read will help to show him the shortcomings of his assumption and the danger of listening too much to people who are just putting across opposition and not being constructive. I know where he got his information from.

He may also find it interesting that to assure contributors that they would receive their defined benefits, many such plans have to establish a guarantee fund. Ontario, Canada, for example, has a pension benefits guarantee fund in place which is intended to provide supplementary protection for defined benefit plans in the event of a plan wind-up, or where there are insufficient assets to pay for pension benefits. The fund is financed through assessments on that Province's defined benefit plans. Provision is also made for a Government loan to the fund in the event of a shortfall.

The pension benefits guarantee fund in Ontario is currently in a significant deficit position due to the failure of one large pension plan. The Ontario Government now feels that the guarantee fund represents an inappropriate assessment against the fund of the pension plan, as well as being a potential tax risk. That Government is considering replacing its guarantee fund with more stringent funding rules and other benefit safeguards.

So, while a defined benefit plan tries to safeguard a particular retirement benefit, there are some dangers and costs associated with actually receiving a benefit.

The Legislative package which we are proposing at this time reflects the clarity, specifics, and stringent rules which will allow the operation of the approved plans to be smooth.

That Member went on to say that he prefers the defined contribution type of plan because it is easier to manage, easier to explain, and safer. This Government and I agree. But as a democratic Government we have to allow freedom of choice. Many of the plans which have been in existence for many years in Cayman are the defined benefits type.

Is the Member (or his group) suggesting that these defined benefits plans be outlawed and all of the long-term workers in these companies should have to lose their accumulated benefits? That is what would happen if we went his way.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town also commented on the investment strategies to be employed by the investment managers for all of the approved providers which may be registered to offer pension plans in this country. I do not think that the Member is qualified...

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER

(Misleading)

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, First Elected Member for Bodden Town?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, Erskine May, page 381. The Honourable Minister is deliberately misleading the House and misconstruing what I said. I did not offer any comment on the investment strategy of the persons in his pension plan. I outlined the model that I preferred, and went on to outline how the administrators should be differentiated from those persons handling the investments. I did not say that was what should be done in his case.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, do you have the quotation by the Honourable Member?

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: No, Madam Speaker. But I will give him the benefit of the doubt and withdraw what I said.

The Speaker: Thank you.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: I will do that. But from what I remember, he delved into something he did not know about. He mixed up the speech that I gave and what he had said on the public platform. The Member got in trouble because they are a 'team', and that team is calling for a social security system.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, First Elected Member for Bodden Town?

POINT OF ORDER

(Misleading)

Mr. Roy Bodden: The Minister continues to mislead this Honourable House. Again, I clarify that no member of Team Cayman, to the best of my knowledge, has called for any Social Security scheme.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I am sure that I distinctly remember that nothing was said about a Social Security scheme.

Please continue, and just leave off anything that you may think other people have said, without having it in front of you to clarify it.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: I crave your indulgence, Madam Speaker, because here is where those Members are so inconsistent and downright dirty on the public platform in misleading the public when they go out to 'educate', as they say... and they expect to come into the House and be free from it. They cannot do that.

Here is the Hansard. Here is what their leader, Team Cayman's leader, had to say.

The Speaker: That is the Hansard of what date?

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: It is a speech given by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

The Speaker: In the House?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: In this House.

The Speaker: What date is that, please?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I do not know the exact date, but you can have the Hansard. You may have been provided with a copy. I would like to quote...

The Speaker: Please, before you start quoting, what is the date? I should have a copy of that too, so that I can also verify it.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: It was on the Budget...

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: He does not know what he is talking about.

The Speaker: Excuse me. One Minister is standing. I do not need to have another person speaking.

I need to have the date, otherwise I am not going to allow you to quote from it.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, it is a Hansard of this Honourable House.

The Speaker: I need...

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: No, Madam Speaker, let us give due deference where deference is due. The Member has said that they did not ask for a contribution, and his team-mate, his colleague in this House...

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I have asked that I be supplied with a copy of that with the date as well.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I think that is rude of you, Madam Speaker. Can I give you this copy?

The Speaker: If you have another one to quote from, certainly.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: You need a copy and here it is. Will the Serjeant please take the copy'?

The Speaker: That is all I am asking for.

The Speaker: I cannot remember the date, but it was a speech given by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, because I remember I went out and addressed a pension group and I had to use his remarks about asking... and you will find it noted there... he said that all the country needs is a social security system, one that his friend Mr. Miller wanted.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, if this is a statement that he made in a discussion on the National Pensions Bill, I can allow it. If this referred to some other discussion.... There is no date on this. I cannot allow you to quote from this.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, with all due deference, please, that is a Hansard of this House. Do not tell me that I cannot use that as a reference to what the Member said, when one Member said that they have never wanted a social security system.

Please, the Member has said that he...

The Speaker: What I am saying is that this may be a recording... there is no date, I have no verification that this is from a Hansard. There is no date on this, Mr. Bush, please.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

POINT OF ORDER

(Misleading)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: The records and the Hansards of this House will show that I have said nothing regarding this Pension Bill that is before the House. Only about two or three people spoke on that, and the Minister has been bellowing on it since last week, and he is on it again today. Where I come in, and what I said about a social security system, I do not see any bearing whatsoever since I had nothing to say on this Pension Bill.

That may be relative to something in the past where the Social Security Bill may have come before this House, but it never came into existence. I do not know what he is talking about.

The Speaker: I just need to say that at the end here I see, "Debate continues on the Appropriations Bill." I do not see what subject this debate refers to that the Honourable Member is dealing with. I need to say that the matter of social security should not be continued any further, please. Just deal with the National Pensions Bill and the contributions made by Members here.

Honourable Minister, please continue.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I will bow to your ruling. But that is a copy of the Hansard of this House. It carries the speech by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman where he spoke about the need and what I - referring to me as the Minister responsible for Social Services - should do. If you say that I cannot use it, fine. But it still does not absolve those two Members from telling lies on the outside and coming to this House making themselves look like Christians. That is hypocrisy!

They think they are free because I am not allowed to read what they said. But it is very pertinent. It is a 1994 Hansard, if I can recall properly, in the Budget debate. The Hansard reporters have the date. Anyway, you say I must not read it.

The Speaker: Would the Honourable Minister wish a suspension at this time?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, I better take it. Thank you.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED At 11.26 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 11.57 AM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture continuing the debate.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: As provided in section 51, General Investment Guidelines will be prescribed in the regulations. These will guide the investment managers to invest the funds into a mix of secure investment vehicles that will provide various retirement objectives. I am not an investment manager, and I do not think that anyone in this House is. We should not purport to be such. That is why we will have investment managers - because they know the markets and the different areas to deal with, and we must leave investment to those people who know about it. I will not pay any regard to what the Opposition has to say concerning investment policies.

In regard to maximising the fund, I reiterate that the law proposes that there be regular actuarial assessments of the approved pension plans, particularly the defined benefit plans, as well as careful scrutiny by the regulators of the investment performance.

The First Elected Member for Sodden Town and the public should also note that there will be distinct lines separating the functions of administration and investment management. The investment manager will have to abide by the guidelines, and will be accountable to the administrator and the members of the pension plan for the performance and stewardship of the pension fund, as well as to the Superintendent. I say to the Member that he should re-read clauses 16 and 20 of the Bill to refresh his memory on the protections in regard to this.

Unlike most existing pension plans on the island, as well as the social security scheme which the previous Government tried to introduce, this Bill provides for representation and involvement by both employers and employees with the administration of their pension plan. Clause 19 provides for an advisory Committee, clause 21 provides for a notice of proposed amendment, and clause 22 provides for an annual statement of pension benefits. These are the areas which demonstrate the representation that is available to Members.

The Member speaking for the Opposition also sounded some dooms-day prophecy regarding the impact of this pension law on the economy, and seemed to agree that employers should rush to recoup their contribution by tacking on an increase...

Mr. Roy Boddén: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

POINT OF ORDER
(Misleading)

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order First Elected Member for Boddén Town?

Mr. Roy Boddén: The Honourable Minister speaking is continuing to mislead the House and is imputing false motives and intentions to what I have said. I did not agree, nor did I suggest, that any employers should rush to recoup any contributions.

I crave the Chair's indulgence in asking the Honourable Minister to desist from this mischievousness.

The Speaker: The Chair should not be asked for indulgence, the Chair just has to see that what is said is not misconstrued. Would the Honourable Minister say if that was his opinion of what the Member said, or were they his actual words?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Well, Madam Speaker, a rose by any other name is still a rose. If he said that he was not egging them on, then so be it. This morning he was on the television talking about what they will do and what they can do. It is putting ideas in their minds...

The Speaker: Are you prepared to withdraw your first statement?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Madam Speaker, he is such a good Christian these days I will withdraw that.

The Speaker: Shall we leave Christianity out of it at this time, please?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: No, Ma'am because...

The Speaker: No, no, no. Let us not talk about someone being a good Christian or anything.

Will you proceed, Honourable Minister?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Madam Speaker. I just wish that he would exhibit good Christian values at all times.

Anyway, as I said, in his speech on what they call the 'education of the public' on pensions, he has been talking about this impact on the economy. He seemed to be saying that there is going to be a rush to recoup their contribution by tacking on an increase to the price of their goods and services. He did not say whether he had tried to educate the contractor, for instance, who suggested that the prices would have to go up by 20% as a result of the Pension Law. That is a bit heavy, as far as I am concerned. But one never knows in this country. This was a great opportunity for him to practice what he preaches by trying to instill good economic and pricing logic to these persons.

I note that the Cayman Contractor's Association - has recently come out with a statement saying that their wage rates had gone up, and one of the reasons for that was the Pension Bill! I know that there are some employers who will use any excuse to bump up prices. I trust that the Chamber of Commerce and the Council of Associations will now turn their attention and energies towards fostering reasonable and economically-sound pricing policies amongst their members - now and in the future - so as to avoid this type of exploitation of the consumer. In no way do I believe or agree that there is going to be a 20% inflation rise because of this Pension Bill.

It is not good economics, good finance, accounting, or logic for that matter, to suggest that by having to contribute 5% towards a pension the employer will have to add a straight 5% across-the-board increase on the price of their goods or services. We all know that salaries and benefits amount to between 20% to 50% of the total operating cost of a business. Therefore, a 5% increase in the salaries/wages and benefits does not translate into a 5% increase in the operating costs. If salaries/wages and benefits amount to 20% of the total operating cost then the 5% increase on the salaries bill will translate to a 1% increase in operating costs. This truthfully is what may be passed-on or recouped. I am not an accountant or economist, so we will wait to see what happens in the country.

Notwithstanding what I have just outlined, section 46 provides a 5-year phasing in option for contributions. Government and the Advisory Committee recognise that the inflation cycle will be a factor with introducing a pension system; that is why a phase-in provision was incorporated in the Bill. I cannot understand any Member debating the Bill and talking in such depth about the inflation that this will create, then go on national television and talk about it again and not mention that there was a phase-in provision. I wonder why? I wonder who was trying to be mischievous there? Some people do their job best by causing alarm and by frightening people.

I trust that employers will use this phase-in option (if needed) as well as fair and sound pricing practices in accommodating the impact of this law.

In regard to the employees, I agree that all of us in this House, Government and non-Government organisations, should intensify efforts to remind them that their contributions are not a tax (as was being said on the public platform), but a deferred income which is theirs alone. They will get that back at a later date, and it will allow them to enjoy their retirement without being a burden to their families or to the taxpayers.

The biggest attempt to discredit to this Law, and what I and the Government are attempting to do, is to go out and tell the people that they should not pay because this is a tax. Every one of us in this House sees what is happening to our people. When you look at the small persons throughout the country, sometimes they do not even have families to protect them or help them when they grow old. I know. I have some family members and others that I have to help. I daresay that there are others in this House who are in the same position. What greater good could we do as representatives but to encourage people to join a scheme and not get out there and protest with placards (as was said they should do) against this Bill.

As usual, the First Elected Member from Bodden Town did not offer any alternatives. What are the alternatives for legislation mandating proper pension coverage or proper health insurance coverage? I note where he talked about this coming before the Nation Insurance Scheme. How long have we been talking about this? This was on the road much longer than insurance, although when we took over Government we tried to do something about both. This has been in the works... I believe that if we go back in the records we will find that pension plans were talked about since the 1940s. I am sure that it was way back in the days of the Vestry when I read that there were proposals for implementation of pension schemes. So why put it off?

The country has to accept that at some stage those people who do not have a business, those people who were not born with a silver spoon in their mouths, or who were not lucky to be in the fronting game (if you want to put it closer to home) in the years when we just started our development, have to be protected. Those people need something. How else are they going to get it? Why should we wait any longer? Does he prefer the continued drain on Government's limited resources to provide benefits to the elderly and to provide healthcare?

Does he prefer taxing everyone to provide benefits for some? Does he not regard such taxes as being inflationary?

The Member also argued for proper screening of the approved providers before allowing them to offer pension plans in these islands. If he had read the sections in the Bill dealing with the registration of the administrator, and review the regulation-making power in regard to the qualification of the investment manager, as well as the fines for breaches of the law, I believe that he would be assured that all prudent safeguards are included in this legislation.

I whole-heartedly agree with the First Elected Member for Bodden Town when he said in closing that "...many countries have taken time to bring their schemes up to a good standard...if we don't begin we will never finish." I trust that he will do his part to assist with this initiative by voting in favour of this Bill, and working with his constituents in educating them on the benefits and strengths of this Pension Legislation. That would be a good thing for Team Cayman to do, to smite their conscience (if they have any conscience) and say that the Government was right.

I also thank the Member for North Side for her contribution and support. The points which she raised concerning the two year exclusion for short-term expatriates, and the need to include civil servants, were covered in my reply earlier today. As I said then, these two aspects are proposed to be regularised in the Committee-stage amendments which I have circulated. I also thank her for the part which she played on the Advisory Committee, and for also bringing the Committee's perspective to the debate, as to why it was not possible to have regulations presented simultaneously with the Bill.

The lady Member for George Town also spoke on those two exclusions I have just mentioned. She also astutely suggested that we try to educate the contributors on the importance of contributing in order to achieve the maximum long-term benefits. However, she reminded us about the two different approaches which were taken in regard to the two pension proposals which have come to this House in recent years.

Some people may be saying that my Ministry and this Government have been taking a lot of heat for this legislation from some quarters, particularly the Chamber of Commerce. I want to take a few minutes to review some of the correspondence which took place between the Chamber of Commerce and Government on these two proposals - one in 1989/1 992 and the correspondence to me. One can easily see that this current proposal (no matter what you say about the Chamber beating me down) enjoys overwhelming support compared to Mr. Miller's social security scheme and Team Cayman's preference.

If we look at their 16th May correspondence to me, and I read: "Dear Mr. Bush: RE: Conditional support for pension Legislation. We, the undersigned, being duly appointed representatives of the organisations listed hereunder, wish to state that as a member of the Council of Associations we are fully supportive of the concept of pensions as one of the tools for retirement planning in the Cayman Islands. We have reviewed the National Pension Plan Advisory Committee Report released in September 1995, and have followed with great interest the discussion which this document has generated in recent months. We are 100% supportive of the general principles as outlines in the report and the discussion draft of the Law which is part of the report. We endorse the progressive and prudent thinking behind this proposal, particularly of private sector administration of pension with Government regulations through legislation and proper supervision. We also fully concur with a contributory system where both the employee and employer split the reasonable contributions on a 50/50 basis. We offer our full support for your efforts to introduce a workable and acceptable pension framework in these islands on the condition that the following important provisions of the proposal are upheld."

They went on to talk about immediate vesting, portability, compliance, democratic involvement (big words for them), Advisory Committee Regulations Enactment.

When you compare this to the letter that they sent to Mr. Miller on the 30th of May, 1990, and I quote: "These recommendations which are contained in the Chamber's 30 page report representing the input from a broad cross-section of employers and employees. The Retirement Plans Committee comprises of representatives of the following associations: Contractors Association, Bankers Association, Insurance Managers Association, Water sports Operators Association, Cayman Society of Surveyors, Investment Managers Association, Law Society, Hotel Association, Restaurant Association, Architects and Engineers, Taxi/Holiday Association, Heavy Operators, Society for Professional Accountants, Young Caymanian Businessmen Association, Insurance Underwriters Association, Business and Professional Women's Club, Caymanian Bar Association, Real Estate Brokers Association.

"Some of the main points of these comprehensive recommendations on the draft Bill are...", and they went on to talk about regulations there as well. They went on to say: "The overwhelming power given to Government over the operations of the Board and the fund by the appointment of all key personnel, that is the Chairman of the Board, the Director, the Deputy Director, the Investment Advisor, the Investment Committee, Auditor and Actuary." Executive Council, under the other legislation would have been appointing all of these, and that is different from today.

Other shortcomings as pointed out by the Chamber include: "No clearly defined or realistic provision for opting out the other pension plans, no provision for the monitoring of private plans, the absence of consideration for the Civil Servants, conditions under which retirement benefits can be disallowed, the composition and tenure of Board members are items which are also cause for concern.

"The Chamber fully supports the concept of pension plans for all workers in the Cayman Islands. The Chamber, however, feels that Government's role in this matter should be that of protector, that is regulator, and not the provider. The Chamber feels that under a framework of worker flexibility and freedom of choice, all workers will have greater incentive to pay into plans which best suit their particular needs in a free market economy."

If anyone reviews the letter of the 25th of May, 1990, which they sent to Mr. Miller on the short-comings of his legislation, they will see that there were some 50 of what they called short-comings. They also commissioned a consultant in 1989 to assess the previous Government's proposal. I am not going to take a long time to read this, because this is a document dating back to 1989 looking at the Pension plan of 1987/88 for which Mr. Benson Ebanks was responsible. That was social security. The Member said at the time that the funds could be used for roads and for other things. That is one of the things that the public was up in arms about.

It is completely different from what they are now saying about mine.

The story of the failed social security scheme by the 1988-92 Government is not complete without showing the fate of that legislation. Despite the overwhelming public disapproval, as well as divisions within its own Government, Mr. Ezzard Miller nevertheless rushed ahead to propose a Bill and brought it to this House. It was referred to a Select Committee. There it died because they could not get the support from the public or the Members.

The Chamber of Commerce also published the findings of its survey on pensions in January of this year. This survey showed overwhelming support for pensions, as well as the proposal which this Government was then developing. I think there was an article in the newspaper concerning it. It did not get much coverage, it did not make the headlines.

I wish to repeat a comment which was made in the Chamber's newsletter in this regard: "After 10 long years, legislation has finally been proposed which follows the recommendations of the employers and employees in Cayman...the Chamber is in an enjoyable position of providing encouragement to Government to move forward with legislation.

"Government may be confident that its proposed legislation is on the right track. We wish to thank Government for the manner in which this legislation has been developed. It should serve as a textbook case of the true following of the democratic system."

I thank the Third Elected Member for George Town for her unconditional support, and for highlighting the advantages of this legislation before us now over the proposal in 1990/91. Those documents show that it is completely different from what was proposed before, and it shows much for their non-support of me and their kicking me in the face. They are, in the vast majority, in support of this Bill.

The Second Elected Member for George Town is to be commended on taking the time to try to educate the public on the provisions of the legislation, as outlined on the explanatory brochure. There are two points. Which he (as well as the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman) made, to which I would like to reply.

First is the request that there be provision for the retirement benefits to be paid in hard currency (for example, the U.S. dollar). This is a good suggestion, and my Ministry will instruct the Legal Drafting Department that the regulations should provide for the tying of benefits to the U.S. dollar at the current exchange rate or that pension benefits can be stated and paid: in U.S. dollars. I will leave that to the legal people to come up with.

He also stated his difficulty in understanding provision of clause 30 of the Bill which mentioned a benefit of 1.5% of his pensionable earnings at the time of retirement as his benefit. This is simply a benchmark which was used to show that the person who contributed to a plan for a total of 40 years can expect to receive a retirement benefit of at least 60% (40 years at 1.5% year) of his final salary. Obviously, if one contributes for a shorter time, one will receive a smaller retirement benefit (the general guideline being a minimum of 1.5% annual salary for each year of contribution). Regulations will also specify in detail the mechanics of this.

The final speaker on this Bill, the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, also offered his support and very valuable comments on this Bill. One item which has not yet been addressed is his concern for protecting retirement benefits from the bite of inflation. He astutely pointed out that one means of inflation protection is the fact that most employees get a cost of living increase each year. As the contributions continue to be paid on these increased levels of earnings, the retirement fund will also grow to compensate for inflation.

Section 44 of the Bill also provides for regulations which can prescribe various other methods of inflation protection as a means of protecting retirees from the future loss of purchasing power during their retirement years (when they may not receive any cost of living adjustments). One method for doing this is through indexing. This is a provision for periodically adjusting a benefit amount (usually after retirement) according to a formula based on a recognised index or price or wage, for example, the Consumer Price Index.

This is a very technical matter, but my Ministry and the Government will continue to explore suitable methods.

I wish to thank Honourable Members who spoke on this Bill, for offering useful comments, and well thought-out speeches and support, along with all other honourable Members who will give their silent support when the question is put to the vote.

In conclusion, when I released the report of the National Pensions Plan Advisory Committee and the discussion draft of this Bill in September 1995, an editorial appeared in the Caymanian Compass which was published on Monday, 2nd October. I would like to quote a few lines from that editorial:

“...Nowadays most people seem to agree that a pensions law of some kind is needed to ensure that all elderly people have a minimum income to sustain them in their retirement years. Even after years of discussion and controversy, no law will please everyone. However, it is now long past the time to vacillate. As Cayman’s working population is getting relatively older, as more and more people are approaching retirement age, it is necessary to ensure that everyone will have some retirement income when that time comes....we cannot afford to waste time on this issue.”

This has been a long, tiring journey. I may have veered some times, but we have overcome the obstacles and the National Team Government has made one giant leap for the Caymanian people.

Everyone seems to agree that this Bill is the right thing to do. So if not now, when? If not us, who? If everyone wants this type of pension scheme then they will have to agree on this kind, and not a social security system as Team Cayman wanted.

Thank you, Madam Speaker. I thank Members again for their kind support and I apologise for the lengthy debate. I believe it was necessary to take time out to explain as best as possible the many issues that this Bill entails. I hope that we can all now move forward. I plead with Members not to go out into their constituencies and sell this legislation short, or rip up the people unnecessarily to gain some points because it is election time, or try to decry McKeeva Bush. I just ask that we educate our people.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 3/96

DEBATE ON THE REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE AND THE AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1994, AND THE GOVERNMENT MINUTE WHICH RELATES TO IT

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: This Motion has been so long in the works, that to a large extent, I think it has become a bit stale along the way. There have been so many breaks in-between, it may be good if I briefly refer to what this debate is about. It is on the Report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands' Government for the year ended 31st December, 1994, and the Government Minute which relates to it.

The benefit of debating these three documents lies in the enlightenment that it might bring to any of us in this Legislative Assembly who take the time to read even parts of these documents. The public might be helped by hearing about what is contained therein. By chance, the Government might do some of the things which it has stated it will do to make things better, as far as some of the errors that have been identified in these reports go, and how it might improve the overall system which would be for the good of the country. It is not necessary for me or anyone else to attempt to put words into the mouths of others about what they do or do not think about a particular aspect. Surely, I do not need to pretend that I am an auditor. It does require listening to what other people might have to say about it, weighing and considering their point of view. We should certainly be weighing the point of view of the Auditor General and the Public Accounts Committee, and what the Government says it will do to correct the situations which need correcting in terms of the accounting of Government.

Debating these three reports helps us to focus the attention of the country (and hopefully this Parliament) on what was the financial state of the country in 1994 after its accounts had been audited. We must take cognisance of the fact that this is 1996 and should be wondering what kind of system we have, when almost into the second half of the year we do not know what the audited position is for the year 1995. That should immediately make us wonder if there is something wrong with the system under which we operate.

In fact, the Auditor General has made note of the fact that the present system of accounting has caused him to not take note of discrepancies and errors and major mistakes which come about because of our present accounting system - the cash accounting system.

I think that we need to take stock of the fact that recurrent expenditure in 1994 increased by 10.7%, moving from $113,972,000 to $126,162,000. This excluded the $16.6 million recapitalisation fund that went into Cayman Airways. Recurrent expenditure continues to increase. Only this morning we heard that there are now 2,203 Civil Servants. There is a continuing recurrent expenditure increasing in the area of staffing alone. With staffing comes various other ancillary areas of expenditure.

In 1994, Statutory expenditure increased, and it continues to increase in the Cayman Islands. Changes can only come about to stem this through prudent financial management, through the increase of productivity within the Service, and through stopping some, if not all of the gaps within the financial system. Many such recommendations have been made by the Auditor General and the Government has undertaken to make some changes in some areas. To what extent this has been done is left to be discovered. It will not be until the end of 1996 that we will begin to have any real idea about what happened in 1995.

When my colleague, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, brought a Motion here over a year ago to change the accounting system, there was much hue and cry. Nonsensical statements were made about adopting something that was in New Zealand, and why that was not any good for us. Yet, the Auditor General is pointing out that our present system here, the cash system, is not really in our best interest, as far as our knowing on a regular and ongoing basis what might be slipping through the cracks; whether money which was voted for any particular year has been expended as it was supposed to; whether the will of the House approving those funds has been carried out.

Capital Expenditure increased in 1994 from $9 million to $18 million, and 26% of it was financed from local loans and the balance from local revenue. Loans must be repaid or they become increased liability on the Government and the country. This Government has relied on loans like no other Government before it. In this years' budget there were $16.6 million in loans. We recently approved approximately $13 million for loans on various projects, including a $6 million loan for Pedro Castle.

This becomes a very serious area of concern for the country as to what might result from the trend of more and more loans which the country has entered into.

There is no such thing as Government making profit in its revenue collection. It might make a surplus - that is, there might be some money left over after meeting its various obligations. You certainly do not talk about Government making a 'profit', and spending 'profits' to carry out capital works, unlike what the Minister for Education may have us believe in this regard. If money is used from the recurrent revenue to pay for capital works, it means that there is some other area where that money could be spent. The expenditure from recurrent revenue on capital works amounts to a policy decision by any Government, and not the fact that we have so much 'profit' running out of the coffers that we can spend it on capital works.

If money is spent from the recurrent revenue on capital works, then there are areas left wanting. There have been many examples of having to take loans to build schools or to spend in various areas because of the way that the finances have been handled.

I think it is in order to note that the Auditor General has made a point that should come home to all of us in this Government and the Government to come. He said on page 6, "The existing legal and accounting framework is cumbersome. Legislative control, authorisation and reporting requirements do not differentiate between recurrent and capital expenditures, which are fundamentally different." A good signal that we should do something to change things to a more appropriate fashion.

Another thing should be borne in mind, and there have certainly been enough examples of this type of thing happening during the past three-and-one-half years to alert us to a weakness in the system. The Auditor General says, "Legislators vote funds for specific projects but are not provided with audited expenditure data for these projects." So while we sit in Finance Committee, or debate Money Bills, and we approve money which we expect will go for a certain project, it may not happen. Legislators do not receive information on specific projects with audited data on them.

Another significant point is, "There is no mechanism within Treasury Department to ensure that expenditure is incurred only against authorised projects." (page 6). The Government has alluded to the fact that certain changes are being made in the Treasury. Here, let me say that I do not know who works in the Treasury, and I really do not want to know because who works there is really not the important point. It is a system that I am talking about - as with the computer system, the people can only work with what is in place. If the system which provides the best means is not in place, then the system ought to be corrected or changed.

Also of great significance is that the Auditor General said, "Although the Budget Document provides forecasts of a project expenditure for the succeeding two years, capital expenditure continues to be authorised and controlled exclusively on an annual basis. There is no effective control and reporting of total budget and actual costs over the life of a project." (page 6).

If we want to consider this for a moment, we can see just how factual that statement is. One of the latest is a Post Office Building which is supposed to be built, for which some of the money has been provided through a Loan Bill. Half of it is yet to be provided, which is not provided for in this year's estimates. We would assume that the Loan Bill would relate to this year, and the likelihood that it will be completed this year is certainly not great. Right away we see that we do not have a system in place that would immediately take into account that money for this year, nor if it would be shown in next year's Budget in part or in its totality.

Therefore, we can understand why there is a need for change in this particular area. A change of the accounting system would clearly show the amount of money committed. It would not be left to where each year a certain amount is voted, thereby (for all practical purposes) disguising the cost. The total cost would not go away, but certainly the figures can be manipulated to make it appear that everything is fine this year when, really, there is cost of a serious magnitude yet outstanding.

Following this the Auditor General also notes, "The system of annual capital budgets also presents practical timing problems to project administrators and has resulted in legitimate payments being made without legislative authority." I think the point he makes there relates to what I have just said. If McAlpine is supposed to be paid for the work they are doing on the hospital, and it comes due in March of next year, and that money is not provided within the 1997 budget, you cannot tell the company that it is not in the budget. Their contract would naturally state that when the work is completed payment must be made. So payments are being made by Government to keep the machinery and commitments of Government working, where, legally, and from a legislative point of view, approvals are not in place. I think that is what the Auditor General is pointing out. Changes should be made to improve the financial management of the Cayman Islands.

In this regard another condition which we have seen here in the House comes out when he says, "There is a tendency to underspend rather than overspend capital budgets, mainly due to the timing of projects. Underspending increases when legislators are asked to vote funds for new projects from existing projects." I think he is simply saying that if money was voted to build school-rooms and the Finance Committee votes that money to build a cricket pitch, it does not make the need for the school rooms go away, it creates a situation of underspending when, really, there is in truth an overspending because it is a second project. The first one simply gets left by the wayside temporarily while Government goes to something else. It is bad accounting.

Of particular significance for the Legislative Assembly is when the findings in the audited accounts state that "As a result of inadequacies in the legal and accounting framework internal rules have been developed over the years to enable funds to be switched between projects in the same or different economic sectors. On occasion funds have been switched to projects which have not been brought before the legislature for debate and approval. This seems to breach the important principle of prior Parliamentary approval which is the cornerstone of the financial supply system."

I think a warning is being sounded for those who will hear, that unless we tighten the grips on our financial management we can run aground. We can find ourselves in trouble like many other islands in this region. Many of the small countries do not adhere to the sound principles of accounting, where persons are held accountable for doing exactly what the right thing is, not presuming to bring about internal rules and conventions to make it possible to do as one would have done avoiding what is the particular legal or financial requirement.

Of course, we have instances of that as well, when $400,000 was switched from doing the Harquail Bypass in 1994 and the money was used to fix private driveways in West Bay which was not authorised. This is the type of things which occur when the rules are not followed, when politicians or accounting officers believe that it is all right to do something which is not authorised simply because there is some force requesting or requiring that something be done which, for example, would suit them politically.

On the question of public debt, we hear the cry about all of the debt the last Government left. We hear the story coming from the Government Bench, particularly from the Minister for Education who spoke on this Motion, about the debts which the National Team took on. It just so happens that right now, and this is according to the Financial Secretary during this session, that by year's end the country will be $57 million in debt. The last Government left a debt of $25 million. That is quite a few dollars more, unless we use that special accounting that has been brought in by the Government of the day where 27 is less than 16, as a good example.

There has been an immense increase in public debt in this country through loans. They are necessary to balance the budget where there is no money to spend on capital expenditure, to build more school-rooms when these were due to be built all during the past three-and-one-half years and the money was otherwise spent. When we talk about debt, we are entering a new era of debt in this country during the financial management of this present Government.

We have the hospital situation which we really do not know the cost of, but that money has to be there to complete it. If the millions of dollars needed for it are to be taken from revenue, then other things will have to be paid for through borrowed funds. The borrowing continues and the debt mounts.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning spoke at length about the past Government, which is a favourite topic of his and he also spoke about the matter of dredging and how all of the royalties have now been collected. I say that it is about time. Several of those dredging projects were given by this Government and not collected. It is certainly this Government who on the one hand says that there is going to be a study done to decide about dredging, but continues to allow it to go on. There is dredging yet to be done in the North Sound, supposedly because of contractual agreements, when the Auditor General said that all contracts (according to his findings) have fallen away and are no longer in force.

Other approvals have been given. There has been dredging in the South Sound. I understand other applications are in place in the Frank Sound area. So the whole situation of dredging continues with very little abatement, as far as I can see.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning also claimed that there was only $10 million borrowed this year. How does the Minister account for the $16.6 million that is in this year's estimates; the $10 million for works to be undertaken and the purchasing of buildings and the like; the $2 million in another Loans Bill; the $6 million for Pedro Castle... how does he make that out to be $10 million? I would surely like to know.

He also spoke about the National Reserve and in so doing he attempted to show that my colleague, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, and I could not understand what a good thing it was to take the $10 million left in the reserves by the last Government, and spending $7 million out of that to balance his 1993 Budget. He claimed that that type of high finance would be above our understanding. It is all a matter of what is the policy of the Government of the day. If the Government so chose, it could have borrowed the $7 million it took out of the reserves (just like it is borrowing so much money now), kept the $10 million on the fixed deposit, earning whatever interest it was earning, and made it possible to pay off that $7 million at whatever interest (using the interest and other money to pay the mortgage) and still have the $10 million in the national reserves. That was certainly possible.

Although he would have us and the country believe that it could not be done, it most surely could have. With all the 'profits' which the Minister claims have been made by the Government of the day, one would have thought that at least some of that money could have been put into the reserves which so badly need it. From the time the $7 million were taken out it continues to suffer at a very low ebb indeed.

On the matter of the money owed to Government from dredging that has now allegedly been collected, it is good to know that that money is where it should be - in the Government's Treasury. If the royalty from dredging is now to be $1 per cubic yard, it is about time that the Government start the study which it claims it was going to do (and which the public hears nothing about) before any further dredging is done in the country, and before any other ecological damage is done.

The Public Accounts Committee stated quite clearly in its Report that "There is a need for comprehensive legislation to regulate dredging activities. This legislation should be developed following the independent review suggested above and should incorporate dredging guidelines." The 'recommendation above' was where they said there should be a thorough independent review of all aspects of marl dredging. The Government claimed in its Minute that it was going to commission such an operation. When will this be done? It needs to be started now, before any further dredging is allowed.

The situation with regard to children in the school system is not becoming any less a problem to deal with. The population is growing, and with that comes children whose parents and guardians find themselves unable to pay those pre-school fees. By Law the children are required to attend school. All of the children should have the same opportunity to benefit from pre-school study.

The Public Accounts Committee stated, "Detailed rules and procedures for operating the pre-school scheme were not fully developed by the Education Department, which was not properly resourced to administer this programme." I would hope that come September, this matter will have been addressed, particularly when we hear so much about the schools and what this Government and that Minister has done for the schools. I trust that this matter which involves so much money (which the Auditor General and the Public Accounts Committee has found was spent without proper care and procedure being followed), will be corrected at this time.

I do not think that it really requires people who are qualified as a Fellow of the Institute of Credit Management to actually look after these accounts either. The people who keep the vote control book in the Education Department can no doubt do that. It does not require any such person as has been suggested in the Government Minute in reply to this particular weakness in the financial system.

I could go to great lengths if I talk about the persons whom the Minister for Education talked about - Ministers of a former Government, and the accounts of 1992. It is now 1996 and we are wondering what happened in 1995 that we do not know about yet, and will not begin to know until about the end of 1996. I trust that some of the recommendations made by the Auditor General made in his Report will be in place. I also trust that the Government will correct some of the situations which have been identified. I look forward to a point in time, in the very near future, when there will be a Government in place that is not guided by personality motivations, but by what is right and proper. Such a Government has the opportunity to be chosen in November, and I trust that the people of this country will do just that for the sake of finances and for the country on a whole.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 3/96 'BE IT RESOLVED THAT the House now debates the Report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands' Government for the year ended 31st December, 1994, together with the Government Minute, subsequent to it having been laid on the Table of this Honourable House on the 18th day of March, 1996". The House has debated the report, accordingly, there is no motion to be moved.

The other point which might be considered at this time is if the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee would wish to make a Motion that the Report, together with the Auditor General's Report and the Government Minute, be adopted. That Motion has not yet been moved.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

MOTION TO ADOPT THE REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE ON THE AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1994

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: In line with your admonition, I move the adoption of the Public Accounts Committee Report, the Government Minute and the Auditor General's Report for the year ended 31st December 1994.

The Speaker: That Motion is in order because the Public Accounts Committee does contain recommendations.

I shall put the question that the Report of the Public Accounts Committee, the Auditor General's Report on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government together with the Government Minute, be accepted.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister responsible for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: For the sake of clarity..., when the Chairman laid the Report, did he not make a Motion for adoption and debate at a later stage?

The Speaker: He said that he would move for the report to be debated at a later stage. This is the debate now, we just need the Motion that the Committee's recommendations be accepted or adopted.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: There was no adoption?

The Speaker: No, not at that stage.

The Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: It appears to me that under Standing Order 74, sub-order (7), which says, 'The Government Minute shall be laid on the Table of the House within three months of laying the report of the Committee and of the report of the Auditor General to which it relates.' I do not see in this any reason to have to adopt the report...

The Speaker: Well, it is actually the Public Accounts Committee Report.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Ma'am. This is Standing Order 74 that deals with it.

The Speaker: Yes, I see that.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I am just not certain why we are actually moving this Motion when it seems the duty is to lay it on the Table.

The Speaker: Well, it is actually the report of the Public Accounts Committee which contains recommendations... But it does say further on that once the report is laid, it is deemed to have been agreed to.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Sorry?

The Speaker: The other portion says that once the Public Accounts Committee Report has been laid on the Table, it is "...deemed to have been agreed to." That is in subsection (9).

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: That is correct.

The Speaker: I thought that in view of the amount of recommendations made it would not do any harm to agree that the recommendations be accepted. He has moved the Motion. Would someone second that so that we may have it on the records?

The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I will second the Motion.

The Speaker: I shall put the question that the Report and recommendations of the Public Accounts Committee (which has just been debated) be accepted. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED. REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE ON THE AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS' GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1994, ADOPTED.

The Speaker Continuing to Private Member's Motion No./4, Appointment of Select Committee to Review the Elections Law (1995 Revision).

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 4/96

APPOINTMENT OF SELECT COMMITTEE TO REVIEW THE ELECTIONS LAW (1995 REVISION)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I beg to Move Private Member's Motion No. 4/96, entitled, Appointment of Select Committee to Review the Elections Law (1995 Revision), which reads:

"BE IT RESOLVED THAT this Honourable House appoints a Select Committee to consider amendments to the Elections Law (1995 Revision) as follows and that the Review be concluded before the dissolution of the House and that the recommendations contained in the Committee's Report be put into effect for 1996 General Election:

(a) to provide that a permanent register of voters be created using the 1996 Voters' list as the initial document and thereafter persons' names to be automatically added upon reaching 18 years of age and persons' names to be deleted due to death or some other legal cause;

(b) to provide for Voter Registration Cards;

(c) to provide that any person otherwise eligible to vote and who will be 18 years of age on or before the date of a General Election shall be registered as a voter;

(d) to provide that the Voters' list in each district in the possession of candidates and/or their agents inside or outside a Polling Station remains in the possession of such persons before, during and after the elections;

(e) to provide that the Law be clarified to specifically prohibit any form of advertising for any group or individual on the day of election through any media;

(f) to provide that Form 15 - Direction for the Guidance of Voters, be amended to allow a voter who after voting can place his ballot paper in the ballot box himself; and

(g) to provide that the form Declaration By Amanuensis be amended in its title to read "Declaration by Person who assists a Voter";

(h) to provide for the Immigration Law, 1992, (Law 13 of 1992), to address the residency requirements of the Cayman Islands (Constitution) Order (section 25(b)(v) and (vi))."

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
I beg to second that Motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 4/96, having been duly moved and seconded, is now open for debate.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: This Motion has been brought for the purpose of addressing certain issues which are relevant to the Elections Law and which do come into play now that the General Election is at hand.

I wish to say from the beginning that although the wording states that the recommendations contained in the Committee's report be put into effect for the 1996 General Election, it does not envisage that certain sections of it would come into effect more than for the Committee (in some instances which I shall cite) to say, 'Yes, we agree that these should be'. I think that at least three would come into effect in the year 2000.

Let me cite those three: "(a) to provide that a permanent register of voters be created using the 1996 Voters' list as the initial document and thereafter persons' names to be automatically added upon reaching 18 years of age and persons' names to be deleted due to death or some other legal cause;". The reason why this would be impractical to attempt for the 1996 election is that the list for 1996 (be it complete or incomplete) is legally existing, and this Motion is not suggesting that any changes should be made to that list to change or alter it in any way in any district. What it is suggesting is that the Committee would agree that it is desirable to have a permanent voters' list and that we would begin with the 1996 voters' list, although, stated as it is, the concept behind it is to simply have that accepted as the initial document that would become a permanent voters' list for the Cayman Islands. I understand that all the names that are there cannot be altered unless there were major changes to the Elections Law and so on. I would not even dream of trying to go back over what I know has been an extremely difficult time for the process of getting people on the voters' list

If that is clear enough, I would like to turn to (b): "to provide for Voter Registration Cards;". This is something that we have talked about forever. If the Committee thinks that such would be desirable and practical, it could make its recommendation to the House. From my own point of view, I think it makes a lot of sense to have a voters' registration card. As the population grows and becomes ever more disenchanted, as some become less inclined to vote, some areas become less friendly towards people going to register people. For those who are registered, they would hold a registration card that would have a number or some kind of identifying mark so that the Supervisor of Elections would know that there is somebody named "Joe Blow" from "Nowhere Street No. so-and so", and they would not have to be registered every four years. The only additional people to be registered would be new voters. The idea was his basically. If the Committee should agree that it is something desirable and practical, it could so indicate.

In (c), where it says: "(c) to provide that any person otherwise eligible to vote and who will be 18 years of age on or before the date of a General Election shall be registered as a voter;", I see that as occurring in the year 2000 or so. The reason why that was placed there is that there are persons who miss being registered by a day or a week simply because of the way it exists in the Law. If a person is not 18 by that particular date, then the person is barred. The person will be 22 before he will be able to vote again.

I have had many people speak to me about that. There have been instances where young persons who wished to register but who missed out by very short periods of time. If the Law could be so amended and worded so that on the person's showing the proper documentation, a birth certificate, passport, et cetera, that he would be 18 by Election Day, he could be registered.

Again, as far as I am concerned, the gate has been closed for now. That third request in the resolve would not come into play now.

However, (d) says: “(d) to provide that the Voters’ List in each district in the possession of candidates and/or their agents inside or outside a Polling Station remains in the possession of such persons before, during and after the elections;” This could come into play. If it does not, it shall be the same with me as with other candidates, I am sure. However, that particular item causes some logistics problem for any candidate running in an election.

From the time elections began in this country, candidates looked forward to having a list of voters whereby they could help some voters get to the polling station. Candidates could get an idea if certain people are coming to vote or not and can encourage persons to come out and vote. It also provides the means by which a candidate can agree with the person presiding in a polling station that the listed number of persons voted, as they would be checked off. Not that the candidate’s records are official, but there is the satisfaction that a candidate can know that he has the same count as the officials inside. It is a helpful campaign tool on election day.

Not until the most recent election in the country (the by-election in Bodden Town) were the voters’ lists taken away in the polling station from the agents of the candidates or the candidates themselves. I do not see the logic in this. I think there is something wrong with that. There could not be a more public list, since that is the list of all the voters in the country. All the persons registered to vote in a district are on that list. Persons who go out to vote can find out if they are on that list, as some people do inquire if they are on the list. I see no good reason why that list should not remain with the candidate or their agents in any district in the Cayman Islands on election day.

I think that what might be coming into play and giving election officials the sleepless nights, or questions as to whether they are carrying out their duty, can be found on page 45, section 73 of that Law. But I think from the aspect of efficiency on election day, keeping a running check on the people voting is something not unreasonable to ask for.

In section (e), where it asks for the Law to be clarified, specifically to prohibit any form of advertising by any group or individual on election day is, I think, necessary. I recall some years ago when the Americans realised that by allowing information in the news to go out, where persons on the other side of the country were hours behind and hearing what the exit polls were in the east, it influenced the voting in the rest of the country. Advertisements during that day should be prohibited. It is prohibited to some extent, while allowed to some extent within the Law.

All this section is asking for is that it be made absolutely clear that on election day there will be no advertising. Campaign or advertise all you want up until that day, but on election day there should be none.

A peculiar thing occurs in (f). I have had many people speak to me about this. It refers to Form 15 “Direction for the Guidance of Voters”. It asks that this be amended to allow a voter, after voting, to place his ballot paper in the ballot box himself. What it says now on page 58 under “Direction for the Guidance of Voters is”, “(6) After voting a voter must fold the ballot paper along the lines shown on the ballot paper and hand the folded ballot paper to the presiding officer.” I note that it says “after voting”. Item (7) says, “The presiding officer will, in the full view of those present, including the voter, remove the counter foil from the ballot paper and place the ballot paper in the ballot box.” When a voter has received his ballot paper, it is his sacred ballot paper. Why, when he has voted, must he come out of the booth and go back to the presiding officer and give him his ballot paper, and the presiding officer put that ballot into the ballot box? Why can the voter not put his ballot into the ballot box? Many people have asked me that question. There is no other reason, other than it is what is written down here on page 59, and that is what they are supposed to do.

The counter foil is that detachable piece of the ballot that is torn off. I know that the presiding officer has a big “On Her Majesty’s Service” envelop there to put that counter foil into. What is the difference in tearing off the foil, allowing the person to go into the booth to vote, and allowing that person to put his ballot in and then put the foil into the envelope at the same time?

People have stated to me that even when the President of the United States votes they do not take his ballot paper from him and put it in the box - he puts his own ballot paper in. It is something which I believe could be done so the voter would feel that oneness with his ballot paper when he puts it into the box himself.

It would remove the view that because people have to hand their ballot paper back to the presiding officer, others know how they voted - not the least of considerations.

On page 78 there is this incredible jaw-breaking word here “Declaration by Amanuensis”. That frightening form goes to people who vote by postal ballot. Some of those people are older people, many of whom are shut-ins. I wonder if some of them can even pronounce Amanuensis. Right below that title is the kicker in brackets. It says: “To be completed by a person who has assisted the applicant to complete the form, or who has signed the form on behalf of the applicant.” All this is asking is that instead of the frightening title, it be called, “Declaration by a Person who Assists a Voter”. I contend that would make that guidance sheet inserted into postal ballots so much clearer for people who receive it.

Item (h) is requesting that something be done to write into the Immigration Law a means by which it could give the information to the supervisor of elections with regards to the Constitutional requirement contained in section 25(b), which really is a requirement. An amendment to the Constitution which says that a person is entitled to be an elector if he possesses Caymanian status, has attained the age of 18 years and is a British subject, and so on. Part (5) and (6) of it says, “He, or one of his parents or grandparents are born in the islands and has been ordinarily resident in the islands for a period or periods amounting to two years out of three immediately preceding the date of registration; or he has been ordinarily resident in the islands for a period or periods amounting to seven years out of the nine years immediately preceding the date of registration. In the three years immediately preceding the date of registration the number of days he was absent from the island does not exceed 300.” I am aware that this has become a technical difficulty since Caymanians do not have to sign the pink slip. Immigration really has no means of telling whether a person has been off the island the number of days as required under that particular Law. The Supervisor of Elections cannot really be sure that he is meeting that requirement of the Law.

I would not suggest that the Government is inclined to do anything about that particular part of the request, or in the Immigration Law. However, since I know that it exists, I simply inserted it there.

A Select Committee, as this Motion envisages, is no more than a Committee which would meet for less than one hour if it agreed that some of these things were desirable and acceptable, and make a recommendation to the House requesting that the few lines of amendments be drawn up by the Legal Draftsmen so that these could come into effect.

I have had occasion to speak with Members of the Government, in fact all of the Members of the House, on this particular Motion. There was an indication that some of these points were acceptable to the Government. That was about three or four days ago. I would not assume to say that it applies to today, Monday, 15th of July. So, I shall leave the Motion to the reply of whomever is going to reply to it. If it is accepted, that is fine, If not, I have been through elections where there have been no changes, and no doubt I will go through this one. However, that is the extent of this Motion.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I happened to have been in on those discussions the Mover referred to. While I am a rookie to this league, I certainly do not intend to start off by changing my position on something as abruptly as he suggested it may have changed.

Certainly, this is the season when the awareness of the mechanism and procedures with which we conduct elections is at its highest. This Motion has highlighted a number of areas which are deserving of attention. It is a bit like the rainy season reminding you that you have a leaky roof; it is not necessarily the best time to fix it as completely as you perhaps need to.

The Mover, having recognised the impracticalities of what can be done within the next two or three months, has presented a situation which the Government is quite willing to accept. It is hoped that when the Committee is appointed, a number of these points as set out in the Motion can be addressed in time for the upcoming election.

I simply conclude by saying that the Government is pleased to accept the Motion in the spirit in which the Mover has presented it.

The Speaker: Is there any further debate on this?

I should bring to the attention of the House that the Motion called for the appointment of a Select Committee, and it did not indicate whether the Committee should be comprised of five, seven or nine Members, or the whole House.

If the Mover is going to reply to that, I assume he realises that would close the debate, unless he was going to move an Amendment.

If no other Member wishes to debate then I will ask the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman to close off the debate.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you for bringing our attention to the fact that it asks for a Select Committee but did not state how many, or who would be on the Select Committee. When we discussed it, it was thought that it would be comprised of Elected Members and that we would ask the Attorney General to be a part of it...

The Speaker: I am sorry, but at this point that is not the prerogative of Members to decide who is to be Chairman, unless the Chair appoints no one.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker...

The Speaker: Are you Moving an amendment, then, that it would be comprised of the Elected Members?

AMENDMENT

Mr. Gilbert A McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker. That it would comprise of Elected Members and the Attorney General.

The Speaker: Is there a seconder for that? The First Elected Member for Boddan Town.

Mr. Roy Boddan: I respectfully beg to second that amendment.

The Speaker: Accordingly, the Motion would read: "BE IT RESOLVED THAT this Honourable House appoints a Select Committee comprised of all Elected Members of the House..." Is that correct then?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate and if there is nothing more the Mover has to say, I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

APPOINTMENT OF CHAIRMAN (Standing Order 69(2))

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Motion is accordingly passed. I appoint the Honourable Second Official Member responsible for Legal Administration as Chairman of the Committee.

AGREED. PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 4/96, AS AMENDED, PASSED.

The Speaker: It is now twenty minutes past 4 o'clock. Do you wish to continue to Private Member's Motion No. 5/96? Limitation of Political Contributions.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I see the numbering of the Motions, but I was of the impression that the Motion by the Third Elected Member for West Bay would have come next on the Order Paper.

The Speaker: Yes, I apologise for that. That is quite correct. Private Member's Motion No. 6/96, Amendments to the Liquor Licensing Law, 1985

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO.6/96

AMENDMENTS TO THE LIQUOR LICENSING LAW, 1985

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Madam Speaker, an amendment was recommended to that particular Motion. I am in the process of getting the notice done. In light of that, I wonder if we could adjourn early this afternoon and pick up again on Wednesday morning.

The Speaker: Would you like to move the Motion for adjournment? If it is seconded, I will put the question.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: I move the adjournment of this House until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The Speaker: Is there a seconder for that?
The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I beg to second that Motion.

The Speaker: The question is that this Honourable House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

AT 4.23 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL

The Speaker: I will ask the Fourth Elected Member for George Town to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Let us Pray.

For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever, Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Order. Proceedings are resumed.

Presentation of Papers and Reports. The Health Insurance Bill, 1996, and the Health Insurance Regulation, 1996.

The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

Health Insurance Bill, 1996

- and -

Health Insurance Regulation, 1996

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, on the 11th December, 1995, I tabled (as a white paper) for discussion and public feedback, a draft of a Bill relating to the provision of Health Insurance. At that time, I said that in March 1996, God's willing, I would present to the Legislative Assembly for approval the Revised Bill for the law, along with the Health Insurance Regulations. I now recognise that I was perhaps overly optimistic then, as much time has had to be spent making presentations to various interest groups, responding to both verbal and written suggestions and queries; as well as revising the proposed health insurance legislation to take account of the feedback which I have received.

I am very grateful for all the suggestions that I have received, and I appreciate the opportunity to express publicly my thanks to all those individuals who have enabled me to present to this Honourable House a Revised Bill for a Law Relating to the Provision of Health Insurance, as well as draft Regulations for the provision of Health Insurance. Without their assistance I do not believe that I could have achieved any proposal for health insurance provision which reflects the needs, hopes and aspirations of the people resident in these Cayman Islands. It is my intention to bring up for debate at the next Meeting of the Legislative Assembly the Revised Bill and the Revised Regulations.

At this time I am putting out the proposed legislation for public information and feedback prior to its being debated in the Legislative Assembly. With your permission, Madam Speaker, I will now take time to set out for your information, and that of Honourable Members, some of the concerns and recommendations which I received in relation to the Bill itself. They are as follows:

- ◆ There was objection on moral grounds to the inclusion of provision for health insurance for the common law spouse.
- ◆ It was felt that the proposed law discriminated against provision of health care by private medical practitioners.
- ◆ It was considered necessary for Government employees to be included in the provision for health insurance.
- ◆ Many individuals were concerned about those persons who are unable to obtain health insurance coverage because of a birth defect or other existing health condition.
- ◆ It was also felt that no Bill for a Law Relating to the Provision of Health Insurance should be debated in the absence of accompanying regulations.

- ◆ There was also concern about whether the proposed health insurance legislation would be introduced at the same time as the Pensions Law.

The Revised Bill, has responded to these concerns. However, because I wish to ensure that all of those concerned have an opportunity to be informed and respond to the contents of the revised Bill, I am tabling them at this time prior to the debate during the next Meeting of this Honourable House.

The Ministry for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation will avail itself of every opportunity to inform the residents of these islands on the implications of the proposed health insurance and how it relates to them. There are many benefits for the employee, the employee's unemployed spouse, and dependants. Also for the employer and self-employed persons. These are set out in the draft regulations. Most, if not all, persons will be covered by a standard health insurance contract at the very least, and each one will be free to obtain coverage in excess of the standard Health Insurance contract if he or she so chooses.

With the passing of the Law all legal residents of the Cayman Islands will be required to make provision for unexpected illness, and it will be a shared responsibility between employer and employee. Some may say that those employers who provide goods and services will pass on these costs to the consumer. But I must say that whether or not that is the case, we shall all continue to subsidise Government's provision of health care in these islands. Even if we do not use those services, unless health insurance is made compulsory, we all know that what Government collects from the people in revenue is what it uses to provide health care services.

As I said before, the cost to Government of providing health care in these islands continues to increase, and it is time for the consumer of the health care services to make preparation to pay for such services rather than to wait for sickness to be upon them and then wonder how they will pay the bills. We all know that in many of those cases the Government has had to bear the cost.

I will now move on to make a statement on the draft Regulations. In December 1995, when I tabled the Draft Bill for a Law Relating to the Provision of Health Insurance, I set out what I anticipated would be the maximum premium and health care benefits. In addition, I said that the regulations were in the process of being drafted and that they would be determined, to some extent, by the response to the Draft Bill. I am truly grateful for the response which I have received. I will now share some of this with you and Members of this Honourable House.

Perhaps the most common response was a strong desire to have a single premium rate for all ages, that is, that there should not be a separate and higher premium for those persons age 65 and over.

Provision is made under Out-Patient Benefits for visits to a registered medical practitioner, including a routine physical check-up, subject to a limit of $100 each calendar year. Also included in the Out-Patient Benefits is provision for emergency medical services subject to a maximum of $4,000 each calendar year, and, in addition, anti-natal services at a health care facility in the islands subject to a maximum of $500 each year.

Requests were made for just about every health care benefit including provision for periodic physical check-ups. Persons insured under the standard health insurance contract should have the choice of obtaining health care provided either by Government or the private sector. There was concern that the proposed health legislation would significantly increase the premiums presently paid under some medical plans. There was also concern about the powers of inspectors authorised under the proposed law and that the regulations should clearly set out the extent of those powers.

The Draft Regulations which I have tabled today, have been produced with all of these concerns and suggestions in mind. Without a doubt, some concerns and recommendations conflicted with others that we have received and we have had to strike a balance, wherever possible, so as to be as fair as possible to all involved.

The prescribed health care benefits are set out in Schedule 1 of the Draft Regulations and include in-patient and out-patient benefits. In-patient benefits also provide for treatment at an overseas health care facility, where the insured person is required to receive such treatment overseas, subject to confirmation by the Chief Medical Officer or two Registered Medical Practitioners.

Clarification is still needed in regulation 3 on how provision will be made for the high risk persons who, by reason of a medical condition or history of illness, have been refused coverage under a standard health insurance contract. The Health Insurance Advisory Committee is still working on this.

Finally, I am unable to say at this time what the expected health insurance premium will be. I have requested the local providers of health insurance to quote a premium based on the Revised Bill and Draft Regulations, and I expect this information by the end of next week. At the first opportunity after that, I will provide that information.

It is sufficient to say for now, that the schedule of benefits has been put together with the knowledge that the standard health insurance contract must be affordable to all legal residents of these Cayman Islands. The Revised Bill and Draft Regulations are not written in stone, and I am prepared to accept suggestions and make amendments wherever necessary. I look forward to the feedback that I will receive.

Thank you.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY SPEAKER

The Speaker: I have an apology from the First Elected Member for Bodden Town for his absence. He is not well.

I also have pleasure in welcoming as a visitor to this Parliament, Mrs. Diana Ellis, who for 20-odd years has been Secretary to the Barbados Parliament. She is on a visit here and will be joining Members later for refreshments.

We proceed to Questions. We will have to omit questions numbers 116 and 117, as the Member is absent. The question that will be dealt with this morning is number 118, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 118

No. 118: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development whether the formulation of the Medium-term Financial Strategy and Public Sector Investment Programme which was scheduled for completion at the end of March 1996 was completed and, if so, will the document be tabled in the Legislative Assembly.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the answer: The draft Medium-term Financial Strategy and Public Sector Investment Programme document is currently being amended to reflect appropriations made at the May 1996 Finance Committee Meeting, and to take account of the Loan (Capital Projects) 1993 (Amendment) Law and the Loan (Capital Projects) Law, 1996.

Once these changes are finalised, the document will be presented to Executive Council for its consideration. If these amendments are completed in time, the document could possibly be tabled during the September Meeting of this House.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member say how long this document has been worked on?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, between 18 to 24 months.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member say how many drafts have been prepared prior to the one that is being prepared now?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: This is the third substantial revision, but it is an ongoing document.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member say if the two previous drafts were presented to Executive Council for consideration?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The first document was presented, but that was reviewed for sometime and it ran into the second review and, as a consequence, the second is going into the third.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Based on the substantive answer given, that the last draft is being revised because of appropriations made in the May Finance Committee Meeting, is it anticipated that any draft will be tabled because of continuous activity in that area?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, it is likely that the draft document could be tabled. Although there is the process of continual updating of the document, we will have to bear in mind that it is unlikely that we will have requirements to the amounts (as were dealt with at the May meeting of Finance Committee) being put together to that level through the remainder of the year. This was quite a substantial sum of money that was approved to deal with various projects.

It is likely, when that is added to what was presented in the Budget document itself, I think that will absorb the capacity of the Public Works Department to carry out those projects as agreed upon through 1996.

The Speaker: The last supplementary. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member say what the general terms of reference are for the preparation of this document?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, the Medium-term Financial Strategy and Public Sector Investment Programme document is essentially a reference document outlining Government's development objectives and the possible capital projects and financial policies that could be employed to meet these objectives over a three year period. At present the Government outlines as development objectives, capital projects and financial policies for the year ahead in the Budget document. So to some degree, this document will be an extension of the Budget document. It is hoped that by developing a Public Sector Spending Programme over a three year period and supporting that with a rolling three year financing plan, rather than planning on an annual basis Government's finances, and for the economy to maintain a healthy position.

Medium-term planning of this nature with a proposed timetable of investments and outline of projected revenues could assist in reducing unplanned capital expenditure. Any additional unplanned capital expenditure may reduce the effectiveness of the proposed financial policy as it is likely to increase total expenditure. Therefore, in order to achieve a balanced budget, it may be necessary to trade one of the projects in the Public Sector Investment Programme for an additional unplanned project. The successful project should be one contributing most to the Government's development objectives.

We have had many instances where new projects have been brought to the Legislative Assembly. Wherever it is possible for projects that have received prior approval to be set aside in order for the funds that were allocated to that project to be freed up and put against the new project, this is what has always been done. As a consequence, in the preamble to the Finance Committee document, it has always stated the amount of funds to be blocked in order for those funds to be freed up to assist with the financing of unplanned projects as set out in the Finance Committee document.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Government Business, Bills. Suspension of Standing Orders 46 and 47. The Honourable Temporary First Official Member.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDERS

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Orders 46 and 47 be suspended in order that the three Bills as listed by the Honourable Temporary First Official Member be taken through all of their stages at this sitting.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Orders are accordingly suspended.

Second Readings.

SECOND READINGS

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY (IMMUNITIES, POWERS AND PRIVILEGES) BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Legislative Assembly (Immunities, Powers and Privileges) Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of the Legislative Assembly (Immunities, Powers and Privileges) Bill, 1996. This Bill simply seeks to expand the definition of precincts of the Legislative Assembly from merely the building to also include the external areas, such as the car park and the front steps.

The purpose of the Bill is to enable better regulation and control of persons who wish to visit this honourable institution. That control is vested in your honourable office, Madam Speaker, and I expect that all Honourable Members share my confidence in how it will be exercised in these proposed additional areas. I trust, therefore, that Honourable Members will find it possible to support the Bill.

The Speaker: The question is that the Legislative Assembly (Immunities, Powers and Privileges) Bill, 1996, be given a Second Reading. The motion is open for debate.

The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to support this Bill. It is unfortunate that individuals do not respect the office of Members of this Honourable House, and it is for that reason this Bill is now being brought.

I would like to share an incident which took place during the first sitting of this Session, when someone from the television station asked if I would make a comment on the amendment to the National Pensions Bill. In making my comment the lady Member for North Side had to stand by because an individual, namely Mr. Chris Wight, came by the cameraman making noise and comments to distract me from making my statement. That is very unfair to Members of this House, but it, unfortunately, does happen. We could say that this is being democratic because members of the public have the right to speak out. But there is a right time and place.

I feel that Members of this Honourable House should be protected and should have some protection within the precincts of this building, including the front steps and other areas, in order to be able to move back and forth freely and not be put down by individuals like Mr. Wight. Therefore, I support this Bill.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

(10.49AM)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I think it is very timely that an amendment to the Legislative Assembly (Immunities, Powers and Privileges) Law should come about. What is being proposed today is but a recognition of the changing times. Prior to now the premises of the Legislative Assembly were confined purely to the building. It did not extend beyond that area.

It is reasonable to believe and to expect that the premises of the Legislative Assembly should include the car park, the front steps, and the land surrounding the Assembly. When the Law was first passed it was sufficient to think of the building as solely the premises of the Legislative Assembly.

I remember in 1989 when I had the opportunity of attending a Commonwealth Parliamentary Association visit at the House of Commons in the United Kingdom and I witnessed not just security or control of the building, but, indeed, the car park and the areas surrounding that building. It was at that time that there was considerable violence by the IRA (not that it has stopped, it still continues). I remember seeing an MP drive up in a car outside the building and security was there with a gadget on that had a mirror with wheels on it which they ran underneath the car to inspect the car. I daresay, if anyone had attached explosives or any such thing to the car, it would have been detected.

We live in a time when persons, for various reasons and motivations, direct hostility or violence towards law and order. This Legislative Assembly represents the seat of law and order. Indeed, it is here that laws are passed. For the concept of the Legislative Assembly being that of the building itself and the front steps, the car park and the surrounding land not being a part of it is an oversight. These areas should be under the control of the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly. Persons who find themselves in these areas should understand that they are doing so with permission and that when they are in these areas certain rules apply.

In Erskine May one can find certain rules set down concerning Parliament. In fact, large crowds are not allowed on the land of the House of Commons. It is prescribed in the United Kingdom that even when petitions are being delivered to Ministers of Government that only a certain number of persons may enter to make those presentations. For the security, not just of the members who are Members of the Legislative Assembly at any given time, but out of respect for the symbol that this Legislature stands for, there should be certain rules and certain controls in place which everyone should be aware of. Members of the House as well.

Madam Speaker, I know you are aware as some of us are, that even persons invited into the Legislative Assembly by Members have to follow certain procedures, and certain persons are not invited into some areas of the Legislative Assembly as is practised in other Parliaments in the Commonwealth. It is taken very seriously as it should be. The business of Parliament is a very special business and, as such, the behaviour and the way things are handled should be in a special and prescribed manner. So, today, by the amendment to the Immunities, Powers and Privileges Law, we are getting much closer to the reality of the times in bringing about legislation that will more clearly and precisely define the boundaries of Parliament. I look forward to some point in time when there will be a complete review by this House or the Speaker's Office, or by some committee that is set up to take a careful look at practices and procedures within the precincts of the Legislative Assembly, such as: Crowd control. How closely are demonstrations allowed, who is allowed, at what time; precisely who is allowed within what areas here. That will be something for the benefit and the knowledge of all Members (present and future) who will, indeed, uphold these directives, rules and procedures in dealing with the legislative Assembly.

Madam Speaker, I certainly give this Bill my full support. I think it is very timely, it has taken some time to reach this far, but it is good that it has finally done so. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am very happy to see this Bill before the House today. The Bill, as the mover mentioned, widens the Legislative Assembly (Immunities, Powers and Privileges) Law to include the car park, the front steps and all other areas within the curtilage of the building.

As the last speaker mentioned, it has become far more difficult in the past few months for one to lead an ordinary life while attending, leaving or entering the Legislative Assembly. Gone are the days when Members were approached in a mannerly way, where we had a majority of people who were polite and did things in a normal fashion. If they had to ask you a question, they did it in the normal way. Unfortunately, a very small (and I mean a very small) minority of people - perhaps in my case limited to a few - when they see me coming into this Legislative Assembly they consistently insult me and curse me. I have had people curse me when my children are present. Mainly the same two people. This is just not right.

It is one thing to do it outside of this Chamber and outside of the precincts of this Legislative Assembly, but when people come into this House or in the public gallery or within these areas, they should have the proper manners. Even to try to give an interview to the television station, on many occasions I have had one of these boys (I would so have to call him, even though he is 35 years old) so near to me and the microphone on the steps of the Legislative Assembly that I could not conduct the interview. That has to be wrong. Despite the fact that I am a Member of the Legislative Assembly, I have rights the same as anyone else not to be continuously harassed and insulted. So do all other Members of this House.

This Law is going to bring back the respect... and thank you very much, Madam Speaker for the increased security in here. Perhaps I have lived life being too trusting, and perhaps I have felt too secure in many ways, in that on occasions not only did I leave my coat here but I would not lock my car. Well gone are those days, I am afraid, because there is just a minority of people creating these problems.

I think this House needs to legislate perhaps further, because the Third Elected Member for George Town, the Second Elected Member for George Town and I had a meeting in February on the steps of the Court building and the same thing that happened on the steps of the Legislative Assembly happened when we were tried to speak. We had that same gentleman up there within 18 inches of us. At one stage he picked up our microphone and used it, putting either a radio or a tape recorder on the podium in front of me. Police were there and I understand that they have now read up on the Public Order Law, which goes hand-in-hand with this. Having said that, Caymanians are, by nature, polite and honest, and the generations that are coming behind us have those good traits. We have very good people out there. There are only a few bad eggs, mainly about four or five from my point of view; people who are attempting to disrupt one's normal way of life in this Assembly. This has to stop.

The thing that is more important is that behind those people are usually politicians (when I say that I am speaking generally, I am not referring to anyone in the House), who are pushing them on. They sit back and are laughing. I remember seeing a politician standing there laughing when our meeting was almost stopped in February. A politician who I supported in the last election, laughing at five people disrupting our meeting. At one stage we took a decision whether to close the meeting or not.

I had the same thing happen on the steps here where I actually stopped an interview because this boy was right up in my face - a few inches away from me. The cameraman finally turned the tape off, and I said, "I am sorry, I cannot continue with somebody right there". This Bill will stop that, Madam Speaker.

I am very happy that it has been put forward. It is very timely and I would hope that the politicians who are out there pushing these few people on to do these things - which are definitely wrong in Caymanian society - will see the light. We are an easy-going, gentle people. If they think the public and Members of this House do not know who is agitating people to harass us, they are making a mistake. The people are wise. The television station might have only shown that person who was disrupting me on the steps here, but they all know who supports him. They all know who writes the letters in support, no matter what is done, whether it is the cow-itch in my coat which politicians have tried to justify.... That is wrong.

This is something that I hope will not only be put into Law, but will be enforced. Perhaps I am too easy going, I was assaulted within the Chamber and I said nothing about it. Until it came to a stage where the Member got up and tried to appear as if he was a little angel and discipline me in relation to what I had said about the cow-itch. Maybe I should try to change my way of life a bit and not accept the divergence that the few people who seem to be... and they get into the headlines of the newspaper, it is bad news so the newspaper and television pick it up and move it on. I would hope that the proper sanction by the press would say to these people, "Look, you should not try to disrupt people who are trying to conduct the business of the country.

Leave them alone, at least within the precincts, and the car park and the steps of this House."

I am very happy to see this. I guess I am perhaps too old now to really change my trusting and ordinary approach to life. I do not really think that I can change. But it does get to me at times. Believe you me, it really does. I am sure it gets to other Members because we have been put here by the vast majority of the people and the fact that two or three people do not like it... in a democracy this is the way it works. They can say whatever they wish, they can do whatever they wish, but they must respect other people's rights.

The unfortunate thing is that those who continue to harass me were raised by good parents in good homes, who must have gone bad after that. So I say that for what it is worth, it is no reflection on the parents who raised them. Some message has to be sent and, hopefully, this is the message that is now really going out to try to restrain them to do what is reasonable and normal. It is a totally different thing from when you are trying to give an interview or trying to make a speech and someone gets right up in your face and talks loudly. I actually saw the Second Elected Member for George Town turn around and say to one of the those boys, "Get out of my face".

The other thing that it can do is cause good people to get into trouble. That is something that I have been lucky has not happened to me. But there are other people whose temper is perhaps not as easy going as mine. However, there have been times when, I must tell you, it has been very hard to take the insults that one has received entering this Legislative Assembly. That is really why I go through the back door many times. That is unfortunate to have to say, but sometimes it is not worth the hassle of walking around the front and taking it from usually two or three people. That is the unfortunate part.

I believe all Members here support this Bill. The mistake made by the Member who hit me... he has apologised and so be it. But let us not forget that the insulting of Members or the assaulting of Members, not necessarily hitting Members, within the precincts of this House is a very serious criminal act. It carries far higher penalties in assaulting a Member outside or in the yards of the Legislative Assembly. Hopefully this amendment will send the message we need.

Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I, too would like to give my support to this legislation. I thank you for getting it done so quickly.

In all of my 12 years as a Member of this House, I have never been accosted in any way within the precincts of this Legislature. We have had tough battles between so-called Backbench and Government Bench (Opposition and Government if you will), but they have been battles of words as is expected in a medium of this sort. I will never forget that during the opening day of this meeting of Parliament I was accosted in the parking lot by one of the Wight twins. I do not know which one because I cannot tell the difference, but that is not the important thing here.

On another point, during an interview on national television I, too, had to put up with the nuisance of one of Mrs. Mary Lawrence's daughters who was up in my face (as we would put it) and I had to drive her off. This was on the steps of this Legislative Assembly. Now this is an election year, and it is expected that certain things will happen. But these people must learn that there is a distance that candidates, their supporters or their family members should not go.

This is the Parliament of the country and even if they do not support us or even respect us, they should respect the office we hold constitutionally in these islands. Understand that while this is the medium in which we conduct the public's business, no one section should interfere with those elected, within these precincts or anywhere else for that matter.

While they sometimes chastise us and say that we are not running the country right, there are other ways and means of expressing their dislike for this administration. They do not have to come to the Legislative Assembly, even within the corridors of this Legislature to harass Ministers or supportive Backbenchers. It is time that they stopped.

While I do not like to see the security in place, these are the times that we live in. I would prefer it being like the days when I used to walk in here, have a tough battle (and we had them if you remember) and walk out. Not to see the kind of security we have had to put in place recently. I say again (and I ring this bell of warning) that if they go this far, that kind of person would go further.

I said a few days ago that if this is how we have to operate in an election year or how we have to operate politics in this country, I want no part of it. Everyone knows that I do not run from any fight. I can stand my ground with the worse of people in this country. But there are limits for our families. Candidates with families who are involved in the process of electioneering, should be even more careful that their children do not go to the extent of embarrassing them as parents and doing things to hurt the national interest. Always remember that we too have parents who are alive. They do not want to see this happening; this is not the Cayman that we grew up in.

While I do not like to see the tough measures that we have had to put in place, we do need them. Not to say that the country is being put down in any way with political violence. We cannot give that impression. The warning bell that I ring is that if Members cannot come to the House with their minds clear, and we have to fear in any way the elements within our community that will attack us inside the parking lot, then we cannot do the people's business properly. We cannot come with a good feeling, we cannot come with a clear mind and there is a lot of business to be done. So all I ask of those people is that they carry on their electioneering the way they want to, but let us not damage the public interest. Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to give this Bill my support. It is a shame to know that the friendship and love, and the way that we used to live in these little islands has changed so much that we now have to use security in this Honourable House. If a few people think so little of our Honoured Members... regardless whether or not they support them, they are doing a job and a job well done. If some of them are even thinking of running to hold a position in this honoured hall, I think they had better get down on their knees and pray to God Almighty to give them a change of heart and mind first.

To hear of all of this interference that has taken place, something that I did not know about, I am happy that it did not happen to me. I hope it does not happen to any more of the Honourable Members. So with these few words, Madam Speaker, I give this Bill my full support.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I, too, rise to offer my support to this timely amendment to the Legislative Assembly (Immunities, Powers and Privileges) Law. We all know what triggered these actions. It was a terrorist act perpetrated on the Honourable Minister responsible for Education and Planning. I do know that it was alleged in political meetings that I did not even wash my hands being one of the persons identifying this substance after touching it with my fingernail. I do know cow-itch when I see it. But in all of my attempts, I have not been able to find anyone to confirm that they have seen cow-itch growing in sea grape trees.

Past politicians are trying to pass this off as a joke, even trying to raise doubts that it may not have been cow-itch in the Honourable Minister's jacket. I can say that I have been reliably informed that this substance has been analysed and confirmed to be cow-itch. So I hope that when people raise doubts in saying that it could have been one of his National Team colleagues who may have done this in trying to get sympathy for this Minister, we know that is a bunch of hogwash. People who would dare to enter these hallowed Chambers and do this would stop at nothing less than probably causing more serious damage to Members of this House.

I would be remiss not to thank you for your prompt action in enabling this legislation to be brought at such short notice to protect us. We all know that this is an election year, but I hope and pray to God that we do not see more of this rising as we go into an election. It is not needed. All this will do is damage our islands. Where are we going to go when this happens to us? Let us put this nonsense aside and go forward as one for the betterment of these islands. Thank you.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to give my full support to a Bill for a Law to Amend the Legislative Assembly (Immunities, Powers and Privileges) Law (1996 Revision). I want to thank you, Madam Speaker, for your prompt action in moving this amendment. It is much needed. It is with regret that I say that. I have seen much deterioration in conduct around the Legislative Assembly precincts during the 16 years that I have been privileged to be a Member of this Honourable House. We regret making statements of this nature.

We do realise that this is an election year, but the purpose of an election is to let the people speak and get the best Government possible, not to demonstrate who can be the biggest terrorist or who can show the most civil disobedience. It is really a process that we are privileged to have, and it is our responsibility, each and every one of us, not only those of us who have been honoured by being elected Members of this House, but those who aspire to be members and those who are younger who may in their later years have an opportunity to prepare themselves to serve their country.

I, too, some years ago had some experiences that I would like to be able to forget and would rather not have had to face - right on the steps of this Legislative Assembly. Nevertheless, I was allowed to speak. Democracy has continued to prevail and I certainly feel that the amendments we are making today will preserve the integrity of our nation, our Legislative Assembly and make the Cayman Islands a better place in which we can live and to preserve democracy for future generations.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: If no one else wishes to speak, I would ask the Temporary First Official Member to wind up the debate.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I simply wish to acknowledge the contributions of the Members who spoke and to thank them all for the support which they have expressed.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Legislative Assembly (Immunities, Powers and Privileges) Bill, 1996, be given a Second Reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED. THE LEGISLATIVE (IMMUNITIES, POWERS AND PRIVILEGES) BILL, 1996 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.28 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.12 AM

The Speaker: Please be seated.
Second Reading of Bills continuing.

SECOND READINGS

ELECTIONS (AMENDMENT) (ELECTION EXPENSES) BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Elections (Amendment) (Election Expenses) Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of the Elections (Amendment) (Election Expenses) Bill, 1996.

This Bill seeks to amend the Elections Law (1995 Revision) to provide a maximum level of expenditure that may be incurred by each candidate in general or by-elections. It also seeks to impose a maximum limit on the amount of contributions that may be made by individuals to candidates, and on the total contributions that candidates may accept.

There is an old saying that money cannot buy love. In essence, this Bill simply seeks to say that money cannot buy you an elected office. I expect that all Honourable Members will subscribe to such an adage, and I trust that they will find the Bill deserving of their support.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Elections (Amendment) (Election Expenses) Bill, 1996, be given a Second Reading. The Motion is open for debate.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Madam Speaker, I rise to offer my support to this very important piece of legislation. I am one of those representatives who is concerned about the trend and direction that politics is taking in this country. I first ran for political office back in 1988 with two other gentleman from West Bay. If we spent $3,000 on the election for T-shirts, caps, advertisements, etcetera, it was plenty. But when you compare that particular election with the 1992 Election, after the advent of television, the franchisees in that area laughed all the way to the bank because of the amount of money that was spent on the political campaigns in that year. Some of them are still being paid for.

What I am concerned about is that we are always in a position where good people, regardless of the financial resources they have personally or otherwise to support them, can get out there and offer their services as a representative to the people of this country. It has gotten so bad in places such as the United States that if you are not in a position to raise $20 million or $25 million you do not even talk about getting in the race to run for an elected office. I would never want to see those conditions prevailing in this country.

I believe that our people have always voted for those whom they felt were honest, hardworking and who had their interests at heart. But with today's environment you can make anybody look good and convince a lot of people by spending enough money in doing so. I do congratulate the Government for bringing this very important piece of legislation. I believe it is a move in the right direction because I feel that with the amount of individual interest that we see springing up in this country, we need to put in place certain safeguards, certain limits regarding financial contributions in support of anyone's political campaign. So, I do support this very important piece of legislation. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I rise to speak on the Bill for a Law to Amend the Elections Law (1995 Revision). I do not know how many of us in here realise how significant this piece of legislation is. In my opinion it is to be one of the most significant pieces of legislation that the country will ever pass.

This Bill is addressing a matter which is something being discussed in most civilised and democratic countries of the world, that is, the containment of campaign spending and the prescribing the amounts of donations or contributions that are made to campaign funding. It is of particular significance to Cayman, because as recently as the last election there was evidence that huge sums of money were spent, propelling public opinion in a particular direction. This happened through the supply of food and drink, through numerous advertisements in the newspapers, through numerous advertisements on television; and the people who fell through the cracks were those who were not able to compete similarly. The success came to those who were. There were one or two exceptions in Cayman Brac. Fortunately the people there still made up their minds more on the individual contact than on the large-scale assault through advertising media.

I can give my support to this Bill because it generally addresses areas that need to be addressed in terms of campaigning, campaign advertisements and campaign funds. I shall speak to some of these points, knowing that, as usual, what I say will be interpreted for me by others who speak after me who are waiting patiently for me to speak, while the majority sit here in silence.

As the Chair is aware, I have on the Order Paper a motion which covers, to some extent, points which are raised in this Elections (Amendment) (Election Expenses) Bill. I think by virtue of the fact that this Bill is before the House now, it will deal with matters that are requested in the motion and which would over-ride some of the requests in it. So at the point when my motion would come forward, I will seek the Chair's indulgence to withdraw it. However, in reference to the point that I would like to make, I would like to refer to what that particular Private Member's Motion is. It is Private Member's Motion 5/96 entitled Limitation on Political Contributions and Political Campaign Spending and it reads: "BE IT RESOLVED..."

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I think that you are well aware that you cannot anticipate something that is on the Order Paper. If you have any points to make, please deal with the Bill as it is before you at this time.

Thank you.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, all I wish to do with the motion is to read what the resolve section said, and to illustrate why I think it would fall away in the face of the Bill which is before the House.

However, to continue on the matter of elections, campaign spending and corruption which become evident and rampant because there are no controls on spending, I would like to refer to a text entitled, Money and Votes, written by Martin Linton, and published by the Institute for Public Policy Research in London. In the Introduction it says, and I quote: "Political equality is fundamental to a democratic system. People are unequal in the market place, but they are equal in the polling booth and this political equality is an essential counterweight to their economic inequality. But this works only as long as the wealthy cannot use their economic power to buy or to corrupt political power. Thus it is a basic requirement of a democracy that political power should be insulated from economic power. Indeed, the separation of wealth and power is the essence of a democratic system. If wealth is able to buy power, then even a system that is perfectly democratic in form, will not be democratic in effect. It will be a plutocracy rather than a democracy." Madam Speaker, I think that speaks to the fundamental concept of elections being fair and the people who stand for elections being able to stand in the political arena on an equal or level footing.

The Bill before the House now speaks of limiting expenditure to candidates to $10,000 per person. If it is so passed it would (according to the Law) limit that expenditure to $10,000. I must say that I disagree with that figure of $10,000. Realistically, when one takes into account the cost of advertisement in the newspaper - a full page ad is close to $1,000, television time is extremely expensive. If one takes into account other tools of campaigning, the T-shirts; banners; give-a-ways (rulers, pencils, and the other things), my colleague and I who were moving the Private Member's Motion, did a realistic costing on these various areas which came out to be $14,000 plus. We rounded it off to $15,000, which is contained in the Private Member's Motion which I referred to earlier. So I think $15,000 would be a more realistic figure in looking at the costs that one would incur in setting up an advertisement campaign in an election year for any given candidate. Of course, there are also labour costs involved, people preparing advertisements and the like. Ten thousand dollars in the Cayman setting is very scant indeed.

I would note at this point that this applies to all candidates when they become candidates in the election - when they have paid the $1,000 fee to become a candidate and have signed on the dotted line and have the persons who support their candidacy signing on their behalf. That is an equalising factor. However, one must weigh on the other hand the situation of the people who are in Government who will become candidates in this forthcoming election and their means and access to public advertisement about their good stewardship, as they no doubt would say they have done.

I take into account the fact that on the 13th of May, approximately $60,000 was voted in the Budget for television advertising for the Government. That advertisement was to show all of the good things the Government has done in various departments and otherwise. That is free money to the Government which is the public's money at use, but other candidates would not have similar access to that expenditure.

I have heard that somebody who is connected with the television station has said that it might not be such a wise thing to support this Bill, that is, candidates other than the Government, because so much free television time will become available to the Government at the expense of the public purse. Other people in the election will not have similar television time available to them. In truth, it would be the $10,000 plus whatever else is spent from public funds. It is a point that I take seriously, and one which I certainly will take more advice on in the immediate future.

The principle, however, of limiting the funds which can be spent does make much sense, and it helps the democratic system in that it levels the playing field. The book I referred to earlier has something on this particular aspect. I quote where it says: "But the essential point is the principle of political equality which lies at the heart of our liberal democratic tradition. Voters should have not just the right to vote, but the right to vote in elections where the parties compete on equal terms. [Speaking, of course, of Britain and parties more than individuals as it is given to here to some extent]

John Rawls argues in a Theory of Justice that it is a precondition of justice that all citizens have an equal right to determine the outcome of the process that establishes the laws with which they are to comply. This can only be guaranteed by 'fair rivalry' for political office.

Professor Keith Ewing, professor of public law at King's College, uses the analogy of a race where people can compete on different vehicles. One participant turns up on a bicycle and the other in a sports car. It is not impossible for the bicycle to win. The sports car might break down or the driver might lose the way. But the two runners can hardly be said to start with an equal chance." I think that is what equalising the process is about - the millionaire might stand for political office in Cayman (as we have a few who are doing) and the average citizen, who can only raise $10,000 to use in advertisement. The very term, 'the level playfield' is used throughout this publication (which my colleague found dealing with this subject is as recent as 1994).

I would like to refer to what caused England to get into the act of equalising what is spent. It was interesting to me to find out that it is that way in the United Kingdom. A historical note here speaks of an incident which I think would be informative to the country to some extent. It is here where the book speaks of another analogy of the level playing field. "The phrase was brought into political currency by the supply-side economists of the Tory right. They used it to argue against state intervention and state subsidies to industry. But with its implicit appeal to the rules of a game, which are designed to give each team an equal chance, it is a metaphor that is better applied to election campaigns. It captures the essential idea that both sides should start with the same amount of money, with the same access to the public through advertising, broadcasting and the press and the same claim on public resources.

"This can be done either by levelling up so that each party has enough money (through state aid) or by levelling down so that no party can exploit an unfair advantage (through limits on campaign spending) or by a combination of levelling up and levelling down (such as free, but limited, television advertising). The essential idea is that politics should be played on a level playing field." The thing that brought this about which caused the United Kingdom to pass the Corrupt and Illegal Practices Prevention Act relates to what is stated here. "From the earliest days of the universal franchise, it was seen as an essential principle of a democracy that economic power should not be able to buy political power. It was not enough for the Reform Act of 1867 to extend the franchise. The law had to go further and ensure that the voters were protected from the economic power of the wealthy to bribe or intimidate them as they cast their ballots. The first step along that road was the Secret

Ballot Act of 1872. But while secrecy protected the voters from intimidation, it did not stop wealthy candidates from trying to bribe them. In the six months before the 1880 election, one MP is recorded as having made contributions to 15 chapels, 17 churches, 23 cricket clubs and 150 institutions in his constituency in order to secure his re-election.

"The official returns for the 1880 election showed that candidates spent £1,736,781. At today's prices this would be £79,309,222. The real cost of the election was, according to contemporary estimates, closer to £2,500,000. At current prices that is £114,161,230."

The table in the book shows that £34,315,400 was actually spent the 1992 election in the United Kingdom. It gives a historical perspective and shows how when corrupt practices have been stopped, the opportunity of people buying other people and their votes can be hindered. But as I read the various contributions made by this Member of Parliament to the chapels, churches and cricket clubs and institutions, it caused me to be somewhat reflective of contributions that we hear about in our own country at this time.

The information that is available regarding the reasons for capping political advertisements and political contributions is numerous. I have a large amount of information which has been taken from the Internet where in the United States there is a major move afoot to bring about even more controls on spending in their elections. The speaker before me, the Third Elected Member for West Bay, made mention in his contribution.

In one of the articles which I got from the Internet by Randolph T. Holhut, entitled Getting Big Money Out of Politics, he notes that money, with "...the enormous amount of it that is being spent to get people elected to office - has become a big issue in the 1996 presidential campaign. A potential candidate now has to come up with $20 million to be considered credible and raise another $20-25 million to make a successful run for the White House." That is just speaking of the United States.

There is reference made to the many candidates who have their own money to spend, and how money has really overtaken the United States in a big way. There is no doubt that when persons contribute large sums to anyone's campaign, they naturally feel that they have purchased certain interests in that person. While some grin, and guffaw over those thoughts and the things that I am saying, all of us know in reality that is what happens here in the Cayman Islands; we know who are the favoured few; we know who gets the ear of Government - it continues to this time.

Certainly, people do not contribute large sums of money simply because they love a candidate (or there would be less of that I am sure), but because of the fact that they believe candidates may be highly electable and candidates may favour some particular venture or business undertaking that they are into. That is why I personally believe that certain corporations, such as banks and trust companies or partnerships, should not contribute to campaign funds for candidates. Owners, partners or shareholders in those companies may do so, but that is a more personal right of the individual.

Some of the information that I have, titled "United States Code, Title 2", "The Congress, Chapter 14", "Federal Election Campaign, subchapter I", "Disclosure of Federal Campaign Funds, section 441b", "Contribution or Expenditures by National Banks, Corporations, or Labor Organizations", which says: "It is unlawful for any national bank, or any corporation organized by authority of any law of Congress, to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with any election to any political office...." To some people it would become fairly easy to understand why, if some banks laid out large sums of money to candidates who were successful, let us say, and that bank had underwritten the campaign cost of the people who were successfully elected; let us say the Government had to go to take certain loans (as is the case of the Government of the day with its multiplicity of loans) one would then wonder, would that bank get any particular consideration or favour?

I think the Bill should include a section here that would make the campaign contributions, particularly to the individual and not to the corporations, banks, trust companies, as the case may be. I do not know whether contributions have come from such entities in the Cayman Islands. But certainly since a Bill is being brought to the Legislative Assembly to be amended, it would be the perfect time to ensure that such a clause was in it.

The amount of $2,000 is reasonable in that the need is there for finding campaign funds. All candidates, one way or another, need to have campaign funds and there is only a relatively small pool of persons who are in a position to give contributions. For that small pool it should be kept within a reasonable limit. Some of the information that I was able to get regarding an effort in the state of California says to limit it to $200. But then there are a few million people in that state of the United States. So one could see that large sums of money could be raised through such an effort. Our pool of people here, maximum population 30,500... certainly not even half of that would so contribute. Taking that and the amount of $2,000 into account to me seems reasonable.

The Bill also provides for a candidate to be responsible for the money spent on his or her behalf. I see that as being necessary since it is the case that individuals are seeking office, one needs to tie it to these individuals to have someone accountable. However, there is a part of the Bill with which I have some disagreement, that is, that a candidate must not collect more than the $10,000 as representing the limit on the advertisement for the election. I say that from this point of view in that, unfortunately, the Cayman Islands is subjected to the malady that only every four years there is something called politics and campaigning; only every four years people are called to book for the promises made four years prior; we are only supposed to scrutinise those persons every four years; the efforts to educate and to communicate with the people only occurs every four years. I disagree with that. I believe candidates, certainly representatives and groups of which they are a part, have an ongoing obligation to the public. The least that should be done by these groups or these persons is to have an office where they can be contacted, where the administration of it is paid for (the telephone, the facsimile, the electricity), and that it is a place where the public can go to meet the people who they elected. What has happened here in the Cayman Islands is that there is what is called an 'MLAs' Office' which is paid for in a large part by public funds.

What I am suggesting is that there should be enough concerned contributors in this country who wish to see good government (be it of whatever policy leaning) that their contributions could be collected and be used to ensure that the political economy continues throughout a four year term and not end at one election and suddenly flare up at the beginning of another campaign. So from that perspective, I think contributions may be made by persons specifically for this campaign, or this election perhaps. But there should not be anything to hinder a person who might wish to contribute to that group in an effort to carry on their promises or policies, through a means of keeping a machinery in place for public interaction and public information.

The Speaker: Would this be an opportune time to take a luncheon suspension?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended until 2.30 PM.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.59 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.54 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman continuing the debate.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, in debating this motion, I think it is necessary for one to consider that by limiting the heretofore unfettered expenditure on campaigns, there could arise temptation for would-be candidates to use money other than in campaigning, by directly influencing votes or buying favours. In fact, I was asked that question. I thought that this limiting of expenditure on campaigns might cause such a thing to happen. I daresay that such thoughts may arise, indeed such things might actually happen. But already in the Elections Law are sections which deal with treating and bribery and, should such occur, the persons would run afoul of the Law.

The Bill provides in section 53D that "No sum shall be paid and no expense shall be incurred by a can- didate at an election, less than 110 days before, or during or after an election, on account or in respect of the conduct of management of the election which shall exceed in aggregate $10,000..." It does seem that the law in effect is saying that any expenditure by a candidate, 110 days before an election would fall under the requirements of this law. One could look at that as being somewhat unreasonable.

Only today someone asked when the campaign for the 1996 election is really going to start. In the minds of many people campaigning really has not started as yet. Normally it is around September, on Nomination day, that one finds campaigning starting in earnest. There are, of course, certain candidates who are putting out messages on television or in the newspaper which is reasonable to do. But it certainly does further stretch $10,000 to cover advertisements over a period of approximately four months. So, as I mentioned earlier, $10,000 seems an extremely small amount of money if one is to really have an effective advertisement campaign.

There are penalties contained in this Bill, as they rightly should be, for the law would be of little use if it was not so framed. The amounts are substantial and should act as deterrents for anyone who might attempt to break the law. I think, too, there is a considerable amount of discipline imposed by having time limits on filing the returns on expenditure which forces persons to keep an account of expenditures and to be more conscious, I am sure, of how money is spent. Also for the people with whom a candidate might be dealing, purchasing particular goods or advertising materials, that they submit their bills promptly (which some tend not to do, and they come in months after an election when money has gone to pay other expenses). It means digging deeper into the pocket to meet some of the delinquent bills.

Generally speaking, I think this Bill cannot be seen as perfect. But I do believe the Cayman Islands is entering into an undertaking that is indeed futuristic, if one would argue that it does not totally apply to the present, which I think it does. It is a way of guaranteeing to some extent a disciplined, straightforward limitation on what happens in elections in the Cayman Islands, and it creates the condition whereby there is a levelling of the playing field where it gives each candidate equal standing to money that is spent towards any given campaign.

As I have read and noted in what I think is an extremely good text on this particular area of elections and the process of a population choosing its leaders, the whole matter of elections and of capping funds is to come up with that very fundamental principle of political equality which is so desirable in a democracy such as ours.

Madam Speaker, I give this Bill my support and I stand prepared to argue the points which I have raised and on which I have some disagreement.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, there is not much more that needs to be said on this issue. I certainly want to add my support to this amendment.

This amendment came about when we discussed the Register of Interests in the Select Committee. I do not want it left unsaid, nor left for anyone to believe that this came about by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, or anybody else. Except that the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning during the course of the meeting talked about it and asked us whether we would support it. We had discussions on it and this is how this amendment came into being. The next thing we know there is a motion asking for it to be done.

POINT OF ORDER

(Misleading)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: May I hear the point of order, Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, what the Minister for Community Development has just said is not founded in fact. The Private Member's Motion to which I spoke about earlier was in the Clerk's office. I understand the discussion that he is talking about was on the 28th day of May when the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and I were in London. The Motion was in the Clerk's office before that time.

The Speaker: The Member has a point there, Honourable Minister.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, if I may, that is not correct. All the Members of the House know it because they were all there. Those two Members were in the Committee. This is not something that we should be haggling; they were in the meeting and at the time the Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman said to the Minister for Education, "I do not normally agree with you Truman, but at this point I want you to know that I will fully back you in what you are doing." Those are his exact words. It is not a big point, but what I am saying is that the Minister for Education and Planning brought it to the Committee while the two Members were there. They agreed. These are the facts of it.

The Speaker: If the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman will withdraw his point of order....

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I will not withdraw my point of order because what I have stated are the facts. Everybody can make up their own mind as to the truth of it. What I have stated is the fact.

The Speaker: If there is a point raised and it needs to be substantiated, then I need to see the documents. If there are copies of the Minutes of the Meeting, I think it was said the 28th of May, which one can present I would like to see that. Then let us clear it up. A point of order has been raised. It has not been withdrawn. Once I see the documents I can say whether it is a valid point of order or not.

Is anyone prepared to present a paper to substantiate either one of the statements? I am prepared to have a pause in the day's occupation.

(pause)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I am sure that the Minutes will confirm what I am saying. I do not have them with me.

The Speaker: Give a minute and let us see if we can find them. Madam Clerk, can you help with that, please?

(pause)

I have here a copy of the Minutes of Proceedings from the 31st of May. Is that the date you referred to Honourable Minister?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I do not recall the date. What I recall was the conversation in the Committee.

The Speaker: Well, in the Minutes of the 31st of May there is a note here for apologies from the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town - off the island. The last page (which is page 3), states: "Amendment to the Elections Law: Agreed that Legislative Council draft an amendment to the Elections Law to provide that a candidate's maximum election contribution expenditure shall be CI$12,000." That is the 31st of May. The Private Member's Motion was presented to the Clerk's office on the 24th of May.

Have you any other comments to make to that Honourable Minister?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I merely stated the facts of what went on in the Committee. I do not know exactly what date it was. I do know that what I said is exactly what the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman said to the Minister for Education and Planning when the matter was raised. That is the first time the matter was raised, in the Committee.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, unless somebody can clearly show me any document that is different, this was on the 31st of May when the Member was off the island. If there was a subsequent meeting to that at which the matter was raised...

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, there had to be because the Member was there. Now, what I would ask you to do, since people want to pursue this thing and deny it, please take a suspension and let us look at the whole Minutes.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, the only point that I am making is that the Motion which is on the Order Paper now relating to the amendment to the Elections Law was submitted by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town and I before the 31st of May. It would be a strange day in the Cayman Islands when I had to hear a discussion that would prompt me to write a motion about something that had been discussed by the Government Members.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, can we take a suspension and look at all the Minutes of Proceedings? I had no stretch of the imagination that the Member would object, because I know the Member was there. He reached his hand across the table and shook the hand of the Minister for Education and Planning and said, "Mr. Truman Bodden, I support you in this and let us do it." I ask that we take the suspension so that we can look at this.

The Speaker: Just a minute Honourable Minister. I already have the Minutes of the proceedings for the 31st of May. Apparently there was a meeting scheduled for the 10th of June. I need to see those Minutes.

Would the Serjeant-at-Arms ask the Clerk to let me have a copy of those Minutes? There could not be any meeting before, it would have to be after the 31st of May. That will take a short time.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, are you saying that it could not be before the 31st of May?

The Speaker: With the discussion? Yes, because the Member was away on the 28th to the 31st of May. There was nothing in the Minutes of Proceedings about this sum of money to be included in the Elections Law.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I do not recall the entire discussion. But I recall the suggestion about limitation of campaign spending. I am not saying it was the 12th or the 15th... it might have been the 12th at that time. All I know is that it was a day early in May when those two Members were at the table.

One Member is saying to me across the way, that it was on the 8th of May. I do not remember the day, but certainly other Members know because they were there.

It is possible, too, Madam Speaker, that it was not carried in the Minutes. I remember the discussion. But if the Member is going to deny that amongst all the Members who were there, then so be it.

The Speaker: There was a meeting on the 8th of May, and a following one on the 25th of June. I do not see anything in the Minutes for the 8th of May. This was dealing with the discussion form for the Register of Interests. (pause)

The other meeting was the 25th of June and there is nothing in that.

As far as the records show, I cannot say what went on in the discussions. The Member has raised a point of order. Unless I can have something in writing. Would you just pass that over please?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, Madam Speaker. It is okay.

The Member knows what I am saying is the truth and other Members know. It is not a major point. The fact is, I remember that conversation. But I guess that would be like the point about Social Security which he did not talk about either when it is in the newspapers and in the Hansard.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, please keep to the subject, which is the amendment to the Elections Bill.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I am trying to do that. But it really gets to a point when people are jumping up and down saying that they did not say this and the Hansard carries it - like the Social Security.

The Speaker: If I could just ask you not to repeat that again, Honourable Minister. You know that you should not.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I should not. I just find pleasure in doing it, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: And I find pleasure in bringing your attention to the fact, sir. Please continue.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Having gone through this little ordeal here, the Member made several points - in fact twisted several points - and sailed close to the wind in making allegations against Government. There was the complaint about the advertising vote in the Budget. How can anyone term this electioneering? Government has a Government Information Service; that information service is there to carry the messages regarding the work of Government, be it Elected Members, departments under the Elected Members or Official Members. This is not something for elected members alone to use, and certainly it will not be that way. The cry in the country (most of the time) is that we do not give enough information; we are putting forward schemes and are doing things and the public is not aware of it. Certainly, I find myself in the position as one Minister, who has had to have a medium by which the public can better understand what is being attempted.

When we see the confusion thrown into debates, into questions, it is better that the public hear for themselves. That is all that is taking place. It is no more than what has been carried out over the years. Government has an information service and we are using it to tell the people what we are doing.

The Member made some remarks about the contributions and payments in this country. Just after one election to the next election (a four year period) during that four year period there are plans, for instance, for parks; groups: Girl's Brigades, Duke of Edinburgh Award Scheme, Scouting, which we give grants to, and many other needy and worthy causes. We have the means - it is passed by the House. But this is a four year period.

Why would that Member try to impute that the giving of contributions and payments by this Government is something to garner votes? It is because they have attempted to smear Government and they are not getting away with it. The public understands that what they are saying is a bunch of nonsense.

I, for one, have never believed that the spending of large amounts of funds should be the means by which someone propels themselves into elected office. I believe that you must have some contact with the people; that you should not just get up and be able to have hundreds of thousands of dollars at your disposal given by other people or even your own money which pushes you into office. My personal belief is that you should have proven yourself in the community. I, for one, certainly do not believe that we should spend these large amounts of money.

I heard the Member talking about the amount of money that was spent for the by-election in Bodden Town. But that went on on both sides. I believe that the person in this House connected with that can give a good account of themselves. But I do not think that anyone did any more than the other. If anything, the one who lost did a lot more. So you had to wonder whence the money came.

There is negative advertising, and there is down-right dirty advertising. I would love to see it stop because it does not do any good. I even see that these days the facsimile machine is being used.

When it comes to funds... there was a debate on national television where a candidate, a former member of the House, got up and said that it was not true that he had taken any funds from any particular team. The funds that were given to him were his. Yet, it was pushed all around that the money was not his and he had taken some of it. I am sure that the Member interrupting just now knows what I am talking about.

We believe that this is the right thing to do. We believe that this is the right amount. If I had my way with it, it would put less because the way to do it is to go to your people and keep among your people. You should not have to wait until election time to do dirty campaigning to get into office. I support this Bill. While I could not get the amount to be less, I will have to go with the amount contained in the Bill.

I will close by saying that some people can get up and talk about what others do, but we never hear what they have done. You hear about advertising in Bodden Town, but you never hear about the cows in Cayman Brac.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Having just recently contested in the by-election in the district of Bodden Town, rumours are rampant as to the large amount of money that was spent in support of my campaign. I can assure this Honourable House and the public that these rumours are unfounded. Before I entered that political race last December, I made it quite clear to those who encouraged me that I would be doing it my way, and that was the honest way.

In my opinion this Law will put to rest these sorts of rumours by candidates who are unsuccessful and must find someone to blame rather than themselves for losing the elections and their supporters too.

Madam Speaker, I support this Bill. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to support this Bill. I believe that this amount is fair, considering the cost of advertising. For individual new candidates who would like to get their point across this is a reasonable amount. Candidates who are up for any general election or by-election will be able to get elected through their actions, and no amount of money should be needed if they act in the right manner.

I am sure that the public will look at an individual's track record to see how much they have contributed to the community, not monetarily but time-wise, and at what they can do for them as a representative. It is irrelevant how much an individual spends if they can prove that they would be a good representative.

I would like to see the action under section 53C of this Bill, subparagraph (5)(a) taken a bit further. Here one could say that 'ignorance is bliss'. It says: "the act or omission took place without his consent or connivance;...", that is the consent of the candidate or the person that is running. It is hard to prove that a candidate knew or did not know that an individual was acting on his behalf. It says that he has to have it in writing. However, if an individual commits this offence there is nothing that can be done to the individual who commits the act without the permission of the candidate. In other words, individuals can go out and campaign on behalf of a candidate and the candidate can say that they did not give written consent or that they did not know about that taking place and the individuals can get off without any penalty. There is nothing in the law. Do we just slap them on the hand and say, you should not have done that, when the damage might have already been done, and money already spent on that individual, perhaps even dirty advertising took place? I would like to see that extended in a better form, perhaps making it a criminal offence.

One of the things that makes this Bill very good is that invoices are to accompany the claims in respect of expenses. Therefore no individual can say, "well, I paid for an advertisement" or "I forgot that this advertisement ran", or whatever. Invoices must accompany all expenses. This, I am sure, will prevent anything from being left out.

There is an advantage for Members working with Members as a team as mentioned earlier, for example, individuals in George Town. If there is a group of say three, there is a total sum of $30,000. However, for individuals from East End and North Side, for instance, they are restricted to the sum of $10,000. But that is the case when we have more individuals as representatives, there is not much that can be done about that.

Under section 53A(2) it says "Every payment made by a candidate in respect of any election expenses shall, except where it is less than $25, be vouched for by a bill stating the particulars and by a receipt." Individuals can purchase a ream of paper and run it off printing from a computer and it amounts to less than $25.00. Again, I feel that this should have been less, perhaps say $10.00. All expenses should be accounted for whether it be $10.00, $25 or even $10,000 for flyers in any way. There are ways of getting around it if this section is left as it is. There are a lot of flyers for advertisement that can be made for less than $25.00.

In any system it can be beaten if that individual is not honest or wants to have his way. In general, I am pleased to see this. As other Members, I am happy to have this for the upcoming election in November. Therefore I support this Bill.

Thank you.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to offer my contribution to a Bill for a Law to Amend the Elections Law (1995 Revision). In the Committee I listened carefully when we were discussing this law and the reforms that we are making here today do not affect me. I have run successfully in four general elections and my entire expenditure does not come up to the sum that we are talking about as a maximum for any one campaign. Long before I entered the political arena it was my policy to help those who needed help. I contribute regularly to the needy folks in my district, meeting with them on a regular basis not only to discuss political needs, but their physical needs as I feel that doing this is of more benefit to my community (being a small constituency). Therefore, I do not have a requirement for major advertisement either through printing or television. The clauses in the Bill will not affect me, but I am glad to know that we are putting safeguards in place.

I feel it is an honour to be elected to serve my people and to be an Honourable Member of this House. Therefore everything that we do should be honourable. If this is what it takes to keep us in line, then I support this Bill. It will ensure, I do believe, a good general election. I look forward to a peaceful election. Thank you.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, would the Honourable Temporary First Official Member wish to reply?

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: No, Madam Speaker. I have nothing else to add. Thank you.

The Speaker: The question is that the Bill entitled the Elections (Amendment) (Election Expenses) Bill, 1996, be given a Second Reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED. THE ELECTIONS (AMENDMENT) (ELECTION EXPENSES) BILL, 1996 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Second Readings continuing.

SECOND READINGS

REGISTER OF INTERESTS BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Register of Interests Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Bill before us today is not one which the public has been clamouring for. So there has not been much public debate on it. However, it is to the credit of the Parliamentarians of this country that we believed that since this matter was on the business paper of this House since September 1989 we should put it into law. It is something which can only contribute to the national interest and assists the preservation of public confidence in our democratic system.

The Committee dealing with this law has been de-liberating since 1994 with the Deputy Speaker, the lady Member for North Side as its chairman. I would like to publicly offer my thanks to her for her diligence in that Committee. We believe that we have a law that contributes to allaying such doubts as may enter marginally, on the political scene. All of us are aware that no matter what law we put in place, it will never stop evil-minded persons from making unfounded allegations and telling outright lies. Those of us who suffer attacks and accusations on our integrity from vicious persons (such as has been taking place in this country) will continue to be targeted in this manner as long as we are in the public domain, no matter what law is in place and how close we follow it.

We operate a democratic system of government and we must always be concerned about the efficacy, the integrity and the effectiveness of our political system. There are many factors when positively present, may lead to success and when negatively absent, can lead to failure. We as Members should leave no stone unturned to contribute to the success of the system and minimise the danger of failure. On the matter of consideration of this kind of legislation the question of private versus public interest can arise. It could be that a person would feel that the invasion of privacy would be so great as to outweigh the advantages to the public interest. We have agreed to look at it in a wider context.

My position and my attitude over my 12 years as being elected to this honourable House are that when I entered politics, by that very act I had turned my back on my private person and had made myself a public servant. While there is a line between our privacy and our public duty, we cannot really (by any stretch of imagination), regard our entry into politics as part of an act of private surrender. For in this day and age when some are so willing to adjudge us wrongly, our surrender to the public scrutiny must be measured in large enough quantities to as much as is possible, show willingness on our part to be open. Many times I have to ponder, how can people be so viscous? Why are some of our people, small in number though they be, so willing to think the worse of their fellowman.

One of the sad traits in some Caymanians is that jealousy and envy run so prevalent that a person cannot own a decent home for their family or drive a decent car or own a successful business before fingers are pointed and accusations made. What it seems to me is that outsiders come here and own big homes, have big cars, and are made directors of companies with many perks, that seems to be okay. That is fine and dandy. Let it happen. A Caymanian is in the same position and that is wrong.

Madam Speaker, it should be pride and joy when we find a capable Caymanian to be asked to serve as a director in a reputable institution or to own a good home for his family or to have a decent car if they have done all of this in the proper fashion - in the right way. Once it does not impinge upon public interest. But it seems to me that we must not do that, Caymanians (at least some) seem to think that is wrong.

When we look at our history in this country (as anyone who knows the history can tell us), the practice of elected people doing political work along with their personal business has been part of our way of life for decades. It has been accepted as legitimate for as long as we can remember. It is interesting that as long as a certain class of individuals were doing it, no murmur of protest was heard.

I would like to use myself as an example. In recent years when people like me, along with others, have come to political prominence while still being in business, under-handed campaigns begin to smear us by suggestions, by innuendoes, by sarcasm, without any basis. In fact, when earlier politicians were in business that was fine. Now that we have our businesses, that is wrong. That is a strange shift in position and we have to wonder what it is based on. As I said, I thought people would be proud, rather than make accusations. The sad reality is that people like me are being subjected to character assassination by implication, and the further reality is that gossip (as we all know) is often accepted as truth by the man in the street. Mind you, these instigators are very clever in their work because they never actually accuse you of anything specifically; they do not make any charges, but they phrase their remarks or questions in such a way as to leave the impression that you are doing something illegal or immoral or dishonest. As I have said, while they do not accuse you face to face, they are even now faxing it. Like this morning, we found some flyers on the front steps of the Parliament building.

What do you do about these kinds of people? Clearly you cannot go around responding to every comment, explaining every allegation, challenging every remark, and most of the time they are not made to your face anyway. As my grandmother used to say, I am told, "you can lock up from a thief, but you cannot lock up from a liar". That is what these people are. That is why I welcome this legislation, not only do I welcome it, I have pushed for it since 1989 because people like myself will always be criticised and have allegations made against. I have nothing to hide. Let us get the facts, let everybody see the true picture and let us be done with this maliciously smearing campaign.

I have no doubt that certain members of the establishment are upset and get upset because people like me, who came from the other side of the street are here sitting in Executive Council - voted in by the public - the people of this country helping to run this country; helping to shape the future of the country; helping to make a better way of life for Caymanians. Well, they have to take a couple of aspirins or perhaps a couple of cocktails and get over being upset. This is 1996 and we are not going to go away, sarcasm is not going to drive us away, neither will innuendoes neither will malice. This is 1996, let us deal with information not implication. Let us deal with information not speculation. Let us deal with information not insinuation. So I am indeed happy that this legislation is before us and that I was given the privilege to pilot it. That is why the Members of this House and I have been adamant that this legislation is passed, for those reasons I mentioned earlier.

As one person said to me, "What about the question of enforcement?" The question of enforcement must arise in the public's mind. How will it be enforced? It is true that a crooked person will find ways and means to evade the law. As we all know laws do not in themselves make people honest. But I suggest that we cannot refuse the attempt at doing that which is right merely because enforcement of what is right might be difficult. To me this is a challenge to our collective will, not an argument against doing something, or inactivity.

We know that in today's world we must be honest with ourselves. We have to concede that there are probably various ranges of devices through which a person acting improperly could conceal their acts. One has to accept this. But I suggest that we cannot refuse to attempt doing that which is right, as I have said, merely because enforcement could be difficult.

One cannot dwell on the evils every time one is confronted with a difficulty. We have to weigh in our minds (even if we cannot devise a perfect system of enforcement), the very fact that there is an attempt being made; an attempt that is presumed to be subject to review from time to time with more refined and more sophisticated techniques. On the one hand to make improper behaviour more difficult. If there is improper behaviour, at least we can retain the techniques of detection and make it more and more difficult. Therefore at the very least we can achieve, if not a perfect deterrent against improper dealings in the future, a deterrent against the very temptation. So that some may fear to enter into improper dealings at some time in the future. The very knowledge that a man dealing improperly would have to declare by a sworn affidavit annually, that he was not engaged in such dealings would be a deterrent to he who might otherwise be tempted.

It might reduce the scale of impropriety for others who might go, shall we say, on a joy ride. Someone who is not in favour of the system would be deterred thereby reducing the scale of evil-doings which would again be good for the system. If somebody is so ruthless and smart, not to be deterred at all, then he is faced with the fact that he is not only guilty of wrong doing but of doing it in the face of an accepted system of investigation and proceedings of this House. He faces, if in this position, such penalties as this House might determine to impose upon him. To say nothing of the public disgrace that would be visited on him.

I believe that this legislation, as I have said, comes at a good time for more than one reasons. The Memorandum of Objects and Reasons says: "The Register will be open for public inspection in accordance with arrangements to be made in the Bill. The Register of Interests will provide for the disclosure of the interests of Members of the Legislative Assembly and will establish a safeguard against any future weakness in maintaining the highest possible standards of legislative conduct. The Registrar and his staff will be subject to the provisions of the Confidential Relationship Preservation Law (Revised)." So all of us, are going to have to put what we own, or what we are directors of, in this Register. It will be there for the whole world to see.

Schedule I to the Bill provides that Members of the Legislative Assembly, election candidates (you cannot leave them out because the truth is, the vicious campaign of propaganda and allegations made against people like me, is by the candidates). I do not mind relating this to the House: A lot of people know that I had an incident at my home which nearly wiped us out - the rains came in May, the roof caved in and we practically had to replace everything.

One candidate said that I was living in a condo, that I owned a condo. I wish I did. Unfortunately, I had to go out and rent. Yet, we have candidates spreading this kind of propaganda, making these kinds of vicious allegations. But there is an Almighty in whom I believe. He created us and He takes care of us. So it is good for candidates to have to put up, or get out of the race. They have to say, "I own this," "I own that," because there are just too many innuendoes being made against Member of this House. So I welcome that.

Journalists who report on the meetings of the Legislative Assembly are required to register their interests. I do not like to put these kinds of extensions to our situation because we are different from the rest of the world. At least that is the way I feel, but people are saying that is the world we live in in Cayman. We have heard and read about people who write stories on the work of Parliament. They do it because they have an interest - they are paid to do it. They are paid to make someone look bad or a bit of business comes up which Parliament has to deal with and a company or person wants certain position put forward because they have a vested interest in that business. So it is good that all who are connected to the work of Parliament be put in that position where they have to say to the world, "this is what I own." How glad I am, because this is going to be made public and all those things that they are running around talking about us, now they will say, "But boy you know people can really lie. McKeeva really does not have any house anywhere except the one he has in West Bay. Look at this, this business he has long time ago, before he got into Executive Council. Yet they are saying that he got it after he went into Executive Council". So I am happy and proud that we could have gotten it here. It will not stop all the liars, as my grandmother puts it: You cannot lock up from liars, you can only lock up from a thief sometimes.

Each year Members and journalists will be required to make a declaration of their interests in the form provided in Schedules 2 and 3 of the Bill. The first declaration will be required to be made in respect of interests, existing on the date, the commencement of this Law.

The declaration will be made to the Registrar appointed by the Governor for the purposes of this bill under section 53(A) of the Constitution. The Constitution gives power because of a Register of Interests to be set up.

The interests that will have to be declared under the Bill include details of directorships and shareholdings, employment, financial sponsorship, foreign travel relating to official duties not paid for by the Member, and income derived from property. Relevant parts of the declarations will be required to include these details for a Member's spouse and children. So right down to the travel we do for Government we will have to record.

A Member of the Legislative Assembly can be suspended from the Assembly for failing to comply with the Law. But only after a period of the Standing Committee on the Register of Interests has been debated by the Legislative Assembly and it is satisfied that the Member has failed to comply with the Law. False declarations by non members (declarants) will be criminal offences. And the law provides for the various fees that will be charged. I am happy. I do not believe they go up to $10,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years or sometimes both. But these are the things that are covered in the Bill.

As I have said in opening the debate, it is not something that has had much public debate. But I think it is to the credit of all of us as Parliamentarians that this Bill is before the House. You are going to have people get up and say, this does not mean anything. And it is true - as I have said, a law in itself does not make anyone honest. You have to be an honest person and that has to come from the depths of your soul. It has to be something that you learn from your mother at home, your father, or somebody who has raised you. Something that you have learnt. A law will not make anyone honest, but what this law does is, it says to the world "John A. Henry, who is a Member of the Legislative Assembly of the Cayman Islands, owns 'a,' 'b,' 'c,' 'd,' and 'e;' he is a director of a certain company, and this is what he owns."

I am glad. I cannot often say that, because it is people like me who are targeted. We never hear about those who got their homes while they were here. They only try to talk about us. Everything that has been said about us, people can look around and see who got what.

Madam Speaker, I do not think the Bill will have any trouble in being passed. I await to hear what other Members have to say. I again, want to thank all the Members of the House who were in agreement to get this Bill before us now. I would like to thank the Secretary to the Committee, again to thank the Deputy Speaker, the lady Member for North Side for her stewardship. Thank you very much.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Register of Interests Bill, 1996 be given a Second Reading. The motion is open for debate.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I am very pleased to see that the Motion which I moved in 1994 (Motion 11/94) asking for the establishment of a Select committee of the whole House to review a Register of Interests for the Legislative Assembly in keeping with the section of the Constitution that allows this has finally made it to the floor of the Assembly. Included with this is another motion which I also moved in 1994 (Private Member's Motion 29/94 - Code and Ethics and Conduct for Legislators) has come this far.

The same feelings that motivated me then are certainly in place now: In the world of politics, in the world that exist in the Legislative Assembly, in the world where private interests may clash with the duties of public office it is necessary to have in place some mechanisms that will provide check and balance to this particular condition. Following the way in which it is handled in the British Parliament we have adopted a similar system here, by having a Register of Interests which also follows in the nine areas where legislators are required to declare their interests.

I think it is specific enough to serve the purpose for which it is intended and it will make a difference for legislators. One will have to declare one's interest and for any interested party in the public or within the Parliament, one can determine if the duties of public office clash with the personal interest of individuals. This may be the case deliberately or unintentionally. What the Register of Interests will provide is a means by which one could make a determination.

After many attempted meetings (meetings without quorums and all the rest of it) to deal with this matter, it has finally come to the floor of the Legislative Assembly. I for one have no problem in complying this register. I hope that all of those who boast so mightily, of all the things that they own and have and who suggest that the only people who should be in this Legislative Assembly are those with great holdings and a lot of things to lose will be in a hurry to write down their interests here for the world to see.

Much deliberation has gone into this legislation. Even at this late point in time, I wonder seriously whether the legislation rightly includes candidates for elections. I raise the point because I daresay that we will be dealing with this in the Committee stage, where corrections can be made as a last resort before legislation is passed. It might be considered necessary by the Attorney General that these persons could be required to make declarations. But whether it is correct to do so under this particular section of the Bill gives me some cause to wonder about its correctness.

I am referring to section 53A of the Constitution (that is the new section of the Constitution that was approved by the British Government and which came into effect in 1993) where it says: "53A(1) There shall be a Register of Interests for the Islands which shall be opened to the public. The register shall be maintained by a Registrar who shall be appointed, and may be removed from office, by the Governor acting in his discretion."

Subsection (4) says: "This section applies to all Members of the Legislative Assembly and the holders of such other offices (except that of Governor) as may be prescribed by law." It is clear that it applies to all Members of the Legislative Assembly and, secondly, to the holders of such other offices as may be prescribed by law. Now the question that arises in my mind is: How do we see candidates in the general election who have accepted nomination as holders of such other offices? They do not hold any office, and, indeed, they would not be members until they were fortunate enough to have been elected. So I seriously wonder if we are correct in including candidates for elections in the legislation before us, and also including them in section 7 of that schedule.

If we look in the Constitution as well, in section 54 where it speaks of offices and appointments, it says: "The Governor, in Her Majesty's name and on her behalf, may constitute such offices for the Islands as may lawfully be constituted by Her Majesty and, subject to the provision of any law enforced in the Islands, may make appointments (including appointments on promotions and transfers) to any such office; and any person so appointed shall, unless it is otherwise provided for by any such law, hold office during Her Majesty's pleasure." Again, I do not see how we could interpret that section of the Law where it refers to 'other offices' that are constituted, with a candidate for election falling within this particular definition.

I simply raised that matter because there may be those candidates in the forthcoming election who, on taking advice may challenge whether they should sign this register or not on the grounds of it being legally correct. I think that it is something which should or could be looked at again even in Committee stage, to determine if what has been done here is correct.

I am happy to see this Register of Interests, except for the point that I have just raised. I think it is in keeping with the Register of Interests of the United Kingdom Parliament which we have used as a guideline, and have modified the sections to relate more appropriately to the Caymanian society. I also hope that there will be the Code of Conduct which emanate from it (or be in legislative form or in manual form) so that all Members of this House would have an easy reference in determining what might be acceptable or not acceptable in carrying out one's official duties, performing one's personal commitments and dealing with one's personal interest. I support this Bill before the House.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever, Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed. Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers.

I note that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town is absent once again. The question therefore falls away.

The next item is a Statement by the Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

STATEMENTS BY HONOURABLE MINISTERS/MEMBERS OF GOVERNMENT

SOCIAL SECURITY SCHEME

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: In my debate on Monday, 15th July, on the Pensions Bill I said that the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, of Team Cayman, had pushed for a Social Security Scheme. I wish to read from Mr. Gilbert McLean's debate in the Hansard of Wednesday, 9th November, 1994 (pages 380-401 and specifically page 396). I quote the Member:

"The Government needs to look at creating some sort of fund, or better yet, we need a programme or a system of Social Security in this country and we need it right now.

"It is a fundamental right written down in International Law, and subscribed to by England as well, which is the administrative authority for the Cayman Islands.

"If the Minister for Social Services wants to do something dramatic, I would say to him see about a proper Social Security System..."

I further quote from the Caymanian Compass of Friday, 11th November, 1994, which carried a portion of the same Member's speech. "He called on Government to create a programme of Social Security in Cayman. It was needed right now. If the Minister for Social Services wanted to do something dramatic, he should do something about a Social Security System." I lay these papers on the Table so that one and all can see who is telling the truth.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Before we proceed to Other Business, an apology has been received from the First Elected Member for Bodden Town who is still sick. The apology is noted.

Other Business, Private Members' Motions. Private Member's Motion 6/96, Amendments to the Liquor Licensing Law, to be moved by the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

"WHEREAS at the present time there are no restrictions placed on establishments applying for a liquor licence with respect to its proximity to a church;

AND WHEREAS in the past twelve years the number of establishments issued liquor licences has increased significantly, including establishments located in residential areas;

AND WHEREAS as a result of alcoholism, social disturbances are increasing in residential communities;

AND WHEREAS the Cayman Islands has a reputation as one of the highest alcohol consuming jurisdictions in the world;

BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED that the Liquor Licensing Law be amended to restore the restriction for establishments wanting to apply for a liquor licence to be a minimum of 1500 feet from a church;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a moratorium be placed on the issue of liquor licences in residential communities.”

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise to second the Motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 6/96 having been duly Moved and Seconded is now open for debate.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Madam Speaker, there has been a very important amendment moved and circulated for this Motion. Should I introduce that at this time?

The Speaker: Yes, you can, under Standing Order 24(7), which says; “If a Member desires to vary the terms of a motion standing in his name he may do so by giving an amended notice of motion, but only if such amendment does not, in the opinion of the Presiding Officer, materially alter the scope of, or any principle embodied in the original motion. Such amended notice shall run from the time at which the original notice was given...”

You may now proceed to include your amendments.

1. By including in the first paragraph the words “school or civic centre” at the end thereof; and
2. By deleting the fifth paragraph and substituting the following: ‘BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED that the Liquor Licensing Law be amended to provide that licences shall not be issued to establishments within a minimum of 1500 feet of a church, school or civic centre.’ “.

The Speaker: Before that is seconded, I just need to draw your attention to the provisions which I read previously. The provision of Standing Order 25(1) applies, not 25(2), as Standing Order 24(7) says that if you wish to vary the terms of a motion you can do so. The Presiding Officer does not have to approve this amendment. It is just an amendment in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 25(1), ‘25(2)’ shall be deleted.

The amendment may now be seconded. The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: I wish to second this amendment.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 6/96, having been duly varied in accordance with the terms of the amendment circulated to Members, is now open for debate.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

With the amendment the restriction that will be placed on establishments applying for a liquor licence would include not only 1500 feet from churches, but any school or civic centre.

During the term of the 1976 to 1980 Government, a very positive amendment was put forward with respect to the Liquor Licensing Law of 1974. What that amendment was calling for was recognition of the respect and the role that our churches play in our community. It was felt that any establishment applying for a liquor licence should be at least a quarter of a mile from any church. I supported it at that time, and I felt it was a very positive motion. I believed that it spoke well of the Government of that day.

During the term of the 1980 to 1984 Government a moratorium was placed on the issuance of any new liquor licences in the Cayman Islands. It was felt at that time that we had enough premises holding liquor licences and that a moratorium should be put in place for the issuance of any new licences. What was interesting was that prior to 1985, when the Liquor Licensing Law was redone (and in the 1974 Law was repealed), was that there were no liquor licences issued (according to the statistics that I have) to any restaurant in this country. We keep hearing the argument that in order to make money one needs a liquor licence. Until 1985 no restaurants were issued liquor licences.

I believe that we need to re-establish some of these restrictions because I was also informed that it was during the 1980 to 1984 Government when the restriction of 1977, with regard to the distance that an establishment applying for a liquor licence must be from a church, was removed. I am told that was because the Villa Caribe Restaurant in North Side applied for a liquor licence and for a time could not get one because it was too close to a church. I understand that they got some consent from the church stating that they had no objection. As a result this very important restriction was lifted. Today, as a result, we have liquor licences issued to establishments within probably 100 yards of churches in this country. I believe that is wrong. I believe that we must re-establish respect for the churches and I believe that any establishment holding or applying for a liquor licence must be a certain distance from any church.

I am proposing that we re-establish the restriction with respect to the distance an establishment applying for a liquor licence must be from a church, but also, in accordance with the amendment, civic centres and schools would be included. I believe that this is in order because these are also very important establishments in this country.

The Motion is also calling for a moratorium on the issuance of liquor licences to establishments in the residential communities, that is, the outer districts. I believe that the residents in these areas welcome such a move because we have more than a sufficient number of establishments in these areas that do have liquor licences. In many cases they have become nuisances in these areas.

Just for information purposes, I was also provided with the number of liquor licences by district. I would like to pass that information on at this time. In South Sound, which is part of the George Town District, there are eight liquor licences. In George Town itself we have 77 liquor licences; in West Bay there are 13; along West Bay Road there are 54 establishments with liquor licences; in North Side there are 10; in East End there are four; there are 12 vessels which have liquor licences; Bodden Town has three; and Breakers has three. There are more than sufficient numbers of establishments with liquor licences at the district level.

The experience in West Bay with those bars that hold liquor licences is that they have become real nuisances. I get calls all hours of the night from mainly the elderly who live nearby these establishments, complaining of loud music and all kinds of disturbances which go on at these establishments. The other thing which concerns me is that these areas have become hang-outs for many of our young men and women. As a result, alcoholism is on the rise in our districts.

The other thing that concerns me is the lack of concern regarding who they sell beer or liquor to. On a number of occasions I have seen young people, I am talking about 11, 12 and 13 year olds in my district, who are staggering all over the place. They got the liquor from somewhere, and it was in the vicinity of where these establishments are located. I believe that the time has come for us to say that we do not want any more liquor licences issued in our districts.

There are also areas where drug trafficking is present. Just their presence devalues the morals of the district. I believe that as representatives we have to be responsible and take into consideration the needs and concerns of our people, especially the elderly. I believe that they would welcome the moratorium being asked for here on the issuance of any new liquor licences at the district level.

I am also calling for those establishments at the district level who presently have liquor licences to be more diligent and responsible in ensuring that the activity which goes on around their establishments is clean, and that only people of the age of 18 or older are served liquor or beer in those establishments.

As I said, this Government has invested so much money on proper facilities for our youth where they can engage in wholesome activities which would not only benefit them now, but in the future. I believe that we have to control and ensure that the establishments with liquor licences appreciate the fact that it is a privilege, and that they have a certain responsibility they must carry out in keeping with the privilege of having a liquor licence.

If it were left to me there would be no establishments in this country with liquor licences. I am not convinced that a liquor licence is needed to make money at any establishment. At the present time I have four establishments. There is no liquor sold at any of them, and we do very well.

I believe that this is a step in the right direction. I believe that the public welcomes these moves and I recommend and request that all Honourable Members of this House support the provisions of this Motion.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As the Seconder of this Motion, I rise to give it my full support. I feel that within our little island we now have too many liquor establishments, let alone grant more licences. I would like to see that moratorium drawn up to where the issuance of liquor licences would be curtailed.

There are problems brewing from these establishments. We are trying to fight drugs on the one hand, and on the other hand we have liquor, which is like another drug. Wherever you find one, you find the other. Problems arise, there are disturbances in the communities, on the streets, you name it. If Government can do anything to curb this, I would like to see it done.

I am sure that the majority of the public will support us with this. Those who do not support us are those who use it and enjoy it. I hope there will be a time when we can curb their taste for it. I have received complaints from various areas of disturbances at night, noise, fighting, cutting-up, you name it. This all goes along with these establishments of liquor.

If there is anything that can be done to curb it, I pray to God that we can get it done. I give this my fullest support.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary First Official Member.

Hon. Donovan Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I simply wish to say that the Government is prepared to accept the Motion as it has been presented, and will do its best to pursue what the Motion has asked for within the time available over the next three or four months.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Private Member's Motion No. 6/96, Amendment to the Liquor Licensing Law, was discussed in meetings of the National Team, and I think it was taken to Executive Council as well, hoping that we could make some amendment to the Liquor Licensing Law. I am happy to see that this is being brought here today. We have a lot of churches. In fact, churches seem to be big business more than anything else. I do not want to say that I am against churches, however I think we have more churches than anywhere else in the world!

I am sure that the moratorium on licences issued to establishments in residential communities as asked for in this motion will have to be varied at times. I say that because I sat here thinking about the Queen's Highway. There are beautiful pieces of property being purchased by individuals for residences. If the acreage sold in that same area is purchased for a resort, would it mean that a liquor licence could not be issued to that establishment because it is located in a residential community? I often say that nothing is made in stone and there are exceptions to all rules. I am sure that something like this could be considered and changed.

I have a question regarding the issuing of licences. I am not sure if Liquor Licences are renewed or whether they are issued each year and how it would affect the application for a licence. Perhaps the Mover could address that in his winding up.

As the two previous speakers mentioned, there are a lot of disturbances. Alcoholism is on the rise. I agree with what my very dear friend, the late Mrs. Ena Watler, always maintained - alcoholism is the worst substance abuse in any community. It seems to be on the rise here. I know that it is up to the individual, but if the establishments were not there, it would be hard for them to go out and purchase a drink.

This Motion is asking for a minimum of 1500 feet from a church. I reflect on the churches in town. I am thinking of the new Baptist Church being built in Red Bay, and I am wondering how this will affect applications for temporary liquor licences at the Lion's Centre. I am not taking up for the Lion's Centre, saying that we should have activities there where alcohol is served. But it does exist. If a church is built in the area after the Lion's Centre, I am wondering how this will be addressed. Perhaps the Mover could mention this in his winding up.

Other than that, I support this Motion and I am pleased to see that it is being brought today.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The obvious noble intent of this Motion is not one that I wish to disregard or disrespect. Let me first of all say that I think it is obvious that the intention here is to achieve something in the line of being good citizens and such the like. But in the attempt to achieve all of this, I wish to make a few points which I think will have to be addressed and not simply cast by the wayside. As the Government has already stated that they will accept the Motion, I would like to ensure that these other aspects are taken into consideration.

The very last Resolve section says, "BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a moratorium be placed on the issue of liquor licences to establishments in residential communities. The Third Elected Member for George Town mentioned an example. I think that careful consideration has to be given in order not to create a situation where the law can be interpreted ambiguously.

I believe that in his opening remarks the Mover intended for the Resolve section to be specific in areas that are densely populated. He quoted his own district. I understand what he is saying with regard to totally residential areas and premises of this nature in the middle of these areas. But there are many locations in the Cayman Islands which, either by way of trend or natural phenomenon, are fast becoming more residential than previously observed. Some of those areas are limited areas where developers (both local and foreign) would be leaning towards certain types of development. If the interpretation of that Resolve section is carried wide enough, it is my belief that certain restrictions will be automatically put on land owners and prospective landowners.

In our process of legislation we have the responsibility to ensure that the rights of owners of property in the country are protected, whoever they are. I am certain that some of them are still locals - even though that is dying fast too it seems. They need to be able to deal with their property as they see fit, within the ambit of the law. I am making the point that I think we have to be very careful in that section. However the wording for any amendment is that it be done in such a way that it is very specific for the intention, rather than left generic to be interpreted in all directions.

There is also the question of the 1500 feet from a church, school or civic centre. Generally speaking, I believe that making a stipulation like that could probably work, but, again, it comes back to a situation where one has to consider the owners of property throughout these islands. When we speak of churches, schools or civic centres, I think that if we were to put a little dot on the map where all of these premises are located, we would have many dots. I think it is obvious that while there are certain concentrated areas where you might have schools, as on Walker's Road, and other concentrated areas for churches, the truth is that in all of the considerations one should not by way of one action disenfranchise individuals who might have aspirations for certain types of development.

The Mover mentioned that if it were left to him there would be no such premises in the island. Maybe if one wished to really sound pious one would agree. Having said that, I think that we have to accept what the real world is. That part of the debate can go on, and on, and on. But that is not the point I want to make. I think it is important that in all of our well-intended actions we do not try to solve one problem and create another in the process. The point I make is that in Government's accepting the Motion, I think there should be careful consideration given and an examination should be made of existing locations and how the impact will be for a 1500 foot radius of where property is, what type of property it is. I believe that this can have a serious effect on many land owners. I only wish for the Government to be very conscious in their dealings that they continue to be fair.

In the existing Liquor Licensing Law, section 9(1)(e) says: "A Board shall not grant a licence unless satisfied that the premises in respect of which the application is made will not cause inconvenience to the occupier of neighbouring property." Section 9(2) says: "In considering the suitability of premises for service to the public, the Board shall have regard [not may have regard but shall have regard] to have representations made by or on behalf of the Commissioner, the Chief Medical Officer, the Chief Fire Officer, the Executive Secretary of the Central Planning Authority, as well as members of the public who may be directly affected by the grant of a licence." It goes on to say in section 17(1): "At any application for the grant of a licence the Commissioner, the Chief Fire Officer, the Chief Medical Officer or any member of the public who has given at least seven days notice of objection in writing to the Chairman, may appear and be heard in objection to the grant of such licence."

There are several schools of thought here. I think that a fair interpretation of the intent here in this Law is one where the Law immediately gives the Liquor Licensing Board the latitude for specific consideration when it comes to applications being granted or refused, depending upon reasons for refusal being given by objectors. It does not automatically say that a property owner within a certain location is disenfranchised from being able to do anything which involves a liquor licence. This school of thought is simply saying that the Board will have the latitude to decide whether or not the application should be granted or not. This Motion is going a bit further saying that it cannot happen.

In comparing the two schools, I wish to come back to the point that while one does not wish to say that the Motion should not be looked at or accepted, I sum up by saying that in accepting the Motion I think it is important for the Government to examine all areas to ensure that the same level playing field that all of us preach about in other areas is dealt with in this area.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I was very impressed with how the Government accepted this Motion, and how it intends to bring about the Resolves it asks for within the next few months. This Motion is asking for a major reversal in the granting of liquor licences in the Cayman Islands. It is seeking to reverse conditions under the Law which were put in place several years ago, perhaps eight years ago or more, as far as restrictions go with regard to the distance between a church and a place that has a liquor licence.

I think the Mover mentioned that the first case which came up showing the impracticality of trying to make moral, or anti-liquor licence, judgments was with the licensing of Villa Caribe in North Side - one of the smaller hotels financed by the CDB. Because of its location to churches in the area it could not get a liquor licence, which is an essential part of the operation of just about all of the hotels in the Cayman Islands. Accommodation, food and beverage go together. I remember that case and it may have been at that point in time that it was changed.

As I recall, there were many people in North Side, including people who considered themselves to be Christians, who did not object to that hotel being so licensed.

Where the magic number of 1500 feet away from a church, as being an acceptable distance for a business having a liquor licence came from, I do not know. Why not 2000, 1,000 or 1,200 feet? I do not know where the distance came from.

I do remember the time of the change when the commercial sector of this country, generally, and persons who wished to get into the business which required a liquor licence (bar, restaurant, or whatever) were quite relieved when that restriction was removed. To re-institute it in the time when this very Motion notes that in the past 12 years the number of establishments which have been granted liquor licences has increased, perhaps does not take into account how much the country has changed since that time to the extent that commercial activity, particularly the hospitality industry, finds the need (from a business perspective) to have a liquor licence.

All of the people in this country do not claim to be church-goers. Certainly, all of the people in the Cayman Islands do not consume alcoholic beverages. The fact is that in any society people are different. They have different habits, different behaviour, and there are certainly people who frown upon alcohol in any form. There are those who choose to partake of some alcoholic beverages. I make the case for neither, as superseding the other.

The point I am making is that there are differences and that in this society there is a difference. I believe that for this society to be properly balanced both conditions must be accommodated. Did Jesus himself not say, "Let the wheat and the tares grow together until the day of harvest"? I would not want to believe that today, in this Legislature, is the day of harvest.

The fact that there are places which sell alcoholic beverages does not make alcoholics. I have never yet heard of a bar going to anyone, nor the spirits packaged in any form going to anyone to imbibe. Alcoholism is a personal, and unfortunate state of being for individuals who become addicted to alcohol like other addicting substances. The fact is that if the country saw 50 more liquor licences granted today it would not mean that more people in the country who do not touch alcoholic beverages would suddenly start to do so. Indeed, if many more establishments should be opened, it would probably reduce the clientele of those now existing and make it hardly worthwhile for them to continue doing business.

This Resolve asks that "...no establishments be allowed to build within 1500 feet of a church", and schools and civic centres have been added to that. What if a church is built less than 1500 feet from a liquor establishment? It certainly has happened by the Lion's Centre. There is a huge church being built right next to the Country and Western Bar, not necessarily the Lion's Centre, because that is really not a liquor licensed facility. What happens in those cases? I think that the Law, as quoted by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, provides that if there are objections to a liquor licensed premises being established, those persons can object and a licence may not be granted. I have heard of such instances. In fact, I heard about the Abank's Dive Lodge, which would surely be a major tourist attraction seeing that it was on the big screen in a major movie. I understand that the people in the area objected to that being used for the same purpose as shown in the movies. It was not granted.

I know that there have been instances of applications for liquor licences in Cayman Brac where objections have hindered them from being granted. But the Board which has been appointed to deal with these matters has the Law as their guide.

There is the question of there being a moratorium on the issuance of liquor licences to establishments in residential communities. I do not know what is really referred to here as a 'residential community'. What particular restriction is thought of here? The Mover mentioned the district of West Bay and certain areas and problems there which he has heard of and seen there. But how many liquor licences are granted in residential communities, in sub-divisions? I have not heard of too many. They tend to be in the commercial areas or the more sparsely populated areas.

There could be exceptions. I can think of Bodden Town, for example, where there are two liquor licences at gas stations located there which are surrounded by homes. They have been long established, thirty-odd years perhaps. They are ongoing establishments. I do not know how many would be granted in similar circumstances at this time.

I see two things happening if a moratorium is placed: It would immediately increase the value of liquor licensed premises because there would be a moratorium on them. On the other hand, if a moratorium was placed on these premises, how would that coincide with the idea of the free enterprise system, whereby if a business meets all of the requirements of the Law it could be granted and whether it succeeded or not would be left to the efforts of the person who owns it?

On the matter of social disturbances and drunkenness on the streets or in the districts, none of us likes to see that. All of us remark about that unfortunate state of affairs. The removal or the reduction of liquor licensed premises does not reduce those persons who would find themselves addicted to alcohol or drunk from its use. Those situations are personal to the people so affected. A change of mind-set is what is required in those cases - finding the cause which has driven the persons to do so and dealing with that. There are those who have been reformed. That came from a change of heart and mind and not the removal or restriction of the premises which supplied the product.

I do not believe that this Motion will hinder or reduce alcoholism. Social problems involved with the use of alcohol, be it accidents, stumbling on the roads, fights or whatever, will continue even if the state of affairs continues as it presently is. Where these occur there is the Law to deal with it with the prescribed punishments.

Perhaps it is true that the Cayman Islands has one of the highest alcohol consumption rates in the world. I think that in large part consumption has something to do with our tourism activities and the number of visitors to our shores. In terms of the population, which is said to be 30,500 people, I do not believe that 50% of that number actually uses alcohol. Perhaps they do, but the other half does not.

I do not see how re-instituting a 1500 foot restriction for distance from a church, school or civic centre, really has anything to do with the behaviour of people who choose to use alcohol, whether it is two miles away or whether they have to walk. A moratorium on the liquor licensed establishments could well hinder the development in some areas of the island and, overall, would not necessarily serve the best purpose from a people standpoint or a commercial point of view. I believe that in this case we can serve a better purpose so that the 'wheat' and the 'tares' can be allowed to grow together until the 'day of harvest'.

One other point is that a 1500 foot radius involves over 6 million square feet of property. If one sets down such mathematical requirements for the granting of a liquor licence, one could find major amounts of land involved or made unacceptable in terms of meeting a requirement.

I am sure all Members here, to be politically correct, will say that they support this Motion. As I am well known to be of the politically incorrect, I do not give this Motion my support - which has no bearing whatsoever on its passage or its acceptance by Government.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, I would ask the Mover if he would like to exercise his right of reply.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to offer my support to the Private Member's Motion which seeks to put a limitation on liquor-dispensing facilities in the area of churches, civic centres or schools. I believe that it is in keeping with the times, given the amount of construction and business activity going on in this country, thanks to the National Team.

The area of moratorium requires some amount of in-depth consideration. Perhaps if we were talking about retail facilities and we brought it down to the bars within the various districts, many of us would agree that there are (at least appears to be) more than we really need in some districts. But when we start dealing with business we have to take a broader look at it.

For example, suppose a small hotel wishes to establish itself in North Side, East End, Bodden Town, or anywhere in the Frank Sound area. I believe that it would have real difficulty catering to its guests without a liquor licence; so much so that it may not be viable without it. I am not pushing the sale of liquor, I am basically stating a business fact of life. I believe that when the Government accepts this Motion it is in this area of moratorium that we will have to look very closely at in order not to stifle development, particularly in the eastern districts which we as a Government are certainly trying to achieve.

Many of us go to church on a weekly basis and know that some of the surrounding areas of the church see on some occasion the lack of discipline and lack of respect in some cases for those who are attending church. Noise is not a problem to them, however it can be very disruptive to the congregation of a church.

I am in support of the Private Member's Motion, I believe that when it comes to implementation it is likely to require that those businesses already within the 1500 feet will have to be grandfathered in. I do not see it operating any other way. It is not the intention of the Mover or the Secunder of the Motion to take away their licences. It is the intention to say from the day that the amendment is put into place that any future construction of housing for a bar should be outside the 1500 feet from a church or a civic centre or school. I believe that is right.

I also believe that those already there will have to be allowed to continue. When that business comes to an end, so too will the licence. Over a period of time some of those that are close to a church at the moment may disappear. I think that is a fair way of dealing with the implementation of this Private Member's Motion. I look forward to the Government's taking this on board and dealing with the amending legislation.

The Speaker: Would the Mover now exercise his right of reply to the Motion?

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Let me say thank you to the Government and those Honourable Members who spoke on this Motion, those who supported it and those who did not. Let me start by saying that the intention of this Motion is not to affect any licences already in existence. I think it is understood that those premises presently licensed will have to be considered granted new licences when they expire. It will only affect new licences that are applied for in these respective residential areas.

I appreciate the comments from the Honourable Minister for Tourism. The intention is that it will affect the retail establishments that apply for licences within a residential area. These are the establishments that we have had problems with in the past and at present. Back in 1984, and this is strictly for information purposes, when the Government of that day left office, we had a total of 94 liquor licences in this country broken down as follows: Retail - 49; Package outlets - 70; Hotels - 16; Distributors - 12; there were no beer and wine licences and we had no restaurants that owned a licence.

In 1996 we have 79 licensed retail outlets; 34 package outlets; 23 Hotels; 14 distributors; 7 establishments with beer and wine licences, and 34 restaurants holding liquor licences, for a total of 191 establishments with liquor licences in this country. We cannot say that we do not have enough establishments.

With respect to the comment by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, which basically said that we have to ensure that the rights of property owners are protected. At the present time we have restrictions in place as to what you can do with your property. For example, in residential areas and sub-divisions there are restrictions as to garages and that type of thing. There are even restrictions as to the type of roofing that you can put on your home. So this is no new policy as far as restrictions is concerned.

I believe that there have to be certain rules established by Government as a guide for its citizens. Can you imagine the situation you would have in this country if you allowed every property owner to do what he felt like doing with his property just because he owned it?

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman obviously does not support this Motion. He would have surprised me if he had, being Her Majesty's official Opposition in the House. He commented on allowing the 'wheat' and the 'tares' to grow together, referring to judgment day when it will be all sorted out. I have visited countries where that feeling prevails, and I am telling you that I, for one, do not appreciate living in that type of an environment. I believe that there are certain rules and principles that we need to hold on to. Despite the fact that it is a tourist destination, this country was formed on very strong principles. We must continue to ensure that those principles exist.

It was interesting to be made aware of the fact that the one district that does not have any liquor licensed establishments is the district of Savannah. I was unaware of that. I have been asked by the lady Member from that area to mention that if there is an application for an establishment for a liquor licence in that area she will be taking her stand against it. I am sure that her colleague, the Honourable Minister for Health, who is also a resident in that area will take the same stand.

I think that Savannah is the one district that always has an annual function that is strictly totally alcohol free. They do very well, indeed, financially and otherwise.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman also mentioned about the free enterprise system. There is no one else in this House more broad minded or more competitive than I, but there are limits to what you can allow in this country. We have to draw the line somewhere. According to him, whether or not we place a restriction on new establishments is not going to really affect what goes on at the district level with regard to human behaviour and otherwise. But I was always taught that it is better for us not to put the temptation there, or to make it too easy for someone to have it, especially our young people.

We try to ensure that we provide a healthy, wholesome environment that they can grow up in. Presently, many of our residential communities cannot boast of that type of environment.

Shortly after I was married, my father-in-law and brother-in-law (and I did not own my own home) offered to allow us to stay in their home in the Birch Tree Hill area. Unfortunately that is located right next door to a bar. I refused to live in that area and raise my family in that type of environment. I believe that many other Caymanians and decent citizens feel the same way that I do.

It has also been brought to my attention that there are many unlicensed premises that sell liquor at the district level. They are referred to as "speakeasies". They have no hours. They sell at all hours of the day and night. They do not have a licence so they pay no fees to Government. They compete with the licensed establishments in those areas. They are also a source of noise and disturbances. Persons can go and get what they want, sit in the street and drink and make nuisances of themselves. I believe that those establishments with licences have to feel privileged to hold that licence. They must be responsible.

I am calling on the police of this country to monitor what goes on at the district level to ensure that these premises are complying with the requirements as far as age limits of persons to whom they are selling beer or liquor to; also that they are operating within their prescribed hours and to ensure that music (if there is music allowed to be played) is kept at an acceptable level so as to not disturb the neighbours around them. This has been a cause for much complaint, especially in my district. I cannot speak for the other districts. We must ensure that these establishments are controlled and monitored.

The other thing that the police have to be aware of and continue to monitor very closely is what we refer to as "sessions". Just the other morning, probably around two or three o'clock in the morning (which is beyond the licensed hour for any establishment), I had a constituent call to tell me to open my window and listen to what is going on. I have nothing against music, but I believe that if you are going to play music for your entertainment it should be just that; it does not have to be for the district as a whole. We need to ensure that if we have laws in place - and we do! - that they are enforced. So I look forward to these amendments being put in place. I believe this is an area of concern to the decent citizens of this country.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

SECOND READINGS

REGISTER OF INTERESTS BILL, 1996

(Continuation of the debate thereon)

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I congratulate you on your strategy.

I rise to make some brief comments on the Register of Interests Bill. I realise that much work has gone on in Committee to produce such a Bill. It is certainly timely to congratulate the chairperson of that Committee, the lady Member of North Side. I believe it is timely to have a register for public display which captures the interests that Members of the Legislative Assembly have, directorships, shareholdings among other things mentioned in the schedule attached to the Bill. I believe that as leaders of the country we should set the example and not wait for allegations to be floating around the islands which some mischievous people continue to do. So I welcome the opportunity to support this Register of Interests Bill and I have no hesitation in dealing with it on a personal basis because at the end of the day it will remove, to some extent, some of the unworthy allegations that are made about Members of the Legislative Assembly without any factual information whatsoever.

It appears sometimes that the only way some people know how to deal with a politician when they do not know something and there are no facts on which one can base their argument, is to start rumours and make all sorts of allegations. I believe this Bill before the House seeks to correct that. It seeks also to put Members of the Legislative Assembly in the public forum disclosing their interests, so that when matters come to the House they do not find themselves in conflict, but rather can divorce themselves from speaking to the matter if it affects their interests. I believe the public is entitled to that kind of participation by Members of this Honourable House.

I support the Bill, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As the chairman of this Committee since 1994, my contribution to the debate on this Bill will be extremely short. I have spent numerous hours dealing with the Bill. But there is one point that I would ask the Minister moving this Bill to look at very carefully. That is the matter of journalists being included under the Bill. I read the Editorial in the Caymanian Compass this morning, and I went back to that section of the Constitution that was referred to and read it as a lay person. Under that section I do not believe we can include journalists. I would ask the Honourable Minister to take legal advice from the Attorney-General as to whether this can be done or whether at Committee stage we have to move some amendment. That is my only concern. I have spoken to legal persons on this matter and they agreed. So I would ask the Minister to look at this issue carefully at Committee stage. Thank you.

The Speaker: If there is no further debate, would the Honourable Minister exercise his right to reply? The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, before I begin with the Bill, I sent a note around to Members which will come to you asking that if there is no prolonged debate we could continue through the Committee stage of the Bills and finalise the business to end this meeting. If that is in agreement with all Members of the House. The note should be coming to you as well, if that is all right with you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Fine.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I have listened to the various Members who spoke, and I certainly thank them for their contribution. I want to remind all Members that this is not an ExCo Bill, as such. This is a Bill which emanated from a Committee of the whole House and all Members have agreed to it. Nobody submitted any minority report. Not to say that there cannot be questions or afterthoughts, because that is what we are all here for.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman seems to be second-guessing the work of the Committee. After two years of committee work he now seriously wonders whether we can include candidates. He went on to say that candidates might even challenge the provision. As I said, candidates and journalists were included by the Committee. If candidates or any candidate for the general election feels so inclined, let them go ahead and try.

Madam Speaker, all of us are aware that section 29 of the 1972 Constitution (the one in place now) says: "Subject to the provisions of this Constitution, the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Assembly, may make laws for the peace, order and good government of the Islands". So this legislature can make any law as long as the Constitution does not say that we cannot.

The 1993 amendment to the Constitution obliges the Legislative Assembly to enact legislation that gives effect to section 53A. This Bill does that. However, the Legislative Assembly in Committee decided to go further and include candidates and journalists. My advice is that we are perfectly within the law in doing so. The Constitution that we must make for Members. It does not say that we cannot make for anybody else. So it sets the minimum as to what must be done. It did not say for journalists do not do so, or for candidates do not do so.

On the point of journalists, this could have been dealt with under Standing Orders, I believe. But the Committee decided otherwise. All I can say is that the form that the journalist will use is a very simple one and is not as detailed as the form used by Members. I really do not see at this point any need to worry whether this Legislature is ultra vires the Constitution. The Constitution says that we must at the minimum provide a Register of Interests for the Members of the House. We go further to include others. To make it absolutely clear and out of an abundance of caution, we are prepared to add to the title of the Bill, the words "and for all purposes incidental thereto, and connected therewith". So the title of the Bill will read: A Bill for a Law to give effect to section 53A of the Constitution of the Cayman Islands and for all Purposes Incidental Thereto and Connected Therewith.

This is an important piece of legislation in our day and age when there is so much envy, jealousy and accusation. There are those who do not want their fellow Caymanian to get anywhere it seems; we have reached the stage where we are not ready to congratulate or elevate. It just seems that some people want the worst to happen to their fellowmen, when we consider the amount of lies and gossip spread regarding legislators. No law is perfect, and it certainly cannot make anyone honest. But I welcome it because it will say to the whole world, this is what we own; this is what we have; this is where it comes from and it will give everyone a chance to check it. There will be those who will continue to spread their venom.

I will close by saying what my grandmother said: "You can lock up from a thief, but you cannot lock up from a liar." This Bill can go some distance in alleviating the kinds of doubt and the gossip that is spread in the country. Thank you very much, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Register of Interests Bill, 1996, be given a Second Reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

The Chairman: The question is that clause 1 through 13 do stand part of the Bill. The motion is open for debate.

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Chairman, I wish to raise a question which I did raise during the debate yesterday as to whether candidates in an election can be included in the Schedule as has been set out in the Bill. I have heard what the Minister moving it has said, and I have seen what he proposes to do. I would assume that he has taken legal advice on it. However, I continue to question whether even adding the additional words to the title of the Bill is possible. I believe it is ultra vires the Constitution since holders of office could not include (in my opinion) the candidates in an election.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: In the Committee's work over the two years we had Legislative Counsel. The last Legislative Counsellor was the gentleman who drafted the last set of amendments to the Bill. When I say amendments, I mean amendments in committee on the Bill. He was the person I relied on this morning (along with the Attorney-General) to give advice on this matter. They confirmed what I believe about the legislation; certainly, we were all in favour during the Committee and no one thought otherwise. These two inclusions are not particularly mine, but everyone supported them. The Legislative Counsel and the Attorney-General confirmed my belief that we are not ultra vires the Constitution. As I have said, the Constitution makes the minimum and the legislature can pass any law that we wish once we get full assent.

The only way that this cannot be done is if Members here today vote against these two amendments. The Legislative Counsel and the Attorney-General have said that this is correct. And out of an abundance of caution they have said to include in the title the words "and for all purposes incidental thereto and connected therewith. I appreciate their allowing this amendment to the title.

The Chairman: I do not know if I have said that I would allow it. We have not reached that stage as yet Honourable Minister.

If there are no amendments to the proposed clauses 1 through 13, I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED. CLAUSES 1 THROUGH 13 PASSED.

Clerk:

- ◇ Schedule 1 Offices and occupation to holders of which are required to register interests.
- ◇ Schedule 2 Registration form for declaration of interests.
- ◇ Schedule 3 Registration form for declaration of Journalists' interests.

The Chairman: The question is that Schedule 1, 2 and 3 do stand part of the Bill.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED. SCHEDULE 1, 2 AND 3 PASSED.

Clerk: A Bill for a Law to Give Effect to Section 53A of the Constitution of the Cayman Islands.

The Chairman: The question is that the title do stand part of the Bill.

I now give permission for the amendment to be made without due notice.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you very much, Madam Chairman.

In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 52, I beg to amend the title of the Bill, and that the title of the Bill, A Bill for a Law to Give Effect to section 53A of the Constitution of the Cayman Islands, be amended by adding the words "and for all purposes incidental thereto and connected therewith" at the end thereof.

The Chairman: The question is that the title be amended as set out by the Honourable Minister. I believe all Members have been supplied with a copy. The motion is open for debate.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I am wondering if the Honourable Attorney-General was in the Chamber that he may give a full explanation of his reasoning behind this addition to cover the question that was raised. I read the words, but I must be perfectly honest I do not fully understand the connection and how they cover the question that arose.

The Chairman: Honourable Minister, I think the Honourable Attorney-General is...

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I do not know where the Second Official Member is. Perhaps the Serjeant-at-Arms could check the Common Room.

I did say to the Committee what was said to me, it was being done out of an abundance of caution. But as far as they are concerned, the Committee wants candidates and journalists to be included. We are committed to make any law that we want.

The Chairman: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I do not think the question is whether we want candidates or journalists to be included. We simply need to ensure that the inclusion falls in line with what is correct regarding the Constitution.

The Chairman: I understand that the Honourable Second Official Member is no longer in the Chamber. Honourable Minister.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Chairman, I see his briefcase. He might have left before the decision to carry on. I can only say that I told Members in the Second Reading debate and explained to them just a minute ago what the position is.

The Chairman: I shall put the question at this time, that the title as amended do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED. TITLE AS AMENDED PASSED.

The Chairman: That concludes proceedings in Committee on Bills. The question is that the Committee do report to the House. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED. THAT THE BILLS BE REPORTED TO THE HOUSE.

The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture

STATEMENTS BY HONOURABLE MINISTERS/MEMBERS

NATIONAL HERO AWARD NOMINATION

(The Honourable Mrs. Sybil Lone McLaughlin, MBE, JP, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Any vibrant culture, in whatever country it exists, rests upon a collection of actions, beliefs, traditions and mores that are indigenous to that culture; therefore, sustaining the people of that culture as they go about the struggles of living. Indeed, in the more dynamic cultures this collage does substantially more than sustain - it stimulates, it energises and propels the people forward. Such a collection, as even a cursory examination will show, has many aspects, many shades, many concentrations and many forms. But one ingredient common to them all is the veneration from within that culture of its singular citizens, its prime achievers who are held up as a source of pride and confidence.

Go to London, New York, Paris, Kingston or Port-of-Spain and once you get over the novelty of being in that city notice how much mention there is of outstanding persons who have gone before. Sometimes it is a statue standing against the sky, sometimes a memorial bathed in light, sometimes a plaque on a wall or a name on a building, but the remembrance of those who have gone before is there in abundance.

Why are they there? Certainly to give homage to those outstanding people, but I believe, more importantly, to let the people of that nation know that they have substance behind them; that before they came there was high achievement, there were champions. They were the selfless, the worthy, the brave who would make them aware that they came from something valuable, therefore, they too are valuable. Out of this, and most important of all is the confidence to compete, the will to persevere, the courage to stand up, the will to break new ground and the strength to get up after a fall.

This process is a dynamic chain going back into the past. The links are powerful beyond imagination. We believe that the mettle of any people today rests for the most part in the knowledge of the successes of their ancestors. Even among the societies where there are no artefacts by which to pass on the knowledge, it is passed on through oral tradition. Those people know, and from knowing grows the confidence.

So, too, we in Cayman, in this young society where things sometimes happen so fast that they have outstripped us, need to give our people assurance in the face of all of the pressures confronting our small nation. One of the most dynamic ways to do this is to begin a formal organised process of telling our people about the selfless, the worthy and the brave who have gone before, and who live amongst us. We must hold up these individuals for all of our people to see so that they too can be motivated; so that they too can become worthy and resolute.

In times past these beacons of inspiration were valuable enough. But they take on even more importance in this age of information when our young people, even before they can read, are inundated with models and images that can be negative, even destructive. We must hold up Caymanian heroes for Caymanians to see. That is why the Members of Executive Council have recommended to His Excellency the Governor that the Honourable Sybil Lone McLaughlin, MBE, JP, be declared the second Cayman Islands National Hero as provided for in the Cayman Islands National Heroes Law, 1993.

Mrs. McLaughlin, a retired civil servant, and our Speaker, has left her mark on the Civil Service. She began her career in an era when women were few and far between in the Civil Service and struggled against many odds to remain there. No single person has contributed to the development of the prevailing system of Government in the Cayman Islands as has Mrs. McLaughlin. Because of the foundation she has laid during her years as Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, and the knowledge she possesses of Parliamentary Procedure, it naturally followed that she should be the Islands first Speaker of this Honourable House.

Even now, during her lifetime, Sybil Lone McLaughlin is a household name in these islands. Mrs. McLaughlin is a dynamic woman who has balanced her dual role as mother and career woman effectively. In addition, she is a very spiritual person who was commissioned as lay pastor of the United Church this year. Mrs. McLaughlin continues to be a source of inspiration and an exemplary role model to the young people of these Islands. She has been influential in the sustainable development of the lives of women, especially elderly women, and continues to have grace for her fellowman, as well as helping them in their spiritual development.

She is always sought after to perform many noble tasks for all segments of the population. Many feel that the Honourable Sybil Lone McLaughlin should be recognised for her efforts on behalf of the Caymanian people and for her contribution to the development of the Cayman Islands. To edify a living legend as Mrs. Sybil would give the people of these Islands a basis after which they could pattern their lives. They would have a greater sense of history and culture as they interact, drawing from her values, principles, historical knowledge and grace.

Although it is true that we have enjoyed many successes, and although we boast of a high standard of living, it is also true that our people, particularly our young people, are faced with pressures that their forefathers never knew with conflicting ideals, dangerously negative influences. To help all of our young people we must go further. Not only must we proclaim the values of those who have gone before, we must hold up for praise the living heroes among us, the ones who are with us now, showing their excellence, showing their determination, showing their character; showing that not only could it be done then, but it is also being done now. We must turn the spotlight on these people for their achievements, but more to serve as a beacon for others to help build that same enviable excellence, that same determination and character in the ones coming down the road leading to tomorrow's Cayman.

In our case we must do it by highlighting our heroes past, as well as present. We are in dire need of those pillars, those individuals who have gone before, as well as those who are living evidence of our worth as a people. We must turn the light on them and hold it there so that every youngster born in this country can begin to hear that inner voice say: 'Here within this country, this small speck, there are people of heroic stature and I am a part of that.' It is therefore timely to recognise someone as exemplary as the Honourable Sybil Lone McLaughlin as our first living National Hero with whom everyone in these islands can identify and be justly proud.

Madam Speaker, the Ministry will also nominate and recommend and pay homage to outstanding Caymanians who have contributed in all walks of life and at all economic levels to make this country the joy and pride which we all live in and are justly proud. The names of people from all the districts in this country will be placed on tablets or plaques on public buildings, for instance the Legislative Assembly. These persons will be called "Distinguished Caymanians".

Thank you, Madam Speaker, and the House for your indulgence.

The Deputy Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for one minute.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.35 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 1.37 PM

[Hon. Speaker in the Chair]

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Honourable Members, I am indeed surprised to have had bestowed upon me such a national honour. One thing I can say is that I am a live hero! Thank God for that. I want to say that if I have contributed in any small way through my activities throughout my life it has been because of my deep love for these islands and all Caymanians.

Whatever I have done, has been done without thought of reward, and really all for the betterment that can accrue from the activities from the people I have come across, particularly young people. Having had two sons and realising the importance of happy family life centred in the church, I have always thought that I could not do enough for them and all of the young people that I have been involved with in my life.

As regards my profession, I have thoroughly enjoyed these years, particularly these last years as Speaker, another position to which I had not aspired. I can always remember my late husband saying, "Why don't you take your pillow and blanket and stay at the office?" He always supported me in my professional, church and social activities.

I can only say that this high honour that has been bestowed upon me is also a high honour for all Caymanians. I should also say particularly Caymanian women. I humbly accept.

I just want to thank the Honourable Ministers and Members of Executive Council for their thought and for all Members of the Assembly for their support. Thank you very much.

I shall now ask for a motion for the adjournment of the House until the 4th September, 1996.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, in the last day or so there have been some consultation with Members with a view to moving forward the commencement date of the Legislative Assembly. I ask Members to forgive me if I have not been able to contact everyone. I think the majority of the persons I have made contact with, and I would say that is probably 12, have no problem with moving it forward. I therefore move the adjournment until the 4th of September, 1996.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until the 4th of September, 1996, at 10 o'clock AM.

Before I put the question I would like to extend, on your behalf, thanks to the Clerk, who is away at this time, and to the Deputy Clerk and the Clerk Assistant for their help. This has been a busy time with all of the Select Committee meetings, reports and minutes, et-cetera. They have all worked very hard, and willingly so.

I wish to also thank the Serjeant-at-Arms for his support. I must also add the security personnel which we have had to engage. They have been very hard-working, always prompt and assiduous in their duties.

Of course, when it comes to the culinary part, we must thank Anita. She has done a sterling job. I can only say that she has been well trained by Miss Mary. Thank you all very much.

I shall put the question that the House do now adjourn until the 4th of September, 1996, at 10 o'clock in the morning. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

At 1:42 pm the House stood adjourned until 10:00 am Wednesday, 4 September 1996.

EDITED
WEDNESDAY
4TH SEPTEMBER, 1996
10.08 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Third Elected Member for George Town to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth as it is in Heaven; Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever, Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. The Legislative Assembly is in Session.

Administration of Oaths or Affirmations. The Oath of Affirmation to Mr. Ivor Archie, Solicitor General, to be the Honourable Temporary Second Official Member. Mr. Archie, would you come forward to the Clerk's Table?

ADMINISTRATION OF OATHS OR AFFIRMATIONS

(Oath of Affirmation Administered by the Clerk)

Mr. Ivor Archie, Solicitor General

Hon. Ivor Archie: I, Ivor Archie, do solemnly and sincerely affirm and declare that I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, her heirs and successors according to law.

The Speaker: Please take your seat as the Honourable Temporary Second Official Member. On behalf of the Members of the Honourable House, I welcome you during your period of service.

Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. The first question is No. 119, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 119

No. 119: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what the total estimated cost was to construct the Doctor Hortor Memorial Hospital and to upgrade the existing out-patient facility.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: The total estimated cost to construct the in-patient facility known as the Doctor Hortor Memorial Hospital was $17,245,693. According to a June 1992 document entitled Master Facilities Development Plan - Complementary Report for George Town Hospital, the estimated cost of upgrading the existing hospital was $10,631,000. This means that the total estimated cost of constructing the Doctor Hortor Hospital and upgrading the existing one was $27,876,693.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Could the Honourable Minister state if the road leading to the proposed Dr. Hortor Hospital was included in this $17 million?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: Not to the best of my knowledge. This was just for the construction of the facility.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Honourable Minister tell us whether the estimated cost included the preparation of the construction site, the landfill, project management fees, architect fees, mobilisation fees, etc.?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: I am not sure about the mobilisation fee, but the other fees were included.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: In his answer the Minister stated that the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital was to be built for $17,244,693. There was a signed contract with a contractor. Can the Minister state what the amount of that contract was?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: I do not have that figure with me, but I will undertake to provide it for the Member.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister state if that figure was $11.7 million?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister said that he does not have the figure with him. Are you answering the question, Honourable Minister?

Hon. Anthony Eden: I would prefer to answer that when I get the actual figure. I would not want to get the wrong figure.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: The Minister said that there was a Complementary Report for work to be done on the George Town Hospital. Can he say if this report he is alluding to was ever made public, and if this document is available for public scrutiny?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: Yes, Madam Speaker, it is available, and I can share it with the Legislative Assembly. It was also signed off with acceptance by the late Dr. Bernard Martin-Smith.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: If the document was a prepared estimate of cost for remodelling what was the George Town Hospital, were any contracts signed? Had Government tendered for any of this work, or was this something envisaged to be done in the future?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: It says it is the Master Facilities Development Plan and it also states the probable cost for the Government of the Cayman Islands' Health Services Department.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 120, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 120

No. 120: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation if McAlpine Limited has been awarded a mobilisation fee for the construction of the new Health Services complex.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: No. The contractor for the new George Town Hospital (McAlpine Ltd) did not ask for, and was not awarded, a mobilisation fee.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Is the normal policy for Government to award a mobilisation fee?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: No, it is not normal for Government to award a mobilisation fee. But we do remember in the last instance with the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital, that $1 million was put up, which would have been repaid in the last year of the contract.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Is it the case that no mobilisation fee was asked for because the contract between Government and McAlpine is open-ended, and one does not really know what the exact contractual cost is, therefore there was no mobilisation fee?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: I find it hard to believe that the Member would ask that when I answered a question similar to this, where McAlpine has completed a contract for $17-odd million for the construction of the new hospital complex.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 121, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 121

No. 121: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce what Government has done to improve passenger and baggage flow at Owen Roberts International Airport.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Work has started on an expansion programme to the terminal building at Owen Roberts International Airport. This project consists of the following:

- (a) A 4,000 sq. ft extension to the Customs Arrival Hall, thereby almost doubling its size;
- (b) A new baggage conveyor system in the Customs Arrival Hall which will double the capacity of the old system;
- (c) New restroom facilities in the Customs Arrival Hall, which will also accommodate handicapped persons;
- (d) A re-designed exit from the Customs Arrival Hall to improve the flow of passengers and baggage, conserve on air-conditioning costs and, at the same time, offer the security required by Customs;
- (e) A 2,000 sq. ft extension to the Immigration Arrival Hall, thereby increasing that area by almost 25 per cent and allowing an easier flow of passengers by better alignment of the queues;
- (f) A 2,000 sq. ft extension to the Departure Lounge to allow for the same amount being taken off to accommodate the Immigration Arrival Hall extension;
- (g) The construction of restroom facilities in the public concourse which will also accommodate handicapped persons;
- (h) A roof over the baggage make-up area on the departure side of the building.

This project is estimated to cost CI$1.6 million and should be completed by 1st December, 1996. The contract for the construction was awarded by the Central Tenders Committee after competitive tender, to Arch and Godfrey Construction Limited. This project is being funded from revenues of the Civil Aviation Authority.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Can the Honourable Minister state if any negotiations have taken place with the Civil Aviation and the airlines regarding staggered schedules for the aircraft?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: We talked to one of the airlines in this regard, but I think what we need to understand clearly is that airlines begin their operations in different parts of the world, at 6.00 AM generally. When you are arriving in Miami or Houston, you have to connect with that traffic, otherwise that traffic goes to Mexico or some other part of the world. The Civil Aviation Authority, in my view, will never be in a position to control traffic from North America to other parts of the world.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say if in the design and construction of these renovations any attempt was made to provide more space for the airlines which operate check-in counters at the airport?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: According to our information no additional facilities are required on the check-in side. That was dealt with almost a year and a half ago, and it is the view of the Director of Civil Aviation and other staff that, at the moment, it is adequately served.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Minister say if any of the airlines operating in the terminal have made requests for additional space and not been granted that request?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I cannot answer that question, as it has never come to my desk.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Would the Minister undertake to provide the answer in writing?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: With pleasure, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: In the process of the major work being done at the Airport, has any thought been given to improving the roof so that the major leaks which occur in the Customs section of the airport are stopped?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: As I understand the roof is also being attended to. It has been repaired from time to time. All of us know that if you have a flat roof you can look for the leaks because they are going to happen.

May I go on to say that the original design of the building was a flat roof. To try now to change it into a hip roof... I do not know what the cost would be. Certainly, the design of the building would change significantly.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the grand scheme of things being done at the Owen Roberts Airport, has the Civil Aviation Authority given any consideration to improvement with regard to traffic and traffic flow at the airport?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I would ask the Member to be more specific. Is he talking about cars or passengers travelling to the airport?

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I am referring to vehicles, Madam Speaker. Ground transportation.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The Civil Aviation has this matter under consideration at all times. We do know that when you look at the schedule of arrivals that begin from 11.30 AM and go on to 3.00 or so in the afternoon, that you have a maximum period when persons are congregating in that area, either departing or arriving passengers. While the traffic flow is not ideal, I do not believe that at the moment there is within the airport area itself a significant problem to solve.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 122, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 122

No. 122: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce how Government's efforts to promote the Cayman Islands as a tourist destination among the residents of Spain has benefited the Caymanian people.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Before I answer that question, could I apologise for having my answer to the Third Elected Member for George Town, with an answer that states, "This is a Parliamentary Question for the First Elected Member for Bodden Town." My apologies to you.

The answer to the question asked by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town is: The decision to appoint a tourism representative in Spain was taken after careful analysis of the Spanish market by the Department of Tourism. This analysis revealed that in Spain there existed a potential market for the Cayman Islands, particularly among the more affluent, upscale tourists, which matched the profile of the type of visitor targeted internationally by the Department of Tourism.

During 1995 the contribution to our economy and the resulting benefits to the Caymanian people have been estimated at approximately US$1.1 million, with an average spend of US$2,500 per visitor. Visitors from this market are accustomed to a full month of vacation and spend an average of 12 nights in the Cayman Islands. They are among the highest spenders.

Through the efforts of the Department of Tourism to attract meeting and incentive markets, a group of 120 persons are now finalised for February 1997. Estimated expenditure to be generated by that group is US$250,000.

The Spanish market is still relatively new to the Cayman Islands and is still in the developmental phases. But it is safe to say, from information available so far, that the decision to go after this market was a good one and it has the potential for growth and substantial contribution to our tourism industry.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say if the group of 120 persons given in the answer represents the only booking for 1997?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I am sure that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town is trying to tell a joke. It is only an example of some of the visitors that we have arranged for, to try to show the benefits generated by a certain number of people.

In 1995 the arrivals were 459, and in 1996 through the end of July, or the estimate for the year, we are looking at 600 visitors.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Minister say what the costs of operating with a representative in Spain from the Department were, and the advertising that took place during 1995?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The answer to that is in the 1995 Budget Allocation - $99,680. If we compare that to the US$1.1 million which this country benefited from, I would say that that was a good deal.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Would the Minister say if the amount he just mentioned was the actual amount spent, or was more spent?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I think the 1995 accounts are still in the finalisation stage. I know that the Auditor General and the Public Accounts Committee are presently looking at all of these, but I am not in a position to give that information at this time.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 123, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 123

No. 123: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation if any changes have been made to the design of the George Town Hospital since the artist's impression which was published by the Ministry of Health.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: There have been some minor modifications to the exterior of the new hospital since the publication of the artist's impression. These are as follows:

(a) At the request of the Central Planning Authority, the canopy at the front entrance will be extended over the road in order to protect patients arriving at the hospital when it is raining.

(b) The exterior window/shutter combination has been upgraded to hurricane rated shutterless windows to meet the Government's new safety standards for hurricane resistance. Therefore, the shutters shown on the artist's impression will not be on the completed building.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Has there been any change to the roof of the hospital from a hip roof to a flat roof to adjust cost on the project?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: As a prudent Government trying to save money we looked at it. But the Central Planning Authority urged that we stay with the hip roof and the cost of this will probably work out to be less than 1% of the overall cost of the hospital.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 124, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 124

No. 124: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works when the dredging operations are expected to resume in the North Sound.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: As Honourable Members of this House have heard before, only one dredging operation is currently licensed to dredge in the North Sound. This original 1988 licence was granted to Caymarl Ltd on 3rd May, 1996, which requires the licensee to provide Government with 30 days' written notice prior to commencement of works. As of yet, my Ministry has not received the written notice.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister say if in the Throne Speech this year it was not stated that there were actually two dredging operations which were said to be the completion of licences previously granted? One was dealing with Simmons dredging, if I recall correctly.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: It was said that those would be entertained the same as Caymarl Ltd. But thus far nobody has come forward with anything on that.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Would the Honourable Minister say if any requirements have been put in place by Government for these operations to carry out proper inspections or impact studies with regard to these pending dredging operations?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: The pending dredging operations were all in the area of a study that was carried out which recommended that some 12 million cubic yards of marl could be removed, of which, it is my understanding, less than 2,000 have been taken.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Minister say which study he is referring to? When was it completed, and was it accepted by any previous Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: The study was done prior to this Government. It was sometime before 1988. I do not have the other information. If the Member would put it down as a substantive question, I will be happy to give him the information.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: To jog the Honourable Minister's memory, could the study he is referring to be one that was done 20 years ago?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: I just said that I did not have the information with me. I will give it to the Member after I research it.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 125, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 125

(Deferred)

No. 125: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works to give an update on the progress of the development of the National Roads Plan.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: There seems to be some mix-up with the Order Paper. This question was not supposed to be down for today. I ask that it be set down for a later date. I have already spoken to the Clerk about it.

The Speaker: So the question is that the answer to Question No. 125 be deferred until a later Sitting?

Hon. John B. McLean: That is correct.

The Speaker: The question before the House is that the answer to question No. 125 be deferred. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The answer is accordingly deferred.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 125 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Question No. 126 is standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 126

No. 126: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning if a full complement of teachers has been hired for all of the Government schools for the September 1996 term.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, the Education Department has recently hired 43 new staff to begin the new school year. Twenty-six fully trained teachers have been assigned to fill all vacant teaching posts in the schools, as well as 17 teacher's aides and special support assistants. I am happy to report that 19 of these posts have been filled with Caymanians, the largest number in recent years.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I know what the answer is saying, but I will ask a specific question: Can the Minister say if the Savannah Primary School is lacking any teachers at all at present?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I understand that one of the 43 teachers that we agreed to employ was unable to fulfil that post through some technical Immigration problems. We have now put supply teachers in there and the new teacher should be in the post within the next few weeks. Out of the 43, this was the only one who was, unfortunately, unable to take up the post.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Minister say, if I am not straying too far, how many teachers in the staff complement up until this time have been transferred from teaching staff to members of the Education Department?

The Speaker: I do not know if the Minister has that information. That would have required prior notice.
: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Three teachers were promoted to the Education Department, I understand. I should point out that the Chief Education Officer knew only a week before the schools opened that out of the 43 teachers that one teacher could not take up the post.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: For purposes of clarity, are the three posts which the Minister just referred to part of the 43 new staff?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: If I am understanding the Member correctly, the three who transferred to the Education Department are not included in the 43 I have referred to here. If that is what the Member is asking.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: That is exactly what I am asking. Does that mean that there are three vacancies which have not been filled?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I repeat: All vacancies are filled in the teacher's posts. The one who unfortunately did not take up the position is covered by supply teachers. Therefore, all teaching posts are filled, all children are being properly taught by the qualified teachers.

The Speaker: The last supplementary. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Just to make clear what I am asking, if 43 new staff have been hired, and three of the existing staff have been promoted creating three vacancies, and none of the 43 staff just hired is filling those three posts, then how are the posts being filled?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I am going to repeat that all of the posts in the schools are filled. The three teachers who are not in their posts have other teachers in those posts. What the Member is trying to achieve is for me to say that all of the posts are not filled, but all the posts are filled. I can answer no further than that. They are all filled.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 127, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 127

No. 127: Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks asked the Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture what is the status of the Public Library for West Bay.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Money was approved in the 1996 Budget for the West Bay Public Library which was to be housed in the West Bay Town Hall. The West Bay Town Hall is a hurricane shelter. Once the new Civic Centre and Hurricane Shelter have been constructed, the plan for the use of the Town Hall as a District Library for West Bay will be implemented.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: I wonder if the Honourable Minister can tell us what Government's policy is with regard to construction of public libraries in the outer districts.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: The Government's plans for district libraries includes the utilisation of present Town Halls in those districts that also have other buildings for Civic Centres.

For instance, the representatives from the district of Bodden Town have also asked that we examine the old Bodden Town health clinic as a possible site for the library instead of utilising the present Town Hall. We have taken that into consideration, and I know that the Public Works Department has investigated it and made some recommendations.

The general policy includes utilisation of present Town Halls for libraries.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 128, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 128

No. 128: Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks asked the Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture what the present status of the Civic Centre for West Bay is.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: The master plan for the West Bay Civic Centre/Multi-Purpose Hall has been approved by the Planning Department. The ground-breaking ceremony is planned for some time in the first two weeks of October.

I should say that we have recently completed a purchase transaction of all the properties needed where it was the intention of Government to place the Civic Centre. When I say 'we', I refer to the Lands and Survey Department.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

And may I ask in the future that you allow one Member to sit before rising? No two Members should be on their feet at the same time.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wonder if the Honourable Minister can say whether or not a contract has been awarded in regard to the construction of the new Civic Centre for West Bay.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I do not think so. I think those things will be completed in the run-up to the ground-breaking. I am hoping that it will be completed by the first two weeks of October.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: I would like to ask the Minister if he could give any time schedule as to when the Civic Centre will be finished.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I am hoping that once it is started, the Civic Centre will be completed in the first half of 1997. It will begin construction in October.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning. We proceed now to Government Business, Bills, First Reading.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

BILLS

FIRST READING

COMPANIES LAW (1995 REVISION) (AMENDMENT) (AUTHORISED SIGNATORIES) BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Companies Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Authorised Signatories) Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and is set down for Second Reading.
Second Reading.

SECOND READING

COMPANIES LAW (1995 REVISION) (AMENDMENT) (AUTHORISED SIGNATORIES) BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Companies Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Authorised Signatories) Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I beg to move the second reading of a Bill entitled, The Companies Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Authorised Signatories) Bill, 1996.

The Companies Registry operates in a highly competitive market where competitors are continually enhancing services offered in an effort to attract investors to their respective jurisdictions. Since 1990 the Companies Registry has grown by 63%. Presently, there are over 36,000 companies registered, compared to 22,260 as at 31st December, 1990.

In 1996, registration from 1st January to 31st July was up 28.9%, compared to the same period in 1995. To be more specific, the number of companies registered from January through the end of July was 4,298, compared to 3,335 for the same period in 1995.

Since its inception, the Registrar of Companies and his Deputy have been responsible for signing all documents processed and issued by the Companies Registry. Due to the growth of the register and the increasing demands of the financial industry in recent years, it has become increasingly difficult for the registry to process and issue documents on a timely basis.

To meet the growing demands of the financial industry, earlier this year three Assistant Registrars were recruited by the department. The staff of the Companies Registry are restructured to include working teams of four persons with an Assistant Registrar being assigned as supervisor to a team managing a portfolio of 12,000 plus companies.

Turning now to the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons: "This Bill seeks to improve the efficiency of the Companies Registry and to reduce the time needed to complete the registration process."

"Section 3 of the Companies Law (1995 Revision) provides that only the Registrar of Companies and his deputy may sign documents relating to the registration of companies. The amount of business now transacted by the Registry combined with the limited number of authorised signatories, is resulting in unacceptable delays, and clause 2 of the Bill rectifies that by enabling the Financial Secretary to authorise additional officers within the Registry to sign documents and to undertake other functions that are now restricted to the Registrar and his deputy."

"Clause 3 provides that a document purporting to be validly signed by an authorised officer shall be accepted as such until the contrary is proved, even if the signature is mechanically or electronically reproduced, thereby enabling computer-generated and pre-printed documents to bear facsimile signatures."

I commend this Bill to this Honourable House.

PRAYERS

Hon. John B. McLean:: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, the Minister seems to be late this morning. The Government is asking for the Report to be deferred, either for later today or in the morning.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Minister.

We shall proceed to questions. Question No. 129 is standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MINISTERS/MEMBERS

QUESTION NO. 129

No. 129: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what effect the reintroduction of the reception class has had on the enrolment figures at the North Side and East End Primary School s.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Madam Speaker, the answer: The reintroduction of the reception classes at East End and North Side Primary School s has had a positive effect on the enrolment at both schools. The total enrolment at East End Primary before the introduction of the reception class last year was 67, while the registration for this year has risen to 111.

The enrolment at North Side Primary School in 1995/96 was 37, and the registration for 1996/97 has risen to 64.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Could the Honourable Minister say if this is going to be re-introduced in the other primary schools in the islands?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Madam Speaker, at present there is no space in any of the other schools to do so. We have no immediate plans, but it is something we will keep under review having seen how well this project has gone.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Minister say why the decision was taken to reintroduce the reception class in the North Side Primary School?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Madam Speaker, the lady Member from North Side pressed me quite a few times to look into this matter and was quite consistent with her request. As a result, we did a quick study and realised that what she was saying was correct. There is no private nursery school in North Side, so there were a lot of inconveniences to parents who had to take their children outside of the school catchment area to pre-schools in other districts. This was one way of assisting the working parents who had to leave their young children. I thank the lady Member for pointing this out to me.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 130, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 130

No. 130: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning if provision has been made to provide a steel-pan teacher for the John Gray High School for September.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Madam Speaker, the answer: A teacher has been hired at the John Gray High School who has extensive experience in steel pan organisation and instruction. While she has been hired primarily to teach Mathematics and Physics, she will also teach steel-pans and work with the steel band.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Could the Honourable Minister state the nationality of this individual?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Madam Speaker, I understand that her nationality is Trinidadian.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 131, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 131

No. 131: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works to state what developments have taken place with the annual Agricultural Show over the last four years.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, the answer: During the past four years significant strides have been made to improve the annual Agricultural Show to the benefit of both the farming community and the public.

1. Buildings:
 - a) Construction of a purpose-built pavilion of 12,600 sq. ft. The building provides accommodation for display of exhibits and allows for greater ease of judging during competitions. Conference and meeting facilities are also contained within the building.
 - b) Construction of permanent structures including livestock holding facilities for cattle, horses, pigs and goats; a parade ring; kitchen and rest room facilities and gate facilities for organised entry and exit of patrons.
 - c) Construction of semi-permanent structures including food stalls, booths and children's play enclosure and petting zoo.
2. Site Improvements:
 - a) Approximately eight acres were filled and landscaped to provide safe and easy access to all areas of the show ground where exhibits and displays take place.
 - b) A number of picnic tables and rest areas have been provided for the public's benefit.
3. Parking:

Off the road parking was developed to enhance ease of access, improve road safety and minimise inconvenience to neighbourhood residents.
4. Equipment and Supplies:

The Agricultural Society is now able to be cost effective in maintaining and storing owned equipment, for example, snow-cone, cotton candy and popcorn machines, as well as kitchen and other supplies for show purposes.

These physical and material developments have contributed significantly in raising the standard of exhibits and demonstrations to new heights, while providing for greater enjoyment and safety of the visiting public. A considerable effort has been made to ensure that children and families are well catered to during the day of the show.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Would the Honourable Minister be in a position to state the approximate cost to Government for these developments over the same period?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, the construction of the pavilion was $307,850.00, and the cost for the pens was $5,000. A sum of $64,511.00 was spent on the development of the grounds.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Could the Minister say what other benefits have been derived from these developments, if any?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean : Madam Speaker, the annual Agricultural Show now has a permanent home and meeting place. The facility is also used to conduct seminars, workshops, and other training initiatives for the farming community. It is proposed that a portion of the said building will also be developed into the agricultural hall of fame. The Agricultural Society has also been using the facility for mini-shows which have also proven to be a great success.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 132, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 132

No. 132: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning to state the number of students from the Alternative Education Centre which were returned to the John Gray and George Hicks High Schools in the past school year.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the answer: During the past year, 20 students were assigned to the Alternative Education Centre of which seven were returned to the George Hicks High School and three to the John Gray High School on a permanent basis. Of the remaining ten students, seven have been reintegrated on a part-time basis (from between five to 26 class-periods per week) at John Gray High School and two have been returned to George Hicks High School (from eight to 14 periods per week). One student was assigned to the Cayman Islands Marine Institute (CIMI) after being judged as beyond parental control.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden : Could the Honourable Minister say how the students who are returned to the respective schools from the Alternative Education Centre are monitored?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, these students are monitored within the classes by the teachers within those schools.

I would like to point out that the Alternative Education Centre has been very successful in integrating (as I have shown here) students by proper monitoring throughout. It is unfortunate that this had been abolished by Mr. Oswald Rankine and the previous government. It has proven to be very successful and is properly monitored.

SPEAKER'S RULING

The Speaker: May I ask the Honourable Minister in the future not to call people's names? As far as I know, Mr. Oswald Rankine was not a minister, nor was he in charge of education at that time. Thank you.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, may I address you on that?

The Speaker: You certainly may.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: With respect, Madam Speaker, he (Mr. Rankine) was the Permanent Secretary for Education and I have no other way of referring to him, but by his name.

The Speaker: The fact is, as far as I know, the Permanent Secretary in any Ministry is not the person who makes the programmes or the projects for Education; they only carry them out. That is the point I am making Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, my Permanent Secretary is an integral part of my Ministry as anyone could be.

The Speaker: I have made my point Honourable Minister. Thank you.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister state whether these students are referred on the basis of academic deficiency or behavioural problems?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, behavioural problems.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 133, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 133

No. 133: Mr. Roy Bodden: asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what the status of the proposed Drug Rehabilitation Centre to be erected on the Hawley Estate in Breakers is.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The proposed Drug Rehabilitation Centre at Breakers went before the Central Planning Authority on 3rd April, 1996, as an application for change of use of an existing building (on the Hawley Estates at Breakers) to that of a Drug Rehabilitation Centre.

Approval of this application was granted on 24th April, 1996. On 22nd May, 1996, notice of appeal was given by various objectors. I am presently awaiting the outcome of that appeal.

I feel compelled to add that although I am disappointed by this turn of events, the National Team Government and I firmly believe in the democratic process and the right of our people to freely express their wishes and desires. If this means that I have to wait for the process to be completed, then I will do so.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Would the Honourable Minister state what the cost of developing this project will be, and from whence the funds will come?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, $250,000 were provided in the Budget for the first phase. The approximate overall cost will be over $500,000.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 134, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 134

No. 134: Mr. Roy Bodden: asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to provide a status report on the construction of the new hospital.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, I am pleased to report that Phase I of the new hospital is proceeding as planned. The following buildings are under construction:

- a) The building to accommodate the Morgue, Hyperbaric Chamber, Forensic Laboratory and the Mechanical/Electrical services is up to roof level now and, it is anticipated that the wooden roof trusses will be installed this months. It is expected that the construction phase of this one-storey building will be completed in the early part of next year after which commissioning can commence.
- b) The building to accommodate Mental Health, Physiotherapy, and the Intensive Care Unit has been completed to the ground floor slab. The columns to support the upper floor slab are presently under construction. This two storey building is not scheduled for construction completion until early next year after which commissioning can commence.
- c) The building to accommodate the Operating Theatres, Laboratories, Maternity, and Paediatrics, is at the foundation stage and the concrete ground floor slab is in the process of being poured. The construction of this building is anticipated to be completed in the spring of next year after which commissioning can commence.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister state if upon completion there will be a need to acquire any additional property?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, we have no intention at this time to acquire any additional property. With the removal of the MRCU building there will be sufficient space.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Madam Speaker, would the Minister state how this project is being financed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden : Madam Speaker, the first phase of this is being financed through a loan which was part of the November Budget, and next year as we go forward it will be financed from recurrent revenue.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
Can the Honourable Minister state how much money has been expended on this project to date?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, up to this stage we are approximately between $5 million to $6 million. I do not have the exact figures because each day the project moves forward.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 135, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 135

No. 135: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation if the Central Planning Authority has placed any limitations on the noise factor in the construction of the George Town Hospital and if construction noise is affecting the operations in the present hospital.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The Central Planning Authority has not placed any limitations on the noise factor in the construction of the new George Town Hospital. However, the contractor, McAlpine Limited, and the hospital management are very well aware of the potential impact that noise can have on on-going patient care. On occasion it has been necessary to carry out construction in close proximity to the hospital. The hospital staff and the construction team have been able to work together to arrange procedures and services in order to minimise the disturbance to patients. To date no major complainants about noise have been received from patients.

Madam Speaker, I might add that they are so eager to get this going that they are willing to bear with the minimum amount of noise that is going on.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Is the Minister saying that there have been no complaints from patients regarding the noise in the hospital? Has it been affecting the school nearby?

The Speaker: The second question cannot be addressed to the Honourable Minister for Health as he is not in charge of Education.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, I will say that we have had no complaints reported to the Ministry.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister are you addressing the Chair, sir?

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: If you would allow me I could give a dissertation on that issue, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Not at the moment, that is not before the House.

The next question is No. 136, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 136

No. 136: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Member for Internal and External Affairs to state whether civil servants or others paid from public revenue are allowed to receive pension and salary for holding public office at the same time.

The Speaker: The Honourable Member for Internal and External Affairs.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, the answer is yes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Member say if there are any regulations or laws which prohibit this from happening within the Government service?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, not to my knowledge.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Are there any persons employed in the Government Services who are receiving pension and salary at the same time, as is asked in the substantive question?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, there are a few persons receiving pensions who are working with Government and receiving salary.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Member say if all the people who might be eligible for this consideration are receiving the same?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, there is one pensioner who has been re-employed and his pension has been suspended. It has now been brought to my attention and I will be making recommendation to the Public Service Commission for this to be addressed.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean : Could the Honourable Member say if there are any persons within the Legislative Assembly who find themselves in this position, and could the Member give an undertaking to determine how many persons might be eligible for consideration of dual payment and see that they get the opportunity of receiving the same as others?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, I assume the Member is speaking about Elected Members of the Legislative Assembly. To my knowledge, no, there is no one affected. Regarding persons who receive such consideration, there are five persons who were previously employed who have now retired and are now re-employed into the Service.

There is a mixture of employment arrangements for these persons, and there are at least two who are working in the Group Employee category. But I will certainly look into this. As far as I know, there is only one member who would be eligible who has not been receiving both salary and pension.

The Speaker: That concludes Questions Time for this morning. Government Business, Bills. Third Reading.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move that a Bill entitled The Companies Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Authorised Signatories) Bill, 1996, be given a Third Reading.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Companies Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Authorised Signatories) Bill, 1996, be given a Third Reading and passed.

The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture, would you like to speak before I put the question?

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: On a point of procedure, yes.

The Speaker: Please do so.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, today being Thursday, I believe we need to suspend Standing Orders to take that business, as Private Members' business is first on the Order Paper.

The Speaker: Would someone wish to move the suspension of Standing Orders?

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 14(3)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I so move, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 14(3) be suspended in order that Government Business be given precedence, since it is Thursday, the day assigned for Private Members' Business.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 14(3) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: Other Business. Private Member's Motion No. 9/96 - Beach Access and Use by the Public. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' MOTION

PRIVATE MEMBER'S MOTION NO. 9/96

BEACH ACCESS AND USE BY THE PUBLIC

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I beg to move Private Member's Motion No. 9/96 which reads as follows:

"BE IT RESOLVED that the Government make a clear and unequivocal statement regarding access to and use of beaches by the public."

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I beg to second the Motion.

The Speaker: Private Member's Motion No. 9/96, having been duly moved and seconded, is now open for debate.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

It is fair to remark that in this country we have a tradition of using beaches, not only for fishing purposes but also for recreation. This form of recreation is perhaps the most popular form of recreation in this country. It is the recreation of the young, the middle-aged, and even the elderly. Many Caymanians will tell you that a walk on the beach is one of the most refreshing and stress-relieving occupations one can be engaged in. Indeed, our ancestors practised that for generations.

Recently, it seems that many problems have been experienced, even though political directorates in the past went as far as to clearly demarcate beach access ways. With increasing development it seems that people are becoming more property and territory conscious. There have been reports in the recent past of Caymanians who were accosted and/or ejected (or, as in one case, threatened with ejection - and I am speaking about a harmless mother and her two children) for just carrying on normal beach activities. So these incidents have brought to the forefront the importance of, and the necessity for the Government to formulate and make public its clear and unequivocal position regarding the rights and privileges of persons using beaches and beach access ways.

I hasten to add that the business of using beaches and beach access, and the accompanying resentment on the part of some people, is not limited only to Caymanians. Last year sometime, and early this year, one of my constituents who operates a business along Seven Mile Beach called me to express his concern that tourists were (as he described it) being harassed by property owners in their attempt to get to and use the beach. According to the complainant, he had observed this happening on more than one occasion. The tourists were merely bathing on the beach and using that part of the beach which he claimed was not an encumbrance, and were not trespassing on the private landowners' properties. I want to make the point that while Caymanians have been complaining, the complaints and the resentments felt are not limited to Caymanians. Hence, there seems to be a great urgency to clear this matter up.

I have documented some complaints brought to me by persons in the constituency which I represent. In one case one property owner put a dog on one of my constituents, and when he went into the water up to his neck, the dog proceeded to chase him. In another instance, one of the men who frequently fishes for sprats in Bodden Town was chased off a jetty which extended into what we know could not be private property by a property owner and his dog.

Madam Speaker, I can safely say that the Caymanian people are some of the most respectful people in the world. While we have our problems, no one can make me believe that the majority of Caymanians are not respectful of the rights of property owners, particularly when it comes to private property. But I am dismayed, alarmed and concerned that people would be so mean as to put dogs on fishermen who are going about their business of trying to catch a few fish. No good can come of this business; it will breed resentment, and Caymanians, who have a reputation for being gracious hosts and hostesses, will have no alternative but to change their temperament. It behoves none of us, however affluent and fortunate we find ourselves, to become so stingy, scrooge-like and uncharitable that we would resort to this kind of mean behaviour. The resources should be enjoyed by all, particularly if the rights of private individuals are respected, as they have been.

I noticed that in one of these incidents the police had to be summoned to rescue someone. It seems to me that it will be a great help, and once and for all it will put to rest any ambiguities that may occur, if the Government states a legally formulated position which clearly defines the obligations, privileges and rights of persons who seek access to, and who wish to swim at these beaches. It will also allow for property owners to arrive at a clearly stated position as to their rights and obligations in guarding and protecting their private property.

I need not go any further than that in my introduction, but before I sit down I would like to say that it is my understanding that the public's right to the beaches, and use of the beach, has been set down in a Law called The Prescription Law, which dates back to 1882. It had been brought to the forefront as far back as 1955 when our forefathers, at the beginning of development along the Seven Mile Beach, saw the necessity to clearly state and define the rights of the Caymanian people on this issue. I will now leave it to the Government to set the matter straight for all concerned. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

(10.45 AM)

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to offer my support on this very important Private Member's Motion. As a matter of fact, the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay, and I, were so concerned that we had filed a similar motion subsequent to the one on the floor of the House. I am also concerned that this issue be addressed immediately.

One of the things that we have enjoyed in this country is social harmony, that is, everyone having the right and the ability to live in a very friendly and cordial atmosphere. What concerns me, especially with the new breed of investor that I see coming to our shores (and I have heard many comments that concern me), is that they are buying many of these properties for sale along the beaches and the attitude they come with is, "I own the property. You do not have a right to walk on it, or to swim near it." What concerns me is that pretty soon they will go to the extent where they will start fencing these properties along the beaches. I believe the day when that happens in this country, we will see the beginning of a serious social upheaval here.

As leaders we have to ensure that when people come here they know exactly what their rights are, and what is expected of them. Above everything else, I believe (as the First Elected Member from Bodden Town has said) that since for so many years we have enjoyed uninterrupted access to the beaches of these islands, that must continue as a right. I can see, for example, the concern regarding restricting access to the beach in front of the Governor's residence for security reasons. We all can respect and appreciate that. But it is in our best interest to address this issue immediately so that all parties know exactly what Government's position is.

I have recently seen many different interpretations given by very clever and crafty lawyers regarding the law; what the right of each property owner is. It is important for us to say once and for all what the correct official position of the Government is. So I do support this motion. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is obvious that there is some confusion regarding this issue of usage of the beaches. We have seen various letters in the press from prominent lawyers concerning this very subject. I believe that there was a 19th century law in existence which allowed the public to use the beaches up to the 'vegetation mark'. Subsequent to that, in the 1980s that was changed to the 'high water mark'. As a result of that, various investors bought property down to the high water mark and feel that this property is owned by them because they have paid for the property.

There are instances (as we have heard reported) where people using the beaches - not just above the high water mark (between the high water mark and the vegetation mark) but between the high water mark and the sea - are driven off the beaches. This is causing a great deal of confrontation, and at times even the police have had to be called in to resolve the matter. I saw a police report recently that may have been a bit confusing to various members of the public.

I do not believe that at this point in time we can say to investors that they have to give up property they own. On the other hand, it has been a traditional right that we have all been able to enjoy our beaches, in particular, to have public access to them. I have various suggestions which I have made to Government. The issue certainly needs to be discussed and resolved. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise to give my support to this motion because I feel it is a serious matter as it is now before the Government.

The beaches on these islands are a part of our heritage. They were enjoyed by our forefathers. I remember walking along the beach myself, and nobody stopped me (of course at that time there were no developments there), however, it was a known fact that the water mark on the beach was to the vegetation mark. I understand that it has been moved down to the high water mark, but I do not feel that is fair because it will cause contention.

The people enjoy the beaches for walking, not only for swimming. For somebody to tell you that you cannot walk on your own beach... it would be as the Calypso song says, "This beach is mine."

I give the Government this advice: Try to straighten out this matter as quickly as possible. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, the use of beaches in this country has always been clear to me. In the recent rumblings concerning the use of the beach, the police, on behalf of the Government, made quite a clear statement about it. They made it quite clear that the public can use the beach.

The Prescription Law supersedes any Regulation in regard to the use of beach. That Prescription Law has been what has been governing the use of beaches, even though Regulations have been changed for various reasons. Nevertheless, no one can say that they do not know how the beaches have been used in this country. Ever since we had a population the beaches have been used for various reasons, recreational and otherwise. The Prescription Law, as one Member noted, goes back to the 1800s. So it is over 100 years old. When anyone says that we have had the right for 20 years... we have had it, as I said, from the time we had a population. We have always been using the beaches.

Any person who comes here as a developer, or as a retiree, whatever, and wants to make this his home, must understand that if he builds next to a road he is going to hear noise. If people go and build next to the beach, they are going to have people using the beach. If I went to the beach I certainly would take cognisance of anyone's home next to the beach. For instance, growing up as a child in West Bay, I would walk the entire beach. But when I got to the Governor's residence (the Administrator's residence as it was called then) I would go up and walk the main road. We would not even go across his house on the beach, out of respect. Of course, other people walked there, but there were no nuisances created. We respected the privacy of others.

Nobody should expect to go in someone's swimming pool, but certainly all the land between that fence and the beach has been used from time immemorial. Certainly, this Government is not going to tolerate anyone who thinks that he has some rights now that he did not have before. We are not going to tolerate it, at least this Member of Executive Council is not going to tolerate it.

The Police made this quite clear in the Caymanian Compass of Thursday, 8th of August. I quote: "The Royal Cayman Islands Police would like to remind the beach-front residents that the public has the right to use the beach for recreation and attempts to remove them from the beach could, in certain circumstances, amount to a criminal offence.". It goes on to say: "It has been noted by Police that the public have this right to use the beach, even though the 1987 Land Survey Regulations now show survey lines for private property as extending to the high water mark. Those Regulations do not supersede the Prescription Law, which gives the public use of the beach for recreation and bathing between the high water mark and the vegetation line.".

So any lawyer, foreign or Caymanian, for his own use or for the use of his clients, had better realise the kind of social problems they could be creating for a few dollars.

I say to one and all that they had better heed this Police announcement. We are not going to tolerate any obstruction of the rights of our people. We only have to look around the region; we know that other countries have had that problem and it has caused social problems. In Cayman, we have lived together (expatriates and Caymanians)... if he came from the moon he was welcomed in our islands. I am not expecting that to change; we want it to continue. Anyone feeling otherwise better understand that we are standing behind what is in the Prescription Law and what the Police have said.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Second Official Member.

Hon. Ivor Archie: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise in the hope that I can make a short statement that might help to clarify the Law in relation to this matter. There is more than one concept that is involved in this issue. One of the difficulties that has arisen is that "beach" is not defined in the Prescription Law. There are two concepts: the sea shore or foreshore (which is that land lying between the high water mark and the sea or the low water mark). There is "beach" which would include the foreshore, but can extend land-ward beyond the high water mark and will include anything that is continuous with the foreshore until it is interrupted by the vegetation or a road or some similar structure.

Regulation 28 of the Land Survey Regulations which was referred to earlier indicates that "where any parcel of land is bounded by the sea, the seaward boundary is the high water mark", and this appears to be in accordance with the common law. What that means is that the boundaries of private land may include a part of the beach. But at common law, that part of the beach which lies between the high water mark and the sea is Crown land and, the public has traditionally enjoyed the free use of that land. No private individual has the right to exclude anyone from Crown land. Notwithstanding the fact that the boundaries of private land may include the part of the beach above the high water mark, the public under the Prescription Law can acquire right to use that part of the beach for fishing, purposes incidental thereto, for bathing and for recreation; once it has enjoyed that uninterrupted use for a period of 20 years. Once this right is acquired it is indefeasible. In other words, a subsequent purchaser of the land will take title to the land subject to the right of the public to use as aforesaid. Similarly, the public by long user can acquire a prescriptive right of access to the beach over a road, track or pathway which passes over any adjacent or adjoining land.

Madam Speaker, if anyone seeks to dispute that right or any dispute arises in relation to a particular parcel of land, what the Prescription Law provides is that any person concerned in such a dispute can take the matter to the Grand Court for a final and definitive determination. I hope that will serve to clarify the issue. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Madam Speaker, as the seconder of this motion I certainly do support the resolve, and the request that is made therein, that the Government make a clear and unequivocal statement regarding access to the use of beaches by the public. It is good to hear that at least one Minister has stated his views quite clearly regarding the matter of beach access.

These islands are developing at a rapid rate, and we find that stupefyingly large sums of money are being paid to own beachfront property. It has become something of "Cayman gold", and it is in direct contrast to the way it was viewed by our forefathers. The land in the interior was seen as being more valuable, simply from the fact that you could cultivate it. The beach was not as fertile, and was largely used for the purpose of fishing. The situation now is that the property on the beaches is much more valuable.

There are many islands in the Caribbean that have experienced serious problems with persons who have bought beach property and have gone out of their way to deny access to the indigenous people. In fact, a few years ago a very popular calypso song was produced by a Barbadian, and the title of it was "Jack Don't Want Me to Bathe on My Beach." It came about as a result of a major issue in Barbados over denial to the indigenous populace using the beaches. Fortunately for us, our forefathers saw what was coming and in 1955 they put in place a Law which guaranteed our right to access the beach.

It is interesting to note that the Prescription Law actually existed since the 25th of February, 1882. When the Cayman Islands adopted the Prescription Law, Jamaica also brought that Law into effect. I see that in Chapter 304 (Law 65 of 1882) the Prescription Law took effect the same time in Cayman. Obviously we are reaching a point where there are persons who will challenge the rights of Caymanians (and other people visiting the country) to use the beach, or else there would not have been the need for the Police to remind beach owners and the public what is prescribed under the Prescription Law.

I must say that I am very pleased to see the quick response of the Police. I think there were about three occasions when the Police made the statement, and made it again because of this particular matter of beach use. Enforcing this Law speaks well of the Police.

There have also been letters from two attorneys-at-law regarding this matter. One clearly gets the impression that one lawyer was saying that there are some beaches to which the Prescription Law applies. Certainly, that was what I understood from it. Indeed, in this particular letter the lawyer was saying that the Government should make a clear statement as to which beaches such access is allowed.

The other letter by another attorney (namely, Mr. Steve McField) was more specific in its argument that the Law did not apply to some beaches, but to all beaches in the Cayman Islands. I would certainly want to believe that the beaches of Little Cayman and Cayman Brac were not excluded, since they are a part of the Cayman Islands.

There is a section of the Law, section 304, subsection (4), that I would like to read because it seems to me to be very explicit, as if the people who drafted it wished there to be no mistake whatsoever. It reads: "When any beach has been used by the public or any class of the public for fishing, or for purposes incidental to fishing, or for bathing or recreation, and any road, track or pathway passing over any land adjoining or adjacent to such beach has been used by the public or any class of the public as a means of access to such beach without interruption for the full period of twenty years, the public shall, subject to the provisos hereinafter contained, have the absolute and indefeasible right to use such beach, land, road, track or pathway, as aforesaid, unless it shall appear that the same was enjoyed by some consent or agreement expressly made or given for that purpose by deed or writing.". That makes the situation very clear as to what our forefathers intended in this Law regarding people using the beaches in the Cayman Islands.

It "shall be" the Law says, an "indefeasible right." I looked up the meaning of the word 'indefeasible', and it is shown in the dictionary as an adjective. In Law it means, not liable to be annulled or forfeited. It made the point that the person who purchases that land needs to clearly understand that they are purchasing land which falls under the Prescription Law and they must abide by that Law.

It is very timely that this should come to the forefront, and that persons who pay very large sums of money to purchase the beaches here in the Cayman Islands should understand that it is not as it perhaps is in some other islands (or perhaps on the mainland of some other countries), it is different; and the people (the residents) of the Cayman Islands have the right of access to the beaches, not to abuse them, not to try to take advantage of buildings or structures that persons may have built on them. The particular parts of the beach were described quite clearly by the Attorney-General when he spoke on it. This needs to be very clearly understood to avoid any problems now or in the future.

I am very happy to hear the response from all the Members who have spoken, to know that we all share and recognise this particular part of our culture, and none of us is prepared to see that altered in any way.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Hear, hear!

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I do not know what has happened to some of the signs showing access to swim areas along the Seven Mile Beach. It may be a good time to determine where they were and replace them, not only on the Seven Mile Beach, but throughout the islands. It would be wise for Government to mark clearly all access to swim areas now.

Madam Speaker, I support this Motion because it is seeking to do the right thing: we are ensuring that our culture is not taken from us, that the traditions our forefathers left for us are being followed, and that future generations will indeed be proud of us for taking the stance we have on this issue. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Private Member's Motion No. 9/96 calls on the Government to make a clear statement as to what the right of access to beaches is. I would like to say that my colleague has done an excellent job in explaining this. Very little needs to be done, as it is quite clearly stated in the Laws he cited.

I would like to point out that it was a government of which I was a part some years ago, that made sure that public access was identified and defined, especially on the Seven Mile Beach. One only needs to look around, especially at Easter time, to see exactly what our people have been used to for many years, that is to say, the full use of the beaches around the Cayman Islands. I would venture to bet that all areas of our beaches, even the shorelines of Grand Cayman, have been used by the public at one time or the other.

I am aware of the concerns which Members have put forward today. I believe with all of the development taking place in the various districts, probably each district has had a problem at some time or the other with beach access. I recall several problems with developers on the Seven Mile Beach. I recall a problem in the district of Bodden Town where persons were driven away from the beach. I personally visited that site.

I recall that in recent times a developer in my district tried to remove a footpath that had been there from the time I can recall (and that is many moons ago). It was the only access to that part of the island. However, as has been pointed out, it is quite clear that if there is a dispute, the recourse is the Grand Court. I think we have to depend on what is laid down in the Law when this matter comes about to have it corrected.

I do not think that anybody needs more to work with than what is here in the Law. What we need at this point in time is to get this message to the ears of the developers in this country so that they know what to expect when they are developing. It seems as if a lot of them believe that once they have purchased that section they have purchased as far as they can see over the waters. Perhaps it is a civil matter through the Planning Department. At least it is my opinion that it would be a good place to start, so that each developer has something in his licence that identifies specifically what he will occupy, and along with that what the Laws of this country state.

Madam Speaker, I am pleased with the statement rendered on behalf of the Government. I hope and trust that this too will reach the ears of the developers in this country. I make an appeal to developers who come to our shores. I trust that each one of them will see, along with us, that we have been here; and that we need them, but we also need them to work along with our people. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

This Motion calls for a statement by Government regarding access to use of beaches by the public. I am very happy to endorse the statement made by the Honourable Attorney-General.

The importance of beaches and right of access is one that has always been important to our people. As the last speaker (the Honourable Minister for Agriculture) mentioned, the Unity Team Government of 1976 to 1984 spearheaded this by putting sections in the Development and Planning Law which required beach access to be left where there were parcels of land, I think exceeding 200 linear feet, on the beach. The Government has clearly marked these accesses, and as one drives along the West Bay Road (and the Law related to the West Bay beach area at that time when it was being developed) one will see these blue or green signs saying "Beach Access". It is only a pedestrian right-of-way, it is not a vehicular one. But this gives access to the beach and to the high water mark and areas below.

As the Honourable Attorney-General has pointed out, in applying the balance of the common law, especially the Prescription Law, this is a question of fact as to users beyond the 20 year period, and once vested it is indefeasible. It is important that we preserve sufficient beaches for Caymanians and residents to have access and to also ensure that as future development arises the proper beach accesses remain.

The present public beach is one that I, along with the Jaycees (at the time), spent a lot of time and effort on, and we granted a licence to them so that they could develop it. This was subsequently turned over to the Leo Club which now carries on, and does a good job with it.

When we look at the royalty that was being paid under dredging rights, which was practically nothing some 12 years ago, in the vicinity of the Rum Point area we got three acres of land there. More than that, there are other areas of public land which the Government reserves for access, not necessarily to the beach, but to the water, because some of these accesses are in the North Sound. It is unfortunate that one of the largest pieces of these properties at SafeHaven was swapped by the last Government for a piece of land somewhere in the middle of Frank Sound. It was quite large in acreage, extremely valuable land. That, unfortunately, is gone.

During the Land Adjudication stage (of which I was Assistant and/or Attorney-General) whenever beach rights, fishing, access for swimming and Government land in general came up, even though I was not then a civil servant I did everything I could and actually, on several occasions, property was awarded to the Government on the basis of my urging the Land Adjudicators to do so. Very substantial pieces of land, in fact, in all three of the islands were awarded, because I practised law in those days and represented probably half of the cases that arose during those early years.

We are very aware (the whole Legislature) of the importance of these rights to beach access. We have to ensure that they continue and we will undertake to continue to do everything we can to protect and extend those rights. I think in time we must continue to buy property where it is in the interest of the public for recreation. I support that policy. I am sure that the National Team will continue that policy and see that the public gets the right it is entitled to under the Law. Thank you.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise also to give support to this motion. Much has been said about it, and I know, without a doubt, that we will endorse what has been said. I was very impressed by the explanation given by the Honourable Attorney-General. This should leave no doubt in the minds of developers as to where we stand on this issue.

I remember in recent times in the district of Bodden Town (and specifically in the area of Spotts) there were a lot of problems because people could not get access to the stretch of beach there. With the support of my National Team colleagues and other Members of this Legislative Assembly, we were able to purchase a piece of land directly behind the Spotts cemetery, which I would venture to say is now one of the most popular areas next to Seven Mile Beach, judging from the amount of cars I see parked there. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works for his efforts in helping us get this sorted out.

I remember also that after this Government took over in 1992, there was a piece of land in the Pease Bay area where electronic surveillance was put in and people jogging in the evenings were harassed and told that they could not do so. But we dealt with the matter and eventually sorted it out. I would ask the developers to respect our rights, as Caymanians, to these areas that have been here from the time most of us can remember. The laws which have been on our books for over one hundred years govern our rights.

I think the message that has come forward from this Legislative Assembly should leave no doubt in anyone's mind as to where we now stand on this very important issue as a Government. As has been said, there have been accesses provided for people. I am sure that as we continue development, these accesses will be better marked. I would urge those who are responsible to make more markings for beach access, especially on the eastern part of the island.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.40 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.14 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

If no one else wishes to continue the debate, I would ask the First Elected Member for Bodden Town if he would like to exercise his right of reply.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I have listened to the contributions made by Members from both sides of the House, and it seems that it is safe to conclude that if the Motion does not have total unanimity, it has near unanimity.

Before I sit down, there are a few points which I think are still left to be made. I first wish to reassure property owners involved that what is asked for in the Motion is in no way threatening, or intended to be any infringement of their rights of ownership as far as their private properties are concerned. In no way are we advocating any encroachment; rather, we are seeking an understanding and asking for their cooperation in countenancing and accommodating the rights and privileges to which our people have been accustomed to for generations.

I noticed too, that one of the letters in the media was written rather tongue-in-cheek, but the author alluded to the point that since the beaches were public, then perhaps the public should come and help him clear the litter off that section of beach in front of his property. I wish to make the point that Caymanians must always be cognisant of their obligations when they use, not only beach property, but other properties to which the public must have access. It must be left in a litter-free state. So, while we are advocating accommodating and understanding, we are also reminding our people that when they are making use of these properties, that as far as is possible they leave the area litter free. That may mean removing litter or obstruction which was not placed by the user. It would help to promote the understanding.

The point also needs to be made (although I heard my colleague, the seconder, make reference to this) that this Motion applies to all beaches, including those in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

I took note of what the Honourable Acting Attorney-General said. I would crave the Chair's indulgence in reading the Motion. It reads: "BE IT RESOLVED that the Government make a clear and unequivocal statement regarding access to and use of beaches by the public.". I interpret this to mean that a specific statement be made. I believe that the Honourable Attorney-General gave an able reply, but in the past I noticed that when the Government wished to make statements they crafted something and read it from the halls of this Chamber (if we were in session or otherwise) and thereby caused it to be read over the radio, television, or to appear in printed media. Certainly, in this case I would expect no less, and it seems that any support of this Motion implies an effort in that direction. Such a statement could define publicly their obligation, as I mentioned, in terms of leaving the property litter free.

I would also hope that the Government would see fit to erect, where necessary, the proper access signs demarcating a swimming area so that there be no ambiguities. It is important that we approach it in a systematic way, because this matter should not be allowed to fester.

The final point that I wish to make is for those people who would seem to be clever and crafty. There is a lesson to be learned from what has happened here this morning in that although we are in a politically-warm time (being an election year) when it comes to the rights of our people, there is really no division between us, and we are prepared to close ranks. While I would not normally do so on other occasions, I will gladly hold hands with my good colleague, the Minister for Youth, to protect the rights of our people.

So let it be clear...

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: (inaudible interjection)

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, to avoid any jealousy, I will gladly hold hands with my colleague, the Minister for Education and Planning on one side, and the Minister for Youth on the other, to protect the rights of our people. So I would hope that no one out there believes that there is any rift among us as far as this issue and these kinds of issues are concerned. I believe I have said that before.

So with that note of caution, I thank those who support the Motion, and I beseech the Government to consider making a public statement. Quite frankly, I would have been elated had it been read from the Legislative Assembly this morning. But I will be reasonable and hope that it can be forthcoming in the very near future.

The Speaker: The question is Private Member's Motion No. 9/96: "BE IT RESOLVED that the Government make a clear and unequivocal statement regarding access to and use of beaches by the public."

The Speaker: Please be seated. Proceedings are resumed. Presentation of Papers and of Reports.

The Financial Statement of the Port Authority of the Cayman Islands for the year ended 31st December, 1995 and 1994. The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND OF REPORTS

FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF THE PORT AUTHORITY OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS FOR THE YEAR ENDED
31ST DECEMBER, 1995 AND 1994

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House, the Financial Statement of the Port Authority of the Cayman Islands for the year ended 31st December, 1995 and 1994.

The Speaker: So Ordered.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, the financial position of the Port Authority at the end of December 1995, shows a total income for the year of $6.4 million, compared to $5.6 million in 1994. The Operating Expenses of the Port Authority for 1995 was $4.4 million compared to $4.2 million in 1994. Therefore, the net income for 1995 is $1.9 million in comparison to $1.4 million in 1994.

I believe that the management and Board of the Port Authority deserve congratulations for the way in which the operations of that Authority have been run over the years, but most particularly, 1994 and 1995.

However, the operation in Cayman Brac continues to be one where losses are produced. The income for 1995 is approximately $212,000 compared to the operating expense of $413,000 (or a loss of approximately $201,000, which is assumed by the Grand Cayman operation), and the figure which I quoted earlier, $1.9 million takes into account that loss.

I record my appreciation to the members of the Board for their valuable input in policy decisions and in the operation of the Port Authority.

Thank you

The Speaker: The Report of the Standing Business Committee. The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning, chairman of the Committee.

REPORT OF THE STANDING BUSINESS COMMITTEE
(Meetings held 14th June, 3rd, 10th & 11th July, 1996)

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to lay on the Table of the Honourable House the Report of the Standing Business Committee for the meetings 14th of June, 3rd, 10th, and 11 of July, 1996.

The Speaker: So ordered. The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Madam Speaker, these are self-explanatory. The Committee meets, and in conjunction with you and other Members fixes the business of the House. It has done so, normally meeting on the average of about four times per meeting. Thank you.

The Speaker: Thank you. Continuing with the Orders of the day, Questions to Honourable Members and Ministers. Question No. 137 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 137

No. 137: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture to give a comparison of student loans granted from 1995 to the present, giving annual details.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: From the inception of the Student Loan Scheme in 1987 to the end of 1992, there was an approved value of $1.4 million.

For the years 1993 until August of 1996, there have been 183 student loans approved, including 21 presently being processed, for a value of $3.5 million.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Could the Honourable Minister say if the repayments of these loans are behind or if they are on schedule?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the scheme is in good standing.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 138 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 138

No. 138: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works what is the status of the civic centre for George Town.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The answer: Government has identified the need for a civic centre in George Town, where no such facility currently exists. A site survey has been carried out and a suitable location identified for the facility. It is proposed to proceed with the acquisition of the site, once valuations have been carried out and provisions made for funding the acquisition. The site will be big enough to accommodate such other community projects as a public library and an all-amenities park.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister say if the funding will take place in 1996, or will this be in early 1997?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: As no funds were put in the 1996 Budget for the project, I would assume that it will go into the 1997 Budget.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 139 standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 139

No. 139: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works what parks have been created in the George Town area, and if more are planned.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 139 Standing Order 23(5)

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, the question is under my name, but it has to be answered by the Minister for Community Development. He has asked that it be put down for a later date because he does not have the answer at this time.

The Speaker: The question is that the answer to question No. 139 be deferred until a later sitting. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The question is accordingly deferred until a later sitting.

AGREED: QUESTION NO. 139 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 140 standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 140

No. 140: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation if the bed accommodation at the George Town Hospital is meeting the demand.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: I believe it is well-known that one of the obvious reasons for building a new 128-bed hospital is that for many years now there has been an urgent need for more bed space at the hospital. The situation is most critical in the General Ward, Surgical Ward, and Obstetrics Ward. The bed space in the Paediatric Ward copes with the demand.

The overall bed space is such that the demands of emergency cases can be met, but on occasion this is at the expense of booked elective cases. Thus, patients who have a prior appointment for admission to General or Surgical Ward can, on occasion, have their admission affected by emergency, accident or illness cases which occur. Naturally this is frustrating to the affected patients. The situation will be completely remedied when the new hospital comes on stream.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Minister say how soon facilities may be put in place to provide sufficient bed space for patients needing it and, if there are life-threatening situations occasionally, how are they dealt with?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The first beds will be coming on stream approximately September 1997. Would the Member repeat the last part of the question?

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: How are life-threatening situations which demand bed space dealt with?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Redistribution of bed allocations whenever possible (that is, moving a patient into an area where there is bed space), cutting back on the number of elective surgery care cases booked, thereby not filling the beds; holding patients in the Emergency Room until a bed becomes available in the required ward, and also asking families to cooperate by taking family members who are in hospital for social, rather than purely medical reasons, home.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Would the Minister state clearly whether any emergencies are being turned away from the George Town Hospital?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Absolutely not, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Honourable Minister tell us to what extent elective cases are being affected?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Occasionally once a week.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Honourable Minister tell us the role that the Extended Care Unit plays in patient admission?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The long-stay chronically sick patients would use the extended care unit.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: With the problems being experienced through a lack of bed space to service the demand of patients, could the Minister confirm that this is a direct result of the hospital being stopped - which would have been completed by this time?

The Speaker: That is soliciting an expression of opinion, and is not allowed.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Honourable Minister say if there have been any registered complaints regarding patients who were re-scheduled for elective surgery or otherwise?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: As I have said previously, this does happen occasionally.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 141 standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 141

No. 141: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what was the total cost for air-ambulance service from January 1995 to date.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The total cost for air-ambulance service from January 1995 to August 1996 was C$488,807.56.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister say what possibility Government has of recouping some of this cost?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Most of this money will be added to the patients' bills and will be recouped. Financial Aid cases totalled approximately $160,000 for 1995, and in the first eight months of this year, approximately $127,000.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister say how many cases this amount represents?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: I would prefer to give the Member a written answer on this supplementary.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister tell the House what the cost per trip paid to the company that provide the service is?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The baseline cost for an air ambulance is $3,900. However, the price varies depending on what in-flight medics have to be on board, and that is dictated by the nature of the case.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister say if Government has any arrangement with a particular company, or are there various companies providing this service? If they are local companies, can he say who they are?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: There is no formal arrangement.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister say how, then, are air ambulances arranged for patients in the Cayman Islands if there is no formal arrangement, and does it affect the speed at which one can get an air ambulance?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: For many years there has been a service provided by Mrs. Marjorie Boddin of Executive Air (and this works well). She does all the arrangement; sorting out of visa and passport problems, getting the airports opened at night, etcetera, which allows the Health Services staff to be free to deal with the patient. She is the only one who provides this service.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Can the Minister say what predicted impact the new hospital will have on the necessity and the cost of air ambulance services to the United States and elsewhere?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: As the investigative services are developed, we anticipate that this will be reduced by half.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 142 standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 142

No. 142: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation how is the management of the George Town Hospital set up to ensure medical supplies are available as needed.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Responsibility for the procurement, storage and distribution of medical supplies rests with the Materials Management Section. There are eight members of staff in this section and they report to the Health Services accountant who, I am proud to say, is a full member of the Chartered Institute of Purchasing and Supply in the United Kingdom. There are 1,153 medical supply items held on inventory. These supplies are normally ordered on an annual basis, based on the quantities recommended by a computer programme which keeps track of the usage of materials over the preceding 12 months. Items which are not kept in inventory (because there is no regular demand for them) are ordered on an "as required" basis. The orders for these are submitted at the request of the supervisor of the section using the items.

The task of storing and distributing medical supplies was made much easier and more economical by the opening of the new 10,000 sq. ft. Materials Management building on the hospital site earlier this year.

I must also point out that when our new hospital is completed, distribution of supplies will be all on one site which, of course, is in marked contrast to the Dr. Hortor Memorial project which would have necessitated supplies moving back and forth between the two sites.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: As the Minister referred in his answer to the marked contrast to the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital, could he give us a comparison of the size of the Materials Management building now proposed on the hospital site to that proposed for the Dr. Hortor Memorial Hospital?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: According to the 1992 Master Plan for the George Town Hospital (that is, the existing one), medical stores would have been mainly stored at the new hospital. The square footage set out for that was 4,125 sq. ft. What amazes me is that even with 10,000 sq. ft. for the one we now provide, the space is speedily being filled and becoming very tight.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Would the Honourable Minister state what type of security exists at this location?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: We have the security force on the hospital site and the building is kept locked at all times. The supervisor is there on all occasions.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Would the Minister tell the House if the information showing amounts taken from supplies in any given day is entered that same day into the computer so that the system is keeping a daily record of what is used?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Is it the case that often some supplies run short due to slip-ups with this type of information being put into the computer?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: As I have said, the system is in place and there might be an occasion when this happens because we are still bringing the manpower up to par, these things may happen on occasion.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: The Minister has said that there are 1,153 medical items which are stocked and are normally replaced at the end of the year. Could the Minister say what happens to those supplies which have a shelf-life of less than 12 months?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: These items would be put to a Board of Condemnation and are destroyed once they reach expiration date.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Could the Minister say what provisions are made for reordering and restocking these supplies?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The computer system that is in place will project when these supplies will run out and they will then be ordered accordingly.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 143 standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 143

No. 143: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works if the Farmers' Market is presently operating from a solvent position.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: The Farmers' Co-operative operates the Farmers' Market with assistance from Government in the form of an annual subsidy and occupies its current premises, also owned by Government, rent free.

With this assistance from Government, the market is presently able to meet its current and long-term financial obligations from revenues generated and with the use of an overdraft facility of $100,000.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Minister say if this overdraft facility is one which is guaranteed by the Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, initially the overdraft facility was guaranteed by another member of the Co-op and I. In recent times it has been guaranteed by the Government of the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Does the Honourable Minister have any idea regarding sales at present, on a monthly basis compared to a year ago?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, while I do not have the figures with me, the Farmers' Market is in an improved position at this time regarding sales as compared to last year.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the Honourable Minister's answer he has said that "...the Market is presently able to meet its current and long-term financial obligations." Could the Minister state what these obligations are?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Like any company, the Farmers' Market has certain obligations, such as electricity, water, and salaries for the farmers who sell their products, etcetera.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, could the Minister address the long-term financial obligations, because I do not think what he mentioned are long term.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, the Farmers' Market (and the Co-op that operates it) has focused itself on something which we trust will take us into many years to come. The projections are to move into other areas with the Farmers' Market. I care not to mention them at this time.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Would the Honourable Minister state what the annual subsidy is from the Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I do not have that figure available.

The Speaker: The last supplementary. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Minister state if there is any loan that has been given by the Government which the Farmers' Market still owes?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I pointed out that the Government constructed the building and gave it for use - free. We also offer the subsidy and we guarantee the overdraft. That, as far as I know, are the finances.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 144 standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 144

No. 144: Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks asked the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture what progress has Government made in providing or upgrading sporting facilities and programmes during the past four years.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the answer: Since assuming Office in late 1992, Government has:

- (1) Upgraded the George Town Sports Complex, now called the Truman Bodden Sports Complex by providing: -
 - (a) rubberised athletic tract (mando track)
 - (b) covered seating to accommodate approximately 3,500 patrons, with adequate toilet facilities for players, officials and patrons,
 - (c) built a full-size football field,
 - (d) changing rooms,
 - (e) concession areas, and
 - (f) VIP lounge.
- (2) Upgraded the Ed Bush Playing Field by providing partly covered seating accommodation, complete with changing rooms for players and officials, concession area and adequate toilet facilities for players, officials and patrons.

- (3) Constructed a wicket for cricket in West Bay with a properly grassed outfield. It is proposed to build a pavilion and floodlight the field for night cricket.
- (4) Constructed a softball/baseball diamond in West Bay.
- (5) Assisted with funding (joint funding) to develop the Scholars Recreation Park.
- (6) Provided funding for several churches to build hard courts throughout the island.
- (7) Started the construction of a playing field for Bodden Town.
- (8) Built a playing field in East End with covered seating accommodation.
- (9) Upgraded the North Side, Old Man Bay, playing fields.
- (10) Propose to construct neighbourhood parks in George Town, West Bay, Bodden Town, East End, North Side and Frank Sound.
- (11) Assisted with the development of a park in Cayman Brac.
- (12) Currently refurbishing the Annex Field.
- (13) Provided a synthetic floor at the Lion's Centre to facilitate court games, particularly basketball, netball and volleyball.

Prior to assuming Office as Minister for Sports, the facilities were described by a player from a visiting team as being the "worst in the world." I am pleased to say that our facilities are now described as being among the best in the Caribbean.

To our critics who say that we are spending too much on sports, please be advised that the requirement for recreation is 50 sq. ft. per member of population and these recreational areas should be dispersed throughout the country and not concentrated in one area.

This does not include stadiums which are not used for recreation on a daily basis. Because of the quality of the facilities in the Cayman Islands, at present, we were able to host the following: (1) Western Caribbean Under-19 Basketball Championships; (2) SpikeFest Volleyball Tournament; (3) Taekwondo World Champions; (4) CARIFTA Games (Track and Field); (5) Qualifying leg of the Shell Caribbean Football Cup; and (6) Finals of the Umbro Shell Caribbean Football Tournament.

The Ministry is aware of the maintenance needs for our playing fields and parks. To date, we have purchased equipment and are currently examining our manpower needs.

As Members may be aware, we need someone with agronomy experience. The Agricultural Department, Vigoro Nursery and the Public Works Department are acting as our consultants. We hope to have a complete maintenance programme for our playing fields and parks in place in the new year, God willing.

Madam Speaker, while it is not in the question, I should say that we are now looking at property in Cayman Brac for a park in Spot Bay. This was requested by the First Elected Member for that island and Mrs. Julianna O'Connor. The Ministry is investigating that property.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Minister say if any individual from the Little League Organisation has approached the Ministry for assistance in developing their "Field of Dreams" site?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I have had some discussions with Mr. Calhoun and other persons, including the Member asking the question. But I have not had any written proposals put to the Ministry as yet. I know of the need and the Government is willing and ready to assist wherever we can.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Minister give some detail as to what upgrading has taken place at the Old Man Bay playing field up to the present time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, we have purchased the needed property to upgrade the playing field. We have completed the required architectural drawing and work is intended to be started sometime this month.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Could the Minister say when it is expected that the Bodden Town playing field would be completed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, as I understand the tendering process for the Bodden Town playing field should be completed on the 13th (that is tomorrow), and the first phase of the field is intended to be completed (which is the filling). The completion of part of the grounds should be done by the end of October, mid November.

The Speaker: It is now 11 o'clock. I would entertain a motion for the suspension of Standing Orders to complete Question Time. Would someone wish to move it?

The Member for North Side.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER (23(7) & (8))

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, I so move.

The Speaker: Seconded? The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: I wish to second the motion.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Orders be suspended in order that questions be completed for today.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) & (8) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: Continuing with supplementaries on question No. 144. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister say how maintenance of the playing fields is currently handled?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, the maintenance is handled through a team of workers employed by the Sports Office.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Would the Minister say whether funds were vired from any other source in order to accomplish these projects that are detailed in the answer?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I do not have that information at present, but I think that most of the work was budgeted for and, if vired, virements from one sport project to the next. I could give the response in writing after some investigation.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I wish to enquire of the Minister if there is a schedule of maintenance visits made by this team and, if so, how regularly do they visit the playing fields in the outlying districts?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I understand that the team visits every playing field at least every other week.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, I wonder if the Honourable Minister could say if the Sports Office has carried out any investigation in trying to find people in the districts to carry out the maintenance on the various playing fields?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, awhile ago I mentioned that we were investigating, and now are planning a full maintenance programme for all the parks and playing fields in the islands. Those things will be taken into consideration, but bearing in mind that in spending funds on these kind of facilities, proper equipment has to be purchased to make a proper playing field. For instance, we can no longer take an ordinary lawnmower and cut the grass on the playing field. That is the sort of ramification that anyone on the outside of Government has to take into consideration. It could be very costly.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Madam Speaker, I wonder if the Honourable Minister could say what additional sporting facilities are planned for West Bay, if any.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, we are building a civic centre/hurricane shelter in West Bay. That facility will be made so that some indoor sports (such as boxing, basketball, netball) can be played. It is being built with that in mind. In fact, all of the civic centres, including the one for George Town will be built to be able to accommodate those games.

As far as West Bay is concerned, we are looking at one more court (a netball court) in the Mount Pleasant area.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: I wonder if the Minister could say what the projected completion date is for the civic centre/hurricane shelter he mentioned?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The completion date is scheduled for at least May 1997 - God willing.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister give the status of the Nyah Sporting Club field which they have volunteered to take over and develop?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I understand that the club is carrying on its fund-raising efforts to get assistance to help develop that property. I know that I am trying to assist them with some land reclamation there. I do not have any other details on that.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town. This seems to be a period today when everybody is getting some exercise. I am glad to see that.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Madam Speaker, would the Minister say whether the Government has any current plans to purchase land in the Spotts area for sports purposes?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Not at present. We have 38 acres that the Government has an agreement to purchase over a period of five years. We hope that that property is enough to take us into the new millennium.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Item (12) of the Honourable Minister's answer refers to the refurbishing of the Annex playing field. Could the Minister say when it will be completed, and if on completion the field will only be for use by the George Town Primary School students, or whether it will be able to host soccer games?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I think everyone knows that that property is under the control of the Education Department because of the George Town Primary School. However, every person should also know that that was one of the first fields that was developed in George Town and became, as such, a community field and it has been used over the years as such.

The field is like the West Bay Primary School field, we have to continue to use it, but we make arrangements with the Education Department for its use. That is the same arrangement we are trying to make with the Annex playing field. I should say that the Minister for Education and Planning and the Third and Second Elected Members for George Town have discussed with us the need for other playing fields in George Town. I do not want to leave out my friend, the Member asking the question, because at some stage he mentioned the need also.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The Honourable Minister in his detailed answer referred to "more playing fields in the George Town district," is that specifically to accommodate the teams that play soccer, or are those playing fields for multi-purpose use?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, in the development of new playing fields we are planning to accommodate several sports that can be played in one area. As I have said, there is a need in George Town, because there are many clubs being formed (especially football teams), and as more and more children get involved in sports, we are going to have to spend the funds to build these fields. I hope that I do not hear from this House that we are spending too much money on sports.

The Speaker: The last supplementary. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Is the Minister saying that there will be a concerted effort to identify various locations in the district of George Town in order to acquire these playing fields and have them ready for use?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I would just change his words "will be" to "has been." We have been doing that over the last two years, but more so in the last year by the three Members from the National Team.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 145, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 145

No. 145: Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks asked the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture what programmes have been implemented to assist young people who participate in sporting activities.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Sports was used by this Government during the past four years as a catalyst for social and human development, as well as a means of promoting good health. During the last four years several initiatives were introduced to assist the young people of the Cayman Islands.

Through the Sports Office several community sports programmes were introduced. Apart from the coaching of specific disciplines of sports, there have been camps; inter-district competitions in the areas of basketball, netball, cricket and football. Government continues to emphasise the importance of swimming as a survival skill and recreation, and has approximately 700 children passing through the programme annually.

In addition, each National Association is mandated to have a youth programme to cater to the young people in their respective sport. Government assists these National Associations with an annual grant to promote these programmes for our young people.

It should be noted that there were no organised football camps in 1991 and 1992. However, these were re-organised from 1993. This year camps were organised in basketball, netball, cricket, football and swimming. In football, over 400 children attended camps during this Summer; in basketball, over 250; in cricket, 80; in swimming, 150. Netball camps were held in each district.

Government also introduced a "time release scheme." This is a programme through which people working in other Department/Ministries and the private sector were released by their employer/Heads of Departments to assist the Sports Office with specific programmes, including the After-School Programme. I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those private sector managers as well as Heads of Departments who released their employees to assist the Ministry.

I would also like to pay public tribute to the many volunteers who have been assisting with the various programmes. Because of their assistance Government has realised substantial savings in that if we had to pay for all the services we needed the cost would have been astronomical.

Another initiative by Government was a liaison with Churches and other community groups to promote "After-School Programmes." Government realised that a large number of children were not supervised between the hours of 3 p.m., when most schools are over, and 5 p.m., when most parents usually finish work. We have found that during this period of time a large number of young people of school age were prone to get into trouble. Through these After-School Programmes wholesome, worthwhile activities, including sports, were taught to our children. Several Churches and community groups are involved in running After-School Programmes and Government assisted these organisations with an annual grant.

Government realises that it has a social responsibility to assist in providing recreation for the population. Government, therefore, assisted approximately 34 national sporting associations with their programmes by providing grants and other assistance annually.

During the last four years Government has employed coaches in the areas of netball, basketball, cricket, football, track and field, and swimming. By way of motivation, Government has assisted such as the Northern Caribbean Basketball Under-19 Championships; Shell Caribbean Cup Football Finals; CARIFTA, and hosted an English Under-19 team; the Caribbean Squash Championship; and the World Taekwondo Championships. Because of these broad based programmes our youngsters were successful in international sporting competitions and obtained medals and international recognition in the areas of swimming, track and field athletics, basketball and squash. The young people are excellent ambassadors of the Cayman Islands. Government proposes to continue to promote such programmes and initiatives.

In this regard, I should mention that the Cayman Islands shall be hosting the Commonwealth Youth Exchange programme and young people from several Commonwealth countries shall be in the Cayman Islands promoting goodwill and better friendship. Sporting activities and studies on sports shall be undertaken as part of this programme. This kind of interaction will benefit our young people immensely.

Sport Schools: 1996 was a tremendous success. The children skilled in the areas of basketball, netball, football and cricket were selected (25 from each sport) and were given special training in skilled work and other areas to make them better prepared to represent the country. In the non-sporting areas, prominent people in the districts were brought in to lecture the students. Some of the areas covered were: (1) What it means to represent one's country; (2) Time Management; (3) Sports and Education; and (4) Recognition, treatment and prevention of injuries.

This type of school shall be held annually and is the first step in the development of a "Centre of Excellence."

Scholarship: In recognition of the importance of sports as a vehicle for human development, government plans to award at least one scholarship annually to young people who have done well, both in sports and in their academic work. This year the scholarship was awarded to Mr. Dominique Powell.

I can say to the House that we have intention to assist at least two more young children this year. Further, we have been assisting the Domino League.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: In the Honourable Minister's answer he mentioned Government's assistance by way of sports grants. I wonder if he could say what was the budget provision for sports grants for 1996?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, we do not have that figure at the moment. But I will provide it to the Member in writing.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 146, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 146

No. 146: Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks asked the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture what sporting facilities have been upgraded in the districts over the last four years.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, the answer: During the last four years Government has undertaken the upgrading of sport facilities in the following districts:

WEST BAY

(1) ED BUSH SPORTS COMPLEX

Partly covered seating accommodation was provided to seat approximately 2000 people. Toilet facilities were improved, change rooms added and a concession area provided. Landscaping and car park facilities were provided. This facility was officially opened by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II in February, 1994.

(2) SOFTBALL DIAMOND

Softball diamond was improved, fenced and proper lighting put in to accommodate playing games at night.

(3) CRICKET

A cricket pitch was built and the accompanying outfield prepared. The building of a Pavilion shall be started shortly. [I should say that this is not a West Bay project as such. This is a project for the Cayman Islands, because the Cayman Islands' Cricket Association had no other property and we allowed them to use that facility].

(4) SCHOLARS INTERNATIONAL PARK

A park to be called the "Scholars Park" is being developed as part of this complex. It should be noted that this is a joint effort between Scholars International Sports Club and Government. Scholars Sports Club is investing over $100,000 in this project. On behalf of the Government and the people of West Bay, I would like to take this opportunity to sincerely thank the members of Scholars International.

(5) PARK - MT. PLEASANT

A small hard court is being built in Mount Pleasant by the community with the assistance of Government and should be completed by the end of September, 1996.

(6) WEST BAY CIVIC CENTRE

When the Civic Centre in West Bay is completed, apart from being used as a Civic Centre [or hurricane shelter] it shall also be used for indoor sports, such as boxing, basketball, volleyball, netball, badminton etc.

GEORGE TOWN

(1) TRUMAN BODDEN SPORTS COMPLEX

In 1995, the Truman Bodden Sports Complex was developed; covered seating accommodation to seat three thousand people was provided. With accompanying change rooms, toilet facilities, concession areas, flood lighting, an eight lane rubberised "Mando" Athletic Track, and a full sized football field.

(2) GEORGE TOWN PRIMARY SCHOOL "ANNEX FIELD"

With the expansion of the George Town Primary School the "Annex" Field is temporary out of commission. However, when completed there shall be a park, the lights shall be refurbished and the field prepared so that football can return to the Annex.

(3) BASKETBALL FIELD ON EASTERN AVENUE

The basketball field on Eastern Avenue next to Cox Lumber shall be resurfaced and lit to facilitate the basketball displaced through the expansion of the George Town Primary School. These works should be completed by the end of September.

(4) SPORTS COURT - LION CENTRE

A sports court was purchased by Government and placed at the Lions Centre to facilitate the playing of indoor sports such as volleyball, basketball and netball.

(5) PARKS

Several parks are designated for George Town and shall be located at the Airport; opposite Foster's Food Fair, Smith Road; George Town Annex, and in the Washington Road area. Planning permission for most of these parks have been obtained and work should be started shortly.

I should also mention in relation to George Town, while it is not in the question, the Agape Worship Centre is providing a playing field at that Centre as well.

BODDEN TOWN

(1) BODDEN TOWN PLAYING FIELD

Work on the Bodden Town Playing Field shall be started shortly. A contract for this project has been put to tender.

(2) BODDEN TOWN PRIMARY SCHOOL PLAYING FIELD

Lights have been provided and the field upgraded at the Bodden Town Primary School Field. It should be noted that this was a joint project between Rotary, the community of Bodden Town and Government.

(3) BREAKERS PLAYING FIELD

On the initiative of some of the residents of Breakers, a small playing field was established. Government is assisting the community to complete this project.

I should say that Mr. Tony Powell was the person who spearheaded this project.

(4) NEIGHBOURHOOD PARKS

A neighbourhood park in Bodden Town shall be started shortly.

BEACH PROJECT

A community beach project for use of the residents in Bodden Town is nearing completion. I would like to take the opportunity to congratulate the residents of Bodden Town for their self-help approach to this project. [I should also say that we assisted with the public beach in Savannah in purchasing the property and gave other assistance.]

NORTH SIDE(1) NORTH SIDE PLAYING FIELD

Expansion work on the North Side playing field shall be started shortly. Additional lands have been purchased and planning permission obtained. A tender shall be issued shortly.

(2) PARKS

Two neighbour parks are planned for this district. Work on one of them is expected to start as soon as some minor details with the Planning Department have been sorted out.

(3) HARD COURTS

A hard court for North Side shall be completed by the end of the month. In addition to these facilities we have assisted several churches throughout the country in putting in facilities such as basketball and volleyball courts.

EAST END(1) PARKS

The old playing field in East End shall be converted to a neighbourhood park. Work on this project is expected to be completed before the Pirates' Week festivals in October, 1996.

(2) PLAYING FIELD

The Donovan Rankine Playing Field was completed in 1995 and opened by the legendary 'Pele'. This field has seating accommodation for approximately 600 people, change rooms and toilet facilities shall be completed shortly.

I should also say that the Government assisted with hard courts and recently assisted the United Church with $10,000 for their project. That was spearheaded by the Minister, the representative for that district.

CAYMAN BRAC(1) HIGH SCHOOL FIELD

Government has upgraded the High School Field and provided lighting. The Swimming Pool that is currently used to teach children to swim together with surrounding land were purchased by Government for the people of the Brac.

(2) INDOOR FACILITY

An indoor facility to accommodate court sports is being considered. The Architect will visit the site shortly.

Two hard courts should be constructed by the end of the year.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Minister say if an additional basketball court will be added to the site next to Cox Lumber due to one being taken away because of the extension at the George Town Primary School ?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Member made some recommendations and this is being done. I can give her that guarantee.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In the Honourable Minister's answer he mentioned plans to upgrade the basketball field on Eastern Avenue. I wonder if he can confirm whether or not there are any plans to resurface or upgrade the hard court at the West Bay Primary School ?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I was so busy saying what we have done in other districts, that I neglected to say what is being done in West Bay. The present hard court there is being upgraded.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would like to ask the Honourable Minister, if considerations will be made to utilise the present slab for the indoor facility; that has a value of $45,000 to $50,000? To destroy that would certainly add to the cost.

I would also like to compliment the Minister on establishing the cricket facility at the High School in Cayman Brac.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I understand that there were some requests by the Public Works Department in Cayman Brac to remove the slab. I do not believe that I can agree with what the Member has said. We have to refurbish.

bish it as best we can to save it because (as the Member said, and I have to agree with him) it is quite a tremendous value. I am not going to agree to remove it because we can improve on it. That is all we need to do. I will see to it that this is done.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Would the Honourable Minister give an undertaking to look at the surface of the basketball court in Bodden Town, if provisions have not already been made to do so. I received a number of complaints from players regarding the surface.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I can give the Member that undertaking because that is already being done. As soon as the work on the present field is done and when there is less traffic, funds are in the works to improve it.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the Minister's answer regarding the district of George Town and the basketball field on Eastern Avenue, could the Minister say if there is any consideration being given to providing any toilet or changing room facilities there, since that is located in an isolated area where there are no other facilities of that nature?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I understand from the staff that presently they use temporary toilet facilities in that area, but their plan is to erect proper purpose-built toilet facilities.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 148, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 148

No. 148: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works if any tests are being carried out at the garbage dump to monitor the spread of contaminants and pollutants in the soil.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: In April/May 1992, the Department of Environmental Health established 14 monitoring wells within the proximity of the George Town Landfill facility.

During the same year (in June) a Scientific Officer from Post, Buckley, Schuh and Jernigan visited Grand Cayman and collected water samples from the wells. Furthermore, soil and fauna samples were collected from the existing canal network in North Sound. All of the samples successfully met rigorous United States' Environmental Protection Agency standards. In some instances they tested below permitted levels.

In 1994, a second set of samples were analysed from the monitoring wells rendering similar results. A third set of monitoring well samples are scheduled for October/November 1996.

Please note that it is widely practised to analyse ground water samples to identify contamination and pollutant migration patterns, distances and concentrations, rather than soil samples.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister say if the practice of using the dump to dispose of used motor oil is continuing?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Yes, but in a controlled way. It is collected in containers and stored at the dump until we have sufficient oil to dispose of.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I noticed that there is a significant reservoir of used motor oil presently at the dump as a result of the old system. What is being done to contain this material from seepage and further contaminating the area?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Is it my understanding that certain dispersants are being sprayed on it to try to get rid of it. In the meanwhile there were buffers put around it to keep it in a certain area.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Could the Honourable Minister say if attempts are still being made to collect oil and have it shipped outside the country for reprocessing?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, among the many things that we are trying to ship abroad, as much as is humanly possible; not only oil, but batteries, plastic, aluminium, etc.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 149, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 149

No. 149: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture to provide an update on the low-cost housing proposals.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: It is public knowledge that Government's Guaranteed Home Mortgage Scheme has been in existence since August 1994. In this scheme, four locally registered "Class A" Commercial Banks are providing the mortgage financing, with Government providing a guarantee of up to 35% of the upper layer of each mortgage. The maximum mortgage can be granted for up to CI$125,000.00 for 20 years, at an interest rate of prime plus 3% (11 3/4%). As at 31st August, 135 Caymanian applicants have been successful in securing mortgages to purchase a home or have one built. These applicants are all middle to low income Caymanians who otherwise would not have been able to own their own home due to the equity (down-payment) requirements of most mortgages at commercial banks on these Islands. The joint income of the applicants have ranged from CI$2,000.00 per month to CI$5,000.00 per month; similarly mortgages have ranged from $45,000.00 to $120,000.00. A break-down of the mortgage loans is as follows: George Town - 56, Bodden Town/Newlands/Midlands - 38, West Bay - 14, and Cayman Brac - 2.

Much time and thought is continuing to be expended into the examination of ways and means of designing a programme which gives greater access to mortgage financing for lower income Caymanians. This is particular sector remains of concern to Government, and includes single-parent families, as well as low-wage earners. It should be noted in this context that people who own their own homes are generally more contented, they have more of a stake in the country, and therefore are better citizens as a result.

Representative of my Ministry, the Public Works Department and the Planning Department and I have visited Honduras to look at a system which a Swiss company has introduced in San Pedro Sula; we have also visited Jamaica to look at an "all cement" house offered by several large developers there; we have also looked at systems used in the United States as well as Europe. To date, none of the persons and companies talking to Government have been able to get to a point of actually being able to offer any kind of affordable system for the lower income bracket in these Islands.

I must say that the "all cement" house offered by Mr. Antonio Hawkins and the Housing Scheme offered by Mr. Heber Arch came the closest to having a scheme of affordable housing for the lower income group in our Islands. The scheme offered by Mr. Hawkins is yet to get off the ground, pending financial arrangements being made by that developer. However, in one instance his scheme was objected to by a group of citizens through the Planning Department when he was investigating a possible property for the sub-division.

In the case of the scheme which was offered by "Affordable Housing" (the scheme involving Mr. Heber Arch as all Members can very well remember), the scheme for which my Ministry and I were subjected to a considerable amount of accusation and criticism from the Opposition, and in particular the Member asking the question, who were against that scheme.

Had I been given the support, that scheme would have addressed much of the lower income groups' needs. It would not have totally addressed the situation, but the people who are now not able to qualify through the present scheme offered through four local Commercial Banks, would most certainly have qualified through the Scheme offered by "Affordable Housing."

In the present scheme (that is, the Guaranteed Home Mortgage Scheme) a common hindrance to people qualifying is the ratio of the applicant's monthly payment to their monthly income. One aspect of the problem in this instance is the person's ability to pay a mortgage when he has other loan commitments, or, for instance, unpaid Credit Card balances, which together may take him above the 40% of his salary required by the Banks as a maximum debt-service ratio.

This problem, coupled with the lack of available homes which can be readily purchased or constructed for an amount which these persons can qualify to borrow, is making it impossible to effectively provide housing for the lower income group referred to in this question.

The following Schedule is an indication of what a person or a couple will pay for various levels of Mortgage Loans, based on a 20-year repayment period at 11 3/4%:

Amount of Loan (all inclusive)	Monthly Payment (Mortgage Only)	Monthly Income Requested
CI$	CI$	CI$
40,000	419.70	1,271.83
50,000	524.63	1,589.79
60,000	629.56	1,907.75

65,000	682.02	2,066.72
70,000	734.48	2,225.70
75,000	786.95	2,384.68
80,000	839.41	2,543.66
85,000	891.87	2,702.64
90,000	944.33	2,861.62
95,000	996.80	3,020.60
100,000	1,049.80	3,179.58
110,000	1,154.19	3,497.53
115,000	1,206.65	3,656.51
120,000	1,259.11	3,815.49
125,000	1,311.58	3,974.47

(The Income figure is either a single or combined salary)

There are prohibiting factors to implementing a scheme that falls within a mortgage payment range of $250.00 to $650.00 per month. These obstacles include costs, such as Import Duty, Stamp Duty, as well as labour costs and building material costs.

I am presently investigating another scheme which makes available $3 million to $4 million for Housing and takes all of these factors into consideration, but cannot have such a scheme prepared for implementation before the end of this year. When I have completed my investigation, an announcement will be made on my findings. If the House is still in session, I will make the announcement here.

Profound appreciation has to be expressed to the four financial institutions (CIBC, Bank of Butterfield, British American Bank, and First Cayman Bank) who have come forward in a partnership with Government in this vital socio-economic programme. A bold step has been taken towards enabling the target population to realise their aspirations of stability, security and pride of owning their own homes.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is the Honourable Minister in a position to say what percentage of the population, or what numbers find themselves in a position where they cannot benefit from the scheme which currently exists because of their failure to qualify, either through income or other circumstances.?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: We do not have any figures on the percentage of the population. As I mentioned in the substantive answer, the question is not, in the vast majority of times, that they do not qualify. There are no housing units available so that they can purchase for what they qualified for.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister tell the House why he did not proceed with the deal under the term "Affordable Housing", on page 2 paragraph 3 of his answer, since his colleagues in the Government passed the Motion which he brought to the House in each instance to carry out this arrangement with Affordable Housing?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: I think I gave an indication why the Ministry did not go ahead with that particular scheme. I do not need to remind the Member that he, first of all, is one of the biggest objectors to that scheme. There were other objections. I am going to make it absolutely clear that there were people in the Civil Service who did not support it simply because of all the unfounded rumours that are being spread - for instance, that I had a share in it. That was one. Some of the banks started in the rumour-mongering because they would have found themselves at a disadvantage. Thirdly, the Opposition in this House hammered me and virtually destroyed my life with accusations, not only inside this House but outside as well, about my integrity. The next thing, the Members of the House said if this is what it means, try to find another scheme. If you cannot help all of the people we can help those whom we can help and that is what will happen.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Minister tell us if he has investigated the role local insurance companies might play in providing the funds that might be utilised for the very low income group of people?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: The answer is that at least two insurance companies have talked to us in the Ministry about providing financing, but they have not come forward as yet with any sound written proposal.

I would like to say again that it is not so much the financing, because everyone jumped on the bandwagon after Affordable Housing started to make a proposal. The problem is finding housing units. It is sad to say that there are people in this country who do not want the lower income group to build along side of them. I gave an indication of Mr. Antonio Hawkins trying to find property and residents objected. That is another problem. But if we are going to be a caring and loving people, and continue to be that, we have to accept that we will have poor people living beside us.

All I can do as a Minister, is that when we pass a scheme I will make sure that it has good planning requirements. The scheme that Mr. Hawkins was looking at was an all-cement house, a little Caymanian style cottage, a very comely home. All that Government can do is make sure that the planning requirements are adhered to and that good housing is made available. But, if people are going to object, that is going to run it through the regular process of the Law, where appeals have to be made and the whole shebang.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: I would also like to find out from the Minister if various complaints have been made to him from applicants trying to secure loans through the Government Guaranteed Housing Scheme, in particular, obstacles that arise on account of the banks that are responsible for awarding these loans; in particular, women being refused loans even if they qualify according to income.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: There have been some complaints about banks not accepting such things as maintenance payments and alimony in the requirements. We are now working at getting that sorted out with the banks. I trust that this House understands what happened with the scheme that could have given everybody a home.

The Speaker: The last supplementary. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the overall scheme of things that the Government is investigating regarding low-cost housing proposals, is Government leaning towards this being done by private enterprise, or Government being involved in the schemes?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: All the schemes have been schemes involving Government and the private sector. That is the way we are going to continue. Government puts up 35%. That is the same as Government taking raw cash and saying, 'Here, Mr. John Brown, go and pay the bank this $10,000, $15,000 or $20,000 down payment and get your home.' Government is very much an integral part of the scheme, because Government is putting up the guarantee - which they objected to.

The Speaker: That completes Question Time for today.

Statements by Members/Ministers. The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS/MINISTERS

SINKING OF THE RUSSIAN DESTROYER IN CAYMAN BRAC

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I am pleased to formally inform this Honourable House and the Caymanian public of the sinking of the Russian Destroyer in the waters off Cayman Brac, on Saturday, 14th September, 1996. As this Honourable House will be aware, this Government has taken a decision to do all within its power to assist in improving the economic situation in Cayman Brac - one of the three 'sisters' of our beloved Island country.

To this end, many meetings have been held, including the entire Executive Council, chaired by His Excellency the Governor, with residents of Cayman Brac in that island. This is the degree of importance which this Government has attached to this very important matter and we felt that it should be demonstrated that we are serious about our approach from the very top.

A number of suggestions have been made and a number of approaches have already been initiated. It was obvious that the tourism sector had a very important role to play in this matter, and my Ministry has held many meetings with the Sister Islands Tourism Association to try to determine a suitable approach. One suggestion was made of the need to create a popular dive site in Cayman Brac.

Diving in the Cayman Islands has become internationally famous, but has been more concentrated in Grand Cayman and Little Cayman. What was needed in Cayman Brac was something that the other two islands did not have. That was when the suggestion to create a dive site out of a ship wreck began to make sense.

Upon investigation it was discovered that there was a Russian Destroyer in Cuba that was for sale. The Sister Islands Tourism Association and Government moved very quickly, and with the assistance of the British Embassy in Cuba, preliminary inspection of the vessel was arranged, and the purchase price negotiated. Government identified funds in this year's budget to effect the purchase and a letter of credit was arranged by the Portfolio of Finance and Development.

After final inspection by our Department of Environment the ship was cleared for sinking in waters off Cayman Brac. This will be done on Saturday.

I would also like to inform this Honourable House and the public about the details of the final inspection by the Department of Environment (DOE) which was carried out on the 2nd and 3rd September. This team included our Chief Marine Surveyor:

1. A report produced by Lloyds Register on the hydro-carbon content of the ballast tanks revealed that there was a very small residual of dissolved hydrocarbon (diesel fuel), which will be disbursed by the DOE staff using oil dispersants prior to the sinking. The presence of these dispersants will not pose a risk to any surrounding coral in the depth of water at the site, and is in accord with the National Oil Spill Contingency Plan.
2. Bilges in the fore and aft engine rooms have been cleaned to a satisfactory standard.
3. The vessel was not equipped with sewage holding tanks, therefore no bacteriological quantification was needed.
4. It has been determined after communication with the Russian Naval architects that the Soviets stopped using components containing PCVs (which we heard on the marl road) on naval vessels in the late 1970s. The vessel to be sunk was built in 1984.
5. All loose foam insulation has been removed from areas accessible to divers.
6. No indication of radioactivity was found. (Another marl road item)
7. The vessel has been thoroughly inspected and cleared, but this Honourable House and the public should be aware of the following:
 - (a) The impact of the vessel striking the seabed may raise a considerable plume of course, sandy silt. Settling time should be rapid. The nearest coral reefs are some distance from the proposed site and the silt should have little, if any, impact on the coral.
 - (b) A large amount of rust will be present due to the age of the vessel. The impact of the vessel striking the seabed may, therefore, release rusty water. Again, it will be expected to subside rapidly and not pose a significant hazard to the coral reef.
 - (c) The vessel contains material that may contain asbestos. According to the report by the DOE, this does not represent a threat to the marine environment.
 - (d) Smoke-stacks and exhaust piping are lined with carbon soot. It is likely that some of this carbon will float to the surface causing perhaps an unsightly black slick. The carbon is not an environmental hazard.

Grills will be installed to prevent a diver access to the interior of the ship to reduce the risk of entrapment within the vessel. Railing pipes are being cropped to reduce risk of entanglement of divers, and all loose rubber and other materials are being removed.

One more inspection of the vessel will be made on its arrival in Cayman Brac by the Department of Environment, and during the entire sinking operation the DOE staff and equipment will be placed on standby in case they are needed.

This new dive site will undoubtedly attract more divers to Cayman Brac thereby increasing the tourism contribution to the economy of that island. This project was carried out with the strong support of the Sister Islands Tourism Association, headed by Mr. Ben Parry, President, and Wayne Hasson, Vice President.

The working partnership between the Ministry of Tourism and the Sister Islands Tourism Association on this project can be used as a shining example of what can be achieved for the people of these islands when Government and the private sector join hands.

I record my sincere thanks and appreciation to both Mr. Parry and Mr. Hasson for their untiring efforts on this project. Additionally, I record my thanks to the staff of the DOE and the Chief Marine Surveyor for their advice and assistance, and to my colleagues on Executive Council and in this Honourable House for their support as well. I pray that the sinking of the Russian Destroyer on Saturday will go as planned, and that it will serve the purpose for which it was intended.

Unfortunately, because of previous family commitments, I will not be able to attend the sinking on Saturday, but I will attend the function at dockside, Cayman Brac, on Friday, 13th September.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Statement by the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Under Standing Order 30(2), may I put a few short questions to the Honourable Minister who just made the statement?

The Speaker: You certainly may.

SHORT QUESTIONS (Standing Order 30(2))

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the statement which the Minister just read (of which we do not have a copy at this stage) he spoke of various entities, including Lloyds of London, who have had some connection or some dealings with this ship which is to be sunk off Cayman Brac. Is the figure in the newspaper of $275,000 the total cost of this, or are there various costs involved other than what has come to public knowledge in this particular exercise?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The reference to Lloyds Register Report in the statement is basically referring to a sample taken from the tank, analysed by Lloyds Register and the statement is talking about the report having analysed the material sent to them.

The cost of the vessel is $275,000. There are some additional costs to it. There is cost for towing it across, there is cost for insuring the ship during its passing from Cuba to Cayman Brac, which I am sure the Member would want us to do. There is also the cost of sinking the vessel. But if we add those two other items to it, we would be in the range of $35,000 additional.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Minister say if any study has been done as to what effect this might have for providing employment in Cayman Brac?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The objective of the sinking of this Russian Destroyer is to create an attraction for visitors and locals alike to travel to Cayman Brac and to dive that site.

We know from history and from other countries that have sunk ships around their waters, or from the Florida Keys, that a wreck is like a magnet to a North American diver. We have recommendations also from skin diver magazine, that this particular ship, a Russian Destroyer, will be the only one in this part of the world. Therefore, I think it will be more attractive than any other wreck in the western hemisphere.

Perhaps I should go on to say that John-Michael Cousteau is here and will be doing a documentary. We have a number of media representatives here from different parts of the world. I have not seen this number of the media being involved in the Cayman Islands in many years. I believe the message about the wreck is certainly going to be internationally known within days. If that be the case, I would forecast that the visitors coming to Cayman Brac will increase significantly in the near future. If you have more people, you obviously need more employment to service that demand.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Has the Government taken any steps to ensure what should surely be its copyright position on the filming and sinking of this vessel, from which it might earn money, as these people doing the filming will earn when this is sold and seen on the big screen?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, we are one step ahead of the Member asking the question. The signed agreement is already in place. Government will receive part of the income therefrom.

The Speaker: The next Statement is by the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

RESPONSE TO PARLIAMENTARY QUESTION NO. 124 CORRECTED

Hon. John B. McLean: I would like to take this opportunity to correct my response to Parliamentary Question No. 124, which asked when dredging operations were expected to resume in the North Sound. In my answer I advised this Honourable House that Caymarl Ltd. was required to provide Government with 30 days' written notice prior to the commencement of works, and that notice had not yet been received by the Ministry. While this answer was technically correct, written notice had, in fact, been submitted to the DOE advising of an intended start date on the 2nd September, 1996. More recent communication from Caymarl Ltd., however, indicated the expected commencement date for dredging operation as 11th September.

Upon inspection of the operation yesterday, my Ministry observed that while equipment was in the process of being positioned in and around the burrow pit, as of that time (around mid-day) dredging had not yet commenced.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The next Statement is by The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

GRATUITIES DISTRIBUTION AUDIT

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Honourable Members of this House are aware that Part iv, sections 34-39 of the Labour Law (1996 Revision), together with the 1992 and 1994 Regulations provide the rules for the distribution of Gratuities for relevant service employers which collect gratuities from the public for the benefit of prescribed employees. Sections 32 and 33 of the Law also provide for work accounts and statements of wages which may now also relate to gratuities.

Honourable Members are also aware that gratuities are the lion's share of the remuneration for many workers in the service sector, particularly the hospitality industry.

It is also well-known that there have been numerous complaints and allegations made to the Department of Human Resources and Members of the Legislative Assembly in recent years concerning perceived, and in some cases substantiated, abuse in the distribution of these gratuities by the management of several establishments. In fact, there were two cases involving illegal distribution of gratuities which have to be finally settled in our courts.

At the Budget Meeting, as well as at a subsequent meeting of the Finance Committee, Members supported unilateral action by Government in an effort to reveal if there is any evidence to support these allegations, and, if there are violations, to prepare well documented cases for prosecution.

In early 1996, my Ministry commenced discussions with the firm of Ernst & Young Auditors and Accountants, with a view to obtaining a proposal from them for their engagement in performing these specialist services. While the Human Resources Department is responsible for ensuring compliance with the Labour Law, it does not have the technical expertise necessary to conduct an in-depth examination of employers' gratuity records. There has, however, been discussion with the Internal Audit section which is also unable to dedicate sufficient resources to implement such a project.

Ernst & Young agreed to conduct an examination of records of up to seven establishments from a list to be provided by the Department and the Ministry, including hotels, condominiums, restaurants, bars and/or a combination of these. The firm agreed to commit up to six senior staff members on this project.

A Labour Inspector would be made available to accompany and assist the auditors on the communication and information gathering for the various establishments being scrutinised. The cost for carrying out these audits of this establishments will be made available from monies approved in my Ministry and the Department's 1996 budget.

The Legal Department has provided advice for the terms and conditions of this engagement, as provided for in the Labour Law, as well as guidelines on how to gather evidence and prepare the reports for Government.

I am pleased to report to this House that last week a number of auditors from Ernst & Young, acting as agents for the Director of Labour, accompanied by Labour Inspectors, reported unannounced at the premises of two condominium complexes and five hotels and obtained the cooperation of management of these establishments to examine their books and records relating to the collection and distribution of gratuities.

The auditors are presently conducting their examination and verification in collaboration with pertinent records relating to occupancy levels and accommodation tax which are filed at the Treasury Department by some of these establishments. If results of these first audits warrant it, further audits may be conducted. I wish to remind any establishment that wishes to ignore the Labour Law in relation to gratuities that they should not doubt Government's resolve to continue to demand equity and full compliance with the Law.

Findings of these audits will be reported to this Honourable House and released to the public in due course as appropriate. Legal and Administrative corrective remedies will be sought if necessary.

To those Caymanians and non-Caymanians who work in non-managerial jobs in the hospitality industry who depend heavily on their gratuities to supplement their wages, I say to them that this Government, and as long as I am the Minister responsible for Labour, will always fight for fair-play for the working man. I trust that all employers and employees will continue to do their part to ensure good labour relations and high productivity in these blessed islands that we love and call home.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: In accordance with section 30(2) of Standing Orders, I would like to ask a few questions.

The Speaker: Certainly.

SHORT QUESTIONS (Standing Order 30(2))

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say what properties were audited?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The audits took place last week at Beach Club, Spanish Bay Reef, Sunset House, Seven Mile Beach Resort, Holiday Inn, Westin, and Lacovia Condos. Previous audits took place at the Radisson, Discovery Point, and Coconut Harbour.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: I wonder if the Minister can confirm whether or not the audits included a review of the tourist accommodation tax due Government and, if so, whether any difficulties were experienced by the audit teams?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Yes, the audit included accommodation tax. Yes, it took us a week to get the information required from Treasury. That caused some problems, but we have that information and that is going to be passed on to the auditors.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

AYES.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. One last question.

The Honourable Minister also mentioned that three other properties were audited previously. I wonder if a report has been submitted on these, and whether or not the findings will be made available to this Honourable House and the general public?

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until 10 o'clock, Thursday morning, 19th September, 1996.

AT 12.30 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL 10.00 AM THURSDAY, 19TH SEPTEMBER, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: As I said, three other properties were audited by the Internal Auditor, the Radisson, Discovery Point and Coconut Harbour. We have only received the report on the Radisson and that is being worked on by Mr. Banks, the Director of Labour.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: I wonder if the Honourable Minister can answer the last part of the question in regards to whether or not these reports will be made available to the Honourable House and the general public with regard to the findings?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: I would have to take legal advice on it, but, as I mentioned in the statement, I would certainly give a report to this House of findings. I do not know if I could give full audit papers to the House. I will have to take legal advice on that. What I can say is that I am prepared to make public as much as I can. I give the House my guarantee that if there is something there, as has been talked about for so long... and we are not done yet... there will be prosecutions.

The Speaker: That concludes the business set down for today. I will entertain a motion for the adjournment of the House.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until next week, Thursday morning, 19th September at 10 o'clock. This was agreed after consultation with yourself and all Members of the House.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until Thursday morning 19th September, at 10 o'clock. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

EDITED
THURSDAY
19TH SEPTEMBER, 1996
10.10 AM

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

All this we ask for Thy Great Name's sake.

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth as it is in Heaven; Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever, Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated.

Order. Proceedings are resumed. Questions to Honourable Members and Minister. Question No. 150, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE
MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 150

No. 150: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning to state if there have been any discoveries of drug use at the George Hicks and John Gray High Schools during the 1995/96 school year.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: No discoveries of drug use were made at the George Hicks and John Gray High Schools during the past school year. However, there were two cases of drug possession at the John Gray High School.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister say how these two cases were handled?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, both students were put in the Alternative Education Unit and subsequently, one was expelled.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Could the Honourable Minister explain to the House what programmes regarding drug education awareness are in place at these schools?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: We use the Lions' Quest Programme and this has been very successful. As the Honourable Member knows, three or four years ago (when I took over Education) there were very large numbers of drug cases, as well as serious attacks with weapons in the schools - some of those attacks on teachers. The schools have settled very well under the new Education Strategic Planning process with a lot of cooperation from the parents, especially, whom I wish to thank.

I should say that the Quest Programme has been very effective in the Primary Schools. Early this year we revamped a high school programme, which will assist and enhance that programme. It is done in conjunction with the Lions Club.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Was the expelled student of compulsory school age, and, if so, what has the Government done to deal with that matter?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The student was above the compulsory school age. But as you know, extensive courses are offered at the Community College (both full- and part-time) which students beyond the compulsory school-age can attend.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: I wonder if the Honourable Minister could say what measures are in place to detect the presence of drugs at the High Schools.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: We normally use student information as the primary source for detecting drugs. But random testing is done within the schools, also random searching. At one stage some years ago there were serious problems in the schools. On one occasion every school bag at the Middle School was searched. If it requires it, then we step up the random searches.

I would have hoped that the two Opposition Members would have congratulated the schools on the fact that they have minimised what was a very serious problem. But they obviously never see the good in anything.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister say if the expulsion carried with it any demand or suggestion for counselling, or was the student merely sent out into the world to continue spreading the problem?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, he received counselling.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 151, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 151

No. 151: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation to state the number of Caymanians in overseas drug rehabilitation programmes at this time.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Currently there is one Caymanian who has been referred by Government to an overseas drug rehabilitation programme. Possibly there are others who have been admitted by private referral. I do not know who they may be because this is private information.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Minister state if the Caymanians in overseas drug rehabilitation programmes are all in the United States of America?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, the one patient we have referred is in the United States. But there are cases where we have to do psychiatric analysis and they could be referred to other areas depending upon the seriousness of the case.

The Speaker: Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Minister state if there is any truth to the rumour that the United States is seriously looking at not issuing visas to these individuals?

SUPPLEMENTARY DISALLOWED

The Speaker: The Honourable Member cannot ask that question because that is one of the "forbidden questions." Under Standing Order 22 (viii), asking whether a statement made by the Press or private individuals or unofficial bodies is accurate cannot be allowed.

The Speaker: Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Honourable Minister say how this number compares with referrals in the previous five or six years?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, I do not have that information with me. I will undertake to pass it on to the Member.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister say if there has to be any waiving of visa requirements for these referrals who take treatment in the United States, and if there is now any notice from the United States that these privileges may be withdrawn?

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I think you are asking the same question the Fourth Elected Member for George Town inquired about. That is forbidden, but if you ask the first part only, I will allow it.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say if the United States requires these referrals be granted special visa privileges?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, this is an immigration situation, but I would venture to say yes.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In the Honourable Minister's answer he mentioned that only one Caymanian was referred overseas by Government. Could he give us an idea as to how his Ministry is dealing with other Caymanians who need the service at the present time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: There are seven other people whom we are looking to assist in this area. As I have said in the House, we have provided and upgraded the Caymanian Counselling Centre, and also have provided services in the prison. We are now providing services in the districts where we in the Ministry feel we will get a better response from these individuals.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister tell the House how cases of recidivism among these referrals are handled?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: In circumstances such as this, if the person comes back and wishes to start the programme again, we will do so. But we cannot go in and force the person to start the programme.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Could the Honourable Minister explain what he means by starting the programme over? Does that mean a return to the institution to which they were referred, or a return to programmes offered locally?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: They return to Cayman Counselling Centre for assessment and from that we see where they would be placed and what services we can then offer.

The Speaker: First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: In the case of recidivism where the client is accepted for re-treatment, can the Honourable Minister explain whether there is any variation in the programme or not?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The variations would be clinical and based on the needs of the client.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 152, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 152

No. 152: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning (a) to outline the details of the proposed capital works at the George Hicks High School; and (b) when are these works scheduled to commence.

(In the absence of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, the Speaker proceeded to question no. 153.)

The Speaker: I will proceed to question No. 153, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 153

No. 153: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation if there has been any disruption in the oxygen and water supply at the George Town Hospital since construction commenced on site.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Since construction commenced on site at the George Town Hospital, there have been five interruptions to the water supply to the surgical ward, operating theatre, general ward and physiotherapy. Three of these interruptions were planned and were of short duration; two were accidental and of minimal consequence and were resolved within one hour. No patient or member of staff was put at risk in any way as a result of these interruptions.

There has been no interruption to the oxygen supply due to construction activities.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 154, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

QUESTION NO. 154

No. 154: Mr. Gilbert A. McLean asked the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation what the total amount of overtime paid at the George Town Hospital was since January 1995 to date with a breakdown by category of staff.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The total number of overtime paid at the George Town Hospital since January 1995 to the end of August 1996 was $546,001.93. The breakdown by category is as follows:

Nursing	$230,508.06
Ancillary	104,253.95
Administration	71,844.83
Support	71,645.62
Ambulance	67,749.47
Total	$546,001.93

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Honourable Minister say if this amount would be expected to be conclusive for the expenditure for 1996?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: With a few months left in the year, I guess it will go a bit higher.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister say what usual areas overtime would be incurred for nursing services?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The Intensive Care Unit, the Surgical Ward, the General Ward and Operating Theatre.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Can the Honourable Minister tell the House the reason for this amount in overtime?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, with the increase in the population the overall staff complement in all areas is not enough to meet the existing needs for running the hospital. This will be addressed in due course.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: In the instances of the nursing category, is it because persons are brought in to fill the jobs because of the lack of nurses, or is it overtime for the staff there?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. It is the latter part of the question - the existing staff that we bring in.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In the answer the Honourable Minister listed administration as $71,844.83. Is this normal for the hospital to have administrative staff on overtime?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: The reason for this amount is that the cashiers are there on a 24-hour basis, and if someone gets sick we find another person to assist.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: In view of the large sum of money that is spent in overtime, what is being done now by the Health authorities to fill the posts that are vacant so this type of overtime will not re-occur?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Under the auspices of the Ministry, and with the assistance of the Department of Health, a New Services Group has been put together to look at everything within the Health Services Department to make them better and make recommendations for proper staff.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister state the rate of overtime?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, this would depend on which area is being paid the overtime. The rate is different.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Perhaps I was not very clear. What I would like the Honourable Minister to state is if overtime time is paid at time and a half, with double time on holidays, etcetera.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, it is in accordance with General Orders, at time and a half.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Would the Honourable Minister say who the people comprising the New Services Group are? Is this a group of technical or professional people? Just who are they?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Madam Speaker, it comprises: (1) the Senior Assistant Secretary for the Ministry of Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation; (2) the Chief Medical Officer, Health Services Department; (3) the Chief Statistician, Economics and Statistics; (4) Director of Health Services; (5) the Chief Nursing Officer; (6) the Hospital Accountant; and (7) the Accountant-General, Treasury Department. This is a massive programme that we have undertaken.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town and this is the last supplementary.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister state if any consideration has been given to hiring additional members in the Nursing, Ancillary, Administration, Support and Ambulance units?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: Yes, this is an ongoing process, but it is difficult to find individuals to fill these positions because of the specialisation in these areas and the long hours they are required to put in. This is one of the problems being addressed by the New Services Group.

The Speaker: I will now revert to question No. 152, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 152

No. 152: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning (a) to outline the details of the proposed capital works at the George Hicks High School; and (b) when are these works scheduled to commence.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: The proposed capital works at the George Hicks High School is the construction of a new Art block of 6,984 square feet; a new Physical Education changing facility of 3,402 square feet, and an expansion to the existing Administration block of 2,860 square feet. The existing Administration building will be renovated.

The Art block is scheduled to go to tender in late September, with construction beginning in late October. The Physical Education block and the administration block are scheduled to commence construction in early 1997.

Further projects scheduled for late in 1997 include a kitchen to be built onto the existing assembly hall and the design of a new library and multi-purpose hall which will be constructed in 1997/98.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Minister state what the existing hall will be used for once the new multi-purpose hall is erected?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Madam Speaker, it would be used for a canteen and dining area.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Would the Honourable Minister state if there was any reason why the Art block was not scheduled for tendering until late September?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: In the previous Government a rider was put on so that plans for future buildings at schools would only be done after a sewerage plant central to the school's building was built. The project has been with the Cayman Water Authority which has designed the building, and it was not necessary for me to get it until the last year or so.

I have moved as quickly as I could to deal with it, and the building will be in place in the near future. On the basis of that plans were approved, but were held up for awhile until proper assurance could be given by Cayman Water Authority that plans for a sewerage treatment plant were prepared.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The Minister has just stated that there was a rider put on by the previous administration regarding a central sewerage system and that it was not necessary for him to deal with it until a year ago. Could the Minister explain what was happening between then and a year ago?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I had no large building going on that required additional persons, and an exemption was given for what was built because there were rooms that would have been used by children (eight of who are now in existing rooms). There was no increase in children for the buildings that were built.

I should say that it was not put on by the last Government, it was during the last Government's administration. It was put in place by the Central Planning Authority.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Minister state how long the Cayman Water Authority had instructions to do the design for this central sewerage system?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I believe about nine months to a year.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Minister state if there is any anticipated time period when this might be completed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I have been assured that it is being given top priority and will be completed very shortly (should be within weeks). I have discussed the preliminaries with them, and one of the complexities that they have is that the buildings at the John Gray High School, for example, the toilets are spread over the entire area because different pieces were built at different times.

Approximately 26 bathrooms in that complex have to be connected and lift-pump stations put in where necessary to get the effluent into the sewerage plant; and to do so without having to destroy or interrupt too much. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town probably thinks, 'why not just buy a plant and put it in?' It is not that simple. When I went over the plans, from what I can remember, there are about 26 different areas where effluent had to be drawn from in that one school.

The Speaker: Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister state the approximate cost of the sewage system to be installed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I am still waiting for that surprise. I hope it will only cost about $450,000, but I do not have the estimate.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Minister state if the plan is to construct the central sewerage plant before any other construction takes place?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I would hope that it can be done speedily once it is approved. I am fairly certain that it will be done before there is any major construction because we have further construction at the George Hicks High School. I should point out again that it is not like adding more classrooms, say, to the primary school, and adding more children. So it does not necessarily increase the effluent when you add, for example, a hall.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 155, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 155

No. 155: Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what action has been taken to improve the efficiency with which planning applications are dealt with by the Planning Department.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, Let me begin by saying that the Planning Department has a very important role to play in the development of these islands. The Planning Department Serves two main roles:

- (i) A regulatory role to ensure development takes place in a safe and orderly manner and in compliance with the Development and Planning Law, Regulations and Directives of Executive Council; and
- (ii) A development and planning role, processing applications is merely one function of the Department's activities. The Department scrutinises plans to ensure that they comply with the Law and Regulations and act in advisory role to the Central Planning Authority.

Nevertheless, the public is entitled to receive services from the Department with efficiency and satisfactory customer service. To that end, the Department has implemented a number of changes which have improved its service and increased the efficiency with which planning applications are processed.

Since the beginning of 1996 the following actions have been effected:

- a) improved computer tracking for up-to-date status reports on all applicants, completed weekly by planners and monitored weekly by management;
- b) reassignment of planners by geographical areas, taking into account the higher volume of applicants in George Town;
- c) began recruitment for two positions for planning assistants;
- d) started a public education programme in May 1996 by developing a set of informational brochures specifying application requirements for various types of developments;

- e) increased frequency of meetings of the Central Planning Authority to deal with volumes of applications being processed by the Department;
- f) letters advising applicants of the Central Planning Authority's decisions on Certificates of Occupancy and routine matters (houses, duplexes) are made available to the applicants the day following the CPA meeting;
- g) increased the number of pre-submission meetings between Department and developers to highlight application requirements and identify possible areas of concern before a formal application is made;
- h) the Legal Department conducted four seminars for the benefit of planners and building inspectors to allow them to function more effectively within the framework of the Development and Planning Law (1995 Revision) and the Development and Planning Regulations (1995 Revision).

As a result of the above-noted actions, the first seven months of this year saw the average time (in calendar days) for the processing of new planning applications reduced by half, as compared to the same period for 1995. More specifically, for 518 applications received until 31st July of this year, the overall average number of days for obtaining a CPA decision was 38 days compared to 80 days for the same period last year. Of these 38 days, 21 days minimum is prescribed by law to allow objections and, therefore, applications normally take only 28 days to process.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Minister state how many planners are assigned to the district of George Town?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Three (which is nearly one-half of our planners).

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister say how often the Central Planning Authority meets?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, at least once every two weeks, but normally weekly. I should, however, point out to the Honourable Member that a lot of the routine matters I mentioned are dealt with by the Chairman of the CPA, and the Director of Planning.

We have had some good 'THANK YOUs' and congratulations on the speed with which the minor applications are now turned out. To assist with that there are 11 or 12 planning brochures that we produce. So someone can go in and get one to see exactly what is needed for a minor application. The other thing that I would like to point out is that, normally, I deal with complaints. I have found that while this is burdensome, in the early days of taking over the department I got a feel for what was happening.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: It is my understanding that the CPA basically deals with commercial applications (larger projects). In light of the pace of development at the present time, does the Minister believe that twice a month is sufficient to deal with these applications?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The Central Planning Authority finishes its agenda each time, but I will give the undertaking to the Honourable Member that since the National Team Government got the economy moving at such a speed that we may well have to add extra meetings. There are a lot of development applications coming in, but the Central Planning Authority knows its duty to be careful, and to balance that development to ensure that development being approved is good for the country. So they do take the time they need.

I should also point out that the Central Planning Authority (unlike other statutory bodies) hears every person who wishes to object. This is unusual for any statutory body. But they go to the extreme to listen to people's objections, and sometimes that does require extra meetings if objections are substantial. Whatever is necessary to keep that going, because it is important to remain efficient, I undertake to do.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Minister say if he is fully satisfied that the planners assigned to the district of George Town are fully qualified and have the background experience to deal with the peculiar problems associated with the district, especially as an emerging township?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The planners have varied backgrounds (geographically), but the Director of Planning does have an overview on this. So he would assign the planner with the most experience within an area to deal with that area. What will ultimately come out (and I know there is a question on the Development Plan) is once a Development Plan is in place, we will be able to then look at area plans.

What the Honourable Member has raised will become even more important to ensure that the planners fully understand the area and effectively deal with it. At present we have been lucky, we have good staff in there.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Regarding the recruitment of two Planning Assistants, can the Honourable Minister state what the desired qualifications for these assistants are, provide a brief synopsis of their job descriptions, and say whether these assistants will be recruited locally or from other jurisdictions?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: As the Honourable Member knows, under the Constitution this matter falls under the Honourable Chief Secretary. I am sure that he has taken note of the question. As a politician I keep out of any type of Civil Service employment or conditions of service, therefore I am not privy to this information. Perhaps if the Chief Secretary is given some time to make a note he can supply such information as a politician is entitled to have. That question seems to me to go beyond the Constitution, and that is something that may have to be considered.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: I wonder if the Honourable Minister would give me an undertaking to take a special look at the areas covering the development of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. With the concession that has recently been given, we are hoping that development will come. With one planning assistant it is difficult.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I am happy to give that undertaking. As the Honourable Member knows, in any way that I can assist Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, I will. I have gone over there on a quarterly basis and met with the Planner (and the Honourable Member is quite right we need a second person there especially in relation to enforcement). I believe this is in the process now. If it does become necessary to add another person, I think this Honourable House would support it.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 156, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 156

No. 156: Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning how the academic and vocational courses due to be offered by the Community College in September 1996, have been developed.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Step 1: Identification of need for new programme. This need is identified from research done by College staff or by an expressed need from an individual or a local company or a local association.

Step 2: The identified need is assessed and evaluated by college staff to find out if it is broad and widespread.

Step 3.1: In some cases the identified need is narrow and localised. In such cases a contract course is mounted. This is done by meeting with the individual/company/association to assess their need and get input on the content of the course. College staff then draw up a syllabus which is sent to the individual/company/association for feedback. Once approved, the course is costed and then mounted.

Step 3.2: If the need is general and widespread, college staff met with the individual/company/association for further discussions. Members of staff of the relevant department then hold further discussions and undertake further research.

Step 4: The proposal is then referred to the relevant Programme Advisory Committee (PAC) for further analysis and discussions. (Programme Advisory Committees are composed of all members of staff of a department plus representatives nominated by Government and private sector associations).

Step 5: If approved by the Programme Advisory Committee, the programme is costed and a paper prepared for further discussions by the Academic and Advisory Committee (AAC). This paper will contain the following information: justification for the programme, target population, aims and objectives, an outline of the programme, target date for introduction, admission requirements and whether the programme will be internally or externally assessed. If externally assessed the examination board is identified.

Step 6: If approved by the AAC the paper is then presented to the Board of Governors for approval.

Step 7.1: If it is an externally examined programme and is approved by the Board of Governors, it is publicised and introduced at the approved time.

Step 7.2: If the programme is to be internally examined and is approved by the Board of Governors it is then referred back to the relevant department for the preparation of syllabus for each subject. Subject syllabus will contain aims and objectives, programme content, textbook to be used and method of assessment.

Step 8: The prepared subject syllabi are then presented to the PAC followed by the Academic and Advisory Committee and the Board of Governors for approval. Once approved, the programme is publicised and introduced at the pre-determined time.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Minister tell us if the Sixth Form is still in existence at the Community College?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Very much so, despite the misinformation that was put out publicly by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town. That has caused a lot of disruption at the school.

The Speaker: It is now 11 o'clock. If you wish to continue with the remaining questions, I will entertain a motion to suspend Standing Orders.

The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

Hon. Anthony S. Eden: I move the suspension of Standing Order 23 (7) and (8) so that questions can be taken after 11 o'clock.

The Speaker: I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Time has been given to conclude the questions for this morning.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUPENDED.

The Speaker: Please proceed with supplementaries. The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: In the answer provided by the Honourable Minister, one of the areas outlined was vocational courses. Can he give us an idea of how successful these classes are?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the most successful of these would be within the 'A' Levels and the Associate degrees, Technology, Auto Mechanics, Construction.... May I go back a bit? The most successful is Business Secretarial which has 18 students enrolled; Business Commercial which has 14 student; Electricity with 13 students; and Hospitality Operations with 12 students.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Honourable Member state whether the UWIDITE facility is still in operation and utilised at the Community College?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: That facility is still in operation and continues to be utilised.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister state the number of contract courses offered by the College?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the number is estimated to be between 15 and 20 for this year. I do not have the exact figure.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, I wonder if the Honourable Minister could say if the Government has had any intention of removing the "A" level classes from the Community College?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, no. This was misrepresentation and untruth that was put out. Unfortunately, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town went on television and made statements which caused the College a lot of problems. If the Honourable Member had called me or the College he would have known that this was not so. He did admit afterwards when he found out that it was not correct, but the Member did not go back on television to correct it.

I would like to say also that the College not only has a very good chairman (the Third Elected Member for George Town), but good staff. The Principal of the College, Mr. Basdeo, is very good. The College itself has advanced far beyond my wildest dreams under his headship and the chairmanship. The College is one of Cayman's biggest assets, and it is unfortunate when these sort of rumours are spread to hurt it, instead of someone looking on the positive side.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister state the policy regarding the number of students it takes to offer a course?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Madam Speaker, it is four and has always been four during my 20 years of being associated with Education. However, the College has been more flexible, and sometimes with only three students they will run the courses. We need to understand that to put in one teacher for less than that number becomes extremely expensive. The policy has not changed, except that the College has made it better for students, and sometimes comes below the four students rule.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. As a follow-up to my previous question, I wonder if the Honourable Minister could tell us how successful the Auto Mechanics and the Construction courses are at the Community College?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: The best example I can give is when we were running two courses some time ago in construction. We had an average of between 10 to 12 people in the classes. They came for about a month and learned how to lay blocks and do re-bar, etcetera. Then we noticed that the classes were becoming smaller and smaller. Finally, the number got down to about four students and we stopped the course. We followed up and found out that once they learned sufficient to be able to get a job, we could not get them to return. Some of these people are also subsidised. That is an extreme example.

We do try, but the National Team has made the economy so good and buoyant that people can get jobs easily and keep them. They sometimes put education on the back burner for the time being, which is unfortunate. It makes it harder on the schools to get students to remain in classes, not just in construction, but in areas like auto mechanics and banking. Sometimes success brings side effects.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Minister tell us when the library will be completed and in what ways it will enhance the overall operation of the Community College?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: It is almost completed, and the opening will be on 11th October. I would like to add that the people who dropped out of the construction course could attend night classes offered at the College (work in the day and attend school at night), which I know is hard, but we have all done it during our time.

The Speaker: The last supplementary. The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: There was a sum allocated in the 1996 Budget for the Law School to be transferred to the Community College. Could the Honourable Minister tell us at what stage this is going to take place?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: I understand that most of this was not needed for this year. The Honourable Attorney-General retained what was necessary for plans for the Law School and the rest of the funds are being transferred (which is most of it).

The Speaker: The next question is No. 157, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 157

No. 157: Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks asked the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture what plans have been, or will be, implemented in relation to career training in the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: For years there has been much concern expressed about the absence of consistent training policies and programmes and career development paths for willing and able Caymanian human resources. In fact, in most General Elections (including 1992, and again by many candidates for the 1996 election) this issue has been discussed and has featured prominently in several political manifestos. Calls have been made in this Honourable House, as well as in public forums and the media, for a revamping of the existing system dealing with training and work permits.

It is a well-known fact that this Government is concerned about the training and the long-range career development of able and willing Caymanians as a means of fostering sustainable economic development and continued labour tranquillity. The articulation of well defined and workable human resources development policies and strategies are essential tools for achieving these important objectives.

As Honourable Members should be aware, Government's policy on manpower development and training supports the Caymanianisation of positions within the public and private sectors whenever there are competent Caymanians to fill these positions. This policy further requires that adequate training programmes become common place in order to ensure that Caymanians are able to fill responsible positions, consistent with reasonable career paths and succession planning.

Recognising the deficiencies which exist, and having the will to do something about it, the Governor-in-Council accepted my Ministry's submission that it was timely to refer the matter to an Advisory Committee to fully examine this issue and to propose recommendations, in collaboration with the private sector and the public in general. The Manpower Development Advisory Committee comprising 20 members, representing a broad cross section of knowledge and expertise from the private and public sectors was appointed in July, 1994 and it was provided with broad terms of reference to guide its deliberations.

This Honourable House was kept abreast of the progress on the Committee's work. Honourable Members will recall that in September of 1995, I tabled a document which outlined the recommendations in the said report which Government was prepared to accept. These recommendations provide a "blue print for action" which, when implemented, in partnership with the private sector, can effectively prioritise and address the deficiencies in the human resource development and training infrastructure in these islands. Unfortunately, there have been some delays in the implementation of the long-overdue initiative due to opposition from some quarters of the private sector, particularly, the Chamber of Commerce, which view Government's role in this matter as interference, and seem to be satisfied with the "status quo".

Despite this setback, my Ministry and the Department of Human Resources are co-ordinating the implementation of some of the pre-existing initiatives, as resources allow. Three specific items underway are:

- (1) An apprenticeship scheme: A discussion draft of an outline proposal for an apprenticeship scheme has been developed by my Ministry. The Governor-in-Council gave approval for this discussion draft to be distributed to the Education sector as well as to all associations in the private sector; this public consultation process is still ongoing.

- (2) My Ministry and the Department of Human Resources have launched a scheme for the job placement and reintegration of suitable Caymanian ex-prisoners from H.M. Northward Prison. This scheme is being fine-tuned and implemented in collaboration with willing and suitable employers. Funding for this initiative was approved by the Finance Committee earlier this year.
- (3) For the years 1993 until August of 1996, there were 183 student loans approved, for a value of CI$3,593,704 made available through the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board which operates under my Ministry, and also through the Guaranteed Student Loan Scheme, which is new and was launched in August 1995 and has already proven its worth as an effective tool in Human Resource Development.

This Government places a high premium on education and training. In 1994 it committed 12 per cent of its total recurrent and statutory expenditure to education. (I should say it has increased each year.) This exceeds comparable amounts in other development countries, and is more in line with figures for developed countries. In this connection there are other initiatives which are outside of my Ministry which are also worthy of mention in regard to this question.

- (4) On an annual basis since 1993 the Education Council has granted an average of 30 scholarships, valued at approximately $300,000 per annum. Government has also awarded a number of special scholarships: the Cayman Scholarship, the Sports Scholarship, the Tourism Scholarship, and the Impending Cultural Scholarship.
- (5) Government also makes a sizeable commitment to education and training for its own employees, through the Government training unit.
- (6) Governments Education Council Scholarships are augmented by other funds in the form of both scholarships and loans from private corporations, organisations, and associations. These private sector sources account for approximately 20 scholarships and grants per year. Since my Ministry and Government have been, in recent years, re-emphasising the need for a more structured approach to Human Resources Development in these islands there has been more interest and offering of scholarships, grants and study leave. I wish to commend those individuals and businesses which have been proactive and consistent in regard to the human resource development of their employees and other scholars in our community. I, particularly wish to mention the accounting firm of Ernst & Young that have several Caymanian partners and many qualified Caymanian accountants in their employ; several of our financial and other private institutions; and Caribbean Utilities Company which provides annual scholarships and also have quite an aggressive in-house training programme.

- (7) The Community College of the Cayman Islands represents a very significant investment in both capital cost and recurrent expenditure in the training and further education of Caymanians. The College provides tutoring, classes, Certificate and Diploma courses in Hospitality Studies, Technical Studies, General and Business Studies, as well as the Chartered Institute of Bankers and the Association of Accounting Technicians Diploma. The College started its offering of the two-year Associate Degree in September. This will afford many more students the opportunity to complete the first two years of a four-year Bachelor's Degree at home, at a very reasonable cost.

Now that we have another proper institution of higher learning in these islands, I strongly appeal to all employers to ensure that if at all possible their employees are given reasonable time off to take full advantage of the lectures/tutorials, programmes and examinations offered at the College. I would also urge that there be increased dialogue between industries (as the providers) so that the College is meeting the need of industries in terms of courses and programmes, and that the graduates are being adequately prepared to carry out the duties which are required by industries.

- (8) The Cayman Islands Law School continues to make a significant contribution to higher education in these islands.
- (9) Government also appreciates the contribution which the International College of the Cayman Islands is playing in the area of education and training in Cayman.
- (10) The Immigration Board has, especially in recent years, stressed the importance of training Caymanians for advancement to higher positions within the private sector, particularly, the Board is remaining vigilant in areas such as false (that is unrealistic conditions and requirements) advertising for vacancies, as well as the Board stipulating proper succession planning, and the attachment of "conditions" on particular employers when work permits are granted or renewed, for particularly the larger employers. I reiterate my support for and the importance of these practices by the Board, as it will ensure that able and willing Caymanians are given an equal opportunity to fill responsible positions in the workplace. This insistence by the Board has resulted in an increased of on-the-job study as well as sponsorship for outside study by employees and other Caymanian scholars.

- (11) Several private sector associations have maintained and intensified their offering of training courses for the benefit of employees of firms within each association. I encourage these organisations to continue their vital work in this area, but to ensure that the courses are certified and recognised within that industry, and that proper career paths are developed in tandem with the completion of a course or series of courses. It is important that associations perform these types of services for especially their smaller business members, who are unlikely to be able to mount a formal in-house course, for example.
- (12) In response to Government's encouragement, in recent years several large employers have appointed training officers or have re-structured their Human Resource/Personnel Departments to specifically pay more attention to human resource and training matters. Government commends these businesses for voluntarily recognising their obligations as responsible corporate citizens, which obviously is an investment to theirs and country's future well being.

Government believes that with the right partnership between the public and private sectors, it is possible to achieve very high standards in education and training in these islands. Caymanians have the ability and the desire to advance in education as well as in their careers; but there must be a shared responsibility to see that equal opportunity is afforded to them.

Investment in the human resources of a country is definitely a great benefit. In a service economy such as ours, investment in education will cause the value of our goods and services to compete in the global marketplace through increased productivity and efficiency of Cayman's human resources. The way forward must be based on a partnership with close communication and appreciation of each other's efforts and expectations.

In conclusion, as I have previously informed this House, Government is in the process of restructuring the Department of Human Resources so that it may more effectively develop and encourage policies and initiatives, in collaboration with the private sector, and using outside expertise as necessary.

The way forward must also include a comprehensive national career development and training initiative which would seek to co-ordinate the education efforts at all levels, secondary, post-secondary, and on-the-job training.

These are the Ministry's achievements as well as the Human Resources Development Plans for taking the country into the 21st century. I trust that all existing and future members of this Honourable House will lend their full support to these bold initiatives.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister state the process of restructuring the Department of Human Resources?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the process is in-house as it is within Government, the Budget Management Unit together with the Human Resource Department are planning the restructuring. Those are the main two bodies involved in the restructuring process.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Minister tell us who and what organisations are resisting the implementation of his Ministry's new initiatives to train our people?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I can only mention those that have come out publicly, and all Members have received the same letter that I received from the Chamber of Commerce which said that our plans are interference by Government. Of course, we have other people, I do not know who they are, but from soundings around I suspect they are objecting to the plans. These plans cannot be put in overnight, they have to be done over a period of time.

I am really not paying any attention to the tripe that the Chamber of Commerce has circulated. What we must recognise is that the Chamber, the private sector, and Government and Members of this House (any Minister, whether it is me or another Minister) will need the backing of the House to put through certain initiatives. No one in Cayman wants to be told what to do, but if this was happening (as the Chamber of Commerce said) on a voluntary basis (and that is the way it should be) then there would not be the need for training today. The Chamber of Commerce is talking nonsense and I hope that Members in their own areas are prepared to stand up and say to the Chamber of Commerce: "Get Thee behind me Satan."

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: I wonder if the Honourable Minister could say what role the Government's Human Resources Department will have in this new initiative for training?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: From the time I took over Labour it has been restructured to the extent where we changed the name and other initiatives were put forward in that area. We have been trying to use that department, not just as a department that takes in complaints, but also a department that assists the employees in healthy dialogue so that we not only have complaints coming in, but where they learned things on the job. This is something that the Department of Human Resources is trying to accomplish.

In answer, I say that it might more effectively develop and encourage policies and initiatives. We will do it in collaboration with the private sector. We have to work along with, for instance, the Chamber of Commerce (the so-called representative of the private sector) because whatever we do will affect them.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the Honourable Minister's answer he speaks of the Department of Human Resources having "launched a scheme for job placement and reintegration of suitable Caymanian ex-prisoners from H.M. Northward Prison." Is the Minister in a position to state if Government intends to lead the way regarding the job placement and reintegration of these ex-prisoners?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, when I put this matter to Executive Council they were only too glad to say that the Government must lead the way. I should say (I do not think I will be taking any tale from the schools) that was the first thing the Governor, who is the Chairman, said must happen - the public sector must lead the way.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: For clarity, would this mean that there will be a complete reversal in the policy that exists through the Personnel Department regarding Government employment?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I cannot answer for the Personnel Department. I can only say (from my observation and the knowledge) that in spite of the Opposition saying that the Government has done nothing in this area, this has already taken place since 1993 with ex-prisoners through the Department of Environment.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: I wonder if the Minister could give the guarantee that when these students return, they will be getting the jobs they have been trained for, and be paid accordingly.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: That is the intention of Government. This is something we stated as a policy, but that is what the Department of Human Resources will be all about - to monitor and to see that these things are carried out.

I say again, it is not going to be easy, and there is going to be a tremendous resistance from outside.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Minister tell the House whether the scheme to employ ex-prisoners is meeting with any success?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Most private sector employers that we have spoken to are quite willing to assist. Again, I expect that there will be some resistance in some areas, we are not going to get full cooperation. But there are private sector employers who recognise the contribution that they can make and what it means to reintegrate a prisoner back into society. The Prison and the Human Resource Department are the departments co-ordinating this programme and it is working.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 158, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 158

No. 158: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture what

Government has done to eliminate child and spousal abuse during the past four years.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The Department of Social Services sponsored the following training sessions:

- (1) Investigation of child maltreatment via training areas: comprehensive risk assessment with the Institute of Human Services in 1994.
- (2) The effects of child abuse and neglect on child development, Institute of Human Services.

The above sessions were open to the following persons: police officers, crown counsels, medical social workers, psychiatric social worker, truant officer, school liaison officers, in order to improve the skill level of professionals in the identification and working with the victims of abuse.

- (3) Child neglect and child abuse with the University of the West Indies in 1996. This Workshop was attended by the social work manager and a social worker.

Programmes: The Young Parents Programme was implemented in July 1994 and one of the main aims of this programme is to prevent child abuse and to promote responsible parenthood and appropriate care of children. This programme caters to young mothers and their children.

Public awareness: (a) Ongoing education forums in the form of community talks, et al.; (b) Open Line programmes; and (c) Use of CITE for public education on parenting, just commenced.

Financial Assistance: Services are provided to children and their mothers who are at risk to further harm in domestic violence situations (for example, housing, food, and clothing).

Project Development: Establishment of a multi-disciplinary team comprising the Police Department, Health Services, Education Department, Legal Department and Social Services in 1994. The main aim is to develop and implement procedures and policies for the management of child abuse investigations opening up discussions with the schools, Justices of the Peace Association, Medical and Dental Society, to seek their concerns on the management of child abuse.

Spousal Abuse: Financial assistance (such as housing, food and clothing) is provided to victims of domestic disputes. Supportive counselling is made available to the victims to address concerns of poor self-esteem, independence, and job placement. Contact is made with the Police and Legal Departments on the security and safety of victims.

Promoting public awareness through public forum discussions such as the presentation on domestic violence in June 1996, as part of the Beijing Platform for Action.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: I wonder if the Minister is in a position to offer any statistical data regarding child and spousal abuse during the past four years?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, that is not readily available.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Speaker, is the Minister satisfied that sufficient legislation is in place regarding this problem, or are there any plans afoot to beef-up legislation or introduce new legislation?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I believe there is sufficient legislation on the books at present. I am not saying that there cannot be amendments made to suit certain situations. A team is now doing that through the Women's Affairs Unit.

One of the problems that we face in this country is that those people who are abused (whether it is the man or the woman, and sometimes the child) do not come forward saying that they want something to be done about the situation. The officials cannot get the co-operation from the individual. If Government (as sort of a caretaker in the country) is going to do anything about this problem, we need full co-operation from people - father, mother or child - who are abused. We need them to come forward and state frankly what the situation is.

As a representative I have come across this situation. People come to me with certain marital problems, or in cohabitation situations where they have been abused and want me to do something to help, but they are not willing to come forward to the police.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Would the Minister tell the House if there are any plans afoot by his Ministry to provide a building as a half-way house or a place of safety for these abused men and women, to take them out of the situation and perhaps give them counselling?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: In the past, if we found someone so abused, the Social Services Department housed them in a rental home or a hotel on a temporary basis. However, plans have been made and renovations are being done on an apartment to house abused persons, especially women.

I realise that in the years to come plans will have to be made for another unit, hopefully staffed between Government and the private sector who will assist us with this initiative. I hope (and the society hopes) that we do not regress.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Is the Honourable Minister aware that in Canada there is now legislation where when this sort of thing occurs, it is considered a criminal act without spouses going to the police? The court deals with these matters as criminal.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: That is one of the things the team would be looking at in their examination of the problem of legislation. They will be looking at other areas.

I have heard about that legislation. I do not know whether it could work in this country, but the team certainly will look at it.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Does the Minister know if the fines which are imposed have been increased since we have reviewed the Penal Code?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: I do not have that information on hand, but I will undertake to get it for the Member. However, I would say that since the public forums have been held by the Ministry, the police have reported that they get more reports of abuse and more cases have been taken to the courts. Education is a big and important part of our initiative, we have to educate the public, and that we will continue.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the Minister's substantive answer he referred to the Young Parents Programme which was implemented in July of 1994. Could the Minister say if since the implementation of the programme the number of young mothers who have participated has increased, or has the level been on the decline?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: There has been an increase since the inception of the programme. I should say that as I go and visit (sometimes they come to my office) the young mothers and their parents, they have commented that they feel the programme is of benefit to them. One of the things we must take into consideration is that this is not a mandatory institution, it is a voluntary institution. We are considering making it mandatory for very young girls.

The other matter that I have asked the department to look into is to make it mandatory for fathers.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the Minister's answer he has stated that "the main aims of this programme are to prevent child abuse and to promote responsible parenthood and appropriate care of children." Is there any leaning towards family planning being taught to these young mothers?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Director for Social Services has confirmed what my information is on the programme. Family planning is an integral part, and has been since the beginning. When we started the programme the Public Health Department was involved. The Public Health Department institutes the family planning aspect of the programme. I am very happy to say that there has been no reoccurrence of pregnancy.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Are these young mothers assisted, upon completion of the programme, in finding jobs if they do not have any at that time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: There is a work experience aspect built into the programme and the academics are taught through the Community College. Young girls have been placed in evening jobs. So there is follow-up by the Department of Social Services.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Could the Honourable Minister state the ages of these young mothers who are taking part in this programme?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the age group is from age 14 through 24.

The Speaker: The Second Elected for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Honourable Minister elaborate a bit on the success of this programme since its inception?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the success from our estimation is that some young mothers have gone into the workplace and can maintain their job; some have gone on to further their education through the Community College. The greatest success is the family planning part of this programme; there has been no reoccurrence of pregnancy.

The Speaker: The last question is No. 159, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 159

No. 159: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture how many homes under the Government's guaranteed scheme have been constructed and purchased.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Under the guaranteed home mortgage scheme, 52 homes or apartments have been purchased and 52 constructed by approved contractors/developers. This scheme has been in operation since late 1994. The remaining 31 approvals by the Banks and the Government are still awaiting performance by the contractor/developer, or by the borrower to sign the commitment letter for the respective bank.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. In the answer to the question it says that "the homes are to be constructed by approved contractors/developers...." Could the Honourable Minister state the criteria for approval?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, first of all the contractor/developer must have a business licence and must be able to provide financing to do the construction. Most of all, they have to have a good track record which the Ministry verifies through several sources, two of which are the Public Works Department and the Planning Department and our investigations as well.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Minister tell us if he is aware of any workers in the banks railroading or impeding this project?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: From what I have been told, there have been some delays which the Ministry thought were unnecessary.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Is the Minister in a position to state some of the reasons why these delays occurred?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: The information regarding the applicant has caused frustration to the borrower. This, of course, ends up at the Ministry.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning. Proceedings will be suspended for 15 minutes.

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.28 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: I have received an apology for absence from the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Proceeding with the Orders for today. Statements by the Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

STATEMENTS BY HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

HEALTH INSURANCE PREMIUM STATEMENT -and- WITHDRAWAL OF THE HEALTH INSURANCE BILL, 1996

Hon. Anthony Eden: Madam Speaker, I beg your permission to make a statement to this Honourable House concerning the revised Bill for a Law to Provide for Health Insurance and Health Insurance Regulations.

You may recall that on 11th December, 1995 I tabled in the Legislative Assembly a draft Bill for a Law Relating to the Provision of Health Insurance as a discussion paper. My statement to the Legislative Assembly at the time also included an outline of the anticipated benefits and the maximum premium. The maximum premium was a result of feedback I received from five providers of health insurance coverage in the Cayman Islands.

The range of premiums for children and adults up to age 64 was $34 to $55 per month at a 20% co-insurance rate. For those persons aged 65 and over, with 20% co-insurance the range would be $55 to $180. Now, the rates will be the same for the 65 years and older, which is what the public wanted most.

I circulated the draft Bill and my statement to many individuals and interest groups and then, based on feedback which I received, I amended the draft Bill and produced draft Regulations for further discussion. These I tabled in the Legislative Assembly 17th July, 1996. I stated very clearly when doing this, that the legislation was not written in stone (and I note that the Caymanian Compass newspaper has quoted me on this), and that the draft Regulations were for discussion. I was unable to say at that time what the expected health insurance premium would be, but said that I expected the local providers of health insurance to quote a premium by 26th July, 1996.

Subsequently, Madam Speaker, I advised a reporter from the same Caymanian Compass newspaper that I had received some premium quotes and that the average per person was $60, which included a $5 contribution towards a scheme for high risk insurance persons.

Unfortunately, the information which I had available at that time did not detail the range of coverage available and it was interpreted that every individual in a family, including children, would have the same premium.

The $60 per month is the top end price for an individual without any dependants. However, when more than one person is covered, the premium is reduced to less than $60 per person. I am informed by some local providers of health insurance that premiums per couples or per person and a dependant will be less than that for two individuals. In addition, premiums for families are a fixed price regardless of how many children are in the family.

It should also be noted that the majority of the population will be insured through groups and will therefore receive substantial discounts off the rate of $60 for a single individual.

Madam Speaker, I wish to emphasise that I am still receiving feedback, especially on the premium. I know that persons in our community need to be assured of that fact and that I have been revising the draft Health Insurance Regulations as a result.

Once the revisions are complete, the insurance companies will provide more precise premium quotes, giving the amounts for individuals, couples, individual with a dependant, as well as families and groups. Also, in all likelihood an actuarial review will be done to substantiate the premium rate.

Madam Speaker, in this realistic and affordable Health Insurance Bill, we have avoided the disastrous weakness of the last Government's 1992 Health Care Insurance Law, which seemed to offer all things to all people but which would in reality have proved unworkable and been able to offer nothing to anybody.

This new Bill with its Regulations provides for one premium to cover all age groups, whether a person is under or over 65. The 1992 Regulations set the premium at $45 for the under 65 age group and a horrendous $179 for those over 65. It is a mark of a decent and civilised society when the young and able bodied work force helps to cushion the twilight years of our valued elderly citizens.

I wonder what tiny percentage of our over 65 citizens could possibly afford $179 per month. By setting this impossible premium rate, the Member responsible in the last Government in effect wrote off a generation of elderly people as easily as he said he was prepared to write off a generation of younger people who had unfortunately strayed into the perils of substance abuse.

Madam Speaker, this is an affordable, workable Health Insurance Bill designed to meet as comprehensively as is realistically possible, the needs of all our citizens and residents, at the same time lifting some of the heavy burden of paying for health care provision off the shoulders of Government.

In producing this Bill and the Regulations, we have worked closely with the insurance companies who, after all, are the ones who will be providing the coverage. In 1992, the insurance industry had the $45 premium forced on them by the Member then responsible for Health. They had no say in the matter. They were threatened with losing their licence to operate, if they did not submit to his will and provide unrealistically broad coverage for a premium which everyone (except he) knew would have driven them out of business.

One way or the other, either through bankruptcy or losing their licences, the health insurance companies would have gone out of business thereby removing any possibility of coverage being available, either to the thousands who already had excellent coverage or to those seeking it for the first time. The only alternative would have been to buy it from overseas companies, which can itself be a risky proposition.

Madam Speaker, the world of the Member for Health in the last Government is different from the real world. The real world is a place where people listen to and respect each other's point of view, where negotiation not dictatorship achieves lasting results; where a willingness to compromise and work with people for the good of the country results in long term benefits for all. This is what this Government has done in drawing up this Bill and the Regulations that accompany it, and no amount of mischievous misrepresentation by Team Cayman can alter that. They are urging people to "stop the madness" but in truth, and fortunately for our blessed country, the real madness was stopped by the sensible electorate in the General Election of 1992.

Madam Speaker, I would like to thank you for this opportunity to clarify the question of health insurance premiums. This Government is one which listens to and is responsive to the concerns of the general public, and in light of the fact that feedback is still coming in, we have decided not to press forward with the health insurance legislation at this time.

SHORT QUESTIONS Standing Order 30(2)

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, may I ask a question of the Minister making the statement?

The Speaker: You certainly may, under Standing Order 30(2), a question can be put to the Minister for purposes of clarification.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Would the Minister say on the basis of what fact does he state that the insurance companies would have gone out of business had they offered an insurance coverage as was proposed by the last Government for the premium of $45 per month?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: As it was put to me, the premiums were so unrealistically low for the benefits that were going to be provided within a very short period of time, the premiums would have sky-rocketed under the law, the premium being mandatory at $45 per month. They either had to stick with that or not offer insurance coverage in the islands.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Could the Minister tell the House if his Ministry, or the Government, has had the benefit of an independent Actuary to determine whether the insurance companies now will be making much more profit than they will be offering coverage for with the premium which they propose to charge?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: As I said before, once we give them the final package and the benefits we expect, we will have the premium reviewed by an Actuary.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
Is the Honourable Minister in a position to say when the Bill and Regulations will be ready for the public?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: Not at this time, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
Is it the case that to this point in time, the Government has not engaged the services of an independent Actuary to review the present situation with the National Health Insurance?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: We have spoken to them, but we have not actually engaged their services.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Is the Minister presently in a position to compare the proposed benefits coverage and also the other things that go with the proposed Bill versus the old Health Insurance Law? Can he enlighten us at this point in time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: In our review of the Insurance Bill and Regulations, the main concern of the public was the $60 premium for all people. Also, the ability of not only going to the hospital here, but being able to go to the doctor of your choice at a private health clinic.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
Would the Honourable Minister explain the $60 per month top end price for an individual with no dependants. Is it going to be borne 50/50 by the employee and employer?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: That is correct.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.
Can the Honourable Minister tell the House what provisions will be made under his proposed Bill for those people normally considered high risks, or uninsurable, that is, those with pre-existing conditions?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation.

Hon. Anthony Eden: This is also one of the areas that we are looking at in great detail. I am not in a position to make a statement at this time.

The Speaker: We will proceed to Government Business. Bills First Reading s. Suspension of Standing Order.
The Honourable Second Official Member.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46

Hon. Richard H. Coles: I beg to move the suspension of Standing Order 46 to enable the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill to be read, notwithstanding that the full period of notice has not been given.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 46 be suspended in order that we may proceed with these two Bills.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Orders are accordingly suspended.

SECOND READINGS

PROCEEDS OF CRIMINAL CONDUCT BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to move that a Bill entitled, A Bill for a Law to make new provisions for the powers of Criminal Courts, including provisions for the recovery of proceeds of certain serious criminal offences and for connected purposes, be given a second reading.

The Speaker: Please proceed, Honourable Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: In 1986, the Cayman Islands negotiated a Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty with the United States of America. In 1989 this House passed amendments to the Misuse of Drugs Law which dealt with money laundering offences concerning the proceeds of drug trafficking. Now, in this legislation which is before the House today, that is being enlarged to cover all serious crime.

Cayman is (as is well-known) the fifth largest banking centre in the world. We know how to live up to our responsibilities. The problem of international crime is a world-wide problem and it exists here in Cayman as in many, many other countries and certainly those that have a developed financial system like we do. The only way it can be tackled is on a world-wide scale. That requires cooperation between those countries who participate in the financial services industry. That is really the whole purpose behind this legislation.

The Misuse of Drugs Law and its legislation dealing with the proceeds of drug trafficking has been very successful, but it has its limitations. The obvious limitation is that it only relates to drugs offences and it is not always possible to show that money which undoubtedly has come from criminal acts is in fact the proceeds of drug trafficking and not proceeds of other criminal offences. The Law has been deficient to that extent.

It is an opportunity today for this legislature to remedy that deficiency and to ensure that all serious crime is covered and that the criminal is not able to profit from his criminal acts.

Unfortunately, it is very often that the individuals who end up in court being charged with criminal offences are not necessarily those who have masterminded those offences; not those who have orchestrated those offences, but people lower down in that organisation. It is a fact that in criminal organisations those people are expendable. To the organisation itself, to those who are in charge of it, having those individuals sent off to prison for a very long time is merely one of the acceptable risks they run to conduct their enterprise.

The world has decided that the way to target those individuals is through something that they do understand, that is, profits from the actions they undertake. That is where this legislation fits in to the world-wide pattern of tackling this type of crime. Following a conviction after a prosecution for a serious criminal offence (I am talking about offences that are already here in our Penal Code), the court will be able to confiscate those illicit proceeds. They will not flow back to the organisation or, indeed, to the head of that organisation but will be denied to him.

It is hoped and intended that in this way the organisation itself will be punished and that it will be a lesson which we hope will make the risk of committing those types of offences no longer worth doing, and will persuade them that they should stop that particular activity.

It would certainly be naive of me to say that passing this legislation in Cayman is in one stroke going to achieve that, but it is all part of the web that will do so. The point that I made at the outset is that Cayman is living up to its international and world-wide responsibilities.

In addition to the reasons that I have just given, the Financial Action Task Force, of which I am certain Members are fully aware, and, indeed, the Caribbean Financial Task Force, in which the Cayman Islands play a leading role, have both said right from the outset that the legislation which was originally envisaged by the Vienna Convention on Drugs, and which gave birth to the 1989 amendment to the Misuse of Drugs Law, should be extended to all serious crime.

With your permission, Madam Speaker, I intend to read the recommendation from the Financial Action Task Force, and the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force, saying exactly that. The recommendation in the Financial Action Task Force, recommendation number 5, says, under the definition of the criminal offence of money laundering and the main heading of 'Improvements of National Legal Systems to Combat Money Laundering':

"Accordingly, each country should consider extending the offence of drug money laundering to any other crimes for which there is a link to narcotics. An alternative approach is to criminalise money laundering based on all serious offences and/or on all offences that generate a significant amount of proceeds, or on certain serious offences."

You will discover that as I proceed through this Bill, it is the second recommendation, the second course of action which Cayman has chosen.

The Caribbean Financial Action Task Force reiterates that recommendation in their recommendation number 2., headed 'Crime of Money Laundering.'

"Consistent with recommendation number 5 of the Financial Action Task Force, and recognising that the objectives of combating money laundering are shared by members of this conference, each country in determining for itself what crimes ought to constitute predicate offences should be fully aware of the practical evidentiary complications that may arise if money laundering is made an offence only with respect to certain very specific predicate offences."

I do not intend to read any further, but I think it is important for Members to appreciate that the impetus for this extended legislation goes back some considerable time. Some countries have already put this in place - not many, I have to say, at the present time.

Regarding the Bill itself, Members have noticed, I am sure, that the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons is very different from what they have been used to in the past. It goes into considerably more detail in terms of giving summaries of the various clauses or sections in the Bill. It is a format which I intend to have carried through to all future legislation, and I hope that it will be of benefit to both Members of the House and to members of the public. It is designed so that one can pick up a copy of the Bill and within two or three pages understand the main purpose of each section and each clause.

Of course, if you wish to go into detail you must turn to the individual section of the Bill. I understand that not everyone has the time, nor the inclination, to do that. I hope that it will be of benefit to people who can then get some understanding of the Bill with only a limited amount of reading and time to do so.

For that reason, I do not feel it necessary to go through this Bill section by section. I think the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons does that very adequately. I propose to highlight those areas and clauses that I think are important for Cayman and for Law Enforcement, and important for the Financial Services Industry here, and to go into more detail on those particular clauses. However, if any Member has anything that they are unsure of on a section that I have not dealt with, I shall be happy to do my best to answer whatever questions they raise when I sum up.

I would also like to mention that, regrettably, there have been a number of amendments that have been set down for Committee stage. In fact, a total of 19 amendments. Members should have had copies of those. However, to allay any concern, those amendments are purely and simply technical amendments that are necessary where numbering has to be altered or where typing errors have been made, or where cross-references to sections and clauses have been discovered to have been wrong after the various alterations and consultations have taken place on the Bill. If anyone thinks at first glance that there seems to be an awful lot of them, that is all there is. There are no amendments of substance to the legislation at all.

I should also like to apologise to the House for the fact that I was unable to give the requisite 21 day notice before bringing this Bill to the House, so was obliged to request the suspension of Standing Orders, for which I am very grateful for the indulgence of the House. However, I do not think that anybody can say that there has been insufficient time for members of the public or members of the Financial Services Industry, or any other area of the private sector, not to have been aware of the content of this legislation.

The consultation process has been very full and very complete and has been ongoing since May of 1995. Many meetings have taken place and I would certainly like to commend the time that has been taken by members of the private sector. I do not intend to mention names today because I think it would be invidious to do so; there were so many people who put in time and effort. I am grateful to them, and I know that the Government is grateful to them. It is certainly an example of the partnership that government and private sector working together to achieve a common aim in the legislation that you see before you today.

That consultation culminated in a joint private sector/Governmental visit to London in July this year, when a very helpful meeting took place with officials from the Foreign Office, the Home Office and the Treasury in London. I think it was very helpful to clarify the way in which very similar legislation is implemented in London and answered many questions that we had. I think it gave reassurance, not only to those who attended, but, after they had returned and were able to communicate what had happened at that meeting, gave reassurance to others here in Cayman who were not at that meeting.

This legislation is based very substantially on the Criminal Justice Act of England, but tailored to meet the individual requirements of the Cayman Islands. It therefore follows the same format as that amendment to the Misuse of Drugs Law which I referred to before. It made eminent sense to follow that same format for a number of reasons, one of which was that we were (and we are) extending the offences in the Misuse of Drugs Law to encompass all serious crime. We have experience in implementing or administering that legislation in the Misuse of Drugs Law. By 'we,' I mean the Government, the Prosecution Service which falls under me, the Police, the Judiciary and, by no means least, the Financial Services Industry. It is something which we are all familiar with.

The other advantage is that because Cayman in its Courts and the Judiciary takes notice of judicial precedent in the courts of England and Wales, that is to say cases decided in England and Wales, it means that to a great extent we can take advantage of the experience and the cases that have already gone before in England and Wales and derive benefits from those here.

It also has the advantage of them giving a greater level of certainty to those who have to operate with this legislation knowing that certain areas have been tested and have been the subject of judicial decisions.

The Cayman Islands is certainly one of the first jurisdictions in the Caribbean to enact this type of legislation; for that, Cayman should be very proud. It shows that Cayman is a responsible and mature jurisdiction. However, all the British Dependent Territories, and the Crown Dependencies (by that I mean the Channel Islands, the Isle of Man, other financial services jurisdictions) all will be obliged to enact this type of legislation in no less stringent a form than what you see in front of you this afternoon. The United Kingdom Government has confirmed that they will ensure that this is so, and that this legislation will be required to be put in place in a reasonable length of time.

But, my advice to Members today is that there is nothing to be afraid of in this legislation, nothing to be afraid of for Cayman in this legislation. This is a positive piece of legislation that can do nothing but good to Cayman as a financial jurisdiction. The only people who have cause to fear, are the very individuals whom we wish to fear it - those who may be subjected to sanctions under it.

The Misuse of Drugs Law, has worked extremely well for the six years it has been in place with these amendments. Drugs and drug trafficking is still a major, if not the major, scourge of civilised society. I certainly do not minimise that at all. But when this legislation was proposed back in the mid-to-late 1980s it was seen as not just the top priority, but I think the only priority. Countries have recognised now that yes, of course it is still a major problem, but it is not the only problem.

Another scourge that is fast catching up with drug trafficking is callous investor fraud which seeks to deprive people of their money by fraudulent means. That causes in many instances no less distress. It is this legislation which will enable us to be just as tough on this sort of unscrupulous crime as we have been in the past on drug trafficking.

This Bill is divided into three parts. I intend to deal with each part in turn. The first part can be dealt with very quickly. It really just deals with the preliminary definitions that are used throughout the Bill itself. The part that actually deals with the meat of the legislation are Parts II and III. Part II deals with the domestic application of the Law and Part III deals with the enforcement of overseas orders. If I can deal with Part II first, and as I said, I am not intending to go through this section by section, but to deal with certain points that I think require further clarification or that are of particular importance and that I think would benefit from my speaking about them this afternoon.

The way I intend to approach it is to go through point by point. We will not necessarily work our way chronologically through the section numbers, but what I will do when I deal with a certain point is tell you the section or clause that contains that so you can refer to it if you wish to. I may, indeed, refer to it as I go through it. But we shall not be working our way through in numerical order.

The main offence dealt with in Part II, which is the domestic application, are offences that can be committed in the Cayman Islands under this legislation. It is basically this (and this can be found in section 21): if a provider of financial services suspects that his customer or client has been engaged in, or is engaged in, or benefited from crime (a crime that is covered by this legislation), and he proceeds with whatever service he has provided, then he commits an offence under this new legislation.

He protects himself by reporting that suspicion to the Reporting Authority. That is all he has to do. He does not have to take any other action, just report it to the Reporting Authority. Once he has done that the transaction can continue, if that is what he wishes to do. Of course, it is entirely a matter for him if he wishes to continue with the transaction, but there is no criminal sanction if he wishes to do so, provided that he has reported it first.

We have also inserted in that clause in section 21(3) (which is the section that deals with the Reporting Authority), that providing that the report is made no criminal offence is committed. But it also goes on to say that that report will not give rise to any civil liability. What that means is that the service provider does not have to worry that he would find himself being sued for giving out that information provided it is given to the Reporting Authority. He can give that information in accordance with the Law, he protects himself from any criminal offence and there is no question of being under any civil liability.

The reason for that reporting being a defence, which is there naturally to encourage those service providers to report, is that it enables the Reporting Authority and/or the police, if it goes to the police, to keep track of that transaction. It allows them to follow what has become known as the 'paper trail'. That is essential if confiscation orders are going to be made confiscating the proceeds of the crime. It is essential that those proceeds can be traced. So, the reporting of a suspicious transaction in the circumstances I have outlined is absolutely crucial to the investigation of this type of crime.

The Reporting Authority itself is appointed by His Excellency the Governor. That is under section 20. The appointment is by the Governor acting in his discretion, not the Governor in Council. That has been done deliberately by the Government to remove any possibility or thought of political interference in what will be an extremely important authority with considerable responsibility. There are also restrictions on further disclosure by that Reporting Authority. That is contained in section 21(6). In fact, there are different restrictions depending upon whether the Reporting Authority is disclosing to other authorities in the islands, or whether they wish to make a disclosure overseas. In the latter case it can only be done with the consent of the Attorney General.

The crimes that are covered are what I call the predicate offences. In other words, the crimes from which these elicit proceeds flow are described in section 5 (7)(c), and they are all indictable offences which I think we would say were our definition of all serious offences. Indictable offences are those that are impetus by a judge and jury as opposed to by Magistrate in the Summary Court. They are generally the more serious offences. It covers all those offences, with the specific exception of drugs offences. That is because, as I said, the Misuse of Drugs Law already deals with drug trafficking offences and the proceeds of those crimes. We have chosen to leave those offences in the Misuse of Drugs Law and so drugs offences remain there and are specifically excluded from this legislation.

There are a number of different domestic orders that can be made in the Cayman Islands Courts which are allowed and empowered under this legislation. The first is Restraint Orders, which is covered in section 9 and section 10. Restraint Orders have the effect of maintaining and keeping in place proceeds that are in bank accounts or in immovable property, whether it is a house, or land, or a boat, or any other asset. It has the effect of freezing that asset pending the trial of the case. Of course, if you think about it, it is only logical that such an order should be possible because if you could not apply for such an order, then by the time the trial was finished and the judge made his deliberation, the money would have gone. It would have flown somewhere else and the confiscation order would be a complete waste of time.

So it is necessary at a given time, and the law tells us when, that an application can be made to the court for a restraining order freezing those assets so that eventually they can be dealt with by the trial judge, if, of course, the individual is convicted. If he is not convicted, the restraining order is lifted, property reverts to whoever owned it in the first place.

We then come to the confiscation orders themselves which are section 6 and 8 in the Bill. They are made at the termination of the criminal proceedings once a guilty verdict has been given, otherwise they would not come into effect. They are in addition to any penalties the judge might impose upon the convicted man. So the judge has power to imprison, depending on what the offence is. (Well, all these offences would carry a sentence of imprisonment.) So, he would have a power to imprison, the power to fine and now the power to make sure that the convicted person cannot retain the profits of his crime, but loses them. That is what a confiscation order is.

Sometimes, in order to enforce a confiscation order, the court will have to make a charging order, which is covered in section 11. The charging order works, in simple terms, a bit like having a mortgage or a charge on your house. Many people have those and understand how that works. It means that if a confiscation order is made for a particular sum of money, and the asset is... well, we will use the illustration of a house... then the court causes a charge to be registered on that property and in the same way that you have a mortgage on your home, if you sell your home you have to pay off the lender. You would have to pay off this charging order.

Sometimes it is possible for the person or the court imposing that charging order to require that property to be sold so that the amount can be paid over. There are also ancillary provisions in the Law in respect of receivers who would be appointed by the court to actually sell the property under a charging order. But I do not intend to go into the details of those unless a particular Member wants me to.

A point that I know is very important to the finance industry, and I am sure to Members as well, is that secured creditors are protected under this legislation which means that when a convicted person's property is being assessed (and we call that "realisable property" in the Bill) and valued, any secured property is left out of that calculation to the extent of the security. So there is no question of someone who in good faith has lent money on the security of a property, whether it is real property, like a house, or if its on the security of a negotiable instrument or share certificates, or whatever it is. If that is a secured debt and has been properly registered and properly legalised then it is protected. The confiscation order will not affect that secured property. That is something about which we had much discussion with the private sector and the information they were able to give us about how that might affect Cayman, and how we were able to resolve that issue was extremely helpful.

Section 20 of the Law also deals with what we call a "Code of Practice." The Law provides that the Governor in Council may issue a Code in Practice. That is to be dealt with by the different areas of the Financial industry in Cayman, preparing their own Code of Practice based upon their knowledge of their industry. That Code will then be submitted to the Governor in Council through my office and, provided it meets and is approved by Executive Council, then it will be issued by them as a Code of Practice under this Bill. The purpose of that is to give some practical guidance to those members of the Financial industry here in Cayman as to compliance with the Law to try and be helpful and come up with some practical suggestions so that they can fully and completely comply.

The other section I want to particularly mention is section 2, subsection (4). This is another very important section because it spells out that this Law is not retrospective. What that means is that the Law will only affect and bite on offences that are committed after it has come into force. It means that there is no requirement for trolling back through past transactions to see whether or not they comply with this legislation. What we are saying is that we are looking to the future, and we will put this legislation in place, I hope with the concurrence of Members of this House, and the Code of Practice that will be issued under it. But we are not going back into past transactions.

I know there was a fear that that could involve considerable amounts of work by institutions in Cayman. That is not the objective of this legislation. That section clearly says so.

I now want to deal with Part III, the Enforcement of Overseas Confiscation Orders. This will only apply to countries that have been designated by the Governor in Council. Until they are designated, they cannot be assisted by this legislation. It is proposed that the United Kingdom and the United States will be designated. That mirrors the situation in the Misuse of Drugs Law where those two countries are designated for exactly the same purpose for enforcement of their confiscation orders made in their courts.

The predicate offences, that is, the offences from which the criminal proceeds flow, are the same as in Part II of the Law, the Domestic Offences, all indictable offences. That means all offences that are indictable in Cayman. But there are some further restrictions on that which apply to Overseas Confiscation Orders.

Firstly, there is a minimum amount for which a confiscation order can be made. That minimum amount is C$30,000. There is no minimum amount for domestic offences. That is in section 30 subsection (1). I forgot to say that the designation of countries is under section 29 subsection (1).

There are some further qualifications as well. Probably the most important is dual criminality. This is very familiar to those who have looked at the Misuse of Drugs Law and other statutes dealing with international crime. It is covered in section 21(10) of the Law. It means that it is not sufficient for the circumstances giving rise to the offence to be an offence in the designated country, but also, those circumstances have to give rise to an offence (not necessarily the same offence, but an offence in Cayman), or would give rise to such an offence if it had taken place in Cayman. What that means is that Cayman only recognises offences equivalent to our own law. That is a very important safeguard because it maintains the integrity of our own legal system and means that we can be certain that the only predicate offences that we are countenancing under Part III are offences that are already known to Cayman that have been passed and are enshrined in legislation in Cayman.

There is a further qualification which is tax or fiscal offences. These are expressly excluded and the terminology used is the same wording as in the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty. I have to say that tax offences would be excluded in any event by the dual criminality test, because we do not have any direct taxation here in Cayman and so there are no equivalent tax offences here. So, an overseas offence based on tax would not find an equivalent offence in Cayman. It would fail that test. But, just to put this beyond any shadow of doubt, it is included in the schedule at clause 3(1)(b).

If you read that schedule and that sub-clause you will see that the wording is the same as in the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty. I have a copy of that Treaty with me. I do not intend to read it, but I will tell you that the relevant article in the Treaty is Article 19, clauses 3(d) and (e). You will find that the wording is virtually identical.

The reason that I have stressed that is because I know there is some concern that Cayman could find itself enforcing legislation passed in other countries. I hope that I have demonstrated that that cannot happen unless it conforms to the qualifications that I have given you. Of course, in those circumstances it is only right and proper that we do enforce those orders, because otherwise we would be frustrating the criminal justice process, and we would be allowing someone who had been convicted of one of these crimes to keep the illicit proceeds of their crime - something that under this law we would not countenance in Cayman. If we are not prepared to countenance it in Cayman, why should we countenance it anywhere else? And why should we allow our financial services and finance industry to be abused in that way? So, it is very important that we do have that power.

The application which has to come before the Grand Court to register an overseas confiscation order is made by the Attorney General on behalf of the designated country. It is not open for that country to instruct its own lawyer to come to Cayman and make application, it has to be done by the Attorney General on behalf of the country. That is in section 30.

Section 32 sets out the requirements that have to be met by that country when a request is put before the Attorney General, the sort of information that has to be included in the request.

I want to turn to some of these sections because I think it is important. Section 32 sets out that the requesting country has to produce a certificate stating various matters that the Attorney General has to be satisfied of before proceeding any further. If you look back to section 30(3), you will see that there is a provision there that where the Attorney General issues a certificate to the effect that it would be against the public interest of the islands to register such an order, that is the end of the matter. It never gets to court. So there are many safeguards that will ensure that this law is helpful, and does not hinder either the country or the financial industry here.

I believe that I have covered the points that I wanted to emphasise. I am very conscience of the fact that I have only selected certain parts but even so I have mentioned a number of section numbers, and I do not want to go into too much detail unnecessarily. The Memorandum of Objects and Reasons will assist Members with that.

Perhaps it would help if I said that the remarks I have already made about restraining orders, orders freezing assets pending the termination of the trial itself, could be applied for also on behalf of a designated country. The application, again, would be through the Attorney General, and certain criteria would have to be met. That is in clause 6 of the schedule. That is exactly for the same purposes as in domestic offences, to ensure that when the trail is finished, those assets are still in situ and can be the subject of a confiscation order.

The charging orders I mentioned are also available to enforce an overseas confiscation order and are covered in clause 7 of the schedule.

Madam Speaker, I believe that this legislation reflects the world-wide concern with international crime. Any legislation of this nature is exercising a balance between the rights of individual privacy with the need for disclosure in the public interest. It is not an easy balance to achieve, but I believe that this legislation does achieve it. I think that the right of individual privacy is still fully protected within this legislation.

The law will require, in order for a financial service provider to comply with it, that he is dealing with legitimate business; that checks, often referred to as 'know your client checks' are done on customers and clients and on new business. But those checks are already in place under the voluntary code that has been in force here in Cayman for many years, and under the Misuse of Drugs Law which contains very similar provisions but related only to drug trafficking offences.

The financial institutions here in Cayman are already implementing those checks. I do not believe that there is a need to put in place any further bureaucracy that could delay transactions. The checks are there. If they have been effective under the present voluntary code and Misuse of Drugs Law, they will be equally effective under this new legislation.

It is also true that of the larger institutions in Cayman, particularly the banks, many (if not all) have their head offices in countries and jurisdictions where this type of legislation is already in force and has been for some time. Those banks are therefore fully conversant with this type of legislation. I believe there will be no surprises in this Bill for them. I am confident that the measures advocated by this legislation are already in place, and have been for quite some time.

The only business that Cayman will lose by this legislation is the very business that it does not wish to attract in the first place. When this legislation has passed, Cayman will be looking at other countries that are perhaps reluctant to pass and enact this type of legislation and we will be asking the question (with good reason): Why?

I commend this Bill to this House.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill, 1996, be given a second reading. The motion is open for debate.

The Honourable Third Official Member.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I rise in support of this Bill entitled, A Bill for a Law to make new provision for the powers of criminal courts, including provisions for the recovery of the proceeds of certain serious criminal offences; and for connected purposes.

I will not be going into the details of the Bill, as this has already been done by the Honourable Second Official Member. However, because it has certain implications for the financial industry (hopefully favourable implications) I thought it would be useful to share some thoughts on this piece of legislation, and to also take a look back in time to see various pieces of legislation we have put in place which preceded this which have helped to shape our financial industry and bring it to where it is today.

When Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth opened our Legislative Assembly in 1994, she said, "The financial sector remains the key to a successful future for these islands. My Government is determined to maintain a financial services industry of high quality and integrity through strict adherence to prudent policies.". This quote from Her Majesty's message aptly describes the commitment of this and past Governments of these Islands in maintaining the integrity of our financial industry by protecting the legitimate expectations of privacy of persons using our financial industry, while at the same time incorporating and rendering assistance to other governments in international criminal matters such as money laundering.

A brief walk through the history of our financial industry will show that our commitment to protecting the privacy of legitimate business dealings, while at the same time deterring the abuse of our financial centre by unscrupulous investors, dates back to 1976 when the Confidential Relationship Preservations Law (CRPL) was introduced. This Law (for which we are criticised in some instances by persons who have heard of it, but who have not read it, and in other instances by persons who have read it but do not understand it) essentially allows for the guided disclosure of information. At worse, the CRPL renders the trading in, and misuse of, confidential information a criminal offence. However, I would like to emphasise that it does not allow for those who are involved in criminal activities to successfully hide behind provisions, although evidence does arise from time to time that some have done so.

I should hasten to point out that in instances where abuse has been detected, such instances invariably culminate in distress to the abusers as their assets are likely to be put at risk.

The Cayman Islands, having gleaned by its experiences and those of others, recognises that money laundering is the life's blood of drug trafficking. As a consequence, as early as 1984 these islands, through an exchange of letters with the United States, entered into what is referred to today as a gentlemen's agreement. It should be noted that entering into this agreement preceded the initiatives of the United Nations which convened a conference in Vienna in 1985. Between that time and 1988 emerged what is referred to today as the Vienna Convention. This gentlemen's agreement was followed shortly thereafter by the introduction of the Narcotics Drugs Evidence United States of America Law, or what is referred to as the Narcotics Agreement, and as referred to by the Attorney General in his presentation.

This legislation was enacted to facilitate the obtaining of evidence required in, or for the purpose of investigations and proceedings being conducted in the United States. It was then agreed between the Government of the Cayman Islands and the United States that if the Narcotics Agreement worked satisfactorily, our Government would negotiate a wider enforcement treaty to cover crimes other than narcotic offences.

In July 1986, the treaty relating to Mutual Legal Assistance (MLAT) in Criminal Matters was introduced. Offences covered under the MLAT are racketeering, drug trafficking, failing to report transfers of illegally acquired funds, insider trading and the violation of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act.

Also, prior to the United Nations Vienna Convention in 1985, the Cayman Islands enacted the Misuse of Drugs Law in 1983. As Members of this House will recall, this legislation was re-enacted in a revised form last year. Under this legislation in its revised form, a person is guilty of an offence if he/she knowingly, or having reasonable grounds to believe that any property represents a proceeds of drugs trafficking, renders assistance in the concealment of such property, or facilitates its removal from the jurisdiction to avoid prosecution by any person, is guilty of a drug related crime.

Following the promulgation of the Vienna Convention in 1988, the G-7 countries met in 1989 to consider the recommended measures embodied in the Convention. The result of the meeting by the G-7 countries was the formation of the Financial Action Task Force, or what is today referred to by the acronym FATF. The FATF formulated 40 recommendations to give effect to the Vienna Convention. A broad summary of these measures is as follows: Criminalisation of money laundering; seizing and forfeiture of illicit proceeds; reporting suspicious transactions; regulating banking and non-banking institutions and assisting other governments in financial information.

In 1993, the Caribbean Financial Action Task Force, or what is referred to as the CFATF, was formed within the region as a body to mirror the Financial Action Task Force and to consider how best the 40 recommendations developed by the FATF could be implemented. From the inception of the CFATF the Cayman Islands has played an integral role in its activities. In 1994, we volunteered to be the first country in the region to open our regulatory systems to outside scrutiny in accordance with the FATF's recommendations. The CFATF's appointed evaluators concluded their report by stating that the Cayman Islands had implemented the full range of the FATF recommendations.

In addition to the CFATF evaluators' findings, in 1995 the United States Department produced a report entitled "The International Narcotics Strategy Report," which showed the Cayman Islands, Italy, United Kingdom and United States of America to be the only countries out of a list of 33 priority governments to have met all of the goals of the Vienna Convention.

The preceding initiatives amply demonstrate a firm and ongoing commitment by these islands to ensure that the financial transactions embraced by all institutions comprising our financial centre are legitimate and derived from scrupulous sources. The primary message to any existing (or would-be) wrongdoers is that they should look for financial centres other than the Cayman Islands to shelter their illicit gains.

We have made several strides forward. At this time we cannot look back. As the Attorney General pointed out, today we are ranked fifth among the largest financial centres in the world. This carries with it certain obligations. We have demonstrated our stewardship, we have demonstrated our commitment, we have demonstrated our pioneering spirit; and we have shown that prior to the United Nations moving forward and initiating activities to consider difficulties and problems arising from drug related crimes and the confiscation of assets of persons who perpetuate such crimes, we took action as early as 1984 with an exchange of letters with the United States of America.

This Bill has my full support.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I suppose one can say that this Bill coming to the House at this time brings relief, since for some time now there was wide-spread anticipation regarding this Bill and its implications.

The position of the Cayman Islands as a ranking international financial centre carries with it the obligation and expectation that it will be responsible in terms of the efforts which it exerts, and the legislation it enacts to maintain its good reputation and attractiveness, and also to avoid punitive actions on the part of the international community.

As has been outlined by the Honourable Third and Second Official Members, it would seem that the Cayman Islands has never shied away from bearing this responsibility and these obligations. One can say that what we commonly refer to as the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill is a step in this continuing attempt to maintain a responsible and attractive image.

I might add that this effort is a timely one. But that is not to say that the effort does not carry with it some apprehension and feeling of ambiguity on the part of certain sectors of the legal and financial community. I cannot say, since my areas of expertise are in neither of the fields just mentioned, whether these fears are justified or not. Allow me to remark, however, that the examination I have made of the Bill leaves me to believe that there are more merits in our having the Bill enacted into Law than demerits.

I can also say that from the visit which my colleague, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, and I made to the United Kingdom authorities in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office in May, the disposition of those persons with which we spoke at that time was that we should have this Law enacted in the Cayman Islands.

Anyone who is interested in crime and criminology and human behaviour would understand that what is described as white collar crime is definitely a matter which should be taken seriously. It was in 1939 that this term 'white collar crime' was made prominent by a man who was regarded at the time as the foremost criminologist in the United States. In an address to the American Sociological Association, Edwin Sutherland defined these types of crimes as those committed by persons of respectability and high social status in the course of their occupation. Emanating out of that address was the whole notion of the modern criminologist's view that there are two types of crime. Sutherland destroyed the notion that crime was something that happened primarily among immigrants and poor people who had fallen victim to the social pathology of urban society. Now we have a whole slew of what is commonly termed 'white collar' crimes.

Just out of interest, because this has some relevance with our jurisdiction and this type of legislation, in his category of white collar crimes Sutherland did not list tax evasion as a crime.

One of the seemingly unpalatable things about this type of legislation is that many people are not prepared to accept that captains of industry, persons in responsible positions, persons who have prominence in their respective societies, should not be considered criminals. Certainly, in the United States, until some years ago, that was a very un-American way of thinking. Then, when the business of drugs became a world-wide scourge, these kinds of crimes took on a whole new importance. In the hey-day we added to what Sutherland called white collar crimes. There was a whole new list beginning with money laundering and other accompanying offences.

I believe that with this legislation the honest, conscientious, hard working people of the Cayman Islands have nothing to fear. I believe that those persons in the legal and financial sectors who exercise good common sense, and who are scrupulous (as we have been known to be) need not worry. But I also believe that there is genuine reason to fear that if we are not careful, judicious and meticulous, we may be taken advantage of by smart, unscrupulous people, and certainly by what James Coleman described as the 'criminal elite.'

One only has to search the Internet to find out that this whole business of money laundering has changed - and is changing, literally by the day. One of the foremost authorities on this, Charles Intriago, who publishes a journal called, Money Laundering Alert, whose firm is Alert Publications, Ltd., of Miami Florida, in an international money laundering conference as recently as March of this year, told his audience of a new phenomenon in money laundering called, "cyber-laundering," where computer networks, including the Internet, are used to transfer large sums of money from jurisdiction to jurisdiction.

There is also a new term with some similarity, known as "cyber-cash." In this exercise a chip holds the cash which can be filled via telephone or bank machine and moved from card to card. It can be used for any size purchase, and the problem with this so-called "wonder movement", at least where Governments are concerned, is that there is no way to track the transactions of the card because there are no registrations of the transaction as there would be, for example, with a Visa or Mastercard or American Express card. So the money flows freely from card to card, and from purchase to purchase.

I say all of that to say that people may think it is not necessary to take the kinds of steps that we are taking in introducing this Bill. But those people who are knowledgeable realise that the business of crime and criminals is not a stagnant business. As the Law and the forces of Law move to plug one loophole, smart criminals are experimenting and trying to find new holes to exploit. Soon we will have to be thinking of ways to counter cyber laundering and cyber cash.

It would seem to me that the introduction of this Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill is even more timely if the Cayman Islands is to remain on the cutting edge and maintain its attractiveness as a premier international financial centre. I think that it is also safe to say that one of the challenges which the Cayman Islands will have to contend with is the fact that, whether through our own volition or through reputation which spreads from satisfied client to prospective client, our reputation as an international financial centre gives us attention which is not always in our best interest.

Let me express it this way: When you are the champion, everybody wants to fight you so that they can not only say that they have fought the champion, but that they have defeated the champion. So when you have a reputation, as does the Cayman Islands, as a premier financial centre, one of the things we have to contend with in the attention we get not only from other jurisdictions, but from the industrialised countries who may see us as a threat because they may realise that a lot of money which they could normally tax will be leaving their jurisdictions and coming to the Cayman Islands. Hence more pressure is brought to bear on us. It is even more important that we allow them to see that we are doing things of our own volition to maintain a clean image.

I believe that as a result we will maybe need to be more judicious in how we promote ourselves. Perhaps we should not dwell so much on the fact that we are the fifth largest international financial centre, but should promote ourselves with the record of what we have done and what we are doing to maintain our cleanliness and our attractiveness, and live up to the obligations which we have to the international financial market.

When we have a law like this coming into effect, how do we control and prevent investigative and prosecutorial criminal misconduct? The American Civil Liberties Union has what can be described as a small encyclopaedia of these kinds of offences. It is safe to say that we in the Cayman Islands are not immune from these types of things. Saying on the one hand that we are being responsible and are living up to our obligations, I have to balance that by saying that we also bear a responsibility to ensure that where we are called upon to investigate and prosecute we have to be careful. In the kind of business we are in we have to ensure, on the one hand, that we have only the best, absolutely impeccable clients, while, on the other hand, ensuring that we eliminate and avoid fishing expeditions and what could be deemed as inquisitorial exercises. Just as we stand to lose if we incur the wrath of the international financial community, we will lose equally if we have separated ourselves from the confidence of those investors who are safe, clean and legitimate tax-dodgers, looking for a place to keep their investments with some discretion. We have to maintain a delicate balance.

My contribution in this instance is not long, and that is understandable because this is not an area where I claim expertise. I would merely make the point that it strikes me that it is a timely piece of legislation, and while I am in support of the legislation, I am calling upon the Government to ensure as far as possible that a balance will be struck.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In going through this Bill, ordinary people like myself had a difficult time grasping the full understanding. In the presentation of the Bill, the Honourable Attorney General noted that in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons there was a very clear attempt to simplify the intent of the Bill. I have to agree that the way the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons was done assisted in my being able to get an understanding.

As the Honourable Third Official Member stated, this is probably a simple continuation of a saga; it probably does not originate from the contents here, but is an ongoing battle. It is quite likely that others around us have more direct contact (simply because of the size of other territories) with these people we are trying to not have visit our shores, either by way of paper or person.

I certainly understand the intent of the proposed legislation. Let me first of all clearly state that it is my belief that all of us well-thinking individuals in these islands will certainly agree that we want no part of ill-gotten gains in our affairs. But, in making the statement very clear, let me say that I have some questions and I will raise them and try to explain myself as best I can in order for the Honourable Second Official Member to clarify in his winding up.

Before I do that let me state that while I do not intend to make an issue of it, I have to publicly say that it is my feeling (not having been privy to all of the meetings that have gone on before) that legislation of this tender nature should be levelled at the Cayman Islands in such a way that other jurisdictions falling within the same stead as we will have the same type of legislation, rather than us paving the way and having others follow; and in truth and in fact with us not knowing exactly when those other territories will follow. I do not mean that this legislation is something terrible. What I contend is if all of us are of the same mind and wish to attain the same goal, while there is competition in the financial industries within the territories, let us not have this as a situation where one seems to have an advantage over the other. Let us seek advantages with each other elsewhere, not with this.

So, while I understand that there is a situation where we as leaders in the financial industry are proving our intent by moving ahead with this legislation, I wish that the legislation were done in such a way that other territories, and we ourselves, would have a kick-off date for one and all. Accepting that this is not the case, I think we should move on.

As the Attorney General pointed out, there are basically three sections that are dealt with in this Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill. First, the Courts will be able to make confiscation orders; secondly, there will be a new series of criminal offences; and thirdly, the Bill will assist in the enforcement of these orders.

In the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons it says that Part III deals with the enforcement of orders made by Courts outside of the Cayman Islands, and clause 29 enables the Executive Council to designate foreign countries to whose Court proceedings the Bill would apply. The clause also provides the provisions set out in the schedule to foreign confiscation orders.

I will not read all of the clauses under Part III, but I will ask a few questions. Where it says the Executive Council will designate the countries to whose Court proceedings the Bill would apply, it leaves several question marks in my mind. The Attorney General addressed some of those areas in his opening remarks, but I pose the question where in section 30 it reads, "On an application made by the Attorney General on behalf of the Government of a designated country the Grand Court may, subject to subsection (3) below register an external confiscation order made there..." and it goes on to list the various requirements.

Not so very long ago a question was posed in this House regarding the cost of Court actions taken through the Attorney General's Office and through the Legal Department in this country. I do not see it anywhere in this Bill, and I pose the question this evening. It seems that the nature of our territory alone is going to dictate with this legislation that there will be more applications made through our Legal Department in the Cayman Islands than requests by our Legal Department to other territories. If that is the case, and I believe it is fair comment to say that it will be the case, and it is going to be up to the Attorney General and his colleagues to make all of these applications on behalf of these other territories, who is going to pay for all of this? I pose that question.

If I am reading this Bill correctly, it may also mean that our Court system could easily get involved with a trail of paper into many other territories for any one given situation, which means that in any given application here, it may not end just like that, but may be another on-going saga. My question has nothing to do with the validity of the application, or the due process, my question is: Who stands the responsibility of the cost of all of these procedures?

Bear in mind, and I think this is also fair comment, that our Legal Department at present is heavily strapped and does not have any spare time. I wonder what the future holds in this regard. I also think that using the example of previous occurrences, specialised help had to be brought in to conduct certain cases in Court. How specialised will this type of activity become and what requirements will there be? How onerous will they be to this country? I simply beg the question. It worries me from that point of view.

The Speaker: Honourable Member it is now 4.30. I do not expect that you will be finished shortly.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Would someone move the motion for the adjournment of the House? The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The Speaker: The question is that the House do now adjourn until 10 o'clock. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

PRESENTATION OF
PAPERS AND OF REPORTS

COMMUNITY COLLEGE OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS
Financial Statement 1995 - Annual Report 1995/96

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Financial Statement and Annual Report for 1995 and 1996, of the Community College of the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: So ordered. Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: As stipulated in section 11 subsection (6) of the Community College of the Cayman Islands Law, 1987, I am pleased to table the Principal's Report and the audited 1995 financial statements of the Community College of the Cayman Islands.

The year 1995 was a year of contraction of the College because of the raising of the school-leaving age. This resulted in a nil intake of students from the John Gray High School and, consequently, all certificate programmes were not run.

The dividends from the decision to raise the school-leaving age were enormous. As you are aware, the external results for examinations taken by John Gray Students in June of this year are the best that we have had in the history of the Cayman Islands.

The contraction in the programmes offered allowed the College to focus on three areas: the curriculum, the physical development of the campus and the programmes and courses, both full-time and part-time, including 'A' levels which were offered at the College for the first time. I repeat, the College does offer (and continues to offer) 'A' level subjects.

Curriculum: The most significant developments were in this area. The evaluation of the certificate programmes and the preparation of syllabi for all subjects in the associate degree programmes were completed. As a result, the College is now a very comprehensive institution and is offering the following programmes in September 1996:

- One year certificate programmes, full-time
- Auto mechanics
- Construction
- Carpentry
- Electricity
- Electronics
- Professional Cookery
- Hospitality studies
- Business/Commercial
- Business/Secretarial

At advanced 'A' levels, full-time and part-time:

- Chemistry
- Geography
- Mathematics
- Economics
- History
- Physics

Professional programmes, part-time:

- Accounting (AT)
- Banking (Chartered Institute of Bankers)
- Insurance (Chartered Insurance Institute)

Associate Degrees, full-time and part-time:

- Associate of Arts
- Accounting
- Business Administration
- Economics
- History
- Hospitality Management
- Language
- Literary Studies
- Social Science
- Associate of Science
- Computer Science
- Mathematics
- Physical Science
- Associate of Applied Science
- Accounting
- Secretarial Studies

I would like to repeat (although it was mentioned yesterday) that the College has not cancelled the 'A' level programme, nor do we plan to phase out the 'A' levels in the future. In preparing for the Associate Degree programme, the College Board took a decision that those students who wished to enter the medical field and study at universities in the United Kingdom and the region, should be able to study mathematics, physics and chemistry, the three subjects needed for medicine.

This September, 83 students enrolled in the Associate Degree programme. Only three full-time and two part-time students opted for 'A' levels. The end result was that the choice of subjects was so wide that all subjects requested were not viable. However, four 'A' level programmes are being offered.

Physical Plant and Facilities: During the year the general studies building was completed and construction of the library building began. I am pleased to report that construction of the new 8,530 square foot library is complete and will be ready for use before the end of September.

Through sound fiscal management the College was able to contribute approximately $1 million towards the construction of the two buildings, and Government's contribution amounted to $1,300,000.

Courses and Programmes: During the academic year 1995/96 more than 1,000 individuals were enrolled in the programmes and courses offered at the College. Some 300 of these were employees of Government and the private sector on contract courses arranged through the College for industry.

Students were presented for external examinations and the percentage pass rate in almost all areas improved. Most pleasing were the results of the first 'A' level classes taught at the College. The relevant statistics on this examination are: 31 students (including one part-timer) took the examinations. Twenty-one students passed all subjects they were entered for; 21 students passed two or more subjects; 15 students passed three or more subjects. Thirty-six of the 66 passes were grade C or above; 100% pass rates in Art, Biology, Computing, English and Spanish.

Those results are the best that I have known throughout my 20 years in association with education. I congratulate all of those students for the excellent results. It is clear that the system of education has to be right when the results are so excellent.

In conclusion, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Board of Governors, especially the Chairman, the Third Elected Member for George Town, for their contribution to the development of the College; the Principal and staff for their continued hard work and success. I should also like to thank the Members of this Honourable House for their support for this efficient and successful institution of learning.

The Speaker: Questions to Honourable Members/ Ministers. Question No. 160 is standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 160

No. 160: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning to state the number of applicants for admission to the Red Bay Primary School for the school year beginning in September 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: A total of 128 new students registered to attend the Red Bay Primary School in September of 1996. As of Friday, 6th September, 120 students had enrolled.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Can the Honourable Minister say what complement of new enrolments the school can accommodate at this time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: It accommodates everyone who is in there.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Perhaps I need to give the Honourable Minister a lesson in understanding. What complement of new students is the school designed to accommodate at this time?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: One hundred and twenty-eight students, as I replied earlier.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Can the Honourable Minister say if he knows why only 120 students were enrolled?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: They are the students who applied, and they were enrolled. I am not certain... somewhere I do not quite understand the Honourable Member's question, and his understanding of the situation. One hundred and twenty-eight students are enrolled in the classrooms and they are accommodated.

The Speaker: Excuse me, Honourable Minister, I think the question asked why only 120 are in as of Friday the 6th. That is my understanding Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, 120 new students applied. How can I enroll students who are not students? I do not follow the reasoning.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, your answer said a total of 128 new students registered and as of Friday the 6th, 120 had been enrolled, which leaves eight. He is asking why?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: All right, Ma'am, I understand that. Because people apply for registration then go to other schools or leave the island. There is a difference of a couple of months in between registering and enrolment so the eight are no-shows, so to speak, who have gone to some other school, or have gone off the island.

The Speaker: Thank you, Honourable Minister.
The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister state if there are any students in Red Bay Primary School who live outside of the precinct of George Town?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Not to my knowledge. The rule is that if there is a sibling in the school then we will go outside of the catchment area to assist parents in bringing both children to one school.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 161, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 161

No. 161: Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development to give details of surplus/profit of Recurrent Revenue over Recurrent Expenditure and Statutory Expenditures in 1993, 1994 and 1995, and indicate the comparison for 1990, 1991 and 1992.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The excess of recurrent revenue over recurrent and statutory expenditure was $11.2 million surplus in 1993; $13.2 million surplus in 1994; and $16.3 million in 1995. When compared to 1990 there was a $1.1 million deficit; a $1.9 million surplus in 1991 and a $3.6 million deficit in 1992.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: In light of the financial position reflected in the answer for the years 1990, 1991 and 1992, can the Honourable Member say how the capital projects for those years were financed; and compare that to how the projects for the years 1993-1995 were financed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: For the year 1993 the contribution or excess of recurrent revenue over recurrent and statutory expenditure was $11.2 million. The capital spending in that year was $9.6 million which meant that the excess of recurrent revenue over recurrent and statutory of $11.2 million was sufficient to fund the capital programme in that year. At the end of that year there was a net surplus of $1.6 million, excluding the balance brought forward from the surplus and deficit account.

In the year 1994 the recurrent revenue was $152.1 million. The recurrent and statutory expenditure was $138.2 million. There is a slight discrepancy for the surplus figure. The Treasury figure, which I believe to be correct (the figure I gave earlier is likely to have been a typographical error), was $13.9 million. That was the excess of the recurrent revenue over the recurrent and statutory expenditure.

The capital spending for the year was $18.1 million, which meant that the contribution towards the capital programme was $13.9 million leaving a net deficit of $4.2 million. Loan funds applied during the year was $4.7 million, meaning a net surplus for the year when taking into account the brought forward balance as at 1st January, 1994, of $2.3 million, in the surplus and deficit account of $2.4 million.

For 1995, the recurrent revenue was $174.5 million. The recurrent and statutory expenditure was $158.2 million. The excess of revenue over expenditure for that year amounted to $16.3 million. The capital expenditure for the year was $23.7 million. Therefore, when the contribution in 1995 was applied against the capital programme there was a deficit of $7.4 million.

This deficit was financed by the balance brought forward at 1st January 1995 of $2.4 million plus the using of loan funds from the 1984 capital projects loan of $1.8 million. This gives a financing package available to fund the deficit of $4.2 million, leaving an overall deficit of $3.2 million as shown in the accounts for 1995 presently under audit review.

For the year 1990, the recurrent revenue was $101.8 million. The recurrent and statutory expenditure was $103 million. There was an excess of recurrent and statutory expenditure over recurrent revenue of $1.2 million. The capital programme for the year was $13.7 million.

So when $1.2 million were added for the year, there was an overall annual deficit of $14.9 million. That was financed by a draw-down of $7.7 million from the general reserves and also the using up of $6.3 million from the surplus and deficit account.

The position at the end of the year was a net surplus of $5.6 million because at the beginning of January 1991 there was an amount of $11.9 million in the surplus and deficit account.

For the year 1991 the recurrent revenue was $113.2 million. The recurrent and statutory expenditure was $111.4 million leaving a contribution of $1.8 million as excess of recurrent revenue over recurrent and statutory expenditure and as a contribution to capital. The capital expenditure for that year was $17.2 million. The net deficit for the year was $15.4 million. This was financed by loan funds of $14.1 million during that year and the balance taken from the surplus and deficit account which I mentioned was $5.6 million, leaving an overall balance in the surplus and deficit account of $4.3 million.

For the year 1992, recurrent revenue was $121 million. Recurrent and statutory expenditure was $124.6 million, exceeding recurrent revenue by $3.6 million. This left a deficit on the recurrent revenue position.

The capital expenditure for the year was $18.1 million. When the recurrent deficit of $3.6 million is added to that, it gives a deficit of $21.7 million. This deficit was financed by loan funds of $6.8 million and the remaining balance of $4.3 million in the accumulated surplus and deficit account. When these two are added together and applied against the deficit of $21.7 million, there was a deficit balance at the end of 1992 of $7.1 million carried forward to the beginning of 1993.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: For purposes of clarity can the Honourable Member give us a breakdown of Government loan receipts, the amount of money the Government borrowed starting from the year 1990 to the present, excluding the Cayman Airways Loan?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: There is a separate question that deals with the information just requested. We are now looking specifically at recurrent revenue. Hopefully that question will be addressed before this meeting concludes.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Could the Honourable Member say, based on the information given with the various amounts of surplus revenue for the years 1993, 1994 and 1995, if there is any special reason why the general reserves were not addressed by way of beefing them up in line with the policy that he put forward in one of his Budget Addresses?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: It was as recent as the June sittings that a response was given to a Parliamentary Question by the same Member which pointed out this is one aspect under consideration in the Government's review of its financial procedure. It was further mentioned that a re-write of the Public Finance and Audit Law was to be undertaken. This is presently under consideration and will be addressed as a percentage of general revenue.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I accept what the Honourable Third Official Member is saying, but I still ask why it was not being done during 1993, 1994 and 1995?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I do not think that I can add anything further to what I have said. At this time we can say exactly what the ideal position was, but I think we have always operated on the principle of a balanced budget and have demonstrated that for the period we are referencing this has been, and always has been, the objective of this and past governments. We have not had a specific policy put in place as yet to deal with the general reserves, although we have recognised that it is of paramount importance that this be addressed. This is where we are now turning our attention. It is an integral part of the government's fiscal policy and macro-economic management approach.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Would the Honourable Third Official Member say if it is a fact that monies allocated in any given year, if not spent (be it capital or otherwise), show up as excess at the end of the fiscal year? Is it a fact that this occurred in 1993, 1994 and 1995?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The Member is partly right, monies not spent are allocations from local revenue.

Where expenditures have been targeted against loan funds in any given year, there is a long-standing policy that the only monies out of those loans that can be used up are monies required to off-set specific expenditure. So those monies cannot be carried forward. But on the local revenue side, those monies are carried forward into subsequent years.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: In the supplementary information provided by the Honourable Third Official Member for the year 1992, it appears that the past Government ended up with a deficit of $7.1 million. Can the Member say how this was addressed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: This was addressed at the beginning of 1993 by a transfer of an equivalent sum from the General Reserves.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Also, in 1995 it appears that the present Government ended up with a $3.2 million deficit after funding capital projects and all other recurrent and statutory expenditure. Can the Member say what significant events took place that affected the financial position as at the end of the year?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: There were certain costs that were offset relating to the Cuban refugees. But I should also mention that when we look at the $3.6 million we are talking less than 2% of the annual budget. Although this 2% is a small sum it is a matter that is under consideration at this time. The Government has been reviewing the overall expenditure on an ongoing basis to ensure that this is corrected by the end of 1996.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: I wonder if the Honourable Member can say how much was incurred by Government in dealing with the Cuban refugee crisis?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: That figure spans a period of two years, but it was in excess of $3 million.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 162, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 162

No. 162: Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr. asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development to (a) indicate how much was added to General Reserves, or used during 1993, 1994 and 1995, and indicate the comparison for 1990, 1991 and 1992; and (b) say, as a total cash position, what were the surplus accounts and final reserve balances for the years 1989 - 1995.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: In response to part (a) of the question, $7.0 million was transferred out of the General Reserve Fund during 1993 to fund the 1992 deficit and $0.4 million was transferred into the Fund during 1994. There were no transfers during 1995.

Seven point eight million dollars and $3.5 million were transferred out of the Fund during the years 1990 and 1992 respectively. The details of this comparison are attached to this answer. There were no transfers during 1991.

In response to part (b) of the question, the total cash position as at 31st December of the years in question was $30.0 million in 1989, $17.6 million in 1990, $17.4 million in 1991, $3.2 million in 1992, $6.0 million in 1993, $6.4 million in 1994 and $1.2 million in 1995.

The details of this comparison are attached to the written answer which is being circulated.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development said that something was attached and circulated?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: My apology, Madam Speaker. The details were not attached, as mentioned, only the figures as set out in the question.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: In the answer to (b) of the question, it mentioned the total cash position as at 31st December, 1989, was $30 million and at the end of 1992 it was $3.2 million. I wonder if the Member could give us an idea of what was responsible for the drastic reduction in the cash position?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: A very good example is what is taking place in 1996. Up to this time, as at June of this year, we have spent close to $14 million on capital expenditure (although there was a loan approved of $16.2 million and a subsequent approval at the June meeting of this Legislative Assembly of $10.6 million), and those funds are available. We have been using up the accumulated balance in the surplus and deficit account in order to finance the capital projects.

What we have been doing is streamlining. For example let us say the draw-downs at the bank, because we do recognise that while the cash position looks very favourable at the end of the year, the Treasury and Budget Unit in a joint effort, have been working and advising the Government on an ongoing basis to use up the surplus in the accumulated account. Although we have approval from this Honourable House in order to raise loan funds, we only do so when the surplus and deficit account will go into an overdraft position.

We have seen where funds were transferred out between those periods in order to fund capital projects and to offset the deficit, specifically at the end of 1992. This is the principle whereby the thrust will not be on the cash balance at the end of the year, and for the future management of the Government's cash flow position once a policy is put in place to deal with the contribution that should be going into the general reserves and put into the Budget as a line item, then the emphasis will be whether approval is obtained from this Honourable House or not. When I say 'not', I should apologise. Approval is necessary. Even though the approval will be necessary from this Honourable House, the emphasis will not be to draw-down those loan funds to put into surplus and deficit account, it will be to manage the cash flow of the government using up the balance on the surplus and deficit account not putting it into an overdraft position.

We recognise that interest rates are very high. If we go and draw funds that we are not using at this time, there could be a differential of about 4% to 5% between what we will be paying and what we will be obtaining on the fixed deposits.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member say if this policy he just referred to has a time line as to implementation? Might it be for the next Budget?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I mentioned during the June meeting of this House that the Deputy Financial Secretary has been tasked with chairing a team to carry out a review of the Public and Finance Law. This is currently underway. The Chief Internal Auditor has been going around talking to the relevant controlling officers, senior officers in government and looking very carefully at the provisions in the Public Finance and Audit Law at this time. We are at a stage where we have a Memorandum of Understanding. I should say that this is what has emerged.

I spoke to Mr. Russell, our representative in the United Kingdom Office, this morning and asked if he could go to the National Audit Office. He went recently and four persons were recommended to us. But when we looked at their CVs, although they were aptly qualified we felt that they did not have the breadth of experience we were looking for. I asked him this morning if he could go back again and if we could get someone at least at the Under Secretary level to come out, someone with a very good understanding in the drafting of legislation and not necessarily to take something from the United Kingdom and come here and introduce it in Cayman. We want something to address our specific circumstances.

I am hoping that this officer will be in place by the end of October. From the work that has been done, I do not think that it would take him more than a month or two to do the re-write of the Audit Law and the Financial and Stores Regulations.

Considering that this is an election year and the Budget will not be presented until March 1997, it is likely that the new procedures could be factored into the Budget. But that factoring would be provisional because the new legislation would have to be passed by this House.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: The Honourable Member has said that there is no need for Government to borrow any money this year because of excess revenue. Is he in a position to say how the recurrent revenue is comparing with recurrent statutory expenditure?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I do not think I said that there is no need to borrow. What I said is that there is no need to draw down as at the end of July. As at the end of July the excess of revenue over recurrent and statutory expenditure was $18.4 million. As I mentioned, the capital expenditure up to that date was $13.8 million which meant that there was sufficient funds on hand to fund the capital projects up to the end of July.

It is likely that we may have to draw down against the borrowings before the end of the year, but we will try to keep those draw downs to a minimum.

The Speaker: May I ask for a motion for the suspension of Standing Orders to complete Question Time after 11.00? Anyone can move the motion.

The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I move the suspension of Standing Orders to allow the other supplementaries and questions to be asked.

The Speaker: I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Orders are accordingly suspended. We proceed with supplementaries on Question No. 162.

AGREED. STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: In the answer provided by the Member to section (a), he mentioned that $7.8 million and $3.5 million were transferred out of the reserve fund during the years 1990 and 1992. Can indicate why these transfers were necessary during these years in question?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: I mentioned earlier that the transfer at the end of 1992 was to offset the accumulated deficit of $7.1 million. I apologise, the figure the Member asked about was at the end of 1990. This was to offset (in part) the accumulated deficit of $14.9 million at the end of the year. Also, the draw down of $3.5 million would be to offset the accumulated deficit of $21.7 million, in part.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: I am not happy with the answer from the Honourable Member. Would he kindly tell the House if Government has borrowed any money thus far this year?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The Member may not be happy, but I will have to give him the facts. I said to him that up to the end of July that was the position. I cannot speak to the 31st of December, and I cannot give him the assurance that the Government will not draw down funds.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side. This is the last supplementary.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Would the Honourable Member say if these transfers during 1992/93 from the general reserve were to cover an overdraft facility left at the bank after the last Government?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: As I mentioned, at the end of 1992 there was a transfer of $7 million from the general reserves. This was in part to offset the deficit being carried on the surplus and deficit account. It should be borne in mind that this does not necessarily translate into an overdraft amount at the bank for an equal sum because there are always a number of un-cashed transactions going through in any given year. Cash balance will always differ from the balance in the surplus and deficit account. It is always within a reasonable margin.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 163, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 163

No. 163: Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr. asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development to give Government's revenue and expenditure positions at 30th June, 1996, and the comparison for the same period in 1992.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Total receipts as at 30th June, 1992, were $68.4 million and comprised recurrent revenue of $66.4 million and loan revenue of $2.0 million. Total receipts as at 30th June, 1996, were $99.8 million and comprised of recurrent revenue only.

Total expenditure, that is the sum of recurrent expenditure, statutory expenditure and capital expenditure, was $65.8 million and $92.7 million as at 30th June, 1992 and 1996, respectively.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I wonder if the Honourable Member could state if the difference in the last two figures ($65.8 million and $92.7 million as at 30th June, 1992 and 1996) is simply inflation, or is it for additional services provided by the Government which means additional costs to the country.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: It is a combination of both.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: For the year 1996, at the end of June, can the Honourable Member say what the reflected surplus is?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The surplus would be approximately $16.5 million.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: How does this compare with the deficit position for the year 1992?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: That would be $2.6 million which would include the loan draw-down of $2 million.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 164, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 164

No. 164: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what action has been taken in past years to advance the progress of the Development Plan Review Process, and what is the present status.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: As Honourable Members of the Legislative Assembly will be aware, I only assumed responsibility of Planning matters, including the Development Plan Review in April 1995 - less than one and an half years ago.

In 1994, Executive Council took a decision that it would be more appropriate to make amendments to the existing 1977 Development Plan rather than bring an entirely new plan. In late 1994, the proposed amendments to the Development Plan 1977 were put on public display from December 1994 to February 1995 (the legally required 60 day period for comment) including maps showing zone changes.

The public review period was extended for a further 30 days to March 1995 to allow additional time for objections/representations to be submitted.

During this 90 day period, the Planning Department received 310 objections/representations. Three more were received between March and May 1995, bringing the total number of objections to 313, affecting approximately 500 parcels of land.

In April 1995, when I got Planning, the Planning Department was at the stage of reviewing the objections/representations and making reports on each for submission to the Central Planning Authority (CPA). Four planners were assigned to this monumental task and by the end of June 1995 these reports were received by the Central Planning Authority.

The Ministry, at this time, realised that the single Planning Appeals Tribunal with its five members would not be able to handle the number of objections/representations without holding hearings over many months (perhaps years) with perhaps consecutive days of hearings. This would have been a daunting prospect for the members who have their own businesses and full-time jobs.

Therefore, a motion and amendment to the Development and Planning Law (1995 Revision) was brought and passed in the June 1995 Meeting of the Legislative Assembly to allow for the appointment of multiple special tribunals to hear objections and representations to the proposed amendments to the Development Plan 1977. This amendment was gazetted on 11th August, 1995.

In late September 1995, nine members from the private sector were appointed by Executive Council to three special Development Plan Tribunals and the appointments were gazetted on 16th October, 1995.

The tribunals were comprised of local businessmen and chaired by lawyers, all of whom were willing to donate their valuable time to sit on the tribunals. I express my gratitude to the Chairmen, Mrs. Sherrie Boddén, Mr. W. S. Walker and Mr. C. S. Gill, and the other members of these tribunals.

By October 1995, the Ministry had received copies of the reports from CPA for distribution to the tribunal members. The objections were divided into three broad categories, one for each tribunal, namely, environmental, roads and zoning.

According to the Development and Planning Law (1995 Revision), the objectors were obliged to receive 28 days notice of a hearing date. The first of the hearings was on 31st January, 1996, and the last was 16th July, 1996. All of the 313 objectors were advised in writing, with the 28 days notice, of when their objection/representation would be heard by the tribunal. Many chose not to attend in person, and in those cases their original written objection/representation was given consideration by the Tribunal.

Of those objectors who did not appear themselves, some agreed to be heard as a group and be represented by one person, while several were represented by the National Trust.

The first of the Tribunal reports was submitted to the CPA at the end of May 1996. This was concerning environmental matters. The CPA is awaiting the reports concerning roads and zoning, however, as Honourable Members can understand, the Chairpersons and members of these Tribunals have other commitments and full-time jobs. Once they have been received and considered, they will be attached to the CPA's proposed amendments and forwarded to the Ministry for submission to Executive Council and then to the Legislative Assembly for final approval.

The proposed amendments will have to be brought before this House by the next Government and can be brought speedily because most of the work is now done, although certain legal problems remain for a final decision when the reports are made.

The Development Plan Review process is long and immense in volume. It is this way deliberately so that major changes cannot take place without input from the public. The views put forward by the 313 objectors/representors will directly influence the nature of any proposed amendments to the Plan brought before this House.

I once again state that I will not circumvent legal procedure, nor take shortcuts in order to be able to say that I got the amendments to the Development Plan 1977 passed during my term in office. Bearing this in mind, I will proceed to inform the Honourable Members as to what action has been taken in the past few years, and the present status of the Review.

My Ministry has done more to advance the progress of this Review in 18 months than any other Minister or Member in the past 8 years. I must express sincere thanks to the Director and staff of the Planning Department, the Central Planning Authority, the Development Plan Tribunal members, my Permanent Secretary and her staff who have worked diligently over the past many months to move the process forward to the most advanced stage it has been in nearly 20 years.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: The Honourable Minister stated that the proposed amendments will have to be brought before this House by the next Government. Would he be in a position to say if that would be possible in the first half of 1997 or the latter half?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The legal process after this should not take beyond six to nine months. When the other two tribunals submit their reports they will go to the CPA which then makes a report on their decision to this Honourable House, which passes through Executive Council. Then it is up to the House to take a decision on the Development Plan.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Does this proposed Development Plan include Cayman Brac and Little Cayman?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: No, Madam Speaker. The position with Cayman Brac and Little Cayman is that when I took over the Ministry, and when the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce (who previously had it) took over from the last government, a plan had been prepared and laid on the table of this Honourable House. Unfortunately, the previous Minister, Mr. Linford Pierson, had not followed the Law. When I looked at it, while I thought it had reached an advanced stage, it had not legally gone through the period of representation and objection in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Therefore, the stage he had reached had been by depriving the public of the right to legally object and make representation on the plan. In effect, the laying of the Little Cayman plan on the table here did not comply with the law. What has to happen now for those two islands, if they so wish, is to begin from the beginning. They can perhaps use this plan, I will call it an informal plan, that was done by a Committee (who put in a lot of work but who did not follow the Law) and use that as a basis, provided they go through the legal process of allowing objections/representations, and then having the hearings which are very important, by the Development Plan Tribunals (which we have now appointed three). Then it has to follow the same process so that when it is laid on the table here it will be the same process that our Grand Cayman Development has gone through.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Can the Minister state what progress has been made with the Development Plan Review from 1993 to the time he took it over?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I just spent about 10 minutes on my feet. I do not know if he would like me to summarise it, but the previous two Governments did nothing. When the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce took this over he started the legal process under the Law. I have carried that on.

This Government has taken it from the mere draft stage through all of the legal hurdles. We have had meetings in each district, we had representations and objections came in (a large number). I amended the Law so that three tribunals could sit simultaneously because the project is so large that just one could not do it. We have had all of those hearings of which one member of my staff in my Ministry has borne the whole brunt of doing all of the minutes and sitting in at those meetings.

Each report is several inches thick because of the large number of representations. One of the Chairmen has given in the report (and this is all during our time)... and I repeat that when the report comes in, it then has to go to the CPA which has to make a decision and recommend it to the Legislative Assembly through the Executive Council. That is the stage the Grand Cayman Plan has reached.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 165, standing in the name of the Third. Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 165

No. 165: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what the advantages are for Cayman Airways Limited purchasing its jets instead of leasing them.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: Banks and financing institutions purchase aircraft which they then lease to airlines such as Cayman Airways Limited. In simple terms, the airlines end up paying for the aircraft through the lease payments, but the bank ends up owning the aircraft.

Cayman Airways Limited purchased the BAC 111-500s in the 1970s, and the 727-200s in 1982. Cayman Airways Limited would have de jure owned these jets by nominee in 1994 and could now be showing a profit in the millions as it would not have to pay rent for the 727-200s which carry 170 passengers. After selling the 727-200s in 1989, Cayman Airways Limited leased its aircraft and Cayman Airways Limited had contingent liabilities of US$105,000,000 under the 737-400 lease in 1991 which I negotiated Cayman Airways Limited out of in 1993.

In late 1994, the Board of Cayman Airways Limited, with my encouragement and support, decided it was in the best interest of the Airline, as well as the Government, to purchase the 737-200 VR-CAL aircraft which was then on lease to Cayman Airways Limited.

The logic was as follows: Instead of guaranteeing the lease payments, Government, in effect, transferred the guarantee to a bank loan. The loan was then used to buy the aircraft and ownership of the aircraft was transferred to Government through a Government owned company set up for that purpose. This new company, Cayman Aviation Leasing, Ltd (wholly owned by Government) in turn leased the aircraft back to Cayman Airways Limited. The lease payments made by Cayman Airways Limited are then used by Cayman Aviation Leasing to pay back the bank loan.

The advantage to Government and Cayman Airways Limited are many. From the Government standpoint, it has guaranteed a loan of approximately US$5 million. However, through Cayman Aviation Leasing Ltd, it now owns an aircraft as collateral for this loan.

In the meantime, since purchasing the aircraft for US$5.3 million, Cayman Airways Limited's lease payments have reduced the debt by over US$1 million (in fact it is $1.1 million now, we reduce it at the rate of $50,000 per month) and the aircraft value has appreciated to close to US$7 million. So Government has absolutely no risk with regard to the bank guarantee which is now less than US$4 million as it owns an aircraft which is worth US$7 million.

Cayman Aviation Leasing Ltd and therefore Government has, in effect, made a profit of US$3 million by purchasing rather than leasing.

Cayman Airways Limited continues to pay lease payments which are somewhat higher than under the lease agreements, but this is a cash flow change rather than a cost increase. Meanwhile, Cayman Airways Limited can continue to make improvements to the aircraft. For example, new passenger service units, including overhead bins, an entire set of new seats, the removal of an unwanted auxiliary fuel tank (which will not now need to be re-installed as it would have been under a lease) and the installation of a Traffic Alert and Collision Avoidance System (TCAS). All such improvements enhance the asset and Cayman Airways Limited retains the added value.

In less than four years from now, Cayman Airways Limited will have an aircraft which is fully paid for and will be capable of operating for perhaps a further 10 years.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Minister explain some details regarding the increased payments that are being made now, compared to the lease payments?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: The question that the Member has raised is very relevant. Cayman Airways was actually paying $85,000 per month for the aircraft. To purchase it we had to choose whether to purchase it over eight years and leave the payments at $85,000, or to pay for it over five years at $105,000.

Cayman Airways loses, or makes less of a profit, as the accounts will show, by paying this large amount (which is quite large, it is one-third more). But we will own the aircraft after five years. So we are saving considerable interest but it makes the accounts of Cayman Airways look worse and unless you look at the jet sitting at the Government's company that has a very substantial surplus.

For instance, this year we had a profit after surplus in the vicinity of $940,000 or $950,000. That profit would have been increased considerably more if it had only been leasing the jet rather than buying it. As the public knows, it cost more to buy than to lease. But when you have bought the jet you have no payments.

Really, as the Honourable Member will appreciate, can you imagine where Cayman Airways would be if they can make a profit with higher rent compared to when it has actually no rent to pay which we would not have been paying (I wish to point out) for the last three years if we had kept and owned the 737-200s.

Cayman Airways is worse off but Government is far better off as a result. There is probably $1 million-odd sitting in the account for the leasing company.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say what the value of the aircraft is at this time, and what it will be upon completion of payments?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: We bought the aircraft for $5.2 million. It now has a value of $7 million. So it has increased in value by close to $3 million. When you add the improvements which we had to pay for, we put in maybe $600,000 worth of improvements... if it keeps going up at this rate we will soon double the value of it. I am not saying that that is going to happen because the airline market now has increased with that type of jet. In the US and Europe there are many airlines doing no-frills, short term runs that a 737-200 is geared for.

In fact, the $105,000 that we paid to buy it, to lease that aircraft now would be in the area of $110,000 to $115,000 per month. So it has gone up considerably in value. It has been a very good investment. I am very happy with it.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: The Honourable Member to my right is wondering who placed the value of $7 million on the airline at this time. I am wondering if the Minister is in a position to say who did so?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: There are listings that show the value of these aircraft and it would have been taken from those official listings. They are going up considerably now, but like any other market, obviously, how much I do not know. But they are definitely very much in demand because we are looking at trying to purchase another jet and the jets we were looking at were between $7 million and $8 million United States Dollars. I am not saying we are going to do that, we are just looking because I saw the Fourth Elected Member for George Town getting up. Let me state that I will do nothing unless I am certain that Cayman Airways is going to make a profit on it and own an asset. It will come to this Honourable House - I assure you of that. I will do nothing unless I come here with something like purchasing a jet.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Minister address the situation which that aircraft will face in the very near future regarding hush-kitting?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: This is a complex area. We now have three permits that allow us to run one aircraft until the end of 1998 without a hush-kit, and the other one to the year 2000, without a hush-kit. We are now looking at what to do and we do have a medium-term plan despite what is sought. It is similar to plans on Education, Drugs and Tourism and all plans that we have now. It is five years. It is being completed as a strategic plan.

One of the actions teams is looking at this because we have to decide well in advance so that we can take a rational decision because Cayman Airways no longer does things on the spur of the moment, we plan ahead. The Board has to decide whether we will hush-kit our own aircraft which would give us the extra value, even though we may pay $1 million or so at present, it would add to the value of our aircraft.

What we will try to avoid is hush-kitting a leased aircraft. If we do not hush-kit ours we can run it to the year 2000 and then we will lease (or I hope by then buy) a second aircraft with a hush-kit on it. But we do not want that to come into effect until the end of 1998. The leases were geared so that we would be able in our medium-term plan to kick that in at the right time.

Last year, when both leases from back in 1991 on the 737-200s came up within three months of each other, it created a very substantial cost to Cayman Airways.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Would the Honourable Minister say what plans are being made to purchase a second aircraft?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: The Board has taken a decision in principle, subject to the approval of this Honourable House and Finance Committee, to try to find what is called 'quick change 737-200', the same as the aircraft we have, but it would allow flexibility to take larger amounts of freight. If we cannot find that, then what we would look to do is purchase an aircraft similar to the one that we have and to see how low a price we could get. For the third aircraft we would see if we could get a quick change aircraft.

Buying aircraft is not like buying cars. We are taking our time to ensure that we get what we want rather than paying a premium as they did five or six years ago for aircraft very quickly. We do not have to buy quickly, we have our forward plan in place, a very good five to seven year plan that is now being formulated.

This has been in the pipeline since last year, so we have over three years of forward planning on the change of that one aircraft. When the time comes and we get the right price I will come back to the Legislative Assembly and ask whether you wish to purchase another aircraft or not.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Minister say how important a role the age of these aircraft plays in the whole scheme of things in regard to the forward planning over the five to seven year period?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: They play a critical part because Cayman Airways basically has two jets. This is the reason why we have given a three year period to look at the hush-kitting of this and to try to get the right price, the right jet, at the right time to save.

Part of that planning has included purchasing an engine. By the way, we are able to get credit quite easily from banks these days because Cayman Airways can actually borrow again which it could not do in 1990 and 1991 and 1992. We will be able to build up the large parts that are necessary for the planning such as this which will save us a tremendous amount of money. We will pay back for that engine before the hush-kitting period in 1998.

Hopefully by 1998 the third jet will be in. If we have to lease it or buy it we will make sure that it has the proper engine power. By the way, the jet we purchased has the JTD-17s engines, rather than the 15s. That is the type of plane we are looking to purchase again.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 156, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 166

No. 166: Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what the advantages of having Cayman Airways Limited as a National Carrier are.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 166 STANDING ORDER 23(5)

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: I would ask that this question be deferred until Monday. In an attempt to keep the business before the House we put as many of my questions as we could because I was in the Business Committee, unfortunately I was not able to get this one ready in preparing the other answers. I ask your indulgence to put this question over to one day next week.

The Speaker: The question is that Question No. 166 be deferred. shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 166 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Proceedings are suspended for 15 minutes. The Assembly will resume promptly at 12 noon. Thank you.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 11.45 AM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 12.08 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated. Question No 167, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 167

No. 167: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development if Government's revenue for 1996 is in line with the projected figures.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: As I mentioned earlier in answer to a previous question, Government revenue for 1996, which for the purpose of this question is interpreted to mean recurrent revenue, is currently running above the projected figures. Based on the recurrent revenue performance through 31st July, 1996, the Treasury projection through 31st December, 1996, is $193 million versus the budgeted figure of $184.6 million approximately 5 per cent above budget; or in monetary terms $8.4 million above budget.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member say if expenditure is in line, or if it is over or under?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The expenditure through the end of July is under the budgeted figure. On recurrent expenditure, what the budgeted position shows is that expenditure should be in the region of $1,176,000. Expenditure was $99,145,000.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member say in what areas there are increases and/or decreases in regard to the projected revenue?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: There is customs duty, tax fees, services and miscellaneous income.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Are they all over and above projected revenue in each of those areas?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Yes, Madam Speaker. They are over projected revenue.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: For purposes of clarity, is it the case that there is no area that has realised less revenue than projected?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: It may be easier if I set out the duty collected up through the end of July. For duty, the budgeted figure was $52.4 million. The amount collected was $55.2 million. Tax, $10.2 million budgeted, amount collected $10.9 million. Licences, $14.6 million budgeted, $14.8 million collected. Sales, $2.6 million, amount collected $2.4 million. Fees, budgeted $26.3 million, amount collected $28 million. Fines, $498,000 was budgeted, collected was $446,000.

We are talking about the budgeted allocations up through the end of July. Services, $719,000 budgeted, amount collected $946,000. Rental, $132,000 budgeted, amount collected $151,000. Interest on loans made to Civil Servants and others, amount budgeted $840,000, amount collected $757,000. Miscellaneous Revenue, amount budgeted $278,000, collected $757,000.

Contributions, amount budgeted $3,401,000, amount collected $2,935,000. The total: $117.5 million collected as against $112 million budgeted.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member explain the last two areas he mentioned, Miscellaneous Revenue and Contributions? I think there is a fair amount of difference in the amounts there. Can he just explain what they consist of?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Under Miscellaneous Revenue we have essentially five items. We have other receipts which are items that do not fit into any other general category. We have refund of salaries. We have what is called tax and trust undertaking fees which are fees earned for services provided by the Clerk of Executive Council's Office. Again, we have another category, Miscellaneous Receipts.

These amounts fluctuate, but when we look in terms of the total sum, we see that there is a variance. This is not an item that one can specifically budget for because it embraces items which do not fall into the other general categories.

Contributions normally consist of amounts paid over from the various statutory authorities into General Revenue. This normally runs behind the other group of items for the reason that the statutory authorities are not normally paid over until close to the end of the financial year when it is established what their performance is for that specific year.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the very last part of the answer given by the Honourable Member regarding the contributions... I think the budgeted amount was some $400-odd thousand dollars and the contributions received were $2.9 million. If that is the case, can he explain the reasoning behind those contributions coming in so far ahead of time if the usual trend is to wait until the performance is assessed at the end of the year?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: What we have done is divide this category into 12 equal amounts. Based on this, the figure as at the end of July would have reflected a sum of 712. We have done this for budgetary consistency. What has been received up to this time is $2.9 million. So, there is a trailing element; we are running slightly behind, but it is likely to be corrected before the end of the year unless the performance of the various statutory authorities indicates that they will be unable to contribute the full amount targeted.

For example, the overall sum budgeted for the year is $6.4 million. But the revised position through the end of the year is $4.3 million which is a differential of $2 million. We know that one of the statutory authorities at this time is carrying out certain capital works. Rather than going out and borrowing funds at very expensive rates at this time, it is agreed that they will use up the income generated throughout the year. This will mean that the $2 million that will be given up in this area will have to be compensated for by excess revenue realised in other areas or a corresponding reduction in expenditures elsewhere.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay. This is the last supplementary on this question.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: I wonder if the Honourable Member can say, based on the information given with respect to the recurrent revenue and expenditure, what the surplus for the period in question is?

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Up through the end of July, the excess of revenue over recurrent and statutory expenditure is $18.4 million. As I mentioned in answer to a question earlier this morning, the capital expenditure up through the end of July amounts to $13.8 million. Of this amount, approximately $8.2 million qualifies for draw-down against loans which have been approved. But because of the favourable cash position up through the end of July, rather than drawing down those loan funds, we have used the excess revenue in order to fund those projects.

The sum which qualifies for expenditure against local revenue is $5.6 million. So when we take the $5.6 million and we deduct that from the surplus of $18.4 million, we see that we are looking at approximately $12.8 million net surplus position as at the end of July.

It is expected that this trend will continue through the end of the year, only that the surplus will become much smaller. But at the end of the year, we are hoping to be in a position where we will realise a surplus.

SPEAKER'S VIEWS ON QUESTION TIME

The Speaker: I would like to set out some views on Question Time. We have very explicit regulations concerning the type of questions that should be asked, but there is nothing about answers. I would draw Members' attention to page 295 of Erskine May Parliamentary Practice - 21st Edition, which states that: "An answer should be confined to the points contained in the question, with such explanation only as renders the answer intelligible, though a certain latitude is permitted to Ministers... and supplementary questions, without debate or comment, may, within due limits, be addressed to them, which are necessary for the elucidation of the answers that they have given."

We are now taking an inordinately long time to deal with questions because they are getting very lengthy. I bring this to the attention of Members.

The next question is No. 168, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 168

No. 168: Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning how often Government reviews the annual subsidy to Cayman Airways Limited.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

DEFERMENT OF QUESTION NO. 168 STANDING ORDER 23(5)

Hon. Truman M. Boddin: I had hoped to have the answer to this, however I was not able to review it. I ask that the answer to Question No. 168 be deferred until a later Sitting.

At least I have complied with a very short answer there!

The Speaker: The question is that the answer to Question No. 168 be deferred until a sitting during this meeting. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The answer is accordingly deferred.

AGREED. QUESTION NO. 168 DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Question No. 169 is standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Boddin Town.

QUESTION NO. 169

No. 169: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce to explain the difference between Government's original estimate of $5 million and the estimated Caribbean Development Bank amount of $8.7 million for the restoration of Pedro Castle.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: There are two estimates, one prepared in 1994 by Commonwealth Historic Resources Management (CHRM) which totals C$4,981,000, and the estimate prepared by Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) in 1996 is $8,676,000.

The estimate from CHRM is a construction estimate and deals with the cost of Pedro Castle Restoration, Visitor's Centre, furniture, fittings and multimedia, external works, architecture and engineering and construction management.

The estimate from CDB is on an economic cost analysis for the entire project. CDB estimate adds to the CHRM estimate: (a) $552,000 for road improvement to the project and an increase in the square footage to the Visitor's Centre; (b) $675,000 for land which was bought in 1991; (c) operating cost of $330,000 for six months (which will not now be required); (d) start-up expenses of $345,000; (e) physical and price contingencies of $1,412,000 which may never be spent; (f) commitment fees of $41,000; and (g) capitalised interest of $340,000 which was based on the original interest rate of 7.75 per cent, but Government negotiated it down to 6.75 per cent.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Based on the present restoration progress, when can the public expect that restoration will be completed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The restoration of the Castle itself as a building will be completed in the early part of October. However, the visitor's centre... and may I back up? The Steadman Bodden Home, which is wattle and daub, has already been restored. The bake-oven is in place and the visitor's centre is scheduled to be completed in the summer of 1997.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 170, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 170

No. 170: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce to state what the Pedro Castle project entails.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The project includes the development of buildings and parking to accommodate up to 150,000 visitors per year. The specific components of the development include:

- the restoration of Pedro St James to its original appearance in 1780-1820;
- the restored grounds, gardens and outbuildings;
- the Steadman Bodden House;
- an interpretative walk;
- the visitor's centre and court yard;
- theatre and multimedia show;
- gift shop;
- resource centre;
- restaurant;
- offices;
- washrooms.

Pedro Castle will undoubtedly become a major tourism attraction when the project is completed. However, the historic value of this site will be highlighted through its interpretation; the major theme being that it was the birthplace of democracy in this country and it served the Caymanian community in a number of capacities throughout the years.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: The Honourable Minister stated as the first specific component of the facility, the restoration of Pedro St James to its original appearance in 1780-1820. As it appears now, the outside finish is something that I personally did not visualise as how it would have looked in those times. Can the Minister explain if pictures or some available facts have caused the restoration process to end up looking like that?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: We have a Historic Committee dealing with this project. Extensive archival research has been done in Spanish Town Jamaica, in London England, in Madrid Spain. We have in our possession, displayed in the Steadman Bodden House, which is on site, photographs to take us back to 1910.

Those photographs, although in a different state than the Member asking the question sees the project at the present time, when you examine the photograph, within the stone structure there are rafters at different levels which is an indication that the building did have three stories and it was a great house of that era.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: I am sorry if my question was not clear to the Honourable Minister, but I was not questioning the number of stories, or rafters, I was questioning the outside finish on the structure - the outside walls.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The outside wall features are also taken from the research I have just mentioned.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: In what way will it impact the people in the district of Bodden Town and how do they stand to benefit?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: As I envisage it, the project will bring more activity in the Savannah and eastern districts. It is proposed that there will be organised tours which will be sold on board cruise ships, taking them from the Port to Pedro Castle, and to the Botanic Park. I believe that activity in addition to those visitors arriving by air, and the promotion of those two heritage attractions in the various hotels and condominiums, will tend to put more people in the Savannah area than one would normally see.

When you have people visiting a particular area on a daily basis, the demand for services increases. As a result, the people of that area should benefit significantly year by year.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 171, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 171

No. 171: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce to explain the loan received from Caribbean Development Bank to assist the funding of Pedro Castle.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The Government of the Cayman Islands has received approval from Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) for a loan to assist in financing the development of Pedro St James Castle as a heritage tourism attraction. Under this project, the existing "castle" will be reconstructed and retrofitted to function as a museum with a new visitors reception centre and parking facilities, the surrounding restored grounds will include floral gardens and outbuildings. The capital cost of the project is estimated to be $8.68 million, of which funding in the amount of $4.83 million is being requested from the CDB.

The terms of the loan include the following: interest rate of 6.75 per cent reduced from the initial rate of 7.75 per cent following negotiation between the Government of the Cayman Islands and CDB. The repayment period of 17 years is inclusive of a five year grace period and commitment fee of 1 per cent.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say if the Pedro Castle project, which began prior to November of 1992, did envision restoration of the project being funded by Government revenue and borrowings?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Speaker, I am guided by your request to be brief, so I will try to do that on this occasion.

This particular project, from its earliest days, envisaged the project being funded partly from Government revenue and partly by loan funding.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Minister state whether the figures quoted in his answer are in CI dollars? If my memory serves me right there was an amount approved in Finance Committee of 5.79 million United States dollars.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: The figures mentioned in the answer are Cayman Islands dollars.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning.

Government Business, Bills, First Readings, Suspension of Standing Order 46. The Honourable Minister for Tourism and Aviation and Commerce

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: In accordance with Standing Order 83, I move the suspension of Standing Order

46 to allow the First Reading, and other readings, of the Tourism Attraction Board Bill, 1996, to be taken.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 46 to allow the First Reading, and other readings, of the Tourism Attraction Board Bill, 1996, to be taken.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Standing Order is accordingly suspended.

First Readings.

AGREED. STANDING ORDER 46 SUSPENDED.

FIRST READINGS

TOURISM ATTRACTION BOARD BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Tourism Attraction Board Bill, 1996

The Speaker: The Bill is deemed to have been read a first time and set down for Second Reading.

Second Readings. Continuation of the debate on the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill, 1996. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

SECOND READINGS

PROCEEDS OF CRIMINAL CONDUCT BILL, 1996

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

When we concluded yesterday afternoon I was winding up my question concerning the cost of the applications under this Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill being borne by the Government of the Cayman Islands. Just to close off on that point: Is there a method envisaged by which the costs of such applications will be borne outside of the coffers of the Cayman Islands Government? My position is that it should not be any gentlemen's agreement, but it should be in some form of legislation, whether in this Law or otherwise. I trust that in his winding up the Honourable Second Official Member will address that point.

The next question that I raise regarding this Bill (and I crave your indulgence to draw a comparison) is: In the Mutual Legal Assistance (United States of America) Law, 1986 (commonly referred to as the MLAT Law), section 3, which is the implementation of the Treaty, it reads: "This Law shall apply for the purpose of giving effect to the terms of the Treaty, which has legal effect in the Cayman Islands, for the provision of mutual assistance between the authorities in the United States and the Cayman Islands, for the suppression of criminal offences of the nature and circumstances provided in the Treaty...".

It goes on further, but the operative section I wish to draw a comparison to is "...for the provision of mutual assistance between the authorities in the United States and the Cayman Islands...". It is very possible that I have not seen it in this Bill, but I do not see where there is anything specifically mentioned with regard to the question I raised. Do we intend to follow international precedence and only allow countries that enter into reciprocal agreements with the Cayman Islands to make these applications here? My reference to the MLAT is because it is specific between the United States and the Cayman Islands.

In this instance I am not necessarily referring only to the United States of America, but certainly it would be inclusive of the United States because I do not know if such an agreement is in the works or if there is any intention for it to be reciprocal. So I feel that it is necessary to address that.

Moving on into the Bill, section 3 of the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill, 1996, refers to "Definition of principal terms used." Section 3(1)(a) and (b) says: "In this Law, "realisable property" means, subject to subsection (2): (a) any property held by the defendant; and (b) any property held by a person to whom the defendant has directly or indirectly made a gift caught by this Law.".

If we read section 3 (12) it says: "(12) For the purposes of this Law: (a) the circumstances in which the defendant is to be treated as making a gift include those where he transfers property to another person directly or indirectly for a consideration the value of which [and this is important] is significantly less than the value of the consideration provided by the defendant; and (b) in those circumstances, the preceding provisions of this section shall apply as if the defendant has made a gift of such share in the property as bears to the whole property the same proportion as the difference between the values referred to in paragraph (a) above bears to the value of the consideration provided by the defendant.".

Complicated, Madam Speaker, to say the least! Nevertheless, I tried to grasp the meaning here. I am going to quickly paint a scenario which will beg the question I wish to have answered.

Looking at the real estate market in the Cayman Islands on the Seven Mile Beach, I think it is fair to say (based on the history of the market forces existing in that area) that it is very possible a property bought on the day this law comes into effect will, four years down the line, be worth significantly more than the original purchase price. Not only is it very possible that the supply and demand and the obvious rise in real estate value and prices will prevail, but many times when you are getting in on the ground floor of such projects, you are able to get very good prices and sometimes even be able to assign your contract to others, and make a quick turn-over, and somebody else owns the property.

Taking all of that into consideration, let us say that an individual purchased one of these high priced properties on the day this law comes into effect, and that the purchase price was US$5 million. Four years from now the same person who purchased the property would not only have had the opportunity to live in that house or condominium, but it quite likely would have been in a rental pool, or some income would have been derived during that period of time. That person decides that he/she wishes to be domiciled elsewhere so they put the property up for sale. In so doing, the person is quite happy to accept a reduced price to sell the property fairly quickly because they want to move on.

I, an ordinary citizen of the country, realise that while the value is probably $900,000, the person selling might be happy to accept $700,000 for that unit. He is still making a profit, has had the benefit of an income from it and is happy to take it and leave. So I purchase this property for $700,000. I have the same idea in mind - rentals. Once I can carry the purchase price the turn-over to me is worth more than the money in the bank. So I purchase the property.

Someone from another territory has a problem with the original owner of this property and it is assumed that this person might have received some funds by some illegal means in another territory. Therefore, an application is made in the Cayman Islands regarding that individual and it is easily traced that this individual was the previous owner of the property which I now own. I knew nothing about this individual before, I heard and saw nothing. I simply purchased some real estate which that person owned.

My question in this case is: Would I face any risk whatsoever because the value of the property I purchased might be $200,000 more than what I actually paid to that individual?

I do not necessarily profess that this might be the rule. It might be the exception. But the point I make is that if this were a true story, I could have been a totally innocent victim of this whole process. If that were to happen, where do I fit in? What happens to my property? What type of inconvenience occurs during the whole process to someone like myself?

Moving into the Bill, under the heading of 'Money laundering and other offences,' section 20, subsection (2) reads: "The Governor shall appoint in his discretion two or more persons to act as the Reporting Authority."

Section 21 is another section that I do not fully understand. I wish to have someone explain it to me before this entire episode is completed. It reads: "knowing or suspecting that A is a person who is or has been engaged in criminal conduct or has benefited from criminal conduct, shall be guilty of an offence." I should probably read the sections before that, but I am trying not to read everything to ask my question.

In summing up, I am wondering where the burden of proof in this whole scheme of things lies. As far as I understand it, the way the law works on most occasions is that a person is innocent until proven guilty. This thing is saying that if a person knows or suspects that another person is engaged in criminal conduct - suspects that person is guilty of an offence.

Speaking seriously, I am trying to fully understand who is going to determine if I suspect something? Who is going to put all of the eggs in the basket and come up with the correct answer - whether I should be charged because I suspect some individual, some group, some computer or some piece of paper or whatever, and therefore am guilty of an offence?

If we move on in that same vein, although there is a section following it, you wonder to yourself where it says under section 6, "Where information is disclosed to the reporting authority under subsection (3) the reporting authority shall not further disclose the information without the consent of the Attorney-General who, when considering whether to give his consent, shall take into account the purpose for which the further disclosure is to be made and the interest of third parties and the Attorney-General may impose such conditions on the further disclosure as he may think fit."

I do not envy whoever sits as the Honourable Attorney General in these Islands in having to deal with this when it becomes law. What this says to me is that there can be pressure put to bear on individuals. The individual may well feel threatened because of the overwhelming circumstances they face. I need not explain that in any more detail.

At that point in time disclosures would include the suspicion we are talking about. I know that I may be using exceptions as examples, rather than the rules, but that is where the problem occurs - when innocent parties are involved. I think that is everybody's question regarding this Bill.

I do not think there is anyone who does not want to achieve what this Bill says it will achieve, I just think there are some questions in regard to how many innocent parties may have to face hardships to allow the process as it is put forth in this proposed legislation.

Going on...

The Speaker: Honourable Member, may I stop you at this moment?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Certainly.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

The Speaker: Before suspending for lunch there is a matter that I need to bring before Members.

The Honourable Third Official Member has to be off the Island on Monday, 23rd September, on official business and it is important that the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill and the Monetary Authority Bill be dealt with, if at all possible, before his departure, bearing in mind that the House would be dissolved on Monday, 30th September.

It is being proposed, subject to concurrence of Members, that the House sit beyond 4.30 PM. May I have some indication if Members are willing to do that?

The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: I rise to most strongly object to the very thought of it. This session of the House has been called since September the 4th. It has been repeatedly adjourned by the Government which has not been prepared with the various Bills. We understand answers to questions have not been prepared; the Standing Orders have been suspended to deal with matters, and it is presuming that there should at least be some degree of diminished debate on these two very important Bills, particularly the one presently before the House and the one to come.

It is certainly my opinion that they are both important, particularly the confiscation Bill we are now dealing with. I think the Calendar of the Third Official Member and of the Government should be more properly handled instead of presuming that these Bills can just be passed by extending the debate here today.

I object to the extension, particularly at this time on a Friday evening in this manner. However, I am but one person in that view.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

We have always endeavoured to accommodate Members whenever it is necessary. In this instance, the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development does have a very important commitment abroad. We have adjourned this House both for Opposition and Government before, and I should mention that just this morning, in fact every morning this House has sat during this meeting and last meeting... normally, not always, but normally, the majority of the time Standing Orders are suspended by the Opposition to allow for questions to be taken. Every day they have been suspended.

So the suspending of Standing Orders in relation to this is only one compared to the many that are done every day. I think we have to be reasonable. The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development does need to go abroad and we should allow him that courtesy and try to finish the Bill.

The Speaker: The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Please, if Members wish to speak I ask them to stand up. Thank you.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The reason I have to go off the island on Monday is to attend the Commonwealth Finance Ministers' Meeting that is being held in Bermuda.

One of the main items on the agenda over there is money laundering and the need for various territories to introduce appropriate legislation such as that under consideration at this time.

I have attended meetings similar to this in the past, and we are aware that in the international community today when references are made to major financial centres, the Cayman Islands falls in the front line. The Government desires that when the Chancellor of the Exchequer is about to make reference to the legislation that exists in Britain and the need for such legislation to exist particularly in the dependencies and other countries for which the United Kingdom has responsibility, such as Guernsey, the Isle of Man, and so on... as I have said, we have always taken a pioneering approach and the decision is for us to say that we have introduced appropriate legislation.

Secondly, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman makes reference to the point that there is a need for these Bills to be brought to the House in a timely manner. I totally agree with that. But as the Member can appreciate and as communicated (probably not directly) to him, because of the importance of these Bills ongoing consultations had to be held with the financial industry and the various representatives of the different associations. At the end of the day everyone is committed to the efficient and balanced working of our financial industry. So it is necessary to take their views on board.

I could have gone ahead with the Monetary Authority Bill and as soon as instructions were issued on the necessary approval granted by Executive Council, pass on those instructions to the legislative draftsman through the Attorney General and the Bill would have been prepared and sent down to the Legislative Assembly. But at the end of the day, I think that Members of the House would not have been happy with that approach. I am sure, although the Bill would have come here in a timely fashion, they would be subjected to complaints from various members of the financial community, and rightly so, to say that consultation that could have had major impact on the business being done in Cayman was not carried out.

It was suggested yesterday that when you are up front and doing well, that your competitors always want to direct unfavourable remarks. Fortunately for us, our credibility and our ability to achieve the right balance and for us to be recognised today as a major financial centre, are beyond reproach or question. So what we are trying to do is to put ourselves in position so that when announcement is being made, the Cayman Islands will not be listed as one of the other countries that has yet to deal with these major pieces of legislation.

The legislation in question is the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill. What we are attempting to do, as pointed out in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, because of the significant growth we have been experiencing as a financial centre, is to streamline our regulatory regime in order to have one consistent with the demands being placed upon the financial industry. It is for this reason that we are going ahead.

As Members are aware, in March of this year legislation was introduced in this House to put in place our Stock Exchange in Cayman. Everything suggests that our regulatory regime, while functional, should focus on them because we can look at the volume of business as being generated on the one hand, but unless we can look and be satisfied that our regulatory systems are consistent in terms of meeting the requirements of those demands, we would be falling short.

It is not a perfect world, and I would like to have been able to have given the House the 21 day notice on the Monetary Authority Bill. I am sure that the Honourable Attorney General would have liked to have done so on the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill, but I do not think that we will ever get away from the point of consultation.

It is interesting, although we have consulted widely there are still areas in the financial industry who may be of the view that consultations should still be ongoing.

It is for these reasons I am craving the indulgence of Members of this Honourable House to give consideration to these pieces of legislation being allowed their second readings.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I hold the view that it is extremely unreasonable to come here at this time to request that debate be expedited and accelerated because there is a necessity for one of the Members of the Government to go overseas. While I am sympathetic and I would like to be in a position to say it will be of great benefit, I hold the view that this is Parliament; this particular piece of legislation was supposed to have arrived here two years ago.

In an attempt to pander and cater to special interests it arrives at the eleventh and three quarters hour. Now, in the house of democracy, we are saying that democracy must be curtailed for something which is politically expedient. It would be remiss of me, and I would not be Roy Bodden, if I supported this kind of gesture.

The notion of the suspension of Standing Orders.... I would like to remind that Honourable Minister that just today, there was only one question from the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and one question from myself, the two Members of the Legislature who have tabled the most questions. So if we were in the business of expediting the business of Parliament, can you explain to me how only one question from each of the Members named appeared on the Order Paper?

This is a House of debate. While it is true that it is important that we be in a position to report that we have passed this Bill, I cannot, in the interest of democracy, stand here and agree to the curtailment of debate. This is Friday evening, and we are just being asked at this hour to work late in the evening?

All of us have family responsibilities and obligations. It is most inconsiderate and I cannot support it. Of course, there are only two of us (sometimes three), so our vote and support technically is not needed. It will have to pass without my support.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As the individual now debating this specific Bill regarding the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct, and as somebody who is able to not deal with whose side anyone is on, on any given day, I want to say that the more I have been looking at this piece of legislation, the more questions I have in my mind.

I understand all that has to happen, but this is not one of those pieces of legislation that we can come back to as we please to make amendments. There are a few things which I firmly believe are very important which need to be discussed. There are possibly one or two amendments that I believe when everybody sees what others are talking about they may all agree need to be done.

Believe me, I stand here with no agenda about sides. But I accept and understand my responsibility as a representative in this Legislative Assembly. My fear at this point in time is that in order to achieve the goal that everything is not handled in a proper fashion. I have to express great fear and trepidation over this situation.

The Speaker: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Perhaps it would be appropriate for me to say something on this matter.

Let me hasten to make one thing absolutely clear: There is absolutely no intention by the Government to stifle or shorten any debate on this Bill or any other Bill. The only request was that the House consider extending the sitting today to enable both of these Bills to be debated further. Whether or not they actually finish today is entirely a matter for the House and the Members. There is no question of trying to curtail debate. That is entirely a matter for the Members here, really a question of inviting Members (whether in the circumstances that the Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development has outlined) if they would feel it appropriate for the House to continue to sit beyond 4.30 this afternoon, or indeed, any other occasion that yourself, as Speaker, and Members wish to do so.

I do not think that equates at all with stifling of debate. In fact it is the reverse. What is actually proposed is that more time be allowed for that to happen.

The Speaker: I need to say at this time that there is no formal motion before the House.

The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: That is what I was going to ask. I did not hear any formal motion. I thought at the end of business today, at 4.30, there would have been a motion, but it seems like the debate has gone to that extent.

I think the motion should be put if we are going to put one, so that if anyone else wants to speak... unless you are going to allow anyone else to speak, to do so.

The Speaker: I am prepared to have a motion. I just thought that Members would like to have had advance notice of the intention of going beyond 4.30. Now I can entertain a motion, rather than having a debate at 4.30 again.

Would someone move a motion that we continue beyond 4.30? Or shall we leave it until 4.30?

MOTION TO SUSPEND STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I move a motion that this Honourable House continue beyond 4.30 PM until the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct and the Monetary Authority Bill be completed through the third stages.

The Speaker: I think it would be fair enough to say beyond the Committee stage.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes. Beyond the Committee Stage and the Third Reading.

The Speaker: Members have heard the Motion and I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES & NOES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, can we have a division?

The Speaker: Yes, you may.

Clerk:

DIVISION NO. 5/96

AYES: 15

NOES: 3

The Speaker: The result of the division is 15 Ayes, three Noes. The House will continue beyond 4.30.

AGREED BY MAJORITY: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE THE HOUSE TO SIT BEYOND 4.30 PM UNTIL THE PROCEEDS OF CRIMINAL CONDUCT BILL AND THE MONETARY AUTHORITY BILL ARE COMPLETED BEYOND COMMITTEE STAGE.

The Speaker: Proceedings are suspended until 2.30 PM.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 1.21 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.32 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town, continuing the debate.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In continuing my contribution to this debate, following the paper trail.... If we notice on page 31 of this Bill under "Money laundering and other offences," section 20(2) states: "The Governor shall appoint in his discretion two or more persons to act as the Reporting Authority." As it moves on it discusses where information is disclosed to that Reporting Authority and it also speaks about that Authority not further disclosing that information without the consent of the Attorney General who has certain considerations to make in deciding whether that information should be disseminated elsewhere.

While it tells me in the Bill what the Attorney General has to take into account in the making of that decision, I question, if it is a unilateral decision on the part of the Attorney General, what other checks and balances do we have in place to ensure that the ultimate decision-making process is done without any credence paid to outside pressures? Maybe I should not expound on that any further. I think my question is understood.

Referring back to the MLAT (United States of America) Law of 1986, section 4, how this is dealt with, it says, "For the purpose of Article II the Cayman Mutual Legal Assistance Authority shall be the Chief Justice, who shall exercise his functions under the Treaty and this Law acting alone and in an administrative capacity; or another judge of the Grand Court designated by the Chief Justice to act on his behalf."

The comparison of methods used which I am making simply leads me to ask: Should there be any question on the part of any of the parties involved regarding the validity of the decision-making process of the Attorney General? Is there room by way of court proceedings to question that decision because of the method by which it is being done? I do not have the answer to that and I would certainly like to know. The way it has gotten around in the MLAT 1986 Law is by a judge acting in an administrative fashion. I do not fully understand whether this will be the case, the way it is being presented in this Bill.

Over on page 34 we come to (and I think this will be the final area I will discuss) what I hope each and every Member in here this afternoon (as boring as it may seem) will pay special attention to. Unless I am totally misunderstanding what is being said here, I think there is a problem.

Section 21 (10), as has been said by the Honourable Second Official Member, reads: "In this Law "criminal conduct" means conduct which constitutes an offence to which this Law applies or would constitute such an offence if it had occurred in the Islands." The terminology that is commonly used regarding this situation is what they call "dual criminality".

Having established from section 22(10) that the criminal conduct would constitute such an offence if it had occurred in the islands, my understanding of that is that if there were an application made within the Cayman Islands regarding an offence created outside of these islands for everything to trip in, that offence would have to be an offence also within the Cayman Islands. That is my understanding of it.

When we go over to page 48 of the Bill and we look at the Schedule, the "Definition of principal terms used" reads:

"3. (1) In this Schedule-

(a) "drug Trafficking offence" has the same meaning as in the Misuse of Drugs Law (1995 Revision);

(b) references to conduct to which this Schedule applies are references to conduct which-

(i) constitutes an offence to which this Law applies or would constitute such an offence if it had occurred in the Islands, other than drug trafficking offences and offences which relate directly or indirectly to the regulation, imposition, calculation or collection of taxes subject to (ii);"

This is where the problem occurs, to my mind. With the exception of offences which are constituted by:

"(I) wilfully or dishonestly obtaining or conspiring to obtain money, property or valuable securities from other persons by means of false or fraudulent pretences or statements, whether oral or written, or accounting documents regulating or affecting benefits available in connection with the laws and regulations relating to income or other taxes; and

(II) wilfully or dishonestly making [and this part is important] or conspiring to make false statements, whether oral or written, to government tax authorities with respect to any tax matter arising from the unlawful proceeds of any criminal offence triable on indictment, or wilfully or dishonestly failing to make a report or return to government tax authorities as required by law in respect of, or to pay the tax on, any such unlawful proceeds;"

Let me pause to say that on the fourth attempt I understood the section. Before anyone starts to write, let me explain that I am not questioning the ambiguity of what I just read with section 22 (10) because I do understand that it is referring to the unlawful proceeds and no reporting of any taxes being paid on those unlawful proceeds. I understand that.

The question I have (because I am a layman)... and we must all remember that when this is made into Law, the person who is of a legal mind will easily be able to read the document and understand that the honest, upright citizen who is dealing with our jurisdiction (once he is not dealing with any illegally-gained funds) has no fear of this section because any non-reporting of tax matters regarding his other assets or income which is not illegal in the Cayman Islands is not something that we will have to worry about. I understand that.

But my contention is that the same people I am talking about who utilise the advantages we have created in these islands (by it being what is loosely termed nowadays as a 'tax haven'), if they pick up this document, as I did (and it took me four times), and read this wording "with the exception of offences..." the moment they get a bit further down they will see this thing about this tax, that tax and the next, and will say, "Oh God! I have to go." That is my contention.

So my argument is not the correctness of the Law, and I thank God that I read it three or four times because the Honourable Second Official Member would have really been able to bend me out of shape in his reply if I had not finally gathered what it meant. But it still begs the question whether or not there is a better way to utilise the Queen's English in order to make the same statement in the Law.

Let me try to put it in a nutshell and make sure that I make clear what I am trying to say. I am not questioning for one second what this intends to achieve in the two or three paragraphs I just read. I am not suggesting that it should achieve anything different. I am saying that very seriously. I really hope that we are trying to understand this and take this matter seriously because when this is made into Law it is not something (whoever the new Government is, whether it is the same, or others, or whether I am in here or not) that we are going to be able to come back and figure we can just make a few little changes and tidy it up.

So, while I may be labouring on that one point, it is my contention that out of every single word and every single phrase and every single sentence in this piece of legislation, that little phrase "with the exception of offences which are constituted by...", and what follows thereafter is the most worrisome part of this legislation.

It has been drawn to my attention that in the very worthwhile efforts of the party that visited the Mother country to discuss this issue that there was debate on this same section of this proposed Bill. Let me say that whether or not I win this little battle here this evening, I know that I will have done what is right. The decision at the end of the day is not going to be mine. I am going to stick my neck out and risk whatever is to be risked, if anything, to make it be known before this Bill is passed how it can read.

There is a piece of correspondence (and unless I am forced to, my exercise is not about who, where or whatever; my problem is as I just explained) from which I need to use excerpts to show this Honourable House that there is a way out of this without us causing or getting into any trouble, and without our encouraging the risk of individuals misunderstanding that piece of legislation and it having negative effects on one of our most important industries. Excerpts from this letter read as follows:

"You will, however, also recall that we felt the section read very badly and could be open to misinterpretation. We have reconsidered this and believe that it should be replaced with the following provision. This does not make any substantive change to what was agreed at the meeting."

Where I started to read in the Green Bill under (b), where it says, "References to Conduct", it reads as follows:

"(b) references to conduct to which this schedule applies are references to conduct which;

(I) constitutes an offence to which this law applies or would constitute such an offence if it had occurred in the islands other than drug trafficking offences and offences which relate directly or indirectly to the regulation, imposition, calculation or collection of taxes subject to; (II)."

Madam Speaker, if you notice where it says, "calculation or collection of taxes subject to", the phrase "with the exception of offences which are constituted by..." is left out. It goes on to read:

"(II) constitutes an offence to which this law applies or would constitute such an offence had it occurred in the islands and which involves wilfully or dishonestly obtaining or conspiring to obtain money....." etcetera.

I do not have to read further because it is verbatim to what is in this Green Bill. The only difference in the entire presentation is the phrase "with the exception of offences which are constituted by...".

I do not doubt that there are those who think that what I am doing is probably a political attempt to be somebody. Frankly speaking, I really do not care. If the world and people that I do not even know exist want to take me on for it, I do not care. This piece of legislation, in my personal opinion, is the single most important piece of legislation that we have faced since the 1992 elections, or at least since I have been here. I cannot speak for before.

It is almost frightening to me, because every time I read it I understand something else. But I do not mind that, because I know that I am an ordinary man. For those who think that all what I have said is not worth it, and that there is no merit to consider amending the Bill with that simple bit of wording, if nothing more; if the questions I have asked are replied to and I look like an idiot, I do not care. But it is obvious to me that in this section it is all with how it is worded. There is no change to the intention or the end result. It is only the wording.

I will say one more thing before I sit down: Inasmuch as I respect what is happening with the passage of this Bill, and inasmuch as I understand that solidarity is what is expected, I will do all that my conscience will allow me to do to be a part of that solidarity. But I stand here to say that if no one is prepared to look at this section then it will be done without me.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Does any other Member wish to continue the Second Reading debate on this Bill? (Pause)

If not, I will ask the Honourable Second Official Member if he would like to exercise his right of reply.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would like to thank the Members who have spoken on this Bill for their contributions, and I will answer the questions that have been put to me by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town. If I have recorded them accurately, I have noted seven questions and I will try to deal with them in the order in which he has put them.

I think the first point that he was making was that this legislation, whilst desirable, could have a cost implication to Cayman in enforcing the orders of overseas countries, and who was going to pay that cost. Of course, in the manner of all international treaties and international cooperation, the cost of the requesting country, remains with that requesting country; and the costs of the requested country fall to be paid by the requested country. So what is required to be done under this legislation, or any other legislation by Cayman, would be borne by Cayman.

However, that is not the end of the story. The whole point of these confiscation orders that will be made both domestically and the overseas orders registered here for enforcement, is that the illicit proceeds of crime are confiscated from those criminals who have been convicted of offences. And the money that is so confiscated is forfeited. That is the whole point of the legislation. Money that is confiscated domestically in Cayman will be forfeited to the revenue of the islands.

Money that is confiscated on behalf of an overseas country under a registration will be subjected to that confiscation order and will be paid over in accordance with that. But, for many years now the Cayman Islands has always had agreements with those countries that we have assisted in criminal matters so that when such proceeds were confiscated - and this has happened in the past before this legislation, because it was not necessary for this legislation for it to happen in those instances - but those countries have shared those assets with the Cayman Islands. I say it has been going on for many years because it has, but to formalise that, I think it was two years ago that an asset sharing agreement was put in place with the United States which runs parallel with the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty, and sets out exactly the circumstances in which assets are shared and how they are to be shared.

Those assets are used by the Cayman Islands for the purposes of drug enforcement, interdiction and rehabilitation and the purposes of law enforcement. In my opinion, there is a very pleasant irony in all of this, that the proceeds of the criminal's misdeeds are actually used for the purpose of law enforcement and drug interdiction used by the very forces that can assist in preventing such crimes in the future. I think that is a very proper way for this money to be used.

I am delighted to tell the House that in the time that assets have been shared, or have been confiscated here in Cayman, that the revenue of the Islands has benefited to a total sum of $1,308,405.83. That is a not an inconsiderable sum of money. So, when it comes to costs, and obviously that is not the prime reason why this legislation is being put in place, I suppose one could say it is very cost-effective.

The second point that was made was the question of designating those countries that we can assist. I said when I opened this debate that the two countries the Governor-in-Council will designate under this legislation are the United Kingdom and the United States. That is absolutely so.

Of course, one of the reasons we are able to do that is because of, in the case of the United States, the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty, and in the case of the United Kingdom, because we have a special constitutional relationship with the United Kingdom. In the case of both of those countries there is indeed reciprocity, which I think was the phrase used by the Member. That is a fundamental principle of assistance by the vast ma-majority of countries and is certainly a fundamental principle of Cayman. In any thoughts of designating a country under this legislation, or indeed any other legislation under the Misuse of Drugs Law, for example, the principle of reciprocity would have to be dealt with first so that we could have our orders enforced in that country in exactly the same manner and as effectively as we could enforce that country's.

The third question related to gifts. The Member referred me to section 12(a) of the Bill, and the phrase, "significantly less than the value.". Members may recall that he gave an illustration of how he thought a problem might arise in that an innocent individual could find themselves penalised. I obviously need to clarify that to assure both Members and the public that innocent individuals are in no danger from this legislation.

The first point I have to make is that the person who is making the gift, and the gift includes the transfer of property at a significant undervalue, or significantly less than the value, is that the person making the gift (the donor) is a criminal - not just an ordinary innocent individual, he is a criminal. Not only is he a criminal, but he has committed the crime before he makes the gift. So the gift he is making is out of the proceeds of his crime; possibly proceeds that he has stolen from somebody else.

Surely, is it not right that if someone has stolen proceeds, has derived them from a crime, that they should be taken? There is no question of an innocent person who has made a gift in good faith and innocently to someone else of that being upset. We are talking about a criminal who has committed a crime and made a gift as defined in this law to another. So that is the first point.

The other point is that when we talk about significantly less than the value, what it means is that if a property was given away or sold at an undervalue, then the gift element of it is that undervalue. Not the property, the undervalue. So it does behove anyone who is given, or who sees a deal that is "too good to be true," the fact of the matter is that is probably is too good to be true, and that what he is being offered is in some way an attempt to hide the proceeds of crime by some particular transaction.

Any prudent person who is offered a property, or any other asset, at a price that he thinks is absolutely remarkable would be well advised, and I am sure would now make suitable inquiries to make sure that all is right. It is no less different to when someone is offered stolen property at a ridiculously low price. He has to make sensible inquiries. Anybody who makes those inquiries will soon discover whether this is a deal that he should or should not accept. I do not believe that any innocent person need have anything to fear from the question of gifts or the sale of property at undervalue.

Question number four was a very direct question. The Member referred to section 21 of the Bill. As I referred to in my opening debate, section 21, and also section 22, are the main offences under this Law. He asked the very direct question, that if somebody is going to be guilty of an offence under section 21, where is the burden of proof? Who has to prove this? How is it going to work when the person is charged and comes before the Court? That is a straightforward question, and there is a very straightforward answer to it: The burden of proof lies where it always lies in criminal matters, with the prosecution. The burden is to the criminal standard of proof as well. There is no change to that. The prosecution has to prove the offence and they have to do so under this legislation as they have to under criminal legislation.

I think he also asked who decides whether or not the person suspects, or should have suspected. The answer to that is that the Court decides, the jury, the Judge decides that.

I believe the next question was who decides if the person should be charged. I think I have caused to be spelled out in a number of sections in here, just for the avoidance of any doubt, that no prosecution can take place without the consent of the Attorney General. That is a fact anyway because the Attorney General is responsible for all prosecutions in the Cayman Islands. But just in case there was any doubt at all, it actually says so on the face of this legislation.

The Reporting Authority was also mentioned. In that connection, section 21(6), which says that the Reporting Authority, having received the report of the suspicion, should not make any further disclosure without the consent of the Attorney General. Then it goes on to say the sort of matters that the Attorney General should take into account. I hasten to add that that is not an exhaustive list. It does not say the Attorney General shall only take those into account, but the Attorney General would take those matters into account, along with a lot of other matters as well.

In fact, the following subsection (7) says that that proviso does not apply where the information is to be disclosed within the Islands. I think I mentioned that in my opening. So we are only talking here about the disclosure overseas.

It was felt right and proper that there should be a further check on any such disclosure to re-assure those in the financial industry and legitimate customers using the Cayman Islands and its financial services. That is why it was felt quite proper to put that check in. Of course, that check, that the consent of the Attorney General has to first be obtained, is not in substitution for any other checks there may be, but in addition to any other checks that there may be. So the Member, quite rightly and helpfully, pointed to the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty and the procedure through which requests have to go before the United States authorities can be assisted. That does not alter, none of that has changed. It remains exactly the same.

Indeed, the other ways the Cayman Islands can assist overseas countries, for example, by means of Judicial Letters of Request, they all remain in place exactly the same. In the case of the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty, as the Member quite correctly points out, the central authority here in Cayman is the Honourable Chief Justice, or his nominee. At the moment it is one of our Judges of the Grand Court. The responsibility will remain exactly as it is now, and requests that should be forwarded under that legislation will continue to be forwarded under that legislation.

So this check is in addition to what is already in place, and we felt it only right that it should be there. But let no one be under any illusion that it is a substitution for anything else. In fact, perhaps I can make the point that this legislation dovetails in completely with the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty. That I can perhaps develop in one of the other questions.

The next question I made note of is... Well, I think this was a number of questions which really wrapped up into one. The Member talked about the definition of criminal conduct as it related to overseas orders; he talked about the principle of dual criminality; but, unless I misunderstood what he was saying, I think he was really leading up to his final point which was the question of the exception of taxation matters from this legislation.

Members will recall that he referred us to clause 3 (1)(b) of the Schedule and the concerns he had that this could be open to a different interpretation. I have to say that it is not a concern that I share. However, the particular section was the subject of considerable discussion, not surprisingly, because the Cayman Islands has consistently stated publicly that we would not enforce the tax statutes of another country. That is not an uncommon stance to take, in fact, it is a very normal stance to take. Many countries adopt that approach. So, of course, it is very relevant to us, and, yes, very considerable discussion took place on it.

For that reason it was felt that it would be helpful to all if we kept to the same wording as had been used in the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty. Again, I refer to the particular Article that is mirrored in this legislation, the Article in the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty. It was thought helpful for a number of reasons. First of all because everybody was familiar with it in Cayman. I believe that many people outside of Cayman are familiar with it, not just in the United States, because that particular piece of legislation is actually looked at by many other countries too. So, for the sake of consistency it was felt that that was the correct wording to put in. All who were concerned in the discussions were of the same opinion.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town has offered an alternative form of wording, an alternative I am very familiar with. The reason I am very familiar with it is because it is a form a wording proposed by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office in London. The reason that we felt that it was preferable to stay with the wording in the Bill is for all of the reasons I just outlined.

But in my opinion the wording quoted by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town has exactly the same meaning as the wording in the Bill before the House. If it is the wish of the House that the alternative wording proposed be used, I have no objection at all to it being amended and included. None whatsoever. The meaning will be exactly the same, and I will be more than happy to accept that amendment to it.

I think I have covered all of the questions the Member has raised. I hope I have. I certainly tried to. As I said, I would like to express my thanks to those Members who have spoken and to the others who I hope I take by their silence to be support and acquiescence. I think it is very important for Cayman that not only is this legislation passed and enacted, but that it is done so with the full support of the Legislature and the financial industry. I think that is the message that is so important for us to get out internationally. I believe that is the case. I believe that the Members who have spoken have shown that there is a real desire and an understanding that this legislation is necessary. I hope that in what I have said in winding up this debate that I have answered the various queries that Members have had.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled, The Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill, 1996, be given a second reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED. THE PROCEEDS OF CRIMINAL CONDUCT BILL, 1996, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

SECOND READINGS

MONETARY AUTHORITY BILL, 1996

The Speaker: The Monetary Authority Bill, 1996. The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled, A Bill for a Law to repeal and replace the Currency Law (1995 Revision) to establish the Cayman Islands Monetary Authority to provide for the transfer to the authority of certain functions and assets of the Government and of the Cayman Islands Currency Board and for incidental and connected purposes.

As Honourable Members have heard said on numerous occasions, the Cayman Islands are today ranked as the fifth largest financial centre in the world behind such major participants as London, New York, Tokyo and Hong Kong. To be ranked as the fifth largest financial centre is not a placement that we have achieved by accident, but is essentially due to the careful planning and development of our financial industry over the past three decades. Further, this recognition has been primarily achieved through the close working relationship between successive Governments acting in consultation with our financial community to ensure that legislation remains current, innovative, and responsive to the demands of the local financial industry and the global market place.

As Members of this Honourable House are aware, the current title of our regulatory regime is "The Financial Services Supervision Department" or FSSD. The FSSD at present, is responsible for the regulation of 573 Banks, 407 Captive Insurance Companies, 32 Licensed Company Managers, and 1,241 Mutual Funds.

These numbers are an indication of the confidence placed in the Cayman Islands by the international community. To ensure that this confidence continues to be fostered will require the need to continually review and enhance the strength and effectiveness of our regulatory regime. It is therefore as a consequence of this ongoing review that a decision has been taken to transform our regulatory regime to that of a Monetary Authority.

The title "Monetary Authority" is an internationally accepted term used to describe an institution which undertakes a number, but not all, of the functions, normally associated with a central bank. The presence of such an institution also tends to be an indication of the state of development of a country's economic and financial infrastructure. Among the countries with established Monetary Authorities are Hong Kong, Singapore, Bahrain, and Bermuda.

Madam Speaker, as you and Honourable Members of this legislature are aware, there are two typical central banking functions which are currently performed by separate bodies within the Government. These functions are: (1) The management of our currency and its related reserves, which is performed by the Currency Board, a statutory body; and (2) The regulation of the financial industry undertaken by the FSSD, as mentioned earlier. The introduction of this legislation will now make it possible to combine these two functions under the umbrella of a single entity, i.e., the Monetary Authority.

At this point I would like to publicly thank the Bank of England for its assistance in making available the services of Mr. Richard Chalmers in the capacity of an advisor to assist us in the development of our Monetary Authority. Apart from the emergence of this Bill which is now before this Legislature, Mr. Chalmers' assistance will also encompass the logistics of advising on the step-by-step implementation of the administrative arrangements necessary for ensuring the smooth integration of the Currency Board and the FSSD into the single administrative structure of the Authority; thus, avoiding any disruption in the services that these two organisations are required to render to the financial and all other sectors of our community.

In a review of the points as set out in the Memorandum of Objects and Reasons, the following can be deduced or observed: (i) the Authority will be a body corporate with shares wholly-owned by the Government. This is addressed in Clauses 3 and 5. (ii) It will be managed by a five-man Board of Directors, of whom only one (the Managing Director) will be a full-time Executive. This is set out in clause 9.

To expand on this point, I would like to state that, initially it is expected that most, if not all, the staff of the FSSD and the Currency Board (26 in total) will transition into the Authority; however, additional recruitment will bring the number up to about 40 within the first year.

(iii) While the establishment of the Authority is a very timely and important step forward, Government is keenly aware of the need to move cautiously to avoid any risk of undermining the stability of our current structures. Consequently, while provisions relating to the currency remain substantially unchanged from those in the Currency Law which will be repealed, provisions have been introduced in the Bill to isolate the currency reserves from any risks that might arise from the regulatory function of the Monetary Authority, and to strengthen even further the requirement for the reserves to be held mostly in the form of external assets.

At this point I would like to thank Honourable Truman Bodden, the Leader of Government Business, for insisting on this provision. At the end of the day everyone is quite happy with it, and it is now the general feeling that regardless of what is done (and I am hoping that what is done will continue to underscore the excellence in service and level of supervision provided up to this time since the commencement of our regulatory regime for ensuring the management of our financial industry), will ensure that the CI dollar will always be protected. This is addressed in Clause 28.

(iv) In order to ensure the optimum efficiency in the management of the Authority, Executive Council will have a duty to appoint suitably qualified persons as Members of the Board, and will also have ultimate responsibility for approving the Authority's annual capital and recurrent expenditure estimates. Moreover, the Bill provides for a specific formula in relation to the distribution of the Authority's profits, which ensures that the currency reserves are the prime beneficiary.

In the budget of the Authority being submitted to Executive Council the question was put as to whether this would impair the independence of the Authority. This will not be the case because this will be addressed in the re-write of the Public Finance and Audit Law. There is a general view that there should be encompassing legislation to ensure that there is consistency in the revenues earned by the various Statutory Authorities, the application and functions undertaken should be with the approval of central government. So the independence will not be impaired, but will be underscored. I am sure that the other Authorities will be happy with this arrangement as well.

(v) With respect to the regulation of the financial industry, the Authority will continue to develop the existing role of the FSSD, with Executive Council retaining the ultimate responsibility for licensing, enforcement action and revocation of licences.

(vi) Finally, the establishment of the Authority will provide an appropriate organisation to which skilled, professional staff can be attracted and retained, and in which a long-term career structure can be developed for them in respect of financial services regulation, currency issue and associated reserves management.

Madam Speaker, I commend this Bill to Members of this Honourable House.

The Speaker: The question is that the Monetary Authority Bill, 1996, be given a second reading. The motion is open for debate.

If there is no debate, does the Honourable Third Official Member have anything further to say?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: Just to thank Honourable Members for their support.

The Speaker: The question is that the Monetary Bill, 1996, be given a second reading. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a second reading.

AGREED. THE MONETARY AUTHORITY BILL, 1996, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Speaker: Second Readings. (Pause)

TOURISM ATTRACTION BOARD BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Tourism Attraction Board Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I beg to move a Bill entitled, A Bill for a Law to Establish the Tourism Attraction Board of the Cayman Islands and to vest property in the Board for all purposes incidental thereto, and connected therewith be give a second reading.

This Bill will establish a Tourism Attraction Board and transfer the ownership of Pedro Castle to the Board from the Government. In addition to protecting and interpreting the country's heritage and cultural history, this facility is intended to diversify the tourism product and address tourism sector issues relating to the market's expectation for additional things to do while in Cayman.

The benefits of this project for the country are far-reaching and profound. Touching as they do on cultural development, economic diversification and sustainable development process, Pedro Castle, the country's premier heritage source, will be protected and the Government will not be required to fund it into perpetuity. It will be a source of pride for Caymanians and a venue for encouraging children and young people's appreciation of the country's historic roots. As such, it will serve to enrich the cultural base of the country and prove a legacy asset.

The project is designed to meet the social, cultural and economic objectives of this country. It will also serve as an example of sustainable development. Economic benefits will also accrue to the eastern district of Grand Cayman.

Clause 1 provides the short title to the Bill and Clause 2 is the interpretation clause or definition clause. Clause 3 establishes the Board as an independent corporation. It includes provisions relating to the membership and officers, the execution of documents and other constitutional issues, and provides power for the Board to regulate their own proceedings.

Clauses 4, 5 and 6 require Board members to declare any pecuniary interest that they may have in any matter under consideration at Board or committee meetings, or to withdraw from the meeting while that matter is being considered. Non-compliance will be a criminal offence. Arrangements may be made in the event of business being impeded by an excessive number of declarations of interest.

Clause 7 defines the functions of the Board as the general and financial management of Pedro Castle and any other sites that may be transferred to it for heritage purposes, and makes ancillary provisions.

Clause 8 limits the expenditure of the Board to its authorised functions and makes other formal provisions with regard to financial matters.

Clause 9 provides that the accounts of the Board shall be maintained in accordance with the standards of the International Accounting Standards Committee. The accounts must be submitted to the Auditor General within 3 months of the end of each financial year and must be audited annually by the Auditor General. After each audit the Auditor General shall prepare a report thereon within 6 months of the end of the financial year to which the audit relates.

Clause 10 requires the Board to prepare an annual report for the Executive Council and that, together with the Auditor-General's report, will have to be laid on the table of the Legislative Assembly and gazetted.

Clause 11 contains the arrangements for the employment of staff and their pension fund.

Clause 12 vests Pedro Castle in the Board together with its ancillary rights and liabilities, and with the Government-owned equipment and other property currently being used in connection with the management and restoration of Pedro Castle.

Clause 13 provides the Board and its members with immunity from civil action arising from the discharge of their functions unless done in bad faith.

The Schedule defines in legal terms the land to be transferred from the Government to the Board.

The estimated capital cost of the project is CI$6.4m and the Government has submitted a request for a loan (and we have that approval) from the Caribbean Development Bank (CDB). We made reference to that this morning, we gave details about it. I think the House should be well conversant with the arrangements made there.

It is also expected that it will be a self-financing project and that the latest estimate indicates that for the years 1997 to 2002, a net surplus in the region of something like $4.1 million will be accrued in this project.

The world of international travel is taking a different trend. It is seeking to have an educational and cultural experience in addition to soaking up a bit of sun. We have to provide such facilities in the Cayman Islands in order to maintain our market share of that world travel number. In addition, our objective in bringing visitors to our shores is to increase revenue through the amount of money they spend in this country. In order to accomplish that we need to have more facilities which will attract visitors to spend money at these different heritage or other attractions in the Cayman Islands.

On Tuesday we sank a Russian Destroyer, the ship we named The MV Capt. Keith Tibbetts. That is another attraction to the Cayman Islands, specifically Cayman Brac. While our objective may have been to draw people from different parts of the world, we are beginning to already see a number of people within Grand Cayman moving to Cayman Brac to dive this site. It is an indication of what is to come from the international world.

On Friday afternoon, we had the largest photographic organisation in the world present taking pictures of that event - Sigma is the name. We had John-Michael Cousteau doing a documentary. We had skin diver Magazine represented; Scuba Time represented, as well as many other individuals from the United Kingdom and Europe. Lawson Wood, whom I also saw signing his book this morning at Hobbies and Books Store was also present. I have not gone through all of them.

I went into that detail to give an example of the reach of this one attraction that we have placed in Cayman Brac within the last week and the reach of those journalists and media representatives to the rest of the world sending the message that it is the only Russian Destroyer sunk in the western hemisphere available for diving. It is the only one you can snorkel on, so you do not actually need to be a scuba diver.

It is the direction that this country needs to move in, to develop more attractions. We have the largest repeat business in the Caribbean, over 40% of our visitors have visited Cayman at least once, some as many as 28 times. So we need to develop more attractions in order to maintain our repeat business as well as to attract people from other parts of the world who are now moving to heritage tourism and that is one of the reasons we have moved forward with the Pedro Castle restoration and the upgrading of the Botanic park.

This Bill really sets up the machinery of managing Pedro Castle or any other site that may be put under the auspices of this Law. I think it is high time that the eastern districts got some additional visitor traffic to that part of the island.

I recommend the Bill to all Members.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled The Tourist Attraction Board Bill, 1996, be given a second reading. The motion is open for debate.

If there is no debate, would the Honourable Minister wish to say something?

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: I only say thanks to the Members for their unanimous support.

The Speaker: The House will now go into Committee to consider the three Bills.

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE AT 3.50 PM

COMMITTEE ON BILLS

PROCEEDS OF CRIMINAL CONDUCT BILL, 1996

The Chairman: Please be seated. The House is now in Committee to consider the three Bills.

Hon. Thomas C. Jefferson: Madam Chairman, excuse me for interrupting you. Am I off-key, or should we have taken the vote?

The Chairman: On the Tourism Board, yes, we should have. I do apologise to you. I can do that from here.

The Speaker: The question is that the Tourist Attraction Board Bill be given a second reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED. THE TOURISM ATTRACTION BOARD BILL, 1996, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Chairman: Thank you, Honourable Minister.

We are now dealing with the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Bill, 1996. The Clerk will read Clauses 1-3.

Clerk: Clause 1. Short title.
Clause 2. General interpretation.
Clause 3. Definition of principal terms used.

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 1 through 3 do stand part of the Bill. I think there are some corrections.

The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Yes, Madam Chairman, there are a number of corrections. The first one is in Clause 2 of the Bill. Under the heading "Expression and Relevant Provisions". Following the expression "confiscation Order" it should read "5 (7) (a)". Opposite the word "defendant" it should read "5 (7) (d)". Opposite the words "offence to which in this law applies" in place of section 5(8)(c) it should read "5(7)(c)". Also opposite the words "drug trafficking offence in place of section 5(8)(b)" it should be "5(7)(b)". There are four amendments proposed to clause 2(2).

The Chairman: Members all have copies of the proposed amendments. So the question is that these amendments be made.

If there is no debate, I shall put the question that the amendments to clause 2 be made. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSE 2 AMENDED.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1, 2, as amended, and 3 do stand part of the Bill. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

Clause 6. Making of confiscation orders.
Clause 7. Postponed determinations.
Clause 8. Statements, etc., relevant to making confiscation orders.
Clause 9. Cases in which restraint orders and charging orders may be made.
Clause 10. Restraint orders.
Clause 11. Charging orders.

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 4 through 19 do stand part of the Bill.

If there is no debate I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 4 THROUGH 19 PASSED.

The Chairman: Clauses 20 through 24.

Clerk: Clause 20. Code of Practice and Reporting Authority.
 Clause 21. Assisting another to retain the benefit of criminal conduct.
 Clause 22. Acquisition, possession or use of property representing proceeds of criminal conduct.
 Clause 23. Concealing or transferring proceeds of criminal conduct.
 Clause 24. Tipping-off.

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 20 through 24 do stand part of the Bill.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: There are some amendments I would propose to these clauses. The first is in clause 21 (4) (b). That after the word "arrangement" in line one, the word "or" be removed and deleted.

In clause 22(7), that paragraph (c) be deleted. Clause 24(2)(a), the numbering (cross-referencing) is incorrect. In the third line where it says "22 or 23", those figures should be replaced with "21 or 22".

Just beyond that, clause 24 subsection (3)(a), again the cross-referencing is wrong where it says 21(5) and 22(10), it should say "21(3) and 22(5)".

Those are the only amendments to those clauses.

The Chairman: Members have had these amendments. I shall put the question that the amendments as proposed to clauses 21 to 24 be passed. The motion is open for debate.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Madam Chairman, I am sorry. I am confused. I was just trying to assist the Clerk regarding a proposed amendment that the Attorney General was maybe supposed to contact her about. I am really not sure where we are at.

The Chairman: I think this was an amendment that you were hoping would be made. What section is that?

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: It is under the schedule.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: I do not think we have reached there yet.

The Chairman: The question is that the amendments as proposed be made to clauses 21 through 24.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 21, 22 AND 24 AMENDED.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 20 through 24 do stand part of the Bill.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 20, 21, 22 and 24 AS AMENDED, PASSED.

Clerk: Clause 25. Application of procedure for enforcing fines.
 Clause 26. Powers of arrest.
 Clause 27. Order to make material available.
 Clause 28. Authority for search.

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 25 through 28 do stand part of the Bill.

If there is no debate, I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 25 THROUGH 28 PASSED.

Clerk: Clause 29. Enforcement of external confiscation orders and proceedings.
 Clause 30. Registration of external confiscation orders.
 Clause 31. Proof of orders and judgements of courts of a designated country.
 Clause 32. Evidence in relation to proceedings and orders in a designated country.
 Clause 33. Representation of government of a designated country.
 Clause 34. Satisfaction of confiscation order in a designated country.
 Clause 35. Currency conversion.
 Clause 36. Rules of court.

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 29 through 36 do stand part of the Bill.

The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: There are some amendments to these clauses. The first one relates to Clause 33: That in the final line after the words "Section 30" the words "of the Law" be deleted. That further on in that same line where it says "of the Law" be replaced by "of this Law". Both of those amendments are in the same line.

Also, Clause 34 (1)(a), the reference to "section 4" be replaced by "section 5". It is a mis-cross-reference. Those are all of the amendments.

The Chairman: The question is that the amendments as stated to clauses 33 and 34 do stand part of the Bill.

If there is no debate I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 33 and 34 AMENDED.

The Chairman: The question is that the clauses as amended do stand part of the Bill.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 29 THROUGH 36 PASSED.

Clerk: The Schedule. Modifications to the Law when applied to external confiscation orders and related proceedings.

The Chairman: The question is that the Schedule do form part of the Bill.

The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: There are some amendments to the Schedule. The first one is what the Fourth Elected Member for George Town referred to. Perhaps I could trouble the Serjeant to get a copy of the proposal that the Member has. I do have a copy here, but I want to make sure that both have the same wording.

The Chairman: Is that the only copy available? Do you have other copies for circulation to Members?

Are you going to move the amendment, or is the Fourth Elected Member for George Town going to move it?

Hon. Richard H. Coles: I can move it. Would it be helpful if we went through the other amendments to the Schedule to save time?

The Chairman: Yes, please.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: The first amendment is to paragraph 3(4) of the Schedule. In the second line where it says "caught by this Law", it should say "caught by this Schedule". So it is to replace the word "Law" with "Schedule".

In paragraph 10(1) on the penultimate line, where the figures "(4) and (5)" appear, that they be replaced by "(3) and (4)".

Further on in paragraph 10(5), that "(4)" in the first line be replaced by "(3)". And in paragraph 10, the numbering of the subparagraphs needs to be changed. Subparagraphs "(4), (5) and (6)" need to be renumbered "(3), (4) and (5)" as there is no sub-paragraph (3).

In paragraph 12(1)(b), there are two amendments. In the first line the reference to paragraph "7(8)" should be replaced by "6(8)". Further on in 12(1)(b), where it refers to paragraph "7 or 9" it should say "6 or 9".

We then move on to paragraph 13(1)(b) in the final line where it says under "paragraph 7 or 9", that should be replaced by "6 or 9".

Madam Chairman, I wonder if you would excuse me? While we are on this particular paragraph, I would just like to speak with the Legislative Council. (pause)

Madam Chairman, I do apologise, but there is another amendment to that same paragraph 13(1)(b). I give my apologies that it has not been included on the notice. It is another numbering error. Where in paragraph 13(1)(b), it refers to "by virtue of paragraph 7(8)" it should be replaced by "6(8)". It is another cross-reference that is wrong.

The final amendment is in paragraph 14(2), where in the third line the reference to paragraph "10(4)" should be replaced by "10(3)".

Perhaps we can now go back to paragraph 3(1)(b) and deal with that.

The Chairman: First of all I need to give approval for this amendment to be made without due notice. You may proceed.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: I hope Members now have copies of this proposed amendment. Perhaps it would be helpful if I read it out. Rather than talk about the individual alterations, I will read out the new paragraph 3(1)(b). I think that is the correct way to do it because it is set out slightly different as well.

It should now read:

"3(1)(b) references to conduct to which this schedule applies are references to conduct which - (i) constitutes an offence to which this Law applies or would constitute such an offence if it had occurred in the Islands other than drug trafficking offences and offences which relate directly or indirectly to the regulation, imposition, calculation or collection of taxes subject to (ii);

(ii) constitutes an offence to which this Law applies or would constitute such an offence had it occurred in the Islands and which involves -

l) wilfully or dishonestly obtaining or conspiring to obtain money, property or valuable securities from other persons by means of false or fraudulent pretences or statements, whether oral or written, or accounting documents regulating or affecting benefits available in connection with the laws and regulations relating to income or other taxes; and

ll) wilfully or dishonestly making or conspiring to make false statements, whether oral or written, to government tax authorities with respect to any tax matter arising from the unlawful proceeds of any criminal offence triable on indictment, or wilfully or dishonestly failing to make a report or return to government tax authorities as required by law in respect of, or to pay the tax on, any such unlawful proceeds."

The paragraph would then continue and go on to subparagraph (c). I propose that that revised subparagraph (b) replaces the one in the Bill.

The Chairman: I shall put the question that the amendments be made to the Schedule, as indicated, and that the new proposal under 3(1)(b) as circulated to Members be approved.

If there is no debate, I shall put the question that these amendments do form part of the Schedule. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: AMENDMENTS TO SCHEDULE PASSED.

The Chairman: The question is that the Schedule as amended do stand part of the Bill. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE SCHEDULE AS AMENDED PASSED.

Clerk: A Bill for a Law to make new provision for the powers of criminal courts, including provisions for the recovery of the proceeds of certain serious criminal offences; and for connected purposes.

The Chairman: The question is that the Title do stand part of the Bill. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE TITLE PASSED.

MONETARY AUTHORITY BILL, 1996

The Chairman: We now proceed to The Monetary Authority Bill, 1996. The Clerk will read the clauses.

Clerk: Clause 1. Short title and commencement.
Clause 2. Interpretation.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 1 and 2 do stand part of the Bill. I think there is an amendment. The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: It is proposed that in Clause 2 under the definition of "board", "10" be deleted and substituted by "9".

The Chairman: The question is that the amendment be made to Clause 2. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: AMENDMENT TO CLAUSE 2 PASSED.

The Chairman: I shall put the question that Clauses 1 and 2, as amended, do stand part of the Bill. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

Clause 17. Power to employ staff, etc.

The Chairman: The question is that Clauses 3 through 17 do stand part of the Bill.

The Honourable Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. George A. McCarthy: The following amendments are proposed: (i) that in Clause 9 (2)(b), "11 and 12" be deleted and substituted by "10 and 11";

(ii) that in Clause 10 sub-section (1), "9(3)(b)" be deleted and substituted by "9(2)(b)";

(iii) that in Clause 10 sub-section (3), "Paragraphs (b) and (c) of" be inserted before "2"; and

(iv) that in Clause 14 sub-section (1) "subject to the provisions of section 16" be deleted.

There is a further amendment which the Honourable Second Official Member will propose.

The Chairman: The Honourable Second Official Member.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: I do not think the amendment to Clause 10(3) which the Honourable Third Official Member just read out reads quite right. I think that the additional words "Paragraphs (b) and (c) of" should be inserted before the word "subsection", rather than before the figure (2). It would read, "Paragraphs (b) and (c) of subsection (2) shall not apply."

The Chairman: There is a further proposed amendment under Clause 10 (3) that the words "Paragraphs (b) and (c) of subsection (2) shall not apply to directors appointed managing director under section 11.". Are there any other amendments?

Hon. George A. McCarthy: That is all, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: The question is that the amendments be made as set out by the Honourable Third Official Member and the Honourable Second Official Member.

If there is no debate I shall put the question. Those in favour of these amendments being made to these Clauses, please say Aye...Those against No.

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE (OF ELECTED MEMBERS) TO REVIEW THE ELECTIONS LAW (1995 REVISION)

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Select Committee (of Elected Members) to Review the Elections Law (1995 Revision).

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Madam Speaker, the Select Committee established to review the Elections Law (1995 Revision) was appointed by the Legislature on the 15th day of July, 1996, upon the passing of Private Member's Motion No. 4/96 (as amended).

The Motion was moved by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and seconded by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town, and amended to include that the Committee comprise the Elected Members of the Legislative Assembly and the Honourable Second Elected Member.

The Motion reads as follows:

"BE IT RESOLVED THAT this Honourable House appoints a Select Committee (of Elected Members and the Honourable Second Official Member) to consider amendments to the Elections Law (1995 Revision) as follows and that the Review be concluded before the dissolution of the House and that the recommendations contained in the Committee's report be put into effect for 1996 General Election:

- a) to provide that a permanent register of voters be created using the 1996 Voters' List as the initial document and thereafter persons' names to be automatically added upon reaching 18 years of age and persons' names to be deleted due to death or some other legal cause;
- b) to provide for Voter Registration Cards;
- c) to provide that any person otherwise eligible to vote and who will be 18 years of age on or before the date of a General Election shall be registered as a voter;

- d) to provide that a Voters' List in each district in the possession of candidates and/or their agents inside or outside a Polling Station remains in the possession of such persons before, during and after the elections;
- e) to provide that the Law be clarified to specifically prohibit any form of advertising for any group of individual on the day of election through any media;
- f) to provide that Form 15 - Direction for the Guidance of Voters, be amended to allow a voter who after voting can place his ballot paper in the ballot box himself;
- g) to provide that the form Declaration by Amanuensis be amended in its title to read "Declaration by Person who assists a Voter"; and
- h) to provide for the Immigration Law, 1992 (Law 13 of 1992) to address the residency requirements of the Cayman Islands (Constitution) order (section 25(b)(v) and (vi))."

CHAIRMAN OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE

In accordance with the provision of Standing Order 69(2), the Honourable Speaker of the Legislative Assembly nominated myself to be the Chairman of the Select Committee.

WITNESSES

To assist the Select Committee in its deliberations the Supervisor of Elections was called to give evidence. The Supervisor attended, together with the Deputy Supervisor of Elections.

MEETINGS

The Committee held two meetings on Wednesday, 4th September, 1996 and Thursday, 5th September, 1996.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The Committee recommends that the following paragraph of this Motion (which I previously read) be brought into effect before the 1996 General Elections:

- (i) paragraph (d) as amended
That the Voters' List in each district be made available to candidates and their agents, inside or outside a Polling Station, and remain in their possession before, during and after the Elections.
- (ii) paragraph (e) as amended
That the Elections Law (1995 Revision) be clarified to specifically prohibit any form of advertising for any group or individual on the day of election through any print or electronic media.
- (iii) paragraph (g)

That the form "Declaration by Amanuensis" be amended in its title to read "Declaration by Person who assists a Voter".

The Committee also recommends that paragraphs (a) in amended form and (b) and (f) be brought into effect, but realises that it will not be possible to have these effected before the 1996 General Elections. Paragraphs (a), (b) and (f) recommend:

- (i) paragraph (a) as amended
That a permanent register of voters be created, using the 1996 Voters' List as the initial document and thereafter the names of persons otherwise eligible to vote be automatically added upon reaching 18 years of age and persons' names to be deleted due to death or some other legal disability.

This paragraph was accepted by a majority of the Members.
- (ii) paragraph (b)
That Voter Registration Cards be provided.
- (iii) paragraph (f)
That Form 15 - Direction for the Guidance of Voters, be amended to allow a voter, after voting, to place his ballot paper in the ballot box himself.

The Committee agreed not to recommend paragraphs (c) and (d) of the Motion. With regard to (c), the Law does not permit persons to be registered before attaining the age of 18 years. The matter is adequately dealt with under the amended paragraph (a) which provides for the addition to the register upon attaining the age of 18 years. In regard to paragraph (h) the Committee concurs that its mandate, that is, to recommend amendments to the Elections Law, does not permit it to make recommendations to amend the Immigration Law.

The Committee recommends that this Report be the Report of the Select Committee to the Legislative Assembly. Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Does the Second Official Member wish to move that the Report of the Select Committee be adopted?

Hon. Richard H. Coles: Madam Speaker, I do.

The Speaker: The question is that the recommendations of the Select Committee (of Elected Members) to Review the Elections Law (1995 Revision) be adopted.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Report is accordingly adopted.

AGREED: RECOMMENDATIONS MADE BY THE SELECT COMMITTEE TO REVIEW THE ELECTIONS LAW (1995 REVISION) ADOPTED.

The Speaker: Report of the Select Committee on the Control of Local Businesses to be laid on the Table by the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce. In his absence the Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

FINAL REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE (OF ELECTED MEMBERS) THE CONTROL OF LOCAL BUSINESSES

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, the Select Committee established to review the Control of Local Businesses was appointed by the Legislative Assembly the 19th day of June, 1995, upon the passing of Private Member's Motion No. 4/95 (as amended).

The Motion as amended and moved by the Third Elected Member for West Bay, and seconded by the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay which reads:

"WHEREAS there are a number of Caymanians who own and depend upon local businesses for their livelihood:- that is water sports, real estate agencies, boutiques, contractors' licences;

AND WHEREAS it is becoming increasingly difficult for these Caymanians to earn a decent, honest living in these areas because of unfair competition from foreign-owned companies which are attempting to monopolise these different industries;

AND WHEREAS it is important to ensure that Caymanians continue to earn an honest living from their chosen areas of business to ensure the continuance of the social harmony that we enjoy in these islands, which is one of the key reasons for our financial success;

BE IT NOW THEREFORE RESOLVED that Government consider taking steps to ensure that new licences issued to industries as above are to Caymanians or to wholly owned Caymanians companies;

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT a Select Committee of all Elected Members be established to study other areas of local business, that the quorum be eight Members and that public input be sought."

CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE

Madam Speaker, in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 69(2), the Honourable Speaker of the Legislative Assembly appointed the Honourable Minister responsible for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce, to be the Chairman of the Committee.

MEETINGS

The Committee held ten meetings on the 17th July, 1995; 27th September, 1995; 19th October, 1995; 1st November, 1995; 27th November, 1995; 10th June, 1996; 17th July, 1996; 8th August, 1996; 4th September, 1996; and 9th September, 1996.

WITNESSES

In accordance with the Committee's mandate, input from members of the public was sought. The Committee received no written letters of representation, but took oral hearings on Thursday, 19th of October, and Wednesday, 1st November, 1995 and again on Wednesday, 17th of July, 1996 from the following persons and representatives of associations:

- 1) Mr. A. Steve McField, Attorney-at-Law
- 2) Mr. Clarence Brown and
Capt. John Brown of Media Imports;
- 3) Mr. Charles D. Brown of Gifts with a Difference;
- 4) Mr. John D. Jefferson, Sr.
Businessman/Preacher; and
- 5) Mr. Burns Ruty, Businessman.

The following businessmen as a group:

Mr. Derrington Miller, Mr. A. L. Thompson, Mr. Robert Wood, Mr. S.T. (Tommy) Bodden; and Mr. David Foster, Chairman/President of the Cayman Merchants' Association.

Cayman Contractors Association: Mr. S. T. (Tommy) Bodden, Mr. David Arch, Mr. James Powell and Mr. Dawson Whittaker.

Cayman Bus Operators Association: Mr. Errol Reid, Mr. David Miller, and Mr. Don McLaughlin.

Cayman National Water Sports' Association: Mr. Frank Ebanks, Capt. Eugene Ebanks, Mr. Attlee Evans, and Mr. Sterling Ebanks.

The Committee wishes to express thanks to all these persons and representatives of associations for appearing before it and for expressing their concerns in regard to the operation of businesses within the islands, particularly that of Grand Cayman.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Perhaps the most commonly shared views expressed by the majority of witnesses is that Caymanian merchants and businesses are operating at an ever increasing disadvantage, in light of the rapid growth of development and foreign control and influence in the islands; that there is not sufficient control over, nor long-term solution, to the saturated local markets, to foreign fronting of local businesses and false advertising of work permits; that Government needs to create incentives to encourage young local entrepreneurs; and that a resourceful public relations enterprise between Government and the private sector be established.

In regards to specific proposal and concerns by witnesses: (a) that a Trade and Business Licensing Board, separate to that of the Immigration Board, be established; (b) that a moratorium be placed on the various industries/markets; (c) that travelling salesmen and other businesses, not licensed, entering the market be reviewed; and (d) that the number of new churches being established within the islands be looked at. The Committee recommends:

- (i) That a Trade and Business Licensing Board be established and that its members include the Chief Immigration Officer, or his designate;
- (ii) That Government undertake a study to collect data to determine the numbers involved in all retail trade and industries and thereafter a decision be made as how best to resolve the expressed unsatisfactory circumstances;
- (iii) That travelling salesmen be required to hold work permits, paid and issued in advance, prior to their travel to the islands; that a work permit shall specify the enterprise(s) with which they may do business and they shall be restricted to only those names listed therein; that they not be allowed to sell directly to the public that the Immigration Department enforce the restrictions; and that a penalty be imposed for any infringement of a travelling salesman's work permit; and
- (iv) That the concern in regard to the number of new churches be referred to the Ministers' Association for action.

Finally, the Committee wishes to note that His Excellency the Governor has appointed an Assessor to enquire into and make a full report and recommendations concerning all tourism related transportation in the Cayman Islands, including North Sound water sports operators as they are affected by tourism related transport. The concerns expressed to the Committee by the water sports' and transport operations would be a topic of that enquiry.

The Select Committee agrees that this Report be the Second and Final Report of the Select Committee to this Honourable House. I move that these recommendations be adopted and accepted under Standing Order 72(5).

The Speaker: The question is that the recommendations of the Select Committee on the Control of Local Businesses be adopted.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Committee's report and recommendations are accordingly adopted.

AGREED. RECOMMENDATIONS IN THE REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON THE CONTROL OF LOCAL BUSINESSES ADOPTED.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Madam Speaker, may I ask few question of the Honourable Minister, under Standing Order 32?

The Speaker: That should have come before I put the question, Honourable Member. This is not a statement by a Member or a Minister.

APOLOGIES

The Speaker: Before I proceed with business, I wish to inform the House that apologies for absence have been received from the Honourable Third Official Member as well as the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Trade, during the remaining of this meeting.

Questions to Honourable Members/Ministers. Question No. 172 is standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 172

No. 172: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning to compare the financial position of Cayman Airways Limit during the leasing of the 737-400s to its financial position during the leasing of the 737-200s and subsequent purchase of a leased 737-200.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the answer: In 1989, Cayman Airways previous management, with the approval of the last Government and upon the accounting advice of the Honourable Linford Pierson, decided to dispose of its interest in two B727 aircraft. This transaction generated a profit of over US$12 million and the release to Government of over US$5 million. The aircraft were replaced by two B737-400 which were leased for 15 years. The cost to Cayman Airways under the lease contract would have been US$11 million. Not surprisingly, the Airline was unable to meet its obligations and very soon defaulted. This was after taking delivery of the first B737-400 and before accepting the second. Again, not surprisingly, the lessor (in this case GPA), resorted to legal action in the United Kingdom courts and won its case against Cayman Airways. The cost to the Airline was approximately $6.7 million which, true to form, it was unable to pay. The US$12 million profit from the B727 was long spent, much of it on the launch of the ill-fated New York/Baltimore route. So Cayman Airways found itself operating an aircraft it could not afford, on a route that lost close to $4 million annually. But getting out of the GPA contract at a cost of $6.7 million was not the end of the B737-400 problem.

For some extraordinary and inexplicable reason, whilst Cayman Airways was disposing of these aircraft at horrendous cost, its management actually signed another lease, this time with ILFC, for an identical B737-400 aircraft at a rent higher even than the GPA aircraft. This lease created a contingent liability of $45.5 million. Almost immediately Cayman Airways defaulted on its lease payments to ILFC, and the whole nightmare began over again.

It soon emerged that, in spite of being obliged to pay GPA $6.7 million to take back their two aircraft, we had not seen the end of them. We were horrified to learn that part of the agreement with GPA obliged Cayman Airways to lease yet again the two 737-400s for a three year period beginning in February 1994. This created a further contingent liability of almost $21 million. This meant that Cayman Airways management, having demonstrated to all and sundry (and in the process dragged the good name of the Cayman Islands through the Courts abroad) that it could not afford two B737-400s, had now contrived a situation in which it was contracted to three B737-400s with total contingent liabilities of $60.8 million.

So in comparison the financial position of our National Airline during the B737-400 era and the present time, we should fully understand the horrible mess this Government found in November, 1992. As you are well aware, I acted decisively in December 1992, by appointing a new Managing Director. The Chairman and Board remains the same.

We quickly got to work. The obligation to take the GPA aircraft back was resolved at a cost of $1.3 million. That took care of the $21 million contingent liability.

ILFC was persuaded to accept their 400 with no penalty to Cayman Airways. In fact, we got a rent reduction over the last six months of the lease which saved the Airline just under $1 million, and we negotiated the return of $.5 million of a security deposit. That took care of the contingent liability of $60.8 million.

Finally, we were successful in selling back an engine to the manufacturers which CAL got in 1989. The engine, a spare for the 400s had been increased, by finance and usage charges to $5.5 million. The manner in which we negotiated out of this saved Cayman Airways $2 million. Of course, it was not only the engine and leasing companies who were owed money. In December 1992, there were other debts of $26.5 million.

Compare that horror story with where Cayman Airways is now. The Airline's good name has been restored in the industry. It has two B737-200 aircraft, one of which is owned by a subsidiary company set up for the purpose by this Government. The aircraft has $4 million debt remaining and is probably worth close to $7 million with the improvements CAL has made. The monthly cost to the airline is one-third the B737-400 cost and we own the aircraft. The second 200 which is on lease has been valued at $25,000 per month more than we are paying. The net effect is that we have absolutely zero contingent liability on the two aircraft. Compare that with the $111.6 million which existed under the previous Government.

All of our creditors are paid on a current basis. The Airline made a profit (after subsidy) in 1994, of US$1,568,473 and taking 1994, 1995, and 1996 together, and the profit in Cayman Aviation Leasing Limited shows a profit over the two and a half years of US$2,724,914.

CAL's loyal staff have received, in some cases, three pay increases since 1993, having gone five years previously without any pay increases.

I cannot let this occasion pass without taking the opportunity to thank the hard working staff of our National Airline for all their efforts in helping to turn Cayman Airways around. Nor should we forget the work of the present Board under the chairmanship of Mr. Leonard Ebanks. This Board gives freely of its time and expertise to Cayman Airways, and we all owe them a debt of gratitude.

I believe that my 27 years of experience as a lawyer, 21 years of experience in banking and as a bank director (along with God's help, and the Board and Ministry staff) has given me the ability to guide CAL back to a stable and good financial position.

Finally, let me say that our National Airline must not be taken for granted. It needs constant attention by skilled experts. Before I spend the public's money, I always ask myself, if this were my money would I spend it? I believe in accountability to the public; I believe I must be very careful when dealing with the public's money to make sure that the public gets the most for each dollar spent.

My experience has taught me to be careful and cautious. CAL's survival depends heavily on conservative and cautious handling of its finances. In the wrong hands it could swiftly regress to the "bad old days."

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Madam Speaker, in reference to Cayman Airways' loyal staff, could the Honourable Minister say how many Caymanians are employed by Cayman Airways?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, approximately 250 staff are employed making us probably the third largest private employer in the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Could the Honourable Minister say if, in light of the fact that we have a plane that we are going to purchase (and he mentioned a loan balance of $4 million with a value of $7 million), there are plans to purchase another aircraft?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes. As the Honourable Member knows (and he is a good accountant) it makes very good sense to purchase as we are now doing. We are looking for another aircraft and when that happens I will come back to this Honourable House for approval in Finance Committee before committing on such an expense.

But I will be able to assure this House that it has been fully checked and that what we are doing is at least to the best of our ability, will generate revenue and a profit, rather than the horrendous losses, as I said at one stage a liability of some $111.6 million under some of the earlier leases.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 173, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 173

No. 173: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning if there is an existing training programme for maintenance personnel at Cayman Airways Limited.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Cayman Airways' first priority has always been and continues to be safety. We will not take any action, or fail to take any action which will compromise safety. Our Maintenance and Engineering Department is very important to the Airline's operation and is required by local and overseas aviation regulations to provide certain training to its personnel.

In Cayman Airways, Aircraft Maintenance Training is conducted at three levels, namely: Basic, Type and Specialised. The present policy is to conduct training necessary to fulfil the requirements of both the company as well as the Regulatory Authorities, for example, Civil Aviation Authority (CAA), United Kingdom Civil Aviation Authority (UKCAA), and the Federal Aviation Authority (FAA). Training of Maintenance personnel is carried out in a manner consistent with attaining the highest standards of safety development of our local staff.

Basic Training: Basic training is presently provided on-the-job as well as through formalised classroom sessions. Training is provided for both FAA and Airframe and Power plant mechanics and non licensed mechanics. To meet Cayman Islands Civil Aviation Authority requirements, in August 1996, a total of 22 members of staff received training in CAA Regulations and 15 staff members (only two on work permit) received training to prepare for Cayman Islands CAA Licenses in the Airframe 2 and Jet Turbine Engines categories.

On September 9th, 1996 preparatory training of six weeks duration commenced for three individuals to obtain Cayman Islands Civil Aviation Authority Licenses in the Avionics category.

Basic training is conducted by the Brunel College of the United Kingdom. Presently, we are in the process of formalising an apprenticeship programme which combines on-the-job training and formal instruction for the CICAA Basic Qualification. Formal instruction shall be provided by a recognised institution or by suitably qualified individuals in-house.

Type Training: Type training will normally only be provided to suitably licensed personnel and is conducted to meet the numerical skill requirements of the company. Presently this is being conducted on a two yearly basis:- B737-200 airframe, power plant and avionics systems type courses were conducted in 1995 and will next be conducted in 1997. In 1995 a total of 11 staff members received type training.

Specialist Training: Since 1995, specialised training has been conducted or is planned to be conducted in the areas of Maintenance Planning and Control, Inventory Management, Managerial Skills, Engine Ground Run, Maintenance Reliability, Engine Trend Monitoring, Dangerous Goods Handling and Computer Applications, as well as coverage of the Mosquito Research and Control Unit Airframe and Engines. This form of training is normally conducted as required, to improve the effectiveness and efficiency of the operation.

Other Training: Recurrent training is also conducted in the areas of company procedures, aviation authority regulations, safety regulations, safety practices, engine ground running and taxi, including Class II medical.

Finally, I remind this Honourable House that the foregoing is merely the training given to our maintenance personnel. Other departments also receive technical or job specific training, customer service training, and starting in October, the Airline will embark upon a full scale management training programme to be conducted in Cayman by the International Air Transport Association (IATA). IATA will also conduct "Airline Customer Service" training for some 60 staff members in December.

In conclusion, Madam Speaker, I hope that this Honourable House and the people of these islands can feel confident that Cayman Airways has a rigorous and extensive training programme for its maintenance personnel. This training is to ensure that the Airline operates to the highest safety standards of the Cayman Islands, United Kingdom, and United States of America, and also that our employees are given great opportunity to develop their individual career opportunities with Cayman Airways.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Based on the dates given, namely August 1996 and September 9th, 1996, for the rigorous training detailed in the answer, could the Honourable Minister say if all the maintenance personnel presently employed at Cayman Airways are properly trained for the positions they hold?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 174, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 174

No. 174: Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what the problems with the 1990 Education Plan were and what impact these had on education in the Cayman Islands.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The main problems with the 1991 Education Plan (which was based on the 1990 Education Review by Mr. James Porter assisted by Dr. Desmond Broomes, the then Permanent Secretary for Education, Mr. Oswell Rankine, and local education department staff) were that it did not have widespread acceptance by teachers and the community; the plan was not implemented in a phased and structured way; and too many drastic changes were brought into effect too quickly, without the necessary machinery being in place to implement such sweeping and radical changes. To keep this question to a reasonable length, I have only taken six examples in detail.

The Government reception classes were abolished in all schools including the Lighthouse School, so that the classrooms could be used for the additional year of primary education. When they were abolished, there were not enough pre-schools to absorb the children, only three of the existing pre-schools were licensed, and no government sanctioned pre-schools curriculum was in place to give guidance to the pre-school operators. Children with differing abilities entered primary schools and classes were very difficult to teach as some children had been to pre-school and were advanced while some children had never been to pre-school. The system of providing grants to Caymanian parents who could not afford to pay the pre-school fees was in place, but no guidance was provided as to how these grants should be awarded. The Ministry, and especially Mr. Oswell Rankine, created chaos which hurt 200 young children.

Since 1992, my Permanent Secretary, Mrs. Basdeo and I, along with the Education Council now have all pre-schools in the Cayman Islands licensed and registered, the pre-school operators have formed an association and with Government's assistance, a pre-school curriculum has been developed and is now being implemented. The administrative guidelines for the pre-school grants programme have been revised, and the programme has been widely publicised. In 1996, three times as many Caymanian pre-schoolers were receiving government grants as in 1992, when the system of grants was established.

Another example of changes being rushed through was that although the 1991 Plan called for the reorganisation of the Education Department as a pre-condition and first priority in order to support the plan, this had not begun therefore, staff was not in place to support the additional work which resulted from the changes.

Since I became Minister for Education, the Department was reorganised in 1993 to include two additional senior officers as well as additional support staff. The addition of a school inspectorate was three senior officers will also enhance the implementation of the Strategic Plan.

As another example, of the problems in the 1991 Plan, the Middle School was phased out, the final year at the George Hicks High School was split in two, half the students remained at the George Hicks School and half were advanced to the John Gray High School. An additional year was added to the John Gray High School, effectively raising the school leaving age by one year, but up until the new government took over in November 1992, no plans had been made, and no work done on the curriculum for this extra year. While hard to believe, in fact no decision had even been taken on whether the additional year should be in Year 10 or in Year 12. This was damaging to the school system.

The government decided to keep the middle school concept at the George Hicks High School, which then became a junior high school, and we added the additional year at Year 10 as a foundation year. A new curriculum was developed by the spring of 1993 for implementation later that year. The wisdom of this can be viewed in the 1996 CXC and IGCSE results, the results of the first graduating class to have the benefit of an additional foundation year. These results at the "O" level standard, are the best in the history of the school. Additionally, our government transferred all post-secondary education to the Community College, and the results of the 1996 "A" level class are at the best results in the history of these examinations. These very good exam results confirm that my Government's decisions were right.

To conclude, a comparison of the 1991 Education Plan and the 1994 Strategic Plan will show that some of the 3 recommendations made by Mr. Porter, and the other consultants, with the exception of the ones detailed above and some others, were deemed to be valid. However, these and other recommendations which emerged from the 353 individuals who wrote the Strategic Plan are being introduced in a phased and structured manner over a five year period. This method of wide consultation of teachers and the larger community has ensured a five year Plan which is feasible, which has been realistically costed and which is now in its second year of implementation.

The Speaker: It is now past 11 o'clock. May I have a motion for the suspension of Standing Order to continue with questions?

The Member for North Side.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) & (8)

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I so move, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question is that Question Time be extended beyond the normal period of 11 o'clock in order that the remaining questions on the Order Paper be taken.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Order has accordingly been suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDERS 23(7) & (8) SUSPENDED.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Elected Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Speaker, would the Honourable Minister say what ill effects, if any, were caused by the removal of the reception classes, specifically regarding children needing to attend the Lighthouse School?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Madam Speaker, the effect was very serious, because children who could have been getting the pre-school education did not get it. What we attempted to begin with was to bring them in somewhat later, after five o'clock in the afternoon, which really was not much of a solution at the time.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. As a follow-up to the question asked by the Member for North Side, can the Honourable Minister say how many students of pre-school age, who required the service which was abolished at the Lighthouse School, were turned out, and whether the Government has plans to reinstate this service?

The Speaker: Honourable Member, that is not a part of the original question.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Which part, Madam Speaker?

The Speaker: The part where you asked about the number of students. That is not part of the original question.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Can the Honourable Minister say if there are plans to reinstate the reception class at the Lighthouse School?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Madam Speaker, we have already taken steps, teachers have already been added to the home-based programme (which is now well underway); that programme will deal with children from 18 months upward. This has already eased the impact of the removal of the reception class. In the new Lighthouse School which will be custom built, will have full facilities for dealing with pre-schoolers and will have a full unit for the home-based programme which caters to younger than pre-school age.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: Would the Honourable Minister confirm that the decision to allow the infant class to remain has proven very beneficial to the system?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: The wisdom of the residents of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman in rejecting the government's policy of abolishing pre-schools was the right decision. It has really benefited them and, in fact, their results in CXC (I know this is further on in age) were the best in the Caribbean for that year.

Based on the results of the good effects, we have now reintroduced it in North Side at the request and pushing of the lady Member for that district, and also in East End. We will be reintroducing these programmes in areas where we feel that the private pre-school do not sufficiently cover. I would also like to point out that the Honourable First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman was very instrumental in keeping and preserving the Cayman Brac pre-schools.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 175, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 175

No. 175: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning to provide details of the claims against Cayman Airways Limited in the United States with respect to passenger injury and breach of contract.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, the answer: Passenger Injury: On occasion Cayman Airways Limited (CAL) will receive reports of passenger injury, normally occurring in the airport facilities en route to CAL's check-in or flight. At present there are no known outstanding legal claims made against CAL in the United States of America with respect to passenger injury.

Breach of Contract: There are no known outstanding legal claims made against CAL in the United States of America with respect to breach of contract.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Would the Honourable Minister state whether there were any settlements made, since this question emanated from the Audited Report of Cayman Airways'?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The only breach of contract (and I will state this now) that I know of in the past was one in 1990 on two 737-400 lease contracts under which Cayman Airways had a liability of approximately $111.6 million. That went to court in the United Kingdom and the judgment awarded was against Cayman Airways. A settlement of $6.5 million arose during my time and we got out of the liability of $111.6 million by paying $6.5 million.

At the time there was also a breach of contract for a 737-400 which was a $56 million liability in the United States. The plane was (as far as I can remember) seized or at least grounded. That, too, resulted in a settlement which I negotiated. That was done, I would say, within three weeks with our coming forward to Government in late November, early December (the contracts for those three planes, as we know, were entered back in 1990 and 1991); that had to be done because there was breach of contracts prior to 1992 by not paying leases on two 737-300s which we ultimately kept flying for another two years. ILFC under that breach of contract had issued a notice that they were going to seize the two planes in December of 1992 unless the payments were made.

Other areas of breach of contract prior to 1992, were when fuel was not paid. In fact, very few creditors were paid by Cayman Airways because they owed some $36 million in liability. The settlement in the United Kingdom Court on the 737-400s: The last government had somewhat, I would say imprudently, entered into a further contract to take the 737-400s in 1994 for a further three years at $20-odd million. To be very frank, I was horrified on that issue and I negotiated to get Cayman Airways out of that breach of contract and I took the initiative to break the 1992 contract, because Cayman Airways was basically bankrupt.

As the Honourable Member knows, there were extensive breaches of contracts before 1992. Having said all of that, I am happy to say that we are now current in paying our debts (they are normally paid within 30 days) and the bank's overdraft facilities and loans are being reduced. I should also add that prior to 1992 we were in breach of contract with the bank because cheques were bouncing all over the place. Thank you.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 176, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The total number of work permits in effect in Cayman Brac and Little Cayman as of 11th September, 1996, is 247. Additionally, there are 42 on temporaries and 3 on six-month work permits.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Would the Honourable Member say why there is such a large number of work permits in the islands when there are known cases of unemployment within some of the categories shown in the list?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, in the case of one year permits these applications all come to the Immigration Board and would be dealt with in the same way as applications here in Grand Cayman. I can only assume that the Board is satisfied that there are no suitable applicants (locally) in Cayman Brac for the jobs.

In the case of the temporary work permits, these are handled in Grand Cayman by the Chief Immigration Officer and in Cayman Brac it is delegated to the District Commissioner with the Senior Immigration Officer involved.

QUESTION NO. 177

The Speaker: The next question is No. 177, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

No. 177: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works if Government has received any recent proposal from the Cayman Islands Angling Club regarding the development of public open space in the SafeHaven development.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Government has received a proposal from the Cayman Islands Angling Club. The land requested is part of Block 18A, Parcel 25, which is situated on the southern side of the canal at SafeHaven. The land (whilst cleared) has a split zoning of low density/residential storm belt. The club wishes to lease the land on a peppercorn rent in order to erect a club house and ancillary facilities.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Madam Speaker, can the Honourable Minister say if Government has received any other request from similar groups for the use of this property?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, it is my understanding that another such group has also sent in a request.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, can the Honourable Minister say if Government has taken any decision as to which group(s) will be successful in achieving a lease of this property?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, the answer is no.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Would the Honourable Minister say if the matter is still under consideration, and when we may expect a decision?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, the answer to the first part of the question is, yes, it is still under review. As to when a decision will be taken by Government, that I cannot answer.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, assuming that a decision is made to lease this property, what provision will be made to facilitate members of the public who may wish to use this area on subsequent occasions?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, all of this will have to be taken into consideration when the negotiations are taking place.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Thank you, Madam Speaker. Would the Honourable Minister tell us whether there was a Road Improvement/Maintenance policy in place for George Town when he took over the Ministry of Works?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I will have to say no, because it was the National Team Government that started preventative maintenance with the funds that were available to us; what we did with each Budget was to share the funds allocated in each district which included George Town.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Madam Speaker, would the Minister say what was the last major road improvement undertaken throughout the island?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Madam Speaker, I would say that the last major road works programme took place under the Unity Team Government which goes back to about 1984, thereafter very little road works was carried out anywhere in the islands.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for this morning. We now proceed to Government Business, Bills: Third Reading.

Government Minute on the Report of the Auditor General and the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for the year ended 31st December, 1995.

The Honourable Temporary Third Official Member.

GOVERNMENT MINUTE ON THE REPORT OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL AND THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1995

Mr. Joel A. Walton: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Government Minute on the Auditor General's Report for the year 1995.

The Speaker: So ordered.

The Honourable Temporary Third Official Member can now speak to the Minute.

Mr. Joel A. Walton: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Minute is divided into two parts and deals with two areas the Government considers important and possibly controversial, and it wishes to respond at this point rather than delaying it and responding at a later date.

The first area that I will speak to is the section of the Auditor General's Report for 1995 which deals with the Department of Tourism. This audit was recognised by the Auditor General as covering the first year of a new Director taking office. It therefore recognises that prior to this Director effecting any changes it was prudent to observe, review and fully understand the various components of the Department. It might therefore be appreciated that the Auditor General has noted that the Department has responded positively to the weaknesses identified during the course of the audit, as well as the notation that the Department has initiated a number of significant changes as part of the ongoing aspect of its development. The new Director has found the audit process productive and helpful.

Dealing specifically with section 2.16 of the Auditor General's Report: The Government private sector approach to marketing has been in effect for some time. During 1995, that activity was significantly increased and specifically included the Sister Islands. The year 1995 also highlighted the importance of improving the Department's marketing tools by the upgrade of the Rate and Facts brochure. These changes permitted listed properties and other related businesses to have photography of their respective businesses included. This was accomplished with the financial support from the businesses involved.

Section 2.18: This section reflects the significant quantity of funds which have been spent overseas over the past five years. Over the period in question, media and paper costs have increased annually up to as much as 20 per cent. The increases experienced over the five year period in essence allowed the Department to maintain its purchasing power in a highly competitive environment, and therefore was considered justifiable. This is an important point to be made as the Department of Tourism is primarily a marketing entity by its very nature, situated outside of these islands. Given the ever increasing competitive arena internationally in which we find ourselves, this pattern will remain constant. It is this singular fact identified by the report which makes this Department of Government different in many respects from all of the others, and which finds it operating in a hybrid, private/public sector mode.

Section 2.19: The components of advertising collateral and overseas operations are large line entries which contain within them many components. This is largely different from most public sector line items which are more unitary in scope. Recognising this, the Department of Tourism will provide in 1997, an Annual Report which will cover the 1996 period and which will give a more detailed understanding of the various activities of the Department. This report will be in a format which, if considered appropriate, could be laid on the Table of the Legislative Assembly.

The area of contracts was taken under review early in 1995. Where it was found that appropriate documentation did not exist within the Grand Cayman office these were put in place. Further, work in that respect followed with the Legal Department giving advice on the management of same. Recently, approval was granted for the creation of a post of Assistant Director of Finance whose job description indicates specific responsibility for the management of the Department's contracts register.

Presently, copies of all contracts are now with the Accountant and Auditor Generals' offices respectively.

The Department reviewed its current management information system and has subsequently designed in house various pieces of software to take account of critical information needed to run the Department. Where software could not be quickly introduced, a manual system was effected which would provide for a systematic management on programme/project costs as opposed to a line item basis.

Over the past several years, a number of pieces of proprietary research have been done, or research materials purchased, which have helped the Department to gain some indication of the effectiveness of its work. During 1995 the focus of the activity within the research area was towards establishing the necessary Cayman Islands fact base for the Department as well as collecting the relevant data which would allow it to conduct focus groups which are viewed as the most effective method by which to reliably measure the effectiveness of not only advertising campaigns, but of all marketing and promotions work done by the Department. This would naturally cover the area of advertising and would also cover the full spectrum of marketing activities carried out by the Department.

Work has been in progress for some time now towards developing objectives for the various markets. During the annual budget meetings of the Department, each Regional Manager and representational company are required to present a detailed marketing plan which outlines goals and objectives for the coming year. It is proposed that this activity will now be further supported by the completion of the focus groups slated to commence operation in early October 1996, as well as the development of the Positioning Statement for the Department which will be presented at the Annual Meeting of the Department in December 1996. These various activities will allow market-driven performance targets to be established for the various regional offices. These targets will be operational for 1997. While it is acknowledged that such targets were not operational at the time of the audit, it is to be acknowledged that given the high degree of success of the Cayman Islands tourism, both for these islands and also its standing within the region, the performance of the Department thus far has been exemplary. These new (and necessary) markets will support this most important pillar of our economy.

Section 2.20 Overall this section speaks to the lack of a number of controls in respect of the management of the services provided by the advertising agency in the United States. Indeed, the management of all accounts was reviewed and it was identified prior to this audit that the Department lacked a trained accountant to set up and manage the various financial systems necessary to operate the Department. Early action was taken to have such a post created. This post is currently in the process of being filled. Notwithstanding this action, a number of systems have been put in place with the advertising agency which will allow for closer monitoring of such activities.

Turning now to the matter of advance payments. The Government considers that in this area, given the nature of the advertising industry, it is necessary that these payments be allowed in order to facilitate the work of the Department. In light of this view, discussions are currently ongoing with the Financial Secretary to come to a resolution on this area.

In addition, weekly monitoring is in place for all projects for which advance payments are made. Equally, a commitments system has been effected to monitor all estimates approved for the agency and the draw down of all such funds. Independent of the audit, the Department initiated an inventory of all marketing assets overseas and is currently seeking out appropriate technology to archive such materials.

Section 2.21: This section covers a number of components within it. The overall costs include the production of a sales film which is reflected in the costs of editing (US$69,822), and music rights and production (US$47,800). All other funds referred to were in respect of concept development, production and management of the two film shoots which were required.

The rationale for the initial film shoot was based on the need to: (1) produce a new sales film for the US market; (2) to update and broaden the film resource base of the Department such that the production of commercials and other marketing and promotional resources would be readily available; and (3) to respond to the need to develop a local media programme.

During the development of these activities, work was simultaneously being carried out in other markets to ascertain costs to develop sales film materials for those markets. It became clear that production costs in Europe would be prohibitive to do development work in multiple sites. Hence, it was decided to do the second shoot to meet the requirements of all the Department's international markets.

The results are that, for the first time the Department of Tourism has a sales film specifically designed for each of its markets, that is, North America, the United Kingdom, Italy, Germany, Spain and Japan. Particularly, of note is the Japanese market which was never able to use the US sales film due to it being in English. Over all, to date we have six sales films in all our markets, four TV commercials produced for overseas use, three commercials produced for the local market, and two promotional videos.

The new film footage acquired, in addition to the existing materials, position the Department to be able to respond to a number of created opportunities very quickly. Film shoots are not annual activities, but are a critical aspect of the background work done to ensure that appropriate resources are in place to carry out the work of the Department in a very competitive tourism environment. Costs for such activities are significant, and are really just providing the Department the ability to be able to produce marketing resources as necessary. The current level of footage now owned by the Department would not normally require updating for another few years.

The final outcome of these shoots has positioned the Department in each of its markets to showcase these Islands more effectively than ever before.

Section 2.22: This section covers the Public Relations Agency in the United States. Presently the Department is awaiting final approval from the Central Tenders Committee with respect to the latest tender for such services.

Section 2.23: During the first quarter of 1995 a review was carried out by the Department of Tourism with the help of the Manager of Computer Services of all the components of information systems management of the overseas sections of the departments. One area reviewed was the CIRS (Cayman Islands Reservation System). Close examination of the Auditor General's Report will show that the Auditor General used the Department's report to offer comment in Section 2.28 of that report (that report being the Auditor General's Report).

This report identified a number of weaknesses in the existing system. It was agreed that many of the issues identified would be addressed with the development of a marketing strategy. Such a strategy would address the types of hardware and software necessary to allow the provision of high quality services. Efforts were quickly initiated to identify suitable technology for an appropriate upgrade to the existing arrangements with the current mainframe computer provider. These efforts covered a range of options, one of which was referred to in the audit report. The Department has now identified a suitable arrangement which will allow an upgrade to the system for under US$100,000. This outlay of funds, coupled with the introduction of a marketing plan for CIRS will allow it to better service all components of the industry, particularly providing support to smaller properties that are locally owned which are not able to participate in large corporate systems like name brand hotels can. A number of features will be realised by this upgrade to the system including the opportunity to increase hours of operation of CIRS, enhance fulfilment services to all customers and travel partners, as well as new opportunities to develop direct marketing for the Department. It is envisaged that such an upgrade will also provide a broader revenue base for CIRS.

In the review process all efforts will be made to ensure that the provision of this essential service to the local industry is provided in as efficient, and cost effective a manner as is possible.

Section 2.37: In conclusion, this section refers to the management of overseas calls. The Auditor General did not accept the paper records of the Department on which is recorded personal calls made as appropriate. The Department is now testing a piece of software which will manage the record keeping of overseas calls and allow the timely collection revenue associated with personal calls. All outstanding calls noted by the Auditor General are being investigated and, where necessary, reimbursement will be made by the appropriate member(s) of staff.

Part IV - The Water Authority Spotts to Pease Bay Water Distribution Project: The Government wishes to preface this part of the Minute, first by advising that the Auditor General's Report is not critical of how the Water Authority is currently carrying out its business. The projects detailed in this report were constructed between the years 1987 and 1994, but were authorised in the years 1987 through 1992, prior to a major change in management at the Authority in 1994. The Government is pleased to advise that all of the policies which the Auditor General has criticised have been abandoned since 1993.

After carefully reviewing the contents of the Auditor General's report, the Government holds the view that it is quite clear that this report is critical of how the Authority negotiated contract extensions for materials procurement and construction of civil engineering works during the years 1987 through 1991. It was during these years that key policy decisions were made to extend contracts significantly beyond the scope of the original project without going to public tender.

Madam Speaker, policies detailed in the Auditor General's report were not developed purely out of carelessness and financial imprudence. The present Chairman, who is a long time member of the Water Authority Board, holds the view that the Water Authority was severely hampered during the period 1992 to 1996 by a lack of long-term financial commitment and planning which directly affected how the Authority dealt with contract extensions.

Throughout the water supply project, the Authority was forced to react to the pressures from the public to continue pipeline extensions without the support of a long-term Government financial commitment. A case in point is the Spotts to Pease Bay extension which was actually authorised by Government and constructed in three phases. That is, it was authorised to be constructed in three phases. Even if this project had been publicly tendered, one would expect that pricing would have been more competitive for one large extension instead of three separate phases.

It is extremely important in a rapidly developing country like the Cayman Islands that proper attention be given to long-term planning in order to meet the present and future expectations of the public. Anticipating and planning for growth allows a country to construct more extensive and cost effective projects which will fulfil the needs of future populations. Larger projects allow better funding terms, and almost always attract more competitive pricing by contractors. In the case of the public water supply project, the Government is of the view that it should have been recognised early that a reliable water supply and sewage treatment system is fundamental to the development of this country and should have made a long-term commitment to provide this service. This certainly would have allowed the Water Authority to explore other avenues to meet the demands of the public for water, while minimising costs.

Under the guidance of the present Board, the Water Authority has now prepared a long term development plan...

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: On a point of Order, Madam Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, I am attempting to follow what the Temporary Third Official Member is reading in the Government Minute. I have observed that certain sentences or phrases do not occur in the copy that I have. Is there a reason for this, Madam Speaker? For example, the statement in the paragraph where it says: "the last Government should have recognised..." and the paragraph just read "under the guidance of the present Board..." It says: "under the present Government..." in my copy. Is there a reason for the deviation in these phrases or terms?

The Speaker: I will have to ask the Honourable Temporary Third Official Member to explain.

Mr. Joel A. Walton: Madam Speaker, in some cases for the ease of reading I am actually making some mental notes - I have also made some written notes. The reason is that the initial draft of the Minute was not written in the context of the Government Minute. So I was attempting to do that whilst on my feet. I do apologise for the differences. I hope I have not changed the meaning of it; it is a matter of trying to style on my feet in the format of the Government Minute.

The Speaker: I appreciate the difficulty under which you are going. Would you please continue?

Mr. Joel A. Walton: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Under the guidance of the present Board (and the Member did mention Government), the Water Authority has prepared a long-term development plan and this plan has received my full support. In fact, one need only to review the Authority's 1995 Annual Report to see that the Water Authority now has both the expertise and financial resources to meet the goals of this plan.

Regarding the Auditor General's Comments on the material supply contract, the Government considers it unfortunate that the previous management did not see fit to refer this matter to the Water Authority Board. It appears that although the Board was consulted several times regarding extension of the civil engineering contract, the Board was never asked to formally endorse the extension of the materials contract, which represented a major cost in the water supply project. The Government holds the view that had the Board been aware that the Authority was not seeking competitive prices for its materials, steps would have been taken to rectify this after the Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) procurement restrictions were no longer a concern.

There is a point of explanation here: The earlier phases of the project had been under Caribbean Development Bank financing, and, as such, the procurement methods of the bank had prevailed. So this is referring to after those restrictions no longer prevailed.

The Government is pleased to note that the present management is intent on getting the best possible value for the public's money and diligently follows Government's Financial Regulations with respect to tendering for materials and services. Local suppliers, as well as overseas suppliers are now asked to tender for the supply of PVC pipes, such as those used on the current Breakers extension, and the Authority has been able to reduce pipe costs by almost 40 per cent. In addition, the Authority no longer does business with Propax Industrial Exports as agreed between the present Minister and the Water Authority.

Also of concern to the Auditor General were alterations to the civil engineering construction contract entered into prior to 1993, which authorised the contractor to proceed on various project extensions over a seven year period. These extensions, and the way in which the original contract was altered to accommodate these significant increases in project scope, were a result of the way that the projects were authorised. Although the public demanded that the piped water continue into the new areas, the Government is of the view that the last Government was always reluctant to authorise funding for these extensions until the last minute. In fact, the report points out that the South Sound water supply extension was actually funded by property owners in the area, which further indicates the lack of financial support which was provided.

Madam Speaker, throughout its business relationship with Petroservicios, the Government holds the view that the Water Authority Board acted in the best interest of the public using the information which was provided by the former Member, former Chairman and former Managing Director. The Board always believed that the rate increases which were granted to the contractor each year were in keeping with the contract, and several references are made to the relevant clauses of the contract in the Water Authority's Annual Reports. Board decisions were based on information given by the former Member, former Chairman and former Managing Director, which indicated that the prices paid to Petroservicios could not be bettered, and that completion of these extensions would be significantly delayed by re-tendering.

The Government wishes it to be noted that the present Chairman and Minister voted against extending the water supply through Bodden Town without going to public tender, as a member of the Water Authority Board in 1991.

Since completion of the Spotts to Pease Bay project in early 1995, under the 1987 to 1991 contract, the Authority has embarked on a new direction with respect to construction of pipe line extensions.

The Authority presently employs nine local staff in its project department to design and construct civil works. The Authority has also purchased equipment which will enable it to complete a public water supply system throughout the country. All new projects are being designed and constructed using local resources without the necessity to enter into contracts such as those used during the Spotts to Pease Bay project. In addition, the Authority is able to construct these projects at a much lower cost than contracting out the work.

The Government considers that the people of the Cayman Islands should feel assured that now their dollar is being well spent by the Water Authority. Present practices related to materials and services procurement no longer follow policies of the past which have been criticised in the Auditor General's Report. The Report should, however, be viewed as an example of why proper long term planning is necessary for cost effective and timely implementation of public projects. The Government is well aware that along with rapid development and economic prosperity comes the responsibility for properly planning expansion of the country's infrastructure.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Thank you Honourable Member.

COMMITTEE'S FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS:

The following is a summary of the Committee's findings and recommendations:

1) Financial Performance in 1995

Excluding a loan refinancing transaction of $4.678 million undertaken on behalf of the Water Authority, the purpose of which was to avoid losses arising from fluctuating foreign exchange rates, total Government expenditure for 1995 (recurrent, capital and statutory) was almost $800,000 less than the original estimate presented to this Honourable House in November 1994. The Committee considers that this reflects Government's careful stewardship and the endeavours of the Honourable Financial Secretary and his department to manage prudently our financial resources. This is a very satisfactory outcome, especially in light of the Cuban refugee crisis, which had a considerable, and unexpected, impact on public finances in 1995. (Madam Speaker, I might add that the cost associated with the Cuban crisis was in the region of $5 million.)

Excluding the Water Authority's loan refinancing transaction, recurrent revenue was $2,144,857 less than the approved estimate. The Committee noted that the revenue shortfall could be attributed to one or two key transactions which could not be foreseen at the time the budget was presented. The Committee has consistently advocated that Government must improve the efficiency and effectiveness of its revenue collection. It is evident that the recent initiative to establish a Debt Collection Unit is achieving some positive results in various areas. Up to 17 September 1996 some 446 debts totalling $983,672 have been referred to the Unit and an amount of $117,284 has been collected. Government's decision to create an effective Debt Collection Unit is having positive effects elsewhere. For example, the accumulation of arrears of medical fees is slowing down. The Health Services Department is currently collecting approximately $100,000 per month more than in previous months.

However the Committee recognises that there is a massive backlog of revenue arrears stretching back for many years and does not underestimate the scale of the task ahead. For example, 2,500 local medical bills totalling $2.1 million were recently referred to the Debt Collection Unit.

According to the Auditor General's report, public debt service costs continue at moderate levels in comparison with regional and international standards. Programmed debt service costs for 1995 amounted to 6.3% of recurrent revenue. Total public debt actually fell by $9.6 million in 1995. Of this amount, $4.678 million was attributable to the refinancing of Water Authority loans with the Caribbean Development Bank. For record purposes the Committee wishes to report that total new debt assumed between 1993 and 1995, including self financing loans for statutory authorities, was $29.984 million. This includes the $16.667 million Cayman Airways refinancing loan, drawn down in 1993 to clear the airline's debts, and $6 million for the Dr Hortor Memorial Hospital and the Faith Hospital projects. The Committee is very pleased to report that $6,552,383 of these two loans has been repaid as at 31 December 1995.

Audit Opinion

The Committee took evidence from the Deputy Financial Secretary, the Accountant General and the Auditor General.

(a) Overseas Medical

The Committee notes that the Auditor General disagrees with the accounting policy for overseas medical advances and, as a result, has qualified his opinion on the 1995 accounts. This difficult issue has existed for a good many years. The previous Committee last examined the situation in 1991. That Committee's recommendations were accepted by Government, who agreed that expenses initially charged to advance accounts should be reviewed at least annually, with a view to transferring completed cases to a loan basis and thus recognising the advances as recurrent expenditure. It was also noted that an amount of $6.3 million was charged to expenditure in 1992 but no further advances have been expensed since that date. At 31 December 1995 total advances for overseas medical treatment stood at $7,721,834. It is the Committee's considered opinion that part of these will have to be written off as irrecoverable, with most of the balance transferred to long term loans. The Committee strongly recommends that every effort is made to collect outstanding advances. The Committee agrees with the Auditor General that the practical effect of the present accounting policy is to defer recognition of expenditure to future periods. [The Committee understands] that this accounting issue will be addressed during the upcoming review of the Public Finance and Audit Law and, accordingly, does not find it necessary to make any specific recommendation at this time.

The Committee also asked representatives of the Ministry of Health, Drug Abuse Prevention and Rehabilitation and the Health Services Department to comment on the accounting policy issues. The officials stated that the accounting issue was not a matter for either the Ministry or the department but for the Portfolio of Finance and Development. The Committee was also made aware that repayment of these advances is problematic to say the least. Few if any of the current overseas medical advances have yet been referred to the Debt Collection Unit, so it is not possible to assess the probability of recovery at this stage. In reality much of the accumulated advances must be considered doubtful. The Committee hopes that the scale of advances for future overseas medical treatment will be reduced considerably with the proposed Health Insurance Law.

The Committee wishes to emphasise two points. Firstly, the Committee fully support successive Governments' provision of overseas medical treatment. No citizen should ever be denied medical treatment because of his or her inability to pay. Secondly, the Committee does not advocate write off on a grand scale. Suitable repayment plans should be put in place for those persons able to pay for overseas medical expenses. After careful consideration the Committee recommends that:

- i. An annual provision should be included in the budget to cover overseas medical expenses for non entitled persons.
- ii. Expenditure accumulated in advance accounts should be expensed in the Receipts and Payments Account as soon as possible.
- iii. All necessary steps should be taken by the Health Services Department to recover overseas medical advances from those able to pay.

(b) Land Purchases

The Committee also questioned the Director of Lands and Survey regarding pre payments for three land purchases. The cheques for these transactions were drawn in 1995 but the expenditure was not recognised until the 1996 year of account. The Auditor General disagrees with the accounting treatment. The Committee was informed that the transactions in question had been authorised by Executive Council and that funding had been approved by Finance Committee. Apparently there have been difficulties in obtaining same day cheques for settlement with land vendors. The matter was further complicated as a result of the early end-of-year cut off for payments on 5th December. In order to avoid being placed in a position where the department could not settle transactions with purchasers, cheques were requested in advance of settlement. The Committee does not appreciate the justification for such an early cut-off date since the Treasury's financial records are now computerised. The Committee recommends that this cut-off date should be extended.

The Committee understands that this is a unique set of circumstances which could not have been anticipated and which are unlikely to recur. The Committee does not find it necessary to make any specific recommendation in this particular case, as arrangements have now been put in place for "same day" cheques to be provided by the Treasury. This should avoid a repeat of the problem.

(3) Advance Payments - Deposit for Furniture

On a related issue, the Committee was disturbed to see the misuse of advance payments, whereby a department paid $100,000 as a deposit for furniture. There appears to be no justification for this transaction, which seems to be a clear violation of Financial and Stores Regulations. The Committee recommends that the Financial Secretary again reminds all Controlling Officers about the rules for advance payments and competitive tendering. Advances should be kept to a minimum and must be properly justified by a responsible officer.

(4) Overseas Medical Expenses

Recovery of overseas medical expenses paid on behalf of patients is an important area of public finances, involving some $7.721 million of recoverable advances and a further $ 6.513 million of recoverable interest free loans. It was evident to the Committee that insufficient attention has been paid to securing Government's financial interests and ensuring effective debt recovery. For example, only 1.4% of total overseas medical loans was collected in 1995, and only 5.7% since 1993. Based on these performance statistics it would appear that many of these debts are irrecoverable, though none have been referred to the Debt Collection Unit. The Committee reiterates its earlier recommendation that all necessary steps must be taken to recover medical advances from those able to pay.

The Committee was disappointed that clear lines of responsibility had not been established, to the extent that it was uncertain which department was responsible for receivable management and debt collection. Invoices and statements have not been issued to patients on a regular basis and only minimal attempts have been made to pursue recovery of debts owed to Government. Members of the Committee cited instances where patients held medical insurance, but the Health Services Department had taken 2-3 years to submit claims to insurers. Such claims are, of course, now time barred and clearly it would be unreasonable to expect patients to assume financial liability in these circumstances. One positive decision emerging from discussions was that the Health Services Department will assume responsibility for recovery of loans and advances with immediate effect. The Committee was told that monthly invoices and statements are being issued to patients with effect from August 1996. Patients with delinquent accounts will be sent automatic reminder letters and defaulters will be referred to the Debt Collection Unit. The Committee recommends that this section be provided with the appropriate level of manpower to implement effective debt recovery as a matter of priority. The size of the task facing the Debt Collection Unit, especially the backlog of cases, should not be underestimated.

The Committee notes that financial assessments carried out by a Medical Social Worker (MSW) are never verified. The department considers that this individual is mis-employed. The Committee recommends that the department prepare a comprehensive job description and provide proper training to the individual responsible for financial assessments so that realistic payment plans are established with patients.

On a related matter, the Committee was made aware that civil servants receiving overseas medical treatment are required to pay the difference between local and overseas room rates. Although this is a policy issue, the Committee respectfully suggests that this rule could be reviewed in light of the proposed health insurance legislation.

(5) Immigration Security Deposits

Immigration deposits of $1 million were transferred to General Revenue during 1995 under the provisions of section 23(4) of the Public Finance and Audit Law, 1985. This allows deposits unclaimed for five years to be treated as moneys received for the purposes of Government. The Committee notes that this arrangement is a continuation of a long established practice. The Auditor General has expressed some reservations about this transaction because deposits may have been appropriated before employees have departed the Islands. In his opinion, Government should wait for five years after an employee has left the Islands before considering appropriation of any immigration deposit. There are two related issues which should be addressed, one legal and the other accounting. It appears to the Committee that the legislation may have been interpreted too liberally in the past. It is therefore imperative that substantive legal advice is obtained to determine when the five year waiting period should commence. From an accounting point of view, the Committee acknowledges that transfer of deposits to general revenue has the effect of reducing liabilities in the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The Committee wishes to emphasise that this is only an accounting and legal issue. Government has given an undertaking that all legitimate requests for deposit refunds will continue to be met in full.

Immigration Department collects and authorises refunds of immigration security deposits. Financial management of the immigration deposit account is the responsibility of Treasury. Immigration Department has a database of the number of work permit holders and their dependants but the dollar value of the deposits collected is not recorded therein. Treasury and Immigration records have never been reconciled. The Committee accepts that Treasury has allocated significant resources to this reconciliation, which is expected to be completed by September 1996. Once this is accomplished it is intended that Immigration will have complete management of the deposits. The Committee is pleased to note that any deficiency identified by the reconciliation process will be made good by Government. The Committee recommends that:

- a) Since Government has an ethical and moral responsibility to return immigration deposits, any future appropriations should be supported by a schedule of employees who have left the Islands, together with positive confirmation that all efforts to refund the deposit have been exhausted.
- b) Government addresses the accounting policy issue as part of the upcoming review of the Public Finance and Audit Law.
- c) Reconciliation of the deposit account be completed as soon as possible.
- d) Responsibility for the financial management of the deposit account should be transferred from Treasury to Immigration.
- e) Immigration deposits should be kept in a separate bank account and should not be mixed with Government's funds. The Statement of Assets and Liabilities should also disclose the restrictions on the use of these funds.

(6) Arrears of Revenue

Under the cash basis of accounting, revenue is only recognised when it is received. Receivables are not reflected in the present accounting system or financial statements. Unpaid fees should be monitored by Controlling Officers. Financial and Stores Regulations require Controlling Officers to provide details of arrears of revenue annually to the Accountant General for inclusion in the annual accounts.

The Committee noted that arrears of revenue increased by $5,865,163 from $12,494,145 in 1994 to $18,359,308 in 1995. In response to the problem of increasing revenue arrears, Government established a Debt Collection Unit in March 1996. The Committee is pleased with the positive action taken by the Debt Collection Unit and wishes them further success in their endeavours to collect debts, which will improve the financial position and ensure that funds are available for future government programmes and services.

One of the larger increases in revenue arrears is company fees which increased by $1,789,395 in 1995 ($4,084,354 at year end 1995). The Committee was told that over $1 million of the arrears had been collected since 1st January. The majority of outstanding fees are for foreign and exempt companies, which, it was noted, are managed locally. Management companies do not advance fees on behalf of their clients. As a result Government is made to wait for revenue, often whilst companies continue to operate. Delinquent companies may be permitted as long as two years to settle their debts before they are struck from the Register. Non-payment of company fees results in the assets of the company being vested in the Financial Secretary. No penalty for late payment is imposed. The Committee feels that the grace period given for payment of company fees is excessive and recommends that this is reviewed with the intention of reducing this time span. The Committee also considers that local management companies should be made responsible for the payment of annual company fees on behalf of their clients to ensure that fees are paid promptly.

The 1994 and 1995 accounts of the Civil Aviation Authority were still outstanding when the Committee took evidence on the arrears of revenue owed by the Authority to Government. At year end 1995 Government recorded arrears of $1,717,590 for contributions due in 1994 and 1995. The Authority disputes this and claims that it is owed funds by Government. Subsequent to the evidence session, the Committee was informed that agreement in principle has been reached and that the Authority's 1994 accounts should be finalised for presentation at the September 1996 meeting of the Legislative Assembly.

The Committee notes that the legislation for the Civil Aviation, Port and Water Authorities all contain provisions that any balance of account in excess of $100,000 should be transferred to General Revenue each year. The Committee is aware that this legislation has been ignored for a number of years and statutory authorities have been permitted to build up large cash balances. Added to this, there are never-ending discussions on the financial arrangements between Government and its authorities, and there are regular disputes about contributions to general revenue. All authorities generate significant operating profits and all have substantial cash reserves. Equally, all have been vested with assets repayable to Government. As a matter of good governance, financial arrangements between Government and its statutory authorities need to be placed on a clear footing, which must be respected by all parties.

The Committee recommends that:

- a) The subject of contributions from statutory authorities should be addressed as part of the review of the Public Finance and Audit Law.
- b) The legislation governing the financial operation of statutory authorities should also be reviewed.

(7) Tourist Accommodation Tax

Included in the Statement of Arrears of Revenue as at 31 December 1995 is $1,013,785 in respect of estimated amounts owed for tourist accommodation tax by 30 properties. Two companies are responsible for $917,111 or 90% of these arrears. The Auditor General believes that there is no prospect of recovering the debt ($586,726) owed by the former proprietors of Ramada Treasure Island Resort and that the amount should now be written off. The Committee concurs with this statement and recommends that Government take the necessary write-off action during the current financial year.

The second case involves a local management company, Hospitality World Ltd (HWL), which owes $330,385 over a nine year period, including $68,863 of surcharges. The Committee established that $204,008 of these arrears relate to the period 1987 to 1990. The balance of $126,377 is for accommodation tax collected by HWL between 1992 and 1995. It was noted that extensive efforts have been made by the Treasury and Legal Departments to recover this debt.

The Committee learned that HWL transferred its business interests to another company, Cayman Condo Holidays Ltd (CCHL), which was formed in December 1994. In early 1996, HWL's legal advisors submitted a plan to clear the company's accumulated liabilities by regular monthly payments from CCHL. This plan was never activated because the companies' bankers indicated that they were not prepared to proceed with the repayment plan. In the absence of an acceptable payment plan for tax arrears, the Committee was disappointed to note that the company's operations have not been restricted in any way, for example through withholding of licences. According to recent press reports both HWL and CCHL ceased trading in early September. The Committee is disturbed that collection of tax arrears has been allowed to drag on for so long and that the owners have managed to renege on their financial obligations. The Committee considers this to be tantamount to fraudulent trading.

One of the main problems is that government taxes are not segregated from a company's general funds. The Committee considers that government taxes should be preferred in a liquidation. Following this Committee's report in 1993, Government agreed to initiate a study of the law during 1994. The Committee is not aware whether this study was ever carried out.

The Committee recommends that:

- a) Government should undertake a thorough review of relevant legislation to determine the best way to close the apparent loopholes in the collection of tourist accommodation tax.
- b) Consideration should be given to making non payment of tourist accommodation tax a criminal offence. In addition, Government should consider introducing legislation to address payment of government taxes collected and deposited with banks. One suggestion might be to require that government taxes are deposited in a separate bank account.
- c) Licensing departments should be instructed to disallow business and other licences for non-payment of government taxes.
- d) Government pursues recovery of tourist accommodation tax arrears owed by HWL and CCHL with the utmost vigour, including the possibility of action against individual directors.

(8) Cayman Islands Marine Institute (CIMI)

In 1994 Government entered into a five year contract with Associated Marine Institute (AMI) to provide juvenile rehabilitation services locally. The Cayman Islands Marine Institute (CIMI) was established to carry out these operations. This is the first attempt by Government to establish a structured, well-defined youth rehabilitation programme.

The scheme places emphasis on the behavioural attitudes of the students, as well as academic achievements and aims to enhance the self-esteem and capability of young people to be productive citizens in our society. The programme provides six residential and 25 day places. To date five students have graduated from the programme.

A student's involvement with the programme does not terminate upon graduation. Intensive follow-up work is done with students and parents after graduation - a service which would not be possible if the child was sent overseas.

The Committee was delighted to note that the number of juvenile convictions has fallen significantly since the inception of this programme, from 335 in 1992 to 115 in 1995. Although other factors may be involved, the Committee is certain that the reduction in juvenile crime is attributable, at least in part, to CIMI programme.

The programme has operated at or above 90% capacity since May 1995 and above full capacity since January 1996. Additional students are cared for at no additional cost to Government. Programme costs for the first two years of operation were approximately $1.9m, including start-up costs for salaries and equipment. Operating costs should be viewed in the perspective that quality care is expensive. For example, the Committee was told that the Government spends an average of $100,000 per year per student sent to overseas rehabilitation facilities.

The Committee wishes to record its appreciation to the present administration for having the foresight to address the needs of our troubled juveniles and for establishing this much needed facility.

The programme has experienced some teething problems, which have been commented upon by the Auditor General. The Committee shared the concerns of witnesses about the difficulties in providing for the academic needs of students.

In considering the educational component of this programme, it is important to view CIMI students as young people with a whole range of rehabilitative needs. It was initially expected that 40% of CIMI students would be re-integrated into the school system. This target has not been achieved because schools have practical difficulties in accepting CIMI graduates back into the school system. Two factors contribute to this situation:-

- 1) CIMI does not provide an educational programme with the present school system.
- 2) Many CIMI students are not able to cope with either the CXC or IGCSE syllabus. Children at CIMI are often students who are truant, badly behaved, and who have missed a lot of schooling, and are usually at the lower end of the academic stream.

The Committee acknowledges that there are difficulties integrating CIMI students back into the school system. The Committee supports the initiatives of CIMI management, Social Services Department and the Education Department to develop a curriculum, which would result in a local diploma being awarded to successful graduates. It is expected that this programme could be introduced to other Social Services programmes, for example the Young Parents Programme. The Committee recommends that the programme be staffed with suitable trained personnel to ensure that the educational component is delivered effectively.

The Committee's evidence on the financial and contractual issues raised by the Auditor General was supplemented with a written submission from AMI. The Committee acknowledges that AMI has complied with all contractual requirements and have delivered the programme contracted for.

Several of the financial issues raised have been satisfactorily resolved. Concerning the recurrent funds paid in 1996 for the operating costs of the new girls residential unit, AMI has confirmed to us that an amount of $73,899 will be used for the construction of the new girls' residential facility. AMI has also agreed to initiate discussion with their bankers in order to eliminate the recurring foreign exchange losses of $13,000 per annum.

The Auditor General also reported that CIMI has accumulated substantial cash balances ($200,186 held at 31 December 1995). About half of this relates to savings arising from the staffing shortages identified by the Auditor General. AMI has confirmed that only 66.3% of budgeted manpower was actually supplied, resulting in a saving of $105,269. The underspend on manpower was less than that reported by the Auditor General. AMI reports that CIMI's present cash balances are $152,000.

There are two related issues, working capital reserve and depreciation, which need to be considered in consultation with the Portfolio of Finance and Development.

The Committee recommends that CIMI, AMI and the sponsor department (Social Services) should agree an adequate working capital reserve for the CIMI programme. The AMI standard on other programmes is three months, though this appears somewhat high considering that Government funds AMI on a monthly basis. Secondly, the Committee recommends that all parties should agree on whether or not depreciation should be funded. Other Cayman Islands Government programmes operate on a cash basis which require legislative approval for capital equipment and development projects. CIMI has confirmed to the Committee that it intends to use $50,000 of the accumulated cash surplus to replace two vehicles. To avoid further accumulation of excess funds and to ensure that the Government continues to receive good value for money, the Committee further recommends that, at a minimum, annual financial statements are provided to Social Services Department, which should implement suitable controls to monitor annual budget allocations and expenditure by CIMI.

The Speaker: At this time we will take the suspension.

Before I do that, I need to inform you that the Select Committee to Review the Fundamental Rights (Clause) of the Constitution, proposes to meet at one o'clock in the Committee Room.

Therefore the House would have, under Standing Order 78, to give its approval for its sitting. I now ask that the House agree to the Committee sitting at one o'clock. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Committee will accordingly sit at one o'clock.

AGREED: THE COMMITTEE WILL MEET TO CONSIDER THE FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS CLAUSE OF THE CONSTITUTION.

The Speaker: Proceedings are now suspended until 2.30 p.m.

PROCEEDINGS SUSPENDED AT 12.47 PM

PROCEEDINGS RESUMED AT 2.44 PM

The Speaker: Please be seated.

The Third Elected Member for West Bay continuing.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I would now like to deal with the heading "Fuel and Stocks" in the Public Accounts Committee Report:

(9) Fuel Sales and Stocks

The Committee notes that the purchase and issue of fuels by Government is administered through an advance account and the transfer voucher (TV) mechanism. Public Works Department (PWD) has the prime responsibility for this subject area. The advance account balance at year end should represent the value of the physical quantity of fuel held. At 31 December 1995 the advance account balance was $98,513. The Auditor General estimates the value of fuel stocks as $7,475. There are several reasons for this variance. Firstly, PWD does not always bill departments promptly. Secondly, several departments fail to return TVs promptly to Treasury. Thirdly, delays occur in Treasury's processing of the TVs.

Fourthly, evaporation of fuel has occurred over many years as fuel tanks are above ground. The Committee was told that outstanding advances for 1995 had been reduced to $18,338. However the balance on the account has remained at over $100,000 for most of 1996. It is apparent that delays in settling and processing fuel purchase transactions are continuing.

The Committee is aware that a new fuel facility is being constructed. Government has negotiated a new 15 year supply contract with Texaco for fuel to be supplied at dealer net prices. This will save Government an estimated $150,000 per annum. The Committee regards these cost saving efforts as praiseworthy. However, the Committee was disappointed that legal protraction delayed finalisation of the contract by almost a year. Government has obviously suffered additional costs during this period. The Committee was very disappointed that Texaco has not found it possible to allow a retrospective price rebate for the period during which the contract was being finalised.

The Committee recommends that :

- a) PWD must ensure billings are issued at the end of each month. Fuel supplies should be withheld from departments which fail to settle accounts promptly.
- b) All departments should ensure that fuel and vehicles are used only for official purposes.
- c) Government renews its efforts to seek a retrospective price rebate from Texaco.

(10) Department of Tourism

The Committee was encouraged with the positive progress achieved by the present Director of Tourism to implement better financial controls and is satisfied that the Department is moving in the right direction. Adequate and appropriately trained staff are required to ensure that the Department receives the goods and services contracted and paid for. From the evidence provided by the Auditor General and the Director of Tourism, the Committee was generally satisfied that transactions with the department's North American advertising agency are in order and that the agency has fully discharged its obligations to the Cayman Islands Government. Although the Department of Tourism operates closely with the private sector, it is important that the department continues to adhere to the highest public standards. Competitive tendering should be followed whenever relevant and practical, though we do appreciate that this will not be appropriate for procurement of advertising media.

The Committee recommends that the Department should develop procedures to test the effectiveness of magazine and television advertising.

The Committee notes that about $2.5 million has been spent on the Cayman Islands Reservation Service in the last 10 years. At present the service is only recovering 20% of its costs. The Committee is aware of recent technological and business changes. Cayman Airways now provides an inclusive tours reservation service, which represents many of the properties served by CIRS. Use of the Internet to advertise vacation properties is becoming commonplace. It appears to the Committee that these two factors could affect the volume of business generated by CIRS, making it even less viable. However the Department of Tourism is of the opinion that the service can be provided at, or near, break-even through better marketing and through the provision of better services to both client properties and visitors.

The Committee recommends that:

- a) The economics of this service should be thoroughly appraised before any further capital commitments are undertaken by the Department.
- b) Central to any review must be examination of the long standing commission structure, which charges properties only 3% of confirmed bookings. This seems to be far too low and is essentially an unjustified subsidy to the hospitality industry.
- c) The review should also consider whether the existing reservation service can be provided by Cayman Airways or another private sector entity, such as the Hotel and Condo Association.

If the service is to continue, it is clear to the Committee that action is required to reduce computer costs considerably. The Committee was surprised that the Department had allowed the present unsatisfactory and costly service to continue for so long without intervention.

(11) Telephone Costs

The Committee notes that Government's telephone costs have increased by 40% between 1991 and 1995. A larger civil service and the introduction of new services such as faxes, cellular phones and access to the Internet explain some but not all of the cost increases. The Committee is concerned by unjustified use of cellular phones in instances when traditional telephones are readily available. The Committee's main concerns are twofold: civil servants may have abused telephone facilities for personal use and Controlling Officers may not have monitored telephone expenditures vigilantly. Most of Government's telephone cost is managed by the Portfolio of Finance and Development. The Committee understands the Portfolio's current workload and staff complement prevents the degree of attention which should otherwise be placed on this area.

Most departments have international direct dial facilities and there appear to be few restrictions placed on access to these facilities. Based on the Auditor General's report, the Committee considers that there may have been some abuse of personal telephone privileges. Many unidentified overseas calls have been made, making it impossible to determine whether such calls were made for official or private purposes. The Committee acknowledges that some departments (for example, the Department of Tourism) have made efforts to rectify this weakness. The Committee was told of two further developments.

Firstly, consideration is being given to transferring responsibility for telephone expenditure away from the Portfolio to individual Controlling Officers. Provided adequate instructions are issued on the recording and monitoring of international direct dial facilities, Controlling Officers will be made accountable for the management of costs and this should have the desired effect of reducing expenditure.

Secondly, private calls are deducted from salary when departments identify private overseas calls. The Committee is satisfied with the new procedures introduced by the Financial Secretary for recovery of overseas calls from civil servants.

The Committee was disappointed to learn that Government had not sought a reimbursement from Cable and Wireless, in respect of unconnected "one minute calls", since March 1993. The Committee understands that the Financial Secretary has issued instructions that claims for unconnected international calls be made on a monthly basis.

The Committee recommends that:

- a) Individual expenditure telephone votes should be introduced for departments in the annual Budget presentation. Control over the management of telephone costs should be devolved to individual Controlling Officers. The Portfolio of Finance and Development must ensure that Controlling Officers are briefed and instructed to the effect that they will be held accountable for the management of costs.
- b) Controlling Officers should ensure that all international calls are identified as either official or private and that appropriate records are maintained for inspection.
- c) In light of the existing Government communications network, the use of cellular phones should be restricted. Access to the Internet should be restricted to essential users and closely controlled.

(12) Advertising and Promotion of Financial Services

Government spent over $1.8 million between January 1994 and June 1996 on advertising the Islands' financial services and shipping registration. The Committee applauds Government for its efforts to maintain the Islands' pre-eminence as an offshore financial centre, especially in light of increased competition from other jurisdictions.

During 1995 two initiatives were implemented which involved cost sharing between Government and the private sector: the production of a high quality financial services handbook and business conferences held in New York, London, and Hong Kong. The Committee is pleased to note Government's cost sharing initiatives with the private sector.

Whilst the Committee is supportive of efforts to maintain the Islands' competitive edge, it is nonetheless concerned that such efforts be cost effective. The Committee recommends that Government develops methods to assess the effectiveness of advertising and promotional expenditure on financial services.

The Committee notes that the 1996 advertising budget for the Portfolio of Finance and Development is $1,004,000, including a virement of $250,000. Expenditure charged to this subhead as at 19th September 1996 was $992,560. On questioning the Deputy Financial Secretary and a representative from Personnel Department, the Committee learned that the former Co-ordinator of Marketing and Promotions in the Portfolio of Finance and Development had committed Government to expenditures of approximately £600,000, mainly for magazine advertisements for our financial services industry. These commitments were placed contrary to specific instructions from senior officers. The Committee was informed that Government has taken disciplinary action against this officer and has dismissed him from the service with loss of all benefits.

The Committee further recommends that the Auditor General's office should examine the circumstances of these unauthorised expenditures.

(13) Water Authority -The Spotts - Pease Bay Water Distribution Project

The Committee's evidence from the Director and new works engineer of the Water Authority was supplemented with the report of an independent civil engineering consultant. The Committee's concerns relate to two main areas: the procurement of water pipes and other materials and the civil engineering contract.

(a) Materials Procurement

The Committee's findings are as follows:

- i. The Auditor General was unable to locate any pre-qualification documentation for the successful bidder, Propax Industrial Exports Ltd. This is a crucial area as the company has only £100 paid up share capital and is reported to have been dormant since its creation in 1985. The Committee notes that the Authority was advised of Propax's lack of capital and its questionable trading status before the contract was awarded.
- ii. Propax was the highest of three bidders for the original materials contract in 1987. The tender evaluation appeared to eliminate the two lower bidders because they could not guarantee delivery within 110 days. No one has been able to locate the decision of the Public Tenders Committee to award the contract to Propax. The Committee was surprised to discover that the last Government did not require Statutory Authorities to follow the Financial and Stores Regulations and have compulsory tendering of contracts in excess of $100,000 forwarded to the Central Tenders Committee.

- iii. Notwithstanding that the Authority's present management is satisfied with the quality of service provided by Propax, it was apparent that there had been no attempts by management to obtain competitive bids for approximately $3.125 million of materials, following completion of the original contract in 1988. The Central Tenders Committee was never consulted about these continuing single source supply arrangements, which run contrary to the important principles of transparency and good governance.
- iv. The refusal of the Caribbean Development Bank in 1990 to consider financing the Spotts - Pease Bay project effectively lifted earlier procurement restrictions on the United States suppliers. Management had ample opportunity to seek competitive bids for materials prior to placing additional orders with Propax. From evidence presented by the Auditor General and the Authority's own competitive procurement in 1995, the Committee concluded that competitive procurement would have resulted in substantial savings on the price of pipes - possibly as much as 50% of actual costs could have been saved.
- v. The Committee is deeply concerned that a payment of $795,131 made in December 1991 was diverted to a third party, a Mr E Mayar, for phase I materials supplied by Propax. Although there was no financial loss, this arrangement placed the Authority at risk. Although there was no financial loss, this arrangement placed the Authority at risk. All efforts to determine the identity of Mr. Mayar have been unsuccessful.
- vi. The Committee notes that these losses and irregularities are patterns which were referred to in the Auditor General's 1993 Report on matters occurring prior to 1992 which set out irregularities as a result of an unauthorised loan in April, 1992, air travel costs for a member of staff, the underbilling of one water account for the then Member of Executive Council with responsibility for the Water Authority by the deliberate manipulation of water meter readings during the period August 1991 to January 1993, the waiver payment of US$17,400 - of an invoice for installing a water distribution system in a new subdivision for a company known as SAC of which the Fourth Elected Member for George Town was a shareholder, and the unauthorised use of the Authority's funds for private purposes as set out in Paragraph 48 of the 1993 Report.

(b) Civil Engineering Contract

- i. The original civil engineering works were tendered internationally and were awarded to the low bidder, Petroservicios Ltd, of Colombia. The original contract was for approximately $2.6 million. Subsequently, the Authority increased the scope of the works on several occasions through a series of Variation Orders - from approximately 33,000 metres of pipe to 213,000 metres of pipe. The original contract was extended from 330 days to an elapsed time of approximately seven years. The Committee has two main concerns about these scope changes: the increase in the unit rates and the justification for not seeking competitive tenders for the additional works.
- ii. Clause 70 of the contract expressly prohibited price increases due to variations in the cost of labour, plant and materials. As the works were expected to last for only 330 days, it was not considered necessary to include a mechanism for price increases. Once the Authority began to introduce significant variations to the scope of the works, the contractor requested price increases under clause 52(3) of the contract. The Authority agreed to this request and approved an increase of 11.6% in 1989. Thereafter, the contractor was awarded an annual price increase with effect from each 1st January. A total of $1.427 million was identified as amounts paid arising from the annual price increase.
- iii. From the expert evidence provided by the independent consulting engineer, the Committee concluded that the price increases awarded by the Authority did not comply with the terms of the contract.
- iv. The contract was altered from fixed price to variable price mainly for reasons of expediency. The Authority has put forward a number of justifications for this course of action. For example, the Authority was very satisfied with Petroservicios work and the company's flexibility; that there would be little interest for the Pease Bay extension from other contractors on island; that the Authority did not consider itself bound to adopt competitive tendering procedures prescribed by Government's Financial and Stores Regulations; and that there was insufficient time to tender. The Committee acknowledges that there may be some substance to some of these arguments.

- v. Central to the Authority's justification for its course of action is its assertion that re-tendering would have increased costs substantially. The independent consultant found this to be not proven.
- vi. The Committee is of the strong opinion that the Spotts - Pease Bay extension should have been competitively tendered. It is indeed possible that Petroservicios might have won a competitive tender, but at least the wider public interest would have been served by an open and transparent process. There is a definite possibility that the contractor might have fixed his 1990 or 1991 unit rates for the duration of the works in order to secure the contract, which would have saved the Authority over $550,000.
- vii. The independent consultant has commented that no long term engineering or funding plan existed and that the project appears to have proceeded on the basis of expediency. It is clear that there were far too few engineering personnel available within the Authority to carry out all the activities required to design the new works, provide project management to the construction in progress, and carry out the day to day activities required in an operating authority. As a result, insufficient time was available to complete the project design and to allow for the tendering process. This is confirmed by notations on some of the Variation Orders that drawings would follow, often several months later. The independent consultant has concluded that significant savings would likely have been realised had the works been tendered as a complete single package, rather than being constructed as three variations to an existing contract, however inappropriately that contract was interpreted.

The Committee finds it difficult to make relevant recommendations in view of the fact that a project of this magnitude and nature is unlikely to recur. The Authority has changed its procurement practices and policies. Competitive bids are now sought for all projects in accordance with the limits prescribed by Financial and Stores Regulations. The Authority has recently developed an in-house capability to install water main, which should enable future developments to be constructed more economically than by contractor. The Committee was concerned about the apparent conflict of interest which arose as a result of a relationship between the Engineer and a close relative of the contractor's major shareholder. The relationship was not concealed and seems to have been known to the Member responsible, several senior civil servants and members of the Board. The Committee considers that civil servants and staff of statutory authorities must avoid any situation where their ability to perform duties in an impartial manner might be called into question.

The Committee recommends that:

- (a) The Authority terminates its relationship with Propax
- (b) Consideration be given to preparing a code of ethics for civil servants.
- (c) The Attorney General's Department investigates whether the former Director can be requested to return to the Cayman Islands in order to provide further evidence on those matters raised by the Auditor General in his [1993 and] 1995 Report.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS:

The Committee wishes to again place on record its sincere appreciation to:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE:

The Committee agrees that this Report shall be the Report of the Standing Public Accounts Committee on the Report of the Auditor General on the Audited Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for the year ended 31st December, 1995, and laid on the Table of this Honourable House in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 74(5), under Standing Order 74(9), this Report of the Standing Public Accounts shall be deemed to have been agreed to. Signed:

Mr. John D Jefferson, Jr., MLA - Chairman
Mr. D Dalmain Ebanks, MLA

Mrs. Berna L Murphy, MBE, MLA
Mrs. Edna M Moyle, JP, MLA

Madam Speaker, before I sit down, I would like to move that this Report along with the Report of the Accountant General on the Accounts of the Cayman Islands Government and the Auditor General's Report for the year ended 31st December, 1995 and, the Government Minute be noted and debated immediately after the Government Bills on the Order Paper for today.

The Speaker: The question before the House is that the Report of the Public Accounts Committee together with the Report of the Auditor General and the Government Minute be debated immediately following proceedings on Government Bills.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The motion has been agreed to.

AGREED: THE REPORT OF THE STANDING PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE ON THE REPORT OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL AND THE GOVERNMENT MINUTE BE DEBATED IMMEDIATELY AFTER GOVERNMENT BILLS.

The Speaker: Continuing with the Orders of the day, the Central Planning Authority Annual Report for 1995.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

CENTRAL PLANNING AUTHORITY ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1995

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Cayman Islands Government Central Planning Authority Annual Report, 1995.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. As Honourable Members of the Legislative Assembly will be aware, I only assumed responsibility for planning matters including the Development Plan Review, in April 1995 (less than one and a half years ago). The duty and function of the Central Planning Authority as outlined in the Development Planning Law and Regulations (1995 Revision) is to ensure development takes place in a safe and orderly manner, and in compliance with the Law and Planning Regulations. The year 1995 proved to be a year of achievements and setting of records for development in the Cayman Islands with increases in virtually all categories of development.

These increases suggest the confidence in Cayman's economy and translated into an enormous amount of work for the CPA and the Planning Department. During 1995, the number of planning applications increased by 29% over 1994. The Central Planning Authority held 40 meetings for the year and the average number of items for a meeting doubled in comparison to 1994.

Cayman is experiencing rapid economic growth and development. This type of growth mandates an increase in comprehensive land use planning, particularly planning for road corridors, zoning, and environmental considerations. The Central Planning Authority recognised this need and, as a result, area plans are to be produced later this year.

Honourable Members will recall that in 1994 Executive Council decided that it would be more appropriate to make amendments to the existing 1977 Development Plan rather than bringing an entirely new plan. The proposed amendments, including maps showing zone changes, were put on public display from December 1994 to February 1995, which is the legally required 60 day period for comment. The public review period was extended for a further 30 days to March 1995, to allow additional time for objections and representations to be submitted. During the public review period, the Planning Department received 313 objections and representations affecting approximately 500 parcels of land.

In April 1995, I was assigned responsibility for Planning. The Planning Department was at the stage of reviewing the objections and representations, and making reports on each for submission to the CPA. Four planners were assigned to this momentous task and by the end of June 1995, these reports were received by the Central Planning Authority. Over the summer in 1995, the Central Planning Authority prepared reports on the 313 objections and representations made to the proposed amendments to the Development Plan 1977.

By October, 11 copies of the reports were submitted to the Ministry for review by the Appeals Tribunals. Having realised that the single Planning Appeals Tribunal with its five members would not be able to handle the number of objections and representations without holding hearings over many months (with perhaps consecutive days of hearings), I brought a motion and had an amendment to the Development and Planning Law (1995 Revision) passed in the June 1995 meeting of the Legislative Assembly.

This amendment allowed for the appointment of multiple special tribunals to hear objections to the proposed amendments to the Development Plan 1977. This amendment was gazetted on 11th August, 1995.

In late September 1995, nine individuals from the private sector were appointed by Executive Council to the three Special Development Tribunals. The appointments were gazetted in October. The Tribunals were comprised of local businessmen and chaired by lawyers, all of whom were willing to donate their valuable time to sit on these tribunals. I want to publicly express my gratitude to the Chairmen and Chairwoman, Mrs Sherri Bodden, Mr. W.

S. Walker and Mr. C.S. Gill, as well as to the other members of these tribunals.

Also, towards the latter part of 1995, the Building Code Regulations were passed by the Legislative Assembly and workshops on the Building and Plumbing Codes were conducted in October, November, and December, 1995. I want to take this opportunity to thank the Chairman of the Building Code Committee, all the members of the Building Code Committee and the staff of the Building Control Unit of the Planning Department for a job well done.

The implementation of these regulations was unanimously supported by the Society of Caymanian Builders and Contractors, by the Caymanian Contractors Association, and by the Society of Architects, Engineers and Surveyors.

The Sister Islands are included in the Central Planning Authority Report for the second year, and their statistics show considerable growth in the residential, hotel and private sectors. An additional planner has been assigned to augment the planning services offered to Cayman Brac and Little Cayman and to aid in the processing of applications.

The Central Planning Authority has consistently endeavoured to promote development without placing undue stress on existing resources and infrastructure of these islands. My Ministry has worked closely with the Chairman of the Central Planning Authority and with the Planning Department to ensure that the public receive services from the CPA and Department with efficiency and satisfactory customer service. To that end, the department has implemented a number of changes to improve its service quality and increase the efficiency with which planning applications are processed: For example, increasing the number of staff and automating the office. Since 1995, improved computer tracking for up-to-date status reports on all applications is completed weekly by planners and monitored weekly by management. We have reassigned planners by geographical areas taking into account the higher volume of applicants in George Town.

As a result of these and many other initiatives, such as the publication of brochures to help the public complete their applications, and the Central Planning Authority Guidelines which details the CPA's requirements, the first seven months of 1996 have seen the average time in calendar days for the processing of new planning applications reduced by half, as compared to the same period for 1995. More specifically, for 518 applications until 31st July of this year, the overall average number of days for obtaining a CPA decision was 38 days, compared to 80 days for the same period last year. Of these 38 days, 21 days minimum is prescribed by Law to allow for objections and normally objections take 28 days to process.

I must express my sincere appreciation for the diligence and dedication of the Chairman of the Central Planning Authority, Mr. Heber Arch, and all members of the CPA; of the Chairman of the Development and Control Board for the Sisters Islands, Mrs. Julianna O'Connor, and all members of the Development and Control Board; the Director of Planning, Mr. Carson Ebanks and his entire staff. Together they have done a tremendous job.

In conclusion, I am happy to report that so much has been accomplished in the year and half since I have assumed responsibility for Planning matters. There is still much to be done, and I can assure the House and the public that our efforts are continuing in 1996.

Thank you.

The Civil Aviation Authority of the Cayman Islands Annual Report 1994.

The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

CIVIL AVIATION AUTHORITY OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS ANNUAL REPORT 1994

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Annual Report of the Civil Aviation Authority.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on behalf of the Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce, under whose responsibility this matter falls, I am pleased to table the Annual Report and Audited Financial Statements of the Civil Aviation Authority of the Cayman Islands for the year ended 31st December, 1994. The statements are self-explanatory and I commend them to this Honourable House.

It is readily admitted that these are somewhat late in being tabled, a situation which was caused by having to agree and settle the financial arrangements between Government and the Authority. I am happy to report to the Honourable House that this has now been done, hence, the Auditor General has been able to issue his Certificate of Audit.

Now that the financial arrangements between Government and the Authority have been agreed, I am also pleased to report that the audit of the accounts for the year ended 31st December, 1995 will begin within a few days and will be available to be laid on the Table of this Honourable House at its next sitting.

Madam Speaker, I have been asked by the Honourable Minister for Tourism, Aviation and Commerce to record his sincere thanks and appreciation to the Auditor General for his support in having these accounts resolved.

The Minister has also asked me to record his thanks and appreciation to the Honourable Financial Secretary; the Permanent Secretary, Tourism, Aviation and Commerce; and the Director of Civil Aviation and his staff for their untiring efforts in having the financial arrangements between Government and the Authority finalised, and, in order to enable his report and financial statements to be laid on the Table this morning.

The Speaker: May I have a motion to suspend Standing Orders so that questions can be dealt with?

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23 (7) & (8)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I move that the relevant Standing Order to allow questions to be taken after 11.00 AM be suspended.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Orders be suspended in order that questions may be dealt with at this time, which is after 11.00 AM.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Standing Order is accordingly suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 23 (7) & (8) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: Question No. 197, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 179

No. 179: Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what recent improvements have been made to the flight schedule of Cayman Airways Limited to and from Cayman Brac.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Cayman Airways' new schedule, effective October 27, 1996, anticipates the following changes to the Brac schedule:

1) Brac arrivals - Cayman Airways is replacing its existing five late evening arrivals with three early and two late evening arrivals, which will permit better connection times with flights to Tampa, Atlanta, Orlando and Miami on these days.

Cayman Airways is replacing the Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday over-nighting on the Brac, with three early morning arrivals, allowing for easier domestic travel.

Previously, there was a total of six arrivals per week on the Brac. With the new schedule there will be a total of eight arrivals per week.

2) Brac departures - Cayman Airways is presently providing one non-stop service Cayman Brac to Miami on Saturdays only, with the changes CAL will be providing three non-stops to Miami on Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Previously, a total of six departures (five to Grand Cayman and one to Miami), now there will be a total of eight departures (five to Grand Cayman and three to Miami).

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Can the Honourable Minister tell this House if there are any future plans for extending Cayman Airways?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: We hope we will be able to extend Cayman Airways on these schedules when we look at the purchasing of a third aircraft which would give us much more flexibility. I should say, however, that at present our schedule to Cayman Brac is far greater and better than when Cayman Airways had five jets. We have really put out an effort to help Cayman Brac and we will continue to do this.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 180, standing in the name of the Second Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Madam Speaker, I will ask this question with your permission, please, as the Second Elected Member is absent.

The Speaker: Once he has asked you to do that, you certainly may.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Yes, Madam Speaker.

QUESTION NO. 180

No. 180: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning how often Government reviews the annual subsidy to Cayman Airways Limited.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Cayman Airways Limited (CAL) receives an annual operating subsidy from the Cayman Islands Government equivalent to CI$4 million.

The Board has taken a decision and informed management that it will not accept an annual budget with a post-subsidy deficit. The effect of this is that CAL is required to operate within the subsidy. This is not to say that the Board accepts this arrangement as an optimal commercial performance and is working very hard on several fronts to increase its profitability.

However, I wish to once again point out to this Honourable House that this CI$4 million is money from which the Government and the Cayman Islands get something in return. Of this CI$4 million, Cayman Airways pays approximately CI$2 million in transfer payments for services from other Government departments and statutory authorities, for example, Civil Aviation Authority, the Immigration Department and the Customs Department. If we consider the cost of operating...

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Yes, may I hear the point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, in Erskine May, on page 295, it states under Oral Answers and Supplementary questions: "An answer should be confined to the points contained in the question."

The Speaker: I did make that point. What particular point are you bearing in mind here?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The question asks: How often does Government review the annual subsidy to Cayman Airways Limited? I would have thought the answer would be twice a year, once a year, or something of that nature. Not a doctoral dissertation of this length.

The Speaker: I did bring this to the attention of Members/Ministers a few days ago regarding the length of answers to questions. Normally, the answers should be confined to the questions that have been asked.

Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, this is relevant because the subsidy is a Government subsidy, and how much of that Cayman Airways keeps and how much the Government gets back is relevant.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I would have thought you could have given a much shorter answer than what is before us; this is two pages of an answer.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, surely a Minister has leeway to give a full answer which could avoid excessive supplementaries. This is what I have attempted to do.

The Speaker: But you are taking away the advantage of the Member who is asking the question. The Member asking the question is allowed supplementaries. That is the reason for this. So if you are giving a full answer, then there is nothing else to look forward to in supplementary, which is any Member's right.

In this case, since we are ending this term, please continue, but I would ask that in future (that is tomorrow) that all answers be kept to a minimum. Please continue Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, perhaps you could tell this Honourable House what the minimum is. Answers which require a reply with a long answer must surely be allowed some flexibility. Surely, this House should not dictate the curtailment of my right to reply fully to a question.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, I agree with you that Members are entitled to some expansion, but I am sure that you will agree yourself that for the last week the replies have been very long, and unnecessarily so.

I have asked you to please continue, and I hope that tomorrow when other answers are given they will not be as long. Please continue, Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: However, I wish to once again point out to the House that this CI$4 million is money for which the Government and the Cayman Islands get something in return. Of this CI$4 million, Cayman Airways pays approximately CI$2 million in transfer payments for services from other Government Departments and Statutory Authorities, for example, Civil Aviation Authority, the Immigration Department and the Customs Department. If we consider the cost of operating the Brac service we would quickly see that the balance of the subsidy of CI$2 million dollars is used to underwrite the costs of providing reliable jet service to Cayman Brac. Additionally, international passengers pay the same fare to travel to Cayman Brac as they would to travel to Grand Cayman. Cayman Airways does this in an effort to support tourism in the Sister Islands.

Also, Cayman Airways provides free travel to all the Department of Tourism's sales agents and senior management, and generally provides free air travel to the travel agents brought to the island on familiarisation trips by the DOT (Department of Tourism). Again, Cayman Airways provides these services at no charge in an effort to help the DOT with its initiatives to develop our local tourism industry. If Cayman Airways charged the DOT for these services it could earn at least another US$500,000 per annum.

In the past two years Cayman Airways has operated within the annual subsidy while it has paid off over US$1 million of debt inherited from the former Government. In the past 12 months, the airline has accumulated over US$1.1 million in equity in its own 737-200 jet.

Having said all of this Madam Speaker, I would ask this House to bear in mind that the Government's representatives on the Cayman Airways Board, namely the Honourable Attorney-General, the Honourable Financial Secretary, and myself, as Minister with responsibility for Cayman Airways, while not members of the Board have full access to all of CAL's financial data and, in fact, receive all financial reports at the same time that Board members do.

Through our attendance, Government is at all times fully informed and up to date as to Cayman Airways' financial position. Perhaps more importantly, this gives the Government an opportunity to restate to Cayman Airways the need for the airline to minimise its reliance on financial support from the shareholders. However, since CAL has not sought any further financial assistance from the Government since 1994, the Government has not found the need to formally review the annual subsidy because the subsidy is reviewed and assessed on an ongoing basis.

The loan of US$20 million (CI$16.7 million) was approved in June 1992, by the former Government, but could not be borrowed by them because their credit reputation and the reputation of Cayman Airways were both so bad at the time. The loan funds were only raised by this Government in 1993. All of the loan went to pay CAL's past debts left by the former Government which totalled some US$35 million. Not one penny of the US$20 million was available for this Government and CAL's management to spend. The statement made in the Wednesday, 18th September, edition of the Caymanian Compass alleging that this Government spent US$33.05 million in subsidy to Cayman Airways between 1992 and 1996 was incorrect, and an attempt to mislead the public. To date the total subsidy given to Cayman Airways by this Government is CI$14 million and not US$33.05 million as alleged by Mr. Pierson. I call upon Mr. Linford Pierson who made this statement to please correct it and withdraw it publicly.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 181, standing in the name of the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 181

No. 181: Mr. Roy Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning to state the amount of money paid by Cayman Airways Limited to American Airlines for transporting passengers as a result of overbookings in Jamaica from January 1996 until August, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Only on very rare occasions, and only to provide premium passenger service, will Cayman Airways Limited transfer oversell passengers to Miami and forward them to Jamaica via another carrier.

During 1996 we had one incident which occurred 8th July, 1996. Seven passengers were carried to Miami and transported on American Airlines. Cayman Airways' round-trip fare charged on these tickets would have been $217.00, earning $108.50 one-way. American Airlines carried the passengers and Cayman Airways provided them with a prorated portion of the one-way fare equaling $59.12 per person which represented the Miami to Kingston portion of the flight. Thus $413.84 would have been allowed to American Airlines for transporting the seven passengers.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 182, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 182

No. 182: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what steps are being taken to continue and/or improve on future plans for Cayman Airways Limited.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: As the Honourable House is aware, Cayman Airways Limited is in the best state it has been for many years. Through the vigilant attention of my Ministry and the efforts of an excellent Board and Management, the airline has been positioned so that it can plan more confidently for the future.

The airline has already, with my approval, initiated a policy of owning, rather than leasing, its aircraft. Already, through the purchase of one B737-200 aircraft we have seen the wisdom of this policy bear fruit. In one year we have accumulated over $1 million in equity in our aircraft and have seen the value rise by $3 million. It is our intention to pursue the policy of aircraft ownership in a prudent way.

The future plans for Cayman Airways will be determined by the outcome of the Strategic Planning exercise which is presently underway throughout the airline, and involves every staff member from the top to the bottom. This five year plan, which is similar in structure to the five year plan for Education, the five year plan for Health, the five year plan for Drug Abuse, Prevention and Rehabilitation, and the five year plan for Tourism (all of which were laid on the Table of this Honourable House and/or approved by resolution of Honourable Members) should be completed and approved by the Board of Directors of the company by the end of October.

There are two other areas of importance which are also being currently addressed. One is the process of assembling a Marketing Plan which will pull together all the elements of product, pricing, distribution and promotion within the airline, so as to focus the organisation's efforts to enhance the revenue side of its equation. This plan will enable the airline to match its capabilities with opportunities in the marketplace.

Another area which will receive considerable attention in the future is that of staff training. The staff of Cayman Airways are its most important asset. I do not make this claim lightly, or in a patronising way, but rather as a statement of belief which is shared by every member of the Board of Directors of the company.

As evidence of our commitment to the present and future management of Cayman Airways, the airline has signed an agreement with the International Air Transportation Association (IATA), to conduct an ongoing training programme for the staff of Cayman Airways.

Normally, these training courses are conducted in Geneva or Singapore, but IATA has agreed to run the courses for CAL in Cayman and Miami. The training programme will commence in Grand Cayman on 7th October, 1996, with an intensive five day course in Management Skills. This will be followed by a five day course on Airline Finance in November, three Customer Service courses of three days' duration in December and finally, a five day course on Airline Marketing in January 1997. At the end of this stage of the training programme, 120 staff members of Cayman Airways Limited will have received training. A central core of management will attend all of the courses.

It is my belief that through this conservative and prudent philosophy, we can continue to give the people of the Cayman Islands a least-cost National Airline of which they can justifiably be proud. We will have a Flag Carrier operating its aircraft to the highest international standards on the flight deck and in the cabin, maintained by highly skilled mechanics who are subject to ongoing external audit, and managed on the ground by staff at all levels who have received the best available international training to enable them to serve our loyal customers.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for today.

We proceed to Government Business. Suspension of Standing Order 46.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, on a point of procedure.

POINT OF PROCEDURE

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Mr. Gilbert A. McLean: Madam Speaker, it seems inevitable that the House will be ending, I presume tomorrow. I would like to bring to the attention of the Chair that I have submitted various questions (some have been repeated from as far back as June) which have not been answered nor put on the Order Paper by the Business Committee, while some which are clearly designed to evoke long statements have been. The point that I would like to raise is if the Chair could give some direction on this matter, or has there been any indication to the Chair as to what will happen with these questions - will they fall away or would the number of questions be increased between now and the prorogation of the House?

The Speaker: I can say that I have no idea what will happen to the questions. The Business Committee has been meeting and the Members of that Committee (and you know who they are) have made their decisions on what questions will be answered today and tomorrow. Thereafter the House will be prorogued and I will not be responsible for questions that have not been answered. You should perhaps ask the Chairman and the Members of the Business Committee what they plan to do. That is the best I can tell the Honourable Member - I am sorry about that, but that is the way it is.

Suspension of Standing Order 46. The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 46

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: Madam Speaker, I beg to move the suspension of Standing Order 46 to allow for the First Reading of the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Appeal Tribunal) Bill, 1996, and the Elections Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Prohibition of Advertising, etc.) Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 46 be suspended in order that the two bills be taken through their stages at this sitting.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. Standing Order 46 is accordingly suspended.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 46 SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: First Readings.

The Speaker: Second Readings.

SECOND READINGS

DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING (AMENDMENT) (APPEAL TRIBUNAL) BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Development and Planning (Amendment) (Appeal Tribunal) Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I beg to move the Second Reading of the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Appeal Tribunal) Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: Do you wish to speak to that Honourable Minister?

Hon. Truman M. Boddén: Madam Speaker, this is a short Bill which, in effect, only increases the number of persons on the Appeals Tribunal under the Development and Planning Law. At present there are five members, for which the quorum is three, and there have been occasions when members were away or sick or have had a conflict of interest and we have not been able to get the necessary quorum.

I am asking that we add a further four members to the Board to give us a panel to choose from. I should say that I introduced a computer programme which gives a tracking record of the appeals, and this has allowed us to clear off many appeals that had been sitting there (some of them for four or five years). We are about up to date on appeals.

I would like to thank the members of the Planning Appeals Tribunals who are businessmen and who take their personal time to listen to what are very complex matters. So the Bill is to increase the amount of members on the Appeals Tribunal.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Appeal Tribunal) Bill, 1996 be given a Second Reading. The motion is open for debate.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Perhaps the Minister in his winding up could address the situation, whereby if the number of Board members is increased to seven whether the quorum would remain the same or if the quorum is increased, would we end up creating the same problem which exists now as he has mentioned.

Thank you.

The Speaker: If no other Member wishes to speak, the Honourable Minister might wish to reply.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would like to thank the Honourable Member who spoke in support of the Bill. The quorum will remain at three. So this will allow us to have a panel that we can draw from to make it more convenient to members. There is no reason to move it beyond three, in fact, three members is the standard amount that is used not only in the Court of Appeal, but on other appeals tribunals. So I propose to keep it at three, unless the Honourable Member has good cause why the quorum should be increased.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Appeal Tribunal) Bill, 1996, be given a Second Reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED: THE DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING (AMENDMENT) (APPEAL TRIBUNAL) BILL, 1996 GIVEN A SECOND READING.

ELECTIONS LAW (1995 REVISION) (AMENDMENT) (PROHIBITION OF ADVERTISING, ETC.) BILL, 1996

Clerk: The Elections Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Prohibition of Advertising, etc.) Bill, 1996.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, I move the Second Reading of a Bill entitled the Elections Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Prohibition of Advertising, etc.) Bill, 1996.

Madam Speaker, during the last meeting of the Legislative Assembly, a Private Member's Motion was brought to this Honourable House by the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman calling for certain amendments to the Elections Law. The resolve section of that motion asked that a Select Committee of Elected Members, with the Honourable Second Official Member as Chairman, be appointed to consider the amendments to the Elections Law, and that the review be considered before the dissolution of the House, and that the recommendation contained in the Committee's report be put into effect for the 1996 General Elections.

Government accepted the motion and the Select Committee was appointed on 15th July, 1996 upon the passing of the Motion with amendments. At yesterday's sitting of the Legislative Assembly, the Honourable Second Official Member tabled the Report of the Select Committee which reviewed the Elections Law. The Report recommended that three of the recommendations made in the Private Member's Motion be effected before the 1996 General Election. These amendments are as follows:

- i. that the Voters' List in each district be made available to candidates and their agents, inside or outside a Polling Station, and remain in their possession before, during and after the elections;
- ii. that the Elections Law (1995 Revision) be clarified to specifically prohibit any form of advertising for any group or individual on the day of election through any print or electronic media; and
- iii. that the form "Declaration by Amanuensis" be amended in its title to read "Declaration by Person who Assists a Voter."

Madam Speaker, it has been an almost impossible task to have the amendments drafted and moved through the various stages between the adjournment of the House yesterday, and this morning. I would like to express my thanks to the Honourable Second Official Member who assisted me; to the Senior Legislative Counsel who drafted and redrafted the amendments yesterday evening and early this morning; and to my hard working staff in the Portfolio who worked under very trying conditions all yesterday afternoon and late into the evening, as well as early this morning. In addition, I want to take this opportunity to thank you, Madam Speaker and the Clerk for the inclusion of this Bill on today's Order Paper.

In presenting this Bill, I would like to point out that while the first amendment calls for the Register of Voters to be published, and, in particular, that copies be made available for sale to candidates, the Supervisor of Elections has been instructed to provide all candidates with broken copies of the Register of Voters for use by candidates or their polling agents in the individual Polling Station (by that I mean for the convenience of candidates). We will supply the breakdown of the relevant section for use in the various Polling Stations.

Particularly for the listening public, I would like to point out that while polling agents present at Polling Stations will have in their possession a copy of the relevant section of the Register of Voters as it applies to that Polling Station, neither candidates nor their polling agents will know how a voter has voted. That is very important. I would like, therefore, to assure voters throughout the Cayman Islands that the complete secrecy of the voting procedure has been protected.

The second amendment deals with political advertising in printed or electronic media on polling day. This amendment simply seeks to prohibit this from happening.

Finally, the Elections Law (1995 Revision) is being amended to remove from it that dreadful word "amanuensis" (a word that is hard to spell, hard to pronounce and, in my opinion, not even terribly appropriate). Instead, it is being replaced with the phrase "person who assists a voter", which is what the word amanuensis was intended to describe.

I commend this short amending Bill to this Honourable House. Thank you.

The Speaker: The question is that a Bill entitled the Elections Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Prohibition of Advertising, etc.) Bill, 1996 be given a Second Reading.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Bill has accordingly been given a Second Reading.

AGREED: THE ELECTIONS LAW (1995 REVISION) (AMENDMENT) (PROHIBITION OF ADVERTISING, ETC.) BILL, 1996, GIVEN A SECOND READING.

The Chairman: The House will now go into Committee to consider the two Bills.

HOUSE IN COMMITTEE - 4.08 PM

COMMITTEE ON BILLS

The Chairman: Please be seated.

The House is in Committee to consider the two bills. The first is the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Appeal Tribunal) Bill, 1996. The Clerk will read the clauses.

DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING (AMENDMENT) (APPEAL TRIBUNAL) BILL, 1996

Clerk: Clause 1 - Short title.
Clause 2 - Amendment of section 41(1).

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 1 and 2 stand part of the Bill. If there is no debate, I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. Clauses 1 and 2 passed.

AGREED: CLAUSES 1 AND 2 PASSED.

Clerk: A Bill for a Law to Amend the Development and Planning Law (1995 Revision).

The Chairman: The question is that the title do stand part of the Bill.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it. The title is accordingly passed.

AGREED: TITLE PASSED.

ELECTIONS LAW (1995 REVISION) (AMENDMENT) (PROHIBITION OF ADVERTISING, ETC.) BILL, 1996.

The Chairman: The next Bill is the Elections Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Prohibition of Advertising, etc.) Bill, 1996.

Clerk: Clause 1 - Short title.
Clause 2 - Amendment to the principal Law.

The Chairman: The question is that clauses 1 and 2 do stand part of the Bill.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: CLAUSES 1 AND 2 PASSED.

Clerk: The Schedule.

The Chairman: The question is that the Schedule do stand part of the Bill.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Chairman, I gave notice of an amendment at Committee stage.

The Chairman: Insufficient notice, of course, which requires my approval to waive the two days required. I give approval.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Chairman.

The amendment is to section 4 (73)(i) which is amended by repealing "and shall not communicate, except for some purpose authorised by law, to any person any information as to the name or number on the list of voters, of any voter who has or has not applied for a ballot paper or voted at that polling station.”.

The Chairman: Members have been circulated with a copy of the proposed amendment and it comes under the Schedule, immediately after clause 3. The question is that the amendment be made to the Schedule.

The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Madam Chairman, thank you. For clarity, I wonder if the Honourable Member could say if the deletion of these words will achieve what the Committee has recommended, because the beginning of this paragraph refers to every election officer and every agent.

The Chairman: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Chairman, I am advised by the Senior Legislative Counsel that this will in fact, accomplish what Honourable Members wish to achieve.

The Chairman: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Chairman, I believe that this is the right thing to do because, in my opinion, election after election since that provision was put in the Law, the democratic process has been hampered in that a candidate could not even discuss matters relating to the Voters' List with their agents. Surely, if the Law makes provision for an agent to assist in the electoral process, then that person who is involved as a candidate should be at liberty to discuss matters pertaining to him when that person appoints an agent. So it is something that I am very happy to see, because it is something that I believe was a travesty of justice and hampered the democratic process.

Thank you, Madam Chairman.

The Chairman: If there is no further debate, I shall put the question that the amendment as set out be made to the Schedule.

Do you wish to say something Third Elected Member for George Town?

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Yes, Madam Chairman, I have a short question on section 17 (4) which says that “copies may be sold to candidates by the Supervisor at such prices he may decide...” I am wondering if the Supervisor is going to sell it for $1.00 or is he going to arrive at a cost before, and who would determine the cost?

The Chairman: Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Chairman, I alluded to this in the presentation of the Bill. The Supervisor of Elections has already been instructed to provide all candidates with sufficient copies of the breakdown of the Voters' List to take care of their needs within the Polling Stations.

If candidates wish to buy additional copies, the price will be set after discussion with the Governor and myself.

The Chairman: The question is that the amendment as proposed be made to the Schedule.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: AMENDMENT TO SCHEDULE PASSED.

The Chairman: The question now is that the Schedule as amended do stand part of the Bill.

Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE SCHEDULE AS AMENDED PASSED.

Clerk: A Bill for a Law to Amend the Elections Law (1995 Revision).

The Chairman: The question is that the title do stand part of the Bill.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE TITLE PASSED.

The Chairman: That concludes proceedings in Committee on the two Bills. The question is that the Committee do now report. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Chairman: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THE COMMITTEE TO REPORT TO THE HOUSE.

HOUSE RESUMED - 4.17 PM

The Speaker: The House has resumed. Please be seated. Reports on Bills. The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

REPORTS

DEVELOPMENT AND PLANNING (AMENDMENT) (APPEAL TRIBUNAL) BILL, 1996

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I have to report that a Bill entitled the Development and Planning (Amendment) (Appeal Tribunal) Bill, 1996, was considered by a Committee of the whole House and passed without amendment.

The Speaker: The Bill is accordingly set down for Third Reading. The Honourable First Official Member.

ELECTIONS LAW (1995 REVISION) (AMENDMENT) (PROHIBITION OF ADVERTISING, ETC.) BILL, 1996

Hon. James M. Ryan: Madam Speaker, I have to report that a Bill entitled the Elections Law (1995 Revision) (Amendment) (Prohibition of Advertising, etc.) Bill, 1996, was considered by a Committee of the whole House and passed with one amendment.

The Speaker: The Bill is accordingly set down for Third Reading.

As was agreed by the House this morning, after the completion of the stages of the Bills the Report of the Public Accounts Committee together with the Auditor General's Report on the Financial Statement of the Cayman Islands Government and the Government Minutes would be debated.

The motion is now opened for debate.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Madam Speaker, on a point of procedure, do I have to get up and move the motion again?

The Speaker: You have presented the Committee's Report and at the end you would reply to any debate that would follow on it. Unless you had something else to offer.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: As I have said, now is the time for the debate on the Report of the Public Accounts Committee.

The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

DEBATE ON THE REPORT OF THE STANDING PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE ON THE REPORT OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST

DECEMBER, 1995, TOGETHER WITH THE GOVERNMENT MINUTE

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, I wish to preface my debate on the Public Accounts Committee's Report with an observation. I was astounded this morning to witness the Government Minute being read prior to the reading of the Public Accounts Committee's Report. In my opinion, that was a complete twisting and perversion of the procedure...

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister for Education and Planning, may I hear your point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. The Honourable Member is alleging that this Honourable House, in your presence, twisted the procedure of this House. I would recommend that he withdraw that strong remark.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town, would you please expand and explain your comment?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Madam Speaker, with your permission I would like to read from our Standing Orders - Legislative Assembly Standing Orders (Revised). "Standing Select Committees" order 74(7): "The Government Minute shall be laid on the Table of the House within three months of the laying of the report of the Committee and of the report of the Auditor General to which it relates."

The Speaker: Honourable Member, I understand your point to be that which has been the normal procedure in a Session, which would continue. I discussed this with the Leader of Government Business and we agreed that the Government Minute should be put down. If the Report of the Public Accounts Committee was going to be debated before the Government Minute was laid, that would not have worked out very well; there would be two debates. In order that there could be a debate which would be inclusive of the Reports, I gave permission for them to be put down in this order.

First Elected Member for Bodden Town, do you want to continue?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Certainly, Madam Speaker. I have to record that it is slightly unusual, and perhaps would have been more palatable had we, Members of lesser gods (like myself), had some inclination of that procedure.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Madam Speaker, on a point of order.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Community Development, Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture, may I hear the point of order?

POINT OF ORDER

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, I understand your explanation on the reason for the procedure this morning, but in regard to our Standing Orders, I do not think that you, the House, or anyone making up the Order Paper, did anything wrong. Perhaps I can be put straight on this matter, but what Standing Order 74(7) is saying is that "the Government Minute shall be laid on the Table of the House within three months of the laying of the report of the Committee and of the report of the Auditor General." I thought that we were relating it to the Auditor General's Report as the Temporary Third Official Member laid that report, he then proceeded to lay the Government Minute.

The Speaker: That is correct, sir. But I do not think we need to go into it any further. I have made the point and it is fait accompli now. What we need is a debate on those reports. Can we proceed, First Elected Member for Bodden Town?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I have only a few brief comments on matters raised by the Public Accounts Committee in its report. The first such matter is found on page 10, section 7, "Tourist Accommodation Tax". I join with those who expressed concern about these arrears and the failure to have these matters satisfactorily resolved.

The Public Accounts Committee Report laments the fact that these arrears, certainly in the case of the Ramada Treasure Islands Resort, have to be written off. Significantly, the sum as quoted in this report is almost $1 million. Additionally, there is the question as to what happened in the case of Hospitality World Limited which subsequently changed its name to "Cayman Condo Holidays Limited." Again, I have to express concern, as indicated by the PAC in their report, and I have to share their sentiment also, that there may in this case be a question of fraudulent trading.

The point I wish to underscore, however, is that at a time when we are talking about collecting arrears from private individuals who owe fees for hospitalisation, medical attention and garbage collection, and are pursuing these people by the implementation of a Debt Collection Unit, for years we have let these entities and organisations get away owing us hundreds of thousands of dollars - in the case of Cayman Condo Holidays Limited, which had the audacity to issue self-declared bankruptcy in our face. We have to be careful that we are not setting a double standard in using the Debt Collection Unit to pursue our people (who may experience legitimate hardships in trying to settle their outstanding hospital and garbage fees) and be sure that we are not squeezing them while allowing large organisations to flaunt and seemingly make a mockery of our system by non payment of taxes.

Madam Speaker, during my tenure as chairman of the Public Accounts Committee, on numerous occasions I remarked about the importance of collecting these monies. My sentiments were shared by all Honourable Members of this House. I have to say that I view this non-payment as a serious breach, and an affront to the Government and Parliament of this country. The reason being, in the case of Tourist Accommodation Tax, that these are monies which were specifically collected for Government purposes by these organisations and not delivered to the Government.

I need not remind this Honourable House and the Chair, that in any other jurisdiction this would be one of the most serious offences an entity or individual could commit. They have collected monies which are supposed to be for the Government, and those monies do not wind up in the Government's coffers or Treasury. In other jurisdictions, believe you me, the jail would be erected upon someone or an organisation for that offence.

MOMENT OF INTERRUPTION - 4.30 PM

The Speaker: Honourable Member, it is now 4.30 PM. Do you wish to continue?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Certainly, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: Would someone move a motion to that effect?

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

MOTION TO SUSPEND STANDING ORDER 10(2)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I had hoped during the break to consult informally... are you asking...

The Speaker: When I asked for the motion to continue, you stood up. The First Elected Member for Bodden Town said he would continue. I will take the first motion that comes.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I would move that the House continue until the Honourable Member completes his debate.

The Speaker: The motion is that the House should continue beyond 4.30 PM, until the conclusion of the debate by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye... Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: STANDING ORDER 10(2) SUSPENDED TO ENABLE THE HOUSE TO SIT BEYOND 4.30 UNTIL THE CONCLUSION OF THE DEBATE BY THE FIRST ELECTED MEMBER OF BODDEN TOWN.

The Speaker: Would you continue?

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I hope it is not the case that these two entities mentioned in the PAC report have flaunted their contempt for the Government at an opportune time since Parliament will soon be dissolved, and we will be entering into a period of elections. I hope that the new Government, when it takes office, will regard this as a serious affront and will pursue these entities with the full vigour and energy of a vibrant and perceptive government.

The next item follows on page 11 section 8, and deals with the Cayman Islands Marine Institute (CIMI). There were a few things in the PAC report that attracted my attention. I would like to read from section 8 and extrapolate what I consider to be the relevant sections for purposes of brevity. In this section, the report talks about the Institute and some of its objectives and programmes. It says: "The programme provides six residential and 25 day places. To date five students have graduated from the programme." I note that in the subsequent section the PAC report says: "The Committee was delighted to note that the number of juvenile convictions has fallen significantly since the inception of this programme, from 335 in 1992 to 115 in 1995. Although other factors may be involved, the Committee is certain that the reduction in juvenile crime is attributable, at least in part, to the CIMI programme." The point I wish to make is that I cannot see how the fall in juvenile convictions could be attributable to the CIMI programme if the programme provides only for six residential students and 25 day places.

I make the comment to say that perhaps the observation in this case is much exaggerated and a little over optimistic for a fall of 335 in 1992 to 115 in 1995. If there was a direct connection, I would think that the enrolment would be much higher than it is at CIMI. I am just questioning the logic of that conclusion.

I wish also to point out that on page 12 the report mentions that the "CIMI does not provide an educational programme comparable with the present school system." It makes the point that it is imperative that we do all that is within our powers to have the educational programme comparable with the present school system. I think it is one of the objectives of the CIMI to have those students integrated into the regular school system where appropriate. Not having a comparable system means that those students who are registered are at a distinct disadvantage even when they graduate, because their standards of matriculation will not be comparable to those in the regular school system. Hence, it may prove problematic to have employers readily accept them.

This, I concede, is a weakness, but it is not an impossibility. Perhaps we should take it as a challenge in the next academic year or at the earliest possible time, to have it be one of the objectives of the development of the CIMI to bring the programme offered there up to a comparable standard so that we can have lateral transferral of students from the CIMI programme into our regular school programme.

Madam Speaker, those are the only two points I wish to make. At this time I would like to commend the Members of the Public Accounts Committee, as I appreciate the time and effort it takes to prepare a report. I would end on the note that I hope the Government takes the recommendations and the suggestions made in the report seriously.

Thank you.

The Speaker: Is there a motion for the adjournment at this time? The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Madam Speaker, I move the adjournment of this Honourable House until tomorrow morning, upon the termination of the Finance Committee meeting, which we hope will be at 10 o'clock. I understand you had been notified of this.

The Speaker: The question is that the House should adjourn and resume tomorrow morning at the conclusion of the meeting of Finance Committee.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The House is accordingly adjourned until tomorrow morning at the conclusion of the meeting of the Finance Committee.

AT 4.39 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED UNTIL FRIDAY, 27TH SEPTEMBER, 1996, UPON THE CONCLUSION OF THE MEETING OF FINANCE COMMITTEE.

EDITED
FRIDAY

The Speaker: I will ask the Honourable Temporary Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development to say prayers.

PRAYERS

Hon. Joel Walton: Let us Pray.

Almighty God, from whom all wisdom and power are derived; We beseech Thee so to direct and prosper the deliberations of the Legislative Assembly now assembled, that all things may be ordered upon the best and surest foundations for the glory of Thy Name and for the safety, honour and welfare of the people of these Islands.

Bless our Sovereign Lady Queen Elizabeth II, the Queen Mother, Philip Duke of Edinburgh, Charles Prince of Wales, Diana Princess of Wales and all the Royal family. Give grace to all who exercise authority in our Commonwealth that peace and happiness, truth and justice, religion and piety may be established among us. Especially we pray for the Governor of our Islands, the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, Official Members and Ministers of Executive Council and Members of the Legislative Assembly that we may be enabled faithfully to perform the responsible duties of our high office.

Our Father who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name, Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth as it is in Heaven; Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the power and the glory, for ever and ever, Amen.

The Lord bless us and keep us. The Lord make His face shine upon us and be gracious unto us. The Lord lift up the light of His countenance upon us and give us peace now and always. Amen.

The Speaker: Please be seated. Order. Proceedings are resumed.

APOLOGY

The Speaker: First, I have an apology from the Hon. Minister for Health for absence of today's sitting.

Presentation of Papers and Reports. The Fourth and Final Report of the Standing Select Committee (of the whole House) to Review a Register of Interests for the Legislative Assembly and a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators

The Elected Member for North Side, Chairman of the Select Committee.

PRESENTATION OF PAPERS AND REPORTS

FOURTH AND FINAL REPORT OF THE STANDING SELECT COMMITTEE (OF THE WHOLE HOUSE) TO REVIEW A REGISTER OF INTERESTS FOR THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY AND A CODE OF ETHICS AND CONDUCT FOR LEGISLATORS

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 72(5), I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House, the Fourth and Final Report of the Standing Select Committee (of the whole House) to Review a Register of Interests for the Legislative Assembly and a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators.

The Speaker: So ordered. Please continue.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: "The Standing Select Committee (of the whole House) to Review a Register of Interests for the Legislative Assembly and a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators was established on the 9th day of June, 1994, upon the passing of Private Member's Motion No. 11 of 1994.

On the 7th day of December, 1994, the Legislature passed Private Member's Motion No. 29/94 entitled Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators. The Motion resolved that the "House refers the matter of legislation for a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators to the Select Committee reviewing a Register of Interests for consideration as 'companion' legislation.". With the passing of both these Motions, the Select Committee's terms of reference were to make recommendations to this Honourable House in regard to both a Register of Interests and a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators.

MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE:

The Members of this Committee comprised all Members of the Legislative Assembly.

CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE:

In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 69(2), the Honourable Speaker nominated the Elected Member for North Side, Mrs Edna M Moyle, JP, to be the Chairman.

MEETINGS, MINUTES OF PROCEEDINGS AND NOTES ON DISCUSSIONS:

The Committee held fifteen meetings:

- 21st of September, 1995
- 30th of October, 1995
- 27th November, 1995

- 12th July, 1996
- 25th September, 1996.

The Committee also held four informal meetings in the absence of a quorum. These took place on the 10th and 24th of August, 1995, the 29th of April and the 16th of September, 1996.

INTERIM REPORTS:

In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 72(1), the Committee tabled in this Honourable House three Interim Reports which are attached.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR A REGISTER OF INTERESTS BILL:

On 11th July, 1996, the Committee laid its Third Interim Report on the table of this Honourable House recommending that a Bill to give effect to section 53A of the Cayman Islands (Constitution) Order, 1972, be passed (a copy of the proposed Register of Interests Bill was attached to the Report). The bill was presented to the House and passed on the 18th day of July, 1996.

An Errata to the Third Interim Report, recommending a Register for journalists, was laid on the Table of this House on 12th July, 1996.

The Committee also recommended to this Honourable House that the Legislative Assembly Standing Orders (Revised) be amended to make provision for the establishment of a Standing Select Committee on the Register of Interests.

RECOMMENDATIONS FOR A CODE OF CONDUCT AND ETHICS FOR MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY:

In the time available, the Committee was not able to form a Code of Ethics and Conduct for Legislators in accordance with the provisions of Private Member's Motion No. 29/94, but recommends that the following Code be used as a guideline to highlight matters that need to be addressed:

GUIDELINES FOR A CODE OF CONDUCT FOR MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY:

It is the personal responsibility of every Member of the Legislative Assembly to maintain those standards of conduct which the House and the electorate are entitled to expect, to protect the good name of the Legislative Assembly and to advance the public interest. Members should observe the general principles of conduct which apply to all people in public life. They are:

Selflessness: Holders of public office should take decisions solely in terms of the public interest. They should not do so in order to gain financial or other material benefits for themselves, their family, or their friends.

Integrity: Holders of public office should not place themselves under any financial or other obligation to outside individuals or organisations that might influence them in the performance of their official duties.

Objectivity: In carrying out public business, including making public appointments, awarding contracts, or recommending individuals for rewards or benefits, holders of public office should make choices on merit.

Accountability: Holders of public office are accountable for their decisions and actions to the public and must submit themselves to whatever scrutiny is appropriate to their office.

Openness: Holders of public office should be as open as possible about all the decisions and actions that they take. They should give reasons for their decisions and restrict information only when the wider public interest clearly demands.

Honesty: Holders of public office have a duty to declare any private interests relating to their public duties and to take steps to resolve any conflicts arising in a way that protects the public interest.

Leadership: Holders of public office should promote and support these principles by leadership and example.

The primary duty of Members is to their country and their constituents. They should undertake no actions in the Legislative Assembly or Government which conflict with that duty. Because Members of the Legislative Assembly enjoy certain privileges in law, which exist to enable them to fulfil their responsibilities to the citizens they represent, each Member has a particular responsibility to comply fully with all resolutions and conventions of the House relating to matters of conduct and, when in doubt, to seek advice.

FINANCIAL INTERESTS:

A Member must not promote any matter in the Legislative Assembly or the Executive Council in return for payment.

A Member who has a financial interest, direct or indirect, must declare that interest in the currently approved manner when speaking in the House or in Committee, or otherwise taking part in legislative or governmental proceedings, or approaching Ministers, Civil Servants or public bodies on a matter connected with that interest.

Where, in the pursuit of a Member's legislative or governmental duties, the existence of a personal financial interest is likely to give rise to a conflict with the public interest, the Member has a personal responsibility to resolve that conflict either by disposing of the interest or by standing aside from the public business in question.

In any dealings with or on behalf of an organisation with whom a financial relationship exists, a Member must always bear in mind the overriding responsibility which exists to constituents and to the national interest. This is particularly important in respect of activities which may not be a matter of public record, such as informal meetings and functions.

Registration of interests under the Register of Interests Law, 1996, does not absolve the Member from the requirement to declare his interest at the appropriate time during a debate. The Register of Interests requires registration of:

- Directorship
- Remunerated employment, office or professional practice
- The provision of services depending upon, or arising from, the membership of the Legislative Assembly
- Pre- or post-election sponsorship
- All gifts above a stated value, whether from abroad or otherwise
- Subsidised overseas' visits
- Ownership of land (apart from the Member's home)
- Shareholdings above a stated value.

In fulfilling the requirements on declaration and registration of interests and remuneration, a Member must have regard to the purpose of those requirements and must comply fully with them, both in letter and spirit.

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE TO THE LEGISLATURE:

The Select Committee agrees that this Report be the fourth and final report of the Select Committee to this Honourable House."

Under the same Standing Order, I move that the recommendations as contained in this report to be used as a guideline be adopted by this Honourable House.

The Speaker: Is that motion seconded? The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker. I second the motion.

The Speaker: The motion having been duly moved and seconded is that the recommendations be accepted. If there is no debate, I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Committee's Report and its recommendations have been accepted.

AGREED: THE RECOMMENDATIONS CONTAINED IN THE REPORT OF THE STANDING SELECT COMMITTEE TO REVIEW A REGISTER OF INTERESTS FOR THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY AND A CODE OF ETHICS AND CONDUCT FOR LEGISLATORS ACCEPTED.

The Speaker: Report of the Standing House Committee. Member for North Side, Chairman of the Committee.

REPORT OF THE STANDING HOUSE COMMITTEE

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: I beg leave of the House to defer tabling the Report until later on in the sitting in order for the Committee to meet and accept the Report.

The Speaker: Is there a seconder for that?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I second that motion, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The motion having been duly moved and seconded is open for debate. If there is no debate, I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Committee's Report is accordingly deferred.

AGREED: COMMITTEE'S REPORT DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Third and Final Report of the Standing Select Committee of Elected Members to study the Fundamental Rights Clause of the Constitution Motion No. 4/93.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

THIRD AND FINAL REPORT OF THE STANDING SELECT COMMITTEE OF ELECTED MEMBERS TO STUDY THE FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS CLAUSE OF THE CONSTITUTION MOTION NO. 4/93

(Deferred)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The report has not yet been finalised. We still have to have one further short meeting. I seek leave of the House to defer tabling the Report until later on in the sitting.

The Speaker: I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it. The Committee's Report is accordingly deferred.

AGREED: COMMITTEE'S REPORT DEFERRED.

The Speaker: Report of the Standing Finance Committee for the meeting held on Wednesday, 27th December, 1995.

The Honourable Temporary Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

REPORT OF THE STANDING FINANCE COMMITTEE Meeting held on Wednesday, 27th December, 1995

Hon. Joel Walton: I beg to lay on the Table Report of the Standing Finance Committee for the meeting held on Wednesday, 27th December, 1995.

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to it?

Hon. Joel Walton: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Report of the Standing Finance Committee for the meeting held on Monday, 13th May, 1996.

The Honourable Temporary Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

REPORT OF THE STANDING FINANCE COMMITTEE Meeting held on Monday, 13th May, 1996

Hon. Joel Walton: I beg to lay on the Table the Report of the Standing Finance Committee for the meeting held on Monday, 13th May, 1996.

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to it?

Hon. Joel Walton: No, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The next item is the Financial Statement of Cayman Airways Limited for the year ending 31st December, 1995.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

CAYMAN AIRWAYS LIMITED'S FINANCIAL STATEMENTS FOR THE YEAR ENDING 31ST DECEMBER, 1995

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Financial Statement of Cayman Airways Limited for the year ending 31st December, 1995.

The Speaker: So ordered. Honourable Minister.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The fact that Cayman Airways has made a comeback from a period of crippling debt and a grandiose over expansion with five expensive aircraft, is a tribute first of all to this Government, to the former Managing Director, Mr. Ray Wilson, the General Manager, Mr. Mike Adams, and to the Board of Directors under the Chairmanship of Mr. Leonard Ebanks.

I cannot let this occasion pass without thanking the hardworking staff of our national airline for their efforts in helping to turn Cayman Airways around. The staff of Cay-man Airways Ltd. are also to be commended for their unwavering dedication to the airline throughout the last three and a half years.

The year ending 1995 was a challenging one. As the accounts will reflect, Cayman Airways Ltd. managed to hold its own in the face of aggressive competition. Unfortunately, the year ended with an operating loss of US$1.1 million after subsidy. The loss can be almost entirely attributed to several unusual events which are not part of normal annual operations. For example, in 1995 the leases on both of our aircraft expired within months of each other. Returning aircraft at the end of a lease is expensive and in 1995 Cayman Airways Ltd. incurred costs of $561,023 associated with returning the two Boeing 737-200s - one on lease from GPA and the other from ILFC.

These costs include the cost of one C-Check and the higher end expenses of covering our own schedule until the aircraft under the new lease was put into operation. Unfortunately, Cayman Airways Ltd. also suffered two major bird strikes at Owen Roberts International Airport in the last half of 1995, one in July and one in November. A bird strike can cause severe engine damage. In our case Cayman Airways Ltd. incurred over $300,000 in costs resulting from the two bird strikes.

Although Cayman Airways Ltd. made a profit of $1,568,473 after subsidy in 1994, due to the unusual expenses of over US$800,000, Cayman Airways Ltd. took a loss of $1,181,240 in 1995. However, Cayman Airways Ltd. made a profit of US$937,038 for the first seven months of 1996. Therefore, from 1994 to 31st July, 1996, Cayman Airways Ltd. (after subsidy) overall position is a profit of $1,324,271.

All of this has taken place while Cayman Airways Ltd. has paid off over US$1 million of the remaining debt left by the former Government, and has built up over US$1.1 million in equity in the Boeing 737-200 aircraft purchased by Government.

We purchased the aircraft from Citicorp for just over US$5 million in August 1995. This aircraft now has a market value of approximately $7 million. Therefore, Government has a profit of almost $3 million already in it.

I explained some time ago that the jet being purchased vests in a leasing company that is wholly owned by Government. Therefore, the $3 million that I could have added to the $1.3 million remains with Government. However, for legal reasons the leasing company had to be used to protect the asset of the jet.

Contrast the disaster of selling the 737-200 jets which carried one-third more passengers and which would have been fully owned in 1994 with no further loan payments which were sold in 1989 and labelled a "good deal" by Mr. Linford Pierson. Such disastrous actions and waste of public funds must never again be allowed.

This year the annual Government subsidy of Cayman Airways Ltd. has been raised several times. I wish to reiterate that since 1993 the Government has given the national carrier an annual subsidy of $4 million. Cayman Airways Ltd. gives back to Government over CI$2 million of the annual subsidy in transfer payments to other Government departments such as the Civil Aviation Authority and the remaining $2 million is used in large part to underwrite the cost of providing jet service to Cayman Brac.

Cayman Airways Ltd. remains current with all of its bills and is normally about $1.5 million to $2 million below its approved overdraft limit. In short Cayman Airways Ltd. is paying its way for the first time in nearly a decade.

I would like to remind this House of the position Cayman Airways Ltd. holds in our Islands' life and economy. The Government acknowledges the important role of the national flag carrier as a vital element of local infrastructure; and as a main platform of the tourism industry it is a vital link between Cayman Brac and Grand Cayman and it links all three islands to the rest of the world.

I am pleased to announce that the special sale on fares currently being offered by Cayman Airways Ltd. also applies to travel originating in Cayman Brac. I would like to thank the Honourable First Elected Member for Cayman Brac for aggressively pursuing this and bringing it to fruition.

As I have stated repeatedly, Government is committed to ensuring safe, reliable and efficient air transport to, from and within the Cayman Islands. Underscoring all of this is the Board of Directors' and the share-holders' cognisance of the need for Cayman Airways Ltd. to be financially viable.

As this House is aware, Cayman Airways Ltd. is working very hard to improve its overall performance. Most notably through Cayman Airways Ltd.-21, a staff-led strategic planning exercise commissioned by the Board earlier this year. This exercise will empower staff to chart the airline's future to ensure that it continues to be competitive in the long run.

Under our five year strategic plan, work is underway to developing a comprehensive marketing plan for the airline. Cayman Airways Ltd. has contracted the service of the International Air Transport Association and in just a few weeks, the airline will launch a full scale management training programme and conduct three customer service workshops with staff. This training will take place at the Community College of the Cayman Islands and will involve 120 staff members in its first phase.

I am confident that Cayman Airways Ltd. is entering a new period in its history, a time when Cayman Airways Ltd. is going forward with a new commitment to building on the solid accomplishments of the past three years and planning with an increased sense of optimism for a bright future.

While we can never predict the airline business with any degree of certainty, we are already reaping the benefits of our efforts. As at end of July 1996, Cayman Airways Ltd. has earned a profit (after subsidy) of $937,038.

Those of us who have been involved in politics in recent years cannot help but notice the way Cayman Airways Ltd. has stopped being a divisive political issue. When I took over from the previous Government the airline had been constantly in the news, and quite rightly, because the airline was headed for liquidation. Contrast that situation in the early 1990s when Cayman Airways Ltd. lost over US$14 million in one year alone, with the past four years and it is obvious that the airline has rarely been in the news and when it has, it has been for positive media coverage.

In 1992 no bank in George Town would lend money to Cayman Airways Ltd. or to the Government for Cayman Airways Ltd.. Today, because of prudent leadership and improved performance, Cayman Airways Ltd. can now obtain bank loans, leasing arrangements and financing arrangements with favourable terms.

I have tried, wherever possible, to make the airline's operation more open than ever before. It has been opened up for critical examination. It has answered its questions fully, I should say too fully, perhaps, and promptly. Perhaps most importantly, it has restored its reputation in international aviation community, as well as in the local financial industry.

I believe that my 27 years' experience as a lawyer, 21 years experience in banking and as a bank director, with God's help and the Board and Ministry's staff, I have had the ability to guide Cayman Airways Ltd. back to a stable and sensible financial position.

Finally, let me say that our national airline must not be taken for granted. It needs constant attention by skilled experts. Before I spend the public's money I ask myself, If this were my money would I spend it? I believe in accountability to the public, I believe I must be very careful when dealing with the public's money to ensure that the public gets the best value for each dollar spent. My experience has taught me to be cautious. Cayman Airways Ltd.'s survival depends heavily on conservative and cautious handling of its finances. In the wrong hands it could swiftly regress to the bad old days and bankruptcy.

Cayman Airways Ltd.'s future, and who will be the Minister for Cayman Airways Ltd., is in the hands of the electorate in 1996. I have faith they will vote wisely.

In conclusion, I am happy to report that Cayman Airways Ltd. continues in its very important role as the national flag carrier of the Cayman Islands and has been transformed into an airline of which we can all be justly proud. It is not just an airline, it is our airline. I invite the public to continue to support Cayman Airways Ltd. and on behalf of this Government I wish our national carrier clear skies and many more safe flights.

The Speaker: Report of the Standing Finance Committee. The Honourable Temporary Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

REPORT OF THE STANDING FINANCE COMMITTEE Meeting held 27th September, 1996

Hon. Joel Walton: I beg to lay upon the Table the Report of the Standing Finance Committee for the meeting held on Wednesday, 27th December, 1995.

The Speaker: So ordered. Do you wish to speak to it?

Hon. Joel Walton: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

In accordance with the provisions of the Standing Order 73(5), the Standing Finance Committee met to consider a Paper from the Financial Secretary, Chairman of the Committee, which was circulated to all Members, together with the Notice of Meeting, on 26th September, 1996.

The Committee met and agreed to the transfer of $3 million to General Reserve Fund to be made up of $1 million from the sale of the Housing Development Corporation Loan Portfolio and $2 million from the accumulated surplus and deficit account.

The Speaker: In accordance with Standing Order 67(4) the Report is deemed to have been approved by the House. At this time I would ask for a motion to suspend Standing Order 23(7) & (8) to allow Questions on the Order Paper to be dealt with.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

SUSPENSION OF STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8)

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: I move the suspension of Standing Order 23 (7) & (8) to allow Questions on the Order Paper to be dealt with.

The Speaker: The question is that Standing Order 23 (7) & (8) to allow Questions on the Order Paper to be dealt with. I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED. STANDING ORDER 23(7) AND (8) SUSPENDED.

The Speaker: Questions to Honourable Members/ Ministers. Question No. 183, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTIONS TO HONOURABLE MEMBERS/MINISTERS

QUESTION NO. 183

No. 183: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what the Recurrent and Capital Expenditure on Government schools has been over the past four years.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: The total recurrent and capital expenditure on Government schools over the past four years was in excess of $79,839,642. This can be broken down as follows:

Year	Recurrent	Capital	Total
1993	$14,924,575	$ 828,601	$15,753,176
1994	15,861,069	2,865,773	18,726,842
1995	16,866,496	2,979,763	19,846,259
*1996	19,860,088	5,653,277	25,513,365

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Is the Honourable Minister in a position to say if in the Strategic Plan there are any recommendations for additional schools to be constructed?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Boddan: Yes. At the George Hicks High School there has been approval of $1.4 million for the construction of an Art block. Physical Education changing rooms, an extension to the Administration Building and construction of the Art building is due to begin at the end of October. There is also an expenditure on a sewerage plant that will be going in there.

West Bay Primary School: Public Works Department is in the process of preparing plans and estimates for a multipurpose hall. Also, at the George Hicks High School plans are being looked at, or being requested for a new multipurpose hall and new library.

The Teacher's Centre, Cayman Brac: The land has been cleared and I understand that construction is to begin any day now on the new Teacher's Centre on the Brac. That is scheduled for the end of 1996.

At Creek Primary School there are plans for two new class rooms. At Spot Bay Primary there are plans to build a new multipurpose hall in 1997.

Lighthouse School: The Education Department is working with Public Works Department and an architect from the United Kingdom on the preliminary design specifications of the new purpose built school for children with special needs.

Sunrise Centre: Once the present site of the Lighthouse school is vacated, there will be a new Sunrise Centre built about the same time as the Lighthouse School. I think that is probably the most. I had actually prepared this for another question, so it is probably good that it has come out here.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Boddan Town.

Mr. Roy Boddan: I noticed that for the years 1993, 1994 and 1995 under all of the categories, for example 'recurrent'. For 1993, 1994 and 995 there is a million dollar difference in the expenditure. Estimated for 1996 there is a $3 million difference between 1995 and 1996; similarly with Capital, there is a $3 million difference. When it comes to the total between the year 1995 and 1996 there is approximately a $6 million difference. Can the Minister explain these differences in the estimates for the year 1996?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: On the recurrent side, we have more children in the system and we needed more teachers and more equipment and more staff. On the capital side, since for the first seven months of this year the Government has a recurrent surplus of $18.4 million, and since we have drawn no loans this year, and total loans for the last four years of only about $6.5 million total, we had excess money this year. I got a share of that and I put it into education. I believe the best place for those large amounts of profit should be in education. I hope that the First Elected Member for Bodden Town can agree with me on that.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Certainly the Minister knows that he has my agreement on that. Can he say if under the category for recurrent the enrolments for 1996 have been significantly greater? I notice there is a million dollar difference for the three years 1993, 1994 and 1995. But in 1996... if the Minister's answer follows, does that mean that we had an inordinate number of students enrolling in 1996?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: That is correct. In fact, I think it may have been the Fourth Elected Member for George Town who asked me that earlier. We did have an inordinate number of students enrolled. Five years ago there was an increase in the birth rate and I think we have had over 200 extra children who have now come into the schools. That is why we built four new classrooms in George Town, four in Savannah and last year we built the Red Bay Primary. Hopefully it will stabilise. Birth rates were up.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 184, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 184

No. 184: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what recent repair works were done to the Campbell Building and the cost thereof.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The Campbell Building has been under continuous repair since 1993. The building has to be completely re-roofed as it is leaking so badly that the interior walls of the building are stained. The repairs have arisen because the Campbell Building was purchased in February 1992 without a Certificate of Occupancy and could not be occupied for nearly two years. The price of the building repairs, etc., exceeded CI$200 per square.

The Government's Lands Officer recommended a purchase price of CI$1,175,000, but the building was purchased for CI$222,500 more. Additionally, another CI$293,521 had to be spent on alterations, repairs and fitting-out costs because the building was structurally unsound and unsuitable for the offices required for the Education Department. The total cost of the building was some CI$516,021 more than the Government's Lands Officer recommended. The facts are in the 1993 Auditor General's Report on pages 20 to 25.

The cost of this work which is supposed to begin on 1st October, 1996, is estimated to be $35,000. In addition, the second floor must be reinforced and no estimates are available on this yet. To give some indication as to what has been spent on this building since 1993, $9,110 was spent in 1993; $12,570 was spent in 1994; $16,619 was spent in 1995; and $13,332 has so far been spent in 1996, for a total in four years of $51,631. This does not include the cost of re-roofing the building or reinforcing the second floor.

The extent of the repairs needed to that building is a national disgrace. It is a wonder to me how this building was ever given a Certificate of Occupancy, much less that it was purchased by Government.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: I am sure that the Honourable Minister is aware of the plumbing problems in the building and the mildew. Of the $35,000 estimated for 1st October, are these repairs included in that?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: To be honest, I understand the file on these repairs is so large there was a problem getting all of the details. I am not certain. They could not give me the cost of repairs on the roof which will be very substantial. Structurally, because I think that the four Elected Members for George Town realise this, the beams were not put in on the first floor. That apparently still has to be dealt with. I do not know how much that is going to cost.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Because our MLA Office was there I became aware of the plumbing situation. I would kindly ask the Honourable Minister if he would have a word with the Public Works Department to ensure that the plumbing is corrected. The water is constantly running and the walls are full of mildew. This should be corrected.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I will undertake to have that corrected. To be very frank, it would probably be better to push that down and build a new one, but that is my view.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Can the Honourable Minister say if he has tried approaching the Member of the 1988-1992 Government, the Member for Works, to repurchase the building?

The Speaker: I am afraid we shall have to go on to question No. 185, standing in the name of The Fourth Elected Member for George Town. We are dealing with serious matters here, not frivolity.

QUESTION NO. 185

No. 185: Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy asked The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture what programmes for Community Development has Government implemented.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: The Social Services Department recruited three Community Development Officers in 1996. After undergoing one month's intensive training at the Department, they were sent into the communities to start work with various groups. One officer serves George Town, one West Bay and one East End, North Side and Bodden Town. Further training was provided in January 1996 by Dr John Maxwell, Senior Lecturer in the Department of Sociology and Social Work of the University of the West Indies. Representatives involved in community work from local churches, the Education Department and the Royal Cayman Islands Police also participated in this training.

The overall programme strategy is to get residents of each community working together to create the kind of community in which they want to live. Community development programmes are long term and will be achieved by the implementation of projects, a number of which have been initiated within certain neighbourhoods through community organisation, that is, people working together to get things done.

The programme initiatives so far have been: 1) Assisting communities to assess their strengths and weaknesses and enabling them to address these assessed needs; 2) Working with some communities to develop programmes and projects arising out of assessed needs; and 3) Educating communities on relevant social issues.

In the Watlers Road area the Community Development Officer for George Town has co-ordinated a beautification project, developed a park and playground for children and put in place a summer reading project in conjunction with the Public Library. Several persons from this community have participated in all these activities. With a great deal of assistance from community members and Government resources, he has additionally spearheaded the renovation of an elderly man's house together with the Second and Third Elected Members of George Town. In collaboration with the Police, a drug awareness project has also started.

In conjunction with members of central George Town, a community park has been put in place. I would like to pause here to offer a word of thanks to Mr. Anthony Ramoon and others who initiated the park in Central George Town. This park was opened two weeks ago.

In the Windsor Park area, certain neighbourhoods have been cleaned up and community meetings for needs assessment and project development are continuing. In association with the Rotary Club, the Officer is currently involved in the re-development of a park and playground in the Windsor Park area. The representatives I mentioned earlier are also involved in this project.

The Community Development Officer for East End has assisted the community with a beach development project. She was also able to involve the community in the renovation of the home of an elderly gentleman. A few activities were also carried out for the young people of the district. The Community Development Officer for George Town assisted her in her involvement with the Coe Wood beach project in Bodden Town, which was done by the community. Additionally, she has visited elderly persons in the three districts, identified their needs and referred them to the Social Services Department for assistance.

In the district of West Bay, the Community Development Officer, in collaboration with members of the community, has renovated the Boatswain Bay Park, which became the Beulah Smith Park, assisted with the primary school lunch programme and developed a beach project. She has also managed to involve a number of persons in the community in gardening projects for elderly and disabled residents of the district.

On August 24, 1996, the Social Services Department opened the R. B. Kirkconnell Community Care Centre by admission of clients after a great deal of work had been carried out to make the facility ready for use with the staff trained over a three week period by a senior nurse of the George Town Hospital.

I would like to thank the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman for his involvement in that initiative.

Adaptations are currently being made to the home purchased in West Bay which will house the department's Adult Special Needs Programme and a few elderly residents of the district. The facility will be ready for occupancy in a month's time. It is hoped that members of the community will visit the residents of these two homes and assist the department in whatever way they can to make the home a viable part of community life.

The family study initiated by the Social Services Department is nearing completion and findings are being presented to the Ministry and Department. It is expected that as a result of data obtained, recommendations will be made regarding the strengthening of existing community programmes or the implementation of new ones.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Can the Honourable Minister say if there will be any additional community development officers added to the three we presently have?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: The Department and the Ministry recognise that it is difficult for one community development officer to work in such a large district of George Town, if that is what the Member is referring to. I believe that there should certainly be another one and attempts will be made to get that one in the new budget.

A similar exercise was carried out in the present budget for another officer for East End, Bodden Town and North Side, but that position was not approved in the 1996 Budget and I hope that it will be approved in the 1997 Budget, God willing.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 186, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town. He is not present. The next question is No. 187, stands in the name of the Second Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 187

No. 187: Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson asked the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works to state what capital works projects have been approved for George Town in the last four years, giving details of costs.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: Answer: The amounts spent per year for the last four years on George Town capital projects are as follows: 1993 - $3 million; 1994 - $9 million; 1995 - $7 million; 1996 - $12 million.

The itemised cost breakdown for these various projects is quite lengthy, and with your permission I will be happy to read them out, but it covers about 50 pages. (See page 787 for circulated attachment.)

The Speaker: I think in this case the attachments can be circulated to all Members.

Hon. John B. McLean: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Is the Minister in a position to say how that expenditure compares to previous periods?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

Hon. John B. McLean: The figures for previous years differ substantially. I must say that literally every year for the four years the projects in George Town have been on the rise.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 188, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for West Bay, who is also not present.

(In the absence of the Third Elected Member for West Bay, the Speaker moved on to question No. 189)

The Speaker: The next question is No. 189, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town

QUESTION NO. 189

No. 189: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning to give the total number of students overseas on Government scholarships and the cost, by year, during the past seven years.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The present Government is fully committed to post-secondary education for Caymanians and this is clearly reflected in our allocation of funds and actual expenditure on scholarships for studies overseas.

The total number of students on Government scholarships at the present time is 137. Expenditure on Government scholarships over the past 7 years was as follows:

1990	$ 595,603
1991	528,400

1992	536,252
1993	875,000
1994	1,187,543
1995	1,293,155
1996 (budgeted)	1,293,155

I would ask Members to bear in mind that other monies are spent educating and training Caymanians at the post-secondary level and the figures listed for studies overseas do not fully reflect Government's expenditure on education at that level.

Most significant of these other expenditures is the Government's support of the Community College of the Cayman Islands. The Community College provides a host of opportunities for Caymanians to continue their education after high school. The College offers technical, trade and vocational programmes, e.g., electrical, plumbing, carpentry and automotive repairs, certificate and diploma programmes, e.g., 'O' levels, Pittman's and City & Guilds, as well as a series of professional courses, e.g., those for accountants, bankers and insurance agents.

The opportunity for students to complete the first two years of a Bachelor's degree locally, before transferring to a recognised college abroad for their final two years, will mean that a larger number of students will be able to complete their tertiary education and that the Education Council's scholarship programme will be able to assist a greater number of students to complete their final two years of study.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: In the written answer, the Honourable Minister gives the figures for 1990 to 1996. Can he say why it jumps from $595,000 in 1990 to $1,293,155 budgeted in 1996?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: This is because we revised the priority list for scholarships.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Is the Honourable Minister in a position to say how many of these students are of Caymanian parents?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: They all would have to have a parent of Caymanian status and they would have to have Caymanian status themselves and have been resident for five years in schools here, prior to having been awarded a scholarship.

The Speaker: The next question is No. 190, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town

QUESTION NO. 190

No. 190: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what the Honourable Minister and the Education Council have done towards grants to and recognition of I.C.C.I. for the purposes of Civil Service employment and increments.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The Education Council granted the International College of the Cayman Islands (ICCI) registration in 1993 and I signed and delivered their registration certificate. The College once again benefits from Government's annual grants to private schools and colleges (which were stopped from 1984-1992), and from not having to pay customs' duty on equipment and supplies for use at the College. On the matter of recognition of ICCI for the purpose of Civil Service employment and increments of salary, this is a matter for the Public Service Commission and the Personnel Department, as under the Cayman Islands (Constitution) Order, a political Minister is prohibited from being involved in Civil Service conditions of employment.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister state the reasons why ICCI was not recognised by the Government until 1993?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The fact is that the last two Governments did not recognise them. The National Team has. I am happy to say that the grant which they were deprived of for eight years has now been put back in place. We are well positioned with this large surplus of $18.4 million. We can help more private institutions, such as ICCI, even beyond the grant.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say if the Government offers any scholarships which are tenable at the ICCI?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: At present the Government does not offer scholarships locally, either for the Community College, ICCI, nor the Cayman Islands Law School. But I think the time has come, especially with this large surplus of $18.4 million, for grants to be made to ICCI and the Community for local scholarships, also the Law School.

I believe the Member will appreciate that none of the three institutions come under this at present, but every year for the last four years, the Honourable Member knows that as he voted money for scholarships it was for study abroad.

The Speaker: Honourable Minister, may I remind you about repetition? This has happened a couple of times.

The next question is No. 191, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

QUESTION NO. 191

No. 191: Miss Heather D. Bodden asked the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning what school buildings have been completed over the past four years.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The school buildings which have been completed over the past four years are: four classrooms and two activity rooms at the John A Cumber Primary School; phase 2 of the project being completed a year early; administration block, computer room and library, also at the John A Cumber Primary School; Red Bay Primary School - four additional classrooms; Savannah Primary School - four additional classrooms and a male and female toilet block; George Town Primary School - four additional classrooms and a male and female toilet block; Spot Bay Primary School - Principal's office and sick bay; West End Primary School one additional classrooms, Principal's office and staff room; George Hicks High School - technical block, classroom and science laboratory.

In addition, construction on a new Teacher's Centre in Cayman Brac and a new art block and physical education changing room at the George Hicks High School is set to begin next month. Several other school buildings are in the early stages of preparation.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: In the last part of the answer the Honourable Minister stated that several other school buildings are in the early stages of preparation. Can he expand on that statement, please?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The other projects include the George Hicks High School, $1.4 million for the construction of one art block, physical education changing rooms and extension to the administration building. Construction on the art building is due to begin at the end of October. Construction of the physical education changing rooms and the extension to the administration building is expected to begin at the end of this year. Plans are moving forward for the sewerage plant. Also, we have indicated plans to build a new multipurpose hall at George Hicks, and a new library. The old hall will then be converted into a self-contained canteen and a purpose built kitchen added to it.

West Bay Primary School: Public Works Department is in the process of preparing plans and estimates for a multipurpose hall. Construction is expected to begin this year.

The Teacher's Centre, Cayman Brac: The land has been cleared and I understand that construction is to begin any day now and is scheduled to be finished this year.

At Creek Primary School there are plans for two new class rooms in 1997. At Spot Bay Primary there are plans to build a new multipurpose hall in 1997.

Lighthouse School: The Education Department is working with Public Works Department and a specialised architect from the United Kingdom on the preliminary design specifications of the new purpose-built school for children with special needs.

Sunrise Centre will have a new purpose-built school. This will also include some residential facilities. This is for older persons with special needs.

Any other area that arises out of the good Five Year Development Plan for Education, which this Honourable House passed under the action plans for schools will also be built.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Is the action plan which is to dictate the time line for the various improvements and additional classroom space to the school system throughout the islands set up to do all of this? How is this being done?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The Strategic Planning process was one in which the teachers, parents, students and public were all involved. That had 105 action plans of which 83 are now being implemented. It has just been revised again.

Having said that, this specific matter as to the needs for specific schools will be dealt with by the teachers, parents and where the children are old enough they will be involved through the site-based planning of which three have now started. So rather than having the centralised type of planning, we have now really put major decisions into the hands of teachers and members of the public. Depending on what comes out of the site-based planning we will know what each site specifically needs.

I will say that the site-based planning is very good indeed because it allows the schools to keep the matters which are peculiar to them and it allows those schools to be moulded in the way the teachers and the parents in those areas would wish them to go.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Can the Honourable Minister say if there are plans to air-condition the classrooms?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Minister say if the individuals involved in the sit-based planning have any terms of reference with regard to the type of development they should be looking towards regarding a time span?

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The Strategic Five Year Plan, which I am pleased to say the Honourable Member has supported, came first. Out of that came the action plans. Site-based planning has just begun with three schools. We hope to have all schools through site-base planning by 1999. I have not yet received a final report from a site-base plan at one of the three schools. Therefore, I am not really in a position to reply to the Member on that specific point.

The Speaker: We will revert to question No. 186, standing in the name of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

QUESTION NO. 186

No. 186: Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts asked the Honourable First Official Member to state Government's present policy regarding the recruitment of new teachers for the public schools.

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Government's policy for the recruitment of teachers is that Caymanians who are suitably qualified for teaching posts are given first consideration and the remaining vacancies are filled through local or overseas recruitment.

SUPPLEMENTARIES

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member elaborate on the method used for overseas recruitment?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: The recruitment of overseas teachers would be done very much the same way as the recruitment of any other civil servant. The posts would be advertised overseas and depending on where (for argument sake, if it is advertised in the United Kingdom) it would be short listed. We normally use the London Office to assist along with persons locally, generally a representative of the Public Service Commission or the Personnel Department. After a short listing is done the person would be interviewed and the successful candidate would be offered employment.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member state if there are any defined geographical areas where these posts are advertised?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Generally posts are advertised in the United Kingdom, but it is not confined to the United Kingdom. Quite often advertisements are placed in Canada and at times they are done regionally within the Caribbean. So there does not necessarily have to be one geographic location.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Is there a representative of the Education Department or the Portfolio of Education who attends these interviews when these teachers are selected?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Yes, that is normally the case, that a representative of the Education Department attends the interview.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Getting back to the geographical locations. Can the Honourable Member state if there is a specific policy, or is it done on a rotating basis? Exactly how is it decided where to run the advertisements when this needs to take place?

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: I am not prepared to say if there is a rotating policy. I can undertake to get this information and give it to the Member in writing, but I would hazard to guess that there is not a rotating policy, but I would prefer to prepare a written answer.

The Speaker: The next question is one that was omitted due to the absence of the Member asking the question. Question No. 188, standing in the name of the Third Elected Member for West Bay.

QUESTION NO. 188

No. 188: Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr. asked the Honourable Temporary Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development to give details of the borrowings, excluding Cayman Airways Limited for 1993, 1994 and 1995 and indicate the comparison for 1990, 1991 and 1992.

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. Joel Walton: Answer: The details of the borrowings by Central Government (excluding the recapitalisation of Cayman Airways Limited in the amount of $16,666,667 used to repay debts incurred prior to 1st January, 1993) are as follows:-

Years	Loans Approved	Actual Draw-downs
1990	$ 600,000	$ 600,000
1991	12,900,000	11,971,168
	1,500,000	500,000
1992	0	0
Sub-total	15,000,000	13,071,168
1993	0	0
1994		*600,000
	8,130,171	5,397,000
1995		1,200,000
Sub-total	8,130,171	12,297,000

*Honourable Members are asked to note that the $6 million drawn down in 1994 came from a 1992 Health Services Authority loan which was converted to Central Government Public Debt when the Authority reverted to departmental status on 1st January, 1994. The actual drawn-down related to loans approved and contracted during the period 1993-1995 is therefore $6,597,000.

SUPPLEMENTARY

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Can the Honourable Member say what percentage of Government's budget is required to service our airline now?

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. Joel Walton: Approximately 6%.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: Can the Honourable Member state if there are any loans which are not being paid back at present, but will have to be paid back because of a "period of forgiveness?"

The Speaker: The Honourable Temporary Third Official Member responsible for Finance and Development.

Hon. Joel Walton: Based on what I can recall (as I do not have those figures on hand), the only loans that would fall into that category would be those which we draw down during 1996. So far we have not made any draw downs against the loan approvals.

The Speaker: That concludes Question Time for today. Statement by Members/Ministers of the Government.

The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

STATEMENTS BY MEMBERS/MINISTERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

NATIONAL PENSION LAW, 1996
-AND-
STATUS OF REGULATIONS

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Madam Speaker, Honourable Members of this House are aware that the National Pensions Law, 1996 was passed in the Legislative Assembly in July, during the June 1996 Meeting. The Law has not yet come into force, as provided for in Section 95 (1) and (2), "Commencement" of the Law. Honourable Members are also aware that Section 94 (4) of the Law provides that Regulations under the Law are subject to the Affirmative Resolution of the Legislative Assembly.

When I presented the Bill to the Legislative Assembly in July I said that Government intended to bring Regulations to the House in the September Meeting, subject to public consultation, for the Affirmative Resolution. It was the intention that with the Regulations being approved in the September Meeting, the Law and Regulations could come into force as one package in September, with the 6-month (180 days) grace period as allowed under Section 6 (2) of the Law.

Drafting Instructions, together with other instructive information such as a copy of the Ontario Canada Regulations to the Pension Benefits Act, were given to the Legislative Drafting Department on 24th May, 1996. Due to other priority Drafting work as well as scheduled leave within that Department, the Legislative Counsel was unable to commence substantive work on the Regulations until early August. These factors as well as the very technical and time-consuming nature of drafting pension regulations has resulted in the Legislative Drafting Department being unable to complete a set of Regulations in time to be considered by Executive Council, thereafter allowing some level of public consultation, and then presented to the Legislative Assembly in this September Meeting, the final for the 1992-96 Legislature. I therefore have no other option but to proceed with the Drafting, collating of advice and input from appropriate experts, and when completed to present the draft Regulations to ExCo for approval in order to circulate for public consultation. Subject to public consultation, I propose that the Regulations can be taken to the Legislative Assembly in the first Meeting of 1997.

This obviously will impede the timetable for this legislative package as well as the preparations by Government as the Regulator and those organisations who will apply to be Approved Providers of pensions, for the smooth implementation of this initiative.

In the interim, in order to avoid a "time crunch" with the coming into force of the Law without the Regulations, Government has agreed that the preferred option is to delay the coming into effect of the Law, until November 1996. This enactment date plus the 6-month grace period will allow Government, potential Providers, employers and the public until May 1997 to complete their preparation before the Law is enforced. As mentioned previously, if the Regulations are approved by the Legislative Assembly in March 1997, there should be enough time allowed between then and May.

Honourable Members will recall that the National Pensions Law is very comprehensive and includes many of the provisions which are normally found in Regulations, therefore by using the Law and the forthcoming Draft Regulations (until March for reference) all of the prospective Providers and Employers should be able to determine the requirements so as to prepare or modify their plans in order to be in compliance with the Law in May 1997.

Simultaneously, the Drafting of Regulations should continue as a matter of priority, so as to facilitate approval by Council and ample opportunity for public input. In this exercise, my Ministry intends to seek outside technical assistance, such as an Actuary, for the drafting and review of certain provisions of the Regulations, in accordance with standard procedure for the engagement of such services. Finally, my Ministry will continue to develop relationships with international pension experts and regulatory agencies, as well as to receive advice and assistance on matters such as staffing, computer systems and software etc., for the Inspectorate and the Superintendent of Pensions.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works.

LETTER FROM COMMISSIONER OF POLICE RE: CIRCULATION OF FALSE DOCUMENTS

Hon. John B. McLean: I am pleased to have received a letter from the Commissioner of Police following the investigation of an unscrupulous attack on me and to make known to this country my innocence. The letter reads as follows:

"Dear Mr. McLean:

I enclose for your information a copy of a press statement that will be given to the press today [that was yesterday]. It states, as you will see, that the Police investigation of the matter you reported to me has shown that there was a deliberate attempt to discredit you and harm your reputation. The alteration of an authorised cheque and the mailing of false documents to various persons was a malicious and deliberate attempt to cause you embarrassment, and harm your standing in the community, no doubt because of the forthcoming election.

"While the police investigation has been unable, to date, to identify the offender(s) and to institute a prosecution, it is clear that this was a scurrilous attempt to taint your character and it may yet become possible to identify the culprit and take appropriate legal action.

Yours sincerely,
The Commissioner of Police."

Madam Speaker, the press release is as follows:

"In July this year the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works, Mr. John B. McLean, reported to the police that some person, or persons, unknown had been circulating through the mail various documents that purported to show that a large sum of money had been paid to him. Mr. McLean claimed that the documents were forgeries and the police were asked to investigate the matter. The police enquiry revealed that Mr. McLean's allegations were correct, and there was evidence that a bank draft had been altered, copied and circulated with other documents in an attempt to discredit Mr. McLean. The bank draft had originally been drawn by a local bank at the request of Hampstead's and was payable to one of their overseas suppliers. The draft had later been altered and copied and was obvious forgery. While the person or persons responsible have not been identified, the police enquiry has clearly shown this to be a malicious act against Mr. McLean designed to embarrass and potentially damage his reputation with the approaching general elections."

This is indeed a political move to smear my character during the upcoming election. I can only say to the ones responsible for it that this is not politics, this is down-right nasty. Instead of encouraging this type of attack, issues should be dealt with which are beneficial to these islands.

I am totally shocked to hear that a company like Hampstead's would have been involved in such an act. I would like to especially thank all of my good friends and supporters, particularly the people of East End who continued to encourage me to hold my head high during the times when nasty allegations were being circulated.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

REPORT OF THE STANDING HOUSE COMMITTEE

The Speaker: We will deal with the two reports which were deferred until this later period. The first is the Report of the Standing House Committee. The Elected Member for North Side, Chairman of the Committee.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 72(5), I beg to lay upon the Table of this Honourable House the Report of the Standing House Committee.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: During 1996 the House Committee held two meetings and for the four year tenure of this Committee some 36 recommendations were made, of which 17 were achieved. Left unachieved are some 14 issues which need to be addressed.

The Committee suggests that the incoming Standing House Committee addresses those issues that have not been addressed during our four year tenure.

I would like to thank the Members of the Committee for their input over the past four years and the relevant Government Departments which assisted to implement the recommendations of the Committee.

The Committee agrees that this Report be the Report of the Standing House Committee to this Honourable Legislative Assembly.

In accordance with the provision of Standing Order 72(5), I move that the recommendations contained in the report of the House Committee be adopted.

The Speaker: Is there a seconder? The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: I beg to second the motion.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THAT THE RECOMMENDATIONS CONTAINED IN THE REPORT OF THE STANDING HOUSE COMMITTEE BE ADOPTED.

The Speaker: Next, is the Select Committee on the Fundamental Rights Clause of the Constitution.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

THIRD AND FINAL REPORT OF THE STANDING SELECT COMMITTEE OF ELECTED MEMBERS TO STUDY THE FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS CLAUSE OF THE CONSTITUTION MOTION NO. 4/93

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I beg to lay on the Table of this Honourable House the Third and Final Report of the Standing Select Committee of Elected Members to study the Fundamental Rights Clause of the Constitution Motion No. 4/93.

The Speaker: So ordered.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: The Report first deals with the appointment of a Chairman and then minutes of meetings.

The Committee met on nine occasions, namely:

- 28th November, 1994
- 28th February, 1995
- 22nd May, 1995

- 4th August, 1995
- 27th November, 1995
- 22nd May, 1996
- 9th September, 1996
- 26th September, 1996;
- 27th September, 1996 to consider the Committee's report with the concise written statement of dissent.

NOTES AND RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE COMMITTEE TO THE HOUSE:

The Committee notes: (i) that the International Convention on Human Rights and the European Convention on Human Rights apply to the Cayman Islands by virtue of the United Kingdom being a signatory thereto and having extended them to the Cayman Islands:

- (ii) that history records that no one has been deprived of their fundamental rights in the Cayman Islands;
- (iii) that the United Kingdom has neither a written constitution nor a bill of rights, but is foremost in the world with respect to human rights;
- (iv) that a Bill of Rights is not normally inserted in a Constitution at the early stages of the Constitution, such as is in effect in the Cayman Islands since 1972. As there is no Chief Minister the Constitution reserves responsibility for the judiciary, public service, external affairs and other important matters to His Excellency the Governor. All laws continue to require the assent of His Excellency the Governor and are subject to non-disallowance by Her Majesty's Government. Both the Executive Council and the Legislative Assembly are advisory to His Excellency;
- (v) that the Draft Constitution of 1991, which the public rejected at the 1992 General Elections, would have advanced the Constitution of the Cayman Islands to a near final stage with a Chief Minister and would have required the Bill of Rights to temper the wide discretion and substantial power given to a Chief Minister and dilution of the powers of His Excellency.
- (vi) that on 23rd September, 1993, the Legislative Assembly passed a motion, as amended, approving a Bill of Rights with the exception of section 48I of Part IV A, which was the Right of Freedom of Conscience. However, the United Kingdom would not accept the Bill of Rights without the provision of Freedom of Conscience.

Due to the very serious concerns of the public in relation mainly to the fundamental right being freedom of conscience due to probable protection of cults and the erosion of moral and religious rights which have arisen in other countries, this Committee feels that there should be an opportunity for the public to make representation to a Select Committee and for full public debate on the matter and, if necessary, a referendum on these issues and thereafter for the Legislative Assembly to follow the wishes of a majority of the public.

WRITTEN STATEMENT OF DISSENT:

In accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 72(4)(h), the Committee granted leave for Mr. Gilbert McLean and Mr. Roy Bodden to attach to the Report a concise written statement of their reasons for dissenting to the Report. The statement is appended hereto.”

The Speaker: Do you wish to move a motion for the adoption?

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Yes, Madam Speaker, I move the adoption of the report.

The Speaker: The question is that the Third and Final Report of the Select Committee on the Fundamental Rights clause of the Constitution be adopted.

I shall put the question. Those in favour please say Aye...Those against No.

AYES.

The Speaker: The Ayes have it.

AGREED: THAT THE RECOMMENDATIONS CONTAINED IN THE REPORT OF THE STANDING SELECT COMMITTEE OF ELECTED MEMBERS TO STUDY THE FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS CLAUSE OF THE CONSTITUTION MOTION NO. 4/93, BE ADOPTED.

The Speaker: We continue with the debate on the Report of the Auditor General and the Public Accounts Committee on the audited accounts of the Cayman Islands Government for the year ended 31st December, 1995, which also includes the Government Minute.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

DEBATE ON THE REPORT OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL AND THE REPORT OF THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE ON THE AUDITED ACCOUNTS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS GOVERNMENT FOR THE YEAR ENDED 31ST DECEMBER, 1995

(Continuation of debate thereon)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As the evening wears on, we are now at 5.30, I am going to attempt to be briefer than I normally would have been in relation to this.

The few areas in this report that I would like to touch on relate mainly to the sections that deal with the status of the Propax Industrial Exports Ltd. (page 62). The Auditor General basically says that the contracts for the Water Authority show that there were no competitive bids and that the contracts that were granted, in fact a contract was first granted back in 1989 (but it said in 1991 that was then extended). The contract was originally only two point something million dollars. It was extended several times to bring it up to an excess of $8 million, but it went to the same company.

Set out in the report are several irregularities in those contracts. The position was that the last Government decided that the Finance and Stores Regulations did not apply. But the Auditor General found that they should have applied and he stated on page 61: “The Audit Office questioned management why the single source purchasing arrangements were permitted to continue for almost six years, apparently in contravention of Financial and Stores Regulations.”

He went on to say on page 62, under Transparency and Accountability, “Under Government procurement regulations, all acquisitions of goods and services in excess of $10,000 must be obtained by contract after public tender. Not only should all eligible suppliers have an equal opportunity to bid, but the award of public contracts must be seen by the community to be fair and equitable.”

He then went on to deal with a further irregularity in this on page 62. At paragraph 4.16 the Auditor General says, “At an early stage of the audit, it was observed that a cheque for $795,131 for materials supplied by Propax was actually made payable to an unknown third party, Mr. E. Mayar. There was no documentation on file supporting this diversion of contractor funds. This was considered to be a material breach of internal control. Management could not explain who Mr. Mayar was, nor why the payment was made to him.”

This is a very serious matter. What happened here is that a cheque in the sum of $795,131 was made payable to a man who nobody can explain, nor is there any documentation on who he was. Pipes were received from the United Kingdom for this payment. The Auditor General goes on to say, “The Audit Office was unable to independently validate these explanations. Although there was no financial loss to the Authority, the diversion of legitimate payments to an unknown third party constituted a material breach of internal control and placed the Authority at considerable risk.” “Enquiries with the UK Registrar of Companies revealed that Propax Industrial Exports Ltd. Was registered in April 1985 with £100 paid up share capital. According to statutory returns filed, the directors continue to report that Propax has never traded and is a dormant company within the definition of the UK Companies Act ordinance. This is clearly false. The company continues to show £100 in paid up share capital as its sole asset in its returns filed with the UK Registrar."

What is so important about this is that an exercise was done by the Auditor General to show the amount of pipe purchased, as set out on page 59, of $4,142,830. This is what he said at paragraph 4.12, "The Audit Office arranged for Crown Agents to carry out a pricing test in June 1994. This exercise established that Propax's 1993 pipe prices were between 29% and 59% higher than CIF prices quoted by the Crown Agents." That is frightening.

You have $4,142,830 paid to a company in the United Kingdom, by the name of Propax, which says that it has never traded and has £100 capital; we find that in excess of $2 million, about $2.4 million of that could have been saved. It leads to something in all of these transactions over a period of time during the last Government's period (and I point that out, not during this Government's period), in which some $2.3 million or $2.4 million more was paid for pipes for water lines than should have been paid. I believe that if the Public Accounts Committee could get no answers from the staff it should have called the Minister who had responsibility, Mr. Linford Pierson.

Somebody has to know who this man is that $700,000-odd was paid to. In fact, I understand that the word Mayar (minus the r) means illusory in the dictionary. What is not illusory is the very substantial amount of money that went to what appears to be some type of a sham company and a man who no one knows. Further, at page 60 we find the Auditor General saying this: "Taking into account increases in producer prices, quantity discounts and shipping economies of scale, the Audit Office concluded that up to 50% of the cost of pipes for the Spotts-Pease Bay extension could have been saved through competitive procurement in the United States."

Other areas of irregularities for Cayman Water Company during the last Government's time are further set out at page 64 where the Auditor General said, "The civil engineering works were eventually completed in May 1994, some seven years after award of the original contract. [This is very important because some of these contracts were entered into six and seven years prior and part of a small amount of it was finished during this Government's time. But he made it very clear when he said:] Works were eventually completed in May 1994, some seven years after award of the original contract. [Which would have been back in 1989.] The value of work carried out by the contractor increased from the tender sum of $2.6 million to $10.367 million." That is frightening.

No wonder the Government of that time was broke, paying monies to illusory people and companies.

Further on this, the Auditor General sets out (beginning at page 64) where increases were allowed under the contracts which the Auditor General felt were excessive increases. For example, in 1992 (and this must have been the last Government's parting shot), "39% time and method related overhead charges were incorporated in ever individual unit rate." Thirty-nine percent in that parting year in the charges, as set out at page 64.

We find also where the Auditor General sets out (page 67) that an independent consultant provided the following comments in relation to this issue. "There is reliable evidence that two or three local contractors would have shown keen interest had the work been tendered publicly. One reputable local contractor made strong representations to the Board and management following the announcement that the Spotts-Pease Bay project was to be awarded to Petroservicios without a public tender."

Within this report it is pointed out (page 73): "It was brought to the attention of the Audit Office that the Engineer had married the daughter of the major shareholder of Petroservicios during 1990. Our independent consultant advised that this relationship would place the Engineer in a position where his ability to perform his duties in an impartial manner might be called into question." What a state of affairs in 1989, 1990 and 1991.

Back on page 67 the Auditor General also stated: "The general economic conditions in the Cayman Islands during 1991 were somewhat depressed." So anyone who has any doubt that there was an economical depression then compared to an economic boom now... it is set out here. He went on to say, "Local contractors had little other work on hand, the weak business environment may have caused them to be very competitive and to submit keen prices. Additionally, the prospect of local competition would have created competitive tension. The possibility that the existing contractor might have lowered his prices, or held firm at existing 1990 or 1991 rates, in order to win the Spotts-Pease Bay project appears to have been ignored by the Authority. Had unit rates been held fixed for the duration of the project at existing prices, the Authority would have achieved considerable cost savings as follows: Saving at 1990 unit rates: $554,068; Saving at 1991 unit rates $315,016."

The Public Accounts Committee quite rightly expressed shock at this matter. They mentioned the fact that this is a crucial area: "This is a crucial area as the company has only £100 paid up share capital and is reported to have been dormant since its creation in 1985.". They stated at page 17, "The Central Tenders Committee was never consulted about these continuing single source supply arrangements, which run contrary to the important principles of transparency and good governance.". Yet two of the Members and the former Minister for this subject would like the public to believe that all was dandy in the last Government.

What I am referring to is the prior Member of Executive Council, I am not implying anything on Members of this House or Members of the Committee of the Water Authority.

On page 18 the Public Accounts Committee also stated that they were deeply concerned and they have doubts about the payment to Mr. Mayar. So we see a state of affairs unfurling that is frightening; such large sums of money squandered under the governance of the last Government and its then Minister in charge of this.

The position in relation to this remains very difficult. As far as I can remember, the Public Accounts Committee made a recommendation that there be further investigation. On page 20 it says, "The Committee recommends that (a) The Authority terminates its relationship with Propax; (c) The Attorney General's Department investigates whether the former Director can be requested to return to the Cayman Islands in order to provide further evidence on those matters raised by the Auditor General in his 1995 Report."

I cannot believe that there is no one, be it the then Minister, Permanent Secretary or staff at that time, who can say why $795,131 was diverted to a man who no one knows when they were purchasing materials at prices 59% higher from a company that was not trading that had £100 capital and had a name which, I understand, means illusory. I submit that it is an indictment against the controls of the last Government that passed out contracts without going through the Tender's Committee, as they were shown to do (as I read on page 64), some $10.367 million, and, in fact, wasting the public's funds in those areas when tenders could have gone out and Caymanian companies in the middle of a recession in 1991 could have gotten those contracts, which were instead given to a foreign company (Colombian Company).

That is really not the end of all of this. This was a part of a series of transactions, it was nearly a conspiracy, in which many other irregularities existed in the Water Authority. Reference was made in the Public Accounts Committee's Report.

When we look back at some of those unauthorised loans which were made by the Water Authority, some went to staff. Observations arose on air travel costs for a member of staff and a dependent. Also, at the time accounts were set up that related to unauthorised transactions - not extremely large amounts, some $28,321. Back in 1993 when the Propax Industrial Imports came to surface, many things arose. In fact one of these even had transactions which included payments for electricity charges at a private residence, installation of a telephone, rental charges at a private residence.

There were so many things that went wrong in that company, the Water Authority. Let me make that clear, I am only talking about Government's Water Authority. If I said Cayman Water, I meant Government's Water Authority.

It is hard to believe that the Minister at the time could not have known that something was wrong. But at that time the Minister's water bill was reduced. We know that this was just one of several irregularities which happened during that period. The net result of this is that public funds were squandered, or went into private pockets. Some even went to a person who may not even have existed. That was not peanuts!

I submit that the whole situation has to be looked into. I support the Public Accounts Committee when they recommend that this whole thing be investigated and that whoever is guilty, if anyone, should be dealt with according to the law.

When you find such widespread irregularities in a company and you find that at least one of those irregularities relates to the Minister at the time, Mr. Linford Pierson, that something should have surfaced somewhere before the Auditor General found this out. If it had been found out early enough... and, by the way, the Minister's reduced water bill stopped in January of 1993, as soon as the Government changed. So whoever was doing this, what I refer to as deliberate manipulation of the water meter readings, should have surfaced during the time of the last Government. Some of these irregularities seem to go back to 1989. How it remained covered for such a long time is beyond me, unless people were covering this up from the top down.

I would now like to turn to a few other areas and leave the Water Authority for the time being. One of the areas which was already touched on is the area of public debt on page 10. I would like to link that in with the Accountant General's report of 1995. At the back, Appendix VII of the Accountant General's Report of 31st December, 1995, we have certain statistics set out which go back to 1984. These are very revealing because they show what recurrent surplus different Governments have made since 1984.

What is so obvious is that only in 1990 and 1992, did this country ever have a deficit. In 1991 it had the smallest surplus and recurrent revenue and expenditure ever, by a Government. So the last three years of the Government's term they made a loss of $2 million (1990), a profit of $1.8 million (1991), and a loss of $3.6 million (1992). That would have been bad enough, but in each of these years they spent all of their capital amount or borrowed from the profit and loss account, or surplus from the Government before, the Government of Sir Vassel, Capt. Charles and the others.

When we look through this, even back in 1984 there was a contribution to capital of $9.7 million. That is in effect the surplus of recurrent and statutory expenditure over recurrent revenue. In 1985 there was $6.85 million surplus; 1986, $7.4 million; 1987, $11.2 million; 1988, $12.5 million; 1989 $14.8 million which obviously had to be a carry over from the 1984-1988 Government. Then in 1990 when the grip of the last Government took effect, they made a loss of $1.2 million in 1990 and a profit of only $1.8 million. By the way, in 1990 they spent $14.9 million more than they made. In 1991, when they had a profit of $1.8 million they spent $15.4 million on capital which they did not have.

In 1992, it was worse yet; they had a loss of $3.6 million, spent $18.1 million on capital and therefore spent $21.7 million more than they made. That is why, as the Honourable Deputy Financial Secretary showed this morning in Finance Committee, the accounts for those periods proved such a financial disaster. It can be nothing but a financial disaster when you cannot make enough money on recurrent to pay for your recurrent debts and you borrow for everything out of capital.

When we tie that in with 1992, we find at year's end 1992 Government's net assets were only $3.16 million, down from almost $30 million in 1990. They (the last Government) stripped this country of its assets. What a horrifying state to go from assets of $30 million in a matter of less than two years down to $3.2 million!

The report clearly shows that the accumulated deficit on recurrent and capital accounts since 1990, after crediting loan proceeds, exceeds $30 million. Government expenditure has been increasing at a faster rate than local revenue since 1990. An annualised rate of 14.5% compared to 8%. They were heading for economic disaster. Expenditure was going up and revenue was not meeting it. Along with that, $20 million in taxes were put on the public of this country.

Looking at this summary we find that in the three years set out here, this Government inherited a loss from the last Government of $3 million. This Government made a surplus of $41 million. Added to that is another $18 million which takes it up to approximately $60 million in 1996. Those are facts from the Auditor General that no one can deny.

There is no way the last Government can criticise any Government since 1984 because its record is the worst in this country. During all of that time it was not only not making enough money to pay the debts, but as the Auditor General has pointed out, it was being given away - personal residences, electricity rates, water rates were being reduced for people, and there were irregularities throughout, money paid to people who no one knows.

I would like to just put straight two other matters relating to this. There are two loans that, while they came into our debt period, are not our loans. That is the Cayman Airways loan for $16.7 million which was passed by the last Government in June 1992 to pay for Cayman Airways Ltd.'s past debts, but they could not borrow the money and that is a fact. I have seen the correspondence where they were refused. In fact, at the time the Government was desperately trying to raise $3 million to pay lease payments. They did get the bridging financing for that, or Cayman Airways Ltd. would have been liquidated then. Looking back, it was sad to see the type of letter begging to get that small amount of money. But the $16.7 million is not this Government's, nor is the $6 million that came over from the Health Services Authority from prior to 1992.

We know that for a time after we took over (and we had a bad year in 1993) we could not pull the country out of the economic recession overnight. It could not be done, we were too deep into the recession. It took about 18 months to pull out. During that stage we were not able to spend much money. In fact, we had very little capital, but we had the discipline to live within our means. The money we had, we spent. It was not much, therefore we could not do the amount of projects we can now do.

Beginning in 1995, and especially this year, God has blessed this country. We are in an economic boom and the Government now has money (to use a phrase) running out of its ears! So we are now getting projects done which we could not do before. The new Government (I hope it will be us, God willing) will be able to take this country on a prudent course. We have made $60 million profit which we have spent on capital. As the Deputy Financial Secretary pointed out, we have not borrowed one penny this year. The total borrowings over the past three and a half years during our time was some $6.7 million at a time when we repaid some $60 million which went, naturally, on the last Government's debt.

When you look at the overall position and you exclude the debt relating to Cayman Airways and the Health Services Authority (which were not our debts), or you can add them on to the 1992 debt... however it is balanced out, those were not our borrowings. You will find that there has been a reduction in loans over the period we have been in. It would not have been to the full extent of $10 million because interest has been accruing on some of it, but I am happy to agree with the suggestion made by the Fourth Elected Member for George Town, that perhaps $7 million is what we repaid. But it does show that the finances of the country are good and that we are heading in the right direction.

There can be no doubt when you look at the position we are now in, that this Government has not only turned the economy around, but it has paid off a lot of debt which was inherited, and so has Cayman Airways Ltd. Cayman Airways has paid, not a lot, we only pay $50,000 a month. But over a period of time that adds up. I am a true believer in savings. That is why putting the $3 million in reserves is one of the best disciplines this House can have. Forced savings, I believe in. If the money is put away it will not be spent. If you have a prudent Government (like we have now in the National Team Government) we will not spend money that we do not have.

Let me say that I am not against... in fact it is prudent to borrow for long-term projects. You cannot build your house out of your wages or your salary. It is just that we have been very lucky to have had such a large surplus that we have not needed to draw down on any funds to pay for the capital works. I am not against long-term borrowing for long-term projects. I think that makes good financial sense. But what you must do is balance it out by putting money into the reserves. The one thing that I have learned during my 20-odd years in banking is that if you have money in the bank (reserves) you can always borrow once you show that you can pay for it. The day you have no money, it is fairly hard to borrow. That was what the last Government found themselves in.

I am very happy and satisfied that we have been good stewards. We have carefully watched the money being spent and have ensured that until we could afford these larger projects.... George Town is getting a lot of roads paved now. There was no money to do it two years ago. God willing, next year (with the right Government) this country will continue to prosper and do well. When the Government makes money, the private sector also makes money. Our families can be better kept than during an economic recession.

I should just perhaps deal with the accumulated amount on page 10. I am not too certain whether this has been taken out of context. Public debt is set out on page 10 of the Auditor General's report. In 1995 it shows that public debt dropped from $61,161,554 in 1994 (this includes the Statutory Authorities) to $51,562,050. When we took over, the total debt at that time was $42.1 million. Added to that had to be the $16.7 million for Cayman Airways Ltd. and the $6 million for Health Services Authority, which would have moved this amount up to $65 million of total debt. I am happy to say, as the Auditor General pointed out, the principal and interest that we repaid in 1994 was $8,680,579, and in 1995 it was $15,302,435.

Between 1994 and 1995 alone, we reduced the debt by approximately $7 million. So what the Fourth Elected Member for George Town referred to in Finance Committee, a reduction of $7 million this year, is in line with this. We have been paying about $15 million a year. That has been reducing debt by approximately $10 million between those years.

What has to be looked at in this is the fact that in the 1993, 1994, 1995 and 1996 statements are $16.7 million for Cayman Airways Ltd., and $6 million for the Health Services Authority which is not this Government's debt. We have to pay it back, and I guess that is what happens as Governments come and go. But we cannot be saddled with it. We are paying a very large sum to pay this off, in fact the Cayman Airways Ltd. loan is only a seven year loan so payments on that are very large as compared to 20 year loans which we had some time back for the Water Authority or the airport. So I hope that nobody attempts to take that out of context.

The Auditor General was complimentary of Government and the prudent way in which it handled the finances of the country. I must say that the only reference to Cayman Airways Ltd. in the Auditor General's report was also complimentary, relating to the Miami office. I was very pleased with that.

It is always better for the Government to file a Minute in reply to the Auditor General's report when we are getting near an election because it is not fair, in my view, to leave controversial political matters for a successive Government. It looks as though it will be us anyhow, God willing, but we did file this Minute fairly quickly so that in fairness those areas would not be left for another Government to pick up. That sets out the explanations in the two areas, mainly tourism and water, that we felt should be filed.

I would like to go from there to one other area in the Public Accounts Committee's Report. I wish to look at an area relating to advertising. On page 17, under Advertising and Promotion of Financial Services, paragraph 12, specifically to this area: "The Committee notes that the 1996 advertising budget for the Portfolio of Finance and Development is $1,004,000, including a virement of $250,000. Expenditure charged to this subhead as at 19th September 1996 was $992,560. On questioning the Deputy Financial Secretary and a representative from Personnel Department, the Committee learned that the former Co-ordinator of Marketing and Promotions in the Portfolio of Finance and Development had committed Government to expenditure of approximately £600,000, mainly for magazine adver- tisements for our financial services industry. These commitments were placed contrary to specific instructions from senior officers. The Committee was informed that Government has taken disciplinary action against this officer and has dismissed him from the service with loss of all benefits.

"The Committee further recommends that the Auditor General's office should examine the circumstances of these unauthorised expenditures."

We know that was Mr. Lyndon Martin. That amount in pounds is approximately $800,000 or $900,000 that has been wrongly committed and presumably this House is going to be asked to ratify or approve this sum. I think that the approach taken by the Chairman and Members of the Public Accounts Committee, asking that this be looked into is correct. Getting value for money, and the accountability to the public is most important. At least at this stage the disciplinary action was taken and he has been dismissed.

I often wonder, when an officer without authority commits Government to such a large sum, surely a civil action to personally sue for that amount should normally follow. Obviously, that person does not have that sort of money, but there has to be something done. It is not good enough to just dismiss a person and let them walk out of the service. At the end of the day the public pays. The bottom line is that it comes out of the pocket of every person in the Cayman Islands. That is why when you look at this unauthorised expenditure and others such as this by a senior officer in the Government, you sometimes wonder where we are really going and how the untrustworthiness of someone really affects the public.

I promised I would be brief and I would really like to end by saying that I would like to commend the Chairman and the Members of the Public Accounts Committee. I know it has been a lot of hard work. They have spent many hours listening to evidence. It takes much time and effort, but they have been diligent. I also wish to commend the Auditor General for his report. It is very detailed and it deals in depth with certain areas of the different Government departments. He has produced very clear accounts.

Thanks also has to go to the Honourable Financial Secretary and the Deputy Financial Secretary who head up and take the brunt of running what is a very large international Government at this stage with several million dollars a year. I want to thank them for their help during the year and to assure them that the Government continues to support the conservative, cautious spending of public funds and ensuring that the public gets as much value for money as possible out of every dollar spent.

I will end by saying that if we all asked, 'if that money were mine, would I spend my own money in that way? or, would I spend my businesses money in that way?' then that is a higher test that should be applied. At the end of the day the money wasted, as we have seen, by previous Governments, our children have to pay for.

In closing I would also like to thank Members of the House for their support because much of the time, especially over national issues, such as the Cuban crisis which, by the way, was an extraordinary amount that we were able to pay for out of recurrent revenue, Members came together as one group. This country is in good hands, our finances are good, this Government has made the finances good and we are the best people to continue a good thing.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: At this time of the evening, as the previous speaker indicated, brevity should become the order of the day. I was really wondering if I should speak, but there is one little issue in the Public Accounts Committee Report that I feel compelled to speak to.

First of all, on the cover of every Public Accounts Committee Report, it reads, Report of the Public Accounts Committee on the Report of the Auditor General on the Financial Statements of the Government of the Cayman Islands for whatever year the period is. In the report which we are now debating which is the report for the year ended 31st December, 1995, on page 18 under 'Materials Procurement,' it mentions in the last subsection that, "The Committee notes that these losses and irregularities are patterns which were referred to in the Auditor General's 1993 Report [not the 1995 Report, the 1993 Report] on matters occurring prior to 1992 which set out irregularities..." and it goes on, and on, and on with various things. Then it comes down to the "...waiver of payment of US$17,400... for installing a water distribution system for a company known as SAC of which the Fourth Elected Member for George Town was a shareholder..." Let me first of all make a correction. The amount was CI$17,400, and the name of the company is SACK Investments Ltd. I am still a shareholder of that company. That company is owned by my wife and I, and my good friend Mr. Alfonso Wright and his wife. Those are the four shareholders of that company.

With your indulgence, Madam Speaker, I just wish to read the section which referred to this matter in the Auditor General's report of 1993. It has to do with the Extension of Water Distribution System to New Sub-Divisions (page 34).

"No formal policy has been developed to regulate financial liability for the costs of connecting new private residential developments into the water distribution system. The Audit Office noted that the Authority has operated several policy variants in response to requests for water connections. It was drawn to the attention of the Audit Office that in one case payment of an invoice for $17,400 was waived. The invoice relates to the cost of installing the water distribution system in a new sub-division. The developer paid $3,750 for materials by way of a deposit and an invoice for $17,400 was issued in July 1993 for the cost of installation by the contractor, Petroservicios Ltd. This invoice was subsequently cancelled in October 1993 and the cost was financed from the Authority's long-term borrowing. This action was not referred to the Board. The Audit Office noted that the justification for cancelling this invoice was said to be to assist the developer in keeping the cost of housing lots to a minimum...."

It goes on into other areas and says, "This statement does not reflect the official policy of the Board of the Water Authority. It appears to the Audit Office that the practical effect of this arrangement is for the Water Authority to subsidise the costs of private developers. The Audit Office does not consider that the waiver of water connection charges to a developer will assist a Caymanian home buyer, although it may enhance the capital value and marketability of the house lot. The Audit Office is aware of a further $900,000 of water connection works which have been carried out in 722 house lots in eight sub-divisions, all at no cost to owners or developers. At the date of the audit, it was noted that only 93 of the 722 plots (12.9%) were actually drawing water supplies from the distribution system." That is what the Auditor General's Report stated in 1993.

The Public Accounts Committee's (PAC) Report for that same year on the Report of the Auditor General mentions the same situation. I do not have to read it again because it basically refers to what I just said. This issue has come up before in this Honourable House. When I first knew of any liability of the company of which I am a shareholder, to the Water Authority by way of any payments that should be made, it was brought to my attention by the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee. This was in 1994 when the Report on the Auditor General's Report for 1993 was being tabled. When I was made aware of it, I immediately started to make enquiries so that I could get a full understanding of what the issue was all about.

After the Chairman of the PAC spoke to me, I spoke to the Chairman of the Water Authority, to the Acting Director of the Water Authority; and to the Auditor General to make sure that I had a full understanding. I even went as far as to make an appointment to speak with another Member of the Board of the Water Authority.

I do not think that I went as far as to discuss whether or not payment should be made with the Chairman of the Public Accounts Committee; I may stand to be corrected on that, but I cannot remember that discussion. None of the individuals I spoke with said that I should pay that money, or that my company should pay that money. But because I understood what the situation was, and because I thought that the correct thing to do at that time was to pay the money, I went to the Bank of Butterfield and got a bank draft, payable to the Water Authority for $17,400. I wrote a letter to the Acting Director explaining to him why I purchased a draft. Whether he refused to accept the payment or not, I had already paid for the draft, and whether it was deposited in the Water Authority account or thrown in the garbage mattered not to me; I knew that I had paid the money.

I copied that letter to the Members of Executive Council simply to make my position clear. As far as I was concerned, at that point in time I was grateful that it was brought to my attention and I thanked God that I was able to do what I thought was right. In the report of the Auditor General of 1994 and in the report of the Standing Public Accounts Committee for 1994 there is no mention of this issue because the issue, as far as the world in general was concerned, was over.

So two years later in the Auditor General's Report which was just tabled in this Honourable House, on page 46, paragraph 3.3.7, under the Water Authority the Auditor General simply says, "The Financial Statements for the year ended 31 December 1995 were certified on 8 July 1996. I have no report to make on this account. Part IV of this Report deals with my special audit of the Spotts-Pease Bay water distribution project." I can see no relation, under any circumstances, to the Spotts-Pease Bay Water Distribution Project with the situation of SACK Investments, which, as I said before was taken care of in a matter of days after I found out about it.

The Report of the Public Accounts Committee on the Auditor General's Report for 1995 at page 18 - seemingly as an after-thought - brings this issue up. Using that specific issue as an example, they tried to tie in Propax and the Spotts-Pease Bay Water Distribution Project.

Any Member in this House sitting in my position today would feel the way I feel. Let me tell you how I feel: I feel that someone, or somebody has deliberately pulled this from somewhere. Everyone in this House knows the facts. Someone put this in here because it is an election year and because it might scare somebody like me, as if somebody had something to hold me over the barrel, or has possibly (I wish I knew) simply made an attempt to question my integrity.

There are some instances where one could easily be led to believe that my assumptions are nowhere near the truth, but if that was not the intention then at least in the statement (since one went as far as to use it as an example) why not state that the money was paid? Why leave that part of it out? This becomes a public document. Regardless of whatever I say in this Honourable House today, or what anybody else says afterwards, this document is going to remain in this Legislative Assembly and ten years from now, someone can come and ask for a copy of this; and not knowing better would wonder what Kurt Tibbetts did. I do not know what anybody else thinks, or how dear that part of their life is to them, but I know that I am not a dishonest person. I know that the rest of the world knows that. I detest to think that anyone would make any attempt of this nature to cast that type of aspersion.

I understand politics. I understand that after tonight I may not come back here. I understand that my choices may not be altogether commendable to others. I understand that. The same goes for the other people. But I respect other people's existence. I can stand here this evening and say that no one in this Honourable House outside of issues can say to me that I have specifically taken them on personally to try and malign them or make them look bad or dishonest in the eyes of the public of this country. I know I do not do that, because I do not believe in it. My God has told me, "Judge not, that ye be not judged."

I will tell you what else I know. If what I know is not correct, then someone will have a chance to correct me. During the Public Accounts Committee deliberations there was nothing mentioned about this. I also believe that the original document prepared as a report of the Public Accounts Committee did not have that in. If that is not so, then somebody can tell me that. I am only stating what I believe.

I remember feeling this way not so very long ago, and I thought it better to stop. Maybe that is the best thing to do now. In total honesty, I am not even mad. I am not even... I guess I must be getting old. I am not even feeling that someone has done me an injustice and I should do an injustice back. I just feel sad to know that regardless of advantages being sought in the light of an election, that people with full knowledge of a given situation could, by innuendo or whatever (it certainly was not an accident in my opinion), really think that is the way to do things to get an advantage to make sure that they are returned by the public, because they could possibly make the public believe that somebody like me was actually prepared to be dishonest.

It is probably best that I do not let my mind wander; I will not allow myself to do that. I fully realise that if I deal in what is not morally right, I become like those who are like that, and then it makes no sense to me. I will not let that happen to me, even if it sets me at a distinct disadvantage. I will have to live with what I believe, and I will face those consequences. I would rather I be how I am, than like that.

Let me say that it is not an issue that I like to waste the time of this Honourable House with, it certainly would not have been brought up by me had it not been placed in the context that it was. But I want to make it clear that before I was asked about this specific situation I had no knowledge that the company called SACK INVESTMENTS was supposed to have paid a certain amount of money and had not paid it. I will not bother going into all of the gory details which could easily explain what transpired after gaining knowledge of the whole situation, because it involves other people - people who are not even here, people who supposedly wrote letters to other people that other people had not seen before. That is really not important.

I know that each and every Member in this Honourable House understands what I am saying and I am not going to go on about it. But I wish that in times like these every one of us would remember that it is always good to 'do onto others' as we would have them 'do unto' us, because you never know when the shoe will be on the other foot. It is sickening for this country when elected representatives have to be at each other's throats because it is a 'last lick' situation - he did me this way, so I have to do him so. That really does not help the country progress.

I take the responsibility that was given to me on November the 18th, 1992, very seriously. Over the few years that I have been here I have learned many things.

But this is another new twist to it all; one that I wish I had not learned.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I had no plans to speak in this debate because I felt that the matters raised by the Auditor General were sufficiently reported and clarified by the relevant staff officers from my Ministry or my Departments, and from the Public Accounts Committee itself.

I listened to what the First Elected Member for Bodden Town had to say, and I wanted to clarify a few areas there. I can say that I am justly proud of my stewardship of the Water Authority both as Chairman, and as the Member responsible. I am also proud of the present Board.

There is no question that I have taken a lot of abuse, many times when I did not even speak in a debate. I had to listen to the remarks of the Fourth Elected Member for George Town. People may never know what went on in the Water Authority before 1993. It is obvious that the investigations carried out did not reveal any more than they have revealed. But it was not a good position, as a new Member in Executive Council, to find the kind of situation that existed in such an important body as the Water Authority of the country.

I would like to say that I thought that my report in the Government Minute, read by the Third Official Member, was satisfactory. To reinforce what he said, I wish to say that the Auditor General's Report is not critical of how the Water Authority is currently carrying out its business. The projects detailed in the report were contracts which existed between the years 1987 to 1992; new contracts and contracts which continued on into 1993 and ended, I believe, in 1994.

As I said, I can be justly proud of the staff, the operation of the Water Authority and of the commitment that I received from Executive Council and the National Team Members. I must say the National Team Members, because they were the ones who supported me and assisted us in carrying out our programmes while others criticised unnecessarily, and found things that did not even exist to talk about in this Honourable House. Nevertheless, I, too, am in a forgiving spirit.

I had hoped that the last item on the Water Authority would not have been raised in this House. The Fourth Elected Member for George Town mentioned that he came to me as the Chairman, the Minister responsible. When the Member came to me about the matter, I told him that there was an ongoing investigation, and that if I were him I would not do anything until the investigation was concluded. Well, as we heard from him, he went and paid the $17,000 before the ongoing investigation of the Water Authority was completed.

Nevertheless, I am satisfied that the Water Authority has been paid, as he said. Our policy has been carried out. But as I said, we will never know because as he mentioned himself, there are people who left this country who had to be dismissed by the Water Authority and the Government.... We will never know. Some of the matters raised by the Minister for Education were very unfortunate. I will say no more. I think enough has been said on it. It is sad that it came to the stage where the Fourth Elected Member for George Town had to make the kind of speech that he did.

I will only end by saying that those persons who are now running around saying how bad a manager this Government has been, and in particular how bad I have been as a Minister, will stop and remember what existed in the Water Authority of this country when we had hundreds of thousands of dollars paid to unknown people. It was a disgrace. I leave that for the public of this country to judge who managed better. I believe that the report given by the Third Official Member clearly says what the present management has been like and, in fact, he reinforced what the Auditor General was saying.

I just want to say a few things in reply to the matter raised by the First Elected Member for Bodden Town in regard to the Marine Institute. The students attending the CIMI total 32, six in residence and 26 in day class. Four of these students are held at the West Bay lock-up due to the fact that they are constantly in breach of their Youth Rehabilitation Order, that is, they fail to attend the CIMI as ordered by the Court.

Regarding the drop in Juvenile Crime (and I had to say to myself when the First Elected Member for Bodden Town was saying that he could not see how credit can be given to the CIMI in the case of falling juvenile crime statistics when only six residential places were occupied), whether he wants to see logic or whether he wants to give credit, the fact remains that the drop in juvenile crime must in great part be attributed to the work of the CIMI. Some of the juveniles who have committed offences in previous years are currently attending the programmes and some have, in fact, graduated.

The point that I want to make is that it must be acknowledged that there are juveniles who would have committed multiple offences or even one offence to which they would have had to answer several charges. This is the case of some of the juveniles attending the CIMI. The fact is that we should understand how many problems can be caused by ten, five or even one young person left to the mercy of the world, uncontrolled by family or the authorities. When you take those juveniles off of the street and engage them in constructive matters, as we did with the CIMI, juvenile crime had to fall. While I am not satisfied that it is where I would like it to be - far from it! - when you think that in 1992 we had 335 and now we have 115 at last count, something has been done right.

Instead of criticising the Government or the CIMI, they should be offering constructive solutions to help solve the many problems facing the youth of this country. But it is impossible when it comes to the CIMI because they oppose it. Naturally, they are going to say that it is not working. They are not going to say that it has assisted the country. How many times have they told the country that it was money wasted? Talk about insinuations about people's character, go back to the Hansards and then you will see how much I, and even the Director of Social Services at the time, was criticised when it was said that we had a share in it.

I know that those kinds of things hurt. But thank God, I do not do things to get money on the back-bone of the people of this country, I do things because I recognise there is a need. These are things that I have been trying to get accomplished for many years. Even that same Member who spoke seconded motions trying to get these kinds of programmes. Now they are criticising them. That is all right. It is an election year.

As far as the educational aspect of the problem of the CIMI, extensive discussions have been held between social services and education regarding the education of students at the CIMI. The American General Education Diploma which was previously offered at CIMI is no longer offered outside of the United States. But I would not want that Member to leave the House with the belief that there was no programme in place. We started out with the American General Education Diploma, but it is no longer offered outside of the United States. So it is not as if we started out with nothing, or something that was not acceptable.

Discussions are taking place regarding the introduction of an academic programme developed by the American Testing Corporation of Princeton University. It must be borne in mind that just a few of the students referred to CIMI are academically able to cope with the CXC and the IGCSE. It would seem futile to introduce this rigid academic programme to the institute. In instances where students with the ability to pursue more advanced work are identified, they are sent to the Community College to pursue various academic courses.

Courses based on the General Education Diploma and the American Testing Corporation curriculum are still being taught at the CIMI. Courses have been adapted to suit local needs. It must be borne in mind that the academic programmes in the school system (which he said they must go back to) may have frustrated the same students.

Regarding his other remarks about how many graduated... I just do not know what they want. Should we graduate them just to say they have graduated? Or is the programme about rehabilitation? Students of the CIMI, as a normal part of their course (just to enlighten the Members) are attached to various businesses in the private sector for work experience. Those who have graduated from the CIMI performed so well on their work experience that the businesses provided them with permanent jobs after graduation. I do not know what the Member wants because it was not made clear, other than a thought that we should send them back to the school.

While education is extremely important, in this instance the main aim in the programme is for those youngsters to be rehabilitated to the point where their attitudes and behaviours are changed and they are once more functional members of society. This is the aim of the CIMI. It can be done, and it is being done, but it cannot be done overnight. There are many people who are involved who work with these students - Social Workers from the Social Services Department, Counsellors from the Cayman Counselling Centre, the Royal Cayman Islands Police Juvenile Liaison Officer and the Beat Officers have all been doing an excellent job in monitoring the juveniles.

I only pray that I get back and can carry on the work that we started. It is assisting this country. On that note I would like to thank the Justices of the Peace, because the biggest support has come from the Justices of the Peace who see the value of the CIMI. They are the ones who (prior to the CIMI programme being instituted were in Court until after 6.00 in the evening) will tell you now that this programme has had such an impact that they no longer have to have those long days in court. They do take an interest, they visit (that is, the Justices) the programme and talk with the children, they inquire into what is happening at the Ministry. That is more than the Opposition has done.

There is nothing else that I want to add to this debate. I thank the Members of the Public Accounts Committee for the good job they have done in clarifying some of the areas which were raised in regard to my Ministry.

The Speaker: If no one else wishes to speak, I will ask the Chairman, the mover of the motion, if he would like to exercise his right to reply.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Let me thank all the Honourable Members who took time to speak on this very important report. Let me say that I believe the role of the Public Accounts Committee is to bring to the attention of this House any irregularities or weaknesses coming to our attention regardless of who is involved.

The Fourth Elected Member for George Town mentioned that he did not see how we could tie in what happened in the Auditor General's Report of 1993 with the 1995 Report, but we very easily could. The irregularities that were highlighted in the Auditor General's 1995 Report were under the same management and administration that existed at the time the Auditor General made his report in 1993. No evidence came to our attention from the Auditor General, the staff of the Water Authority, or any other party that the Member in question did not know that this invoice was outstanding regarding a company he had a share in. It is unfortunate that the Public Accounts Committee had to highlight this, but it is imperative that public officers live above reproach. I am not saying that the gentleman is dishonest, I do not have that impression of him. I must say that as soon as I brought it to his attention that it was discovered that there was an outstanding invoice that he took action immediately to have it paid. But I do not believe he can blame the Public Accounts Committee for bringing it to the attention of Members of this Honourable House. Regardless of whether or not he knew about it himself, he and the company he has a share in were extended a special privilege.

I am very proud to say that all of the situations highlighted in the 1993 Auditor General's Report and the 1995 Report no longer exist, with respect to the operations of the Water Authority. The Authority is run in a very professional manner; it has moved ahead to the extent that they now have the ability in-house to do a lot of the work previously contracted out. This must benefit this country tremendously.

I was speaking to the current Managing Director a day or so ago, and he said that the crew he has employed presently for the purpose of laying pipe is working so fast that they have to wait because they have run out of pipe. I believe that the Public Accounts Committee would have been very derelict in its duties if it had not highlighted these weaknesses in the system of Government and the Statutory Authorities. I am aware that because many of these issues have been highlighted, there have been measures put in place to curtail any reoccurrence of weakness or abuse in these areas. As a result, the Government of this country and the people have realised substantial savings of public funds.

Let me once again thank the Members of the Public Accounts Committee for their valuable contribution over the past four years. I think they have made a very valuable contribution with their excellent Public Accounts Committee Reports. We have seen some significant accomplishments and improvements with regard to the workings of Government. I look forward after November 20th, 1996, to continuing to play an active role as far as the running of this country is concerned.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The question was that the Report of the Public Accounts Committee and the Auditor General's Report on the Financial Statements and the Government Minute be debated. This has been done.

This now concludes the business for this last meeting before the elections. The House will be dissolved on the 30th of September. I will now ask for a motion for the adjournment of the House Sine Die.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

ADJOURNMENT

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I move the adjournment of this Honourable House Sine Die. If I may, with your permission just say...

The Speaker: Yes, let me put the question. The question is that the House do now adjourn. There can be a debate if you so wish.

The Honourable Minister for Education and Planning.

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I take this opportunity to first of all thank you, Madam Speaker, for your very able guidance, for your tolerance at times, and for your wisdom during the four years of this Honourable House. It has been a pleasure being in this House for four years.

I would also like to thank all Honourable Members for the opportunity to guide this country over a period of four years, and to let the public realise that despite the times when we do fight inside here, it is always good to go into the Common Room and have a cup of coffee or a soft drink together. It does provide the comradeship that is very important to survive in this Honourable Chamber. So, despite the politics of the situation, it is always good, and I think that Members should always go into the Common Room, sit down and face their opponent, smile and realise that politics is politics, and get on with life.

I would also like to especially thank the Clerk, her Deputy, and all of her staff. I would also like to especially thank the Serjeant-at-Arms whom I get more fond of as time goes on. He is a real gentleman and rare in this day and age.

Also the staff in the kitchen, who have not been able to get me as fat as Mr. McKeeva and Mr. Kurt, but they are doing a fairly good job on it.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: You take most of it, though!

(laughter)

Hon. Truman M. Bodden: I guess with that we show that that comradeship does exist and we can actually laugh and smile like human beings. That is why the country has progressed the way it has.

I would also like to especially thank Radio Cayman which has throughout these four years (and for many years before this) taped all of these meetings and published them; Mr. Loxley Banks and his staff, and especially the staff who man the recorders for the radio in here. Thanks also go to the Caymanian Compass. I see Mr. John Redman still hanging in there with us at twenty minutes to eight, and also Miss Carol Winker and Mrs. Mani and the other staff who have reported the meetings of the House over the years. Sometimes we do not see eye-to-eye with them (as we do not see eye-to-eye with Members), but at the end of the day, they do their job well.

I would also like to thank the television station for their reporting. One thing is sure, anyone who sees me inside of a building, or in the evening, will see me for the first time with my eyes fully opened because with the sun so bright, I find that I have my eyes half shut throughout most of the interviews. So I know how overbearing it must be to the television crews who have to stand out there.

I would also like to thank the police for all that they have done, and all of the Heads of Departments in the Civil Service, and staff who have at times assisted and dealt with the questions and many other things for us.

I would just like to say, on a more serious note, that I look forward to a clean election. I think the National Team's Aim will be to keep it clean. I deprecate the vicious attack on the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works. Thank God that has been taken care of and his name has been cleared.

One of the things that is so important is that despite the divisions in this House (and I have seen this throughout my period of time here since 1976), when there is a national issue or a crisis, for example the Cuban crisis, all Members of this House get together for the good of the country. That is important. It does not happen often, but when the issue is that important we do get together.

Going first there may be a tendency to miss someone, but if I do, I apologise for it. I would like to wish all Members of this Honourable House, including you, the Clerks and your families, God's richest blessings and to wish you all good luck in the upcoming elections.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Mr. Roy Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I rise... and I suppose I shall have to offer my sentiments on behalf of my colleague, the Second Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, who had to leave because he is going over to his constituency this evening... to offer these sentiments and observations.

The last four years have been a truly rewarding experience. For that we owe much gratitude and appreciation to you as the Presiding Officer, the Speaker, whose patience we have tried on numerous occasions, but who has always presided over this Parliament with dignity and decorum. You have set an example for all of us to follow, and we thank God that we have someone of your stature, with your patience and understanding to have been able to cope with us sometimes behaving like spoiled children.

I also have to offer sincere gratitude to the Clerk, the Deputy Clerk and the rest of the staff. I am sure that I gave them occasion to wish that I were not around with my many demands and queries. I am glad that they bore it in the spirit they did, and I can truly say that I appreciated the service they gave and their unstinting loyalty and willingness.

I would like to make a special mention as my colleague, the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning, did on Mr. Cline Glidden. If I were a novelist or a writer, I would craft a special place for this gentleman in a novel or book of substance. He is a true gentleman. Sometimes I have to look at how he, in these surroundings, can keep a straight and dignified face when jokes are cracked, when insults are traded. Sometimes I wonder to myself what kind of referee Mr. Cline would make, if he would be truly impartial, depending on how we get on. I am sure he must wonder how he would get between us and who he would push first if he had to! This Parliament would not be the same, and I would say that Mr. Cline is irreplaceable in his style and his dignity.

To the people who have the responsibility of reporting, I would like to let them know that I appreciate the interest that they take. As important as we think we are, we would not be so important if they did not put what we said about the things we are concerned about into the newspapers and on the television reports - especially Radio Cayman, which I think is doing a tremendous job in bringing to the nation the happenings in the Parliament.

To my colleagues and friends I can stand here and sincerely say that while it has been at times a trying and testing relationship, I truly love and respect every one of them. I mean that. I do not know what I would do if I did not have my good friend, the Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture, to spar with, and the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning. I think everybody knows that although we fight, we love each other. The only thing I wish is that the roles could be reversed so that I could get the opportunity to give them some long answers!

(laughter)

Most of all, I am grateful to God and my constituents. I am almost tempted to sing an old sea shanty that one of my uncles taught me, but since I cannot sing... that is right Honourable Minister, I cannot sing!

I think I want to take one more try so that I can have four more years of friendship with the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning, and the Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture and their colleagues.

I could not finish without mentioning the "Whip." We sit here and decide the workings of the Government and the Opposition, only the rest of them do not know that. But he and I decide many times what is happening and who is to do what.

To the Official Members of Government, I can truly say it was a pleasure.

Madam Speaker, God's speed. God's blessing and richness and rewards I wish for all Honourable Members and their families. I too pray that we have a campaign free of violence, free of political vindictiveness, but good political sparring which makes things interesting. I hope that we will be returned with renewed vigour come November.

The Speaker: The Member for North Side.

Mrs. Edna M. Moyle: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I would first of all like to thank you, Madam Speaker, for the guidance you have given me during my first four years as a Member of this Legislative Assembly. I think the training I received as Deputy Clerk from you, when you were the Clerk, prepared me well for this position. I would also like to thank you for the nice dinner you provided for us today.

To all Members, Elected and Official, I would like to say that it has been a pleasure for me to have been a part of this Legislative Assembly for the past four years serving in your company.

As the Honourable Minister for Education and Planning and the First Elected Member for Bodden Town said, at times the debate was heated. There were times when one would have thought that someone would walk across the floor and pass a blow; thank God, that did not happen. When we left this Chamber we could all laugh, talk and be friends. For this, I am very thankful.

I would like to thank all Members of this Legislative Assembly for giving me the honour of serving as Deputy Speaker of the Legislative Assembly. I hope I made you justly proud when I sat in that chair, Madam Speaker, and Members of this House.

I would like to wish all Members good luck in the upcoming election and to stress the need for a clean campaign. The Cayman Islands is a very small community and things such as what happened to the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works can destroy one's character.

I look forward to returning to this Parliament after the November election, God willing, to see you sitting in that Chair once again as the Speaker of this Legislative Assembly.

(Hon. Members: Hear, hear!)

To the Clerk and her staff I would like to say a very big thank you. When I say staff I include Mr. Cline too. As the First Elected Member for Bodden Town just said, he is a proper gentleman. It includes Anita and everyone else for the dedication they have shown during these four years.

I will be repetitive (I guess we all will be), but I too would like to thank the press, particularly Mr. John Redman who has stuck with this Parliament. I think he has totally enjoyed my very short debates during these four years which enabled him to report in depth on my speeches. I thank him for this.

Finally, I am deeply indebted to the people of North Side for having had the confidence in me to allow me to represent them for the past four years. It has been my pleasure. Indeed, it has been a pleasure to work to provide the district of North Side with well-needed facilities. God willing, and with my proven dedication and ability over these past four years, and with the great confidence of the people of North Side, I ask them to consider returning me to this Parliament on 20th November, 1996, giving me the honour to represent them for a further four years.

May God bless each and every one of us as we go into this election, and let us remember that we are all human beings. Let us go in with that understanding before we say something that we would not like to have said about us.

Thank you, Madam Speaker, and may God bless you all.

The Speaker: The Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture.

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: When this House is prorogued on the 30th, I would have served my people here in this capacity for 12 years. I have seen four Governors come and three go, and I have seen three Presiding Officers give service in this House.

I have seen many changes during these 12 years, and my, how this country has changed in 12 years. I thank my people for giving me that opportunity, putting their trust and confidence in me, and I am thankful for the assistance given to me to have been able to put forward many initiatives in my 12 years. It was only in this last four year period that many of the initiatives I attempted from my very first time in this House were actually put in place.

I thank my colleagues for giving me the chance to serve on Executive Council. I know they believe that I am rough at times, but I hope that I have satisfied their trust. When I look back at some of the accomplishments I think we can all be justly proud. I look at the many issues facing the country - housing, we were able to provide 135 Caymanian families with new homes, as compared to less than 50 in 12 years.

When our people say they are not getting anything out of the economy, I am reminded that Caymanian families have gotten over $400 million for houses, whether it be a dwelling house or apartment in these past four years.

I have seen many students (and I am very proud of this) get the chance for further education because I recognised the value. It is something that I wanted to do, go to college or university, but I was not afforded that opportunity. I am glad that over $3.5 million were given on student loans. Plus over $4 million for scholarships.

I have seen Pension Legislation put in place. I have seen Labour Legislation, which I had to fight for. Thank God, people have longer vacation periods, young mothers have more maternity leave and there is mandatory time off when a close family member passes away.

There has been a decent increase in sports programmes and coaches for our children so they can learn more and be more disciplined.

I can never forget the time I moved a motion for the order of a National Hero. I walked out of this Assembly with tears in my eyes because I was virtually laughed at by the Executive Bench at that time.

I remember when you were sworn in, Madam Speaker, and I rose to say my congratulations. I remember the words distinctly: "When you, on this side are someplace else, and we on this side are over here, we will get those things." So it is. We now can recognise our own Caymanians who have done so well for this country in so many areas. I am glad that you will be honoured on the 9th of November... (applause) as the new National Hero. And why not? For you have done your part for the growth and development, the implanting of character in many young people from Christian Endeavour Days. I remember you, Madam Speaker.

I wanted to see National Symbols we could identify with. We can certainly identify with the Silver Thatch, and with the Banana Orchid. And even though we do not like the Parrot, we have a National Bird!

I am happy that I have been able to see a rehabilitation programme like the Cayman Islands Marine Institute (CIMI) put in place. I am proud to know that I could put in place Cayfest which had its debut this past month and closes tomorrow.

I am happy for these things, not because it brings me any particular glory, but because these are things the country deserves. In the midst of all of our economic boom, and all the things that we have put forward for growth, we must remember the social development. We cannot leave our people behind. We must not. Whether I am back here or not, I say, do not do anything to leave the people of this country behind at a time when we are groping and holding on to those things which make us unique. I am proud.

If I have any regrets over the last four years, it is that I have been unable to see everyone who wanted to see me. But I am only one person and it was physically impossible.

The other matter I have much regret over (which bothers me, but I gave the reasons during the debate for the Conflict of Interest Bill, and I will not do it now), is to hear so much rumour and slander, with responsible people repeating it as if it were the truth. I put it down over the four-year period to this: We did not have a Constitutional issue, we did not have a Cayman Airways issue, we did not have a hospital issue - no big national issue - so rumour mongering and slanderous insinuations took their place.

I worked with my colleague the Honourable Minister for Agriculture, Environment, Communications and Works on Executive Council and it hurts when someone strikes out at someone close to you. You realise that it could happen to you, and you ask 'Am I next?' These are the times we live in, but let us Caymanians not destroy ourselves.

The other matter I have much regret for is the fact that I was unable up until now to get a lower income housing scheme, but I could not have very well left out the area that we are servicing. This will come in due course. These are the things that make us move and give us some emotion at this time.

Before I move further, let me say my quota of thanks to some people. I would like to give praise and credit and say thanks to people who can hear me now, rather than whisper it. If you have something good to say about somebody, say it to the world.

I would like to give thanks to the Temporary Third Official Member. He is more my age group, and a very knowledgeable young man. He is one whom I have learned to lean on at times during my four years. We worked together at a very crucial time when we had to make a decision on the Health Services Authority and he was the new Chairman.

This country can be proud of a young man like him (applause). I believe that he will go far in the Civil Service, and I am glad to see that he is one who is staying there. I was pleased to be his marriage officer many years ago, and in that area he is also doing an excellent job!

I wish to record in the Hansards my gratitude to Jennifer Dilbert who has left our Service. I know that she is going to be back. She is out getting experience. Mrs. Dilbert did an excellent job in the department of Financial Services. It was reorganised under her tenure. She travelled far and wide to promote our Cayman Islands. Our international business grew. She was there when we had to make the decisions to cut down on our costs and fees, but I remember her advice. I remember how well she handled herself. Here is a young woman whom this country can be justly proud of. I am sorry to see her out of the Service at this time, but I know she will be back.

Kirkland Nixon is an old soldier in the Civil Service, but let me say publicly here to Honourable Members that I do not know of any other person in the Civil Service who can give the kind of sound advice that he can give, with the desire to see our people move forward and upward like him. So I want to say thanks to him for all of his assistance.

So it is with our Chief Secretary and the Deputy Chief Secretary. I have taken issue at times with them, because I do not necessarily always agree with what everybody tells me. I do know this: They are good Caymanians and good civil servants. I thank them for all that they have done.

There are many Civil Servants I think of. I served four years on the Council with Mrs. Mona Jackson. She is a meticulous lady, really from the old school. We can be justly proud of someone of her calibre. We have a new secretary, a very capable young woman. She has just been there a short time, but I look forward to serving four more years with her as well, God willing.

I cannot close without thanking my staff. We have a big Ministry, one in which I believe they love to work. I must say a thank you to my secretary, Mrs. Jennifer Ritchie, for her loyalty and her hard work as I keep her long hours at night in the Glass House. There are many young staff members there whom I know will continue to make this country proud. They are excellent staff members. I hope that whoever gets them will take good care of them.

I too want to add my thanks to the reporters who reported from this House. I have had my tiffs with them, but they do a fairly good job. I do thank them for what they have done over the past four years.

I want to thank the Clerk, Mrs. Myrie, and her staff. I have had occasion to travel with her several times and I found her to be loyal to this House and to the work. The staff of this House... you know civil servants get criticised all the time, but we can say that in this legislature we have a good staff. When I travel and hear some of the reports from other Parliaments about what exists in their countries... saying 'thank you' to the Legislative staff is simply not good enough. But I do thank them for all that they have done.

Mention was made of Mr. Glidden, the Serjeant-at-Arms. They can all speak of him here, but I am more fortunate because West Bay is better off for having an outstanding son in Mr. Cline Glidden!

(Inaudible interjection)

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: Someone is saying that he is from South Sound! I agree, good people do come from South Sound. But he is a West Bayer!

Last but not least, I want to thank you for your able services. I know that at times we have not always agreed on points. There were times when I felt that you were hard on me. But you are our Speaker, a capable woman, a good Caymanian; I am proud to have had you as Speaker of this Legislative Assembly. I have to say everywhere I go that there is no other person in this country more able than you are to have been appointed as Speaker; and then receive the support of this House for a further four years in 1992. As far as I am concerned, you will have my support.

Even though I felt you were hard on me I realise that I, too, could have been wrong. I am glad that we were able to have prayer meetings over which you very ably chaired. I enjoyed the camaraderie, but more importantly, I got some benefits from your spiritual insight. Most of all I wish you God's speed. I hope that your health and strength will always be good.

I want to thank God for blessing these islands with so much good. While we have our problems, the people of these islands have a lot to be thankful for. We only have to look at the television or read the news or travel a little bit - not to Africa or India - we only have to travel around the region to see how good we have it in these islands. Did this come about just so? I do not think so. It is the hand of Divine Providence. I always believe that.

I miss my very close friend, Miss Mary, who had to leave her service here after so many years (20-odd years) of feeding us. But she was like a mother to most of us. We wish her well, and hope that God continues to bless her.

As for the campaign, I wish everybody... let me rephrase that, I cannot wish everybody well. I hope that they have a change of heart and join the National Team where they belong. I hope my good friend, the First Elected Member for Bodden Town will come back. I know he is not satisfied where he is. But I pray God's blessing on him. Sometimes you do not have to have anything said to know what a person is feeling - you can see it!

As we go on in our nocturnal activity let us all be aware of where we are today. Let us be aware of where we have come from. Let us be aware of where we want to go; most of all, let us be careful how we get there.

To all of my colleagues, I thank them for working together. That is how we achieve. Last but not least, let me thank the First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman. We have not always seen eye-to-eye, but where we could we got together for the good of the country. While he is not a National Team Member on the books, he is one in spirit. I hope that the people of Cayman Brac return him because he has done well for Cayman Brac.

I better not take up any more time. God's speed.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for Bodden Town.

Miss Heather D. Bodden: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I have spent only a short time here in this Honourable House, but I have thoroughly enjoyed every minute of it. I now take this opportunity to thank my family and friends who encouraged me to run in last December's by-election. I thank all my committee members for putting their trust and faith in me over the past nine months. I hope that all of my supporters will once again put their faith in me on November 20th.

I extend my sincere thanks to you, Madam Speaker, for your guidance, your encouragement and afternoon prayers. I truly appreciate the services of all the staff members here at the Legislative Assembly, and thank them for all of their help. To Anita I give a big thank you for all of the meals she has prepared.

What can I say about Mr. Cline? other than that he is a true gentleman.

I thank the security staff for welcoming us so warmly each morning. It is such a pleasure to have the door opened each morning.

Thank you, Mr. John Redman, for your fair coverage.

I thank God for giving me the opportunity to serve my people over the last nine months. It is my nightly prayer that the upcoming election will be a clean one. God bless each of you, and thanks again.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. John D. Jefferson, Jr: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Let me add my thanks, first of all to Almighty God for His many blessings, His wisdom and guidance over the past eight years. I distinctly remember my first session as an Elected Member, the first week after being elected in 1988, one of the first issues we dealt with was the abortion issue. It took some getting used to, sitting and having somebody pound you for four hours, and not having the opportunity to rebut what was being said. I remember going to church that Sunday, and it was such a pleasure to be in an environment free of animosity and tension. But I want to say that I believe that those experiences over the past eight years have made me a better person, a stronger individual.

The objective and desire I came here with was to represent my people, that is Caymanians, especially the common man, the ordinary citizen who at the time I chose to offer my services as a representative seemed to have very little voice in this House.

I also want to thank my people of West Bay for giving me their support over the past eight years, and to say that it has been a real privilege to serve as one of their Elected Representatives. I want to say that it has been a real pleasure to have been a Member of this House for the past four years as a part of the National Team Government.

I believe that we have accomplished a lot. I believe that we have been able to provide many of the services and facilities that our people needed. I believe that our people appreciate what has been accomplished. I look forward to continuing to serve in the capacity of an Elected Representative after the next election.

I also want to say thanks to my colleagues, that is the Representatives of West Bay, and also my colleagues on the National Team. We moved forward over the past four years with a single objective and a single voice, looking out for the best interests of our people.

I also want to add my thanks to you as Speaker. You are a lady I have always had a lot of respect for. I think that the people of this country can be justly proud of a lady of your calibre. I believe that you have served as Speaker in a very distinct and professional manner. I believe we are fortunate to have had you appointed as our first Speaker of this Legislative Assembly. I trust that if you still have a desire to continue as our Speaker after the upcoming election and with God's help and the support of my people, I promise to also support your re-appointment as Speaker.

I also want to add my sincere thanks to Mr. Glidden. In fact, Mr. Glidden and I are related. He is an outstanding gentleman. I expect no less from him because he is a good, decent West Bayer; and West Bay is known to have produced some very outstanding citizens. He is one of those persons.

I want to urge all candidates in this upcoming election to run a very clean campaign without violence and mudslinging. I believe that this is one of the things which sets us apart from many of our Caribbean neighbours; we are able to conduct business at that level and still do it in a very decent, orderly and safe manner.

I also want to say thanks to the Clerk and her staff for their able support to us as Members, and also for serving in the capacity of Clerk for the many Select Committees that we have created in this House over the past eight years. They have done an excellent job. I believe that the Legislative Assembly can be justly proud of the staff here.

In closing I want to say thanks once again to my people in the district of West Bay, and I look forward to their continued support in the upcoming election. I wish every Member of this House, that is, Elected Members, the very best in the upcoming general election. May the peoples' voices be heard.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The First Elected Member for Cayman Brac and Little Cayman.

Capt. Mabry S. Kirkconnell: I want to thank Almighty God for the many blessings He has bestowed upon the Cayman Islands and our people. I want to express my deep appreciation to you, Madam Speaker, for all that you have done for the country and for me as an individual. I was privileged as a freshman 16 years ago when I came into this Honourable House, to have you as mentor when you served in the capacity as Clerk. I certainly had a lot to learn, and I still have much to learn, but what I learned from you helped me to carry on during that period of time.

I am most grateful for all that you have done for the country, and I am very proud that the country has bestowed such a high honour as that of National Hero upon you.

I would also like to thank the Clerk and all the staff of the Legislative Department for their able assistance in running the department. Mr. Cline, like me, is a former seaman so I greatly appreciate his regimentation. Often times he runs us in when he needs one more for a quorum. Nevertheless, Mr. Cline, I guess that is the way you get it done.

I am very grateful to the kind ladies who serve us the food. As the Honourable Minister for Sports, Women's and Youth Affairs and Culture spoke about Miss Mary, I certainly wish all that is good for her. She served us faithfully for many years.

I want to congratulate the press people for the work they are doing. I think that my district probably appreciates Radio Cayman more than any of the other districts on this Islands because we do not have the opportunity to come to the legislature unless we go to substantial expense, and they are able to keep in touch every night. They certainly do a good job of reporting what happens in the legislature, and make it much easier for us since they disseminate the information directly.

Over the 16 years that I have been privileged to represent the people of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman, we have seen much accomplished. I am most grateful to my constituents for the confidence they have placed in me during the last four general elections. It is my intention to seek re-election on 20th November, and if it is their desire that I be returned, I look forward to serving them for another four years.

The responsibilities of a legislator are numerous. I think people often underestimate our desires. We are not able to accomplish all that we would like. I stand here this evening to say that many items I would have liked to have seen accomplished I was unable to achieve. But I am most grateful to the Government because I think that in the past four years Cayman Brac has fared exceptionally well. Our infrastructure is highly developed. I am very happy that we have the Honourable Chief Secretary as the Member responsible for District Administration. With his great knowledge of the needs of that District we are in good hands.

Again, I want to say how grateful I am to the Elected members of the Executive Council for all of the support they have given to me as the representative of Cayman Brac and Little Cayman during the past four years.

There is a lot more that I could say, but it is late. I just want to say to all of the people of the Cayman Islands that I sincerely hope that this will be a clean, peaceful election. We are God-fearing, peace-loving people. Let us exercise our democratic right without violence and without tearing down our fellow man. Let us portray ourselves for what we truly are and do the very best we can, if God spares our lives and our people choose to return us to this Honourable House.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

The Speaker: The Third Elected Member for George Town.

Mrs. Berna L. Thompson Murphy: Once again I would like to publicly thank the people of these islands, especially the people of George Town for having placed their trust in me to be their representative in this Honourable House. I hope that I have proved worthy of their expectations. I have tried to carry out their wishes at all times. I have voted and represented them in the manner they wished.

I thank you, Madam Speaker, for all of your guidance and the wonderful comradeship you shared with us, from buying us lunches, to popping your head into the Common Room to see how we were doing. At times we have not agreed with what you said, but we have given way to you knowing that your word was final. But we have looked to you for guidance, and I think that you have given us the proper guidance which you honestly thought should be given to us, the 15 elected representatives in this Honourable House, and of course I cannot forget the three Official Members.

I have enjoyed working with all of my colleagues, especially my colleagues on the National Team. I look forward to another four years with you. I thank the Elected Executive Council Members for their stewardship over the public's finances in setting up all of the programmes and policies, making sure that the islands continue to be stable and remain the wonderful place that we live in today.

I thank Madam Clerk and her staff as well. I would also like to remember Miss Mary because she used to cook some wonderful salt-beef and beans and all of those good fattening things for us! I hope that she will have a speedy recovery. Also I thank Miss Anita for all of the good fruits and goodies she so lovingly prepares for us.

I thank the Deputy Clerk and the Clerk, who worked very closely with us in our Select Committees, and I know we certainly had enough committees. I am sure that for the next eight or nine weeks I will be happy not to hear about another committee. To the Members of the House Committee and the PAC, I would like to express my sincere appreciation for having worked with them.

I thank Mr. Redman of the Caymanian Compass and Mrs. Mani, and Radio Cayman. Sometimes after spending all day in the Legislative Assembly we are tired, but it is good to tune into the broadcast in the evenings to hear what we maybe did not fully comprehend that day. We thank Radio Cayman.

CITN was here, but not as often as Radio Cayman and the Caymanian Compass, but we appreciate their reporting as well.

Madam Speaker, I know that I have been called a freshman, green behind the ears, and I am sure I have stepped on some people's toes. I ask for forgiveness if I have. I am not known for being diplomatic. I am sure that I have not always been very diplomatic to others here, but I do ask for forgiveness.

I have enjoyed the opportunity of serving and I would like to be re-elected. However, if I am not, I will continue to work in the community to make it a better place to live in so that my children and grandchildren can enjoy some of the privileges, in fact all of the privileges that I have had while growing up in these islands, and to make it a better place for all of us.

Thank you, Madam Speaker, and God Bless all of you.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for George Town.

Mr. D. Kurt Tibbetts: It seems almost like yesterday when this present Legislature was sworn in on 25th November, 1992. Since then, I have had the wonderful opportunity of being able to be of service to my country by being one of the representatives for the district of George Town. I will be forever grateful to my God and to the people for that opportunity.

While I was listening to all of the other speakers before me, I realised (and I believe that I speak for all Honourable Members) that you probably do not realise the impact that you have had on our lives. (Applause) I will personally be forever grateful for your guidance, your patience and your kindness. But most of all (and I think that again I speak for all of us), I believe that had you had the time, we could have all been your children - most of us, that is! (laughter) I speak not of age, but I speak of the way in which you handle yourself as the Speaker in this Honourable House.

Before I move to another area, let me reiterate what others before me have said. If I have anything to do with it, and if you are willing and prepared, you will certainly be back where you are right now after the general elections in November.

The entire staff of this Legislative Assembly have been more than what they had to be, to me. I have at all times found each and every one of them to be as cooperative as I could expect; sometimes I got more than I thought was possible through that cooperation. The Clerk, the Deputy Clerk, the girls (as I call them) are all very special people to me. Every time I come here, I realise that each and every one of them serve a special purpose, and I am very grateful for their attitude, their consistency and their ability to do what they have to do to meet our demands.

I think that everyone has mentioned the goodly Serjeant-at-Arms. I cannot fail to pass on my gratitude for his service during these past four years. I think, having heard everybody speak about him, we can now call him the Good Shepherd. He certainly keeps the flock in check. His demeanour is such that at the worst of times, a gentle smile from his face makes me realise that it is not all over yet, that there is still more that can be done. There is always that glimmer of hope when I look at him.

Miss Mary, who has had to take leave because of illness, will always be very dear to all of us here. I have not had the good fortune of being here for many years with her, but I know her outside of here. She certainly filled many gaps while she was here that would otherwise not have been filled. In saying that, I think it is only fair to say that the other young lady who was assisting her, and who is now taking full charge in providing the niceties the Minister for Education referred to which kept us together all of these years, is doing a wonderful job. I am sure that she will continue to do a wonderful job.

In mentioning everyone, I cannot leave out the other Members of this Honourable House. Some of them refer to each other as colleagues. I respect the fact that I am here on my own. Nevertheless, I can only say to all of them that I believe (notwithstanding our disagreements at times) that it has been a good four years. I believe that on many occasions (without their admitting it) the Government has listened to what some of us on the Backbench have said. That is how it should be (I respect that). I do not expect them to jump up and say, 'Yes, you are right!', but when we see the results, we know. Even when there are differences, I believe that at the end of the day all of us here have the single desire to make the country a better one.

I express my gratitude to the Official Members. They have always been very helpful and willing to provide information for me. Let me say that while I know the Civil Service is almost removed from this process in a certain way, because this is where politics enter, I think that all 15 Elected Members of this Legislative Assembly would gladly say that the Civil Service on a whole continues to play a very vital role in the success story of this country.

It is easy to recognise Heads of Departments, whose names you will remember first, but there are many others in the Service who do a wonderful job and help to keep it all together. I wish to record my gratitude to them for their continued efforts in the tasks they perform on a daily basis, even when most of us do not even know what they are doing.

As I look directly in front of me, the goodly gentleman from the newspaper is writing as he usually does. Sometimes it is Mr. Redman (who is here now), sometimes it is another person. I see there are two Members of the press here this evening. I wish to thank them also because they are a very important part of the dissemination of information to the population concerning the happenings of Government. They do a good job and I would be willing to bet that they continue to do a good job.

During my short time here, I have been privileged to learn more within that period of time (I can safely say this) than during any other similar period of time in my life. I will be forever grateful. It has made me a much more rounded person (not in size) with a lot more knowledge than I came here with. I only hope that I will be able to use that knowledge to be of more service to this country.

To the people of George Town who gave me the privilege of serving these past four years, I say thank you. I also say that I believe that as one of the representatives for the district I have done the best that I could with the tools I had to work with. I know that my life is in their hands again as of this evening, and I will do the best that I can on the campaign trail to prove that I am worth re-election. But, like everyone else here, I realise that they will decide.

Whatever transpires, let me say that my sole intention in coming here from the very beginning, and my sole intention in desiring to be here after this, is to be of service to my fellow man and to my country.

I thank you again for your guidance during these past four years. I wish to say good luck to all of the Elected Members here (I do not have to decide which ones to wish that to or not; we all know that the people will decide who comes back here after the elections). I wish those who are returned every success in their future endeavours to move this country forward to a brighter tomorrow.

Finally, I wish to thank God for all of the blessings, including the trials, he has bestowed on me and all of us. I am sure that with a little more trust in him we can only move forward as a country to bigger and better things.

The Speaker: The Second Elected Member for George Town.

Dr. Stephenson A. Tomlinson: Madam Speaker, I have earned the reputation of being very brief in the Legislative Assembly, and I know that this has come as a surprise to people who know me in other capacities.

Four years of one's life is a very significant part of it considering that we only live about 70 years or so. I can truly say that the past four years have been truly enlightening to me and I have appreciated the experience. I have had the opportunity to support initiatives which I consider have been in the interest of the Caymanian people, and I feel very rewarded to see some of the results of Government's efforts. I am convinced that because of that, the Cayman Islands are a better place in which to live in 1996.

Whether or not I am re-elected, I feel that it has been worthwhile supporting those things which I have considered to be very important in improving the lifestyle of those who support me and the National Team.

I wish to thank you, Madam Speaker, and your very capable staff here in the Legislative Assembly for all of your assistance. I will not reiterate all that has been said here, but I join with others in thanking everyone who has been of such great assistance and so helpful allowing the affairs of this House to be successfully conducted.

On the 20th of November I believe that the public will make the wise choice as they go to the polls and that we will continue to have good representatives in this House and we can be assured of political stability and economic growth because of the wisdom of the Electorate.

I wish to close in thanking you, your staff, the constituents of George Town who elected me. If they so desire, I am very willing to serve them for the next four years.

The Speaker: The Fourth Elected Member for West Bay.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: Thank you, Madam Speaker.

This is not my first time for me to ride out a term in this Honourable House. I want to say that these past four years were really enjoyable. I think I have made better friends; I got to know some people whom I did not know, such as the Hon. Attorney General and the Hon. Chief Secretary. I found them to be gentlemen.

Madam Speaker, as our leader and guide, you must be congratulated on the way you ran the House. I want to thank your staff for all they have done to help us along in this House, as well as each and every one of my colleagues for the good times we have had here together. There were some hot times too, but I was not really involved in the heat. This time I tried to keep out of that!

We are now going into election time, the campaigning has started. I hope that the campaign will be run much the same as was the business of this House - hot times, but no hard feelings.

We came here to do a job and I am proud to have been one who got the job done. We have to look back and remember where we came from and see where we are today in the Cayman Islands. I know that God had his hand on us, but it was good thinking and good stewardship that brought this ship to be anchored where it is now.

After the election, if we are returned here, I will be happy. If a new Government is formed, I will still be happy and I will wish them luck. I wish to say that whoever walks back into these hallowed Chambers I hope they will try to keep the good ship Cayman on the right course - the one we are on now.

Madam Speaker, I enjoyed your prayer meetings, the singing.... If you do not mind, I will sing a song for you now! Can I?

The Speaker: Please.

Mr. D. Dalmain Ebanks: (The Member proceeded to sing an original composition, entitled "You'll Love Grand Cayman.")

*If you're fond of blue skies and snow white sand,
A place to relax and play, holding hands,
Where the air is pure, and the view is grand;
You'll sure fall in love with Grand Cayman.*

*Oh, you'll know that your dreams have all come true,
While gazing at the miles of blue.
And for making love, and lying in the sun,
There is no place like Grand Cayman.*

*Oh, you'll love the Isle of Grand Cayman,
With its crystal waters and snow white sand;
Where the drink can be served with an ocean view,
While enjoying a meal of lobster stew.*

*If you pay a visit, you will want to stay
And enjoy the moonlight along the bay,
With the breeze that blows across the land,
You'll sure fall in love with Grand Cayman.*

(Applause)

Hon. W. McKeever Bush: Hear, hear!

The Speaker: The Honourable First Official Member.

Hon. James M. Ryan: Thank you, Madam Speaker. That is a hard act to follow! (laughter)

In the interest of brevity, the Honourable Second Official Member and the Honourable Temporary Third Official Member have asked me to include them in my remarks.

I would like to begin by thanking you for the able way in which you have guided this House ever since you have been the Speaker. I have only been here for a relatively short time. I would also like to thank you for not only being the Speaker, but for filling the role of spiritual leader here. I think that has been very important, and I hope that it will continue.

In expressing thanks, I would like to thank the Clerk and her staff here in the Legislative Department. It would be remiss of me not to single out Mr. Cline as earlier speakers have done for special thanks. He is truly a remarkable person. The Official Members have the added treat during the time when the Legislative Assembly is not meeting of seeing him up at the Glass House. He frequently comes into my office and he always has the cheerful, ready smile which always serves to brighten up the day. We want to especially thank him.

I want to express special thanks to you Madam Speaker, for the lunch you treated us to today. It was enjoyed and very much appreciated.

Thanks also go out to the electronic and print media for the very able coverage that we have received and continue to receive. To Radio Cayman, one of my departments, its director and staff continue to do an able job in keeping the public informed and we thank them. To the staff of the Caymanian Compass, Mr. John Redman, who I am sure could be enjoying himself elsewhere, and to Miss Carol Winker, they are both working very late covering this evening. We also cannot forget Mrs. Mani and others who cover the happenings here in the Legislative Assembly.

I would especially like to thank our elected colleagues on Executive Council for all of the assistance they have given to us, both in and outside of the Legislature. I must also express thanks to the Members across the floor. There were times when we would have preferred not to have had so many Parliamentary Questions, but, as I told one Backbencher some weeks ago, it certainly keeps me on my toes and I sometimes learn things that I did not know before. So even over that, we will not fuss or complain.

As my thoughts turn to the General Election I recently dispatched a circular to all civil servants through the heads of departments reminding them of their responsibilities and duties in respect of political activities before and during the elections. I trust that all civil servants will remember that they are to be impartial.

While on this, I would like to appeal to all Elected Members and, indeed, all candidates in the upcoming election to respect the division between the civil service and the political arm of Government and to avoid unnecessary criticism of the Civil Service.

We, the three Official Members, are glad that we do not have to fight an election, but we would like to wish for all Elected Members a level playing field and good luck on 20th November. We pledge our full cooperation to the political representatives which our country elects in the upcoming election.

Finally, I should like, on behalf of my colleagues, to wish for you a much needed rest as we conclude this evening; indeed, we will be closing another chapter in the history of the territory when we adjourn. We trust that you and the Clerk will have an enjoyable trip to the Holy Land, and we look forward to seeing you in the Speaker's Chair, and the Clerk back as well, when the new House is convened.

Finally, I would like to thank Almighty God for all of the blessings he has bestowed upon us here, for His protection and for seeing us through each day. My good wishes to everyone. God bless you all.

The Speaker: This brings us to the end of the 1992 to 1996 Legislature of the Cayman Islands. Before I put the question, there are a few comments that I would like to make.

It now remains for me to thank all Honourable Members and Ministers for their hard work during these years in the business of the Government of these islands. Members have been regular in their attendance at meetings. Of course, you know Ministers have duties which call them abroad occasionally. Later on I want to refer to the matter of Select Committees.

I do not intend to speak at length, but I would like to make some comments on recent achievements which were carried through during this period of 1992 to 1996. Most notable, in my opinion, was the establishment of an office for Women's Affairs in 1995. As everyone knows, this motion by the lady Member for North Side and the Third Elected lady Member for George Town has brought to the forefront the issues which affect women and girls in these islands. It will, and rightly so, find a prominent place in the annals of the history of these islands.

There is still much work to be done, and the persons in charge of this office have to be congratulated for the enterprising and invigorating way in which they have assumed the duties and tackled the problems. The Cayman Islands can now be counted among the many governments, particularly within the Caribbean area, of having a women's desk attached to a portfolio.

Notable also was the recent passage of Legislation for a Register of Interests for Members of the Legislature. I think you would like me to thank the Chairman of this Committee for the admirable way in which the Committee has dealt with its deliberations on this issue, and also for the Code of Ethics for Members. Their recommendations on the latter issue follow the lines recommended in the first report of the Committee in the United Kingdom on the Standards of Public Life. This was chaired by Lord

Nolan in May of 1995, and is now known as the Nolan Report.

Of interest are the number of sittings for this House during the period of 1992 to date, 27th September, 1996, were 171. Sittings of the House for February 1996 to date, were 38. One hundred and ninety-one questions were submitted. I am unable to say how many were answered, or how many remain unanswered.

Select Committee meetings covered 23 days during this year. There were six occasions when a quorum was not met. Standing Committees had a total of 22 days and altogether there were 83 days of meetings.

It is hoped that when the new House commences consideration might be given to having fewer Members on Select Committees, rather than the whole House, or alternatively, the quorum could be reduced; so that if you have five Members the Committee can operate.

The Standing Committee of the House, Business and Public Accounts have five Members. We thank those Members who were able to attend as regularly as possible, but I think that I need to say that if a Member is on a particular committee he or she should make every effort to attend unless hindered, as our Christian Endeavour pledge said, 'by some reason you can conscientiously give to our Lord and Master!' Also, Chairmen of Committees and Members have the great responsibility of operating within the confines of the Committee. That means that no Chairman or no Member can do something on behalf of the Committee unless so dictated by the Committee. This is very important.

Any matter sent to any Standing Select Committee is also very important. We have seen that within the last three or four weeks we have had numerous Committees, sometimes two or three meeting each day in an effort to get through. I hope that when the new House resumes, when Committees are appointed the Chairmen will immediately begin to set a schedule of meetings which can be conducted over a period of time, rather than being rushed at the last moment.

Like everyone else, I want to extend best wishes to Miss Mary who, as you know, has been quite ill. She came to work in 1971, so that is 25 years she has been here. So far she is doing very well, but it is expected that she may have to retire. I know that all Members give her their best wishes.

We also must thank Anita for her hard work. This is also well deserved.

The Legislative Assembly made a record in 1995 when it welcomed for the first time a third lady to the Chamber in the Third Elected Member for Bodden Town. So that is another great achievement.

On your behalf, I also thank the Clerk, the Deputy Clerk and all the other Clerks for their devotion to duty. Many of the Clerks have been here for well over 12 years. In one instance one was here for over 20 years.

The ladies in the Hansard department are to be especially thanked. In the past they were besieged by Members for the quick reproduction of their speeches. This has lessened somewhat, and I think they are happy about that. We hope that as time goes on, facilities will be put in place so that there can be quicker reproduction of the verbatim reports.

I want to thank Members for their courtesy to the Chair. As I said a couple of days ago, I hope that when the new House resumes, that Ministers will endeavour to have short answers to questions wherever possible.

Hon. W. McKeeva Bush: That depends on what they ask, Madam Speaker! (laughter)

The Speaker: It leaves me to express my very warm and sincere wishes to all Members and their families for continued good prosperity, health and God's richest blessings for the future. I ask Members to keep close to the Lord, He is the one who sustains us all and He is the only one who can guide us. If we rely on His guidance we can never go astray. Without His help nothing can be achieved. What this world really needs is Jesus and sincere Christians who trust him.

I thank you for the great honour bestowed upon me in recommending me to be a National Hero. As I said before I will say again: It is very good to be alive! God bless you all. The House is now adjourned sine die.

AT 9.22 PM THE HOUSE STOOD ADJOURNED SINE DIE.
